Hope springs eternal

The Northville Area Senior Citizens are sponsoring two men's softball leagues this year, and practices are in session for players. Above, Carl Baxter stabs at a ground ball as the two teams, one for ages 55-65 and one for players 65 and over, practice at Fish Hatchery Park. Whether a Little League first timer or a veteran player, each season begins with a winning record.

Suspect denies kidnap charge

By MIKE TYREE
Staff Writer

Township police will present findings of an alleged April 15 kidnapping to the Wayne County prosecutor Friday, but a man reportedly involved in the abduction has denied that a crime occurred.

Doug Allor, of Utica, the maternal grandfather of 1-year-old Brittany Roberts, said Monday that his son-in-law fabricated a story about the child being abducted at gunpoint Easter Sunday.

"There was no weapon," Allor said. "He has a habit of exaggerating." Attempts to contact Christopher Roberts for comment on his father-in-law's allegations were unsuccessful by press time.

Allor said Christopher Roberts handed the baby over to one of two men that accompanied him to the Northville Township home of Roberts' aunt at approximately 9:30 p.m. April 15.

He said Roberts did so willingly, and without coercion.

"We were there to serve show-cause (custody) papers," Allor said. "He handed the baby over and the papers were delivered. I never even left the car."

Allor would not identify the two men who accompanied him that evening, but he called reports of threats with guns "absolutely false." "It's not in me. I wouldn't allow it to happen," he said. "He's always coming up with some wild story."

Roberts told police that he, Britany, and his aunt, Anita Lisowski, were leaving Lisowski's condominium in the Northridge Apartment complex off Seven Mile Road the evening of April 15 when a van blocked their exit.

Two armed men emerged from the van and identified themselves as police officers, Roberts said. The men then threatened to shoot Roberts if he did not hand over the baby, he said.

"I would not give my kid up if there wasn't a gun stuck to my head," he said last week.

Brittany Roberts was located the evening of April 16 by township police. She was reportedly in hiding

"There was no weapon. He (the father) has a habit of exaggerating."

with her mother, Deborah, at an undisclosed site in Shelby Township.

Despite Allor's contention that the confrontation with Roberts did not involve weapons, Captain Philip Presnell said the Northville Township Police Department is treating the case as it was reported.

"We will be presenting our report to the prosecutor by Friday," he said. "He could hand us a whole basket of warrants, or we could come up empty."

"We're going to present statements and facts as we have them."

Presnell said charges such as kidnapping, commission of a felony with a handgun and assault could be brought against Allor by the prosecutor.

Presnell said the statements made by Christopher Roberts and Anita Lisowski to police were "basically similar."

He said township police interviewed Allor last Friday, but would not comment on the content of that discussion.

"It's not fair to him or the investigation (to comment)," he said. "I don't want this to get tried in the paper yet."

Presnell said he did not know the whereabouts of Allor during the five days between the alleged kidnapping and the April 20 interview.

Spray painting vandals strike again

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

An unknown vandal or vandals struck Northville City again this past week, spray-painting the slogan "Smooth Criminals" in red on sites throughout the city.

The most extensive damage was done at Northville High School, 775 N. Center St. The school's north and west sides were painted with such slogans as "Smooth Criminals do Northville," "Class of '90 Rules," and "Fendelet couldn't catch a cold."

Sgt. David Fendelet, a Northville City police officer, is heading up the investigation into the incidents.

According to city police reports, the damage was done between midnight and 6 a.m. on Friday, April 20.

Commenting on the case, High School Principal David Bolitho said, "It's unfortunate that the act of a few people has this kind of negative impact on the kids in our community. I just wouldn't want anybody to think this is a depiction of behavior of the vast majority of our kids."

Police warn of car larcenies

By MIKE TYREE
Staff Writer

A recent rash of vehicle larcenies has prompted township police to issue a few words of advice to those who park their vehicles overnight in open areas.

"Smash and grab is a common practice," said Sgt. John Sherman of the Northville Township Police Department. "In vehicle larceny cases, thieves usually take things that are readily available."

"The best advice is to take everything out of your vehicle that may look like it could be valuable," he said. "At the very least, people should put those items in their trunk. And of course they should lock the vehicle."

Sherman said experienced criminals can break a vehicle window and remove valuable items in a matter of moments.

"They can be done in 15-20 seconds," he said. "In fact, 20 seconds is a long time for some of them."

Isolated vehicle larcenies rarely occur, Sherman said. More often, thieves will select a site with ample targets and move along quickly, grabbing items that are easy to sell.

According to police records, at least seven vehicle larcenies were reported April 14 from Innsbrook Apartments, 18800 Innsbrook Drive. Included in the thefts were items such as radar detectors, cassette tapes, a Walkman AM/FM cassette player and a wallet.

The larcenies occurred late April 13 or early April 14, according to police records. In each case, a window was broken to gain entry to the vehicle.

Radar detectors, car phones and radios are easy to steal and sell, Sherman said, but can be tracked if the owners have recorded serial num-

Haller vote is Tuesday

By MIKE TYREE
Staff Writer

Township voters will head to the polls Tuesday, May 1, to determine the fate of a proposed $6.9-million, 44,800-square-foot library complex to be built on the corner of Six Mile and Sheldon Roads.

Polls open in the township at 7 a.m. and close at 8 p.m.

Voters will be asked to consider a request for 1.9 mills for construction and operation of the proposed library, which would be funded over a 15-year period.

If passed by township residents, city voters will hold an election Aug. 7 to determine if they will participate in funding of the library, as outlined in a tentative city/township shared services agreement.

The May 1 vote is the culmination of events that began late last September when former resident Frieda Haller donated 72 acres of property on Six Mile and Sheldon to Northville Township, contingent on several matters.

Haller's letter of intent stipulated that funding for a 44,800-square-foot library must be secured by one year from the date of her letter of intent and that construction of the site begin within two years of the receipt of the letter.

The township eventually determined that 25,000 square feet of the proposed facility would be used as a library, with the remaining 19,800 square feet dedicated to meeting rooms, an auditorium and a senior citizens center.

The architectural firm of Kamp-DiComo was selected to design the facility, and Donald DiComo unveiled his plan for the Haller library at a public hearing in the township Feb. 28.

Meanwhile, opinion was divided over the township's library plan. Many city residents voiced displeasure over the idea of moving the library from the city limits and others — including township residents — balked at the thought of paying for the $6.9-million complex.

In addition, the shared services plan — a formula for funding such joint ventures as Northville Youth Assistance, Senior Citizens, community recreation and the public library, based upon state equalized value of the respective communities — became a topic for debate and negotiation between the township board and the city council.

After more than three months of discussions, the two governments agreed that 25,000 square feet of the Haller complex would be funded by the city and township based upon SEV and that the township would assume responsibility for funding the remaining 19,800 square feet.

On April 2, the city council voted unanimously for the revised shared services agreement, contingent upon favorable votes by township residents May 1 and city residents August 7.

Polling sites set

Polling sites for the May 1 township vote on the proposed Haller library are as follows:

Polls at these sites open at 7 a.m. and close at 8 p.m.

Judge lists reasons for Ward reversal

By MIKE TYREE
Staff Writer

affirm its original decision.

According to Kaufman, the ZBA neglected to look closely enough at five areas relevant to the case. The five areas included:

• Articulation of how they (ZBA) balance the concerns of the property owner with the economic hardship to the (neighboring) property owners.

• A ZBA "finding in their decision with respect to specifically what the ordinance requires that the proposed variation will not impair or adversely effect the supply of light, and the way it might diminish or impair established property values."

• "The ZBA has completely ignored" a lessening of the height request from 108 feet to a height more compatible or consistent with adjacent property.

• The ZBA did not indicate why it assumed that Ward would lose the entire amount spent for architectural work. "... I need something to show me that ZBA considered and didn't just blindly accept that the economic hardship of half a million dollars is exactly what it's going to be."

• The ZBA needs to indicate why it feels 107 feet is in the spirit of the 48-foot height ordinance.

Kaufman said Ward's claim to — and the ZBA's acceptance of — an economic hardship is a "proper relevant factor that the property owner has a right to put forward," but he added, "There's not a single case in Michigan that recognizes the economic hardship unrelated to the burdensomeness of using the property."

He also stated that variance questions usually pertain to small increments, such as six inches or a foot, and not an additional 59 feet as requested by the church.

Paul Bibeau, representing Ward Church, argued that the 107-foot peak of the structure was misleading.

Student's memory to live

The spirit of a young girl who died suddenly last year will live on, thanks to a scholarship fund set up in her honor.

Meads Mill Middle School has announced that an annual $200 scholarship award will be presented to a deserving eighth-grade student in memory of Jody Michelle Schwartz, who died in July 1989.

The fund will be administered by the Northville Public Schools and was established by contributions from family, friends and community groups at the request of Jody's parents, Andy and Shelly Schwartz.

To be eligible for the award, applying students must currently be in the eighth grade at Meads Mill and have exhibited an interest in the study of some extracurricular activity such as sports, music, forensics, art or academic enrichment. The scholarship will be used for further instruction in this field over the summer, in activities such as volleyball camp or music lessons.

Applications are available from the Meads Mill office and are due by April 27. A committee composed of Mr. and Mrs. Schwartz, Principal David Longridge, a Meads Mill staff person, Jerry Middione, Martha Nield and Cindy Wagner will select the recipient to be announced at the June Meads Mill Honors Night.

Those wishing to make a contribution to the Jody Schwartz Scholarship Fund may do so by making checks payable to the Northville Public Schools, c/o Business Office, 501 West Main Street, Northville.

The following residents of the Township of Northville and the City of Northville feel that good libraries are good friends and, therefore, express their support of the proposed Haller Public Library on Six Mile and Sheldon Roads, Northville, MI.

SCHOOL BOARD MEMBER ANNOUNCES LIBRARY SUPPORT — Donald Klokenga, Northville Public Schools Board of Education trustee, Monday announced his support of the Haller library proposal during the board's meeting.

"From my perspective on the school board, and as a long-time supporter of Northville Public Schools, I see the public library as a logical and necessary extension of the learning we are developing in our schools. Thus, I strongly support an extended library."

"This community has been looking for three years and has not found an affordable site. This is the best proposal, both in terms of benefits to the community and cost, that we can reasonably expect."

TOWNSHIP ADOPTS RESOLUTION — The Northville Township Board of Trustees has adopted a resolution to make soccer fields the first priority of the recreation department on the Haller property on Six Mile and Sheldon roads if township voters approve a library funding plan May 1.

The resolution contends that the Northville Soccer program is at a high risk due to an unmet need for soccer fields, and the Haller property provides an opportunity to "plan and develop field sites for the recreation program at a good location."

BOOK DISPLAY — Northville Public Library's Adult Book Display for March 26-May 5 is the popular "Staff Recommends." ## Falling timber

A large Box Elder tree that stood at Mill Race Village for an estimated 50-75 years, came down this week. Above, Mike McDuffie of Mountaintop Green Ridge Tree Service finishes cutting the tall tree. The tree was leaning dangerously and posing a hazard so it was taken down. The Historical Society will be planting replacement trees.

Summer jobs available for young adults in youth corps

More than 14,000 jobs will be available this year for an army of young men and women who will plant trees, refurbish parks and recreation areas and gain valuable work experience in a wide variety of jobs in the Michigan Youth Corps, Governor James Blanchard announced.

"The Michigan Youth Corps is the nation's largest summer employment program for young men and women," Blanchard said in a prepared statement, announcing that applications are now available for the eighth year of the program for young adults.

"The Youth Corps has delivered eight years of hard work, accomplishment and resume-building experience for thousands of young adults throughout Michigan," the Blanchard added, noting that each participant will receive mandatory employability skills training and career counseling.

This summer corps members will be at work in parks, schools, hospitals, day-care and senior-citizen centers, state forests, campgrounds and county fairs. They will beautify towns and cities, restore historic buildings, plant thousands of trees, improve trout streams, promote tourism and help local arts groups.

By summer's end, more than 144,000 jobs will have been provided for young men and women through the Michigan Youth Corps, which was proposed by Blanchard and approved by the Legislature in 1983.

Any unemployed Michigan resident between the ages of 18 and 21 is eligible to apply for the Youth Corps. Applications are available at schools, colleges and universities, Michigan Employment Security Commission (MESCC) offices, Department of Social Services offices, and regional employment and training agencies.

Corps members work full time for eight to 10 weeks between June 1 and September 30 and earn the minimum wage of $3.80 an hour. Youth Corps jobs are available in every county in the state. Participants work for federal, state, and local governments, and private not-profit organizations.

"When it comes to providing jobs for youth, Michigan has made a strong commitment through the Michigan Youth Corps," said Betty Howe, director of the Youth Corps and the Department of Labor. "The Corps has consistently and effectively helped our young people move to the world of work."

The Michigan Youth Corps is by far the nation's largest state summer youth employment program. The next largest program, Maryland's, employs less than 4 percent of Michigan's total.

Mandatory "employability skills training" sessions will be held again this year to give all Youth Corps applicants job search skills and career counseling. Thousands of young people will be placed directly into private sector employment through Youth Corps-sponsored job fairs.

The Youth Corps program is administered locally by regional employment and training agencies. Local agencies are: Balance of Oakland County Employment and Training Division, 30700 Telegraph Rd., Suite 1560, Birmingham, 48010; 540-0240, John Almstadt, Director; and Wayne County Private Industry Corporation, 33057 Schoolcraft Rd., Livonia, 48150, (313) 261-3420.

Local student writers excel

By MIKE TYREE
Staff Writer

Eight Northville High School students recently took part in Western Michigan University's annual "Manuscript Day," a celebration of poetry and fiction on the Kalamazoo campus.

Nancy Brown, high school English teacher, submitted poetry and fiction from the students — Lisa Brown, Kamaljit Bagga, Ris Fleming, Mike Hayden, Andrea Kovalak, Cheryl Mittman, Wendy Simpson and Maria Wen — for publication in "Calliope," the WMU student authors magazine.

Works of poetry from three of the students — Brown, Bagga and Fleming — were published in the magazine, Brown said.

The introduction to the college environment is a positive experience for the young writers, according to Brown.

"During the day at Western, the professors, graduate students and teaching assistants will sit in with the young people and critique their work," she said. "At the end of the day there is a reading by published authors."

"It's really exciting for the students," Brown said. "Manuscript Day has become such a desirable thing to attend."

In addition to the trip to Manuscript Day, Wen, a senior at NHS, was awarded a third place prize in the 20th Annual High School Writers Contest, sponsored by Lawrence Technological University's College of Arts and Science.

Wen was honored for her poem "Walking to Auntie's."

Northville High School senior Julie Howard was awarded a second place prize for her poem "Sun Stares Directly."

The contest attracted a total of 673 entries. Lawrence Tech's humanities faculty judged 508 poems from local high schools.

Novi council on TV?

By JAN JEFFRES
Staff Writer

NOVI — Lights. Camera. Action? The Novi City Council members are now contemplating their future television careers, at least on Cable Access Channel 18.

This raises several interesting questions: Can Novi do live broadcasts when its sister communities within the Southwestern Oakland Cable Commission (SWOCC), Farmington and Farmington Hills, both have council meetings on Monday nights? Do you tape or telecast live a five- or six-hour public meeting? Can you edit portions of a marathon-length meeting? Will council members powder their noses? And what will they wear?

Monday, the council considered a proposal which would place a total of two remotely controlled cameras in the video room and in the council chambers, with a monitor for the council to view the show in progress. The taping would be controlled by a "suitcase studio" in a video room staffed by one technician. On April 9, Shand Electronics will demonstrate equipment for the council.

Getting the city council meetings on air, as the city of Farmington Hills has currently been doing for the past five weeks, is second in priority behind a system which will allow planners and developers to project their plans onto a screen behind the council table for the audience's benefit. Currently, people seated in the auditorium view the backs of easels during presentations to council.

But once they begin broadcasting, SWOCC production specialist Todd Whitman told the council, every meeting should be on television to avoid charges of censorship.

"If you start to tape one meeting, you have to be willing to tape all meetings or one guy will say that in the second meeting I made the mayor look bad and they don't want that on," Whitman said.

With all three city councils meeting on Mondays, each may get its own government cable channel, said Council Member Joseph Toth, who represents Novi on the commission.

"Are we going to call it N-Span?" asked Planning Commission Chairperson Chuck Kureth. The planning commission may also be scheduled for television time.

Whitman recommended that Novi opt for live broadcasting, as taping a meeting provides several logistics problems, including changing the tape during the session (a form of "censorship" by technology) and the resulting deluge of requests that may come in for copies of the tape.

"It's better to broadcast from 8 p.m. to whenever. The average household or somebody they know has a VCR," Whitman advised.

Council Member Hugh Crawford agreed.

"I would prefer not to say the city council or planning commission meeting is being conducted to accommodate the taping," he said.

Toth suggested that the city simply send a videotape of each meeting to the library.

Advance tapes should also be made for the council's benefit, suggested Mayor Pro Tem Edward Leininger.

"We can do it to see if we need powder. Some will need powder more than others. There's a lot of glare," he said.

In an interview Friday, Whitman said that the televised Farmington Hills council meetings have been "getting quite an audience." However, that city has started out the year with inter-council squabbling which may have plagued the residents' interest. The City of Farmington has only televised one special meeting.

"Generally, what you tend to see is that the audience speaks out and council members feel they need to speak out at each topic. If everybody's going to showboat the council meeting, it's going to be (shown in taped segments) on Mondays and Tuesdays," Whitman said.

Whitman said he plans to meet with the Novi City Council before they begin telecasting "to go over ground rules for a better production." This would probably include advice as to which fashion statements don't translate well onto cable television, including dressing in red or entirely in white and, above all, some checked and houndstooth patterns.

"It looks like your body is moving on its own," Whitman said.

Television makeup will not be suggested, he added.

One rule to follow in broadcasting a government meeting is to never, never edit, he warned. Otherwise, charges of bias may follow.

County to study environment

Wayne County Executive Edward McNamara, in support of Earth Day, announced recently the establishment of the Wayne County Council on Environmental Quality (CEQ) to study the county's air, land and water quality.

"By executive proclamation, I have declared the 1990s as the 'Decade of the Environment' for Wayne County," McNamara said. "We want to enter the 21st Century with substantially improved air and water quality, better use of our land resources and improved quality of life for our citizens. The council will play a large role in achieving this."

The CEQ will consist of 17 county residents — representing various segments of society — and will be responsible for management of county resources. Its first major task will be assessment of county air, land and water resources and their impacts on public health.

The council's findings will be presented to McNamara in a Report on the State of the County Environment by February of 1991. The CEQ will also investigate the best possible means to achieve a healthful environment while strengthening the local economy.

The Wayne County Public Health Department, under the direction of Assistant County Executive Vernice Davis-Anthony and Health Officer Cynthia Taug, will serve as the lead agency for staff support of the council.

"We are proud of significant improvements already achieved in air and water quality in Wayne County," McNamara said. "But I am convinced that all of us must work together and act responsibly if we are to provide a healthy environment for the future."

Northville PTA's honoree, Margo Smith.

In the spotlight

Volunteer honored by PTA

By MIKE TYREE
Staff Writer

As district coordinator of Northville Public Schools' Junior Enrichment Series, Margo Smith has spent much of the past five years searching for performers to take the spotlight during elementary and middle school assemblies.

But Smith's talents took center stage last evening when she was honored as Distinguished Guest at the local PTA's 10th annual Founder's Day Banquet.

The banquet recognizes those PTA members who donate their time and skills to the betterment of children in Northville Public Schools and no one could argue this year's Distinguished Guest selection.

Smith's duties as Junior Enrichment Series Coordinator include researching and selecting programs and assemblies for children in the school district. The list of those who have visited the schools during Smith's tenure is impressive.

"We really strive to get quality shows," she said, ticking off such "resources" as the Detroit Science Center, Sea World, the Attic Theatre, Detroit Edison, the Detroit Zoo and the Detroit Institute of Arts.

"They give the children a whole range of topics and programs to experience and learn from."

Smith said she gives special attention to the enrichment portion of her title.

"I try to look for things that will fit into the school curriculum," she said. "What I strive for is to find programs that are educationally enriching that fit into our budget."

The district's budget for assemblies is limited, Smith said, and the burden for contacting, negotiating with, and securing quality acts often falls upon the PTA volunteers.

And that's where the group's dedication to improving the educational opportunities for Northville children becomes obvious. Despite budget constraints, elementary and middle school students see "eight or 10 assemblies per year," according to Smith.

"The kids want more and more," she said. "This year we had a person bring in nocturnal animals and they just loved that program."

"Greenfield Village comes out and does an excellent job, and the Attic Theatre had a Huck Finn that was great," she added. "I kind of look at assemblies as one of the most unique, effective teaching tools."

Smith formerly taught high school psychology and government in Livonia, but she gave up that career while raising her children, Brad, 13, a Meads Mill student, and Kristin, 9, a student at Winchester Elementary. A desire to impact her children's education led Smith to the Northville PTA eight years ago. In addition to her position as Junior Enrichment Series coordinator, she has also been involved with the Holiday Shop, Junior Great Books, Cub Scouts and the Meads Mill PTA.

Smith was also part of the high school Strategic Planning Committee.

Smith is presently attending Madonna College to revalidate her teaching certificate and although deeply committed to the enrichment program, she professed a yearning to get back to the classroom.

"I absolutely love this, but because my children are getting older, I want to get back into teaching," she said. "I've said I'd do this one more year."

Smith passes out credit for the success of the Junior Enrichment Series selflessly.

"We get all kinds of support from the principals," she said. "And (Superintendent) George Bell and (Assistant Superintendent) Dolly McMaster are so supportive."

"In all, the enrichment program is wonderful. I think it affects so many children in a positive way," she said. "Everybody benefits from something like this."

bers and use a "scribe" to carve identification into the items.

"Most people do not keep track of serial numbers," he said. "If they do, we can enter the numbers into the computer and find them if they show up somewhere."

Vehicle larceny is generally committed by those in their teens to early 20s, Sherman said.

"They want things that are easy to move for quick cash," he said. "They will take anything of value that they see, so if they look in the car and it appears there is nothing worth their time, they may pass it by."

The high school was one of the latest sites to be hit with the graffiti "smooth criminals".

Record/STEPHEN KELLMAN

Paint vandals repeat offense

It has been suggested that the vandalism is the work of teenagers because of previous references to the rock band Guns n' Roses, and the fact that "Smooth Criminal" is the title of a Michael Jackson song.

The incidents appear related to several cases of vandalism two weeks ago. In the most expensive damage then, 33 cars parked at the fenced McDonald Ford storage lot on Griswold Road were painted and scratched, causing an estimated $7,332 in damage. Several of those cars bore the phrase "Smooth Criminals" as well.

Sites at the Shopping Center Market on Center Street and the Dandy Gander restaurant on Main Street were also painted.

Since the incident at the McDonald Ford lot, similar slogans have appeared on a wall at the Northville Downs racetrack and at the Main-Centre construction site. The brick wall of the Masonic Temple building across from the MainCentre site has also been hit.

Even City Hall has not been immune to the most recent attacks. The initials "SC" were painted on a wooden sign by the rear entrance to the city police department and public library, sometime between 4 p.m. April 19 and 8 a.m. April 20.

Northville City police are actively investigating the incidents. "We're still looking into it and doing everything we can to solve this case," Fendele said Tuesday afternoon. The police department has yet to find any solid evidence pointing to specific suspects.

Fendele described the case as the most extensive amount of vandalism perpetrated in the city recently. "It's the longest streak of vandalism that's been done in quite some time, not necessarily the worst dollar-wise," he said.

The vandals could face a maximum sentence of five years in prison and fines of up to $2,500 on charges of malicious destruction.

TIPS FROM TUCHKLAPER Novi Dental Center

A. Allen Tuchklaper

DENTAL DISEASE NOT INHERITED

We can break the chain of tooth decay. Today, dental disease is totally preventable. Bad teeth don't "run in the family". There is just no hereditary excuse for cavities and crooked teeth. What we do pass down from generation to generation are eating habits, muscular patterns, attitudes toward oral cleanliness, etc.

If grandmother had a history of dental problems, maybe it was because she nor her parents knew how to take care of her teeth. If grandfather wore dentures, it may be because he lived at a time when teeth were extracted to "cure" all kinds of ailments from rheumatism to poor eyesight. But your own child has been born in an age of prevention. If he or she has eight cavities by age five, it will be because somebody has failed to do something.

Today's preventive dental knowledge calls for a three-way effort to break the chain of decay through new approaches to diet, oral hygiene, and strengthening the resistance of teeth to decay. It will take time, caring and effort, but we can defeat dental decay in children if we really work at it.

Job outlook good for area suburbs

SCC News Service

DETROIT — A regional planner predicts "a significant growth in jobs for the second ring of Detroit suburbs" but a nearly 14 percent loss of jobs in the central city.

James Rogers, Data Center manager for the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments, is circulating a preliminary report showing a 16.7 percent growth in jobs in the seven-county region between now and 2010.

The total will grow from 2.19 million today to 2.55 million in 30 years. Big gainers: western Wayne and Oakland counties and Livingston County.

Detroit officials, however, served notice they will challenge the projection, due to be voted on May 15 in SEMCOG's Executive Committee.

"We are at considerable odds," Harold Smith, of Detroit's planning department, told SEMCOG's executive committee last Friday. "If it comes to that, we'll publish our own numbers."

SEMCOG's projection shows Detroit losing 54,000 jobs — down from the current 394,000 to 340,000.

"We question your method of deciding on an up-front total and then trying to make everything (local unit numbers) fit," Smith said. "If SEMCOG's numbers are correct, the policies of SEMCOG (opposing urban sprawl to cornfields) are useless... We're wasting our time."

John Amberger, SEMCOG executive director, said the planning agency would be "forthright" in its jobs and population projections "or we don't have any credibility." Amberger admitted the projections "spell big trouble for the region" because growth in the outer suburbs will require massive governmental spending on sewers and roads.

Here are SEMCOG's preliminary projections, subject to change next month, on job growth in this area between now and 2010:

• Plymouth Township: up 17 percent from 14,125 to 16,528 or 2,402.

Police worry over share of jail space

Area police chiefs want to make sure that since Wayne County taxpayers are helping to pay for a new county jail that out-Wayne County will be given space for prisoners.

For now the five communities — Canton, Plymouth, Northville Township, Northville and Northville Township — in the 35th District Court have worked out a plan to transport misdemeanor offenders to the Hillside County Jail.

Other communities have similar programs which were made necessary by overcrowding at the Wayne County Jail, 35th District Court Judge John MacDonald said.

In 1988 Wayne County voters approved a 1-mill, 10-year increase to support a new Wayne County jail which was under construction last fall and is expected to be completed in two years.

Wayne County law enforcement officials are fighting for space in that facility.

"There's serious fears space won't be allocated to out-Wayne County," said Plymouth police Chief Richard Myers, president of the Wayne County Chiefs of Police.

"Many chiefs in the county have a high frustration level at the inability to house prisoners," Myers said.

The Hillside County transport plan is a temporary solution and happens to be cheaper at $40 daily than housing prisoners in Wayne County where the cost is $67 daily.

"The law-enforcement community in Wayne County is saying here's what we need and we need it at a cost that isn't more expensive than a local hotel," Myers said.

The 35th District Court Building Authority has agreed to pay for the van to transport prisoners to Hillside, and the local communities will provide the officers.

Currently people charged with misdemeanors, like drunk driving and shoplifting, in 35th District Court are ordered to pay fines and/or to take part in work detail assignments in lieu of jail sentences. Repeat offenders who fail to report are released when they should be jailed, law-enforcement officials argue.

"Although we've tried, the jails are full with felons," MacDonald said. "People (repeat misdemeanor offenders) have gotten to know we can't send them to jail."

It's been more than five years since 35th District Court judges have sentenced jail time for misdemeanor offenders, MacDonald said.

"What good is enforcing drunk driving laws when they're not going to jail?" Canton Public Safety Director John Santomauro said.

"There's no surety of punishment, because of this jail problem," said Santomauro, who initiated the Hillside transport plan.

"We need to put felons away. We also need to put misdemeanants away."

Program finds patients a home

By MIKE TYREE
Staff Writer

Studies indicate that the homeless account for 20 percent of patients admitted to Northville Regional Psychiatric Hospital, but a fledgling program to improve opportunities outside the institution may reduce that figure.

A Community/Homeless Transition Program premiered April 2 at the state hospital on Seven Mile Road, and project coordinators said a major step has been taken to address the needs of the homeless mentally ill.

"We decided that our clients need specific skills and every day training to build their own support systems," said June Reid, community transition director at NRPH. "The ultimate goal is to make people productive members of society."

Reid explained that the new homeless program will attempt to teach patients basic educational, vocational, social and practical skills. The intent is to give patients the confidence and knowledge to return to the community upon release from the hospital, she said.

The homeless inpatients are those admitted to the hospital without addresses or from shelters, police stations and the streets, according to Yvonne Harbin, homeless transition coordinator. The patients show an inability to meet basic survival needs, cannot develop or sustain social supports, and may have drug and alcohol problems, she said.

Reid said mental patients are often released to an environment that is not suited to continued rehabilitation. Those with a lack of basic social and practical skills may retreat to mavericks which sent them to the hospital, she said.

The hospital setting provides a regimentation and structure that may be more desirable than life on the outside, Reid added.

"They come here to work on the problems that brought them to the hospital," she said. "We focus on skills the clients need to get better."

"We're attempting to provide patients with a source of empowerment."

The homeless program, which operates under the auspices of the NRPH's Community Transition Program, teaches interpersonal skills, first aid, medication management, self-esteem, basic education, vocational skills, assault prevention and a substance abuse/addiction overview.

Patients work their way through two levels of the program, and those nearing release from the hospital hone their outside skills with an intensified 40-hour, two-week program.

Part of the Level II program, Reid said, is devoted to familiarizing patients with community resources they can use after being released.

Informing the patients of aftercare opportunities is extremely important to the program, Harbin said.

"The program would have the impact of keeping people out of the hospital," she said. "They need to know about the resources outside they can use."

Since an original homeless project began in October 1988, "only six or seven of 67" have returned to the hospital after being released, Harbin said. The new program, designed to handle 230 patients split into two sessions, should show similar results, she said.

"I can see a lot of benefits," she said.

Subsidized counseling offered to adults

The Board of Directors of Suburban West Community Center, a private, non-profit, community mental health clinic, is pleased to announce the availability of subsidized counseling services for adults.

Fund raising efforts and grants have enabled the agency to reopen a satellite office in Canton Township located at 8580 North Canter Center

Rd. (one block south of Joy Rd.) to extend its services to persons with lower priority mental health problems. The main office is located at 11677 Beech Daly Rd., in Redford Township.

Residents of Livonia, Redford Township, Canton Township, Plymouth, Plymouth Township, Northville, and Northville Township are eligible for reduced fee services. If limited income criteria are met, client fees are waived or decreased. Individual, couples, and family counseling are available for emotional, behavioral, and stress-related problems.

Appointments may be arranged by calling 937-9500 or 981-2665.

Monthly Allergy Tip

Your nose knows when spring has sprung!

As soon as spring comes around, along with the showers and the early flowers, comes the season of stuffy and runny noses. It's the time of the year you may be afflicted by sneezing and wheezing and your eyes may be itchy and watery. All this discomfort may be caused by allergies to microscopic pollen grains and mold spores which are a natural part of the life cycle of trees, grass, and plant life.

It happens every year, but you can put a stop to it this year—not the pollen and the spores, of course, but your discomfort. Find out if indeed it is an allergy from which you suffer. See us. Medications are now available which may be of help to you without making you drowsy.

Tanks removed

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

The former Phil's 76 gas station at the corner of Main and Wing streets has been the site of excavation lately, as the station's five underground fuel storage tanks are being removed.

According to Fire Inspector Robert Turner, the tank removal is proceeding without incident and, though some of the soil at the site is contaminated by fuel, there is no evidence of serious environmental impact.

The site's three 4,000-gallon gasoline tanks had been removed by Tuesday afternoon, while a 1,000-gallon and 500-gallon oil tank should be removed within the next week.

"Everything is going like it should," he said. "We didn't have to dig too deep for what little contamination there was."

Turner described the site as "pretty good" in terms of cleanliness. "They had some soil contamination from years of using the site," he said. Turner said the contamination is likely due to minor fuel spills over the years rather than leaks in the tanks themselves. "When they filled the tanks there was no overflow protection years ago," he said.

Samples of the soil from under the tanks have been sent to a state-certified laboratory for testing, Turner said. The soil must have fewer than 10 parts per billion of hydrocarbon contamination to be considered clean.

Turner expected the test results back Tuesday.

The contaminated soil will be taken to a class II landfill, as the state requires, where aeration of the soil allows the petroleum products to evaporate.

The owners of the site, Glenn and James Long, have proposed a land swap with the city, to allow building of a four-story retail/office structure on the site between Wing Street and the south exit from the city parking lot. A preliminary plan of the building showed 5,784 square feet of retail space and 28,153 square feet for offices.

Northville man raises Arabians

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

Drive south along Napier Road in Northville and you'll come upon a peculiar sign — Yemeh Arabian Farm. A white horse, its mane blowing in the breeze, is painted on the sign. Behind the sign is Fred Hembrey's farm, where he has been raising Arabian horses for the last 40 years.

Horses have been a part of Fred Hembrey's life for as long as he can remember. "Let's put it this way — I've always had a horse," he says.

"Everything we have here we put here," Hembrey adds with simple pride. "This was a cornfield," he says, indicating the land behind the one-story house he has called home since 1949.

Hembrey, 78, moved to Northville from Arkansas in 1937, bringing with him a horse, a poplar tree sapling and little else. He and his wife, Lena, settled into the present home on Napier Road several years after that. Many horses later, the poplar is now a 50-foot tree towering over the home, and is nearly as wide as it is tall.

Behind the house is a barn with 12 stalls, and several fenced fields. "Don't look at it too close; I built this damn thing myself," Hembrey said of the stalls.

Hembrey has 14 horses of his own on the farm now, and is taking care of three more for a friend. He walks out to the barn every day with Cleo, a German shepherd, to let the horses out of their stalls and into the different fields, making sure to separate them according to their personality.

"There's a pecking order to them," he explains, "just like there is for chicken or geese or anything else. One of them's going to be the boss."

"I kind of sort them out to where they get along better."

At one point, Hembrey tries to shoo a big mare out of her stall, but she hesitates, taking mincing steps at the stable door and shaking her head. She fell several weeks ago, Hembrey said, and is now afraid to cross the threshold. "Once they fall, they remember it," he said. Finally, he enters the adjoining stall and flicks a crop gently at her hindquarters, and she gingerly steps out of the stall.

The mare fills the narrow corridor between the stalls as she trots out toward the field, her hooves clicking on the cement floor of the corridor.

Several of the horses linger in the paddock, the small field between the other fields. Hembrey whistles, and the horses move as if on cue through a gate and into their field. "They've been listening to it all their lives," he said of the whistle.

Arabian horses are typically 14 to 15 "hands" high, Hembrey noted, a hand being four inches. Height is measured to the horse's "withers," or the highest part of the back.

The horses live an average of 25 years, though some mares can still foal at the age of 27 or 28, he said. Every Arabian horse born in the United States is registered, along with the name of its sire and dam. Hembrey has added more than a few names to that list.

Many people try to breed white Arabians, though most of Hembrey's are "bay," or reddish brown in color. "I have a preference, all bays," he said.

Though he grew up with horses, Hembrey did not begin raising Arabians until after he came to Northville. "I was raised on quarter horses and mules," he said. "The quarter horse and mule are an awful lot alike — they're both as stubborn as hell."

"Now these horses are quite sensitive," he said of his Arabians. "You can hit these horses but you can't whip them. If you start whipping them, they don't forget it. They're thin-skinned, and it doesn't take much to hurt them. And when you start hurting them, they start fighting back."

While Arabians are occasionally raced, most are raised for show purposes.

Because of their personalities, Hembrey doesn't agree with the way many Arabians are trained to be shown. "Most of them go into the show ring scared to death, because they've had the hell beat out of them," he said.

Fortunately, show officials are taking steps to prevent such abuse, he said. "Just in the last couple of years, they've been excusing horses out of the show ring if they have any whip marks."

Hembrey prefers to take his time training horses. "To make a good pleasure horse, something that's a pleasure to ride and a pleasure to show, takes just about a year," he says. "Course, you can ride them and a lot of people show them in three months. But that doesn't mean they're going to win."

"Training a horse is similar to training a dog," he said, though he adds that there is one crucial difference between the two. "The horse is not like a dog, the horse doesn't have any affection for you. But if you have the know how, you can get them so they'll almost talk to you. If you put the time in on it, you can teach it to do damn near anything."

The horses are required to walk, trot and canter both ways around the ring when being shown. The award goes to the horse who can make the rounds with the least amount of head movement.

There are several such horse shows a year in Mason, Mich. The shows are sponsored by the Western Michigan Association and Arabian Horse Association of Michigan. But the real horse shows happen in the south and west.

When asked what a good show horse is worth, Hembrey responded, "Whatever you can get for it. I've seen horses sell in Scottsdale, Ariz. for over a million apiece."

But those are the exceptions. The most Hembrey has gotten for a horse was $40,000, and that was in Kentucky. He estimates the average horse is worth between $8-$15,000. "I have a couple now that I think will be in the $15,000 bracket," he said.

While horses can bring more than a $1 million in the south and west, Hembrey said that in Michigan the highest price a horse might fetch is $500,000. In the west, major buyers like singer Wayne Newton and newspaper magnate Rupert Murdoch often bid up the price, he said.

"But an ordinary show, you're damn lucky if you get back your entry fees," he said. "Most of this we've done just for the fun of it."

Thousands at Maybury Park for Earth Day

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

Earth Day, the international environmental awareness celebration, drew thousands of local residents to Northville's Maybury State Park.

Record numbers of residents visited Maybury Sunday, many to attend the series of Earth Day events held there.

Park Manager Gary Fischer reported total attendance for the day was 6,863, a record-setting number. Typical daily attendance, even for a pleasant April or May day, is only 2,500.

The park had to schedule several extra people to attend to the large crowds. But the only reported incident was a lost child, who was missing for about 45 minutes before being recovered.

While several Earth Day events were scheduled on Sunday, they were only some of the many activities that visitors to the park enjoyed. "There were a lot of people bicycling and hiking on the trails, and a lot of horseback riding," Fischer reported. "We probably had in excess of 100 horseback rides yesterday."

"The farm was very busy; there were a lot of new animals," he added. The baby lambs and chicks were favorites of the younger children.

Other popular activities were kite flying and a softball game.

"A lot of people who came in were asking about the Earth Day activities," Fischer said. "Quite a few of them were in for the first time. We were passing out a lot of maps and directions."

Among the most popular Earth Day events were Sunday morning's 10-kilometer run and two walks.

"We were thinking if we got 125 people we'd be doing good," said Peg Campbell, an organizer of the Earth Day activities.

Instead, the events drew a total of 189 runners and 333 walkers. More than 200 people were pre-registered for the races by Friday, Campbell said.

Campbell was amazed by the success of the celebration, particularly the walks. "People are either leaving running and getting into walking," she said, "or they're getting into walking as an activity for the first time."

"It was a great day, all the events came off really well," she said.

Campbell had special praise for a display by the Northville High School group, Students Aware of the World, entitled, "What Are We Throwing Away?" The booth presented information on what's thrown away and what can be recycled.

The Schoolcraft College Geography Department also presented a display, on the disposal of household hazardous waste and the use of environmentally friendly products.

Both Northville city and township had displays describing their recycling efforts. Sue Oden staffed the township booth while City Manager Steven Walters manned the city booth.

Many Novi and Livonia residents also attended the festivities, Campbell said.

"I think that many people were really interested in finding information and were receptive to learning about what they could do," she said.

Campbell said local and national media attention on Earth Day "really plucked the interest of a lot of people." The national event was the subject of extensive coverage by television, radio and print media across the country.

Campbell estimated that 350-400 people, mostly children, watched the noon puppet show entitled "Rafferty Recycles the Rubbish." The show was presented by a puppet troupe known as The Mamas and the Puppets. "I think a big part of our future is getting the kids to understand recycling," Campbell said.

Face painting by Margo's Salon of Northville was another popular attraction among the younger participants.

"Everybody from the community came out in such a supportive way," Campbell said. "I even had private citizens calling to volunteer."

"It was a lot of work, a lot more than I thought, but it was a labor of love," she said.

Ward reversal based on five points

"...The average height that we're asking for is 68 feet, not 107 feet," he said. "Under the definition of height (in the ordinance), you get the average of the height of the building. So that's why we needed a variance of the 48 feet to the 68 feet."

Bibeau also requested that a former member of the ZBA be returned to the position for the new hearing (Bernard Bach was replaced on the ZBA in December. He cast one of the three votes in favor of the variance).

Kaufman expressed uncertainty at the legality of returning the former member to the ZBA, but indicated that it was unlikely that he could authorize such a move.

"... I assume that the law would be that it is the duly legally constituted Board of Appeal at the time a matter is before it could act."

As of Tuesday afternoon, township officials said another ZBA hearing on the Ward appeal had not been scheduled.

Tax appeals in area complete

By MIKE TYREE
Staff Writer

All 474 township residents or property owners who appealed their tax assessments have been notified as to the outcome of their appeal, and not everyone is happy with the results.

Nancy Molloy, administrative assistant to the treasurer, said Tuesday that $1.3 million was lopped off the tax rolls after the March Board of Review hearings. Molloy said "about a dozen" property owners called or visited township offices to complain about the hearing results.

"Some of the people that were upset had even received reductions," she said.

Molloy said many property owners want to know their next step in the assessment appeal process.

"If they are not satisfied with their assessment, they can go to the Michigan Tax Tribunal for a petition," she said.

Property owners have no additional appeal opportunities on the local level, Molloy said, but the state Tax Tribunal will hear cases not involving those who plead hardship.

"If they were turned down on a hardship request, they have no recourse," she said.

Molloy said a Tax Tribunal petition must be completed by those who may want to pursue an assessment appeal. She said the petitioner will appear before the tribunal in Detroit and will be expected to state their case at that time.

"The burden of proof is on the taxpayer," she said. "The local assessors will present their findings and so will the property owners."

A decision on the individual assessment will then be up to the state, Molloy said.

There is no charge for those wishing to use the Michigan Tax Tribunal, she added, but property owners must apply for a petition by June 30.

The address to obtain a petition is: Michigan Tax Tribunal, P.O. Box 30232, Lansing, MI. 48909.

Artist competition

Attention aspiring artists! The Northville Arts Commission is sponsoring a contest for the decoration of the front of the covered walkway at the MainCentre project.

Artists should create designs based on geometric patterns. Ten will be selected. Winners will paint their designs on the walkway structure.

Information packets, which include a scale drawing of the walkway and color samples, can be requested by calling Kathy Peltier at 348-7026.

All entries will be displayed on the bulletin board outside the library. Winners will be notified by May 4.

Clean-up continues on Rouge

Youthful and energetic, new Friends of the Rouge director Larry Coogan has ambitious plans for the area environmental group.

He's working toward making the 1990 Rouge Rescue, scheduled for Saturday, June 2, the most successful ever — with a goal of more than 3,000 participants.

He's working toward further expansion of the Rouge River high school education program — which has already grown from 16 to 52 schools in its four years of operation.

And he's working toward creating an elementary school education program — making an even younger group of students aware of the effect pollution has on their lives.

But all three objectives — especially the latter two — take money.

"One of the primary things I've been doing lately is fund-raising," said Coogan, who officially became Friends of the Rouge director in December, after coordinating ground activities since last July.

An attorney specializing in environmental law, and former director of the Melvindale parks and recreation system, the downriver native boasts a lifelong involvement with the Rouge.

Before becoming director, he served on the Friends of the Rouge board since the first cleanup in 1986.

"I remember walking along the Rouge as a child and thinking, 'Why can't this river be as clean as the ones up north?'" Coogan said.

Working toward that long ago goal, Coogan is lining up sponsors, both for cleanup sites and school programs.

"We'd more than welcome any group that wants to sponsor a cleanup site," he said.

Westland is among the communities joining the cleanup for 1990, joining such past participants as Novi, Northville, Livonia, Farmington Hills, Birmingham and Canton, among others.

Corporations and environmental groups have also sponsored past sites.

"We'd love to have a homeowners group come to us," Coogan said. Corporate and individual sponsors are sought for the $1,400 adopt-a-school program.

The fourth Friends of the Rouge director in five years, Coogan acknowledges continuity has been a problem.

"I feel we have established ourselves, we have very good ties to such corporate sponsors as Ford Motor Company, TV-2 and Waste Management," he said. "But we have to establish ourselves further."

Educating youngsters about the dangers of pollution, especially as it pertains to the Rouge, is a key Friends of the Rouge goal.

"We're best known for the cleanup, but that's just one day," Coogan said. "Our education programs are some thing that can carry on throughout the year."

The group is sponsoring a Great Lakes basin conference, bringing together students from the Midwest and Canada in June at Wayne State University.

A Rouge River student poster contest for 6th- to 8th-grade students is currently under way, with entries due Tuesday, May 1.

Other Rouge events include:

- A Rouge River "Earth Day" display, Sunday, April 22 at the Western Wayne County Conservation Association, 6700 Napier, Plymouth Township.
- An after school student bus tour of Rouge sites, Thursday, April 26.
- The annual student water monitoring program, May 7-18. (A social studies program runs May 7-11.)
- The fourth annual Rouge River student congress, Friday, May 19. More information on Rouge events is available by calling 427-1234 or writing Friends of the Rouge, 12763 Stark, Suite 103, Livonia 48150.

Use of weapon denied

Allor would not comment on where he was during that time.

Local police had not made contact with Allor's alleged accomplices by Tuesday evening, Presnell said.

"We're attempting to establish their true identities at this time," he said.

The alleged kidnapping reportedly was sparked by the separation of Christopher and Deborah Roberts March 23. Deborah Roberts apparently walked out on her husband and took along the baby.

During a meeting March 29 between the couple, Christopher Roberts allegedly yanked the baby away from his wife and went into hiding at various locations, including his aunt's Northville Township home.

War heroes' moms invited

The Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 4012 in Northville is inviting "Gold Star Mothers" to be its honored guests in the annual community Memorial Day Parade.

Anyone who is a Gold Star Mother, or knows of one, should contact Auxiliary President Shirley Tillikka at 349-0804.

A Gold Star Mother is a mother whose sons and/or daughters served and died in the line of duty in the Armed Forces of the United States of America, or its allies — or a mother of those who died as a result of injuries sustained in such service.

The VFW is an organization founded upon the concept of aid and comfort to the veteran and his dependents. This service includes the Gold Star Mothers.

WE HAVE THE BEST WEATHER-RESISTANT LUMBER IN TOWN

It really weathers the elements!

Water beads right off Womanzed EXTRA Weather Resistant Lumber because it's got something "extra" — it's pressure treated with a special water repellent to prevent moisture penetration from rain and snow. All wood swells and expands when it absorbs moisture. As it dries, it releases moisture and shrinks. Constant expansion and contraction causes grain raising, checking, splintering and warping. Spray or brush on water sealers can't repel water like Womanzed EXTRA Lumber — in laboratory tests Womanzed EXTRA Lumber shows almost two-thirds more moisture resistance than pressure-treated lumber. Protected with a leading water sealer. Of course, this fantastic lumber is also pressure treated for lifelong protection against termites, rot and decay. Don't settle for ordinary treated lumber. Insist on Womanzed EXTRA!

School honored for golf video production

The Old Village School Adapted Physical Education Videotape "Miniature Golf" received the second place award in the Third Annual National Video Contest sponsored by the Institute of Creative Research at Lewis Clark State College and The Sports Art Academy March 30. The award was presented at the American Association of Health, Physical Education, Recreation, and Dance Convention. The videotape was developed by Vickie Greiner, Adapted Physical Education Teacher at Old Village School, as part of the Leisure Sports and Recreation Program. Technical assistance for the project was provided by Darryl Ransford.

Greiner developed the Leisure Sports and Recreation Program to instruct severely mentally impaired and severely multiply impaired students in the use of community recreation facilities. The videotape was shown to parents of participating students to teach them methods for adapting the sport to meet their child's individual needs to encourage participation in community activities. The Leisure Sports and Recreation Program was supported by a Service Enhancement Grant awarded by the State Board of Education during both the 1988 and 1989 school years.

Meads Mill computers installed

By MIKE TYREE
Staff Writer

The computer age has arrived — with zeal — at the middle school level in the Northville Public Schools.

Over $80,000 in computers and support equipment were installed at Meads Mill Middle School over Easter break as part of the $16-million bond issue as approved by voters last October, according to Dolly McMaster, assistant superintendent for instructional services.

McMaster said 34 student computer stations have been installed at the middle school, including 17 stations each in a computer assisted instruction lab and a computer literacy lab. Two teaching stations were also installed.

In addition, McMaster said a word processing station would be added to the Meads Mill computer fleet "but probably not before the end of the school year."

The computers are a part of an estimated $560,000 package agreement between the school district and IBM to provide computers, hardware, additional accessories and personnel support to all the schools in the district.

The Northville Board of Education approved the purchase of the first $164,503 worth of IBM equipment at its April 2 meeting. The initial purchase is intended to outfit Meads Mill and Cooke Middle School.

According to Bill Hamilton, administrative assistant for instructional services, IBM was selected as the district's computer vendor because of their sophisticated networking system and support personnel. IBM's initial $580,000 bid was higher than bids tendered by Zenith ($514,000) and Tandy ($456,000) but a school computer selection team judged IBM as preferable based upon sophistication and support capabilities.

The computer selection committee was comprised of Barbara Fife, educational technology resource teacher; Jeff Radwanski, Cooke Middle School principal; Robert Stover, middle school media specialist; John Street, director of business; Steve Sutherland, middle school teacher; McMaster and Hamilton.

According to Hamilton, IBM was the unanimous choice of the selection committee.

McMaster said computer installations would continue throughout the summer at all schools in the district. Superintendent of Schools George Bell updated the Board of Education on the progress of the computer installation at the board's April 23 meeting.

"This is a prototype of what will be done in secondary schools," he said. "It's exciting and it's finally being done."

CHARTER TOWNSHIP OF NORTHVILLE AMENDMENT TO ZONING ORDINANCE NO. 77-03-90

AN ORDINANCE TO AMEND THE TOWNSHIP OF NORTHVILLE ZONING ORDINANCE BY AMENDING THE TEXT THEREOF.

THE CHARTER TOWNSHIP OF NORTHVILLE ORDAINS:

PART 1. The Charter Township of Northville Zoning Ordinance No. 77 as amended is hereby further amended by amending Article XV, Section 15.28 DIVISION OF PLATTED OR UNPLATTED LAND FOR BUILDING SITES LACKING STREET FRONTAGE.

1. Land Divisions Permitted
a. Subject to the restrictions of P.A. No. 288 of 1967, as amended, this section may permit divisions of land for sale, or lease of more than one (1) year, or of building development as building sites, as follows:

(1) A parcel of unplatted land may be divided into not more than four (4) parcels each containing ten (10) acres or less and into additional parcels each containing more than ten (10) acres.

(2) A parcel of platted land may be divided into not more than four (4) parcels.

b. Some of the parcels permitted may have no street frontage or insufficient width to satisfy the requirements of Article XIV of this Ordinance, provided that the division and condition of sale, lease or development are in conformity with a site plan approved by the Planning Commission.

2. Requirements of Site Plan:

a. Easements:

(1) The Site Plan shall provide an easement or easements sixty (60) feet in width, unless as otherwise provided in (2) below, giving access from a public street or streets to all parcels resulting from the proposed division not having street frontage. Such easements shall be established for the joint use of owners of all abutting resultant parcels of the original property for ingress and egress and also for the location of private or publicly-owned utilities serving such abutting parcels.

(2) If the easement provides access to only one (1) parcel of land and, if in the judgement of the Planning Commission, it will only serve one lot in the future, the width of the easement may be forty (40) feet.

(3) Easements providing access to three (3) or more parcels shall be provided with a gravel or paved turnaround at the end of such easement with an outside radius of not less than forty-five (45) feet.

(4) When easements are over one hundred fifty (150) feet in length and provide access to only one (1) or two (2) parcels, the driveway of the end parcel shall provide a turnaround with an outside radius of forty-five (45) feet.

b. Areas of parcels:

Each parcel resulting from the proposed division shall have, exclusive of any area occupied by easements required by 2.a. above, a net area not less than that required for a single subdivision lot. No parcel shall have a net area of less than one (1) acre unless a public water supply main and sanitary sewer, meeting Northville Township requirements, are installed (or an acceptable guarantee is deposited with the Township to insure such installation).

c. Width of parcels:

(1) The minimum width of parcels abutting a public street shall be as required by Article XIV, Schedule of Regulations.

(2) For parcels not abutting a public street, the minimum width, as required for the one-family residential zoning district, shall be the minimum standard for the parcel width provided however, that the measurement of such width need not be at the setback line and the minimum width is not necessary as frontage on the easement. The purpose is to provide the parcel with the required width in the front yard, near the easement and at the point where the front of the house will be located.

d. Shape of Parcels:

Parcels should resemble rectangles but may be irregularly shaped as conditions dictate. However, unusual shapes proposed only for the purpose of meeting parcel area or width requirements shall not be permitted.

e. Building Locations:

Within each parcel shown on such Site Plan, there shall be delineated and fully dimensioned an area within which the principal structure shall be confined and a greater area within which auxiliary buildings shall be confined. The areas so delineated shall be such that, in the opinion and judgement of the Planning Commission, development on each parcel will be in conformity with the spirit and intent of the Ordinance with respect to the particular zoning district, will be compatible with existing development in the vicinity primarily as to yard relationships and will not adversely affect adjacent properties. No building permits shall be issued for buildings not located within the limits shown on an approved Site Plan.

f. Improvements:

(1) Access easements shall be provided with a road installed to a minimum cross section of twenty (20) feet in width when serving two (2) to four (4) parcels and twelve (12) feet in width when serving one (1) parcel, with MDOT 22A gravel eight (8) inches deep and positive drainage, all in accordance with Township standards.

(2) In order to provide adequate access for emergency vehicles, fifteen (15) feet of overhead tree clearance shall be provided within the access easement.

(3) Street names and numbering may be required by the Planning Commission.

3. Submission of Site Plan

a. Preliminary Submission.

Preliminary submission of a proposed division of property under these provisions shall include the following:

(1) A plan of the property to be divided, accurately drawn at a scale of not smaller than one (1) inch equals one hundred (100) feet, prepared by a Registered Land Surveyor or Civil Engineer licensed to practice in the State of Michigan and showing at least:

(a) Survey location, dimensions and area of the property to be divided.

(b) Topography, by contours on U.S.G.S. datum at intervals of not more than two (2) feet, extending to the opposite right-of-way line of any abutting street or highway and extending at least twenty-five (25) feet onto all abutting property; also all existing buildings on the site and features of special interest in development and use of the parcels.

(c) Location and description of any buildings located on abutting property within fifty (50) feet of the boundaries of the parcel to be divided.

(d) Boundaries of all proposed divisions with complete dimensions and area of each proposed resultant parcel.

(e) Proposed easement locations, with dimensions.

(f) Proposed limits within which the principle structure and auxiliary buildings shall be confined on such parcel, with dimensions.

(2) Information, as required by paragraph 3 d. (3) of Section 15.24, Site Plan Review and Plans and Proposals as required by Section 15.34 for woodlands protection

b. Final Site Plan:

After the Preliminary Site Plan as submitted or modified is accepted by the Planning Commission, the proprietor shall submit to the Planning Commission for final approval and final record, the following:

(1) A plan, in the form of an original ink drawing on drafting film or a "mylar" duplicate, drawn to a scale of not less than one (1) inch equals one hundred (100) feet, showing conformity with the accepted plan:

(a) Survey location, dimensions and areas of all parcels

(b) Location and complete dimensions of all easements

(c) Completely dimensioned limits within which principle structure and auxiliary buildings shall be confined on each parcel

(2) A legal description of each parcel into which the property is divided, prepared by a Registered Land Surveyor.

(3) An easement or easements containing an accurate legal description thereof, prepared by a Registered Land Surveyor, and including recitation of the purposes for which the easement is created, with grant to the Township, its successors and assigns, in perpetuity, of the right to occupy and use such easement for installation, maintenance and operation of publicly owned utilities.

c. Approval of Final Site Plan:

(1) When the Final Site Plan and its accompanying material have been reviewed and found to be in conformity with the accepted Preliminary Plan and otherwise satisfactory, the Planning Commission shall formally approve and accept the Final Site Plan and shall give the proprietor written notice thereof. Thereafter, the resultant parcels so set off shall be eligible for building permits, upon evidence being presented to the Township of recording with the Wayne County Register of Deeds of all required easements and the site plan.

(2) All required easements shall be in form and substance provided or approved by the Township Attorney and accepted by the Township Board.

PART II. Conflicting Provisions Repealed

Any Ordinance or part of Ordinances in conflict herewith are repealed save that in all other respects Ordinance No. 77, as amended, is hereby ratified and reaffirmed

PART III. Effective Date:

The provisions of this Ordinance shall be in full force and effective immediately upon publication.

PART IV. Adoption

This Ordinance was adopted by the Township Board of the Charter Township of Northville, pursuant to authority of Act No. 184, Public Acts of 1943, as amended at their regular meeting of April 12, 1990.

Novi resident announces bid for commissioner

By SHEILA PHILLIPS
Staff Writer

Kay Schmid, a state Republican Party leader and longtime Novi resident, hopes to fill County Commissioner John Calandro's vacated shoes.

She recently announced her candidacy for the 24th District and filed her nominating petition with the county on April 23.

The commissioner position will be vacated next December since the incumbent announced earlier this month that he will not seek reelection.

"I care about Novi and as a county commissioner, I think I can help the community," Schmid said. "I think the district's county commissioner can work with the city council to really benefit the community."

"I realize there are other communities in the district other than Novi, but these communities are growing like Novi is and have similar concerns," she added. "I am familiar with the problems Novi has encountered and feel that knowledge can benefit the other communities in the district."

In addition to Novi, the 24th District includes South Lyon, Lyon Township and a portion of the City of Northville.

Schmid is currently serving a two-year term as one of four people on the Michigan Republican State Committee. She was appointed to this post in January 1989 by the party. If elected as county commissioner, she will not seek reappointment.

Her political resume also includes being a founding member and the current vice president of the Republican Women of West Oakland. But Schmid said that her commission candidacy will force her to step down as the group's vice president.

Previously she campaigned for numerous Republican candidates, Calandro, up to and including the President of the United States.

Schmid said that it is "ironic" that she is campaigning for Calandro's seat because he is the one who got her involved in the Republican Party back in 1977.

Schmid has strong ties to Novi, serving as chairperson of Michigan Week festivities and treasurer of the Civic Center Planning Committee.

In addition, she has worked as the local precinct delegate since 1977 as well as the Novi City District Manager and Southwest Area Director of the Republican Party.

Schmid and her husband Bob, a former Novi mayor, have lived in Novi for 18 years and have three grown children.

She attended Hillsdale College and is not currently employed.

"At this point in my life, I feel that I have the time to really dedicate myself to the job," she said. "I would be able to talk to my constituents and local city governments to really get a feel for their concerns."

Schmid said that her primary concerns are local traffic problems and solid-waste issues.

Her candidacy wiped out rumors that Novi City Council Member Tim Pope might run, because he offered his support to Schmid at this week's council meeting.

In addition, Schmid has garnered support from other local Republican heavyweights, such as Oakland County Sheriff John Nichols, a Novi resident; state representative Willis Bullard, R-Milford; and Novi City Council Member Nancy Covert.

Schmid is the only Republican announcing candidacy at this time.

Rumors are circulating that have South Lyon Mayor Jeff Potter seeking the office.

Potter said that he is considering running. However, he added that would not make up his mind until he consulted his constituents in South Lyon.

Our Opinions

Haller proposal was not well thought out

Two irrefutable facts have come out of the thousands of words uttered and written on the Haller Library proposal, a proposal which goes to township voters this Tuesday for a decision.

One gleaming piece of truth is that this community needs a bigger library. No one, on any of the many sides of this complex issue, has refuted that fact. The present 6,000-square-foot library is too small.

The community of Northville — and we use that phrase to mean exactly what it ought to, the residents and businesses of both Northville Township and the City of Northville — have known for years that the present library was inadequate. The community has also invested quite a bit of time and money looking for ways to solve the space crunch.

The other important fact that Northville is indeed a community. For better or for worse, the township and city are tied by bonds of history, mutual respect, shared needs and common goals. That consideration needs to be placed above all others in the current debate.

Building a library and cultural center of the magnitude of that proposed is one of the largest investments this community will make for some time to come. With rising assessments and property-tax bills compelling a larger and larger chunk of people's dollars, any government expenditure needs a thorough public airing and a thorough public investigation of all possible angles, contingencies and options. But the Haller proposal has had none of those.

Northville Township residents should VOTE NO TWICE on Tuesday. The proposal to build, equip and operate the Haller Library complex is not the well-thought-out, carefully debated proposal this community demands of its public officials.

Due to the incredibly restricted time constraints set down by Frieda Haller, township voters have not had adequate time to make sure they are getting the best possible building for the lowest possible price. Does the community really require a 44,800-square-foot building? Or are we trying to fill the space specified in a legal document?

Is Six Mile and Sheldon the right place for a community library? The downtown business district of Northville is the community center. Separating the cultural and business center of the community by moving the library away from the central business district does not make sense at all. A library is a community treasure — a jewel to be used by everyone. Whether people can walk to it is not the issue. What is the issue is whether a community has a special core — and if it does, why would anyone want to tamper with it?

Northville has that special core. It has a downtown that must be maintained by the entire community. Why live in Northville as opposed to Bloomfield Township? Because Bloomfield Township has trees and grassy fields, but it does not have a quaint Victorian downtown area which gives it a character and flavor all its own.

Downtown Northville is not there for city residents alone. Downtown Northville makes the entire community of Northville special. The Northville community library belongs in the downtown district, regardless of where the population center of the community grows. We won't move the downtown area because the majority of the people live at Six Mile and Sheldon roads.

The Northville community has a strong history of supporting a jointly funded library. Establishing a free, public lending library was one of the earliest movements in the community's history, and since its establishment the Northville Public Library has moved from house to store front to recreation building to City Hall — always in search of more room and an expanding collection.

The question is not whether the community will continue to support a library. The question is not even whether the community will support an expanded library. History has shown that Northville residents will go the extra mile when it comes to improving the quality of life in their community. That has been shown time and time again through community fund-raising efforts, millage passage, and thousands of hours of volunteer time donated for improvements that benefit everyone.

The question, unfortunately, that is being put to township voters on May 1, is far more complicated.

Knowing that room was fast running out on the current library, township and city residents volunteered to head up a library site search committee some years ago. That committee made two recommendations immediately prior to the notification by the Ford Motor Co. that the automaker was really moving out of the Griswold Street plant. The two recommendations for sites, one at the Fish Hatchery Park in the township and one behind the recreation building on Cady Street, were created while a study of the Ford Plant was done. That study was funded by both township and city residents.

That study came back with the recommendation that the Ford Plant would best be utilized by a library and another public use, such as the school system. But before any further work was done, the Haller proposal emerged. Since that proposal was made public no other sites — whether Ford Plant, Cady Street, Fish Hatchery, or any other — have been looked into.

The Haller proposal itself is complex. Frieda Haller has donated 72 acres of land at Six Mile and Sheldon roads to the township — if they meet her strict criteria.

Funding for a 44,800-square-foot library must be approved by the end of September. In previous talks about the size of a new library for Northville's expected population by the year 2000, 25,000 square feet was the model. When the Ford plant was under consideration, much was made about the fact that its 53,600 square feet of main floor space was too large. That's why the provision for an additional use was explored.

There is no question that the community can make use of the additional space. The senior citizens are in need of a new home for their activity center. Meeting room space, while not quite at the premium that some would say, is in short supply. Whether the community now needs a 400-seat auditorium is debatable. In some respects, looking to fill the required 44,800-square-foot Haller building has become a wish list of possibilities. But like all wishes, these have price tags attached.

The gift of 72 acres of land — at the price of the Haller Library — is just too big a demand for the community to accept at this time, when all the other options have still not been fully explored.

Style has changed, not content

Did you ever get a haircut, or shave off a beard or mustache, and have people look at you weird for a day or two until they figure out just what is different about that face they know so well?

Well, in a way, we've had a haircut here at the newspaper. Or maybe a change in hairstyle is a more appropriate way to put it. We're trying out a new look these days in the paper. If you're looking at the Record and wondering what makes it seem different this week, let me clear things up.

We've changed type styles — which is exactly like changing the hairstyle of someone you see on a regular basis. The person is still basically the same, but they have a different look. The news in this week's paper and the regular features are all the same, but some of them have a new look to them.

When I get a new haircut I feel different. Sometimes I have to go out and buy some new clothes, just to match the new look and the new way I feel. Well, here at the newspaper, we've taken the new type style and tried to add some new clothes — we've tried to clean up some of the packaging of news in the paper. We're going to have some regularly established places for certain news items. You'll be able to find news on senior citizens activities under Senior Notes, news about the Chamber of Commerce under Chamber Notes and so on. The idea is to make reading the paper easier and it will also make it easier for us to get the information on specific groups out to you.

As anyone who has ever had their hair cut in a different style knows, it takes a few days to figure out the exact way things are supposed to go. The first day you try to style your own hair after a change is usually a disaster. We're no different. There are bugs to be worked out in the new system and it will probably take a few weeks to get everything up and running like it should.

At the heart of the reason for the changes here at the paper is the continuing expansion of printing technology. As time marches on, the standard way we do business here changes, just like it does in every business in Northville. We're trying to make use of some of the new advances in printing processes and in the long run these changes will make the paper better all the way around.

We'll be able to better suit the paper to you — and that's our ultimate goal.

Urban sprawl threatens us all

If you're concerned about the economic health of the outlying suburbs, you call it growth. If you're concerned about the economic health of Detroit, you call it urban sprawl.

Whatever you call it, all indications are that it will go crazy in Northville and surrounding areas over the next 20 years.

The Southeast Michigan Council of Governments recently released preliminary projections for population, housing units and jobs in the area. SEMCOG expects the numbers around here to go absolutely crazy, particularly in Novi.

You can question the exact figures if you want — some Detroit officials deny the population and job losses predicted for their city — but we all know that the outer suburbs are going to continue growing, most likely at the expense of Detroit and, to a lesser extent, the inner suburbs.

SEMCOG leaders want to curtail this trend, although they've been watching it for years and have yet to come up with a way to do that. That's probably largely because the suburbs encourage their own growth, always seeking new development, new tax base.

Change is inevitable, but if you ask me — which, as usual, nobody did — the endless outward exodus is not a healthy trend at all. Not for Detroit, and not even for the suburbs which benefit.

For one thing, the benefits are questionable. Although conventional wisdom has always been the more tax base, the better, people seem to question more and more the real value of endless development weighed against its costs. As people's favorite forests and fields become subdivisions and strip malls, they wonder what's going on, and whether "growth" is necessarily such a good thing. It's a sentiment which has elected a lot of people around the metro area.

The development feeds off itself: new homes spur new commercial development, which draws people farther out, creating a demand for new homes. The outward push never ends, and meanwhile, back at the start of the line — Detroit — things get worse and worse. And then the problems start to migrate out; the desertion of Detroit for Southfield becomes the desertion of Southfield for Farmington Hills and Livonia.

It just doesn't make any sense to go to tremendous pains to install infrastructure and develop land when those developments are being abandoned just a little way back. Eventually — not within our lifetimes, probably — the development will push right past Novi and Northville, and the officials of the future will bemoan the moving of Twelve Oaks Mall to Fowlerville. (Remember how the mall site looked before the mall moved in?)

Metro area officials, and not just those in SEMCOG, need to truly realize what is happening. Everybody talks about urban sprawl, but nobody does anything about it; that needs to change.

Readers Speak

Vote in future

To the Editor and Citizens of Northville Township:

Like so many of the ardent supporters of the Haller Library project, my husband and I believe strongly in the necessity for the "reading and meeting" facility of the size, design and in the location proposed. And, like so many of our neighbors, we have chosen Northville Township to settle in permanently because of the wonderful atmosphere it provides, the school system which has proven its commitment to progressive education by a very workable Strategic Plan, and a citizenry that will vote for progress with an eye to the future.

Free public libraries, and the books, materials and services they provide have historically been the cornerstones of intelligent, progressive communities. We know that all of us urgently want to maintain Northville's uniqueness, but not at the expense of depriving our future generations of the cultural, educational and community facilities they need for success.

We believe that there are many of our neighbors who, like us, are willing to vote YES on the two proposals May 1 because we all believe that by doing so we will greatly improve the quality of life in our community. We are willing to pay what amounts to the price of a cup of coffee every day for the next 15 years if it means that it will take us into the next century, with facilities for pre-schoolers and senior citizens alike, with meeting rooms so vitally need, with a spot to maintain our historical archives, with athletic fields, and with an auditorium that will allow for all types of presentations.

We know, as do you, that if we allow this land to slip through our fingers, all the developers who have been beating a path to Mrs. Haller's door will finally have their say. That lovely green expanse will not be that way for long. Do we want to be looking at a subdivision with large houses on even smaller pieces of property? Zoning restrictions have been known to change, sometimes even in a court of law. Do we want to be looking at some sort of commercial development that would really threaten our downtown district?

We also know that five or more years down the road we will be looking at increased building costs for the very same facilities and increased costs for the land which is even now quickly disappearing. When will we all finally decide that we must make a commitment and set aside a portion of this Township for the future and not allow it to be completely eaten up by developers? This is our chance and we have the power to make it happen.

Yes, taxes are high and so we must make our Township officials accountable for the way they spend our money. But we prefer to look at this not as a tax, but as an investment in the future of Northville. Let us all VOTE YES TWICE ON MAY 1 because it is the right thing to do. And because we all want to insure a truly better Northville for all of its citizens!

Anna Svirid Sarkisian

Figures differ

To the Editor:

In his recent letter to the editor, Mark P. Cryderman makes a statement that cannot go unchallenged. He asserts, without backup evidence, that "the Northville Library has a much higher per capita usage rate than Novi." He credits that to his belief that "though the Novi Library is geographically central to its community, it is not near any other business."

The 1988-89 Statistical Report of the Wayne Oakland Library Federation (WOLF), of which the Northville and Novi Libraries are members, indicates that Novi's circulation per capita is 7.90, whereas Northville (in a business district, you will recall) is 6.36 per capita, a significant difference. These figures were audited 2/90.

Another library not near a business district, Canton, has a per capita circulation of a whopping 8.53. Southfield, located in a Civic Center, similar to Novi's, has a per capita circulation of 6.17.

To another point of Cryderman's letter, that "environmental issues" are "actually baseless and simply a smokescreen to cover the shift in position to the Haller site." If this were not true, why has Ford spent the last month or so having asbestos and four underground storage tanks removed? The Record covered that story in its April 19 issue.

To address others who question the need for community rooms, the American Library Association publication, "Planning and Role Setting for Public Libraries" published in 1987, says:

"The library is a central focus point for community activities, meetings and services. It works closely with other community agencies and organizations to provide a coordinated program of social, cultural and recreational services."

"The library provides both meeting room space and equipment for community- or library-sponsored programs. Programs might include book talks, health information fairs, book discussion groups, community issues forums, speaker series, concerts, art exhibits or humanities programs. The library may be a source of programming for local cable television. Library facilities may be used for organizations providing health testing programs, tax assistance, youth groups, voter registration and the like."

The ALA report gives us something to think about — that the proposed Haller Library fills the description of a contemporary library relative to its use for community activities.

Past plans

To the Editor:

There is a little known or forgotten fact regarding the Northville Library that happened in 1978. The Library Board, consisting of city and township representatives drew up a plan, complete with architect drawings, etc. to be built on Cady Street behind the recreation building, which was submitted to the Economic Development Authority for a government grant. There were two grants to be awarded in this area. Three were submitted, the library, Main Street Elementary School and the Township Hall. The library did not get the grant.

At that time the library had no place to go. The city used their funds of about $400,000 from the Community Development Block Grant and a bond issue was passed to help expand the city hall to house the library. It was known that it would be temporary, but it was the only step available to them at the time, as there were not enough funds to build the library as per the plans.

It is important for the township voters to know that the city has been involved in this problem for years and has done everything they could to keep the library going until a permanent home could be found.

At this time we are all concerned about the environment and recycling. Perhaps we could consider the Ford Valve Plant as our new library and repair, re-use and recycle the building to be functional again.

No support

To the Editor:

The decision day for new millage is finally here for township residents. We are being prodded to have a "vision" towards the future, to "dream" of the potential that the Haller library can have for the township. However, the realities and facts have not and do not justify supporting the millage for the following reasons:

1. The township never has provided a comprehensive report to the residents on the findings and alternatives generated by the Library Site Committee after months of volunteer time. The trustees have arbitrarily ignored and refused to seriously consider and discuss alternative sites in open meetings. They have discarded months of effort that concluded that a 20,000 square foot library would more than meet current and future needs of the community. Instead, blinded by the "free land," they are suggesting that we accept the 45,000 multi-use building at a cost in excess of $7 million. Prior to the Haller donation, the highest estimate from any source for a new library was $4 million. This is not vision, but instead a blind ignorance of facts.

2. The millage proposal comes to the township residents without any certainty on whether a new library would be jointly funded with the city as we have now. If the city residents turn the joint service agreement down in the August elections, the township will proceed on the Haller building without the city's involvement. By arbitrarily moving ahead with or without the city, township trustees are again demonstrating their lack of regard for logic. We are expected to support a millage that would be inadequate to deliver all the promised use and service of the new facility because our partnership with the city was discarded. The fact is, the proposed millage without the city's involvement will not allow the township to deliver all that has been promised. This is not a dream, but a real nightmare!

I think most concerned residents that I have discussed this issue with support the concept of an expanded or new library facility. There are clearly other options on size, location and cost that have to be discussed in open meetings with residents. The issue is that the township trustees and administration have been incomplete and inconsistent with their evaluation of what the township and the larger community of Northville require in the way of library facilities.

May 1 is an opportunity for all township residents to send this message to the township trustees: We deserve and demand accountability and full disclosure of all facts. Present us with a millage proposal only after you have demonstrated your attention to the views, opinions and concerns of township residents.

Residents of Northville Township:

Vote May 1 and Vote NO!

Remember your huge assessments of three months ago? We are now asked to vote on a $6-million bond issue and 1 mill per thousand. Doesn't sound too bad? This is just to get started. Vote NO! We are being asked to pay for and support a memorial to a dead man no one even remembers. Vote NO! By mutual consent, we have use of libraries in Farmington, Novi, Plymouth, Northville and Livonia.

Good idea

To the Editor:

There is a reason why I am thoroughly in favor of the success of the Haller Proposal. I have been a 24-year resident of Northville, a township trustee for 16 years, and just prior to that, chairperson of the Township Planning Commission.

In 1988, I facilitated the Township Future Needs Study. Many people have participated in guiding the development of the Township with a total community vision in mind. I am proud of the results. The Haller Proposal specifically responds to future needs that are very important to me, both as an elected official and a member of this community.

Township citizens owe it to themselves to personally view the Haller property at the northeast corner of Six Mile and Sheldon roads. They will see a choice, ideal location perfectly placed in the Northville Community for the intended uses: a beautiful library, a cultural center, recreational areas and open space. All of this can be theirs.

The gift of 72 acres by Mrs. Haller is a blessing to this community. I am pained by shallow comments both read and heard about the Haller Proposal and the gift itself. I would have been pleased to read more comment in the newspaper concerning the advantages to local senior citizens, the cultural potential and recreation support. A show of some enthusiasm on how this project might crumble remaining feelings of community delineation. Perhaps a new and better bridge between the City of Northville and Northville Township. To focus simply on the library development is short-sighted and unwise.

The new Joint Services Agreement between the city and township has been overworked in discussion and content. Restricting thinking to only a 25,000-square-foot library use prevents many people from seeing other important aspects of this gift to this community.

The land is free. "Free land" is not difficult to understand. Frieda Haller's gift of 72 acres is assessed at nearly three million dollars. The market value, however, is much more than that. Best of all, because the land is free, all monies invested result in direct community benefits. Free land makes a major difference. We could not afford to buy it, now, or in the future. Think about it. This is a one-time opportunity.

Property taxes have been high in the State of Michigan. Property taxes have caused many to leave this State immediately upon retirement. Property tax relief has become a political priority in Lansing. The Michigan State Equalized Evaluation (SEV) system has been confusing, disruptive and has led us to annual aggravation. Property tax reduction has been long overdue in Michigan. The result has been taxpayer revenge, which has had harmful effects. It would be unfortunate if we lost this great opportunity because of taxpayer vengeance.

The Township of Northville is experiencing a rapidly growing population and it must be concerned about this growth. This well-planned community has been blended with the City of Northville for a collectively good quality of life. Both the present and the future of Northville Township are not, at any time, the responsibility of anyone else but us, the residents. Approval of the Haller Proposal goes a long way toward meeting identified needs and creating a better community for each of us to share.

The Haller gift means:

- No land costs, all dollars go the results.
- A Senior Citizens area, a super connection to any library.
- Cultural activities, a mark of a quality community.
- Terrific recreation field sites, meeting a desperate need.
- Beautiful open space, belonging to all of us.

I believe the election of May 1 will be successful and permit our acceptance of the Haller gift. The benefits are too great and the cost too small for me to believe otherwise. EVERYONE WINS.

The bonus is a vision of a new, even better relationship with the City of Northville. This new solid bridge will have a positive effect on all of us.

We cannot stop caring about our community. Please vote YES two times on May 1.

No more tax

To the Editor:

Once again, for the fourth straight year, I appealed our property assessment large year-to-year increase and lost. The big difference this year is I feel we had proven quite adequately that our assessment was unjustly increased. And I've also learned that many other of my fellow township residents also had the appeals "denied." But once again we find a "few select individuals" who either had no or very little increase or were granted rollbacks of assessments after appealing their cases.

And now they want us to vote in additional millage for the library. Like many others, I think "a library" would benefit our community. However, I also feel our taxes are already high enough and now going higher due to unfair and unconscionable assessment increases that they should adequately cover the costs of "a library." Please note, we're not only going to vote on "a library" but much more is piggybacked on the library proposal — some of which is doubtful need. And I feel particularly incensed about more millage when many of us will pay more than our "fair share" of the costs due to unfair distribution of our township's increase in property assessments.

As a result, I and the other three votes in our household will vote down the library millage and I urge others to do the same, especially those of you who were also treated unfairly in your assessments. As it is, our taxes for 1990 should only increase by the inflation rate (about five percent), which will still place most of us in a very high property tax group — without a millage increase. Good luck to all of us.

Greg Arceri

Worth it

To the Editor:

As the former director of the Northville Public Library and an 11-year employee, I was involved in moving the library three times and setting it up in its current location 10 years ago.

The library has clearly outgrown what was always intended as a temporary home. In spite of its limited space, however, it has been heavily used, a reflection of the value this community places on learning and reading, both for children and adults.

Though there are differing points of view on the best location for the library, one issue hopefully is not debatable: Northville needs a new and larger library. I would further argue that the longstanding tradition of it being supported by both township and city should be continued, as the best way to provide excellence in library service to this community.

Anne Vargo Mannisto

No user fee

To the Editor:

There are four compelling reasons to vote "yes, yes" for Haller library:

1) THE COMMUNITY NEEDS A MODERN LIBRARY — one that not only includes more resources and space to use them, but space to meet and discuss or listen to ideas, as well. We need the 472-seat auditorium, meeting rooms, and Senior Citizens Activity Room.

2) THE PRICE IS RIGHT — Other options suggested would cost about the same per square foot as the Haller Library and would not include the additional 59 acres of land (of the 72 acres Mrs. Haller donated, 13 will be used for library and parking lots). Mrs. Haller's 72-acre gift is worth between two and three million dollars.

3) THE COMMUNITY NEEDS SPACE FOR RECREATION FIELDS NOW — and will certainly need land in the future. Mrs. Haller's gift gives us space for a library, playing fields and the future.

4) WE ALL CHOSE TO LIVE IN A THOUGHTFUL COMMUNITY. For many of us "thoughtful" is as important as "attractive" and "safe." Good public schools help nurture thoughtful children AND adults. A modern public library will maximize the efforts of the schools and families.

In discussing the issues related to building the Haller Library, these issues of need and cost have been among those most often raised. Two others, though, also need to be addressed.

Some have asked the question, "Is it reasonable to build the library outside of the central business area?" Since a survey tabulated last year by Friends of the Library showed that 82 percent of library users drive to the library in good weather or bad, one can see how neither library nor businesses will suffer from locating the library at Six Mile Road and Sheldon. People will simply route their errands differently. A promised bike path from city to library will help pedestrians (it's about a 25 minute walk) and cyclists, be they children or adults.

The last issue raised which has not been addressed in the newspaper is the possibility of paying for our library by user fees instead of taxes. A library sustained by user fees is a private club. Many families would not be able to afford its regular use. Limit access to information and we limit the number of thoughtful, educated people who will participate in the decision-making for our community. We need intellectual democracy. ## Readers Speak uon through public schools and libraries is only enlightened self-interest.

Supporting a library through user fees is not a reasonable alternative to building the Haller Library. In fact, when citizens consider the reasonable alternatives, they are finding that they agree with officials in both the City and the Township: the Haller Library is the way to achieve the best library and the most community resources for the least money.

Not in favor

To the Editor:

As the first round of the Haller Library tax proposal approaches its end on May 1, there are some items which I believe need to be addressed or readdressed before voting.

Item: Our township paid nearly $100,000 for a preliminary architectural design for the new library complex. This was deemed necessary because 'the voters will not approve the millage without a plan.' Rochester Hills passed a millage in 1988 more than five times greater than the proposal here and to this date have not selected a site or designed a plan. When asked at a public hearing about the architect's potential conflict of interest in financially supporting the Northville Citizens for a New Community Library, the answer did not include a 'Yes, I am a financial backer' or 'No, I am not supporting them.'

Item: The township manager publicly denied that future phases are being developed. Privately, Mr. Henningsen told me that we will soon need a new fire hall, and that the township offices will also eventually move to the Haller site. Someone wasn't told the truth. If these additional phases exist, they mean more millage increases.

Item: According to figures received from the township, the total SEV increased by over $58 million from 1988 to 1989. At the 52 plus mills that we are paying, this translates into more than $3 million in additional tax revenue, part of which the township receives. Have our services improved as much in the past year? Have costs of current services risen this much? Or, could this money be redirected, along with a portion of the new taxes we will realize from the development of the old Wayne County property, to a new library facility, without raising taxes?

Item: Should these proposals be approved, the City needs only to maintain the minimal requirements to remain a member of WOLF, and the township will have no choice but to welcome city residents into the Haller Library whenever they choose to visit. It makes no sense for a city resident to ratify the Joint Services Agreement if the Township has already decided to pay the bill.

Item: In Joyce Murdock's letter last week, her figure of a $3,884 cost is valid if you put your tax savings each year into your mattress. In a modest savings plan with a simple interest rate of 8 percent, over 15 years you will have over $5,000. With respect to her claim of costs after income tax savings, she is overlooking the many residents who, for one reason or another, do not itemize their deductions. Do not qualify for the tax credit, or who are renters and only see the tax increase in higher rents. As for her property value issue, I have heard from several seniors and residents on fixed income who have said that if the proposals are approved, the 'For Sale' sign will go up because they can no longer afford the taxes here. Economics tells us that when the supply is up (homes on the market), price comes down.

If you sat and thought for a while, you could think of other reasons why the May 1 proposals are the wrong solution. Remember that every tax dollar eventually works its way into someone's pocket. What some of the pro-taxers are calling "for the community good" or "the public good" may also translate into their own personal good. Your unanswered questions will cost us all. Until and unless you get answers to all your questions regarding the Haller proposals, VOTE NO (twice) May 1.

Stay quaint

To the Editor:

When our family moved to Northville in 1973, one of the dominant factors influencing our choice was the charm and scale of the downtown area as a focal point for a primarily residential community.

During my terms on the Township Planning Commission as both chairman and commissioner, Township master planning was consistently directed towards preserving the concept of a bedroom community with one central business district. Northville was viewed as one community with only administrative separations between the City and the Township.

Locating a new public library outside of the central city area, especially of a scale being proposed for the development of the Haller property, would be a serious mistake. Let's not allow the well intentioned gift of the Haller property to negatively influence the long term planning of our beautiful community.

threatening safety related problem as is Eight Mile Road.

I believe now is the time to repave and widen Eight Mile Road. As you indicated at the Northville City Council meeting last night, Eight Mile Road is not scheduled for actual repaving till 1991. It is irresponsible for both counties to avoid this problem and not take some definite action this year. With the continuing increase in population and development, "Eight Mile Road is a fatal accident waiting to happen to an innocent person."

Bob Old, millman at Timberlane Lumber puts the finishing touches on a door

Lumber barons Timberlane custom cuts wood

By PATRICK KEATING
Special Writer

"We're one of the largest trim lumberyards, by that I mean millwork and doors, in southeast Michigan," says Tom Bloom of Timberlane Lumber in Novi.

Bloom, who says "manager" best describes his job, has been in the lumber business for 15 years. He worked at Timberlane from 1975 to 1985 and for five years at a mill work wholesaler before returning to Timberlane in January.

Timberlane opened in 1970. There was also a second location in Southfield called Northwest Lumber. In 1984 the inventory from Northwest Lumber was moved to Timberlane.

"Lumberyards . . . in a general radius of 10 miles concentrate on 2 x 4's and shingles and plywood and things like that. Our specialty is interior millwork," Bloom says.

Specialty millwork is Timberlane's forte. Daily, an average of 100 interior and exterior doors are assembled and pre-hung. Additionally, radius casings (the interior wood trim for circle top windows and doors) are assembled and prefabricated. Stairways and radius railings can be built as well.

"Most lumberyards would have to special order the type of door that you want, the swing that you want . . . and the type of jamb," Bloom says. "We carry all of these doors in our inventory."

There isn't a saw mill at Timberlane, but there is a mill for specialty work. So, if a customer would like a Dutch door, it could be made at Timberlane.

There is also a railroad siding on the property which allows lumber to be brought in by train car.

At Timberlane there is an extremely large selection of pine and oak moldings. "It's very rare for anyone to have this much inventory and this type of selection in that type of product," Bloom points out. "We're not big on plywood and we're not big on 2 x 4's, but if you're trimming out or doing something special, that's where we come in."

Although 2 x 4's and plywood are not emphasized at Timberlane, there are quantities in stock. They also go through a tremendous amount of treated lumber and carry a large inventory of cedar.

"We're very specialty oriented," Bloom says, "moldings, trims, doors, stairways . . . We're going to stock, sometime within the next week, steel entrance doors and we're going to assemble them as well."

In addition to doors, a fair amount of windows are done at Timberlane, but they aren't carried in inventory. For that, they must be specially ordered.

"We carry the inventory on the doors and on the jambs — all the components, hinges included," Bloom says, pointing out a machine which will apply the hinges, drill the hole for the lock and give the door the proper swing the customer requested. "We do that all here so we don't have to order from someone else and wait four or five days for it to come in and hope that it's right. I think there are probably five lumberyards in southeast Michigan which do this, so it's something that makes us very unique."

Recently a dust collecting apparatus was installed. All the saw dust generated from routers and saws is carried along lengths of tubing to a

"Surgery causes cancer to spread."

No one wants to undergo surgery. But some people may avoid needed cancer surgery because they believe the cancer will spread during the operation. That's a myth. It's not true. Surgery does not cause cancer to spread. Doctors are learning more each day about effective treatments for cancer. If you want the facts on cancer treatment, call the Cancer Information Service.

Business Briefs

THE MEMBERSHIP of the Construction Association of Michigan, CAM, has chosen the Oakland County Jail Addition and Renovation as a winner of the 1990 CAM Construction Showcase Award. The contractor, DeMaria Building Company, Inc. of Novi, and the architect, Neumann-Smith of Southfield, were presented with plaques at the CAM Expo '90, held Feb. 7 and 8 at the Pontiac Silverdome. Ten awards are presented each year to projects that are examples of the finest craftsmanship and design in Michigan.

The jail addition and renovation, completed in March 1989, was built to relieve overcrowding of both male and female inmates, and to bring inmates placed elsewhere back into the county government's central Service Center near Pontiac. Construction and staff training were completed simultaneously allowing for quick inmate occupancy of the buildings.

Brenda Zimmermann, Director of Public Relations for CAM, quoted that "the Oakland County Jail Addition and Renovation was in part chosen for the teamwork required between the county, the sheriff's department and the contractor to finish the project on time without sacrificing high security requirements."

CAROL LAMPHIER of Northville, a Mary Kay beauty consultant, is on the road to success. This month she was promoted to team manager and won the free use of a red Pontiac Grand AM.

As team manager, Lamphier will provide leadership to her personal recruits. Additionally, she will support her director in meeting business goals. To qualify as a team manager, Lamphier had to meet certain sales and recruiting requirements.

As Lamphier continues on the road to success, she can become a silver key team manager. The next step is directorship, where she can win one of Mary Kay's famed pink Cadillacs. Currently there are approximately 5,000 Mary Kay cars on American roads.

Mary Kay cosmetics provides women with a business opportunity that allows them to achieve a high degree of professional status and financial success, as well as helping them to project their optimum self image.

Mary Kay Cosmetics, Inc. is the second largest direct selling company in the nation. The company is an international manufacturer and distributor of premium skin, nail, body and hair care products including cosmetics, toiletries, fragrances and innovative glamour products.

The office is located at the southeast corner of Ten Mile and Novi Roads.

Lumber is this store's specialty

container outside the mill. As a result, both the area and the product are kept clean and the workers don't have to breathe the sawdust. Incidentally, anyone needing sawdust is welcome to it.

Another unique feature of Timberlane is the machinery used for radius casings. "When we determine the proper radius of an existing window or door opening, we take strips of wood, glue them together and clamp them together to the proper radius."

Once that is done and set, a machine has different styles of cutter heads that can be attached to it. "We can take a piece of wood which is the proper radius and by feeding it through the machine, we wind up with the finished product that's going to fit over the top of a particular window. That is extremely unique."

As long as the machine has the proper cutter head, it can make just about any shape or size. If they don't have it, Bloom says, they'll go out and get it. "We specialize with that custom type. We also do the same type of things with stair rails."

Bloom describes Timberlane as "the best kept secret in Novi," saying, "We've been catering to the builders with their doors and mill work for years . . . consequently, we've probably neglected telling the general consumer who we are and what we are."

Of the attached True Value Hardware store, Bloom says, "It's also kind of unique to have a lumber yard with this big of a hardware store . . . We try to carry . . . pretty much everything. We try to keep as complete an inventory as we possibly can and still be able to be small enough to offer people service."

One bit of customer service offered at Timberlane is what is called the Weyerhaeuser Design Center, which was installed last year. "We have computer graphics, what's called a Design Center, in the store," Bloom explains. "The customers can come in and . . . by their answering a few questions, the computer can generate a materials list and a three dimensional picture of whatever kind of deck style they want. It can give them an idea not only of what it looks like, but of what it will cost before they actually buy it."

According to Bloom, customers have found the design center quite helpful. "One of the hardest things for people to do about working around the house is deciding what they want to do. So, we brought the computer in as a useful tool to give you a better picture."

With over 250 years combined experience in lumber, Bloom believes there is a lot of expertise at Timberlane. "There is a lot of knowledge in this company relating to the products that we sell . . . and that's part of servicing the customer. If we don't service the customer, we won't be in business."

Timberlane lumber is located at 42780 Ten Mile between Novi and Meadowbrook roads. The phone number is 349-2300.

Home sales lag slightly, still good

While slightly off the near-record pace in the first quarter of 1989, the local sale of existing homes in March posted a 25 percent gain over February.

Metro MLS, the state's largest multiple listing service, reported sales of 1,566 single-family homes and condominiums in March with the median price dropping to $77,500 from $79,000 a month earlier. This compared to the sale of 1,350 units in February.

"The single-digit mortgage interest rates anticipated by most economists as an aid to Spring sales have failed to materialize as of this time and this has had an effect on the anticipated market," said Douglas G. Courtney, Metro MLS president.

"With the weather finally beginning to warm, however, buyer traffic is increasing. New listings coming on the market are offering them an excellent selection in most locations with the easing of price increases helping close some sales."

Courtney said there are no signs showing any significant drop in mortgage rates, but added that sales growth in the Spring months would likely start moving prices back up, so now is the time to buy.

"There is still strong competition among lenders and we are urging buyers to examine all their financing options," he said. "There are some interesting new concepts being introduced that shorten the life of the mortgage and add a very significant saving in the total interest paid."

To help school future buyers on the steps involved in purchasing a home, Courtney said Metro MLS and the Western Wayne Oakland County Board of REALTORS are conducting a free, Homebuyers seminar on Tues. May 1. This is strictly an informational program and there will be no solicitation by real estate agents.

Scheduled as a public service activity during American Home Week, the two-hour program will begin at 7 p.m. in the Holiday Inn Livonia West on Laurel Park Drive near the I-275-Six Mile intersection.

"Buying a home remains one of the biggest decisions most people will make in their lifetime and we want to help them prepare to make all the right moves before they enter the market," Courtney said. "About half the program will be devoted to answering questions."

He noted that previous seminars have drawn capacity crowds, so that reservations are now requested from those wishing to attend. These can be made, or more information obtained, by calling (313) 478-1700.

Andrea Pabon holds a lot of titles. She's an Air Force staff sergeant. A single mother. And, because she buys U.S. Savings Bonds, a Great American Investor. "With Savings Bonds, I'm really taking advantage of a smart, affordable investment," she says. What makes them so attractive? "It's not easy raising two kids on a sergeant's pay. Bonds are a safe way to invest in our future." Savings Bonds come in a variety of denominations, are free from state and local income tax, and you can buy them at work—like Andrea—or where you bank. # COLON CANCER, BREAST CANCER AND HEART DISEASE CAN ALL START IN THE SAME PLACE.

Too many people get into trouble because they open their mouths without thinking. Unfortunately, the diet that most Americans eat may contain enough fat to increase the risk of certain cancers as well as heart disease.

But you can help reduce your risk by eating a low fat diet containing lots of fruits, vegetables, whole grain foods, lean meats, fish, poultry and low-fat dairy products. For a free booklet on low-fat eating, call 1 800-EAT-LEAN.

Remember your brain is only a few inches from your mouth. When you eat, we suggest you use it.

This tree died of a heart attack.

Carving hearts on trees seems harmless enough.

But the fact is, it cut short the life of this majestic oak.

By gouging into the bark, vandals crippled the tree's vascular system. So, like thousands of other innocent victims each year, the tree slowly died.

But the fight against vandalism is gathering strength from the example of Lynn Brauer and Carol Eichling.

When vandals girdled a 300 year old Chinquapin Oak near their Marthasville, Missouri home, they wrapped the wound in sphagnum moss and tended the tree daily, despite blizzard conditions.

If not for the severe winter, arborists feel the Chinquapin might have survived.

We believe miracles can take root. When people care enough.

Give a hoot.
Don't pollute.

"Surgery causes cancer to spread"

No one wants to undergo surgery. But some people may avoid needed cancer surgery because they believe the cancer will spread during the operation. That's a myth. It's not true. Surgery does not cause cancer to spread. Doctors are learning more each day about effective treatments for cancer. If you want the facts on cancer treatment, call the Cancer Information Service.

Backyard compost fits all lifestyles

By Marilyn Herald

The observance of Earth Week, April 22-28, has heightened public awareness of the need to protect and preserve the environment every day, all year long.

Due to this new awareness, more and more individuals are taking a serious look at ways they can get into the act, from recycling papers and plastic to planting trees and shrubs.

One of the most efficient methods of recycling is backyard composting. According to "Compost Michigan," a Cooperative Extension Service bulletin from Michigan State University, "Backyard composting is appropriate for all lifestyles, because it can be done on a small, medium or large scale, using a low, medium or high effort."

Composting is based on the premise that nature recycles its nutrients. Micro-organisms break down the complex structures of dead plants into components which are essential to the growth of new plants.

The slogan for composting, "Let It Rot," is also the title of a book by Stu Campbell, detailing the craft of composting.

While "letting it rot" may sound like an odoriferous business, a backyard compost pile, if properly done, need not annoy the nose, either your neighbors' or your own.

"Soil incorporation is perhaps the easiest way to compost in the backyard, when space is limited and yard wastes are minimal," according to the Backyard Composting bulletin.

Do not include meat, bones and fatty foods in the scraps which are to be incorporated into the garden. Kitchen scraps (minus meats and such) should be buried at least 6-8 inches beneath the surface of the ground or they can be included in the compost pile if they are then covered with soil.

For those who live in homes with limited gardening space, scraps can be buried in around the flowers or tomato plants.

Mulching is also a simple way to utilize organic waste materials. To do this, spread leaves, grass clippings or shredded woody wastes beneath ornamental plantings for initial use as mulch. As these decompose, they provide soil enrichment.

Chipping or shredding machines can be rented or purchased and used to chip materials for mulching or for use on informal garden paths.

A three-foot square holding bin of wire, or a bin made of a circle of fine-mesh wire, provides the simplest method of composting. The bin should be placed in a shady place and gradually filled with grass clippings, leaves and harvest remains as they are collected.

These plant materials should be layered and a handful of nitrogen fertilizer may be added between each four-inch layer of materials to achieve the proper carbon/nitrogen ratio, according to the Backyard Composting publication.

Top soil may also be used for layering and this method adds additional decomposing agents to the heap.

Since moisture and aeration are essential, you should keep the pile damp but not soaked. A usable compost can be produced in this manner in six months to two years, depending on the mix of materials.

The cooperative extension bulletin recommends occasional turning, shredding of materials and addition of high-nitrogen materials or fertilizer to speed the decomposing process. Odors are kept under control by layering the wastes with soil.

If you are really planning to go into gardening in a big way, presumably you will have lots of space for a large composting bin and a good supply of yard wastes.

An efficient way to manage this volume is to construct a series of two or three turning units, or bins, out of lumber and wire. The compost can be turned and moved to an adjacent bin on a regular schedule.

Bins can also be constructed of concrete blocks and wire. Covers of mesh and lumber can be made for the bins to keep animals out.

Begin the compost pile by alternating layers of organic materials and monitor the moisture and temperature of the pile regularly. Decomposition will bring the heat of the pile up to 130-160 degrees in the middle and warm to the touch on the outside.

According to Backyard Composting, during the initial period of intense decomposition activity, the pile should not be allowed to become too dry. When the pile begins to cool, it should be turned into an adjacent bin with a shovel or manure fork.

This turning mixes uncomposted material from the outer edges of the pile and the temperature should start rising again. After a few days, the pile should be turned into the finishing bin and new layers of compost started in the first bin.

Persistence and a little extra effort in this manner can provide finished compost in a few weeks instead of a few months.

Backyard Composting suggests that household garbage can be easily composted by building a worm box in the basement or backyard. To do

Scraps, grass produce garden

Darrell Trembath of South Lyon takes his gardening seriously. Not only does he compost most of his family's kitchen scraps and lawn clippings, he practices "square-foot gardening" with zeal.

Holder of a horticulture degree from Michigan State University, Trembath has turned a 16-by-16-foot square portion of his backyard into a neatly laid out garden patch which last year produced 20 pounds of carrots, 15 pounds of potatoes, lettuce, onions, cucumbers and more tomatoes than his family of four could eat.

"I'm making good growing soil out of straight clay," Trembath said with a wave of his hand toward the small area where kitchen scraps are mixed with dirt and grass clippings to be composted into humus.

"Those bags of leaves were given to me by a friend to use as mulch around my tomato plants. Mulch keeps the roots cool and moist and stops blossom-end rot," he explained.

Trembath's garden patch is neatly laid out in rectangles with raised plank walks between them. "The walkways keep the planting areas soft and 'friable' (crumbly) instead of packed down from walking on them when you are taking care of the plants."

In the "square-foot gardening" method, Trembath said plants are placed so close together that there is little room for weeds to grow in between. "It really is an easy way to garden," Trembath added.

In the gardening book, entitled appropriately "Square Foot Gardening," author Mel Bartholomew points out that square-foot gardening is based on squares instead of rows. Each square holds a different vegetable, flower or herb.

"In general, seeds or plants are placed the same distance apart as that shown on seed packets when they recommend that you thin to so many inches apart in the row," the author stated. "The difference is that instead of being planted in rows with extra space between them, the plants are placed in a square, the same distance apart in all directions."

Bartholomew goes on to warn that with the square-foot system, the gardener should never walk on the growing soil. If he or she does, the soil will become packed down, eliminating the necessary air space between soil particles and make it difficult for water and air to penetrate.

Pieces of scrap lumber can be nailed together to make neat, attractive walkways between the garden blocks. This means that old board can be recycled with a minimum of labor.

For easy watering, Trembath has a "seep" hose made from recycled tires which allows moisture to trickle into the soil when needed. "It's available at ACO and other hardware stores," the gardener explained.

At the Trembath home, all the kitchen scraps which will readily decompose are collected in a one-gallon container, transferred to a covered bucket and poured into a trench in the compost area about once a week. Covered with earth and lawn clippings, the material decomposes and before long it is ready to mix into the growing areas.

"You don't feel so bad about any leftovers that may have to be thrown out because they spoiled in the refrigerator as long as you can put them in the compost pile," commented Darrell's wife, Dr. Corleee Trembath. "They aren't really wasted when they go back into the ground to provide nutrients for new plants."

Around the House: Designs for Living

Clarey compact, economical

By James McAlexander

Compact and economical to build, the Clarey fits the needs and the pocketbooks of small families looking for a starter home.

Several other features appealing to parents of young children are the indoor utility room and full bathroom close to both the kitchen and entryway. Kids can dash into the house for a "pit stop" and grab a snack on the way back out without leaving tracks anywhere else.

The roomy kitchen has a built-in dishwasher tucked under the counter close to the corner sink. Storage and work areas are generous, including a pantry, as well as plenty of cupboard and counter space. With the range so handy, family members can ladle out seconds directly from the stove top without leaving their stools along the eating bar.

Storage areas line the hallway, and ample closet space is available in each bedroom. The master suite opens into its own private deck, which could be enclosed, and a skylight brightens the master bath.

Book-lovers can create a small wall of books by installing floor-to-ceiling shelves in the living room and front bedroom shelf nooks, or shelving only the upper area leaves a convenient recess for a desk—a natural for the family computer.

A large fireplace fills the back corner of the living room. Adding a ledge along that angle would create an inviting spot for toasting backside and reading bedtime stories.

For a study plan of the Clarey, (208-29) send $5 to landmark Designs, P.O. Box 2307 CN, Eugene, OR 97402. (Be sure to specify plan name and number when ordering.)

Eager to compost? Some dos and don'ts

Anyone who wants to make the most out of kitchen scraps, lawn clippings or leaves may be tempted to dive right into composting.

However, according to the Michigan State University Cooperative Extension Service, there are a few dos and don'ts of which one should be aware.

• Don't use unfinished compost. It will rob your plants of nitrogen instead of acting as fertilizer. You can also spread garden diseases with unfinished compost.

• Do mix finished compost with topsoil to prepare a garden, flower beds or for potting mixtures.

• Do mix manure (if available) or high nitrogen fertilizer with yard wastes. Sprinklings of fish fertilizer, ammonium sulfate (20 percent nitrogen) or urea (45 percent nitrogen) also work well.

• Do not use more than one-fourth pound of fertilizer per 15 square feet of compost. When composting low-nitrogen materials — such as sawdust, paper or woody plants — increase fertilizer rates.

• Do add lime, small amounts of wood ashes or crushed eggshells to neutralize acids which may form in compost and can cause an odor problem.

• Do layer materials two to six inches thick, taking care to mix grass clippings, as they tend to compact.

• Do add topsoil to layers to provide a good source of micro-organisms.

• Don't compost weeds that are heavily laden with seeds (some will not be killed during the heating process).

• Don't ignore strong odors. Simply turn the pile when odors are detected.

• Don't add meat or fish scraps to the compost mixture. They may attract animals (dogs, cats, rats) and they do not decompose easily.

• Don't add diseased vegetable plants to the pile if compost will be used on a vegetable garden. The disease organisms may reappear the next year.

this, prepare a 3-by-2-by-1-foot wooden box with a hinged cover. This size will accommodate the kitchen wastes from a family of four or five persons.

Use shredded cardboard, newspaper strips, partially decomposed leaves or peat moss as a bedding material. Add one to two pounds of red worms. These can be purchased or obtained from manure piles.

Bedding material helps the worms escape when compost gets too hot for them. Household garbage such as lettuce and cabbage leaves, carrot tops, potato peels, citrus rinds, coffee grounds, eggshells and moldy leftovers can be fed to the worms.

The garbage should be buried in the bedding and covered with more bedding so that the worms can work.

Two pounds of worms can process a pound of garbage a day, according to the Backyard Composting bulletin. Keep the bedding damp but not soaked.

After several months, you should move the vermicompost (worm castings, uneaten garbage, bedding) and worms to one side of the box. Begin placing fresh garbage and bedding on the other side and the worms will leave the finished compost.

At that time, the completed compost can be used as a potting soil supplement or for enrichment around tomato and other plants.

One of the benefits of composting is that you may not need to purchase fertilizer after you have the composting underway. Compost contains some nutrients, but its greatest benefit is in improving soil characteristics, according to Backyard Composting.

If manure has been used during the composting process, the compost may be all that is needed to achieve good plant growth and production.

To use compost for lawns, screen the material and use as a seed-starting material or as a top-dressing.

It is recommended to work the compost into the soil of flower beds or vegetable gardens (before or after planting) to a depth of two-to-three inches.

For the "indoor" gardener, compost can be mixed with topsoil for use in potting plants. It should, however, be sterilized by baking it in a 200-degree oven for one hour.

When composting, you should also add lime, small amounts of wood ashes or crushed eggshells to neutralize acids which may form in compost and cause an odor problem.

Cloudy glassware can be cleaned up

By Gene Gary

Q: I have several cut-glass vases which have developed very unattractive water stains over the years. Do you know what can be used to clean these vases and restore their beauty?—A.K.

A: Sometimes cloudy glassware can be cleaned by simply adding a little ammonia to water and letting it stand in the vase for several hours or overnight. Rinse with clear hot water.

Another recommended product for removing water stains caused by mineral deposits is "De-Solv-It", manufactured by Orange-Sol Inc., 9 N. Roosevelt Ave., Chandler, AZ 85244.

If the staining is more severe, and acid solution is best. Try vinegar first, but if that is not strong enough, use a solution of muriatic acid and water, equal parts. Pour the acid into the water to prevent splattering. Remember that muriatic acid is dangerous. Wear old clothes and rubber gloves to protect the hands and goggles to protect the eyes. Use with extreme care. The acid solution should dissolve the stains on your vases.

If this treatment does not work, mineral deposits could have actually etched the glass surface. If this is the case, you probably will not be able to remove the stains. However, if the glassware is valuable, you might consult an expert on restoration of glass products and antiques.

Q: Our driveway has some unsightly stains, including some rust imprints from cans left standing on the surface. Can you make any recommendations for cleaning concrete and removing rust stains?—C.C.

A: For general cleaning of grease and oils stains on concrete, we recommend that you first scrub the stains with paint thinner or grease solvent. Then mix one part sodium citrate to six parts of water and six parts of commercial glycerine. Add sufficient whitening powder to form a thick paste.

A coat of this paste should be kept on the stain for one week, and a new paste added when it dries out. Then flush the dried-out second layer away, and the stain should be gone.

For rust stains on concrete, use the same mixture—but if the stain still remains, make another paste of one part sodium citrate crystals to six parts of water and add sufficient powdered whitening. Heavy layers of this spread and dried on the rust stain will usually remove it.

Another method of removing rust stains calls for an acid/water mixture. Since working with acid is dangerous, extreme caution is recommended. Wear old clothes, goggles and rubber gloves. Avoid skin contact and inhalation of fumes.

Use a solution of 1 pound oxalic acid powder or thio glycolic acid mixed with a gallon of water, never water to acid. Avoid splashing. Mop this solution on the stained area (don't reuse the mop for other projects).

After two or three hours, rinse with clear water, scrubbing at the same time with a stiff brush. Do not use a brush with metal bristles. They tend to leave small metal pieces which also will rust. Tough stains may require a second treatment.

Once the concrete is cleaned, it is a good idea to use a good masonry sealer or water sealer to protect the surface from further staining.

Q: We moved into a house where the previous owner had painted designs on the wall of one of the bedrooms in a bright fluorescent orange paint. We repainted the walls using sealer and wall paint. Unfortunately, the orange paint keeps bleeding through even after several coats of wall paint. Do you know what can be done to cover this orange paint permanently?—D.W.

A: There is a primer on the market which might solve your problem. Sta-Kil primer (No. 164 White) is manufactured by Porter Paints, 400 S. 13th St., Louisville, KY 40203. The manufacturer claims that this product will cover and seal paint problems such as yours.

TAKE VINCE AND LARRY'S CRASH COURSE IN SAFETY BELTS.

LESSON
No. 1

"As you know, Larry, pretty soon all cars will come with automatic safety belts or air bags—and I don't mean your mother-in-law!"

"That's right, Vince, but these new automatic gizmos only do part of the job to keep you from being a windshield warrior. You've still got to make sure your safety belt is buckled up."

LESSON
No. 2

"Larry, do you know what works best when they fit tightly?"

My Uncle Bernie's false teeth."

"No Larry, safety belts. You've got to always make sure that yours is snug and that whatever safety belt system your car comes with is in a-ok-working order."

YOU COULD LEARN A LOT FROM A DUMMY.

ROUGH RIDING

Mountain bikers unite to take back the trails

By LESLIE PEREIRA
Staff Writer

As the mountain biking season heats up with the weather, there seems to be a lot of confusion as to where the thick-tired, rock-hopping bikes will be permitted.

Last fall, an outspoken assortment of park rangers, hikers, horse-back riders and environmentalists claimed mountain bikers were tearing up nature trails and terrorizing nature lovers with their excessive speeds and irresponsible attitudes.

"We've gotten an awful image," said Linda Skrok, acting secretary for the Southeast Chapter of the Michigan Mountain Biking Association (SEMBA).

The unseemly innuendoes eventually reached the ears of David Hales, director of the state Department of Natural Resources, who pronounced an emergency ban of all-terrain bicycles from state lands.

But when mountain biking enthusiasts got wind of the impending restrictive rules, over 100 quickly joined forces, formed SEMBA and undertook a successful letter-writing campaign to counter the opposition and convince Hales not to sign the banning decree.

It worked, and miffed mountain bikers have mounted a vociferous defense, insisting that instances of reckless riding by mountain bikers are overblown and the incidence of collision between cyclists and other trail users is minimal to nonexistent.

"There have been no signed complaints about conflicts with mountain bikers," Skrok said. "There have been some close calls, but no signed complaints."

Gary Fischer, park manager for Maybury State Park, agreed that the perceived problems with mountain bikes on public lands is exaggerated.

"The only problems we have is when the bicycles get on the horse trails," Fischer said. Similarly, Skrok said the notion that mountain bikers are facilitating soil erosion in recreation areas is also unfounded.

"A lot of environmentalists say we are causing erosion but there are no studies to support that," Skrok said.

Stephen Timoszyk, an avid cyclist and assistant manager at Town and Country Cyclery in Waterford, agrees with Skrok.

"They are saying that it (mountain biking) ruins the trails but I think it is the horses that ruin the trails," Timoszyk said.

But other public land users insist there is evidence of erosion in the form of deeply rutted land, dead plants and a loss of nutrient-rich topsoil.

Ken Langton, a hiker affiliated with the Sierra Club, leads group walks through Stinchfield Woods near Ann Arbor.

"We often come across areas where bikers have gone off trails and have torn them up," Langton said. "We want areas where they are not supposed to be, not to be torn up."

And Margaret Searing, who handles conservation care for the Sierra Club's Huron Valley Group, insists that an awareness of environmental degradation is not foremost on the minds of riders as it should be. She cites compaction and rutting of the soil, as well as disruption of wildlife and breeding as the main problems with rampant riders.

"People need to be educated as to the proper use of public lands, otherwise we will all lose them," Searing said.

Despite the wide range of views on the effects of rugged-terrain bicycles, a consensus appears to be building around designating specific trails to meet the diverse needs of all land users.

"Michigan is really behind in exercising some sort of control," said Neil Lacasse, state parks coordinator for the Department of Natural Resources.

Lacasse cited Minnesota, Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Wisconsin and Ontario, as all having rules specifying areas of use for mountain bikes, but defining legislation may sting more in Michigan as it has over four million acres of state land devoted to parks, forests and recreation areas.

Although SEMBA believes bikers and hikers can exist in harmony on the same trails, they indicated a willingness to accept separate trails if they are "separate but equal."

"We tend to be getting less and we don't think this is right," said SEMBA president Christopher Delridge.

For now the DNR is holding meetings with citizens groups representative of the diverging points of view in trying to come up with a "fair and equitable plan."

"The DNR is studying the issue to find out where there are conflicts between state land users," Lacasse said. Lacasse anticipates some sort of decision within the next 30-60 days.

So for now trail users are making the most of their freedom to decide where they want to hike, bike, horse-back ride or just take a Sunday stroll with their families before the specialization of trail use sets in.

VOLUNTEERS

Helping out locally

By DOROTHY NASH
Special Writer

Do you know why the five members of the Northville City Library Board meet twice a year for five minutes just to prove their existence? Lois Winters, who has been president of the board ever since it was formed in 1979, explained it this way.

Originally Northville's library was a Community Library, a subsidiary of the Wayne County Library, and therefore without its own jurisdiction as to hiring personnel and purchasing books.

In 1979 the City Council proposed that the library become a public library, cooperating in service with Northville Township, and most importantly that it join WOLF (Wayne-Oakland Library Federation) system.

With membership in WOLF, the Northville Public Library would be one of 60 libraries, operating independently as to hiring personnel and buying equipment but also providing card carriers with availability of books in the whole federation.

Making this move meant setting up a Library Board which would be the tie with WOLF.

According to Winters, a council member knowing about her tremendous interest in the library, especially in her volunteer activities with Friends of the Library, asked her whether she would like to be on the new Northville City Library Board. She said yes. She was appointed by the council. She was elected president.

And so she has stayed, reappointed by the City Council every five years.

"We meet," Winters said, "for five minutes. If there is business to take care of, we do it, but usually there is none."

It's a case, she said, "of being there because we have to be there to maintain membership in WOLF."

And volunteering for the Northville City Library is that important to Lois Winters. It's a place she visits two or three times a week — not just to borrow books but to work on projects of the Friends of the Library.

Statewide race, local riders enter

Local cyclists will soon be heading for the hills to compete in one of the nation's largest mountain bike races.

On June 9 and 10, the 1990 NORBA National Point Series and Sleeping Bear Mountain Classic will be held at the Sugar Loaf Resort in Leelanau, Mich.

"This is a weekend-long event," said Marcus Opie, owner of the Tour America Bike Shop and mountain biking team based in Rogers City, Mich. "and it's the biggest race in the Midwest."

Two of Opie's team racers, Lori O'Neill and Jeff Braumberger, are Northville residents.

"Lori is one of the area's top female road riders," Opie said.

O'Neill has been a cyclist for the past five years and raced as a member of Team Lycra, a national road racing team, last year.

However, although O'Neill has been training on her mountain bike since last fall, she has yet to try her hand at one of the woodsy races.

"I think I should do fair," O'Neill said. "I really like mountain biking. It is different than road racing but still has many of the same movements."

Unlike traditional street bikes, mountain bikes have curved racing bars and all-terrain or "fat" tires which allow a cyclist to easily handle the bumpy back roads of mountainous areas.

Opie said mountain bike races are very similar to road races with a set course, "except it is over the river and through the woods." Races are generally held in ski resort areas, through muddy woods and up and down steep hills.

According to Opie, all-terrain biking has become an increasingly popular sport in the past few years. Most active mountain bikers are men and women between 20 and 40 years old, with nearly half of all cyclists riding two to three times a week.

The sport has become so popular that major races are held in eight states, including Michigan. And the 1996 Summer Olympic Games will include mountain biking in the cycling events.

In Our Town

Happy birthday to Northville woman who is 101

Congratulations to Pansy Smith, who has just turned 101 years old. Mrs. Smith was born on April 3, 1889 in West Virginia. She owned and operated a newsstand in Charleston, W. Va. for much of her life where her husband, who is now deceased, was a telegraph operator for the Wheeling and Clarksburg newspapers. She retired at age 75.

Mrs. Smith moved to Northville in 1978 and lived with her granddaughter, Mary Conley and her family for five years before entering the Star Manor nursing home on Main Street, where she currently lives. Mrs. Smith is life master bridge player, loved to read and sewed almost all of her own clothes for most of her life.

Yerkes House acquisition

One of the newest acquisitions for the Yerkes House in Mill Race Historical Village is a handsome chandelier with a ruby globe and crystal prisms, which is to be hung in the dining room.

Connie Eis, a member of the acquisition committee for the Yerkes House, relates that the chandelier was purchased in an Ypsilanti antique shop where it was on consignment. It originally hung, she says, in an Ypsilanti Victorian home of about the same vintage as the Yerkes House. Named after the village president, the home was moved to the Mill Race in 1968 from Cady Street behind the First Presbyterian Church. The Northville Downs, which had acquired the property, moved the house to the Mill Race.

Volunteers have since spent hundreds of hours restoring the home to its original condition and furnishing it as a prosperous lawyer would have in the 1800s.

At their March meeting, members of the Base Line Questers voted to donate funds to the Northville Historical Society to cover the purchase of the new chandelier. One of the purposes of the Quester organization is to aid in historic restoration and preservation. The donation is a major project this year for the Base Line Questers, which raises funds with an annual antiques auction at its May meeting.

Town Hall tickets

Tickets for the 1990-91 Town Hall speaker series are still on sale. Speakers will be: "As The World Turns" soap opera star Eileen Fulton on Oct. 11; former Iranian hostage Col. Charles Scott on Nov. 8; Miss America 1988, Kaye Lani Raye Ralfo on March 14, 1991; and veteran newsman Jack Reynolds on April 11, 1991.

The cost is $30 for tickets to the series of four lectures. To order tickets, write to: Northville Town Hall, Box 93, Northville, MI 48167. Tickets to the post-speech luncheons will be available for purchase after June 1 and will cost $11 each. Luncheon tickets are only available to those persons who have already purchased lecture series tickets. Registration forms and payment for the luncheons should be sent to the above address, but not until after June 1. Make checks payable to Northville Town Hall.

Town Hall fund donations

Money raised through the Town Hall Lecture series is given away annually to needy organizations. The deadline for charitable organizations to apply for the funds raised through the Town Hall lecture series is May 31. Interested organizations from Northville, Novi and Plymouth should send a letter stating exactly what their charity does to: Board of Awards, Northville Town Hall, Box 93, Northville, MI 48167.

SILVER SPRINGS

The Silver Springs Parent Teacher Association (PTA) continues to be busy this month. Members chose Maria Croma and Meg Coponen to be honorees at the Founders' Day Banquet held April 25.

Our thanks go out to Cathy Cardinal and Debbie Peloso for organizing our skating parties this year. The final party on March 25, was a fun evening for everyone, except our president who broke her wrist. A drawing was held for three free skating parties and the winners were Kim Edge, Jackie Dygert and Kristia Schoendorf.

We were fortunate to have the over-stuffed chair and ottoman, purchased by the PTA for the library, arrive on the day of the meeting. Members could "try it out." We hope students enjoy a "special" chair to use while reading. Many other reference books have been ordered for use in the library by the PTA.

Our congratulations go to our second grade teachers, Jeff Lauer, Wendy Kelly and Debbie Jagusch for their efforts in organizing the "Jump for Heart" event the end of March. Staff, students and parents participated in raising over $3,600 for the Michigan Heart Association.

Through the JES program the lower elementary students attended an assembly by the Enterprise Kids. These Gibraltar High School students taught our students about self esteem and drug awareness through the use of puppets.

The Student Council has had a busy month making plans for the Teacher Switch Day, a chess and checker tournament, adopting an animal, sponsoring color days, and an egg hunt.

The Silver Springs Publishing Center, chaired by Paula Stachura and with the help of parents, has been busy laminating and binding the stories students have written on the computers. Several classes had their books completed in time for parents to view them during conferences.

There will be an assembly on May 7, by Stephanie Wheeler Glyson from SWEEP, speaking on recycling and the environment.

Parents and friends mark your calendar for May 10 at 7 p.m., the Spring Musical, "Kids! Kids! Kids!" will be presented under the direction of music teacher, Jan Salmon. It promises to be a fun evening.

While you have your calendars out be sure and mark May 18, our Art Fair and Ice Cream Social will be held from 6:30-8:30 p.m.

Also, you may want to mark your calendar for May 31, to see our student newscaster, Paul Stachura, on Channel 50. He will be seen at 6:58 a.m. and again at 4:30 p.m. Congratulations Paul!

The third grade students from Diane Vanston's and Phil Derrski's classes will be meeting and working with their science mentors from Meads Mill in May.

Several field trips have been planned for trips to the zoo for first graders, to Camp Ohlyesa for fourth graders and to the Detroit Institute of Arts with art teacher Lynn Waltersheid for fourth and fifth graders.

Our next and last meeting of the year will be held on May 15, 9:15 a.m. in the music room.

AMERMAN

Are you as anxious as everyone else to get your spring annuals in the ground? Well, the Amerman flower sale is just in time to satisfy your needs. Order forms are available to all in our school office. Orders are due in by April 30. Hanging baskets only will be available for Mother's Day, by request only, with a pickup day of May 10. All other baskets and flowers will be available for pickup May 17.

Teacher Appreciation week will begin May 7. There are plenty of fun activities in store for our teachers as we take time out to show our appreciation to those who give so much to our children.

Kindergarten Round Up will be held in two parts this year so as to better acquaint those attending Amerman in September. May 10 at 7 p.m. will be a parent only night. May 17-18 will be parent/child night. Parents and students will have the opportunity to meet our kindergarten teachers, experience class activities and become familiar with Amerman's special services.

May 18 our JES presents "Crazy George." George Shauer has been performing basketball wizardry for 15 years. Show involves basketball tricks, toys, music, props and constant student participation. Perseverance, sportsmanship, self-esteem, school pride, dangers of tobacco, alcohol and drugs will also be covered.

May 21 begins our Arts in Action Week. Students will be treated to a taste of the arts in various areas. There will be several demonstrations and even roaming "artists" from long ago.

Our Amerman Parent Teacher Association (PTA) Appreciation Luncheon will be enjoyed May 22. Parent volunteers will be treated to a delicious lunch, as PTA says "thank you" to all those who make our PTA the success it is.

Two dates to circle on your calendar are, May 24 when students will have half day of classes, and May 28 which will be no school. Tentative day off is May 25. Parents will be notified.

Mary Mattis

WINCHESTER

The Winchester Parent Teacher Association (PTA) held their monthly business meeting on April 4. The PTA has received their slide for the playground and it should be installed in the following weeks to come.

The JES has a "Story Builders" assembly scheduled for April 25, held on Wed., 1:15 p.m. for K-3 and 2:15 p.m. for grades 4-5. This program uses stories created by the Winchester students. The students stories are taken from pen and paper to a live performance. All parents are encouraged to join in the fun.

FUN FAIR! This special event will be held on April 27, 6-9 p.m. for Winchester families and friends. This year, weather permitting, we will have a dunk tank, and two moon-walks out doors. There will also be food, games and prizes. Come and join us in an evening of fun. Pre-sale tickets for this event will be April 26 and 27.

The PTA has purchased a cassette player for the purpose of introducing classical music to the students. The music will be played throughout the day in the halls, and teachers may request it to be played in their rooms.

David Longridge, principal of Meads Mill Middle School came in and spoke to parents about the 1990-1991 school year for new sixth-grade students. He encouraged all parents and fifth-grade students of Winchester to attend the orientation that will be held in May. Meads Mill is trying to make the transition from fifth grade to sixth grade as comfortable as possible. There will be helpful information for parents and students at this meeting. Check your Winchester Wire for the upcoming date and time for orientation.

Winchester PTA is having a Staff Appreciation Luncheon on May 9.

The next PTA meeting will be held on May 2 at 9:30 a.m. in the teacher's faculty room. There is no babysitting and all are welcome to attend the meeting. Hope to see you there.

Visiting staff at Marquis

By LESLIE PEREIRA
Staff Writer

Derek Wolshonak's visit to Michigan could more appropriately be described by the phrase "... a funny thing happened on the way to Ann Arbor."

By a stroke of luck, the Marquis Theater happened upon the talents of the New York choreographer in time for its next show. Stephen Sondheim's musical comedy "A Funny Thing Happened on the Way To The Forum," set to open on April 28.

"I just came to visit friends," Wolshonak said. He had intended his trip to Ann Arbor to be a vacation and visit to a friend who teaches dance at the University of Michigan.

At this point in the explanation, director Art Rizzo jumped in.

"When I was staffing the show I contacted a woman at U of M but she was unavailable," Rizzo said. "But she said she had a friend out of New York."

Wolshonak said he didn't mind the dual purpose of his two weeks vacation time and said it has happened before. On previous visits he has taught "a few master's classes" for the dance department at the University of Michigan.

Wolshonak said the entire cast has put a lot of long, hard hours into rehearsing because of the nature of the play.

"There is a lot of movement in this play," Wolshak said. The play does not include any structured dance, he explained, but all of his movements reveal the influence of the ballet, jazz, tap and oriental movement he specializes in.

When a local theater decides to do a Broadway revival the director receives the script and music — everything else is up to the director, choreographer and cast to create the final product.

"They don't give you the choreography," said Wolshonak. He said this really allows each Broadway revival to have its own special flavor while retaining the ingredients which created the musical's original success.

Said Wolshonak, "You have to do the show for the performers you have." He said it is an art to adapt the show in such a way that exploits each individual's talents and minimizes their limitations.

A performer himself for 10 years, Wolshonak now puts his energies into choreographing other performers. He has worked on the New York performance of "On Second Avenue," and has choreographed the national tours of "Tintypes" and "Ain't Misbehavin'."

Currently, he is working on a video to promote a local New York club act in Europe and Japan and will soon begin working as choreographer with the Delaware Theater Company.

"This is really a zany show," Wolshonak said. "It is a great comedy."

Local church expands

By LESLIE PEREIRA
Staff Writer

The rapid growth of the local communities has left almost nothing untouched — not even the First Presbyterian Church of Northville.

Because of its burgeoning congregation as well as the increasing popularity of community outreach programs, Northville's downtown landmark of 161 years is being remodeled and expanded.

"It is a project important to the whole community," said senior pastor Lawrence Chamberlain.

Chamberlain said the church has been caught in a tug-of-war between church activity needs for space and the increasing number of requests for meeting rooms from community groups such as Alcoholics Anonymous, women's and singles' groups and scouts.

"Every church is being forced to make these decisions," Chamberlain said. "And we wanted to expand our facility so we could continue to do both."

Begun last year, the church has undertaken what has become a $1.6-million project to include adding on two new meeting rooms, a new organ for the main sanctuary and a complete renovation of the church's lower level.

When the project is completed there will be elevators to expand access for the handicapped, three newly redone kitchens, a large youth room downstairs, a "forum room" for adult and singles' seminars, and a "living room-style" fellowship hall.

Additionally, there will be new staff offices which will be remodeled but smaller than current offices, which occupy former classrooms.

"We are hoping to dedicate the whole thing by Christmas," Chamberlain said.

Also, as a result of a recent $300,000 gift to the church, a new Casavant organ will be installed in the sanctuary.

"It should be a magnificent instrument," said Chamberlain.

Jeff Fowler, a church employee, explained that the current organ, which has 18 ranks and 15 stops and occupies both organ chambers at the front of the sanctuary, will be pulled out in June.

The new organ, which is about twice the size, has 42 ranks and 29 stops, and requires that several sections be mounted on the wall. Installation of the new organ should begin in July and "hopefully" be completed by August.

Will the congregation be expected to go without the music that is so much a part of church worship for a whole month?

"We have a piano and we will use an electric organ to tide us over," Chamberlain said.

Women excel in culinary event

By LESLIE PEREIRA
Staff Writer

Northville has been blessed with some good cooks. Or rather, some great chefs.

Mary Brady of Northville, one of only two female chefs in the entire state of Michigan, and her protegee Pamela Ford, also of Northville, recently returned from a culinary arts competition in Singapore with several medals.

As part of a group of nine traveling as the Schoolcraft College Culinary Arts Salon Team, they went for "12 grueling days" of non-stop food preparation and cooking.

"It was quite an experience," said Brady about the Salon Culinaire, which is held every two years.

And Ford, with her blond hair stuffed up under the tall white mushroom cloud hat, happily agreed with Brady's assessment.

"It was a great experience. I received a bronze medal and I never expected it," said Ford, who is only a first-year student at Schoolcraft.

At one of the world's top culinary events, the Schoolcraft team competed in several different categories against some of the best international chefs.

"We were lucky to fare as well as we did," said Brady of the gold, three silver and three bronze medals with which they returned.

Brady said the Schoolcraft team started with a disadvantage in the competition because they cook American style, which is generally plainer and more natural-looking than European dishes.

"Their food is very decorative," Brady said, "and international competitions tend to prefer this pretty look."

According to Brady, one of the most nerve-racking events required each chef to prepare a selected food item in a simulated plexiglass cubicle kitchen with a panel of judges looking on. Important to the contestant's score were such factors as cutting techniques, cleanliness and the food's final appearance.

Brady stresses the fact that being a chef no longer means just being able to cook well.

"The education is much more important now — people skills and management," said Brady, who holds a degree in hotel and restaurant management which gave her a "head start" on the road to becoming a chef. And she looked the part of the gracious hostess in her crisp white tuxedo shirt and red bow tie.

"Front-of-the-house treatment is so much more important than people realize," Brady said.

After only three years she was able to acquire the necessary combination of education, experience, competition points, nutrition background and proper food-handling techniques.

"(Master chef) Jeff Gabriel started to encourage me," Brady said. "He has really been a mentor."

Master chef is the highest rank a chef can attain and is achieved by successfully passing a 12-day examination given at the national Culinary Institute.

Brady, who is a certified executive chef, has taught Schoolcraft culinary students for the past three years and will begin offering her expertise to the general public in May. She will teach "Cooking with Style" through the college's continuing education program and recommends it for beginning and seasoned cooks alike.

At the few specialized culinary art schools like Schoolcraft, students are put through two years of intensive training which includes courses and lessons in everything from cutting meat to folding napkins and greeting customers.

"It is real important to know about the all-around business," said Ford, a former waitress at Home Sweet Home in Northville. But, "I love to cook," Ford said. "I think it runs in my blood."

And in her family. "My grandfather's father was a butcher in Scotland and my father's brother is a chef in California," said Ford.

AUSTRIA

Motoring through the heart of Europe

By Audra Hendrickson

We cross the border from Liechtenstein into Austria at Feldkirch near the El River, and can hardly tell we've left one country and entered another.

The scenery and the buildings are so similar; the same red tile roofs, the same stucco, the same stone.

The population of Austria is 7.5 million, 90 percent Catholic. The initials we see here and there—AEIOU—stand for "Austria est imperator universer" or "Austria shall rule the world." I say they stand for vowels. Everywhere are little chapels and shrines. Byzantine onion steeples and towers are common.

We enter Ariberg province, a popular ski area, stopping in St. Anton for lunch.

The road to the Ariberg Pass winds around a cliff face and a long steep drop to the River Inn far below us. We see peasant women working in the fields. There are tall churches with thin-shingled spires on both sides of the valley wherever there is a clutch of houses and many high perfectly-tended green meadows with chalets sprinkled about.

We are on our way to Sunny Salzburg. During the afternoon we cross into Germany briefly, then back into Austria. Salzburg (Salt Fort), is located on the banks of the River Salze. Our hotel is the Ausperg. It treats us to comfortable twin beds, thick warm comforters and warm radiators. We begin to thaw. Ich bliebe hier! I will stay here!

It's cold, foggy and damp outside. We tramp through a tiny cemetery where everybody who was anybody is buried. Fresh flowers adorn many of the tombs. Not all the bodies are beneath the stones which bear their names. It was the custom in other days to bury the head of an important person such as a monarch or saint in one church or churchyard and bury various other body parts at other sites.

We see the catacombs dug into the face of a cliff near the ancient cemetery, and we see the castle on the hill-top. We see St. Peter's Cathedral, the original of which dated from 696 A.D. We see Mozart's birthplace and the dwelling of an archbishop who had a mistress and 15 children.

Finally, cold and tired, we board the coach and leave for Vienna. There are wayside shrines along the roads and highways; a crucifix, a statue of the Virgin Mary, a statue of St. Joseph—each in its little roofed niche.

There are fewer red tiled roofs. They are grey now, laid in diamond patterns or vertical rows, like sheets of corrugated aluminum.

We cross the Danube, the second largest river in Europe. We saw it first in the Black Forest where it rises for its run to the Black Sea. We pass through Durnstein, where Richard

Austrian homes in Durnstein are surrounded by mountains

Lionheart was incarcerated after the First Crusade. Richard's prison on a pinnacle overlooking Durnstein is, like the Lionheart himself, now in ruins. There are terraced bluffs along the way, with thick grape vines.

The Danube is tranquil, slow, wide and beautifully gravel-banked on both sides. In the distance are rugged, rocky mountains. As we approach Vienna they moderate to rolling hills and the valleys, woods and meadows.

The Vienna Woods surround Vienna, a city of 1.5 million. We drive through the trees to our Tourtel in the suburb of Oberlaa. We decided to eat in the hotel dining room. It is a warm, cozy place where tall correct waiters with completely correct manners take orders and then disappear for what must be the correct amount of time—hours. It seems to us—before returning with cool drinks, hot dishes and large bills, all presented with perfection.

Many, many, many minutes later the waiter returns, having taught us, why those in his line of work are called "waiters" though I believe the diners are the "waiters" and the servers are the "waited-for." He is wheeling a serving cart piled high with the main course and various accompaniments. All heads turn to watch as our "waited-for" lifts a platter, spoons a side dish, brandishes a knife, twirls a fork, stirs a sauce.

On All Hallows' Day we go into the city of Wien for a tour of St. Stephen's Cathedral, which is so dark that hardly anything can be seen. Our guide, a neat, well-dressed Austrian woman of some 30 years, brooks no nonsense. Her English is precise. Her manner is that of an impatient schoolmistress attempting to control a room full of rowdy students, all of whom are larger than she. We are the worst group she has ever had to guide.

On All Souls' Day we leave for Villach, just inside Austria and very near the Italian and Yugoslavian borders. There is very dense fog. We see blue sky for the first time in days as we climb toward the Semmering Pass along winding narrow roads. The scenery is spectacular—trim green fields and meadows, clumps and groves of pines and mixed deciduous trees whose leaves have begun to change. There are roadside shrines everywhere in this Styria region of the Steiermark and, of course, the castles and churches on every important peak.

We reach Villach Fenturn in late afternoon, skirting the shores of Lake Worth, a water sports center with resorts round its edges. Our hotel is the Parkhotel Karnten. The hotel is about 10 miles from Lake Worth, and closer to other smaller lakes. There are boats for hire, including motor boats for water skiing. Our room is spacious and warm and the beds are soft and comfortable. Larch French windows open onto a balcony.

Started in 1910, the Parkhotel Karnten was completed in 1912, just two years before the guns of August shattered the peace of Europe and the world. The hotel functioned as a luxury resort hotel until 1933 when the Nazis took over. It served the German high command until 1945. It then became the headquarters for the English occupation forces until 1955, the year Austria was freed from all foreign occupation.

The hotel lobby is impressive, with a 20-foot high coved ceiling painted in gold and off-white.

Fine fishing in area lakes, rivers

As the weather warms and the state's rivers and streams run faster and lakes come alive, Michigan residents take to the water in droves.

More than 2 million anglers take advantage of the state's excellent fishing each year, in pursuit of such delicacies as the delicious bluegill and wily trout.

While the Great Lakes and northern trout streams are renowned for their fish, many angling opportunities exist closer to home. Both Wayne and Oakland counties are full of lakes and ponds considered good sources for various fish species, many of which are within an hour drive.

In Waterford Township, Cass Lake is home to bluegill, pike, walleye, and bass. Loon Lake has bass, bluegill and walleye. Maceday and Lotus lakes have bluegill and largemouth bass, and Maceday Lake has walleye. Oakland and Woodhull lakes are good sources for bluegill, pike and largemouth bass, and Oakland Lake has walleye as well.

bluegill, walleye, pike, and bass have been caught at Kent Lake in Milford, while Orchard Lake is home to bluegill, pike, and bass. Sylvan Lake is home to bluegill, and bass.

Union Lake in West Bloomfield has bluegill, walleye, and bass, and Orion Lake has pike.

Closer to home, Walled Lake is rumored to be an excellent source for pike and both small and largemouth bass.

In Wayne County, Belleville Lake has bluegill, walleye, small and largemouth bass. Newburg Lake in Livonia has largemouth bass, while the Huron and Detroit rivers are both sources of large and smallmouth bass.

An indispensable source for the rules governing fishing in the state is the 1990 Michigan Fishing Guide. The pamphlet, published by the state Department of Natural Resources (DNR), is free at any store that carries fishing licenses, like Meijers or K-Mart. It lists the legal fishing seasons, methods and daily catch limits. The guide also provides helpful fishing tips and health advisories.

An annual fishing license for residents, good for all species except trout and salmon, costs $9.85. A trout and salmon license costs an additional $9.85.

Newcomers to the sport of fishing need not worry. For the beginner fly fisherman, there's the basic Fly Fishing School sponsored by the Michigan Fly Fishing Club of Michigan. The one-day schools will be held Saturday and Sunday, June 9 and 10 at the Proud Lake Recreation Area's Outdoor Center on Wixom Road in Milford.

Instructors will teach basic fly casting techniques, how to "read the water," and how to tie basic knots. Necessary equipment and suggested stream etiquette will also be discussed.

The school comes just in time for Michigan's fifth annual Free Fishing Weekend. For Saturday and Sunday, June 9 and 10, all fishing license and trout/salmon stamp fees will be waived, for both residents and visitors to the state. The weekend marks the end of National Fishing Week, June 4-10.

A wide variety of events are typically scheduled for the weekend. For more information, call the DNR at 517-373-1280. For a report on fishing conditions across the state, call 517-373-0908.

MHSAA expands football class system

Classes, playoff field double under format

On March 23, the Representative Council of the Michigan High School Athletic Association (MHSAA) approved the expansion of the current four-class system in football to eight beginning this fall.

The new system creates four new classes and doubles the number of teams making the playoffs from 64 to 128, as 16 teams from each of the eight classes will be qualifying for post-season play. It was the latest in a series of proposals dealing with prep football and its playoffs.

The new format splits each of the four existing classes in two, dividing Class A into AA and A. The same applies to Classes B, C and D.

The four championship games in the single-letter classes will be played the Friday of Thanksgiving weekend and the other four on Saturday. All will be at the Pontiac Silverdome.

"It does water down the playoffs some," Farmington Hills Harrison coach John Herrington said, "but we'll get used to it. I guess. If you want to expand, it's the best way to do it."

The original proposal, by Macomb County athletic directors, called for dividing the state into six classes, which would have required creating a new point system to determine who qualifies.

Jack Roberts, executive director of the MHSAA, proposed a seven-class plan, splitting all but Class D in half based on enrollment figures. Class D schools objected, and the proposal that was accepted calls for eight classes, in football only. All other prep sports will not be affected.

"It won't change how we approach anything," Northville Coach Darrel Schumacher said. "We think about winning our division first, then the conference. Anything after that is just a bonus. I think it was implemented as a method of creating more fairness. The main thing is you are getting away from an unfair situation where we are competing for a playoff spot against schools like Plymouth Salem, who have twice as many students."

Teams will continue to receive 80 points whether they beat a Class AA or Class A opponent, 64 for BB/B, 48 for CC/C and 32 for DD/D. Class A schools such as Northville, Novi, South Lyon and Lakeland will clearly benefit because they'll be grouped with smaller A schools their own size. Plymouth Salem is an example of a

The following list indicates where Western Lakes Activities Association (WLAA) and Kensington Valley Conference (KVC) high schools will likely be classified in the new football playoff system based on enrollments for the 1989-90 academic year.

CLASS AA (enrollment between 1400-3142): Westland John Glenn (2516), Plymouth Salem (2119), Plymouth Canton (2053), Livonia Stevenson (1852), Livonia Churchill (1651), Howell (1613), Brighton (1514), Livonia Franklin (1431).

CLASS A (964-1381): Milford (1376), Walled Lake Western (1283), Walled Lake Central (1237), Lakeland (1202), North Farmington (1145), Northville (1144), South Lyon (1133), Novi (1055), Farmington (1042).

CLASS BB (684-961): Hartland (932), Farmington Hills Harrison (905).

Tentatively, the Class B schools will have enrollments of between 504-683 students. The Class CC limits will be 362 to 503 and Class C will be 256-361. Those with enrollments falling below 255 will be Class DD and under 180 will be Class D.

"We are hoping to finalize the class assignments by June 1," said Jerry Cvengros, Associate Director of the MHSAA. "We need to know how many schools will be offering football before we can straighten out the classes and set up the regionals."

Class AA school that would have benefited in reverse fashion last fall.

The Rocks were 8-1 and just missed qualifying, losing out to Ann Arbor Pioneer, which had a 7-2 record but played a stronger schedule based on the number of bonus points received.

Had the new system been in place, Salem would have qualified, because one of the four ahead of it, Portage Central with 1,120 students, would have been in Class A.

"I'm in favor of anything that gets more teams involved," Salem coach Tom Moshimer said. "It only affects us in that we would have been one of the four.

Northville Coach Darrel Schumacher has mixed feelings on football's new eight-class system

"We're still going to compete with the big schools in the state. The ones that feel good about it are the Northvilles and Walled Lake Westerns. They won't have to compete against the big As."

For some it's a matter of indifference.

Big schools such as Salem, Westland John Glenn and Howell won't be affected. They'll merely be classified as AA instead of A.

The new format should reduce complaints from smaller schools in each class, but doubling the number of playoff qualifiers also increases the number of teams that will be close to qualifying and not make it.

Furthermore, Class A schools like Livonia Franklin (1,431) and Brighton (1,514) will be in Class AA and competing against schools with 2,000 or more students. The starting point for AA is 1,400.

"There's still a great disparity among some A schools," Herrington said. "Some AAs are still a lot bigger than some As, but you can't bring it down too much."

A potential stumbling block is finding enough quality sites for the increased number of games once the tournament reaches the semifinal stage in late November.

"I think they're going to have a real problem solving that," Herrington said. "I think they'll have to play a lot more games at one site. We may have to play at Jackson (on the artificial turf in Withington Stadium) in the morning and play on through the day."

Coaches applaud new plan

Most area coaches are applauding the Michigan High School Athletic Association's (MHSAA) decision to expand the football playoff format, which will feature twice as many classes and teams in 1990.

Giving more players an opportunity to compete in the playoffs was the main objective of the MHSAA's Representative Council, which will tie up loose ends at its spring meeting next month.

The new plan, to date, calls for four new classes and increases the number of teams making the playoffs to 128.

So where does this leave the Kensington Valley Conference schools? Well, kind of all over the place.

Howell (1,613) and Brighton (1,514) both will move up to Class AA; Milford (1,373), Lakeland (1,202), South Lyon (1,133) and Novi (1,055) are Class A; and Hartland (932) will be in Class BB.

The other three schools in Sliger-Livingston land are Northville (1,144) and Pinckney (994), which will stay Class A, and Fowlerville (504), which remains Class B.

Milford could move up and Fowlerville may drop, however, if the Representative Council changes the cutoffs. According to Jerry Cvengros, associate director of the MHSAA, the class assignments should be finalized by June 1.

Perhaps the area's strongest supporter of the new format is South Lyon coach Bob Scheloske, who took the Lions to the playoffs in 1987 but just missed three other times.

"I like it because it provides more teams a chance to be state champions," he said. "There's a better breakdown of classes, too. You shouldn't get any real mismatches enrollment-wise."

"Another key is it didn't lengthen the season. Before, when they added teams to the playoffs, they also added a week to the season. Doing that really is not in the best interest of the kids."

Hartland coach Tom Barbieri is another big supporter. He feels the playoffs are a positive experience and that as many players as possible should be allowed to compete in those exciting games.

He also likes the new plan because it alleviates the pressure to go 9-0 every year.

"You might be able to go 7-2 and still make the playoffs," he said. "It also takes some pressure off scheduling. Teams that are Class B are always trying to schedule all A schools. Class A schools are trying to schedule all A schools. Now some could drop down a bit and still make the playoffs."

"You also know that once you're in the playoffs you'll be playing teams that are closer to your size. Novi was a good example of that a couple of years ago. Here they were with 1,150 kids, playing Traverse City with 3,500."

Novi Coach John Osborne concurred.

"It affords us a better chance to get into (the playoffs) and once you get there, the match-ups will be more even, enrollment-wise. I like it."

Barbieri later explained the reasons that the MHSAA doubled the number of classes for football and not the other sports.

"The difference is that football is the only sport where everybody doesn't make the playoffs," he said. "Everybody makes the districts in basketball, but, in football, you have to qualify to make it."

"What I think — and I can't really speak for the state here — is they're going to experiment with it for a couple of years, and then you may see it expand to other sports."

Darrel Schumacher, the coach at Northville, has mixed feelings about the change. He likes it because it gives small Class A schools like Northville a better opportunity to compete for a state title, but wonders if that same title might be tarnished since twice as many will be awarded.

The area's lone opponent of the new format is Pinckney coach Tim Cogswell, whose team qualified for the Class B playoffs in 1989. The Pirates were elevated to Class A last January.

"I don't think it's real great," Cogswell said. "I think they should have kept Class B, C and D the same, and made four divisions out of Class A."

Novi involved in U-M baseball scandal

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN
Staff Writer

Former Novi High School baseball Coach Gar Frantz and some of his players unwittingly found themselves involved in the scandal at the University of Michigan which resulted in the resignation of baseball coach Bud Middaugh and three-year probation for the U-M program.

Like several other teams in the area, Novi participated in selling programs at Wolverine football games in order to earn money for the school's booster club. The entire operation was supervised by Middaugh and became the focus of a Big Ten and U-M investigation that uncovered 43 violations dating back to 1983.

Apparently, selling programs in such a manner does not break any Michigan High School Athletic Association (MHSAA) rules, but it was in violation of Big Ten rules. The most serious infraction did not involve any high school players, but rather direct payments from Middaugh to U-M players who acted as supervisors for the football program sales. The improper payments totaled $51,762 according to the Big Ten. Sixteen of the violations included providing improper transportation, lodging and meals for prospective recruits and their families.

After the successful recruitment of former Wildcat pitching star Jeff Tander by Middaugh in 1987, Frantz worked for him that summer and again in 1988 at the U-M Baseball Camp. It was sometime during that span that Middaugh asked Frantz if his players would be interested in selling football programs. It was something that players at Plymouth Canton had been doing for seven years. Other schools like Belleville and Plymouth Salem were also involved, according to Frantz.

"(Middaugh) invited us to sell programs in order to make money for our booster club," Frantz said. "We

"It was a way for the kids to do something for the booster club, rather than just getting the money from their parents. I don't think there was anything wrong with what we did."

Gar Frantz

checked with the MHSAA and they didn't have a problem with it. I thought the whole thing was totally legitimate because the kids weren't paid a penny and no money was ever transferred from (Middaugh) to me or the kids. The money was sent directly to the Novi High School Athletic Boosters in care of (Novi Athletic Director) John Fundukian."

Every football Saturday in Ann Arbor during the 1988 season, Frantz and from eight to 12 players would meet at 9 a.m. at Crisler Arena and were assigned 10 cases with 100 programs in each. The Novi contingent would sell the programs outside Michigan Stadium until kickoff, return to Crisler and turn in the proceeds and any leftover programs.

"Then Middaugh would give all the kids a ticket to the game," Frantz said.

The Novi boosters reportedly received 10 percent of what the players sold, amounting to 20 cents for every $2 program. Frantz estimates that during the season, about $350 was made for the booster program.

"The kids liked it," Frantz said. "They got to see a good football game and they were helping our athletic programs. With some of the money, we were able to buy carry bags for the players to put their gear in."

"It was a way for the kids to do something for the booster club, rather than just getting the money from their parents. I don't think there was anything wrong with what we did."

In July of 1989, Middaugh resigned under pressure after the initial allegations of impropriety. Earlier this year, the Big Ten culminated a lengthy investigation and slapped U-M with probation that prohibits live television or NCAA tournament appearances for the 1990 and 1991 seasons, as well as a limit on scholarships.

During the investigation, a representative of the Big Ten telephoned Frantz and questioned him about Novi's role in the sale of football programs.

"A Big Ten investigator, representing the NCAA, called and asked me how much money we got selling programs," Frantz recalled. "After I told him, he asked me if I was aware that it was a violation of the Big Ten. He said, 'The Big Ten does not fund or finance high school baseball programs.'"

"I told him that the money was earned and everything was above board."

Middaugh was later charged with embezzlement, but a district judge dismissed the case on April 11, saying the prosecution failed to prove a crime had been committed in the preliminary hearing. Canton coach Fred Crissey testified for about 15 minutes.

"Basically, they called on me because we've been involved with that program more than any other high school," Crissey told the Plymouth Observer. "It was a legitimate fundraiser (for the Canton Boosters), and it gave our kids a chance to see U-M football."

As for Frantz, the entire episode is regrettable.

"The whole thing was a mess," he said. "It seems to me that (the Big Ten) was out to get Middaugh. It's unfortunate that innocent high school kids were indirectly involved in all this."

Golf Notes

KENSINGTON TOURNAMENTS: There are more tournaments in store for area golfers this summer at the Kensington Golf Course. Last year, the Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority sponsored a series of golf tournaments at Kensington Metropark in Milford. The series included six different tournaments including both team and individual competitive formats.

The objective in sponsoring these tournaments, according to tournament director Doug Curry, is to offer the golfing public well-run tournaments using USGA rules and handicaps at a low cost. The tournaments are designed to challenge tournament veterans and first-time tournament players alike. The formats allow players with a wide range of skill levels to have a successful tournament experience.

Entry fees are kept low ($3-$4 per player) and prizes are modest (usually trophies and free greens-fee certificates). That places more emphasis on participation and enjoyment.

USGA handicaps are required thus allowing players at all skill levels an opportunity to be successful. Curry also said that establishing and using a USGA handicap makes the game more enjoyable.

Last year, the tournaments generated a great deal of interest. Over 850 entries were accepted for the six tournaments. This was highlighted by 240 entries in the Individual Championship held in September. At least 75 percent of the golfers entered had never played in a USGA-style tournament before.

This year, the program has been expanded. There will be a playoff among at least four of the HCMA courses for both a Senior and Individual Championship.

Course Senior Championships will be held on July 30, with the HCMA tournament—featuring the top eight from each course to follow on Aug. 10.

The Individual Championship will feature qualifying rounds on Sept. 8 or 9, with Course Championships on Sept. 23. The HCMA finals will be on Oct. 7.

In addition, there will be the regular lineup of a Women's Championship, Junior Championship Two-Person Best Ball and Four-Person Scramble tournaments.

For more information on Kensington or HCMA tournaments, call Doug Curry at (313) 849-2025 by day, or at (313) 437-1835 in the evenings.

MICHIGAN GOLF: Between now and next winter, Michigan golfers will "chip in" an estimated $500 million to the state's tourism economy, AAA Michigan reports.

"Michigan leads the nation with courses open to the public," said Peter Erickson, AAA Michigan Club Services director. "In five years, we've seen a 15 percent increase in the number of Michigan courses and all projections indicate more growth."

Michigan has close to 1.3 million golfers. The typical participant plays 18 rounds a season and spends $390 annually on fees, equipment and related costs.

To attract additional spending and ensure that Michigan remains the nation's summer golf capital, developers are investing at least $1 million for each new regulation 18-hole course. And that figure doesn't include the cost of buying 130 to 180 acres of land or building clubhouses and other facilities.

In 1984, Michigan golfers could play a round at 632 regulation courses. Another 19 opened last year, bringing the total to 727. Twenty-three facilities are now being developed, with 27 more in planning stages.

The greatest expansion since 1984 occurred in municipal courses, increasing from 73 to 87. Total courses open to the public jumped from 419 to 493, while private facilities rose from 140 to 147.

But this rapid pace still leaves some players marking time at the tees. Nationally, 290 facilities opened in 1989, but the National Golf Foundation estimates 400 new courses must open annually by the year 2000 to satisfy rapidly mounting demands.

Golf's popularity in Michigan may exceed other states, with 14 percent of its population playing the game, compared to 10.4 percent nationally. Women form 27 percent of Michigan's participants, but 22 percent nationwide.

In addition to playing, golfers flock to view professional tournaments. The AAA Michigan Open, the state's oldest golf tournament, is scheduled for June 25-28 at the Grand Traverse Resort Village.

Other major events include the Mazda Senior TPC Championship at Dearborn Country Club, June 7-10; Ameritech Senior Open at Grand Traverse Resort Village July 20-22; Buick Open at Warwick Hills Country Club, July 26-29; and the Greater Grand Rapids Senior Open at Eiks Country Club, Sept. 14-16.

Hugh Sweeney's sixth consecutive appearance at the 94th Annual Boston Marathon on April 16 certainly wasn't his best, but the 59-year-old Novi resident was still thrilled about competing in the world's most prestigious running event.

Temperatures hovering in the low-to-mid 60s with partly sunny skies caused Sweeney some trouble, and by the 15-mile mark of the 26.2-mile race, fatigue set in. Sweeney did finish the race, but his time of 4:19.00 wasn't what he had in mind.

"I didn't have too good a time," he said. "My time of 4:19 was my worst marathon time ever, but I was still happy to finish."

Sweeney covered the first 15-miles in a little over two hours — which is about the same time winner Gelindo Bordin of Italy was crossing the finish line.

"That's the point I ran out of gas," he said. "The place they call 'Heartbreak Hill' was still a few miles away, but the 15-mile mark was my 'Heartbreak Hill.' I struggled the last 11 miles, but I knew I'd finish. It's a very humbling experience."

For Sweeney, a member of the Novi Trackers, it was his sixth straight Boston experience. His best time was 3:13 back in 1987.

3:39-3:40 range, but it was about 15 degrees warmer than you want and that took a lot out of me.

"It was still a good experience, but not great."

The race drew 9,300 total participants. The following is a list of other local residents who finished the grueling race: the highest finisher for a local runner was Michael Webster of Northville, who placed 598th in 2:52.27. He was followed by Dale Yagela of Northville, who was 2,834th (3:21.05); Larry Huff of Northville, who was 3,074th (3:23.32); Joseph Borro of Novi, who was 3,222nd (3:37.26); Lisa Milczarski of Novi, who was 4,311nd (3:34.3); Victor Barkoski of Novi, who was 4,682nd (3:37.54) and Patricia McFadden of Novi, who was 4,694th (3:38.01).

The only other Novi Tracker to run the race was Lyle Hamilton of Southfield. He finished in 3:23 and placed among the top 3,000.

EARTH DAY WALK/RUN: A total of 533 runners/walkers participated in the Earth Day 10K run and two-mile walk on April 22 at Maybury Park in Northville.

The overall winner was Brett Sandborn, who completed the race in 33:57. In all, 187 runners finished the 10K event. The women's winner was Gabrielle Crandall, who crossed the finish line in 42:13.

The race traveled through a wooded nature area of Maybury Park onto a paved running course. Awards were presented for first, second and third place winners in both the men's and women's categories. All participants received a finisher's ribbon, a carvas tote bag, a continental breakfast and other assorted prizes.

Here is the top three finishers in each of the age divisions:

No rebuilding for Mustang kickers

Neil Geoghegan

In high school and college athletics, you are going to have a turnover. With graduation losses taking players away and newcomers flocking in, it's only natural.

But for whatever reason (coincidence, bad luck or both), many of the Novi and Northville varsity teams this spring are facing some serious rebuilding problems. More than I can ever remember from one season. It could make for a down year overall because so many outstanding senior performers took their diplomas last spring and faded away.

If you follow Novi, names like Scott Wladischkin, Ken Hendrian, Maurice Richardson, Stephanie Groom, Ken Chasse and Nikki Kasten are just a few you may recognize. In Northville, the list includes standouts like Heather Sixt, Mark Kiraly, Rob Richcreek, Jim Willerer, Amy Freimund and Karen Baird.

Honorable mention for graduation losses go to the Northville softball squad (the defending WLAAs with seniors Friemund and Baird), the Novi and Northville tennis squads (both lost seven of their top-10 players), and the Wildcat baseballers (one returning regular).

On the other side of the coin is the Northville soccer program. Always a state powerhouse, the Mustangs enter the '90 campaign with arguably the most returning talent of any prior soccer team in the area. Add to that a pair of top-notch transfer students and you have unlimited potential.

In 1985, the Northville girls won the state Class A soccer championship. No other team since from Novi or Northville have been able to duplicate the feat. The Mustangs, under coach Bob Paul, did make it to the title game last spring but fell 1-0 to Troy Athens. And don't forget the Wildcat gridders, who were just a few yards away from making it to the Class A title game back in 1988.

So the question remains: can Northville win its second girls soccer title this spring? Absolutely.

If the Mustangs can remain injury free, and they follow Paul's advice about taking it one game at a time and not looking ahead (a problem early in the season a year ago), they have a great chance. Teams like Athens, Plymouth Salem and Farmington are also loaded with talent, but when I look through the Northville roster and see splendid performers like Kristi Turner, Karen Cavanaugh, Marcie Dart, Nikki Higdon, Ashley MacLean and Amy Goode — I realize that these are among the premier players in the state, and they play for the same team.

Other starters like Neysa Colizzi, Michelle McQuaid and Laura Whiteley are solid role players who could be stars anywhere else. And even reserve players like Kelly Kronberg, Valerie Schuerman and Merlynn Millgard would undoubtedly start for any KVC squad and many WLAAs.

So at the risk of putting too much pressure on a squad already ranked second in the state, I'll just say this: WHAT A TEAM!

Girls tracksters fall to North, 73-55

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN
Staff Writer

The improvements came from every corner and the score was much closer, but the end result was the same for the Northville girls track squad.

In the second dual meet of the season, the Mustangs were very competitive, but fell to North Farmington 73-55 anyway on April 11. Northville managed just six victories in 16 events, and were shutout in four events, including three-of-four relay events.

"I went through it event-by-event, and every single girl on the team improved their performances compared to our first meet," Mustang Coach Ann Turnbull said. "I'm just happy we're moving forward. The hard work is paying off."

The individual standout in the meet was sophomore sprinter Trish Lukomski, who was Northville's only two-time winner. She took the honors in the 100-meter dash (13.71), and added a lifetime-best effort en route to a win in the 200 (28.2). The other victors included Lisa Almon in the high jump (personal-best 4'-10"), Ris Fleming in the 300-meter hurdles (52.0), Kendra Huard in the 400

(66.0) and the 800 relay team with Fleming, Huard, Kamal Bagga and Lukomski (1:58.8).

Trish Lukomski was involved in three races and she came away with three wins," Turnbull said. "She's proving to be our top sprinter. We were both excited about her performance."

The runner-up finishes came from Barb Woodruff in the discus (75'-11"), Mari Kissenger in the shot put (24'-10"), Julie Buser in the high jump (4'-8"), Fleming in the 110 hurdles (18.31), Angle Tune in the 300 hurdles (55.8), and Lisa Brown in the two mile run (13:22.5). The thirds included Shannon Price in the shot put (24'-7"), Valerie Bassin in the long jump (13'-11"), Kissenger in the 400 (1:09.5) and Megan Holmberg in the 800 (2:46.2).

Turnbull is concerned because her distance crew managed just one top-three finish. She is, however, happy with the sprint and field event corps and wants to give credit to assistant coaches Bob Boshoven and Debbie Julow.

EASTER MEET: The Mustangs (0-2 overall, 0-1 in the WLAA) were the only Northville squad to take part in competition during the holiday break. Northville was entered in six events at the Livonia Franklin Easter Meet on April 18, and placed (top-eight) five times.

The highlight came at high jump, where Angle Tune grabbed first-place honors with a 13'-11" effort. She was also eighth in the 300-meter low hurdles (54.65). Julie Buser chipped in with a third in the high jump (4'-8") and sixth in the 400-meter run (1:10.6). The only other Mustang to place was Kendra Huard, who was fourth in the 800 (2:40.6).

"We only took six because we had a lot of girls out of town on spring break," Turnbull said. "At first I was disappointed because there were some girls who we were expecting to be there and they didn't show up. But it was worthwhile to get the workout and have some success. We entered six events and place in five."

The six-team meet was dominated by Plymouth Canton, although team scores were not available.

Fashion show for walkers slated

After mall walking for over two months, the Laurel Park Pacers are ready to step out in style.

Laurel Park Pacers, a walking club sponsored by Botsford General Hospital, the Livonia Marriott and Laurel Park Place, will host a "Fashions for Walkers" fashion show on Friday, April 27 at 8:30 a.m. in the Grand Court of Laurel Park Place in Livonia.

All ensembles for the show will be supplied by the shops of Laurel Park Place. Both men's and women's walking fashions will be on display.

"Exercise clothes no longer have to consist of gray sweatshirts and T-shirts," said Debbi Avers, assistant marketing director for Laurel Park Place. "Today's exercise clothes blend bright, rich colors with contemporary design to create ensembles that are very versatile."

Fashion consultants from Laurel Park Place retailers will be on hand to comment on the fashions and give fashion tips.

Laurel Park Pacers promotes health and fitness through exercise and developing healthy habits. Walkers can walk everyday in the mall beginning at 8 a.m. Mondays through Saturdays and at 10 a.m. on Sundays.

Botsford General Hospital is a 336-bed osteopathic teaching hospital serving Farmington Hills and surrounding communities. It is affiliated with the Michigan State University College of Osteopathic Medicine in Lansing.

Charity walk-a-thon held April 29

There is still time to join the fun while contributing to a great cause. The March of Dimes wants you to walk for healthier babies on April 29, in WalkAmerica/TeamWalk.

WalkAmerica is the country's largest walk-a-thon and the March of Dimes most successful national fundraiser. Be a part of the southeast Michigan Walk as one of 15,000 Detroiters who will try to raise $1.2 million for the March of Dimes Campaign for Healthier Babies.

There are ten walk site locations to choose from: Algonac, Ann Arbor, Clarkston, Detroit, Farmington Hills, Monroe (Monroe's walk is Saturday, April 28), Metro Beach Metropark, Port Huron, Troy and Wyandotte. Registration begins at 8 a.m. and the walk starts promptly at 9 a.m.

The 25-kilometer walk (15 miles) promises to be fun as well as good exercise. Each walk site will have entertainment, snacks, music and Victory Vans that stop along the route for those who don't walk the entire 25 kilometers.

Participants can walk as individuals or as team walkers. TeamWalk is for businesses, unions and organizations who want to walk together as a team.

WalkAmerica plays a crucial role in the March of Dimes Campaign for Healthier Babies. Monies raised by the walkers helps fund research programs, public and professional health education, and community service projects that focus on preventing birth defects.

For more information on WalkAmerica/TeamWalk call the Walk Hotline at 423-3232. Registration and sponsor forms are at any Kentucky Fried Chicken or K-mart stores.

RUN FOR THE KIDS: The seventh annual Run for the Kids will take place April 29 at Fairlane Charley's in Dearborn. More than 500 runners, walkers and roller skaters are expected.

Requests should be made at least three weeks before the intended speaking engagement. There is no charge for the service and participants will give valuable information about how this service can help them day or night. For more information or to make a reservation, please call the ASK-A-NURSE office at Catherine McAuley health center toll-free at 1-800-526-MERCY (1-800-526-3729) or in the Ann Arbor area, (313) 572-5500.

Fitness Tips

Training, diet optimize athletic performance

By KATHY SADD, R.D.
Special Writer

Spring stimulates us to exercise and participate in athletic events, and training and proper diet are important to optimize athletic performance. Diet supplies the body with the needed fuel sources, and training helps to improve the body's utilization of fuel.

The following is information on nutrition and upcoming events for the athlete.

While good nutrition can't replace a sound training program in preparing you for an event, it certainly can enhance your efforts and help to assure that you perform well.

Carbohydrates are the ideal energy fuel for the body. Carbohydrates are stored in the muscles and liver as glycogen. To maximize glycogen storage (and thus maximize endurance), it is suggested that athletes eat a diet containing approximately 60-70 percent carbohydrates.

There are two types of carbohydrates: simple and complex. Simple carbohydrates are found in sugar, fruits and lactose (sugar found in milk). Complex carbohydrates should comprise the largest portion of the athlete's diet. Foods rich in complex carbohydrates include vegetables, cereals, breads, grains, beans, potatoes and pasta.

Protein has a minor role as an energy source during exercise; however, it is needed to build, maintain and repair tissue. The athlete's diet should contain approximately 15 percent protein. Most people can obtain this quota by eating only 4-5 ounces of lean meat a day.

Fats, although needed in the diet in small amounts, are not thought to enhance performance. Fat intake may be anywhere from 15-25 percent of the athlete's training diet.

Although many race participants skip breakfast before a race, the best thing to eat before a race is a moderate meal containing mostly complex carbohydrates. This should be eaten about three hours prior to running, so it may mean rising extra early. The ultimate goal is to minimize the amount of food in your stomach while you exercise. You need the blood flowing to your muscles, not to your stomach to digest a big meal. Carbohydrates digest more quickly than fats and protein.

The most important supplement during an event is water. In events lasting more than 90 minutes, a carbohydrate snack may enhance endurance.

Once the race is over, enjoy yourself! Eat what you like, but remember the guidelines for your training diet. After an event, you've depleted your muscles of glycogen and you need carbohydrates to replenish them.

Contact your local recreation department for information on races, softball teams and other recreation activities.

Interior design — there's no one 'right' look

If you're thinking of redecorating your home, or if you've just moved, chances are you're wondering what's "in" (and what's "out") in interior design.

Good news: There is no one "right" way for your home to look — and as for trends, the strongest is comfort.

Surprised? Well, consider this: Comfort has been given a back seat to design for some time — all in the interest of being "modern" or "contemporary."

You may remember outlandish Memphis design. The lines were interesting, and the look was fresh. But who's going to sit on those artistically arranged strips of wood or metal for long?

Radically modern has given way to "understandable modern" and "friendly contemporary."

What follows is an overview of current furnishing and interior design trends; we've targeted the 10 most noticeable.

But keep in mind this recent observation by the CEO of a Toronto-based chain of furniture stores: "The trend is that there isn't a trend." In other words, as long as you make comfort a priority, you can't go wrong.

COUNTRY

This is a broad category, encompassing everything from interesting clutter to austere Amish.

Characteristics include a homey feeling, lots of wood paneling, flooring, furnishings, overstuffed chairs, displays of collectibles (usually handicrafts), warm lighting, brick or stone fireplaces, area rugs, shutters, ruffled curtains, hanging baskets and lot of plants.

American country ranges from casual, with wicker furnishings combined with rich fabrics, to retro (classic looks from America's past).

Among the latter are Amish and Shaker styles and Craftsman. These appeal particularly to purists and collectors and are most effective in older homes with architectural styles to match.

European country is also known as "sophisticated country." According to Home magazine, this style is characterized by "Rustic finishes, as well as rustic interpretations of sophisticated designs of Chippendale, French and Italian styles along with washed painted finishes, faux and distressed details."

Fabrics and wall coverings tend toward chintz, with floral/botanical themes. Designs are subtle, restrained and elegant.

SOUTHWEST

Everyone seems to expect Southwest to die — as though it were a fad. It isn't.

Oh, it may not remain the rage. But remember, Southwest was the prevailing style in Arizona and New Mexico long before the big designers discovered it.

But like any strong style, Southwest has mutated. Here are its latest forms:

Southwest kitsch is the low-end, trendy side, characterized by desert colors and accessories: wildly painted hand-carved wood snakes and howling coyotes, repros of American Indian pottery and sculptures, bleached animal skulls, faux stone lamp bases and coffee tables.

Classic Southwest is a reaction to the overkill of kitschy Southwest. It's a return to a more traditional, more primitive kind of furniture, combined with authentic Indian art — rugs, weavings and pottery.

South of the Border/Mexican is characterized by architectural details such as adobe or plaster walls, clay tile floors, arched doorways and open-beam ceilings. You accessorize with Mexican folk art, rustic hefty wood furnishings, wrought-iron railings, banisters, hanging lamps and bedposts, and bright (silk or natural) geraniums or bougainvillea in huge clay pots.

ROMANTIC

This look is lush, lavish, soft, richly detailed and frankly feminine.

The Laura Ashley look is romantic to an extreme; some designers reject it, saying, "The eye grows weary." True, a zillion flowers blooming from couches, drapery, throw rugs, wallpaper and pillows can be overwhelming. But the look continues to be popular; if you love it, get the new book "Laura Ashley Living Rooms" by Kate Corbett-Winder (Harmony Books).

Victorian connotes romance, as well as a gracious lifestyle of afternoons spent arranging roses, sipping tea and reading novels. The look is characterized by opulent details: lace draperies and pillows, damask bedcovers, fabrics mixed in subtle layers of patterns, collections of glass and porcelain — and, of course, furnishings (either authentic or repro) from the Victorian period.

MODERN ETC.

So what if you like pure lines and a contemporary, artsy look? And you don't think it's all that uncomfortable?

Or perhaps you'd love to create a fun decor that is dramatic — and exotic? Consider these popular approaches:

Simple and uncluttered is a reaction to romance. It's masculine but not stark. Rather than being patterned, fabrics have dimension in the form of quilting or tone-on-tone embroidery.

Things to consider before entering the housing market

The faster real estate moves, the more money you make. The figures are enough to frighten even those snug in their own homes, let alone the rest who are salting away every cent for a down payment: The National Association of Home Builders estimates that during the next four years, less than half of the approximately 59 million Americans who pass through the 25- to 34-year-old age category will be able to buy a house.

Are you looking to buy or sell a piece of property right now? It's quite a time to be in the market. Following are some tips, tidbits and trivia to help your purchase or sale decision.

TIME TO BUY

First, get your expectations in line. Talk to a banker, find out how much house you can afford. Settle for less of a house than you'd hoped, if you must — just get into the market now.

Look into financing options above and beyond standard loans. This includes help from your parents. Pride isn't such an issue here, since Mom and Dad benefit, too, in terms of tax deductions and appreciation on an investment.

Investigate equity-sharing, which pairs a potential homeowner with an investor. The investor gets a tax deduction for depreciation and mortgage interest on his or her share of the home, and the homeowner gets a place to live and a deduction on half the loan. Upon sale of the house, the equity is split. Look for a broker who specializes in putting such teams together.

Talk to a broker about possibly qualifying for a loan insured by the Federal Housing Administration, which has a lower down payment requirement and more affordable interest rates.

Look for a house that comes with an assumable mortgage; benefits include a lower interest rate. (This is usually true, since the loan was purchased years before.) Other benefits are a small assumption fee of around $50 instead of a larger loan-origination fee, no credit qualifications on most mortgages, shorter closing time and the bonus of being able to offer an assumable loan when you sell.

If you're having trouble qualifying for a loan because you haven't enough for a 20 percent down payment, look into private mortgage insurance. Insurance premiums are tacked onto the borrower's monthly mortgage payment. With PMI, borrowers can qualify for a mortgage with as little as 5 percent down, qualify for mortgages earlier, and/or upgrade their selection in terms of size or location.

Maybe you can get the seller to subsidize your mortgage for a couple of years. The seller gets a monthly check, and you have an easier time qualifying for a loan. Some mortgage companies even promote the idea through their agents; ask a lender to explain the details to you.

NOW TO THE HUNT

Considering a brand-new home? Realize that a developer has probably been required to pay for improvements such as roads, sewer, traffic lights, even schools, and that the costs — called impact fees — will be passed on to you. A NAHB survey of 1,300 California builders in 1987 came up with a tack-on fee of almost $19,000 per house.

Thousands of Americans are realizing that "sweat equity" today can mean an older house, a longer commute to work or buying in a less-desirable neighborhood (but one with hopes for renewal).

Some cities even offer incentives to move into areas that are in line for gentrification. Though many programs are targeted to the poor, there are those that are attracting middle-income buyers, too. A real estate agent with a downtown beat can help you explore these options.

Consider a condo. Now, we know you want a yard and a dog and all, but realize that a condominium or town house might not only be more affordable, but better located than an equal-cost house. Two-income households without children, eyes set on careers for now, might find the low maintenance, pools and tennis courts far better suited to their current lifestyles.

No, you say, you want a house. Are you any good with a hammer? More Americans are taking the building or remodeling of their homes back into their own hands, saving thousands. Contact your community college for classes on owner-building or designing.

Do like the Europeans: Co-housing, in which common areas such as kitchens and family rooms are shared between two or more families, are becoming increasingly popular in Denmark and other countries. Architects in the states are catching on, but what's to prevent you from forming something similar in an existing apartment building or downtown loft space? On a simpler scale, a very large house could easily be divided between two families.

Don't overlook manufactured houses (formerly known as mobile homes). Their mass-produced features make them more affordable than site-built houses. Prefab and kit houses — manufactured elsewhere and "put together" on-site, are less costly for the same reason.

Check out foreclosed properties. Banks don't like to hang onto repossessed property, and the deals often are phenomenal.

Finally, if you're shopping the classifieds yourself rather than letting an agent find you a home, look for certain key phrases: must sell, transferred, owner will carry, foreclosure, will trade, desperate, nothing down, flexible terms, death in the family. All indicate a seller who needs to move the property fast — and probably for an affordable amount. "No agents" indicates a "For Sale by Owner", in this deal, you save the agent's commission costs, which you can bet would otherwise be built into the selling price.

TIME TO SELL

Are you going to sell your house yourself, without an agent? Remember, you haven't the access to the multiple listings, where thousands of agents might see your house and bring you potential buyers.

If you can answer "yes" to the following questions, it may be worthwhile to handle your own sale: Is the housing market strong? Are mortgage funds readily available? Are you in a good location? Is your house in salable condition? Do you have plenty of time and patience? Do you have a talent for selling?

Forget it, you say — list the house with an agent. OK, here are your options:

An open listing allows you to list your house with more than one agent; you pay whoever brings you a buyer or no one if you find one yourself.

An exclusive agency listing gives a specific agency the right to sell your house for a specific time period. Reserve your right to sell the house yourself, though.

An exclusive right to sell allows only a specific agent to sell your house for a set length of time. Even if you find a buyer, the fee must be paid to the agent.

A multiple listing allows any agent who belongs to the multiple listings service in a community to sell your house. The fee is split between the listing and selling agents.

Ask your agent about the advantages of "carrying back paper" on the house. In other words, you're the second mortgagee for the buyer; you get a monthly check, they have an easier time qualifying for a loan.

SPIFFING UP

Most buyers want a piece of property in "turn-key" condition: They want it livable from day one. It's to your advantage to do some cleaning up of the place before it goes on the market.

Getting a house ready to put on the market doesn't have to require a major renovation or rehab, according to the Society of Real Estate Appraisers. Their checklist of improvements:

- Clear out any clutter around the house, in the closets, under the staircase or in the garage. Overcrowded storage spaces make it appear as if the house doesn't have enough. Remove unnecessary furniture or gewgaws to make rooms appear larger. Mirrors on the wall have the same effect.

- Clean walls, floors and ceilings, and repaint if necessary. Go with white or another neutral shade. While you might love pale blue, it could subliminally turn off a buyer.

- Clean the carpet and draperies.

- Repair damaged doors, windows, fixtures, wiring problems and leaky faucets.

- Replace loose or damaged tiles in the kitchen or bath. Recaulk where stains can't be removed.

- Check the basement for foundation cracks or water leakage. Their inspector will find the problem eventually, anyway.

- Have heating and cooling systems in good working order.

- Create "curb appeal" by trimming overgrown shrubbery and trees, mowing and watering the lawn, repairing damaged gutters and replacing or removing old shutters and screens.

Some helpful hints for 'covering' up designer windows

Today's homes are full of glass that lets in light and banishes darkness.

And why not? We enhance our lifestyle by bringing the outdoors in. Some of the most sought-after features of new homes are wide French doors and tall clerestory windows.

It's a challenge to cover these light-catchers when the window follows the lines of a vaulted ceiling, arches upward to the second story or is in an awkward location — such as directly overhead.

But don't worry. Even skylights can be covered with special retractable blinds. Shutters can be made to fit Palladian windows. That round window above your bathtub can be decorated with an overlay that looks like stained glass.

A professional interior designer may be your best bet for an effective treatment of problem windows. Many department stores and window-covering specialty shops also employ experts who can help.

If you want to add color and texture to your room, filter light or block it out, add privacy or enhance a view, there are a number of window treatments from which to choose.

Vertical blinds give you control over light, view and privacy while helping to reduce heat gain or loss through windows and doors. Materials include aluminum, PVC, synthetics, cotton and wool. Wood blinds lend a homey, traditional look; mini and micro aluminum blinds come in a rainbow of colors.

Window shades have been around forever, but newer versions filter or block sunlight better than before. They come in a wide range of colors, textures and patterns. You'll find many hem styles, pulls and trims, as well.

Alternatives to the flat shade include fabric balloon shades, which drape in puffy folds, and pleated shades. The latter offer the clean uncluttered look of blinds yet have the softness of draperies. They can be sheer, semi-sheer or opaque, and come in both solid colors and patterns.

If harsh sun is a problem, select shadders with a "solarized" backing.

You can use shutters to cover just about any window, including semi-circular ones. Louvers come in a range of widths, calculated in inches from 1-1/4 to 4-1/2; wider ones are referred to as "plantation shutters." The most popular width is 3-1/2 inches, with a finish that is sandblasted to emphasize the grain.

Rolling shutters installed outside windows can add security to your home, as well as block light and reduce energy loss.

Designers often use valances to soften the vertical or horizontal geometry of blinds, shades and shutters. Valances can be color-coordinated to match other window treatments and furnishings; they also lend a finishing touch.

Nearly any fabric, in any color and texture, can be used to drape a window.

Some are so sheer that they seem almost to disappear. Others are heavy and opaque, closing the room to the outside and enhancing warmth and privacy.

Draperies that "puddle" on the floor are currently in vogue, but before you fall in love with the look, consider the practical side. These can be easy to trip over, could get sucked into the vacuum cleaner, and are likely to attract lint and dirt.

In keeping with the current popularity of country and antique interiors, lace curtains are experiencing a heyday. These include sheer panels, valances, cafe and door curtains, and they are often used in combination with matching tablecloths, bed linens, dollies, shower curtains, pillows, table runners and place mats.

Glass options transform the windowpane and can be stained, etched or beveled. These can be custom made in numerous designs, including florals, contemporary geometrics and formal patterns, and can be tailored to fit any window. Stained glass overlay, applied to a normal pane of glass, is an economical alternative to the real thing.

Learning to deal with bugs

Along with spring come pests, those unwanted roommates that eat your food, clothes and even your house. In the ongoing battle to keep the bugs at bay, you must remember that what kills these critters is none too healthy for you, either.

While do-it-yourself methods — powders, foggers, sprays — do help keep the insect population down, they often are too localized. By failing to penetrate to where the insects hide, some are left alive to breed and quickly repopulate your home. Have a professional pest control company assess the problem and deal with it effectively.

Some companies use a solution of combined chemicals that is effective on a variety of common pests. Avoid this approach. Have them specify the type of infestation, then apply a pesticide that targets the existing species. By doing so you can avoid unnecessary exposure. If there is an infant or pregnant woman in the home, make sure to check with a doctor about the chemicals that will be used.

A layman's guide to do-it-yourself repairs

Leaking roof, dripping faucet, dry rot in the joists perhaps? Ah, the joys of being a homeowner.

Whether you live in a 100-year old fixer-upper or a brand-new custom home, your house can use some work. If you don't think so, it simply means you haven't looked hard enough.

A hard winter in Maine certainly can take its toll on a house, but even balmy California has its share of sagging ceilings and faulty furnaces.

Though pride of ownership is not without its travails, I don't want to paint too gloomy a picture here. To be fair, most repairs are small, maintenance-type jobs. A few shingles damaged by ice or wind, touch-up paint in the hall, weatherproofing a drafty window, clearing a clogged gutter.

Repairs of this caliber can be done by a weekend do-it-yourselfer with a modicum of ingenuity. For those without the predilection for these chores, there are professional handymen who specialize in sorting out this Pandora's box of odd jobs.

As insignificant as these repairs may seem, it is important to get them done as they have a nasty habit of growing into larger, more costly problems. Hiring home-inspection specialists could be a wise investment.

These experts will inspect attics, crawl spaces and other hard-to-reach places for signs of leads, dry rot and termites. They also can uncover more hazardous problems, such as improper wiring, a gas leak or unsafe levels of radon.

TOP PROJECTS

You don't need to settle for merely repairing a problem. Be creative, explore your options: Need to fix that rotted bay window frame? How about replacing it with French doors and a patio instead? Patching a leak in the roof? Why not put in a skylight?

Practical Homeowner magazine gives a top 10 list of projects rated in terms of return on investment.

•Simple, interior face-lift: painting ceiling, walls, trim; wall covering for the dining room; new carpeting. With the cost of a professional job, the return is 106 percent. With estimated do-it-yourself cost, the return is 195 percent.

•Furnace replacement: Replace old unit with new high-efficiency model (reducing annual heating costs 25 percent to 50 percent). The return is 90 percent professional, 104 percent do-it-yourself.

•Exterior painting: 81 percent return professional, 1,357 percent return do-it-yourself.

•Central air conditioning: 80 percent return professional.

•Island kitchen: cabinets, island, desk, shelves, laminate countertop, floor, paint, sink, faucet, appliances — 72 percent return professional, 134 percent return do-it-yourself.

•Basement conversion: vinyl floor, insulation, paneling, ceiling, light fixtures, trim — 71 percent return professional, 198 percent return do-it-yourself.

•Minor energy upgrades: caulking and weatherstripping doors and windows, set back thermostat, attic insulation, insulating water heater — 71 percent return professional, 127 percent return do-it-yourself.

Though the return on the do-it-yourself costs are very attractive, most people would probably choose to have the job professionally done. Finding a competent contractor can be an intimidating task for a beginner. If you're not sure what a "quality" to demand or even what a "fair" price might be, you're a prime target for a dishonest contractor.

CONTRACTORS

In his book "The Helping Hands Guide to Hiring a Remodeling Contractor," Leon Frechette explains how to obtain quality professional help.

can afford, then determine the projects that are priorities. Get a firm idea of what you want done. Compile a portfolio of sketches and clippings.

Using the yellow pages or referrals, choose three contractors. Check with the Department of Labor and Industries to verify that they are licensed contractors and check with the Better Business Bureau to see if any complaints have been filed against them.

Meet with each contractor to show him the project and explain your needs. Rapport and first impressions are very important. Ask for an itemized bid rather than an approximate estimate. Get references and check them — did he start and finish on time, stay within the budget, was he neat and courteous?

Avoid basing your choice solely on price. Frechette's rule of thumb is to always reject the lowest bid.

Having chosen one, make sure that "general conditions" are specified in the contract — stating that the contractor pays for tools, material, labor, is responsible for subcontractors, obtains permits and licenses, provides a guarantee of the work.

Do not sign the contract until it details the contents of the job, completion date, payment schedule. Make sure the contractor includes his license and bond number, then signs and dates it before you do.

DESIGNERS

An interior designer can be a great help as you plan your improvement project.

"Being so in tune with trends in the housing industry and the array of products available, a designer can expose homeowners to options that might never otherwise have been thought of," says contractor Scott Wilson, whose cabinet company — Phase Nine — is used extensively by designers on remodels. "Designers help their clients to achieve the most look for their money."

Designers are familiar with the work of many contractors and will be able to recommend one capable of handling your job.

Make your home safe as well as beautiful

A great house not only looks good — it's smart and safe, too.

New, automated appliances save time and money. Small improvements make it safe for children and elderly residents, detectors sniff out environmental hazards and security measures and insurance protect your house and all it contains.

NEW APPLIANCES

When you think of automation, you probably think of the old "Jetsons" cartoons. Or perhaps you find yourself looking longingly at new episodes of "Star Trek: The Next Generation," in which the characters order gourmet dishes from food banks and the good ship Enterprise tells the crew exactly what to do.

Similar household automation will be a common feature in the not-so-distant future. And not just for its alluring conveniences, but to save precious fuel.

Some of the automated systems to look for include heating systems set on a timer. Although timers are nothing new, future systems will sense when people are in the house and continue to keep it warm, even when a conventional timer would turn the system off. Similarly, garage door openers will sense approaching cars.

Other appliances will be activated by phone, so dinner will start cooking and the hot tub will start heating up while you drive home.

Not only are automated appliances and home systems expected to save fuel and cut utility bills, but they will be user-friendly. Manufacturers, such as Honeywell, place an emphasis on adapting automation to suit the consumer's needs rather than the other way around.

SAFETY FIRST

If your house doesn't have smoke detectors, it should.

"People can cut their risk of dying in a fire in half by using smoke detectors," Jamie Haines, representative for the National Fire Protection Association told Parents magazine.

You probably have a smoke detector in your house. But are the batteries fresh? Should you install more detectors in strategic locations throughout the house?

HOMEFACTS

■ Remodeling projects can make a difference at resale.

Remodeling project	Costs back at resale
■ Additional bathroom	75 to 125%
■ Re-do kitchen	50 to 100%
■ New fireplace	40 to 100%
■ Add family room	25 to 100%
■ Refinish basement	30 to 70%
■ In-ground swimming pool	10 to 50%

SOURCE: Family Circle magazine

Check the batteries once a month and change them twice a year. Detectors should be placed in each bedroom and in hallways, as well as the kitchen and basement. Another fire prevention measure: a small fire extinguisher mounted on the kitchen wall to snuff out cooking fires.

Homes with very young or elderly residents have special safety needs. Curious children can find all kinds of trouble, while elderly residents need to reduce the chance of accidents.

The childproof house has tempered glass windows, fire-retardant drapes and locking devices on drawers and cabinets. Bathrooms should have locking medicine cabinets and a lock on the toilet (children, like pets, have been known to fall in and drown). Counters and tables should have rounded edges and corners.

Elderly homeowners should install banisters on both sides of any stairwells. Another key to comfortable living: accessibility. Kitchen cabinets shouldn't be too high for comfortable access, door handles and drawer pulls should be easy to grasp and faucet handles should be easy to grasp.

HOMEFACTS

■ What will that remodeling project cost?

Median costs for the most popular remodeling projects completed during 1988:

■ Adding a second story	$40,000
■ Room addition	30,000
■ Kitchen remodeling	15,000
■ Bathroom remodeling	6,700

SOURCE: Home Mechanix magazine

ENVIRONMENTAL SCARES

Your family can also fall prey to environmental hazards.

Radon has been grabbing the most headlines of late and for a good reason: It is the second leading cause of lung cancer after smoking, according to Consumer Reports.

"Radon doesn't come from industrial pollution; it's the gaseous by-product of the uranium that's ubiquitous in the earth's crust," says Consumer Reports. "Radon being a gas, quickly dissipates in the open air. But if it seeps into a house, it can collect in dangerous concentrations."

Hardware stores and home-improvement centers sell radon detector kits. Short-term charcoal canister detectors collect readings for three to seven days, whereas alpha-track detectors track readings for up to a year. Consumer Reports judged both types to be affordable (about $25) and reliable.

Other hazards, particularly dangerous to young children, include lead poisoning from lead-based paints found in older houses and humidity trapped in houses, which can breed all kinds of bacteria.

SECURITY SYSTEMS

You don't have to live in a palace to attract burglars, and many homeowners who have alarm systems say that peace of mind is worth the expense.

"Statistics indicate that residences equipped with alarms are 15 times less likely to be burglarized than home without them," says Bruce Peterson, marketing manager for Heath Zenith Reflex Brand Group, a manufacturer of home security systems.

You have many options, ranging from professionally installed systems that alert the police (and which cost thousands of dollars) to more affordable systems you install yourself to scare off burglars.

Do-it-yourself systems are available at most home-improvement stores. There are sound alarms that hang on doorknobs, as well as sliding door barriers that emit a loud warning.

Motion sensors can detect the heat and motion of approaching visitors (welcome and unwelcome).

If you decide to invest in a full alarm system, do your homework. Get estimates from several companies. Ask for local references and make sure they have local personnel who will make repairs.

INSURANCE

All homeowners have insurance, but chances are they don't have enough coverage or they are paying for more coverage than they need.

Ideally, your home is insured for its replacement cost (the cost of rebuilding in the event of a catastrophe).

If you need to cut your home insurance costs, do it by raising your deductible. If your deductible is $500 but you can comfortably absorb a $1,000 deductible, than you are paying for coverage you don't need.

Apartment dwellers also need coverage. A landlord's insurance covers his property but not your possessions.

You should also make a written inventory of your home's contents.

Good news — home prices are falling

Home buyers and investors shut out of the real estate market for the last two years are getting good news: Home prices are dropping.

Not plunging. Just dipping 5 percent and more in some of America's hottest markets — Boston, Orange County (Calif.), San Francisco, Atlanta. And home prices are still soft in Denver, Texas and much of the Midwest.

But one of the nation's savviest property buyers is advising people not to jump at anything touted as a bargain. Wise buyers should still purchase a home using more wits than money, stresses Mark O. Haroldsen, author, investment strategist and publisher of the Financial Freedom Report, a monthly magazine for shrewd investors.

Haroldsen works with "beginning and intermediate" investors, helping them accumulate cash while teaching them tactics for buying property like professionals do.

He tells first-time buyers who attend his Financial Freedom Seminars around the United States, "You've got to use self-discipline, start at the bottom and learn to save money before you invest."

Haroldsen is not one of those gurus who promise you can make killings in real estate with "no money down." It takes sacrifice, shoe leather and time.

"People, especially yuppies, don't like to hear this, he admits, "but I've seen 15-year-old kids who can systematically have $1,000 to $2,000 on busboy's wages while a 50-year-old man can't save squat."

For home buyers/investors with cash and a real desire to make their money work, Haroldsen tells them to rely on their wits, not just a real estate broker who will show them cream-puff properties that look like model homes.

Instead, he says, "start scouring newspapers, multiple-listing books, talk to people, ask for referrals and look for that dirt-bag property — the $45,000 house in the $90,000 neighborhood. It's out there."

Look for what Haroldsen calls "motivated sellers." As a shrewd buyer you have time, but a home seller going through a divorce or who has another home in escrow and hasn't sold his has no time. The same is true for homeowners who are transferred by their companies to another city.

Sometimes their employers will buy their home, but often the transferees have the house on the market after they've moved. With either scenario, you have a seller who's usually willing to lower a price or sometimes carry a second mortgage or make some other concession that will help you get into the home at a savings, claims Haroldsen.

Another strategy: Sleuth out estate settlements because usually homes must be sold quickly to satisfy will or trust provisions. Still another approach is to check with banks or savings and loans to see if they have repossessed homes for sale. Financial institutions are penalized for properties carried on their books under what is called "real estate owned" and are anxious to dispose of them, often at below market prices.

However, don't attack sellers like Atilla the Hun or with any trace of arrogance, he warns. Haroldsen remembers that his first big purchase — an apartment building — "was sold to me by a guy who had 5,000 units around the country who didn't need to squeeze every dollar and gave me, the kid, a break on the down payment."

Fixer-uppers can be a smart way to double your investment, but make sure you have a realistic estimate on how much cash it will take to turn a dog into a diamond, says Haroldsen.

And conservatively figure how much your time it will take. But if you do fix up a home to sell, don't fall in love with it.

"Trade it immediately," he counsels. "There are too many of us who tend to hold properties too long and we trade into a soft market."

Haroldsen also is a firm believer in diversifying your assets once you get some liquidity.

"As you get your feet wet by buying and fixing up, take a percentage of your profits and buy discounted mortgages and get a 15 percent plus return."

Above all, stay within your investment "comfort level," says the publisher of the $42-a-year Financial Freedom Report. No amount of potential profit is worth sleepless nights, constant worry and non-stop stress. Crapshooting with your hard-earned cash strains marriages and hurts your performance on the job, points out Haroldsen.

"There is no way to get rich quick," he sums up. "There is a risk-reward with every investment, but with real estate investing you don't have to take high risks if you find a neglected property today in a good neighborhood."

Famed decorator transforms houses into lovely homes

Decorator Mark Hampton's features in House & Garden define the word "exquisite." Long known as the "White House decorator" for his renovations in the White House guest house (Blair House), his clients include Mario Cuomo, Estee Lauder, Mike Wallace and Manhattan's Carlyle Hotel.

Whether his project is a grand Victorian estate or a fashionable urban pied-a-terre, Hampton decorates with the classic elegance and erudite style his name has come to represent. Now his inspired vision is available for armchair perusing: "Mark Hampton on Decorating" (Random House) offers the best of his columns, plus nine chapters on color, material and style.

Hampton sees his role as transforming "the bleak and the barren into welcoming places where one can live. . . Sometimes this transformation can stun the eye, sometimes simply gladden it, but these are not frivolous pursuits."

Nothing escapes his scrutiny in this must-have decor book, from the eccentric luxuries of odd-size rooms, tassels and fringes to the delights of Chinoiserie. The rare elements of style are lovingly detailed, from bedposts to dressing the windows. Hampton's watercolors illuminate his ideas that will transform anyone's house into a home.

COLOR

Hampton loves red, the rouge of our wagons and bicycles, the velvety crimsons of Christian Dior's Paris home. His ploy is to use red where it matters, in entry halls or dining rooms, where coral is a splendid complement to food. His favorite room for cerise is a library, where leathers and bindings, brass and old needlework are enhanced by this color.

Red doesn't belong in a kitchen or a bedroom, where morning light and fragile beginnings might apply.

Peach and yellow come up fashionable on Hampton's palette, and although the faded look might seem shabby to some, it's crisped up by pristine white or the polished bare floors of dark brown parquet. He advocates peach over white or beige walls for a good neutral backdrop for chintz or Oriental carpets.

Magnolia leaf or dark green, it's the color of kings, the symbol of sublime elegance. The design director for Tiffany & Co. designed his apartment in green during the '40s, a proper setting for Regency furniture and pomp and way ahead of its time.

"Blue and white porcelain looks wonderful against any green," says Hampton. "Dark green is a basic, almost neutral color."

ELEMENTS OF STYLE

What makes a home special? Attention to detail and the decorating scheme chosen to highlight that special effect.

Hampton loves fireplaces, with mantels that hold a collection or rest sublimely under a mirror or work of art. Fire tools and screens should not be obtrusive and deter from the architectural hallmark of the hearth. (He abhors the "modern glass-fronted built-in whatchamacallits in the chimney open.")

Window dressings are another Hampton hallmark, complete with swags and jabots. He likes curtains and drapes, as long as they aren't silly and inappropriate to the room.

Most importantly, go for quality, says Hampton: "Just as gold radiator paint is not highly regarded as a substitute for gold leaf, so synthetics do not take the place of beautiful silks and cottons."

Lamplight, an ancient symbol of welcome, is hallowed in the Hampton home: "Leaving a lamp lighted on the hall table for those who have not yet returned for the night is rather like the ancients leaving lamps on the altars of the favorite deities."

Lampshades are key, from translucent paper to linen and silk shirred visions, make or break the room. Classic lamps include the Chinese or Japanese vase base, gilt-bronzed candlesticks, bouillotte lamps, crystal columns, Bathersea candlesticks and wooden baroque candlesticks.

A room without a mirror is like a woman without a hairbrush. If it's baroque or rococo, whimsical or decoactive, it will still function to combine confusion with illusion and reflect the beauty of the room. Mirrored screens are a delight, and Hampton recalls his favorite, made for Syrie Maugham with 20 panels, 7 inches wide, edged in tiny frames of beveled glass.

Other elements of style include the proper seating (comfort is key); the pleasure of a slipper chair (amusing furniture covered in silk taffeta, perfect for day-dreaming) and bedposts (the shape begs for lace and embroidered linens).

ROOMS

Hampton's view on the use and design of rooms is refreshingly simple. It should be beautiful. It should have meaning. Most of all, it should not waste space unless that is part of the design. Here are some of his thoughts on the rooms he loves best:

- Small rooms. Their decorative possibilities are ignored. Try to achieve coziness and intimacy. Pattern helps counterbalance the effect of too much furniture. Use it well.

- Libraries. Book rooms are his favorite. Integrate the design of a wall of shelves into the home you live in. Pay particular attention to cornice and base details. Free-standing bookcases or etageres are lovely and flexible.

- Guest rooms. A writing table is a great convenience, where flowers, books, a bowl of fruit, some good light and writing paper can be offered. Avoid intimidating furniture. Make this room fun and your guest will feel in heaven. A four-poster bed and hand-made quilt, covered with a teddy bear collection, white wicker and leftover farmhouse furniture done up is just the thing.

Try different themes in floor coverings

Really, it's an adventure: trashing the things you don't need, paring down to bare essentials for a while, "camping" out. You actually can have fun moving if you've planned ahead and organized the ordeal. Here are some tips:

ONE MONTH BEFORE

- Fill out change-of-address cards for friends, relatives, creditors, publications (usually not forwarded by the post office), clubs and organizations.

- If you're moving out of town, get copies of medical and dental records, including pets'.

- Close out your safety deposit box and organize all personal records: birth and marriage certificates, mortgage records, insurance papers. Gather children's school records.

- Reserve your time with your moving company or the truck rental if you're moving yourself. (Note that midweek moving can be less expensive than weekend, as can moving in non-peak fall to-spring months.)

- Have a garage sale. Be ruthless in culling items you'll no longer need. Arrange beforehand to have a charity organization pick up leftover items the following day.

- Contact utility companies before your shut-off date; they'll need you forwarding address.

- Drain gasoline and oil from power equipment such as weed whips and clean them.

- Organize a box with jewelry and important papers that you want to keep at hand during the move.

- Prepare artwork by taping the glass to the frame, putting on cardboard corner protectors (moving companies offer them) and wrapping in bubble wrap. Place in a box vertically.

- Give away or sell potted plants if the move is greater than a one-day distance.

- Separate those items you'll need to get through the moving process. Start packing the rest, or at least organize it for the packers.

- Get in touch with your bank and find out the best procedures for transferring your accounts.

THREE DAYS AHEAD

- Disconnect the refrigerator and freezer; unload, defrost and clean. Let them air out. Yes, it's takeout food from here on in.

- Disconnect and drain the washing machine; pack linens in the washer and dryer for the move.

- Tie down, tape or otherwise stabilize parts of appliances — small and large — that have moving parts.

- Call to confirm your truck rental, and find out how much cash, if any, will be needed for the move.

- Get enough cash to see you through the move.

Moving day doesn't have to be dismal

Thinking about remodeling? A great way to give your home a finished, "decorator" look is to utilize floor coverings in a dramatic, yet practical, way.

Chosen carefully, today's floor coverings should do two things: graciously expand upon the theme you wish to create and provide a durable, low-maintenance stomping ground for everyone in your family.

The most popular floor covering is carpeting. Its advantages are that it lends a warm, cozy atmosphere and provides the best protection to family members, especially children, should they fall. These days manufacturers are producing quality carpeting that is at once plush and stain-resistant — a must for many busy families.

Color trends for carpeting reflect our current love for muted shades, such as rose, buff, soft indigo, slate and — the current rage — all shades of green, from deep hunter to delicate seafoam. Carpeting can also be installed with custom patterns and bevels to frame a room.

In addition to warming up tile and hardwood floors in cool-weather months, area rugs are a wonderful way to carry out a room's theme. Try an elegant Oriental rug in a traditional room or continue a Southwest theme with a durable Navajo-style rug or a dhurrie. For safety's sake, put a rug liner under area rugs to prevent skidding.

Ceramic tile is a durable, easy-to-maintain floor covering. Today, ceramic tile comes in a variety of stylish colors and patterns, and it is suitable to any room, not just the kitchen and bathroom.

Do-it-yourselfers will be happy to learn that ceramic tile is relatively easy to install — just be sure the underlayment is smooth and securely fastened to the subfloor. Check the manufacturer's instructions or check with a tile outlet for further details.

Keep in mind that ceramic tile should be regularly swept clean of dirt and grit so it will remain scratch free. Otherwise, simply clean with a damp mop.

For a Southwest or country decor, consider terra-cotta tile. Other options include geometric patterns, bold colors and contrasting grout to make your tile distinctive.

Hardwood floors (particularly with a light stain or bleached look) and parquet wood are considered an asset in any home. If your hardwood floors are looking a little worse for wear, it could be time to have them refinished.

Another way to add pizzazz to hardwood floors is the rout-and-stain method. Starting with an unfinished hardwood floor, use a router to create a checkerboard effect. Then paint or stain the squares contrasting colors.

The colors you choose will change the mood of the room. For example, black and white is striking and sophisticated, or use yellow and gray for a softer look.

How do you choose the accessories that do the most for a room? It's all in our catalog.

How does your lifestyle translate into home decor? The Pennsylvania House catalog will show you.

Get your catalog now. One trip to pick it up is all you need to do to start planning the perfect home.

CHERRY MOBILE SERVER, a decorative accent that's practical, too. Use it for serving, for storage and as a bar when entertaining.

TREASURED FRENCH ANTIQUES were the inspiration for our L'Esprit Nouveau collection. The painstakingly carved floral and wheat motifs add a casual elegance you can use to create a variety of looks in your home.

...And for Three Weeks, Everything's on Sale!

THE COUNTRY MANOR COLLECTION captures the simplicity of rural life. This bedroom features our classic "Sleigh Bed" crafted in solid pine and decorative veneers.

THE UPHOLSTERY COLLECTION. Unmistakable styling. Meticulous craftsmanship. Enduring beauty. Long-lasting comfort.

MAHOGANY has always been the aristocrat of woods. This magnificently crafted solid mahogany dining room is characteristic of the museum-quality replicas found in this collection.

THE OAK COLLECTION, featuring Queen Anne and Chippendale styling, creates a distinctive look in this country estate study. Our skilled furniture craftsmen incorporate time-honored construction techniques for lasting beauty and value.

New Features. More Information. Easier Decisions.

This is our largest catalog ever, with more useful information to help you select the furniture that's exactly right for you. Clear product identification and a product index will guide you to all the pieces in our collections. Each cabinetry collection features an easy-to-use reference to our unique finishes. And our new "How to" articles provide a wealth of information on today's decorating trends and furniture construction techniques.

WHEATLAND is the new generation of American Country... upscale and sophisticated with the look of country estates instead of cottages.

MAGAZINE END TABLE
Magazines can be easily stored in this rack-like end table, where they are accessible but out of the way.

A lot more than just a catalog.

The Pennsylvania House 1990 Catalog is almost a free course in interior design. And all you have to do is come in, fill out a brief questionnaire, and pick up the copy we're saving for you.

We've created a catalog unlike any other. It's part decorating handbook with valuable tips on how to achieve just the look you want . . . it's part home decorating magazine full of photographs and articles on the diverse decorating trends found in urban and rural America . . . and partly an invaluable lesson on how to judge the workmanship and quality of furniture.

Using the best of the past to build a legacy for tomorrow, the Independence Drive style is based on the rich 18th Century that is traditional, formal, urban and places an emphasis on heritage.

INDEPENDENCE DRIVE

PeachTree Avenue

A special, well-mannered style that is epitomized by the rustle of chintz and wafts of potpourri, plus a melange of Sheraton and Chippendale and Country French. It is traditional, suburban, semiformal and elegant.

Blue Ridge Road

The elegant country life amounts to savory savoir faire. It is a thoroughbred style that is semiformal and rural, and evokes a "Hunt Country" atmosphere.

FIELDSTONE
WALK

The casual style is one of diversion and living the leisure life. Early retirements and the pressures of work create a need for getaway retreats. It is off-hours living, far out in a suburban setting. It is predominantly comfortable, whether by the sea or in the mountains.

A sophisticated attitude crossed with an earthy perspective is the Pacific Avenue style. It is informal, suburban and favors transitional expression.

Pacific Avenue
