Decisions, decisions

It was a daylong book sale for the Friends of the Northville Library last Friday, in an attempt to decrease their inventory in preparation for their pending move out of Cooke School. Above, Sharon Bataran spent her time at the sale looking for classics.

The Friends are temporarily not accepting books as they prepare to move from their spot at Cooke. Cooke will reopen this fall as a middle school.

Township seeks to calm tax hike fears

By MIKE TYREE

Township property assessments are up an average of 13.5 percent, but individual tax bills will not proportionately reflect that increase, a township official said Monday.

Finance Director James Graham said several residents had contacted his office after the assessment increase was announced last week. He said most were concerned that their taxes were about to climb dramatically.

Graham said those fears are unfounded, based on the provisions of the Headlee Amendment. "If the overall township state equalized value (SEV) goes up (in this case 13.5 percent), then the township would have to reduce its tax rate by the same amount," Graham said. "The law allows a zero-percent tax increase on existing property, unless the township holds a Truth in Taxation public hearing (for a tax increase). "We'll be rolling back the entire amount." Graham said property owners whose land has been assessed at more than the average 13.5 percent increase will notice an increase in their tax bill for township operating expenses at only the amount over the average. As an example, he said a house with an actual 1989 assessed value of $120,000 would have a $60,000 SEV. If the same property was assessed at a 16-percent increase in 1990, the estimated worth of the home would be $139,200, with an SEV of $69,600. That particular property would see a 2.5-percent hike in township operating taxes because that is the amount over the average assessment, Graham said. "Just because you got a 16-percent increase in assessment, there's no way you'll be getting a proportional increase in taxes," Graham said.

"If the overall township (SEV) goes up, then the township would have to reduce its tax rate by the same amount,"

— James Graham,
Township Finance Director

On the other hand, a parcel of property which gets an 11-percent assessment increase would be subject to a 2.5-percent tax reduction because it is under the township average assessment increase. Graham said the township acts as the collection agent for every group which taxes within the parameters of the township, including schools, the county, county jail, etc.

The collection-agent role often confuses taxpayers into thinking that the township receives all their tax money, he said. "They feel all that money is for increased township operations when in fact the township accounts for only about nine percent of their tax bill," Graham said. "Police and fire costs make up about eight percent of the whole township tax figure, with only

Haller library 'footprint' viewed by city council

By STEVE KELLMAN

Northville city officials got their first look at conceptual plans for the Haller Library recently from architect Don DiComo.

DiComo — with the firm of Kamp-DiComo, which was selected to design the proposed Haller Library — presented the latest plans for the 44,800-square-foot library at the council's Monday night meeting. "What we have here is a site plan, and it's still warm off the drawing board," DiComo told the council. The plan locates the library facility on the corner of Six Mile and Sheldon roads, rather than farther back on the 72-acre parcel of land donated to the township by former resident Frieda Haller. The building sits at an angle on the lot, facing southwest, with parking lots to the north and east. A drive connected to both Six Mile and Sheldon encircles the structure, connecting both parking lots. The building actually looks like several smaller blocks overlapping at their corners. The southeast corner incorporates the 25,000-square-foot library itself. In the center of the building is an atrium connecting the library to a 600-seat auditorium to the north. The auditorium itself would have a sloped floor, stage and video projection area. The current proposal calls for 600 fixed seats as well

Novi opposed to Holloway landfill

By JAN JEFFRES

The Novi City Council took a stand of stern opposition Monday to the Holloway Construction Co.'s proposal to open a 187-acre construction-waste landfill in southwest Novi.

The council members unanimously voted to send a representative to express their aversion to the proposal at tonight's public hearing called by Oakland County Executive Daniel Murphy on the county's plan on solid-waste management required under Michigan Public Act 641.

Council Member Edward Leininger has the council's mandate to object to the landfill on the grounds of its impact on traffic, residents and the environment, as well as Holloway's past track record in operating landfills.

"I will carry the strong message that has been made here at the council table in this meeting," Leininger said.

The hearing, held by the county's solid-waste planning committee, will be held tonight (March 1) at 7:30 p.m. at the county board of commissioners auditorium.

The city council has been inundated with letters from Northville, South Lyon and Novi residents vehemently in opposition to the landfill, which would fill the company's current sand and gravel mine near the northeast corner of Eight Mile and Napier roads. The location is across from Maybury State Park. Neighboring residents of the three communities charge that the landfill would lead to increased truck traffic, devaluation of residential property and possible contamination of well water.

City Manager Edward Kriewall said Holloway had submitted no permit or rezoning requests to Novi. The site is currently zoned residential but the company has a mining permit from the city. Landfills are not per-

Manager selected for school projects

By MIKE TYREE

The Barton-Malow Co. Monday signed an agreement to provide construction management services for Northville Public Schools.

The firm will be overseeing the schools district's voter-approved $16-million renovation project through October 1992, school officials said.

The school district will pay Barton-Malow up to $800,000 to manage the construction projects, which includes the building of a new elementary school.

Of the $800,000, a lump sum payment of $300,000 will be made immediately, according to terms of a contract unanimously approved by the Board of Education during its Feb. 26 session.

The contract approval is the byproduct of negotiations between the management firm and the school district after the board on Dec. 11 approved the appointment of Barton-Malow as construction manager for the 1989 bond projects.

According to Burton Knighton, assistant superintendent of administrative services, the scope of Barton-Malow's involvement will cover the "major maintenance and renovation projects in Phase I and the elementary school in Phase II of the bond issue."

In a letter to Superintendent of Schools George Bell, Knighton said several changes in the standard agreement between the school district and Barton-Malow were made without difficulty. He said more intensive negotiations were necessary in areas such as insurance coverage, indemnification and "cost not to exceed" language.

Final agreement on the contract wording was reached between attorneys for the school district and the firm Feb. 13, Knighton said.

Bell told the board that the $300,000 was "basically a flat fee," with the remaining half-million figure to be paid on an as-needed basis. The terms of the agreement state that any portion of the $500,000 not spent must be returned to the school district.

Bell said residents of the community might look at the potential $800,000 payment to Barton-Malow as expensive, but he said the district would probably save money by having experts coordinate the project

Storm warnings — tickets dismissed

By STEVE KELLMAN

Northville police dismissed some 33 snow-removal citations issued to city residents and businesses after a recent snowfall, following a storm of criticism from residents.

"We're going to regroup and approach it from another angle," said Police Chief Rod Cannon. "We're surveying neighboring cities to see what their procedures are."

In the meantime, Cannon said, "We're hoping for 80-degree weather."

The ordinance in question requires property owners to clear sidewalks on their property within 24 hours after a snowfall, or face a $10 fine. Violators can be charged with as much as $100 or sentenced to 90 days in jail, or both, if they protest the citation and are found guilty.

The snow-removal ordinance has been in effect for more than a decade. Northville police had previously warned people before issuing citations, but found that the same people continued to violate the ordinance year after year. "We'd go up and knock on the door," he said. "But when you have to warn the same people, it's ineffective."

The snow-removal problem is not limited to joggers and walkers either, Cannon said. "Every year, the post office virtually pleads for assistance from the homeowners in keeping their walks free," Cannon added. Injuries to postal workers cost the service in lost work hours.

The police department's dismissal of the latest citations was explained in letters sent to the residents and business owners on Feb. 20 by Police Chief Rod Cannon and Captain James Petres. "This action is being taken due to the fact that the storm of last week created a situation in which uniform enforcement in a timely manner was not possible, and therefore the appearance of a lack of fairness in the enforcement," the letter read.

"This action should not be considered as an indication of an intention on the part of the City and Police Department not to enforce this ordinance, but rather to be fair to all. It is our hope that all residents and businesses will voluntarily comply with the ordinance by keeping their sidewalks clear for the safety and convenience of all, and that future enforcement will not be necessary."

In a Feb. 22 letter to City Manager Steven Walters, Petres refuted claims made by some residents that the enforcement was inconsistent. "The enforcement was not intended to be selective," he wrote, "but due to the number of locations not in compliance, and department manpower and other activities, it was not possible to issue violations to all violators prior to the time that enforcement

NEWS BRIEFS

DEPARTMENT OF CORRECTIONS — In last week's edition of the Record a picture caption on page 9A misidentified a teacher at Amerman Elementary School. In the picture, the teacher's name should have been Patti Atkinson, not Anderson. We regret the error.

Also in last week's Record, an article on assessment reviews gave the wrong telephone number for Northville City Hall. The correct number is 349-1300. We apologize for any inconvenience.

PLAY RESCHEDULED — The Plymouth Theater Guild's final performance of "Brigadoon" will be March 3 at 8 p.m. at the Water Tower Theater on the campus of Northville Regional Psychiatric Hospital, 41001 W. Seven Mile. For further information, call Carol Park at 349-1800.

ART LECTURES CONTINUE — The Northville Arts Commission is sponsoring its fifth in a series of Michael Farrell lectures on favorite artists. The noted art authority, Michael Farrell, will lecture on the works of John Singer Sargent. His lecture will include a slide presentation accompanied by the wit and style of a delightful raconteur and knowledgeable art historian.

The lecture will begin at 7:30 p.m. on March 8 at the Northville city Hall. Limited tickets may be purchased for $6 at the door as supplies permit.

GENEALOGICAL SOCIETY MEETS — The Northville Genealogical Society will meet at Mill Race Village on Thursday, March 8, at 7:30 p.m. Jim Jackson will speak on the 1920 census which will be available to researchers in 1992. All who are interested in tracing their family tree are welcome to attend. For more information, call 348-1857 or 349-3020.

TOWNSHIP PLANNING UPDATE — Township Planning and Zoning Administrator Carol Maise has announced that a preliminary site plan review for a planned residential unit development on the Thompson Sand and Gravel property will be held at a March 6 special meeting of the planning commission. The meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m. at township hall.

NORTHVILLE ACTION COUNCIL FUNDRAISER — Tickets for the Northville Action Council fundraising dinner at Genitti's on March 5 at 6:30 p.m. are still available. NAC is raising $14,000 to sponsor the printing of a drug-free message T-shirt to be given to every school-age child in the Northville public school system during Red Ribbon Week.

Tickets are $25 and are tax deductible. They are available through Genitti's Hole-in-the-Wall Restaurant, 108 E. Main, or by calling 349-7404.

T-shirts are available for parents at a cost of $7 each. Samples of the T-shirts are available at Freydl's, Genitti's and Grandma Betty's in downtown Northville.

FREE SENIOR TAX HELP — The AARP is sponsoring free income-tax assistance for senior citizens. Income-tax assistance will be at the Senior Citizens Activity Center at Cooke School every Monday and Wednesday until April 11. Appointments must be made for 9:30 a.m. or 11:30 a.m. by calling 349-4140.

NEW OFFICERS — Northville Mayor Christopher Johnson was recently elected secretary of the Conference of Western Wayne.

The conference is a consortium of 17 western Wayne communities joined in an effort to improve local government through cooperative efforts.

Other newly elected officers include: Romulus Mayor Beverly McAnnally, chairperson; Livonia Mayor Robert Bennett, vice chairperson; Huron Township Supervisor Christine Gamber, treasurer; and Plymouth Township Supervisor Maurice Breen, chairperson emeritus.

February weather

Last week was a tough one for area residents. Between the excess rain that fell the week before, and a dumping of ice and snow, retention ponds around town were doing their job — and more. Above, the Waterford Pond drains over its dam last Friday.

Northville area may get new judge

LANSING — The Northville area could get a third district judge next year under a bill making its way to the state House of Representatives.

The bill permits a new judge to be elected Nov. 7 and to take office Jan. 1 if the communities agree to pay operating and capital costs.

Northville city and township are in the 35th judicial district along with Plymouth city and township and Canton Township. Collectively they are known as a "control unit."

The permissive measure, House Bill 5500, was approved last week by the House Judiciary Committee without dissent, according to Rep. David Honigman, R-West Bloomfield, a member.

They would have to pay all costs under the 1978 Headlee amendment to the Michigan Constitution.

"By permitting an additional judgeship, the Legislature is not creating that judgeship," the bill says. If the state created it, the state

District courts, the lowest in Michigan, handle small lawsuits, ordinance cases, and pre-trial exams in criminal cases.

TIPS FROM TUCKKLAPER
Novi Dental Center
A. Allen Tuchklaper
D.D.S.

SPARE DENTURE TO THE RESCUE

Any denture wearer worries about going in public without them due to damage or loss. This is understandable - but preventable. If you wear dentures and care about your ability to eat or appearance in public, it makes a lot of sense to always have a spare set handy just in case your number one set breaks or is damaged (or lost in the lake or ocean while swimming.) Your dentist can have an exact duplicate of your present denture made in a short amount of time and at a very reasonable cost. (Probably for less than half of what your original set cost.) You can take it with you when you travel (just like it makes sense to carry an extra pair of glasses) and carry it conveniently in a small container in your attaché case, pocketbook or keep it wherever your imagination dictates. It will also come in handy if your original denture needs repair.

Just think about this: If you have a spare denture, you might not miss a dinner with your dentist. That's a reward - especially if your dentist is paying for dinner.

Police Blotters

Thieves didn't have a prayer — nabbed near church lot

City police arrested the driver and passenger of a Pontiac 6000 at 10:05 p.m. on Feb. 25 for possession of a stolen vehicle.

Police followed the vehicle as it exited the United Methodist Church parking lot and stopped the vehicle on Center Street after observing it break the speed limit on Randolph. Both the driver and passenger were arrested after the officer saw the car's steering column was broken and that there were no keys in the ignition. The driver, an 18-year-old Detroit resident, is expected to be charged with possession of a stolen vehicle.

NO WAY OUT — City police charged a Kansas man with driving under the influence after stopping him at the corner of Beal and South Main at 10:30 p.m. on Feb. 19. The man reportedly refused to take a breathalyzer test. No further information was available on the case.

BACARDI ON THE ROCKS — A 19-year-old Northville Township resident was charged with possession of alcohol by a minor in a vehicle Feb. 23 after he drove out of the Northville High School parking lot at 9 p.m. City police had seen a bottle of Bacardi rum inside the car before observing the driver and two others get in the car and drive away. They stopped the car, confiscated the alcohol and cited the driver for possession shortly thereafter.

FOOL'S GOLD — The gold front and rear ornaments were stolen from a Cadillac parked in the Northville Recreation Department's parking lot sometime between 8 a.m. Feb. 20 and 5:30 p.m. Feb. 22, according to city police reports. The ornaments were valued at $125.

TWO-TIMING VANDALS — City police received two reports of malicious destruction to vehicles parked in a vacant lot on the west side of Taft Road north of Lexington. The first case, in which the driver's side window of a vehicle was broken, reportedly occurred between 8 a.m. on Feb. 20 and 5:30 p.m. on Feb. 22. The second case, in which the passenger window of another vehicle was shattered, reportedly occurred between 6:25 p.m. on Feb. 22 and 8:30 a.m. on Feb. 24. Both vehicles were owned by the same person, who estimated overall damages at $275.

PURSE PICKED CLEAN — A worker at Meadowbrook Country Club, 40941 Eight Mile, told township police someone stole $220 in cash from her purse while she was on the job. The complainant said her purse was on a bench next to her coat in a locker room at the country club. She told police the money must have been taken while she was cleaning other rooms at Meadowbrook. The woman said she noticed the money was gone when she went to a nearby gas station and checked her purse. Police are investigating the incident, which occurred Feb. 20 between noon and 4:30 p.m.

SELECTIVE SURGERY — A Richards Court resident told township police the front driver's side tire and lug nuts were stolen from their 1987 Ford Escort Feb. 22. The tire, valued at $100, was replaced with a milk crate, according to the police media book.

COMPUTER LIFTED — Township police were informed that a computer valued at $538 was stolen from Drywall Specialist, 43334 Seven Mile, sometime between Feb. 10 and Feb. 21. Police said the case is open pending further investigation.

CLEAN GETAWAY — A worker at Highland Lakes Laundry, 43093 Seven Mile, reported to township police approximately $480 in cash was stolen from the business around 5:20 p.m. Feb. 22. The worker told police she had waited on a customer at a counter and after the customer had walked away, she entered a storage area. She said she soon returned to the counter area and discovered the money, which had been stored in a clear plastic container in an unlocked money drawer, was missing. Police said the case is open at this time.

MEIJER SPECIALS — The latest report from Meijer, 20401 Haggerty, includes three larcenies. On Feb. 17, a subject was arrested at 11 a.m. after attempting to steal a Magnavox stereo valued at $148. Township police said the case remains open pending further investigation and a court date.

On Feb. 20, a 17-year-old Northville resident was arrested for an attempted larceny at Meijer around 1:15 a.m. The case is open pending a court date.

A larceny was reported and a subject arrested at Meijer Feb. 20 at 3:05 a.m. The case is open pending a court date. No further information was available from the township police media log book.

FAMILY FEUD — Township police said they conducted an investigation of a felonious assault with a rifle at a Woodbend Drive residence Feb. 20 at 2:05 p.m. A subject was arrested in what was termed "family trouble." Police were later informed that none of the involved parties wished to prosecute.

HEART-WRENCHING TALE — Police received a report that $410 in tools were taken from an address that was unspecified in the township police media log book. The tools, including ratchets and wrenches, were taken from a tool box in a garage sometime between Feb. 14 and Feb. 18. Police said there were no signs of forced entry at the scene and they have no suspects at this time.

SHATTERING LOSS — A 1989 Honda Civic received an estimated $200 damage when the driver's side window of the vehicle was smashed at a residence on North Forest Drive sometime between 7 p.m. Feb. 17 and 2:15 p.m. Feb. 18. Police said they have no suspects in the case.

VEHICLE B&E — A 1986 Audi parked on North Forest Drive received approximately $200 damage to its rear passenger window sometime between 8 p.m. Feb. 17 and 9:30 a.m. Feb. 18, according to township police. A pair of boots valued at $50 was stolen from the vehicle.

UPSET WITH THE JOA? — Township police were informed that gunshots were heard around 2:10 a.m. Feb. 18 in the vicinity of the Detroit Free Press station on Fry. No further information was available from the police media log book.

TROUBLE IN PARADISE — Township police responded to a disturbing the peace complaint Feb. 21 at 11:40 p.m. Police found a male and female arguing in a driveway on Greenridge. Police advised the male to go home and the female to go into the home.

LATENIGHT SLEDDERS — A disturbing-the-peace complaint was filed with township police Feb. 20 at 11:25 p.m. Police found young people sledding on a hill near Silver Springs. The sledding participants were advised to go home, police said.

FENDER-BENDERS — City police reported at least two accidents in the last week. On Feb. 21 at 5:02 p.m., a Northville woman driving north on Wing Street struck a vehicle driving west on Main. Both drivers were checked by Community Emergency Medical Services personnel at the scene and released. The woman was cited for failing to obey a stop sign, and her car had to be towed from the scene.

On Feb. 24 at 5 p.m., a Northville man turning west onto Seven Mile Road from the median struck a vehicle heading south on Northville Road. He was cited for failing to yield.

Northville citizens with information about the above incidents are urged to call city police at 349-1234 or township police at 349-9400.

Increasing workload may force city to hire full-time assessor

By STEVE KELLMAN

If City Manager Steven Walters has his way, Northville may soon have its own assessor to perform the city's yearly property assessments.

Walters presented a proposal to hire a city assessor to council members at Monday's meeting. "It appears that we're reaching a point where it would be feasible to hire a full-time assessor," he said.

"The amount of work that we would be getting from a full-time person, compared to what we're getting now from the county, would be well worth the difference. It's going to take, for a year or two, quite a lot of work to do both the commercial and current reassessments," he said.

For the most part, council members agreed with Walters' assessment, though they recommended several alternatives to the outright hiring of a full-time city employee. Council Member Carolann Ayers suggested contracting with an individual for a period of time rather than hiring someone immediately.

She also mentioned the possibility of contracting with an assessor and hiring another staff person for the manager's office.

Council Member Jerry Mittman recommended contracting with an assessor for a year and either extending the contract at the end of a year, hiring the person outright, or canceling the contract if the person does not meet the city's needs.

"To me that's better than hiring another administrative person now," Mittman said.

Walters said contracting with a private assessor just to reassess the city's 250 commercial properties could cost as much as $50,000. He had explored that possibility last year before the city agreed to have Oakland County perform the reassessment.

The city had previously agreed to hire employees of the Oakland County Board of Assessors to provide a reappraisal of the city's commercial properties. Walters suggested in his report that a full-time assessor, if hired quickly, could provide that service instead.

According to Walters' report on the proposal, the city currently pays $15,000 to Wayne County and $10,000 to Oakland County each year for reappraisal services. That amount does not include the cost of special services like the full reappraisal of commercial property being done this year in the city, or the state's new requirement that all properties be physically viewed at least once every five years during the assessment process.

Walters estimated the cost of a full-time assessor at $45,000 a year for salary and benefits. "The amount of work which the City would receive from a full-time assessor in a year would far exceed the actual work received from the two counties for the fees they are presently charging," he wrote.

"In addition to assessor work, I would expect that a full-time employee could assist in other projects during the year. Such help to me would be of great benefit, once the commercial project is completed."

The council members agreed that Walters is presently overworked in his position as city manager.

"Let's face it," said Council Member Paul Polino. "We've got an awful lot of work going on right now and we've pushed an awful lot on Steve. Whichever way we go, I suggest we keep that in mind."

Another part of the need for a new assessor is due to the recent state requirement that properties be physically reviewed during reassessment every five years, Walters said, rather than every 10 or more years as had been required previously.

Walters was uncertain how long it would take for a new assessor to complete the city's commercial reassessment, much less perform an average year's assessing, because the two counties have always performed the task.

"It's a mysterious thing with the counties," he said. "We've never seen the work done in any physical sense."

Township adds review dates

By MIKE TYREE

The announcement that property assessments in Northville Township were up an average of 13.5 percent over last year's rate has triggered a wave of requests for appointments with the local Board of Review.

Administrative Assistant to the Treasurer Nancy Molloy said Tuesday that an additional date would be added to this spring's Board of Review calendar.

"The Board will be in session March 15, from 3-9 p.m.," she said. "Also we will have extended hours on March 12."

Molloy said the review board would meet from 9 a.m. until 12:30 p.m. March 12 and from 3-9 p.m.

She said many property owners were complaining that their assessments were too high.

"We'll be accommodating everyone who wants to be heard," she said. "If we need to, we will add more review dates."

Supervisor Georgina Goss last week announced the assessment hike, which she said was the result of continued strong home sales in the township.

The average assessment increase of 13.5 percent came on the heels of a 17-percent boost in 1989.

The rate for property assessments is based on the fair market value of the property, of which 50 percent is counted to determine property taxes.

The 50-percent figure is known as the state equalized value.

Molloy said the purpose of the Board of Review is to listen to appeals made by residents who feel their assessment is too high. She said property owners can file for a hardship if they show they have an inability to pay their tax bill.

The present Board of Review schedule follows:

- March 6 from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.
- March 7 from 3-9 p.m.
- March 12 from 9 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. and 3-9 p.m.
- March 13 from 3-9 p.m.
- March 15 from 3-9 p.m.

The reviews will be held in the township hall meeting room.

"In several areas, it was noted that street plowing had deposited snow on walks that were previously cleared," he wrote. "This was the case with the City employee referred to in the Northville Record, and in the photograph of the city-owned walk pictured in the Northville Record."

The Northville Record reported that the city employee would be issued a violation, based on information provided by the police department.

City parking deck debate continues

By STEVE KELLMAN

City council members continued to debate the fate of the MainCentre parking deck at Monday's meeting in response to citizen protest against the deck.

The original proposal for the deck was a structure running along the west side of Center Street south of MainCentre, which would provide five levels of parking on four floors. That proposal was the subject of city residents' ire at a previous council meeting.

Among the options now being considered for the proposed deck is turning it so that it runs from east to west along Cady Street, which would present less of a facade to Center Street. Officials are also exploring the possibility of moving the deck to the location of the present parking deck on Cady Street east of Center, on the site of the present parking deck, or to the south side of Cady opposite the present deck.

Council members at Monday's meeting agreed on the need for a study session on the proposal, after City Manager Steven Walters presents a general report to the council at their March 5 meeting.

Council members called a study session on the subject for March 12, and expressed the need to include other city boards like the planning commission and downtown development authority in the discussion.

Singh Development officials have criticized the revision of the parking-deck plans, citing the need for a pedestrian link to their MainCentre project and the delay that revising the plans will cause in building the deck.

Also, moving the proposed deck in its present form to the site of the present deck would require 30 more feet from east to west, a requirement which could take up part of Singh's property on the east side of Center.

"Part of the space issue has to do with the degree of encroachment on the Singh property," Walters agreed.

The company has already proposed another four-story retail and office structure for that site.

The location of the deck also has a potential impact on the Cady Corridor study, Walters added. If the deck is moved to the site of the present deck, future developers will have to take it into consideration in any of their designs.

"It's a difference of degree but not necessarily design," he said.

There are also several design alternatives to leaving the deck at its currently-proposed site on the MAGS parking lot, Walters added. Besides the east / west orientation, the entire deck could be moved to the west to provide less of a visual impact on Center Street and alleviate any potential "canyon effect," the effect of driving between high walls when entering the city from the south.

Sobriety allies ready red ribbons

By MIKE TYREE

Students at Northville High School will forgo the standard reading, writing and arithmetic fare next Wednesday, but that doesn't mean the process of learning will grind to a halt.

On the contrary, school officials are hopeful that an entire day built around a program on self-esteem will help students learn to turn their backs on alcohol and drugs.

In the spirit of Red Ribbon Week, Northville High School and the local chapter of Students Against Drunk Driving (SADD) are sponsoring a March 7 appearance by motivational speaker Laurie Stewart.

Stewart, a graduate of Western Michigan University, is director of L.A. Stewart Presentations, a public-speaking and consulting firm.

Stewart will be speaking from 7:30-10:30 a.m. in an all-school assembly at NHS and will present her views on improving human relationships, self-esteem and attitudinal development.

Following the assembly, students will form study groups and develop goal statements for the school district's Strategic Plan.

Charlie Stilec, student assistance program coordinator at the high school, called the decision to devote a day to workshops and motivational speaking "evolutionary and revolutionary."

"The whole idea of a program like this is for students to feel better about themselves," he said. "Laurie Stewart will be talking about all the problems that face young people."

Stilec said peer pressure is still the reigning influence in leading young people to alcohol and drugs, but he said programs such as Stewart's are intended to get students to look at the motivations for their actions.

"It is a time of self-awareness," he said. "I don't think the problem of drug and alcohol abuse will ever go away, but by taking a closer look, we can see some of the causes and effects of the problem."

T-shirts carrying an anti-drug message will be distributed to 3,700 school students.

Stilec cited the increased attention paid to the harmful effects of alcohol and tobacco — including the placement of warning labels on packages — as proof that Americans are concerned about the safety of products they purchase.

"We're beginning to zero in on alcohol," he said. "There's more talk about the alcohol and tobacco industries selling products that are detrimental to people's health, especially in young people."

Stewart will be paid approximately $1,600 to speak at the high school, Stilec said. In addition to her three-hour talk, she will also have a hand in the group workshops and make a presentation to the community at the school auditorium from 7-8:30 p.m. that evening.

Her fees will be paid by student organizations, the PTA and Northville High School, Stilec said.

Red Ribbon Week runs March 4-10 in accordance with the National PTA Drug and Alcohol Awareness Week. Local groups sponsoring Red Ribbon Week include the Northville Action Council, Northville High School SADD Chapter, the Northville Schools administration and the Northville PTA.

Speaker to give high school students crash course in self-esteem

By MIKE TYREE

Red ribbons will be fluttering in the Northville breeze March 4-10 as a reminder of the dangers of drug and alcohol abuse.

Co-sponsored by the Northville Action Council and Students Against Drunk Driving, Red Ribbon Week has become an annual event supported by Northville businesses, service organizations and individuals, that is designed to provide an anti-drug and -alcohol message.

Genitti's Hole-In-The-Wall restaurant will hold a Red Ribbon Week kickoff dinner March 5 at 6:30 p.m. Guest speaker Col. R.A. Atchison, coordinator of the Military Drug Intervention Program, will discuss the dangers of drug abuse at the dinner.

Also on Monday, T-shirts will be delivered to approximately 3,700 students in the Northville Public School district. Students will be asked to wear the T-shirts, which carry an anti-drug message, to school March 6 in a show of support for the anti-drug campaign.

March 7 will see a day at Northville High School devoted to motivational speaker Laurie Stewart. Stewart, hired for $1,600 by student organizations with assistance from the school district, will give a three-hour presentation to students at the high school Wednesday morning and return in the evening to talk to parents. Her talk will center on self-esteem and the pressures that confront young people.

Thursday and Friday, a peer resistance group from Northville High School will meet with fifth-grade students from local elementary schools from 2-3 p.m.

The Northville Action Council raised $14,000 to purchase the T-shirts for distribution to all the students in the Northville school district. The logo on the shirts is "The Choice For Me Is Drug Free."

Novi seeks new landfill ordinance to control siting

By SHEILA PHILLIPS

NOVI — Novi Environmental Committee members are putting the finishing touches on a citywide landfill ordinance in the wake of the Holloway landfill proposal. "We are getting real close to having a landfill ordinance," said committee member and Planning Commission Chairperson Charles Kureth. "We are refining the ordinance and should finalize it at our March 1 committee meeting."

"The idea behind the ordinance is that we want to have some control over where landfills can be sited in our community," he said.

Kureth could not say if the ordinance would prohibit the Holloway Construction Company from building its proposed construction-waste landfill near Eight Mile and Napier roads.

"We purposely did not look at the Holloway site," he said. "We would be on shaky legal ground if we did."

He explained that the siting criteria in the ordinance may prohibit the construction of a landfill on the site, but it was not designed to do so.

However, he said that the ordinance will prohibit landfills from being sited near residential development, on top of a shallow aquifer, or near sensitive facilities like nursing homes or day-care facilities.

"We can limit where a landfill can go, but we cannot say that someone can't build a landfill in Novi," Kureth said.

He added that county Landfill Siting Advisory Committee guidelines were used as the model for the ordinance's siting criteria. Kureth is a member of that committee.

The planning chair also said the ordinance will impose certain structural constraints on any landfill built in Novi and that these constraints would exceed the requirements of the state Department of Natural Resource requirements.

These structural regulations would include a certain number of liners and containment devices. However, exact number and types of allowable containment systems still need to be hammered out, according to Kureth.

The environmental committee has been working on a landfill ordinance for over a year, according to Mayor Matthew Quinn.

He said the ordinance was actually prompted by the county's landfill siting process and not the Holloway proposal.

According to Quinn, a public hearing will probably be set sometime this month during a planning commission meeting.

If the ordinance gains commission approval it will go to the city council for ratification. That is expected to happen sometime in April.

mitted within the residential zoning category.

Holloway's proposal is for a type III landfill, the category for construction debris such as concrete and tree stumps. But residents have expressed fears that it could be converted to a type II, or trash and garbage, landfill.

Several council members, contending that they had not been kept informed on the landfill project, took Novi Public Service Director Lenora Jadun to task for her statement at a Nov. 30 solid-waste planning committee meeting that the city was not opposed to the Holloway plan. Leininger is the city's Oakland County solid-waste planning committee representative, but Jadun as the alternate attends the daytime meetings.

The committee voted Nov. 30 to add the Holloway site to the current draft of its Public Act 641 plan.

"I'm getting a little ticked off, because on this council I didn't vote to oppose or support this landfill and yet somebody is going on and saying the City of Novi blesses this," said Council Member Joseph Toth. "At this point I think we should oppose it pure and simple until we get more information."

Planning commission chair Chuck Kureth denied that Jadun had indicated Novi approved the landfill plan.

"The city saying it is not opposed does not constitute support. There's a misunderstanding of what has been said," he said. "It's been mentioned to the council itself that the 641 plan is flawed, is fatally flawed. It would behoove the council to oppose the plan totally."

Kureth, who leads the city's environmental committee, also sits on the county's landfill-siting advisory committee. The environmental committee is at present working on a landfill ordinance for the city.

Kureth said that he, Jadun and Susan Keast of the city's consulting firm, JCK and Associates, met with a Holloway representative and discussed the proposal. He explained that as long as Holloway owns the site, the company has agreed not to convert it to a Type II landfill.

"Based on the discussion we had with them, we didn't learn much. They hadn't given much thought to the design of the landfill. Their rationale was if it was not on the 641, they could not go forward," Kureth said.

Council Member Martha Hoyer agreed with Toth that the council had not been kept informed.

"I haven't seen a 641 plan to know even what you're talking about. No information has been forthcoming to this council. Apparently we have people who are out there speaking on behalf of the seven elected officials without the permission of the seven elected officials," Hoyer said.

Jadun said that Kureth and Kriewall had asked her to refer the project to the city's environmental committee and to represent Novi at the Nov. 30 meeting.

"I'm completely fed up with the inkling that I have been insubordinate. I followed the instructions that I received. It's come up several times before that I've been insubordinate and I haven't," she said.

"Whether we raised any concerns whatsoever, it would have got into the plan. I was very low-key and I just stated the facts; possibly a different direction could have taken place if I was directed differently."

Friends endorse Haller proposal

By MIKE TYREE

The 275-member Northville Friends of the Library last week cast their lot with the township in a plan to build a library and community center on the corner of Six Mile and Sheldon Roads.

Friends of the Library President Rosemary Mentag said an endorsement proposal was brought before the group's board of directors by township Trustee James Nowka.

"The group voted to support it," she said.

Mentag said it was important to find a new home for the library, which is currently housed in a 6,000-square-foot space in city hall.

"There's no doubt in my mind that we need a new library," she said.

In a press release announcing the endorsement, Mentag said the lack of space in the present building constitutes a major problem. She noted the adult reading section of the library can only seat eight to 10 people.

Only three tables, which could seat up to 12, are located in the children's portion of the library, she said.

The township's proposal is to build a 44,800-square-foot facility on the northeast corner of Six Mile and Sheldon roads on 72 acres of property donated to the township by former resident Frieda Haller. The land gift hinges on the township's ability to gain voter approval of a library funding plan.

Township residents will go to the polls May 1 to determine the fate of the proposed Haller Library.

Estimates from township Finance Director James Graham place the cost of construction of the new facility at just under $7 million. Graham said the library would be funded by bonds with a 15-year debt-retirement plan.

Under the proposed shared-services agreement between the city and township, the township would pay for the construction of the new library for anything over 25,000 square feet (the additional 19,800 square feet).

The city and township would share the cost of the initial 25,000 square feet based on the state equalized value (SEV) of the two communities.

The shared-services plan is presently under review by both the township and city. If adopted as proposed, the township would bear approximately 85 percent of the burden to construct and maintain the Haller Library, based on the SEV and space requirements over 25,000 square feet.

According to preliminary plans, approximately 25,000 square feet of the facility would go toward a new library. The remaining portion would be utilized as space for community groups such as senior citizens, according to township officials.

Library Director Pat Orr said the new library could have a variety of uses.

"We would expect to accommodate our children's summer reading program and everything from garden groups to scouts and homeowner associations to service clubs in the meeting rooms," she said in a press release. "The auditorium would be ideal for town halls, cultural activities, recitals, little theater..." she added.

Township officials were pleased by the Friends of the Library endorsement.

"It's wonderful and gratifying," said Supervisor Georgina Goss. "The community needs their support."

Township Manager Richard Henningsen echoed her comments.

"We're most happy to get everyone's support that we can to develop the community library," he said. "I'm glad they have decided to support the library effort."

A public hearing on the library issue was held last evening (Feb. 28), after the Record went to press.

City views preliminary plans for library

But the size of the auditorium is not set in stone, DiComo said. "It keeps moving up and we're not certain where it's going to end up," he said. While the original proposal called for a 300-seat hall, the increased size is due to requests from the township hall and other organizations for more space, he said.

Other uses incorporated into the building include: a senior citizens room; a small kitchen; three 40-person meeting rooms with movable walls which can be made into a 120-seat room or 200-person room for children during storytelling sessions; a smaller meeting room; and restroom facilities.

The building has been designed to allow different areas to be open to the public at different times, depending on the usage requirements. "It is the intent that the non-book side of the library can operate independently of the library," DiComo explained.

Many of the ideas for the interior of the structure came from Library Design Associates of Plymouth, the firm tapped by Kamp-DiComo to design the facility's space utilization. DiComo described the Plymouth firm as "one of the tops in the state, if not one of the three or four top firms in the country," in the library-design field.

DiComo also made it clear that the plans are only preliminary, and final design plans are subject to input from city and township officials and residents.

"This is all speculation at this point, trying to make the best utilization of the space that we can," DiComo said.

A township public hearing on the proposal was scheduled for yesterday.

Governor vetoes consent bill

By TIM RICHARD

LANSING — Gov. James Blanchard vetoed a legislative bill requiring girls under 18 to obtain parental consent for an abortion last Friday.

The House last week passed the measure 65-42, seven votes short of the two-thirds it will need to override the governor's veto.

The Senate on Feb. 14 approved the bill 29-8.

HOUSE

Yes — Willis Bullard, R-Highland, David Honigman, R-West Bloomfield, Gerald Law, R-Plymouth; Francis Spaniola, D-Corunna.

No — Susan Munsell, R-Howell.

SENATE

Yes — Fred Dillingham, R-Fowlerville, Richard Fessler, R-Commerce, R-Robert Geake, R-Northville.

No — Jack Faxon, D-Farmington Hills.

In both chambers, pro-choice forces sought to substitute a bill copied from Maine. It would have allowed consent to be given by an adult family member (grandparent, aunt, uncle, sibling) or proof of discussion with a counselor (psychiatrist, psychologist, social worker, member of clergy, physician's assistant, registered nurse, practical nurse or professional counselor).

Pro-life lawmakers denounced the substitute as contrary to the purpose of the bill — to strengthen parental responsibility.

In Lansing Wednesday, Right to Life of Michigan announced that rather than trying to override Blanchard's veto, it would seek petition signatures to put the bill on the ballot. If voters approve it, the law could not be vetoed by the governor.

The petition tactic worked in 1987-88 when RTL won approval of eliminating Medicaid-funded abortions.

As passed, House Bill 5103 would prohibit anyone from performing an abortion on a girl under age 18 without the written consent of her, one parent or a guardian.

The girl could ask any probate judge in the state for a waiver of parental consent. The judge would have to keep the proceedings closed, rule on her petition within two days and provide written permission for the abortion.

Every school district would be required to give all students in grades 6-12 written information about the existence of the law, the address and phone number of the probate court and how to contact the court for assistance.

The final version eliminated the so-called "suicide amendment." It would have allowed a girl to obtain an abortion if a psychologist or psychiatrist certified she was suicidal.

Township land added to regional sewer map

By MIKE TYREE

The addition of a 50-acre chunk of Northville Township land to a regional sewer map has improved chances for the township to receive state and federal aid.

The executive committee of the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments (SEMCOG) Feb. 23 approved an amendment to its seven-county Sewer Service Area Map. The map serves as a portion of the official water-quality management plan for the region and is key to acquiring state and federal funds for pollution control and cleanup chores.

"I am extremely happy with this decision," said Wayne County commissioner Susan Heintz, R-Northville, who also serves as a SEMCOG delegate. "I feel the additions to the map were very significant."

Heintz said three townships served by the Western Townships Utilities Authority (WTUA) noticed additions to the SEMCOG map.

Those additions include:

• Northville Township — 50 acres on the west side of Beck Road between Six and Seven Mile roads.

• Plymouth Township — a pie-shaped area east of the intersection of Ann Arbor and Joy roads.

• Canton Township — one and a half square miles west of Beck between Joy and Ford roads.

• Canton Township — small parcels on Canton Center Road and at the intersection of I-275 and Michigan Avenue.

Heintz credited Milton Mack, SEMCOG chairman and a Wayne County commissioner from Wayne, for calling a meeting to settle the problem.

SEMCOG maintains strict guidelines about the areas to be included on the map, Heintz said. She said the added parcels fit the mold for the map because of existing or potential pollution problems.

Northville Township engineer Abe Munfakh said the addition of the 50 acres is a positive step for the township.

"I think we're covered pretty well now," he said, adding that the chief concern was the inclusion of the WTUA communities to the map.

Munfakh said all the area east of Sheldon Road to Haggerty Road and south of Seven Mile to Five Mile Road is covered by the SEMCOG map. In addition, the 933 acres of county land in the township that awaits purchase by the R.A. DeMattia firm is included in the map.

"Not everything we want is on the map, but we're pretty happy," Munfakh said.

City applies for street bonds

By STEVE KELLMAN

At a special meeting last week, the Northville City Council unanimously agreed to apply to the state for $775,000 in Michigan Transportation Fund bonds, and issue a tax-anticipation note for $860,000 to meet the city's expenses in March.

The bonds will be used to defray part of the cost of ongoing street improvements in the city, including parts of Baseline, Main, Hutton, Rayson, Linden, Rogers, Taft, and Wing.

The note will be repaid from this year's tax collections, to provide the necessary cash flow while bond issues for the road repairs as well as downtown water-main improvements, sidewalk repair and parking improvements are being prepared.

Council members wasted no time three weeks ago in voting unanimously to adopt a resolution to issue the transportation bonds, a move that made last week's vote possible. The first vote came after nearly 20 residents spent more than an hour speaking out against the proposed MainCentre parking deck, one of the items the city is currently deciding how to bond.

The city has been exploring several different types of bonds to fund the road improvements. One of the attractive features of the transportation bonds is they can be passed more quickly than others.

Wrote city bond attorney George T. Stevenson, of the law offices of Miller, Canfield, Paddock and Stone in Detroit, "Unlike other types of bonds we have been discussing, Michigan transportation fund bonds do not require publication of a notice of intent to issue bonds with a subsequent 45-day referendum period."

Stevenson added the bonds are considered very marketable because they are backed by state transportation funds rather than by local taxes. "There's no additional tax issue to the residents," added City Manager Steven Walters.

Because the bond issue would be for less than $1 million, it would not be subject to the state requirement that the bonds be rated. When sold, the bonds will be based on the financial rating of the state rather than the city, because the bonds are issued in anticipation of specific state-returned revenues.

Because of this, the bonds are expected to fetch a better interest rate when sold than more typical local bonds.

Schoolcraft less pleased than most over state budget

By TIM RICHARD

Area college leaders sound gleeful when they talk about Gov. James Blanchard's fiscal 1991 budget. But they face stiff fights with other state needs, such as K-12 education and welfare, before they get their aid hikes averaging 5 percent, lawmakers say.

Less pleased than the majority is President Richard McDowell, whose Schoolcraft College was assigned only a 2.9 percent increase by the governor.

The range between colleges is 2 to 9.1 percent. "My lobbying will be to narrow the range," McDowell said. It will be tough, he said, because the Legislature will have little room to move Schoolcraft up since Blanchard's overall recommendation is 5 percent. "Last year we started at 2 percent (governor's recommendation) and got 4.9 percent (legislative appropriation)," he said.

McDowell also was disappointed that Blanchard failed to recommend any of the $175 million state money that Schoolcraft wants for a new $3.5-million Community/Student Services Building. "We'll need to scurry around for that," McDowell said. The new building would go next to the south parking lot. It would house the Business Development Center (now in the library) plus all services a student would need — the bursar, learning assistance center, Women's Resource Center, counselors and student activities offices.

Blanchard's total $7.6-billion general-fund budget is up 3.8 percent. If higher education is to get 5 percent more, others are taking cuts or increases less than the rate of consumer price inflation.

Sen. R. Robert Geake, R-

Northville, said it's unsafe to assume there's general agreement on the budget. "It doesn't explain how we're going to fund social services, mental health and corrections, even at the current year levels. Nor does it explain how the education money will be distributed."

"It looks like we're setting ourselves up for another bitter conflict between in-formula and out-formula school districts (those which get state aid and those which don't)," said Geake, a member of the Senate Appropriations Committee.

Geake added there probably will be "a behind-the-scenes conflict between K-12 and higher education."

"Most encouraging," said Chancellor Blenda J. Wilson, whose University of Michigan-Dearborn campus is due to be raised 5.8 percent to $17.5 million.

In contrast, the U-M main campus in Ann Arbor is due for a hike of only 4.7 percent, Wayne State University for 4.7 and Michigan State University for 4.8 percent.

Wilson promised UM-D would remain accessible "by keeping tuition and related costs as low as possible. We urge state leaders and the public to support the governor's recommendation..."

Oakland University near Rochester is due for a 5.2 percent increase to $35.5 million, and President Joseph Champagne feels "positive". His whole budget — with K-12 education at a 7.8-percent increase and higher ed at 5 percent — is a positive sign.

"Last year we were proposed for only 3 percent. This goes a long way in helping us."

"We've got some library-opening money in there. We tripled the size of the library. We opened it last fall, but

"My lobbying will be to narrow the range (of aid hikes)."

— Richard McDowell,
Schoolcraft College President

the appropriation for opening was half what we asked."

Champagne said OU's share of the research excellence fund was boosted to about $530,000 from $515,000. Community colleges are due for the same 5 percent average increase. Total spending on 29 two-year colleges would rise to $223 million.

"For all the doom and gloom in the clouds, the governor is very forthcoming for education," said

Chancellor R. Stephen Nicholson, whose Oakland Community College is due for 4.8 percent more.

In the past, OCC has generally trailed the state average. The $15 million due OCC is still short of the state formula, but Nicholson said he is "pleased at the attention given to community colleges."

"We had a record winter enrollment. The overall head count was 26,543, and credit hours were up 6 percent. We continue to be astonished at how many people look to this college for help."

Nicholson sees political uncertainty in Lansing and a chance the final budget won't be adopted until after the gubernatorial election. He said OCC "will be conservative in building our budget."

Michigan Hospital Association President Spencer Johnson held a news conference last week to complain that state health care is taking a $17-million cut. "We believe health care could have the same priority as education and corrections," he said.

Rep. David Hollister, D-Lansing, made the same case for social services, which is due for only a 0.7 percent increase. "How can we educate kids who are not being fed and not being clothed?" said the guardian of the social services budget.

University economic forecast

By TIM RICHARD

YPSILANTI — Manufacturing jobs will fall during 1990 but recover in 1991 to last year's levels, and property values in metro Detroit suburbs will continue to rise faster than paychecks.

That forecast comes from Eastern Michigan University economists using a state "research excellence" grant.

"The slowdown in employment growth predicted for 1990 will hit Michigan and its 12 metro regions harder than it hits the U.S. Not a single region in Michigan is predicted to have faster wage and salary employment growth than the U.S. has in 1990," said economist David Crary, editor of EMU's forecasting report.

He blamed Michigan's lag on the high percentage of jobs in cyclical manufacturing industries such as autos and appliances.

For metro Detroit — which includes Wayne, Oakland, Livingston and four other counties — Crary sees manufacturing employment falling 2.6 percent this year and rising 1.7 percent in '91.

For the state as a whole, manufacturing will drop 2.4 percent this year and rise 2.4 percent next year. In contrast, U.S. manufacturing will drop only 0.5 percent this year and rise 1.4 percent next year.

While Michigan regions will recover in 1991, three won't — Benton Harbor, Lansing and Muskegon.

Metro Detroit residents also will see their wages and salaries rise slower than their property assessments — 0.43 percent for paychecks versus 1.1 percent for state equalized valuations this year; 1.59 versus 3.74 percent next year.

The figures cover the entire region. Separate breakouts for cities and counties were unavailable. Past SEV reports have shown Livingston County having some of the highest assessment increases in the state followed by Oakland, Macomb and western Wayne counties.

The growth spots in Michigan next year will be metropolitan Ann Arbor, Flint (mostly recovery), Grand Rapids, Jackson, Kalamazoo, Saginaw and the Upper Peninsula, EMU forecasters said.

For Michigan as a whole, Crary said, the jobless rate was 6.9 percent in 1989 and will rise to 7.6 percent this year before dropping back to 6.9 in 1991.

Michigan fared poorly during the decade of the 1980s compared to the rest of the nation, said economist John E. Anderson.

The nation's total job picture rose 17.5 percent for the period 1979-88 while Michigan's rose only 4.4 percent. Metro Detroit's jobs rose 4 percent, while declines were reported in Flint (12.3), Jackson (3.6), Saginaw (0.9) and Muskegon (0.7).

Only two areas saw faster job growth in 1979-88 than the nation — Grand Rapids at 21.8 percent and Ann Arbor at 20.8.

Crary said forecasts are made by using federal forecasts of demands for various products and calculating the impact of each product on every region. Some 150 equations are used.

City reports use of racetrack revenue

By STEVE KELLMAN

As Northville continues to receive its full share of racetrack revenues from the state — in contrast to several past years — the money is being put to good use, according to the city.

Northville received more than $907,000 in racetrack revenue during 1989. Of that amount, according to the city's year-end report to the state racing commission, about $515,000 was used by the city for police services; $84,000 for fire services; $19,000 for garbage collection at the track; $132,000 for the city's street-repair program; and $70,000 for the Cady Street parking area redevelopment. Exactly $85,000 went into general city operations.

Northville city police spent a total of 8,984 hours on security details at the track, at a cost of about $362,000. Traffic details accounted for another 2,496 hours and $93,000 in wages and benefits.

Police services are expensive for a number of reasons, according to the city's report. "The operation of matinees at Northville Downs continues to require additional police manpower," City Manager Steven Walters wrote. "In addition, the City's use of only certified officers at the track, since the use of non-certified auxiliaries was ended in 1985, also has increased our operating costs."

"Thus, the State's return in 1989 to full payment to the racetrack cities under the statutory formula is welcomed."

The Downs was the site of at least eight fire calls last year, according to a report from Fire Chief Jim Allen. Four of those were for fires in the men's restrooms, two for bomb threats, one for a trash-can fire, and one for a fire in the blacksmith shop. A Feb. 27 bomb threat resulted in evacuation of the track while a bomb-sniffing dog was brought in by the police, according to Allen. No bombs were found after either threat.

One men's-room fire resulted in a case of smoke inhalation for the Northville police officer who put out the blaze, but the officer was back on duty shortly thereafter, Allen added.

The cost of the fire department's responses for personnel was $1,968, according to Allen's report. The city's report estimated the total cost of the fire department's responses at just under $9,000.

Circuit court sees change for better

The Wayne County Circuit Court, once known for its backlogs, two-year delays in trying civil cases and a casual work ethic by some of its judges, has received praise in a national publication for its dramatic turnaround in the last four years.

"Something important is happening in the Wayne County Circuit Court... something that deserves attention from everyone interested in the reduction of litigation cost and delay," the Judges Journal, a publication of the American Bar Association, said in its fall issue.

What has happened, said Court Administrator K. Kent Batty, is that the pending civil caseload has dropped by 33 percent since 1985, the median time to dispose of cases has dropped from 21 months to 13 months, and the number of civil cases pending for more than two years has dropped from 17,000 to fewer than 3,000.

Batty credited much of the improvement to a new method of assigning cases to judges, the individual-calendar method, where a particular judge handles all aspects of a case from start to finish and is assigned a certain docket of cases.

The court began phasing in the system in July 1986; the last seven of the 35 judges in the court will go on the system on Oct. 1 of this year.

Formerly, the court operated on a master calendar. Judges in that system aren't assigned a specific docket and different judges handle each case. Different motions in the same case, for example, were assigned to whatever judges were available the day the particular motion was made.

"In theory, the master calendar makes better use of the judges' times," Batty said.

But in practice, he said, things worked out differently. Lazy, irresponsible or slow judges did less than their share. Efficient judges carried an excessive burden.

"For the master calendar to be successful, you have to have a successful group psychology. The whole bench has to be enthusiastic about processing cases as a whole," Batty said.

No individual judge had an incentive to work hard. Some judges in the court acquired reputations for coming to work late, taking long lunches and leaving early, Batty said.

Now, "judges know a case isn't going to go away unless they make it go away" by working on it, Batty said. "The judges have responded in a marvelous way and knuckled down," he said.

The Journal praised Batty and Chief Judge Richard C. Kaufman.

"Wayne County Circuit Court judges and staff can rightly feel that they have given something back to the justice system and to the people of Wayne County," it said.

The article was written by Douglas Somerlot, director of the bar association's task force on delay reduction; Maureen Solomon, an independent court management consultant; and Barry Mahoney, a senior associate at the National Center for State Courts.

Minimum wage subject to debate

By TIM RICHARD

LANSING — Senate Democrats and House Republicans are on a collision course over rival bills to raise the minimum wage.

If the parties fail to compromise, Michigan's minimum wage would remain at $3.35 an hour, where it has been for nine years.

Sen. R. Robert Geake, R-Northville, said his bill "should be viewed as beneficial to employers and employees alike."

The Senate last week passed Geake's bill 20-17 on almost a party-line vote and sent it to the House. SB 727 will raise the minimum wage to the federal level — $3.80 this April 1 and $4.25 on April 1, 1991.

Geake's bill was supported by the Michigan State Chamber of Commerce, the National Federation of Independent Businesses, the Small Business Association of Michigan, the Michigan Restaurant Association and the Michigan Lodging Association.

Supporting Geake were Republicans Fred Dillingham of Fowlerville and Richard Fessler of Commerce.

Opposed was Democrat Jack Fax-on of Farmington Hills.

Democrats are holding out for two higher raises — to $4.65 on April 1, 1992, and $5 on April 1, 1993.

Backed by organized labor, the Democrat-controlled House approved its rival measure, HB 4294, Feb. 14 on a 64-43 vote and sent it to the Senate.

Geake's bill contains two other provisions House Democrats dislike:

- A permissible "training wage" of 85 percent of the minimum to workers under age 19 for the first 90 days of employment.

- An increase in the "tip credit" from 25 percent to 45 percent. The tip credit allows employers to reduce the wage below the minimum for workers, such as waitresses, who receive tips.

Geake said his bill guarantees the worker's wage after the tip credit never will fall below the minimum wage.

The state law is designed to cover workers not in interstate commerce — typically small firms in the hospitality industry.

Democrats estimate 546,000 workers are at the minimum wage.

Commission Order - CFI-112.90

(Under the authority of Act 230 of the Public Acts of 1925, as amended)

OPEN SEASONS AND CATCH LIMITS ON PIKE, WALLEYE, SAUGER AND MUSKELLUNGE

Under the authority of Act 230 of the Public Acts of 1925, as amended, being sections 300.1 through 300.5 of the Michigan Compiled Laws, the Natural Resources Commission at its October 4, 1989, meeting ordered that for a period of five years it shall be unlawful to take the following named species except within the open seasons and daily limits as prescribed below:

Open season: On walleye, sauger northern pike and muskellunge (including tiger muskellunge).

Region I: All Upper Peninsula waters, including the surrounding Great Lakes and connecting waters not otherwise closed to fishing shall be from May 15 through March 15.

Regions II and III: All Lower Peninsula waters except the Great Lakes and connecting waters not otherwise closed to fishing shall be from the last Saturday in April through March 15.

Regions II and III: The Great Lakes and connecting waters shall be open year around; except that muskellunge in Lake St. Clair, and the St. Clair and Detroit rivers may be taken only from the first Saturday in June through December 15 of each year.

For the purposes of this order, all drowned river mouth lakes such as Manistee Lake, Lake Macatawa and Muskegon Lake are considered as inland waters and are subject to inland water regulations.

Daily Catch Limits: Statewide limits shall be five (5) singly or in combination for largemouth and smallmouth bass, walleye and sauger and northern pike; the daily catch limit on muskellunge is one (1) (including tiger muskellunge) except that the daily catch limit on Lakes St. Clair and Erie and the Detroit and St. Clair rivers shall be six singly or in combination for largemouth and smallmouth bass, walleye, sauger, and northern pike when the catch includes at least one walleye or sauger.

This order supersedes the Commission Order entitled "Open Seasons and Catch Limits on Pike, Walleye, Sauger and Muskellunge", effective April 1, 1987 and assigned number CFI-112.87.

This order shall take effect on April 1, 1990, and shall remain effective through March 31, 1995.

COMMISSION ORDER CFI-103.90

(Under the authority of Act 230 of the Public Acts of 1925, as amended)

GEAR RESTRICTIONS FOR STREAM FISHING DURING SALMON AND STEELHEAD RUNS

Under the authority of Act 230 of the Public Acts of 1925, as amended, being sections 300.1 through 300.5 of the Michigan Compiled Laws, the Natural Resources Commission at its February 14, 1990, meeting ordered that for a period of five years the following gear restrictions shall be in effect:

On any stream, except the St. Mary's, St. Clair, and Detroit Rivers, before May 15 or after August 31 of each year, except otherwise permitted under the authority of a salmon snagging stamp, it shall be unlawful to:

1. Use multi-pointed hooks exceeding 3/4 -inch between point and shank or single-pointed hooks exceeding 1/2 -inch.
2. Use a hook, fly or lure having more than one single pointed hook if a weight is rigidly attached to the hook or suspended from or below the hook.
3. Use any hook attached to the line between any weight and the rod, except on an unweighted dropper line at least 3 inches long.

The intent of this regulation is to allow the baited hook or the lure to suspend freely in the water, allowing the fish to take the hook or lure in its mouth.

This order supersedes the Commission Order entitled "Gear Restrictions for Stream Fishing during Salmon and Steelhead Runs", effective April 1, 1985, and assigned number CFI-103.85.

This order shall take effect on April 1, 1990, and shall remain effective through March 31, 1995.

Monthly Allergy Tip

If your child has ear problems, lend an ear to these findings:

Recent studies have shown that allergies in children can contribute to chronic ear problems. Ear problems may cause irritating discomfort, interfere with a child's feeling of well-being, reduce attention span at school, and may influence the state of general health.

If your child suffers from recurring ear problems, it is easy to check if allergies may play a part in the condition. So, for his or her sake, see us. We may be able to help!

Our $69* special rate is the spring thaw you've been waiting for.

Remember a few months ago when that first snow fell, and it looked so darn fresh and pretty? But that excitement only lasted until the first time you found yourself scraping ice off your windshield with a credit card, wishing you hadn't lost your gloves.

Well, we don't mean to be cruel, but spring is still a loooong way off...and you need a break now!

So right now, for just $69* a night on Fridays and Saturdays you can be surrounded by waterfalls and exotic trees at the new Embassy Suites Hotel in Livonia. Our special rate includes:

- ◆ 2 room suite for the price of a single room
- ◆ Complimentary manager's reception each evening†
- ◆ Cable TV, microwave and available mini-bar

- ◆ Complimentary cooked-to-order breakfast
- ◆ 24 hour pool, whirlpool, sauna and exercise room
- ◆ Transportation to local shopping centers
- ◆ Cascades restaurant and Pahrumps nightclub

Landfill fees key budget review

Northville city officials were forced recently to review the city's budget in response to increased landfill fees.

The recent increase in landfill fees leaves the city's projected refuse collection costs short by about $80,000. Fortunately, according to City Manager Steven Walters, increased revenues from other sources and smaller expenditures for several items should cover the shortfall.

Walters anticipated an additional $10,000 in state returns from the 35th District Court and an additional $10,000 in parking-fine revenues over the current budget estimates. He attributed the increase in parking-fine revenue to a raise in the cost of many fines from $3 to $5, and more enforcement of delinquent fines. "It's not more tickets for the most part. It's a combination of the higher fees and the collection rate," he said.

Expenditures for items such as street lighting, fire-department wages and police benefits are also expected to be lower than those in the original budget. Walters credited a $25,000 decrease in police cost-of-living adjustments and a $2,900 drop in holiday pay to the recently negotiated contracts and a change in the status of retirement benefits.

Between all these changes, "and of course, the $80,000 increase in burying the garbage," Walters said, the city's budget should still come out even. The city council unanimously approved the recommended budget.

about one percent spent for township operation expenses."

Graham said approximately 67 percent of the average tax bill goes toward the Northville Public School district.

The Haller Library proposal will not affect tax bills this year, Graham said.

"It would appear at this time that no library funding taxes would appear on the December tax bills," he said.

Graham said property owners with questions about the assessment hike — and what it means to their property taxes — should contact the township at 348-5800.

DORA M. JOHNSON

Mrs. Dora (Debby) M. Johnson of Farmington Hills died Feb. 21 at Providence Hospital in Southfield. Mrs. Johnson was a former resident of Northville.

She was born July 23, 1925. She lived for 17 years in Northville, and for 15 years in Westland prior to that. Mrs. Johnson was a payroll supervisor for Progressive Tool in Southfield. She retired in June of 1988 after 30 years of service.

She was a 1940 graduate of Central High School and spent two years at the Detroit College of Business.

She is survived by three daughters, Mary Jo Mahoney of Parchment, Mrs. Thomas (Patricia) Decker of Royal Oak and Beth Ann Johnson of Oak Park, a sister, Mrs. John (Betty) Crawford of Florida; a brother, Mr. Lee (Carol) Brown of Texas; and a grandson, Shawn Joseph Mahoney of Parchment.

Funeral Services were held Feb. 24 at the R. G. & G. R. Harris Funeral Home in Livonia. Burial was at Cadillac Memorial West in Garden City. The Rev. Alfred Gould officiated.

Contributions would be appreciated to the American Lung Association.

ERMA BOROWSKI

Mrs. Erma Borowski, 90, of Redford, died Feb. 22 at University Convalescent Home in Livonia. Mrs. Borowski came to the Northville community in 1950 from Detroit.

Her husband Anthony preceded her in death in 1967. She is survived by her nieces Leah and Adeline Schmoland of Redford. She was a nurse and at Maybury Sanitarium for 33 years. She retired in 1964.

Services were held Feb. 24 at the Ross B. Northrop & Son Funeral Home. Officiating at the service was the Rev. Donald W. Lunick from Holy Cross Lutheran Church. Interment was at Rural Hill Cemetery in Northville.

Memorials to the Salvation Army would be appreciated by the family.

Arrangements were made by the Ross B. Northrop & Son Funeral Home in Northville.

JAMES DEWITT MAHONEY

Mr. James DeWitt Mahoney, of Holmes Beach, Fla., died Feb. 21 in Florida. Mr. Mahoney, a former resident of Northville, was 71 at the time of his death.

He was born Jan. 31, 1919 in Highland Park to James D. and Margaret (Chalmers) Mahoney.

Mr. Mahoney is survived by his children, James Mahoney of Novi;

Michael Mahoney of Springhill, Fla.; Allison Terrell of Brighton; Jeffrey Mahoney of Middlebury, Ind.; Patricia Mahoney of Detroit; Susan Paruszkiewicz of Wixom; Sally Walker of Canton; and Janet Shinske of Highland; their mother, Evelyn Allison Mahoney; and 20 grandchildren.

Mr. Mahoney spent most of his life in Northville, moving to Florida three years ago. He was retired. He had been with the Army Air Force during World War II.

Funeral services were held Feb. 25 at the Casterline Funeral Home in Northville. The Rev. James F. Andrews of the Full Salvation Union of Northville, officiated.

The family would appreciate memorials to the Michigan Heart Foundation.

Arrangements were made by the Casterline Funeral Home of Northville.

Scott inmates look to careers in counseling

By MIKE TYREE

Eighteen-year-old Larry sat at a table on a cold Monday morning and talked about goals.

"I plan to make a career out of drug counseling," he said. "I'm going to take some college classes that will help me pursue that career."

Larry paused, seemingly measuring his words.

"I'm going to be released in a year and a half."

Larry was seated in a stark conference room inside the walls of the Scott Correctional Facility on Beck and Five Mile roads in Northville Township.

Outside, the temperature inched toward the high teens, and the sun — misleadingly bright — glinted off crusty patches of snow and the rolls of razor-sharp barbed wire that surround the perimeter of the prison.

Joined by fellow inmates Ken and Warren, both 34, Larry had come — with hesitation and a hint of embarrassment — to speak to a reporter about a substance-abuse program sponsored by Scott Correctional and the State Department of Corrections.

Ken and Warren were effervescent — almost evangelical — when speaking about the program headed by Gerald Maloney of Heritage Hospital in Taylor and Lois Glonek, assistant deputy warden at Scott.

But Larry was quiet and retiring, unless asked directly about the program which helps him understand his addictions and possibly chart a course for a career.

"I was hanging around the wrong people, mainly using marijuana and alcohol," he said of the period that led him to a four-year jail term. "I know I'll be tempted when I get out, but I'm going to change my lifestyle."

"The program has helped me see what I have to do to change."

Approximately 150 inmates at Scott volunteered for a pilot substance-abuse program at the prison which was intended to provide a progressive means of treatment for people entering the corrections program, according to Maloney, the chief substance-abuse therapist at Heritage Hospital.

The program was instituted in July 1988, with the first course running

"I know I'm going to be tempted when I get out, but I'm going to change my lifestyle," — Larry.

Eighteen-year-old inmate at Scott Correctional through October of the same year.

According to Maloney, a treatment program is almost a necessity in the penal system.

"The idea is obvious," he said. "Between 80-90 percent of inmates have a history of substance abuse. There is a direct relationship between criminal activities and substance abuse."

"We can do something about it."

Glonek said treatment programs are intended to rehabilitate prisoners so that they can emerge from their confinement with alternative thinking patterns. She said if inmates understand their substance abuse problems, they may fare better after parole.

The program became such a success that inmates clamored for additional education on substance abuse.

"I was actually sorry to leave the prison — that's strange to say — after the first program," Maloney said. "But the guys were demanding more; they weren't satisfied with just (an introductory program)."

"Ms. Glonek and I talked about what else we could do," he added.

What they were able to do was sell the state on a plan that would get inmates to further their substance-abuse education.

Glonek and Maloney came up with an aftercare program that has graduated six 15- to 20-member inmate classes who work with therapists to increase their knowledge of substance abuse. Tests are tougher, the approach is stricter and the rewards are greater for those who can graduate from the aftercare plan, Maloney said.

But the real reward came when inmates — led by Warren, the chairperson of the prison Alcoholics Anonymous and Narcotics Anonymous chapters — pushed one step further.

An apprentice-counselor program was developed — the first one in the state.

"This program will give them the basic ability to act as counselors, with the potential for employment in this field after they are paroled," Maloney said.

"These guys will benefit more from counseling if they understand the process," he added.

Ken, like Larry and Warren, had lived in a Wayne County community before he was imprisoned. He is an enthusiastic supporter of the apprentice-counseling program.

"I've learned a lot," Ken said, admitting that his narcotics addiction began in his teens and eventually led him to a jail term. "The program has taught me some of my personality traits. I didn't learn to use the proper skills when I was young, and it left me kind of handicapped."

"I've learned that I'm going to have to depend on me, not some magic pill that will make the bad times go away," he added.

Warren nodded in agreement of Ken's comments.

"I'm learning about my addictions," he said. "I'm learning the tools of sobriety and I enjoy sharing my knowledge with the younger guys. When they offered the apprentice program, I knew it would be good for me."

Although Warren said he has a career in the trucking industry waiting for him upon parole, he felt the apprentice-counseling plan could play a role in his post-prison life.

"It could possibly be a second career, and I know I'll be involved as a volunteer," he said.

Ken said his past problems are easier to understand now.

"Coming to prison is a blessing in disguise," he said. "It's getting-clean time — time to get out of the fog of alcohol and drugs."

"It's a disgrace to be locked up at my age, for no apparent reason but for drug involvement," he said. "I'm just scratching the surface now and I don't want this to be wasted time. I'm going to get back into the swing of education and open as many doors as I can to a career in this field."

Ken said he is excited about the possibility of getting back to the inner city and telling young people about the pitfalls of substance abuse.

"I'm going to be right there with those kids, saying, 'Don't do what I did; do what I say.' Selling dope can get you killed or stuck in prison and I'm going to tell my people how hard it is to get back after you've stepped over the line," he said.

"A lot of young guys will make the same mistakes," Warren chimed in. "It gives me a good feeling passing along information on drug and alcohol abuse to them. Maybe they won't have to go through the trial-and-error life we've led."

Larry, in the background as the two older inmates talked, gazed out the window for a moment, across the bleak grounds of the prison.

Three miles or so away, at Northville High School, 18-year-olds were also talking about college. But the similarities between them and Larry stopped at the number of candles on the cake.

"I mainly look up to these guys," he said of Ken and Warren. "I don't have a lot of knowledge. There's a lot of questions about substance abuse I haven't thought of."

"If I have questions, they'll help me out."

Rehab a key for state prisoners

By MIKE TYREE

Twenty-two medium- and maximum-security inmates at Scott Correctional Facility recently took a test which could qualify them to serve as apprentice substance-abuse counselors.

The inmates took the test Feb. 16, after completing a 17-week course designed to teach them some of the skills necessary to further their education in the field of drug counseling.

Inmates who had completed earlier drug-treatment and substance-abuse courses were eligible to take part in the apprentice-counselor program, with preference given to those closest to discharge from the prison system.

Gerald Maloney, chief substance-abuse therapist with Heritage Hospital in Taylor, has been teaching the courses at Scott. He said former substance abusers — as most inmates are — can make excellent counselors.

"It's almost a unique field," he said. "I think substance abusers have made primary contributions to the field."

Maloney said inmates who pass the apprentice-counseling course start off at a "very basic level."

To become an apprentice counselor, inmates must pass a test which covers eight basic areas. He said the test includes topics such as substance abuse and what drugs can do; what treatment consists of; and a strong stress on ethics.

The inmates did well on a preliminary test, Maloney said.

"I'm very pleased, very impressed with them," he said. "Fourteen of the 22 posted scores over 73 percent (passing grade cutoff)."

Assistant Deputy Warden Lois Glonek said several of the inmates posted scores over 90 percent. She said the ability to pass the test could have an effect on parole, but it was not the only factor in release dates.

"Their work indicates a tremen-

Costly ragged roads caused by warm weather

Everybody loved January's unusually mild temperatures — everybody that is, but Wayne County road crews.

For the county road department, last month's milder temperatures translated to more work patching potholes.

"We were pretty busy," said Pat Hogan, deputy director of county roads.

Melting snow and ice seeped into roadways, forcing asphalt to continually expand and contract as it thawed, then refroze. "It's trapped," Hogan said. "It can't percolate so it gets loose any way it can and that means damaging the pavement."

Loose pavement, coupled with heavy road traffic, produced the undesired result: potholes.

No figures were available for how many of the gaps were filled by the county, Hogan, however, said he expected this year's figure to be at least equal last year when the county filled an estimated 133,000 potholes.

A special quick-sealing asphalt mix, designed to accommodate cold winter temperatures, is used to patch county roadways. Last winter, the county roadways used more than 4,000 tons of the stuff.

The county is restricting truck traffic on some roads to prevent potholes from piling up.

New weight limits require heavy haulers to reduce their cargo load by 25 percent to travel over pothole-prone county roads.

"Essentially, they have two choices," Hogan said. "They can either use another road or drop some of their load."

The new road restrictions are in effect until further notice but don't apply to passenger cars.

A Michigan specialty, potholes are an expensive proposition. One year ago, the county spent more than $2 million to patch its roads.

"We figured it came out to about $17 per hole," Hogan said.

It's been a busy two months for county road workers because January was as mild as December was bitter. County road crews said goodbye to the 1980s by spreading a record 65 million tons of salt to keep roads passable.

Now, all they have to do is wait until spring — when pothole season begins all over again.

6. NORTHVILLE ACTION COUNCIL — ROXANNE CASTERLINE: Mayor Johnson deferred discussion until Mrs. Casterline was present.

7. NORTHVILLE CO-OP PRESCHOOL — LAURA DROZE & MINDY RISHER: On February 2, Mrs. Droze requested removal from the agenda due to the Northville School District's available facility for their preschool program.

8. PARKING DECK — JOHN KALOUSTIAN: John Kalooustian, 830 W. Main St. (1/29/90 letter on file) spoke opposing the planned parking deck at Center and Cady streets. He requested Council look for better parking opportunities, a more concealed location, a smaller deck, and asked that they reevaluate whether more parking is actually needed.

Comments were received from other residents as well.

Walters stated the parking deck would be built by the City, funding would be through special assessment and tax capturing — no millage would be levied. The maintenance obligation would be the City's long-term. The deck parking for the Main Center tenants would be paid by the owner.

Johnson reviewed history of the Main and Center project, the parking problem in the downtown, and the special assessments for parking. The Council has had many meetings on the structure design for the parking deck.

Johnson requested the City Manager provide additional information for Council to review on parking deck reconfiguration, cost impact and realistic requirement of parking spaces needed.

6. NORTHVILLE ACTION COUNCIL — ROXANNE CASTERLINE: Roxanne Casterline reviewed the plans for Red Ribbon Week, March 4-10, 1990, to include a fundraising dinner at Gemini's hole-in-the-wall and T-Shirt project for every student to wear the anti-drug T-Shirt during Red Ribbon Week.

Moved, supported, CARRIED UNANIMOUSLY, to proclaim March 4-10, 1990, as Red Ribbon week in the City of Northville.

9. HALLER LIBRARY PROJECT: Walters presented information on the first draft of allocation of the 44,800 square foot library, divided into specific areas by square feet. He will have a budget proposal by the next Council meeting on February 26, 1990.

7. NORTHVILLE CO-OP PRESCHOOL: Laura Droze informed City Council that at the Northville School Board meeting tonight they approved a two year lease for the preschool program at Meads Mill. Droze asked Council to keep the option open of using the Scout Building in the future, because the School Board did not think they could renew the lease in two years.

Johnson noted that their needs will be kept in mind.

10. OAKLAND COUNTY SOLID WASTE PLAN: Moved, supported, CARRIED UNANIMOUSLY, to adopt by resolution the Oakland County Solid Waste Plan 641 amendment pursuant to a resolution adopted by the Oakland County Board of Commissioners on October 12, 1989.

Township Trustee Handyside noted he serves on the Wayne County Solid Waste Committee and they just passed their plan on to the County Executive.

11. APPROVE TRANSPORTATION FUND BOND ISSUE: Moved, supported, CARRIED UNANIMOUSLY, to adopt a resolution to issue Transportation Fund bonds for $800,000 to defray major and local street improvements in the City.

12. 1989-90 BUDGET AMENDMENTS: Moved, supported, CARRIED UNANIMOUSLY, to approve a resolution of General Fund Revenue & Expenditure amendments for a total of $428,600.

13. ACCEPT DUBUAR RIGHT-OF-WAY: Moved, supported, CARRIED UNANIMOUSLY, that the City accept an addition of right-of-way to Dubuar Street from Lot 375, Roskelley, Jakobson and Associates dated February 5, 1990, and subject to the approval of the City Attorney.

14. COUNCIL COMMENTS: Walters stated he will be removing the two Michigan Bell payphones west of Travel Plans, to be replaced with one lease payphone and requested Council's opinion on location for a payphone around the town square area. These lease payphones will provide a better income return. The payphone at City Hall will also be replaced with the same lease. It was Council's consensus to place the payphone at the Long's building (east side).

There being no further business to be discussed by City Council, Mayor Johnson adjourned the regular meeting of Monday, February 5, 1990, at 10:15 p.m.

CATHY M KONRAD, CMC
(02-28 90 NR) CITY CLERK

CITY OF NORTHVILLE COUNTIES OF WAYNE AND OAKLAND, STATE OF MICHIGAN

Minutes of a Regular Meeting of the City Council of the City of Northville, Counties of Wayne and Oakland, State of Michigan (the "City") held in the City Hall of the City on the 26th day of February 1990 at 8 o'clock p.m. Eastern Standard Time. PRESENT: Members Ayers, Folino, Gardner, Johnson, Mitman. ABSENT: Members None.

The following preamble and resolution were offered by Member Mitman and supported by Member Folino. WHEREAS, this City Council by resolution (the "Resolution") adopted at a special meeting on February 20, 1990, authorized $775,000, 1990 Michigan Transportation Fund Bonds of the City, and

WHEREAS, it is necessary to amend the Resolution in order to reduce the principal amount of the bonds NOW, THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED THAT

1. Paragraphs 3, 4 and 9 of the Resolution are amended to provide as follows

3. The City Council hereby determines to borrow the sum of Seven Hundred Thirty Thousand Dollars ($730,000) and issue bonds of the City therefor pursuant to the provisions of Act 175 (the "Bonds"), for the purpose of providing funds to pay part of the cost of the Improvements

4. The Bonds shall be designated 1990 MICHIGAN TRANSPORTATION FUND BONDS and shall consist of bonds registered as to principal and interest of the denominations of any multiple of $5,000 not exceeding for each maturity the maximum principal amount of the Bonds of that maturity and numbered consecutively in order of registration of transfer. The Bonds will be dated as of March 1, 1990 and be payable on December 1 of each year as follows

Amount	Years	Amount	Years
$30,000	1990	$50,000	1998
30,000	1991	55,000	1999
35,000	1992	55,000	2000
35,000	1993	60,000	2001
40,000	1994	65,000	2002
40,000	1995	70,000	2003
45,000	1996	75,000	2004

The Bonds shall bear interest to be determined at the public sale thereof but not to exceed the maximum rate permitted by law, payable on June 1, 1990 and semiannually thereafter. The Bonds shall be subject to redemption prior to maturity as provided in Section 9 hereof.

Unless waived by any registered owner of Bonds to be redeemed, official notice of redemption shall be given by the transfer agent on behalf of the City. Such notice shall be dated and shall contain at a minimum the following information: original issue date, maturity dates, interest rate, CUSIP numbers, if any, certificate numbers (and in the case of partial redemption) the called amounts of each certificate, the redemption date, the redemption price or premium, the place where Bonds called for redemption are to be surrendered for payment, and that interest on bonds or portions thereof called for redemption shall cease to accrue from and after the redemption date.

In addition, further notice shall be given by the transfer agent in such manner as may be required or suggested by regulations or market practice at the applicable time, but no defect in such further notice nor any failure to give all or any portion of such further notice shall in any manner defeat the effectiveness of a call for redemption if notice thereof is given as prescribed herein.

9. The Bonds shall be in substantially the following form subject to such changes as to ministerial form as may be reasonably requested by the transfer agent.

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA STATE OF MICHIGAN COUNTIES OF WAYNE AND OAKLAND CITY OF NORTHVILLE 1990 MICHIGAN TRANSPORTATION FUND BOND

INTEREST RATE	MATURITY DATE	DATE OF ORIGINAL ISSUE	CUSIP
		March 1, 1990

REGISTERED OWNER PRINCIPAL AMOUNT Dollars

The City of Northville, Counties of Wayne and Oakland, State of Michigan (the "City"), for value received, hereby promises to pay to the Registered Owner specified above, or registered assigns, the Principal Amount specified above, in lawful money of the United States of America, on the Maturity Date specified above, unless prepaid prior thereto as hereinafter provided, with interest thereon from the Date of Original Issue specified above, or such later date to which interest has been paid, until paid, at the Interest Rate per annum specified above, first payable on June 1, 1990 and semiannually thereafter. Principal of this bond is payable at the corporate trust office of Manufacturers National Bank of Detroit, in Detroit, Michigan, or such other transfer agent as the City may hereafter designate by notice mailed to the registered owner hereof not less than sixty (60) days prior to any interest payment date (the "Transfer Agent"). Interest on this bond is payable to the registered owner of record as of the fifteenth (15th) day of the month preceding the payment date as shown on the registration books of the City maintained by the Transfer Agent, by check or draft mailed to the registered owner at the registered address.

This bond is one of a series of bonds aggregating the principal sum of $730,000, issued for the purpose of defraying part of the cost of major and local street improvements in the City in accordance with a resolution duly and regularly adopted by the City Council of said City, as amended, pursuant to the provisions of Act 175, Public Acts of Michigan, 1952, as amended.

Bonds of this issue maturing in the years 1990 to 1999, inclusive, shall not be subject to redemption prior to maturity.

Bonds of $5,000 portions of bonds of this issue maturing in the years 2000 to 2004, inclusive, shall be subject to redemption by the City prior to maturity, in such order as the City shall determine and by lot within a maturity, on any interest payment date on or after December 1, 1999, at the following redemption prices (expressed as percentages of their principal amounts), plus accrued interest to the redemption date.

Period During which Redeemed	Redemption Price
December 1, 1999 to November 30, 2000, inclusive	101-1/4 %
December 1, 2000 to November 30, 2001, inclusive	101%
December 1, 2001 to November 30, 2002, inclusive	100-1/5 %
December 1, 2002 and thereafter	100%

In case less than the full amount of an outstanding bond is called for redemption, the transfer agent upon presentation of the bond called in part for redemption, shall register, authenticate and deliver to the registered owner a new bond or bonds in the principal amount of the portion of the original bond not called for redemption.

Notice of redemption shall be given to the registered owners of bonds or portions thereof to be redeemed by mailing of such notice not less than thirty (30) days prior to the date fixed for redemption to the registered owners at the addresses of the registered owners as shown on the registration books of the City. No further interest on the bonds called for redemption shall accrue after the date fixed for redemption, whether presented for redemption or not, provided the City has money available for such redemption.

This bond and the interest thereon are payable from the proceeds of State-collected taxes returned to the City for highway purposes pursuant to law, or in case of insufficiency of said funds, out of the general funds of the City, and the resolution authorizing the bonds contains an irrevocable appropriation of the amount necessary to pay the principal of and interest on the bonds of this issue from moneys derived from such State-collected taxes so returned to the City for highway purposes which have not been theretofore specifically allocated and pledged for the payment of indebtedness. In addition, the City has reserved the right to issue additional bonds of equal standing and priority of lien as to such State-collected taxes within the limitations prescribed by law.

This bond is not a general obligation of the State of Michigan.

This bond is transferable only upon the books of the City kept for that purpose at the office of the Transfer Agent by the registered owner hereof in person, or by the registered owner's attorney duly authorized in writing, upon the surrender of this bond together with a written instrument of transfer satisfactory to the Transfer Agent duly executed by the registered owner or the registered owner's attorney duly authorized in writing, and thereupon a new registered bond or bonds in the same aggregate principal amount and of the same maturity shall be issued to the transferee in exchange therefor as provided in the resolution authorizing the bonds of this issue, and upon the payment of the charges, if any, therein prescribed.

This bond is not valid or obligatory for any purpose until the Transfer Agent's Certificate of Authentication on this bond has been executed by the Transfer Agent.

It is hereby certified and recited that all acts, conditions and things required to be done, exist and happen, precedent to and in the issuance of said series of bonds of which this is one, in order to make them valid and binding obligations of the City, have been done, exist and have happened in regular and due form and time as required by law, and that the total indebtedness of the City, including the series of bonds of which this is one, does not exceed any constitutional, statutory or charter limitation.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, the City of Northville, Counties of Wayne and Oakland, State of Michigan, by its City Council, has caused this bond to be executed with the facsimile signatures of its Mayor and its City Clerk and a facsimile of the City's seal to be printed hereon, all as of the first day of March, A.D., 1990.

Planning commission considers new bylaws

By STEVE KELLMAN

After weeks of debate over the role of liaisons and their audience, the city's planning commission last week took a long look at a set of proposed bylaws designed to answer those questions once and for all.

The proposed bylaws provide for both audience comments and reports from the city administration, city council, planning commission officers and other liaisons, if those people have comments to make.

"We felt that that covered Dixie like the dew, as they used to say of the Atlanta Constitution, and provided for every need," said Commissioner David Totten.

Commissioners had few questions about the form of the agenda, other than the method of changing the order of business.

Totten walked the commission members through the latest changes made to Planning Consultant Don Wortman's draft of the bylaws, saying, "I don't think it appropriate that you adopt or not adopt or amend tonight. Save the debate on the points until the next meeting, when we can debate and eventually adopt, if that's not too optimistic."

"What we tried to do is incorporate whatever we could to make it a totally uncontroversial and innocuous thing," Totten said.

The commission did debate some of the draft's finer points, though, discussing when would be the best time to hold election of commission officers and what the definition of the commission itself was to be.

Also up for debate was the number of commissioners needed to vote "aye" on various commission issues for the issue to be approved — including the bylaws themselves. "I think there needs to be an article that spells out adoption (of the bylaws)," said Commissioner Roland Stapleton.

Such an article would be necessary to make the bylaws more binding than a mere resolution, he explained. The commission eventually agreed on an "aye" vote of six of the commissioners for adoption or amendment of the draft, to assure that the bylaws are not subject to constant revisions.

The proposal also called for "an affirmative vote of a majority of those members present" for approval of any action or motion of the planning commission, a requirement questioned by Stapleton and Commissioner Don McCulloch. McCulloch noted that such a vote could allow three people to pass a motion, if there were

"This document really does constitute a charter for the commission. Once you adopt these bylaws, you really are subjecting yourself to tighter strictures when it comes to motions, et cetera."

— Roland Stapleton,
Northville City Planning Commission

number of people present at a particular meeting.

But Commissioner Chris Gazlay worried that if there are only five people at a commission meeting, then a single "nay" vote could shoot down a developer's proposal. "Pity the poor developer who comes in here in January or February and is shot down by a single vote," he said. Responded McCulloch, "pity the poor planning commission member who shoots him down!"

Stapleton also urged the commission to take note of the significance of the bylaw's passage. "This document really does constitute a charter for the commission," he said. "Once you adopt these bylaws, you really are subjecting yourself to tighter strictures when it comes to motions, et cetera."

Amerman asbestos removal

By MIKE TYREE

An asbestos-abatement project at Amerman Elementary School was approved by the Board of Education during its Feb. 26 meeting.

The board accepted a $6,710 bid from Howard Abatement Co. Inc. to remove asbestos from the boiler room at Amerman. The replacement of a boiler at the school necessitated the removal of the asbestos, school officials said.

Howard Abatement posted the lowest bid of three firms vying for the asbestos removal project, according to Tom Bailey, administrative assistant for operations.

Bailey said the project will begin March 30 and will be completed no later than April 1.

The board also approved bids by two firms to provide additional services during the clean-up.

PTM Consulting was hired at a cost of $50 per hour, not to exceed 24 hours and $1,200 for consulting services for the asbestos project.

Kemron Environmental Services, Inc. was retained to provide air monitoring for the project at $600 per day for three days, in an amount not to exceed $1,800.

Superintendent of Schools George Bell said the abatement program will take place over the weekend of March 30 - April 1 and would provide no health hazard to students or staff at the school.

"The boiler at Amerman is completely isolated from the rest of the school," he said. "I have every confidence that there is no safety problem at all."

Bell said the removal of the boiler would be funded through proceeds of the 1989 bond issue.

Inmates as counselors

dous hunger," she said. "The guys are wanting something different when they get out."

Though encouraged, Maloney said it will not be easy for the inmates at Scott to gain employment as substance-abuse counselors.

"You have to follow through and get an education," he said. "They would go in at entry level — minimum wage — and have to work at it."

"If two of these guys made it into the field, it would be fantastic," he said. "If four or five more end up as volunteers, then we've made an impact."

Maloney cited one of his prize pupils as an example of the Scott educational program at work. He said 34-year-old Ken, an inmate who came from the inner city, would be an excellent counselor.

"Ken got a 95 percent on his (pre) test average," he said. "If he were to go into the field he would be very successful."

School renovation

"Contractors could take advantage of us (school district)," he said. "No one will take advantage of Barton-Malow."

"Their experience will serve us well," he added. "They will free up the school administration to run the schools."

Board Member James Petrie agreed with Bell.

"It's a very wise use of our revenues, to let (Barton-Malow) handle the management," he said.

In addition to the lump sum fee of $300,000, the district will make monthly payments of $9,375 starting in February 1990.

Barton-Malow's duties will include evaluating the renovation program and project budget requirements.

Our Opinions

Landfill is out of place in Holloway mining site

Sometimes what goes on in a neighboring community is as much a concern as the things happening in our own. Discussion in Novi has centered recently on a proposal by the Holloway Construction Co. to build a construction-waste landfill on land just north of Eight Mile Road in Novi.

The proposal has a direct effect on many Northville residents who live in the area, and has received a great deal of attention in this community as well as in Novi.

As an abstract concept, the idea of a construction-waste landfill in the area makes a good deal of sense. As a real-life, up-for-approval proposal, however, it does not make sense in southwestern Novi.

The part that makes sense concerns the overall solid-waste crisis about which we hear so much: costs to dump trash in type II landfills, for most trash, are climbing.

Waste generated by construction — things like tree stumps and broken concrete — may be separated out, according to the conventional wisdom. Such waste can go into less-protected, less-expensive landfills, called type III, specifically for construction waste. That can save some money.

All that is probably true. But just because a type III landfill is less odious than a type II landfill does not mean it can be sited just anywhere.

The Holloway Construction Co. expects to finish gravel mining at its Eight Mile/Garfield Road site in about a year. After that, the company hopes to use the giant pit as a type III landfill.

The Oakland county solid-waste committee is recommending approval of the idea by including the Holloway landfill on the latest draft of the county's trash management plan. The county plan is up for a public hearing in Pontiac tonight, March 1. That hearing is sure to hear objections to the Holloway plan. Points of opposition may include:

- The neighborhood. The site under consideration is directly across the street from Maybury State Park. Compared to the rest of the state park system, Maybury is tiny and does not support the diversity of wildlife found in some other state facilities.

It is also the only state park in Michigan's largest county. As such, it deserves all the special attention and consideration it can get. Putting a construction-waste landfill across the street for 10 years will only make it less attractive to potential visitors and less likely to provide a good home to animals and plants.

- The zoning. The land is zoned for residential use, plain and simple. The gravel-mining operation is what is known in municipal circles as a "non-conforming land use." The general idea behind city planning is to move toward eliminating such situations, but this proposal would continue one — a big one — for 10 years.

In addition, all the surrounding area is zoned for residential use. The landfill would be extremely out of place.

- The health risks. Although supporters of construction-waste landfills like to portray them as completely inert and not threatening to the public health, that's a debatable point at best. A DNR official told a reporter recently that there may, indeed, be items put into type III landfills which could cause some contamination. Residents of the area get their drinking water from wells.

- The limitations of Holloway's long-term plan. After the landfill is full, the company would proceed with residential development on the site. But because of the landfill, the residences would have no basements — not the most marketable of situations.

- The alternatives for the site. We look a couple of short miles to the south, in Northville Township, and we see plans for old Holloway gravel pits to become lakes surrounded by homes. We wonder if this couldn't happen in Novi as well.

- The good-neighbor policy. Neighboring public officials and residents are adamantly opposed to this plan because of the detrimental impact they see on their communities, particularly Northville Township. City support of this landfill could do grievous harm to relations with neighbors.

This is not an exhaustive list, but it's a good start. Residents and public officials are right on target in their opposition. Everyone concerned needs to actively oppose the plan. The Holloway landfill is not in the area's best interests.

Church's actions shine

While we toil through our workdays with visions of eventual riches, a local church is turning its gaze towards a section of the population more often ignored than seen — the homeless.

It's easy to turn away from the face in the gutter, the man lying in the alley, the woman and children living in a cold, abandoned home.

It's easy to ignore the homeless because we believe that people can make anything of themselves that they want, that a man can pull himself up by his bootstraps, that a woman can better herself if she works hard enough. We want to believe that hard work and perseverance pay off.

Well, hard work and perseverance don't always pay off. The hard truth is that many of the homeless are there through no fault of their own, and remain trapped in their position for a variety of reasons.

Few of the homeless are there because they want to be. The vast majority have held jobs at one time or another, and many have been left without a place to live through unfair evictions, fires, or disputes with other tenants or family members. Some are fleeing physical or sexual abuse.

Neither are all the street people "drifters," "vagrants" or "bums." The fastest-growing segments of the homeless are women and children. In fact, some estimate that as many as one-third of Detroit's homeless population are women.

The easy part is to ignore the homeless. The hard part is to look closely, see the grime and still recognize the human being underneath. Yet the parishioners at Our Lady of Victory plan to do just that next week — provide a place to spend the night for people who are often forced to sleep on a steam grate or in a doorway because others continue to turn their backs.

Our Lady of Victory is taking part in a program started by a Detroit day shelter for the homeless, to give these people, these fellow human beings, a respite from the streets. The program speaks to the best part of humanity, in that we can see the worst-off section of our population, and reach out to help.

Our Lady of Victory Church is also making an important point to those of us living in the suburbs, away from the sights of most of the homeless each night. The world is a big place, reaching beyond Northville — and we're all responsible for it.

Time warp

By Ann Willis

I pulled into the parking lot at Vic Tanny the other day and was stuck behind three cars. The two cars ahead of me were waiting behind a woman in a big blue car who was waiting for someone to pull out of a space near the front of the lot. Finally the car pulled out, the blue car pulled in and the woman grabbed her Nike shoulder bag and strode purposefully toward the gym. That's when I started thinking about time and how we use it.

This woman was obviously in a hurry. She needed that close-in space so she could quickly rush out of her car and get inside to exercise. The thought of walking from the rear of the lot into the fitness center probably didn't appeal to her. Explaining to her that the walk would have been considered "exercise" of a sort would not have been the polite thing to do, I figured.

I thought about this again when I read Leslie Pereira's article on StairMaster exercise machines. It's on page 10D. Leslie talked to people at Vic Tanny who are crazy for these new machines. I don't know much about them because the line is always so long in front of them that I've never tried them. Anything that is that popular I tend to be wary of. I search for the cast-off machines that were "in" last month.

Leslie interviewed people who said they have waited up to an hour to use these machines. The people who sell these marvelous pieces of equipment say they are so great because they offer a complete workout in only 15 minutes.

I can't figure it out. We're so busy we can't exercise.

But we have to exercise so we invent machines to give us a complete workout in 15 minutes. Then we wait in line for an hour to use it. Time, and how we use it, is a puzzle to me.

I live close to a grocery store. By close I mean the store is within a few blocks. But I never walk to the store. I just never think about it. When I lived in Chicago I always walked to the grocery store. I have outrageously long arms and I owe it all to trying to carry three bags full of canned soup home from the store. Now I get grumpy if I have to park more than a block from the office.

Last month I did something for old times' sake. I needed some milk and bread so I walked to the store. It wasn't a bad walk. In fact, it was kind of pleasant. But I started to get a little jumpy in the checkout line. This was all taking so long, and I still had to walk home. By the time I got home I was downright angry. I had wasted all that time. If I had driven to the store the whole errand would have taken 10 minutes, tops. The walk had cost me probably an hour. I couldn't believe what I had done.

After I had put away the groceries I sat down. And it came to me. Yeah, I would have saved all that time — time I could have put to such good use. Like waiting in line to exercise.

Maybe slowing down isn't such a bad idea. It might just gain me some time.

This time with feeling

Weather woes

By Bob Needham

They say everybody talks about the weather but nobody does anything about it. If you ask me, it's time for some action. The elements have been having fun at my expense for the last several months, and I'm pretty darn tired of it.

I've lived in the Detroit area all my life. I know about winters here. In fact, I've never even been on a winter vacation. Every time there has been a winter storm, I've been here to experience the fun.

But this winter is the first one I've felt was really nasty, really mean-spirited. This winter is out to get me.

I'm not sure when it all started. December, I guess, the second-coldest December in recorded history, or whatever the heck it was.

Cold doesn't bother me too much. You live in Michigan, you get cold. I can deal with cold.

My car, however, is a native of Korea. (Silly me! When I bought a Pontiac, I thought I was buying American.) My car was not ready for the second-coldest December in recorded history. And one brisk Friday morning, I turned the key and my car just said, "Sorry. Not today. I'm hibernating."

It eventually started again, three days later, with the magic touch of my dad. But then there was a repeat performance in early February. This time starting was harder; even Dad was stumped. We tried everything. You don't know embarrassing until you've spent some time blow-drying your car engine in front of the neighbors.

But it hasn't always been cold. Oh, no. Parts of this winter have also been among the wettest ever seen. One evening, while I peacefully slept, the rains came. Not only did they come, they sat down, put their feet up on the table and decided to stay awhile.

Of course my car was parked on dirt. Of course by morning the wheels were sunk in three inches of mud. And of course I had to be at the printing plant in Howell, like, now.

The details are too ugly to recount in a family newspaper. Let me just say that with the invaluable aid of my fiancée, Dawn, the car finally got moving in an explosion of mud, the vast bulk of which landed squarely on me.

But you get the idea. I've had it; the white flag is up. Winter has beaten me. I know the worst is probably over. But if we get one more storm, I'm not leaving my apartment until May.

Readers Speak

Reader to residents — shovel it!

To the Editor:

This is a response to the story on page one of your paper dated Feb. 22, 1990 entitled "City Snafed by Police Actions." There is a very simple solution to Ms. Shirley Maloney and others' "problem" regarding snow and ice on sidewalks and police tickets. Clean your snow and ice off the sidewalks.

It really is not that difficult for most people, and if you have an elderly or disabled neighbor — go clean that sidewalk. This ordinance has been well-publicized each year. The Northville Police Department does not pounce upon the citizenry at the 25th hour. People should have more consideration for their neighbors, the mail delivery people and people out trying to take a walk. I can gather no sympathy for anyone that was ticketed and the fact that she/he got a ticket and someone else did not has no bearing on it. I get pretty aggravated by inconsiderate motorists that park over the sidewalk and force people into the busy street, but that is another subject.

Cost of living up

To the Editor:

Guess what, folks? It's that time of the year again! Reach into your pocketbooks — no, your savings account — but dig deeper this time. Your 1989 assessment on your home and property is up significantly once again (in our case 17.19 percent). That's at least four years in a row of large, double-digit increases totaling somewhere between 50 to 65 percent increases in our property values, which, as we know, translates into taxes. Now let me ask, has the value of your home really gone up that much? The answer is a flat-out NO. In fact in the last year or so, we've seen a "softening" in the housing market and our homes are worth about the same or very little more than a year ago, and some less.

Last year, when I spoke out about such "unjustified increases," one of our township officials took the time to apprise me of "the system," and I must admit I came away almost convinced it is right, honest and fair. However, later, in looking through our community's tax rolls, I was not so surprised to learn that some individuals "closer to these assessments" for some reason realized substantially lower increases than most of us.

Once again I plan to appeal our increase and I strongly urge all property owners in our township to do the same. Like my previous (three) appeals, I probably again will lose. And like previous years, a few "certain people" will not be assessed equally or equitably compared to ours. I am not convinced our assessments are being administered justly and will be surprised if any of our property owners do and more surprised if 90 percent of us don't appeal our assessments. Maybe this year "fair and just" will win. But beyond this, we must assure that our taxes do not increase, by more than the cost-of-living index (approx. 4-5 percent) as guaranteed by law. Good luck to us all.

Deck debate

To the Editor:

This letter is in response to a letter to the editor in last week's paper titled, "Be Informed." In reply, I'd like to make a number of points that have to do with being informed on the current proposed parking deck.

A. It is a good thing others and myself cried "wolf" since the city and developers are taking a second look and agreeing that the current proposed deck may not be the best solution for the City of Northville.

B. The current proposed deck is set next to a residential neighborhood and to be lit up 24 hours a day. How would you like this outside your door?

C. The Cady Street location where the present (soon to be demolished) deck exists obviously offers a better location for the deck since it will be surrounded, less visible and centrally located within the town for more frequent use as Cady street is developed. This makes it more comparable to Laurel Park as was stated as a good solution in last week's letter.

D. Yes, TV-monitored parking decks may be safer than unmonitored, open parking lots. In the case of it being located in a high-crime area.

E. Yes, Northville is a difficult place to park at Christmas time, but so is Twelve Oaks Mall. Should Twelve Oaks surround their stores with parking decks?

F. I frequently make trips at all times of the day into Northville, and rarely have a parking problem.

G. Yes, Plymouth still has parking problems even though they have a parking deck. A deck just can't service the whole downtown. As you'll notice, Plymouth's ONE-LEVEL parking deck is concealed by buildings surrounding it.

H. Northville does have some room to grow, but yes, we are responsible for controlling its growth and maintaining a scale that fits with our town.

I. The current parking demands are overrated. The city recently had a parking study done which showed Northville would have a slight surplus with some minor restriping changes. And that's a fact, as a result of the 1988 Downtown Phase II Study.

J. The current proposed deck could cost $5 million to $6 million. Will we recoup this enormous cost from our commercial tax base with the present proposed deck design/location? NO WAY!

Again, we should study other small towns, such as Charlevoix, that demonstrate that traffic and parking problems do exist, but it is obvious that people still flock to the charm of these cities and fortunately that towns like ours do not compromise quality for quantity.

The next city council meeting is March 5, and the review of alternatives may be on this meeting's agenda (call the city to be sure); if so, I hope to see us concerned residents there!

John Kaloustian

To the Editor:

Northville had one of the nicest-looking parking structures designed for Center Street; unfortunately, I don't think it belongs there. It seems completely out of scale to the residential area it would dwarf.

To me, the main elements that make Northville unique and charming is proportion and scale. Our Main Street business strip survived the time war that turned areas like it throughout the states into battlefronts for the rights to the largest, flashiest sign directing you into fast food, used car lot U.S.A. Northville neighborhoods maintained their turn-of-the-century scale probably because there were no major roads bisecting it and bringing in new money.

During the '60s, a group of merchants gathered to try tapping into this new money. They finally "succeeded" in the early '70s by destroying a few blocks of old dwellings to bring everyone the Northville Mall, now MAGS. This was the town's lesson number one in scale. If only someone cried "wolf" as the wreckers cleared the site, we might not have had to listen to the constant chant, "White elephant." The influx of happy shoppers never materialized, even with the abundance of parking.

In my nearly 20 years as a resident, I have only had a problem parking on a few special activity days. Is a structure of this magnitude necessary especially where it would be the dominant element on a major approach to the city? Laurel Park has a good example of a proportional parking structure completely concealed within a planned shopping area. It services a major mall and high-rise office complex.

We may be committed to furnish covered parking for the new apartment residences; let's make sure that what we design and where we place it makes it an element in scale to the community. It may be worth the extra effort and cost to find a solution that's in unity with the surroundings not something as a quick solution and cover up for past mistakes.

Mental health

To the Editor:

We need people to care — people who can translate that care into action on behalf of the mental health and well-being of all Michigan residents.

In the past month, two prominent elected officials ended their own lives: former state Rep. Dennis Dutko, an admitted alcoholic who recently served 7½ months in jail for drunken driving, and Longworth Quinn, chief judge of the 36th District Court in Detroit. In Michigan, 1,100 people ended their lives last year by their own deeds.

Broadcasters and writers have given the stories a few minutes on newscasts, a few column inches of newsprint. But what does society do? Where is the community indignation that here in Michigan as many as 1 in 10 people suffers from depression, manic depression or schizophrenia at some time in his or her life, and some of these persons will feel so hopeless and rejected that they will snuff out their own lives? Until we make it acceptable and a sign of strength to reach out for help, we are doomed to have lives wasted or ended.

Governor James Blanchard and the Legislature realize the importance of mental health and have helped rebuild and invest in our system of care, which was devastated by the recession of the early '80s. Do we need more resources? Of course.

I hope business, labor, media, sports, religious and civil leaders of this state will take notice and care enough to get involved. We need people of influence to speak out and support mental health all year long — not just when tragedy hits.

Robin's slighted

To the Editor:

It's disappointing that the recent reader poll regarding eating places did not even give honorable mention to Robin's Cloverdale Cafe for breakfast, lunch or dessert. We regularly have breakfasts and sometimes lunches at Robin's. Not only are the meals reasonably priced, but they are "Heart Smart" not to mention the enjoyable atmosphere. People don't know what they are missing if they haven't tried Robin's Cloverdale Cafe on 134 N. Center in Northville.

Richard Schwaller

To the Editor:

I have read about the intent that the Northville Township trustees have expressed over the past year in evaluating library facilities for the current and future needs of township residents. It initially appeared to me that there was a serious attempt to coordinate the needs of the city together with the township. As a result of the potential donation of the Haller property to the township, the trustees have apparently discarded any attempt there might have been to move on the subject in an open, orderly and comprehensive fashion. By way of their decision to agree to the conditions of the Haller donation, the trustees have:

1. Accepted a mandatory size for the library without substantive evidence or evaluation that the township residents want or need such a facility. The current library was indicated to be approximately 6,000 square feet. The proposed facility is almost 45,000 square feet. Is there really any surprise that there is a growing concern whether we need or can afford such a facility?

2. Made a commitment with an architectural/engineering firm that will cost the township almost $100,000 even before the residents have a chance to be heard from in a publicized, open meeting or at the ballot box. Notice of the trustees' evaluation of this contract was only made in the Northville Record on the day of the meeting; can anyone be surprised that there were not any residents at the meeting with only hours notice?

3. Continued to be unable to complete an agreement with the City of Northville on a joint-services agreement that would document each municipality's obligations for both the construction and operating cost. The absence of such agreement eliminates any certainty as to how the project would be funded and the method used to fund substantially higher operating costs.

4. Only recently disclosed that preliminary plans call for almost one-half of the facility to be used for non-library purposes (trustee meeting rooms, a 500-seat auditorium, etc.). Is the facility being sold accurately as a library when in fact approximately 50 percent of the space is not planned for library usage?

Trustees indicated at a recent meeting called for supporters of the project that they estimated that the millage proposal would require approximately one mill for the construction debt and one mill for operating costs. Compared to a township resident who is currently paying $50 a year for library services, the estimated new millage would cost the same resident over $200 in the future or a four-fold increase! In the period of 1986-1989, the total amount of taxes I paid as a resident for township services, police and fire increased by 80 percent. I do not believe that the residents of Northville Township, or the City of Northville for that matter, should be expected to endorse or support the library proposal until a comprehensive and accurate summary is completed for evaluation by the taxpayers. Based on recent voter turnout, maybe the trustees are confident that the apathy is indeed widespread and that only a few should and will make the final decisions.

Sincerely,
John P. O'Reilly

Red Ribbon Week comes to Northville

This is another in the continuing series of columns by Northville Public Schools' Student Assistance Program Coordinator Charlie Stilec.

Drug Enforcement Agent Enrique Camerena was murdered in 1985, which resulted in a Red Ribbon Campaign at his former high school.

The Red Ribbon signified a stop to the crime and violence from the use of drugs. Wearing and displaying the red ribbon provides a way for each person to demonstrate a visible and unified commitment toward the creation of a drug-free America. During this time the slogan "The Choice for Me is Drug Free" will lead the way for continued prevention and education programs in our community.

What started as a community-wide Red Ribbon Campaign right here in Northville in 1988 took root and became a National Red Ribbon campaign a year later.

As American citizens we have the following rights:

- To live in drug-free families
- To live in drug-free communities
- To learn in drug-free schools
- To work in drug-free workplaces
- To drive on drug-free highways

The goal of Red Ribbon Week is to establish a network of people in our community to plan Red Ribbon Week awareness programs and activities. This mobilization will lead to continuing education and action. The solution to the alcohol and other drug problems is not just awareness but action. Awareness is the bridge leading to action.

We in Northville are aware! Almost everyone has seen the Red Ribbons and many have supported the activities in their homes, schools and cities. This Red Ribbon is the symbol of the commitment to live a drug-free healthy lifestyle.

During the week of March 4-10, the following activities are planned. This list is only a partial one as many schools and families and businesses are planning their own activities as well.

• Sunday, March 4 — Placing the Red Ribbons throughout Northville by SADD students and community members. All are welcome to join us at 1 p.m. at the gazebo in town. The more the merrier.

• Monday, March 5 — Northville Action Council presents "Red Ribbon Week Kick-off" dinner at Genetti's Hole-in-the-Wall restaurant at 6:30 p.m. A $25 donation is asked. Tickets are available through Jan Paver at 349-7404 or Roxanne Casterline at 349-1237 or at Genetti's. The guest speaker will be Col. R.M. Atchison from Washington D.C. He is part of the military drug intervention program. All money raised will go toward the $14,000 Red Ribbon Week T-shirt project.

• Tuesday, March 6 — "The Choice for Me Drug Free" T-shirt day.

• Wednesday, March 7 — L.A. Stewart Presentations will perform and coordinate a dynamic self-esteem raising day at Northville High School. The nationally known motivational public speaker Laurie Stewart will be addressing the entire community from 7-8:30 p.m. in the Northville High School Auditorium. The program is free.

• March 4-10 — The entire week will see many unique and positive signs of awareness and action within our community. Red Ribbons are being made and distributed by PTAs, Northville Action Council members, the SADD Chapter and concerned persons.

For further information contact the Student Assistance Program at 344-1825.

Local bakery blooms from dessert cart

By PATRICK KEATING

The Country Epicure restaurant at 42050 Grand River in Novi has a pleasant secret hidden within its walls — a bake shop.

Until a recent television profile, the Country Epicure's bake shop was apparently a little known secret. In fact, the shop has been around for some time.

Pastry chef Michele Peppo explains how the bake shop came to be. "We were doing pastries for the restaurant, and people liked them. . . We made a cake order sheet that people could select from."

According to Peppo, since they were making their own desserts, "When we remodeled, we just put in a bake shop."

According to Peppo, the remodeling occurred in 1985, soon after the restaurant opened. Once sitting some 150 people, it now sits about 350.

Peppo, who graduated from the Culinary Institute of America in 1984, once studied with former White House pastry chef Cumin at the International Pastry Art Center in Bedford Hills, N.Y. There, she took classes in chocolate and dough. Her first job was assistant pastry chef at the Van Dyke Place in Detroit.

Her assistant, Sue Stefanko, worked at the Appetizer for a little over two years before coming to the Country Epicure about two years ago.

Unlike Peppo, Stefanko didn't have any formal education in the art of pastry making. "She basically taught me everything I know," Stefanko said of Peppo. "I didn't go to school for any of this."

The bake shop is not a separate shop in the sense that there is a

How much insurance is enough?

Money Management

Chicago, if you were in the life insurance business, chances are you have been advised that you need to determine your annual income and the amount of life insurance you need.

But this doesn't work to the advantage of the fact it never did. The Association of CPAs has been the problem with this. It's that with most attempts to apply the formula to totally different situations.

Everyone needs life insurance. A bachelor with no income is earning $40,000 a year. A single man with no income but has a wife and children would certainly need to provide for his family.

Insurance is designed to protect you from the possibility of depending on the earnings of one person. So, if you are a breadwinner in your family, you are now supporting your earnings — be it your children or your parents — would have to be the proceeds of your life insurance.

Insurance should be designed to preserve your family's standard of living. Sound insurance is not. To determine how much you need, you must consider your personal liabilities, as well as your unique circumstances and needs.

There is no way to come up with a correct figure. At the end of the day, you must arrive at a close approximation of insurance planning.

suggests that your policies should be large enough to cover your family's economic needs if you were to die tomorrow. Today, most advisors suggest an in-depth analysis of your family's circumstances as being the best way to assess your insurance needs. The steps below can help you get started.

Before you begin calculating what your current and future financial needs and resources are, CPAs suggest that you divide the years ahead into several different phases related to specific events or circumstances in your family's life. For example, you may want to divide the years to correspond with stages in your child's life: birth, adolescence, college years, marriage and birth of grandchildren.

Alternately, you can base the groupings on changes in your survivors' eligibility for Social Security benefits. For instance, a widow with surviving children is entitled to a monthly payment until the last child turns 16 (if she works, the benefit may be reduced or limited depending on her income).

Social Security also provides a monthly payment for each child under 18 (or 19, if the child is still in high school). Keep in mind that from the day your children turn 19 until the day the surviving spouse retires, there are no Social Security payments.

After you have divided the future into distinct phases, you can begin estimating how much annual income your survivors would need during each of the time periods you have mapped out. As a basic guideline, aim to provide your family with at least 75 percent of your annual take-home pay.

Next, review your family's income-producing assets (such as cash, CDs and securities) and determine the approximate annual income you can reasonably expect to generate from these assets. Add in Social Security benefits for your spouse and children, plus your surviving spouse's salary and any miscellaneous items — such as rental income.

For each stage of your family's life, list the annual amount of income your family will need. In another column, list the annual after-tax income you expect your assets to generate over the coming years. From the total amount that your family needs, subtract the total amount of expected income. The difference between these two figures represents the gap you need to fill with life insurance.

At this point, there are two final adjustments you may need to make. First, you should subtract any insurance you may already have — such as a group policy from work and/or any employer-sponsored pension or profit-sharing plan that is payable upon death. On the plus side, you might want to add an additional sum for any "big-ticket" extras that you did not provide for when you determined your annual needs (such as paying off your mortgage or another large debt, or paying for children's college education).

The resulting figure shows how much life insurance you require to close the gap between the amount of money your survivors will need and the amount they will have available from other financial sources. You're likely to be astonished at just how high this figure is.

CPAs point out that you may be able to obtain the desired amount of protection while purchasing a somewhat smaller amount of life insurance than the above formula indicates. The reason for this is that the standard formula does not take into account the fact that your survivors will probably invest and earn substantial interest on the proceeds from your life insurance policy. Unfortunately, it is no easy task to estimate how much interest may ultimately affect your family's insurance needs.

Determining the amount of insurance you need is a complicated, but very necessary exercise. And because your family circumstances change over the years, CPAs suggest that it's the kind of exercise you should reassess on a regular basis.

Future cars drive creativity down the road of technology

Of the near future, video systems and warning systems attached to on-board computers will provide such travel as optimum routes, road conditions and the accommodations and gas.

A grant from the Department of Transportation, Michigan researchers will develop systems that will be available to the driver.

The combined with display technologies that will appear in the future, the driver's ability to react to the road.

Explained Paul J. Green, project director and senior scientist in the Division of the U-M Research Institute, "The on-board display only will be easy to use, relative, and doesn't detract from the driver's concentration on the road."

Green, funding of the project, the federal government about increasing profits, congestion, car accidents and pollution. "One piece of the problem is excess and waste in the system," he explained. "Part of the solution is to make drivers and the system intelligent and thus more efficient."

Others involved in the Intelligent Vehicle Systems (IVHS) initiative will collect human performance data on volunteers both in driving simulators and in on-the-road tests.

According to Green, the group's first task is to identify the types of information systems likely to appear in cars of the future. He and fellow researchers in the project "welcome suggestions from the industry as to what types of information might be presented, so that the tests evaluate features that drivers are likely to encounter in future vehicles."

After preliminary surveys to determine effective wording for warning messages and control labels, the researchers will install a control panel and information system in a driving simulator developed using rapid prototyping methods popular in the computer industry.

Subjects, ranging in age from 18 to over 60, will be evaluated on driving performance and use of the information system. Sensors will monitor accuracy of steering, how quickly drivers activate the brake pedal in response to hazards and how often their eyes leave the road.

In a subsequent on-the-road test, volunteers will be blindfolded and driven to an unfamiliar location. They then will be asked to find their way to a second unfamiliar location using the on-board computer navigation system.

In a final phase of the study, professional drivers on a test track will be asked to test sophisticated information systems by performing many travel information tasks simultaneously.

While driving at speeds of 60 mph or more, for example, a driver will be required to take a telephone call, receive instructions from a video monitor and swerve around crash dummies placed on the track at strategic locations.

In addition to developing a prototype of an effective information system, Green notes that the project will generate a computer evaluation model to test how much information a driver can absorb and how readily.

"By developing a computer evaluation program, you overcome the problem of having to have a final working model of the system before you can test it. With a computer model, you can look at many proposed systems before they're so far along in the design process that they can't be changed."

Also to be developed for the government are design guidelines and evaluation procedures that will shape future industry practice.

Bolt Beranek and Newman Inc. (BBN), a diversified high-technology firm in Cambridge, Mass., will develop the computer simulation model for U-M researchers. According to Richard Pew, project leader at BBN, the model will be the first to consider both driver steering control and the procedures for using in-vehicle information systems simultaneously. Brand Consulting of Group of Southfield, will conduct focus group research for the project.

Green expects preliminary results from the project as early as fall 1990.

Winter house sales need help

Probably the most challenging time of year for real estate is the winter months. With the gray skies and busy holidays tend to keep buyers indoors and away from their future homes.

Jim Corey, state director of Century 21 Michigan, says home sellers can take a few steps to increase the desirability of their homes in winter.

As home sales slow down in the winter months, no way suggests it is impossible to get a home sold, Corey said. If you plan ahead and do a few things to present your house in the best light, you'll make a bigger impact on potential buyers and sell your home quicker.

Here are some easy tips for preparing your home for the winter.

1. Make sure your furnace is in good condition and the temperature to keep the house comfortable.

2. Have your driveway shoveled and ice cleared from all areas.

3. Remove frozen leaves and other debris from your lawn.

gutters to avoid flooding and cracking. While icicles may look pretty, they're not a good sign.

□ Don't overload the interior or exterior of the house with holiday decorations — let buyers see your home in its natural state.

□ If you have a fireplace, keep a fire burning. Homes are much cozier and warmer this way.

□ Make sure the basement is dry. Seal any drafts and shut windows tightly. Cover exposed pipes so they don't freeze.

Tidy the garage and keep it clean. Winter floors are notorious for dirty snow, salt and mud.

□ Open curtains to allow as much light into the house as possible, and make sure each room is well lit. You don't want the house to look gloomy when the sky does.

Display photographs of your home in the spring and summer that emphasize the landscaping, flower garden, vegetable garden and surrounding foliage.

Make sure you have adequate humidity to prevent dry air and static electricity.

Century 21 real estate in Michigan is part of the Century 21 Great Lakes region, including western Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Michigan and Ohio.

Bake shop offers 'Epicure' desserts

From 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., you can peruse. However, the menu of desserts available is much more than just a dessert tray for the occasion.

Peppo said, "That's our specialty. We have a variety of desserts, a chocolate cake, always on the menu."

Peppo recommends the Pecan Pie, Tort and the Dove Flan.

There are basically three other types of desserts that go on the menu.

Peppo said, "We try to change them daily."

For Peppo and Stefanko, work starts at 6 a.m. and goes to noon or 4 p.m., depending on business.

Sometimes they work until 6 p.m. All pastries are made the day before being placed on the menu.

All of the desserts at the Country Epicure's bake shop are made with real butter, the heaviest whipping cream and the finest chocolate. Many have writing available to commemorate any occasion.

The bake shop, which gets more business in the summer, hasn't done too badly these past few weeks. Over $535 worth of lunch and dinner desserts were sold on Valentine's day. And recently, the day after being profiled on T.V., the shop set a record for business.

Peppo and Stefanko would like to open their own bake shop one day, perhaps in 10 years or so. Meanwhile, they feel they are in a good location now. With new businesses opening up and new houses being built in the area, they feel business will be good.

BUSINESS OPPORTUNITY

BRIGHTON RECREATION AREA

The Department of Natural Resources is seeking a qualified operator for the beach concessions of Bishop Lake and Chilton Pond in the Brighton Recreation Area. This 4,913 acre recreation area is located approximately 20 miles west of the Detroit Metropolitan area just south of I-96 and west of US-24. The park features 250 campsites, two large beach/picnic areas, rustic cabins, a riding stable and nature trails. Many large groups enjoy picnic outings at this park.

The Bishop Lake unit is the more popular of the two beaches. The concession building is a 1,114 square foot masonry structure with inside serving area. Boats, canoes and paddleboats are rented from this building.

The Chilton unit is very popular with large groups because of its open expanse and picnic shelters. The facility is a 406 square foot masonry structure. A limited number of boats, canoes and paddleboats are rented from Chilton Pond.

Services to be provided are negotiable and the season from mid May to mid-September.

For further information, please contact the Park Manager of the Brighton Recreation Area Monday through Friday at 1-313-229-6566.

Learning home-building terms can help find 'perfect' house

Older homes offer interesting and picturesque cornices like those displayed here

Are you looking for a new "old home" or a brand new house and don't really understand what the realtor is talking about when he or she mentions things like cornices, balustrades, bearing walls, braces, bridging, cavity walls, chamfered edges and collar beams?

You are certainly not alone in your puzzlement. As spring draws nearer and soft breezes beckon, more and more couples will be searching the advertisements for the "perfect" home for them and their families. However, when it comes to being knowledgeable about home construction terms they may feel less than adequately informed.

Anyone who would like to be enlightened in this area may send to the General Services Administration, Consumer Information Center (XC), Washington, DC 20405 for a copy of the "Homeowner's Glossary of Building Terms." Enclose $1 for your copy.

The 13-page booklet briefly defines basic construction, repair and maintenance terms used by builders and realtors. The alphabetized listing provides a quick reference for homeowners who are unfamiliar with building terminology.

Under the term "cornice," the reader will find a simplified definition which states "horizontal projection at the top of a wall or under the overhanging part of the roof."

Anyone who has ever enjoyed viewing a street of older homes will tell you most cornices are a lot fancier and more attractive than this makes them sound. Cornices not only add beauty to many older homes, they sometimes provide clues as to when the houses were built and what the prevailing style of architecture was at that time.

Cornices are constructed of layers of different styles of molding which ornamented everything from the tops of windows to the porches and roof peaks.

The more curlicues they have, the more attractive they are and the tougher they are to keep in good repair, especially at painting time.

Unfortunately, due to difficulties with maintenance, many cornices are disappearing from buildings and less complicated forms of decoration are taking their place.

But cornices are not the only things described in the "Homeowner's Glossary of Building Terms." Whether you are contemplating buying a new home or purchasing an historic one, a knowledge of building terms comes in handy.

Test yourself on these, many of which have double meanings:

- Apron — the paved area, such as the juncture of a driveway with the street or with a garage entrance.
- Balusters — Upright supports of a balustrade rail.

• Balustrade — A row of balusters topped by a rail, edging a balcony or a staircase.

• Batten — small thin strips covering joints between wider boards on exterior building surfaces.

• Bearing wall — a wall that supports a floor or roof of a building.

• Bib or bibcock — a water faucet to which a hose may be attached, also called a hose bib or sill cock.

• Bleeding — seeping of resin or gum from lumber. This term is also used in referring to the process of drawing air from water pipes.

• Brace — a piece of wood or other material used to form a triangle and stiffen some part of a structure.

• Bridging — small wood or metal pieces placed diagonally between floor joists.

• Butt joint — Joining point of two pieces of wood or molding.

• Cantilever — a projecting beam or joist, not supported at one end, used to support an extension of a structure.

• Carriage — the member which supports the steps or treads of a stair.

• Cavity wall — a hollow wall formed by firmly linked masonry walls, providing an insulating air space between.

• Chair rail — wooden molding on a wall around a room at the level of a chair back.

• Chamfered edge — molding with beveled corners.

• Chase — a groove in a masonry wall or through a floor to accommodate pipes or ducts.

• Chimney breast — the horizontal projection of a chimney from the wall in which it is built.

• Cistern — a tank to catch and store rain water.

• Collar beam — a horizontal beam fastened above the lower ends of rafters to add rigidity.

• Cripples — cut-off framing members above and below windows.

• Door buck — the rough frame of a door.

• Efflorescence — white powder that forms on the surface of brick.

• Fascia — a flat horizontal member of a cornice placed in a vertical position.

• Furring — thin wood, or metal applied to a wall to level the surface for lathing, boarding, or plastering, to create an insulating air space, and to dampproof the wall.

• Gambrel roof — a roof with two pitches, designed to provide more space on upper floors. The roof is steeper on its lower slope and flatter toward the ridge.

• Gusset — a brace or bracket used to strengthen a structure.

• Heel — the end of a rafter that rests on the wall plate.

• Jalousies — windows with movable, horizontal glass slats angled to admit ventilation and keep out rain. This term is also used for outside shutters of wood constructed in the same manner.

• Jamb — an upright surface that lines an opening for a door or window.

• King-post — the middle post of a truss.

• Lally column — a steel tube sometimes filled with concrete, used to support girders or other floor beams.

• Weep hole — a small hole in a wall which permits water to drain off.

Around the House: Designs for Living

WASHINGTON 2

19th century feel in design

By James McAlexander

A large wraparound covered front porch gives a feeling of 19th century comfort to the Washington 2.

The main floor is designed to be a busy place, with a living room to one side of the entry and large family room to the other.

At the back is a country kitchen with central island and attached pantry. In good weather, meals can be served on the rear deck accessible directly from the kitchen.

The dining area is indicated at the back of the living room mainly for the aesthetics of having the table by the fireplace and adjacent windows. However, some cooks may prefer to serve in the family room, which is closer to the kitchen.

A den/utility area in the back of the house provides a quiet work space or optional guest room. A bath tucked between the den and kitchen means that guests don't have to trek all the way upstairs to find the bathrooms on the second floor.

Extra space has been provided for in the two-car garage for shop area or storage. Do-it-yourselfers and home canners will find plenty of room for work bench, freezer, tools and supplies. This storage is in addition to the pantry, linen shelves and large hall closet.

The upstairs is entirely devoted to sleeping quarters. The master suite includes private bath with raised tub and walk-in closet. The two smaller bedrooms share a bath and vanity between them. The master suite and front bedroom both enjoy bay windows similar to the ones that brighten the living and family rooms.

For a study plan of the Washington 2 (228-02), send $5 to Landmark Designs, P.O. Box 2307 CN, Eugene, OR 97402. (Be sure to include plan name and number when ordering.)

Around the House Repairs

Clean and wax to enhance wood

By Gene Gary

Q: We recently moved into a house with wood parquet flooring in the family room. I believe it is hardwood, perhaps oak. Unfortunately, it looks dull and dingy.

I need to know how to revive this flooring to bring out the natural wood. Do you have any suggestions on cleaners and polishes that would be suitable?—J.V.

A: Frequent cleaning and a regular program of waxing are essential to maintaining and enhancing wood surfaces.

The most important thing to remember about cleaning wooden floors is to avoid using water or water-based products.

All wooden-floor waxes contain cleaning agents. The waxes are solvent-based, and solvents loosen the dirt and old wax layers. Thus, as you apply the new coating, dirt and old wax are picked up by the applicator.

For maximum cleaning power, wooden-floor wax should be applied with a soft cloth or with a wax applicator covered with a soft cloth. It is necessary to turn the cloth frequently, since dirt and old wax accumulate on the cloth. A wax applicator without a cloth will clog up quickly, minimizing the cleaning ability of the solvent-based wax.

There are three basic types of wax for wooden floors, each of which has certain advantages and drawbacks.

•Buffable paste waxes, for example, produce a deep, durable luster. With occasional buffing, the shine will last three or four months, sometimes longer, depending on the location of the floor and the traffic it receives.

The drawback, of course, is that paste waxes require buffing. This means owning or renting an electric floor polisher, or getting down on your hands and knees to buff the floor.

•Buffable liquid waxes, the second type, perform much like paste wax. They produce a pleasant gleam and can be touched up between waxings by buffing.

They are easier to apply but not quite as durable as paste wax.

•The third type of wax is a self-polishing cleaner-wax. Like buffable waxes, one-step products clean as they wax. The advantage is that they do not require hand or electric buffing.

The same ingredients that make these waxes self-polishing also make them incompatible with buffable waxes. Before using self-polishing liquid wax (for the first time), it is necessary to remove old layers of buffable wax.

This is not too difficult. First, clean the floor of dirt and dust. Then apply the self-polishing wax (for the first time), it is necessary to remove old layers of buffable wax.

This is not too difficult. First, clean the floor of dirt and dust. Then apply the self-polishing wax liberally to small areas at a time (the solvents in the wax dissolve the old layers). Before the wax has a chance to dry, wipe the floor clean. The old wax comes up in the cloth, and the floor is ready for a new coat.

When using a self-polishing wax, be sure to spread it evenly with a clean cloth or a wax applicator covered with cloth. Do not use a plastic sponge, mop or applicator.

Work small areas at a time, approximately four feet by four feet. Finish the job with straight, even strokes in one direction. Allow wax film to dry about 30 minutes before using the room.

All of these waxes are usually available at hardware stores or janitorial supply firms.

How to turn room into an efficiency

By Rose Bennett Gilbert

Q: Our 19-year-old son will be living with us during a protracted break in his college career—he is coming home to work while he decides what he really wants to do.

I would like to do over his room so it becomes a self-contained apartment, and any ideas will be appreciated.—L.S.M.

A: Treat his room as if it were an efficiency apartment, minus the kitchen.

Instead of a bed, I would use a sleep sofa with a cocktail table in front; lamps tailored for a living room; a desk, if there's space; and a couple of comfortable chairs for guests.

Your almost-grown son, accustomed as he is to living on his own, will appreciate a place to entertain his friends. The less roomy the decor, therefore, the better.

The photo we show here offers another idea worth appropriating: the wall-long storage unit that houses records and A/V equipment in a minimum of floor space.

The unit is easily home-built from inexpensive pine boards and plywood because it's wrapped in remnants from the carpeting that covers the floor, wall to wall (it's made of Anso V Worri-free nylon, which is anti-static as well as soil and stain-repellent).

Both you and your son will appreciate the acoustical benefits of so much carpeting, as well, especially when he cranks up the compact disc player.

Q: We are arguing over what color to paint the side porch on our late 19th century Victorian. The gingerbread and railings will be white like the rest of the house, and we have agreed to make the floor a bright green.

My husband insists that the porch ceiling must be blue—he says they're always blue, but he doesn't know why. Do you?—S.H.

A: Because the blue cuts down the glare and adds to the cooling qualities that made porches so important during pre-air-conditioning days.

Any dark color would perform the same service, as long as you stay on the cool side of the color wheel—purple, violet, blue-greens and the like.

Q: I have wonderful old glass-paned kitchen cabinets, which we worked very hard to strip to the original oak and refinish.

I don't have the nerve to tell my husband, but I hate looking in at all the canned goods and stuff.

The dishes aren't so bad, but still, I want to blur the view. How?—P.D.

A: Remember, many Victorian kitchens were built for the help, not the mistress of the household. It was businesslike and convenient for the cook and her assistants to be able to see the contents of the cabinets; hence, the popularity of glass fronts.

While your cabinets are vintage and charming, there are ways to cover the glass without actually removing it. Some ideas:

- Short curtains stretched on rods, either outside or in.
- Sponge-painting the glass (on the

This efficiency apartment features a storage unit wrapped in carpet to match the floor

•Spray painting through a dolly for a lacy effect.

•Spray-painting stripes on the glass—mask the panes on the diagonal with wide tape, spray, and peel off the tape.

Use water-base paint that can be more easily removed if you ever change your mind.

This tree died of a heart attack.

Carving hearts on trees seems harmless enough.

But the fact is, it cut short the life of this majestic oak.

By gouging into the bark, vandals crippled the tree's vascular system. So, like thousands of other innocent victims each year, the tree slowly died.

But the fight against vandalism is gathering strength from the example of Lynn Brauer and Carol Eichling.

When vandals girdled a 300 year old Chinquapin Oak near their Marthasville, Missouri home, they wrapped the wound in sphagnum moss and tended the tree daily, despite blizzard conditions.

If not for the severe winter, arborists feel the Chinquapin might have survived.

We believe miracles can take root. When people care enough.

Give a hoot.

Futons make any living room cozy, as John Heinlen and Mary Kay Ausum show; all the seating furniture in this room are futons

FUTONS

Story by Bob Needham

In the up position, the "A" frame futon is a chair
In the down position, the "A" frame futon is a bed

OTHERS ARE:

East meets west in the living room

"You sleep on a what?"

That may be a common reaction when someone mentions their futon. But as more people buy the things, more people become aware of them — and of the advantages they have over conventional beds.

To get the basics out of the way right up front. According to area futon store owners — yes, there are such things as futon stores — a futon is a sort of mattress which has been used in Japan and elsewhere for the last 4,000 years or so. The last 20 of those years have seen their popularity spread to the United States and, particularly in the last three or four years, to Michigan.

John Heinlen, co-owner of East/West Futons in Novi, said futons have been popular in the Chicago area for quite a while. "Michigan, being more suburbs, it's taken a little longer to catch on," he said.

The futon craze is now officially under way in southeast Michigan, however. Sandy Cadotte, owner of Dragon's Lair Futons in Ann Arbor, said her store has seen big changes since its 1984 opening.

"We took a big gamble. We thought we'd either sell a million or none," she said. Nowadays the store sells "a ton."

It's boom time for futons.

The futon has no springs of any kind. Cotton is the basic ingredient, but some contain wool, foam or down. The layers of fiber are bound up in white canvas to create a thick, foldable mat. Covers are available to go on top of this, fitting the futon in with any imaginable decorating scheme.

A futon can go right on the floor, but most often in this country people put them on wood frames. And here arises one of the biggest advantages of futons: most frames are adaptable to a couple of different uses. The usual arrangement is for the frame to be upright during the day, with the futon folded on it, serving as a couch. At night the frame folds out into a bed.

Of course, you may use a futon exclusively as a couch or bed; the futon can go on any type of slatted or platform-style bed frame. But the store owners said the flexibility is one of the most popular features of futons.

It is by no means the only advantage, however.

- Back support, which probably runs a close second to flexibility.
- "I like the firm support," said Mary Kay Ausum, the other co-owner of East/West Futons. "It's supposed to be good for the back."
- Cadotte goes further than that: she said she has actually seen people come into the store with prescriptions for futons. "They're starting to be recognized more by chiropractors and doctors for their benefits," she said.
- Price. You can take home a futon package — futon, cover and frame — for about $200 or $250. Most packages sell in the $300 to $600 range.
- If you're determined to do so, however, you can pay upwards of $1,000 for a package. And if you start adding accessory items — lamps, end tables, and the like, which are sold at some futon stores — the sky's the limit.
- The bottom line, however, is that you can probably buy a decent futon setup for less than the cheapest decent bed setup.
- Weight and portability. A full-size futon weighs less than a full-size bed and a lot less than a typical foldaway bed.
- Futons, when they're assembled, are easier to carry than beds. But the frames usually come apart — in only about a half-dozen pieces, so don't worry — making them even easier to transport. Cadotte said students especially appreciate this: "They'll fit in about any situation."
- Comfort. All three store owners said futons can be more comfortable than conventional beds. In addition, Ausum said, "The natural fibers keep you warm in the winter and cool in summer."
- Durability. With proper care — keeping it clean and dry, and occasionally fluffing and turning — there is no telling how long a futon can last.
- "There's nothing, really, to wear out. I've had futons come back that were 75 years old" — needing only a new cover, Cadotte said.
- Flexibility in decor. Most futon covers cost less than $100, and they can be replaced by simply unzipping the old one. "To decorate, that's very cheap. A cheap way to change your look," Ausum said. "They have tremendous versatility."

In spite of the growing futon market, many people still do not know about them. Heinlen said: "We have a lot of people who walk in who have no idea what a futon is." The Novi store's customers are suburbanites, many of them upscale.

Cadotte said her typical futon buyers are "usually naturally earthy-type people... a graduated hippie." She also said they seem to be more honest than the average consumer; she has received only six bad checks in six years of business.

Both stores, however, report drawing customers from all over, from Novi, Northville, South Lyon, Highland, Brighton, Howell, and Pinckney — and even out of state.

It seems futons can attract anyone. Heinlen and Ausum spoke of a man from Sri Lanka who came into their store.

"In my country, the poorer people sleep on futons," the man told them. "Myself, I prefer it."

Ms Kathleen Kemmerer Sutton and Mr Philip Harwick Power were married Saturday morning, Feb. 24, in St. Andrew's Episcopal Church in Ann Arbor.

Attending the family service were Ms Sutton's parents, Mr and Mrs Walter Kemmerer of Ocala, Fla and Mr Power's parents, Mr and Mrs Eugene B. Power of Ann Arbor.

Acting as best men for the couple were their sons, Scott T. Sutton and Nathan E. Power.

The double-ring ceremony was officiated by the Rev. Harvey Guthrie, Rector of St. Andrew's.

Mr. Power is the owner and chairman of Surburban Communications Corporation, whose subsidiaries include the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers in the Oakland and Wayne County suburbs, Sliger/Livingston Newspapers in Oakland, Wayne and Livingston counties and Community Newspapers in the suburbs of Lansing. He is also a regent of the University of Michigan and chair of the Michigan Job Training Coordinating Council.

Ms Sutton was the long-time administrative assistant in Mr Power's Ann Arbor office. She is a former member of the Vestry and currently treasurer at St. Andrew's.

St. Paul's sets auction

St. Paul's Lutheran Church and School is sponsoring its popular annual fundraiser — a major charity auction set for Friday, March 2 from 7-11 p.m.

Many of the stores and restaurants in and around Northville have contributed items to the auction. The St. Paul's Parent Teacher League sponsors the annual fundraiser for the school's general fund.

The purpose of the auction is to raise $10,000 for the general fund which is used for educational expenses, athletic programs, band and library items, to name a few areas.

The doors open for the auction at 7 p.m. The oral auction runs from 8-11 p.m. and the silent auction is from 7-10 p.m.

St. Paul's is located at 201 Elm Street in Northville. The Lutheran School is a tax-exempt, non-profit elementary school offering a high quality education in a Christian environment to 120 young people within the Northville and surrounding communities, including Novi, Livonia, Farmington, Plymouth and South Lyon.

NORTHVILLE HIGH SCHOOL

Northville High School can be proud of so many students and this month we want to start our congratulations with the music department. Northville Singers, Figurines and the following soloists received a No. 1 rating at the Vocal Solo and Ensemble Festival, sponsored by Michigan School Vocal Association: Susan Bickner, Melissa Petro, Jennifer Johnson, Margaret O'Doherty, Rob Foulkrod, Gwen Gabrys, David Garry and Angela Putnum.

The following band students participated in the MSBOA District Solo and Ensemble Festival and received a No. 1 rating: Karen Kepner, David Garry, Laura Scerbo, Bill McCulloch, Mike Harman, Chris Kie, Eric Black, Bryan Ball and Greg Garner.

Other departments also have stars this month. Maria Wen won second prize and Julie Howard third in Lawrence Tech's High School poetry competition.

John Szymanski was awarded a blue ribbon and certificate for his ink drawing in the Southeastern Scholastic Art Competition. Bill Tolstedt was awarded a gold key for his mixed-media entry. A blue ribbon award qualifies the entry for the national contest where scholarships and cash awards are given, so good luck John. Gold key is the next highest and a certificate assures the entry of being placed on exhibit at Summit Place Mall in Pontiac.

The NHS 1990 Yearbook "Paladium" has been selected by the Taylor Publishing Company to use as its sample yearbook. Bravos go to Pat Rossing and Cindy LaChance, yearbook sponsors, and to Maria Wen, yearbook editor, and her staff.

Activities abound in March at the high school. March 6 at 2:30 p.m. in the library meeting room, there will be an introductory meeting for the Girls' Golf Club. If you are unable to attend but are interested in joining, contact Sue Woodsum.

A big event for both students and parents will be the Laurie Stewart Presentation on March 7. There is a three hour assembly in the morning for the students and from 7-8:30 p.m. in the auditorium, parents will be able to hear this dynamic speaker address improving human relations, ability development, self esteem, and leadership. This Project Pride Day is sponsored by Northville Action Council with clubs and classes and is the highlight of SADD Red Ribbon Week which runs from March 4-10.

Parent/Teacher Conferences will be held on March 13, for names from A-K and on March 15, for names from L-Z. The conferences will be from 4-7 p.m. both days in the cafeteria and library. Please, hold your conferences to five minutes.

Beginning at 8 p.m. March 16, the Student Congress with support of clubs and classes at NHS, are sponsoring a Charity Ball. This marathon dance will end at 8 a.m. March 17. Students will be needing community pledges of $3 per hour to meet their quota of $36 for entry to the ball. All proceeds will go to two major charities: Northville Action Council and Alzheimer's Association.

March 22, 23, the Girls' Ensemble and Concert Choir will be participating in the District Choral Festival. This is a qualifying round for state competition, so good luck.

NHS is proud to bring the community another performance with dances and songs in the classic "West Side Story" on March 29, 30, 31 at 8 p.m. and Sunday, April 1 at 3 p.m. Mr. Nick Beasanski is again directing and the cast is headed by performers Jennifer Johnson, John Norman, Nicole Ebert and Tim Kerns. Tickets for this exciting event will be for sale before and after school until 2:45 p.m. at the high school box office. Adults are $4, students and senior citizens $3.50. All seats at the matinee are $3.

Attention senior class parents. Your $20 is due for your student so he/she will be able to attend the Senior Class Party graduation night. There is also a need for help on all committees. This is a fantastic opportunity to meet new friends while helping to make your student's last event at NHS a momentous occasion.

"Mustang of the Week" is a new award, initiated by the School Climate Committee. It is designed to recognize students who make a positive unique contribution to the high school. Students, parents and staff may use nomination forms available in the office to recognize any type of unique, special effort made by any students or group at the school. This accomplishment may or may not be in the areas of academic or athletic excellence. Completed nomination forms should be placed in Ms. Wiener's mailbox in the office.

Being a teen in today's society is difficult. NHS is lucky to have Charlie Stilec to lead the following support groups for students: Relationship Stress Group, After Care Group, Chemical Awareness Group, Stop Smoking Group, Children of Alcoholics Group, Divorce Group, and Grief Loss Group. All contacts will be made with confidentiality a key factor.

Visitors to the jungles of Belize in South America are advised never to wander away from the trails.

Tracking jaguars through the Belizean jungle

By JOHN CASTLE

Monkeys chattered high in the treetops. On the muddy jungle floor lay the tracks of a large jaguar.

It didn't seem possible. I had left that morning for my flight from Detroit Metro. Within eight hours I was watching jungle animals in the heart of a Central American rain forest.

My trip was inspired by the "Programme for Belize," a group fighting to preserve the Belizean wilderness. Their folder painted a picture of a land rich in wildlife. The lure proved irresistible.

A month later I flew over Mexico's Yucatan Peninsula into the tiny Caribbean country formerly called British Honduras.

Belize is the size of Massachusetts, with the population of Warren, Mich. Most of its 165,000 inhabitants live in Belize City and half a dozen other towns, leaving the rest of the country virtually uninhabited.

From Belize City, Javier's Air Service shuttled me 50 miles west to the jungle outpost of Gallon Jug. Then I was driven deep into the rain forest to Chan Chich Lodge.

The lodge overlooks the ruins of an ancient Mayan city. Tropical growth crowds its thatched-roof cabanas. Trails fan out into the jungle. One of them yielded the tracks I saw on my first day there.

Studying jaguars was my main goal. These cats, the world's third largest feline, have intrigued me for years. Here was a chance to learn about them firsthand.

Wild cats abound in Belize. Scarcely a week goes by without someone at the lodge seeing a jaguar, ocelot or margay. The jaguars, called tigers by native Belizeans, are protected, so they've lost much of their fear of man. A maid recently watched in awe as one of the big cats emerged from the jungle and walked around the lodge in broad daylight.

Guide Gilbert "Jack" Vasquez had a closer brush. He was grooming a trail when a jaguar slunk out of a palm thicket and padded toward him.

"He was a big tiger," head like this," Jack said, making a circle with his arms. "I shout and he sees me. Lucky thing he goes away."

Clearing trails is Jack's daily job. Belize's poisonous snakes, the dreaded fer-de-lance (nicknamed "tommygoff") and the coral snake, hide under dead palm leaves. Removing them makes the trails safer for hikers.

Boa constrictors also infest Belize. They're so ubiquitous they even lurk inside the cities. One day the lodge's generator-driven clothes dryer stopped spinning. A boa had wrapped itself tightly around the rotor.

I prowled the jungle trails daily without encountering a snake. Unfortunately, that also held true for cats. I didn't see a single jaguar, but saw many signs of them.

One morning, hiking along a path toward the Guatemala border, I came upon what looked like a wildcat convention. Ocelot prints peppered the mud. A few yards farther on were the saucer-sized tracks of a male and a female jaguar. Handmade plaster casts of the prints let me preserve them for future study.

Cats were my main target, but not my only interest. I didn't balk when a birder offered to take me under his wing.

Birders are birdwatchers who travel the world trying to see and identify as many bird species as possible. Ellis Knudson, of McLean, Va., was on a birding binge. He had already glassed 167 species at Chan Chich when I joined him for a day-long hunt.

Between tropical downpours, we saw comical "banana-billed" toucans, laughing falcons that actually go "ha ha" at you, and rare ocellated turkeys. After dinner we drove his rented four-by-four along a narrow road to look for night birds. Almost immediately our headlights picked up eyeshine.

"My gosh," Ellis said, "a tapir."

Not 20 yards away was Belize's national animal browsing nonchalantly on roadside bushes. The cowlike beast was shoveling food into its mouth with a flexible upper lip that resembled a small elephant trunk.

We watched helplessly. Neither of us had armed our cameras with flashguns.

Later on we saw a pair of eyes dancing across a field. The animal was a blur in our binoculars. We thought it was an ocelot, but later saw it was a gray fox.

Before leaving Chan Chich and the hospitality of hosts Tom and Josie Harding, I saw white-tailed deer, monkeys, parrots, leaf-cutter ants and other jungle creatures. Crocodiles, coatis and kinkajous remained hidden.

Many animals were foreign to me. I kept hearing people talk about gibnuts. It came as a surprise to learn they don't grow on trees, but are jackrabbit-sized rodents called pacas.

Roast gibnut is a delicacy to chichleros, those jungle hardened men who roam the tropics tapping sapodilla trees for the gumlike chicle used in chewing gum.

I saw machete wounds on trees and thatched shelters made by chichleros, but never met any of them on the trails. It's just as well. Who knows how these jungle men would greet a lone gringo invading their frontier?

Sometimes bootprints of soldiers appeared in the mud. Great Britain maintains a garrison at Belize. Troopers use the Chan Chich wilderness to train for jungle warfare.

Awhile back a soldier wandered away from his squad. The jungle swallowed him. Helicopter pilots and 600 men searched in vain. He stumbled out of the jungle four days later, cut and bruised, his fatigues torn to shreds.

No wonder the lodge cautions visitors to stay on trails. It's hard to think of danger when you're taking hot showers and eating candlelight dinners at a luxury lodge like Chan Chich. But the staff constantly reminds you "it's a jungle out there." And it's prudent to pay attention.

One man who went on a hike with me ignored their warning. He left the path to explore a pile of rocks that looked like a Mayan ruin. Two barbed thorns buried themselves in his forearm, inflicting a nasty wound.

I hated to leave Chan Chich, but decided to go to the Mayan Mountains in east-central Belize to visit the world's only jaguar preserve.

Returning to Belize City, I checked into Hotel Mopan. Proprietors Tom and Jean Shaw came to my aid, arranging for me to rent a four-wheel-drive station wagon for my day-long trip.

On the way down, an alert gas station attendant averted a possible crisis.

"Tire low," he said, pointing to the right front. "Do you want to me fix it?"

I quickly agreed. He found a small nail and patched the hole. If he hadn't noticed the slow leak, I would have suffered a flat tire in the bowels of the jungle.

My trip had other complications. A tropical disturbance churning in the Caribbean threatened to wash out the roads. Luckily, the storm veered off. The road into the refuge was muddy anyhow. Two streams and several bogs nearly defeated me, but I finally conquered the five tough miles.

Near the preserve's building, a bearded man loomed into sight. He turned out to be Robert Bristow, an environmentalist from the Black Hills of South Dakota. He had packed in the night before. And what a hike he had.

"At sunset, I saw fresh jaguar tracks in the mud," he said. "Night fell. I was in the middle of nowhere and not sure where I was going. Walking in the dark with that cat on your mind. That's spooky."

No one was at camp headquarters. Luckily, the bunkhouse was unlocked, so the two of us spent the night there.

Before bedding down, I explored several jungle paths. A river trail yielded the tracks of a tapir and a large jaguar. The cat's tracks were smoking hot. I knew how my friend felt the night before.

Robert drove out with me the next morning to buy food at the nearby village of Mayan Center. On the way, we met Ignacio Pop, the refuge's head warden.

He indicated the jaguars there are thriving and multiplying and said about 25 were in the area.

Despite their large numbers, seeing a wild jaguar seemed to compare favorably with winning the national lottery. That doesn't mean it never happens. A couple picnicking in the preserve saw a flash of orange. A jaguar had slunk down to a nearby creek. It lapped up water, glanced around, then melted back into the jungle as silently as it had come.

Time was running out. I had to hurry back to Belize City for my flight home. On the way I took time to pay a brief visit to the Community Baboon Sanctuary at Bermudian Landing. The principal animals there are black howler monkeys often called baboons by the locals.

The villagers protect the monkeys and their habitat. The apes, in turn, bring in tourist dollars.

"Want to see monkeys quick?" asked Sanctuary Manager Fallett Young. "It could be a small troop on the other side of the road."

After crossing over, we entered a stand of scrub jungle. Twenty minutes later we heard the distant grunts of a dominant male. As we got closer, the grunts turned into lion-like roars. The leader of the troop saw us below and was doing his best to chase us off. He won. The jungle still raged with his bellows as we made our way back.

During our brief search, Fallett seemed oblivious to the dangers of the jungle. He slogged along the muddy footpaths in low-cut leather shoes.

"Probably no poisonous snakes here," I volunteered timidly.

"Oh yes," he replied cheerfully. "Tommygoff, coral snake, Central American rattlesnake. Big, too. They come to us at night."

He must have been right. We didn't see a single snake.

During my stay in Belize, I explored the tropical rain forests daily. My aching feet tramped 50 to 60 miles of tropical turf. Yet during that time I was never menaced by man or animal.

This ought not to have surprised me. On my way to the jungle adventure, I glanced at my daily horoscope in a well-thumbed newspaper. It said, "a short pleasure trip provides a welcome break in the workweek."

And that's exactly what happened.

John Castle, a Birmingham resident, refers to himself as a cryptozoologist, a person who investigates unusual animal phenomena. He also is a co-owner of C&R Communications.

Prepare for a jungle adventure

Make your trip to Belize a do-it-yourself jungle adventure. Tailoring it to your needs is as easy as falling off a coconut tree. Some tips for a safe exciting trip:

When to go: The most comfortable time is January to May, the dry season. If you must go during the summer, August is your best bet. It is less rainy. The annual mean temperature is 79 degrees, colder in the mountains.

Preparing to go: A passport is needed. No vaccinations are required, but you might consider malaria pills and shots for typhoid, hepatitis, tetanus and flu. Consult your physician or the county health department.

How to go: Continental Airlines has a flight from Detroit to Belize City, with a change-over in Houston, Texas. A round trip costs less than $500. It could be less with special promotions.

Where to go: Try Chan Chich Lodge in west-central Belize. Luxury accommodations (screened cabanas, hot showers, candlelight dinners) in the heart of the rain forest. Call 1-800-343-8009 for reservations and transportation to lodge from Belize City. Daily single rate (room, meals) is but $75.

Also consider Hotel Mopan in Belize City. It's not posh, but is comfortable, colorful and inexpensive. A single room is approximately $25. It is a haven for writers, naturalists, archaeologists and explorers. Proprietor Jean Shaw will help with travel plans and rental vehicles. Emory King's road guide is a must for this trip.

The jaguar preserve in east-central Belize is a rustic jungle camp. Prepare to cook your own meals, sleep in a bunk house and use outdoor toilets. Take bottled water and canned food. Ask Jean Shaw (Belize phones 73356, 77951) about travel conditions to preserve in Cockscomb Basin Wildlife Sanctuary.

The Community Baboon Sanctuary at Bermudian Landing is a 90-minute drive from Belize City. Jungle trails yield close-up views of black howler monkeys. No tour costs, but donations cheerfully accepted.

Crooked Tree Wildlife Sanctuary is a two-hour drive from Belize City. It has birds, crocodiles, iguanas. Other animals also abound in the swamps, in-land lagoons and waterways.

What to take: Take your drivers' license and traveler checks. The exchange rate is $2 Belizean for $1 U.S. The prices are higher than Mexico because Belize imports everything. Also take a bottle of 100 percent deet mosquito lotion, a full water canteen, flashlight, Swiss army-type pocket knife, binoculars and camera.

What to wear: Hat or cap, cotton slacks, long-sleeved shirts or blouses. Take medium-weight jacket and rain gear. Wear sneakers in town, boots or hiking shoes in the jungle. Casual clothing is in.

What not to do: Don't drink or brush your teeth with unpurified water. Also don't take firearms, go off jungle trails or pick up insects or reptiles. Most importantly, don't disturb the Mayan artifacts. Also watch the "sleeping policeman" speed bumps on the roads. You can break your axles on them.

Horses still gallop Maybury

Are you champing at the bit to get out on the range?

Let Ron Gordon, the riding stables proprietor at Maybury State Park, saddle up a horse for you. The park has 12 miles of trails and about two dozen horses at the stables for those with an equestrian bent.

And if you've never held a pair of reins before, the staff at Maybury State Park will show you how. According to Gordon, many of the people who stop by the stables have never ridden a horse before. He estimated that 75 percent of the park's visitors are "beginners to fair riders."

"An escort rides along with each rider," he added. "We send people out according to their capability."

The horses are always used by trail guides before they're allowed to take inexperienced riders, he added.

Would-be wranglers should also be aware that many myths about mounts are little more than myths. For example, before you ask for the oldest nag in the stable, know that age is not always associated with spirit.

"The oldest horse is not necessarily the slowest horse," Gordon said. "As a matter of fact, they usually know all the tricks."

Gordon also puts little stock in the theory that horses sense fear in a rider and react accordingly. "What they do know is whether or not you're going to make them do what you want them to do or whether you're going to let them get away with murder," he said.

A horse's name is not always a good indicator of his or her personality, either. "Where I used to work, we had a horse named Fury, and he was the best kid's horse," Gordon said.

In fact, several of the horses at Maybury have been named by former customers.

Riders must be under 250 pounds in weight, and only one rider is allowed on a horse at a time. There is also a 4½-foot height minimum for trail riders, though the staff will tutor smaller children in the stable's corral.

Maybury also holds special programs for Girl Scouts and Boy Scouts, with the Girl Scouts taking much more advantage of the fact. "Girls like horses," Gordon said. "The majority of our business is girls." One of the Girl Scout badges is for horse riding.

Horseback riding in general is becoming more popular, according to Gordon. "There are a lot of people riding horses," he said. Over the course of a year, he estimated that 8,000 to 10,000 people come to the stables to take a ride through the park.

As with many forms of recreation, the summer months are the busiest at the stables. "We're busy from April to October, but I guess the real busy season is from Memorial Day to

Winter riders at Maybury include Bill Ward, Keli Quigley and Shelly Caldwell Labor Day," Gordon said.

"On a busy Saturday in the summer, you'll have a hundred riders," he added.

But even the winter months are not without riders. Gordon estimated that the stables get 10 to 12 customers a week if the weather's good. The stables shut down to the public when the trails are too icy or the air too cold.

The horses seem frisky in the winter — snorting in the cold air and cantering up the trail.

The Maybury stables are open every day except Monday. A center around the park will set you back $10 per hour on weekdays and $12 per hour on weekends, though those numbers are flexible depending on the size of the group and the day.

Aladdin's lamp comes to Marquis

RUSTIC CABINS

By Michael Malott

So who needs to drop big bucks on a time share in Traverse City when there are so many other vacation spots available in northern Michigan which are more affordable further off the beaten track, closer to nature and, frankly, have more character.

Cabins dot the state's north country, many of which are available for rent. They range from privately owned cabins, put up for rent by their owners when not in use by the family only to help pay for upkeep, to resort complexes of as many as 30 cabins, complete with pool and restaurant. Others are little more than roadside motels, with each room in a different building. Still others can be rented through the state or federal government, some large enough to contain entire boy scout or girl scout troops.

The problem, of course, is finding them early enough to make reservations for the coming summer season. There is no comprehensive, up-to-date listing of rentals available, and many are fully reserved as much as a year in advance. According to one cabin owner, the prime locations for week-long rentals for the coming summer vacation season will be filled by the end of March.

The state Department of Commerce's travel bureau does offer a booklet, titled the "Michigan guide to cabins and cottages," which may be one of the best lists. But even director Al Sandner admitted the list is not complete and is slightly out of date, not having been revised in the past several years. Many vacation prospects can still be found in the booklet however, which contains nearly a thousand listings, mostly small commercial complexes and government rentals.

Sandner said more up-to-date listings can be obtained through local chambers of commerce in the areas where the renter would like to vacation. It is a common practice of chambers in northern Michigan resort communities to keep such lists, and they can often be obtained free of charge with a mere phone call.

Still other cabins may be available for rent, but not included in these lists. Individually-owned cabins up for rent often are not listed. Occasionally, such vacation spots can only be found in the classified advertising sections of local newspapers, posted on bulletin boards, or through word-of-mouth.

According to Mary Lou Wolf, president of Edgewater Resort Country Log Cabins on the Menominee River near Iron Mountain in the U.P., reservations for the prime vacation spots have to be made early. Her cabins are typically reserved a year in advance for summer vacation weeks and the resort gives special preference to regulars.

Edgewater has 9 log cabins, each with all the modern conveniences. The cabins have kitchen areas. Cable television is available in each cabin. The resort has a laundry and a convenience area. There is a community campfire area. And each cabin renter gets the use of a boat, which is typical of cabin rentals. The price of a week's rental ranges from $185 to $305, Wolf said.

Judy Denison, co-owner of Parker House on Long Lake near Alpena, said she started taking vacation reservations for her 3 cottages in January and she expected the cabins would be fully reserved by the end of March.

Denison, who runs the cottage-motel-restaurant complex with her husband, said the customers are not only families but sportsmen, because of the resort's proximity to the hot fishing area of Rockport.

She said she believed cabin rentals are becoming more popular, especially for weekend travelers, which could mean cabins will be even harder to find in the future. Her cabins go for $286 per week. Open all year round, the cabins are typically rented by the month in the winter.

Not all cabins are far from home. Rustic cabins (i.e. all plumbing is outside), like the one shown above in the Island Lake Recreation Area near Brighton, are available for rental in a number of state parks. A brochure listing state-owned cabins is available from any state park.

Cabins which cater to sportsmen may be a bit easier to find. The owner of the five-unit River Cabins, on the Thunder Bay River near Atlanta, said renters need to call only about a month in advance. The cabins cater mainly to fishermen and sportsmen, but hosts families vacations, too. The cabins have propane stoves and furnaces and running water, but only cold water. The owner said he typically opens for the season in May and closes up shop after the deer hunting season. River Cabins charges $25 a night per couple, and tacks on $5 for each additional person.

The state has a large number of cabins, of the "rustic" variety, in recreation areas throughout the state. Other nearby parks with cabins available are the Howell and Holly recreation areas. Some of these state-owned cabins would be ideal for family outings, built for as few as four people, Darlene said.

One of the state's largest cabin complexes is in the Waterloo recreation area, near Chelsea. With 20 cabins, which sleep from four to 20 people each, the park usually has some available year round, park secretary Linda Vandecar said. Although organizations take up most of the cabin space in the summer, several cottages usually remain open. And in the winter, the cabins are fairly easy to reserve, she said. The smaller ones go for as little as $25 a night.

dining out

By Buddy Moorehouse

It would have been a big mistake if Sheila Kavens had named her restaurant Sheila's Kitchen or just plain Sheila's. The only name that fits is the name she gave it—Sheila's Country Kitchen.

Because the emphasis at this Hamburg restaurant really is on "Country." Down home cooking, plenty of belly-warming menu selections, family photos on the wall. You almost feel inclined to stretch out and take a nap afterwards.

Kavens, a hometown Hamburg girl, opened Sheila's Country Kitchen in July of 1988. The restaurant is located at 7580 M-36, near downtown Hamburg, and formerly housed Fast Eddie's.

Don't expect a lot of fancy trappings at Sheila's (after all, how many restaurants have family snapshots hanging around?). You should, however, expect a fine country dining experience.

Sheila's is open for breakfast, lunch and dinner seven days a week. For breakfast, Sheila's features all the usual suspects—omelettes, pancakes, French toast.

The omelettes include the farmer's ($4.25), Western ($3.95), Mexican ($4.25), and ham and cheese ($3.75). The more unique include a corned beef and Swiss cheese omelette ($4.25) and a country omelette ($4.25, includes tomato, onion, green pepper, bacon and Swiss cheese).

The Sheila's Special for breakfast includes two eggs, two sausages, two strips of bacon, one piece of ham and American fries, toast or biscuit—all for $4.25.

Also on the breakfast menu—steak and eggs, $5.50. And there's a children's menu for breakfast, with selections in the $1.25-$1.95 range.

The belly filling continues at lunchtime, when Sheila's runs a series of specials. Every day, the restaurant offers two lunch specials which don't appear on the menu. (There are also two different dinner specials every day).

The sign outside Sheila's Country Kitchen says it all: "Good Food"

The menu selections are fine, but you'd be well-advised to try some of the specials; they're especially memorable.

The lunch specials at Sheila's are in the $3.95-$4.50 range, while the dinner specials usually run from $5.25-$6.95 (the prime rib, offered every Friday, is an exception, selling for $9.95 per person, or $18.95 for two).

Among the lunch specials, the beef stew ($4.50) comes highly recommended. Chunks of beef and potatoes, plenty of vegetables, a broth to die for. Look for it.

"Our baked short ribs are also very popular," Kavens said. "People seem to like those a lot."

As for the menu selections at lunch, you'll find a variety of sandwiches and salads.

The sandwiches are in the $2.50-$3.75 range, and for $1 more, you can get your choice of potatoes, a dill pickle and coleslaw.

Among the sandwiches: cold turkey ($2.75), rubeen ($3.25), corned beef ($3.25), grilled ham and cheese ($2.75), turkey and bacon triple decker ($3.95), tuna salad ($2.75) and chicken salad ($2.75).

Sheila's offers all homemade soups, too, as well as homemade chili. The recommended soups include the mushroom barley and clam chowder.

The salad selection includes Greek ($4.25), Julianne ($4.25), cold tuna ($3.95) and cold chicken ($3.95).

For dinner, you can choose from steak, seafood and chicken. The New York strip ($8.25) and the prime rib (when it's offered as a special) are popular, as is the breaded veal cutlet ($4.95).

Other selections include fried chicken ($4.95), fish and chips ($4.50), clam strips ($5.50), shrimp ($5.25) and jumbo shrimp ($7.25).

Again, though, be sure to give the daily specials a good look at dinnertime. On Friday, Kavens usually offers prime rib and a seafood dish or two, including walleye and Cajun-style fish.

On the whole, the folks at Sheila's say business has been pretty good since the restaurant opened last year.

"And it's getting better, now that it looks like winter is coming to an end," said Sue Costello of Sheila's. "Most of the people we get in here are from the area, too—Brighton, Whitmore Lake, Pinckney."

They come, no doubt, for the homey food and comfortable country atmosphere.

One piece of advice, though: No matter how much cozy you feel at Sheila's, wait until you get home to take that nap.

Sheila's Country Kitchen, 7580 M-36, Hamburg. Open 7 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday through Saturday and 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. Sunday. No liquor served. No credit cards accepted. Call 231-4720.

The Northville Record

Champs!

Mustang cagers grab share of first-ever Western Division title

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN

For the first time since joining the Western Lakes Activities Association (WLAA) back in the early 1980s, Northville can boast a basketball championship.

By whipping Walled Lake Western 73-49 on Feb. 20, the Mustangs (8-2 record) earned a share of the WLAA Western Division title along with Farmington Harrison (also 8-2). Sure, it's not a state title, or even a conference crown, but Northville had to finish the regular season with an impressive 13-4 record and win its final five games — including two tough road victories — to accomplish it.

"The kids came out and played hard," Mustang Coach Omar Harrison said. "They had a goal to at least tie for the division title and they accepted the challenge."

"It felt really good to go into a game we had to win, and get the job done."

Northville jumped out to a 20-7 first quarter lead and never looked back. In the first eight minutes, senior center Scott Meredith scored eight points and as a team the Mustangs nailed 5-for-5 at the free throw line. The Warriors did pull to within four at one point in the second stanza, thanks to the long-range shooting of Todd Biron, but Northville regained control with a 33-21 advantage at the break.

"It was a 12-point lead at halftime, but our kids didn't let it go to their heads," Harrison said.

The locals erased any doubts by outscoring Western 21-9 in the third quarter. When the final horn blew, the Mustangs had a 24-point triumph — and a long-overdue title.

"I felt all along if we played up to our potential, it would be a 10-14 point win for us," Harrison admitted. "I didn't think we'd win by that much."

"It means a lot to the kids — especially the seniors — to be the first to win a division title. You have to have the right combination of kids because this league is pretty balanced. You have to play with confidence and have a little luck. We also had an attitude all season where we pulled together as a unit."

"You really can't define the intangibles that go into winning — it's just the things that you do in order to be successful."

The last time a Northville team came close to winning a division title was back during the 1985-86 season. The Mustangs boasted standouts like Don Norton, Mike Hilfinger and Paul Newitt, but ended up placing second.

Senior Joe Kaley led all scorers with 18 points and added four steals. Meredith scored 16 points, Mike Lang chipped in 12 and Bill Kelley 10. Biron wound up with 12 for the Warriors (2-15).

NORTH FARMINGTON 74, NORTHVILLE 68: Matt Hoffman single-handedly put an end to the winning streak three days later by scorching the nets for 41 points in the first round of the WLAA playoffs.

The senior guard scored an amazing 20 points in the fourth quarter to help the Raiders come back from a seven-point deficit and stun the host Mustangs by six. The loss drops Northville into the loser's bracket of the playoffs, and now the best the squad can hope for is a fifth-place finish in the 12-team tournament.

Through three quarters, the Mustangs appeared to be in control, cruising toward their sixth victory in a row. After North scored the game's first five points, Northville came back to take a 34-33 lead into the locker room. Kaley was a key figure as he scored 12 points in the second quarter on four three-pointers.

The locals widened the lead to 49-42 heading into the fourth while holding Hoffman to only one bucket in the entire third quarter. But soon after that, Hoffman went crazy.

"We felt our defense wasn't bad but (Hoffman) took it into his own hands and said, 'I'm going to win this game,'" Harrison said. "I put our best defensive player — Jason Flading — on him, and he fouled out trying to guard him."

The Raiders pulled even at 53-53 and then converted several Mustang turnovers into points down the stretch to pull it out. As a team, North connected on 12-of-14 from the free throw line in the final eight minutes.

"We only had 14 turnovers for the game, but we had several crucial ones in the fourth quarter," Harrison explained. "We just made some bad decisions and it hurt us."

Hoffman ended up scoring 20 of his team's 32 in the final period. No other North Farmington player scored more than nine for the game.

"He was just very hot and we didn't have anyone who could stop him," Harrison said. "When you

Potter takes 4th in state tourney

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN

On the strength of three takedowns, senior Garnet Potter became the first Mustang wrestler since Tony Greco to place at the MHSAA Class A State Meet.

At the 43rd annual tournament held at the Kellogg Arena in Battle Creek last weekend (Feb. 23-24), Potter fought through the consolation rounds and registered an amazing three pins along the way, to place fourth in the 145-pound weight division. For the tourney, Potter boasted a 4-2 mark and wrapped up his final season with an impressive 41-6 record.

"On Saturday when he was moving up through the consolation round, Garnet was wrestling his best of the season," Northville Coach Bob Boshoven said. "The 145 division was very tough."

Two other Northville grapplers — junior Brandon Mardossian and junior Kevin Khashan — also competed. Even though neither ended up placing (top six), they both managed to get at least one victory.

"For all three to get wins at a meet like this is fantastic," Boshoven said. "It should be a big confidence booster to both Kevin and Brandon. They should be able to get back to the state meet next year, and this experience will help."

For Potter, it was a great way to end a career. In round one, he slipped past Ryan Brink of Grandville 8-5 but then suffered a lopsided 16-1 defeat to Lake Orion's Rich Vellucci.

Potter started his comeback late Friday evening by pinning Dan Collins of Grosse Pointe North in 2:26, which moved him into the quarterfinals of the consolation bracket.

"Some guys have a hard time bouncing back after a loss, but Garnet was determined to place,"

Northville volleyballers place sixth at 12-team WLAA Meet

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN

During the regular season, the Northville volleyball squad tied for third place in the six-team WLAA Western Division standings. In keeping with that trend, the Mustangs placed sixth in the 12-team field of the WLAA Meet held on Feb. 24 at Walled Lake Central.

"It went good and bad," said Northville Coach Paul Osborn.

The good included a split with an 8-2 Walled Lake Western squad who entered the tourney with a 2-0 record against the Mustangs, and an easy two-game sweep against Farmington Harrison in pool play. The bad was a controversial two-game defeat to unbeaten Livonia Stevenson and another loss to the same Plymouth Salem team Northville beat in dual-meet play back on Jan. 17.

In all, the Mustangs had an unspectacular 3-5 record in pool play and missed out on a berth in the semifinals — a playoff for the top two squads in each of the two pools.

Against Western, Northville was leading 13-11 in game one when senior Sue LaPrad delivered what appeared to be an ace. According to Osborn, the line judge ruled it was indeed an ace, but the referee overruled it. The Warriors went on to score the final four points to pull out the win.

"Some very questionable calls cost us that first game, but you can't live and die by those," Osborn said.

In game two, the Mustangs turned the tables and wound up with a split. With Western ahead 11-8, Northville scored seven of the final eight points to win it 15-12.

"All in all, I think we played better than we've played all year," Osborn said.

In round two, the Mustangs dropped a pair of close games to Stevenson (10-0 in WLAA), and again the officiating came into question. In the opener, with Northville ahead 14-13 and Amanda Parke serving for the game, the referee again overruled the line judge and called her serve out instead of in. Another questionable call — including an inadvertent whistle — with the score tied 14-14 gave the Spartans the lead and they eventually won it 16-14.

"All-in-all, I think we played better than we've played all year. Some very questionable calls cost ... but you can't live and die by those."

— Paul Osborn
Mustang Coach

In game two, Stevenson completed the sweep with a 15-11 win.

"By this time, the girls were getting conscious of the bad calls and they let it affect them," Osborn explained. "They went to a more finesse-type game and it backfired."

The star of the match was Jenny Urbahns, who had collected 10 solo blocks against Stevenson.

In round three, the Mustangs turned back Harrison 15-6, 15-11. Ashley MacLean and Karen Vogt combined for 14 solo blocks against the Hawks and Marcie Dart was perfect on 10 serve reception attempts.

Northville wrapped up the competition with a 12-15, 10-15 loss to the Rocks in the final round of pool play.

"We knew heading into the Salem match that we didn't have a chance to come out of pool play and move into the semifinals, so I played some new kids and installed a different offense," Osborn explained.

The Mustangs abandoned their normal 5-1 set in favor of a 6-2 set (six hitters, two setters), and Osborn was relatively pleased with the results.

"It was a good experiment and we see that it does have some good possibilities," he said. "From what I see, there's a good possibility we will be running the 6-2 next season."

WALLED LAKE WESTERN 16-11, 15-9-15, NORTHVILLE 14-15-4-15-7: In the regular season's final match on Feb. 21, it took the Warriors nearly three hours to finally subdue the Mustangs in five brutal games. Northville was ahead in game one 13-9 but fell apart down the stretch and lost 16-14. But the Mustangs came back to take the second game 15-11, and needed only two rotations to get the win.

Western cruised to a 15-4 win in game three and scored eight points in a row from one server, but again Northville came back to win the fourth game 15-9.

In the fifth and deciding game, Western broke a 6-6 tie by scoring points seven through 11 in order, including three service aces. The Mustangs never recovered.

"But we gave them a run for their money," Osborn said.

NORTHVILLE 15-15-15-15, LIVONIA FRANKLIN 5-6-17-0: The Mustangs dumped the Patriots in four games on Feb. 20 to wrap up a 9-5 overall dual-meet record for the season. The win also moved Northville to 8-5 in WLAA action, and 5-5 in the Western Division.

"Three of our starters missed practice to go on vacation, so we had only three starters out of six in our lineup," Osborn said. "But the girls we had in there did a nice job."

With regulars like MacLean, LaPrad and Kristi Turner leading the way, the Mustangs dominated play in the first two games. But in game three, the squad faded down the stretch, blew a 14-10 lead, and lost 17-15.

In game four, Osborn finally put in the rest of his starters and that team crushed Franklin 15-0. LaPrad was the only player to serve in the game, as she scored 15 straight, including three aces.

"I've never seen 15 straight points scored on one person's serve before in 11 years of coaching," Osborn recalled.

As a team, Northville performed well against the Pats in areas like serving (80-of-94), setting (97-of-111) and hitting (79-of-95). The Mustangs will take on Novi (2-13 overall) in round-one of the MHSAA Districts this Saturday (March 3) at 11:30 a.m. at Schoolcraft College. The winner will take on either Livonia Stevenson, Plymouth Canton or Plymouth Salem at 1 p.m. that same day.

Meads Mill tankers notch state crown

Eight Meads Mill students qualified to participate in the Middle School Swimming and Diving State Championship Swim Meet on Feb. 17 in East Lansing, and four of them came home with a state title.

The girls' 400-yard freestyle relay team of Sheila Osburne, Tammy Cook, Brenda Newton and Daneen Lange finished first with a time of 4:13.00 to grab the title.

Newton also finished second in the 100 IM (1:07.84) and sixth in the 50 butterfly (28.76). Cook added a fourth in the 50 freestyle (28.76) and a 12th in the 100 freestyle (1:07.00), while Osburne chipped in with a third in the 50 freestyle (27.30) and a fifth in the 100 freestyle (1:00.84). In addition, Lange was seventh in the 200 freestyle (2:21.36) and the 100 freestyle (1:03.48).

The rest of the locals to place among the top 12 included Jason Fisher's third in the 100 backstroke (1:11.32) and fifth in the 200 freestyle (2:14.70). Jim Hanna's seventh in the 200 freestyle (2:16.53), Katrina Heckemeyer's eighth in the 200 freestyle (2:22.41) and Elizabeth Rivard's 12th in the 100 breaststroke (1:26.77).

As a unit, over 12 seconds were trimmed from the previous best times at the state meet. The squad is coached by Mark Holdridge and Bill Dicks.

Potter pins his way to 4th place finish

Boshoven said.

On Saturday, Potter guaranteed himself a top-six finish by stopping Andy Hogston of Muskegon. Mona Shores in 4:52, and then moved into the consolation finals by pinning Stan Granger of Holt in just 1:54.

"To get three pins in a row at the state tournament is quite an accomplishment," Boshoven said. "Garnet fought off a pin attempt by Granger, successfully reversed him and went in for the pin himself."

In the finals, Potter met up again with Vellucci. After jumping in front 4-0, Vellucci came back to win 5-4 and Potter had to settle for fourth place.

"I think he really shocked the kid from Lake Orion by coming out so strong," Boshoven explained. "Remember, this was a rematch of the bout Garnet lost 16-1 the day before."

Khshan probably had the toughest opening match of anybody in the 200-person field. His first bout in the 119-pound division was against Tony Hill of Flint Kearsley, who went on to win his second straight state title, and also set a national record for career wins (211). As expected, Khshan fell to Hill 10-0, but according to

Boshoven, "Kevin actually wrestled well against him."

Khshan showed a lot of character in the consolation bracket as he crushed Keith Dobner of Sterling Heights 12-2. Dobner entered the competition with a 33-8 record.

Unfortunately, the comeback bid ended in the quarterfinals when Khshan suffered a 13-2 loss to Steve Swarthout (39-3 record) from Warren Lincoln.

"I thought Kevin did a fantastic job overall," Boshoven said.

Like Khshan, Mardossian was also 1-2 in the tournament. He topped Dan Deciechi of Waterford Kettering 8-6 in the first round of the 125-pound classification, but fell in a 5-4 heart-breaker in the next round to Jason Lopez of Lansing Everett.

"Brandon felt like he could have won that match," Boshoven said.

Mardossian was eliminated in round three by Rustin Wolfe of Okemos, who entered the tourney with one loss in 36 bouts. Wolfe, who ended up placing third, pinned Mardossian in 1:59.

"Wolfe impressed me more than anybody else at 125," Boshoven said, "including the first- and second-place finishers."

have a player of his ability and he comes out to play, it's tough. If we'd have held him to 30, we would have won the ballgame.

"We kind of got rattled at the end, lost our composure, and that was the ball game."

Meredith scored 22 for the locals and Kaley added 19. Hoffman was 10-for-12 from the free throw line and canned five treys for North.

Northville (13-5 overall, 11-3 in the WLAA) was scheduled to host Livonia Franklin on Feb. 27 (after Record deadline) and will then wrap up the playoffs on Saturday (March 3) on the road. Wins in both those games will give the Mustangs fifth place.

DISTRICT PAIRINGS: The pairings for the MHSAA District 22 tournament in Northville have been announced. The host Mustangs will take on state-ranked Plymouth Salem at 7 p.m. on March 5 in a pre-district game. The winner of that game will tackle Plymouth Canton at 8 p.m.

StairMaster: the new fitness rage

By LESLIE PEREIRA

Fast-food restaurants, microwave ovens, quick-tanning booths and automatic teller machines. The trend toward quick and convenient has penetrated nearly every aspect of American life.

Including fitness. Americans are saying goodbye to the hour-long walk and the 30-minute aerobic exercise class. Even the 20-minute jog has begun to seem too long.

The newest fitness rage, the StairMaster, mirrors the mindset of those people who are time-conscious but yet not willing to give up their physical fitness.

The ubiquitous 15-minute stair-climbing machine promises, in the words of one loyalist, "the best workout in the shortest amount of time."

A basic model resembles an oversized walker with a screen attached to the front and two pedals jutting up from the bottom.

Once mounted, the pedals turn into moveable stairs and the walker becomes the handrails.

The digital screen lights up like a switchboard, charting the level of energy exerted by the exerciser.

The machine is programmed to run for 15 consecutive minutes with no rest for the weary. The screen's printed warning is unmistakable — "the machine shuts off automatically if idle for two minutes," i.e., Big Brother is watching, so don't even think about resting.

At the end of the workout the machine impassively spits out statistics determining calories burned, flights climbed and miles covered.

"This is the best cardiovascular workout you can get in 15 minutes," Ann Bingamen, manager of Vic Tanny in Novi, said.

Fifteen minutes, not including waiting time.

"Our machines are used non-stop," said Bingamen. "We have a lot of complaints about the wait."

Even at 2 p.m. in the afternoon, the pinnacle of most people's work day, a line of calisthenic-performing people snakes out from behind the machines.

Novi resident Robert Wollack, who admitted waiting up to 45 minutes at times to mount the mini-escalator, has strategically positioned himself behind two machines to increase his odds of getting on the first open machine.

"The main reason I come is to use the stairs," Wollack said. "For a 15-minute workout it is probably the best you can get."

Vic Tanny started out with four machines when it opened in 1987, added three more when they proved extremely popular, and have more on order because they have been unable to keep up with demand.

"The members really like them," Bingamen said. "It is by far our most popular machine."

Local fitness supply stores which sell the machines have been similarly beseeched by stair-climbing enthusiasts disgruntled by their club's queues.

"There is a six- to eight-week wait for a StairMaster from our store," said Corey Disler, a sales representative for Fitness Source in Novi. "We have sold several hundred of them."

Disler was referring to the StairMaster, the original no-frills model, but newer machines come with increasingly more knobs and buttons.

Now in the machine's heyday, Fitness Source sells five versions of the stair-climbing machine with prices ranging from $349 to $3,195.

For $349 a would-be climber can purchase the basic model — or spend $3,195 for a model resembling a miniature escalator with a screen full of information harder to interpret than an IRS tax form.

"Mainly we sell to people that have used them in the fitness centers and got fed up with waiting in line," Disler said. "On a busy day people wait up to two hours to get on for 15 minutes."

What Disler explained from rumor, a Vic Tanny member confirmed from experience.

"People used to put their names on a list and they would call off your name when your turn was up," said member Bill Anderson of Wixom. "Now they make you line up behind the machine. If it is not open then I won't use it."

Many people are starting to ask the reason for the surging popularity of these machines.

"The machines are so popular because of the results," Bingamen said. "If you want to lose weight, this is the machine to use."

Bingamen holds herself up as testament to those assertions. She claims to have lost 30 pounds and the equivalent of about 1½ inches off of her hip and buttock areas after three months of stair climbing with no similar commitment to dieting.

"There has to be consistency and commitment," Bingamen said. "I recommend a minimum of three times a week."

Well, if a mere 45 minutes per week can mean consistency and commitment to fitness, then StairMaster has just won its place alongside the likes of microwave ovens and ATMs.

Hospital offers 'Trim Shop' program

Huron Valley Hospital in Commerce Township is offering "The Trim Shop," an eight-week weight-reduction program to help you lose weight, improve eating habits, set realistic goals, gear up to exercise and feel better about yourself.

The class will meet at Huron Valley Hospital on eight consecutive Thursdays from 7-8:30 p.m. beginning March 8. The program fee is $70 and preregistration is necessary.

For more information or to register, call 360-3452.

ST. PAT'S FUN RUN: The St. Pat's Fun Run and Pancake Breakfast will be held on March 17 and is sponsored by the Livonia Family YMCA.

Registration will be the day of the race from

Fitness Notes

7:45-9:45 a.m. at Frost Junior High School on 14041 Stark Road in Livonia. The race distances will be one, three and five miles.

Cost is $11 and includes T-shirt and all-you-can-eat pancake breakfast with sausage, juice and coffee. Non-runners can eat breakfast for $3 for adults and $1.50 for children.

For more information, call 261-2161, or write

Livonia Family Y, 14255 Stark Road, Livonia, MI 48154.

EXERCISE PROGRAM: A one-hour exercise program is held Monday and Wednesday mornings at Twelve Oaks Mall. It takes place 9-10 a.m. in the Lord & Taylor corridor near the east entrance.

The program, conducted by The University of Michigan Division of Physical Education, is particularly aimed at older people and others who would benefit from an invigorating but non-strenuous exercise program.

"The format consists of carefully guided warm-up and stretching exercise followed by light aerobics and a cool-down period.

Pregnant women, and those with stomach ulcers or heart problems should try to limit their caffeine intake. Further, decaffeinated coffee is not necessarily more healthful. Removing caffeine is often accomplished with dangerous chemicals. Those that are labeled "Swiss water method" are processed without chemicals and are often sold in specialty or natural food stores.

As with everything else, moderation is the key. Try to limit your caffeine intake to no more than 300 mg. per day. If you keep long hours or are on the road driving most of the day and take in caffeine to keep you awake, try some of these non-cafeinated alternatives:

- Juices-fruit or vegetable
- Cereal coffees
- Herbal coffees
- Water — spring, sparkling or with a slice of lemon
- A short walk or stretch

Moderation is the key for caffeine intake

By SYLVA DVORAK

Caffeine is a plant product found in coffee beans, cola beans and tea leaves. It is a mildly addictive stimulant which gives us a "quick perk" when we need it. Most of us drink caffeine beverages to counteract fatigue and drowsiness, to keep us alert and to prevent "highway hypnosis" while on the road.

Some effects of caffeine

- It takes approximately 30 to 60 minutes to feel the effects of caffeine intake.
- One may become psychologically and physiologically dependent upon the effects of caffeine.
- Like many other drugs, the more we become accustomed to caffeine the more we need to consume to produce the desired effects.
- If you are especially sensitive to caffeine or ingest more than 250 mg. at one time, you may experience insomnia, restlessness, irritability, nervousness, tremors, stomach aches, sweating, extra heartbeats and headaches.

• More serious side effects include: excessive nervousness, disruption of normal sleeping patterns and depression.

• Sensitivity to caffeine varies among people.

• Drinking coffee will not counteract the effects of alcohol or make one sober.

Caffeine content varies among its sources.

Coffee usually has more caffeine than tea or cola beverages. Concentration depends on how the coffee was made: automatic drip, percolated or instant. Also, the amount of caffeine varies with the type or brand of tea leaf or coffee bean. There are many other sources of caffeine you may not be aware of, for example, many prescription and non-prescription drugs contain caffeine as does chocolate. The list below will give you some idea of the caffeine content of various products.

SOURCE	CAFFEINE (mg)
Coffee (5-oz. cup)
Drip method	100-150
Percolated	80
Instant	30

Iced (12-oz. glass) 70
Decaffeinated 3

Tea (5-oz. cup) 30-60
Brewed 30
Instant 30
Iced (12-oz. glass) 70
Herb teas 0

Chocolate 5
Chocolate milk (8-oz. glass) 20
Dark Chocolate (1 oz.) 4-50
Hot cocoa (5-oz. cup)

Soft Drinks (12 oz.) 30-72
Colas 0
Root Beer 0
Ginger Ale 0
Tonic water/Club soda 0
7 Up 0

Non-prescription Drugs 32
Anacin 0
Aspirin 200
Dexamtrm 100
No Doz

Pregnant women, and those with stomach ulcers or heart problems should try to limit their caffeine intake. Further, decaffeinated coffee is

An important message to our Sears Customers:

- This month marks the first anniversary of Sears price lowering throughout each and every department. This event was the largest price lowering in retailing history.
- To celebrate this event, we challenged our buyers to work with their suppliers and pull out all the stops for March this year.
- The result: Over 140 Great Buying Power Specials! Only Sears great buying power could bring this about. Day in and day out, we buy more so you pay less.
- Look throughout our ads and our entire stores for Sears Great Buying Power Specials during the month. They represent our continuing efforts to bring you—our valued customer—the very best buys.
- More great news! Starting March 1, we are changing the way we calculate minimum monthly payments on SearsCharge. For millions of our customers, monthly payments will be reduced... some lowered as much as 50%!
- Check your March billing statement to see how this great news affects you.

REMEMBER...

Smoke detectors are terrific for alerting your family should a fire break out in your home. Other ways to prepare for this emergency are:

- Teach everyone to crawl out low to avoid smoke
- Practice an escape plan that includes at least two routes out of every room
- Have a central meeting place a safe distance from the home and make sure no one even thinks of returning to the scene of the fire
- It is a good idea to keep fire extinguishers handy for small fires that are detected early.
