'Tis the season

May showers are bringing with them a lot more than flowers, they're bringing long grass along with them and that means it's time for America's favorite hobby — cutting the lawn. Above, Judi Mahrie of Northville starts the engine on her cutting machine as her daughter Katie, 9 months, watches.

Development fells oldest home

By MIKE TYREE
Staff Writer

Northville Township's oldest home — built prior to the Civil War — was demolished last Friday morning as part of a reclamation project by the developers of the Thomson Sand & Gravel property.

According to Vincent DiLorenzo, general partner of D&T Construction, the developers of an exclusive subdivision planned for the former gravel mine, the company did not realize the potential historical importance of the home on west Seven Mile Road.

"We were never contacted, nor were we asked to do anything about (the house)," he said. "If they would have said something, we would have left it there.

"I really feel bad about it," he said. Ironically, plans to save the Starkweather Home on west Seven Mile Road were discussed at Thursday's Board of Trustees meeting.

Township Constable James Schrot asked the board to consider saving the Starkweather Home, saying the building had vast historical significance.

Members of the board agreed and Supervisor Georgina Goss appointed Treasurer Betty Lennox to investigate ways of saving the house.

By 8 a.m. the following morning, the house that represented the final evidence of the sprawling 600-acre Starkweather farm of the 1800s was being demolished.

"We were never contacted, nor were we asked to do anything about (the house)," he said. "If they would have said something, we would have left it there."

DiLorenzo said he was not contacted about the plan to save the house.

"We've had three meetings with them (township) and they never said anything about it," he said. "Why didn't they just contact us a week before if they wanted to save it?"

DiLorenzo said he would have preferred to sell the house to the township rather than incur the expense of demolition.

"Why would I wreck it if somebody wanted to buy it?" he said. "I'd have been glad to sell it."

City business files suit over ordinance

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

The owners of Black's Hardware in Northville filed a lawsuit against the city last Wednesday, May 9, after being cited for violating the city's zoning ordinance against the outside display of merchandise at their Main Street store.

The suit, filed in Wayne County Circuit Court, alleges that "the zoning ordinances are being arbitrarily enforced against the Blacks," said the owners' attorney, John Bredell of the Ypsilanti legal firm Logeman & Connors. The suit seeks more than $10,000 in damages.

The zoning ordinance in question states, "Sidewalk sales, outside display of merchandise is prohibited except under conditions of special approval by the City Council."

Because of the suit, Judge Roland Olzark of the Wayne County Circuit Court has issued a temporary restraining order barring city officials from enforcing the ordinance.

The restraining order is in effect until tomorrow, May 18, at which time the judge can either renew the order or not. The case against the city is scheduled to be heard in Wayne County Circuit Court May 25.

"We claim that the use by the Blacks is permitted under other sections of the ordinance, that the zoning ordinance as written is overly broad or invalid, in that it . . . bears no relationship to a legitimate government purpose," Bredell charged, because the ordinance has no bearing on health, safety or the welfare of the public.

"The zoning ordinance is vague as written," he added.

School tax hearing slated for June

By MAUREEN NASZRADI
Staff Writer

The Northville Board of Education voted unanimously at its meeting Monday to hold a "Truth in Taxation" hearing on June 11 so residents will be able to comment on a proposed tax increase.

The board discussed setting the millage rate at 28.5300 mills to be applied against the district's property tax base to fund the district's operations. Although the proposed rate is lower than the 30.4688 mills levied in 1989-90, the value of property in the district increased over the past year so the amount of money generated by the lower tax rate actually will be greater than last year.

The board scheduled the hearing to comply with the state Truth in Taxation law, which requires local governments to maintain a consistent amount of tax revenue year-to-year, or to follow specific procedures to inform voters of any increase.

Under Truth in Taxation, the district would be limited to a millage rate of 27.2233 mills, explained District Business Manager John Street. He said the levy of 28.53 mills proposed by the board is needed to finance the district's projected $21 million budget for the 1990-91 school year.

The local contribution to the district's budget is generated by applying the millage rate to the school district's property tax base, which represents a figure equal to 50 percent of the true cash value of all the taxable property in the district.

Truth in Taxation was developed to allow government bodies to receive all revenue from new development, but to keep other property tax revenue even with the previous year.

For the Northville School District, that tax base for 1990 increased by $111 million — to $692 million from $581 million in 1989, according to Street. New development accounts for more than half, or approximately $66 million of that increased valuation, he added.

The Truth in Taxation law also serves to highlight the possibility of assessments on existing properties rising, while millage rates remain the same (or in this case, decrease) resulting in a tax increase in actual dollars for property owners.

One mill equals $1 of tax per $1,000 of assessed property value. For a $100,000 house assessed at 50 percent value, or $50,000, the Truth in Taxation limitation of 27.2233 mills would be $1,361 in tax dollars. If the Truth in Taxation increase is approved by the school board, the 28.53 mills would result in an additional tax of approximately $65 per year over that limit.

If the board sets the millage rate at 28.53 mills, the district's revenue will increase from last year by 11.5 percent, according to Street, or approximately $2 million.

City budget calls for tax hike

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

Northville City residents will be faced with an average 4.8-percent property tax increase this year, based on the budget approved by the city council Monday night.

The council approved the budget after more than a month of study sessions, and after rejecting a proposal by the city's administration to increase the millage rate by one mill, largely to cover the added cost of refuse collection.

The council had decided instead to lay off a police officer, reduce the police department's overtime budget by about 20 percent or $20,000, and charge commercial and apartment owners an additional fee for refuse collection. A study by City Manager Steven Walters found those two groups pay less in millage for refuse costs than their refuse disposal costs the city.

Walters explained the city's increased budget was largely a reflection of a 50-percent increase in refuse disposal costs in the last year. While $290,000 had been budgeted for the disposal, the new amount is estimated at $455,350. The increase is due to a disposal fee increase from $6.50 to $9.90 per cubic yard at the city's landfill, the Arbor Hills landfill in Salem Township.

"That $160,000 expenditure increase during the year is approximately equivalent to one mill in taxes in the 1990 tax base," Walters explained at Monday's public hearing.

Mayor Chris Johnson said the increase in the refuse costs amounts to a budgetary crisis. "That's not too strong a word in terms of what it's done to the city budget," he said.

Monday's "Truth in Taxation" hearing was required because the

Haller plans on hold until fall

By MIKE TYREE
Staff Writer

Negotiations with Frieda Haller over the former township resident's 72-acre plot on Six Mile and Sheldon roads are in limbo until September, according to a township official.

Supervisor Georgina Goss said Monday that Haller does not want to discuss the property, which she donated to the township last September with the stipulation that a library be built on the site.

"I think it is Mrs. Haller's feeling at this time that she is not interested in renegotiating the letter of intent," Goss said. "She said she'll be willing to speak about it sometime in September."

"In September, we will present Mrs. Haller with a proposal requesting an extension of the letter of intent," she added. "We will abide by her wishes and not contact her."

In an interview last week, Haller said she considered the letter of intent "null and void" after township voters May 1 rejected a 1.9-mill request for a 44,800-square-foot library complex.

Goss said she and township Trustee James Nowka spoke with Haller for approximately 90 minutes this weekend. Nowka asked the Board of Trustees last Thursday to consider a May 14 special meeting to place a library millage request on the Aug. 7 ballot.

But any plans for an August library election were scotched after the discussion with Haller, Goss said.

"She's tired of the controversy and thinks that the voters have spoken," she said.

Goss said the township is still interested in the property and will be

Four to run for township treasurer

By MIKE TYREE
Staff Writer

Four candidates will vie for the township treasurer position in the Aug. 7 primary election.

Township Deputy Clerk Eunice Switzer said petitions carrying the signatures of at least 52 certified township voters were received from four residents interested in the part-time, $10,000-yearly position by the 4 p.m. Tuesday petition deadline.

Incumbent Betty Lennox will square off with three other Republicans for the treasurer title, which carries with it a seat on the Board of Trustees and a role — with the supervisor and clerk — as a member of the decision-making township executive committee.

In addition to Lennox, Switzer said William E. Butterfield, Jack Hosmer and Rick Engelland would be on the August ballot.

Butterfield and Hosmer were candidates for the position last November before Lennox was selected to fill the vacancy created when Richard Henningsen resigned to take the township manager job.

Engelland is a member of Citizens for a Better Northville, the group that worked to defeat a city recreation millage plan in November, and the Haller library proposal May 1.

The winner of the Republican primary will be placed on the November general election ballot. No Democrat filed petitions for the treasurer post, Switzer said.

Township officials became aware of the need for the election May 4 after reviewing a portion of Michigan law which requires an appointed official to run for the position if an election occurs 180 days after the appointment.

News Briefs

DEPARTMENT OF CORRECTIONS — Monday's edition of the Northville Record misidentified a wetland picture on page 8A. The picture should have identified the plant life as cattails, not pussy willows.

Also, a picture in the Thursday, May 10 edition of the Record on page 6A said a group of Meads Mill students received a pizza party for participating in Odyssey of the Mind competition. Those students were actually Science Olympiad team members.

NATIONAL MERIT WINNERS — Two Northville students today were named winners in the National Merit Scholarship Corporation competition. Carrie Isabell, a senior at Ladywood High School, won a Michigan State University Merit Scholarship and Eric Rossing, a senior at Northville High School, won a Hope College Merit Scholarship. Their high academic standards, test performance, activities and goals played a part in their selection by officials from the sponsor institutions.

TOWNSHIP SCRAPS ADMINISTRATION FEE — A one percent fee attached to the summer tax bills of township property owners was repealed by the township Board May 10. Treasurer Betty Lennox asked for the repeal of the tax because schools using the township as a tax collection agent are charged a $3 fee. The repeal will affect summer tax bills only, the board determined.

CANINE REMINDER — Township dog owners should be aware that licenses for their pets must be renewed by May 31, according to Nancy Molloy, assistant to the treasurer. Residents must pay the $5 license fee at township offices and show proof that their dog has received a rabies vaccination, in compliance with the township dog ordinance. Dog owners who have not renewed their license by May 31 will be charged an additional $2, Molloy said.

SENIOR PARTY TICKETS — Tickets for the Northville High School Senior Party can be purchased for $20 by sending a check to Pat Howard, 203 North Ely Drive, Northville. Tickets can also be paid for at the door the night of the party.

NAC SPECIAL SPEAKER — Tonight, May 17, the Northville Action Council will present Hugh Shanahan, Special Agent-U.S. Drug Enforcement Agency. His talk will be on cocaine, how it's used, why it's used and what effect it has on the user. He will also look at the effect it has on communities and what strategies are being implemented to deal with it. The meeting is held at 7 p.m. at Northville City Hall.

BLOOMING FLOWERS — The annual Northville Flower Sale is scheduled to pull into downtown Northville on May 25 and 26. Eastern market vendors bring their flowered wares to the streets of Northville for two day-long sales. This year the flower sale will be even bigger, according to Del Black. Main Street will be closed from Center Street to Hut-ton for the sale.

Workers load the remains of the Starkweather House onto a truck contracted by D&T Construction of Mt. Clemens, developers of the Thomson Sand and Gravel property.

Starkweather home demolished

But township officials said the developers did not have the permits needed to demolish the property.

Township Chief Building Official Mick Kruszewski said the developer did not attempt to get a demolition permit before tearing down the house.

"We knew nothing about it until Bill (Zhmendak, building inspector) was out there Friday morning," he said.

Kruszewski said a demolition permit is needed so the township can determine if services such as water, sewer, gas and electricity are disconnected. He said under normal conditions, the fine for proceeding without a permit is double the regular $125 fee.

But the developer could be issued a citation, Kruszewski said, which could lead to a $500 fine and 90 days in jail.

"Township policy is that you have to get a demolition permit," said Planning and Zoning Administrator Carol Maise. "They were not performing reclamation up on Seven Mile Road."

The township and DiLorenzo disagree on the definition of reclamation.

Maise and Kruszewski said the demolition of buildings is not considered reclamation, according to township guidelines.

According to DiLorenzo, the township has "mandated" the reclamation of the gravel mine under the township mining ordinance. He said his company is within its rights to take down houses and buildings on the property.

"We're doing nothing that we shouldn't be doing," he said. "We're doing exactly what is mandated by the permit. We are moving dirt subject to the way they wanted.

"(Taking down buildings) is part of site reclamation," he said.

The developers of the gravel mine property are scheduled to appear before the township planning commission May 29 to seek tentative approval for a preliminary plat on the site.

Police News

Meijer activities in police news

MEIJER ACTIVITIES — A man told township police that someone took the CB antenna off his vehicle while he was sleeping in the vehicle in the parking lot at Meijer, 20401 Haggerty. The incident occurred at 1 a.m. May 8, according to township police records. Four subjects fled the scene in a car northbound on Haggerty, the man told police.

Air lines to the brakes of a trailer parked at Meijer were cut sometime between 9 p.m. May 8 and 9 p.m. May 9, township police said. Police have no suspects or witnesses in the case. Damage to the vehicle was estimated at $100.

Four fur coats valued at $12,800 were reportedly stolen from a 1989 Lincoln parked in the Meijer lot May 5 at 3:15 p.m.

According to the complainant, the coats were in the back seat of his vehicle when he stopped at Meijer. Upon returning to the car, he found the left rear window broken and a full length mink coat, a silver fox coat, a fox jacket and a woman's Alaskan seal coat were missing. Police have no suspects or witnesses in the case.

A 25-year old Detroit resident and a 39-year old Detroit resident were arrested and charged with larceny at Meijer May 6 at 8:48 p.m., according to township police. The two reportedly were witnessed trying on new shoes and replacing them with their old shoes. The women allegedly put the old shoes in boxes back on the shelf. The women were also charged with attempting to steal earrings, a necklace and a headband.

VANDALISM AT SWIM CLUB — The Northville Swim Club, 646 Baseline Road, was vandalized between 6:30 p.m. May 11 and 7:45 a.m. May 12, according to city police reports. The driveway entrance to the club was painted with the words "Smooth Criminals" and the lawn was damaged by hypo / chlorine poured on it.

VEHICLE DAMAGED — The front windshield of a 1984 Subaru parked on west Six Mile was smashed between 1-10 p.m. May 7, according to township police. The damage was estimated at $200.

VEHICLE LARCENY — A radar detector and a leather duffel bag valued at $675 were reportedly stolen from a vehicle parked outside a residence on Northville Place Drive sometime between May 2-7. Police said thieves reportedly smashed the driver's side window of a 1989 Chevrolet Beretta to gain access to the items.

VEHICLE LARCENY — A radar detector valued at $146 was reportedly stolen from a 1983 Ford Mustang parked at Baskin Robbins, 42969 Seven Mile. According to the complainant, the incident took place April 14, but he did not realize the detector was gone because he thought his brother had taken it.

OUIL — Township police arrested a 64-year old Northville man and charged him with operating under the influence May 10 at 12:30 a.m. According to police, the man was traveling east on Seven Mile Road when he was sighted crossing the center lane.

FENDER BENDERS — Northville City police reported two accidents in the past week at the corner of Eight Mile and Novi roads. On Friday, May 11 at 5 p.m., a South Lyon woman driving east on Eight Mile reportedly tried to turn onto Novi Road, driving in front of a vehicle heading west on Eight Mile. The impact turned the woman's car around, leaving it in the middle of the intersection in the west-bound lanes. Both drivers refused medical attention, though both cars had to be towed from the scene. No citations had been issued as of press time.

In the latest accident, the vehicle of a Novi woman turning south onto Novi Street from westbound Eight Mile struck a car traveling east on Eight Mile. The impact forced the second car over the curb and onto the grass at the corner of Novi and Eight Mile. A witness told city police the woman left the scene of the accident. She was cited for failing to yield and leaving the scene.

Injured biker ticketed in accident

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

Northville City Police have issued a ticket for failing to yield to a Northville High School senior injured in an accident on Eight Mile Road last week.

The police investigation determined that Mark Edward Klokenga failed to yield to oncoming traffic Tuesday, May 8 at 5:18 p.m. while turning north onto Sheldon Road from eastbound Eight Mile Road.

Klokenga's motorcycle was hit by a car heading west on Eight Mile. He spent several days in intensive care at St. Mary Hospital in Livonia, recuperating from a shattered right ankle and severe concussion.

He was released from the hospital Monday.

The car, driven by Novi Resident Gary Powell, left 32 feet of skid marks before turning onto its side in the accident. Powell escaped with only minor injuries.

Program targets women in workforce

The Women's Resource Center of Schoolcraft College is presenting "Project HERS," a program designed to make entry or reentry into the work force not only possible but less traumatic for women.

Project HERS will take place Tuesday, May 22 from 1-4 p.m. in Room 415 of the Liberal Arts Building of Schoolcraft College, 18600 Haggerty Road in Livonia.

Reservation may be made by calling Marlene Kershaw at 462-4400, ext. 5346.

Financial aid is available to cover the cost of tuition for those who are displaced homemakers or single parents who lack adequate job skills as well as recent skilled, full-time work experience and women on public assistance. Displaced homemakers are people who have worked in the home most of their lives, lost their source of income due to death, disability, desertion, divorce or separation from the person on whom they have been dependent.

Tax jump blamed on refuse costs

city's 10.93 city operating millage rate will raise 4.8 percent more money than last year's 12.35 millage, because of the increase in the city's tax base since last year.

The 4.8 percent increase is based on the published state Consumer Price Index increase of 4.8 percent over last year.

The amount is still well under the city's maximum allowable millage rate for operating purposes of 17.48 mills, as set by the Headlee roll-back formula.

The actual tax increase will vary between properties, Walters warned. "It's important to keep in mind that Wayne and Oakland equalizations are different," he said. Residential assessments increased an average of 17.9 percent in Wayne County this year, and only 9 percent in Oakland County. But the disparity follows several years where Oakland residents saw larger increases than Wayne residents.

Also, individual properties are assessed differently from year to year, based upon changes in property values between separate areas.

Several residents asked the council to keep the tax increase to a minimum, a point which council members said they had kept in mind throughout the budget review. "We're not talking about business as usual in the coming year," said Council Member Carolann Ayers. "There are cuts. There have to be."

"It's very hard for the city to operate with less than an inflationary growth in revenue," Walters added. The budget as passed only provides that inflationary growth.

In response to a question from the audience, Walters said cutting more service from the police department would be difficult. "Realistically, we're at a pretty basic staffing level," he said.

Walters explained the city police department now only fields two patrol cars at a time, and cutting that amount could leave the city with no police coverage in the event of a serious accident. "You can't cut 10 percent of the time with two cars unless you have less than two cars fielded," he said. "One traffic accident of any consequence ties up a police officer for at least a half hour or an hour."

Council Member Paul Folino still asked about the possibility of making across-the-board cuts in the city rather than removing a police officer. "It would seem if we can tighten up the budget in the police department, why can't we in the administration, DPW, etcetera?"

"The belt is looser in the police department," Walters responded. Walters said much of the overtime in the police department is due to routine scheduling conflicts such as vacation time, where overtime in departments like the DPW are more often related to specific emergencies.

"The problem with cutting that amount in every department is it's unrealistic," Walters said. "You finally have to look at what real items can be adjusted."

Walters added laying off a police officer is a moot point now, because a patrol officer just resigned from the force last week. "In the short run, we have a vacancy presently, so we will not be laying anyone off," he said.

"Obviously, that was not taken into account in the budget planning, but at this time that is the case," Walters said.

The proposed budget was passed by a vote of four to one. Folino, citing a continuing disagreement with the personnel committee's recommendation to raise administrative DPW salaries between seven and nine percent, while raising administrative police salaries only four percent, voted against the budget.

Folino's "No" vote came despite Council Member Jerry Mittman's observation that the administrative salaries are retroactive recommendations for the current fiscal year, while the budget is for the coming fiscal year.

Mittman, a member of the personnel committee, said, "We will be coming back before you with (salary) recommendations for the 1990-1991 budget."

Reward offered in vandalism case

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

McDonald Ford vehicles, causing an estimated $7,332 in damage. The case is still under investigation by the Northville City Police.

McDonald Ford, working in cooperation with its insurance company, has just announced a program to reward citizens for information leading to the arrest and conviction of people responsible for theft or vandalism of vehicles on its premises.

Informants under the dealership program will be paid the full value of damages sustained up to $1,000. Anyone with information about the above or other crimes involving McDonald Ford vehicles should call the dealership's insurance company, Carsure, at 800-999-0899 for a confidential discussion.

Informants need not identify themselves.

The announcement comes a month after a gang labeling themselves as the "Smooth Criminals" spray painted and scratched 33

According to General Manager Dave Rekuc, similar programs elsewhere have provided valuable clues leading to reductions in auto theft and the closure of "chop shops," places where stolen autos are stripped for parts.

"Like many of our customers, we continue to see upward pressure on insurance rates," Rekuc said. "We're fighting back. Reward programs such as this are a valuable deterrent."

Rekuc said the program was started by the company's insurers. "It's in response to all the incidents they've had in general," he said.

McDonald Ford has been a frequent target of vandals in the past. Rekuc saw the informant program as a positive corporate response to the problem.

WHY DIFFERENT FEES FOR FILLINGS?

Why do fillings vary in cost from dentist to dentist or even the same dentist? The answer is simple. Like snowflakes and fingerprints—no two fillings are alike.

The reason for making a filling is to remove and replace diseased or decayed tooth's crown structure. The crown, of course, is roughly a cube with five surfaces, a top and four sides.

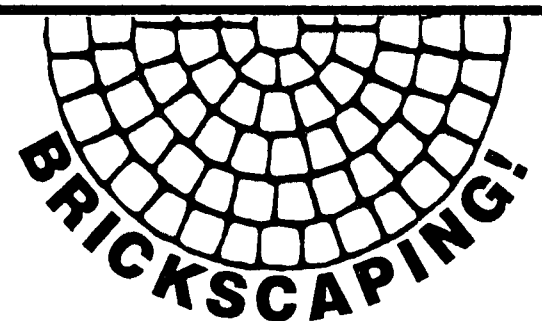

Decay causes cavities, and it can strike any of these five surfaces. If the decay afflicts a single surface, the filling is called a one-surface restoration. If it afflicts several surfaces, the result is a multiple (two-three or even a four-) surface filling. Usually the amount you pay for a filling depends on the number of surfaces affected.

Sometimes decay may stretch to an adjacent tooth in which case a filling may well involve the preparation of more than one tooth.

Fees for fillings, besides depending on the number of surfaces involved, are generally based also on the complexity of the cavity, its depth, the type of filling material used, and the time required to complete the procedure.

Novi man charged in drug case

By SHEILA PHILLIPS
Staff Writer

A Novi man and his alleged accomplice were bound over to Wayne County Recorder's Court May 2 on charges of delivery and conspiracy to deliver narcotics.

Douglas Siebert, 34, will face a mandatory life sentence if convicted, but his lawyer maintains that evidence supporting any conspiracy is only circumstantial.

"I don't feel the prosecution has offered anything but circumstantial evidence to indicate a conspiracy," said attorney James Lawson before his client was bound over.

However, 20th District Court Judge Ed Plawewski said that circumstantial evidence can be used to support a conspiracy and circumstances are incriminating enough to bring the case to trial.

But Lawson argued that the prosecution's primary witness, Wayne Kelly, was working with the Livonia Police Department when the kilo of cocaine confiscated by police was delivered, which should negate his testimony on the conspiracy charge.

"What we have here is the police department working as a co-conspirator, and they can't do that," Lawson told the judge.

Plawewski replied, "A person can be convicted of conspiracy even though everyone else involved is given immunity."

Kelly, who was freed of all charges, testified during the preliminary examination that he met Siebert at the Key West Bar in Detroit to arrange a one-kilo cocaine deal.

According to testimony, Kelly later picked that kilo up from the Dearborn Heights residence of Siebert's alleged partner, Raymond Oatman, in the presence of an undercover narcotics officer.

Oatman faces identical delivery and conspiracy charges for his alleged role in the drug operation.

Testimony given by two other alleged conspirators, Paul McCormick of Westland and John Oliver, indicated that the kilo confiscated was part of a seven-kilo cocaine transaction which took place in mid-January.

McCormick testified that he and Siebert went to Miami, Fla. to secure the seven kilos. The Westland resident said he aided the deal in order to pay off $60,000 to $100,000 of gambling debts to Siebert.

McCormick testified that Oatman later picked up one of those kilos from him at the Knights Inn on Ford Road in Dearborn.

In return for his testimony, McCormick was allowed to plead guilty to reduced conspiracy charges which carry a 10- to 20-year sentence.

Oliver, who admitted being part of the Florida drug operation, testified that, based on Siebert's instruction, he picked up the seven kilos from a house in the Miami area. He told the judge that he transported that cocaine from Florida to Michigan in the modified gas tank of a 1984 Ford Thunderbird.

Oliver will not be charged in this case. In return, however, he has agreed to plead guilty to other drug-related charges carrying a 10- to 20-year sentence which are pending in the 18th District Court in Westland.

Both Siebert and Oatman are expected to be arraigned May 14 in Recorder's Court on charges of delivery and conspiracy to deliver over 650 grams of narcotics. A trial date will probably be set for sometime in September.

Meanwhile, Siebert is out on a $500,000 cash bond, which was reduced from the original $1 million bond set at his district court arraignment. Oatman, however, was unable to raise his $500,000 bond and his lawyer is expected to petition for a further reduction.

Chamber Notes

GOLF OUTING — The Northville Community Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring its annual fundraiser and golf outing June 1 at Fox Hills Country Club.

The annual fun event is a scramble, and for $70 players are treated to a day of golf, lunch, dinner and prizes. Foursomes may sign up, or individual golfers will be placed. Call 349-7640 for more information.

Past participants of the event call the chamber golf outing one of the best entertainment buys around. This year awards will be given, both serious and humorous, for the day's golf play.

NEW MEMBERS — The Board of Directors unanimously accepted two new members to the Northville Community Chamber of Commerce at the director's May 10 meeting. Happy Home House Care, Christopher Surbrook and Valerie Wilson, 347-2427 and Blue Heron Construction, Earl Lafave, 344-6606 are the newest members of the chamber.

College activities noted

The following activities are taking place at Schoolcraft College:

Upcoming Seminars

Schoolcraft College presents Design Directions 90. Jo Anne Pier, New York Home Magazine's retail merchandising editor, will present the latest trends in remodeling and redecorating for the 90's from the kitchen and family room to the master suite and spa.

Included will be discussion of: other home living trends, styles of decorating, furniture, fabric, color and tabletop. There will be demonstrations on: accessorizing with fabrics, mantel and table scaping, and entertaining ideas for the table. A video on decorating with sheets will be previewed for exciting, easy fun tips to freshen the look of your home.

After lunch, Glen Haage, master handyman, will offer the five best home improvement tips that save the most money. He will talk about cleaning and what works. For the home improvement buff, Glen will touch on important safety tips. Of course there will be time for important questions and answers.

The seminar will be held at the Michigan Design Center in Troy. Registrations must be received by Tuesday, May 29. The registration fee is $55 and includes lunch. For further information, please call the College's Continuing Education Services division at 462-4448.

Two one-day seminars are being offered by Schoolcraft College. Starting Your Own Business will include the following topics: planning, financing, marketing, government regulations, franchises, legal structure risks and resources. The seminar is offered Saturday, May 26 from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. The fee is $20.

Becoming a Consultant will explore some of the rewards, challenges and problems involved in consulting. The seminar is scheduled Monday, May 21 from 7 to 10 p.m. The fee is $18.

For further information, please call the College's Continuing Education Division at 462-4448.

Schoolcraft College's Culinary Arts Team Wins Awards

The award winning Culinary Arts team at Schoolcraft College, Livonia, brought home 10 medals from the 17th Annual Michigan Hospitality Industry Culinary Arts Salon competition sponsored by the Michigan Restaurant Association and the Michigan Chefs de Cuisine.

Certified Executive Chef Mary Brady, Northville resident, received a gold medal, a master chef's award, and tied for best show in the professional category.

Sylvia Hayes, Detroit resident, the culinary arts marketing and merchandising technician responsible for the daily operation of the College's Professor's Pantry, won an Augie award, the "Culinary Oscar," for best of show in the collegiate category. This is Hayes' first culinary competition.

In the college student category, the following chefs received medals: Don Bargo, Ann Arbor, gold; Ralph Ferguson, Detroit, gold; Helen Orloff, Northville, bronze; and Robert Dupule, Dearborn, bronze. Student Paul Anderson, Livonia, received an honorable mention for his entry in the professional category.

Flying like Eagles

attended by their families, friends and other scouts. Each scout worked on an Eagle project with the help of Troop 755.

Panel to help choose chief

By MIKE TYREE
Staff Writer

An advisory panel consisting of law enforcement officials will help interview applicants for the vacant Northville Township Police Chief position.

The township Board of Trustees Thursday decided to use a panel to help select former Police Chief Kenneth Hardesty's successor — as opposed to an executive search firm.

Treasurer Betty Lennox outlined her proposal for an advisory board, which she suggested could consist of representatives from the Michigan State Police, a township police chief, a city police chief and a public safety director.

The board would interview and make recommendations on "4-6 candidates" who would be distilled from the complete list of applicants for the position.

Recommendations from the panel would then be reviewed by the township executive committee, the township manager and one resident, according to Lennox's plan.

The township panel would make the final determination and send a recommendation to the board, she said.

Lennox estimated that the cost for her proposal would not exceed $2,000.

Township Manager Richard Henningsen said Thursday that 24 applications for the $42-$52,000 yearly post had been received. The application deadline is May 25, with a tentative hiring date set for July 1.

Henningsen had researched executive placement firms and reported that five organizations had placed bids to do the police chief search.

Bartell & Bartell, the firm that conducted a review of the township police department in 1988, placed a bid of approximately $20,000 — or $950 per candidate plus $105 per hour if used on a limited basis.

Coopers & Lybrand posted a not-to-exceed bid of $10,500 to profile candidates, and other firms quoted figures which ranged from a fee of $1,400 per candidate to 30 percent of the first year's compensation.

Cost was an important issue in the police chief search, according to Trustee James Nowka.

"The treasurer's viewpoint is probably a good one," he said. "I think we have the talent and people in the community to conduct the interviews."

But Trustee Richard Allen noted the township's positive past experience with Bartell & Bartell.

"I hope we're not being dollar foolish along the way," he said. "They're certainly knowledgeable about (the township police department)."

The board voted 7-0 to support the Lennox plan.

Henningsen later said that prospective panel members would be contacted soon, and said the interviewing process would take place in June.

Image key for corrections officers

Mary Armstrong wants to professionalize the image of prison corrections officers.

"A correctional officer can make a tremendous impact on a prisoner," Armstrong said. "They can make the difference on whether a prisoner decides to become rehabilitated or if the prisoner wants to lash out again at the system. Prisoners are very astute at noticing how bright the officers are."

Armstrong, a former suburban school teacher, coordinates the officer training program at Schoolcraft College Radcliff Center in Garden City.

Armstrong describes the prison environment as "a little city." "They have so many divisions," Armstrong said. "I have contact with all levels. I'm privy to information on all levels. Yet I'm not considered one of them."

Armstrong does work for three correctional facilities in western Wayne County: Scott Regional — for first time offenders with an average age of 24; Western Wayne — a medium security facility; and Phoenix Correctional — an intake center for people who have broken parole.

"The atmosphere is different at each one," Armstrong said.

"At Scott, they are probably a little more up because this is their first time. There is something that happens when you keep coming back."

Armstrong keeps an office at Scott two days a week, an office at Western Wayne one day a week and drops-in at Phoenix.

"The correctional officer's first responsibility is to security. You have to be flexible," she said.

A good officer can advance quickly, she said. The program consisting of five classes required by Public Act 415 can be completed in 16 weeks with candidates taking no more than three classes at one time, she said.

Classes are based on psychology, sociology, as well as the law. Candidates are taught what makes a person become a criminal.

"What we hope to accomplish is to teach how a human being acts and relates and give candidates a sense of fairness and justice," Armstrong said. "Prisoners can read the officers very well. Students look at discrimination, dysfunctional families and learn that you can't categorize people."

Many start out as a correctional officer and advance quickly. "We also offer an associate degree program in correctional science."

Starting pay for correctional officers is $9.04 per hour; $10.98 per hour after one year.

Applicants must have a high school diploma or a GED (General Equivalency Diploma). They must possess a corrections certificate or have 15 semester or 23 term college credit in: corrections criminal justice; psychology; sociology; educational psychology; family relations and/or guidance and counseling. People who possess a corrections certificate are given priority in the hiring process.

Before being hired, applicants must pass a physical agility test given by the Michigan Department of Corrections which consists of: 13 sit-ups in 30 seconds; 10 pushups in 60 seconds and continuously walking up and down steps ranging up to almost 12 inches for five minutes.

Cost for in district residents taking 15 credits is $522.50; out-district is $735, Armstrong said.

"We've done a lot of recruiting with dislocated workers, to help them find new careers," she said.

Currently, 147 ex-felons hold positions as correctional officers, said Lou Chappell, Michigan Department of Corrections public information officer. These persons are carefully screened to see if they are a good risk and often have been motivated with a desire to help or even because they think they can do a better job, Armstrong said.

"People make mistakes," Chappell said. "The department has made a major effort to try to rehabilitate people. It would be hypocritical for us not to allow these persons to apply."

There are 28 prisons across the state.

"The governor has said that we will build no more prisons," Armstrong said. "I think you will see a greater growth in community corrections. Nobody is willing to concede to lowering the sentences or commuting them. Some provisions have to be made because prisoners are still coming in."

One option is to enlarge the prisoner tethering program which monitors the movement of prisoners who are not considered a threat to the community, she said. For example, these would be people convicted of a felony larceny from a building, bad checks, breaking and entering without a firearm, simple possession of drugs, welfare fraud and people who owe money.

Tethering consists of a black device a bit smaller than a cigarette pack that is strapped to a plastic ankle strap. Another box is strapped to a telephone.

"When a man is on a tether, he must be back home at a certain hour," Armstrong said.

According to Jim Putnam, assistant deputy director of bureau field services for the Michigan Department of Corrections, 1,653 prisoners are hooked to the device.

Humorist to sign books at Borders

Pulitzer Prize-winning humorist Dave Barry will visit Borders Book Shop in Novi to sign his new book, "Dave Barry Turns 40," on Tuesday, May 22, 6 to 7:30 p.m.

"We have had a lot of good signings here, so the publisher decided to contact us first," Nancy Levy, publicity director for Borders, said of the bookstore's coup. "I would expect 300-400 people."

Barry, whose column appears locally each Sunday in the Detroit Free Press Magazine, has written about other aspects of adult life in "Babes and Other Hazards of Sex" and "Homes and Other Black Holes." In his latest book he talks about some of the realizations that came with his 40th birthday.

"One of the more traumatic aspects of reaching age 40 is the realization that you no longer have the same body you had when you were 21," Barry explained in a press release. "I know I don't. Sometimes when I take a shower I look down at my body and I want to scream, 'Hey, this isn't my body! This body belongs to Willard Scott!'"

Barry also addresses typically midlife concerns such as: "Midlife Marriage," "Sex after 40," "Sports for the Over-40 Person" and "Planning Your Male Midlife Crisis."

"There is virtually no end to the humiliating activities that a man will engage in when in the throes of a midlife crisis," says Barry. "For example, he will destroy a successful career as a Certified Public Accountant to pursue a career in the Roller Derby."

As he's gotten older, Barry finds himself becoming more and more like his own father. "I find myself asking my son, in a solemn parental voice, the same profoundly stupid old-fogey questions that my parents used to ask me, such as: 'Do you want to poke somebody's eye out?'"

Barry's early years were spent in Armonk, New York, where he began his career in humor as the class clown. As an English major at Haverford College in the '60s, he protested the war and played guitar in, as he puts it, "a succession of incredibly bad rock bands." After college he took a job as a reporter and humor columnist for the Daily Local News in Westchester, Pennsylvania.

Education plan panned

By TIM RICHARD
SCC News Service

There's little new and nothing guaranteed in Gov. James Blanchard's "50-50 Education Partnership" plan, area legislators say.

"I'm suspicious: How will this affect out-of-formula school districts?" said Sen. R. Robert Geake, R-Northville. He was echoed by lawmakers from both parties who wonder what the impact will be on their suburban schools which receive no state aid.

"I'm going to vote my district, not the whole state," said Rep. Gerald Law, R-Plymouth. His district includes Northville. Both the Northville and Plymouth-Canton school districts are out-of-formula.

Sen. Jack Faxon, D-Farmington Hills, whose district includes Novi and Wixom, also was puzzled about the effect Blanchard's plan will have on his area. "Part of his plan in the past has been to take money away from school districts that have more and redistribute it," said Faxon, referring to Blanchard's earlier proposal to strip those districts of state pension aid and use the money on poorer districts.

Faxon was critical of Blanchard's continued insistence on raising the mandatory school attendance age to 18. "Most people don't understand the psychology of growing children. It's a safety valve for them to leave school," he said, advocating programs to help dropouts return to school.

Rep. David Honigman, R-West Bloomfield, running for the Senate in a district that includes Walled Lake, praised Blanchard's goal of increasing state aid to 50 percent of school budgets, but said there's no guarantee future legislatures will stick to the goal.

"We fight over the state's share to education every year," said Honigman, adding that guaranteed school funding should be put into the constitution.

Blanchard set a 10-year timetable for reaching the 50-50 goal, which Republican critics noted will be long after he leaves office. "He won't be around to pay for it," said Law.

Republicans also agreed that Blanchard lifted most of the newer parts of his package from bills they're already considering or from the Olmstead-Kearney (OK) plan, named for a Detroit school board member and a University of Michigan professor.

Unveiled May 11, Blanchard's mid-year plan calls for:

- Limiting property assessments for local school taxes to the rate of consumer price inflation with the state reimbursing local districts an estimated $40 million for lost revenue.

- Adopting an "employability skills assessment" guaranteeing that every high school graduate is employable. In addition, students would be obligated to stay in school until age 18 or graduation.

- Increase state aid to 50 percent of local school budgets.

In part it would be done through allocating more of the state budget to schools; in part through a constitutional amendment to require lottery funds to go to K-12 schools.

The final item, said Geake, "Isn't that different from what Republicans have been talking about all along."

Law said the lottery money should be added to what the state already is giving schools. "If you don't make the lottery above what the state is doing, people won't believe us," the Plymouth lawmaker said.

Honigman put little stock in the employability skills tests. "Employability skills are tested in the marketplace. He (Blanchard) makes it sound automatic," Honigman said.

Rental rates up at Allen Terrace

Rental rates at the Allen Terrace senior housing complex are rising 5.2 percent to $465 on July 1.

The raises are necessary to cover operating costs at the facility, according to city officials. "Through the rents we pay the debt service which includes the bond issue on Allen Terrace, which is the largest share of our expenditures," said Housing Commission Director Frances Hopp.

In order to charge the higher rates, and because many of the facility's tenants receive federal housing subsidies, the housing commission had to apply to the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) for an exemption from HUD's Fair Market Rent (FMR) limit.

HUD requires facilities which accept the rental subsidies to keep their rents below the FMR figure. The FMR figure for the Detroit / Wayne County area, which includes the cost of all utilities, was set at $411 last year.

In justifying the requested increase, the commission surveyed rental rates for one-bedroom apartments in the city, and found the rates range from $507 to $653 per month including all utilities. After reviewing the data, HUD officials granted the housing commission's request for an exemption.

"Once a year the rents are reviewed based on costs on one hand and the HUD prevailing rental rates on the other hand," City Manager Steven Walters explained.

The State Housing Development Authority gives low-income or elderly people rent subsidy payment vouchers, allowing them to subsidize their rent. According to Walters, about 40 percent of Allen Terrace's 120 residents use the vouchers.

"In order for that program to continue, we can't raise our rent over the HUD numbers regardless of what our costs might be," he said. "The 50 or so tenants who had subsidies from the state would no longer be eligible if the rates were above the HUD rate."

Allen Terrace is a 101-unit single-bedroom apartment building for senior citizens. The facility is owned and operated by the city and financed by local funds through taxpayer support.

New tenants are selected from a waiting list based on their current or former length of residency in Northville, or the residency of their children.

Refuse plan wins state grant

By MIKE TYREE
Staff Writer

A $242,000 grant awarded to the Western Townships Utilities Authority (WTUA) will help fund a composting program to be developed this summer in Canton Township.

The 80 acre composting site — slated for the southwest corner of Beck and Geddes Roads — will serve as a collection center for leaves, grass clippings, brush and twigs for residents of Plymouth, Canton and Northville Townships, members of WTUA.

WTUA Executive Director Ann Bollin announced the receipt of the grant award at the May 10 meeting of the Northville Township Board of Trustees. Bollin said the composting grant was secured through the state's Protect Michigan's Future environmental bond issue that was passed by voters in the November 1988 election.

The grant will provide money for a building to store equipment and buy equipment and also public education," Bollin said.

The composting program is scheduled to begin in July.

Compost Systems Inc., a combined effort of Canton Waste Recycling and Canton Analytical Laboratory, will manage the collection process and monitor the composting site, Bollin said.

Through WTUA, member communities are obligated to provide financial support for the organization, arrange for delivery of yard waste to the site and adopt ordinances banning landfilling of yard waste by June 30, 1991, Bollin said.

Northville Township's latest contribution to the project is $34,820, a payment approved by the Board Thursday evening.

But the township presently does not have a plan for curbside pickup of composting items.

Supervisor Georgina Goss, a member of the WTUA executive committee, said a study on curbside pickup will be conducted in the township.

Goss directed the township Water & Sewer Commission to do a feasibility study on direct pickup.

"We have to look at the future to see if we want curbside pickup," she said.

Trustee Thomas Handyside warned that residents will be impacted by membership in WTUA and the establishment of the composting program.

"We're not looking at any free rides here," he said. "Sometimes these programs are perceived as making money or saving money . . . but they do cost money."

"I hope the thing is to help the environment. (And) I hope we will receive some revenues to offset the cost."

Bollin said the composting program is intended to be "a catalyst, so other communities will join in."

WTUA communities are projected to provide approximately 4,000 tons of compost to the site, Bollin said. Program goals include lessening the impact of compost materials on landfills — which could mean lower disposal costs for residents and businesses — and ultimately provide self-sufficiency, if other communities are attracted to the composting site.

"This composting program should become self-sufficient," Bollin said. "The townships should not have to put anything into the program for administration."

Backyard composting is simple and inexpensive

Backyard compost piles could play a role in cutting the amount of natural material that ends up filling vital landfill space, besides yielding a thick, rich material residents can use to line gardens and flower beds.

The compost pile — simply constructed and built with a minor investment — decomposes common yard materials, like grass clippings and leaves, into a black, humus-like substance with a variety of uses around the home.

It can also be used for a variety of other organic materials, like melon rinds, egg shells, and unused vegetable greens, though experts don't recommend going into that right away.

In a relatively simple maintenance schedule, decomposition can occur in an 18-24 month span. A higher-level maintenance program could yield a finished product within a year.

State officials estimate that during the summer months, more than a third of what is placed out by the curb, and currently labeled "garbage," is actually organic material that could be composted and re-used.

That amount of organic material peaks in the summer months, then increases again in the fall, as residents dispose of leaves and other yard debris in heavy quantities, according to Department of Natural Resources (DNR) Environmental Quality Analyst Wayne Koser.

"You get a big spike at those two times in the year," Koser said. "In effect, for six months out of the year, you have 30-35 percent of the waste stream made up of these materials."

That turns out to be a yearly average of about 18 percent, Koser said, putting a strain on rapidly filling landfill space.

All of it could likely be re-used, although the DNR aims for composting programs that will reclaim about 50 percent of those materials, or reduce the state's waste stream by 9 or 10 percent.

Meanwhile, environmentalists hope the "garbage" and "waste" labels will be dropped from such material quickly, as the public comes face to face with the looming landfill crisis. But that will likely occur only when residents begin facing garbage disposal bills three or four times what they are today, experts say.

"The thing that we are going to have to start dealing with are the same things that people in more crowded countries have had to deal with," said Charles Cubbage, secretary of the Toxic Substance Control Commission (TSCC). "You can't afford economically to waste resources or throw things away that potentially have a great use or utility to them."

"Our attitude is going to have to start changing," he said. "Ten or 15 years ago, if someone were talking about this, we'd say 'Ahhh. Forget it.' But now, we have to face it."

Composting is encouraged in the latest draft of Wayne County's trash management plan, which is currently in the middle of an update. Final approval of the plan could require some form of composting for yard wastes. One possibility is a requirement to place yard waste in special bags to be picked up and taken to a community- or region-wide composting site.

Avoiding compost pitfalls

Backyard composters can have a "low-tech" composting system in place in under a day.

And if they follow some fairly simple rules, they can avoid problems that can crop up in composting.

The Department of Natural Resources (DNR) Wayne Koser personally uses a 10-foot by 4-foot compost heap that stands roughly three feet high during peak times of the year. However, he lives in a rural area on about three acres of land.

Toxic Substance Control Commission (TSCC) Secretary Charles Cubbage also uses a compost heap in his Milford yard.

For the average homeowner, a 4-foot by 4-foot structure, or even a 3-foot by 3-foot facility should serve the purpose, both said.

The types of construction materials vary widely. Residents can use chicken wire, cyclone fencing, cinder blocks, snow fencing, or any type of enclosure material which allows some limited air circulation.

After collecting grass clippings or leaves, a resident should place about six inches to a foot of them into the compost container. Adding a small layer of fertilizer or dirt is the next step, although it's optional.

The dirt will give the finished product — the compost — a consistency that is more similar to actual soils. Pure yard "waste" products will have an organic content of about 99 percent, while soils have an actual organic content in the 10-15 percent range.

Koser adds "junk subsoil" to his compost heap, in about a "50-50" mix. Cubbage does not, and simply spades his finished product into the soil, thus achieving something close to the desired mix.

When adding dirt or fertilizer to the heap, repeat the layers every foot or so — leaves and grass, then dirt, then more leaves and grass.

County reviews kidnap inquiry

By MIKE TYREE
Staff Writer

The Wayne County Prosecutor's office is reviewing an alleged kidnapping case involving a 1-year-old child and will call for a meeting to include the prosecutor, township police and the child's father.

The meeting between the prosecutor, township police Det. Fred Yankee and Christopher Roberts is meant to shed some light on the alleged April 15 armed kidnapping of Brittany Roberts.

"I don't know when the meeting will take place yet, but we will discuss the case and make sure all the facts are correct," Yankee said Tuesday. "We want to make sure nothing is overlooked."

Yankee said meetings between law enforcement officials and complainants in crimes are not uncommon.

"This is a very sensitive issue," Yankee said. "The prosecutor wants to make sure he's not getting just my point of view or (Roberts') point of view. It's just an attempt to look at the facts."

Christopher Roberts alleged that at approximately 9:30 p.m. April 15, two armed men identified themselves as police officers and took his daughter while he was in the driveway of his aunt's Northville Township condominium.

Roberts said the gunmen were accompanied by his father-in-law, Doug Allor of Utica.

Allor, whose daughter Deborah had separated from Christopher Roberts a few weeks prior to the alleged incident, denied the charge, and said Roberts fabricated the story.

Allor said Roberts willingly handed the baby over to him and two associates outside the condominium. He said no weapons or threats were used against Roberts.

Allor would not identify the two men that accompanied him to the Northville home and township police have not been able to locate them, Yankee said.

"We still don't know who they are. It's still a puzzle," he said.

Yankee would not speculate on the outcome of the case.

"The prosecutor will look at the facts and decide where to go from there," he said.

CITY OF NOVI NOTICE OF ENACTMENT ORDINANCE 90-99.06

BERNEDA M. MCGARRY

Mrs. Berneda M. McGarry, 64, of Salem Township, died at home on May 12.

Mrs. McGarry was born Aug. 20, 1925 to Daniel Roth and Luella Seyberts of Flint.

Mrs. McGarry was a homemaker and lived in the Salem Township area for 60 years.

Services were held May 16 at 1 p.m. at the Ross B. Northrop & Son Funeral Home. Interment was at Glen Eden Cemetery in Livonia. The Rev. Ivan E. Speight of the First Baptist Church of Novi officiated.

Mrs. McGarry is survived by her daughters, Virginia A. Brown of Dearborn, Barbara J. Collins of Dallas, Texas, Patricia I. Penley of Whitmore Lake; son, Robert A. McGarry of Salem Township; sister, Geraldine Feldmann of Lake Orion; 10 grandchildren and four great grandchildren.

The family would appreciate memorials to the Michigan Heart Foundation.

EMMETT L. WINDISCH Jr.

Mr. Emmett L. Windisch, Jr., 71, of Farmington Hills, died May 10 at Mount Carmel Mercy Hospital in Detroit.

Mr. Windisch was born May 5, 1919 in Detroit to Emmett L. Windisch and Margaret Rowan.

He is survived by his wife, Bernadette (Peggy) Chatel; sons, Emmett L. Windisch III of Farmington Hills, and Wayne Windisch of South

Lyon; daughters, Pamela Pasley of Ann Arbor, Paula Gibbons of Canton, Maureen Boyd of Northville and Joanne Frid of Brighton; sister, Joan O'Malley of Bloomfield Hills; brothers, Paul Windisch of Warren and Hugh Windisch of Mount Clemens; and eight grandchildren.

Mr. Windisch lived most of his life in the area. He was still active in the family printing business. He was a member of Our Lady of Victory Church in Northville.

Funeral services were held May 12 at Our Lady of Victory Church in Northville. Father Frank Pollie officiated. Interment was at Holy Sepulchre Cemetery.

The family would appreciate memorials to charity of choice. Arrangements were made by the Casterline Funeral Home of Northville.

DOROTHY F. SNEDEGAR

Mrs. Dorothy F. Snedegar, 68, died May 12 after a long illness at her residence in Plymouth.

She was born in South Fork, Pa. to the late Charles Dunmire and the late Florence Whitley.

Mrs. Snedegar retired on Sept. 1, 1978 from Standard Oil of Ohio after several years of service. She was a secretary. Mrs. Snedegar and her husband were residents of the area for 23 years.

Memorial services for Mrs. Snedegar were held May 15 at the Ross B. Northrop & Son Funeral Home in Northville. The Rev. Eric S. Hammar of the First United Methodist Church of Northville officiated. Private interment services will be in Greenlawn Memorial park in Barberton, Ohio.

Mrs. Snedegar is survived by her husband, Leo D. Snedegar of Plymouth, son Roger Mann of Miles City, Montana and five grandchildren.

Memorials to the Michigan Cancer Foundation would be appreciated by the family.

WESLEY JOHN KLOCKE

Mr. Wesley John Klocke, 72, of Glennie, Mich., died May 13 at Saint Mary Hospital in Livonia. He was a former resident of Northville.

Mr. Klocke was born Oct. 27, 1917 in Pike, Ohio, to John C. and Bessie

E. (Booker) Klocke.

He is survived by his wife, Ellen M. Klocke; daughters, Mary Ellen Adam of Livonia and JoAnn White of Northville; son, John of Yale, Mich.; brother Irvin Klocke of Florida; 13 grandchildren and seven great grandchildren.

He lived most of his life in the area. Mr. Klocke was a member of the V.F.W. Post 4012 of Northville.

Funeral services will be held today, May 17, at 11 a.m. at the Casterline Funeral Home in Northville. Father Joseph Drogowski of Our Lady of Victory Church in Northville will officiate. Interment will be at Oakland Hills Memorial Gardens in Novi.

Arrangements were made by the Casterline Funeral Home of Northville.

Business owners sue city

Black's Hardware Store owners Robert and Donna Black are also seeking damages for loss of more than $10,000 in profits from lost sales. The Blacks claim they lost $27,000 in sales after being denied permission to store salt behind their store between January and February 1989 alone.

The Blacks also maintain that the outdoor storage was given mute approval by the city's Historic District Commission in December 1988, when the owners obtained approval to put a fence around the area to shield the outside storage.

"The Blacks presented plans for outdoor landscaping to the Historic District Commission" in which they specifically noted their intention to store materials outside in a patio area, Bredell said. Because of this, he said, "we claim that the city has waived its right to enforce the statute."

According to the suit, the Blacks are in a Catch-22 position regarding storage and sale of wheeled goods like wheel barrows, seeders, garbage cans and other merchandise. On April 5, they received a letter from city ordinance enforcement officer Charles Altman, threatening to "immediately issue a court summons" if such equipment was not removed from outside the store. But after moving the equipment into the store, the Blacks received a letter from city Fire Inspector Robert Turner advising them the indoor storage of the equipment was a direct violation of the city's fire code, because it was blocking the store's aisles.

"The things that we carry outside are in the top 10 percent of our sales bracket every month," said store owner Robert Black. "And that's what our business has been for 17 years."

Black said he first ran afoul of the city when he moved his hardware store from 117 Main St. to its present Main Street site in November 1988.

The city's requirement that goods be sold indoors was a serious threat to his business, Black said. "I can't do that and operate the business I've been in. I've got to either move outside the city or just close up."

As for building an addition to the store, an idea that was mentioned several times by city officials, "that was their idea," Black said. "The problem with that is that I don't own the building. So we're kind of in limbo there in terms of providing added storage space."

"Other communities, these types of items are never stored inside," Black said. He cited Meijer as an example.

"He's just trying to provide a quality hardware store in a nice, small town, and he's not being allowed to do it," Bredell said.

City Manager Steven Walters described the 50-page lawsuit as "kind of a fishing expedition, really," adding that "there's many errors in it."

Walters noted that while the Blacks claimed they would not have leased the 139 E. Main St. property had they been told that no outside storage was allowed, the suit also notes that Walters himself told the Blacks just that in May 1988. The Blacks opened their store at that location in November 1988.

Walters said City Attorney James Kohl is currently drafting a response to the suit.

Detroit's finances

By TIM RICHARD
SCC News Service

A state review of Detroit's troubled finances is unnecessary, state Treasurer Robert Bowman told a Senate panel last week.

"With Bella Marshall (finance director) and Walter Stecher (budget director), Detroit has the management ability to get the job done without a state bailout," Bowman said.

"We're more worried about River Rouge with its little budget than Detroit with its big ($1.4 billion) budget."

"There's a stark difference between Detroit and River Rouge. We didn't believe that in River Rouge there was one person who knows how to balance a budget," Bowman said.

The Senate Local Government Committee is considering a resolution by chair Harmon Cropsey, R-Decatur, that would trigger use of PA 101 of 1988, the Local Government Fiscal Responsibility Act.

"We have no intention of moving on it today," Cropsey said.

Under that law, either the Senate or House, by resolution, can order a review by the Treasury Department to protect the credit of the state and its local governments.

The law was passed to provide an alternative to the kind of bankruptcy proceedings the City of Ecorse was thrust into. A federal court appointed a receiver for Ecorse.

The act has been used in the cases of River Rouge and Royal Oak Township. River Rouge is fighting the review in a Wayne circuit court lawsuit.

Sen. Virgil Smith, D-Detroit, missed the first hour of the committee meeting but showed up in time for the Detroit resolution. Smith argued that Detroit doesn't fit the financial criteria to warrant a state review.

Area senators on the five-member panel include Rudy Nichols, R-Waterford, and George Z. Hart, D-Dearborn. Nichols didn't comment, and Hart missed the meeting.

Cropsey's proposed resolution recites Detroit's recent difficulties — a budget $81 million out of balance, a court decision that may require the payback of $100 million in utility taxes, and the possible loss of future utility tax revenue.

The utility tax directly supports 1,000 of Detroit's 5,000 police officers.

The resolution also cites media reports of "extravagant spending by the city" such as 42 executive cars for council members, two $80,000 limousines for Mayor Coleman Young, a $600,000 jet for the mayor and police, and Uzi machine guns for the mayor's bodyguards.

Education Board election schedule

Northville School District residents will vote on two Board of Education seats at the school district election on June 11.

The school board at its meeting Monday scheduled the annual election and formally set the ballot issues to be decided.

Two current school board members, President Glenna Davis and Treasurer Joseph Dunkerley Jr., are the only persons nominated to fill the vacancies for four-year terms ending in 1994.

The school board also appointed school electors for each of the district's six voting precincts to serve as election inspectors.

The polls will be open 7 a.m. to 8 p.m.

When government bodies choose to go beyond the Truth in Taxation limitation, a public hearing must be held to inform the voters, and a vote to raise taxes passed by the board.

This doesn't apply to millage rates imposed to pay off long-term debts.

The Northville district includes the City of Northville, Northville Township, and parts of Novi, Salem Township and Lyon Township.

Rouge Rescue volunteers sought

Volunteers are needed for the Northville and Northville Township components of the annual Rouge Rescue project.

This year's project will be held on Saturday, June 2, from 9 a.m. to noon. Northville and Northville Township are two of 26 participating communities to work on cleaning the Rouge River. Both Northville and Northville Township will work on the same project this year.

Volunteers should be at least 16 years of age or older unless accompanied by a parent. They should wear work boots, long sleeved shirts, and long pants, if possible. The clothing protects from poison ivy and scratches. Volunteers should report at 8:30 a.m. to the Northville Community Center at 303 W. Main to be transported to the site, as parking at the site is extremely limited.

Mountain Top Tree Service has again volunteered to donate equipment and labor to provide for a meaningful clean up. Volunteers will assist in breaking up the logjams and removing them so that the flow of the river can cleanse the river by itself. Small hand tools will be available.

A lunch will be provided for the workers at the conclusion of the event. Last year Pizza Cutter, the Dandy Gander, and the Northville Crossing restaurants donated food for the project. Donors are welcome again this year.

Volunteers are asked to RSVP to Northville Community Recreation (349-0203) prior to May 30 so that proper preparations for the event may be made.

asking residents for input on a new proposal to Haller.

"We will probably survey township residents to formulate an opinion (on a possible library)," Goss said.

Goss and Township Manager Richard Henningsen met with Northville Mayor Chris Johnson and City Manager Steven Walters Monday morning for a "general discussion," Goss said.

"We discussed library and recreation needs for the community, but no decisions were made. The mayor and I requested (from the managers) an inventory of recreation fields and conditions so we can start addressing the problems there," she said.

"We've been consumed by one issue for months," she added. "It's time to let the dust settle."

Mustang squadron conducts searches

On the weekend of April 20-22, Mustang Cadet Squadron Civil Air Patrol personnel were split between two missions. For one mission cadets and seniors traveled to Newberry in the Upper Peninsula to search for an aircraft that has been missing since December 1989. The second was at Oakwoods Metropolitan Park near Flat Rock to search for Sydney Bright, missing since Easter Sunday.

The Newberry mission has been planned for some time and Mustang's Major Joe Brown was the On-Scene Commander for one of the three northern bases. 2LT Melinda Albright, also of Mustang, took the state's only CAP search and rescue dog, "Maudie", to aid in the search. C/SGT Charity Albright and C/AIC Rich Reeder also participated at Newberry.

Several hundred square miles were covered by the three ground teams. Snow and soft road conditions blocked areas for coverage by foot. These areas were searched by air and sometimes searched twice.

Other Mustang Squadron personnel who had planned to go to Newberry were asked to remain locally to respond to a call from the State Police and search Oakwoods Metro Park. Mustang Squadron provided some key personnel at the site. Major Tim Dickinson, Mustang's Commander, ran the Ground Operations for the search. He coordinated the teams to cover as much of the park as possible with line searches.

C/MAJ Brian Murphy assisted in 'Ground Ops' and held the position of Communications Officer. C/MAJ Brad Guerro, Mustang's Cadet Commander, assisted in communications. C/MAJ Todd VanHoosear, Cadet Deputy Commander, worked as Public Affairs Officer and called Channel 4 and 7 who responded with coverage of the search. The Squadron's First Sergeant, C/MSGT Jerry Sumiec and C/MAJ Mike Method as well as C/SGT Ed Hogberg worked on the ground team in strategic line searches of the area.

2LT Carl Seaberg, Mustang's Deputy Commander, flew out of Willow Run Airport and acted as Co-Pilot and Observer from the sky in hope of locating the missing person. Oakland County Group 2 sent a total of 100-plus personnel to cover 175 acres and most of the mission base was staffed by Northville's Mustang Cadet Squadron.

Unfortunately both objectives remain missing at this time. However, if called upon again the squadron will respond and participate in another search.

If you, or anyone you know, is interested in Civil Air Patrol contact Maj. Tim Dickinson at 349-3212 for more information, or stop by a squadron meeting any Wednesday night at Northville's VFW Post 4012 on South Main in Northville 7-9:30 p.m. CAP is open to anyone age 13 and over with many opportunities available in several different areas. Squadrons are located throughout the Detroit-Metro area.

ORDINANCE NO. 85A

AN ORDINANCE AMENDING PART II, SECTION 1 OF ORDINANCE NO. 85 ENACTED PURSUANT TO ACT NO. 366, PUBLIC ACTS OF 1984, AS AMENDED TO AUTHORIZE CERTAIN PUBLIC SERVANTS, OTHER THAN POLICE OFFICERS TO ISSUE AND SERVE APPEARANCE TICKETS WITH RESPECT TO PARTICULAR CLASSES OF OFFENSES OF LESS THAN FELONY GRADE; PROVIDING FOR SEVERABILITY OF THE ORDINANCE; PROVIDING FOR THE CONSTRUCTION OF THE ORDINANCE; PROVIDING FOR THE REPEAL OF ALL CONFLICTING ORDINANCES; PROVIDING FOR THE SAVINGS OF ALL PENDING VIOLATIONS AND BALANCE OF ORDINANCE; PROVIDING FOR THE EFFECTIVE DATE OF THIS ORDINANCE

THE CHARTER TOWNSHIP OF NORTHVILLE ORDAINS

SECTION 1. AMENDMENTS

Amendments to Part II, Section 1 of Ordinance No. 85 of the Ordinances of the Charter Township of Northville are hereby adopted as set forth hereinafter

PART II

PART II. SECTION 1. APPOINTMENT OF PUBLIC SERVANTS TO ISSUE AND SERVE APPEARANCE TICKETS

The following public servants are hereby appointed and authorized to issue and serve appearance tickets in the Charter Township of Northville with respect to certain offenses less than felony grade: (1) The Northville Building Official and his designated assistants; (2) The Northville Township Ordinance Enforcement Officer and his designated assistants; (3) The Northville Township Dog Control Officer and his designated assistants; and (4) The Fire Chief, the Assistant Fire Chief, and two Firefighter Inspectors.

SECTION 2. SAVINGS OF ALL PENDING PROCEEDINGS IN BALANCE OF ORDINANCE

The balance of Ordinance No. 85, except as herein amended, shall remain in full force and effect. All proceedings pending and all rights and liabilities existing, acquired or incurred at the time this amendatory Ordinance takes effect, are saved and may be consummated according to the law enforced when they are commenced. This amendatory Ordinance shall not be construed to affect any right pending before the effective date of this amendatory Ordinance.

SECTION 3. SEVERABILITY

If any section, subsection, clause, phrase or portion of this Ordinance is, for any reason, held invalid or unconstitutional by any court of competent jurisdiction, such portion shall be deemed a separate, distinct and independent provision and such holding shall not affect the validity of the remaining portions thereof.

SECTION 4. CONSTRUCTION OF ORDINANCE

This Ordinance shall be liberally construed in such manner as to best effectuate its purpose. The provisions of this Ordinance shall be construed, if possible, in such manner as to make such provisions compatible and consistent with the provisions of all existing Ordinances of the Township and all amendments thereto.

SECTION 5. REPEAL OF CONFLICTING SECTIONS

Part II, Section 1 of Ordinance No. 85 is hereby repealed only to the extent necessary to give this amendatory Ordinance full force and effect.

SECTION 6. EFFECTIVE DATE

This ordinance may be adopted by the Township Board of the Charter Township of Northville, pursuant to authority of Act No. 184, Public Acts of 1943, as amended at their next special/regular meeting.

The write way

The Detroit Free Press recently announced that 17 students at Meads Mill Middle School won awards in the 1989-90 Writing Contest. More than 6,100 entries were received. Awards of excellence were given for poetry to Stephanie Cionca, James Lancaster, and Joel Pittaway. Certificates of commendation were awarded to Sarah Allen and Bret Swalberg. Meghan Brown, Joseph Marsh, Lisa Wagner, and Melissa Wilkie received honorable mention certificates. Nick Bowersox and Bernie Tomsa won certificates of commendation in the short story category. In the essay category, Chris Harrison won an award of excellence. John Farrar received a certificate of commendation in the sketch category while Jason Fisher, Mark Leo, Julie Romine and Lisa Szovinsky were awarded honorable mention certificates.

Bullard to seek fifth House term

Reducing property taxes and stronger environmental cleanup measures are among the priorities of State Representative Willis "Bill" Bullard Jr., R-Highland, who is seeking re-election to a fifth term in the Michigan House.

"As a property owner, I am as frustrated as the next person about our skyrocketing property taxes," Bullard said in a press release. "We must keep fighting to reduce them. If the Legislature is unable to provide relief, there once again may be ballot proposals addressing the problem in November."

Bullard also wants more legislation to help resolve serious environmental problems.

"If we want a habitable planet for our children, we must take major steps now to correct the damage done to our environment," the lawmaker said. "They include supporting and expanding mandatory recycling, and finding alternatives to solid waste landfills. I am strongly committed to legislation that addresses these issues."

Bullard's district includes the cities of Novi, South Lyon, and the Oakland County portion of Northville, as well as Millford and Holly Villages. He also represents the townships of Novi, Millford, Holly, Highland, Lyon, Rose and Groveland.

"I appreciate the trust and confidence placed in me by 60th District voters and will continue to ensure their views are heard in Lansing," Bullard said.

Skin cancer clinic at Allen Terrace

Northville residents will have an opportunity to find out where they stand regarding skin cancer at a special skin cancer detection program taking place, Wednesday, May 23 at Allen Terrace from 8:30 a.m. to noon.

The American Academy of Dermatology and the American Cancer Society are promoting Skin Cancer Detection Day throughout the state on May 23. Local dermatologist Dr. Louis C. Chiara of Northville will be conducting the special free skin cancer detection clinic at Allen Terrace.

Chiara noted that during last year's skin cancer detection clinic nearly one-third of the patients examined in Northville had skin cancer or pre-cancerous skin lesions.

All examinations are free to the public in an effort to promote early detection.

Mall reopening delayed for further inspections

By MIKE TYREE
Staff Writer

The roof of the Northville Plaza Mall has been repaired, but a township official said Tuesday that shoppers should not get their hopes up yet for a grand re-opening sale.

"We want to put a hold on (the reopening) for 30 days," said township Chief Building Official Mick Kruszewski. "It (repairs) looks okay, but we want to check on some things."

Kruszewski said he will check different aspects of the repair work during the next 30 days. A chief concern is how the repairs will stand up to the elements, he said.

"When it rains, I'll go out and take a look," he said. "We'll want to check for leaks, things like that."

Township attorneys have ruled that a delay in opening the mall because of safety factors was legal, Kruszewski said.

Kruszewski had asked a Wayne County Circuit Court judge to close the mall for repairs after owner Christopher Redding allegedly ignored 10 consecutive safety violation citations.

The courts agreed with the township and ordered the Seven Mile Road mall closed March 9.

Redding was then given until May 9 to repair specific portions of the building.

He has not responded to requests for comment on the mall closure to date.

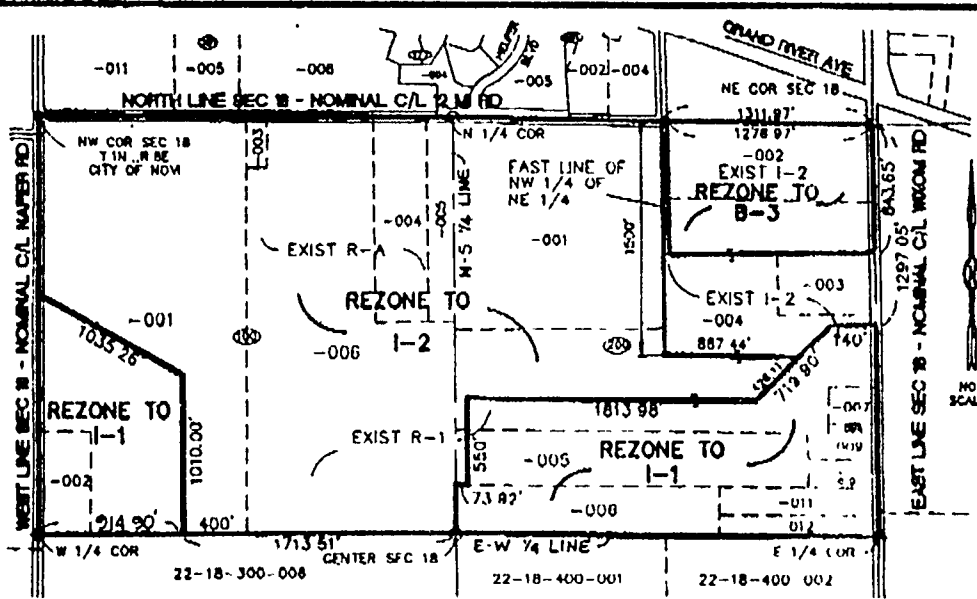

J.D. Chandler Roofing of Detroit contracted the repair work and did a good job, Kruszewski said, although the firm was fined for working without a permit at one point.

Our Opinions

Residents and officials must move on library

The library issue.

It would be easier to let the matter drop.

But then it would have been easier still to never have begun the entire discussion.

Unfortunately, just because something is easy does not mean it's right. Dropping the matter now would be exactly the wrong thing to do.

Sixteen days ago voters in Northville Township turned down a proposal to build a 44,800-square-foot library on the corner of Sheldon and Six Mile roads.

Following that 2-1 decision, township board members talked about a number of options. One was to come back to voters with the same question. Board members intelligently decided that made no sense. The next option was to pursue the matter with Frieda Haller, owner of the land. Would she consider an extension of the contract? Would she consider some changes to the contract? Was she open to discussing different options for the land?

The answer apparently came back — no. While Haller has been patient throughout this long, at times heated, debate, her good nature has been tested. She apparently told Township Supervisor Georgina Goss and Township Trustee James Nowka that she needed some time. She asked them to leave the matter alone until September. According to Goss, the board will abide by her wishes.

In the meantime Goss and Township Manager Richard Henningsen met with Northville City Mayor Christopher Johnson and City Manager Steven Walters to discuss the library and recreation needs for the community. An inventory of recreational field availability and conditions has been requested and appears to be the newest priority for the two managers.

There is no question that recreational resources need to be looked into. There is also no question that additional research needs to be started immediately on where the community will look next for a library site and about cost options and funding possibilities for such a move.

One of the problems with the Haller proposal presented to voters on May 1 was the need to move quickly to satisfy the stipulations set forth in the contract. To avoid the same time constraints in the future, the community cannot afford to wait until wounds heal and time eases memories.

Goss said board members will survey township residents before talking to Haller about a possible extension or change in the contract for the land. This is an excellent idea. It is time now for the community to begin a true grass roots campaign to decide how to deal with the current recreational land shortage and the extremely crowded conditions of the current community library. Township and city residents must push their local leaders to address this issue squarely — and together.

Before the township returns to Haller with another option for satisfying her needs regarding the possible gift of land, township trustees must understand the priorities of the residents. Residents must take an active role in helping to solve the situation — not just in lashing out against taxes. Quality of life issues such as recreation and library needs must be addressed by all of us creatively if there is ever to be a compromise benefiting everyone.

This is a crucial moment in the development of the community. Township and city officials must set aside any personal vendettas and work together for solutions to these two needs. Likewise, township and city residents must not wait to be led on these issues but must share equally in the task at hand. The community requires the best efforts of everyone — and time is of the essence.

First response saves valuable time, lives

Quick! What's the most important service a city or township provides?

When it comes to protection of the public health, safety and welfare, probably the most important municipal services are police and fire protection. Which makes the recent decision by the City of Northville to provide first medical response through its fire department all the more important.

Under the proposal, trained fire department personnel would respond to the scene of a medical emergency and provide the primary emergency medical response. According to Fire Chief Jim Allen, the average fire department response time to fire emergencies now is less than five minutes, while the average ambulance response time to medical crises over the last several years has been between six and eight minutes.

Those few minutes can mean the difference between life, permanent disability, and death.

The first response program gives the city the same multi-tiered emergency medical response system that has been implemented in most surrounding communities, including Northville Township and Novi. In fact, besides Northville City, South Lyon is the only other community in Western Wayne or Oakland County that does not have a multi-tiered system.

The city currently pays nothing for the services provided by Community Emergency Medical Services (CEMS), the city's contracted ambulance service. And fire department officials see their proposal as a supplement to the CEMS service rather than a replacement of it.

The trained fire personnel are already in place. More than half of the department's 22 firefighters are trained as Emergency Medical Technicians (EMTs).

Their enthusiasm for the idea is evident from the 35-page report the fire department presented to city council members, reviewing the need for the program and the way in which it would be implemented.

An added benefit of the program is that it would free police officers, who are often called upon now to provide primary emergency medical treatment, from the scene of an accident. Also, fire personnel are generally more trained in medical services than police.

Even with the city's budget deficit, the proposal makes sense. City officials decided the $20,000 that the program has been estimated to cost is well worth the added medical service provided.

The council decision amounts to little more than a change in fire response policy, the purchase of a couple thousand dollars worth of medical equipment, and additional funding to cover the added response by qualified fire personnel.

But the difference in response times should quickly become evident to those who find themselves in a life-threatening situation.

The All-American diet?

The National Center for Health Statistics wants to know what we eat. Honest. According to a recent press release approximately 1,300 people in Wayne, Oakland and Ingham counties will be randomly chosen and if we agree, will participate in a study which will among other things study what we eat.

That's sort of scary.

According to the release these scientists want to get a handle on the health of all Americans by studying a small sampling of us. The study will determine the health and dietary habits of America by looking at our physical activity, medical history and diet.

They better stay away from me.

I'm curious how they will rate these things. Does eating tomato soup while standing at the sink and washing dishes constitute eating or exercising? I can't imagine the chart that will be able to figure out what meal I'm eating when I get home at 4 a.m. after work. Is it breakfast? Is it dinner? Is it more important to eat or to sleep at that point? Perhaps the experts will be able to shed some light on this.

If the experts really want to get a handle on what we eat they should save time and just go stand in the grocery store checkout line. It's easy to find out what's happening with the American diet while looking into everyone's cart. Basically the American diet is suffering from a very typical disease — guilt.

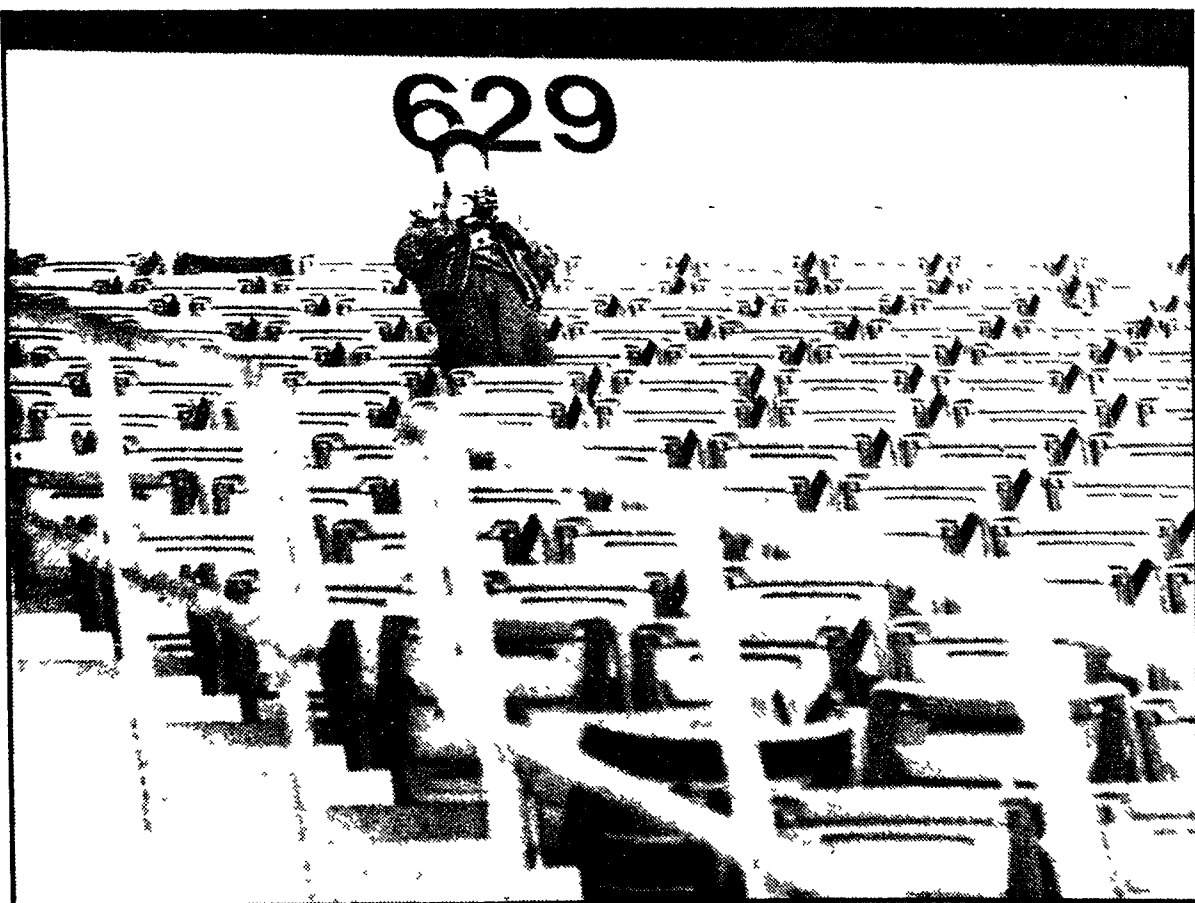

Carts are overflowing with "lite" food. There's half-percent milk (the stuff that's blue and makes cereal taste like it's been sprayed with water). There's margarine, diet pop, lite bread, fake cake, salt-free turkey breast and rice cakes. But snuggling right next to all this so-called health stuff is the other side of the American diet. Potato chips, sour cream for those oh-so-healthy baked potatoes, beer, cookies (for the kids, you say, right — I believe you), ice cream and all those other important dietary foods we can't live without.

I think the experts will determine what we already know. We want our cake and the ability to eat it and feel good about doing it, too. I hope I get a call from the statisticians. I can't wait to see what food group peanut butter and crackers fall into.

Monday morning muggings

on Mondays as well as Thursdays.

So the flacks come up with the idea of having special coffee cups made up to do the promoting. So the mugs, along with a muffin, orange juice, and a newspaper, were to be delivered to all the bigwigs in town Monday morning to kick everything off. So far, so good.

So how were we to know the whole idea was cursed from the start?

For some people, it all went off without a hitch. Mug, muffin, juice and paper were all in place some time before noon. Not for everyone, however.

Some people got their stuff late.

Some never got it at all. We carefully wrote down a list of all the department heads at Novi City Hall — (there was unfortunately a limited number of mugs, so we couldn't give them to everyone) — but the list vanished somewhere along the way. Some of the people we wanted to be sure got a mug didn't even know the things were in the building. We didn't mean to slight anybody, honest.

Apparently something similar happened at Northville Township Hall. Again, not everyone on the list got their goodies, and again, there was nothing intentional behind it. We don't know just what happened.

We do know that a mug made it over to the Northville Community Recreation Department. Apparently the good folks over there decided to use it to hold flowers; a nice idea.

Guess whose mug had a massive crack in it, rendering it completely incapable of holding any liquid at all?

But from the reaction I heard, the mugs weren't even the biggest attraction of the day. Neither was the new Monday newspaper. That distinction went to the muffins, which sparked lots of inquiries about where they came from. If I find out, I'll let you know.

All this and still we here in the office had no idea what these infamous mugs looked like. A box of them finally made it over here Tuesday afternoon, and I must say I was impressed: a neat midnight blue, with orange and yellow lettering repeating the slogan of the Monday edition promotional campaign. We never did get a chance to try the muffins.

But one of the mugs is sitting on my desk right now, the slogan staring out at me. In a reference to a '60s hit by the Mamas and the Papas, it reads, "Monday will never be the same."

After a couple days of dealing with the mug situation, I feel a little bit more like listening to an '80s hit by the Boomtown Rats. Specifically — yeah, that's right — "I Don't Like Mondays."

Not pleased

To the Editor:
Good Citizens of Pottersville:
Congratulations on your NO votes on the Haller Library. This community does not need libraries or playing fields; the rotten, little urchins should be working in the factories anyway. We can now proceed with the building of tax revenue producing rental income property. It's a wonderful life we live.

Caring place

To the Editor:
Once again I saw Northville as a community of caring, responsive citizens. When a young man on a motor-cycle was hit by a car on Eight Mile and Center Street on Tuesday, May 8, passing motorists stopped to render aid. A man and woman knelt beside him and held his hand reassuring him. A lady came with a blanket, a man brought a fire extinguisher as gasoline was spilling from a gas tank. A couple of people directed traffic, two young men helped the driver get out of his overturned car. A man gathered the boy's valuables and put them with his helmet. A young girl taking a community education class came into the school to report the accident and the secretary called the police. What a sense of cooperation and concern until the police, fire and rescue arrived. Neither of the victims were alone for even a minute after the accident.

Too many times we read about the apathy and people not wanting to get involved. I am so glad I live in Northville.

Different idea

To the Editor:
Mr. Greg Arceri implied in his letter to the editor that since his assessment had risen 60 percent that his taxes had also risen a comparable amount with no appreciable gain in services. First of all the overall percent increase in assessment is dictated by Wayne County which bases their information on home sales figures. They take the total cash value of homes sold in Northville Township and compare it to the total assessed value of those same homes. The difference between 50 percent of the sales price and the total assessment determines the percent increase to meet the State constitutionally mandated 50 percent assessment. It is then up to Northville Township to determine how this is spread. The township could place an equalization factor against every property or it can adjust individual neighborhoods by the amount that particular area contributed to the required adjustment. Different neighborhoods increase at different rates. An equalization factor penalizes some areas and gives an unfair advantage to others. Northville Township has chosen to adjust by neighborhood to spread the increase in direct relationship to the inflation value of that area. If the Northville Township Board of Review were to cut assessments wholesale, the county would step in and place an equalization factor on everyone to make up the shortfall. On taxes, Northville Township has abided by the Headlee Amendment and adjusted their tax RATES downward each year except for the permitted offset of rate of inflation. In 1989 the Board of Trustees went further and reduced the permitted 1 percent Administration fee to 0.5 percent and have since eliminated the fee altogether on the summer tax collection.

Where do our taxes go that we pay to Northville Township? During 1989 the distribution of taxes including the administrative fee was:

Wayne County 13.2 percent, Huron Metro Park Authority .1 percent, Wayne County Jail 1.9 percent, Northville Schools 66.7 percent, Intermediate School District Special Education 3.9 percent, Schoolcraft College 3.8 percent, Northville Township General Fund 1.5 percent, Police 6.6 percent, Fire .7 percent, Fire Debt 1.1 percent and Administration Fee .5 percent.

It should also be pointed out that the millage collected to pay for the West End Fire Station expires in 1990.

Voters will be asked to renew the regular fire millage of .5 mills (0.7 percent) in August.
But assuming that Mr. Arceri would not discontinue his police and fire protection, let us look at his pure township taxes only, which averaged $62.62 per year for the 1987 through 1989 period. During that time his township tax went up on the average of 4.3 percent, a long ways from a 60 percent increase.

As previously mentioned, Northville Township collects the taxes, but only receives 10.4 percent. We all recognize that sometimes it is easier to shoot the messenger.

Join up

To the Editor:
Thanks to the Northville Record for publishing the Letters to the Editor and articles concerning the 1990 Odyssey of the Mind teams of Northville. The writers of the letters are all experienced OM coaches and realize that months of energy and effort went into the individual team's solution to their selected problem, plus preparation for the spontaneous problem portion of the competition. It is important for these students to realize that their teams and projects are skills that are to be commended.

As one of the coaches for a team that was able to continue past the Regional Competition to State Competition, I would like to correct the omission of one of our team members from the lists contained in the Letters to the Editor. In fact, if it hadn't been for this team member, Matt Ferrara, I would never have been a coach. He, along with six other American fifth graders, decided that they were to be a team, but coaches were needed and my husband and I were drafted.

OM coaches are to guide but the ideas and construction must totally be student work. We saw creativity and, also, many other positive attributes, like cooperation and understanding, from these boys. These same qualities were probably witnessed by all the other coaches.

Thanks to Jeff, David, Matt, John, Chris, Arjun and Eric for providing us with a great experience. We are proud of you and the other Northville students that were OM team members. The best of luck to the two OM teams going to the World Finals in Iowa, May 31, June 1 and 2.

To Northville parents: Next fall, if your child should ask you to be a coach for his/her OM team, think twice and say yes, because it is a positive experience to remember.

Sharon Ferrara

Peppy salute

To the Editor:
I would like to express gratitude to the Northville High School Pep Club for a tremendous year and a job well done.

This group of approximately 13 students run the concession stand at the home football and basketball games. With some of the proceeds this year, Pep Club has contributed to the following at the high school: Homecoming and Spirit Week activities; enabled the Freshman and Sophomore classes and the Cheerleaders to raise money by running the concession stand. We purchased Senior Night flowers, glass for the show-cases, and landscaping for the sign at the front of the school. Pep Club also made a sizable donation to the All Night Charity Ball and to Northville Civic Center.

These are a dedicated, hard-working, and loyal group of young people, who deserve a special "thank you" from myself, Northville High School, and the community.

Charlie Stilec/Student Assistance

This is another in the continuing series of columns by Northville Public Schools' Student Assistance Program Coordinator Charlie Stilec.

As summer begins and schools let out there often seems to be too few activities for the youth in our community. The Summer Workshop on Awareness and Prevention (SWAP) nicely fills this void and comes to the Northville Schools for the third year.

SWAP is a special summer project aimed at helping young adolescents who are experiencing school and family problems. SWAP began in 1986 in part through a grant from the Skillman Foundation. This program is designed to give students the skills necessary to improve relationships with peers and adults, to increase the self-esteem of the participants, and to avoid future problems with chemical dependency or delinquent behavior.

The program this year is funded through a grant from the Southeastern Michigan Substance Abuse Services (SEMSAS).

The program will run for the second year out of Emerson Middle School, 29100 W. Chicago, Livonia 48150. The great aspect of this program is that it is free to all participants and the Northville Public Schools provide a bus for transportation to and from the program.

Participants are required to sign a contract to participate in the entire five week program. All applicants and their parents will be required to participate in an interview with program staff prior to admission to SWAP.

SWAP V will run from July 2 thru August 2, Monday through Thursday 9 a.m. to noon. Adolescents who are completing 6th, 7th or 8th grade (ages 12-15) are eligible with the following issues:

- Academics: currently failing one (1) or more academic classes or working below potential.
- Family Issues: frequent involvement in sibling/parent conflicts, problems due to divorce, etc.
- Peer Related Issues: conflicts with peers, withdrawal or aggressive behavior, etc.

The daily programming is composed of Art or Recreation Therapy provided by qualified professionals. These activities will provide individual and group instruction and are particularly helpful for withdrawn students or students with poor verbal skills. Recreation and athletic experiences stress such things as team work and cooperation. Daily Group Therapy by licensed therapists will encourage students to explore feelings, attitudes, and habits. Decision making skills and personal problem solving will be addressed.

Over the five weeks of the program the following themes will be addressed in length:

1. Self Concept - feelings
2. Communication Skills
3. Disease Concept and Chemical Dependency
4. Family
5. Personal Plans and Goals: Seeking help

As one student wrote on his program evaluation, "The things I like about SWAP are as follows . . . I liked the juice break but the juice was sort of watery but I got used to it. The thing I liked most about SWAP was the group. It not only helped me with my problems but it gave me a chance to help other people with theirs which made me feel good about myself. The counselors and therapists were very understanding when it came to an issue that you had. I think SWAP is a pretty good program."

This is my third year as the co-director. Yearly we service approximately 50 students and their families. At the conclusion of the program each family will meet with their student's therapist, a recommendation will be processed for further support if necessary and all referral sources will receive feedback.

For those students and families who are interested in this wonderful program please contact your middle school counselor or myself at the Northville High School Student Assistance Program at 344-1825.

Slighting seniors reflects fear of age

Several of my recent stories have started me thinking a lot about aging. While two of them — respite care and a story on a group of nursing home entertainers — have an obvious connection, the significance of the third story, although more obscure, was also more telling.

Actually, it was only a small part of a larger story but it really got my attention:

I had visited a plastic surgeon to gain some insight into the procedure for repairing sagging or split earlobes. While I was there he handed me a thick book stuffed with possibilities for surgical improvement of one's physical appearance. And truly, the list of physique alteration alternatives is endless.

People are having breast enlargements, reductions or simply lifts. Noses are made less-pronounced, more-defined or exactly like so-and-so's. Chins, buttocks and lips are enlarged by implantation, and thighs, hips and stomachs are reduced through liposuction.

Faces are tucked, peeled and sanded at incredible inconvenience and enormous cost to stall off the eventual drooping and wrinkling that is an inevitable part of the natural aging process. Women, and men, are going through what has been described as "excruciating pain" all in the determined quest for a younger, more youthful appearance.

This is when it struck me — our society does not like old people because we ourselves are afraid of growing old. And I am beginning to see that this fear is not without good reason.

First there was the newspaper article:

A national study was released last week documenting an incredible number of instances of elder abuse. The number is astounding. Nationwide there were an estimated 1.5 million elderly mistreated, many of them by their own children. And a ranking of the states named Michigan as the 13th worst offender with 3,502 reported cases.

Then there was my talk with Ron Ward:

Ward is the founder of a group that provides entertainment to nursing home residents for free. He talks of how the elderly are "thrown away" and "discarded." Of how we banish them to nursing homes to get them out of our sight. Out of our minds.

And finally there was Mrs. Gates, a 73-year-old woman caring for her 96-year-old mother by herself. I had gone to her home for what I had anticipated to be a quick stop — just some basic details to put a face on my respite care story. Almost two hours later I left her home with knowledge of her views on everything from abortion to house plants and the feeling that I had just spoken with one very lonely person. "Many of the people I used to know don't visit anymore," Mrs. Gates had said. "Just this one Jewish couple. I think that is part of their culture."

Deference to seniors as part of a culture, imagine that.

The demographics of our society are going to continue following the current trend with the elderly claiming a larger piece of the total population pie. We need to come to grips with our negative attitude toward older people and make the world a less hostile place for the elderly. Once we start treating the elderly with respect and stop making a joke of the term Golden Years, maybe then the thought of growing old won't be so terrible.

Maybe it can even be pleasurable.

And maybe, just maybe, we will see a lot less people having cosmetic surgery in a frantic effort to turn back their biological clocks.

Candidates line up for shot at commission seat

By SHEILA PHILLIPS
and THOMAS M. VARCHIE
Staff Writers

Novi's Kay Schmid, a longtime leader in the Republican Party, will face two opponents in her battle for the 24th District county commission seat, which will soon be vacated by Republican John Calandro.

South Lyon Mayor Jeffrey Potter, elected to the city post last November, put an end to speculation Monday by publicly declaring his intention to run as the sole Democratic candidate.

But surprise candidate Michael Teagan, a losing Democrat in the 1988 Lyon Township supervisor race, will first challenge Schmid for the Republican nomination.

He submitted his nominating petitions, which surprised local Republican leaders, May 14 but could not be reached for comment by press time.

"I'm not worried," Schmid commented on her last-minute challenger. "The guy ran as a Democrat in the Lyon Township race and now he is running as a Republican, so when I heard I had to chuckle a little."

Schmid, one of four Republican State Committee members, said that she has already gained support from nearly half the board of commissioners and other notable Republicans which include State Representative Willis Bullard, R-Milford, and Oakland County Sheriff John Nichols.

"He (Teagan) is a Democrat and I already think I have the support of the (Republican) party," she quipped. Nevertheless, both self-proclaimed Republicans will face off in the Aug. 7 primary election. And Potter, the sole Democratic contender, will face the primary winner in the Nov. 6 election.

Joining the race, however, was not an easy decision for Potter because a win will prompt him to step down from his mayoral post 10 months early.

"I may not have to resign as mayor. But it would be prudent to do so," Potter said. "I will make sure the issue of succession (for the mayor post) would be handled responsibly and carefully."

Potter, who works as a spot welder for Ford Motor Co. in Wixom, mailed out nearly 70 questionnaires to South Lyon City Council members, local officials, supporters and homeowners seeking their input on whether he should run for the open office.

"This wasn't just my decision. I got over 45 of the questionnaires back that I sent out. Ninety percent-plus were fully supportive of the option of running for commissioner," Potter said. "Their thoughts were very detailed and supportive."

"The people realized that although I wouldn't be representing the city, I would be representing the district," Potter explained.

Schmid, who has lived in Novi for 18 years, said she isn't worried by Potter's candidacy because the 24th District, which includes Novi, South Lyon, Lyon Township, portions of the City of Northville, is a Republican stronghold.

The three-way race for the $19,198 a year part-time position was sparked by Calandro's decision not to seek re-election.

Counties selected for study

Oakland, Wayne and Ingham counties have been selected as sites in a nationwide study of the health and nutritional status of persons living in the United States, according to Dr. Manning Feinleib, Director, National Center for Health Statistics (NCHS).

Through July 1990, residents of these counties, who volunteer for the study after being randomly selected, will have the opportunity to undergo extensive physical examinations and respond to questions on health-related issues.

"The third National Health and Nutrition Examination Survey is an important source of information on the health of all Americans," Feinleib said. "The survey is the cornerstone of our efforts to evaluate the progress in promoting good health and preventing disease in this country."

Before the survey ends in 1994, about 40,000 people living in 88 communities across the country will have been asked to participate. In Ingham, Wayne and Oakland Counties more than 1,300 individuals are expected to take part in the survey.

The survey includes an interview in the household about health and dietary habits and a standardized physical examination given in a specially designed mobile examination center. Personal interviews include detailed questions on physical activity, medical history, diet and other health concerns. Physical examinations include a physical and dental examination, physiological and body measurements, and laboratory tests.

The mobile examination center is staffed by a team of health personnel, including a physician, dentist, nutritionists, and health and laboratory technicians. Interviewers calling on county residents will display official government identification. Participation in the survey is strictly voluntary and all information collected is confidential.

NHANES III is designed to learn more about and prevent such major diseases as heart disease, hypertension and diabetes. The survey will gather information on the dietary habits and nutritional status of Americans, and on their blood pressure, serum cholesterol, height, weight and other physiological and body measurements. The extent of asthma, liver disease, arthritis and other major chronic conditions also will be measured.

Health examination surveys have been conducted by the U.S. Public Health Service for the past 25 years. Earlier health examination survey findings have identified populations with high blood lead levels and iron deficiency anemia. The national standards for growth and development of children used by physicians as guides to early signs of health problems among children are based on survey results. Effective national health research, education and health promotion programs rely on information from this survey.

The National Health and Nutrition Examination Survey is being conducted by the National Center for Health Statistics. NCHS is the principal health statistics agency of the Federal government and is part of the Centers for Disease Control, U.S. Public Health Service.

Sandy Curtis, owner of Homestead Optical in New Hudson, offers a relaxed atmosphere at her eye care clinic

Homey atmosphere lightens up work for local optical business

By PHYLLIS STILLMAN
Special Writer

If the cold, impersonal waiting room at the doctor's office makes you or your children nervous and uncomfortable, Homestead Optical in New Hudson will be a welcome change.

"I didn't want an optical company, I didn't want that. I wanted it to be like a home," explained owner and optician Sandy Curtis. The business is located at 56711 Grand River Ave.

Curtis wants to make her customers comfortable. "I don't want a medical atmosphere. I want it relaxed so people can come in and have fun. Pretend you're at home. If you want coffee, ask me. I've got coffee. If you want pop, I usually have that, too."

The waiting room looks like a living room with a sofa, a table (purchased from the London Chophouse when it was remodeled) and chairs, along with a child-size rolltop desk stocked with books and toys.

The concept has worked out well.

"I have had no negative feedback," said Curtis. She tells of a family who recently came in — father, mother and two teenagers. The father had his eyes examined first. "He had to sit through three more exams. When he went to leave, he said, 'I like this. I've been real comfortable.'"

Curtis is the former manager of the Optical and Ophthalmology department at Redford Community Hospital. When she decided she wanted to branch out on her own, the administration wondered how the department would operate without her.

"Kind of semi-jokingly, I said, 'Close it and sell it to me,' and they did," said Curtis. She bought all the equipment she'd been working with for years and began seeking a new location.

What she found was an historic building. "We know the house was here, where Grand River runs now, in 1881," said Curtis. The building was

Business Briefs

MARY JO FIFAREK has been named Michigan Bell's public relations director for the Novi, Wixom, Walled Lake and Orchard Lake areas. She succeeds Vince Fordell, who recently retired after 37 years with the company.

Fifarek's new region includes Keego Harbor, Sylvan Lake, Union Lake, White Lake Township, Commerce Township and Wolverine Lake. In addition, she will continue to serve as the company's public relations director for the rest of southern Oakland County, a position she has held since 1986.

A native of Traverse City, Fifarek began her career as an operator there in 1976. She held various positions in the company's marketing department before moving to public relations in 1984.

Fifarek has been involved with numerous civic and professional organizations, including chambers of commerce in Southfield, Troy and greater Royal Oak — Oak Park. She serves on the board of directors of the Traffic Improvement Association of Oakland County.

She is a resident of Troy.

Hyland is associated with Lutheran Brotherhood's Mueller Agency based in Rochester Hills.

Lutheran Brotherhood has $26 billion in life insurance in force and $7.5 billion in assets under management. In 1989, the Society allocated $41.3 million to its fraternal programs in support of its members, their communities and Lutheran institutions.

DARYL J. TOMSA

KEN LAUCK

DARYL J. TOMSA was recently appointed to manager of finance and business planning for the Buick-Oldsmobile-Cadillac Group's Flint Automotive Division was announced by J. L. (Jack) Hazen, director of finance and business planning for the division.

Tomsa has been manager of group accounting, budgets & forecasts for the B-O-C Group at its headquarters in Warren, Mich. The appointment was effective April 1, 1990.

Joining General Motors in 1984, Tomsa was hired as a staff assistant for GM's Treasurer's Office Administration Section for the GM Central Office Finance Staff in Detroit.

He served in several other positions of increasing responsibility on GM's Financial Staff over the next four years, and in 1988, was named director of the Budget Analysis Section.

In 1989, Tomsa was transferred to his current position with the B-O-C Group.

Tomsa, 36, received his bachelor of science degree in management science from the State University of New York and earned his master of business administration degree in general management from the University of Michigan. He resides in Northville.

Northville resident KENNETH E. LAUCK has been awarded the 1990 Safety Professional of the Year award by the Michigan Safety Conference for his technical expertise and contributions in the field of occupational safety and health. Lauck shares the award with Lawrence D. Logsdon of Grand Rapids.

Lauck received the award at a special awards luncheon during the Michigan Safety Conference, April 17 and 18, at the Lansing Center and Radisson Hotel in Lansing.

As Senior Administrative Assistant for Occupational Safety and Ergonomics at General Motors Corporation, Detroit, Lauck has authored numerous publications on industrial robotic safety. Lauck, a 33 year General Motors employee, has been active on numerous ANSI and Michigan safety standards committees. He is a Certified Safety Council for Southeast Michigan board member, and is Chairperson of the Robotics Industries Association Standards Executive Committee.

The Michigan Safety Conference is an organization of private, public, educational and government leaders who gather each year for its annual safety and health conference in Lansing. This year more than 3,000 attendees are expected.

A new Northville firm is offering complete housecare services that are sure to be popular with many area families. HAPPY HOME HOUSECARE understands that today's busy families need more than help keeping the house clean. That's why owner Christopher Surbrook decided to offer complete housecare services to help ease the burdens of running a home.

"In many homes today both parents work long hours. Their children are often busy with after school activities. Therefore quality time for the entire family is often at a premium," notes Surbrook. "What our company does is give the family more time to enjoy being together without the concerns of running the home. Not only do we offer conventional cleaning services, we also can do the grocery shopping and perform outdoor chores, such as lawn mowing," says Surbrook.

For families who hate to cook at the end of the day, Surbrook offers a week's worth of meal preparation. Surbrook and his fiancée, Michelle Strom, both have extensive restaurant experience and perform all of the cooking themselves. "We meet with the families and determine the entire week's menu. Then we prepare up to five meals from scratch in one day. The first meal will be hot and ready when the family returns home at the end of the day. The remaining meals can be refrigerated or frozen and simply have to be reheated," states Surbrook.

Surbrook and his staff are also deeply concerned with the environment and household safety and it shows in their work. "Over half of the commercial cleaners on the market today are classified by the government as household toxins. Even minimal exposure to many of them can be harmful," observes Surbrook. "That's why we use only natural cleaning agents such as vinegar, baking soda and water. We also offer a recycling service whereby a special bin is left with our customers. Recyclable products are deposited into the bin, which we then pick up and empty at the nearest recycling center," notes Surbrook.

Happ Home Housecare is located at 264 Hutton, Northville, Michigan. For more information phone Chris Surbrook 347-2427.

Paying high tax can be avoided

Did you have to pay a stiff tax bill for 1989? If you did, you may be able to benefit from this quick lesson in tax withholding.

According to the Michigan Association of CPAs, tax withholding is the process which enables the federal government to collect your income taxes on an installment basis. The key to this process is the Employee's Withholding Allowance Certificate, more commonly known as Form W-4. To complete this form accurately, you must estimate your annual tax liability and determine the number of withholding allowances you can claim. For 1990 each allowance you claim reduces the amount of income on which your employer bases your taxes by $2,050. For taxpayers in the 28-percent tax bracket, each withholding allowance translates into approximately $574 in take-home pay a year, or $48 a month.

Your goal when filling out Form W-4 is to match the amount of tax you will owe at the end of the year as closely as possible. Unfortunately, many people fail to do this. Too often, taxpayers misunderstand the purpose of withholding, fail to update their W-4 when their tax situation changes, dread estimating their tax liability, or simply cannot follow the sometimes complex instructions on the form itself.

TOO LITTLE, TOO LATE

One mistake taxpayers make is asking their employers to withhold too little from their paychecks. For example, Ed and Anne bought their first home last year. To help them meet their mortgage payments, they increased their withholding allowance by 10, which increased their monthly take-home pay by about $480. But they overestimated the tax benefits of owning a home and ended up owing more than $1,500 in federal income tax.

If your 1989 tax return socked you with an extra large tax bill, don't let history repeat itself. This year, if you fail to set aside at least as much tax as you owed last year, or at least 90 percent of your 1990 tax liability, you will be hit with a nondeductible penalty on the underpayment due. In other words, if your total federal tax bill comes to $10,000 but your tax withholding adds up to just 80 percent of that amount, or $8,000, you will have to pay the federal government $2,000 in tax plus a penalty of approximately $100 to $120 on the $1,000 underpayment.

TOO MUCH, TOO SOON

Another mistake taxpayers make is using tax withholding as if it were a forced savings plan. Ann, for example, deliberately claimed fewer withholding allowances than she was entitled to so that she would receive a hefty tax refund. If you over-withhold for the same reason, you should rethink your strategy. A big refund means you have overpaid the government and, in effect, provided Uncle Sam with an interest-free loan. What's worse, by having too much withheld from your paychecks, you may have missed an opportunity to invest that same money in an interest-bearing account — or pay off a credit card charging you some 19 percent in nondeductible interest. Remember, a tax refund is not a reward — it is simply a repayment of money you never owed the government in the first place.

CHECK YOUR WITHHOLDING

To assess whether your withholding is on target, start by reviewing the outcome of last year's tax return. If you received a large refund or had to pay a hefty tax bill, you probably need to adjust this year's withholding as soon as possible. Even if your withholding was correct in 1989, don't assume that you can simply take the same number of allowances year after year. If you do, you may wind up withholding too little or too much. Changes in tax law, income, allowable deductions, marital status, place of residence, or number of dependents can all affect how much tax you must pay and how many allowances you should claim.

After you review last year's tax return, estimate your tax liability for 1990. Take into account any changes in tax laws or personal events, such as the purchase of a new home or the birth of a child, that may cause this year's liability to differ significantly from last year's liability.

Once you have a rough idea of how much federal income tax you will owe for 1990, take a look at your most recent paycheck stub and note how much you have paid so far. Keep in mind that by the end of April, your federal income tax withholding should equal one-third of your total tax bill. In other words, if your estimated tax liability for 1990 is $12,000, one-third of your tax bill, or $4,000, should be paid by the end of April.

ADJUST YOUR W-4

If your withholding figure is way off the mark, the Michigan Association of CPAs suggests that you update your W-4 right away. You can obtain a copy of Form W-4 from your company's payroll office, your CPA, or the IRS by calling 1-800-424-3676.

To have more tax withheld, you should claim fewer allowances than you are entitled to or ask your employer to withhold more tax. Married individuals can also check the box "Married, but withhold at higher Single rate" on Form W-4. If you collect income not subject to withholding, such as interest from investment holdings or earnings from a home-based business, you may also need to make quarterly estimated tax payments.

To have less tax withheld, you should increase the number of allowances you claim. If both you and your spouse are employed, you can divide the allowances between you, but be careful that you don't claim the same allowances twice. Similarly, if you work for more than one employer, don't claim the same allowance more than once.

Filing a new Form W-4 may not be on your top-ten list of fun activities, but remember this: An accurate W-4 can be the key to an anxiety-free tax return.

Keeping patients comfortable is key

moved to its current location, just next to the road when Grand River Avenue was built.

During remodeling, a sign was found in the loft which identified the building as Collection Station No. 7, which leads Curtis to believe that it was a stagecoach stop.

"We've been told that this was the stagecoach stop. Novi was No. 6 and this was No. 7. Upstairs in the roof was a lookout tower, which lends credence to that belief. Later on, an inn and tavern opened down the street and the stagecoach stop was moved there.

Only the front part of the building is that old. The rest was added later. The building has been remodeled several times. When Curtis signed the lease, the owners were in the midst of another remodeling. Curtis was able to help with the final design, so she could have her offices the way she wanted.

The design and history of the building are not the only features that make Homestead Optical unusual. Crafts, some of which can be seen in the waiting room, are for sale in an upstairs craft shop called Homestead Creations.

Curtis makes most of the crafts herself, specializing in stuffed bears decorated with lace, pearls and fans, and wooden items like a doll (or bear) cradle. She has a woodworking shop at home, and a saw at the store so she can work on her crafts when not busy with patients.

One item she makes combines both of her specialties — stuffed, decorated bears on a wooden swing. "I make the swings and I decorate the bears. I put a plaque on them and I personalize them anyway you want." Some have been personalized for birthdays, others for anniversaries. She also decorates Michigan State University and University of Michigan school bears.

Curtis has been artistic all her life. Several paintings she did when she was 12 years old hang on the walls. She has been selling her crafts at shows and bazaars for about three years.

Curtis also sells crafts on consignment. One of her patients has created satin pillows, picture frames and a large, jointed stuffed horse. Curtis is looking for other items to sell on consignment, but only if the items are unique.

Last November, Curtis had a craft show at Homestead Optical. "We advertised it and we had a lot of people. We served cider and donuts, and it was real nice." She plans on doing that again. "In the summer, we're going to have a craft show. It's going to be an outside show just on the porch.

Homestead Optical and Homestead Creations are both open on Monday from 8:30 a.m. to 9 p.m.; Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m.; Thursday from 7 a.m. to 5 p.m., and Saturday 8:30 a.m. to noon. But the hours are flexible. For example, the optometrists, Gale and Mark Grabowski, are there on Thursday morning, so they take early appointments.

"Thursday mornings we start as early as we have to," explained Curtis, who always tries to accommodate her customers. "My hours are flexible. If it's a Wednesday and someone wants to pick up their glasses at 6:30 p.m., I'll wait for them.

An optician for 18 years, Curtis has a lab where she does her own adjustments and tinting. She sends lens out to be made, but can usually have glasses within two days. She has a wide selection of frames, including many covered by insurance.

Homestead Optical is located next to a dentist's office. Curtis hopes that a doctor will move into a space so that the doctor will be in that building so that the two buildings will form a small medical complex to serve the New Hudson area.

Husband. Grandfather. Great American Investor.

When Bob Lawrence began his career on the rail road nearly 30 years ago he began something else too. Investing in U.S. Savings Bonds—the Great American Investment. It was my wife that got me started. She wanted us to put something away for our retirement. He says today Bob is ready to retire with quite a nest egg. And while he still buys Savings Bonds his reasons have changed. My wife and I aren't worried about ourselves anymore. Now we're thinking of our grandkids. We give them Bonds as gifts. Savings Bonds come in a variety of denominations, are free from state and local income tax, and you can buy them at work or where you bank. For more information, call us, or write U.S. Savings Bonds, Dept. 892 N. Washington, D.C. 20226.

Poached Fish

Summer memories are made from a meal of fresh fish, ice tea, corn-on-the-cob, salad and watermelon. This recipe uses common pantry items that you'll more than likely have on hand when you've suddenly got a fresh catch.

2 lbs.	fish fillets, skinned	freshly ground
2 tbsp.	oil	black pepper
1	small onion, chopped	bay leaf
1/4 cup	chopped celery	1 cup hot water or
2 tbsp.	lemon juice	white wine
		2 sprigs parsley

In a large shallow pan, saute the onion and celery in oil until tender. Place skinned fillets on top of vegetables, or roll each fillet, secure with a toothpick, and place on vegetables. Add water or wine and seasonings. Cover and simmer about 8 minutes, or until fish flakes when tested with a fork.

Carefully transfer fillets to a heated platter. Serve with a heart-healthy lemon parsley sauce or horseradish sauce.

Yield: 8 Servings

Fish tip: If you catch your fish in the market, look for firm flesh, shiny scales and bright, protruding eyes. Use within two days of purchase.

Designers now coordinate all aspects of a child's room, as is shown here in the showroom of the Baby's N Kid's Bedrooms store in Novi.

New nursery Baby can live in real luxury

By Phyllis Stillman

It had to happen, and it has — baby boomers have created a baby boom of their own.

Babies and expectant mothers are everywhere.

Not only are the baby boomers having babies, but many of them have waited until they're older and better established to start their families, giving them more money to spend on the baby.

And market researchers have taken note.

New products abound: padded rattles, cloth diapers with velcro fasteners, padded spout covers for the bathtub, microwavable feeding sets, and a bottle warmer for the car that can be plugged into the cigarette lighter, just to mention a few.

Nowhere is this trend more visible than in the nursery. Cute wallpaper designs for the baby's room have long been available, but recently the options offered have expanded dramatically.

Designs available include animals, balloons, mama and papa bears, Noah's ark, farm and barnyard scenes, and cats with balloons. Borders are also available, which can be placed anywhere on the wall: in the middle, at the top, even around the floor.

Capitalizing on this expansion of design are manufacturers who are using wallpaper designs to create an explosion of color in the nursery with pattern-coordinated products.

As Cherie Clark, owner of Interior Visions in South Lyon explained, products run the gamut. "... everything from a matching lamp, crib bumper pads, stuffed wall hangings, quilts, all the way down to the sheets. We also have available sculptured area rugs that are for a nursery setting. We have everything from teddy bears and balloons to choo-choo trains," she said.

According to Vicky Serra of Serra Interiors, "All the companies are kind of working together" to create the myriad of products now available. So new parents have lots of options available to them when planning baby's room.

Andy and Vivian Green of South Lyon decorated 3-month-old Amanda's nursery in a bunny motif, with help from Interior Visions.

"I chose it from the wallpaper. Bunnies are happy and on the go, so that's why I chose bunnies. There are a lot of accessories — mobiles, bunny decals with both boy and girl bunnies, bed quilts. You can get all the accessories you want to match the wallpaper," Vivian Green said.

The result is a bright, cheerful room, with a crib that looks so comfortable it makes you want to be small enough to climb right in.

"I chose it on appearance, but it's really bright and at this age they like looking at bright things. It's a real cheery room and she really likes it," she explained.

A less traditional approach was taken by Lance Allward and Lila Yee when decorating the nursery for 17-month-old Lindsay. "We live on the water, and she has the best view in the house, so it had to be beachy," Yee said.

With the help of Interior Place in Millford, Yee chose wallpaper decorated with flamingos. Because this was not a nursery wallpaper, Yee had to make the accessories herself. She used coordinating material to make curtains, pillows and a changing pad. The room also features a colorful beach umbrella, rattan furniture and a stuffed flamingo.

These nurseries were designed basically on appearance and theme, but both achieve one of the main objectives that should be taken into consideration when decorating a nursery: stimulation of the baby.

Linda Feighner, a nurse practitioner who works with Dr. Allen Dumont, an Ann Arbor pediatrician, advised parents to use "... bright colors: red, oranges." She suggested that a really colorful wallpaper be used, like a floral pattern or maybe even a plaid.

Toys can also be used to stimulate a baby. Feighner explained that "... what they like most to look at in the newborn stage are faces." Mobiles with cartoon or animal faces would provide that, along with another good source of stimulation — movement.

Designers echo the theme of stimulation. In her book, "A Child's Place: How to Create a Living Environment for Your Child," Alexandra Stoddard cited color. "Your baby sees and experiences color from the time his or her eyes open. At the beginning, a baby distinguishes contrasts — the bright day after the dark night, then movement, then shape and form."

In designing the nursery, "Color is the key. A child's place communicates through color. Color will stimulate, uplift, add life and bring the excitement of change to your child and your child's place. Use color to create a bright, cheerful mood," Stoddard wrote.

Stoddard also emphasizes the importance of light. "The most essential element needed for your new baby in terms of a physical space is that it be light and airy. The Department of Education and Science recently published a report suggesting that light from a window provides visual release and also helps avoid an oppressive sense of enclosure, or claustrophobia.

When parents-to-be pick products for the nursery, they might also want to think about how easy the products will be to keep clean. Stoddard advised that the "walls and ceiling of your child's place should be able to be hosed down, figuratively speaking. Practically speaking, you should be able to sponge the walls, ceiling and woodwork with a strong cleaner."

Another thing to consider is whether the nursery will grow with the baby. Warren Shoulberg, in his book, "Baby Room," cautions that "To keep the painting and redecorating chores to a minimum, it pays to go with as basic and durable a design as possible."

Stoddard agreed. "Once you set up the basic plan of the room, it should be easy to adapt the room to the child's subsequent stages of growth. The room should grow, change and develop as the child does. Sizes, colors and space can be changed according to the child's development and with a minimum of effort and money," she wrote.

One idea is to buy a crib which can later be converted into a bed. That may not be an easy decision because the initial cost of a convertible crib is higher than that of a regular crib. On top of that, the bassinets, cradles and cribs available now are so adorable they may be hard to resist.

Baby N' Kids Bedrooms, on the service drive at Twelve Oaks Mall in Novi, features Victorian lace-covered bassinets, cradles with lace and ruffles, and a variety of cribs ranging from basic wooden cribs to brass cribs, to elaborate canopied cribs.

Manager Ken Alcini said that there doesn't seem to be a trend in the type of furniture purchased.

"We sell a lot of contemporary, but it depends on the person. We just sell a lot of every kind," he said.

Around the House: Designs for Living

Garden welcomes visitors

By James McAlexander

A recessed, sheltered area serves as the garden entryway for the Sanderosa.

The foyer inside controls the traffic flow, diverting it to one side for the bedroom wing, another for the active living and working areas of the house, or inviting you straight ahead to the sunken living room for relaxing.

A large windowed area, overlooking the back yard, lights the formal living room.

An attractive formal dining room is just a step up and shares the view through a bay window with a built-in window seat. A pocket door can close off the kitchen during meal preparation, but the kitchen is handy for serving and clearing chores. Together these rooms make hospitality easier and more appealing for hosts and guests alike.

The kitchen has plenty of work space and cupboard storage, as well as a double built-in oven and a room pantry.

A serving bar opens to the home-maker in a mud room that is large enough to allow storage of sports equipment and hobby or craft goods in the making. In addition, another storage room is provided with access through the garage.

The family room can be entered through the mud room from the garage or from the outside deck through sliding glass doors without disturbing the rest of the household. Here the family can enjoy a fire in a masonry fireplace, a vaulted ceiling treatment, and have informal parties spill out onto the deck and yard.

A full bath is just down the hall from the living area, and near the linen storage and two bedrooms. A private bathroom and walk-in closet complete the master bedroom.

For a study plan of the Sanderosa (108-47), send $5 to Landmark Designs, P.O. Box 2307 CN, Eugene, OR 97402. (Be sure to specify plan name and number when ordering.)

Today's nursery has a modern look

One thing parents shouldn't forget when decorating the nursery is their own comfort. Addressing expectant parents, Shoulberg wrote, "You're going to be spending a large part of the next two years in your baby's room. Many parents don't realize that when furnishing the nursery, and as a result they leave out a very important element in the room: a place to sit down. And for that purpose, nothing beats a rocking chair. It will soon become the most comfortable spot in the house for feeding, having a heart-to-heart conversation with your baby, or just watching him sleep. And let's face it: you can't rock your baby to sleep without a rocker."

Later, the rocker can be moved to another room where "... just looking at it will conjure up some of the nicest memories you're likely to have about the time when your baby was really a baby," Shoulberg stated.

That points to what's really important in all this. What the nursery needs to be is a pleasant, cheerful and comfortable place for both parent and baby; a place where parents and baby can spend a lot of time together and get to know one another. Because contact and love are more important than anything else. And no one can manufacture that.

By Karen Butera

It doesn't matter what you're looking for—everyone seems to be looking for the same thing—a home that is a haven from the chaos and pressures of the outside world. As the home plays an increasingly important role in lifestyle, looking at model homes can demonstrate ways you can design your personal haven within your new home.

Rooms of the Refuge
Living rooms and dining rooms are becoming less important to many consumers while family rooms are growing in importance and size. The family room, merged with the kitchen and informal dining room, has become the largest room in the home. Home buyers are looking for a multi-use area for activities such as dining, home audio/visual entertainment, homework, hobbies, and reading.

What will say "haven" to your lifestyle? One person's idea of a family room may be as basic as a room with comfortable chairs where they can read and watch TV. Another may consider the family room the area for all family activities.

Many first-time buyers are looking for comfortable and cozy family rooms that allow for supervision and entertainment of small children, while still providing for a great place to entertain adult friends. Still others may want an elegant adult playroom, inconspicuously filled with home electronics.

Overall, people want the area to be functional for many activities and fulfill the entertainment needs for the entire family and their friends.

As Americans return to their homes for sheltering and nurturing, the kitchen has a major role in the creation of the haven. It's becoming more than just a place to cook and clean up, so it must be efficient and beautiful, but also warm and inviting so as to accommodate gathering and entertaining.

Buyers are looking for options such as ceramic tile counters, wood-finished cabinets, high-tech appliances and gadgets, island work areas, walk-in pantries and eating areas.

The private haven created by the master bedroom and bath are important to today's home buyers. Couples want spacious retreats for relaxing and regrouping. They are looking for balconies, fireplaces, bay windows, walk-in closets, extra storage space in closets, and sitting areas.

Luxury options in the master bath such as separate shower enclosures, double sinks, whirlpool bathtubs and high-quality fittings contribute to the ambience of pampering and comfort in the adult retreat.

Elements of Style Create Your Personal Haven

A major element of style that appeals to today's home buyer is the "New Traditionalism." This contemporary version of traditional elements is a sign of the return to the solid values and quality of the past. New Traditionalism uses architectural detailing such as molding, columns, bay windows, and French doors, combined with volume ceilings, openness, and light.

This style also emphasizes timeless and enduring materials such as granite, marble, stone and wood.

When looking at a model home, buyers try to picture how their personal collectibles will look in the house. A model that is well decorated will help you visualize yourself in the surroundings and give you some new ideas on building your style into the house.

Builders build great homes. But day by day, year by year, you turn it into your personal haven.

'Tis the season for lilies of valley

By Patrick Denton

"The Convall Lily, or Lily of the Valley, hath many leaves like the smallest leaves of Water Plantain; among which riseth up a naked stalk half a foot high, garnished with many white floures like little bells, with blunt and turned edges, of a strong savour, yet pleasant enough; which being past, there come small red berries, much like the berries of Asparagus, wherein the seed is contained. The root is small and slender, creeping far abroad in the ground."

This is how the 17th century herbalist and barber/surgeon John Gerard described lily of the valley in his book, "The Herbal, or General History of Plants."

This spring flower, so highly valued for its beauty, fragrance and easy growing habit, is the flower of the month for May. It is a flower well worth celebrating this month, too. In my house and garden, this plant coming into bloom is a big event.

From the carpets of fresh, broad, apple-green foliage and sturdy sprays of spotless white flowers, I gather bouquets for the office in my house, where I spend most of my time. There, I can fully savor and appreciate at close quarters the elegantly scalloped, nodding bells and their strong, sweet scent.

The proper botanical name for lily of the valley is Convallaria majalis, from the Latin convallis, meaning a valley, the plant's natural habitat. Majalis means May, indicating the time of flowering.

Their natural habitat in valleys indicates where lily of the valley plants will flourish best and flower most profusely. The plants have a preference for a partially shaded site in a moist, humus-rich soil.

Valley floors are regularly gifted with showers of leaves and plant debris, which decompose to continually replenish the organic content of the soil. In gardens, this natural process can be stimulated by covering lily of the valley plantings with a layer of compost and/or old manure in early spring.

Lily of the valley is valuable as a low-maintenance ground cover in shaded areas. But as Gerard notes, the slender roots do creep far abroad the ground. These plants naturalize so easily, in fact, that they can become invasive. I have one rhododendron caught fast right now in a sweet-scented convallaria hug.

To keep a lily of the valley planting within reasonable bounds, sink barriers around it or keep straying rootstocks dug yearly. When the planting becomes crowded and stops flowering well, lift the plants, replenish the ground and replant the individual pieces (pips) 4 inches apart and 1 inch deep.

An appealing project with lily of the valley is to grow the plants in pots from pips either purchased, or dug from the garden after a few frosts or at least some cold weather has hit the garden.

Use only the fattest pips that you can find, as only the big ones will bloom well in containers. Knock some of the soil away from around them, trim the roots, and fit as many as possible into a shallow pot over a layer of peaty soil mix.

The tops of the pips should end up at soil level. Firm the soil mix down lightly, water thoroughly and allow the pot to drain. Then slip the pot into a plastic bag and set it in a cool, bright spot.

Leave the bag partially open to allow for some ventilation while still maintaining high levels of humidity around the pips. The plants should bloom in three or four weeks.

As a cut flower for small bouquets, lily of the valley is superb. On the sunny side of my woodland convallaria site, a planting of coral bells blooms at the same time. I have often combined them in a vase. I like the contrast between the longer, slender and more feathery flower stems with their coral-red flowers and the shorter spikes of nodding white bells. Both these flowers dry nicely for everlasting arrangements as well.

In the language of flowers, lily of the valley signifies the return of happiness. Pretty names that have been given to this flower in the past are Lily Constancy and Our Lady's Tears. An old country name is Muguet, from the French word for the plant—muguet.

From my carefree days hitchhiking in Europe, I still have three little pots of fragrant oils purchased in the mountains around Grasse, the center of the French perfume industry. One is labeled jasmin, one fougere (fern), and the other muguet.

How can pet odors be removed?

By Gene Gary

Q: The previous owners of our house had two cats that were left in the house unattended. As a result, the carpeting and the padding have a very offensive odor from cat urine.

I have removed the carpet and the padding, but I can still smell the odors in the foundation. What should I do to treat the foundation before laying new padding and carpeting?—R.G.C.

A: There is some good news for this common, difficult problem. "Nature's Miracle," manufactured by Pets & People Inc. (5512 Ironwood St., Rancho Palos Verdes, CA 90274) is effective in the treatment of organic odors and stains. It is available at pet stores in pints, quarts or gallon containers. This product can be used for spot treatment on carpets and furniture as well as the entire foundation.

If you have hardwood flooring, you will need to strip off the old finish and apply this solution to the bare wood to neutralize the disagreeable materials that have penetrated the wood. After treatment, you will need to re-finish the floors by sanding and applying a new varnish or polyurethane finish.

You may find that the wood is stained permanently. A commercial wood bleach used prior to refinishing can be helpful in diminishing the staining. Be sure to follow manufacturer's directions carefully.

If the foundation is concrete, the problem is a little more difficult because of the porous nature of concrete. Saturate the entire area with Nature's Miracle. It sometimes takes up to a week to achieve results. Even though the surface may appear to be dry, it will take longer for the moisture level inside the concrete to dissipate, and odors can remain during this period. It may even take more than one application to correct the problem.

If you still have pets around during this type of treatment, it is best to cover the area with heavy aluminum foil (perforated with holes of ventilation). When the odor is still present, pets are attracted to the area and are inclined to repeat the offense. Placing a dish of food on the floor is an added deterrent, as pets rarely contaminate an area where food is present.

Once the treatment has removed the offensive odors, seal the concrete with a good masonry sealer prior to the installation of new padding and carpeting.

Q: The brick and concrete in our patio area is developing a green film and moss on both the level patio surface and the surrounding walls. The area receives only late afternoon sun. The problem is particularly bad during winter months.

Do you have any suggestions on what we might do to get rid of green film and prevent future discoloration? I do not want to damage the surrounding plants and lawn area.—H.F.

form or crystal form. The powder is the easier to dissolve in water.

Mix 1 pound of the powder with 20 gallons of water. Then spray this over the mossy area.

Cooper sulfate may look like it is staining the concrete and brick, but the color is hosed off easily.

For protection after the brick and concrete are clean and thoroughly dry, apply a good masonry sealer over the surface.

One of our readers writes:

Regarding oil in driveways, I have found the surest and easiest way to deal with it is to sprinkle the area generously with cat litter. Leave it one for several days. Sweep clean or remove with a good outdoor vacuum.

For me, it has been a sure way to clean the area. And I don't even have a cat.—H.Z.

Announcing Chase's new 3 and 5 year Jumbo A.R.M.s— Low, stable payments now plus the option to convert to a fixed rate loan when it's best for you.*

Chase Personal Financial Services now provides a breakthrough in luxury real estate financing. 3 and 5 year adjustable rate jumbo mortgages (A.R.M.s) with two distinct benefits.

First, they give you a choice of low rates for 3 or 5 years. Plus should rates decline, they let you convert to a fixed rate during years 2-5 of your loan.

Enhanced flexibility. Adapt your mortgage to changing needs and market conditions.

Our innovative mortgages deliver a powerful combination of flexibility and control. Flexibility to respond to changing market situations and personal needs. Plus the control to lock in fixed rates when it's best for you.

Expertise to design our new mortgages around your cash flow requirements.

One of our Chase Personal Financial Consultants, a dedicated professional, will work closely with you to help you assess your real estate financing needs, select the best Chase repayment options for you, and expedite your loan approval.

For more information simply call the number of your local office below. And discover how our mortgages could be the answer to the market uncertainties of the 90's.

If you're looking for a mortgage up to $1 million or more, call Chase today for further information.

CHASE PERSONAL FINANCIAL SERVICES

*The loan may be converted to a fixed rate on the first day of any month from the date the 12th payment of the loan is due through the date the 60th payment of the loan is due.

Just a fraction of what we spend on sports can help keep society in shape.

If we all shared just a small part of our extra time and money, society's problems would be no match for us.

Problems like drug abuse. The homeless. Or equal opportunity for all citizens.

Millions of people have helped establish five percent of their incomes and five hours of volunteer time per week as America's standard of giving.

If we all reached this standard, we could generate more than $175 billion every year. With a force equivalent to 20 million full-time workers.

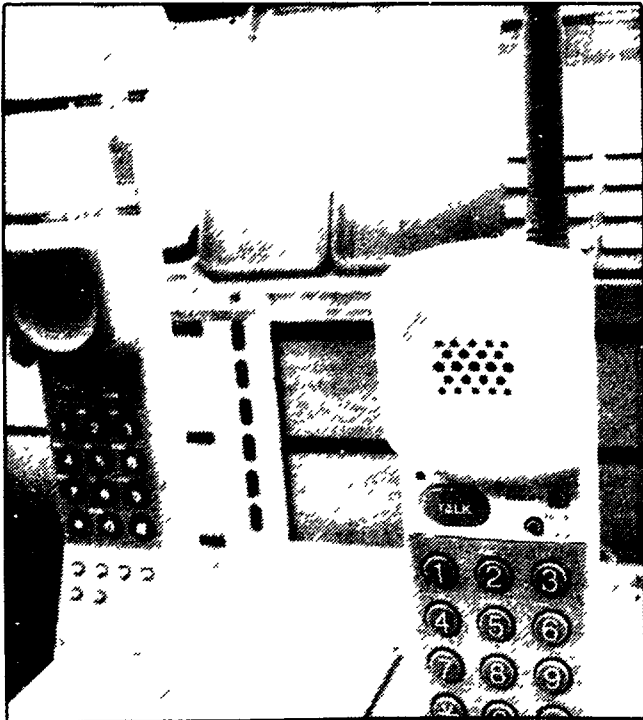

This year, make it your goal to give five.

Give Five.
What you get back is immeasurable.

NECESSITIES of the NINETIES

By LESLIE PEREIRA
Staff Writer

Everything is a luxury until you buy it — then it becomes a necessity.

Ten years ago did anyone expect to own a videocassette recorder, compact disc player, cordless phone, portable movie camera, or facsimile machine? Nowadays, many people cannot do without these technological toys which save us time, simplify our lives and have transformed our vocabularies.

Often, one cannot go through a day without being barraged by new phrases and acronyms with meaning only to those in the technological know: "Fax me a copy," "I got a new CD" and "I'm staying in with the VCR tonight."

Take Gary Grantdsko, for example. With three television sets, one videocassette recorder, two stereos, a compact disc player and a cordless phone all stuffed into his "moderately sized" one-bedroom Walled Lake condominium, one wonders where Grantdsko sits down.

"I don't really have that much, but what I do have is nice," Grantdsko said.

Not "that much," he says. So where does he put those few television sets? "One is in the bedroom, one is in the living room, and one is in the closet," Grantdsko said.

But Grantdsko is not alone with his excessive affection for electronic equipment. Personal spending on electronic equipment for recreation purposes shows an increase from $28.2 billion in 1983 to $54.6 billion in 1989. That is a rise from 1.2 percent to 1.5 percent of total personal disposable income.

By comparison, spending on clothing and accessories during the same period decreased from 7.4 percent of an individual's disposable income in 1983 to 7.2 percent in 1988. In other words, people are spending less money on clothing and accessories and more money on electronics.

The videocassette recorder (VCR), once considered a gewgaw for the affluent, has now become a necessary extension of most television sets.

Volunteers

Giving his time

By DOROTHY NASH
Staff Writer

Should a resident be granted a variance from the building code to build a deck in front of his house beyond the property line set-back?

Should a businessperson be given approval to erect a sign larger than the building code allows?

These are the types of cases which members of the Novi Zoning Board of Appeals consider and make judgements on, and Wayne V. Bullen is one of those six volunteers and one alternate.

Most of the residential cases, Bullen said, are concerned with permission to build structures or bay windows, for example, beyond the property line set-back or closer than allowable to next door neighbors.

"There is a concern," he said, in cases like that for "a lack of privacy and also a possible health hazard."

A different kind of residential case, Bullen said, "is that of a private home being used for a day-care center. If it is determined that the center is well run, that there is no traffic problem, and that neighbors within 300 feet have responded agreeably to notices sent them by the Building Department, a variance is approved.

Business cases, Bullen said, are frequently also concerned with signs not just at the site but on vacant property. If the sign is a "ground hugger" it should be no more than five feet tall.

"It's a matter of motorists' visibility," he said.

In addition to meeting monthly at the Civic Center for consideration and discussion, Bullen said, "We try to go to every site," which on average adds up to 12 to 15 cases a month.

Wayne F. Bullen has been volunteering like this ever since nine years ago when he applied to the City Council and was appointed to his first three-year term.

Why does he do it? His answer is that he enjoys "the companionship with board members. Also it's a nice diversion from the work I do, and I enjoy seeing my little input benefiting the community."

Off to Japan

Hitachi Ltd. has announced that it will sponsor William Brinker, a social studies teacher from North Farmington High School, on a tour of Japan for three weeks this summer.

Brinker, a Novi resident, will join three other American teachers from New York and California on the trip, visiting Tokyo, Hitachi City, Hiroshima and Kyoto.

Hitachi sponsors American teachers each year in an effort to promote a cultural and educational exchange between nations. The teachers will gain insight and understanding of the Japanese culture as they tour schools and factories, and experience Japanese home life first-hand in a home stay with a native family.

Brinker, who has taught social studies at NFHS for 25 years, has had a variety of assignments there. He has taught American government, world history, ancient history, medieval history, and the history of communism. He serves part time as activities director and has been student council advisor for 15 years. Brinker and his family are long-term residents of Novi.

Hitachi is represented in Farmington Hills by Automotive Products Division of Hitachi America, Ltd., and the Farmington Hills Technical Center. The Hitachi companies moved into their facility in Farmington Hills three years ago, and have been active in the local community from the start.

A contribution of $10,000 to the City of Farmington Hills provided a picnic shelter in Heritage Park. A large-screen Hitachi TV was donated to the Sheltering Arms adult daytime care facility in Birmingham. And the Farmington/Farmington Hills Community Center has received cash donations over the years.

Hitachi America, Ltd., a wholly-owned subsidiary of Hitachi, Ltd., Japan, markets and manufactures electrical and electronics goods throughout the United States. HAL is headquartered in Tarrytown, New York.

B & P Women's Club to meet

By LESLIE PEREIRA
Staff Writer

The monthly meeting of the Northville Business and Professional Women's Club will be held Monday, May 21 at Genitti's Restaurant.

Social hour and networking will begin at 6 p.m. followed by dinner at 6:30 p.m. The topic is "The Facts About Diamonds and Gold." The speaker will be David K. Beyer, Registered Jeweler with the American Gem Society. This is a professional society of fine jewelers throughout the United States and Canada.

Beyer will discuss the four "C's" of buying a diamond; facts about gold jewelry; facts about written appraisals for insurance coverage and estate evaluation; and the importance of cleaning jewelry. A question and answer period will follow.

He has been in the jewelry business for the past 12 years with Orin Jewelers. Beyer is married, has two children, and lives in Westland. He completed a three-year course with the Gemological Institute of America to be a Registered Jeweler with the American Gem Society. Beyer is on the Board of Directors of Northville Community Chamber of Commerce as well as a member of the American Gem Society.

Orin Jewelers has been in business for over 50 years with stores in Garden City, Northville and Brighton. They are full service jewelers providing complete watch repair, jewelry repair, engraving service and written appraisal service.

For more information about the meeting and dinner reservations, call Berclay Ruschak at 348-1167.

Fund distribution

The Northville Town Hall Committee is asking that organizations wishing to share in its annual Board of Awards presentations make their applications now by writing: Northville Town Hall, Box 93, Northville, Mich. 48167, Attn: Board of Awards Chairperson.

Since members are drawn from Plymouth, Farmington, Novi, Livonia and South Lyon, as well as Northville, they find it only proper to return part of the proceeds to charities in these areas. To this end, the following impartial board was appointed to select deserving recipients of these funds.

Plymouth — Mrs. Charles Childs

Livonia — Mary Dumas
Farmington — Mrs. E. Quentin Proctor
Novi — Mrs. Francis Korte
Northville — Mrs. Roy Mattison (chairperson), Herman Moehلمان, Mrs. Douglas Bolton and Mrs. Paul Vernon.

The deadline for sending in applications is May 31.

Docents luncheon

The annual Mill Race docents luncheon was held on Saturday, May 12 at 11:30 a.m. complete with a salad and dessert buffet and a tour of the Cady Inn by Art Rockall, Northville Historical Society President.

The Docent Committee, which is co-chaired by Rita Turnbull and Ruth Crawford, provides five docents each Sunday from 1-4 p.m. to help with tours of the museum, school, church, Hunter House and Yerkes House. The Weaver's Cottage is also open. The Mill Race will be open Sundays starting on May 20 and extending through October 28.

Annual meeting

The Michigan Division of the Woman's National Farm and Garden Association is holding their Spring Council and Annual Meeting on Wednesday, May 23. Saginaw will serve as the hostess branch and the event will be at the Germania Town and Country Club in Saginaw.

Town Hall tickets

Tickets for the 1990-91 Town Hall speaker series are still on sale. Speakers will be: "As The World Turns" soap opera star Eileen Fulton on Oct. 11; former Iranian hostage Col. Charles Scott on Nov. 8; Miss America 1988, Kaye Lani Raye Raiko, on March 14, 1991; and veteran newsmen Jack Reynolds on April 11, 1991.

The cost is $30 for tickets to the series of four lectures. To order tickets, write to: Northville Town Hall, Box 93, Northville, MI 48167. Tickets to the post-speech luncheons will be available for purchase after June 1 and will cost $11 each. Luncheon tickets are only available to those persons who have already purchased lecture series tickets. Registration forms and payment for the luncheons should be sent to the above address, but not until after June 1. Make checks payable to Northville Town Hall.

Singing group brings smiles to senior faces

By LESLIE PEREIRA
Staff Writer

Gliding quickly and easily around the room in his black tuxedo, Ron Ward leads the crowd of senior citizens in a raucous rendition of "When the Saints Go Marching In."

He exits. Moments later, a man in the same tuxedo wearing a turban and calling himself Rudolph Valentino ventures into the room for a slow dance with a feathered-hair flapper.

Just another Monday night for Ron Ward and the Agape Singers he founded.

Once every week the group of perky entertainers travel the local nursing home circuit to perform their "Roaring Twenties" show as an evening of free entertainment for the elderly residents.

On Monday, April 30, the group of entertainers, complete with their own Al Capone and Baby Face Nelson, were at the McNamara Towers "Speakeasy."

"It is a great thing for them because so few of them get out to see that sort of thing anymore," said Lina Priest, manager of McNamara Towers in Livonia, the site of the Agape Singers show last week. "They (the residents) thoroughly enjoy them here."

Ward's energy seems contagious as smiles pop up on the faces of the audience and giggles can be heard throughout the room as the show gets comier by the minute.

The next song performed by the group is "Putting on the Ritz" at which time many of the Agape performers ceremoniously pull out Ritz cracker boxes and put them on their heads.

I had no idea why we were doing this, except we got a tremendous response."

Ron Ward
Founder, Agape Smiles Foundation

And although he sometimes encounters a negative response or a reluctant smile from someone in the audience, Ward's own wide smile never dims and he continues lavishing that person with attention until they ultimately surrender themselves to having a good time.

"I had no idea why we were doing this, except we got a tremendous response," Ward said. "There is a rather sad plight in our country. We tend to discard many of our elderly."

Interaction with and participation by the audience is one aspect of the Agape shows which make them such a big hit in the nursing homes.

Each McNamara Tower woman seemed to visibly sit up a little straighter as Ron neared, passing out cheek kisses, handshakes and "Hi there, young lady" greetings.

"They love that part of the show," Priest said. "One of our ladies even got up and sang with him."

And the Agape Singers are only part of Ward's act.

Although Ward himself has been entertaining in nursing homes for the past 12 years, he discovered that his Agape Singers were not able to keep up with the demand.

"It is really a gut-wrenching experience to have to say 'no,'" Ward said about the singers' scheduling overload.

So Ward founded the Agape Smiles Foundation in 1987 for exactly the same purpose. Out of a tiny office, Ward together with an assistant, raise all the money, select quality entertainers, and schedule as much entertainment to as many nursing homes as possible.

"These people are crying out not to be forgotten," Ward said.

The Agape (greek for love) Smiles Foundation raised enough money last year to provide 458 shows at 116 different elderly facilities.

The Agape Smiles Foundation is non-profit and all of the money raised goes to operating costs and payment of the entertainers. Each of the individually hired entertainers is paid $25 per show.

"We select quality entertainers. And we don't select people that just go in and play music and leave," Ward said. "We try to get people who have compassion for old people."

The Agape Singers will be presenting their "Swing into Spring" concert in conjunction with other individual Agape performers on Sunday, May 20 at Holy Family Church in Novi. The show begins at 3 p.m. and a donation of $5 is asked.

Mackinac Island now open for another season

By Iris Sanderson Jones

If you're an early bird, you've already booked a room on Mackinac Island at their special spring rates. If you've always wanted to go to the island, but didn't think of booking early, you can still find some good rates as long as you're flexible with dates and places.

Most Mackinac Island hoteliers and retailers opened for business May 11. Fort Mackinac opened May 15.

Whether you ferry across the Straits of Mackinac on an Arnold, Shepler or Star Line ferry, from Mackinaw City or St. Ignace, you enter the harbor the same way: cruising between the automatic lighthouse on the island's stone breakwater and the old wooden lighthouse at the end of Round Island. Ferry rates are $9.50 round trip.

There are century-old cottages on the east and west bluffs each side of town. The Grand Hotel makes white pillared stripes above the west end of town and the Mission Point Resort makes red-roof-patches above the east.

In between are the fudge shops, boutiques, hotels and bed and breakfast places that clutter the two or three streets above the waterfront. Above it all, reminding us of the island's history, is Fort Mackinac, one of three Mackinac state historic parks.

If you've been to Mackinac Island, you recognize that picture. If you haven't, it's probably on your list of dream vacations. Spring and fall are the seasons to cut your travel costs and be a fudge without braving the crowds.

The Grand Hotel still has selected dates in May at the off-season rate of $89 per person, double occupancy, including breakfast, dinner, taxes and tips. That's $79 if you're a member of the Automobile Club of Michigan.

You'll never get the Grand experience at a better price. The rate is good through mid-June, but June is mostly booked; keep checking for cancellations. Call (800) 334-7263 or (906) 847-3331.

The Mission Point Resort at the opposite end of town, is offering a package instead of a spring discount. That's $299 a couple for two nights, weekdays, including breakfasts and one dinner; same package for a weekend is $359. Call (800) 833-7711 or (906) 847-3312.

The best price in town is usually at the Murray Hotel or at The Inn on Mackinac, both run by the same owner. This year is no exception. The Murray starts at $39 per couple, the Inn at $49 per couple, some dates excluded.

The Murray is popular among travelers looking for good basic rooms at low prices. Check out the beautifully renovated rooms at the Inn, a colorful restored mansion two blocks east. Call (906) 847-3361.

The oldest hotel on the island is the Island House built in 1852, restored, and still a nice sprawl of white wood across the street from the boat harbor. They offer "The Summer of 42" rate, which is $42 per person, double occupancy weekdays. Call (906) 847-3347.

If you've never had a Pink Pony cocktail, you should definitely try one in the bar at the Chippewa Hotel. And if you would like to stay there, in the heart of town, they are offering rooms in May for $50 a night per couple, except on Saturdays. In June, you get $10 off their regular rates of $90 to $155. Call (906) 847-3341.

There are three very popular accommodations visible at the west end of town when the ferry docks. Best known, and many visitors' favorite, is Hotel Iroquois which starts at $130 per couple through June 8 then goes up $40 in summer. Call (906) 847-3321.

Lake View Hotel, a big white clapboard sprawl across the street, is a good buy at $69 per person, double occupancy, including breakfast and dinner, if you can find your date at their rate. Call (906) 847-3384.

The Windermere, a bed and breakfast inn, is $80-$100 per couple on weekdays, $100-125 weekends. Call (906) 847-3301.

Somehow I've missed the Pontiac Lodge across from the ferry dock, but it listed last year at summer rates of $112.50. Call (906) 847-3364.

Some people overlook the Stonecliff Resort which is a carriage ride out of town. Fans love the privacy. You can choose between the old stone mansion and condominiums. Call (906) 847-3355.

Condos with microwaves and refrigerators but no real kitchen rate are $89 per couple, with room for two more at $15 a head, through June 7, then prices go up to $99. Mansion rooms are the same, but the restaurant doesn't open until May 25, so you must go to town for meals until then. The deluxe condo with kitchen is a one-room studio for $109; after June 7, $119.

Don't overlook a great assortment of very interesting b&b's on the island. I haven't stayed in them all but I've visited most. The Chamber of Commerce says that you can take 20 to 25 percent off summer rates for this time of year, but call ahead because some don't open when the rest of the island gears up for summer.

Five places are officially listed as b&b accommodations. These rates are summer rates, per couple. The Mettler Inn is approximately $120 for a room in this large private home and is the most expensive. Call (906) 847-6234. The Inn on Mackinac would be my choice at $49.

Haan's 1830 Inn has beautiful antique furniture in a large house on the main street east of the fort. Rooms cost $72 mid-week. Call (906) 847-6244.

Planning ahead

Government maps guide tourists

(AP) — It's only mid-May, but many thoughts already are turning to summer vacations. If outdoor adventure is on the agenda, there are government maps that may help.

Most hikers and campers already know about the detailed U.S. Geological Survey maps that provide a close look at a small area.

Folks just looking for a park to visit or a scenic attraction may want something less detailed but providing a wide range of possibilities. The government has four maps that may be helpful, all available from the Consumer Information Center, Pueblo, Colo., 81009.

The first is a National Park System map covering the whole country and showing the locations of national parks, battlefields, historic sites, monuments, lakeshores, preserves, riverways, recreation areas, scenic rivers and parkways. This map allows for quick location of National Park Service facilities in any part of the country. And on the back it lists them by state with a guide to facilities available, such as visitors centers, tours, campgrounds, museums and whether there is a fee. The National Park System Map and Guide sells for $1.25. Ask for item number 150W.

A second helpful map is National Wildlife Refuges. Also a national map, it shows the location of national wildlife refuges across the country. The back of the map lists them by state, along with information on the best seasons to visit and the activities allowed and banned in the particular location. Hunting, fishing, camping, swimming, picnicking and other such pastimes are allowed in some refuges but limited or banned in others. Checking the chart will allow visitors to be aware in advance.

The National Wildlife Refuge map costs $1. It is item number 152W.

Folks interested in the Western states may also be interested in the Recreation Guide to BLM Public Lands. The Bureau of Land Management maintains large areas in the West, and these regions are illustrated on the map, including the locations of campgrounds.

The back of the map isn't as detailed as the other two, but it does include a description of the BLM properties in each state and a list of offices that would-be visitors can contact for more detail about specific locations.

The BLM map costs $1.50 and is item 153W.

A Guide to Your National Forests is the fourth map being offered, showing the locations of each national forest along with addresses and phone numbers of information offices. That map costs $1 and it is item 166W.

Musicians clash with merchants in New Orleans' French Quarter

(AP) — Tourists in New Orleans love the brass bands that blare out Dixieland music all day long in the French Quarter's Jackson Square, but merchants and residents in the heart of the jazz citadel are suing to turn down the volume.

Their lawsuit, filed April 16, says the music is causing "headaches, stress, buzzing in the eardrums, loss of sleep, nervousness, irritability, mental and emotional turmoil."

Jackson Square is considered by many the heart of the French Quarter—the oldest section of the city. The Mississippi River runs along one boundary of the square. The other boundaries are formed by St. Louis Cathedral and other historic buildings housing museums, shops, bars and apartments.

Stone sidewalks and a black iron fence form a perimeter around a small, grassy, tree shaded park, at the center of which is a statue of Andrew Jackson on horseback.

Tourists flock to the square in good weather. Many have their portraits painted or caricatures done by street artists who set up shop on the sidewalks. Others gather around the brass bands and throw money into the musicians' hats or empty instrument cases.

Music has been part of the scene for years, but Brad Thoren, one of the artists involved in the lawsuit, said that in the past couple of years too many musicians have been playing too loudly, too often. He's concerned that the excessive noise could damage the hearing of those exposed to it every day.

"You have to shout to your customer to be heard. That is a hazard. That's a proven fact," he said.

Anthony "Tuba Fats" Lacen said New Orleans, still suffering from an economic slowdown that hit in the early 1980s, needs all the tourist dollars it can get, and restricting the musicians could drive away tourists.

"If they're not interested in keeping our city alive, then what are they doing here?" Lacen asked.

Thoren said the problem isn't so much professionals like Lacen. It's youngsters who don't play very well to begin with, playing in makeshift bands on weekends and afternoons after school.

With the growing number of musicians, there is growing competition for tourist attention and money, said Lee Tucker, an artist and French Quarter resident.

"The street performers themselves have been competing against each other and the way they eliminate the competition is to play louder," said Tucker.

Fontana is sensitive to the argument that tourists like the Dixieland bands. But there is more than tourism at stake, he said.

Blaring brass bands lend nothing to the centuries-old architecture and charm of the quarter, he said. And reducing the number of musicians won't chase tourists away, he added.

If you thought it was going to be "just another weekend"...

think again.

Think about this. Think about spending the weekend enjoying yourself. Relax by the lake. Watch a sunset from a hilltop. Get back to nature. Or back to the city nightlife. Wherever you're off to, we'll make it even better, with the Weekend Getaway from Budget Rent a Car Offer valid through May 20, 1990, at participating locations only. Availability is limited. ## PTA News

MEADS MILL MIDDLE SCHOOL

As the school year winds down, there are more congratulations in order for students in academic competitions. In the Wayne County Intermediate School District's Tenth Annual Student Writing Competition, Mutsumi Yoshida was a top winner and Ryan Lancaster received a certificate of merit. Several other students had pieces submitted to the PTA Reflections Contest titled "Where Does the Sky End?" They are Jennifer Pollock, George Lemmon, Autumn Cranford, and Melissa Noun.

Eighth-graders Bill McClintock, Alicia Pawlak, Ryan Lancaster, Liz Ryward, Julie Romine and Jason Fisher represented Meads Mill in the Liv-Oaks Science Competition.

Meads Mill will be hosting the Liv-Oaks Math competition on May 22.

In the Michigan Mathematics League Contest, Meads Mill was fourth out of 231 schools participating in Michigan. Seventh-grader Vivek Mohita scored highest in Wayne County and second in the state. Bernie Tomsa was 11th in the state and third in Wayne County. Other high scorers included Jeremy Sweet, Mike Vartanian, and Eric Koche. Eighth-grade results gave Meads Mill 11th place out of 235 schools in the state and third in the county. David Rossing scored 21st in the state. Other eighth-graders participating were Eric Nelson, Jac Marsh, David Kamlenec, Joel Elsesser, Richard Bell, Jamie Heitert, Mutsumi Yoshida, Bret Swalberg and Nathan Connell. Congratulations to all these students for their hard work.

Creative Family Night was a big success with many students taking part. A special thanks goes to students who took part in the "Passport to France, Germany and Mexico" exhibit. Urvi Mujumdar, Kelly Walro, Lillian Ghriab, Ted Downs, Marci Bolger and Deborah Schultz shared their knowledge of foreign languages under the direction of Gail MacDonald and Patricia Stebbins.

Fourteen eighth-grade students have been serving as editors for a team 8A poetry anthology titled "The Open Door" which will be published and distributed by them soon.

The forensics team went to the University of Michigan on Saturday, May 12 for the Michigan Interscholastic Forensic Association Tournament. Results are not yet available.

There are several special events coming up at Meads Mill. The last all-school after school activity will be on Wednesday, May 16 from 2:45 to 4:45 p.m.

Crazy George, the basketball wizard, will perform for an all school JES program on May 18. The school musicians will be busy with an all school musical called "Coming of Age" on May 23 at 7:15 p.m. and an

All Bands Blowout Concert on Tuesday, June 5 at 7 p.m.

Team 8A will be celebrating their Blue/Gray Days May 20 and 30. The Civil War related event will include demonstrations of uniforms and military equipment of the time by teacher Larry Krabill, dances with teacher Burt Schwartz, and music by guest speaker, Michael Darren. Students will participate in many other learning experiences such as military drills, a Dessert Social, films and contests.

There will be a teacher appreciation luncheon provided by the Meads Mill PTSA on Thursday, May 24. The last PTSA meeting will be Monday, June 11 at 9:30 a.m. Awards night will be on Wednesday, June 13 at 7:30 p.m.

Please check the Meads Mill calendar for other important dates.

Christian women's forum to start up

The Women's Christian Forum is a new organization of the First Presbyterian Church of Northville, designed to meet the changing needs of women in today's world.

All meetings are held at the Church located at 200 East Main Street, downtown Northville.

The first meeting is May 21, at 7:30 p.m., with Amy Morrison, Associate Pastor, First Presbyterian Church of Ann Arbor, and Campus Minister, University of Michigan Ecumenical Campus Center, introducing a series on Women's Roles in Today's Society.

Future meetings will be held at 7:30 p.m., the Second Monday of each month.

Everyone is welcome to attend. A donation of $5 is suggested, to cover cost of speaker and refreshments, but is not required.

Statement of Purpose: To provide women of the church and of the area at large the opportunity to examine current issues within the context of a Christian perspective.

To provide an environment that encourages intellectual and spiritual growth in a supportive community of Christian Women.

Recognizing the diverse roles for women in today's society, provide the challenge for each individual to influence her world.

Electronic toys not just for fun anymore

"In the middle of one of our Michigan winters, I would find it difficult to live without my VCR," said Bill Abram of Walled Lake.

Of more than a dozen people questioned outside of Novi's Highland Superstore for this story, only Novi resident Tony Bumbaca did not own a VCR. But that was precisely why he was there.

"I think I will buy a VCR to get PBS programs and certain movies," Bumbaca said. "Mostly I want to get documentaries when I'm not home or just to have on tape."

Despite the fact that VCRs have been available for several years, the ever-marching-on technological revolution has yet to make the basic models obsolete. Rather, their quality has improved, they have become more affordable and they have become more numerous. Statistics from the Electronic Industries Association show that while in 1985 only 17 percent of households had VCRs, now 68 percent of households do.

"There is really no new technology in VCRs, but people are buying their second VCR," said Cohn, who has had customers admit they were buying a second VCR so the kids could have their own.

Well, Vera Sedlacek of Farmington Hills said her single VCR is enough, but now she is looking for a compact disc player.

"CD players are now the latest addition to everyone's home," said Dan Cohn, a sales associate for the Highland store.

Since CD players made their first major impact on the home sound systems market in 1984, stereo enthusiasts have hailed the new technology for both improved sound and decreased space requirements.

However, if you are still wrangling with the idea of finally laying to rest the old, scratched-up vinyl albums in favor of the tiny, shiny new CDs, you better hurry up or this technology just might pass you by.

"There is a trend now that combines audio and visual on one disc," said Neal Feldman, regional marketing director for Highland Superstores.

The new laser disc system being hailed as "surround sound" allegedly allows the listener to experience a movie theater's Dolby sound minus the popcorn-strewn chairs and sticky floor.

Feldman says there is an increasing number of people buying laser disc players and hooking them up to the television set and four strategically placed speakers.

"It is becoming very, very popular," Feldman said.

And although he doesn't have one of those—yet—Grantzko said he is quite sure of their eventual success in the homes of the average American.

"I think they will blow away tapes," he said.

Although many of the electronic sales employees at Highland agree that even if laser movie discs receive favored status over videotapes, the coup will not be complete because too many people out there own VCRs or home movie cameras and are making their own videotapes now.

"Camcorders have made a big play over the last three to four years," said Feldman. And John Kukula, who is out there on the front line selling camcorders for Highland, agrees.

"Everyone is buying a camcorder these days," Kukula said. "The young married couple with kids, the traveler— you get the whole range."

Kukula attributes rising camcorder sales, now up to an average of three sales a day in his department, to the simultaneous developments of dropping costs and improving quality.

Another dark horse in the very fluid world of electronic equipment has been the surprisingly quick success of the facsimile machine.

"Fax machines are really hot right now," said Feldman. "People don't know how they have lived without them."

Feldman said everyone from large corporations to small businesses and restaurants are buying them. Cohn agreed that they have experienced huge sales of fax machines and said they have become a necessity for businesses.

"I have people say they are losing business without a fax machine," Cohn said.

So the lesson seems clear: one person's luxury is another person's necessity. And as constantly improving technologies continue to blur that line, meanwhile the VCRs, fax machines, portable phones and camcorders are wriggling their way into the homes, and hearts, of many Americans.

Weddings

MR. and MRS. EDWARD S. TOTTH

Ann MacLure O'Connell of Toledo, Ohio, exchanged marriage vows with Edward Stephen Totth of Northville on March 10, at St. Michael's in the Hills Church in Toledo. The Rev. Paul Hannaford and the Rev. John M. Ferone, S.J. officiated at the ceremony.

New world game to be played

Imagine you are 2,000 miles tall, standing on the planet Earth with the space shuttle in orbit at ankle height; the moon is 70 stories above, the sun is just 25 miles away and your foot is 300 miles long.

That is the perspective of anyone who plays The World Game, a unique event scheduled to come to the area for two sessions.

A spokesperson said a morning session is already full of participants. But there are still slots to be reserved in the second session, which is slated for June 7, from 8-10 p.m. in the physical education building on the Orchard Ridge Campus of Oakland Community College.

The World Game is a tool for awareness and effective decision-making that has been played by members of the U.S. Congress, corporate executives, scientists, members of youth groups, and participants at more than 50 colleges and universities throughout North America.

Players stand on the world's largest and most accurate map of the whole Earth and see the world as never seen before. Each participant represents one percent of humanity — 50 million people — and takes part in the negotiation and distribution of the world's populations, food and energy production and consumption, literacy levels, military expenditures, and other concerns.

All players will take part in a critical thinking session that focuses on the prospects of a positive future and the means to obtain it.

More information about the program may be obtained by phoning 340-6525.

The Orchard Ridge Campus is one of five OCC campuses. It is located just a few minutes from Novi and Northville, at 27055 Orchard Lake Road in Farmington Hills. Take I-696 to the Orchard Lake Road exit; then take Orchard Lake just a short bit south and the campus will be on the right.

Main St. gallery shows new exhibit

J. Giordano Gallery, 426 S. Main St in Northville, announces the presentation of a new exhibition entitled "Faces," featuring the work of award-winning Michigan artist, Barbara Terry Roy. The exhibition will be displayed from May 18 until June 2. A special artist's reception will be held Saturday, May 19, from noon until 4 p.m.

The exhibit features a variety of media including oil, oil pastel, pastel and mixed media, used to create portraits and studies of people in Roy's life. With a strong sense of color and design, the works show a remarkable ability to capture not only the likeness of the subjects, but go far to reveal the spirit of the subjects as well.

The May 19 reception is open to the public, and Roy will be present to meet and talk with interested parties at that time.

SPRING CONCERT — The Agape Singers will be presenting their "Swing into Spring" concert and fundraiser this weekend. On Sunday, May 20 at 3 p.m. the show will be given at Holy Family Church, 24505 Meadowbrook in Novi. A donation of $5 is asked.

In Town

Many of the Agape Foundation's individual performers will also be spotlighted in a major fundraising effort. The singing group and individual performers present free entertainment for residents of nursing homes.

SONG PROGRAM — Folk singer/storyteller Kitty Donohoe will present a family style program of songs, stories, and folk-lore of Michigan and the Great Lakes region. She will touch on ship wrecks, Michigan Indians, the logging industry, and other bits of Michigan history. She flavors her program with the music of the guitar, banjo, dulcimer, spoons, and the Indian mouth bow. This hour of entertainment for the whole family will be at the Novi Public Library on Thursday, May 24 at 7 p.m. No registration is necessary but seating will be limited.

TALENT SHOW — Every Sunday evening from 8:30 p.m. Whispers Lounge in the Novi Hilton is giving would-be performers the chance to sing in public.

It all happens with the aid of a new laser-vision videodisc player, TV monitor and "key controller," which automatically sets the key of the music to the singer's voice.

Each Sunday, performers will compete before a live audience and a talent agent who will decide nightly winners. Winners will be awarded dinner for two in the Swan restaurant and will be allowed to compete in the grand sing-off.

The grand prize winner will have a videotape of their performance sent to Ed McMahon's "Star Search" program. For more information, call 349-4000.

'Wizard of Oz' on stage downtown

Look out Broadway! Prince Street Players — the Detroit Institute of Arts' own resident theater company and one of the city's best-kept secrets — returns to the Detroit Institute of Arts' stage on the heels of a successful eight-month tour in two recent performances of "The Wizard of Oz" on May 19 and 26.

The Prince Street Players, named for the New York City street on which they were founded in 1964, have called the Detroit Institute of Arts home for nearly a decade. The 25-member professional troupe includes actors, musicians, wardrobe and set designers.

Tickets to the Prince Street Players' production of "The Wizard of Oz" are $5 for all seats. Performances on May 19 and 26 are 11 a.m. and 2 p.m. in the Auditorium; a Cub Scout Salute Day is scheduled on May 19. Tickets are available through the DIA Ticket Office or by calling 833-2323.

Fisher play: The award-winning "Other People's Money" opens at the Fisher Theater on May 21 for three weeks. Winner of the 1989 Outer Critics Circle Award for Best Off-Broadway Production, this is the show that has the New York business community talking and lining up for tickets. This play is a funny, inside look at what happens when a corporate raider makes a game of acquiring a small New England company.

Show times are: Monday, May 21 at 8 p.m., Tuesdays and Thursdays at 8 p.m., Sunday at 7:30 p.m., Friday and Saturday at 8 p.m., and Saturday and Sunday at 2 p.m. Tickets range from $19-31. For more information call the Fisher Theater at 872-1000.

Art Exhibitions: The following exhibitions are currently being shown at the University of Michigan Museum of Art:

Grounded: Sculpture on the Floor — The annual exhibition organized by graduate students in the Museum Practice Program focuses on an innovative form of sculpture that first appeared in the mid-1960s. These contemporary sculptures literally lie on and sprawl across the floor rather than sit on the pedestals associated with traditional sculpture. The exhibition includes a dozen sculptures drawn from the museum's permanent collection, as well as from other private and museum collections in the midwest. The exhibition shows through June 3.

Metropolitan Life — Images of skyscrapers, factories, bridges, trains and people alone or in activities of urban leisure, make up this selection of prints that celebrate metropolitan life and the urban landscape. Among the artists whose work is included are Marsh, Sloan, Hopper, Marin, Pennell, Stuart David and Berenice Abbott.

Local ballet: The Dearborn Symphony Orchestra presents "Lile and Lively," a show which will highlight the oboe and trumpet sections; their principal flute, Clem Barone, and the fabulous Fairlane Ballet Company.

The show will be Friday, May 11 at 8 p.m. at Fordson High School Auditorium in Dearborn. Tickets are $8-10. For more information call, 561-5782 or 565-2424.

Soviet musicians: Soviet rebellion expressed in the art form of rock and roll comes to the Michigan Theater when Zvuki Mu performs on stage, Wednesday, May 16 at 8 p.m. Zvuki Mu is irreverent, kind of wacky, highly theatrical and darkly sardonic. Fronted by the flamboyant and fierce Peter Mamonov, whose deep growl vocals are reminiscent of Jim Morrison, their sound has been compared to the Talking Heads.

Tickets for Zvuki Mu are $14.50 and are available at the Michigan Theater Box Office located at 603 E. Liberty Street in Ann Arbor. To charge tickets by phone or for more information, call 668-8397.

"Nine": The Royal Oak Stagecrafters will be doing the upcoming production of the award-winning, contemporary musical "Nine."

The play will run May 18, 19 at 8 p.m., May 20 at 2 p.m. at the historic Baldwin Theater. Tickets are $9 on Thursdays and for seniors and students on Sundays. All other tickets are $10.

Tickets can be picked up at the Baldwin box office located at 415 S. Lafayette, Royal Oak. Or call for reservation at 541-6430.

David Bowie: Rock superstar David Bowie will appear at The Palace of Auburn Hills for two performances, Sunday, June 24 and Monday, June 25 at 8 p.m., as part of his "Sound + Vision" world tour.

Tickets for both shows are $25 went on sale Saturday, April 21 at the Palace box office and all Ticketmaster outlets. Tickets may be charged to Visa or Mastercard by calling 645-6666.

Farmer's Market: It opened on Saturday, May 12, the Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce — the annual Farmer's Market.

The market will be open 7:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. Saturdays through Oct. 20 with the exception of Sept. 8, when it will be closed for the Fall Festival.

The market is at the Gathering, between the Penn Theater and Masonic Temple on Penniman Avenue in Plymouth.

For more information call the chamber at 453-1540.

The Northville Record

Struggling soccer squad falls again

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN
Staff Writer

The team that once seemed so invincible is suddenly having trouble winning.

After opening the season without a loss in nine tries — and holding fort as the state's second-ranked squad — the Northville soccer team has just one victory to its credit in the last five matches. The latest setback was a 1-0 heartbreaker on May 11 against previously top-ranked Livonia Churchill.

"This was a game that we called — especially in the first half," said Mustang Coach Bob Paul. "That's why everybody is so disappointed — but we can live with it because we played fairly well and had the edge in the game. We didn't win it, but that sometimes happens in soccer."

Northville had a clear and concise 25-16 advantage in the shots on goal department, but it was the Chargers who converted one into a goal, and that was the difference. The first half ended in a scoreless tie, but it was the Mustangs who had most of the prime scoring chances.

"We were playing for the win," Paul admitted. "We didn't want a tie because it would have put us into third place in our division behind (Plymouth) Canton and Churchill. As a result, we moved (midfielder) Karen Cavanaugh up to the front line to get more offensive punch, and she did a good job. She created some good opportunities, but we didn't cash in."

It was a hard-fought, physical battle, but for some reason the locals lost their edge about 10 minutes into the second half, according to Paul. Soon after that, Churchill scored the game's lone goal off a free kick.

"Churchill was given 18 free kicks as opposed to our eight," Paul complained. "Both coaches agreed the officiating was horrendous for both sides. I was very disappointed in that."

The defeat drops the Mustangs to 2-2 in division play (8-2-3 overall), and assures the team of a third-place finish — not exactly what Paul had in mind several months ago. It is actually the second straight year Northville's been in that position.

"We have two regular season

CLASS A GIRLS SOCCER RANKINGS

1. Farmington (9-1-1); 2. Plymouth Canton (8-0-2); 3. Plymouth Salem (7-1-3); 4. Livonia Churchill (8-1-1); 5. Troy Athens (10-2-1); 6. Utica Ford (9-0-2); 7. NORTHVILLE (8-2-3); 8. Farmington Hills Mercy (8-0-4); 9. Kalamazoo Central (8-1-2); 10. Rochester Adams (10-1-0). (as selected by the Michigan High School Soccer Coaches Association).

games left and we'll try and experiment with the line-up and try to find a little more offensive punch," Paul said.

NORTHVILLE 0, FARMINGTON 0: The Mustangs had another solid outing on May 9 against top-ranked Farmington, but again victory eluded them.

The host Falcons peppered Northville goaltender Kristi Turner with 18 shots — while Northville managed just eight shots on goal — but it was the defenses that dominated the play.

"Our main objective was to shut down (Farmington's) three main weapons, and we did fairly well," Paul said. "Overall, I was satisfied with the way we played because I believe — player for player — Farmington has more talent than any team in the state."

The dangerous trio — Carrie Maler, Amy Trunk and Margaret Martin — didn't score a goal, but they did provide a challenge for the Mustangs assigned to mark them.

"Cavanaugh came up with an outstanding defensive game against Maler," Paul said. "She showed that she is a very disciplined defensive player. Neysa Colizzi did a nice job on Trunk and we had a number of different people marking Martin."

"Everybody played a decent game, and of course, Turner played her usual outstanding game. Both teams had chances to score and it was a very even match. It was almost like a chess match out there."

Northville is slated to take on Livonia Stevenson today (May 17)

Visting softballers sweep Churchill

Mother Nature took a home date away from the Northville softball squad, but in the final analysis, it didn't matter.

The Mustangs and the Chargers were originally scheduled to meet on April 11 in Northville, but inclement weather wiped it out. But to the disappointment of Northville Coach Bob Gerlach, the game was rescheduled as part of a May 7 doubleheader at Churchill. The Mustangs overcame the situation, however, by sweeping the Chargers 3-1 and 9-1.

Gerlach was unavailable for comment.

In the opener, pitching ace Rozann Staknis was brilliant as she limited Churchill to one hit and one earned run in seven innings of work. Staknis fanned five, walked four and sent the Charger batters down in order in four of the seven innings.

Northville jumped ahead 1-0 in the first on a run-scoring double by Laura Apligian, then made it 2-0 on Donna Donnelly's RBI single in the second.

Churchill scratched a run off Staknis in the bottom of the second on one hit, two walks and several passed balls but the Mustangs came back with a single run in the next inning to provide the final margin of victory. The big hit in the third was a triple by Karen Pump.

Apligian (2-for-3), Trish Tumminia (2-for-3) and Donnelly (2-for-3) provided most of the offensive firepower for Northville.

In the nightcap, Staknis was outstanding again. She scattered three hits, struck out nine and didn't allow an earned run in seven more innings of action. But this time she received plenty of offensive support as the Mustang batters belted out seven hits and scored runs in six of seven innings. Laura Apligian led the way with three hits in four plate appearances and three runs batted in.

Apligian delivered a pair of run-scoring doubles in her first two at bats to help put Northville up 3-0 after three innings. The lead ballooned to 5-0, thanks to consecutive hits by Laurie Fortenberry, Karen Trepicone and Staknis, before the Chargers got a run back in the fourth.

Northville nine shipped out of area for districts

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN
Staff Writer

Due to several rain/snow-outs earlier this season, Northville and Novi never did meet on the baseball field this spring. That's unfortunate because that matchup is usually exciting and emotional.

The two neighbors were to hook up on April 3 and then on April 10. But when the weather did not cooperate either time, the games were cancelled. And unless the teams involved advance quite far in the MHSAA state playoffs, they aren't scheduled to meet again until the spring of 1991.

That's because the Wildcats and the Mustangs have been placed in separate districts for both baseball and softball. Novi will play host to district No. 12, which includes schools like Brighton, North Farmington, Holly, Howell, Lakeland, Milford, South Lyon, Walled Lake Western and Central and West Bloomfield. The baseball and softball squads will take on their West Bloomfield counterparts in a pre-district action on May 25 at 4 p.m.

As for Northville, they have been grouped into the Southfield District (No. 10) to compete with teams like Detroit Henry Ford, Detroit Redford, Farmington, Farmington Hills Mercy, Livonia Churchill, Livonia Franklin, Livonia Ladywood, Livonia Stevenson, Redford Union and, of course, Southfield, but they will need to win twice before advancing that far. The Mustang baseballers will travel to Redford Union to take on the Panthers on May 22 in the qualifying round. A win there would send the team to a pre-district game at home on May 25. The softballers were scheduled to take on Union May 16 (after Record deadline) in a qualifying game. The district games for both baseball and softball will follow on June 1-2, with the regional (June 9) and the final (June 15-16) rounds soon after that.

According to Northville athletic director Dennis Colligan, the 'Cats and Mustangs may just meet in baseball this season, providing both teams fare poorly in the tournament. If both teams are knocked out early, look for the Novi-Northville game to be rescheduled in late May.

GIRLS SOCCER: With most of last year's state finalist squad back, the Northville kickers are a definite contender again for the Class A crown. The Mustangs will play host to five other teams — including Novi — in district No. 7 action. The remaining teams include powerhouses like Livonia Churchill, Livonia Franklin, Livonia Ladywood and Livonia Stevenson. The state champ could very well come out of this district. The games will be held on May 25 or 26.

The Northville district winner will take on the Walled Lake Central winner on May 30, with the regional final on June 2 at Grand Blanc. Northville will also play host to one of the semifinal contests on June 6. The state title game will be held on June 9, 1 p.m., at Plymouth Salem.

BOYS TENNIS: Both Novi and Northville tennis squads will compete at the Ann Arbor Huron District (No. 3) on May 18-19. In all, the field comprises 14 schools including Milford, Lakeland, Plymouth Canton, Plymouth Salem and both Walled Lake schools.

The finals will be held on June 1-2.

BOYS AND GIRLS TRACK: The Northville and Wildcats track teams have been assigned to region No. 8, which will be held at Novi. The field sports 16 schools, including state power Detroit Central. Other local squads in attendance will be South Lyon and Farmington. The regional meet is slated for May 19 and the state finals will be on June 2.

Mustang baseballers drop 3-of-4

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN
Staff Writer

Despite playing some solid, fundamentally sound ballgames last week, the Northville baseball team lost more ground and dropped below .500 for the first time this season.

The Mustangs went 1-4 last week — including a doubleheader split with Livonia Churchill on May 7 — to fall to 7-10-1 overall, 3-5 in the WLLA Western Division.

The main culprit was probably the absence of timely hitting — a problem that's plagued Northville all season. For example, in a 13-6 loss to fifth-ranked Plymouth Canton on May 10, the Mustangs stranded 14 runners on base.

"These kids are playing hard," Northville Coach Bob Frellick said. "Sometimes it pays off and sometimes it doesn't."

In game one against Churchill, the Mustangs were victimized by three big innings. The Chargers scored three in the first, eight in the second and six more in the fifth. Even though Northville kept it close early (3-3 after the first) and scored at least one run in four of the seven innings, it wasn't nearly enough to keep pace.

"Churchill kind of dominated right from the start," Frellick said. "We gave up a lot of walks and they followed with a couple homers. In the first two innings, we walked nine and had one hit batsman, and that just opened up the opportunities for them."

Starter Mike Lang lasted just 1½ innings after giving up eight earned runs. He was relieved by Brad Balser, who went the next three innings and allowed six more earned runs.

Steve Vigh had a big game at the plate with three hits, three runs scored and an RBI. George Smojver drove in two runs and John McNeil went 2-for-3.

In the nightcap, the Chargers jumped in front 4-0 after one inning, and seemed in command 5-0 when the Mustangs exploded for seven runs in the bottom of the fifth. Northville kept the rally alive with a half-dozen singles in a row.

For the first time, Northville had the lead and Smojver held on to record the victory. He went seven innings, allowed just three earned runs and fanned four.

"I've been saying this all year about these kids: they are resilient," Frellick said. "We were down early but the kids didn't let it bother them. They battled back and it paid off."

PLYMOUTH CANTON 13, NORTHVILLE 6: It was much more competitive than the first meeting between these two teams (Canton won a 15-0 no-hitter on April 23), but the outcome was the same.

"We were never out of this game," Frellick said. "We out-hit them against their No. 1 pitcher, but we didn't get the timely hits."

The Mustangs actually led 2-1 in the early going, but the Chiefs quickly caught up and went ahead by scoring at least once in every inning. The big blow came in the fourth when Canton pushed six runs across the plate to break open a 5-3 game. Four of those runs scored after reaching first on walks.

Believe it or not, Northville left the bases loaded in the second, third, fifth and sixth innings — and that's when it slipped away. Pitcher John Schrieber lasted through three innings, walked seven, struck out none and suffered the loss.

FARMINGTON 5-13, NORTHVILLE 2-5: The Mustangs wrapped up the week by losing both ends of a doubleheader against the Falcons, another team currently ranked among the 10 best Class A teams in the state.

"We played well defensively in both games," Frellick said. "The basic difference in game one was we had one solo homer and they had two, and one was a two-run shot."

In the opener, Northville stayed even through five innings but Farmington broke the 2-2 tie with three runs in the sixth, and it ended 5-2. Lang was saddled with the loss, but pitched a solid game (five hits, six strikeouts and seven walks).

Offensively, Joe Kaley went 2-for-3, including a home run, and drove in two. He was the only Mustang with more than one hit.

In the nightcap, the Falcons scored early and often against hurlers Brad Balser and John Chia-vazza. It was 5-1 through four innings, but a three-run Farmington rally in the fifth put it away. Northville was credited with just four hits and Vigh had two of them.

"We were obviously out-pitched," Frellick admitted.

Pats cruise past girls track team

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN
Staff Writer

Sleet and track meets just don't mix, but that was the unfortunate combination on May 10 when the Northville girls traveled to Livonia to take on WLA Western Division foe Franklin. Add some rain and very strong winds and you have big problems.

The Mustangs had other problems, as well. The locals won just six of 16 events and the Patriots cruised to a 77-51 victory.

"Our times weren't good, but in that kind of weather condition, you don't expect them to be," Northville Coach Ann Turnbull said. "We were ready and we were competitive — we just didn't win."

The highlight of the meet was the outstanding individual effort by sprinter Trish Lukowski, who contributed to four of her team's six victories. She won the 100 (13.8), 200 (29.24) and 400-meter (1:07.97) events, and was also the anchor leg of the winning 800 relay team (along with Kamal Bagga, Kendra Huard, and Rachel Davis).

"It's impressive that she can even perform in four events in one dual meet," Turnbull said. "But to win all four is spectacular. When Trish is entered in an event, she will do her very best every time. She was very pleased with her performance."

The other wins came from Lisa Almon in the high jump (4'-6") and Ris Fleming in the 300 low hurdles (53.02).

The runner-up finishes included Julie Buser and Fleming in the high jump (they both cleared 4'-4"), Davis in the 100 hurdles (18.7), Bagga in the 200 (29.88) and Huard in the 800 (personal best 2:39.97). The thirds came from Mari Kissenger in the shot put (26'-1 1/4"), the 200 (29.96) and the 400 (1:09.52), Angie Tune in the long jump (14'-1") and the 300 hurdles (55.31), Fleming in the 100 hurdles (18.8), Megan Holmberg in the mile (6:17.5) and Susan Weix in the two mile (13:41.00).

The Mustangs are now 1-5 overall, 1-4 in the WLA.

Restitution rule gains statewide support

While the Michigan High School Athletic Association (MHSAA) waits for a decision from the Michigan Supreme Court on whether it will hear the MHSAA's appeal regarding its restitution rule, key athletic and educational organizations of the state and nation are lining up in support of the rule.

The Court of Appeals ruled in 1989 that Regulation V, Section 3(D) of the MHSAA Handbook, a rule which requires schools to forfeit contests if they used students in competition under court orders that are later overturned, is "unlawful."

The Council of the Michigan Association of School Administrators voted 19-11 in support of the regulation at its March meeting, and during the same month, the Michigan Interscholastic Athletic Administrators voted 167-0 at its annual convention to support the rule and "all efforts to preserve this regulation through any and all legal appeals."

In January, the Board of Directors of the Michigan Association of Secondary School Principals adopted unanimously a memorandum in support of a favorable outcome of the MHSAA's appeal "for the protection of all athletics in Michigan schools."

The MHSAA rule states: If a student is ineligible according to the MHSAA rules but is permitted to participate in interscholastic competition contrary to such MHSAA rules but in accordance with the terms of a court restraining order or injunction against his/her school and/or the MHSAA and said injunction is subsequently voluntarily vacated, stayed, reversed or finally determined by the courts that injunctive relief is not or was not justified, any one or more of the following actions shall be taken against such school in the interest of restitution and fairness to competing schools:

1. Require that individual or team records and performances achieved during participation by such ineligible student shall be vacated or stricken.
2. Require that team victories shall be forfeited to opponent.
3. Require that team or individual awards earned by such ineligible student be returned to the Association.

Mustangs of the Week

TRISH LUKOMSKI

In Northville's 77-51 track defeat to Livonia Franklin on May 10, Trish Lukowski was outstanding. That's why "Mustang of the Week" honors are heading her way. Lukowski took first place in the 100 (13.8), the 200 (29.24) and the 400-meter (1:07.97) races, and was also the anchor leg of the winning 800 relay team (along with Kamal Bagga, Kendra Huard, and Rachel Davis). She ended up notching four of her team's six firsts. "It's impressive that she can even perform in four events in one dual meet," Northville Coach Ann Turnbull said. "But to win all four is spectacular."

KRISTI TURNER

Senior goaltender Kristi Turner has been outstanding all season, even in the past two weeks when the Northville kickers have been struggling to get wins. On May 9, Turner registered a shutout against the state's top-ranked team — Farmington — but the game ended in a scoreless tie. "Turner played her usual outstanding game," Northville Coach Bob Paul said. Two days later, she limited powerful Livonia Churchill to one goal, but the Mustangs fell 1-0. So far this season, Turner has five shutouts to her credit and we think "Mustang of the Week" honors are in order.

COLLEGE PERISCOPE

Junior rightfielder RICH JUDAY is among the conference leaders with a .413 Big Ten batting average (.399 overall) for Michigan State (28-18 record). The Midland native is the son of former MSU and Northville football great Steve Juday. . . . Michigan Tech freshman SANDY LOFTUS, a Northville native, was selected the recipient of the Scholastic Achievement Award for women's swimming. It was announced at the school's annual Varsity Awards Banquet on May 8. Loftus posted a 3.52 grade point average in mechanical engineering to receive this honor. She is the daughter of James and Linda Loftus of Northville.

Jon Meek helps Northville place first in the mile relay versus Franklin

Mustang tracksters top Franklin by 45

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN
Staff Writer

Prior to Northville's May 10 dual meet against visiting Livonia Franklin, Mustang Coach Dennis Faletti carried out a mock meet on paper, based on previous performances by both teams.

On paper, Faletti had his squad slipping past the Patriots by a mere three points — but as it turned out, Northville cruised to an easy 91-46 triumph.

"The weather was terrible so I think the difference was that we were really warmed up and more prepared than (Franklin) was," Faletti explained. "Obviously, the performances weren't as good as they normally are because of the weather. I think it was the worst day weather-wise so far this season — even those meets before the Easter holiday break."

The Mustangs registered 11 wins in 17 events, including three of four relay races and four of five field events. Kevin Gill continued his fine season by winning the shot put (37'-9") and the discus (115'-7") — it was the fourth meet in a row he has notched wins in both.

"Kevin's really been coming on," Faletti said. "He is still undefeated in the discus and he's either first or second in the shot put."

The other victories came from Steve Coon in the mile (5:02.0) and two mile (11:39.0); Mark Hiltner in the 400-meter dash (56.6); Bill Kelley in the 200 (24.0); John Okasinski in the pole vault (10'-0"); Chris Lehr in the high jump (5'-6"); the 400 relay team (with Noel Korowin, Matt Hemp, Jamie Miller and Neil White), the 800 relay team (with Kelley, Lehr, Miller and White), and the two mile relay team (featuring Karl Goerke, Parag Parikh, Kevin McGlinchey and Jon Meek).

The 800 relay squad actually edged their Franklin counterparts by several hundredths of a second despite dropping the baton.

The second place finishes included Miller in the long jump (18'-9 1/4"), Bret Butz in the 300 hurdles (44.1), Hemp in the 100 (11.7), Rob Subotich in the 400 (57.7), Goerke in the mile (5:17.0), and McGlinchey in the 800 (2:16.2). The thirds came from Rob Holloway in the shot put (26'-1"), Aaron Wiseley in the pole vault (9'-6"), Butz in the 110 hurdles (16.9), Tom Campbell in the 100 (11.9), Parikh in the 800 (2:19.0) and Eric Goerke in the mile (5:23.8).

"It was an all-out team effort," Faletti said.

With the win, Northville improves to 4-2 overall, 2-1 against WLAA Western Division opponents.

Bicycles becoming high-tech

By SHEILA PHILLIPS
Staff Writer

Nishiki, Miyata and Miele. They aren't Japanese phrases, but if you're in the market for a new bike, they might as well be a foreign language. Because bikes have become so high-tech, picking the right model can be more involved than choosing a personal computer or camcorder.

"Cycling has become so intense," commented Town and Country bike shop manager John Shoemaker. "There are so many models and types of bikes to choose from — it has become one of the biggest pastimes around."

He said bikes tend to fall into three categories: mountain bikes, street bikes and touring bikes.

"The right bike all depends on what type of riding you want to do," Shoemaker said. "If you want to do a lot of off-roading, you need a mountain bike, but if you want to go long distance on the road, a street bike or a touring bike is more appropriate."

Touring bikes are designed to hold gear and are recommended for extensive cycling. This type of bike was popular five years ago, but now accounts for only a small share of the market.

Town and Country owner Paul Reibling said mountain bikes are what's "really hot," accounting for over 75 percent of his sales.

He said most people like the look and rugged feel of the bikes, which have wide tires and heavy-duty frames.

It is important to note that mountain bikes sit low to the ground for more control. Many cyclists even recommend smaller frames than riders are accustomed to for added maneuverability.

Kyle Feliks checks out a bicycle at Town and Country Bike Shop in Northville

However, these bikes can be cumbersome for on-road use, especially for long distances.

One option gaining popularity is the cross bike, which combines the appearance and feel of a mountain bike with the speed and lighter weight of a street bike. It has thin tires like a conventional ten-speed, but the cross-style handlebars of a mountain bike.

"These bikes are becoming more popular but they haven't caught on as quickly as hoped, so there just aren't as many models to choose from," Reibling commented.

Shoemaker said the first step in choosing a bike is to determine a maximum price. Prices range from $150 to over $1,500 for new models, but a good salesperson can fit a novice into a quality bike for under $400.

Shoemaker recommended borrowing a bike and riding with a club a few times or talking with its members, because avid riders are often knowledgeable of model pitfalls and can offer unbiased opinions.

If a bike club is inconvenient, most bike shops also allow customers to test drive models, which is necessary to get the feel of the vehicle.

A number of bike shops and cycling magazines also offer literature comparing various models, outlining design and feature options.

Fitness Factory makes a comeback

Starting June 4, Novi Parks and Recreation is offering session II of the "Fitness Factory high energy, low impact workout." Each class offers a full 30-minute cardiovascular workout and an additional 30 minutes of muscle tone for a total workout session.

The package will be for eight weeks and the fee ranges from $36-$50. Registration deadline is June 8.

OPEN SWIM: The Novi High School Pool will be open for swimming from now until June 14. Open swimming on Tuesdays and Thursdays will be from 7-8:30 p.m. and lap swimming follows until 9:30 p.m.

Fee is 50 cents and senior citizens are free. Children age 10 and under must be with an adult.

EXERCISE PROGRAM: A one-hour exercise program is held Monday and Wednesday mornings at Twelve Oaks Mall. It takes place 9-10 a.m. in the Lord & Taylor corner near the east entrance.

The program, conducted by The University of Michigan Division of Physical Education, is particularly aimed at older people and others who would benefit from an invigorating but non-strenuous exercise program.

"The format consists of carefully guided warm-up and stretching exercise followed by light aerobics and a cool-down period, all synchronized to music," according to Prof. Phyllis E. Weikart, director of U-M's Adult Lifestyle Program. "Our objective is to improve the participants' strength, flexibility and energy level through activities which are safe and enjoyable."

Weikart and her staff have been leading the popular Fitness Over 50 classes for 12 years on the U-M campus and for the past two years at Ann Arbor's Briarwood Mall, where it regularly attracts some 125 participants.

By expanding the program to Twelve Oaks Mall, they have made it more accessible to residents throughout Livingston, Wayne and Oakland Counties.

"Twelve Oaks is open an hour before the stores open (at 10 a.m. daily and noon Sunday) to accommodate people who want to use the mall for walking," notes Twelve Oaks marketing director Elaine Kah. "This exercise program adds a new dimension to this activity. We are pleased to be a part of the program."

Fitness Over 50 welcomes all interested persons, regardless of their age and current activity level. Call the Twelve Oaks Management Office, 348-9438, for further information.

Fitness Notes

Twelve Oaks is a major regional shopping center located in Novi on I-96 and Novi Road. The center hours are Monday through Saturday, 10 a.m. to 9 p.m.; and Sunday, noon to 6 p.m.

ASK-A-NURSE REFERRAL: "Ask-a-nurse," the new 24-hour health information and physician referral line sponsored by five Mercy hospitals in southeast Michigan, is offering a new speakers bureau to community groups. Program director Linda Hintze, R.N. and registered nurses who man the telephone lines seven days a week, 365 days a year will be available to speak to groups of 15 or more about the calls they receive and how they help callers locate physicians and health or community information.

Requests should be made at least three weeks before the intended speaking engagement. There is no charge for the service and participants will give valuable information about how this service can help them day or night. For more information or to make a reservation, please call the ASK-A-NURSE office at Catherine McAuley health center toll-free at 1-800-526-MERCY (1-800-526-3729) or in the Ann Arbor area, (313) 572-5500.

"Ask-a-nurse" is a free community health information and physician referral service of five Sisters of Mercy Hospitals — Catherine McAuley Health Center-Ann Arbor, Mercy Hospital-Port Huron, Mercy Hospitals and Health Services in Detroit which includes Mount Carmel Mercy Hospital and Samaritan Health Center, and St. Joseph Mercy Hospital-Pontiac. The Sisters of Mercy Health Corporation is the largest health-care provider in Michigan.

AEROBICS PROGRAM: Northville Parks and Recreation is offering an aerobics fitness program. The one hour program is held from 9:15-10:15 a.m., on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays; 7-8 p.m. on Tuesdays and Thursdays; or 8:30-9:30 a.m. on Saturdays.

The fee for two classes per week is $33 — $45 for three classes per week. For more information, call 348-1280.

MERCY CENTER CLASSES: The Mercy Center, located on Eleven Mile between Middlebelt and Inkster Roads in Farmington Hills, is offering a wide variety of swimming and fitness classes in 1990.

Mercy is offering open swimming daily from 6:30-8 a.m. and on Saturday's from 7:30-9 a.m. in addition to several fitness classes: like the Trim-Gym-Fitness Class, the Pool and Gym Class and the Coed Trim and Swim Fitness Class.

For information, call 473-1815.

CPR CLASSES: Botsford General Hospital in Farmington Hills is offering adult CPR classes and infant/child CPR classes.

The adult program is offered the first Thursday of every month in the Administration and Education Center from 7-10 p.m. Pre-registration is required.

The infant/child program is offered the first Monday of every month in the Administration and Education Center from 7-10 p.m. Pre-registration is also required.

Fee is $5 for each class. Call 471-8090 for more information.

A cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR) class is also offered by Schoolcraft College on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 6-10 p.m.

An American Red Cross CPR certification card is issued upon successful completion of the course. Cost is $18. For more information call 591-6400, extension 410.

FREE HEALTH SPEAKERS: Catherine McAuley Health Center is offering health care professionals to speak to clubs, community groups and schools interested in learning more about health care and other medical issues through McAuley's Speaker's Bureau.

"Speakers are provided free of charge to keep audiences up to date on the latest in medicine, technology and the rapidly changing business of health care," said Liz Peterson, director of community relations.

Just some of the topics the speakers can address include: "Eating Economically and Nutritionally," "Superwoman Syndrome," "AIDS," "Stress," "Heart Disease: Treatment and Prevention," "Alzheimer's" and "Characteristics of Chemical Dependency."

Speakers are available for groups of 15 to 200 and will adjust their presentations to the needs and time requirements of organizations.

For more information, call community relations at 572-4033.

FREE SCREENINGS: Botsford Hospital's Health Development Network will offer free blood pressure and vision screening the second Monday of every month from 1-4 p.m. The screenings take place in the main lobby of Botsford General Hospital at 28050 Grand River in Farmington Hills.

For more information call 471-8090.

Fitness Tips

Tips help you cope with sources of stress

By KATIE FORAN, RN, MS
Special Writer

Personal frustrations, family obligations, work assignments and financial concerns are all sources of stress. They challenge your ability to cope.

There are a variety of coping skills to help you. Listed below are some coping skills. Use those that best suit your needs.

COPING SKILLS

1. Take one thing at a time. Complete one task so that you can then start another.

2. Try not to be a "superperson." Know your limitations and admit them when appropriate.

3. Get away for awhile. Find a quiet place to think and "recharge your batteries."

4. Avoid withdrawing from daily activities. You must always return to the "stream of things" and do your best.

5. Give the other person a break at times. Try reconsideration, compromise or accommodation.

6. Work it off. Nothing helps you deal better with stress than strenuous physical activity.

7. Talk it over. Express your concerns and be willing to "lend an ear" to others.

8. Schedule your recreation. Make constructive use of your free time.

9. Give in at times. "Okay, so no one is perfect."

10. Do something for others. "What goes around, come around."

11. Eat a balanced diet and develop good sleep habits.

12. Have a sense of humor. Laughter has been shown to make our muscles go limp and release tension.

13. Take slow, deep breaths.

14. Sit back in a chair, breathe deeply, and observe the second hand on your watch for one minute.

The Northville Record is working with medical authorities at the University of Michigan Medical Center (M-Care) in Northville to provide up-to-date information on a variety of health-related topics. The series is coordinated by Peg Campbell of the M-Care staff.

Take special care to raise beautiful roses

Numerous varieties available

Roses are highly prized in the home garden for the sheer loveliness of the blooms and their sweet, nostalgic fragrance.

Modern varieties also offer a very long season of continuous flowering from early summer through late autumn, and into early winter in mild areas.

To enjoy the very best that your rose plants have to offer, keep the soil around their roots uniformly dampened but not soggy. Roses, like most other plants, cannot thrive in wet soil. But a deeply and evenly dampened root area will help to ensure healthy foliage and an abundance of long-lasting flowers of fine substance and color.

Watering at ground level with soaker hoses or an emitter system is ideal for roses, but if an overhead sprinkler is used, water in the morning so that the foliage will be dry by evening. Leaves sent wet into the night make ideal sites for the spread of fungus disease.

Mildew, in particular, spreads quickly in conditions of cool, damp nights and warm days. That's why this disease often becomes such a severe problem in roses (and begonias) as the nights become cool toward summer's end. Inconsistent watering or allowing the plant to go dry at the roots also seems to help set these plants up for the spreading of mildew.

If you fertilized your rose plants late in the winter or in early spring, you could sprinkle a light scattering of balanced, general-purpose granular fertilizer over the root area again in early summer. Or purchase a product especially designed for roses.

Whatever you decide to use, scratch the granules lightly into the soil surface, or cover them with a mulch layer to eliminate the loss of some of the nutrients through volatile action into the air.

Fertilize in a similar fashion again in mid-to late July, but not after that. It's best to send rose plants a little lean and mean into winter. In August or September, however, a dressing of bone meal, and wood ash if you have some, will strengthen the roots and help to harden the plants for winter.

Watch for diseased foliage through the summer, and take steps to control any problem before it spreads. Black spot is an unfortunately common fungus disease of roses. It usually starts with leaves on the lower portions of the plant as the spores over-winter on the ground as well as on the canes.

Pick off any spotted leaves as soon as you notice them. Burn or trash the leaves and give the affected plant a follow-up spray with a fungicide. I use the mildest effective one — Safer's Natural Garden Fungicide with sulfur.

Pick up and destroy any fallen foliage, too. After you do this ground cleanup, it's an ideal time to lay a soil-enriching moisture-retaining mulch layer over the soil around the plants. Use compost or processed manure, alone or mixed with damp peat. This layer will serve as a disease-prevention measure, making it difficult for any disease spores left on the soil surface to germinate and release into the air.

Deal with powdery mildew, which appears as a fine grayish-white film on leaf surfaces, in much the same fashion, removing affected foliage and spraying at the first sign of the problem.

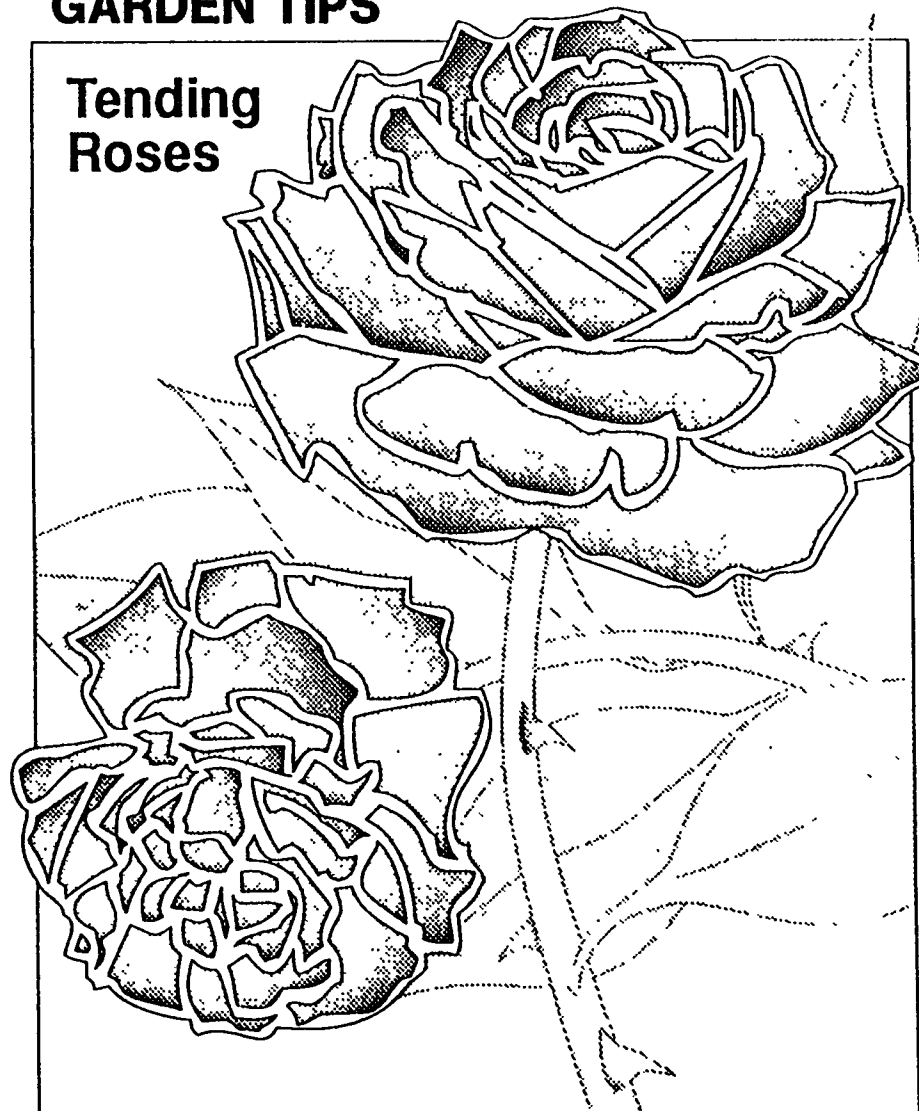

Maintaining a bug watch can prevent a lot of garden grief, too. Aphids are easily spotted clustered around young, succulent shoot tips, which will become twisted and curled with aphids' feeding unless the pests are dealt with early.

Of all the aphid controls, blasting them off the plants with a jet of water from the hose sometimes proves the most effective in my garden. Then spray after that with Safer's Insecticidal Soap to catch any malingers.

Prune rosebushes for continued bloom production as you gather flowers for your house. Do this by cutting the flower-bearing stems back to a five-segment leaf stem. The first few leaf stems below the flower will often bear three-part leaves. But it's the growth bud nestled in the joints between parent stem and five-leaflet stems that will elongate into the best flowering growth.

GARDEN TIPS

Tending Roses

- Keep soil around roots uniformly damp.
- Water in the morning so foliage is dry by evening.
- Sprinkle granular fertilizer over root areas twice during the summer.
- Control fungus disease before it spreads.

Raising roses likely to become life-long hobby

Consider planting a rose garden this year. The end result may not only be a breathtaking display of color or a sweet, pervading aroma, but a lifelong hobby as well.

What is especially wonderful about roses is that there are literally hundreds of varieties from which to choose — no two gardens could possibly be alike. Roses are white, yellow, orange, pink, red or violet — as well as multicolored. Some roses have large blossoms; some are miniatures.

There are roses that ever-so-charmingly climb up your stone wall or trellis or mailbox. There are shrub roses from which you can create the perfect hedge between your house and the one next door.

Another bush variety, called the Standard, resembles a dwarf tree — perfect for apartment dwellers limited to a balcony or patio.

In fact, there are so many choices that you may at first feel a bit overwhelmed. Experts recommend that you ask neighbors or others who already know which types perform best in your climate. This is an important consideration as varieties differ in hardiness.

For example, one of the most popular varieties is the modern hybrid tea rose (so named by the Chinese, who compared the delicious smell of the rose to that of good Chinese black tea).

Almost all hybrid tea roses are tolerant of colder temperatures, while the old garden roses (those having originated before 1867) don't do as well when the mercury drops.

Another way to obtain information is to visit a public rose garden. You will have an invaluable opportunity to discover how professional plant roses according to variety, color and spatial concerns.

On the subject of color, there is a general rule of thumb used to incorporate a harmonious look. Use white or multicolored roses to tie in the bright, pure-colored blooms. For example, you have decided you want the brilliant red "Grand Masterpiece" tea rose to grace your garden. Most likely you'd want to steer clear of the deep magenta roses or a lavender rose such as "Angel Face." A better option would be "Carigla," a multicolored blossom with bright yellow petals streaked with red.

With time, careful deliberation and frequent references to your trusty catalogs, you are sure to enjoy many a pleasant day gazing at your personally tailored rose garden.

The concerns that face a typical rose gardener are many — soil fertility, pest control, fungus prevention, etc. However, at this point, you're an avid "rose maniac" and nothing is more important than protecting and nourishing your exquisite roses.

Why not pick a 'theme' for your flower garden?

Why not have fun with your flower garden this year?

Plant blooms that are useful as well as beautiful or that tailor themselves to meet your particular needs.

You might want to ask your nursery person to recommend plants that will attract hummingbirds or butterflies, for example, or those that combine to create a delicious fragrance.

Consider color, location and your time limitations, too; there are flowers to suit any situation.

SHADE FLOWERS

If your garden doesn't get much sunshine, don't despair. Lots of flowers thrive and bloom even in deep shade. The most popular flower for shade is impatiens, but consider others such as primroses, tuberous begonias, hostas and low-growing sedum.

EASY-CARE PERENNIALS

Once established, these come up year after year and include many tall growers that form an excellent permanent backdrop for beds and borders. Try mixing types that bloom at different times for all-season color.

Good choices for spring bloom are Dutch irises, lupines and peonies; for summer, delphiniums, foxglove (digitalis), old-fashioned hollyhocks and fragrant phlox; for fall, monkshood and full-size chrysanthemums. All of them are sunshine-lovers.

FILL IN WITH ANNUALS

Plant started annuals in front of your perennial backdrop, in front of foundation plantings and evergreen borders, and along walks and driveways.

Popular mid-height choices are geraniums, petunias, marigolds and zinnias, all sun-loving and available in a rainbow of colors.

For a low-growing border, try blue ageratum and pink or white sweet alyssum.

EDIBLE BLOOMS

Pansies aren't only pretty, you can eat them, too. They make an unforgettable addition to any salad (or, perhaps, a pasta dish).

Other grow-to-eat blooms include nasturtiums (blossoms and leaves); squash blossoms (from summer and winter squashes); day lily buds (slightly beany taste); and sweet violets (enhance desserts with their delicate flavor and beauty).

Most of these are highly perishable, so you're not likely to find them in supermarkets. And don't buy them from your florist; they may be treated with chemicals.

DRIED FLOWERS

Many flowers lend themselves to drying. Use these in arrangements and to make pot-pourri: calendula (huge golden petals reminiscent of the sun's rays); Queen Anne's lace (dainty white flat-topped blossoms); baby's breath (tiny blossoms, ideal for filling out arrangements); hydrangea (large blossoms in fleecy blue and pink); all types of roses.

To add fragrance to your arrangements, include rosemary, sage and lavender; for color, include yarrow, chamomile and goldenrod.

Pick flowers on a dry day; select buds or newly opened blooms. Discard any damaged flowers. Remove leaves so air will circulate around the stalks, and make sure petals are not crushed or twisted.

Tie the bunches together; hang upside down in a dark place to dry.

BOUQUET GARDEN

If you enjoy filling your home with arrangements of cut flowers, cultivate a cutting garden.

The following have glorious colors, graceful shapes and long stems: white lace flowers (resemble huge white snowflakes); Dutch lavender (chalice-shape blossoms); Chinese forget-me-nots (delicate sprays of deep rich blue); May Queen Shasta daisies (early blooming, with white petals and golden centers); sweet William Red Empress (velvety scarlet-red clusters); coreopsis Sunburst (golden-yellow ruffled blooms).

To learn the art of flower arranging, you may want to take a class offered by a florist or community college, or visit a local bookstore or garden shop for an illustrated guide.

SOUL-SOOTHERS

For a garden that will seduce you with heavenly smells, soothe you with cool, muted colors and fascinate you as the seasons change, plant an English flower garden.

According to Family Circle magazine "The English garden is a retreat from life's flurries. It may have an arbor for flowers to climb, a bath for birds to refresh themselves, Arrangement-perfect dahlias are just one blossom to include in a garden theme.

a bench where humans do nothing but sit—and be . . ."

For lush English color and fragrance, the magazine recommends lupine, Oriental poppy, bearded iris, torch lily, wallflower, garden phlox, forget-me-not, primrose, peony and old-fashioned roses.

COLOR THEME GARDEN

For a challenge, and to add striking design interest to your garden, cultivate flowers of a single color or a carefully chosen combination of colors.

According to "Glorious Gardens, A Portfolio of Ideas for Planting and Design" by Francesca Greenoak (Congdon & Weed), "One of the most famous single-colour gardens and the one most copied is Vita Sackville-West's elegant white garden at Sissinghurst in Kent, England.

It's successful because the design incorporated not simply the pure, hard whites which tend to glare but also cream and silver-white flowers, and silver foliage such as willow-leaved pear and artemisia, and statuesque thistle."

Limit your palette to three or four strong colors and contrast the boldest effects, advises Greenoak. Avoid unadulterated themes of blue, purple or pink; instead, combine them to give "a warmly glowing effect."

NOSE-IT-ALLS

Fragrance is one of the virtues of summer flowers.

Nasturtiums are easy to grow; poke the seeds into soil that receives full sun or light shade. The blooms have a pungent, spicy sweet scent.

Sweet peas yield a delicious fragrance; sweet alyssum delivers the strong aroma of honey.

Napoleon's Josephine popularized growing highly fragrant mignonette in pots to make the scent portable. Others that lend themselves to containers include scented stock, linaria (baby snapdragon) and carnations.

A new nose-pleaser popular in Europe (the favorite of Princess Caroline of Monaco) is a mauve-lavender rose called Prelude. It's expensive and hard to find, but unusually fragrant.

Be part of the solution when using pesticides

That old saying about being part of the solution rather than part of the problem has never been more true than today, when everyone from your neighbor to your representative in Congress probably feels some degree of concern about pesticides in the environment.

Though the spotlight is on pesticide use in large-scale commercial agriculture, every homeowner who sprays tomato plants with fugicides, spreads weed-and-feed fertilizer on the lawn or wages chemical warfare against ants in the pantry is playing a small role in the controversy over pesticide residues in food and surface and groundwater contamination.

That is not to say that properly used pesticides pose grave threats to well-being.

"When used according to label directions, which come out of years of study of effectiveness and safety, the pesticides available to homeowners are extremely safe, to the user and to the pesticides available to homeowners are extremely safe, to the user and the environment," says Larry Olsen, Michigan State University pesticide education coordinator.

"Misuse or improper storage or disposal of leftover chemicals or containers, however, can contribute to the overall concern about pesticides in the environment."

Recognizing this concern, some local county Cooperative Extension Service offices are scheduling meetings to help acquaint homeowners with safe pesticide use in the home, yard and garden.

For information about meetings that might be scheduled in your area, contact your county Cooperative Extension Service office. It's listed in the telephone book under "county government."

Enjoy the great outdoors — from inside

With curtains and windows thrown wide open, you beseech the rays of old El Sol. Not blinding glare, but gentle, lazy streams of light that warm both soul and soil.

What's more you're willing to sacrifice plaster and lawn space for a breath of fresh air. Or for treelike shade that offers shelter amid the elements.

Welcome to the 1990s, a decade in which you can sun-worship from your sofa and garden high and dry in a downpour. Or swing in the shade on a scorching afternoon.

Solariums, porches, gazebos and greenhouses all but erase the dividing line that separates what's inside and what's out. Through architecture, they allow homeowners to commune with Mother Nature, while steering clear of her stormier side.

Acquiring such an addition doesn't mean you have to buy a new home, take on a night job or suffer through months of painful renovation.

Commission from an architect the simplest porch, and leave the construction to a contractor. Or hammer and nail your way to the perfect solarium, gazebo or greenhouse with detailed plans, prefabricated materials or do-it-yourself kits — some so simple that no tools are required.

All are available through building supply emporiums or by mail order and in a variety of price ranges.

PORCHES

The porch is affectionately known as the apron of the house. Or the piazza. Or the portico. Or veranda.

No matter what the name, this famed wooden facade is as timeless as lemonade and sun bonnets. And today, it's trendy — the perfect addition for the new breeds of couch potatoes and homebodies.

Because they offer a classic way to project the indoors while taming the out, porches are enjoying a mini-renaissance. A Builder magazine survey showed readers ranked the porch with the ever-popular deck.

From Queen Anne wraparounds to plain farm platforms, porches are popping up on new homes, both spacious and simple, seaside and mountaintop vacation cottages and even existing dwellings that before had nothing but doorsteps.

And while these porches borrow the classy designs from the past, they're smarter than those of yesteryear — thanks to energy-efficient detailing built in by today's architects.

GAZEBOS

With their lacy latticework and fragile form, gazebos rank not only as the largest and most elaborate of garden ornaments, but also as the most functional. And they're almost as popular now as they were in Victorian times.

While its charm elevates it to focal-point status, the gazebo also provides shelter, a place for the homeowner to escape the April shower or harsh July sun. The gazebo can serve as a breakfast nook, napping spot, tearoom, library and lookout, all in the course of the same day.

Sun rooms, skylights and casual wicker furniture help bring the outdoors in.

Distinguished by up-curved eaves, latticework, turned finials or scrollwork brackets, these miniature buildings are still most famous for their shapes — either simply square or octagonal.

Most echo the Victorian era in styling, but there are countless designs available with the most modern featuring screens or shutters for protecting those within.

Meanwhile, a 1990s twist on the gazebo borrows its latticework, using the open-pattern panels to create walls around a patio or deck. The result? An airy, indoor-outdoor room that lets homeowners move furniture in and out with the seasons and weather.

SOLARIUMS AND GREENHOUSES

The quintessential sun space — or solarium — combines the greenhouse effect with the charms of Grandmother's sun porch.

Yesterday's homeowner wanted it so he could grow his tomatoes and his tulips indoors. And chances were he was the only one on the block with such an addition.

Nowadays, sunshine is spilling through a lot of solarium windows — some 350,000 to be exact — and into family living areas, kitchens, dining areas and pool rooms — the four top areas most likely to include a sun space, according to a manufacturer's study.

That's not to say that a sun space wouldn't work equally as well in a library, bathroom, home entertainment center or spa, all cited as other popular areas for sun-space additions.

Sun spaces boast both beauty and brains. Besides adding valuable square footage and cutting down on a home's heating bill, a solarium's unique curves, lines and materials make it a reflection of its owners' personal style. Thus it's no surprise that these sunniest of home improvements have home improves investing $400 million annually.

Many green thumbs, meanwhile, are moving their plants from house to greenhouse, be it a simple lean-to, easy-to-install window box or full-blown structure complete with built-in cooling and irrigation systems.

Plans abound in gardening magazines, how-to manuals, books or by mail order and offer the gardener hundreds of ways to create his personal, year-round Garden of Eden — right in his own back yard.

Bathrooms just aren't basic anymore

Bathrooms used to be basic. A bath-and-tub combo, sink, medicine cabinet and toilet — all crammed into a space that was always too small.

How times have changed. Along with the kitchens, bathrooms have become the focus of innovative design. Now they are relaxing havens, offering escape from the madding crowds, complete with oversize tubs, mood lighting and plush carpeting.

"The bathroom will play a more significant role in the home of the future," says David L. Weiner, executive director of the Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Information Bureau.

"Bathrooms are no longer being designed with function alone in mind, but with attention to the user's individual needs," says Weiner.

That means you can relax in a whirlpool tub and sit in a sauna after a tough workout. Or spend the evening in a top-of-the-line loo with a fireplace, comfortable sitting area, stereo system — even a small refrigerator and microwave.

"Spas, steam showers and exercise equipment are also moving into the bathroom, as the health-conscious bring their health clubs home," says Weiner.

Luxurious touches, such as marble counters, heat lamps and big tubs help re-create the splendor and ritual of Roman and Japanese baths (a big inspiration to many architects). Oversize tubs have been popular for the past few years, and industry consultant Don Arnold predicts that the focus will soon shift to the shower.

"The hot ideas in this category are free-standing round or spiral profile enclosures and the use of tempered safety glass rather than acrylic for the doors and panels."

Popular shower features include pulsating shower heads lining the sides of the shower and large-diameter shower heads.

Lighting is another important element in bath design. Designers are using skylights, and glass blocks let in natural light while protecting privacy. Also look for sophisticated soffit lighting and theatrical lights around mirrors.

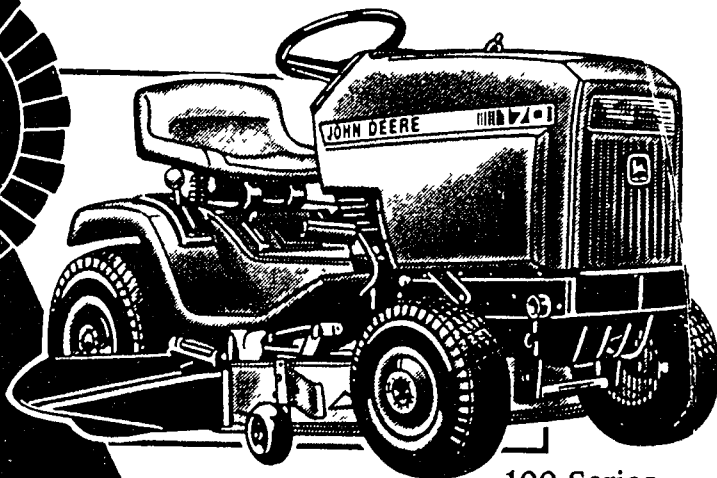

"Of course, you need good light in some areas, but the total space doesn't have to be clinically lit," architect Edward F. Knowles told Architectural Digest. "It can be a brightly lit daytime space and a mysterious nighttime space."

Hot tubs may pay off over the long haul

A spa, hot tub or pool has advantages beyond offering a place to relax and get in shape. In this ever-faster world, leisure time is at an ever-greater premium. Having your preferred method of recreation at your disposal simply adds a degree of control and convenience to your life.

While there's no doubt that spas, tubs and/or pools demand a great deal of care and cost, they can pay off in the long run by significantly adding value to your property.

Any of these facilities has the advantage of becoming a total family activity. The next time you ask yourself where those kids are, all you'll have to do is look in the back yard.

SPECIAL SPAS

Getting yourself into hot water may be the ideal elixir for the stresses and strains of modern life — just jump into a hot tub or spa.

It's an ancient tradition, going back to Roman history and Japanese emperors.

It was a more modern group, however — the Californians — who came up with combining the conviviality of the Roman bath with the tranquility of the Japanese spa or hot tub experience.

If you should choose to dip into the warm waters for your health, choosing between a spa or tub is the first decision you face.

Soft and rustic, hot tubs are known for their smooth wood finishes, which heighten the entire back-to-nature experience.

Hot tubs tend to be larger than spas and offer both a deep soak and the option to share the space with a number of people. The depth of these tubs, not uncommonly 4 to 5 feet, also allows for the placement of jets to suit personal needs, such as aching backs.

The downside to choosing wood? It takes more care, and needs to be drained and cleaned periodically.

The other choice is a spa. A watery paradise in plastic. Unlike tubs that basically come in the classic barrel shape, spas have been molded into just about as many shapes as there are human body types. Spas also are easier to clean and maintain than tubs, though they lack that natural feeling.

In-ground means it has been installed, either in the ground or onto a deck, usually a fairly expensive and complicated procedure.

The portable spa sits on the ground and would perhaps be better described as movable — as in, when you move to a new home you can take it with you. To set it up, all you need is the plumbing and a slab underneath it.

The portable units also are wonderfully self-contained: set it up, plug it in, and voila! you're relaxing.

POOL PRIMER

Pools are an irresistible luxury. And when it comes to pool area design, one contractor wryly noted, "People want everything."

These days homeowners are investing as much in their pools as it would take to buy a small house. And nearly any back yard can accommodate a small pool, or at least a spa unit.

Lap pools are long and narrow, and usually a constant 5 feet deep. By and large, there's nothing too fancy here — they're sleek, utilitarian vehicles designed as a place to work out, not necessarily have fun. Some homeowners have them wrap around the preimeters of the house.

But as we are not somber creatures by nature, the latest trend in pool design is to incorporate a lap pool into a larger pool — if you have the space and finances, that is. Experts agree that you're looking at between $50,000 and $100,000 for most in-ground pool installations.

Generally, every pool installation is a custom job. Design is influenced by available space and the desires of the homeowner.

Contractors often work with landscape architects to create a lush environment, complete with dramatic lighting, exotic plants and waterfalls.

Or designers take advantage of spectacular setting. One prize-winning pool has a disappearing waterline — contractors created an optical illusion where the water from the pool seems to melt into the ocean in the distance.

Custom tile work is a common feature. In California, where pool design trends often germinate, homeowners are requesting heavy glass block in place of tiles.

There are also a number of new safety features, such as a child-proof fence that can be removed when the children get older. New automatic locking pool covers are solid enough for a child to walk on, and they keep debris from falling in the water.

Perhaps the most high-tech safety measure is a sensitive motion detector to monitor the water. These can be more hassle than they're worth, notes one contractor, because they are so sensitive, but they can provide the parents of toddlers with peace of mind.

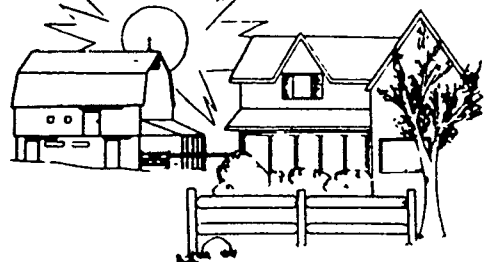

Today's new spas can be put in the most luxurious settings.

Trees are sturdy, but suffer from abuse

Lightning strikes may cause death

Trees seem such a permanent part of the landscape that it's easy to forget they do die, sometimes of natural causes and sometimes from abuse or neglect, by accident or even by suicide.

Natural causes include drought, insect and disease attack, and lightning, observes Mel Koelling, Michigan State University Extension forestry specialist. Frequently, a tree will die as the result of a combination of causes.

"A tree weakened by drought, for instance, may then fall victim to attack by insects or diseases," he explains. "Eventually it becomes so weak that something finishes it off."

Lightning strikes are a natural hazard of standing taller than surrounding objects. A tree may appear undamaged but die later because of internal damage, or it may be split or have the bark blasted right off it and survive.

A heavy load of snow or ice may also cause trees to bend or break. Especially vulnerable are trees with narrow, V-shaped crotches, many branches and vines growing in them. Such crotches are weak, and vines and extra branches provide more surface to accumulate ice.

Broken bark may allow fungi and other disease organisms or insects to get established in damaged trees. Bending without breaking may disrupt the flow of water and nutrients from the roots to the branches and the movement of food from the foliage to the roots. Disrupting this circulation eventually kills the plant.

Wind damage, common in both winter and summer, can often be reduced by pruning to thin tree crowns. Fewer branches means less wind resistance, Koelling explains.

In the category of abuse and neglect are "lawn mower blight" (repeatedly bumping the bark with a lawn mower or other lawn or garden equipment, such as weed trimmers), failure to protect thin-barked trees against winter damage, lack of after-planting care (guying, watering, etc.), improper site selection and/or preparation, and poor planting practices.

"Older trees can withstand more adversity than recently planted young trees, but they can still benefit from occasional fertilization and watering during extended dry periods," Koelling points out. "This minimal care keeps trees healthy so they are better able to resist insect and disease attack and to survive stress due to other causes, such as weather."

Tree suicide is actually a variation of neglect. It occurs when a root is left encircling the base of the trunk at planting time. As the trunk and the root grow, the tree eventually strangles itself.

These girdling roots, as they're called, are usually near the soil surface. Suspect that one is present if one side of the tree is growing poorly and the trunk on that side goes straight into the ground like a post rather than flaring out just above the soil line. If left long enough, the girdling root can eventually kill the tree.

"Removing the root as carefully as you can may save the tree," Koelling says. "It may also kill it. But leaving it is likely to kill it, too. You have to make your choice and take your chances."

It's far better to remove any encircling roots at planting time, he suggests. At the same time, remove any wire, nylon cord or other non-biodegradable materials from the rootball. These will restrict root growth and probably kill the plant in time.

Another form of neglect or abuse is to allow a twining vine to climb into a tree. Wisteria, bittersweet, grapevines and trumpet vine may twine around the main trunk or branches and gradually kill them. Grow these plants on posts, trellises or fences rather than on living supports, Koelling suggests.

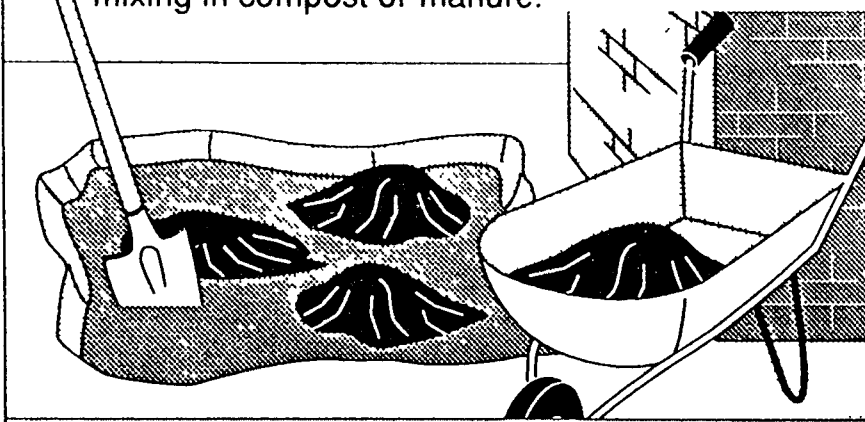

Using trees as clothesline supports or fenceposts or tying or chaining a dog to a tree can also kill the tree. Clothesline or fence wire can not stretch and expand as the tree grows and so may girdle it. The tree that survives by covering the wire and healing over it will be weak at the point. A dog chain or nylon cord looped around the trunk may saw through the bark and girdle the tree.

"This seems like a long list of hazards, but trees actually are not very demanding," Koelling says. "With only a minimum of care to keep them healthy and prevent injuries, trees will provide beauty and shade for years."

GARDEN TIPS

Planting in dry areas

Prepare planting site by digging deeply and mixing in compost or manure.

Water regularly while plants settle in. After that, they will be virtually maintenance-free.

- Drought resistant annuals include moss rose and ice plant.
- Herb gardens work in dry, warm conditions. Try thyme, sage, rosemary and oregano.

Homeowners must watch for carpenter ants

A pile of sawdust on the basement floor or a stream of large, black ants across the kitchen are pretty good indications that you've been invaded by carpenter ants.

These ants get their name from their habit of hollowing out wood for their nests. Unlike termites, which feed on the wood, the ants just tunnel in it.

Gary Dunn, Michigan State University entomologist, says carpenter ants found foraging for food in the home may or may not be nesting in the home itself. In either case, you need to find the nest to control the ants.

"Look for a pile of sawdust to locate the nest entrance," Dunn advises. "Worker ants leave the nest to forage for food so watching them may lead you to the nest opening. It may be indoors, in structural lumber or hollow doors, or outdoors in woodpiles, hollow trees, rotting stumps, fenceposts or other wood components of the landscape."

The ants keep occupied nest galleries clean, so the entrance to a nest is usually marked by a pile of sawdust and other nest debris, such as dead ants, parts of other insects and remnants of other foods they ate.

Once you find the entrance, use a dust formulation of an insecticide containing 5 percent carbaryl (Sevin) to treat the nest. Use a hand duster or a plastic squeeze bottle to inject the dust.

If you can't find the nest entrance, spray the infested area with an insecticide labeled for ant control. This will control the foraging workers. Repeated treatments may be necessary to continue to kill the foragers so that, eventually, the whole colony dies from lack of food.

Carpenter ants most often attack wood that's already weakened by rot or that's been hollowed out by termites. They may move from decayed wood to sound lumber as they increase the size of the nest. Any leaks that bring water into contact with wood create conditions attractive to carpenter ants, Dunn points out.

Repairing leaking roofs, gutters and water pipes will prevent structural damage from decay and decrease the likelihood of damage by carpenter ants.

Storing firewood up off the ground at some distance from the house, storing only enough for one heating season and bringing into the house only enough wood for a few days' burning can also reduce the chances of an ant invasion.

Details add special touches in the home

Little things make a difference. The furnishings you choose, the accessories you add — even the type of door handles you install — reflect your taste and attention to detail.

Your home is, above all, your castle: a haven of comfort and relaxation. Nowhere is it written that it has to be anything.

And yet you don't want a look that is dated. It's no fun to be in a rut. Chances are you would like to know what is fresh and fashionable — even if you decide it's silly.

What follows, for your consideration, is an overview of trends in today's furnishings, accessories and detail items for the home.

HIGH-STYLE FURNISHINGS
"The Germans, Swiss, Japanese are mad about it," says Metropolitan Home magazine. "Even cautious New York curators use impassioned words to describe it: voluptuous, outrageous, lovable."

They're describing modern furniture of Italian design, particularly "exuberant" styles from the 50-year period from 1920 to 1970.

The latest Italian-design furniture is softer than the hard-edged angular art pieces of the past. Forms are body-embracing, in comfort shapes (such as shells or rounded geometrics), sometimes made of molded foam.

Furniture crafted from unusual materials also is in vogue. You will see tabletops made of granite, coffee tables fashioned from polished fossil stone, chairs sculpted from wrought iron (lined with thick wool cushions or a sleek sweep of canvas). Faux marble, malachite, onyx and other high-end materials add touches of contemporary elegance.

REPRODUCTIONS
"Remember when 'reproduction' meant scaled-down, mucked-up or just plain tacky?" asks Metropolitan Home. "Now furniture makers are mining the riches of their past to create repros you can live with. These reissues have the same star qualities as their famous predecessors — but they're easier to find and afford."

Some comeback favorites include circa 1930 art deco, replete with Hollywood glamour; circa 1790 English Regency Chippendale four-poster beds; French armoires from the 1700s; and early 20th century American treasures from Gustav Stickley, Frank Lloyd Wright and Charles Eames.

Other new/old items from the 18th century are English manor sofas with tufted backs and Victorian overstuffed Turkish chairs dressed in velvets and tapestries.

Best bets from earlier eras include chests and armoires of heavily carved wood and opulent ormolu (15th, 16th and 17th centuries).

And anything Bierdermeier, such as chaise longues, chairs, sofas, loveseats and ottomans. Lines are elegant, graceful curves, with applique such as silk tassels and scroll-patterned reliefs.

POPULAR PIECES

Of all the furniture items spotlighted at the semiannual market of the International

Home Furnishings Center in High Point, N.C., among the most popular were chaises, ottomans and screens.

They were touted as "transitional pieces," perfect to mix and match with any style decor.

Chaise longues are romantic, reminiscent of Hollywood seduction scenes; they're also known as daybeds. Ottomans, a popular item in the '60s, come in several shapes — and most are oversize, big enough to seat two or more people. Decorative screens help define and separate a room's multiple functions; they work well with the high ceilings of contemporary residential architecture.

These pieces reflect the renewed interest in romantic, nostalgic and comfortable furniture. And they're versatile, as much at home in the boudoir as they are in the living room.

ART AND COLLECTIBLES

Few things transform a home's interior from mediocre to marvelous more quickly than interesting collectibles and works of art.

It's a misconception that you have to pay a fortune to get the best. You can, for example, purchase prints. Because of state-of-the-art production methods, these are every bit as appealing as the originals. Keep in mind that the way a print is framed is important; a professional job is essential to the overall effect.

There is a strong trend toward personalizing interiors with antiques and collectibles. It doesn't much matter what you collect, as long as you display it with panache.

Collectibles that lend themselves to display include cream pitchers, ornate chess pieces, Chinese puzzles, bird cages, photo frames, mirrors, pillows, vases, ceramic tiles, salt-and-pepper shakers, teapots, ethnic folk art, animal figurines, bottles and paperweights.

How should you display them? Group them together, advise design experts. Use a tabletop as a blank canvas that you enhance with harmonizing colors, shapes and textures.

DETAILS

The right window treatments lend a subtle, but important finishing touch to a room. The trend is to drape windows asymmetrically, adding blinds or shades for privacy.

Currently popular upholstery fabrics include tapestries and anything soft and textured. Among the most in-demand patterns are florals and stripes; the latter is considered a classic that blends into any decorating scheme.

Cover your walls with copper paneling that has hammered designs reminiscent of the Victorian era. Pave your kitchen, bathroom and entryway with ceramic tiles in colorful designs. Add splashy edges to linoleum floors with vinyl strip borders.

GARDEN TIPS

Vacation Plant Care

■ Weed thoroughly.

■ Remove faded and fully open flowers.

■ The day before leaving, water thoroughly, making sure soil is deeply soaked.

■ Set houseplants in a bathtub on a bed of well-soaked newspapers or towels.

Japanese investors eye art and antiques

Japanese Buy Up Art

Art and antiques are the next targets for Japanese investors, as they pay record prices for second-rate works. According to Art & Antiques magazine, a Japanese investor paid $7.5 million for a Van Gogh that insiders dismissed as "dreadful."

Special Insurance

ledgeable. Also make sure your precious objects have recent appraisals.

Prison Art

Youngest Collector

An 11-year-old English boy named James

Harries is perhaps the world's youngest antiques collector and dealer. He picked up a 200-pound Staffordshire cow for 10 pence when he was 4 and snagged a gold lighter worth 800 pounds for 5 pence at the age 5. The precocious lad has gone into business and opened an antiques shop in Cardiff, South Wales.

Smart Improvements

Improvement projects that pay off in home sales include new paint, bath and kitchen remodels, screened porch, upgraded light fixtures, landscaping, skylights and attic and ceiling fans. New wallpaper and carpet also improve home sales.

Hints About Tints

According to Alexandra Stoddard, author of "Alexandra Stoddard's Book of Color" (Doubleday), color plays an important role in your interior environment. Blue is a calming choice for a bedroom. Yellow brightens up dark hallways, as does white. Primary shades should be tempered with white borders and used in sunny rooms.

Well-designed kitchens should be a reflection of the family's needs

Think about how you use the kitchen in your house.

If the kids do their homework at the counter while Mom cooks dinner, if you tack the monthly bills up on the refrigerator and if it's the place for family powwows, your kitchen is a lot more than a place to churn out dinner.

It's the center of your home. And if it's cramped, poorly lit and badly laid out, your kitchen is not serving your family's needs.

More than ever, kitchen design reflects the room's importance.

On the design front, the sleek Eurostyle kitchens we loved a few years ago have taken on a homier, sophisticated country look.

Taking the best of features of Eurostyle (smart use of space and improved storage) and combining them with cozier design elements, kitchens look less like high-tech laboratories and more like a place where a family might actually want to spend time. The look is clean, but with a more human touch.

Look for flowing design — the cooking area opens out to dining nooks and sitting areas so the cook isn't shut away from family members of guests.

Cheerful colors reign, and so does plenty of bleached wood. The old-style glass-front cabinets people were tearing out a few years ago are in favor again. Dark wood cabinets are counters are being bleached and restained for a lighter look. For a more modern twist, designers are bleaching wood and staining it with a light wash of color, such as blue or purple.

Green is the newest color to return to the kitchen. Not the dull avocado green of the '70s, but rich shades of hunter, seafoam or bottle green to accent countertops, floors and tiles.

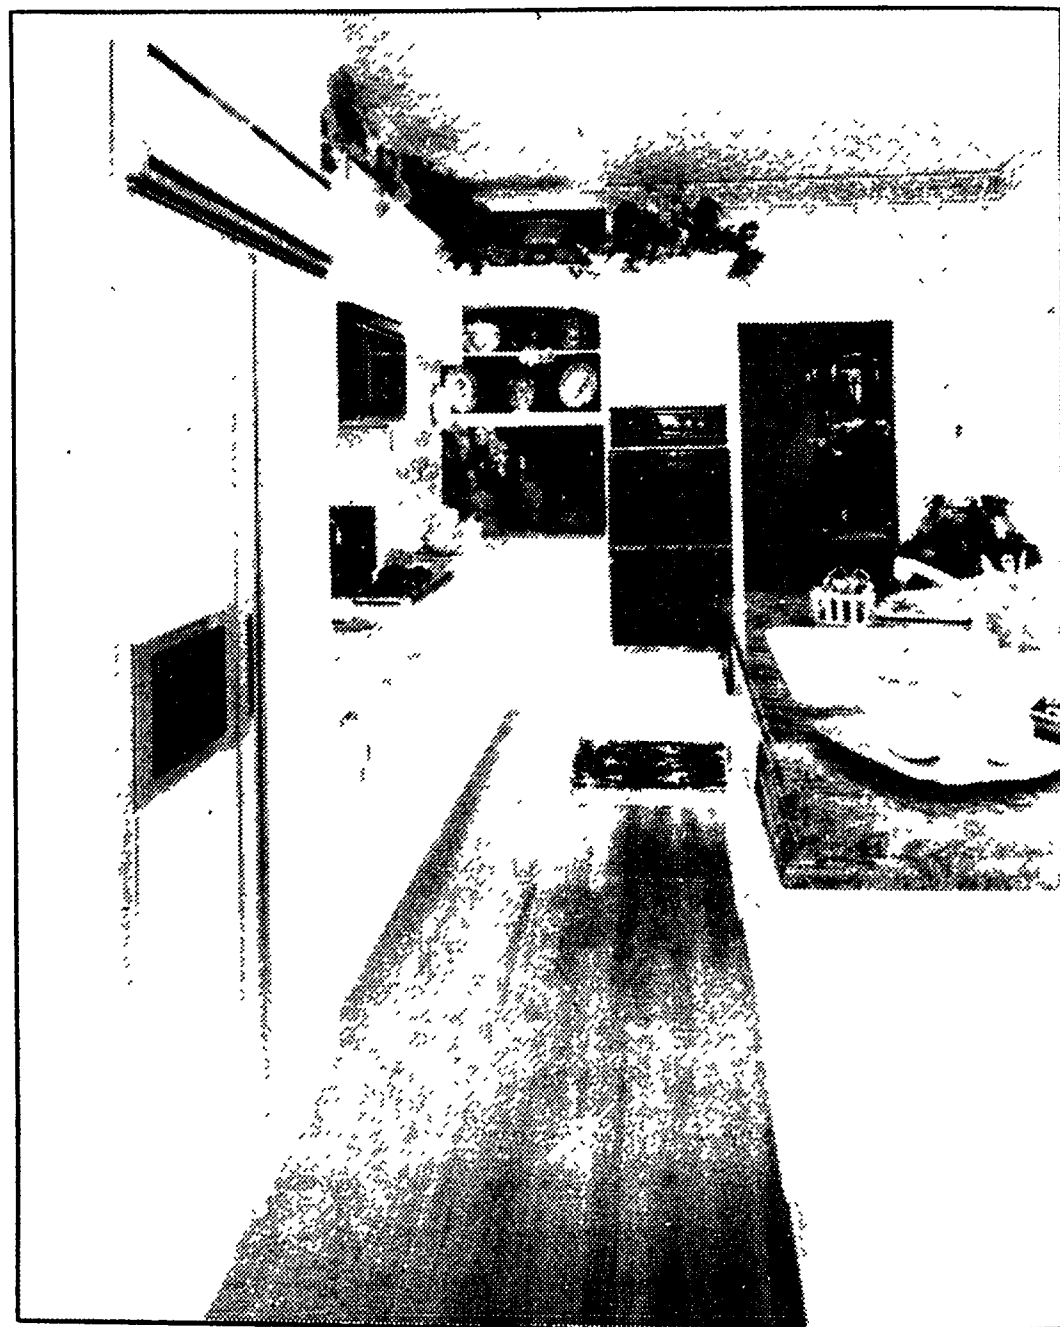

Much more than an afterthought, dining areas are also incorporated in kitchen design. Many new kitchens include a generous dining table and comfortable chairs, as well as counter seating.

Acknowledging that the kitchen is also a place for the family to congregate, designers are incorporating sitting areas, complete with rugs, big sofas and overstuffed chairs — even a cabinet for the kids' toys.

But despite the profusion of homey details, the emphasis is still on convenience and organization. Pots need not be lost in the never-never world of the bottom cabinet, and you don't have to root through the pantry for a jar of oregano. Cabinets and drawers with adjustable dividers, roll-out shelves and lazy Susans keep cooking utensils and food accessible.

You'll also find work spaces to accommodate more than one cook. Kitchen islands are still popular, and the coming trend is varying counter heights. For average-size women, the average 36-inch-high counter is ideal, but kids work better at 30 to 32 inches, and taller family members are more comfortable with counter that are 42 inches high.

Appliances keep a low profile. Functional stainless steel is a popular finish, but designers are also finishing dishwashers and refrigerators to blend in with the cabinetry.

Appliances will also be moved to more convenient spots. For example, one designer likes to put the dishwasher near the table, where plates can be scraped and loaded with a minimum of hassle.

Lighting is another element that used to be overlooked. Make the most of whatever natural light is available (you can even add a skylight or a garden window over the sink).

Then shed light on work areas. The idea is to install lighting to illuminate work areas, not the back of your head, which will cause you to work in your own shadow. Overhead lighting should be supplemented with task lighting that illuminates work stations.

Track lighting is an easy-to-install do-it-yourself remedy. Under-cabinet lighting and soffit lighting help improve light generally. And don't overlook sources such as an exhaust hood over the cooking range.

Suggestions for staying cool this summer

You don't have to move into an igloo to survive a severe summer. Stay cool as a cucumber by investing in one or more of the following:

- Insulation: Beef up your home's capacity to stay cool by adding insulation. Areas to check include the attic, sidewalls, floor, garage, crawl spaces and heating/cooling ducts.

- Central air-conditioning: Buy a high-efficiency air-conditioning system if you want to keep the whole house cool. Check the Seasonal Energy Efficiency Rating before buying. Those over nine are excellent, while rankings of seven or less indicate the air conditioner consumes a greater amount of electricity and is thus more costly to operate.

- Fans: Today's fans are as fashionable and economical as they are famous. The gamut runs from colorful personal fans that can be clipped to a desktop to romantic ceiling fans that enhance room decor while generating a breeze. Whole-house fans draw fresh air through your entire dwelling.

- Room air conditioners: Need to cool only one or two rooms? Invest in a room air conditioner that's easy both to install and to maintain.

- Dehumidifiers: Home owners weary of sticky summer days can get relief with a dehumidifier. Though they don't produce coolness, dehumidifiers remove the dampness from the air.

- Shades: Shut out the sun the old-fashioned way: Simply pull down the shades. Today's versions are super-energy efficient and right in step with interior design trends.

Freeze, dry or can that summer produce

No need to stash a magazine of mason jars for those unrelenting housebound winters. Pioneer times are over. Just the same, there is something deliciously soulful about living off your own labors.

Savored during the growing season, homegrown fruits and vegetables have an uncanny zing on the palate. Why not extend that pleasure year-round? Get into freezing, drying or canning your particularly bountiful harvests.

A pivotal issue to remember before planting — all vegetables are not created equal. Some lend themselves to preserving better than others. And you may as well grow varieties that your grocer doesn't stock.

To get the lowdown on these "peas of a different color," invest in "The Cook's Garden," a lovely and useful new book from Rodale by Shepherd and Ellen Ogden. It takes you step by step from soil preparation to savory dishes.

Nothing is prettier on the shelf or more touching as a gift than homemade goodies in attractive jars. A good book on preserving will save you time, trouble and disappointment. Comprehensive and reliable is Sunset magazine's "Canning and Preserving."

Be sure to think about eventual uses as you select your recipes. Don't confine yourself to bread-and-butter pickles when a whole world of salsas, pestos, salads and antipastos await you.

"Small-batch canning" is attuned to weekend farmers with little spare time on their hands. You will have no trouble locating quick pickling and compoting recipes. As you work out canning recipes by the jar, you will find you can process your cucumbers, zucchinis and peaches almost as fast as they ripen.

Another advantage of preparing small batches is the flavor flexibility. Each effort can vary slightly in ingredients.

Some vegetables are easily packed in herbed oils. The non-acid ones require a vinegar soaking first. Experiment with different oils — olive, hazelnut, walnut and so forth. Salad lovers will enjoy the following cucumbers prepared in marinade.

These pickled cucumbers taste more like marinated vegetables than sour pickles. They can be served as a condiment, but they also make wonderful additions to salads, and their oil can be used for dressing. For best flavor, use extra-virgin or virgin olive oil.

Important note: Oil will destroy the seal on the canning jars, so take special care to wipe clean the rims of the jars before setting the lids in place.

SALAD PICKLES BY THE JAR

2 cups sliced cucumbers
1/2 cup thinly sliced red pepper
1 tablespoon plus 1/2 teaspoon pickling salt

Approximately 1 cup white vinegar
1 cup extra-virgin olive oil
1 teaspoon sugar
1/2 teaspoon crushed red pepper
1 clove garlic
1 tablespoon fresh oregano, or 1 teaspoon dried

Yields 1 pint.
Combine sliced cucumbers, red pepper and 1 tablespoon salt. If you are making more than 1 pint of pickles, increase salt up to a total of 2 tablespoons only. Toss to mix well. Add cold water to cover. Let stand for 3 hours, then drain. Rinse if cucumbers taste salty, and drain again.

Pack cucumbers and peppers into clean pint jar. Add vinegar to cover. Place lid on the jar and set aside for 2 to 3 days. (The exact timing isn't critical, but after 5 days or so the cucumbers will become mushy.) Drain off vinegar.

Combine olive oil, the remaining 1/2 teaspoon salt, sugar and red pepper in saucepan and heat to 190 F, stirring to dissolve sugar. Into fresh, hot, sterile pint jar, pack garlic, oregano and pickled cucumbers and peppers. Pour hot oil over vegetables, leaving 3/4-inch headroom. Cover with lid and screw-band. If the jar does not seal on its own, store in the refrigerator.

From Harrowsmith magazine.

Forays into freezing should be taken on with seal-a-meal appliance and labeling device on hand. Think about time-saving combinations and configurations.

A selection of favorite vegetables pared and frozen together will make homemade soup a breeze. The same mixtures can be used for pasta primavera. Some sauce recipes call for onion, carrot and herb bases that can be partially prepared and then frozen.

Apples, peaches and berries can be sliced, sugared and then frozen in pie pans. Once they are frozen, remove the pan. They will be ready to be put into crust and baked.

If you ever have priced dried tomatoes, you will be ready with a dehydrator when the beefeaters erupt in your garden. All those easy but chic Italian recipes will be inexpensively yours if you use the following recipe.

If you use Roma or plum tomato halves, there are no seeds to contend with, but any type of ripe tomato will do for this recipe from Sunset.

DRIED TOMATOES IN OIL

3 pounds ripe tomatoes
2 teaspoons salt
2 6-inch sprigs dry rosemary or 1 tablespoon dry leaves (see note)

1-1/4 cups olive oil, approximately Yield: 3 pounds fresh tomatoes make about 6 ounces (1 pint) dried tomatoes.

Wash tomatoes. Slice length-wise almost completely in half. Lay them with cut side up and sprinkle with salt.

To dry in dehydrator, place tomatoes, cut side up, about 1 inch apart on dehydrator rack. Put in 125 F dehydrator until individual tomatoes shrivel to flattish, small ovals and feel dry to the touch but flexible, not brittle, from 17 to 23 hours.

To dry in oven, set tomatoes, cut side up, on wire racks placed in 2 shallow 1-by-15 inch pans. Bake at 200 F until tomatoes feel and look as described for dehydrator method, from 7 to 9 hours.

Pack dried tomatoes loosely in a 1- to 1-1/2-pint jar with rosemary. Pour in oil to cover tomatoes (they may mold if exposed to air).

The tomatoes are good to eat right away, or store in the refrigerator. Use as long as oil tastes fresh.

From The San Diego Tribune.

This salad contains the perfect combination of flavors. The basil, tomatoes and mozzarella cheese complement each other.

SICILIAN TOMATO SALAD

Lettuce leaves
1 medium-size red onion, sliced
1/2 cup shredded mozzarella cheese
3 tablespoons olive oil
1 tablespoon red-wine vinegar
1-1/4 teaspoons basil leaves, crushed
1 garlic clove, crushed
Anchovy fillet, minced
1/4 teaspoon salt
Yields 4 to 6 servings.

Remove stem ends from tomatoes; slice. Line serving platter with lettuce. Arrange tomatoes and onions on top. Sprinkle with cheese; set aside.

To make dressing, combine oil, vinegar, basil, garlic, anchovy and salt. Pour over tomatoes. Garnish with additional anchovies, if desired. Let stand at least 15 minutes before serving.

From The San Diego Tribune.

This salsa is rather mild. For a hotter version, use more chili peppers and proportionately fewer sweet green peppers. For nachos, cover corn chips with grated cheese and salsa and broil till cheese melts. Or make a Mexican torte by layering salsa, tortillas, refried beans (or ground beef) and cheese in a pie plate. Bake for about 25 minutes and serve hot.

GARDENER'S SALSA

24 cups, or approximately 12 pounds, quartered ripe tomatoes
2 cups white vinegar
1 cup finely diced hot chili pepper
1 cup finely diced sweet green pepper
3 onions, finely diced
1 tablespoon salt or more to taste
Yields approximately 8 pints.

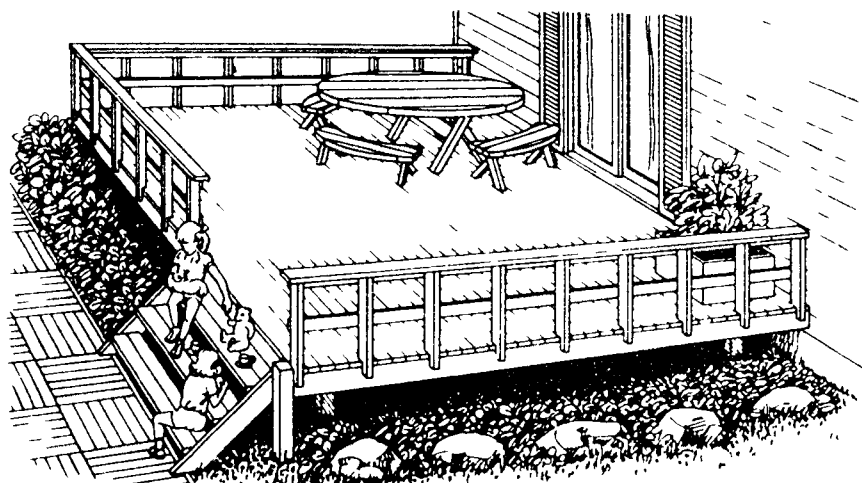

In enameled or stainless-steel saucepan, combine tomatoes with vinegar. Cover and cook until tomatoes are very soft, about 45 minutes, stirring occasionally. Puree briefly in batches in a blender or food processor; tomatoes should be slightly chunky.

Return pureed tomatoes to saucepan and add chili peppers, green peppers and onions. Simmer until salsa thickens, about 1 hour. Add salt to taste.

Ladle hot salsa into hot, clean pint jars, leaving 1/2-inch headroom. Seal. Process in boiling water canner for 15 minutes. Let cool undisturbed for 12 hours. Check seals. Store in cool, dry place.

Plant wisely to attract wildlife in backyard

Planting a variety of trees and shrubs that will attract a diversity of birds and animals may actually help reduce wildlife damage.

How? Michigan State University Extension wildlife specialist Glenn Dudderrar explains that a diverse habitat attracts a variety of animal life without necessarily encouraging large numbers of any one species.

"This makes it easier to use taste repellents or other control measures to prevent serious damage to landscape plants or structures," he suggests.

With a little luck, a varied backyard habitat might attract an occasional predator, such as a fox or a hawk or an owl, that will eliminate some rabbits or mice.

"Some people find it hard to accept the arrival of a predator in the backyard," Dudderrar observes. "In the winter, I often get calls from people who want to know how to get rid of a hawk that's preying on the birds at their feeders. But a hawk is just like any other bird—it's attracted to the backyard by the readily available food source. It's just that it feeds a little higher in the food chain."

Most of the birds and animals present in the fall don't make it through the winter, he points out. Food shortages, disease, accidents and predators all take their toll. Those that die to nourish a predator such as a hawk or a fox have at least served that purpose.

To attract wildlife to your backyard, Dudderrar suggests planting a variety of trees, shrubs, ground covers, perennials and annuals that provide food and cover for a wide range of animals year round. At the same time as this diversity increases wildlife activity, it may actually decrease wildlife damage to certain susceptible plants.

For instance, planting other spring or summer fruit-bearing trees or shrubs in the yard for birds to feed on may reduce the feeding pressure on a backyard cherry tree. Bird damage to a cherry crop can be almost total, Dudderrar says, but measures to protect the cherries against birds stand a better chance of success if other food sources are available.

Likewise, planting sumac gives rabbits something to eat besides the bark from backyard apple trees. Rabbits readily consume sumac bark in winter, especially if you use taste repellents to make the apple bark taste nasty. And girdled sumacs vigorously re-sprout in the spring.

"No repellent, no matter how horrible it makes something taste, is going to repel an animal into starvation," Dudderrar points out. "But a repellent can be very effective in steering an animal to an alternative food source."

Making your yard more attractive to wildlife may, of course, result in some new problems with wildlife. You have to decide whether the benefits of having the wildlife around outweigh the problems.

"It's the trade-off," Dudderrar suggests. "You can decide to manage your yard or lawn and deal with lawn pests, or you can trade some of those problems for possible wildlife problems."

One of these is the chance that birds or animals will fall or climb down your chimney. Screening chimneys and attic vents and sealing other openings around the eaves of the house will keep out birds, bats, raccoons and squirrels. Storing wood away from the house so that it won't provide cover for rodents looking for an easy way inside is another good idea.

Among the benefits of having wildlife and the opportunity to learn firsthand about animal behavior.

"Any approach toward management will have its pleasures and its problems," Dudderrar concludes. "It's a matter of trade-offs, no matter which way you go."

Flowers find fame in American folklore

When your garden is important to you, the plants under your care take on personalities.

There's the fragile hybrid tea rose, for example, that you have to baby into bloom. Or the hardy daylily that thrives on neglect.

Not surprisingly, flowers have found their way into the hearts — and history — of their human caretakers; many are immortalized in popular folklore.

These examples are from "Garden Flower Folklore" by Laura C. Martin (Globe Pequot Press):

- Hyacinth. According to mythology, hyacinths originated as a result of the grief of Apollo, king of the gods. Apollo and Hyacinthus, son of the king of Sparta, were playing a game similar to horseshoes. Zephyr, the god of wind, was jealous and caused a metal ring to hit Hyacinthus and kill him.

Broken-hearted, Apollo created the hyacinth flower out of the blood of his friend.

Some even say the petals look like the Greek syllables ai ai, meaning "woe."

- Iris. The three large petals of this flower symbolize faith, wisdom and valor. Charles IV (1294-1328) is thought to be the first ruler to include the iris on the French banner. It continued to appear from time to time on the French banner and is the basis for the French fleur-de-lis.

- Lily of the valley. This graceful flower is regarded as a symbol of Christ's second coming and is often called ladder to heaven or Jacob's tears; it also is mentioned in the Song of Solomon in the Bible. Mary's tears is yet another name for lily of the valley; legend says that when Mary cried at the cross, her tears became this flower.

- Verbena. The genus name, verbenia, is from herbena, from the two Latin words, herba and bona, meaning "good plant." It also has been called simple's joy because it was used so extensively for healing. (An ancient meaning for the word simple is medicinal plant or herb.)

Decorating tips for children's bathrooms

When creating a stimulating, comfortable home environment for a child, most parents focus on the nursery. A spot deserving equal attention is the bathroom.

The place where many happy hours are spent building castles from soapsuds and learning good grooming habits, a child's bathroom can be decorated with flair and fun. A plus for parents: Daily rituals such as bathing and teethbrushing become enjoyable pastimes when performed in a colorful, child-friendly environment.

From the tile on the walls to the toys in the tub, the elements found in one Houston bathroom make it a personal, inviting place. For her 5-year-old son Taylor, designer Cathy Chapman used playful yet practical materials and accessories to create a bathroom that is as whimsical as it is functional.

The designer's goal was to preserve the special characteristics of her 60-year-old house while updating it.

"I wanted to keep the essence of the 1920s, yet make it apparent that the room was new," she says. Chapman achieved her purpose through the imaginative use of tile and by refurbishing fixtures.

To complement the room's original black-and-white basketweave patterned ceramic tile floor and turquoise border, which were in good condition, she selected bold black tile for the walls. Above the black is a ribbon of slanted tiles — in five bright colors — that runs around the room and ties the package together.

Chapman chose the vivid border to give the room zip, to complement the other hues in the room and to bring in some red, the color that dominates Taylor's bedroom.

She also knew the border would be versatile.

"I designed the bathroom thinking it would be just as appropriate when Taylor was 15, with a change of shower curtain and accessories."

The project's youthful flair was contributed by the 5-year-old, who helped select a bright Mickey Mouse motif shower curtain, hand towels, toothbrush holder, cup and waste can.

"Taylor calls it 'his' bathroom," Chapman says. "He really likes the Mickey Mouse theme."

The tub and pedestal sink were repainted and the hardware rechromed to make them fresh but in keeping with the home's character.

One undesirable element of the original room was its gas wall furnace, which Chapman had removed and replaced with shelves for toys and books. A simple cabinet was added above the toilet to stow away grooming supplies.

Chapman cautions parents against using costly materials in a way that could date a room.

"I wouldn't spend money on anything that was too juvenile-looking," she says, adding that not only would something such as teddy bear-patterned tile limit a home's resale value, it also would restrict what can be done with the room in subsequent years.

She also advises using safe, durable materials. Speaking as both a mother and a designer, she says, "You shouldn't be worried about stuff getting splashed."

It's up to parents to make the bathroom experience as safe as it is enjoyable for their children. Keep these tips in mind:

- To prevent falls, use a non-skid pad or adhesive strips in the tub and a rubber-backed rug or non-slippery mat for the floor.

- Cover the faucet with a special cap or washcloth to prevent accidental injury to the head or body.

- Check the thermostat on your water heater to be sure it is set lower than 130 F and won't release scalding water. And always test the water first.

- Don't leave a tub with water in it.

- Keep tears to a minimum with a shampoo shield. A hand-held toy shower is useful for rinsing.

- Have bath supplies close at hand by using an organizer that hangs over the side of the tub. Also, keep towels within arm's reach — you don't want to have to leave the child for a moment.

- A step stool makes it easy for the child to climb into the tub for a bath and to reach the sink for washing hands and brushing teeth.

- Cabinets containing medicine, toiletries, personal care products and cleaning equipment should be latched.

- Keep the toilet bowl lid down and don't leave disinfectants in the water in the bowl or tank.

- Never leave a child unattended in the water.

Trees are sensitive to changes in grade

Grade changes that damage landscape trees usually occur during major construction. But something as simple as building a raised flower bed around a tree can kill it.

Michigan State University horticulture specialist Curt Peterson explains that raising the grade around a tree—that is, raising the soil level by covering the roots with additional soil—disrupts the delicate relationship between the roots and the surrounding soil. Adding soil essentially suffocates the roots, Peterson says, by interfering with oxygen and carbon dioxide exchange between the

Lowering the grade around a tree destroys large quantities of the feeder roots responsible for water and nutrient absorption. It may also damage the large support roots and leave the tree vulnerable to being blown over by high winds.

"Some trees are more sensitive to grade changes than others," Peterson observes. "Most trees will tolerate a few inches of light, sandy or loamy soil over their roots, but certain species—such as beech, yellow poplar, pine and dogwood—are very sensitive to even small amounts of a sandy fill."

The best way to protect a tree when raising the grade is to build a dry well around it. Then put down, in a wagon wheel spoke pattern, 4-6 inch agricultural drain tile on the natural grade of the land with vertical vent tiles to permit free air exchange between the roots and the soil. The tile needs to drain water away from the tree so it doesn't collect in the well, and the well itself needs to be large enough to provide plenty of room for future tree growth.

Place several inches of small stones (not limestone, which would raise the soil pH) over the tile before filling with light, porous soil, Peterson advises.

To protect trees when construction lowers the grade, terrace the soil, with all cuts in the natural grade made outside the tree's drip line. Then build a retaining wall to hold the soil above the cut in place around the roots.

"Tree roots extend well beyond the drip line," Peterson notes, "but staying outside the drip line prevents damage to a major portion of the feeder and structural roots."

Make a backyard 'entertainment center'

Decks, patios add spice to summers

Some homeowners rate an entertainment space by its television, videocassette recorder and gallery of games.

But then, they haven't looked outside lately. Because if they had, they'd see that the party has clearly moved onto the deck or patio.

Maybe the crowd is barbecuing burgers or unwinding in the Jacuzzi. Stretched out on chaise lounges that look as though they belong, well, indoors, a more intimate grouping might engage in spirited debate over a bottle of wine.

Even solo activities such as gardening, reading or feet-up contemplation become celebrations in such positively scenic surroundings.

But the fireworks can't begin until the decisions are made, the cement is dry and the plants are all in place.

With so many shapes, designs, materials and furnishings available, and at least a dozen different ways to construct either a deck or patio, it's no wonder many homeowners find acquiring and furnishing one is, in itself, something of a party.

Most start with a plan they've found in a home improvement magazine, manual or book requested through mail order or dreamed up alone or with the help of an architect or contractor. Consider these trends:

- Bi-level decks: The ultimate in open-air living, double-decker decks create separate outdoor rooms. With such a setup, the chef never has to step over sunbathers when it's time to start dinner.

- The instant deck: Thanks to today's modular components, superfast electric hammers and power saws, all you need are a few neighbors and a free weekend to build a moderate-size deck. Once the lumber is cut to size, finishing is similar to assembling a gigantic puzzle.

- The canopied deck: Some homeowners don't want their decks on full display, but feel an enclosed porch is too claustrophobic. One popular solution: Surround part of the entire deck with a latticework arbor. It walls offer the perfect spot for training roses and, when constructed around a hot tub, give bathers much-appreciated privacy.

- The poolside patio: To keep the pool and

GARDEN TIPS

Keep flowers such as marigolds, petunias, portulaca, verbena or basil around the base of potted vegetables to ensure cool, damp roots.

Container Vegetable Gardening

- Use smaller vegetables, such as cherry tomatoes, herbs and baby carrots.
- Group sun-loving veggies, such as tomatoes, in sunny spots; sun-sensitive varieties — parsley or spinach — belong in dappled sunlight.
- Surround container with pots of flowers to keep vegetable roots cool and protected.
- Use a combination of planting mix and soil.

spa from looking like overgrown bathtubs, many designers now plan patios in conjunction with water areas. Repetition in curves, materials, landscaping and color helps create a unified outdoor living area that's aesthetically pleasing.

- A patio by the brick: Bricks are a patio builder's blocks and a level bed of sand his play area. Choose a pattern or create your own, pick your bricks and border and you're ready for assembly. The bonus? You won't need a single trowel of mortar.

There are hundreds of other options. For a deck, consider the variety of plank widths and stains available in pressure-treated wood and what each will require in terms of upkeep.

And, while decks are either rigid rectangles or squares, there aren't any written-in-stone rules for patios. Keep an open mind when considering shapes and materials, which can be anything from terrazzo to stream-smoothed pebbles.

Then, there's the matter of construction. You can do it yourself with a kit or prefabricated supplies from the hardware store, or leave the work to an architect or contractor. Either can custom-design a patio or deck that fits right in with your home's period or styling.

Once you've built your outdoor floor, deck out your deck with casual, comfortable furniture. From rugged or art deco to the newest modern twists, today's garden furniture is truly carefree, thanks to the new finishes that protect and preserve it.

- Tubular steel: Let it rain, let it pour. Chairs and tables made of tubular steel and their accompanying cushions — some styles reversible — can take almost anything man or Mother Nature can dish up. A permanent finish and fabric that shed water like a duck help these pieces remain unscathed.

- Teak: Teak benches and swings are mainstays in any grand garden and work equally well on a deck. Teak ages gracefully and can survive both sun and storm year after year.

- Wrought iron and wicker: Victorian-ize your deck or patio with wrought iron or wicker — both classics that have been improved with 20th-century technology. Super frames and finishes ensure you'll be able to pass today's take-offs down to the grandchildren.

- Molded plastic: Some of the most versatile outdoor furnishings are constructed of molded or extruded plastic that has been coated with resin for protection. Look for comfortable ottomans and dining tables with leaves.

- Aluminum: Remember that beat-up folding lounge chair with the straps that always ripped? With their baked-in, colorful finishes and anchored strapping, today's versions are a far cry from such backyard embarrassments.

- Built-ins: Benches, tables, plant containers and storage space can be built right into a redwood deck for the ultimate in streamlined, modular decorating.

Once you've purchased and arranged the furniture, add some extras before signing off on your new outdoor addition:

- The deck itself: Equip it with an umbrella, grill, bar or mini refrigerator if you'll be dining alfresco frequently. If you're a gardener, add dots of living color with container plants.

- Beef up the surroundings: Landscaping, reflecting pools, lawn ornaments, pathways, fountains, gates and artistic illumination with outdoor lighting can only improve the view from the deck or patio.

Or work from the inside out by installing glassy French doors. The new view of the deck will no doubt entice those inside out of the house and into the great outdoors.

12 alternatives to lashing out at your kid.

build up to the point where you feel like lashing out—STOP!
And try any of these simple alternatives.

You'll feel better . . . and so will your child.

- 1. Take a deep breath. And another. Then remember you are the adult . . .
- 2. Close your eyes and imagine you're hearing what your child is about to hear.
- 3. Press your lips together and count to 10. Or better yet, to 20.
- 4. Put your child in a time-out chair. (Remember the rule: one time-out minute for each year of age.)
- 5. Put yourself in a time-out chair. Think about why you are angry: Is it your child, or is your child simply a convenient target for your anger?
- 6. Phone a friend.
- 7. If someone can watch the children, go outside and take a walk.
- 8. Take a hot bath or splash cold water on your face.
- 9. Hug a pillow.
- 10. Turn on some music. Maybe even sing along.
- 11. Pick up a pencil and write down as many helpful words as you can think of. Save the list.
- 12. Write for prevention information: National Committee for Prevention of Child Abuse, Box 2866L, Chicago, IL 60690.

Rosie, New Kids and Oz to debut as Saturday morning series

By Donna Gooch

ABC is looking to the future as evidenced by its early announcement of some of the new series for kids. Three original half-hour shows will debut in September as part of the network's Saturday morning children's line-up.

First up is The Wizard Of Oz, an animated adventure based on the characters from the classic theatrical film. In this series, Dorothy returns to Oz to help her friends overcome the Wicked Witch, who has magically come back to life.

A Roseanne semi-spin-off is Little Rosey—the animated fantasy adventures of a 10-year-old Roseanne Barr. The escapades, both real and imaginary, take place in her family life and neighborhood.

The New Kids On The Block, a live-action/animated series, capitalizes on the mega-popularity of the young singing group.

The award-winning ABC Weekend

Specials will also return for the 14th consecutive year early in 1991.

One new special includes Ralph S. Mouse, the third in the trilogy of books about a mouse and his motorcycle from award-winning author Beverly Cleary.

Another well-known writer's work will be showcased in Judy Blume's humorous slice-of-life story Otherwise Known As Sheila The Great.

The ABC children's program schedule will continue to include a series of public service announcements on nutrition, computer literacy and anti-drug activities.

Also, for the third straight year, One-To-One self-esteem messages from prime-time network actors and actresses will be featured.

Series making an encore for next fall include The New Adventures Of Winnie The Pooh, Slimer And The Real Ghostbusters, Beetlejuice, The Bugs Bunny & Tweety Show and A Pup Named Scooby Doo.

Ratings prove nothing's better than good ol' home movies

By ANNE WHEELER

What started out as a Thanksgiving week treat last year has surpassed "Roseanne" and even "The Cosby Show" to shoot up to the No. 1 spot in the Nielsens.

"America's Funniest Home Videos," which began as a one-hour special last November, has been holding its own as the top-rated show of the season. Just two short months after its premiere, the show was given its very own time slot Sunday nights on ABC.

The program features home movie clips, submitted by anyone, of actual funny and unexpected events they have captured on film.

"I think the nice thing about what we do is that we've asked America to produce the show for us," said executive producer Vin Di Bona, who had also been producer for the network's "Animal Crack-Ups."

The most costly thing about producing the series is paying the staff for viewing the tapes. "The interesting thing about screening a tape is that you're never sure where anything good is on the tape," Di Bona said. "There's also the possibility of spending three hours looking through a man's pencil collection, which we've done."

He said two people are assigned to each screening room, and they kind of feed off of each other. That energy quickly spreads through the staff, too. "You'll hear folks laugh like crazy down this hall, so everybody moves to that room. Then you'll hear a laugh in this room. So it's really kind of a fun place to work because there's a lot of laughs all day long."

Bob Saget, who also stars in ABC's Friday night comedy "Full House," serves as host of the show. He said that his duty on "America's Funniest Home Videos" is just a natural extension of the stand-up comedy he has been doing.

As he has stressed on the show numerous times, Saget said it's easy to tell staged videos, which would never be used. "We don't want people to go out and create their video if it's going to hurt an animal or a child, because the only show they're going to wind up on is, like 'People's Court,' or 'America's Most Wanted.' They're not going to wind up on this show."

The motivation for people to send in the video tapes is evenly divided. Fifty percent want the $10,000 offered for the best video from each episode, and the other half just want to see themselves on television.

To submit your amusing home movies, send them to "America's Funniest Home Videos," P.O. Box 4333, Hollywood, Calif. 90078. If you want your tapes returned, include $2 for return postage.

Cable Comments

By LARK L. SAMOUELIAN
Executive Director,
SW Oakland Cable Comm.

The term "Freedom of expression" should create an instant picture in one's mind. Although freedom means "the condition of being free; exemption from any burden, duty, anxiety," under what conditions does it truly prevail? Individual bias within creative license will align or alienate every onlooker. This experience, be it through speech, actions or thoughtful reflection, is an exercise of 'one' man or woman. No longer may one hide behind the guise of 'I'm only one vote, I don't matter.' You do matter; you are making a significant difference.

SAMOUELIAN

Last week I mentioned that we would bust loose this nation's best kept secret...YOU. Not only are you the secret, but you also are the solution. You have the opportunity to become active at the same time as basic freedoms are being fought for throughout the world.

Now every citizen can become involved in the media from the inception of an idea to participating on a local citizen committee, to voting and then helping to actuate the change.

Through the advent of cable franchises, noncommercial television channels have been made available to the public, to education and to government. Programs are then "cablecast" throughout the community. ("Cablecast" is the terminology for the transmission of the video and audio signal via cable). Cable franchises are wired for distribution of programs within a franchise area. The program offerings are considered to be "narrowcast" within this specific geographical area. Interconnection of cable systems and use of satellite transmission allow for global viewing. However, it is common practice for local programs to be physically transported from one cable system to another by a person. This practice is referenced as "bicycling."

An individual may create their own television program and speak as they feel on any subject. However, one of the most popular programs on local channels throughout the United States is the coverage of city council meetings. This is community service in the purest form. Council agendas include public questions and comments as well as a standard procedure for public hearing.

Cable Channel 10 now hosts the coverage of Canton City Council Meetings. Those residents who are unable to attend the council meetings can stay informed while enjoying the comforts of home. Watching your council, city staff and active residents sharing their perspective on issues will go a long way to familiarize one of the intricacies of your community. Watching the meeting from a distance does help clarify the concept of individual views being transformed into a working picture for the good of the entire community.

Another reason to watch CATV CH. 10 coverage of the Canton City Council Meetings is to enable you to value history in the making. As you view the meeting, a relationship between you and the city will develop. This is an inherent response to the intimacy of a local access channel. The only reason these channels exist is because the community believes in the exercise of the freedom of expression and are supportive of the opportunity to build a greater understanding of "Community."

Council meetings are not edited. They may be lengthy and they may be controversial or they may be routine and quiet. They do reflect the state of the present.

Beyond the council meetings exists another channel where each resident may have the privilege of creating one's own television program, public service announcement or editorial comment...CATV Channel 15. The current programs of Channels 15 and 8 are listed within this television guide on each day.

How can you exercise your freedom of expression? Or more simply, how can you get on TV? How do you get your show in the Suburban Cable Weekly? There are television workshops available through the cable company, Omnicom. Workshops are designed with a "studio" emphasis for one month and then a "remote/on-location" for another month. Class size is kept to fifteen to ensure personalized attention.

The one-night-a-week classes find each participant ready to determine how best to proceed in developing an idea into a finished show. Every class produces a television program for a specific CATV audience. Each person contributes to the new skills and potential expertise possible within a production team. There is a place for everyone. Each person naturally gravitates before or behind the camera. People are conversationalists or technically curious or both.

Graduating workshop residents become certified by MetroVision's staff after volunteering to work on a television program already in progress. This step may be one of the most rewarding. The family of Community Access Television Volunteers is one of the most fascinating group of personalities I have ever met. Production teams consist of folks of all ages, nationalities and professions. Whoever you are on the outside is of no significance. It is how you interact and contribute to the television show that counts. Deep and abiding friendships are established with each new show. People find a real sense of fulfillment in learning valuable skills while also contributing to someone else's quest. It is fascinating to note that personal views are tempered as respect for the producers purpose takes top priority.

The new graduate will be welcomed and encouraged through every mistake while learning through 'hands on experience'. Once certified, the facilities and television equipment is available free of charge for the sole purpose of creating programming for our Community Access Channels for Farmington, Novi and Farmington Hills. Resource lists are available of several hundred active volunteers who will enjoy being part of a production crew. This list is kept current and updated with each new graduating class.

Non-profit organizations can opt to schedule a personalized workshop if there are 10-15 organizational members who would like to create a video team. Their goal should be to cover the main events of the organization and enhance the promotional efforts.

Drama delves into woman's breaking point of violence

Barbara Hershey plays cool killer

By Shelia Odak

"The show isn't just the plain telling of a story," stated actress Barbara Hershey about the CBS film Killing In A Small Town, which airs Tuesday, May 22. "It's really about the dark side of all of us. That part of all of us that could kill, and at what point does it take a person to do that."

The movie deals with a Texas housewife, Candy Morrison (played by Hershey), who is confronted by a friend over an affair Morrison has had with her husband. When the friend threatens her with an ax, Morrison takes it away from her and kills her with 41 blows. For three days after that Morrison went about her daily life before being linked to the killing. She was later acquitted on the grounds of self defense.

"It's not some story about a sweet heroine who's innocently wronged or accused of something falsely or anything like that," Hershey said. "It's really about the repression and the disassociation that everyday normal people do in their average lives. Kind of sweet cautions that will lead to repression like, what will the neighbors think; smile; have a nice day. Why that, as innocent as that sounds, can lead to being dishonest with yourself; holding back emotions, repressions and violence can erupt out of it," the actress explained.

At the time it happened, this act of violence tore apart the quiet Texas town where it took place. Even today, mention of it still arouses volatile feelings, mainly of anger and resentment toward the character Hershey portrays. Many of the citizens acted as extras in the film, which was shot near the actual site of the murder. "A lot of them (the townspeople) were saying 'Well honey, you're not going to whitewash her to me,'" Hershey stated. "I'd say, 'We're not trying to; it's more complicated than that.' I didn't want to whitewash her. I wanted to make her human."

Hershey explains that one of the reasons the citizens were so against Morrison was the emotionless face she presented to the media. "She didn't help, which is another one of the interesting aspects. She didn't smile for the reporters. She remained who she was, how she was, in spite of the effect it might have on people. She wasn't very likable in terms of the crowd. She was not a model client for her lawyers."

Hershey also emphatically states that even though the actions of this woman were almost beyond comprehension,

Morrison was not unbalanced. "She showered in the woman's (the victim's) house. She tracked footprints and blood all over the place, and yet she's not crazy. It isn't temporary insanity."

During the course of the filming Hershey was able to have a phone conversation with the real-life woman behind her character. The actress stated that she had an enormous amount of sympathy for the woman and the pain this production will cause her. "If it were going to be done, she wanted to help me understand it so it would be done well. I can't imagine she would be pleased with the show no matter how well I do. If I do well, this is going to be incredibly painful to watch, and if I do badly it will be incredibly painful for her to watch, so I can't imagine pleasing her, which is a little hard on me, but I understand."

Jameson Parker did daytime before A.J. Simon character

By Polly Vonetes

Q: I am writing to inquire about Jameson Parker of Simon And Simon fame. I always look forward to watching his shows. Any information about him would be greatly appreciated. —J.A.B., The Woodlands, Texas

A: Jameson Parker was born in Baltimore, Md., Nov. 18, 1947. His father was a career foreign service officer, and Jameson spent most of his childhood overseas. His father eventually left his job to become curator of the museum at Mount Vernon, Va., and Jameson divided his time between there and Vermont, where his mother lived. In 1972, Jameson moved to New York, where he eventually obtained work in TV commercials and off-Broadway productions. He was later cast in the daytime series Somerset, followed by the role of Brad Vernon on One Life To Live. He then began playing supporting parts in TV movies and prime-time series, before being cast as A.J. on Simon And Simon. He had been filming a new series for CBS with Bruce Boxleitner, but the series ended production before it ever aired. Jameson and his wife, Bonnie, an actress and photographer, live in Los Angeles. They have three children.

Q: Is Veronica Lake working as a waitress in the Village in New York, but with black hair? —Joyce Mongelli, Bayside, N.Y.

A: Your look-a-like, with black hair, is definitely not Veronica Lake. Miss Lake, the petite, husky-voiced blonde with the "peek-a-boo" hairstyle, died of acute hepatitis in 1973.

Q: Could you tell me if Richard Thomas (John Boy) and Steve Thomas of This Old House are related? —John Rutkowski, Rhinelander, Wis.

A: I can find nothing to indicate that Richard Thomas and Steve Thomas are related.

Jameson Parker

Q: I have been wondering about a movie I saw on HBO a few years ago. It had Kristy McNichol and Christopher (I can't remember his name) as its stars. I think the name of the movie was The Pirate Movie. Anyway, do you know any place I could write or call to order it? —Kristie Rogers, Elko, Nev.

A: The movie you request was called The Pirate Movie. Released in 1982, it starred Kristy McNichol and Christopher Atkins. Even though it did not receive rave reviews it is available on tape. If your local video store cannot order it for you, write to Home Vision, 945 Concord Place, Farmingham, Mass. 01701. They may be able to help you.

Send your questions about the world of entertainment to: Polly Vonetes, Let's Talk, P.O. Box 17748, Fort Worth, Texas 76102-0748.

HOROSCOPE

May 20 through May 26

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)

Are you devoting enough attention to your personal spirituality? Spend time for thinking about what you have and what you have to give.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)

Consider the benefits you receive from working on your art. Are you fulfilling yourself? Are you satisfied with the work and happy doing it?

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)

Honesty should be foremost on your mind. Remain true to your own feelings and let them be known unless serious danger could come of it.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)

It may be time to consider a job change if you are unhappy where you are. Visualize yourself where you want to be. You deserve better.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)

Plan a relaxing vacation that will relieve you of the stress from your job. Let co-workers know they are appreciated. Celebrate a friendship.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)

Instead of letting suspicions turn into rumors, ask for an account of that which involves you and set the record straight. Respect for you grows.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)

That job you have been putting off doing cannot wait much longer. You and all involved will feel great relief when it is done.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)

An education is not always fun and easy, but the benefits will last for the rest of your life. Pay attention to what is before you.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)

Look closely at what you are eating. The more simple and natural, the better. Take adequate time for thinking and try to make wise decisions.

ARIES (March 21-April 19)

Look for meaning immediately around you. Remind yourself often of what you truly want and work toward it every day.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)

Do not put off medical exams. Evaluate your financial status and live accordingly. Listen attentively to the problems of loved ones.

'General Hospital' should dump rock

By Candace Havens

Dear Candace: My favorite soap is General Hospital, but I am disappointed with the writing. Who cares about aliens and some stupid rock that does unreal things. Let's get on with some good writing about the people we love to hate, Lucy and Scott. If they ever take those two off, I won't watch any more. I'm kind of sick of Katherine and Robert (he could find someone better). I think he should go back to Anna. Frisco and Felicia are boring. —O.L., Coleman, Wis.

Dear Reader: While I agree with your evaluation of the alien storyline on GH, I have to say that I enjoy seeing Frisco and Felicia together. In case you haven't heard, there is a rumor that Kristina Malandro (Felicia) is pregnant and the pregnancy will be written into a GH storyline. It has also been rumored that Jack Wagner (Frisco) may indeed be the father.

I also think your assessment of Lucy Coe (Lynn Herring) and Scott Baldwin (Kin Shriner) is right on the money. Just imagine how boring it would be if these two weren't wreaking havoc in the lives of those around them.

Dear Candace: I am writing about the recent article in which Jewell Lund wrote concerning Edie Lehmann, (Katherine, GH).

I would just like to say that Lehmann has got to be the brightest new face to join General Hospital since I have been watching it, which has been eight years now. Not only is she beautiful, but she is always bubbly and full of energy, which makes the show even more fun to watch. She and Finola Hughes (Anna) are definitely the best. And, true, just as you said, anyone who can play opposite of Tristan Rogers (Robert), should win an award.

Certainly, anyone as vibrant and pretty as Lehmann, who is also very musically talented, who can come on a soap opera with virtually no acting experience and be listed as one of the top 10 best actresses after being on the show for little over a year, cannot be considered a poor actress. If someone can't see that, then they must be blind. —Melissa Reynolds, Elko, Nev.

I want to hear from you! If you have a favorite soap scenario you would like to sound off about, or a question about the soaps, write to Candace Havens, Soap Talk, P.O. Box 17748, Fort Worth, TX 76102-0748.

BITS AND PIECES

Harry Hamlin stars in thriller with Nicollette Sheridan

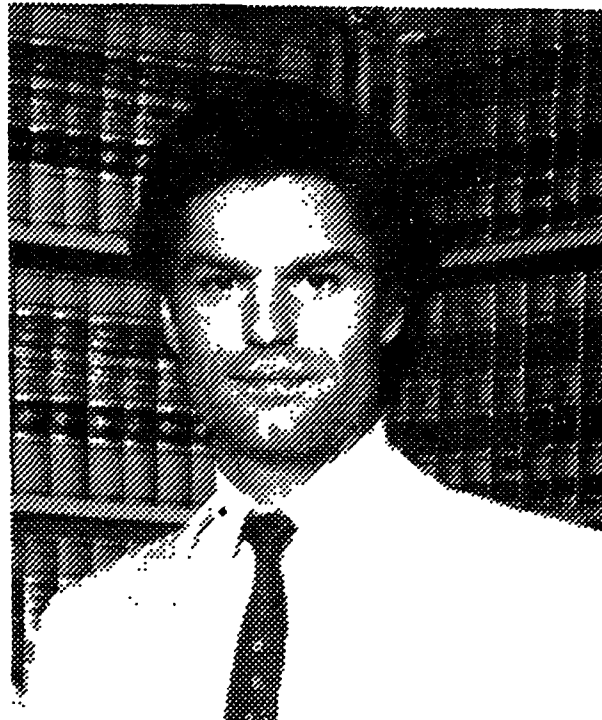

Showtime will present an original two-hour exclusive suspense thriller titled Deceptions, starring Harry Hamlin and Nicollette Sheridan. Set in southern California, this provocative mystery is scheduled to debut on the cable network in June. Robert Davi co-stars in the story of a detective who investigates the murder of a wealthy businessman.

In an unprecedented agreement, CBS Entertainment has acquired premiere broadcast rights to a group of 1989 theatrical motion pictures, all of which will air during the 1990-91 season on CBS. The deal marks the first time in a decade that a network and major theatrical studio have reached such an agreement. Among the 10 films included in the package are Born On The Fourth Of July, Field Of Dreams, Uncle Buck, Fletch Lives, K-9, The Wizard, Renegades and Shocker.

With a daily television talk show, several live concert performances a week and a book in the works, Joan Rivers decided to take a break. "So I made a movie—it was my vacation. It's fun and relaxing for me to do something different," she says of Bad Times In Beverly Hills, airing May 23 on CBS.

ABC Wide World Of Sports will telecast Coup de Hoop June 23 to find the nation's best 3-on-3 playground basketball players in the United States and Puerto Rico. Paradise Sports Promotions and Coca-Cola are major sponsors of the event. Local tournaments are being held in 95 cities this month. Regional winners will compete in the national championships on ABC.

Randy Travis leads in nominations for the 13 fan-voted categories in the TNN Music City News Country Awards airing on Monday, June 4. Travis was nominated in five categories, including Single Of The Year, Album Of The Year, Video Of The Year, Male Artist Of The Year and Entertainer Of The Year. Ricky Van Shelton, George Strait and the Statler Brothers scored with three nominations each.

Harry Hamlin

John Ritter has been set to host the American Red Cross Emergency Test special. The show airs June 7 on ABC. The interactive special, featuring a bevy of guest stars, will ask members of the audience to test themselves on a series of safety questions.

Olympic swimming Gold Medalist Matt Biondi was so taken with the discoveries he made while filming the special Dolphins, Whales And Us, he decided to do something to save the sea creatures. He gathered some friends—12 other Olympic athletes—and they formed the Delphus Foundation, a non-profit fund-raising organization dedicated to preserving ocean life.

Christopher Plummer will star in Counter Strike, an original action/adventure series premiering in July on the USA Network. This will be the first weekly television series for the veteran actor of stage and screen. Starring along with Plummer will be Simon MacCorkindale, Stephen Shellen and French actress Cyrielle Claire. The series will air each Sunday beginning July 1.

Rick Schroder says, "It seems to bother people that they can't call me Ricky, anymore. My growing up was harder for others than it was for me. But, sorry, I'm 20 and I'm no longer Ricky—I'm Rick or Richard."
