Cemetery defaced - Cops threatened

ESIAN

The group known as "Smooth Criminals" added "defacement of burial grounds" to their growing list of signed vandalism acts this weekend, spray-painting gravestones at Rural Hill Cemetery.

The group also renewed its threats against Northville city and township police officers, painting references to five officers on five of the stones, and the phrase "Cops Die" on another.

The names of one township officer and three city police were used in the attack. A nickname of Sgt. Dave Fendeleit was also painted on one of the stones.

Fendeleit is the detective heading up the "Smooth Criminal" investigation in the city, and has been the subject of at least one other spray-painted taunt by the group.

An estimated $200 in damage was done to the stones during the attack. Other phrases painted on the stones included "Smooth Criminal" and "SC."

The incident was reported by a man visiting a gravesite at the cemetery, who also observed two men leaving the scene. The witness was able to provide city police with a description of the men, and police are continuing to investigate.

"We've increased our activity" in response to the incident, said City Police Chief Rod Cannon. Cannon did not want to specify the actions police are taking, "because we don't want to tip our hand."

Because the amount of damage done was more than $100, the vandalism qualifies as a felony offense.

A person or people identifying themselves as "Smooth Criminals" also face charges of malicious destruction for an estimated $7,332 in damage done to McDonald Ford vehicles in an incident last month, and for spray-painting incidents throughout the city and township since.

The "Smooth Criminals" threatened township police several weeks ago, spray-painting the phrase "Cops Die" and a more specific threat against a police officer on township police cars and buildings.

Those responsible could face a maximum sentence of five years in prison and fines of up to $2,500 on the malicious destruction charges alone.

Ward may look to alter church site plan

By MIKE TYREE
Staff Writer

Ward Evangelical Presbyterian Church may tender a new site plan for its controversial Six Mile and Haggerty property — as opposed to pursuing a height variance from the township zoning board of appeals (ZBA), a township official said Monday.

Ward representatives have inquired about the availability of summer planning commission dates and have not asked about ZBA dates, said Planning and Zoning Administrator Carol Maise.

Ward's interest in planning commission meetings may indicate that the church will drop the height variance appeal process in favor of new site plan, Maise said.

"It does not appear they are going in the direction of the ZBA," Maise said. "They've inquired as to summer planning commission dates and since I'm the person that would take ZBA and planning commission calls, it leads me to that conclusion."

Ward requested a 20-foot height variance to the township's 48-foot height limit in an effort create a struc-

King's Mill to open doors to campaigns

By MIKE TYREE
Staff Writer

Members of the board of directors of King's Mill Cooperative Monday voted to allow election day campaigning at the township's Precinct 5 polling site.

The decision to open King's Mill to campaigning came after township attorney Ernest Essad ruled that the 18120 Jamestown polling site could not be closed to individuals attempting to disseminate campaign literature.

The board last night (Monday) agreed on the day of elections to allow solicitation and handing out of literature within 100 feet of the polling place," said Russ Rathbun, president of King's Mill Cooperative. "We will abide by the township rules and procedures."

Campaigners will also be able to pass out literature door-to-door on election day, Rathbun said.

Precinct 5 is located on private property at Kings Mill and became the topic of debate after the May 1 Haller library election.

Members of Citizens for a Better Northville, a group opposed to the library plan, charged that they were barred from the grounds of Kings Mill — while library supporters were allowed to distribute campaign literature throughout the complex.

Essad had advised the township to seek assurances from King's Mill that all campaigners be given access to a public polling site. He indicated that

Library to be topic of city meeting

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

The Northville City Council plans to review potential plans and sites for a new library at its June 4 meeting, according to Mayor Chris Johnson.

But one of the options that may be considered is doing nothing at all.

Johnson said the 2-1 defeat of the Haller proposal at the hands of township voters may indicate a lack of desire in the community for a larger library. "It could be an indication that people just think the library operation is fine and dandy the way it is," he said. "That's not what the users are saying, but it could be what the general public is feeling."

When asked whether the city would wait until the township reopens discussions with Frieda Haller in September, Johnson said, "I suppose it's one of our options, but we'd like to talk about what our options are."

"Depending on that meeting, the council will have to decide what their next steps will be," he said.

Johnson said the council will likely plan more meetings between city and township officials at its next meeting, to discuss library possibilities. No such meetings have been planned yet, he said.

As far as the Ford Plant is concerned, Johnson reiterated the city's contention that the plant could not be redeveloped as a city-only library due to the expense. "It's only a viable option if it's a joint library," he said. "The city can't acquire it on its own."

The mayor also dismissed the post office site proposed by local architect Greg Presley as an alternative because of uncertainty about the Cady Street site's eventual availability. "I don't really see that as a legitimate option at this point," he said.

Memorial parade

Northville's annual Memorial Day parade traces a familiar route for local citizens.

Like last year, the parade on Monday, May 28, will begin promptly at 10 a.m. and start on Griswold Street just south of Main. The parade will then wind its way down Main Street to Wing, turning west on Cady Street.

After a brief ceremony at the Cady Street cemetery the parade will march down Rogers Street and finish at the Rural Hill Cemetery.

This year's Grand Marshal is Ray "Butch" Casterline, director of Casterline Funeral Home and an active member of the Northville Kiwanis Club.

"He's done a lot of things in town, he does a lot of things that people don't know about," said Sandy Myers, former president of the VFW post and organizer of this year's parade. "We're talking generations here."

"Every year, Guernsey (Farms Dairy) brings an ice cream truck over here (to the Casterline Funeral Home parking lot on Dunlap Street) and it's all free," Myers said. "Butch buys the ice cream." The ice cream is distributed free to all comers following the

Monthly Allergy Tip

Your nose knows when spring has sprung!

As soon as spring comes around, along with the showers and the early flowers, comes the season of stuffy and runny noses. It's the time of the year you may be afflicted by sneezing and wheezing and your eyes may be itchy and watery. All this discomfort may be caused by allergies to microscopic pollen grains and mold spores which are a natural part of the life cycle of trees, grass, and plant life.

It happens every year, but you can put a stop to it this year — not the pollen and the spores, of course, but your discomfort. Find out if indeed it is an allergy from which you suffer. See us. Medications are now available which may be of help to you without making you drowsy.

O'BRIEN WILL STAY ON PLANNING COMMISSION — Township Supervisor Georgina Goss said Tuesday that planning commissioner Barbara O'Brien will not be removed from her position. Goss said she made her determination after a meeting with O'Brien. She said O'Brien "represents an important view on the present and future development of the township." O'Brien's status was uncertain since planning commission Chairperson Charles DeLand questioned her effectiveness in March. In a letter to Goss, DeLand asked the supervisor to consider removing O'Brien from the commission. An article on the O'Brien issue will appear in Monday's edition of the Record.

POLICE, ROBERTS MEETING SET — A meeting between township police Det. Fred Yankee and Christopher Roberts, father of the 1-year old child who was allegedly abducted from a Northville Township home April 15, was scheduled to be held yesterday afternoon at the Wayne County Prosecutor's office in Westland.

CANINE REMINDER — Township dog owners should be aware that licenses for their pets must be renewed by May 31, according to Nancy Molloy, assistant to the treasurer. Residents must pay the $5 license fee at township offices and show proof that their dog has received a rabies vaccination, in compliance with the township dog ordinance. Dog owners who have not renewed their license by May 31 will be charged an additional $2, Molloy said.

SENIOR PARTY TICKETS — Tickets for the Northville High School Senior Party can be purchased for $20 by sending a check to Pat Howard, 203 North Ely Drive, Northville. Tickets can also be paid for at the door the night of the party.

PURSELL RECEIVES AWARD — The American Association for Counseling and Development (AACD) presented the 1990 National Legislative Award to Carl D. Pursell (R-Plymouth) at a news conference on May 8.

The AACD Legislative Service Award recognizes significant contributions to the counseling and human development profession or to recipients of the profession's services. Pursell was recognized for his contributions to education and human services legislation, according to the AACD.

BLOOMING FLOWERS — The annual Northville Flower Sale is scheduled to pull into downtown Northville on May 25 and 26. Eastern market vendors bring their flowered wares to the streets of Northville for two day-long sales. This year the flower sale will be even bigger, according to Del Black. Main Street will be closed from Center Street to Hut-ton for the sale.

Court rules against shock device

By MAUREEN NASZRADI Staff Writer

The use of a device that emits an electric shock to modify a severely handicapped student's behavior will be banned temporarily while a committee develops an alternative treatment plan, according to a recent ruling.

Northville school officials are calling the decision a victory for the district and for the student, Terry Phelan, a Westland resident who attends the Bryant Center in Livonia. The education program there is under the jurisdiction of Northville Public Schools.

An attorney for Phelan's mother, Susan, filed a lawsuit against Northville schools and other entities in November 1989 that intended to force the school district to allow Phelan to wear a Self-Injurious Behavior Inhibiting System (SIBIS).

Phelan is a developmentally disabled 15-year-old who suffers from cerebral palsy and epilepsy and is subject to seizures. He reportedly goes through periods of self-abuse during which he strikes himself in the face up to 124 times a minute.

Northville schools and the other districts and agencies named in the lawsuit contended that use of the device was against the state Corporal Punishment Law and the Northville Public Schools Policy and Guidelines for Behavior Modification. Specifically, Northville Public Schools and Michigan Protection and Advocacy recommended an "educative" and "functional communication training" program for Phelan, instead of SIBIS.

The SIBIS is a device consisting of a shell-like headgear with a computer chip that is capable of transmitting a signal to a battery pack strapped to the user's leg. If the computer chip detects potential self-abusive movements, it signals the battery pack to emit an 85-volt shock to the user.

Hearing Officer Lynn Beekman's decision, rendered May 14, says, "There must be a new program implemented, meeting Terry's need without the use of the SIBIS device, and this new program must move forward immediately."

According to Beekman's decision, the committee charged with completing Phelan's behavior modification plan—which includes Northville and Wayne/Westland district representatives and Phelan's mother and attorney—must do so within 30 days.

Dr. Len Reznierski, executive director of Special Education Services for Northville schools, said the district representatives are meeting this week with two experts in behavior modification techniques in hopes of developing an alternative to the SIBIS device.

Drs. Mark Durand and Luwana

Meyer testified on behalf of the Northville district during the hearings that their plan would reduce Phelan's self-injurious behavior within certain time restraints established by the hearing officer.

Phelan's attorney, Rick Landau, said that if their techniques do not produce the expected results in changing Phelan's behavior or an unreasonable risk of harm increases, Beekman will have reason to reassess his decision.

At the board of education meeting Monday, Northville Superintendent George Bell said, "Drs. Durand and Meyer will tailor a program that hopefully will stop this type of (self-injurious) behavior."

"I feel we are obligated to maintain our work with this student," Bell added. He told the board that a lawsuit filed on Phelan's behalf in federal court still is pending, and that at this point, the district will work to implement the decision of the hearing officer.

Regardless, the hearing officer's decision cannot bind the parties for more than one year. However, Thomas Schwarze, lead counsel for the Northville district, said the decision "carries great weight," especially in light of the length and complexity of the hearings.

When the lawsuit was initially filed on Phelan's behalf last November in Detroit at the Federal District Court of the eastern district of Michigan,

Federal Court Judge Barbara Hackett dismissed the case "without prejudice."

Schwarze explained that Hackett had determined that the members of the Individual Education Planning Committee formed for young Phelan did not agree on whether to use the SIBIS device, but had not yet exhausted all possible remedies.

Hackett at that point directed all parties to go through the Michigan Administrative Hearing Procedures, where the hearing officer was appointed according to state and federal procedures. The resulting hearings generated 17,000 pages of testimony during five and one-half months.

Landau said Mrs. Phelan "in general, is satisfied with the decision" by the hearing officer. He said the lawsuit sought to make the schools acknowledge that they were not treating her son properly. Landau said the hearing officer's decision did say that by directing the Wayne-Westland district to implement a new program.

Landau also said that a second lawsuit filed on Phelan's behalf in federal district court still is pending. He said his client has not yet decided whether to pursue the damages sought in the lawsuit, which "seeks compensation for Terry's pain and suffering" during the months that the hearing took place.

The woman said she yelled at the men, who fled the scene in a maroon Buick. The woman followed the Buick long enough to obtain its license plate numbers, which she turned over to police. The thieves got away with one wheel cover valued at $200.

Firefighters battled a fire at this Silver Springs home

Township blaze battled

By MIKE TYREE

Gusting winds and an ill-conceived wind break apparently brought an abrupt end to a Friday evening barbecue and sent three township firefighters in search of treatment for minor injuries while they battled the resulting blaze.

Fire Chief Robert Toms and firefighters Guy Balok and Frank Hatch suffered minor injuries last Friday while working to extinguish a fire at 19350 Silver Springs, according to Assistant Fire Chief Rick Rosselle. Rosselle said 21 township firefig-ters responded to the fire which reportedly started when a blanket used as a wind screen blew into a barbecue grill on the balcony of the Silver Springs residence.

The blanket caught fire and ignited trees that it was tied to, Rosselle said. The fire then spread to the balcony, walls and roof of the residence, he said.

No resident injuries were reported, Rosselle said, but damage to the home was extensive.

"We're still working on the dollar value, but the loss was substantial," he said.

Rosselle said the fire department received its first notice of the fire at 6:38 p.m. Friday. He said the fire was extinguished approximately 50 minutes later and crews continued to clean up the site for another two hours.

Toms received stitches for a cut finger, while Balok suffered minor burns to his arm, Rosselle said.

Hatch twisted his leg when a roof he was working on went out from underneath him, Rosselle said.

The fire department has ruled the fire accidental, and no citations will be given to the resident, Rosselle said.

Officer files grievance

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

Northville City Police Officer Hugh Jordan has filed a grievance through the Police Officers Association of Michigan (POAM) against the city after a 15-day suspension in April for "neglect of duty."

But city and police officials alike refused to discuss details of the grievance, citing the possibility of legal action in the case.

Jordan declined to discuss the reasons for his suspension, saying, "we're not saying too much about it right now."

Police Chief Rodney Cannon, who said the 15-day suspension was for "neglect of duty," refused to specify the exact charges against Jordan.

"The union has aggrieved it," Cannon said. "I don't know if I should discuss this before it goes to council." Cannon said that depending on the outcome of the city council hearing, the matter could go to arbitration.

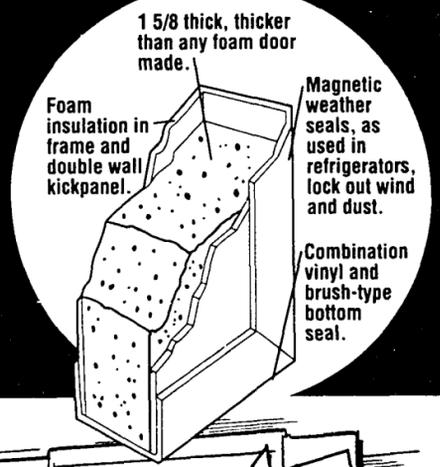

City Manager Steven Walters also declined to discuss the case, other than to say "it hasn't been appealed to the council until now."

"This would be a grievance to receive pay back from that suspension," said Mayor Chris Johnson, who also refused to comment further.

The grievance hearing has been scheduled for Monday, June 4 at 7 p.m. At Jordan's request, the hearing will be closed.

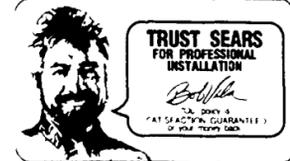

After the hearing, the city council has 10 days to send a reply to the POAM. If the grievance remains unresolved after the hearing, an arbitrator could be called in to decide the case.

refusal to comply with the open campaign edict may have resulted in King's Mill losing the polling site.

Rathbun said the complex wanted to retain its polling place, which serves many senior citizens.

"We want to make sure we are legal and of course we want to keep the polling place," he said.

The King's Mill decision pleased Citizens for a Better Northville member Robert Bernard.

"I'm glad they're agreeing to let us in," he said. "I don't know if it's because they got the ultimatum or not."

Township Deputy Clerk Eunice Switzler said the cooperation of King's Mill was anticipated.

"This action verifies that a polling place while on private property is open to the public," she said. "We appreciate the continued support of . . . the board of directors and residents of King's Mill."

Rathbun said King's Mill rules forbidding soliciting and although the guidelines will be discarded on election day, some questions remain as to the status of pre-election campaigning.

He said King's Mill attorneys will discuss pre-election solicitation with the township attorney before making a final decision on access ground rules.

"We want to do what's right, yet we are on private property," he said. "Soliciting can get out of hand and we want to avoid all that. But elections are a different story."

"If we have been in error, that has been corrected," he said.

Two local teams in world event

Two Northville Odyssey of the Mind Teams are preparing to challenge the world.

Northville officials at first thought only one team would proceed on from State Finals, but a scoring challenge was settled in Northville's favor and both teams will enter the last phase of competition. (The Recycle Team was featured May 10 in the Record).

The Odyssey of the Mind Structures in Harmony team which includes Charles Fan, Dan Fiske, Matt Schlosser, James Giammarco, Andy Vartanian, and Coaches Steve Fan, Pat Giammarco, and Ron Schlosser, took first place honors at State Competition April 28 at Central Michigan University. The team will now advance to World Finals May 30-June 2 at Iowa State University in Ames.

The team's problem was to design and construct prefabricated structure parts made of balsa wood and glue weighing no more than 15 grams (1/4 oz.) and combine the parts to make a single structure that would balance and support weight. Parts were assembled on site within a 15 minute period using steel pins. The team designed a simple four column structure which held 611 pounds at State Competition (believed to be a State record).

The theme used to present the solution was "Drug Bust" The message was that cooperative efforts at all levels are necessary to win the drug war. Uncle Sam, a doctor, an educator, and a senior citizen drove the drug dealer out (of the scene) and crushed the evil of his trade, drugs (symbolized by the balsa wood structure).

They are seeking financial donations to finance the trip. Anyone who would like to help these two state champions challenge the world may do so by sending a check or money order payable to Northville Public Schools, 21200 Taft Road, Northville, MI 48167, Attention Gayle Fountain. A certificate suitable for framing will be our gift to contributors.

Library debated

Johnson said the city has gotten mixed reactions from postal officials regarding the future of the building. "We've received some indications that the building isn't necessarily going to be available in the next year or so," he said.

"Nor have we approached the postal service and said we really want this building," Johnson said.

City Manager Steven Walters said of the post office, "that wasn't even a city project, it was citizens at large that made that proposal."

As for discussions on the possibility of a library in the post office building, Walters said there have been none "that I've been present at."

"I don't know what anybody else has been talking about on the street," he said.

Dirty work at recycling center

By MIKE TYREE
Staff Writer

Township Manager Richard Henningsen isn't talking trash when he asks the public to stop leaving household refuse at the township's Sheldon Road recycling center.

The language Henningsen is speaking—money and cost overruns—is easily understood by most township residents.

"I want to keep this on the positive side, but it's plain to see that we are getting too much household garbage," he said. "We're paying people to keep the grounds clean and we have to pay BFI (Browning-Ferris Industries) to take non-recyclable items to the landfill."

"It has cost more than we anticipated," he said.

The township had spent $5,433.57 on the recycling center by April 30, Henningsen said. Most of that amount—approximately $3,000—was spent on "start-up fees," he said.

The township has expended $1,600 in dumpster fees since the recycling center opened Dec. 28. Site labor has cost the township an additional $816, according to statistics compiled for the township board by Water & Sewer Director Walter Holnoly.

Costs for April alone were nearly $500 for dumpster service and $350 for labor, Holnoly said.

Henningsen said a dumpster located on the site has caused "an atrocious amount of problems."

The dumpster is for laborers who sort non-recyclable items from recyclable item bins, he said. The dumpster is marked "not for public use" Henningsen said.

But many in the public feel the open recycling center is a place to dump all their trash, he said. He listed household scrap such as a furnace, lawn mowers, mattresses, and wheels and tires as objects the township has had to pay BFI to haul away.

Henningsen admitted being discouraged in April about the cost of operating the recycling center and the amount of household refuse received there. The cost problem was amplified by a drop in revenues from the site, he said.

Plastic milk cartons, for example, were supposed to fetch a 20-cent per pound fee when picked up by the recycling collector. The price has dropped to a penny a pound in the last few months, he said.

The township is not reimbursed for glass bottles and used oil, Henningsen said. The only revenues received by the township are for newspapers, milk cartons and aluminum cans, he added.

The recycling center was established to help lessen the impact of township residents' refuse on landfills by providing an outlet for their recyclable items.

Township officials knew costs would outweigh revenues and they realized that an unwatched facility could result in people dropping off non-recyclable items, Henningsen said.

Problems with the center are just "growing pains," he said.

The supervisor (Georgina Goss) has given us the marching orders to keep it in place and make sure it works," he said. "For the most part, everybody is honest and we want them to continue to give us recyclable materials."

Goss said the positive aspects of the center far outweigh the negatives.

"Overall, I'm very pleased with the success of the center," she said. "Like anything else, there are probably a few glitches, but it's going very well."

The center is located just north of Five Mile Road on Sheldon.

Monitors sought for township site

By MIKE TYREE
Staff Writer

Northville Township is researching ways to more effectively operate its Sheldon Road recycling center, and Township Manager Richard Henningsen has taken to the road for one idea.

Or more appropriately, he wants to take from the road.

Henningsen said last week that he is in the process of checking with courts that provide "road patrols"—workers that pick up litter alongside township roadways—to see if the workers might be able to monitor the recycling center.

The workers, who are assigned road clean-up duties by the courts as retribution for minor law infractions, could maintain the recycling center and discourage those who might want to dump a mattress or refrigerator at the site, he said.

Lawsuit sparks city response

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

"The essence of it is that he hasn't followed proper procedures,"

James Kohl
City Attorney

Northville City has fired the latest salvo in a legal skirmish with the owners of Black's Hardware, responding to a lawsuit filed against the city May 9.

The lawsuit was issued by owners Robert and Donna Black after they were cited for violating the city's zoning ordinance against the outside display of merchandise at their Main Street store.

The suit, filed in Wayne County Circuit Court, alleges that the zoning ordinances were being arbitrarily enforced against the Blacks and seeks more than $10,000 in damages for lost sales.

Because of the suit, Judge Roland Olzak of the Wayne County Circuit Court issued a temporary restraining order barring city officials from enforcing the ordinance.

But the city maintains in a May 18 suit that it had every right to cite Robert Black for violation of the ordinance.

"The essence of it is that he hasn't followed proper procedures," City Attorney James Kohl said of Robert Black. "But more importantly, he hasn't followed the ordinance, and the judge ought not to continue an injunction against enforcement of a viable ordinance."

"Last year they sought council approval and received it," Kohl said. "This year they didn't."

The Blacks were granted permission to store bagged goods outside their store last year, for a period of four months, by the city council. At that time, the council denied their request to store wheeled goods like wheelbarrows and seeders outside. The Blacks did not return to seek city council permission this year.

Also, the Blacks never appealed their case to the Zoning Board of Appeals. "Instead of seeking a special use permit, variance, or interpretation from the Zoning Board of Appeals, Plaintiffs have chosen to flout the ordinance and file this lawsuit," the city's response to the Black's suit reads. "Plaintiffs have failed to exhaust their administrative remedies, therefore, this matter is not ripe for adjudication."

The city claims that storage of bagged goods was allowed outside the Black's former location at 117 E. Main St. because it was a prior, non-conforming use. "However, the prior nonconforming use existed at that address only," the city's response reads.

City officials also maintain that the court's granting of an injunction to the Blacks undermines the city's efforts to enforce its zoning ordinances. "The City of Northville will be irreparably harmed if Plaintiffs are permitted to continue to violate the terms of the Northville Zoning Ordinance since other city residents may be encouraged by Plaintiffs' actions to ignore the provisions of other local ordinances," the suit reads.

Because of that, the city is now seeking an injunction against the Blacks, prohibiting them from outside storage.

The zoning ordinance in question states, "Sidewalk sales, outside display of merchandise is prohibited except under conditions of special approval by the City Council."

The case against the city is scheduled to be heard in Wayne County Circuit Court May 25.

TIPS FROM TUCHKLAPER

Novi Dental Center

WHEN DENTURES NEED A CHECKUP

For most people, it takes a while to get used to wearing full dentures. Once they achieve a degree of comfort and usefulness, you may think you no longer need help from your dentist. Far from true!

The tissues on which dentures rest are changing constantly. Sometimes the ridges that support dentures recede and shrink, causing the dentures to loosen. When this happens, your dentures will have to be adjusted to fit properly again.

Dentures have to be kept clean and free of deposits or they can have an adverse effect on the health of the mouth. This is another reason for regular check-ups. A minor irritation can cause infection and inflammation of the gums.

Like any device that is subject to constant wear, it has to be properly maintained. Occasionally, dentures must be relined, and if your mouth undergoes major changes, it may be necessary for you to be fitted with new dentures. Full dentures solve the problem of missing teeth, but they need periodic checkups, just like real teeth do.

Edward Postiff of Edward's Caterers who along with Lois Presley was recently honored by the Northville Chamber.

Good taste

Catering to gourmets

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

This year's winners of the Northville Community Chamber of Commerce's annual Small Business Person of the Year award, Edward Postiff and Lois Presley, have shown exceedingly good taste in their business practices.

Together with Lois' husband Greg Presley, the brother and sister own and operate Edward's Caterers at 116 E. Dunlap. Edward's first opened its doors as a gourmet catering and carry-out business in December of 1986. Since then, said Edward, "we've been growing constantly, each year more than the last."

The caterers specialize in off-premise full-service catering, and offer self-service catering such as party trays on the side.

A Plymouth native, Edward started cooking in the food industry with a large Cleveland catering firm, working summers while attending the University of Michigan.

He and his sister originally went to school to become a dentist and dental hygienist, hoping to work together when they graduated. But a college course by the name of "Organic Chemistry," among others, caused Edward to reconsider his dental dreams.

"It just seemed to be the right time and the right kind of place," Edward said of the decision to open the Northville store. "I was 24 when we first opened the business and I really didn't know everything I needed to know," he added. "But you learn as you go."

The store originally specialized in gourmet foods and carry-out business, with no seating at all. But that soon changed at the customers' insistence.

"Everyone said, 'Oh, how cute, I wish we could sit here and eat lunch,'" Edward recalled. "So we went home and got some chairs and spray-painted them white. That really was a pleasant surprise. It developed into a nice, little cafe business."

In keeping with the restaurant's upscale image, copies of the New York Times and Detroit Free Press are made available to diners.

But the store's main business is still catering to the large corporations along routes I-275 and I-696. "We've been able to get some really neat clients," Edward said. Some of those clients are General Motors, Nissan and Hewlett-Packard.

"Our store is a great marketing tool," Edward added. Many of the catering clients are people who have stopped by Edward's for a bite to eat.

Edward attributes the Chamber of Commerce award to his involvement in the community, in groups like the Chamber, the Downtown Merchant's Association, and the Northville Arts Commission.

Edward's is also active in the Victorian Festival, with the firm overseeing food preparation for the annual event.

"We're starting real early and trying to get people together," he said of the festival. The firm plans to bring restaurant representatives and volunteers together to work on the event.

Edward also credits his staff with the restaurant's success. "We have a very, very strong team, and I never could have done this alone," he said.

Edward's currently has a staff of about 25 people, though only six are full-time employees. But that's nothing compared to the staff size at holiday time. Last Christmas, 60 people worked for the firm.

Edward and Lois also divide the operations of the business between themselves. "I work directly on the phone grabbing the sale, so to speak," he said. "Lois does all the numbers."

Rouge Rescue event needs volunteers

Volunteers are needed for the Northville and Northville Township components of the annual Rouge Rescue project.

This year's project will be held on Saturday, June 2, from 9 a.m. to noon. Northville and Northville Township are two of 26 participating communities to work on cleaning the Rouge River. Both Northville and Northville Township will work on the same project this year.

Volunteers should be at least 16 years of age or older unless accompanied by a parent. They should wear work boots, long sleeved shirts, and long pants, if possible. The clothing protects from poison ivy and scratches. Volunteers should report at 8:30 a.m. to the Northville Community Center at 303 W. Main to be transported to the site, as parking at the site is extremely limited.

Mountain Top Tree Service has again volunteered to donate equipment and labor to provide for a meaningful clean up. Volunteers will assist in breaking up the logjams and removing them so that the flow of the river can cleanse the river by itself. Small hand tools will be available.

A lunch will be provided for the workers at the conclusion of the event. Last year Pizza Cutter, the Dandy Gander, and the Northville Crossing restaurants donated food for the project. Donors are welcome again this year.

Volunteers are asked to RSVP to Northville Community Recreation (349-0203) prior to May 30 so that proper preparations for the event may be made.

Last year 70 participants from Northville and Northville Township worked at two sites to clear the river. Both sites are still clear.

Exchange allows glimpse of Ferndale today

By STEVE KELLMAN
 Staff Writer

Northville City officials had a taste of the way things are done in Ferndale Monday, as well as a taste of Ferndale food as part of the annual statewide Mayor Exchange Day.

In return, Ferndale Mayor Albert Gertley, Councilwoman Pamela McCullough and City Manager Jess Soltless sat in the seats of Northville officials and sampled the city's hospitality.

The Ferndale contingent spent the day touring Northville, viewing historical photos on the walls of the Schrader development and viewing a slide presentation of the Mainstreet 78 project before strolling through town to a Rotary Luncheon. Afterwards, the visiting dignitaries visited Mill Race Historical Village, Allen Terrace, Northville Downs, and Maybury State Park.

City Manager Steven Walters acted as an unofficial tour guide for the Ferndale officials. He said the officials were particularly impressed with the change in the downtown area since the "MainStreet 78" program was begun. "They were seeing the physical downtown right after seeing the pictures and the slides."

Meanwhile, 18 miles to the east, Northville Mayor Chris Johnson, Councilman Jerry Mittman and Library Director Pat Orr saw the sights of Ferndale, stopping by the library, Historical Museum and Kar-Nut peanut factory. The two sets of officials finally crossed paths Monday evening, dining together at the newly-renovated Doug's Auto Pub in Ferndale.

Johnson saw the day as a chance to gain a different perspective on municipal problems. "I've always found it interesting to see how other people do things, because it really helps you keep your perspective," he said.

"Their interesting problem is kind of similar to ours in that the entire city is fairly well developed," Johnson added. "What they have to do to increase their tax base is redevelop. They've found how difficult it is to get someone to come into an old building and redevelop it."

Johnson saw the solution as "moving and mixing and matching the right company with the right location."

"Sometimes you just need one or two good ideas out of something like this," he said. "A discussion, for example, between a police chief and a police chief might yield some interesting ideas . . . as long as you're exchanging ideas with a similar community with similar problems."

Johnson said the Ferndale officials were also pleased with their visit to Northville, and with the ideas they took home with them. "I think they were surprised by the MainCentre development, and I think they were interested in the creative financing we've used to make the MainCentre project happen," he said. "MainCentre couldn't have happened without that financing."

The city had agreed with the Northville School District to allow tax capturing to finance part of the MainCentre project. "That's why I'm pretty happy that we have such a good working relationship with our school district," Johnson said.

"Ferndale appears to have a very good relationship with their school district, which is important when you go to do something like that," he added.

But because of its common border with Detroit, Ferndale faces some unique problems of its own. "Their downtown has a unique problem that we don't have," Johnson said. "Their main street is Woodward (Avenue)." Woodward is one of the busiest streets in the region in terms of both traffic and development.

Mayor Exchange day has been a traditional part of Michigan Week for decades. The day gives officials from different cities a chance to walk in each other's shoes and compare notes on the way their cities are run.

Northville officials typically team up with cities that share similar programs. "We've been selecting ones out of similar communities, and also quite frankly to get out of going to the Upper Peninsula," said Walters. "We don't throw a dart at the Detroit map, we pick ones based on similar size and problems."

Walters found several similarities between Ferndale, with its population of 26,227 in 1980, and Northville, which had a count of 5,698 at that time. "It was founded in 1927, it's not a new suburb like Novi or Canton," Walters said.

"Size doesn't matter too much — we're doing many of the things functionally that they are doing in terms of operation or service provided, even though ours are on a smaller scale," he added.

Ward mulling new site plan?

ture with an average height of 68 feet. Included in the plan was a sanctuary that reached 107 feet.

The ZBA granted Ward's variance request in September 1989, but six residents living near the proposed development site filed an appeal in Wayne County Circuit Court.

Circuit Court Judge Richard Kaufman ruled April 12 that the ZBA did not answer crucial questions before granting Ward a variance to the township's height ordinance.

Kaufman ordered the ZBA to re-hear Ward's appeal within 60 days of the ruling, but Ward has not approached the township for placement on the ZBA agenda, Maise said.

Ward Communications Director Kelley Sharkey said the church is "evaluating our options."

When asked if the options included the presentation of another site plan, Sharkey said, "I didn't say that."

Sharkey estimated that the church would make a decision on how to proceed with its plan for the Six Mile and Haggerty site in the near future.

"It might be in the next month or so," she said. "It takes time to consider these types of things. It makes no sense to comment on things now."

Neither Sharkey nor Ward attorney Harold Larson would comment on reports that church officials have met with township officials to review a possible new site plan.

"I don't have any information on that," Sharkey said.

Maise deferred comment to township attorney Ernest Essand, who Monday said he would not comment on the possibility of a township/Ward meeting.

But Maise said Ward if they came before the planning commission.

"Obviously, they can't go back to the planning commission with the same site plan," she said.

The church had appeared before the planning commission seeking final site plan approval, but their request was tabled by the planners pending outcome of the height variance litigation. The final approval was based upon the 20-foot height variance, Maise said.

"They would have to make alterations to their plans," she said.

Maise said the church could appear before the planning commission with a new design and seek a revised preliminary site approval, or could choose to present a revised final site plan if they feel their alterations are minor.

If Ward does select the planning commission route, their alterations would have to be considered by the township by June 7 for consideration at the June 26 meeting, Maise said.

A place on the July 31 agenda would be secured by presenting the township with alterations by July 12, she added.

Ward Church is based in Livonia.

Fire protection improves in city

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

According to a Southfield fire insurance rating organization, Northville City has become a safer place for both commercial and residential properties.

Northville officials were notified last week that the city's fire insurance classification has improved from Class Seven to Class Six after a recent review of the city's fire protection services. The services were reviewed in January by ISO Commercial Risk Services, Inc.

The class change could mean property insurance savings to both residential and commercial property owners, according to the company. While the change will not affect commercial buildings with sprinkler systems, wood-frame and fire-resistant buildings will see an average 2.9-percent savings in premiums, and many structures a 6.2-percent drop. Residential property owners can expect average savings of 8.9 percent.

These estimates only apply to insurance companies using ISO property insurance premium calculations. Policy holders with insurance companies using other calculations may see different or no changes.

Also, the premiums for individual properties will vary based on construction, occupancy and private protection measures.

Northville's fire protection services received 7.26 of a possible 10 percent credit for receiving and handling fire alarms, 18.56 of 50 percent for the fire department overall, and 19.72 of 40 percent for water supply such as fire hydrants.

Rodger Wesch, the field representative who inspected Northville's system, attributed the city's improved rating to water system improvements which increased the available water supply to the city, and increased the water flow to some of the hydrants, as well as to new fire trucks.

"They could get more credit by either having more on-call fire response or paid on-duty firefighters," Wesch said. When asked about the training level at the Northville Fire Department, Wesch said, "There again, that's another area that they could probably score more points in."

Northville Fire Chief James Allen said Wesch spent nearly an entire day at the department, checking the type and age of the equipment and the training level of the firefighters. He attributed the improved rating to "a combination of the better water system and the improved equipment and training of the men."

"He was very happy with the fire department when he left here," Allen said.

Communities are rated between Class One and Ten, with Class One being the highest degree of protection. No municipality has a Class One rating in Michigan, Wesch said. "There's only one Class Two, and that's Detroit," he added. "There's a few Class Threes, and usually those are your bigger towns."

Wesch said Northville falls in the range of the majority of municipalities, "not on the high side or the low side, but very competitive."

The city was last inspected by ISO Commercial Risk Services in 1970.

Police chief resumes piling up

By MIKE TYREE
Staff Writer

Northville Township must be a wonderful place to fight crime. It's certainly a desirable place to send a resume.

By Monday afternoon, 44 applicants had thrown their badges into the ring for the township Chief of Police position, according to Township Manager Richard Henningsen.

"The applications are increasing by the minute," he said.

Additional resumes are expected to be received before tomorrow's application deadline, Henningsen said.

The candidates vying to replace former chief Kenneth Hardesty — who resigned in December — bring with them a wealth of experience and several have strong educational backgrounds, Henningsen said.

Presnell won't apply

By MIKE TYREE
Staff Writer

The vacancy atop the Northville Township Police Department has attracted 44 applicants as of Tuesday, but the township's ranking police officer will not pursue the post.

Captain Philip Presnell, acting chief since the departure of former chief Kenneth Hardesty last December, said Tuesday he will not apply for the full-time chief position.

"No, I am not applying for it," Presnell said Tuesday afternoon. "I told the supervisor (Georgina Goss) about it two hours ago."

Presnell said his decision not to apply for the job was based both on a personal and department level.

"I have a lot of individual things I want to accomplish and I want to be able to provide a law enforcement presence for the community," he said.

"The individual they select is going to need sound advice for the transition and I will certainly do my best for a good transition."

A 19-year veteran of the township police department, Presnell said the decision not to apply for the top post was difficult. But he said his experience would be beneficial to the new chief, who is expected to be selected by early July.

"I've seen so much change over the past 19 years," he said. "We need strong leadership for the 1990s . . . and my responsibility will be to assist a new chief for the township and its citizens."

Presnell will resume second-in-command status after the new chief is chosen.

sen said. "Most have lots of experience," he said. "Several of the applicants have doctorate degrees and a number have their masters."

Most of the applicants are from Michigan, Henningsen said, but he noted that resumes have been received from residents of Louisiana, Maine, Tennessee and Indiana.

A panel comprised of the township executive committee, township manager, constable and a township resident will review the applications after the May 25 deadline, said Treasurer Betty Lennox.

Lennox said the committee will rate and whittle the list of applicants down to "10 or 12."

A second cut will bring the list down to five or six candidates, she said.

After the candidate list is pared to five or six finalists, Lennox said an oral board consisting of three law enforcement officials will conduct interviews.

Public safety directors Bob Seifert of Oak Park and John Santomauro of Canton Township have agreed to serve on the oral board, Lennox said. A "police chief of a Wayne County community that is highly recommended" will also be contacted to serve on the board, she said.

The function of the oral board will be to evaluate the candidates and make a report to the township panel, Lennox said.

Candidates will then be tested by an outside consulting firm, she said.

After testing results are known, the candidates will be interviewed again, Lennox said, before a recommendation is passed on to the township board.

"We'd like to have it done by July 1, that's our goal," Lennox said.

Center studied

"We could have one person out there and monitor him once or twice during the day," he said. "They could keep the place clean and it would save us a lot of money."

The township currently pays temporary workers to provide spot clean-up duties at the center. The workers are generally paid less than $7 an hour.

But Henningsen envisions bigger savings on dumpster haul-away costs.

"I don't like to have the big brother syndrome all the time, but having someone out there may discourage dumping non-recyclable items," he said.

The township pays BFI to haul non-recyclables to its Salem Township landfill, and escalating bills for such items have lessened some of the enthusiasm for the site, Henningsen said.

A person on hand to watch the site could slice the hauling bill, he said.

"Any presence is better than none, but I have to get it approved by the courts first," he said.

Henningsen said he did not know when he would know about the availability of road crews for the recycling center.

The township has not sought volunteers to man the site, but the manager said he would appreciate any interest residents might have in donating time to keep an eye on the center.

"If someone does want to volunteer, I'd certainly like to take their name or have them contact me," he said.

Record/CHRIS BOYD

Playground taking shape

Where once there was mud, a playground is slowly taking shape, thanks to the help of area volunteers. Under the direction of activity chairman John Roose, the Plymouth Lions Club has been laying sod and landscaping at the Northville Public School's 501 W. Main St. handicapped playground for two weeks. "It's something that goes right in line with our community service activities," said Lions Club member Fred Field. The volunteers are working on an elevated sandbox for the site, "so that children with their wheelchairs can come right up to the sandbox and play." "We've also been putting in drainage for the area under the swings and jungle gym, because that was not draining well at all," Field said. Local landscaper Larry Ryder, with the firm Earth Sciences of Plymouth, has been providing backhoe and trenching equipment to the project. "He gets the heaviest stuff out of the way and we follow through," Field said. Fields said the landscaping should be completed sometime this week.

James Van Hauter, fourth district commander of the VFW, will give the main address at the veteran's plot in Rural Hill Cemetery at the end of the march. The honored guests include Alice Goode, fourth district president of the VFW, and Nancy Lewis, whose son Richard was killed aboard the USS Iowa last April. Local Girl Scout and Boy Scout troops, the Civil Air Patrol, VFW and American Legion posts and their auxiliaries, Masons and the Northville High School band are planning to march in the parade.

Our Opinions

Many hands make light work of waste

It's a tale of two cities, or rather, a city and a township. Both Northville communities are grappling with the issue of recycling, but in somewhat different ways.

The township recycling facility on Sheldon Road has made recycling as easy as possible for township residents. Open 24 hours a day, seven days a week, the center allows trash-conscious citizens all the freedom in the world to recycle.

But that may be too much freedom.

It seems some unscrupulous residents are using the recycling center to drop off all sorts of household trash. The township has had to pay trash companies to haul away lawn mowers, mattresses, wheels and tires — even a furnace.

Northville Township also pays temporary workers to provide spot clean-up duties at the center.

The township may even resort to "road patrols," workers who are assigned road clean-up duties by the courts as retribution for minor law infractions, to monitor the center.

The extra trash disposal costs are also aggravated by a drop in the amount of money being paid the township for the recyclable goods.

Whereas the township first received 20 cents a pound for plastic milk containers, the price is now down to a penny per pound. And the only reimbursable materials are the milk cartons, newsprint, and aluminum cans.

Meanwhile, in the city, the fenced recycling center at Doheny Drive is open only two days a week, and manned by DPW staff and volunteers who check driver's licenses to make sure only local residents are using the facility.

The city's fledgling program of using volunteers at its site began several weeks ago. According to Public Works

GOVERNMENT

Director Ted Mapes, the program is working well. Because city officials had decided on the need for supervision at the site, the volunteers are saving the city money in salaries and allowing the center to remain open longer on Wednesdays than it otherwise would.

While township officials admit to being downhearted by the misuse of the center, they remain optimistic about the legitimate recycling being done at the site.

And while they have not actively sought volunteers to man the Sheldon Road site, Manager Richard Henningsen recently expressed his willingness for such help.

The recycling centers were designed to help lessen the amount of refuse being taken to landfills, and lessen the ever-increasing landfill fees being charged the city and township.

Residents must get serious about the recycling opportunities available in the community. If you can't get excited about the possibility of doing your bit to help the environment, how about getting excited about keeping taxes down? The more proper recycling that is done, the less the costs for landfilling trash will increase. Those costs directly translate into tax dollars. Likewise, the people recycling trash that is not recyclable are creating more expense.

The volunteer system seems to be the most cost effective route township and city officials can go. Here's hoping residents will do their part to keep recycling a viable option in both communities.

Freedom at the polls must be protected

The Board of Directors for King's Mill Cooperative did the right thing during their Monday night meeting. But their action may be a little too late to erase the concerns the matter has raised.

The board voted to allow election day campaigning at the township's Precinct 5 polling site, which is located at King's Mill, on private property.

The vote by the King's Mill board became imperative following the May 1 election on the Haller Library proposal. While pro-vote campaigners were allowed to leaflet voters prior to the election on the private property, a campaigner for Citizens for a Better Northville, a group against the proposal, was not allowed on the grounds.

That situation is intolerable. Regardless of anyone's feelings on the election it is pretty obvious that both sides of an issue have an equal right to address voters in a democracy. Electioneering laws have been established allowing campaigners the right to promote their causes within set distances from polling booths.

While the situation appears to have been rectified by a vote of the cooperative's board, the township might be well advised to look at the possibility of locating polling booths only on public grounds.

Anytime there is a potential for a vote to be compromised, steps should be taken to avoid it. In this instance a member of a particular group was barred from a polling place the day of an election. After the fact the matter has been resolved. Because of the eventual outcome of the election, the Citizens for a Better Northville representative is not particularly interested in beating a dead horse. However, if the election had turned out differently — or if it had been the pro-vote campaigners who had been barred — would we be looking at something a little more complicated than merely a vote by a condominium board?

The potential for problems remains as long as the freedom to come and go at a polling place is determined privately, not publicly. Township officials should look at that potential.

Check euphemisms at the door

We've been talking about fat dogs recently in the office. Okay, so maybe your office banter is of a slightly higher quality than ours. So what.

Jan Jeffres, a reporter here, is researching a story that relates to fat dogs. It'll be out next week so I don't want to give away the details. We like to keep these big scoops under wraps until they hit the street. Competition is pretty tough right now in these newspaper wars. Anyway, Jan was looking for a model to visually represent these full-figured pets. My dog's name came up at that point in the conversation.

I want to know just what gives people the feeling of freedom that makes it okay to call my dog fat? I mean, what ever happened to polite euphemisms?

Lizzie, my dog, has been known to polish off a bit of chow now and again. It is not precisely true that she knows the phone number to the Pizza Cutter restaurant. However, it is true she prefers square pizza to round.

I have come to expect rude comments from total strangers. I can be walking my big boned mutt down the street and people will make it a point to laugh and point. "Well, guess she never misses a meal," a man said to me recently. What can you possibly reply to that?

"No, and it looks like neither do you?" Of course I would never say something like that. Not until the next time I see that guy.

I guess I have become somewhat numbed to the impolite remarks of people on the street. But in the newsroom? These people are supposed to know better. These people are supposed to care.

On one recent evening when my not-so-slim dog and I were hanging around the office a much-too-slim reporter mentioned the fact that it seemed as if my dog was having a bit of a problem rolling over. "Could be that giant stomach is getting in her way," the reporter noted. Now a less-involved dog owner probably would have taken the remark in stride. The less-caring owner would probably have admitted that indeed, the belly on the dog was creating the image of a furry dog lolling on a beach ball.

But I did what came natural. I picked the dog's head out of the garbage can where she had been taking care of the remnants of the day's lunch, and carried her home to where she is loved, respected and fed. And I told her it was in her genes.

It's all a matter of perspective

Items from our catalog:

• A person's perspective on a given issue can really change their opinion. One of our sister newspapers, the Brighton Argus, has reported more than once on a phenomenon of "Novi-bashing." The people of Brighton, it seems, don't want their town to become another Novi. I've heard similar comments in Northville.

Leaving aside the fact that Novi has a lot to recommend it, this seems to me to be a strange development. It's part of a never-ending chain of "we-don't-want-our-town-to-become-another" whatever.

If you spend much time in Novi, you may have heard the guiding philosophy of many Novi residents: we don't want to become another Southfield. Southfield doesn't want to become another Detroit. Detroiters, I'm sure, look to somewhere else for the situation they want to avoid.

I'm quite sure the chain extends the other way, too: there must be some place that is afraid of becoming another Brighton or another Northville.

And all these terrible places are filled with happy people, absolutely content with their unique community. Yet the bashing chain continues.

• There are plenty of worthy causes in Northville and Novi that need money, but one in particular is in especially dire straits. Novi Youth Assistance got much less participation than expected in its annual Bowlathon, which is its major fund-raiser. The total fell about $10,000 short of the goal.

The group is facing severe program cuts if it does not raise some more money. If you'd like to help, call John O'Brien at 347-0410.

• Part of the huge Maples of Novi development at Fourteen Mile and Decker will be an area called Maple Hills. Do you suppose the developer is aware of the already existing Maple Hill subdivision in Northville Township, less than 10 miles away? Are subdivision names now getting so completely unimaginative that we have to start reusing the old ones?

• Historic preservation is an important goal in this area. Novi and Northville both boast active historical societies. It's the type of area where people care about such things.

That's why there were a lot of angry and saddened people when it was learned that the old Starkweather farmhouse on Seven Mile — Northville Township's oldest home — was torn down by a builder. A representative said the company had no idea of the home's historic value.

The Northville Township Board discussed saving the home — which dates back to before the Civil War — at its meeting Thursday night, May 10. The demolition took place the very next morning.

A cynic — certainly not me — might question the timing of this coincidence. I just think it's a damn shame.

Readers Speak

Hard to believe A mandate

To the Editor:
It is difficult to believe that Victor DiLorenzo, General Partner of D & T Construction, did not realize the historical importance of the home on West Seven Mile Road as noted in the Northville Record dated May 17, 1990.

He obviously is not interested in heritage or preservation and is one, among all too many, who would rather tear down, destroy, throw away and build in an effort to make that all important dollar.

Betty E. LeMaster

To the Editor:

I am amazed that Jim Petrie and his Library Committee were surprised by the defeat of the Haller Library Millage and Bond Vote. The vote results were a mandate to Northville Township Administrators. No more money! The pot runneth dry.

Northville residents have been most generous in days past. Schools needed more money — they overrode the Headlee Amendment. They approved millages or bond increases for police needs, a new fire station, a jail, the handicapped children of Wayne County and Schoolcraft College. They in turn have been abused and misused by the arrogant and officious Zoning Board, Planning Commission, Board of Trustees and various township administrators. The treasury coffers is now $100,000 short because of irresponsible spending, hiring an architect for the Haller Library before voters took any action. This in itself was unconscionable.

The Library Committee stated that it will have to review the vote results and come back with a more "creative" presentation. Evidently you did not get the message. You can stand on your heads and spit silver dollars — but we the electorate have said no! 3,000 No's.

We would like to publicly thank Officers Kubitsky and Rathburn of the Northville City Police Department for their prompt and caring response to our mother's recent illness. It is gratifying to know that our policemen are so kind and thoughtful.

We would also like to thank Fran Hopp and Darlene Ogniski of Allen Terrace for their prompt response to our mother's call for help.

Barbara Louie/Local history

The man who hatched a million fish

Barbara Louie is the local history librarian at the Novi Public Library. She is currently working on two books of history — one on Novi, the other on Northville. Her columns about the history of Northville will appear occasionally on the pages of the Northville Record.

Leafy maple and oak trees frame large, decorative Victorian-style houses and smaller, charming bungalows along Fairbrook Avenue (Seven Mile Road) in Northville. Many of the residences in this area have been there for 50 years or more. But unlike most residential areas that were carved out of clearings in the woods, these homes stand today on land that was once under water.

In 1874, prominent fish breeder Nelson Clark left his home in Clarkston — which had been named in his honor — for Northville. He arrived with big plans for a state-run fish hatchery.

The Northville Record wrote of the new venture with enthusiasm: "Nelson W. Clark of Clarkston, the great fish breeder... has leased the springs above the village, also the waste water from Ambler's pond, and is to begin breeding salmon, trout (and) white-fish..."

The hatchery proved to be a gradual success. When Clark died suddenly in 1876 his son Frank assumed control of the fledgling hatchery, turning it into a national leader.

In 1880 it had grown to become one of the finest fish hatcheries in the country. It was in that year that the United States government purchased the buildings, making Frank Clark the superintendent of the new U.S. Fish Hatchery, the first federal fish hatchery in the nation.

By the 1890's the fishery contained about 10,000 stock fish and 250,000 trout of various species.

Millions of fish hatched here, and were shipped all over the country and the world, from Mexico to Europe and New Zealand.

Of the 15 acres it occupied by 1892, a number of springs produced about 375 gallons of water per minute.

The U.S. Hatchery inspired the creation of a gold fish hatchery on Farmington Road in 1884. Starting with only two pairs of fish, within 10 years the prolific couples had produced nearly 10,000 gold fish of numerous varieties.

Frank Clark served as president of the National Fisheries Association before his death in 1910. He was followed by William Thayer who served as superintendent of the U.S. Fish Hatchery for 20 years.

The hatchery lasted well into the 20th century. By 1935 it was the only federal fish hatchery in Michigan, covering 17 acres, five of which were under water.

The aquarium planned by Clark was on a grand scale, and several buildings were constructed west of Rogers Street along each side of Fairbrook to serve as offices and housing for the hatcheries. Today, the only one of these buildings to remain is the superintendent's cottage, now used as a private home.

A city park was created when the Fish Hatchery pond was eliminated. After it was closed in the late 1930's, the buildings were destroyed and the park along Fairbrook Avenue was opened, a fitting monument to one of Northville's early industries.

Anglers beware — rules are all wet

"When does trout season open?" shouted my fishin' buddy.

I reached for the DNR's 1990 Michigan Fishing Guide. Hmmmm! No longer is it a fold-out brochure. It's a 24-page booklet.

"Last Saturday in April to Sept. 30," I read, but there was more.

"Longer on streams with extended seasons. See pages 8, 9, 10, 11. EXCEPT: (see note 5)."

Note 5 on the same page says: "Lake trout and splake — Open seasons, Lakes Michigan and Huron and their tributary streams; May 1 through Labor Day."

"Whaddaya mean 'extended season?'" my fishin' buddy asked.

I read from page 8: "The following streams and portions of streams from their designated upstream limit to their mouths are open to hook and line fishing for trout and salmon and other species of fish on which the season is open during the extended seasons from April 1 through the Friday before the last Saturday in April and from Oct. 1 through Dec. 31. In addition, stream sections noted with an asterisk and all non-trout streams not specifically listed are open year round for the taking of species qualified above (exceptions noted)."

Pages 8-11 listed 150 or so streams, printed in insurance-policy type.

"What does that mean in English?" my friend inquired.

"On some streams, we can fish now," I translated.

"Wanna go to the Rifle River? It's just a couple hours up US-23," he said.

I looked it up: "Rifle — Arenac, Ogemaw — Junction of Devoe Lk. outlet and Rifle R. Note: Rifle River Closed to the taking of brown trout during extended season only." Fourteen other rivers on the four-page list had such special exceptions.

I turned to my friend: "My throat's parched with all that reading. Gimme a beer." He obliged.

"Skip the exceptions. Just tell me the creel limit — still five?" he said.

Page 13 of the rules said: "5 in any combination from inland Lk. outlet and Rifle R. St. Clair, St. Marys, St. Clair & Detroit Rs., 5 in any combination, but no more than 3 of any one species, EXCEPT pink salmon, nor more than 2 Lake trout or splake from Lk. Mich. On streams, 10 in any combination, but no more than 3 fish over 16 inches (see Note 8). EXCEPT AuSable River, see Iosco Co. page 16. EXCEPT Pere Marquette R., page 18."

I took a deep swallow of the malt beverage and plowed on.

"Note 8 — The 16-inch size limit does not apply to pink salmon. 5 extra pink salmon may be taken from the St. Marys River.

"Note 6 — Possession limit on salmon: one may possess an additional 2 days daily limit, possession being: canned in a sealed container, cured by smoking or drying or frozen in a solid state."

"I get parched just listening to you," said my buddy, opening himself a brew. "Skip the details. Anything about that pretty stretch of the Huron River in the Proud Lake Area?"

I found it on page 18 under Quality Fishing Regulations. "Huron River (Oakland Co.) — Moss Lake to signs 100 yds. below Wixom Rd. (2 miles) catch and release (no kill) with artificial flies only Apr. 1-Day before last Saturday in April. Regular trout rules beginning last Saturday in April-Sept. 30."

By now my fishin' buddy was smirking. "My kid is thinking about Wall Street as a career. I'm gonna tell him ferget it and be an environmental lawyer, explaining the fishing rules to poor slobbs like us. He can get rich.

"Why don't we get our cane poles and the boat and go over to good ol' Kent Lake for pan-fish? Anything complicated about that?" he asked.

"No," I replied, "as soon as we get our licenses, our sportsmen's book, a license for the trailer, a license for the boat, a Metroparks pass and a boat launch pass."

At that moment, my buddy opted for grain alcohol as being less injurious to his mental health than fishing rules, regulations and licenses.

Company helps firms get the most from computers

Local businesses that believe they are not getting the most from their computers are discovering a versatile new team of computer specialists.

It is Megatechnologies Inc. of Milford.

"Businesses today have invested a lot of money in their computers," said Patricia Dunk, Megatechnologies' vice president and a computer accounting consultant. "But you'd be surprised how many of them aren't getting a full return on their investment."

The reasons, according to Dunk, range from mismatched equipment to software that is inadequate for the job or not well understood by the people who have to use it.

Does that mean that companies have to junk what they now have and invest big bucks in new equipment and software?

Megatechnologies has staked its future on its ability to show clients that the answer is "no."

"Although some companies choose to make further investments, we begin by working with existing hardware and software," Dunk explained. "And often we find that only minor changes need to be made."

"These can include modifications to presently inadequate or incompatible hardware, simple changes to software to provide a better fit, or training of personnel who will be using the computers."

According to Dunk, hardware incompatibility may be due to something as simple as too little memory.

Software changes may include generating business reports that provide adequate information.

Training in this field, helping people who already know their job well to discover how their computer can help them perform it easier, faster and more efficiently, has traditionally been done in a classroom setting.

But Megatechnologies believes that they have a new twist.

"We knew that businesses could find computer companies they could go to for training," Dunk said. "But we offer them on-site training."

"In other words, it's training that we provide on the companies' own computers. This allows them to be more comfortable and better able to make the most of their training."

Other options for companies that choose to make further investments include additional computers in existing offices and networking computers together to make more efficient use of both computers and software.

Dunk stresses that every job must be evaluated on its individual merits.

"We are systems analysts," she said. "We always approach our projects with interviews and other tools to find out the customer's needs, plans and budget. Then we try to fit all criteria together so that the customer receives the most for their money."

Finally, she concludes, Megatechnologies makes sure, as part of the package, that all people using their computer system are completely familiar with it and understand the power of it.

"I guess you could just say that we're in business to help companies get the most from their computers," she said.

Anyone interested in contacting Megatechnologies can write Patricia Dunk at Post Office Box 576, Milford, MI 48042, or they can phone 684-1424.

Business Briefs

Richard H. Headlee, chairperson, president and chief executive officer of Alexander Hamilton Life Insurance Co., announced the appointment of CYNTHIA MARTIN as manager, benefits administration. As benefits administration manager, Martin will implement and administer child dependent care, employee assistance, long term care and other employee benefit programs. The newest of these, long-term care, is designed to provide Hamilton employees and their families with nursing home and home care services.

Martin, a Novi resident, has been employed by Hamilton since 1983. She previously worked for the Farmington Hills Chiropractic Clinic. Hamilton's child dependent care program, under Martin's direction, was recently recognized by The House Republican Task Force on Child Care.

Alexander Hamilton Life now ranks among the top 5 percent of all North American life insurance in force, with 1.3 million policyowners. Hamilton now employs over 600 people from Wayne, Oakland and Macomb Counties. Hamilton has recently received community recognition for its child dependent care program.

Household International (NYSE), a major provider of consumer and commercial financial services with assets totalling $26 billion, acquired Hamilton in 1977.

Comerica Bank-Detroit, principal subsidiary of Comerica Incorporated, has appointed NOVI RESIDENT RICHARD L. RUDOLPH as corporate banking officer, middle market banking. Chairperson Eugene A. Miller made the announcement.

Rudolph joined the company in 1987 as a loan analyst. He received a bachelor's degree in 1974 from Michigan State University and a master's degree in 1986 from the same university.

Get the most from that tax refund

EDUCATE YOURSELF

If a lack of funds has prevented you from enrolling in a course that could help further your career, your tax refund may help you scale that obstacle. In fact, enrolling in an educational course related to your current work may yield more than knowledge. According to the Michigan Association of CPAs, you can deduct your expenses if you meet the guidelines specified by today's tax laws.

To qualify for the deduction requirements, you must be required by your employer or by law to take the course to maintain your salary, status or job. If this is the case, make sure that the educational course actually serves a business rather than a purely personal purpose.

If the studies you pursue maintain or improve skills related to your present work, the expenses are generally deductible to the extent that they exceed 2 percent of your adjusted gross income. However, the IRS can disallow a deduction if the education qualifies you for a new trade or business.

BUILD AN EMERGENCY FUND

Finally, your tax refund can be your first step to building an emergency fund which can minimize the financial devastation of an unexpected emergency, such as an extended illness or lost job. CPAs recommend that you have savings equal to at least six months of living expenses.

Whatever you decide to do with your tax refund, remember that the money you are spending is money you earned by working long, hard hours. Spend it or invest it the same way you would any other hard-earned income — with care and intelligence.

dit card bills, it's time to start saving. But don't settle for an account paying 6 to 7 percent interest. At those rates, you will barely keep up with inflation. Instead, shop for an investment that offers the best yield — and the best match for your risk tolerance.

With $1,000, you can begin investing in many all weather, no load mutual funds. For a more secure return, consider investing in a certificate of deposit with an effective annual yield of at least 8 percent (depending on maturity).

START A COLLEGE FUND

For parents planning for a newborn's future education, a tax refund can be small but significant step toward building a college fund. For example, you can purchase U.S. Series EE Savings Bonds for a modest sum. As an added bonus, any interest earned on EE Savings Bonds purchased after 1989 will generally be tax free if you redeem the bonds to finance your child's educational expenses, including tuition and other required fees.

However, bear in mind that the break is phased out for joint filers with an adjusted gross income (AGI) of $60,000 to $90,000 and for single filers with an AGI of $40,000 to $55,000.

MAKE A CONTRIBUTION TO AN IRA

Individual Retirement Accounts (IRAs) are alive and well — and may be just the place to stash your tax refund. By contributing to an IRA, you can fortify your retirement nest egg.

In addition, you may still be able to deduct the contribution on your 1990 tax return if you (and your spouse) do not actively participate in an employer-sponsored retirement plan. If you are covered by a retirement plan at your job, all is not lost.

Single taxpayers with an adjusted gross income (AGI) of $25,000 or less may continue to deduct up to $2,000 for an IRA. Likewise, married taxpayers with an AGI of $40,000 or less can still deduct up to $4,000 if both spouses work and each earns at least $2,000. A partial deduction is allowed for single taxpayers with an AGI between $25,000 and $35,000 and married couples with an AGI between $40,000 and $50,000.

ADD A FIREPLACE, A CLOSET, OR . . .

There's no place like home, and few investments are as enjoyable as home improvements. Your tax refund can be the key to installing a fireplace or making some other long-postponed improvement to your home. Remember, the benefits of home improvements are multiple. First, you may increase the potential selling price of your home.

Second, any money spent on home improvements is added to your basis — the amount you paid to obtain your property. When you do sell your home, the basis will help determine the amount of profit or loss you may have to report on your tax return.

You open your mailbox and find a substantial tax refund from the Internal Revenue Service. What do you do? The answer for many individuals is: spend it.

The Michigan Association of CPAs urges you to remember that a tax refund is not found money — and most certainly not an open invitation to spend recklessly. Used properly, a tax refund can go a long way toward improving one's financial fitness.

PAY OFF A CREDIT CARD BILL

Take a look at your credit card balances. If you have outstanding debt, one of the smartest moves you can make is to use your refund to pay off all or part of your credit card bills. For instance, if you owe approximately $1,600 in debt and pay 19 percent interest that level of debt can cost up to $304 a year. To make matters worse, only 10 percent of the interest, or $30.40, is tax deductible in 1990.

CPAs point out that you save more money by paying off outstanding debt than by placing the same amount in an average money market account. If you have any doubts, consider the following example. Mark plans to deposit $1,000 in a bank account earning 8 percent interest. By the end of the year, he will have earned $80 in interest.

However, since Mark is in the 28 percent tax bracket, that $80 will be worth just $58 after taxes. On the other hand, if Mark pays off $1,000 on a credit card bill charging 18 percent interest, he will save $180 in annual interest payments. Thus, Mark can actually save more by paying off his debt rather than banking the 1,000.

Kelly helps out displaced homemakers

Kelly Services, Inc., the nation's largest temporary help firm, recently announced the introduction of a national recruiting program to assist displaced homemakers in reentering the workforce.

Through the Kelly Displaced Homemakers Program, women who have lost their financial resources through a husband's death, disability or divorce, will learn to utilize their strengths and skills with temporary employment. Benefits of temporary employment include flexible scheduling, free training and a variety of work experience.

"We have always been advocates of employing those who wish to enter or reenter the workforce, whether it be through our Kelly Temporary Services or Kelly Assisted Living offices," said Terence E. Adderley, president and chief executive officer of Kelly Services. "This program is another example of how Kelly Services continuously works to meet the needs of the changing workforce."

Kelly is working with the Displaced Homemakers Network (DHN) to ensure that each DHN local affiliate is aware of this program and the opportunities that exist for members, which include free training and personal attention from Kelly staff.

Through the Kelly Displaced Homemakers Program, women will gain experience and skills for future full-time employment, or choose temporary employment as a long-term solution to the need for a flexible work schedule.

Kelly Services also sponsored the distribution of "Partners in Change," a video developed for the DHN, directed to both the employer and the homemaker. Available through local DHN offices, this video reiterates the strengths and skills homemakers can bring to the workforce.

The Displaced Homemakers Network, based in Washington, D.C., provides counseling, workshops, skills training and job assistance to displaced homemakers.

Kelly Service, Inc., employs more than 560,000 temporary employees annually and operates more than 950 offices in the U.S., Puerto Rico, Canada, England, Ireland, Scotland, Wales, France, Australia, New Zealand and the Netherlands.

In its 42nd Annual Report on American Industry, Forbes magazine selected Kelly Services as the best business services and supplies company for the 1990s. Kelly was one of 20 American companies chosen by Forbes as best prepared for the 1990s.

Kelly Temporary Services division provides temporary employees in the areas of office, marketing, light industrial and technical to 175,000 customers each year.

Kelly Assisted Living, a wholly owned subsidiary of Kelly Services, Inc., provides companionship and care in the home through 100 offices in 30 states.

Cedar, redwood siding requires preservatives

By Gene Gary

Q: We own a two-story house that has a cedar siding exterior. The house is 15 years old, and we have never added oil or preservative to the siding. The builders said it was not necessary. Other people have said it should be oiled or have a preservative coating added.

A: We have some minor splitting on the south side, where it is exposed to the most sun. Otherwise, it still looks good.

Q: Should we leave this exterior siding alone, or should it be treated with something for protection?—A.M.

A: Even with the natural weather resistance that makes woods such as cedar and redwood so suitable for siding, decking and other outdoor uses, they still need some additional protection to stand up to constant exposure to harsh rains, snow and the damaging rays of the sun. There are literally dozens of products designed expressly for the purpose of protecting outdoor wood surfaces.

You can maintain the natural finish and simply treat the wood with a water repellent. When used on doors, they may need to be applied in several coats and renewed every year or two. Paint is another common solution. However, these are not the only solutions.

Exterior wood stains are another good way to protect wood from moisture, rot, mildew and other weather-related problems. Stains treated with wood preservative compounds such as copper naphthenate, zinc naphthenate, copper-8-quinolinate, polyphase and TETO (bis-tributyltin-oxide) offer sturdier protection from the elements.

These preservatives penetrate the wood, rather than forming a film on the surface. They come in a wide variety of colors and in oil and latex bases to suit both your decorating and cleanup preferences. Latex and vinyl-base stains don't penetrate as well as oils but can be cleaned up with water.

Oil-base stains are made with linseed oil or any number of vegetable oils. Linseed-oil stains have superior penetrating ability, but are relatively slow-drying and tend to yellow. Modified-oil stains may be made from linseed oil that has been heat-treated to resist yellowing or may have resins added to upgrade surface protection.

Alkyd-resin stains have a base made from vegetable oils and are best for applying to new, untreated wood. If you want the wood grain to show through, choose a semitransparent stain.

In addition to the basic ingredients, many stains also are formulated with water repellents, wood preservatives, mildewcides and fungicides. Water repellents help to prevent cracking that can occur when wood repeatedly absorbs moisture and then loses it through evaporation. Preservatives discourage rot, and mildewcides and fungicides guard against discoloration caused by organic growths.

Be sure the wood siding is thoroughly cleaned and dried prior to the application of any stain or water repellent. Unprotected wood that has been allowed to weather may be water-stained, mildewed or streaked with rot.

To remove dirt, grime and mildew, scrub the siding with a stiff-bristle brush (do not use a wire brush) using a solution of ½ cup trisodium phosphate mixed with ½ cup of detergent, 1 quart of household bleach and 3 quarts of warm water. Rinse with plenty of clear water.

An effective treatment for brightening the natural finish and restoring color prior to any treatment is to use oxalic acid crystals per gallon of water in a non-metallic container. Using a cloth or soft brush, apply to an entire board area at a time. When the wood dries, rinse with clear water. More than one application may be necessary if discoloration is severe.

Use extreme care in handling oxalic acid. It is poisonous, but not dangerous if precautions are taken. Wear rubber gloves, avoid contact with skin or eyes. Pour acid into water when mixing, not the other way.

Q: I am considering purchasing a home where the previous owner attached linoleum square and mirror squares to the walls. Do you know how to remove them without destroying the finish on the walls?

A: I don't look forward to a big finishing job. The walls are wallboard construction.—A.D.

A: An effective way to remove tiles is to use an iron, turned to its highest setting, then slowly move it over one tile at a time. This will soften the mastic so you can remove the tile.

Another recommendation, this one from a reader, to use ordinary 30- to 50-pound test monofilament fishing line. Slip behind the mirror squares or tiles and pull it like a saw in both directions. This will cut through the mastic without damage to the wall or tile. Remove mastic from the wall surface with a suitable solvent.

You may have to experiment with several different varieties to find the right one. A good paint store can offer suggestions.

Great treats in these retreats

When you walk from room to room in your home, are you happy with what you see?

Apart from clutter and cleanliness — do you like the furnishings? Are the rooms well-utilized?

If your answer is "Not really," chances are you're ripe for redecorating — and possible redefining the spaces in which you live.

What follow are enhancement suggestions for rooms that often are given a low priority — but have tremendous potential.

BEDROOMS

In "A Complete Guide to Interior Design" (Simon and Schuster), the editors of House & Garden call bedrooms "serene sanctums around the clock."

The editors' primary suggestion for bedroom interior design is "to remember every detail in terms of comfort and convenience." These details include simplicity for the sake of serenity, total noise control (sound-baffling wall paneling helps, as does wall-to-wall carpeting) and total control over daylight (block out unwanted light with shades or curtains).

To ensure a good night's sleep, provide yourself with an excellent bed and mattress. You'll also want good reading lamps and a light switch close at hand.

Treat you feet to a bedside rug or soft floor covering, and decorate with your favorite colors, lots of pillows, plants or fresh flowers.

Try to include one or two soft chairs as well as bedside tables with enough space to hold a clock, radio, tissues, books, and more.

Something from the past will lend interest. It could be a picture, an old rocking chair or the bed itself.

Consider decorating with designer sheets. A Laura Ashley or Ralph Lauren collection, for example, might consist of a splashy floral you can combine with coordinated stripes, checks, smaller prints or solids, which you use for slipcovers, curtains and/or table skirts — all of which match your bedding and accessories.

GUEST ROOMS

It's hard to get perspective on your guest room — unless you pack your bags and move into it for a few days.

Follow the above suggestions for creating a beautiful and functional bedroom, but in addition, bless your guests with at least half of a closet, empty except for clothes hangers. Also provide one or two drawers in a chest or table.

Agreeable extras include a full-length mirror and a television set camouflaged in an armoire or chest (so it won't stare back at your guests).

If there's room, add a large trunk that stores extra bedding and can support an opened suitcase.

Is your guest room small — or does it do double duty as a den or library? Go ahead and save space with a sofa that converts into a bed — new versions are vastly more comfortable than their predecessors.

MEDIA ROOMS

If staying home and enjoying a high-tech entertainment system appeals to you, chances are you already own a wide-screen television set, a VCR, a compact disc player and an excellent sound system. But do you have the perfect place to put them?

Consider converting your family room (or the den, attic, basement) into a media room. A large furniture store can supply you with items designed to hold all your equipment — in style.

Comfort is key. You'll need cushy chairs or recliners and an overstuffed sofa. Add a small refrigerator, a microwave oven and whatever else connotes luxury to you.

HOME OFFICES

Computer technology, combined with telephone and fax machines — and such conveniences as desktop copiers — make working at home easier and more efficient than ever. And you can't beat the commute.

Because of increased demand, more and more furniture manufacturers are offering complete lines of furnishings for home offices: desks, swivel chairs, computer tables, light fixtures, filing cabinets and shelving — at affordable prices.

"The environment should fit your work style," advises Success magazine. "You don't have to outfit your office like George Jetson's to be ergonomic. Comfort increases productivity. Have pencils, note pads, tape, floppy disks, a stapler and other everyday tools within arm's length. Your office furniture should fit you instead of your having to contort yourself to fit it."

SEWING ROOMS

If you love to sew, set aside a space for you hobby.

A sewing room needn't be large;

you can convert a pantry, breakfast room, walk-in closet or a corner of the garage.

Essentials for your special area include a work table that can double as a desk with your machine set on top of it or just under it, an iron and ironing board just a few steps away, good lighting over your work space and a closet, trunk, basket or chest or drawers to store your patterns, notions and fabrics.

DINING ROOMS

What's new in dining rooms? Halogen pendant lighting instead of chandeliers. Upholstered chairs that swivel like executive office chairs. Wood tables painted or stained in soft, light shades, then "distressed" to look antique. Convertible tables — flip their tops and they become playing surfaces for card games or billiards.

What's out in dining room design? Quite possibly, the once-popular trend toward combination kitchen/dining rooms that are open to each other, ostensibly so guests can visit with hosts during dinner preparation.

The idea is appealing, but one woman protests, "I don't want my guests watching my every culinary move, nor do I like looking into the kitchen 'battlefield' when we're at the dining table."

If you share a similar situation and don't want to incur the costs of remodeling, separate the areas with folding screens covered in a fabric or wall covering that coordinates with the rest of the room.

Around the House: Designs for Living

ROSEWOOD

New design offers privacy

By James McAlexander

The three-bedroom, two-bath Rosewood offers an unusual amount of privacy. Unlike most homes, which face the street, the Rosewood has living room windows that look out over the quieter and more scenic backyard area.

In addition, the garage is located in front of the house, between the sleeping wing and the sounds of the street.

To the left of the front door is a large, fully equipped kitchen, brightened by a nice-size window and open to the dining room. Between the kitchen and dining room, a convenient eating bar is almost like a built-in breakfast nook.

Large picture windows make the dining room as cheerful as the kitchen. Together, the living and dining room forms a single space for hosting large parties. The living room fireplace is dramatically accented by a large window on one side and sliding doors to a private outdoor patio on the other side.

Off the front hall is a very practical utility room with several convenient features. It provides an out-of-the-way location for the washer and dryer. It also has a modest work area, a door to the garage and a closet large enough for storing all those things that just don't seem to fit anywhere else in the house.

Across the hall from the utility room is the front bathroom, which is brightened by a cheerful skylight.

The bedrooms are in a separate wing, away from the sounds of the rest of the house.

The large master bedroom features a touch of luxury. Next to the large walk-in closet is a double sink, located right in the bedroom. The two sinks make it easy for a couple to wash or dress at the same time. The toilet and bath are in a separate room.

The two children's bedrooms are separated by back-to-back closets, so children won't disturb each other. The back hallway includes a handy linen closet.

Sheltered from the street, and with a floor plan that separates the living and sleeping areas, the Rosewood is designed for quiet, peaceful living.

For a study plan of the Rosewood, (200 23), send $5 to Landmark Designs, P.O. Box 2307 CN, Eugene, OR 97402. (Be sure to specify plan name and number when ordering.)

Young families finding ways to buy first home

By James M. Woodard

Buying a home for the first time in today's market is about as difficult as becoming a player with a major league baseball team. Or so it seems.

However, many young families are finding ways to acquire their own first home. The dream is not as elusive as many seem to think.

Let's discuss a few methods now being successfully used.

The zooming price of homes is, of course, the primary culprit. And what a varied range these prices take in different states.

During the past year, the average price of homes selling in Iowa was $48,883. In Hawaii it was $228,983. Those are figures just announced by Century 21 Real Estate Corp.

Another Century 21 report revealed that 38 percent of the more than 400,000 property transactions recorded during the past year by this real estate franchise organization (the nation's largest) were homes sold to first-time buyers. That means a lot of young families found a workable way to acquire a home.

Most families now earn two incomes. And that's a big help when it comes to affording a home and qualifying for a mortgage loan. But with other rising costs, it's tough to save for a down payment.

In fact, recent studies have shown that about a quarter of today's young families have the combined income needed to finance a home, but they lack the needed down payment.

An increasing number of families are solving that problem by working out an equity-sharing arrangement with a family member, friend or independent investor.

My personal first home buying experience is a good and simple example of how this works. In today's real estate terms, our arrangement would be called "equity-sharing with built-in equity kicker." If I had heard that term then, I probably would never have attempted it.

Our arrangement was simple and workable. My bride and I found the ideal first home in a suburb of Des Moines, Iowa. We could handle the mortgage payments and other costs of ownership, but didn't have enough savings to cover the down payment and closing costs.

We made an informal deal with my parents. They would provide half the cash needed for the down payment and closing costs. In return, we pay them modest interest payments (at a below market interest rate), and at the time we sell the home, they would receive half the appreciation in value.

It all worked out perfectly. We owned our first dream home. And my parents ultimately made a nice return on their investment.

The equity-sharing concept in today's market has become much more sophisticated. There are now firms that specialize in putting home buyers and investors together in equity-sharing contractual arrangements. But the most effective plans are often very basic and simple.

In other cases, parents are either making simple loans or gifts to offspring to make it possible for them to acquire a home.

Some couples are participating in "sweat equity" programs to obtain their own home. This means they agree to work on the home in exchange for a lower price and down payment, and often more favorable financing terms. This can apply to an older home or one under construction.

The new home "sweat equity" programs are usually sponsored and structured by a local non-profit organization or agency. These groups will generally set up the program and provide assistance and training for qualified low-income families who participate.

Each family is required to invest a certain amount of construction labor, and then is given the opportunity to own one of the new homes at a price far below market value.

If you are interested in this concept, contact the housing assistance office or other appropriate agency in your city or county.

There are a number of new programs now emerging that are specifically structured to help first-time buyers. One of the most innovative is a joint program organized by the National Association of Home Builders and the Federal National Mortgage Association (Fannie Mae).

The new program, called Affordable Housing Initiative, includes the construction and rehabilitation of single-family and multiple-unit housing projects. Units may be purchased by low-income families or rented.

No frills look works in design

By Rose Bennett Gilbert

Q: I am an interior decorator by profession, and a good one, if I do say so myself. My problem is, I can never bring clients into my apartment (where I work) because I have never actually decorated it for myself.

A: After working on other people's places all day, I like coming home to open spaces and plain colors. Is this weird?—R.N. Stowe, VI.

A: It's surprising, perhaps, for a decorator to dislike practicing what she "preaches," but it's neither weird nor all that unusual.

As a designer friend in New York once told me, the professionals see so much—and can buy wholesale, remember—that they often get surfeited. Or just plain bored by the idea of committing to one style or color scheme for a long time.

The photo we show here should offer solace. It's of the personal bedroom of a successful Boston designer who evidently shares your taste for the spare.

There is no color, no frills, certainly no "cozy clutter." Yet the room has a great clean spacious quality that it as appealing as it is dramatic.

I think you should have the courage of your convictions: Set the living room of your apartment up so it really looks like a design office. Your clients need never know you live "next door."

Q: Our eat-in kitchen is a delight in the morning—it faces east and is flooded with sunshine. The trouble is, the rest of the apartment is dark and gloomy all day long.

A: We are thinking about knocking out the wall between the kitchen and dining/living room so the light can get in there, too. What do you think?—L.M., Baltimore, Md.

A: I have just seen an apartment where the owners arrived at exactly the same conclusion and acted on it. The results are worth the effort—the rest of the apartment now enjoys natural light, if not actual sunshine.

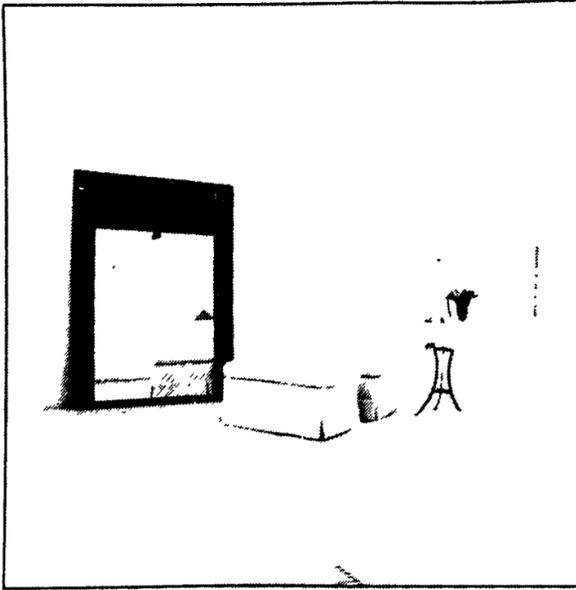

They worked with a professional kitchen designer—a good idea, too—who replaced the full-height wall with a pass-through counter at chair rail height.

She arched the top of the new opening and covered the counter-top with hand-painted ceramic tiles, so net-net, as they say, the remodeling job became an asset in more ways than one.

Q: Our entry hall is tiny, barely a half-dozen "baby-steps" from the front door to living room.

A: Give me some ideas on how to make it look bigger.—K.S., Austin, Texas.

A: Apply time-honored trompe l'oeil (fool-the-eye) tricks, such as: •Paint walls, ceiling and inside doors all the same color. Light, fresh colors always make space look larger but . . .

Minimal furniture equals maximum impact in the understated bedroom of an interior designer in Boston

•Conversely, so do dark cozy colors. Overscaled wall covering patterns have the same space-stretching effect, if you're bold enough to try them.

•Lay flooring—ceramic tiles or patterned carpet—on the diagonal to "push" the walls apart.

•Keep furniture minimal—and miniature. A narrow wall-hung shelf is better than a floor-standing table or console.

Books on comedy are deadly serious

By Linda Rosenkrantz

Comedy has been taken seriously for a long time (take Aristophanes, for example), but it is only in the recent past that pop-culture comedy has entered the groves of academe, with doctoral theses being written on the screwball comedy of the Golden Age and postling categorical comparisons of Ralph Kramden and Archie Bunker.

Lately, there has been a spate of books taking the comics—both in strip and book form—very, very seriously.

Two of the most recent have been issued by a university press—the University Press of Mississippi—and, if you have been superficial enough to have been taking Blondie or Batman at face value, you might want to take a gander.

To be fair, the first of these volumes, "Comics Books as History" by Joseph Witek (University Press of Mississippi, 3825 Ridgewood Road, Jackson, MS 39211;) 164 pages; $30 cloth, $14.95 paper), does not deal with mainstream comics.

The author singles out three narrative artists, Jack Jackson, Art

Spiegelman and Harvey Pekar, who have turned to the comic genre for the expression of weighty content.

Witek's thesis is that critical analysis of the form is necessary at this time because of the growing number of American comic books being written as adult literature, moving away from the traditional escapist themes directed at younger readers in the past.

Spiegelman's "Maus: A Survivor's Tale," for example, is a tale of the Holocaust, based on the experiences of the author's family, in which the characters are drawn as anthropomorphized animals—Jews as mice, Nazis as cats, etc. This book was so well-received that it was nominated by the National Book Critics Circle for its annual award in biography, forever changing, as the author points out, the cultural perception of what a comic book can be.

M. Thomas Inge's "Comics As Culture" (University Press of Mississippi, 177 pages; $32.50 cloth, $16.95 paper) mines more familiar territory, but comes up with some very innovative ideas.

Linda Rosenkrantz edited Auction magazine and authored five books.

Foreign-born residents struggle with new culture and customs

By LESLIE PEREIRA
Staff Writer

The room accessories could have taught the lesson.

Framing the upper perimeter of the room are pictures of all the presidents from George to George Washington's black-and-white face stares solemnly across the rows of desks to Bush's smiling color photo.

And American flags galore.

Linda Barnes of Northville drinks it all in happily.

"I think it has been very valuable," Barnes said with a mild English accent of the unusual class she is enrolled in.

She and her husband, Ken, are two of the six foreign-born students in Buck Shomo's "Becoming an American Citizen" course offered through Novi's community education center.

Born in England, the Barnes' moved to the U.S. in 1981 for an intended two-year job stint that has stretched to nine years and counting.

"Different opportunities arose so we decided to stay," said Barnes, a true believer in the American dream. "The United States still can give you a good life if you are willing to work hard."

Barnes and her husband decided to take the course as a quicker-than-normal route to obtaining an American citizenship card and the promise of voting rights that citizenship holds.

"The most important thing that a citizen gets is the right to vote," said Barnes. As residents, but not full-fledged citizens, Barnes and her husband have been required to pay U.S. income taxes for nine years without the right to help decide how their taxes will be spent, Barnes explained.

"That is taxation without representation for one thing," said Barnes, calling upon her newfound knowledge of the Boston Tea Party to find a suitable analogy.

And while Barnes is adamant about becoming a citizen on fairness grounds, Novi resident Toni Pascucci does not necessarily share her sense of outrage over taxation.

Pascucci, who left Italy in 1959, said in broken English, "I live in this country. My kids are all citizens, my wife is a citizen, so why not me?"

However, Pascucci's nonchalant attitude disguises the amount of time and effort an interested immigrant must actually put into becoming an American citizen.

Under the Novi program, each candidate must attend at least 60 hours of class in which they study everything from slavery and civil rights to Prohibition and the California gold rush. Previously, candidates were required to undergo an oral exam in front of a panel of immigration and Naturalization Service officials after much self-preparation.

Shomo, who teaches the Novi course, said it is a pilot program created in response to the increased number of U.S. residents desiring the full rights and privileges of citizenship.

Carol Saunders, of the Novi/South Lyon Adult Education Program, said the heavy load of citizenship seekers is the result of a recent amnesty declared by the federal government. The Immigration Reform and Control Act, signed by President Reagan in 1986, took effect in 1987 and allowed many illegal aliens residing in the U.S. to be free from the threat of deportation and eligible for eventual citizenship after cutting through the proper red tape.

First step is to learn language

By LESLIE PEREIRA
Staff Writer

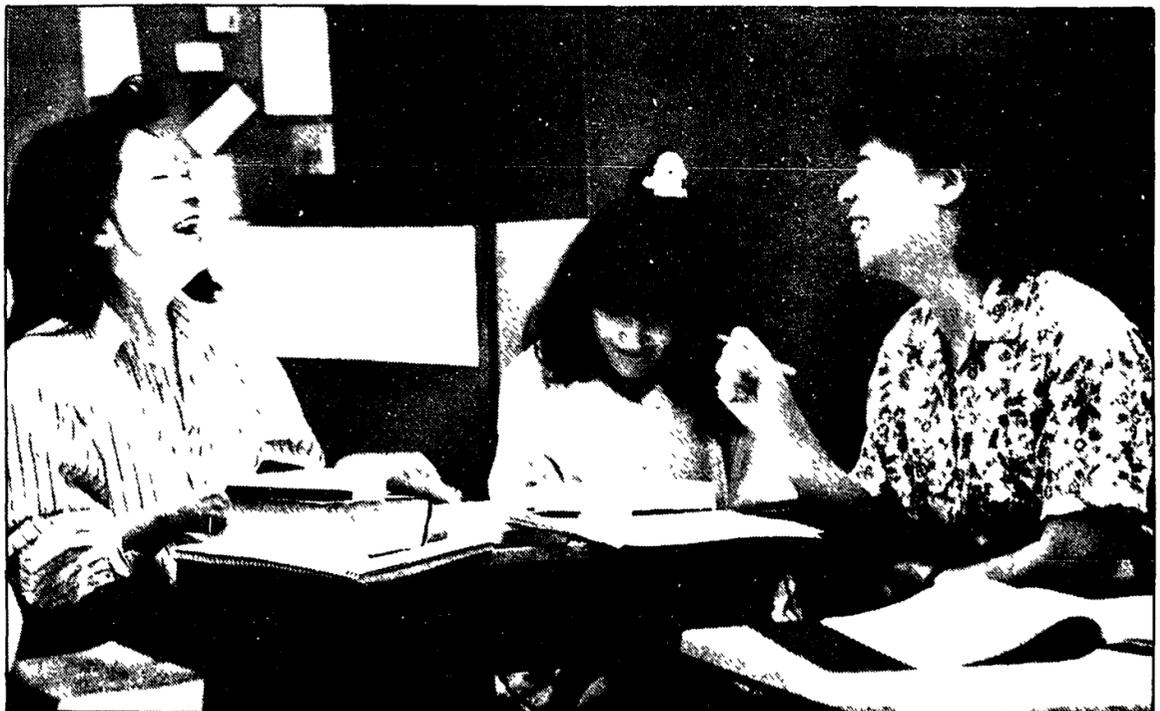

This week in class they learned about popular American culture by watching Bill Cosby on television.

"His speech is very difficult for me — very fast," said Miho Uno, who is studying English as a second language (ESL) through Novi's Community Education program.

Uno and her husband moved to Novi last September and she has been attending the English for non-English speakers course to improve her communication skills and broaden her knowledge of American society.

"We do everything from teaching English to organizing little events and talking about American traditions," said Carol Saunders, coordinator for the Novi/South Lyon Adult Education program.

At Easter time the class of mainly mothers and young wives had their first experience with Easter egg-dyeing and basket making. And although Uno still didn't quite understand why she was coloring eggs, she said she would probably continue the tradition.

Flower show is this weekend

By LESLIE PEREIRA
Staff Writer

Northville's third Annual Flower Show will be taking place this weekend downtown on Main Street. The show/sale begins each morning at 9 a.m. and runs until dusk on Friday and 6 p.m. on Saturday.

The show is sponsored by the Northville Merchant's Association and is run something like the Eastern Market. All of the many ferns, small trees, hanging plants and more, will be available for sale.

Mill Race Museum

The Mill Race Museum opened July, 1987 in the eastern half of the newly completed Hirsch Blacksmith Shop building. It has housed a variety of changing exhibits since its opening. These exhibits include: Works by Northville Artists; Northville, Business Then and Now; Quilts of our time; The Northville Historical Society — 25 Years; Clothing From Our Past; and others. This year's opening exhibit recreates the General Store of Northville's 19th Century. In this exhibit children and adults can view items from our Victorian past. The display includes paraphernalia which would have been available in the general store of that time period as well as current merchandise for sale. They welcome comments and suggestions for this exhibit as well as for future potential exhibits.

Art show

Walter Holinoty of Northville, a graduating senior at Madonna College, will hold a one-man Art Show in the Exhibit Gallery, Library Wing on the College campus now until June 7. A reception will kick off the exhibit of commercial and fine art on Sunday, May 20, 2-4 p.m. in Room 294. The public is welcome, free of charge.

Holinoty, a Fine Arts/Commercial Art/Video Communications major, in addition to being a talented artist, was selected as a national leader in the 1990 edition of Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges.

Waterford Bend Questers

On May 8, the Waterford Bend Questers 1013 held their final meeting of the year in Plymouth at "Helen and Elaine's Farmhouse," a beautiful old house in the process of being restored. The new officers for 1990-1992 were installed:

- President — Mrs. Roy Mattison
- First Vice-President — Mrs. William Kinnaird
- Second Vice-President — Mrs. Thomas Lynch
- Recording Secretary — Mrs. Arthur Jacobs
- Corresponding Secretary — Mrs. John Yetso
- Treasurer — Mrs. Walter Schacht
- Publicity — Mrs. James Hamilton
- Parliamentarian — Mrs. Arthur Greenlee
- Historian — Mrs. Jack Ellison

The group is planning a field trip to the Toledo Museum for the "Romance of the Taj Mahal" exhibit on Thursday, May 31. Carpool at China Fair parking lot at 8:15 a.m.

Fund distribution

The Northville Town Hall Committee is asking that organizations wishing to share in its annual Board of Awards presentations make their applications now by writing: Northville Town Hall, Box 93, Northville, Mich. 48167, Attn: Board of Awards Chairperson.

Since members are drawn from Plymouth, Farmington, Novi, Livonia and South Lyon, as well as Northville, they find it only proper to return part of the proceeds to charities in these areas. To this end, the following impartial board was appointed to select deserving recipients of these funds.
 Plymouth — Mrs. Charles Childs
 Livonia — Mary Dumas
 Farmington — Mrs. E. Quentin Proctor
 Novi — Mrs. Francis Korte
 Northville — Mrs. Roy Mattison (chairperson), Herman Moehlman, Mrs. Douglas Bolton and Mrs. Paul Vernon.
 The deadline for sending in applications is May 31.

Town Hall tickets

Tickets for the 1990-91 Town Hall speaker series are still on sale. Speakers will be: "As The World Turns" soap opera star Eileen Fulton on Oct. 11; former Iranian hostage Col. Charles Scott on Nov. 8; Miss America 1988, Kaye Lani Raye Raftko, on March 14, 1991; and veteran newsman Jack Reynolds on April 11, 1991.

The cost is $30 for tickets to the series of four lectures. To order tickets, write to: Northville Town Hall, Box 93, Northville 48167. Tickets to the post-speech luncheons will be available for purchase after June 1 and will cost $11 each. Luncheon tickets are only available to those persons who have already purchased lecture series tickets. Registration forms and payment for the luncheons should be sent to the above address, but not until after June 1. Make checks payable to Northville Town Hall.

Fred and Debi DeLong cruise on their Honda Gold Wing road rider

Record/RAY MANNING

Area bike group is golden

By LESLIE PEREIRA
Staff Writer

Fred and Debi DeLong belong to a motorcycle group.

Despite what you are probably thinking, neither of them has a tattoo, Fred has no facial hair, and Debi's riding clothes are not skin-tight or black leather.

"We are trying to break the stigma," said Debi DeLong, a member of the Gold Wing Road Riders Association (GWRRA). "The Hell's Angels are the other side of the spectrum from us."

And, her husband Fred DeLong, an area representative for the group's Novi-based chapter chimed in, "We are just everyday people with a particular sport."

It is a sport they are both good at and popular in. Recently named "Couple of the Year for Chapter H," the DeLongs were selected to represent Michigan at the next level of Gold Wing riders' couple competition. This distinction earned them $150 of traveling money, a champagne toast from their fellow riders and a flag announcing their hard-fought title flying on the back of their bike.

The GWRRA, begun in 1977 by seven passionate biker couples, is now an international organization with enthusiastic riders in 24 different countries and all 50 of the United States. Gold Wings in Michigan alone gained enough membership to divide themselves into 32 different local chapters with more than 2,000 riders throughout the state. The group's only requirement for membership is the ownership of a Honda Gold Wing bike.

For purposes of comparison, the Gold Wing motorcycle is the equivalent of a Rolls Royce in the car industry — it is the luxury ride for the leisure rider.

"A bike like this today runs $10,000," said Fred. And, Debi adds quickly, "that's before the toys."

Record/RAY MANNING

The DeLong's Gold Wing road rider has an intricate control panel and plenty of extras

The DeLongs' Gold Wing is an immaculate rose-beige machine wrapped in chrome. The velvety brown double-seat was custom designed for each of their individual weights and leg proportions. The fully-loaded motorcycle is complete with cruise control, a CB radio, an AM-FM stereo cassette player, a trailer-hitch, a make-up mirror — and, lest it go unnoticed, a high-frequency deer horn.

No, the DeLongs are not what one might expect of the typical biker couple. Dressed in matching outfits, they are sporting their usual riding garb: white cotton polo shirts embroidered with their names and Gold Wing logo, buttoned to the neck and sealed with a bolo tie, black denim jeans and a bright red belt. Fred is 42, Debi is 37, both have a hint of a southern drawl, and both hold white-collar jobs at IBM.

Married almost seven years, the DeLongs cruise weekly on their Gold Wing. The bike, purchased new in 1986, now has 17,000 miles on it.

"I enjoy this because it gives me the opportunity to be with other people with similar interests," Fred said. "When I rode smaller bikes, I didn't find many people to ride with."

Not only do their fellow Chapter H bikers serve as a traveling entourage on road trips both long and short, but they also constitute an important aspect of the DeLongs' social lives. Chapter H, which covers both Novi and Northville, meets for breakfast every Sunday morning at the Union 76 Truckstop and every Wednesday evening at Donna's Truck Stop before leaving on an ice cream run.

And, in addition to the group's outings and fun activities, both Fred and Debi are very serious when it comes to mentioning the organization's charity benefits. They took turns adding to the list of the organization's good deeds which range from participation in the Novi Youth Assistance Bowlathon to giving unwed mothers Christmas presents to donating blood for the Red Cross.

Last year the group sponsored a 600-mile pledged motorcycle ride in which more than 60 riders participated. They raised over $37,000 for the Multiple Sclerosis Foundation.

"We are very much a part of the community," Debi said.

And from the sound of their ice cream runs, their multitude of charity events and the fact that they will be riding in Novi's Memorial Day parade, Chapter H of the Gold Wing Road Riders seems to have fulfilled their goal of distinguishing themselves from the Hell's Angels.

Struggling with English

Similar in circumstance to Uno, Noriko Ano relocated from Japan to Novi with her husband and daughter last April. But after attending the English class at Orchard Hills School in Novi since September, she still finds it difficult to convey her thoughts in English.

"I like to come four days a week but has been busy," Ano said haltingly, as if aware that she selected the wrong word tense. Despite concern over her minor semantic mistakes, Ano seemed eager for the opportunity to speak in English, as she and Uno helped each other understand through Japanese each question posed to them in English.

The ESL class is made up mainly of women with working husbands. And although the women are the ones sitting in the classroom, working out the exercises and studying the grammar, they often learn working English at a slower rate than their husbands.

"My husband works at a car company and he must speak English every day," said Keiko Uchiyama, who moved with her family to Northville from Japan more than two years ago. Uchiyama has been studying English since September.

Also slowing their speaking progress is the reality that many of these Japanese women are home alone much of the day, reading Japanese newspapers, belonging to Japanese women's clubs, and speaking Japanese-only to their children — who are quickly forgetting it.

"My two daughters are getting better day by day," said Uchiyama. "But they are forgetting Japanese. Between them, they speak English only at home."

English as a second language to foreign-born residents is taught much like a low-level English course for young students, although the teachers are trained to be sensitive to other cultures and extremely patient.

"You are much more than just a traditional teacher," said Ann Megalizzi, one of the ESL instructors. "These are women that are trying to run homes and wearing many different hats."

Megalizzi said much of their class time is spent working out everyday-type situations considered commonplace for Americans. Paying the bills, going to the post office, doing the shopping — these are the types of things that foreigners must re-learn when they move to a new place. And these are the things that can be traumatic.

"We are working with people who can become very frustrated," said

Saunders.

The Novi-area program has grown immensely over the past three years since an unstructured group of six students met with one teacher, once a week, to practice speaking English. Now the class runs four days a week, with three different levels for varying abilities, a total of 118 students, five teachers, two assistants and numerous volunteers.

Saunders believes there has long been a need for this type of program and also that more foreign-speaking people are moving into the area.

"I have had employers come in and talk to me about what ESL classes are available for their employees," Saunders said. She mentioned the Plymouth Nissan plant as one of those businesses. Saunders said having these types of English classes available in the area is almost like another benefit employers can offer to prospective employees.

"One of our goals is to laugh in class because humor is one of the last things to come," said Megalizzi.

So there they sit — watching Bill Cosby speak quickly from the television with his own brand of wit and sarcasm. But many of his dramatic gestures and facial expressions speak a universal language understood by English and Japanese alike. So they laugh.

A kayaker finds his path blocked by fallen limbs on a trip down the Huron River in Southeastern Michigan

Paddling down the Huron

'Home town river' provides scenic experience for local adventurers

By Eric Malloy

I was on the shore of Proud Lake, near Wixom, on a September morning in the dim light of the coming dawn.

Proud Lake was covered by an extremely dense fog. We had encountered no fog on the drive from home. Apparently the warm lake water and chill air had combined to produce a very localized fog bank.

I was here to paddle my kayak down the Huron River. Having been to this place several years ago, I knew that if I had paddled along the lake shore to my left, the river would continue at the end of the lake.

"I don't see how you're going to know where you're going," said Elaine, my wife.

"Yeah, Dad, you're going to get lost," added my daughter, Alix, in her most critical 7½-year-old tone.

Assuring my family that I knew where I was going, I waved goodbye and paddled off shore.

A few seconds later the fog swallowed me up and I was lost. I travelled by my compass, heading toward the northwest. There was no wind and no sound on the lake, other than the slight hiss of my own small boat moving across the water. I could see the tops of trees above the fog, and by them I tried to judge my distance from the shore. Moments later, a waterfall came into view through the swirling fog, where the lake empties out and the river begins.

Much of the river flows through metroparks or state recreation areas. In these areas, the natural beauty of the stream and the surrounding woods and marshes has been preserved. While floating through Proud Lake Recreation Area, with a little imagination, you can picture yourself on a wilderness adventure in northern Michigan, Canada or even Alaska. This illusion is strengthened if you travel on the river when few other people are around.

On this particular day, I saw three deer along the river, one a buck with a beautiful set of antlers in the stretch between Millford and Kent Lake. I also saw many ducks and geese and great blue herons wading in the shallows. Turtles were sunning themselves on logs, their heads stretched out to receive the warmth of the sun. All this on a river that never leaves the metropolitan area.

Having sampled a section of the river, I wanted to see the rest. I resolved to come back the next year and paddle the Huron until it ended, at its mouth in Lake Erie.

In the springtime, I found myself once again on the shores of the river with my friend, Rudy Pavelka.

We were definitely pushing the boating season, as the ice had left the lake only days before. It was cold—in the thirties—and a raw wind blew from the northwest, directly from the direction we wished to travel. Unlike the previous foggy morning on this lake, the far shore appeared sharp and clear over the cold windswept waters.

We had barely left shore when it started to snow and sleet; the force of the pellets stinging our faces as we dug hard at our paddles to make progress against the wind.

In the river beyond Hubbel pond, we came upon two swans swimming on the water. Seeing us, they took flight downstream, incredibly graceful with long sweeps of their white wings, and were gone from sight around the next bend of the river. A little farther downstream, however, we caught up to where they had landed.

For a while the swans stayed ahead of our boat, using their webbed feet to paddle through the water. Eventually, though, we moved closer to them. Suddenly, one of the birds turned toward us, rearing back its neck and extending its huge wings threateningly.

It took flight and headed straight for our boat. I thought we were going to be attacked. It continued on, its wings almost grazing our heads as it went by, and flew out of sight upstream, the other swan close behind. I called this occurrence, "Attack of the killer swans."

By the time we got to Kent Lake the wind was blowing in earnest once again. It was a March day better for kite flying than boating, with good-sized waves and whitecaps coming at us from the far end of the lake. We spent the next two hours struggling against the wind and whitecaps to reach the far shore, where the I-96 expressway passes overhead.

Beyond the dam that forms Kent Lake, we were rewarded with relative quiet from the wind as the river winds through Island Lake Recreation Area. This is, I think, the most scenic section of the entire river. In some spots, the river flows through marshlands with grasses along the bank; then around a bend and we would be in dense forest, with precise maneuvering required to navigate around fallen tree limbs.

The river here was in spring flood, making it difficult sometimes to tell the main channel. In one spot, the river was flowing through a stand of trees, as it cut across what normally would be a river bend.

At Hudson Mills Metropark we ran an interesting rapids which starts just after the North Territorial Road bridge.

Farther downstream, at Delhi Metropark, is Delhi Rapids. This rapids is probably the most formidable runnable stretch of whitewater in Southern Michigan. Of course, whitewater of any kind is pretty rare in the lower part of the state.

In my kayak, above the drop, adrenaline pumping, my mouth dry. We had decided to run the far left channel. The sun was dancing on the water, making it difficult to see the entry spot I had memorized while scouting. A moment later a small cloud passed in front of the sun, and I started forward.

A tongue of smooth water, then the boat and I dropped down to hit the first wave. A boulder awash on the left and right, but my line was good and I slipped between them. Big waves washed over the bow and up into my lap. The bridge abutment came up fast, I urgently moved the boat to the right. I cleared the bridge abutment, then more big waves. These tapered off and I'm through, following the still swift current around the bend past Delhi Park.

Coming into Ann Arbor, we knew we were in a college town when we came upon the University of Michigan rowing teams practicing on the river. We floated by the huge U of M medical complex, which seemed to loom over the river. We passed by many parks, with the sounds of people, not quite visible above the banks, playing baseball and soccer. The river ran fast through town, with an occasional rapid or riffle.

Helped by the current, we raced by a jogger who was running on a path next to the river and heading downstream.

After Ann Arbor the river passes into a more industrial area, losing much of its scenic quality. There is a portage at the Penninsular Paper Company plant. Beyond downtown Ypsilanti there is the huge Ford Motor Co. plant where the I-94 expressway crosses overhead.

Three Metroparks follow. The country again was wooded, the river meandered. The weather had turned much warmer, with spring wildflowers along the riverbank. As this section is very close to Metropolitan Airport we watched the jets taking off, one passing overhead every couple of minutes.

After passing under the I-75 expressway we entered a marshy area. We saw dozens of wading birds, white egrets and blue herons. We were nearing Lake Erie and the end of our trip.

We drifted under the Jefferson Street bridge and the waters spread out. A few barrier islands were ahead. Beyond was the lake, wide and empty to the horizon. To our right, down the coast, was the Fermi II nuclear power plant. Our final takeout was at the parking lot on the left, at the Point Mouillee State Game Area.

The Huron is our home town river. Each section had its surprises, and it was incredibly varied. It was more than we expected. More rapids, more beautiful, longer and more challenging. I would like to go back to Proud Lake and float its length once again.

Travel industry to be nation's top employer in 10 years

(AP) — By the year 2000, the travel industry will be the nation's top employer, responsible for one of every five workers, the president and chief executive officer of Loews' Hotels says.

The head of the founding division of the $26 billion Loews Corp., Jonathan M. Tisch, told a consortium of travel agencies that the business opportunities in travel and entertainment will continue to burgeon in the coming decade.

"The globalization of business will only increase as we approach the year 2000, and corporate travelers won't suddenly unpack their bags," Tisch said.

American corporations now spend $100 billion annually on travel and entertainment, including $40 billion just on meetings and conventions, he said.

"By the year 2000, the travel industry will be the nation's No. 1 employer, providing jobs to one out of five workers," Tisch said.

"It will need three-quarters of a million new workers every year. With labor shortages a virtual certainty in the 1990s, recruiting and retaining qualified staff will be a daunting task."

Tisch said that among keys to success in the '90s will be earning both customer and employee loyalty. The former will be accomplished in part by the ability to offer the wide range of services that corporate travelers will need, "from meeting planning to incentive travel," he said.

As for the latter, Tisch added, "Like other service industries, hotels and motels are already experiencing severe shortages of qualified line employees and managers, even in major markets. And as service suffers, vacant rooms translate because of vacant jobs."

He said his hotels' administration believes in a decentralized labor force, allowing managers to "make the decisions. We want the people to do the job that we pay them to do. And certainly a manager, whether it be in Tucson or Santa Monica, knows more about what's going on than we do in New York."

He said decentralization lowers overhead and gives the people "the responsibility that they sorely deserve to make the decisions quickly."

Tisch said corporations increasingly are depending on travel agents to set up sales appointments and arrange board meetings, and "these corporate travelers insist upon a sophisticated partner" offering efficient service and planning, outstanding resources and good value, all of which ends in a "hassle-free travel experience."

He said corporations increasingly want a full range of travel-planning services, particularly planning meetings and conferences, and that agencies working in a consortium bolster buying power and offer added value.

Tisch said Loews, which owns 16 hotels including destination resorts and is developing three more such resorts, views the growing role of travel agencies as positive, but warned, "If you assume a customer is yours forever, you are very, very wrong."

He said hoteliers and travel agencies "have to keep talking to our customers, and listening to them." Tisch said upgrading service is Loews' top priority, because travelers base their stay on whether they obtain perceived value for their money.

"Over the last decade, explosive growth and rampant overbuilding have heated up the competitive nature of the hotel industry. No matter how many VCRs or Fax machines we might install in our suites in coming years, genuine hospitality will remain the key to customer satisfaction," he said.

Tisch said Loews will continue a policy of conservative expansion, buying or developing hotels that are viewed as good opportunities. In recent years, he said, "Our competition was expanding rapidly. We thought that they were expanding too rapidly. Unfortunately for them and hopefully fortunately for us, that tale has come to be true."

"There are too many hotels out there. There are too many hotels that have been built with poor financing. Hence we think that there are opportunities for us to buy hotels in certain markets from the institutions that finance them," either savings-and-loans or insurance companies.

Lots of laughs at comedy clubs

By LESLIE PEREIRA
Staff Writer

Ever since kings employed court jesters in medieval times, there has been a tradition of paying someone funny to entertain.

These kings knew that very few things are more therapeutic than a night full of promised belly laughs.

Well, luckily times have changed and you don't have to buy your own goofy jester with a floppy cone-shaped hat to provide humorous banter, jokes, gags and tricks.

Now we have comedy clubs. Each night at Walled Lake's Looney Bin, paying customers are confronted with not only one, but three jesters. The night of snickers, chorles, and hopefully convulsive laughter, lasts about two hours between comedian one and goofball three.

"I don't like anything that is vulgar," said Dee Proffitt-Agius, junior owner and manager of the club. "I book the club so I look for comics that are clean."

Proffitt-Agius said they get a large, diverse crowd of laugh-seekers in the club on weekends to hear mostly local acts.

For the upcoming weekend, the Looney Bin has lined up Wild Tim Butterfield, Andy Johnson and Harold Worsham. The following weekend features Brent Cushman, Bill Bower and Steve Cash.

Tickets are $8 per person for the regular show, or couples can spend the entire evening there laughing and eating and laughing and drinking with the $33.95 dinner and show for two package.

"We have a lot of people come on dates," Proffitt-Agius said.

The Wolverine and Looney Bin Restaurant and Comedy Club is located at 1655 Glengary in Walled Lake. Show times are: Thursdays and Fridays at 9 p.m.; and, Saturdays at 8 and 10:15 p.m. For more information, call 669-9374.

While the Looney Bin concentrates mainly on local acts, Joey's of Livonia finds their comics from around the country.

"Joe Bielaska, the owner of the club is a comedian," said Chris Musthaler, the owner's cousin. "He is a pilot during the week so he often stops in different clubs around the country and picks up acts that way."

However, the club's comedians for this weekend are a local duo called SRO who bill themselves as "Michigan's funniest comedy duo."

Admission to Joey's is $5 on Wednesdays and Thursdays, $10 on Fridays and Saturdays, and $3 on Tuesdays for open-mike night when any of the audience's amateurs can get up and do their act.

Unlike the Looney Bin, Joey's does not have their own restaurant, but are located above Stoyan's restaurant which specializes in fresh fish.

"The restaurant tends to be dressy but people come for the show in blue jeans," said Musthaler.

Musthaler said the club tries to stay away from offensive materials and likes to keep it "good clean fun." Joey's rates their upcoming performers on a circulating calendar so customers "know what they are getting."

Joey's is located at 36071 Plymouth Road, east of Levan, in Livonia. Show times are: Thursdays and Fridays, 9 p.m.; and, Saturdays, 8:30 and 10:30 p.m. For reservations, call

Similarly, Chaplin's Plymouth concentrates on humorists that can entertain males and females, ages 21 and up.

"We don't like the vulgar acts," said Buz Hargis of Chaplin's. "We tell them to clean it up."

Chaplin's Plymouth, located in the Plymouth Radisson Hotel on Northville Road, is featuring comedians Lee Ramsey and Mike Farrell this weekend. The show is $5 on Wednesdays and Thursdays; $8 on Fridays; and, $10 on Saturdays.

Showtimes are 8:30 p.m. on Wednesdays and Thursdays, 8:30 and 10:30 p.m. on Fridays and Saturdays. For more information, call 454-4680.

Schwagle wins WLAA No. 1 singles title

Record/CHRIS BOYD

Northville freshman Mark Schwagle cruised through the field to win the Western Lakes No. 1 singles championship

Northville places 7th at meet

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN
Staff Writer

Seth Hoffman's loss was undoubtedly Mark Schwagle's gain.

When North Farmington withdrew from the WLAA Tennis Meet on May 16 for disciplinary reasons, it took the conference's top team and top player right out of the picture. With Hoffman out of the way, Northville's super freshman went on to capture the No. 1 singles championship at the 11-team event held at Livonia Stevenson.

"After I heard that the North Farmington coach was holding his team out, I knew that Mark had a great chance," Mustang Coach Dick Norton said. "Mark's only loss during the regular season was to Hoffman, so he would have been a No. 2 seed anyway. As it turned out, he was the top seed and he lived up to that."

As a team, Northville scored nine points and placed seventh. It was six points behind first-place Plymouth Canton.

After trouncing an opponent from Walled Lake Western in the first round, Schwagle outlasted Dan Fulga of Farmington Harrison 7-5, 6-3 in the semifinals.

"That match was probably the highlight of the singles matches," Norton said. "Mark was ahead 5-2 in the first set and then had to stave off a furious rally. He's been ill and hasn't played much the past week, so I'm sure that had something to do with it."

In the finals, Schwagle trounced Churchill's Puneet Allowadi 6-1, 6-1, who was seeded second.

"For a freshman to win the No. 1 title in our league is a great accomplishment," Norton said. "We've had singles champs from Northville, but I don't think we've ever had a freshman do it."

The last Mustang to win a No. 1 conference title was Barry Ouelette in the early 80s.

In other singles action, Brad Telepo topped Dennis Hahn of Walled Lake Central in the first round at No. 3 (6-4, 7-5), but then fell to the top seed from Canton. At No. 4 Brit Davis made it to the semis before falling to a second-seed from Churchill. His victory was a 6-3, 6-4 decision over Matt Korek of Westland John Glenn.

In doubles, both the No. 1 and No. 3 teams won their first-round matches before losing to higher seeded opponents in the following round. Andy Hass and Kyle Legel clobbered Glenn's top team 6-0, 6-3 before falling to the second seeds from Salem. At No. 3, Brent Garner and Mike Connery took care of Walled Lake Central's entry in round one but dropped a straight set decision to Salem's third-seeded combo.

"On the whole, we ended up placing about as well as we could," Norton said.

MHSAA REGIONAL: Led by Schwagle, the Mustangs placed fifth in the 14-team regional, played on May 19 in Ann Arbor. Northville scored nine points, which was 11 behind first-place Ann Arbor Pioneer. "I thought it went very well," Norton said. "We had a super tourney but, of course, it always helps when you have a guy like Mark Schwagle to score a lot of points for you."

Schwagle entered the tournament as the second seed at No. 1 and ended up placing second and earning a berth in the state meet. After topping Davis Laux on Adrian (6-1, 6-0) and Aaron Campbell of Ann Arbor Huron (6-2, 6-1) in the preliminary rounds, Schwagle met top-seeded John Lingon of Ann Arbor Pioneer in the finals and fell 3-6, 6-7 (4-7). "Mark really gave Lingon a battle," Norton said. "It was quite a match to see — two guys who can really hit the ball."

With just two losses in his brief prep tennis career, Schwagle will head off to Midland for the June 1 state meet.

In other singles action, Brit Davis edged Brad Cascagnette of Pinckney (6-5, 6-3) and Joe Senac of Adrian (6-5, 6-4) in the first two rounds of No. 4 singles action, but then suffered a 0-6, 0-6 whitewash against Miki Puzatal, the top-seed. At No. 3, Telepo blanked Jason Brown of Milford 6-0, 6-0 in round one, but was on the short end of a 4-6, 3-6 match with Salem's Fred Staten immediately after that.

All three doubles teams won a match, which translated to three more team points. Haas and Legel turned back Brooks Boughton and Spencer Hooks of Lakeland (6-2, 6-2) before dropping a lopsided decision to Pioneer's top-seeded team. Erik Black and Jeff Lower at No. 2 won their first match in straight sets but then fell victim to Jason Grimm and Eric Stanley of Salem (3-6, 4-6). At No. 3, Jasen Dagillion and Mike Connery slipped past Dan Perrine and Brian Stephenson of Pinckney (6-0, 6-1), but then fell 4-6, 3-6 to Mike Mulder and Joe Perron of Salem in the next round.

"It was encouraging because the only flight we didn't score a point was at No. 2 singles," Norton pointed out. "Jason Baker lost in the first round, but his match went to three-sets."

LIVONIA STEVENSON 4, NORTHVILLE 3: The Mustangs season record fell to 6-7 overall, 4-7 in the WLAA with this dual meet loss to the Spartans on May 14.

Softballers limit Franklin to 2 hits

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN
Staff Writer

For a defensive-oriented program, there is nothing sweeter than a 1-0 victory.

That's why the Mustangs' win over Livonia Franklin on May 14 was so special. And the way Northville pulled it out — with a run in the bottom of the final inning — just added to 'he situation.

Starting pitcher Rozann Staknis was brilliant again, and a lot of the credit goes to some solid defense played behind her. Staknis scattered two hits in seven shutout innings, but notched just one strikeout and two walks. That means the Patriots were hitting the ball, and the Mustangs were making the plays.

Franklin went down in order four times, and advanced just one runner to third base.

In the meantime, the Northville bats were silent through the first three innings. In the fourth, Melanie Apligan registered the team's first base hit, but it wasn't until the seventh that the locals finally broke the deadlock. With two out, Caroline Braasch drove in pinch-hitter Donna Donnelly, who reached second on an error and a walk.

Mustang Coach Bob Gerlach was unavailable for comment.

Northville was scheduled to take on Redford Union in district qualifying action on May 16, but it was rained out. The game has been rescheduled for May 22 (After Record deadline). The squad was also rained out of its game on May 17 against Walled Lake Western, but according to Northville Athletic Director Dennis Colligan, a rematch has yet to be scheduled.

The Mustangs are now 11-7 overall, 4-3 in the WLAA.

Heaton earns starting nod at MSU

Record/CHRIS BOYD

Northville resident Toby Heaton (67) earned a starting spot along the offensive line for MSU this spring

Northville resident and former Detroit Catholic Central All-Stater Toby Heaton has elevated his status with the Michigan State football squad following spring drills.

Heaton, a red-shirt sophomore, has moved into the starting left tackle spot vacated by All-American Bob Kula, who was recently drafted by the Seattle Seahawks. The 6-foot-6, 286-pound Heaton is slated to be the only newcomer to MSU's starting offensive front this fall.

Heaton saw plenty of playing time last season as the top-backup for Eric Moten at guard. The two-time Class A heavyweight wrestling champ was also a regular on the special teams and received extensive playing time on the offensive line against the likes of Michigan, Wisconsin and Hawaii (in the Hula Bowl). Heaton missed two practices during the spring because of a sprained shoulder, but came out of the session with a starting job.

"Everything went well," he said. "I've been working hard, but for me it was a combination of everything. Size and strength is a factor and you've got to be tough, but for me it's being smarter. That's what I had to learn to become a better player."

Heaton's smarts carry over from the classroom where he was an All-Academic Big Ten pick. He carries a 3.6 GPA in advertising.

"A lot of the spring (practice) is to see whether the guys classified as borderline players can play in a game atmosphere," Heaton said. "A lot of our starters didn't play in the spring game. I played in the first half, but that's all I played."

Heaton, who still has three years of eligibility remaining, will return home this summer, work a job and stay tuned up in preparation for fall drills.

BRININGSTOOL UPDATE: Former Northville High School blue chipper Tony Briningstool is once again fighting for playing time for the Spartans, and his name is being banded about at a number of positions. The red-shirt junior still has two years of eligibility remaining.

Girls hold on for 68-60 track win

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN
Staff Writer

The Northville girls tracksters had a big lead on May 16 but then ran out of gas down the stretch and had to hold on for a 68-60 dual meet victory over Livonia Churchill.

"It was a little closer at the end than we would have liked, but we were happy to get the win," Mustang Coach Ann Turnbull said. "We started off strong but then faded and had to hold on."

The key victory came in the two mile. With Northville clinging to a 60-54 lead, Cheryl Mittman (13:51.2) and Susan Weix (14:07.0) placed 1-2 in the event, and that insured the win.

The other firsts came from Ris Fleming and Valerie Bassin in the high jump (both cleared 4'-11"), Fleming in the 300 hurdles (50.3), Kendra Huard in the 800 (2:36.8), Mari Kissenger in the shot put (25'-6"), Trish Lukomski in the 100-meter dash (13.7), and two of the four relay squads. The two mile team of Mittman, Angie Tune, Megan Holmberg and Huard finished in 10:53.5 and the 800 relay squad — with Fleming, Kissenger, Rachel Davis and Lukomski — clocked in at 1:54.3.

The seconds included Patra Williams in the discus (76'-1"), Tune in the long jump (14'-1/4"), Davis in the 110 hurdles (18.4), Holmberg in the mile (6:05.0) and Lukomski in the 400 (1:04.0).

MHSAA REGIONAL: At the regional competition on May 19 at Novi, the Mustangs registered five top-six finishes and placed 13th in the 16-team field with 12 points. Farmington Hills Mercy took first with 106 1/2.

"We did okay," Turnbull said. Northville's highest finish was a pair of thirds by Lisa Almone and Julie Buser. They both cleared 4'-7" in the high jump and tied for the third spot. In other action, Fleming grabbed fifth in the 300 hurdles (50.7). Tune was sixth in the long jump (14'-3/4") and Davis added a sixth in the 110 hurdles (personal best time of 17.6).

"I thought the girls ran well," Turnbull said. "Rachel Davis was very determined."

Because no Mustang performer managed a top-two finish, Northville will not send a representative to the state meet, to be held on June 2 in Midland.

Heading into the last dual meet of the season against Farmington Harrison on May 23 (after Record deadline), Northville has a 2-5 overall record.

backer spot, vacated by Lombardi and Outland Award winner Percy Snow, along with teammates Chuck Bullough and Brian Jones. Briningstool was moved to the middle for the spring after backing up outside linebacker Carlos Jenkins last fall.

However, word out of East Lansing is that Briningstool may be moved to defensive end and will be competing with junior John MacNeill for the starting spot opposite Bill Johnson.

"Tony's a good enough athlete and a football player, so I think the coaching staff is trying to find a spot for him," said Mickey Smith of the MSU Sports Information Department. "It really doesn't make sense for them to make such a good prospect the third-string middle linebacker."

"We'll just have to wait and see." In 1989, Briningstool was a special team standout for the Spartans and was named Defensive Player of the Week following the Minnesota game.

Smojver paces 2-0 win over Franklin

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN
Staff Writer

George Smojver has emerged as Northville baseball's staff ace, and the Mustangs needed his pitching prowess on May 14 to get past Livonia Franklin 3-0.

It was the lone bright spot in another lackluster week that saw the locals drop four-of-five, and fall to 8-14 overall, 4-6 in the WLA Western Division.

Against the Patriots, Smojver went seven strong innings, allowing just one hit and one walk. He sent the final 12 batters down in order and had just two baserunners advance past first base.

"It was probably one of our best games of the year," Northville Coach Bob Frellick said. "We put it all together: timely hits, good defense and an outstanding pitching performance by Smojver."

The Mustangs broke a scoreless tie in the third on two walks and an RBI single by Joe Kaley, and then made it 3-0 in the next inning on four straight hits, including run scoring singles by Dan Kozdron and Ryan Huzjak. Northville went down in order in the final three innings, but Smojver kept Franklin in check.

The only player with more than one hit in the game was Pat Kozdron (2-for-3). For the season, Smojver is 3-0 with a 1.57 earned run average and is batting .349.

WALLED LAKE WESTERN 13-8, NORTHVILLE 10-1: The Mustangs were much more competitive against the Warriors on May 17 than they were when the two teams first met back on April 30. But the end result was the same in this twinbill.

"They beat us 10-0 the first time, so we were much more competitive," Frellick said. "We hit their pitcher (Jason Gross) pretty good in game one, and this was after he totally controlled us the first time we saw him. That was a positive."

In the opener, Northville outlived Western 16-9 but blew a 7-5 lead after three innings. The Mustangs scored one in the first (on an RBI hit by Smojver), two more in the second (on a two-run homer by Mike Jambor), and four in the third on four hits, including a two-run double by Dan Kozdron.

But the Warriors hit a solo homer in the fourth and then chased starter Mike Lang with a seven-run rally in the sixth that featured four Northville errors and three walks.

The Mustangs kept it close, thanks to a two-run homer by Josh Wiegand and a run-scoring hit by John McNeil, but it wasn't enough.

Smojver had a great game at the plate (4-for-4, two runs scored), while Jambor (2-for-5), Kaley (2-for-3), McNeil (2-for-5), Wiegand (2-for-4) and Dan Kozdron (2-for-3) also contributed offensively. Lang surrendered seven earned runs and eight walks in 5 1/2 innings and took the loss.

Western won game two 8-1 in five innings, but as with all WLA night-caps, it doesn't count toward the conference standings.

"We played everybody we could and (Western) pretty well dominated us," Frellick said.

Northville's lone run came in the third on singles by Kaley and McNeil, and a run-scoring double by Steve Vigh. The Warriors scored once in the first and five more in the third off starter and loser John Schrieber, who had two strikeouts, one walk and two earned runs in five innings. The Mustangs managed just four hits.

SOUTHFIELD LATHRUP 7-9, NORTHVILLE 2-5: The Mustangs wrapped up the week on May 19 with a pair of non-conference defeats to the Chargers.

"We didn't do a whole lot in either game," Frellick admitted. "We got only five hits in the first game and three were in one inning."

Starter John Chlavazza cruised through the first three innings, but was credited with two earned runs (four total) in the fourth before he was

Northville trailed 7-0 until they scored a couple runs in the sixth on a two-run single by Pat Kozdron.

Designated hitter Tim Kimbrough was the only Mustang batter with more than one hit. Chlavazza was saddled with the loss.

In game two, Northville fell behind 3-0 and then unsuccessfully tried to battle back in the late innings. Kaley drove in a run in the third, Kimbrough did the same in the fourth and again in the sixth. Dan Kozdron and Kevin Smoot also had RBI hits in the three-run sixth inning.

Starter Brad Balsler lasted just 1/3 of an inning. Kimbrough and Smoot each had two hits apiece to pace the offensive attack.

"We got down early and kept trying to come back," Frellick said. "Lathrup didn't overpower us, but they seemed to get the key hits when they needed them."

BASEBALL: Braves defeat Angels

F LEAGUE: The Braves defeated the Angels 12-2. John Buser was the winning pitcher, allowing only two runs. The Braves topped the Indians 7-6, thanks to a two-run rally in the bottom of the seventh inning. Buser was the winning pitcher and also drove in the winning run. Catcher John Wilds also had a fine outing.

G LEAGUE: The Astros blasted the Angles 9-1. Kris Kurzawa was the winning pitcher and Andy Wellen scored three times.

H LEAGUE: The Giants scored four runs in the last two innings to come back from the 3-0 deficit and beat the Braves 4-3. John Julow drove in the winning run and Eric Arnold was the winning pitcher. Kevin Gilchrist hit a three-run homer for the Braves. The Reds outscored the Pirates 9-0 in the first two innings and went on to win the game 12-9. Adam Oleszkowicz (home run) and Adam Hill (three hits) were the offensive stars.

SOFTBALL: Falcons win 24-3

INTERMEDIATE LEAGUE: The Falcons clobbered the Reds 24-3 by scoring at least four runs in each of the first five innings. Becky Albanese, Carol Braund, Kari Krupansko, Kristin Moore and Melissa Petrocky each went 3-for-3 in the game. The Falcons scored three runs in the last inning to slip past the Liberties 8-5. Gia Wilcox and Gwen Griswold each had three singles and the defense was led by Alissa Miller and Autumn Cranford. Pitcher Kristen Kisten was the player of the game, but the Reds dropped a heartbreaking 10-9 decision to the Phillies. The offensive stars included Katy Ball, Autumn Stewart and Brie Nelson.

Mustangs seventh at track regional

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN
Staff Writer

Against top-notch competition, lofty accomplishments become even more exceptional. For the Northville boys track squad, last Saturday's (May 19) performance at the MHSAA Regionals was just such a case.

The Mustangs grabbed seventh place in the strong 16-team field with 31½ points, which was nearly 60 behind first-place Detroit Central. Northville registered nine top-six finishes and qualified two individuals for the State Track Meet to be held on June 2 in Midland.

"I was definitely happy with our performance," Northville Coach Dennis Faletti said. "I didn't really know what to expect because we've never seen most of these teams—but I did know that we'd peak. This is the time of the year, but we even had some performances that surpassed even my expectations."

Probably the biggest highlight was the new varsity record set by the 400-meter relay squad. The team of Noel Korowin, Matt Hemp, Jamie Miller and Neil White took fourth place in a time of 45.1. That broke the old mark by two-tenths of a second and took a full second off the season's previous best.

Miller was one of the individuals to qualify for the state meet. His 20'-7¼" effort in the long jump tied his personal best and placed him second overall.

Pole vaulter John Okasinski was the other qualifier. He finished second in the event by clearing 10'-7".

The rest of the top-six finishes came from a number of others. Bret Butz placed fifth in the 110 hurdles (personal best 15.9) and sixth in the 300 hurdles (personal best 43.7). Steve Coon was sixth in the two mile (personal best 10:13.9), and Chris Lehr was sixth in the high jump

(5'-9"). In addition, the mile relay team—featuring Rob Subotich, Lehr, Jon Meek and Mark Hillinger—placed fifth (season-best 3:35.3), while the 800 relay team (with Hemp, Lehr, Miller and White) came in sixth place with a season-best 1:34.7.

"Jamie Miller really helps us with his versatility," Faletti said. "He was involved in three top-six finishes, but really, it was a total team effort."

LIVONIA CHURCHILL 79, NORTHVILLE 59: The Mustangs dropped a 20-point dual meet decision to the Chargers on May 19. The Chargers were much stronger and more talented than Faletti believed.

"I thought it would be very close but (Churchill) got four guys back who were injured and they ended up being much stronger than they were earlier in the year," he explained.

Northville managed just five victories. They included Miller in the long jump (19'-7¼"), Subotich in the 400 (53.3), Okasinski in the pole vault (11'-6"), the 400 relay team (with Korowin, Hemp, Miller and White), and the mile relay team (with Hillinger, Lehr, Meek and Subotich).

The highlight of the meet may have been the battle for first in the mile. Northville's Steve Coon ended up missing first by just one-hundredth of a second, but his time of 4:35.2 was the second-fastest recorded in the Western Lakes this season. Others like Bill Kelley (23.6 in 200) and Korowin (19'-3¼" in the long jump) set personal best marks, but had to settle for second place finishes.

"It was a good meet," Faletti said. "Both teams had good performances but we lost quite a few close races. If we could have pulled them out, it would have been much closer."

For instance, the Mustang's 800 relay team missed out on first place by two-hundredths of a second. The team is now 4-3 overall, 2-2 in the WLA Western Division.

COLLEGE PERISCOPE

Former Northville softball standouts AMY FREIMUND and KAREN BAIRD have taken their talents to Adrian College, and both made a big impact on the program in only their first collegiate season. Behind the pitching of Freimund and the hitting/fielding of Baird, Adrian had its most successful softball season ever. The team won the MIAA title for the first time and qualified for the NCAA playoffs with a fine 26-9 record. Freimund was Adrian's pitching ace and was selected to the All-MIAA first team. He had a 15-6 overall record (7-1 in league play) with 51 strikeouts, 21 walks and a 1.18 earned run average. Baird played both second base and rightfield for Adrian Coach Doug McDaniel, batted .388 with five homers, three triples and four doubles. She was fourth on the team with 19 RBIs and was named to the All-MIAA second team. Baird, who also plays basketball for the Bulldogs, was originally recruited as a cager, but has excelled in both sport... Novi's DAREN JOHNSON, a freshman trackster at Grand Valley State University, placed fourth in the javelin at the Great Lakes Conference Championships on May 12-13 with a 163'-8" attempt. Johnson also competed in the discus, and placed eighth with a 133'-½" effort.

Local team wins state AAU title

The West Oakland Chargers, an 11-and-under girls basketball squad based in Novi, won the Amateur Athletic Union (AAU) State Championship on May 11-13 in Sandusky, Michigan.

The Chargers, coached by Novi-resident Larry Cupp, have now earned the right to represent the state at the 1990 Womens AAU National Championships in Orlando, Fla. on June 23-30. Cupp — the team's second year coach — led the Chargers to a second-place finish at the AAU state tournament in 1989.

In the championship game, the Chargers took an early 12-2 lead and then held on to knock off Upper Thumb Connection 24-20. For the tournament, the locals had a 4-1 record, including two wins and a loss against Upper Thumb Connection.

In the first round on May 11, the Chargers employed balanced scoring and tenacious defense to top the Detroit Brick City Bombers 49-29. On May 12, the Chargers upset the Waterford Lady Knights 38-24 and then rolled to a 27-19 victory over Upper Thumb Connection in the first meeting between the two. The win put the Chargers into the finals of the double elimination tourney.

On May 13, Upper Thumb Connection turned the tables to edge West Oakland 33-30, which created a winner take all final, as both teams

The West Oakland Chargers were led by second-year returnees Nicole Hayden of Northville, Kelley Kearney of Novi and Tracy Rynkiewicz of Westland. The newcomers included Alicia Jones (Novi), Kerry Duggan (Farmington), Erin Vicary (Walled Lake), Liz Weber (Farmington), Jennifer Jacek (Livonia), Chris Taraskiewicz (Detroit), Liz Wickett (Birmingham), Kristin Roy (Southfield) and Amy Edwards (Novi).

The team will leave on June 22 to compete against 36 of the nations best 11-and-under teams. Anyone wishing to help sponsor the team should call Myles Kearney at 348-6411 or 338-4531.

Cover-up for bicycling safety

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

While bicyclists may not be able to "buckle up for safety," they can get a head start on safety by wearing a bike helmet on a ride.

The alternative could be a headlong dive into disaster.

To Jim Kirchoff, manager of Pro Cycle Center in Novi, bike helmets are becoming an accepted part of any bicycle outing. "It's more popular and parents are more concerned with their children's health," he said.

Those concerns are well-justified, according to a report by the Automobile Association of America. Last year 32 bicyclists were killed in Michigan, seven in Wayne County alone. Twelve of those fatalities involved children between 6-11.

Nationally, half of all fatal bicycling accidents involve children under the age of 14.

Wearing a helmet can greatly reduce the danger of injury or death in a crash, because the helmets are designed to absorb the force of a fall. "It's not the shell that's giving the protection," Kirchoff explained. "It's how the foam will crush. The whole idea is for the helmet to crush and not your head."

All helmets out today should be at least ANSI (American National Safety Institution) approved," Kirchoff said. "That's the standard that it has to meet in order to be safe for non-motor vehicle use."

Another group rating helmet safety is the Snell Foundation. Snell standards are much tighter than ANSI specifications, Kirchoff said. "It's hard to call it twice as much, but the standards are twice as high," he said.

While standard helmets today have a Lycra fabric covering over a Styrofoam shell, the latest styles have a "micro-shell," or thin plastic cover instead. "Their real advantages are that they are easy to wipe off, and for mountain bikes they don't get caught in the bushes," Kirchoff said.

A thicker plastic shell does not automatically provide more safety, he added. "You can get more protection from a soft helmet than from a lot of the hard plastic shells. It's done with a better understanding of how the helmets are made."

Kirchoff cautioned consumers not to confuse the Styrofoam in the typical helmet with the material used in coffee cups and coolers. "The density is a lot greater (in a helmet)," he said. "You can actually stand on them without cracking them."

The premier helmet brand in Kirchoff's opinion is Giro, the company that first began manufacturing bicycle helmets. "They're the best, but also the most expensive," he said.

Other notable brands are Vetta, Bell, and Specialized.

Prices for a quality helmet start at about $30.

Kirchoff makes sure he and his wife, son and daughter all wear helmets when they ride. "It's much easier to get the kids to wear them when mom and dad wear them too," he said.

Fitness Notes

Michigan Division of Physical Education, is particularly aimed at older people and others who would benefit from an invigorating but non-strenuous exercise program.

"The format consists of carefully guided warm-up and stretching exercise followed by light aerobics and a cool-down period, all synchronized to music," according to Prof. Phyllis E. Welkart, director of U-M's Adult Lifestyle Program. "Our objective is to improve the participants' strength, flexibility and energy level through activities which are safe and enjoyable."

Welkart and her staff have been leading the popular Fitness Over 50 classes for 12 years on the U-M campus and for the past two years at Ann Arbor's Briarwood Mall, where it regularly attracts some 125 participants.

By expanding the program to Twelve Oaks Mall, they have made it more accessible to residents throughout Livingston, Wayne and Oakland Counties.

"Twelve Oaks is open an hour before the stores open (at 10 a.m. daily and noon Sunday) to accommodate people who want to use the mall for walking," notes Twelve Oaks marketing director Elaine Kah. "This exercise program adds a new dimension to the program. We are pleased to be a part of this program."

Fitness Over 50 welcomes all interested persons, regardless of their age and current activity level. Call The Twelve Oaks Management Office, 348-9438, for further information.

Fitness Tips

How can you avoid sports-related injuries?

By TONI WILSON, R.N.
Special Writer

This is the time of year when people are active with sports and exercise. There has been an increase in the type of sport related injuries, with the greatest number now involving amateur athletes. Physical fitness requires a good, well-balanced diet and plenty of fluids.

Here are some suggestions that will help you avoid a sports injury and/or treat one that you may have.

1. Always warm up — Stretching and limbering exercises done right before participating in sports will keep the body in tune and reduce the incidence of injury, muscle stress and lessen fatigue.

2. Don't forget to cool down — Walk or jog gently for 3 to 5 minutes after activity. Shake limbs, extend arms and rotate forward and backward several times. Roll head, neck and shoulders.

3. Listen to your body — Expect some soreness after vigorous workouts, but if you feel very uncomfortable, you may have overexerted yourself. If this happens, warm baths, massage and gentle flexing exercises may help alleviate soreness. Sometimes injuries happen because you have pushed your body too far, too fast and for too long.

Common sports injuries include tendonitis, strains and sprains. Many sports medicine doctors recommend five steps you should follow as soon as you feel pain.

a. Rest — As soon as you feel pain, you should stop what you are doing and should not continue to stress the painful area for at least one day.

b. Ice — Apply ice immediately after an injury for periods of 10-15 minutes at half-hour intervals. It is now known that icing is useful for up to seven days after an injury.

c. Compression — Application should be gentle with an Ace Bandage.

d. Elevation — The injured extremity should be raised above the level of the heart.

e. Aspirin — Take aspirin or buffered aspirin every four hours as this helps control inflammation in the injury.

4. See your Doctor — If pain persists or becomes severe, you may have injured muscle tissue. If there is swelling or discoloration around a joint, there may be a sprain or even a fracture.

Whatever your fitness level, consistency is the key to good health. Choose a convenient time to exercise, then stick to it. Take advantage of opportunities for any additional exercise. If you can, walk instead of driving and use the stairs rather than the elevator. We can all benefit from more exercise.

The Northville Record is working with medical authorities at the University of Michigan Medical Center (M-Care) in Northville to provide up-to-date information on a variety of health-related topics. The series is coordinated by Peg Campbell of the M-Care staff.

Learning to read maps makes vacations easier

By Rolla Williams

Doesn't anyone study maps or travel around the country nowadays? Let's just call it a cultural blind spot and hope for better days ahead.

How can a kid in high school approach graduation without knowing — with absolute certainty — that Chicago is north of Miami and that Montpelier is the capital of Vermont? We used to learn that in schools, no kidding.

I don't go anywhere without a map, preferably a U.S. Geological Survey topographical map with all the little whorls, bench marks, paths, roads and streams. Maps can be found in bookshops, travel stores, wilderness outfitters and even map stores.

I also carry a compass. With a map and compass I should be able to find my way home. With a sandwich I might survive.

There was a story in Flin and Feathers a while back in which a stranger — a lost stranger — wandered into a deer camp. He had been hunting deer, spotted one, started tracking him, crossed a couple of ridges, lost the deer, and wound up lost himself.

It happens a lot more often than most hunters will admit.

This fellow had slept in the backseat as a friend drove him across the desert and into the hunting ground. He and his buddy set up camp and then they went hunting, without a map of any sort. They became separated, the deer was spotted, and now the hunter is in somebody else's camp.

He didn't know which direction his own camp was. He didn't know the name of the ridge or the area in which it was located. When he was offered a ride back to town, he refused.

"I'll just take off down this road," he said. "I'm sure I can find the camp now."

He must have because he wasn't heard from again and no wardens had a report of a lost hunter.

It's a good idea, wherever you go in the backcountry, to study the area around you and compare it with the map you have spread out on the hood of your auto at the jumping-off spot. Orient it to the north in accordance with the arrow all maps contain and get your compass pointed in the same direction.

Now it's a cinch to find the landmark peaks and see their relationship to yourself on the ground. You can do this with Forest Service maps too, if you have no topographic map. You can even do it with a state road map.

Map reading is fun. By studying the contour lines you'll know in advance whether your trail goes up or down.

I use a Silva compass, made in Sweden. It is inexpensive, available in many camping stores, and the explanatory material with it describes how to "Set a Bearing," or to walk it, the relationship between true north and magnetic north, and how to plot locations.

These sound complex, but they're really quite simple. With a compass and a map you'll know in advance how far it is to the campground you've chosen and you can even estimate how long it will take to reach the destination.

When we go deer hunting in unfamiliar ground, most of us carry short pieces of yellow ribbon to mark our deer, if we get one down. That way, we generally can find it next morning if we've left it overnight. Or we can find it if we need some help in getting it back to a road.

Learn to map-read. Learn to use the compass. Before long, you'll be ready for orienteering, which is a cross-country running sport, in which the runners pass through several gates identified on a map. You'll never find the gates without a compass.

Best of all, you won't ever get lost. Which is embarrassing at best, but deadly at the worst.

Sun worshippers must take precautions

By Lucretia Steiger

Tans are out. Sunscreens are in. A few summers ago, sun worshippers ignored dermatologists who linked tans and skin cancer.

Scientists warn about the diminishing ozone layer, allowing more damaging ultraviolet-radiation rays — a primary cause of skin cancer — through the atmosphere.

Fashion designers such as Donna Karan and Anne Cole, both makers of swimsuits, report that dark tans are out.

Skimming through the fashion magazines reveals models with a golden honey glow. Ads for suntanning products show skins burnished a light gold rather than the deep tans of recent summers.

The "deep tan and prolonged sunbathing are going the way of the Nehru jacket and love beads," says a recent survey of fashion leaders by the American Academy of Dermatology and the Avon Foundation.

To protect yourself, apply a sunscreen with a sun protection factor (SPF) of 15 or more about 20 minutes before going in the sun or bathing. If you are swimming or sweating, use a waterproof sunscreen and reapply every two hours.

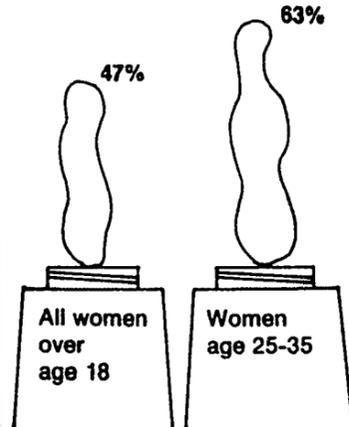

SPF numbers, now required on all sunscreens, measure the time the wearer can stay in the sun without burning. With a 2 SPF, for instance, the wearer can stay in the sun twice as long without burning.

"An SPF of 15 gives over 90 percent effectiveness in blocking out the carcinogenic, aging ultraviolet rays," dermatologist Dr.

Mitchell Goldman says.

"Sunscreens with a rating of 29 afford some extra protection, but that does not mean you can be in the sun 29 times longer. The numbers are not that accurate."

A sunscreen of 15 or more also should be applied to children over six months old, Goldman says. Studies have shown that applying sunscreen once a day to body parts exposed to the sun during the first 18 years of life will decrease the risk of skin cancer by 80 percent.

"One serious childhood or adolescent sunburn doubles the chances of developing skin cancer," Goldman says.

Dr. Thomas Fitzpatrick, chairperson of the department of dermatology at Harvard Medical School, also speaks of the need to protect children.

"At that time of life, the sun can damage the DNA, the magic code in our cells which controls development," Fitzpatrick says. "For reasons unknown, the DNA in the skin is particularly susceptible between the ages of 5 and 15."

"No one knows the true reason why people get cancer," Goldman says. "Radiation or poor genetics can be causes, but the vast majority of skin cancers are caused by the sun."

There are three types of skin cancer: basal cell carcinoma, squamous cell carcinoma and malignant melanoma. The first two are commonly found in Caucasians who have light hair, eyes and complexions, and do not tan easily.

Malignant melanoma is appearing with greater frequency. Dermatologists of New York University School of Medicine presented a recent study that noted the incidence of malignant melanoma has increased by 600 percent since the 1930s.

Fair, easily sunburned people are more at risk than darker-skinned people, as are those with unusual moles or a rare skin condition such as albinism.

Darker skin contains more melanocytes, the cells which make more pigment when exposed to ultraviolet light. But these cells cannot make enough pigment to protect the skin, Goldman says; only black skin makes enough pigment to shield the skin.

"People with black skin have gorgeous, smooth, wrinkle-free skin because they are blessed with protection from harmful UV rays," he says. "The Scotch-Irish don't have near enough pigment."

Blacks can get skin cancers, including melanoma, but not usually from sun-related causes.

Others at risk for sun damage include those who work outdoors or are exposed to considerable sunlight.

Even without skin cancer, exposure to the sun leads to wrinkles, leathery skin and an older look, Goldman says.

"Any tan means that you are inducing aging changes in the skin, so the risk one takes in getting a tan is wrinkles later in life. Ninety-nine percent of all wrinkles are caused by the sun."

The dermatologist offers these sun-shielding tips:

- Avoid the sun between 11 a.m. and 3 p.m.
- Wear a hat and fabrics that you cannot see through.
- Use Retin-A only at night and use a sunscreen in the morning.
- If you insist on looking tanned, use cosmetic tanning products. "By and large, these creams to rub on are safe and effective."
- Avoid suntanning parlors.

Boats beautiful

Here's what's news from outboards to yachts

By Kevin Anderson

Have you been bitten by the boating bug? Here's how you can tell:

- Your heart beats faster when you see a sleek craft slice through the water.
- Your heaven is a day spent on the bay (or lake) clad in shorts, slathered in sunscreen, shaded by sunglasses, hands clasping a fishing pole.

If you don't own a boat, perhaps it's because you assume they're too expensive. Nonsense. Chances are you can afford a bigger boat than you think.

A good place to start shopping for pleasure craft is at a boat show. Ask questions, talk to the vendors and gather brochures. Slide into the skipper's seat and imagine how the boat will feel as it glides across the water.

If owning your own boat is out of the question, the next best thing is to rent one. Your options include everything from a paddleboat to a luxury yacht. If you want someone else to do the steering, you can charter a vessel complete with captain and crew.

OUTBOARD BEST

Boating publications report that new outboard packages offer more equipment at lower prices, plus versatility that other types of family cruisers can't match.

For $15,000 or less, according to Sea magazine, you can get a complete package: a fiberglass boat equipped with popular accessories (stereo system, convertible top, sport interior), an outboard engine with ample horsepower and a trailer ready to be hitched to your car and hauled to the launch ramp.

RIDE THE WIND

Sailing is peaceful (no motor sound, just the music of the wind), and it feels as good as it looks from ashore.

Unlike powerboats, which are easier to "drive" than most cars, sailboats require a skipper with skill. But few water sports are more rewarding, and you can learn the basics in a few lessons.

Whether the sailboat you select is a Hobbie, a single-hull or a trimaran, you'll enjoy the special aspects of sailing, which include racing with others who share your enthusiasm.

TRAILERABLES

If the boat you crave is a sporty type powered with a stern-drive engine, you'll be happy to hear that new designs offer more space and stability and better riding characteristics than ever before.

New models are wider and have a shallower wake — something the water skiers among your friends and family will appreciate.

BOAT ACCESSORIES

Whether you're looking for ways to embellish your boat or need a gift for a friend who spends a lot of time on the water, here are some hot new products:

- Waterproof miniflashlights are small enough to fit in any pocket and versatile enough to be used anywhere on the boat.

- Liquid electrical tape lets skippers cover wires in rubberized material with one stroke of a brush.

• "A Boater's Guide to Fiberglass Repair" is a 110-minute videocassette from Progress Video Productions.

- A hand-held shower and faucet set can be mounted anywhere a hot and cold shower system is needed, turning any spot on the boat into a shower stall.

CARE AND FEEDING

"Boats are so much better made these days that the traditional seasonal checkup is more likely to be a time, in fact, for adding and improving than for fixing, says Outdoor Life magazine.

That's good news, but even modern fiberglass hulls require some maintenance. You'll want to keep your boat clean and waxed to prevent fading color and chalking. Check with a marine hardware store for a good marine polish, and for advice on cleaning teak and carpets.

'RV resorts' specialize in recreational camping

By Jackie Fitzpatrick

Have a camper, will travel.

The places to take it are as many and varied as there are locales in the wide, wide world. What you as a camper have to determine is whether you want the plush life or the rugged life when it comes to campgrounds. Something with spas and tennis, casino night and video game rooms? Or a shabby knoll somewhere in the backcountry?

The options are unlimited, and the following are some guides to get you where you want to go:

- One of the best guides available is through the Recreational Vehicle Industry Association. Write to them for a free copy of their guide that offers some of the best spots for camping, RVIA, Dept. R-K, P.O. Box 2999, Reston, VA, 22090.

- Campgrounds of America provides a directory and road atlas to 615 KOA campgrounds in the United States. Send $3 to KOA Directory, P.O. Box 30162, Billings, MT, 59114.

- The National Park Service runs 105 parks with campgrounds. Rates run from $3 to $5 daily and reservations are taken two to three months in advance at only 11 locales. For information write to the National Park Service, Public Inquiries Office, Room 1013, P.O. Box 37127, Washington DC, 20013-7127.

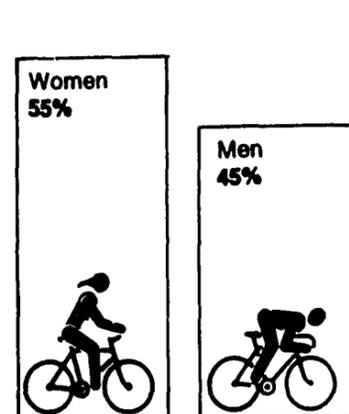

- Several RV directories are available and are excellent planning guides for trips. "Trailer Life's RV Campground & Services Directory" ($13.29); "Woodall's Campground Directory" ($16.95); and "Wheeler's RV Resort & Campground Guide" ($13.50) are available through the RVIA office.

- Each state's tourism bureau also provides listings of campgrounds, and you can get the bureau addresses by writing to the Travel Industry Association, Lafayette Center, 1133 21st Street, N.W., Washington DC, 20036.

Kayaking, snorkeling and other water sports

By Debra Lee Baldwin

Splash! You plunge in and it feels great. The water is warm, blue and buoyant, perfect for play and exercise.

Whether you prefer to dive into the depths or skim along the surface, the following quick glimpses of aquatic activities will show you new ways to enjoy the water, plus give you an update on old favorites.

Remember, whatever sport you choose, be sure you take someone along — for fun as well as safety.

CANOEING/KAYAKING

Once you learn to lean against your paddle and push against the water, you've got it made.

According to Men's Health magazine, "Advanced paddlers, especially when performing sharp turns in white water, often transfer the majority of their weight onto the paddle."

You haven't canoed or kayaked until you've shot the rapids. Your travel agent and many sporting goods stores can give you information on river expeditions.

DIVING

Slice through the water, move up and down at will, encounter underwater animals and explore kelp forests and rocky reefs.

Anyone who remembers the old "Sea Hunt" television show knows that diving has been around for a while.

What's new are anatomically curved diving masks made of surgical-grade silicone. These resist damage from sunlight, salt water and age, have optical-grade lenses and roller-lock straps.

New self-draining snorkels have mouthpieces that conform to your bite, reducing jaw fatigue.

JET SKIING

These motorcycles of the water combine the thrills of road racing with waterskiing — at a fraction of the price. If you crash a motorcycle, you'll get back on slowly — if at all; these scooters offer the same excitement with a whole lot less danger.

Remember, though, to watch out for swimmers and other water recreationists while you're hot-doggin' it along the water.

ROWING

Few sports can offer you the rhythmic overall workout of rowing. That's why so many fitness enthusiasts have rowing machines in their homes.

What's new? According to Outside magazine, "Recreational shells have done for rowing what mountain bikes have for cycling. These sturdy unsinkable boats have opened the last frontier: the forbidden zone beyond the breakwater, across a squall-rocked lake, or along a shallow, twisting river."

SKURFING

If you live miles from the ocean but crave the experience and sensations of surfing, skiboards (known as "Skurfers") may give you the chance to "hang 10" on a nearby lake.

Designed with features borrowed from both surfboards and water skis, the Skurfer is about five feet long with foot straps positioned so the rider stands on the board sideways, surferlike.

It feels like surfing when you're towed at slower speeds; go faster and the experience is most like skiing.

SWIMMING

The oldest water sport enjoys the benefits of the latest technology.

New goggles provide better forward and peripheral vision and offer protection from ultraviolet rays. They're also designed with adjustments that allow a better fit.

Improved fins are more flexible, giving you more push with less effort. Unlike stiff, heavy rubber fins, these fold as you kick up, reducing water resistance; then snap open to give you full power on the downstroke.

TUBING

"It was love at first ride," says tubing enthusiast Cathy Monroe.

Innertubes are available at gas stations, campgrounds, convenience stores and other spots near any body of water big enough to float in.

The ride is relaxed, and "tubers" often join their tubes together — with perhaps a plastic foam cooler full of refreshments in a tube tied alongside.

WATERSKIING

Probably the most unusual form of waterskiing is done without a boat. You're towed by an overhead cable held aloft by a steel tower and powered by an electric motor. The cable runs on pulleys in a continuous loop.

"When the skier is ready to start, the operator throws a lever that engages the end of the tow rope," says Bruce Kistler in "Hit It! Your Complete Guide to Water Skiing," (Leisure Press). "... the skier is pulled gently from the dock."

WINDSURFING

With their colorful triangular sails, sailboards look like butterflies with folded wings.

To windsurf, you have to be a good swimmer, but it's not necessary to be strong or outstandingly fit.

Children can take windsurfing lessons, providing they weigh 50 pounds.

The hardest part is learning to keep your balance. The rest is as easy as it looks — partly due to new lighter, more durable and better designed boards.

WHAT TO WEAR

With so many ways to play in the water, it's no surprise that there is a variety of protective water wear.

"There are wet suits, semidry suits, paddle jackets and pants and spray shells — all designed to protect you from the wind and water," says Outside magazine.

Dry suits, made of loose-fitting, waterproof material, will keep you warm in water below 55 degrees. They're ideal for white-water kayaking, canoeing and rafting.

Choose a wet suit if you'll be board-sailing or paddling about in water 50 degrees or warmer (for the same sports in colder water, opt for a heavier, sel-dry neoprene suit).

A beginner's guide to allergies, bites

By Lynne Komecki

Summer has finally arrived and the great outdoors is beckoning — canoe trips, shooting the rapids, hiking and tramping through the woods, camping in the wilds, fly-fishing, swimming, boating and the list goes on.

But along with the warm evenings and sunny days of summer appear a host of unwelcome seasonal pests and pestilence.

This pesky array include ticks that cause Rocky Mountain Spotted Fever, a new breed of mosquito called the Asian Tiger, not to mention the sneezes, wheezes and sniffles of summer allergies.

It almost seems unfair that after months of sloshing through the snow and eagerly awaiting summer's arrival, we are greeted by the unavoidable downside of the season. However, a little advance preparation can keep you and your family fit, healthfully enjoying the summer fun.

CAREFUL PLANNING

How can you survive your allergies with minimal discomfort?

Allergist Dr. Ellen Burke said, "Allergy treatment depends on the severity. Obviously, attention to changing the environment is important, such as keeping windows closed and putting on the air conditioning. Air cleaners are helpful, either the type that attaches to the furnace or the portable kind, kept in the bedroom, can provide some relief.

"Each individual responds differently to over-the-counter allergy medications. So sometimes it is a matter of trial and error until patients find one that works well for them. Otherwise, they need to see an allergist for prescription medication or desensitization shots."

Burke explained that allergies can show up anytime in life, but often start in infancy with a food allergy and then, after exposure to pollen, the sensitivity-prone child may have other allergy symptoms by age 3 or 4.

Allergy shots, she noted, are effective for about 70 percent of patients. Twenty percent show some improvement, and a certain percentage of patients don't respond at all.

Unfortunately, she said, there is no predictor for whom allergy shots will provide relief, which is a time-consuming treatment program. It involves at least a three- to five-year patient commitment, receiving shots, at first weekly and then every three or four weeks in the off-season and as the allergic condition stabilizes.

"Hay fever is really a misnomer," according to Burke. "It is the ragweed pollen that causes the trouble, and those who are sensitive can be very miserable with a swollen face, runny nose and wheezing. The home of ragweed is, unfortunately, the midwest. The farther west you go, the less of it there is."

LIVING WITH IT

There are ways to get through allergy season without losing your sanity. Part of getting through the season is being smart about pollen.

Keep windows closed at night and use air conditioning to stay cool. Do the same when driving in the car.

Limit early morning outdoor activity when pollen levels are at their highest. Plan gardening and exercise late in the day. Also, avoid stirring up pollen and mold that results from raking leaves, mowing or weeding.

Stay indoors when the weather is humid or windy. If you must go outdoors on days when pollen concentration is high, try taking an antihistamine a half-hour being going outside.

FOLIAGE PATROL

For those planning camping trips, hiking or other foraging into wooded trails, being able to identify poison ivy, poison oak and poison sumac is of utmost importance.

Burke observed that the reaction to these plants is very individual.

She said, "I've seen some patients who have had minimal contact with it become a complete mess with a blistering skin rash spreading rapidly all over their bodies, causing intense itching and oozing. Others may get just a tiny rash on one part of their hand or forearm. It is important to wash the exposed skin immediately with warm, soapy water.

"Steroid creams or steroid by injection cuts down the itching. If a secondary infection develops from all that scratching, antibiotics may have to be added to the therapy regimen, as well."

If you do break out in a rash from poison oak, poison ivy or sumac this season, what would you do? Charle Zugarman, M.D., associate professor of clinical dermatology at Northwestern University Medical School, suggested a few ways to battle the infection:

- Wash exposed skin within 10 minutes of contact. Use a mild soap and warm water. Don't scrub — it irritates the rash.

- If itching starts, apply a medicated cream or lotion. It should contain an astringent to dry oozing blisters, an anesthetic to soothe pain and itching and an antiseptic to prevent secondary infection.

- Use warm compresses to soothe pain and itching, and adding a little vinegar or oatmeal to the water helps too.

WHAT BIT YOU?

Stings from hornets, wasps, yellowjackets or honeybees can cause severe allergic responses, and even death, Burke observed.

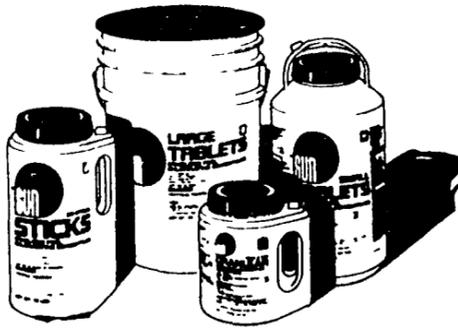

"It is important for patients to know what bit them as they describe their reaction to the allergist.

"So many times, patients call all stinging insects bees. It is really critical to know which kind so that the right desensitization treatment can be used. Unfortunately, testing for sting sensitivity is not reliable — the real test is when the insect actually stings you.

An emergency kit consisting of adrenalin and an antihistamine must be administered at once to the allergic person and then he or she must seek immediate medical attention."

Camping gear and backpacker's best bets

By Debra Lee Baldwin

Camping is a favorite family vacation, whether you cruise the highways in an air-conditioned Airstream or carry your world on your back. Today there are many new products that can make your outdoor experience easier and more enjoyable.

Campgrounds are better than ever too. Some even have Jacuzzis and swimming pools. A camp store and game room often are part of the operation.

To get an idea of possible destinations, visit your bookstore and browse the travel section. You'll need one book with maps and facts on campgrounds, and perhaps another that tells about sightseeing in and around the area you choose. There also are videos that can give you a "how to" overview of setting up camp.

Check out a camping store when time allows. It'll be a revelation if you haven't been to one for a while. You'll be particularly impressed by new high-tech materials that are lightweight, brightly colored and weatherproof.

NECESSITIES

The basics for the beginning camper include a lantern, a flashlight or two, a portable stove, an assortment of lightweight cooking gear, a cooler, a canteen, good sleeping bags, foam pads and some form of shelter, such as a tent.

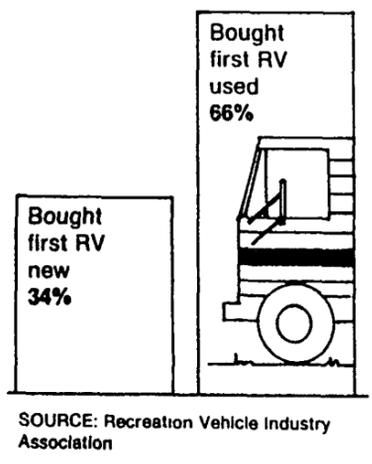

Plan to pack at least two changes of clothes, no matter how short the trip, a jacket, a raincoat and a windbreaker. Dress the kids (and yourself) in darker clothes that won't show dirt. Be sure everyone has at least two pairs of shoes and bring extra laces.

Improved sleeping bags are graded to handle even the coldest climates. Many are equipped with an internal zipper that acts as a temperature regulator, and layers of soft synthetic insulation that trap heat. These bags don't bunch up or bind, and they stuff easily into a pack.

OUTDOORFACTS

■ Most RV owners purchased their vehicle used.

Sunglasses, insect repellent and sunscreen are essential if you're traveling to hot, sunny climates. Take along a crushable hat that you can stuff inside your pack or bag.

Include a sewing kit, clothesline (ideally a stretchy one with hooks on each end) and biodegradable detergent. Refill any prescriptions you may need.

No camping trip is complete without a first-aid kit and a Swiss army knife (make sure it includes a pair of scissors). Bring magnesium matches, in case you forget your lighter.

Zane Grey summed up one of camping's greatest pleasures: "Fishing is a condition of mind wherein one cannot possibly have a bad time." So remember to restock your tackle box.

LUXURIES

If your idea of roughing it is doing without your electric blanket, you're not alone. Many campers make the wilderness cozy with RVs complete with four-burner stoves, double-compartment sinks, refrigerators, electric lights and TV sets.

RVs range from pickup campers to huge motor homes. In between are travel trailers, tag-along tent trailers, car-toppers and vans.

Some campers, however, prefer the sound of rain beating on canvas. They read books by candlelight, campfire or lamplight. Yet even these back-to-basics types often opt for cozy sleeping bags above insulated pads. And they wear down booties on their feet.

The camera and most experienced campers and backpackers prefer is a small, automatic 35mm. It's compact and lightweight and fits easily inside a pocket.

High-tech tents have insect- and snake-proof sewn-in floors and screened zipper doors. Tents designed for backpackers weigh less than five pounds — complete with guy ropes and aluminum stakes. Canvas has, for the most part, been replaced with rip-proof lightweight nylon. Aluminum frames form a supporting arch over the tent.

HIT THE TRAIL

There's no better way to leave the rat race behind than to strap a pack on your back and head into the hinterland.

"Twenty years ago in the Sierra," advises a veteran backpacker, "there was no need to carry a one-burner stove and heavy fuel. There was plenty of downed firewood around. You can't count on this largess now. Better bring your own stove and fuel."

Fortunately, stoves have become lightweight and packable — characteristics of most backpacking products now stocked by wilderness outfitters.

The menu of freeze-dried foods available today ranges from gourmet entrees to instant desserts. The variety is enough to excite even the most finicky urbanite.

Probably the most noticeable trend in backpacking equipment is fashion colors for packs, tents, hats and coats. Instead of khaki green and brown, you'll see hot pink, magenta, sky blue and turquoise.

There even are designer knapsacks, from people like Alexander Julian and Donna Karan.

Modern RVs offer the comforts of home

By Jackie Fitzpatrick

Ah wilderness!

Time to get away from it all, pull into a campsite with the fresh smell of meadow wafting through the air, the sounds of a babbling brook, a mountain range in the not-too-distant view.

Now, kick back and plug in the VCR, get some popcorn going in the microwave and check in with the neighbors on the wireless phone.

Yes, the RV has gone '90s. The trend in recreational vehicle buying these days is to get one that's going to provide all the comforts of home.

"They're designing RVs to provide more of the amenities," said Jackie Lang, public relations manager of the Recreational Vehicle Industry Association.

"What we're seeing is more-is-better with RV owners. RVs today are aerodynamically designed and have improved storage space as well."

RV vacations are as popular as ever, and owners are continuing to grow in number — there are now an estimated eight million recreational vehicles on the road in the United States at any given time.

There are a myriad of options when it comes to RV buying. They are divided into two types — towable and motorized or self-contained vehicles. Prices range from $1,500 for a folding camping trailer to $150,000 for a customized luxury mobile home. Still, affordable options for families are numerous.

AFFORDABLE VACATIONS

Camping is still considered one of the best vacation buys, even when the campers have all the creature comforts of home.

A recent RVIA study concluded the average RV vacation is one-half the cost of a hotel/car vacation, one-third of the cost of a bus/hotel vacation and one-fourth as expensive as a vacation with airfare and hotel costs.

The folding camper can be pulled behind the car. When set up, it can hold eating and sleeping facilities. Priced at about $5,000, a folding camper can comfortably sleep eight.

Truck campers can be attached to the bed of a pickup truck. With bathroom, kitchen and sleeping areas, they accommodate two to six people and average about $9,000.

Also available are hard-sided RVs towed by the car, just a step down from the self-contained RV, with an added bonus — the car can be used for sightseeing when the trailer is at the campsite.

Motor home owners face the inconvenience of towing a car for sightseeing, which can be difficult because backing up is next to impossible when towing a car.

Still, in terms of traveling convenience, the motor home offers the best option. Average costs range from $30,300 for compact models to $51,000 for larger models up to 40 feet.

In recent years, designers and manufacturers of motor homes have worked to change RVs from the gas-guzzlers they've been considered. They're building more lightweight, fuel-efficient RVs that can get about 17 miles to the gallon.

Still, many trailers get far fewer miles to the gallon, and the towable kind place a great deal of stress on the car. It's a good idea to have the car fully checked and tuned up before towing a camper.

If you're planning an extensive trip be sure to change the oil and filter every 3,500 miles and check the tires frequently as well.

RENTING A CAMPER

RV rentals are ever growing in number, with business steadily increasing over the last five years.

To find a rental agency, write to the Recreational Vehicle Rental Association, 3251 Old Lee Highway, Fairfax, VA 22030 for a copy of

"Who's Who in RV Rentals" ($5).

Experts say it's best to rent a model with no more than 50,000 miles on it and no older than two years.

Costs vary. Folding camper trailers rent for $20-$40 daily, travel trailers are $200-$400 weekly.

Motor homes rent for anywhere from $60-$100 a day not including insurance costs, which can up the bill about $10 daily. Added costs include gas and campsite fees.

CAMPSITE OPTIONS

Planning the trip is the fun part, with campsites of every variety available throughout the world. One of the rages in camping right now is the RV resort, once again getting away from it all in style.

As an example, for $38 a day, you can rent a campsite at a Palm Springs, Calif., RV resort and go to the spa and sauna, sign up for aerobics, and work out in the pool.

"The resorts are very popular with couples who want to combine camping with a resort stay," Lang said.

Still, if it's the great outdoors you're after, affordable campsites are available throughout the United States. The National Park Service operates 105 parks with campgrounds where rents range from $3 to $15 daily.

Select a hobby for communing with nature

By Sharon Williams

You want to experience the wonders of the great outdoors. You're primed to count all the spots on a ladybug you discovered during a nature hike, and ready to seek out all the constellations in the summer sky.

They're not exactly the things one would do on a vacation to Club Med, but communing with nature might be just the ticket to tame frayed nerves.

There are those purists who, when discussing ways to enjoy nature, want nothing less than a month-long survival class in which participants learn to feast on ants.

And there are those all-too-civilized urbanites who head for the nearest man-made fountain for a five-minute break when they want to hear the splash of water.

Most, though, want something in-between — activities that don't require the skill of an expert, the knowledge of a nature fanatic or the vacation allowance of a 50-year employee. Therein lie possibilities that exceed the number of hiking paths mapped out in Yosemite. Consider:

SCENIC WALKS OR HIKES

You can take in some breathtaking scenery, breathe plenty of fresh air and perhaps spot a wild animal, or at least an exotic insect or plant simply by stumping around in the wilderness.

No experience is required, although in light of today's walking craze, you may already have spent plenty of hours in transit. Just be sure to plan the length of the hike and type of terrain you are tackling in accordance with your level of endurance.

To find the most picturesque spots, scan tourist guidebooks of your area or a potential vacation destination, check with chambers of commerce and quiz national park personnel and outfitters. Magazines and outdoor sections of newspapers usually offer suggestions as well.

It's a safe bet that every location has at least a little bit of nature set aside. It could be as modest as an acre or two of marked forest located next to a college campus, or as vast as an entire mountainside that boasts waterfalls, streams, wildflowers and wildlife.

Case in point — authors Rodney and Priscilla Albright found dozens of nature hikes on New York's Long Island alone, and published them in their guidebook, "Short Nature Walks on Long Island" (Globe Pequot; 1988).

If you'll be treading on gentle terrain, you need take nothing more than a good pair of walking shoes. More extended treks that cover both hill and valley call for equally comfortable, but sturdier shoes. In some cases, your outfitter may go so far as to suggest full-blown hiking boots.

But there are other handy pieces of equipment available. To bring nature up close, consider the newest in binoculars, which are compact, yet offer powerful magnification, or a nature microphone that lets you locate, listen to and record the sounds of nature from up to 300 yards away.

Keep track of all you behold in field notebooks/organizers designed especially for hikers, and use maps and compasses to keep you on the right path when the trail divides.

Walking sticks are not only there to lean on, but also to use when singling out points of interest for other hikers in your party.

Attire for a moderate hike traditionally consists of lightweight khaki walking shorts, a comfortable, somewhat loose shirt, and a hat, cap or visor for sun protection.

Canvas belt pouches and hikers' vests will give you more pocket space when needed without weighing you down. Most offer specific spots for items such as your water canteen, pocketknife and even a bag of trail mix.

GETTING IT ON FILM

If you long to experience the great outdoors firsthand, then capture those visions and bring them home for keeps, consider outdoor photography.

Until You

Check Church's ...Here's Why:

Church's has the best "weather-resistant" lumber in town!
It really weathers the elements!

Water beads right off Wolmanized EXTRA Weather-Resistant Lumber because it's got something "extra" — it's pressure treated with a special water repellent to prevent moisture penetration from rain and snow. All wood swells and expands when it absorbs moisture. As it dries, it releases moisture and shrinks. Constant expansion and contraction causes grain raising, checking, splintering and warping. Spray or brush-on water sealers just can't repel water like Wolmanized EXTRA Lumber — in laboratory tests Wolmanized EXTRA Lumber shows almost two-thirds more moisture resistance than pressure-treated lumber protected with a leading water sealer. Of course, this fantastic lumber is also treated for lifelong protection against termites, rot and decay. Don't settle for ordinary treated lumber, Insist on Wolmanized EXTRA!

GUARANTEED 2-WAYS

- 1.) GUARANTEED FOR DURABILITY
- 2.) GUARANTEED FOR APPEARANCE
