Tougher tree law to be studied

By MIKE TYREE
Staff Writer

A sub-committee formed to study the township's woodlands ordinance will investigate methods to keep protected trees from falling to the developer's ax.

Township Planning and Zoning Administrator Carol Maise said a planning commission sub-committee met for the first time last week to discuss strengthening the woodlands ordinance adopted by the township in January 1989.

Additionally, township administrative assistant Susan Odom will be trained as a woodlands specialist, a position Maise said would help the township keep closer tabs on the types and numbers of township trees requiring protection.

The heightened emphasis on protecting woodlands came about because the original ordinance was perceived as not having sufficient strength, Maise said.

"We feel we're more able to regulate a stronger ordinance than we were before," she said. "We're better organized now and I think we can work from a position of strength."

Maise said the township attorneys questioned the constitutionality of the proposed original ordinance and advised that woodlands reviews be a part of planning commission site plan reviews.

The township also felt a permitting process for individual trees would be an administrative headache, she said.

But isolated incidents with developers over the destruction of protected trees — and potential problems down the road — convinced the township to take a closer look at their ordinance.

"Obviously, we're finding out that some of it is not working," Maise said, adding the new look at the ordinance is "because we foresee problems, not because we're looking back and saying we could have saved a lot of trees."

The subcommittee will look at woodlands ideas offered prior to the adoption of the present ordinance, Maise said. New woodlands guidelines may be similar to the stricter ordinance on the books in Novi, she said.

Members of the planning commission, including Pat Wright, Richard Allen and Barbara O'Brien, as well as Odom, Maise and a planning consultant will head up the sub-committee, she said.

"They'll take all their great ideas and bring them to me, the township attorney and the planning consultant for feedback," she said.

Maise said potential additions to the ordinance could be readied by late summer.

"It's something you're making an amendment to," she said. "You just adjust to things you've learned. It's not like we're going to be starting from scratch."

Natural knowledge

A new "classroom" has been added to Northville High School, a special nature area for use by students. Recently the Science Department and the Northville Rotary Club financed plantings of shrubs, trees and wildflowers and the addition of a small pond. It created a habitat attractive to

Graduation plans set

Commencement exercises for the Class of 1990 are set for 7 p.m. Friday on the athletic field at Northville High School.

The outdoor ceremony is open to the public. In case of inclement weather, plans have been made to move the ceremonies to the gym.

The decision whether to hold the exercises indoors will be made at 1 p.m., after which inquiries are directed to the high school office. School officials remind friends and families of the 272 seniors that a limited number of indoor tickets will be issued to each student.

The six valedictorians and three salutatorians of the Class of 1990 will deliver a collective address.

A 1959 graduate, Dr. Dale Bray, will receive the Northville High School Distinguished Alumna Award and is expected to deliver a message to the graduating class.

Arbor Hills Landfill to hike fees by 16 percent

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

It's official. The Arbor Hills Landfill in Salem Township will raise its dumping fees in October from $9.90 to $11.50 per compacted cubic yard of trash.

Announcement of the 16-percent increase came as no surprise to Northville city officials. Landfill operators warned the officials in April to expect as much as a $2 increase in fees in the next year.

The city council took the potential fee hikes into consideration when figuring the 1990-1991 city budget.

But Arbor Hills officials would not confirm an increase to the Northville Record then, citing their policy to announce increases four months before they are scheduled to take effect. The increase will take effect October 1.

The October rate increase will be the second in just over a year at the Salem Township site. In September, 1989, the landfill raised its fee from $6.50 to $9.90, a 52-percent increase. Five years ago, the cost per cubic yard was $1.75.

Arbor Hills Landfill is owned and operated by Browning-Ferris Industries.

Landfill operators have blamed the increases on some $5 million in state-ordered environmental protection improvements to the landfill.

"We are continuing to deal with escalating environmental costs,"

Jeff Harris

BFI Manager

"We are continuing to deal with escalating environmental costs," said Manager Jeff Harris. "And also, quite candidly, market considerations play a role. For instance, if we were lower than other landfills, we would have a lot of waste being delivered to our site."

Harris said the Arbor Hills site could not take in a much higher rate of trash than it does now, and that the high fee was a way of keeping added business down.

The state of Michigan will also begin charging landfills throughout the state 25 cents per cubic yard dumped, to be set aside for future cleanup efforts. That fee goes into effect tomorrow, June 15. The money will be collected by landfill operators and turned over to the state.

When the landfill closes, half of the collected funds will be returned for any necessary site cleanup, and the other half will be used by the state in other cleanup efforts.

But Harris said that fee will have no impact on the Arbor Hills landfill. "We have historically had our own internal environmental accruals that have been greater than 25 cents (per yard)," he explained.

Harris added that BFI's internal policy of setting money aside for environmental cleanup is one of the reasons that BFI landfills have had higher dumping rates than other landfills in the past.

The landfill's price hikes have not gone unnoticed in the city. Northville officials attributed a half-mill increase in this year's taxes, and the cutting of one patrolman's position at the police department to the city's increasing refuse service costs.

Police harass 'Smooth' suspects, teen claims

By MIKE TYREE
Staff Writer

A Northville teenager Sunday charged local police with harassing area youths suspected of involvement with the Smooth Criminals.

The youth said police have instituted a policy of harassment against local teens, including repeated traffic stops and implied threats of violence.

The teenager also said police have wrongly identified several youths as members of the group of spray-painting vandals that have taunted officers from the city and township police departments over the past three months.

The township police department Monday denied Smooth Criminal suspects have been harassed.

The teenager made the charges to a Record reporter early Sunday morning and asked that his name not be used in exchange for information about the Smooth Criminals.

The youth contacted the reporter again early Monday and answered follow-up questions about the vandals and police harassment charges.

Two methods were used to confirm the youth's identity, including cross-referencing an alleged police suspect list obtained by the Record.

The list was not obtained from township police.

The youth said police road patrols have stopped him without just cause nine times during the past two weeks. He said he was issued a non-moving violation on one occasion.

"I'm getting sick of being pulled over because of the company I'm keeping," he said, stressing he has never engaged in Smooth Criminals' activities.

He also said two police officers last weekend stopped a vehicle he was riding in and challenged the occupants to "step behind the building."

He said police said "Whatever you've got to say, say it to my face, don't spray-paint it."

The incident occurred near a video arcade on Seven Mile Road, the youth said.

"There are three-to-five people in the Smooth Criminals, that's a fact," he said. "The cops are harassing 10-12 people."

"I called (the paper) because I would like something written about what the cops are doing," he said.

Police are not harassing suspects, township police Captain Philip Presnell said.

"The investigation of the Smooth Criminals is continuing," he said. "To my knowledge... the police techniques are not illegal or inappropriate."

"I'm not saying we're doing surveillance," Presnell said, "(but) law enforcement techniques are not subject to release (to the public)."

Presnell said anyone with harassment complaints should contact the department.

"If a person has a problem and wants to make a complaint, they should call and ask to talk to the administrators of the department," he said. "The official position of the department is that we don't condone any harassment."

The youth said he was willing to talk to police about the Smooth Criminals but he now feels that police are looking for scapegoats in the unsolved cases of vandalism around the community.

"I was ready to cooperate," he said. "But they're trying to put me away. I can't take it anymore."

Youth speaks on vandal activities

By MIKE TYREE
Staff Writer

A local youth's complaint against police investigative techniques may have provided the best public glimpse to date of the group of vandals known as Smooth Criminals.

The youth — a Northville teenager who requested anonymity — told The Record that alleged police attempts to target 10-12 area youths as Smooth Criminals have effectively shut down the group's activities over the past month.

He also claimed that police have harassed him and other youths who reportedly do not have ties to the self-styled Smooth Criminals, the group that has spray-painted slogans and threats to police throughout the city and township over the past three months.

Police say members of the Smooth Criminals are also under investigation for area break-ins of homes, businesses and vehicles.

Police pressure on those not directly associated with the group led him to call the newspaper, the youth said.

The youth said he has never taken part in any Smooth Criminals activities and said he does not have a police record except for traffic tickets. He did say he had intimate knowledge of the group that formed "because they hate cops."

"The original Smooth Criminals aren't doing anything now," he said. "They haven't been active for about a month or so because of all the attention."

The youth said police comments that 10-12 area teens are suspected of Smooth Criminal activities are off-base.

"There were only three to five in the group. That's a fact," he said.

The youth told The Record the names of four young men who he said comprise the Smooth Criminals roster.

Sgt. John Sherman of the town-

Police deny harassing youths

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

Sgt. David Fendeleit of the Northville City Police said he had no knowledge of alleged police harassment of teenagers suspected as Smooth Criminals.

But he added police efforts have dramatically reduced the amount of vandalism and the number of other crimes committed in the city and township recently.

"We haven't done any gestapo tactics or anything that I've been aware of, and look, the crime has stopped," he said.

"Now, if that's because of our aggressive patrols or the right people being talked to, I'm not really sure. Maybe it's a combination of the two."

Fendeleit is the detective heading up the city's investigation into widespread vandalism throughout the city and township in the past several months. The vandals have frequently signed their work with the name or initials of "Smooth Criminals."

New Classes

Schoolcraft College has added two new courses to its summer schedule.

Wordperfect, a sophisticated word processing program that can be used for everything from basic text entry to preparation of complex documents, will begin July 24. This introductory course includes instruction in document preparation, formatting, printing, and saving and retrieving documents from the disk. This four-week course meets on Tuesday and Thursday evenings from 6-8 p.m. and the cost is $105.

Introduction to Lotus 1-2-3 will familiarize students with the powerful capabilities of this multipurpose software package. Emphasis will be placed on hands-on experience in creating a worksheet, producing a printed report and using data management functions. Graphic capabilities will be practiced. This four-week course begins July 23 and meets Monday and Wednesday evenings from 6-8 p.m. and the cost is $102.

For further information, please call the College's Continuing Education Services division at 462-4448.

College Accepting Crafters

News Briefs

VOLUNTEERS NEEDED — On Wednesday, July 18, The Association for Retarded Citizens of Northwest Communities and Northville Schools will host a field day "To Celebrate the Individual".

The emphasis of this special day is to provide the severely mentally impaired and the severely multiply impaired athlete individual and competitive sport opportunities.

The field day will be held at Northville High School from 8 a.m. to 1:15 p.m. Please contact Vickie Greiner at Old Village School at 344-8460 for further information.

NON-PROFIT GROUPS FOR VICTORIAN FESTIVAL

— The 2nd Annual Victorian Festival invites non-profit groups in the Northville area to join the fun and raise money for their organizations by participating in this year's festival Sept. 14-16. Groups interested in operating a booth should contact Sarah Minor, 348-8596 or Judy Dore, 349-1052 or 349-4550 (office).

RED CROSS HELP NEEDED — The Northville Group of the Red Cross volunteers is looking for help during mobile blood banks held in the Northville area. Several of the faithful volunteers are unavailable during the summer months and staffing at blood banks is becoming difficult.

Volunteers help in registering blood donors, making the bags to hold the blood, escorting donors to the canteen area and manning the canteen itself. Usually volunteers are only asked to help on one or two blood banks per month. The banks last for about six hours.

Anyone interested in joining the Northville Red Cross Volunteers Group should call Sue Anger at 349-0068, Evelyn Harper at 349-5781 or Mesa Campbell at 349-1748.

ART VOLUNTEERS WANTED — Northville Friends of the Arts are looking for volunteers for Art Market during the Victorian Festival on Sept. 14-16. The organization is looking for help in giving artists breaks during the festival. Any volunteer should contact the Art Market at P.O. Box 99, Northville, 48167.

VIDEOTAPE ON SALE — A videotape of memorable moments from the Northville High School Senior Class is on sale for $24.95. The video and tickets for the senior all-night party may be purchased by mailing checks to Pat Howard, 203 North Ely Drive, Northville. The senior party tickets are $20.

Local lawmakers oppose MX plan

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

The battle against the proposed deployment of the MX missile rail garrison in Michigan has grown from a grass-roots effort to a legislative fight, and two local legislators have chosen sides in the debate.

Rep. Gerald Law (R-Plymouth) joined 57 other state representatives to sign joint House and Senate resolutions calling for the U.S. Congress "not to fund rail-based MX missiles in Michigan."

Senator Jack Faxon (D-Farmington Hills) was one of 12 senators to sign the Senate version of the resolution. Eleven other Democrats and one Republican, Vernon Ehlers of Grand Rapids, also signed the bill.

The House resolution received more bipartisan support, signed by 46 Democrats and 15 Republicans.

The resolutions were introduced June 6, by Rep. David Gubow (D-Huntington Woods) and Sen. Lana Pollack (D-Ann Arbor).

The congressional statements come after months of debate over the rail garrison plan. In November, the U.S. Air Force selected Wurtsmith Air Force Base in Oscoda as one of seven sites at which to deploy the rail-based MX missile system.

Under the Air Force proposal, the base would become home to as many as eight 71-foot-long MX missiles, each weighing more than 200,000 pounds. Pairs of the missiles would be placed on trains to travel railways throughout Michigan and the country in times of crisis.

After Wurtsmith's selection as a missile site, more than 65 citizen groups across the state banded together as the Michigan Coalition to Stop the MX to work against the proposal. The coalition is one of the groups lobbying for passage of the resolutions.

The coalition is also organizing a June 16 protest rally in Lansing, to demonstrate against the MX proposal on the steps of the state capitol.

The rail garrison proposal took on local significance in February, when a senior Air Force official told the Northville Record the CSX Transportation line is a likely route for the MX missile train. The CSX line runs through both Northville and Novi.

The congressional resolutions argue against funding the proposal because of potential environmental damage, the possibility of sabotage to the trains, and the danger of a rail accident involving the missiles. The resolutions noted there were 38 toxic chemical spills on Michigan railways in 1988, and that the tracks would "undergo severe stress from the MX missile cars, which would be four times as heavy as a normal railroad car."

"If there was a derailment, collision, or spill, the solid and liquid fuels from the booster rockets could cause injury to people over a mile away. The cloud from a serious fire could harm victims 50 miles away," the resolutions continued. "With these trains running near cities and schools, even a minor accident could bring serious consequences."

Public hearings in Lansing and the Detroit area on the resolutions, and their passage, are not expected for several months.

Legislator concerned over rail safety

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

State Rep. Gerald Law (R-Plymouth) said his decision to sign the House resolution against the MX missile rail garrison was due to his frustration over the potential dangers of rail transportation, not because of any inherent opposition to the MX missile itself.

"My gripe's not the MX missile or foreign policy, because I'm not an expert on that," he said. "My concern was for the rail shipping of missiles."

"I have railroads coming through my district."

Those railroads include the CSX Transportation line, a line that, according to a senior Air Force official, is a likely candidate for use by the MX missile train during a national crisis.

Law said he was concerned about all the dangerous materials traveling along local rail lines, not just missiles. A weekly train carrying various chemicals travels the local CSX line to Midland, Michigan, the site of a large Dow Chemical Company processing plant and the company's headquarters.

Law said local officials should be better informed of the hazardous substances rolling through their cities and townships.

"I'm getting a little tired that we can't get a handle on the kinds of things that are being transported through my community, whether they be chemicals or whether they be nuclear warheads," Law said.

"My local officials tell me they have no idea what's coming through their towns, and they're not being told."

NEW TECHNOLOGY ...

It's happening at Huron Valley Hospital.

For example, gall bladder surgery used to mean a large, abdominal incision, postoperative pain, a three to five-day hospital stay and a six week recovery period.

Today, for some patients, a new type of laser laparoscopic procedure AND specially trained doctors are changing all that.

Patients now merely stay overnight in the hospital, suffer much less pain and return to work or their normal schedules in seven to 14 days.

If you are faced with gall bladder surgery, ask your Huron Valley Hospital physician about this option or call our Physician Referral Service at 360-3450 to find out about this latest technology and our specially trained doctors.

Car windows smashed in township

The owner of a 1954 Plymouth Savoy told township police someone smashed the front windshield and the four side windows of his car while it was parked on Wintergreen Circle June 5 between 1-3 p.m. Damage to the vehicle was listed at $700.

MELJER LARCENIES — The following larcenies were reported to township police from Meljer Inc., 20401 Haggerty:

A 62-year old Northville woman was arrested and charged with stealing sunglasses and cosmetics June 1 at 8:39 p.m.

A 26-year old Farmington Hills woman was arrested and charged with stealing a 19-inch color television June 2 at 7:20 p.m.

A 39-year old Livonia woman was charged with stealing film, pantyhose, earrings, bracelets and cigarettes June 4 at 12:49 p.m.

A 26-year old Detroit man was arrested after stealing clothing June 6 at 9:43 a.m.

WALKAWAYS — A walkaway from the Northville Regional Hospital, 41001 Seven Mile Road, was reported June 2 at 9:53 a.m. The 27-year old female walkaway was recovered by hospital security staff.

Walkaways were also reported June 7 at 1 p.m. and 3:20 p.m.

MAILBOX DAMAGED — A Scenic Harbor resident told township police someone knocked a mailbox off a wood post June 3 at 12:30 a.m.

FENDER BENDER — City police reported an accident June 8, at 5:15 a.m. According to police reports, a Detroit woman driving west on Edward Hines Drive ran the blinking red light at the corner of Hines and Center Street, striking a vehicle heading south on Center. The woman was cited for disobeying a traffic signal. Both cars had to be towed from the scene.

Citizens with information about the above incidents are urged to call Northville City Police at 349-1234 or Northville Township Police at 349-9400.

Suspect still sought

By MIKE TYREE
Staff Writer

Township police said Tuesday they have no strong suspects in an attempted June 3 criminal sexual assault against a female resident of Innsbrook Apartments.

Police are continuing their investigation and are following up on tips provided by area residents, Det. Fred Yankee said.

He said a man fitting the description provided by the victim was questioned and will not be charged with the crime.

Police are looking for a 5'8" white male of medium build, with sandy brown to red hair and unshaven or with a close-cropped beard. The suspect is believed to be in his late-20's.

The man may have a scratch near his left eye that was inflicted by the woman during their struggle.

Persons with information on the incident are asked to call township police at 349-9400 or the police detective bureau at 348-5811.

The victim called police at approximately 3 a.m. June 3 to report that a man had entered her apartment and attacked her after she found him masturbating in her living room.

She reportedly told police the man followed her into her bedroom after she screamed at him to leave the apartment. The woman said she attempted to call the emergency 9-1-1 number before he ripped a telephone from her hands.

The two scrambled around the room, knocking items off a dresser before the woman reportedly used rape prevention tactics to scare the man from her apartment.

Yankee said police have yet to determine how the man got into the apartment.

"We're not sure how entry was gained," he said. "There weren't any signs of forced entry."

Yankee called the assault "isolated" and said no reports of similar activity in the area have surfaced.

He did say the incident was potentially dangerous.

"You just have to look at the situation," he said. "If you came home and confronted someone ... there could be danger."

Dead ducks spark DNR inquiry

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

The Department of Natural Resources (DNR) is investigating an apparent slaying of ducks in Northville.

The decomposing bodies of eight mallard ducks were found floating in two plastic bags in the creek that leads into Mill Pond May 30, by Northville city police.

The police were called to the creek by Dorisa Court resident Nancy Lewis. Lewis had fed more than two dozen wild ducks on a regular basis before the incident, and noticed their disappearance about a month ago, she said.

Lewis said the ducks that were killed were among some 27 waterfowl regularly fed by herself and fellow Dorisa Court resident Shirley Maloney. The ducks used to come up to the homes on Dorisa Court twice a day at about 7:30 a.m. and 4 p.m., Maloney said. "You could set your watch by them," she said.

"They just hung around, and didn't bother anyone," she added.

"They were just so doggone tame," Lewis agreed. "They would just go up to anybody."

Lewis said 27 waterfowl came up from the creek behind her house on a regular basis — 24 mallards, two black ducks and a goose with broken wings. "They're all gone," Lewis said.

According to Northville city police reports, a local teenager had tried to sell several dead ducks to an Allen Drive resident a week before the bags were found floating in the creek.

After their initial investigation, Northville police turned the case over to DNR Officer John Jurcich. Jurcich did not return calls from The Record by presstime.

Landfill fees, which had been just 20 percent of the total refuse service costs in 1985, represented 53 percent of the total service costs in 1990, at the rate of $9.90 per cubic yard.

Other efforts to pay for higher disposal costs include a fee for dropping off trash at the city's recycling center at 650 Doheny Drive.

The city also plans to begin charging commercial and apartment property owners an additional disposal fee, to compensate for the fact their millage payments do not cover the cost of collecting their trash.

Water pressure woes on tap?

By JAN JEFFRES
Staff Writer

Northville, Novi and 12 other communities in western Oakland and Wayne counties face a potential water pressure crisis which could halt new development in the region until a 12-mile Detroit water line is laid.

According to James Cleland, chief of the Michigan Department of Public Health's (MDPH) water supply division, the situation is critical: "We should expect a problem this year." A meeting of the communities, at the health department's request, was held Monday in the Novi Civic Center.

Cleland said MDPH director Raj Weiner urged the local governments to give "fair warning" to developers that water line extension permits may be denied by the department until the situation is resolved. The goal is to protect the rights of existing customers and not jeopardize essential domestic and fire-protection water supplies, he explained. The public health department must approve all extensions and additions to the water lines, based on the capacity of the system.

Water pressure problems first came to the surface in the summer 1988 drought.

"During the winter months or during the rainy days, it's hard to consider it as urgent," Cleland said. "On other days, when the water's not there, it is (urgent). There's no way to tell precisely which community would be hardest hit by the low pressure."

Geographically higher locations, such as Novi, might be at risk first, he added. Among the 14 communities facing the greatest potential impact are portions of Northville Township and Northville, Walled Lake, Commerce Township, West Bloomfield, Bloomfield Township, Keego Harbor, Farmington Hills, Farmington and parts of Livonia and Redford.

The money is already available for the $35-million extension, which will take from 27 months to three years to build, Cleland said. Funds have been raised by Detroit revenue bonds, augmented by money from the water system's users' fees. Four million people and 117 communities buy Detroit water.

A roadblock to the project is objections from Franklin, Bingham Farms, Beverly Hills and Bloomfield Township, based on right-of-way acquisitions for the new water line and the protection of trees and shrubs. Permits must also be secured from the Oakland County Road Commission.

The 14 communities have agreed to meet within a week to find solutions to the problem, with the Oakland County Road Commission acting as a facilitator.

"We think that this is overdue," Cleland said. "The issues that are stalling the project have got to be laid on the table and the people have to make their decisions."

The health department is also expected to issue an advisory statement next week.

Phase one of the water main extension calls for a new pumping station at Adams Road and Interstate 75 in Bloomfield Township, extending south to Quarton Road. The 72-inch water main would then be run west to Lahser Road, south to Fourteen Mile and west to Inkster Road.

Cleland said that within the past 18 months, the health department processed requests for 183 projects requiring over 70 miles of extensions in Detroit water mains from the 14 communities alone.

In 1989, the 14 communities were asked to submit water use restriction plans to the MDPH. Non-essential uses include watering lawns, washing cars and filling swimming pools.

At present, there are no water pressure problems in Novi, nor were there any last summer, said Bruce Jerome, superintendent of public works, but "if we had the same conditions we had in 1988, there is a good chance we'd have pressure problems."

Peak demands in the city come in June, July and August, when residents use one-third more water. The Novi system relies on the Fourteen Mile Road water transmitter, but also ties in to Detroit through three Eight Mile Road transmitters.

Water pressure problems from the Fourteen Mile transmitter would first be felt in Novi at the Beachwalk Apartments in the north end, then could impact everything north of Twelve-and-A-Half Mile Road, Jerome said. An increased difficulty would be felt down to the Ten Mile Road area, bounded by Taft and Novi Roads.

"But residents might not even notice a pressure drop from 60 pounds, say, to 45 pounds," he added.

IS THIS WHAT YOU'RE LOOKING FOR?

Northville is fortunate to have a large number of dentists to choose from. As in any other business, each dental office has something different to offer. Some do discount work, some are "family dentists" (don't they work on single people?), some "cater to cowards", etc. This wide variety is good because not everybody looks for the same things from his dentist. The best situations occur when the patients find the dentist who provides what he is looking for in a dentist.

Two concepts are paramount for Dr. Joboulian and what he offers his patients:

1. Quality of care
2. Taking the time to listen to his patients and to explain options and fees

Those two points are the cornerstones of his practice.

That he has Saturday and evening hours, stresses prevention, checks for gum disease, accepts most dental insurance, has fifteen years experience, graduated from U-M Dental School, lives in Northville, etc., etc., are all of much lesser importance. After all, if the quality of care isn't there, or if he doesn't have time to listen to your concerns, what difference does it make what else a dentist offers?

So before you look for a dentist, think about what it is you want from him.

Bray to be presented 1990 alumnus award

Northville High School's Class of 1990 will present Dr. Dale Bray the Distinguished Alumnus Award during commencement exercises tomorrow.

The ceremonies are at 7 p.m. Friday at the high school athletic field. Bray is a 1959 graduate of Northville High School and was nominated for the award by Richard and Jeanne Ambler and Fred and Laura Hicks.

The Northville High School Distinguished Alumnus Award was established in 1983 to recognize the achievements of Northville High School graduates.

The selection committee, which includes students, staff and other community members, reviews the information submitted by the nominating parties. The selection is based on high school achievement and involvement, contributions to the community and society, awards, honors and public recognition, publications and professional associations.

Following Bray's graduation from Northville, he attended Western State Teachers College in Kalamazoo and earned a bachelor's degree in forestry from Michigan State University in 1947.

He served in the U.S. Army Field Artillery and Medical Corps from 1943 to 1945 in New Caledonia, Guadalcanal and the Philippines. After an honorable discharge in 1945, Bray went to work at St. Joseph National Forest and continued his education.

In 1949, Bray earned a master's degree in entomology from Michigan State and a doctorate in the same area from Rutgers University in 1954.

The Northville alumnus held a variety of teaching positions at the University of Delaware, eventually serving as professor and head of the university's entomology department from 1958-80.

While Bray was chairman of the department, undergraduate enrollment in the entomology major rose from seven students in 1958 to the highest in the nation — more than 90 — in 1976.

In his background information,

Bray said his career in entomology centered around teaching and Cooperative Extension Service, through which professionals offer direct service to growers, homeowners and commercial organizations.

Also among Bray's many accomplishments are several publications on insect-related topics.

Bray retired from the university in 1983 and currently owns Bray Entomology Service, a consulting agency for the pest control industry. He also serves as technical director and consultant for the Delaware Pest Control Association.

Bray is a member of several honor and professional societies as well as participates in many civic activities. He is listed in Marquis Who's Who in America, American Men of Science and Outstanding Educators of America.

In addition to the Northville award, Bray has received many honors, including colleagues at other institutions naming three species of insects in his honor.

"At first I didn't want to talk about our funerals.
But, now I'm glad we did."

We chose Forethought<sup>SM</sup>

funeral planning It's one of those things that's so easy to put off, put out of your mind. And I guess that's what I was doing. But, once he started asking me questions about how I wanted my funeral to be, I realized how important it is for the people we leave behind to know these things. He had no idea that I wanted a simple eulogy, and just that discussion alone started us on all sorts of other topics. I found out he doesn't like organ music. We even had a few laughs.

Forethought is funeral planning... before the need arises

I thought planning our funerals together would be a terribly sad thing. But, actually, it brought us both a great sense of relief. Now we know neither one of us has all those decisions facing us in the future and we won't have to second-guess whether we did the right thing...did what the other one would have wanted. It's all planned and even paid for with the Forethought life insurance policy designed and approved specifically for Forethought funeral planning. And, there's a policy available to anyone up to age 100. There's a real peace of mind that comes with having it taken care of ahead of time with Forethought. ©1988 Forethought, Policy Series A2 & A3

The Joker stopped by Northville High School last Friday to deliver invitations to the senior class to the All Night Party tomorrow night. Limousine driver Tom Henderson looks on.

Joker kicks off NHS party plans

By MAUREEN NASZRADI
Staff Writer

The Northville High School Class of 1990 roared a welcome last Friday as "The Joker" poked his head out of a limousine.

Ghoulish smile in place, "Batman's" nemesis in the recent hit movie pranced his way to the school cafeteria where he invited the seniors to their all-night party.

Only Northville graduating seniors are invited to attend the party at the high school from 9 p.m. tomorrow (after commencement exercises) through 4 a.m. Saturday.

The seniors had been awaiting the arrival of "something" while they lunched on the pizza provided by the junior class. After the traditional luncheon and invitation activities, the seniors were assigned their caps and gowns.

As dictated by tradition, the theme of the all-night party is kept secret from the graduating class. The Joker's appearance and the invitations they received, titled "Premier Night," were the seniors' first indications of what their parents have been planning for months.

Co-chairs of the event Carole Pappas and Dianne McCulloch said the first planning meeting was held in early November. Once the theme was decided, committees were formed and assigned specific projects that Friday will transform the high school into its theme.

"They're in for a big surprise," said Ardith Borgia, who chaired the committee in charge of distributing the invitations.

Northville High School has hosted a senior all-night party for 23 years — the oldest event of its type in the area.

"Since its inception the school can boast that no student has been seriously hurt or injured during the period of the party, a time when most accidents occur," said parent Susan Heintz.

"The all-night party encourages students to have a wonderful, safe graduation. That's why the parents are so enthusiastic about it."

As of last Friday approximately 90 percent of the class had purchased tickets.

"Our personal goal is to beat last year's percentage," Pappas and McCulloch said. Ninety-two percent of the 1989 graduates attended their party with a "Back to the Future" theme.

Scheduled attractions are a buffet, disc jockey, caricaturist, polaroid pictures, Star Trax, hypnotist, swimming, casino, movie, magician and breakfast.

Rules for the party listed on the invitation include: No one will be admitted after 10 p.m.; once you leave, you cannot return; all personal belongings, including purses, must be checked in at the door, and decorations may be removed after 3 a.m.

The party is funded entirely through the ticket sale proceeds and donations by individuals and local businesses, including materials for the decorations, approximately 200 prizes for the casino and food, Pappas said.

Lease agreement to open parking area

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

While larger parking plans are in the works, the city council last week approved a proposal to give city residents another place to park downtown.

The council agreed to lease the former Phil's 76 property at the corner of Main and Wing streets for parking, and exempt owner James Long and Long Development Company from property taxes and assessments while the property is being leased. The property taxes amount to $8.68 per day, or $3,168 per year.

The city would also accept all insurance and liability requirements for the parcel. In a letter to the council, Long wrote the city's lease would allow him to remove the fence currently around the property, which he said is there for liability purposes.

City Manager Steven Walters did not believe paving would be necessary to allow parking on the site. "We would do some minimal maintenance on it to make it useful," he told the council. "Gravelling may very well be sufficient."

Walters said Long would probably cancel the lease this fall, as he prepares to develop a proposed four-story retail/office complex along Main Street, between Wing Street and the south exit of the city parking lot.

Long first made the development proposal to the city in September, 1989. At that time, the council authorized Walters to develop a proposed property exchange with a Cady Street parcel owned by Long, and develop a parking credit agreement for the Main Street site. But Long has not yet applied to the planning commission for site plan approval.

Police chief list cut to eight

By MIKE TYREE
Staff Writer

Eight candidates have survived the initial cut of applicants for the Northville Township Police Chief position.

Township officials last week trimmed the police chief applicant list from 58 to eight in an effort find a replacement for former chief Kenneth Hardesty, who resigned in December.

Township Manager Richard Henningsen said eight candidates — and four alternates — were selected for further consideration because of strengths in educational background, job experience, the size of the department they are now heading up, leadership and resident compatibility.

A panel of local law enforcement personnel will begin an oral examination of the candidates June 19 and a recommendation to the township board is scheduled for July, he said.

Henningsen said the township is seeking a chief that possesses a variety of skills.

"We want an administrator as well as a person with police skills," he said. "We want a well-rounded person."

Five township officials took part in the initial round of applicant reviews, Henningsen said, including himself, Supervisor Georgina Goss, Treasurer Betty Lennox, Clerk Tom Cook and constable James Schrot.

The officials each selected candidates and then discussed the merits of their choices until they settled upon 18 names. The list was then whittled to eight, with four standbys, he said.

The law enforcement panel, comprised of public safety directors John Santomauro of Canton Township, and Bob Seifert of Oak Park, plus Donald Zimmerman, Bloomfield Township police chief, will interview the prospective chiefs and offer their insight to the township executive committee.

The township committee will then choose a candidate to recommend to the board, Henningsen said.

The remaining candidates are from this general area, he said, and the applicant interviews will "probably" be open to the public, he said.

The candidate selected to direct the police department will probably be offered a one year contract, Henningsen said. The job salary was set at $42,000-$52,000 when the position was posted earlier this year.

Finding the best eight candidates was not an easy chore, Henningsen said.

"The 56 people had a lot of experience, it was tough to choose from them," he said. "We need someone to fit the role."

A new chief would bring the total number of police personnel to 18, one under the amount recommended to staff the department.

RESTORING CHIPPED TEETH

If any of your teeth have been chipped in a fall or accident, they can be restored to a completely natural look with the new bonding technique.

This is a great advantage, particularly where your front teeth are concerned. Any flaw there shows every time you smile. But it doesn't have to. No one is more aware than the smile.

Only a minimum of tooth preparation is needed with the bonding technique. The dentist will use a small amount of a mild acid solution to make tiny openings in the tooth enamel on all sides of the chipped or fractured tooth. Then he'll use a special bonding material to seal off and rebuild the damaged area to make the tooth look "like new" again.

The acid used is so mild that there's no danger of injuring the healthy tooth enamel. And the restorative material used to repair and rebuild the tooth usually lasts for years.

Best of all, your teeth can look their best whenever you speak or flash a smile. Best of all, it can be done in one office visit.

Recreation field shortage faces area, director says

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

With summer just around the corner, Northville residents are looking forward to getting outside and swinging their bats, racquets or feet at a ball.

But according to Community Recreation Director John Anderson, there aren't enough fields in the community for all the would-be athletes, and the shortage will only get worse.

Anderson updated the city council last week on the need for recreation fields, presenting them with an inventory of the community's current supply of athletic fields, and a five-year projection of need.

According to his projections, the community will need another 13 baseball and softball diamonds in five years, and another nine soccer fields. The projections assume the loss of Lapham Field, Ford Field, and the fields at the Training Center site on either side of Sheldon Road. They also include a 5-percent growth in participation, with teams playing games twice a week.

This year, 91 teams are playing baseball and softball, and 36 playing soccer through the Community Recreation program.

Council members asked about a recent proposal to lease school land for recreation fields, but Anderson said the fields would not be available for long. "Dr. Bell said he could guarantee the use of fields there for two years, and that's the maximum guarantee he would give," he said.

The land could accommodate two soccer fields, Anderson said, but they would have to be developed at the expense of the recreation department. The department is still "trying to determine the wisdom of such an expense with a two-year guarantee," he said.

Said Chris Johnson, "So whatever investment that could be made by the recreation department isn't necessarily an investment that we would have for years to come."

Anderson also told the council a proposed wetlands mitigation project which would have made a Beck Road site in the township available for athletic fields had fallen through.

But according to a spokesperson for the developer seeking to develop an Eight Mile Road site, the mitigation proposal is alive and well. Development liaison Don Henkelman told the Northville Record last week the plan will be presented to the Department of Natural Resources within 30-45 days.

Under the proposal, a portion of protected wetlands would be moved from the site on Eight Mile and Haggerty roads to the township property on Beck Road.

Council Member Jerry Mittman asked Anderson about the existing athletic fields on the Wayne County Training School site, and pointed out that developer Robert DeMattia had been asked to replace the fields destroyed during redevelopment of the parcel.

DeMattia plans to build residential, recreational and light industrial developments on the 933-acre site. "But there's nothing binding on DeMattia's group," Anderson reminded the council. The training school had been owned by the county, not local authorities.

Anderson also said the long-anticipated loss of Lapham Field to residential development would happen soon, possibly as soon as this fall.

Mittman urged the recreation department to explore as many alternatives as possible to the current supply of fields. "We're looking at stuff we've known about for four or five years," he said, "and there's been little progress."

He advised Anderson to "keep as many oars in the water as possible."

NORTHVILLE CITY COUNCIL MINUTES SYNOPSIS

Mayor Johnson called the regular meeting of the Northville City Council to order in the Council Room at 8:00 p.m.

1. PLEDGE OF ALLEGIANCE:

2. ROLL CALL:

PRESENT: Mayor Christopher J. Johnson, Mayor Pro-Tem Carolyn Ayers, Councilmen Paul F. Folino, G. Dewey Gardner and Jerome J. Mittman.

3. AGENDA:

ALSO PRESENT: City Manager Steve Walters, City Clerk Cathy Konrad, Police Chief Rod Cannon, Recreation Director John Anderson, Senior Citizen Coordinator Keri Peters, Assessor Mark Christensen, Finance Director Bev Morrison, Steve Calline, Charles Keys, Judy Kohl, Kathleen Oton, Al Quelman, and Northville Record reporter Steve Kellman.

4. APPROVAL OF COUNCIL MEETING MINUTES: The minutes of the regular meeting of April 16, 1990, were approved as corrected and the minutes of the special meetings of April 17, 23, 25 & 30, 1990, were approved as submitted and placed on file.

5. CITIZEN COMMENTS: Catherine Stillec, 925 Grace, requested Grace Street be closed for a block party between Hill and Maplewood, on Saturday, May 19, 1990, between 2:00 p.m. and 11:00 p.m., in celebration of the graduating Medical Records students of Schoolcraft College.

Moved, supported, CARRIED UNANIMOUSLY, to close Grace Street for a block party on Saturday, May 19, 1990, between 2:00 p.m. and 11:00 p.m., with notification to the Police Department, Fire Department and Department of Public Works.

6. ADOPTION OF THE AGENDA & APPROVAL OF THE CONSENT AGENDA: Moved, supported, CARRIED UNANIMOUSLY, to approve the agenda as submitted and the consent agenda A, through J.

7. SCOUT BUILDING: Walters reviewed his memo regarding the Scout Building parking survey and plans for providing 52 or 31 parking spaces along the side and back of building. The plans provide for an east exit, thereby solving a traffic flow problem. Assigning 10-12 handicapped spaces could be provided during the week-day and day-time hours. Fencing could be constructed across the back of the parking lot with a gate access to the rear of the property.

After discussion by City Council and the audience, Walters developed Scheme C that showed parking along the driveway and a short row south of the building.

Johnson suggested proceeding with Scheme C, as proposed by the City Manager, designate some parking on Cedar Street as handicapped, and bring back to Council by June 4.

Mittman asked Council to consider designating remaining rear area of the property as a park after the parking lot was determined.

8. FORD HERITAGE TRAIL PROJECT: Moved, supported, CARRIED UNANIMOUSLY, to approve the City's contribution of $1,000 for fliers for the Ford Heritage Trail project.

9. ADMINISTRATIVE SALARIES: Johnson noted the Personnel Committee will be submitting their recommendation for the City Manager's salary at the May 22 meeting.

Moved, supported, CARRIED, to set the 1989-90 administrative salaries as presented, effective 7/1/89.

10. CALL PUBLIC HEARING RE REALLOCATION OF BLOCK GRANT FUNDS: Moved, supported, CARRIED UNANIMOUSLY, to call a public hearing for May 22, 1990, at 8:00 p.m. to consider reallocating $80,000 from the City Hall Barrier Free Project to the City Wide Barrier Free Sidewalk Project.

11. CALL PUBLIC HEARING TO REPEAL CITY CODE SECTION 2-206, UNCLAIMED PROPERTY AND ADD TITLE 6, CHAPTER 3, LOSS PROPERTY: Moved, supported, CARRIED UNANIMOUSLY, to call a public hearing for May 22, 1990, at 8:45 p.m. to consider repealing the City Property Ordinance, Section 2-206, and add Title 6, Chapter 3, Loss Property Ordinance.

12. 1990-91 CITY BUDGET REVIEW: Walters noted questions on the material sent out could be discussed at the May 14 meeting.

13. COUNCIL COMMENTS: Mittman suggested department heads appear periodically at the Council meetings to discuss general business. (i.e. Recreation, D.P.W., Police). Johnson felt this was a good idea on an as needed basis.

Gardner noted there was a good possibility that he would be out of town for the meeting on May 22. Ayers will also be out of town. Folino, Johnson, and Mittman plan on attending.

Walters asked who would like to attend Mayor Exchange in Ferndale? Johnson will be in Ferndale and Folino will try to change his schedule to host here. Ayers will be out of town.

14. CLOSED SESSION: PROPERTY ACQUISITION Johnson adjourned the regular meeting at 9:45 p.m. for the closed session and noted that Council would not take any action afterwards.

There being no further business to be discussed by City Council, Mayor Johnson adjourned the regular meeting of Monday, May 7, 1990, at 9:45 p.m.

Top students honored

By MAUREEN NASZRADI
Staff Writer

The nine academic standouts at Northville High School will stand together at commencement exercises tomorrow.

The six valedictorians and three salutatorians agreed to combine their creativity in a unique Class of 1990 address. Ceremonies will begin at 7 p.m. Friday at the high school athletic field.

The five valedictorians, who earned a 4.0 grade point average during their high school careers, are Manpreet Bagga, Julie Howard, Katie Kemp, George Pappas, Diane Robinson and Angela Vitale.

The three salutatorians, who earned all but two "As" during their four years at the high school, are Debbie Buell, Amy McManus and Stephanie Wood.

The top nine of 272 members of the Class of 1990 recently talked about how hard they studied, their plans to continue their education and the activities they enjoyed during their high school years.

While at Northville, Bagga played varsity tennis and served as president of the Northville chapter of the National Honor Society. She said she worked very hard to earn all "As."

"I spent a lot of hours (studying)," Bagga said. "I feel that I could have worked harder for other things that I might have missed."

Bagga plans to study biological sciences at the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor.

Howard will attend Kalamazoo College, concentrating in the health sciences or pre-med areas.

She took being named valedictorian in stride.

"I've made 'As' my whole life. I didn't really think about grades or the title," Howard said.

"I just try my hardest," Howard said. She was a member of the varsity tennis team, the honor society and SADD (Students Against Drunk Driving). She also served as treasurer of her class for three years and competed in writing contests.

Like Bagga, Kemp plans to attend Michigan. She said she is undecided about a major, possibly a language.

Kemp said she had "lots of fun, as well as hard work," during her high school career. A cheerleader her freshman year, Kemp later joined the gymnastics and tennis teams.

In her sophomore and junior years, Kemp served as vice president, then president of her class. She performed in the high school musicals and was a member of the honor society.

"Maybe I studied more than some people, but I didn't necessarily miss anything. I don't feel I missed out," Kemp said.

Pappas also will attend Michigan. He plans to study medicine.

He said he did not expect to be a valedictorian when he came to the high school four years ago.

"After I earned all 'As' the first semester of my freshman year, I realized the potential was there. So I kept it up," he said.

Pappas was vice president of his class, a member of the honor society and served on the student council for three years.

Robinson also is considering studying medicine when she goes to Michigan in the fall.

A varsity cheerleader for three years, she was a member of SADD and the honor society. She said earning good grades taught her a lot of self-discipline.

"I put in a lot of late nights (studying). You wear yourself thin a lot of times," she said.

Vitale moved to Northville in her junior year. She said when her high grades transferred, she began in earnest attempting for all 'As'.

She plans to attend Michigan to study medicine and is considering a minor in language. Vitale was a member of the tennis and soccer teams, the honor society and design crew for "West Side Story."

Buell said when notified that she was a salutatorian, she was "shocked. I didn't expect it," she said. "I never thought about it."

Buell plans to attend Michigan State University, most likely to study hotel and restaurant management. She was a member of the honor society and the swim team for four years, which called for "lots of workout time."

McManus said, "I tried to get involved in other things besides grades." She worked on the yearbook staff for four years, as co-editor-in-chief the last two.

Her activities included choir, volleyball, forensics and equestrian teams. McManus also was a member of the honor society and performed in "The Sound of Music."

She wants a career in nursing and plans to earn her bachelor's and master's degrees at Michigan.

Wood said she is still deciding whether she wants to major in accounting at Michigan State or Central Michigan University.

She worked on the Mustanger staff for two years and as treasurer for the newspaper most of that time. Wood was a member of the honor society and the Quiz Bowl team, representing Northville in "Jeopardy-like" competition with other schools.

Township will purchase vote tabulation system

By MIKE TYREE
Staff Writer

After watching mechanical malfunctions force election employees to hand-count ballots in two recent elections, the township Board of Trustees May 24 approved the purchase of a new ballot tabulation system.

But the township may not have to spend the $33,273 allotted for the equipment.

Clerk Tom Cook said last week the township will lease election equipment for the Aug. 7 primary and will ask for state certification of its computer system to avoid having to bring in a separate system for elections.

"We're going to petition the state to recognize the computers in-house for certification," he said. "If the state says we can use our computers, it will cut our cost dramatically."

Cook said the equipment in a bid by Doubleday Bros. & Co. includes a computer, keyboard and printer that the township would not need if the state recognizes the township's computer system as sufficient.

The township does need a card reader, he said, but costs could be cut by 33-67 percent if the township does not need to purchase all the additional hardware.

Deputy Clerk Eunice Switzler said the chances are good the state would certify the township computer system.

"It has to be IBM compatible," she said. "They wouldn't certify it only if it did not comply with state requirements."

Cook said the lease deal with Doubleday includes all the equipment needed to handle the primary election. He said the company will provide technical staff to ensure the ballot counting will proceed without interruption.

Switzler said the receipt of state certification after the primary could mean the township would have its own equipment — plus a new automatic card reading system — on line by the November election.

A faulty card reading machine has plagued the township recently, including the evening of the May 1 Haller Library election. Elections workers had to hand-count over 3,000 ballots on that occasion and did not complete all their chores until almost midnight.

Officer appeals suspension

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

A Northville City police officer suspended for 15 days without pay will pursue his appeal of the suspension to an outside arbitrator, said the head of the Northville Patrol Officers Association (NPOA).

NPOA President Bill Edgar, whose union local represents Patrolman Hugh Jordan, said Jordan's 15-day suspension in March and April was "too harsh" considering the offense.

"The city says that he didn't follow certain rules in terms of when he made an arrest and secured a vehicle," Edgar said.

"The city was rightfully concerned," he admitted. "What we're saying is, 'Okay, we have a potential problem here,' but the 15 days is a little bit too harsh."

City officials originally said the grievance against Jordan was for "neglect of duty," but refused to specify further, citing the potential for legal action by Jordan.

According to Edgar, the suspension stemmed from Jordan's Feb. 12 traffic arrest of a suspect and his failure to assure that her vehicle was secured before leaving the scene.

Edgar said Jordan asked the owner if her vehicle was secure, and she said it was. But the vehicle was left unlocked and with its lights on, and the keys were left in the car. "They were actually in a glovebox," Edgar said. "They weren't in plain view."

Another police officer noticed the car sitting on the side of the road with its lights on, and he stopped to investigate. When he saw the car was unlocked and found the keys in the glove compartment, he reported it.

The union is seeking to have Jordan's suspension reduced to three days, his lost salary from the other 12 days repaid, and his loss of seniority reinstated. "The loss of pay is significant," Edgar said.

According to Police Chief Rodney Cannon, Jordan has been reprimanded by the police department before, and a suspension was the next step in the police department's disciplinary procedure. "He's had other problems, and so this is a progressive-type thing," Cannon said.

But he said the length of the suspension was not based on a specific disciplinary requirement. "Fifteen days is not a magical number," Cannon said. "It could have been 30 days, it could have been six weeks. It could have been a couple of days."

Jordan's appeal of his suspension was heard by the city council Monday, June 11. At Jordan's request, the hearing was closed.

At the end of the hearing, the council decided to uphold the grievance against Jordan.

"Eventually, it'll get to arbitration," Edgar said. But he did not believe the case would go beyond that, no matter what the decision by the arbitrator. "Usually the arbitration is the final decision," he said.

Winners keep Northville beautiful

Northville Township and the City of Northville recently presented Beautification Awards to selected winners in each community. A joint luncheon honoring the winners was held in conjunction with the Northville Rotary Club on Tuesday, June 5.

The Northville Beautification Annual Award program is designed to enhance and preserve the attractiveness of the Northville community. Twice each year, members of the Northville Beautification commissions (City and Township) inspect the exteriors of commercial, industrial and institutional properties and judge their appearance. Special attention is given to overall appearance, windows, landscaping (if applicable) and sanitation. Using a uniform and standard point system, values are given for each applicable category for all the properties that are judged in the community.

The points are tallied after the second inspection, usually done in April or May, and the award winners are selected based upon their total points.

There has been an increase in the number of recipients as more and more owners are improving their properties, and that pride is also apparent with residential property owners as well.

This is the second time the city and township have combined presentations at a luncheon.

Winners from the Township of Northville were:

Angela Carson Photography; Belanger Inc.; Cedar Lake Apartments; CJM Farms; Clancy DDS; Coldwell Banker; Comerica; Consignment Clothes; Doherty Supplies, Inc.; Ehlerdt DDS; Family Health Center; Geake DVM; Gerald's of Northville; Grande Marketing; Highland Lake Florist; KinderCare; Manufacturers National Bank; Maybury State Park; McDonald Restaurant; Meadowbrook Country Club; Michigan National Corp.; Normac Co.; Northrop Funeral Home; Northville Forest Apartments; Northville Professional Building; Our Lady of Providence; Rifles; Rymal Symes Realtors; Silver Springs School; Urban's Partitions; and Winchester Elementary.

City of Northville winners were: Aitchison House Bed and Breakfast; Belanger's (Mr. Glow Car Wash); Brickscape, Inc.; Country Fare; Demray, Wm. S. DDS; E. Christie; Edward's Caterer; First United Methodist Church; Four Seasons Flowers; Hardee's; Jerome and Samhat, Attorneys; Long Fancy Bath Boutique; Morrison's Antiques; Mountain Rags; Northville Downs; Orin Jewelers; Peddlers Four; Pizza Cutter; St. Paul's Lutheran Church; Traditions.

Special recognition awards in the city were given to: Community Credit Union, for their new building and landscaping; Main Centre sales office, for special effort for a temporary relocation; Northville Camera, overall restoration of building; and Northville Collision for overall restoration of building.

The Northville Township Beautification Commission members are: Catherine Sellas, chairperson; Wray Pomeroy, vice chairperson; Judy Jambor, secretary; Carol Couse, treasurer; Donald DiComo; Wil Gertz; Barbara O'Brien; Carole Pappas; John Sassaman; Dr. Nicholas Sellas and Donald Williams.

City of Northville Beautification Commission members are: G. Dewey Gardner, chairperson; Martha Walters, vice chairperson; Karen Frisbie, secretary; Liz Ellison; Andrea Graham; John Haas; Robert Horner; Charlene Hugener; Patricia Johnson; Carmin Kuckenbecker and Marie Schultz.

Law is remote, challenger says

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

Kathleen Keen-McCarthy, the Plymouth Township resident challenging Rep. Gerald Law (R-Plymouth) for his 36th District seat, charged Law with a "lack of accessibility" to his constituents.

"That's the key thing I notice, is the lack of accessibility to our representative, Gerry Law," she said.

But Law refuted those charges, saying "I'm about as accessible as can be."

Keen-McCarthy, 37, a registered Republican, said she has become more responsive to the district through her involvement in community affairs. "Particularly in the Canton area, I'm out and involved in the community," she said.

She has lived in Plymouth Township since 1974, and worked at Oakwood Hospital since 1986, where she is the associate administrator for ambulatory care. "One of my major responsibilities is the Canton Health Center," she added.

Through the hospital, Keen-McCarthy has worked for the Canton Country Festival, the Canton Fun Run and other community activities.

With her background in the health profession, Keen-McCarthy is concerned about the availability of health care in the district. "I feel that health care in the '90s is going to be a major issue affecting people in our district," she said. "Nationally, 37 million people don't have health insurance."

Locally, Keen-McCarthy is concerned about the need for health care because of the growth in small businesses in the Plymouth and Canton area, and the difficulty that small business owners have footing the bill for employee health insurance.

She is also concerned with education and the way it is financed in the district, and the growing problem with solid and toxic waste disposal.

"I think that there are a lot of ideas out there," she said. "I'm not going to stand here and say that I have the answers to all the problems in the world, but I think I have some fresh ideas and that people in the district have some answers that aren't being heard."

But Law said he is available to constituents through the government meetings he attends, and through living in the community. "My home (phone) number is printed, and I have a recorder there," he said.

Law pointed out that he commutes to Lansing from the Plymouth-Canton area, where he has lived for 18 years. He has been involved in local and state government for the past 12 years, and a representative for four terms.

"I'm running against an opponent whom I've never met, except for one time," he said. "Who is this individual?"

"Maybe she thinks my role is to run around with a badge at community events," Law said. "To me that's just being political. I do not prefer to appear at events for political reasons."

Law said he would rather appear at functions that he has been invited to than show up at events unannounced.

"If that's what she means about being accessible, then we have two different ideas of what the job calls for," he said.

City disturbed by insurance cost hikes

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

The increasing cost of financial peace of mind has some Northville officials disturbed.

The city council was told last week of a 50-percent increase in insurance costs since last year, when asked to renew the city's liability insurance policy with the Michigan Municipal Risk Management Authority.

The authority's proposal calls for a $80,713 charge for liability insurance this year, a $27,099 increase over last year's $53,614 charge.

"I assume you found it as unsettling as I did," City Manager Steven Walters told the council Monday night. "It's such a significant increase."

Though the increase is substantial, Walters said the city is not the only municipality dealing with increasing insurance costs.

"It's not out of line with other cities in this risk pool," he said.

Walters could not explain why the insurance costs had gone up so much. He said the hike happened "without anything major happening on our part."

Walters said the administration would contact the insurance carrier and find out why the increase was so large. He added the contract renewal, which is due by July 1, may have to be postponed while other options are explored. "Because it's so large, we need more time," he said. "It's not enough time between now and July 1 for us to examine our alternatives."

City Clerk Cathy Konrad, who contacted the insurance carrier after the new rate was announced, said the increase was not due to a problem on the city's part. "It's not because of our claims or anything like that, it's that they're raising our fees," she said. "It's just a restructuring of their fees."

Konrad said the carrier will send the city a letter explaining the increase this week.

The Michigan Municipal Risk Management Authority provides risk management services and self-insurance protection against loss to cities, townships and counties in the state.

Voters retain board members

Incumbents Monday earned votes of approval at polls in Northville and Novi school districts.

In both districts, Board of Education members running unopposed were returned to their seats for another four years.

In the Novi Community School District, Robert Schram received 87 votes to retain one open board seat, according to an unofficial count. The county Board of Carrvassers is expected to confirm the results within 10 days.

In Northville, unofficial tallies show 160 residents voted for Glenn Davis while 153 endorsed Joseph Dunkerley Jr.

Voters could elect one or both candidates. Also, there were four write-in candidates.

Church lot plan snagged again

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

Our Lady of Victory's ongoing parking lot renovation suffered a setback at the planning commission meeting last Tuesday, when the commissioners withheld site plan approval because of changes made to the plan.

The church has been renovating the parking lot since 1985, when it first applied to the city for approval of the project. In 1989, Building Inspector Joseph Attard recommended several changes to the plan.

"What you have before you is our response to the city's concerns over our ongoing renovation project," Pat Kennedy, a volunteer with Our Lady of Victory, told the commission Tuesday. He said the church was asking for approval "so that we can wrap up our renovation project and secure from the city a final certificate of occupancy."

But planning consultant Don Wortman and the commissioners noted several changes to the original site plan, including the removal of several planting islands around light poles which had been included on the original plan. The islands would have provided much of the "internal" landscaping for the parking lot that is required under the city's new zoning ordinances.

Said Wortman, "The long and short of this is that approximately 1,000 square feet of landscaping internal is required. This is over and above the landscaping along the perimeter."

Kennedy said the church officials decided against the planters because they were worried about erosion problems if holes were cut in the pavement.

The commissioners also noted a marked difference in the plan. "I remember when it came through the first time," said Commissioner David Totten. "But we thought we got everything settled at that time, and this is quite a change from that."

The commission voted to return the site plan to Our Lady of Victory until Wortman's recommendations were met and the necessary number of handicapped spaces were determined and met.

Another question the commissioners asked was whether the plan must conform to the city's old zoning ordinances or the new ordinance, which was revised in 1989.

The commissioners told Kennedy if the original site plan is followed, it must meet the city's old zoning ordinances. But if the church follows the revised site plan, the commission could require the project to meet the new ordinance.

"I took this as a revised site plan," said Wortman.

The church can also petition the Board of Zoning Appeals for variances from the ordinance.

Art, music fest set

The first festival of summer, "Summer Song" fills the streets of downtown Northville on June 23. Streets will be closed to automobile traffic and replaced with exhibits by local and midwestern artists. Numerous booths will occupy the downtown area with exhibits ranging from quilts to jewelry and antiques. There will be plenty of food to appeal to everyone's tastes. A steam cal-lope will be featured along with free musical performances in the downtown band shell. Joe Vitale and his orchestra featuring the big band sound, are scheduled to appear.

No admission is required for either the band performances or the festival itself.

For more information contact the Northville Chamber of Commerce at 349-7640.

Masons host July 4 meal

The public is invited to attend the Annual 4th of July breakfast at the Northville Masonic Temple, 106 E. Main Street, and enjoy the new expanded menu which is being offered by Union Chapter No. 55, Royal Arch Masons, according to past presiding Excellent High Priest Herman A.

Serving will commence at 6:30 a.m. and continue until parade time, featuring an "All You Can Eat" menu of pancakes, scrambled eggs, hash brown potatoes, ham, orange juice and coffee, tea or milk, all for the cost of $3.25 per adult and $1.50 for children up to and including the age

Library Notes

GENEALOGICAL SOCIETY — The Northville Genealogical Society will meet at Mill Race Village tonight, June 14, at 7:30 p.m. This month's program is entitled "Bring and Brag." Gather your photographs, relics, and experiences in genealogical research to share with others. Meetings will resume in September but activities such as a cemetery reading will continue through the summer. For more information, call 348-1857 or 349-3020.

PRESCHOOL STORYTIME — Northville Public Library's Preschool Storytime registration began on Thursday, June 7, for children 3½ to 5 years of age. Sessions will be held on Tuesdays, June 19 and 26 and July 10 and 17 at 10:30 a.m. and 1 p.m. for those that find afternoons more convenient. Please register only for those sessions which your child will be able to attend and arrive at least 5-10 minutes early. Parents must remain in the library during these half-hour programs. For more information, visit the library or call 349-3020.

SUMMER READING PROGRAM — Northville Public Library's 1990 summer reading program will have a culinary theme. Elementary school-age readers are invited to join the very popular program entitled this year, "Batches of Books." Six special presentations will include edible experiments, science, magic, juggling, safety tips, and participation in Northville's Fourth of July parade. Programs will take place on Wednesdays at 2 p.m., June 20 through July 25.

Children who are not yet reading may enroll in the "Reading-to-Me" program. Young listeners will keep a record of favorite books which have been read to them by their parents.

Participants of both "Batches of Books" and "Read-to-Me" programs will receive small prizes and certificates. Registration begins June 15 and will continue until June 29. For more information visit the library or call 349-3020.

COMPUTER PIX — The Northville Public Library will offer the popular Computer Pix for Young Adults again this summer. Sixth through 12th grade readers are invited to let the computer pick and print-out a list of books tailored to their personal tastes and interests. Forms may be submitted as often as you like throughout the summer. For more information, visit the library or call 349-3020.

Sgt. defends 'good police work'

Fendelet was responding to a recent charge by a Northville teenager that local police were harassing area youths suspected of involvement with the vandals. The youth, who asked to remain anonymous, said police were repeatedly stopping vehicles driven by certain local youth and had made threatening remarks.

Fendelet said police originally believed there were just a few youth involved in Smooth Criminal activity, but later information suggested more people were involved. Now, he said, police believe fewer people are involved.

"After doing a bit more looking into this, it looks like a handful (of people)," he said, "not eight or 10 or 12."

Fendelet said it was only natural for police to pay closer attention to potential suspects, and that information provided to the police department had implicated a group of local youth in the recent wave of vandalism, break-ins and other crimes.

"Once intelligence information is received . . . it behooves the police department and its personnel, in this case the police officers, to absorb that information and consider it," Fendelet said.

"The more information they have, the more they're going to be aware of people, certain people that could be involved . . . That's human nature, and in this case, that's police nature."

But he denied that increased police attention amounted to police harassment. "Are people that aren't involved being picked on? I don't think so," he said.

"But if violations are occurring, of course (police officers are) going to do something about it. That's their job."

"It's just good, aggressive police work."

Youths allege harassment incidents

ship police department would not say if any or all of the youth's comments were legitimate.

"I can't confirm or deny the names of the people (reported to be suspects)," he said. "The investigations are ongoing."

Sherman would not say if police have compiled a list of suspected Smooth Criminals.

The youth said Smooth Criminals began spray-painting buildings with their logo and threatening police after some of the members had run-ins with city and township police.

"It started out that they hated cops before they made up the name," he said. "Some of them kind of like the publicity."

The youth said the impression that the Smooth Criminals worked as a gang was not always accurate.

"You can't really call it a gang," he said. "Sometimes they were together, sometimes they were separate."

He said a person acting alone reportedly spray-painted tombstones at Rural Hill Cemetery in late May.

He said he did not know who spray-painted township police cars early April 26, but he said recent acts of vandalism were not the work of Smooth Criminals.

"Meadowbrook and the burned apartment weren't the Smooth Criminals," he said, alluding to a damaged golf course and a boarded township apartment that burned last month.

"Those were done by younger kids that just wanted to use the name."

The youth said he has not told his story to police because the police are allegedly hostile toward him and his friends.

He said the youths not directly associated with the Smooth Criminals have important reasons for wanting to avoid the group.

"Some of us are going to have jobs that we can't get with a (police) record," he said.

County of Wayne, 600 Randolph, Detroit, Michigan 48226
TO ALL INTERESTED AGENCIES, GROUPS AND PERSONS:
On or about July 2, 1990, the above named County will request the U. S. Department of Housing & Urban Development to release federal funds under Title 1 of the Housing & Community Development Act of 1974 (PL 93-383) for the following project accordingly:

1. PROJECT: The purchase of two Automated External Defibrillators.
LOCATION: The Automated External Defibrillators will be housed at 43515 W. Seven Mile Road.

PURPOSE: The primary purpose of the Automated External Defibrillators is to improve the survival rates due to pre-hospital cardiopulmonary arrest, primarily for citizens over 62 years of age.

COST: The cost of the Automated External Defibrillators is approximately $14,862.97.

2. It has been determined that such request for release of funds will not constitute an action significantly affecting the quality of the human environment and, accordingly, the County of Wayne has decided not to prepare an Environmental Impact Statement under the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969 (PL 91-190). The reason for this decision not to prepare such a statement is that the purchase of two Automated External Defibrillators will not negatively impact the environment. An Environmental Review Record respecting the above project has been made by the County of Wayne which documents the environmental review of the project and more fully sets forth the reasons why such Statement is not required. This Environmental Review Record is on file at the above address and is available for public examination and copying, upon request, at the office of the Charter Township of Northville located at 41600 Six Mile Road, Northville, Michigan 48167 between the hours of 8:00 a.m. and 5:00 p.m. Monday through Friday. No further environmental review of such project is proposed to be conducted, prior to the request for Release of Federal Funds. All interested agencies, groups and persons disagreeing with this decision are invited to submit written comments for consideration by the County of Wayne to the office of the undersigned. Such written comments should be received at L-13 Wayne County Building, Detroit, Michigan 48216 on or before June 29, 1988. All such comments so received will be considered and the Township will not request the Release of Federal Funds or take administrative action on the within project prior to the date specified in the preceding sentence.

3. CERTIFICATION: The County of Wayne will undertake the project described above with the Block Grant funds from the U. S. Department of Housing & Urban Development (HUD) under Title 1 of the Housing & Urban Development Act of 1974. The County of Wayne is certifying to HUD that the County of Wayne and Executive Edward H. McNamara in his capacity as County Executive, consent to accept the jurisdiction of the Federal courts if an action is brought to enforce responsibilities in relation to environmental reviews, decision-making, and action, and that these responsibilities have been satisfied. The legal effect of the certification is that upon its approval, the County of Wayne may use the Block Grant funds, and HUD will have satisfied its responsibilities under the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969. HUD will accept an objection to its approval of the release of funds and acceptance of the certification only if it is one of the following bases:

a) That the certification was not in fact executed by the Chief Executive Officer of the applicant; or
b) That the applicant's environmental review record for the project indicates omission of a required decision, finding or step applicable to the project in the environmental review process.

Objection must be prepared and submitted in accordance with the required procedure (24FR Part 58), and may be addressed to HUD at: 15th Floor, McNamara Building, 477 Michigan Avenue, Detroit, Michigan 48226. Objections to the release of funds on the basis other than those stated above will not be considered by HUD. No objection received after July 17, 1990 will be considered by HUD.

Police chief candidates need thorough review

Township officials last week pared from 56 to eight the applicants for the vacant police chief position.

The quick action to reduce the list of candidates — after a May 25 application deadline — to a workable number is an indication the township wants to settle the sometimes turbulent waters of its police department within the next month.

The eight candidates are scheduled to be reviewed by a panel of law enforcement officials from neighboring communities in an attempt to locate an officer with the correct mixture of police and administrative savvy to lead an evolving department into the 1990s.

The panel is then supposed to pass the results of its review on to the township executive committee, which will forward a recommendation to the township board.

We'd like to throw our two cents in as the decision process begins.

Modernization of the department was recommended by the 1988 Bartell Study. Voters have approved police millages and township police seem to have strong support from the community. Owners of large houses and beautiful lawns like to feel secure that criminal-element types aren't eyeing their possessions.

The township is changing and so too must the top slot in the police department. The new chief must have the ability to grasp ever-changing law enforcement techniques, deal with unionized employees — including unionized employees who have been with the department for a number of years — and retain the trust and respect of said employees while dealing with politicians on the other side of the township hall.

A tall order to be sure. The juggling act for the chief will be to keep everyone that counts happy, all the while dealing with a one-year contract.

The township will be attempting to avoid, at all costs, hiring the type of chief that may be susceptible to the pratfalls that claimed two chiefs in the last decade.

We ask that the new chief be a dynamic leader who does not feel a need to kowtow to the politicians. Yes, he or she should know who the bosses are, but also should be the type who isn't afraid to speak up when the need arises. Respect comes from sticking to convictions that are proven correct through careful consideration. Remember, a solid police department is one of the few things a tax-weary community will always support.

We ask that the new chief be willing to make himself a member of the community through strong involvement with local residents, schools and organizations. The chief's leadership abilities should reflect the attitude of the department toward the community.

We ask the new chief to review the procedures now in place concerning public access to police records and information. This newspaper has a basic disagreement with the department over the dissemination of information, and we do not agree with opinions and procedures which attempt to limit the public's right to know. Flawed policies can be reviewed and modified and we respectfully ask the chief's cooperation in this important matter.

Finally, we ask the public to follow the progress of the police chief search and forward questions and comments to the township. Attend the chief nomination at the township board meeting (most likely in July) and voice your opinion. After all, you will be his real boss.

Discussion needed now on new library location

"Hurry up and wait" seems to be the key phrase when it comes to discussions about new locations for the Northville Public Library.

After months of suffering through a "hurry" mode when the Haller Library proposal was before voters, we seem to be in a "wait" mode while township officials wait for a more appropriate time to renew talks with Frieda Haller, and city officials wait for township officials.

Why all the waiting? There is no question the community needs more library space. During last week's city council meeting Library Director Pat Orr reiterated the need for increased space. Orr said the shortage of space that has plagued the facility for years has only gotten worse. She's right. Anyone who has stepped inside the door of the Northville Library is immediately aware of the glaring need for a bigger library.

The question of space was not really the factor in the defeat of the Haller proposal on May 1. The questions of money and location were.

So why aren't we working toward a solution to those two factors? Why aren't civic leaders from the township and the city working together at finding a solution to the library space crunch? Why aren't community residents working together to find a solution to the library space crunch? Why are we waiting?

Wouldn't it be a shame if sometime in September another proposal is quickly put before township voters in an effort to meet the Haller deadline? Wouldn't it be a shame if residents turned it down, again, because all the alternatives had not been explored fully?

Let's get to work right now and explore some alternatives. Informed voters make the best decisions. Hurried voters make the worst decisions. Let's stop waiting for the other guy to act and start working toward a common community-wide decision, before all our options dry up.

Ann Willis

When did life get so complicated?

I love to play softball. When I was small I played a lot of softball. It was a summertime thing to do. I played for the Rubies in the St. Eugene's girls' softball league in Detroit. We had shirts and hats and our parents came to the games and when we won (and sometimes even when we lost) we went to the Dairy Queen for ice cream. Things were pretty simple.

Now I play on a coed team in the Northville Community Recreation League. We had to buy our own shirts (this required way too many math skills for a bunch of writers), we had to set up our own practices (for a group with such lousy social lives this proved impossible) and we had to deal with a bunch of rules that seemed genuinely bizarre.

In coed softball they try to even up the advantages men have over women in athletics, at least in the minds of the rule-creators. A woman must catch if a man pitches. A man must catch if a woman pitches. There must be two women in the outfield. If you walk a man, the woman who bats after him walks too. Already we were confused.

Perhaps the biggest rule change for me was the one that required men to hit a softball that was actually bigger than the softball women hit. The idea being that men hit the ball farther than women and the bigger ball would slow those hits down some.

I think the whole thing has gotten way out of hand. Whatever happened to the adage "may the best team win"?

If a man hits the ball further than a woman, fine. In softball it is extremely difficult to hit the ball beyond the fielders. Do it once and they back up and wait for you. But so what if he hits it out there? That's a justifiable home run in my book.

I am better at softball than some men. A whole lot of men are better than I am. I am better at softball than some women. A whole lot of women are better at softball than me. That's life. I'm willing to play with the deck I've been handed. Why stack it?

Apparently there are teams out there that would take advantage of a straight-on softball game. You know, pitch around the men so that only the women get a decent ball to hit. Then, because the women can't hit anyway, you'll win. Apparently there are teams that wouldn't let women fielders actually get near the ball if there weren't rules. I say people like that may exist, but they sure wouldn't have fun on any coed team I've ever played on.

I figure if you want to play with only the "top" athletes in your gender you'll join a different league. I can't imagine the women on a coed team allowing their male teammates to catch balls for them. What fun would that be? Better to kick the ball or have it bounce off your head — that's why we're playing, right?

We're playing to have fun, get a little exercise and eat a little ice cream. It's simple, really.

I guess everyone has had those days where it just seems like you'll never be able to leave work. But this was a little ridiculous.

Byrne, who had more faith in their handyman abilities than the rest of us, tried to take the lock apart and fix it. Again, no luck, and again, they took off.

Not that I blamed them. As the ranking staff member present — my immediate boss, Ann Willis, had of course skated out the door minutes before it broke — I knew it was up to me to confront this crisis. Alone.

Last Thursday evening, just as I was getting ready to go home, someone yelled up from downstairs — where our door is — that they couldn't get out. Sure enough, the lock seemed stuck in a locked position; no matter which way we twisted the little knob, the door would not open.

Well, this is pretty stupid, I thought. We're trapped. Okay, maybe not trapped — we have two fire exits — but we sure can't get out the way we're supposed to. Nor can we get in.

There were about five of us to start with. Sheila Phillips went out one of the fire exits and came around to the other side of the door to try her key. No luck, so she just abandoned the rest of us to an

The more I thought about it, the stupider it got. We don't have the keys to the fire exits; I checked every one I could find, all the way down to my apartment keys, just in case. Nope. Since I wasn't about to leave one of those doors unlocked all night, I couldn't even wait and deal with the problem in the morning. If I'd gone out the fire exit and locked the door behind me, we might never have gotten in again. And we had, as always, a paper to get out.

So there I was, eyeball to eyeball with every employee's nightmare: I literally could not leave!

Thank heaven the Northville Locksmith was working late that night, and would be able to come out after taking care of another job. In the meantime

I amused myself with a series of phone calls to my fiancée, who told me all about the great dinner I was missing, and to Ann's answering machine, which told me nothing.

The locksmith showed up as promised, and eventually got the door open, and the lock fixed by replacing the entire bolt assembly. "What happened?" I asked as I glared at the innocent-looking hunk of metal he handed me. "It just gave out," he shrugged.

So I did finally get to leave, about 2 1/2 hours after I planned to. The office opened right on schedule Friday morning. And I came away from the whole affair having learned several valuable lessons:

1. Answering machines are very little help when you want to talk to someone NOW. 2. Murphy was right. 3. There's a good reason Steve and Rick are journalists, not locksmiths.

And I suppose I could add: 4. Never, ever leave work after your boss. Trust me; I know.

History note

To the Editor:
As president of the Northville Historical Society I would like to take this opportunity to comment on the article you published June 4, 1990 on the "Thornton" house. First and foremost the family and the home are Thornton, not as you published it. Anyone who has been in the area for even a short time is probably aware of this, but I felt we needed to set the record straight.

Secondly, the Northville Historical Society was approached in late 1987 by Mr. Arkin regarding his desire to move the Thornton home from his property. At that time our Society had just completed the move of our newest acquisition, the Cady Inn. That move, which was two blocks, cost us almost $15,000 and the city donated the house. The Cady Inn move depleted any budget we might have had to move anything else. Additionally the Mill Race Village is limited in space and with the addition of an already promised Interurban Station (very small) we have reached maximum capacity. The Village, I am sure you know, operates as a location for community recreational activities and the green must remain open to accommodate these programs.

We at the Society have long been concerned about the Thornton home. Anyone who has read Jack Hoffman's "First One Hundred years," knows that it is an important building in the history of our community. Had the offer come much sooner we might have rethought the buildings on our site, however it did not and we now have the best representation of early community life we are able to have. I realize that in the need for brevity all details cannot be included, but was very concerned that your article might cast an incorrect light on our organization. We did indeed offer to take building parts for two reasons. First we need them and their availability would cut our high costs, and second, saving part of the building is better than losing it all.

We applaud the Novi Historical Society in their effort to save this important community landmark, and hope that we may be able to offer moral support and suggestions when and if they begin the costly and time consuming task of restoration.

Art Rockall
President,
Northville Historical Society

Hooray, Lee

To the Editor:
The leaders of next year's Northville High School Student Congress would like to take this opportunity to congratulate the current president, Lee LaChance. Throughout this year Lee has accomplished numerous tasks benefitting both the high school and the surrounding community. With a great ability to lead, Lee has successfully run both Homecoming Week and Project Pride Day, two of the largest events at Northville High School. Under Lee's guidance the first Charity Ball in high school history came off without a flaw, raising nearly $10,000 for local causes.

Lee has brought to N.H.S. a spirit of participation seldom seen at the high school level. We would like to thank you, Lee, on a great year, and congratulate you for becoming one of the best leaders Northville High School has seen.

River thanks

To the Editor:

The Rouge River will flow much better in Northville thanks to the efforts of the Northville community on Saturday, June 2, 1990. Eighty-one volunteers, including some from Mountain Top Green Ridge Tree Service, some from the Northville High School science classes and some from the community-at-large worked for over three energy-filled hours clearing two logjams. By removing over 175 cubic yards of logs (4% roll-off boxes), four truck tires, one wheelbarrow, two trash cans and four or five picnic tables, the river now has an opportunity to cleanse itself with free water movement. Prior to the cleanup, these jams were snowballing.

Genitt's donated potato chips and Friends of the Rouge provided gloves and pop. Thanks again to the City of Northville Department of Public Works for some equipment and manpower.

This cleanup was the most successful of the past four years in terms of results. It was a true community improvement. We will reap the benefits of a cleaner river.

Sincerely,
John Anderson
Recreation Director and

Veteran thanks

To the Editor:

On behalf of the Veterans of Foreign Wars No. 4012, American Legion No. 147 and their auxiliaries, we wish to thank the community of Northville for joining us in honoring the memory of our departed comrades on this most recent Memorial Day. We wish to thank all of you for your support.

To all participants — it was an honor to have your enthusiasm and help. We were happy to have Mr. Ray Casterline as our Grand Marshal, Merle Hoag as Master of Ceremonies, Betty Flanders and Alicia Holbrook, Mike Rumble and the Northville High School Band, Knights Templar, Maj. Tim Dickinson and the Yankee Air Force for the two fly-overs, Mustang Civil Air Patrol, community leaders, law officers, Veteran's organizations from other communities, including Department and District officers and their Color Guard, Odyssey of the Mind, wreath carriers, Brownies and Girl Scouts, Cub and Boy Scouts, Bob Hock and Jerry Olson for putting up the flags all around town, Bob Hock for planting flowers in the cemeteries and Omnicom for filming the ceremonies.

A special thank you to Mr. Ray Casterline for once again providing ice cream for all and to Guernsey Dairy for distributing it.

We would also like to thank Ann Willis and the entire staff of The Northville Record for the coverage of our parade and memorial remembrances.

Memorial Day Parade Committee
Sandy Myers,
Secretary

Need help

To the Editor:

Recently the Northville Record ran an article on the Recycling center in the City of Northville. In the article it stated "Because of the volunteers, the center is able to remain open for four hours on Wednesday, from 3-7 p.m., instead of two." Actually the D.P.W. yard closes at 3:30 p.m. and the volunteers take over. It also mentioned that I was looking for more volunteers. ONE PERSON CALLED.

When I started this project I was sure that the civic-minded people of this community would be willing to give two hours of their time for this worthwhile project. We started the first week in May and many people have given their time, but we need many more. If I can get enough people, everyone may only be asked to give two hours every few months.

The volunteers work in pairs either 3-5 p.m. or 5-7 p.m. The work is easy. You are asked to check the drivers license, record it and direct the people to the correct recycling areas. There is a booth on the lot in case of inclement weather and a phone to call for assistance. A DPW worker is always on the site. Wear comfortable shoes and old clothes.

This is a valuable service to the community and a necessary one. If we don't get more volunteers we may have to go back to having the center open only on Saturdays. I don't want to spend all my free time on the phone hearing everyone's problems and excuses. I want to hear positive responses from the people of Northville. Please call me if you can give two hours of your time.

Tax revenue

To the Editor:

As concerned parents, we are writing regarding education in the Northville Public Schools. We feel that a continuance of high quality education in our community will be impossible without placing impossible demands on our taxpayers unless we act now to provide some other form of tax revenue. It is necessary to encourage light industry and other forms of business to locate in our community while there is still some land available for them to acquire. Residential taxes alone cannot provide a quality educational program and community services.

Please encourage development of smokeless light industry and also projects such as the DeMattia project at Sheldon and Five Mile while land is still available to develop.

Thank you for your consideration in this matter.

John and Betty Baird

Pulled plug

To the Editor:

With hot summer weather arriving in the coming weeks, the demand for electricity will reach its zenith. Unfortunately, the plug could get pulled in many parts of the country because supplies are simply not keeping up with the demand for power.

Since World War II ended 45 years ago, whenever the nation's economy has boomed, so has demand for electric power. That trend is mirrored in Michigan as Consumers Power Company, the state's largest utility, has experienced six consecutive years of higher electric sales, setting hundreds of all-time sendout records along the way.

However, whether the nation's electric supplies can continue to keep up with economic growth is in serious doubt.

The 1989 annual report of the North American Electric Reliability Council (NERC), an independent agency, stresses that the U.S. is "at a crossroads" in terms of electric power supplies because only about one-half of the electric capacity needed to meet customer demand this decade is actually under construction. Based on present levels of customer demand, "supply deficiencies are likely by the early 1990s in the eastern half of the United States," NERC says.

This view is supported by the U.S. Department of Energy (DOE). Recently DOE Secretary James Watkins warned of an impending electricity shortage due to the fact that only about 40 percent of the electric capacity needed to meet future demand is presently on the drawing board. In the greater Midwest, DOE suggests that additional power supplies "would be useful, if not a requisite" for improving electric reliability prospects.

In Michigan, Consumers Power Company recently began purchasing electricity from the Midland Cogeneration Venture (MCV) and other independent power producers. These new power sources bring the utility's reserve margin to approximately 21 percent, still below the 23 percent margin recommended by the Michigan Public Service Commission. However, within several years the reserve margin will drop below 15 percent without new electric generating capacity.

As Michigan's energy requirements increase, the vital relationship between electricity and economic growth needs to be clearly understood by those committed to the state's further growth and progress. Serious attention needs to be paid to ensuring adequate electric capacity so that Michigan and the Midwest do not suffer power shortages which are forecast for other parts of the United States.

Milford photo shop first with 1-hour service

By Dierdre Dancey

"Nobody in the area offers this type of service," explained Hayes. "You would have to go to Brighton or Twelve Oaks."

In addition to one-hour film processing, Kwik Photo offers a full line of photography supplies, such as film, cameras, frames and photo albums. It also offers video transfers and photocopies.

Although, one-hour film processing is Kwik Photo's primary emphasis, Hayes said he feels that having a direct relationship between customer and photo technician is his greatest asset. "If you have questions regarding prints that are processed through a drug store, the cashier may or may not be able to answer them. At Kwik photo, there is always a photo technician on hand to answer any photography questions that may arise upon seeing your prints," Hayes explained.

As with any photography problems, his staff is available and eager to offer help. "For instance, if your camera breaks while loaded with important photos, we have the knowledge and facilities to remove the film without destroying it."

Hayes said he is pleased that the convenience of one-hour film processing is catching on quickly with the general public. Hayes said he is also receiving a positive response from various businesses. "I am getting a lot of business from people who need their film developed fast, such as realtors, surveyors and mortgage companies."

"This commercial business keeps us busy on those rainy weeks when people aren't out in their backyards taking pictures," he added.

When comparing prices, the bill for one-hour film processing does run slightly higher than the price for conventional processing. Hayes said he tries to offset this difference by running sales and through newspaper coupons. He also said he keeps his film prices lower than the competition.

Business Briefs

Believing that considerable truth underlies the adage "There's strength in numbers," three attorneys with special backgrounds recently joined forces to create the Southfield-based plaintiffs' law firm of MATERNA, HIRE & CUSTER.

Bringing together more than 35 years of experience as attorneys in their respective fields, the principals of the new firm are Michael T. Materna, formerly of Zeff & Zeff & Materna, Beverly J. Hires, of Northville, formerly a sole practitioner, and Fred A. Custer, of Northville, also formerly of Zeff & Zeff & Materna.

According to Hires, the backgrounds of the attorneys combine to make the new law firm a special triple-threat plaintiffs practice with unparalleled expertise under one roof.

"In this firm, we have brought together the talents of one of Michigan's top litigators (Materna), the capabilities of a nurse/attorney (Hires) and the insights of an engineer/attorney (Custer). This is a unique blend of expertise in a plaintiffs' practice, especially for a firm of this size," Hires said.

Custer holds both bachelor's and master's degrees in mechanical engineering, and worked for 10 years as a research and development engineer for Ford Motor Company before becoming an attorney. He has handled hundreds of negligence cases and has developed widely recognized expertise in product-liability actions, including complex automotive, construction, highway design, firearm, industrial machinery, fire, explosion, aviation and home appliance cases. In addition, Custer is an expert in the areas of toxic torts and environmental law.

GARY W. DORF, of Highland has earned membership in Lutheran Brotherhood's 1989 Executives Club.

The Executives Club is one of the fraternal benefit society's top sales honors. Representatives qualify for membership based on sales of insurance and investment products to Lutherans. Lutheran Brotherhood and its subsidiaries offer life and health insurance, annuities and mutual funds.

Dorf is associated with Lutheran Brotherhood's Mueller Agency in Rochester Hills.

ness with 13 years of film processing experience behind him. He left his job managing a family-owned Hayes Union 76 station in Milford to join the staff at Hite Photo in Detroit. He worked there as a photo technician for seven years. When another company bought out Hite Photo, Hayes took a job managing the video transfer department of A.J. Custom Photo in Dearborn. A.J. Custom Photo is now doing specialty work, such as enlargements, for Kwik Photo.

What does the future hold for Tom Hayes and Kwik Photo? "Expansion," according to Hayes. "We're planning on opening a wholesale division, equipped with a courier service, for large businesses in the Detroit area."

Hayes said he also plans to increase the size of his Milford store to accommodate an enlarging machine and other processing equipment. Will we see another Kwik Photo popping up soon?

"It's a definite possibility," Hayes said. "We're checking into the South Lyon area."

Kwik Photo is open Monday through Thursday from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m.; Friday from 9 a.m. to 7 p.m., and Saturday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Money Management

Get insurance now, before it's too late

You arrive home after a long weekend in the country and find your front door open. Inside, your house is in shambles, your possessions gone and your furniture vandalized.

This is the nightmare no one wants to consider, much less plan for. But according to the Michigan Association of CPAs, owning homeowner's insurance and maintaining an accurate record of your possessions can ease the burden of such a tragedy.

Homeowner's insurance provides protection for your most treasured assets: your home and personal belongings. Besides covering loss or physical damage to property, homeowner's policies protect against liability for another person's injury or for damage to another's property. So, if a limb from a tree on your property crashes onto the roof of a shed on your neighbor's back lawn, the insurance company will generally pay for the damages — up to the limits of the policy. The same fact holds true if your dog decides to bite a passerby during his daily walk.

Not all homeowner's policies are equal. There are several basic forms of homeowner's insurance, each varying in the number of perils covered. In most cases, these are divided into such categories as Basic, Broad, Special, Renters, Comprehensive, Condominium and Older Home. A basic policy generally protects against physical damage to property resulting from fire or lightning, windstorm or hail, explosion, riot, aircraft and vehicles, smoke, vandalism and malicious mischief, theft and glass breakage. If you own a home in a cold climate, consider broad coverage which adds protection against damage caused by such events as an ice storm or frozen plumbing systems. Owners of property in areas prone to floods or earthquakes should explore policies offering protection against these specific perils, since they are not covered by homeowner's insurance.

Most insurers require that a home be covered for at least 80 percent of its replacement cost — that is, the amount you would have to spend in order to rebuild the house in the current marketplace. Remember that the 80 percent figure represents the minimum for standard coverage. If you are ever unfortunate enough to suffer a total loss of property, you may regret not insuring your home for full value. After all, if your house burns to the ground, you can only be reimbursed up to the face value of your policy. If you're insured for $100,000 and rebuilding your home costs $120,000, you will have to pay the difference.

As a general rule, the contents of your house are insured for no more than 50 percent of the coverage on your home. If your personal possessions are lost or damaged, actual-cash-value policies reimburse you for the current replacement cost minus depreciation. For example, suppose a fire destroys the rollout desk you bought for $1,200 four years ago. Even if the desk was in perfect condition before the fire, its actual cash value may now be considerable less than its original purchase price. But if the insurance company only covered the depreciated value, you could not replace the desk at current market prices.

As a remedy, many insurance companies now offer policies that allow for the replacement of lost or damaged property, within certain limits. Keep in mind that expensive items, such as silver or furs, are covered only to a limited extent. To insure a special item against loss, whether in your home or away, you need a "floater" or "rider" policy. The insurance company will probably require proof of the item's value, such as a sales receipt or an independent appraisal.

Now close your eyes for a moment and imagine listing every single item in your home — every piece of clothing, every kitchen utensil and every gardening tool. If this sounds like a monumental task, imagine trying to create such a list in the aftermath of a devastating fire or burglary. As a safeguard, prepare a detailed inventory of your personal possessions.

Business Briefs

MARCIA BUHL has been named Michigan Bell's public relations director for the South Lyon area. She succeeds Vince Fordell, who recently retired after 37 years with the company.

In addition, Buhl will continue to serve as the company's public relations director for Washtenaw and northwestern Wayne counties—a position she has held since 1984.

A native of Flint, Buhl began her career in 1960 as a service representative. She held various positions in the company's marketing department before being named a public relations director.

Buhl has been involved with numerous civic and professional organizations, including the Livonia Chamber of Commerce, Livonia Rotary and the Plymouth Township Economic Development Corp. She currently resides in Plymouth Township.

Fordell began his career with Michigan Bell in 1952 in a Detroit sales office. He held positions in the company's marketing, customer relations, business office and personnel departments before being named a public relations director for Genesee, Livingston and western Oakland counties.

Fordell's many community affiliations included the Michigan Municipal League, Michigan Personnel Officers Association, the Knights of Columbus and the Mayor's Committee for Underprivileged Children in western Wayne County. Fordell served as mayor of Garden City for 10 years, retiring from that post in December.

ROY CAGNEY, president of Cagney Printing, Inc. in Milford, joined hundreds of business people from around the country at the National Association of Quick Printers Executive Conference in Las Vegas recently. The conference was geared toward the top NAQP members.

The emphasis of the conference was on techniques designed to help quick printers take their business to new heights. Highlights included sessions on how to hire, train and motivate sales personnel; telemarketing; vertical market strategies; and selling brokered printing. The association also unveiled its new long-range plan, outlining steps to carry NAQP into the 21st century.

Cagney Printing, Inc. is a full-service quick printer specializing in quality printing and mailing services.

Bob Cady, director of gifts and accessories at The Merchandise Mart recently presented Carole J. Litzelman of UNIQUELY YOURS, and Kay Mollanen of DESIGNS ON KAY, both in Northville, with a certificate naming them CORE (Customer Oriented Retail Expert) buyers during the recent Chicago Early Buy Christmas Show and Accent on Accessories market at The Mart.

Some 1,500 retailers have received CORE certification since the program's implementation in April '87. In order to receive certification, buyers are required to attend three educational seminars and learn about new product lines in at least five showrooms. In return, they receive CORE certificates, window decals and other promotional materials for use in their communities.

Designed to keep gift and accessories buyers on the cutting edge of their retailing category and position them ahead of the competition, the CORE program will continue at the Chicago Gift & Accessories Market, scheduled for July 11-19 at The Merchandise Mart.

Governor James J. Blanchard has appointed 19 members to the Minority Health Advisory Committee for terms expiring April 24, 1992.

Appointed were Dr. John Waller Jr., Velma Hendershowt, Randolph Fleching, Bennie Woodard, Ruth Bussey, Manuel Gonzales, Dr. Barbara Ross Lee, the Rev. Charles W. Butler Sr., Ishmael Ahmed, Dr.

Carol Litzelman (l.) and Kay Mollanen (r.) earned CORE status from Bob Cady of the Merchandise Mart in Chicago.

Melvin Hollowell Sr., Leonor Mandap, Janiki E. Darity, Reginald Ayala, Vince L. Bonham Jr., Catherine Fredericks, J. Richardo Guzman, Haifa Fakhouri, Charlotte Hewitt and TINA HWANG.

The Minority Health Advisory Committee will help the Office of Minority Health investigate the health and welfare of minorities and make recommendations to the Governor, the Department of Public Health and the Legislature on strategies to improve minority health in Michigan.

Waller, of Detroit, is an associate professor and chairperson of the Department of Community Medicine at Wayne State University's School of Medicine. He also is a member of the American Public Health Association, the National Conference of Black Mayors Task Force for Black and Minority Health and chairperson of the Detroit Receiving Hospital and University Health Center board of trustees. Waller will represent institutional providers and serve as committee chairperson.

Fakhouri, of Troy, is executive director of the Arab-American and Chaldean Council, president of the Jordan Club of Detroit. A former United Nations Consultant on population policies for the Middle East, Fakhouri is a member of the Middle East Studies Association and the World Congress of Sociology. She will represent Arab Americans.

Hwang, of Northville, is a medical technologist at Catherine McAuley Health Center, certified by the American Society of Clinical Pathologist, a member of the Association of Chinese Americans and American Citizens for Justice. She will represent Asian and Pacific Islanders.

Senate confirmation is not required.

DR. FRED E. BENTLEY of Northville, was honored by the Michigan State Medical Society (MSMS) recently for 50 years of service to the medical profession.

Act now to insure your home and possessions

from radios to furs. In case of loss or damage, this list can be invaluable in substantiating your claim. In a notebook, list all significant valuables in your home, room by room. Whenever possible, include a brief description, the date of purchase and the purchase price. Supplement your written inventory with a visual record of your home's interior and your possessions.

If you have a video camera, by all means, use it. Videotape everything you own. If you cannot videotape your personal property, take photographs instead. Pay particular attention to jewelry, furs and electronics. Be sure to keep your household list, the visual record and all receipts for major purchases in a fireproof container or in a safe deposit box.

All standard homeowner's policies include liability insurance. The standard limit for liability coverage is usually $100,000. However, in today's world of escalating damage awards in personal injury suits, many homeowners opt for excess liability coverage in the form of an umbrella policy. An umbrella policy supplements your automobile and homeowner's insurance, covering any claim that exceeds the limits of your policies, or results from a charge of slander or libel. Since excess liability insurance picks up where your other policies end, insurers require you to first have a prescribed amount of homeowner's and automobile insurance. Umbrella policies generally have a face value of at least $1 million, and are less expensive than you may think.

Review your homeowner's policy frequently. Today, many policies automatically adjust for inflation, but you should review your coverage periodically to be sure that you are adequately protected.

Finally, if you sustain a loss that is covered by your policy and you decide not to file a claim, you may not deduct the amount of the casualty loss on your income tax return that your insurance policy would have reimbursed. You may, however, deduct uninsured casualty or theft loss. But only to the extent that the loss exceeds 10 percent of your adjusted gross income. In addition, the first $100 of each casualty loss is not deductible.

CPAs warn consumers not to overestimate the benefit of the casualty-loss deduction. In all cases, your best protection against loss is adequate insurance.

Give your heart an extra helping.

We'd like to meet the man who made Ike what he is today.

In fact, we have a warrant out for his arrest. Because no one should be able to do things like this to an animal and get away with it.

On December 15, in response to an emergency call, Michigan Humane Society (MHS) cruelty investigators arrived at a house that had been abandoned by its former tenant for over a month. There, among the trash and other garbage the owner had no further use for, they found Ike. A five-month-old puppy lying huddled behind a locked bathroom door. Lying because he was too weak to stand. So malnourished he could barely move his chest to breathe.

He had been locked inside that bathroom for over a month. Without food. Without heat. And with only the water from a rusty toilet to keep him alive. MHS investigators called it the closest to death they'd ever seen an animal. Yet Ike was fortunate. A kitten found in another part of the house was already dead.

This kind of willful neglect and cruelty is more than an outrage. It's a crime.

And that's why your help is so important to us. Your contribution to the Michigan Humane Society helps us fight for stronger legislation and tougher prosecution of animal abusers. To fight back for those who can't. And to make sure that this kind of crime doesn't go unpunished.

Your contribution also ensures that when we finally meet the man who locked up Ike, we can do the same for him.

When having a garage sale, deciding what to sell and what to keep can be a difficult decision

Two for one: spring cleaning, garage sale

By Thomas M. Varcie

What better way to clean the house than to have a garage sale?

These days, many garage sale hosts seem to tie in their spring cleaning with garage sales, thus making the yearly cleaning process less dreaded.

And like spring cleaning, these garage sales occur every year, every place, anytime. Whether it's raining, snowing or shining, garage sales are open and people from miles around visit. Just ask the garage sale experts.

They believe in the old garage sale-adapted adage, "One person's junk is another person's treasure." That's why it takes garage sale planners so long to decide what to sell and what to keep.

Many local garage sale holders contacted recently believe planning for a garage sale turns into a full-time job.

"It takes a couple weeks getting ready for the garage sale, but to actually set it up it takes about one week," said Donna Priestap of Lyon Township, who had a garage sale about two weeks ago.

Garage sales today are turning into big-time productions. The more families involved, the more balloons, the more signs, the more colorful lights flashing, the more merchandise on tables means, of course, more customers.

"We usually have three or four families put things together for our garage sales. And we're right off Pontiac Trail, so we're in a very good location for people to see our sales," Priestap said. "This year I painted fluorescent orange garage sale signs with black lettering on them to attract people. I use flags, too."

Priestap is a veteran at hosting garage sales. For the past several years, she has pulled off many successful sales. But every sale seems to get better.

"For me, I just try to get rid of things. I don't really try to make much money at it. But I price my items low enough so that I'll sell it," Priestap said.

The hardest part for garage sale host Doreen Hicks of Milford is pricing the merchandise.

"When you have a garage sale, it's house-cleaning time. I say it's major spring cleaning. But for me, pricing the items is pretty difficult. I haven't been to enough sales of my own to see what people price things at, but I'll have my neighbor help me," said Hicks, who had a garage sale about two weeks ago.

Hicks said her neighbor is a "garage sale expert" and that she knows her garage sale prices.

Hicks said she is having her garage sale because "it's time to get rid of the baby things. I think once you've outgrown your baby's things, it's time to have a garage sale."

Susan Fleet of Lyon Township said it's always a different experience having a garage sale.

"This is about my fourth or fifth garage sale and I've always done very well," Fleet said, who had her sale last week. "We've been accumulating junk in the garage for a while and we had three families in this sale. So we had quite a bit of stuff."

Fleet said garage-salers are a rare breed. "I see the same ones come here year after year. And I do believe in the saying, 'One person's junk is another person's treasure.' There are things I get rid of that other people would die for."

The hardest part of having a garage sale is determining what to sell and what to keep, Fleet said. But she believes she has an answer to that.

"In the winter, I sort through the stuff in my house to see what I want and don't want. Then I decide what to sell," she said. So Fleet gets a head start on other garage sale hosts. At least she knows what's going to be sold before spring arrives.

Another difficult part about having a garage sale is the actual set-up of it. Fleet said it takes her about one week to "put everything out."

But once the merchandise is gathered and the sale is ready to start, how should it operate? Provided are some tips on having a garage sale, courtesy of the Sliger/Livingston Publications Green Sheet Garage Sale Kit.

- Presentation is very important in any sale. Display your merchandise in an interesting manner;
- Separate items into different categories and make signs to hang over each;
- Be sure all merchandise is clean

Around the House: Designs for Living

Portage design offers view

By James McAlexander

The second in Landmark's small home series is the Portage.

Parents can cook dinner and still keep an eye on kids playing in the front yard in the Portage. Multi-paned windows wrap around three sides of the unique half-octagonal kitchen bay, offering a panoramic view of the neighborhood.

On the exterior, the kitchen's octagonal protrusion creates one of several interesting roofline variations that give the home a Tudor look.

Truncated gables and roughsawn board trim on the stucco exterior add to the Tudor styling.

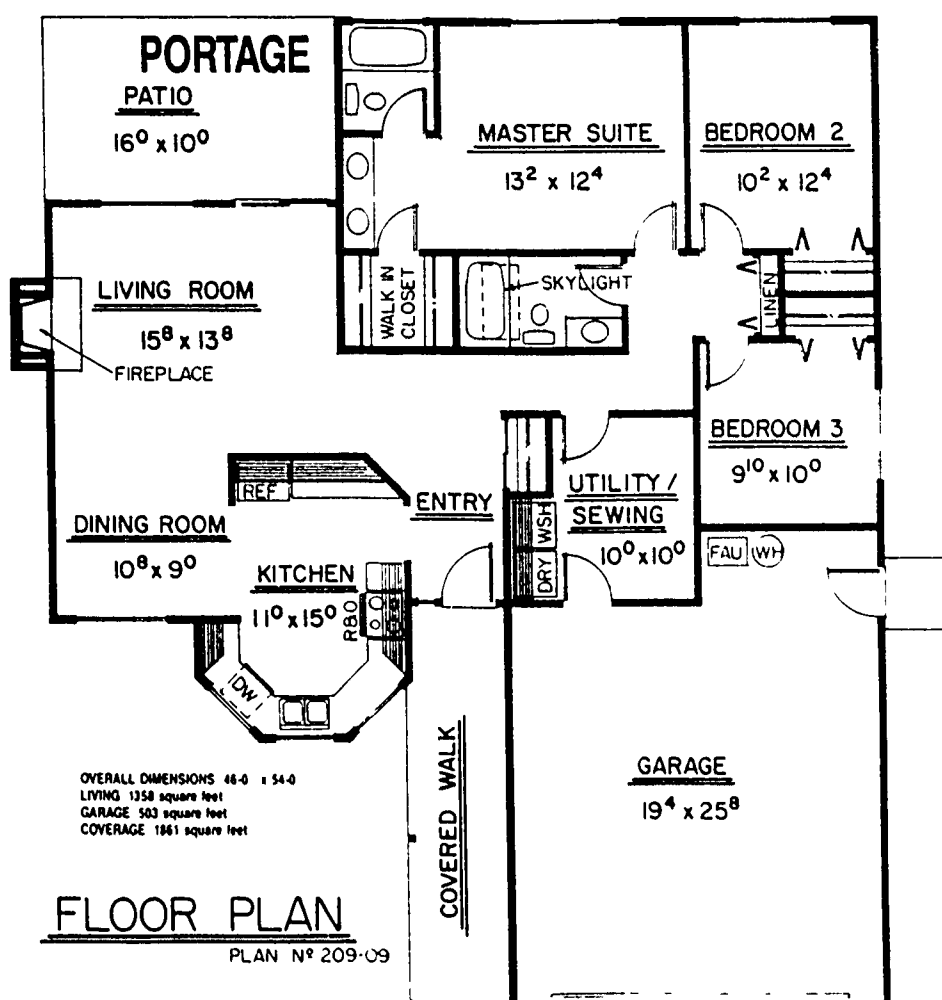

The kitchen is large with plenty of counter space, and since it's just inside the front door, handy for popping in to grab a snack. Less formal families might prefer combining the dining and living rooms into one big family room.

The home has a large master bedroom with a double vanity in the dressing room between the bathroom and walk-in closet. A skylight fills the guest bathroom with soft natural light.

This design shows one of the bedrooms as smaller. If necessary to keep the peace, bedroom No. 3 could be expanded by sacrificing the workshop space at the back of the two-car garage.

An opportunity space in the utility room can be used for sewing hobbies, exercise machines or extra storage.

For a study plan of the Portage (209-09), send $5 to Landmark Designs, P.O. Box 2307 CN, Eugene, OR 97402. (Be sure to specify plan name and number when ordering.)

Almost anything can be found at a garage sale — even fuzzy lamps? Still, garage sale hosts hold true to the garage-sale adage, 'One person's junk is another person's treasure.'

and neat. Old, dusty items will not sell as well as if they were cleaned; Place the merchandise where it is most easily seen from the street. A few items on your lawn to grab attention may attract more customers; Group under-a-dollar items in one area. Often, people will spend more purchasing several little things than one big-ticket item;

- Offer free coffee, iced tea or other beverages. Your hospitality may make customers more inclined to buy items; and
- If you have several items left on the last day of your sale, group them together and offer them as a single package at an attractive price.

Grout stains can be troublesome

By Gene Gary

Q: We recently purchased an older home that has ceramic tile countertops in the kitchen. The tile surface is attractive and in good shape, but the grout between is stained.

I have tried numerous cleaners and bleaches with no success. Do you know of a method to clean the grout without replacing it? If I do have to replace the grout, is there a specific product I can use that will help prevent staining of the new grout?—J.H.

A: Ceramic tile countertops in kitchens are subjected to the worst possible household stains, and the grout joints are particularly susceptible to these stains.

The Tile Council of America recommends applying a thick paste of scouring powder and hot water, letting this paste stand for five to 10 minutes. If stains remain, apply undiluted bleach for at least five minutes, rinse well and dry.

If this fails to lighten and brighten your grout, you should consider regrouting the surface layer. Tile dealers have a special tool you can use to remove approximately 1/8 inch of the grouting so new grouting can be installed over the old.

For future protection, apply a sealer over the new grouting (or cleaned grouting). There are two types of sealers on the market.

The topical variety is usually acrylic-based; penetrating sealers, often silicone-based, are absorbed into the grout. However, some tile manufacturers do not recommend applying a sealer over their tiles, which means using great care in applying the sealer to the grout only, carefully wiping away any excess sealer solution from the tiles.

These sealers need to be renewed from time to time and are effective in general, but at times they're not particularly satisfactory in combating the problems of staining caused by fats and oils that you will have in the kitchen.

There is only one product recently introduced by Glaze 'N Seal (Glessner Corp. Inc., 1301 Sansone St., San Francisco, CA 94111), which is an acrylic grout sealer that the manufacturer claims will protect against organic stains, including cooking oil, grease and beverages.

The sealer can be applied to untreated grout only and may darken or produce a slight wet appearance on some grouts. Care should be taken during application so that none of the sealer is allowed to dry on the tile surfaces.

Arranging fireplace mantel

By Rose Bennett Gilbert

Q: I keep reading that the fireplace should be the focal point of the living room with all the furniture arranged around it.

My problem is that I don't know how to arrange the mantel. I mean, I've hung a nice mirror over it, but I need help in deciding what else to put in such an important spot.

Are there any guidelines?—H.M., Doylestown, Pa.

A: There are two best ways to accessorize a mantel.

• Symmetrically, using two of everything formally balanced on each side.

• Informally—which means asymmetrically—with a few well-chosen accessories that counterbalance each other across the mantel, rather like a seesaw.

What you actually choose to show off should reflect on what is dear to your heart, what you think important enough to put front and center in the room. Of course, there are limitations, given the space you're working in, and the basic proportions of the mantel and fireplace.

In the room we show here, New York designer Marilyn Rose has worked out a careful, symmetrically balanced arrangement that is formal but hardly stiff. Anchored by the painting, the Chinese export bowl and the medallion in the center, other accessories are arranged in precise pairs: two scones, two tall and two short candlesticks, two flower vases and two porcelain plates.

An asymmetrical arrangement is inherently less formal, but can be equally impressive.

I like to hang a variety of artworks—in assorted shapes and frames—then work out a display of favorite items on the mantel in front of them: sculpture, a basket of dried flowers, a mass of candlesticks of many heights, a vase of tall bare branches, even a pot of ivy that trails down one side.

Just be sure what you choose works in scale to the fireplace/mantel/wall space. And do change it around with the seasons: say, a display of driftwood and shells for the summer; a basket of bright leaves in autumn; evergreen branches in winter... you get the idea.

Q: We're doing over our little country place on a very limited budget.

The floors are in rough shape—the house had been a cabin in a boys' summer camp—so we just sanded and painted them. But it's too cool to leave them bare, and I'm thinking about putting down a sisal rug. Will it be hard to keep clean?—L.H.

A: Sisal is a natural material that tends to absorb stains, especially greasy ones so, yes, it could prove a problem on heavily trafficked floors. But who says you have to use it in its natural color?

Sisal takes paint beautifully: Why don't you paint it like a large patchwork quilt, following the pattern of the sisal blocks?

You also could stencil a design that would help hide signs of wear.

A final protective coat of a stain- and soil-repellent spray should ensure the kind of carefree living that makes so much sense in a country home.

Rose Bennett Gilbert is the author of five books on interior design, associate editor of Country Decorating and a contributing writer to other publications in the field.

INTRODUCING CHASE CustomFIT—THE A.R.M. WITH A SURPRISING ADVANTAGE.

The savings of an adjustable rate mortgage with the security of a discounted Fixed Initial Term of 3, 5, 7, or 10 years. Plus a 4% interest rate cap.

Get the home you want with a discounted interest rate—locked in for up to 10 years. Now you can enjoy the cost savings of an adjustable rate mortgage, and the security of a fixed rate mortgage. New CustomFIT from Chase offers a discounted interest rate to increase your buying power plus the stability of a Fixed Initial Term (FIT).

Choose the FIT that's best for you—with 4% rate cap protection thereafter. To meet your current and future needs Chase offers the choice of a 3, 5, 7, or 10 year Fixed Initial Term, during which your discounted rate is guaranteed. At the end of the initial term, your interest rate will adjust yearly—but with a lifetime cap of just 4% lower than most lenders offer.

Expertise to design a mortgage around your cash flow needs. Your Chase Personal Financial Consultant is a real estate financing professional who can help you choose a Chase mortgage package that best meets your specific needs and goals. Talk to your Consultant today. And discover the CustomFIT mortgage that fits you best.

If you're looking for a mortgage up to $1 million, call the Chase office nearest you for more information. (See listing below.)

The juggling act of a single father

By LESLIE PEREIRA
Staff Writer

To the many Michigan Sierra Club members he is state chair. To local Optimists he is president. To the numerous people who meet him in front of his court every day he is the Honorable Judge MacKenzie.

But to Kate and David he is simply "Dad."

"Elbow to the back, Dad," Kate cries out over her father's foul play in their friendly before-dinner basketball game. "I learned that from Bill Laimeer," MacKenzie teases back.

The two-on-one game is played with the ease that only comes with repetition, as if they have all gone through the same movements and plays many times before. Their game is played several houses down from their own on the same side of the street in a neighborhood strewn with playing children. Since the city changed the ordinance they can no longer have a basketball hoop set up at their house, MacKenzie explains in his slow, clear, teacher-like voice.

"In a sense I am a lot luckier than most single parents because I get some relief," says MacKenzie. Although he has physical custody of his two children in their Novi home, he has joint legal custody with his ex-wife. So two nights a week and every other weekend, unless otherwise arranged, 11-year-old David and Kate, who is 15, pack up and go see their mother.

"I had a settled career at the time and she was just in a demanding new position," MacKenzie explains carefully about the family's decision on child custody.

Volunteers

Arts Council officer

By DOROTHY NASH
Special Writer

What do you do with your leisure time in Novi if you're interested in the arts and everything is so far away?

The answer is — you wake up and discover the opportunities provided by volunteer Karen Christlieb and the Novi Arts Council. Christlieb has been president of the council since its formation two years ago.

Operating under the supervision of the Novi Parks and Recreation Commission and Parks and Recreation Department, the Arts Council plans and presents three principal things, Christlieb said.

1. Programs like "Cabaret" at the Civic Center in February.
2. Monthly art displays in the Civic Center Atrium.
3. A quartet, eight-page publication, called "Artifacts," detailing everything going on in the arts in the immediate area.

The publication is mailed free to every Novi citizen who requests it, and "It's our biggest expense," Christlieb commented. The City Council allocates the funds for it from the general fund budget.

The Arts Council meets once every other month, the programming committee meets monthly, and the Artifacts committee meets as needed. Christlieb attends them all.

Also to help bring the Novi Arts Council up to the highest level of service to the community, Christlieb attends the state meetings of the Michigan Association of Community Arts Agencies.

Of special interest to Christlieb are the monthly exhibits in the display cases in the Atrium.

"Two of us put them there," she said. The exhibits include things as varied as photography, basketry, sculpture, glass and elementary school art.

Something new is apt to start next year, she said. "We're talking about having a lecture series — culturally related."

If you are curious about the workings of the Novi Arts Council, look in the city calendar for the next Wednesday evening meeting at the Civic Center. You're welcome.

Volunteer Karen Christlieb

Learning at camp

In cooperation with the Living Science Foundation of Novi, Northville Public Schools will be hosting three one-week day camps this summer at Northville High School.

The cost is $185.00 per camp which may be paid in monthly installments. The following camps are being offered:

SCIENCE SAMPLER — Ages 5-11, June 25-29, 9 a.m.-3 p.m.

A great way to make friends with science. Sampler Camp brings the entire family of Living Science Day Camps together in one week-long program. Each day highlights one area of science discovery: Kids have personal encounters with a variety of animals including parrots, snakes, and frogs on Science and Nature day; discover simple machines and electricity on Physics day; touch real dinosaur bones and reconstruct dinosaur models on Prehistoric Life day; experiment with the basic principles of flight and view the stars in a planetarium on Air and Space day; taste the salty ocean water, hold a living sea star and pet a four foot shark on Marine Biology day.

SCIENCE AND NATURE —

Ages 5-11, July 23-27, 9 a.m.-3 p.m.

Campers will have experiences with live animals from all over the world such as Beaker the toucan, Sparky the prehensile-tailed porcupine, Rocky the boa constrictor and Sheldon the tortoise. In addition to many encounters with animals, plants and other living things, children will develop communication skills through activities such as "Ecology scavenger hunts", "What color is a rainbow?", and building a "bucket microscope" that use the processes of observing, classifying, describing, measuring, inferring and predicting.

AIR & SPACE — Ages 7-11, July 30-Aug. 3, 9 a.m.-3 p.m.

Campers enter the world of aerospace and aerodynamics by building and launching their own model rockets, journeying into the universe with the Living Science Foundation's Starlab planetarium and learning, first hand, the mechanics of flight with the help of kites, airplanes, live parrots, toucans and crows.

Single father learns to juggle many roles

Although his job as first division 52nd District Court Judge demands a great deal of time both on the bench and for community involvement ("I did a count last November and I was a member of 22 different boards"), MacKenzie says his job is ideally suited to his juggling needs.

"It is only 10 minutes away," MacKenzie says. "I can make Kate's (basketball, volleyball) games — at least part of them. Or if something goes wrong, I can be there."

He recalls a recent instance when Kate forgot her team uniform on a game day. He was able to zip home during lunch, pick up her uniform and drop it off to her at school.

"The most important thing that I have to remember is that they come first," says MacKenzie.

And families like the MacKenzies, with a single father as head, are becoming increasingly common. Nationwide statistics show that of all divorced couples with children in 1987, the father took custody of the children in only 13 percent of the cases. However, in 1988, that number rose to 15 percent and is still growing as fathers are no longer automatically dismissed as unfit to raise children simply on the basis of gender.

As a single parent, MacKenzie has been forced to perform many duties traditionally thought of as belonging to the mother since he assumed the bulk of the child-rearing duties after his 1987 divorce.

"There are almost physical demands on you (single parents)," says MacKenzie. "Even when you are tired there are things that have to get done — the laundry has to be done, the dinner has to be cooked."

But MacKenzie puts a qualifier on the cooking claim.

"I am responsible for the family meal," MacKenzie says with an emphasis on the word responsible. That may mean cooking the mostaccioli with meat sauce that is on tonight's menu or ordering out if he is too tired to cook.

"We know all the pizza places around," MacKenzie says, only half-jokingly.

Other than the cooking responsibilities, which are solely his unless Kate is feeling ambitious, MacKenzie said the family divides up the rest of the housework.

"Kate is responsible for cleaning the kitchen and David is responsible for the family room. I take the living room," MacKenzie says as he sweeps his hand over the living room table to remove some unseen dust.

"Me and my brother trade the lawn," says Kate. "He pays us for it, but that is the only thing he pays us for."

However, despite the added responsibilities that come with raising children without a partner, MacKenzie is quick to point out the positive aspects of single parenthood.

"There is a real closeness that develops. We have family cleanings, family meetings," MacKenzie says as David stretches out behind him on the arm of the thick-cushioned couch quietly listening.

David's faded blue Sierra Club T-shirt looks as if it may have once belonged to his father. But it is obvious that both he and Kate have an active interest in their father's many activities. Throughout dinner they talk excitedly about the whale they sponsored through the Sierra Club, the night they were out past midnight waiting for their dad's election returns, and the day they accidentally set off the alarm in their father's courtroom.

Although they keep up with parts of their father's schedule, each of the young MacKenzies are equally busy with a flurry of their own clubs and activities.

As a fifth-grader at Novi Meadows School, David is in the Gifted and Talented program, an accelerated academic program for exceptional learners. He is already muscled and sturdy from the basketball and soccer he plays with Novi Parks and Recreation. He is quick to add he would play on a more competitive level but his school does not have athletic teams.

Kate is equally active. A freshman at Novi High School, the tall, dark-haired Kate plays basketball, volleyball, throws the discus for the track team, and is a member of both the Student Advisory Council and Students Against Drunk Driving. She will receive her varsity letter as a freshman.

"He is a wild fan," says Kate of her fathers support of her athletic activities. "He beats on the bleachers — he really does."

Another ball in the air of the MacKenzie juggling act is his social life. "As a general rule, I don't go out the nights I have the kids," MacKenzie said, as he mentioned the golf outing he was at earlier in the day that was still going on — minus him. "I have a social life on the weekends Barb has the kids."

Not only have the three MacKenzies built a comfortable and easy daily and weekly routine together, but they have also begun collecting some fond memories in a photo album they are quick to pull out.

Although MacKenzie was first to mention the trio's whitewater rafting trip to the Grand Canyon last summer, Kate and David eagerly jump into the conversation and join the huddle around the picture book.

The assortment of glossy colored pictures with Kate posing in front of a raft bulging with camping gear, David leaping off a huge boulder into the rippling river below, and the entire group of adventurers hugging for a group photo, spoke loudly and clearly of a happy family of three.

"Yeah, I like being in this family," says Kate. "We have fun."

Club awards teens

By LESLIE PEREIRA
Staff Writer

The Northville Branch of the Women's Farm and Garden Association held their annual meeting and picnic on Monday, June 11, at 11:30 a.m. when they announced this year's scholarship winners. They are: David Morton and Katie Kemp, both graduates of Northville High School, and Donna Wilhelm of Mercy High School. Both Kemp and Wilhelm plan to attend the University of Michigan and Morton plans to attend Michigan State University. Scholarships winners each receive $1,000 which will be sent to the school of their choice.

On the selection committee were: Pat Nolan, June Lafferty and Gail Yaris.

The meeting and picnic were also an opportunity to honor the new life members of the organization who have reached the 20 year mark in their participation. Barbara O'Brien was the only member eligible for the honor this year.

The events were held at the home of Carol Rahimi.

Town Hall tickets

Tickets for the 1990-91 Town Hall speaker series are still on sale. Speakers will be: "As The World Turns" soap opera star Eileen Fulton on Oct. 11; former Iranian hostage Col. Charles Scott on Nov. 8; Miss America 1988, Kaye Lani Raye Rakko, on March 14, 1991; and veteran newsmen Jack Reynolds on April 11, 1991.

The cost is $30 for tickets to the series of four lectures. To order tickets, write to: Northville Town Hall, Box 93, Northville 48167. Tickets to the post-speech luncheons will be available for purchase after June 1 and will cost $11 each. Luncheon tickets are only available to those persons who have already purchased lecture series tickets. Registration forms and payment for the luncheons should be sent to the above address, but not until after June 1. Make checks payable to Northville Town Hall.

Artist jazzes up area eating places

By LESLIE PEREIRA
Staff Writer

If you have been to the Little Italy Restaurant in Northville or Home, Sweet Home in Novi then you have probably taken in the work of Janisse Larsson.

No, she is not the pasta maker at Little Italy nor the cabbage roller at Home, Sweet Home. Larsson's craft is generally less obvious to diners than the quality of the food in a restaurant.

Both Larsson and her husband are the masterminds behind the painted screens of Italian scenes in Little Italy and the crayon room and most other art in the Home, Sweet Home eating mansion.

"A lot of our work is in restaurants because you really have a lot more latitude than in offices," said Larsson, who has been an artist since 1974. Larsson explained that office building interiors generally must maintain a more conservative appearance than the restaurants or shopping malls she is commissioned to jazz up.

However, Larsson said there are often problems with relying heavily on restaurant work because it often disappears as restaurants remodel, expand or go out of business.

"The thing with restaurant work is it often becomes nonexistent," Larsson said, as she recalled the work she did for the now-closed Marvin Gardens Restaurant in the downtown Detroit Renaissance Center.

When hiring an individual painter for commissioned work rather than simply buying a painting, it enables the designer or decorator to get exactly what they had in mind to create a feeling in the room.

Larsson and her artist husband, together with a third artist, comprise Art Group of Plymouth, a talented trio of artists who are responsible for much of the commissioned art projects around the Detroit metropolitan area.

Their work can be seen in various places ranging from the revolving restaurant at the top of the Renaissance Center to a small chocolate shop in Birmingham to the inner walls of a Flint mall — and many places in-between.

"My work can vary immensely," Larsson said. Because of the nature of doing commissioned work, artists' assignments can run the gamut of "here's a space — paint something in it" to "paint an exact copy of this picture," according to Larsson.

"Some jobs are basically copying but they still take a lot of skill to execute," Larsson said. As if to illustrate her point, she mentioned an art project she completed in a popular Royal Oak nightclub. Larsson was asked to reproduce large oil portraits of rock stars John Lennon, Jimi Hendrix and Elvis Presley at the Metropolitan Music Cafe.

In addition to the multitude of painting projects, Larsson helps her husband with furniture and accessory designs and with restoration projects.

Not only do the projects Larsson works on vary immensely but the materials she works with or on differ greatly. She said she is skilled at painting in various modern or classical styles, can work on all types of surfaces whether plaster walls or wood, and does paintings as well as sculptural displays.

Record/BRYAN MITCHELL

Artist Janisse Larsson sits in a cozy corner alcove next to her wall artwork in Northville's Little Italy restaurant.

One of her most recent notable projects was a wall painting she did in Grosse Pointe's 1990 Designer Showhouse for La Belle Province of Northville. Her art was a seemingly three dimensional trompe l'oeil (pronounced trumpet) painting on the wall of a service bath which received a tremendous amount of recognition and praise.

So what future projects are planned for Larsson and the Art Group?

"Very soon we will be starting with Chez Raphael," said Larsson of the posh Novi restaurant.

WINCHESTER ELEMENTARY SCHOOL

Winchester held its final PTA meeting on June 6. New officers for the 1990-91 school year were approved. They are Linda Jo Hare, president; Ann DeTatto, vice president; Cindy Guldrey, secretary; and Robin VanSlyke, treasurer. Winchester received an award for "beautification" on our grounds. This award is due to the work that Kathy Aboud and Bonnie DeSiro have put forth.

PTA received a 100 percent membership award from the Michigan PTA again this year. Thank you for all of your support. Beginning next year two new committees are being introduced. They are . . . Volunteers in Education, this program is designed to have volunteers work with a student in any area or assist the teacher with computers, etc. Our fourth grade students will be running a supply store as part of their curriculum. This will begin in September and will meet the needs of all our students (pencils, paper, glue sticks, folders, etc.).

Disbursement committee met in May. They purchased new display case doors, classical tapes, teacher allocation for next year, funds for computer needs, funds for the supply store.

Fun Run and Ice Cream Social was a big success again this year. PTA and room volunteers wish to thank the staff for the lovely tea given on May 31. The food, beverages, and company were great. The best treat of all was the rap song performed by the staff.

Winchester PTA appreciates all volunteers that have helped us in making this year a successful one. Without your time and efforts we could not have been able to achieve this success. See you in September at the Welcome Back Coffee on Sept. 7 at 9:30 a.m.

OUR LADY OF VICTORY SCHOOL

Students will not be required to wear uniforms in the month of June. All are encouraged to wear proper attire.

Plans for Field Day are coming along well. We are still in need of volunteers for the afternoon. If you could assist, please call Pam Burke at 348 0719 or the school office.

The PTA Fun Fair was held Thursday, May 31.

If you have not received the flyer sent out by Northville Schools regarding their summer school program, please stop by the school office for a copy.

The PTA is sponsored an Appreciation Luncheon for the staff on Tuesday, June 12, at 11:30 a.m.

'Down home in Kentucky' Bluegrass State has plenty of attractions for weekend trips

By John Castle

The Mason-Dixon Line doesn't count. The South really begins where grits come with your eggs and the waitress draws "Y'all come back."

Dixie is only 275 miles away. You enter it at the Ohio River.

The South begins in Kentucky.

The Bluegrass State is no stranger to us. We've visited her for years and have grown to know her well. We've floated her rivers, climbed her hills, explored her caves, and hiked over her emerald grass.

When suburban life becomes dull, we pack up and head south. It's Lexington at Easter, Lake Cumberland in summer, Paducah in autumn, and Cumberland Falls for Christmas.

Kentucky embraces all seasons. She always offers a smorgasbord of things to do. But we've found it's better to nibble them a few days at a time rather than trying to gobble them up in one long visit.

Close and compact, Kentucky is ideal for the weekend wanderer.

This spring we left home at 6 a.m. on a Friday. We breakfasted off I-75 two exits below Toledo and crossed into Kentucky before noon. At 12:30 p.m. we rolled into the Winners Circle Motel in Georgetown.

We always spend our first night there. The family-owned motel is clean, comfortable and economical ($27 for a double). Best of all, it tolerates the small poodle who travels with us.

Georgetown provides a good base of operations. It's within five miles of the famous Horse Park, even closer to the new Toyota Plant. Bustling Lexington is only 10 miles down the road. Sleepy Frankfort, the capital, lies 17 miles to the west.

You can visit all four in a couple of hours. And that's what we did that first afternoon. We made the circuit and got back in time for a nap before dinner.

Our Golden Corral supper was super — sirloin tips with sauteed green peppers, and fried catfish with hush puppies.

After eating, we walked down to the Georgetown Flea Market. The market is a weekend institution. Hill folk hawk their wares from rusty vans and pickups. They sell everything from hand-hewn axe handles to rare whiskey bottles. I bought an ancient leather tool, my wife a home-made chess set.

That night we made plans to visit

Natural Bridge State Resort Park the next day. Each time we go to Kentucky we target a new area. Eventually, we plan to see all of her hidden wonders a weekend at a time.

The state resort parks are especially appealing. They are comfortable and colorful. Most are located in rustic areas. They usually have a central lodge circled by cabins or cottages. All provide spectacular views.

There are 15 parks and we have stayed in more than half of them. Each has its own personality. At Lake Cumberland, wildlife sets the tone. White-tailed deer abound there. And on one hike I saw a woodchuck that looked as big as a beaver. The lake teemed with fish.

Pine Mountain features back-country vistas. It is ringed by misty hills that deepen the mystery of the brooding Cumberland Forest.

Carter Caves Resort Park offers exploration. The park is honeycombed with caverns, some not fully charted. I had my first taste of spelunking there.

Our guide led us along an underground corridor. Stopping at a two foot-wide tunnel, he said, "Keep them flashlights shinin' and your heads down. Now, y'all follow me."

He squeezed into the hole, and we wiggled in behind. For the next two hours our group crawled through a maze of tunnels not much larger than roadway culverts.

We were so busy moving forward that claustrophobia never entered our minds. Then we stopped to rest.

"Let's turn off them lights and set here a spell," the guide said after leading us into a low cavern.

I got tired of resting on my elbows and tried to sit up. My hard hat hit the ceiling. I panicked. Luckily, I managed to fight off my fear without anyone knowing it.

Our visit to Natural Bridge was less adventurous. But it had its moments.

The park's centerpiece is a natural sandstone bridge. There is a great view from the top. But you have to be careful. There aren't many rails to hang on to, and a misstep could trigger a nasty fall.

We had lunch in the park's dining room, feasting on a "soul food" menu of sugar-cured ham, red beans, white gravy and pecan pie.

We decided to drive through Red River Gorge on our way back to Georgetown. The gorge is within five miles of the park exit.

You can enter it through a mountain tunnel once used to snake out logs. Inside, scenic turnouts overlook forested slopes and rocky spires. Foot paths wind across the faces of cliffs. The Red River below sparkles in the midday sun. The gorge is a modern Shangri-la that will live forever because the federal government has earmarked it a National Geological Area.

The four-lane super highway whisked us back to the motel in time to change and wash up for dinner.

That evening we had an early supper at Loudon Square Buffet in Lexington. We broke cornbread with native Kentuckians. Their tan cheeks and white foreheads made it obvious they were "country."

We meandered back to Georgetown along the Iron Works Pike. The two-lane blacktop stretches for several miles through horse country. On each side, lavish farmhouse and ornate stables dotted the landscape. Spring filled the air. Trees were leafing out over grass so green it looked blue.

The scene was spellbinding. Behind fences so white they glistened, foals frolicked awkwardly as brood mares munched contentedly on the lush pasture. A carpet of green swept as far as the eye could see. Crumbling rock walls built in Civil War days edged the roadway. We felt at ease with the world drifting along absorbing the southern ambience.

At the north end of the pike a gaggle of gray barns loomed over the farmland. They marked the Kentucky Horse Park. We didn't stop this time. But we usually go inside at least once a year to see if the museum still displays a sidesaddle we donated awhile back.

We left Kentucky for home early Sunday morning. Our stay had been brief but full; so busy it seemed like we had been gone a week, not two and a half days.

What to do in Kentucky

Kentucky publicizes the "uncommon wealth" of things to do. There are lots of attractions. The Bluegrass State offers everything from modern resort parks and horse museums to mountain views and country markets.

Resort Parks:

Fifteen state resort parks dot Kentucky. The closest to suburban Detroit is General Butler on the Ohio River at Carrollton; the farthest away is Kentucky Dam Village in the state's western waterlands.

You can't go wrong by starting off with Carter Caves, Natural Bridge or Lake Cumberland. These parks are only a day's drive away, and each has its own distinct personality.

For park information, call (800) 255-7275 or write to the Kentucky Department of Parks, Capital Plaza Tower, Frankfort, Kentucky, 40601.

Kentucky Horse Park:

If you like horses, the Horse Park is a must. It covers more than 1,000 acres and lies just off I-75 between Georgetown and Lexington.

The park offers a wide-screen film on horses, a museum tracing the history of the horse, a walk or wagon tour of barns and grounds and other horse-related attractions.

For more information on the Horse Park and other sites in the Lexington area, call (800) 848-1224.

Hotels:

Aside from the customary chains, you can find mom-and-pop motels that are clean, reasonably priced and homey. One of the best is the Winners Circle Motel at Georgetown.

Restaurants:

Wonder off the beaten path for "down home" restaurants. Most serve cornbread, grits, catfish and other southern dishes. I recommend the Loudon Square Buffet in Lexington. It caters to native Kentuckians. Bring a big appetite and don't be ashamed to go back for seconds or thirds.

Kentucky crafts:

You'll find wood carvings, homemade furniture and other hand-crafted articles all over the state. The Georgetown Flea Market is a gold mine for antique hunters. Berea, home of Berea College and Boone Tavern is another good place.

The grave of the legendary racehorse Man o' War attracts visitors near the entrance to the Kentucky Horse Park

Recycling gains in popularity

Recycling is becoming so popular that it might even challenge baseball as the national pastime.

But even the game of sorting, packaging and dropping off materials has a few rules.

"More and more people are recycling because a greater number of people are becoming environmentally aware," said Lenora Jadun, director of the Resource Recovery and Recycling Authority of Southwest Oakland County.

"Being environmentally conscious is inconvenient because it means donating a portion of your basement or garage to sort and store waste, but more and more people are doing it," she explained.

The first thing novices need to learn is locations of local recycling operations and hours, which are as follows:

Novi residents: The center is located behind the Civic Center on Ten Mile Road. It is open 24 hours.

Northville City residents: The center is located at the Department of Public Works yard on Doherty Drive and is open Wednesdays, 3-7 p.m., and Saturdays, 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. However, only City of Northville residents are prohibited and a driver's license is required to show city residency.

Northville Township residents: Use the 24-hour drop-off center just north of Five Mile on Sheldon.

In addition to location and times, it is equally important to find out what each center will and will not accept.

Most local facilities accept newspapers, some types of glass, plastic milk containers and tin cans. But it is important to wash and remove labels on tin cans and milk jugs.

Both Northville centers also accept batteries and used oil.

Novi hopes to add a motor oil drop-off by July 1 and a hazardous household disposal facility later this year.

Prohibited at nearly all facilities are drinking glasses, light bulbs, mirrors, junk mail, glossy flyers, magazines, phone books, catalogs, cookware, ceramic and coated glass, hangers, and aerosol and paint cans.

The following are general tips for recyclers:

Use a cardboard box which can be reused to transport papers instead of plastic or brown paper bags. Use cloth hand towels instead of paper towels, or at least opt for recycled paper towels.

Squash tin cans to save space. Buy laundry detergents and other household items in bulk to cut down packaging.

Use reusable cloth bags at the grocery store or opt for stores which have returnable plastic jugs.

Avoid buying meats packaged in plastic foam.

Use ceramic mugs and conventional silverware in lieu of paper cups and disposable utensils.

Shop for combination products like laundry soap with fabric softener to eliminate extra packaging.

Buy products made of recycled materials and packaged in recycled containers.

Library's summer program begins

Northville Public Library's Summer Reading 1990 will have a culinary theme. Elementary school-age readers are invited to join in the very popular program, which is entitled "Batches of Books." Six special presentations will include edible experiments, science, magic, juggling, safety tips, and participation in Northville's Fourth of July Parade. Programs will take place on Wednesdays at 2 p.m., June 20-July 25.

Children who are not yet reading may enroll in the "Read-to-Me" program. Young listeners will keep a record of favorite books which have been read to them by their parents. Participants of both, "Batches of Books" and "Read-to-Me" programs will receive small prizes and certificates. Registration begins June 15 and will continue until June 29. For more information, visit the library or call 349-3020.

POTTERY DISPLAY — An exhibit of pottery and sculpture by artist Joan Leslie Weinberg will be on display at the Novi Civic Center until Friday, June 29.

Weinberg maintains her studio in Novi and works in all phases of hand-built pottery and sculpture. She has studied ceramics at Michigan State University, the Center for Creative Studies and the Birmingham Bloomfield Art Associates.

The public is welcome Monday through Friday, 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. For more information, call 347-0400.

In Town

Orchestra, will be playing a gig in Northville on Friday, June 15, at 7 p.m. in the Northville Gazebo off Main Street downtown. If many of you remember the big band jazz group from years past, they are back with a new name, new look, and a brand new sound system. They have plenty of fresh talent in their new members and claim to be better than ever. Come on out and see for yourself.

BIBLE SCHOOL — "Journeys with Jesus" is the theme of vacation Bible school at the First Presbyterian Church in Northville. The community is invited to attend the classes for 4-12 year olds on June 25-29. Vacation Bible school is in session from 9:30 a.m. to noon and will be held, this year, at the Mill Race Village on Griswold.

Journeys with Jesus is an exciting and important learning opportunity for children. It aims to provide a learner-centered, fun-filled, and happy occasion for all who participate. Each child will receive a t-shirt and there will be a pizza party on the last day.

Registration for vacation Bible school is now in progress. Cost is $10 per child or $25 per family.

You can register or obtain additional information by visiting the church office between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. Monday through Friday, or by calling 349-0911.

DINOSAUR EXHIBIT — "Dinosaurs: They're Back" is an exhibit that will be at the Novi Public Library until June 15. Just ask at the front desk for directions to the collection of dinosaur puzzles, books and authentic dinosaur bones and droppings (yes, droppings!) that have been petrified.

TALENT SHOW — Every Sunday evening at 8:30 p.m. Whispers Lounge in the Novi Hilton is giving people the opportunity to sing before a live audience.

It all happens with the aid of a new laser-vision videodisc player, TV monitor and "key controller," which automatically sets the key of the music to the singer's voice.

Each Sunday, performers compete before a live audience and a talent agent who will decide nightly winners. Winners will be awarded dinner for two in the Swan restaurant and will be allowed to compete in the grand sing-off.

The grand prize winner will have a videotape of their performance sent to Ed McMahon's "Star Search" program. For more information, call 349-4000.

Garden tour held in Grosse Pointe

The Council of Grosse Pointe Garden Clubs has selected Friday, June 29, through Sunday, July 1, as the dates for their 17th Annual Garden Tour. Hours will be from 1-5 p.m. each of the three days (rain or shine). The presale price of the tickets is $6 and may be purchased by calling the Ticket Chairpersons, Mrs. Eberhard Mammen, 884-0966 or Mrs. Arthur Blumenstock, 882-8078. There are eight Grosse Pointe Gardens on this year's tour.

SING-ALONG — Treat Dad to some unusual entertainment on the eve of his special day. On Saturday, June 16, Kempf House will hold its annual Sing-Along featuring songs from the Gay 90's, led by an authentic barber shop quartet. The festivities will also include a mustache contest with judges from the Dasco Barber Shop. Visitors will be treated to an old-fashioned melodrama and a display of mustache cups from days gone by. The time is 8 p.m. Admission is free. Come with or without a mustache. For more information, call 996-3008.

CANOE INSTRUCTION — Three canoe instruction clinics will be held at Gallup Park in Ann Arbor during the month of June: June 16, 19 and 23. These instructional clinics provide a popular way in which families or individuals can learn about basic canoeing techniques including strokes, handling and safety.

The two-hour clinics begin at 10 a.m. and provide one hour of instruction and one hour of leisure and practice paddling at the scenic Gallup Park. All equipment and canoes are provided. The fee is $7.50 per person. For more information, call 662-9319.

GRAND PRIX — It's about time again for the Valvoline Detroit Grand Prix. The schedule of events is as follows:

Special Car Displays: See a variety of exquisite race and sports cars throughout the Renaissance Center June 8-18. For more information, call 568-5800.

Eyes on the Classic: See free-standing art displays of Classic Cars located in the Jefferson Avenue Atrium.

The Great Weat'n Grand Prix Party: Rev up for the Grand Prix with live bands and 96.3 FM deejays on Friday, June 15, from 5:30 p.m. to 1:30 a.m. and on Saturday, June 16, from 7 p.m. to 1:30 a.m. on the Promenade level. Cover charge is $5. Cash bar and snacks will be available. For more information, call 871-4754.

Valvoline Detroit Grand Prix Race: Friday practice and qualifications for support race series are free. Tickets for Saturday and Sunday, June 16-17, are available at Grand Prix Ticket Office, Tower 400, Level 1, or call 259-7749.

ART FAIR — The 20th Annual Outdoor Art Fair, sponsored by the Royal Oak Department of Recreation and Public Service and the Royal Oak Arts Council, will be held Saturday, July 7 and Sunday, July 8 in Memorial Park, Woodward and 13 Mile in Royal Oak.

The fair will open at 11 a.m. both days and run until 6 p.m.

The artists were juried for entry into the art fair. 95 Michigan and out-of-state artists are entered into the categories of pottery, metal work, painting in various media, wood crafts, photography, sculpture, glass, jewelry, weaving and leather.

A variety of food and beverage concessions will be available. There is no admission charge, and the fair will be held rain or shine.

ON STAGE — "Jesus Christ Superstar," the memorable 1971 Andrew Lloyd Webber/Tim Rice musical, will complete the current Birmingham Theater season. It opened May 16 for a five-week engagement through June 17, and it stars Adrian Zmed.

Show times are Tuesday through Saturday at 8 p.m.; Sunday, 2 and 7 p.m.; and a Wednesday matinee at 2 p.m. Tickets range from $17.50 to $29.50 and are available at the Birmingham Theater Box Office 844-3533 and at all Ticketmaster Outlets.

STAGE COMEDY — The Performance Network of Ann Arbor presents Vaclav Havel's "The Memorandum" on June 21 through July 8. This Obie-award winning comedy is written by Czechoslovakia's foremost playwright and newly elected president.

Performance times are Thursdays, Fridays, and Saturdays at 8 p.m. and Sundays at 6:30 p.m. Tickets are $9 or $7 for students and seniors. The Performance Network is located at 408 W. Washington, Ann Arbor. For reservations, call 663-0681.

The Northville Record

Staknis, Apligian named to first team

Here is the 1990 Sliger-Livingston East softball first team, as selected by sportswriters from The Milford Times, The Northville Record, The Novi News and The South Lyon Herald:

JENNY DUGGAN, Lakeland, pitcher: Only a junior, Duggan won 20 of 24 decisions and helped the Eagles to a share of their fourth consecutive Kensington Valley Conference title.

"Jenny was a key player for us, no doubt about that," Lakeland coach Kent Griffiths said. "She won 23 games on the junior varsity last year, but you never know how a player's going to do once she moves up."

"Jenny did a great job, though. She worked hard in the off-season and really cut down on her walks the last few weeks of the season."

One of the hardest throwers in the KVC, Duggan gave up 107 hits and struck out 97 in 150½ innings. She also posted a 1.58 ERA.

ROZANN STAKNIS, Northville, pitcher: One of the top hurlers in the Western Lakes Activities Association, this senior exceeded all expectations. She was credited with 13 victories in 18 decisions and had an area-best 1.43 ERA.

"Rozann did better than I thought she'd do," Northville coach Bob Gerlach said. "I had reservations about making her our starting pitcher because she was an all-league third baseman last year. But she developed two pitches, a fastball and a change-up, and that made her much more effective."

Staknis fanned 110 batters, walked just 54 and notched one save. In addition, she was named the Mustangs' Most Valuable Player and was an all-division pick in the WLAA.

"We didn't give her a lot of offensive support early in the season, so even though her numbers are great, they could have been even better," Gerlach said.

LAURA APLIGIAN, Northville, catcher: Many feel this sophomore will play Division I college softball one day. She was the only Mustang to hit above .300, and she seemed to be involved in almost every scoring rally.

"You run out of superlatives when you talk about Laura," Northville coach Bob Gerlach said. "She still needs to mature, but to put a young sophomore at clean-up and have her perform the way she did was amazing. It seemed like she was either knocking in runs or scoring them when we were rallying."

The Northville team played only 21 games this season, but Apligian had 19 RBIs, blasted an area-best three homers and scored 29 runs. She added 10 doubles, a triple and nine stolen bases to go along with her .352 average.

"She's the best catcher I've seen at this level," Gerlach said. "She was the best catcher in our conference, by far. She picked off five runners in one game."

KELLIE KOERTGE, Lakeland, infielder: Another of the Eagles' talented underclassmen, this junior third baseman recorded a team-high .404 batting average and .920 fielding percentage.

Koertge collected 42 hits in 104 official at-bats, and was among area leaders with 23 RBIs and 33 runs. She also recorded 66 assists while in the field.

"Kellie is an ideal second hitter," Lakeland coach Kent Griffiths said. "She can bunt, we can hit-and-run with her... she just handles the bat real well."

DANA MARGIOTTA, Lakeland, infielder: A quick bat, soft hands and strong throwing arm were the keys to success for Margiotta, who is just a sophomore.

The pitcher-shortstop, who placed first in the All-KVC voting, was second on her team with a .393 batting average. She also managed five doubles, 25 RBIs and 36 runs.

As a pitcher, Margiotta went 10-4 with a 1.98 ERA. She allowed 71 hits and fanned 57 in 95½ innings.

"In my opinion, Dana is one of the best players in the state," Lakeland coach Kent Griffiths said. "She does everything really well. The fact that she taught herself to pitch in one year is proof of her talent."

Margiotta also set a school record with 70 assists, and committed only nine errors in 115 chances for a .921 fielding average.

HEATHER SPINDLER, Novi, infielder: For someone who never played fast-pitch softball before, this senior had a remarkable campaign. The transfer student from Louisiana stepped right into the Wildcat lineup and was a solid performer both on offense and defense.

"The thing that impressed me was that she was an aggressive hitter," Novi coach John Peace said. "In 15 years of coaching, I've never seen a kid come out, without having played before, and perform like this."

Spindler batted .350, drove in 19 runs, scored 16 runs, stole 12 bases and added eight doubles.

"She really made our infield solid on the left side when I put her at shortstop," Peace added. "She has a good arm and is a very smart, heady player. She doesn't get rattled."

HEATHER WALTERS, South Lyon, infielder: As a result of defensive improvement, this junior shortstop became one of the area's most complete players.

"Heather's one of the best fielders in the KVC," Lions coach Gary Huettner said. "She made eight errors, but she also made a lot of tough plays. She was great going into the hole and making that long throw."

"As a hitter, I can't say enough about her consistency. You could always count on her for a hit or two."

Walters led the Lions in several offensive categories, including average (.348), doubles (4) and RBIs (12). She also scored 14 runs.

Two Mustangs make 2nd team

Here is a closer look at the Sliger-Livingston East, second team All-Area Softball selections:

HEATHER CAMPBELL, Novi, pitcher: This junior hurler was a very important contributor — after all, she was credited with every Novi victory (and defeat) during the 1990 season.

Despite an underwhelming 15-27 record, Campbell was one of the area's top strikeout pitchers with 134 in 42 games, and she only walked 44. Her ERA was 4.70, but dropped to 3.60 in non-league contests.

"We wouldn't have been anywhere near as successful as we were without Heather Campbell," Novi coach John Peace said. "She pitched all but four innings for us this season. That's some kind of work ethic."

At the plate, Campbell batted .291, led her team with 32 runs and added 19 steals.

LYNDSY SIPP, South Lyon, pitcher: This senior righthander won only five games, but her 1.67 ERA is evidence that she deserved a better fate.

Sipp threw one two-hitter, two three-hitters and five four-hitters for the Lions, who struggled both offensively and defensively this season.

"Lyndsy, in my opinion, was a solid pitcher," South Lyon coach Gary Huettner said. "We just didn't support her very much. We either didn't score enough runs or we'd kill ourselves with errors."

Sipp issued only 21 walks in 130 innings, while striking out 60 batters.

MARY GRACE YANKOWSKI, Novi, catcher: This first-year varsity player certainly had an impressive debut. She led Novi with a .380 batting average in KVC games (.373 overall) and also had more hits than any of her teammates (50).

Yankowski was among area leaders in other categories like RBIs (32), steals (12) and doubles (6) as well.

"When Mary Grace was up to bat, she was a real threat," Wildcats coach John Peace said. "She got a lot of key hits for us and she'll be a force for us for a couple more years."

DIANE BECKERT, Northville, infielder: Good teams always seem to have unsung heroes, and Beckert was one for the Mustangs. A marginal varsity player a year ago, this senior worked on her game in the off-season and became a real contributor.

"Diane's numbers weren't real high, but she provided us with things you can't always measure, like leadership and defense," Northville coach Bob Gerlach said. "She worked hard in the off-season to earn the starting first base job and she made tremendous strides. I think the big difference was maturity. She really came a long way in one year."

Beckert was named Northville's Most Improved Player.

KHRISTY McALLISTER, Lakeland, infielder: This senior first baseman lived up to her reputation as a solid hitter, collecting 35 hits in 99 at-bats for a .354 average.

"Khristy has always been able to hit the ball," Eagles coach Kent Griffiths said. "She's a real asset offensively. She bunts well and rarely strikes out. We were able to use her in a lot of ways."

A three-year varsity player, McAllister also totaled 23 RBIs and 22 runs from her No. 5 spot in Lakeland's batting order.

DEANNA REED, Novi, infielder: One of the most dangerous offensive threats in the KVC, Reed knocked in 32 runs this spring, giving her nearly 70 RBIs for the past two seasons.

"Yes, Deanna drives in an awful lot of runs," Novi coach John Peace said. "She moves the ball and seems to get a lot of key hits. I was pleased with her season."

ALLYSON JOBE, Milford, outfielder: This three-year varsity performer was third on her team with a .330 batting average, collecting 34 hits—seven for extra bases—in 104 official at-bats.

Jobe also excelled in right field, a position she had never played prior to this season.

"Allyson had been our second baseman in the past," Milford coach Mark Pingston said. "We made the switch for a couple of reasons. She wasn't all that happy about it at first, but ended up doing real well there. She made the adjustment look easy."

Jobe's other offensive statistics include four doubles, three triples, 14 RBIs, 20 runs, 13 stolen bases and eight walks. She batted either third, fourth or fifth in Milford's lineup.

JENNY McBRIDE, Lakeland, outfielder: Considered the 'athlete' of her team, this junior center fielder excelled with strength, speed and aggressiveness.

"She's a real racehorse," Eagles coach Kent Griffiths said. "She plays hard, too. She'll dive for balls in the outfield... and she's also a head-first slider. There aren't a whole lot of things she can't do."

McBride batted .381 and led her team in hits (45), triples (7), home runs (2), RBIs (27) and runs (37). Her triple total established a school record.

Lakeland coach Kent Griffiths batted her sixth this season, but plans to move her to the lead-off spot next spring.

"Amy can fly," the coach commented. "She's a good contact hitter and also runs the bases well. She's the type of player who can get things going in a hurry."

Miller's other statistics include one double, 30 runs and 20 stolen bases.

"She was great on defense, too," Griffiths added. "With (Jenny) McBride in center and (Michelle) Jayne in right, we had three kids who could really move out there."

BECKY PINGSTON, Milford, designated hitter: Considered her team's best player by most, this senior led the Redskins in batting average (.379), doubles (10), RBIs (27) and runs (32).

Pingston also was Milford's best pitcher, posting a 16-14 record and 1.52 ERA.

"Becky had a real good year," said Mark Pingston, her coach and father. "She had to put more time into pitching, which made her batting average drop off a bit, but you can't complain about her numbers."

Pingston's offensive totals include two triples, one home run, 12 stolen bases, six walks and only six strikeouts in 146 plate appearances. As a pitcher, she gave up 43 earned runs and struck out 178 batters in 198 innings.

"Becky's going to Alma College and hopes to play volleyball and softball," her coach added. "In softball, they're talking about using her as a catcher. That's the one thing about her. She's versatile enough to play a lot of positions."

Jim Storm signs with Michigan Tech

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN
Staff Writer

The Storm family has been an athletic institution in Northville for the better part of the last decade. Whether it's on the ice, in the pool or on the field, the Storms have been outstanding.

The latest from this family to make an impact is Jim Storm, a 1989 Northville High graduate. A member of the Compuware Junior A team of the Northern American Junior Hockey League for the past two years, Storm has just signed a national letter of intent to play his college hockey at Michigan Tech University.

The 6-foot-2, 200-pound winger is the first big recruit for new Huskie Coach Newell Brown. Last season, Storm led Compuware in scoring with 38 goals and 73 assists in 55 games. The team went 58-3-3 and his 111 points placed him third overall in league scoring. During the 1988-89 season, Storm registered 30 goals and 45 assists.

Storm was also considering a full-ride scholarship offer from Lake Superior State, but Laker Coach Frank Anzalone was recently fired. Storm plans to major in business at Michigan Tech.

Jim's older sister Kim started the Storm tradition back in the early 80s. She was an All-American swimmer at Northville High School in 1981 under coach Ben Lauber and went on to an All-American swim career at Northern Michigan.

John Storm graduated from Northville High in 1985 and was an All-Conference tackle in football.

Melanie Apligian, Beckert honored

The senior batted .418, scored 21 runs, stole 19 bases, belted nine doubles and had an on-base percentage of .472.

"She had a little slump in the middle of the season and her average dropped below .400, but she came back strong at the end," Peace said.

KAREN SALVATI, Milford, infielder: Salvati's the name, power's her game.

This senior first baseman hit the ball hard on a consistent basis, resulting in eight doubles, three triples and one home run. She also knocked in 17 runs and scored 21.

"Karen's capable of hitting the ball a long way," Milford coach Mark Pingston said. "Her average dipped a little bit this year, but she still hit a lot of balls hard. If you look at her stats closely, you'll find that she was safe on a lot of errors. That's because she hits the ball hard and people can't handle it."

Salvati recorded 32 hits in 104 at-bats, good for a .307 average.

MELANIE APLIGIAN, Northville, outfielder: For the number of at-bats and hits this season, this junior was one of the area's most efficient offensive players. It was on defense, however, that she truly excelled.

Apligian had just 13 hits for the season (.236 average), but more than half of them were extra-base hits. She posted three homers, three doubles, a triple, 13 RBIs, 27 runs and eight stolen bases.

"Her speed in the outfield is her strength," Northville coach Bob Gerlach said. "Not many people can run like she can. She gets to the balls and then she makes the plays. When she got hits, they seemed to be for extra bases, but I'd say she was more important to us as a defender."

JULIE CAMERON, Milford, outfielder: A project player when the season opened, this sophomore developed into an explosive performer for the Redskins.

"Julie really came on toward the end of the season," Milford coach Mark Pingston said. "She worked hard to improve herself and then took advantage when she got an opportunity to play."

"Right now, Julie lacks the knowledge and some of the skills that the other girls have. But she's getting better every day. She makes up for it with desire and great athletic ability."

JENNY SHANKS, South Lyon, outfielder: On a team which struggled defensively, this junior was one of the few bright spots. Her speed and grace enabled her to cover a lot of ground in center field, and her strong throwing arm kept opposing runners honest.

Offensively, she recorded a .239 batting average with eight RBIs, 13 runs and 10 stolen bases.

"Jenny was almost flawless in the field," Lions coach Gary Huetter said. "I was impressed with how much she improved at the plate, too. Her average doesn't seem like much, but she's about 100 points higher than last year."

KRISTEN MATHIAS, Novi, designated hitter: Just a sophomore, Mathias was a legitimate designated hitter who did her job at the plate. She batted .366, scored 18 times and swiped 15 bases.

"Kristen did not hit that strong in the beginning of the season, but she came on," Novi coach John Peace said. "She has great speed. She can absolutely fly, so she was dangerous once she got on base. She needs to work on her defensive game, but I think she has the tools."

Baseballers struggle with bottom line

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN
Staff Writer

Northville's 1990 baseball campaign was very similar to the preceding three seasons. Of course there were bright spots and outstanding efforts, but the Mustangs still struggled when it came to the bottom line — just like they have since the mid-1980s.

The team's 8-16 mark wasn't much different from the 10-17 record in '89, the 9-17 record in '88, or the 8-18 season of '87. The bottom line clearly shows that the Northville program has been struggling for wins since the last winning season in 1986. The team's 35-68 record since then means the Mustangs are winning at just a .339 percentage.

"There's no doubt, we had some tough losses this year," Northville Coach Bob Frellick said. "There were a lot of positives during the season, but we did have a lot of ups and downs. We played very well at times, but we weren't able to maintain it."

And the inconsistencies were plain to see. After an encouraging 7-7 start, the Mustangs managed to win just two of their final 10 contests. The team's 4-6 division mark (good for a third place tie) was quite a bit better.

"I thought win-loss wise we'd be better this year," Frellick admitted. "Ability-wise, I thought we could be better. This year we were very competitive, but not consistent."

"We played well defensively until the end of the season, and our pitchers issued too many walks. Those types of mistakes will come back to haunt you."

Pitching was supposed to be a strength, and all things considered, it was. Junior George Smoljer burst on the scene to become the team's ace with a 3-1 record and a fine 2.22 earned run average, and 6-foot-6 junior Mike Lang fanned 47 despite some control problems. Others like John Schrieber (Sr.) and John Chivazza (Sr.) pitched well on occasion, but were inconsistent. And the loss of starter Tim Hubbert (Sr.) to back problems was a severe blow.

"Overall, I was pleased with the pitching," Frellick said. "We had a team ERA of 4.2, and with guys like Smoljer and Lang back next year, we should be solid in that area. When Hubbert got hurt, we brought in Smoljer and he did an outstanding job. You have to remember that he wasn't even in the starting rotation when the season started. And at the plate (.348 average, eight doubles) he

Offensively, the big stars were shortstop Joe Kaley and first baseman Steve Vigh, but Northville boasted only four regulars with batting averages above .300. It's not much compared to area teams like Novi and Milford who had team averages above .350.

Kaley was a team leader in all phases. He led the team in batting (.358) and was a solid defensive shortstop (.948 fielding average). He scored 18 runs, knocked in 12 runs and collected four doubles.

"In my opinion, there wasn't a better shortstop in our conference than Joe Kaley," Frellick said. "He was truly a team leader. He has good intensity and competitiveness, and he's a fine all-around athlete."

Vigh — with a .354 average, 13 RBIs, 12 runs scored and seven doubles — wasn't far behind. At first base, he was outstanding (.990 fielding average), and at the plate he's produced big numbers for the last two seasons.

"Steve is what I'd classify as a natural first baseman," Frellick said. "He obviously has a good bat, and he's solid defensively."

Graduation losses will be stiff for next year, including regulars like Kaley, Vigh, Mike Jambor (outfield), John McNeil (outfield), Pat Kozdron (third base) and several pitchers. But Northville should be strong up the middle in '91 with catcher Josh Weigand, secondbasemen Ryan Huzak, and outfielder Dan Kozdron all returning. Kozdron batted .311, Huzak showed a lot of potential for a sophomore, and Weigand — just a freshman — had an impressive debut.

"In my opinion, Josh had an awesome year," Frellick said. "To be a freshman and hit .270, you have something going for you."

Filling three starting infield positions will be the big challenge for Frel-lick next season. The prospects for the program's first winning season in five years aren't very good unless that area can be bolstered.

"We haven't had this many quality pitchers returning in a long time," Frellick said. "I'd say we'll have the strongest staff we've had since I've been around. I feel as confident going into next season as I did going into this season."

Unfortunately, that confidence didn't translate into very many wins this spring.

Lifestyle can affect health costs

A university of Michigan health and fitness survey of 2,000 employees at Steelcase Inc., a Michigan manufacturing corporation, found that just 10 percent of the employees accounted for 66 percent of the firm's health care costs. Many of the health problems were related to smoking, alcohol consumption, drug abuse, high-fat diets, lack of exercise and uncontrolled high blood pressure.

"The findings raise several questions," said Prof. D.W. Edington, director of the U-M Fitness Research Center, and Louis Yen, research assistant at the Center. "Should all employees bear the health care costs of a minority who persist in unhealthy lifestyles? Does a company have the right to insist that its employees adopt healthier lifestyles? And do employees have the right to demand fitness and employee assistance programs?"

"We are swiftly moving into an era of increasing conflict between two prized American values — access to health care and the freedom to choose how we live," Edington said. "Something has got to give."

The U-M study found that the employees generally knew how fit they were. "Employees who rated their health as 'fair' or 'poor' in 1985 became ill more frequently and had higher health costs in the following three years than those who had answered 'good' or 'excellent,'" Edington said.

More than half of all chronic diseases, including cancer and heart disease, are related to lifestyle, Edington pointed out. "And lifestyle is a predictor of future health. We found that diastolic blood pressure levels were good health predictors in men ages 35-64, while more than 20 drinks a week (nearly three a day) predicted health problems in men of all ages and among women younger than 35." Seat belt use and smoking also were predictors at all ages.

A healthy lifestyle — like running — can help keep health costs down

"When we correlate lifestyle, disease and health care costs, it seems to me that the policy implications are clear," Edington said. "Companies must begin to require employees to try to change their lifestyles through employee assistance and fitness programs and employees must begin to demand that such programs be available to them."

If managers and employees do not pursue such positive measures, Edington believes, corporations will soon be turning to a more negative one: insurance surcharges on those who lead high-risk lifestyles.

"This is already happening to state employees in Kansas — $10 a month — and the policy is surfacing in a number of corporations across the country," he said.

U.S. health care costs now amount to more than $500 billion a year — 12 percent of the Gross National Product (GNP) — compared with the 1960s when they were $100 billion a year or 5 percent of the GNP. Currently, U.S. companies collectively lose about $33 billion a year because of impaired employee productivity due to drug or alcohol use.

"And those costs are likely to rise as the baby boomers, edging into their 40s, begin to reap the rewards or consequences of their lifestyles," Edington said.

Edington noted that although Americans treasure the freedom to live as they choose, over the past 15 years society has become increasingly willing to curtail individual lifestyle "freedoms" in the name of protecting citizens from disease.

"Specifically, many states are enforcing seat belt use and mandating smoke-free buildings," he said. "Congress has banned smoking on domestic flights. Some companies are conducting employee drug testing and more are considering it. The Navy is discharging seriously overweight sailors. And most people are willing to accept these regulations."

"As the connection between behavior and health becomes more and more obvious," Edington said, "we should begin asking smokers, drinkers and couch potatoes to take more responsibility — behavioral and financial — for themselves."

"Last year, the Michigan Department of Health offered financial grants to organizations that want to address this issue. Other states should consider similar measures. Government support is a step in the right direction and may help to head off exorbitant health care costs in the future," he concluded.

Swimnastics program starts June 19

Novi Community Education is offering a Fitness Forum Ltd. program called Swimnastics — an approach to fitness with a gentle-to-your-bones emphasis. The program puts an extra emphasis on cardiovascular health, maintaining flexibility and strengthening muscle groups.

You don't need to know how to swim to participate. The 11-week class for Mondays and Wednesdays starts on June 18; and the Tuesday-Thursday classes begins on June 19.

Costs range from $17 to $54. For more information, call 348-1200.

TIP TOP TOTS PROGRAM: Novi Community Education is offering a Tip Top Tots program for six weeks this summer starting on June 19.

The program provides equipment to encourage muscle play and exercises for flexibility and strength for youngsters. Each child must be accompanied by an adult.

The instructor is Joan Hancock and the site is the Village Oaks gym. Fee is $32.

AEROBIC FITNESS INC.: The Northville Community Recreation Department is offering a fitness program called "Aerobic Fitness, Inc." The one-hour program is designed to stretch, trim and tone. Six-week classes run continuously throughout the year.

Fee is $33 (two classes per week), $45 (three classes), $55 (unlimited). For more information, call 348-1280.

EXERCISE PROGRAM: A one-hour exercise program is held Monday and Wednesday mornings at Twelve Oaks Mall. It takes place 9-10 a.m. in the Lord & Taylor corridor near the east entrance.

The program, conducted by The University of Michigan Division of Physical Education, is particularly aimed at older people and others who would benefit from an invigorating but non-strenuous exercise program.

Fitness Notes

"The format consists of carefully guided warm-up and stretching exercise followed by light aerobics and a cool-down period, all synchronized to music," according to Prof. Phyllis E. Welkart, director of U-M's Adult Lifestyle Program. "Our objective is to improve the participants' strength, flexibility and energy level through activities which are safe and enjoyable."

Welkart and her staff have been leading the popular Fitness Over 50 classes for 12 years on the U-M campus and for the past two years at Ann Arbor's Briarwood Mall, where it regularly attracts some 125 participants.

By expanding the program to Twelve Oaks Mall, they have made it more accessible to residents throughout Livingston, Wayne and Oakland counties.

"Twelve Oaks is open an hour before the stores open (at 10 a.m. daily and noon Sunday) to accommodate people who want to use the mall for walking," notes Twelve Oaks marketing director Elaine Kah. "This exercise program adds a new dimension to this activity. We are pleased to be a part of the program."

Fitness Over 50 welcomes all interested persons, regardless of their age and current activity level. Call the Twelve Oaks Management Office, 348-9438, for further information.

Twelve Oaks is a major regional shopping center located in Novi on I-96 and Novi Road. The center hours are Monday through Saturday, 10 a.m. to 9 p.m.; and Sunday, noon to 6 p.m.

ASK-A-NURSE REFERRAL: "Ask-a-nurse," the new 24-hour health information and physician referral line sponsored by five Mercy hospitals in southeast Michigan, is offering a new speakers bureau to community groups. Program director Linda Hintze, R.N. and registered nurses who man the telephone lines seven days a week, 365 days a year, will be available to speak to groups of 15 or more about the calls they receive and how they help callers locate physicians and health or community information.

Requests should be made at least three weeks before the intended speaking engagement. There is no charge for the service and participants will give valuable information about how this service can help them day or night. ## Allergies are common during springtime

By LINDA WARREN
Special Writer

Spring is the time of year when many people become aware of their allergies. This information is about two common allergies, poison ivy and hay fever.

POISON IVY: Been pulling weeds or burning brush and then had a rash appear? Maybe it's poison ivy.

The itchy blisters of poison ivy usually show up in a straight line pattern and last from seven to 14 days. Calamine-type lotions or sprays may be applied directly to ease the itchy rash. In severe cases, an oral antihistamine may be needed to relieve the itching along with a hydrocortisone cream to apply to the skin rash.

Many people believe you can catch poison ivy from someone who has it.

The rash cannot be spread to other people nor can it be spread to other areas of the body from the blister fluid itself. The culprit is the poison ivy resin (an oil on the plant) which causes the rash. Because it is spread in this manner, it is important to bathe and wash all the clothes that were worn when the contact occurred. If the poison ivy resin is not eliminated through washing, it can be spread through the clothing or body part that made contact with the plant.

Once you know you are allergic to poison ivy, avoidance becomes the key issue. Steer clear of areas that look suspicious for poison ivy. Poison ivy plants are characterized by their three leaves.

HAYFEVER: Itchy eyes and runny nose? Maybe it's hay fever. Hay fever, or allergic rhinitis, is a seasonal reaction to inhaled allergens. If you have symptoms year round, it may mean you have perennial allergic rhinitis. Although these allergic reactions affect more than 20 million Americans in all age groups, they are particularly likely to occur in young children and adolescents.

The usual symptoms include sneezing, itchy and watery eyes, and a profuse watery nasal discharge. Allergens flourish at different times of the year and the seasonal variation can lead one to suspect allergy as the cause. Spring allergens are typically tree pollens; summer allergens are grass pollens; and early fall allergens are weed pollens. Perennial allergens include house dust, feather pillows, cigarette smoke, mold and animals, particularly household pets.

Symptoms can be helped by decongestants, antihistamines or combinations of both. Severe or resistant flareups may require injections of the substance to desensitize the affected individuals.

Helpful home measures may include sleeping with the window closed; using an air conditioner to filter moisture and dust; avoiding countryside exposure during the pollenation times and a pet-free environment.

Finding the cause of the symptoms can lead to better control of symptoms and more individual comfort.

Check cooling system to avoid summer woes

By Peter D. du Pre

Hot summer weather may make for enjoyable vacations, but it also can spell disaster for your car. Warm-weather driving places an extra strain on the cooling system that can cause the radiator to boil over, stranding you by the roadside and possibly causing severe engine damage.

That's why it's important to make sure your car's cooling system is operating at peak efficiency.

Though your car may not have any overheating problems now, that doesn't mean the cooling system is okay. Cooling system components that operate normally during driving in moderate weather can become marginal and fail when placed under heavy-duty stress of hot-weather driving.

Components of the cooling system—radiator, radiator cap, coolant, recovery tank, water pump, fan, hoses, clamps and drive belts—receive a lot of wear and tear. Thousands of gallons of hot coolant run through the system every hour in an environment where under-hood temperatures may reach 280 F.

Heat from within and without the system breaks down coolant, hoses and belts, as well as puts a strain on the water pump. As the system deteriorates, the internal radiator and engine passages become clogged with impurities and debris that cause corrosion.

As the system ages, cooling ability becomes marginal and any additional stress—such as low speed, high rpm driving (as when towing a trailer uphill) can cause overheating.

To avoid overheating problems, have the cooling system checked before the dog days of summer arrive. You can take the car to a professional who will check the condition of the coolant, hoses, belts, clamps and radiator. A check-up doesn't take long and won't cost you more than a few dollars (unless problems are discovered). Or, if you wish, you can do the job yourself.

According to the Gates Rubber Co., belts and hose failure are the primary cause of overheating problems, so it's important to check these first. Look for cracks, bulges, splits, hardness or sponginess in the hoses. Have them inspected every 15,000 miles or six months.

A good method of testing is to squeeze them between thumb and forefinger. The hose should feel firm and pliant. If it feels mushy, hard, brittle or overly soft, replace it. Check the clamps also, replacing any that are rusty or distorted.

Drive belts generally last longer than hoses, but even so, they don't last forever. Check for chunking, splits, cracks or fraying and replace the drive belts every 40,000 miles or two years, regardless of apparent condition. The two-year replacement rule is important because many of the new composition drive belts don't exhibit any signs of wear until they fail.

Have the tension checked when the belts are inspected. Incorrect belt tension is the main cause of belt failure. A belt that's too loose won't drive the water pump or alternator. So you could end up with a dead battery. Belts that are too tight crack on the underside and eventually break.

In addition, a tight drive belt will put too much stress on the water pump, alternator and air conditioner compressor, causing them to wear prematurely. Push down on the belt with your thumbs. (Make sure the engine is turned off, first.) It should flex about 1/4 of an inch when it is correctly adjusted.

Coolant, a mixture of ethylene glycol and water, breaks down with age, picking up impurities and becoming diluted. Change it every two years or 15,000 miles to ensure that it is in good condition.

One way to be sure of the coolant's condition is to start the summer with a fresh fill of the proper coolant mixture (your owner's manual will tell which type your car uses.) When replacing coolant, have the cooling system backflushed to remove the scale, corrosion and mineral deposits that build up over time.

If hoses, belts and coolant are in good condition, but the vehicle still overheats, take the car to a competent garage or radiator shop and have them check the pressure cap and radiator. They also can boil out the system and repair any leaks, as well as inspect and repair the water pump, thermostat and fan clutch.

Although most maintenance manuals suggest changing the coolant every two years, many auto experts advise changing the fluid annually and checking the condition of the belts, hoses and clamps every six months.

Here are a few tips that will help keep your car and your temperature running cool all summer long.

- Keep a spare drive belt, gallon of coolant, can of Stop Leak and roll of emergency vinyl tape (for emergency hose repair) in the trunk.
- If the car is running hot, turn on the heater. It may be uncomfortable, but it can help cool a hot engine.
- Turn off the air conditioning when driving up long hills—especially when towing a trailer.
- Have the engine steam cleaned. Baked-on oil and grease insulate the engine, keeping heat.

Motor safety begins with tires and brakes in proper working order and the equipment necessary to change a flat

Buying and maintaining tires and brakes

Your car's or truck's tires and brakes are the most active components closest to the road, yet most of us pay little attention to them. Except, of course, when they give us trouble.

Tires and brakes are covered by warranty in one way or another on new vehicles. Generally, the car warranty itself covers the brakes as long as you get service at recommended intervals.

Tires are generally covered under a separate warranty that comes with the rest of your new car paperwork. And don't be afraid to ask the salesperson about the warranty, which is sometimes transferrable to a future owner.

Give your potential purchase a complete road test before you sign any contracts, and pay attention to handling, steering, "road feel" and braking capabilities. Most of us are concerned with how well a car accelerates, but how quickly you can decelerate is just as important.

Especially with used cars, make a visual inspection of the tires. Are they obviously worn, or have they been well-maintained? The old axiom that the depth of the tread should be as deep as one half of a dime is still a good guide. Make sure the sidewalls are not scuffed beyond what you'd expect from normal use.

Be certain the tires on the car are those specified by the manufacturer. The owner's manual will list the proper tire size and speed ratings for that vehicle. A local dealer or national tire chain shop can also be of help with your intended purchase.

Even large luxury cars should be able to provide the driver with an adequate and confidence-inspiring amount of control. This feel, telegraphed to the driver through the steering wheel, is in great part determined by the condition of the tires.

Bald tires or tires run at lower than recommended air pressure will provide a sloppy neutral feeling. Tires in good shape and being run at the proper air pressure, which should be checked with an accurate gauge monthly as well as before, during and after long trips, should offer crisp, dynamic feeling.

High performance driving tires (low-profile, wide tires with "HR" and "VR" ratings) will offer greater road feel and quicker response to driver input, but there is a trade-off in comfort. Likewise, luxury car tires will usually not handle as well as sports car equipment.

Braking systems are now often connected to the on-board computer on your new car. Anti-lock brakes, if your car is so equipped, generate a pulse, turning the power on and off in milliseconds to keep the car from skidding in a panic-stop situation.

Drum brakes, found most often on the rear wheels of cars and trucks, can sometimes be adjusted by driving backward at slow speeds and pumping the brake pedal. Check with your local repair shop to see if this will work with your vehicle.

Disc brakes, normally found on the front end of today's cars, need to be serviced by qualified technicians using special tools.

You should be aware of possible brake problems. Signs such as chirping or squealing when the pedal is applied, a scraping feeling felt through the pedal or the pedal pushing farther toward the floorboard than normal when pressed hard can mean trouble. If the vehicle pulls to one side when the brakes are applied, it may mean an adjustment is in order.

Getting your car ready for summer vacations

You're a thousand miles from home. The car's packed with the kids inside, bags in the trunk, the trailer behind, the luggage rack on top. Suddenly you hear a clunk, rattle and clink. What do you do?

AAA Michigan Emergency Road Service Manager Robert Tellier recommends first that you don't put yourself in such a position on vacation trips. Instead, he said, give your vehicle a summer travel check now, or at least just before you leave.

"Many steps you'd take to prepare your car for winter are the same to follow for summer," said Tellier.

Many motorists don't bother with summer safeguards. But it's just as important since the Michigan Department of Transportation estimates motorists drive two billion more miles in summer than in winter.

"Your most important tool for vehicle maintenance is the owner's manual," advises Tellier. "But too many car owners never take it out of the car's glove compartment."

The manual is provided to inform a driver of exactly what procedures must or should be completed, and at what intervals for a particular make and model car.

AAA Michigan's Emergency Road Service receives an average of 100 calls an hour for assistance, so proper preparation for long trips may reduce the need for help.

Listen up when your car makes odd noises

When your car talks, it pays to listen. That's because the talking or sounds that your family car makes actually are clues to its mechanical well-being.

When your car is running well, you can hear it. After months, or even years, of driving a car, one becomes accustomed to the particular sound each vehicle makes.

It's those sudden strange noises that seem to pop up out of nowhere that really scare most of us. These are the sounds that require us to pull over and investigate.

Not all auto noises are so easily diagnosed. Some mechanical sounds, such as clicking, grinding or ticking, only happen under particular conditions, such as acceleration or braking.

When you hear a sound, think about when it occurs. Is the car warm or cold? Does the sound happen when turning, stopping, slowing down, accelerating? Also, try to ascertain where the sound is coming from. This may be harder than you think since a moving car tends to mask sound locations.

Once you've heard a noise and located the general area from where it seems to be emanating, the next step is to be able to describe the sound to your mechanic. You may know what the noise sounds like, but it may be hard to describe the sound in detail, and the mechanic may not know exactly where to begin looking.

Here's a list of some of the more common strange noises and descriptions of their probable cause. This should help you and the mechanic to talk the same language and help pinpoint the problem:

- Buzz or high-pitched rattle: A buzzing rattle is most likely caused by loose fascia, dash knob or wiring connector rattling against duct-work under the dash. When you hear this sound, try to pinpoint it by touching various switches, knobs and face-plates on the dash. Have a friend reach under the dash and press against the heater and air-conditioning ducts. Dash rattles can be maddening to find and difficult to eliminate.

- Click: A metallic-sounding click that becomes more frequent as the throttle is increased probably is caused by a bent or loose fan belt hitting the radiator. Cure is to straighten, replace or tighten the fan.

- Clunk: A car that clunks or thunks when it is put into gear may have a failing universal joint on the drive shaft. This type of noise is particularly common on older rear-wheel-drive autos. Failure to fix it may result in the drive shaft falling off at one end.

- Grinding: Grating, grinding sounds that occur whenever the brake is applied may be caused by worn brake linings or pads. Have your mechanic check the brakes right away.

- Growl: Low-pitched growling noises that increase with speed probably are caused by a failing speedometer cable. Get the cable lubed or replaced before the unit fails completely.

Follow directions when using mini-spare

In the tire department you should be aware of the "mini-spare." You'll find them in many of today's smaller, lightweight, fuel-saving cars.

This tire/wheel combo is meant to replace your standard tire only for as long as it takes you to get to the nearest tire store or gas station. There are plenty of safety restrictions with these mini units; read and follow them.

These days, when changing a tire, finding all the jack parts might be the most difficult part of the entire ordeal. And don't forget to follow all the instructions in the owner's manual. Most importantly, make sure your vehicle has a good spare on board at all times.

If a flat should befall you, along with following the vehicle maker's instructions, the American Automobile Association reminds you of the following:

- After getting everyone out of the car, make sure the vehicle is parked on an even surface, hard-packed enough to support the jack.

- Set the parking brake and put an automatic transmission in park, a manual transmission in reverse.

- Set up flares or warning triangles to warn oncoming traffic.

- Use a large rock or piece of wood at least 4-by-8-by-2 to block the wheel diagonally across from the flat tire.

Other tips the AAA says you should follow include:

- Loosen, but do not remove, all the lug nuts on the flat tire before you raise the car.

- Jack the car and remove the lug nuts, storing them in the hubcap or other area where they won't get lost.

- Remove the flat and replace it with the spare (remember the spare can weigh as much as 50 pounds).

- Replace and hand-tighten the lug nuts.

- Lower the car and firmly tighten the lug nuts with the wrench. Then disassemble and replace the jack parts in the vehicle. Don't forget to take the flat with you.

Tire care important part of vehicle maintenance

By Peter D. du Pre

If you're like most Americans, you've ignored your car's tires for most of the winter. After all, no one likes to get down on their hands and knees to check the air or tread condition when the weather is cold and there's snow on the ground.

This means that the odds are good that your tires are underinflated or out of balance—two of the worst things that can happen to a tire.

In winter, we drive our cars less, so there's a good chance running underinflated or out of balance hasn't had much effect. With warm weather here, vehicles get more use, and when that happens, tire wear becomes noticeable.

Another reason tires wear more in warm weather is that road temperatures are higher, potholes have made their annual appearance and because we tend drive faster.

And when underinflated tires are run at highway speeds, they heat up, incurring a higher rate of failure than properly inflated tires.

You can't always tell if a tire is low on air simply by looking. Today's low-profile radial tire often looks low on air when they are correctly inflated. Have the tires checked with an accurate air pressure gauge and don't rely on the standard service station air gauge for accuracy as these units are frequently off by as much as four pounds.

Instead, have your tires checked by a local tire dealer or buy an accurate gauge bought at the local auto parts store and check pressure yourself.

Check air pressure when the tire is cold, before you've driven more than a mile. Most cars have the correct tire pressure for front and rear tires printed on a sticker on the glove box door or passenger side door jamb. Your owner's manual will tell you where the sticker is located.

Another common mistake is to overinflate the tire. Putting too much air in the tire is almost as bad as too little. True, an overinflated tire rolls a bit more easily, thereby slightly increasing fuel mileage, but the gains in fuel savings are more than offset by the increased tire wear and decrease in safety.

Incorrect inflation is not the only cause of tire wear. Uneven tread wear can also be caused by misaligned suspensions, out-of-balance tires, bad shocks, or even a bent wheel. Those potholes and snow-buried hazards you ran into in February probably knocked your front end out of alignment and tore the balance weights loose.

Have a front-end shop check your shocks, alignment and wheel balance. Incidentally, most of today's cars require four-wheel alignment, not just the front end.

If you last rotated your tires last fall, then spring is the perfect time to do it again. Experts at the Rubber Manufacturers Association recommended rotating tires every 6,000 to 8,000 miles—more often under adverse road conditions.

The rotation pattern for your car's tires is specified in the owner's manual. Regular rotation can help even tire wear and add thousands of miles to tread life. However, if uneven wear patterns already are noticeable on the tread, rotating them won't help. You'll need to have the vehicle inspected by a pro and have any problems fixed.

Road salts and other harsh chemicals laid on the highway during winter can be hard on a tire's sidewalls. It's a good idea to scrub the tires during spring maintenance and then wipe on a tire dressing to protect the rubber. Try to avoid using vinyl protectants as these can discolor the rubber compounds.

Getting your tires in shape for summer driving shouldn't take more than a few minutes. But the extra wear and increased safety you get out of the tires will more than make up for it.

The following tips and suggestions will help you get the most from your car's tires:

- Keep a tire gauge in the glove box. Tire gauges are easy to use, cost only a few dollars and are available from any auto parts store.

- Check your valve stems and make sure they all have valve caps that keep dirt out of the valve and act as a secondary air seal.

- Always check tire pressure when the tires are cold—when you've driven less than a mile—never when hot.

- Different cars have different tire types and require different inflation pressure. Check your owner's manual for the correct tire type and inflation pressure.

- Don't exceed the maximum tire pressure stamped on the sidewall. Putting too much air in the tire shortens tread life and in extreme cases, could cause the tire to rupture.

- Don't forget the spare. Have it inspected for wear and checked for proper inflation.

Suggestions for picking a competent mechanic

Your car's engine has started knocking. Or maybe pinging. Or possibly letting off a smell like rotten eggs.

You know you should take it in for service, but the dishonest mechanic horror stories are too numerous to recount. Friends have told you about exorbitant charges for unneeded parts and labor.

Believe it or not, honest, capable mechanics are out there.

First, solicit recommendations from friends. If your car is under warranty, ask around and find the best authorized dealer service department. Dealerships should honor the warranty, even if you didn't purchase the vehicle there.

ase the vehicle there.

The next step is to drop by the service shop to have a look around. It should look neat and orderly. Experts warn that a sloppy shop often delivers slipshod work. The shop should employ certified mechanics.

When you actually take the car in for service, describe the symptoms in detail.

Tell the mechanic when you first noticed the problem and when it starts. If the engine emits a smell like rotten eggs, do you notice it when the car first starts or after it's warmed up? Does it knock at high speeds or when it idles?

Freeway flying

Be alert to safety rules when driving freeways

By Peter D. du Pre

Whether you call it a freeway, throughway or expressway, the fact is that for most of us, driving on one is a daily occurrence.

Although they are frequently congested with too many vehicles, the special design of the freeway—with spacious lanes, wide shoulders, no intersections and separation of traffic heading in different directions—makes them among the nation's safest highways.

However, even as the design of the freeway promotes fewer accidents than regular streets and highways, the accidents that do occur often are more severe, due to high speeds and traffic volume.

Smooth-flowing, fast-moving traffic allows you to get where you are going quickly, but also requires the driver to be constantly alert, make instant decisions during crucial situations, and have quick reflexes.

Alertness and good defensive driving techniques are important for everyday safety. However, all too often the daily freeway commute has become so commonplace that many of us fail to pay attention to traffic and highway conditions and put ourselves on "automatic pilot."

Good freeway driving techniques are important at all times, and are especially important during summer, when large numbers of inexperienced and occasional drivers hit the highways for summer recreation.

Here are a few tips to make your freeway driving safer and more hassle-free.

- Plan ahead—Freeway entrance and exit ramps usually are some distance apart. Have a clear idea of where you are going before you leave. Know the exit name and number, as well as your destination address before you leave the house.

- Merge at speed—One of the most common mistakes is to enter the freeway too slowly. Accelerate smoothly down the ramp so that as the ramp merges into the traffic lanes, you are going the same speed as the rest of the traffic. Time your acceleration so that you enter the freeway during a gap in the traffic.

- Signal your intentions—Whether you are entering, leaving or merely changing lanes, use your turn signals. Allow them to blink at least three times before you begin your maneuver. This changing direction cue gives other drivers time to adjust their driving to yours.

- Keep your distance—Rear-enders are among the most common of freeway accidents. Give yourself time to react to slowing cars by keeping your vehicle two seconds behind the car ahead of you. Simply count "one thousand and one, one thousand and two" as the car ahead of you passes a fixed object, such as a sign post. You'll know your distance is okay if the count reaches two before you pass the same mark. If it doesn't, back off the throttle a bit.

- Look ahead—Keeping an eye on the car directly ahead of you is important but don't fall victim to taillight hypnosis. Instead, watch the traffic ahead of the car in front of you. That way, you'll see slow-down early, giving yourself plenty of time to react.

- Look around—Keep a vigilant eye to the rear-view mirrors and remember to check the traffic on either side of your car regularly.

- Plan ahead—Nobody likes to think about accidents, so the best thing to do is think about avoiding them. Always leave yourself an out. Give yourself plenty of following space, especially in heavy, fast-moving traffic, and watch for openings in lanes on either side or space on the shoulder. That way you'll have a spot to duck into if traffic in your lane suddenly stops.

- Be ramp ready—Don't wait until the last second to dash across three lanes of traffic and make for the exit ramp. Start moving over to the right lane when you see the first sign for your exit, about a mile before the actual ramp. If you miss the exit or don't have enough time to leave the freeway safely, don't stop or try to back up. It's better to drive a couple miles to the next exit and double back than it is to risk an accident.

- Check your car—Check the oil, coolant, fuel level and tire pressure before you leave home. This will lessen the chances of a breakdown.

- Be smart—A moving automobile is not the place to read, put on makeup, play with kids, fondle your pet or eat your lunch. You may think you can do these things, and control your car, but the fact is you are fooling yourself.

If you must eat, choose easy-to-handle items like candy bars or gum. As for drinking, abstain from any alcohol and make sure that other drinks (coffee, milk, soda) are in covered spill-proof cups.

Prepare your car early for summer vacations

them. If not, rotate tires. Check for wear, tear and proper inflation.

- Radiator—Check coolant. Replace every two years. Follow procedures in owner's manual.

- Oil—Keep to full level and change at regular intervals recommended in owner's manual.

8/Car Care E&W/June 13 & 14, 1990

- Hoses, belts—Look for swollen, cracked or frayed hoses and replace if worn. Check whether belts are loose, frayed or cracked.

- Air filter—Clean or replace if needed.

- Transmissions—See owner's manual for intervals to change transmission fluid.

- Engine—Also, see owner's manual for frequency for tune-ups. Peak engine performance is critical when your car is subjected to heavier-than-normal loads for long periods at highway speeds—such as vacation trips.

AAA Michigan Safety and Traffic Manager Robert V. Cullen suggests also:

- Windshield wipers—If they streak or squeak, replace before the next heavy rain.

- Windshield washer—Keep a full reservoir of solvent. It is always vital to see clearly.

- Headlights—Replace if needed. Wipe headlights each time the windshield is cleaned.

Cullen also recommends taking a first aid kit and emergency tools.

"For example, in summer remove the snow shovel from your trunk and replace it with pliers, a screwdriver, signal flares and a flashlight," he said.

Regular oil checks important to proper car care

By Karen Caldwell

Gas prices are good this year and you've just bought a new car. So, you've decided to drive on this year's family vacation.

You'll see Disneyland, the Grand Canyon and then drive to Yellowstone National Park, covering hundreds of miles in the process. You're all packed and ready to go, but is your car ready for the long trek?

There is some essential preventive maintenance you should do before embarking on your journey. Make sure your fan belt and alternator belts are in good working order. Be sure your tires have plenty of tread, and the pressure is set correctly on all four tires. Check your coolants and the Freon for your air conditioner.

And don't forget the motor oil engine lubrication, one of the most important, yet easily overlooked, functions of your vehicle.

Improperly maintained oil could mean engine trouble, which can translate into an unpleasant vacation. Don't leave your trip's excitement in a trail of smoke behind the family vehicle. It's better to know your motor oil.

"There are eight basic functions that all motor oil must perform," says Norm Hudecki, associate director of Automotive Productions Applications Laboratory, the Ashland, Ky.-based facility where Valvoline motor oil is produced.

A motor oil must:

- Permit an engine to start easily.
- Lubricate all internal engine parts to prevent damaging wear.
- Reduce friction between moving parts.
- —Protect against rust and corrosion.
- Keep the engine clean by preventing build-up of sludge.
- Help cool an engine to protect bearings and other vital parts from heat damage.
- Form a barrier to seal in compression and combustions.
- Resist foaming caused by rapidly moving engine parts.

There are certain kinds of oils that are best for certain vehicles. The best rule of thumb is to consult your owner's manual for the correct viscosity grades and API classifications.

"The two most widely accepted year-round oils today are the 10W-30 and the 5W-30," Hudecki said. "These oils satisfy the requirements of all car manufacturers in the U.S."

Motor oil information is usually listed on the motor oil container. To clarify what the numbers and letters in the different grades mean, each figure represents a property of the oil.

First, the "W" designation—like in 5W-30—stands for winter and means the oil has met U.S. wintertime automotive requirements. The "5" measures the starting capability in the winter.

To contrast the two most popular motor oils, 10W means the oil is suitable for use in external temperatures while 5W means the oil is good down to minus 35 degrees. The "30" represents the necessary viscosity when the engine reaches higher temperatures. Viscosity is the rate of flow of the oil or the film thickness of oil between moving parts.

An example of an oil that doesn't meet winter standards is the one graded SAE30 or "straight 30." The SAE stands for the Society of Automotive Engineers, the organization that sets standards for the automotive industry. Oil rated SAE30 is popular in warmer climates such as Florida and Southern California, where night time temperatures aren't low enough to need an oil that meets winter requirements.

So, as you prepare for your vacation, get to know your motor oil. If you are concerned about availability of certain viscosity grades, take oil with you so you don't have to stop at a service station and perhaps obtain an oil that isn't suited for your car.

Then, when you leave Disneyland and head for the Grand Canyon, you will do so with the knowledge that your engine is properly serviced.

Improperly maintained oil leads to engine problems

Hints for protecting your car's exterior

Primer and paint protect and beautify the steel surface of your vehicle. But just as the steel rusts and corrodes without a painted coating, the paint on your vehicle will fade and oxidize unless protected against pollution, mud, grime, salt and road acids.

A good waxing is important to protect your car's finish and maintain its beauty.

Generally, it's a good idea to wax your car twice a year—in the spring and in the fall. However, if you live in a heavy industrial area, in a severe climate or near the ocean, you should wax at least four times a year—once each season.

The same holds true if you drive over salt-treated roads, down dirt roads or park your car outside instead of in a garage.

There are many different brands and types of wax on the market, and what you decide to use is largely a matter of personal preference.

Basically, there are three types of wax—paste, liquid and spray. Of the three, paste wax lasts the longest, liquid the second longest and spray the least longest.

However, what liquid and spray lack in durability, they make up for in ease of application. In fact, with the new spray waxes, it is possible to completely wax a large car in about 15 minutes. Try that with a rag and a can of paste wax.

Waxing tips

The best time to wax your car is right after washing. Park the car in open shade, out of direct sunlight, and make sure it is thoroughly dry. The metal should be cool to the touch before you start, but if the temperature is below 50 degrees F, wait for a warmer day. Between 65 and 70 degrees F with low humidity is probably best.

Many waxes come with a small sponge applicator or a small piece of towel. Wet the applicator and wring out the excess water. You want an applicator that is slightly damp all the way through.

No matter what type of wax you use, it's best to apply it to small sections at a time—half a fender, part of a door. Work the wax into the finish with small circular motions. Apply evenly and overlap the circles a little.

Let the wax dry to haze, then wipe with a clean cloth. A good cloth for wiping is cheese-cloth that has been cut into two-foot-square sections and folded into a thick pad. As you wipe the wax, fold the cloth frequently.

When the area has been wiped, use another cloth and buff the area lightly to produce a glowing shine. Change the cloths frequently while waxing.

Once you have finished with a section, do the adjoining section, taking care to overlap the wax to ensure complete coverage and an even shine.

When the waxing is done, touch up any missed spots. If you've gotten wax on the windows or wipers, clean it off with commercial glass cleaner.

Metallic finishes

Most recent-model vehicles have metallic "clear-coat" finishes. According to chemists at Turtle Wax Inc., these vehicles need a wax that has no abrasives in it. Manufacturers put abrasives in wax to help buff out oxidation.

Metallic finishes have small amounts of aluminum in them and have less pigment.

10/Car Care E&W/June 13 & 14, 1990

Usually, these finishes are coated with a protective coat of clear lacquer to protect finish.

Read the label carefully to see if the wax you've purchased is the right one for your car. Using the wrong wax can irreparably damage your car's paint job.

Oxidation

If the finish on your car is dull and chalky, you have an oxidation problem. Oxidation is caused by the sun's ultraviolet rays and acids in pollution attacking the finished surface of the paint.

A car with severe oxidation problems is best helped by a finish restorer or rubbing compound. These products are used before waxing to remove the soft, chalky surface of the oxidized paint and to lay down a protective coating of silicone.

Apply them in the same manner as wax. Most restorers are not finish protectors, so after you finish removing the oxidation, you'll still have to wax the restored paint.

Rust and corrosion

According to the Automotive Information Council, a non-profit source for automotive information, consumers must not rely on manufacturers to keep their cars rust-free. They offer the following tips for washing vehicles at home to help keep them rust- and corrosion-free:

- Rinse the car thoroughly to loosen grime and dirt.
- Use only mild liquid soap or car wash agent to clean the car. Don't use detergents as these can remove the protective wax from the paint.

- Clean the undercarriage of the car, especially the wheel wells and behind fenders, using a high-pressure hose to loosen cakedon dirt.

- At the car wash, ask for an underbody wash to remove mud and other debris.

- Wax your car every six months, or more, depending on your area.
