Now you see her, now you don't! When Laura Cumming, 16, began helping out on the Rouge Rescue project in Northville she was relatively dry. By morning's end that was no longer true. Cumming, shown above just as a splash of water on the right, fell in while helping Bethanie McLean, left, pull on some branches. Cumming was okay after her brief immersion and both girls had quite a laugh over the mishap. Right, Eric Rossing, 17, of Northville and Dennis Cassady, 17, of Northville, get a barrel out of the river. For more details on Saturday's Northville clean-up see page 10A.

Youths earn top honors in competition

By MAUREEN NASZRADI

Eleven 10- and 11-year-olds from Northville brought home the top prizes Saturday from an international competition that required teamwork, spontaneous thinking and problem-solving skills - not the type of skills you develop on the local playground.

Each year Northville students have the opportunity to join one of the Odyssey of the Mind teams, which are organized through the school

The team members and coaches work together throughout the school year to find the most creative solution to a long-term problem posed to them in October. At competitions held near the end of the school year, the teams must also solve a "spontaneous problem" - using their skills within a set

It was Northville's Odyssey of the Mind Recycle team — Brandi Beckwith, Eric Campion, Austin Kurtis, Greg Last, Ben Romine and Brynn Wade which this past weekend won first place in the Odyssey of the Mind 1990 World Finals held at University of Iowa in Ames.

Northville's Odyssey of the Mind Structures-in-Harmony team — Charles Fan, Dan Fiske, James Giammarco, Matt Schlosser and Andy Vartanian won second place in their division of competition.

The recycling team also brought home the most coveted award of the competition, the Ranatra Fusca Award, which is presented to the team that, working together, demonstrates extraordinary talent or creativity, explained Gayle Fountain, who coordinates the Odyssey of the Mind program for the district.

The "recycling" and "structures-in-harmony" team names refer to the subject areas in which the students chose to compete when they initially signed up for the Odyssey program.

Both the recycle and structures teams qualified for the world competition after winning competitions at the regional and state levels, said Sharon Romine, coach of the recycling team. Romine, who has been involved in Odyssey of the Mind for five years, said the program teaches teamwork, spontaneous thinking and problem-solving skills.

Library space, budget woes noted

By STEVE KELLMAN Staff Wnter

The Northville Community Library faces a potential budget squeeze and a continuing space crunch, said Library Director Pat Orr.

Northville city officials did not see a short-term solution to either problem.

Orr made her observations at Monday's city council meeting, during a review of the status of community shared services.

We have space concerns, of course, and we have financial concerns on the state level." Orr told the council. The financial concerns center on proposals made in a recent report to the state's Legislative Council. Under the proposals, libraries in communities like Northville and Novi would lose state funding, and library cooperatives including the Wayne Oakland Library Federation (WOLF) would be dissolved.

What disturbs public library officials most about the report is its recommendations that the state's current library cooperatives be replaced by multitype library networks combining public libraries with academic, private and other types of libraries, and that state aid be withdrawn from class five and class six libraries, Orr said. Class five and six libraries are those in communities of more than 25,000.

"It is a controversial recommendation," Orr said. "We receive approximately $15,000 in affected state aid right now, so we're quite concerned about the implications of the . . . report." Orr was uncertain why the report recommended dismantling the state's present cooperative system,

Police seek suspect in assault case

A white male in his late 20s is being sought by township police for at-tempted criminal sexual assault of a female resident of Innsbrook Apartments, 18800 Innsbrook Drive.

'Smooth' crimes pair questioned

By MIKE TYREE Staff Writer

Township police last week questioned two area tecnagers suspected of involvement with the Smooth Criminals.

The two denied involvement with the gang that has vandalized the city and township during the past two months and were not charged, said

But Helke said the two remain suspects in numerous cases of vandalism, as well as breaking and entering area homes and businesses and larceny of automobiles.

They didn't convince me that they weren't involved," he said.

One of the suspects was questioned at the township police department May 31 after police obtained a

The alleged destruction of protected woodlands may leave the township planning commission with an ax to grind with developers of a proposed subdivision on the former

Thomson Sand and Gravel site. Citing deficiencies in a proposal presented by D & T Construction of Mt. Clemens, the planners last week rejected a preliminary subdivision plan for The Shores of Northville, a 362-acre tract located on Beck and Ridge between Six and Seven Mile roads. The decision to turn down the preliminary plan came on the heels of an hour-long debate between the commission and development partner Vincent DiLorenzo over the destruction of nearly five acres of trees protected by the township's woodlands ordinance. "It seems like every time you come before us, trees have been removed," Planning Commission Chairperson Charles DeLand told the developers. "I'm disgusted with the developer for blatant disregard for the tree ordinances.

Vice-Chairperson Karen Woodside was also upset over the apparent removal of trees from the site before permits were issued or plans were approved by the commission.

Our township's being destroyed: that's why we have a woodlands ordinance," Woodside said. "We were just livid the last time. I find it inexcusable (that more were cut)."

The township adopted a woodlands ordinance in January, 1989. Members of the commission directed their anger at the developer after planning consultant Claude Coates of Vilican-Leman & Associates said trees were removed from the site on more than one occasion.

In a letter to the planning commission. Coates wrote that the developers had submitted site proposals in February and March, with woodlands apparently destroyed after the commission had warned the firm in January about cutting down protected trees

News Briefs

CORRECTIONS - A story in the Monday, June 4, edition of the Northville Record incorrectly listed the cause of an accidental fire at Crawford's Restaurant last Thursday. The fire was caused by grease igniting under the stove in the kitchen.

In the May 31 edition of the Record, Dick O'Hare was incorrectly identified as the V.F.W. member shown in the page one picture. We regret the error.

CLARIFICATION — The May 31 recycling editorial noted the City of Northville currently has an office paper recycling program. The Northville Township offices also collect and recycle office computer paper and to date have collected 1,600 pounds of white and colored stock computer paper. They began the program in August of 1989. In addition the township uses recycled paper for daily office use.

RED CROSS HELP NEEDED - The Northville Group of the Red Cross volunteers is looking for help during mobile blood banks held in the Northville area. Several of the faithful volunteers are unavailable during the summer months and staffing at blood banks is becoming difficult.

Volunteers help in registering blood donors, make the bags to hold the blood, escort donors to the canteen area and man the canteen itself. Usually volunteers are only asked to help on one or two blood banks per month. The banks last for about six hours.

Anyone interested in joining the Northville Red Cross Volunteers Group should call Sue Anger at 349-0068, Evelyn Harper at 349-5781 or Mesa Campbell at 349-1748.

LIBRARY BOARD - The Board of Directors of the Friends of the Northville Public Library will meet Tuesday, June 10, at 9 a.m. at city hall. All Friends and the public are invited.

ART VOLUNTEERS WANTED - Northville Friends of the Arts are looking for volunteers for Art Market during the Victorian Festival on Sept. 14-16. The organization is looking for help in giving artists breaks during the festival. Any volunteer should contact the Art Market at P.O. Box 99, Northville, 48167.

Student arraigned on drug charge

By STEVE KELLMAN Staff Writer

Northville High School senior Tim David Leuliette was arrested at the school Friday and charged with delivery of the hallucinogenic drug LSD in

Leuliette, 18, a senior at the high school, was arrested at 12:05 Friday afternoon by Northville City police in cooperation with Officer Dennis Jelley of the Oakland County Narcotics Enforcement Team (NET).

He was arraigned later that day on one count of delivery of LSD, in front of Magistrate Mark Weaver of the 52nd District Court in Walled Lake.

A $10,000 personal recognizance bond was set, and Leuliette was released.

Lt. Dorothy McAllen, commanding officer of the NET, said Leuliette's arrest came after several months of investigation by her team.

Though she would not give specific details about the case, McAllen said

Leuliette had dealt with several of NET's undercover agents prior to the Friday, June 8, has been set for the garelli of the 52nd District Court. arrest. The delivery did not take place at the high school, it took place in Novi," she added.

McAllen said the case involved a small quantity of LSD tablets, worth less than $100.

Northville High School Principal David Bolitho said that no disciplinary action is planned against the student by the school, because "it's a matter that happened outside the don't have that kind of information,"

A preliminary examination date of case, in front of Judge Harold M. Bul-

Bolitho said if further evidence turns up linking Leuliette to drug sales or other drug involvement at the school, the student would face disciplinary action. "At this point we he said.

Student arraigned on drug charge

By STEVE KELLMAN Staff Writer

Northville High School senior Tim David Leuliette was arrested at the school Friday and charged with delivery of the hallucinogenic drug LSD in Novi.

Leuliette, 18, a senior at the high school, was arrested at 12:05 Friday afternoon by Northville City police in cooperation with Officer Dennis Jelley of the Oakland County Narcotics

Enforcement Team (NET). He was arraigned later that day on one count of delivery of LSD, in front of Magistrate Mark Weaver of the 52nd District Court in Walled Lake. A $10,000 personal recognizance bond was set, and Leuliette was released. Lt. Dorothy McAllen, commanding officer of the NET, said Leuliette's arrest came after several months of investigation by her team.

Though she would not give specific details about the case, McAllen said

Leuliette had dealt with several of NET's undercover agents prior to the arrest. The delivery did not take place at the high school, it took place in Novi," she added.

McAllen said the case involved a small quantity of LSD tablets, worth less than $100.

Missing Northville woman sought

By STEVE KELLMAN Staff Writer

Northville city police are searching for a local woman missing since Monday, May 21.

Pamela Ann McCowan, 30, who lives with her mother in Northville, was last seen Monday evening, May 21, wearing stonewashed jeans, a red sweatshirt, and tennis shoes. She is described as a white female, five and a half feet tall, with wavy, shoulderlength brown hair and blue eyes.

Her mother, Patricia Kilgore, reported her daughter's disappearance May 31. Kilgore told Northville police that McCowan has never been gone for more than four or five days in the past without notifying relatives.

Detective David Fendelet of the Northville City police department is investigating the disappearance.

"We put it into the national computer, and also teletyped it to Michigan departments, letting them know that she's presumed to be missing." Fendelet said. "Because she's an adult, she doesn't have to tell mom and dad every time she goes away, but they're

Parking deck proposal gains support

By STEVE KELLMAN

The Northville city council voiced support for Singh Development's latest plan to bridge the gap between their MainCentre building and a proposed Cady Street parking deck.

The latest modification of the proposal calls for a bridge support tower in the middle of Center Street, with a landscaped area on either side. City Manager Steven Walters said the island would likely be similar to the one around the Victorian Clock on Main Street.

Proposed parking spaces on the east side of Center opposite Main-Centre would be eliminated, while parallel parking would remain along MainCentre.

Walters found four advantages to the proposed bridge support, including the fact that a tower would reduce the clear span of the bridge. which had presented an engineering problem to the MainCentre designers. The bridge tower would also make the span look more traditional, the center boulevard would provide more landscaping and "visual interest to the block," and the elimination of parking on the east would make it easier for the engineers to regrade Center Street just south of Main to remove the sudden dip in the road, he

Most of the council agreed with Walter's assessments, though not without some discussion.

Council member Jerry Mittman asked about allowing Singh to build carports on the parking lot south of MainCentre, as was originally proposed more than a year ago. "My personal feeling is if you could avoid walking across (a bridge over Center Street), you'd like to," he said. But Walters suggested that a bridge would likely be more attractive than Walters said the right bridge could add rather than detract from the Victorian spirit of the downtown area. "If you have a glass tube like you see in downtown Detroit, it wouldn't fit at all." he admitted. But he added a bridge using brick and other tradi-tional building materials could be attractive.

The rest of the council agreed that a deck and bridge would present a better appearance than carports.

Walters also reviewed the positive reception the Downtown Development Authority (DDA) gave the Cady Street parking deck plan at their latest meeting. The DDA agreed the deck on Cady Street was a better solution to the city's parking problems than a Center Street parking DDA members also suggested widening the bridge to allow retail or office space in the bridge itself.

But Walters said Singh Development did not share the DDA's enthusiasm for shops or offices on the bridge because of the internal circulation changes necessary in the MainCentre building, and the fact the corridor is designed not to allow public access from the parking deck. Also, Walters said, widening the bridge to the north would not leave enough clearance for vehicles heading up the hill on Center Street.

UNSIGHTLY SPACES

if your teeth have unsightly spaces, especially in front where the gaps will show every time you open your mouth, you may want to consider the composite resin bonding technique. Where applicable, this is a relatively less costly procedure and the results are excellent and getting even better with today's rapidly improving technology.

When your dentist has completed the procedure the wide gap is gone and only a natural spacing remains.

This can make quite an improvement in the apperarance of your teeth, wherever the gap happens to be, it is especially desirable when the unsightly gaps are in your front teeth. Ask your technology.

technology.

Composite resin is considered a versatile and useful material. It has many applications in dentistry. One is its use in correcting badly discolored teeth. Another is in filling unsightly gaps. Enough composite resin is applied to the teeth on both sides of a gap so that the space is gradually diminished.

City council approves Scout Building parking plan say save the grass and make use of Cady Street, could add more spaces problems.

By STEVE KELLMAN Staff Writer

The Northville city council narrowly agreed to install 16 paved parking spaces behind the Scout Building Monday, but only after heated debate.

The proposed parking lot will provide six standard and 10 handicapped spaces at the 215 Cady Street facility. The facility curently houses the senior citizens program and scouting activities displaced by the re-opening of Cooke School.

The council postponed a proposal to add an additional 22 parking spaces behind city hall.

City Manager Steven Walters made the proposals to provide the necessary parking spaces for the Scout Building and solve a longstanding shortage of parking behind city hall. The spaces would be built by Singh Development, developers of the MainCentre project, as part of a previous agreement with the city to build some 40 parking spaces for MainCentre parking credits.

The vote on the Scout Building parking lot came after a long debate between council members over the amount of parking needed at the site.

Said Mayor Chris Johnson, "I don't think that there's any disagreement among the council that adequate parking adjacent to the site, especially handicapped parking, needs to be provided." But the council could not agree on the number of parking spaces considered adequate.

Council Member Paul Folino argued the city had a responsibility to provide the same parking spaces at the Scout Building that it requires private businesses to provide at their properties. He also argued against applying the city hall parking spaces to those needed at the Scout Building, because of the ongoing need for more parking at city hall.

"I don't see where we're accom-plishing two objectives," he said. Folino urged the council to return to an earlier plan which would provide some 30 parking spaces across the back of the Scout Building.

Council Member Carolann Ayers agreed, saying, "I think that we need to provide at least the parking spaces for this building that we require other uses to provide. I just don't see how we can require so much parking of, say, an insurance company on Center Street, and not require it of Citizens program agreed that program participants used more parking than the 16-space plan would provide. Recreation Director John Anderson gave the council photos showing how crowded the site was during Senior Citizen activities on Sunday. He added the senior citizens advisory council was in favor of an earlier proposal to install a 52-space parking lot behind the building.

Karl Peters, coordinator of the Senior Citizens program, noted that 42 senior citizens were at the Scout Building Sunday, "playing cards and doing activities.

An older man asked why there was no room for the senior citizens program at the recreation building next to city hall, "which was built for the whole town to use," he said. "Aren't the senior citizens part of the town?

When it became obvious the council could not agree on both proposals at once, Johnson suggested dividing the proposals up and voting on them separately. The final vote in favor of the Scout Building plan was 3-2, with Folino and Ayers voting against the City hall parking lot plan on hold

By STEVE KELLMAN

City officials had little success agreeing on a proposal to build 22 parking spaces behind city hall, after narrowly voting to build a parking lot along the side of the Scout Building.

The proposal from City Manager Steven Walters called for building 22 parking spaces on either side of the Cady Street exit from the lot. Two of the spaces would be needed for the city's dumpster.

Council Member Paul Folino argued the parking should be added, in addition to a larger Scout Building lot. Of the city hall lot, he said, "My opinion is we are trying to correct a situation that should have been corrected years ago."

Mayor Chris Johnson was also in favor of the parking plan behind city hall, saying, "I think you're squaring up parking back there, not reallly removing significant portions of the city

Creating castles

Fourth graders at Amerman Elementary school recently created castles as part of their "Welcome to the Renaissance" section. The castles were part of the celebration of the arts week which recently took place at the school. Above, Jamie Cox, 10, right, and Lindsay Conquest, 9, put the finishing touches on their creations.

Library funds could change

"when the current system has worked very effectively for the last five

Libraries across the state are already compensating for a 2.5-percent cut in state funds, Orr added.

Orr also told the council of a May 23 meeting of Citizens for a Community Library at which the group discussed the reasons for the 2-1 defeat of the Haller Library proposal.

"Generally it was the cost coupled with high assessments running straight into the tax revolt." Orr said. "Certainly the whole issue of location came into effect."

But Orr said the group is looking to learn from the mistakes made in the Haller campaign, and present a better library proposal next time. Those efforts should dovetail with a township plan to survey residents this summer to determine their development priorities, she added.

Local resident Mark Cryderman

suggested a joint survey by both the township and the city, saying "we're not two communities, we're one community. And not just with the library but with senior citizens and community recreation."

The council agreed with the proposal, with Council Member Jerry Mittman adding that public hearings should be held after the survey to give residents another chance to make their priorities known.

But some council members and persons in the audience cautioned that residents must be made aware of the cost of community improvements, and must be willing to pay the price.

Said Johnson, "There are obvious signs of anger with taxes in general, but the problem we have is you get what you pay for. We're going to have to have broad-based support as opposed to single-issue support."

Johnson said the community must find the level of taxes residents are willing to pay to achieve improvemental life to pay to be better.

ments like a new library.

The point is finding what that level is and not spending more than that level," he said.

As for the current library facility at city hall. Our said the shortage of space that has plagued the facility for years has only gotten worse.

During preschool story hours on

During preschool story hours on Wednesdays, Orr said, "experienced library users know not to come at 10 o'clock or two o'clock bercause they can't get near the building.

"If we went to a 12,000-squarefoot library, the public wouldn't see most of that space. We are so cramped now, most of that would go to staff space," she added. The library's staff will also have to use a conference room for work space

Council Member Carolann Ayers suggested having the library open six days a week rather than five.

"It seems to me that with a library crowded with patrons, staffing more hours might increase the patrons but it also might spread out the use," she said. "We would get full use of our current facility."

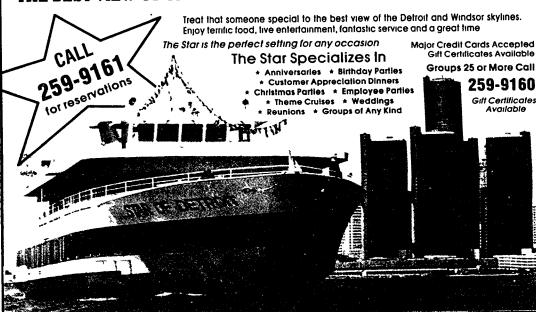

Orr said library officials are considering that possibility. But she argued the library is already near its full use.

"This is a question that we have considered even more strongly since the first of the year," she said. She warned that the current staff would probably have to be increased to allow a six-day schedule.

Comparing her library to the Novi Library, which has a six-day schedule, Orr said "they have a staff of 21 and we have a staff of 10."

"It's the higher level of thinking that the schools have been trying to incorporate the last five to 10 years," she said. "Learning to listen to others - coming up with an idea that's the most creative - we're teaching creative problem solving. This is what major corporations have seminars for adults on."

The Wizard, their dispatcher, was the only team member without a blindfold. He directed his blindfolded collectors - the Scarecrow, Tin Man and Cowardly Lion - and blindfolded hauler (Dorothy) around a park and through a course laden with trash and obstacles with the use Romine said the children really benefited by seeing so many different approaches and solutions to the same problem.

For example, she said one of the judging criteria for the recycling solutions was the type of trash the children collected. While the competitors in most cases used similar pieces of trash, the Northville students created 35 distinct, painted papermache objects that individually supported their Oz theme.

"My kids came up with all these ideas themselves," after months of discussion, Romine said. "No one had anything like it. They were very, very creative."

At the World Finals, the two Northville teams helped represent Michigan's 10,000 Odyssey of the Mind members. They competed against teams from 48 states in the U.S. as well as teams from Canada, Hong Kong, Japan, Mexico, China, Pakistan, the Phillipines, Poland, Soviet Union and West Germany.

Both Northville teams competed against 50 teams in their subject category at their division level. The competition took four days to complete because there were so many teams and each was allowed a set amount of time to perform its skit.

The teams were judged in three areas of performance for a possible 350 points: long-term (200), spontaneous(100) and style (50).

Choices difficult for rape victims

By MIKE TYREE Staff Writer

Women must make their own decision to fight or submit when confronted with a rapist or other form of attacker, a rape counselor said Tuesday.

"We don't suggest that a woman fight back or not," said a counselor at the Rape Counseling Center in Detroit. The woman asked that her name not be used in the newspaper.

To advocate that a person fight someone who is showing deviant behavior puts added stress on the victim," she said.

The counselor responded to questions about attacks on women after a Northville Township woman was reportedly the victim of attempted criminal sexual conduct at her apartment early Sunday morning.

Township police said the woman in her mid-20's — grabbed her attacker by the genitals and poked him in the left eye with her thumb. Police said the woman's response to the attacker may have driven him from the apartment and prevented her from

The counselor said women have to determine what type of action they will take when attacked, because of the violence associated with rape and sex offenses.

"Methods of injuring the attacker are usually taught in self-defense classes," the counselor said. "But if you injure the person, you can die.

*Each situation is different and it's a judgement no one can make with-out being there," she said.

Rapists are categorized as angry or passive, the counselor said. Angry or sychotic rapists will often beat or kill their victims and passive rapists will usually leave after the sexual assault, she said.

And the course the victim takes often leaves the door open to secondguessing.

Some survive the violence if they fight back and get beaten," the counselor said. "If they can scare the attacker away, fine.

"But if they are assaulted, sometimes the family will say Why didn't you fight back harder, or scream louder.' We don't want to pressure them by saying you should have done this or that."

The counselor said women should be aware of their options should an attack situation occur. She said counseling centers give out rape prevention methods and safety tips and she suggested that women take selfdefense classes.

"There is a lot to take into consideration when something like this happens," she said. "Nothing is ever and three other Republican state legislators are asking the Michigan Supreme Court for reapportionment guidelines.

The Legislature is due to redistrict itself after the 1990 census for the 1992 primary. The high court in 1982 abolished the four-member Apportionment Commission, which invariably deadlocked between Republican and Democratic plans.

The court will go a long way toward eliminating partisan politics from the reapportionment process," said Lansing attorney David W.

In general, Democrats have drawn district lines with numerical exactness, often sending meandering lines to carve up cities and townships. Republicans called it gerrymandering. Republican plans try to follow local government boundaries. Democrats say such districts vary too much in size.

McKeague said the high court in 1982 said criteria other than "one man, one vote" could be used.

We believe the Supreme Court can best serve the people by setting forth in advance the criteria which will govern the reapportionment of the Michigan Legislature."

McKeague said.

Rouge rescued ' in annual event

By STEVE KELLMAN Staff Writer

Northville citizens turned out in force last weekend to make the Middle Rouge River a cleaner stream.

Traci Gottschalk, assistant director of Northville Community Recreation, said 84 volunteers waded into the Rouge for Saturday morning's local version of the annual Rouge Rescue. The cleanup was overseen by Community Recreation Director John Anderson.

Gottschalk said local youth and senior citizens worked side-by-side in Saturday's cleanup. Northville High School students from Mary Culik's science class volunteered for extra class credit. Township Manager Richard Henningsen, School Board member Jay Dunkerley and his wife. and Board of Trustees member Richard Allen and his wife were just some of the local dignitaries who helped out as well.

The volunteers collected "three huge roll-off boxes full of trash, plus some extra stuff that they couldn't fit in the boxes," Gottschalk said.

Mountain Top Green Ridge Tree Service, a local landscaping company and perennial volunteer to the Rouge Rescue, donated time and equipment to the Northville project again this

"Without their equipment, we couldn't have cleared a lot of the logs," Gottschalk said. Aside from the expected trash, bottles and broken limbs, volunteers found a few more unlikely items in the river this year. We pulled out-picnic tables, truck tires and lawn chairs," Gottschalk said. "It was,

The City of Novi will pay its share of the cost of the project ($5,828,690) in cash from available funds.

CITY'S CONTRACTUAL OBLIGATION AND SOURCE OF PAYMENT

The bonds to be issued by the County of Oakland will bear interest at a rate or rates not to exceed 15% per annum and will mature serially over a period not exceeding 40 years. The full faith and credit of the City of Walled Lake have been pledged in the contract as amended for the making of payments to the County in amounts sufficient to pay the principal of and interest on the bonds as the same shall become due and for the payment of the bond service charges incurred by the County. Taxes levied by the City of Walled Lake for the payment of its obligations to the County are subject to constitutional, statutory and charter limitations. No bonds will be issued to pay the City of Novi's share of the cost of the project and the City will be obligated to pay the County its share of the cost at the time bonds are sold to defray the City of Walled Lake's share.
RIGHT TO PETITION FOR REFERENDUM ON CONTRACT

This notice is given by order of the City Council to and for the benefit of the electors and taxpayers of the City of Novi and any other interested persons in order to inform them of their right to petition for a referendum upon the second amendment to the contract. The second amendment to the contract will not become effective until the expiration of 45 days after the publication of this notice. If, within said 45-day period, a petition signed by 10% or 15,000, whichever is the lesser, of the registered electors residing within the City is filed with the City Clerk requesting a referendum upon the second amendment to the contract, the second amendment to the contract will not become effective until approved by a majority of the electors of the City qualified to vote and voting thereon at a general or special election.

FURTHER INFORMATION

Further information relative to the subject matter of the contract, the first amendment to the contract and the second amendment to the contract and this notice, including the description and location of the improvements, may be secured at the office of the City Clerk where copies of the contract, the first amendment and the second amendment are available for examination during normal business hours.

This notice is given pursuant to the provisions of Section 5b of Act 342, Public Acts of Michigan, 1939, as amended.

GENITTIS HONORED - To honor John and Toni Genitti and express appreciation for their continuing support of the Friends of the Northville Public Library, a 15-volume set of Child Craft books has been presented to the library in their honor.

Friends President Wendy Gutowski and Geraldine Mills notified the proprietors of the Hole-in-the-Wall restaurant this week of the gift and showed them some of the volumes.

The Genittis have hosted a dinner each September for the benefit of the Friends. Mills has chaired the dinner for the past six years and is planning this year's benefit on Sept. 24. The speaker, usually a local author, will be announced later in the summer.

Individual volumes of the Child Craft set will circulate, according to Library Director Pat Orr.

LIBRARY BOARD MEETS — The Board of Directors of the Friends of the Northville Public Library will meet Tuesday, June 10 at 9 a.m. at city hall. All Friends and the public are invited.

GENEALOGICAL SOCIETY — The Northville Genealogical Society will meet at Mill Race Village on Thursday, June 14 at 7:30 p.m. This month's program is entitled "Bring and Brag." Gather your photographs, relics, and experiences in genealogical research to share with others. Meetings will resume in September but activities such as a cemetery reading will continue through the summer. For more information, call 348-1857 or 349-3020.

SUMMER READING PROGRAM — Northville Public Library's 1990 summer reading program will have a culinary theme. Elementary school-age readers are invited to join the very popular program entitled this year, "Batches of Books". Six special presentations will include edible experiments, science, magic, juggling, safety tips, and participation in Northville's Fourth of July parade. Programs will take place on Wednesdays at 2 p.m., June 20 through July 25.

Children who are not yet reading may enroll in the "Reading-to-Me" program. Young listeners will keep a record of favorite books which have been read to them by their Registration begins June 15 and will continue until June

Judge sends dispute back to city

By STEVE KELLMAN Staff Writer

After trading lawsuits, Northville City and the owners of Black's Hardware have been ordered by Wayne County Circuit Court Judge Roland Olzark to settle locally a longrunning dispute over the city's outdoor storage ordinance.

The city and hardware store squared off in Wayne County Circuit Court Friday, June 1, after agreeing to reschedule their original May 25 court date.

Olzark ordered the store owners to apply to the city for permission to store materials outside their store, and return to court June 29.

At issue is the city's ordinance against outside storage, which states, "Sidewalk sales, outside display of merchandise is prohibited except under conditions of special approval by the City Council."

For more than a year, city officials have been issuing warnings to the Blacks about the outside display of merchandise at their 139 E. Main St.

store. But the store owners maintained they had every right to store the materials outside, because outside storage is a common practice for hardware stores, and because storage of bagged goods was allowed outside their former 117 E. Main St. location for years. After being cited for violating the ordinance in May, the Blacks filed a lawsuit against the city May 9. In the suit, the store owners sought and obtained a temporary injunction against the city barring officials from enforcing their ordinance against the

The city responded with a suit of its own May 18, which maintained the Blacks did not exhaust the local alternatives to a lawsuit first. The city's suit also argued the ordinance was legal, and an injunction against enforcing the ordinance could encourage other business owners to violate it as well.

John Bredell of the Ypsilanti firm Logeman & Connors, who is representing store owners Robert and the plaintiffs "a mixed message" with his ruling Friday. "He dissolved the temporary injunction but he said the Blacks could temporarily store materials outside," Bredell said.

The judge also ordered the store owners to reapply to the city for permission to store the materials outside, or for a variance from the city's ordinance requirement.

"We're hopeful that we can resolve it at that stage, out of court," Bredell said. That may be a good avenue to

In their original suit, the Blacks also sought more than $10,000 in damages for lost sales because they weren't allowed to display materials outside for several months. Bredell said the matter of damages "hasn't been resolved yet."

City Attorney James Kohl saw the judge's ruling differently than

What the judge ordered was that Mr. Black follow the procedures in the ordinance, which is what he should have done in the first place," Donna Black, said Judge Olzark sent Kohl said. Why he filed this lawsuit instead of going to the council, I don't

He added, "I think the judge is looking for a practical solution without a full-blown trial."

As of Tuesday, owner Robert Black was uncertain which course he would take to settle the dispute. The store owners can either ask the city council for temporary permission to store materials outside, or appear before the Board of Zoning Appeals for a variance to the ordinance. "I'm not positive what board we're going before," Black said.

The Blacks were granted permission by the city council to store bagged goods outside their store for four months last year, but the council denied their request to store wheeled goods like wheelbarrows and seeders outside. The Blacks did not return to seek council permission this year.

Black was also concerned about the length of time the judge gave the owners to settle with the city. "I think the 30-day limit's a bit too quick," he

Our Opinions

Planners question reclamation claim

Reclaim: To make suitable for cultivation or habitation.

D & T Construction of Mt. Clemens has raised some serious questions in the minds of the township planning commission about just what that word means to the average developer. And the planners are absolutely on target with those questions.

Some five acres of trees apparently have been destroyed at the former site of the Thomson Sand & Gravel operation. That site will someday be home to The Shores of Northville development, if the developer's plan is eventually approved.

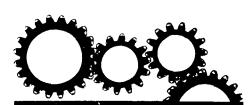

In the meantime, with the sand and gravel operation now defunct, the owners of the land, including development partner Vincent DiLorenzo, are responsible for the reclamation of the land.

Enter the disagreement over a definition. Five acres of trees were destroyed, according to DiLorenzo, as part of the legal reclamation of the land as required by the township. Planning commissioners justifiably wondered if woodlands weren't destroyed as part of site development for the proposed residential project. If the latter is the case, the developer has blatantly disregarded the township woodlands ordinance.

The matter brings up quite a few troubling questions. First, why did the development company continue to bulldoze trees even after being told to stop by township officials in January of 1990?

DiLorenzo claims if he had only known the trees were not supposed to come down, he would have stopped the destruction. "If I had known anything about it, I would have gone on-site and stopped it," he said. That raises the second question: Why didn't he know?

Township officials told DiLorenzo's associates in January to stop taking down protected trees without a permit. Even after the warning, according to township consultants, trees were removed. If DiLorenzo was not told about the mandate to stop cutting, is ignorance or bad internal communication a reasonable excuse?

Why is there such confusion over the terms involved in a reclamation project? "I don't feel we've done anything wrong," DiLorenzo said to the planning commission last week. "The only thing we're trying to do is restore the site." Is it a legitimate part of restoration to take down trees? To take down five acres of Planning commissioners were correct in their outrage over the loss of the trees. Now the questions must be answered. In addition to finding out whether trees were taken down justifiably or with total disregard for a township ordinance, planners must now deal with the reality of the woodlands ordinance as written in the township.

What repercussions will a developer who misreads a reclamation definition suffer? What "teeth" are there in the ordinance which makes it more important to save the trees and follow the rules than to say "sorry" after they're gone?

Planning commissioners have turned down The Shores of Northville proposal for now, pending changes by the developer.

Township engineer Abe Munfah will be out at the site to determine if the work going on was indeed reclamation or if it was premature site development.

The plan will return, and in the meantime people will be hard at work looking for answers to some troubling questions. And we'll all be interested in the outcome.

Northville students are world champs

The best in the world.

Not a phrase used every day to describe an elementary school student, but the right phrase to use when describing the winners and second place finishers from Northville's own Amerman Elementary and Winchester Elementary schools in the 1990 Odyssey of the Mind World Finals.

Congratulations are due to these young people and their dedicated coaches who, through hard work and plenty of practice, managed not only to make it to the competition in Ames, Iowa - but to come away winners of the

The competition included teams from around the United States as well as teams from China, Japan, Pakistan and

While the significance of the Northville students accomplishment in the competition is indeed high, the importance of the Odyssey of the Mind competition goes far beyond the prestige it brings to these young people and the Northville community as a whole.

Odyssey of the Mind competition centers on several aspects of learning. Creativity is stressed as is teamwork and problem solving.

More and more educational studies are finding these three ingredients are the basis upon which the future education of a child can begin. Tomorrow's leaders and workers must have the needed creativity to attack problems with innovative solutions, according to most recent employee research data.

The international flavor of the competition in Iowa reinforces the basic educational philosophies Odyssey of the Mind seeks to teach. While teams could not compete on a common language field they could easily relate in the important fields of spontaneous and creative solutions to common problems. As the globe becomes ever smaller, teamwork that goes beyond cultural and language barriers will be needed more and more.

Congratulations to all the participants and to the winners - but more importantly, congratulations to all the students who are learning and having fun with such important concepts. We'll all reap the benefits in the future.

Par for the course is high and hot but there is a cool breeze blowing across the carefully manicured grass. Late morning dew still wets shoes in shadows where the creeping sun has not reached.

It is quiet. Peaceful.

This is golf.

The foursome is on the first tee of the Northville Chamber of Commerce Golf Outing at Fox Hills. The pre-tee-off banter is polite, informal, easy-going. They're relaxed. They're hopeful. The day is before them, their clubs are clean and their scorecards are empty.

This is golf.

The first hitter steps to the tee. He rotates his shoulders, shakes out his hands, smiles and confidently places the ball on the tee. Whack.

The ball bounces off the cart path and heads toward Toledo. They're all polite. "Hey, no problem. First hit of the year is bound to be a little off." Second golfer hits. Whack. Ball travels to the other side of the fairway, slices far to the left and nearly kills foursome in next fairway. Third golfer tees-up. Whack. Ball travels one foot. Fourth golfer manages to make it 100 feet down fairway. Relieved, but sweating slightly, the foursome rolls off.

This is golf.

The names have been changed to protect the innocent. Wanda, Marge, Skip and Biff are like many adults. They have hopes, dreams, desires and an . amazing self-destructive urge to embarrass themselves on the golf course. As the day progresses politeness fades with their approach shots. Putts run long, Drives run short. Balls run into the trees. Suddenly driving the golf cart is the best part about the game.

But Wanda, Marge, Skip and Biff have faith and courage. They believe the game will save them if they are only patient. Surely the serenity of the clear blue sky, the chirping birds and the bragging rights for the only shot to make the green are worth the effort?

Somewhere on the 17th hole it happens. Whack. Skip hits it high and long — straight as an arrow. Marge chips it at the flag. They par the hole. On 18 the team is back. Whack.

This is golf. Take it from Wanda. I know.

Му flancee, Dawn, is a wonderful woman with whom I want to spend the And so on.

rest of my life. But if that wedding doesn't come soon, I think we'll both go crazy.

We knew planning a wedding would be a big job. I don't think either of us realized how big. At least I didn't. And it keeps getting bigger.

When we announced our engagement last October, we lined up the wedding site, reception site and caterer right off the bat. That takes care of the big things, I figured. It should all be downhill from here.

I can't started making lists of things we needed to do, and the lists got longer and longer. Asking attendants, finding dresses and tuxedoes, ordering invitations. Hiring a photographer, setting up a honeymoon, arranging transportation. Figuring out the music, the ceremony and the rehearsal dinner. Ordering a cake. Thinking about somewhere to live. Working out The Guest List That Wouldn't Die.

> Relatives on both sides of the family, who have been through this sort of thing before, have been an invaluable help. Still, at times it all seems very overwhelming.

Not to mention expensive. A couple of weeks ago we went to the florist: nothing extravagant, just enough for a nice ceremony. Then they told us how much it would cost - and after I came to, I had a new understanding of the Pentagon budget. Dawn's father is shouldering most of the cost, and we'll be eternally grateful. Without his help I don't know Well. I was wrong. Dawn and I how this could possibly become reality. News and The Northville Record.

The wedding is going to come off on July 14 no matter what, but that means the time crunch is really getting intense. In the best wedding tradition, we're behind in our planning and worrying about how we'll ever get it all done. Invitations go out this week, but countless details—and a few bigger things—need to be resolved. Now.

It will all be better fairly soon, when we can actually start our life together. I : know everything will come together all : right, I just don't know how.

So until it does, please be kind. We'll be fine in a few weeks. But if you see us wandering around town with a dazed look in our eyes, maybe even ! bumping into the occasional wall, try to understand. We probably just got the bill from the caterer.

To the Editor:

I would like to thank our community for supporting our Northville Athletic Boosters Club. The residents. local businesses and high school faculty have all combined to make our athletic program one of the finest around.

The 1989-90 school year raised over $17,000 for our athletes. We were able to purchase various needs of the athletic program above and beyond the school's athletic budget. This year's purchases are as follows:

Athletic trainer, two glass basketball backboards, football sled with pads, football dummy covers, track high jump pit, track pit cart, all-sport pace clock, swimmers training mirrors, portable and regulation soccer goals, gymnastic bar extender package, gymnastic balance beam, baseball water system, volleyball blocking stand, cheerleaders poster material and the pom pon team's pom pons.

All of this has been made possible by the purchasing of season passes to sporting events, placing ads in our programs, attending our annual brunch at Northville Charley's, buying 50/50 Tickets and Super Draw Tickets. Eleven various sporting disciplines are benefiting from our community's generosity and support. I thank you all.

Paper is saved

I read with some interest your article about the latest recycling initiatives of the City of Novi. It appears they are on their way to a successful program recycling their office waste. As usual I read the article to see if just by chance you might give the town-ship credit for having established the same program. But no, you ended your article by stating the township office should take a "hard look at the possibility of recycling office waste."

As you know we established, on Dec. 28, 1989, one of the most convenient recycling centers in the immediate area. We have not locked our recycling center behind a gate or pened it three hours a day a couple of days a week. It is open seven days a week, 24 hours a day. I would say that's convenient enough for anyone to use and they do. From an examination of other sites it appears we collect and recycle more products than a number of communities that surround us.

Please, let me set the record straight on where our township gov-ernment stands on recycling. Office ecycling has been under way since August 1989. Reference your reporter's story in the Aug. 24, 1989 Record. Reference too, Township Resolution 89-148 dated Aug. 10, 1989. Our program was started with very little fanfare other than the aforementioned resolution from the board. Since that date our program has resulted in the collection of 1,600 pounds of computer paper, white and colored stock. In addition, and to the best of our knowledge, we were the first government agency in Wayne County to switch to recycled paper for our daily use. This program was established with little pressure on the employees and, as a matter of fact, they have overwhelmingly encouraged everyone to participate in our recycling effort. Combine that with our definitely limited office space and I feel this feat is amazing.

All I wish you would do is check your resources and give credit to those government agencies who have tried and succeeded in establishing a real good recycling program.

Mrs. Richard Ambler, chairperson for the American Cancer Society Annual Door to Door Drive in Northville Township says a lot of people deserve credit for the success of the 1990 drive. The 1990 Crusade resulted in contributions from the township residents of approximately $6,100. which is up over 111/2 percent from the 1989 total.

There were over 110 people who volunteered for the drive. Mrs. Ambler says particular thanks go to District Chairpersons Connie Eis, Carol McCreadie and Phyllis Nulty who have served with her for a number of years in the Northville Cancer Society Crusade. High-flying family from Northville

Flying high overhead, airplanes swooped in deep circles, in mourning for one of aviation's most famous heroes.

Eddie Stinson, known as "the dean of American aviators", was a nationally-known leader in the field who had an aircraft manufacturing company in Northville in the late 1920s.

Eddie went on to establish himself, as had his sister before him, as a leading record-breaker. In 1927, Stinson beNorthville. The landing strip was located near Beck Road and Six Mile.

MAKE IT WORK Southeast Michigan Chapter 17117 W Nine Mile Road Suite 820

Tim Richard

Given our level of prosperity and the southeastern Michigan quality of life, one would think this is the top of the heap.

Yet two educational leaders - R. Stephen Nicholson and C. Nelson Grote — have chosen to move on. And it appears they haven't changed their goals about educating the communities they serve.

Nicholson, at 64, could have retired as Oakland Community College's chief executive in a short spell. He chose instead to head for the United Arab Emirates, a hot but wealthy little nation whose inland border with Saudi Arabia is so sandy that it's not even defined on my

"It's not an under-developed country. It's highly developed," Nicholson said last week at his going-away party. They say they have 400,000 residents and 800,000 expatriates who do the work. They told me they'd have trouble fixing an elevator without outside help. They want to learn to operate their own country.

As of this week, Nicholson is vice chancellor in charge of the colleges of technology. He reports to a chancellor instead of a seven-member elected board.

In his earlier years, Nicholson was a missionary, and a strong streak of Christian humanitarianism shows through. I observed it last November on a trip with him and other community college leaders to that wretched stretch of the earth known as the Gaza Strip.

But Nicholson isn't going to the United Arab Emirates with missionary work in mind. He candidly admitted they got him by "flattery." They said they had the money to hire the best, and he was the best.

Nicholson is a sociologist and cultural anthropologist. In his new job on the Persian Gulf, just a short lob from Iran, he will help guide a Middle Eastern oil sheikdom into the 21st century. Much as he loved Oakland County, it was an offer he couldn't refuse.

I only hope he doen't melt in the 110-degree heat.

Grote was president of Schoolcraft College in northwestern Wayne County for the better part of a decade, bringing on a lot of technology programs and surviving two recessions.

He left for what looked like an ideal twocampus job in Spokane, Wash., but about three years ago he went back to a four-year college with which he had strong ties.

It's Morehead State University in the Appalachian foothills of eastern Kentucky. Grote sent me a local newspaper supplement shortly after his arrival. One had to read between the lines, but it looked as if he had walked into a homet's nest.

"It was a hornet's nest all right," Grote agreed at a recent social gathering of the Schoolcraft Old Guard. "They had lost students. They came within an inch — within an inch - of being closed and converted to a prison."

What a sad social commentary that would have been!

To make several years of work into a short story, Grote has led a turnaround. The student body has grown from 5,000 to some 8,500. Most of the students come from nearby counties. It's not the kind of comfortable, middleclass existence of Northville and environs. But Grote has a sense of accomplishment.

"At commencement, Nelson asks the graduates who are the first in their families to attend college to stand," said Wilma Grote. his excited wife of 41 years. A lot of them stand. A lot.

The Shores of Northville Elementary School?

An elementary school is penciled in on the township's master plan for a proposed development on the former Thomson Sand and Gravel pit site, a fact pointed out last week by Northville Public Schools Superintendent

George Bell.

Bell told the township planning commission the proposed 400-unit, 362-acre Shores of Northville development would create a need for additional school facilities in the district.

The 401 residential units will result in a school enrollment increase of seven-tenths of a kid per household, or 281 children," Bell said. "The area planned for the development contains a school site as identified on the township master plan.

Bell said school district facilities would not accommodate additional students from the Shores of Northville development unless another elementary school was built.

... I recommend that the commission in their deliberations maintain the need for an elementary school site of 14-16 acres within this development with actual acreage dependent upon the topography of the area," he said in a letter to the commission.

Vincent DiLorenzo, partner in the Shores of Northville project, told the planning commission the school district would not feel an immediate impact from his development.

"We're not going to build 400 units (at once)," he said. "The homes will be $500,000 and up . . . absorbtion will be five to six years (and) the school board will have plenty of time to Bell said two elementary schools in the district - Winchester and Silver Springs — are located in subdivisions and the school property was obtained as "part of the deal with the developer." Any property obtained at the Shores of Northville would need to be large enough to "provide all community services, as well as educational services," Bell said.

An elementary school scheduled to be built in the northwest portion of the district by 1992 is not the answer to increased area enrollment, Bell

School addition plans delayed

By STEVE KELLMAN Staff Writer

The big question at the city's last planning commission meeting in May was, "Where's Dr. Bell?" And the question came up again Tuesday.

Dr. George Bell, the Northville Public Schools superintendent, was scheduled to appear before the commission weeks ago with a landscaping plan for his 501 Main St. administration building.

The commission had narrowly approved an addition to the building April 3, subject to delivery of the landscape plan to the commission within 30 days.

But the plan's approval came only after criticism of the school board by several commissioners for submitting what Commis-sioner Chris Gazlay termed a "deficient" site plan, and trying to rush its approval.

Commissioners contended the site plan did too little to solve drainage problems at the site, and provided too little landscaping.

While the commission has not met with the school board lately, city officials have been in touch with Coquillard, Dundon, Peterson & Argenta, the Southfield firm designing the addition itself.

Coquillard & Associates has hired the Southfield firm of Calvin Hall & Associates to design the landscape plan.

"In (the school board's) defense," said Planning Consultant Don Wortman three weeks ago, they have hired a landscape architect. He has sent me a preliminary plan and I sent some comments back to him."

Since then, the city was notified that school officials would not be at the planning commission's meeting Tuesday, June 5, be-

> John Argenta of Coquillard & Associates said the delay was due to the company's negotiations with the planning and historic district commissions, and with city engineers McNeely & Lincoln. While the planning commission had called for a landscaped berm along the south side of the property between the school and Cady Street, the historic district com-

"We have been trying to meet with the various groups." Argenta said. "At the same time, in addition to the landscaping, we were working with the drainage problem with the city engineers." The company submitted a status report to the city last week, explaining the reasons for the delay.

Argenta said his firm will submit plans for landscaping, drainage, curbing and asphalt removal on the site, "just to get the final ap-proval and wrap-up." He said the plans would be submitted to the planning commission for review at their June 19 meeting.

"I think it should very well meet their requirements," he added. Argenta said the plan incorporates both a four-foot landscaped berm and a fence on the south side of the property.

Meanwhile, workers have been busy building the school addition itself, and occupancy is expected at the end of July.

The addition will house plumbing, climate control, carpentry and electrical services for the school district, services which are now provided out of the Cooke School on Taft Road. The services are being moved out of Cooke to allow the facility to reopen as a middle school in September.

Bell says school needed at site

Township Manager Richard Henningsen Friday said the township will investigate a project under way on the former Thomson Sand and Gravel site.

Henningsen said he has asked township engineer Abe Munfah to determine if the developer of the proposed 362-acre, 401-unit Shores of Northville has proceeded beyond site reclamation as permitted by the

We are asking for an interpretation on where our engineer feels the development is going," Henningsen said. "Are they doing reclamation or site preparation?

"We're trying to get on firm ground on what's happening out there."

Vincent DiLorenzo of D & T Construction, principal developer of the Shores of Northville, last week told the township planning commission that activities on the site have been restricted to reclamation as outlined in the township mining ordinance. He said some trees were cut and houses demolished — along with grading of slopes leading to seven man-made lakes on the site. The work has taken place for several months without township objection, he said that a home of potential historical significance was demolished without a permit and between 5-7 acres of protected woodlands were destroyed

Munfah, an engineer with the firm Ayres, Lewis, Norris & May, Inc., said he will investigate the site this week. The developer is allowed to "move dirt and re-shape the site," he

"We suspect something beyond that is going on," he said. "What, we don't know.

Munfah said he will spend most of his time on the site investigating the "engineering aspects" of the project.

"I'll be checking to see if they are grading slopes or building road beds," he said. "If it is beyond reclamation, they do not have site approval from the planning commission.

"I'm sure the township will take appropriate action to make sure they're not doing something they're not supposed to.

Henningsen said the township attorney has not been asked for advice on the proposed development to this

"We'll wait until we get feedback from (Munfah) before we do anything else," he said. "We've got him checking into it because I'm not qualified to determine whether it's reclamation since our previous visit," he wrote. "It is our understanding that they were removed without permits. Landscape Architect Larry De-

Brincat of Vilican-Leman confirmed that trees had been destroyed. Cottonwoods on the east end were removed without a permit," he said. "All larger trees were removed in this area." But DiLorenzo said he did not know the trees were protected, and said any woodlands his firm removed were cut under a reclamation plan approved by the township. I don't feel we've done anything wrong," he said. "The only thing we're trying to do is restore the site.

We did not know if we violated anything . . . we paid a lot of money to remove these trees."

DiLorenzo said that after the purchase of the gravel pit, attorneys for the developer determined that the site had to be restored under township guidelines.

Machinery and scrap metal were removed, DiLorenzo said, and slopes leading toward the site's man-made lakes were graded in accordance with his reclamation permit.

Any trees felled were done so within the guidelines of the reclamation project, DiLorenzo said.

"Before we came to you (for site approval), we had to make it safe," he said. "If you go to the site it will look very beautiful.

The work that was done was never shielded from anyone," he said.

from the site on only one occasion, but after Woodside told him that the developer's associates were chastised about cutting trees in January. he said the message had not been passed along to him.

"If I had known anything about it (tree removal), I would have gone onsite and stopped it," he said.

DeLand said the project had suffered from lack of communication between the development team and asked DiLorenzo to incorporate existing trees into a woodlands inventory.

Please have a review of what is left . if (trees) are in your path, it should be discussed with the township offices.

DiLorenzo said four times as many trees as were on the site" would be planted and said all the items on the planning consultant's review would be addressed and corrected.

"Tonight's the first night I knew anything about trees," he said. "If you give me a few weeks, everything on that Vilican-Leman letter will be taken care of.

"I'll be glad to put in the plan that Vilican-Leman wants," he said.

The commission voted 6-2 to deny the subdivision plan. Members Karen Baja and Larry Sheehan cast the nay votes, saying they wanted to table the issue.

DiLorenzo will be able to make alterations to his plan and present it to the commission at a later date, the planners said.

One-stop shop takes hassle out of wedding plans

By P. J. Baker

So you decided that this is the guy for you and you just have to marry him or your life will be ruined. He even feels the same way about you and popped the question.

Now what do you do? Where do you start? Do you write out a list of people to invite first? Or get the hall and church first? When do you want to get married - the date? It takes how long, eight weeks or more, to get a dress?

Mary's Wedding Connection in New Hudson, at 58221 Travis Road, just may be the fitting place for you and your stance. This is one-stop shopping for weddings.

Owner Mary Arp will save you and yours a lot of time and possibly some money. If nothing else, she will steer

DOUGLAS W. TEUBERT of Northville has completed all requirements to be certified as a member of the 1989 Million Dollar Round Table (MDRI) of the Lutheran Brotherhood.

Teubert is a district representative for Lutheran Brotherhood, a fraternal benefit society. The Million Dollar Round Table is an independent association of more than 15,000 life insurance agents, each of whom must meet strict ethical and production requirements in order to qualify.

Only three percent of the world's life insurance agents are certifled each year through high-level client service and production. This year 82 Lutheran Brotherhood field force members qualified. Membership reflects a commitment to continuing advanced education to better serve the financial security needs of families, individuals and businesses

Teubert is associated with the Mueller Agency headquartered in Rochester Hills.

Downtown Northville recently became home for a jewelry designer specializing in one-of-a-kind and limited edition pieces. CORRINE is the name of a new jewelry design studio owned and operated by Corrine Perez-Michalowski at 142 N. Main St.

To celebrate her debut in downtown Northville, Corrine will host a champagne reception from 2-6 p.m. on Sunday, June 10. Those attending should RSVP by Friday, June 8, by calling 344-1109.

The opening of her own jewelry design studio is the culmination of a four-year dream for Corrine, She received a bachelor's degree in fine arts from the California College of Arts and Crafts in 1984, and returned to her native Southfield. There she worked with several Detroitarea jewelers perfecting her craft, and started her own business in her home. After much searching, she and husband Scott decided on Northville as a location for her studio.

"Many people today desire jewelry that is distinct and personal, reflecting their own tastes and feelings," Corrine says. "We work closely stomers to satisfy their requirements in our jewelry designes. We first discuss the details of the jewelry piece desired. Several sketches are then prepared for their review. After selecting a design, we craft a wax model to insure proper fit and details."

Corrine crafts pieces in 14-carat or 18-carat gold, as well as platinum. Stones that can be selected include diamonds, rubies, sapphires, emeralds and pearls. Unique stones also gaining popularity include tanzanite (a bluish-purple stone), rhodolite garnets (deep red) and tourmaline (brilliant pink and green).

Corrine is open Tuesday through Saturday during regular business hours, with evening appointments available. Call 344-1109.

Due to recent growth and expansion, QUIDNUNC CORP., a Northville firm specializing in business management and marketing services, has relocated. The company's new address is 325 N. Center St. in Northville.

Our client base has been growing very rapidly the last several months, and we have added five new professional consultants to our full-time staff to handle our current business as well as develop new business opportunities," said Charles H. Keys, executive vice president and chief operating officer of Quidnunc. "We are very happy to be able to expand our offices and still remain in downtown Northville. At the present time, we are interviewing for three new additional positions, and expect to continue at this rapid rate of growth well into the last two quarters of 1990."

As part of the recent expansion, Quidnunc has named Arthur D. Carithers as director of international services. A well-known international business consultant, he has worked with such corporations as General Motors, Rockwell International, Shell Oil Co. and Chrysler Corp. (American Motors).

Carithers will coordinate all client services that impact international markets, and will directly supervise all Quidnunc staff consultants in this area. He will further direct all Quidnunc new-client marketing efforts outside of the U.S., concentrating on Europe and Asia.

She takes hassle out of weddings time. I'm going into my third year on the bridal and I've been doing altera-tions in the tailor shop for nine years," said Arp.

At age 6. Arp started sewing on her mother's treadle sewing machine. She used to wait for her mother to leave the house and then jammed up the machine, much to her mother's

In her own first wedding, she sewed the dresses for all 10 of her bridesmaids, including the flower girl. She also made their hats and

She has worked at alteration departments in stores in Michigan and Toledo, Ohio. These include Winkelman's, the Lions Store, Anton's, and general manager of the alteration department of Jacobson's in Toledo.

At one time, she and her first husband owned a dry cleaners and laundry in which they did alterations and tailoring. She has made men's and women's suits, but doesn't anymore.

She still does alterations at Twelve Oaks Mall on Thursdays for the Talbot, the Acorn, and the Petite Sophisticated stores.

At her shop, Arp has lists available with helpful hints for the bride and groom. To start with Arp recommends a hall. She recommends different ones for summer and winter. Some halls have sent her price lists.

Don't forget to check with the church to be sure the same date is available for the ceremony. Some churches book weddings far in advance.

There is a regular band that she recommends and a choice of caterers that people can use, if desired. Arp does not get a commission by the various people that she recommends. She just knows people that are available and reliable.

For invitations, Arp has several books to look over so the couple can choose the right invitation for their taste. These include elegant, religious and candlelight, as part of the variety. In her shop is a list of the various things to order at the same time. such as matches, napkins and other details. For the more creative couple, she knows a calligrapher if a couple wishes to produce their own special invitation.

For those couples who wish to have a keepsake of their wedding invitation, Arp has the Lillian Rose candles that an invitation can be in-

Now comes the real heartwrenching decision - which dress for the bride? Followed by the question of, which dresses in which color for the bridesmaids.

"I would say when the girls buy their dresses from me that I'm usually not quite as expensive as a regular bridal shop," said Arp.

"For instance, most of the alterations I do for free, such as the hems and the bustling. I just charge a mi-nor amount for extra things. That's for the bride and bridesmaids."

She carries anywhere from petite to the larger sizes, from designer companies whose names are readily recognized. She orders the dresses or she and her helper seamstress. Pat Haas, make the dresses themselves.

"I feel that you should have something for everybody," explained Arp. "I won't show them the real expensive dresses if they can't afford them. Why get their heart set on one that is all full of beads and things if they can't afford it?"

When the women come for a fitting, "they can more or less make themselves at home. The dresses are in the bedrooms, which we use as dressing rooms and we have mirrors in the living room," continued Arp.

"It's real personal. They take their shoes off and just act like they're at Accessories are also available at the shop. These include slips, bras.

shoes, jewelry, garters, gloves and "I make a lot of the headpieces or I can order them from several companies," Arp adds.

We're getting back into making a lot of flower girl dresses because most of the time you can't get them the same as the bridesmaids that matches exactly. Plus, the little girls don't look good in it when it matches arryway, especially if it's a real sexy dress. So we make them for the flower girls and a lot of mother's dresses."

For the mother's dresses, Arp carries up to size 28%. As for the length of the dress, most brides decide what they would prefer, but some let the mothers do whatever they feel most comfortable in. The lengths that are most popular at the moment include the cocktail, tea, or waltz length.

The waltz length is about five inches off the floor," said Arp. "It's at the ankle bone. The way they used to wear the dresses to dance in a long time ago."
Tuxedos can be rented or bought through several different companies which alleviates the need to go to a different tuxedo shop to rent them.

Flowers and decorations for the church and hall and the bouquets. corsages and boutonnieres are the next order of business. Arp's basement is set up for the flowers with a refrigerator to keep them fresh.

"I do all the flowers myself, except that I do have a couple designers come in and help me for the big weddings," said Arp. "If they want, we will go to the church and the hall and decorate them. We do fresh and silk flowers. Gifts are available for the wedding party and bride and groom at the shop. However, Arp does not make any cakes now because she does not have the time. Another area that Arp had a lot of work in this year was prom dresses. She even ordered a less expensive line of ready-made dresses that averaged around $150, ranging from $100 to $225.

Although Arp has clients come from all over, the majority are from Novi, Northville, Brighton, Milford and South Lyon. "The closest competition would be Novi, Northville, Brighton and Milford. There isn't any in the New Hudson area at all."

To let people know about her shop, Arp advertises in magazines such as Modern Bride and Seventeen, plus she advertises in all the bridal issues of the local newspapers.

Mary's Wedding Connection is open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Saturday. Evenings and Sundays are by appointment only.

Market for starter homes depressed

Local sales of more expensive existing homes this year are running well above 1989 figures, but there has been a sharp drop in purchase of lower-priced starter homes, according to Metro MLS, the state's largest multiple listing service. Through April, the sale of homes priced at $100,000 or more was up nine percent," said Douglas G. Courtney, Metro MLS president. The number selling at or near the April median price of $79,900 was virtually the same, with the big decline, 20 percent, in the under-$50,000 market.

Courtney said Metro MLS members sold 1,656 single-family homes and condominiums in their 1,600 square-mile territory during April. The area covers northwest Detroit and major portions of Wayne and Oakland Counties. Total sales through the first four months were 5,934, or 4.1 percent below last year.

The increase in interest rates through the first part of the year may be scaring some first-time buyers out of the market," Courtney said. "As indicated in our recent home-buying seminar, many do not realize the financing options open to them, especially those requiring a minimum down payment.

While we anticipate some relief in interest rates later in the year, a con-tinued rise in prices will counter much of the advantage and some buyers may then find it more difficult to qualify for a larger loan."

He noted the supply of homes on the market is increasing with new listings in April showing a 9.3-percent gain over 1989 with the four-Get Your Pool This Month month total up seven percent. Courtney said three homebuying seminars offered by Metro MLS and the Western Wayne Oakland County Board of REALTORS each attracted about 400-500 persons. The high attendance at these free seminars clearly indicate that there is still a large unrealized demand for nome ownership," he said. "Attendees at the non-selling sessions are given an abbreviated course in how to shop for a home and the means of financing it. The greatest number of questions continue to concern qualifying for a loan, the different types of financing instruments and the advantages of using certain types."

Census numbers are more valuable than you think.

0,1,2,3,4,5,6,7,8 and 9.

Alone, they don't mean much. But when they're used by the Census to reflect the population, they can paint quite a different picture.

You see, the Census helps decide how much federal, state and local funding your community is entitled to for things like schools and other essential services.

When your Census form arrives, fill it out. It may add up to a lot more than you think.

Answer the Census. It counts for more than you think.

Energy-wise

Simple steps can save you big bucks

By Alicia Garrison

If rising utility bills are draining you of extra cash, you may want to consider making your home more energy-efficient . . . and save.

Almost everyone knows that they can cut down on their use of energy by turning off lights in rooms not being used, closing windows when the air conditioner is on or shortening showers, for example, but how many of us actually take steps to conserve our home's energy use?

Home Economist Phyllis Cooper of the Livingston County Cooperative Extension Service said most people don't go out of their way to conserve their home's energy use unless they are feeling the pinch of high utility

"When bills go up high, we start doing money-saving kinds of things," Cooper said. "That's what makes the difference more than anything else.

According to the U.S. Department of Energy, 48 percent of our residential energy is used to heat and cool our homes. An additional 16 percent goes for heating water (the secondlargest individual home energy user and expense) and 12 percent is used to run refrigerators and freezers. The remaining 24 percent goes into lighting, cooking and running appliances. Being energy-efficient not only saves you money, but it also ties into the whole recycling effort.

"Antime time you can reduce or reuse something, you're recycling.

Cooper said. To protect your home from outside heat and cold, make sure your windows and doors are airtight. Take a burning candle and place it in around the frame of your door or window. If the flame dances, you need to properly caulk and/or weatherstrip. By making your windows and doors airtight, you will save 10 percent or more in energy costs.

If you're in the process building a new home, make sure the windows are located in the most efficient spot. "Always think from an energysaving standpoint as well as a decorative standpoint," Cooper said. "When deciding what you want, also think about how you might reduce the effect of sun coming in on hot days or how you can let it in on cold your heating system. The clock can be set so that it will automatically turn down the heat when you go to bed, and turn it up when you awake. Most thermostat clocks cost between $40 and $90, but it will more than pay itself off with increased savings.

Heating water accounts for about 20 percent of all energy we use in our

Most water heaters are set for 140 degrees or higher, but unless you have a dishwasher, you may not need it set that high. The U.S. Department of Energy recommends a setting of 120 degrees.

To determine the water temperature, draw water from the heater through the bottom faucet and test it with a thermometer.

"Turning the temperature down on the water heater is also safer, Cooper said. "It protects young childpurchasing a clock thermostat for ren from getting burned."

Some people have been told that if they place a cinder block or bricks in their septic tank, they will save water. While it is true that the cinder block will take up space causing less water to be used, the cinder block can cause problems because it disintegrates over time. Cooper advises people to use water-filled jars or plastic containers instead.

In the kitchen, use cold water instead of hot to operate the food disposer. This saves energy in heat the water, and is recommended for the appliance.

Never boil water in an open pan (water will come to a boil faster and use less energy in a kettle or covered pan), and match the size of the pan to the heating element (more heat will get to the pan and less will be lost to surrouding air.)

When you have a choice, use a range-top burner over the oven, and use small electric pans or ovens for small meals. They use less energy.

When washing clothes, switch to the warm or cold cycle instead of the hot. When using the clothes dryer, try not to overdry clothes. Remember to keep the lint screen clean, and keep the outside exhaust of your clothes dryer clean (a clogged exhaust lengthens the drying time.)

"If you really want to conserve energy, hangyour clothes out to dry,"

When buying appliances, check the energy ratings label and compare energy use information and operating costs of similar models.

According to the U.S. Department of Energy, most Americans overlight their homes, so lowering lighting levels is an easy way to conserve. Reduce overall lighting in non-working places. For example, remove one bulb of three in a multiple light fixture and replace it with a burnedout bulb for safety. Replace other bulbs throughout the house with next lower wattage.

Fluorescent lights give out more lumens per watt and can save about 140 watts of electricity over a sevenhour period. Fluorescent lighting is especially useful above the kitchen sink and counter-top areas.

Another way to cut down on wasted electricity is by installing dimmers or high-low switches. They make it easy to reduce lighting in a room and thus save energy.

"Simple things such as walking instead of using a vehicle or doing something by hank instead of using machinery also saves energy and can be a physical benefit as well," Cooper

House features guest room

By James McAlexander

Say goodbye to traditional design ideas with the Caster. The two features most unique to this truly contemporary home are its central atrium and the separate, yet attached, fully equipped guest quarters.

Four large skylights, one on each side of the high vaulted atrium, make this bright area the natural focal point of the home. Large potted trees and other plants will love the light, in what amounts to a covered central courtyard, as will family and friends.

No room in the main portion of the Caster is cut off from this rich light. The kitchen's eating bar-over eight feet of it-stretches along its right side, while the living/dining room area is separated from the atrium by nothing more than a lowered ceiling.

Doors from the master suite, and a second bedroom open into the area. Even more unusual, the occupants of both sleeping quarters can also enjoy the greenery through inward-facing

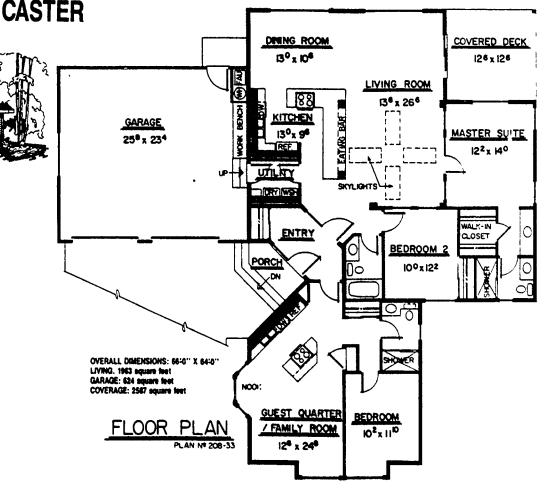

Kitchen counter space is so generous that some families might wish to eliminate some in favor of enlarging the living/dining room area. A full bath near the entryway serves the main living area, and built-in utilities are also centrally located. The master suite has an oversize shower and a large walk-in closet. Just inside the airlock entry, a door to the right opens into a set of rooms equipped for fully independent living. This is ideal for an older parent, grown child or for use as a rental.

The small kitchen has a sink, refrigerator, a range in a work island and even a dishwasher. Bay windows form a natural eating nook, leaving plenty of room for a couch and easy chairs. A bedroom, private bath and several storage closets make the area totally livable.

Some families might prefer eliminating the bedroom wall altogether, using the entire area as one large family room.

Water conditioner can help clean up fiberglass

By Gene Gary

Q: We have a precast fiberglars tub and shower units in a home we recently purchased. They are dingy and dirty-looking.

As I have never had fiberglass installations before, I do not know how to clean them and restore a whiter, brighter look to the surface. Regular cleaners, such as 409, have not been very effective.

Can you recommend a method of cleaning for these units?-A.Y.

A: It is important to avoid abrasive cleaners such as scouring powders. These can cause permanent damage to the surface. This could be a problem you have inherited from the previous owners is the surface is already scratched.

Try cleaning the fiberglass with a water conditioner such as Calagon. Let this set as a paste and then flush away with fresh water.

A paste of baking soda left to set overnight and then flushed away with clear water is another effective cleaner.

Non-abrasive commercial bathroom cleaners that contain EDTA (ethylene diamine testraacetate) are also effective fiberglass cleaners. One such product is Gel Gloss.

Marine stores carry a range of products for use of fiberglass boats to restore the finish. These can be used on your bathroom fixtures, too. Some of these products should be used with a buffer for best results in resotring the original luster and whiteness.

Q: Some clothing with a fishy smell was stored in one of our closets. The closet developed a musty, fishy odor. I have gotten rid of the clothing and aired the closet, but some of the fishy odor still remains.

Do you know of anything I can use to combat this odor, which seems to have penetrated the walls and perhaps the carpeting?-C.H.

A: One product that is quite successful in treating odor problems in small areas is Odors Away. It is an industrial odor killer now available to the public. It comes in a concentrated form in half-ounce fluid containers.

Check housewares stores or a good hardware store, or contact Odors Away, 550 W. 70th Place, Chicago. IL 60638.

Q: Our lovely built-in maple buffet was damaged when a chaffing dish was dropped on the counter top. There are several dents on the surface. Other than these spots, the rest of the finish is not marred.

is there any way to correct these spots without refinishing the entire surface?--K.G.

A: Often, minor dents can be removed with this treatment: First get a wet cloth and an iron. Set the iron on high and place the wet rag on the dent. Then briefly put the iron on top of the rag.

This lifts the dent right out of the wood. Be careful not to get too much

Appraisers break from Realtors

By James M. Woddard

Real estate appraisers are undergoing a time of major transition. Just when a wave of new legislation in many states across the country requires appraisers to be certifled or licensed, the nation's largest and oldest appraiser organization is experiencing serious internal changes. It should be noted here that the professional appraiser plays a vitally important role in the estate marketplace. This is the person who is primarily responsible for establishing market value for properties to be sold or financed. Many major transac-·tions and huge sums of money are at stake in an appraiser's report. The oldest association of appraisers is the 22,000-member American Institute of Real Estate Appraisers '(AIREA), an institute affiliate of the National Association of Realtors (NAR). On April 30, AIREA voted overwhelmingly (83 percent of members) to terminate its 58-year affiliation

Generally, the AIREA members resented what they considered to be the dictatorial authority of NAR over the functions and policies of the appraiser group.

To continue our affiliation under NAR's newly amended constitution. we could be forced to compromise the best interest of the public as well as the appraisal profession," said A. Scruggs Love Jr., president of AIREA.

A minority of members felt the strength and size of AIREA was achieved because of its tie-in with NAR, and that affiliation should not be dissolved.

The problem became serious when NAR formed a 75-member Appraisal Committee to develop educational programs for NAR members preparing for state appraisal certification and licensing examinations.

AIREA wanted to use its own completed certification courses. Also, NAR wanted the appraiser group to ratify a change in the NAR constitution that would require AIREA to secure NAR's approval before taking an official position on a regulatory or legislative issue.

Following this change, AIREA must decide on the proposal to merge with another major association of appraisers, the Society of Real Estate Appraisers (SREA). A vote of the AIREA membership last January failed by only 38 votes to go with the merger. SREA members voted in favor of the merger.

However, in the light of AIREA's disaffiliation with NAR, the appraisers have planned another vote regarding the merger with SREA. And this time it might be approved. The membership vote on this issue is set for June 10.

The SREA members approved the merger overwhelmingly. Of the 185 SREA chapters, 149 voted over 80 percent in favor of the merger-15 chapters voted unanimously for it.

Both appraisal organizations have worked together in the past to create the Appraisal Foundation and to establish uniform standard and appraiser qualifications.

If the plan for unification is approved by AIREA members, its implementation is currently planned for Jan. 1, 1991.

It's definitely a time of major transition for professional oppraisers. And the continued strength and health of the industry is important to every real property buyer and seller.

Q: is an FHA mortgage loan a practical way for a first-time buyer to finance a home?

A: Yes. Government mortgage programs-loans insured by the Federal Housing Administration (FHA) and guaranteed by the Veterans Administration (VA)—continue to be an excellent source of financing for firsttime home buvers.

During the past year, 58 percent of buyers using an FHA loan were firsttime home purchasers. In the case of VA mortgage loans, 53 percent were first-time buyers.

By contrast, 69 percent of borrowers using conventional mortgage loans were repeat home buyers, according to a nationwide survey conducted by the National Association of

Record/BRYAN MITCHELL job at Salvatore Scallopini in Novi

Novi High school senior Michelle Key takes a family's dinner order as she works the evening shift for her co-op

By LESLIE PEREIRA

From 7:30 a.m. until 12:05 in the afternoon Angela Dressler is a student at Northville High School. But at 12:05, she trades in the trendy clothes for a long white apron, bow tie and pad of customer checks.

Dressler is just one of the many high school students trying to get a jump ahead of their peers by getting some early experience in the working

Dressler receives academic credit for the many hectic hours she spends rushing around trying to please hungry customers at Salvatore Scallopini restaurant in Novi because of the cooperative education offered at several local high schools. "I think it is worthwhile to give them credit for what they learn on the job." says Ron Wixom, a coordinator for Novi High School's co-op program. "When you just start out working it doesn't really matter what the job is — you could be shining shoes. They (students) don't know how to fill out applications, ask for time off, or ask for a raise." Wixom praises the benefits of a co-op experience, which he credits for teaching a student to juggle priorities and manage money, giving them a head start in narrowing down career choices, and increasing their self-

"I was kind of shy before I started," says Novi High School senior Michelle Key, who also waitresses at Salvatore Scallopini for her co-op experience. This job has really helped me to become more outgoing." Key explains that being forced to deal with customers all day long.

many who are hungrily impatient, has honed her social and conversational skills, which may eventually benefit her in a job interview or similar

"I think I would be more comfortable in an interview now because I am so used to having to come up with different things to say to customers."

Students participating in either the Northville or Novi co-op programs have a wide degree of latitude in selecting a job. In the past, students have opted for all sorts of jobs ranging from waitressing to auto maintenance work to secretarial tasks, and many other types of positions.

After completing his school day, Novi High senior Dave Austin dons a work shirt, coveralls and tool box as he trots off to tinker in basic car maintenance at Sears Automotive Center in Novi.

"I bus tires, do batteries, maybe an occasional alternator and oil changes," says Austin about his 30-hours-per-week job. For a student like Austin, with a specific goal already fixed in his mind, the co-op program seems ideal: the perfect preparation combined with an entry-level position for his chosen career.

Sports

Unique program allows students to combine work and study

> After his June graduation, Austin plans to continue working at Sears until he enters the Northwestern Ohio Diesel Technology School, a trade school for auto mechanics, in the fall. He also hopes to keep his Sears job on weekends throughout his school year.

Austin is one of three Novi High seniors working their co-op assignment for Sears Automotive Center, according to manager Tim Pickell. "It has worked out very well," says Pickell. "We have even taken some students and promoted them to full-time positions."

Pickell believes his students should get academic credit for the time they spend working on the job because they want to pursue automotive

"It is a learning experience for the students," Pickell says. "Our shop foreman works very closely with the young students. He nurtures them. Novi High's co-op program has been helpful to senior Tracie Brown, but not in the same way as it was for Austin.

"Since having this job I can't see going into real estate." says Brown, who has answered phones and performed data entry at Earl Keim Realty in Novi for over four years. Rather, the job has helped pique her interest in business, but Brown plans on attending college in the fall to pursue a career in criminal justice and fashion.

Volunteers

Hospital information desk

By DOROTHY NASH Special Writer

"You have to have patience and consideration, and you have to be quick," commented Frances Terova about volunteering at the information desk at Botsford General Hospital. She is there for five hours two days a week, and since 1983 she has put in 4,500 hours' worth.

People stop at the desk for various reasons, asking questions like "Where do you go for x-rays, lab work, ultra sound?" or "How is patient so-and-so?

*People are sometimes frantic for information regarding a patient," she said. So she asks the computer and comes up with a coded number, which she can translate as stable, okay, or whatever, remembering the main thing is not to alarm the person.

Terova, however, is not alone at the desk. She has a partner, who is also dealing with people coming in. In addition each of them has a two-line telephone which rings with questions from outsiders.

Sometimes while others are standing at the desk, asking for information, she has not one telephone call but two.

"One moment, please," she says to one caller, putting him on hold while she handles somebody on the other line or she responds to the person standing in front of her.

Then she comes back to the phone later with "Sorry to keep you waiting" and answers the question.

It's a no-money job, as is all volunteering, Terova said, but you do get a half hour off for a free dinner in the cafeteria and you do get a discount on gift shop purchases and for medical prescriptions.

The main advantage, though, she said, is that "We're helping patients to get

Juried art fair comes to town

Novi Town Center, in cooperation with Route 10 Gallery and the Novi Jaycees, will present an up-scale juried fine arts fair Saturday, June 9, and Sunday, June 10. "Art On The Town" will be open to the public Saturday from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. and Sunday from noon to 5 p.m.

The show will feature a total of 50 artists including local as well as out-of-staters from as far away as Texas and Florida. The exhibitors were chosen by juried entries and by special invitation. The entries were juried by Ann Treadwell, director of the Creative Arts Center in Pontiac, and Jennifer Davidson, Fine Arts Consultant for Oakland Schools.

This is the first showing of this nature in the southeastern Michigan area," says Terri Shapiro, owner of Route 10 Gallery. "We have worked very hard to gather the best representatives of each of the media.

The mixed media show will highlight a large variety of art forms including fiber, sculpture, painting, jewelry, ceramics photography, wood and stained glass. Some of the creators will be demonstrating their craft during the show

"Flamingo Kids," local catering specialists, will offer gourmet style French pastries and bever ages during the fair French cho colate eclairs. Le Creme Puffs and fresh fruit muffins will be among the choices Soda, lemonade, iced tea, coffee and milk round out the

Novi Town Center merchants will join in the festivities with in formal modeling, clowns, face painting, a carleature artist and other events during the two days

Honoring 95 years

By LESUE PEREIRA Staff Wnter

The 95th anniversary of Mizpah Circle was held in the Friendship Hall of the First United Methodist Church in Northville on June 5 at 1 p.m.

President Jean Shuhan led the members and guests in the Prayer of the Order. The guests were introduced and past Presidents were recognized. They are: Mrs. Joan Dayton, Mrs. Yvonne Rollings and Mrs. Marge Bolton.

Also recognized were the members of 20 years or more that were present:

Mrs. Amy Sessions, 46 years

Mrs. Yvonne Rollings, 38 years

Mrs. Joan Dayton, 36 years Mrs. May Babbitt, 32 years

Mrs. Viola Brown, 29 years

Mrs. Marge Bolton, 28 years Mrs. Marion LeFevre, 28 years Mrs. Rhea Wilcox, 26 years Mrs. Mary Lou Barry, 22 years

A brief history of the International State and Local Mizpah Circle was given by Mrs. Ann Chismar. Entertainment was provided by Mr. Ralph Manisto and his accordion. Refreshments of punch, cof-fee, tea, small sandwiches, finger vegetables and fruit dips, ice cream and a birthday cake decorated with the colors of the order. purple and white, were all served.

On the refreshment committee were:

Mrs. Florence Orr, chairman

Mrs. Libby Kohring Mrs. Helen Spicuzzo

Mrs. Lucy Steeper

Benedictions of the order was repeated by all.

Fund distribution

The Northville Town Hall Committee is asking organizations wishing to share in its annual Board of Awards presentations make their applications now by writing: Northville Town Hall, Box 93, Northville 48167, Attn: Board of Awards Chairperson.

Since members are drawn from Plymouth, Farmington, Novi, Livonia and South Lyon, as well as Northville, they find it only proper to return part of the proceeds to charities in these areas. To this end, the following impartial board was appointed to select deserving recipients of these funds. Plymouth - Mrs. Charles Childs

Livonia — Mary Dumas

Farmington - Mrs. E. Quentin Proctor

Novi - Mrs. Francis Korte

Northville — Mrs. Roy Mattison (chairperson), Herman Moehlman, Mrs. Douglas Bolton and Mrs. Paul Vernon.

The deadline for sending in applications is May 31.

Town Hall tickets

Tickets for the 1990-91 Town Hall speaker series are still on sale. Speakers will be: "As The World Turns" soap opera star Eileen Fulton on Oct. 11; former Iranian hostage Col. Charles Scott on Nov. 8; Miss America 1988, Kaye Lani Raye Rafko, on March 14, 1991; and veteran newsman Jack Reynolds on April 11, 1991.

The cost is $30 for tickets to the series of four lectures. To order tickets, write to: Northville Town Hall, Box 93, Northville 48167. Tickets to the post-speech luncheons will be available for purchase after June 1 and will cost $11 each. Eight local girls to attend meeting

Eight Northville girls who are just completing their junior year at Northville High School will be attending the 50th American Legion Auxiliary Girls State June 9-17 at Central Michigan University in Mount Pleasant.

In the American Legion Auxiliary program sponsored locally by Northville American Legion Auxiliary Unit 147 of the Lloyd H. Green Post, the delegates are being sent by local organizations and businesses who support the program of education in government which is celebrating its 50th year.

This year's delegates and their sponsors are Kamal Bagga, Northville Rotary; Jennifer Couzens, Northville Branch, Woman's National Farm and Garden Association; Megan Holmberg, Northville Mothers' Club; Kendra Huard, Casterline Funeral Home, Inc.; Kristen Meehan, Northville Mothers' Club; Shannon Price, Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 4012; Stacey Segowski, American Legion Auxiliary Post 147; Kristen Woodsum, Northville Woman's Club and Northville Business and Professional Women's Club, a joint sponsorship. Northville Mothers' Club is one of the oldest sponsors of the program which has educated young women for 50 years in the experience of government. Betty Allen, wife of former longtime mayor of the City of Northville, A.M. Allen, attended Michigan Girls State as the Northville delegate of Northville Mothers' Club in the third year of the program. She will be attending the golden anniversary program at CMU in June.

In a get-together session recently at the home of Northville Girls State Chair Jean Day-Couse, Allen told this year's delegates the program has expanded greatly.

At the get-together, Northville High School Principal David Bolitho congratulated the delegates on being chosen to attend the 50th Guis State program and thanked the sponsors who have been generous in supporting the program in U.S. government. Candidates are chosen by their counselors at Northville High School after making application for the program.

Attending the meeting and sharing their experiences in participating in the program last year were Northville High School seniors Jennifer Emma and Stacy Tucker. They brought scrapbooks of their experience and helped this year's delegates know what to expect.

Day-Couse said the program has been "tremendously supported by local organizations and businesses.

many much larger communities. She said she became interested in helping the program after both her daughters had been enthusiastic delegates. Co-chair Nan Oliver has pioneer physician in the community.

She pointed out that Northville has supported the program as highly as ram. Betty Allen added her daughter. Patty Hoffman, also has attended Girls State. Betty Allen is the daughter of the late Dr. and Mrs. Linwood Snow of Northville. He was a

Care after funeral is over

By LESUE PEREIRA Staff Wnter

Dr. Michael Meyer is a busy man. He has a family, is full-time director of religious education for a school with 1,000 students, serves as secretary on the Novi School Board, teaches a class at Schoolcraft College, is a member of the Rotary Club and sings professionally.

But Mike Meyer makes time to

For the past three years his exceptional listening skills have been enlisted by the O'Brien Chapel-Ted C. Sullivan Funeral Home of Novi as a bereavement counselor for people trying to deal with the death of someone they loved. A novel idea in the area of funeral services, grief counseling has begun making its way onto the list of fixed costs for an increasing number of funeral homes and the buzz word in funeral service circles has become 'after-care'.

Says Meyer of O'Brien's decision to employ him with the funeral home, "I think it was partly a business decision. He knew that this concept was certainly an up-and-coming addition to funeral services."

The McCabe Funeral Home, Inc. in Farmington Hills brought a grief counselor on staff about two years ago. The counselor contacts all the families serviced by their funeral home about a month after the funeral and offers them the counseling ser-

"Most of our families do not come." says funeral home owner Kevin McCabe, but we like to give them the option if they feel they need it."

Three different groups are offered to meet the special needs of differing used to be. It used to be that you were death circumstances — the death of a child, death by suicide and the death of a spouse. McCabe's counselor generally holds an average of two to four meet-ings every month, but will hold as many as are required to meet the demand of the service.

The people who do it (accept counseling) find it very beneficial," McCabe said. They get to talk about McCabe said simply talking to someone is often the key to successful grief counseling. He said their counselor "listens more than she

"Now, after the funeral. the kids take off on a plane in one direction and the parents in another."

John Sassaman Owner, Ross B. Northrup & Son funeral home

Similarly, the Ross B. Northrop & Son funeral home in Northville hired a psychologist for the first time about two months ago to present a fiveweek grief recovery series. Funeral home owner John Sassaman says the response to the program was overwhelming and he plans to continue the series twice a year from now

Once visitation is over and people go home the widow is sitting at home all alone," says Sandy Powell of the McCabe Funeral Home. "It can be very hard to adjust."

Many funeral home directors attribute the rising demand for bereavement counseling services to the fast pace of life, the break up of the family structure, and the decline of a sense of community.

"In today's day and age people are in such a hurry they just don't listen or pay attention to anyone," says

Says Meyer, "The family doesn't really even know how to talk to one another over breakfast. And the evening hours are now spent in front

Sassaman agrees but said the problem is deeper than simply a fastpaced world. Today the family structure and the neighborhood structure is completely different from what it born there, grew up there, married there, worked there and died there.

Sassaman says the former type of neighborhood structure created a special kind of neighborliness and provided the community with a builtin support system.

The neighbors and families were the peer counselors," Sassaman says. They were the ones you could cry on the shoulders of. Now, after the funeral, the kids take off on a plane in one direction and the parents in another."

Another reason cited for the fresh demand for this counseling service is a lack of understanding by those who have not yet experienced a family

People often think you should get over a spouse's death in two months or whatever, says Powell. The public just assumes life goes on as usual.

Says Meyer. "The message society gives is hurry up and get over your grief."

However, Meyer, who recently completed his doctoral dissertation on the grief recovery process, believes there was always a need for bereavement counseling. But, he says, the responsibility to listen to grief-stricken people has traditionally fal-len on funeral directors and ministers.

The funeral directors were becoming counselors but they were humble enough to realize they we-ren't qualified," said Meyer.

Now many funeral homes are paying someone else to deliver these services.

At the McCabe Funeral Home, owner Kevin McCabe estimates the cost of their grief counseling program at anywhere from $100 to $1,000 every month.

But, "this progam definitely enhances our service," McCabe says. You have to be progressive."

McCabe says the decision to begin offering this type of after-care to his clients was partially a business decision but one that he believed in ethically.

You don't want the collecting of the check to be the last contact you have with a family," he says.

And Meyer receives an hourly stipend from the funeral home that employs him for the time he spends counseling grievers.

Sure this is good business, but if it was just business it wouldn't work." Meyer says.

Record/BRYAN MITCHELL A group of young dancers at the Piazza Dance Studio in Northville work on their "Stray Cat Strut"

Upcoming seminar

Single Place is pleased to welcome Alan Lebow on Sunday, June 10, at 7 p.m. to the First Presbyterian Church in Northville. Lebow, who is a very controversial speaker, will discuss ways in which fathers and men are discriminated against in our culture. He will raise the question, "Is there a new form of sexism in America directed toward all men, and who are the perpetrators?"

Alan Lebow founded Fathers for Equal Rights of America, and is currently acting as full-time executive director; he was the co-founder, charter member and board member of the National Congress for Men, and has been its president.

There will be a time for discussion and questions after his presentation.

Refreshments will be served and child care provided. A $2.50 donation

Talk about something running in the family. The girls in the Piazza family seem born to dance.

The Piazza Dance Company of Northville is owned by three sisters. and currently operated by two of the sisters and one of their daughters.

"We would all walk up to the corner dance studio with our gym bags when we were young," said Gina Piazza, fondly recalling her Detroit childhood.

Togetherness characterized the sisters' lives as they all danced together, taught classes at the same West Bloomsted dance studio together and finally, they all quit together.

We ran the studio," said Gina Piazza, "so one day we just said 'Gee, we should start our own."

Michelle Key of Novi High school takes a moments break from the constant rushing around of her waitressing job

Many employers feel the student workers they receive from the co-op program are actually more hardworking and responsible than independently employed students.

To an extent I would say that they (co-op students) work out better. says Jeff Lindsey, general manager of Salvatore Scallopini, who currently has three students on co-op and seven who are working part-time independently. "Angela and Michelle are just super. It would be nice to find a couple of students like them every

Wixom attributes this greater seriousness to the co-op program's grading system. Co-op employers are required to give students a grade which shows up on their report cards just like a grade for any other class. He reasons that co-op students are held accountable by employers who wield increased power with the promise of a good grade or the threat of a failing

Because they are graded right from the boss they probably take the job more seriously," Wixom says. You look at it differently than just a job to fill the gas tank."

However, Mike Burley, Northville High School's co-op and job placement coordinator, has not noticed greatly divergent attitudes toward work between his co-op students and those he assists in finding an independent job. Rather, he believes all working students face the same pressures on the job.

"A student working on their own without a grade hanging over their head still has to deal with the boss's complaints and make sure what they write is legible," says Burley.

While working at co-op positions, the student workers are paid the same rate as if they had just walked in off the street and been hired.

And although Angela, Michelle, David and Tracie and many of the other students who participate in a cooperative education program are not active in other school or outside activities, both coordinators reject the notion that co-op forces students to miss out on valuable high school experiences.

They still have time to go out for pizzas and dates," says Wixom. Wixom cites a state law which prohibits school-sponsored working students from putting in more than 48 hours between school and job combined. Co-op coordinators rigidly maintain this regulation and go through elaborate calculations with each eligible student.

"I don't feel this is any big bind," says Wixom. And Burley, who ensures the state limit by regulating co-op students' pay stubs, agrees that students do not seem overburdened with 48 hours. Says Burley, "A lot of my students do other things - football, cheerleading. Co-op doesn't have to be after school. It can be on the weekends."

For Angela Dressler, waitressing weekends at Salvatore Scallopini is preferred.

"I make so much money," Dressler

ackpacking thru Europe

By Noreen Flack

School will be out soon and many brave young travelers will be headed for Europe to scour the continent, exploring the hodge podge of cultures while expanding their horizons. Europe can be easy on a budget as long as you're not picky.

Whatever you do, don't leave home without your Let's Go, published by the Harvard Student Agencies Inc. Let's Go is called "the Bible of the budget traveler which is understandable since the book is as thick as the Bible and readers believe in every word printed. They have all the best suggestions on the cheapest places to go with details, directions and "don't misses" in each city.

You can pick one up for $13.95 at most local bookstores. Ask for the most current issue because the publisher revises and updates every

Before you go, make sure you have your International Youth Hostel Pass. Hostels are by far the cheapest stays in Europe. Also make sure to purchase a Eurail Youthpass before you go. Europe has a great intracontinental rail system and you can usually hop on a train to any major city within moments after deciding on your next destination. With the Eurail Youthpass, you can travel to 16 European countries for one or two months with unlimited use in second class rail service.

I can't stress how important it is to pack light. There are usually laundry facilities in most hostels. You'll be weary of trudging up from train stations and bus stops with loads of unused items. Believe me, I know. There's no room for fashion as a

Besides, most young travelers end up looking the same after awhile with a backpack strapped to their shoulders, torn jeans and tennis shoes, accessorized in cheap jewelry purchased from street vendors in Paris London. Just bring what you need.

If you pack a blow drier make sure to get international outlet adapters because the outlets in Europe are different sizes. You can buy them at most electrical supply and hardware

In most cases you'll find yourself getting off the train in some major city with no idea where to go or what

Your best bet is to find the tourist office usually centered within the main train station. The front desk people are often cranky after answering tourist questions all day, but they have all the resources you'll need at their fingertips. It's in your best interest to be patient and listen attentively.

Change your money at the main train station or find the nearest American Express office. Most places welcome American currency including hostels, but you'll never get the best deal there

Hang on to your backpack. I have never seen a more severe look of panic as when my friend thought someone had snatched his pack at a Berlin train station. I thought he would kill our other friend when she showed up with the pack and a "just kidding smile plastered on her face. Don't be careless; travelling is no fun when you're packless and penniless.

European cities have great public transportation systems and most offer good deals if you buy a two-day or five-day pass for use on the subways and buses. In London for example, you should purchase a Visitors Travel Card for the amount of time you'll be spending in the city. It's cheaper than paying each time you get on; with the card you get unlimited use on the Tube (subway) and

Do the hostel scene. These dormlike places fill up with students and under-age-30 folks from all over the world. Guaranteed you'll meet some of the most interesting people of your life, many who become good friends.

During the "high season" (June 1 to Sept. 30) many hostels are jam packed, especially in Italy and France, so call ahead of time before you reach the city to reserve a bed. Phone numbers are in Let's Go.

Don't expect much at a hostel as you'll be sharing most rooms with five or more strangers, and in the mornings you'll have little to no privacy taking showers and getting dressed. Hostels are kept very clean, however, and after a few days you get used to getting caught in the buff by total strangers who pretty much ignore you anyway. Most of all you'll begin to appreciate how cheap hostels are compared to other lodging options.

Some hostels such as the Haus der Jugend in Frankfurt have rooms for as many as 30 people which can get tiring when late-nighters are slothing in one at a time during the early morning hours just before the early birds get up to see the sights. Trust me, for 15 bucks a night, you'll get used to that too.

In most cases, you'll spend very little time in the room anyway; only to sleep. Many hostels have double rooms you can share with a friend, male or female, and are only a little more expensive than bunking as a single with five roommates. It's very important to follow the rules of the hostel, especially curfews because you'll be locked out if you don't get back in time.

If you're into camping, tie a rolled up portable tent to the bottom of your backpack. Europe offers some great spots to tent up. Norway, Sweden and Denmark have some very picturesque camping sites during the summer months but head down to Austria, Hungary, or even farther to Greece for warmer camping later in

Camping in Italy is rated very

Although most spots are located right on the beach, you're better off staying at a hotel or hostel. If you're going for more than a few weeks, get used to biscuits and meusli for breakfast at hostels. They can usually fill you up for most of the day. Sit down eating spots are very expensive and as you run out of cash at the end of the trip they become quite impractical for budget travelling.

Nothing compares to the nightlife in Europe. Music and art fill the streets with festivals and concerts all summer long. Some of the best music you'll ever hear is played by street singers who tune up near the parks and train stations from London to

An insider's guide to Europe's attractions

By Noreen Flack

So, where do you start a youthful European tour?

My advice is to start in London; the flight over is cheap and there's no language barrier so it'll give you a chance to get used to the culture.

London is an inexpensive city considering everything it has to offer. Let's Go quotes Dr. Samuel Johnson as saying. When a man is tired of London, he is tired of life; for there is in London all that life can afford."

I must agree with him. Some cities you'll tire of after a few days, but London is endless with streetside happenings.

Tour Ireland and Scotland for relaxation and pub cheer. The Irish and Scottish are the friendliest welcomers on earth. They also maintain the cheapest and cleanest bed and noon time lunches at pubs.

Many travelers who are taking a break from college or have recently graduated start their travels around August in the Scandinavian countries, usually Norway or Sweden. They travel through the months working their way down the continent until they arrive in Greece for Christmas. That's a lot of territory to cover but many die-hard trekkers say it's the best way to see it all.

However you go, get yourself to Amersterdam. A friend of mine tells me Bob's Hostel near the Red Light District is a great place to stay. Psychedelic signs light up this wild city which comes complete with legal drug use and hashish window displays; not to mention the evocative sex shows that saturate the district.

There are actually more selfproclaimed philosophers than sex watchers or drug participants in Ambreakfasts in Europe and offer hearty sterdam. Most of the time you'll find yourself tired from late night hostel discussions and arguments over world issues. Fortunately, curfews in Amsterdam hostels are less stringent and often non-existent.

Pickpockets and petty thieves are said to lurk near the Red Light District, so be careful with your money. But don't fret, there is nothing violent about the town. Although the Dutch lifestyle of Amsterdam may seem a bit strange at first, even the thieves are harmless. Anywhere you roam in Europe is much safer than the streets of Detroit and even many of its Head over to West Berlin for some good German beer and numerous monumental sites. Many World War II remnants remain standing roofless from bomb damage and are used as

Of course, you must visit the Berlin Wall, or what is left of it. Although soldiers still walk on top of the Wall to tourists bring chisels to break a few bits off when they turn their backs.

Most West Berliners are the best dressers on earth and seem pretty taken up with style and fashion. But there is no shopping for you. Everything is extremely expensive especially near Central Station.

Get your one-day visa at Checkpoint Charlie and cross over to East Berlin for a taste of the Communist culture. Although East Berlin is a fairly depressing place, it's livelier than the many rural areas of East Germany. And East Berlin offers some of the cheapest drinking nights you'll ever spend (but you must be back before midnight.) You can really fill up on some great East German meals for less than $4.

Don't miss out on Paris. I feel I have. I haven't made my way there yet, but most European travellers I ward off folks with hammers, most have met said Paris is the most enchanting of all European cities.

Unfortunately, Italy is usually bombarded with tourists (mainly Americans) during the summer months which takes away from the beauty of its wonderous cities.

My brother Brian and sister Maria toured Italy during July a couple of years ago and said some tourist spots were so filled with Americans they felt like they were back home. Try to save Milan, Venice, Florence and Rome for low season months like October or

To be a good traveller you must be easy-going and spontaneous. You'll meet people along the way that could become great companions. Be flexible with your schedule if they are travelling a different route.

But most importantly, have a great

Bike treks bring fresh sights

Pure air, too

Enjoy a weekend of fresh air and fall colors bilding Michigan's most beautiful areas.

The American Lung Associations in Michigan are hosting two bike treks in the scenic northern lower peninsula. Adventure-seeking cyclists (of any skill level) can bike the shores of the Leelanau Peninsula September 8-10 or historic Mackinac Island September 15-17.
What better place to bike than the rolling hills of the Leelanau Penin-sula? This tour of the Traverse City area begins in the quaint town of Suttons Bay, follows the shores of Lake Michigan, explores the famous Sleeping Bear Dunes through Leland Harbor and Northport and culiminates with a night of leisure and luxury at the Sugar Loaf Mountain Resort in Cedar.

The Mackinac Island Tour has everything needed for a scenic and funfilled weekend. The Lung Association's trek begins within sight of the Mackinaw Bridge, follows the shores of Lake Huron, stops in downtown Cheboygan proceeds to the island and is capped off with a night's stay at the historic Murray Hotel on Mackinac Island. The "last leg" of the journey includes a bike tour and shopping around the island.

These bike treks are a fun and economical way to see Michigan's most beautiful fall scenery. With a minimum of $225 in pledges, the price just "can't be beat." The Lung Associ-

Schwagle advances to state finals

"To be the runner-up at No. 1 singles in the state is quite an accomplishment ÷ especially for a freshman. It was very exciting."

Dick Norton Northville Coach

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN

You can call Mark Schwagle a youngster, and you can even call him a bit lucky but make sure you call him the second-best singles player in the state of Michigan.

The Northville freshman tennis sensation was the surprise of the MHSAA State Tennis Championships last weekend in Midland. He advanced all the way to the No. 1 singles final before finally falling. Despite a rich heritage of tennis success at Northville, Schwagle became the first Mustang player ever to reach a state final according to his coach Dick Norton.

To be the runner-up at No. 1 singles in the state is quite an accomplishment — especially for a freshman," Norton said. "It was very exciting." In the single-elimination tournament on June

1-2. Schwagle registered an impressive 4-1 record at the Midland Tennis Center against the best Michigan has to offer. He needed three, three-set marathons to reach the championship match where he fell to Grosse Pointe South's Jeff Giraldo 6-0, 6-2.

"It was a fantastic tournament for Mark," Norton said. "He played like a true champion."

Schwagle entered the competition as nothing more than an unseeded regional runner-up. After a first-round bye, he clobbered Christian Saylor of Grand Rapids Forest Hills Central 6-1, 6-0 only to draw senior Neil Denahan of Portage Central the defending state champ and top seed.

"I thought Mark would do well but when I examined the draw and saw that he was going to have to face Denahan, I knew it would be difficult," Nor-

It was, but Schwagle survived a first set tiebreaker defeat and came back to edge Deanhan 6-7 (3-7), 6-3, 6-2 to move on to the quarterfinals.

"As it turned out, it was probably to Mark's advantage because I think Denahan took him lightly and didn't know how to attack him," Norton said.

"After that win, I felt that regardless of what happens, it was a successful tournament for me." Schwagle told Norton

But he wasn't finished. A 6-3, 1-6, 6-1 quarterfinal win over West Bloomfield's Seth Denawetz put Schwagle into the final four, and once there he disposed of fifth-seeded Tom Noud of Okemos 3-6. 6-3, 6-2. It was a very impressive victory because it was Schwagle's second match of the day and only Noud's first.

Emotionally and physically exhausted. Schwagle didn't have much left for Giraldo in the - his third match of the day - but he battled for every point.

"I would say Giraldo should have been the top seed," Norton said. "He was an excellent player and it was only his second match of the day. But even on a real good day and with Mark rested, he would have had his hands full against Giraldo."

Schwagle wrapped-up an incredibly successful rookie campaign with an 18-3 record. He is planning to play many off-season tournaments this summer and should come back next spring ready to defend his Western Lakes league title and make another run at the state crown.

Internal conflicts blamed for Mustang soccer woes

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN

The only thing that separated Northville's very successful girls soccer campaign of a year ago from the disappointment of this spring was a run in the state tournament.

The Mustangs placed third in the Western Division and sixth in the WLAA both years, but the 1989 squad advanced all the way to the state title match before falling to Troy Athens. The '90 version dropped a heartbreaker to Livonia Stevenson in the district finals, leaving most everyone with an unfulfilled feeling.

After going to the finals and play ng for the state title, exiting so early the next season is a big letdown. And with almost the entire team back with another year of experience under their belts, expectations were very high. Perhaps too high. That's why a 10-4-4 overall mark, and a 5-2-3 conference record wasn't what anybody had in mind.

We ended up in the exact same place within our conference as we did a year ago, but we didn't go as far in the tournament," Northville Coach Bob Paul said. "I think we deserved to be sixth last year, but I believe that if we showed up to play every game this year, we would have finished much higher. It was definitely disappointing."

So what happened? According to selves rather than for the team. The end result was a horrendous stretch that saw the Mustangs win just two of eight matches. This came after the squad won or tied their first 10.

"We had some internal conflicts and by the time we got it straightened out, the regular season was over," Paul admitted. "With the talent we have on this team, we should have done better."

In all fairness, Northville's late season schedule was as brutal as any in the state. The locals were matched against powerhouse teams like Plymouth Canton, Farmington, Ann Arbor Pioneer, Churchill and Stevenson all in the final two weeks.

The calibre of competition down the stretch was brutal," Paul said. "We saw all the key league contenders and it seemed like the timing didn't go our way."

But just like the year before, Northville started peaking come tournament time. The biggest win of the whole campaign came against sixth-ranked Livonia Churchill in the district seminfinals.

There were players who have been in the program for three years and had never beaten Churchill," Paul said. "It was the one game where we put together a total team effort.

"We were peaking, just like a year ago, then we fell to Stevenson. Suddenly, it was all over."

Defensively, Northville was out-Paul, the team suffered some internal conflicts that started to tear the team 17 matches, the locals notched seven themselves. It must be a total team apart - players playing for them- shutouts, and six were credited to se- effort."

nior goaltender Kristi Turner. Her goals-against average was well below one per game as the Mustangs outscored their opponents 61-10 for the season. Turner was the only Northville player awarded All-Conference

The All-Division selections included newcomer Nikki Higdon, who led the team in scoring with 17 goals and five assists, Midfielders Marci Dart and Karen Cavanaugh and defender Michelle McQuaid.

"We were real happy with our strength at midfield." Paul said. "Dart scored eight goals for us and did a great job - and Cavanaugh is probably the best defender in the conference because of her discipline. And on defense, we were sound technically."

The Mustangs most lopsided defeat was a 3-1 decision to Stevenson in the WLAA cross-over game, and Northville was without both Dart and Cavanaugh that day.

A quick glance into the future shows more promise. Graduation losses will be heavy in the defensive corp [Turner, Neysa Colizzi, Jenny Beyersdorf), but the rest will return.

"We are going to be as strong - if not stronger - than we've been the past few seasons and there are not many teams that can say that. I think for once our offense will be ahead of our desense. "But if we've learned anything this

Well, apparently it is more than just a rumor. According to publicist Brendy Barr, who is heading the public relations effort on behalf of the Hall of Fame, Newman was invited to the $60-per-person ceremony at the Westin Hotel in Detroit on June 13 and later notified the organizers that he plans

The whole situation puts Barr and the Hall in a precarious situation because Newman asked that his appearance be kept low key. After all, his presence is guaranteed to raise interest in the entire project, but only if people know about it.

Like the first induction ceremony, the 1990 version sports an impressive list of motorsport greats like Mario Andretti and Shirley Muldowney. The 1989 charter members included A.J. Foyt, Richard Petty and Don the 1990 spring sports season, I wrote a column warning both Novi and Northville fans that due to heavy graduation losses, the prospects for the Wildcats and the Mustangs were, as a whole, not very good. Well, now that the season is almost over, I'm sorry to report that for the most part I was right.

Out of 12 boys and girls varsity sports at the two high schools, only three managed to escape the season with more victories than defeats. That's a winning percentage of .250, which makes the Detroit Tigers' .408 look

The big culprit was Novi, who failed to field even one winning team. Of course there were highlights, but the only squads even close were the boys and girls track teams - who finished with identical 4-4 dual meet marks. As of June 4, the baseball (12-18 record), softball (15-27), tennis (3-10) and soccer (5-12-1) team's records prove the point. I stand by my early argument that the loss of outstanding players like Scott Wladischkin, Ken Hendrian, Ken Chasse, Nicki Kasten and others had a major effect.

As for the Mustangs, they went 3-for-6 with the soccer, softball and boys track programs in the black; and baseball, girls track and tennis in the red. As a matter of fact, Northville's 5-3 mark in boys track was the program's first winning season since 1977, but the soccer and softball teams could not live up to last season's lofty accomplishments. Again, graduation losses were a big tactor.

NORTHVILLE CONNECTION: A 3-2 shootout defeat to Livonia Stevenson knocked the Northville girls soccer squad out of the MHSAA state playoffs, but that doesn't mean Northville isn't still represented in the tournament.

Regional champion Farmington Hills Mercy boasts five Northville residents on its roster and the Marlins are a definite state title contender. After blanking Woodhaven 3-0 in Regional Semifinal action and nipping Birmingham Marion in the finals in a shootout, Mercy is 13-1-4 and ranked sixth in the state. The biggest win of the season, however, was a 1-0 shootout victory over number-one ranked Farmington on May 25 in the district title game.

The Northville contingent includes top scorer Dana Luhmkuhl and top goaltender Renee Larabell. Dana, the daughter of Dave and Angi Luhmkuhl, scored twice against Woodhaven to raise her season total to 22 goals. Renee, the daughter of Larry and Sue Larabell, is ranked by many as one of the top underclass netminders in the state. She has shutout victories to her credit in two of the last three matches.

The other Northville residents include Ann Duwel, Donna Wilhelm and Liz DeMattia. All three are important contributors to the Marlins' success this season.

Mercy turns back softball team, 7-3

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN Staff Writer

For the second time in two meetings this season, the Northville softball squad couldn't hold a lead against Farmington Hills Mercy.

The first occurred back on May 12 at the Canton Tournament, but the resulting 6-5 loss was a relatively unimportant midseason, nonconference game. The second, however, came last weekend (June 2) in a much more important outing - the district semifinals. Through three innings, the Mustangs were in control 3-0 and pitching ace Rozann Staknis appeared to be in total command. Four innings later, the Marlins celebrated a 7-3 victory.

"We were up by three runs and we blew it," Northville Coach Bob Gerlach said. "I guess we didn't blow it. (Mercy) earned it, but it was frustrating nevertheless."

The Mustangs scored two runs in the first inning on a mammouth tworun homer by star catcher Laura Apligian. Karen Trepicone preceeded the blast with a single.

"Laura nailed it," Gerlach said. "She was crossing home plate before the outfielders could retrieve the

Tracksters place 10th at WLAA Meet

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN Staff Writer

The last week of the season may have been the most frustrating of them all for the Northville boys track squad.

Coming off the program's first winning season since 1977, the Mustangs were poised for "a definite tophalf finish" at the 12-team WLAA Meet, according to coach Dennis Faletti. What they got was a 10th.

"One of our top performers -Chris Lehr - was sick and didn't compete," Faletti said. "It really hurt us because Chris is our top high jumper and one of our key 800 relay guys. Not having him probably cost us at least 13 points, which would have put us in sixth place."

The Mustangs registered eight, top-eight finishes and scored 36 points in the meet. The team placed (top eight) in all four relay events, but had just four point-scoring efforts in the other 13 individual events. Northville's highest finish was a pair of thirds in the 400-meter relay

"One of our top performers — Chris Lehr — was sick and didn't compete. It really hurt us because Chris is our top high jumper and one of our key 800 relay guys. Not having him probably cost us at least 13 points, said. which would have put us in sixth place."

and the mile relay. The team of Noel Korowin, Matt Hemp, Jamie Miller and Neil White clocked in at 1:35.5 in the 400, while the mile combo of Rob Subot.ch, White, Jon Meek and Mark Hillinger set a new season-best mark of 3:31.8.

Surprisingly, that was the only season-best effort out of all the top eight finishers.

The weather conditions were alright and our performances were decent," Faletti said. "We just got hurt, point-wise, in several areas.

In the remaining two relay events. Hemp, Bill Kelley, Miller and White placed seventh in the 800 (1:35.5) and Karl Goerke, Steve Coon, Meek and Parag Parakh teammed up to place eighth in the two mile (8:33.0).

The top individual performances came from Miller in the long jump (20'-51/4") and Kelley in the 200-meter dash (23.8) — they both finished fourth. The others included a fifth by John Okasinski in the pole vault (10-10") and an eighth by Coon in the two mile (10:16.0).

MHSAA STATE MEET: Things didn't get any better at the Class A State Meet on June 2 in Midland. The Mustangs qualified two individuals, but neither one scored a point.

"We didn't do anything." Faletti

Miller was entered in the long jump but his best jump of 19'-0" was nearly two feet under his personal best.

"Jamie's steps on the approach; were the big problem," Faletti explained. "He's only a sophomore and he doesn't have the experience yet to adjust to the conditions.

As for Okasinski in the pole vault. the opening height (11'-7") was an inch higher than his best ever. The senior failed to clear in three tries.

If the opening height is an inch higher than your best ever, you know your behind the eight ball right from the start," Faletti said.

"But the meet was good experience, especially for Jamie. And the idea of qualifying for the state meet is good for the program and morale."

Fitness, vacation are compatible

Summer vacations offer many of us the opportunity to get away from the stress of the workplace, but vacations may also interrupt exercise

Jogging in a strange place, the unavailability of a pool or your bicycle. no place to take an exercise class and lack of time can all contribute to an interruption in a normal exercise schedule.

The President's Council on Physical Fitness and Sports offers some suggestions on how to assist in the set-up of an enjoyable vacation exercise program:

Cabins, tents and hotel rooms can be used to set up a mini-workout circuit. Some exercise suggestions include situps, pushups, side leg raises, bicep curls, heel raises and

Bring along a cassette player and your favorite aerobic music. You can put on your favorite tape and continue your exercise routine. You may want to take the cassette player to the pool and try the routine in the water.

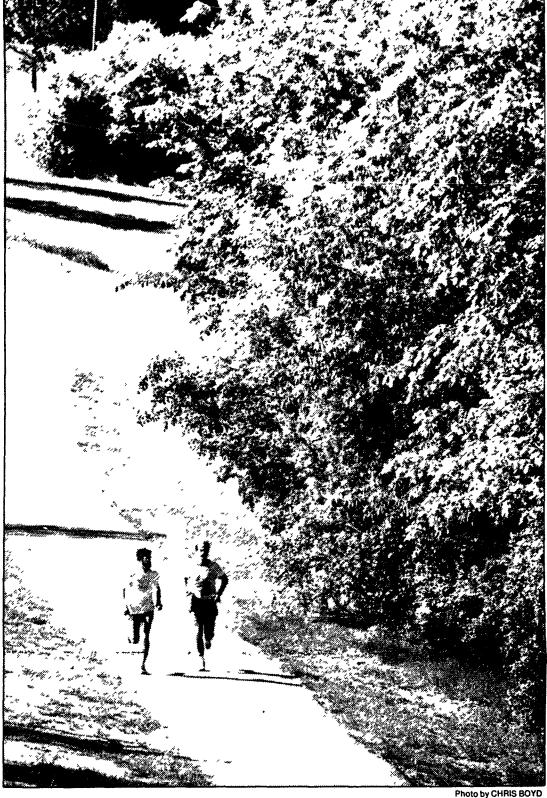

Walking for fitness can be incorporated into busy days and the whole family can participate. This type of exercise requires only comfortable shoes and clothing and many vacation places have beautiful walking trails. Some cities offer walking tours through historic districts and you can briskly walk from one marker to

Another vacation possibility is to cycle individually or as a family. Many vacation places rent bicycles of all types, which provides an opportunity to ride trails and pack picnic

Day hikes are an enjoyable way to see the parks and forests that many states offer. Be sure to have sturdy shoes that you previously have worn and take along a pack to carry water and a snack. Many parks offer a variety of trails of varying difficulty. Start with an easy trail and then try one that is more challenging.

Remember that the environment you encounter on vacation may be very different from home. Differing altitudes, temperature and humidity may affect your physical abilities. Start slowly and adjust the pace and length of your workout to fit how you feel and be sure to take clothing that is appropriate for the area you are strenuous exercise program.

The format consists of carefully guided warmup and stretching exercise followed by light aerobics and a cool-down period, all synchronized to music," according to Phyllis E. Weikart, director of U-M's Adult Lifestyle Program. "Our objective is to improve the participants' strength, flexibility and energy level through activities which are safe and enjoyable."

Weikart and her staff have been leading the popular Fitness Over 50 classes for 12 years on the U-M campus and for the past two years at Ann Arbor's Briarwood Mall, where it regularly attracts some 125 participants.

By expanding the program to Twelve Oaks Mall. they have made it more accessible to residents throughout Oakland, Wayne and Livingston

"Twelve Oaks is open an hour before the stores open (at 10 a.m. daily and noon Sunday) to accommodate people who want to use the mall for walking," Twelve Oaks Marketing Director Elaine Kah said. This exercise program adds a new dimension to this activity. We are pleased to be a part of Fitness Over 50 welcomes all interested persons, regardless of their age and current activity level. Call the Twelve Oaks Management Office, 348-9438, for further information.

Twelve Oaks is a major regional shopping center located in Novi on I-96 and Novi Road. The center hours are Monday through Saturday, 10 a.m. to 9 p.m., and Sunday, noon to 6 p.m.

FTINESS PROGRAM - A fitness program for community and corporate employees is available at Schoolcraft College in Livonia Monday through Friday from 6:30-8 a.m. and 4:30-6 p.m.

Participants can take advantage of a full-competition swimming pool with a separate diving area, six racquetball courts, a weight training room, a dance training room and muscle soothing saunas. A 12-week membership is $40 and a sixweek membership is $22. The facilities also can be used for $3 per visit.

Schoolcraft College is located at 18600 Haggerty Road between Six and Seven Mile in Livonia. For more information call 462-4413.

Girls end up near bottom in

With eight point-scoring efforts in 16 events, the Northville girls track squad was certainly competitive at the Western Lakes Activities Association Meet. Unfortunately, with just one top-five finish in the bunch, the Mustangs still ended up near the bottom of the heap at the event on May 30 at Plymouth Canton.

The locals scored 18.4 points in the competition, which was good for 11th place in the 12-team event. Livonia Stevenson won its first-ever WLAA title with 154.5 points. The only team Northville finished ahead of was Livonia Churchill (13.2).

*Our performances were consisent, but just like everybody else, the times were off," Mustang Coach Ann relays. Turnbull said. "I think it was because of the windy, cold conditions.

ing in the 300-meter low hurdles. Her time of 50.3 was a season-high for all Mustang hurdlers.

The only other top-six individual performances came in the high jump, where teammates Julie Buser and Lisa Aimone tied with three others for sixth with identical 4'-8" efforts. Wrapping up the individual pointgetters was Trish Lukomski, who placed eighth in the 200-meter dash in 28.36.

Northville, paced by a sixth from the 400 relay combo (55.4), did place in all four relay events. The others included a seventh from the 800 crew (1:57.2) and a pair of eighths in the mile (4:30.2) and two mile (10:53.0)

"Last year, we didn't score any points in the relays, so that was very positive," Turnbull said.

The Mustangs' season is now officially over. The team ended with a 2-6 The highlight of the proceedings overall mark, 1-4 in the WLAA West-

Michigan State Park fees slightly higher

LANSING — State park visitors will have to pay slightly higher fees this year, according to the Department of Natural Resources (DNR).

The Natural Resources Commission (NRC) recently approved camping and motor vehicle fee increases that took effect Jan. 1, 1990.

The additional revenue from these increases will be put back into the state park system," said DNR Director David Hales, "and will help restore some of the services that were cut in the early 1980s because of budget constraints."

The money received as a result of the increases will also pay greater utility costs and assist in hiring seasonal employees to maintain the park system.

Recent action by the legislature the NRC to raise the daily fee to $3 for residents, $4 for non-residents at Warren Dunes State Park and $15 daily for commercial motor coaches or vans with a capacity of more than 12 passengers. The last increase was in 1981.

State park campers and day-users will see changes in the Rent-A-Tent Program, where fees will increase from $12 a night to $15; large cabin rentals (20 or more capacity), which will increase from $32 to $35; and small cabins (19 or fewer capacity), which will increase from $24 to $25. Also increased by $1 are fees at the following: $5 per night at rustic campsites; $7 per night at semimodern campsites; $9 per night at modern campsites; and $10 per

DANGE CUSTOM-CRAFTED EYEGLASSES IN ABOUT AN HOUR UNBEATABLE VALUE • GUARANTEED QUALITY • TOTAL SATISFACTION

ABOVE IS THE DALLAS BY BENETTON.

CHOOSE FROM OVER 3000 FRAMES IN ANY STORE

Custom-crafted eyeglasses in about an hour.

Even if you have a difficult prescription (bifocals, trifocals), we can custom-craft your eyeglasses at our in-store laboratory in about an hour, so you can walk out of our store wearing your new glasses. With a state-of-the-art laboratory in every LensCrafters store you can actually see the quality control and care taken by our skilled technicians.

We deliver all your eyewear needs.

Selection: Thousands of frames in hundreds of individual styles, designer lines, shapes, sizes and colors ensure that we have something to fit every face, personality and budget. Whatever your needs, in frames or lens treatments, we have what you want right in the store.

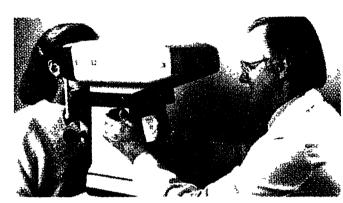

Service: Our Frame Stylists are specially trained to help you select the best frames and lenses for your needs. Our Opticians ensure your glasses fit perfectly and our skilled Lab Technicians craft your lenses to the highest industry standards.

Free Adjustments: As part of our complete commitment to serving you in every way possible, we follow up with adjustments and minor repairs — FREE!

Eye exams available.

There are few things more important than the health of your eyes and your ability to see your best - that is why the Independent Doctors of Optometry conveniently located next to LensCrafters offer so many different procedures to determine a truly accurate prescription for you.

They offer a broad selection of contact lenses; soft, hard, gas-permeable, "daily" or "extended" wear and tinted lenses. Your contacts are fitted by skilled optometrists, not technicians, to assure you the best fit possible. In most cases, you can wear your contact lenses on your first visit.

AUTOREFRACTOR—One of the many state-of-theart instruments used in our analysis program

Value Guarantee: We Will Not Be Undersold.

We believe our combination of consistent ONE-HOUR SERVICE, TOP-OUALITY EYEWEAR, and COMPETI-TIVE PRICES offers you the best value in town. To prove it, if within 30 days of your purchase you find a lower price for the same glasses (frame and lenses) in stock at any other retail optical store, just present a written estimate or copy of the advertised price, and we'll gladly refund the difference.

Quality Guarantee.

With our in-store labs our skilled technicians can exercise complete 'hands-on' quality control which is not possible if your eyewear has to be shipped out to some distant lab. So, if for any reason you are not completely happy with the eyewear or service you receive from LensCrafters, we will gladly make any adjustments you consider necessary on the premises, including replacing your lenses and/or frames at no charge whatsoever.

We deliver 100% customer satisfaction.

A personal message from the Senior Vice-President of LensCrafters.

Dear Reader,
At LensCrafters we have a saying; ''No
sale is ever final!''
In simple terms, this means we don't consider we've made a sale unless you are completely happy with your eye-wear purchase.

We guarantee our products, our prices, our quality and our services. However, I realize that no individual or organization is always perfect. So I would like to invite you to write to the address below if your LensCrafters experience past, present, or in the future, is not totally to your satisfaction. That's what we mean by 'We Deliver!'
