ect review decision near

By MIKE TYREE
Staff Writer

A reclamation project under way on the former Thomson Sand and Gravel site may have exceeded township guidelines, a township engineer said Tuesday.

Work on the 360-acre tract — which is adjacent to Ridge Road between Six and Seven Mile roads — appears to have moved beyond the grading of slopes near the site's man-made lakes, said Abe Munfah, of Ayres, Lewis, Norris & May Inc., the engineering firm contracted by the township.

"I stopped in at the site personally... and certainly, without having the drawings with me, it looks like they've gone a little beyond reclamation into site preparation," he said.

"I have no proof at this time (but) one of my guys will be out there in the next day or so with the plans."

"We should have a little better idea by the end of this week and we'll be responding to the township's letter," he said.

Munfah said township Supervisor Georgina Goss requested an extensive review of the property, which is intended to be a 401-unit single-family residential community.

Homes on the site are expected to sell for a half-million dollars or more, according to Vincent DiLorenzo, partner in the Shores of Northville project.

DiLorenzo's D & T Construction Co. is handling the work on the site, which is supposed to be limited to reclamation of the gravel pit area, under the township's mining ordinance.

DiLorenzo has stated that all work on the site has fallen under the provisions of the ordinance and crews have not moved into site preparation, which must be authorized by the township planning commission.

He said township officials have been notified about the activities on-site as the reclamation project unfolded.

"The work that was done was never shielded from anyone," DiLorenzo said.

Planners last month denied a preliminary subdivision plan request from the developer, citing deficiencies in the site plan.

Under the reclamation plan, the developer is allowed to grade slopes, remove materials such as machinery or other buried obstacles and ready the area for site development.

Confusion arose, however, after it was learned the developer prepared roads, destroyed trees reportedly protected by the township's woodlands ordinance and razed buildings near the site without a demolition permit.

It was a beautiful evening for the Northville High School graduation last Friday and students, faculty and parents enjoyed the ceremony outside in the athletic field.

Class of '90 Challenges face new graduates

By MAUREEN NASZRADI
Staff Writer

The Northville High School Class of 1990 graduated with dignity.

From the orderly procession to the emotion-filled speeches to the single-file recession, the 285 seniors stepped forward with respect during commencement exercises at the high school field Friday.

Friends and relatives of the graduates, armed with cameras and videotape recorders, filled the bleachers and overflowed onto blankets on the lawn. Many shaded their eyes from the sunshine with their programs.

The band, directed by Michael Rumbell, played the traditional "Pomp and Circumstance" while the graduates proceeded along the track and took their seats, dark blue caps and gowns alternating with white.

In his farewell to the class, High School Principal David boldt told the graduates he was proud of them. "You will be remembered as the architects of the future at Northville High School," he said.

The principal told the class the world is not the same as it was a year ago.

"And there will be more change," he said. He also cited many examples of the class' accomplishments.

Ninety percent of the class is enrolled in a two- or four-year college program, Boldt said.

Leanne LaChance was the first to wish the graduates well after she delivered the invocation.

President of the Class of 1990 William McCulloch welcomed the audience to the commencement exercises and later led the salute to the parents.

Kelly Lee Frederick, class secretary, introduced the six valedictorians and three salutatorians, who stood together to deliver their address.

BFI to pursue expansion local landfill

By MIKE TYREE
Staff Writer

A multi-million dollar "solid waste shopping mall" is being considered for land adjacent to Browning-Ferris Industries Inc.'s Arbor Hills Landfill in Salem Township.

Approximately 125 acres of BFI property south of the Napier Road landfill will be proposed for use as a materials recovery facility, recycling and composting center, gas recovery system and medical wastes disposal area, BFI representatives said Tuesday.

"This is a conceptual plan, not a proposal," said Dan Nelson, vice-president of Regulatory Affairs for BFI of Southeastern Michigan, Inc. "We're asking for input in formulating this plan."

Nelson said BFI will likely approach the Salem Township planning commission in July with a preliminary site plan application for the project, which he said has been in the planning stages for two years.

The Northville Township Board of Trustees was apprised of BFI's plan at its June 14 meeting.

The board was told the plan was an act of good faith by John Myers, technical director of Arbor Hills.

"We want to be a good neighbor with the township," Myers said. "This is still in proposal form and would like community input."

Myers told the board the project is to be developed on the east end of the intersection of Five Mile and Napier in Salem Township.

Napier Road serves Northville Township/Salem Township.

Initial development is planned for this year, if site plan is obtained, he said.

Myers, who said the waste recovery system will be a first addition to the landfill.

The system will reduce the waste accumulated by the township, Myers said.

A materials recovery facility is intended for industrial waste — could be developed by the end of this year, but may not be until July 1991, Nelson said.

City water main plan oppose

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

The Northville City Council faced a sea of grey suits and power neckties at its Monday meeting, most of which belonged to developers opposed to the city's proposed water main improvement assessment plan, or to their attorneys.

Because of the opposition, council members agreed to put off a decision on the improvements until they saw more information on the plan.

The city had planned to charge the owners of St. Lawrence Estates, Main Centre and Northville Downs for some $365,766 in water main enlargements on Center, Cady, Wing and Fairbrook streets.

The city had proposed assessing the owners the following amounts: The Selective Group of Farmington Hills, developers of St. Lawrence Estates, would be charged $201,145; Singh Development of Birmingham, the builders of Main Centre, would pay $74,304; and Northville Downs would pay $90,317.

But representatives of all three property owners were on hand at Monday's meeting to protest both the narrow scope of the assessment district and their individual shares of the assessment.

Mike Kahm, vice-president of Singh, said his company's opposition to the assessments was two-fold. "We're saying that, based on benefit, we're not receiving any benefit because our project is supported by the existing system."

Kahm added that his firm considered the enlargements as a capital improvement for the entire city. "We believe that this is an improvement of the overall network... and the benefit should be looked at in that light," he said.

Fourth festivities featured in the annual celebration

Hear the drums? See the flags? Well, maybe the music and pageantry aren't readily apparent yet, but Northville's Fourth of July celebration is really just around the corner.

This year's parade and Mill Race barbecue is sponsored again by the Northville Jaycees. The parade will begin at 10 a.m. The route will begin at the Northville Downs parking lot. The group will travel north on Griswold to Main Street, go west on Main to Rogers, south on Rogers to Cady, east on Cady to Wing Street, south on Wing to Fairbrook, east on Fairbrook back to the Downs.

Groups or individuals interested in marching in the parade have until Tuesday, June 26, to register. Entry forms for the parade can be picked up at the Northville Recreation Department, Northville Chamber of Commerce or by calling Bob Cummings at 349-4528 — leave the name of the group, the address, city, zip code and phone number.

Categories for the parade include floats, junior marching groups, senior marching groups, bands, animals and antique cars.

There will be a decorated bike contest as usual this year. Children participating in the contest should meet at the Downs parking lot no later than 9:15 a.m. for judging.

All groups participating in the parade should meet at the Downs starting spot no later than 9 a.m.

Other activities sponsored by the Jaycees on the Fourth of July will include the barbecue at Mill Race Village which runs from 11:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. and the fireworks display.

The annual fireworks celebration is scheduled for 10 p.m. at Northville High School's athletic field. Parking donations of $1 will be taken at the high school and Amerman and Cooke schools. The concession stand will be handled by John Passmore.

City kicks off festival season this Saturday

The first festival of summer, "Summersong" fills the streets of downtown Northville with music, art and food all day this Saturday, June 23.

Streets will be closed to automobile traffic and replaced with exhibits by 115 local and mid-western arts and craft and antique booths. Exhibits range from quilts to jewelry and every form of antique and craft. There will be plenty of food to appeal to everyone's tastes. A steam callopie will be featured along with free musical performances all day long in the downtown bandshell.

Scheduled appearances will include Joe Vitale and his big band orchestra, from 7-9 p.m. in the bandshell; Mike Tally will play '50s and '60s music from 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. and all day long musicians will stroll the streets and entertain in the bandshell for the listening and dancing pleasure of festival-goers.

No admission is required for either the band performances or the festival itself.

For more information contact the Northville Chamber of Commerce at 349-7640.

The Strolling Clown Band will be just one of many acts highlighting this year's Summersong festival.

Property taxes and environment key issues - Bullard

Reducing property taxes and stronger environmental cleanup measures are among the priorities of State Representative Willis "Bill" Bullard Jr., R-Highland, who is seeking re-election to a fifth term in the Michigan House.

"As a property owner, I am as frustrated as the next person about our skyrocketing property taxes," Bullard said in a press release. "We must keep fighting to reduce them. If the Legislature is unable to provide relief, there once again may be ballot proposals addressing the problem in November."

Bullard also wants more legislation to help resolve serious environmental problems.

"If we want a habitable planet for our children, we must take major steps now to correct the damage done to our environment," the lawmaker said. "They include supporting and expanding mandatory recycling, and finding alternatives to solid waste landfills. I am strongly committed to legislation that addresses these issues."

News Briefs

VOLUNTEERS NEEDED — On Wednesday, July 18, The Association for Retarded Citizens of Northwest Communities and Northville Schools will host a field day "To Celebrate the Individual".

The emphasis of this special day is to provide the severely mentally impaired and the severely multiply impaired athlete individual and competitive sport opportunities.

The field day will be held at Northville High School from 8 a.m. to 1:15 p.m. Please contact Vickie Greiner at Old Village School at 344-8460 for further information.

NON-PROFIT GROUPS FOR VICTORIAN FESTIVAL — The 2nd Annual Victorian Festival invites non-profit groups in the Northville area to join the fun and raise money for their organizations by participating in this year's festival Sept. 14-16. Groups interested in operating a booth should contact Sarah Minor, 348-8596 or Judy Dore, 349-1052 or 349-4550 (office).

RED CROSS HELP NEEDED — The Northville Group of the Red Cross volunteers is looking for help during mobile blood banks held in the Northville area. Several of the faithful volunteers are unavailable during the summer months and staffing at blood banks is becoming difficult.

Volunteers help in registering blood donors, making the bags to hold the blood, escorting donors to the canteen area and manning the canteen itself. Usually volunteers are only asked to help on one or two blood banks per month. The banks last for about six hours.

Anyone interested in joining the Northville Red Cross Volunteers Group should call Sue Anger at 349-0068, Evelyn Harper at 349-5781 or Mesa Campbell at 349-1748.

ART VOLUNTEERS WANTED — Northville Friends of the Arts are looking for volunteers for Art Market during the Victorian Festival on Sept. 14-16. The organization is looking for help in giving artists breaks during the festival. Any volunteer should contact the Art Market at P.O. Box 99, Northville, 48167.

Planners study new master plan

By MIKE TYREE
Staff Writer

The township planning commission will consider an updated land use master plan at its June 26 meeting.

Planners will study and vote on whether or not to accept a revised master plan for the 930-acre Wayne County parcel in Northville Township purchased by the R.A. DeMattia Company in January.

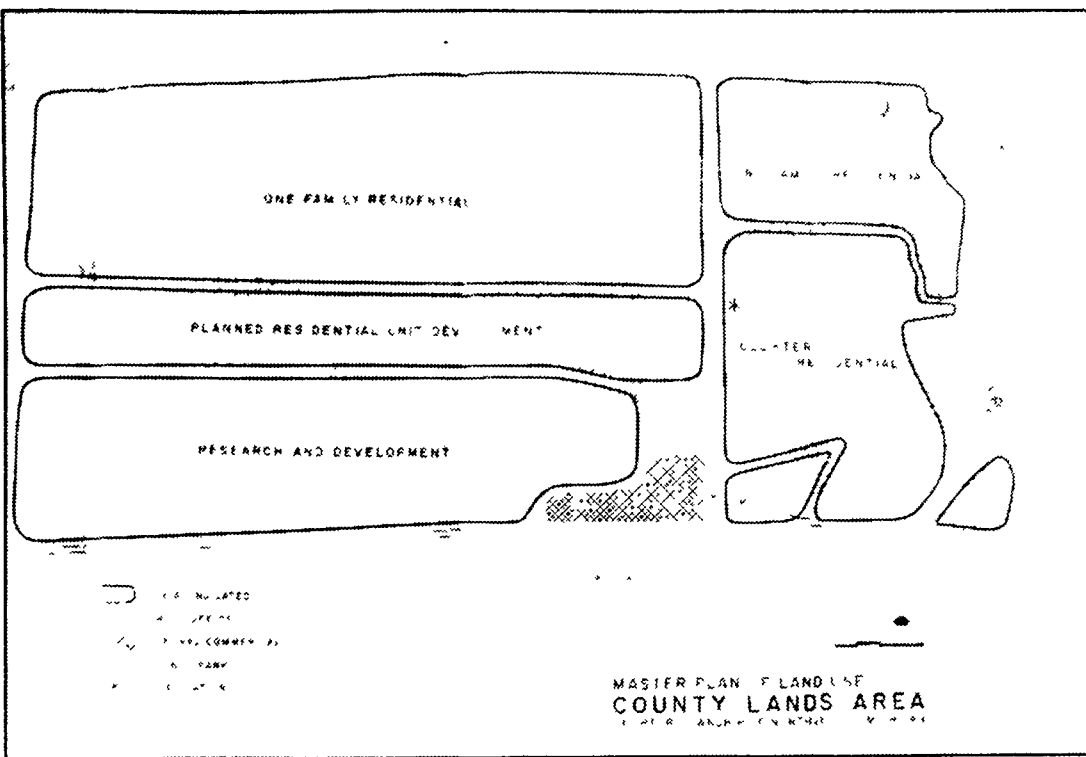

The land use plan is meant to serve as a guideline for future development of the site, said township Planning and Zoning Administrator Carol Maise, who added that the master plan for the area had not been updated since 1979.

"We realized a lot was happening on Five Mile Road that warranted another look," she said. "The update was done in conjunction with the PUD (planned unit development, an ordinance recently approved by the commission), which had to conform to the master plan."

Maise said the new master plan for the DeMattia property includes large tracts designated for single-family residential housing.

Approximately 20 percent of the land use map — an area stretching most of the length of Five Mile Road between Sheldon and Beck — is targeted for research and development or light industrial use.

Maise called the master plan and PUD "very appropriate for surrounding land uses." She said master plan revisions were dictated by Plymouth Township development south of Five Mile, residential areas north of the DeMattia property and Scott Regional Correctional Facility to the west

A portion of the DeMattia land west of Sheldon Road is considered environmentally sensitive, Maise said, and trees, streams and wetlands areas will be protected through development agreements between the builder and the township.

"Cluster housing and PRUD (planned residential unit development) are ways of attempting to save woodlands and wetlands," she said. "The developer may be allowed higher density in some areas to lessen impact elsewhere."

Maise said the master plan and PUD ordinance are meant to serve as development guidelines.

"What it's all about is flexibility," she said. "We look at this in a real theoretical sense; you present something and we'll work with you."

A conceptual plan designed by DeMattia for the site shows signs of compatibility with the township land use map, Maise said, although the developer shows light industrial areas extending north along Beck Road in locations the township has penciled in as residential.

The developer will also pursue multi-family housing on a portion of the property, a plan Maise said may meet with resistance from the commission.

The planning commission will hold a public hearing on the new master plan at 7:15 a.m. June 26. The regular meeting and a vote on the plan will follow.

Singles guest noted

Single Place at the First United Presbyterian Church will be hosting Cora Webb, who is president of Step Family Association. She has been a partner in a blended family for seven years, which unites five children — now teenagers.

Cora will share many insights into "The Brady Bunch Theory" and why it doesn't exist, the interaction and the grieving that goes on, the demise of remarriages, and insights about adult children adapting to remarriage, as well as responses — discipline and resourcing the family.

Cora Webb also teaches a class for marital couples of blended families entitled, "Survival of the Step Family."

A $2.50 donation is requested. Refreshments will be served and childcare is provided.

Police News

Several sites at Northville Downs, 301 S. Center St. were spray-painted sometime June 16, causing an estimated $150 in damage. The graffiti, including the phrases "Savage Avengers," "City under seige," "Cops die in war," "Pistons rule" and "U can't catch us," were painted on glass doors, walls, and the tote board in the middle of the track. A Northville City police officer was also named twice in the graffiti.

VAN VANDALIZED — A church van at the First United Methodist Church, 777 Eight Mile Rd., was another target of a spray-painting vandal or vandals last week. Damage was estimated at $1,000, according to city police reports. A city police officer was named in the graffiti sprayed on the doors of the van, and the word "Satan" was painted on the asphalt near the van. The vandalism took place sometime between 9 p.m. June 15 and 6 a.m. June 16, while the van was parked on the southeast side of the church. Local youth known as "Smooth Criminals" are considered suspects in this and the vandalism at Northville Downs June 16.

OUIL — A 34-year old Northville woman was arrested June 10 at 2:22 a.m. and charged with driving under the influence, according to township police. The arrest occurred on Seven Mile east of Northridge.

OUIL — A 25-year old Northville man was charged with operating a vehicle under the influence after his arrest on Clement, north of Seven Mile June 13. Township police made the arrest at 2:47 a.m.

WALKAWAY RECOVERED — Township police took a man described as a "dangerous walkaway" from Northville State Hospital into custody June 11. The subject had been witnessed running east on Six Mile at 10:11 a.m. when he was picked up. The man was turned over to hospital security staff without further incident, police said.

WALKAWAY — Township police recovered a walkaway from Northville Regional Hospital at Meijer, 20401 Haggerty, June 10 at 5:29 p.m. The 21-year old man was picked up inside the store and returned to the hospital, police said.

WALKAWAY — Township police took into custody a 35-year old Canton resident who walked away from Northville State Hospital June 13. The man led officers on a two-block chase that started on Waterfall Drive before he was apprehended. The man was returned to the hospital, police said.

WALKAWAYS — Two 25-year old female walkaways from Northville State Hospital were taken into custody June 12 by township police. The women were apprehended on Seven Mile near Fry at 11:05 a.m. and returned to the hospital, police said.

LARCENY FROM BUILDING — Hand tools worth an estimated $1,974 were reported stolen from 19442 Gerald sometime between April 30 and June 10, township police said. Among the items reported stolen were a chain saw, weed cutter, a roto-tiller and a 5-horsepower engine.

RESIDENCE DAMAGED — A residence on Victor was damaged June 13 between 12:30-5:30 a.m., according to township police reports. Police said two glass windows, valued at $300, were shattered by a BB gun.

HUBCAP STOLEN — A chrome wire hubcap was stolen off a car parked on Washington Circle sometime between 10 p.m. June 14 and 8:30 a.m. June 15, according to city police reports. The hubcap was valued at $12.

FENDER BENDERS — City police reported two accidents in the past week. On June 15 at 2:15 p.m., a Detroit woman, 32, driving south on Wing Street struck a vehicle heading east on Dunlap Street. She was cited for failing to yield from the stop sign.

On June 16, at 4:50 p.m., a 17-year-old Northville woman driving east on Eight Mile Road struck a vehicle stopped to turn left into the Northville Wine Shoppe. The driver told city police she was "looking at the Mobil station" at the corner of Eight Mile and Taft Road, and not paying attention to her driving. She was cited for the accident, and the other car was towed from the scene.

Charges sought against duck slayers

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

A Department of Natural Resources (DNR) official is seeking charges against as many as three Northville youths for the slaying of some eight mallard ducks last month.

"I can't tell you much about this because it involves juveniles," DNR Officer John Jurcich told the Record Monday. "But I think I have whose responsible."

"Usually our department doesn't, as a rule, pursue juveniles," he added. "But I thought this was a serious enough violation. We had nothing like sport hunting involved, it seemed to be more a malicious act."

Northville City Police had found the decomposed bodies of eight mallard ducks in two plastic bags floating in the creek that leads to Mill Pond May 30. The ducks were presumed to be among some 27 waterfowl that Dorisa Court residents had fed on a regular basis before they disappeared more than a month ago.

Jurchich took the case over from police because wildlife was involved. "I have some dead ducks and I have who I believe is responsible for it," Jurcich said. "But the exact method they were killed, and even the exact day that they were killed is still unclear. There are some things that are still unclear even in my mind."

Jurchich estimated that six to eight ducks were killed. Speculating on the cause of death, he said, "It was either a combination of pellet guns and BB guns or pellet guns and rocks."

The DNR officer had interviewed five people in the case by late Monday afternoon, including three suspects, and was planning to talk to several more potential witnesses. He planned to present the case to a prosecutor or probate court referee within the next week.

"Excuse the pun, but they don't have all their ducks in a row."

John Jurcich
DNR Officer

Jurchich said that three local youths had admitted to involvement in the killing of the ducks, but he was uncertain whether a case against the youths would stand up in court.

"They all admit playing a role and the fact that they were there," Jurcich said. "But even with adults, you can't convict somebody on a confession alone. Part of the problem was the evidence was found well after the incident."

Another potential problem with the case is that the suspects' stories differ.

"Excuse the pun, but they don't have all their ducks in a row," Jurcich said.

The youths could face trial on misdemeanor charges in Oakland County Probate Court.

Police sift through assault case leads

By MIKE TYREE
Staff Writer

Township police are investigating leads in an attempted criminal sexual assault against a Northville Township woman, but do not have any suspects in the case, a police official said Tuesday.

Det. Fred Yankee said the police department has received calls and tips about a man who allegedly entered the apartment of a local woman and engaged in a struggle with her early June 3.

"Several tips have been received from the picture (composite drawing) that was in the paper," Yankee said. "We're following up on everything that comes in and some calls are possibilities."

Police are looking for a white male of medium build, approximately 5'8", with sandy brown to red hair. The suspect is believed to be in his late 20's and had a close-cropped beard at the time of the incident.

Most of the tips received have not panned out, but police are looking at one potential suspect, Yankee said.

"We're still trying to track down one other guy," he said. "We haven't been able to locate him."

The victim told police that she was in her bedroom and heard noises from the living room of her Innsbrook Apartment residence around 3 a.m. June 3.

When she went to check on the noises, she found the suspect lying on her couch, fondling himself.

The woman reportedly screamed at the man and returned to her room to call the emergency 9 1 1 number.

The man followed her into the room and took the telephone from her during a struggle.

The woman then reportedly used rape prevention techniques to drive the attacker from her and out of the apartment, police said.

Individuals with information about the incident are asked to call township police at 349-9400 or the detective bureau at 348-5811.

City swallows insurance rate hike

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

The city council voted to renew Northville's liability insurance with the Michigan Municipal Risk Management Authority this week, despite a 50-percent increase in the policy's cost.

But officials had little choice in the matter, since the Authority would not grant the city an extension to review other options. The city's present insurance contract expires June 30.

"We obviously can't leave ourselves uninsured and we can't get the extension," City Manager Steven Walters told the council Monday.

Walters told the council the city's price increase was similar to those faced by other municipalities.

Liability insurance will cost the city $80,713 in 1990, a $27,099 increase over last year's $53,614 cost.

Michigan Municipal Risk Management Authority blamed the 50-percent increase on several factors, including the fact that the Authority is no longer granting "the sizeable discounts allowed in the past," in the words of Regional Risk Manager Thomas Burr. Burr added in a letter to the city that Northville is still receiving a 35-percent discount from the base pricing, which is now the maximum that the Authority will grant.

Burr attributed about $10,000 of the increase to a "15-percent capital accumulation surcharge" that the Authority's board of directors approved earlier this year.

"Because of the sizeable increase in your contribution, however, the Authority has agreed to review your pricing to see if anything can be done," Burr wrote.

But Burr said the Authority could not grant the city's request for a 60-day extension on the contract. City officials had wanted the time to explore other insurance options.

The increase comes despite the Authority's prediction in their executive director's report that they would pay about $3 million less in losses in 1990 than in 1989.

A frustrated Walters said before the city council meeting that he has noticed two reasons for insurance companies to raise their rates. "One is because losses have gone up, and the other is because losses go down," he said. "I've seen this happen before."

Ironically, the city had received a 90-day extension the last time insurance costs were reviewed, in 1985. At that time, city officials decided to leave their previous liability insurance carrier to go with the Authority.

Well park named after Rotary keepers

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

The triangular plot of city land north of Northville's historic town well has been named Rotary Park, in honor of the Rotary Club's continued maintenance of the well.

The Northville City Council voted this week to grant Rotary Past President John Sassaman's request to designate the well area off South Main Street as Rotary Park. Sassaman had asked for the designation to allow the club to erect a sign to that effect on the site.

He added the club will continue to make improvements to the site, planting flowers and maintaining the benches and the well.

The local chapter of the Rotary Club has helped maintain the site since 1932, when the club funded the building of the first wood framework over the city's historic well. In 1968, and again in 1988, the club had a new well drilled when the originals began to run dry.

Another use of the property may include a medical-wastes disposal facility, or autoclave, Myers said. The medical wastes would not be incinerated; instead wastes would be steam-heated at 290 degrees for 20 minutes until sterilized, he said.

Other conceptual uses include a tire-shredding plant, a confidential documents destruction center, a contaminated liquids leaching facility and an environmental preserve on the west end of the property.

"(This facility can be) an asset to this community," Myers said.

Nelson said he has had discussions with officials from Salem Township and Washtenaw County, as well as with representatives of the Michigan Department of Natural Resources.

"It's just a concept so far. I'm moving as fast as I can for preliminary site approval," he said.

Nelson said he did not have a cost estimate for the project, but agreed that the project would cost several million dollars.

"The whole thing may take several years (to develop)," he said.

Anti-MX rally festive

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

A festive mood prevailed at Saturday afternoon's Lansing rally against the proposed MX missile rail garrison.

Demonstrators bearing placards with slogans like "No MX in Northville" wandered the sidewalk leading to the capital, while protest singers including Victor McManemy of Traverse City entertained the crowd estimated at more than 400 people.

Of course, the demonstrators on the steps of the state capital had good reason to be happy. Just two weeks ago, state legislators in both the house and senate introduced a concurrent resolution opposing the rail garrison proposal in Michigan.

The resolution opposes the U.S. Air Force plan to station up to eight MX missiles at Oscoda's Wurtsmith Air Force Base on the grounds that rail transport of the missiles during times of national tension threatens the health and safety of the state's citizens.

At the rally, speakers from across the state applauded the demonstrators for their campaign, and urged continued opposition to the MX plan.

Jackie Victor, coordinator of the Michigan Coalition to Stop the MX, urged people to support state and national legislation opposing the MX rail garrison proposal. "Today's not the end to showing our opposition to the MX, it's only the beginning," she said, "but I have to say, it's a pretty impressive start."

Tobi Hanna-Davies, of the Inter-faith Council for Peace and Justice in Ann Arbor, offered advice on making local politicians take a stand against the MX. Her group helped convince the Ann Arbor City Council to pass a resolution opposing the rail garrison.

"Available for loan immediately, we have an actual-length, 71-foot cardboard MX missile," Hanna-Davies said. To gain attention for their cause, demonstrators had held the missile aloft on railroad trestles crossing major streets in Ann Arbor, days before the city council voted on the resolution.

Detroit City Council President Maryann Mahaffey said voters should insist that future political candidates make their positions on nuclear weapons clear.

"Will they support a peace dividend back to our cities, back to our farms, back to our schools and to health care?" she asked.

Novi resident Leona Riebling and her granddaughter Kate, 12, were two of the few local residents attending the June 16 rally. Riebling had testified against the rail garrison proposal at two public hearings in Oscoda on the Air Force's environmental impact statement on the MX rail garrison plan.

"It's not surprising that the announcement that the MX missile was coming to Michigan, right in our own backyards, would get me moving," Riebling said.

A member of the United Church of Christ, Riebling has served as a peace coordinator for the church, discussing justice and peace issues with local parishes.

Bible School invites children

St. Paul's Lutheran Church of Northville will offer Vacation Bible School to local children June 25-29 from 9-11:45 a.m.

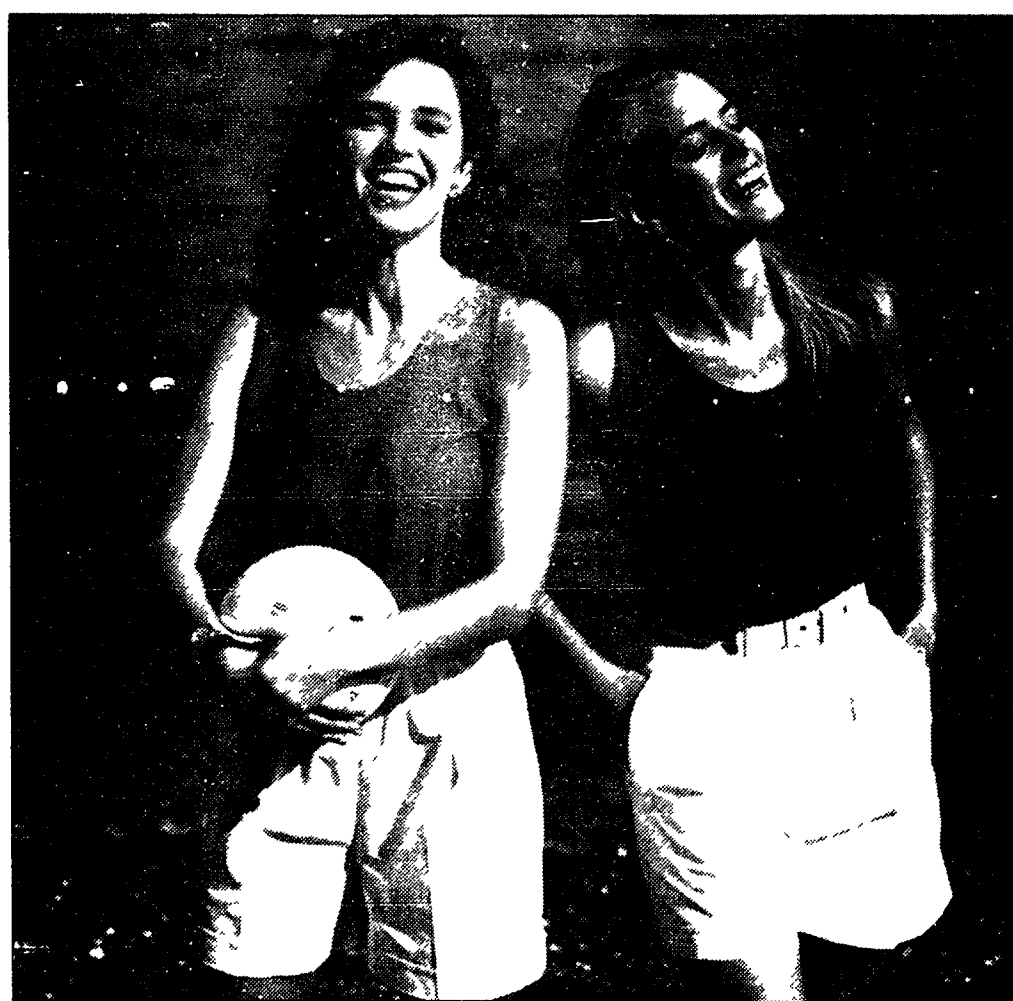

The theme for this year's Bible School is "Let's Follow Jesus." Children from age 3 through sixth grade are welcome to participate in these sessions.

Registration for the Vacation Bible School will be on Monday, June 25. The community is invited to participate.

Deal Directly with window factory to save money, trouble

Naturally, it costs less to buy factory direct, but there is another benefit to buying from a factory. the service is faster and better.

Sometimes when you buy windows from a dealer who doesn't make his own windows, you can get caught in the middle.

The dealer may claim that the problem is with the window, while the manufacturer cites poor installation

When you deal with Great Lakes you only have to call one number, because we both manufacture and install your window.

Here's what our customers say about Great Lakes:

"I like the windows because they keep the cold air out and we can enjoy the downstairs in the winter." - Sharon Brenton

"Great Lakes windows are easy cleaning, easy opening and nice looking we love them!" - Mr. & Mrs. Hosner

"An economical Consumers Power Bill, thanks to Great Lakes windows. No frosted windows in winter." - Patricia Lindstrom

"I was very impressed with your workmen, they did a very professional job. I'm very pleased!" - Charlene Shelton

Great Lakes is listed as the 16th largest remodeling firm in the country, according to "Qualified Remodeler" magazine.

Take advantage of dealing with the largest window company in this area.

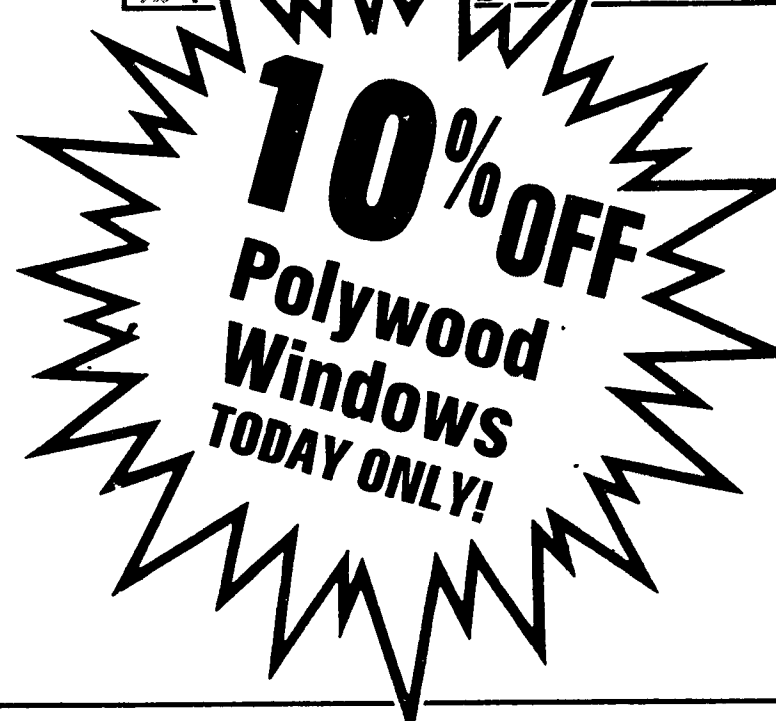

We are the only window firm in mid-Michigan with a full-time service department and a toll-free 800 number just for service.

THINKING OF REPLACING YOUR WINDOWS?

PLUS YOU GET GREAT LAKES FAMOUS 30 DAY MONEY BACK GUARANTEE

Great Lakes is the only window company offering a 30 day Money Back Guarantee after installation. The guarantee eliminates any risk from your window purchase. We can offer you this ultimate assurance because of our rigid quality control measures. In addition to a Money Back Guarantee, Great Lakes offers a 50 year guarantee with Labor. Most window guarantees, however long, offer only one year FREE labor.

WHY YOU SHOULD CALL RIGHT NOW

If you have been thinking about vinyl windows, don't put off calling for an estimate. The price of oil has just gone up substantially. Since vinyl is an oil based product, it is bound to have some price increases soon. If you call Great Lakes for an estimate right now, we will freeze your estimate price for one full year, even if you don't buy right now. Call Now! We may not be able to make this offer next week.

Seniors get red carpet party

By MAUREEN NASZRADI
Staff Writer

Parents of the Class of 1990 rolled out the red carpet for their graduates.

Red carpet, canopy, lines of footlights, velvet rope and three tuxedoed doormen welcomed the new graduates to "Premier Night," the successful senior all-night party held after commencement exercises Friday.

Final attendance numbers showed 90 percent of the graduating class attended the party. And for the 23rd year, the event went off without incident.

More than 120 parents for months created decorations to bring to life "A Night With the Stars." The high school was transformed.

Movie themes, for the most part, dictated the decor of certain areas. Scenes from "National Lampoon's Christmas Vacation," "Who Framed Roger Rabbit," "Batman" and the Indiana Jones movies were represented.

Just inside the elaborate entrance, the graduates checked in and devoured further evidence of the starry theme while a tuxedoed piano player (junior Matthew Borrusch) provided background music.

A couple of the initial reactions were, "Oh my gosh!" and "Pretty tasty." The Simpsons display prompted shrieks of delight.

Several parents said their hard work was rewarded when they heard the students' reactions as they en-

Co-chairs of the event Carole and George Pappas and Dianne and Don McCulloch expressed their pleasure with the final result.

"We're real pleased to have 90 percent," Dianne said.

"I think they were all just overwhelmed (when they entered)," she added.

Senior Jay Fisher said, "It's a lot more elaborate than I thought it was going to be. It's cool."

Glenda Jones and Uta Filkin supervised the decoration committees. No wall — or ceiling — was left untouched.

Stars with the students' photo hung in the first corridor, for example, and the graduates could write graffiti in another area. A street sign pointed to Gotham City, Temple of Doom, casino and arcade.

The decorations were so elaborate, a stranger to the school would never know the narrow mine shaft that wound to the temple was the cafeteria ramp. Inside a maze, students swatted away "spider webs" while their feet crunched on "gravel."

John Emma, who designed the maze lay-out, said, "We put a lot of work in. A lot of the committees helped out the other committees to get everything done."

"It was a mad scramble today," Emma added. "But it's worth it just hearing their reactions."

"It's amazing when the kids find out, 'Wow, our parents did that?'" Emma said.

Such attention was paid to detail that the schedules of events posted throughout the school even coordinated with the scene, parchment near the temple, for example. The lighting, too, varied with each room.

In dark Gotham City, "Vicky Vale" was seated for dinner at a table that held a huge "Class of 1990" ice sculpture. "The Joker," who so jovially delivered the party invitations the week before, hung by his foot from a helicopter. Meanwhile, a disc jockey sup-

Attractions included a caricaturist, a 2½-hour buffet, polaroid snapshots, hypnotist, Star Trax, swimming, video viewing, casino, a comedian and breakfast.

A large audience gathered for the hypnotist. Senior Lynn Teubert said she was having a good time, but was a little skeptical about whether her peers actually were "under."

Several students enthusiastically donned costumes to pose for the photographer. The caricatures also were very popular, as the finished drawings prompted a few laughs when shared with friends.

Parents mingled with the students throughout the party. As shifts ended, more parents arrived for duty.

The extensive party planning even included the formation of a clean-up committee that salvaged as much of the materials as possible in order to save it for the 24th annual senior all-night party — for the Class of 1991.

Pomp, emotion mark graduation

Julie Howard introduced the common theme of the top students' speeches — how the important lessons that the class began learning together in kindergarten still hold true, holding hands and sticking together, for example.

Howard referred to Project Pride Day at the high school on March 7 this year as "a miracle." It was a day the members of the Class of 1990 shared their feelings, she said.

"I realized how special everyone I know is," Howard said.

Diane Robinson read the poem, "We Made Each Other Strong," and said she considers all the members of the class her friends.

"Thanks for growing up with me," Robinson said. She added the ceremonies denoted a beginning rather than an end.

Stephanie Wood said her high school years taught her to be more considerate. Working as a writer on the Mustanger, she said she had to learn to write to appeal to a larger audience, not solely what she would want to read.

Manpreet Bagga said all the class members should be up on the stage. She cited examples of her classmates' achievements outside academics.

"Everyone in this audience has something to be proud of," Bagga said, the emotion in her voice building. She said everyone in the class had taught her about herself and human nature.

"Remember, there's a person behind every face," she finished, choking back the tears.

George Pappas said he learned several important lessons during his school years. He entertained his peers with a tale about obtaining a parking pass during his junior year.

On a serious note, Pappas said he learned the value of friendships, how to deal with disappointment, and respect.

Amy McManus said she developed confidence with the support of her family and friends. She also learned patience, she said.

"My years at Northville taught me not to get so caught up in the future that I miss out on today," McManus said.

Katie Kemp told her classmates they have to set goals and make dreams for themselves. She cited examples of successful role models.

Kemp also said that when members of the Class of 1990 see their classmates being successful, that will mean part of their dream has come true too.

Angela Vitale said when she moved to Northville in her junior year she did not know what to expect. However, she added, she very soon felt welcome.

"What was created goes beyond book knowledge," she said, "We created memories."

Vitale relayed personal messages to the parents of each of the valedictorians and salutatorians then tearfully passed on a special thank-you to her own parents and grandmother.

Debbie Buell talked about memories from her school years. She also restated the theme of how important it is to stick together, adding "Life is not that simple."

"I wouldn't have been able to stand up here if not for the rest of the nine," Buell said.

Howard, class treasurer, and Pappas, class vice president, introduced the class sponsor, Lori Moore; the Board of Education; the central office staff; the high school faculty; foreign exchange students, and Superintendent George Bell.

Stop signs for the Pines

By JAN JEFFRES
Staff Writer

Dunbarton Pines III homeowners' concerns about a dangerous intersection, much-traveled by their small children, were brought to a full stop Monday.

The council unanimously overrode a recommendation from the city administration and agreed to the residents' request to place four-way stop signs at the junction of Waycroft Drive, Courtview Trail and Lightway.

Waycroft is a bus stop for children within the Northville school district. There are no sidewalks in the subdivision.

"I can't tell you how many times I hold my breath, hoping a child won't be hit at this intersection," said Waycroft resident Paula Crawford, who has served as a spokesperson for her neighbors. A contingent from Dunbarton Pines was at the council meeting.

Crawford said she counted 57 children under age 8 living in the vicinity of the intersection.

"It's (Waycroft Drive) the type of straight-way quality road that encourage people to go a little faster than they should be," said Richard Azanger, president of Dunbarton Pines Homeowners Association. "I urge you to listen to the neighbors because in my opinion they are the experts. The Paula Crawfords of the world are the ones looking out their windows every day."

Crawford said she first contacted the city about the issue in September. The city council was petitioned by 25 area residents in March. In April, the residents said they were told by Department of Public Works Supervisor Bruce Jerome that a study showed that stop signs were not necessary but that yield signs would be placed on Courtview/

Lightway.

In a June 14 memo to the council, City Manager Edward Kriewall explained that the four-way stop would create a dangerous situation because motorists would fail to stop there and would pass on to a stop sign at the next intersection, while children would rely on the drivers obeying the first signs.

"I think the city has done what they are required to do in following the procedures," said Mayor Matthew Quinn, adding that he supported the residents' request. "Please, please don't get a false sense of security... Stop signs are only as good as the people willing to abide by them."

Council members Nancy Covert and Joseph Toth requested that the city administration study the subdivision to see if additional stop signs are needed.

Township to consider curbside refuse collection

By MIKE TYREE
Staff Writer

Northville Township will study plans for collection of compost materials after a local composting program is launched in July.

Supervisor Georgina Goss said the township Board of Trustees will schedule an August study session to discuss the possibility of curbside collection of all garbage, including compost materials.

Compost materials eventually will be hauled to an 80-acre compost center on the corner of Beck and Geddes roads in Canton Township.

The collection center is to be funded by a $242,000 grant from the state's Protect Michigan's Future environmental bond issue and by contributions from the member communities of the Western Townships Utilities Authority (WTUA).

WTUA members include Plymouth, Canton and Northville townships.

Northville Township has contributed $34,820 to the composting program.

Goss, a member of the WTUA executive committee, said the township has much to consider before adopting a compost pick-up plan—including a uniform trash collection service in the township.

"We're looking at the possibility of township-wide trash collection," she said. "Pickup of composted materials would be a plan set up by WTUA and arranged with a private hauler."

Goss said township residents presently contract with private trash haulers, but the need to lessen the impact of compost—grass clippings, wood chips, branches, leaves—on landfills could necessitate a change. "One option is for one hauler to pick up everything," she said. "The potential would be there if the WTUA project is on line."

Goss said the WTUA composting site is "still on a go mode" and will protect township residents from the type of expense facing Plymouth city residents, who beginning in the fall will be charged $1 per bag of garbage collected by the city.

"Once the composting site and equipment are in place . . . the potential will be there for township residents' use," she said.

The August study session may be the key to determining how compost will find its way to the collection center.

"The way of funding the composting project has not been determined at this time," she said.

WTUA Executive Director Ann Bollin said last week final contract language was being discussed with the Michigan Department of Natural Resources over the composting site.

WTUA has made plans to collect compost in Plymouth Township at curbside in clear, biodegradable bags, Bollin said.

Yard waste, estimated to make up a third of landfill solid waste, will be processed at the Canton Township composting site and will be made available to WTUA residents and will also be packaged for commercial sale, Bollin said.

NORTHVILLE CITY COUNCIL MINUTES SYNOPSIS JUNE 4, 1990

Mayor Johnson called the regular meeting of the Northville City Council to order in the Council Room at 8:00 p.m.

1. PLEDGE OF ALLEGIANCE:
2. ROLL CALL:
PRESENT: Mayor Johnson, Mayor Pro-Tem Ayers, Councilmen Follino, Gardner, Mittman.

ABSENT: Mayor Johnson, Councilmen Follino, Gardner, Mittman.

3. APPROVAL OF COUNCIL MEETING MINUTES
The minutes of the regular meeting of May 22, 1990, were approved as corrected.

4. CITIZEN COMMENTS:
Cindy Allison, 5166 Ridge, asked if the Mill Pond dredging is scheduled for the summer.

Walters noted that engineering reports were not available for the dredging. He stated residents from the neighborhood will be mailed agendas if they leave their name and addresses with the Clerk's Office.

Chuck Keys, 502 West Main Street, commended Patrolman Anthony Tiger for his fine police work and asked if an accommodation would be in order.

Mayor Johnson noted that the City has already cited Patrolman Tiger for his outstanding work.

5. ADOPTION OF THE AGENDA & APPROVAL OF THE CONSENT AGENDA:
Moved, supported, CARRIED UNANIMOUSLY, to approve the agenda and the consent agenda A through E.

6. PARKING DECK PROJECT STATUS:
Walters reviewed his memorandum dated June 1, 1990, and noted the Planning Commission will be presented with the plans tomorrow evening.

Mittman questioned the need to having a crosswalk rather than surface parking on the M.D.A.S. lot. He noted he favored the relocation of the deck to the existing deck site.

Walters noted the deck is preferred over the surface parking mainly due to aesthetics. He noted the elevation of the bridge will show how the bridge can be incorporated into the cityscape in a very appealing manner.

7. SCOUT BUILDING PARKING:
Moved, supported, CARRIED, to approve the City Manager's Scout Building Parking proposal dated May 30, 1990.

Folio requested that Council look at revamping the parking behind the Recreation Center.

Walters noted the need to be provided with the complete picture of parking needs before the topic is placed before the Council for discussion.

Johnson noted that the D.D.A. had a study prepared on the available parking and the existing need for additional parking in the downtown area.

8. SHARED SERVICES MEETING REPORTS:
Anderson reviewed Recreation fields status.

9. LEASE OF LONG PROPERTY AT MAIN AND WING:
Moved, supported, CARRIED UNANIMOUSLY, to accept the recommendation of the City Manager as outlined in his memorandum dated June 1, 1990.

10. 1989-90 BUDGET AMENDMENTS:
Moved, supported, CARRIED UNANIMOUSLY, to accept the recommendation of the City Manager as outlined in his memorandum dated June 1, 1990.

11. LIABILITY INSURANCE RENEWAL:
MOVED, supported, CARRIED UNANIMOUSLY, to allow the City Manager to renew the liability insurance.

Walters noted the increase in liability insurance for the next budget year. He noted that the increase is substantial and not due to claims. He suggested the City receive a 60 day extension to the current policy and review alternate insurance options.

12. COUNCIL COMMENTS:
Ayers indicated a desire to review the long and short term goals and objectives to see what the Council has accomplished over the past year, as a means of personal satisfaction and disclosure. He also suggested compiling a list of unfinished business for review. She suggested reviewing it at the next regular meeting.

Johnson suggested dedicating and hour and a half of the second meeting in July to Mrs. Ayers' request.

MOVED, supported, CARRIED UNANIMOUSLY, to call a special meeting for 5:00 p.m. on June 19, 1990, to award the bond bid.

Walters noted that Standard and Poor's rating remained a triple B.

Mayor Johnson adjourned the meeting of Monday, June 4, 1990, at 10:25 p.m.

Water needed to fight fires

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

An estimated $365,766 in water main improvements are needed downtown to provide enough water for fire-fighting and prevent potential health risks, a city engineer told the city council at Monday's meeting.

Engineer Bob Warner, of the city engineering firm of McNeely & Lincoln, said the planned expansion of water mains on Center, Cady, Wing and Fairbrook streets is needed for fire protection at St. Lawrence Estates, the MainCentre project and Northville Downs.

The city's fire-fighting capacity was examined by engineers in response to the proposed St. Lawrence development, Warner said. He added that the development was only approved subject to improvement of the water mains on Wing and Fairbrook.

"The City of Detroit, to allow that project to occur, specified that improvement be made," Warner said. "As we found out, unfortunately, a couple of years back, there's not enough water flow."

He was referring to a fire at St. Lawrence Estates more than a year ago, in which a fire hydrant at the scene ran dry within a few minutes. Northville Township tanker trucks had to be used to supplement the city's pumper trucks.

In the case of the MainCentre project, Warner noted that fighting a major fire at the building could drain water from outlying areas of the city, and allow air or groundwater into the water system. Warner warned that if that happened, contaminated water could pose a health problem to the residents of 16 locations around the city.

Warner said Northville Downs was added to the assessment district when engineering tests found that the water flow from fire hydrants in the area was not enough to fight a major fire at the tract.

Under the improvement plan, the existing four- and six-inch diameter water mains under Center Street between Main and Cady streets, Cady between Center and Wing streets, Wing between Cady and Fairbrook streets, and Fairbrook between Wing and Center would be replaced with 12-inch diameter pipe.

Developers object to plan

Joe Garcia, an attorney representing the Northville Driving Club, asked why the roughly $900,000 that the city receives from the track by way of the state revenue for fire and police protection could not be used for the water main improvements.

Several St. Lawrence residents asked why they received assessment notices. "We were under the impression that St. Lawrence was taking care of this, so why did we even receive these?" asked resident Sarah Ryan.

City Manager Steven Walters explained that the notices were sent out because the state's assessing laws require the property owner on the city's tax roll be notified of the assessment, even if other parties will pay the actual bill.

"Part of the record of this hearing will be that The Selective Group was agreed to pay for those," Walters said.

But Freedman backed off a tentative promise the firm had made to the city to pay the entire St. Lawrence assessment.

"We don't know what we're talking about this evening in terms of the assessments or the scope of the assessment district," Freedman said.

"This is a tough position that I'm in," he noted. "I'd like to assure that we'll pay everybody's assessment but we don't know what the assessment will be. . . I'd prefer to continue our discussions with the city before making a commitment."

Council Member Paul Follino pointed out The Selective Group was told by city and Detroit Water and Sewer Commission officials that the St. Lawrence project would require improvements to the city's water mains. "They knew themselves before the project even started that there would be a problem out there," Follino said.

Walters agreed, saying, "The Selective Group was advised by the city and the Detroit Water and Sewer Commission that in order for the development to occur, improvements were required."

Council Member Dewey Gardner suggested the council wait for a water main report from Warner before making a decision on the assessments, and the council agreed to discuss the assessment district at its July 2 meeting. At that meeting, the council could call another public hearing on the need for the project and on the exact assessment district.

NOVI LAWN SPRINKLING SCHEDULE
Even numbered addresses: sprinkle on even numbered days
Odd numbered addresses: sprinkle on odd numbered days
If possible DO NOT SPRINKLE during the peak demand hours of:
6 A.M. — 9 A.M.
AND
5 P.M. — 8 P.M.
All water customers with automatic sprinkling systems should set their time clocks for sprinkling between the hours of 12 midnight and 6 am, which is normally a low demand period.
You will benefit in complying to this schedule in two ways:
1) You will control the water pressure fluctuation during the high water demand days of the summer season.
2) You will help keep water rate increases down.
There are various factors which enter into Detroit's rate making methodology to establish "cost of service". Among the factors which have a strong influence on the water rates are each community's peak flow, peak hour flow, and maximum day flow. Each year these factors are updated by Detroit, based on records from the previous year's flows.
You can directly influence these factors by complying to the above lawn sprinkling schedule, which will in effect lower Novi's maximum day and peak hour flow figures.
Thank you for your cooperation.

PART II, SECTION 1. APPOINTMENT OF PUBLIC SERVANTS TO ISSUE AND SERVE APPEARANCE TICKETS.
The following public servants are hereby appointed and authorized to issue and serve appearance tickets in the Charter Township of Northville with respect to certain offenses less than felony grade: (1) The Northville Building Official and his designated assistants; (2) The Northville Township Ordinance Enforcement Officer and his designated assistants; (3) The Northville Township Dog Control Officer and his designated assistants; and (4) The Fire Chief, the Assistant Fire Chief, and two Firefighter Inspectors.
SECTION 2. SAVINGS OF ALL PENDING PROCEEDINGS IN BALANCE OF ORDINANCE.
The balance of Ordinance No. 85, except as herein amended, shall remain in full force and effect. All proceedings pending and all rights and liabilities existing, acquired or incurred at the time this amendatory Ordinance takes effect, are saved and may be consummated according to the law enforced when they are commenced. This amendatory Ordinance shall not be construed to affect any right pending before the effective date of this amendatory Ordinance.
SECTION 3. SEVERABILITY.
If any section, subsection, clause, phrase or portion of this Ordinance is, for any reason, held invalid or unconstitutional by any court of competent jurisdiction, such portion shall not be deemed a separate, distinct and independent provision and such holding shall not affect the validity of the remaining portions thereof.
SECTION 4. CONSTRUCTION OF ORDINANCE.
This Ordinance shall be liberally construed in such manner as to best effectuate its purpose. The provisions of this Ordinance shall be construed, if possible, in such manner as to make such provisions compatible and consistent with the provisions of all existing Ordinances of the Township and all amendments thereto.
SECTION 5. REPEAL OF CONFLICTING SECTIONS.
Part II, Section 1 of Ordinance No. 85 is hereby repealed only to the extent necessary to give this amendatory Ordinance full force and effect.
SECTION 6. EFFECTIVE DATE.
This Ordinance was adopted by the Township Board of the Charter Township of Northville, pursuant to authority of Act No. 184, Public Acts of 1943, as amended at their regular meeting of June 14, 1990 and is to have immediate effect upon publication thereof.

Planned fire hall addition revived, reworked

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

City officials revived a decade-old plan to expand the city's fire hall last week, only to have the plan postponed Monday by a 2-1 city council vote.

The latest version of the original fire hall expansion plan calls for two bays to be added to the west of the three existing bays at city hall, at an estimated cost of $108,000.

City Manager Steven Walters warned the council Monday the city may have to work out "a property issue" with Northville Public Schools, because the proposed addition would encroach on their Recreation Department property. The school leases the property to the city and township for community recreation.

The fire hall addition would extend about 10 feet west of the city hall property line onto Recreation Department land.

Walters asked the council Monday to authorize a $1,200 payment to the architectural firm of Merritt McCallum Cieslak for a schematic design of the plan, arguing that the city could then take the plan to school officials for their approval.

While council members Carolann Ayers, Dewey Gardner and Paul Folino all agreed with the planned addition, Folino voted against proceeding further with it until the city received some sort of approval from Northville Public School officials that the plan was acceptable to them.

"I just can't see paying $1,200 even on a preliminary-type thing," Folino said, if the school would not go along with the plan.

Mayor Chris Johnson and Council Member Jerry Mittman were unable to attend Monday's meeting.

The fire hall addition was the subject of a two-page memo from Walters to the council, in which Walters recommended that the city contract with Merritt McCallum Cieslak of Farmington to prepare plans for the addition.

Merritt McCallum Cieslak, under the name Merritt Cole McCallum, designed the city hall's library addition in 1980, Walters wrote. The firm also presented a preliminary design for a two-story addition to the back of city hall at that time, to house police garages underneath and a deeper fire-house above.

Walters argued that because the firm was already familiar with city hall and the fire department's needs that the bid should be awarded to Merritt McCallum Cieslak without going through the usual bid proposal process.

The firm's proposed percentage fee was also in line with other firms for the size of the project, Walters said.

Merritt McCallum Cieslak partner Ronald Cieslak quoted the city a fee of 8 percent of the construction cost to cover the firm's architectural and engineering services. The fee includes an estimated $4,800 for construction documents and building specifications, and $2,000 to oversee bidding and construction, as well as the initial $1,200.

The total cost of the addition was estimated at $108,000, which included $9,000 in contingency fees.

The latest proposal, for an addition to the west of city hall rather than behind it, was developed recently by Walters and Fire Chief Jim Allen while they were reviewing Merritt Cole McCallum's original proposal. The new proposal has several advantages, Walters wrote. The one-story addition would be less costly than the original two-story proposal, and the arrangement of five bays side-by-side would allow more flexible fire response than making the three existing bays deeper.

And because the city is exploring the possibility of consolidating police services with neighboring communities, Walters wrote that the police department may not need more space for some time. Also, an addition to the police department could be added later if needed. The police addition could be built like the library addition on the east side of the building.

Walters described the need for more fire hall space as "critical," an assessment few city officials would debate. "The current vehicles are so tight to each other that personnel cannot walk between the vehicles, and there is very little space available for storage and office space," Walters wrote. "By adding the two bays, all vehicles could be parked in the front part of the Fire Hall, and the rear portion would be freed up for other Fire Department uses."

The addition would measure 36 feet deep by 28 feet wide, and the existing fire hall driveway would be widened to allow access to the two extra bays.

TIPS FROM TUCHKLAPER Novi Dental Center

A. Allen Tuchklaper
D.D.S.

FOLLOWING THE CONTOUR

When you have a crown made to protect a tooth that's been badly damaged by decay, your dentist will pay special attention to the relationship of the surrounding teeth and how they follow the lines of your lips.

He'll also study the natural color of your teeth. When the crown is made, it can be covered with a natural-looking material, such as acrylic or porcelain. This is important when the crown is on one of your front teeth. When you open your mouth to speak or smile, you'll feel cosmetically secure if the tooth has a natural look.

Your dentist will also spend a lot of time shaping the crowned tooth so the contour will look natural as well as perfectly matching the shade of your other teeth. It should also properly support the shape of your lips. Care will be taken so that your face will keep its natural look and not change in any way.

Your dentist is not only concerned about the good health of teeth and gums. He's concerned about your personal appearance, too.

Our Opinions

True test of surveys is following up results

Surveys are the last hope of the desperate, a political wag once said. The insinuation is that when things get rough on the home front, a survey will soothe constituents by making it appear politicians are concerned about pocketbook issues affecting Marge and Joe Average.

Surveys are also notorious for their ability to slant responses in the direction desired by the survey-taker. A carefully worded question can mean one thing to a respondent and something altogether different to the person back in the office adding up numbers with "a 3-to-5 percent margin of error."

But surveys continue to be an important information gathering tool for some in government and industry. Northville Township Board members last week discussed the merits of surveying their constituency in hopes of determining exactly how residents are willing to spend their tax dollars.

Supervisor Georgina Goss suggested the survey — to be developed by the University of Michigan's Institute of Social Research — in a letter to fellow board members. Goss said the rapidly changing nature of the township dictates credible, scientific polling of residents over major issues facing the township.

Goss listed library services, roadways and traffic problems, police and fire services and environmental programs as issues requiring attention by township government and she wants to know the extent of community financial support these programs can expect.

The board was seriously rebuked by the May 1 defeat of the Haller Library proposal. Many township politicians and officials worked long and hard to get a pair of millage proposals passed, only to lose by a 2-1 margin. Those same officials are now wondering about the future role of Northville Township government.

All-nighter a fitting cap to graduation ceremony

There is nothing like a graduation ceremony to bring out the poet in all of us.

A high school graduation ceremony, an ending that is one of the most joyous of all beginnings, brings out feelings of pride, relief, and exaltation — and that's just in the hearts of the parents of the graduates!

This year's Northville graduation ceremony was as sweet and dignified as the occasion warranted. Commencement speeches were stirring and emotional, and as the sun slowly moved across the athletic field, graduates had a fitting setting in which to begin the next chapter of their lives.

Northville is indeed a special place for many reasons, not the least of which is the quality and character of the youth who call it home. Ninety percent of those graduating attended the Northville Senior Class All-Night Party in this, its 23rd consecutive year.

While all-night parties are fast becoming the in thing to attend on graduation night, Northville can take a well-deserved bow as one of the places where the trend began.

All-night parties are important for a number of reasons. First, parents and graduates can be assured that one of the most important evenings of the young adults' lives will be spent in a safe, fun environment. Graduation produces many emotions and peer pressure can be at its most persuasive following such a day. Taking away any undue pressure only makes sense.

Second, it really is a fun thing to do. The parents of the graduates spend

GOVERNMENT

Officials are also concerned about the political clout of the local no-new-taxes mavericks. A group going by the name of Citizens for a Better Northville ran aggressive campaigns against a city recreation millage last fall and the Haller proposal. Both millage requests were soundly defeated and Rick Engelland, a member of the anti-tax group, has joined a four-way race for the township treasurer position held by Betty Lennox.

Township officials feel that a survey will help them understand what taxpayers need and want. They now realize the low rumbling sound rolling through the township is more than the effects of a summer squall and they want resident input.

The cost of the survey has yet to be determined and Board members say the plan hinges on the price tag. From this viewpoint, the feeling is that a survey probably won't hurt — and may well be helpful. If a survey is presented, residents are encouraged to share their thoughts.

The real test will be for the township to listen to its constituency and devise and implement strategies based on the outcome of the survey. In the future, township government officials would be wise to take steps to insure that voters are polled every step of the way — informally — because the best sort of local government is an in-touch local government.

nearly eight months planning and preparing for this party. From the food to the entertainment, the graduates are treated to a first-class affair. The work that goes into preparing this party truly is a labor of love for the parents involved. For anyone in the community who has taken the pre-party tour, or for those of us who have been granted special permission to actually see the party in action, it is indeed a transformation.

With the high turnout accomplished by the Northville party any graduate who wants to spend time with friends from high school must make it a point to attend the party.

The Northville party has become such a success and has lasted for such a long time that many other schools just beginning their parties have come calling asking for tips.

Congratulations to the graduates, and to the parents and community members who care enough to make graduation night such a success.

Hobby comes home to roost

Jane had an annoying voice, a tendency toward tweeds and a truly aggravating personality. She was quite the bird-watcher and the implication was that the sport of keeping track of our feathered friends was something the not-very-cool did. It certainly didn't seem to be the leisure-time activity for someone as socially upbeat as I.

Last year I was enticed to travel to Point Pelee in Canada — the springtime stopping place for thousands of migrating birds. Despite the fact that it meant getting up at 4 a.m. I joined the trek. True birders love going to Point Pelee because they can get all kinds of sightings

I never took the hobby of bird-watching too seriously. I was, perhaps, too heavily influenced by Miss Jane on the "Beverly Hills" TV show. Miss for their "bird books." These are notebooks that birdwatching fans keep where they log all of the different types of birds they see.

I actually think these birders travel to Point Pelee to compare binoculars, birding hats and rain gear. It is truly an L.L. Bean festival. The birds hide deep within the branches of the trees. Birders stand hundreds of yards away and claim they see them. "See his orange breast?" "Where?" "On that branch." "Which branch?" "That one." Sometimes it's easier just to nod and move on.

But heavily influenced by this experience I have started my own bird book. Here are notes from a close-to-home birder:

GIANT URBAN CROW — sighted outside of home, evening of June 9. Crow the size of a Volkswagen Beetle perches high above Linden Street in Northville. Small but dignified gray cat saunters out into street. George (cat's name known, crow's not) stops to wash front left paw. Crow — with screech that rivals Tarzan elephant cry, swoops down from perch and attacks cat. Cat barely glances up. I am frozen in spot. A crow is attacking a cat? Is nature backwards? Crow continues to swoop close to cat's head. In true catlike fashion George tries to wither crow with a look. That failing, George moves home to hide under car. Crow flies off with victorious screeching, perhaps looking for small cow to attack next.

WOUNDED BIRD HELPED BY MAN — Driving along Ten Mile Road east of Meadowbrook in Novi. Notice car along side of road. Man standing next to car staring at small spot in the middle of the road. Spot turns out to be small bird — Latin name — smallbirdistica. I watch in rear view mirror as man crosses between cars, picks up hurt bird, walks to other side and places tiny animal under evergreen tree. While bird may or may not survive, survival of human race looks good based on humane effort by unknown man.

Hair today, gone tomorrow

Not so much for the unpleasant look at my stomach with no clothes to hide it, although that's bad enough. The part I really can't stand is at the end, stepping out of the shower, looking down, and seeing . . . hair. A lot of hair.

Now, hair isn't supposed to be on the bottom of the tub. It's supposed to be on the top of my head. With greater and greater frequency, my hair seems to be losing sight of this basic fact.

Taking a morning shower just shouldn't be a depressing experience. But for the last couple of years, mine has become more and more discouraging.

When I was a kid, my hair was very thick. I'd go to the barber and he'd say, "Well! Guess you won't ever have to worry about going bald!"

At nine years old, it's not really a big worry anyway, but it was still good to know. Maybe I should have seen trouble brewing when, somewhere in my late teens, the barber stopped saying that. But I went blindly on without a care in the world.

And now I've been losing frightening amounts of hair for the last several years. I went to the dermatologist, to see if there was anything I could do. "I'm going bald," I told her. She carefully examined my head and said, "Yes, you are."

It's getting worse. Cleaning all the hair out of the tub has become a vital part of the morning routine. The loss really isn't yet noticeable, but it will be soon.

You might wonder what the big deal is. Plenty of people go bald and it doesn't bother them a bit. And, personally, I think guys who are bald or balding look just fine.

But I don't think society as a whole agrees with me. And I guess I'm just not strong enough or secure enough not to worry about this stupid situation.

So what now? That new wonder drug that costs a week's pay for a month's supply, and you're lucky if you see results? Save up for a toupee? Or maybe try one of those hair transplant places that advertise in the TV guide?

Of course not. None of those options feel right for me, even if I could afford them. No, I'll live with whatever happens — but I won't be happy about it. And I'll probably wear a lot more hats.

Salem thanks

To the Editor:

The Salem Area Historical Society wishes to thank all those who contributed to the success of our Barn Exhibit during the Flag Day Celebration in the hamlet of Salem.

First of all we thank the barn owners and the Salem Township Board for the use of town hall; and especially these members who used their talents in many ways: Matt Theeke for the original inspiration; Warren Todd for creation of the barn siding mounting for the photos; Gilbert Terry for his model of a historic barn; Olive and Herb Conant for so many artifacts and the organization of the reception; Vicky Bragg for exhibit captions, for artifacts, for photography; George Pariseau for the professional lettering; Jim and Doris Melosh for artifacts and paper barn souvenirs for the children; Betty Sutton, Karl Gierman, Marlon Mathews for artifacts; and Clara Dickerson for an original drawing of a barn long vanished.

Thanks also are due to the many other members who provided old-fashioned refreshments at the busy reception for the barn owners.

The quality and enthusiasm of the whole affair were not diminished by the lack of coverage by the press.

multiple allergies. True food allergies (which can be life threatening) are not very common. The most frequent food allergies are milk, egg, wheat, fish, soy, shellfish and nuts. Some of these disappear with time, others may be life-long. The most common allergens are pollen (ragweed, grass, tree and weed), mold, and animal dander. Smoke, fumes, chemical and cosmetic odors are not true allergies, but are irritants which may give symptoms similar to allergies.

Skin testing is the most sensitive and reliable way to prove that difficulties are allergic in nature, however, a positive test does not necessarily mean that the allergen in question causes trouble for the person nor does it necessarily predict the severity of difficulties. The blood testing mentioned (RAST, FAST) does not generally reveal any further information than the skin tests and is usually less accurate, more costly and takes longer for results.

Food allergies are best treated by total avoidance. Sometimes, food allergies are diagnosed through elimination diets, but this is not very scientific. Food skin testing can be used to support or refute suspicions with double-blind testing as the ultimate, but cumbersome, method of diagnosis.

I hope that your readers find these clarifications helpful.

Not too old

To the Editor:

Today I read with great interest Tim Richard's column that appeared sometime in May in the Observer and Sliger-Livingston newspapers.

Ironically, on this date our President, George Bush, is celebrating his 66th birthday. You note in your column that I am 65, and in a rather discriminatory way you relegate me to political retirement. May I remind you that age discrimination is no longer tolerated in this country legally because it has been shown to be a foolish policy.

Since George Bush, our very active President, is showing no signs of physical or mental deterioration, you should also note that President Reagan was much older than President Bush before he ever decided to be a successful candidate for President of the United States.

I would suggest that you have the column that you wrote laminated, and then write me at the Office of Attorney General when you reach 65, and let me know if you still feel the same way.

Your column also mentioned Lt. Gov. Martha Griffiths and Secretary of State Richard Austin as being too old for public service. I imagine many members of the United States Supreme Court who are older than Lt. Gov. Griffiths and Secretary of State Austin would not agree that retirement from public life should be controlled by the age of the official.

All good wishes.

Frank J. Kelley
Attorney General

Thanks again

To the Editor:

I want to take this opportunity to thank the people who provided assistance to two Odyssey of the Mind teams to travel to the University of Iowa to compete in World Finals. A total of 638 teams participated in world competition with between 7,000 and 8,000 students. The Northville team finished first and won a special creativity award and the Structure team placed second. Northville is very proud of these creative problem solvers.

First of all, we want to thank the Northville Record for the fine press coverage. We also wish to thank Ford Motor Company for the use of a van to transport props.

The following list of people, organizations and business establishments made it possible to cover costs for team members and coaches to travel to the University of Iowa to compete. We are very appreciative of their help.

Kraft and Donna Bell, Gary and Mary Najarian, Dr. George Bell, George and Ann Kruszewski, Fred and Claudia Borcherts, Barbara Medeiros, J. Lewis and Gayle Fountain. Students Danny and Matt Ferrara, David Craig, Jeff Arenz, John Julow, Arjun Srinivasan, Chris, Adam and Maureen Melvin who collected pop cans at the Amerman Ice Cream Social. ### Allergy tips

To the Editor:

On May 31, 1990, an article was published in your periodical regarding tips for allergic individuals. Neither the source for the information nor the author was stated. Unfortunately, some of the information given was either incorrect or misleading.

As a local physician who is board certified in allergic and immunologic diseases, I would like to comment on the information given. Only individuals who are predisposed to having allergic difficulties will react against those substances that the immune system perceives as foreign. In people without allergic tendencies, the immune system ignores these substances. Allergies are always specific even though many people have

OM thanks

To the Editor:

We "followed the Yellow Brick Road to Oz" for seven months with our Odyssey of the Mind Recycle Problem. Along the way a whole lot of people helped us out. We would like to thank them.

Thank you Winchester Elementary, First Presbyterian Church, and the Methodist Church for giving us open spaces to practice our Recycle Problem. We thank Mrs. Drews, Mrs. Keen and Ms. Mann, our fourth-grade classroom teachers, and Mrs. Morhaus, our principal, and Mr. Ricketts for their interest, time and support. Thank you Mr. Swancutt for donating a huge van to transport props to Iowa.

A special thanks goes to all of our World Finals' financial contributors, as listed in the Fundraiser Committee's Letter to the Editor.

For all the OM coaches, parents and kids and all others who gave us support, we dedicate the following poem:

Phil Power

A small dinner party. Candles sparked off wine glasses. Dessert had just been served.

"The country's stuck in the mud. We need some leadership, some vision, an agenda. I just hope the president and Congress can come up with it," said a senior executive whose company employs tens of thousands.

Heads nodded gravely. Conventional wisdom.

To think the solution to our nation's problems will come out of Washington is both naive and masochistic.

Naive because Washington, whether ruled by Republicans or Democrats, is concerned solely with what goes on in Washington, not the rest of the country. Visit D.C. People ask, "What's going on out there in the real world?"

Masochistic because Washington, whether run by liberals or conservatives, is at bottom nothing more than a vast monument to enduring bureaucracies. The vast changes sweeping our economics and government mean an end to the central role of bureaucracies.

Historically, bureaucracies evolved to coordinate and control many individual transactions — Social Security claims, tax payments, property tax payments to the bank, ordering a car at the dealer, children's report cards from school.

But today, when the personal computer, phone modem and voice mail are becoming common, the need for bureaucracies — ravenous, centralized, inflexible — is fast disappearing.

While Washington remains captive to its bureaucracies, the real action is in the real world. Examples:

- In Minnesota, a new law lets parents choose their child's school anywhere in the state, eliminating residence requirements and forcing schools to compete.

- Near Miami, Fla., an experiment in "school-based autonomy" lets 32 schools be managed by teachers and parents, not central school bureaucrats. A similar test is under way in Rochester, N.Y.

- Michigan's State Board of Education is developing a core curriculum — setting out what kids should learn in our schools. But the plan is that school districts will be free to choose how to achieve the defined educational outcomes. (Indeed, Gov. James Blanchard recently called for abolition of the State Board of Education, in part on the grounds that it is excessively centralized and bureaucratic and unresponsive to parents and teachers.)

- In New York, a company called America Works is paid $5,000 by the state for each welfare recipient placed in a job (average salary: $14,000), but only after the employee has stayed seven months. Taxpayers win: The fee is less than half the $12,000 per year to keep a family of three on welfare.

Everywhere, experiments in decentralizing are cropping up.

I think this issue will come to the fore in politics, too.

The start is that the workings of government — especially the federal — have become less and less efficient. Next came the Republican charge that Democrats were apologists for taxing and spending, regardless of results.

Michiganians from both parties are working on new models of how government might work. Community self-help groups, funded by diversion of local property taxes and managed by networks of personal computers, are being designed.

Certificates of minimum skill attainment are being talked about as a precondition of jobs for youth. Not far off is a rule requiring that those who collect unemployment checks also be enrolled in training programs.

Never has politics been so filled with imagination and experiment. But you would never know it if you lived and worked in Washington.

Raymond J. Brennan

Raymond (Poncho) Brennan, 54, of Northville died June 12 at Providence Hospital in Southfield. Known as Poncho to his friends, Mr. Brennan was born on June 20, 1935, to Bernard and Florence (Keller) Brennan in Detroit.

Mr. Brennan, a member of the Northville Eagles, lived in the area. Survivors include mother Florence Brennan of Chicago, son Raymond of Florida, sister Jean and brother Larry Brennan of Howell.

Funeral services were held June 15 at the Casterline Funeral Home, Inc., with Rev. Martin Ankrum of First Presbyterian Church of Northville officiating.

Interment was at the Rural Hill Cemetery in Northville.

Arrangements were made by the Casterline Funeral Home, Inc. of Northville.

Jane R. Maxon

Jane R. Maxon, 74, died from pancreatic cancer June 16 in her Northville home.

Miss Maxon, who lived in the area since 1975, was born on June 13, 1916, in Casper, Wyo., to Harry and Elsie (Wilson) Maxon.

Miss Maxon was a prominent educator and principal of Lingemann, Sanders and Keldan schools. She was also an instrumental teacher in several Detroit Public Schools.

Survivors include sister Mary Stratford, three nephews and a friend Carolyn Toyer.

Memorial services were held June 20 at the Ross B. Northrop & Son Funeral Home in Northville. Miss Maxon will be cremated.

Memorials sent to the Arbor Hospice, 2010 Hogback Rd., Ann Arbor, Mich., 48105, would be appreciated. Arrangements were made by the Ross B. Northrop & Son Funeral Home of Northville.

Marilyn Bart

Marilyn Bart, 60, of Northville died June 18 at St. Mary's Hospital in Livonia.

Mrs. Bart was born on July 6, 1929, to Floyd and Gertrude (Stephenson) Jackson. She came to the Northville area from Detroit in 1987.

She was employed as office personnel with Union Carbide for 28 years, retiring in 1984. Mrs. Bart was an honorary member with Boys Town.

She was preceded in death by her husband Richard in 1965. Survivors include sister Phyllis Jackson of Northville.

Memorial services will be held tomorrow, June 22, at 2 p.m. at the Ross B. Northrop & Son Funeral Home, with Rev. Er. Private burial will be at the Highland Cemetery in Milford.

Memorials to the Michigan Humane Society would be appreciated. Arrangements were made by the Ross B. Northrop & Son Funeral Home in Northville.

Justin P. Burton

Justin P. Burton, a former Novi resident, died in Orange City, Fla. He was 86.

Mr. Burton moved to Florida in 1986 after 50 years in the area. He was retired from Ford Motor Co., and he also worked at the Hudson Tool Company in Detroit.

He was a member of the Methodist church.

Mr. Burton was born on March 1, 1904, to Perl and Bertha (Stevens) Burton in Negoa, Ill. He married Elizabeth Gittins on May 28, 1926.

Survivors include sons Douglas of Orange City, Fla., Allan of Novi, Donald of Brighton and Richard of Omaha, Neb.; sister Villa MacLelland of Frankenmuth; and nine grandchildren and seven great grandchildren.

Funeral services were held June 19 at the Casterline Funeral Home, Inc., with the Rev. Martin Ankrum of First Presbyterian Church of Northville officiating.

Interment was at the Oakland Hills Memorial Gardens in Novi. Memorials to the Leukemia Foundation would be appreciated.

Arrangements were made by the Casterline Funeral Home, Inc. of Northville.

Delorez Doren

Delorez Doren, formerly of Northville and South Lyon, died June 11 at the Desert Springs Hospital in Las Vegas, Nev. She was 85.

Mrs. Doren was born July 26, 1904, to Charles and Stella (Whitacre) Hamilton in Panville, Ind. She married Forest L. Doren, who died Feb. 25, 1988.

Formerly of South Lyon and Northville, Mrs. Doren moved to Las Vegas in 1986.

With her husband, she was a harness racing trainer and a member of the National Harness Racing Association.

Survivors include son Jack of Las Vegas; brother Donovan Hamilton of California and two grandchildren.

Committal service was held June 16 at the Oakland Hills Memorial Gardens in Novi, with the Rev. Alan George of First United Methodist of South Lyon officiating.

Memorials may be sent to the American Heart Association.

In some situations renting is better than buying

With housing costs rising at only about 5 percent annually, the housing market projections for the 1990s are not very rosy. According to the Michigan Association of CPAs, a key question potential home buyers might want to be asking is whether to buy or rent.

CPAs suggest that the decision whether to buy or rent can best be made by weighing the pros and cons of each option. Your ultimate decision will be influenced by the living arrangements you require, plus your current financial situation. Here are some factors CPAs suggest that you may want to consider when deciding if renting or buying is right for you.

RENTING IS CHEAPER THAN BUYING
First of all, in many parts of the country it is now cheaper to rent than to buy — even when taking the tax benefits of home ownership into consideration. Remember that although home ownership does open the door to numerous tax deductions, the dollar value of those deductions has been somewhat deflated by lower tax rates.

In addition, if you want to buy a home, you must be prepared to make a 10 to 20 percent down payment and pay closing costs, title insurance, and points. For first-time buyers, the substantial down payment often presents the major stumbling block to buying a home, especially in light of the slow growth in the real income of young people today. And if you do have enough money for a down payment, renting offers you the opportunity to invest the money you would have had to tie up in the down payment and other closing costs.

Of course, the cost of owning a home extends beyond the initial payments. In the first year, the average cost of owning a home (after taxes) is approximately 32 percent of your income. In 1970, that cost was only 23 percent.

As a homeowner, you must be prepared to make a long-term commitment to expensive monthly payments, including maintenance, landscaping, trash and snow removal, as well as unexpected major repairs such as a new roof or furnace.

RENTERS HAVE MORE MOBILITY
Suppose you lose your job, or must transfer to another location. If you are tied to a short-term lease, you have far more mobility and flexibility than you have as a homeowner. And with some lease agreements, you can even sublet your apartment.

Furthermore, renting offers you the opportunity to test out a particular neighborhood before making a long-term commitment to stay in that location. If you know that you will be moving within four years, it is almost always more advantageous to rent. CPAs say that in most cases, it takes at least four years for your home equity growth to offset the costs of buying and selling.

SOME CAUTIONARY ADVICE ABOUT RENTING

If you decide to rent, be sure you understand all the terms of the rental agreement. For example, some leases do not allow sublets. And some rental agreements require that you pay for utilities and other maintenance costs.

Check your lease to see if it mentions whether your rent will increase if there is an increase in oil prices or local taxes. The lease should also specify how much notice you must give the landlord of your intention to vacate the apartment — and how much notice the landlord must give you if he or she decides to evict you. You should also find out whether you can fix up your apartment by building shelves or making other alterations.

WHEN IS BUYING RIGHT?

On the other side of the scale, there are considerable advantages to buying a home. For many Americans, the increase in space, privacy and freedom to remodel associated with home ownership is vital to happiness.

Obviously, the decision to buy a home depends to a great extent on your ability to pay for the costs of the purchase plus the on-going monthly costs of ownership. Some first-time buyers turn to relatives to help with the down payment; others find loans. CPAs suggest that the total carrying charges of owning a home should not exceed 40 percent of your monthly net income.

If your finances are tight, but your heart is set on buying a home, consider a smaller home in a desirable location. You may also want to explore less expensive homes that may involve a longer commute to your place of employment, although these homes may not appreciate as quickly as you would like. Another option is a handyman's special, or a home that has the potential for expansion.

TAX BENEFITS AND EQUITY

Owning a home can still be a good investment — even if the mortgage interest rates exceed the annual appreciation of your home. The reason for this is simple: in the early years of a mortgage, a larger share of the monthly payment goes to tax deducible interest rather than principal. In addition, you can generally deduct real estate taxes and points paid to secure a mortgage. What's more, you can defer tax on the gain realized by selling your home simply by purchasing a home of equal or greater value.

WHICH WAY WILL THE SCALES TIP?

A recent survey reveals that an increasing population of single individuals is turning away from home ownership and opting to rent or purchase condominiums. Put off by the costs of home ownership, many young couples between the ages of 25 and 29, once a major house-buying group, are opting to rent. But don't let the demographics dictate your personal decision. Carefully consider your own priorities and financial realities, and act on those factors. You may also want to consult a CPA who can help you decide which is right for you — buying or renting.

Builders seek controlled growth

As pressures for controlling growth in southeast Michigan and in boomtowns on the west side of the state mount, draft legislation designed to give local communities more authority over development is nearing completion.

In the works for nearly two years, the legislation according to its authors, strives to balance the interest of existing development against the need for new development.

But builders are concerned efforts to restrict or stop development could be disastrous to them, the local economy and the freedom of people to choose where they wish to live.

Neither side expects to see growth management legislation introduced until after the November general elections.

According to Mark Wyckoff, president to the Planning and Zoning Center, an Ann Arbor planning consultant firm, current planning and zoning regulations were adequate for the past, but they approach growth in a piecemeal fashion.

"They were designed for the problems of a different age," Wyckoff said.

Wyckoff and Gerald Fisher, an attorney with Kohl, Secrest, Wardle, Lynch, Clark and Hampton in Farmington Hills, presented an early draft of the new legislation at a growth-management meeting in Southfield sponsored by the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments (SEMCOG) and five communities.

The legislation, developed for Independence, Oakland, Waterford and West Bloomfield townships and the city of Rochester Hills, will not be introduced in Legislature until next year.

Wyckoff stressed communities are cautious about controlling growth for fear of stifling it. "Despite what developers believe, these are not anti-growth efforts."

Irvin Yackness, executive director of the Builders Association of Southeast Michigan (BASM), said he hasn't examined the proposed legislation, but regulations that inhibit development should be scrutinized closely.

The builders association is committed to growth management, but it is concerned the builders' and public sector's definition are widely different, he said.

Most growth management proposals appear to be no-growth based, which is why a continuing dialogue is needed, Yackness said.

Limiting or slowing development through any means restricts the right of property owners to develop their land, increases housing costs and prevents people from choosing where to live.

"It is wrong for people to stop development just because they have their house in the suburbs," he said. "They (the rights to choose) were certainly important to the citizen who earlier had the opportunity to move to the area."

"Stopping growth will not stop traffic congestion, loss of wetlands and woodlands, rising property values or protect the environment," he said.

But building does have a direct effect on the local economy, Yackness said. Building not only adds to the tax base, but creates and sustains jobs as well as providing a continuing source of revenue for local businesses.

"If we want an ongoing economy, we must have ongoing construction," he said. "I think we can all recall what 1981 was like when we had only 1,200 building permits pulled."

Fisher of Kohl Secrest said an important tool would allow communities to transfer and purchase development rights. Transferring development rights from one property to another permits dense building in one area in exchange for light building in another regardless of current zoning.

To ensure a land owner is not deprived of property rights, new legislation would permit communities — through special assessments or other means — to compensate owners for lost profits, he said.

New legislation establishing urban and general-service districts spelling out where water, sewer, paved roads and other infrastructure will be provided would enable developers to know well beforehand that a given parcel will not support dense development, according to Fisher.

Closely related, he said, is legislation requiring a "concurrency of services and facilities" that would tie new development and infrastructure construction together. Currently, infrastructure construction — particularly roads — lags behind development, which results in traffic congestion and gridlock, he said.

To ensure a concurrency of services and facilities, the legislation would allow communities to establish impact fees — monies payable for improvements that are substantially related to and provide a material benefit to the new development, Fisher said.

New legislation would also require public agencies — including city, village, township, parks and recreation, county road agencies — to designate areas intended for public development.

When a developer makes a proposal conflicting with a master plan, the affected agency would be required to acquire the property itself or amend the plan to allow the development, Fisher said.

The legislation also proposes a regional impact coordination act that would require developers to present an impact analysis to surrounding communities.

"The difficulty," he said, "is in preserving a community's right to home rule."

During site plan approval, the home community would hear testimony from other communities and determine if theirs is an "unreasonable impact." Fisher said if the home community discovers an unreasonable impact, the project would not be approved until the impact was mitigated.

The new legislation would also allow communities to enter into "development agreements" which would ensure builders that laws affecting their projects will not change during the project's construction.

In turn, communities negotiate for developer-financed infrastructure and project phasing to insure a concurrency of services and facilities.

Fisher also said new legislation is needed to reform special assessment laws because recent court cases have "over-limited" the ability to assess special taxes.

Current laws allow assessments only for work that directly effects or adjoins a parcel, he said.

Business Briefs

DR. FRED E. BENTLEY of Northville, was honored by the Michigan State Medical Society (MSMS) recently for 50 years of service to the medical profession.

Bentley and 98 other Michigan physicians from across the state were honored for their outstanding contributions in a special reception and ceremonies before the 350 physician-delegates attending the 125th annual session of the MSMS House of Delegates at the Amway Grand Plaza Hotel in Grand Rapids.

These physicians represent a combined 4,900 years of medical service to their patients. Beginning their careers just prior to the U.S. involvement in World War II, these physicians assumed key roles in a medical generation distinguished for its unprecedented achievements in advancing and promoting human health care.

The Michigan State Medical Society is the statewide professional association of 11,500 medical doctors. Physician policies on such topics as patient access to health care, environmental health care cost containment are set at the annual House of Delegates meeting.

DAVID G. BARENS of South Lyon has been named vice president of procurement and advertising at Foodland Distributors, a wholesale supermarket supplier in Livonia.

Barens, 41, possesses 24 years of experience in the supermarket business. He most recently served as president and chief executive officer of Allied Grocers, a cooperative wholesaler in Windsor, Conn.

He previously worked as vice president for sales and marketing at Affiliated Food Stores in Keller, Texas. A Detroit native, he started in the business at Allied Supermarkets, where he spent 17 years in various positions.

Foodland Distributors, one of largest independent food wholesalers in Michigan, supplies 108 supermarkets throughout the state.

Builders hurt by S & L restrictions

(AP) — House builders and some congressmen are mounting a campaign against a "credit crunch" they say is crippling the construction industry and threatening the loss of 200,000 jobs.

Coinciding with a recent Commerce Department report about the smallest number of housing starts since the last recession, the National Association of Home Builders called a news conference to announce the details of its latest industry survey.

Association President Martin Perlman said the survey showed that "builders are being indiscriminately cut off from the credit markets. Production is dropping. People are losing their jobs and businesses. The disruptions in the housing delivery system are far more severe than anyone anticipated."

The Commerce report said housing starts had dropped 5.8 percent to a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 1.25 million units, the lowest level since 1.17 million units were started at an annual rate in October 1982.

At issue, the house builders said, is the new savings and loan bailout law that limits the amount of loans to an individual and tightens requirements for loans by commercial banks.

But other housing industry observers say steep mortgage rates, overbuilding and the high cost of new houses also contribute to the downturn in construction.

The S & L reform law limits to 15 percent the amount of capital that a thrift institution can lend to one borrower. Before the law was enacted last August, thrifts could lend all their money to a single builder.

U.S. Rep. Peter Hoagland, a Democrat from Nebraska, told the news conference that 68 congressmen have joined him in sponsoring a bill that would remedy the problem by permitting a transition period during which builders could find alternative sources of money for construction.

Hoagland said he believes the bill will reach the House floor within two weeks. A similar bill has been introduced in the Senate by Sen. Richard Shelby, D-Ala.

"Further complicating the situation is the fact that commercial banks have not been able to pick up the slack and are tightening their lending requirements due to a February bulletin from the Comptroller of the Currency warning commercial banks about the dangers of real estate lending and urging bank examiners to look closely at all of the real estate loans in the banks under their jurisdiction," Perlman said.

"This is having an inhibiting effect on housing finance that is clearly reflected in our survey results," he said. He welcomed a statement last week by bank regulators saying that banks should keep making loans to qualified customers.

"Hopefully that message will get out to the bank examiners," Perlman said.

The credit crunch has caused the builders' group to revise its 1990 housing starts forecast downward from 1.42 million units to 1.28 million.

"This decrease of 140,000 housing starts translates into the loss of 200,000 jobs for an entire year, $6 billion in wages and $2 billion in taxes at all levels," Perlman said.

This tree died of a heart attack.

Carving hearts on trees seems harmless enough.

But the fact is, it cut short the life of this majestic oak.

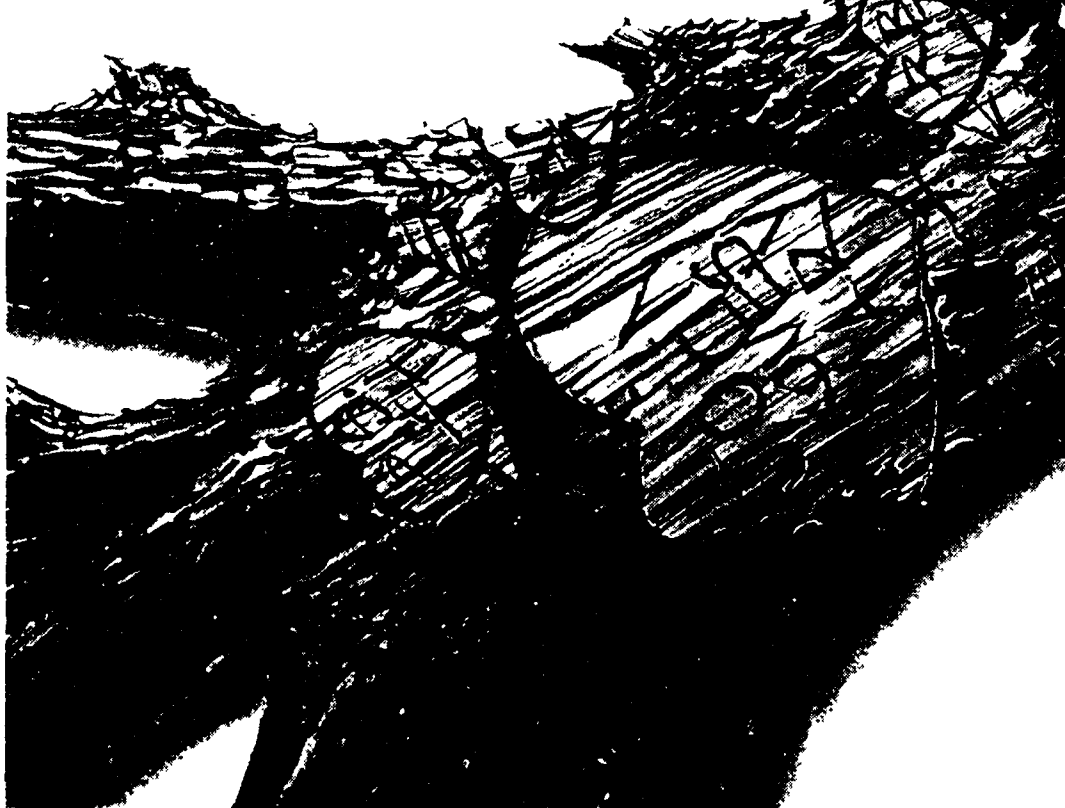

By gouging into the bark, vandals crippled the tree's vascular system. So, like thousands of other innocent victims each year, the tree slowly died.

But the fight against vandalism is gathering strength from the example of Lynn Brauer and Carol Eichling.

When vandals girdled a 300 year old Chinquapin Oak near their Marthasville, Missouri home, they wrapped the wound in sphagnum moss and tended the tree daily, despite blizzard conditions.

If not for the severe winter, arborists feel the Chinquapin might have survived.

We believe miracles can take root. When people care enough.

Give a hoot.
Don't pollute.

PACING yourself at home

By AILEEN WINGBLAD
Special Writer

If you're noticing your paunch is a bit "paunchier" or perhaps your thighs are flabbier than before — but you just don't fancy the thought of hanging out amid a sea of strangers at the area health club — take heart.

There is an alternative to sweating it out at your local spa, and it's gaining in popularity as more and more people look toward physical fitness.

Thanks to the relative affordability and convenience of today's personal exercise equipment, lots of folks are finding that when it comes to shaping up, there's no place like home.

"People are starting to get real tired of health clubs, mostly because of the time they have to spend waiting to use the equipment as well as membership rates," says Daniel Merritt, manager of Novi's Fitness Source, which specializes in home workout equipment.

And, Merritt says, business has been "phenomenal" lately, as customers hustle to purchase fitness-enhancing equipment in hopes of working off those extra pounds of flab so many of us seem to gain during the winter months.

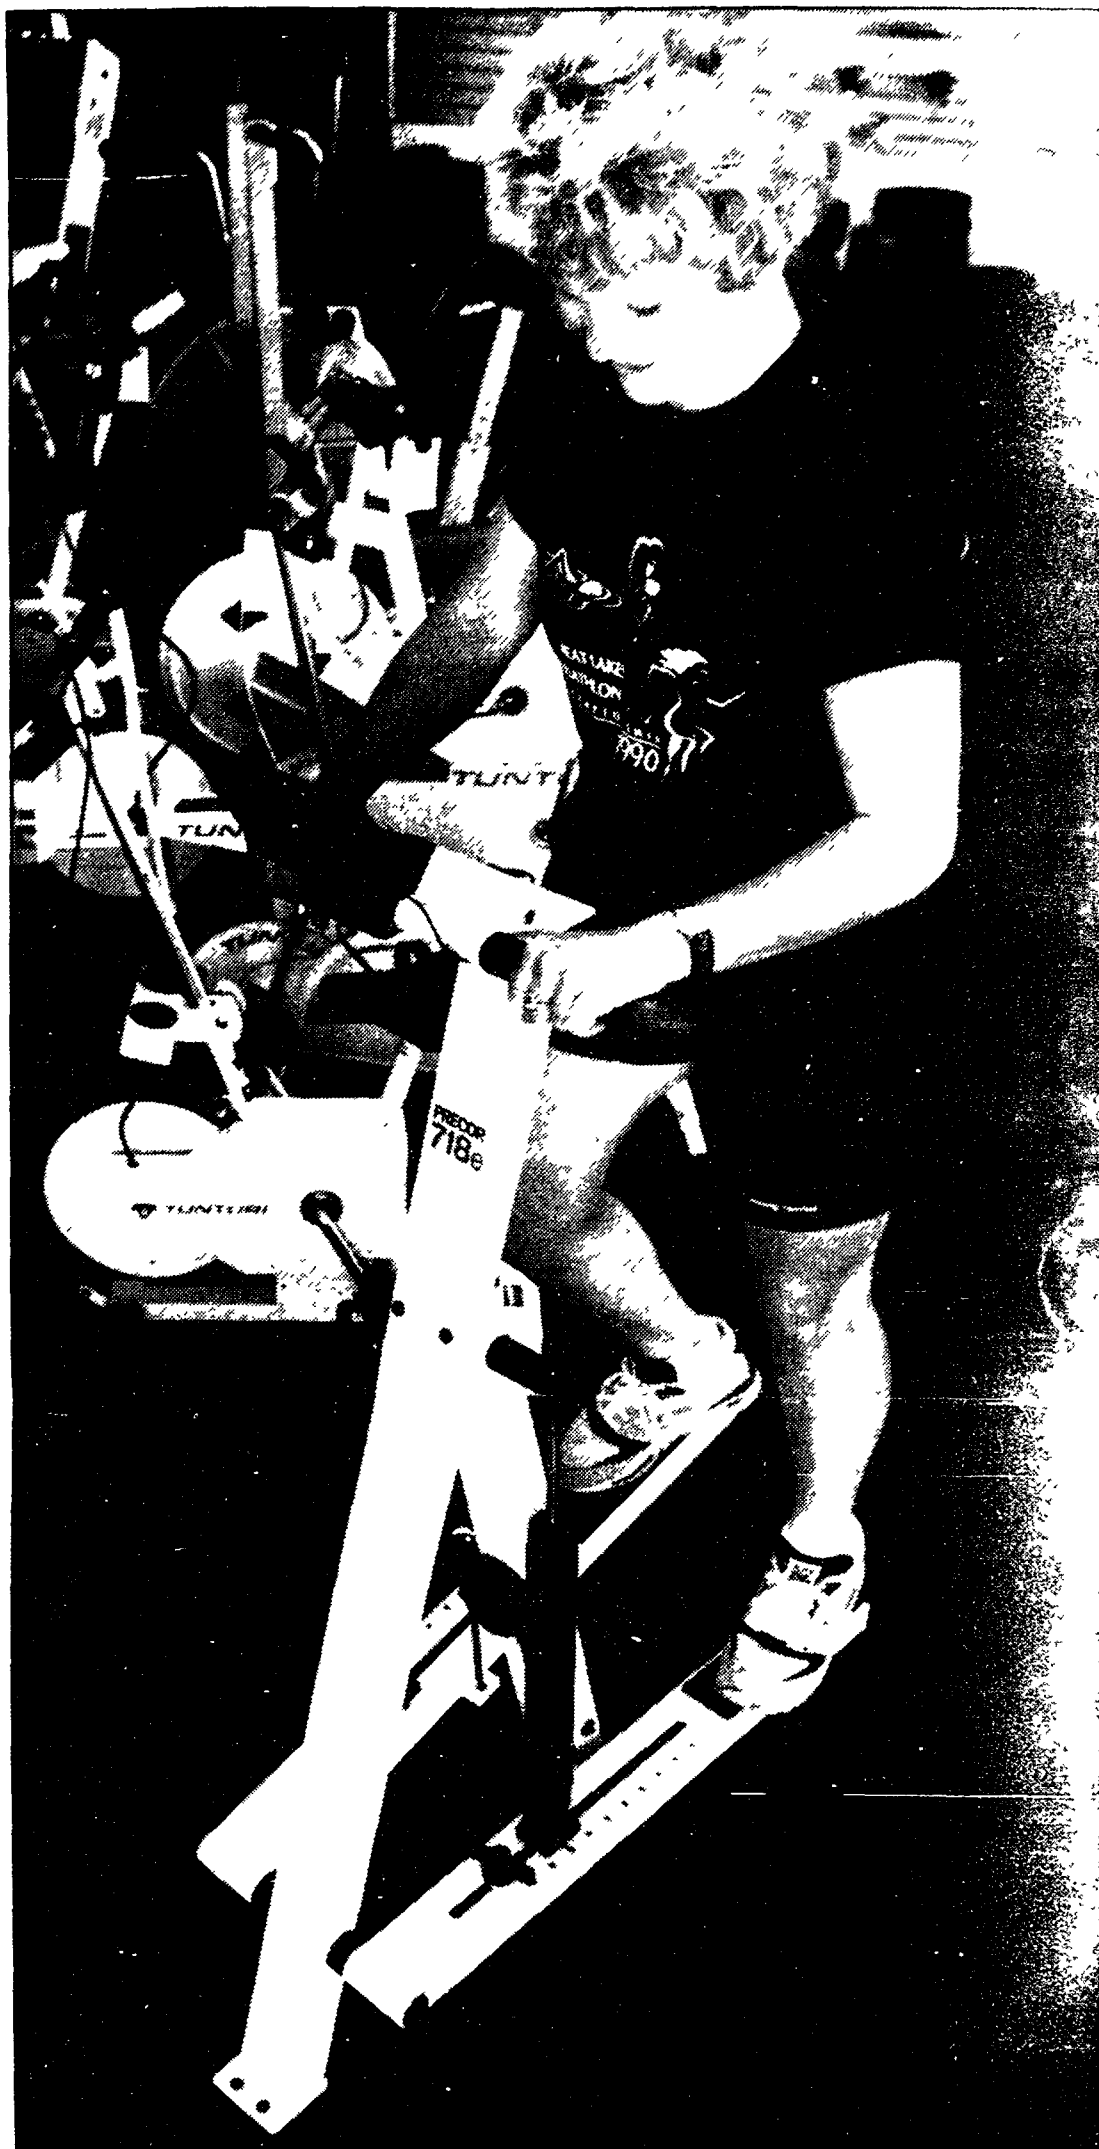

So what is tops in home exercise equipment today? Merritt points to items that offer aerobic-styled workouts, like stationary bicycles, rowing machines and especially now, stair climbers, as the most essential to have for proper conditioning. Not surprisingly, they are also the biggest sellers.

"You really need something aerobic, something to get your heart in good condition before you even begin to worry about toning or firming up, like a bike or stair climber," says Merritt, adding that it's always wise to check with your doctor before embarking on any new exercise regime, especially if you've been somewhat sedentary for a while. And according to Merritt, his typical customers are likely to be just that: an equal number of men and women, age 38-57 or so, who have become more conscious and concerned with a changing metabolism and accompanying weight gain that naturally occur with age.

"A lot of them have sat behind a desk for 10 or 12 years and are getting a bit of a pouch or something . . . and they have more disposable income to spend on this type of thing," Merritt says. "Also, a lot of people nowadays are really tight on time, and don't want to wait around at your Vic Tanny's or what have you, in order to get on the equipment."

Stair climbers are generally their first choice for home equipment, says Merritt, because they give not only a healthy aerobic workout for the heart, but help to condition muscles in the legs and buttocks — trouble spots for many. And with a price range of $349 to $2,800, there are quite a few from which to choose. "But I'd say our $399 model is our biggest seller," Merritt adds.

The Downey

Functional and affordable

By James McAlexander

In recent years, the twin plagues of rising real estate and construction costs have joined forces to put home ownership outside the financial reach of many young couples.

In response, Landmark has designed a series of five small homes (under 1,600 square feet), each as handsome and functional as it is affordable. The Downey is the first in this series.

The Downey packs a great deal into a small, affordable space. It offers features most first-time home-buyers want, including indoor utilities, master suite, kitchen eating bar, pantry and family room.

At its heart, the kitchen and family room flow together, separated only by an eating bar long enough for five or six stools. Utilities are tucked conveniently behind folding doors. However, some families might prefer to house a computer in this nook, for homework and games, and move the appliances into the garage.

Ceilings in the living and dining rooms are higher than in the rest of the house, and vaulted. Clerestory windows cap the three large multipaned windows, bringing in more light and giving the area a lofty feel.

In the large master suite, a vanity/dressing area nestles between the bathroom and walk-in closet. While not quite wide enough for window seats, natural windows shelves in the other bedrooms are great for displaying plants, books, knick-knacks or stuffed animal collections.

Three closets provide additional storage area in the entry area and hallway, and there is space at the back of the stepped two-car garage for more storage or a small workshop. With the garage on one side of the house, and the entry porch on another, the Downey is best-suited for placement on a corner lot.

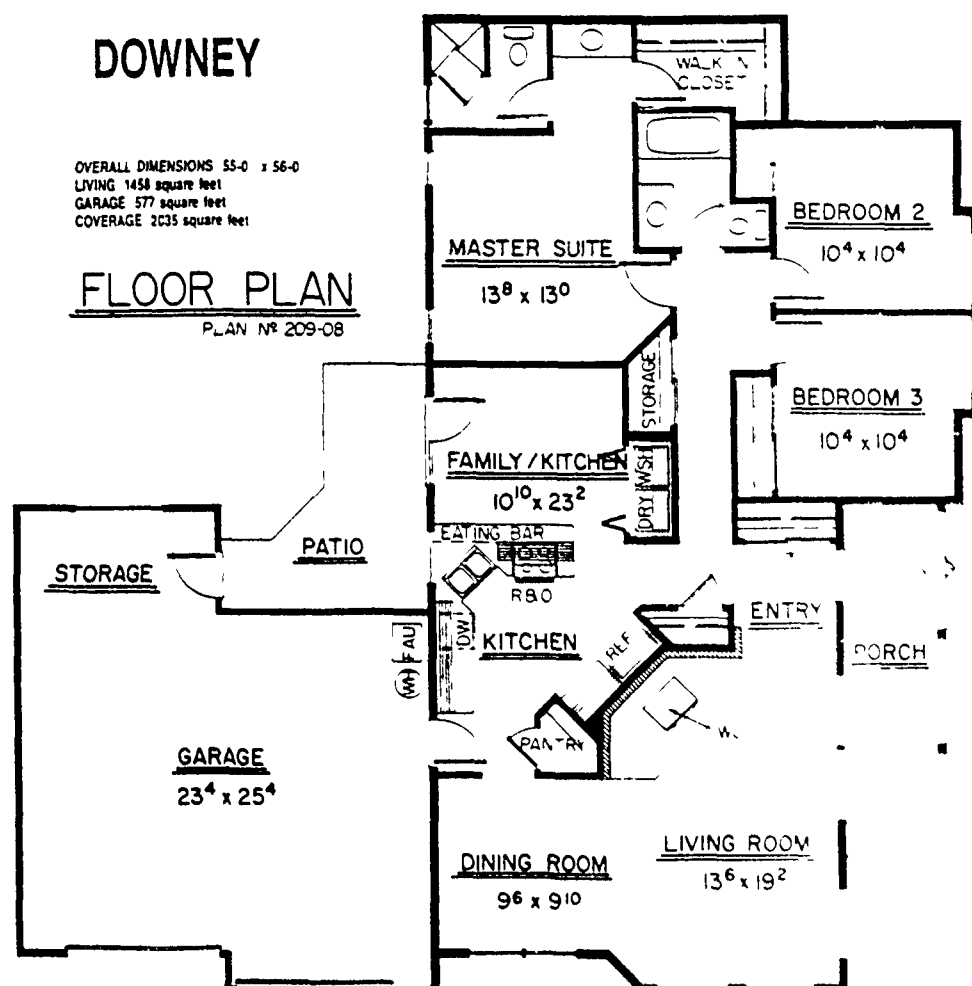

For a study plan of the Downey (209-08), send $5 to Landmark Designs, P.O. Box 2307 CN, Eugene, OR 97402. (Be sure to specify plan name and number when ordering.)

Old and new ways to battle common garden insects

By Patrick Denton

Erecting barriers and setting traps are environment-friendly mechanical methods for controlling many of our most devastating and common garden pests.

Among the trapping methods available to the home gardener are various kinds of sticky traps that immobilize pests forever on their gluey surfaces.

An old favorite sticky trapping material is Tanglefoot, applied on paper or cloth bands wrapped around tree trunks to prevent caterpillars and other insects from climbing trees to feed on foliage, buds or fruits, or to lay eggs. Such sticky materials are also barriers to ants, which protect aphid colonies by fighting off aphid predators.

I apply Tanglefoot to adhesive or masking tape, though sometimes I simply will use double-sided caterpillar tape purchased at a garden outlet.

I band the fruit trees in the fall before frost to catch egg-laying insects climbing trunks, and I renew the bands at different sections of the trunks in spring to bar ants and munching crawlers.

Some sticky traps are designed to attract and fool pests into settling on them. Yellow traps capitalize on the attraction that color holds for whiteflies and leaf miner flies, aphids, thrips and fungus gnats.

Sticky yellow traps for both indoor and outdoor use are available at garden outlets. They can also be homemade. I purchase the small size to control fungus gnats in the soil of indoor plants.

Cabbage maggot flies are attracted to gray and can be caught on gray sticky board traps set on posts in cabbage family plantings. Just don't count on trapping every single fly and totally eliminating injury when large numbers of flies are present.

BUGGED?

The old folklore that ashes snugly circling cabbage, cauliflower, broccoli and brussels sprouts stems will deter cabbage flies from laying their eggs at the bases of the plants is not true. On the contrary, the flies will be attracted to the gray ash color.

A sneaky sort of trap uses powerful sex attractants called pheromones, which draw and trap a target pest. These traps are used both as direct controls and as monitors to show when a pest population has built to a point where sprays are necessary. Sex pheromone traps are commonly used as codling moth monitors in apple orchards.

Sound cultural practices together with mechanical methods such as barriers and traps offer many excellent, safe measures for controlling pest problems and maintaining a healthy, ecologically balanced home garden.

Yet another pathway to the same goal is to select resistant varieties.

This is no mysterious procedure. Simply plant more than one variety of your favorite flowers and vegetables each year, and note the varieties that grow most strongly and seem the least affected by insects and diseases. This way, year by year, you will be upgrading your selections to best fit your own garden conditions.

There is a good deal of concern these days about pesticide residues in our foods, and public demand has surely had much to do with the increasing numbers of natural, environmentally kind pest-control products in use today. Here's a sample:

• Pesticidal soaps: There is on the market a broad range of natural soap-based products for controlling most insects pests.

In the Safer line there is also a fatty acid and sulfur-based fungicide, a natural vegetation killer, moss killer, sticky traps and codling moth traps. Read the labels carefully to make sure you are purchasing a product that will control the problem you are concerned with.

• Bacillus thuringiensis (Bt): Bacterial spores sold under the names Dipel, Thuricide, Liquid Organic are mixed with water and sprayed on plants to control butterfly and moth larvae such as loopers and caterpillars.

• Rotenone: A botanical material derived from the roots of tropical legumes, rotenone's active ingredient is of moderately high toxicity to mammals. However, the dust and wettable powders on the market usually contain a concentration of only 1 percent.

Rotenone biodegrades quickly but is an effective control for many beetles, aphids, caterpillars, larvae and bugs. It is toxic to pigs, fish, frogs and toads.

• Pyrethrum: Another botanical product, pyrethrum provides quick control of caterpillars, aphids, beetles and thrips. It breaks down quickly to leave no harmful residues but is toxic to fish.

As with rotenone, observe label cautions carefully and avoid breathing in the fresh dust.

A wallcovering mural can turn a windowless area into a room with a view

Below-grade ambience

By Rose Bennett Gilbert

Q: We're planning to make a family room of sorts in a corner of the basement. It's the only place we can grow into—our house is a Colonial, built in the 1930s. The basement is large and dry, but it is also dark since there are only small well-type windows. What can we do to make it less claustrophobic?—L.G.

A: I haven't heard of anyone adding a basement family room for a long time, given today's quest for open, airy "great rooms" and outdoorsy living. Assuming there's a reason you're looking down—not out—for your family room space, here are several ways to upgrade your below-grade ambience:

- Rely on light, bright colors—your best ally in opening space and brightening things up to the eyes as well as psyche.

- Supplement your small windows with make-believe ones—use mirror squares instead of glass to glaze old wooden window frames. You often can find them inexpensively at salvage yards. Hang them with curtains as if they were the real things, and you'll be delighted with your bright new outlook.

- Literally add a new view with a wall-covering mural such as the dramatic landscape we show here. It's called "Horizon"—no surprise—from James Seeman Studios' Master Collection of hand-screened murals and comes with matching background paper so it can be made to fit almost any wall.

- Install indirect lighting behind a valance board to wash the walls and make them appear taller. It's important that you can't see the light source, so in the mind's eye, it looks as if natural light were flooding in from outdoors.

Q: My in-laws-to-be are giving us our bedroom furniture as a wedding present, actually, the money to buy it.

So we have been looking at suites of furniture. I don't like anything we've seen, at least, not the whole set. My mother—and his—say bedroom furniture should match, like luggage. Are they right? Please answer fast—we're getting married in two months.—B.S.

A: Dear Bridal Suite: Not only don't you have to match all your bedroom furniture—you shouldn't. Matched "suites" are both boring and passe, even if furniture stores insist on showing things en masse.

Buy a good-quality mattress and box spring now and ask your in-laws to bank the rest of their gift in your name so you and your husband can take your time shopping for individual pieces that will add up to a bedroom that's very personally yours.

Rose Bennett Gilbert is the author of five books on interior design, associate editor of Country Decorating and a contributing writer to other publications in the field.

Pewter was common over 3 centuries ago

By James G. McCollam

Q: Antique dealers who have examined this pewter stein say that the date of 1640 is the true vintage. It is 15 inches tall and holds about 2½ quarts. The handle on the lid is in the shape of a lion.

Can you evaluate this stein for me?

A: If the dealers are correct, your stein probably would sell for about $500 to $600.

Three hundred and fifty years ago there were more utensils made of pewter than there were made of ceramics.

Q: My covered stoneware teapot is tan and brown, with white and blue floral decorations. Inscribed on the bottom is "Doulton & Slater's Patent."

Can you tell me about the origin and value of this teapot?

A: Your teapot was made by the Doulton Co. Ltd., in Burslem, England, about 1890. The company produced stoneware under Slater's patent from 1886 to 1914.

A dealer would price this at about $225 to $235.

Q: What can you tell me about my antique portrait plate? It depicts a beautiful girl wearing a curly white wig and red hat with an ostrich plume. The rim is decorated in blue and gold. It is marked "Austria."

A: Your plate was made after the McKinley Tariff Act of 1890, probably about 1900. There were many companies that made porcelain in Austria, particularly in the area around Carlsbad.

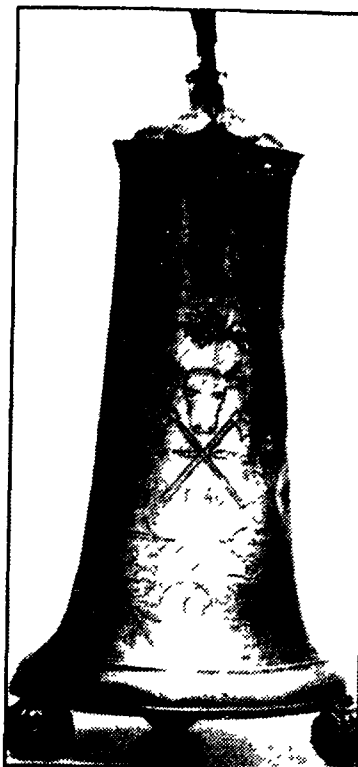

Plates similar to this are selling in the $165 to $185 range.

Q: Can you tell me anything about a 2-gallon stoneware crock?

It is marked "J.E. Norton, Bennington, Vt.," and is decorated in blue with a bird sitting on a branch.

A: The mark you describe was made about 1850-1860. Earlier Bennington stoneware was marked "L. Norton," later Bennington was marked "E & L.P. Norton."

Your crock probably would sell for at least $1,000. You should have this verified by a local expert who can actually examine it.

This pewter stein could be worth up to $600 if 1640 is its true vintage.

Pacing yourself at home

Also popular among home exercise enthusiasts, says Merritt, are treadmills. And while the purchase price might seem a bit steep to some — they cost on the average between $1,200 and $4,500 — Merritt says that a treadmill is a convenient, easy-to-use and much sought after piece of equipment.

"You just set the pace and go," he says. "People do it everywhere. And a treadmill is quiet enough while in operation so that you can put it in front of the television or what have you and still be able to hear above the treadmill."

On an added note, Merritt says that when purchasing a treadmill, the customer should be sure the width of the treadmill belt is wide enough for one's particular pace and step. "You don't want to have to be looking at your feet constantly to make sure you stay on the belt," Merritt says.

For people who are seeking a somewhat newer twist on a traditional piece of equipment, some of the ever-popular stationary bicycles are designed with added features for those who need a little extra motivation. With price tags that edge up past the $2,000 mark, some of the fancier models come equipped with screens whereby the exerciser can experience simulated roadway with changing scenery while pedaling. Or, one can record his or her speed and distance with a special memory feature that lets one set-up pseudo races or competitions.

"Of course, the work-out is the same no matter what features and exercise bike might have. The added features are just a bit more of a motivator. You can make it as easy or as difficult as you want to," Merritt says.

Jim Kirchoss, who manages another of Novi's home exercise equipment shops, The Procycle Center, says his market focuses on low-impact equipment. While stair climbers and Air Resistance Ergometers (rowing and pedaling machines) are hot sellers at his store, Kirchoss says he also sees a fair demand for ankle weight sets, chest expanders, jump ropes and other "easy-on-the-body" type exercise aids. "We even sell Recumbent Bicycles which can be used in a reclining position," Kirchoss says. "You could lay down and eat chips while exercising, if you wanted to."

On a more serious note, Kirchoss says that people's interest in health and fitness is indeed on the upswing, but time constraints and noncommittal attitudes often get in the way.

"You have to make that time commitment — decide when to exercise and then make the time. That's the bottom line," says Kirchoss.

He says that those who choose to exercise at home usually have no one there pushing them to set and achieve a fitness goal, which can really be a detriment.

"You need to set a goal and work toward obtaining that goal," he says. "You need to have a reason to exercise — of course, health is the best reason."

"You must be realistic in what you hope to achieve as far as fitness goes. You can't expect to be in the same shape you were at age 20 after a few weeks of exercising."

Getting under a squeaky floor problem

By Gene Gary

Q: We have wall-to-wall carpeting throughout our home. However, in some areas the floor makes a noise when we walk on it.

A: Is there some way to eliminate these squeaky noises without removing the carpeting?—F.J.S.

A: Squeaky wooden floors can be relatively easy to fix. Whether or not you will be able to fix the problem without removing the carpeting will depend on your access to the flooring construction from below.

If the floor is open underneath (as with an unfinished basement ceiling), then it is easier and more effective to work from below. Typical suspended wood floors are supported by beams called joists. These are usually spaced 16 inches apart.

Running across the joists is the subflooring, which can be made of lumber or plywood sheets. On top of this is the finished wood floor, and these boards are nailed or screwed into subfloor.

Squeaks result when two loose floorboards are stepped on and rub together. A common cause of squeaks is loose subflooring that has dried out or warped and has pulled away from the joist.

This may be your problem if you have carpet installed over subflooring rather than over a finished wood floor (a common practice in today's construction). Have a helper walk on the floor above, while you stay below and try to find the squeak. Look for any movement in the subflooring.

The loose subflooring will most likely be near or directly over a joist. To fill the gap between the subfloor and the joist, drive a thin wedge of wood (cut from a wooden shingle) into the space. The wedge will eliminate movement in the subflooring which causes the squeak.

If a board for the finished floor has come loose, this can also be fixed from below. To tighten the board back into the subflooring, drive 1½-inch wood screws up through the subfloor and into the board.

Have someone stand on the loose board so it is held down tightly while the screw is going in. Don't use a screw that will go all the way through the finished floor.

If the ceiling below the floor is finished, you will have to remove the carpeting and do repairs from above. A loose floorboard can be nailed back into subflooring with finishing nails.

Have a helper assist you by walking around on the floor while you watch for the loose board and listen for the squeak. Hammer two nails in at an angle crossing each other, so that they form a V. This technique is called toenailing, and it gives the nails a much better grip than if they were driven in straight.

The nails should be spaced an inch or two apart. Hammer the nails most of the way in; then use a nail to countersink the nailheads.

When a floorboard is badly buckled, it is better to secure it with long wood screws, as this pulls the flooring and subflooring together more effectively.

Drill pilot holes; then drive in the screws so they are toenailed, and countersink the heads. The pilot holes prevent splits. Once the screws are countersunk, fill the holes with plastic wood.

A loose subfloor can be tightened using the same technique, but in this case the nails or screws must be driven into the joist. A simple way to locate a joist is to use a block of wood and a hammer, and tap along the surface of the floor. The sound will be dull and hollow; when it sounds more solid, you are over a joist.

After locating the joist nearest to the loose subfloor, drive in nails or screws as described above. When finished with floor repair, simply stretch and retack the carpeting to the wood carpet strips.

Q: When we repainted our kitchen, the painters were careless and dripped latex paint on the Formica counter top and splash boards. It has dried, and I have been unable to remove it.

A: Do you know any of product that will remove these unsightly dried paint spots?—S.F.

Goof Off from Atlanta Sundries,

6480 Chupp Road, Lithonia, GA 30058, is available in a 4- and 6-ounce can and a 7-ounce spray can.

Klean-Clean also is effective in removing dried paint splatters. It comes in pint, quart and gallon sizes, a 7-ounce aerosol can and a 4-ounce flip-top can and is available at hardware stores or from Klean-Strip, Box 1879, Memphis, TN 38101.

Both cleaners also are effective in the removal of other types of stains (gum, glue, lipstick, crayon, etc.) It's a good idea to test any product of this type in an inconspicuous area to make sure that it does not mar or damage the finish of the surface you are trying to clean.

THE MAPLES OF NOVI

Come Celebrate The Grand Opening
Of Your New Neighborhood.

Upscale living at very down to earth prices.

It's hard to imagine anything better than living in a spacious, well-appointed home in peaceful surroundings. But soon, 900 families will be experiencing the luxury of The Maples of Novi.

Everything about The Maples of Novi is worth celebrating. Creatively designed homes to suit different lifestyles. Lots of custom features. Superior craftsmanship and the finest materials.

Then there's the golf course, walking and nature trails, community centers and pools. Even a shopping center.

In other words, The Maples of Novi will have just about every comfort and convenience you can think of. And the best thing is, it's truly affordable.

Relax and take in the picturesque fairways of the Maple Greens.

Just picture this...sitting on the private patio of your own elegant detached condominium watching the golfers on the 9-hole golf course. Or maybe taking in a round yourself before lunch.

Choose a ranch style or two-story condominium with 2 to 4 bedrooms and you'll have a home with all the quality and features you've always wanted.

Vaulted ceilings. Luxurious master suites. And a fireplace, central air, den, private home security system, 2-car garage and much more.

Maple Greens is resort living at its best. At the very best prices you can find. From $134,900.*

Stop on by and get to know your new neighbors.

We really look forward to meeting you Saturday, June 23, from noon to 6 p.m. We'll help you celebrate the grand opening of your new neighborhood with refreshments, prizes, music and fun for all ages.

CASUALTIES of FASHION

By LESLIE PEREIRA

Anything for fashion.
That means anything — mangled innards from corsets too tight, corns and bunions from high heels too tall and drooping earlobes from earrings too heavy.
But despite the warnings:
"Wearing a pointed, high-heeled shoe is like trying to park two cars in one parking spot," says Dr. Aram Mechigian, a podiatrist and foot surgeon who has treated a multitude of female feet covered with corns, calluses and bunions.
And:
"People who have pierced ears should wear small, simple pierced earrings," says Dr. Joseph Stern of the Cosmetic Surgery Center in Farmington Hills, who has seen more than his share of sagging and split earlobes.
Yet women continue flocking to stores to purchase the three-inch heels and fist-sized dangles that constitute high fashion.
"Heels are a fashion trend, that is for sure," says Darren Rowland, manager of the Wild Pair shoe store at Twelve Oaks Mall. "We sell a lot of the higher heels — 5 inches even," although he says 3 1/2 inches is the most popular height."

Brighton resident Roberta Allen, as she trots around Twelve Oaks Mall in beige pumps, says, "I wear them (high heels) because I think they are attractive — they make your legs look nice."

Allen said she finds the tall heels comfortable — for the first four hours.
Says Lucy Koviac of Farmington Hills, "I wear high heels to look professional."
However, since a large, painful corn sprouted up on a left toe, when away from the office Koviac clothes her feet as she appears now — in short athletic socks and thickly cushioned sneakers with her calf-length navy skirt and crisp white blouse.
Corns, bunions and other physiological problems are something Nancy Wallace, a nurse from New Hudson, seeks to avoid by sticking with "comfortable" shoes like the open-toe black rubber flip-flops she is shopping in.
"I am sure you can get back problems and bunions from high heels," Wallace says, "and that is from people I know."
With such discomfort discussed openly by women, many people believe it is an obsession over fashionable appearance that kicks any practical footwear considerations out of female closets.
"Women today are more conscious of their shoes, but I still think fashion is a priority over foot health," Mechigian said. And fashion, whether daytime at the office or nighttime on the town, still seems to be measured by heel height in the minds of many women.

Volunteers

Impaired development

By DOROTHY NASH

Assisting a teacher in a classroom of nine developmentally impaired girls for three hours one morning a week at Our Lady of Providence Center in Northville is a volunteering activity which, Sharon Lineman said, is filling a need in herself.

Chronologically, the girls range in age from 6 to 26. Developmentally, they could be 6 to 8, maybe 10.

They have a variety of ailments, she said, some of which are Down Syndrome, autism, muscular dystrophy, and head injuries.

Most of them have a home or foster home to which they go every two weeks for a weekend. The rest of the time they live, study, and play at the Center.

When they reach their maximum academic level and "if they're competent enough," Lineman said, they're put into situations of usefulness.

Some will go into the workshop and help fulfill contracts the Center has — for example, filling plastic bags with knife, fork, and spoon sets for catering services.

Other girls, Lineman said, may be sent to work in restaurant kitchens or with household cleaning services.

"Exactly what do I do?" asked Lineman. "As a teacher's aid, I talk with the girls, assist in penmanship, English, and reading. And I grade papers. I'm freeing the teacher so she can spend more time with individual girls."

One thing, Lineman stressed, is the importance of her giving attention impartially.

"These girls have had so much rejection that I can't give more time to one than to another because they would think I liked her better than the others."

"This volunteering," Lineman said, "has given me a totally different outlook. I've become more compassionate. And I'm doing something for myself. I'm giving aid to someone."

For more information on this and other volunteering at Our Lady of Providence Center, call 453-1300. Ask for Sister Theresa Tamburo.

Oppressed by shoes

By LESLIE PEREIRA
Staff Writer

Poor women. Leaping through the various popular, glossy magazines I am struck by the difference between men's and women's fashions. Theirs say "comfortable." Ours say "ouch."

Why do we do it? Why do we let some skinny guy in Italy dictate what we should and shouldn't wear? He says short skirts and we agonize over plump calves and wiry purple veins behind our knees. He says long skirts and we overheat during the summer and restrict ourselves from pleasant bike rides.

And I am as guilty as anyone. Many mornings I struggle on with a pair of pantyhose knowing afternoon temperatures are predicted at upwards of 80 degrees.

I slip on the fashionable mini-skirts that require crossed legs for the entire day and feel my varicose veins expanding and darkening by the minute.

I stuff my size 11 feet into a size 10 shoe to avoid the humiliating revelation that I have bigger feet than most of my male friends.

And I wear completely covered-toe shoes on the most steamy summer days to hide the hammer toes, corns, bunions and callouses resulting from those ill-fitting shoes.

Amazingly, I am not alone. Many podiatrists agree that the majority of their chronic foot-problem clients are women.

So, why do we do it?

As I stood talking to a shoe store salesman, I discovered why we would fight against what is a natural human instinct — the avoidance of pain. As he spoke to me of the new, "exceedingly comfortable", moderate-height heels he claims his store sells, he unwittingly revealed the reason women give in to wearing painful, hard-to-walk-in high heels that study after study has shown to be detrimental not only to our feet, but also our legs and backs.

"They (the new shoes) have really re-established that a woman can look feminine and still work on her feet all day," he was pleased to tell me.

First of all I would disagree with the definition of femininity as being "one who wears high-heels."

Robin Von Hellens, an eighth-grader at Meads Mill Middle School, is the first recipient of the Jody Schwartz Memorial Award, which was given out at the school's Honor Night on June 13. Robin will use the $200 award for volleyball camp this summer and will try out for the Northville High School team next fall. The award was established after Jody's sudden death at the age of 13 last summer. It will be given annually to a deserving eighth grader at Meads Mill for use in a summer enrichment activity such as a camp or lessons for music or art. Additional contributions are welcomed by the Business Office, Northville Public Schools, 501 W. Main Street, Northville.

Some fashions oppress women

And secondly, who made him all-knowledgeable about the subject of femininity and fashion? The notion of a man with a greasy, longish hairdo and a polyester, kelly green sport coat dictating women's fashion seems somehow a ludicrous idea.

And it is. But I realized that we actually allow that ridiculous man, and the thousands of others just like him, to dress us every time we give in to a popular social conception of fashion that harms us or makes us uncomfortable.

Sound crazy? I just count my blessings that I wasn't born into an upper class Chinese family of the 19th century where the rage in women's fashion was the deformative, permanently-crippling practice of foot binding.

Fashions

Luckily in this world of modern medical miracles there are corrective measures available for those women who buy into the often painful preferences for those defining high-fashion items.

For the feet: If the high-heeled pump and the characteristic narrow, pointed tip have prompted the onset of toe corns the size of ball bearings, relax. There is relief.

For the weak-kneed, temporary help can be found in a store-bought corn file if, perhaps, a last minute summer date requires a bare-sandalled foot. A couple of hours in a hot bath will soften the dead skin enough so it peels off like the skin of an orange as the sandpaper file rolls over the conspicuous lump. Remember not to wear toenail polish, as this only draws unwanted attention to unsightly feet.

Sadly, however, the corn file is only a temporary remedy to alleviate minor symptoms of a deeper problem — the narrow, pointed toe-like shoe and its consequences. Corns can be controlled by frequent filings but will continue to reappear until the source of irritation has been vanquished. Similarly, many other manifestations of ill-fitting shoes — hammer toes, ingrown toenails, bunions — are corrected through shoe style changes or more severely, medical attention.

"The body was not made to be put into the position a high heel puts it in," says Mechigan, who has an overwhelmingly female clientele. "They are more aware after they go through (foot) surgery."

Surgical techniques are also called in to counter another result of painful fashions.

Plastic surgeons are offering a now-widespread procedure to women whose fashionable years of wearing heavy, dangling earrings have caused their earlobes to stretch out like an old pair of underwear that has lost its elasticity. They also help women with rambunctious kids who have latched on to shiny earrings and pulled a little too hard.

The patient is given a local anesthetic. A tiny, tweezer-like clamp is put on the offending hole and the doctor cuts as close to the edge of the clamp as he can with a knife blade. After all of the scar tissue is removed from the edge of the old pierce, the open surface of the skin is rejoined with a couple of stitches in the front and the back.

Family struggles with son's rare disease

By LESLIE PEREIRA
Staff Writer

When Steven Schleuder was four months old he weighed 16 pounds, four ounces. Seven months later, he weighed exactly the same.

"Finally I looked at the kid and knew something was wrong," said his mother, Terri Schleuder of Novi. "The child looked like a concentration camp victim."

Little Steven went almost a year without gaining any height or weight before the family's frequent trips to numerous doctors' offices provided them with any answers.

Steven was diagnosed as having a rare disease known as cystinosis, which affects no more than 300 people, mainly children, nationwide.

The most critical organ affected by the disease is the kidney. A normal functioning kidney is responsible for filtering waste out of the blood as well as re-absorbing the "clean" fluid after filtration. A cystinosis-affected kidney is unable to perform the crucial function of taking back necessary nutrient-filled fluids. As a result the child loses water, salt and other nutrients important to proper body functioning which eventually have to be replaced.

One of the main side effects of cystinosis is chronic dehydration and the constant need to replenish the body's water supply.

"At nine months old Steven was waking up four and five times a night to drink lots of water," said Terri Schleuder.

Now, 28-month-old, 22-pound Steven is never without his 36-ounce plastic Little Caesar's water container which his mother says he "downs every three-four hours."

Because the disease causes many of the nutrients important to the body's functioning to be washed out with the water, children with this rare condition crave very salty and spicy foods.

"He would take a potato chip dipped in salsa and gobble it down," said Terri.

Said her husband, Carl, "He would eat spoonfuls of butter. He still does."

Another prominent feature of cystinosis-affected children is a slowdown in growth. Because of

It seems the big, bulky earring rage is not only going to continue but grow longer and heavier, according to the manager of Fashionable, a mostly-earrings accessory store in Twelve Oaks Mall.

Holding a pair of gold-painted marble strands she called "shoulder-dusters," Fashionable's manager Jenne Hadden says she has already sold several pairs of the weighty the problems with the re-absorption of nutrients many of these children often do not get their needed vitamins, despite constant efforts to replace them through food and medicine intake.

"If we are really lucky he will get to be five feet tall," said Terri.

"Women do not seem concerned about the size or the weight," says the empty-lobed Hadden.

But complaints about grueling fashions are not gender specific. According to the men:

for cystinosis must be present in the cell make-up of both parents for their child to even have a 25 percent chance of getting cystinosis.

"They said our odds of winning the lottery would have been better," said father Carl Schleuder with a sad smile.

Because the disease is so uncommon, affected families often try to maintain contacts as a support system for one another.

The Schleuder family recently returned from the sixth annual Cystinosis Conference in Washington, D.C., where they talked about shared experiences with other families and the few doctors that specialize in the treatment.

Additionally, the Schleuders turned their brief visit into a first legislative lobbying attempt when they met with U.S. Rep. William Broomfield, R-Birmingham, to urge him to vote for continued funding of the Orphan Drug Act, a little-known law on which families like theirs depend enormously. This law provides economic incentives for drug companies that research rare-disease drugs.

"Steven wouldn't be here if it wasn't for orphan (rare disease) drugs," said Terri. "And the only hope for Steven to have a normal life is continued research."

Steven relies on five different drugs, which his parents give him daily through a chest tube. The price tag for just one of the five critical medicines is $6,000 every year.

"If it wasn't for insurance, we would be bankrupt," Carl said.

Terri Schleuder, who is a nurse, remembers the frustration of not knowing how to help him as she traveled from doctor to specialist and back again, each time receiving a different diagnosis.

"We don't fault the doctors," Terri said. "It is just so difficult because we know so much more about the disease than most of the doctors do."

"We just hope it becomes a more recognizable disease."

NORTHVILLE HIGH SCHOOL
It is difficult to believe, but this academic year is already behind us. The concerts, sports events, and banquets are over, yearbooks have been distributed and finals are done.

This summer the school will still be in use and students will still be working. The first session of Driver Education began June 18 from 8 to 10 a.m. and the second session will begin July 16 at the same time. High school summer school begins June 25. Information can be obtained at the high school counseling office.

Since this is the last article for this school year, we would like to give advance notice of a few August events to place on your calendars now. The first day of fall sports practice will be

Aug. 13. If your student did not receive the physical exam offered by the athletic department June 5, be sure to have it done before the August date. The Marching Band preseason workout will be from 9 a.m. to noon on Aug. 20-31 in the bandroom.

Fall registration will begin Aug. 27 with the seniors, juniors will be on the 28 and sophomores and freshmen will be Aug. 29. All of these will be from 8-11 a.m. in the counseling office. In the afternoon of each respective day, from 1-3 p.m., will be any necessary scheduling changes.

Junior Division-Short Story: Com-

mentation — Ann Ross, Josh Wiegand, and Kim Woody. Honorable Mention — Ellen Song and Ann Ross. Poetry Award of Excellence: Stephanie Schimpf and a Commendation for Sarah Cannistraro. ## Fort Clatsop memorializes Lewis and Clark expedition

By Sherry Kahan

In high wind, 31 men, one woman, one baby and one Newfoundland dog fled the tides and storms of the Pacific Ocean, looking for a calmer place to camp.

Making their way along the Columbia River in five dugout canoes, they turned in to a smaller path of water. Soon they beached their boats on the edge of a dense forest.

Tall Douglas fir trees rose above them, along with Grand fir, Sitka spruce, Western Red Cedar, Mountain Hemlock and Red Adler.

In spring, summer or fall, sunlight would slice through the branches of these trees and the forest would be blossoming and protective. But this sodden crew, members of the Lewis and Clark expedition, arrived in December 1805, in the cold, dampness of winter when the woods are like a rain forest with water dripping from every limb.

The early 19th century Lewis and Clark crew were sent by President Thomas Jefferson to explore unclaimed and unknown parts of the northwest. The presence of Americans was believed to help establish a United States claim to the territory.

Located on the northwest corner of Oregon near the Columbia River and four miles from the Pacific Ocean, the 125-acre property, originally settled upon by the Lewis and Clark crew is now called Fort Clatsop National Memorial. Owned by the federal government, it is administered by the National Park Service, which in 1989 welcomed approximately 207,000 people.

The name, Fort Clatsop, was chosen because of the friendly Clatsop Indians.

Captain Meriwether Lewis and Captain William Clark were the leaders of the Northwest expedition. They admired each other's abilities and were longtime friends. Clark named his first son Meriwether.

Once the explorers left the forest in March 1806 to return home, their fort gradually deteriorated and disappeared. Small efforts to memorialize the site were made in the 19th and early 20th centuries.

But success did not come until 1955, the year of the Lewis and Clark Sesquicentennial. Groups from the nearby port city of Astoria, Ore., joined with the Oregon Historical Society to build a replica of the original fort. Three Finnish carpenters from Astoria are credited with the actual construction.

Other areas of interest near Fort Clatsop include the city of Astoria, the first permanent settlement in the U.S. west of the Rockies. In 1811, it was a busy fur trading center. The city boasts the first port for ships entering the Columbia River, a Maritime Museum and three other museums celebrating the town's history. Charter fishing is available, and the nearby deactivated Fort Stevens is now a state park.

South of Fort Clatsop is the town of Seaside, where a replica of the salt works used by the explorers can be seen.

The high waterfalls along the

A replica of the original fort used by Lewis and Clark stands in the Fort Clatsop National Memorial Park scenic Columbia Gorge drive should not be missed and anyone who enjoys the sight of ocean water crashing against rocks or rolling in on smooth beaches will want to take a drive along the Oregon Coast. All beaches are public and camping places are available in the area.

The coast is very popular so tourists should make reservations by writing, calling or visiting the Chamber of Commerce in cities along the coast.

These events take place on weekends in late spring, and daily through Labor Day.

Driving into the Fort Clatsop National Memorial, the first building in sight is the Visitor Center, which is being expanded this year to triple its size. It features audio-visual material on the expedition, wall maps, memorabilia and a bronze statue which includes Lewis and Clark, a Clatsop Indian and Lewis' dog, Seaman.

Members of the staff, clothed in buckskin, are ready to take visitors back to the winter of 1805-1806. Visitors participate in candle making, sewing hides and lighting fires with flint and steel. They also try their hand at five ways to make buckskin resist water and other crafts.

And the staff will break the silence of the woods by demonstrating muzzle loading rifles.

Dugout canoes like those used by explorers can be viewed by fort visitors at the edge of a small river now named for Lewis and Clark. The interpretive staff sometimes take the heavy 35-foot boats into the water. To maneuver them they need at least five strong paddlers.

It's a short walk under calming, stately trees to the main entrance of the 50-square-foot Fort Clatsop. It sits snugly under a canopy of Sitka Spruce. In recreating the fort, carpenters followed a rough sketch of the stockade made by Clark on the cover of his field book.

An American flag with 17 stars hangs on a pole in the small parade ground between the two sections of the fort. Fortunately, the advantage of the new fort today is the absence of troublesome fleas that used to drive the explorers crazy.

On the left are three attached log cabins, each with a crude fireplace and double decker bunks for the men of the U.S. Army Corps of Discovery. Almost all members of the outfit were soldiers. On the right are four attached cabins.

In the rear cabin is a cookhouse and store room. Next is the room used by men on guard duty. Clark's black slave, York, is believed to have bunked there.

York was Clark's boyhood companion on Clark family farms in Virginia and Kentucky. Clark took him on the difficult journey because he was strong, tall and a hard worker. Little did he guess that York's contribution to the expedition would be more than work. Many Indian nations became so fascinated with him that the outfit was generally welcomed. Time and time again he patiently endured their washing his skin to remove the blackness. When they failed, some decided he was Big Medicine, a person to respect.

For the explorers, activities of the winter included exploring the area, and constantly bargaining with the Indians. They also buckled down to the difficult task of scraping, stretching and rubbing elk skins. They saw to it that their clothing was fringed.

Dan Dattilo, park service supervisor of the fort living history program, recently wrote a book on the fort, entitled, "Fort Clatsop — The Story Behind the Scenery."

Dattilo reported buckskin was edged with fringe because rain would run down the garment to the end of the cloth, then body movements of the wearer would "cast off the droplets."

By March 1806, the travelers were eager to start home. Their store of food was little, but they were able to make 338 pairs of moccasins during their stay. Before they left they gave their fort to the chief of the Clatsop Indians. Then they loaded their supplies into the canoes and paddled up the Columbia River toward home.

In 1859, some 53 years later, Oregon became a state and Thomas Jefferson's hopes were realized.

KIBLAT shows way for devout Muslims

By Iris Sanderson Jones

The first time I saw the sign it was inside a bureau drawer in the Rasa Sayang Hotel, one of several beautiful high-rise beach hotels in Penang.

Penang is an island connected by bridge and ferry to the northwest coast of Malaysia, on the southernmost peninsula of southeast Asia.

The sign was one word: KIBLAT. It was printed inside the outline of an arrow that pointed towards the rear corner of the drawer. Malaysia is a Muslim country, but it has large minorities of many religious persuasions, so we had been taking our shoes off all day; to enter the state mosque, to climb the hill to the Pagoda of Ten Thousand Buddhas, to creep into the Snake Temple and to admire the 100-foot-long Reclining Buddha.

The second time I saw the sign was on the ceiling of our room in the Perdana Hotel in Kota Bharu, across the peninsula on the South China Sea. We had photographed Malay fishermen pulling colorful boats through the surf on to a wide sand beach, watched the top spinners, the drummers and the Kelantan dancers, before falling into bed, so I didn't actually see the sign until I was flat on my back, ready to turn out the light.

The same word: KIBLAT. The same boxed arrow. Only this time it was on the ceiling of our hotel room, pointing towards the corner. "It must be something to do with electricity or fire escapes," I said.

Malaysia is a small country, but we spent a lot of time traveling from one place to another aboard Malaysian Air Lines, so the mystery wasn't solved until we reached the capital city of Kuala Lumpur.

Our guide, Anuar Haji Abdul Hamid, took us for a walking tour around the minarets and domes of Masjid Jame, the public mosque, built on the very spot where Kuala Lumpur was founded centuries ago at the junction of the Klang and Gombak rivers. It is a simple but beautiful place of worship, no walls, just traditional Moorish arches looped above a large marble floor.

"Why are the men stretched out all over the floor?" somebody asked. "They look like they're napping."

"Muslims must pray five times a day," Anuar said. "Today is Sunday, these men don't have to work and they are waiting for the next prayer."

"Do they pray facing to the east?"

"They face the holy city of Mecca," Anuar said.

The Saudi Arabian city of Mecca is the birthplace of Mohammed and the spiritual center of Islam. American Muslims need only face east to face Mecca, but Mecca is north and probably west of Kuala Lumpur.

The question kept nagging at me as we photographed the mosque, the old colonial buildings of Kuala Lumpur, the war memorial high above the Lake Gardens. How does a devout Muslim know the direction of Mecca when he travels?

It was a rhetorical question, long forgotten by the time we checked into the Hyatt Saujana Hotel and Country Club, eager to leap into the swimming pool. I pulled a stack of clothes out of my suitcase, opened a bureau drawer and there it was: KIBLAT. And an arrow pointing nowhere.

By that time I had bought a Malay-English dictionary. I dug it out of the bottom of my carry-on luggage and flipped through to the letter "K."

"Kiblat. Here it is," I said. "You're not going to believe this!"

"What does it mean," Micky asked.

"It means 'the direction of Mecca.'"

One-day getaways

Southfield company offers 'quickie' vacations

By Charlene Mitchell

Need a vacation but can't take the time? As workdays get longer and time out periods seem too few, that's the dilemma lots of busy people face today. If you want to get away from it all without spending much time or money, Hamilton Miller Hudson & Fayne Travel of Southfield may have your problem solved.

With its one-day jaunts to places like Atlantic City and Nassau, Bahamas you can spend a whole day and evening away from home without even having to pack a bag!

For $99 with advanced reservations, you can leave Detroit Metro Airport in the morning and return just after mid-night. The time between flights is spent having a ball.

The cost includes round-trip airfare, a $15 meal coupon and transfers to and from the airport in Atlantic City. Also, to get you started in the casino, Hamilton Miller gives every traveler $30 in quarters. If you don't want to play the slots with the money, it's yours to keep. The $15 meal coupon is good at any of the restaurants at Tropworld, and there's plenty to choose from including over-sized deli sandwiches, gourmet seafood or steaks grilled before your eyes.

If you travel in a group or with a friend, you can spend time chatting on the way without bringing work up.

If you decide to go alone, as many do, it's fun meeting others who are trying to "get away" for the same reasons.

"They go because it's a lot of fun," said Ron Fayne, vice-president of Hamilton Miller. "We get a lot of repeaters with this trip. Senior citizens and other groups who go about twice a year."

There is a variety of travelers on these trips — from senior citizens and families to couples and singles. "That's why we use Tropworld as our hotel," Fayne said. "Everything is there, from the casinos and restaurants, to the big indoor amusement center for the kids."

The trip is great for groups and companies that give their employees the day off to spend together. Mel Farr Automotive Group in sponsored a trip with 37 auto salespeople, managers and dealership executives.

It's easy to distinguish the novice gamblers on the one-day rendezvous from the hard-core gamblers. It's not by the amount of money they lay out, but by the way they act, said Fred Pratt, a floor supervisor at Tropworld. "Once you watch, you can tell the green peas. When they come to the blackjack table not knowing what to do, I usually recommend they go to the slots where luck can help them out if they aren't familiar with the other games. Otherwise they get taken."

Although gambling takes center stage for the daring, there are lots of other fun and cheap things to do on the one-day trip to Atlantic City. Sightseeing is exciting, especially with the new Taj Mahal Casino and Resort recently built by Donald Trump. There's plenty to look at and enjoy at Tropworld. Just beyond the Slot City Estates lies a section they call, "Slot City by the Sea" featuring a wall with four aquariums filled with tropical fish. On the other side is the Sandbar cocktail lounge which gives visitors the feeling of being at the water's edge. There is too much here to see and do in just one day, but if you come only for a day, you'll never have a dull moment.

Hamilton Miller, Hudson & Fayne sends three flights a week to Atlantic City and may add one more flight to meet the growing demand for the one-day trips. The one-day trips to Atlantic City leave every Tuesday, Wednesday and Saturday morning from Detroit Metro Airport via Continental Airlines.

Government maps help campers, hikers

(AP) — If outdoor adventure is on the agenda this summer, there are government maps that may help.

Most hikers and campers already know about the detailed U.S. Geological Survey maps that provide a close look at a small area.

Folks just looking for a park to visit or a scenic attraction may want something less detailed but providing a wide range of possibilities. The government has four maps that may be helpful, all available from the Consumer Information Center, Pueblo, Colo., 81009.

The first is a National Park System map covering the whole country and showing the locations of national parks, battlefields, historic sites, monuments, lakeshores, preserves, riverways, recreation areas, scenic rivers and parkways. This map allows for quick location of National Park Service facilities in any part of the country. And on the back it lists them by state with a guide to facilities available, such as visitors centers, tours, campgrounds, museums and whether there is a fee. The National Park System Map and Guide sells for $1.25. Ask for item number 150W.

A second helpful map is National Wildlife Refuge. Also a national map, it shows the location of national wildlife refuges across the country.

The back of the map lists them by state, along with information on the best seasons to visit and the activities allowed and banned in the particular location. Hunting, fishing, camping, swimming, picnicking and other such pastimes are allowed in some refuges but limited or banned in others. Checking the chart will allow visitors to be aware in advance.

The National Wildlife Refuge map costs $1. It is item number 152W.

Folks interested in the Western states may also be interested in the Recreation Guide to BLM Public Lands. The Bureau of Land Management maintains large areas in the West, and these regions are illustrated on the map, including the locations of campgrounds

The back of the map isn't as detailed as the other two, but it does include a description of the BLM properties in each state and a list of offices that would be visitors can contact for more detail about specific locations.

The BLM map costs $1.50 and is item 153W.

A Guide to Your National Forests is the fourth map being offered, showing the locations of each national forest along with addresses and phone numbers of information offices. That map costs $1 and it is item 166W.

Ice cream is fun summer eating

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

Few signs signal the start of summer as clearly as the sight of young children firmly clutching ice cream cones in their hands, the ice cream dripping down the cone, their arms, and onto the ground.

Northville and Novi residents have seen such sights for half a century outside two local ice cream parlors — Guernsey Farms Dairy and Robin's Cloverdale Cafe.

"Cloverdale's has been selling their ice cream at this location for 51 years," said Ross Taksony, owner of the restaurant at 134 N. Center St. "Many people come in here who are 30, 40, even 50 years old, and they remember coming in here as a kid. They're carrying on the tradition by bringing in their own kids, even grandchildren."

Cloverdale sells some 30 ice cream flavors, although not all flavors are always available. The ice cream itself is made at the Cloverdale Farms Dairy in Plymouth, which has been churning out dairy products since 1933, Taksony said.

The creamery creates several unique flavors as well as the old standards like vanilla, chocolate and strawberry. "One of the oldies but goodies is orange pineapple," Taksony said.

Other notable tastes include Strawberry Cheesecake, Butterfinger, Chocolate Peanut Butter and Chocolate Cherry Cordial. "Cloverdale's invented that two or three years ago, they blend the cherry cordials right into the ice cream," Taksony explained. Robin's also serves yogurt, the newest craze in the ice cream world.

But Blue Moon is probably the most colorful ice cream concoction available at the Cafe. "It's very blue," Taksony said, "and the younger people think it's just a kid's flavor because the children love it for its color. But 20, 30, 40 years ago, it was very popular."

The flavor has a subtle citrus flavor, and is made with a little almond extract as well, he said.

"Because Cloverdale's has been here so long, we'll hear some requests for flavors that haven't been here for a long time," Taksony added. Lemon Chiffon and Black Walnut are a couple of the long-forgotten flavors that people request.

"We get requests occasionally for phosphates," he added, referring to another old-fashioned favorite. For the uninitiated, phosphates are ice cream sodas made without the ice cream, but with soda water, syrup and cream.

"Topping our ice cream menu is the Round Robin," Taksony said. This gastronomic "Big Chill" consists of 10 scoops of ice cream, "with every topping that we have." The toppings include hot fudge, hot caramel, cherry, strawberry, pineapple, marshmallow, chocolate syrup, whipped cream and nuts.

"Of course, it's there more for shock value, but we sell a number of them every year," Taksony said. "It looks good for about 60 seconds, before everything starts to melt together and run down the side."

Marty McGuire, whose father owned Guernsey Farms Dairy before him, said the dairy just celebrated its 50th year. For about half of those years, the business was located at 125 S. Center St. in downtown Northville, just down the street from the Cloverdale Cafe. Now the restaurant and creamery are located at 21300 Novi Rd. on the border between Northville and Novi.

The company is still family-run, with seven of McGuire's 13 siblings taking an active role.

Some of Guernsey's more unique flavors include Mackinac Island Peanut Butter Fudge, Praline Pecan, and Black Forest, which consists of "a vanilla background ice cream with cherry brandy sauce rippled through it with chocolate-covered cherries," McGuire said.

"We make over 50 different flavors," McGuire said, including four sherberts, five sorbets or ices, and eight different flavors of yogurt.

All the ice cream is made right at the dairy's Novi Road location.

"All our sundaes are pretty special — we've got the banana split and we've still got the old-fashioned ice cream soda," McGuire said. A chocolate brownie sundae and banana royale are among other tasty summer-time treats. But the hot fudge sundae is "still probably the most popular," he said.

According to McGuire, dairies like his are part of a vanishing breed of businesses in the state. "Years ago there used to be 600 dairies in the state of Michigan," he said. "Now there are only 20."

The others have been driven out of business by mass-produced milk literally flooding the market, McGuire said. "Because they sell so cheap, it's a tough market to compete in," he said. But the surviving local companies manage to stay afloat in part by selling premium ice cream flavors.

"To compete with the big guys, you've got to go for the better quality, and try for the best," McGuire said. That policy is evident when the McGuires are shopping for ingredients for their ice cream. "We look for the best-tasting, and then we look at the price."

In order to stay on top of the ice cream competition, McGuire travels all over the country for his ingredients. Nuts come from Cleveland, while vanilla flavoring comes from an east coast firm. But the dairy also supports local businesses, finding several of their flavors at Northville Laboratories on Rural Hill Drive.

Guernsey's search for the best paid off with national recognition, McGuire said, when their Butter Pecan ice cream was voted one of the best in the country by People magazine a few years back.

"We use the best," he said. "That was my dad's philosophy and that's what he taught all of us."

Local parade seeks participants

A call for participants and floats is out for Northville's annual Fourth of July Parade. Entry forms for floats, marching groups, bands, animals, antique cars and decorated bikes can be obtained by calling Bob Cummings at 349-4528 (leave a message), or at the Chamber of Commerce and Parks and Recreation Center. Entries will be accepted until June 26.

Participants are asked to line up at the Northville Downs by 9 a.m. on the 4th and the Fourth of July Parade begins at 10 a.m. For more information, call Bob Cummings at 349-4528.

GARDEN CLUB — Do you have a large garden, or no space at all? Are you interested in floral arrangement, herb gardening or house plants? The newly formed Novi Garden Club, a branch of the Federated Garden Clubs of Michigan, is holding monthly meetings at the Novi Civic Center. For more information, call Elinor Holland at 477-7913.

SUMMER CONCERT — Everyone is invited to the free 1990 Summer Concert Series which will be held on Fridays at 7 p.m. outside the Novi Civic Center (inside if it rains). Bring a picnic dinner, a blanket or lawn chairs and the family to hear the sounds of big bands, jazz Top 40's, Blues and Dixieland. Popcorn, lemonade and frozen candy will be available to purchase.

The first concert is June 22 and features an 18-piece big band, the Brookside Jazz Ensemble with Ursula Walker. The band has played at the Montreux-Detroit Jazz Festival and also at the

In Town

Top-of-the-Pontch series. Ms. Ursula Walker is considered one of the best jazz vocalists in the Detroit area.

SUMMER READING — Northville Public Library's Summer Reading, 1990 will have a culinary theme. Elementary school-age readers are invited to join in the very popular program, which is entitled "Batches of Books." Six special presentations will include edible experiments, science, magic, juggling, safety tips, and participation in Northville's Fourth of July Parade. Programs will take place on Wednesdays at 2 p.m., June 20 through 25.

Children who are not yet reading may enroll in the "Read-to-Me" program. Young listeners will keep a record of favorite books which have been read to them by their parents. Participants of both, "Batches of Books" and "Read-to-Me" programs will receive small prizes and certificates. Registration began June 15 and will continue until June 29. For more information, visit the library or call 349-3020.

POTTERY DISPLAY — An exhibit of pottery and sculpture by artist Joan Leslie Weinberg will be on display at the Novi Civic Center until Friday, June 29.

Weinberg maintains her studio in Novi and works in all phases of hand-built pottery and sculpture. She has studied ceramics at Michigan State University, the Center for Creative Studies and the Birmingham Bloomfield Art Associates. The public is welcome Monday through Friday, 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. For more information, call 347-0400.

ENTOMOLOGY EXHIBIT — Novi student Ricky Marshall's prize-winning entomology cases will be on display at the Novi Public Library until July 1. Marshall has collected all sorts of moths, bees, wasps, butterflies and various other bugs over the past two years.

TALENT SHOW — Every Sunday evening at 8:30 p.m. Whispers Lounge in the Novi Hilton is giving people the opportunity to sing before a live audience.

It all happens with the aid of a new laser-vision videodisc player, TV monitor and "key controller," which automatically sets the key of the music to the singer's voice.

Each Sunday, performers compete before a live audience and a talent agent who will decide nightly winners. Winners will be awarded dinner for two in the Swan restaurant and will be allowed to compete in the grand sing-off.

The grand prize winner will have a videotape of their performance sent to Ed McMahon's "Star Search" program. For more information, call 349-4000.

"In Town" lists upcoming entertainment events in Novi and Northville. To have events listed write to "In Town," Northville Record, 104 W. Main, Northville, MI 48167.

Garden show held in Farmington

The Hill & Dale Garden Club of Farmington, a member of Federated Garden Clubs of Michigan, is having a garden tour on Saturday, June 23, from 1 p.m. until 6 p.m. Participants will tour four of Farmington's loveliest gardens. Tickets can be purchased from Nancy Goulette at 347-6853 or Chris Sechler at 344-8239. A $3 donation is asked.

FAMILY FUN DAY — Come one, come all to the Family Fun Day at the Plymouth Historical Museum on Saturday, June 23, from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. Children and the "young-at-heart" are welcome to join in the fun. Victorian games and toys will be featured outside the Museum. Children may participate in a variety of activities including marbles, jacks, tops, finger puppets and much more. Ice cream and popcorn will also be for sale.

The fun day is in conjunction with an exhibit at the Museum of 19th century games and toys. This exhibit opened June 20 and runs through Sept. 2, 1990.

The Plymouth Historical Museum is located at 155 S. Main St. in Plymouth. Hours are Wednesday, Thursday, Saturday and Sunday from 1-4 p.m. Admission is $1.50 for adults and $.50 for students. A family rate is $4.

GARDEN SHOW — The Council of Grosse Pointe Garden Clubs has selected Friday, June 29, to Sunday, July 1, as the dates for their 17th Annual Garden Tour. Hours will be from 1-5 p.m. each of the three days (rain or shine). The pre-sale price of the tickets is $6; they may be purchased by calling the ticket chairpersons, Mrs. Eberhard Mammen, 884-0966 or Mrs. Arthur Blumenstock, 882-8078. There are eight Grosse Pointe Gardens on this year's tour.

CANOE INSTRUCTION — A canoe instruction clinic will be held at Gallup Park in Ann Arbor this month: June 23. This instructional clinic provides a popular way in which families or individuals can learn about basic canoeing techniques including strokes, handling and safety.

The two-hour clinic begins at 10 a.m. and provides one hour of instruction and one hour of leisure and practice paddling at the scenic Gallup Park. All equipment and canoes are provided. The fee is $7.50 per person. For more information, call 682-9319.

Vigh, Smojver make 2nd team

Here is a closer look at the Sliger-Livingston East, second team All-Area Baseball selections:

GEORGE SMOJVER, Northville, pitcher: Smojver is another surprise player who ended up having a remarkable campaign. He started the season as a long reliever and spot starter, but with the injury to pitcher Tim Hubbert, Smojver got an opportunity and quickly developed into Northville's ace.

"When Hubbert got hurt, George came in and did an outstanding job," Coach Bob Frellick said. "He wasn't really in our starting rotation when the season started, but boy did he do a job once he got in there."

Smojver was among area leaders with a 2.22 ERA, and his 3-1 record was quite impressive considering he played for a team which won only eight games.

At the plate, Smojver also was a surprise. He hit .348 and led his team with eight doubles.

MARK VANAMEYDE, Novi, pitcher: VanAmeyde had an unspectacular 4-5 overall mark, but his 3.83 ERA and his 71 strikeouts in 64 innings were laudable.

"He was the best pitcher we had. There was no question," Novi coach Brian Howard said. "When he was on, there wasn't anybody that was going to beat him. When he was good, he was very good."

VanAmeyde's strikeout-to-walk ratio was nearly 5-1, and he logged more than twice as many innings as any other Wildcat pitcher. As an offensive player, VanAmeyde batted .351 and drove in 14 runs.

"He came through in clutch situations," Howard said. "Mark raised his average more than 100 points from where it was early in the season."

NATE FAULKNER, Novi, catcher: As a hitter, this 220-pound junior is an awesome talent. Behind the plate, he still needs work. But everybody agrees that the potential is there.

"He's got so much potential, it's really unlimited," Coach Brian Howard said. "He's definitely college material." Faulkner was among the area's best in categories like batting average (.414), home runs (4) and RBIs (18). He also scored 22 runs.

DARRELL DAVIS, Milford, infielder: One of the strongest players around, this 210-pound first baseman belted seven home runs and sacrificed his body for the betterment of his team.

Davis was hit by 16 different pitches this season, and, on most occasions, did not attempt to get out of the way.

"Darrell would just stand there and take it," Redskins coach Mike Shearer said. "He'd get hit all over the place, but it didn't bother him. He saw it as a way to help the team."

Davis had more to offer than strength and durability, though. He batted .311, scored 28 runs, knocked in 23 and committed only three errors.

ANDY DUNCAN, South Lyon, infielder: Only a sophomore, Duncan was third on his team with a .379 batting average and first with 31 RBIs.

The big southpaw also was the Lions' No. 2 pitcher, going 5-4 with a 6.73 ERA. He gave up 70 hits and 18 walks in 43 1/3 innings, while striking out 34.

"You can really coach this kid," South Lyon coach Tom Jackson said. "He was always looking to improve himself, plus he didn't let success go to his head. He definitely has some good baseball in front of him."

Duncan's other offensive statistics include two doubles, one triple, two home runs and six walks.

DAN TAYLOR, Milford, infielder: This sophomore shortstop overcame a mid-season illness to hit .346 and earn a reputation as one of the finest defensive players around.

"Dan's arm, at this point, might not be as strong as some of the top-notch shortstops," Coach Mike Shearer said. "But he makes up for it with a quick release. He also has real soft hands."

Taylor committed only five errors during the season.

Offensively, he finished with eight extra-base hits, 17 RBIs, 21 runs and eight stolen bases.

STEVE VIGH, Northville, infielder: A solid performer for two straight seasons, Vigh wrapped up his career with the Mustangs as a .350-plus hitter. This spring he batted .354, led Northville with 13 RBIs and was second on the team with seven doubles.

"Steve is what I'd classify as a natural first baseman," Mustangs coach Bob Frellick said. "He obviously has a good bat... but he is also a fine defender."

With a fielding percentage of .990, Vigh was an inviting target for his teammates at first base. He was an all-area performer last year and a WLAA all-division pick this season.

KELLY JUSTUS, Novi, outfielder: In a way, this senior was Novi's unsung hero. He started slow because of an ankle injury, but came on strong at the finish.

Here is the 1990 Sliger-Livingston East baseball first team, as selected by sportswriters from The Milford Times, The Northville Record, The Novi News and The South Lyon Herald:

FIRST TEAM

JOHN FINLEY, Milford, pitcher: This senior, who hopes to compete at either Ferris State or Siena Heights next spring, played a major role in Milford's success.

As a pitcher, Finley won 10 of 13 decisions and posted a 2.93 ERA. He struck out 73, walked 45 and allowed 51 hits in 71 1/3 innings.

But pitching wasn't his only skill. He also hit .369 with 11 homers and 45 RBIs from his clean-up spot in Milford's batting order.

"John had an excellent season," Redskins coach Mike Shearer said. "He was a strong pitcher when his control was on, and he also was a threat to hit a home run every time he stepped to the plate. It's nice to have a guy like that in your lineup."

When not pitching, Finley served as a designated hitter and outfielder.

MIKE GRAHL, South Lyon, pitcher: After losing his first game, this hard-throwing junior bounced back with six straight victories — including three in the state tournament as South Lyon reached the district finals.

Grahl allowed only 15 earned runs in 49 innings, good for a 2.14 ERA. He also struck out 91 opposing hitters.

"Mike has good speed and movement on his fastball, but he also has a good mixture of pitches," Lions' coach Tom Jackson said. "I feel he has the best curve in the (Kensington Valley Conference)."

"His real strength, though, is his desire to win. He's very competitive out there. He's mentally tough and does not like to lose. You can't coach that stuff. A kid either has it or he doesn't."

Grahl also led the area with a .474 batting average (.37-for-78). He compiled four doubles, three triples, one home run, 25 RBIs and 26 runs in 25 games.

SCOTT McCURDY, Milford, catcher: A question mark when the season started, McCurdy shocked everyone by hitting .416 and committing only three errors at a new position.

In other words, he helped the Redskins overcome the loss of Jeff Irish, a three-year standout who is now playing in the Toronto Blue Jays minor league system.

"Scott was the obvious choice to take over for Jeff, even though he had never caught," Milford coach Mike Shearer said. "He's a hard worker, he's quick with his movements behind the plate and he has a strong arm."

"Still, you never know how a new catcher is going to do. Scott impressed everyone, though. He looked as if he had caught all of his life."

Offensively, McCurdy recorded 52 hits in 125 official at-bats. He also totaled five doubles, two triples, four homers, 10 stolen bases, 38 RBIs and 35 runs.

Sliger/Livingston Publications, Inc. has been selecting the area's top player and coach for the past five seasons. Here is a list of our picks:

AARON GRACE, Lakeland, infielder: This 250-pound first baseman recorded six home runs and 24 RBIs from his clean-up spot in Lakeland's batting order.

But power isn't all Grace has to offer. The junior also hit for average, collecting 31 hits in 86 at-bats for a .360 percentage, and posted a .955 fielding average.

"Aaron is very agile for his size," Eagles' coach Jerry Ganzel said. "He covers first base well, and he also is a lot faster than people realize. He's big, but he's also a good athlete."

Grace's other statistics include two triples, five stolen bases and a team-high 29 runs.

JOE KALEY, Northville, infielder: Kaley's contribution to the Mustang squad was three-fold: he was the team's top hitter, best fielder and respected leader.

Kaley led the team in batting (.358 average), scored 18 runs, drove in 12 and collected four doubles. And if he wasn't getting the big hit at the plate, he was making the defensive play at shortstop. Kaley had a .948 fielding average.

"In my opinion, there wasn't a better shortstop in our conference," Northville coach Bob Frellick said. "He was our captain, our leading hitter and he did the job on defense. He was truly our team leader."

"Joe has good intensity and competitiveness, and he's a fine all-around athlete."

Kaley also earned all-division honors in the Western Lakes Activities Association.

DARNEL KRAUSE, Novi, infielder: Prior to the season, Novi coach Brian Howard predicted that this junior was his best hitter. He was right, too. Krause had a team-high .418 batting average.

"Darnel is a player who always gives everything he has," Howard said. "He's a tremendous competitor. He's got great speed and natural baseball sense. I was very pleased with the season he had."

Krause also was among the Novi leaders in at-bats (91), hits (38), runs (26), doubles (7), homers (4), RBIs (19) and steals (19). Defensively, Krause was a valuable asset as either an infielder or outfielder.

"He developed into a fine fielder,"

BASEBALL: Braves win 17-16

F LEAGUE: The Braves beat the Orioles 17-16 in a thrilling come-from-behind game. Bill Zimendak provided the game-winning hit and was the culmination of a five-run rally in the final inning. Brian Buse was the winning pitcher. . . The Braves crushed the Giants 24-3. Buser was the winning pitcher and Bryan Murr led the offense with three hits.

G LEAGUE: The Angels turned back the Braves 11-8 thanks to a grand slam home run by Ben Szostek in the third inning. Garrett Carter added two hits for the Angels and Brian Jordan knocked in three runs for the Braves. . . The Expos edged the Astros 7-6. The hitting stars for the Astros were Scott Holloway (2-for-2, 2 RBI) and Bill Serkerka. . . The Astros rallied to stage a come-from-behind 5-1 win over the Padres. Pitchers Luke Wilcox and Kris Kurzawa combined for a three hitter, and Dave Anderson notched two hits. . . The Indians defeated the Pirates 13-8. Rocky Zizzo and David Hullman were the hitting stars, while Mike Clancy, Mark Sanders and Paul Maschek starred on defense. . . The Indians upset the first-place Mets 4-0 behind the pitching of Paul Maschek and Mark Sanders. Brad Borgia was the standout on defense. . . Nick Gittins (home run) and James Carroll (3-for-3) led the Indians to a 7-4 victory over the Angels. Paul Maschek pitched three shutout innings. . . The Mets topped the Angels 9-1, thanks to a five-run rally in the second inning. Jeff Seving drove in three runs for the Mets. . . The Expos turned back the Braves 7-2, and Chuck Yessaian was the hitting star. Yessaian (batting .530) smacked his third homer of the season and drove in three runs. . . Andy Wellen and Dave Anderson combined on a five-hitter to lead the Astros to a 9-4 win over the Pirates. Scott Holloway, Anderson and Kevin Watkins each had two hits. . . The Braves routed the Giants 14-2. Brian Jordan led the way with three hits and pitchers Aaron Nelson and Jordan combined on a three-hitter.

H LEAGUE: Ryan Morris hit a grand slam and batted in six runs to lead the Giants to a 13-5 victory over the Blue Jays. John Julow, Brian Horn and Josh Minard all had two hits in the game. . . The Giants scored at least two runs in every inning to trounce the Expos 15-4. John Julow and Josh Minard collected three hits each. . . The Blue Jays scored five times in the third inning and ran away with a 10-2 win over the Braves. David Handley and Brian Tedesco were the hitting stars. . . The Blue Jays broke open a close game with five runs in the sixth, and went on to beat the Angels 10-3. Tom Habitz had two hits for the winning team. . . Brian Horn collected three hits, including a pair of homers, as the Giants stopped the Orioles 18-9. Horn drove in seven runs and was also the winning pitcher. . . The Pirates came back from a 9-2 deficit to beat the Padres 17-11. Adam Hill and Jeremiah Kuuster were the hitting standouts. . . The Pirates collected 16 hits on their way to a 17-10 win over the Astros.

SOFTBALL: Liberties triumph

INTERMEDIATE LEAGUE: The Liberties scored five runs in three of the first four innings and used solid defense to beat the Travelers 15-2. Jenny Hayden smacked a grand slam home — her second in three games — and Jeni Black went 3-for-3. . . The Falcons scored five runs in the third inning en route to an 11-5 win over the Reds. Kan Krupansky, Beck Albanes and Gai Wilcox all had three hits for the winners.

Recreation Briefs

SCHOOLCRAFT SUMMER CAMPS: Schoolcraft College is offering a variety of camps this summer.

The Volleyball Camp will be held in two sessions in July, and is for boys and girls ages 10 through adult. Cost is $70 per session.

The Girls Fundamental Basketball Camp for fourth, fifth and sixth graders will be held from July 30-Aug. 3, and from July 9-13 for the seventh through ninth graders. Fee is $75 per person. In addition, a Fundamental Basketball Camp for boys age nine through 13 will be held June 25-29. Cost is $45 per person.

Faletti reflects on satisfying season

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN
Staff Writer

It would not be very difficult to make a convincing argument that the Northville boys track squad had it's best season in 13 years this spring. After all, 1977 was the last time the Mustangs boasted a winning dual meet record — that is until Coach Dennis Faletti led his squad to a 5-3 mark this year (3-2 in the WLAA).

"That was a very big goal we accomplished," Faletti said. "We really wanted it last year, but we wound up 4-4, so we had even more incentive. This program was used to winning one meet a year, but we've changed that."

Faletti looks at milestones — like winning seasons — as just another step toward building a quality program.

"Now that we have a fairly good program, we can attract potential athletes," he said. "When you win one meet a season, it's hard to get kids to come out for the team."

One of the key highlights of the season came in the 400-meter relay at the MHSAA Regional Meet. The team of Noel Korowin, Matt Hemp, Jamie Miller and Neil White shattered the existing school record in the event with a 45.1 effort. The old mark of 45.3 was set back in 1975.

At that regional meet, Miller and John Okasinski qualified for the state meet in the long jump and pole vault respectively. For Miller, it was the high point of a surprising sophomore season that saw him consistently breaking the 20-foot barrier.

"Jamie is just a 10th grader, so I was real happy with his season," Faletti said. "With the way he's performing, it's going to be nice to have him back for two more seasons."

Okasinski was part of an impressive 1-2 punch in the pole vault, along with fellow senior Aaron Wiseley. They both cleared 11'-6" during the season, and it was supposed to be a down year in that event.

"We lost Shawn Steakweather to graduation, and we really didn't have anybody to fill in," Faletti explained. "So I plucked Okasinski and Wiseley from the distance runners and they performed very well."

Down the stretch, Northville had impressive performances at the regionals and against Farmington Harrison in the final dual meet that ultimately gave the team the winning campaign. But a disappointing outing at the Western Lakes Meet and lackluster performances by Miller and Okasinski at the state meet took a little lustre off the season.

With a top-half finish in mind, the Mustangs only managed to place 10th at the 12-team WLAA Meet. But the team was without injured high jumper Chris Lehr, who is also a key relay performer. Then three days later, Miller barely reached 19'-0" in the long jump at the state meet (his season-best was 20'-7 1/2") and Okasinski failed to clear opening height in the pole vault.

"We had more depth this year and we seemed to have a few quality performers in each event," Faletti said.

"As a team, it all came together near the end of the season, but we couldn't keep it going."

With seniors like White, Jon Meek, Wiseley and Okasinski on the squad, Faletti will again have to do some scrambling in the pole vault and in the relays for next season, but he likes the returning group.

"Looking at my team and seeing who is coming back, I think we'll have an extremely good dual meet team next year," he said. "Two years down the road, I think we'll be a good team at multi-team invitational."

Faletti is very proud of his team's performance in the classroom as well. The Mustangs, as a team, have a 3.02 grade point average.

GIRLS TRACK WRAP-UP: The Mustang girls tracksters haven't had a winning season since Cindy Panowicz led Northville to second place in the WLAA back in 1985.

With a 2-6 overall record, 1-5 mark in the WLAA and an 11th place finish in the 12-team conference, the 1990 Mustangs fit right in with the previous three teams of the late 80s. From '86 to the present, the Northville program has an anemic 8-37 dual meet record.

But with young talented performers like Trish Lukomski (So.), Ris Fleming (So.), Kendra Huard (Jr.), Lisa Almone (So.), Julie Buser (So.), Mari Kissenger (So.) and Angie Tune (So.), the future looks bright.

Ann Turnbull was the head coach of the 1985 team, then left the position for four seasons only to return this spring. She is hoping to build a winning program once again, but knows that it will take time.

Gerlach surprised with his team's winning ways

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN
Staff Writer

If the truth be told, the 1990 girls softball season went much better than Northville Coach Bob Gerlach had envisioned.

Coming off a Western Lakes Activities Association (WLAA) title the year before, the Mustangs suffered some heavy graduation losses and were thought to be in a rebuilding year. But with trademark defense and pitching, Northville developed into a very competitive team, and wound up out-performing all expectations.

"To be honest, we didn't think we'd be as good as we were," Gerlach admitted. "There really weren't any disappointments because of that. I never said this to the team but I thought we'd be lucky to be .500. The things we accomplished are a tribute to the kids."

In his five years as coach, Gerlach has turned a struggling program into the thriving one. In a surprise move, he announced at the team banquet earlier this month that he will not be returning as coach next spring.

"This is my last year," he said. "It's time to get out. I have young kids at home and I want to spend more time with them. It was a hard decision."

Gerlach's first season was a 3-21 nightmare, but once his defense-oriented philosophy took hold, the milestones started to pile up. First it was a winning season, then it was the program's first ever division title, and last year a conference crown.

WLAA ALL-WESTERN DIVISION SOFTBALL TEAM

Chris Ford	Jr.	IF	Plymouth Canton
Brenda Pierson	Jr.	IF	Livonia Franklin

Kara McNeil	So.	OF	Northville
Renee Dory	So.	C	Plymouth Canton
Rozann Staknis	Sr.	P	Northville
Kelly Homes	Fr.	P	Plymouth Canton
Laura Apligian	So.	C	Northville

HONORABLE MENTION: Diane Beckert, Tricia Tumminia — Northville; Andrea Najarian, Shelly Bouwens, Eileen Raynor — Farmington Harrison; Shawna Schellinger — WL Western; Dawn Warner, Tracy Parenti — Livonia Franklin; Jackie Herbert, Vicki Lucas — Livonia Churchill.

"I was blessed with good talent," Gerlach said modestly. "But I do feel good about where the program is right now."

Behind the pitching of Rozann Staknis, the hitting of Laura Apligian, and sound defense by all, the Mustangs went 13-8 overall and 5-4 in the WLAA Western Division (third place). The squad was always competitive and seemed to bounce back well after defeats. That explains why Northville never lost more than two in a row.

"This was a good group," Gerlach said. "We came back after losses and for the first time since I've been coach, we played well in tournaments."

In three tournaments the Mustangs went 6-3, including an appearance in the district semifinals before falling to Farmington Hills Mercy. One of the season's highlights was an exciting 1-0 victory over Livonia Franklin, a team that's gone on to win a district title. Staknis out-dued Franklin ace Jenny Mayle in that game.

Staknis (13-5 record, 1.43 earned run average, 110 strikeouts) was undoubtedly Northville's most valuable player, and she was picked for that honor at the team banquet. Her pitching, solid team defense and the ability to manufacture runs without the aid of a lot of hits is the kind of softball Gerlach teaches.

The team's key offensive stars were sisters Laura and Melanie Apligian. Laura batted .352, tied with her sister for the area lead in home runs with three, and led the team with 19 runs batted in. She added 10 doubles, 29 runs scored and nine steals in just 21 games. Quite a year for a sophomore.

Melanie batted just .236, but 53 percent of her hits were of the extra base variety (three homers, three doubles, one triple). The speedy junior was also one of the premier outfield defenders in the area.

"With Rozann, Laura and Melanie, we were very strong up the middle," Gerlach said.

Staknis and the Apligian sisters were All-Division selections this spring — along with leftfielder Kara McNeil — but Gerlach was very upset that his team wasn't represented on the All-Conference team.

"Rozann should have been an All-Conference pitcher and Laura was by far the best catcher in our conference," he said.

But complaints aside, the '90 campaign was special.

"When you end a season and you want to keep playing games, you know that you've had a rewarding year," Gerlach said. "That's the way I felt after this season ended."

Sophomore catcher Laura Apligian was one of four Mustang players to make All-Division this season

Novi Faith Run draws 121 entries

The Ninth Annual Faith Community Run in Novi drew 121 entries on June 9.

The event, sponsored by the Faith Community Presbyterian Church, included a four-mile race and a one-mile fun run. The overall winner in the race was Dave Furey, 31, of Ann Arbor, who navigated the course in 20:50. The female winner was Noelle Dixon, 19, of Livonia (24:16).

The following is a rundown of the top three finishers in each age division:

Two Northville players named to baseball's All-Area second team

Justus batted .349 with five doubles, four triples and two home runs, and added nine steals.

"I could count on Kelly," Coach Brian Howard said. "He wasn't spectacular all the time, but he was a great lead-off hitter and he played right field flawlessly."

"The ankle problem slowed him early, but once he got over that, he was a valuable part of our team. He's a very fast kid, so his ankle injury really hurt the team. If he was healthy all season, he would have had probably 20 steals."

"I knew Todd could play defense,"

Redskins coach Mike Shearer said. "I had no idea he would hit over .400, though. That was a big bonus for us."

Morris, who hits to all fields, finished the season with a .404 average (44-for-109). His other numbers include seven doubles, two homers, 14 RBIs and 28 runs.

"Todd's a tough kid," Shearer said. "We may move him to catcher next year."

JASON PINHO, South Lyon, outfielder: The Lions needed a lead-off hitter and this junior was the answer. He hit .388 (35-for-90) to go along with 10 extra-base hits, 17 RBIs, 27 runs, seven stolen bases, eight walks and four sacrifice bunts.

Pinho also performed well in centerfield and at third base, making up for seven errors with several outstanding plays.

"I knew Jason would be a good hitter," Coach Tom Jackson commented. "I was surprised, though, with how well he handled the lead-off spot. We put him there a couple of weeks into the season and he really did the job. He was a steady player all year."

DAVE GONZALEZ, Lakeland, designated hitter: This junior was second on his team with a .365 batting average (31-for-85), and also recorded team highs in doubles (6) and triples (3).

"Dave had some trouble defensively, but he was a strong hitter all year," Eagles coach Jerry Ganzel said. "He makes good contact, he has pretty decent power and he's a pretty quick kid."

Kaley named to 1st team

Howard said. "He gets a great jump on the ball and he has excellent quickness. Darnel still doesn't realize exactly what he's capable of doing."

GREG PETRU, Milford, infielder: This junior was a consistent performer throughout the season, both as a second baseman and pitcher.

"You can always count on Greg," Redskins coach Mike Shearer said. "He works hard at everything he does, be it defense, pitching or hitting."

"It's kind of funny," the coach added. "People are surprised when they find out he's only a junior. They think he's been around forever."

Petru, a three-time letterwinner, batted .355 from his lead-off spot in Milford's lineup. He also collected six doubles, three homers, 29 RBIs and 15 walks, while striking out only twice in 136 plate appearances.

As a pitcher, he went 8-3 with a 4.12 ERA. His other numbers include 59 strikeouts, 58 hits and 17 walks in 54 1/3 innings.

SCOTT ARMSTRONG, Milford, outfielder: This senior center fielder, best known for his basketball ability, is making his third appearance on the all-area team.

Armstrong possesses a steady bat (only four strikeouts in 141 plate appearances), occasional power (11 extra-base hits), strong defensive skills (only one error) and above-average speed.

"Scott does a great job in center field," Milford coach Mike Shearer said. "He gets a great jump on the ball and makes good throws."

"As a hitter, you can always count on him to make contact. He puts the ball in play, and when you do that, good things usually happen. . . . He's just a good all-around player."

Armstrong hit .348 with two homers, 23 RBIs and 36 runs. He also was 1-0 with a 2.10 ERA as a pitcher.

CHRIS LOWERY, Novi, outfielder: Lowery was one of the big surprises of the 1990 season. He started as a back-up, but made the most of the chance he received in mid-April.

In a seven-game span, this junior slammed five home runs and drove in 17 runs — as you might expect, he was never out of the lineup again.

"He's an incredible talent," Coach Brian Howard said. "When he was concentrating and healthy, there wasn't anyone better at the plate."

A shoulder injury hampered his play late in the season and was mainly responsible for a 1-for-14 slump. He was a .400-plus hitter until that time, but still ended up batting .371.

Lowery's power numbers were staggering. In just 89 plate appearances, he hit 11 homers, knocked in 34 runs and collected six doubles. He even led the team in stolen bases with 11.

BRIAN SLIWINSKI, South Lyon, outfielder: A real hustler, Slivinski did the little things that separate good players from average players. "Brian worked very hard," South Lyon coach Tom Jackson said. "He got down and dirty. He was really able to stir things up out there. He was the guy who would get a big hit, steal a base or make some type of big play when we needed it."

The senior leftfielder hit .378 (36-for-95) with nine doubles, three triples and three home runs. He also collected 13 walks, 16 stolen bases, 23 RBIs and a school-record 37 runs from his No. 2 spot in South Lyon's batting order.

SHAWN FURMAN, Lakeland, designated hitter: This junior played several positions for the Eagles, but the one constant was his hitting ability.

Furman collected 32 hits in 84 at-bats for a team-high .381 average. He also totaled six doubles, six home runs, 23 RBIs and 20 runs.

"Shawn is real confident at the plate," Lakeland coach Jerry Ganzel said. "He's a big swinger and has good power."

Reserve kickers excel in 1990

The Northville junior varsity girls soccer program had another outstanding season this spring. The team, coached by Bob Neff, went 13-2-0, winning six of the last seven matches.

In the past two seasons, the Mustang reserves have a sparkling 23-3-1 mark. In '90, the team registered 11 shutouts, outscored their opponents 78-8, and had a goals-per-game average of 5.2.

"With the quality of the players on Northville's J.V. team, we would be very competitive with many varsity teams in the state," Neff said.

The team's leading scorers were Jennifer Sinkwits (13 goals, six assists), Regan Wiseley (11 goals, three assists), Sarah Piner (10 goals, five assists), Becky Piner (10 goals, three assists) and Bethanie MacLean (nine goals, 10 assists). Goalies Aurahyn Method (0.2 goals per game) and Stephanie Neff (1.2 goals per game) were also outstanding.

The rest of the team includes Betty Petricca, Erin Belloli, Nicki Cross, Tracy Jambor, Kathy Kozler, Stephanie Lussier, Karen Saydak, Suzie Morton, Shannon Neff, Amy Stringer and Karen Schwartz.

TURNER HONORED: Defense has been the cornerstone of the Northville girls soccer squad, and senior goaltender Kristi Turner was the unquestioned star the past few seasons.

Turner's talents were apparently noticed state-wide as she was recently named to the Class A All-State first team. She is joined by 15 other first team All Staters, including Livonia Stevenson's Regan Coyne, Carrie Maier of Farmington, Jenny Russell of Plymouth Canton, Michelle Minton of Plymouth Salem.

During the 1990 season, Turner was credited with six shutouts. Her goals against average was well below one per game as the Mustangs outscored their opponents 61-10 for the season.

Turner was Northville's only All State selection as well as the team's only All-Western Lakes pick. She becomes the second Northville net-minder in the last four years to be named to the All State team. Former Mustang great Tricia Ducker received the honor in 1986.

OTHER SOCCER NEWS: Six Northville residents — Sue McQuaid, Heather Huizingma Lindsay Bryant and Emily Lawrence, Renee Androsian and Lisa Bernado — currently play for the Livonia United Under 14 soccer team that has dominated Girls Division I Premier Soccer for the last three years.

Hydro-Toning: wave of future

By FRANK EICHENLAUB
Staff Writer

First imagine burning calories. Then imagine burning calories while developing all four components of physical fitness: that is, improving flexibility, converting fat to muscle, working the cardiovascular, and developing muscles, strength and endurance.

And then imagine burning calories without sweating, without boredom and without the aches and pains of most high-impact workouts.

Interested? If so, catch "the wave of the future."

That wave is Hydro-Toning, a low-impact aquatic workout that utilizes and amplifies the natural resistance of water.

"You don't have the impact you have in land exercises," said Lavin Cook, who teaches aquatic exercise for the Troy-based Fitness Forum Unlimited. "You basically get a better workout in the water because of the resistance."

Cook was observing a demonstration Hydro-Toning class at the Oakland Community College Orchard Ridge campus.

Tom McPhillips, OCC professor of physical education, introduced the program at the school in the winter of 1989. Now, the school offers both credit and non-credit courses in Hydro-Toning.

Exercisers are required to don Hydro-Boots and hand-held Hydro-Bells, both of which are designed to increase resistance in the water.

The footwear somewhat resembles ski boots, while the two Hydro-Bells don't closely or remotely resemble anything.

In the deep end, the exercisers, supported by buoys, used only the boots but wore both devices in shallow water.

ning, the exercisers will work every major muscle group in their body during the 50-minute workout.

The deep water running is primarily cardiovascular, while the shallow end involves the equivalent of a Nautilus workout, McPhillips said.

"You get your heart rate up there, but you don't have the heat and the boredom," said participant George Atkinson. "And you don't have the fatigue factor."

McPhillips said that 20 minutes of Hydro-Toning is equal to one hour jogging or one hour using a Nautilus.

Atkinson, who normally jogs, also said that Hydro-Toning incorporates less boredom than does his sport. Music is played during the workout and people are able to talk.

Atkinson is considering jogging twice a week and Hydro-Toning twice a week.

And apparently, even world-class athletes are catching "the wave of the future."

Currently, seven out of 10 world-class runners train in the water three times a week, McPhillips said. Other athletes, such as John McEnroe and Kirk Gibson, have praised Hydro-Toning's effectiveness.

Further, McPhillips said Hydro-Toning serves well as a cross-trainer where it can be adapted to most sports.

In short, Hydro-Toning has taken the place of land aerobics while subtracting the high impact and adding strength and endurance.

"I think it takes the place of aerobic exercise," Atkinson said. "Basically, you get the same workout, but you don't get all the pounding and jumping."

For more information on Hydro-Toning contact Tom McPhillips at 471-7713.

'Fitness Factory' program offered

The Novi Parks and Recreation Department is offering a "Hi Energy-Low Impact" class for everyone, called the Fitness Factory. Each class offers a full 30-minute cardiovascular workout and an additional 30-minutes of muscle tone to complete your total workout package.

The fall session starts on Sept. 10 and continues for 10 weeks. The fee is $45 a week; $55 for three times a week; and $60 for unlimited participation.

For more information, call 347-0400.

AEROBIC FITNESS INC.: The Northville Community Recreation Department is offering a fitness program called "Aerobic Fitness, Inc." The one-hour program is designed to stretch, trim and tone. Six-week classes run continuously throughout the year.

Fee is $33 (two classes per week), $45 (three classes), $55 (unlimited). For more information, call 348-1280.

ASK-A-NURSE REFERRAL: "Ask-a-nurse," the new 24-hour health information and physician referral line sponsored by five Mercy hospitals in Southeast Michigan, is offering a new speakers bureau to community groups. Program director Linda Hintze, R.N. and registered nurses who man the telephone lines seven days a week, 365 days a year, will be available to speak to groups of 15 or more about the calls they receive and how they help callers locate physicians and health or community information.

Requests should be made at least three weeks before the intended speaking engagement. There is no charge for the service and participants will give valuable information about how this service can help them day or night. For more information or to make a reservation, please call the ASK-A-NURSE office at Catherine McAuley Health Center toll-free at 1-800-526-MERCY (1-800-526-3729) or in the Ann Arbor area, (313) 572-5500.

"Ask-a-nurse" is a free community health information and physician referral service of five Sisters of Mercy Hospitals — Catherine McAuley Health Center-Ann Arbor, Mercy Hospital-Port

Fitness Notes

Huron, Mercy Hospitals and Health Services in Detroit which includes Mount Carmel Mercy Hospital and Samaritan Health Center, and St. Joseph Mercy Hospital-Pontiac. The Sisters of Mercy Health Corp. is the largest health care provider in Michigan.

MERCY CENTER CLASSES: The Mercy Center, located on Eleven Mile between Middlebelt and Inkster roads in Farmington Hills, is offering a wide variety of swimming and fitness classes in 1990.

Mercy is offering open swimming daily from 6:30-8 a.m. and on Saturday's from 7:30-9 a.m. in addition to several fitness classes: like the Trim-Gym-Fitness Class, the Pool and Gym Class and the Coed Trim and Swim Fitness Class. For information, call 473-1815.

CPR CLASSES: Botsford General Hospital in Farmington Hills is offering adult CPR classes and infant/child CPR classes.

The adult program is offered the first Thursday of every month in the Administration and Education Center from 7-10 p.m. Pre-registration is required.

The infant/child program is offered the first Monday of every month in the Administration and Education Center from 7-10 p.m. Pre-registration is also required.

Fee is $5 for each class. Call 471-8090 for more information.

A cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR) class is also offered by Schoolcraft College on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 6-10 p.m.

An American Red Cross CPR certification card is issued upon successful completion of the course. Cost is $18. For more information call 591-6400, Ext. 410.

FREE HEALTH SPEAKERS: Catherine McAuley Health Center is offering health care professionals to speak to clubs, community groups and schools interested in learning more about health care and other medical issues through McAuley's Speaker's Bureau.

"Speakers are provided free of charge to keep audiences up to date on the latest in medicine, technology and the rapidly changing business of health care," said Liz Peterson, director of community relations.

Just some of the topics the speakers can address include: "Eating Economically and Nutritionally," "Superwoman Syndrome," "AIDS," "Stress," "Heart Disease: Treatment and Prevention," "Alzheimer's" and "Characteristics of Chemical Dependency."

Speakers are available for groups of 15 to 200 and will adjust their presentations to the needs and time requirements of organizations.

For more information, call community relations at 572-4033.

FREE SCREENINGS: Botsford Hospital's Health Development Network will offer free blood pressure and vision screening the second Monday of every month from 1-4 p.m. The screenings take place in the main lobby of Botsford General Hospital at 28050 Grand River in Farmington Hills. For more information call 471-8090.

SCHOOLCRAFT FITNESS PROGRAM: A fitness program for community and corporate employees is now available at Schoolcraft College in Livonia Monday through Friday from 6:30-8 a.m. and 4:30-6 p.m.

Participants can take advantage of a full-competition swimming pool with a separate diving area, six racquetball courts, a weight-training room, a dance-training room and muscle-soothing saunas. A 12-week membership is $40 and a six-week membership is $22. The facilities also can be used for $3 per visit.

Schoolcraft College is located at 18600 Hagerty Road between Six and Seven Mile in Livonia. For more information call 462-4413.

Symptoms, treatment for angina explained

By LINDA WARREN
Special Writer

An episode of chest pain can be very frightening. Chest pain may be caused by many body systems, including the respiratory system, the muscular system, the digestive system and the cardiovascular system. When chest pain is caused by the cardiovascular system, it is called angina.

Angina is a temporary chest pressure, tightness or pain caused by a reduction in blood flow through the coronary arteries. This results in a reduction of oxygen to the heart muscle and causes the pain.

Sometimes the pain radiates to the neck, the arms or the back. It frequently is triggered by exertion, emotional stress or exposure to cold temperatures.

Classic angina occurs with coronary artery disease or arteriosclerosis, commonly called hardening of the arteries. This hardening causes a loss of elasticity and it happens gradually throughout a lifetime.

Arteries can also become narrowed or clogged with fatty deposits. When a considerable portion of an artery is blocked, angina may occur.

Treatment for angina uses a combination of lifestyle changes and drugs. Many episodes of angina will subside with resting until it passes.

Long-term treatment includes weight reduction to an ideal body weight for height, cessation of nicotine and alcohol habits, an exercise program with medical guidance and relaxation techniques for stress reduction.

The two classes of drugs used to treat angina are nitrates and beta-blockers.

Nitrates may be used in three different forms. They may be used under the tongue, as a long-acting pill to prevent the episodes of angina or as a chest patch in either an ointment or slow-release disc to prevent or relieve an attack of angina.

Another class includes beta-blockers which help prevent attacks by slowing the heart rate and lowering the amount of oxygen the heart muscle needs by reducing its workload.

If angina is caused by a coronary spasm, a new class of drugs, calcium channel-blockers, may be effective.

Muscles require calcium for constriction; if calcium is reduced in the coronary vessel walls, spasms may be prevented.

Coronary bypass surgery or balloon angioplasty may be recommended in some patients. Many factors enter into this decision.

No single treatment works well for all people. Treatments must be evaluated by individual physicians and monitored closely for effectiveness.

100% Satisfaction

"When it's my eyes—I don't compromise!"

At Your Service— Independent Doctors Of Optometry

There are few things more important than a really thorough eye exam, because no one wants to compromise their eyesight. That's why the Independent Doctors of Optometry give you one of the most thorough eye exams available.

Here's What Thorough Means

Tests and Examinations Include:

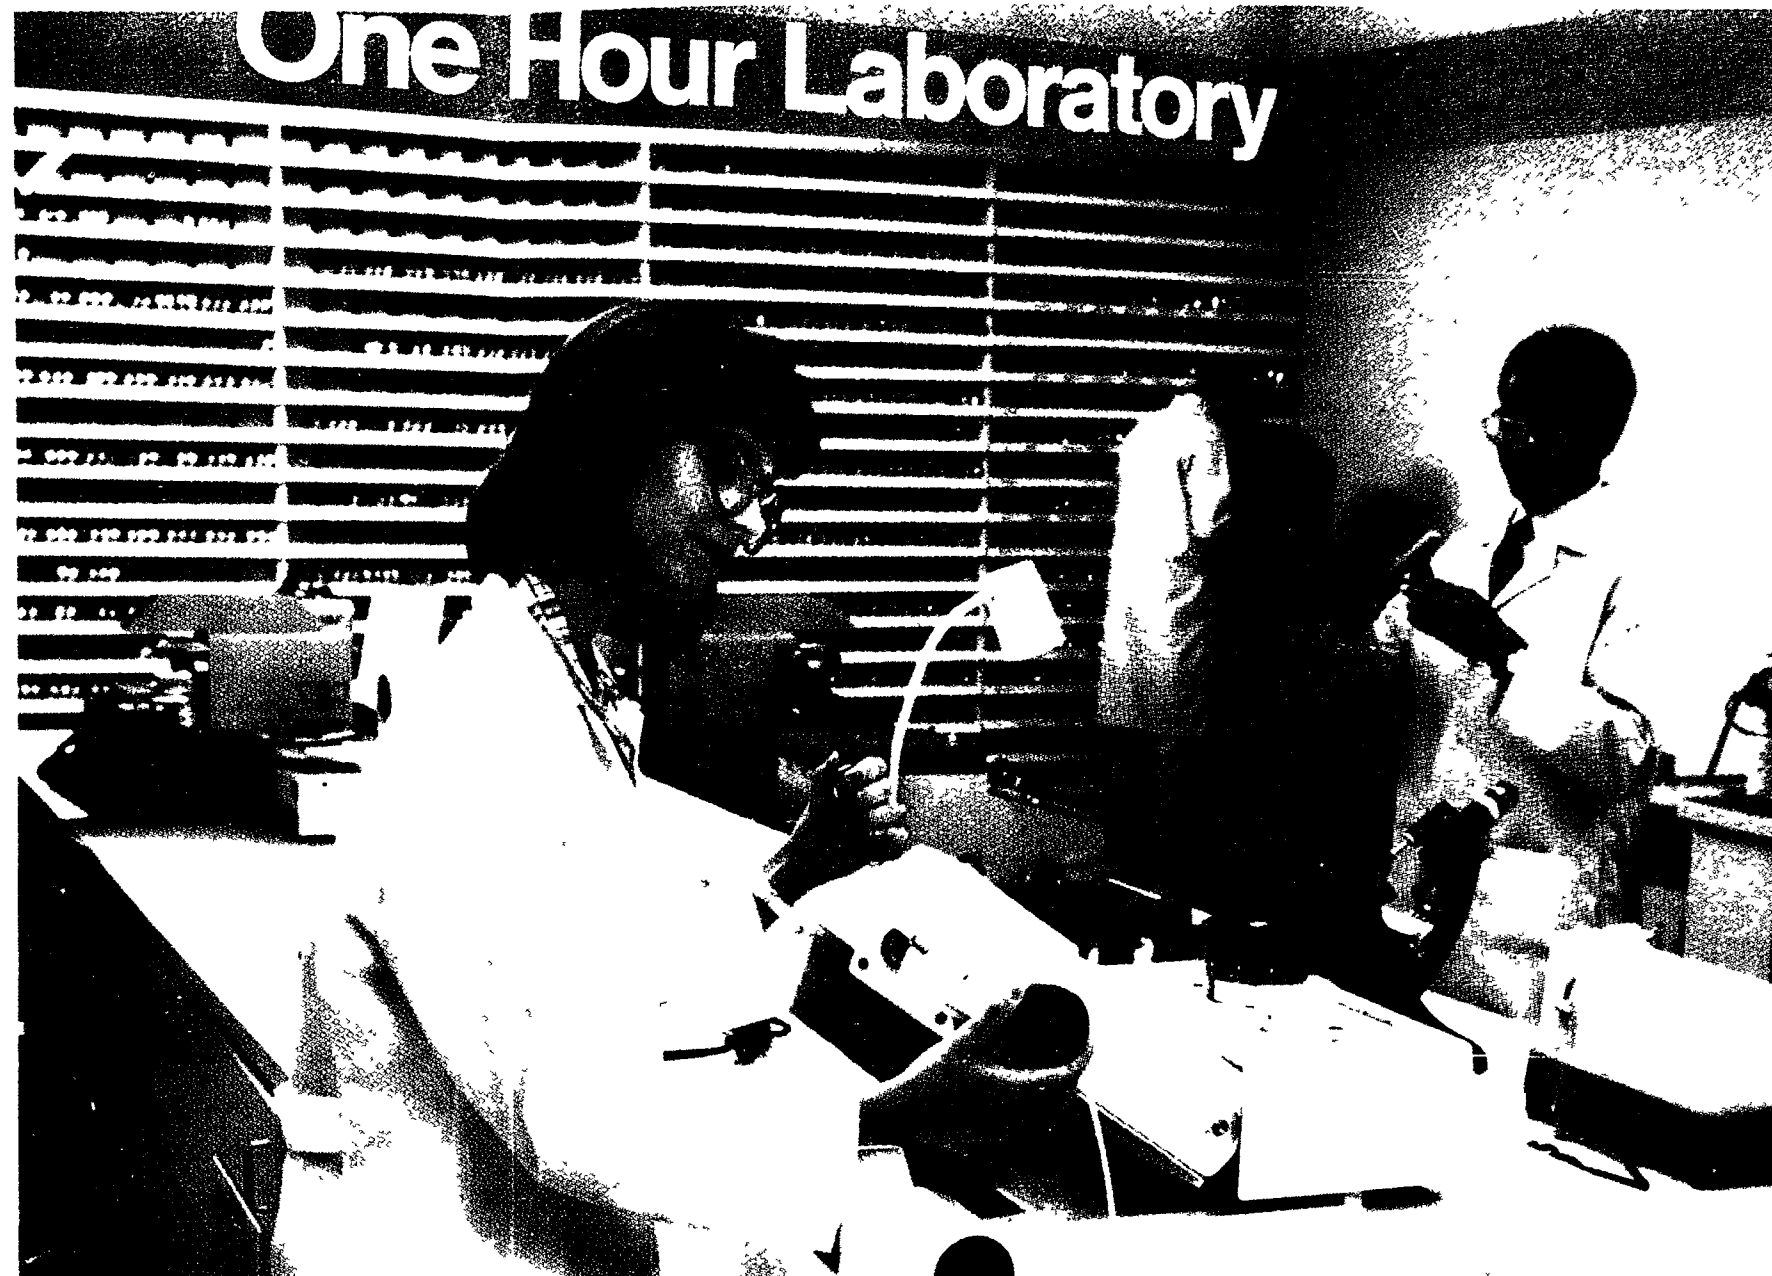

- |  |                               |
|--|-------------------------------|
| ■ Visual Acuity Test                       | ■ Glaucoma Test               |
| ■ Depth Perception Check (when indicated)  | ■ Cataract Inspection         |
| ■ Color Vision Test (when indicated)       | ■ Health History Review       |
| ■ Near Vision Test                         | ■ Retina Examination          |
| ■ Distant Vision Test                      | ■ Cornea Examination          |
| ■ Peripheral Vision Check (when indicated) | ■ Muscle Balance Check        |
| ■ Computerized Prescription Screening      | ■ Eye Health Consultation     |
|  | ■ Explanation of Prescription |

AUTOREFRACTOR—One of the many state-of-the-art instruments used in our analysis program.

Contact Lenses

We offer a broad selection of contact lenses: soft, hard, gas-permeable, 'daily' or 'extended' wear and tinted lenses. Your contacts are fitted by skilled optometrists, not technicians, to assure you of the best possible fit. In most cases, you can probably wear your contact lenses on your first visit.

We Deliver! Custom-Crafted Eyeglasses In About An Hour!

Even if you have a difficult prescription (bifocals, trifocals), we can custom-craft your eyeglasses at our in-store laboratory in about an hour, so you can walk out of our store wearing your new glasses. With a state-of-the-art laboratory in every LensCrafters Store you can actually see the quality control and care taken by our skilled technicians.

We Deliver! All Your Eyewear Needs

Selection: Thousands of frames in hundreds of individual styles, designer lines, shapes, sizes and colors ensure that we have something to fit every face, personality and budget. Whatever your needs, in frames or lens treatments, we have what you want right in the store.

Service: Our Frame Stylists are specially trained to help you select the best frames and lenses for your needs. Our Opticians ensure your glasses fit perfectly and our skilled lab technicians craft your lenses to the highest industry standards.

Free Adjustments: As part of our complete commitment to serving you in every way possible, we follow-up with adjustments and minor repairs —FREE!

We Deliver! Eyeglasses—With Or Without A Prescription

If you don't need an eye exam, we can still make you new glasses by taking the prescription from your glasses (where permitted) or you can bring us your current prescription.* Eye doctors are required by law to give patients a written prescription, so everyone can enjoy the advantages of LensCrafters superior products and services.

*Unless your optometrist recommends otherwise, we suggest you have an eye exam at least once a year.

We Deliver!

100% Customer Satisfaction

Dear Reader,

At LensCrafters we have a saying: "No sale is ever final!" In simple terms this means we don't consider we've made a sale unless you are completely happy with your eyewear purchase.

Paul Cashen
Senior Vice President

We guarantee our products, our prices, our quality and our services. However, I realize that no individual or organization is always perfect. So I would like to invite you to write to the address below if your LensCrafters experience past, present, or in the future, is not totally to your satisfaction. That's what we mean by 'we deliver!'

LensCrafters
Westgate Mall
3177 Westgate
Fairview Park, OH 44126

Value Guarantee— We Will Not Be Undersold

We believe our combination of consistent One-Hour Service, Top-Quality Eyewear, and Competitive Prices offers you the best value in town. To prove it, if within 30 days of your purchase you find a lower price for the same glasses (frames and lenses) in stock at any other retail optical store, just present a written estimate or copy of the advertised price, and we'll gladly refund the difference.

We Deliver! Quality/Satisfaction Guarantee

With our in-store labs our skilled technicians can exercise complete "hands-on" quality control which is not possible if your eyewear has to be shipped out to some distant lab. So, if for any reason you are not completely happy with the eyewear or service you receive from LensCrafters we will gladly make any adjustments you consider necessary on the premises, including replacing your lenses and/or frames at no charge whatsoever.

FAMILY FARE

Roger Rabbit and company appear on The Disney Channel

By Donna Gooch

Now you and your family can find out Who Framed Roger Rabbit when the movie-making milestone airs on The Disney Channel Friday, June 29.

The story is set in 1947 Los Angeles and Toontown, where humans and cartoon characters work side by side. The stuttering Roger Rabbit, a Toon as they're commonly called, is framed for murder, and a down-on-his-luck gumshoe (Bob Hoskins) is reluctantly drawn into the scandal.

Watch for "special appearances" by animated stars such as Bugs Bunny, Dumbo, Mickey Mouse, Yosemite Sam, Betty Boop, Tweety Bird, Goofy, Porky Pig and many others.

The story is straight from a '40s detective dime-store novel, but the creation took all the ingenuity its makers could muster.

The costly, $45 million film received four Academy Awards, including the 1988 Special Achievement Oscar for ### Animation Direction.

The unusual blend of real actors and animated cartoon characters, occupying the same space and time in a three-dimensional format, presented almost insurmountable problems.

The film had to achieve a new reality, to blend the human and cartoon worlds so that the Toons would appear naturally in the scenes, not painted onto them. It's been done before in memorable moments in Mary Poppins and Song Of The South, but the challenge was to sustain the interaction for an entire picture.

It required a Los Angeles and London animation crew of 326 people, who painstakingly painted all of the 82,080 live-action frames. The film required more than 1,035 optical illusions, the equivalent of 10 special effects feature films.

Putting aside all the technical wizardry, this entertaining film can be enjoyed by both parents and kids.

Cable Comments

By LARK L. SAMOUELIAN
Executive Director,
SW Oakland Cable Comm.

SAMOUELIAN

We have so far concentrated on introducing community television to the general public. The fact is that the community service of community access television may begin and end through governmental television. Please, read on for I know how ominous this sounds.

I have worked in and around local government for fifteen years. The length of time represents my commitment to the understanding that it really is at a local level where the differences are made. Local government is becoming ever more responsive to the individual. If you never venture down to city or township hall then you may feel alienated. However, just walk through those doors and your views will change. The formula to making change is to become involved. Your opinion will have more authority if your involvement entails more than just showing up to complain.

Over the past few years all types of government have shown a growing level of sophistication in communications by bringing on board community outreach staff and public relations professionals who recognize the need to reach the general public. Television is the 'power punch!' But with community television, we have to initiate all the action and productions ourselves. This is why it takes so much time developing the fine art of community television.

One of the first signs that government is receptive to the option of the Television Channel is through the Government Alphabetic Channel where the announcements are typed upon the screen. In the Canton, Plymouth and Northville Area this is Channel 10. In the Farmington, Novi and Farmington Hills area this is Channel 18. Council meetings may also be seen on these Channels. (In the C, P, N. it is Ch. 15)

Through the Cable Contracts with local governments, moneys are available to develop a city or township cable television department if the municipality so chooses.

The City of Farmington Hills has funded a cable TV department through their Special Services Department for the last five years. They have been under the guidance of Cable Coordinator David Teitmeyer, producing twenty shows the first year (1985) and growing to 100 shows in 1989! David works very closely with all the city department heads. The City Public Relations person, Ester Frank, also works very closely with the television medium. David, reflecting on city television, said, "Video is there. Everyone is now very accepting of our presence." Ester Franks commented on the "sense of openness one feels on whatever goes on within the city." Both David and Ester emphasize how closely the city staff and the residents and city council work together on all projects. The television shows reflect such efforts.

To better understand what a city television department offers let's explore the programs which have been seen in Farmington Hills.

Viewpoint has so far produced 105 shows. It is taped twice a month. It highlights what is happening in Farmington Hills. City Manager William Costick and the Current Mayor Jean Fox host the shows. Past Mayors Jan Dolan and Terry Sever have also hosted. The subject matter stays within the confines of that which affects and is affected by City Hall.

Senior Messenger is a monthly program which compliments the monthly Senior Messenger Adult Newsletter. Targeted to Seniors, the show provides local, state, and national news. Co-Hosted by Loretta Conway and Maggie Loidas of the Senior Adult division of the Department of Special Services, this lively and lovely pair captivate the Senior Audiences with a truly thought-provoking and entertaining show. They feature a Volunteer of the Month as well as highlighting the Senior Adult Center at Mercy Center.

Horizons is a monthly on-location program featuring some fascinating residents of Farmington Hills. Ester Frank is co-producer with David Teitmeyer and also hosts the program. David's creative eye captures the surrounding environment to enhance the subject matter. People and subjects have been: Jean Fox, an Historical perspective; Astronaut Sharon Newman; Medical Anthropologist, Phillip Singer on 'Ways We Go About Healing'; Father Pat with his view of 'Times of Today'; Maskey Burnstein Ph.D. a view of the movies as in Irish Movies; and Floyd Cairns, 'Go with the Flow', join rather than fight.

Features are programs which dedicate an entire program to foster a better understanding of a city project.

These are only an example of the ways a city television department can create a better bond with the citizenry. David Tietmeyer says that their efforts are building a time capsule which will be an historical and accurate view of the city.

May I encourage you as the NIKE commercial does, "JUST DO IT"!!! Your involvement may be as simple as just asking the first question of your city or township officials. Check with your city clerk to determine whether or not there is a Cable Committee or Commission established. What a wonderful feeling to be able to contribute to your community and be creative at the same time!

Dixie Carter as classy as 'Designing Women' character

'Designing Women' to return in fall

By ANNE WHEELER

Julia Sugarbaker is one classy lady, but then again so is the actress who plays her on CBS' "Designing Women," returning to Mondays in the fall.

Dixie Carter plays the composed, sophisticated Julia, who runs an Atlanta interior design firm with her boisterous sister (Delta Burke), and skeptical (Annie Potts) and naive (Jean Smart) associates.

Carter's own sophistication started at an early age. While young girls often aspire to experience the glamour of Hollywood, Carter's earliest ambition was to become an opera singer.

That appreciation for music never abated and she continued singing lessons throughout college, moving to New York City to enroll in more intensive study after graduation.

"Then came the rude awakening. I did not have the voice to sing opera," Carter said. "My voice was not big enough for opera, so I adjusted and trained for musical comedy and acting."

The training paid off. In the meantime, a friend recommended she audition for Joseph Papp's Shakespeare in the Park production of "The Winter's Tale." She got the part and embarked on a promising acting career. Not long after, however, she put her career on hold for eight years while she focused on her marriage and her two daughters.

The stage soon beckoned her to return "in any musical I could find," she said modestly, despite the Broadway role as Melba in "Pal Joey" and as Ann in "Sex-tet." She was later nominated for a Drama Desk Award for her role as Calamity Jane in "Fathers and Sons," and won an off-Broadway Theatre World Award for her portrayal of Belle Starr in "Jesse And The Bandit Queen."

While theater work kept her busy at night she began working on television during the day with a regular role (as Brandy Henderson) on "The Edge Of Night." Her long hours put a strain on her marriage, and she and first husband Arthur Carter ultimately divorced.

A chance to recreate her role of Calamity Jane opposite Richard Chamberlain brought Carter to Hollywood, where she found success on television like she had had on stage. Prior to her current role on "Designing Women," Carter has been a regular in four series, cast as Aunt Marion in "Out Of The Blue," flip copywriter April Baxter in "On Our Own," TV show host Maggie Drummond in "Diff'rent Strokes" and Carlotta Beck in "Filthy Rich."

The latter began her association with Linda Bloodworth-Thomason, the creator and executive producer of "Designing Women."

In addition to television series, Carter has appeared in several made-for-TV movies as well, "Ohms" and "The Killing Of Randy Webster." While making that movie in 1981, she met Hal Holbrook, who she married in April of 1984. The two have appeared together on an episode of "Designing Women" and in TV ads.

When she is not acting, her interests include her family, and of course, singing. She has developed her own cabaret act which she presents at supper clubs across the country.

"Since I was a little girl, whenever I sing, the audience is the other participant," she said, explaining, "If I do my show right, they go right along with me — everybody knows the feelings of all the songs I sing."

SOAP TALK

Soap writers must be doing something right

By Candace Havens

Dear Candace: In regards to the letters that were printed in our your column recently, everyone has their opinions about soaps, but people are still watching them day after day.

Apparently the writers do know what they're doing or people would have stopped watching years ago.

It's not fair to write a letter, vindictively, just because you get upset with the way it's going with a certain character. The two women who wrote you sounded like they build their lives around soaps. Well, if that's the case, these people have a lot more problems other than soaps. I've had my favorite soaps since I was 14. I'm now 30 and still watch soaps. I don't live my life thinking, "What would Erica Cane do now?" or, "What would Dixie Martin do if she were me?"

Give me a break! I thought we females had more going for us than being worried about how the soaps are going to turn out. Why not appreciate them for what they are, fun entertainment. —Thank you, Wife, Mother and Nurse Beverly Tarket, Austin, Texas

Dear Candace: I have watched All My Children for 20 years, but my all-time favorite couple was Nico (Maurice Benard) and Cecily (Rosa Nevin). They brought an interesting element to the show and they were really fun to watch.

Where have they gone and what are they doing now? —Jayna Schultz, Keokuk, Iowa

Dear Jayna: I agree with you. Nico and Cecily were a fun couple and so much could have been done with the two characters. I always thought that their love story was a Harlequin Romance gone mad.

At the present time both are pursuing careers in movies and primetime television.

I want to hear from you! If you have a favorite soap scenario you would like to sound off about, or a question about the soaps, write to Candace Havens, Soap Talk, P.O. Box 17748, Fort Worth, TX 76102-0748.

BITS AND PIECES

Tom & Jerry preserved on jam jars to commemorate 50th birthday

This fall, Welch Food, Inc. plans to preserve the classic antics of Tom & Jerry by introducing the famed cartoon dynamic duo on new collectible jam and jelly jars. Fans will find their favorite cat-and-mouse team commemorated in colorful scenes painted on glass tumblers in time to coincide with the twosome's 50th birthday celebration in November.

Showtime has announced veteran television comedian Bob Newhart will host Just For Laughs: The Montreal International Comedy Festival, a live 90-minute comedy celebration premiering Saturday, July 21, 1990, on the network. Broadcast live from Montreal, it is one of the largest cultural events—and easily the largest comedy event—in the world.

Angela Lansbury received an honorary Doctor of Human letters degree from Boston University at the school's recent commencement. The citation noted that as Jessica Fletcher on Murder, She Wrote, "you have given us a character as plausibly existent as Sherlock Holmes or Lord Peter Wimsey—one whose intelligence, warmth, style and courage are an echo of your own."

Tom And Jerry

The late Ritchie Valens, whose life was portrayed by actor Lou Diamond Phillips in the movie La Bamba, was honored with a posthumous star on the Hollywood Walk of Fame. Phillips joined members of Valens' family at the unveiling on Hollywood Boulevard.

TRIVIA, ETC.

Book gives tribute to corny, fun series

By Steven Alan McGaw

Folks, give me another week to supply the details of the next write-in project. In the meantime, go the bookstore and check out Lost In Space 25th Anniversary Tribute Book by James Van Hyse, about (what else?) the series Lost In Space. Sure, it was a silly show, kinda cheap, kinda tacky, but I loved it. How about you?

Questions:

- 1. The film Breaking Away was filmed on the campus of what university? (Hint: If the movie had been about golf instead of bicycle racing, audiences might have gotten a glimpse of the young Dan Quayle on the course.)
- 2. Another Breaking Away question; what was Dave's cat named?
- 3. Elvis Presley's King Creole (one of his good films) was set in what city?
- 4. Who played Renfield (with that great, chilling laugh) in the 1931 version of Dracula?
- 5. Marilyn Monroe was how old at the time of her death?

Answers:

- 1. The University of Indiana.
- 2. Felli.
- 3. New Orleans.
- 4. The great Dwight Frye played Renfield, just one performance among this underrated actor's gallery of inventive, haunting portrayals.
- 5. 36.

LET'S TALK

Kabir Bedi worked hard toward career in performing

By Polly Vonetes

Q: Why haven't we seen more movies with Kabir Bedi? (Malik in Ashanti with Michael Caine and Gobinda in Octopussy)? He's proven he can act. Where is he from? Where was he educated? What does he do for a living when he's not acting? Any and all information on this intriguing, mysterious gentleman will be appreciated.—Victoria Ross, Chino Valley, Ariz.

A: Kabir Bedi was born in 1944, the son of an Indian father and an English mother, in Lahore at a time of great conflict in India. His family moved to Kashmir and then to Delhi, with Kabir attending many different schools. His desire to act was nurtured in his teens at Sherwood College, a mini-British public school in the Himalayas. His interest in acting continued through his college years at St. Stephens, Delhi. He supported himself through college by working for radio and TV stations—announcing, interviewing and doing quiz programs. After graduating with an honors degree in history, his natural acting talent and good looks led him to become India's highest paid and most widely known male model. In 1970 he was offered the starring role in the Bombay Theatre Group's production of Tughlaq, which opened the door to the Indian film industry for Bedi. He made his American television debut in the 1978 NBC special The Thief Of Baghdad. He continues to make his home in Los Angeles and frequently guest stars on TV series.

Q: I want to know if Let's Make A

Deal with Monty Hall is still on the TV game shows. I haven't seen it listed in the TV guide.—Mrs. A.J. Rawls, Athens, Ala.

A: NBC will be premiering a new version of Let's Make A Deal on Monday, July 9. Bob Hilton has been named host of the show, which will be produced at the Disney/MGM Studios theme park in Orlando, Fla., where it will be a permanent attraction. The game show, with Monty Hall as host, last aired in syndication from 1971 to 1976.

HOROSCOPE

June 24 through June 30

CANCER (June 21-July 22)

Enjoy the attention that you receive from your partner, but remember to be equally giving in return. Don't take anyone for granted.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)

The frustration you are feeling is valid. Work toward reconciliation with that person you have been neglecting. Focus on a loving future.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)

Make some changes in your daily routine. Do not give in to things that go against your views. Keep open communication with family.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)

Don't fight over or worry about money problems. Learn all that you can about your finances and be extravagant only when you can afford to be.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)

Ask yourself if being right is worth losing a friendship. Allowing a mistake, as long as there is no danger, can be the best thing.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)

Your loneliness will not last forever. Fulfill your desires. Focus on your work and your art and you will be discovered by those who care.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)

Do not remain where you are being ridiculed, neglected or abused. Get safely away and start over. You are too precious to allow yourself to be hurt.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)

If you are feeling under the weather, examine your diet closely. Try a day without any sweets and see how good you feel in the morning.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)

Seek tranquility for your mental health. See how a job that you feel is important with no financial compensation can benefit areas of your life.

ARIES (March 21-April 19)

Don't allow that misunderstanding to fester until people get hurt. Put a stop to the nonsense through straightforward honesty.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)

Deal with temper tantrums with a very cool head. It is how you handle yourself in the worst of times that your best is decided. Avoid pettiness.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)

Decision-making seems especially difficult now. Don't panic and resent it; seek the advice of someone you trust.
