Police okay contract

By MIKE TYREE
Staff Writer

The township board will consider tentative three-year contracts with members of two police department unions during the board's July 12 meeting.

The proposed contracts await board approval after being ratified by members of the Northville Township Police Officers Association of Michigan (POAM) and the Northville Township Command Officers Association (COAM).

Command officers, patrol officers and dispatchers have been without contracts since the previous three-year deal expired March 31.

Township Manager Richard Henningsen, who monitored negotiations between township attorneys and police union representatives, would not release details of the proposed agreement.

"It is a proposed contract at this time," he said. "I would hope the board would give its approval."

Henningsen included salaries, pensions and longevity pay as key negotiating issues.

"The unions touched on every item in the contract, but those were the areas of most concern," he said. "They were all part of the negotiating process."

Sgt. John Sherman, vice-president of COAM, called meetings between the township and the unions "cordial."

"Right now things look pretty good," he said. "The contract has been ratified, but not signed off by the rank and file."

As of April 1, 1989, the beginning salary for a township patrol officer was $20,700.

Patrol officers with four years or more experience earned a $30,965 salary, based on the old contract.

Command officers — comprised of three sergeants, a lieutenant and a captain — earned more, with sergeants making $37,175, the lieutenant $39,034 and the captain $40,985, based on the previous contract.

Sherman declined to discuss specifics of the proposals, but said longevity pay — a form of bonus given to a five-year or longer employee — was an issue.

"Longevity pay is an incentive for the employee to stay," he said. "A five-year patrolman has more knowledge and skills than someone with less experience (and) their rate of pay would increase."

Under terms of the old contract, individual members of both unions

Rockets red glare

Northville's annual Fourth of July celebration took place Wednesday in the midst of record heat. All went well up until the time of the annual fireworks display. Above, about half of the fireworks program was set off before fire officials closed the event down due to drifting ash problems. See story on this page. For more coverage of the parade and other Fourth festivities, see page 2A.

Fireworks injure two; end early

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

Northville's annual Fourth of July fireworks display was cut short Wednesday after several people were hit by falling debris.

Northville city fire officials ordered the display stopped shortly after 10 p.m., more than halfway through the show. Rescue personnel advised at least two people to seek medical attention for their injuries after bandaging their eyes.

Jim Allen, Northville city's fire chief, said several people were hit by falling debris from the fireworks late Wednesday night. "We had a wind shift, and it started drifting down on the spectators," he said.

Allen said the problems were largely due to the wind shifting direction after the fireworks launch tubes were set up Wednesday afternoon.

The fireworks were provided by Colonial Fireworks Co. of Ypsilanti. They were set off from Northville High School grounds north of Eight Mile Road by Jeff Johnson, a trained and licensed pyrotechnician who works for the Ypsilanti firm. "He had it all set up for the wind direction the way it was," Allen said.

Allen said he talked with Johnson several times before the display, and remained in radio contact with him during the display. "He seemed like a very conscientious fellow," Allen said. "He said, 'If there's any problem, just shut me down.' And that's what we did."

"When we originally talked, we were more concerned about people at Amerman School," Allen added.

But because of the wind shift, most of the debris reportedly fell on the crowd on the Northville High School grounds south of Eight Mile Road, between the pedestrian crosswalk and Center Street.

Medical personnel from both the city and township were stationed on Eight Mile Road and at other locations to treat any injuries. Allen said several people sought medical treatment, mostly for minor eye injuries

At least two people hit by fallout from Wednesday night's fireworks display in Northville were injured seriously enough to require further medical attention, according to Northville rescue personnel.

One of those people was Plymouth Township resident Sue Voyles, 32. Her husband, Ken Voyles, recalled the incident.

"About 10 minutes into the fireworks she let out a little yell and said something was burning her eye," Voyles said. "I was a little slow to react; I found it hard to believe that stuff was falling on us."

But Voyles did take his wife to the first-aid station set up under the Eight Mile crosswalk, where city and township rescue personnel were on hand to treat injuries. The personnel rinsed her right eye with a saline solution but were unable to remove the cinder, so they bandaged both her eyes.

Two friends of the Voyles, Chris and Elgene Doinidis, then took Sue to the emergency room at St. Mary Hospital in Livonia, where the cinder was removed.

"She was lucky," Voyles said. "Another half inch over and the doctors said it could have hit her cornea. It could have caused permanent damage."

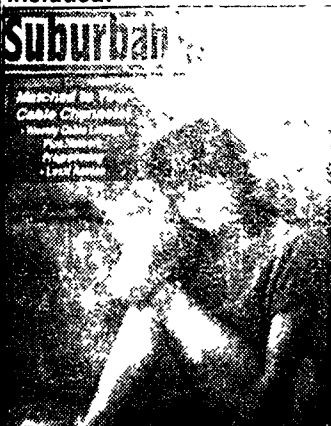

"It's kind of ironic because she's a fireworks freak," he added.

Voyles said he was not upset with the city's handling of the event. "I have no real criticism of the city or the fireworks people, but I have a little concern that they weren't paying closer attention to where the wind

Parade winners: The results of the 1990 Northville Jaycees Fourth of July Parade Contest are in. Winners in the float category were: first place — Northville players; second place — Northville Swim Club; third place — Northville Radio Controlled Airplane Club. In the band category: first place — Michigan Scottish Pipes and Drums; second place — Order of the Alhambra Band. In the Senior Marching Groups category: first place — Northville VFW Post 4012 Honor Guard; second place — 14th Tennessee Infantry; third place — Farmington Elks Motorized Drill Team. In the junior marching groups category: first place — Northville Soccer Association; second place — Spiriters Baton and Cheerleading Squad; third place — Derek's Dynamos Baton Corps. In the animal entries category: first place — Four Seasons 4-H Horse Club; second place — Blue Ribbon groomers; third place — Maybury State Park. In the special entries category: first place — "The Roamers" Clowns of America; second place — Ford Retractable Club; third place — Order of the Alhambra Clowns.

This year's judges were Rose Zobl, Marcia Cooper, Mrs. Cummings, Bill Krueger, Sue Rodocker and Cheryl Nelson.

Would-be jugglers take note

Have you always wanted to juggle but felt that you were all thumbs? The Northville Public Library invites all young adults (7th through 12th grade) to evolve from klutz to clown in a 90-minute workshop on Thursday, July 12 at 2 p.m. A real live juggler will be here to demonstrate juggling techniques and instruct in the fundamentals of this ancient performing art. Enrollment is limited. To register, visit or call the library at 349-3020.

Still counting: Although Census Day, April 1, has passed, the Census Bureau has initiated a follow-up procedure to ensure an accurate and complete count called the "Were you Counted?" campaign. This campaign marks the last opportunity for households and individuals missed in the count to participate in the census. The bureau will make available a one-page, abbreviated census form. Anyone missed in the census should complete and return the shortened questionnaire to the address indicated on the form. Call toll-free to answer the census: 1-800-999-1990; or for the hearing impaired, 1-800-777-0978.

Net Gains: Novi tennis phenom Mark McGrew, 14, is on his way to a National Clay Court Tennis Tournament in Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

McGrew qualified for the event in both singles and doubles by placing near the top at the Western Close Championships last weekend in East Lansing. McGrew made it to the Westerns, which featured many of the best young tennis players in a seven-state area, by winning the singles title at the Southeast Michigan Tennis Association Qualifying Tournament earlier this year.

In East Lansing, McGrew teamed up with Brad Mendelson of Akron, Ohio to place first in the doubles competition.

In singles action, McGrew was seeded second, but was sent to the consolation bracket in the quarterfinals after falling to the eventual winner in three tough sets. McGrew ended up winning the consolation title and placing fifth overall in a field of 128.

IYCG Qualifiers: Shawn Koch, Chris Lemmon and Jason Sherman — all of Northville — have advanced to the Insurance Youth Golf Classic state finals scheduled for July 15-16 in East Lansing.

Is it the rockets' red glare, or is Aram Sarkisian, 4½, waiting for Northville's Fourth of July parade?

Situation grim for displaced homemakers

The number of displaced homemakers in Michigan rose by 28 percent during the past decade, from 445,685 to 571,950 in 1989, according to data issued recently.

The data comes from the Special Populations Office at Oakland Community College in conjunction with the Washington, D.C. release by the National Displaced Homemakers Network of a new report, "The More Things Change . . . Displaced Homemakers and Single Parents in the 1980s." The report reveals disproportionately high rates of poverty, unemployment, and doubled-up housing for America's 15 1/2 million displaced homemakers.

"This data confirms," Special Population representative Lynn Scudieri said, "that even though many doors to employment have opened to women in recent years, the homemakers who take years out of the work force to care for their families are still largely locked out of higher-paying jobs."

The report analyzes 1989 Census Bureau data to assess the demographic characteristics of displaced homemakers nationwide. Displaced homemakers are women whose principal jobs have been homemaking and who have lost their main source of income due to widowhood, divorce, separation, disability, long-term unemployment of a spouse, or loss of public assistance.

"More women are in the work force than ever, but displaced homemakers and single parents still struggle just to survive. Here in Oakland County, we see widows and divorced women who lost their homes, their possessions, their confidence," Scudieri continued. "Displaced homemakers who want to work need access to training and skills that will allow them to compete for jobs."

"This data shows that far too many displaced homemakers are still poor. Although a greater percentage of displaced homemakers had high school degrees in 1989 than in 1980, their housing and employment status is tenuous. Too often, the only jobs that are available to these women are low-wage, part-time or seasonal jobs that offer little or no security. For African-American and Hispanic displaced homemakers, the situation is even more bleak," she said.

According to the report

- The number of displaced home-

Lynn Scudieri

OCC Special Population representative makers in the United States rose sharply during the past decade from 13.9 million in 1980 to 15.6 million in 1989—an increase of 12 percent, or nearly 200,000 per year.

- In Michigan, 77 percent of all displaced homemakers were white, 22 percent black, less than 1 percent Hispanic.

- Nearly three in five (57.4 percent) displaced homemakers were poor or near poor last year, with incomes less than 150 percent of poverty level.

- Almost one in four (23.9 percent) displaced homemakers 65 or over lived in poverty last year, compared to just 12.0 percent of Americans over age 65.

- The number of displaced homemakers who are doubled-up in housing with other families stood at nearly three million in 1989.

- In 1980, only one in three displaced homemakers age 35-64 was employed outside the home. By 1989, that figure rose to 42.9 percent—due primarily to part-year and part-time employment.

- More than one in three (36.3 percent) displaced homemakers in their prime working years, age 25-64, had children under age 18 at home in 1989, but 41.8 percent of African-American and 56.6 percent of Hispanic displaced homemakers care for children.

- In 1980, the majority of displaced homemakers had not completed high school. By 1989, the majority of displaced homemakers had high school diplomas. Only 34 percent of young and 39.2 percent of middle-aged displaced homemakers had not completed high school.

"The availability of such recent data underscores the urgent challenge that is still facing Congress and the state," Scudieri concluded. "Now more than ever, we must provide job training and other critical services to displaced homemakers. As we approach the year 2000, shortages of younger workers will mean that employers will need displaced homemakers just as much as displaced homemakers need employment."

Since 1985, the Special Populations program has been providing tuition grants and support services to displaced homemakers and single parents in Oakland County. The Washington-based National Displaced Homemakers Network, comprised of more than 1,000 displaced homemaker programs, works to develop public policy for displaced homemakers and to provide technical assistance to services providers throughout the nation.

Snake gets loose in Novi trailer park

By SHEILA PHILLIPS
Staff Writer

An eight-foot-long boa constrictor escaped its snoozing owner June 30 in the Country Cousins Mobile Home Village on Haggerty just south of Twelve Mile Road.

The snake, which was still missing as of press time Friday, is named Alice and harmless to humans, according to naturalists at the Detroit Zoo.

The snake is tan and brown and eats rodents. Its bite is non-venomous and should be treated as a cut.

Alice escaped her Westland owner, who was visiting a trailer in the 26800 block of Lowery, while he was napping beneath a tree in the mobile home park at approximately 8 p.m. Saturday evening.

An area resident reported seeing the snake slip under his trailer on July 1. However, police were unable to find the snake when they learned of the sighting on July 2.

Alice, who is reported as being mild-mannered, was last fed on June 29. Boas typically eat rodents and feed only once every two weeks. And although Deputy Police Chief Richard Faulkner is not overly concerned, he says that owners of small dogs and cats should take precautions.

It is unknown if Alice is still in the Novi area, but police ask residents to be on the lookout.

Anyone spotting the snake should contact Novi Police immediately at 348-0911. The boa, which likes temperatures between 70 and 90 degrees and is able to climb trees, is more likely to be spotted in the evening, Faulkner said.

It is unknown if the Westland owner had a permit for his fleeing pet. However, Novi Police say they plan to give the snake to the Detroit Zoo upon capture.

Police tactics turn high-tech

Lab digs deep with evidence

Technological advances made in the last 20 years have had a dramatic impact on how the average person lives, works, and even plays.

Many of the things that used to be possible only in Flash Gordon movies and other sci-fi adventures now are a part of everyday life.

This is certainly true in the area of law enforcement.

Police agencies all over the country are now employing sophisticated equipment in their fight against crime, especially in the areas of drug enforcement and identifying missing persons and criminals.

Local police agencies routinely use high-speed computers, lasers and automobile tracking systems in their efforts to prevent crimes and catch criminals.

"We are doing the same stuff today that law enforcement has always done, it's just how we are doing it is a lot different," said James Hauncher, director of the Michigan State Police crime laboratory in Northville.

"Cops have always looked for clues to find the bad guy, but now we have the technology that lets us do it a lot better and a lot faster."

One area that might best support Hauncher's statement is in the area of fingerprint analysis.

Investigators have always searched for fingerprints at a crime scene or on a weapon in the hopes of tying a suspect to the crime scene.

Up until a few years ago, however, investigators were limited to searching for prints on a hard surface with a type of dusting powder.

And when they found a viable print, the only hope of matching it to a suspect was if an agency already had another print of the person on file so a physical comparison could be made.

Today, evidence technicians not only use powder, but super glue and special lasers to find prints not visible to the human eye. The new equipment also allows officers to "lift" prints from porous surfaces that in that past would not yield a quality print.

And once a fingerprint has been retrieved, an Automated Fingerprint Identification System, or AFIS, can now search by computer for a possible matching print whereas before it would have taken the equivalent of 72 manpower years to complete the same task.

Another benefit of the new system is the fact that investigators no longer need a suspect in order to use a fingerprint, because AFIS randomly checks every print in a central computer bank for a possible match.

"Before, if you didn't have a suspect a fingerprint was nearly useless," Hauncher said. "Now, you might get a match of a person who had no business being at the scene so you know he or she committed the crime."

The Northville crime lab serves as a support system for more than 100 police departments in southeast Michigan and Ohio, exclusive of Detroit.

Hauncher said his staff of engineers, scientists and other "academic types" process evidence for about 8,000 felony cases each year.

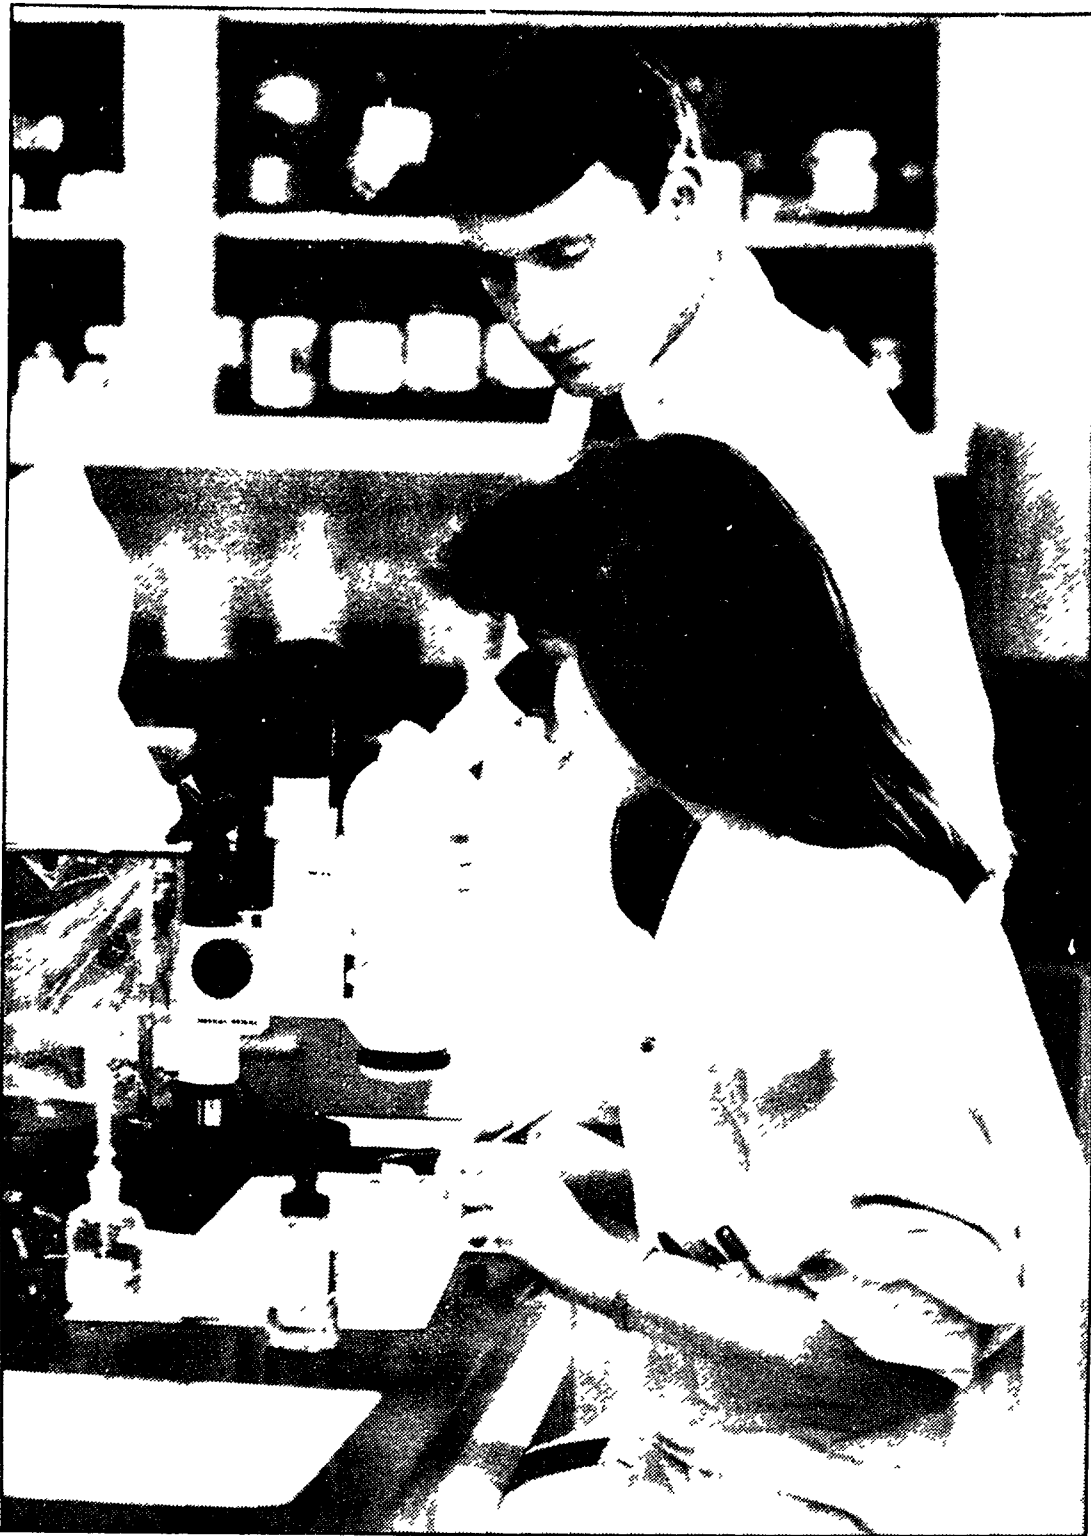

Lab technicians process crime scenes, conduct fabric and body fluid analysis, fingerprint searches and ballistics testing among other things.

Hauncher called physical evidence the key to law enforcement in the 1990s.

"Physical evidence does not forget and it does not lie, unlike witnesses," he said. "As new technology continues to become available, we have the capability to analyze new pieces of evidence, provide better analysis and use smaller samples."

Lynne Helton, a staff serologist with the Northville post, left a job with the Food and Drug Administration nearly five years ago to use her scientific talents to help catch criminals.

"The work can be mundane but it is also very exciting," said Helton, who has bachelor's and master's degrees in forensic chemistry. "The challenging part is when you have to

Leanora Brunconti and John J. Terry examine evidence at the Michigan State Police crime lab in Northville

"Cops have always looked for clues to find the bad guy, but now we have the technology that lets us do it a lot better and a lot faster."

James Hauncher,
director, Michigan State Police crime lab testify in front of a jury and try to explain your findings in terms that everyone can understand."

Helton said the majority of her time is spent comparing body fluids in cases of sexual assault, hit-and-run accidents and "a few homicide cases."

Perhaps the best-equipped police department in western Wayne County is Livonia, which in the past year has added a host of new-wave tools to its crime-fighting arsenal.

"Today's law enforcement is a lot like Star Wars," police chief William Crayk said. "When I joined the staff I never thought we would be using super glue and lasers to catch criminals."

Livonia was one of the first departments to add in-car computers to its patrol units, a tool that speeds an officer's ability to process license and registration information and to check if the car has been reported stolen.

In the last year alone, Livonia was designated as the host agency for an AFIS system, purchased an Omni chrome laser system to work in conjunction with AFIS, and added four LoJack auto-theft prevention devices to its patrol units.

The LoJack system is the newest rage in preventing auto thefts. The system has a 95 percent recovery rate in Massachusetts where it was first introduced, using a type of homing device to find and recover stolen cars.

LoJack uses computers mounted in police cruisers to help track stolen cars that are equipped with hidden transmitters.

The homing signal is triggered when an equipped automobile is reported stolen and is entered into the state police computer network.

Communities that don't have Livonia's resources rely on the State Police for such advanced technology, or share the equipment of departments like Livonia.

Under consortium agreements, a dozen western Wayne communities can request to use Livonia's AFIS system for their benefit.

"The simple fact is that not every department needs this type of equipment," said Canton public safety director John Santomaro.

"It's great to have these devices but you have to use them to justify the cost."

Now that these new crime-fighting weapons are available to local police agencies, the next challenge will be to make sure they are used.

Livonia police had used its AFIS system about 90 times in the five months it has been on-line dating back to January.

Other communities in its consortium, however, have yet to use the service. Only Westland has used the service out of the dozen communities who are eligible, and only one time, said Livonia Sgt. Joe Derscha, who is in charge of the local AFIS program.

The same is true in Taylor, which serves as the regional AFIS center for southern Wayne County. Not a single department other than Taylor has used the system since January, Taylor police chief Thomas Bonner said.

"We have begun holding seminars with the other departments to familiarize them with AFIS," he said. "I think the problem is that not many people are aware that the system is available."

Hauncher of the Northville post offers a slightly different explanation as to why local departments are not calling on their neighbors for assistance.

"I think that local departments are so used to relying on the State Police for the real technical stuff or for processing homicide crime scenes that they are a little hesitant to trust someone else. The reason why the AFIS regional consortiums were established was because our lab couldn't handle the work load so something needed to be done."

Hauncher said unless local agencies begin relying on Taylor, Livonia and other regional centers, the benefit of today's technology will be lessened "because it will be a year before we get to a local department's case."

Bakery, 123 E. Main St. was damaged sometime between 10:30 p.m. July 4 and 5:20 a.m. July 5, according to city police reports. The fence was located at the rear of the property. According to the store owner, the fence and other items have been vandalized in the past.

FENDER BENDERS: Northville city police reported three accidents last week. On July 4, at 10:56 p.m., a 17-year-old Northville woman driving north on High Street struck a car parked on the side of the road south of Elm Street. She was charged with improper lane usage.

On July 5, at 3:45 p.m., a 40-year-old Northville woman, heading east on Main Street through the Griswold Street intersection, struck a car heading north on Griswold. She was cited for disobeying the traffic signal. The other car was towed from the scene. Later that day, at 4:40 p.m., a 17-year-old Milford man driving out of the Mobil station at the corner of Eight Mile and Taft roads hit a vehicle heading west on Eight Mile. He was cited for failing to yield, and the other car was towed from the scene.

FOUND ITEMS: A pair of Ray Ban prescription glasses and a Pulsar watch were among the items turned in to city police after Wednesday's Fourth of July celebrations. Anyone wishing to claim the items is asked to call the Northville City police at 349-1234 with a more detailed description.

FOUND PROPERTY: City police have a piece of "Gossen" test equipment in a leather case that was found near the corner of Potomac Road and Rogers Street July 2. Anyone wishing to claim the equipment is asked to call the Northville City police at 349-1234 with a more detailed description.

Citizens with information about the above incidents are urged to call Northville City Police at 349-1234, Northville Township Police at 349-9400, or the Novi Police Tip Line at 349-6887.

Fireworks end early

from falling ashes. "It's not the fireworks coming down and burning anybody, or anything like that," he said.

"There was no one actually taken to the hospital (by rescue personnel)," Allen added. "There were two who were advised they should see a doctor."

Chief Robert Toms of the Northville Township Fire Department estimated that 15-20 people were affected by burns of some type from the display. The township received several phone calls on July 5 from people complaining about fallout from the fireworks.

Sgt. Scott Allen, a city firefighter and emergency medical technician stationed at the scene during the fireworks display, was one of the first officials to notice the fallout Wednesday night.

"I was one of the ones stationed up right by the high school," he said. "I walked down towards the top of the hill by High School Drive, and as soon as I felt the stuff falling down I called the chief and he called it off."

The fireworks display is one of several annual Fourth of July activities coordinated by the Northville Jaycees.

Jaycees member Theresa Folino, chairperson of the fireworks portion of the Fourth festivities, said the show was closed down just before the scheduled grand finale.

"We had six shells left before the grand finale," she said. Nearly 350 shells were scheduled to be fired off over the course of the show, with more than 100 in the grand finale alone.

Folino said this was the first serious problem the Jaycees had ever had with the display in more than 25 years of sponsorship. "We've never had a problem in the past. In fact, we've never had anyone injured by the fireworks before," she said.

Sgt. Allen said the fire department has not discussed the incident in detail yet, and he was uncertain what action might be taken to guard against similar problems in the future.

was blowing," he said. "It was definitely blowing right at that crowd."

Voyles said debris was falling down constantly on the crowd after his wife was hit in the eye. "You had to keep wiping your hair because you felt the stuff coming down on you," he said.

According to Chris Doinidis, the main crowd of spectators on a hill east of the crosswalk was directly in the path of the falling debris. "The fireworks were to the north and west of us and the wind was blowing everything over our hill, towards the high school," he said.

"It got a little scary," he added. "The cushion I was sitting on, I was holding it over my head just in case."

Doinidis said he saw "some close calls on the hill," where several people were hit or nearly hit by debris. He said a woman sitting directly in front of him was hit in the head by a piece of one of the fireworks about the size of a softball that the crowd watched fall from the sky. "Everybody was yelling, 'Look out, look out!'" he said.

"It was real abrupt; nobody knew what had happened," he added. Fortunately, the woman was not seriously injured.

Doinidis said this was the first fireworks display he has attended in five years. "Could be the last, too," he added, only half-joking. "I'll have to find out which way the wind is blowing next time."

received an annual lump sum longevity payment of $200 after completion of five years with the department.

Department staffing was also an issue in negotiations, Henningsen said.

The May 1988 Bartel study of the police department recommended 19 full-time department personnel. Department manpower now stands at 17, pending the addition of a police chief later this month.

Henningsen would not say if an agreement had been made to hire another officer.

"Additional officers was a bargaining issue," he said. "I'm a little hesitant to talk about it now, but it was resolved."

Attorneys Niels Eric Hansen and Victor Zambardi of Law, Hemming, Essad & Polaczky negotiated the contract for the township, Henningsen said.

Firm tackles the job even when you can't

By RICK KEATING
Special Writer

Too much housework, but not enough time? More yardwork than you can handle?

Chris Surbrook would like to hear from you.

Surbrook is the founder of Happy Home house care, a four-month-old company in Northville which offers home care both indoors and out.

For five years Surbrook had a catering service called Rent-a-Chef which he recently incorporated into Happy Home house care, feeling there was "a greater need than catering in the homes. People needed house cleaning and lawn work, and basically people are just too busy to be able to take care of their home and spend time with their family.

"Being in a new family situation myself I saw the need for more quality family time, so I figured, while people are at work I can go in there and take care of all their day-to-day chores."

Happy Home house care is run by Surbrook and an associate named Valerie Wilson. They employ six full-time workers and eight part-time workers. Currently they are doing work in Northville, Plymouth, Canton and Livonia.

"We don't hold any boundaries," Surbrook says. "We also have two customers up in Waterford. We're not real strict on boundaries as long as we can fit in a time schedule."

There is very little that Surbrook and his workers will not do, he says. "We're a very personalized service. We cater to exactly what the customer needs. As little or as much assistance as they need. We do gutter cleaning, window washing, lawn cleaning, building washing, basically any chore that people don't have time to get around to, we'll do."

Prices range from $20 to $40 an hour for house-cleaning. Lawn cutting (which includes mowing, trimming, and disposal of the clippings) runs about $25. Surbrook says the estimates are accurate within about 10 dollars.

"The normal scenario is for me to go through, give an estimate according to what the customer wants done, and give them an estimated time as to how long it should take the crew to do it," Surbrook explains.

"If a customer can change his mind about a certain job or need a crew for longer than originally anticipated, arrangements can be made to accommodate these needs."

Surbrook would like to make clear, however that Happy Home house care is not a specialized company.

"We don't do professional landscaping, professional house painting, things like that," he says. "We do all the chores that people can't get around to doing."

Among these chores are weeding, heavy debris removal, and rough construction clean up. They've also been known to do pet sitting and plant watering.

What they don't do are skilled jobs that require licensing or permits from municipal agencies. However, all their work is insured. "We're bonded and insured," Surbrook says.

Surbrook had been in the restaurant business for the past eight years before founding Happy Home house care. He still puts that experience to use.

"That experience I try to put towards our meal preparation program," he says. "We also offer in-home meal preparation. We set up a menu with the people and we'll offer anything from a meal that day to five meals a week. We normally come in once a week, and leave a meal hot and ready for them on the stove. If they should want more, then we'll leave the remaining meals in the refrigerator or freezer, whichever is easier."

Surbrook is looking at modifying that system by taking the meals out of the home and renting some kitchen space. People who would place their orders by 1 p.m. could have the food delivered to their homes by 5 p.m. that day.

Happy Home also offers a linen service and grocery shopping.

"We offer all the benefits of live-in help without living in," Surbrook says. "We're discounted from any kind of service that you would find. We hold a guarantee that we will match anyone else's price if it's lower than ours. Through research we've found that we're at least 10 percent lower."

Not only does Happy Home house care offer these various services, but the company is environmentally conscious, according to Surbrook.

"We promote environmental consciousness through the cleaning agents that we use, such as Murphy's oil soap, Borax cleaner, natural solutions with vinegar and water and natural soaps. We also offer a recycling service. We leave a bin and try to make it as convenient as possible for the customer. We will pick up the bin once a week, separate and wash and get it to the appropriate centers."

Surbrook is currently working on getting a permit through the Michigan Department of Natural Resources which would allow him money back on the recyclables.

Unfortunately, not much work has been done on the recycling service.

"People don't seem to have the genuine concern for the environment that most of the media is trying to inspire," he says.

Surbrook would like to do something about that. He's hoping to set a trend in the cleaning process in all homes.

"I'd like to educate the housewives and consumers like that to go out and buy the natural biodegradable products," he says. "I have a genuine concern for the environment and I'm hoping to sway the people that might be involved with it because it's a popular thing right now, to become genuinely concerned."

One product Surbrook stands by is Simple Green, a biodegradable, non-toxic cleaner which he describes as a parallel to Formula 409.

Surbrook says there are a lot of environmentally safe products on the market. Information about these can be obtained either through Happy Home house care or the Eastern Michigan Environmental Action Council at 21220 W. 14 Mile, Birmingham 48010. Or you can call them at 258-5188.

Business Briefs

RUS GARDNER of South Lyon has earned the 1989 Distinguished Sales Award, recognizing him as the top Farm Bureau Insurance agent in Michigan. This is the third year in a row that Gardner has earned the company's highest sales honor.

The award is presented annually to the top Farm Bureau Insurance agent in Michigan, based on outstanding sales achievements and superior client service.

Gardner, whose office is in Novi, is the first agent in the company's history to earn the top sales award for three consecutive years.

A former teacher and coach in the Novi schools, Gardner led the company in several sales categories last year, both in life insurance and property-casualty lines. He received a record number of awards at the Farm Bureau Insurance sales convention in late February.

He was also inducted as a charter member of the new President's Council, an exclusive club reserved for agents who excel in both life and property-casualty sales. He is one of only six charter members of the prestigious new club.

Gardner is a consistent qualifier for the company's top sales clubs, including Leaders for Life, Century Society, and the All American and Executives Clubs. He has also earned many insurance industry honors, including three National Quality Awards, three National Sales Achievements Awards, and membership in the Million Dollar Round Table, an international association of top life insurance producers.

BRIAN E. ELLISON, senior programmer/analyst in University Computing, was promoted to lead programmer in that same department by the Eastern Michigan University Board of Regents at its regular meeting April 25.

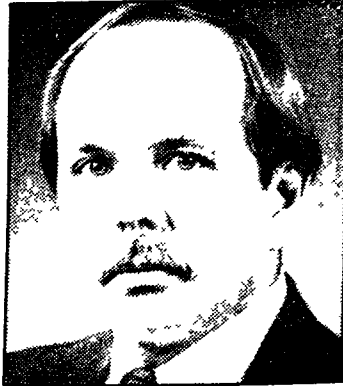

Ellison, 33, earned an associate's degree from Henry Ford Community College in 1978 and completed several specialized computing classes subsequently.

Ellison is a member of Fellowship Life Management Institute and is a Northville resident.

As lead programmer, Ellison will coordinate the programming and systems development for assigned projects in University Computing.

From eyesore to eye-catcher

Condos win planning award

By FRANK EICHENLAUB
Staff Writer

Once upon a time there was a large gravel pit in Northville Township. The pit presented problems, being an eyesore and also the site of erosion.

Although the area was home to a lake and wetlands, it had also lain dormant for nearly 30 years. Many developers surveyed the one-time gravel pit and many turned away because of several problems.

But almost two years ago Robert C. Leighton Associates, Inc. tackled the site disadvantages, behind Beck Development Company and with architect Walter Coponen Associates, Inc. and JCK Engineering, to create an award-winning development.

The Michigan Chapter of the American Planning Association (MAPA) recently recognized Robert Leighton's consulting firm with the Outstanding Planning Award for participation in the Blue Heron Pointe condominium development which now sits on the site of the old pit.

In addition, the project has garnered praise by Builder/Architect magazine and the Arealwide Water Quality Board.

The board recognizes Leighton Associates and Beck Development for "the deep concern and appreciation for the natural resources, especially the wetland . . . This positive earth stewardship . . . enhances both the environment and the community economically and aesthetically."

MAPA also singles out the environmental sensitivity of the project. Leighton Associates was able to preserve all the wetlands in the pit, except one.

Further, the firm innovatively employs a storm-water filtration system to insure the water quality of the lake. The system catches the water and funnels it through a septic tank, which is cleaned annually by residents.

Despite the success of the unique system, Leighton experienced difficulties gaining its acceptance.

"It took a while to convince the DNR to take a look at it," Leighton said. "I think they're going to use it as a standard technique now."

James Anulewicz, director of the Plymouth Township Department of Public Services, nominated the project for the MAPA award, saying, "They made a liability into an asset."

Located on Beck Road between Six and Seven Mile roads, Blue Heron Pointe has 140 residential units, each with direct access to the water, and is 75-percent complete, Leighton said.

"I feel very strongly that we as a nation tend to be very critical," Anulew-

From eyesore to asset, Blue Heron Pointe demonstrates how sound planning can overcome site disadvantages icz said. "And just as we're critical, we need to point out areas that need to be highlighted."

He also highlighted the storm water filtration system in his praise of Leighton Associates.

Although his firm has gathered much attention, Leighton modestly credits the development firm, the architect, the engineers and Northville for the project's success.

"First of all, when we came in with what we wanted to do, (Northville was) open to it," Leighton said. "They actually remodeled their zoning ordinances to help us."

Leighton previously worked for large consulting firms throughout the nation, but started his own Ann Arbor-based group nearly four years ago.

Now his company may soon become even more familiar, with its work on Huntington Falls, Country Club Village and an additional four to five square miles throughout the area.

"It's pretty exciting to get (an award) this early," Leighton said. "I hope it is the beginning of a trend."

Robert Meisner/Condo Queries

Whatever management firm tells you, get it in writing

We are interviewing a prospective management company who promises that the principal of the management firm will be at the site to attend all of our meetings of the board. Is there any way that I can guarantee that promise, since I have had experiences in the past where that has not worked?

Simply put, merely make a provision in the management agreement between the association and the agent to the effect that the principal of the management company must appear at the meetings of the board of directors as a condition precedent to the continuation of the management agreement, except in the case of emergencies and/or excusable circumstances. That will ensure that the management company will have a legal incentive to comply with its obligations, as promised to you. In fact, any extraordinary promises exacted from the management company should be confirmed in writing in the management agreement.

We are a small condominium project that does not have a current set of condominium documents and has not really had any problems. One of the board members, however, thinks that we should get a new set of condominium documents because we always seem to have one malcontent who doesn't pay assessments in a timely manner. How can I convince the rest of the board to get the documents amended?

Tell the board that their failure to amend the condominium documents may result in them spending literally thousands of dollars in legal fees trying to establish their right to collect assessments, attorney fees and costs under the condominium documents which were inartfully drafted 20 years ago.

This may help to convince them that it is necessary to amend their documents to bring them up to 1990 standards including giving them the rights to collect assessments by various remedies including foreclosure by advertisement as well as the right to collect rents from tenants who may be renting the unit from delinquent co-owners.

Obviously, a myriad of provisions which can be inserted into the condominium documents which have been established by a statute or good practice over the years which would enhance the operation of your association. Send them a copy of this article and good luck.

We are thinking about changing management companies. Do you have any suggestions as to who we can talk to concerning how to pick a good management company. It seems that every management company, like a life insurance agent, says that it has the best "policy."

Choosing a management company is one of the most important decisions that a board of directors will make. A good management company for the association is essential. Finding one may be quite difficult.

You may be best advised sitting down with an outside management consultant or attorney who has had experience with management companies and who does not have direct financial relationship with the management company.

You want to find a person who will be able to provide you with the right questions to ask or a knowledge of the management company's inner operations that only an attorney or CPA working with the management company may be able to gather.

After analyzing this information, the board should consider the benefits being offered by the management firm, not what is necessarily the cheapest management company proposal being offered.

Rates

Ten Words for $6.49

Just $6.49 for 10 words. That's our non commercial rate. For every word over 10, it's just another 27 cents per word. And you receive a discount of 35 cents for any repeat insertion of the same ad.

The following ads must be pre-paid: Garage Sale, Lost, Wanted to Rent, Situations Wanted and Buyers Directory.

For classified display ads, call one of our local offices (see the above phone numbers). Contract rates are available.

The deadline for classified ads is 3:30 p.m. the Friday before the desired publication date.

Please read your advertisement the first time it appears in the Monday Green Sheet and report any errors immediately. Sliger/Livingston Newspapers will not issue credit for errors in ads after the first incorrect insertion.

Policies:

POLICY STATEMENT All advertising published in Sliger/Livingston Newspapers is subject to the conditions stated in the applicable rate card, copies of which are available from the advertising department. Sliger/Livingston Newspapers, 323 E. Grand River, Howell, Michigan, 48843, Telephone (517) 548-2003. Sliger/Livingston reserves the right not to accept an advertiser's order. Sliger/Livingston Publications advertisers have no authority to bind this newspaper and only publication of an advertisement shall constitute final acceptance of the advertiser's order. When more than one insertion of the same advertisement is ordered, no credit will be given unless notice of typographical or other errors is given to The Monday Green Sheet in time for correction before the second insertion. Not responsible for omissions.

Equal Housing Opportunity Statement: We are pledged to the letter and spirit of U.S. policy for the achievement of equal housing opportunity throughout the nation.

We encourage advertising an affirmative advertising and marketing program in which there are no barriers to obtaining housing because of race, color, religion or national origin. "Equal Housing Opportunity" Table III-Illustration of Publisher's Notice.

All real estate advertising in this newspaper is subject to the Federal Fair Housing Act of 1968 which makes it illegal to advertise "any preference, limitation or discrimination."

This newspaper will not knowingly accept any advertising for real estate which is in violation of the law. Our readers are hereby informed that all dwellings advertised in this newspaper are available on an equal opportunity basis (FR Doc 724983 Filed 3-31-72, 845 a.m.).

Discovery Channel skills test covers contemporary topics

By Donna Gooch

How much do you know about raising kids, training pets, playing the market or beating a habit? Frank Field tests viewers on an array of topics twice daily, weekdays on the The Discovery Channel Field Test.

If you're not up for a pop quiz, try out the variety of nature programming offered on Discovery.

A prime example is Rain Forest, premiering Sunday, July 8, with a look at all the mysteries contained inside a tropical rain forest.

The program includes footage of strange mammals who exploit every strata of the jungle.

Insects burrow beneath the dark topsoil while antelope forage on the tender shoots growing above it. Bats and oil birds flap into inky caves. Monkeys bask in the sun. Elephants, dissatisfied with the jungle's dense vegetation, stamp out clearings, creating new habitats for other creatures.

Pangolins, antelope, elephants, monkeys, rare birds and a surprising variety of colorful reptiles and insects are the real stars of the show.

Tune in Wildlife Chronicles on Monday, July 9, for a special episode called "Flying With The Birds."

Every fall, an estimated 15 million birds of 280 species migrate across the skies of Israel. Once the Israeli Air Force was losing more pilots to collisions with birds than it was to combat.

Working with ornithologists from Israel's Society for the Protection of Nature, the Air Force began to plot the courses and altitudes of migrating birds. The results are now studied by pilots in training, not a single one of whom has been lost.

Mother Nature, another quality Discovery documentary series, covers molting to mating as Earth's creatures act out the drama of life each weekday in an anthology program culled from "Noah's Ark" and "Wild South."

Cable Comments

By LARK L. SAMOUELIAN
Executive Director,
SW Oakland Cable Comm.

SAMOUELIAN

The General Manager of a Cable Television Franchise is a most thought-provoking position. A large profit-making company in the thrust of complex telecommunications issues requires a savvy diplomat at the helm. Meet the General Manager of Metrovision, Robert McCann and the General Manager of Omnicom, Lisa Boland.

Although each of their companies is designed differently, they are both state of the art and both emphasize service.

No other industry has such an open door policy to the general public. Cable companies are situated near their subscribers. Therefore, the entire staff virtually has the potential of meeting most of their customers.

An important member of the cable team is the Senior Engineer. Marv Nelson of MetroVision and Warren Jones of Omnicom each coordinate the technical condition of their respective cable systems. The public seldom has occasion to meet with either GMs or engineers, yet they are vital to the stability of communication networks.

Hand in hand these individuals maintain and continue to build and enhance the communication opportunities via cable.

Both the MetroVision and Omnicom systems are 400 megahertz systems. MetroVision is Addressable allowing for computerized selection of program offerings. This speeds up the time between sign up and receiving the actual service. Omnicom is built as a Trap system, which allows only unscrambled signals to reach the consumers' homes.

The "trap" system allows the consumer access to the cable system with cable-ready TV sets and VCRs. Both cable systems are considering the use of fiber within their cable systems for the main trunk lines. Fiber's power source is light and therefore the dependency on auxiliary electric current needed would diminish significantly.

This is a crucial element in long term planning, as cable systems are providing a communications source which needs electricity to function. In the MetroVision system 60% of their recent outages have been directly related to a commercial loss of power, while 30% were electronic failures due to power surges. The Omnicom system reports that the most common reason for their cable outages is when underground cable is cut. The second is with electronic failures.

The power supplies throughout cable systems have battery backup which will enable the service to extend as much as two hours after an electrical power failure. It would not be surprising, therefore, to have all your lights go out and still be able to receive cable.

MetroVision is looking for remedies to enhance their service and are pursuing more powering locations to strengthen the battery backup.

Omnicom emphasizes that consumers need to use the "MISDIG" Service. No matter how minor your home repair or landscaping, both system engineers felt that this free service should be used by the residents. The utility communication system is provided as a result of Michigan's Public Act 204 of 1975.

"MISDIG" is a notification system to advise utilities of proposed excavation 48 hours prior to the use of power equipment. Its object is to determine the location of underground utilities for the purpose of preventing damage to these facilities. Call before home landscaping and repairs - Brown - CATV - AIT, MICH BELL; Red - DETROIT EDISON; White - WATER; and BLUE - GAS.

Metropolitan Detroit is undergoing such tremendous growth that all services are challenged to meet the demands.

This not only affects roads and utilities, but also the entertainment industry and legislative guidelines.

How do we all work together? The Cable Industry, our general managers remind us, must keep current on technical trends but also on which entertainment services have broadbased appeal and longevity. Bob McCann emphasized that in a world of mergers 'caution before offering' is a good method of service. He emphasizes that even though the National Cable Television Association has come out with National Customer Service Standards, Metro-

Vision has had them in practice for several years. In a legislative environment of topsy turvey, his words of practice have been, "We shall keep doing our job every day!"

Lisa Boland of Omnicom speaks on Customer Relations as she reminds subscribers to take a minute to read the new "Common Questions asked about Cable!" which came in this month's bill. She speaks about the legislative happenings, responding to my question about the telephone industry quest to be allowed to be more intricately involved with cable. She feels that the telephone issue is a separate subject and is glad the current legislative proposals keep transmission and content control separate.

Even as an administrator overseeing a cable system, my hat goes off to this team of leaders, as they determine the quality of a very important part of our home life - television.

Polly Draper happy with role on 'thirtysomething'

Other characters enhance show

By SHELIA ODAK

Even after three years, ABC's "thirtysomething" has consistently stayed one of the most talked about shows on television. That is a fact that Polly Draper, who portrays Ellyn, finds continually surprising. "Sometimes shrinks have little meetings on Tuesday nights about what the show was," she related. While walking through an airport a man came running up to the actress proclaiming that "thirtysomething" had changed his wife's life. Apparently, the woman and all the psychiatrists in her building got together regularly and solved the characters' problems, just for practice.

"People take it so seriously," Draper said. "It's kind of, in a way it's sort of frightening. It puts sort of an added pressure on you that you don't want, but in a way it's kind of another flattering thing."

Yet another sort of compliment comes in the way that people assume Draper and her character Ellyn are one in the same. It is a tribute to the way the actress fits herself so snugly into her role.

"I still haven't quite adjusted to it because I get blamed for everything Ellyn does, and I get praised for every other thing she does." Even Draper's aunt, after seeing the episode in which Ellyn at first decides against starting a relationship with a married man, confused fiction with reality. "You know, my aunt said, 'I really think you handled that well with that married man.' I said, 'Well thank you so much, I'd like to take the credit, but I just learned those lines.' It was very funny. It is really funny when members of your own family start doing it."

Draper admits though that this is a job she loves, both for the thrill of going to work every day and getting to do quality material, and also for the complex role she portrays. "I think it's just such an interesting character, such a complicated character, that it's really fun to play continually; and I'm not sure everyone in the show feels that way about their character. I feel lucky that I got one that they can take a lot of risks on because they don't feel I have to hold up the purpose of the show or hold up the message of the show."

That message, Draper believes, has gotten better over the duration of the program's run. "I think the show started out very narrow in its viewpoint. The people it presented were very, very small-scaled people. I still think it errs in that direction, but I think it's gotten so much better, especially with being able to take off on the lives of the rest of us. You know, they started with Hope and Michael, and now with the rest of us, they've been able to get more of a rounded perspective."

For Draper, who is an accomplished stage actress, about the only drawback to "thirtysomething" is the fact that she doesn't have the benefit of an audience's reaction. "I realized that (when) I was on this talk show and they showed a clip, a funny clip, of me on the show, and the audience was laughing at all the parts I wanted them to laugh at. I realized I never knew if that worked or not until that moment. It's a weird thing doing it in a void like that."

BITS AND PIECES

Pam Dawber signs with CBS for series, TV movie deal

CBS has signed an agreement with Pam Dawber to develop a half-hour comedy series for the popular actress, as well as motion pictures-for-television. In making the announcement, Jeff Sagansky, president, CBS Entertainment, said, "Pam Dawber's proven versatility as a comedienne and dramatic actress is a rare talent, and one that we hope to use to the fullest." Dawber's past credits include the series Mork & Mindy and My Sister Sam.

Barbara Eden has signed a new non-exclusive three-year telefilm deal with NBC, calling for her to develop and star in a minimum of one telefilm per year for the network starting in the 1990-91 season. Each of Eden's last six films aired on the network, winning its time slot.

Newsman Charles Osgood was inducted into the 1990 Emerson Radio Hall of Fame. His radio feature "The Osgood File," has been carried by stations across the country since 1972. In his four daily commentaries, Osgood shares his own sense of wonder, dismay or amusement about events of the day. Other 1990 inductees include Bob Hope, Dick Clark, Paul Harvey, Harry Caray and Frank Stanton.

Todd Christensen, a former all-pro tight end with the Los Angeles Raiders, has been named an analyst and reporter for NBC Sports. Beginning this season, Christensen will serve as a color analyst on NBC's coverage of National Football League games. Outside his football role, he will also serve as a reporter/interviewer on other NBC Sports telecasts.

Patrick Duffy and William Devane have been set to star in Murder, C.O.D., a two-hour telefilm for NBC. The film is based on Barbara Paul's suspense novel Kill Free.

Pam Dawber

Mary Frann, a star of Newhart, has been signed to play the role of Clementine, a senator's wife, in the six-hour NBC miniseries based on Jackie Collins' Lucky. Vincent Irizarry (Santa Barbara) plays the gangster who is Clementine's love interest.

Lorimar Television's award-winning dramatic series, Paradise, has been selected as recipient of the 1990 National Stuttering Project's "Golden Block" award for its episode "The Chase," and for actor Brian Lando who portrays chronic stutterer Ben Carroll. Paradise was singled out for its sensitive treatment and positive portrayal of a character who stutters. The National Stuttering Project is a national non-profit organization that provides help and hope for people who stutter, and has 4,000 members and 65 chapters nationwide.

Joe Isuzu, the pathological liar who has appeared for four years in commercials for Isuzu vehicles, is losing his job. Joe, played by actor David Leisure, is being put out to pasture when American Isuzu Motors, Inc. introduces its 1991 lineup of vehicles. While poking fun at carmaker claims, the ads also generated controversy among car dealers who claimed Joe undermined the credibility of real car dealers.

Who did Cagney call a dirty rat?

By Steven Alan McGaw

Questions:

1. True Or False: James Cagney never uttered the words "you dirty rat" on screen.
2. Name the actor most closely identified with portraying aloof, sophisticated private detective, Philo Vance. (Bonus: Name the four films in which this actor played the role. Bonus Bonus: Name one other actor who also took a turn.)
3. Name the director of the film regarded as the best of the Philo Vance mysteries, The Kennel Murder Case. (Bonus: Can you name the very good Elvis Presley movie directed by this same man?)

Answers:

1. True.
2. Okay, here goes. William Powell is the Philo Vance most people remember, for his work in the films The Canary Murder Case, The Green Murder Case, The Bengsn Murder Case and The Kennel Murder Case. As far as naming another Vance impersonator, you could have cited any of the following: Basil Rathbone, Warren William, Paul Lukas, Wilfred Hyde-White, Grant Richards, James Stephenon, William Wright or Alan Curtis. (Whew!)
3. Michael Curtiz, who also directed the Presley vehicle King Creole.

LET'S TALK

ABC makes no mention of fate of Jamie Lee Curtis' series

By Polly Vonetes

Q: I would like to know if Anything But Love will be back in the fall. The show is so great and stopped without explanation. —Connie Goren, Ft. Pierce, Fla.

A: The fall schedule ABC has released does not include Anything But Love. In fact, there has been no mention of the series at all.

Q: Since you published my question on Joni James I have been flooded with info. There is a Joni James Fan Club, P.O. Box 7207, Westchester, Ill. 60153, and the president is Wayne Brasler. Also, there is Fred J. Mann, 15 Maryanne Ave., Pt. Jefferson Station, N.Y. 11776. A super guy, Fred tells me her voice has never been better. There may be some new releases coming soon. Polly, thank you for putting our girl's name in print. I know Joni would be grateful if you would tell her fans about these clubs. Thanks ten million. —Russ Avery, Concord, N.C.

A: Russ, you made my day today. I just love it when things go right and people respond to a plea for help. I hope Joni James fans feel better now, knowing she is alive and well and still performing. Thank you for sharing this with us.

Q: Please tell all fans of Alien Nation what we can do to get the FOX network to reconsider this great show. Thanks, we all appreciate the help you can give us. —Mr. & Mrs. David Hirsch, San Bernardino, Calif.

A: Write-in campaigns are not always successful, but there is little else you can do. I will give you some names to write to and just keep the letters going. They may pay attention if enough mail is received. Write to FOX President, Peter Chernin, FOX Broadcasting, Co., P.O. Box 900, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90213 and to: Producer A. Kenneth Johnson, c/o Alien Nation, P.O. Box 900, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90213. Good Luck!

Q: I have staked my knowledge of the *entertainment world on the line. I sure hope I'm right. In the miniseries Lonesome Dove, who played the title roles of Captain Call and Gus? I say it was Tommy Lee Jones and Sam Elliott. Everyone at my husband's office says I'm wrong. They say it was Robert Duvall that played with Tommy Lee Jones. Is my reputation intact?* —Hopeful, Willis, Texas

A: Oops! There goes your reputation down the drain! Too bad, everybody in your husband's office is right and you are wrong—well, half wrong. You were right about Tommy Lee Jones, he played Capt. Woodrow Call. But how could you ever mistake Robert Duvall for Sam Elliott? There is a world of difference between the two of them. Better luck next time.

HOROSCOPE

By A. Murphy

July 8 through July 14

CANCER (June 21-July 22)

Not every day can be bright and sunny. Quiet, solemn days make you appreciate the sunny ones. Invite family and friends over to celebrate.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)

Do not try to work when you are irritable. Take advantage of your partner's giving nature. Let someone know you need a break and take it.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)

When you are proven wrong, admit it openly. You will be respected when you act responsibly. Embarrassment is preferable to a grudge held.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)

Keeping a secret can be dangerous if it troubles you. Ask for advice about it. Do not allow yourself to become fearful over anything.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)

It is up to your imagination to make a day enjoyable. Your emotions are what make you human, but keep them in check when dealing with family.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)

In the morning, decide what impression you want to make, and in the evening, ask yourself if you succeeded. Write down ways you can improve.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)

If you are unhappy in your workplace, straighten out priorities. Talk to a job counselor and make changes if you are not satisfied.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)

There is a time and place for practicality and hard work. Reward yourself with rest and relaxation. Review your tendency to overwork.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)

An apology and admission of guilt is not easy, but afterward you will feel unburdened. Set a standard of honesty for those around you.

ARIES (March 21-April 19)

You don't have to like everyone and everything, but try to accept what you cannot change, or you will waste a lot of energy for nothing.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)

Be receptive to others' methods. Hitting someone over the head with your ideas is not as effective as being an example.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)

Spontaneity is a wonderful part of your life. Be careful, however, not to forget commitments to others. Don't run away from your problems. ©TV Listing Inc.
