Board will eye a new fire millage

By MIKE TYREE
Staff Writer

The township board will meet at 7 p.m. tonight (Aug. 13) to discuss fire department funding in the wake of last week's fire services millage defeat.

Board members will decide if a second fire millage request is to appear on the November general election ballot.

The .5-mill proposal was defeated 1,274-1,103 Aug. 7 and board members said tonight's meeting is necessitated because of an Aug. 14 deadline for placing proposals on the November ballot.

Township Finance Director James Graham will present preliminary 1991 budget figures this evening as the board grapples with the potential loss of approximately $200,000 in fire services funds.

Fire Chief Robert Toms asked the board to put the request back on the November ballot. He blamed resident confusion for the millage defeat.

"The people that opposed this, in their zeal to reduce taxes, just about put the fire department out of business," he said. "A lot of people didn't understand what they were voting on ... we just want to survive."

Toms said township ambulances "will go off the road" and said department-sponsored school fire education programs would end if a fire millage is not approved.

Trustee James Nowka agreed with Toms that resident confusion doomed the fire millage.

"They (fire millage opponents) bought a bad idea, from our point of view," he said. "They're saying to me they don't understand the program."

"I think it's necessary to put it back on the ballot."

But Supervisor Georgina Goss said she was opposed to placing the issue on the November ballot.

"I feel the people have spoken," she said. "I'm not in favor of putting it back on."

In the moments following the millage defeat, Goss said she would recommend the board support another request in the general election. Reflection caused her to change her mind, she said.

"I spent some time thinking about it," she said. "I don't believe the resi-

Local voters lose

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

Northville voters were overruled by the rest of Wayne County in primary decisions on a millage renewal and a new probate judge last Tuesday.

Wayne County's 1-mill renewal won by a narrow 55 percent of the vote, with a margin of 81,861 to 66,643. But if the majority of Northville voters had had their way, the renewal would have been defeated: local voters said no, by a 1,221 to 1,134 margin.

Wayne County Executive Edward McNamara said defeat of the renewal would have meant deep cuts in law enforcement, public health programs, recreation, job training and juvenile court resources. The millage will generate $240 million from taxes over the next 10 years.

Candidates from Grosse Ile and Detroit pulled in enough votes across the county to negate the strong local showing by a Northville candidate for the new probate court judgeship at Northville Regional Psychiatric Hospital. The new judge will hear mental competency cases and those involving western Wayne juveniles.

The salary for the six-year term position is $93,812 a year.

William Leo Cahalan, Jr. of Grosse Ile and Patricia Campbell of Detroit both advance to the November elections with vote totals of 30,374 and 24,843 apiece.

Northville resident Carolyn Blanchard won the most local support but did not garner enough support across the county to stay in the running. The local contestant won 403 Northville votes but finished a close third countywide with 22,341.

Sean Kavanagh of Livonia finished fourth with 21,024 votes, and Robert Costello of Detroit came in fifth with 15,197.

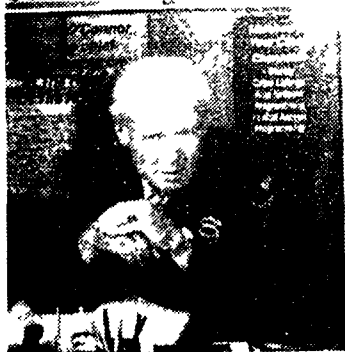

Plymouth resident Peter Bec finished a distant sixth with only 78 Northville votes and 3,569 votes countywide.

Voters were allowed to cast ballots for only one of the six primary candidates. The two top vote getters — Cahalan and Campbell — now advance to the Nov. 6 election.

News Briefs

Queen for two days: The Northville Victorian Festival Steering Committee is looking for Queen Victoria. Anyone interested in representing her highness during the Victorian Festival parade, Sept. 14, and again at the Victorian Festival Costume Ball on Sept. 15, is invited to submit her name to the Northville Chamber of Commerce. A name will be picked at random from all entrants.

The queen will be responsible for providing her own costume for the festival. Any woman, 18 or over, is invited to submit her name to the drawing. Names must be submitted by Aug. 17. Send or drop off submissions to the Northville Community Chamber of Commerce, Queen for a Day drawing, 195 S. Main Street, Northville. Only Northville residents are eligible.

Special assessment tonight: The Northville City Council will meet Monday, Aug. 13 to confirm a special assessment agreement with The Selective Group. The council is also expected to adopt a bond sale resolution for sidewalk repairs, parking lot reconfiguration and water main projects. The bond resolution is needed to allow a bond sale by the end of August to finance a September start of the parking lot and water projects.

Treasure hunt: The Northville Downtown Merchants Association will host a Scavenger Hunt/Road Rally on Saturday, Aug. 18. Anyone can play and there is no fee.

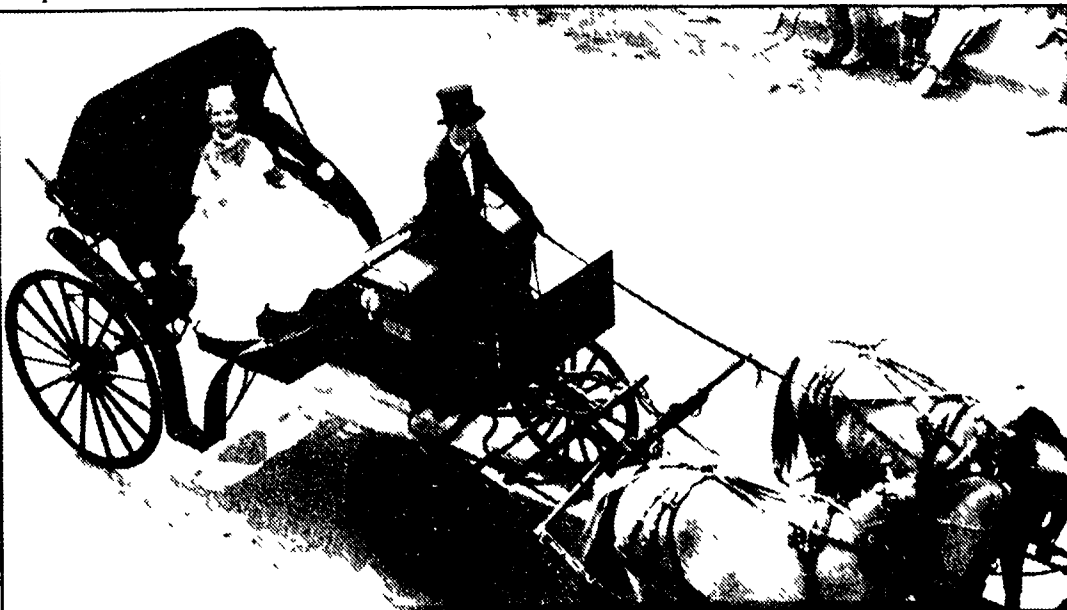

Players begin with a book of clues which will direct them to various places around town. At each stop, they must obtain the item mentioned in the clues. The winner is the one who accumulates the necessary items in the least amount of time.

The hunt will be held from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Players can start at any Downtown Merchants store, where they will get a time stamp and a clue book. They can begin at any time during that period since they are judged on their start-to-finish time.

Valuable prizes are being offered for the top finishers, with no prize worth less than $25.

Parents who want to play without their children in tow can occupy them with a pet show, and a stuffed animal and doll show, beginning at 10 a.m. at the Bands-hell. Interested entrants in either the Scavenger Hunt or the shows at the Bands-hell should call Betty Burch at 349-4477 or 347-4394.

Sports Briefs

Practice Begins: One of the first signs of the coming school year is upon us, as over 100,000 boys and girls statewide begin practice today (Aug. 13) for the eight fall sports sponsored by the Michigan High School Athletic Association.

There has been one change in the fall practice schedule for football teams. By action of the MHSAA Representative Council, the optional days of padless practice which had proceeded the regular starting practice date in recent years has been eliminated. Schools will still be required to conduct three days of football practice without pads before beginning contact drills. Football teams must practice for 14 days before the first scheduled date for varsity competition, which is Sept. 1.

Football is the only sport in the fall which requires practice minimums prior to competition. All other activities can engage in competition as soon as member schools determine their teams are ready.

Tennis Tryouts: All Northville High School girls interested in playing tennis for the Mustangs are urged to attend tryouts starting today (Aug. 13) at 9 a.m.

Exchange unites distant cultures

By MAUREEN NASZRADI

Gianni Prata had to run one last errand in the United States before returning to his native France — buy a pair of American blue jeans.

For the last three weeks, Prata stayed with the Herman family of Novi — Jim, Barbara, Rob, 17, and Katie, 14. The camaraderie that developed among the family members and Prata was evident Thursday as they recounted events during his visit before taking him to the airport.

"He's just a great kid," Jim said. "He's a lot like Rob, interested in sports . . ."

"He's just a 17-year-old kid — wacko," Jim added with a laugh.

Barbara said Benda International Inc., an agency that pairs exchange students with volunteer families, came up with a "perfect match."

"This kid could stay another year and I'd be happy," she added. "If he wants to come back next summer, he's welcome."

Katie's good-natured comments about their visitor were more reserved.

"It was like having another brother around," she grined.

Prata, who has a brother and younger sister, said the Herman family is similar to his own.

Rob and Prata agreed they had found things in common. The two 17-year-olds have discussed meeting in Italy to go skiing.

Prata said in France the phrase "my brother" in English means good friend, which he considers Rob.

This was Prata's first visit to the U.S. He said he found similarities and differences between his acquaintances here and friends and family in his hometown of Brunoy, near Paris.

He cited one difference — the local tastes in fashion, for example.

Looking to Katie for assistance in fashion terminology, which she supplied, Prata said, "We don't wear tie-rolled jeans . . . or inside-out shirts."

Prata said moments that he is taking home with him — and certainly will use — are the slang expressions he picked up here.

Exchange student Gianni Prata with host Barbara Herman and "Jake"

"Give me a break . . . I'm sure . . . Ooops," he reacted in accented English with a laugh.

The food here was another pleasant discovery for Prata.

"It's different from home," Prata said. "I'll miss the big breakfasts."

"I never tried Mexican food before, or peanut butter," he added.

Prata said he liked Novi because it was similar in size to his hometown. Also, he said he liked the "big yards" in the neighborhood around the Hermans' house.

Prata and Scott MacKercher, also of Novi, accompanied the Hermans to their cottage in Waters, Mich., near Gaylord, where they stayed during most of Prata's visit.

"I enjoyed the house up north and the forest near the lake," Prata said. He enjoyed water-skiing for the first time too, he added.

Prata, who speaks Italian and some Spanish as well as French, took English as an elective in school for six years.

"I'm bad but I'm learning," he said.

Barbara, a French teacher at North Farmington High School, said she enjoyed conversing with a native.

"I learned a lot of new words," she said.

Schools may go for millage vote

By MAUREEN NASZRADI
Staff Writer

The Northville Board of Education tonight will decide if a special millage election is necessary to raise funds lost to a state recapture plan.

A school-finance committee faced with developing a strategy to balance the district's 1990-91 budget determined that the exact funds lost to recapture should be raised through additional millage.

The budget currently is short approximately $885,000 as a result of the passage of the 1990 State Aid Act that "recaptured" state aid money the district had counted on to fund operations for the coming school year.

Approximately 30 Strategic Planning Committee members met at the high school Wednesday to discuss the board's alternatives to compensate for the funding that the board had included in the district budget adopted in June.

Newly elected Board President James Petrie reviewed the district's financial situation with the group.

"It's important to understand our predicament," he said. "On June 30 we were all right. The budget was balanced based on the Strategic Plan and we had a fund balance that we thought was appropriate."

Then committee members for 1½ hours asked school administrators, the three board members present, and each other questions about the district's options.

The committee said that the best course of action is to hold a Sept. 27 election for an operating millage amount that would generate enough revenue to cover the district's shortfall.

Many of the committee members expressed concern about the would the administration said would be necessary if either the board decides not to hold an election, or if the millage proposal fails.

Superintendent George Bell said, with the board's direction, the administration will begin next week identifying items that are to be cut in order to adequately plan for the latter scenario.

"It will be the second week in September before we have a handle on what it will take to produce $885,000," Bell said, "but I can tell you it's going to be painful."

"In all fairness to the community, they have to know what this means."

The school board is expected to take formal action on the committee recommendation — setting the ballot-question language and the number of mills to pursue — at its meeting tonight.

The committee discussed what type of millage proposition to pursue. Ballot proposals suggested were to ask for:

- The exact amount of millage needed to make up for the "recaptured" funds thereby balancing the budget (the consensus alternative).

- A millage amount that would generate enough revenue to make up for the recapture amount as well as fund the programs that were cut in order to initially balance the budget in June.

- Or a combination of millage for the recapture amount with the renewal millage amount that the district has to pursue in the spring anyway.

Once they concurred on a course of action, the committee members discussed the obstacles to holding a millage election in an "anti-tax environment."

Walled Lake drivers agree to pact

The Walled Lake Board of Education has approved a three-year contract for school bus drivers who've been working for a year without a settlement.

The retroactive contract gives bus drivers an 8-percent hourly wage hike adjustment for the past school year and another 8-percent raise for the coming year.

It also covers the employees for the 1991-92 school year, though wage increases for that year will be negotiated later, said Lois Lange, school district spokesperson.

The contract already had been ratified by the Walled Lake School Bus Drivers Association before it was approved Aug. 2 by the school board, ending months of negotiations.

Prior to the contract settlement, bus drivers were paid hourly wages ranging from $9.77 to $11.34.

"It's finally over," said Shirley Dertinger, president of the bus drivers' bargaining unit. "It's not the best contract, but it's good."

Some substitute bus drivers — who are not members of the bargaining unit — opposed a key contract provision saying that drivers must work six hours a day to qualify for insurance coverage, she said. Prior to the settlement, drivers only had to work four hours a day to receive coverage.

However, the new provision will apply only to bus drivers hired after June 14, Dertinger said. Substitutes who previously worked for the school district will retain their insurance coverage, even if their hours are cut to less than six hours a day, she said.

"We had some drivers who were very upset, but we couldn't hold up a contract for drivers who are not part of our bargaining unit," Dertinger said.

The school district currently employs 84 bus drivers and 15 substitutes, she said.

"I'd say most of the drivers appear to be satisfied with the contract," Dertinger said. "They're pretty happy with it."

The contract includes improved life insurance and better dental and optical plans, she said, adding that the bargaining unit had worked hard for gains in those areas.

"I'm just glad that it's over," Dertinger said.

In other school board matters, some area pipefitters attended the most recent board meeting to protest the decision to hire non-union pipefitters for a new elementary school planned in Novi.

However, the board stuck with its decision to hire Long Mechanical for $887,500 — part of $3.2 million in bids awarded Thursday for the foundation and site work at the new school.

The school, planned on Decker Road between 13 Mile and 14 Mile roads, is scheduled to open for the 1991-92 school year, becoming the district's 13th elementary.

INTO AFRICA: Local couple aims for career as bush pilots

By KATHY WEAVER
Special Writer

Kees and Valorie Bakker are pledging their lives to help the needy, particularly those in Africa.

The Novi residents have set a goal to move to Africa, south of the Sahara Desert, in 1993. They will spend the rest of their lives in area's western outback where they intend to fly a Maule STOL (short takeoff and landing) bush aircraft, transporting supplies to the natives and providing emergency transportation services.

The Maule is the only six-seat plane that is still built in the United States. Its price tag exceeds $111,500.

This particular aircraft has the extra cargo space that such a relief effort requires, while it is still small enough to be maneuvered in a limited amount of space.

"You have to remember, there are no runways in Africa like there are in the United States. We'll be landing in the middle of bush," said Kees.

For the Bakkers, such a relief effort would involve the purchase of this aircraft, maintenance of any primitive flight field, and constant contact with local missionaries who would interpret the native languages and their needs.

"But our dream is to take two planes to Africa and become a side-by-side bush-flying team," said Kees.

The Bakkers, who have been married for nearly three years, have been to Africa three times collectively. However, none of these trips was made together.

Valorie, a Franklin Road Christian School teacher, was the first to go to Africa as a member of the St. Clair Shores Assembly of God Missionary relief team. This team consisted of 12 people who, during January 1984 in Djibou, Burkino Faso, assisted the local people in building a church and a primitive medical station.

"What hit home with me was the children," said Valorie. Particularly a young girl who was badly burned by a cooking fire. "There was nothing we could do for her because we were 4 1/2 hours by jeep from the nearest hospital," she said.

Two years later, Kees, an independent sound contractor, journeyed to Burkino Faso, in a similar relief effort with 13 volunteers, to install tin roofs on existing churches built from mud and water.

"We spent the majority of our time traveling from village to village in a Range Rover, sometimes for 12-hour stretches," said Kees. "Obviously there is a practical need for aviation in these remote areas."

It was during this trip that Kees met Bruce Warner, a former pilot. Instantly becoming a friend, Warner ignited Kees' desire to provide aircraft support to these primitive people.

Warner agreed to teach Kees, and eventually Valorie, whom Kees had met through the church and later married in 1987, how to fly if the Bakkers would pay to have his pilot's license brought up to date.

"One day I got an abrupt call from (Warner) saying you owe me $400, and the next thing I knew we were student pilots," said Kees.

During his most recent trip in 1988, Kees and 11 other volunteers returned to Burkino Faso to prepare the foundation for a large church.

Again the need arose for aviation to transport desperately needed supplies to such a remote area. This void strengthened the Bakker's mutual desire to fly bush planes in this relief effort.

"It either impacts you tremendously or you're not affected at all," said Valorie. "We were strongly affected and are prepared to give our lives to this cause."

The Bakkers, who belong to the Troy Flying Club where Warner is an approved instructor, have been flying for the past two years. However, training has been slow due to poor weather and the rising costs of flight training.

"We need four ratings to fly in this relief-type capacity," said Kees.

These ratings include private (which Kees possesses and Valorie is three weeks from obtaining), instrument, commercial (in order to carry passengers), and sea- or float-plane which allows the pilot to attach pontoons to the aircraft in order to land in water.

"We have a lot of raining ahead of us," said Valorie, "not to mention a lot of financial obstacles to overcome."

In order to overcome these obstacles, the Bakkers are preparing to turn their relief effort into a non-profit organization. In this capacity, they will solicit corporate support to fund their goal.

"There won't be any salaries taken from the organization, we just need to be well funded to meet the physical needs of our effort," said Kees.

Novi pair face charges in poisoning case

An 18-year-old Novi man employed at a Farmington veterinary clinic faces felony poisoning charges, after an incident in which his supervisor drank water laced with a tranquilizer and required hospital treatment.

It is believed the medication came from the facility's pharmacy.

Derek Joseph Novara, 18, of Novi, stood mute Tuesday to one count of willfully placing a poison or harmful substance in a spring, well, reservoir or public water supply. Judge Fred Harris in 47th District Court entered a not guilty plea on his behalf and ordered him free on $2,500 personal bond, pending a preliminary examination.

Police sought poisoning charges against Novara and a 16-year-old female employee from the clinic, also a Novi resident, after Diane Lundquist reported numbness to her face and lightheadedness after drinking from her water bottle at work. She is the office manager at the Village Animal Clinic at Gill and Grand River in Farmington.

Police believe the water was laced with the tranquilizer chlorpromazine hydrochloride, a generic form of the tranquilizer Thorazine. A bottle of the drug was found in the clinic's pharmacy. The substance affects the central nervous system and is commonly used to treat certain forms of mental illness. Overdoses can cause cardiac problems and possible coma.

Lundquist was taken to Botsford General Hospital, where she was treated and released.

Charges against the juvenile are pending through the Oakland County Prosecutor's office.

Gary Goss, deputy director of the Farmington Department of Public Safety, said police are awaiting evidence from the Michigan State Police Crime Lab in Lansing, which will show how much of the drug was put into Lundquist's water bottle. Also sent to the lab were samples of medications from the pharmacy and the victim's water bottle.

If more than 25 milligrams is found, he said, more serious charges could be pursued.

Lab results are not expected for several weeks, Goss added.

Lundquist said last Friday she could not comment on the specifics of the situation, but said, "I feel fine and I'm sorry it had to happen. I want something good to come out of it."

"It was a stupid thing to do."

According to a Farmington Department of Public Safety report, two employees were cleaning the back room of the veterinary pharmacy at 5:30 p.m. July 26. One employee noticed a pill on the floor and reportedly dropped the pill into the office manager's water bottle, which sat on a nearby shelf. The report said both employees agreed to put the pill into the water bottle.

The report said the two had recently been disciplined for poor work habits.

When the office manager arrived at work next morning, she saw the water bottle on a shelf and took a mouthful. It tasted bitter and she spat it out, but not before she had swallowed a small amount of it.

The clinic owner, who was called at home, recommended the victim take something to induce vomiting, and came immediately to the clinic. There, he noticed several items out of place in the pharmacy area, saw a white substance in the bottom of the bottle and advised the victim to call the police.

Man takes off with stolen gasoline

A man in his early 20s with long blond hair failed to pay for $20 worth of gas at the Amoco station on Grand River in Novi at 11:45 p.m. the night of Aug. 7.

The man was driving a Lincoln with a dealer license plate, which was traced to Freigley and Watt Used Cars in Milford.

Milford police were alerted about the theft and stopped the vehicle in question later that night. A man matching the description given by the gas station attendant was in the car. The suspect, whose identity is being withheld until arraignment, was questioned and released.

The matter is still under investigation by the Novi police.

LARCENY FROM MEIJER: Meijer security personnel told township police that a black male switched a pair of old tennis shoes for a new pair and left the store without paying for them July 28. Meijer security said they tried to apprehend the man, who fled into a nearby wooded area and avoided capture. The incident occurred at 4:01 a.m.

AUTO PARTS STOLEN: A hood ornament from a 1986 Cadillac was reportedly stolen from a parking lot at 43171 Seven Mile July 31 between 4:30-10 p.m., township police said.

GOLF CLUBS STOLEN: A set of golf clubs valued at $992.98 was reportedly stolen from the trunk of a 1988 Audi parked at Meadowbrook Country Club, 40941 Eight Mile Road, July 23 sometime between 2-11:30 p.m. Police said the vehicle's trunk lock had been punched, causing approximately $350 damage. A golf bag and 15 clubs were stolen.

VEHICLE DAMAGED: A 1989 Ford truck received an estimated $200 damage after someone painted and spread electrical tape on it July 31 between 2-3 p.m. The complainant told township police the vehicle was parked at Winchester Elementary, 16141 Winchester, when the damage occurred.

LARCENY FROM MEIJER: A 22-year old Rockford woman was arrested and charged with larceny July 31 at 11:55 a.m. at Meijer, 20401 Haggerty.

dents voted against the fire department. I do believe they were saying they don't want any more taxes and I think we need public hearings to hear what residents want.

"We have to look at where we can cut services."

Treasurer Betty Lennox echoed Goss, but Trustee Donald Williams said he "couldn't see losing the fire department."

Clerk Tom Cook reminded the board of the Aug. 14 ballot language deadline and asked Graham to make a preliminary budget report Monday.

"We can look at the (budget) numbers and see where we stand," Cook said. "We have to do something now."

The preliminary township budget was not due until Aug. 30, but Graham said he could have accurate figures for the board tonight.

"I've already been working on this for three weeks," he said. "There will be integrity in the numbers; they won't just be pulled from the sky." Graham said his presentation will include all township departments and services, "not just the picture of the fire department."

He would not say what services might have to be cut to keep the fire department at its present funding level.

"That's a total (board) policy decision," he said.

Dejaiz at its new Twelve Oaks Mall location, is churning out the trendy, young men's fashions at the same frantic pace as its thumping, pumping jams.

Selling young men's contemporary clothing with a backdrop of upbeat, pulsating music often goes hand-in-hand — take Oak Tree and Merry-Go-Round and now the newest store on the block, Dejaiz.

"We're pretty much geared towards the fashion-value shopper," said manager Nancy Dugas, adding that the young men's store sometimes attracts women. "[The store] looks for the things that are a little out of the ordinary, but trendy."

Although it opened in early March, the store has been around a lot longer. That's right, this Dejaiz was formerly that D.J.'s, which existed since the early '80s.

The store switched names to become "more upbeat, more fun," Dugas said. It currently attracts approximately 500 buying customers weekly.

"We're building clientele every day," she said. "It's really amazing how many people out there want trendy clothes."

And the aim, she said, is "to be the best young men's clothing store in America, and we're quickly approaching that."

How? Well, take the hottest clothes — currently baggy pants called "skids" — and mix it with creative sales and upbeat music.

Want sales? Try the "two-for" sales that dot the store's interior.

Dejaiz carries the I.O.U. and Cavari clothing lines, among others, as well as clothing from socks to suits. From the $4.99 bracelets to the $400 leather jacket, Dejaiz sells clothing at "moderate to better prices," Dugas said.

The competition for Dejaiz includes Oak Tree and Merry-Go-Round (although Dejaiz and Merry-Go-Round are sister stores both owned by Merry-Go-Round Enterprises).

"[Dejaiz] is a men's clothing store of the '90s for a young male from 14-35," Dugas said.

The trends of the very near future don't appear to hold dramatic shifts from the current styles.

"Skids will continue to be popular," Dugas said. Also, look for the I.O.U. and Cavari brands on the high schoolers as they head out in the fall.

"We set out to look more fashionable than the next guy," Dugas said. "There are so many kids out there and they're so pressured into looking trendy."

Trucker proves it's never too late

What chance for success would you give someone who was willing to risk a 57-percent pay cut to make a career change that offered no guarantees?

Would you bet on this person making a successful transition from truck driver to top salesperson with 1989 sales of $1.5 million? If you think it isn't possible, you're wrong.

Sanchez is living proof that anything can happen for the brave who venture away from the safety of everyday life. As a student at Detroit's Chadsey High, Sanchez dreamed of one day becoming a truck driver. After graduation in 1973 he was hired as a dock worker by Associated Truck Lines. Three years later he was given the opportunity to drive his own rig.

"It was my life's ambition come true," Sanchez said. "I really believed that I could be completely content driving a truck for the rest of my life."

After enjoying a few more years of job satisfaction, security, a $30,000 annual salary and a reputation as one of the best drivers in the business, Sanchez was asked to trade it all in for a career opportunity in a field he knew nothing about.

Bill Cullinan, president of Governor Information Products, a Dearborn computer accessories and supplies distributor, recognized there was something special about Sanchez the first time he met him.

"I did not present myself in a way I would have expected," Cullinan said. Beyond the fact that he was young, outgoing and articulate, Sanchez made a point to dress for success.

After several more months of social contacts, Cullinan began to consider Sanchez as a potential addition to Governor's outside sales staff.

"He was a diamond in the rough. All he needed was the right support and training to make it in our business," he said.

After Cullinan suggested that Sanchez contact him about a possible sales position, Sanchez spent the

Both patients and staff have been loyal to the Center over the last 10 years. Claudette Thal began working at the Center as part of the Novi High School work co-op program. ## Now is no time to condemn GM

I'm not quite sure it's time to feel sorry for General Motors, since they seem to toddle along pretty well despite a seemingly unending stream of criticism about virtually every aspect of their operations.

On the other hand, it appears there are quite a few people in the media attempting to cover the launch of GM's new Saturn division like so many poor shooters crouched in duck blinds with feathers tied to their heads, in case you wondered where their sympathies reside.

A particularly silly story recently appeared on the front page of the Detroit Free Press, wherein it was reported that the Saturn doors were sticking in tests in Phoenix. No matter that GM routinely tests plastic parts in Phoenix at temperatures of 250 degrees Fahrenheit — hot enough to do a credible job on a TV dinner. The sucking parts were supposed to be delaying the Saturn launch.

Not to worry, by the next issue, the engineering job was completed in less than 24 hours and the doors were fixed; at least that was that the Free Press would have you believe. Or maybe the second story that declared the doors were fixed was supposed to be some kind of correction.

Any way, a company that can fix doors in less than a day now becomes the target of a front-page story in the Wall Street Journal that says that they are too slow. Not only too slow, the Saturn car is compared unfavorably with the speedy efforts of Japanese automaker Honda to set up manufacturing in the U.S. The conclusion of the writers is that Saturn is expensive, slow to get started, and not making its original goals.

The irony to the Journal piece is that even the facts as related in the story don't support the conclusion. The Journal reports the cost of building the Saturn plant is $1.9 billion, compared to the $2 billion spent by Honda, yet insists the GM expenditure is "enormous," compared to Honda's, and GM hasn't beat the Japanese on cost. While it's difficult to change your mind when it's already made up, the Journal might start by reading its own figures.

Even more curious is the notion that the Saturn plant is slow getting built. Much of this confusion starts from a research project GM launched in the late 1980s to study high-tech manufacturing. Dubbed the "Saturn Project," it led to a press conference in 1983 where Chairperson Roger Smith announced that GM's research would eventually lead to development of a small car, competitive with the Japanese.

I may have been the only one at the press conference who asked Chairman Roger "Which Japanese car?" since he answered "the Honda Accord," not some mythical ultra-cheap small car, as frequently reported. At the time, the Accord was smaller than a Ford Tempo and selling for less than a mid-size Buick Wildcat. GM's cheapest car (the Chevette) was less than $8,000. I left thinking the guy was awfully bright to see the handwriting on the wall about the importance of the Honda — since by GM standards at the time it scarcely seemed much of a threat.

That press conference was already about two years after Honda had begun building cars in the U.S., after they spent about four years real estate shopping and a trial run at motorcycle engines. The bean-counters at GM did, in fact, twiddle their fingers for nearly two years before the Saturn Corp. company was formed and the corporate decision was made to fund and build a Saturn car and manufacturing complex.

Five years later, according to the Journal's own calendar of events, Saturn was ready to build the car, transmission, and engine, as well as launch a new dealer network to sell the thing.

According to the same calendar the Journal published with the article, Honda took 10 years to accomplish the same thing, albeit it did it a piece at a time, starting with the motorcycles, then cars, then engines, then lawnmowers. The completion of a full-scale U.S. manufacturing complex is ending in a dead heat. Honda only began building transmissions (which Saturn will do at the launch) late last year. Today, Honda still builds more than 25 percent of the content of its U.S. assembled cars in Japan.

Regardless, the Journal writers conclude that "Honda, once it got started, moved faster." In fact, Honda started at least five years earlier than Saturn and will finish behind it — at least in finally building a Honda that qualifies as fully manufactured in the U.S.

That's not to say Honda was being unwise. It clearly has been paying its way as it goes, building revenue in bits and pieces and offsetting what today are substantially higher wages in the U.S.

But the fact is that the Saturn car, plant and dealer infrastructure has set some kind of speed record in building a ground-up car operation the likes of which may be unique in the world of car business.

Where urban sprawl meets 'no-growth'

Assembly seen as solution

Redevelopment, a key to controlling urban sprawl and alleviating no-growth pressures, is unlikely without land assembly — amassing parcels into a larger package that encourages new construction.

Redevelopment is the best of both worlds. No growth advocates in rural and suburban areas prefer development elsewhere and urban areas appreciate the additional tax base.

But there's a problem. Developers don't want to build in developed areas because it costs too much to put land together.

Government, according to Oakland County director of economic development Joseph Joachim, will need to lend a hand in assembling larger parcels in developed areas.

Residents, city planners and municipal officials are beginning to see the drawbacks of uncontrolled growth, and are beginning to redirect growth back to areas that were either abandoned or underused, he said.

Land assembly is a high priority of the Greater Detroit Economic Development Group (GDEG), a consortium of leaders from Detroit, Oakland, Wayne and Macomb counties, Joachim said.

"We're trying to design something equitable and workable."

Quite simply, development cannot occur on the cookie-cutter parcels of the past, Joachim said.

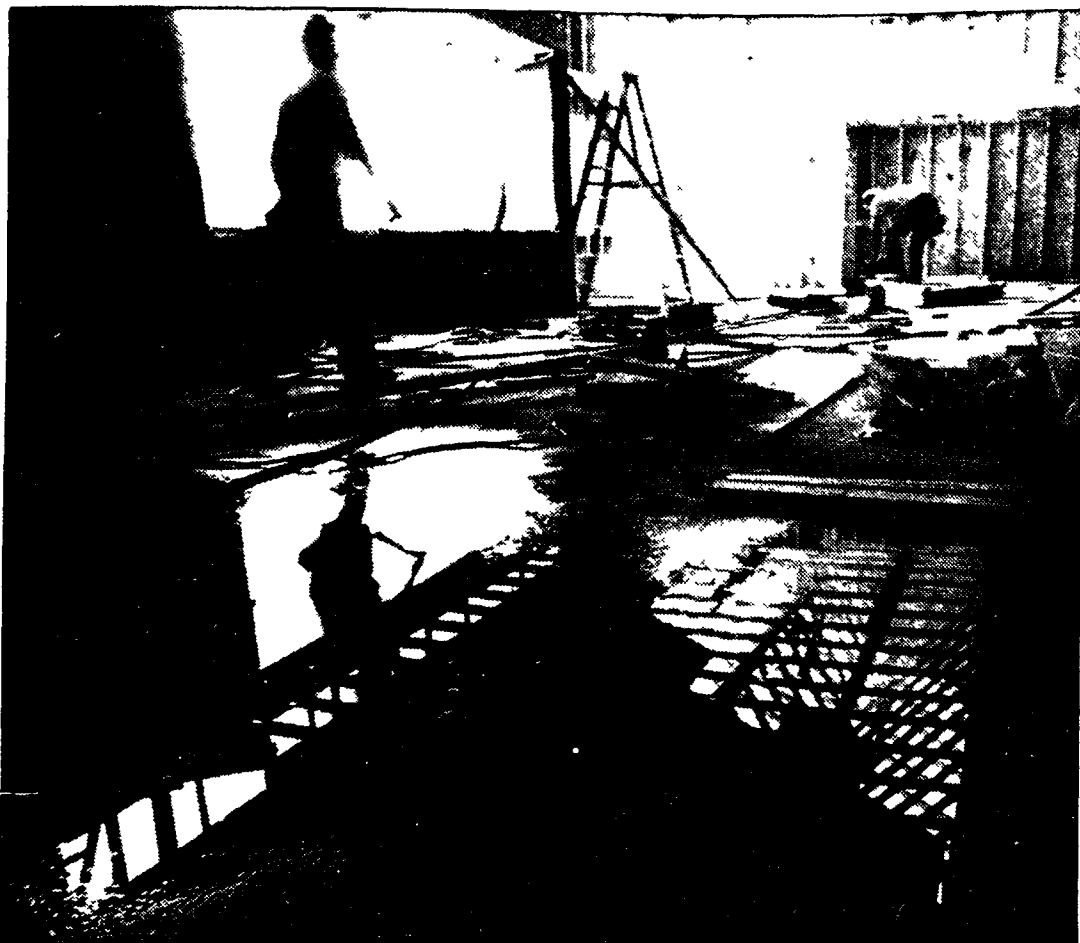

Piecemeal development has resulted in small, separately owned parcels that are useless to developers who build larger projects to take advantage of economies of scale.

Property and development costs are expensive, but throwing land assembly costs into the equation makes redevelopment undesirable, Joachim said. In such cases, developers naturally prefer construction in rural areas.

"The way to encourage developers is to make redevelopment costs in urban areas comparative to green-field development costs," he said.

State funds could be used to clear and prepare land for development, Joachim said. But there are relatively few state funds available though there are some untapped sources, he said.

Nearly $45 million of the $800 million in bond funds approved in November 1988 for environmental and recreation uses has been ear-

"The way to encourage developers is to make redevelopment costs in urban areas comparative to green field development costs."

Joseph Joachim

Oakland County director of economic development marked for cleaning up contaminated urban areas to allow for redevelopment, Joachim said.

Many potential redevelopment sites remain abandoned because previous uses have contaminated the property, he said.

Developers are unwilling to buy such property because ownership — under current Michigan and federal laws — transfers liability for cleaning the site.

Before federal funds were cut in the early 1980s, Urban Development Action Grants (UDAGs) picked up the expenses of cleaning land for redevelopment, he said.

Currently, the Michigan Urban Land Assembly Fund is the only real tool available other than the condemnation of property, which is often challenged.

The land assembly fund currently has $1.2 million available, said John Iverson, director of the Commerce Department area development division.

The land assembly fund is a revolving fund that loans money to communities for industrial and commercial redevelopment.

In total, the fund has $7.3 million available for land assembly for industrial or commercial projects, Iverson said.

Projects must meet certain requirements, Iverson said, but obtaining low- or no-interest loans from the fund are not as difficult as most believe.

Projects must be in areas where unemployment and state equalized value is 70 percent or less of the state average and population growth is 75 percent or less of the state's average population growth.

"There are very few communities that don't qualify for the requirements," Iverson said. "You'd have to be a very successful area not to comply."

Loans are repaid after 10 years or if the project is leased or sold.

Land assembly became a priority only two months ago so little has been accomplished, said Gloria Robinson, director of the Wayne County planning division and chair of the GDEG land assembly technical committee.

The technical committee has begun reviewing Michigan law and public and private projects for possible solutions to the land assembly problem.

The technical committee probably won't have any concrete proposals for several months, Robinson said.

The technical committee has been talking to builders to determine their willingness to redevelop, she said.

Assembling land is costly for cities

There currently appears to be little need for government assistance in land assembly, but anti-development pressures in the suburbs are meeting up with redevelopment pressures from the more urban areas.

As little as five years ago, people saw little need for redevelopment, said Oakland County Director of Economic Development Joseph Joachim. Land in the suburbs was plentiful and the tax benefits of construction were welcomed by most communities.

Today, the story has changed, he said. Roads, sewer and water systems in the west and north of southeastern Michigan are overburdened, and the already developed areas have seen their tax bases move away from the urban areas.

The multi-use project at 1-696 and Woodward Avenue in Royal Oak, Joachim said, is a good example of the advantages and problems faced by redevelopment.

Once assembled, the redevelopment will create jobs, increase the tax base and improve the city's south side, Joachim said, but the $100-million office, housing and hotel project has been burdened by land assembly problems.

Costs to assemble land necessary for the project have been higher than expected, property condemnation has been challenged and state land for the project has been difficult to acquire.

"What we want to do is make this whole process run smoother," Joachim said.

Government's ability to acquire land has been limited to two methods — condemnation, which allows a municipality to take property for the public good; and outright purchases.

The condemnation law has positive and negative aspects, said Lewis McDaniels, Royal Oak director of community and economic development.

On the positive side, condemnation allows a community to acquire land quickly. If the land's value is disputed, the municipality can take the land and settle the debate in court.

On the negative side, McDaniels said, are the potential costs of legal fees.

For example, the government — after an independent appraisal of the property — sets the value of a parcel at $500,000 and takes the property. The owner, who decides the property is worth more, files a lawsuit claiming the property is worth $1 million.

During the court suit, the municipality is responsible for further appraisal costs, court fees, its legal expenses, and when the court makes a decision, the property's value.

If the court decides that the property value is $750,000, the municipality is responsible for that $750,000 plus one-third of the difference between municipal estimates and the final judgment, which is paid to the property owner's attorney.

The condemnation laws could be changed to limit the amount paid to attorneys, McDaniels suggested.

Condemnation laws were written to protect an individual's property, he said, and governments must be certain a project is for the public good and that compensation is fair.

Adjustments might also be made to the Tax Increment Financing Act (TIFA) and the downtown development authority (DDA) laws, McDaniels said.

As long as the desired property is within the established districts, TIFA and DDA monies can be used to assemble land, but there are difficulties.

For example, municipalities would need to borrow money against the expected taxes gained from the DDA and TIFA districts to pay for the land. Even after the money is borrowed, however, it still takes time to buy and assemble the land.

Trading municipal-owned property with the desired property could work, but few municipalities own expendable land.

State loans and grants like the Michigan Land Assemble Fund are extremely useful to communities interested in redevelopment, McDaniels said.

He suggested the state could increase the funds that are available and county governments might be able to loan money. The Michigan land assembly fund has been useful to Royal Oak and other communities, McDaniels said, but the money has been limited.

Can you afford that new home?

The decision has already been made to buy a new house, but the question of affordability remains. To figure out how much house you can afford, you must first understand several key terms: down payment, qualifying for a loan and closing costs.

Lenders ask for down payments so that if you default on your loan, the house can be sold and the losses from your transaction can be recovered from the proceeds of the sale. Buyers entering the market for the first time usually must rely on savings or assistance from a relative to accumulate a down payment.

The size of your down payment plays an important role in determining how large a loan you qualify for.

Lenders examine your credit record and the extent to which you are already in debt to determine the maximum monthly payment you can afford.

Most conventional loans (not government insured) require a 20 percent down payment. But first-time home buyers may not have those kinds of savings. Sources available to them are FHA (Federal Housing Administration) or VA (Veterans Administration) loans.

A loan insured by the FHA normally requires a down payment of 5 percent of the home's appraised value. Their interest rates are generally slightly below those for conventional loans. Qualified FHA borrowers are also required to pay a mortgage insurance premium of 3.8 percent of the total loan amount. A ceiling amount, based on the prevailing home costs in your area in which you are buying, determines the maximum loan amount.

The VA guarantees loans to people who have served in the armed forces and who qualify financially. No down payment is required if the loan is for $144,000 or less. There is a 1 percent funding fee on VA loans.

Private mortgage insurance (PMI) loans are an option available to those who don't qualify for FHA or VA loans. These loans require a 5-10 percent down payment and are insured by private mortgage companies.

Not all the money you require will be applied to the down payment. A major expense many first-time buyers overlook is settlement or closing costs.

When you apply for a loan, the lender is required by law to provide you with a good-faith estimate of closing costs. Thousands of dollars can be spent in this final step in buying a home.

Closing costs fall in two general categories: points, costs from making the loans, and expenses linked to the actual transfer of property from the seller to you. Discount points charged by the lender are generally the largest part of your closing costs. One point equals 1 percent of the total loan amount. Points should be a strong consideration in your loan selection. The borrower almost always pays his own points.

Other costs, some of which may be negotiated between the buyer and the seller, include: appraisal fee, attorney's fees, credit report, property survey fee, recording fee, state and local transfer taxes, title search and insurance, and property taxes.

The Michigan Association of CPAs, based in Farmington Hills, also urges prospective home buyers to think in terms of affordability. Investment and tax considerations CPAs suggest that the total carrying charges of owning a home should not exceed 40 percent of your monthly net income.

If your finances are tight, consider buying a smaller home in a desirable location.

Robert Meisner/Condo Queries

Should assessment vary with size?

I own a condo in a development that has four sizes of condos. Monthly charges are based on the square footage of the units. My size condo pays $60 more than most. My grounds are no larger and the driveways are the same. But when it was painted and the roof was replaced, charges were prorated the same for everyone. Is this the rule for most condos? I protest every year. They say that's the way it is in the by-laws and can't be changed.

It is my assumption that the assessment for the roofs was allocated among all the co-owners equally, even though the percentages of value are different and the co-owners are paying different assessments on a normal basis for the units.

There would appear to be an inconsistency in the manner in which the association levied the additional or special assessment. I would consult with legal counsel to review your documents and the assessment policies of the association. In addition, to the extent that the documents are 17 years old, it may be next-to-impossible to amend the documents, depending on the policy of the association regarding recent changes to the Condominium Act, as they relate to the amendment of condominium documents. You should consult with an attorney regarding these issues or, at least, encourage your board of directors to do so to determine the viability of such changes.

The developer is responsible for numerous construction defects and deficiencies at our condominium and refuses to realistically talk with us. We are considering retaining legal counsel to start a lawsuit against him. We have gotten nowhere with the township, but we understand that it may assist us in regard to his future projects in the township. What is the best course of action in terms of dealing with the developer at this time?

If you have made every reasonable effort to present your claim as documented to the developer and have been unsuccessful, you should consider the various legal remedies you have available, including the institution of legal proceedings.

While the township may be helpful to the extent that it is willing to deprive the developer of the right to develop additional phases until the problems are corrected at your project, generally speaking, that does not result in a permanent and satisfactory resolution for the association. The township is not in the position, normally, to satisfy the needs of the association in this type of problem.

Oftentimes, developers respond to the association if they realize that it is serious in pursuing them, and that it has both the legal and financial wherewithal to do so. Oftentimes, developers are impressed with the quality of the consultants, experts and legal counsel, which have been retained by the association to pursue the developer. Many times that results in the developer coming to the bargaining table to forthrightly meet its responsibilities.

Changing careers possible at any age

next three months trying to "close the deal" with Governor.

"I called Bill every day," Sanchez recalled, "and although I never realized it at the time, he was testing my persistence."

Cullinan agreed and added that Sanchez's ability to handle rejection confirmed his selling potential. "I planted the seed and waited to see if it would grow — and it did."

Hired nearly six years ago on a trial basis of one month, Sanchez estimates that his annual salary has nearly tripled since his days as a truck driver. When asked to advise others who may believe it is too late to pursue alternative career opportunities, Sanchez is direct: "If you don't do anything about improving your career situation, nothing is going to happen."

Mary DiPaolo is the owner of MarkeTrends, a Farmington Hills business consulting firm. She is also producer and host of a cable television series, "Chamber Perspectives."

Just a fraction of our time watching movies could help bring many happy endings.

If we all shared just a small part of the things we take for granted in life, we could take better care of the things which have become taken for granted in our community. Like conservation. The Arts. Or education.

Millions of people have helped establish five percent of their incomes and five hours of volunteer time per week as America's standard of giving. If we all reached this standard, we could generate more than $175 billion every year. With a force equivalent to 20 million full-time workers.

This year, make it your goal to give five. And help bring the curtain down on society's problems.

Give Five.
What you get back is immeasurable

Wally Bonfield is Young At Heart.
U.S. Savings Bonds

If you stop for gas at Wally Bonfield's service station, be prepared to fill up on a few good stories, as well. Wally's seen a lot of things change since he opened Bonfield's back in 1927. Thankfully, there's always been one thing he could count on. U.S. Savings Bonds, the Great American Investment. "Like it or not, I might have retired one day," he says. "I'm just glad I found a way to do it comfortably." Bonds pay competitive rates, and they're one of the safest investments around. Which leaves a lot of folks thinking that Wally is wise beyond his years. Call for information, or write U.S. Savings Bonds, Dept. 893-N, Washington, D.C. 20026.

FAMILY FARE

Young actor's love for animals evident on The Family Channel

By Amy Schmidt

Andrew Bednarski was 7 years old and accompanying his older brother, Steven, to a fashion shoot when one model failed to show and Andrew was picked to fill in. The young actor stars as Stevie Katts on The Family Channel series, Rin Tin Tin K-9 Cop, which enters its third season.

Andrew is now 14, and so far has had 16 film and television roles, has done 15 voice-overs for various productions, and has acted in theater. The CBS Movie of the Week, Miles To Go, won him a 1987 Emmy nomination for Outstanding Performance by a Supporting Actor.

About his success (and that of his two brothers Steven and Robert, who have also gone into acting), Andrew says his family was surprised but also "very pleased." However, he doesn't plan to continue acting for one reason. "It's too unstable, for adults. It doesn't last," he says. Instead, Andrew wants to go into veterinary medicine: "I just love anything that has to do with animals."

Besides Rin Tin Tin K-9 Cop, Andrew acts in the Canadian series, Katts And Dog. Both are filmed in Toronto, Canada. He says one of the best parts about acting is the travelling, and Andrew has been lucky enough to film in Switzerland and France, in addition to Canada and the United States.

Asked what advice he would have for other kids who want to get into acting, Andrew says, "Go for it! It's really wonderful. It's a lot of fun. The only really hard thing is the hours you have to work. But otherwise, you get to travel a lot, you meet great people, and you have a lot of fun."

Andrew hinted there may be an adoption in store for his character, Stevie, on the show this year, "But you'll have to watch it to find out," he says. Rin Tin Tin K-9 Cop can be seen Fridays and Saturdays on The Family Channel.

Cable Comments

By LARK L. SAMOUELIAN
Executive Director,
SW Oakland Cable Comm.

An all area family health series of thirty-six programs is being sponsored by the Novi Optimist Club.

The executive producer and host is Optimist member, David N. Schindler M.D. The Optimist Club is always looking for progressive ways to serve the community, especially ways concerning children and families. Dr. Schindler, was a perfect choice for the television program. He is a member of a Novi Family Practice whose motto is "We Specialize in You".

Nancy Schindler, a high school teacher, also helped with the opening and participated in several of the shows.

Along with the Optimists, Cindy Stewart of Novi, Todd Whitman and Kevin Southers of the Southwestern Oakland Cable Commission provide the technical crew.

The series emphasizes the sensational from reality for a practical view of medicine. Dr. Schindler stresses that the programs "are not to replace your physician's advise as there is such a wide variety of considerations with every person's situation.

Each topic will be aired for three weeks and may be requested to be seen on your Community Television Channel, if it isn't already scheduled.

Programs beginning to be cablecast are: Overview of Family Medicine; Prenatal Care; Options in Child Birth; Cardiovascular Risk; Sports Medicine; Medical Uses of Hypnosis; Arthritis; and Womens Health Issues.

The format is an interview show with demonstrations whenever possible. On site footage and/or slides have been included to offer actual visual examples. The program is currently taped at the Novi Civic Center.

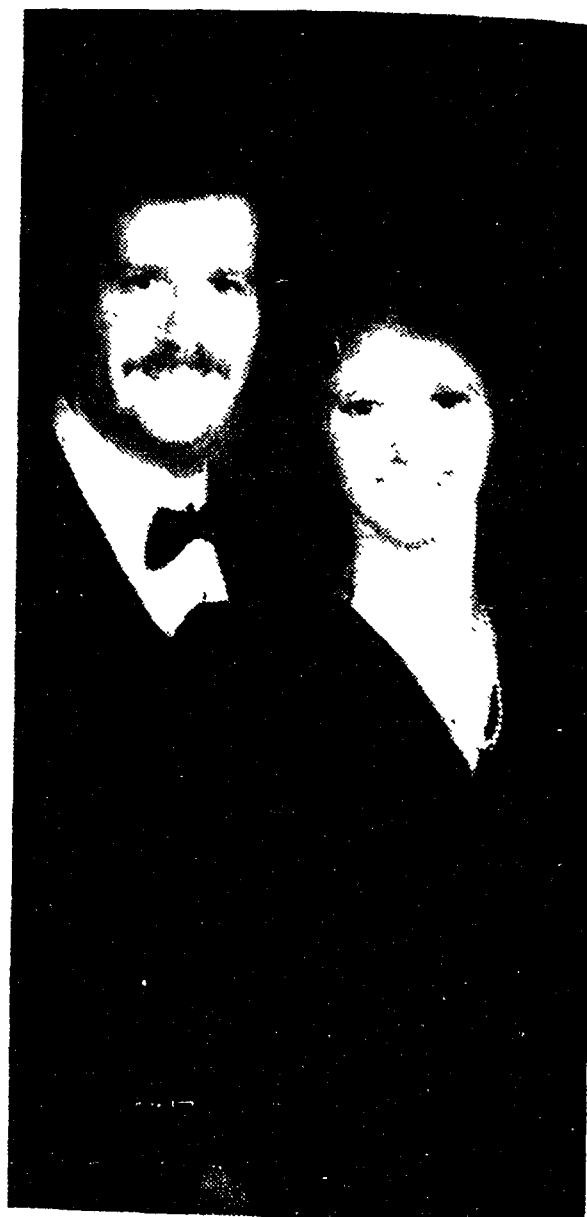

When I asked Dr. Schindler how he became inspired he replied, "hark, you inspired me to speak at the Optimist Club". Needless to say, I was tickled. (A note to area service clubs: There are many of us in Community Television who are qualified 'diplomats' and who could be very happy to speak to your group. Maria Holmes and John Martin of Omnicom would be delighted to share with you just how groups in the Plymouth, Canton and Northville area can participate as the Novi Optimists have. I will be happy to provide such guidance on specifics in Farmington, Novi and Farmington Hills and in general about the uses of other cable opportunities in other areas.)

Dr. Schindler also commented that the organizing of a television production "was a lot easier than he thought it would be." His philosophy is that he "always looks long range", and this helped keep him motivated.

I asked him what he enjoyed most about his project... "That it is done! I didn't realize how much time it takes." To quote Todd Whitman, "You can count on a television project to take twice as much time as you initially expected".

In summary it appears that several factors intertwine for the television production novice. They are: Motivation to help the community; Desire to create an interesting show; and the willingness to take the time to finish what you start.

Dr. and Mrs. David Schindler are involved in a health series sponsored by the Optimist Club.

To think only of the best, to work only for the best and to expect only the best.
To be just as enthusiastic about the success of others as you are about your own.
To forget the mistakes of the past and press on to the greater achievements of the future.
To wear a cheerful countenance at all times and give every living creature you meet a smile.
To give so much time to the improvement of yourself that you have no time to criticize others.
To be too large for worry, too noble for anger, too strong for fear, and too happy to permit the presence of trouble."

Cathy Podewell likes role's gradual change

J.R.'s wife keeps naivete in tact

By MARY ANN TOWNSEND

How time flies. It's already been two seasons since country bumpkin Cally Harper came bounding into J.R. Ewing's highfalutin life on the CBS nighttime drama "Dallas."

The character has gone through a nice, gradual change, according to Cathy Podewell, the actress who will be playing Cally for the third season beginning this fall.

From being an unrefined hillbilly throughout most of the first season, to wearing the shoes of a Texas oilman's wife, Cally has retained one basic trait, Podewell said.

"It's been nice because, even married to J.R., she hasn't lost her real sense of innocence and sweetness," Podewell said.

Podewell understands Cally's naivete, and, in fact, experienced it herself a few years ago.

"My eyes were opened a lot when I moved to Los Angeles, and I think that Cally's were when she moved to Dallas. I empathize with her — the people she was meeting and the changes she was going through — as her eyes were becoming wider and wider. I think I'm a little bit less naive than she is, she still has a ways to go, but she's learning," the actress said.

Although the storyline will be focusing on others such as newlyweds Bobby and April (Patrick Duffy and Sherree Wilson), Cally is by no means hidden in the background. As J.R.'s wife, she is the only one who can decide whether or not to release J.R. from the insane asylum he checked into for a business scheme last season. She is also pregnant with J.R.'s child.

The role has been a departure for Podewell, who had guest starred on a variety of sitcoms, and who had, admittedly, not ever watched a full episode of "Dallas" prior to being cast.

"I never watched it," Podewell said bashfully. "It's funny because when 'Dallas' started I think I was in seventh grade. And then, you know in high school I was a cheerleader and it was on Friday nights. On Friday nights I was out cheering in the game. But my mom, who doesn't watch TV much, watches 'Dallas' and the news. She just about died when I called and told her, 'Guess who's playing J.R.'s wife?'"

And just as her character has become more well-rounded from spending two years in the hoity-toity lifestyle of "Dallas," the experience has been an education for the actress, as well.

"I never even thought about 'Dallas' because I was in so many comedies that I just assumed that that's what I would do, I would be a comedy character actress — and it's like

'J.R., "Dallas," I got this series?'" she said she asked herself. But she soon adapted.

"I've had a lot of crying scenes, a lot of mad scenes, so I've worked on a lot of different emotions that I never really got the opportunity to try out in comedy." Then echoing her earlier sentiments about her character's evolution, she said, "I've definitely developed I think, and I have a lot more to go, but hey, that's life."

SOAP TALK

'General Hospital' recently reached milestone

By Candace Havens

It is the longest-running daytime program on ABC and is also the longest-running daytime drama produced on the West Coast. The show is General Hospital, of course, and it just celebrated its 7,000th show milestone.

GH has evolved into a mixture of suspense, romance, mystery, comedy and adventure. Famed for the Luke and Laura romance of 1979-81, the show derives a good deal of its present-day popularity from several running romances. Frisco and Felecia are now married, but Anna is now in a dilemma as she finds herself constantly crossing paths with Shep, and Dawn and Decker are falling closer as Colton falls for Carla.

Dear Candace: I am a longtime fan of One Life To Live, and I think it is great that they put Dorian Lord Callison back on the show. But if I recall correctly, Viki Buchanan used to be Viki Lord Buchanan, so I don't see why Dorian has so much hatred toward the Buchanans. My question to you is, is Dorian Viki's sister? ---Fan of OLTL, Greg Rogers, Silsbee, Texas

Dear Greg: Dorian is a lot of things, but she is definitely not Viki's sister. She was, however, at one time Viki's stepmother and the mistress of Llanfair. When Victor Lord died, Dorian wanted Viki out of her life. Viki never cared for Dorian because she was as manipulative back then as she is now. Through the years they have had to do each other favors and were sometimes close to being friends, but most of the time they love to hate each other.

Dear Candace: My husband and I have been daily viewers of Days Of Our Lives for over 10 years. Speaking for both of us (and I feel certain many others) it is a pleasure to watch Anne Howard in the role of Kim. She gives the role a true-to-life portrayal, with out ham-acting or posturing.

I sincerely hope others who feel as we do will express their opinions. It would be great to have Anne Howard in the role of Kim. ---Sincerely, Kathleen Viola, Athens, Ala.

I want to hear from you! If you have a favorite soap scenario you would like to sound off about, or a question about the soaps, write to Candace Havens, Soap Talk, P.O. Box 17748, Fort Worth, TX 76102-0748.

BITS AND PIECES

Kathleen Turner's costume brings a pretty penny

The lace-trimmed silk slip that Kathleen Turner has been wearing in the Broadway play Cat On A Hot Tin Roof apparently is worth $1,200. The slip was one of 29 items sold at auction in New York for Easter Seals. The auction raised $30,000 for the charity that aids people with disabilities.

Marc Christian, who won more than $5 million against the estate of the late Rock Hudson, has joined the cast of Secret Passions, the homosexual soap opera now airing on cable stations in 30 markets.

The all-star cast returns for Polly — One More Time!, a two-hour musical sequel to Polly, last season's popular recreation of the 1960 film, Pollyanna. The film has begun production in Los Angeles for Walt Disney Television and will air later this year on NBC. Reprising their roles are Keshia Knight Pulliam as Polly; Phylicia Rashad, Polly's rich and powerful Aunt Polly; Dorian Harewood, as Dr. Shannon; and Celeste Holm as Miss Snow.

Michael Jackson, namesake and first recipient of the BMI Michael Jackson Award for contributions to music, now has another honor named for him. The Michael Jackson Good Scout Humanitarian Award was recently created by the Los Angeles council of Boy Scouts of America. The first award will be presented in September to Jackson.

Christopher Rydell, Charles Frank and Jennifer Gatti star in "Golden Boy," a new CBS Schoolbreak Special about an all-American high school senior forced to face his feelings and his responsibilities when he is involved in a hit-and-run accident, now in production for future broadcast.

Lisa Hartman portrayed grown version of Tabitha

By Polly Vonetes

Q: Would you please tell me about the actress that played Tabitha on Bewitched? Mostly about what she is doing now. —Reggie Hooper, San Mateo, Fla.

A: Identical twins Erin and Diane Murphy portrayed Tabitha as a little girl in the series Bewitched which ended its network run in 1972 before going into syndication. There is no information available on the Murphy twins. Lisa Hartman played Tabitha as a young woman in the short-lived 1977 spin off Tabitha.

Q: What happened to the game show Make Me Laugh? Will this game show ever come back on television? —Holly Oberhausen, Russellville, Ky.

A: The original Make Me Laugh aired in 1958 on ABC for a total of three months. Robert Q. Lewis was the host. It went into syndication 21 years later in 1979, with Bobby Van as host.

Comedians were reluctant to appear on the show because they felt their popularity might suffer if the contestants weren't made to laugh. There are no plans at the present time to bring the game show back.

Q: Could you give me some information about Stacy Keach? How old is he? Is he married? Where does he live? He is my favorite star. —Sarah Elrod, Palatka, Fla.

A: Stacy Keach was born on June 2, 1941, in Savannah, Ga. The family moved to Los Angeles and young Stacy decided that he would become an actor playing his first leading role in Rip Van Winkle in elementary school. He graduated from the University of California at Berkeley, later studied drama at Yale, won a Fulbright scholarship to study in England and returned to Yale as an assistant professor of drama. He married Malgosia Tomassi, his fourth wife, in 1986. They make their home in Malibu.

Lisa Hartman

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)

You recently acted selfishly toward someone close to you and now that act comes back to haunt you. Turn the other cheek.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)

Those dual personalities come in handy, if you can only keep them straight. Life is hectic, but it is all definitely going to be for the better.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)

Take a close look at finances and make sure you know where your money is going. This is a good time to get some financial counseling.
