Record coverage to expand in May

The Northville Record and its sister publication, the Novi News, will publish Monday editions beginning May 14. The Record will come out twice weekly, on Mondays and Thursdays, under the new publishing schedule.

"The new editions are our response to satisfying the communities' needs which have developed over the past 10 years," Rich Perlberg, vice president and general manager of Sliger/Livingston Publications, Inc., said in announcing the change. "For business and residents alike, Northville and Novi have developed into prime locations and both the Novi News and The Northville Record are now expanding to maintain the pace of the communities they serve."

"As essential community institutions, as well as the voice of Northville and Novi, it is our role to reflect the communities we serve. With the new editions we will do just that," Philip Jerome, executive editor of Sliger/Livingston, noted. "The new Monday editions will contain expanded regional coverage — reflecting the two communities growing impact on the northwestern Detroit area as well as additional local news."

'Good News' reported on city revenues and budget review

By STEVE KELLMAN

Despite the increased cost of refuse collection, City Manager Steven Walters reported "some good news" about city revenues and the upcoming city budget review.

"The 1990-91 City Budget will be considering some good news on revenues, a continued pressure on expenses from refuse collection costs, and a continued growth in tax base," he wrote in an April 2 report to the city council. "The 1990 Census will result in state-shared revenues increasing for the city, although this may not impact the 1990-91 budget until the last quarter. Refuse collections are not expected to grow in 1990-91 at the horrible rate we experienced in 1989-90."

Walters reported that during the last five years, the cost of disposing of a cubic yard of refuse rose from $1.75 in 1985 to $9.90 in 1990. The landfill operator at Arbor Hills Landfill in Salem Township blamed much of the 1989 increase on state-ordered environmental improvements at the site, Walters reported.

The most recent round of landfill fee increases resulted in an $80,000 shortfall in this year's city refuse collection budget. The shortfall was accounted for by increased revenues and other budget adjustments.

"Walters described the landfill as 'the single biggest issue in terms of operating assessments.'"

"There's going to be the same annual priorities to set on capital outlay," Walters said of his report. "There will be things we'd like to do which will be postponed."

Some of the capital outlay projects that will be considered are the widening of Center Street south of Eight Mile Road, reconfiguration of the Randolph / Center intersection, expansion of the Fire Hall, and replacement of DPW equipment including dump trucks. "The street (paving) program has tied up most of our short-term resources," Walters said.

As far as the good news is concerned, Walters predicted state-shared revenue could grow as much as 17.6 percent, given a city population of 6,700 and no net growth in the state population. The increase would raise state-shared revenues from $477,800 in 1989-90 to between $515,100-$550,100 in 1990-91.

State-shared revenues include the portion of income tax, sales tax and single business tax returned to local governmental units by the state.

Revenues from the 35th District Court will be higher than originally figured since the court has postponed implementation of a third judge, he added.

Sparks ignite straw under MainCentre

By STEVE KELLMAN

The MainCentre construction project caused a minor panic Monday afternoon when straw under the structure caught fire during welding operations.

Firefighters at the city's fire station just down the street responded almost immediately to the blaze, but not before thick clouds of smoke climbed over the covered walkway separating Main Street pedestrians from the site.

People along Main and Center streets watched as the firefighters battled the low blaze.

MainCentre workers continued welding on the steel girders above while the firefighters put the fire out below them. The blaze, which was reported at 1:33 p.m., was extinguished by 1:55 p.m. Three pumper trucks responded to the scene, though only one was needed.

"It was just actually the straw under the building that was burning," said Fire Chief James Allen after the blaze. "It's the straw that they use to keep the ground from freezing in the winter. Apparently, one of the welders caught it on fire. 'No damage was done; it was just a lot of smoke,' he said."

Ward Church ZBA decision is overturned

A judge yesterday reversed a township zoning board decision to allow a building proposal from Ward Presbyterian Church and sent the whole issue back to the township for reconsideration.

Sue Hillebrand, leader of a group of township residents who filed suit against the Ward plan, said that Wayne County Circuit Court Judge Richard Kaufman yesterday (Wednesday) reversed the decision of the Northville Township Zoning Board of Appeals. The board decision would have allowed Ward to build a church building reaching 108 feet tall, above a 48-foot height limit in the township.

Kaufman also remanded the whole issue back to the township for another review, Hillebrand said. Under his ruling, attorneys for the two sides must agree on the conditions under which the plan will now be reviewed.

"We were real pleased. We got a decision today, which we really weren't planning on," Hillebrand said yesterday.

Ward spokesperson Kelly Sharkey declined to comment on the ruling at this time. "We haven't gotten any official communication on it," she said yesterday afternoon.

The Northville Township Board of Trustees had decided not to back the ZBA on its decision to allow the church's plan.

Holloway site nixed by county

By SHEILA PHILLIPS

Eight Mile and Napier area residents received a belated Christmas present last week when the Holloway Construction Co. landfill was removed from the county's 20-year solid waste plan.

"We couldn't be happier," said Lyon Township's Nancy Marcicki, who collected 497 signatures against the proposed landfill. "In the beginning you think that you can't do anything against someone as big as a company with millions of dollars and you think that no one will listen — but this shows that there are people out there that listen and who really care."

Upon county staff recommendations, the Solid Waste Planning Committee voted 12-1 to ax the 187-acre site, which is currently being used as gravel pit on Eight Mile Road between Napier and Garfield in Novi.

"The staff recommended removing the Holloway Landfill because it was for private (use) and really didn't benefit the county — that, combined with too much capacity in the plan, was our reasoning," said county Assistant Director of Public Works Roger Smith.

Walters excluded from Plymouth job

By STEVE KELLMAN

The search for a Plymouth City manager has narrowed to a single candidate, leaving Northville City Manager Steven Walters out of contention.

Plymouth city officials said Wednesday that Walters' asking salary was too high. As Mayor Dennis Bila explained, "We just cannot match his salary offer at this time."

"We would have liked him to have been a final candidate," Bila said, "but when we started the process we set a salary limit of under $60,000. He is at this time somewhat in excess of that, considerably in excess of that."

Walters currently earns a base salary of $55,578 and additional longevity pay of $800.

Bila said the former city manager, Henry Graper, had earned a yearly salary of $51,500.

Though rumors have been circulating that Walters had received a substantial pay increase recently, both he and other Northville officials denied them.

"There isn't even any number agreed to," Walters said. "There was a general indication from the mayor that the council was prepared to be competitive."

Chris Johnson, Northville City mayor, said he has held preliminary salary discussions between Walters and members of the city council. "Steve and I have discussed salary, and we've discussed what it might take to keep him here," he said. "But there's been no agreement."

"We've talked back with Steve in terms of potential salary ranges," Johnson said. "But because we're still involved in negotiations, I'm not really at liberty to discuss those ranges."

Jerry Mittman, a member of the city council and personnel committee, explained that all administrative salaries are reviewed during the yearly budget process. He and fellow personnel committee member Carolann Ayers will be making salary recommendations to the city council within the next few weeks, as part of the budget review.

When asked whether he was disappointed by Plymouth's decision, Walters said, "Not at all."

"But it's been interesting," he added. "I know more about Plymouth

By STEVE KELLMAN

Northville City planning commissioners are still debating the need for a screen or berm along the south side of the Northville Public School property at 501 Main Street.

The commissioners narrowly approved the plan for an addition to the building last Tuesday, but withheld approval of a landscaping plan for the site.

At issue is a proposed 9,637-square-foot addition to the school building and whether or not the addition will be offensive to Cady Street neighbors. The addition will house plumbing, climate control, carpentry and electrical services for the school district, services which are now housed at the Cooke School facility on Taft Road.

Two weeks ago, after a lengthy discussion, the planning commission granted preliminary site plan approval to the project, on the condition that several concerns be addressed, including a screen between the site and Cady Street.

The historic district commission (HDC) later approved the site plan, and disagreed with the planning commission call for a berm.

John Argenta, with the Southfield architectural firm of Coquillard, Dundon, Peterson and Argenta, presented the latest site plan to the commission last week. Argenta noticed two conflicts between the positions of the two commissions. While the planning commission had asked for both sidewalks and a berm along Cady Street, the HDC rejected both ideas, citing the narrow space available and safety considerations.

Several commissioners questioned the HDC's vote against a berm. Walt Coponen, an HDC member who attended the planning commission meeting, explained his board's position in more detail.

"It wasn't so much the idea of no berm at all," he said. "Our input was that it should be a very gentle berm that could be mowed."

The HDC worried that children with dirt bikes would damage the sides of a steep berm, and that such a berm would obstruct the view of law enforcement officials onto the site and encourage crime.

Planning Consultant Don Wortman disagreed, saying, "It is our opinion that a berm would be appropriate if properly designed. If our intent is to provide some sort of screening and unique landscaping, I think a berm would be appropriate."

Planning Commission Member Chris Gazlay disagreed with other commission members, saying, "I don't like berms. They're basically a phony way of screening."

But Commission Chairperson John Hardin held firm, saying, "The only way I can see to provide effective screening is to provide a berm, and that's what we've been asking for."

While the planning commission had also questioned the parking pattern behind the building, Argenta pointed out that the open areas were necessary for the use of special-education buses that use the lot. "There's a lot of open space but it's all required for the turning of these vehicles," he said.

Argenta also rejected a request from the planning commission that the overhead door on the south side of the addition be moved to the east side, because of the layout of the building and the slope of the parking lot. "It just doesn't allow us to move that door in any direction," he said.

But Argenta assured the commission the overhead door would be kept closed unless necessary for loading or unloading operations, and pointed out that a pedestrian door had been added to encourage that.

Argenta's firm has also been meeting weekly with the city engineering firm of McNeely & Lincoln Associates regarding the poor drainage in the parking lot. The school is considering the installation of additional catchbasins along the south side of the property, if the engineers find that the sewers in the area can hold the additional runoff.

Planning Commission Member Stephen Ball recommended a greater diversity of plant material in the new landscaping, saying, "I think there's a lot more opportunities to make it look attractive." Ball also worried that a large number of the same plants would be more prone to disease and insect damage than smaller numbers of different plants.

School Superintendent George Bell assuaged the fears of several Cady Street residents, who worried the play equipment along Cady Street would be removed. The residents presented the school superintendent with a petition signed by 46 people asking that the equipment be left for the use of children in the area. Though Bell said a merry-go-round would have to be removed because of potential liability problems, the rest of the equipment could remain as long as children are using it.

The superintendent and the commissioners also exchanged words over the planning commission's handling of the site plan. "With all respect to the commission, and the differences of opinion between the planning commission and the historic district commission, I would ask your indulgence to let us get at the building," Bell said. "I have to move the services out of Cooke School by June."

In response, Planning Commissioner David Mielock rebuked the superintendent for emphasizing the construction of the addition over the safety of the people in and around the building.

"This plan came to us deficient in many ways the first time around, and it came back to us deficient," Gazlay added.

"I've been on the commission a few years, and tend to resent being told we are slowing you down," said Commissioner David Totten. "You tended to ignore what we wanted and what we told you we wanted, and then said, 'Yeah, hurry up.'"

Totten finally made a motion to approve the building site plan alone, subject to approval of the drainage on the site by the city engineer, delineation of the curbs on the south side of the site, and removal of asphalt at the southwest corner of the site.

Totten also moved to postpone the vote on the landscape portion of the site plan, and have the school resubmit the landscape plan itself within 30 days.

The building plan was narrowly approved by a vote of 6 to 3, with commissioners Rolland Stapleton, Gazlay and Mielock voting against the plan.

Police Blotters

Redford man arrested on concealed weapons charges

A 19-year-old Redford Township man whose vehicle was parked and blocking the road at Waterford Bend near Hines Park was arrested on concealed weapons charges April 3. Police said they asked the man for his driver's license and registration and saw a knife in his glove compartment. Police also saw a billy club positioned between the vehicle's front two seats.

AUTO THEFT — A 1986 Olds Cutlass was stolen from an apartment complex near Northville Forest and Five Mile Road late April 1 or early April 2. The complainant told township police the vehicle was locked and the car was paid off.

Township police then received information at 3:30 April 2 that the vehicle had been recovered and was being held, along with a 20-year old suspect, at the Sixth Precinct police station in Detroit.

LARCENY — Two rims and tires were stolen from a 1985 Ford Escort that was parked on Mann Court April 5. The vehicle was left on a cement block support.

MAILBOX FIRE — A Crestview Circle resident told township police that someone started a fire in the complainant's mailbox between 6-9 a.m. April 1. The mailbox contained a copy of The Northville Record.

LARCENY — A radio and cassette player and cassette tapes were stolen from a 1987 GMC G-20 April 1 between 3-6 a.m. according to township police reports. The vehicle was parked at a residence near Knights Ford and Parklane. The stolen items were valued at $250 and damage was estimated at $200.

MAILBOX DAMAGED — Township police received a report that a maroon Ford Aerostar swerved off Rayburn and struck the mailbox and post at a residence. The complainant's neighbor witnessed the incident, police said.

MEIJER REPORT — The following incidents were reported from the Meijer store, 20401 Haggerty, and occurred between March 31-April 6:

A 21-year-old Detroit man was arrested and charged with larceny April 4 at 5 a.m. after attempting to steal two bottles of vodka.

A 34-year-old West Bloomfield resident was arrested April 5 at 4:51 p.m. after attempting to steal a VCR and a telephone. The items were valued at $360.

A 39-year-old New Hudson woman was arrested April 3 after attempting to steal cologne and fishing lures. After her arrest, it was discovered the woman was wanted on warrants from five other jurisdictions, according to township police. Two of the warrants were from the City of Northville, one from Novi for failure to appear in court, and one each from Redford and the Michigan State Police for driving with a suspended license. The woman was turned over to Northville City Police, and charged with two misdemeanor warrants for writing bad checks.

A 56-year-old Livonia resident was arrested March 31 at 4:06 p.m. and charged with larceny and a pair of 18-year olds, one from Milford and the other from Washington, D.C. were arrested for larceny at 10:40 p.m. the same day.

A 1989 Dodge Dynasty received approximately $150 in damages after a man allegedly scratched its front fender with a key. Township police said the incident, which occurred April 1 at noon, began after the suspect was upset that the complainant got the parking spot he wanted. On April 3, the complainant came to the township police department to drop the charges after he said the suspect paid him for the damages.

A 17-year-old Walled Lake man was arrested after attempting to steal cigarettes at Meijer April 1 at 11 p.m. A 49-year-old Detroit resident was arrested April 2 after attempting to steal a telephone jack and earrings.

A 34-year-old Detroit resident was arraigned and a cash bond set at $2,000 after township police obtained a felony warrant for first degree retail fraud after an April 2 incident at Meijer.

VEHICLE DAMAGED — A 1987 Ford Escort parked at 39450 Five Mile received an estimated $250 damage after someone broke its passenger's side window late March 30 or early March 31.

LARCENY — An AM/FM radio valued at $300 was stolen March 30 between 1-11 p.m. from a 1989 Ford Tempo parked outside China Fair, 42313 Seven Mile.

DEALERSHIP SITE OF MALICIOUS DAMAGE — City police received two reports of possible malicious destruction of property at McDonald Ford, 550 Seven Mile Road. An estimated $356 in damage was done to the left door of a blue 1981 Ford Bronco, sometime between 2:54 p.m. on April 3. An estimated $300 in damage was done to the left door of a black 1988 Ford Escort between 6 p.m. on April 3 and 9 a.m. on April 4. The damage appeared to have been caused by another vehicle.

between 6 p.m. on April 3 and 9 a.m. on April 4. The damage appeared to have been caused by another vehicle.

FELONY WARRANT ARREST — A 34-year-old Ypsilanti woman was arrested on an outstanding felony warrant for fraud from Westland, after stopping by the Northville City police station to be interviewed regarding another incident. The woman was arrested and turned over to the Westland police department.

LAWN DAMAGED — A Fairfax Court resident reported $15 in damage to his lawn after someone drove across it, according to city police reports. The driver was apparently avoiding barricades which block off Springfield Drive east of Coldspring. The incident occurred between 11:30 p.m. on April 6 and 8 a.m. on April 7.

Citizens with information about the above incidents are urged to call Northville City Police at 349-1234 or Northville Township Police at 349-9400.

Vandals leave devilish signature at construction site in Novi

By SHEILA PHILLIPS

NOVI — Unknown vandals confessed their love for Satan on the wall of a construction site in the 23000 block of Novi Road recently.

The field office, used by Construction Consulting Services out of Walled Lake, was vandalized sometime between 2 p.m. March 23 and 2 p.m. March 26.

Extensive damage was done to the building, windows were broken out, holes cut in the walls and paper scattered across the floor, according to police.

The words "I love only Satan" were also scratched upon one interior wall.

But police discount the idea of devil worship being associated with the crime.

"At this time it appears that this was an isolated incident of malicious destruction of property, and there is no creditable evidence to indicate the presence of an organized devil-worship group in Novi," said Novi Police Detective Ralph Fluhart.

However, the matter is still under investigation.

The number of people involved in the incident has not been determined. However, preliminary evidence indicates only one vandal.

The damaged office is located in a wooded area of Novi Road and is not easily visible.

The owner of Construction Consulting Services reported the crime to police late Monday afternoon after discovering the damage.

No damage estimates were available at press time.

Although this is an isolated incident of satanic graffiti in Novi, neighboring Northville Township has had reports of similar messages appearing on Wayne County-owned land off Five Mile Road.

Public access debated

By MIKE TYREE

A recent seminar on Michigan's Freedom of Information Act (FOIA) may have pointed out inconsistencies in Northville Township's handling of information that is available to the public.

A March 21 seminar at WXYZ-TV studios in Southfield attracted journalists from print, radio and television to study and debate FOIA guidelines and to clear up misconceptions about the act, which was established in 1976.

Panelists included newspaper and television reporters, legal counsel from the Michigan Press Association, a legal advisor to the Wayne County Sheriff's Department, and a FOIA officer from the Detroit Police Department.

The FOIA program was based on a growing number of complaints from the media that law-enforcement departments are limiting access to police reports and other documents. Noted in the seminar were studies that indicate police have substantially curtailed the amount of information that the media is allowed to review.

Locally, Northville Township police implemented a "Media Log Book" in September 1989. The book contains copies of selected police reports that have names and addresses — and often large portions of other information — deleted.

According to Captain Philip Presnell, the township's public information officer, the changes were brought about because the Northville community is experiencing rapid growth and the prior system — allowing journalists to view the entire record — left the township open to litigation if certain information was printed.

"It's for the protection of the department and the citizens," Presnell said at the time of the change.

The log book "certainly" works within the guidelines of the Freedom of Information Act, he said.

"We're not going to make ours (log book) more restrictive than federal or state guidelines," he said.

Different interpretations, however, exist, showing that the guidelines provided to the township by Timothy L. Cronin, an attorney with the firm of Law, Hemming, Essad & Polaczyk, may be too stringent.

Cronin rendered an opinion comparable to the Northville Township case to Canton Township. Officials there began implementing a switch to a media book in August.

During the seminar, Cronin's opinion was used as an example of overzealous interpretation of the FOIA.

In his letter to Canton Township Director of Public Safety John Santomauro, Cronin urged review and revision of police reports before allowing media access.

"My strong recommendation is that those reports be reviewed prior to release by the designee (appointed by the township supervisor) or that the news people be required to file a Freedom of Information Act request before the information is released to them," he wrote.

"If, for example," he continued, "information is released in violation of one of the exemptions to the (FOIA) created by statute, the information, if sensitive, could result in liability to the township."

"It is my understanding that there currently is no screening mechanism to insure that the information being released is not being released in violation of the Freedom of Information Act."

Dawn Phillips, legal counsel for the Michigan Press Association, disagrees.

"That statement is simply inaccurate," she said. "There are not any mandatory exemptions (in the FOIA), only permissive exemptions."

The FOIA cannot be violated, Phillips said, because the act states that certain public records "may" be deleted, not "shall" be deleted.

"Generally speaking, courts have ruled there is no liability (in printing names, addresses, etc. of criminals) because that is not an invasion of privacy against criminals," she said.

Victims of crime are protected against invasion of privacy by the Crime Victim's Rights Act, Phillips said.

Cronin's opinion to Northville Township includes a lengthy list of items that "shall" not be released. Among the passages that shall not be released in his opinion is "information of a personal nature where the disclosure of the information could constitute a clearly unwarranted invasion of an individual's privacy."

Phillips reiterated her belief that criminals are not protected by the FOIA and had a word of advice for members of the public that find themselves stymied in their attempts to view public documents.

"I would hope that all incident reports are available to the public," she said.

Haggerty accident

A disabled car in a through traffic lane of Haggerty Road Monday morning was at the center of an injury accident. A second car was unable to stop and hit the disabled vehicle. The driver of the second car was transported to St. Mary's Hospital for treatment of minor injuries sustained in the crash.

than I did before."

Former Battle Creek City Manager Gordon Jaeger is now the sole contender under consideration for the position. Jaeger is scheduled to meet with the Plymouth City Commission in a public interview Monday evening "My guess is that we recommend we'll employ him at this time," Bila said. The city commission could then either accept or reject that recommendation.

City Commissioner Ralph (Jack) Kenyon explained that the commission will observe the same interview format provided to three previous city manager candidates, all of whom have turned down Plymouth's offers.

"We're hoping next Monday will be decision day," Kenyon said.

The city manager position has remained open for nearly a year, since Graper resigned last July.

Petitioners support O'Brien

By MIKE TYREE

A letter and petition containing approximately 270 signatures in support of Planning Commissioner Barbara O'Brien has been sent to township Supervisor Georgina Goss.

The letter, dated April 3, alludes to recent comments expressed by Planning Commission Chairperson Charles DeLand about O'Brien's conduct on the board.

DeLand sent a letter to Goss March 1, detailing incidents which involved O'Brien. He asked the supervisor to consider removing O'Brien from the post that she has held the past 15 months.

Goss then asked township attorney Ernest Essad to provide an opinion on the steps needed to remove a planning commissioner

After word of DeLand's comments became public, O'Brien responded by purchasing a $540 advertisement in the Northville Record to announce her version of the events discussed by DeLand.

The letter sent to Goss by the residents states that O'Brien "has been an excellent representative of the Planning Commission. (She) attends all of the meetings, attempts to visit every site on the agenda, reviews the material and then casts an informed vote."

Goss said O'Brien met last week with Township Manager Richard Henningsen to discuss the recent uproar.

"He is in the process of writing a report from his meeting with Mrs. O'Brien," she said. "I will respond to each of the people that signed the petition in the near future."

Tuesday, Henningsen said that O'Brien was concerned about clearing her name.

"She would like to get a public apology," he said. "I don't know what the supervisor is going to say."

Henningsen described the meeting with O'Brien as "friendly" and said they did not discuss in depth the letter from DeLand and the attorney's opinion.

"She had concerns about the length of meetings, the agenda and the possibility of attending seminars and training sessions."

"My main thing was to get her feelings," he said. "The bottom line is that she thought her personal name had been tarnished."

Henningsen said Goss would receive his report this week.

Board receives projects report

By MIKE TYREE

The first monthly report from the construction manager of the Northville Public Schools Bond Issue Project was forwarded to the Board of Education Monday evening.

Barton-Malow's first renovation program report is meant to serve as a "snapshot of what has been done" to date in the $16-million project to upgrade school district facilities, according to Charles Worek, Barton-Malow project manager.

The report highlights four areas — including a progress report of critical areas, bid management, schedule management and cost management — of special interest to school administrators and taxpayers. Reports will be updated periodically to note developments in the bond issue construction projects, Worek said.

"The first thing we did was to identify the critical issues ... and establish a plan to see how those areas are going to be addressed," he said.

Worek listed projects deemed critical such as the Maintenance and Operations building addition on Main Street, the stadium bleacher and concession addition and the Amerman Elementary School boiler replacement, high school pool water heater replacement and auditorium light replacement and Cooke School gymnasium restoration.

Critical projects were defined as those projects which must start as soon as possible due to the length of construction, or those with equipment delivery time which could impact the desired completion, according to the report.

The second section of the report covers bid management and details bid start and bid award dates for specific projects at each of the school facilities covered by the bond issue.

Worek said the third section of the report acts as a bar chart and sets a time frame for the projects.

"We can use the bar chart to find out which projects are ahead and which are behind," he said.

The final portion of the report covers cost management. Instructional, operational and combined costs are noted for each district facility and are broken down to individual items in an effort to closely monitor expenses, Worek said.

Barton-Malow was retained at a cost of approximately $800,000 to manage the school construction and renovation projects.

Board President Glenna Davis said the reports, called "working documents" by Worek, provide a service to the board and community.

"It's very comforting to be able to look up each project," she said.

City planning commission considering river walks

By STEVE KELLMAN

The Northville City planning commission is considering the development of a Rouge River walk and other river walks and recreational facilities as part of its Master Plan discussion.

Planning Consultant Don Wortman presented a preliminary draft of parks and recreation policies to the commission last week. The commission voted to accept Wortman's draft report.

"There's a lot of technical details that would have to be solved if possible, but it might be possible," said Commission Chairperson John Hardin during discussion of the report.

Of the Rouge River walkway, Wortman said, "That's something that could be done relatively soon, assuming things go right for the Ford Plant." Wortman described the walk as the first phase of a several-phase project.

Planning Commission Member David Totten was doubtful that many of the proposals could be accomplished quickly. "I can't imagine that more than a third or a quarter of this would be feasible within the lifetime of the youngest member," he said.

"Nothing ventured, nothing gained," Hardin replied. "And when you're talking Master Plan, this is something to shoot for."

Wortman said the paths could be constructed of any one of a number of materials, including wood chips or asphalt, or as a wooden boardwalk. "It would depend on conditions, the availability of land or money or whatever," he said.

As far as money for footpaths is concerned, Wortman said the state

A view of the Rouge River north of the Ford plant and east of Griswold

Department of Natural Resources (DNR) had grants for such projects. Northville Recreation Director John Anderson added the DNR is more likely to grant money to projects that make use of bodies of water. "Water-based recreation does have a higher priority than many other things," he said.

Among the sites being considered for river walks under the plan are a walk along the Rouge River from the Ford Plant to Hutton Street, a pathway along Randolph Creek from Hutton Street to Maybury State Park, a Middle Rouge pathway from the Ford Plant south to the township, and a Johnson Creek pathway along Hines Drive west through the Middle Rouge Parkway to Fairbrook Road.

Also listed on a preliminary map of parks and pathways is a Cady Connection, a pedestrian plaza between Main and Cady streets.

An action plan in the report listed South Main Park, Gazebo Park, Community Recreation, Ford Field and the proposed Rouge River Walkway as high-priority sites for improvements. Wortman estimated the cost of improved landscaping of South Main Park at $8,500, and listed sidewalks and a pedestrian / bicycle path as other needed improvements. Expansion of the plaza at Gazebo Park would cost an estimated $250,000.

Restrooms at Ford Field and Fish Hatchery Park, considered a medium-priority site, would cost an estimated $80,000 each. The estimate assumed obtaining a long-term lease on Ford Field.

Wortman's report listed the DNR, the city and the city's Downtown Development Authority, and local and private donors as potential funding sources.

Wortman noted in his report that many areas in the city are farther than 1/4-mile from a neighborhood park, and that Northville Estates, Bealton, and the neighborhoods north of Thayer Boulevard and west of Rogers Street have no neighborhood parks.

"The joint Recreation Commission has tenuous leases for several soccer and softball fields, including Ford Field and Wayne County sites," Wortman's report noted. "Additional soccer / ball fields must be acquired to provide a level of recreational service demanded by the community."

Wortman's report made clear the intent was not to bypass the city's joint recreation program with the township, but is meant to address the specific needs of city residents.

A recurrent theme through the report was the need to link parts of the community with waterways and bike paths.

"With the sale or conversion of the Ford Motor properties imminent, the City should develop a river walk system which connects Hutton Street at Randolph Creek to the old Ford Motor buildings along the south side of the Middle Rouge River. This would draw more people to the downtown area and provide important green space in the Downtown Core."

Randolph and Johnson creeks could also be used to link the residential neighborhoods to the west with the downtown area.

To allow for the pathways, the report suggests private developers be required to set aside floodplain areas for park land, allowing a sufficient easement for a path.

"As development comes in, if this plan is adopted, one of our policies might be asking the developer to allocate some space, maybe in a floodplain, for a bike path or walkway."

Pizza and a penguin?

It was the culmination of "March is Reading Month" in Michigan and at Moraine Elementary School that meant the end of the schoolwide reading contest. Winners were Larry Rowland's fourth grade class which read 24,080 pages during March. Moraine School read a total of 121,880 pages in March. The win-ing class was treated to a pizza party with a special guest, the school mascot — a penguin. Above, Stacy Ambroziak, left and Gina Spinnaze enjoy their pizza with the penguin, a.k.a. Moraine Principal Mary Najarian.

Library friends seeking members

The first 400 children to visit the Northville Public Library the week of April 23-28 will receive a balloon as a gift from the Friends of the Library in celebration of National Library Week.

The Friends will also conduct their fourth annual membership drive at this time with the help of 36 volunteers enlisted by Rose Wagner.

Wendy Gutowski, Friends president, said, "A public library is a reflection of a community's hopes for the future. As a Friend of the library, I am proud of our well-informed, actively involved, committed group of volunteers."

"As National Library Week approaches here in Northville, our attention is already strongly focused on what the library means to us as individuals as well as members of a growing community."

"At this time I hope that all of us will examine and reconcile our personal and collective commitments to our library's future."

The 250-member Friends group has contributed many volunteer hours in their efforts to provide goods and services to the library not permitted by the library budget.

During the past year, the Friends have given the library a microfilm/fiche reader/printer; microfilm copies of the Northville Record, a book/cassette stand for the children's space, and audio tapes for the Oral History Project sponsored by the Friends and the Northville Historical Society.

The Friends funded the library's centennial observance activities for adults and children, entertained the staff at a Christmas luncheon, decorated the library for Christmas, and instituted proceedings to incorporate the Friends and are seeking non-profit status.

To enhance the library's store of local history, the Friends are collecting materials pertaining to the early history of the group for its newly established archival collection.

The quarterly used-book sales have been suspended for the time being due to a lack of storage space for donated books.

Through its Gift Book Program to memorialize loved ones or honor individuals on special occasions, the library was enriched in 1989 by nearly $900 worth of books.

The Friends continue to bring well-known speakers to the community through the annual benefit dinner at Genitti's Hole in the Wall restaurant and book and author luncheon.

Memberships in the Friends are available any time at the library

Shine appearance benefits library

By MIKE TYREE

The new publisher of the Detroit Free Press came to town last week to talk about some of his favorite things, and Northville residents warmed up to him like he was, well, like he was a good book.

Neal Shine spoke on the behalf of Northville Citizens for a New Community Library April 4 and used the occasion to weave rollicking tales of his younger days with life-long passions — books and libraries.

In what was billed as his first public speaking engagement since being named publisher of the Free Press, Shine cooied up to a large audience at the Marquis Theater with fond reminiscences of growing up on Detroit's east side.

Regaling the crowd with whimsical yarns from his youth — swimming in stagnant canals, running circles around portly police, delivering a friend to his doorstep wrapped in butcher paper — Shine also recalled some of the more sobering aspects of the 1930s and '40s.

Furniture repossessions, scrip and garnisheed wages were everyday phrases in those days, Shine said, and people bonded in the gritty ethnic neighborhoods of Detroit as a means of survival.

The neighborhoods, little enclaves of self-support, "provided everything you needed, including libraries," he said.

At St. Rose, his neighborhood school, Shine learned to read and write, and soon became enamored of the local library. The traits and skills he picked up along the way led him to his role as a beloved editor and columnist at the Free Press until his retirement a little more than seven months ago.

The Free Press rescued Shine from his restless repose in March, selecting him as the one to lead the paper through the next stages of the joint operating agreement with the Detroit News.

Despite his lofty new position, Shine said he remains loyal to his little Irish neighborhood and the important lessons he learned there.

"Reading is absolutely the most important thing I did in my life," he said. "It's the reason I went into journalism."

"It's such a precious gift that so many of us take for granted."

Shine praised libraries as a foundation for learning. He claimed to be thrilled any time his was the first name on the library card of a new book.

And he said he offered little resistance to the magic of the written word.

"I would just give myself over to books," he said. "What power books have."

"Do what you need to do for good libraries," he urged the audience. "Don't let them crowd you into a building that won't hold all the books."

Shine admitted that his love of books would have to be set aside for the rest of the evening.

"Instead of going home tonight to read a book, I will read financial reports," he said. "I won't understand them, but I will be able to tell the Free Press people that I read them."

Shine closed his 90-minute, self-styled "disjointed discourse" with one more plug for libraries.

"We ought to be building more libraries," he said. If they close the library, they close the gates of the world to the children."

Founder's day tickets available

Tickets are still available for Northville's 10th annual Founder's Day Banquet, set for Wednesday, April 25. Founder's Day is sponsored by the Northville PTA and is an evening dedicated to honoring volunteers in the Northville Public Schools.

The 1990 Northville Distinguished Guest is Margo Smith. Smith has been Junior Enrichment Series district-wide coordinator for five years. Her involvement in Northville Schools and the PTA began eight years ago at Winchester Elementary School. She was an active PTA member and was Winchester's JES chairperson for seven years, the chairperson of the Holiday Shop for two years, a Junior Great Books leader for two years, and a Cub Scout leader, also for two years. Smith is currently active in both the Winchester and Mead's Mill PTAs. She was part of the Strategic Planning Committee concerned with the high school.

Other PTA honorees are: Amerman Elementary — Milt

Jacobi, Jan Tiplady and Irene Fleming; Moraine Elementary — Mary Najarian and Cheryl Spinazze; Silver Springs Elementary — Meg Copenen and Marcia Cromas; Winchester Elementary — Pam Fox and Linda Last; Meads Mill Middle School — Lynda Baca and Jeff Radwanski; Northville High School — Mary Culik and Deanna Siemasz; Early Childhood Development — Julie Betzler and Mary Kay Scullen.

The evening will begin with a punch and appetizer social hour at 5:30 p.m.

Master of ceremonies for the evening will be Glenna Davis, school board president. Guest speaker will be Carl Cohen, immediate past president of the Michigan PTA, and current commission chairperson of Individual Organizational Development, National PTA.

The community is invited to attend the Founder's Day celebration. Tickets are $13 and are available in each school office and the Board of Education office.

Armed robber strikes in Novi; victims left unharmed

By SHEILA PHILLIPS

NOVI — Two men were robbed at gunpoint in their Aplegate Condominiums home at 10:30 p.m. the night of April 5.

The robber, who is described as a 6'-2" male weighing approximately 190 pounds, got away with a Rolex watch valued at $15,000, a Gucci watch worth $200, a wallet containing several credit cards, two silver money clips, two sets of keys and an undisclosed amount of cash, according to Novi police.

Neither victim was harmed in the incident.

The 27- and 43-year-old Bashian Drive residents told police they arrived home about 10:30 p.m. and were pushed through the door by a subject wearing a yellow ski mask and blue clothing and carrying a semiautomatic handgun.

The robber then handed the older victim a pair of handcuffs and told him to "put these on," according to the police report.

Upon further instruction, the 43-year-old handcuffed himself to the other man. Both victims then handed over their belongings.

The suspect then marched both men down into the basement, ripped the phone off the wall and told them, "Don't move."

He ransacked the upstairs, cut all phone wires in the residence and left, according to police.

The victims said they went back upstairs after the noise stopped and unsuccessfully attempted to phone the police.

They then drove — still handcuffed — to the police station to report the crime.

They told officers that when they ran out to their car, they also yelled to a neighbor who pulled into her driveway to call the police.

Officers contacted that neighbor and verified the victims' story. The neighbor did not see the suspect leave the house, according to investigators.

Police suspect that a vehicle was used in the crime, but one was not actually seen.

The matter is still under investigation by the Novi police Department, which is following up on undisclosed leads.

There have been no other reports of similar incidents recently in Novi. However, similar robberies involving Rolex watches have occurred in West Bloomfield, according to police.

Detectives do not know at this time whether the incidents are linked and had not reviewed the West Bloomfield crime reports by press time.

Safety precautions for tornado season

One of nature's most catastrophic forms is the tornado. It travels at awesome speed and can destroy anything in its path.

A tornado cannot be prevented but with education, the public can be prepared for its horrible effects.

"When a tornado watch is issued, it means conditions are right for a tornado to develop. Be sure to seek shelter and keep abreast of the latest weather conditions," said Gail A. Novak, Manager of Oakland County EMS/Emergency Management.

Oakland County EMS/Emergency Management offers the following advice to help insure your safety during the tornado season.

• A tornado warning means a tornado has been sighted and confirmed in the area. Take cover immediately.

• When seeking shelter from a tornado, keep a flashlight and portable radio with you. Go to the center of the basement and take cover under a workbench, heavy piece of furniture or stairway.

• If a basement is not available, seek shelter in the center of building, for example, in a closet or bathroom with no windows.

• Do not go near windows when a tornado threatens. Do not take time to open windows before taking cover.

• If you are in a mobile home or automobile, leave immediately and seek shelter in the nearest permanent structure or lie flat on the ground in the nearest ravine or ditch. Protect your head by covering yourself with your arms, a blanket or a sleeping bag.

Company taken off landfill list

Northville Township Supervisor Georgina Goss was elated by the SWPC's decision regardless of what prompted the action.

"I'm so excited — this is wonderful news," she said. "I think that the Oakland County (Solid Waste) Planning Committee did a good job and made the right decision."

"I would especially like to applaud the residents who did a great job presenting the facts to the committee," she said.

"I believe that the site was removed due to the concerted effort of the City of Novi, Northville Township and the citizens of both communities," Goss commented.

When Holloway first applied for a mining permit, the company submitted an end-use site plan which called for a residential subdivision zoned R-1. Since that time, the land has been rezoned to a less dense R-A classification — so Holloway must submit new plans.

"We always planned to build a residential development on the site — we were just exploring another option," Holloway's Zanotti said.

He explained that since the landfill avenue is no longer an option, his company will mine the site for two more years and then build a residential subdivision.

"Holloway will have to submit new plans in accordance with the R-A zoning," Quinn said. "It is my understanding that there will be very large and very nice homes on the site."

Zanotti said his company is currently working on that site plan, which calls for a subdivision with one-acre lots. Those plans should be submitted to the planning commission within the next month.

CONSUMER ALERT

By Larry Thomas

WASHINGTON - In an effort to reduce the number of infant suffocations, the Consumer Product Safety Commission has issued a safety alert that advises parents not to leave infants unattended on any adult or youth bed.

CPSC officials said the agency received more than 200 reports of infants suffocating on such beds between 1985 and 1989, and said most occurred when the child rolled to the edge of the bed and became trapped.

"The commission staff urges that infants not be left on adult or youth beds, whether mattress type or waterbed," the safety report reads. "Preferably, infants should be placed in a crib that meets the federal safety standards and industry voluntary standards for cribs and has a tight fitting mattress."

The alert was issued in the wake of a petition filed in July asking the CPSC to require warning labels on waterbeds. The petition, filed by the Consumer Federation of America and the New York attorney general's office, asks for labels with wording similar to the safety alert.

The above article has been reprinted from the December 25, 1989 issue of "Furniture/Today".

Leather Luxury: The scent, the prestige, the durability, the eye appeal, the ease of maintenance, the economy and the feel of leather are the reasons people desire to own leather.

Leather has an aesthetic appeal. It has its own pleasant aroma that appeals to the sensitivity of everyone in a very special way that no other product can. Leather is no longer a cold, hard product purchased only for its looks and prestige. Today's leathers unsurpassed warmth and comfort year round.

Many people feel leather will become too hot in the summer, this is not true. Leather adjusts quickly to body temperature and is comfortable year round. The natural network of fibers in the leather allows air to circulate through it. Leather is the strongest upholstery material known to man. Leather has an interwoven network which makes it flexible, it will bend and not break.

To meet consumers demands for increased softness in leathers and expanded range of colors, tanneries have developed new processes such as aniline dyeing. Aniline dyeing, a process in which the full hide is dyed, results with leather being softer and supple. Leathers which have been semi-aniline dyed combine both the softness of aniline dyeing and the benefits of surface protection. These leathers are available in any color a home owner could want. The finishes are permanent and the colors are absorbed by the leather and will not rub off.

Modern chemicals ensure that the leather finish will not crack or peel. Leather will not readily burn or melt, and unlike most fabrics and vinyl, it is extremely difficult to puncture.

The care of leather is very simple. Wipe gently with a solution of mild soap (such as Ivory Flakes) and water. Wipe dry and you are finished! The beauty of the hide is protected throughout processing and the natural oils of leather have been sealed in permanently.

While other materials depreciate in value, leather is found to appreciate and improve in looks each year. At the end of the 20 years, a chair most likely will be worth more than the $1,200.00 initially paid. Leather will last forever. A leather product is not just another piece of furniture but a heirloom which could be passed down from generation to generation!

Board awards school repair bids

By MIKE TYREE

Three contractors were awarded bids to replace and repair four school building roofs during the Board of Education's Monday evening session.

The board approved Royal Roofing Inc.'s bid of $178,950 to replace three sections of roof at Amerman Elementary School. The same firm was selected to restore six sections of roof at Winchester Elementary at a price not to exceed $92,290.

Cooperative Roofing was awarded the contract to restore six sections of roof at Silver Springs Elementary in an amount not to exceed $80,528. Cooperative Roofing will also replace a section of roof at Winchester at a cost of $22,952.

Detroit Cornice and Slate was awarded the contract to replace a section of the roof at Meads Mill Middle School in an amount not to exceed $59,350.

Funding for the roof repair falls under the scope of the 1989 Bond Issue which was approved by district voters in October 1989.

Two years of studies were conducted by the district's Operations Department to identify roofing problems, according to Burton Knighton, assistant superintendent for administrative services.

"It's been a matter of patching (until now)," Knighton said. The bids awarded Monday night "cover all the major problems," he added.

In addition to the announced bid awards of $439,070, the school district is tentatively looking at $405,970 worth of expenditures for four schools in 1991.

Because of budgetary restraints, three additional roofing projects will be placed on hold until funds are available from other sources, Knighton said.

According to Terry Moore, a roofing consultant retained by Northville Public Schools, replaced roofs will carry a 10-year guarantee and restored roofs will be guaranteed for five years.

The survey that led to the listing of roofing priorities covered roof age, whether or not the roof leaked and relative comments, according to Knighton.

High school plans trip to Soviet Union

By MIKE TYREE

Borscht and Bolshoi! Glastnost and Perestroika! Da and nyet!

Get used to the words and phrases, Northville residents, because your children are going to the Soviet Union.

The Northville Public Schools Board of Education Monday approved a June 1991 trip to the Soviet Union for high school students.

The 10-day "1991 NHS Glastnost Tour" is tentatively scheduled for June 13-22 and will cost students a base price of $1,545, according to high school teachers and trip sponsors Christopher Ford and George Aune.

The base price includes all air and ground transportation, all breakfasts, dinners and lodging, and students will be able to view first hand sites such as Red Square, Lenin's Tomb, St. Basil's Cathedral and other historic attractions in Moscow and Leningrad.

Ford, a history teacher who led a group of students to the Soviet Union in 1987, said the trip is an opportunity for young people to experience the lifestyles of others.

"A trip such as this will give students the chance to see cultures from other places in the world," he said. "(As teachers) we always try to give students a better understanding of the world."

"The Soviet Union has a lot of history; a lot of tradition the United States doesn't possess," he said.

Ford gave a slide presentation to the board and pointed out the beauty of the country, which belied standard dull, drab, black-and-white perceptions of the nation.

Ford and Aune said they expected to attract 20-30 Northville students for the trip, but said no limitations would be placed on the number that wanted to go.

Any student from Northville High School is welcome on the trip, they said, and members of the community, friends of students, or other interested parties that want to go will be reviewed by Ford and Aune on an individual basis.

One adult chaperone will be selected for every six students, regardless of the number of students that take the trip, Ford said. The students will be expected to abide by school regulations as spelled out in the high school handbook, he added.

Members of the board and administration officials expressed enthusiasm with the Soviet Union trip.

Dolly McMaster, assistant superintendent for instructional services, said the district's Strategic Plan 1989-94 outlines risks the schools should take to improve the educational opportunities for its students.

"We're very fortunate to have staff members who are willing to take the risk (to take students on such a trip)," she said.

Scholarship fund remembers student

By MIKE TYREE

The spirit of a young girl who died suddenly last year will live on, thanks to a scholarship fund set up in her honor.

Meads Mill Middle School has announced that an annual $200 scholarship award will be presented to a deserving eighth-grade student in memory of Jody Michelle Schwartz, who died in July 1989.

The fund will be administered by the Northville Public Schools and was established by contributions from family, friends and community groups at the request of Jody's parents, Andy and Shelly Schwartz.

To be eligible for the award, applying students must currently be in the eighth grade at Meads Mill and have exhibited an interest in the study of some extracurricular activity such as sports, music, forensics, art or academic enrichment. The scholarship will be used for further instruction in this field over the summer, in activities such as volleyball camp or music lessons.

Applications are available from the Meads Mill office and are due by April 27. A committee composed of Mr. and Mrs. Schwartz, Principal David Longridge, a Meads Mill staff person, Jerry Middione, Martha Nield and Cindy Wagner will select the recipient to be announced at the June Meads Mill Honors Night.

Those wishing to make a contribution to the Jody Schwartz Scholarship Fund may do so by making checks payable to the Northville Public Schools, c/o Business Office, 501 West Main Street, Northville.

Easter flowers

Record/CHRIS BOYD

Although the weather may not have cooperated enough to have flowers blooming outside this Sunday, traditional Easter flowers will no doubt bloom on tables across Northville thanks to the work of some area florists. Above, Gary Dinser looks over some of the 1,500 hydrangeas in the Dinser Greenhouse.

Court rules down having automatic GOP delegates

By TIM RICHARD

Former Northville Township resident Michael Legg lost the 1988 political battle. But his side won the war recently when the U.S. Court of Appeals ruled in favor of his Kemp-Robertson faction in the all-Republican war.

"It feels good," said Legg, an attorney now living in Farmington Hills, former 2nd District GOP chairperson and the man who would have chaired Michigan's delegation to the 1988 convention in New Orleans if his side had won in federal court in Detroit.

Was the Kemp-Robertson victory a matter of "justice delayed, justice denied"? Sean Cox, a Livonia attorney active in the case, didn't think so. "This case makes it (party governance) more grass-roots. It makes the precinct delegates more significant."

Legg agreed. He called the immediate political effect of the ruling "negligible" but said it "means a lot for all political parties. It reaffirms that parties are not subject to control by legislatures."

In a 3-0 decision, the U.S. Court of Appeals ruled Michigan's election law unconstitutional in requiring that Republican officeholders and nominees be automatic delegates to party conventions and have places on party executive boards.

Forces loyal to now-President George Bush were able to take control of the delegation with help from officeholders, mostly political veterans and predominantly Bush loyalists. Many insurgents were new to politics, having been recruited from conservative churches such as Brightmoor Tabernacle by the Rev. Pat Robertson.

The Bush people won in Kent Circuit Court, the state Appeals Court and in U.S. District Judge George Woods court.

But appeals judges Nathaniel Jones of Cincinnati, Ralph Guy Jr. of Detroit and Albert Engel of Grand Rapids reversed Woods' dismissal of the conservatives case, declaring:

"We hold these portions of the election law significantly burden the right to freedom of association of the state party and its members."

"By compelling the state party to automatically place incumbent legislators and nominees to county offices as delegates, the election law infringes upon the right of political parties to choose a method for selection of their party nominees."

"By requiring the county executive committees to be made up of an equal number of elected delegates and legislators, the election law directly controls the internal structure of the political parties."

"Since Michigan has not demonstrated any compelling state interest for such a significant restriction of the freedom of association, we can conclude that the relevant parts of the election law are facially unconstitutional."

Winning plaintiffs were George Heitmanis, a Birmingham attorney, and Keith Murphy, a West Bloomfield attorney, both supporters of then-U.S. Rep. Jack Kemp, and three other Kemp and Robertson delegates.

David McKeague, the Lansing attorney who represented Sen. Vern Ehlers and other legislators, could not be reached for comment.

The effect of their victory is open to question because in 1992 Michigan will use a closed presidential primary system — voters will have to register by party to cast ballots. In 1988, national convention delegates were chosen by conventions attended by precinct delegates and officeholders.

May 8 is the deadline for both Democratic and Republican candidates for precinct delegates to file nominating petitions with their county clerks.

Those elected in the Aug. 7 primary will attend county conventions to pick state convention delegates, who in turn will nominate candidates for lieutenant governor, state Supreme Court and other state offices.

New signs to undergo two reviews

By STEVE KELLMAN

Are two reviews necessary for new signs inside the city's Historic District? Not according to several city officials.

But under the recently-enacted sign ordinance, reviews by two different boards are required.

The issue was called to the city's attention by Building Inspector Joseph Attard, who pointed out that under the new sign ordinance, applicants within the Historic District technically must apply to both the planning commission and historic district commission (HDC) for approval of new signs.

"It is my recollection that the intention was to have one board or the other review new signs, depending on whether the location was inside or outside the Historic District," City Manager Steven Walters wrote in a memo to the planning commission. Before the recent enactment of the new sign ordinance, signs within the historic district were reviewed by the HDC, but no review was required of signs outside the district.

Walters and the city council agreed the new sign ordinance was intended to provide review by the planning commission of new signs outside the district, but not to require two reviews of signs within it.

The planning commission would still be responsible for approving the siting of pole signs for new projects, as part of the normal building site plan review.

The commission called for a public hearing on May 1 to resolve the issue.

As Walters told the commission, "It's not an earth-shaking issue, but the city council needs to know what to do about it administratively. It's an issue that needs to be resolved."

"It's pretty straightforward except as to what the intent was. I think the intent was to get some limited aesthetic input to signs outside the historic district."

Northville Record to publish twice weekly

"Regional and local advertisers who want to reach suburban northwest Detroit customers at home will now have a greatly expanded opportunity as a result of the Monday Northville Record and the Novi News," Periberg said. "Regional classified and display advertising packages will be made available to advertisers, tying in with all 18 Observer & Eccentric and Sliger/Livingston papers, providing blanket coverage of northwest suburban Detroit."

The Northville Record and the Novi News are Sliger/Livingston Publications papers. Other Sliger/Livingston papers are The Milford Times, The South Lyon Herald, The Brighton Argus and The Livingston County Press.

Sliger/Livingston Publications and the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers are published by Suburban Communications Corp.

Signs in the historic district, above, would need two reviews with the new ordinance

Local families observe passover

By JAN JEFFRES

When Joela Shulman makes gefilte fish from scratch for her family's Passover dinner, she won't be cooking in her Novi home.

The seasoned fish delicacy is made with finely chopped and skinned whitefish and pike, boiled and mixed with matzo meal and onions.

"It stinks a lot. We make it at my cousin's because she has a window near her stove," Shulman said.

She, her husband Gerald and son Adam will be celebrating the holiday at a relative's home in Southfield.

The Jewish festival of Passover, or Pesach (Pay-sach) in Hebrew, begins at sundown Monday and continues through sundown on Tuesday, April 17.

While there are no Jewish temples or synagogues in Novi, the local Jewish population appears to be growing, Shulman said. Most of the families belong to congregations in Livonia, Farmington Hills or West Bloomfield.

Passover, a celebration of freedom, marks the liberation of the Jewish people from slavery in Egypt — the Exodus. Led by Moses, in their haste to leave Egypt the Israelites did not have enough time to allow their bread dough to rise. For this reason, leavened bread may not be eaten during the holiday. Matzo is the traditional substitute.

All food containing yeast and other leavening agents will be removed from the homes of observant Jews no later than noon Sunday, the day before Passover begins. In addition, separate dishes, silverware and cooking utensils are customarily used during the eight days.

The special dietary considerations mean that before the holiday, local Jewish families will be shopping in special sections at grocery stores.

"You gather food together. You begin to go shopping and get kosher food for Passover. You can't eat the regular food at Passover," Shulman explained.

The first two nights of the holiday are commemorated with a ceremonial dinner called the Seder which retells the story of the Exodus through prayers, songs and foods.

"Everything is celebrated at home and nothing in the temple or synagogue. It's not a holiday where you take off work or anything. It's an evening celebration. It's a fun holiday. It's also a tradition that you must pass on from generation to generation, to guard and retell it every year," said Gerald Shulman.

The large Seder plate, which has a place for each different Seder food, is usually fixed by Joela Shulman.

"Each of the things is to remind you of something," she said.

A roasted lamb bone symbolizes the lamb which was ritually slaughtered on the eve of Passover in biblical times. Horseradish (or Maror) is served as the bitter herbs reminding celebrants of the bitterness of slavery. A green vegetable such as parsley (Karpas) symbolizes spring and renewal and is dipped in salt water representing the tears of the Jews in Egypt. In addition, a roasted egg is placed on the plate as a token of grief for the destruction of the Jerusalem temple by the Romans.

Also on the Seder plate is a sweet called Charoset, which symbolizes the mortar which held together the bricks made by the Israelites as slaves in Egypt.

"You mix chopped apples, nuts and wine in the food processor. It looks like clay and mortar, but it tastes very good," Joela Shulman said.

"One of the things you always do is open up the front door. Everyone and everybody is welcome to join the Seder."

Including the prophet Elijah, who according to Jewish tradition is a messenger of God who will foretell the coming of the messiah. Shulman said that a cup of wine is placed on the table for Elijah and while the children are sent to look for him at the door, the adults jiggle the glass to make it look as if the prophet had taken a sip.

The story of the Passover is read from a special book, the Haggadah. Everyone participates, but to the youngest person present goes the task of asking the Four Questions. The Haggadah explains Passover through the answers to the questions.

Gerald Shulman said the Four Questions will probably be asked by his 16-year-old son Adam, a Novi High School student.

Our Opinions

Decision on Ward Church was right

Judge Richard Kaufman's decision to override a township zoning board ruling on a height variance for Ward Church is to date the loudest salvo fired in a protracted battle that has involved the church, three township boards and commissions, residents, and attorneys too numerous to count.

The fallout of Kaufman's verdict is that the entire Ward development plan issue — including the church's proposed 108-foot sanctuary and the township's 48-foot height ordinance — will be tossed back into the lap of the township.

The township board readied itself for the decision that came yesterday by voting March 8 not to oppose a group of residents who had appealed the granting of a height variance Sept. 18 by the zoning board. Township attorney Ernest Essad's tactic of not actively opposing the residents sent a clear signal that the township feels the zoning board acted under duress — in short, made a mistake.

The decision, while difficult for the board, was the right one. As tough as it is for a township government body not to support the decisions reached by its sub-groups, this decision was based on a bad premise from the start. Township trustees, after hearing the opinion of their attorney, did the right thing in voting not to support the ZBA on its ruling.

Ward Church would like to build a 108-foot structure on the corner of Six Mile and Haggerty roads. The township currently has a 48-foot height limitation ordinance on the books. Therein lies the conflict. A quick recap on the timing of the ordinance and Ward Church's site plan proposal and subsequent appeal may be enlightening.

The Township Planning Commission recommended approval to the Board of Trustees of an ordinance limiting the height of churches in residential districts to 48 feet at its May 23, 1989 meeting. That ordinance was approved, unanimously, by the Board of Trustees on Aug. 10, 1989. It was passed as an emergency ordinance and became effective Aug. 17, 1989. Ward Church's preliminary site plan was approved in a 4-3 vote by the planning commission on Aug. 8, just two days before the trustees would vote in the new height limitation ordinance.

That two-day difference has little to do with whether Ward must comply with the new ordinance, however. Courts have found that emergency ordinances must apply unless the petitioner has reached a point in the development in which they have a vested right to continue. Preliminary site plan approval is hardly a vested right.

Ward took the only route open at that point, an appeal to the ZBA. One of the only reasons the ZBA can grant an appeal is proof of hardship to the petitioner. The ZBA granted Ward its height appeal.

Essad has since told trustees, "There appears to be no claim by Ward that any 'practical difficulty' exists other than the expense and inconvenience of modifying their intended building. Financial hardship should only be considered when it is serious enough to prevent the property from yielding a reasonable income," he said.

A strong possibility exists that Ward will now bring some form of lawsuit against the township. In fact, some township officials anticipate further litigation. They sit in a precarious, no-win position at this time.

The small band of residents who have put their money and their time on the line to fight this decision right through to the end, deserve a moment in the spotlight.

Decisions made by individual units of government must be monitored by citizens. This group felt the vote taken by the ZBA was unwarranted and made the decision to fight the decision with everything available to them. The recent decision by the township board lends credence to their case.

The move also makes the phrase "you can't fight city hall" a thing of the past. The Ward issue will continue, but the residents should be proud of what they accomplished.

Shared services is now up to voters

The Northville City Council turned a politician's nightmare into a political windfall last Monday with its deft handling of the shared-services vote.

Rather than take a firm stand on the proposal, the council approved the proposed agreement on the condition that city voters concur with the decision in an August election.

The matter leaves the Haller Complex and shared services up to a vote by township and city residents, and no one is betting which way those votes will go.

While the vote does give city voters a say over their participation in the Haller Complex, it calls into question the process of negotiation which has brought both communities to this pivotal point in their relationship.

The vote was admitted by city council members to be the result of last-minute discussions with township officials. When Township Supervisor Georgina Goss gave her reluctant approval to the concept of a vote by city residents, the council was taken off the political hook.

City council members were between a rock and a hard place. The much-needed relationship between the township and the city has been sorely stretched in the past few months. Tensions are high, and a potential permanent rift was brewing if the council spurned the tendered agreement. However, city residents had turned out in force to voice objections — not so much with the shared service agreement, but with the Haller proposal and site. When city council members receive over 100 letters in a week's time — it must make them think about the wishes of those they represent.

So the decision to postpone, or rather leave it to the voters, was born.

At the heart of the matter is the poor communication which has delayed a mutual decision on the shared services proposal for so long. Rather than holding a joint meeting, city and township officials simply bounced the proposal back and forth between the two communities for four months, often making relatively minor changes each time.

Each community held a public hearing. There was never one, communitywide public hearing with township officials, city officials and all interested residents, to get immediate, straight answers to questions.

If township and city officials currently bemoan the "City vs. Township" mentality of some voters, they have only themselves to thank. While promoters of the Haller complex have constantly talked of the "community" library, both township and city officials have been careful to keep their own agendas. Township officials say the library will be a go no matter what the city decides. The city is holding off deciding until township voters take the heat off. What's a resident to think?

One would hope that future shared services negotiations — if there are any — will be handled with more open communication and under a less pressing schedule.

No pain, no gain?

By Ann Willis

Playing sports is supposed to build character.

I read that someplace. Playing sports is supposed to build teamwork. I heard that somewhere.

Playing baseball is an American tradition. I saw George Bush and his family playing softball on TV last summer. I know I feel better about the world now that baseball has thrown out the first pitch. Spring without Ernie Harwell and George Kell is no spring at all. Seeing Bo Schembechler sitting next to Sparky Anderson makes me a little nervous, but I'll get over it.

The point is we're supposed to grab a glove and ball when the sun is high and the grass is green, right?

That's what I thought when we decided to put together the "Record Breakers," the Northville Community Recreation League's newest entry into the world of co-ed softball.

Our team is a rag-tag collection of journalists, spouses and one dog. We held our first practice last Sunday. Five of us showed up. Make that six — the dog was there.

We did all the appropriate softball things. We ran. We threw. We batted around. And that was just in the first 15 minutes.

There were some hot grounders to short. A few long, high infield pop-ups. Some outstanding running catches in the outfield. We practiced the double play. The relay from left field.

I felt good for the first half hour. Then things started to get a little foggy. I began to feel like Lucy out in the outfield. Charlie Brown should have been cringing on the mound every time the ball was hit near me. A high hit was coming right in front of me. I shaded my eyes, running forward. Oops, it was behind me. Plunk.

I shook it off. At the next crack of the bat (actually ping of the bat; these babies are aluminum and a bit of the glamor of baseball has died), I was off. This one was mine. I stretched, I stretched, I stretched — the ball landed on my wrist. I have a bruise the size of Rhode Island on my left wrist.

Things got worse. Even the dog got hit with the ball. By the end of the practice I couldn't lift either arm, my white tennis shoes were black with mud, my legs ached and I was sunburnt. Baseball wasn't a tradition — it was a race for survival.

What a game. I can't wait for the next practice.

The olde rugged cross

Sharing recreation

By Bob Needham

Officials up the road in Novi are finding themselves in the same boat as the Northville Community Recreation Department: two defeats for a proposal to increase park funding.

There are no plans to return with a similar proposal for some time, and small wonder; Novi has had no luck at all with its two recent attempts. But the need, like the need in Northville, is undeniable.

One answer may be to return with a different proposal.

The Northville department — a joint effort of city and township governments — has problems similar to Novi: growing participation in programs, inadequate facilities, and vacant land disappearing at a rapid rate. The Haller Complex vote may help address the local situation, but its passage is far from a sure thing, and in itself will probably not be enough anyway.

Perhaps the three governments could look into combining efforts and run some sort of three-way parks and recreation effort. The cost of buying open space and building parks facilities might be more palatable to residents if the burden was shouldered by more people.

If this would work at all — and I'm not saying it would — I have no idea to what extent the concept should go. Perhaps a single, jointly owned park to meet the softball and soccer needs of Northville and Novi? Some programs run with the two departments together? Or even a single recreation department, shared between the three governments?

There are people, more in Northville than Novi, who argue that local government has no place being in the business of running youth soccer programs and the like. I disagree. Putting parks and recreation completely into the hands of the private sector will dramatically limit the number of people who can afford to participate in programs — and will eliminate the concept of public parks.

I truly believe that the majority of citizens in Northville and Novi do not want to move in that direction. That is clearly going to mean some creative approaches to funding problems. Maybe sharing programs or facilities between the two communities is not the best answer, but it's a point to start discussing.

Low cost of library is worth it

To the Editor:

Dear Citizens of Northville Township:

I'm writing this because of the many misconceptions concerning the proposed gift of 72 acres of land to be given to the township by Mrs. Haller for a new community library. Many homeowners are upset by the idea of having to spend more money on taxes after being hit by large increases in their assessments this year. It is hard to look ahead to the future, but it is necessary to realize how much money is really being talked about.

It is estimated that .9 mills will be needed to build the library complex and 1.0 mills to operate it. This includes the building, furnishings, books and materials, architectural fees, road construction, bonding fees, and contingencies associated with the project. This 1.9 mills will not appear on tax bills until December of 1991. For the owner of a $160,000 home, this amounts to only $152 per year or 42 cents per day. Just think, for a little more than the price of a daily candy bar we have a chance to contribute something of lasting value and pride for ourselves and our future. For only $2.94 a week (not even the cost of one movie ticket) we can build a wonderful new library, complete with meeting rooms and auditorium that our clubs, senior citizens, Scouts, Town Hall, and citizen groups can use and enjoy.

There is a critical need for soccer, baseball fields and green space in our community as more of our land is being swallowed up for development. The Haller gift will meet that need with land for recreation on the library site.

Hey, I love our present library, but let's face it, we've outgrown it. There is not enough space inside to house the books and materials that are in demand. There is not enough space for computers and word processors the library plans for in the future. Take a look at the cramped seating at the tables and chairs. We have run out of space for people and books. Parking space is even a problem.

It would be nice to keep the library downtown, but modern libraries are big. Mrs. Haller has given us a beautiful and cost-free site which will allow us to build the library we want. We won't have to compromise our structure to crowd it onto a small site. We won't have to work with the limitations of a building which started out as something else. And in addition to a modern library, we'll have 60-plus acres for the community to use for immediate and future needs, such as playing fields.

There are many citizens in our community who have questions and concerns about the Haller Library proposal that need to be addressed. There are neighborhood coffees and presentations being made to community groups during the month of April. These needs can be answered by listening to the facts and making up our minds on what is best for the Northville Community. Please call me (348-5800) and leave your name and phone number if you would like more information on these presentations or you would like to have a coffee.

Mrs. Haller was generous in offering us 72 acres of land, which if the township were to have to purchase on the open market, would cost in excess of $2 million. Where else can we get such a free gift and headstart in fulfilling our community's dream of a new library and recreation space? Let's support our leaders by voting "Yes" on May 1 and build a library that we can be proud of.

Not funny

To the Editor:

We are longtime subscribers to "The Northville Record" and enjoy it very much.

However, your current attempts at humor by putting so-called amusing titles to the items in the "Police Blotter" section is, in our opinion, in very poor taste. It is unfortunate that so much crime and bad behavior exists, and to try to make it sound light and lively seems to be contrary to what our community attitudes ought to be. We suggest that humor be left to the comics or other more appropriate sections of the paper, and that the "Police Blotter" articles be treated in the serious vein reflective of such shameful behavior.

Unfair criticism

To the Editor:

I have watched the Township Planning Board in action and I find it strange that with four members who didn't attend the meeting in question the chairperson would single out Commissioner Barbara O'Brien for such scurrilous criticism. Commissioner O'Brien had been there 4½ hours. I understand she has attended all 23 meetings in her 13 months in office. The chairperson was informed that she had to leave early, at a reasonable hour. I can see why citizens are reluctant to take a public appointment when such games are played to the detriment of a person's reputation.

The conflict in voting on issues is more likely the issue here. The chairperson implies Commissioner O'Brien is "inefficient," but that seems more related to the fact that nearly everything the developers want is rubber-stamped by the commission. Commissioner O'Brien seems more thoughtful, and more concerned with the future implications of board actions. Hence a conflict. It appears to me that she is doing an excellent job. If trying to be responsible and approve quality earns this kind of animosity, then we can look forward to more poor decisions.

Barbaric treatment is the best that can be said of the coverage in the press, and the statements of the chairperson. Perhaps it ought to be the policy of the commission to ask members to justify the frequency of yes votes, which seem to be the usual case with this commission. They saw nothing wrong with approving up to 130 multiple dwellings on a site, with significant water problems, and zoned for only 35 single dwellings. The proposals from developers are generally approved, seldom challenged, and the best interests of the community might not be well served. I rather hope this spreads to a full investigation and greater public visibility of the practices and relationships existing in this area. The issues will go far beyond the absence of a quorum. I think Barbara O'Brien is guilty of one thing: disagreeing with the commission on a lot of issues. She adequately represents the views of the public at large.

Fail to back Commissioner O'Brien in a time of uncalled-for criticism and you'll lose an excellent public servant.

Unfit site

Dear Parents:

As many of you may already be aware, a landfill is proposed for the corner of Napier and Eight Mile Road, only three tenths of a mile away from William Allan Academy. It is a well known fact in geological quarters, that landfills require a special non-porous type of ground (e.g. clay) in which to be buried, and also a low water table to prevent leeching of any potential contaminants into the surrounding area. The land in and around this particular part of Eight Mile Road mainly is comprised of sand and gravel. It also has a high water table thus rendering it unsuitable for most types of landfill on both counts. The proposed landfill is for what is termed "type 3" materials which primarily include refuse from building sites. It is interesting too, to note, that once a "type 3" permit has been issued it can be changed to a "type 2" which includes any and all residential refuse. Anyone who has driven down Six Mile and Napier Road is very much aware of the eyesore mountain of refuse, not to mention the unpleasant odors emanating from the area on a warm summer day.

I, therefore, ask your help to try and prevent this proposed landfill from becoming a reality. Both from a short term as well as a long term outlook, I feel strongly that it poses a health and safety threat to the well being of our students here at William Allan Academy.

V.R. Hambleton

Editor's Note: The DNR regulates any proposed changes in landfill status, such as a change from a type 2 to a type 3, and sets regulations for such a change

My apologies

To the Editor:

On behalf of myself and those other individuals present at the picket of the Center Street office of Professional OB-Gyn Associates of Feb. 14, I would like to apologize for any harm or statements made in error. I, myself, and I believe the others as well, did not understand that Dr. Sio and Dr. Greenstein neither approve or perform abortions. I hereby retract any and all statements that I may have made and ask that the papers print this retraction in a prominent place together with our sincerest apologies.

It is my understanding that both Dr. Sylvia Sio and Dr. Annette Greenstein uphold the highest traditions of the medical profession and should be commended rather than chastised.

Special thanks

To the Editor:

Living in Northville has many privileges. There are many businesses that are extremely generous and civic-minded. The Pizza Cutter is a prime example. Twice the Pizza Cutter has graciously given Brownie Troop 644 a behind the scenes tour of the pizza business. The girls' favorite part is making their very own pizza and enjoying it with a soft drink, on the house. The girls love it. Special thanks to the special people at the Pizza Cutter

Without strings?

To the Editor:

After the council meeting on the joint services agreement, April 2, I sat with my neighbor wondering what to think. "We lost. The library is gone," said David. He was convinced.

"No," I said, "we really got what we wanted. Township voters must accept the full cost of the Haller Library at the May 1 vote because city residents will have final say on cost sharing in the fall. We will vote and decide if the city should join the new joint services agreement. I think we really won. Sort of." I wasn't convinced.

Both he and I, along with several other friends, worked all the previous week getting our neighbors to forward letters to council. We wanted them not to vote on the agreement. We didn't want our council to help support the Haller Library project.

And so a compromise resolution was drawn. The services agreement was adopted but requires ratification by city voters in August. Therefore township voters will not have a firm commitment on cost sharing when they vote.

Is the effect the same? Not really. We wanted leadership from our council. What we got was teflon diplomacy. And if we all were not filling council's chambers and mailboxes over those last two weeks, this new joint services agreement would have passed, unrestricted, in about two minutes.

There is no reason for the agreement to be tied to a new library project. None. It is tied to the Haller proposal because Township officials wanted to sweeten the pill they are asking their constituents to swallow. And the city council allowed the two to be linked. "Let the township build this big, new library and at the same time we will save you all a few dollars on shared services. Aren't we great?" they said. Sure they are. Not to mention short-sighted.

Many at the council meeting pointed to the need for better library services taking preference over location. The two are not mutually exclusive. There are alternative locations in the city that have not been fully explored. A library is a long-term asset of the community. Choices on construction, size and location deserve careful planning.

Anyway, it is now up to the township voters to decide. Do they really want a new library (and all those extra rooms, offices and auditorium) built at the south end of the township, just because of some donated land?

I am hopeful that the voters will exhibit greater vision than both our councils. I hope they will also remember back to the lesson their parents taught them . . . "Beware of strangers offering gifts."

Bruce Dingwall

Haller plan

To the Editor:

Think about it, fellow residents of Northville Township. We have one chance and only one chance to own a prime piece of property worth millions and to us it is free!

Certainly, there is a stipulation, but what a stipulation! We must build a library! But not just a library — a gathering place for the whole community — for everyone!

- A restful haven for adults and young people to browse, read, learn, relax. . .
- An open, airy, inviting room for our children to discover the joy of reading in the wonderful world of books. . .
- An auditorium for theater productions, forums, Town Hall, speakers. . .
- A permanent spot for senior citizens to meet and socialize. . .
- Meeting rooms for community groups. . .
- Sufficient parking for everyone. . .
- To be built on a high, beautiful site that developers would kill to have!

All this could be ours permanently. We desperately need open space that cannot be taken from us. This land would be our very own, thanks to the generosity and foresight of Frieda Haller.

Our quality of life depends on maintaining a vision of all possible good things. We do not need another subdivision or condos on that property. They will no doubt be built elsewhere. The population of Northville Township steadily increases.

We do need a library built to our specifications now and for the future. We need soccer and baseball fields for our youth. Where else will they play when all the land is gone? We need our own land before it is too late.

Think about it. What better value for your money than a permanent library.

Continue to be proud of your community. It does extend beyond the Northville city limits. This 72 acres is our "field of dreams."

"Build it and they will come!"

Vote yes twice on May 1!

24-year Northville Township resident

City hires assessor to lessen dependence on county

By STEVE KELLMAN

Mark Christiansen, Northville's newest city employee, intends to lessen the city's dependence on county assessing services and provide a clearer picture of the city's worth.

Christiansen has been hired as the city's first assessor, after the city council approved the hiring on a two-year basis last month.

The council approved the new position following years of underassessment of the city's commercial district, and the inability of the short-staffed Wayne County Board of Assessors to provide an in-depth commercial review. The county had not performed such a review, which is now required every five years by the state, since 1974.

City officials had previously considered contracting with employees of the Oakland County Board of Assessors to provide the review.

The city has been paying roughly $25,000 to the two counties for basic assessment services, a figure which did not include the in-depth assessment now required regularly by the state.

Christiansen, a Grosse Pointe Woods resident, started in his new position Monday just in time to attend an Oakland County program for all local assessors, to review the county's five-year assessment plan. His first job as Northville city assessor will be to review the assessments of the city's commercial district.

Christiansen comes to Northville with 14 years of experience in municipal government, having served simultaneously as assessor, treasurer and city manager assistant in Brighton from 1974-85, and as assessor and controller in Grosse Pointe Woods from 1985-88. Since then, he has been working in the private property development field with the Irvine Management Company in Detroit.

"He had that job for a while and

"We would project that he would do other administrative work besides assessing."

— Steven Walters,
Northville City Manager

then decided he really wanted to get back into assessing," City Manager Steven Walters said. "And he also has some of the general expertise we're interested in."

The new assessor will likely have other duties, Walters added. "We would project that he would do other administrative work besides assessing," he said.

The city council previously agreed with Walters that the new assessor could help assist the city manager, during discussions about the position.

Christiansen will be earning a starting salary of $36,000. Walters had originally estimated the cost of a full-time assessor at $45,000 for salary and benefits.

He is certified by the state as a level three assessor, which means he has knowledge of commercial and industrial assessments, according to Walters. The level is based on the size and complexity of the tax base that the assessor is qualified to assess, Walters said.

For example, a level four assessor would be required in cities like Livonia and Detroit. A level three assessor is required by the state for communities like Northville.

Main Street Wine Shoppe owner Debra Herr-Dempsey

Wine expert Local store owner offers advice

By PHYLLIS STILLMAN

You've heard the conventional wisdom that you serve red wine with red meat, white wine with white meat.

But suppose you don't like white wine, or you're not sure if the wine you like goes with the menu you're serving?

Debra Herr-Dempsey, owner of Main Street Wine Shoppe, 341 N Main St. in Milford, can help you.

"I specialize in food and wine matching. When someone comes in here and can tell me what's going into a dish, how it's prepared, and what their personal likes are, I can match the wine with the food, and maybe use something a little different than the traditional red meat, red wine; white meat, white wine."

What about cost to the customer? "Often I can work in any price range. So you don't have to get the most expensive bottle of wine, or the most expensive type of wine to go with your dinner. Whether you're entertaining just a few people or a lot of people, we can pick something that would suit what you're serving and suit your taste."

Although she's been in business only three years, Herr-Dempsey has been interested in wine, and matching wine with food, for many years. "That's where my interest in wine began a long time ago, because I love to cook, and wine does accent food, and it accents life in general. It started out as a hobby when I was very young."

Despite its name, Main Street Wine Shoppe has a lot more than wine to offer. The store moved from the basement of the Village Center Mall to its new location last summer. With more space to work with, Herr-Dempsey has expanded her business, adding new merchandise and increasing stock in all areas.

There is a deli which features deli meats, salads and cheeses, especially the imported type cheeses or the specialty types."

Because of its downtown location, many people stop at Main Street Wine Shoppe to pick up lunch. "We do a very good lunch business. We prepare our salads on premise here so they're fresh and they change everyday," she said.

Salad offerings are based on whatever's fresh, whatever's available, or whatever people have been asking for. The shop also makes its own soups. A different soup is available each day. Sandwiches also are available along with a regular menu that features daily specials.

Herr-Dempsey understands the importance of quality. "The quality of the food and the freshness is so important. People notice that right away. It can't be a hit or miss thing, it has to be very consistent."

Main Street Wine Shoppe also features fresh coffee beans, and sells coffee by the cup. "The coffee here has never been warehoused and is fresh roasted. It's hard to match the quality. It makes such a difference. We grind it for each pot; we don't pregrind it."

Flavored coffees such as chocolate raspberry, vanilla cream, Dutch chocolate and emerald cream are also offered.

The coffees have been so popular that Herr-Dempsey is currently in the process of renovating and expanding to create a coffee bar, which will feature special espresso and cappuccino. She is careful with renovations because the building is an historic one.

"This building was formerly the Ferguson Opera House, back 115 years ago. This building had so much character. It just seemed to lend itself to the wine shop." Herr-Dempsey's husband, Ronald Dempsey, is responsible for most of the renovation work, which has exposed the original floor, walls and brick work.

Other items stocked include gourmet foods from around the world such as condiments, preserves, cookies, crackers, jams, salad dressings, and chocolate.

"We also like to carry things for the do-it-yourself gourmet," said Herr-Dempsey. Particularly popular with men are bread mixes, like whole wheat, Australian country rye, and Parisian dill onion, which require only the addition of one can of beer.

Main Street Wine Shoppe makes custom gift baskets, filling them with any items they stock. "We can work in any price range, with wine or without wine. And it's something that I've found that I can personalize to the occasion or to the person," she said.

They also make picnic baskets, year round, providing dinner for two or 20. Baskets provide the whole meal: sandwiches or pasta salads, appetizers, cheese, dessert and, of course, if you want wine Herr-Dempsey can match the right type with the food. Main Street Wine Shoppe will provide the basket, or "if they drop a picnic basket off, we'll fill it for them."

But Herr-Dempsey is clearly most interested in wine and other festive beverages. "I specialize in wine, with emphasis on boutique wines, or wines that represent a very good value but may not be as well known. Most of my boutique wines are domestic, most are from California, and also I

Go against the grain. Cut down on salt.

Adding salt to your food could subtract years from your life. Because in some people salt contributes to high blood pressure, a condition that increases your risk of heart disease.

IRAs offer individual benefits

If the mere mention of the term Individual Retirement Account (IRA) makes your head spin, you're in good company. According to the Michigan Association of CPAs, some of the most frequently asked questions among taxpayers relate to the rules on IRA contributions. Here's a quick rundown of the basic facts.

CAN I STILL MAKE AND DEDUCT IRA CONTRIBUTIONS?

If neither you nor your spouse actively participated in a company retirement plan for any part of the taxable year, the answer is yes. You can contribute and deduct up to $2,000 or 100 percent of your wages, whichever is less. If your spouse works and is earning at least $2,000, you can contribute and deduct an additional $2,000, for a total of $4,000, a non-working spouse increases your total allowable deduction to $2,250.

HOW DO I KNOW IF I AM CONSIDERED AN "ACTIVE PARTICIPANT" IN AN EMPLOYER'S RETIREMENT PLAN?

Here's the rule of thumb: If your company's pension plan states you are eligible for coverage, then you are considered an active participant. But as simple as it may sound, determining whether or not you are an active participant in a qualified retirement plan can be confusing. For instance, Dan participated in the Aris Company's retirement plan. On Jan. 14, 1989, Dan left Aris and began working at XYZ Inc., which does not have a retirement plan. Although Dan participated in Aris' retirement program for only the first two weeks of the year, he is nevertheless considered an active participant.

Perhaps the easiest way to determine your participation status is by glancing at the information box on your W-2 form. If the box contains a printed mark, the IRS will consider you an active participant in a retirement plan. You may also want to check with your employer.

WHAT HAPPENS IF I DO PARTICIPATE IN A RETIREMENT PLAN?

If either you or your spouse participate in an employer's retirement plan, the deductibility of your IRA contribution is based on your adjusted gross income (AGI).

On a positive note, participants in a retirement plan do not necessarily lose the IRA deduction. Married couples with an AGI of $40,000 or less and singles with an AGI of $25,000 or less are still entitled to the full deduction.

However, when your wages surpass those figures, your deduction starts to decrease. For every $1,000 in AGI over $40,000 (if married) and $25,000 (if single), you lose $200 in deductions. The end result is the deduction phases out entirely for married couples with an AGI of $50,000 or more and for singles with an AGI of $35,000 or more.

DOES IT PAY TO MAKE A NON-DEDUCTIBLE IRA CONTRIBUTION?

Only you and your financial advisor can make that judgement. But you should keep in mind that deductibility is not the only thing IRAs have going for them. One of the greatest advantages of IRAs is that they enable you to accumulate retirement savings on a tax-deferred basis. What that means in dollars and cents is that your savings grows faster.

If you decide to make a non-deductible IRA contribution, you must inform the IRA by attaching Form 8606 to your federal tax return. To be safe, you should also keep a personal record of all non-deductible contributions made between now and the time you receive the entire sum of your IRA funds. If the recordkeeping requirements make you jumpy, remember there are other ways to accumulate funds tax-deferred. Ask your CPA to describe your options.

HOW ARE IRA DISTRIBUTIONS TAXED?

In the past, all withdrawals from IRA accounts were taxed as ordinary income. Today, the rules are a lot more complex — especially if you make a non-deductible contribution. Since these non-deductible contributions have already been taxed, any future distributions from your IRA accounts will be taxed based on the ratio of the non-deductible contributions to total contributions.

WHAT ARE THE RULES ON WITHDRAWING IRA FUNDS?

If you withdraw any IRA money before you turn 59½, you may have to pay income tax on all or some of the amount withdrawn (depending on the proportion of deductible contributions plus a 10 percent penalty. The only exceptions to this rule are if you became permanently disabled or the distributions are paid under the life annuity exception. You can also be penalized if you don't start to withdraw money from your IRA account before April 1 of the year following the year in which you turn 70½.

HOW MANY TRANSFERS CAN I MAKE BETWEEN IRA ACCOUNTS?

You can make as many direct transfers between IRA trustees or accounts that you believe are necessary. However, if you do withdraw your IRA funds and close your account, the transfer is considered a rollover (you are permitted one per year), and must be redeposited in a qualified IRA account or other qualified plan within 60 days. If you miss the 60-day deadline, the amount withdrawn will be taxed and, if you are under age 59½, it will also be subject to a 10 percent early-withdrawal penalty.

Home buying seminar, May 1

Anyone interested in becoming a homebuyer in the next few years can get a walk-through preview of all the steps involved at a free May 1 seminar being offered by the Western Wayne Oakland County Board of Realtors (WWOCBR).

"This is strictly an information and education session, with no selling involved," states Douglas G. Courtney, president of the Board. "We approach such programs as a public service that will help future buyers make the best decisions when they get ready to enter the market."

Starting at 7 p.m. in the Holiday Inn-Livonia West, 17123 Laurel Park Drive in Livonia, the seminar is open without charge but prior reservations are requested by calling the WWOCBR at 478-1700.

Included in the program will be such topics as home affordability, financing options, buying steps and finding the best values. In addition to a Realtor, speakers will include a lender and an attorney with the panel open to questions at the end of prepared presentations.

"This will be part of our activities for American Home Week during which we also are staging our second annual canned food drive in cooperation with the Salvation Army," Courtney said. "While not required, we are asking that each person attending the seminar donate a canned good to the drive."

"Space will be limited so we suggest reservations be made as early as possible."

Consumer tipsheets are now available

The Michigan Consumers Council has published two new tipsheets that are designed to save consumers money.

The new tipsheets discuss product rebates and what consumers should know about contests and scams.

Council Director Kent S. Wilcox said the publications reflect the council's desire to inform consumers about the problems and pitfalls in today's marketplace and how to avoid them.

Product Rebates looks at what consumers should consider when buying a product that offers a mail-in rebate. Among the tips suggested are making sure all the necessary items required for obtaining the rebate have been gathered before throwing away the product's packaging and giving serious thought to whether rebates of under $1 are worth the consumer's attention.

The tipsheet does not cover auto rebate programs.

The second tipsheet, Contests and Scams, discusses how to spot some of the warning signs of scams and how to avoid becoming a victim.

"Many of the more common scams today," said Wilcox, "involve a postcard or telephone call informing a consumer that he or she is the 'winner' of a specially selected 'prize.' Consumers should always think twice about becoming involved with any so-called contest that requires them to pay money in order to collect their award."

"These scams usually result in the unauthorized use of the consumer's credit card numbers with the consumer paying the bill," he added.

Among the more common "prizes" used by con artists to lure unsuspecting consumers are a new automobile, luxury trips to tropical beaches, fabulous gemstones, fur coats and major appliances such as televisions, microwaves and stereo equipment. Unfortunately, the consumer rarely receives the prize or collects an award that is far less than what he or she expected.

Free copies of Product Rebates and Contests and Scams are available from the Michigan Consumers Council, 414 Hollister Building, 106 W. Allegan Street, Lansing, MI 48933. The telephone numbers are (517) 373-0947 or (517) 373-0701 (TDD for the hearing impaired only).

The Michigan Consumers Council is a state legislative agency which provides consumer information, referral and counseling services, and acts as an advocate on consumer issues before the Michigan Legislature.

Wine shop owner offers some tips

sell a lot of Michigan wines — very good ones at that. It's nice to be able to say that we can compete on a national and international market."

Herr-Dempsey notes that more people are getting interested in wine. She emphasizes that wine is not just for special occasions. Instead, it can be used on a regular basis with meals.

People are also beginning to create their own wine cellars. "A very small percentage of customers actually buy and cellar their wines. I find that percentage growing because once someone has experienced a truly mature wine, they realize the merit of cellaring or storing their wines."

"The difference between a new and a mature cabernet sauvignon could be the difference between not liking it now and loving it six to 10 years from now," she said.

"Some wines are not made to be stored, and some are. The types that are meant to be stored don't get cheaper, they appreciate (in value). So you try to buy when they're young and cellar them, not just because they're worth more, but because they're no longer available."

"There's only a certain amount made and once that amount is gone for that vintage year, it's gone. And that's one of the pleasures of having a nice wine cellar."

"I also specialize in imported beers and ales. It's important to include microbreweries. These are breweries with a very limited and highly-specialized output."

Herr-Dempsey stocks some unusual types of beer: Cajun, English ales, oatmeal stout. She also has fruit-flavored beers from Belgium in three flavors: peach, cherry and raspberry.

"I have used them (the fruit-flavored beers) as an aperitif before dinner," she said.

Most of the specialty beers can be bought by the bottle or can. "People are more apt to try one beer than a six-pack. We put together a lot of gift baskets, and one of the most frequently requested baskets would be an imported beer basket. That way it gives someone a way to try a lot of different beers."

If you enjoy festive beverages, but don't like to drink alcohol, the Main Street Wine Shoppe has something for you — alcohol-free wines.

These beverages are "actually made as wine, a true wine, and then de-alcoholized using a cold filtration process." Herr-Dempsey stocks champagnes and sparkling wines, as well as non-alcohol beer, ale, and even schnapps.

She offers a recipe: mix peach non-alcohol schnapps with orange juice to make a "fuzzless navel."

Herr-Dempsey thinks that Milford is an excellent location for her business. "There are so many different places in this village and there's so much that so many have to offer. It's like here — we offer personalized service, high quality product and, of course, a specialized product. And the whole town seems to reflect that."

The Main Street Wine Shoppe is open from 9 a.m. to 7 p.m., Monday through Wednesday, 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Thursday through Saturday, and from noon to 5 p.m. on Sunday.

New board elected for Credit Union

Celebrating 32 years of dedicated service to its membership, Community Federal Credit Union held its Annual Meeting, Thursday, March 8. Board President Daniel Herriman presided over the meeting and reviewed the credit union's successful year.

Numerous Community Federal members and staff attended the event which took place at Community Federal's new Northville office at 400 E. Main Street. The meeting served several purposes: it brought together members and staff allowing them to interact and get questions answered; it also officially inducted the new directors to the board.

Five seats on the board were filled with the conclusion of the annual election. Ballots were sent to all eligible members so everyone would have the opportunity to vote. The election resulted in the return of five incumbent candidates: Albert Berrie, John Genitti, Ron Griffith, Kenneth Gruebel and James Roth.

1990 Community Federal Credit Union Board of Directors are: Kay Arnold (business manager-Colonial Collision); Albert Berrie (section head-FAAC Perceptronics); Ron Carlson (teacher-Plymouth Canton High School); John Genitti (owner-Genitti's Hole in the Wall); Ron Griffith (dean-Schoolcraft College); Kenneth Gruebel (minister-Geneva Presbyterian Church); Daniel Herriman (consultant-Herriman-Loiselle); Sharon Phillipen (v.p. of lending-Hospital & Health Services Credit Union); Phyllis Redfern (general manager-Community Crier); Patricia Reese (psychologist-Plymouth-Canton High School); James Roth (owner-Good Time Party Store).

Credit union directors serve on the 11-member board without pay for their respective terms. Their role in the credit union is to provide direction, leadership and a representative voice for the credit union membership.

This was also the night to introduce the 1989 Community Federal Credit Union Annual Report. Pick one up at any Community Federal office. It is full of vital information pertinent to the credit union, including financial statistics and key contact people.

The Community Federal board and staff look forward to another prosperous year. For additional information, call (313) 453-1200.

Landscape pros will create right setting for home

By Marilyn Herald

As with many household chores, there are two approaches to landscaping your yard — do-it-yourself or hire a professional.

There are lots of professionals who are well trained in making aesthetic mounds of dirt in your yard and planting them with attractive flowers and shrubs.

A complete landscaping job by a professional can cost between $20,000 and $50,000, according to Will Gertz, landscape expert with Green Ridge Nursery of South Lyon/Northville.

"We specialize in design and build services where we do everything," Gertz said as he pointed out some beautifully landscaped yards he has completed in the Quail Ridge subdivision off Eight Mile near Meadowbrook in Northville Township.

"We get a lot of requests for using Michigan boulders, about three feet in size. We use quite a few of them and also sandstone from the Jackson County area."

Among other things, Gertz's complete landscaping includes grading, planting a variety of flowering trees and shrubs, creating pebble paths, brick patios, decks and even hot tubs.

Landscape architects agree that to create an attractive setting, there must be a pleasing relationship of the yard to the house. Certain types of home construction call for certain kinds of plantings, while others require a totally different design.

Books on landscaping are plentiful at area libraries, and they provide lots of tips for those who want to design and build their own landscape.

One of the most important tasks is to draw up a plan before you start moving dirt or planting shrubs and trees. You can employ a landscape architect to design the plan and then work on planting it for years if that is your best way to budget. It is also possible to draw up your own plan with the help of reference books.

For the "approach" area of the home, plants should be interesting for all seasons, according to "How to Plan and Plant Your Own Property" by Alice Recknagel Ireys, landscape architect.

For winter, Ireys and Gertz agree that evergreen shrubs and trees provide life and color regardless of the weather. The yard can also offer a pleasing and colorful view all through the spring and summer by selecting shrubs and flowering trees which blossom at various times throughout the growing season.

Outdoor living areas feature decks, pools, terraces, lawn area, play areas and gardens. Trees are of first concern because most of them grow slowly, Ireys points out.

There are many professional couples who as home owners request a lawn that is attractive and requires no mowing. Often rocks and ground cover will help achieve this effect, along with strategically placed flowering trees and shrubs or even wildflowers.

Ireys states in her book, "Rhythm in design is gained by repeating the same plant or group of plants and rhythm gives a sense of movement."

Selecting shrubs and perennials that will do well despite Michigan's cold winters is something home owners should discuss with the landscaper or nursery grower.

For instance, rhododendron, although usually grown further south than Michigan, can do well in this area if properly placed so that the shrub is in a somewhat protected spot.

Gertz said his favorite architectural publications include "Horticulture," "Landscape Architecture Quarterly" and the "Sunset Publications," which has an excellent series focusing on decks and patios. He recommends all of these for persons who want to do some of their own landscape work.

"Since we handle every part of the yard — small scale or large scale — we sometimes draw up plans that aren't completed for years because the homeowner has us come back as he or she has the funds available to continue. We're still working on one yard we started in 1984," Gertz pointed out.

Now is the time of year to get started with architectural plantings if you have a new home and yard, according to Gertz. "Our peak of calls (for lawn planning) occurred just a week or two ago."

Gertz's designs often feature a variety of heights provided by mounds and rocks in the yard and varied planting areas. Some of these may be framed by ledge rock, treated lumber and huge barrel-shaped planters set into a hillside.

He also uses large boulder or ledge rock to provide a retaining wall between yards. "It's more attractive and less expensive than a cement wall," he said pointing out a large boulder wall along a driveway.

Of course, planting can also provide privacy between yards or between the house and the street without having the stiffness of a fence. Trees provide screening and also tend to cut down on street noise.

Formal and informal settings can also be achieved by the arrangement and types of plantings used in yards and gardens.

Ireys recommends four guides to landscaping:

- study the layout of the property as a whole and select plants that have a function as well as fitting into the design;
- study the need for evergreens, deciduous (shedding leaves at end of growing season) masses of varying heights and spreads, and the screening of unsightly views;

- observe the climate and soil of the property; beware of shade, sun and drainage conditions and consider how these will affect the selection of plantings;

• consider the cost of first plantings and of future maintenance. For those holding to a budget, a detailed plan will permit them to work in stages to complete a unified and pleasing design.

Around the House: Designs for Living

Design ideal for two families

By James McAlexander

The Cimarron, with more windows than walls along its backside, is a vacation retreat designed for full appreciation of a beautiful, natural setting. Mountain, ocean or desert views, lake or riverside lots are ideal.

The home's low profile, wood siding and full deck allow it to blend easily into the surrounding vegetation.

Twin identical master suites make this home a natural for ownership by two amiable couples. Bedrooms are big enough so that a small table could be placed by the floor-to-ceiling triple sliding glass doors for sharing intimate meals. Each suite also includes its own full bath with double vanity.

Most of the indoor living will center around the totally informal great room. The whole back wall is windows. Not only do they provide light and a panoramic view, but on balmy days they open wide to bring warm, soft breezes inside.

A fireplace adds warmth and color on cooler days and the ample wood storage next to it makes fire-building a snap.

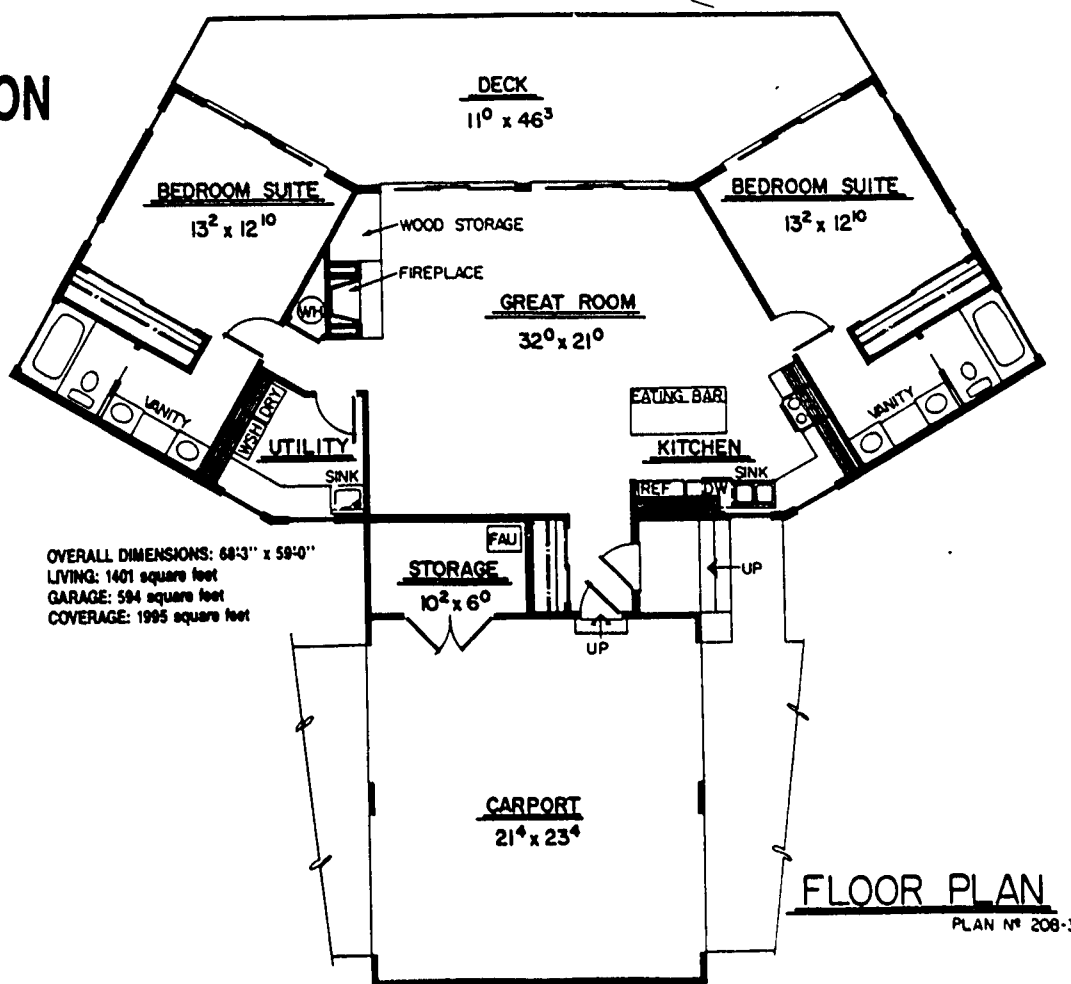

The kitchen, tucked into an odd-angled back corner, is separated by nothing more than a work island, which also serves as an eating bar. All this counter space enables two or three cooks to work together without getting in each other's way. There's also plenty of room for a dining table.

The Cimarron has an indoor utility room and a large outdoor storage area for bikes, skis, rubber rafts and the like. The double carport can be turned into a garage by simply enclosing one wall and putting doors in the other.

For a study plan of the Cimarron (208-31), send $5 to Landmark Designs, P.O. Box 2307 CN, Eugene, OR 97402. (Be sure to specify plan name and number when ordering.)

Changing color of your appliances not difficult

By Gene Gary

Q: What type of resurfacing can be used to change the color of my wall oven from an avocado green to ivory or beige?

The refrigerator is new and the old color is out of place. Please help.—F.J.

There is a relatively simple and effective way to change the color of your wall oven. The procedure is a porcelain re-enameling (refinishing of the oven door). This is a baked-on process and must be done by a professional porcelain enameling firm.

The re-enameling is as durable and long-lasting as the original finish for refrigerators, oven doors, range tops, etc.

I think you will find the price worth the end results, as your oven door will look as new as your new refrigerator exterior.

Q: We will soon be moving into a new home that has navy blue Formica kitchen counters.

Since the interior walls are dark (natural wood) and there is a lot of counter space, we would like to change the color. Can anything be done short of replacing them?—W.W.

A: Paint does not adhere well to Formica, even the newer two-part epoxy paints. And painting is definitely not suitable for countertops.

However, you can often install a second layer of Formica directly over the existing countertop. If you are adept at handling basic carpentry tools this can even be a do-it-yourself project.

Q: We have noticed some crumbling of the mortar between the exterior bricks of our fireplace, particularly near the foundation. I applied a concrete patching material in the area around the base, but this is also showing signs of disintegration.

Is there any way I can stop this process, short of having the brick work repointed.—M.W.

A: Water is a major culprit in brick damage and deterioration. Any openings in either the bonding mortar or the bricks themselves can act as a passageway for water. And if you live in a cold climate, the effects of the freeze/thaw cycle on area where moisture has been trapped causes more severe cracking and chipping.

Repointing and replacement of any damaged bricks is the best solution for protecting your brick from further damage and deterioration.

If the mortar is soft, cracked or missing, or if it is easily broken with a screwdriver, the joint should come out and be repointed. If you have a large area that is in poor condition, you may want to consider having a professional tackle this problem.

In any case it is probably best to have an inspection by a professional and obtain a price quote for repairs. I usually recommend obtaining three estimates and references on the firms considered. However, if you are handy with tools, this can be a do-it-yourself repair job.

You will need a good ballpeen or mason's hammer and a 1/4-inch chisel to remove the old mortar from the joints, unless the brick has very small joints (1/4 to 1/2 inch.) In the case of smaller joints it's best to leave the work to a professional.

Clean the joints in deteriorating areas to a depth of at least a 1/2 inch. Make sure you dig down far enough to remove all the old, crumbled mortar. New cement won't adhere well if the base surface isn't sound.

Flush with water from a garden hose to remove the dirt and dust. This will also dampen the joint before applying the new mortar.

Fill each joint so it's nearly flush with the surrounding brick surfaces. Use a mason's trowel and a professional jointing tool. The filling should be concave, to both seal the joint and make it repel water. You may want to try a small area first, experimenting with color agents in the mortar so that you match as much as possible the existing mortar.

When repairs have been completed, you may want to use a good masonry sealer, such as Thompson's Water Seal, which will provide added protection for your brick work.

Two-step loan concept new to mortgages

By James M. Woodard

The "one-jump, two-step"—it's not a dance, but an important new home mortgage concept.

In fact, it could become the most practical and popular type of home mortgage loan in the 1990s. It's particularly appealing to first-time home buyers or any family who thinks it might be relocating again within seven years.

The loan is basically a hybrid, or combination, of the fixed rate and adjustable-rate mortgage. The interest rate adjusts only once during its entire 30-year term.

In effect, it's a fixed-rate mortgage for the first seven years, then adjusts to a level tied to the 10-year Treasury bond rate. It is then fixed again for the remaining 23 years.

The interest rate can only jump one time in 30 years. In other words, it's a two-step loan. And that can save a bundle for home-buying families.

The original interest rate is about 3/4 of a percent lower than the rate of a traditional 30-year, fixed-rate mortgage, according to the Federal National Mortgage Association (Fannie Mae), the organization that developed the new loan. The minimum down payment is 10 percent of the purchase price.

"It's a mortgage designed for the 1990s," said Roger E. Birk, Fannie Mae's president and chief operating officer. "In this mobile society, home owners move and, therefore, repay their mortgages about every seven years. So today's home buyer wants to pay as little as possible in the initial years, yet have protection from interest rate changes if they do not move again."

Birk said when the interest rate is reset at the end of the seventh year, the homeowner pays no additional fees or other charges often required when loans convert or are refinanced.

Noting that the "two-step" loan will be available from mortgage lending institutions nationwide, Birk said the new mortgage was designed especially for first-time home buyers, military families and those frequently relocated by corporations.

This lower rate will allow approximately 11,000 more home buyers to qualify for an $83,000 mortgage, the average loan amount of mortgages purchased by Fannie Mae in 1989.

About 16 million American families will be moving this year, according to Fannie Mae projections. Many of them can benefit from this new type of mortgage loan.

It will give them a lower interest rate than a fixed-rate loan, and less risk than an adjustable rate loan.

It should be available at banks and savings and loan associations throughout the country this spring. Since it was designed by Fannie Mae, the largest secondary buyer or mortgage loans, you can be sure most primary lenders will offer it.

Q: Is it true that the American chapter of the International Real Estate Federation is being dissolved, or completely reorganized?

A: Not true. However, there have been significant and very positive organizational changes in the U.S. chapter of the International Real Estate Federation, better known by its French acronym, FIABCI—USA.

For many years, the U.S. chapter was an institute of the National Association of Realtors, with its own board of directors and budget. It was recently integrated into activities and programs that are directly under the control of NAR and its committees, according to John T. Howley, vice president of international affairs for NAR.

Norman D. Flynn, NAR president now also serves as FIABCI—USA president. William North, NAR executive vice president, holds the same office with FIABCI—USA.

"We will continue and improve all activities of FIABCI—USA," Flynn said. "We have altered the organizational arrangements to assure that FIABCI matters get proper attention in our new International Operations Committee."

Flynn pointed out the FIABCI educational programs will be expanded and local councils will be strengthened.

"The whole international picture is increasingly important to all of us," he said.

Working together as an integrated team, the new FIABCI—USA setup should result in a more productive and influential organization.

Q: When will those super-high home prices along the California coast collapse?

A: Here's the opinion of Paul Hazen, president of Wells Fargo and Co.: "Continuing population influxes into California should help keep demand for real estate buoyant.

"The health of real estate is correlated with population growth. California has seven of the 10 hottest markets in the United States. It has built one home for every two people, vs. more than one home per person in New England."

"There is an extraordinary amount of foolishness talked about California real estate" (nearing a crisis).

Northville resident Fred Custer washes his own car for "economical reasons" — he lives on a dirt road

Record/CHRIS BOYD

By LESLIE PEREIRA

Whether it is once a week or once a year, sooner or later everyone ends up washing their cars. Especially during the wintery Michigan months which feed off our cars as the road salt takes bigger and bigger bites.

So where to go for a low-cost yet high-quality car wash?

Rick VanBuren of Northville likes a quality wash that he can do himself. So he joins the scores of other people at the nameless do-it-yourself car wash on Northville and Seven Mile roads.

From the road, the anonymous car wash looks like the carport of a run-down apartment complex. But a closer look reveals it is home to hardworking eager-cleaners who take pride in washing their own cars.

"I like to do it myself because I don't trust anyone else," Van Buren said as he spit-shined his reflective black Geo. "Sometimes they knick your car at those drive-through places."

For the four quarters it takes to wash your car at this labor-intensive car wash, Van Buren said the quality can't be beat. And because of the low price, he "tries to give it a bath once a week."

Blain Johnson is another Northville resident that frequents the unmarked car wash.

"I'm not lazy," Johnson said as he pumped 75 cents into the vacuum machine to spiff up his girlfriend's Mustang. "I like to do it myself."

While both Van Buren's and Johnson's attitudes may be admirable, there are many more people without the time or the inclination to get out there with the towels and Turtle Wax.

They are the clean-car-conscious people who go to Mr. Glow, Soft Shine or Novi Auto Wash, never leaving their car as they are conveyed through the rumbling innards of the washing garage in less than two minutes.

The going rate for a drive-through car wash is about $5.

"I don't think it's bad," said Paul Graves outside of the Novi Auto Wash. "They do a decent job here. Whenever I try doing it myself, the water turns off right after I get suds all over my car. It never ends up costing only a buck."

For your $5 you get the basic wash, service with a smile from numerous rag-wielding attendants, the convenience of never leaving your car and visuals more interesting than the special effects

WET & WILD

Undercarriage, white walls, polish and perfume—today's car washes offer more than a wash and a wax.

in a science fiction movie.

And if more than the standard wash is needed, if your car is especially dirty or has special problems, the sky is the limit in what can be done to the car or paid by the driver to have it completely manicured.

Besides speed and convenience, another attractive aspect of drive-through car washes is cleansing the car's undercarriage. This can be difficult at a manual auto wash as you control a pressurized spray gun with limited stretch capacity while battling the clock to get the most suds for your money.

Called the "bottom bath" at Mr. Glow in Northville, it is seemingly more thorough than wiping a baby's bum with a moist towelette.

"Water jets and detergent spray up and clean underneath the car to prevent rust," said Assistant Manager Don Proctor.

But for $9 you can get the "Ultimate Glow" wash at Mr. Glow auto wash.

What could they possibly do to your car beside wash it that would cost $9, you ask? According to informed sources, the ultimate glow includes the basic wash with body bubbles — their secret sudsing formula. Also in this deluxe package is the bottom bath, a buff-n'-glow shining technique, a wheel glow, a rust shield to "seal and protect the undercarriage" and finally, a "glow coat" which is a sealer wax with UV protection.

"I recommend that people get the ultimate wash every day," said Proctor.

Well, while most people probably can't afford the $63 that suggestion would require every week, at least the recommendation seems well-intended.

"It is cheaper to do it yourself but it is really not as good," Proctor said as he described the process by which dirt gets imbedded into the paint job without proper cleaning.

And if you think the ultimate wash sounds amazingly thorough, just wait until "detailing" comes to Mr. Glow. This is the equivalent of the ultimate exterior wash plus an ultimate interior wash, complete with carpet cleaning, upholstery shampooing, overflowing ash tray dumping and air freshening.

The process is so in-depth, cars are almost not recognizable when they are returned to the owners.

Novi Auto Wash offers the same service by appointment only.

Volunteers

Experienced volunteer

By DOROTHY NASH

Getting into a specific kind of volunteering can be a follow-through of professional training and experience, as in the case of Berneita K. Ebert.

Ebert, whose field is clinical social work, is a member of the Northville Area Senior Citizens Advisory Council, which meets monthly at the Senior Citizens Activities Center at Cooke School.

The purpose of the council is to provide assorted opportunities for seniors — such things as social gatherings, health services, income-tax preparation, low-cost workshops, and rates on bus and air trips in and out of the state.

Also, Ebert said, there is low-cost local bus transportation for grocery and mall shopping.

One of the council's foremost concerns right now is finding a new location for the Activity Center because the Northville Board of Education plans to resume classes at Cooke School. This has sent the committee out, scouting and studying various sites.

Ebert began volunteering in 1955 when she moved to Northville and joined the local Business and Professional Women group. Through that organization she became involved with a group discussing promotion of senior citizen activities.

In time this group developed into the Advisory Council, which consists of three city members (Ebert is one), two township members, representatives from Schoolcraft College and Northville Public Schools, and the City Recreation Director and the Senior Citizen Coordinator.

Although Berneita Ebert is now eligible to sit back as a senior citizen and be served, she intends to continue to "make more people aware of the services" available to senior citizens in the Northville area.

Waxing decisions

By LESLIE PEREIRA

All I wanted to do was give my car a little relief by freeing it from the dirt and salt casing it has been wrapped in since December.

But faced with a wall of more than 50 different shapes, sizes, colors and types of various waxes, polishes, and rubbing compounds in the car product department, I decided to neglect it a little longer.

I figured if anyone would know the differences between these guaranteed gloss goops, it would be Eddie Birch, automotive refinisher for MacDonald-Ford in Northville.

"I am a true believer in polishes," Birch said.

Well, that's good enough for me — but for the sake of this article I sat and listened on.

According to Birch, waxes contain silicone and are never completely washed or worn off the car. They simply continue building up, layer upon layer. Like a giant snowball collecting snow as it rolls down the side of a hill.

Well, it seems to me that some of it must wear off or my neighbor, the obsessive waxer, would not be able to fit his car into the garage after all these years and cans of Turtle Wax.

But, Birch extols the virtue of polishes, especially those composed of only natural oils, and he suggests cars be polished at least every two months.

"I think the public is fooled," said Birch. He said consumers are completely inundated with commercials and advertisements praising the healing powers of wax, that the public does not realize there are alternatives.

"You never see an advertisement for polish," he said.

And he's right in my case. I have grown up thinking Turtle Wax was the cure-all for everything from dirty cars and dull floors to hairy legs.

Don Hill, body shop manager at Dick Scott Buick in Plymouth, said he uses "strictly polish."

But that may be because Hill works mainly with new, freshly painted cars where the use of wax may be dangerous.

"On a freshly painted surface, a wax will damage the paint," Hill said. He explained that new paint needs to breathe "just like you and me."

In Our Town

Local lobby group plans meeting

By LESLIE PEREIRA

Northville's low-keyed lobby group, Concerned Residents of Northville, has planned an open informational meeting for Wednesday, April 25, at the City Council Chambers. The meeting is planned to provide a forum where alternative library plans can be aired.

Refreshments will be served and a movie clip will be shown of a parade to celebrate Northville's Centennial on August 26, 1927.

Since the hottest topic around town is the library issue, CRN has scheduled the 8 p.m. session to include two speakers, in addition to its regular agenda.

The speakers are Anne Vargo Manisto, former Northville librarian, and Greg Presley, local architect, who will address the subject from the perspective of wanting to keep the library in the core of the city.

Presley has presented a plan for acquiring and utilizing the historic Ford Valve Plant as both a library and possibly a post office site.

Sketches will also be displayed as an alternative plan to convert the present post office into the library with possibilities for future expansion.

Other agenda items include an update on the proposed Main Centre parking deck; the status of signage for the area's postal drop boxes; and the recently passed Refuse and Recycling Ordinance, which includes "Medical Wastes," a topic CRN has been concerned about.

This meeting will be informative and the parade movie clip is entertaining. All are welcome.

Spring fashion show

The evening will begin with a punch and appetizer social hour at 5:30 p.m., followed by a buffet dinner at 6:30. The event takes place at the Northville High School Cafetorium.

Master of ceremonies for the evening will be Glenna Davis.

The community is invited to attend the Founders' Day celebration. Tickets are $13 and are available in each school office and the Board of Education office.

1990-91 Town Hall tickets on sale

The speaker will be Carol Czechowski, a member of the herb unit who conducts workshops and lectures in the Detroit Metropolitan area. Topics covered will include how to use live and dried herbs, topiaries, herbs to grow for potpourri and the most popular plants for the herb garden. Tickets will be $10. # Private school sign-up begins

OUR LADY OF VICTORY

Registration for the 1990-91 school year was held during the week of April 2-6 for all students in grades 1-8 attending OLV at the present time. Open registration for students not presently attending OLV will begin on April 30, 1990 for students in grades 1-8.

Students are busily engaged in taking the American Testronics Test of Basic Skills and Cognitive Ability Test this week. Scores from this national standardized test will be received before Easter and will benefit program planning for the next academic year.

The Parent-School Survey Questionnaire was returned by 75 percent of the school families and reflects their very positive attitude toward the school, its policies, procedures, programs and staff.

The theme for Lent this year as students prepare for Easter is: "Lent, A Journey to the Resurrection." They gather in community each Friday afternoon in prayer service in church to strengthen their resolve to make this Lent a very special time in their prayer life.

Seventh- and Eighth-graders celebrated Spirit Week from March 12-16 with the whole school joining in on Friday "for the wearin' of the green."

Thanks to Diane Brazunas and her committee of moms: Mrs. Warmoth, Mrs. Zak, Mrs. Eischen, Mrs. Mehta, Mrs. Andersen, Mrs. Mazurie, Mrs. Nay, Mrs. Mazzola, Mrs. Dabkowski, Mrs. Hubert, and Mrs. Welser. Students are able to enjoy board games, the computer lab, or browsing in the library as an alternative to outdoor recess during the cold wet winter months.

Some social activities going on at school during the spring season will be: Grandparents Day and May Crowning, Tuesday, May 1; Mothers' Luncheon, Friday, May 11.

Northville PTA Founders Day Banquet will be on Wednesday, April 25, 5:30 p.m. for appetizers and 6:30 p.m. for dinner at Northville High School Cafeteria. Cost is $13.00 per person. Guest Speaker is Carl Cohen.

First Communion Breakfast is planned for Friday, May 18 to celebrate their reception of the Sacrament of Holy Eucharist. Thanks to first-grade moms: Beti Kempa, Kathy Andersen, Jan Dabkowski, Paula Worniak, Sally Sibilla, Pam Burke, Karen Mazurie, and Debbie Kempa who have volunteered to make this a gala celebration.

ST. PAUL'S EVANGELICAL LUTHERAN SCHOOL

So many exciting events are occurring at St. Paul's Lutheran school at this time — new students, awards, and varied opportunities for learning!

We welcome our new students — Caitlan Allor, Preschool; William Diefenderfer, Grade 2; Daniel Grif, Grade 4; D.J. White, Grade 5; Jamie Green, Grade 7; John Alexander, Grade 8.

In the past few weeks our students have received special awards. Susanne Thomson, Grade 5, had a student editorial published in the Detroit Free Press, March 8, entitled "Read to Your Children." Congratulations, Susanne! Mike Bugar, Grade 6, was the winner of St. Paul's Spelling Bee and represented St. Paul's at the regional bee. Congratulations to Mike!

The following three third grade students also received special awards for their work in Meijer's "Save the Endangered Species" Coloring/Essay Contest. Each of these students, Matthew Nelson, Laura Peters and Matthew Wormer, were given $5 gift certificates. The rest of their class received certificates of participation.

Congratulations to the girls volleyball team for their undefeated season!

On March 8 our students in grades 4 - 8 experienced a professional performance of the ballet "Swan Lake" at the Masonic Auditorium.

On March 25 the Day School Choir and the Teachers' Handbell Choir enjoyed the opportunity to help lead the worship service at the new Novi Lutheran Mission Church.

On April 5, the third grade took a trip to observe first-hand a newspaper being printed and assembled. They have prepared for this trip by studying ahead of time in their classroom about different aspects of newspaper creation.

On April 6, Senator Geake visited the fifth grade class. The class observed more about government functions by visiting the state capitol in Lansing on April 7.

Auditions are currently being held for all types of talent for our talent show to be held May 18. Students may audition for musical acts, comedy, drama, readings, instrumentals, vocals, mime, dance, etc. In addition, all students in grades K-8 will perform an act with their class.

The Action Auction was a huge success! The proceeds reached $6,000. We can't thank enough the individuals and businesses who donated items for the Auction. You made it possible for us! Also, a sincere thank you to the special moms and teachers who donated appetizers for the auction. Part of the proceeds will be used to give us a good start on our playground improvement program.

We are pleased to once again offer to the community the opportunity to visit our school during an open house to be held May 9. Visitors will be invited to chapel at 9:10. Tours will be held throughout the day from 9:45 a.m. - 3:15 p.m. See why we love our school! Call 349-3146 for more information.

'The Last Frontier'

Alaska's natural wonders provide rare opportunities

By LeAnne Rogers

Alaska's license plates call the state "The Last Frontier" and to a large extent they aren't kidding.

The expansive size and hollowness of the landscape, even in southern Alaska, must be seen to be appreciated. It's a place where outdoor activity — hiking, fishing, hunting, skiing or white water rafting — is mandatory.

When not covered with snow, much of southern Alaska is green and bright due to its heavy amounts of precipitation, both rain and snow. On sunny days, the sky and atmosphere is sparkling clean.

Outside of the lights of Anchorage, you discover what darkness truly is. On clear nights, the Northern Lights create patterns across the sky and you can almost read under the brightness of the North Star. It's impressive to visitors, but Alaskans say you have to travel much farther north to get the full effect of the aurora borealis.

South of Anchorage, the state's largest city with a population of more than 200,000, is the town of Girdwood with approximately 900 residents.

On the way to Girdwood, in a valley of the Chugach Mountains and surrounded by the Chugach National Forest, you'll see both the attractions and the drawbacks to living on the frontier during winters with 100-inch snowfalls.

Spectacular views of the inlet and the Girdwood Valley can be enjoyed by hiking more than 2,000 feet up Mount Alyeska. Or you can take the easier route and ride the Alyeska resort ski lift to the top.

Jewelry and other gift items made from jade, Alaska ivory and other semi-precious native stones are offered at many shops including the Kobuk Valley Jade Company, adjoining the Alyeska resort.

The resort is used heavily for skiing during the winter months and as a regular stop by bus tour groups during the summer.

Girdwood also features a four-star restaurant, the Double Musky Inn, which has Cajun-style cuisine. The decor is rough wooden with Mardi

The Mount Alyeska ski lift brings visitors 2,000 feet up the mountain to The Round House resting spot

Gras bead decorations and prime steaks cut in portions of 14 to 20 ounces.

The self-described roadhouse, favorably written up in Esquire and Bon Appetit magazines, is owned and operated by Bob Persons, a transplanted southerner and third cousin of Truman Capote.

Despite the vast expanses of land, or perhaps because of them, most homes seem clustered on tiny lots. Outside of Anchorage, you won't see homes with lawns although most have decks and extensive windows. The most common homes outside Anchorage are chalet type A-frames built over crawl spaces.

Seward Highway, the only road south from Anchorage, winds between the base of mountain cliffs and the Turnagain Arm of Cook Inlet. Across the expanse of slate colored water, are more green and black mountains on the Kenai Peninsula.

Further south along Seward Highway is Portage Glacier with its adjoining lake and the Begich Boggs Visitor Center. Icebergs float in the lake and during summer months, there are cruises on the lake for close-up views of the glacier.

The lake was formed in 1914 when the glacier started to retreat. Portage takes its name from its use, along with Burns Glacier, as a portage by Tanaina Indians, Chugach Eskimos and Russian fur traders traveling between Cook Inlet and Prince William Sound.

Extensive glaciers are found further south on the Kenai Peninsula near Seward. The most accessible is Exit Glacier which you can walk up to by following roughly a mile-long paved path and hilly trails.

Most of the forests and parks have restrictions and rules for where you can walk or what activities are permitted. Since rangers are nowhere to be seen, it's sort of the honor system and most people refrain from littering and other offenses.

You can hear torrents of water rushing from the glacier, which moves about 8-inches a day, creating a shallow white water stream. Moose can be seen crossing the access road into the woods.

Along the highway, motorists can stop at intermittent viewing spots, including Beluga Point for whale watching.

Boats aren't usually seen on Turnagain Arm, nor are swimmers since the water doesn't get above 37 degrees even in summer. Some hardy souls do take advantage of strong winds by windsurfing, encased in wetsuits.

Even in summer, Alaska's terrain demands respect and has no mercy to the careless. Warm weather offers a special danger in the upper arms of Cook Inlet at low tide when the mud flats are exposed. People often use low tide as a time to walk out into the inlet.

Alaskans seem to take it in stride, but flatlanders may be taken by rock slide warning signs and permanently installed gates used to close the highway during avalanches.

When the inlet tide is out, exposing the gray mudflats, eagles can be seen swooping in low, looking for dinner. When the tide is high, schools of white Beluga whales can be spotted arching through the icy waters.

Resorts and tourist stops along the inlet have posted warnings about the danger presented by the mud flats since July 1988, when an 18-year-old woman became stuck in the mud, and after rescue attempts failed, drowned when the tide came back in. The state trooper stationed at Girdwood for the past five years, Mike Opalka, reports an average of three mud rescues annually.

The mud is an estimated 900-feet deep, made of silt that locks around feet and pulls the person deeper the more they struggle. The settling mud hardens and water or air must be pumped around the victim to break the suction. Rescue efforts can further be hampered by the extremely cold water temperature, a tide which can flow in at as much as 10 feet per second and emergency rescue units that come from miles away.

North of Anchorage, towns like Wasilla and Palmer are in Alaska's farm belt, settled by homesteaders during the 1930s and 1940s. Palmer is host to the annual Alaskan State Fair. The summer months, with their almost total daylight, result in tremendous produce growth, a highlight of the fair. Cabbages or pumpkins exceeding 160 pounds are common, with vegetables growing as much as a pound per day.

Other attractions seemed to be the standard state fair attractions — carnival rides, midway games and junk food.

As for the entertainment, check out Little Mickey and the Mustangs with the Belar Horns, advertised as "Alaska's Only Nine-Piece Costumed Show Band." The band, which uses the Flintstone's theme for segue music, has had a regular gig at an Anchorage club for the last couple years.

Two lessons about spending time in Alaska, dress casually with comfortable walking shoes and bring plenty of Dramamine for long drives on twisting mountain roads.

Seeing nature on wildflower walks

Park is full of flowers

By ANNE WILLIS

Take a walk on the wild side. Wildflower side, that is. Although the weather hasn't been completely cooperative in the last few days, believe it or not — spring is here. And spring means it is time for a Schoolcraft tradition, the annual wildflower tours of Livonia's Bicentennial Park.

This is the 13th year that Schoolcraft College's Biology Department has sponsored a guided walk through one of the area's last remaining wildflower refuges. Bicentennial Park, located on Seven Mile Road between Newburgh and Farmington roads, has the necessary protected environment for wildflowers to grow.

Now all that's needed is a bit of warm air, according to Professor Roger Sutherland, of Schoolcraft College.

Sutherland is coordinating the walks this year. The annual events are open to the public and there is no charge. They run through May 25. The tours, which last 45 minutes and cover approximately half a mile, are conducted by faculty members and persons who have completed a wildflower class at Schoolcraft. Bicentennial Park nature trails feature more than 35 different species of wildflowers which are expected to be at their peak of beauty and color during the period of the walks.

While the recent spate of cold air has stopped some flowers from popping up, Sutherland said the first whiff of warm air should get the process blooming all over again.

"Early spring flowers may have been delayed a little, but if there is some warm air in the next two to three days then they could all come out together. Instead of having a few emerge gradually, we could have them all converge at once," Sutherland said.

Visitors can expect to see quite an assortment of flowers, the professor noted. Skunk cabbage has already flowered, spring beauties, Dutchman's breeches, squirrel corn, some violets, harbingers of spring — and many more varieties, will all be explained and shown to hikers.

The delicate flowers sprout during the time when warming temperatures and spring rains thaw the ground, Sutherland said. They must crowd their life cycles into a very short period of time, he noted. Wildflowers bloom before the leaves fill in on trees.

Walkers who take advantage of the wildflower tours range in age from Brownie scouts, to senior citizens, Sutherland said. There are wildflower novices and those who are very serious about the identification of flowers, he said.

Interested walkers should call Professor Roger Sutherland at 462-4400, ext. 5244 to make an appointment for a walk. Individuals and groups such as scouts, garden clubs, retirees, churches or any organizations are welcome.

Record/CHRIS BOYD

Wildflowers are springing up all over and can be seen along the paths of nature walks.

Searching for stars at the local club

Did you ever want to sing in front of a live night club audience? Maybe even on TV? Or are you afraid you may stumble and forget the words? Well, you don't have to worry anymore.

Every Sunday evening beginning at 8:30 p.m., Whispers Lounge in the Novi Hilton, with the aid of a new laser-vision disc-player invention, TV monitor and "key controller," which automatically sets the key of the music to the singer's voice, is making the opportunity available to all would-be performers.

Each Sunday, performers will compete before a live audience and a talent agent who will decide nightly winners. Winners will be awarded dinner for two in the Swan restaurant and will be allowed to compete in the grand sing-off.

The grand prize winner will have a video tape of their performance sent to Ed McMahon's "Star Search" program. For more information, call 349-4000.

Wildcats run over Northville track squads

Girls fall to Novi in opener

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN

Neither rain, nor sleet, nor snow could prevent the Novi and Northville girls trackers from competing in a non-conference dual meet on April 5. It was the season opener for both.

The weather was about the only thing that held back the Wildcats as they dumped the Mustangs 83-45 by taking 12 of 16 first-place finishes. A year ago, Novi squeaked out a 64-63 win against Northville, but this time around, it wasn't as close.

"I was very pleased with our team," Wildcat Coach Connie Ahrens said. "Last year we barely won and I thought it would be close like that. The girls are doing fantastic, and that's saying something in this kind of weather."

"We had everything — rain, sleet, snow and even sun."

The battle in the field events was very interesting, however. Novi swept the top three places in the discus with Lisa Munro (84'-10"), Ginny Jeffress (74'-8") and Danielle Mickelson (73'-1"), but Northville came back to return the favor in the high jump, with Julie Buser (4'-6"), Ris Fleming (4'-6") and Lisa Aimone (4'-4").

In the shot put, Mari Kissenger grabbed first place (24'7½") but Novi's Patti Corbin (24'-6") and Tanya Franks (23'-3½") were second and third. And in the long jump, Bria Powers took the honors for the 'Cats (13'-1") but Valerie Bassin (12'-8") and Kamal Bagga (12'-7") followed for the Mustangs.

Heading into the running events, the score was tied 18-18.

"I was very happy because we know we can hold our own from that point on," Ahrens pointed out. "Getting the sweep in the discus was neat because it was the first time we've done that in any event since I've been here."

"We came out of the field events in good shape and we swept the high jump, so there were some bright spots," Northville Coach Ann Turnbull said.

Three of the four relay victories went to Novi in the two mile event, Franks, Jeanie Galland, Cherie Stewart and Lisa Heath combined for the win (11:24.8). Corbin, Powers, Becky Waach and Heather Humphrey took the honors in the 800-meter relay (2:00.8) and the team of Corbin, Angel Konarske, Helen Cotnam and Humphrey were victorious in the 400 relay (58.8). Northville's triumph came in the mile relay (5:05.05) with Bagga, Angie Tune, Megan Holmberg, and Kendra Huard.

Konarske swept first place in both hurdle events. She won the 110 highs in 16.9 and the 300 lows in 51.7. Corbin was second in the lows (13.74) and Fleming was third (18.5). Fleming came back to take second in the highs (53.31) and Tune was third (56.71).

The Wildcats really gained a lot of ground in the distance events. Galland cruised to the win in the two mile (12:46.4) and Stewart was the runner-up (12:54.4). Lisa Brown chipped in a third for Northville (14:06.31). In the mile, Heath was first (6:08.1), JeWon Hwang was second (6:22.5) and Mustang senior Kristen Woodsum in third (6:23.96).

"I was a little disappointed in our performance in the distance events," Turnbull admitted.

In the sprints, Humphrey won the 100 (13.72) and the 200 (29.88), and Corbin was second in the 100 (13.74) for Novi. Trish Lukomski was second in the 200 (30.08) and third in the 100 (14.21) for Northville. Bagga added a third (31.02).

Huard provided the Mustangs with another win in the 400 (68.29), but Franks was second (1:12.00). In the 800, Heath took first (2:46.7), Holmberg was second (2:56.55) and Cheryl Mittman (2:58.9) third.

Northville's meet with Walled Lake Central was postponed due to bad weather and has been rescheduled for April 24. The squad will try to get that first victory on April 11 (after Record deadline) against North Farmington.

Novi's opener with Lakeland was also postponed — to April 11 — but a half-dozen key performers like Konarske and Munro will be out of town for Easter vacation and unable to compete.

"We'll still try to give Lakeland a battle but we know we'd have a much better chance if we were at full strength," Ahrens said.

Novi runs home with 75-62 victory in tow

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN

It's a lot easier to convince your team to run two miles immediately after a track meet if you were victorious in the competition.

Following Novi's 75-62 triumph over host Northville on April 5, Wildcat Coach Bob Smith, his coaching staff and all 45 of his performers were spotted running north on Taft Road back to Novi High School. An empty bus also made the trek.

"This is a good group of kids who are willing to put in the work," Smith said. "It was critical for us to get off to a good start this season. The kids now know they are a pretty good team if you are comparing us to the average team. That may not show up in the Kensington Valley Conference standings, so it's important that we got off to a good start against a non-conference opponent."

It was the season opener for both squads, and it was staged on a cold, blustery day better suited for skiing or skating.

The Wildcats managed to win nine of the 17 events, including three of four in the relays. The winning two-mile relay team included Brian Murphy, John Crawford, Rob Herman and Brian Molloy (9:12.97); Shawn Barthlow, Tom Hunsberger, Joe Taylor and Ken Fenchel combined to win the 800-meter relay (1:40.0); and Barthlow, Greg Larson, Taylor and Fenchel teamed to win the 400-meter event (48.1). For Northville, Rob Subotich, Dave Borg, Mark Hilfinger and Neil White took the honors in the mile relay (3:58.0).

"Probably the biggest turnaround came in the 800 relay," Mustang Coach Dennis Faletti said. "We were way ahead and we dropped the baton. That was a 10-point swing right there."

Novi also cleaned up in the 800-meter run. Joe Whitney was first (2:16.7), Murphy was second (2:16) and Crawford third (2:18.97). In the 400, Subotich was first (56.1) and Hilfinger was second (56.2). Ted Warthman prevented the sweep by taking third for Novi (58.38).

In the distance events, Northville would have been in trouble without sophomore Steve Coon as he won the two mile (10:35.0) and was second in the mile (4:54.0). Molloy led Novi with a first in the mile (4:51.95), Herman was third in the mile (5:02.0) and second in the two mile (10:41.6), and Chris Gannon was third in the two mile (11:22.03).

Fenchel dominated the sprint event by taking a pair of firsts in the 100 (11.72) and 200 (24.92). Larson was second in the 200 (25.1) and Northville's Bill Kelley was third (25.1). In the 100, Matt Hemp (second in 11.8) and Noel Koworin (third in 11.9) also scored points for the host team.

A highlight for the Mustangs was Bret Butz' performance in both hurdle events. He took first in the 300 intermediate race (46.7) and the 110 highs (17.3), while teammate Brandon Hayes was second in the 300 (46.7). For Novi, Taylor was second (19.0) and Andy Beal third (19.3) in the highs, and Taylor was third (47.48) in the lows.

As for the field events, Korowin took first in the long jump (18'-5½") and Jamie Miller was second (18'-4¾"). Novi's Barthlow was third (16'-10¼"). Chris Lehr added a first in the long jump (5'-10"), while Kris Krueger (5'-9") and Max Schwartz (5'-8") followed.

Randy Thompson won the shot put (41'-11") for the 'Cats but Northville's Kevin Gill (37'-4") and Rob Holloway (36'-6") followed — but in the discus, Gill was the winner (101'-1"). Novi's Scott MacKercher (100'-9") and Matt Koned (100'-4") were second and third respectively.

With Greg Larson (10'-0") and Rob Fileta (10'-0"), the Wildcats took the top two spots in the pole vault. Aaron Wiseley was third (9'-6").

"I'm always disappointed when we lose, but I used this meet as an opportunity to see what I have," Faletti said. "We have a lot of new kids and we went into the meet blind."

Kickers dump Grand Blanc, 2-0

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN

A 3-0 start — including a win over last season's eighth-ranked squad — has vaulted the Northville soccer squad toward the pinnacle of the Michigan Soccer Coaches Association Class A ratings.

Convincing victories over Livonia Ladywood and Grand Blanc last week — combined with Troy Athens' loss to Livonia Churchill — should have been enough to put the talented Mustangs, and coach Bob Paul, on top.

But it didn't. Churchill is the new number one, with Northville a close second.

In three games against formidable opponents, Northville has a 15-2 scoring advantage, including a most impressive shutout on April 6 against visitors from Grand Blanc. The Bobcats ended the '89 campaign ranked eighth, but never could mount much of an offensive attack against the Class A runner-ups, and ultimately fell 2-0.

"It was a real good game for us," Paul said. "I thought the girls — in the first half — played the best high school soccer I've seen them play."

Weather during the first half of play was very cold, but it wasn't until the second half that the match was marred by snow squalls. As you might expect, the level of play took a turn for the worse when the weather worsened.

Midway through the first half, Northville's Ashley MacLean broke a scoreless tie with her fifth goal of the young season. She drove a shot from 30 yards out that, according to Paul "was still rising when it hit the back of the net." He called the unassisted tally "a beauty."

The half ended 1-0, but Paul was extremely pleased with what he saw.

"The score doesn't indicate how well we played," he said. "We whistled quite a few shots by the post, and (Grand Blanc's) goalie played well. But I'm sure it was intimidating the way we were dominating the play."

"In the second half we fell back to play undisciplined soccer. We left our game plan."

About 10 minutes into the second half, newcomer Nikki Higdon notched her third goal in three games to provide a little insurance. With her back to the goalie, Higdon took a crossing pass from MacLean about three yards in front of the goal and redirected it into the net.

"For the most part, we controlled the play in the second half but it was sloppy," Paul said. "The girls weren't working as hard and that's something we worry about."

Despite the breakdowns, the Mustang defense was solid. Goalkeeper Kristi Turner notched her first shutout of the season, but she only faced six shots on goal. The Bobcat netminder faced 16.

"Our defense was outstanding," Paul said. "(Defender) Neysa Colizzi shut down their big offensive threat."

NORTHVILLE 7, LADYWOOD 1: The Mustangs edged the Blazers 3-1 last season in district action, but the rematch on April 4 wasn't nearly as competitive.

2nd-ranked Mustangs tie Stevenson

The best team doesn't always win.

The Northville kickers dominated the play on April 9 — especially in the second half — against powerful Livonia Stevenson, but had to settle for a scoreless tie. Details of this match will appear in the April 19 issue of the Northville Record.

Livonia Churchill sits atop the Michigan Soccer Coaches Association Class A rating, released on April 11. The rest of the top 10 includes: 2. Northville; 3. Farmington; 4. Troy Athens; 5. Plymouth Salem; 6. Farmington Hills Mercy; 7. Birmingham; 8. Troy; 9. Plymouth Canton; 10. Stevenson.

No surprise: Northville netters clobber Novi, 6-1

In the annual spring meeting between the Northville and Novi tennis squads, there were few surprises.

The superior Mustangs won in convincing fashion, 6-1, on April 6, but the Wildcats exhibited some bright spots. It was pretty much the same story it seems to be every year.

"The only thing that was surprising was that the tennis was a good as it was, considering the weather," Northville Coach Dick Norton said. "Through all the cold and snow, we somehow got the meet in. It's about the worst weather I can ever recall for such an extended period at this time of the season."

Novi Coach Jim Newbold was unavailable for comment.

The best match of the day was actually the only three-setter, and it came at the No. 2 singles slot. Novi's Zubin Antia staged a come-from-behind 6-4, 1-6, 6-3 triumph over Jason Baker to provide the 'Cats with their only win. Baker was up 3-0 in the third set, but Antia stormed back to take six straight games and the match.

"That was a match we probably should have won," Norton said.

"Baker looked like he was in control and then he stalled out."

The debut of super-frosh Mark Schwagle was very encouraging to Norton as he clobbered Paulo Saranga 6-0, 6-0 at No. 1.

"(Mark) was very businesslike and he played well," he said.

At No. 3, Brad Telepo disposed of Matt Butler 6-1, 6-3, and at No. 4, Brit Davis downed Miles Kelman 6-2, 6-0.

Ironically, doubles was the biggest area of concern for the Mustangs heading into the '90 season, but all three Northville teams rolled over the Wildcats in straight sets. At No. 1, Kyle Legel and Andy Haas turned back Andy Anderson and Tim Robb 6-3, 6-1; at No. 2, Brent Garner and Nick Watanabe beat Chris Kuzak and Jason Babcock 6-2, 6-3; and at No. 3, Jeff Lower and Erik Black slipped past Mark Sicks and Brendan Sica 7-6 (7-1), 6-1.

"I thought we'd be able to win, but we did go in with a lot of question marks," Norton admitted. "We did pretty well. It was pleasing that all the doubles teams were able to come through in their first matches of the season."

Record/CHRIS BOYD

Andy Haas — in doubles action against the Wildcats — powered his No. 1 squad to a 6-3, 6-1 victory

Mustangs of the Week

NIKKI HIGDON

Newcomer Nikki Higdon hasn't wasted any time proving she is a valuable addition to the Northville soccer program. The junior transfer student from Muskegon already has three goals in three games for the squad, and we think "Mustang of the Week" honors are in order. Higdon scored an important goal against Livonia Ladywood last week after the Blazers had narrowed the gap to 2-1. She followed it up with an incredible tally versus Grand Blanc where she redirected a pass into the net with her back to the goal. Northville Coach Bob Paul called her "one of the top players in the state."

MARK SCHWAGLE

Freshman tennis player Mark Schwagle enters his first season with high expectations, and if his season-opening performance against Novi is any indication, those hopes are justified. The Mustangs dumped the 'Cats 6-1 and Schwagle contributed with an impressive 6-0, 6-0 clobbering of Paulo Saranga. That's why he has been named a "Mustang of the Week." Schwagle comes to the Northville program with a solid background in the sport — including a No. 1 age-group ranking as a competitor in a five-state area several years ago. "(Mark) was very business-like and he played well," Mustang Coach Dick Norton said.

RECREATION BRIEFS

STATE HOOP TOURNEY: Two Northville Recreation league basketball teams travelled to Flint on March 31 to participate in the Michigan Recreation and Park Association Basketball Tournament.

Participating in the Class D (18 and under) league were the Northville Huskies, coached by Dick Cutchins. Team members include: Bredan Haldane, Scott Hardin, Mike Hartman, Jeff Hartman, Ruben Henderson, Todd Nelson, Brian Scholz and Mike Smith. The Huskies were defeated in the first round of play by the Saginaw Township Lengers, 72-63. Henderson scored 23 points and Haldane added 20 for the Huskies.

Also participating in the D category were the Northville Bears, coached by Jim Ottinger. The team members included: Tom Engelsman, Paul Hodgins, Keith Jacobsen, James Jenkins, John McNeil, Rick Pierman, Jeff Shattuck and John Whelan. The Bears were defeated in the first round by Independence Township Kosher Hogs 50-43. Jenkins scored 20 points for the locals.

Northville trounces Ladywood

"Every game we play, we are getting better at running our system," Paul explained. "This game started out close but we showed a lot of composure in the tough playing conditions."

Again, cold temperatures and fierce winds created extra problems for the players on the field. But as Paul pointed out, bad weather has a way of evening out teams that are not the same caliber.

Junior forward Karen Cavanaugh was a key offensive figure in the first half, as she had a hand in two Mustangs goals. Despite playing into a stiff head wind, Cavanaugh scored the game's first goal at the 20-minute mark off a pass from Amy Goode. Ten minutes later, Cavanaugh delivered a pass to Cindy Tolstedt and her tally made it 2-0 at the intermission.

Ladywood scored its only goal of the game early in the second half, making it 2-1, but Northville reeled off two quick scores in the next 10 minutes to regain control. Higdon took a pass from Goode and directed it into the net for the first, and a couple minutes later she fed Marcie Dart and her tally made it 4-1.

"Once we got the two-goal lead back, I think (Ladywood) realized they were beat," Paul said.

From that point on, it was total domination for the locals. First MacLean scored an unassisted goal, then Dart notched her second on an assist from Colizzi to make it 6-1. Finally, Merilyn Millgard wrapped it up with a goal on a penalty kick late in the game.

"Merilyn's goal kind of reminded everyone of the semifinal game against Kalamazoo Central last year where she scored the game-winner," Paul recalled.

For the game, the Mustangs outshot the Blazers 18-3. Turner started in goal but reserve Kelly Kronberg came on five minutes into the second half.

Record/CHRIS BOYD

Junior Midfielder Marcie Dart (10) scored twice in a win over Livonia Ladywood last week

Baseballers get surprise nine-day layoff

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN

The Northville baseballers received a surprise nine-day layoff last week due to the inclement weather, but their counterparts in Novi are in an even more difficult situation. Unlike almost every squad in the area, the Wildcats have yet to start the season.

"We're chomping at the bit to play," said first-year Novi Coach Brian Howard. "I don't know who is more anxious to play, me or the kids."

The 'Cats were scheduled to open the season on April 3 against Northville, but that game was postponed to April 10. Then, three days later, Novi's home opener with Kensington Valley Conference foe Lakeland was also canceled. According to Howard, the make-up date has yet to be determined.

"Our J.V. team went to Lakeland to play but our field was under water," he said. "And the ironic thing was that it wasn't just standing water — it was frozen water."

"It's been a strange time of the year."

The new Novi home opener (weather pending) was on April 11 versus Howell.

"I hear it's a rebuilding year over at Howell, but I know how good their coach is and their program is. They may not be great, but they'll be good."

"We are behind almost everybody because we haven't had an opportunity to play in a real game yet. We would have liked to play at least one non-conference game before we start the KVC season, but that's not going to happen. It's frustrating, but you can't do anything when mother nature says wait."

The new 24-game format for KVC baseball puts a premium on pitching this season. But with the rain-outs, the crunch will be even more severe later this season. Obviously, Howard is concerned, but he likes his pitching staff.

"I'll have to milk the most I can out of the pitchers without hurting anybody's arm," he said. "We have some pitchers I can count on and we seem to have some nice depth. There is five or six kids who will pitch a great deal for us — guys like Mark Van Ameyde, Brad Lewis, Mike Molloy, Darnel Krause, Matt Kobe and Bob Bates.

"I do foresee when we will probably have seven or eight games in a one-week span. I'll have to get a couple innings out of guys who don't normally pitch and hope for the best. Maybe we can win a few 17-15 games because many of our opponents will be in the same situation."

If it wasn't for an early-season addition to the schedule, the Mustangs would be in an identical quandary. Northville was originally supposed to open the season against Novi but a doubleheader with Redford Union on March 31 was added.

Coach Bob Frellick's squad played that twinbill — and beat the Panthers in the opener before losing the nightcap — but haven't played since. An April 5 clash with Western Lakes league opponent Livonia Stevenson, as well as a non-conference doubleheader with Southfield Lathrup last Saturday, were postponed. As of Sunday, neither had been rescheduled.

Just like in the KVC, the pitching situation in the WLAA will probably be the difference between the contenders and the have nots. And like Howard, Frellick likes his team's depth in that area.

"I think our depth will help us out when we have to make up all these games," he said. "I don't know how many teams played (last week), but I would guess not many. So pitching will tell the story with all these rain-outs . . . or should I call them 'snow-outs'?"

"We've gotten in a lot of practice time, so even though we aren't playing much, we are getting some things done. Last Thursday was the only day last week we couldn't get outside and at least practice."

The Northville softballers also had their entire slate wiped out last week. Coach Bob Gerlach's squad will need to make up games with Novi and Livonia Stevenson.

League Line

BASKETBALL: Hawkeyes go 10-0

The Hawkeyes went 10-0 during the 1990 season

BOYS 4th-5th GRADE BASKETBALL: The Hawkeyes of the Northville Recreation Youth League wrapped up a stellar season with a 45-18 win over the Buckeyes in late March. It was the squad's 10th straight win. The undefeated season was highlighted by great team defense. The team is coached by Bob Baker and Cy Howe and includes Tony Clemens, Robbie Beier, Todd Smith, Andrew Dow, Jim Clemens, Tony Clemens, Matt Sweet, Mike Bergstrom, Ryan Howe, Ross Baker and Joe Willey.

Local swimmers perform at state meet

A member of the Cohen family notching a state title certainly isn't anything new.

Novi senior Steve Cohen won the 15-18 boys 1,650-yard freestyle crown at the USS-Michigan Short Course Swimming Championships on March 16-18. He is the younger brother of former Novi great and current Michigan State star Jon Cohen.

Cohen's winning time of 16:29.56 established a new pool record at the Phillip Gannon Pool at Lansing Community College, and was a lifetime best. He competes for the Bulldog Aquatic Club. The meet was hosted by the Capital Area Swim League and attended by swimmers from 38 various clubs across the state.

Cohen also took high-point runner-up honors by adding a third in the 1,000 freestyle (9:56.63), a third in the 400 IM (4:20.14), another third in the 500 freestyle (4:49.3), and fourth in the 200 butterfly (1:59.55) and an eighth in the 200 freestyle (1:48.34). All five of the above events took place at the Charles McCaffree Pool at Michigan State, and four of the five (with the exception of the 500 freestyle) were personal best times.

OTHER RESULTS: Other local swimmers also performed well.

In the girls 13-14 age group, Northville's Erica Anderson was seventh in both the 1,600 freestyle and the 1,000 freestyle; and Jenny Little was 10th in the 100 backstroke and 12th in the 50 freestyle.

In the girls 15-18 age group, former Northville and current Brighton star Kristin Storm was second in the 50 freestyle, fifth in the 100 freestyle, eighth in the 100 breaststroke and 10th in the 200 IM.

In the boys 13-14 category, Northville's Jim Fee was second in the 100 butterfly, fourth in the 50 freestyle, fourth in the 200 freestyle and fourth in the 200 butterfly; Novi's Matt Mutch was ninth in the 200 butterfly and 10th in the 1,650 freestyle; and Novi's Mike Speerschneider was seventh in the 1,650 freestyle. In addition, the 800 freestyle relay team — featuring Fee, Mutch, Speerschneider and David Wesley — placed fifth.

In the boys 15-18 age group, Novi's Derek Speerschneider was seventh in the 200 backstroke, eighth in the 200 IM, 11th in the 400 IM, 12th in the 100 backstroke and 12th in the 200 butterfly; Aaron Rieder was second in the 200 IM, fourth in the 400 IM, sixth in the 200 backstroke, eighth in the 200 butterfly, eighth in the 1,000 freestyle and 11th in the 100 backstroke; and Troy Shumate was third in the 200 freestyle, fourth in the 1,000 freestyle, fourth in the 1,650 freestyle and fourth in the 100 butterfly. The 800 freestyle relay team, including Cohen, Rieder, Shumate and Derek Speerschneider placed fifth, and the 400 medley relay squad (with Derek Speerschneider, Matt Hanna, Rieder and Cohen) placed seventh.

The Best Tires In The World Have Goodyear Written All Over Them

KRON, Ohio — Quality is a word that is too often overused. Quality, at The Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company however, is more than a word; quality is a rallying cry, a necessity, a requirement that every tire produced by this world giant is to meet.

Quality is the cornerstone of Goodyear — the largest tire company that is American-owned. Quality at Goodyear begins with the Technical Center in Akron, Ohio, home of Goodyear's impressive World Headquarters. The "Tech" Center is the tire industry's largest research and development operation in the world. It is also where the all-season tire was introduced to the world, and where the first radial was developed for American use.

Goodyear Technical Center engineers are proud of their development of the Goodyear Eagle line of high performance tires. These tires have created a string of victories in national and international racing, untouched in recent years by any other competitor in the world. The knowledge gained from these wins has been translated into the development of a complete family of Goodyear Eagle passenger tires, the full line of Goodyear passenger and light truck tires — the largest in the world.

Goodyear Quality. You'll find it in the tires produced by Goodyear, and in everything that works for Goodyear, including your neighbors at your nearby Goodyear Auto Service Center or independent Goodyear dealer.

HYDROSEEDING

THE ULTIMATE LAWN

ONE OF THE MOST OFTEN ASKED QUESTIONS- WHAT IS HYDROSEEDING?

HYDROSEEDING IS A PROVEN METHOD FOR PRODUCING A BEAUTIFUL LAWN IN A FEW SHORT WEEKS. WITH PROPER TEMPERATURES AND FOLLOWING THE WATERING INSTRUCTIONS WE PROVIDE YOU CAN EXPECT THE GRASS TO GERMINATE IN A FEW SHORT DAYS AND BE READY FOR MOWING IN 2 TO 3 WEEKS.

HYDROSEEDING IS THE PROCESS WHERE A MIXTURE OF SEED, FERTILIZER, WATER, AND MULCH IS MIXED TOGETHER IN A SPECIALIZED TANK AND THEN APPLIED (SPRAYED) ON A PREPARED SOIL SURFACE.

JACKSON LANDSCAPE guarantees that your lawn will be prepared and installed according to the specifications given using the highest quality materials and installation standards. We also guarantee that within 60 Days your Hydroseeded lawn will be something we can both be proud of as long as the watering and maintenance instructions are followed completely.
