Township board to discuss Holloway landfill tonight

By MIKE TYREE

The Northville Township Board of Trustees this evening (March 8) will consider a resolution to oppose the Holloway Construction Co.'s proposed landfill in southwest Novi.

Supervisor Georgina Goss said Monday that the 187-acre construction-waste landfill targeted for a site near the northeast corner of Eight Mile and Napier roads poses too many environmental hazards.

"We have a landfill two miles down the road," she said in reference to the Browning-Ferris Industries (BFI) facility on Six Mile and Napier. "For environmental reasons it's (the Holloway site) too close."

Goss said documented groundwater contamination problems at the BFI site should rule out the proposed Novi landfill.

"Though the problems are being addressed at BFI, the last thing this area needs is another landfill site," she said.

The proposed landfill would house construction waste such as concrete and tree stumps. Local residents and politicians fear the site could be converted to a trash or garbage landfill.

Holloway currently operates a sand and gravel mining business at the site.

The resolution before the board states that the residential character and quality of life for Northville Township residents will be impacted by the proposed landfill. The recreational facilities at neighboring Maybury State Park would also be affected, according to the resolution.

"The Charter Township of Northville is vehemently opposed to the development of a Type III Landfill on the northeast corner of Eight Mile and Napier Roads and urges all officials of Oakland County to be sensitive to the environmental concerns of their neighbors," the resolution states.

Goss sent township Manager Richard Henningsen to a March 1 Oakland County public hearing in Pontiac to deliver a letter which outlines the township's position on the landfill.

In the letter, Goss said the Type II landfill at Six Mile and Napier was about to double the size of its refuse containment area. Because the BFI landfill is situated in Salem Township, the township finds it has no real jurisdiction over activities there.

"Though the residents of our community are impacted by the nauseous (sic) smell, the flying debris and continuous use of our roads by heavy vehicles we have no control of the management or operation of this site..." her letter stated. "... If this landfill is approved Northville Township will be situated between two environmentally unsafe landfills no more than two miles apart."

Board ponders city's shared services plan

By MIKE TYREE

The township Board of Trustees will meet this evening (March 8) in an attempt to reach an agreement with the city for a shared-services plan.

An inability to reach an agreement on the definition of "equity" has sent proposals bouncing over the shared-services net and into the separate local government courts several times in the last month.

And indications are that further delays in signing an agreement — which outlines provisions and funding for shared community programs such as the public library service, community recreation, senior citizens service and youth assistance — may bring attorneys for the two communities together to iron out a settlement.

"The main question is how equity in the Haller library should be established," said township Supervisor Georgina Goss. "Should equity be dollars actually paid or inflationary dollars? That's what we'll have to decide."

City Manager Steven Walters on Feb. 6 sent the township a letter which called the township's proposal for buyout clauses on undividable assets (equity) "not acceptable to the city."

Walters wrote that the city was concerned "that the basis of the equity was revised from an appraised current market value to the amount of the bond principal payments."

He said such a change would strip the city of inflation protection for its library investment, while the township would receive inflation protection from city and township contributions.

"In effect," he wrote, "it would make the city's share in the project a bad investment if the cooperative library service was ever terminated."

Walters' latest proposal to the township includes the statement, "The current value of such jointly owned assets (undividable property) upon the date of termination of this agreement shall be determined by a committee of one or more qualified appraisers mutually agreed upon by both parties."

Township officials feel their proposal, which obligates township residents to pay 56 percent of the first 25,000 feet of a new library and 100 percent of the remaining 19,800, is more than fair.

At a special meeting Feb. 1, the township board stated equity should be based on actual funds contributed toward the library project, not on inflationary figures.

Goss would not say Monday if the city's equity definition would be acceptable to the board, but she did reiterate that the township considers the equity plan fair as it now stands.

"I think we're moving along, and as far as the township is concerned, there is no real problem with the joint services," she said.

Sleigh ride?

Although the sport is technically called harness racing, during the past few weeks Northville Downs has been the site of a few rounds of what looks like a completely different sport — involving snow and horses. Above, Monday's snow made visibility tough for drivers and horses during a practice session at the Downs. The racing season ends April 1 — just in time for better weather.

Library debated at public hearing

By MIKE TYREE

Facts, figures and often-emotional commentary highlighted the long-awaited Haller library public hearing Feb. 28.

Supporters, detractors and perhaps a few residents still on the fence about the township's plan to build a 44,800-square-foot multiple-use facility crowded into the township hall last week to debate the library proposal.

Critics denounced the plan to build the estimated $6.95-million library complex on Six Mile and Sheldon Roads as too expensive, especially on the heels of a recently announced 13.5-percent hike in township assessments.

But some members of the audience urged residents to look beyond their tax bills to a library and cultural center that could strengthen and improve the Northville community.

Opening comments by Superintendent of Schools George Bell focused on the educational importance of a strong community library system to public schools. Bell said he spoke as an educator and citizen and not at the direction of the Northville Board of Education.

After the introduction of library campaign co-chairs James Petrie and Betty Griffin — who gave a presentation on the history of the search for a new library site — and other library committee chairpersons, architect Don DiComo unveiled a "preliminary library footprint."

DiComo's plan included a 25,000-

Recycling strategy modified

By STEVE KELLMAN

In the midst of increasing landfill fees and rising opposition to additional landfills, Northville City has just instituted several new programs to increase the efficiency and reduce the cost of removing the city's trash.

As of April 1 the city's recycling center at 650 Doherty Drive will only be open Saturdays, but the open hours that day will be increased.

Starting May 1, city residents will be required to use clear plastic bags to dispose of all trash in closed bags, including grass clippings and household trash. Grass clippings will be separated to allow separate collection.

The recycling center will be open

Chiefs blow whistle on solicitors

By MIKE TYREE

A pair of local fire chiefs are sounding the alarm on those who claim to be raising funds for fire departments through telephone solicitations.

Township Fire Chief Robert Toms and city Fire Chief Jim Allen said this week that their departments are not affiliated with any groups conducting telephone fundraisers.

Toms said "a couple" of residents have complained that they had been contacted over the telephone by groups or individuals posing as members of the local fire departments and asking for donations.

In a joint statement, the chiefs said that "neither the city nor the township fire departments are in any way affiliated with these persons."

Toms said the callers have identified themselves as members of local or state fire departments and he wanted to make sure residents knew the firefighters here were not involved.

"As far as I'm concerned they're not legitimate," Toms said. "I don't want people to get stuck."

Toms said he had firsthand knowledge of telephone solicitations occurring in the area.

"A guy called and wanted me to donate to the local fire department," he said. "I thought the easiest way to get a handle on this was just to say we're not doing any fund-raisers."

Full-time assessor sought by city

By STEVE KELLMAN

In a move planned to provide a more thorough picture of Northville City's property values, the city council voted Monday to hire a full-time assessor to perform the yearly property reassessments and assess the value of new construction.

The assessments are used by the state in figuring a homeowner's and business owner's property taxes.

Walters presented his proposal to hire a city assessor to council members at Monday's meeting. The assessor would be hired on a two-year renewable contract.

At last week's city council meeting, council members Carolann Ayers and Jerry Mittman had suggested alternatives, such as contracting with an assessor rather than hiring one outright. Walters, however, favored the full-time proposal.

"I would just as soon not talk about (the assessor's) salary," Walters

NEWS BRIEFS

DEPARTMENT OF CORRECTIONS — In "PTA News" last week the list of Amerman School Spelling Bee winners did not include some of the children's names and misidentified their grades.

The fourth-grade winner was Steve Traicoff and the fourth-grade runner-up was Joshua Melton. Fifth-grade winner was Wendy Tao and runner-up for the fifth grade was John Polumbo.

CLARIFICATION — Only the Board of Directors of the Friends of the Library have voted to endorse the Haller Library proposal, according to Betty Griffin, co-chair of the library campaign committee and Friends board member.

Griffin said an article in last week's Record gave the impression the entire Friends group was involved in the endorsement. The seven-member board's vote does not indicate support for the project by the balance of the 275-member Friends organization, she said. Non-board members do not normally vote on library-related issues, she added.

PRESCHOOL OPEN HOUSE — Northville Co-op Preschool will be holding an open house at its Cooke School facility on Wednesday, March 14, from 4-7 p.m. The open house is a chance for parents and children to meet the program's three teachers and see the program itself. Northville Co-op Preschool is located in room 15 at Cooke School, 21200 Taft Road.

CHARITY DANCE — Northville High School students will be participating in an overnight charity dance from 8 p.m. March 16 until 8 a.m. March 17.

The dance is intended to raise funds for the Alzheimer's Association and the Northville Action Council. According to Manpreet Bagga, a senior at NHS, students need to raise pledges in the amount of at least $3 per hour to participate in the 12-hour spectacle. Students are attempting to raise $10,000 for the groups. Bagga said the evening's entertainment would include dancing, volleyball and swimming. Magicians and a hypnotist will also be on hand.

For more information on the charity dance, contact Lee LaChance, president of the student congress, at 348-9077, or at the high school, 344-8420.

ART LECTURES CONTINUE — The Northville Arts Commission is sponsoring its fifth in a series of Michael Farrell lectures on favorite artists. The noted art authority, Michael Farrell, will lecture on the works of John Singer Sargent. His lecture will include a slide presentation accompanied by the wit and style of a delightful raconteur and knowledgeable art historian.

The lecture will begin at 7:30 p.m., tonight, March 8 at the Northville City Hall. Limited tickets may be purchased for $6 at the door as supplies permit.

GENEALOGICAL SOCIETY MEETS — The Northville Genealogical Society will meet at Mill Race Village tonight, March 8, at 7:30 p.m. Jim Jackson will speak on the 1920 census which will be available to researchers in 1992. All who are interested in tracing their family tree are welcome to attend. For more information, call 348-1857 or 349-3020.

SPECIAL PRESCHOOL STORYTIME — A special evening preschool storytime will be held at the Northville Public Library on Tuesday, March 20 at 7 p.m. This special program will be geared for children, 3½ to 5 years old who are not able to attend regular daytime sessions. Registration will begin today, Thursday, March 8.

City seeks to dispel garbage woes

only on Saturday to allow the center to be manned by two Department of Public Works (DPW) workers during operations. Saturday hours will be expanded from the present noon-4 p.m. schedule to 10 a.m.-5 p.m. Continuing the current six-day operation would have required the hiring of an additional DPW employee to staff the center.

The decreased hours at the recycling center will allow the DPW employees to control volume and make sure items are properly separated. By checking driver's licenses, the attendants will also record how often residents are using the station and how many of the city's residents make use of it.

Employee supervision will also assure the center is only used by city residents.

"You can't get the full cooperation from the public in terms of physically handling the materials," City Manager Steven Walters explained.

"We'd also limit it to only construction materials in small quantities and containers," he said, to handle the "normal, routine waste from business and residential, and not waste which is generated from a manufacturing activity as such."

The council also agreed to mandatory curbside separation of grass clippings prior to collection by city workers or outside contractors.

Residents will be required to use clear plastic bags to allow easy identification by workers collecting the bags. These would also be useful in the future, if the city requires the curbside separation of glass, cans, plastic and newspapers.

The grass clippings will then be disposed of by an outside contractor rather than at the city's current dump site, the Arbor Hills Landfill at Napier and Six Mile. The separation is intended to reduce the city's dependence on the landfill, where rising fees over the past year resulted in an $80,000 shortfall in the city's refuse budget this year.

The clear bags are currently available at Black's Hardware Store on Main Street, though other stores are considering stocking the bags as well.

Walters recommended the council require collection of grass either on Mondays or on each area's present schedule.

"We're shooting to have informational flyers out to the public by the end of the month," Walters said.

FURTHER RESTRICTIONS

"Steve and I are both wide open to suggestions," said Public Works Superintendent Ted Mapes. "We're just trying to find a solution."

The council was not hesitant in offering suggestions.

While Walters and Mapes originally suggested limiting the center's hours to Wednesday and Saturday, Council Member Jerry Mittman recommended restricting them even further — to Saturday alone.

"It tends to be more of a business-oriented use weekdays," Walters said, which was one reason for including Wednesday in the schedule. But Mittman pointed out that it would be easier to add another day of operation if necessary for residents than to restrict the hours after advertising that the center is open two days a week.

Council Member Carolann Ayers feared that limiting the recycling center's hours may hurt the city's recycling effort. "It seems counterproductive to me somehow," she said. "We want people to get into the recycling mode, yet we're limiting the times that they can come to one or two times a week. We're not really being very encouraging for recyclers."

"Any days of restriction affect some people because of their patterns," Walters said. But limiting the times will allow the city to provide increased supervision of the site, and less likelihood that loads of recyclable material would be rejected because of poor separation. Mapes noted that hours at the Livonia and Plymouth recycling centers are limited, but the Northville Township and Novi centers are open all the time, "and they're all having the same problem with people dumping things that shouldn't be dumped." Another problem is that non-residents use the facility, and the city pays for hauling away the recyclables.

"You're doing your environmental bit, I guess, but the city residents are paying to let other people recycle," Walters said.

"We're only talking about a stop-gap measure," he added. "We'll have to get curbside recycling, I would guess, within the next year."

RECYCLING UPDATE

Mapes also updated the council on the progress the city has already made so far in the recycling effort.

Right now, the city's recycling station at the Public Works Yard is being operated on a voluntary basis, he said. Leaves and brush are now taken to the Michigan Composting Yard in Salem rather than to the Arbor Hills Landfill.

The cost of dumping the leaves at the composting yard is half the cost at the landfill.

City office paper is now being recycled, and newspapers from Allen Terrace are collected weekly and taken to the recycling station, he added.

Lost in America—Canadian arrested for drunk driving

A 68-year-old Windsor, Ontario resident was arrested and charged with operating under the influence Feb. 25 at 10:20 p.m. Township police said they observed the man's vehicle occupying both lanes as he drove east on Seven Mile near Silver Springs Drive. Police said the man made a partial stop at a red light at the Silver Springs intersection and then proceeded through the light.

The man was arrested and arraigned the following day in 35th District Court, where a not guilty plea was entered on his behalf. He eventually was released on a $100 cash bond.

NO CREDIT — Township police investigated a report of a larceny from a vehicle parked at an area near the concession stand at Maybury State Park Feb. 26. Police said the front passenger window on the complainant's vehicle was smashed and a purse containing eight credit cards and a small amount of cash was stolen. The incident reportedly occurred between 2:45 and 3 p.m.

MORE DRUNK DRIVING — A 24-year-old Plymouth resident was arrested Feb. 24 at 2:22 a.m. on southbound Northville Road for operating a vehicle under the influence. The man was released at 8:45 a.m. after posting a $100 cash bond.

ASSORTED INCIDENTS — Township police responded to the following incidents: a woman reportedly had her foot crushed by a high-low forklift Feb. 24 at 2:45 p.m. No further information was available from the township police media log book.

• A disturbing the peace complaint was lodged against a shopper at Meijer, 20401 Haggerty, Feb. 26 at 10:53 p.m. According to the township police media log book, the subjects of the complaint were angry with the store's returned goods policy. No further information was available.

• Township police said they assisted the township fire department with a chimney fire at a residence on Winchester north of Six Mile Feb. 23.

• Township police answered a call of a disorderly person at McDonald's, 39700 Five Mile, Feb. 26 at 6:03 p.m. According to the township media log book, a male was harassing people and loitering around the store's parking lot.

DOOR JAM — The owner of a panel van parked at the Treetop Apartments on Novi Road reported a $200 dent in the right rear door of his van, according to city police reports. The damage reportedly occurred between midnight and 6 a.m. on Feb. 27.

GREEN WITH ENVY — A green Mighty Mac waist-length ski jacket was stolen from a locker at Northville High School, according to city police reports. The jacket — valued at $80 — was apparently stolen between 12:05 and 1:05 p.m. on Feb. 26. According to the jacket's owner, he was the only one using the locker, and the only one with the combination to it.

THE DAY THE MUSIC DIED — An estimated $250 in property was stolen from a van parked in the Northville Green Apartments parking lot off Randolph Street, according to city police reports. The theft reportedly occurred between 9:05 p.m. on Feb. 28 and 6:15 a.m. on March 1. A black cassette case containing 30 tapes and a grey Black and Decker hand-vac were reported stolen.

FENDER BENDERS — City police reported at least two accidents in the past week. On March 3, at 1:48 a.m., a 17-year-old Northville male driving east on Welch Street east of Horton slid off the road, running over a mailbox. Police responding to the scene saw that the driver could not walk without staggering, and reported that he smelled of intoxicants. He was arrested, found to have a blood alcohol level of .15 percent, and charged with operating a vehicle under the influence. He was released on a $500 bond.

Later that day, at 12:07 p.m., a

Northville man exiting the Arbor Drugs parking lot onto East Dunlap reportedly attempted to turn right, striking another vehicle. The driver was cited for making an improper turn.

FOUND PROPERTY — City police have obtained 22 hood ornaments — 20 from Cadillacs, one from a Lincoln and one from a Dodge Ram. The hood ornaments were reportedly stolen from vehicles parked in Northville in the past several months. Anyone wishing to claim one is asked to call Sgt. David Fendeleit of the Northville City police at 349-1234, between 8 a.m. and 4 p.m.

Northville citizens with information about the above incidents are urged to call city police at 349-1234 or township police at 349-9400.

Geake says township among those shortchanged by state

By STEVE KELLMAN

According to Sen. Robert Geake, R-Northville Township, local communities including Northville Township are being shortchanged by the state.

Geake has sponsored legislation to provide additional state revenue to communities which have shown more than a 15-percent growth in population since 1980. According to Geake, the State Revenue Sharing Act of 1971 specifies that such communities are entitled to more money for services such as police and fire protection.

The state-returned revenue comes from income, sales and single-business taxes.

"We're having trouble because the state is short of money," Geake said. "We still have to appropriate the money and get the bill signed by the governor," he added.

That in itself may be no easy task. The bill is part of a five-year battle by Geake and other legislators to restore the extra revenue, according to a spokesperson for the senator. The legislators have been able to secure the revenue in recent years by including the legislation in the supplemental appropriations bill passed at the end of each fiscal year to cover unpaid bills.

The current legislation, similar to bills vetoed by Gov. James Blanchard for the last several years, would automatically pay the qualifying communities their additional revenue each year. The legislation would avoid the annual budget battle now necessary to provide the additional revenues.

Right now, according to Geake, the bill is "still languishing in the appropriations committee."

Northville Township Finance Director Jim Graham said the added revenue is significant for the township. "It amounts to about $100,000," he said.

While the township has received the added revenue for the last two years, that wasn't the case in 1987.

Graham said the township was left in the lurch by the state that year, because of the lack of additional revenue. "We had the special census in 1987 and we showed more than a 15-percent growth," he said, "so we thought we were entitled to it automatically. And we were really planning on having that extra money. We had spent taxpayer money in the intent that we would receive the money, and we didn't get it."

The special census cost the township about $15,000, he said, but it has resulted in more than $200,000 in additional revenue in the last two years.

"This would be the last year that I think we would have to be worried about it," he added. Once the 1990 census is completed, the township should again be automatically entitled to the additional revenue.

Graham said that, given the current population growth, the township would likely hold another special census in the 1990s.

Northville Township is one of 38 communities across the state eligible for the increased revenues. Others include Novi, West Bloomfield, Walling Lake, and Farmington Hills.

The township received $634,300 in state revenues last year, and $616,200 the year before, an increase of 2.94 percent. Northville City, which has not seen as much growth in population over the last 10 years, received $225,700 last year and 217,800 in 1989, a 3.63-percent increase.

Digging out

Work began this week at the old Ford Plant on Main Street and Griswold. Workers are removing four underground storage tanks from the site. Three of the tanks are 10,000 gallon ones which held crude oil used to run the boilers which heated the plant. The fourth is a 500 gallon tank which held fuel.

Low bidders win city road contract

By STEVE KELLMAN

The Northville City Council awarded bids Monday night for $860,000 in tax anticipation notes and $730,000 in state transportation bonds to cover improvements to the city's roads.

The bids were awarded to the low bidders in both cases. The low bidders were National Bank of Detroit for the tax anticipation notes, with a bid of 5.91 percent, and Manufacturers National Bank on the transportation bonds, with a bid of 6.91 percent. The percentage represents the average interest rate charged for the notes and bonds.

The other bidders were McDonald & Co, Michigan National Bank and National Bank of Detroit.

There are several reasons for the different interest rates between the notes and bonds. "The difference primarily is maturity," explained City Bond Counsel Al Diebel of Manufacturers National Bank. "The notes are due Nov. 1 and the transportation bonds are due serially beginning Dec. 1."

Also, City Manager Steve Walters added, "The investors in the notes are tying up their money for only six months, so the investment is considered safe."

The tax anticipation notes are passed for six months, until the city collects its taxes. Walters described it as "a borrowing for cash flow against future revenues that we're going to be collecting anyway."

In contrast, the transportation bond is a 15-year capital improvement bond issue. The bonds are based on gas and weight tax revenue from the state.

The city had previously planned on a transportation bond figure of $775,000, based on the city's audited total of the gas and weight tax revenue that it would receive from the state. But that figure did not agree with the state's reported total, and the city had to use the state's figure.

Cluster housing option for City

By STEVE KELLMAN

Northville City officials are still considering a cluster housing option for the city, though they are in no hurry to have the option on the books.

After a lengthy discussion last week, the city's planning commission instructed Planning Consultant Don Wortman to present more details on the proposal at its next meeting, which was scheduled for Tuesday, March 6.

Commissioner Rolland Stapleton reiterated the cluster housing concept — also known as Planned Residential Unit Development (PRUD) — at a recent planning commission meeting by saying, "The PRUD is being developed as part of a plan to retain those large parcels of land, and allow developers to put houses on one section of the land... so that they can make the development economically feasible without having houses all over."

One of the possible advantages to the PRUD option, he added, is "not being forced to put up a house on every parcel, not being forced to develop to the limit of the sewer system, water system or road system. We want to look at an optimum population capacity and ways to preserve some large parcels with single residences on them currently."

But the commission worried about the level of control the city would have over the amount of development that would be allowed under a cluster housing option. Asked Commissioner David Totten, "How would a PRUD do it and how would a non PRUD do it, and why would a PRUD do it better?"

Wortman insisted that the idea was not an attempt to increase the density of buildings on a given site. "I'm not promoting higher density usage in these in-fill parcels," he said. "What I am concerned with is that currently you don't allow any variation. All you could do would be to permit the traditional cookie-cutter subdivision."

As Wortman explained, the PRUD option could also be structured to save steep slopes or woodlands on a large lot. "One of the advantages of a PRUD is to identify these unique features and leave them alone." The option would entail a density transfer, allowing more houses to be built on one part of the site and less on another. "So your gross density is the same that's currently held in the zoning ordinances."

Wortman added he is not considering the cluster option as a zoning amendment for the immediate future, but as a topic for the Master Plan.

"I'm not sure we want to open up to that development theory," said Commissioner Chris Gazlay. "My concern is that we may be encouraging lower-quality development... My vision is three or five or 10 houses on postage-stamp-size lots by a swamp."

Added Totten, "I don't have a lot of confidence in the integrity of the builder to leave any stone unturned." Said Commissioner Dick Wilhelm, "I just think this should be a dropped issue."

Commissioner David Mielock agreed with many of the commission's fears, saying, "Personally, I feel that the type of developer that initiates a PRUD is a different type of developer than the one who initiates a platted single-family development." But Stapleton pointed out that a cluster housing option could be constructed that would require detached units.

"I can't guarantee you that we won't have another Seven Mile and Center Street," said Stapleton, referring to the St. Lawrence Condominium development, "but through site plan review, it may be controlled better."

"I don't want to be seen as an advocate of this," said Wortman. "But you're really in more control than I think you perceive at this stage. You have a lot of options."

Chemical spill responses given

By CRISTINA FERRIER

Officials from Dow Chemical Co. and CSX Transportation held a meeting in Plymouth for area police, firefighters, residents and government officials Feb. 26 to present information on emergency management of chemical spills in the event of a train derailment.

The information was presented by Transportation Community Awareness and Emergency Response (TRANSCAER), a nationwide community outreach program the two companies have put together to help communities develop and evaluate emergency response plans for hazardous-chemical spills.

At the meeting, the group presented a multipage document to each person present, and explained, among other things, how to read the documents and signs on a train for data on the materials being carried.

TRANSCAER also presented a list of hazardous materials that travel down each of the routes on the Dow-CSX connection.

The Flint-to-Plymouth route, which travels through Northville, carries a wide variety of hazardous materials, most of which are in amounts classified as "light."

A "light" load is from one to 640 carloads per year of a material. A "medium" load is from 641 to 1,400 carloads, and a "heavy" load is over 1,400 carloads.

While the report listed several hundred regulated commodities moving over the Michigan CSX lines, the U.S. Department of Transportation classifies several thousand different materials as "hazardous materials," so officials said at any given time, a commodity not listed in their report could pass over the lines.

According to the TRANSCAER report, three hazardous materials show heavy travel along the Flint-to-Plymouth line. They are solid arsenic trioxide (or solid white arsenic), styrene monomer (inhibited), and liquid petroleum (LP) gas.

LP gas is a highly flammable liquid often used for fuel, and styrene monomer is a potentially explosive liquid with irritating vapors used to make plastics, paints and synthetic rubber, as well as other chemicals.

Arsenic trioxide is identified by the Department of Transportation as a class B poison — toxic to humans.

Young auteurs

Children's book shows affection for school

By MIKE TYREE

Before settling into a typical evening of bid approvals and tax collection agreements, the Northville Public Schools Board of Education had a chance to take in a bit of literature at its Feb. 26 meeting.

The board perused a book written and illustrated by children — with a little technical advice from Early Childhood Specialist Mary Kay Scullen and staff — in the Northville Early Childhood Program.

The 23-page book, entitled "I Like School," chronicles the day-to-day adventures of some of the approximately 185 children who spend their weekdays at Cooke School in the Early Childhood Program.

The young authors, who ranged in age from 2½ to 6, seemed thrilled with the whole idea of the book. As a result, the prose flowed.

"School is so much. I love to go to my school. I love to play and I love my friends. It's fun. I like to go outside with my whole class," wrote 4-year-old Emily D., perhaps mimicking a stream-of-consciousness format such as Faulkner. "I like to eat cookies at snack after naptime. I like my friend, Megumi here at school. I love my teachers here. The End."

Dexter M., age 2, clearly followed the brief, to-the-point writing style of Hemingway.

"I like school because... the sandbox. Oh yeah, cookies and juice. And the gym."

"These are typical of stories kids write all the time," Scullen said. "They were excited to see the book come together."

Scullen said the book was written for the board's meeting at Cooke.

"We really couldn't bring the children to the board, so we decided to let the children tell about their school through writing," she said. Pam Talbott, lead instructor of the 2½-4 age group, said the book includes tales representative of each group of children in the program. She added that the book took two weeks to put together.

With the September 1990 scheduled reopening of Cooke as a middle school, the Kids Creative Corner and Child Care classrooms at Cooke will be moved to Main Street School. According to school officials, the Early Childhood Program will utilize space at Main Street now rented to the Department of Natural Resources.

The DNR is scheduled to vacate its offices at Main Street by the end of April. The children's program is set to move in during the week of June 18-22.

Over 225 children take part in the overall preschool program in the school district. Hours for the program extend from 7 a.m. until 6 p.m. at Cooke and Moraine Elementary.

Residents force new review dates

By MIKE TYREE

As many as 350 township residents have asked for a chance to argue their case before the Board of Review, according to Nancy Molloy, administrative assistant to the Treasurer.

Molloy said the number of property owners wishing to appeal their property assessments has forced the addition of more Board of Review dates.

The latest schedule for assessment review is as follows:

- March 12 from 9 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. and 3:30 p.m.
- March 13 from 3:30 p.m.
- March 14 from 3:30 p.m.
- March 15 from 3:30 p.m.
- March 19 from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.
- March 20 from 3:30 p.m.

Township property owners witnessed a 13.5-percent average increase in their assessments this year.

DNR move mulled

By STEVE KELLMAN

The Michigan State Senate passed a bill Tuesday morning that would turn some 51 acres of land in Northville Township over to the Department of Natural Resources (DNR) for construction of a new Southeast Michigan Regional Headquarters.

The new headquarters would consolidate the DNR's environmental and resource programs. The environmental program of the Southeast Michigan Field Office currently rents space in the Northville Public Schools building at 505 West Main Street, while the resource staff of the Pontiac District Office is located in Pontiac.

The Northville office deals with environmental issues like air and water quality, waste management, investigations and environmental response, while the Pontiac office handles concerns like wildlife, fisheries and land and water management.

Senate Bill 773 would authorize the State Administrative Board to transfer the land from Northville Regional Psychiatric Hospital to the DNR. The land is located on the south side of Seven Mile Road, between the hospital and the Northville State Police Post.

The bill has been sponsored by Sen. R. Robert Geake, R-Northville Township. "This land transfer will enable the DNR to build a centralized office to better serve the public, cut operating costs and reduce travel for the DNR staff," he said. "By transferring the needed land from the Department of Mental Health rather than purchasing it outright we can save the taxpayers money."

Under the proposal adopted by the senate's Joint Capital Outlay Committee, the new headquarters would be completed by the fall of 1991.

Final passage of the Senate bill would also culminate four years of efforts to consolidate the two offices. The project represents the revival of a state-wide move towards consolidation of governmental offices that was abandoned for lack of money.

The DNR began drawing up plans for a building on Seven Mile Road in 1986, but no money was allocated for the project by the state. In September 1988 the project was explored again. The new facility was projected to cost about $2.5 million and house 60-70 staff people. Now the projected number of staff is 113.

NHS alumnus sought for award

By MIKE TYREE

Northville High School is currently seeking candidates for its 1989-90 Distinguished Alumnus Award, according to Principal David Bolitho.

"Northville High School has graduated many outstanding people who have made significant contributions to the improvement of our society on the local, state, national and international levels," he said.

"The Distinguished Alumnus Award is our way of honoring an outstanding graduate."

Bolitho said any person may nominate a Northville High School graduate by submitting to the school a letter that details the nominee's accomplishments.

Nominations will be accepted through April 6, Bolitho said. Nominations will then be screened by a selection committee consisting of representatives from the student body, faculty, central office and high school administration.

Nominations must include a detailed list of contributions and accomplishments, he said.

COMMISSION ORDER CFI-103.90

(Under the authority of Act 230 of the Public Acts of 1925, as amended)
GEAR RESTRICTIONS FOR STREAM FISHING DURING SALMON AND STEELHEAD RUNS

Under the authority of Act 230 of the Public Acts of 1925, as amended, being sections 300.1 through 300.5 of the Michigan Compiled Laws, the Natural Resources Commission at its February 14, 1990, meeting ordered that for a period of five years the following gear restrictions shall be in effect:

On any stream, except the St. Mary's, St. Clair, and Detroit Rivers, before May 15 or after August 31 of each year, except otherwise permitted under the authority of a salmon snagging stamp, it shall be unlawful to:

1. Use multi-pointed hooks exceeding 3/4-inch between point and shank or single-pointed hooks exceeding 1/2-inch.
2. Use a hook, fly or lure having more than one single pointed hook if a weight is rigidly attached to the hook or suspended from or below the hook.
3. Use any hook attached to the line between any weight and the rod, except on an unweighted dropper line at least 3 inches long.

The intent of this regulation is to allow the baited hook or the lure to suspend freely in the water, allowing the fish to take the hook or lure in its mouth.

This order supersedes the Commission Order entitled "Gear Restrictions for Stream Fishing during Salmon and Steelhead Runs", effective April 1, 1985, and assigned number CFI-103.85.

This order shall take effect on April 1, 1990, and shall remain effective through March 31, 1995.

The Haller Proposal

Library price tag is what residents want to know

By MIKE TYREE

Comments from local residents took on a strong "What is this going to cost me?" theme at the Feb. 28 public hearing on the proposed Haller library.

"I'm concerned that we're opening some kind of Pandora's box," said Marjorie Banner, a township resident who spoke against the 44,800-square-foot library/multiuse facility. "I think they (township officials) want us to pay for things we haven't heard anything about."

Banner complained that the 72-acre donation from former township resident Frieda Haller would take the property off the tax rolls and that the township had formulated a hidden agenda to build an undetermined number of structures on the site.

Township Manager Richard Henningsen said the potential exists for a township hall to be built on the site. He said phasing plans for the property were discussed during initial meetings with Haller, but that construction of a library is the only project on the agenda at this time.

John O'Reilly, a township resident, said the presentation of library footprints by architect Don DiComo indicated that more than a library was to be built on the site.

"It should be more accurately described as a multiuse facility," he said. "(The township) should disclose it as such to the residents."

O'Reilly said his personal tax bill had risen 80 percent between 1986 and 1989 and the addition of construction costs for a new library — now estimated at $6.95 million — would place an undue burden on taxpayers.

He also chided the township board for not cementing a shared-services plan with the city.

"Why don't we have a joint-services agreement?" he asked. "To forge ahead (with a library funding plan) is not consistent with good fundamental business policies."

"Maybe (the property donation) is not free after all."

O'Reilly also said he was not pleased by the Feb. 28 public hearing date.

"I'm disappointed that it's taken almost five full months to have this open hearing," he said.

O'Reilly's comments were followed by a round of applause by several of the 50-60 in attendance for the public hearing.

Township resident Phil Phillips asked if the library would be downsized if the city chose not to join the library plan.

"(If not) the size doesn't seem to fit with the need," he said.

Steve Wilson, a member of the library facility committee, said libraries are evolving as information and communication centers.

"A lot of people are using libraries that did not in the past," he said. "A library is not just a book-dispensing facility. We need the extra space."

One member of the audience asked why an open bid process was not used to select a project architect.

"I'm bothered by the fact that the contract was let out five to six months ahead of the vote of the people," he said.

Henningsen said the township board gave him directions to check with local libraries on the fees paid to architects. He said DiComo's quoted price was less than fees charged to neighboring libraries of the size and style of the proposed Haller site.

Trustee Richard Allen said DiComo's bid was studied carefully before acceptance by the board. He also said DiComo's reputation, as well as his good standing as a resident of the community, weighed in the board's decision to retain him.

"I want to know what I'm going to get (for the cost)," Allen said. "DiComo's fees were less (than other local firms)."

Township resident Robin Polletta received the evening's largest round of applause when she told the audience to think about the future on the library issue.

"I think that people that lived here 100 years ago tried to look ahead," she said. "We should lay aside our financial concerns and look to the future."

She said people of "wisdom and vision" could see that a new library as outlined in the township's plans would benefit the community.

Trustee Donald Williams agreed with Polletta.

"I always look 10-20 years ahead (when conducting township business)," he said. "We'll see that people will actually brag about this area in the years to come."

Ford Plant possible library site

By MIKE TYREE

Some area residents would like to see the Ford Plant on the corner of Main Street and Griswold used as a community library.

That idea was discussed at the Feb. 28 Haller Library public hearing and also prompted a study comparing the Ford Plant to the Haller site by township Finance Director James Graham.

In a letter to Supervisor Georgina Goss, Graham indicated that construction of the 44,800-square-foot multiuse facility on the 72 acres of Haller property would cost approximately $6.95 million, as compared to an estimated $5.88 million for a 22,500-square-foot library and 22,325-square-foot undeveloped basement at the Ford Plant.

Graham based his calculations on a Ford Plant study conducted for the 1990 construction season. He said he added a 5-percent inflationary amount to the Ford Plant figures to align with the proposed 1992 building date for the Haller library.

According to Graham, the basic buildings in the city and township would cost $2.5 million and $4.7 million respectively.

Graham's figures indicate that most of that $2.2-million difference would be eliminated through site development (over $1 million) and environmental cleanups ($827,000) necessary to the renovation of the Ford Plant, bringing the two figures closer together.

Graham said his figures did not include any potential purchase price of the plant or a price for developing the 22,325-square-foot basement area.

No costs are anticipated for site development and environmental control at the Haller site.

Graham's other comparative estimates for the two sites includes furnishings ($358,000 for the Ford Plant, $627,000 for Haller), equipment ($225,000 — Ford, $500,000 — Haller), road construction (none — Ford, $125,000 — Haller), contingencies ($452,000 — Ford, $624,000 — Haller), and professional fees ($452,000 — Ford, $376,000 — Haller).

"(Those) costs could be substantial, potentially well over an additional $1 million," he said.

Northville Township Trustee Thomas Handyside commented at the library public hearing that the Ford Plant was "a very old building" and that a large economic burden would be placed upon whoever purchased the facility, due to the amount of oil and hazardous waste on the site.

"More important than the (purchase price) is the liability for the contamination and cleanup," he said. "The buyers are totally responsible."

City officials have dropped discussions on the feasibility of purchasing and converting the Ford Plant to a library since the Haller property donation was announced in September.

Shared services still issue at library

By STEVE KELLMAN

While Haller Library committees are being formed and preliminary design plans discussed in preparation for a May 1 township election, one key element of the Haller Library proposal remains unresolved — the cooperative services agreement between the city and township.

According to City Manager Steven Walters, that lack of resolution is through no fault of the city.

The cooperative services agreement controls the joint operation of shared services, and includes operation of the community library, recreation services, Senior Citizens and Youth Assistance programs.

The township's pursuit of the 44,800-square-foot Haller Library complex over previous proposals for a 25,000-square-foot library has led city officials to rethink the cooperative services agreement, especially its cost-sharing formula for the library. Because of this, a revised agreement and cost-sharing formula have been the subject of negotiations between the two communities for the past three months.

"Everybody is saying, 'How come the city isn't proceeding on this thing?'" Walters said. "But every time we have gotten a township response we've gotten a written reply back in three working days."

The city's latest response to the township was made on Feb. 6, Walters said, and city officials have not heard from the township since.

The Haller Proposal

Library services joint operation point of dispute

"The questions like, 'How come this is taking so long?' should probably be asked of the township," he said.

Walters did not believe a joint meeting between city and township officials would settle the shared-services question any quicker than the current negotiations. "A joint meeting of 10 or 15 people is hardly going to develop a joint-services agreement," he said.

Walters also hesitated to discuss details of the various proposals and counter-proposals. "The contribution of the press to contract negotiations is essentially negative," he said. "It causes both sides to harden their positions, to be less flexible. Positions get taken, and if concessions or compromises are made, then one side has to appear to be giving in to the other."

"The issue that remains is the formula that determines equity in the building if the joint operation is terminated some time in the future," he said.

"If you put a certain percentage into a building, then you expect to get that percentage back if the building's sold," he said. "And that's all the city's saying."

In the latest response to the township, Walters wrote, "The City is especially concerned that the basis of the equity was revised from an 'appraised current market value' to 'the amount of the bond principal payments.' This would leave the City with no inflation protection for its investment, while the Township would acquire the inflation-protection value from the City's contribution as well as from its own contribution."

"In effect," Walters wrote, "it would make the city's share in the project a 'bad investment' if the cooperative library service was ever terminated."

The current delay in negotiations may be due in part to the different methods used by the city and township in their negotiations. While the city council appointed Walters and Mayor Chris Johnson to draft the initial agreement and reply to township proposals, the entire township board has met to discuss city proposals.

"We haven't waited for city council to do that," Walters said. "Mainly, we've just bounced issues off them from time to time. The idea of bringing the draft back to them every time just never occurred to us to be a practical process. However, that's what happened at the township board meeting in January."

Once the city receives a reply from the township to its Feb. 6 proposal, Walters said, "We'll either respond within two or three days that we still have some language issues, or we'll be taking it to the city council because we have a draft that we think is acceptable."

square-foot library and an additional 19,800 square feet to be divided as a lecture hall, meeting rooms and senior-citizen headquarters.

The proposed library would sit approximately 200 feet off Sheldon and Six Mile and 400 feet from the corner of that intersection, DiComo said.

One road would be built off Sheldon that winds around the east side of the facility to Six Mile, and the building would be designed to take advantage of the "beautiful vistas" to the north and east of the site, he added.

"We want to keep a country atmosphere in Northville Township," DiComo said. "We will practice what we preach."

DiComo, a township resident, said his firm "was excited about what we've done here," and said he was open to suggestions from residents about the layout and design of the library.

Township Finance Director James Graham discussed costs and bond debt retirement during his presentation. He described a projected timetable for Haller library events which included ballot-language approval (March 8), election (May 1) and site plan approval (July) for 1990; construction start and bond sale for 1991; and construction completion and first bond interest payment due in 1992.

Graham also announced that estimated state equalized valuations (SEVs) in the community had been updated, with total township property value listed at $480 million and city property valued at $168 million.

He said based on the SEV, the township/city share of the library construction program would be 74-26 percent, respectively, with 85.5 percent of building maintenance and bonded debt on the shoulders of the township, if the city contracts with the township for the library.

Using projections on to the year 2006 — the proposed final year of debt retirement — the township's share of the building maintenance and bonded debt would climb to 91 percent of the cost, based on population and SEV increases in the township.

Graham estimated that a total of 1.9 mills would be needed to build and operate the library complex. He said an average township residence with a market value of $120,000 would have an extra $114 in yearly taxes.

He said the estimated 1.9 mills would not appear on tax bills until Dec. 1991.

Holloway draws fire for landfill proposal

Residents object to Eight Mile landfill site

By SHEILA PHILLIPS

Angry Eight Mile/Napier residents made it clear to county officials that they don't want a construction landfill as a neighbor.

A small army of Novi, Lyon Township and Northville residents rallied against Holloway's proposed landfill at the March 1 public hearing before the county's solid-waste planning committee. Residents collected 83 signatures in opposition to the project.

Among the anti-landfill pack was Novi Mayor Pro Tem Edward Leininger.

"The City of Novi unequivocally opposes the landfill on behalf of our citizens," he told county officials for the record.

"We feel that the water table is awfully high in that area and we share the same concerns as the people of our community," he added. "There is also a problem with policing landfills in general that I think needs to be addressed."

When asked if he was going to back up his words with action, Leininger said that he plans to urge Novi's County Commissioner, John Calandro, to initiate the removal of the site from the proposed county plan.

"I will have to study the issue," Calandro said. "I am interested in talking with Mr. Leininger and finding out why the city has come out against the project when there was some previous suggestion of their support."

Calandro, however, had not spoken with Leininger prior to this paper's Tuesday deadline.

He added that he wanted to go over the minutes of the March 1 hearing before making a move against the site. The Novi commissioner did not attend that hearing.

Previously, Calandro has supported the Holloway project. "The site is currently a gravel pit and it has to be filled with something," he recently told the Novi News. "We might as well have some control over what goes into the site — construction debris would probably end up there anyway."

However, the commissioner said that he is open to initiating a motion to strike the site from the plan based on public sentiment.

"I represent the city and its residents and I will reflect their concerns," he said.

But even if Calandro continues to support Holloway's proposal, Leininger sits on the county's solid-waste committee, which puts him in a good position to fight the landfill.

"If it is still on the proposed plan by the time it gets back to the solid-waste committee, I will make a motion for its removal," he said.

The solid-waste committee is scheduled to meet at 7 p.m. on April 5.

Novi considers roadblocks against Holloway operations

By JAN JEFFRES

NOVI — The Holloway Sand and Gravel Co. appears to be facing a rocky road ahead for its plans to build a landfill at Eight Mile and Napier Roads.

The city council Monday unanimously tabled Holloway's otherwise routine request for a one-year extension of its mining permit — due to expire this month — on the grounds that the proposed landfill is not part of the reclamation project originally submitted to Novi by the company. Holloway has been mining at the site for three years.

The firm first said it would build houses hugging a man-made lake on the residentially zoned, 187-acre site. Now, the houses would still be built, but only after the sand and gravel mines have been brought to a surface grade by the construction-waste landfill.

According to company engineer Richard Zanotti, Holloway submitted a request to the Oakland County Solid Waste Planning Committee about five months ago to include the construction landfill in the county's five-year update of its waste-management plan.

Zanotti said he has not applied for a landfill permit with the city, but has discussed the project at the onset with Chuck Kureth, head of the city's Environmental Committee, and Susan Keast, an environmental specialist with JCK & Associates, the city's consulting engineers.

The mining permit would enable the company to enter into the second and third phases of its mining operations, which will last "a couple of years," Zanotti explained.

The city council directed Holloway to submit its reclamation plans to the planning commission for its review. City Attorney David Fried advised the council that the permit could be renewed by the city administration on a day-by-day basis, while the planning commission studies Holloway's plans. This would allow the mining to continue without being in violation of city requirements.

"I assume the planning commission will expedite this. If they don't submit a plan to the planning commission, then we will address it (as a violation)," Fried said.

However, the city attorney questioned the validity of the permit.

"If you're not going to live up to that plan, I don't know how good that permit is," he said.

Mayor Pro Tem Edward Leininger accused Holloway of "going behind the city's back" in approaching the # Mother of Navy sailor calls report a victory

By STEVE KELLMAN

Local resident Nancy Lewis considers a recent U.S. congressional panel report on the Navy investigation into the USS Iowa disaster a personal victory for the parents of the 47 sailors killed aboard the battleship last year.

Her son, Richard Lewis, 23, was one of the sailors killed when the battleship's Number Two Turret exploded on April 19.

The House Armed Services investigations subcommittee said last Friday the Navy's investigation failed to prove its theory that Gunner's Mate Clayton Hartwig "most likely" set off the explosion that killed him and the 46 other crew members, a theory that Lewis and many other Iowa family members have rejected all along.

The subcommittee's report read,

"By the standards of this subcommittee — and the standards that we think should have been applied in the Navy's investigation — there is only a hypothesis, and a tenuous one at that."

The Navy's original investigation into the disaster had found that "the wrongful intentional act that caused this incident was most probably committed by... Clayton M. Hartwig."

The Navy's ruling was based in part on an "equivocal death analysis" performed by FBI psychologists in response to a request from the Navy. That analysis concluded, "Clayton Hartwig died as a result of his own actions, staging his death in such a fashion that he hoped it would appear to be an accident."

The FBI analysis was based on technical information from the Navy, letters written by Hartwig, and interviews with his family and friends.

Friday's subcommittee report criticized four aspects of the Navy's findings, including the fact that no formal hearings were held by the Navy prior to convening its one-person investigation. The subcommittee also criticized the Navy for flip-flopping on its theory of the type of explosive device used by Hartwig to trigger the explosion. Navy investigators first "proved" that a detonation device using a timer was used, then found evidence of a chemical detonator after the timer theory was discounted.

Rep. Nicholas Mavroules, D-Mass., chairperson of the subcommittee, also criticized the Navy's reliance on the FBI analysis over more thorough investigation.

"The Navy stands by its conclusion," said Lt. Mark Walker, a Navy spokesperson in Washington. Walker said the Navy's conclusion was based on more than 20,000 scientific tests, and also noted that the panel's report did not include a recommendation that the Navy reopen its investigation.

A staff person for the House Armed Services Committee, who asked not to be identified, said that the panel is more interested in suggesting reforms to the Navy's investigative process than reopening the Iowa investigation itself. "We don't feel it would be worthwhile at this late date to reopen the investigations," he said.

"Our report does not come out and say how we think the ignition occurred, or whether or not Clayton Hartwig was responsible," he added. "The committee is more of the belief that the Navy needs to take a long, hard look at their investigative process overall."

Besides, he said, it would be even more difficult now to reach a conclusion as to the cause of the disaster. Much of the evidence was simply dumped overboard in the cleanup after the Navy's own investigation. "We don't know what they would have come up with had the Navy maintained that evidence," he said.

At this point, the panel is waiting for a formal response from the Navy regarding its report. After receiving a reply, the panel could still initiate its own investigation, hold hearings on its findings, or enact legislation regarding military investigations, the staffer said.

"The chairman has a fundamental problem with the military service investigating itself," he said.

"This is such an exciting thing," Lewis said of the panel's report.

Lewis has been in contact with the other families of the Iowa victims through a series of newsletters she has written since November. She is currently compiling a composite picture of the 47 sailors, to be used in the Navy's first anniversary memorial service in Norfolk, Va.

Lewis has also been attending congressional hearings on last April's USS Iowa disaster in Washington.

The Northville woman was also quoted in a recent Associated Press article which ran in papers across the country. "As a result of that," she said, "I've gotten calls from all sorts of people with boys in the service, wondering what they can do (to assure their sons' safety). I'm finding out there's just such a need out there for people to get involved."

"I've saved from the beginning that if it saves the life of one boy, it's worth it."

"This is only the beginning, though," she said.

Plymouth courts may get one of 16 new judgeships in state

A third judgeship for the 35th District Court in Plymouth moved a step closer to reality recently in Lansing.

However, the bill to fund the judgeship will have to compete for attention in Lansing during an election year where the stakes are high.

The Michigan Court Administrator's office recommended adding a third judgeship to the Plymouth court. The judgeship is one of 16 recommended for the state, said Tom Farrell, a spokesman for the state Supreme Court.

The court administrator's office recommended judgeships for 12 district courts, including Bloomfield Hills, Farmington Hills, Ann Arbor and Romulus, as well as Plymouth. They also recommended adding three outstate circuit court judges and one for probate court.

The creation of the judgeships needs the approval of the state Legislature and it couldn't have come at a worse time, said State Rep. Gerald Law, R-Plymouth.

"This is going to be a highly charged election year," he said, with lawmakers not wanting to go on record on controversial bills.

There will be races for governor, a U.S. Senate seat, the entire state Legislature and all 18 U.S. House seats.

"Whatever party is in the majority has the option of writing the redistricting" boundaries for the next 10 years — or to the year 2000 — Law said.

State lawmakers have also been told that the budget must be cut and that there will be a 5-percent increase across the board for education funding.

"Anything in the world can happen" with the judgeship bill, Law said. "I really haven't had any feeling at all about how it will go."

The bill has to go through the judiciary committees of the House and Senate before the lawmakers vote on it.

It can change at any point in between.

"There'll be some argument over who wants what, who gets it and who doesn't," Law said.

Law's main concern about the judgeship is financial.

The state pays 90 to 100 percent of the judge's $91,080 salary. The local court unit pays for the judge's office and staff requirements.

Estimates by Law and 35th District Judge John McDonald to renovate the court building to house a third judge range between $400,000 and $500,000.

If the bill passes in Lansing there'll be an August primary. Law said he knows of at least 10 candidates for the runoff. The two primary winners will run for the judgeship in the November election.

House votes down 'schools of choice'

By TIM RICHARD

LANSING — "Schools of choice" — a concept that won overwhelming support in the state Senate — went down in flames in the House of Representatives.

The House last week rejected a bill to allow districts to set up choice programs under which parents would select the school their children would attend.

"This bill does not mandate choice. It mandates that districts look at choice," said a supporter, House Education Committee chair William Keith, D-Garden City.

The vote was 36 in favor and 61 against House Bill 4615.

Among area lawmakers supporting it were Willis Bullard, R-Highland, David Honigman, R-West Bloomfield, and Susan Grimes Munsell, R-Howell.

It was opposed by Gerald Law, R-Plymouth, Francis Spaniola, D-Corunna, and Judith Miller, R-Birmingham.

Miller plans to move to the lakes area to run for the Senate seat of Richard Fessler, R-Commerce. Honigman already has announced for the seat.

The Senate passed a similar bill last May by a 30-4 vote. Chief difference: The House Bill requires action only by the school board, while the Senate bill requires 25 percent of those who voted in the last school election to sign petitions for a ballot question on the process.

The bill would allow local school boards to make a decision on whether to adopt the concept. The board would then establish a planning committee of "one-third parents and pupils, one-third teachers and one-third school board members and administrators" to work out details.

Brainchild of the Metropolitan Affairs Corp., a southeastern Michigan think tank, "schools of choice" is aimed at breaking up the alleged monopoly of public schools by forcing them to compete against each other.

The idea gained national attention from a Bronx experiment and has been implemented in much of Minnesota.

It is endorsed by President George Bush, Gov. James Blanchard, GOP gubernatorial candidate John Engler and the Michigan Manufacturers Association.

Opposed were the Michigan Education Association, Michigan Association of School Administrators, Michigan Association of School Boards and Michigan PTA Council, and a group of suburban districts called the Michigan Association for Improved School Legislation.

Residents voice their opposition to landfill

to modify the proposed solid waste plan.

Leininger apologized for his previous attitude about the contents of the county plan.

"I've been taking a passive stance to things and I realize that there has to be far more interest in the solid-waste issue," he said.

Although siting landfills is a necessary part of the county's solid-waste plan, Leininger said, the process should be modified to allow for more municipal and public input.

Nancy Marcicki, a Lyon Township resident, has launched a petition drive against Holloway. She has been circulating flyers against the project and garnering opposing signatures.

"The future is to recycle, not bury," she said. "Once you use the land to bury your debris, you have taken valuable property and have made it worthless in the years to come."

"You don't take tree stumps and put them in the ground to rot for the next 100 years; you shred them up and use them for wood chips or some other recyclable use," she said.

She said that concrete can also be recycled and reused.

However, Holloway spokesperson Dick Zanotti has said that this is no longer a viable alternative because the state has stricter laws governing the contents of concrete used in highway construction.

Nevertheless, recycled concrete could still be used for residential uses.

Concerns over the proposed landfill voiced at the public hearing included

"The future is to recycle, not bury. Once you use the land to bury your debris, you have taken valuable property and have made it worthless in the years to come."

— Nancy Marcicki, anti-landfill activist

the site's residential zoning, its proximity to Maybury State Park, and increased traffic.

According to Leininger, the City of Novi shares all of these concerns.

The county's Department of Public Works is taking written comments from citizens concerned about the Holloway landfill and other portions of the county solid-waste plan until 5 p.m. March 29.

Comments should be addressed to: Solid Waste Update Plan, Department of Public Works, One Public Works Drive, Pontiac, MI 48054.

county and said the company should abide by its original plans.

"Mr. Zanotti, you have to understand we were rather surprised to see your letter. By the rules of the game, the 641 plan has no local control, no local review at all," Leininger said. "I don't have a whole lot of compassion for your request at all."

Zanotti denied that the company was trying to circumvent the city.

"There was a short window to operate in and we had to go through that," he said.

He refuted suggestions that the construction landfill (type III) would be changed to a potentially more hazardous trash and garbage landfill (type II).

"This is not an open, public type of landfill. We have an agreement with BFI that we cannot operate a type II landfill within 100 miles of their site for 10 years," Zanotti said.

In June 1986, Holloway sold a type II landfill at Six Mile and Napier Roads in Salem Township to Browning-Ferris Industries.

In compliance with city requirements for the mining permit, Holloway sent a certificate of insurance and a surety bond to the city and has sent information on environmental monitoring of the site to JCK & Associates. Zanotti said in a letter to the city that water samples could not be taken at the site until warmer weather.

JCK recommended the renewal if Holloway continued to monitor the surface water at a pond on its eastern boundary and submitted results twice yearly.

At the conclusion of the council meeting, Leininger reported on a March 1 public hearing before the county's solid-waste planning committee, which he attended to express the council's opposition to the

Holloway landfill. Leininger urged the city council to take time in the near future to review

NORTHVILLE CITY COUNCIL MINUTES SYNOPSIS FEBRUARY 26, 1990

Mayor Johnson called the regular meeting of the Northville City Council to order in the Council Room at 8:00 p.m.

1. PLEDGE OF ALLEGIANCE:

2. ROLL CALL:
PRESENT: Mayor Johnson, Mayor Pro-tem Ayers, Councilmen Folino, Gardner and Mittman
ABSENT: None.

ALSO PRESENT: City Manager Steve Walters, City Clerk Cathy Konrad, Police Captain James Petres, Carolyn and Ron Abramovich, Mark Cederman, Pat Kennedy, Kathleen Otton, and Northville Record reporter Steve Kellman.

3. APPROVAL OF COUNCIL MEETING MINUTES:

The minutes of the regular meeting of February 5, 1990, and the special meeting of February 20, 1990, were approved as submitted and placed on file.

4. CITIZEN COMMENTS:

None.

5. ADOPTION OF THE AGENDA & APPROVAL OF THE CONSENT AGENDA:

Moved, supported, CARRIED UNANIMOUSLY, to approve the agenda as submitted and the consent agenda A, through N.

6. CALL HEARING TO REPEAL EDC ORDINANCE:

Walters recommended repealing the EDC Ordinance because the IRS regulations have eliminated the EDC function of assisting development projects with tax-exempt interest rate financing. The city does not have any existing EDC bond issues to service and other development functions would be handled by the DDA.

Motion by Ayers, supported by Gardner, CARRIED UNANIMOUSLY, to call a public hearing for Monday, March 19, 1990, at 8:00 p.m., to consider repealing Title 2, Chapter 12, Economic Development Corporation Ordinance.

7. OUR LADY OF VICTORY CHURCH BANNERS:

Moved, supported, CARRIED, approve the six banners at Our Lady of Victory Church for seven week periods in the Spring and Fall until December, 1991, for their program of spiritual renewal.

8. PARKING DECK STATUS REPORT:

The three basic alternatives are:
1. A deck running east to west behind Main Centre and MAGS.

2. A deck occupying essentially the space of the present deck on the east side of Center.

3. A deck moved south of the present deck to allow retail space to be developed along Mary Alexander Court.

Walters will have more information at the next meeting on a north/south version of a new parking deck at the present deck's location and suggested scheduling a study session to review the alternatives.

Moved, supported, CARRIED UNANIMOUSLY, to hold a special council meeting on Monday, March 12, 1990, at 8:00 p.m. to discuss the parking deck.

9. HALLER LIBRARY PROJECT STATUS REPORT:

Walters requested discussion be held when Don DiComo, architect, would be present after 8:30 p.m.

10. PROPOSAL TO HIRE FULL-TIME ASSESSOR:

Walters reviewed his memo of 2/24/90, recommending hiring a fulltime Assessor in the near future due to:

1. Increased cost from the two counties for upgraded assessing services (commercial property reappraisal and new State requirement that properties be reviewed every five years).

2. Improvement of quality of assessing operation.

3. Actual work performed by assessors would be greater than received by counties, plus he could assist on other projects once commercial appraisal is done.

4. The City would be appraised as a whole and would be more equitably equalized.

Walters stated the person he has in mind has a Level 3 Assessing Certificate as well as a background in general finance and administrative qualifications. He felt this is a highly experimental position at this point and will evaluate the Council's suggestions and report to them at the next regular meeting on March 5.

9. HALLER LIBRARY PROJECT STATUS REPORT:

Don DiComo, architect, reviewed the conceptual plans of the 25,000 sq. ft. Library and non book area for a total of 44,800 sq. ft. facility, as it will be shown at the Township public hearing on Wednesday, February 28.

Walters noted the Council has current budget figures for the meeting at the Township, and we are waiting for their response to the Joint Services Agreement.

11. COUNCIL COMMENTS:

Folino noted he received both complaints and compliments on the snow removal citations. He felt that sidewalks should be installed on Potomac.

Johnson stated the Council will be reviewing the overall sidewalk policy first before looking at specific areas.

Folino asked for an explanation of the Planning Commission's request of the practicability of redirecting Cady Street East.

Walters responded they are suggesting that East Cady Street be extended past Foundry Flak to come out on South Main Street by the bridge.

Folino requested the resolution on Earth Day be considered by Council.

Johnson asked that it be on the consent agenda for March 5, 1990.

There being no further business to be discussed by City Council, Mayor Johnson adjourned the regular meeting of Monday, February 26, 1990, at 9:27 p.m.

CATHY M. KONRAD, CITY CLERK

(03-07-90 NR)

Toni Wisne and Ed Janos, co-owner and chef respectively of Chez Raphael Restaurant in Novi. The arches and column shown here will disappear after remodeling.

Eating out

Change at Chez Raphael

By LESLIE PEREIRA

A longstanding family joke is about to become anachronistic.

"Where shall we go for dinner?" went the setup. The wittiest would quickly supply the punchline: "Chez Raphael," the entire family would burst out laughing, and everyone would trot off to somewhere a little less dressy — and more affordable.

However, the enigmatic restaurant will soon be undergoing an "image change" which will include developing a more comfortable atmosphere and dramatic price slashing.

"We want to be able to offer what we do well to more people," said Chez Raphael owner Toni Wisne.

Not willing to give away the specifics, Wisne explained the restaurant's "impeccable" menu and service will be maintained, but the check average will come down drastically and the atmosphere and interior will be "more upbeat, more high-energy."

And the wait staff will no longer wear tuxedos.

"Now we are a high-ticket place, and the trend all over the country seems to be going toward lower tickets," Wisne said, referring to the cost per diner.

And Chef Ed Janos agreed.

"There has been a trend away from fine dining and we have had a declining customer count," Janos said. "It would be fine if we were smaller, but our large size requires us to have more customers."

Currently, a dining experience at Chez Raphael averages about $70 per person. That average will drop to $35.

A recent Gallup survey published in the Detroit Free Press supports the trend Wisne and Janos describe.

More than 50 percent of the 1,000 adults questioned said they preferred a casual restaurant to fine dining. Only 18 percent said they preferred fine dining over casual with the remaining people not knowing or not caring.

Chez Raphael's impending metamorphosis appears to be an attempt to capture back a good share of the area's diners.

Will the new image include serving lunch?

"It is still up in the air," Janos said.

For their loyal customers, Chef Janos said they will still "fly in the $300 truffles" but their immediate plans are focused on trying to attract people interested more in a fun dining experience than a fine dining experience.

"A lot of people have been kind of afraid to come here because they think that it is so expensive," Janos said, "and we want them to try it out."

Snow machine

What a way to spend spring break. Schoolcraft College student and Northville resident Craig Caderet uses a snowblower following Monday's storm. Caderet was kept busy, at least for the moment, during his spring break from classes at the local college.

New support group for single parents

Recognizing the special needs of single-parent families, Pat Stringer and Elizabeth Stevenson will facilitate a new support group for parents of single families through the First United Methodist Church of Northville.

This group will enable single parents to get to know one another and to develop a support network. They will explore issues facing families today and allow the opportunity to grow together within the faith of the church.

The sessions will meet on Sundays at 11 a.m. in room 10 of the First United Methodist Church.

Council votes to hire new assessor

told the council Monday night "But I think we could get a good applicant within the budget that we're talking about for the county services."

The city is currently paying about $15,000 to Wayne County and $10,000 to Oakland County each year for reappraisal services. That amount does not include the cost of special services like the full reappraisal of commercial property being done this year in the city, or the state's new requirement that all properties be physically viewed at least once every five years during the reassessment process.

Because of staff shortages, Wayne County has not performed such a reappraisal of the city's properties since 1974.

"It appears that at a minimum we're looking at $35,000 to $37,000 in billing from the counties each year," Walters said, if the city sticks with county services.

The city had previously agreed to hire employees of the Oakland County Board of Assessors to provide a reappraisal of the city's commercial properties, at an additional cost of $24,360. The full-time assessor, if hired, could provide that service instead, Walters said.

Walters had estimated last week that the cost of a full-time assessor would be roughly $45,000 a year for salary and benefits. The assessor would also be available for other projects at city hall.

Commission Order - CFI-112.90

(Under the authority of Act 230 of the Public Acts of 1925, as amended)

OPEN SEASONS AND CATCH LIMITS ON PIKE, WALLEYE, SAUGER AND MUSKELLUNGE

Under the authority of Act 230 of the Public Acts of 1925, as amended, being sections 300.1 through 300.5 of the Michigan Compiled Laws, the Natural Resources Commission at its October 4, 1989, meeting ordered that for a period of five years it shall be unlawful to take the following named species except within the open seasons and daily limits as prescribed below:

Open season: On walleye, sauger northern pike and muskellunge (including tiger muskellunge).

Region I: All Upper Peninsula waters, including the surrounding Great Lakes and connecting waters not otherwise closed to fishing shall be from May 15 through March 15.

Regions II and III: All Lower Peninsula waters except the Great Lakes and connecting waters not otherwise closed to fishing shall be from the last Saturday in April through March 15.

Regions II and III: The Great Lakes and connecting waters shall be open year around, except that muskellunge in Lake St. Clair, and the St. Clair and Detroit rivers may be taken only from the first Saturday in June through December 15 of each year.

For the purposes of this order, all drowned river mouth lakes such as Manistee Lake, Lake Macatawa and Muskegon Lake are considered as inland waters and are subject to inland water regulations.

Daily Catch Limits: Statewide limits shall be five (5) singly or in combination for largemouth and smallmouth bass, walleye and sauger and northern pike; the daily catch limit on muskellunge is one (1) (including tiger muskellunge) except that the daily catch limit on Lakes St. Clair and Erie and the Detroit and St. Clair rivers shall be six singly or in combination for largemouth and smallmouth bass, walleye, sauger, and northern pike when the catch includes at least one walleye or sauger.

This order supersedes the Commission Order entitled "Open Seasons and Catch Limits on Pike, Walleye, Sauger and Muskellunge", effective April 1, 1987 and assigned number CFI-112.87.

This order shall take effect on April 1, 1990, and shall remain effective through March 31, 1995.

Our Opinions

Shared services contract must be the first priority

Questions surrounding the continued negotiations between the city and the township over the shared-services agreement have been surfacing.

Answers to these questions must be found quickly and decisions made once and for all for the good of the community as a whole. Residents in the city and the township must begin to see in black and white just exactly what the Haller Library proposal means to them financially, so they can begin the process of asking questions and formulating a decision regarding the proposal.

Residents who turned out for last week's public hearing on the Haller Library proposal, which will make its way to township voters on May 1, were treated to phrases such as "if the city takes part in this proposal" and "according to the current version of the shared-services agreement."

It's time for both township and city officials to stop dancing around and to sit down and hammer out this agreement. Each week that goes by increases resident distrust and confusion in both communities. Rumors of a city plan to stall negotiations have surfaced. City Manager Steven Walters called that rumor false in a recent interview, saying the township has had an answer within two or three days of every proposal they have made.

Township officials on their part have waited until regularly scheduled township board meetings to discuss publicly the terms of the agreement. It is hard to find fault with that system, since residents will be paying for this agreement in the end, and should have a chance to see the proposal as it is worked out in an open meeting.

The question that comes to mind first is why both bodies have not sat down together, with their respective lawyers, and discussed the proposal in a joint meeting format. If the sheer number of people present would prove too cumbersome for a limited discussion, surely a subcommittee from both bodies could meet in a public meeting to agree on language and terms together. The proposal could then be voted on by the city council and the township board in their separate meetings.

It seems to be a highly elaborate ritual to send a proposal to the city where it is worked on by two people who send it back to the township where it is worked on by the board as a whole — only to be sent back to the city for readjustment by two people . . . on and on again.

The shared service agreement between the city and township is extremely important. Senior-citizen services, Youth Assistance, Parks and Recreation, and yes, library services, can best be financed by the sharing of community resources. The city is right to look closely at the equity issue of the Haller Library. Any change in the shared service agreement in the future should not penalize city residents for their investment in that project, should it come about.

Likewise, township residents have a right to watch the agreement closely. They will be footing the bill for the majority of the library funding — based on the higher SEV of the township.

We hope that the agreement is forthcoming. The city has yet to hold a public hearing on the Haller Library proposal or on the shared service agreement, as it is waiting to finalize details before setting a date.

Time is running out. In less than two months township voters will go to the polls to vote on funding for a 44,800-square-foot multiuse/library facility.

Residents would have been better served by a public hearing involving both township and city officials rather than separate hearings involving only one set of officials. They would also be better served by open meetings involving both communities to iron out the details of this agreement.

Assessor job is good hire

How much is Northville City worth?

City officials may soon be able to answer that question more accurately. The city council agreed Monday on City Manager Steven Walters' recommendation to hire a full-time assessor for at least two years.

According to Walters, the cost of a city assessor would not be much more than what the city is currently paying Wayne and Oakland counties for their assessing services. And the city may be able to provide better assessing on its own.

The problem with the current system is that Wayne County does not have the staff to perform a full appraisal of the city's commercial properties. The city had agreed this year to contract with employees of the Oakland County assessing department to provide an in-depth reassessment of the city's commercial properties — which have reportedly been underassessed for years.

Now the state is requiring that each assessed property be physically viewed at least once every five years, rather than the 10 or more years previously allowed between such reviews. That requirement would further increase the city's cost for outside assessments.

There are other potential advantages to hiring a full-time assessor besides the monetary ones. Such a person could quickly become more familiar with the city's properties than a county assessor. A full-time employee — someone under contract to the city — could also provide additional services at city hall.

Council members agreed in principle with the idea of a full-time assessor, though they were hesitant to hire a person for the position outright.

As the city grows, so does the need for such an employee. City council members should be commended for cautiously pursuing Walters' proposal, and Walters should be praised for his foresight in making the proposal.

When assessments went out to city residents recently a collective cry of anguish could be heard. Talk around town centers on one subject these days — how much did your assessment go up? Residents have a right to know that commercial and industrial buildings in the city are receiving as much scrutiny as their own homes when it comes to assessing the value. A full-time assessor would go a long way toward ensuring that kind of across-the-board uniformity.

Other communities have turned to sources other than the counties for their assessing needs. Northville Township, Plymouth and Canton currently contract with an outside firm for their appraisal services. And Novi has an entire assessing department.

With so much riding on the answer to the question, "How much is Northville City worth?" the cost of a full-time assessor seems small indeed.

Through the ages

By Ann Willis

We've grown up to different beats.

Hers was the sound of Peter, Paul and Mary. The folk era took off as her teenage years began and the room was always full of guitars, wailing singers and causes.

She kept the newspaper clippings of Kennedy's assassination, in a Hudson's box in the corner of her closet. And like the nosey younger sister I still am, I found them long after she had left our shared attic room, for college. I guess I'd gotten bored with pawing through her dresser in search of cast-off sweaters and was seeking out forgotten treasures in hope of future blackmail. Instead I found carefully folded clippings and remembrances.

My sister just turned 40 and although she is facing her new status with chin held high and firm quotes from her hairstylist John that she doesn't look a day over 32, the rest of the family keeps muttering, "I can't believe she's 40."

My mother is solving the problem by telling everyone she is no longer related to this obviously nearing-middle-age person. My brother is too close to the mark himself to do much more than shake his head. I, on the other hand, have the distance of many years and the firm place in the family as "the baby" which allows me to wax nostalgic and to be basically obnoxious about the milestone.

We grew up in different times, my sister and I. For Debbie, college meant protests and decisions about freedoms that no one had faced before. I remember going up to Central Michigan with my parents and hearing the warning cry of "Man on the Floor" shouted out before my father was allowed to carry boxes upstairs to her room.

When my turn came to go to U-M, the only yelling came when a guy in the thoroughly coed dorm wandered through the bathroom. Even those were pretty half-hearted shouts, as I recall.

She grew up in the age when a liberal arts education was still a good thing to get. Education majors and social work students were still easy to spot on campus. People still wanted to save the world — and thought they could.

I grew up in the age of business degrees, specialized majors and the overwhelming concern with starting salaries.

Despite our disparate memories, because we're sisters there are more shared times than differences. And lately it's been easier for both of us to remember the words to "Blowin' in the Wind."

We just sing them to a different beat.

Missing ingredients

By Bob Needham

I'm a complete incompetent in the kitchen. It's all I can do to fix popcorn or heat up a frozen pizza in the microwave. It's always been kind of embarrassing to me that I don't know the first thing about cooking, so that's why I got so excited about the whole idea of the Amish friendship bread.

Steve brought this stuff into the office not long ago. Kind of a neat idea: you mix up enough dough — or batter, or whatever it is — for yourself plus some for a couple of friends. Then they add ingredients and do the same thing, and it goes on and on until the whole world is baking bread. Kind of a culinary chain letter.

But the really good part was the way you make the bread. Mostly what you do is let it sit around; once a day you stir it up and a couple of times you have to add some basic ingredients. On the appointed day you pop it in the oven and, rumor has it, it comes out as bread.

This, I figured, I can handle. No tricky measurements. No ingredients I'd never heard of. None of those confusing cooking terms like "broil" which I've never been able to grasp. I felt sure I could handle the Amish friendship bread.

I was wrong.

See, the first night I was supposed to add stuff — just milk, flour and sugar — I worked really late. When I got home, I knew I had to do my friendship-bread duty — but I had no milk. It was too late to get any, but I figured, ahh, it can wait a day. But the next day I forgot to get the milk. And the next I didn't have time to get it.

By the day after that, the friendship bread — which starts out as pretty gooey stuff — was looking definitely unhealthy. It took several more days before I screwed up the courage to even open the tupperware and get rid of it.

In a fit of embarrassment I confessed to Steve that I had managed to destroy the bread. He found it kind of hard to believe, but said he forgave me. And — all was not lost — someone else in the office he gave bread to, Susie, had done things right and had another batch I could try.

I felt a lot better and gratefully accepted by second chance, sure that this time I would do it right. And I have. I made sure I had milk, and on the appointed day I added the ingredients just like the instructions say.

I can't sleep completely well, though. See, when I was adding those first ingredients I didn't have anything appropriate to put the dough in, so I used the best I had: an empty coffee can. The next day I transferred the stuff to a plastic container.

But the directions specifically say to use a wooden spoon and a plastic or glass bowl. That can was metal. You don't think I've messed up again, do you? Or should I just stick with popcorn?

Landfill proposal affects us all

Amused by edit

To the Editor:

When I first read the proposal for a landfill near the northeast corner of Napier and Eight Mile roads, my reaction was perhaps the same as many living in my particular area, i.e., it's far enough away not to bother me. However, during the days following the announcement, several factors have become evident which have changed my mind.

1. During a particularly warm day with strong winds out of the southwest, nauseating smells of decaying matter from the landfill at Napier and Six Mile Road permeated, via my closed garage, into my home.

2. My first impression that a "solid waste" landfill would only consist of building/road construction debris and tree stumps was shattered when told that original intents of landfill operations can easily be changed to include all manner of waste material, even to the extent that the newly proposed site could resemble Napier and Six Mile in content.

3. The berm at the rear of the homes in my quiet backwater was finally leveled, along with the needless destruction of trees ranging from saplings to larger-girthed beauties, giving an unlovely view of construction at the Blue Heron complex on Beck Road.

4. The recently publicized "snow storm" of plastic wrappings from the BFI landfill at Napier and Six Mile Road following a high wind was not an isolated incident — during regular walks west on Six Mile Road I have seen similar occurrences during the past 10 years, although not to such a great extent.

5. Take a walk south on Napier between Seven Mile Road and Six Mile Road (don't drive, heavy trucks have caused wheel-eating potholes) — and let your eyes rove over the grass verges, mail boxes, hedgerows and front yard trees on the east side of the road. Is the grass green? Do the trees look healthy? Dust has settled in a thick film over everything, dust which invades the smallest apertures around windows and doors, dust which makes working outside a hazard, dust which turns to sticky mud at the first rainfall.

6. Being considerably lower than Eight Mile Road, there is a distinct possibility that ground water could eventually be contaminated by seepage from the site.

I am now beginning to realize how Custer must have felt in his last stand. When giving people directions to locate my home, from the freeway and exiting on Beck Road, we tell of the prisons they must pass, whether using Five Mile Road or Beck Road itself. Questions are asked about the easily visible "mountain" to the west, the BFI landfill. Even more embarrassing would be directions coming from the north if the new landfill is allowed.

This needless rape of land close to homes previously enjoying a quiet country lifestyle must not be allowed to continue.

Of course, the waste matter must go somewhere; that is understood, and unfortunately there does not seem to be a solution to this problem, unless it is attacked at the doorsteps of those creating the waste. We get tree trunks because bulldozers tear up the ground in total disregard for the aesthetic and environmental aspects of the area. We get building waste because no effort is made to recycle the bricks, concrete and steel. We get too much paper which is not recyclable because of over-packaging (plastic packets within a paper packet, within a cardboard box, within a plastic/paper carrier bag).

I feel more concerned for the folks living in closer proximity to the proposed landfill than for myself, but still feel that Northville and Novi (particularly on the "right" side of the tracks) should be now left alone to enjoy what little peace they have left.

Isn't it ironic that wetlands are protected to give animals and birds the right to live in a safe environment, but the human species is being steadily threatened by its own kind?

Please listen to the raised voices and read every letter and stop this rape of the countryside before it goes any further.

Sincerely,
Kit Henderson

Proposal protest

To the Editor:

This letter is to protest the proposed landfill by Holloway Construction Company near Napier and Eight Mile.

We are longtime residents (57 years) of Napier Road.

Most certainly we don't want another landfill (dump) in our area.

We have all seen what happened at the "Six Mile dump." Know of the desecration of the land, people and wells in the area surrounding that landfill.

The Holloway Construction Co. spokesperson wants us to believe only tree stumps and cement will be dumped in the proposed landfill.

Why don't we believe this? Once they gain approval, they'll dump whatever, and policing would be very difficult.

The Holloway spokesperson stated, "If people living around the site aren't aware of the sand and gravel operation, they won't even know that the landfill is there."

They are speaking of a handful of trucks. And we took that statement as an insult!

We have a horrendous amount of truck traffic thundering down Napier Road at high speeds literally shaking our homes, creating clouds of dust and leaving the road in constant need of repair.

We find it hard to believe the City of Novi would want another "Six Mile dump site" in their city with all the headaches and heartaches it could bring.

Landfills are money-makers, and the Holloway Construction Co. knows how to do that!

Why does Mr. Holloway continue to take from the community and ruin our beautiful countryside?

Norwood and Arlene Balko

More opposition

To the Editor:

We are strongly opposed to the proposed solid-waste landfill by Holloway Construction Company near the northeast corner of Eight Mile and Napier Road, currently being mined for sand and gravel by the Holloway Company. (When mining began this land was zoned residential and would become a subdivision when mining was completed). The close proximity to Maybury State Park and Maybury Living Farm would be a threat to the environment due to contaminated debris. Also, Holloway previously owned the Type II landfill at Six Mile and Napier, only two miles south (now operated by Browning-Ferris Industries), which resulted in the closing of Salem Airport.

We are 30-year residents on acreage in an area adjacent to Maybury State Park. We feel threatened by possible (probable) contamination and increased heavy truck traffic. Not every mining operation should result in a proposed dump — please think of the long-range impact, not just "Oakland County's mistake."

Unreal MX edit

To the Editor:

At the onset, please do not interpret this as a pro MX Rail Garrison Missile System statement. I have many of the same concerns about the program that were outlined in the articles that appeared in the Feb. 1 edition of the Record. However, I could not help but be somewhat amused reading the editorial that was in that same issue where the writer expressed concern for the possible damage incurred by the tracks while launching these missiles. I have no idea what, if any, effect the launch blast will have on the tracks, but I feel confident in saying that if we do get down to firing these missiles, we, as a nation and as a world community, are going to have far more pressing concerns than damaged rail lines in Northville Township. To paraphrase the editorial, during the next war, the entire country will be the battleground. Does the writer actually believe that if there is no rail MX system that Northville and its quaint downtown will somehow be exempt? Please, get in the real world.

Howard F. Rundell Jr.

Pothole problem

To the Editor:

Spring is almost upon us and with it comes a sight as common as the first robin or crocus, the road crews and their seemingly daily filling of the pot-holes on Eight Mile between the railroad overpass and Haggerty Road. Each effort lasts about 24 hours at best and then the wear and tear on tires and suspension systems begins again. With the amount of dollars we collectively contribute to the state and local governments we deserve better than to have the main artery in and out of town in the condition of some back roads in a third-world nation. What is the first step in getting a permanent repair and who is responsible for initiating such action? Oh, yes, and that other question, why hasn't something been done sooner?

John C. Haas Jr.

False fire funds

To the Editor:

Both the City of Northville and Northville Township Fire Departments wish to go on record at this time stating that neither department is contacting residents regarding the soliciting of funds for their department.

There have been complaints that residents are being contacted by telephone by persons posing as members of our fire departments and are being asked to contribute to their organizations. Neither the City nor the Township Fire Departments are in any way affiliated with these persons. Both of these departments are funded by the citizens.

Ticketed off

To the Editor:

On Feb. 17 we were directed by the police to have our sidewalks shoveled within six hours or be ticketed. My husband was informed that the issue was citizen safety. But I do question why the homeowners on Potomac have been allowed to ignore citizen safety for over six years, since there have been no sidewalks or street lights installed on their street. Of course, on Feb. 17 they were allowed to sleep in and continue their disregard for citizen safety.

Since there is a requirement for sidewalks and street lights in the City of Northville, all property owners should be equally compelled to comply with the law.

Thanks for ride

To the Editor:

On Friday night, March 2, I was involved in an auto accident in which I was struck from behind. This occurred on Eight Mile Road at Meadowbrook in Northville Township.

The immediate response of the Northville Township Police and Fire Departments was greatly appreciated. Especially with the new program of the fire department having the capability of treating and or transporting sick and or injured citizens with the first responder program.

I was cared for and transported to the hospital by the firefighter/EMTs. All of the men were very caring, gentle and professional in treating my injuries and when transporting me to the hospital. My sincere appreciation goes to police officers Sergeant Clyde Anderson and Officer Hetu. Also the firefighter/EMTs Chief Robert Toms, Assistant Chief Rick Roselle, Lt. Ron Lane, firefighter Ron Roselle, Marty Kramer and the rest of the men who responded to the accident.

I hope the residents of Northville Township realize what a wonderful group of caring individuals that are there and ready to serve and protect them.

My deepest thanks,

Linda Reeves

They're looking for a few good friends

This is another in a continuing series of columns by Northville Youth Assistance Director Mary Ellen King.

The Northville Youth Assistance (NYA) program has been in existence for three years. This is the first time in the three years that we have a list of boys waiting for male volunteers.

Historically women may have typically volunteered their services more than men. Women also may have volunteered the greatest amount of time working with children. Through research and experience we have learned that male children need the nurturing, attention and guidance of adult males. Because of the lack of male influence in many divorced families, there are young boys in Northville who need the aide and attention of local volunteers.

Recently, the school system referred a 13-year-old boy to the program. His parents have been divorced for a number of years and the young man has no contact with his father. About a year ago the family moved to Michigan from out of state, and there are no relatives in the area. The mom is working two jobs in order to support the family. She is trying to the best of her ability to keep the family intact.

Because of the mother's demanding work schedule, the young boy is responsible for the cleaning, grocery shopping and most of the cooking. With all of his family responsibilities his grades are slipping. Also, recently his teacher identified that he was acting depressed and sullen. This young guy needs a male to spend time with him and be his friend. He needs to have the opportunity to be a kid and do the things that kids do, like throwing a football around or laughing and joking with a pal. He also needs someone he can share his thoughts and feelings with.

Another boy was referred to the program by his mother. This boy's father recently died and the boy has not talked to anyone about the death. He is spending a great deal of time alone in his room and not interacting with friends or family. He needs an adult male to be his friend and confidante.

If you feel you could help with either boy by spending one or two hours per week with them, please call 244-1618 and volunteer your time.

Filing deadlines for candidates nearing

Filing deadlines for political candidates are three weeks earlier this year, the secretary of state's office announced.

Michigan changed its laws because the U.S. government said troops overseas and on submarines had too little time to obtain and return their absentee ballots.

Aug. 7 is the primary election for partisan offices such as governor, U.S. senator and representative, state legislators and township officers, as well as for non-partisan district, circuit and probate judges. It is also election time for precinct delegates to county political party conventions.

Here are major new dates:
 • April 9 by 5 p.m.: Incumbent judges (other than Supreme Court Justices) to file affidavits of candidacy.
 • May 8 by 4 p.m.: Candidates for county convention delegate ("precinct delegate") to file petitions with county clerk.

• May 11 by 4 p.m.: Withdrawal deadline for candidates for precinct delegate.

• May 15: Deadline to place local questions on the primary ballot to be filed with county or local clerks.

• May 15 by 4 p.m.: Candidates for partisan and non-partisan offices to file nominations petitions (or fees) for the primary election.

• May 18 by 4 p.m.: Withdrawal deadline for the primary.

• June 23: County committees of major political parties to call county conventions.

• July 9: Last date to register for primary election.

• July 27: Pre-primary campaign statements to be filed.

• Aug. 4 by 2 p.m.: Deadline to apply for an absent voter ballot by mail.

• Aug. 7: Primary election.

Five distinctive shops call Northville home

By LESLIE PEREIRA

Northville's most recent experiment with a mini-mall has been a smashing success for all five of the shops that moved into the old Schrader's building on N. Center last fall.

LA BELLE PROVENCE

One shop is flourishing so well, it already has plans for an expansion. "We are already thinking of expanding," reported La Belle Provence owners Leslie Benser Luciani and Jennifer Tobias-Turner.

La Belle Provence, which opened in November, specializes in "European country" a style including sandy-brown hand-carved wood furniture, brightly-colored fabrics and Quimper Faience pottery, as the most popular items.

With exclusive rights for the distribution of Pierre Deux fabric, bright prints from the south of France, they are the first store in Michigan to sell the popular fabrics.

"It really was a big coup," said Benser Luciani.

The two lawyers-turned-entrepreneurs decided on Northville as the place to locate their store after much study.

"We did a lot of demographics around the Detroit area," Luciani said. "This area was really growing, but yet we wanted to be in a quaint, little town."

"When we saw this place, the exposed brick walls and the hard wood floors, we knew this place was perfect for us," Benser Luciani said.

After gaining more space near their store, Benser Luciani and Tobias-Turner hope to be able to keep more of the popular furniture on hand for their customers. They haven't signed any leases but have specific ideas for expansion.

The two women recently sent out flyers announcing their upcoming purchasing trip to France and asked customers if they had any special requests.

"We received over 100 requests,"

Record/CHRIS BOYD

Benser Luciani said.

With an order like that after only four months of operation, it sounds like they may need more than the 1100 square feet they have in mind.

TRADITIONS

Another home furnishings store, Traditions, offers similar types of accessories but this shop radiates Victorian style.

The potpourri-filled pillows and perfumed bath beads scent the store in a way that brings images of lace and linen napkins instantly to mind, both of which can also be found in the store.

"For the type of store we wanted to open, we thought it would fit in well in Northville," said Karen Bartley Slack, co-owner of the store.

And it seems as if the store has done just that. Slack said the store's sales have more than doubled since they relocated to their current place on Center Street.

"We are looking forward to the end of our first full year," Slack said of the store she opened with Susan Boyd MacGonigal last August.

MOUNTAIN RAGS

Mountain Rags, a name which conjures up images of hand-sewn natural fiber clothing, seems carefully chosen to fit the merchandise. The owners of this apparel shop hand-make about 50 percent of their merchandise, even sewing in their distinctive label.

"It has been wonderful," said co-owner Teri Fry, who doubles as seamstress for their unpretentious garb. "We moved our store here from Plymouth because there wasn't much traffic there."

Co-owner Diana Licht, and eight other women also sew for the store either in their homes or at the old Plymouth store.

Fry attributes the success of the store to the busy downtown Northville location, to the mall set-up for the five shops and to the fact they do special orders.

"We do a lot of matching mother-daughter outfits," Fry said.

In addition to the hand-sewn clothing, the store also offers most accessories from tights to watches to jewelry to shoes.

REMEMBRANCE

Remembrance is a Victorian doll and teddy bear shop with $600 collectables scattered accessibly on floor level furniture throughout the overstuffed room.

Schoolcraft aids job search

When the Business Development Center Procurement Assistance Program at Schoolcraft College worked on getting the United States Army to change its requirements for buying pizza, the results allowed Little Caesar's Corporation to compete more effectively on overseas pizza contracts.

Since the Business Development Center opened its doors in 1985, it has assisted 910 firms in securing 941 government contracts valued at $86,795,629.

Through its efforts, it have also created 789 jobs.

Although there are 20 similar programs around the state, Schoolcraft College is the first and only community college which assists companies in securing government contracts. The college's Business Development Center has been recognized as the state's most productive program by the Michigan Department of Commerce. In the most recent report, the Center provided 25 percent of all contracts awarded by the state. These results have been recognized by the Federal Government and the State of Michigan. As a result, the College's Business Development Center has been rewarded with more dollars in grants than any program in the state.

A number of companies have taken advantage of the customized training offered by the Center, and numerous classes have been designed for firms which want to upgrade employee skills. A customized management training program complete with a training kitchen has been developed for Little Caesar's Corporation.

Qualified unemployed persons will be given training scholarships and be hired by the corporation following successful completion of the program. All internal management staff and franchisees will receive training as well.

Among the many services the Center offers, the procurement staff will also mail or fax information to anyone interested in the services or products the state is planning to purchase. Through this service, the Center can assist hundreds of firms in bidding on State of Michigan contracts that they otherwise would not have been aware of.

The Center recently created a program to assist firms in implementing the new Drug-free Workplace Act. Because this act affects all government contractors, the Center is responsible for training all other state procurement center personnel as well.

Despite its success, the Center is always looking at other ways to expand its services. An export assistance program is in the planning stage. This program should surpass all of its ventures to date. The biggest challenge the Center faces is obtaining the money and space needed to accommodate this growth.

Second Place winner of the 1990 Buick Park Avenue was Carroll Knight of Knight Enterprises in NovI

UNOCAL CORPORATION recently awarded a 1990 Buick Park Avenue to Carroll Knight of Knight Enterprises, Novi, Michigan.

The car was presented as the second place prize in Unocal's recent Unleaded Super Incentive Contest. Knight Enterprises was one of five Unocal marketers in the company's Midwest Marketing Division to receive a new automobile as a contest winner. In order to qualify for the top prizes, Unocal marketers had to accumulate points based on an increase in their super unleaded gasoline volume.

"This is a great achievement for Knight Enterprises" said Tom Matthews, vice president, Eastern Marketing and National Auto/TruckStops.

Keys to the new car were presented to Knight at a luncheon hosted by Unocal at the Hyatt Regency Hotel in Schaumburg, Ill.

Exhibitors flock to Brighton Expo

Nearly 90 exhibitors will be on hand March 21-22 when the Greater Brighton Area Chamber of Commerce sponsors the first Livingston Business and Trade Expo '90.

The event, set for Brighton High School, will showcase goods and services produced and sold in booming Livingston County.

"With the growth that Livingston County has experienced, we wanted to have an opportunity for area businesses to show the products and services they produce," said Dan Wollschlager, Expo chairperson.

"This is a great opportunity to show everyone the wide variety of things that are available."

The Business and Trade Expo will run from 3-9 p.m. both days. On Wednesday, March 21, the event will be open to the public from 3-6 p.m.

From 6-9 p.m., a "Grand Prix Party" will take place and over 1,000 business professionals are expected to attend. Tickets for the Grand Prix Party are $10, but otherwise there is no charge for admission to the Expo.

The response to the first Expo has been "overwhelming," said Wollschlager. All booths were rented three months prior to the show.

Exhibitors will represent a wide range of businesses including insurance, printing, travel, financial and health care. Area developers and real estate brokers also will be displaying the major commercial/industrial developments in Livingston County.

The major sponsors of the Expo are C&C Inc., Lowry Computer Products, Micro Works Computing, McPherson Hospital, Michigan National Bank and Old Kent Bank.

For more information, call the Brighton Chamber at 227-5086.

Mini-mall attracts customers

"My store is a fun place to visit," said owner Lydia Sweatt. "It takes people back to their childhoods."

Sweatt, an avid doll collector and first-time retailer said her store has had a "phenomenal response," with people coming to the store from all over southeastern Michigan.

All of the dolls sold in her store are limited, meaning that the dollmaker created only a limited number of the dolls. Generally speaking, with quality dolls, the less that are made, the more valuable each one is, Sweatt said.

"Some of the dolls we sell here are one of a kind," Sweatt said.

She pointed out "Brea" a two-foot doll, dressed in a unique high-waisted dress with layer upon layer of hundred-year-old lace.

"There will never be another one like her," Sweatt said. Brea costs $6,000.

The collectable dolls in her store range from $99 to $6,000 but for those who like dolls but are not willing to pay that much, Sweatt says, "those dolls are our specialty but we carry something for everyone."

THE ATRIUM GALLERY

The Atrium Gallery which opened in November, has also reported "very good activity" with regard to business sales, according to Pat Jania. Jania owns the gallery along with Joanne Lyall and Heidi Eizelman.

The gallery represents the work of about 65 artists, many of whom come from Michigan and several from the Northville area.

The gallery sells the weavings of Bill Thelan and Laurie Fowler, the paintings of Henry Caroselli and Linda Banks-Ord, the jewelry and painted wood of Jane Parks, and the work of Michael Oden. They also show a great deal of sculptures and pottery.

It only makes sense to learn about a purchase this size before you buy, not after. Jim Stokes, with 13 years experience nationwide in the custom van industry, will be here covering subjects such as: different van conversion companies, raised roofs, tape stripe versus paint, advertising, resale, mini vans versus full size, TV's, VCR players, trailer tow, gas mileage.

Quilting

Age-old craft provides new twists for today's artisans

By Marilyn Herald

Quilting may be an age-old art, but it certainly has changed since the days when our grandmothers sat around a huge quilting frame with their friends and "tied quilts."

Those were the days when quilts were often made of scraps cut from favorite, and well-worn, dresses and shirts. Those were the days of "use it up, wear it out, make it do or do without," and the woman of the house made use of every reusable piece of material.

Quilt colors were often somewhat hit or miss because of the variety of materials used.

Today's quilt makers may spend hours in the yard goods store, carefully selecting materials and colors that go together, and spending easily $100 or more for fabric to "piece a quilt."

"It takes seven to nine yards of fabric, depending on the design and how many seams there are, to make a double-bed quilt," said Donna Campbell of South Lyon. "Then you have to add the batting and the quilt backing."

Campbell knows whereof she speaks when it comes to making quilts and purchasing materials. Not only has she made numerous quilts herself, she previously owned a quilting store in South Lyon, she currently works part-time at Jo-Ann Fabrics at West Oaks in Novi, and she teaches quilting at the Artcraft Shop in South Lyon.

"I guess I've been making quilts since 1978," Campbell recalled. "I got started because I saw some ladies making a quilt and liked it. I asked them how to do it. They gave me the pattern book and said go to it. I was hooked."

"That quilt was one a beginner should never have started with, but I did finally finish it. It was an umbrella doll quilt and it took me two years to do it," she said.

In the class she is currently teaching at Artcraft, Campbell starts her students off with something a little simpler — a double Irish chain quilt.

In addition to hand-piecing, Campbell also teaches machine-piecing (stitching pieces on the machine to form the quilt blocks). "Speed quilting or strip quilting is popular and fast," Campbell.

The quilter cuts strips of cloth in the colors she has chosen and stitches them together so that they make a long striped piece. The new long piece is then cut into squares (or blocks) and placed together to form the quilt pattern.

Once all the quilt blocks have been stitched together to form the quilt top, the batting goes in, the backing goes on and it's time to actually begin quilting (sewing tiny stitches) which not only fasten all the parts together, but generally make a pattern within themselves. When everything is completed, the quilter has an attractive and warm bed covering.

Sometimes a design, such as a rose, is stenciled on plain quilt blocks. The design is then outlined (quilted) in tiny stitches. The stenciled blocks are often interspersed with pieced blocks to form an overall pattern for the quilt.

Campbell also enjoys appliqueing (sewing smaller cut-outs of material to quilt squares) to produce a different type of pattern.

"This one I'm working on now is the Ohio rose pattern for my granddaughter," Campbell explained. "I like to use buttonhole-stitch applique and that is time-consuming."

"The first thing I think you should do when you're going to make a quilt is to decide on the colors you want. Then, go to the store, find the colors you have in mind and decide how you want to fit those into the quilt pattern."

Campbell said there are many stores in the area which carry a variety of quilting fabrics, in addition to The Artcraft Shop and Jo-Ann Fabrics, she mentioned the Quilts Etcetera Shop in Brighton.

It's also important to select fabrics of a similar composition and quality when purchasing material for the quilt top. "I like to use all cotton, but if I find the color I want in something else, I'll use that. Always wash the material (for the quilt top and the backing) before you begin cutting it (to guard against shrinkage)."

Campbell said there is so much work in a quilt, you should not scrimp on the materials used. She personally prefers polyester batting for the middle of the quilt, since it holds its shape and is warmer than cotton.

"After awhile, cotton kind of lumps up so it is thin in some spots and thick in others. Polyester doesn't do that."

Should you decide to have a quilt dry cleaned, don't let it be steam pressed if it has polyester batting, Campbell warned. "It will flatten the polyester."

As with most people who sew or quilt, Campbell has certain brands of accessories she prefers. When quilting, she uses a J & P Coats size 9 or 10 needle and thread made of a combination of polyester and cotton.

"I also use a non-slip thimble. That's one that is made to hold the needle so it won't slip off."

Quilting can be extremely hard on the fingers because of the need to thrust and pull the needle through so many layers of material over and over again. Campbell said her fingers eventually get calloused, but some quilters paint their fingertips with nail polish in order to toughen them. Wearing a rubber sorting finger cover will also help to protect the quilters' fingers as they are holding the underside of the quilt.

Another tip from Campbell is to use safety pins to "pinbaste" the quilt parts together. "You can take them out as you quilt."

Other helpful tools for quilters include rotary cutters (which will cut through 10-12 layers of fabric), special mats and special rulers.

Most quilters today have medium-sized oval hoop frames (similar to large embroidery hoops) to hold the material while they are quilting (doing the fine outline stitches) rather than the large quilt frames of the past. This allows the quilter to work on just one part of the quilt at a time instead of having the whole thing stretched out at once.

"When sewing the quilt pieces or the quilt blocks together, always use the same seam allowance to have a really good-looking even quilt," Campbell cautioned. "If you're using an eighth- or quarter-inch allowance, be sure you always set the machine the same. Always press the seams in the quilt block together to the darker side of the block so they don't show through as much. You should not press the seams open."

"And when you are doing the actual quilting of the design, use the same size stitch, whether you are quilting by hand or by machine. Whether you use 10, 12 or 15 stitches per inch, the stitches should

Heceta shows its versatility

By James McAlexander

The Heceta is designed to let owners use their own ingenuity in the final results.

For example, the U-shaped kitchen may be changed to an L-shape with an added island.

The family room is designed so that the family may have informal meals there, but when the occasion calls for formal dining, there is the added dining room area. A buffet is unnecessary because a china closet is provided in the design.

The family room is the main gathering area for the family. The fireplace adds comfort and the opportunity for distinction by making the fireplace and hearth area of rock from the area.

Floor-to-ceiling bookcases may be placed on either side and a wood box may be added. Wood paneling will accent the wall facing the sliding glass doors to the patio.

The large patio is convenient to the family room or the dining room. This makes it an ideal gathering place for formal or family get-togethers on those warm evenings. Here is where you can sit and listen to the surf. Or you can watch the birds in the trees, or just sit and watch the grass grow.

The utility room has been placed so that it is convenient to the bedrooms and bathrooms. The spaciousness and location will certainly be a step-saver on laundry day.

The master suite is spacious with its own bath, which has a double vanity and shower tucked away in a corner out of sight of the doorway.

Any changes or decorations shown here are just to stimulate the thinking of the owners as to how to make Heceta their home.

Personal touches are important and should not be suppressed because of the original design. Most designs can be modified by simple interior changes.

For a study plan of the Heceta (108-16), send $5 to Landmark Designs, P.O. Box 2307 CN, Eugene, OR 97402. (Be sure to include plan name and number when ordering.)

Japanese shift real estate focus

By James M. Woodard

Japanese investors, seeking real estate in the United States, are changing their tactics.

Instead of limiting their targeted properties to trophy office buildings and commercial developments in a few metro areas, Japanese investors are widening their scope.

They now are on the lookout for a greatly diversified range of property types. And the locations can be in any region of the United States.

Many of Japan's biggest investors recently turned their interest away from the United States, focusing instead on markets in Western Europe. But a new breed of Japanese mid-size investors is now actively seeking U.S. properties, according to Roy Hilton March, executive vice president of Eastdil Realty Inc.

"Japanese investment will continue to be a significant force in U.S. Real estate—fortunately for our economy," March said. "But much of the capital will be coming from new sources never before available."

"And, we can expect Japanese investors to shift away from buying buildings in the 1990s to placing highly structured financings on real estate projects. These financings will generally include equity participation (part ownership) of some form."

The shift away from buying buildings also will result in more purchases of undeveloped land, according to a recent survey of land sales professionals, members of Realtors Land Institute.

Japanese investment in U.S. real estate is a long-term phenomenon with no end in sight, according to Christopher Mead, president of Mead Ventures Inc., a leading publisher of business books, newsletters and directories related to foreign markets.

Mead's firm recently published a new 620-page volume titled "Japanese Investment in U.S. and Canadian Real Estate Directory—1990." For information, write: Mead Ventures Inc., P.O. Box 44952, Phoenix, AZ 85064.

Q. Why is the Federal Housing Administration mortgage limit only $101,000—a totally unrealistic ceiling in high-cost areas?

A. The FHA home mortgage limit has been raised to $124,875 in high-cost areas.

New twists in quilting

be uniform. When you use thicker batting, you have to use slightly larger stitches because of the thickness."

In addition to quilting bed coverings, Campbell, and many other quilters, make everything from placemats to skirts and vests in quilting designs. The log cabin pattern, made with thin strips of material put together like logs, has been a popular pattern for years for many types of quilted items.

Templates made of clear plastic are used to make the pattern for the quilt blocks. The paper pattern is transferred to the plastic. Then, Campbell uses tape to secure sandpaper to the back of the template so that it won't slip while she cuts the material.

Quilting stencils have a cut-out design which can be transferred to the quilt blocks with a hard lead pencil. Once the blocks are marked in this way, the quilter can follow the lines and make the design with tiny stitches.

Campbell invites all area residents to plan now to attend an area quilt show from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday, May 19 at the Witch's Hat Depot, freight house and Washburn School building in South Lyon's Historic Village on Dorothy Street at Pontiac Trail. The show is sponsored by the South Lyon Area Historical Society.

Chairpersons of the show are Campbell, Theda Lyke and Margaret Kett. Those who would like to display quilted items may call Lyke at 437-2885 to reserve a space.

Kett is in charge at Washburn School where quilters may set up tables to display quilted items they would like to sell. Call Kett at 437-3288 for information on displaying items for sale.

Around the House: Entertaining

Soup hits the spot in this kind of weather

By Carol Cutler

Speak of weather these days and you speak of treachery. Springlike one day, blustery the next, snow storms in between. These are recipes to plod through.

It is just the time of year when a steaming, warming bowl of soup is the most soothing eating imaginable.

Main-course soups make entertaining a snap. The biggets point in their favor is that they are best if done in advance—slowly, leisurely, at your total convenience. You even can cook soups in steps—the broth one day, adding vegetables or meats the next, then tossing in some last-minute garnishes or fish just before serving. Each chilling and reheating only helps intensify the flavors.

These thick broths also are inexpensive fare for entertaining. In fact, there is an old saying, "The poorer the country, the better the soups."

As Anne Volokh states in her excellent book, "The Art of Russian Cuisine" (Macmillan), "The least expensive and most nourishing food, for centuries soups served Russian peasants as one-course dinner meals. Necessity is the mother of invention. With no chicken in each pot, but with a variety of vegetables, grains and occasional chunk of meat or fish—and with a lot of ingenuity—Russian cuisine has produced a number of superb soups."

With Russia so much in the news these days, it seems especially appropriate to plan a soup party with a Slavic twist. Serve the pre-eminent Russian soup—borscht.

Volokh points out the borscht isn't really Russian, but a Ukrainian specialty. Whatever its accent, it's a great soup.

Instead of the first course, serve zakuski with aperitifs. For special occasions, these Russian hors d'oeuvres are generally laid out in lavish array. They can range from luxurious caviar to humble sardines. An easy assortment to put together can all be bought at any well-stocked supermarket.

Be sure to include different marinated herrings (wine, mustard and pickled); sardines, both plain and in mustard sauce; slices of smoked beef tongue or smoked pork and mustard; and deviled eggs.

Buy chopped liver from a good delicatessen, then dress it up by making a smooth mound of it on a plate and sprinkling with chopped hard-boiled egg.

Pickles are a must. That inclusion stems from the fact that Russians generally drink vodka with zakuski and like to nibble pickles between sips.

After the borscht, serve a little cheese. Choose any firm cheese that most closely resembles those available in the Soviet Union. Cheddar is fine, but instead of serving it with fancy crackers, use black bread and mustard.

Russians love ice cream, no matter how low the thermometer. That solves dessert. The very first flavored ice cream sold in the Soviet Union was vanilla ice cream with raisins. Go a step further and soak the raisins in rum or brandy before stirring into the ice cream.

Traditionally, borscht simmers a long time. In this version, ready to put on the table in 15 minutes, stronger sausage is substituted for beef. But any leftover cooked beef can be added.

Super-Quick Borscht

6 cups beef broth
¼ pound sausage, Polish kielbasa or similar, cut into ¼-inch slices
1 small bay leaf
Pinch thyme
1 (½-pound) can sliced beets, drained and cut into strips
Pepper
¼ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
1 tablespoon vinegar
Sour cream

Yields 6 servings.

Pour beef broth into pot and bring to slow simmer. Add sliced sausage, bay leaf and thyme. Cover and simmer 10 minutes.

With skimmer, remove sausage slices to soup tureen or to individual bowls. Add beets, pepper and Worcestershire sauce to soup. Cover and simmer 5 minutes. Add vinegar, give one boil and remove from heat.

Ladle borscht over sausage and drop a tablespoon of sour cream on top.

The Changing Face of PTAs

By SHARON ROSE

You've come a long way, Mother. And how you've changed!

In recent years the focus of a mother's life broadened to include not only her family, but an office. Today's mommy-track is fast-paced and complex, but even though Mom may have traded an apron for a briefcase, she still finds time for the PTA.

"The old image of PTA moms as 'cookie bakers' is long gone," said George Bell, superintendent of Northville Schools. "They are involved in every aspect of education. We look on them as partners in the education process, and believe me, they do much more than attend meetings, not at me and vote for my millages."

Novi Superintendent of Schools Robert Piwko concurs: "The PTO gives us a chance to form the close partnership needed between home, school and parents to achieve our goals. The parents come to us with high leadership and problem-solving skills and help us to establish a direction or mission. They bring the expectations of the community to our staff and make sure we're proceeding in the correct direction."

Northville's PTA (Parent-Teacher Association) and Novi's PTO (Parent-Teacher Organization) are organized locally in much the same way (see related story). Individual schools form their own groups with officers, committees, budgets and monthly meetings. Individual schools schedule meetings in the morning or evening, with most trying to achieve a balance to accommodate working and stay-at-home parents. Each school sends a representative to a districtwide council (in Northville, the Coordinating Council; in Novi, the Inter-School Council) which also meets regularly.

"The Inter-School Council meetings give us a chance to share and coordinate ideas," Piwko said. "They give us a global sense, so to speak, of what's going on at each building and how it fits together in the district. We discuss educational philosophy, and it's an opportunity to raise questions."

Lynda Baca, president of Northville's Coordinating Council, explained, "It gives us a chance to look at the broader picture. We recently viewed a video on the 21st century, how the work force will be changing, and its impact on our schools. The teachers in our district had already seen it, and Dr. Bell made it available to us so we can understand and anticipate some of the changes in curriculum which are coming."

It's a sign of the times that administrators are paying such close attention to the view of the PTA. Still mostly moms, although more dads are showing up at meetings and in the schools, PTA groups have a sharper, more professional image than in the past. Some feel this is due to the massive return of mothers to the work force.

"There has always been talent and support on our PTA, but more and more women are working double shifts," explained Bell. "They're working outside the home, full- or part-time, yet still realizing there's a need for their input in our schools."

"I see an increase in sophistication at PTA meetings," Bell continued. "One of our mothers leaves an office at Michigan Bell and attends morning PTA meetings with a beeper on, because she feels it's important to be involved. Any one of these women could sit in a corporate office and run it efficiently. They could hold their own with Lee Iacocca."

Barb Flis, president of Northville's Amerman Elementary School PTA, left a job at Honeywell to raise her children and run a part-time, free-lance office services company. Her PTA meetings routinely draw 40-50 parents, but she chuckled at Bell's comment. "It's true we don't waste time at our meetings, but this is no Chrysler Corporation. We try to keep things moving, but we have fun, too. I'm afraid some people avoid PTA meetings because they think they're boring, that we're just deciding whether to bake chocolate or vanilla cookies for the bake sale. If you could see a list of our committees, you'd see that we consider all aspects of education."

Colleen Stevens, president of Novi's Village Oaks Elementary School PTO and representative on the Inter-School Council, also works 16 to 20 hours a week as a Revlon representative. She runs an informal but orderly and businesslike meeting with minutes, reports, and resolutions. She actually has a gavel, but seldom uses it, she reported with a laugh. "Our meetings are pretty structured. We have some weighty issues to consider. Last week we voted on a 'wish list' from our teachers and allocated $2,000 toward such purchases as tape recorders and a television set."

Both Northville and Novi are communities with particularly active parent groups. Amerman and Village Oaks Elementary schools are comparable in size, with over 500 students, and both report more than 80 percent PTA or PTO membership. Colleen Stevens reports that more than 150 parent volunteers work at Village Oaks school on a weekly basis, as classroom aides, office support people, and on organizing supplemental programs or fund-raising activities.

"We are very fortunate, really blessed, to have so many concerned parents who volunteer their time and talents," Piwko commented. "They offer us a new perspective. They can look at issues and help us to consider the best interests of all concerned."

The talents are varied. "There's a place for everyone," Flis emphasized. "I wondered before I became involved just where I would fit in. It's a melting pot. We have parents with a wide variety of backgrounds and talents and we need them all."

"I've learned a lot during my five years of volunteering on PTA," Flis continued. "I've worked with administration, school finance, boards, curriculum, and bond issues. I've had a real good look at the other side of the fence. Now I understand the principal's and teachers' points of view too."

"I tell the parents the same thing every year at the beginning of the school year," said Bell, who attends nearly every PTA meeting at every Northville school.

"Parental involvement is the most important single factor in the success of a school. If the school exists as an island, it can't succeed."

Children line up for a turn at the "Pick-a-pop" booth at the Novi Meadows PTO Fun Fair last fall.

PTAs share lengthy history

By SHARON ROSE

In February, the National PTA (Parent-Teacher Association) celebrates its 93rd birthday. It was founded in 1897 at a time when the majority of American children dropped out of school before fifth grade and many worked long hours in factories and mines. The group claims to be the oldest and largest association working exclusively on behalf of children.

What is the difference between PTA and PTO (Parent-Teacher Organization)? Their goals, membership and methods are much the same. However, PTOs are independent, local groups with no state or national affiliation. PTA is a national organization with more than six million members, headquartered in Chicago and organized on national, state and local levels. A parent-teacher group can only call itself PTA if it is a dues-paying member of its state and national PTA.

PTA dues in Michigan are $1.50 per individual membership plus $15 for the local unit (school) membership, which is forwarded to the state PTA to cover both state and national dues. Local units establish their own dues rates, and business memberships are available. The Michigan PTA numbers nearly 80,000 members. The national PTA mission is to support and speak on behalf of children and youth in schools and before governmental agencies, to help parents develop skills needed to raise and protect their children, and to encourage parent and public involvement in public schools.

The group works to accomplish these goals by providing members with information, publications and related materials. It creates programs and projects often with related videos, pamphlets, flyers and guidelines for meetings that state and local PTAs can modify. Topics range over human, national and cultural relations, parent and family life, safety and recreation, substance abuse, discipline, self-esteem, special education and sports.

The national PTA is structured with officers, a board of directors, and an executive committee with representatives from each state PTA. There are annual state and national conventions. The national PTA has a legislative activity which informs its members about any child-related legislation.

Lynda Baca, president of the PTA Coordinating Council in Northville, said, "Since we're an association of volunteers, our leadership changes constantly. The state PTA supports us with training workshops for our leaders and organizational support. You can become as involved on a state level as you want. The only real time commitment, as I see it," she smiled, "is reading all the interesting literature they send you."

"There will be something for everyone," Miesel noted. The dealers are primarily from Michigan but include some from Illinois and Ohio. Miesel said most dealers are returning from buying trips out east and should have great merchandise for antique lovers.

Confidence booster

'Take charge of your life,' speaker tells women

Taking charge of your own life was the theme echoed at last Friday's meeting of Northville Woman's Club.

And Northville resident Rita Long, who has taught for the Dale Carnegie Institute for 10 years, was there to deliver the message.

Long is a dynamic speaker, who often comes across as a stand-up comic with her mix of humorous anecdotes and witty remarks.

But don't let style fool you — hers is a serious message.

"I really believe that we all have a lot more potential than we realize," Long said.

Though her message of "taking charge of your own life" applied to both sexes, Long said it is "especially important for us ladies who have a tendency to try to nurture other people."

Calling her talk a "30-minute tune-up," she proceeded to list and explain the important elements to developing more confidence.

Most important, according to Long, is finding courage to tackle situations that intimidate. She called this venturing outside of individual "comfort zones." Once people have successfully undertaken courageous actions outside of their comfort zones, they begin to gain more confidence, she noted.

Long explained that women need to do these types of things as a positive reinforcement for themselves because it is often hard to find that reinforcement from others.

"We have to start giving ourselves credit for things," Long said. "I think that every night before you lay your head on the pillow, you have to say, 'I did the best I could today.'"

Reinforcing the themes of many self-help books, Long laced her lively speech with examples requiring audience participation.

At one point she had members of the Woman's Club partner off and face each other sitting, knees to knees. One partner tightly balled her hand in to a fist, and it was the goal of her partner to open her fist.

Most sets of partners reacted in the same way — by trying to forcibly pry open the fist. Of course they were not able to open it. But one pair of partners was able to complete the task. How did they do it? She simply asked her partner to open her fist and she complied.

The point of Long's exercise was that many seemingly difficult tasks are really easy, but are made difficult because of a lack of communication.

"What we teach kids is correct but we forget it ourselves," Long said.

ST. PAUL'S LUTHERAN SCHOOL

On Feb. 27, the members of the Day School Choir at St. Paul's Lutheran School competed in the Lutheran Schools Music Festival held at Lutheran High, Westland. The choir, under the direction of Barb Hoffmeier with Myra Prueter as pianist, received a superior, or first-place, rating.

Students in grades one through eight participated in this event — our congratulations to all: Rachel Beard, Whitney Casterline, Holly Foreman, Anthony Columbeck, Jeffrey Jones, Ryan Kamphuis, Evan King, Andrew Lakin, Steven Shakelford, Jennifer Stienmann, Gerald Hemming III, Rebekah Hoffmeier, Kendall Knighton, Tiffany Landau, Brian Allor, Daniel Griffy, Amy Grooman, Sarah Hoffmeier, Sarah Kamphuis, Tara Landau, Alexandra MacRae, Heather McGuigan, Heather Offeborn, David Witt, Timothy Edick, Janel Hasse, Meredith Hasse, Adam Kolb, Krista Manser, Emily McGuigan, Amy Sexton, Christopher Steinmann, Bryan Stimmel, Stephen Offeborn, Laura Peters, Matthew Schlanser, Lindsay Allor, Heather Krueger, Erica Mal, and Susanne Thomson.

In spite of days missed because of bad weather and winter break, lots has been happening at St. Paul's Lutheran School.

On Friday, Feb. 9, the mayor of Northville, Chris Johnson, visited the second-, third- and fourth-grade classes. He talked about his job as mayor and answered questions from the group. He then gave his autograph to all his future constituents.

The students were happy to attend another roller-skating party at Bonaventure on the afternoon of Valentine's Day, sponsored by the Parent Teacher League. It's always a great feeling to stretch some of those muscles on these long winter days.

We held our first kindergarten roundup on Feb. 20, describing our program to the parents. If you missed it, and are interested in our loving, Christian approach to education, please contact the school at 349-3146. Another roundup will be held in the future. A preschool roundup is also planned for 3's and 4's to be held on April 2. Please call for details.

The boys basketball team completed its season with a tournament on Feb. 24 at Lutheran High Westland. Thank you to Ralph Garber for all your help with the boys.

Our Day School Choir participated in the Lutheran Schools Music Festival on Tuesday, Feb. 27. This performance and competition is a thrill to attend.

Our children were busy saving parts of their allowances for our Hearts for Jesus mission project for February. We have been involved in the "Heifer Project International," which provides food-producing animals and training to needy families overseas and in the USA. Recipients share in the giving by passing on an offspring of the HF1 animal to a neighbor. This project has given our children a unique opportunity to learn about life situations very different from our own.

St. Paul's Lutheran School is involved in "Red Ribbon Week", a drug- and alcohol-awareness program throughout the community this week. Our Parent Teacher League and our Aid Association for Lutherans Branch 1080 will defray the cost of the T-shirts which our children will obtain during this event.

Local horses win at show

For Hidden Spring Arabians of Northville, 1989 was a banner horse-show year.

At the Annual Awards Banquet of the Arabian Horse Association of Michigan, Tammy Geake won three Junior Exhibitor Hi-Point Championships. Her black stallion, Night Image, received the Hi-Point Native Costume Championship, as well as the Hi-Point Stallion Championship, and the Hi-Point Overall Horse Trophy.

Sham's Mark, a son of Night Image, trained by Tammy Geake and owned by Jean Utley of South Lyon, was named Hi-Point Arabian Park Horse and received a beautiful Perpetual Trophy for this honor.

Sham's Mark and his "girlfriend," Federal Offense, won a few other placings as well. Even Dr. Carol Geake won a fourth in what she termed the "old people's class," Amateur Owner 35 and over.

All together Hidden Spring Arabians came home with 12 ribbons, four perpetual trophies, and six silver cups.

In the statewide Michigan Horse Show Association Awards, Night Image was Champion Mounted Native Costume Horse and Reserve Champion English Pleasure

Junior Owner to Ride. Jean Utley was thrilled to receive the Champion Park Horse Trophy for her horse, Sham's Mark.

Aside from the year-end awards, the highlight of the year for Hidden Spring Arabians was when Night Image was first and Sham's Mark second in the large Open Arabian Native Costume class at the Michigan State Fair before a large appreciative audience. This win and several others throughout the year were made possible through the help of Erin Sullivan who exhibited on several occasions when Tammy had more than one horse entered in a class.

Tammy is a 1989 Graduate of Northville High School and is currently enrolled at Schoolcraft College. She hopes to include horses in her future and is working toward that goal by giving riding lessons, training young horses for pleasure or show, and operating a summer day camp for children ages 7 through 13. The children are taught the parts of the saddle and bridle, grooming, health care, safety, feeding, breeds, horseshoeing, and most importantly, riding.

Area talk by bible scholar

Internationally known biblical scholar Paul L. Maier, professor of ancient history at Western Michigan University, will be the guest speaker at a Lenten program from 7-8 p.m. Wednesday, March 21 at the First United Methodist Church of South Lyon, 640 S. Lafayette.

Maier, author of several books on the events surrounding the life of Christ and the early Christians, will speak on the topic, "The Politics Behind the Crucifixion."

"Dr. Maier is a fascinating speaker you will not want to miss," commented Jim Head, a member of the worship/music committee of the church. Head said the public is invited to attend the program.

A graduate of Harvard University and Concordia Seminary in St. Louis, Mo., Maier was awarded a Fulbright Scholarship to pursue post-graduate studies at the universities of Heidelberg, Germany and Basel, Switzerland.

After studying at the latter under famed scholars Karl Barth and Oscar Cullmann, he received the doctor of philosophy degree summa cum laude in 1957. He is the first American ever to win highest honors at the Swiss university.

In 1968, Doubleday published Maier's first historical novel, "Pontius Pilate," a fresh view of the politics behind Jesus' crucifixion. The book received wide critical acclaim, and has gone through numerous printings, editions and translations.

Turning to the beginning of Jesus' life, Maier next authored his best-selling documentary on the nativity, "First Christmas," which was also syndicated in the newspapers throughout the nation.

A companion volume followed in 1970, "First Easter," which uncovers new evidence on Jesus' empty tomb. It, too, has received an enthusiastic reception, syndication and wire-service coverage.

Completing the trilogy, Harper and Row published Maier's "First Christians," which concerns Pentecost and the spread of Christianity, in 1976. "The Flames of Rome" appeared in 1981. Published by Doubleday, it is a documentary novel on how Christianity reached Rome, and why Nero persecuted the church so horribly after the great fire of 64 A.D.

Buffalo Bill Museum preserves the 'old west'

As Buffalo Bill Cody once brought the "wild west" to the world, so now the institution that bears his name brings the world to the West.

The Buffalo Bill Historical Center in Cody, Wyo., draws "about 250,000 people a year," says Lawrence Means, the center's director of development, "which gives them a tremendous introduction to the West before they see Yellowstone Park 50 miles away."

Situated on U.S. Highway 16, the route to Yellowstone's East Gate, Cody was founded in part by Buffalo Bill. After his death in 1917, a memorial association was formed to preserve his heritage. What began with a small log building housing the Buffalo Bill Museum has grown into what Means calls "the largest and finest Western heritage museum in the world."

Like Buffalo Bill, who was recognized as an outdoorsman, a rancher, a buffalo hunter, Pony Express rider, Indian scout, dime novel hero and showman, the center encompasses many interests. In fact, the center consists of four distinct entities — the Buffalo Bill Museum, the Whitney Gallery of Western Art, the Plains Indian Museum and the Winchester Arms Collection.

With so much to choose from, says Shari Pullar, the center's director of public relations, it's no wonder that it's difficult to pick a clear-cut favorite exhibit.

"We have people who will spend days down in the Winchester Collection," she says.

"Then there are people who buy the name recognition — 'Oh, I've got to see the Buffalo Bill Museum.' Then you've got people who go into the Plains Indian Museum and say, 'Oh, I'm not leaving here.'"

"Then you have those people who really do want to see fine art, and there's the Whitney. So I don't think there is one favorite exhibit."

While the Buffalo Bill Museum opened in 1927, expansion into today's historical center began with the opening in 1959 of the Gertrude Vanderbilt Whitney Gallery of Western Art. A noted American sculptor, Mrs. Whitney earlier donated a heroic equestrian statue of Buffalo Bill, titled "The Scout," to the Buffalo Bill Memorial Association. The gallery was built to commemorate her regard for Col. Cody and her devotion to American art.

"Obviously we have one of the top

The Buffalo Bill Historical Center draws some 250,000 people a year to Cody, Wyoming Western art galleries," says Means, "with significant works by Frederic Remington, Albert Bierstadt and Charlie Russell."

In addition to artworks, the gallery contains reconstructions of the studios of noted artists Frederic Remington and W.H.D. Koerner. Remington also was the subject of a special exhibition which recently toured the United States.

"This past year our director, Peter Hassrick, co-directed and co-curated "Frederic Remington: The Masterworks," a national tour that was the first national tour of his major pieces since his death in 1909," says Means.

"It opened in St. Louis, appeared here in Cody to tremendous crowds and closed in April in the New York Metropolitan Museum of Art."

While the Whitney Gallery celebrates the West as experienced by the artist, the Buffalo Bill Museum celebrates the West as experienced by William Cody.

"This follows Buffalo Bill from his childhood all the way through the Wild West Show," says Pullar. The museum includes exhibits from Cody's life on the plains as well as mementos from his tours with the Wild West Show and Congress of Rough Riders.

Means calls Buffalo Bill "one of the most popular Americans ever to tour Europe" and credits him with popularizing and promoting the West. As proof of his popularity, Means offers photographs taken in Paris during the 1889 centennial of the French Revolution showing that the major attraction was the Wild West Show.

"He did so many things," says Means, "that help us define what the West is."

Included in that definition are the native peoples of the Plains Indian Museum has given visitors an accurate view of Indian culture.

"It's not just Indians coming up over a rise in a cowboy movie," says

Means. He notes the artistic values inherent in Indian ceremonial apparel as well as everyday items such as children's toys. "Here you are looking at people who seemed dedicated to perpetuation art," he says. "They created art that would be in Vogue, which would be in fashion magazines today."

The museum also is playing a part in maintaining a living art form. "Joe Robbie, the owner of the Miami Dolphins, is a member of our Plains Indian Advisory Board," says Means, "and he decided we had to have a pow-wow ground."

"In June it is an extraordinary thing to see — Indians from seven states perpetuating their culture with the old men doing their traditional dances and the women and youngsters joining in."

With three distinctive museums already completed, the center is set to break ground for a fourth museum to house the Winchester Arms Collection. Currently on display in the basement of the Buffalo Bill Museum, the collection "is the finest and largest collection of American firearms in the world," says Means.

Space restrictions limit the display to only 20 to 30 percent of the collection, which was donated in 1976 by the Olin Corporation. The new Cody Firearms Museum, says Means, will include 45,000 square feet of display space. Among the planned exhibits is a working reconstruction of a late 19th century gun factory.

"We have $5.3 million, largely raised in a year and a half, toward $7.3 million," says Means. "We hope to dedicate this building in time for Wyoming's 1990 centennial."

Means notes the continuing attraction of the American West: "If you were on a cattle drive with a couple of buddies and something bad happened, there was a strong sense of loyalty. These are values that people, especially in our urban communities, find very endearing."

"We're dealing with the mythology of the West," he says, "as much as we are the facts of the West." The Buffalo Bill Historical Center in Cody, Wyo., is open daily May through October, and Tuesday through Sunday in March, April and November. The center is closed December through February. There is a $5 admission fee for adults. Senior citizen, student, youth and family rates are available, and children under six are free.

Hyattville Cafe — where the cowboys get their grub

By ROBERT GROSS

You don't need to wander far from the Buffalo Bill Historical Center in Cody, Wyoming, to see what remains of the Old West. Try the dining room of the Irma Hotel — built by Buffalo Bill and named after his daughter — around 8 a.m. any weekday.

There'll be plenty of big hats and boots lined up at the lunch counter. These are no drug store cowboys — all of them are the real, working variety.

Of course, you might want to wander a little farther afield in search of the West. Any of the small towns in Wyoming's Big Horn Basin can afford the traveler a look at the cattle industry and ranch life in the modern West.

You might want to stop at a place like the Hyattville Cafe in Hyattville, Wyoming. If there's one place that can be said to be the heart of any small cow town in Wyoming, it's the cafe.

"When the cafe opens," says Connie Graves, "then you get to see your neighbors."

Graves, who owns the Hyattville Cafe with her husband, Jack, moved to the tiny ranching community nestled at the west slope of the Big Horn Mountains in 1982. The couple moved from one of Wyoming's largest towns — Casper with a population of almost 60,000 — to one of the state's smallest — Hyattville counts around 300 residents. It was a bit of a culture shock.

"When we opened this, I was back there working in the kitchen," says Graves, "and I hear this jingle jangle jangle, and I looked out and saw this big ol' hat and a big scarf and chaps and spurs. It was a cowboy riding and he'd stopped in for pie and coffee. I looked out and looked again, and I just couldn't believe it."

Cowboys soon became a part of everyday life for the cafe owners. The annual cattle drives during which ranchers move their herds from winter to summer pasture took some getting used to, however.

"One day I was sitting in here," says Mrs. Graves, "and here's all the cows going right through downtown. It's amazing how much of the Old West is still here."

The cafe is one of the town's social centers. "The ranchers come in every morning for coffee, probably 13 or 14 of 'em," says Graves. "You can just tell the season by what they're talking about. In the spring, they're moving cattle, they're branding all the new calves. They have their brandings and all the ranchers help each other."

"When the branding's over they're going to hay, and pretty soon they'll start their first cutting. Then they'll go to pregnancy testing for the next year, and before you know it, it's time to have those calves, and they're up all night waiting for all of them to see if there's any problems."

Life in Hyattville isn't all work and chores, says Graves. "Our big celebration here, they call it Old Timers Day, and it's the last weekend of July," she says.

"People come from all over — families and kids — and they have a dance out here at the outdoor pavilion."

"Saturday they have a picnic — the Old Timers Picnic — and the ranchers provide the beef and everybody brings their own potluck. We have a roping contest here at the Caines Ranch and the dance starts at nine. We stay open because there are a lot of older people that like to come in."

Hunting season is another busy time of the year. "From probably about the 15th of October until the first of November, this town just comes alive with people," says Mrs. Graves.

"Hunters from places like Michigan, South Dakota, Missouri, Indiana and California."

The Hyattville Cafe is open from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. daily, and is closed from November until May. While off the beaten path Hyattville is not dif-icult to find — just take Wyoming Highway 31 east from U.S. 16 and 10, the Big Horn Basin's main north and south route, and follow the road until the pavement ends.

The cafe is even easier to find, says Mrs. Graves. "The joke is we're right next door to the federal building — that's the post office — and across the street from the educational center," she says. "That's our school which has six children, one room and one teacher."

Opera fans enjoy 'blue-light special'

If you love opera and the musical theater, but hate the high ticket prices, does the Novi Arts Council have a treat for you!

On Sunday, March 11, the Michigan Opera Theater (MOT) company in residence will present a one-act comic opera, "La Serva Padrona" and "Broadway Babies and Phantoms" — a revue of favorites from the American musical theater. The curtain rises at the Novi Civic Center, 45175 W. Ten Mile Road at 3 p.m. Tickets are $8.50 for adults and $6.50 for students.

"La Serva Padrona" — or "The Maid Who Would Be Mistress," by early 18th century Italian composer Giovanni Battista Pergolesi — is a witty tale of a servant who tricks her elderly master into marrying her. The opera lasts approximately 45 minutes.

The cabaret-style "Broadway Babies and Phantoms" traces the roots of musical theater beginning with a medley of George Gershwin tunes, including "I Got Rhythm" and "Embraceable You;" pays tribute to Harold Arlen, who wrote the score for "The Wizard of Oz," including his compositions "Stormy Weather" and "The Man Who Got Away;" and concludes with a selection from three Broadway smash hits of the 1980s, Andrew Lloyd Webber's "Phantom of the Opera," Stephen Sondheim's "Into the Woods," and Claude-Michel Schoenberg's "Les Misérables."

Mark Vondrak, production manager of MOT's community programs, said the company performs about 300 road shows annually, roughly 70 percent of them in schools.

Vondrak, along with Maria Cimarelli, Chris Jones and Karl Schmidt, will be singing in the Novi revue, accompanied by a pianist. The singers are from the Detroit area.

"We're in a touring company so everything fits in the van. We travel light, we have to," Vondrak said.

"We're looking forward to it, it's a nice afternoon. It's a nice mixture of things we have here."

MOT began its community programming 11 years ago to introduce a wider segment of the public to opera, especially young people.

"We cross-over occasionally with the (MOT) main stage," Vondrak said.

Novi Parks and Recreation Coordinator Marilyn Troshak, who serves as the city's liaison with the arts council, said the musical matinee was selected to supplement the council's ongoing children's programming with something for adults and high school students.

"It was more or less a brainstorming thing," Troshak said. "We wanted people to have the opportunity to see something like this here, rather than going elsewhere."

"Everybody's who's been in so far is really excited about it."

The Northville Record

Cagers take seventh in WLAA playoffs

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN

With the prospect of finishing eighth in the 12-team WLAA playoffs, just 11 days after clinching a share of the six-team Western Division title, pride took over for the Northville cagers.

The Mustangs avoided the embarrassment of dropping all three playoff games by dumping Livonia Churchill 65-59 in the battle for seventh place on March 3. The victory ended a two-game losing skid — the longest of the season for Northville — and provided the squad with a little momentum heading into a March 5 pre-district clash with state-ranked Plymouth Salem.

"We didn't feel good about being seventh, but it's better than eighth," Mustang Coach Omar Harrison said. "The kids wanted to win the game simply because they have a lot of pride."

Senior stars Scott Meredith and Joe Kaley were instrumental in Northville's fast start. The locals raced out to a 20-9 lead after one quarter and the two combined to score 17 points. Kaley connected on a pair of three-pointers to raise his season total to 41.

The Chargers cut into the lead by four at halftime, but the Mustangs raised the margin to 48-39 after three quarters of play. Down the stretch, Churchill made a run, but never got any closer than four points.

"We played a pretty good ball game all the way through," Harrison said. "I was happy to see it, especially after coming off a bad game against Franklin. We played better defensively and we played smarter." Kaley wound up with a game-high

Salem stops Northville in districts

It was unlucky enough when the Northville cagers drew state-ranked Plymouth Salem in the first round of the MHSAA Districts on March 5, but things got even worse because the host Mustangs caught the talented Rocks immediately following a loss to Livonia Stevenson in the WLAA Championship Game. The result was a 97-60 blowout for Salem.

Junior Forward Jake Baker poured in 22 points and hauled down 17 rebounds for the Rocks (19-2 overall). Northville (14-7 overall) was led by junior Bill Kelley's 13 points.

Details of this district clash will appear in the March 15 issue of the Northville Record.

earlier, the Mustangs didn't have much intensity for this fifth-place battle on Feb. 27. The result was Northville's first loss of the season to the Patriots in three tries.

"We didn't come out with any intensity," Harrison said. "(Franklin) seemed more interested in winning. Our kids seemed to take the attitude that if we weren't playing for first place, the game wasn't that important. Fifth place wasn't much of an incentive, especially after we won the division."

According to Harrison, the difference in the game was probably the first eight minutes. The Pats pulled ahead 26-17 and then held on from there.

"The difference was the first quarter," he said. "We played hard after that, but it was our downfall. We never got over the hump the rest of the way."

The Mustangs trailed by 10 at the break, and by six heading into the fourth, but midway through the second quarter the lead grew to 37-20 at one point. Northville did narrow the deficit to five on a couple occasions, but never got any closer.

"I have to hand it to our kids — they didn't quit," Harrison said. "We got behind by as much as 17 in the first half but we tried to scrap back and came up short."

Kaley again paced the Mustangs with 18 points and seven assists. Grant chipped in 13 points and 10 rebounds, while Meredith added 11 points. Franklin's Craig Overitis led everyone with 25.

"Hey, Franklin is not a bad ball club, so they deserve credit," Harrison said. "They had a little more incentive because we beat them twice during the regular season."

Favored Mustangs take third at WLAA Swim Meet

What happened to Plymouth Salem's swim team last week was one of the best reasons a coach becomes a coach. What happened to Northville is why coaching can be such a mental strain.

It wasn't because the Rocks won the WLAA Swimming Championships on March 2. It was because they won when they weren't expected to. As you can probably guess, the Mustangs were the favorites who came away empty-handed.

Salem surprised a lot of people, including their coach, by capturing a third consecutive conference championship. The Rocks scored 467.5 points to outdistance Livonia Stevenson, which edged favored Northville by a point, 411-410.

"Everybody did their job," Salem Coach Chuck Olsen said. "We've had some real nice wins, but to have to pass three teams like Northville, Stevenson and North Farmington makes this special."

The Mustangs headed into the showdown at Salem with a six-meet win streak, an overall record of 10-1, and a number-nine ranking in the state. Northville was the only WLAA team with an unblemished conference record (8-0) and that included wins over Salem and Stevenson.

Salem's surprising win and Stevenson's strong showing made it seem as if Northville choked. Olsen, however, disputed that.

"They swam well," he said, "just not as well."

Northville Coach Mark Heiden was unavailable for comment.

The Mustangs managed 13 top-six finishes in the meet, but were shut out in the 100-yard breaststroke — the second-to-last event of the competition. Stevenson's Alex Goecke won it with a meet-record 1:01.18 and that was the difference between second and third place.

The highlight of the meet for Northville came in diving, where Larry Osiecki and Steve Lang swept the top two places. Osiecki won the conference title with a 447.0 point total and Lang was close on his heels (429.05). The only other Mustang victory came from Eric Newton in the 500 freestyle (4:58.48).

Newton wrapped up a fine individual outing by taking the runner-up spot in the 200 IM (12:03.28). The Northville 200 medley relay squad also grabbed a second.

The Mustangs had a number of two-time placers: Andy Wayne chipped in with a second in the 100 freestyle (50.08) and a third in the 50 freestyle (23.14). Bob Holdridge contributed thirds in the 200 freestyle (1:51.16) and the 500 freestyle (5:02.49); and Brad Cook was fifth in the 200 IM (2:06.21) and the 100 butterfly (55.74).

The 400 freestyle relay team also added a third place finish (3:24.4) and Matt Hanna was fourth in the 100 breaststroke (1:03.38).

Salem only took two firsts (both by All-Stater Ron Orris), but used superior team depth to pull it out. Stevenson won four of the 11 events.

"(Salem) had four kids (score) in every event except one," Stevenson Coach Doug Buckler said. "(Olsen's) a great coach — the best in the area. Salem deserved to win it, they're a good team."

As for Northville — who went wire-to-wire in first place only to settle for third — the last chance for redemption is this weekend (March 9-10) at the MHSAA State Meet.

Northville spikers drop district final

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN

The Northville volleyballers went from error-free to error-full in the span of a couple of hours at the MHSAA District Tournament on March 3 at Schoolcraft College.

Following a near-perfect performance in round one against Novi, the Mustangs had trouble with routine tasks in the district finals against Livonia Stevenson. The 11-0 Spartans wasted little time going after the title, 15-6, 15-9.

"We were as bad in round two as we were good in round one," Northville Coach Paul Osborn said. "There seems to be some sort of mystique when we play these Livonia schools. I don't know what it is, but we don't play very well against them."

In game one, the Mustangs couldn't get the ball over the net. After the first rotation, Northville managed just one good serve in six tries, and as a result, Stevenson pulled out to a commanding 7-1 lead. Two more bad serves made it 13-4 after two rotations, and three more in the third rotation helped the Spartans secure the win.

"We couldn't get the ball over the net to save our soul," Osborn said. "We were 10-for-20 in serves that game, which is atrocious."

Stevenson scored the first four points in game two, and even though Northville came back to tie it at 4-4, they never led in the game. After one rotation, the Spartans were up 13-9 and cruised from there.

"We served only 15 times in the second game and had only 35 serves for the entire match," Osborn pointed out. "It's hard to score points when you're only serving that much. Our setting was not to the point where we need it to be in order to pound the ball at Stevenson."

The Mustangs suffered turnovers four separate times simply by forgetting how many times they had hit the ball on a possession.

"We made way too many mistakes," Osborn said. "We hit the ball four times a number of times, and we've never done that all season. We gave them a lot of free balls and against a team like Stevenson, you can't do any of that stuff."

The Mustangs finished the season with a 22-12 overall record (including tournament results), 8-5 in the WLAA, and 5-5 in the Western Division.

Apligian leads gymnasts at WLAA Meet

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN

The Northville gymnasts probably placed fourth in the eight-team Western Lakes Activities Association (WLAA) Meet on March 1 at Plymouth Canton just by showing up. But give the Mustangs credit for giving the extra effort even though they were essentially locked into that fourth spot — barring a minor miracle or a major disaster.

"We finished right where we knew we would," Northville Coach Michelle Charniga confirmed. "The top three teams were too good for us, and the bottom four teams weren't nearly up to our level."

Thanks to a great effort in the meet's final event — the vault — the Mustangs came through with a respectable 127.6 score. Plymouth Salem ended up taking first-place honors with an outstanding 141.65 effort, North Farmington was second (140.25) and Canton third (138.75). Northville placed ahead of teams like Farmington, Farmington Harrison, Westland John Glenn and Walled Lake Western but that was expected. All four teams fell to the locals in dual meet action this season, and all the scores were lopsided.

"The kids had been on vacation the week before this meet, so it made it difficult," Charniga said. "We knew we'd get blown away by Canton, Salem and North, so our goal was to just try and score as high as we could."

The highlight of the meet came in vault from an unlikely star: Melanie Apligian. With a new vault, performed for the first time in competition, the junior nailed an 8.9 score — which led the team and was a career-best effort. Apligian ended up placing fourth overall in a field of 48 gymnasts.

"She specializes in vault, so it was her only event of the meet," Charniga said. "It was incredible — the best vault she's ever performed."

The rest of the Northville contingent included Mia DeHart (8.55) in 10th place, Lee LaChance (8.25) in 15th, Liz Torok (8.05), Ris Fleming (7.8) and Becky Carney (7.65). As a team, the Mustangs boasted a season-high team score of 33.75 in the event.

In the uneven parallel bars, DeHart (9.05) and LaChance (8.35) performed well, but there was a big drop-off after that. Carney (6.75) and Sue Okasinski (6.5) provided the other two scores that counted toward Northville's relatively low 30.65 team score. DeHart's effort, however, was good for third place overall.

The Mustangs had a difficult time staying on the balance beam, and the result was a total of 10 falls in six routines. DeHart paced the team with an 8.35 (with one fall) and LaChance next with a 7.75 (and two falls). They placed 10th and 19th respectively. The rest of the Northville competitors included Lisa Hojnacki (7.5, one fall), Torok (6.8, one fall), Megan Graham (6.7, two falls) and Ris Fleming (6.25, four falls).

"With 10 falls, that's deductions of five full points," Charniga said. "We scored a 30.4 as a team, and it could have been up around 35 if it wasn't for all the falls. We just could not stay

Record/CHRIS FARINA

Megan Graham scored a 6.7 in the balance beam for Northville at the WLAA Meet on the beam."

In the floor exercise, DeHart and Tracie Surdu tied for 14th place overall with identical 8.4 scores, LaChance (8.2) was next, followed by Leslie Allen (7.8), Liz Torok (7.65) and Beth Cannizzaro (7.5). The team total was 32.8, but Charniga thinks her squad can improve.

"It wasn't bad, but we need to get higher degrees of difficulty into our routines so we can score higher," she said.

In the all-around competition,

DeHart placed eighth overall in the conference with a 34.35. For the season, the sophomore standout led all other Western Division all-arounders with an average score of 34.42. # Mustangs of the Week

MELANIE APLINGIAN

It didn't give the Mustangs the title, but Melanie Aplingian's performance in the vault at the WLAA Meet last week was certainly an outstanding one. The junior worked on a new routine for weeks, finally used it at the conference meet, and nailed a career-high score of 8.9. The effort led her team and was the fourth-highest overall in a field of nearly 50 competitors. That's why "Mustang of the Week" honors are heading her way. "She specializes in vault, so it was her only event of the meet," Northville Coach Michelle Charniga said. "It was incredible — the best vault she's ever performed." Thanks to a great effort, the Mustangs set a season-record team score in the event — 33.7.

SUE LaPRAD

Northville staged an almost-perfect performance in round one of the MHSAA District Volleyball Tournament, and senior Sue LaPrad was the standout. In a 15-4, 15-1 win over Novi, LaPrad was a dangerous threat at the service line. In the two games combined, she reeled off 13 consecutive points off her serve. In game one, her six-point blitz helped widen the margin in a close game. In game two, LaPrad started serving when the score was 4-1, and it was 11-1 when she was finally stopped. "Sue was really on in the Novi match," Northville Coach Paul Osborn said. "Her serves were coming in an inch above the net, and they were very hard to handle." For the great effort, LaPrad has been named a "Mustang of the Week."

DISTANCE, distance and more distance. That is what Evan "Big Cat" Williams is all about with a golf club in his hands.

The two-time national long driving champion and Rochester resident will surely make his presence known at the 1990 Golf Manufacturers Expo to be held March 9-11 at Schoolcraft College in Livonia. After all, the nickname 'Big Cat' has real meaning since Williams stands 6-foot-6 and weighs tops the 200-pound mark.

"Actually, it has been a great nickname because it goes along with long driving," explained Williams, who said he was tagged with the nickname following a scuffle he had while a member of the Canisius College men's basketball team in the late '60s. "Later that night, Cassius Clay knocked out Cleveland 'Big Cat' Williams for the world heavyweight title and I guess that kind of tells how I fared also. It stuck and it's kind of nice because it's got that macho ring to it like heavyweight boxing and long driving."

Promoting the sport of golf is nothing new to Williams. The much-traveled guru of golf has visited more than 44 states and made stops in 26 countries, explaining how and why he has mastered the art of distance.

"I LOVE WHAT I do," beamed Williams, a native of New Jersey, who with wife, Susan, and their two children, moved to Rochester five years ago. "I put in about 100 days out of the year of actual work and enjoy it very much because I'm doing it in a fun environment."

Williams, a 1971 graduate of Franklin College of Indiana, won the National Long Driving Championship in 1976 and 1977. In winning the 1976 title,

In addition, the Expo will feature exhibits from regional and national golf resorts, tournaments, golf schools, and other golf related products and services. (See page 4 for complete listings of booths.)

Among the special features for the Golf Manufacturers Expo will be appearances by noted PGA teaching professionals as part of a seminar series throughout the weekend. The public will be invited to ask questions and learn more about the finer points of the game.

THE SEMINAR will also feature some influential individuals in the areas of golf equipment design, golf course architecture and physical conditioning.

As added attraction, a charity golf auction will be conducted to benefit the American Lung Association.

The silent auction, the first of its kind, will feature golf equipment, golf vacation packages, opportunities to play with local celebrities, and golf memorabilia from the greatest names in the game.

Expo coordinator Roy Gaddey, a 1972 Plymouth High grad, expects a crowd upwards of 30,000 for the three-day event.

Gaddey, chief organizer of the AAA Michigan Open and the Michigan Bell Skins Challenge, is currently director of Sportsmark, Inc., a Bloomfield Hills-based national marketing firm.

Evan 'Big Cat' Williams, a resident of Rochester, will be talking about hitting the long ball this weekend at the Golf Manufacturers Expo.

Williams smashed the ball 307 yards. He came back the following year with a 353-yard effort.

Williams also has the Bermuda Long Driving Championship (1978) and the Australian Long Driving Championship (1979) to his credit. His best effort off the tee was a 496-yard shot in Thailand in 1977.

With all the excitement generated by distance, Williams is quick to point out the rest of his game isn't too shabby either.

"I feel I'm a pretty good player," said Williams, who holds a trio of athletic records at Franklin, including a 76-yard punt and the single-game rebounding mark (27). "You can't hit a golf ball a long way without good fundamentals. I don't think a lot of times I'm given enough credit for the player I am. I always had the talent, I just had to cultivate it."

WILLIAMS HELD a PGA touring card for a brief period in 1975, but said he found more enjoyment in competing in long driving competitions and conducting clinics.

"Back in 1974 I knew I had something a little bit different," Williams said. "You always seem to fall back on your own niche and that was mine."

"I always try and make my clinics as entertaining as possible," Williams continued. "I tell stories and hit fun shots and try and give every type of player something to take home. I want to give something to the beginner, a little more to the average player, and maybe that one key element to the advanced player's game."

Two of Williams' most interesting moments involve driving a golf ball through a 450-page phone book and smacking a ball hidden in an empty golf ball box some 250 yards down the fairway.

"You pick up something from players that have preceded you," Williams said of his clinic artillery. "You learn a little something from other people and then create yourself."

Williams, who plays out at Garland in Lewiston, Mich., is currently pushing the Pinnacle line of products, saying, "the ball may be one of the biggest advancements in the game."

"It may not be so noticeable to the average golfer, but it has made a great difference," Williams said.

SHOW TIMES for the event are: 4 to 9 p.m., Friday, March 9; 10 a.m. to 9 p.m., Saturday, March 10; and 11 a.m. to 6 p.m., Sunday, March 11.

Tickets for the Golf Manufacturers Expo are available at the door for $5. (Children under 12 are free.)

Schoolcraft College is easily accessible, located on Haggerty between Six and Seven Mile roads. The school is adjacent to I-275, just north of the I-96 and M-14 interchange.

The College offers over 26,000 square feet of show spaces (129 booths), an auditorium for lectures, and an auxiliary hall that can provide additional 2,500 square feet of usable space.

There are also 3,400 lighted parking spaces on site.

Seminars target you

Nathaniel Crosby, the son of the late Bing Crosby, will be one of 10 featured guests this weekend at the 1990 Golf Manufacturers Expo, held at Schoolcraft College.

The public will be able to meet the experts and ask questions at four seminars, scheduled to run Friday through Sunday.

Each of the four seminars will feature a nationally known individual from the areas of golf instruction, golf equipment design, golf course architecture and physical conditioning.

Among the speakers will be Jerry and Bruce Matthews and Bill Newcombe, all of whom are known as architects of golf courses throughout the country. Evan "Big Cat" Williams, of Rochester, who has twice won the national long-drive competition; Rick Smith, a top golf instructor in Michigan; Randy Erskine, the five-time AAA Michigan Open Champion; Eddie Langert, president of Langert Golf, one of golf's hottest new companies; Dr. Lewis Smith, sports psychologist; and Tom Platz, former Mr. Universe, and currently president of PrStyle Inc., which develops weight training programs for golfers. (See related stories).

CROSBY'S FATHER Bing was more well-known, perhaps, for the impact he made in Hollywood, but Nathaniel also brings an impressive background to the Expo.

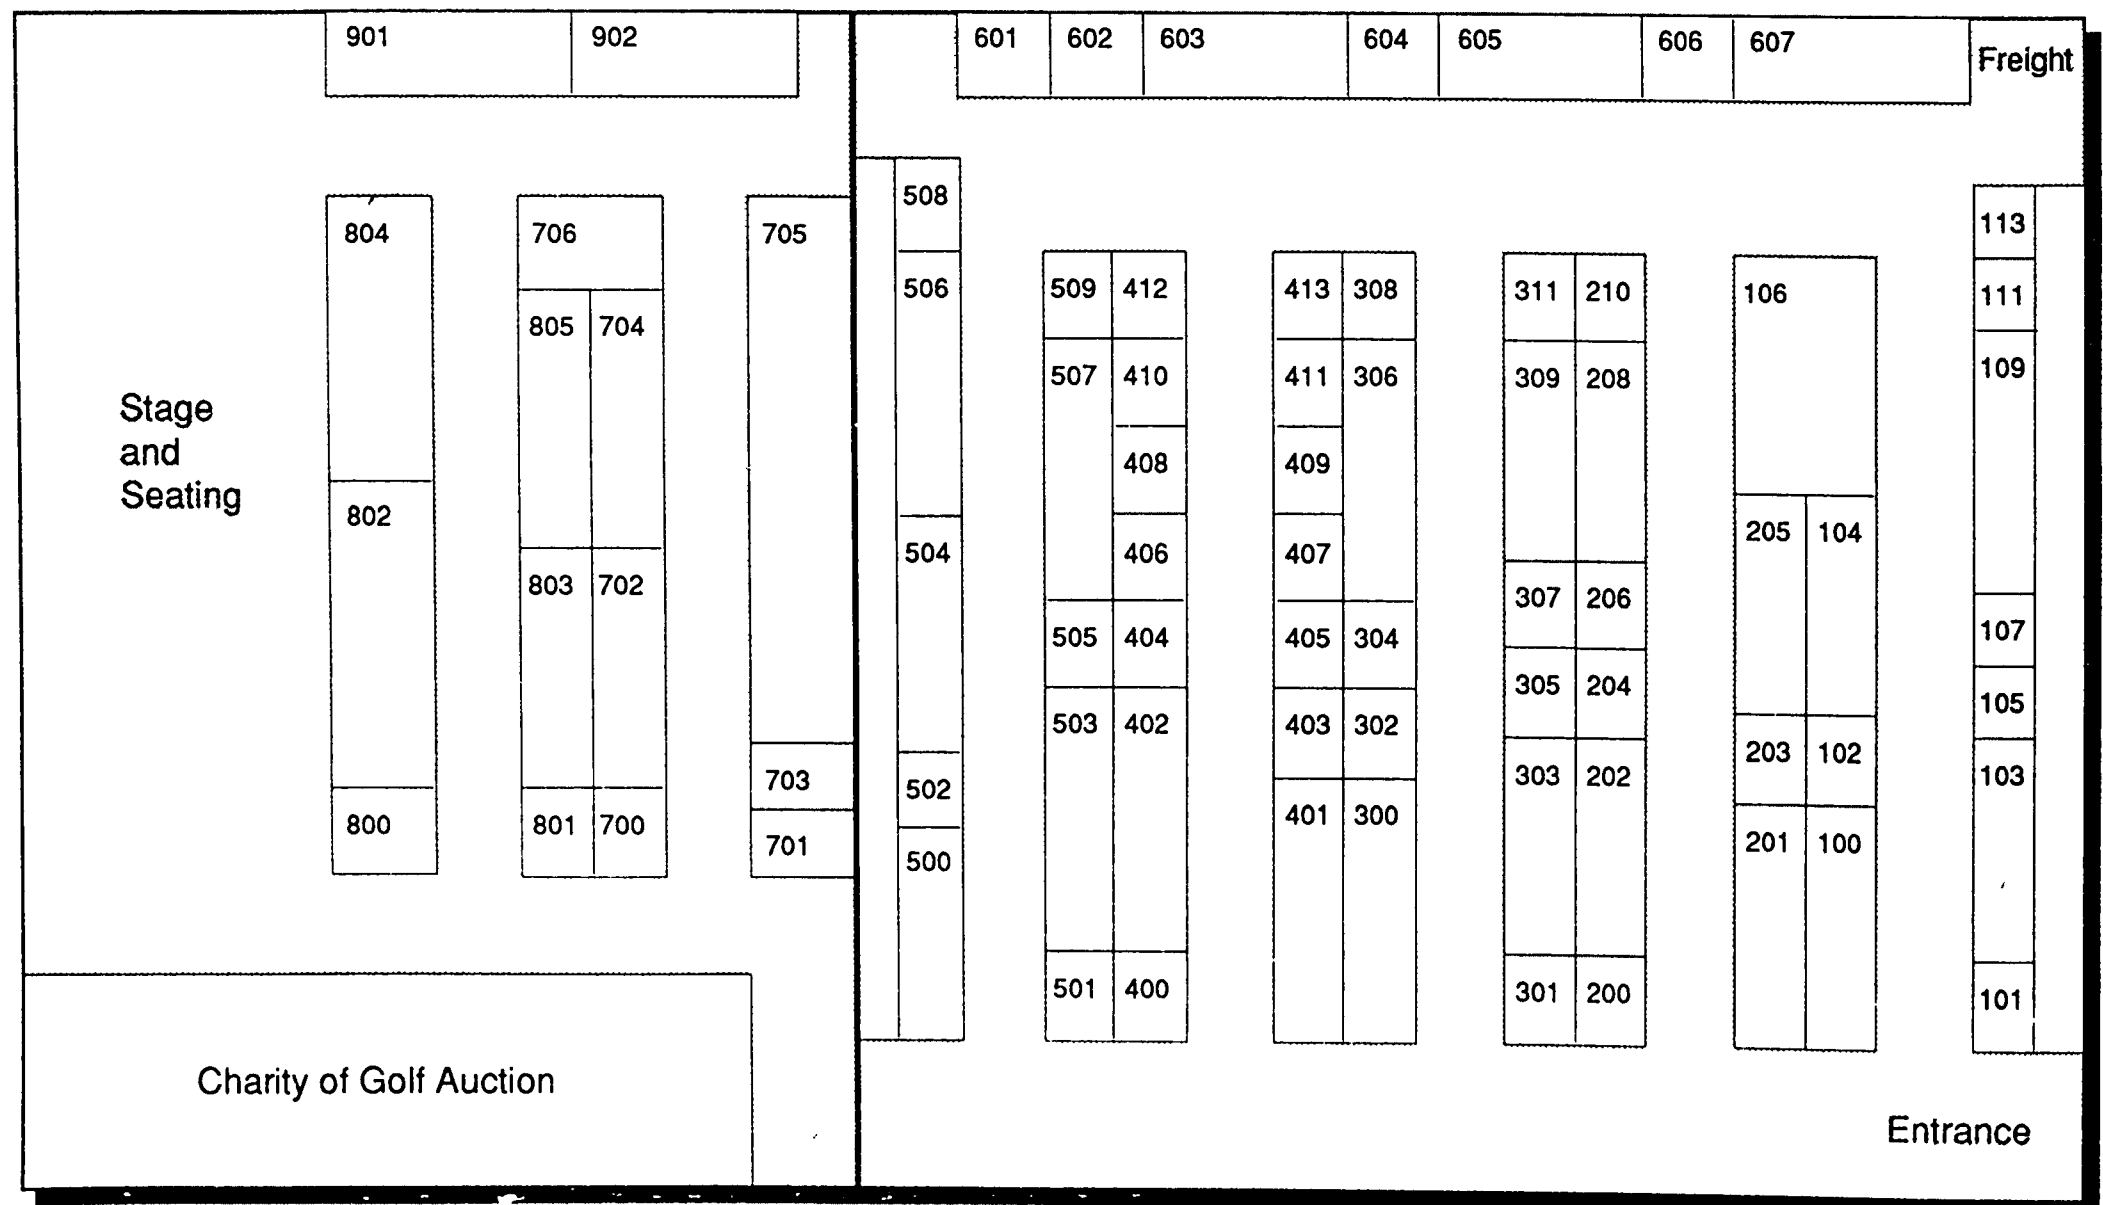

The 28-year-old native of Los Angeles, Calif., was the U.S. Amateur champion in 1981 and turned professional in 1984. A 1984 graduate of the University of Miami (Fla.), Crosby placed third at the 1985 Portuguese Open.

Since 1988, Crosby has carried the title of president of the Toney Penna Golf Co., located in Jupiter, Fla.

The first seminar is scheduled for 6 p.m. Friday at Schoolcraft. Two seminars, at 1 p.m. and 5 p.m., will be held Saturday, followed by a 2 p.m. seminar Sunday.

Erskine offers golf expertise

Seminar features Michigan Open king

By Marty Budner
staff writer

Randy Erskine, five-time Michigan Open champion, will be among the featured seminar speakers at the Golf Manufacturers Expo, March 9-11 at Schoolcraft College.

RANDY ERSKINE says the sport of golf is on the upswing. That's why he's looking forward to the upcoming Golf Manufacturers Expo 1990 scheduled for March 9-11 at Schoolcraft College.

Erskine, one of the state's top club professionals, is scheduled to speak at the Expo from 2-3 p.m. Sunday, March 11. He will provide a number of tips on improving your game, plus answer any questions Expo-goers might have.

"There have not been a lot of shows like this around, and this is probably one of the biggest of its kind," said Erskine, who has qualified for one U.S. Open (1985) and two PGA championships.

"I'll be one of a number of speakers. I'll talk about golf swings in general, and I'll answer any golf-related questions the public might have. Plus, I'll take them through a golf swing so they know exactly what to do.

"This is going to be a good one. Probably most of the manufacturers will be there so it should be a good show," he said.

ERSKINE, pitching his profession with the skill of a politician, believes golf is yet to enjoy the height of its popularity.

"Golf, in my opinion, is on the way up," he said.

"It's a sport which is growing by leaps and bounds, unlike say, tennis, which seems to be dying out. I think golf will enjoy it's biggest year this summer. And it will get even bigger in 1991, and bigger yet in 1992.

"I don't think anybody can see an end in sight to the popularity of golf."

Erskine, head pro at the Washtenaw Country Club in Ypsilanti, graduated from the University of Michigan in 1970 with All-American honors and is a former Big 10 champion.

While the 6-foot, 185-pound head pro has participated in a number of national and international tournaments, he is most noted for his accomplishments in Michigan.

Erskine, for instance, has won the prestigious Michigan Open championship five times and also has captured Michigan PGA Match-Play and Michigan PGA titles. He has been a participant in the season-ending Skins game played in Traverse City.

Erskine, 41, has worked his way up the Michigan PGA administrative ladder. He's been a past PGA first vice president, treasurer and secretary. He is currently serving his first full year as the Michigan Section PGA president.

BECAUSE OF that tedious responsibility, Erskine expects a busy summer.

"We have a real active section," he said. "We're (Michigan Section PGA) a very large company, and we run a lot of tournaments and there's a lot going on. It's a pretty big job and I'm sure it will be an active summer.

"I have no plans for any national tournaments, and, even if I did, I don't know if I would have the time to spend to try and qualify for them."

Erskine's season tees off with the Golf Manufacturers Expo 1990. He expects it to be much better than the show last year at Cobo Hall.

"We had it (last year's show) in a bad area of Cobo Hall and we didn't get the manufacturers we wanted," he said. "It just didn't go over very well.

"The one we're having this year will be a great way to promote golf. I think it will be a great show for the general public, and the private club members as well."

Langert selections sizzle on tour

By Bob Stebbins
staff writer

ONE OF THE MOST innovative men in golf will lecture and show his product line this weekend during the Golf Manufacturers Expo at Schoolcraft College.

Eddie Langert, a former PGA Tour player and founder of the Langert Golf Co., will showcase his metal woods and putters at the exhibition.

Langert has an impressive background in equipment design, having played an integral part in the spectacular rise of the Taylor Made Co.

"I was there from the start when it was just two people (along with founder Gary Adams)," said Langert.

Langert played a key role in the design of the Taylor Made line.

"IN THE first four years of the company, there was not a 'designer,' we did it kind of as a group," Langert said.

When a French corporation purchased Taylor Made in 1986, Langert, at that time the vice president of sales and marketing, became dissatisfied with his role in the company and decided to form his own firm.

He started the Langert Golf Co. in January, 1987, and the business has been a tremendous success. Sales have grown from $1.8 million in the first full year to a projected $10 million this year.

The major emphasis of the company is in its metal woods. There are several different models of woods available, and they come in a variety of shafts and lofts.

Shaft offerings include graphite, steel and titanium, with the graphite shafts coming in a variety of colors. Hubert Green nearly won the Hawaiian Open in February hitting a driver with a green shaft known as the Langert Lizard.

THE MOST innovative feature of the entire Langert line may be the aerodynamic hozel on the Foiler Series of metal woods.

The elliptical shaped hozel, according to Langert sales representative Tony May, provides greater clubhead speed and increased stability by reducing deflection (bending of the shaft up and down) and drag in the hitting zone. Langert holds the patent to the hozel and has blocked other companies from designing similar clubs.

Professional golfers who have played the driver on tour include Gary McCord, Bobby Clampett, Jim Feree, Jan Stephenson and Mark Calcavecchia. Langert estimates 10 to 20 players use the club on tour every week.

The Langert Golf Co. also puts out an extra-long putter that is played professionally by such people as Bruce Lietzke, Charles Coody, Lon Hinkle and Doug Tewell.

Langert does not currently sell a set of irons, but one is due out soon.

"WE ARE shooting for this fall," said the company's founder. "They are going to be a little bit different."

The Langert line of golf clubs stresses quality over price.

"We have aimed at the game-improvement, top-of-the-line player," said Langert. "The clubs are not inexpensive, but we have found there is a tremendous market for that."

The clubs are sold mainly in country club pro shops, with a limited number also being sold in retail outlets. Pro Golf is the only retail store in Michigan that sells the clubs.

"Our sales policy requires that qualified people be on site to fit people," said Langert, who is based just down the street from Taylor Made in Carlsbad, Calif. "Our base is still green-grass country clubs, but that is not our exclusive market. We control distribution with on-street specialty shops."

Eddie Langert, who founded his own golf company, will be at the Golf Manufacturers Expo (March 9-11) at Schoolcraft College in Livonia.

Auction will benefit charity organization

The Golf Manufacturers Expo will host a first-ever silent Charity Golf Auction for the benefit of the American Lung Association of Southeastern Michigan. The Auction will feature:

Golf vacation packages from: Grand Traverse Resort, Boyne USA Resorts, Garland, Sugarloaf and Treetops Sylvan Resort.

FOR THOSE INTERESTED in participating, this is how the silent auction will work: Items will be displayed the entire weekend; bids will be collected on a bid-form that will be deposited in the bid-box for each auction item; bids will be tabulated every two hours with the highest bid displayed.

The highest bid turned in by 6 p.m. Sunday (March 11) is the bid that wins. Winners will be contacted by the Lung Association by phone and payment is expected upon receipt of the item, or in case of custom items or trips, upon receipt of voucher for the item. Purchases can be picked up at the Lung Association office, 18860 W. 10 Mile, Southfield.

Making plans for the 'second' wedding

In spite of loving intentions and best efforts, some people find themselves traipsing to the altar a second time. In fact, in 43 percent of all marriages in the United States, one or both spouses have been married previously.

There is no reason why second marriages can't surpass first go-arounds in the quality of ceremony and happiness.

Planningwise, you have the advantage of knowing what you're up against. But this time you may have to juggle sensitive subjects such as children (his or hers), former spouses, ex-in-laws, and what inelegantly might be termed "religious red tape."

First, agree with your fiancé about how best to handle these potentially sticky wickets.

You might want to ease your way by reviewing books such as "The Second Wedding Handbook" by Judith Slawson (Doubleday), "Emily Post's Complete Book of Wedding Etiquette" (Harper & Row) and the classic "You and Your Wedding" by Winifred Gray (Bantam).

Bride's, and Modern Bride magazines have frequent articles with tips on revisiting the altar.

Let your children be the first to know your plans. They will be justifiably concerned about how to get their fair share of your affection and attention with a new husband or wife in the picture. They also will want to be assured that your fiancé is not taking the place of their real father or mother. Emphasize that the marriage will be a new and different arrangement entirely.

Present the children with your news in a non-confrontational manner that leaves room for their reactions. Make the moment a private one accompanied by some kind of celebration that enhances their importance to you.

Make every effort to include children in the marriage planning. Ask their opinion on the clothes, flowers, food and decoration. This will validate their sense of importance and muster family support for the event.

It's perfectly appropriate to announce your engagement to your family and friends in the same way you announced it for your first marriage. But be sure to wait until your divorce or that of your fiancé is final before wearing a ring and spreading the news.

Many couples tend to choose a less formal approach for second ceremonies, doing much of the inviting by telephone or mail, particularly if fewer than 50 guests will be invited.

Likely your ex-spouse will not be included in the festivities. However, if you have strong ties to his or her parents or siblings, you may include them. Be sure to introduce them as the grandparents of your children, or as friends rather than "ex's."

Friends may want to give you an engagement party or shower. Gifts are acceptable though certainly not required. It is a good idea to register at a favorite store, but you may not want to register for the china, glassware and silver opted for before.

Suggest that friends go in together on a special piece of furniture or sports equipment. They also could give season tickets to the theater or symphony, museum memberships or weekend getaways.

If you are planning a religious ceremony, you may meet with some obstacles having to do with your divorce or that of your intended. Review the situation with your clergy person well in advance. This will ensure that you meet the requirement and have the proper dispensation to remarry.

Many couples treat second weddings with more pizzazz and less tradition than their first. Having done things by the book and very often under the family thumb and/or social pressure the first time, a more casual or unique event may well be a merry relief.

We recently attended a Halloween wedding where all guests were asked to dress as famous romantic couples. And although it was a civil ceremony, the person officiating wore a monk's costume.

This kind of occasion may not be everyone's cup of tea. On the other hand it shows how to create a fun, memorable event. If you host your own wedding, your choices won't reflect on your parents' preferences.

The wedding can be as large or small as you can manage. A small gathering of immediate family members is more intimate and less expensive. On the other hand, the event may provide the perfect opportunity for throwing a major bash.

It's appropriate, though not necessary, to have attendants for a remarriage ceremony. Children who are old enough to participate should be included as honor attendants of any variety — flower girls, ring bearers or readers. Couples can come down the aisle together. A bride's father can certainly escort her again. Or the bride's or groom's children can perform the honor. Enlist at least one usher for every 50 guests.

Wedding garb can be anything you desire. For the bride, white or ivory, representing celebration, can be worn again, but dispense with the veil and train, which symbolize virginity. A pastel frock, a softly tailored suit, a zany and extravagant evening gown — let your imagination express what is most special about your new relationship, not what is expected of you by others. Same goes for the groom who might wear anything from a new sports coat to tux and tails.

Instead of throwing the bouquet and garter, some second-time couples hand them to their most likely single friends with best wishes.

Celebrate your new life together with a honeymoon. Making sure the spot is new to you both will avoid possibly hurtful lapses down memory lane.

If you have children, make the trip brief, or plan on including them in the event after just a few days alone. This is a warm way to welcome and enjoy your new enlarged family.

you don't want to go just anywhere.

Timeless, traditional gowns take center stage this year

Current bridal fashions are designed to flatter

Whether you're a first-time bride or second, want a traditional wedding or plan on being avantgarde, today's bridal fashions will flatter you.

The first step is to select a style that suits you, advises Bride's magazine, "to show off your impeccable taste, creative personality, or dramatic fashion sense."

Brides of the '90s have many choices — from elaborate to simple, from city sophisticated to country casual.

Worried about your figure? Don't be. There's a gown out there that will make you look great. And if you want to sew your own or restore a dress that is a family heirloom, you also have plenty of options.

STYLE TRENDS

Always dreamed of a full white gown with a cascading train plus yards of filmy veil? Go ahead — indulge yourself.

Even second-time brides can wear floor-length gowns of lace and satin — after all, these symbolize the joy and hope of marriage (But forgo the veil; it's an age-old symbol of virginity.)

For a traditional look that is understated yet elegant, consider a taffeta gown with a long hem, simple portrait neckline and small sweep train.

A country-style wedding dress should enhance your feminine and romantic qualities, says Sarah Callander of Laura Ashley. Capture the image and mood of the country with all-natural fabrics and pastoral prints.

Or create romance by wearing a soft, lacy Victorian dress with a blouson bodice and full gored skirt.

A word of caution: Ruffles and frills can age an older bride. If you're over 30, go with attire that is elegant, sophisticated and more sexy than sweet.

Your wedding is a perfect time to show off your fashion confidence and make a dramatic statement. Wear a sculptured gown that plays up your figure; a back-baring draped cowl; perhaps a chic, off-the-shoulder neckline.

If the look you desire (good for a second wedding) is simple and tailored, consider a wedding suit. New York designer Carolina Herrera, creator of Caroline Kennedy's wedding gown, described this look to Bride's. "Keep all the elements soft, from color to cut to fabric." Wear a dress-plus-jacket or a simple jacket and skirt, complemented with gloves and a small hat.

A can't-go-wrong classic is the chemise, ideal for an informal wedding. The straight skirt is knee-length, often worn with a fitted, slightly box jacket to give a balanced silhouette.

One of the most unusual trends in wedding fashions is for the bride and maids to wear black. "Actually, it's an old tradition from Italy," says Washington, D.C., bridal consultant Regan Botts. "It's currently popular for evening weddings and not just for fall and winter; in summer they're wearing black on top with a white taffeta or organza skirt."

Do the mothers object? "Sometimes. But I act as a mediator and make sure the bride gets what she wants."

A PERFECT FIT

If the idea of sashaying down the aisle in a body-hugging sheath horrifies you, chances are you'd prefer a gown that minimizes figure flaws.

Planning to put your wedding on film

Technology is a two-edged sword.

It has wrought many wonderful things. Can you imagine a world without microwave ovens, pacemakers or CD players? But technology can cause problems as well as solve them. All one has to do is ask the bride-to-be who must choose between still photos or videotape.

In the old days, you hired a photographer who took several shots of the bride and groom, parents and attendants, disappeared, then had proofs ready once the happy couple returned from their honeymoon.

These days, it's not unheard of for the videographer to interrupt the vows because he wants to shoot from another angle or to treat the reception like a movie set with the guests being just so many extras in the production.

With today's hectic pace, the decision of whether to go with still photos or video or combine both has to be made early in the wedding preparations.

The best photographers are booked months, even years, in advance. Many shoot more than one wedding a day, and any last-minute scheduling conflicts can cause serious wedding-day migraines.

Also, it's important to know in advance whether the church where you are exchanging vows allows flash photography or video cameras during the service.

Some do and some don't. Some will let you tape, but only if the camera and its operator don't intrude on the service. Others have their own cameras in discreet locations and allow you to buy a video of your wedding at a nominal fee.

STILL OR VIDEO?

Still photos capture that one moment and hold it fixed forever.

Videos, on the other hand, capture the movement and energy of the event in a way no other system can.

Both have their advantages and disadvantages, and many couples choose to use both. If you're on a tight budget, however, it's best to decide which is more important.

Would you rather have a beautiful album of professional photos and a grainy video of Grandma doing the frug with Uncle Roy? Or does the idea of a professionally edited video with credits, titles, background music and special effects and some photos shot by the best man's work buddy seem more appealing?

Whatever your choice, it's best to consider the pros and cons of each format before making your decision:

□ Permanence. The most important consideration, besides price, is how long the photos or video will last. Color photos begin to fade after 10 to 15 years.

The negatives, however, can be used again (if you remember to get them from the photographer), and black-and-white photos can be made from color negatives to ensure that your photos last forever.

Videotape is in a state of flux as far as format. Videos taped now may be as obsolete in the future as eight-track tapes are today. Currently, the VHS system is slowly losing ground to the 8mm format. Who knows what technological advances will come in the next 10 years? Holographs?

Also, videotape deteriorates every time it is played. It may not be so noticeable at first, but after 100 plays the quality is seriously deficient. Another consideration — what happens if your recorder eats your master tape? What are you going to do? Reshoot the whole wedding?

□ Coverage. Selecting who gets his picture taken and what events get documented is an important aspect of both video and still photography. Each has particular advantages.

Still photos, for example, are good for formal poses — such as groupings of the wedding party and families — and have the advantage that individual shots can be ordered by the people involved.

Videos are better for telling a story. Many couples have their videos edited so that they begin with baby pictures of the bride and groom, following them through school and up to the engagement. Then the live-action footage begins with the rehearsal dinner and takes them through wedding preparations, ceremony and reception. Many even shoot footage of their honeymoon and have that edited in. So the possibilities of creating a document are many.

□ Convenience. This category probably is the deciding factor for most couples as to which format takes precedence.

Still photos have the advantage here because it is easier to pull out an album and have guests "ooh" and "aah" rather than have them sit through an hours-long video.

Also, for those moments you just want to remind yourself, photos are easier. However, videos do have an advantage in that they offer multiple images to spark memories — and isn't memories what this is all about?

FINDING A PHOTOGRAPHER

Most photographers get hired by word of mouth, and this is still the best way to find the perfect person to shoot your wedding.

You shouldn't, however, settle for the first shutterbug that comes along. There are a number of questions that need to be settled before you sign on the dotted line.

If you go to a large agency and they show you sample photos or a video, make sure you get the photographer whose works you were shown.

These agencies may say they offer a uniform quality no matter which person on their staff takes the picture, but the truth is that photography is a subjective craft and each photographer brings something individual to his work.

When you look at samples and get price quotes, check not just for quality but also for coverage. Find out beforehand what pictures are included in the package price quoted by the agency. Is there a set number of formal poses and candids? With the candids, do they focus solely on the bride or groom or on others at the wedding?

In the case of videos, make sure there are no hidden costs for editing or dubbing music onto the final tape. Also, how many cameras will be utilized? How many copies will be made?

Remember that once you settle on a package and price, you probably will end up spending more after you see the proofs or raw tape and have a hard time making up your mind.

Most importantly, get everything in writing — names, addresses, deposits, final payment due (before or after the ceremony), arrival and departure times, special circumstances, etc.

Last, but not least, make sure the studio promises in writing to inform you before it throws away your negatives of this most important occasion.

We make you kindly welcome at ...

Groom's attire is classically elegant with ties and cummbunds that feature subtle detailing

Today's grooms have more fashion options

Today's groom has more leeway fashion-wise, than the prim penguins of days past.

But certain rules are inviolable. Keep them in mind, then go for an outfit that makes you look — and feel — like king-for-a-day

THE GROUND RULES

According to Bride's magazine, clothes for the groom follow a traditional pattern. You can update and personalize the look with new colors and fabrics, as long as they complement the style of the bride's wedding dress.

Here is what to keep in mind:

□ Very formal wedding. The groom and groomsmen wear formal clothes, which they usually rent.

Neckwear and boutonnieres may distinguish the groom and best man. Before 6 p.m., wear a black or oxford gray cutaway coat, gray and black striped trousers, gray waistcoat, and formal white shirt with a wing collar. Accessories include a striped silk ascot with pearl or gold stickpin, gray gloves, black shoes, black socks.

After 6 p.m., the correct groom's attire for a very formal wedding is white tie: satin-trimmed trousers and a matching black tailcoat, white pique waistcoat and stiff-front shirt with French cuffs and wing collar. Accessories include white pique bow tie, studs, white gloves, black patent leather pumps and long black socks.

□ Formal wedding. For a formal daytime wedding, the groom wears a black or oxford gray sack coat or stroller; gray waistcoat; striped trousers; white shirt with French cuffs and turned-down collar; a striped four-in-hand tie; black socks and shoes.

After 6, men wear black tie: a black, charcoal gray or navy tuxedo with matching trousers; white pleated-front shirt with French cuffs and a turned-down collar, cummbund or vest. It's traditional to wear black shoes and socks.

In summer, men may wear white dinner jackets and cummbunds.

• Semiformal wedding. For a daytime wedding, the groom wears a solid dark suit with a white shirt, four-in-hand tie, and black shoes with long socks.

If the wedding is during the summer, he may opt for a white linen jacket with oxford gray trousers or a dark blue jacket with gray or white flannel trousers. Or he may wear a dinner jacket or formal suit with dress shirt, bow tie vest or cummbund.

If the wedding is in the evening, he should consider wearing black tie appropriate for the season.

□ Informal wedding. "Even when the wedding is non-traditional," advises Bride's, "jackets and neckwear dignify the occasion." The groom's choice might be a three-piece suit or, in winter, a maroon velvet jacket with necktie or ascot, in keeping with the bride's attire

TRENDS IN STYLE

With romance and elegance on the menu for weddings of the '90s, most grooms complement bridal wear with elegant black tuxedos.

You may find it is more economical to own a tuxedo than to rent one — especially if you plan to wear it to many future occasions.

Another advantage when you own the tux, you control your own look and have an exact fit.

The cost of renting a tuxedo for one occasion, ranges from $50 to $100. Expect to pay

How to select the perfect wedding ring

Somehow, you're not really engaged until you're wearing the ring, a glowing announcement that seems to keep waving itself in front of your eyes. And everyone else's.

Your ring, like it or not, tells friends and strangers quite a lot about you and the person you're marrying: A woman will be judged for style and taste, a man for his income.

Whether you're going for the classic band of gold or a diamond that'll knock 'em dead, you want the best investment for your money. Listen to the experts, but also listen to your heart.

A LITTLE HOMEWORK

Before you and your fiancé go shopping, have in mind an amount to spend. The average cost of a diamond engagement ring is $1,325. If diamonds are a definite, here are good guidelines:

"Many couples find that two months' salary is an appropriate spending guide to follow when making this once-in-a-lifetime purchase," says Mike Roman, chairman of the board of Jewelers of America, a national association of jewelers. "This allows the couple to buy the best quality diamond they can afford without breaking their budget."

Figuring how much to spend has to take into account the possibility of the groom going for diamonds, too. According to the Diamond Information Center in New York, about 16 percent of men's wedding bands purchased today have diamonds.

PLACING YOUR TRUST

Once you have an idea of what you're able to spend, find a good jeweler. Things can go wrong with a piece of jewelry — diamonds can fall out, a band can bend — so you'll want a jeweler who stands behind his or her product.

You'll also want to be sure you're getting exactly what you're paying for.

Check jewelers' names with the Better Business Bureau. Another assurance is to see if the jeweler is a member of the American Gem Society, a Los Angeles-based professional association of jewelers who have met certain standards of gemological skill and knowledge.

Ask if your purchase will be accompanied by a certificate from the Gemological Institute of America, a gem-grading laboratory. It's your assurance that your gem is all your jeweler has told you it is, in terms of size, clarity, color and perfection.

Memorable engagement and wedding rings come in all shapes and styles

THE FOUR Cs

Any jeweler who hasn't the time to educate you on your purchase, quite frankly, isn't worth your time.

A diamond — or any stone — is a fascinating work of natural art; the way a skilled cutter brings out its beauty is amazing. Learn about why we spend what we do on these stones, why a full-carat rock can cost less than one half its size.

The value of a diamond is determined by the Four Cs: cut, color, clarity and carat.

The cut denotes the precise formulation of a diamond's 58 facets. These exact little planes direct the diamond's natural brilliance, creating the fire. Technically, cut doesn't refer to shape.

Color quality is determined by the degree to which a diamond approaches colorlessness, allowing the diamond to reflect and refract light purely in radiant prisms of color. The best color is no color.

Clarity refers to the diamond's lack of flaws. Imperfections break light refraction, affecting the sparkle.

The larger a stone, the higher its carat weight. And therefore its value.

The most valuable diamonds are those with a high rating in all four categories. In terms of investment, the quality of the stone is more important than size. If size is more important to you than clarity or color, however, by all means spend your money in that direction.

A jeweler is ultimately a businessperson, and hopefully one who will guide you to the best investment. He or she doesn't know, however, what is best for your heart.

WHAT'S NEW

When Princess Di married, the rush for colored gemstone wedding rings was on. Since then, we've come back to gold and diamonds.

But they're by no means boring!

Diamonds are big for men, as we've said, but this goes hand-in-hand with the "trend" of wedding rings for men, period. Of the estimated 2.4 million men who marry each year in the United States, approximately 90 percent purchase wedding bands, says the Diamond Information Center.

At Cartier in New York, the top styles for men include a threeband ring for interlocking white, yellow and rose gold. Another is a gold band encircled with nail heads. Third is a single band of the three colors of gold.

The idea of mixing white with yellow gold, for men and women, is not only fresh looking, but practical, as well: It matches any kind of watch or other jewelry.

Though diamond solitaires are still the most popular engagement ring for women, we know plenty of ladies who within a year find that the rings are spending a lot of time in the jewelry box. Try these tests while wearing one: Shove your hands in your pocket. Or rummage around in a deep purse. Now imagine yourself getting into gardening gloves, or pulling on stockings.

Consider a band of diamonds instead; there are hundreds of styles to choose from. Or look for a setting in which the stone is closer in, like a bezel.

Your ring becomes a part of your everyday life, so be very comfortable with and in the one you choose.

Selection of flowers sets tone for wedding

Weddings and flowers, like love and marriage, just seem to go together.

Brides in ancient times carried nuptial garlands and medieval brides wore wreaths of fresh blooms.

Bouquets and floral arrangements are an integral part of your wedding, and the florist should be one of the first people you contact. Flowers should be ordered at least three months before the nuptials.

BLOSSOMING TRENDS

There are floral fashions just as there are trends in bridal fashions. Wildflower bouquets reflected the natural mood of the '70s. In the '80s, bouquets got more lavish and the choice of blooms is entirely up to you.

"The philosophy is, 'You are the bride,'" says florist Jani Adair. "Bouquets are less stiff and flowers, such as roses, are open instead of the traditional closed look. The garden effect is very popular. You'll see natural styles with long stems and loose garden-gathered-looking bouquets."

While many brides still opt for traditional nosegays of white, ivory and champagne blooms, more want a shot of color, ranging from soft pastels to vivid hues.

"This follows the garden look," notes florist Eve Davis.

If you have your heart set on carrying daffodils in a December wedding, you probably can.

"In the past few years, there has been a dramatic increase in the year-round availability of flowers at florists across the country," floral designer Bobby Wiggins told Bride's magazine.

Nonetheless, florists encourage brides to use seasonal blossoms. Not only are they more abundant and healthy than hothouse flowers, they are more affordable.

Shapes for bouquets range from the traditional clusters to elegant cascades. Sweet nosegays are perfect for weddings with an Edwardian flair. Sophisticated brides can carry arm bouquets down the aisle.

Year-round flowers include orchids, freesia, iris and rhubrum lily. Asters, daffodils, dahlias, delphinium, jasmine, pansies and peonies are spring-summer specialties. For fall and winter weddings, try amaryllis, calla lilies, heather and holly.

LANGUAGE OF FLOWERS

Ever wonder why bridal bouquets often include roses? Why do few, if any, brides carry a bouquet of marigolds?

Perhaps it's because flowers have a language all their own. In Victorian England, lovers used bouquets to send private messages. Red roses and ivy declared love and promised a faithful ear. An arrangement of yellow roses and yellow tulips said, "I'm jealous and hopelessly in love." The marigolds brides rarely carry symbolized grief.

Flowery meanings can help you select your bridal bouquet. Here are a few interpretations from "The Book of Fresh Flowers" by Malcolm Hillier (Simon & Schuster).

- ☐ Amaryllis: splendid beauty.
- ☐ Bluebell: constancy.
- ☐ Red chrysanthemum: I love you.
- ☐ Daffodil: regard.
- ☐ Daisy: innocence.
- ☐ Jonquil: return my affection.
- ☐ White rose: I am worthy.
- ☐ Water lily: My heart is pure.

Whether it's traditional roses and tulips or more exotic blooms, the bouquet adds a fresh finishing touch to any bride's ensemble.

Invitations and notes — the paper chase

With scrolls unfurled and trumpets blaring, mounted messengers proclaimed the good news for medieval maidens and men united in matrimony.

But in the 20th century, brides and grooms must rely on the subtle powers of the written word to tell the world of their impending nuptials.

That's not to say couples of the 1990s are in any way at a disadvantage, for paper can be far more expressive than a loudmouth messenger in terms of both information and personal style. And, quite likely, the written word will be cherished long after the vows are recited.

So what will it be — a black-on-white engraved invitation for a black-tie gala, or a calligraphed message on handmade paper that's embedded with confetti?

Through your wedding announcements and invitations, you can speak formally and elegantly, sparkle and giggle or forward to your friends a mood that's somewhere in-between. Following are tips on how to select, prepare and mail these most personal papers.

STYLES

It once was written in stone that a wedding invitation had to be folded and printed in black ink on ecru or white parchment. Period.

Oh, how times have changed. But for many brides — mainly those planning lavish, formal celebrations — such traditional styles are still the way to go. Large-size "embassy" invitations are especially popular right now, say wedding experts.

Meanwhile, freer spirits can chase after braver, bolder papers — such as those embossed with lace or fans, or ones that echo the wedding colors.

Some couples add whimsy by pouring bits of confetti or glitter into the invitation folds, others include a photo of themselves on the in-itation or tucked inside the envelope.

There are delicate handmade papers flecked with gold leaves or butterflies, invitations with designs on the front and flashy vellum styles.

One of the hottest trends turns the tables on a formerly taboo hue: Black is now a much sought-after color for mounting, trims, laces and ribbons.

PRINTING

Once you've selected your paper, take a mini course in printing methods, typefaces and inks to determine which best suits your invitation style, be it traditional or trendy.

Engraving, which produces elegantly raised letters, is by far the most popular method — but you should also look into the options of thermography, which resembles engraving, and offset printing, which produces an informal look.

Next consider your scripts, serifs and sans serifs; the typeface you select — whether cursive or block letters, for example — will largely determine the mood of the invitation.

Some couples go so far as to have each invitation hand-lettered, perhaps in colored or metallic ink, or they have a master invitation prepared in calligraphy and then print from that.

Calligraphers often take on the chore of adressing the outer and inner envelopes, transforming each into a work of art. The bride, meanwhile, saves loads of time and is spared the agony of writer's cramp.

You also can have the return address printed, engraved or embossed on your outer envelopes.

To locate the best stationers, printers and calligraphers, ask friends and relatives for suggestions and discuss the matter with your wedding consultant or banquet manager.

MESSAGES, MAILINGS

Frills and froufrous are fine, but the heart of an invitation lies in the message itself.

The message rules are firm if you're going traditional. Thus, it's a good idea to consult a wedding professional, book or planner to make sure you're in line with invitation etiquette, especially when there are special circumstances surrounding the ceremony, such as divorced or deceased parents.

If you're selecting less traditional invitations, follow suit with the message. Borrow a poem, compose your own message or verse, or modify an old standard.

No matter how eloquent or well-written, your invitation can only say so much. Provide additional information through enclosures.

Reception cards, for instance, are appropriate when not all wedding guests are invited to the festivities afterward. Reply cards are popular because they make RSVPing so easy. You even can give your guests a map or directions via enclosure.

Tradition dictates how both inner and outer envelopes should be addressed, so make sure the correct courtesy titles and names are used. The inner envelope is always left unsealed.

Invitations should hit the mailboxes four to six weeks prior to the wedding date. If you're marrying around Christmastime or during any holiday week, mail two months ahead to compensate for slower delivery.

Even the postage stamp can enhance your wedding invitation. Rather than settling for what's offered over the counter at the post office, ask to see what else is available and select one that echoes the style of your invitation.

THANK-YOU NOTES

What's the ultimate faux pas in wedding etiquette? Forgetting to say thank you.

A notebook, computer or file box can help you keep tabs on who gave what. That way, you'll have no problem tracking the seven couples who gave you the seven identical salad bowls.

With thank-you notes, tradition rules, according to etiquette gurus. Select white, ivory, pale blue or yellow, tan or gray paper, either plain or embossed with your monogram or name. Order some cards with your maiden name if you'll be issuing thank-yous before the big day.

Remember, thank-you notes should be handwritten in either black or blue ink.

And, it's best to take pen in hand shortly after your honeymoon: wedding experts say you have only a month to respond.

Stylish brides choose gorgeous gowns

A big skirt will camouflage ample hips and derriere. If you want a slimmer gown, consider one with a peplum.

Don't cover up your bodice, neck and shoulders if you have a large bosom. Showing some lovely smooth skin will help frame your face and pull attention away from a heavy chest. If you're small-busted, choose a gown with plenty of bodice detail.

A small-shouldered bride is better off with full sleeves; those who are broad-shouldered look great in off-the-shoulder gowns.

Do you wear a petite or large size? Good news: These are now available through most bridal shops — and the styles are designed to flatter special body types.

Speaking of gowns found at bridal boutiques and departments, most have a lot of built-in figure helpers, such as shoulder pads and underskirts. In most cases, your body will conform to the shape of the dress, not the opposite.

Naturally you don't want to spend your last dime on your dress, but be sure you get a good one. A cheaply made gown will show its inferior design and materials.

OTHER OPINIONS

You don't have to buy your dress.

Why not wear your grandmother's antique gown? Or, if you have the skills or know a good seamstress, sew your own. You also can rent one.

If you own an heirloom wedding gown, it probably has never been washed and will need some restoration work. There are experts who specialize in creating fresh dresses from old; these restorers (or conservators) can repair, alter, mend or replace lace — and they also dye or tint repairs to match the original fabric. Check with your local historic society or a museum for recommendations.

If you decide to design your own dress, base your pattern size on the body measurements listed on the pattern envelope.

Experts at Simplicity pattern company recommend that you first make a sample gown in muslin, for fitting adjustments. Fitted bodices do not allow much room for error, for example, and you don't want to make too many adjustments once the dress is sewn. When working with fine and expensive fabrics, sewing a sample is the best way to double check your work. Also, buy all the fabric you need at one time. Dye lots may differ slightly in color.

Why not rent a dress? After all, most wedding gowns are worn only once. It makes sense to avoid spending an astronomical sum on something destined to become a bulky souvenir of the event. Visit shops that rent formal wear to get an idea of the selection in your city; expect to pay a security deposit to cover unexpected damage to the clothes.

If you want to preserve your dress (perhaps someday for your granddaughter), take it to a dry-cleaning-care establishment after the wedding. These experts will clean it and package it for posterity.

Fashion tips and trends for today's groom

from $450 to $700 for a suit under the labels of Chaps; Polo University Club by Ralph Lauren; Perry Ellis and Perry Ellis Portfolio; Lanvin; and Kilgour, French & Stanbury.

When buying a tuxedo, look for a high quality tropical worsted wool fabric, plus an impeccable fit.

As for fashion, "The biggest change in this season's tuxedos will be the fit," advised Norman Fryman, CEO of the Greif Companies. "They're getting much softer and less rigid, and you will be seeing more of an emphasis on the drape."

Other trends in men's formal wear this year include more accentuated shoulders, an increased demand for smoking jackets, and lapels that are slightly narrower.

Fabrics are sensuous, touchable, comfortable and elegant, with subtle patterns and weaves.

Color shows up in festive touches, usually coordinated with the bridal party — for example, satin cummerbunds and bow ties made of the same fabric as the bridesmaids' dresses.

FLOWERS FOR THE GROOM

Boutonnieres should complement but not necessarily match the flowers the bride and her attendants are carrying, advises Bride's magazine. And the groom's should differ from his ushers' in color or type of flower.

More than ever, boutonnieres are becoming expressions of the groom's individuality and personality. The carnation, a popular boutonniere flower, is being replaced by more delicate blooms — including roses. Other options include freesia, corn flower, delphinium and orchids — usually a single flower combined with a sprig of ivy.

GOOD GROOMING

The groom, quite simply, must look fantastic.

You'd think it was obvious, but many grooms overlook the necessity of getting a good haircut a few days prior to the wedding — or trimming their sideburns the day before.

For hair that looks controlled, but not shiny, use a water-based setting gel, then brush through. For thin hair, mousse will add body as well as control.

A smart groom will leave shaving for the last possible minute, so a 5 o'clock shadow won't show up at the reception or in the wedding photos.

And even if the idea is foreign to him, a groom should have a manicure. Hands will be noticed, and photographed.

Wedding gifts going high-tech

When it comes to wedding gifts, brides and grooms want to both embrace and buck tradition, sweet tradition.

They want laptop computers along with lead crystal, lawn chairs alongside lacy bed linens, and fax machines with their fine china. They want barbecues and stoneware, speaker phones and answering machines, cappuccino makers and Cuisinarts. They even want Nintendo and gumball machines.

In short, they want it all. And now more than ever, they're taking their wishes public through wedding registries — running lists of gifts that steer perplexed shower and wedding guests clear of white elephants and duplicates — and into the realm of the perfect present.

REGISTRIES

To accommodate the whims and fantasies of today's couples, an estimated 5,000 registries have sprouted up all over the country. Once found only in department stores, registries are now de regueur in many specialty shops. Some offer toll-free numbers so out-of-towners can let their fingers do the walking.

Gone are the days when the bride ventured out alone to make some monumental material decisions. More than 70 percent of all registrations are couple-active, according to Modern Bride magazine.

The simple checklist, meanwhile, has evolved into a high-tech registry system in many emporiums. Computers keep track of the couple's wants and wishes and purchases made there, or in any of its sister stores. An up-to-the-minute printout of the haves and have-nots awaits eager gift-seekers.

Some stores will even keep listings on file for a year or more, so couples can keep adding to their crystal, silver or china collections.

For merchants, offering registry service is well worth the trouble; a registry can help bring them their fair share of the $7.8 billion in sales of home furnishings and household equipment that's generated each year by first-time marriages.

And, that's not even counting sales receipts from second marriages and beyond.

Couples, meanwhile, quickly fall in love with wedding registries. Not only do the listings tactfully suggest gift ideas to friends and relatives, but they happily eliminate the postnuptial hassle of returning gifts.

Registries also help market analysts track the big trends in wedding gift-giving and profile the typical wedding couple.

GIFTS MOST WANTED

Several years ago, deep-fat fryers, chafing dishes, electric woks and fondue pots were all the rage with marrying couples, according to Bride's Magazine. But this year, the best gifts lean toward the high-tech and highly personal.

That's because brides and grooms are older and more established than those of past generations. Chances are they already have salt and pepper shakers. What they really want and need is something beyond the conventional — a smoke detector, for instance, or a security alarm, tools, compact disc player, mini television, VCR or luggage.

Couples might even request gifts that complement a much-loved sport or hobby, such as a lawn mower and imported bulbs for gardeners, or a stair-climbing machine and plushy, king-size towels for fitness fanatics.

Furnishings for the kitchen, bed and bath also rank high, such as muffin tins, down comforters, juicers, photo-filled cookbooks, cutlery, showerhead massagers, bed trays, hand-held blenders, humidifiers and copper cookware.

TRADITION, TRADITION

But, in spite of their eccentric tastes, most members of the camcorder generation also want all the traditional trappings of the well-dressed table: Sunday-best china, silver cutlery (down to the forks for shrimp cocktail) and a variety of goblets.

Nearly 700 of the 1,000 brides-to-be that comprise Modern Bride's Consumer Council recently said they planned to register for fine crystal, china and sterling, and that they intended to purchase the items they did not receive.

Trouble-shooting tips before the vows

He popped the question. She happily said, "Yes." And the whirlwind of wedding plans was set in motion.

But when wedding plans get sticky and tempers start to boil, it's easy for a couple to lose sight of why they are tying the knot. When things get tough, take a moment to sit back and remind yourself that what really counts is not what type of hors d'oeuvres to serve but the long and happy life you will share after the vows.

RELATIONSHIP TIPS

With the average engagement lasting about 15 months, you have plenty of time to get to know your fiancé — realistically, as a future spouse, not just the dreamboat who plans great dates.

Longer engagements are especially helpful to younger couples.

"A long engagement allows for increased familiarity and lets couples explore the roles they expect to play," psychologist Evelyn Lehrfield told Bride's magazine.

More important than finding the perfect wedding dress and the ideal caterer, spend time with your fiancé planning your future. Discuss issues such as family and children (Do you want any? How many? When?), lifestyle, finances, career aspirations and fidelity.

Air any fears or insecurities you have about the relationship or marriage in general. How do you feel about your parents' marriages — do you want to emulate them or avoid their mistakes?

How about religion? Are you from different faiths? How will you accommodate the difference and deal with your families? Will one of you convert?

If this is a second marriage, consider how you will deal with stepchildren. Also discuss fears and problems from your first marriage that you are afraid may carry over into this relationship.

Premarital counseling is a growing practice, particularly as more churches and synagogues encourage couples to attend retreats and counseling sessions to teach them the value of open communication.

Premarital counseling can help couples learn to communicate and recognize common marital woes.

PRE-NUPTIAL AGREEMENTS

To sign or not to sign? That is the question begged by a pre-nuptial agreement.

On the one hand, pre-nuptial agreements which determine the distribution of a couple's assets in the event of divorce or death, are an idea whose time has come.

Couples are generally older and bring more property to a marriage, a group of matrimonial attorneys told Cosmopolitan. Moreover, couples marrying for a second or third time may have children from prior marriages to look after. And the astronomical expense of divorce makes prenuptial agreements a sound idea.

On the other hand, divorce attorneys will tell you, pre-nuptial agreements can victimize the spouse (usually the woman) with less money.

If you and your fiancé choose to sign a prenuptial agreement, each of you should consult your own attorney. Books, such as "Don't Get Married Until You Read This: A Layman's Guide to Pre-nuptial Agreements" by David Saltman, J.D., L.L.M. and Harry Schaffner, J.D., (Barron's) will guide you through the complicated process.

WEDDING WOES

You and your fiancé are getting along like two happy lovebirds but your wedding plans have presented you with a few problems with your families.

Planning a wedding, as Bride's magazine notes, can take the negotiating skills of a true diplomat. The process starts with you and your fiancé.

"Sit down with your fiancé and write out a description of your ideal wedding," Tessa Albert Warschaw, Ph.D., and author of "Winning by Negotiation" (McGraw-Hill) told Bride's.

Once you have agreed on the ideal wedding, decide what is really important to you. If you have your heart set on an expensive reception hall, you may be willing to negotiate on music or food. If you want a large wedding, you may agree to a more affordable outdoor affair.

Couples with divorced parents have even more to negotiate. It's not uncommon for divorced parents to use their child's wedding as a battleground.

If you do run into problems, here are some tips for a temporary truce offered by Yona Zeldis McDonough in Bride's:

□ For moral support, both you and your fiancé should take part in wedding negotiations involving the divorced parents.

□ Pay for the wedding yourselves, if possible. This gives you more control over the plans. If one parent is paying for everything, McDonough points out, you may feel compelled to give into his or her demands.

□ Hold the wedding at a neutral site. Having the reception at your mother's house may make your father feel like he's entering hostile territory and reawaken unhappy memories.

□ Have a buffet reception to avoid the hassles of formal seating plans.

□ "Remember your parents are there to share the occasion, not appropriate it," says McDonough. Don't allow their bitterness to obscure what should be your happy day.

THE NORTH COUNTRY

Politically, culturally, and geographically the north of England is quite different from the south and east. Stretching from Yorkshire in the east to Liverpool and Chester in the west, the region encompasses both the grint of England's major industrial cities and at the same time some of its most beautiful countryside. The cooking of the area favors hearty dishes — Cumberland hams, Yorkshire pudding, and Lancashire Hot Pot (potato, onion, and lamb stew) are all native specialties. The north also produces some of England's best known cheeses.

Farmhouse

Cheshire cheese
The pastures of Cheshire are known for their high salt content, and it is those pastures that give Farmer's Cheshire its distinctive salty tang. The flavor of the cheese and the character of the soil are inextricably linked. Today, there are fewer than 20 cheesemaking farms left in Cheshire. But their cheese is so far superior to that of factory-made cheeses that it is worth the effort to find a true farmhouse Cheshire. At Zingerman's, we get ours in beautiful 20-pound cloth-wrapped wheels from Abbey Farm at Hawkstone, where the Appleby family makes the finest, most flavorful Cheshires in the country. Made only from unpasteurized milk, their cheeses have a wonderful crumbly texture and a superb, slightly salty, sourish, tangy flavor. Cheshire makes a great grilled cheese sandwich. Try one with a mug of cold ale.

Wensleydale cheese

Wensleydale is the best known of the cheeses of Northern England. Its origins date back to the influence of the Normans on England during the eleventh and twelfth centuries. Cistercian monks established a number of abbeys in the Yorkshire dales, bringing cheesemaking as well as religion to the area. Wensleydale is a firm white cheese, with a flaky texture and a fresh, clean, honey-like flavor. Wensleydale is known as the "apple pie cheese," and it is truly delicious when melted over a slice of fresh apple pie. Wensleydale makes a fine table cheese and also melts beautifully.

Farmhouse

Lancashire cheese
Traditional farmhouse Lancashire is a highly distinctive cheese. It is the softest of the traditional English cheeses — after three months aging, it can still be spread like butter. Lancashire soil is said to be seasoned by the breezes from the nearby Irish Channel, and Lancashire milk is known for its high quality. Traditional Lancashire production methods require the cheesemaker to patiently combine the curds of two different days of milking. Tom Butler's Lower Barker Farm is one of only three or four farms still producing Lancashire in this time-consuming traditional way. Made only from raw milk, it has a delicious mild but tangy flavor. Lancashire is known as the "ultimate" toasting cheese. Don't miss this hard-to-find English classic.

THE ISLE OF MAN

Manx Kippers
Kippers are about as traditionally British as you can get. A must on every British breakfast menu, and a favorite of British expatriates everywhere. What are kippers? Well, essentially, they're just smoked herring. Fried up and served with tea and toast, they make a hearty winter breakfast.

Manx Kippers are a special treat, considered by many to be the king of kippers. Manx Kippers are brined and smoked over oak within 24 hours after being caught. They are still prepared on the Isle of Man much as they have been by Devereux & Sons since 1884.

The Isle of Man is in fact an independent country, has been since the 1300's. It lies halfway between Ireland and England, and is a frequent destination of British resort-goers.

The island is also the home of the famous Manx cats, Miles Standish, and of course, Manx Kippers.

The Isle of Man is a great place to stop on your next trip to Europe. For more on travel to the Isle, write to the Isle of Man Department of Tourism and Transport, 13 Victoria Street, Douglas, Isle of Man.

WALES

"Of course, the difference lies in the milk, and the majority of Welsh cheeses are made with unpasteurized milk from organically reared cows. It is this that adds the character to our farmhouse cheeses."

—Gilli Davies

The Welsh countryside provides some of the most beautiful scenery in the U.K.; hills, castles, and forests abound. Welsh farms today are turning out some of the best cheeses in Britain. There's a whole new generation of Welsh cheesemakers making traditional cheeses. Nearly all of them are oriented toward raw milk, organic, small production, with great respect for the traditions of cheesemaking and the Welsh soil.

Ty'n Grug cheese

Handmade by Dougal and Alex Campbell on their farm in Ty'n Grug. Actually a mature raw milk cheddar, Ty'n Grug has a unique, full flavor, with a distinctive tang. Great with a pint of British Ale and some Miller's Damsel Wheat Waters. Made with vegetable rennet. Organically produced.

Llanboidy cheese

A hard pressed aged cow's milk cheese made from the fresh raw milk of Llanboidy Farm's herd of rare Red Poll cattle.

Walker's Oatcakes

"When Fergusson and Burns wrote of the Land of O'cakes, it was oatcakes they meant. To generations, they have symbolized home, rural life, the traditional values of thrift, honesty, hard work and simple goodness."

—Annette Hope

The Scots have a culture and a cuisine all their own. One of their most famous exports is Scottish Shortbread... and Walker's all-butter shortbread is at the top of just about everyone's list. A family business since the turn of the century, Walker's is run today by three grandchildren of the founder. Walker's still bakes each shortbread finger individually... still the best after all these years! And don't miss Walker's Oatcakes — aside from the fact that oat bran's good for you and all that, they're delicious with cheese.

Drive north from London and you enter the Midlands, encompassing both the famous Nottingham Forest of Robin Hood and the industrial towns of Birmingham and Coventry. The midland counties of Nottingham, Lincolnshire, and Derbyshire are the only places in the world in which Stilton cheese can be produced!

Leicester cheese

Traditional Leicester is known for its bright orange-red color and its rich, mellow flavor. It is a fantastic table cheese, melts nicely, and it is soft enough to slice for sandwiches. Its deep orange-red color makes it a fine addition to any cheese board.

Green Dragon Bakery

The Green Dragon Bakery in Derbyshire bakes some of the tastiest cookies around. Ashbourne Ginger Cookies are the best! Made from fresh ginger, fresh butter, fresh lemon — how could you go wrong? This is the ginger cookie you've been looking for! The Butter Sultanas are another one of my favorites — rich butter cookies with a liberal dose of Sultanas (that's "golden raisins" to you Yankees). They have a wonderful hint of raspberry to them. Great with tea. Same for the Lemon Shortbread. The Old English Spice Cookies are wonderful too. Across the board, every one of the Green Dragon products is delicious.

Stilton cheese

Stilton is considered by many to be England's greatest cheese. It is also the only English cheese whose name and process of manufacture are protected by law.

The finest, most flavorful Stiltons we have found are those produced by the Long Clawson Dairy, in Melton Mowbray, Leicestershire. Founded in 1911 as a farmer's cooperative, Long Clawson still produces its Stiltons almost exclusively by hand, made from the fresh pasteurized milk of the farms that surround the dairy. Each cheese is turned by hand every other day for 15 days, then every other day for the next four weeks! When you taste Long Clawson Stilton, you are tasting Stilton as it was meant to be. Cream-colored cheese with evenly distributed blue-green veining.

Taste a sliver at room temperature (the only way to sample a Stilton) and you'll appreciate the rich, delicate taste that has made Stilton the "king of cheeses."

I couldn't have said it better myself! Try Zingerman's increasingly famous Currant and Herb Scones!

EAST ANGLIA AND THE FENS

The eastern part of England, frequently bypassed by tourists, is one of the most important food producing areas of the U.K. A rich ocean harvest yields countless crabs and cockles and dozens of varieties of fresh fish. The region's farmers harvest bushels of rye, wheat, and barley. And perhaps best of all, the east is known for growing some of the finest fruit in the U.K.

Colman's Mustard

The granddaddy of British mustard makers, Jeremiah Colman opened his first mustard mill in Norwich in 1814. 176 years later the mill has changed a lot, but Colman's mustard powder is still pretty much the same thing it was back in the 19th century. The British rely on Colman's mustard powder to season everything from sauces to salad dressings. When mixed with water, milk, or vinegar, the dry powder releases its now famous, eye-watering intensity. Fortunately you can vary the ratio of liquid to powder to mix up a mustard that's suited to your own taste!

What makes Tiptree Preserves so good? Well for starters, there's the quality of the fruit. Nearly all of the fruit it tastes in Tiptree preserves is local — strawberries, currants, gooseberries, quinces, crabapples, plums and much more are still grown and hand-picked in Tiptree's own fields. What isn't grown locally is shipped to Tiptree fresh from the fields: lemons for Tiptree's luscious Lemon Curd arrive from Spain, oranges for an array of marmalades, raspberries from Scotland. All of the fruit is cooked with the single addition of pure sugar — no pectin, corn syrup, dextrose, or artificial flavorings are added.

Together, the quality of the fruit and the refusal to take shortcuts result in some of the best preserves in Britain.

Cartwright & Butler Chutneys

Up in the town of Wells next-the-Sea (not "Wells next to the sea," it's Wells next-the-Sea — only in Britain), Cartwright & Butler have established themselves as condiment makers extraordinaire.

It's only been eight years since Marian Cartwright and Charles Butler started making chutneys for a living. But in those eight years they've turned out a line of incredible products. The chutneys, Cartwright & Butler's original specialty, are excellent. Blends of fruits, vegetables, and spices that are strikingly delicious — unlike any other chutneys. The tomato and apple chutney is great with cheese. The apricot makes a truly special chicken salad.

All the chutneys are delicious spooned over cream cheese — it's an easy-to-prepare, unique hors d'oeuvre. Try it at your next party.

ANGLO-INDIAN CUISINE

I once heard the theory that Italian-American cooking was the latest "regional" cuisine of Italy — unlike that of any of Italy's provinces, yet tasty in its own right. Anglo-Indian cuisine is probably as much British as it is Indian, yet it too is delicious. British colonial rule in India led to the unique marriage of cuisines and flavors, one of which is just now becoming familiar to most Americans. The Anglo-Indian — curries, chutneys, pickles, and all sorts of delicacies — are an exciting new frontier for Anglo-American food. There's nothing to spice up here!

In Britain, curries have been taking advantage of the flavors of India to such an extent that they've become a major part of nearly every kitchen. The British curry chutney with chicken, game, roast beef, etc. And Indian restaurants are also common in the U.K., as Chinese restaurants are elsewhere. Thanks to the Patakis family, who began their business in London in 1955 — at the time, Mr. & Mrs. Patak were the whole company. Today Patak's employs over 100 people, and Patak's sauces — made in the U.K. — are distributed in over 80 countries! Two of Mr. Patak's sons, Rajoo and Yogesh, have come to the U.S. to help earn Patak's the same reputation for quality the company has gained in the U.K. They're both passionate about the quality of all Patak's products, and are eager to explain what's so special about their sauces.

Patak's pastes and curry sauces are one of the quickest, easiest ways I know of to whip up a great meal of Indian delicacies. Try them all!

THE WEST COUNTRY

Few Americans think of Britain as resort country. But the southwest corner of England — Devon and Cornwall — are just that: summertime rest and relaxation in about as much sun as the British Isles see. The counties of Devon, Cornwall, Somerset, Gloucestershire, and Wiltshire also produce some of the U.K.'s finest foods.

Bath Olivers biscuits

A bit to the north in the spa town of Bath, you'll find one of the most unique and delicious biscuits made anywhere in the world — Bath Olivers. Developed in Bath, England (a beautiful town known for, you guessed it, its curative natural springs, or "baths" by Dr. Oliver over 200 years ago. Almost four inches across and thick enough to really sink your teeth into, Bath Olivers have a unique creamy texture as they melt on your tongue. The only biscuit I know of that's made with hops, malt, fresh milk, and fresh eggs. Great with cheese.

English Farmhouse Cheddar

There is in fact a town by the name of Cheddar, and it is from the town that the cheese we all know and love gets its name. The cheese itself is made outside the town, throughout Somerset and Dorset and into Devon and South Wales.

Cheddar is known and loved all over the English-speaking world, from Australia to British Columbia. Americans eat tons of it each year. But very few people get to taste cheddar in its original form — farm-made English cheddar! After all, the tradition of cheddar making began in England over 400 years ago.

When Zingerman's first opened eight years ago I doubt that more than a couple dozen people in Ann Arbor had ever heard of English Farmhouse Cheddar. Now we sell more than 40 to 50 sixty-pound wheels of the stuff each year! No surprise really. Americans love good cheddar, and this is really great cheddar!

English Farmhouse Cheddar is the original cheddar, made in Somerset since the 16th century. And English Farmhouse Cheddar is probably the richest, nuttiest, most buttery cheddar you'll ever try. Chewton's English Farmhouse Cheddars are aged for Zingerman's for over 12 months to give them a superb mature cheddar flavor, with never even a hint of bitterness. But don't take my word for it. Ask for a taste. A cheese as good as this can speak for itself.

Farmhouse

Herb Cheddar

A bit to the south and west, at Newton St. Cyres, the Quicke family makes a delicious farmhouse cheddar with herbs.

Made at Home Farm near Exeter in Devon, Quicke's Herb Cheddar is quickly becoming one of our most popular British cheeses. Traditionally made cheddar curd is mixed with a liberal dose of fresh oregano, parsley, and chervil from the farm's own herb garden. This is what herb cheddar should taste like! Makes a great grilled cheese.

The Quicques also produce a wonderful Double Gloucester — rich, creamy and flavorful. Great for sandwiches or snacking.

Tracklements

If you travel through Wiltshire, you'll find the remains of ancient civilizations all around you, so it's fitting that William Tuberg should choose to carry on the ancient British tradition of mustard making there. Mustard making in Britain dates back to Roman times, if not earlier. Wiltshire Tracklements' mustards are likely closer in texture to those made in ancient times than the smooth yellow paste most of us visualize when we think of mustard. Mr. Tuberg's mustards are all carefully stone ground, most of them quite coarsely, giving them a chewy, mild but delicious and distinctive flavor.

Each and every one is excellent — the garlic and chive mustard is made with fresh chives and fresh garlic so the flavor of the herbs really comes through. The Devil's Beer mustard is made with the locally brewed Old Glory Ale — great with roast beef. The cider mustard is seasoned with locally brewed cider — delicious with cheese. Wiltshire Tracklements' horseradish cream is the best bottled horseradish I've ever tasted — guaranteed to clear your nose, eyes and throat! Don't miss the information on the labels — it's all written by Mr. Tuberg himself, in his own hand.

P.S. Wiltshire Tracklements' mustards have no salt added! By using plenty of vinegar, Mr. Tuberg's recipes allow him to avoid the addition of salt in most of his mustards — a real find for anyone on a sodium-restricted diet. After all, mustards are one of the best ways to season food when you can't add salt!
