Four options confront the special school finance committee charged with developing a recommendation for the Board of Education to address the district's financial crisis.

The district budget currently is short $1.04 million as a result of a new state school-finance plan signed into law last week that "recaptures" money the district had counted on to fund operations for the coming school year.

One — the committee can suggest the district hold an election for an operations millage amount that would generate enough revenue to compensate for the loss of anticipated state funding.

Two — the committee can suggest the district hold an election for an operations millage amount that would both cover the $1.04-million shortfall for the 1990-91 budget and renew the current millage which will require an election in the spring anyway.

Three — the committee can suggest the board trim the budget by the $1.04 million that the district is short and recommend the areas to be cut.

Four — any combination of the above.

The approximate 40 members of the Strategic Planning Committee and the funding action planning team will meet Wednesday at the high school to discuss how the district can balance its budget for the 1990-91 school year.

The school board at its last meeting voted to arrange a Sept. 27 election date, in case that was the alternative the committee recommends the board pursue.

"The board may go for resolving this crisis and then deal with the renewal of millage issue in the spring, which they have to do anyway," said George Bell, superintendent of Northville Public Schools.

"We have to have a millage renewal in the spring."

Bell said it was premature to talk about how much millage — if there is an election — the board would pursue. A factor that could affect the amount of millage is whether the committee recommends combining cuts with the pursuit of additional revenue.

"I am certainly aware of the current environment for anybody talking about taxes," Bell said. "It's the worst possible time to talk about taxes."

"But it is not any kind of irresponsibility on the part of the school district that has caused this."

Throughout the district, preparation for the 1990-91 school year con-

'Drifter' crimes reach city limits

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

Northville police say last week's theft of more than $5,000 from a local store is just one example of a statewide crime wave.

The Northville City police department has received telexes from state police warning local businesses to be on the lookout for "vagrant-style" crimes — thefts from stores or homes which usually take place in broad daylight, and involve several people duping or distracting a store manager or homeowner while someone else grabs the cash or jewelry.

But the warning came a little too late for one local store. Last Sunday, July 22, three women entered the Arbor Drugs at 133 E. Dunlap. While one diverted the assistant store manager's attention, the other two apparently entered the manager's office and made off with $5,121 in cash.

Det. Sgt. David Fendeleit said a rash of such crimes have been reported by police departments across the state. Garden City, Jackson, Warren and Wayne are just a few of the other areas that have been hit.

Fendeleit said Monday there are no leads yet in the Arbor Drugs heist.

"This is the time of year," Fendeleit said. "They're a traveling criminal group. They travel to certain regions of the country and basically commit their trade, which is theft."

The swindlers use several different schemes to rob their victims. For instance, they may enter a resident's home as gas or utility company representatives claiming that the homeowner is entitled to a refund. While one of the thieves keeps the homeowner occupied, an accomplice will steal easily concealed items like jewelry from another part of the house, typically the master bedroom.

Or the thieves will masquerade as home repairmen, offering to blacktop a driveway or resurface a roof. "But either the work is real shoddy or they get a healthy downpayment and never show up again," Fendeleit said.

For retail thefts, several thieves will enter a store at a time and divert the manager's attention, as they did at Arbor Drugs. While store personnel are distracted, the accomplice or accomplices simply grab the cash from the store office.

Or a large group of people will flood a store, overwhelming the staff with business so that an office is left unoccupied, Fendeleit said.

The best way to catch such thieves is to report the theft as soon as possible. "The time lapse is our killer," Fendeleit explained. "They're smart enough to put distance between themselves and the crime."

Vehicle descriptions are also helpful in tracking down these thieves.

"We have a hell of a time with actual descriptions of people," Fendeleit said, because the suspects usually hit homes or stores miles from where they stay. "They don't hit their own backyard."

Decision on church site prompts suit

By MIKE TYREE
Staff Writer

A group of residents opposed to a 40-family church planned for a Six Mile Road site has filed suit against the township planning commission.

The residents said the planning commission's June 26 approval of a revised site plan for St. James American Catholic Church will lower their property values and could create havoc in their quiet, upscale neighborhood.

Suit plaintiffs include Ross Northrop, William Phillips, Audrey Marino and residents and financial backers of the Lairdhaven development on west Six Mile Road, east of Brooklane Golf Club.

The suit, filed July 20 in Wayne County Circuit Court, asks for an overturn of the planning commission decision that allows the church to renovate a ranch-style home into a church, Phillips said.

Phillips and his co-plaintiffs said the church is not a suitable neighbor for an area known for its lush yards, expensive landscaping and property valued at several hundred thousand dollars.

"If anything other than a house goes in, it is going to lower property values," Phillips said. "If I were buying a house in the half-million dollar range . . . I can't imagine a church would enhance the value."

Marino said the planning commission did not exercise proper constraints when they voted to approve the church site plan.

"This is certainly lovely, lovely, property," she said of her home and one-acre lot. "And now they're putting a parking lot there?"

"The planning commission has responsibilities to people that have been here as well as newcomers," she said.

Treasurer race primary feature

By MIKE TYREE
Staff Writer

A four-person township treasurer race and a hotly contested fire millage request highlight the Aug. 7 township primary ballot.

Incumbent treasurer Betty Lennox faces challenges from William Butterfield, Rick Engelland and Jack Hosmer in the Republican primary for the part-time, $9,000-a-year post.

The primary winner is virtually assured the treasurer job and accompanying seat on the township board.

No Democrats are listed on the primary ballot.

Lennox was appointed to the post in December after Richard Henningsen resigned to fill a vacancy as township manager.

Butterfield and Hosmer also applied for the position at that time.

The appointment of Lennox necessitated an off-year election. The treasurer term — as well as the terms of the other board members — expires in 1992.

The treasurer's main responsibility

Treasurer candidates/7A
State Rep race/5A
State Senate race/10A
Circuit Judge race/12A
County commission/14A

is to collect and disburse township property tax receipts.

Township officials have placed a .5-mill fire millage request on the primary ballot. The township said the millage is a renewal and is needed to maintain and operate the township fire department.

Critics of the fire millage said the request constitutes a tax increase. Opponents — including Engelland — said the present rate of .33 mill is sufficient to operate the fire department and the township does not need the additional revenue.

The township said the .5-mill figure is an "opportunity" to ask for the increase and does not necessarily mean that amount will be approved by the township board.

Polling sites will open Aug. 7 at 7 a.m. and will close at 8 p.m.

Engler favors equity plan

By TIM RICHARD
Staff Writer

Gubernatorial hopeful John Engler strongly favors funding equity between rich and poor schools, even if some fellow Republicans don't like it.

"We made a decision to continue our pursuit to improve equity between school districts," the Senate majority leader said in a recent interview with Sliger/Livingston Newspapers.

The Legislature's decision to cut categorical aid to wealthier, out-of-formula districts by $50 million was just one way "to fulfill the policy objective of not letting the gap between the richest and poorest districts get wider," Engler said.

Two days earlier, a Republican lawmaker from northern Oakland county called Engler's vote in favor of reducing categorical "misguided."

But Engler took the criticism in stride. "The Oakland County legislators (who mostly opposed the aid cuts) voted correctly in terms of the districts they represent. In terms of the state interest, I voted correctly," said Engler. "This was a majority decision of the Legislature; it wasn't just John Engler's decision."

Gov. James Blanchard, a Democrat seeking a third term, advocated cutting categorical aids drastically and last week signed the bill Engler and the majority of lawmakers voted for. That bill, however, may send suburban districts into court to challenge its constitutionality.

Categorical aids cover such specific school needs as pensions, transportation, pregnant teen programs and special education — 26 categories in all.

Engler, a 41-year-old career legislator with 20 years of seniority, criticized the Blanchard administration for not allocating enough of the existing $7.6-billion general fund budget for education.

Engler called the Michigan Education Association, the state's largest teachers union, "one of the major stumbling blocks on legislative agreement" over school funding. "Their political allegiance to the governor leaves them constricted in terms of their options," he said.

"School financing is becoming ever more dependent on property," Engler said, referring to higher local property taxes and the 20-year-old downward trend in state support of education. He cited Midland, in his Senate district, which already has Dow Chemical Co. and this year becomes $1 billion richer with a new Consumers Power Co. plant while outlying districts "got not a dollar. That just isn't fair."

But Engler wouldn't join senators and Jack Faxon, D-Southfield, and John Schwarz, R-Battle Creek, in seeking school district consolidation as a method of tax-base sharing.

"The governor has proposed 100 school districts (Michigan has 562 currently). I've rejected that. I oppose mandatory consolidation," Engler said.

Other Engler ideas on education: • Categorical aids can't be cut entirely, as some lawmakers have proposed. Special education, in particular, must continue to be funded by the state.

• Foreign language proficiency shouldn't be required by law, but the state should put more money into the teaching of languages, as he and Sen. Dan DeGrow, R-Port Huron, had done. (Shortly after the interview, Blanchard used his line-item veto to chop the foreign language money from the school aid bill.

• The monopoly of local districts over students within their boundaries should be ended by a "schools of choice" law, freeing parents and students to select their own schools.

• A Kentucky-style lawsuit challenging Michigan's school funding system as unconstitutional isn't likely. Such a suit would take years to settle, and Michigan must move much faster than that toward equitable school funding.

Engler also said his Commerce Department would concentrate less on wooing foreign investment and more on helping existing non-automotive manufacturers expand their exports.

"They (foreign investors) have come, like gangbusters, and built their plants everywhere but in Michigan with the single exception of a Mazda plant. They've got the newest plants, the best processes. Many of their plants are non-union, so the UAW has been hurt in the process."

News Briefs

TREASURER FORUM BROADCAST MONDAY AND TUESDAY — The July 31 forum between Northville Township treasurer candidates will be broadcast Aug. 6 and 7 on Omnicom Cablevision, according to program producer Susan Curtiss.

Curtiss did not know at press time Tuesday what time the forum would be broadcast, but she said local origination programming is broadcast between 3-10 p.m. The program most likely will be shown on Omnicom channel 8, she said.

FIRE DEPARTMENT TO SHOW DEVICE AND ANSWER QUESTIONS — The township fire department will display one of its new automated defibrillators Aug. 2 at 7 p.m. at Fire Station No. 2, 48515 W. Seven Mile.

Persons interested in viewing or asking questions about the equipment are encouraged to attend the display session.

The fire department recently purchased two automated defibrillators in an attempt to increase the chances of survival for cardiac arrest patients. The defibrillators are designed to shock the heart into normal operation after a cardiac arrest.

PLANNING COMMISSION SPILLOVER SET — The township planning commission will hold a spillover meeting Aug. 8 at 7:30 p.m., said Carol Maise, planning and zoning administrator. The will enable planners to review site plans leftover from the July 31 commission meeting.

TENTATIVE MASTER PLAN SCHEDULE SET — Northville's planning commission hopes to finish the city's Master Plan by next January.

Under the tentative schedule drawn up by Planning Consultant Don Wortman, the commission would complete its ongoing review of the Master Plan sometime this month. The revised draft would be submitted to the city council, historic district commission and downtown development authority Aug. 21, and a final draft Master Plan prepared for Sept. 18.

An informal public workshop would be held in October, and the first public hearing in November. The commission would decide if more workshops or hearings are needed at that time.

The tentative schedule set January, 1991 for final adoption of the plan by the commission and city council. Commissioners agreed to most of Wortman's schedule, though Chairperson John Hardin suggested changing a joint meeting planned for September into another informal public workshop.

VICTORIAN COSTUME BALL TICKETS ON SALE — The social event of the season is fast approaching and tickets to the Victorian Festival Costume Ball will go on sale Aug. 3 from 9 a.m.-1 p.m. and Aug. 6 from 6-8 p.m. at the Northville Community Chamber of Commerce office on south Main Street. Tickets are $50 per person and include entertainment, a light Victorian supper, and beer and wine.

This year's ball will accommodate 200 persons, with two separate dancing sets. Anyone wishing to be placed within a particular set (so that friends are not split up) should purchase tickets as a group. A maximum of 10 tickets may be purchased by one person.

Tickets will be sold on a first-come, first-served basis until sold out. Reservations must be made in person and payment made at the time of reservation. Look for further details about the romantic Victorian Costume Ball coming up at Mill Race Village in next Thursday's Northville Record.

AMUSING TICKETS — The Northville Recreation Department has discount tickets available to several area amusement parks: Cedar Point, Kings Island, Bobo, the Detroit Zoo, Sea World, and more. You can save up to $5.25 on some tickets. Tickets are on sale now.

tinues. The revenue generated by a $16-million bond issue that voters approved in October is being spent to update existing buildings and equipment and provide technological hardware and programs.

However, Bell stressed the bond money can be used only for the specific purposes for which it was voted.

"I cannot, by law, stop fixing the roof and put that money into solving my financial dilemma here," Bell said.

The funds the state recaptured would have been used for district operations, such as salaries, supplies and regular operating needs of the district, he said. The district can compensate for the loss only by increasing the operating millage or cutting programs, he said.

The superintendent said the district has always been "very prudent" in establishing millage rates.

"We've never gone for more than it took to run the program," Bell said. He said through the years that North-ville's state equalized valuation has increased, the district has had a proportional increase in enrollment, which has "eaten up that SEV increase."

The Northville district spends approximately $5,000 per pupil each year. The state's recapture means the district has $370 less per pupil to spend than it did last year, at the 1989-90 enrollment rate. And the district expects enrollment to increase by approximately 250 students for the 1990-91 school year.

The funding the district had expected to receive from the state was in the form of social security and money for specific areas mandated by the state.

"We've run a budget very, very tight and we haven't built a big bankroll of fund balance, such as some of the districts around us," Bell said.

"We've elected to keep the lower millage and let the people keep the money in their pockets instead of the school district keeping it in the bank."

If the committee recommends

"It's the worst possible time to talk about taxes. But it is not any kind of irresponsibility on the part of the school district that has caused this."

George Bell,

Northville Public Schools superintendent program cuts to balance the budget, "the impact is going to be dramatic," Bell said. Nobody quite realizes what this much money means on a budget like Northville's, he added.

"Basically, the only real place you can save money is people," Bell said.

"Eighty percent of our budget is people," Bell said. "And in the education business, people are programs."

"That's such an important issue, that I think really the total community has to have a chance to react."

The superintendent said if the board votes to cut programs, the district has to know soon to allow for proper planning.

"We can't wait until March or April when the impact of the cutbacks will be compounded even further," Bell said.

"The one thing that I have maintained as a precept throughout my years of leadership in education is that every kid only goes around once," Bell said. "You can't sacrifice a year of a kid's life because of a crisis."

The superintendent said he could not comment on the types of cuts the district would make because if any are made, they will be based on the committee's recommendation.

He did cite some options that the committee may be forced to consider: letting go teachers hired in recent years (displaced by educators with seniority returning to classrooms).

Police seize illegally posted signs

Northville city police removed seven illegally posted signs last weekend. The signs, advertising for township treasurer candidates and garage sales, were placed on city owned rights of way between sidewalks and streets. Signs were found at Seven Mile and Tait, Seven Mile and Main, Eight Mile west of Coldspring, Eight Mile and Tait, and other locations near the city / township border. Sgt. David Fendeleit said no citations were issued. "Our normal response is to remove the items and inform the violator," he said. "But per signs, we are inclined to issue a ticket."

VEHICLES DAMAGED — Two vehicles parked at a Swan Lake Drive residence were damaged sometime between 10 p.m. July 23 and 1 p.m. July 24. The owner of the vehicles told township police. The left rear tire of a 1987 Toyota and the right rear tire of a 1984 Dodge Van were damaged, the complainant said.

MAILBOXES DAMAGED — Two mailboxes on Maxwell were damaged July 24 around 12:45 a.m. and one mailbox was damaged July 25 at Memtech, 50595 Six Mile, according to township police records.

ATTEMPTED LARCENY — The owner of a 1986 Chevrolet told township police someone damaged her car radio while the vehicle was parked at Highland Lakes Shopping Center on Seven Mile Road. The woman said her car was unlocked while she was inside a store between 3:20-3:55 p.m. July 26. She said someone apparently entered the car and attempted to steal the radio. The complainant estimated the damage at $300.

SNAKE STOLEN — An employee of Sunshine Pet Center, 42951 Seven Mile, told township police that two unknown white males stole a 2 1/4 -3-foot Ball Python from the store July 23 at 6:40 p.m.

The employee said the men were shown the snake and after the viewing, it was placed inside an unopened glass aquarium. The clerk began talking to one of the men near a front counter while the other stayed in the back of the shop. The two men soon left the building together and drove away in an older model white van, the clerk said.

The clerk then discovered the snake was missing. One of the suspects was described as six feet tall and 150 pounds, with blond, shoulder-length hair, mustache and goatee. He was reportedly wearing a red bandana, blue jeans and a white T-shirt.

The clerk said the non-poisonous python is alternately light and dark brown.

MAN ARRESTED FOR BREAKING STREET LIGHT — A 25-year-old Novi man was arrested by city police early Saturday morning, July 28, for malicious destruction. A city police officer saw the man break a street light about 1:05 a.m. on Johnson Avenue near River Street. He was charged and released on $50 bond.

MALICIOUS DESTRUCTION — A Northville man told city police that two boys hit his car with a rock as he drove south on Center Street July 29. He said he was driving just south of Fairbrook about 4:35 p.m. when his car was hit. The boys were reportedly standing next to the blue parking booth in the "Preferred" parking lot at the time.

MORE MALICIOUS DESTRUCTION — The Northville Swim Club at 646 Baseline Rd. was vandalized sometime between 10:15 p.m. July 29 and 9:30 a.m. July 30, according to city police reports. Someone reportedly cut through a chain link fence on the west side of the property and defecated in the pool.

FENDER BENDERS — City police reported two accidents last week. On July 27 at about 11:45 a.m. a car pulling into Cal's Car Care, 202 W. Main St. hit a gas pump. The driver was not cited.

A car parked in the Arbor Drugs parking lot, 133 E. Dunlap St. on July 30 was hit by an unknown vehicle sometime between 10-10:20 a.m. This is the third such incident in the parking lot in the last three weeks.

FOUND PROPERTY — City police retrieved a lady's brown Schwinn bicycle from behind a 112 E. Main St. store July 27. The store owner said the bike had been there several days. Anyone wishing to claim it is asked to call the Northville City Police at 349-1234 with a more detailed description.

Citizens with information about the above incidents are urged to call Northville City Police at 349-1234 or Northville Township Police at 349-9400.

Northville man charged in theft

By MIKE TYREE
Staff Writer

A Northville Township man will face a felony charge of receiving and concealing stolen property in excess of $100 after his arrest July 19.

Paul Andrew Smith, 19, of 16575 Franklin, waived a preliminary exam July 27 in 35th District Court and was bound over to Wayne County Circuit Court for an Aug. 10 pre-trial hearing. He has pleaded not guilty to the charge.

Smith is charged with receiving 11 stolen compact discs on a warrant signed by a Sutters Lane resident who told township police someone had smashed the passenger door window of his vehicle and stolen the discs June 25.

According to township police records, the complainant and an unidentified person went to Smith's residence at approximately 11 p.m. June 26 after learning that Smith might have knowledge of the incident.

The two confronted Smith's sister, who police said searched her brother's bedroom and found the compact discs. The sister reportedly asked the complainant to identify the property and he did so correctly, police records said.

After the complainant identified the discs, Smith's sister gave the property to her mother.

At that time, the incident was reported to township police, according to police records.

Two township police detectives went to the Smith residence June 28 at 1:30 p.m. to question the suspect. Police said Smith told them he bought the discs from an unidentified person who knocked on his bedroom window at 3 a.m. and sold him the discs.

Smith told police he bought the discs because he knew he could sell them for more than he paid for them.

Police reports did not indicate the amount Smith said he paid for the discs. Police said the discs were valued at $125.

Smith denied involvement in the theft of the discs or in five other larcenies from automobiles that occurred in the same area June 25, police said.

On June 29, the complainant told police he wished to prosecute in the case and agreed to sign a complaint.

Township police stopped Smith's vehicle July 19 while he was traveling on Ann Arbor Road east of Sheldon Road and arrested him on a felony warrant.

A not guilty plea was placed on Smith's behalf the following day at 35th District Court in Plymouth. Bond was set at $10,000.

Bond was also set at $10,000 after the preliminary exam waiver.

THUMBSUCKING OR PACIFIER?

If your infant has the thumbsucking habit, should you try to replace this habit with a pacifier?

All babies have a natural instinct to suck. But if the habit lingers beyond infancy, when the primary teeth are beginning to appear, you may want to give baby a pacifier. If you start the pacifier soon enough, just after your child has been weaned, and is getting solid foods, your child may never develop the thumbsucking habit.

Pacifiers have proved a lot less harmful to a child's teeth and mouth than sucking thumb or fingers. Thumbsucking may force your child's teeth out of position and narrow the dental arches. This may cause the upper teeth to protrude outward because of a deformation of the supporting bone.

One advantage of the pacifier is that it is made of soft rubber, while thumb or fingers have an unyielding bone inside. They exert much more pressure than a pacifier and are much more likely to cause dental problems.

Keen-McCarthy backs health care

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

Kathleen Keen-McCarthy (R-Plymouth) sees her lack of political experience as a reflection of more practical skills in her quest for the state house.

Keen McCarthy is running against Gerald Law for the 36th district house seat he now holds.

POLITICAL EXPERIENCE: — "Every political figure did not have political experience when they started out," Keen-McCarthy noted. "I, through my career in health care, am on the receiving end of the political arena and dealing with the legislation that is being passed." With 16 years experience in the work environment, she said she would bring a great deal of administrative and financial background to the position of state representative.

"I really would question whether or not actual political experience is the only thing that we want in order to have our decisions in our lives made," she said. "I think I bring another dimension."

SCHOOL FINANCE REFORM: — Keen-McCarthy said the first requirement for school financing is to define the amount of financing needed. "I think that the first thing we're going to need to do is define what is the basic level of a quality education that we as a state feel is in the state's best interest to have," she said.

"We have to move from that to how do we fund that level of education, and then if school districts want to go above and beyond that they should be allowed to do that through their own local taxation," she added.

Though she recognizes that many of the school districts are inadequately funded, Keen McCarthy said part of the problem may be due to poor use of the funds available rather than not enough funds. "I think a lot of people are really questioning whether the monies that are available are being used wisely," she said. "So that may be, on a local basis, the first place to look as far as spending on the schools. The local districts are starting to do that because of the complaints about the property taxes and the fact that there are so many schools that the state is taking money away from," she said.

"I really feel that we have to spend the money we have more wisely."

PROPERTY TAX REFORM: — Voters in the district and across the state agree that taxes are too high, Keen-McCarthy said. "What they're saying is, not only are they too high, but we're not getting what we're paying for, we're not getting quality for the dollars we're paying in property tax," she added. "I don't know anybody who feels that what they're paying is too much if they think they're getting value for their money, whether it's buying a car or anything else."

The obvious first step to reforming school finance is to put back the money taken from the general fund for other purposes when lottery revenues were dedicated to the schools, she said. "Everyone is saying our legislators lied to us. What we were promised when we voted the lottery in the first place was that it would (all) go to the schools."

She said another solution may be to seek other sources of school funding besides property taxation, unless a local community decides to add that on.

HEALTH CARE: — As an associate administrator at Oakwood Hospital, Keen-McCarthy has a first-hand perspective on health care and the failings of the health care system, she said. She sees adequate medical care as one of this district's most pressing needs.

"The majority of our growth in this district is in small businesses," she noted. But she added that small business owners often cannot afford to provide their employees with health

Law blasts state school financing

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

Gerald Law (R-Plymouth) sees school finance reform and its link to property taxes as one of the most difficult issues facing the state legislature.

He cites his experience with both issues as a reason to elect him to a fifth state house term for the 36th district, which includes the Wayne County portion of Northville City and Northville Township.

SCHOOL FINANCE REFORM: — Law opposes the current school financing program to recapture taxes from so-called "out-of-formula" school districts with larger tax bases like Northville's to help finance poorer "in-formula" districts.

"I really think the greed, actually, of the in-formula school districts has gotten out of hand," he said. "And this little power move of recapturing $50 million more, which is costing Northville $1 million, is really not a solution to school financing reform. All it does is hurt the school districts that have operated in a responsible manner and the communities that have operated and built the tax base along with them."

Under the plan, some $1.2 million in taxes will be recaptured from the Northville school district this year, with as much as $2 million being recaptured in coming years. "That's going to be an annual increase in the operating costs for the school districts," Law said.

Law saw the state's use of lottery funds as the single biggest factor in the public's negative perception of school finance reform. While voters approved paying state lottery revenue into the school fund a decade ago, that money has simply offset funds taken out of the general fund that used to go to the schools. "Until the state actually puts the lottery in as a net increase as opposed to removing other funds from the school aid fund, I don't think we'll have public confidence in any program," Law said. "They know that they've been misled on that issue."

"Until we sell to the public the fact that they are getting something for their money, we can't ask them for more money," Law added.

PROPERTY TAX REFORM: — Property taxes are a hot political topic

Bargain shoppers

The weather cooperated for the annual downtown merchant's sidewalk sale last weekend. Above, shoppers roamed the closed streets of the downtown area looking for bargains from local merchants and for antique and arts and craft merchandise from booths in the streets.

Gunman surrenders to Novi police

By SHEILA PHILLIPS
Staff Writer

Novi police apprehended a gunman the night of July 29 after a two-hour siege of his mother's mobile home.

The 50-year-old man, whose identity is being withheld, peacefully surrendered his weapon without incident just before 1 a.m. after talking to officers since 10:50 p.m.

A police unit was called to the County Cousins Mobile Home Park located off Haggerty near Twelve Mile after the mother told police that her son, who was still inside her home, was dependent and in possession of a firearm.

The woman, who fled the home before calling, told police she had heard a shot fired from her home.

Allegedly the shot was fired into the yard, but police were unable to find the bullet, said Deputy Police Chief Richard Faulkner, who was called to the scene.

The gunman was placed in police custody following the incident and was undergoing psychiatric evaluation at Oakland Memorial Hospital in Madison Heights at press time.

Faulkner said the man, who has lived with his mother for about a year, has a history of psychiatric problems but this is the first incidence of violence.

It was unknown if criminal charges would be brought in the case. Police are awaiting the outcome of the psychiatric review to make that determination. However, the matter is expected to be turned over to the prosecutor at the close of that evaluation.

City sets goals for coming year

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

Northville's city council has agreed to an expanded list of goals for the coming year.

The nine goals include four originally proposed by City Manager Steven Walters and several added by the council.

Walters first recommended that the council focus on developing a plan for a new community library, adding recreation facilities, consolidating public services, and completing the construction and financing of a new parking deck.

But council members quickly added to the list, citing the need to consider more senior citizen services and facilities. Other council goals include reconfiguring the city's parking lots, implementing the remaining recommendations of the 1988 traffic study, and developing a local plan to meet the Wayne County Solid Waste Plan. The council has already begun planning those three goals.

Council members also cited the fate of the Ford Plant as an ongoing concern, and set negotiations with the Ford Motor Company over the plant's reuse as a goal.

The council set completion of the Master Plan currently being drafted by the planning commission as its final goal.

Rather than waiting a year to review their progress, council member Carolann Ayers suggested holding a formal review of the goals in three months. The suggestion was favored by other council members.

Another well-received idea was council member Jerry Mittman's recommendation to rate the city's list of 21 projects by category — such as high, medium or low priority.

The ongoing projects, considered less important or time-consuming than the goals and objectives, include the city's street repair and sidewalk repair programs, a new sidewalk policy, the Cady Corridor study, city participation in the trolley, and Fire Hall expansion.

The parking deck was moved from the goals to the projects list because the plan is already underway.

1990 NORTHVILLE TOWNSHIP TREASURER ELECTION

The Candidates' VIEWS IN SUMMARY

Four township treasurer candidates are vying for the Republican nomination in the Aug. 7 primary. No Democrats have announced an intention to run for the part-time position, which carries with it a seat on the township board. The winner of the primary is expected to run unopposed in the November general election.

The Record interviewed the candidates — incumbent Betty Lennox and challengers Rick Engelland, Jack Hosmer and William Butterfield. Following is a summation of their views on selected township issues from the interview series by Mike Tyree.

Biography

The treasurer candidates were asked why they wanted to run for the position.

Views on the Haller library proposal and the potential for the township to develop 72 acres on the corner of Six Mile and Sheldon roads.

Candidates were asked their views on the present system of shared services between the township and city.

The candidates discussed their views on the management of township finances.

Betty Lennox

A graduate of Michigan State University ... formerly township clerk and supervisor ... served 10 years as city finance director ... appointed treasurer in December 1989 to replace township Manager Richard Henningsen.

Lennox calls the Northville community "wonderful" and said it needs good direction during this period of rapid growth. She said growth control is necessary, especially the density in specific areas. Lennox said she wants to be a "tax watchdog."

As treasurer, Lennox voted with the board to expend $94,000 for architectural plans for the defeated Haller library plan. She hopes the township can still get the land and said the site would be ideal for much-needed recreation and township government facilities.

Lennox says the community can get much more for the tax dollar by the shared services plan, which she calls "a big benefit to the community." Thinks the residents should tell the township — through a survey — what services and township government functions are most important.

Lennox says she is "very conservative" about spending taxpayers' money. Felt it would have been irresponsible to not spend funds on an architect in order to acquire the Haller property. She says her first responsibility is to invest the taxpayers' money wisely. Another responsibility is to study the questions that come before the township board.

Rick Engelland

A graduate of Ohio State University ... master's degree from University of Colorado ... employed by Ford Motor Co. ... member of the township finance committee.

Engelland thinks the township needs a strong controller to monitor expenses and make government more responsive to residents. Is opposed to what he terms "tax hikes" for the Haller library and the township fire millage. He also says the township should diligently follow a competitive bidding process.

Engelland actively opposed the Haller plan and called it "a pipe dream." He thinks the property — if acquired — would be better suited as recreation space or as a school facility.

Engelland says shared services are a "necessity." He thinks the township and city should be working more closely to provide additional services such as a combined recycling center. Thinks government overall should sponsor fewer services.

Engelland favors a stringent budget review policy. He says "we've got to cut spending" and would do so in part by setting up departmental "flexible freeze" guidelines. Strongly favors competitive bidding process. Says innovation is needed to take care of perceived problems with township government.

Jack Hosmer

A graduate of Wayne State University, also holds a master's degree from WSU ... Director of Business and Finance for the Van Buren School District ... applied for treasurer position in November before appointment of Lennox.

After years as a family man, Hosmer wants to become active in local politics. Sees the position as an opportunity to become involved locally. Says his finance background makes him well-suited for the job. Thinks taxes are the main issue.

Hosmer called the merit of the library project "appealing" but said he did not agree with the proposed library funding plan. He feels a library may be funded with existing millage rates.

Hosmer says cooperative services spreads the cost of government programs. He thinks "common goals, common services" is the way to go. Says the township and city cannot operate independently.

Hosmer thinks stronger business climate would help township tax base. Is opposed to raising millage rates beyond current levels and thinks taxes are high enough to generate sufficient revenues. If elected, would press state legislators to provide property tax relief.

William Butterfield

A graduate of Eastern Michigan University ... retired from Detroit Diesel Corporation ... operations supervisor for Census 1990 ... 10 years participation in Northville Youth Soccer ... applied for treasurer position in November before appointment of Lennox.

Butterfield says voters should have a choice for treasurer. He says he can offer residents a fresh look at the position and says he has no previous political ties. He says he can devote full-time to the position.

Butterfield said the library plan was not a good idea, based on the high local tax rate. He said the priority item in the township is obtaining land for recreation purposes.

He says as long as there is an agreement on shared services, it is the most economical plan. Says township growth could create disproportionate spending on shared services.

Butterfield says job of treasurer is to show "good fiscal responsibility" and represent the residents. Thinks township's job is to maintain rural flavor of area and to keep a limited, small-time government. Is not in favor of expanding the role of township government.

Candidate cites need for adequate health care

insurance. "With the number of people that are uninsured, over a million in Michigan, the majority of those people are not the poor who at least have Medicaid, but the working poor, the people who are working for the small businessman and don't have health insurance. And so for the individuals to afford the cost of health care, for the providers to provide health care at a cost that the individual can afford, or for the small businessman to be able to provide health insurance to his employees — I think that's a major issue for our district."

ENVIRONMENTAL ISSUES: — Keen-McCarthy also considers the environment and toxic waste cleanup major issues. She noted the state house is currently arguing over different versions of a cleanup bill, and over whether polluters should be required to pay immediately or whether incentives should be offered first.

"I think we have to stop fighting and stop being partisan over what's going on and which plan is the best, and I think we need to move forward with cleaning up the toxic waste sites," she said, noting that few of the state's thousands of identified contaminated sites have been cleaned up, and newly identified sites are years away from cleanup.

But she said that current state guidelines make it easy for innocent business owners to get stuck with a contaminated site. "If I have a business and am selling property and do an environmental assessment and find there's a problem with it, there's no requirement that I have to report it," she said. "So you buying the property, if you're not told, and then you're the person who gets hit with the charges for having a polluted site."

ABORTION: — A pro-choice candidate on the abortion issue, Keen-McCarthy said "I respect everyone's right, but I believe that moral decision has to be made by the individual, and we need to protect the individual's right to make that decision." But she admitted being uncertain over the issue of Medicaid-funded abortions, which have been outlawed in this state.

For her, "Pro-choice" means recognizing that some people may choose against funding abortion through their tax dollars.

"I personally would prefer to pay for Medicaid-funded abortions; however, I understand the position of those people who do not believe in abortion and therefore don't want to be asked to pay for it," she said.

Keen-McCarthy also admitted to mixed emotions over requiring parental consent before a minor can have an abortion.

"I on the one hand have known of situations where having a requirement for parental consent would have been untenable, and on the other hand I have known of situations where the child is really not capable of making the decision," she said. She said options like judicial bypass would be necessary to allow minors an alternative to parental permission.

While many pro-life proponents insist that adoption is an alternative to abortion, Keen-McCarthy noted that adoption agencies have too many children and too few homes for them. "All of these agencies are actually turning away women who have decided to give up their children and they're unable to accommodate them; they don't have enough foster homes and they don't have enough adoptive parents and they don't have enough money to take care of the children," she said. "That's frightening. We don't have the families stepping forward to adopt the children."

OTHER ISSUES: — Keen-McCarthy said she sees her candidacy as an alternative to the status quo. "I think that the people in the community are tired of the status quo, and I think that they need to have the opportunity to look to other candidates and make a decision about whether or not they can add something to the process and whether or not they can be sure that their voices are going to be heard," she said. She criticized opponent Gerald Law's absence from the final week of the state house session to attend a business conference. "I was very surprised and very appalled that our district did not have a voice at all in the recapturing of the school funding, or in the final amendment.

Sale agreement near - DeMattia

By MIKE TYREE
Staff Writer

A purchase agreement between Wayne County and the proposed developer of 933 acres of county land in Northville Township should be completed within two months, the developer said recently.

And a county commission subcommittee review of the $32-million land deal should not slow progress on Huntington Falls, a combined industrial, residential and recreational project on the site, said Robert DeMattia.

DeMattia, whose firm heads up the development team, said subcommittee review was expected under terms of the deal announced in January.

"We have absolutely no problem with the commission at this time," he said. "The agreement with the county should be taken care of in 60 days."

The agreement is the last significant obstacle to be cleared in the long-awaited sale of the former Wayne County Child Development Center on Five Mile and Sheldon roads.

The five-member subcommittee first met July 11 to discuss the land sale. Committee chairperson Arthur Blackwell II said the review was based on questions raised by would-be developers who were dropped from consideration during the county's negotiating process.

The excluded developers charged the county's Jobs and Economic Development Department with unfairly dismissing them from the sale before a final bidding process began, Blackwell said.

DeMattia was unfazed by reports of the charges.

"We took on the biggest and the best there were in the development industry," DeMattia said. "We beat them and it's a known fact we're going to be here to see it through."

His group will not have to look far to monitor progress. DeMattia's base of operations is situated just across Five Mile from an area that is proposed as a 300-acre light industrial park.

The light industrial — or research and development — area will be buffered to the north by recreation space featuring a public golf course, DeMattia said.

Approximately 300 acres on either side of Sheldon Road is destined for residential development. DeMattia said build-out of the site will be "well over a billion dollars" over a 10-year period.

The Huntington Falls project has captured a considerable amount of attention, DeMattia said.

"We have three or four pages of people that want homes there," he said. "We also have been contacted by multi-national firms that want to establish research and development facilities there."

The on-again, off-again history of the sale may trouble veteran county land watchers, but DeMattia will not profess concerns.

"We're very aware of what is going on," he said. "The process is on schedule."

Victorian Festival tickets available

Flickering candlelight and romantic music. Handsome gentlemen in top hats. Beautiful ladies in petticoats and long splendid dresses. A scene from a romantic novel?

No, a scene from the annual Victorian Festival Costume Ball. Tickets for the ball go on sale tomorrow, Friday, Aug. 3 from 9 a.m. - 1 p.m. at the Northville Community Chamber of Commerce of 1100 S. Main St.

Ball tickets are $50 per person which includes entertainment — a civil war era band for dancing in historic New School Church complete with caller and instructions on period dances; a delightful Victorian light supper served amid flickering lights, bouquets of flowers, decorations and music, beer and wine.

This year's ball will accommodate 200 persons, with two separate dancing sets. Anyone wishing to be placed within a particular set (so that friends will not be separated) should purchase tickets as a group. A maximum of 10 tickets may be purchased by one person.

Tickets will be sold on a first come, first served basis until sold out. Reservations must be made in person and payment made at the time of reservation.

A second day of ticket sales will be held on Aug. 6 from 6 p.m. to 8 p.m.

Warrants sought in Novi Care case

By SHEILA PHILLIPS
Staff Writer

Police are seeking multiple warrants in connection with the alleged wrongful death of a 70-year-old Novi Care Center resident.

Esther Tauren died July 9 from aspiration of food while being fed her evening meal by one of the center's attendants. She was also dehydrated at the time of death, according to the Oakland County Medical Examiner.

Police are seeking multiple neglect charges, which are misdemeanors, in association with what they are calling a wrongful death. They planned to submit the case to the prosecutor yesterday, Aug. 1. Meeting results were unavailable by press time.

Police were expected to close the case last week but delayed submission in order to meet with a representative from the attorney general's health care fraud division, who ultimately advised the police to seek multiple neglect charges.

Lt. Robert Starnes also said there were time discrepancies in various employee accounts of the July 9 incident, so several had to be re-interviewed, also accounting for the delay.

The Novi Care Center is running its own investigation. It was expected to wrap up with the close of the police investigation yesterday. Previously, Care Center Administrator James Tiffin said he would not comment on the case until both investigations are complete.

In Tauren's death no ambulance was called, emergency life saving techniques were never used, and it is still unknown who officially pronounced her dead.

Previously police said the center's doctor pronounced her dead over the phone. However, Starnes said the doctor denies that allegation.

The controversial death has sparked an inquiry into the quality of care at the Meadowbrook Road facility, which is operating under Chapter 11 bankruptcy and is in the process of transferring ownership.

The facility has been operating at minimum staffing for some time, according to police.

Only one formal complaint has been lodged against Novi Care Center this year. However, three care complaints were filed in 1989 and seven in 1988, according to Dept. of Health records.

Tiffin said he does not want the press in the facility until after the investigation and refused to comment on the facility's quality of care, except that it meets state standards.

State Senate candidates ready for primary brawl

By SHEILA PHILLIPS
Staff Writer

Four candidates will duke it out in the Aug. 7 Republican primary for the chance to dethrone the Democratic incumbent Jack Faxon from his 15th District State Senate perch.

The district, which is neither a Republican nor Democratic stronghold, includes the communities of Farmington Hills, Farmington, Southfield, the Oakland county portion of Northville, Wixom, Lathrup Village, Oak Park, Huntington Woods, Ferndale and Southfield Township.

The following are brief sketches, political orientations and answers to questions:

DENISE ALEXANDER, 38, has been a family practice attorney for 14 years and is currently employed by the Birmingham firm of Carson, Fischer, Potts and Hyman.

She was elected to the Southfield City Council last November, after serving as a city planning commissioner since 1983. Her political resume also includes a 1981-82 stint as chairwoman of the Citizens Advisory Council for Southfield Tax Incremental Finance Authority.

In addition, Alexander is a past board member on the Michigan Project on Equal Education Rights and for the Planned Parenthood League of Michigan.

Reason for running: "We've been under-represented and the timing and the opportunity presented itself," she said. "I want to make the world a little better, and I think I have the ideas and intelligence to do it."

She believes education issues, including finance reform and education quality, should be at the top of the Legislature's list, and this would be her number one goal if elected. Stance on abortion Pro-choice and in favor of Medicaid funding for abortions.

"Abortion has become a political football, but I've been pro-choice forever. I don't think it should be a governmental issue, it's between a person and her God."

Educational finance reform: She believes that more money should be earmarked for education without raising taxes. Alexander explained that general fund money slated for education has been siphoned off by the current administration for prison expansions and other state programs.

"The Lottery has turned out to be a shell game," she commented. "Lottery money was supposed to complement existing general fund money but instead it has merely replaced it—we have to get that general fund money back."

In addition, she said existing funds are being misappropriated to exacerbate the educational funding crisis.

"There is so much waste," she commented. "You consolidate and redirect funding and taxes don't need to be increased."

She criticized the legislature's recent "Robin Hood" approach to educational funding, which increases funding to out-of-formula districts by taking funds from richer districts.

To ensure quality education for all students, especially those in poorer districts, Alexander advocates minimum per pupil expenditures across the state. Instead of "robbing" categorical money from the richer districts, however, she said the state should make up funding deficits in poorer districts by using the general fund money which should have been earmarked for education.

She also favors a state-wide core-curriculum requirement with a strong emphasis on math and science, longer school years, a merit pay structure for teachers and a revision of the tenure system.

Other issues: On the environmental front, she favors stronger state-wide environmental regulations to protect wetland and woodland areas, a more streamlined method of forcing polluters to pay for cleanups and state-wide packaging legislation to curb the solid waste stream.

She also favors millage and assessment increase caps, less governmental spending, cuts in small business taxes and revisions to the malpractice court structure to reduce health care insurance costs.

Alexander advocates changes in current evidentiary rules to help prosecutors gain convictions, without impeding on individual rights. She also favors pro-active youth programs to cut down on future drug abuse as well as a tiered mandatory sentence structure for drug related crimes, with kingpins receiving mandatory life in prison with no parole.

BEN MARKS, 67, a self-employed builder, has served as a Farmington Hills city councilman since 1984 and has been active with city government since joining the Election Charter Commission in 1972.

In addition, he served as chairman of both the Builders' Board of Appeals and the Building Authority, was vice chairman of the Housing Committee and a member of the Auburn Hills Planning Commission from 1979-84.

He recently secured the endorsement of former Oakland County Prosecutor L. Brooks Patterson.

Reason for running: "I think I did a good job in Farmington Hills," he said. "I represented my constituency. That's what I want to do in the 15th."

Position on Abortion: Pro-choice and favors Medicaid abortion funding.

"I think women have the right to be empowered to decide what to do with their bodies," he said.

Marks said he is willing to support some kind of consent bill but not one that mandates parental permission. "I think the family should have something to say but sometimes kids can't go to the parents because sometimes the problem starts in the home, especially if incest is involved. In those cases I think they should be able to go to a counselor or clergy member."

Educational finance reform: Favors a property tax reform package aimed at improving educational financing like the Patterson/Anderson package.

"I think the Patterson/Anderson proposal is a good start," he said. "The idea of setting minimum per pupil spending at $4,100 is a good idea."

If elected, Marks hopes to have more general fund money earmarked for education.

"For a long time the amount of money from the general fund allocated to education has been cut and replaced with lottery money," he said. "That wasn't the way it was supposed to be—lottery money was supposed to enhance general fund contributions, not replace it."

Other issues: Making sure lottery funds are earmarked for education in addition to general fund dollars—not merely as replacement funds.

Working to "catch-up" 15th District credibility in terms of senate leadership. "I would work to establish credibility and gain the respect of other senators because I don't think the senate has been taking the needs of our district seriously."

He also favors strengthening current mandatory life sentences with no chance of parole for drug crimes and advocates adding the death penalty for the actual suppliers.

TERRY SEVER, 39, served five years on the Farmington Hills City Council, and spent one term as mayor in 1989.

Sever, who owns his own print shop in Farmington Hills, is a long-time Jaycee, a South Farmington baseball coach, and the 1990 Farmington Youth Assistance Recognition Breakfast chairperson.

Reason for running: "The main reason I got into the race is the illegal sale of alcohol to minors and family oriented issues," he said. "I believe there needs to be more focus on the family and that our number one priority should be kids."

Position on Abortion: Pro-choice, opposes Medicaid funded abortions, and is in favor of parental consent legislation. He said abortion should be a "family decision", and should only be used as an alternative, not encouraged as a method of birth control.

Educational finance reform: Wishes to make education a number one budget priority.

"I would prioritize the amount of dollars available and put education at the top," he said.

However, he does not favor increasing taxes and feels that the state government is already spending enough money, just not as wisely as it should.

He favors decreasing prison spending and other state programs to increase educational funding. He proposes to earmark an additional three percent of the general fund to education each year, subtracting those funds from other programs. Ultimately, he would like education to receive 50 percent of the general fund, which is the level it was at before the advent of the lottery system.

Other issues: Stopping illegal sale of alcohol to minors has been one of Sever's goals as a council person, and he intends to carry the issue to the state level. He wants to institute stiffer mandatory misdemeanor penalties for alcohol related crimes involving minors.

He also favors increases in maximum misdemeanor penalties and fines.

Sever also feels that more should be done on the state level to reduce the solid waste stream. All levels of government should be required to purchase recycled materials. Sever also supports environmental packaging legislation to help cut down on the amount of garbage ending up in landfills.

In addition, he favors legislation which would force polluters to pay for environmental contamination cleanups.

ALFRED "BUD" SMITH, 63, is a sales engineer with Eagle-Picher Automotive Group in Inkster. He ran for the state house in 1984.

Smith, a Northville resident, is a World War II/Korea veteran.

He has a bachelor's degree in engineering from New York University, and two masters degrees from the University of Michigan.

Reason for running: "We need to send a message to the community why we need tax reform, crime and drug control, ecology and recycling programs and property tax relief for senior citizens," he said. Further-

Neil Woodward was another headliner at the Northville Bluegrass Festival

Fun Folk

Musicians entertain at festival

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

The sounds of singing and clapping echoed from Ford Field Sunday afternoon as some 1,000 music lovers celebrated Northville's 14th Annual Folk & Bluegrass Festival.

The day-long concert topped last year's attendance figures, though it fell below previous highs of 1,500.

"We had a good day and a pretty good crowd, but I always look for a little more," said festival-organizer Tom Rice. Rice, owner of the Gifted Music Shop, started the festival 14 years ago to raise funds for the fight against Huntington's Disease, which claimed the life of his sister Donna Jarski and friend Woodie Guthrie.

Rice said that Sunday's crowd was particularly enthusiastic towards all six of the festival's performers.

Robert Jones played traditional blues songs and was accompanied on several by string virtuoso Neil Woodward, the Fritts Family performed authentic bluegrass tunes, and the Ann Arbor band Footloose played a mixed bag of musical numbers.

Headliner Dan Crary wowed the crowd with his renowned flat-picking guitar wizardry, and vocalist Kitty Donohoe soothed the gathering with her own and others' soulful songs.

"The one guy that just always seems to delight the audience is Neil Woodward," Rice said, adding that every performer appealed to at least part of the crowd.

"You'd see people getting up and dancing to Dan Crary, because he's got such an amazing rhythm with his guitar, and then they'd lay back and listen to the beautiful ballads by Neil and Kitty."

This year's finale was a special one, Rice added. The crowd listened intently to a tape of Marjorie Guthrie, late wife of folk legend Woodie Guthrie. On it, she described the disease which claimed her husband's life in 1967, and the efforts she and others have made to band together and fight the debilitating illness and the ignorance that surrounds it.

The performers then joined together on stage to sing Guthrie's song "This Land Is Your Land."

"Everybody got up and clapped and sang, and it was a real powerful moment," Rice said.

Rice also found some volunteers at the festival, people willing to help him promote and organize the event next year. "Instead of me taking on all of it myself, I've got some help," he said.

The concert netted about $5,000 profit. Profits go to the Huntington's Disease Foundation of America, which sponsors medical research and public awareness of the disease.

Township sued by foes

The commission's responsibilities include following township zoning ordinances, said township Planning and Zoning Administrator Carol Maise.

"Churches are approved uses for a residential area," Maise said. "This site plan was reviewed six times; it was done in a very thorough manner."

In addition to the six planning commission reviews, Maise said the township took many steps before approving the plan.

"There were consultants' letters, attorney opinions and a site inspection by the planning commission in March," Maise said. "I feel this one has had more thorough review than others of this size."

Northrop, whose home is separated by fence from the St. James property, said the township did not inform residents of the church plans in a timely manner.

"If they intended to do this properly, they would have come here and told us," he said. "I think the planning commission should have addressed this with the people."

Maise said neighboring residents of the church property were informed by mail of the original October site plan request.

"They all have had ample opportunity to speak since day one," she said.

Marino has been a vocal critic of the church plan. She said township-ordered landscape buffers are insufficient to shield her property from the church.

"It's so out-of-character with the area," she said. "And there's no controlling what will go on there."

Northrup and Phillips said they are concerned that an unattended parking lot will attract problems during evening hours.

"I can envision people coming to the back of the church parking lot drinking and being involved in drug use," Phillips said.

"We don't need a bunch of horns blaring and drunken kids running through there," Northrup said.

Maise said the church parking lot — designed for use by 21 cars — will be illuminated and that the church cannot begin services until landscaping guidelines have been followed.

Construction of a wall and planting of large trees and other foliage are mandated by the township before occupancy, she said.

As of Tuesday, the township had not been officially notified of the suit, Maise said. She said the planning commission operated under the guidelines of the special use provision of the zoning ordinance.

"The commission has been under the assumption that they have to approve a plan if all the conditions are met," she said. "If a court determines that we can discriminate ... it will be clarified."

Long-time township resident Northrup was angered by the planning commission decision.

"If somebody had told me a year ago they were going to put this there, I'd have been surprised as hell," he said. "If I can't have a little privacy in my back yard ..."

Is church hurting sales?

By MIKE TYREE
Staff Writer

Locating St. James American Catholic Church on Six Mile Road has adversely affected sales at a nearby residential development, an architect said this week.

Bradley Moore, architect for the Lairdhaven cluster homes development, said a sales slump has coincided with the arrival of the church plans.

"They haven't been able to sell a unit since the church project was announced," Moore said. "People don't want a church in their backyard; it devalues the property."

Moore said residents and financial principals of Lairdhaven are plaintiffs in a suit filed against the township, planning commission and building department.

"People are concerned about their right of peaceful use of their property," Moore said. "We have studies that indicate that we can't get people to spend $250,000 and up here specifically because of the church."

Moore said a letter he received from a Plymouth real estate agent was evidence that the church site had a negative impact on potential homebuyers.

Richard A. Slusher, of Remerica Hometowns Realtors and a marketing representative for Lairdhaven, wrote that he has "experienced great difficulty in creating interest in the cluster homes once it is known of the potential of a church being located directly behind a $300,000 investment."

Township Planning and Zoning Administrator Carol Maise said church site critics have no real documentation that property is negatively impacted by a nearby church.

"This issue was brought up earlier," she said. "I checked with the township assessor and was informed that this was not necessarily true. There's no indication from the asses-

Cable surveyed homes in Northville and Plymouth townships that are located near churches and found that average assessments have risen considerably since 1987 and 1988.

"You can see," Cable said in the letter to planners, "the proximity of a church to ... these properties does not seem to cause a diminishing of property values."

Judge race hot for Oakland County Circuit Court

By SHEILA PHILLIPS
Staff Writer

Voters will choose two new Oakland County Circuit Court judges this year from a pool of six contenders.

The Aug. 7 primary will narrow the race for these newly created positions to four judicial hopefuls, who will slug it out for 10 year and six-year terms.

The highest vote getter in the Nov. 6 general election, will receive the 10 year post and the second place finisher, the six-year term.

The following is a brief synopsis of each candidate vying for the $98,081 a year position.

Vote for two

THOMAS BRENNAN, 44, is a general practice attorney in the firm of Brennan, Matrangola, Cross and Carmony in Utica.

The Troy resident received his undergraduate degree from John Carroll University in Ohio and his J.D. from Detroit College of Law in 1974.

Brennan has practiced law for 16 years, handling a variety of cases in Macomb, Oakland and Wayne County Circuit Courts. He estimates that 30 percent of his cases are criminal, 25 percent domestic, 25 percent probate and the remainder are civil in nature.

Bar rating: Qualified, but not recommended (the bar does not disclose the reasoning behind their ranking, which is partially based on interviews with the candidates' peers).

Civic Searchlight rating: Qualified. Comments on qualifications: "I have a good temperament, good work habits, a lot of trial experience and feel I'd make a good judge," he said.

He admitted the judicial notoriety of his last name was one reason he considered running. "I am proud of my name, and if it's enough to get me through the election, I'm going to use it," he said.

Campaign spending: $1,500 of his personal money. "If I have to buy the job, I don't want it," he commented. Solutions to problems plaguing Circuit Court: Brennan said the biggest problem is the number of cases coming through the court. His solution is that judges should work harder.

"Judges have to work hard and move cases, even if it means long hours and staying past five on the bench," he said.

Other comments: He is against mandatory sentences, and frowns on attorney rule 11 sanctions, which penalize attorneys for supplying inaccurate information.

He favors alternative sentencing for first time and lesser second time offenders.

DENNIS DRURY, 48, is the current chief judge of the 52nd District Court. He has been a district court judge since 1984, when he was appointed to the fourth division of the 52nd District Court in Troy.

Prior to his judgeship, Drury worked as a self-employed attorney, and was partners with Oakland County Circuit Court Judge Steven Andrews.

Drury estimated that nearly 40 percent of his cases were domestic, 20 percent civil and the remaining 40 percent was primarily criminal matters.

He earned his law degree from the University of Michigan and holds bachelor's degrees from DePauw University and Michigan State University.

Bar rating: Outstanding — he is the only candidate to earn this distinction.

Civic Searchlight rating: Preferred and well qualified.

Comments on qualifications: "I've been a district court judge for six years and would like to move to the circuit court level," he said.

"I have presided over hundreds of trials, jury and non-jury, in criminal and civil cases. My tenure as a trial judge has established credibility with the trial bar. Further, I strive to treat all litigants and counsel with courtesy and respect."

Campaign spending: "I'll probably spend less than any other candidate," he said. "I'd like to say I am spending a lot, but I'm not." However, he did not offer any specific figure.

Solutions to problems plaguing Circuit Court: "The major problems facing all courts is treating increased quantities of case with quality justice," he said. "My experience as at trial judge will avoid any training or orientation delays when assuming this position."

"Within 30 days of filing an answer to civil cases, all of my case are set for a status conference," he added. "At that time certain dates are set for cut-off of discovery, mediation, pretrial conference and trials."

Other issues: He considers drunk driving a crime of violence, is not fond of mandatory sentences but understands why they are imposed by law-makers, and is in favor of establishing a separate family court so that judges can devote more time to these sensitive matters. He also supports alternative sentencing for first time offenders and for repeat offenders of nonviolent crimes as long as treatment can be helpful.

RUDY NICHOLS, 44, has been a state senator since 1984 and is the current chairperson of the Senate Judiciary Committee. Prior to attaining this post, Nichols spent a term in the state house.

Before his legislative stint, Nichols acted as a personal injury and divorce attorney for Booth, Patterson, Lee, Karstrom and Steckling in Waterford from 1974 to 1976. In addition, he served as an assistant city attorney for Pontiac for six years.

However, he has not appeared on behalf of a client in the last five years.

Bar rating: Not rated. Nichols refused to sign the libel waiver necessary to be considered by the bar. Civic Searchlight rating: Well qualified.

Comments on qualifications: "I think I would be a good judge because my background makes me the most uniquely qualified candidate — I have been a judicial clerk, a lawyer and a legislator, so I have seen the law from all sides."

"Also, my kids are getting older and I want to be closer to home so I can spend more time with them and dedicate more time to my legal background," he said.

Campaign spending: Nichols plans to spend between $85,000 to $150,000.

Solutions to problems plaguing Circuit Court: "Caseloads are always a problem, that is why we have these two new judgeships," he said.

"I think the solution is starting at 8 a.m. and finishing when your docket is done — if that means working 60 hours a week, then so be it because that is what public service is all about."

Other issues: He feels judges should follow through on the legislative intent of the law in lieu of trying to create law. He is not an advocate of mandatory sentences but said he would follow the law.

COLLEEN O'BRIEN, 34, is a trial attorney for Thomas J. Cory and Associates in Southfield. She also acts as an Oakland County Mediator and is a hearing panel member of the Attorney Discipline Board.

During her first five years as an attorney, O'Brien handled numerous personal injury cases as well as some criminal, domestic and contract matters. She estimates that 35 percent of her cases were personal injury, 25 percent criminal, 35 percent domestic relations and five percent civil.

For the past three years, she has been house counsel for Farmers Insurance Group and defends clients in a variety of third party auto case, premises liability, employment matters and property damage cases.

She graduated from Detroit College of Law in 1981 and received her bachelor's degree from the University of Michigan in 1978.

Bar rating: Qualified. Civic Searchlight rating: Qualified. Comments on qualifications: "It is absolutely essential that Circuit Court Judges possess knowledge and understanding in a wide range of areas of the law," she said. "If elected, I will have nine years of intensive Circuit Court litigation experience in every area of law which a Circuit Judge will encounter."

Campaign spending: O'Brien spent approximately $10,000 in the primary and plans to spend another $10,000 in the general election.

Solutions to problems plaguing Circuit Court: "The most serious problem facing the Oakland County Circuit Court is docket congestion," she said.

"As a judge, the first step which I would take to alleviate this problem is working hard and putting in the necessary hours whatever they may be," she said. "Secondly, I would recommend and encourage alternative dispute resolution wherever appropriate — I strongly support arbitration and mediation as a method to encourage and expedite settlements."

She offered four other solutions to help expedite court cases. Holding telephone pre-trials to save time and cost, concentrating on certain trial dates and avoiding postponements, hearing domestic matters on a separate day to avoid lengthy trial delays and using the Friend of the Court as a referee before going to the Circuit Court.

Other issues: Supports alternate sentencing except in violent crimes, has no moral problems using mandatory sentencing.

When asked about her experience as compared to her opponents, O'Brien said, "You can do something 20 years or do the same year over again 20 times."

She added that "district court judges don't handle domestic matters and that is over one-third of the docket and I am experienced on domestic matters."

JAMES SHEEHY, 47, has been a judge at the third division of the 52nd District Court in Rochester since 1980.

He has been presiding judge for three terms, has been acting Circuit Judge and Probate Judge by special appointment.

Prior to becoming a judge, Sheehy was prosecutor for the Township of Pontiac and was special outside counsel for K-Mart Corporation.

Bar rating: Well qualified. Civic Searchlight rating: Preferred and well qualified.

Comments on qualifications: "I'm well qualified and experienced," he said. "It takes over three years to get comfortable on the bench and to be a good judge — I am comfortable with the job."

"If elected, I would do the same things I am doing in Rochester," he added. "My biggest complaint from people is that they get to court too fast — I go to work everyday, get things done and people don't have to wait, that's the way a courtroom should be run."

Campaign spending: Estimated that he will spend about $100,000 on the primary.

Other issues: When asked about the role of the judiciary, Sheehy said, "The judge should be the umpire behind the plate, sometimes attorneys strike-out, sometimes they get a hit and sometimes a homerun."

"They can do everything the same on two different nights in front of two different judges and have two totally different outcomes because every judge has a different strike zone."

When asked about his ability to decide on domestic matters, he said, "divorce is a terrible thing, so I think a hands on approach should be used to let the litigants know that you are there and to calm the litigants down."

DEBORAH TYNER, 34, is a partner in Sommers, Schwartz, Silver and Schwartz in Southfield. Her current practice is made up predominately of civil and employment law cases.

Prior to private practice, Tyner served five years as an assistant Wayne County prosecutor in the felony trial division.

Bar rating: Well qualified. Civic Searchlight rating: Qualified.

Comments on qualifications: "I have always wanted to be a judge ever since I was in law school," she said. "I now believe that I have the trial experience as well as the civil experience necessary."

Tyner said she misses the public service aspect of being an assistant prosecutor and this also prompted her candidacy.

Campaign spending: Plans to spend between $150,000 and $200,000 on the race, including the primary and general election.

"I am obviously running a very visual campaign but my head is into being a judge," she commented.

Solutions to problems plaguing Circuit Court: "The increased cost of litigation has resulted in the Court becoming inaccessible for the average individual; overburdened Court dockets, alienation of victims and jurors from the system; improving protocol between judges, attorneys and litigants in the courtroom."

"My solutions include seeking to reduce lengthy delays, discouraging the filing of unnecessary motions, and becoming actively involved in the settlement process."

Other issues: Believes that a judge should have a strong ego with a lot of humility.

She commented that her campaign slogan "Tough Justice", which appears on all her literature and signs, should not be misinterpreted to mean a lack of compassion on the bench. It simply means she has "the ability to make tough decisions."

School reform and property taxes top issues—Law

this campaign, but Law is uncertain what can be done to curb them. "Property tax unfortunately is now $6.6 billion, by far the biggest locomotive tax revenue engine in the state," he said. "It's become the biggest tax provider in the state of Michigan, and unfortunately it's not easy to maneuver it around without replacing lost dollars, because all you hurt is the local community."

An across-the-board cut in property taxes would slash funding for local schools, police and fire departments, he said.

"I'm all for a program that would at least do this much—limit the rate of growth in assessments to inflation. I think in my area, even though Headlee does a decent job of that, people don't fully understand it."

Changes to the state's Homestead Act could also help relieve the property tax burden, Law said. He suggested raising the amount of the tax break offered under the act from $1,200 to $2,600 and letting the amount grow with inflation, and removing the $70,000 cap on household income. "If you exceed that cap, you cannot apply for any relief from the state, no matter how high your taxes are in relation to your income," Law noted. "I represent a district where with husband and wife working, household incomes are higher than that."

"So if we improve the formula, that's a direct benefit to anybody whose income is not growing as fast as their property taxes are."

Law foresaw the necessity of a grass-roots campaign for property tax reform. "The school financing and property tax system will probably have to be decided by the voters of the state and for one reason—we will have to amend the constitution to do it," he said. "Now whether it will be a grass-roots approach or whether the legislature will put it on is a big debate, simply because anything the legislature puts on, the public has no confidence in and they tend to vote no."

ABORTION:—Law has favored tighter restrictions on abortion during his four terms. "I've always been a pro-life legislator and my views are primarily based on my religion," he said. He said he has supported recent parental consent legislation with a judicial bypass alternative. The alternative would allow minors seeking abortions to get permission from a judge if they cannot seek parental consent.

"I don't think there's going to be a real problem with people, even young people being denied an abortion for legitimate reasons," Law said.

Law also noted that the abortion issue has come before the state only twice in the last 15 years, first when voters turned down Medicaid funding of abortions and now as the legislature considers parental consent legislation.

"So in the next 10 years, maybe we'll have one or two. Maybe not. But a lot of it depends on the federal courts and the Supreme Court of the United States interpreting what are state authorities and what are federal," he said.

ENVIRONMENTAL CONCERNS:—As far as cleanup of toxic waste sites, Law said he favors relaxing the state's strict cleanup standards. "We think they've been arbitrary and inflexible, and they're much higher than the federal standards," he said. Rather than requiring businesses to clean an area better than it was before, Law said that polluters should be required to clean sites to the extent that they meet federal standards and are no longer a health problem.

"I think we've got to make more progress," he said. "It doesn't do us any good to sit around to clean up 10 sites and have 2,000 unclear."

Law also considers the sole use of litigation in enforcing cleanup an ineffective approach. He suggested a mediation process involving engineers and technicians as a quicker and less expensive alternative.

Law also favors charging the polluters with the cost, but, he warned, "It is possible for a company that is just a minor, minor player to be stuck with the entire cost of the cleanup under today's rules if they're the only one with assets. That's not really fair."

"We have to apportion the costs out a little better," he said, suggesting the establishment of a revolving loan funds financed by the private sector.

OTHER ISSUES:—Law also cited his involvement with several local issues as further indicators of his legislative concern. "To me they're always as important as the lofty goals of property and school finance reform and environmental cleanup," he said.

One of his first battles as a representative was setting guidelines on the state prisons built in the district. "We have the only prisons in the state that are not overcrowded, simply because of legislation," he said.

When the prisons were first built Law was involved in the fight to limit their size and insure adequate security. "Our compromise was that we have in statute now the only moratorium, in other words the state cannot build, lease, run construct or do anything in Northville or Plymouth Township on a correctional facility, and in that legislation we also set and capped the number of prisoners in each one of those prisons," he said. "We did not want trustee camps with people walking away from all the time."

Law said he also fights for Northville Township's full share of state revenue every year owed due to population increases. The township held a mid-year census to prove that its population had grown significantly, but the state does not always recognize that fact, Law said.

"Every year the state tries not to pay all the communities that have had increases and proved it," he said. "The Governor does not want to do it, but it means over $100,000 to Northville Township." Law also works to ensure that the city receives its full share of state racetrack revenue from the Northville Downs, some $900,000. The city has received as little as $500,000 some years.

Law also cited the success of his compromise agreement with the Department of Natural Resources to give Northville, Plymouth and Canton townships at least 10 days notice before the DNR grants drilling permits to oil or gas companies. "Under the way the law is written now, they're not obligated to give us any notice," Law said. "That's something that we'll continually have to monitor. We won't know how well it works until it happens. But it's at least better than where we were."

County Commission square-off

By SHEILA PHILLIPS
Staff Writer

Two County Commission candidates will battle for the 24th District Republican nomination in the Aug. 7 primary.

Voters will either choose Novi's Kay Schmid or Lyon Township's Michael Teagan, with the winner facing the Democratic challenger, South Lyon Mayor Jeff Potter, in the Nov. 6 general election.

There is no incumbent in this race because John Calandro has elected not to run for another two-year term. The 24th District includes Novi, South Lyon, Lyon Township and a portion of the city of Northville.

The following is a brief synopsis on both the two Republican hopefuls:

KAY SCHMID, 53, a Novi resident, is one of four party leaders on the Michigan Republican State Committee and a founding member of the Republican Women of West Oakland.

Schmid has strong ties to Novi, serving as chairperson of Michigan Week Festivities and treasurer of the Civic Center Planning Committee.

In addition, she has worked as a local precinct delegate since 1977 and was the Novi City District Manager and Southwest Area Director to the Republican Party.

Schmid, the wife of former Novi Mayor Bob Schmid, has collected endorsements from Oakland County Sheriff John Nichols, State Representative Willis Bullard and Novi City Council members Tim Pope and Nancy Cassis.

Key issues: Schmid feels that solid waste and transportation are of primary concern.

Schmid said she will work to get the county solid waste plan in place. She also hopes to insure that user fees and not tax dollars ultimately pay for the program which will be financed through limited obligation bonds.

She feels that more money should be earmarked for roads and additional tools should be created to raise revenue for needed improvements, such as impact fees for developers.

Campaign Expenditures: Plans to spend approximately $5,000 on the primary and a little less for the general election. She plans to raise money through local fundraisers.

Time available: Schmid is not working presently and, if elected, can dedicate whatever time is needed to the commission post. "At this point in my life, I have the time to spend in order to do the job the way it should be done," she said. "I would be able to talk to my constituents and local city governments to get to know their concerns and represent those concerns at a county level."

Other comments: "I feel I can represent the whole district," she said. "Novi is the fastest growing community in Oakland County and I have seen the problems that growth has brought so I can help South Lyon and Lyon Township deal with it and get through their growth period."

Schmid said she also would see herself as mediator between annexation problems between South Lyon and Lyon Township.

As an example of her commitment to becoming a commissioner, Schmid said she has regularly attended county board meetings since announcing her candidacy, to get acquainted with current commissioners and get a feel for how the body works.

MICHAEL TEAGAN, 42, is a member of General Motors legal staff and is employed in the product liability section.

He ran for Lyon Township Supervisor in 1988 as a Democrat, winning the primary but losing to the incumbent in the general election. Key issues: Teagan feels that controlling development, improving roads and dealing with solid waste issues will be at the forefront of county politics over the next two years.

"I feel that southwest Oakland County has been overlooked in terms of road funds," he said. "All the money keeps going to northern communities in the county, which are less developed."

Teagan said he is not happy with the current solid waste plan and feels that too much money was spent trying to site the county landfill, which was left ambiguous in the solid waste plan. He wants to make sure that a smaller version of the county landfill does not ultimately end up in the 24th District.

Campaign expenditures: Will spend whatever he receives in donations. However, he is not actively soliciting donations. "I don't want to be owing anybody," he commented.

Time available: "I am willing to devote two or three days a week if elected," he said.

"I also think that a commissioner should attend meetings for all three communities regularly, not on a weekly basis but at least one meeting a month so he can act as an intermediary between the county and local governments."

Other comments: "I live in the middle of the district and feel that I can represent all three areas equally," he said.

William Purdy Yerkes was born in Ovid, New York and came to the Northville area as a young child in 1826 with his parents William and Hester (Dennis), and three brothers and sisters. He married Sarah, daughter of Daniel Cady, on Dec. 16, 1864. He served as Northville's first Village President in 1867. William was a judge of probate in Detroit and a prominent local attorney. The Northville Record

Law's experience gains him the nod

This year's race for the 36th district state representative seat pits a proven political figure against a newcomer to politics.

Typically in such contests, incumbents who have done anything more than simply keep their house seat warm are reelected.

Thankfully, Northville voters have something more to look to in their incumbent, Gerald Law (R-Plymouth). Although we have criticized him in the past for being something of a do-nothing politician, filing few meaningful House bills, Law has been more active lately in state politics. And few can fault him for ignoring important local issues.

Law has always voted and worked for his district. He was instrumental in the fight to gain Northville, Plymouth and Canton townships advance warning of DNR approval for oil and gas drilling permits, and in setting strict guidelines on the state correctional facilities built in his district.

Law also knows the issues surrounding school funding and property taxes, and he is realistic about the chances for their reform. That certainly can't be said of all state politicians.

While opponent Kathleen Keen-McCarthy echoes public sentiment about property taxes and other important issues, her total lack of political experience makes us fear she would be ineffective as a state representative.

We believe GERALD LAW — with his four terms of political experience and interest in local issues — is still the best candidate for the job.

We recommend that Northville residents reelect him to his house seat in the Aug. 7 Republican primary.

Alexander deserves senate nomination

Out of the four candidates fighting for the Republican nomination in the 15th Senate District, Denise Alexander is best qualified to challenge Democratic incumbent Jack Faxon in November.

The Southfield City Council member is articulate, intelligent and willing to take an unpopular stance when she's convinced she is right. Her pro-choice stance and ideas about current fiscal needs show honesty and thought.

Alexander has obviously done her homework and is able to offer concrete solutions to problems plaguing not only this district, but the entire state.

Her candor and willingness to explain the reasoning behind her positions to constituents is refreshing and it is something the public deserves.

Alexander has displayed her commitment to the public as a Southfield City Council member. For example, she was the only council person to vote against putting a three-mill Southfield tax proposal on the upcoming ballot.

As the Republican nominee, she will give voters a fresh alternative when they go to the polls on Nov. 6.

Schmid has clout

Kay Schmid should clearly be the Republican nominee for the 24th District seat on the Oakland County Commission, for the chance to face Democrat Jeff Potter in the race to fill John Calandro's big shoes.

She is more experienced than her opponent Michael Teagan and more in tune with the issues.

Schmid also seems sincerely interested in the position, evidenced by the fact she has been regularly attending county board meetings since announcing her candidacy.

She also holds the political clout needed to get things accomplished in the county arena. She has garnered endorsements from several key Republican players and is a long-time political ally of Calandro. As a former Democrat, Teagan would not have the same pull.

Schmid does need to center more on solutions. She knows what the problems are and how the county government works; now she needs to analyze those problems and come up with concrete ways of dealing with them.

Drury, Sheehy

All six of the candidates vying for Oakland County Circuit Court posts appear qualified. However, one judicial hopeful clearly leads the pack: DENNIS DRURY.

Based on conversations with numerous judges and lawyers, the chief judge of the 52nd District Court is admired and well respected by the legal community.

As further evidence of his judicial skills, he was the only candidate the Oakland County Bar Association gave an "outstanding" rating. He also received a "well qualified and preferred" standing from Civic Searchlight.

With six years of experience at the district court level, it is clear that he would have the insight needed to assume the Circuit Court bench.

Out of the remaining five candidates, JAMES SHEEHY is slightly better than the rest.

His experience and credentials are impressive. He received a "well qualified" rating from the bar and a "well qualified and preferred" designation from Civic Searchlight.

He is perhaps the most experienced of all the candidates, with 10 years of judicial experience in the Rochester branch of the 52nd District Court, where he has handled numerous controversial cases without succumbing to public pressures.

It's often all too easy to overlook primary elections, what with less-than-full slates of candidates and anticipation of the general election just three months away.

But the primary is important, of course. Not only are many of November's candidates decided in the primary, but for township residents, a treasurer will be elected this Tuesday and an important millage question will be decided.

In addition, Oakland county residents of Northville will have two important contests on the Republican side: choosing between two candidates for the GOP nomination for county commissioner, and choosing one of four contestants to square off against Jack Faxon in November's state Senate race.

Below are our endorsements on a few contests of interest to local residents. Polls are open Tuesday from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m.; don't miss your chance at democracy.

Fire millage gets nod - at .33 mills

If there is one thing that a millage question ought to be, it is simple.

It is hard enough to get voters to respond favorably to a tax renewal or increase, but if you make the issue confusing — it can be disastrous.

Unfortunately, township officials have made the current proposal for a .5-mill tax for fire services just such a disaster. The fact that the confusion is over something as important as fire protection makes the disaster even bigger.

The millage question itself is basically straightforward. It allows township officials to levy up to .5 mill for fire operations. The confusing part is the way in which township officials have seceded over whether it is a renewal of the existing fire millage — or actually an increase.

Currently the township levies a .38-mill tax for fire services. That figure will be bumped back to .33 mill in 1990 due to Headlee Amendment rollbacks. If voters approve the .5-mill fire tax Tuesday, the township board will have the option of assessing the fire tax from 0 to .5 mill. It could be a renewal — if they keep the tax at .33 mills. It could be an increase — if they go past .33 mills.

See the problem? If voters wade through this mess we hope they will see that the township needs at least a .33-mill renewal to maintain fire services at the level they now exist. Township officials maintain the fire department budget is offset currently from the general fund. If that is true, and if the expenses incurred are indeed valid — then an increase may be called for. But valid proof must be shown before the increase is adopted.

We urge voters to vote YES on the fire millage question. But we further urge the township board to assess only up to .33 mills for 1990, until such time as a public hearing has been held and a thorough analysis made of the needs of the fire department. That's only fair considering the confusion surrounding this millage request.

Township residents should vote yes to maintain this vital fire service. However, voters should also make sure that officials show the need for any increase before they vote to assess it.

Lennox knows township best

Four Republican candidates are listed on the Aug. 7 primary ballot for the township treasurer position.

We are pleased that Jack Hosmer, Rick Engelland and William Butterfield chose to invest their time, money and talents to challenge incumbent Betty Lennox for the post and its accompanying seat on the township board. We like the quality of the treasurer field.

It would not be clichéd to say the interest shown by all four candidates indicates a growing concern about the role of government in the lives of Northville Township residents.

Many of the concerns we've heard throughout the primary campaign are real. Residents are weary of ever-increasing property tax bills. Heightened demand on township services — courtesy of the area's phenomenal growth pattern — stretches government and individual budgets to the limit.

And the township has made — and paid for — its mistakes during the past year.

But some of the township's problems are due to rapid expansion in areas that demand more in-house review by understaffed departments and commissions. High-priced attorneys and other outside specialists also play increasing, costly roles in the township.

Township government is evolving — and necessarily so — beyond the days when part-timers or community-minded volunteers can douse local government flash fires.

We do not believe township government can play its designed role while facing the pressures of intensive development under a "slash taxes at all costs" theory.

Familiarity with government finance is a key to the smooth operation of local government. We believe BETTY LENNOX — with a wealth of local political experience — is the best candidate for the job.

Experience places Lennox on a higher plateau than her opponents — though we feel she needs to prove she is her own person more often.

We expect her to provide a stronger voice on the board and in her position and to take an adamant and vocal stand to insure an open competitive bidding process when making board votes.

In addition we would hope that the ideas sparked by some spirited debate in the last few weeks will not be tossed out with the campaign signs. Lennox must play a larger role in helping township departments monitor expenses and set reasonable financial goals for each year — prior to the actual budget setting. Adopting a set of procedures for departmental budget increases is the first step toward limiting those increases. Wish lists should be a thing of the past.

Lennox needs to make sure she does her homework to be effective. We saw a lack of such during her presentation on a public safety director proposal and we sense some confusion in the present police chief search.

While the other three candidates show strengths in some areas, we really see no reason to vote Lennox out of office. She is honorable and seems dedicated to providing the Northville community a responsible voice in the treasurer position.

Lennox is a community person. She has many ties to both the city and township. With several shared services projects currently up in the air, Lennox could be a valuable go-between in the future of the community.

Another View A right

To the Editor:

As this is the last opportunity to speak prior to the election, I would like to make some observations based on other letters and articles which have appeared in the Northville Record.

Karen Woodside wrote in the July 19 issue praising your coverage of the treasurer's race, and rightly so. Not knowing this woman myself, I find her to be truly remarkable to have made her choice for treasurer based on your election coverage and the candidate interviews when only two of the four interviews had been published by that date.

On that same date, Richard Allen, Trustee, wrote of "flim flam" on the part of Citizens for a Better Northville. He claimed that "campaign literature accused" trustees of getting a 50-percent pay raise. In his next paragraph, Mr. Allen confirmed it! Where is the flim flam?

Mr. Allen also indicated that once the Township Board was aware that their fire millage "renewal" language grants a 50-percent tax increase it was too late to do anything about it. They were notified by a Citizens for a Better Northville member at the Board of Trustees meeting back in June. There was plenty of time to approve a resolution declaring that if passed, the millage would be assessed at the current level, but they never wrote the resolution.

James Nowka, Trustee, wrote in the July 26th issue of a "half-mill retention." When the current millage is .33, and the new millage (if approved) is .50, this "retention" includes a fifty percent increase. His statement that "This can represent a reduction of approximately $70,000 per year" perhaps should have read "the .17 mill in dispute here represents an additional $70,000 we would like you to pay." The balance of his letter does not deserve comment.

Finally, and most importantly, there was your headline article on July 23 which read "Millage question is renewal." With the confusion over the ballot language, how it pertains to the Headlee Amendment, and the township manager and township finance director both giving their interpretation, I thought it best to call Mr. Headlee's office for input. I was told that although the millage question includes an increase, it can be called a renewal. However, if approved, the township may begin assessing the full .5 mill immediately. There are no further public notices, hearings or testimony required.

Mr. Graham and Mr. Henningsen are incorrect in saying that a Truth-in-Taxation hearing must first be set. Truth-in-Taxation hearings are required for the township to justify assessing an amount greater than a rolled back assessment. In this case, approval of the millage moves the base amount back to .5 mill. The Headlee rollback would be based on this new rate and would not come into effect until next year at the earliest.

Is it deception, or are the current administrators innocently passing on inaccurate information? Will the next step be to once again accuse Citizens for a Better Northville and perhaps even Mr. Headlee's office of deception? Flim Flam or fact, as voters and taxpayers you must decide before Aug. 7. Make it happen!

Vote NO on the fire millage (renewal) increase!
Vote YES for Rick Engelland!

To the Editor:

I believe the residents of the City of Northville have the "right to know" what is currently being planned for them by our city officials. These planned major developments will definitely change the face of our city forever. They will affect the "quality of our lives" in the relationship to our residential neighborhoods, our downtown shopping, our streets and traffic patterns, taxes and the future prosperity of our city in general. They are as follows:

1. The Singh Main Centre Project - with office, residential and retail shops with a questionable (Victorian?) exterior.
2. The additional New Singh Multi-Story Office Building across from Main Centre - with additional offices and/or retail.
3. The new City Cady Street Parking Deck - with anywhere from four to six floors (four for sure, with the possible addition of two more floors), again with a questionable exterior (Victorian?).
4. The Re-Development of the New Cady Street - with the proposed commercial additions of office and/or retail?
5. The Center Street Bridge (Linking Main Centre, the New Singh Office Building and the New Cady Street Parking Deck) - with possible retail shops inside and a very questionable (Victorian?) exterior.
6. The Long Development Project on Main & Wing - with proposed additional office and retail.
7. The proposed Downtown Traffic Loop - with the guarantee of additional traffic in our residential neighborhoods.
8. The Re-Development of the MAGS parking lot and all other city parking lots - which at the present time is a "band-aid cure for a major surgical operation."
9. The city purchase of a Wing Street home - for a possible library location (next to the Post Office site).
10. What about the Re-development of the Ford Plant, the increasing vacant buildings in downtown Northville, and finally, the rebuilding of the vehicular bridge on Beal Street? How will these impact the "quality of life" in the City of Northville?

As I attend city council and commission meetings, I listen carefully to the new plans for our city. In March of 1989 our planning commission conducted a city wide survey on attitudes toward growth and development for the City of Northville. One of the questions on that survey that specifically dealt with City Development was:

"Attitudes on Commercial and Industrial Development. If additional land were to become available for commercial or industrial uses, what type would you prefer?"

The final report on this survey from R. Donald Wortman (of Ayres, Lewis, Norris & May, Inc.) our Planning Commission Consultant dated July 25, 1989 clearly stated the following in their report on the above question:

Responses here were generally negative: 69 percent did not want additional neighborhood shopping opportunities, over 77 percent did not want additional commercial development and over 55 percent did not want more industrial activity."

Maybe I am missing something, but with these current survey results in addition to the planned major new developments for our city, our elected and/or appointed officials, along with our planning commission consultant, appear to be moving in the opposite direction of the voting population?

I believe the residents in the City of Northville need to be more involved with their city government and attend these meetings. Our city officials need to be reminded that they serve for the good of the general public, not for specific interest groups. All city council and commission meetings are public meetings and are therefore open to public input on all issues. If the current level of city government initiative and activity remains constant, in a matter of three years or less, the face of our city will be drastically different (almost like the City of Birmingham).

Finally, I think it would be helpful if the Northville Record would print the Agendas of City Council and Commission Meetings (even if the meetings are over) in order to keep our citizenry more informed.

City of Northville Resident

New times

To the Editor:

For the first time in years, the voters in Northville Township have an opportunity to significantly alter the existing good old boy (good old girl) network. When is the last time a candidate so qualified for a board seat not been beholden to any special interest group or political machine?

While the other people running for the treasurers position have chosen to run a campaign void of knowledge of the issues, or refusal to confront them all together, Rick Engelland has published a concise platform dealing with the issues at hand, head on.

Planks the Engelland platform have addressed:

1. Taxes: Specifically the reasoning for the need to defeat the supposed fire millage renewal. An increase of .33 to .5 mill.
2. Open Government: Engelland advocated releasing the names for the police chief position and filming of township board meetings. Betty Lennox was opposed to both.
3. Competitive Bidding: Engelland would insist on competitive bidding on all major purchases. Unlike the procedure used in awarding the $300,000 Haller Library plan.
4. Budget Process: Engelland would institute a flexible freeze to control a budget process that has little.
5. Responsive Government: Engelland would demand public hearings, surveys and public input, before decisions take place. A practice that was needed on the Haller Library, Fire Millage and proposed Township Survey.

Of special interest is Rick Engelland's work as a citizen representative on the finance committee. He recommended $210,000 in easily attainable annual savings. More than enough to offset the existing .33 mills being assessed for fire. These suggestions were promptly rejected by the sitting board. It is unlikely that the issue of the supposed .5-mill renewal would have been shown to be what it really is, a 50-percent increase!

If not for Engelland's diligence in reviewing the budget, where was our tax watchdog on this one? Considering all these facts, it is obvious that Rick Engelland has the best sense of what government should be and a dynamism seldom seen on the township board.

On May 1 of this year voters came to the polls and registered their displeasure with the Haller Library tax. Rick Engelland is the only candidate that came out four-square against this scheme from the onset. We ask the same 2,000 voters to once again exercise your awesome power and pull the Engelland lever.

Rick Engelland: Make it happen.

Another side

To the Editor:

Good fire protection services are essential for home protection and affordable insurance rates and Northville Township Fire Department does provide good services.

Continuation of this level of service is not dependent upon passage of the fire millage on Aug. 7, since:

- The current fire millage contributes less than 5 percent of the township's total revenue.
- The fire millage is not a renewal, but a 50 percent increase (from .33 mill to .50 mill).
- Total township property tax revenue is up 51 percent this year.

Enough is enough! The tax I paid on my home to the township this year is 51 percent greater than last year. Did I receive 51 percent greater township services? I think not.

Return fiscal responsibility to the township. Vote no on Fire Millage increase on Aug. 7.

Restored

To the Editor:

A terrible and a wonderful thing happened to me today that I felt was newsworthy for your paper.

Early on Wednesday, July 25 I lost my wallet, which had all my identification, money and credit cards. Only a few hours after losing my wallet I received a call from Vicky who had found my wallet and returned it with all of its contents.

In this day and age of mostly unpleasant news in the media I felt it would be nice to announce the fact that there is still good and honest people around. This episode in my life has restored my faith in human nature.

In a previous column, I described this newspaper's commitment to using recycled newsprint to reduce the need to cut living trees for paper.

I also asked readers to send me suggestions about how people could recycle newspapers themselves. I got a fair number of interesting responses.

One came from a nice person in Northville who wrote:

"Like a lot of organic garden enthusiasts, I use newspapers . . . between the planted rows of seeds. This holds back the weeds, at the same time giving much needed mulch in times of drought.

"It is an easy matter to hold down the papers with small rocks, and with ensuing fall of rain, to add more papers to the papier mache which results. The paper degrades by itself and is dug into the ground in the fall along with compost."

Several readers suggested that old newspapers, when torn up or shredded, could be used in place of plastic foam to stuff cushions of porch and garden furniture. To avoid the wet papier mache effect, however, I suggest you take your cushions in before rain or even a heavy dew.

Editor & Publisher, a trade magazine, ran a piece which described a farming use involving shredded newspapers as bedding for cattle. The result proved to be a "clean, comfortable and absorbent bedding for cows that is free of bacterial contamination."

The same E&P piece quoted a story from the UK (United Kingdom) Press Gazette which quoted a farmer in Somerset who "discovered that the nutritional value of newspaper is similar to that of straw bran." It mentioned a picture in The Guardian which showed the man's prize Charolais happily munching "tons of old newspapers." The story ended: "It is not known which titles they prefer."

Another reader suggested that instead of using the exploded polystyrene pellets that are so ubiquitous (and non-degradable) in packages sent through the mail, senders can use torn or shredded newspapers. "Far less damaging to the environment," he wrote.

When I was a kid, I remember taking old newspapers, rolling them up tightly and tying them with thin rope. We then soaked them in chemicals according to the following recipe:

In a sink big enough to hold a rolled-up newspaper, run enough water to cover the roll. Dissolve as much table salt (yellow flame comes from sodium) and cream of tartar (for red flames) as the liquid will hold. Be sure not to inhale the dust.

Carefully dissolve powdered copper sulfate in the liquid to provide green and blue flames.

We soaked the logs thoroughly, then set them out to dry in the air. We put the dried rolls away with the wood.

Later, when we had a nice fire going in the fireplace, we'd put one of those paper logs on top, and in no time we had all kinds of colored flames — yellow, red, green, blue, violet.

And now that we have a 12-week-old puppy at home, the first step in housebreaking is paper training. We put puppy in the back hallway for the night and lay a section of newspaper on the floor. If he has to do his business, he learns to do it on the paper.

Enjoy. It turns out that preserving the environment is easier — and more fun — than it seems at first.

Walnut Creek Country Club ready to play

By DAVE WASKIN
Special Writer

Sprawling, elegant, friendly and growing — a foursome of words that fit Walnut Creek Country Club to a tee.

Located at 25501 Johns Road, north of Ten Mile Road in Lyon Township, the course occupies the site of what was formerly Godwin Glen public golf course. The club has continued to improve and expand its new home since moving from Farmington Hills in 1987.

"We're trying to let everyone in the area here know that we have a club that's going to be one of the premier clubs in the state within just a couple of years," said Ross Standlee, membership director.

"Not only do we have a $5.5 million clubhouse, but we'll also have 27 holes of golf, a brand new Olympic swimming pool, and tennis courts open this summer."

Included in the clubhouse, which opened just last July, is a Mixed Grille, a Men's Grille, and a formal dining room which seats approximately 200 people and offers different specialties each day.

"Another thing we have at this club that very few clubs around have is one of the best practice facilities," said Ray Brunett, a member of the club's board of directors. "We have a range that's 150 yards wide, two-tiered, and over 300 yards long. It's not adjacent to any road — almost any club around has that problem with practice facilities."

Part of the reason that Walnut Creek Country Club has no difficulty with road proximity is its size — over 350 acres. "It (Farmington) was a good club," said Thomas MacFarland, club member in charge of public relations. "But it was getting squeezed in."

"They're planning to widen Twelve Mile and also Haggerty Road. That could have taken into our parking lot. The club could have purchased additional land years ago and didn't. They got into a situation where there just wasn't enough land for the membership."

"Not only do we have a $5.5 million clubhouse, but we'll also have 27 holes of golf, a brand new Olympic swimming pool, and tennis courts open this summer."

Ross Standlee
Membership Director

The Farmington Country Club occupied a total of 140 acres, 126 of which were available at the time of its move. The availability of land at the Lyon Township location made the move attractive to the club's board and members.

"When we purchased this golf course, we also bought an additional 89 acres of land which is over on the southwest corner of our club," MacFarland said. "That's where they're going to add an additional nine holes."

A timetable has yet to be set for the development of those nine additional holes, but when completed it would raise the club total to 36 golf holes, a rare amount even for a country club.

Currently, nine of the club's existing 27 holes are in the final stages of being redesigned by golf architect Art Hill. The nine holes are expected to reopen early this month.

The initial fee for joining Walnut Creek Country Club as a full member is $24,000. Monthly dues are $230 and membership includes privileges to all club facilities. Social memberships are also available for an initial fee of approximately $2,500 and half the monthly dues of a full membership.

Social membership privileges include limited access to the golf course (for a greens fee) and full access to other club facilities. The club has a capacity of 375 members, and ap-

Make painful decisions early

Survivors are often ill equipped to deal with the consequences of a spouse's death; pressing financial and practical matters seem somehow insignificant and overwhelming all at once. Suddenly, you're confronted with unfamiliar tasks at a time when your inner resources are at an all-time low.

The Michigan Association of CPAs suggests that you prepare for the possibility of a spouse's death far in advance, when your wits — and your spouse — are still with you. Your first priority should be writing wills. These critical documents guide survivors on subjects ranging from the distribution of assets, to guardianship of children, to an individual's preference in funeral arrangements.

Funeral arrangements may be the hardest topic to discuss with your spouse, but an open discussion and mutually arrived at decisions can save a spouse from having to rapidly plan heart-wrenching funeral arrangements in the earliest period of mourning when grief and time pressures are most debilitating.

When writing a will, assess your current financial situation and also project the future value of assets. If your estate is worth more than $600,000, you should consult a tax specialist to prevent your estate from being unnecessarily depleted by federal and state taxes. To ensure a faster, less complicated transfer of property, consider a living trust. Keep in mind, too, that property which is jointly owned — for example your house — will automatically pass to your spouse without any drawn-out legal proceedings. An attorney will be able to explain the benefits and drawbacks of both living trusts and joint ownership.

In addition to a will, you should draw up a letter of instructions — a simple list of information related to an individual's financial and legal status. Unlike a will, a letter of instructions is not a legal document; you can type it yourself, or write it long-hand if you prefer. But make sure that it is comprehensive and easily read and understood.

Include important phone numbers of lawyers, accountants and doctors. Document employee, veteran and Social Security benefits; pension and profit-sharing plans; insurance policies and their beneficiaries; union membership; savings and checking accounts; investment holdings such as IRA accounts or mutual funds; and any valuable collectibles. List all potential creditors, including credit cards, the bank issuing your mortgage and the issuers of any other outstanding loans. Note the location of such important items as your birth certificate, marriage certificate, divorce papers, social security card, safe deposit keys, income tax returns and of course the will itself. Finally, if you have purchased a cemetery plot, list the amount paid and the deed number.

Second only to the emotional devastation of a spouse's death is the blow dealt to the financial security of the surviving spouse. Sometimes, due to unforeseen complications such as a family dispute, assets cannot be distributed for many months. In these cases, the immediate benefits provided by a life insurance policy can save a family from suffering unnecessary financial hardship.

For most middle-income families, life insurance is one of the most important types of financial protection available. The amount of life insurance you should carry depends on how long you must provide for your heirs as well as on many other assumptions about the future. No two cases are alike. A good financial planner can provide meaningful help in determining the amount suitable for your situation. Remember, even if the surviving spouse is still capable of paying all average living expenses, the generally tax-free proceeds from the policy can make it far easier to keep up with mortgage payments or finance a child's education. Social Security benefits are another source of income for widows and widowers whose spouses contributed the required amounts to Social Security during their working years. To collect these benefits, you must be 60 or older or at least 50 and disabled. If you have in your care a child under 16, or a disabled child of any age, you are also eligible. To estimate how much you or your spouse can expect from Social Security, call your local Social Security office and ask for a copy of Form SSA-7004PC (Request for Statement of Earnings). Don't wait until retirement or your spouse's death to check both of your records, especially if either spouse has held a number of part-time jobs or changed jobs frequently. If you wait too long and then detect an error, you may have passed the time limit on correcting your earnings records.

Since three out of four women outlive their husbands, women should take special care to prepare themselves for the possible death of a spouse. Actively participate in planning your family budgets, learn about your husband's benefit and pension plans and establish your own credit if you haven't done so already.

Preparing for a spouse's death may not be pleasant, but it is necessary for your family's economic survival. A tax specialist can offer further advice on providing for your spouse and minimizing the tax liability of death benefits and inheritances.

New golf club is eye-pleasing

proximately 340 of those slots are filled.

"To put it in perspective, Oakland Hills is $38,000. I think Meadowbrook is around $30,000," said Ray Brunett, nodding to the golf course. "With this acreage, it's a steal."

Despite the club's size, MacFarland emphasized its personal atmosphere. "What makes this a nice club is that it's a family club. A lot of these other facilities, such as Oakland Hills, they're really not family clubs," said MacFarland.

"If Ray Brunett belonged to that club (Oakland Hills), he would probably play and his wife would not probably play too much golf there. But here, the husbands and wives play a lot and you get the kids out — we have a tremendous junior golf program for kids," MacFarland explained.

Upcoming events to be hosted by the club include a $10,000 shoot out and the state PGA Match Play championship. The shoot out takes place this Sunday, Aug. 5 between 10 Michigan pros. The event will be open to the public and is scheduled to begin at 3 p.m.

Also open to the public is the PGA Match Play championship, to be held at Walnut Creek Sept. 17-20. Some 150 Michigan pros will compete to determine the state match play champion. Admission to both events is free.

The club is closed in the months of January and February, but during golf season there are few daylight hours that find the course empty. "Generally you'll find people out here as early as 6:30 in the morning and you'll see them finishing as late as 9:30 at night," MacFarland said.

For more information about Walnut Creek Country Club in Lyon Township, call the club office at 437-7337.

Keep cool keep costs down

With the dog days of summer approaching, Consumers Power Company is offering suggestions to customers to help them keep cool while conserving their energy.

"Hot, humid weather can cause your appliances to run longer than they need to," says Bill Start, area manager for the utility. He offered a few tips to minimize the effects of heat and humidity:

- Run major appliances such as dishwashers and clothes dryers at night or early in the morning when the temperatures are cooler to take advantage of the natural ventilation.
- Keep direct sunlight out by closing drapes, drawing blinds or using awnings. This will keep inside temperatures lower.
- Lower the temperature setting on an electric water heater to reduce the consumption of one of the biggest household electricity users.

- If you have a window-mounted air conditioner, close off furnace registers to prevent cool air from escaping into the basement.

- Close off rooms not in use during the day. Bedrooms, for instance, can be opened an hour or two before bedtime to allow cooling to circulate.

- Consider installing an attic fan and running it at night to draw hot air from the house, thereby creating a breeze effect while you sleep.

By following these suggestions, you can stay comfortable, enjoy the convenience of your appliances and still keep your energy bills down.

Consumers Power Company, the principal subsidiary of CMS Energy Corporation, is Michigan's largest utility, serving almost six million of the state's nine million residents in 67 of the 68 Lower Peninsula counties.

The Morocco

High ceilings and columns amplify visual impression of height

By James McAlexander

Simple, graceful and elegant, columns figured heavily in Greek and Roman architecture. The French Mediterranean styled Morocco, with columns inside and out, taps into that heritage.

Another in Landmark's series of small homes, the Morocco is a treat for the eye as well as the pocketbook.

On the exterior, red clay roofing tiles, complemented by the patterned walkways and patio below, carry through the Mediterranean theme.

Inside, columned archways mark passages between the informal family living areas—the dining room, living room and kitchen/family room. Each column is mounted on a 24-inch pedestal.

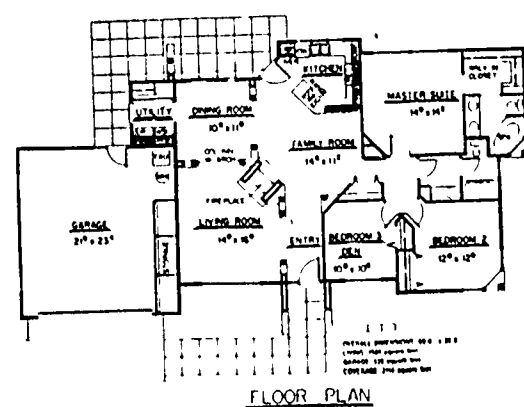

Extra high ceilings in the living room and dining room amplify the visual impression of height created by the columns and make the rooms seem larger. Fire-watchers can enjoy the flames in the French fireplace from either the living room or the family room.

While a stool or two will fit by the built-in range, the counter is not long enough for an eating bar. However, there is plenty of room. The formal dining area can be a more casual dining nook, freeing up space in the family room for other activities.

The large master suite has a built-in spa, double vanity and a dressing area in the walk-in closet. One of the other two bedrooms is small, fine for young child, or for use as a den, study or exercise or hobby room.

Extra storage is available in the utility room and the garage.

For a study plan of the Morocco (288-09), send $5 to Landmark Designs, P.O. Box 2307 CN, Eugene, OR 97402. (Be sure to specify plan name and number when ordering.)

By Jim Wood

They wash their houses along with their cars, and swear as the brown clouds roll in before they dry.

Dust coats the furniture when the windows are open. Leaving them closed in heat of summer without air conditioning is a prescription for stroke. Dust in the hair, dust in your cuffs and pockets, dust in your eye.

There are roads all over Livingston County where anything from a running dog to a Porsche arrowing home from the office sends a dust cloud rolling across the landscape. After five o'clock, they look like a battlefield.

Homeowners can pray for rain or pay to spray.

All but one of the county's 16 townships spray their public, unpaved roads, Green Oak being the exception, and pay for it out of general funds or through special millages. For example, Brighton Township does the former, Howell Township the latter.

Many folks have been cruising along one of the county's fine, scenic roads at the head of a quarter-mile plume of dust when they found themselves staring at a huge, bug-like thing coming toward them. Turns out to be a double-bottom tank truck spraying from nozzles that cover half the road at a time with a wet substance one assumes at first is water.

Which wouldn't make much sense on a hot, sun-baked road. In fact, the townships use three quite different substances on their roads. All have their supporters and detractors on the issues of how long it lasts, what it costs, whether it corrodes the car and its effect on the environment.

Most of the townships have studied these factors in making their choices. Nine of them—Cohoctah, Genoa, Handy, Hartland, Howell, Iosco, Marion, Putnam and Tyrone—use a 32-38 percent calcium chloride solution.

Three townships—Brighton, Unadilla and Oceola—use Dustbinder, or calcium lignosulfonate, a "wood liquor" product made from wood pulp used in the paper industry. And three—Conway, Deerfield and Hamburg—use Pro-90, described as a "petroleum resin."

It is now illegal to spread actual oil, such as old crankcase oil, on the public roads. According to Nancy Salmon, deputy clerk in Oceola Township, some people think straight oil lasts longer than Dustbinder, but they're told: sorry, it's no longer an option.

All three products are approved by Michigan Department of Transportation laboratories as safe for roads. Citizens living on those roads often make finer distinctions.

Superintendent of Roads for the Livingston County Road Commission Vince Simonelli said these products are supposed to do three things: suppress the dust, bind the road material together and last as long as possible.

Suppression of dust is the main object. All of these products do that. It's in the other two categories that opinions vary.

Binding the dirt and gravel together is intended to make them less vulnerable to rain, to being washed away by the first shower that comes along.

The interaction of the dust-suppression chemical and the road surface is not only meant to resist the friction of passing traffic, but the weight of it as well, said Simonelli—referring to cement trucks and 18-wheelers.

On Fisher Road in Oceola Township, the gravel trucks rumble back and forth from Houghton's gravel pit, a significant test of the chloride applied and a major depositor of dust on the landscape when a new application is due.

"School buses are a problem," said Simonelli. "They have the long wheel-base, the multiple tires and weight distribution producing a high pounds-per-square-inch (PSI) figure," that wears out roads and tires. There are a lot of buses and they make at least two runs a day.

The debate about the cost effectiveness of the three products is too complex to go into here. But Simonelli does say, "What we've seen over the years is that chloride seems to stand up better than the other materials, taking into account traffic and rainfall. As far as visual inspection can tell, those roads have stood up longer."

On the other hand, Dustbinder is touted as the most natural substance of the three. It arrives at Klein Fertilizer in Fowlerville direct from the paper manufacturer. "Just add water," is all Klein's does, according to Cynda Beach there.

Her boss, Dennis Judd, is in charge of dust treatment for the company and is painting half of an old car with Dustbinder, the other half with the chloride solution used by its competition. The chlorided side is rusting already, she said.

Pro-90, "a petroleum resin" has been approved by the state, is reputed to be more costly, but there are those who say there's something about petroleum that makes it last longer.

In most of the townships, the two or three applications per summer required are done to order. Whoever wants an application can get it for their frontage at 45 cents a foot for Dustbinder, somewhat less for calcium chloride from the several suppliers of that product. In some townships, like Genoa, the homeowner splits the cost with his township.

The Livingston County Road Commission itself uses calcium chloride on those primary, much-traveled roads that must be used by emergency vehicles.

Absolute auctions move properties quickly

By James M. Woodard

In a market where home prices are high and sales are sluggish, the "absolute auction" emerges as a viable marketing alternative.

In an absolute auction, the highest bidder takes title to the property. There is no minimum bid established by the seller.

Typically, there are two or three minutes of bidding action—a clap of the gavel—and the house or condo unit is sold. That's it.

Many sellers are turning to the absolute auction as the quickest, most cost-effective way to sell their homes or other real estate.

"It's the only true test of what market values are," said Craig King, president of J.P. King Auction Co., one of the country's oldest auction firms.

The King firm recently sold 26 condominium residences in an absolute auction during a two-hour period on a Saturday afternoon. Sales prices ranged from $73,500 to $150,000. The concentrated marketing activity saved substantial carrying costs and interest payments for the developer and generated cash for him to move on to new projects.

On the downside, the seller had to settle for prices that were considerably less than his original expectations. And auction fees were substantial. But considering all factors, the auction was worth it, he said.

Generally, today's real estate auctions are much more professional and sophisticated than they were in past years. The old image of a loosely organized auction quickly set up to sell off an inventory of distressed properties doesn't apply.

Auctions in the '90s are well-organized and are promoted long in advance of the actual auction. And it includes fast and efficient qualifying and closing procedures.

At least one national real estate franchise group is now organizing an international auction system, responding to current market needs. Century 21 Real Estate Corp., the nation's largest real estate franchiser, is setting up the new program.

One key reason for developing this capability is to facilitate working with the Resolution Trust Corp. and other government agencies in marketing real properties.

"With the volume of real estate these agencies and financial institutions have to contend with, the auction process is an effective and efficient means of moving properties quickly," said Martin J. Rueter, senior vice president of Century 21.

He pointed out that regional and national auctions will be heavily advertised for about 60 days prior to the auction date. And prospective bidders will be able to obtain information on properties to be auctioned via a toll-free phone number.

Q: Is it true that most couples approaching retirement plan to buy and live in a retirement home located in a Sun Belt area?

A: No. Most of those couples (and singles) express the desire to remain in their home geographic area. That consensus was revealed in a recent national housing survey conducted by the American Association of Retired Persons.

The survey responses suggest that older people who move from their homes usually remain in the same geographic area, and that the preference for age-segregated housing increases among older age groups.

The study also found that older people generally do not plan adequately for their retirement housing and often do not discuss housing issues with anyone who might offer assistance or information.

Q: Is it possible to buy an earthquake-proof bracing system for mobile homes?

A: Earthquake-resistant systems are available—not earthquake-proof systems. And it should be noted that many misleading claims are being made by some manufacturers.

Responding to an unusually large number of inquiries, the Department of Housing and Community Development recently issued a warning to owners of mobile homes who are considering the purchase of an earthquake bracing system. Owners should not be misled by fraudulent sales techniques that claim "heavy-duty" or "super" piers, used for mobile home supports, are as safe as "certified" earthquake-resistant bracing systems, HCD stated.

Inquiries are invited and may be answered in this column. Write James M. Woodard, Copley News Service, P.O. Box 190, San Diego, CA 92112-0190.

Squeaky stairs can be silenced several ways

By Gene Gary

Q: We have a problem with squeaky stairs. We would like to eliminate this problem before we have our new carpet installed.

A: Do you have any recommendations?—A.N.

A: Most stairway squeaks are easy to repair. An understanding of stairway construction is important.

Basic components of a staircase are the treads (the step), risers (the portion that elevates the tread) and stringers (the sideboards that support the treads and risers).

If any of these parts work loose, squeaks develop. Methods of correcting the problem vary, depending on whether the staircase is closed or open.

Sometimes simply lubricating stairs with a powdered graphite or talcum powder can correct the problem. Forcefully blow the powder into the joints, especially where the backs of the treads meet the risers.

If that doesn't help there are other ways to silence squeaky stairs. Open staircases, like basement stairs, can be repaired from underneath.

It's best to work with a helper who can slowly walk up and down the stairs while you watch from below. This way you can identify where the stairs squeak and mark the area with chalk.

Wedges inserted in the joints during initial construction may have worked loose. These can be replaced or reglued and reset.

Staircases usually have hardwood blocks attached to the joints between treads and risers. If the blocks are loose, replace or refasten them. Glue each block to both surfaces of the joint.

When the glue has thoroughly dried, reinforce the block by driving wood screws through the block and into the wood construction of the stairs. This should be done from both directions, i.e., through the block and into the tread and through the block into the riser (pre-drill pilot holes and keep screw ends at least 1/4 inch beneath the surface).

If the stairs are enclosed on the underside you will have to correct the problem by working from above. Carpeting must be removed to gain access to the joints between the treads and the risers.

Locate the squeaks by walking up and down the stairs, marking the problem areas with chalk.

Treads that are loose at the front of the tread can be secured with screws or ring-shank flooring nails driven through the tread into the riser at slight angles to each other. Drill pilot holes first and countersink the screws or nailheads. Fill the holes with wood putty.

Loose joints at the rear of the tread can be treated in two ways.

One option is to drive small hardwood wedges or shims into the joint crack to force retightening. Dip the wedges in wood glue first, then drive them in with a hammer and block. Trim away the excess when the glue has dried.

Another option is to use quarter-round molding. Nail this in place against the tread and the riser. Alternate nailing into both the riser and tread along the molding.

Q: Can we install 24-by-24 floor tiles on our concrete basement floor, or do we have to install standard 12-by-12 floor tiles in order to allow the concrete to breathe?—G.D.

A: Regardless of the type of material you are using, it is important that the manufacturer has approved the floor covering for below-grade installation.

Both vinyl tile and sheet flooring can be laid directly on concrete if they are approved for this type of installation, provided that the concrete slab isn't damp.

If you suspect moisture problems with a slab, have the installer put down a vapor barrier and a plywood or hardboard subfloor before laying the flooring.

Q: We have a bedroom that has been painted three or four times in the past with no problems. Recently, bubbles have started to appear, removing all paint down to the plaster.

I have used the same brand of paint before, and there have been no problems.

The bedroom shares one wall with the bathroom; the others are exterior walls. What's causing the problem? How can I correct it?—D.L.L.

A: It is likely your problem is caused by moisture inside the wall. This could come from a leak in the roof, a plumbing problem or something of that nature.

Often the path of water traveling from small leaks is very hard to detect. However, you will have to find the source of the moisture and correct it, or your wall will be damaged even more.

Send inquiries to Here's How, Cooperative News Service, P.O. Box 190, San Diego, CA 92112-0190. Only questions of general interest can be answered in the column.

Proper Victorian-style parlor leads a secret life when a sofa turns into a guest room.

Rehabbers rescue pocket doors

By Rose Bennett Gilbert

Q: Our house (built in 1892) looks large, but we really don't have but three bedrooms upstairs. Downstairs—in typical Victorian fashion—we have two parlors that open into each other via pocket doors. I hate the idea, but we're thinking of closing off the back parlor as a family room that doubles as a guest room. What do we do about the pocket doors?—C.S., St. Louis

A: Do nothing. Rehabbers all over the country are busy rescuing pocket doors from earlier attempts to cover them up during the "modernizing" of Victorian houses that took place mid-century.

Your pocket doors are the perfect answer if you feel you must actually close off the back parlor for privacy—that's what they were put there for. If the sight of closed doors disturbs you, stand a folding screen in front of them or use portieres for an authentic—and dressy—look.

However, there are other ways to solve your space problem. One of the best: convertible furniture that's parlor-pretty by day, yet durable enough for family relaxation in the evening. And ready for guest-duty by night: a queen-size sofa that flips open into a comfortable bed.

The companion love seats helps camouflage the sofa's dual personality; together, they take the stiffness out of the formal setting without undermining its "proper" Victorian attitude.

Walk
this way

His neighbor called to talk about him. It seems everybody has a complaint about their neighbor, but his neighbor was calling to say what a great guy he was.

"I want somebody else to know what this person is like. I hope that makes sense," Charlotte Allen says nervously. "I am really proud to know this person."

The person is Ron Bachman. Single father, entrepreneur, motorcycle drag racer and high-energy, all-around fun guy. Oh yeah, and Ron Bachman is a double-leg amputee.

As he sits behind his expansive, paper-covered desk, one can almost feel the energy emanating from him as his voice booms into the phone. A minor complication with an entertainment package his company is arranging. Bachman snaps off instructions quickly and concisely to the caller on the other end of the phone and they both hang up laughing.

It is this easy mix of business-as-usual and humor that makes Bachman so effective and gives him his commanding presence. It leaves office visitors unsuspecting that the energetic and entertaining man across the desk is "physically challenged."

Unsuspecting and off-balance once Bachman holsters himself onto the nearby scooter to usher them in or escort them out. And his phone appointments never question Bachman's motive for monopolizing the scheduling of luncheon meetings. (Bachman knows all the restaurants in town with access ramps.) His manner simply says he is a man used to taking charge.

"The thing that cracks me up is they (people) think I am hard of hearing or mentally retarded," Bachman says incredulously, noting strangers' reactions to his disability.

He recalls the strain of constantly dealing with people uncomfortable when faced with his disability in public.

"When I would go in a store with my (former) wife, I would ask the salesman a question and he would answer my wife," says Bachman without bitterness. "But I think that was out of kindness."

A misplaced kindness, Bachman says. He believes many people are unsure about how to react to people with disabilities so they go out of their way to pretend not to notice. But he does not fault them.

Almost 30 years ago, while just a small child, Bachman had both legs amputated. But he still positively remembers the "place that made me the way I am today," and travels to the Grand Rapids Area Amputee Center to speak to children faced with similar circumstances. Bachman speaks to them with the impact and understanding belonging only to those with experience.

"As much as I try to tell adults there is life after amputation, they won't believe it," Bachman says. "But the kids believe it."

They believe it because after speaking to Bachman, after hearing about his fast-paced lifestyle, and after seeing him in action, it is impossible not to believe it.

"Everyone has a disability," Bachman says. And although his just happens to be a physical one, that is not going to stop him from doing what he wants to do.

It never has.

"I probably went through the why-me syndrome for 10 minutes of my life, but then the phone rings and you say 'yeah, I'll be there in 20 minutes. And you go,'" Bachman says, his arms telling the story for him.

Bachman talks about one of his latest hobbies — drag racing. "I won last night. It was great," Bachman says, his face brightening as he begins to speak of his new love. Almost every week Bachman cruises down to Milan on his unique three-wheeled motorcycle custom-made for someone needing hand gears.

Coming from a family of motorcycle lovers — his father was a professional motorcycle rider — Bachman says he has always yearned to ride but thought it impossible.

"I just got tired of riding on the back," Bachman says. And he still remembers where he was when he saw the small magazine advertisement for an Indiana company specializing in hand-gear motorcycles.

Finally, after a full year of scrimping and saving, Bachman was able to order his motorcycle, "Jus' Plain Crazy," which almost looks like a cross between a motorcycle and a dune buggy.

"I drove down every weekend for three months while it was being built so I could have some real input," Bachman says.

Large enough to seat three people and with plenty of room in a storage compartment in back, Bachman and his 10-year-old

But Bachman is not the only one with an obvious appreciation for the motorcycle.

He laughs about how Alicia sometimes persuades the school secretary to allow her to call him from the office under the guise that she has something important to tell him. Once on the phone, she simply asks him to pick her up on the motorcycle rather than in his black van. Gladly, Bachman complies.

Though not afraid to work long, hard hours, Bachman's lifestyle, both as a single parent and a man with a disability, demands that whatever job he does, it must be flexible.

"It is tough for handicapped people to find full-time employment without too much trouble," Bachman says.

He lightly recounts a litany of various positions he has held over the years from a researcher at a local radio station to pizza making.

And, "I have done oodles and oodles of telemarketing," says Bachman.

Then the idea came to him. Why not be his own boss? He could set his own hours and do something he knows well and enjoys. The entertainment business was a natural choice. Bachman had worked off and on as a booking agent for 10 years, scheduling entertainment acts into clubs and he has personal friends in the rock bands Aerosmith and Motley Crue.

Volunteers

Adding color to lives

By DOROTHY NASH
Special Writer

There's a sunny, L-shaped flower garden about six feet deep and backed by a brown rail fence along two sides of the upper parking lot at Allen Terrace, the senior citizen high-rise in Northville. It's for the enjoyment of the residents. And it's a volunteer project.

Zo Chisnell of the Country Girls Garden Club, a branch of the Woman's National Farm and Garden Association, said that she and Connie Bergson are co-chairs of the project, which eight members have been working on for five years.

It was undeveloped land when they started on it. There was construction material and other debris to be removed, good planting soil to be brought in and a bordering fence to be installed.

And even after they had started to plant, they didn't have easy access to water. "We were carrying water in pails," Chisnell said.

"Old-fashioned plants," she answered, and she enumerated a list beginning with lilacs, roses, mums, forget-me-nots and daisies.

"Each year we try to get more variety," she said, adding that they also put bulbs in the ground in November for spring blooming.

It's a March-through-November project — planting, weeding, fertilizing — and the women work on it two mornings and some evenings each week. As the garden is completely in the sun, "it's too hot in the afternoon," Chisnell said.

"We sell tickets," Chisnell answered, "for one night's performance of the on-stage play at the Marquis Theater. We provide wine and cheese, and we get a percentage of the ticket money."

Why do it?

"A member who used to live at Allen Terrace," Zo Chisnell said, "suggested it would be something that residents would enjoy. And they do. They come and admire it. So it's fun. It's pleasure."

Toys for Tots is one of the charities to benefit from the Meadowbrook Ladies Golf Invitational

By LESLIE PEREIRA
Staff Writer

100 years from now . . . it will not matter what my bank account was, the sort of house I lived in, or the clothes I wore . . . but the world may be different because I was important in the life of a child.
— Elianna Szabo (artist and former Milford resident)

This year the Meadowbrook Country Club again held a golf invitational. Its members have played in for the last 26 years. It was on the same course, they played the same game, many wore the same visors, and there were even a lot of the same women who have played year after year.

But one thing was different. "This is the first year we played for charity," said Ann Beason, a club member and organizer of the July 25-26 event.

Beason said she was approached by Ladies Chairperson Gail LaRiche and asked to organize the invitational this year. She and another member, Sandi Bonamici, teamed up to brainstorm for a tournament theme and came up with the idea to run it as a charity benefit.

Bonamici developed the event's logo, "Have a Heart," and it stuck. From there, Beason went about researching several different charity organizations and selected the five she felt would be acceptable to most members.

"The ones we selected were all big names so it would be difficult for people to say no," said Beason.

who added that all of the fundraising events were optional.

The golfing event raised $1,055 from a raffle for the Muscular Dystrophy Association, and $313 for both the Make-A-Wish Foundation and the Tri-City Seals Physically Disabled Sports Team.

Additionally, players were asked to bring in a new sweatshirt on the first day of the two-day event which would be donated to the St. Vincent Sarah Fisher Center for unwed mothers and a new child's toy on the second day. The toys were collected for the Toys for Tots program which gives new toys to needy children at Christmas time. About 66 sweatshirts and over 100 toys were collected.

Most members agreed that the new fundraising aspect of the invitational did not alter the actual event but simply added a special element.

"I think it is wonderful," said member Jan Jensen, who played in her 12th Meadowbrook Invitational. "I think to grant a wish is a wonderful cause."

Jensen was referring to the Make-A-Wish Foundation, a non-profit organization that grants wishes to terminally ill children, one of the organizations which benefited from their unique fundraising ideas.

One money-making mechanism used by tournament organizers was allowing members to buy Mulligans. In golf, a Mulligan refers to a bad shot, when the club knicks the ball, and a "Mulligan" is allowed to give the golfer another chance. Tournament teams were given a choice of two charities to donate the $626 raised by Mulligan sales.

Golfers cast their votes to split the money between the Make-A-Wish Foundation and Tri-City Seals Physically Disabled Sports Team.

"I was totally, totally pleased," Beason said after tallying up the proceeds from the event. As an occupational therapist, Beason works with children affected by Muscular Dystrophy, many of whom participate on the Tri-City sports team.

"I had many women come up to me after and say 'We have never been to an invitational where we could leave and feel good no matter how we golfed,'" Beason said.

The overall winner of the tournament was the team of Doris Spengler of West Bloomfield and her partner, Nova Fallon. Other winners were: First flight — Julia Leller of Northville and her partner, Geanette Chermiside; second flight — Jo Flora of Novi and her partner, Sharon Potter; third flight — Kathy Leller of Livonia and her partner, Pat Gale; and, fourth flight — Fran Tisdale of Farmington Hills and her partner, Pina Moran.

But, according to Beason and the other players, the big winners were all of the women who put their time, energy and hearts into the event and the children they helped.

This experience helped him cultivate a great deal of connections which proved to be an asset for his newly-formed company.

Based in Brighton, Diversified Entertainment Agency (DEA), is a full entertainment business which puts together events such as company picnics, weddings, kids parties and everything in between.

Running his own business gives him the flexible hours he needs to raise his daughter alone. Alicia has lived with her father for the last five years since the judge awarded Bachman custody.

"She needed to be with me every day in order to understand why my life is the way it is," Bachman says, the framed photo of a bubbly, sandy-haired girl smiling down from the wall over his shoulder. "To the public I will always be that stigma, but to my little girl I will always be her dad."

Being with her father all the time exposes Alicia to both the joys and difficulties in Bachman's life. She cheers loudly for him from the bleachers when he enters a drag race and yells just as loudly at people who stare at her father too long.

"It is hard for her when she sees an adult totally disrespect her father," Bachman says. "I know she is just angry."

Back in their small tidy Northville apartment, Bachman relaxes on the couch as Alicia bounds in the door with a neighbor. Breathlessly she recounts how she returned to the pet store to purchase another birdseed holder for their brand new bird cage.

"Daddy, can you help me with this," Alicia says anxiously, her back to her father. Bachman, on his scooter, moves in toward the table that holds her bird cage and snaps the feeder on after a moment.

"I can do anything that anyone else can do — it just might take me a minute longer," says Bachman, referring to the bird cage. Referring to everything.

Or a minute less if you are talking about the drag race he just won on Jus' Plain Crazy.

"Nothing will stop this guy," warns his neighbor Charlotte Allen before she hangs up the phone.

Alicia helps out. "Alicia you wash, I'll dry," says Ron.

Golden years Senior runner racks up medals

8:30 a.m. on Monday morning. Most people are reluctantly rolling out of bed, hoping they only dreamed the alarm clock just went off.

Not Jack Hipple. The 66-year-old man is already out doing toe-touches and sprinting around the track.

Hipple is getting into racing shape for the Michigan Senior Olympics. He has stepped up his training efforts in recent days as the August 12 main event inches up on his calendar.

"As it gets closer to the competition, I train every day," Hipple says, out of breath from the 200-meter dash he just completed.

But Hipple is not really worried. He is coming fresh off a long line of recent victories with several gold, silver, and bronze medals to show for his efforts.

"He is an excellent runner," says Novi resident Bill Black, who plays softball on the same team as Hipple.

A retired school teacher, Hipple was into distance running in college while he attended Eastern Michigan University and again after he resumed jogging 15 years ago. But after being diagnosed with asthma, Hipple and his doctor decided he should run the shorter distances.

Programs for kids crop up in stores, shopping centers

By LESLIE PEREIRA
Staff Writer

If you were shopping in Meijer's last week, you probably noticed the glaring absence of crying kids in grocery carts. Instead, most of the kids were scurrying happily from ring toss to fish give-away to bucking bronco ride with candy-filled mouths and small toys in their fists.

Meijer's was holding their annual "Kid's Week," a sort of small carnival for kids to divert their attention while mom is left to shop in peace. This type of children-oriented program, which Meijer's has sponsored for several years, is starting to catch on at many local stores and shopping centers.

From the marketing department in Meijer's to a collective of stores at Highland Lakes Shopping Center, businesses are discovering that there is money to be made in catering to the fancies of children.

"Let's face it, we are a profit-driven organization," says John Bueter, treasurer of the Northville Merchants Association. "We want to see more people come to town to see what we have to offer."

The Northville Merchant's Association, together with several local downtown Northville shops, has recently begun to offer free children's programs in the heart of the downtown shopping district.

"When mom comes to town with two kids, she doesn't do a whole lot of shopping, but she looks around," says Bueter.

Store owner Diane Wise developed the idea for a children's program as a way to engage kids in a learning experience as well as to introduce people to her new store, Baby Baby. She presented the plan to the Merchants Association who agreed to fund it. The cost of the program is about $1,700.

"I guess they felt that this was something that would bring people downtown and to the Farmers Market," says Wise.

"It is a very worthwhile program," Bueter says. The programs held at the bandshell have included musical presentations, magic and puppet shows, and animal programs.

While the downtown children's program is scheduled as a series of six different performances, another Northville shopping area, the Highland Lakes Shopping Center, sponsored a one-day-only Kids' Day.

Last Saturday, July 21, the strip mall held a sort of sidewalk sale/fun day in the parking lot and the shopping center's common. Each of the individual stores was invited to participate by coming up with some sort of children's activity. There was a balloon toss contest, kids' face painting, a dog wash, and an appearance by Bart Simpson.

Sherry Gorman, clothing store owner and coordinator for Kid's Day, was hoping the event would help her introduce her store's new line of children's clothing. She acknowledges the financial incentives for sponsoring a children's program.

"On Seven Mile we are kind of hidden from the downtown area," says Gorman. "It (kids' program) introduces what we have to offer and what we are all about to moms and dads."

But Gorman says that children's programs, such as Kid's Day, are beneficial for everyone because it offers a day of fun and free entertainment for families and kids to do together.

A similar program, the Youth Enrichment Series, was sponsored for the first time by Twelve Oaks Mall during the month of June.

Every Saturday for the Four-year-old Michael Gradis of Livonia holds up Week. Unfortunately, the fish bowls weren't his new goldfish, compliments of Meijer's Kids' free month, parents came in to the mall's center court for a children's program with songs, dance and live animals.

"We wanted to make sure we are not just a place to go into for shopping," says Elaine Kah, marketing director for Twelve Oaks Mall. "If we provide shopping and entertainment all in one place, our customers will be better served."

Kah says the children's programs they offered were so popular with kids and parents, they are considering running the event twice a year.

Kah dismisses the notion of a program based solely on financial considerations.

"Certainly the store has a job to do. That's why they are here," Kah says. But to her, the most important aspect of the programs the mall offers to customers is that they are something fun the family can do together.

"You need to have an activity and some fun because shopping should be fun," says Kah.

So although several cynical customers see these types of programs as a way to lure customers into the store, mall or shopping center, it is probably a welcome relief for the parents of children unhappy at the prospect of a day out shopping.

"I don't really think it adds anything to the business," says Kevin McIlhargie, Kid's Week coordinator at Meijer's. "This just adds a little excitement for the kids."

So Hipple made the transition to sprinting and has been pleasantly surprised with the results. He has competed in senior track events for the past four years, and each year he has been more successful.

In 1987, the first year Hipple competed in the Senior Olympics, he won both a gold and a silver medal in two of the sprinting events.

"That is when I was a youngster at 63," says Hipple.

The following year, the competition was a lot stiffer and Hipple returned with a bronze medal for taking third place in the 200-meter dash, although his times were just as fast.

This was good enough for Hipple to qualify to run in the national seniors' competition held in St. Louis, Mo.

Hipple took ninth place out of 32 of the nation's best senior dashers.

Hipple considers the 200-meter dash as his favorite race. "Not too short and not too long" is how he describes it. Hipple says the start is critical in running shorter races, and the runner must be quick in getting out of the starting block.

In last year's Michigan Senior Olympics, which were held in Southfield, Hipple just stayed up on the dais as they presented him with one medal after another. Gold for the 100-meter dash, 200-meter dash, and 400-meter dash.

This year Hipple will again try to stay on top in his big three events, and he will also try his legs in a new event — long jump.

"I couldn't high jump or throw javelin, discus or shot put with my small build," says Hipple.

'The trip' offers unique view of Berlin

By Iris Sanderson Jones
Travel Editor

Has anybody out there been to Berlin since the wall came down?

We've been talking about that ever since our advertising department joined Lufthansa in sponsoring a trip to Europe October 2-13.

The first stop is East and West Berlin.

Our advertising department will be pleased to know I gave them that plug, but you will be pleased to know that I didn't have to. This trip has nothing to do with the editorial department, and our ad manager is nice enough not to nag me for what advertisers call "editorial support."

The Trip inspired some conversation, however. Such as "do we still say West Berlin and East Berlin?" And, "Has anybody been to Berlin since the wall came down?"

I travel more than anyone else around here, and I haven't been to Berlin. I started calling my traveling friends, and none of them have been to Berlin since the wall came down.

We've all seen it on television, and Bernie Weiss of Lufthansa's Southfield office tells me that his airline is reserving all its equipment for upcoming flights from Frankfurt to Moscow, Leningrad, Prague, Warsaw and other parts of Eastern Europe. He's been to Eastern Germany but not to Berlin since the wall . . .

According to Bernie all the border paraphernalia is still in place: five-mile-per-hour signs, mirrors that look under cars, 10-foot-long man-high barriers that can stop a car dead; but nobody is using it.

The law says that Americans still need visas for East Berlin, and it seems a smart idea to get one. But at the moment, nobody seems to be asking for them. You can get a 24-hour visa at the border after filling out a lot of papers. Ask for a multiple visa if you plan to go back and forth more than once.

Some hotels, especially Interhotel, will arrange your visa, which is supposed to be enough if you have a written confirmation in your hand when you cross the border. The Grand Hotel will pick you up at the airport in West Berlin, visa in hand.

Bernie and our General Manager Rich Perlberg were presenting The Trip to local travel agents last week, so I invited myself. Surely one of those travel agents had been to Berlin since the wall came down. They hadn't.

I started phoning my out-of-town travel writing friends and found Pat Kuehl; she was working on a story for the Boston Globe when I called. "Yes, I have been to Berlin since the wall came down," she said, and I nearly dropped the phone.

Her story is on this page. But I don't give up that easily. I want to hear from YOU, my neighbors. Surely somebody out there has been to Berlin since the wall came down.

I want to hear from you, because our mandate on this page is to meet national standards of travel journalism while telling the world's story from your point of view.

I would also like to hear from you about other conversations we might have about travel. Questions, answers, requests, reader reports. Your favorite cruise. Your favorite fall trip.

If you put a post card in the mail today, I'll have it tomorrow if we give the post office the benefit of the doubt. Write to Iris Sanderson Jones, Travel Editor, Sliger/Livingston Publications, Howell, MI 48843. Or, write to me care of your local newspaper. The people there will make sure that I get it.

BERLIN BECKONS VISITORS

East meets West as the two Germanys are united

By Pat Hanna Kuehl

BERLIN, WEST GERMANY: The wall is down and this is the place for pacesetters to be. If Gorbachev is right, and Europe becomes "one house," this will be the split-level living room/gathering place for statesmen, artists, intellectuals, business tycoons and free spirits out for a good time.

Both Berlins are exciting places to visit nowadays. While life on what was the west side of the wall has long been turned on full volume 24 hours a day, the come-to-the-cabaret spirit is just starting to ferment in East Berlin.

Take the five-star deluxe Grand Hotel at the famous intersection of Unter den Linden and Friedrichstrasse, for instance. Open three years, the star of the German Democratic Republic-owned Interhotel chain has been ranked with the 200 best hotels in the world by the New York-based Leading Hotels Association.

At the Silhouette Restaurant, on the Grand's sixth floor, an epicurean dinner for two, elegantly served to the accompaniment of a six-piece dance band, runs more than $200 with wine. Yes, they take VISA.

Such glimpses of new developments on the other side of the border add to the sense of adventure of visiting both Berlins.

You see contrasts everywhere you turn.

Check the glitter of the glass, chrome and steel contemporary architecture of West Berlin—buildings the sassy citizenry has dubbed the Battleship Gallatica (the convention center), the Pregnant Oyster (the congress hall), and the Lipstick and the Powder Box (the Kaiser Memorial Church).

Then cross through Brandenburg Gate and rest your eyes on the grandeur that was Old Berlin in the rundown mansions that line the Boulevard Unter den Linden; the majestic Cathedral; the classical lines of the art treasures on Museum Island; the restored St. Nicholas Church where Berlin was founded 753 years ago.

For insight into the 1,000 points of annoyance that made so many of East Berlin's baby boomers head west, take a taxi to the outskirts of the city to see the dreary looking prefabricated high buildings the East German government threw up to meet its quota of 2.5 million apartments by 1990.

Then, check out the old workers' row houses much closer to the city center in the Susemannstrasse area, and imagine what an American restoration expert would do with those old jewels! The East Berliners, just beginning to realize their charm and convenience, are adding modern plumbing and central heating.

(There's at least a two-year wait to move in. The current aging occupants knew they had a good thing and wouldn't leave for "better" quarters in the distant high rises.)

With shortages causing long waits for everything from housing to automobiles (it has been at least 10 years for a car), even East German marks piled up, allowing a few luxuries. East German marks were converted to West German marks recently, so now there is only "the mark."

Food specialty shops near the Alexanderplatz stock Belgian chocolate, Viennese coffee, American herb teas and the most prized delicacy of all, bananas.

Drop by the Moskauer Restaurant, which used to be the best restaurant that accepted East German marks. Dinner at the Moskauer has been a "steal" for U.S. military occupying troops who could dine extremely well for $10 in black market marks. It's still a good buy.

Spend an evening at the German State Opera, the Comic Opera, or the Metropol Theater (musicals) or the Puppet Theater. Calibre is high, ticket prices relatively low. Tickets are available at the central tourist office—the Reisebüro der DDR—on the Alexanderplatz, at the theaters or at hotel service desks. It's wise to reserve seats well in advance.

Window shop the designer shoe boutiques. Those beautiful shoes are so prized, an East Berliner will pay several months' salary to own a pair. Vanity knows no nationality.

The statue of Lenin still stands at the head of Lenin Allee. Follow the route from the city center to the outskirts to view life, socialist style. On one side you'll see office buildings and apartments, on the other factories spewing thick, black smoke. Pollution is a new concern here. In the midst of it all is the highly-respected Charite Medical Center, where GDR research on AIDS is underway.

Surprisingly, West Berlin, with its big gay population, has largely ignored the AIDS problem. After the initial scare, little has been done in the way of educational effort for prevention of spread of the disease. Experts say the danger is compounded by prostitution. While most West Berlin prostitutes are registered and undergo periodic examinations, beautiful Polish girls "black market" their charms near the Tiergarten. A mark goes a long way in poverty-stricken Poland, no matter the risk.

For a much brighter impression of the West side of the border, head for the two-mile stretch of the Kurfurstendamm—Ku'Damm for short. It's Essence of Anything Goes, including tap dancing on the sidewalk entrance to your hotel; proclaiming far out theories at the Memorial Church Plaza; or finding a variety of restaurants, drag shows, designer boutiques, glitzy souvenirs and the deluxe Palace Hotel, all under one fabulous glass dome at the Europa Center.

You can find all you ever wanted to know about Berlin in two stops at the Europa Center: One at the Berlin Tourist Office, on the street level; the other at the Multivision Berlin theater on the third floor.

The tourist office will tell you about the present and future attractions—international film, music and art festivals, sports events and special exhibitions. The multimedia show is a highly-entertaining capsule history of the city's 753-year past. "Berlin," says the narrator, "is a catastrophe, but a lovely catastrophe. If anything bangs, it bangs here!"

Three blocks away, you'll find KaDaWe, the largest department store in Europe, filled with treasures of every kind. (KaDaWe offers a far better selection of Czech crystal than you'll find in Prague, and here they'll ship it home.) Don't miss the sixth floor food hall, a gourmet fantasy with delicacies to devour on the spot or to take out.

Compulsive monument-collectors can board tour buses at every other corner, but you'll get a more vivid picture of the two Berlins just by people-watching on the Ku'Damm or Unter den Linden.

West Berliners are the ultimate extroverts. Young (more than half the 2 million population is under 30), bright, independent spirits, their favorite word is "tolerant."

East Berliners tend to be patient, placid types, conditioned by a lifetime of waiting in long lines to buy anything from tea to taxi service.

But things are changing rapidly. Give an East Berliner a chance, and he'll tell you exactly where he was and what he was doing when the word came that the wall was coming down. Then you might get another surprise.

"We went over to West Berlin to have a look," recalls Gerd Bethke, duty manager at the Grand. "Then when we saw how expensive things are over there, we came back home. There have been government subsidies here for everything from housing to education to medical services. We didn't know how much things really cost until we saw the prices over there."

Bethke and his friends, all in their 40s, decided to stay put. They appreciate their new freedom, but for the most part, they'll use it for round trips to the U.S. and other places they've only seen on television.

"When you are no longer young, you don't want to take chances. I am accustomed to the ideas of socialism. I like the idea of equality and social security, not such big differences between the rich and the poor," he says.

"But I am a realist. I know changes are necessary. I'd rather stay and help improve conditions here than try to start a new life somewhere else."

TO HELP YOU PLAN: Things change quickly in Berlin, for the tourist as well as the resident, so check your needs with your travel agent or the German National Tourist Office, 747 Third Ave., New York, N.Y. 10017.

Euroberlin, an Air France-Lufthansa joint venture, flies hourly from Frankfurt to West Berlin. Twenty express trains a day reach Berlin from other parts of Europe. You can drive on the autobahn day or night; carry a passport and the usual vehicle documents. West Berlin has 340 hotels and pensions.

East Berlin hotels include the Grand Hotel, three GDR-owned Interhotel chain hotels; a tour hotel called Domhotel opens later this year. Luxury hotels cost about $200 a night for two; you can reserve four and five star hotels on either side of the border toll-free by calling (800) 237-5469.

Most people do these trips with groups, so consider the tour jointly sponsored Oct. 2-13 by this newspaper and Lufthansa, the German airline, $1998 plus tax through your travel agent.

To Air Force Staff Sergeant Andrea Pabon, investing in U.S. Savings Bonds was a smart decision. "It isn't easy raising two kids on my pay. With Bonds, we've got a real shot at the future." Put your money in the Great American Investment—U.S. Savings Bonds. Call us to find out more.

Water parks are fun and cool

By FRANK EICHENLAUB
Staff Writer

Beaches? Nah, who needs them? Sand? Uhh-uhh, who needs that? Seaweed? Eeech, who needs thaawt?

Drop these one-time friends and head far inland to what now might be the wildest of the wet now — water parks.

Boasting both slides and waves, these area parks are beginning to kick into high gear, heading into the middle months of summer.

On July 18, 2,600 people packed Red Oaks Water Park in Madison Heights, said Asst. Manager Chris Wundrach. The park, with three slides and one giant wave pool, averages about 2,200 people daily.

"It's all weather-related," he said. "On a hot day we average 2,200, when it's 85 (degrees) and above."

Red Oaks holds the bragging rights as home to the largest wave pool in Michigan as well as the highest water slides in the Midwest, Wundrach said.

First the slides: They stand four stories tall and each has different turns and curves. Also, Wundrach noted that there is absolutely no danger of going over the sides of the slides.

"It's never been done," Wundrach said. "And we haven't had anyone fall off the slides."

Now the pool and its mysterious waves: It stretches 100 feet across in the 8-foot deep end and is 180 feet long. In its shallowest part, Wundrach estimated that it is 200 feet across.

The 3 1/2-foot waves are powered by thousands of hamsters running furiously in circles, Wundrach joked. The waves are set on 10-minute intervals.

"If we had the waves on continuously, people would get tired," he said. "We turn it off for that reason and to rest the machines."

The machines? OK, the waves are powered by machines and not hamsters. In truth, behind a wall in the deep end sit five wells filled with water. Air continually forces that water out of the wells, which in turn makes the waves.

While Red Oaks boasts its size, the Waterford Oaks Wave Pool and Water Slide says older is better (although both are Oakland County parks). It is smaller but has been around 15 years to Red Oaks' four.

The Waterford park was the third built in North America, said Park Supervisor Tom Jackson, and fills to its 1,500-person capacity on every hot day.

"We have more lakes in Waterford Township than anywhere in the U.S. and we still fill up," Jackson said. "It's just a big recreation facility."

Both Jackson and Wundrach said that people seem to enjoy the slides and the waves equally.

"It's just the greatest thing that ever developed," Jackson said.

Waterford is open from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m., weather permitting, and costs $6 per person. But most importantly, personal rafts are allowed (inner-tubes can be rented for $1).

Red Oaks is open from 11 a.m. to 8 p.m. and costs $6 (children under 43 inches tall are free). Although rafts and tubes can be rented, no personal rafts are allowed — for safety reasons, Wundrach said.

Tips for rookies or slow veterans: don't bring money into the pool or some enterprising young lad may pick it up off the bottom; bring goggles as those who don't heed warning

No. 1 may cover your expenses for the day; take care to guard against the rough bottom of Waterford's pool; and look out Snow White. Red Oaks offers very little shade so bring the sunscreen.

The Northville Record

Koufax notches victory at NABF

Ohio champion edges Birmingham for title

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN
Staff Writer

The 1990 National Amateur Baseball Federation (NABF) Sophomore World Series will probably go down as one of the most successful tournaments Northville's ever played host to.

The weather was dry and the games were very exciting, but the most exciting aspect of the three-day, double-elimination event was that the team representing Northville won a game for the first time since the tournament made its initial appearance in the area back in 1985.

"It was very successful," said Tournament Director Bob Frellick. "We had no problems and everyone seemed to enjoy themselves."

The biggest highlights came on the first and last days of the event. The locals were treated to a thrilling start when Northville Sandy Koufax trounced Lieutenant Nick Lia from Staten Island, New York 10-2 in the first round on July 26.

"We were pretty excited being the first Northville team to get a win in the Sophomore World Series," Koufax Coach Jay Johnson admitted. "It was a big thrill — we played great baseball that day."

Another highlight came last Saturday (July 28) when the Michigan Region winner (Birmingham) and the Ohio Region winner (Eldridge Construction) battled for the title in a pair of memorable one-run games. Eldridge, from Beaver Creek, Ohio, ended up with the crown despite dropping its first game two days earlier.

Starting pitcher Steve Christenson continually baffled the New York batters in the opener for Northville. In seven innings of work, Christenson allowed zero earned runs.

"Steve had good control and he kept the batters off balance the whole game," Johnson said.

Back-to-back doubles by Ryan Kelley and Matt Payton broke the game open for Northville in the third inning, as a 2-1 lead ballooned to 6-1. Other offensive standouts included Fred Swarthout (3-for-4) and Scott Hartsough, who smacked a two-run double into the teeth of a stiff wind in the fifth inning.

"It was satisfying because we won it so convincingly," Johnson said. "It was particularly gratifying to win a game for Bob Frellick. He's put so much into these tournaments over the years, and he's had to endure lots of years where the host team didn't do very much."

In round two on July 27, Northville fell to Birmingham 14-7 and dropped into the losers bracket. It was the third meeting of the season between these two teams, and the rubber match as the two split a pair of regular season games.

"We were pretty confident because we had beaten them before," Johnson said.

It wasn't to be, however, as Birmingham jumped out to a 7-1 lead, saw Northville make a valiant comeback to knot it at 7-7 in the fifth, before running out of gas down the stretch. Starter Matt Payton didn't get much help from his defenders and Birmingham wound up scoring nine unearned runs.

The hitting stars for the locals included Dean Frellick (2-for-4) and Swarthout (2-for-3).

"This game was a crusher," Johnson said. "Then we had to turn around and play another game immediately after playing Birmingham. We couldn't seem to get the kids pumped up and that's my job. I guess that's where I let the team down."

As a result, Northville was unceremoniously knocked out of the tourney by Eldridge Construction 8-2 on Friday. The Ohio team built an 8-0 lead off starter Ryan Kelley and relievers Mike Samolin and Steve Christenson, but Northville avoided the shutout in the top of the seventh, thanks to a two-run homer by Payton.

"After we won in the first round we felt that we could win one of the next two games, in order to make it to the finals," Johnson said. "But the other teams were excellent, and it didn't happen for us."

"Nevertheless, we featured the best Northville had to offer and the kids should be proud of their effort and the way they represented the community."

Eldridge went on to beat Birmingham 7-6 and 5-4 in the championship round on Saturday. Ironically, Birmingham handed Eldridge its lone loss (5-0) in the first round and only needed to win one to grab the title. The Ohio team stole game one with a two-run rally in the bottom of the last inning and then needed extra innings to put it away in game two.

"It was outstanding baseball — you couldn't ask for two better championship games," Frellick said. "I would say those were the best two games we've had in a row at the Sophomore World Series."

Junior World Series gets underway today

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN
Staff Writer

Seven sandlot baseball teams from around the country (and Canada) will be competing in Northville from Aug. 2-4 at the National Amateur Baseball Federation (NABF) Junior World Series. This annual tournament features some of the finest 15-16 year old players in the nation.

For the first time in several years, the host team — Northville Mickey Mantle — has a legitimate shot at contending for the crown. The team, managed by Joe Staknis, wrapped up a 13-8 regular season and placed fourth in a 12-team division.

"We've got a strong team with good pitching, so if we play good defense, we should be able to hold our own," Staknis said. "Other coaches we've played have commented that they think we'll do well, and that's nice to hear. Hopefully, they are right."

In addition to talented pitchers like Mike Lang and George Smojver, Northville was able to draft a pair of lefthanded hurlers who should make the staff even stronger. They are Mike Stafford of Canton and Dave Vanhof of Southgate.

"They will give us the versatility to go from either side," Staknis said. "That's important because we don't have any other southpaws on the team who can pitch."

Northville will open the tournament today at 3 p.m. against the Manchester (Ohio) A's. The other entries include Tecumseh, Ontario, the Michigan Region Winner; the Long Island Tigers, from the New York Region; the Glen Burney Patriots from Reister Town, Maryland; a team from Seattle, from the Washington Region; and Lexington Dixie, the defending champs from the Kentucky Region.

"I don't think we've ever had a Canadian team come out of the Michigan Region and qualify, so it kind of adds an international flavor to the series," Tournament Director Bob Frellick said. "I really don't know too much about many of the teams, but I do know that the New York and Maryland region winners are always good, and Lexington Dixie was an excellent squad last year."

Junior World Series games will be played at 9 p.m., noon and 3 p.m. on Aug. 2; 9 a.m., Noon, 3 p.m. and 6 p.m. on Aug. 3; and 11 a.m., 2 p.m. and 5 p.m. on Aug. 4. Like many experts, Frellick believes the locals have an opportunity to contend.

"I think for the first time in a number of years Northville has a shot at going all the way — no doubt about it," he said.

The winner of the double-elimination tournament will advance to the United States Baseball Federation Super World Series at Coral Spring, Fla. on Aug. 17-23.

This evening (Aug. 2) at 7 p.m. in the Northville High School cafeteria, there will be a banquet to honor the players and coaches of the Junior World Series. The guest speaker for the evening will be Northville resident James Newman, principal of the Bentley Center, Livonia Public Schools.

Newman was a member of the 1961 Big Ten baseball champs while playing at the University of Michigan. He has served his community as a parent of four, teacher, coach, administrator and consultant to public and private agencies. He also is an adjunct professor at Eastern Michigan University.

Newman has frequently given motivational and instructional speeches to youth and employee groups. His topic will focus on the relevance of athletics as an educational vehicle for success.

The cost of the banquet is $3.50 for children, $6.50 for those over 12. The public is welcome to attend.

Holzer pitcher Daniel Krause fires to the plate in LCBL action earlier this season

Holzer fades into last place after final week of season

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN
Staff Writer

After crawling out of last place during a late-season surge, Tom Holzer Ford failed to win in the final three regular season games last week and dropped back down to last place in the seven-team Livonia Collegiate Baseball League (LCBL).

A 5-3 loss to Little Caesars on July 26 and a late flurry by Total Travel last weekend enabled those two teams to catapult ahead of the Northville-based team. Holzer ended with a 9-19-1 mark — certainly not outstanding, but a clear improvement over last season's 2-22 debacle.

"There was progress this year, that's for sure," said Holzer Coach John Osborne.

Against Little Caesars, Holzer scored three times in the sixth inning to narrow the gap to 5-3, but that's how the first game of the twinbill ended. In the rally, Brian Daniels and Jeff Stanislaw each knocked in a run with two out base hits.

"We had a couple errors that hurt us earlier in the game," Osborne said. "If it wasn't for that, it would have been much closer."

Steve Ross started and went the distance for Holzer. He allowed seven hits and four earned runs while fanning six and walking four. The lone hitting star was Daniels (2-for-3) as Holzer managed just five hits in the game.

In the nightcap, a time-limit rule ended the game with the score deadlocked at 8-8 after seven innings of play.

"It was quite a wild game," Osborne admitted. "Nobody could stop anybody else."

Trailing 8-5 in the seventh, Holzer scored three times to avoid the defeat. Singles by Rob Baumgartel and Derek Osborne set up an RBI hit by Tom Skymar and another by Jim Izzo (that tied it).

Stanislaw went the full seven innings on the mound for Holzer but was tagged for 14 hits, six earned runs and six walks. Baumgartel (2-for-4) was the only Holzer batter with more than one hit.

"We were quite competitive in this doubleheader, but we were missing some key players, including (all star catcher) John Frazzini," Osborne pointed out.

WENDY'S 11, TOM HOLZER FORD 1: The season ended in a cruel way for Holzer on July 29.

"We got pummeled," Osborne said. Believe it or not, Holzer actually had a 1-0 lead in the first inning, thanks to an RBI single by Darnel Krause, but Wendy's went on to score 11 straight over the next seven innings. Steve Hirschman caused most of the damage for Wendy's with a grand slam homer and a bases loaded triple and seven RBIs.

MHSAA allowed to appeal ruling

The Michigan Supreme Court has granted the Michigan High School Athletic Association's application to appeal a lower court decision involving its restitution rule.

The case stems from a 1987 court challenge to an MHSAA eligibility rule. The courts found in favor of the Association, but prohibited enforcement of a regulation requiring the forfeiture of games involving an otherwise ineligible student-athlete who played under a court injunction while the eligibility case was pending.

The MHSAA's restitution rule is similar to those of the National Collegiate Athletic Association and 11 other state high school associations. The Supreme Court has granted the NCAA and the National Federation of State High School Associations permission to file briefs on behalf of the rule.

"We're pleased with the Supreme Court's decision to accept this case, especially with the national implications it has on other intercollegiate and interscholastic governing bodies," MHSAA Executive Director Jack Roberts said.

Roberts added that many segments of the Michigan education community have shown support for having the restitution rule restored. Resolutions of support have been adopted by the Michigan Education Association, the Michigan Association of School Administrators, the Michigan Association of Secondary School Principals and the Michigan Interscholastic Athletic Administrators Association.

No court hearing date has been set.

Yankowski competes in all star game

Novi star helps lead East team to 7-6 win

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN
Staff Writer

Despite having to battle a hamstring injury and 110 degree temperatures on the field, former Novi football star Mike Yankowski had the time of his life at the 10th Annual Michigan High School All Star Football Game last weekend in East Lansing.

The 6-foot-2, 203 pounder played defensive end for the victorious East squad in a game featuring 88 of the top prep seniors in the state. In a thrilling defensive battle, the East hung on for a 7-6 win after a last-minute field goal attempt by the West was blocked.

"It was a great thrill," Yankowski said. "When you play in a game like this, it's such an honor that you don't worry about the heat or any nagging injuries."

Yankowski — who played line-backer and helped Novi win two straight Kensington Valley Conference titles — had a solid, but unspectacular outing. He was officially credited with one solo tackle and two assists, but he was playing an unfamiliar position.

"It took me a while to get used to playing defensive end instead of line-backer, but I have no complaints," he said. "It was still fun."

A hamstring pull suffered while running in June and then aggravated in practice for the game, hampered Yankowski's lateral movement. That just added to the challenge of lining up against mammoth West linemen like Colin Cronin (6-7, 235), Ken Ritzema (6-6, 240) and Matt Nastaly (6-3, 275).

"I thought I performed fairly decent," Yankowski said. "I held my own, but I was a step slower than some of the running backs. That's something I'll have to work on."

As a unit, the East defense surrendered just eight first downs, 113 yards rushing and 59 passing. Yankowski played every other series of downs, alternating with ends like Nick Kiffner (Walled Lake Central) and Bob Black (Taylor Truman).

"I'm used to playing on good defensive teams, being from Novi, and I thought as a unit we did very well," he said. "To hold a team with so many great players to just six points is pretty good."

Former Novi standout Mike Yankowski (bottom) warms up along the Spartan Stadium sidelines prior to the East-West All-Star Game

The game was also an opportunity to meet two future teammates. Yankowski has signed a national letter of intent to attend and play football at Ferris State University in Big Rapids. Other all stars like Chadd Richard (Bay City Central) and Kiffner have also signed on with the Bulldogs.

"It was a great experience playing with all these college-bound players," Yankowski admitted. "It was a learning experience. I found out real quick that everybody is good. It woke me up, because in high school, there were always some weak spots."

It was the third consecutive year

Novi has been represented in the all star game: Brian Schram played in 1988 and Scott Wladischkin last summer. Wildcat Coach John Osborne, who coached the East squad in 1988, was on hand to see Yankowski compete.

"Mike was hurting a bit with that hamstring problem and he was playing a new position, but he certainly didn't hurt his team. We were very proud of him."

As for the entire experience — which included two weeks of preparation at Michigan State University — Yankowski was impressed.

"They really rolled out the red carpet for us and the facilities were top-notch," he said. "It was great to meet some of the Division I stars. The game was fun, but when it got down to it, we really wanted to win the ball game badly."

Walking can be ample workout

Hines Park provides the site for this unidentified walker

By FRANK EICHENLAUB
Staff Writer

It's done romantically, angrily, slowly and quickly alone, with a partner or in a group.

You can use the special equipment or choose to go without. You can do this in the water, you can do this in your house and you can do this before, after or on the way to work.

You've done it in the evening, at lunch or in the morning. It's everywhere — look there, somebody's doing this right now.

But whenever or wherever you do this, do it right and it may prove to be an ample workout.

Walking is what we're talking.

"It's a very inexpensive way to go. It's probably got less stress or less damage than any other exercise," said Ruth Cain, coordinator of media relations for Blue Cross and Blue Shield. "That's why they say walking is the most nearly perfect exercise."

To re-mold a romantic stroll into a decent workout, you should raise the heartbeat for at least 20 minutes, Cain said. And the key, as in any exercise program, is to remain consistent by walking three times a week.

The benefits from this workout are threefold — aerobic, physical and psychological. Walking strengthens the heart and lungs, increases "the good cholesterol," decreases blood pressure and relieves stress.

Walking becomes aerobic after raising the heartbeat for at least 20 consecutive minutes.

"It gives all of these wonderful benefits," Cain said. "But if you just stroll, you're not getting the aerobic benefits."

The proper pace and distance for an ample workout differs on the conditioning of individual people. Cain said. To monitor progress, she said, people should consistently take their pulse.

While walking is excellent for the legs, Cain said the benefits to the upper body are few and she does not recommend handweights. To build the upper body during workouts, swing the arms.

"Walking will get your legs in great shape but it doesn't do much for your arms," Cain said. "We don't really recommend handweights. Handweights do not make you any stronger."

Further, Cain emphasized that ankle weights also deliver more dangers than benefits.

"Ankle weights are dangerous because they change your gait . . . and you're more apt to trip or stumble," Cain said.

Although most people walk here and there, how many people walk here and there for exercise?

At Vic Tanny in Novi, 200 people a day come in for the sole purpose of walking, said manager Ken Micovich.

In addition, he said, "Everybody who comes in the building walks in some form or another — in either warm up or cool down."

Besides the low impact and inexpensive nature of the sport, walking also offers several other benefits — it burns calories at a rate comparable to more popular exercises.

Walk three miles in one hour and you burn 320 calories. Bike at six miles per hour for one hour and you burn 240 calories. Run at 12 miles per hour for one hour and you burn 410 calories, all of these numbers according to the American Heart Association.

Fitness Tips

Take the first steps toward physical fitness

Join others who are taking steps toward physical fitness. This two-part article will help you by first explaining the benefits and components of an exercise program and explain how to warm up and stretch. Next week we'll discuss aerobic activity, cooling down and strength training. Physical fitness does not happen overnight; it is a gradual process. The information below outlines the steps you should follow to develop a safe and personalized exercise program. We hope this is the beginning of a life-long commitment.

Benefits of exercise

A regular exercise program can bring you many physical and psychological benefits. By exercising regularly, you can:

- Strengthen your heart and lungs
- Strengthen and tone your muscles
- Increase your flexibility
- Increase your lean muscle mass
- Increase your energy level
- Increase your high density lipoproteins (HDL — the 'good' cholesterol)

proteins (HDL — the 'good' cholesterol)

- Decrease your total body weight and percent body fat
- Decrease your resting heart rate
- Decrease your total cholesterol
- Decrease your triglycerides

And . . . you will:

- Feel better/happier
- Look better
- Increase your self-esteem
- Have more self-confidence
- Be more productive
- Relieve stress
- Have more fun!

Components of an exercise program:

The components of an effective exercise program are listed below. You should do them in the proper sequence for a safe program.

- Warm-up . . . . . 5%
- Stretch . . . . . 5%
- Aerobic Activity . . . . . 65%
- Cool-down . . . . . 5%

Stretch . . . . . 10%

Strength work . . . . . 10%

If your exercise time is limited, your main emphasis should be on the aerobic activity. It is this activity which will make you physically fit while firming and strengthening your muscles.

The warm-up:

- Prepares the body for stretching and vigorous activity
- Should use the major muscle groups of the body
- Includes: walking, jogging easily, jumping rope, cycling easily, swimming easily, etc.
- Should last 5-10 minutes
- Is generally complete with the onset of perspiration; you are ready to stretch

The stretch adds to everyday mobility, will keep you flexible, and helps prevent common injuries. You should:

• Stretch in a relaxed, controlled manner — never bounce

- Hold each stretch 20-30 seconds before you start exercising and 45-60 seconds after you have exercised

- Stretch for at least 5-10 minutes before and after exercising
- Stretch all the major muscle groups

If you are beginning stretching, go slowly and give your body time to adjust. Let stretching be a time when you are aware of your muscles and in tune with your body.

Everything you need to close down a crackhouse.

The Case of The Stanton Park Stand-off

When crack moved into a row house on a quiet block of Stanton Park in Washington, D.C., folks decided to serve an eviction notice. They met with police to find out what they could do to keep drugs out of their neighborhood. The cops told them to keep an eye out — to let police know whenever something suspicious happened. They began to notice faces. They wrote down license numbers of strange cars. They noted the times of odd behavior. They worked with each other. They worked with the police. Armed with field glasses, note pads and telephones, folks kept track of the neighborhood.

Within one month, enough evidence had been gathered. Police moved in. Crack moved out. Citizen participation beat crime in D.C. It can do the same for you. For more success stories, write The McGuffey Files, 1 Prevention Way, Washington, D.C. 20539-0001. Police become even more responsive when their people are their partners. Together we can help

Golf Notes

OLV BOOSTER CLUB GOLF CLASSIC: A golf outing sponsored by the Our Lady of Victory Booster Club is set for Aug. 18 at Salem Hills Golf Club (Six Mile and Currie Roads).

Format for the event will be a four-person scramble and the $70 entry fee includes golf, cart, lunch, dinner and refreshments. Trophies will be awarded in both the men's and women's divisions.

Dinner only tickets are available for $20 and all proceeds from the outing will go to support youth athletic programs at Our Lady of Victory parish. Tee times are limited and payment must accompany registration. Interested golfers should contact Larry Lemler (349-0012), Ray Mendonis (349-7039) or Jim Brown (348-2159).

Special activities include a hole-in-one contest with the chance to win a 1990 Pontiac. Golf professional Charles Foster will conduct a golf clinic in the morning.

The Our Lady of Victory Booster Club's fundraising activities provide financial support to two boys' and two girls' basketball programs, a boys' baseball team and a cheerleading squad. Approximately 75 youngsters participate in these programs each year.

ANN ARBOR GOLF TOURNEYS: The city of Ann Arbor is sponsoring a golf outing this month: the City Senior Golf Tournament.

Leather Gives You All These Benefits

There's simply no other material as luxurious or as rewarding to the senses as 100% top-grain leather.
 Throughout the pages of this circular, we show you why Classic Leather is the best furniture investment you can make.
 Look for this sign at our store, and see why leather should be a part of your life.

Comfort Leather's porous surface and millions of fibers allow air circulation, so it gives unique, deep comfort.

Style Leather's natural beauty adapts to any style, so you have the freedom to select pieces that perfectly suit your special tastes.

Enjoy Pure LeatherLuxury

Heirloom Quality, classically styled top-grain leather furniture is actually enhanced by age. Superior frame construction combined with the unsurpassed durability of leather ensures that your leather furniture will keep on giving year after year.

Uniqueness No two pieces of leather furniture are exactly alike. Each is characterized with individual markings... proof of its history. No other upholstery material offers the unique quality and luxury of leather.
