re millage back on November ballot

Modified ballot language - and a simple .33-mili proposal — will remedy confusion that led to a 1,274-1,103 defeat of the fire millage in the August primary, township of ficials said Monday.

The township board Monday voted 4-2 to ask voters for .33 mill in November. If approved, the millage would pump approximately $135,000 into the fire department.

Should the millage be defeated a second time, fire department funding would be provided by general fund revenues - at the expense of programs such as the fire department's First Responder ambulance service and city/township shared services, officials said.

Board members and residents said confusion over ballot wording cost the township in the primary. The August ballot request was for .5 mill, an amount township officials said could not be levied without a series of public hearings and notices.

Fire millage opponents charged that the township could bypass the public hearing process in 1990 if the .5-mill figure was passed, a claim the township denied.

"It was difficult to get a clear understanding (of the millage request)," said Trustee James Nowka. "It's important to Ballot clarity was also important to township residents.

"My (no) vote was not against the fire department," said John O'Reilly. "(You need a) ballot that is not ambiguous."

Bill Butterfield and Sam Long agreed. "I think if it was on the ballot at .33 we wouldn't have been here tonight," Butterfield said. "If it were .33, I think we'd sup-

Township Finance Director James Graham told the board the township could face a $35,000 deficit without the .33 fire millage, based on his 1990-91 preliminary

Graham also said the township's fund balance — a money supply needed for cash flow, short-term borrowing and bond rate stabilization — was threatened without the revenue brought in by the fire millage. But fire millage opponent Jeff Hampton said the township could avoid a deficit and restore a sufficient fund balance by slicing areas within the proposed budget.

"I would suggest with hard decisionmaking and creative thinking, more than 5 percent can be cut out of the (1990-91) budget," he said.

Trustee Thomas Handyside agreed that the proposed budget could face reductions, but said the fire millage was needed.

"I do think we can tighten our belts in some areas," he said, "but (we can't) replace Handyside also expressed concern that a change from a renewal request to a straight miliage request could create se-mantics problems that anti-tax leaders could seize upon.

"I suspect Mr. Hampton is setting the stage for further numbers manipulation . . . which you've done successfully in the

Supervisor Georgina Goss and Treasurer Betty Lennox opposed another mil-

"I think we can live with this budget for a year or two," Goss said. "We should not go back to the people."

Trustee Donald Williams supported the millage request and said the proposal "would not cost the taxpayers any money

A 45-foot metal crane-like structure towered over Kevin Hunt. He gestured to a large, solid cylinder anchored to a sturdy truck.

"We can talk later," he said. "This is going to be loud."
A resounding metal-on-metal crash followed. The pounding of the cylinder continued at one second intervals and shook the sandy, cleared surface west of the township's Water & Sewer Department building on

"Just like a piledriver." Hunt, a veteran oil sield worker from Gaylord said.

A one-acre site had been cleared of trees and brush and first stages of a well were being constructed, but some local and state officials were completely in the dark over this search for black gold.

State Rep. Gerald Law (R-Plymouth) in April secured assurances from the state Department of Natural Resources that township supervisors in Plymouth, Canton and Northville townships would be alerted to oil and gas permits issued in their communities.

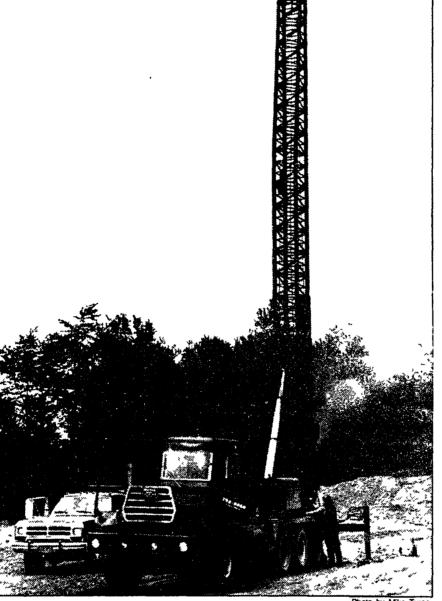

Law's agreement with the state stipulated that the DNR would advise the townships of permit applications 10 days prior to permit issuance.

On Aug. 3, Hunt and Jensen - contracted by Savoy Oil & Gas of Traverse City - went to work on property owned by Livonia resident Irene Demen. Law and Northville Township officials found out about the well preparations later that day.

That's very interesting, I didn't know anything about it," Law said when contacted. "Ill find out something right away."

Township Manager Richard Henningsen did not know about the work until he caught an earful from some township residents.

"We were told about it last Friday (July 27)," Henningsen said. The DNR said it was going in next week. I

More often than not, the calls are from a well-wishing friend or a curious member of the media.

But Heath awaits a special call, and does not stray far from the phone. She's waiting for the one message that says her brother and his family are coming home.

Heath's brother — former Northville Township resident Kevin Bazner, his wife Dawn and children Elizabeth and David - became embroiled in an international incident Aug. 2 when their London-to-Kuala Lumpur British Airways flight stopped to refuel in Kuwait during the Iraqi invasion.

Passengers aboard the plane - including a reported 38 Americans were detained and sent to hotels in Baghdad, Iraq. And while no one wants to use the ugliest word in the international dictionary to describe their plight, "hostage" creeps to the forefront of conversations with they don't put up a bridge they can go ahead and put up a deck but we're

Kahm said that included financial participation in the project.

Mayor Chris Johnson said he was unsure whether Singh had a legal right to back out of their parking contract with the city. "They're going to have to get parking credits from somewhere," he said.

But Johnson declined to comment further because he had not yet discussed the situation with Singh officials. "I don't want to react based on something I haven't heard directly,"

School millage hike vote set for Sept. 27

By MAUREEN NASZRADI

A Sept. 27 election will determine whether there is support for a miliage increase to balance the Northville Public Schools district budget for the 1990-91 school year.

The Board of Education Monday approved ballot language that asks if the operating millage should be increased for one year by 1.28 mills "in order to avoid program cuts caused by a reduction of state funding."

The budget currently is short approximately $884,000 as a result of the passage of the 1990 State Aid Act that "recaptured" state aid money the district had counted on to fund operations for the coming school year. A special school-finance committee, charged with developing a strategy to address the shortfall, suggested that the millage request specifically address only that shortfall that was caused by the state's action.

"Assuming that the final recapture amount is as we expect, up to $884,000, it will take 1.28 mills at our SEV of $692,375 per mill to produce the required funds to avoid program reductions," Supt. George

The additional cost to the taxpayer whose home is assessed at $200,000 will be $128, for example. The millage rate is applied to 50 percent of the true cash value at which the property is assessed.

The $1.28 that would be generated on each $1,000 of state equalized valuation would provide additional funds for operating purposes, Bell explained. If voters support the millage proposal, the increase will appear on the December tax bills, he

In his recommendation to the board. Bell said making $884,000 worth of cuts in the programming planned for the 1990-91 school year would be "too critical to the community for us to make that judgment on our own.

"The community should have a voice in it," he added.

The superintendent said he will begin in the next two weeks the process of determining the cutbacks required if the millage election fails.

"It's important that the voters understand the alternative if they are to make viable decisions," Bell said.

"Cutbacks required will be classifled by some as threats," he said, "but it's reality.

Board members agreed a clear explanation of what is at stake in the proposal is important to a successful election.

Board Vice President Jean Hansen said, "It is important to convey the distinction between the bond issue money and the operations miliage."

Bell agreed, stressing that the revenue generated by the $16 million bond issue that voters approved in October can be used only for the specific purposes for which it was voted. That money is being spent to update existing buildings and equipment and provide technological hardware and programs.

"Having looked at all the improvements made possible by the bond issue, making these cuts at the same time is untenable," Bell said.

City wants update on vacant Ford plant

By STEVE KELLMAN Staff Writer

Northville's city council is seeking some response from the Ford Motor Co. on negotiations for their vacant Northville valve plant, and may ask for potential sales terms for the property.

The move comes after a recent council meeting at which members asked how to promote more cooperation between the city and the company in the plant's sale.

What is there we can do short of taking a potential buyer to Ford?" asked council member Dewey Gardner.

"I don't want to wait three months before we look at this again. I hate to just sit back and let it be consumed by something less desirable."

Council member Carolann Ayers suggested contacting Ford to reemphasize the city's desire to work alongside Ford officials in negotiations with potential developers.

City Manager Steven Walters expanded on that idea. "Maybe they'd be willing to give the community financial terms if nothing else; a land contract, for example," he said.

The plant has remained vacant since its closure by Ford in 1989. A redevelopment study commissioned by the city concluded that the plant should be transferred to the community for reuse as a library and other public uses such as a school services center. That and other community library proposals were put on hold with the township's consideration of the Haller Library proposal. Ford originally set $2.5 million as a price for the property, but has reportedly heard from few interested buyers.

Walters said a developer who initially approached the city looking to share the plant with a community library is still interested in the site, though he declined to name the

The council instructed Walters to draft a letter to the automotive company asking to re-establish communication about the plant.

The council has also listed finding a feasible reuse of the plant with Ford as one of its goals for 1990.

Meeting tape life

By MIKE TYREE Staff Writer

. Recordings of "Northville Town-ship's Greatest Hits" are available for a limited time only, so order your copy now. Hurry, don't delay — operators are standing by!

Hyperbole aside, tapes of township meetings have never appealed to a mass audience, but last week's board decision to destroy or erase tapes after a six-month holding period does limit the time disgruntled developers or the odd historian has to review recorded government

The board sliced the tape holding time from a year to six months after township attorneys determined no legal requirement exists to maintain electronic recordings of meetings.

In an effort to avoid litigation, the township will destroy tapes six months after approval of minutes from the various township boards, commissions and committees.

"It's easier to defend (in cases of litigation) if we get rid of tapes after the approval of minutes . . . said Clerk Tom Cook, who favored destroying the tapes immediately after approval of minutes. The whole idea of minutes is to give a history of meetings."

Residents and developers have in the past requested tapes of controversial meetings, including sessions on Ward Church and the Haggerty Road sewer, said township Deputy Clerk Eunice Switzler.

Switzler said tape requests must go through the state Freedom of Information process before they are

Cook said attorneys advised the township that Michigan law does not require the creation or maintenance.

of meeting tape recordings. According to Ronald Witthoff, of the firm Law, Hemming, Essad-& Polaczyk, tapes of meetings. are only created in preparing final written minutes. The township board in 1979 adopted a resolution allowing the public access to meeting tapes, but Witthoff said the resolution is not required under Michigan law.

. . . It is our opinion that Michigan law does not require . . . a cassette tape recording of any township board or commission meeting (but) if the township chooses to create such a tape, it could be maintained only for the length of time necessary for the clerk to prepare the written minutes

." he wrote. Cook said erasing tapes would save the township money and space in addition to the hedge against litigation.

But other members of the board were hesitant to scrap the taping program.
"Why is it more beneficial to destroy them?" asked Trustee James Nowka.

"The attorney says it is to the benefit of the township to do it this way."

Cook replied. In the end, the board determined the tapes should be held for six months. After that period, the minutes will be the official - and only recorded history of township

Northville men face larceny charge

By MIKE TYREE

Three Northville youths accused of stealing pop from a Canton Township gas station were arrainged Aug. 9 in 35th District Court.

Charged with simple larceny were Andrew Anthony Parker, 19, 20311 Lexington; Steven Thomas Nigro, 19, 830 Horton; and Paul Andrew Smith. 19. 16575 Franklin.

Canton Township police arrested the men July 9 at 1:20 a.m. after the suspects allegedly ran from a gas station carrying three eight-packs of Pepsi and two half-liter bottles of Pepsi, according to court records.

A Canton Township police officer on patrol at Meijer's Thrifty Acres, 45001 Ford Road, said he observed the men running with the pop before the suspects left the scene in a 1984 Olds Cutlass.

The officer believed the suspects' behavior suspicious and stopped their vehicle. The officer asked the suspects if they had purchased the pop and they said they had, but could not produce a receipt, according to court records.

An attendant at the gas station was questioned and told police there had been no recent purchases of pop, records indicate.

The suspects were booked by Canton Township police and each posted $100 bond.

MAGS seeks help for parking woes

By STEVE KELLMAN Staff Writer

The president of Northville's Michigan Association of Gift Salesmen (MAGS) asked the city council for help in finding parking for the hundreds of cars the business draws to town throughout the year.

Though agreeing to schedule parking lot reconstruction around MAGS shows, the council politely declined to pay for the cost of transporting store owners to the MAGS building.

Jim Mills, MAGS president, told the council last week that MainCentre construction was costing his business more money by forcing some of his customers to park at the Northville Downs and other parking areas. The MainCentre development has taken over part of the parking lot to the south for storage of construction equipment and supplies.

We are in the middle of our Christmas buying right now," Mills said. "Parking for us has been a prob-lem since our new neighbors went to work building next door.

"As the project gets along here, they seem to be moving more and more over into the lot," Mills said. As a consequence, MAGS has had to pay to shuttle wholesale customers from other parking lots. "We've made arrangements to use the somewhat reliable Northville Trolley," Mills said. "Obviously we have some higher costs with this thing when we don't have the trolley." The association rented a limousine to shuttle salespeople between the MAGS building and Northville Downs park-

Ironically MAGS shows have been singled out in the past as one of the major sources of parking problems in the city.

Mills noted that some 300 store owners attended the show, and more than 200 cars with them. He estireally don't know what they're doing

Henningsen said DNRofficials told him the Savoy Oil's permit was issued July 2 — almost a month before the hole boring began.

DNR officials now say the permit was issued before an agreement was reached with Law.

"We did strike a gentleman's agreement (with Law)," said R. Tho- mas Segall, assistant supervisor of wells and chief of the DNR's geological survey division. What happened was that the original permit was issued in July 1988 (to Preston Oil of

"They never drilled the well." Segali said the DNR received a second application for a permit in March 1990. The application came from Northern Processors, Inc., of Traverse City, he said.

The DNR was talking to Law about notifying townships at that same time, Segall said. He said DNR Director David Hales approved the plan to contact townships May 11, 1990 — after the permit to Northern Processors, Inc. was let.

An employee of Northern Processors Inc. would not discuss the permit application or the Northville well and deferred comment to their parent company — Preston Oil.

A Preston Oil spokesperson said the company was not working the Northville Township site. He said a permit was granted in July to Savoy Oil & Cas of Traverse City.

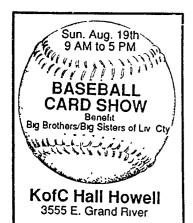

The DNR's Segall said his employees did not know about the agreement with Law and that miscommunication was partly to blame for the mix up with the township

"It was a timing problem," he said. "If it (permit) had come in after May 11, it would not have been a problem."

Law said he was satisfied with the DNR's explantion of the well-drilling for now.

"I told the DNR to write it down," he said. They (Savoy) already got their permit and can do whatever they want. If I don't think the DNR has an adequate argument. I'll get back to

Church's has the Best Weather Resistant Lumber in Town!!! Water beads right off Wolmanized EXTRA Weather-Resistant Lumber because its got something "extra" - its pressure treated with a special water repellent to prevent moisture penetration from rain and show. All wood swells and expands when it absorbs moisture. As it dries it releases moisture and shrinks. Constant expansion and contraction causes grain raising checking splintering and warping. Spray or brush on water sealers can't repel water like. Wolmanized EXTRA Lumber — in laboratory tests Wolmanized EXTRA Lumber shows almost two thirds more moisture resistance than pressure-treated disher protected with a leading water sealer Course this fantaste lumber is also pressure-treated for lifeling protection against termities not and decay. Builder shares water main costs

By STEVE KELLMAN

The Selective Group — builder of St. Lawrence Estates - reached a tentative agreement with the city to pay $120,000 toward the city's water main improvement project.

Deteriorating water mains under Center and Cady streets will be enlarged, and a new segment will be added under Center between the new Cady / Center intersection and Fairbrook Street under the plan (see related story below).

On Monday, the council approved in concept a special assessment district with the Selective Group and agreed to the sale of $605,000 in special assessment and general obligation bonds to finance the water main improvements, continuing sidewalk repair tosts, and the reconfiguration of city parking lots.

The total water main project is expected to cost $295,000, with The Selective Group picking up just under half of the tab. City Manager Steven Walters said about $139,000 of the city's share of the project would be funded through the city's water and sewer fund, and would be paid over 10 years through the bonds.

Singh Development would also pay for part of the improvements to the Cady Street water main, because Singh construction workers damaged it while building MainCentre.

The council agreed to $365,000 in special assessment bonds and $240,000 in general obligation bonds to pay for the water system and other improvements.

The special assessment bonds will go to pay $115,000 in remaining sidewalk improvement costs, $130,000 for the reconfiguration of city parking lots, and the $120,000 in water main improvements that will be assessed to the Signature Group.

The water main improvements will only be assessed on St. Lawrence Estates properties still owned by the developer, because of a previous agreement by the developer that property owners would not be responsible for the improvements.

Also, the city agreed to charge the owners of Northville Downs for as much as $30,000 if the Downs is expanded and requires more water use. The money would go toward the Signature Group's share of the bill.

"I think that's a compromise that the Signature Group is pushing for because the engineering report clearly shows that the water supply to Northville Downs is inadequate. said Walters. The city engineering firm, McNeely & Lincoln, found insufficient water pressure to the fire hydrants at Fairbrook and Center streets to fight a major fire at the racetrack. The new water line would provide more pressure.

Walters said both the Signature Group and Singh Development planned to have representatives bid on the water main construction. "It is their (the Signature Group's) intention to be an aggressive bidder for their own development," Walters said, to potentially defray their own assessment costs. Walters added that Singh Development has expressed an interest in bidding on the project, to allow better coordination between their MainCentre development and the water main repairs.

DNR officials now say the permit was issued before an agreement was reached with Law

Builder shares water main costs

By STEVE KELLMAN

The Selective Group -- builder of St. Lawrence Estates - reached a tentative agreement with the city to pay $120,000 toward the city's water main improvement project.

Deteriorating water mains under Center and Cady streets will be enlarged, and a new segment will be added under Center between the new Cady / Center intersection and Fairbrook Street under the plan (see related story below).

On Monday, the council approved in concept a special assessment district with the Selective Group and agreed to the sale of $605,000 in special assessment and general obligation bonds to finance the water main improvements, continuing sidewalk repair costs, and the reconfiguration of city parking lots.

The total water main project is expected to cost $295,000, with The Selective Group picking up just under half of the tab. City Manager Steven Walters said about $139,000 of the city's share of the project would

Condo water pressure boost studied

By STEVE KELLMAN Staff Wnter

Northville city officials have come up with another plan to provide more water pressure to St. Lawrence Estates.

The plan follows two previous proposals to provide the condominium complex with sufficient water to fight a major fire. The third plan also follows protests by the corporations that would have been assessed by the first proposal — The Signature Group, developers of St. Lawrence Estates; Singh Development, builders of the MainCentre project; and Northville

The new plan involves improving the city's water mains rather than forging a second Northville connection with Detroit's water main. But rather than enlarging the mains under Center, Cadv. Wing, and Fairbrook streets, as proposed in the original plan, the proposal calls for a combination of enlarged and new water mains.

The Center Street main between Main and Cady and the Cady Street main from Center to Wing would be enlarged; a main would be added under the relocated Cady Street south of the proposed parking deck; and the Center Street main would be extended south of the new Cady/Center intersection to Fairbrook Street.

City Manager Steven Walters cited several benefits to the new plan. For one, he said, the Center and Cady Street mains have deteriorated and need to be repaired. Also, relocating Cady Street south to allow an expanded parking deck east of Center will require moving that main as well.

"Going with the Detroit connection does not replace the mains that need to be replaced in the process, and also does not address the Cady Street relocation," Walters said.

"They're some of the earliest mains in the city,"

The mains have lead joints rather than modern bolted joints. Walters said, which leaves them much more suceptible to separating and leaking.

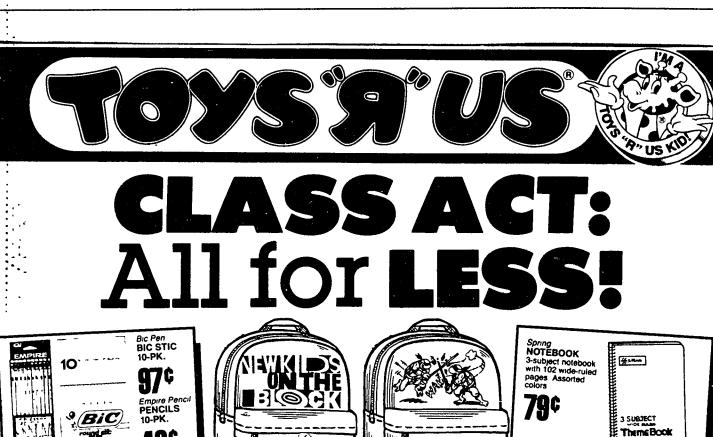

McNeely & Lincoln, the city's engineering firm, has already recommended that several of the mains slated for replacement be repaired within the next 10-15 years. Walters said the engineers were convinced of the need to replace the mains by a combination of the pattern of water main breaks that we've had and actually seeing the portions of the main that were exposed during the MainCentre excavation.*

The Center Street main has had an exceptional history of leaks," he added.

Also, he said, the third alternative tied in well with other planned municipal improvements. Walters said the water mains would need to be replaced this fall to allow other work to proceed, including the city's reconfiguration of the parking lot south of MainCentre and the MainCentre developer's reconfiguration of Center Street between Main and Cady.

"We are about to have a new street and a new parking lot built over these two stretches," Walters

Clinic seeks funds, volunteers

The Northwestern Guidance of mental health agencies in the De-Clinic is looking for a few good men and women. And sponsorship from a few local businesses wouldn't hurt, either.

The mental health center, based in Garden City, serves 43 Wayne County communities in one capacity or another — but has an identity črisis.

With the exception of those it serves, most county residents don't know what services the center provides or that it needs volunteers to keep functioning.

The volunteer bird is disappearing rapidly," said Sara VanderVoort, clinic executive director. There are still community-minded people out there. The big deficit is (people) have no idea how heavily their neighbors use us.

... The clinic took a major step to reverse that trend last March. It hired Stefanie Ott-O Toole as director of resource development. Translation: Ott O'Toole will help promote the agency and look for new sources of financing.

She's spearheading an effort to create what she hopes will become an annual fund-raising event - a fun run through Hines Park scheduled for Sept. 8.

"It will be a five or 10 kilometer run, walk or bike ride to raise funds for programs here." Ott-O'Toole said. The whole family can get involved. It's the Saturday after Labor Day. I hope it will grow into a major event in Wayne County."

Northwestern Guidance Clinic's $1.7 million budget is provided primarily through the state Department of Mental Health. It's one of a handful

Much of the client base is from Westland, Garden City, Livonia and Plymouth. Clients are referred by doctors, schools, other social work agencies, or clients themselves. There are waiting lists for various programs. The most serious problems, such as suicidal youngsters. get priority treatment.

Major programs include an outpatient clinic where mental health workers help families experiencing problems in the home or school.

Beacon Day Treatment, serving 23 school districts, is a program for 6- to 12-year-olds experiencing psychological problems that prevent them from attending regular public schools. Average stay at the special Inkster school, run by clinic staff, is 18 months to two years.

Northwestern Guidance Clinic also offers relief care for families with developmentally disabled members. The break for caregivers is given for when you go into the home. There is a tremendous increase in family stresses, and fewer family supports of any kind," she said. "Agencies have taken up some of the roles families used to

One of the frustrations is a public perception that families should take care of their own. Ott-O'Toole remembers approaching one potential corporate sponsor to request money for a program that would check the well-being of latchkey children after school. The proposed phone program had a modest budget, but the response was a flat no - the kids' grandparents should be checking up on them after school, the company spokesman said.

"We need more volunteers in general." Ott-O'Toole said. "We need groups to assist us not only with special events but to raise funds. We always need people to answer phones." We had one gentleman who was retired from his profession and had shopping complex studied

A large shopping area — complete with a warehouse club outlet, home repair center and chain department store - for Schoolcraft College propefty once tabbed for an office complex?

That's what college trustee Wendell Smith is proposing. But other trustees remain skeptical.

Smith unveiled his proposal during a Schoolcraft board study session last week. But several other trustees would apparently have to change their minds for the project to become a. reality.

The 38-acre shopping center would serve northwestern Livonia and the Plymouth/Northville area. Smith said

In addition to the PACE-style wholesaler, Builders Square-style repair center and K mart/Target-style retailer, the property could also include several smaller stores, Smith said.

He reminded trustees a 1,200-unit housing development is being planned near the site on land recently sold by the county along Five Mile in Northville Township.

The property could bring the college $850,000 in revenue in as little as two years, according to Smith's estimate, if the collee maintained a 15-percent interest in the property.

Though he didn't say how his figures were derived, Smith told his fellow trustees he drew up the proposal after talking with friends in development-related fields.

The property was to have housed the Six Mile Crossing office complex - a companion for the Duke Associates-built complex already completed on Schoolcraft land along Seven Mile Road.

The additional office project was rejected by the Livonia City Council, after concerns were expressed abut its impact on traffic in the Haggerty/ I-275 corridor.

Such concerns would likely resurface for the commercial proposal, other trustees said.

"Livonia is a 'malled' city as it is." Thaddeus McCotter said. "I think a lot of people would see this as just another strip mall."

A tech center would make more sense, said Harry Greenleaf. I think that's more in keeping with the college's image." Greenleaf said.

Broomfield warns against cuts in defense spending

U.S. Rep. William S. Broomfield. R-Birmingham, ranking Republican on the House Foreign Affairs Committee, says that the biggest mistake America could make would be to slash its armed forces. We've made that mistake too many times in the past, and we have suffered for our foolishness.

In a speech here last week, Broom-field told the Detroit Chapter of the Association of the United States Army that "the White House is under enormous pressure to slash defense spending.

According to the congressman, "the public no longer perceives that America faces a significant military threat from the Soviets; Congress is looking for major spending reduc-tions to lower the budget deficit; and defense is one of the few major spending areas that Congress is in a position to control."

In his remarks, Broomfield said that "the chances for regional warfare are just as great or greater than they were in the past," and pointed to the current situation in Kuwait as an example.

The invasion of Kuwait strikes at the heart of one of the most strategically important areas of the world. It is an invasion that cannot go unanswered," he said.

The U.S. and the rest of the industrial democracies have a vital interest in maintaining stability in the Persian Gulf. Oil reserves are declin"Now that the focus is off the superpower confrontation a lot of smaller, regional powers might just decide this is the time to settle old scores. ing in much of the world. In future years, the Persian Gulf will be the source of most of the oil that will drive our cars, heat our homes and power our factories. We can't let a power-mad tyrant dictate the future cost and availability of that oil.

"America is a political, economic and military world power," he said. "It can't shrink from its responsibility. There is no sense in being a world power if you don't use your influence to achieve some good in the world.

In an earlier statement following the President's address to the nation. Broomfield said: "Now that the focus is off the superpower confrontation a lot of smaller, regional powers might just decide this is the time to settle

"We should make an example of Saddam Hussein. It's important that other regional powers understand that the world will not put up with naked aggression.

"President Bush has done an outstanding job of securing a multina-tional response to this invasion. The entire world is now united in opposition to the invasion. I'd like to think that this common front is a direct result of his leadership.

"The President's actions have also received unanimous support in the U.S. It is important that the U.S. speak with one voice in a crisis like this, particularly when we are asking the rest of the world to form a common defense against Iraq."

MAGS asks city for help parking mated the cost of ferrying people between the parking lots and the MAGS building at between $6,000-$8,000. and asked the council to help foot the Mills added that many of the store owners who shop for wholesale gifts at MAGS are elderly or handicapped. "They don't retire in the retail business, they just die," he said.

While council members agreed to consider installing more handicapped spaces or a drop-off area near the MAGS building, Mills' request for financial help received little sympathy, "At this point, anyway, I'm sure the council isn't prepared to budget $8,000 for transportation," said Johnson.

"Financially, as the mayor said, we are in no position to do that," agreed Council Member Paul Folino.

Council Member Carolann Ayers added, Two blocks is not that far a distance to your front door."

The council agreed to Mills' request_to avoid resurfacing of the MAGS parking lot during two- and three-day MAGS shows in September, October and November. "We can easily notify the contractor to avoid those days," agreed Mayor Chris Johnson. That's one headache we all don't need."

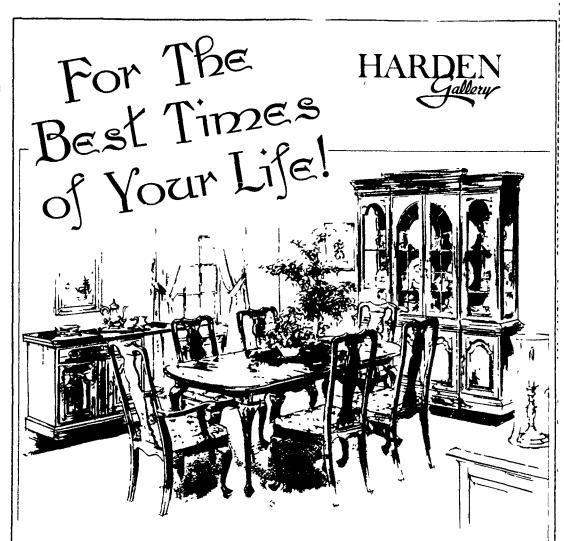

City Manager Steven Walters also assured the MAGS official that much of the parking lot would be reopened in several months as the majority of MainCentre cosntruction is completed.

"In other words, all that staging and equipment will be out of there by January," Mills said.

That's certain," Walters agreed. "What's less certain is whether the repaying will be done." Though repaving of the parking lot and Center Street is planned for late this year, Walters said other construction projects like water main improvements under Center and Cady streets may delay the project.

Deck finances unsure

MainCentre itself.

Some 144 spaces in the proposed 537-space Cady Street parking deck are allocated to MainCentre. The city's original contract with Singh in January, 1989 set the development firm's share of the deck project at about $7,000 per space, which would make Singh responsible for $1,008,000 of the total $3,759,000 cost of the deck.

The cost would be paid through special assessments and tax capturing from the development.

Under the contract, the city agreed to build a parking deck on the lot south of the MAGS building with a pedestrian bridge between it and MainCentre. "In the event the parking is not developed, then Singh shall have the right to construct and maintain gates, fences and covered carports for seventy-five (75) parking spaces on the M.A.G.S. lot," the contract read.

The carports were to be used by MainCentre apartment residents in the event that parking deck spaces were not available.

Earlier this year, the planning commission reluctantly approved a preliminary site plan for 74 carports. if construction of the parking deck was delayed. At that time, the commissioners unanimously opposed permanent carports, and favored including the MainCentre resident parking in the parking deck. The commissioners suggested removing the carports after the deck was complete if the carports were actually built.

Since then, the Downtown Development Authority has announced its opposition to carports as well.

The parking deck was originally planned for the east side of the MAGS parking lot, and a pedestrian bridge was planned to cross Cady Street to the MainCentre building. But city and Singh officials agreed to move the four-floor structure to the site of the present Cady Street deck in the face of local protest against a MAGS

That move did not dissolve the city's obligation to build a pedestrian bridge, according to Kahm. "As our contract spells out, the deck and the bridge go together," he said. "They're a package deal.

The city knew full well . when the deck got moved from the MAGS parking lot to the location of the existing deck that the bridge went along with it."

Kahm said his firm has cooperated repeatedly with the city, but that Singh has to assure the success of its MainCentre project. "We tried, and I think we have cooperated with the city to a great extent," Kahm said.
"But as I told Steve (Walters), we're a business and we have to do what's best for the business."

Kahm said that covered parking is a key selling point in marketing the 74 one- and two-bedroom apartments being built on the top two floors of MainCentre. "As we expressed from the outset of this process, covered parking is absolutely essential, he said

Kahm had more bad news for city officials who saw the pedestrian bridge as the lesser of two evils when compared to carports. "Frankly, we've concluded that we need more covered parking than just the 74 that we had approved on the site plan," he said.

Kahm plans to submit a site plan for another 20 carports on the Singhowned property east of MainCentre, where the developer's leasing office is now located.

He said he will appear before the planning commission Tuesday to seek final approval of the 74 carports on the MAGS parking lot and site plan approval of the additional 20 carports.

He said the carports are needed soon because the apartments will be ready for occupancy in January. 1991. "It's clearly impossible for a deck to be done by then," he argued.

Kahm said he doubted whether a new parking deck would even be finished by the end of next year, though city officials and parking consultants have suggested the deck could be done as soon as July or August.

Kahm blamed part of the parking deck delay on structural changes needed at MainCentre when the deck location was changed. He explained that structural steel in the frame of the MainCentre building had to be moved to accomodate the new pedestrian bridge location.

The latest MainCentre pedestrian bridge plan, looking North on Center Street, removes an obtrusive center pillar. MainCentre is on the left, and to the right is another potential retail/ office building by Singh Development.

Pedestrian bridge gets little support

By STEVE KELLMAN Staff Writer

The proposed MainCentre pedestrian bridge faces a troubled future at Northville's historic district commission declined to vote on a motion to approve the bridge last Thursday. after it was redesigned to address concerns raised by the commission at a previous meeting.

The revised bridge design eliminated a support post in the middle of Center Street and simplified the design to make the bridge look less

Commission member Jim Harris explained the reason for the historic district commission's opposition. "I think most of the members of the commission felt that it was not appropriate to have a walkway across there, aestheticaly speaking," he said. "It's something you would find maybe in a much larger town than

Though they agreed the design was sound for such a bridge, commission members still expressed strong reservations about a raised bridge over Center Street.

A motion to approve the bridge as resubmitted died for lack of support, and the commission took no other action on the plan.

On Monday, the city council authorized Mayor Chris Johnson and City Manager Steven Walters to discuss possible alternatives to the bridge with officials from Singh Development, builders of the MainCentre mixed-use development.

Johnson began Monday's council discussion by briefing council members on the commission's debate. The discussion was long, it was thoughtful, and there were many impassioned arguments both ways, but ... they thought the covered walkway would be out of scale with the downtown," he said. Johnson chairs

Johnson said the commission wanted to explore other alternatives before agreeing to a pedestrian bridge. "There aren't going to be any easy decisions on this one, but it seems to me that we don't want to encourage covered parking on the

the historic district commission.

MAGS lot either," he added.

Council members agreed that the parking deck is needed - with or without a pedestrian bridge. "I think we should proceed in whatever fashion we have to to get that parking deck," said member Carolann Ayers.

City Manager Steven Walters said Singh may reconsider placing resident carports on the MAGS lot because of their desire to maximize parking for shoppers near MainCentre. But Singh Vice President Michael Kahm said Tuesday that his firm would pursue the carport plan because of delays in the parking deck and opposition to the pedestrian bridge (see related story).

"It's clear that right now he can insist on his legal rights one way or another," Johnson said.

Schoolcraft board battle looms

Emotions are boiling over at schoolcraft College, where one board member is charging another with blatant cronyism" for trying to secure college legal work for a friend's þw. lirm.

Trustee Jack Kirksey has accused board President Mary Breen and attorney Robert Law, a Breen family riend, of using "undue influence" in pressing other board members to make Law's firm the college's legal epresentative.

Citing evidence that Law's was the only firm considered for the job, Kirk ey said the situation goes well bey ond the appearance of impropriety."

.Kirksey called the situation a blatant case of cronyism" in a threepage statement he distributed to the board at a study session Wednesday night.

Trustee Breen and attorney Robert Law have had the exclusive opportunity to lobby the individual members of the board of trustees for a number of months," Kirksey said.

The board began discussing the any potential new representatives. issue last year, appointing an ad hoc study group to discuss legal services in October.

Kirksey indicated he was angry enough to consider resigning from the board over the issue.

Kirksey's comments drew emotional responses from several other

Breen said Law's firm - Law, Hemming, Essad & Polaczyk of Plymouth — was chosen because it was the best qualified local firm, not because of favoritism.

"The fact remains there's no other firm in the Schoolcrast district as qualified as this firm." Breen said.

At the study session, Breen angrily denied Kirksey's allegations of cronyism, especially his statement that Law headed her election campaign.
"My husband (Plymouth Township Supervisor Maurice Breen) was my campaign manager," she said. Trustee Michael Burley labeled Kirksey's written statements "a piece Trustee Thaddeus McCotter alleged Kirksey's comments were prompted by a grudge over Law's alleged failure to support Kirksey's failed 1987 Livonia mayoral bid.

Though emotions cooled -McCotter issued a public apology to Kirksey later in the study session trustees appear divided on the attorney selection process.

Clear standards are needed, Kirksey said, to evaluate the college's current representative, Miller, Canfield. Paddock & Stone of Detroit, as well as Trustee Harry Greenleaf agreed, saying the situation at least gives off the appearance of impropriety." Greenleaf suggested the interview process begin again.

But trustee Wendell Smith, who headed the committee to study college legal services, said there is no need to consider other candidates. Smith acknowledged that Law-

Hemming was the only firm considered by the ad hoc committee. 'We asked trustees to come up with names of firms they wanted to see us interview and nobody came up with anybody else," Smith said.

The committee decided against inviting firms to make a presentation. either to the study group or full board, he said.

"We're small potatoes," he said. We didn't want to waste people's

Several law firms were written off without interview, Smith said. "They didn't appear to meet our needs.

The Law-Hemming firm serves a number of communities, including Plymouth, Canton and Northville townships, as well as the Western Townships Utility Association.

Trustee Jeanne Stempien said she favored giving college business to Law, Hemming because it is a qualifled local firm.

Law has been Schoolcrast College's lobbyist in Lansing for the past year. He earns an estimated $1,200 a month in the post, Breen said.

He is a former state legislator and aide to Wayne County commissioner Susan Heintz, R-Northville Township.

While Law was unavailable for comment last week, partner Jud Hemming said matters had been discussed at a meeting between the firm and the ad hoc study group.

They asked us for an interview, Hemming said.

College officials, including president Richard McDowell, were present during the interview. Hemming

"When you're selecting professional services, it's more unique than just selecting contractors," Hemming

We feel we are well qualified and we are local and the board apparently expressed a preference for a firm in its district."

Hemming said he, not Law, would be the college's legal counselor should trustees approve the firm.

Because the Wednesday night meeting was a study session, trustees could not have approved Law, Hemming as the college's legal representative. They could do so, however, at the next board meeting Aug.

College legal matters have been handled by Miller-Canfield, one of the Detroit area's largest law firms, for 19 years.

Several trustees, including Burley and Stemplen, said they were dissatisfied with Miller-Canfield over its handling of a contract for office development on Schoolcrast property.

Miller, Canfield hasn't done the job . . . They've treated us second-rate," Burley said. Stempien said she was "extremely dissatisfied" with Miller, Canfield because of what she termed "overcharging and poor performance." She said she believed the firm often assigned two attorneys to provide counseling to situations when only one was necessary.

While the agreement calls for "on call" legal services, without a retainer, the college has spent an estimated $30,000 a year for legal services in recent years.

SCHOOLCRAFT PROFESSORS AUTHOR BOOKS

Schoolcraft College math professors, Dale Boye, Ed Kavanaugh, and Larry Williams (a Northville resident) authored three textbooks and have contracts to write three additional books.

The first book to be released is Intermediate Algebra. In response to the question "how does this text differ from other intermediate algebra texts?" Professor Williams said "We removed the tables and emphasize the use of a hand-held calculator. There are step by step procedures throughout the book in the use of the calculator to solve problems.

One other difference is that the basic algebra review is located in the appendix rather than the first few chapters."

The University of Wisconsin must have been impressed. They chose this text for use in their Intermediate Algebra classes this fall on the basis of page proofs. The textbook has a 1991 copyright date and the college book representatives received their first copies in June.

Elementary Algebra and Algebra for College Students will also be released this year. They have written all the ancillary materials for these texts including the instructor's manual and test banks.

Tune-ups prepare schools for new year

By MAUREEN NASZRADI

The equipment is all there, it just has to be put in place

That was the status of Meads Mill Middle School Monday The circle drive and parking lot in front of the school were dug up, wiring was visible through displaced ceiling tiles and cartons were everywhere.

Still, Meads Mill Principal David Longridge calmly talked about school's open in 18 days.

"I've been in this business 31 years, Longridge said 'It's opened every year

Longridge has been the Meads Mill principal since the middle school population was combined there in 1985 He was principal of Cooke Junior High School the 11 years before that

The 1990 91 school year will mark another milestone of sorts when the district's sixth, seventh and eighth graders again are di vided between the two schools

Enrollment at Meads Mill will be reduced to 525 from approximately 900 for the 1989 90 school vear. The Board of Education last November voted to reopen Cooke to reduce overcrowding at Meads Mill and allow room for the grow ing middle school population

We were getting to the point that it was starting to press," Longridge said "We were using every classroom every day

This year, there will be less traffic in the hallways, cafeteria and outside classrooms, he added Also, the district's gifted and talented, science and computer coordinators will have classroom space in Meads Mill.

The principal on Monday was writing a letter to his staff, informing them about the changes that have taken place over the summer and introducing two new teachers They will report the last two days of August.

At the same time the teachers return, the parents and students will be receiving a packet in the mail which will include homeroom assignments and general information on insurance, athletics, the lunch program, school rules, picture day and other events.

On the first day of school, students will receive their schedules and locker assignments. Longridge said there will be a lot for students to see when they return Sept. 4.

"It will be an exciting time," he said. Crews continue to prepare the classrooms, cafeteria and other common areas in and outside the school.

All the new furniture has arrived. The last of the school's three computer labs is set up. The wiring for the computer network, cable television and telephones is expected to be completed next

Roof repairs are complete and the drive to the school's entrance will be newly paved.

Board schooled on renovations

By MAUREEN NASZRADI

An opening-day target date for completion of construction projects is drawing near for the Northville school district's construction manager.

Barton Malow Company representatives Monday updated the Board of Education on the progress of projects throughout the district.

Joe Myers narrated a sevenminute videotape — filmed last Thursday — that included footage of renovation and construction at Amerman Elementary School, Cooke and Meads Mill middle schools. Northville High School and stadium. Silver Springs Elementary School and the 501 Main Street building.

The board awarded several bids for projects that will be paid for with funds generated by the $16 million bond issue that voters approved in October to update existing buildings and equipment and provide technological hardware and programs in all district facilities.

The projects the board paid for at its meeting Monday were a new fueldispensing system at the transportation center; tennis court resurfacing: new computer power systems at Meads Mill and Cooke; Moraine water and sewer hook-up; additional utilities for the Main Street site; asphalt paving, pavement sealing. crack filling and parking lines at all the district facilities, and district sidewalk replacement.

Myers described an example of how Barton Malow is attempting to meet the Sept. 4 deadline. The district's pavement work was divided into three contracts, awarded separately, to allow work on different projects at the same time, thus speeding

While board members viewed actual work in progress on the Barton Malow videotape. Myers supplied projected completion dates.

At Amerman, final stages of roof repairs and back parking lot paving were completed last week. Myers said the replacement boiler will be on-line by Sept. 19.

At Cooke, Myers highlighted the gym renovations, which include new glass backboards and a refinished floor. Major construction of walls and shelving in other areas of the school is complete, he added.

At Meads Mill, crews were excavating the sidewalk and front circular drive this week. The majority of the existing asphalt was rulned due to the heavy traffic and needed to be replaced, Myers said. The $65,000 concrete contract for Meads Mill includes paving over the center island, he added, creating a better turnaround radius for the bus traffic and alleviating congestion somewhat.

Also at the 15 year old middle school, roof repairs were expected to be completed yesterday. Electrical leads for the computer terminals are being installed this week.

Myers said the timing will be close on whether the district's computer network will be completely wired be fore school opens. However, he added, there will be adequate power for every computer.

The newest computer lab at Meads Mill was expected to be completed this week, while Aug. 24 is the target date for Cooke's three labs.

At the high school, the entrance ramp was repaved this week. The parking lot also was scheduled to be finished.

High school tennis team practices have been moved to the Fish Hatchery Park and Schoolcraft College while work on the tennis courts continues. Extensive crack repair and resurfacing was scheduled for this

At the stadium, the bleacher seats were installed Monday. The concession stand projected completion date was yesterday. Pavement of the pedestrian access paths, concession stand area and walkway in front of the bleachers was included in the approved bids.

At Silver Springs, roof repairs are complete. Sidewalk, curb and asphalt repairs are in progress.

At the new Main Street facility, the exterior is complete and crews are in the process of finishing the interior, Myers said.

Novi man with U.S. Middle East troops

By SHEILA PHILLIPS Staff Writer

The parents of William John Heller spend their evenings glued to their TV set these days. When they are on the road they make sure the radio is tuned to an all-news station, and each night they make sure to say their prayers.

John, a Novi resident, is a member of the 82nd Airborne Division and one of 50,000 American armed forces personnel believed to be en route to the Middle East - so his parents make sure they have the latest word on Saddam Hussein.

Northville land sale eyed by

As early as next year, the City of Plymouth could gain $500,000 or more by selling 48 acres it owns in Northville Township.

Plymouth

At a recent Plymouth city commission meeting, officials denied an extension on a 1988 sales agreement made with two area developers, speculating that the property was worth more than the $475,000 offered by the developers. The 48-acre plot is east of Beck Road and north of Six

I think 22 months (since the agteement was struck) is a long time for a developer to put something together," said City Manager Gordon Jaeger referring to the developer's request to extend the sales agreement another year.

A major development, called Huntington Falls, is planned on 930 acres in Northville Township, in an area bordered by Sheldon, Beck and Five think somebody's giving us a golden opportunity to make some more money," said Commissioner Jerry Vorva.

They (the developers) had that time to do that," said Commissioner James Jabara. "I think it's appropriate to take it off the market."

The city bought the acreage in Northville Township earlier this century, near a pool of groundwater which it intended to use as a source for city water.

But some residents complained that the water had too much iron in it. When voters narrowly approved a measure in the 1960s to buy water from Detroit instead, the well field was abandoned.

in the 22 months since the sales agreement was struck with the developers, Fairwood West II and Carrollton Arms, "the prospective purchasers were to conduct necessary studies such as a soil analysis and a wetlands analysis, gather pertinent environmental information, and prepare and obtain approval of a plan m Northville Township," Jaeger said.

"Some of the field work has been done, but no plan has been prepared and submitted to Northville Township for review and approval," he

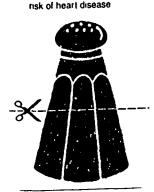

While property values have risen since 1988, "It is unknown what the prospective purchasers will offer until the bids are in." Jaeger said.

Jaeger said the city will take bids on the property next year. "We're going to hold it off the market for now and see how that area develops," he

Money from the eventual sale would go into the city's water fund. In order to determine whether the city carr take some of the sale proceeds and use them to help solve the city's budget woes. Jaeger said officials must determine if money used to buy the land came from the water fund and if such a transfer is legal.

He left on an 11 a.m. flight, only 12 hours after he had arrived.

"It came as a real surpise," John's father, Bill, said. "I barely got to see him and his mother didn't even see him because she was out of town."

Bill and his wife, Denna, have not heard from their son - who is expected to spend at least six months in the Middle East - since his departure back to Fort Bragg because troops stationed there are not allowed to call out.

Bill and Denna were able to get through to another serviceman stationed at the base late last week who said that John was still at the base but was scheduled to leave within a few days. But John was not in the barracks when their call got through. "We have the TV on every chance we get, to see if there is any word, and say a lot of prayers," Bill said.

According to news reports, Iraq has cyanide, chlorine, mustard gas and nerve gas in its arsenal. Although airborne units will be equipped with anti-chemicalwarfare protection, it has only limited use in the desert.

"He is used to hot weather, being stationed in North Carolina, but it's going to be even hotter in Iraq, which makes fighting difficult," John's father said. "They have special suits that they wear to protect them from chemicals, but they can only be worn one hour in 70-degree weather and you have to figure it's got to be a lot shorter in 110- to 115-degree

Despite fearing for their son, both parents support U.S. efforts in the Middle East.

Meeting is a good step, but stay on the path

Next month a few representatives of the township and a few representatives of the city expect to sit down together and talk about shared services. That's a big step in the right direction — at last — and we hope many more follow.

It's been a little more difficult than GOVERNMENT it should have been to get this meeting together, but now it's scheduled.

The agenda covers several items of concern to residents of the entire Northville community: the library, of course; but also other joint issues like the recreation department, senior citizen programs and Northville Youth Assistance.

Without getting too excited about this gathering, it just might be the start of something big. The library question in particular has been screaming for some joint city/township attention, and not getting it, ever since the Haller proposal went down in defeat months ago.

With its recent Wing Street house purchase, the city is already taking steps which could end up affecting the township. The old Northville Ford Plant building and property sit vacant, waiting for some leadership in determining a public-use future for the plant, the scenic grounds and Ford Field. If the city and township officials don't get together soon on a common direction, the entire community could lose out on some chances for improvement which won't ever be repeated.

Now that the ball is rolling, it's up to everyone — officials and the public — to keep it going. We're going through a vital turning point in Northville history, and we all must take an active role if things are going to work out for the best. Keep these discussions going, and work tow-

Fire millage better second time around

A township fire department operations millage request will appear on the Nov. 6 general election ballot three months after voters rejected a similar proposal.

The township board Monday decided to ask voters for .33 mill in November to support fire department operations after determining the Aug. 7 defeat was owed in large part to voter apathy, confusion and misinformation.

The second time around will be the charm for the fire millage, township officials hope. Maybe it will be the charm. And maybe it should be.

At no time during the the primary campaign was it stated that the township fire department is anything but an integral part of the community. Opponents of the fire millage did not bash Chief Robert Toms or his crew; instead the focus was on high local property tax assessments and perceived reckless spending by township government.

A few fire millage opponents hint that ambulance service could be provided by private interests and thus should be trimmed from the budget, but shop and compare — the township's First Responder program is indeed faster and less expensive than other local

- to its ambulances, and fire personnel are taking voluntary water rescue classes to further round out their life-saving

This is a progressive fire department that has built itself to the point where it's become a true credit to the community. Its salaried and volunteer personnel are skilled, dedicated and enthusiastic. Quite simply, the fire department is not the place to start a taxslashing movement.

The township should take a close look at its 1990-91 budget and locate areas that could be down-scaled. Early indications are that some shared service programs could feel fallout effect from three consecutive local millage defeats. If residents truly have reached the boiling point on taxes and wish to lessen those joint services, so be it. They're the ones paying the freight.

We support the plan to place a .33 mills request for fire department funding on the general election ballot and we think many residents who voted against the miliage in August will as well.

The township board may be correct in stating that confusion brought down the original request, but that confusion came right from the top. Now residents will know exactly what they are voting for and will be assured that they won't be hit with a tax hike.

That's the way it should have been done from the start.

The thought of allowing a hundred or so strangers to troop through your front yard in the early morning hours is probably alarming to most of you. But that's exactly what I did last Saturday.

The occasion was the timehonored rite of passage familiar to most homeowners. Yes, it was my first yard

First let me qualify things a bit. I'm not a homeowner, and I don't have a yard. I live in an apartment complex, and I don't even have one of those fancy carports to call my own. But somehow or other, in the first 26 years of my life, I've managed to accumulate enough "stuff" to warrant getting rid of some of it.

The solution was to borrow a yard from relatives, in exchange for getting rid of some of their accumulated stuff as well. They're Democrats, so I was able to convince them that it was in the interest of free trade.

Preparations began a week before the sale itself. I dutifully placed ads in local papers and began sorting out stuff I didn't want.

Lots of people tried to discourage me from holding a yard sale. Friends told me of customers walking off with items and people trying to buy things that weren't for sale, like your lawn mower and garden hoses. Others said I wouldn't be able to unload the stuff that didn't sell. And my mother, with the unkindest cut of all, said, "Who'd want that crap of yours anyway?"

Dauntless, I set about cleaning up my stuff, packing it, pricing it, setting it up on tables for display. The night before the sale, I hung signs on nearby streetcorners, and therein learned my first lesson of yard saling: Don't hang your signs until you're open for business.

I started setting up the yard at about 7:30 a.m. in anticipation of my advertised 10 a.m. start. To my consternation, the first car pulled up at five minutes to eight. I told them we weren't going to start until 10, but they said, 'Oh, we saw your sign. You don't mind some early sales, do you?"

These were the first in a steady stream of customers that kept up for the next three hours. Lesson Two: Garage sale flends start early, and they don't pay attention to the starting time in your newspaper ad.

By 10:30, I'd sold nearly half of the stuff I'd put up for sale. I began thinking my prices were a little too low, and if I'd held out for a higher price, I might have gotten it. Lesson Three: Price your items a little on the high side, because you can always bargain down.

One other thing I learned when plying the yard sale waters was to watch out for the sharks. I had put out my fake Christmas tree, bought two years ago for $65, and was asking $20 for it. Awoman was clearly interested in it, but said. "Since it's off-season, how about $10 for

Already insulted at the suggestion, I stopped to think: what is off-season for a Christmas tree? Roughly 48 weeks out of the year. No sale. She finally settled for the $20, but as I helped her load it into her van -yes, a van - I noticed it was already packed with several items from other garage sales she'd already been to. No doubt about it, this woman was a professional.

Fortunately for us supply-siders. her kind are easy to spot. They usually drive vans, pickups or large station wagons. They wear hip packs around their waists, for easy access to their cash when a quick purchase is called for, And they seem to have a bad attitude, too, like they're unhappy with the prices you're charging, no matter how low:

As the sale drew to a close hastened by the arch-enemy of yard sales, rain - I came to an interesting conclusion. Here was a bunch of my things that i no longer had use for, and would just as soon have thrown in the dumpster. Yet my stuff was finding a new life with the people who bought it.

This is what recycling is all about passing on items that have outgrown their usefulness to people who have use for them. Lately recycling has been the hip thing to do, but those of you who've held garage sales, yard sales and rummage sales, take heart. You've been doing it all along.

Ah, the joys of life in the late 20th century. For years thought that the greatest achievement of the technological revolution was extended-wear contact lenses; I later amended that to include compact discs as well. Now the list gets another addition: cable television.

Hard as it may be to believe in this day and age. I've never had cable TV. Not until last week, when — as perhaps the most important step in turning our new apartment into home - my wife and I got the cable hooked up.

Wow, I'm overwhelmed. Instead of eight or ten channels to choose from, I've got close to three dozen. Movies, music, news, and reruns of sitcoms I never knew existed. Only vaguely conscious of the variety of cable channels before last week, I'm still marveling over the fact that the mass media business can support something called the Discovery Channel.

There are channels geared to all kinds of different interests: kids, sports fans, music fans (even one specializing in country), and so on. Apparently our local cable systems don't offer the Playboy Channel, but some of the other channels offer movies which sound cheesy enough to fill the void — unless. of course, you only want to get it to read the articles.

Cable isn't anything new to most of the world, I know, but I'm still discovering its wonders. Most amazing of all is the whole breathtaking concept of public-access cable TV.

I can tell I'm going to love this. A quick browse through the TV guide shows such local-access treasures as

"Skeet Shooting" (maybe I can find out why they're called skeet, and why exactly they need to be shot); "Everything You've Always Wanted to Know About the BPW (in a half-hour time slot, they may be overestimating my curiosity); and "President Bush Visits Hamtramck" (an event long forgotten by the short-sighted fools at CBS). And all this on one night.

I really don't mean to make fun of local-access, though; it really is a wonderful thing. Opening up television production opportunities to the general public is probably the neatest facet of

Sooner or later, I promise I'll calm down about this. Cable will become merely routine. Then maybe I'll be ready to tackle the next technological marvel on which we're several years behind: our

Parking concerns

To the Editor:

As business owners in this town we have serious reservations and concerns about the new parking deck being developed by the city planners.

The way the plan now stands the present Cady Street will dead end going west at the new parking struc-ture. A new Cady Street will be built at the south end of the new structure. This plan means almost certain death to several businesses located on Cady Street and to the businesses above them on Mary Alexander Court.

At a meeting with our building owners we came up with what we consider viable solutions to what could become a major problem. We are asking that city to consider these changes.

Cady Street from Main to Rogers was one of the first streets platted in this town. We would like for it to be returned to its former use (pre-MAGS).

Build the new deck over the present Cady Street. This would only take out eighteen spaces shown on the new plan. These could possibly be regained by repositioning the ramps. The south end of the lot off Cady could be used for the permit parking for the Singh structure.

Leaving Cady as is would also save the cost of demolition of the yellow house on Center, the cost of grading and paving the new Cady. After the new deck is completed Cady Street could be developed for commercial use on the south side of the street, thus expanding the central business

Moving Cady farther south will, in our opinion, be detrimental to our businesses and the community as a

We also request that the one-way access to Mary Alexander from Cady at the church be returned to a two way drive. Because of the closing of north Center and the change of Church Street to one way our customers findit difficult to get to us. Please implement this change as soon as possible.

Sissy campers offend the purist

It's like going to an Irish wake and being served lemonade.

It's a disgrace to the Great Lakes State, a diluted abomination.

campground, and it offends the soul of any true camper.

Three campsites packed into the square footage of my suburban back yard!

Guys selling bundles of firewood for $1.50 apiece - and so-called campers buying them! Electricity, and people plugging TVs and microwave ovens into outlets! Hot showers!

And I have it on good authority that in the women's room there was a lineup at the sink because so-called campers were plugging in blow dryers!

There was a phone booth, a justifiable concession to those who want to check up on folks back home. But to use it to order pizza?!? Shame, shame.

Camping used to be living at one with nature. You didn't have hot showers, faucets or flush toilets. You obtained cold water the way the Creator intended — pumping it, by hand.

If you felt the need to be clean, you ran into Lake Superior and stayed there for a half-hour. It made you shiver so hard that you shook the dirt right off. Saved on soap and washcloths. Built character, too.

Womenfolk didn't bother with blow dryers and cosmetics, and they looked just fine. In It's an Upper fact, I think a woman's beauty is enhanced by a Peninsula state park crop of freckles, a coat of sweat and a few mosquito bites.

Camping, when I was introduced to it, meant tents. There were two kinds — the cabin tent with two-by-two wooden posts, and the umbrella tent, with its iron, dog-legged skeleton posts.

Both were made of heavy canvas. Many of the umbrella tents made a concession to luxury by having floors.

Anyone with a camping trailer, why, you expected them also to bring along a flowerpot full of pansies. But even those trailers weren't the size of railroad freight cars like the "recreational vehicles" of current vintage.

Grandfathers were permitted the use of a 3-hp outboard motor. Any other self-respecting angler rowed a boat to the deeper fishing waters. The sign that a male child was reaching manhood was to maneuver a wooden rowboat quietly along the edge of the lilypads, not to see how many acres of fish spawning beds he could tear up with an inhoard-outhoard or a Jet-Ski.

Most food came from cans or the fish you could catch, not pizzerias. You could augment the diet through a major form of camper recreation — berry picking.

Wild strawberries came first, followed by blueberries, then red and black raspberries, always pronounced "razzberries."

Most wild berries are the size of peas, but an old-timer told us how to find blueberries the size of golf balls.

Sonny," he said, "the reason wild berries you tourists pick along the roadside are so small is they ain't got the proper kind of natural fertilizer.

"Now, the best berry fertilizer known on the face of this-here earth," he continued, "is grizzly bear manure. Yessir. The bear eats berries and relieves himself in the same general area, and the manure fertilizes the ground, and pretty soon you have the most humongous and nutritious berries y'ever saw.

"And they're easy to find, too. Shucks, all you gotta do is keep hiking until you find a pack of grizzlies eatin' berries. Ya chase the griz away, and ya got the berries all to yerself. Yessir.

That was when camping was camping.

The next development in Michigan, I fear, will be the Department of Natural Resources' developing a strain of walleye that can survive in lakes heated to Jacuzzi temperatures.

Stagecoaches were early transport

"Notice: All passengers going North and North-West from Detroit, will find Stages leaving Detroit for HOWELL, LANSING, LYONS, AND IONIA, by Plank Road Morning and Evening, at 8 a.m. and 5 p.m.

If you lived in Novi in 1856 and wanted to visit any of the above-mentioned towns, stagecoach travel was about your only method of

The stagecoach was America's first practical method of public transportation. Stagecoach travel was dirty, jarring, slow and expensive, but there were few alternatives in the 18th and early 19th centuries. Bad roads aggravated the already uncomfortable ride.

As roads improved gradually through the years, the demand for more stagecoach lines increased throughout the country.

In Michigan, the stagecoach was an important feature in providing travel and communication across the state. The earliest stagecoach line from Detroit to Howell was established in 1838. Running along the rutted, muddy Indian trail known then as the Detroit-Howell Road, the line was a popular one and served Novi residents daily.

By 1850 this road became a toll road, op-

Company. When the capital of Michigan was moved from Detroit to Lansing, construction began in full force for a good road connecting the two major cities. The Detroit-Howell Road - known today as Grand River - was the most logical route and became planked in 1850.

However, it soon grew into terrible disrepair between Farmington and Novi, and wagons found it more convenient to take Eight or Nine Mile rather than get stuck in the mud and swamps of Grand River. The road suffered from poor condition as late as 1913.

Unfortunately, the stagecoach routes were set, and despite the unpleasant conditions, they had to travel along poorly maintained Grand River Road.

Two stages ran daily each way between Detroit and Howell, providing transportation for up to 24 passengers and freight at a time.

Besides the Grand River Road line, there were many other stagecoach lines in the area. The Northville, Plymouth & Wayne Stage Line ran daily from Plymouth to Wayne, extending its service into Northville in 1869.

The safety of the stagecoach was an everpresent concern to passengers as well as stage owners. Some drivers were not quite as careful as they might have been.

In June 1849, The Detroit Free Press described an accident that today would be listed in the "Police Blotter" with an OUIL (operating erated by the Detroit and Howell Plank Road under the influence of liquor) heading:

The driver of the Mt. Clemens stage was severely injured in front of the Railroad Hotel. In turning his stage around he fell from the seat and the wheels passed over his head and abdomen. His ear was cut off. It is said he was

Jim Millar, the driver of the Northville stage line, on the other hand, was said to be "considered an adept in the art of driving, and attention to the comfort of his passengers, will," said The Northville Record with certainty, "make himself none the less popular on this end of the route."

Towards the end of the Civil War, the stagecoach was fast becoming obsolete, despite its revival in the western states as part of the Pony Express Mail Service.

Rapid technology during the Civil War helped improve the railroad system nationwide. By the late 1860s, travellers were discovering a more pleasing alternative to the swaying carriages and furrowed roads of the stagecoach. This change in style of travel brought an end to one era in American transportation, while another was just waiting to begin.

Barbara Louie is the local history librarian at the Novi Public Library. She is currently working on two books of history — one on Novi, the other on Northville. Her columns about the history of Northville will appear occasionally on the pages of the Northville Record.

It's in the cards Shop's goal is to keep collecting a kid's sport

By P. J. Baker

Have you been trying to find rookie cards of hockey great Wayne Gretzky or Lions running back Barry

Are you a Pistons fan and would like not only the 1990 championship team card, but also the rookle card of NBA defensive player of the year Dennis Rodman?

Well, they're all available at Lin-wood's Baseball Card Shop in downtown South Lvon.

Wait a minute. Time out. Those aren't baseball players? Well, you're right. But not to worry, the shop also boasts any kind of baseball card you would want - new and used.

Rick and Linda Wood of Fenton, with the help of their son Todd, 17. operate the baseball card shop that opened April 1 of this year. They also participate in baseball card shows throughout the state, and four times a year they put on a show of their own at the Sheraton Oaks Novi.

Their stock consists of any baseball card supplies you could possibly want, including binders, sheets, boxes, price listings and catalogs. Besides cards for baseball, basketball, hockey and football, they also carry Dick Tracy, Ninja Turtles, New Kids on the Block and wrestling cards, just to name a few.

"You've got to carry a variety of everything," Rick said. "If you're not into cards, but collect hats or Tshirts, this is the place."

Sports paraphernalia such as pennants, buttons, bumper stickers, sportswear and accessories is available.

"We also carry your pro and the Big Ten college sportswear and accessories," Rick added. "We try to keep it going with the team that you know will sell. Chicago Bulls' stuff sells, if you're a basketball fan. So, of course, we've got Michael Jordan T-shirts. Some of our manufacturers are Salem, Logo 7, The Game and Nutmeg -- all the quality T-shirts."

Rick's background is in hockey. while Linda's appreciation of sports stems from motherhood. The couple

"I like this a lot better than selling clothes to women," Linda commented. "It's a lot more interesting. Since Todd works here too, I'm able to take an occasional day off. But even at home there's work. You are either sorting cards or going to shows. Yesterday was my first day off since we opened. I think I deserved it." Linwood's Baseball Card Shop is located at 390 S. Lafayette in the City of South Lyon. The store's hours are 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Thursday, 11 a.m. to 8 p.m. Friday and 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday.

At the card shows, the Woods do the same thing as they do in the store buy, trade and sell baseball cards. When pricing their cards, they try to keep in mind that many of their buyers are youngsters.

"I think that every card shop you go into has different things to offer," Rick explained. "They are not all the same. You can go into some that don't have as many cards as we do, or they might have more cards. Or, they may deal exclusively with cards.

"I feel we're trying to cater to the kids, although a majority of our business is devoted to adults because there's big investment money in baseball cards now. It's not just a kids' sport. If I said that, I'd be kidding everybody."
"We try to hold our prices down. If we can buy at good prices, the kids are the ones who benefit. Some of this stuff is right out of their price range already, but we try to keep our prices down for the cards so the kids can come in and get started on a collection."

Calculate net worth at intervals

Bob and Jennifer Smith own a three-bedroom condo in the city, a vacation home in the mountains and a Mercedes Benz. To top that, they've just returned from a three-week vacation in the South Pacific. If this description makes you green with envy. look again. Bob and Jennifer are swimming in mortgages and personal loans, and the credit card bills from their vacation have sunk them further into debt.

According to the Michigan Association of CPAs, lifestyle can be an inaccurate reflection of wealth. If you owe only a small portion of the mortgage on your house, your car loan is paid off, and you have a solid nest egg of IRAs, savings accounts, and some stocks and bonds, your net worth is probably much more than the freespending Smith's. In other words, you may not be as rich as Rockefeller, but you may be worth more than you

WHAT IS NET WORTH?

Simply put, net worth is the difference between what you own and what you owe. What this means is that sometimes the true measure of wealth is not who owns more, but who owes less. Let's look at an example. Bob and Jennifer recently purchased their $200,000 condo with a $30,000 down payment and $170,000 mortgage. Thus, the condo accounts for only $30,000 of their net worth. On the other hand, Joe and Sara own a $100,000 house and owe

Money Management

just $5,000 more on the mortgage. As a result, their home represents a healthy $95,000 in net worth. CALCULATING AND EVALUATING YOUR NET WORTH

Of course, net worth cannot be judged solely by one's real estate holdings and mortgage balances. To calculate your net worth, add up the market value of all your assets. In most cases, these will include our home, car, the cash surrender value of life insurance policies, personal property such as jewelry or furs, bank accounts and other types of investments.

If you have IRAs or other retirement plans, add in the cash value of each account. Pension funds should also be included in your list of assets, but only if they have a present value. If you are not yet vested and the funds have no current measurable worth, you should not view them as assets. The same is true of any other resource that you will have access to only if you eventually satisfy a certain requirement, such as working a minimum number of years at one firm or reaching a specified age.

Once you determine the total value of your assets, subtract your liabilities, including such items as the amount due on mortgages, car loans, consumer loans, taxes owed and credit card balances. The figure you obtain is your net worth.

By itself, a net-worth statement is simply a snapshot of your financial standing at one particular time. But don't underestimate its importance. Your first net-worth calculation serves as a benchmark against which all future calculations will be measured. By comparing snapshots of your finances taken at different times, you can gauge your financial progress - or downfall. In other words, if you are striving to reduce consumer debt and accumulate assets, a semi-annual or annual networth calculation will provide you with a vivid and indisputable account of how close you are to obtaining your goal.

IMPROVING YOUR FINANCES

Let's assume that you have calculated your net worth and, to your horror, discover that you actually have a negative net worth. Should you worry? The answer depends on your age and circumstances.

If you have just obtained your first ob and your first home, there is nothing unusual or alarming about carrying a student loan or purchasing new furniture with credit cards. Remember, most of us build net worth slowly over the years. As a result, younger individuals tend to have a much lower net worth than older people who have had time to establish themselves. If you are young and concerned about your net worth, CPAs recommend that you save at least 5 percent of your after-tax income. In addition, you should start building an emergency cash fund equivalent to three months of living expenses.

If you are nearing retirement, you should take a long, hard look at your net-worth statement. Make sure that you consider not only the bottom line — how much you are worth — but also the types of assets you hold. In most cases you should probably begin transferring assets to investments that will generate dividend or interest payments that can supplement your retirement benefits.

For example, if you and your spouse are the only ones living in a four-bedroom house, you may want to sell it and trade down to a smaller. more manageable home. Such a move will enable you to convert the equity in your home into cash for investments. And if you are age 55 or older, you may be able to turn your home into an income-producing asset without having to pay taxes on the capital gain. As long as you meet the age, use and ownership requirements, you can generally exclude from your taxable income up to $125,000 of the profit you realize from selling your home. Your CPA can provide you with all the details about this valuable once-in-alifetime tax break.

Put life insurance to use in business

In recent weeks I have seen national network commericals in which the viewers are asked to "keep New York Life." This is done presumably to earn respect of the general public for the insurance industry. The ubiquitous apathy of the general public toward life insurance is most regrettable. I believe that life insurance is an extremely valuable financial planning tool. I would like to discuss some of the time-tested uses of life insurance.

BUY-SELL AGREEMENT

The death of a principal owner of a business can create serious financial problems for the business and for the estate and survivors of the deceased individual.

Usually, the deceased's interest in the business is a dominant portion of the total estate. The estate tax payable can place a substantial burden on the estate and the business.

To meet expenses, the estate may be forced to liquidate the interest in the business. And, if it is sold under adverse conditions, substantial losses may be suffered as a result of a forced sale.

Even more important, if corporate stock is sold to outsiders, the surviving shareholders' interests may be jeopardized. All of these problems can be handled with buv-sell agreements, which provide for the orderly transfer of the deceased's business interest to surviving partners, stockholder or key employees at fair values determined in advance.

Life insurance is used to assure that the money will be available either to the business or to an individual when the business interests are to be transferred.

The death of the owner whose interest is to be bought triggers the mechanism that produces the necessary money - the life insurance policies on the owner's life. The proceeds from these policies give the buyers the needed money to pay the estate the agreed price.

KEY MAN INSURANCE

No one would try to run a business without adequate insurance to cover possible loss of assets, operating facilities and profits in the event of fire, theft or other disaster.

Similarly, businesses frequently protect themselves against the loss of a partner, executive or other key employee. This is accomplished by means of life insurance.

More specifically, the company owns the insurance policy, is the sole beneficiary and receives the full proceeds in the event of the death of the

In addition, by using the cash value, the company can provide a cash reserve to finance additional retirement benefits for the executive in the event that he or she does not die prematurely.

Hanson PLC has long history of growth

I find all my friends that are interested in investing are talking about Hanson PLC. I have read the Value Line Survey report on the company, but I would appreciate it if you would make some comments on the company.

Hanson is a British company that does about 40 percent of its business in the United States. Last year it had total sales of $11.3 billion. In Great Britain sales were $5.9 billion, and profits were $790 million. U.S. sales were $5.3 billion, and profits were $625 million.

It is a company of a great many pieces and of many varieties of business. Management seems to have great skill in buying businesses, greatly improving their profitability and sellir hem at a good pro If it an operation iness.

of the most efficient and profitable businesses in the world. But, since a great deal of its profits have come from selling businesses, those margins do not carry the normal meaning.

Nevertheless, the figures need to be looked at. Since 1980, sales have grown from $1.6 billion to $11.3 billion. That is a compound annual increase of 23.9 percent.

In the same period, pre-tax income is up from $92 million to $2.2 billion. a 42-percent compound annual Earnings per share have increased at 24.6 percent and dividends at 25.4 percent.

Based on a recent price of $19% and 1989 earnings per share o $1.67, the price-earnings ratio is 12. That's a very reasonable price for the kind of growth this management has been producing.

I suspect most investors would be more comfortable if most of the profits came from operations, but it's hard to fault the results. In the first quarter of 1990, earnings per American Depository Receipt advanced 11 percent, from 28 to 31 cents.

In Great Britain, Hanson's holdings include Imperial Tobacco and British Ever Ready.

In the United States, betterknown brands include Kaiser Cement, Endicott Johnson and Frye Footwear, Jacuzzi Whirlpool Bath and Farberware Cookware.

Hanson's growth is not a recent development. The company has 26 consecutive years of increased earnings measured in British currency and accounting. Its shares have appreciated at 29 percent compounded annually since they were placed on the market in 1964.

The company has an excellent record and seems reasonably priced in relation to current earnings. The recent price of 19% and the indicated dividend of 90 cents represents a yield of 4.6 percent.

Thomas O'Hara welcomes your questions and comments but will answer them only through this column. We are an Equal Opportunity No phone calls. We are an Equal Opportunity Employer.

To fight crime in Philly, people plant posies.

"The bad part of town." Abandoned cars. Sidewalks scattered with crack vials. Bombed-out buildings. A neighborhood whose spirit is as broken as the bits of glass that dot the street. There are only two things to do if your neighborhood becomes a war zone: give up or take action.

The Philadelphia Story One day, in the "bad part" of Philadelphia, a neighbor complained to a neighbor. And then to another. And then to more. People didn't like their homes being "taken over." Feelings of helplessness and resentment turned to action. They went to the police for help. Soon a substation was established where folks could readily report crime. Weekly meetings began. Community watches started. Things started getting fixed up. Vacant lots were cleaned up and fenced off. Abandoned cars were towed away. Painting and repairing programs began

The neighborhood was cleaning itself up. The local 4-H Club even helped set up garden clubs where kids. teens and adults could work together on plants and flowers while talking over ways to raise awareness. When people care and get involved, neighborhoods change. When a block doesn't look like a haven for crime and drugs, it won't be. And in this part of Philly, where once only apathy grew. seven gardens now bloom.

This is only one success story of many. To find out what can be done in your neighborhood, write: The McGruff Files. 1 Prevention Way, Washington, D.C. 20539-0001.

And help... take a bite out of

The Tilden

Compact home with most features for today's family

By James McAlexander

The Contemporary Tilden, with porch and entry on the front, driveway and garage on the side to the left, is designed for placement on a corner lot.

Through careful planning the designer has packed this compact home with most of the features asked for by today's practical, less formal young families.

Multipaned thermal windows flood the group living areas with soft natural light. The dining and living rooms run together, both warmed by a large wood stove tucked in its own special bricklined nook. Placing the wood stove on a raised brick hearth would create a row of seats, sure to be popular for soaking up heat when the weather turns cool.

Kitchen and family room share space, coming together at an eating bar roomy enough for four or five stools. The kitchen has plenty of counter and storage space, a walk-in pantry and a broom closet.

The nearby utility room is equally handy to the garage and kitchen and is easily large enough to accommodate exercise equipment and/ or a sewing machine and ironing board.

The master suite has a big walkin closet. Separating the lavatory into its own little cubicle cuts down on steamy mirrors and increases privacy. The master suite also has access to a patio area pre-wired for later installation of a spa.

Two bedrooms share the other bathroom, this one with a tub and another separated lavatory/vanity. The stepped garage is large enough for two cars and a small workshop.

For a study plan of the Tilden (209-95), send $5 to Landmark Designs, P.O. Box 2307 CN, Eugene, OR 97402. (Be sure to specify plan name and number when ordering.)

By Marilyn Herald

ardening can be therapeutic, fun or just plain work. Maybe it's a mind-set, but enjoy ment of gardening seems to be as unpredictable as the weather. If the flowers or vegetables grow abundantly and provide lots of blossoms or produce, as the case may be, then delight seems to come in direct proportion to the luxuriousness of

People like Ken and Bette Simon of Milford, however, have been enjoying their flowers for years and, in fact, have been providing some of that same joy for visitors to their home on Milford

This year, the Simons' gardens. plus the lower level of their home, Ken's art studio and their summer house will be shared with those taking the annual Milford Home Tour, Sept 15 and

For information on tour tickets, call the Milford Historical Society at (313) 685-7308 Wednesday and Saturday afternoons.

The Simons' garden is an enchanting place, planted by Ken and lovingly tended by Bette. There are lots of unusual plants as well as many long-time

A century-old African lilac tree and an "upside-down" mulberry tree that dates back to the Civil War are among the rare varieties. In addition, Victorian garden ornaments and antique architectural finials add charm to the Simons' yard.

"I don't have any special favorites when it comes to flowers," Bette commented. "I like them

A variety of flowers, including zenias, phlox, petunias and "lots of geraniums" in pinks and reds grace the garden area.

REAL ESTATE

Home buyers renters are being shut out

By James M. Woodard

The financial noose is tightening for home buyers and renters.

Fewer than half (48 percent) of families in the United States can now afford to purchase a median-priced home. And if currently proposed changes in the Federal Housing Administration mortgage program are implemented, that percentage will be knocked down significantly.

Even now, the share of families who cannot afford a home in certain areas is much greater than shown in the national figures. In California, for example, only 19 percent can afford a median-priced residence. In San Francisco, it's only 11

It would seem natural that most families who cannot afford to purchase a home are renting their residence—either on their own or doubling up with others. But, like home prices, rental amounts vary greatly from area to area, and in some regions many families are also squeezed out of the rental market. In Boston, for example, the average monthly rental for an 800-square-foot, three-room, one-bedroom, one-bath apartment is $752, according to a recent report from the research and consulting firm of Runzheimer International. The same apartment in Los Angeles would rent

On the low side, a similar apartment can be rented in Houston, Texas, for $288. Or in Colorado Springs, Colo., for $290.

The highest-cost rental market, according to Runzheimer, is Honolulu where the average rent for the above-described unit is $890. The lowest-cost market is Oklahoma City, Okla., -$280.

The demand for affordable rental housing is steadily growing. And that demand growth will accelerate if proposed changes take place in the FHA mortgage program.

The changes would increase the amount charged the borrower (home buyer) for the mortgage insurance premium fee from 3.8 percent of the loan amount to as high as 7.5 percent (for buyers paying less than 10 percent down payment).

It would also require that at least twothirds of all closing costs, including the increased premium, be paid in cash at the time of clesing.

These changes could shut out as many as 100,000 borrowers a year who now use the FHA program," said Norman Flynn, president of the National Association of Realtors. The figure was estimated at nearly 250,000 borrowers by the National Association of Home Builders.

As more families are blocked from the home-buying market by prohibitive prices and financing costs, the demand for rentals surges. And not enough new rentals are being constructed to satisfy the growing demand. Builders are often discouraged by high land costs, sharply rising development fees, and watered-down tax incentives.

Q. A couple of months ago, you suggested an electronic gismo that could be particularly useful in writing copy for property brochures and ads. What was its trade

A. It's a very small calculator-size computer that serves as a dictionary, thesaurus and pronunciation guide. It even speaks the subject word for you. It's called the Franklin Computer.

Another electronic aid that could be very useful to real estate writers is the recently developed Associated Press Stylebook and Writer : Handbook-now available as a program for personal computers. The AP Stylebook program offers an electronic guide to proper word usage, punctuation, capitalization, abbreviation, etc.

Q. How will the current crackdown on mortgage lenders affect the real estate market?

A Stan Ross, partner of Kenneth Leventhal & Co., a major research and accounting firm, expressed this opinion:

'A wave of additional real estate loans could fall into foreclosure as the nation's banks and thrifts are forced to comply with a new interpretation of a federal regulatory rule Lenders will increasingly exercise their right of foreclosure this year unless developers can show significant equity in

Elbow grease and solutions can clean bricks

By Gene Gary

Q. I recently paved my yard with common red brick The employees of the contractor poured a wet cement mix and sponged the grout between the bricks, apparently not rinsing the sponge enough to leave the brick

When the brick dried, the natural red color of the brick became a dull grayish color. Can anything be done to restore the natural color of the bricks?-M.C.

To remove the dried residue of mortar, first try cleaning the brick by scrubbing with a solution of 1/2 cup trisodium phosphate and 1/2 cup household detergent dissolved in 1 gallon of clean water.

Scrub with a stiff fiber brush (do not use wire). Thoroughly wash off all cleaning solution, dirt and mortar crumbs, using clean and pressurized

If the condition still persists, use a solution of muriatic acid recom-mended for removing hardened mortar Mix I part acid to 10 parts clean water

Use extreme caution when dealing with acid mixtures. Mix in a nonmetallic container and pour the acid into the water, never water into the acid Be careful to avoid splashing. Wear old clothes, rubber gloves and

Presoak the area, flushing off all loose mortar and dirt. Soak with plenty of water before applying the acid, so the acid and dissolved mortar will not be drawn into the face of

Apply the acid solution with a rag mop so it can soak into the brick. Allow it to act for a few minutes, then flush off with plenty of clean water. Scrape off any globs of hardened cement with a putty knife or screwdriver.

ture in a small inconspicuous area first, since minerals found in brick vary from area to area, and some cleaners can react with them in unexpected ways.

For example, an acid used on bricks with high copper content could turn them green. Acid solutions should never be used on lightcolorized brick. After cleaning, neutralize the acid with ammonia, followed by ample rinsing again.

After the brick is thoroughly clean and dry, apply a masonry sealer for protection. These are available in either clear or colored solutions that can enhance the red color of your

Q. How can I remove dried paint that was splattered on our patio when the house was painted?

A. To remove splattered paint, the most important step is to act fast. For oil-base spots and stains, try a rag dipped in mineral spirits, then rinse the area.

Latex paint is water soluble up to 24 hours. Soak a rag in water and scrub the spot.

If the paint has dried for more than a day, try a commercial enzyme cleaner such as De-Solv-It, Oops or Goof-Off (available at larger housewares or hardware stores).

If your patio is concrete you might try a regular paint stripper-remover. Test in an inconspicuous place first.

Q. How do I remove some old adhesive vinyl strips that were put in the bottom of our fiberglass shower some years ago?

A. Carefully remove as much of the material as you can with a razor. Use extreme caution not to cut too deeply into the fiberglass surface.

There are \bar{a} number of products that you can use to dissolve the remaining adhesive residue. The one that works successfully will depend on the chemical makeup of the adhesive.

Try spraying either Spray 'n Wash or Endust on the adhesive residue (this can also be tested prior to any removal of the strips, as sometimes the adhesive underneath will soften and strips can be lifted off without scraping). Let set until the adhesive is softened, then scrape with a plastic knife or spatula (one that won't mar the fiberglass finish).

Another method is to dampen paper towels with isopropyl alcohol. Lay over adhesive and cover with a plastic film to prevent drying. After the adhesive is softened, pick it up with strips of masking tape. A 50-50 mixture of xylene and isopropyl alcohol finishes the cleanup (alcohol mixed with solvent reduces smearing often created when using a solvent alone). Another product that can be used successfully is photographic film cleaner, available in most camera stores. This works fast because it evaporates quickly and should be used only when plenty of ventilation is provided.

Tour de flower garden

"We used to grow vegetables and planted marigolds around that garden, but there are too many animals out here that like to help themselves to the garden," Bette noted. "So, we gave up vegetables."

Bette, like several other gardeners we talked to, attributes her success in growing to plenty of tender, loving care, a weekly dose of Peters soluble fertilizer and keeping ahead of the

"It takes lots of work," Bette explained. "I probably spend a couple hours a day weeding and caring for the flowers. Working in the early morning is best because it is cooler then At least once a week I dissolve some Peters in water and use my watering can to sprinkle the garden."

The Simons have lived in the Milford area for 20 years and have been married nearly 52 years. Both are active in the Milford Historical Society.

"My garden's my therapy," said Ed Dykema of Shady Oaks in Green Oak

Dykema has a beautifully landscaped yard that includes plenty of brightly-hued petunias, wax begonias, impatiens and marigolds at this time of year. In the spring, the garden turns to pink, red and gold with lots of tulips and other bulbs

"Actually, I have bulbs that bloom at various times of the year and I plan the garden so we always have something pretty." Dykema said.

In winter, Dykema's sculptured shrubs add interesting shapes to a winter-white landscape.

"Our soil is sandy so it doesn't hold water well. I bought top soil for the flower beds and we have put in a sprinkling system."

Dykema said he fertilizes with 12-12-12 granulars which he spreads in small amounts on the beds four or five times during the bors and buy what we want. I pur chased 26 flats of flowers for the yard this year.

Just down the street from the Dykema residence is the home of Ken and Charlotte Wheeler on Wild Oaks

"My wife does most of the flower care, but I do have some giant sunflowers," Ken said. "She usually puts the flowers in and she changes the colors every year. This year its red and yellow."

The Wheelers' flowers border their yard like a frame bordering a picture In the front, lots of marigolds and petunias nod gently to the sunshine In the rear yard a profusion of red impatiens enjoy the shade which is their favorite growing area.

"My wife uses Peters fertilizer." Ken said. "She adds it to the water and uses a sprinkling can to water the flowers. I just help by pulling a

The Country Garden

Of water gardens and trickle irrigation

By Renee Cox

Landscape design is really an artthe art of combining what you like with what's on sale at the local nursery (or, if you're lucky, what plants your gardener friends will share with you).

Some of our best and most creative landscape ideas have come from combining "found" plants (and lots of them) with a few choice species. Being the impatient folks that we are. we're then able to create a garden that's luscious and full without waiting forever for it.

As time goes on, we may replace or move one or two plants but we still have that riot of color in the spring and the cool greens in the summer.

Q: Can I create a water garden in a container on my deck?

A: Miniature water gardens can be grown in a leak-proof container such as a half barrel with a plastic liner Dwarf lotus, water lilies and the beardless Iris laevigata are all good choices for small water gardens provided they are rooted in rich soil set inside the container in a small pot. and they should have at least 2.3 inches of water covering their roots.

Q: When is the best time to transplant deciduous trees, such as a maple tree?

A: Not now. Deciduous trees can be best transplanted in early spring or early fall; in other words, before budbreak or after the leaves drop.

Leaf production and maintenance take an enormous amount of energy. During transplanting, the tree needs to direct all of its energy into getting its root system established.

Q: Are trickle irrigation systems good for vegetable or flower gardens?

A: Trickle irrigation is the frequent gan State University.

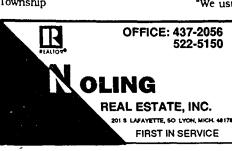

application of small amounts of wa ter directly to the root zone of the plants. It is usually accomplished with plastic or rubber hoses or pipes which have tiny holes out of which water trickles. Trickle irrigation uses much less water than overhead sprinkler systems, keeps the foliage dry (and therefore there is less chance of disease), and less fertilizer runs off. This type of system generally requires longer time to deliver a given amount of water than sprinkler systems and water will move through a sandy, coarse soil much more quickly than through clay or silt. Trickle systems can be placed above or below the ground. Some systems may need to be drained or "blown out" before winter so they

So instead of spending hundreds of dollars on a new paint job to make his purchase a bit more palatable, Valli bought some fluorescent decals and edging to create something more his style.

"The California neon look," as Meijer's salesclerk Royce Johnson describes it. Johnson says the hot pink, lime green and yellow blinding bric-a-brac is a popular way for teens to make a personal statement with their cars.

And Valli is one of an increasing number of drivers who view their car as an extension of their own personality.

For some, a brown Jeep with Mistral stickers on the windshield and Oakley sunglasses hanging from the rearview mirror, is more than simply a means of transportation. The car speaks for them. "I windsurf," it says boldly.

So, too, does the burgundy Caravan with its suctioned-on sun shade and yellow "Baby On Board" diamond introduce its driver. "I am married with children so don't expect me to drive fast," the minivan tells surrounding traffic.

As more and more cars pop up on roads and in parking lots, and people spend an increasing amount of time driving, personalizing automobiles has become a popular pastime. And not only color and model are used to reflect ones's own style anymore. The choices available to make vehicles vogue are seemingly endless.

To help owners in their quest for a completely individualized car, an entire industry of automobile adornments has sprung up to garnish generic interiors as well as embellishing austere exteriors.

Volunteers

Giving time to others

By DOROTHY NASH Special Writer

"I can't give blood because I'd faint," said Evelyn Harper. But she does provide assistance in non-medical services at the American Red Cross mobile blood banks which operate within a 10-mile radius of Northville.

What are non-medical services?

1. Greet and register donor.

2. Escort donor to donating table.
3. Provide donor with cookies, fruit juice, and 10 minutes of small talk.
A worker in the American Red Cross Northwest Service Office in Livonia provides Harper with a three-month schedule of nine six-hour donations to be held at industrial plants, schools, and business offices. Harper then calls down a list of volunteers to get three to help provide services for each shift.

The shift hours vary according to the site. They may be 6 a.m. to 2 p.m., 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., or 3 p.m. to 9 p.m.

a.m. to 4 p.m., or 3 p.m. to 9 p.m.
Sometimes a larger-than-usual number of donors sign up ahead of time, she said, and so she has to recruit more volunteers. Once there were 120 donors and she needed six volunteers to handle them.

However, for Harper this is not a year-round job. She provides volunteer assistance for only four months. Two other volunteers assume responsibility for the other eight months, each one taking four.

And in addition to providing assis-

And in addition to providing assistance at blood banks — yes, she signs herself up for three times a month — she also works once a month in related volunteering at the Service Office.

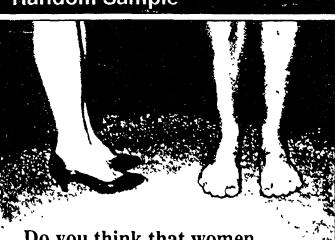

"I usually work on the blood bags, putting a number on each one." That number is then put on the donor's registration blank at the donation so that donor and blood can be identified. If, after the blood has been tested for a variety of things, including AIDS, it is not acceptable, it can be traced to the

If you would like to assist at blood donations, call Evelyn Harper at 349-5781.

Groups forming to compete in bridge

The Northville Mothers' Club Marathon Bridge groups are in the final stages of being formed. If you are interested in playing in an evening couples group, a women's day group, or a women's night group, please call either co-chairpersons: Meg Coponen at 349-7866 or Carol Rahimi at 349-3762 by Monday, Aug. 20.

Author dinner

The annual fundraising dinner sponsored by Friends of Northville Library is quickly approaching. The dinner is set for Sept. 24 at 7 p.m. and tickets will be going on sale soon. The speaker this year will be William Kienzle, author of the highly acclaimed suspense novel-turned movie "The Rosary Murders." Kienzle is a local author who turned to a successful writing career after many years as a priest. He spoke at this very same event six years ago, and was "very entertaining and very popular," according to event organizer Geraldine Mills.

So get ready and stay tuned for more information — this fun event sells out quickly.

Town Hall tickets

Tickets are still on sale for the 1990-91 Northville Town Hall Series. Speakers are: Oct. 11 — Eileen Fulton, an energetic and enthusiastic comedienne and actress; Nov. 8 — Col. Charles Scott, a former hostage held in Iran; March 14, 1991 — Kaye Lani Rae Raíko, a Monroe resident who served as Miss America 1988; and, April 11, 1991 - Jack Reynolds, veteran news writer.

All of the speakers will begin at 11 a.m. Season tickets for the speaker series can be purchased for $30. To order, contact Mrs. Bonnie Dewan at 437-9845.

Additionally, reservations for the optional after-speaker luncheon are being accepted. Tickets are $11 each including tax and gratuity, or $44 for the entire season. Luncheon tickets may be purchased by Season Lecture Ticket Holders only. For more information, contact Virginia Kaiser at 349-8938

The girls at the Dennise Lenore Dance Camp stretch out before dancing

Local kids learn to dance to the music at day camp

By LESLIE PEREIRA Staff Wnter

With day camps flourishing as a summertime option for vounger kids not quite ready to go away for a week, camp directors are having to come up with a pretty good idea to claim their share of the cam-

But Dennise Mazurek thinks she just may have hit on something.

Sandwiched between a party store and a pizza place, Mazurek's dance studio. Dennise Lenore's Dance Center, is in the midst of its first experience on the children's day camp circuit. For this one week, Aug. 6-10, Mazurek decided to shift gears from her usual frenetic daily schedule of various classes and numerous students, to a full week of set activities for the same 15 dance campers.

Mazurek said she stumbled onto the idea after remembering her summer days as a child at various summer day camps which lacked a focus.

We would do some arts and crafts, swimming and games with a little dance sprinkled in," Mazurek said. "I thought running a camp would be a nice idea — but spiffed up a

So Mazurek supplemented the basic idea of taking kids off their parents' hands from nine in the morning until three in the afternoon, with a rigid and purposeful schedule intended to increase their interest in and knowledge of dance.

This is probably what a parent would want to look for in a dance camp," Mazurek said. To maintain the interest of the beginning dancers, who range in age from 8-12, Ma-

Ten-year-old Abby Haxton of Northville warms up

zurek decided to offer a small taste of ballet, jazz and tap dancing during the course of the weeklong camp.

The idea is to introduce them so they can decide which one they would like to pursue," Mazurek said. And if they decide afterwards that they don't like any forms of dance, "they will have at least been exposed to the arts," Mazurek said. Initially unsure about how her daring venture into the realm of kids' camp would come out, Mazurek was pleasantly surprised by the response she received.

"I was telling my receptionist
"If I can just get five kids to sign up, that's all," Mazurek said when she posted the original informational flyer. But the next day she had her five. then 10, then she expanded her camp size to 15, and now she is still having to turn people away.

"I am really big on personal attention and I can't give that if there are more than 15 kids," said Mazurek, who is instructing all of the dance lessons Mazurek has been a dancer since age 5 (she is now 30). and has been a dance instructor at various studios for almost 14 years. With a bachelor of fine arts degree in dance and a masters degree in education, Mazurek combines her dance skills with experience and knowledge to give her students a more complete picture of what it means to be a dancer

And this total approach is emphasized at her dance camp with the inclusion of lessons on choreography, nutrition, anatomy, acting and make-up. Mazurek stresses the fact that knowledge of nutrition and anatomy are crucial to the dancer's physical well-being, and acting and make-up are skills necessary for dance performances.

For each of the separate aspects of the camp, Mazurek hired specialists — a nurse taught anatomy and nutrition. an actress gave pointers on acting, and make-up demonstrations were given by a qualified make-up artist.

"Everyone can learn how to dance, but it is different learning how to perform," said Mazurek.

Personalizing cars is fun pastime

For the exterior, even the practical accessories such as floor mats. splash guards and sun shields have burgeoned from a one-style-pleasesall to a demand for them in a variety of shapes, colors and cartoon characters

Car parts as basic as windshield wipers are springing up in fluores-cent colors with aerodynamically engineered extension flaps (huh?) to help dry the water. And decorative do nothings to add a splash of color to unspectacular parts such as wheels and hub caps are multiplying faster than Simpsons paraphernalia.

You can really get a good look on your car," say Johnson of the colorful udbits.

On the inside, upholstery covers for worn out seats can be had in numerous colors and varying degrees of fluffiness. Now you can cover cracked vinyl or worn leather with tweed, velour, terry or plush - in your choice of color, of course. Or you may prefer to hide unsightly seats with a plastic and wire combo cover in various patterns of plaid.

A bald, fresh-from-the-factory, steering wheel can be made less temperate, more comfortable, or simply "different" by adding a thick leather, thin leather, spongypunctured leather or imitation

Then there are the not-sopractical accessories. Even more popular than coffee mug holders and map sacks for car doors are the new colorful novelties and outrageous additions that make a vehicle uniquely one's own.

These include one-cup coffee makers that plug into the cigarette lighter for the person who doesn't smoke or an automatic car air purifler for the driver who has everything and does

The decision of what to hang from your rearview mirror used to be an easy one — a tassel if you graduated or fuzzy dice if you didn't. But with the age of personalization, so too comes complication. No longer are you simply a graduate or a swinging single. You can show your true colors by hanging a U.S. Navy seal, boxing gloves, a skull and crossbones or Garfield and Odie from your mirror.

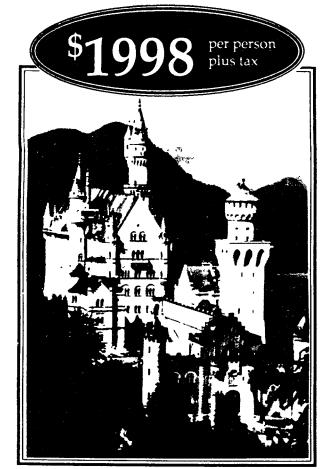

So despite the old adage, You can't judge a book by its cover," the next time you see a car drive by with a University of Michigan alumni license plate, plastic butterflies suctioned onto the windows, and a yellow diamond sign that reads Exhusband in trunk," you'll know who is driving. Historic tavern serving guests for B&B stays in old Milford

By Iris Sanderson Jones Travel Editor

Owen and Marlyn White of South Lyon celebrated their 40th anniversary at the Hibbard Tavern in Milford this summer.

John and Denise McMillan of Bloomfield Hills got married there in Allan and Lisa Wing of Farmington Hills, who had never stayed in a bedand-breakfast before, stayed overnight New Year's Eve because they wanted to get away from the kids without going too far from home.

You will find all of those names in the Hibbard Tavern guest book, but they are only a few of the southwest Michigan travelers who have learned that you need not travel a thousand miles to enjoy a vacation or to explore an interesting town like Milford.

Glenna Davis and Kathy White of Northville toured the house for a possible future stay when they were camping at Camp Dearborn. Ed and Doris Bullock of Milford dropped in for Dickens Night.

If you live in Milford, you live contemporary small-town life on the edge of a city, but if you visit the house owned by Barbara McGrew-Beckstrom and her husband Jim Beckstrom on Summit Street vou find yourself in the 1990 version of a tavem built in 1838 as a stagecoach stop between Pontiac and Howell.

Most of us like to foray occasionally into the past as long as the beds are new and the tollets flush.

My first glimpse of the nineteenth century was when I turned off Interstate-96 at the Milford exit: a sign that reads "Milford Township, Established 1832."

I followed Milford Road to where it dead-ends at General Motors Road; locals turn left to the G.M. Proving Grounds and right into town, leaving strangers to guess the way. Follow Main Street through downtown Milford and up the hill to the Hibbard Tavern.

There is no way for a passerby to know that the house on the corner of Union and Summit was once half of the Hibbard Tavern, that the owners cut it off and log-rolled it next door when they sold the tavern in the late

Brochure sketches always make you think that bed-and-breakfasts like this stand alone, but the Hibbard Tavern is just another house on the street until you see the sign that reads 'Michigan Historic Site' and turn uphili into the gravel drive. Guests park beside the picket fence or behind the two-story carriage

At the moment, Carol McElroy lives upstairs in the carriage house. coming down the outside stairway from the second floor every weekday morning to drive to her job in Auburn Hills. Carol used to live in Livonia, but she will marry and settle in Milford this year, not too far from Barbara McGrew's kitchen.

That's how you go into Hibbard Tavern, through the gate, between the herb garden and the lawn, and through the screened back door that goes 'whap' when you close it. When I entered the kitchen, the first thing I noticed was cats and goats. The cats are real, especially Ollie. The goats were stenciled on walls and cupboards by Barbara McGrew.

One stenciled farmyard reads "Coes Goat Farm." The Coe family owned this house for 75 years after it stopped being a tavern. Frank Coe Jr., son of the last Coe resident, lives in Indiana but visited the house after it became a bed-and-breakfast last

The house on Summit might have stayed a private home if Barbara McGrew had not driven by on her way to a doctor's appointment in 1988. Barbara had been a travel agent in Westland, a tour director for Corporate Travel in Dearborn and a representative for Clipper Cruises when a car accident changed her life.

"I was grounded," she said.

She had always dreamed of owning a bed-and-breakfast and decided to do something with all those small pieces of folk art she had gathered in her travels. The Mennonite quilt from Elora, Ontario. The ceramic beverage container made by artist Mary Alice Hadley in Kentucky. The Belleek china from Northern Ireland.

"I was once a tour guide in this house during the Milford home tour," Barbara said. "A year later, I was on my way to a doctor's appointment when I saw a 'For Sale' sign on the lawn. I never did get to the doctor's office, but we bought the house."

When the kitchen door whapped behind me, and I had been welcomed with a cup of tea, Barbara took my bag through to the living room which has two doors. One door opens for popular events like the Herbal Garden Lecture Aug. 25 or the Milford Musicale Folkfest Sept. 9.

The other one leans permanently left and stays closed. Barbara pried it open one cold January day and nearly froze to death waiting for her husband Jim to come home and force it closed again. Jim works for Michigan Bell Telephone in Southfield, and if the house is full, which is seldom except during summer weekends, he parks around the corner so he can get out again in the morning.

If you turn one way from the living room and office of Hibbard Tavern, you enter a large room at the end of the house; it is Jim and Barbara's room during the week and the Coe Suite on weekends. On Friday and Saturday nights, the couple move into the Ira Hibbard Room, a bedroom with a queen-sized bed off the other end of the living room.

I went up steep stairs to the halfstory that runs the length of the house between roof-slanted walls. The first small room is assigned to grandson Andrew Patrick Danowski of Dearborn.

Granny's Nook, a single bed in an open space under the eve, is almost an ante-room to Edith's Flower Garden Room. The Garden room has flowered spreads on twin beds, flowered curtains over low windows on either side of the room, flowered cushions on white wicker furniture and Barbara's vines stenciled on the

It can be hot up in that nineteenth century room, but there is a twentieth century air conditioner in the Hibbard Tavern has two bathrooms. One is in the Coe suite. All other rooms, including the carriage house, share the bathroom that opens between the kitchen and the Ira Hibbard Room downstairs.

Rates at the Hibbard Tavern, including either a cold or hot breakfast. are $50 for the Ira Hibbard Room. $60 for the Garden Room (Granny's Nook $20) and $70 for the Coe Suite. The carriage house room has a double bed, is booked through October and presently not winterized, but when available it rents for $35 per person, $70 for two. All other rates cover one or two people in a room.

Readers' Feedback

Readers report on visits to united Berlin

By Iris Sanderson Jones Travel Editor

Two weeks ago we asked readers to let us know if they have visited Berlin since the wall came down. We couldn't find anybody on our travel staff or among the travel agents we knew who had done so. The phone started ringing that afternoon and the letters started coming in the next morning.

Richard C. McNight of Westland says it all: "Dear Ms. Jones: My son and I visited Berlin and East Germany between June 28 and July 11, 1990. Besides carrying home several pounds of fragments from the Berlin Wall, we had a chance to spend time in both East and West Berlin.

The contrast between the two Berlins is dramatic. In the West are brightly lit shopping avenues lined with cases, restaurants and discos. In the East are strikingly wellpreserved public monuments and museums and beautifully kept public areas. West Berlin is up-todate in all respects, while East Berlin is something out of a 1930's time

Huge Mercedes sedans from the West traveling over 100 mph on the autobahn pass boxy little East German Trabants and Wartburgs struggling to reach 60 mph. There are only a handful of gas stations in any region of East Germany, and long lines short supply.

Russian soldiers are frequently seen traveling the autobahn, identifled by the red star on their trucks.

There are several main corridors open between the two cities and many more unofficial openings that Detroit. allow foot traffic to cross. There are no border checks or formalities of any treatment of intravenous drug users kind. The customs booths sit empty and closed. But mile upon mile of the wall still remains, more than enough to supply souvenir seekers for several years. Actually, there are two walls, with a 'no man's land' in between.

While in East Germany, we visited Limbach-Oberfrohna, the birthplace of my grandfather, Herbert Franke, who is 92 and lives in Alma. The little town he left in 1904 is just four miles from Karl Marx Stadt, a large city in the process of reassuming its pre-war name of Chemnitz.

It is located in the rolling green hills of Saxony, adjacent to the Czechoslovakian border. We found the exact place of his birth, took lots of pictures, and returned with exciting memories. At the same time, we got a chance to see the spartan living conditions of the East Germans, the stores with few items on the shelves, the long lines at the bank to exchange their old East German marks for new West German marks and the beautiful old houses little changed or updated in 40 years. "May I recommend Berlin and East Germany to anyone who would enjoy experiencing social change at its most dramatic. Go soon, though, before the contrasts between east and west have worn away."

Richard C. McKnight Westland

Dr. Marcia De Cann Anderson of exist at all of them. Lead-free gas is in Plymouth and Geoffrey A.D. Smereck of Farmington Hills were on a business trip to Berlin in June and brought 100 pounds of the wall home for family and friends. They are president and vice-president respectively of Personalized Nursing care of

"We presented our research on the

to the 18th International Institute on the Prevention and Treatment of Drug Dependence in West Berlin., Anderson said.

The conference was sponsored by the International Council on Alchohol and Addiction, a United Nations affiliate.

"We also toured the area. We went back and forth across the border of East Germany several times without the slightest problem."

Anderson and Smereck brought home pieces of the wall as well as photos taken in historic places: the Berlin Wall, Hitler's Bunker, the East German city of Potsdam etc.

Lauren Pearson of Plymouth was on a six-week European tour with a college friend when she took the train into East Germany for the day. One of her experiences puzzled me as well as the German experts I consulted.

"I was told by a traveler that there was a 75 Deutsch Mark charge to enter East Germany. They didn't charge me going in but they did charge me coming out. It was a government charge for crossing the border."

The German National Tourist Office (212-308-3300) said: *Officially you must still get a visa to enter East Germany but it is free and they seldom ask for it any more." The Berlin Desk (212-232-3134). which represents Berlin tourism in North America, said that Berlin no longer forced visitors to exchange their money for East German currency on a one-to-one basis as they once did, but they knew nothing about a 75DM entry or exit charge.

I finally got the answer from German Rail (212-308-5975): Anyone traveling on an Eurailpass pays a 75 DM surcharge by the railroad when That's about $48 U.S. at present exthey cross the East German border. change rates.

Tiger game sales offer many items

By MIKE TYREE Staff Writer

The souvenir hawkers swoop down almost before you hit the Detroit city limits.

Only steps from your $5 parking space outside Tiger Stadium, vendors begin shilling shrilly for everything from Cecil Fielder posters to Tiger caps to "Doyle Alexander is a great guy" (plenty in stock) t-shirts.

Big league baseball is big league business and judging by the omnipresence of goods sellers and buyers at the ballpark, a bad team doesn't exactly quash the opportunity to make a buck.

After paying $10.50 for a box seat. the average Tiger fan is subjected to a dizzying array of sales pitches from a horde of vendors - with virtually every type of inflated trinkets available for deflated dollars.

Pins, pens, pennants, pendants, peanuts, pretzels, pop, popcorn, pizza, ptomaine . . . all are on sale now at Tiger Stadium.

But be prepared to pay for your purchase.

A buck-ten here for a little ice cream bar; two-fifty there for a short beer. Hot dogs are what, $1.60?

Kids clutch $6.50 posters of Urbano Lugo — a steal considering Lugo was in the bigs only until he pitched a few times without getting

And the lines to buy these fine items are long. It's not unusual to see a bleached cattle skull blocking the path to the overpriced nacho stand.

But the game's the thing, as President Bush — by all accounts America's top baseball fan - might

Baseball is a great game, especially those cherished moments between the shrieks of "ICE CREAM! BUY MY ICE CREAM!" and "PROG-RAMS! TIGER PROGRAMS HERE!" and "I DON'T HAVE ANYTHING TO SELL, IMJUST INTO SCREAMING!"

Most of all, baseball is for the kids. And everyone knows that kids love the game, or at least love to purchase and spill stickly globs of junk food on those fortunate enough to perch next

And when they're not eating/ spilling food and beverages, the kids love to buy autographed Tigers paraphernalia. Just think of the thrill it must be to own an Edgar Romero autographed bat! Or a Clay Parker baseball or Tony Phillips glove! Where else could a kid collect such

Only at the old ballpark are such delights possible. Attend a game and bring the kids, the camera, the mother-in-law. And bring plenty of money just in case you come back to find your car isn't in the $5 parking space that the nice young men said would be secure.

All types of Tiger paraphernalia are available for purchase at Tiger

Drug-free dance held this weekend

Schwagle places at USTA tournament

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN

Last spring, Northville's Mark Schwagle, by virtue of his appearance in the Class A finals, proved himself to be one of the top prep tennis players in Michigan. This summer. Schwagle has broadened that title: he is legitimately one of the top age-16 players in the entire United

It's a bold statement, but Schwagle's performance at the United States Tennis Association Boys 16 Championships last week is all the proof you need. The event, at Stowe Stadium at Kalamazoo College, drew 275 of the top young players nationwide.

Just 15 years young and in his first year of age-16 competition, the soon-to-be Northville High School sophomore entered this prestigious tournament unseeded back on Aug. 5. A week later, Schwagle had an impressive 5.2 overall record and a top-16 finish against some of the best this nation has to offer. "This tournament is probably the best run of all the national tournaments, and everybody is good once they reach this level," Schwagle said. "I feel real good about how it went for me because this is my first year in the 16s. Out of all the first-year 16 players in Kalamazoo, I placed the highest.

Schwagle's success was not really a surprise, since he is the defending Western Lakes Activities Association champ and the state Class A runnerup. But he clearly performed better than the seeding committee

This is the biggest, most important tournament for players my age, and once you see you can compete with anybody, it kind of spurs you on," he said. "The seeds went up to 16 and I wasn't seeded. So it was nice to place in the top 16 and knock a seeded player out."

Schwagle started the tourney on

Aug. 5 with an easy 6-1, 6-1 victory over Tim Rodogna of California. The match was played on one of three main stadium courts.

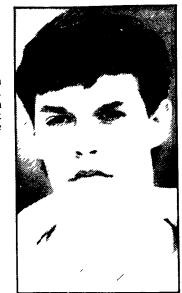

"We were both nervous, but I guess (Rodogna) was a bit more nervous," he said.

In round two the next day, Schwagle edged Quentin Huff of North Carolina 6-4, 3-6, 6-4 in a match that took 31/2 hours. But on Aug. 7, Schwagle fell for the first time to Ross Loel of Los Angeles - the seventh seed. The 6-1, 2-6, 2-6 defeat dropped Schwagle into the backdraw of the double-elimination format.

"(Loel) didn't play very well in the first set, but after that he came on much stronger," Schwagle recalled. The match was a little closer than the score shows. I tried my hardest but I didn't play as well as I did in the first two rounds."

In the back-draw, Schwagle won his next three matches to assure a top-16 finish, but he was eliminated on Aug. 11 by Jason Parker of Georgia (3-6, 2-6). Schwagle's victories on Aug. 9 and 10 included a 6-1, 1-6, 6 0 triumph over Christian Hill of St. Louis, a 7-6, 6-1 win over Tom Derouin of Illinois, and a 6-4, 2-6, 6-2 decision over Washington's Tim

Staknis reviews 1990 campaign

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN Staff Wnter

Teamwork was the focus, the goal and the cornerstone for Northville's Mickey Mantle baseball squad this summer.

So much so, in fact, that manager Joe Staknis has refused to release individual statistics to his players or anybody else. The team batting average and the team earned run average are readily available, but nothing individually.

"We got where we were based on everybody's performance together." Staknis explained. "We don't even keep track of the pitcher's won/loss records. Some may argue such an approach is a bit on the extreme side. but it worked, at least to a certain degree. With a 13-8 regular season mark, and a 14-11 record including all tournaments, the team was one of the more successful Mickey Mantlelevel (age 15-16) entries to come out of Northville in quite some time. "Last year, Northville didn't even have a Mantle team — because of a lack of interest - so it was a good year." Coach Ed Walsh said. "We did have a lot of talent with guys like (Mike) Lang, (George) Smojver and [Dan] Kozdron. We had a lot of pitching for a team that draws from such a theme, Northville went into a teamwide hitting slump during the skid. And to make matters worse, key players like Lang. Eric Shaw and Kevin Shaw were unable to play that week.

"During the skid, our hitting average as a team dropped 50 points," Staknis said. Both Staknis and Walsh agree that the highlight of the season was Northville's ability to beat teams like Plymouth Canton, Plymouth Salem and Livonia Stevenson. "I look at our team as an extension of the high school team, and that's the way it is throughout our league," Staknis said. Beating teams we'll play next spring is important." As a team, Northville wound up with a respectable team batting average of .288. Several of the hitting stars included Smojver, Kozdron, Joev Staknis and Jerry Birdsall, As a pitching staff, Northville had a team ERA of 5.07.

Giving up five runs per game at this level isn't too bad," Staknis said. "Defensively, we were probably in the same league as most of the others we played. I'd say we were a little better than average defensively."

Northville entered the National Amateur Baseball Federation Junior World Series earlier this month as the host and as a serious contender. But a heartwrenching 5-4 loss to the Manchester (Ohio) A's in the first Solid pitching and timely hitting round and a 6-3 defeat to Tecumseh guided Northville to a fast start and (Ontario) in the second ended those contention in the Little Caesars Ama- hopes. It somehow seems appropriate that Novi would turn to a police officer to arrest the school's losing ways in girls basketball.

John Hoffman, 28, a Bloomfield Township police officer, was recently named the fifth Wildcat head coach in the last five years and just in the nick of time. Hoffman is replacing Tammi Biesenthal, who never actually coached a single Novi game as a replacement for 1989 mentor Chris Drogosch. Confused?

That's understandable because the constant turnover of coaches in the program has been a major problem. Since 1986, no coach has lasted more than two seasons — and Biesenthal's reign of several weeks was the shortest.

The part time Novi High teacher accepted the head coaching position in early July after Drogosch left to coach the boys varsity team at Waterford Kettering. But she resigned both her teaching and coaching duties on July 27 - about two and a half weeks prior to the official start of practice - putting Novi administrators in quite a bind. Hoffman was already hired to coach the Wildcat junior varsity team under Biesenthal, so when the varsity spot opened up, he gladly accepted.

. Joey Staknis, one of Northville's top hitters, lashes out a hit at the NABF Junior World Series.

"It opened up for me because I was to be the jayvee coach," Hoffman said. "I was very pleased because being the head varsity coach is what I eventually wanted - it's nice to have your own program."

Hoffman takes over a program that hasn't had a winning season since '86, and has an anemic 15-49 record the past three seasons — a winning percentage of just .234. Obviously, Novi Athletic Director John Fundukian is hoping that Hoffman can provide Novi girls basketball with some muchneeded stability.

*Our hope is always to have some continuity in our programs because it's best for the kids, but there are no guarantees," Fundukian said.

A graduate of Eastern Michigan University, Hoffman has been coaching a variety of sports at a variety of levels for 10 years, although this is his first varsity head coaching position. Despite coming off a 6 15 campaign, Hoffman has inherited seven players with varsity experience and four starters from '89.

Tournament, scheduled for Aug. 28-30, more than likely will be held at Northville High School. The Lions are gymless as a result of mov-

The local team also ran a two-week youth camp at Northville in late June.

"Northville's been real good about it," Lions coach Ron Shanks said. "Novi helped them in a similar situation a couple of years back, so they know what we're going through."

Fourth Annual Goat Farm Ultramarathon with a finishing time of 5 hours, 15 minutes and 34 seconds. The 43-mile race was sponsored by Mr B's Farm, McNish Sporting Goods, Novi Parks and Recreation and the Novi Trackers Running Club.

Twenty-one runners started the race at 6 a m. on Aug. 5 at Mr. B's Farm and proceeded along the I-275 bike path for 21.5 miles before returning on the same course. All 21 starters completed the race, which is Michigan's only ultramarathon (longer than the traditional 26.2-mile marathon).

In 1987, the race was inagurated as a 40th birthday event for Luther Rackley, who is one of the race directors. Each year, one mile is added to the event. The course itself is wellliked by the runners since it provides a relatively safe and attractive route while still permitting support crews convenient access to runners.

For Tom Taylor, it was his second victory in an ultramarathon. Taylor had previously won the 60K (37.2 mile) Toledo Seagate Ultramarathon and this was his 17th race of marathon distance or greater. His best marathon time is 2:37 and he is a regular competitor in local events such as the Novi Rotary Run, the Providence Hospital Run and others. In addition, he was a member of the 10-person Redford Runners relay team that completed the 340-mile Port Huron-to-Mackinac relay race.

In the early stages of the ultramarathon, Don Gjurasin, 45, of Holland, Ohio was the leader, with Taylor and defending champ Rob Apple, 28, of Lewisburg. Ohio, trailing by as much as 11 minutes at the 15-mile mark. Fifteen miles later, Gjurasin and Taylor were running together.

Giurasin, who suffered a pulled hamstring during the race, eventually dropped back to finish fourth overall (6:14.00), while Taylor went on to win with a comfortable 15-minute cushion. Apple placed second (5:30.47) and Jeff Gatt, manager of Running Fit in Novi, was third (5:57.30).

Local representation was provided by Jim Wahl of Novi (10th place, 8:03) and Joe Rutherford of Northville (12th place, 8:18) - both members of the Novi Trackers. For Wahl, it was his 103rd race of marathon distance or greater, while for Rutherford (a triathalon specialist), it was his first success at a race beyond marathon

Comfort is key in running shoes

Running addicts swear that jog-ging is the best way to keep fit. They profess that it's the ideal sport because it can be done nearly anywhere, and doesn't require extensive equipment.

In fact, the only piece of mandatory equipment is a pair of quality shoes.

For the novice, however, choosing the right pair can be harder than finding a contact lens in the dark.

The most important thing about a running shoe is comfort," said Novi Fitness Source shoe expert Matt Dow. "If the shoes don't feel comfortable you aren't going to want to put them on and run.

He said choosing a shoe to combat certain foot problems and protect the feet from injury is also important. People who have pronation or subtenation problems (who turn their feet inward or outward respectively) should look for shoes with motion control devices that are designed to correct those problems.

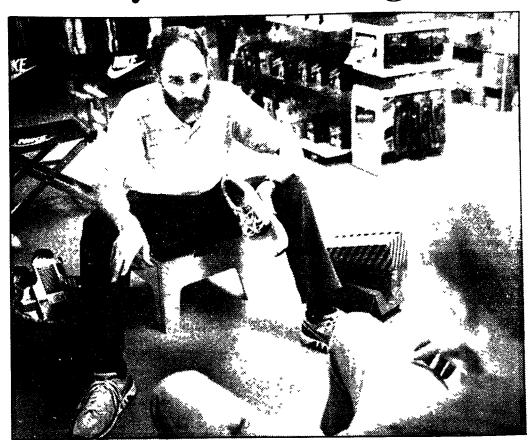

Finding a well-padded shoe is also paramount. There are two basic types of padding - EVA, which is lightweight but not exceedingly durable; and polyurethane, which is harder and more durable, Dow said.

*Both are more than adequate but some like a lighter, more cushiony shoe and others like one that lasts a bit longer," he said.

Many shoe makers have devised their own padding system using air pillows or gell in the soles to provide added cushioning and entice new

Understanding the causes of depression

- By TANYA WILSON, R.N., Special Writer

Depression is called the "common cold" of mental illness. It is the most frequently encountered mental health problem in the physician's of-fice. Recently, there has been signifleant progress in understanding the causes of depression. The current view of depression is that it is an illness, which like ulcers or diabetes, results from both biological and psychological forces.

Many doctors now believe victims of depression may have an inherited susceptibility to the disease which can be triggered by external factors as well as changes in the body's own

Depression occurs more frequently in women than in men. Although depression can strike anyone of any age, the average age of onset is in the late 30s and 40s. Alcoholics and people suffering from anxiety disorders are also often depressed. For some, depression will occur without any precipitating event. Many people who become depressed have perfectly normal personalities. It is important to know certain medications may also cause depression as a side effect.

Childhood depression is increasing, even in children under the age of seven. Most doctors feel childhood depression has both physiological and environmental causes. One study suggests a child has a 30 percent chance of having symptoms of depression if the mother is depressed and a 50 percent chance if both parents are depressed. On the other hand, children can experience emotional trauma such as abuse or even abandonment, without becoming depressed if neither parent has had problems with depression.

Feelings of sadness and feeling blue" are experienced by all of us from time to time and is a normal occurance. However, true depression can be devastating, and those suffering from depression will tell you it is far worse than any physical illness.

The common symptoms of de-

1. Feelings of sadness and hopelessness.

2. Thoughts of suicide and death. 3. Restlessness and irritability.

4. Feelings of low esteem, negative view of the future and the world.

5. Loss of appetite and weight (although some depressed persons eat normally). 6. Fatigue, weakness and decreased energy 7. Diminished ability to think or concentrate. 8. Loss of interest and pleasure once enjoyed.

9. Insomnia (although some depressed persons sleep normally). 10. Chronic pains that fail to respond to treatment.

Depression will very often reverse itself spontaneously but may reoccur, especially if help is not sought and complications are likely. Treatment is generally effective using a combination of medication and psychotherapy. However, only one in five victims seek help. This is particularly sad because depression affects social relations including work, marriage and family. In more than 50 percent of divorces, one of the spouses was depressed before divorce proceedings started.

Grief reactions, in response to a major loss, such as the death of a loved one, are often thought of as depression. A physician can often help a person through this difficult time. If a person suspects that he or she may be experiencing symptoms of depression, explaining this to his or her physician can be an important step toward receiving correct treatment. Additionally, it may save a lot of time and medical expense.

It is a tragedy so many people continue to bear the burden of misery de pression inflicts when help is so read ily at hand.

The Northville Record is working with medical authorities at the Uni versity of Michigan Medical Center (M Care) in Northville to provide up to-date information on a variety of health-related topics. The series is coordinated by Peg Campbell of the M-Care staff.

Van Every is a former member of the Women's Metropolitan Golf Association, and she played with the group for 21 years. In 1987, she organized the Ladies of Detroit First Church of the Nazarene Golf League for beginners.

"I was very shocked when I got the hole-in-one," Van Every said. "Usually only the pros get them. Our league was playing that day to make up for the rain out. If it wasn't for that, it never would have

"My only goal this year was to par one hole — I never expected this.

In addition to being a homemaker. Van Every is a lunch aid at Novi Meadows School.

"I had faith in my mom and I knew she would (get a hole-in-one) sooner or later," said her eldest daughter Carolyn.

Proceeds from this outing benefit the Angela Hospice Home Care Building Fund for a new inpatient facility.

OLV BOOSTER CLUB GOLF CLASSIC: A golf outing sponsored by the Our Lady of Victory Booster Club is set for Aug. 18 at Salem Hills Golf Club (Six Mile and Currie roads).

Format for the event will be a four-person scramble and the $70 entry fee includes golf, cart, lunch, dinner and refreshments. Trophies will be awarded in both the men's and women's divisions.

Dinner only tickets are available for $20 and all proceeds from the outing will go to support youth athletic programs at Our Lady of Victory parish. Tee times are limited and payment must accompany registration. Interested golfers should contact Larry Lemier (349-0012), Ray Mendonis (349-7039) or Jim Brown (348-2159).

Erickson tops Soley in local golf shootout

Mike Erickson's approach on the golf course has changed somewhat over the past couple of years.

He is still capable of "air mailing" his shots, as he did on one hole with a 320-yard tee shot last week. But the 6-foot-5 Erickson, the state's hottest pro, proved he has the touch when necessary by winning the top prize of $1,000 in the second annual Head Shootout at Walnut Creek Country Club located between South Lyon and Novi.

Eight of the state's top pros were invited to play in the seven-hole elimination format.

The 27-year-old Walled Lake resident, an assistant pro at Oakland Hills Country Club, was the lone survivor, outlasting second-place finisher Andy Soley of Northville's Meadowbrook Country Club.

"I have to keep reminding myself of risk management," said Erickson, who had the Walnut Creek gallery buzzing with his monstrous tee shots. "I still take the game seriously and work hard, but now I prepare every day about my game instead of getting too high for an event."

Last season, Erickson was seventh among the state's PGA pros

His short chip slid just inches from the cup, nearly forcing a putt-off. Erickson held on by tapping in for par. "I've been a little bit erratic off the tees, but that's even changed," said

Erickson, who missed the cut at the PGA Qualifying School in Florida last winter. I've consistently played an all-around game and I think I've improved in a lot of areas." The Head Shootout, one of several state PGA events held throughout the summer, included defending champion Gary Robinson. The 1989 tourney was held at The Bear in Traverse City.

Robinson and Walnut Creek pro Ed Muir, however, were the first casualties of the day, losing in a putt-off on the first hole. Each settled for
