County slow to react on toxic fumes cleanup

By MIKE TYREE Staff Wnter

Wayne County has not taken appropriate steps to authorize a cleanup of an abandoned building where toxic fumes last week caused minor injuries to two police officers, a township fire department official said Tuesday.

The county is dragging its heels and I'm getting tired of it, said fire department Assistant Chief Rick Rosselle. "I want it taken care of."

Rosselle said the county has yet to agree to pay for removal of materials which caused accumulation of toxic gasses in the former training center power plant on Sheldon Road north Rosselle had said the fumes originated from decomposing acid-based batteries housed in the basement of the power plant.

Sixty back-up generator batteries were located at the site and Rosselle said liquid from the batteries had leaked onto the floor of the basement.

The injuries sustained by Mayes and Brogan were consistent with sulfuric acid emissions, Toms said. But members of a clean-up crew on hand later Friday evening also found barrels of unidentifiable liquid in the power plant basement.

K & D Industrial Services, Inc. of Romulus, was contacted to remove the batteries and accompanying contaminated soil Friday evening, but lingering questions over the actual source of the fumes cut short their

The K & D workers that evening neutralized the acid in the batteries by covering them with soda ash.

Rosselle said he decided to close off the site until Monday, Aug. 27, when he said the building would be aerated and chemists could determine the fumes' source.

But nothing has been done to take care of the problem since Friday, Rosselle said.

The Tuesday announcement that release was imminent for American women and children held hostage in Kuwait came as wonderful news to Pati Heath.

"It's another glimmer of hope." Heath said Tuesday. "I'm going to be prepared for Kevin coming home."

Fate of pedestrian bridge debated

Last Tuesday's planning commission approval of a new Cady Street parking deck prompted debate over the fate of a Center Street pedestrian bridge.

State police investigating the Aug. 16 death of a Northville Regional Psychiatric Hospital patient are treating the death as a homicide, the of-ficer in charge of the investigation said Tuesday.

reports in today's Northville Record:

William Gibbons, 46, died at St. Mary Hospital in Livonia from head injuries sustained at the Northville hospital three days earlier. He died after being taken to the Livonia hospital Aug. 13 for what a Northville Hospital official termed "a medical emergency."

State Police Sgt. Robert Silva said police are considering the death a possible homicide until their investigation points to another cause. "It's still under investigation because we have lots of people to talk to yet," Silva said.

According to Silva, Gibbons lay on a hallway in the Northville hospital for about five hours before he was transported to St. Mary Hospital. Dr. Walter Brown, director at the Northville hospital, said three hospital employees have been suspended while the investigation takes place because they failed to follow "certain (hospital) policies and procedures during the Hospital death may be a homicide

"It appears that there were some problems in terms of how he (Gibbons) was cared for prior to when the medical emergency was called, and we're responding to that," Brown said. "It appears that some employees could have been a little more conscientious about doing their job."

The Wayne County medical examiner's office is also treating the death as a homicide. "The original information was that there was some sort of a scuffle," said Dr. L.J. Dragovic, the assistant medical examiner who performed the autopsy on Gibbons' body.

Dragovic said Gibbons died of a trauma to the back of the head, "consistent with hitting a hard surface." But he was uncertain whether Gibbons died from an accidental fall or another cause.

The manner of death is still considered a homicide until proven otherwise," Dragovic said. He plans to review the case with state police Thursday, to get the results of their investigation into the death.

"If I have their assurances otherwise, then I'll be more than happy to change it to 'accidental.' because he might have fallen during a seizure." Dragovic said.

Gibbons had a history of seizures.

A preliminary investigator's report submitted to the Wayne County medical examiner's office by St. Mary staff mentioned the possibility of a fight or "foul play" in connection with Gibbons' death, but state police and hospital officials had found no evidence by Tuesday to back up that Silva said none of the people he had interviewed yet had confirmed whether Gibbons was involved in a fight or had fallen. "As far as I know he was laying in the hallway, and that's all that they were able to tell me," Silva said. "I have been unable to find anyone to tell me, Yeah, he fell.

Local woman faces assault and battery charges

By MIKE TYREE

A Northville woman faces three counts of assault and battery after she allegedly beat one of her children and struck a neighbor and a police officer during an Aug 18 altercation.

The woman will be arraigned at 35th District Court Sept 20 on the assault charges and state protective services agencies are reportedly preparing child abuse charges against her

Township police arrested the 41-yearold woman after responding to a report of a family dispute at Swan Harbor Apartments

Police said they arrived at the apartment complex at approximately 10:30 p.m. Aug.

18 as a 9-year-old boy ran from an apartment crying and yelling for help

The boy told police his mother was beating his sister and as police approached the apartment, the suspect allegedly ran toward the boy, shouting obscenities.

Police said the boy cried "don't let her hit

At that time, township police Sgt Clyde Anderson said he stepped between the woman and boy and the woman allegedly yelled at him to get out of her way. She then allegedly punched Anderson in the left cheek with her right fist

Anderson, who was not injured, told the woman she was under arrest and grabbed the woman's arm. The woman allegedly resisted arrest and had to be restrained and handcuffed behind her back

She allegedly continued to yell obscenities, struggle and kick at Anderson, he reported.

The woman then had to be carried to a patrol car and was placed in a rear seat, Anderson said. He said the woman appeared to be intoxicated.

The woman's 12-year-old daughter reportedly told police that her mother had driven the two children to a party store on Six Mile and Northville Road where the mother bought liquor.

The three returned to their apartment, where the woman allegedly began yelling obscenities at and punching and pulling the hair of her daughter.

A witness told police she saw the suspect beating the girl. Another witness reportedly attempted to talk the woman out of beating the children and was allegedly attacked. The neighbor said the woman allegedly pulled out "handfuls" of her hair.

According to police reports, the children called the 9-1-1 emergency number and the mother broke free from her struggle with the neighbor and allegedly resumed beating the daughter.

Police arrived at that point and arrested the woman, according to reports.

The woman was then jailed and Wayne County Social Services placed the children with a relative, police said.

Anderson, the neighbor and child are listed as complainants in the assault and

The state then moved to secure the safety of the children.

Patricia Balasco, director of Wayne

County Children and Youth Services would not speak specifically about the case, but said the immediate response in similar situations would be to place the child with a relative and eventually determine the parent's ability to respond to treatment and counseling.

'Generally, we don't walk into court asking for permanent custody," she said. "We try to give the parent a chance."

Balasco said the woman would not be able to remove the children from the relative's home.

"They must stay with the relative," she said. "If the mother grabbed them, we would read that as dangerous."

District joins suit against state

By MAUREEN NASZRADI Staff Wnter

In response to the state's "recapture" of funding, several school districts - including Novi and Northville --- are suing the state seeking damages and a preliminary injunction.

The Novi and Northville boards of education voted to join other out-of-formula school districts that are attempting to remedy the loss of state categorical and social security funding.

The recapture provision of the 1990-91 State Aid Act took $72 million in funding that previously had been allocated to certain districts and rerouted it to poorer, in-formula districts.

The Birmingham law firm of Clark, Hardy, Lewis, Pollard and Page was asked by several affected districts to review the case and suggest possible courses of action to contest the recapture provision. Districts who join the lawsuit include hiring the firm in their resolution to participate. A Aug. 22 letter from attorney Dennis Pollard to one of the participating districts said a "viable legal argument exists to support the affected school dis tricts' attempt to recover this . (funding from (funding from the state)."

All districts negatively affected by the legisla tion now are being asked whether they want to join the lawsuit. Pollard said he expected to be pre pared to file suit prior to or shortly after Labor Day.

Recent discussion at both Novi and Northville school board meetings supported bringing a lawsuit against the state because of immediate effects on the districts' finances and also for fear of the long-term effects of the legislation.

William Barr, Novi associate superintendent. said the district will absorb the $890,000 loss in state funding for the 1990-91 school year with its fund equity and "prudent' management."

In order to avoid program cuts this year, the Northville district is asking voters to approve a one-year 1.28-mill increase to generate the $884,000 the district budget is short after the recapture.

"I don't see (the lawsuit) solving our problem in the short term," said Northville Superintendent George Bell, "but, in the long term, perhaps."
Pollard said the reasoning behind the schools' case is that the recapture provision of the State Aid Act violates the Headlee Amendment to the Michi gan Constituiton.

That amendment says the state is "prohibited from reducing the state-financed proportion of the necessary costs of any activity or service required of units of local government by state law."

Board proceeds with election efforts

By MAUREEN NASZRADI

Preparations for the Northville Public Schools Sept. 27 millage election continued Monday.

The Board of Education appointed election inspectors throughout the district and discussed how to present the ballot proposal to Northville school district voters.

The board voted Aug. 13 to ask voters whether the district should levy an additional 1.28 mills for one year "in order to avoid program cuts caused by a reduction of state funding."

The election will determine if there is support for a millage increased fund operations or if $884,000 worth of cuts will have to be made in the 1990-91 program to balance the

The board later in the meeting voted to participate in a lawsuit against the state in an effort to recoup the recaptured funding. However, Superintendent George Bell stressed any benefits of that action will not be felt for a long time.

"This will have no bearing on our current crisis," Bell said. The millage election stands.

The board will meet in a study session Sept. 5 to finalize wording on the information sheets that will be distributed to district residents and to define which areas of the program would be cut in the event the millage is not passed by voters.

Bell presented to the board a list of questions and responses that he felt "got to the crux of the problem" and

Northville schools open Tuesday

By MAUREEN NASZRADI

Northville Public Schools will open doors to 4,000 students Tuesday. And the staff and facilities are ready, the district administrators reported to the Board of Education Monday.

Students in grades kindergarten through 12 begin their regular class schedule Tuesday, except the graduated-start first graders. Similar to the 1989-90 school year, first graders will attend a half-day the first lew days of the year before resuming their regular schedule.

Superintendent George Bell said the district will realize the projected enrollment increase of 250 students for the 1990-91 school year.

We're at 238 and counting right now." he said. "That will put us over the 4,000-student figure for the first time since I came here in 1982."

A meeting was planned at the high school yesterday for the teachers new to the district this year. After a brief overview by the administration, the teachers were expected to tour the district by bus to become acquainted with the community.

At 8 a.m. today, the entire district staff was expected to meet at the high school for a brief address and welcome-back breakfast.

Board President James Petrie commended the administration and staff for their preparation efforts.
"It sounds like we're ready for an excellent start," Petrie said. Representatives for Barton Malow. bond-issue project managers, updated the board on progress

They talked about the physical status of repaving, roofing, renovation and construction projects, and the financial status — how much of the money raised by the bond issue approved by voters last October actually has been spent.

Barton Malow's Joe Myers said most of the projects are complete or will be by Tuesday. Only the high school tennis courts will miss the Aug. 31 target date, he said, due to unforeseen groundwater conditions."

The groundwater problem has been solved, he said, so the asphalt resurfacing can proceed. The courts will be complete by the end of September, he said.

Dr. Burton Knighton, assistant superintendent of administrative services, said 224 K-12 teachers are employed by the district this year, up from 210 in 1989-90. "All the staff is ready to go, expect for two aide positions," he said.

Knighton said the bus routes are complete. The district's 21 drivers were expected to report this week to look over their runs.

The building custodial staffs have been very busy, Knighton said.

'Custodial wise we're in good shape," he said. "Final floor scrub and wax by the staff will be completed by (today)."

In addition to the projects Barton Malow has been supervising, the Northville staff handled a number of smaller building projects, Knighton said. Also, more furniture will be ar-

MainCentre carports plan nixed City deck okayed

By STEVE KELLMAN Staff Wnter

The Northville planning commission postponed a final decision on MainCentre carports last Tuesday by turning down Singh Development's request for final approval of 74 carports south of its mixed-use development.

That action was one of two death blows dealt to the concept of a pedestrian bridge over Center Street that evening, the other being the commission's approval of an expanded Cady Street parking deck without the bridge (see related story).

But the decision was only made after an hour of often-heated discussion between Singh and city officials.

"I'd just like to put into perspective why we're here this evening." Singh Vice President Michael Kahm told the commission. "I've been led to believe. and am quite sure, that the pedestrian bridge is not desired by the city.

"If the bridge is not going to be part of the parking deck construction, then the deck is not going to be part of MainCentre at any time."

With that, Kahm notified the commission that he was seeking approval of 74 permanent carports for Main-Cenure residents on the parking lot south of MainCentre and the Michigan Association of Gift Salesmen (MAGS) building, rather than the temporary carports he had requested in June, and seeking approval of an additional 20 permanent carports across Center Street on the present site of the MainCentre leasing office.

Singh and city officials had planned on providing resident parking in a new Cady Street deck but that plan fell through when Singh could not gain approval of a pedestrian bridge between the two. The original agreement between the city and Singh provided for either a parking deck and pedestrian bridge or carports for MainCentre apartment dwellers.

City Manager Steven Walters noted that planning commission approval of the careports does not guarantee them. Because the carports are part of an agreement between Singh and the city council, and because the MAGS lot is city property, the council has the right of final approval.

At first, commission members seemed unwilling to accept even the concept of permanent carports on Commissioner David Mielock announced he was "opposed entirely" to permanent carports, saying, shouldn't be our responsibility or the city's responsibility to compensate for poor planning." He did not elaborate on whose planning had been poor, or why.

But Commissioner David Totten suggested the commission had little control over the aesthetics of the carport plan. "We simply have to look at whether the applicant has fulfilled the technical requirements, and then we can simply gnash our teeth at the solution," he said.

Commissioner Rolland Stapleton disagreed. But he added that carports were not an unforeseen possibility. "Once we agreed in principle on the concept of MainCentre, this was a relatively foreseeable occurrence," he said. This was the worm in the side of the apple that grew on the tree with the pretty blossoms." Several of the commissioners were upset that the latest plan called for permanent carports instead of the temporary ones first proposed by "One of the things that bothers me about this proposal is that this has always been referred to as a temporary solution to the problem of putting up a deck," said Chairman John Hardin. He opposed the notion of permanent carports, saying, "this is kind of like putting the garbage out front and leaving it there."

Kahm disagreed, saying that Singh would be certain to make the carports as attractive as possible. "Certainly we're not going to shoot ourselves in the foot by putting garbage on our doorstep," he said. "The bottom line is the carports have to be there because we have no other

Kahm said Singh had considered running a pedestrian tunnel between the dack and MainCentre, "but unfortunately there are too many utilities in Center Street . . . there are too many conflicts."

Township resident Karen Baja noted that she had followed the fate of the pedestrian bridge through coverage by the Record, and said, what is being implied is that the developer is being made to jump through hoops over and over and over again."

She criticized city officials for not allowing the developer to proceed with either a bridge or carports.

Totten defended Singh as well. saying"I happen to know that they've spent a lot of time screwing around

COOK, (8-27 & 8-30-90 NR) with that building (to accomodate a pedestrian bridge).

We cannot in good conscience leave a building out there with no place to park," he said. "That's irresponsible."

Kahm agreed, and reiterated the need for carports to market the 74 MainCentre apartments. "I'm not here trying to play games . . . I'm dead serious," he said. "These carports are absolutely necessary for those residences to be successful."

He suggested that the city's refusal to allow carports could mean the "last gasp" of MainCentre as a viable business, and worried aloud that Main-Centre could come to the same fate as: Northville Square — the former Main Street retail mall that folded before MAGS bought the building.

Singh's attorney, Larry Kilgore of the Farmington Hills firm Evans & Luptak, warned the commissioners that they could lose their opportunity to have any say in the design of the carports, suggesting that Singh would simply insist on its legal right to carports and put up the ones described in concept in the firm's 1989 agreement with the city council.

There's a range of options that I think are acceptable to both parties," he said. But he added, "at this point, there are going to be carports. That's inevitable, whatever happens here

The ongoing dispute between the city and Singh over financing a new Cady Street parking deck also surfaced when Commissioner Don McCulloch asked about Singh's flnancial role in the deck. When Kahm said his company would not participate, Walters responded, "he's obligated to."

Stapleton moved to table the carport plan until the next commission meeting, and have Planning Consultant Don Wortman meet with Singh officials to modify the plan. But the motion failed by a 4-4 vote with Chris Gazlay, Hardin, Mielock and Totten voting against it.

Commissioner Stephen Ball finally broke the stalemate with his motion to deny approval of the plan.

Ball incorporated many of the commission's concerns by advising Singh to set aside some 100 feet along Center Street for potential commercial development, orient the carports to allow the relocated Cady Street to cross between Center and Wing streets, and maximize the remaining public parking spaces on Even so, the motion barely passed by a 5-3 vote with McCulloch, Mielock and Totten voting against it. Commissioner Richard Wilhelm was absent Tuesday night.

A new team has been formed to administer the Northville School District's two middle schools.

David Longridge will remain principal at Meads Mill, Jeffrey Radwanski will assume the top job at Cooke, and Susan Meyer will act as assistant principal for both schools. Northville's 900 sixth-, seventh-and eighth-graders for the first time in five years will be divided between Cooke and Meads Mill when school opens Sept. 4.

The Board of Education named Radwanski as Cooke principal in February and in June appointed Meyer to the newly created position of assistant principal for both schools.

Meyer had been a teacher consul tant for special education at North ville High School for five years when she was chosen from the field of 70 candidates for the position

Since 1978, Meyer has taught at all levels of the Northville school sys tem She worked as a teacher consul tant at Meads Mill from 1979 to 1985 and for one year prior to that at Silver Springs Elementary

Longridge has been principal at Meads Mill since the middle school population was combined there in 1985 He previously was principal of Cooke since 1974 and before that a high school assistant principal since

Radwanski has worked at Cooke in three capacities: teacher, counse lor, and now principal

His first job in the Northville district was as a teacher at Cooke in 1972. When Meads Mill opened in the 1975-76 school year, he split time as a teacher/counselor, then became a full-time counselor.

In 1980, Radwanski went to Cooke as a counselor, then returned to Meads Mill in that position in 1985

"With the smaller schools, there will be traveling teachers," Longridge said, "which is not the best.

'We'll look forward to the day when the schools are self-sufficient.

Meyer also will have to split her time between schools, working with both Longridge and Radwanski to coordinate programs.

The assistant principal is in charge of discipline, athletics and scheduling. She also coordinates the junior enrichment series, a PTSAsponsored program.

"She has the toughest job," Longridge said.

Radwanski added, "It's important that (the assistant principal) be visible at both schools in order to establish consistency in discipline, programs and for kids to see (she is) also an important part of the staff."

Bright lights shine on media center

The media center is one of the highlights of the "new" Cooke, said Principal Jeffrey Radwanski. We made it as equal as possible to Meads Mill's media center," he said. Sue Spaniol will be the media specialist at Cooke when school starts next week.

Money generated by the recent school bond issue was used to pay for 20 computers, printers and carts; bookcases: tables: chairs: audiovisual equipment; all new books for the Cooke media center; and renovations in that area.

The $16-million bond issue approved by voters last October provided funding to update existing facilities and equipment and provide technical hardware and programs throughout Northville Public Schools.

The media center layout took shape in the last few weeks, including a lounge area, periodical racks, rows of book shelves, the card catalog, computer tables and an open classroom area.

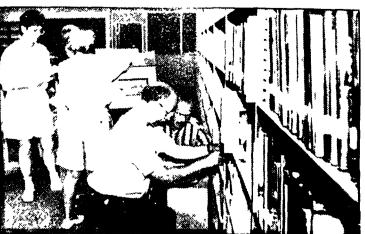

Robert Stover, Meads Mill Middle School media specialist, was one of the people who spent many summer hours stocking Cooke's shelves

The system keeps the status of the collection up-to-date and automatically sends book-return reminders to students in their homerooms.

The media center will be equipped with a computer automated inventory and catalog, which provides more information with easier access than the traditional card catalog. Stover said. The electronic card catalog includes the usual cataloging information and a short review of the book, as well as whether the book currently is on the shelf. He said he expects the electronic version to replace the traditional card catalog completely within three to five years.

Stover said the new system will aid the students' research efforts as the computer allows them to begin searching with a broad subject, then gradually narrow their focus. They will have instant access to specific articles and all related materials, he

Volunteer divers learn lifesaving techniques

By MIKE TYREE Staff Writer

Ten scuba divers slipped into the lake at Blue Heron Pointe subdivision last week, fanning across and searching its sand and gravel depths.

The divers - members of the township fire department - were rehearsing a role they hope never to

Police and fire officials say a trend toward pricey homes built on manmade lakes increases the chance that someone will wade, dive, or drive into a water body and not emerge.

With an eye on the future, the divers were taking part in a voluntary scuba course designed to bring water rescue capabilities to the township. "Ultimately, we are working toward a quick reaction rescue team." said John Rapp, a professional scuba instructor who has donated his time to the infant rescue program.

Rapp put his students through a series of open water navigation drills last week, envisioning an anytime. anyplace, anywhere rescue squad. What we're looking at, by this fall, is to be able to put people in the water anywhere in the township within 20 minutes of the incident," he said. The idea is that the search, rescue and medivac can be done in less than 45 minutes.

That gives any victim a chance of being revived and saved."

The volunteers put in more than 40 hours of classroom and swimming pool instruction before they hit the open water, Rapp said.

"The guys took a lot of their own time to get this done," Rapp said. "But after certification, they'll be qualified in ice diving, river diving any kind of water diving."

Lakefront development and a local rescue squad must go hand-in-hand. said township Assistant Fire Chief Rick Rosselle.

"We have to have this capability because we can't wait for Wayne County (Sheriff's divers) or the State Police to come out," Rosselle said.

"Our population around the lakes has doubled and with Thomson (a proposed 401-unit development) going in, it's going to triple," he said. "If this team saves one life, it will be worth the expense and effort."

Rosselle said the program will make divers available via a call to the 9-1-1 emergency number. But funding problems may force a call for help by the fire department.

"We were going to request scuba equipment on the new budget, but without the millage. I don't think we'll get it," he said. Volunteers are presently using equipment donated by Rapp, and the gear is expensive. But Rosselle thinks the public will be better served by a local water rescue unit.

"If someone goes through the ice. or if a kid falls in, we could be there and they won't have to wait," he said. This is one of the things we can do to really speed up the service."

Schools sue state

The funding that the state recaptured was money the districts used for mandated "categorical" programs - special education and gifted programs, for example. The state also recaptured social security funding.

The state's recapture of social security is the real issue, Barr said. Both Novi and Northville school districts each year had been receiving more than $1 million in social security from the state.

The recapture plan reneges on an agreement the state made in 1955 with the federal government to pay school district employees' social security, according to Pollard.

The attorney in his letter warns the districts that it may take many years for a decision to be reached in the lawsuit. Therefore, he said, any money damages "will not have any meaningful short-term value."

One of the purposes of a preliminarvinjunction, he said, is to maintain the status quo during the lawsuit so that when it finally is resolved the point is not moot.

"It is quite apparent," he said, "that the scale of the present recapture ($72 million for the 1990-91 school year) will increase significantly over the next five years."

Officials in both districts have said they fear cuts beyond the current school year.

Novi's Barr said. The real impact will be compounded if it continues." Northville's Bell has said he believes that out-of-formula districts eventually will reach the point that they are funded independently, with only program mandates from the Pollard estimated the cost to carry the case through the preliminary injunction phase to be up to $65,000. The costs thus far have been equally shared by districts who have elected to become involved, he said.

The Novi board set a $10,000 limit on its financial participation at this riving through September. "Our buildings we think are in very good condition," Knighton said. William Hamilton, director of instructional services, told the board the status of the district's telecommunications project. He said the district-wide voice, video and data information system with interactive television capabilities is "coming to reality.

Dr. Dolly McMaster, assistant superintendent for instructinal services, told the board about the training and development workshops that administrators and staff have participated in during the past months.

She said the district staff has been hearing there is new emphasis in the education field on the need for educators to be continuously changing and learning while they teach.

Also, curriculum review and revision remains an ongoing project, the early childhood program was relocated successfully and the district's business/education partnerships program has produced some exciting possibilities, McMaster reported.

John Street, director of business and finance, said final work on the budget awaits the outcome of the district's Sept. 27 election. Meanwhile, payroll will rise with the start of the school year and preparations for the district's upcoming audit continue.

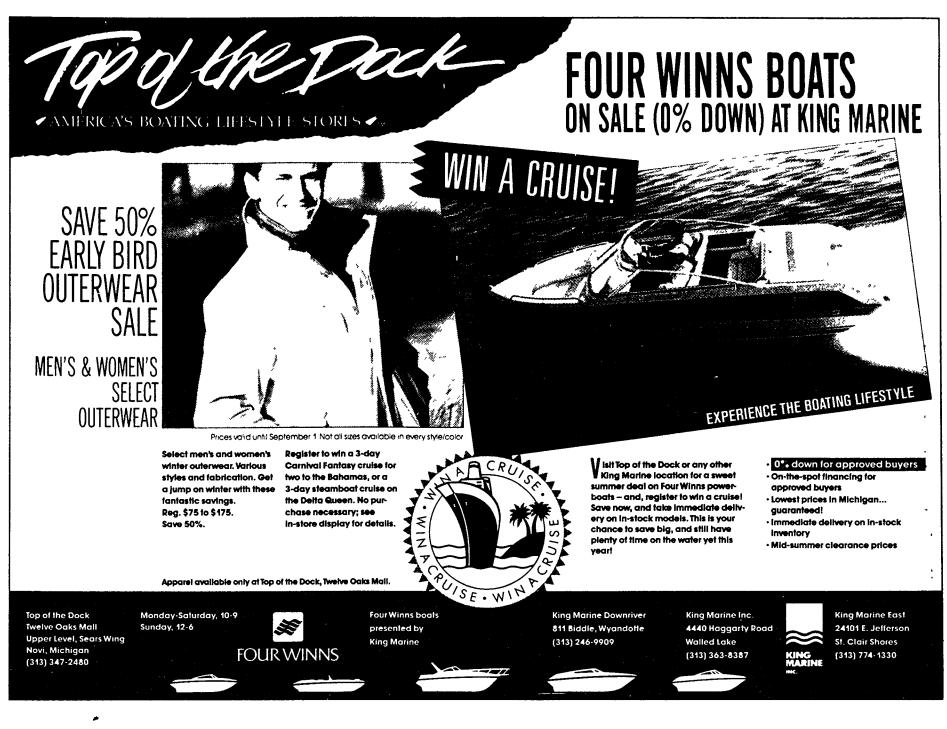

Dr. Leonard Rezmierski, executive director of special education, said, "I'm pleased that K-12 special education is correctly staffed in all buildings.

Rezmierski said the staff will continue to be affected by ongoing issues which teaching methods to employ for the severely learning disabled, for Staff in-service training on topics such as self-esteem are being implemented, Rezmierski said. Also, the special education curriculum continually is being rewritten, he said.

Our Opinions

School districts' suit the right step to take

It's really a pity that the Northville School District finds it necessary to join with other out-of-formula districts to file suit against the state over this year's school aid act. But all things considered, it's pobably the best move for all

Each year the state Legislature passes a new - and different - bill to aliocate state aid money to the local school districts With all the emphasis lately about achieving real reform in school funding, this year's aid act took on extra significance A lot of people expected something radically different from past years. something to partially address the overall question of school-funding systems.

They got it. The version of the act the Legislature finally passed brought a new importance to the concept of "recapture:" the state looks at money allocated for local aid and takes some of it back.

Everybody in local school administrations knew the recapture was coming, but they didn't know how big it would be Some planned for it; some didn't.

It turned out to be significant. Northville and Novi each lost about $900,000, and Walled Lake Consolidated lost even more. Simply enough, the state took that money - $70 million across Michigan - and increased aid to perfer in-formula districts

It s a little confusing to talk about "formulas" in this context. The formula written each year guarantees a certain level of funding per student to all public schools If the local property taxes don't provide that much, the state makes up the difference. It local millage brings in more than that — as it does in Northville - the district is "out of formula."

But regardless of a district's status as in or out of formula, it does get some state "categorical" aid — for specific, mandated categories like special education programs and social security payments. The categorical aid is what the tate reduced Still with us? Okay then. From one angle the recapture makes sense — or rather, redistributing state aid money dees although the recapture is a clumsy way to do it Some districts are much poorer than other districts, and while we all know that throwing money at a problem is not the way to solve it, some problems do require cash as a part of the solution. Public education is one of them.

Wh n the Legislature couldn't come to agreement on a real school-Luance reform plan, it did the only other thing possible for some sort of change. It helped out the poorer districts — at the espense of the richer ones, yes, but those are the ones bestable to absorb the loss. And anyway, doe the state really have a responsibility to maintain the senous funding meanity that exists among districts? Or should it be doing everything no sible to reduce the meguity?

That the view from one angle. However the are others

EDUCATION

While the state may very well have a responsibility to narrow the funding gap and it is a huge gap — the state also has other responsibilities. And the categorical aid is most definitely one of them.

That's true on a gut level, since these are largely things the state requires local districts to provide; it only makes sense that the state pay for them, or at least pay the lion's share.

But it may be true on a legal level as well — and so, enter the lawsuit. Dennis Pollard, a lawyer who works for several school districts in the area, is coordinating the suit based on the Headlee Amendment to the state constitution. Among its other provisions, Headlee says the state is "prohibited from reducing the state-financed proportion of the necessary costs of any activity or service required of units of local government by state law."

To a lay person's eyes that certainly seems like grounds for a lawsuit, and school boards seem to agree. Both Northville and Novi have joined in, and Pollard is working to get other districts on board. He expects to file the suit within a week or so.

Spreading the legal costs over many districts will mean the suit should not cost too much for any one district: Northville and Novi have little to lose by participating. And obviously they have a great deal to gain in the eventual return of the lost money.

As for this year's cuts, Novi is absorbing the loss through money it has on hand while Northville sends a special millage request before voters next month. Those are both stopgap solutions, and the question of where categorical aid will come from down the road looms large. Without a legal challenge to this year's aid act, the local schools can kiss that funding goodbye forever.

But what of the poorer districts, the ones this was supposed to help, the ones that need every penny they can get?

The lawsuit might indeed mean the in-formula districts would lose this newfound revenue. However, it was money they never expected to have in the first place. And if the state indeed gave it to them by legally unsound means, then their extra cash will just have to come from somewhere else.

That's the bottom line. Success in this lawsuit would in essence force the state Legislature back to the negotiating table; it would increase the pressure to develop some real reform of the entire school-finance structure. And we're just naive enough to hope that in the long run, that might be best for everyone.

Tim Richard

The surprising thing about the Lt. Gov. Martha Griffiths affair is not that Gov. James Blanchard had the courage to do it but that he dallied so long.

He should have maneuvered the 78-year-old Griffiths aside months ago. Instead he went from May 10, when she announced her availability for a third term, to Aug. 23, when "he did what had to be done," as local Democrats phrased it.

The Ford administration in 1976 handled it far better. President Gerald Ford found Vice President Nelson Rockefeller woul be a liability on the ticket. In plenty of time, Rockefeller took himself out of consideration for the next term. It was so fast and so clean that hardly anyone remembers it today.

Things were at the point where even Democrats were telling unflattering Martha stories.

There was the time she acknowledged a western Wayne County lawmaker had a good idea but it was too bad the representative was from the other party. No, Martha, that lawmaker was a Democrat.

As presiding officer of the state Senate, she usually bawled out majority the room during debate. Yet her fellow Democrats took offense at her crabby, 19th century schoolmarm attitude.

We in the media covered up for Griffiths — a lot. One 10-degree winter day, I was covering Bill Lucas' inaugural Wayne County Building, Lt. Gov. Griffiths presiding. Griffiths made some remarks which, if they had come from the mouth of an 11-year-old, would have been termed snotty. Gloved hands in pockets, I let them go by unrecorded. I plead guilty. But she did that frequently.

That was when she was only 70 and not "frail," as they call her today.

Blanchard gave her plenty of time to step out gracefully herself. Instead, she announced her availability on her own, adding that the governor needed a psychiatrist if he thought otherwise.

"I think everybody in the party knew this was coming. I think we're all very relieved," said Don Tucker, 18th Congressional District Democratic chair, during Saturday's statewide series of local conventions. Tucker said aloud what most were shy about uttering.

Last May I noted that Blanchard's three administrative board candidates were then 78, 77 and 65. "Blanchard can't afford a geriatric ticket. He must talk either Griffiths or (Secretary of State the local implications of state and reg-Richard) Austin or (Attorney General ional news.

Republicans for buzzing in the back of Frank) Kelley out of running," I said. Bryan Amann, 15th District chair in western Wayne County, came up with a fascinating rumor that sheds more light on politics this week than anything I've heard.

Rumor has it that Republican as executive on the steps of the old nominee John Engler will pick a running mate who also will be assigned to direct a cabinet department. It's a tested idea. Governors in other states have used the No. 2 person as head of the Commerce Department to raise the status of industrial recruiting. Such a move on Engler's part would have pointed up the energy differences between his No. 2 and Griffiths.

It may explain why only in the last week did the name of Olivia (Libby) Maynard emerge as a possible running mate for Blanchard. She directs the Office of Services to the Aging.

Both Engler and Blanchard are vague about when they will unveil the names of their running mates.

Both parties hold their nominating conventions the weekend of Sept. 8-9, so they have almost the same deadline. Do you suppose Engler and Blanchard are trying to wait out one another in a game of up-upmanship?

Bob Needham

Consider putting out a flag man on the phone was obviously upset.

So much so, in fact, that it was several minutes before I even understood what she was saying. In an emotional and agitated voice, she was asking me to put something on the editorial page. Not something about local government, or schools, or anything like that. Something about patriotism, Iraq and war. Something about Saddam Hussein and

Something about flags.

We drive around town and no one has any flags," she said. "Can't you put something in the paper? Can't you tell people to put out flags? My son is a patriot. If we go to war, he says he's going to join up! I'm a mother, and I'm worried! That man is evil! He's evil, and nobody has any flags!"

I may not have the words exactly right — I wasn't taking notes — but that's the gist. She talked for a long time. She told me how her husband went out and bought a flag special and put it out at their house. She said - by now clearly in tears — that she thought about writing a letter to the editor, but they're quiet people who don't want the attention. She asked again if I could put something in the paper.

These sorts of things come up now and then, although usually not with such emotion. I explained what I always explain: we're a small, local newspaper. We don't comment on international issues; we're not knowledgeable enough, and we have plenty of things to keep us busy right in town.

The woman wasn't having any of it. We're part of the country, she said. This affects all of us.

I started to feel overwhelmed. I thought about ways we have indeed covered the Persian Gulf situation: stories about local people on active duty or in the reserves, stories about a family from the area trapped in Iraq. My arguments got weaker, and I finally hung up saying I'd think about it. The caller never even told me her name.

Myself, I don't even own an American flag. I'm not going to run out and buy one, either. There are more ways to be patriotic than flying flags. And not having a flag myself, I wasn't about to go telling everyone else to put one out.

But it won't hurt to pass on what the woman said. That's what I decided to do, here in this space, my own personal little flag of sorts.

Obviously, it's everyone's individual decision. If you've got a flag, maybe you want to think about putting it out. This woman would really appreciate it.

Say no to millage

Regarding the proposed school millage increase: The City of Northville has a high millage rate (roughly $70 per 1000). · We paid more per student, so the state took $884,000 back. · The Board of Education occupies a building on West Main that ised to contain scores of children. Since we are already spending ore per student than the state average, isn't it a little stupid to pay more the state can come back next year nd take more back? The Sept. 27 millage is a scam. eorge Bell knows that all things beng equal, the school system has the advantage. An organization is aleady in place (the school system and TA) to strongly promote the millage. The school system has mailing lists of he parents with children and has efectively used these lists in the past to ush pro-millage proposals. That's why it's on the ballot. The 65-70 pernt of the people with no children in ne school system had no vote.

Save the maudlin appeals about kids are our future". I'm for mom. apple pie, kids, puppies, etc., too. It's ust that I'm already paying approxinately $8,000 per year for education this state. I'm tired of funding an nefficient system that's afraid of true competition (i.e. giving the parents he amount raised per student and tting them spend it as they please).

Northville is a solid community. The family demographics are superor to many areas. Therefore, with an "average" amount per pupil, the school system should be able to deliver superior results. Money doesn't provide quality education -- parental interest and expectations of high perormance do, as does a solid family structure and good genetics.

Cut administration, frills and special programs to balance the budget. fthese programs are really so important, let those who consume these services step up and pay for them with their money, not their

The millage proposal should have ever been approved. Vote it down on Sept. 27. Taxes are too high already. Bob Nelson

Heading here

To the Editor:

As our family drives through downtown Northville, I have to smile to myself when our 4-year-old daughter says "here's our town." This identification shouldn't come as a surprise; after all, there are good places for ice cream cones, doughnuts and candies.

But more recently her special community bond was strengthened by the very delightful "Children's Entertainment Series." A hearty thank you goes to the Northville Retail Merchants for sponsoring these creative and amusing presentations that spanned six Thursday mornings of the summer.

Further, I understand that Diane Wise of "Baby, Baby" proposed this program and made the arrangements necessary for its success. A special thank you and congratulations to Ms. Wise on a job well done. Sincerely. Linda Kempa

Great job

To the Editor:

No arguments here — the Northville Township fire department does a great job. We can't remember the last time a fire raged out of control. Not in the 12 years we've lived here do we recall a life having been lost to fire. Chief Toms and his crew indeed deserve accolades for their excellent

The culprits in the fire millage issue are the township trustees. When the police millage passed in 1989, our governing officials believed they'd found a fool-proof way to up the tax ante: Simply propose a millage for basic services and simultaneously withdraw general funds from that department's budget. Basic services survive at a consistent level and the gluttonous general fund gets another generous serving of tax dollars. Clever indeed.

Too clever. The plan backfired and now they want taxpayers to look at it again in November. They're sure we didn't really understand it.

They're wrong. Passage of the police millage was an expensive lesson. Failure of the fire millage was evidence of what we've lead on When the $160 dollars a year to keep our we head to the polis this November the trustees should be prepared or lose the millage again it will be a long time before over taxed Northville | c sidents overlook the relevance of this maxim "Fool me once starte " you. Fool me twice, shame on me '

Vote yes for schools

To the Editor.

Without due warning our " ected officials in Lansing have taken $884,000 away from Northville Public Schools and given it to poorer school districts around the state This has caused a whopping reduction in our community's school budget for 1990-91 and means snarp reductions in child bussing, athle tics, number of teachers and admini strative staff. It also means more crowded classrooms

While Japan and Western Europe outpace us in educating their children, our politicians seek to cut places of excellence, like Northville and move to bring it down to the lowest common denominator.

Northville ranks with Grosse Pointe, Birmingham and a few other desirable areas in which to live and raise a family, largely because North ville has an excellent school system Being close to expressways, shop ping malls and airports is nice but that isn't why better educated, higher income, professionals choose North ville. No, they insist upon living where there is a good school system It is an immutable rule of real estate marketing that the value of homes is in direct relation to the quality of the schools.

Now here we are, with our schools and our property endangered unless we replace the $884,000 the state has taken from us. So on Thursday. Sept. 27, a special election will be held to increase our school millage by 1.28 mills. A home with a market value of $250,000 ($125,000 state equalized evaluation) would be taxed an additional $160 a year. Smalle homes would of course be taxed less

I am not a rich man by any means but I think your readers will agree that we are really talking peanuts here. Who among us cannot afford $160 a year for our kids? A $160 purchase of a few items at Laurel Park Mall isn't considered anything out of the ordinary so certainly an ex «hools and our community top notch is a good buy.

So fellow citizens, considering what we have at stake, please mark your calendars for Thursday, Sept. 27 and vote - vote "yes" for this vitally necessary millage. It's peanuts to us as individuals but when we vote "ves" together as a community, it amounts to the $884,000 our schools need.

> Bruce E Miller Member. Northville Action Council

Unite fire, police

If we are serious about obtaining some significant relief from our rising tax burden, perhaps we should consider adding the fire and police departments to the joint operating services program.

Yours truly. Bob Russell

Loyal employee snubbed by firm

To the Editor:

On July 22, at approximately 8 p m . Arbor Drugs of Northville was robbed On July 24, Assistant Manager Kevin Bruner was fired. The reason: It was his responsibility to change the safe combinations when the pharmacist left. He was distracted and had not made his way to the back of the store to change the combination.

Kevin had been employed by Arbor Drugs for almost one year. During that time he had never missed a day of work, except for the week he was on his honeymoon in late May. Arbor Drugs showed their appreciation for his loyalty by firing him. He was not given the option of resigning, no severance pay was offered

The result of these actions are Kevin is still unemployed and his career ooks very dismal. Is it any wonder nat "white-collar crime" is running rampant in our large corporations today when this is the way they repay employees for their loyalty and trust? A Concerned Mother,

City approves county waste plan

By STEVE KELLMAN Staff Wnter

Wayne County's solid waste plan got a local vote of confidence recently when the Northville City Council approved the plan.

The plan, which was passed by the county Board of Commissioners in June, must be approved by twothirds of the county's 43 municipalities and the state Department of Natural Resources (DNR) before it be-

Under the plan, all communities would have to establish at least one nd recycling center for every 100,000 residents, and communities that do not incinerate their trash would have to implement an alternative, such as mandatory recycling, by

The city already has a recycling center, and city officials have begun requiring the separation of recyclable materials like lawn clippings at the

Communities with mandatory curbside recycling are typically able to cut their waste stream nearly in Council approval came after county officials promised the city that a mandatory curbside recycling program would automatically comply with the solid waste plan. As City Manager Steven Walters explained. one main question which was a con-

ESUBMIT MANDATORY RECYCLING PROPOSALS BY 1992: Communities that don't incinerate their trash must submit a waste-reduction proposal to the county to reduce the waste stream by a certain percentage. Communities using mandatory curbside recycling automatically are considered to have reduced their waste stream by 40 percent.

■BEGIN MANDATORY RECYCLING BY 1994: Recyclables could be separated by the homeowner at the curb or separated after pickup at a central facility

EREDUCE THE AMOUNT OF LANDFILLED TRASH BY 75 PER-CENT BY 2000: The plan's ultimate goal is to reduce the county's reliance on landfills because of the shrinking amount of landfill space available.

cern was to clarify the interpretation of local plan compliance. The county plan implied that communities with mandatory curbside recycling would automatically be assumed to have reduced their waste stream by 40 percent, and that such communities would not have to provide the county with proof of the actual amount reduced. But Walters and other members of the Conference of Western Wayne (CWW), a municipal group that has been involved in the formation of the county plan, asked for county assurance that their interpretation of the pain was correct.

After some discussion, the Liv council unanimously adopted a resolution in favor of the county plan

Council Member Paul Folino asked Walters if the solid waste plan would make the city's voluntary recy cling center obsolete "All our . Cy cling efforts down at the DIW De partment of Public Wors ' and then go by the wayside we are they?" he asked Walters said that the recycling center may be scaled back when curbside recycling is required, but he suggested the center could be used as a site for the collection of commercial recyclables if such collection were ever encouraged or enforced.

'We don't know at this point, as a anc' that the recycling center will become unnecessary." Walters said Walters said the county plan's aceptance of curbside recycling as an alternative waste-reduction method was critical to the plan's success. "It seems, to most people involved in this project, that that's the most logical way to reduce the waste stream," he said "A voluntary recycling center would not result in a 40-percent .eduction.

"It's inefficient to have all those people driving their little packages down to the DPW yard," he said

Walters anticipated that commer cial trash haulers would offer more recycling options as recycling became mandatory, and he said the city ould formulate its own recycling system after observing the methods other municipalities use to collect recyclables.

Mayor Chris Johnson praised the CWW's efforts on behalf of local comunities. The proposal to allow curb s de recycling was something that the CWW worked very hard to get, so the plan wouldn't have required in cineration," he said.

Council seeks $1.6 million for streets

By STEVE KELLMAN Staff Wnter

The city council resolved to seek voter approval of a general obligation bond at the Nov. 6 general election to finance $ 1.6 million in cost overruns for the city's ongoing street repair program.

The 10-year bond was awarded to Manufacturer's National Bank Monday, which beat out Michigan National Bank, National Bank of Detroit, and the investment firm Roney & Co. with their low bid of a 7.058-percent net interest rate on the City voters will be asked to approve the sale of the bond in November as required by the state's Headlee Amendment.

City Manager Steven Walters told the council that the bond does not represent a specific amount of additional millage, and that the city would attempt to pay the bond out of the general fund before going to the voters for a millage

Walters attributed the cost overruns to the fact that the extent of street repairs needed were much greater than originally thought. There's a significant amount of street repair expense beyond what we financed in the original program," he said. The amount of concrete paving needed was greater than first estimated, he said; some of the streets originally planned to be resurfaced were completely rebuilt, including Baseline Road, West Main Street, Grace, Carpenter and Horton av enues; and more road base had to be replaced than first planned.

If the city had not proceeded with the additional repairs. Walters wrote in a report to the council the alternative would have been to do a superti cial street repair program, which would not have provided the 20- to 30-year expected life that the program we did should provide."

Walters recommended a general obligation bond rather than carrying the program expenses as a deficit until they are paid from the general fund, because the city otherwise would have to sell tax anticipation notes for several years

"If you go the tax note route, you're really under pressure from the state to pay it off with all av if able revenues at any given point," he told the council. "Either way, you still have to pay off the street expenses from the revenues we have

Walters also noted that the city would still have to sell a tax anticipation note this fall, because "we have extended ourselves with advances on the sidewalk program and parking deck project, so that cash flow is extremely tight this year

The council had to approve the street repair bond Monday night to meet this week's notice deadline to the County Elections Commission for the November ballot. Walters also described potential funding for v mograms. He recommended financing v - Main Hutton water main expansion proo th water revenue bonds rather than obagation bonds, because it would be paid and sewer revenue bonds.

said the city's proposed Cady Street 10. xw cost about $4.3 million, just over $8,000 per agree or the 537 space deck. When the deck was esti mated that it would cost about $7,000 per space. the manager recommended that the city wait un-Adminy to sell the special assessment bonds needed to finance it at Revenue Service arbitrage regulations it is the cares form seiling more than $5 million in so is namy one year he explained. If the city January to sell the parking deck issue. a will avoid the IRS arbitrage reporting

All stop at Beck and Seven Mile

By MIKE TYREE Staff Writer

The intersection of Beck and Seven Mile roads will soon be marked by four-way stop signs, an official with Wayne County Roads said Tuesday.

A steady increase in traffic accidents has prompted the county to approve the placement of stop signs and a four-way flashing red light at the intersection, said Richard Hodges, engineer of traffic operations.

The change to four-way stops will occur sometime in September,

Hodges said the county placed a flashing light at the intersection in February. East/west traffic on Seven Mile now proceeds through a yellow "caution" light and north/south traffic on Beck is halted by a stop sign and a flashing red light.

When the county makes the change, all vehicles would have to stop at the intersection.

"By putting in the four-way, we'd require everyone to stop," he said. "We're looking at it and we're studying accident figures."

Township Manager Richard Henningsen said the township asked the county to install a standard four-way traffic signal with red, yellow and green lighting at the Beck/Seven Mile intersection.

They've been sen' a history of the traffic accidents or that corner," Henningsen said "I requested a light and they decided to go with a caution and stop light there.

"We're requesting a light on Eight and Beck, too," he said.

Hodges said traffic is not heavy enough at the Seven/Beck intersection to warrant a standard traffic signal.

The volumes aren't sufficient at this time to put in a traffic signal," he said. "In time, as the area develops, a light could go in there."

Township residents have long complained about the accident potential at the Beck/Seven Mile intersection.

Last Friday, a bicyclist riding east on Seven Mile was struck by a vehicle moving southbound on Beck. Township police reports indicate the driver on Beck stopped at the stop sign and proceeded through the intersection, striking the biker.

The bicyclist, a Northville resident suffered minor injuries. The driver of the vehicle, a Canton resident, was issued a citation for disobeying a stop sign, police said.

Township rejects residential remeasure

By MIKE TYREE

Property tax relief should be addressed by the state, not township government, members of the township board decided during an Aug. 9 discussion on reassessment of local parcels.

Trustees rejected a Board of Review proposal to remeasure four specific residential areas - including approximately 1,566 housing units for property tax assessment adjustments.

The board also refused to commit funds for a recommendation by the Wayne County Appraisal Co. that three specific areas — including approximately 753 housing units — be remeasured.

Citing a remeasurement price tag of $28,000, the board denied the proposal, which was backed by Supervisor Georgina Goss and Clerk Tom Cook.

Township assessor Glen Shaw, of Wayne County Appraisal Co., told the board of complaints by homeowners over inconsistencies in the assessment process.

"Some homeowners are complaining that smaller homes are recorded as the same size as larger homes down the street," he said. "Board of Review members are hearing the same thing."

Russ Fogg, of the Board of Review, told the board that unit discrepancies exist due to additions to homes.

"(The Board of Review) found large differences of values in homes," he said. "Some had additions (decks, air conditioning units, etc.), causing a gap or difference in homes that are close together."

Between "300-400" complaints about assessments were brought before the Board of Review this year, Fogg said.

Township Manager Richard Henningsen said firms had placed bids of $18 and $35 per parcel for remeasuring services.

Shaw suggested an assessment review of the entire township.

"Every taxpayer's property should be uniformly assessed, otherwise (it would be) unequal," he said. "The whole community, really, should be Trustee James Nowka spoke against the remeasuring plan.

"I'm counting upon some kind of a state re-think on property tax," he said. "Right now, I don't think the Board of Trustees should be earmarking money when we have (problems with funding) a fire department."

Treasurer Betty Lennox agreed that some areas needed further review, but said budgetary demands limited the township's options.

"A (partial) review would be better than none at all; we should take a look at real dire need areas," she said. But we really need to take a look at our budget." Nowka, Lennox and Trustee Donald Williams voted against the remeasuring plan

Huron Valley Motel has the personal touch

By Dave Waskin

It may not have a swimming pool or a bar and it may not be part of a

But with a resident watchdog named The Duke of Milford and owners who live on the premises, the Huron Valley Motel is a home away from home with character.

Since buying the business from Del and Jerry Papin four years ago. owners Ralph and Pat Ascencio have spruced up the rooms and appearance of the motel while maintaining its personal atmosphere. The motel has 13 rooms and has been in Milford

"We have totally redecorated since we've taken over," said Pat Ascencio, whose husband Ralph handles maintenance at the motel.

"The rooms are all updated with new mattresses and are newly painted. We installed touchtone phones so we can now attract businessmen that wouldn't stay here before because we didn't have those touchtone phones, which you can also plug a fax machine into.

"We are open 24 hours a day and we are the furthest northwest motel in Oakland County. If you were going anywhere in the lakes area here, you would have to go to Novi, or Farmington, or down toward West Bloomfield and Farmington Hills to find another place to stay."

Rates at the motel range in the summer from $29 to $42 per night depending on the type of room. Weekly rates run at approximately $199 during the summer and $140-$150 in the winter.

We have some rooms that have two double beds and some that have a queen bed and two rooms that have twin beds where we can get a rollaway in because we service a lot of (construction) crews that work in the area and sometimes they want to put three fellows to a room to save ex-

Ralph Ascencio emphasized that because they own the motel themselves, he and Pat are able to provide some flexibility in accommodating guests. The office is always open, pets are allowed, and in times of power outages people who are without water can shower at the motel for

Pat added that cheaper rates can be reduced for groups that stay for a long duration. "We'll usually work things out," she said. "If there's a crew coming in for a couple of months, we'll work something to

That concern for the convenience of its customers seems to add to the motel's personal atmosphere. A cat and dog play a role in that atmosphere as well. The Duke of Milford is the registered name of a German bird dog left to the Ascencios by the Papins when they sold the motel and retired to Florida.

Another local inhabitant at the motel is a cat named Muffin. "She usually just sprawls out on the desk up there," Pat said. "We've gotten thank you notes from people who have enjoyed the cat so much, because if you pet her, she'll follow you right back to your room."

donuts in the morning for large groups staying for a few days, such as wedding parties.

The only exception to the Huron Valley Motel's hospitality is designed to help local parents. Young people must be 21 years old and have a credit card in order to rent a room.

"For New Year's Eve and prom time we screen very carefully," Pat said, admitting that the ploys used by prom kids aren't always original. They come in with their tux and they yawn like they're so tired and ask, 'Do you have any rooms?' It's hilarious. We always know which weekends the proms are and we always tell whoever's behind the desk to watch for it. And you can always tell a youngster on the phone because the first thing they ask is, 'How old do you have to be to rent a room?"

The Ascencios both agreed that what they enjoy most about their motel is the opportunity it gives them to meet different people. From prom kids to travelers from Germany and Japan, they have all at one time walked through the office door.

That same office door provides entrance to a room connected to the one-floor residence the Ascencios live in at the motel. They agreed that it was a bit of a change from owning a house. "We need a garage and a basement," Pat Ascencio laughed "Other than that, it's fine."

Abbott Labs should resist future changes

Q: I am an owner of stock in Abbott Laboratories. It has done well, but with all the talk about the government forcing health care costs down, I'm wondering if you wouldn't think It was a good time to sell it.

A: I'm not very good at guessing what impediments our friends in Washington will place in front of a successful business, but all the figures suggest that Abbott is a very well-run organization. On the record, it should continue to be an excellent

A year ago Better Investing Magazine featured Abbott Laboratories as an undervalued stock.

That means it thought the stock has a good likelihood of increasing 20 percent in price over the next 12 to 18

At the time it was selling at 51. By November, it had passed 70. Recently it has dropped down a bit to the mid 60s, but its figures still look very

In the past year, sales of the company were up 9 percent, and earnings per share were up 14 percent.

More than half of the company's business is in pharmaceuticals and nutritional products, and that part of the business has moved ahead at better than 10 percent compounded annually for the past 10 years.

Baby formula is a major item in its nutritional products business. The company has two powerful competitors, Gerber and Nestle, but still maintains its relative position and moves total volume ahead.

Abbott has been innovative both in its research and in its marketing. It recently introduced a hospital-based weight management program. Weight problems are the subject of interest to millions of people, and the market should be huge.

A slowing in earnings per share growth will likely reduce investor interest in the company, but a rate of expand a business can be a timeconsuming and frustrating experience, especially in today's economic climate. But if you know what to expect from a lending institution before applying for a loan, you can prepare

PREPARATION PAYS

According to the Michigan Association of CPAs, you can increase your chances of getting a loan by presenting yourself and your company in the best possible light. Consider, too, that a lender will generally respond more favorably to your request if you can demonstrate that your company is soundly managed. To do that, you must be prepared to answer the typical questions a lender may pose. Why do you want a bank loan? How is the loan going to help your business? Which kind of loan would best serve your particular needs: a short-term or a long-term loan? How much money do you want to borrow and how do you intend to repay it?

Before you meet with a lender, review the answers to these questions so that you will feel comfortable discussing them. In most cases, you will have greater success in securing a loan if you write a formal proposal outlining your business needs and expectations, loan requirements and ability to repay.

Money Management

THE BANKER'S PERSPECTIVE

Your request for a loan may be based on a sound business plan, but that factor alone is far from sufficient evidence that you qualify for a loan. Lenders must ultimately answer to their depositors and stockholders. To make a decision, a lender will evaluate your character, collateral and capacity to repay.

Most lenders will conduct a complete financial and background analysis of you and your company. They will request specific information on your business's plans, goals, and objectives; your motivation for seeking a loan; data on your business's ownership, finances, history and personnel; a comparison of your operating and balance sheet ratios to industry norms; a marketing plan indicating how your business intends to grow; and a cash flow analysis showing your actual past experience plus projections of future income, expenses and cash flow. GATHERING FINANCIAL DATA

Whether you are just starting a business or are already established, the more in-depth financial information you can supply a lender, the better. Information concerning receivables, inventories, funds on deposit and fixed assets is important to a potential lender.

In addition, banks may request detailed information on the collateral you intend to offer, as well as personal financial statements - especially if your company is closely held. Bear in mind that the lender may also askyou to give your personal guarantee on the amount borrowed.

Above all, be honest about your flnancial situation. If you include unfavorable information, be sure to mention the specific steps you plan to take in order to rectify these problems.

DEVELOPING A LOAN REQUEST

Although you know more about your business than anyone else, you may be surprised at the amount of time and resources required to prepare a loan request. So be warned developing a loan request will take a lot of leg work and a fair degree of mental gymnastics.

Generally, you should start by researching your banking community's requirements for securing a loan. At the same time, you need to conduct a detailed examination of your business to determine whether or not you really need a loan, and whether a loan will truly help solve your company's problems and meet your objectives.

Next, draw up a realistic forecast of your company's future based on its past performance and future goals. Try to determine how large your loan request should be and calculate a repayment schedule you can handle comfortably. Make sure that your request includes funds to cover contingencies. If you underestimate your needs, you may not be able to ask for an increase later.

If you have any questions about your business needs or eligibility for loan, you may do better to hire a qualified professional, such as a CPA, to help identify appropriate funding sources and prepare a funding proposal. A CPA will be able to review significant aspects of your business and prepare key ratios for developing trends. He or she can also help you negotiate the terms of a loan agreement and prepare the necessary financial statements, projections and plans lenders will require.

Remember, when it comes to securing a loan, a professionally prepared loan request can make the difference in obtaining the funding you need and in securing your company's

SOPHIA LAGRASSEY, of Northville, has been selected as one of McDonald's outstanding older employees and accompanied Lowell Sexton - the 76-year-old "New Kid" who has become a national symbol of the spirit of McDonald's older workers - during his visit to the Redford McDonald's at 26990 Grand River recently.

Sophia, 73, works at the Livonia McDonald's at 19311 Farmington Road and joined Sexton in greeting customers at the Redford store. In addition, she joined Sexton and other McDonald's older workers at a recognition luncheon at the Southfield Radisson.

Sexton is featured in a series of McDonald's television commercials as "Bill: The New Kid," a beginning crew member who charms both customers and McDonald's co-workers alike. In the spot, when he returns from his first day on the job, he tells his wife, "I don't know how they ever got along without me."

Sophie is one of our older crew members who personifies what 'Bill' is all about," said Frank Barbieri, manager of the Livonia McDonald's restaurant. "She's a key person in making sure we're ready for our lunch rush. Our younger crew members tell me they've learned a lot from the example Sophie has set."

Before joining the McDonald's crew, Sophie formerly owned a bridal shop where she specialized in Paris dress designing. She has been employed at McDonald's for one year.

BRYAN L. BARTLETT of Novi recently attended The Prudential's regional business conference in Nashville.

Bartlett is a special agent in the company's Motor City Agency at Timberland Office Park, 5455 Corporate Drive, Troy.

Representatives attending the conference were from agency offices in The Prudential's 11-state Midwest Marketing Operations

The three-day conference provided information on such topics as The Prudential's new Living Needs Benefit rider, which allows eligible policy holders who are terminally ill or permanently confined to nursing homes the option of using funds from their life insurance policies.

Conference sessions were conducted by executives from The Prudential's corporate office in Newark, N.J., and Midwest Marketing Operations in Minneapolis.

The Brandon Kids at one end, mom and dad at the other

By James McAlexander

Red-eyed parents need not sing the blues all night in the Brandon.

The master bedroom anchors one end of the house, the kids' rooms anchor the other. In fact, the demilitarized zone between the teenagers' rumpus rooms and the parents' refuge consists of two rooms, four walls and enough linear feet to satisfy any house rule on decibel

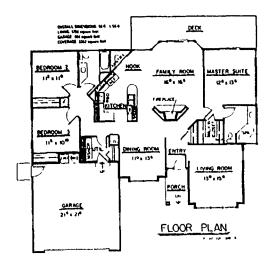

The medium-size Brandon also appeals to the retired couple who require formality but grimaces at maintaining the massive square footage that normally accompanies it. For them, this window-banked house-perfect for any city lotfeatures a formal dining room overlooking a flower garden and a sunsoaked living room. Accommodations for overnight guests are made easy with the three-bedroom design.

Be it a family or "empty nesters," the Brandon's form follows any function. It begins outside, past the flower garden, the tall living room windows and a nautical-like banister on the main roof that is seaworthy enough for any wind ship.

For family projects like laundry, the utility room sits right off the two bedrooms and stands ready for the boys' baseball socks or the girls' soccer clothes.

Wardrobe storage won't be a problem in the master bedroom. A spacious walk-in closet awaits any manner of haberdashery or women's fashion. A few feet away, a spa lies poised to deliver a soothing caress to a tired body at the end of a long

Customizing your new home is a task that could be joyful and demanding.

ome brand new, stillon-the-drawing-board housing developments can convert even diehard old house lovers. For starters, you don't have to worry about buying something that has a leaking roof, a not-so-hot water heater or a moldy basement. You get spacious walk-in closets, better-designed kitchens and bathrooms, and enough electrical

At the same time, you're dropping a lot of money into something that's not even there yet—and may not be finished when you want to move in. You may not get what you ordered. Builders sometimes substitute materials and alter designs, a prerogative written into many newhouse contracts.

If that sounds to you like a potential nightmare, you're reacting properly. Buying a not-yet-built home isn't like buying an existing one. It's harder, according to the editors of Changing Times magazine.

In short, you're not buying a piece of land and a house; you're buying a builder. More to the point, you're buying a builder's reputation.

In addition to making the usual checks with the Better Business Bureau and the local builders' association, you'll probably look at model homes when buying into a subdivision. But when you see a model, keep in mind that you're looking at the builder's best effort, loaded with eye-catching "decorator's options," such as additional molding, custom lighting and special finishes on cupboards.

To get a more realistic picture, go to a comparable subdivision also built by your builder. (Get subdivision names from the builder or the real estate section of your local newspaper.) Visit folks who live there. Talk about quality and service. Ask the owners how long it took to complete each home and how many were delivered when promised.

Ask the builder what happens to unsold homes. Houses that are discounted to sell quickly can affect the value of the entire subdivision. As a result, builders try to avoid price-cutting, except perhaps on the final handful of units. In a slow market a builder may pay points on your mortgage.

As with existing homes, timing affects the price. You may find a slower market in the fall and winter. You probably won't be able to get a discount, but you may be able to negotiate for options like decks or carpet upgrades. The downside of buying during the winter: Landscaping would be delayed until spring. And it may be harder to maintain the quality of a house under construction during the cooler months.

You'll also want to consider when in the construction cycle to buy. Prices may be lower when you buy a house that's built early on. In booming markets, houses often jump in $10,000 increments as a development is completed. But buy too early and you'll wind up living in a construction site for several years.

If you wait, you may end up farther from the busy highway at the entrance or closer to the lake that was just a hole in the ground when the first buyers moved in. There's also less risk when you buy later. You can monitor the quality of the houses and watch how the neighborhood shapes up.

You put a contract on a new house just as you would on an lot more decisions.

If the market is active, you may be advised to put down a deposit on the lot immediately. Typically the deposit is 5 percent, but you may be able to bargain even in a competitive market. As with the purchase of an existing home, you should be able to get the deposit back if the deal falls through because of financing, for example.

Then you and the selling agent hammer out the details of the contract. You pick the model you like and the options you want to add. If you are sitting in a model, you can point to things you want. Otherwise, you'll be using illustrations, brochures and samples of materials.

You'll want to consider how to pay for each option you choose. When the cost is lumped into your mortgage, it's easier to afford, but it's more expensive in the long run because it's amortized over three decades. If you add the options later, you save some interest, but some things are more difficult to add after the house is complete. Decks are easy; bay windows and bathrooms aren't.

You probably won't be able to get the builder to guarantee delivery on a specified date, for example, and there will be little you can do during construction of your house to keep the builder on schedule. But you can add a clause to your contract demanding that your house be built to the quality standards of the

Ask whether the home you're considering is covered by the Home Owners Warranty Corp. or another insurance plan. Such plans cover repairs for major construction defects and usually last for a period of 10 years. Builders pay the premiums for these insurance plans. but they remain in effect even if you sell the house. -The Associated Press

New home communities of the '90s

By James M. Woodard

Our last column focused on new and particularly creative features that will be included in future new homes. Now we will consider new home communities of the

New residential developments will increasingly offer smaller, more affordable homes in response to changing demographics and an updated profile of the typical American home buyer, according to Andrew B. Greenman, president of The Greenman Group, a research and marketing consulting firm.

Households in the 1990s will be smaller and new home designs will be more sophisticated and flexible, it was stated in the current issue of Greenman's "Development Digest" newsletter. Buyers will more actively seek out a new home development with a positive community atmosphere.

To be successful in a highly competitive field, developers will need to offer a pleasant, healthy environment in their new home community, coupled with privacy, and effective security system and on-site recreation facilities.

The design of individual homes will change as the '90s decade progresses. Although smaller in size, the floor plans will be more efficiently designed, and all space will be utilized to its maximum potential.

With land prices on the upswing, it makes more sense than ever to focus on creating 'smart space' rather than increasing home size," the Greenman newsletter

"In virtually all price ranges, home builders are beginning to reclaim formerly wasted space-beneath stairways, between wall studs, under counters, in closets.

"Results? A return to the wonderful 'nooks and crannies' of yesteryear-those special little features that give a home extra personality while expanding usable

Another change taking place in new home communities relates to landscaping. The centuries-old concept of "xeriscaping" is becoming increasingly popular.

This involves the use of efficiently planned landscape architecture, using special water conservation techniques. The trend is particularly strong in states where water conservation and plant preservation are critical issues—e.g., California, Arizona, Florida.

According to landscape architect Bruce Howard, of Bruce Howard & Associates, the cost-effective xeriscape approach differs depending upon the nature of the site. If existing vegetation is present, Howard begins by identifying the types of vegetative communities, such as hardwood, hammocks, pinewoods or wetlands. Then he selects new plants that either are indigenous to these communities or are of similar growing habits and needs.

If available, native plants are ideal because they are already adapted to local growing conditions and can help establish the site's overall "look."

On barren sites, Howard recommends grouping plants based on foliage textures and colors with similar water requirements. This allows the creation of property zones, based on different irrigation demands.

Q: How will the upcoming closure of military bases across the country Impact the real estate market?

A: It will spark increased activity in some areas and depress other marketsparticularly in the sale and rental of residential real estate.

A recent survey, conducted by Century 21 Real Estate Corp., revealed that bases not being closed will experience a substan tial influx of military transferees. And that will bring more sales, rentals and probably higher values to those areas.

Planned shut-downs and reductions at military bases will mean a total influx of approximately 26,782 Army, Navy and Air Force active duty personnel to existing bases and installations over the next five years, according to Pentagon estimates, a Century 21 report stated. Many of these transferees and their families will choose to live in off-base housing.

The survey found that a large number of transferees doesn't necessarily translate into a hot market for off-base rental properties. However, factors such as attractive housing prices, low property taxes, high appreciation potential and rising rental rates often leave transferees anxious to buy rather than rent.

Conversely, rental housing becomes more attractive in higher-priced markets and in markets where the stock of existing housing is limited—such as in smaller communities.

Q: Is the "farming" technique in real etate brokerage really effective?

A: Yes, it's very effective for some real estate salespersons who know how to organize and work the system. A "farm" is a defined geographic area (often a neighborhood) where a salesperson concentrates efforts to list and sell properties.

A new book has been published on the subject. "Strategies for Farming Your Markets" is offered by Real Estate Education Co., 520 N. Dearborn St., Chicago, IL

These porcelain vases could sell for about $230.

Victorian porcelain vases and Dick Tracy

By James G. McCollam

Q. Attached is a photo of a pair of porcelain vases. They are marked with a crown and "Victoria, Austria." I would like to know when they were made and their value. A. These were made by the Victoria porcelain factory in Carlsbad, Austria, between 1900 and 1915. They probably would sell for about $225 to $235 for the pair.

Q. The attached mark is on the bottom of a cookle jar, which has an underplate. It has pink and white flowers on the cream background and raised gold scrolls. Can you identify the maker? Does it have any value? A. This was made by R. Eckert & Co. in Volkstedt-Rudolstadt, Germany, about 1900. It probably would sell in the $165 to $185 range.

Q. Please tell me what you can about a nine-inch-diameter plate with a picture of a deer with elaborate horns. it is marked "M.Z. & Co." on the

A. Your game plate was made by Mortiz Zdekauer & Co. in Alt Rohlau, Germany (now part of Czechoslovakla), about 1900.

A dealer probably would price this at $65 to $75.

Q. Now that the movie "Dick Tracy" is out, I wonder if my Big Little Book, "Dick Tracy & the Racketeer Gang," is a valuable collectible? It was published in the 1930s.

A. All the sales records and price lists available now are based on sales made before the movie was made.

Your book has been selling for about $20 in good condition. It probably would sell now for $25 to $35.

Q. We have a stoneware pitcher about nine inches tail. It has a picture of an Indian on the side and the head of an Indian on the handle, it is marked "Western Stoneware Co." is this old enough to be collectible? How much is it worth?

A. Western Stoneware had factories in Illinois, Iowa and Missouri. Your pitcher probably was made in Monmouth, Ill.

The pattern is called "Old Sleepy Eye" and is extremely popular with collectors. It was made in the early 1900s and probably would sell for $265 to $285.-

Q. I have a sterling silver baby spoon with a curved handle. It is marked Watrous Mfg. Co.

Can you tell me when it was made and its value?

A. The Watrous company was founded in 1896 and was taken over by International Silver in 1898. Your baby spoon is worth about $35 to $45.

Gridders kick off

The Northville Mustanas football team is scheduled to start the fall season tomorrow night at 7:30 in a home game against South Lyon. Last year's squad went 3-6, but that included an emotional seasonending 10-7 victory over Novi in the traditional sea son closer. The team has some tough graduation losses to overcome this year, but several key players are back. Among the returnees are junior quarterback Ryan Huzjak, above, and Ryan Kilner,

Top 3 singles players lead tennis returnees

By BOB NEEDHAM

Coming off a season in which they tied for the league title, and returning more players than the past several years, the members of the Northville girls tennis team are in good shape this fall.

The team and coach Uta Filkin have had something of a rough preseason, since work on their home courts has moved practices to Schoolcraft College. But that's just about the only problem.

Filkin and new assistant Chris Ford see the top three singles players from last year returning, and lots of talent to fill the remaining slots: an astonishing 55 players tried out for the team — so having access to the space at Schoolcraft was essentiated and the space at Schoolcraft was essentiated as the space at Schoolcraft was essentiated and the space at Schoolcraft was essentiated as the space at Schoolcra

"It was very nice, considering we had a total of 55 girls come out. That is an absolute record," Filkin said. "It was very frustrating for me."

The team's returning strength looks even more impressive when compared with Canton, who shared the title with Northville last year.

"Canton gave us the toughest competition last year," Filkin said, and "they lost all their starters."

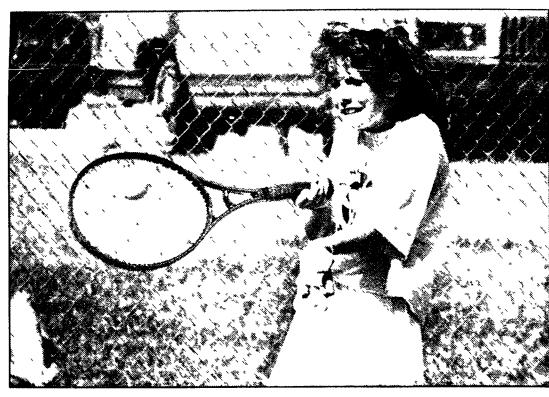

Still, the Mustangs face a tough year, and Filkin expects the start of the season to be the most difficult part. After hosting Novi yesterday and West Bloomfield next Thursday, Northville travels to "always tough" Livonia Stevenson on Sept. 7.

North Farmington, at home Sept. 10, will also be difficult, Filkin said. And Sept. 12 holds a trip to Farmington Harrison — a team which could possibly include Corey Davison, a runner-up in national 16-and-under competition, Filkin said. "If she's on Maria MacInnis, right, and Tammy Snider, center, are among the key returning players for the Mustang basketball team this season. Seven-year coach Ed Kritch likes his team's chances in the league.

Lady cagers prepare for a tough battle with several players back

By RICK BYRNE Copy Editor

Ask any coach in any sport what team they fear most coming into a new season. They'll all say pretty much the same thing.

The team that can come up and bite you the worst is the one that finished mid-pack in the standings, and is returning most of its starters.

The Northville girls basketball team would seem to fit that description A year ago the Mustangs were 5 5 in the Western Division of the Western Lakes Activities Association, good for fourth place in a sixteam race. On the season, they were 11-10, the Mustangs' fifth straight winning campaign.

With four starters and five other letterwinners returning, a sixth seems well within reach.

To win our league, we have to defeat the Plymouth schools," said seventh-year coach Ed Kritch. "Salem looks awfully good, but Canton looks beatable. Another team to watch for is Livonia Franklin.

"We have so many young people that I think are going to develop by the end of the year, that I think we're going to be an awfully tough team.

"We have so many young people that I think are going to develop by the end of the year, that I think we're going to be an awfully tough team. Our opponents are going to say, 'If we want to win our division, we have to beat Northville,' in the same way we look at our schedule and say we have to beat Franklin and Canton."

Northville Girls Basketball Coach

"Our opponents are going to say, 'If we want to win our division, we have to beat Northville,' in the same way we look at our schedule and say we have to beat Franklin and Canton.

"That's something we can attain. If we can stay committed to our goal, we'll have a very successful season."

Leading the charge for Northville will be senior Kate Holstein, a 5-9 forward. She averaged 14 points and nine rebounds a game last season, and was a first-team All-Division and

All-Area player.

"She's kind of a double-edged sword for us," said Kritch. "She has very good post-up skills, but can also come out to face the basket and stick the 15-footer from the corner."

Her frontcourt mate will be Maria MacInnis, a third-year player on the varsity and a two year starter. A 5-8 forward, MacInnis took second team All Division honors. She hit for seven points per game and is a serious threat from three-point territory.

"She's a good shooter from 15-20 feet," said Kritch. "She's good with her decision making, and very good at knowing what and when to do it on the court."

the court."

Two other sure starters return from last season. Kara McNeil, a 5-6 junior winger, moved up to the varsity in the eighth game a year ago, and became a starter by the 10th game She also has the ability to hit from long range, but her greatest asset is her upbeat playing style.

"Kara is very aggressive and very enthusiastic," said Kritch. "She's a highly emotional player. We think of her as the Dennis Rodman of Northville basketball. That's a major asset to have on a team "

Also returning is 5-8 junior Karen Pump. With a sure hand at the point, Pump started as a sophomore last season, but is valued for her versatility.

"Karen's major asset is that I can play her inside or outside," said Kritch "She's intelligent and steady in what she does. She brings a settling type of attitude to us. Every team needs a player that when you give them the ball you can say, 'Now our team is in control."

Several players are in contention for the Mustangs' fifth starting spot One of the luxuries this team enjoys is depth.

"Ive really got eight kids who could start," said Kritch. "This is the most depth I've had in the last four seasons."

time starter from a year ago, Karen Cavanaugh. A dynamo on desense. the 5-3 point guard usually draws the opposition's best guard.

"Karen is extremely quick," said Kritch. "She'll be one of the quickest players on the court in any gym this

"She has tremendous skill in breaking pressure with the dribble. And when we're coming down stretch, she's a deadly free-throw shooter, hitting about 70 percent."

Another contender is returning letterwinner Allyson Kennedy, a 5-8 senior forward. She gives the Mustangs a strong inside game at both ends of the court.

"She's an extremely physical type of kid," said Kritch. "She started four games for us last year, so she brings experience and a physical type of play

Two more potential starters are up from last year's junior varsity, including the Mustangs' most improved player in preseason practice, Stacey Nyland. A 5-10 post player, she gives the team some muchneeded height in the middle.

"With her improvement, we can go from a small team to a big team," said Kritch. "Her improvement has been a very exciting thing for this team and for the future here because she's just a junior."

Also a threat to start is Laura Apligian, a 5-5 junior. Apligian was promoted to the varsity for the final three games last season after leading the junior varsity in scoring.

"She's a slashing, penetrating-type guard," said Kritch. "She's quick and handles the ball well. She could step in and become a starter."

Northville's supporting cast boasts experience as well. Two seniors return from last season. Shari Abramovich, a 5-5 winger, and Kristen Ross, a 5-6 post player, will vie with Angle Tune, a 5-4 junior guard, for playing time.

With so much depth and experience, the Mustangs are expected to run with the ball, and light up the scoreboard.

That's the thing that's going to be entertaining about this year's team," said Kritch. "Having so much depth and quickness, we're going to be an up-tempo team. There'll be nights

We can pressure, handle the ball and run. It's going to be a very entertaining team.

UPCOMING — The Mustangs will be at home this evening as impromptu co-hosts of the Suzanne Smith Memorial Tournament. The tournament, an annual seasonopening event for South Lyon, is being played at Northville this year as the Lions' new gym is not yet complete.

Franklin faced South Lyon, and Northville met Ann Arbor Huron in Tuesday's semifinals (after press time for this edition). A consolation game will be played at 6 tonight, with the championship game at 7:30 p.m. JV games will be played simultaneously in the auxiliary gym.

top, we'll have a tough competition. All our toughest matches are right in the first few weeks," Filkin

"The first three were in exactly that position last year," Filkin said. "We had overall a very good season."

Kavitha Sriraman moves in to take the number-four singles spot.

Doubles are shaping up really well. I'm not as much set with them as I am with singles," Filkin said. Returning to help fill the doubles ranks are Rebecca Bellamy, Melanie Apligian, Kelly Woodsum and Vicki Eppers. They are joined by a couple of players out last year who did not play varsity, Jenny Lower and Stacy Green. Molly Gudritz and Susan Weix may also see action.

There is really no absolute new comer," Filkin said. "I have a whole bunch of juniors or 10th-graders.

"I am very pleased with how it's shaping up."

The biggest question mark remains the courts, which may be finished soon depending on the weather. Filkin said getting through this week without the courts should work out all right.

However, she added, "After (this) week it's a minor catastrophe."

UPCOMING - The Mustangs went up against Novi yesterday, after the Record's press time. The next scheduled match is 4 p.m. next Thursday, Sept. 6, at home against West Bloomsield.

Golfers return strong players

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN and BOB NEEDHAM Staff Writers

When Northville golf coach Don Morgan looks at the Western Lakes Athletic Association this year, he likes what he sees.

"I'm sure that we'll be contenders for the title. I don't see any team much better than we are. I think our depth is our biggest strength," Morgan said.

In fact, the team looks so good that one of its goals is to go past the league race and qualify for the state meet as a team — which the Mustangs did in 1988. "I think we might be able to do it," Morgan said.

The coach is a little concerned with consistency on his team, but he said, "I see our players being a little more steady" than last year.

Top man on the team is Chris Lemmon, a senior who will be spending his fourth year on the varsity.

"From all the experience he's had as a varsity performer and over the summer, I'm sure he'll be one of the top players in our league." Morgan said. The all-leaguer from last year is strong in consistency and maturity, Morgan added.

Fighting with Lemmon for the low score will be Jason Sherman, another senior returning from an all-WIAA season. He was the only North-ville golfer on last year's squad to make the state tournament, and the Lemmon-Sherman combination should be a strong one-two punch.

"I think they'll be battling each other all year, and that's healthy. They keep each other going." Morgan said. Both players are capable of sub-40 scores.

Senior Mike Fischer, who saw limited varsity playing time last year, will vie for the number-three spot with Kevin Krupansky, a junior. Krupansky was number five or six on the team as a sophomore last year, but suffered somewhat from erratic play. Morgan said. "I think he's improved a lot over the summer," the coach added.

The Mustangs will offer up three good freshman golfers. One is Matt Telepo, whose brother Kevin was a standout golfer in the past for Northville.

"From what I've seen, Kevin's been right around 40-41, so with some experience, it will really help his game," Morgan said. "He doesn't seem to get rattled. I'd be disappointed if he wasn't one of our top five guys."

Another promising freshman is John Farrar. "He has a beautiful swing but I haven't seen very much of him yet. If he shows he can contribute, we'll use him on the varsity," Morgan said.

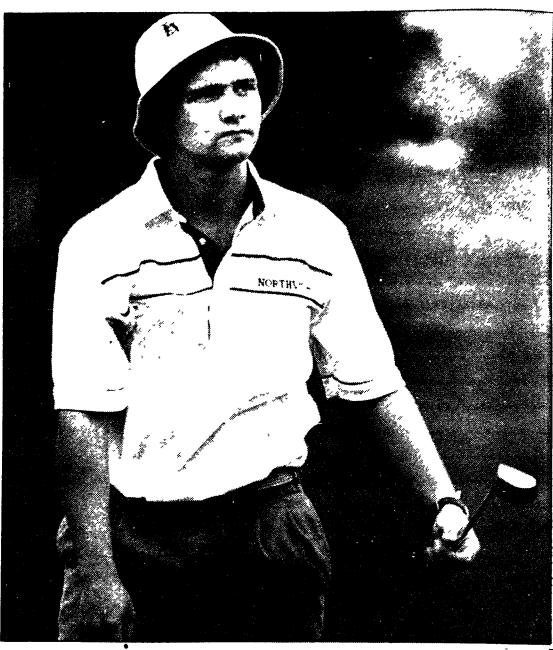

Rounding out the freshmen is George Lemmon, Chris Lemmon's younger brother. I see a lot of potential. He doesn't have as much experience as Chris did when he was a freshman, but he's a big kid and with experience he will really improve."

The squad also includes junior returnee Todd Christianson, who Morgan said can post scores in the low 80s at times. "He just lacks confidence in his game, but he has the

Star goaltender Larry Osiecki heads the list of returning soccer players

Soccer squad readies for a successful season

By RICK BYRNE Copy Editor

This could be a turnabout season for the Northville boys soccer team. The team has a new coach on board in Bob Paul, a veteran of several successful seasons with the Mustang girls soccer team.

Paul takes the reins of a squad that last year struggled to a 6-10 record. Fortunately, the team suffers from no shortage of available talent. This summer, 64 boys tried out for 40 places in the Northville program.

"I think that might be a record," said Paul. "There's tremendous support for soccer in the area." Highlighting the team's roster this fall will be returning goalkeeper Larry Osiecki, a senior. "He's a tremendous goalkeeper." said Paul. "He's stable, consistent.

He's recognized around the area as being one of the best." Backing up Osiecki is junior keeper Gordie Collins, who holds lots of promise for next season. The anchor of the Mustang defense will be senior Ed Petit. Though he'll start the season at sweeper, he will likely move up to stopper.

"He's a quick, strong player, and he tackles hard," said Paul. "He just doesn't let many people get by him." The fullback corps features a pair of seniors, Lou Stoecklin and Brandon Cuadra, who both return from last season. Joining them in the backfield will be juniors Brent Garner and Greg Bernardo.

Several players are challenging for the midfielder spots, but right now the starters appear to be senior Chris Walker, junior Matt Mills and sophomore Matt Osiecki, brother of Larry.

There's experience on the strike force as seniors David Smith and Matt Rossing return at forward. Joining them will be senior Jason Flading, who took a year off from soccer last season, and sophomore Steve "One of our big strengths is that every kid has a lot of enthusiasm," said Paul. They're working hard, never miss practices and seem be very attentive to what we're trying to teach them. We're hoping to make a lot of progress this year."

The team faces some challenges though. The biggest one is building

"(We have to) slow the pace of the game down, and get composure with the ball," Paul said. "I think we've got tremendous potential to surprise a

"I think they have the skill to play very well. We're going to try to develop some of the tactical aspects of the game. The biggest part we see now is making them more physical, and building their confidence so that they're relaxed on the field."
Paul has set a long-range goal of taking the Western Lakes Activities Association championship, but for now, the team will be taking each game one at a time. "Our immediate goal is always the team we play next," said Paul. "For now, we're concentrating on Walled Lake Western on Sept. 5."

Paul also said that, with the right amount of effort, Northville could develop into one of the state's top programs. He's added two new assistant coaches: Henry Klimes, former head coach at North Farmington and Farminton Our Lady of Mercy, and Russ Gans, a Northville alumnus.

"I want to build program where we'll be perennial powers - one of the top three in the state," he said. "Before I saw them play, I thought that would be a long way off. But after seeing these guys play, that could be right around the corner.

The bottom line is we have to keep them learning at the same rate they

Rita Wightman and Lynne "Po" Jordan, co-owners of New Attitude Aerobics Inc., have teamed up with the Northville Community Recreation Department to offer a new health and fitness program to area residents.

Their slogan - and attitude - is. Get fit for the fun of it!"

We designed a program specifically for the recreation department," Wightman said. "It's something that we will be focusing on the community and their needs.

Traci Gottschalk, assistant director of the recreation department. said. "We're excited about having them here.

Registration for the 10-week sessions will be held from 10 a.m. to noon Sept. 1 and 8. Classes begin Sept. 10.

Wightman, an aerobics instructor for five years, said there are several features that make the New Attitude program unique.

what they should do to get the most out of the class," she said.

The company's four instructors, including Wightman and Jordan, are trained and certified by the national Aerobics and Fitness Association of America.

, Wightman said she studied anatomy, physiology and nutrition while altaining an associate degree in applied science. Jordan, who holds a bachelor's degree in physical education, has taught at the Plymouth YMCA, Schoolcraft College and for private companies.

New Attitude Aerobics employs the team-teaching approach, Jordan said, which allows for a lot of personal attention. More supervision provides for a safer workout, she added.

Hypertension can be a problem

High blood pressure - hypertension — is one of the most serious diseases in the United States.

As many as 60 million Americans have high blood pressure. Of these, only one-third are well-controlled. Hypertension is not "nervous tension" as some people believe from the hame, but stress is a predisposing factor.

High blood pressure is a chronic elevation of pressure of the blood within arteries which increases a person's risk of stroke, heart attack or kidney disease. In addition to stress, some of the factors which coninbute to elevated blood pressure levels are: heredity, increased use of salt and high alcohol use.

High blood pressure is sometimes called the "silent killer" because it gives no warning signals. For this reason you should have your blood pressure checked regulrly. Should you be diagnosed as having high blood pressure, then frequent monitoring is desirable.

The goal for most hypertensives should be to keep blood pressures below 140/85. The purchase of home blood pressure equipment can inform a person when they are not within target range so they can take appropriate action to get back within their target range. Frequent reading helps prevent this disease from being

For an investment of $20 to $80, a person can purchase equipment and be taught to monitor blood pressure readings at home. A log with the dates and readings can be made and then brought to the periodic followup medical visits. All new equipment should be brought to the physician's office to test its accuracy against a mercury sphygomomanometer (blood pressure cuff). The person could then be taught how to take and record blood pressure correctly.

Some people sense that their blood pressure is elevated when they have a headache, experience warmth or dizziness or are upset. The validity of their perceptions can be tested with blood pressure readings. A relationship between elevated blood pressure and periods of stress or heavy salt usage can also be monitored.

After training in home blood pressure monitoring, the person should obtain serial blood pressure measurements. A determination can then be made of when an office call is needed. One isolated reading that is elevated is not a cause for concern.

Siblings and the children of hypertensive persons can also be easily screened at home since the blood pressure equipment is readily available. Remember, heredity is a factor.

As you can tell, home blood pressure monitoring can have several advantages for the person with hypertension.

HARD DRIVING

Seniors preserve history with hammers and nails

.. Pounding away at the nail, Marvin Reinholz wields the hammer expertly as he secures the final step at the top of the worn staircase he is

His full weight rests on the previous step he and Fran Cunningham just laid but he seems unconcerned about the amount of confidence he has placed in the antique wood and the two men's carpentry skills.

They have developed a trust while working together on a weekly basis for the past two years.

Reinholz and Cunningham are two of the 10 steady amateur builders who volunteer their time to swing hammers and haul lumber to complete renovations at Northville's Mill Race Historical Village.

Seated comfortably in a quiet corner of downtown Northville, the Mill Race continues to expand and improve because of a dedicated few involved in the Northville Historical Society.

The Village's most recent acquisition was the historic Cady Inn, an 1831 Northville building that once served as a local inn and tavern.

Relocated from its original plot of land downtown on Cady Street, the aging Cady Inn was displaced by a burgeoning city's much-needed parking lot.

Members of the Historical Society were only too happy to take in the homeless stucture and welcomed it to the Mill Race Village three years ago.

Contemporary renovations had converted the Cady Inn to three separate apartments in the years before it was aquired by the Historical Society.

"We had to tear everything out," says renovation worker Francis Gazlay, grimacing as he describes the modern dome lighting they discovered in an upstairs bedroom.

Maintaining the building's original shell and several unaltered floors and ceilings, the workers went about trying to restore the Cady Inn to its former glory.

The amount of work demanded by the Historical Society's most recent addition to the Mill is striking, considering the length of time the project has been running.

The core group of mostly retired men have met every Tuesday and Thursday from 9 a.m. until noon for the past two years. Throughout the winters, with only a working fireplace and partial insulation, they were there.

"We could see our breath inside the building," said renovator Art Rockall, "but it wasn't that bad.

And that fireplace, still intact since the Cady Inn's early days, is the only hint of the finished product to come.

The sturdy, dark brick fireplace sits uncomfortably in a room where nothing else is complete. Scraps of plywood, piles of sawdust and various tools dot the floor of the otherwise empty room. Lightbulbs hang limply from exposed wires.

But patiently it sits in defiance of the unfinished wall, promising of the long, narrow room's transformation into a cozy eating and meeting place.

When completed, "hopefully by December," Rockall says, the room will be available to rent for conferences, reunions and other festive

"That is one reason why we want this building done," says Rockall, who hopes meeting rentals will generate some of the much-needed funds to complete and operate the Mill Race

Village.

A small kitchen planned for an adjoining room will serve as a food preparation area, although the Mill Race is not getting into the feeding business.

"If people want to get a caterer for their meetings, that's fine," said Rockall.

The room closest to completion is an office designed for the front room of the Cady Inn. Currently, the Mill Race's administrative work is done out of an office in the Village's Cottage

Lending seniors a hand

Where Novi senior citizens can get affordable housing is a problem which Leona M. Myers said that she and the other members of the Novi Senior Citizens Housing Needs Study Committee have been studying for two years.

And at last they have agreed on findings which they have presented to the Novi City Council for consideration. Individually and in groups, the study committee members went to nearby cities. Myers said, and looked at both high-rise complexes and cluster housing.

Also, they studied descriptive litera-

Also, they studied descriptive literature from senior housing developments in other states, such as Colorado and Florida.

And they looked into the possibility of cooperative housing in which units have a common area for dining room, kitchen, workshops, living room, and laundry facilities with each unit having its own bedroom and bathrooms.

What they decided on is a cluster type — four to six clusters, all on one floor. But if not enough land is available to meet the needs of the increasing annual number of senior citizens, Myers said, the buildings could be two or even three stories high.

said, the buildings could be two or even three stories high.

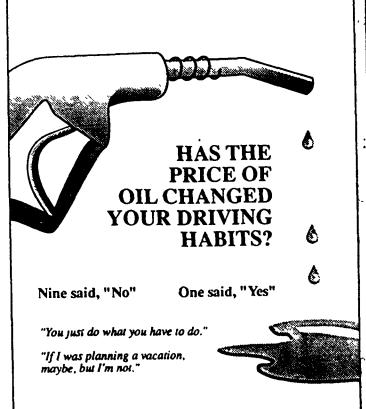

Also the Study Committee has recommended that the units have attached garages, available shopping close by, and proximity to a hospital. And being a senior citizen herself, Myers said, she stressed bathroom conveniences like a bar handle in the tub and shower.

"We hope to hear this year," Myers said, "what the City Council thinks of our study results."

Perhaps the council has available land to donate. Perhaps developers can become interested in making the housing a reality.

Contributing time and thought on this Study Committee is one of Leona Myers'volunteer activities, and of participation in all of them, she commented, "It's adding a little something to the community, and that's a good feeling."

New aerobics program offered

BY MAUREEN NASZRADI

Two Northville women are trying to bring their enjoyment of good health and physical conditioning to their neighbors.

Rita Wightman and Lynne "Po" Jordan, co-owners of New Attitude Aerobics Inc., have teamed up with the Northville Community Recreation Department to offer a new health and fitness program to area residents.

Their slogan — and attitude — is, "Get fit for the fun of it!"

We designed a program specifically for the recreation department," Wightman said. "It's something that we will be focusing on the community and their needs.

Traci Gottschalk, assistant director of the recreation department. said, "We're excited about having

They offer a total fitness program, not just aerobics," she said. "That's what we're looking to provide the community with."

Registration for the 10-week sessions will be held from 10 a.m. to noon Sept. 1 and 8. Classes begin Sept. 10.

Wightman, an aerobics instructor for five years, said there are several features that make the New Attitude program unique.

Enrollment begins with filling out a form that will acquaint the instructors with the participants' health, background and expectations.

"It helps us help them determine what they should do to get the most out of the class," she said.

The company's four instructors, including Wightman and Jordan, are trained and certified by the national Aerobics and Fitness Association of America.

Wightman said she studied anatomy, physiology and nutrition while attaining an associate degree in applied science. Jordan, who holds a bachelor's degree in physical education, has taught at the Plymouth YMCA, Schoolcraft College and for private companies.

New Attitude Aerobics employs the team-teaching approach, Jordan said, which allows for a lot of personal attention. More supervision provides for a safer workout, she

New Attitude Aerobics will help participants discover that fitness and fun are compatible, Wightman said, as well as strengthen the heart, increase cardiovascular capacity and endurance and improve the body's overall muscle tone.

"The workouts are challenging but not complicated, she said. They won't be overwhelmed with a lot of choreography.

The program progression starts with a warm-up, followed by focus on the upper body, Jordan said. The actual aerobics portion of the workout - approximately 20 minutes --helps train the heart and lungs to work more efficiently and firm the

As many as 60 million Americans have high blood pressure. Of these, only one-third are well-controlled. Hypertension is not "nervous tension" as some people believe from the name, but stress is a predisposing

High blood pressure is a chronic elevation of pressure of the blood within arteries which increases a person's risk of stroke, heart attack or kidney disease. In addition to stress, some of the factors which coniribute to elevated blood pressure levels are: heredity, increased use of salt and high alcohol use.

High blood pressure is sometimes called the "silent killer" because it gives no warning signals. For this reason you should have your blood pressure checked regulrly. Should you be diagnosed as having high blood pressure, then frequent monitoring is desirable.

The goal for most hypertensives should be to keep blood pressures below 140/85. The purchase of home blood pressure equipment can inform a person when they are not within target range so they can take appropriate action to get back within their target range. Frequent reading helps prevent this disease from being silent.

For an investment of $20 to $80, a person can purchase equipment and be taught to monitor blood pressure readings at home. A log with the dates and readings can be made and then brought to the periodic followup medical visits. All new equipment should be brought to the physician's office to test its accuracy against a mercury sphygomomanometer (blood pressure cuff). The person could then be taught how to take and record blood pressure correctly.

Some people sense that their blood pressure is elevated when they have a headache, experience warmth or dizziness or are upset. The validity of their perceptions can be tested with blood pressure readings. A relationship between elevated blood pressure and periods of stress or heavy salt usage can also be monitored.

After training in home blood pressure monitoring, the person should obtain serial blood pressure measurements. A determination can then be made of when an office call is needed. One isolated reading that is elevated is not a cause for concern.

Siblings and the children of hypertensive persons can also be easily screened at home since the blood pressure equipment is readily available. Remember, heredity is a factor.

As you can tell, home blood pressure monitoring can have several advantages for the person with hypertension.

Reinholz and Cunningham are two of the 10 steady amateur builders who volunteer their time to swing hammers and haul lumber to complete renovations at Northville's Mill Race Historical Village.

Relocated from its original plot of land downtown on Cady Street, the aging Cady Inn was displaced by a burgeoning city's much-needed parking lot.

Members of the Historical Society were only too happy to take in the homeless stucture and welcomed it to the Mill Race Village three years

"We had to tear everything out," says renovation worker Francis Gazlay, grimacing as he describes the modern dome lighting they discovered in an upstairs bedroom.

Maintaining the building's original shell and several unaltered floors and ceilings, the workers went about trying to restore the Cady Inn to its former glory.

The amount of work demanded by the Historical Society's most recent addition to the Mill is striking, considering the length of time the project has been running.

The core group of mostly retired men have met every Tuesday and Thursday from 9 a.m. until noon for the past two years. Throughout the winters, with only a working streplace and partial insulation, they were there.

The sturdy, dark brick fireplace sits uncomfortably in a room where nothing else is complete. Scraps of plywood, piles of sawdust and various tools dot the floor of the otherwise empty room. Lightbulbs hang limply from exposed wires.

"If people want to get a caterer for their meetings, that's fine," said Rockall.

Lending seniors a hand

Where Novi senior citizens can get affordable housing is a problem which Leona M. Myers said that she and the other members of the Novi Senior Citizens Housing Needs Study Committee have been studying for two years.

And at last they have agreed on findings which they have presented to the Novi City Council for consideration. Individually and in groups, the study committee members went to nearby cities, Myers said, and looked at both high-rise complexes and cluster housing.

Also, they studied descriptive literature from senior housing developments in other states, such as Colorado and

And they looked into the possibility of cooperative housing in which units have a common area for dining room, kitchen, workshops, living room, and laundry facilities with each unit having its own bedroom and bathrooms.

What they decided on is a cluster

type - four to six clusters, all on one floor. But if not enough land is available to meet the needs of the increasing annual number of senior citizens, Myers said, the buildings could be two or even three stories high.

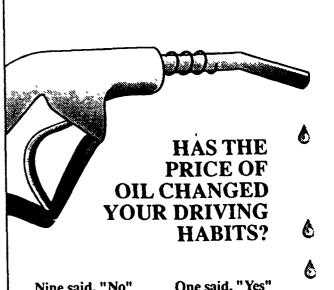

Also the Study Committee has recommended that the units have attached garages, available shopping close by, and proximity to a hospital. And being a senior citizen herself, Myers said, she stressed bathroom conveniences like a bar handle in the tub and shower.

We hope to hear this year," Myers said, "what the City Council thinks of our study results.

Perhaps the council has available land to donate. Perhaps developers can become interested in making the hous-

Still selling tickets for Victorian Ball

Tickets for the Victorian Festival Costume Ball are still on sale. One of Northville's most popular social events, this year's ball will be held Saturday, Sept. 15, from 7:30 p.m. through midnight.

Costume Ball-goers are asked to dress up in traditional Victorian-era clothing, and many will remember some of the elaborate costuming from last year's ball.

The $50 ticket price provides participants with a horse-drawn carriage ride from the parking area to the covered tent, beneath which all the fun will take place. Ed Postiff of Edwards Caterer will be providing the food for the two buffet tables, the tent and table decorations, and "the ambiance inside of the ζ_tent. According to Postiff, the all-white tent, the paisley tablecloths he is making, the floral arrangements and the candlesticks create a "very Victorian atmosphere. As for the menu, the buffet will offer whole roasted turkeys with chutney and mustard, a savory tart with potatoes, vegetables and cheese, sourdough rolls, miniature croissants and a Bibb lettuce salad with grapes. For dessert, a variety of miniature pastries and such will be offered. An open bar will be available throughout the evening with a wide selec--tion of drinks.

The Dodworth Saxhorn Reserve Band will provide an authentic Victorian ensemble playing original instruments from the 1800s. Tickets can be obtained by calling the Northville Chamber of Commerce

Marathon Bridge

The Northville Mothers' Club Marathon Bridge groups are in the final stages of being formed. If you are interested in playing in an evening couples group, a women's day group, or a women's night group, please call either co-chairperson — Meg Coponen at 349-7866 or Carol Rahimi at 349-3762 — by Monday, Aug. 20.

Author dinner

Friends of the Northville Library Annual Benefit Dinner will be hosted by John and Toni Genitti on Monday, Sept. 24, at 7 p.m. This year's speaker will be mystery writer William Kienzle, author of "The Rosary Murders" and most recently "Masquerade." Tickets are $20 and are on sale to members until Sept. 10, at which time they will be available to the public. This event won a national award for the local Friends chapter as the best "perk for members." The dinner has been a sellout for the Friends each year since its first effort seven years ago.

This entertaining event, including a wonderful seven-course dinner, is the main fundraiser for the Friends organization, and is very important to the group now that they are no longer able to hold the used book sales. For further information, call Geraldine Mills at 349-1648.

The upstairs portion of the Cady Inn contains two large rooms - one intended to house the Historical Society's archives the other to promote

The largest task blocking the builders' path to completion, is the construction of the first floor bathroom which they intend to make wheelchair accessible.

Bermuda

Different weather pattern,

By Iris Sanderson Jones Travel Editor

Bermuda: When you think "islands," you probably think "Bahamas" or "Virgin Islands," straw markets, bead sellers, color, poverty, sun.

You probably don't think about this 22-mile-long chain of rocks, connected by bridges and set in a wide circle of treacherous reefs here in the Atlantic 'Ocean.

Bermuda has the same warm weather colors we associate with the Caribbean: deep blue skies, turquoise waters, golden beaches. But it has an entirely different weather pattern and a different mood.

There is no unemployment here, no income taxes, no poverty. Labor is so scarce that they don't even grow their own food any more, importing everything, exporting nothing, sending ships back to the U.S. empty.

The good news is that Bermuda has the second highest median income in the world after Kuwait. $23,000 a year. The bad news is that Bermuda is one of the most expensive places in the world, for locals and tourists alike.

It is still a wonderful destination for the sun-lover from April through October, the sweater-lover from November through March, and it can be an affordable vacation if you buy it as a package.

My friend and fellow travel writer, David Allen, for nine years a senator and now a Member of Parliament in Bermuda, says that tourism from the midwest has risen dramatically during the last year or two.

Allen is "shadow Minister of Tourism." which means he is the opposition member expert enough to challenge government policies and ready to become Minister of Tourism if his party gains power.

He pointed out that Michigan's Mott family, famed for apple sauce, has had a house called Parapet in Bermuda for more than half a century and that Stuart Mott is still a part-time resident.

I sailed in aboard the cruise ship M.V. Horizon, the newest, largest and one of the least expensive of the four cruise ships that sail to Bermuda May through October. The Horizon and the Meridian are part of Celebrity Cruises, owned by Chandris; the other two are Royal Vikings Viking Star" and Royal Caribbean's "Nordic

What amazed me when we sailed across 774 miles of open sea from New York City was that any sailing ship could have found these isolated islands, set in a vast sea, let alone bumped into them! Hundreds of vessels have shipwrecked on the reefs, including a supertanker that broke its back 15 miles from shore in the

The islands, tips of dead undersea volcanoes, were uninhabited when Spaniard Juan de Bermudez carved his name on a rock in 1503 and sailed away into the Sargasso Sea. The island was colonized when the Sea Venture shipwrecked here in 1609, while sailing west from England with supplies for the infant colony of Jamestown, Virginia.

Modern cruise ships arrive safely every week, but if I had any doubt about those treacherous reefs, it was dispelled when we squeezed through Two Rock Passage, with only a few feet of water on either side.

the capital city of Hamilton. The Horizon (and later the Viking Star) docks on Front Street, forming a wall along the street and giving us our first fabulous view of Bermudian life during morning "rush hour." The government considered 58,000 people to be overpopulation on these 20-square-miles of islands, so it allows only one car per family. Bermuda has a good bus and ferry system, but much of the work force arrived on mopeds: young men in shirts, ties, jackets and Bermuda shorts; secretaries in silk dresses and high heeled shoes; grandmothers with shopping bags and motorcycle helmets.

Hamilton has a charming and colorful "downtown" about six blocks wide and six blocks uphill past the parliamenebuildings and the cathedral that tops the "skyline." No building is allowed to top or obscure the Cathedral of the Most Holy Trinity.

Tourists buy English china and sweaters here, but prices are too high for my taste. I prefer to enjoy the ferry dock, the helmeted policeman in his Bermuda shorts directing traffic from a shaded platform called The Birdcage, the centuries-old tree that fronts Par-la-Ville Gardens and the Bermuda Historical Society Museum.

Much of the town is protected by an historic trust, according to tour guide Vince Cann, who charges government-set rates of $20 an hour for up to four people, $30 for a sixseater, minimum three hours. (You

Vince drove us in a wide arc arand ocean views and embroidered with glorious beaches. Vince is a born and bred "Bermuda Onion" who knows every passerby, every hidden island corner and encyclopedic knowledge of his homeland.

As we drove around the harbor and uphill to a million dollar view he told us that Juan de Bermudez' name is still visible in the rock at Spanish Point, that the shipwrecked Sir George Sommers built two new ships to carry on to Jamestown in 1610 and came back to settle Bermuda.

Bermuda was never a plantation colony, but it is 60 percent black, 40 percent white, because England brought English prisoners to build forts and skilled slaves from the southern U.S. to build ships. The Brits stored gunpowder here during the American Revolution, but 100 barrels of gunpowder were nonetheless smuggled to American ships.

Bermudians farmed and sold vegetables to the U.S., but a tourism economy began when sailing ships brought well-to-do Americans here for winter vacations. After World War Two, average folks like us could afford jet planes so tourism switched to summer, but many travelers still love the springlike if unswimmable weather from November to May, available at "bargain" rates.

There are no rivers in Bermuda, so every house has its own tank to collect rainwater, pure enough to drink happily," Vince said as we

Blue, green, pink, red and beige houses were scattered like colored toys across the landscape, each topped with a white-washed roof of Bermuda stone. "The pastel colors were easy to add to whitewash in the cld days," Vince says.

Housing prices start at $250,000, but every Bermudian seems to own one. Vince gave me this scenario:

'My niece is a secretary, her husband a motor mechanic, they worked two jobs until they saved $30,000 to put down on a $120,000 piece of land. They started building immediately, sweat equity, and when the walls were up the bank loaned them enough to pay off the land and hire contractors

"Their main floor apartment has two smaller rental apartments underneath, so they live in a rental unit until the income from the other two flats pays off the mortgage. Then they move into the main floor and the rentals pay for college in the U.S. or Canada and two or three vacations a year in America. The house is now worth half a million dollars.

By this time we had meandered past pink hotels and coastal views to park at Horseshoe Bay, (a $12 taxi ride from town), one of the popular beaches tinged slightly pink by a millennium of powdered seashells.

Bermuda inhabits the world's most northerly coral reef, so diving is good. You can hire a boat or take your own equipment by moped to Church to Gibb's Hill Lighthouse, cast-iron, built in 1844, and with a view of the whole world from the top of its 185 steps. From there you can see the ferries running back and forth from The Royal Naval Dockyard, a deep-sea harbor that was once the 'Gibraiter of the west and is now a restored shopping-eating-museum area and cruise ship landing. The S.S. Meri-dian was docked there.

Our cruise ship, the M.V. Horizon, moved on after two days, squeezing through another narrow passage to the historic town of St. George's. where we tramped around historic Fort St. Catherine and visited St.Peter's Church, now built of Bermuda cedar but established in thatched palmetto on this site in

I was put in the stocks along with other tourists in King's Square but stood high-and-dry dur-ing weekly Wednesday ceremonies while a hapless female employee was dunked into the bay for my amusement.

Those who come to stay awhile in Bermuda must choose between diverse accommodation, less expensive as a package. For information, contact Bermuda Department of Tourism, Suite 1070, Randolph-Wacker Bldg., 150 N. Wacker Dr., Chicago, IL 60606.

Travel agents cruise on Sandpiper

By Iris Sanderson Jones Travel Editor

Friday night.

The Sandpiper was docked at the foot of Jefferson, beside the park where the people of Toledo celebrate life with stage shows and music every

We crossed the gangplank in a pouring rain and settled our wet bags on the wooden benches that run down the sides and the middle of the 65-footlong open-sided tour boat.

I poked my head up a short flight of stairs, saw Captain Robert Brooks tightening a bolt on a very

"Is this where we sunbathe?" I asked. "In your string bikinis," he said cheerfully. The occasion was the annual picnic of the Great Lakes chapter of PATA-the Pacific Area Travel Association. Members are primarily metro area travel agents but also include representatives of airlines, hotels, cruise lines, etc. Most PATA meetings are educational seminars in which a Far East industry spokesman, someone from the Japan National Tourist Organization, for example, brings members up to date on Pacific travel. This picnic was an annual social outing to let friends and associates enjoy one another under the summer sun. As the Sandpiper pulled out onto the Maumee River, past the Toledo skyline, and the wind blew rain through the open sides of the boat, I thought about how flexible we all need to be to really enjoy ourselves when we travel. Somebody should engrave this motto on every traveler's forehead: "Follow your dream but be flexible because things change and you must grow and change with them." PATA Chairman Eleanor Callahan of Medical Center Travel in Detroit had led us cheerfully out of the bus. Oscar Manzon of The Travel Market in Southfield, who had planned this trip as a Mystery Tour, was lighting the barbecue in the middle of the deck.

Vice-chair Ellen Worthy of It's Worth Travel inc. in Brighton was trying to dodge both the smoke and the rain as she moved among friends. Bernadette Van Lenten of Travel Agents International in Canton, a fairly new member of PATA, watched the shoreline go by in the rain as Captain Brooks steered the Sandpiper up the river.

The Sandpiper is a replica of one of the three types of canal boats that changed the face of Ohio in the 19th century. Ohio was isolated until a 1,000-mile-long network of navigable canals was built between 1825 and 1847, providing transportation for agriculture and industry going out through the Great Lakes, and for settlers coming in through the Erie Canal.

Only a few of the deep excavations, the high earthen embankments or the timber and stone structures of the canal system are left today. But any map shows the path by showing the cities that grew along the canals: the Miami-Erie from Toledo to Cincinnati, the Ohio-Erie east and north to Columbus and Cleveland, with feeders from towns like Marietta, Ohio.

To put that in a world perpective, 1847 was the year that San Francisco became a city, five years after the Chinese gave Hong Kong to the British. There was no PATA and few, except merchant sailors, ever went to Asia.

Captain Brooks was a modern sailor in the U.S. Navy, and he had to grow and change too. He started a steam railroad and later a steam boat for tourists near Grand Rapids, Ohio, waited a long time for one of the old canals to be restored, gave up and had the Sandpiper built to carry groups up

You, the individual traveler, can ride the Sandpiper Saturdays and Sundays if Capt. Brooks doesn't already have a charter. He charges individual travelers rates of $4 adults and $2.50 children for a one-hour ride.

By now the scent of kielbasa and burgers was wasting through the wet boat, drinks had been pulled from paper bags and poured into plastic cups. Most of the old hands from PATA were talking shop:

PATA Secretary Sharon Keyes of Travel Counselors in Bloomfield Hills; Board members Ann Langlois of Hamilton, Miller, Hudson, Fayne in Southfield; Shirley Long and the 'Kaye' of Kaye Britton Travel in Farmington Hills.

Rodney Johnson of Northwest Airlines didn't make it this trip, but Fred Woodward, who is retired from Eastern Airlines is there in the wet wind. Treasurer Elsie Trapp of Hansen Travel in Bloomfield Hills is celebrating her birthday with her Hansen cohort Ann Strait and nobody is talking about the birthday cake yet to come.

The next time PATA meets it will be back to work, trying to keep up with the changes that occur faster than a travel agent's computer can record them. Members will be signing up for trips to the Pacific Rim; Ellen Worthy of Brighton is already planning an advance trip to Indonesia.

And you, the traveler, will walk through their doors assuming that they know everything and not knowing how hard they must work to get the current information you need. Just remember that things change every day in the travel business. And keep my motto in mind:

*Follow your dream but be flexible because things change and you have to grow and change with them.

Bell Plumbing was started in Brighton at its present location in 1958 with the philosophy that providing goods at reasonable prices along with providing competent service would be the appropriate combination to commence and maintain a successful business. Some 32 years later the philosophy of the organization has not changed and the success of this philosophy can only be measured by the fact that the original location composed of a building of approximately 2,500 square feet has now increased in size to a facility approximating 10,000 square feet including on-site warehouse.

In response to consumer demand for a quality showroom, Bell Plumbing expanded in the early 70's to include a full, first-class showroom displaying the state-of-the-art fixtures available to its customers.

In 1983, David Lyberg became the owner of the company and continued to maintain its excellent reputation for service, dependability and honesty by offering the do-it-yourselfer as well as the contractor the ability to purchase plumbing/hardware supplies and materials as well as get a rather technical answer to the problems experienced in connection with the installation or repair of various plumbing items.

Dave, and his staff, have continued to expand and grow bringing in new lines of products, expanding the showroom and enlarging the storage area at the location which is still the same as when the Company started some 32 years ago.

Bell Plumbing is located at 1098 East Grand River, one mile west of Old U.S. 23. The phone number is (313) 229-6892.

Bell Plumbing is open 7 days a week. The hours are Monday through Friday, 8:00 a.m. to 7:00 p.m.; Saturday, 9:00 a.m. to 5:30 p.m.; and Sunday, 10:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m.

The commercial development boom of the '80s has put Novi in an enviable position for the '90s (Photo by Chris Boyd)

By Frank Eichenlaub

After riding the crest of the commercial boom in the late 1970s and '80s. Novi is singing a sweet tune heading into the new decade.

'I think we (Novi) really have the opportunity to be a showcase 10 years from now," said Novi City Manager Ed Knewall. "You can't be in a better place than Novi in the '90s. If there is a better place, I'd like to know where it is.

Not only did the large commercial projects-Twelve Oaks, Novi Town Center and West Oaks I and IIsecure Novi a spot on the map, but they also left the city postured well for the '90s.

forecast for the new decade appears to hold in Novi, Kriewall said.

The future of business and industry for the city appears to hold a decrease in commercial development simply because little space remains under zoning ordinances.

"There is very little commercial zoning left in Novi, but frankly we've really cornered the commercial market," Kriewall said.

Consider this: Novi finished third in retail growth along the I-96 freeway from 1982 to 1987; in that fiveyear period, only two of 18 communities in a government study accounted for more retail outlets on I-96 than Novi; the city's number of establishments leapt 46 percent and number of workers jumped 49 percent in the five years.

But the boom wasn't exclusive to city's commercial product is what the Novi: Also consider! 'according to the study by the U.S. Census of Retail Trade, shopping opportunities in Oakland County increased 53 percent in the five-year period along I-96 countywide sales rocketed from $2.8 billion to $4.3 billion in the five-year period.

Numbers on the growth in the final three years of the decade were not yet available.

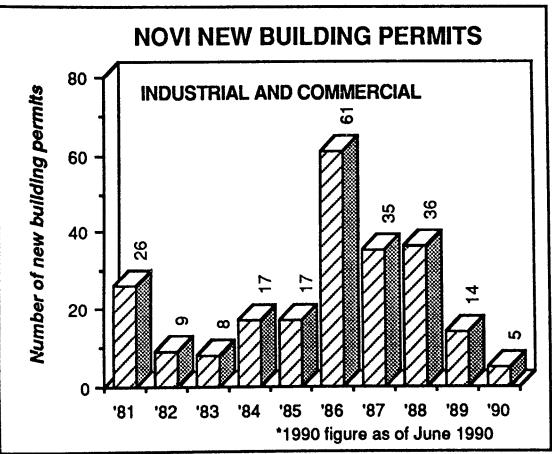

"I'd say a commercial boom in Novi had taken place," Kriewall said. "Commercially, we were the big winner."

In the near future, Kriewall said. Novi must fine tune in addition to facing some development issues—he specifically mentioned the Grand Plan, a city-initiated drive to relocate industries in the central city to a new industrial park on the outskirts.

Fine tuning brings to light the issues of waste, the environment, recycling, transportation and visual enhancement, among others, Kriewall said.

Although little commercial space remains in Novi, the big boom didn't leave the city high and dry for future development.

Kriewall expects very light industrial development as well as office space building to loom in Novi's future.

"Progress in the '90s is going to be different," Kriewall said. "It would be hard for smaller projects to compete in (the I-96) area."

Despite an overabundance of office space that leaves many buildings unfilled, Kriewall foresees a resurgence in that area. And therefore development of this type will hit Novi in the 1990s, he said.

Don't expect a great deal of commercial development to surface in Novi in the upcoming years, Kriewall said.

"Commercially, we're sitting right about where we ought to be," he said.

And in terms of homes, the city's zoning makeup is nearing the point of allowing only single-family developments.

"I'd like to see Novi as the last community to the west you'd like to move," Kriewall said. "I think 10 years from now if we look back, we will have fine-tuned the final commercial product. If we look back in 10 years and didn't do that, then we're just another urban community that didn't live up to its potential."

Fantastic Customer's, A Great Staff, And A Full Product Line, Sets This Company Apart From Others

Top: Businesses enjoy the special service they receive from the crew at B & J

B & J Oil has been servicing surrounding communities for more than 20 years. The company began as a small home and field delivery service, offering home-heating oil, gasoline, and diesel fuels. As B & J grew the company added a complete line of motor oils, industrial oils, and greases that are delivered to construction sights, trucking companies, and machine shops.

It didn't take long for people to recognize a good thing. Customers began asking when a service station was going to be built so they could fill all their petroleum needs thruough B & J Oil. In 1985 B & J took a monumental step and opened their first island. Loyal customers soon helped B & J add a second island in 1987 and a third in 1988. The spring of 1990 brought even more pride to B & J when the company was able to landscape and revamped the exterior of their new service station built on the lot next door to their old location.

Forever looking for new ways to better service customers B & J Oil continues to be on the forfront of technology. The company is in the process of adding a national credit card service known as Pacific Pride. Pacific Pride permits an approved customer to fill up 24 hous a day, seven days a week any where in the United States that has a Pacifics-Pride sign. At the end of each billing period the customer will receive a statement that lists station locations, the number of gallons and time of fill up.

New Pacific Pride stations are coming on-line every week.

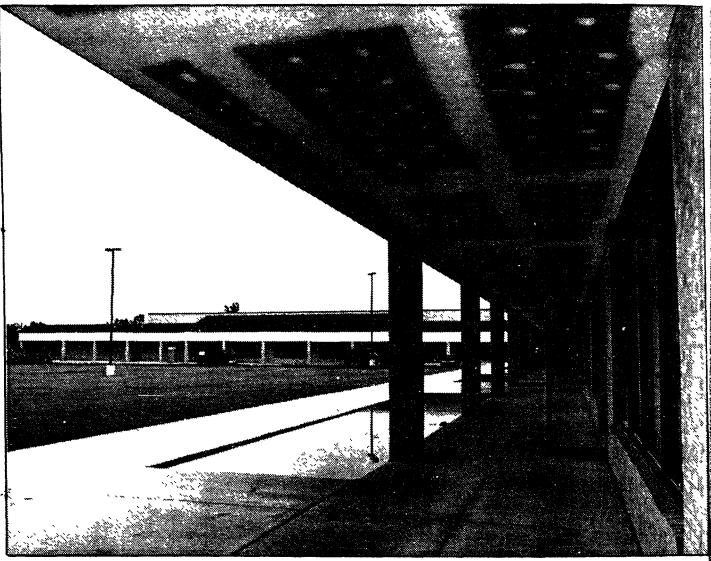

"We would like to take this opportunity to thank all of our customers for their past and future loyalty and promise to continue to improve our service. We welcome all new customers and look forward to servicing them" said coowner Dick Bur. For more information on the services offered, call (313) 349-1961 and ask for Chas, Andy or Dick.

South Lyon area: 'Novi of the '90s'

By Thomas M. Varcie

Developers often refer to the City of South Lyon and Lyon Township as "the Novi of the '90s." If so, is the area ready to cope with the tremendous influx of growth that Novi experienced in the 1980s?

Local officials and business leaders say "es."

Each of the officials believes growth must be controlled tightly while area roads must improve drastically. They also believe the downtown business district in the City of South Lyon, rich in historical value, will remain the city's center of business activity.

Projections by the Southeast Michigan-Council of Governments---EPROGRÉSS August 30, 1990

(SEMCOG) show that Lyon Township will be a hot area for development in the next 20 years. It estimates the area will grow 83.7 percent in the number of households by the year 2010. The population, meanwhile, is anticipated to rise 63.6 percent, increasing from approximately 10,000 (current estimate) in 1990 to 15,193 by 2010. And employment will rise 39.7 percent in the township.

Meanwhile, SEMCOG predicts a fair share of growth in the city. SEMCOG forecasters say the number of households will increase 31.4 percent by the year 2010. The city's population will grow 13.2 percent, from 6,000 in 1990 (current estimate) to 6,792 by 2010, while employment will rise 42.2 percent.

South Lyon Mayor Jeffrey Potter said the township and city are attempting to cope with the growth, but he believes the surge could be dealt with more adequately if township and city governments work together.

"We need to have a comprehensive management growth plan. Wellmaaged growth is the only alternative to suburban sprawl," Potter said.

Potter believes that land-use planning should be a priority for both communities and that residential areas should not be disturbed.

But Potter said some things have been done to curtail "suburban sprawl.

"We did refer to the (South Lyon) planning commission to study and revise our site ordinances to provide of natural features and development. We also can study other townships and cities that have gone through the same situation as us and see how they handled the growth," Potter said.

In addition, local roads currently are not capable of withstanding future traffic volumes anticipated from the projected growth, according to the mayor.

"The roads are poor. We are not getting the support we need from the support it," Cook said. county for the infrastructure to improve and grow. We might have to look at alternatives," Potter said.

South Lyon City Manager Rodney Cook agrees with Potter that the roads and local infrastructure need improvement.

We've made some changes by paving and refurbishing some of the local roads. But we can't do it alone. We need help from the Oakland County Road Commission," Cook explained.

Cook said the city is "trying to do the planning" to deal with economic and residential growth.

"We don't have much space available in the city for commercial development. But we are looking at the Master Land Use Plan to see how to deal with any future growth," Cook said. He estimated at the current level of growth the city could be "built out" in two to three years.

Approximately 460 acres of vacant land remain in the city:, Cook said vacant land is available in all four more for the retention and placement corners of the city. Specifically, Cook said there land zoned light industrial is available in the northeast corner and roughly 40 acres remain in the northwest.

On the commercial growth side, the city may have all the strip malls that it needs for now "Primarily. we've seen the last of the commercial development in the city with Huntington Square (located off Pontiac Trail next to the 700 Bowl). There's not the population base to

The city's downtown business district, he believes, will remain favorable despite area commercial development.

"I don't see any changes for the bad in the downtown. We will always have the downtown because of the way (the city) was established," Cook explained.

The phrase "Novi of the '90s" may be catchy, but Cook believes it doesn't fit the city perfectly.

"When developers say that. I think they're talking about population growth potential. They're not talking about land use. First of all, we don't have that much more space available, and we have a smaller downtown area than Novi. too." Cook explained.

Cook believes cooperation between the city and township is important to the growth of each community.

"The planning they (the township) do will augment what the city does. They have many of the same problems that we do. They have problems with land use, traffic, and concerns of residential and commercial growth," Cook said. "It'll have to be a joint hand-in-hand venture."

Lyon Township Supervisor James Atchison agreed with Cook.

"Cooperation between the two communities always helps. I would like to see more cooperation between the two governments," Atchison said.

But Lyon Township is doing fine on its own coping with development, according to Atchison. "We have good engineers and planning consultants who are handling the growth satisfactorily."

Although at least two large companies have set up shop in Lyon Township within the last year, Atchison does not believe that the community will only play host to large industries in the future.

Jervis B. Webb, located off Grand River Avenue, was constructed in 1989 and Pure Pak, off South Hill Road, is a new business the size of several football fields planned for completion in early 1991.

"We'd like more high-tech business in the township. We have no objection to good, clean industries, such as Pure Pak or J.B. Webb, coming into the community," Atchison said.

Atchison strongly believes roads in the city and township are a major concern as they relate to future development. He said they need to be widehed and improved.

Atchison believes several features about the township are served on a silver platter for developers. "Our location is the biggest feature. We have the I-96 expressway going through here, and we are located near Kensington Metropark."

He also pointed out the township is close to shopping centers in Novi. In addition, there is much land to develop in the community and a recreational park is currently being completed at Milford Road near I-96.

But Norm Somers, a longtime South Lyon resident and owner of the South Lyon Pharmacy at 101 S. Lafayette, believes a consolidation of the township and city government is eventually needed to adequately deal with the future growth.

"I foresee the consolidation between the two governments. It's inevitable," Somers explained.

In the meantime, the two communities will have to work together to manage development.

"I think, for now, the growth has taken its natural course from south to north (site of Huntington Square). The east and west (in the city) is locked up with residential. So maybe the (City of South Lyon) planning commission originally did its job," Somers said.

Overall, Somers is pleased with the growth pattern, but he just hopes that traffic problems are minimized by local planning and county funding.

Guardian Industries, their success is as clear as glass.

The success of Northville-based Guardian Industries is, appropriately enough, as clear as glass.

From its beginning as a single-plant windshield fabricator in 1968, it has grown to one of the largest flat glass manufacturers in the world with annual sales exceeding $1 billion sales exceeding *1 billion.

With over 7,500 workers in 23 glass manufacturing and fabricating plants strategically located throughout the U.S., South America, Canada and Europe, Guardian produces approximately 16 percent of the U.S. total flat glass and 9 percent of Europe's.

Guardian manufactures over 4,500 tons of glass a day for use in the construction and automotive industries.

Local buildings sheathed in Guardian glass include the Cambridge Office Center at Six Mile Road and I-275 and the New Laurel Park Office building.

Privately owned since 1985, Guardian Industries' principal shareholder, president and chief executive officer is William Davidson, a prominent and successful entrepreneur who among other business interests, is the majority owner and managing partner of the World Champion Detroit Pistons basketball team.

Right, Wind River Gallery's accent is on the wildlife and nature theme. However, in the print displays you can find an assortment of traditional works by today's popular artists.

Tim Smith collected wildiife art for ten years before his success forced him to take another step.

"The collection finally grew to a point where I just had to do something," Tim says of his decision to open the Wind River Gallery in Milford on March 1, 1989. The gallery features wildlife art, of course, but also highlights many other art forms.

Wood carvings of fish, wild fowl and songbirds, limited edition posters, wildlife books, pottery, and handwoven rugs jostle each other for space among a sampling of paintings with a southwest flavor, mother/child art, scrimshaw pieces and a fascinating variety of gifts dealing with wildlife

Tim also handles stained glass creations some of which are fashioned from the image of a customer's favorite wildlife painting. Others are custom designed for sidelights or windows. "Most people in this area like wildlife art to some degree." Tim says. "It has a following."

Sue White, who is manager at the Wind River Gallery, says the "following" is about evenly divided between men and women. "But a favorite for the men is the duck stamp print" she says. "Many men collect a particular selection of them — for example, pintail duck stamps, or Michigan duck stamps, or the duck stamps of a particular artist."

Wildlife artists enter their work every year in the juried duck stamp contests of many states. Prints are then made of the winning painting and together with the resulting stamp for a framed work of about 10 by 12 inches.

Other gallery customers choose paintings or carvings for their place up north where they've spotted a particular specie of wildlife and want'a painting of what they've seen.

There's also a big market for songbirds, Sue says, and hand-carved fish are hard to keep in stock

Wind River Gallery offers in House custom framing for prints sold in the shop or for a customer's print. Also available is "conservation framing" which helps preserve artwork by using acid-free rag materials for matting. This prevents the staining that sometimes occurs over time on the surface of a print matted in the conventional way.

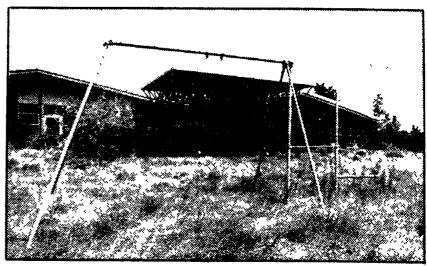

The Wind River Gallery handles original carvings and cast pieces — those which are created by an artist, then cast in porcelain or a man-made material, and individually hand-painted by the artist Many people are interested in carving right now, Sue says, and original pieces will range upward from about $600.

Sue says "Its a complement when a customer comes in and lays an expensive print on the counter and says "Frame it up the way you think it should be -- I know it will look good."

Wind River Gallery. Located at 400 N. Main Street, Suite 204, is open Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday from 9:30 A.M. to 7:00 P.M., and Friday from 9:30 A.M. to 8:00 P.M. and on Saturday from 9:30 A.M. to 5:00 P.M.

Northville manager eyes 'flip-flop'

Although the city experienced a growth in these areas over the past 10 years, Walters isn't saying that he hopes to see a decline.

Why? Northville was 30 percent commercial and industrial at the end of the '70s. While these areas grew through the '80s, the percentage shrank to its current 18-19 percent.

The X factor in this percentage is the residential growth in Northville, which outgained its industrial and commercial counterparts to leave the city at the current percentage.

Walters said he hopes and expects the city to tack a few percentages onto the 19 percent figure in the '90s through commercial and industrial developments.

in Both the City of Northville, and the township should encourage good commercial and industrial development just to keep their percentage stable," Walters said.

Simply because very little residential room remains, Walters said he expects the percentage to close and the '90s to bring more commercial and industrial developments than residential.

"Neither the city nor the township has to encourage residential development. It's pounding on the doors," Walters said. "What you really have to spend the time doing is encouraging commercial and industrial developments."

While there is little residential space left, the percentage will not alter greatly as Walters doesn't anticipate any large commercial or industrial projects.

He emphasized that to truly close the gap Northville Township must increase its developments.

But Northville Township Supervivelopment they are hoping to see is controlled.

"It has been and continues to be a bedroom community," Goss said. "We are geared very much towards our residents."

In the '70, development in the township was non-existent, Goss said. The '80s didn't boom there, but development projects began surfacing-Meijer, Hampton Inn and Now, Goss expects development on Haggerty Road and the DeMattia project on Five Mile Road.

"We have been in a growth period for a number of years, but we controlled our growth. And we make sure it is of the highest quality and the best for this area," Goss said.

One example of the type of work that township hopes to see is the Blue Herron Pointe development on Six Mile and Beck Road. sor Georgina-Goss says the only de .. working on that site turned a former expanded practice to larger offices in the new Eaton Center at 43410 West Ten Mile Road. The Novi Family Dental Center, celebrating its 10th year in Novi, will continue to provide complete family dental care, including the specialty areas of endodontics and periodontics, headed by longtime associate Dr. Franklin Gordon.

Dr. Tuchklaper said the practice will maintain its strong preventive dental care program, teaching proper dental hygiene, "our skills and equipment are state of the art, but teaching our patients how to care for their teeth is still the most important continues." still the most important service we can Comfort may be the last thing people associate with a dentist office but it's a key to the success of the Novi Family Dental Center and Dr. Allen Tuchklaper.

Comfort greets patients as they enter the new spacious offices. Photographs of the no-cavity children proudly smiling cover the bulletin board, another board displays clippings of patients in the news, and there's always the familiar smiling faces behind the counter too. It all contributes to a very "Family Feeling." Ninety-nine percent of the time it can be a very comfortable experience said Dr. Tuchklaper of his patients' visits.

In Novi for 10 years, and practicing dentistry for 15 years, Dr. Tuchklaper is committed to dentistry, the community, and his patients.

We practice holistic dentistry, Dr. Tuchklaper explained. That is, we look at each patient as an individual. We look at the whole person. We involve the patient in developing his own dental care program, and that program can include a full spectrum of services with the addition of Dr. Franklin with the addition of Dr. Franklin Gordon. He has licensed specialties in endodontics (disease of the tooth pulp) and periodontics (disease of the tissue and structure surrounding and supporting the teeth).

Dr. Gordon joined the office about three years ago and works in the office on Wednesdays. He sees the unique relationship between himself and Dr. Tuchklaper as beneficial to both of them and especially the patients.

With Dr. Gordon on staff, the Novi Family Dental Center can give patients nearly total dental care. "Almost everything can be done in the office," added Dr. Tuchklaper,

"Most kids I see today are in relatively good dental health and relatively comfortable in the office," said Dr. Tuchklaper; adding that he is seeing children as young as 21/2 years old.

In addition to preventive measures, Dr. Tuchklaper offers the latest in dental innovations such as implants, cosmetic dentistry, bonding, sealants, "white & brite", and "Newsoft" dentures.

Implants, explained Dr. Tuchklaper, are gaining acceptability as a way to replace a single tooth or completely restore the mouth. It is a relatively simple procedure where the implant is actually attached to the bone and can be done under a local anesthetic.

Cosmetic dentistry is more and more popular. One of the most recent developments in whiting teeth is a product called "White and Brite". It is a peroxide based liquid that is worn at home in a splint several hours a day. The patient usually sees results within the first three days. Most cases can becompleted in a two week period. We have had great results with it; Dr. Tuchklaper explained.

Misalignments, malformations, and discolorations can be remedied through bonding or porcelain-laminate veneers that offer longlasting surfaces and aesthetics that are "just magnificent," said Dr. Tuchklaper.

Downtown Milford faces challenge

By Martin E. Deschaine

Milford's retail atmosphere is changing, and many argue that downtown merchants will have to become more competitive if they are survive.

Two new major retail complexes are in the planning and development stage, one to be located in the southern part of Milford Village and another to be situated along Milford Road near I-96 in Milford Township. Both may give downtown business owners a run for their money.

A 115,000-square-foot commercial development is planned near the corner of General Motors and South Milford roads. That development will seature a restaurant and a bank, in addition to a great deal of new retail selling space, just one or two minute's drive from downtown.

Being developed by the Vincenti/ Tri-Mount Construction Company, the project will not likely be completed until some time in 1991, but it still has Main Street merchants concerned about increased competition.

The other development will be built on 35 acres of land at the corner of South Milford Road and Pontiac Trail, near I-96.

Being developed by the Southsieldbased Standard Development Company, the mall is expected to have several large "anchor" stores and over 200,000 square feet of selling

Although a Meijer or K mart store is unlikely to be constructed there, another major retail chain could occupy one of the large retail stores in 18PROGRESS/August 30: 1990 that mall. The plaza will be the largest retail complex in Milford Township, and the construction of a new full cloverleaf intersection will provide access directly to Milford Road in both east and westerly Development, however, is continuing in the downtown with several stores having recently been opened on Commerce Street, just east of Main Street. Developed by R.B. Stoy and Company, a commercial center there includes a pizzeria, a laundromat and a remodeled ice cream parlor at the foot of downtown.

And at the IGA Center in the eastern part of the village, Breen's IGA is expanding its grocery operation considerably.

Indicative of merchants' desire to stay competitive in the future is the on-going debate over parking meters in Milford Village.

Dean Rottermond, owner of Rottermond Jewelers and head of the retail division of the Huron Valley Area Chamber of Commerce, has made strides in an attempt to rid the downtown business area of meters. Rottermond and other merchants contend that the meters are the single most important factor which keeps customers, who are instead going to malls, from doing their shopping downtown.

According to Rottermond, merchants need to work to keep the downtown area competitive with surrounding area malls. He said the best way they can accomplish that is to get rid of the parking meters.

Several plans for removing the meters and coming up with new ways to pay for customer parking have been offered to the village council which is still considering its options. Rottermond and other area business persons say the issue is critical to the survival of downtown as a thriving business district. With customers being ticketed for parking violations at the meters and because the meters require change, people are leaving the Milford shopping area to go to the regional malls and strip centers where they can park for free. without fear of getting a ticket, he argued.

merchants on Main Street.

From the time they started business there three years ago until now, Gayle said they have seen declines in business and traffic. "It used to be you couldn't get ever get a minute for a break, well now you can."

Rottermond, who was recenty appointed to Milford's Downtown Development Authority, said the organization will soon take up the meter issue and try to find an amicable solution.

The impact of the nearby shopping centers on downtown Milford could be mixed, he added. Some stores could leave downtown to seek the visibility offered by the I-96/Milford Road project, and the effect of adding hundreds of thousands of square feet of new retail space to the area could cause prices to drop due to supply and demand.

On the other hand, all the new stores could be a benefit by drawing more customers into Milford, bringing new business into the area.

Developers, Gayle indicated, have approached downtown merchants about locating in the Vincenti project where merchants will be given the opportunity to buy their space rather than lease it monthly or annually.

Gayle said she believes the proliferation of strip malls and plazas in Milford and other places does not amount to new money coming in. Instead, it is a matter of businesses moving from one area to another. "There's only X amount of people with X amount of dollars," she said. "They're just taking customers from one store to another."

"We just hope we (merchants in the central business district) are not caught in that shift."

Meanwhile in Highland Township, development of commercial centers continues. The Highland Commons shopping center is being constructed on Highland Road just west of Milford Road near the Big Wheel store.

Stanley Electronics Meeting the needs of the 90's

More than 40 years ago, Stanley Electronics began as a company with a single product invented in an old schoolhouse. Today, the company has grown into a leading electronics manufacturer. Realizing trends and growth opportunities, Stanley Electronics continues to grow today.

As a result of nearly a half-century of dedication to the field of wireless technology. Stanley Electronics has designed the RSVP Series—a new wireless security system for homeowners. The RSVP System provides many of the advantages of a fully monitored and supervised system but at a much lower cost.

With a variety of different components, the RSVP System lets professional dealers customize a system to meet the varying needs of homeowners. These include a motion sensor which warns against intruders, a wireless smoke detector, a number of different window/door sensors, plus a keychain transmitter which allows you to remotely arm and disarm the system. In addition, Stanley's light control interface package allows specific house lights to act as indicators of the system status.

With its built-in computer technology, this security system can help reduce service calls because the professional dealer can evaluate many problems and even set system parameters from a remote or distant location, such as the dealers place of business.

"The RSVP Series was planned with the needs of the 1990 homeowner in mind and we're excited to see it finally hit the consumer market," said David J. Schiavolin, Sales and Marketing Manager. "We wanted to make a system that is affordable and easy to use and I think we've done exactly that."

The New RSVP System is not the only product technology that Stanley Electronics manufactures. The company is widely known as a leading producer of radio and logic controls for automatic garage doors; wireless radio controls for security systems; plus an array of specialty applications, such as remote controls used by television weathermen, vehicle lifts for the handicapped, remote automatic car starters, steering devices for fishing boats, and even some computer games contain Stanley components.

Founded in 1947 in Hazel Park as Multi-Products Company, the company was instrumental in the development of a design for a remote radio control for the growing garage door operator market. Then as Multi-Elmac Company, growth continued with expanded capabilities and products and the company emerged as a leading designer and manufacturer of electronic equipment found in stereos, televisions and many other electronic products used in homes, factories and stores everyday.

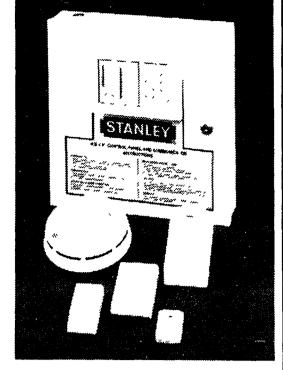

In 1974, Multi-Elmac company was purchased by The Stanley Works and moved its headquarters to its present location at 22700 Heslip Drive in Novi, Michigan. The division name was officially changed to Stanley Electronics in 1988.

In the 50,000 square feet Novi headquarters, Stanley Electronics employs more than 200 residents from Novi and surrounding communities. Stanley is one of the most automated businesses in the area, producing billions of pieces of electronic components every year. The company also has a sales office and distribution center in Orange, California.

"Our employees are our customers. This makes them our most valuable asset," said Al Pieper, President and General Manager. "They see our products everyday enabling them to give quality product suggestions. We have extensive employee involvement programs to guarantee that we are producing the products consumers need.

A long-standing member of the community, Stanley Electronics supports Novi and its surrounding neighbors. "We feel we must give something back to a community that gives so much to us," said Pieper. The company maintains an extensive program of charitable involvements and fundraising activities. "We are proud to be able to contribute to such important charities like Focus Hope, the Goodfellows and the Novi Police Officers Association for Summer Education and Recreation." Pieper added.

"Stanley supports Lawrence Technological Institute by supplying electronic equipment to the college and contributing to their Capital Fund Drive. We also sponsor a day at the Channel 56 Auction. One of our most rewarding activities has been helping the underprivileged children in downtown Detroit by supporting the "Build A Dream" project in which our employees supplied tools and manpower to help build a school playground."

"It is imperative that Stanley be an active member of the community. Our involvement affects every component of our business. It not only maintains a positive work environment, but helps maintain the quality of life throughout the community," Pieper stated.

FRED A. CASTERLINE - RAY J. CASTERLINE II

Northville area families have had the benefit of assistance from the Casterline family in time of trouble for three generations.

Ray Casterline established Casterline Funeral Home at 122 W. Dunlap in Northville in 1937. He was followed by his son, Fred, who retired in 1980. Ray, II, "always helped out" at the funeral home and has been a licensed funeral director for 20 years.

It's a sensitive business, Ray says, "where you become a good judge of people and of what approach to funeral arrangements will suit them."

Pre-planning is an option that eases the burden for many people. Ray acquired his life insurance license last year in order to offer a pre-planning strategy called the Forethought Plan.

It works this way: a person chooses the services he wants for his own funeral arrangements and prices them at today's costs. He purchases a life insurance policy for that amount. The policy guarantees that the chosen arrangements will be paid for regardless of their price at the time of death.

"It's reassuring emotionally and financially for people to know that everything is taken care of," Ray says, "in many cases long term health care costs have depleted a persons savings to the point where state assistance is required. The Forethought program is set up in such a way to be protected and will not effect the amount of assistance the state provides".

Funeral arrangements are basically the same today as they have always been-visitation and service often followed by cemetary burial--but regulations concerning pricing have improved customer knowledge.

"People are much more aware of the variety of services provided by a funeral director now," Ray says. "But many people didn't want to know exactly what those services were and choose among them. It's a difficult time to force decisions on people."

There's been a change for the better in the public's attitude toward funeral directors and their business over the last few years, Ray says.

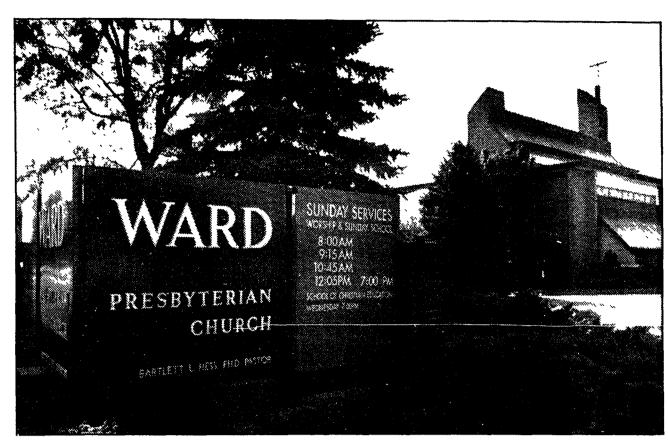

"The profession has opened up more, too, and as a result, we have quite a few young people, especially from churches, coming through the home on tours. It helps to remove the mystique associated with the profession. We answer questions and help change some of the very strange impressions young people

Diversified economy top challenge

Responses were prepared by Jervis H. Webb, executive vice president of the Jervis B. Webb Company, which engineers, manufactures and installs material handling systems for warehousing, manufacturing and distributing operations.

QUESTION 1: What are the major challenges facing the business community in Southeast Michigan during the next decade?

I believe the major challenges facing the business community during the next decade will be the continuing effect to diversify our local economy, and upgrade our job training programs and educational system.

QUESTION 2: How can these challenges be addressed? What needs to be done?

Speaking from the manufacturing sector, southeast Michigan needs to continue to broaden its economic 200 Progress/August 20, 1990 base by recruiting new businesses. In addition, existing manufacturers have to continue to look for new markets to sell their products.

With the economic restructuring of Europe, the opening of Eastern European markets and the opening ongoing trade between Pacific Rim countries and the United States, local businesses (if they haven't already) will soon be forced to look at the global marketplace, which should offer some favorable market opportunities.

As far as education is concerned, we need to keep providing job training skills for our exsisting workforce, so our plants can remain competitive with other industrial nations.

Business needs to be more involved in our public school system. Better communication between business leaders and educators is essential. I think businesses will become more involved in partnerships, coops, intern programs, seminars, etc., to help ensure quality education for our children.

QUESTION 3: What role does local government play in this process?

A very important role. I would like to see local government form a strategic plan that would incorporate education, economic and urban growth, law enforcement, etc., and commit to it. With local government working together with the business community, a lot of programs could be successfully implemented.

QUESTION 4: How important are "quality of life" issues to the success of the business community during the 1990s?

Quality of life issues are playing major roles in the success of the business community. Recently, more and more businesses are offering new employee benefits, such as flex time, job sharing and new job training skills. By providing these benefits, business helps to ensure its success through happy, productive employees.

QUESTION 5: What are the primary advantages and disadvantages of doing business in southeast Michigan?

Advantages of doing business in southeast Michigan include a skilled workforce, good manufacturing base, transportation infrastructure (especially with the proposed Metro Airport expansion) and the growing concentration of high-tech and research companies.

Disadvantages include high crime rates in certain communities, high business taxes and high energy.

Jervis H. Webb is executive vice president of the Jervis B. Webb Company, which operates a major facility in Lyon Township

QUESTION 6: Is public education adequately preparing people to enter the work force of the 1990s?

No, I think that the education problem is a national crisis, not just here in southeast Michigan. As I mentioned earlier, business/community education partnerships can help ensure quality education for students.

QUESTION 7: Following the recession/depression of the first half of the 1980s, state government launched a campaign to improve business conditions in the state. To what extent has that campaign been successful? What still needs to be done?

The state has accomplished some positive things, such as promoting tourism and emphasizing recruitment of new business to Michigan.

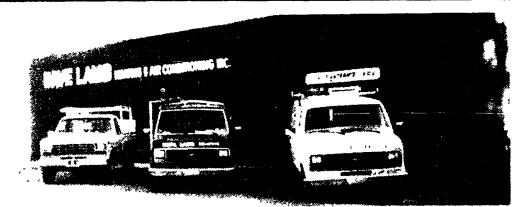

However, we still have high business tax, high unemployment insurance and high workman's compensation cost. Looking at these statistics scares off many businesses considering relocation here. The state government still has to improve on these business conditions.

QUESTION 8: What kind of economic climate do you expect in southeast Michigan in the 1990s?

I believe the economic climate will be favorable to southeast Michigan during the 1990s. One reason is that global trade opportunities are increasing dramatically. I think southeast Michigan is in a good position to capitalize on the opening of Eastern Europe and the Soviet Union.

Our quality has improved steadily every year to where we can now compete with Japan and Western Europe. Our local economy is becoming more diverse, opening new markets and opportunities for business. Although economic growth may not be as dramatic as in the 1980s, the next 10 years and be a decade of defining growth for southeast Michigan businesses.

New look enhances an evening of harness racing

A $1 million renovation of the grandstand building and remodeling of the track will greet the fans of Northville Downs harness racing at post time on October 15th.

"This will be the track of the future," says manager Marge Zaytı.

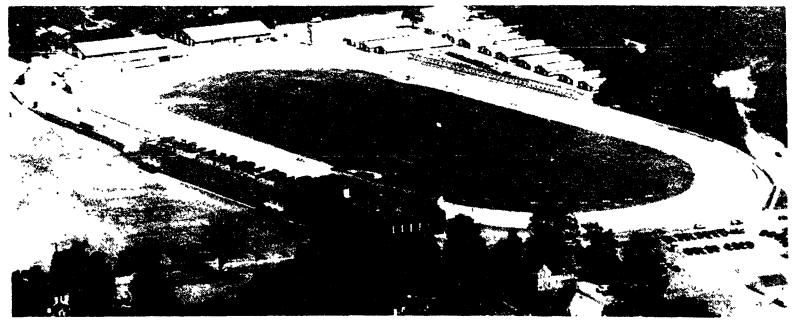

A completely renovated grandstand building brings the facility to state-of-the-art condition. Individual TV monitors accompany each box seat group and padded comfort seats have replaced metal seats in the reserved seat section.

"And we have re-worked the track itself to raise the level of degree in the turns," Zayti says. "That allows for a faster and safer track" -- faster for the fans' enjoyment, yet safer for the horses.

These major improvements maintain Northville Downs' premier position in harness racing in Michigan and throughout the midwest.

It was 1944 when a small group of New York businessmen decided to try an experiment -- placing bets on harness horses was a new idea. They leased the small Center Street fairgrounds used to train horses for Michigan fairs.

"Northville Downs is the original," Zayti says. "It's where it all began. The whole harness industry grew from the 35 days granted to those New Yorkers to prove their idea. One of them was John Carlo. He stayed in the racing business at Northville until he died in 1986.*

During that first year -- 1944 -- bread was eight cents a loaf, the minimum bet cost $2 and a total of $1-plus million was wagered at Northville Downs. This year, $83 million was placed on bets, but the minimum bet is still $2.

"The best horses in the world have raced at Northville Downs," Zayti says, and the track continues to be the focal point of harness racing in the midwest. Nearly all the horses are Michigan owned and 600 are housed in Northville Downs' stables with the remainder at neighboring farms.

Harness racing is seasonal, running from October to April, six nights a week for a total of 144 racing days. Ten races are run each night beginning at 7:30 p.m. and continuing until about midnight.

About 5,000 people come through the doors on a Saturday night to find an enjoyable evening's entertainment in the huge three-tiered clubhouse. Concessions stands line the first tier with the cocktail lounge on the sec-

Gambling is adult entertainment, and children under 12 are not allowed into the track. Some of the gambling includes win, place, and show, and a daily double.

Award Winning Builder Stresses Quality

Clients looking for a general contracting firm that can handle a building project from the very first design idea to the last piece of landscaping need look no further than Schonsheck, Inc.

"We can handle it all-manage the whole project from beginning to end," explained Lori Schonsheck, marketing director for the firm.

Schonsheck is a Wixom-based, full-service design/build general contractor that manages projects from start to finish, from site selection studies and engineering to final construction.

"With the design/build concept, firm prices are established for the total construction project to the completion of the working drawing," said lan W. Schonsheck, P.E., president of Schonsheck, Inc. "This eliminates redesigning of the project if it's over budget, and generally results in saving two months' time in a typical project."

Or, Schonsheck can handle any segment of the project, working with other contractors as selected by the client.

The firm was started by its president, lan Schonsheck, who brings to the job 18 years of experience in management, sales and the engineering of design/build, industrial and commercial projects. Ian holds a bachelor's degree in construction engineering from Lawrence Institute of Technology and is a licensed professional engineer.

For the past five years, Schonsheck's success has earned it a national *1 million sales award from Ceco Building Division, supplier of pre-engineered structures to Schonsheck.

In addition to quantity, Schonsheck also works for quality by enhancing its structures with appealing brick and glass facades, bold curves and attractive colors. Schonsheck's commitment to quality is reflected in its 1989 Best Industrial Building Award from Ceco for the DAPCO building in Dexter, Mich.

A majority of Schonsheck's work is repeat business from customer referrals. An example is a new facility for La-Z-Boy Showcase Shoppes recently completed in Sterling Heights, Mich.

Schonsheck has 14 projects currently under construction including a 175,000 square foot office and manufacturing building for Pure-Pak, Inc. in Lyon Township, Mich., a 40,000 square foot facility for Excelda Manufacturing Co. in Brighton, and a 25,000 square foot office and manufacturing facility for Oaks Precast Industries in Milford Township.

Ground was recently broken for a 33,073 square foot multi-tenant facility for Lowry Technology Park located in Brighton, and construction is currently being scheduled for a 30,300 square foot manufacturing facility for NLB Corporation in Wixom.

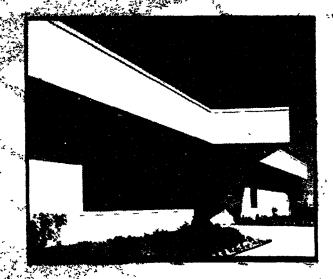

Schonsheck has been involved with an estimated 25 industrial and commercial projects this year with a total sales value of approximately $15 million.

"We'll work with clients from the time they purchase the land until construction is completed," lan said.

Some recently completed projects include a 63,000 square foot facility for L.T.C. Roll & Engineering in Clinton Township, a 16,600 square foot office and manufacturing facility for Dimango Products Corporation in Brighton, a 10,000 square foot furniture store for Jimmles Rustics in Novi, and a 10,000 square foot office and trucking facility for Pilot Transport in Brighton.

QUESTION 1: What are the major challenges facing the business community in southeast Michigan during the next decade?

People . . . finding enough qualifled young adults who are willing to work and learn. The problem used to be not having enough job slots for the entry-level employee. There are so many jobs in our market area it's difficult to get and retain sufficient employees.

Along with finding enough employees, the cost of doing business is rising so fast its out of control. I'll list just a few:

- A. Health Insurance
- B. Minimum Wage
- C. Slip and Fall Law Suits
- D. Trash Removal
- E. Utilities
- F. Repairs and Maintenance
- G. Store Supplies
- H. Professional Fees

- I. Trucking Expense
- J. Bad Checks
- K. Theft

QUESTION 2: How can these challenges be addressed? What needs to be done?

For our specific challenges we have set-up a constant checklist of expenses and a system to monitor the people who use them. Also last year we created an in-house personnel director for all three stores-selecting good people and keeping them has become very important to us.

QUESTION 3: What role does local government play in this process?

Our local government(s) needs to work closely with each other to ensure a "blend" of growth that will benefit both South Lyon and Lyon Township-without cooperation neither side will benefit from what will come in the 1990's.

QUESTION 4: How important are "quality of life" issues to the success of the business community during the 1990s?

Putting the job first was very important as far back as I can remember, but moving through the 1980's and '90's, it has become very important for us to realize that our employees' families come first and their job second.

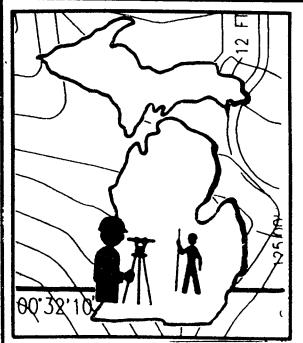

QUESTION 5: What are the primary advantages and disadvantages of doing business in southeast Michigan?

Advantages: I think Southeast Michigan has a growing market with consumers having a positive attitude making the business climate very good.

Disadvantages: Taxes are high, but you get what you pay for—I'd rather pay higher taxes and do business in Southeast Michigan than pay lower taxes and do no business.

QUESTION 6: Is public education adequately preparing people to enter the work force of the 1990s?

I believe it is more a societal issue—parents, in general, not teaching their children that same work ethic we were taught. There seems to be a lack of responsibility regarding very basic things; respect for authority, working hard, being on time etc. When we find an employee who is dependable, it's magic. Yes, there are employees out there—we just have to find them.

de destion 7: Following the recession de the first half of the 1980s, state government launched a campaign to improve business conditions in the state. To what extent has that campaign been successful? What still needs to be done?

Michigan has improved the business climate. But if you look around our market area of a 15-mile radius, you tend to see the same kind of retail over and over. I think we are over-retailed for this area, possibly the customer base might reach the current business base in three to five years.

QUESTION 8: What kind of economic climate do you expect in southeast Michigan in the 1990s?

During the next 10 years we will experience the largest growth we have ever seen. I look for all positive effects of an expanding economic climate. The property of the proper Champion Chevrolet/Geo celebrated its first year of business in Brighton June 27-30 by holding its 1st Anniversary Show and Sale, announced Len Nadolski, owner and general manager of the dealership.

"We want to thank the public for giving us the opportunity to serve them this year," Nadolski said.

"If it weren't for our customers, we couldn't celebrate the progress we've made this year," he said.

Since Nadolski took over the dealership last summer, sales have increased 38 percent. "And that's in a down market. Automobile sales are down 20 percent," Nadolski said

Because of the increased sales activity, Nadolski has hired 10 additional staff members to insure his customers' needs are met.

Bill Lott is the newest member of Champion Chevrolet's sales team.

"Bill's a strong salesperson. He's been a salesman in Brighton for about 10 years. He's a great addition to our experienced sales force."

Nadolski said while the dealership has made a great deal of progress in its first year of business, "we're going to keep striving to give our customers the best service. "Customer satisfaction is our number one priority," he said.

As part of that commitment, Nadolski said he's placing more emphasis on improving the service department. While over the past year service department business has increased 32%, he said he wants to offer quicker and better service.

"If you don't have a good service department, you don't have a good dealership Nadolski said.

"We're adding a brand new position — a quality control expert. This person will drive each vehicle after it's been repaired to make sure the work was done properly and completely.

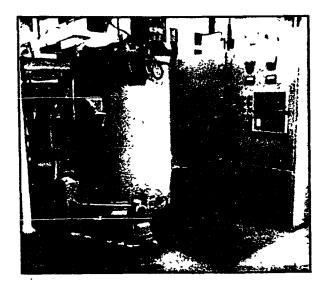

"We want to take some of the inconvenience out of servicing a car," he said. A night drop box whereby customers can drop off their vehicles for repairs the next day and safely leave their keys in a night drop off box.

In the near future Nadolski is planning on building a new, larger, modern facility to service the growing Brighton area. "We're in the planning stages now to service the community better," he said.

Proper heat treatment by SUN was mainly responsible for extending the life of a spade drill four times; for increasing the life of a tractor link punch three times; for bringing about a new dimension of broaching performance by adding more strength and minimizing warpage on broaching tools; for increasing high speed steel form tool life in some plants to a degree that lathe production was increased 300 percent.

Good heat treating takes time as well as know-how. A onceover-lightly process may be less expensive initially, but when total costs are considered, such as scrap rate, in-process distortion, stability, and tool life factors, experienced SUN heat treatment customized to your part helps assure consistent performance.

SEMCOG forecasts more growth

Beneficial Williams

The past five years have seen Milford, Milford Township, Novi, Northville, Northville Township, South Lyon and Lyon Township all experience healthier economic conditions than those of the early 1980's, and all have grown from their 1980 sizes.

This summary of the past five years is merely the tip of these communities' economic iceberg, however.

According to SEMCOG (Southeast Michigan Council of Governments), all these regions will experience population, household and employment growth during the next 20 years, 28PROGRESS/August 30, 1990 with Novi leading the way.

The foundation for the bright futures projected for these communities was laid during the past five years as they recovered from the recession that hit most of the country in the early 1980's.

Part of that foundation was an increased number of building permits issued for single- and multiple-family housing along with permits for industrial and commercial land use by the respective community governments during the mid- to latter-half of the 1980's. For example, Novi went from issuing 87 permits for single family housing in 1981 to a high of 402 permits in 1985.

With the increased number of building permits being issued, residential home sales ended 1989 at much higher levels than those earier in the decade. With the exception of Milford Township, each township has had an increase in the number of home sales the past three years, with Novi and Lyon Township seeing the most rapid increases.

Average sale prices for these homes have also been on the rise for the last five years in each community except South Lyon, which experienced a small decrease in prices during 1988.

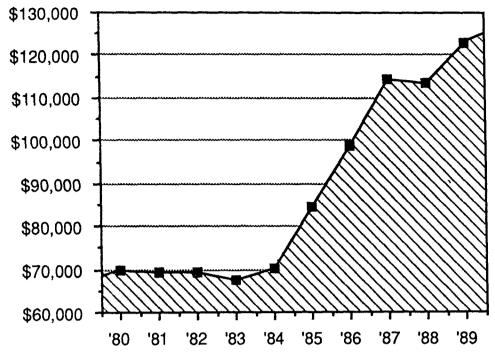

Northville Township's households hold the greatest value, tipping the scales at $159,814 apiece for the end of 1989.

School district enrollment is also up from its early 1980 lows in Northville, South Lyon and Milford. Novi has had an increase in the number of K-12 students for each of the past eight years, suffering no decline in enrollment during the early 1980's. Milford (Huron Valley Schools), however, boasts the largest K-12 enrollment among the communities, with a 1989 level of 9,034 students.

The total of real and personal State Equalized Value (SEV), half the assessed value of property, increased slowly throughout the decade in These facts and figures are the previously mentioned groundwork for the glossy predictions of growth forecast in many of the communities.

ience the greatest growth, in sheer numbers and percentages are Novi. Northville Township and Lyon Township.

Novi, with a 1990 estimated population of 32,710, is projected to add more than 18,000 residents during the next five years alone, beefing its population to greater than 50,000 people. SEMCOG predicts an absolute growth of 28,799 people in the next 20 years, to an eventual 2010 population of more than 61,000 people, an 88 percent increase from its 1990 estimate.

To house these new residents. Novi is anticipating 13.835 new households to be constructed from 1990-2010, a 107.9 percent increase from its present level.

In all, Novi is projected by the year 2010 to more than triple the 8,036 households it had in 1980.

A Member of the Novi Community for 46 Years

Michigan CAT is a proud member of the Novi Community and in 1986, we became an active member in the newly formed organization, Friends of the Rouge which was established to restore and preserve the Rouge River.

It is expected to take twenty years to clean up the Rouge River, however, this is only one of the rivers affected. Our current sewer system is making the situation even tougher to fight.

At present, seventy Michigan communities have combined sewer systems, which transport storm water and raw sewage in a single pipe. This system works adequately in dry weather but during periods of rainfall, the storm water floods the sewers and wastewater combined with sewage are discharged into nearby bodies of water.

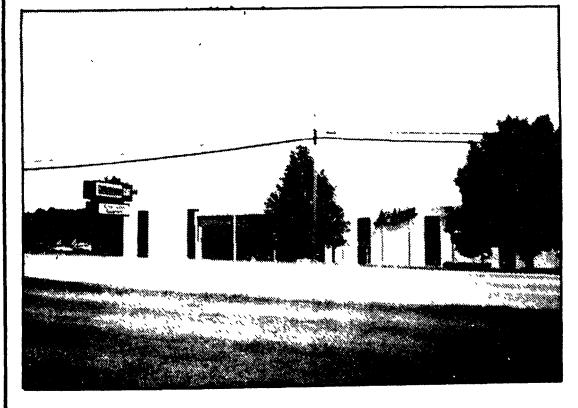

Combined sewer overflows (CSOs) are directly responsible for dumping 16 to 20 billion gallons of contaminated wastewater into Michigan's waterways each year. That equates to roughly 2,000 gallons of overflow for every man, woman, and child in the state, or enough to fill 900,000 residential swimming pools each year.

The repeated contamination of the state's waterways from CSOs produces many wide-reaching negative effects from short term illnesses to disrupting the balance of the ecosystem.

The only way to stop the destruction of our most precious resource is to separate the combined sewer systems and unite as a group to clean up the damage which has been done to our waterways.

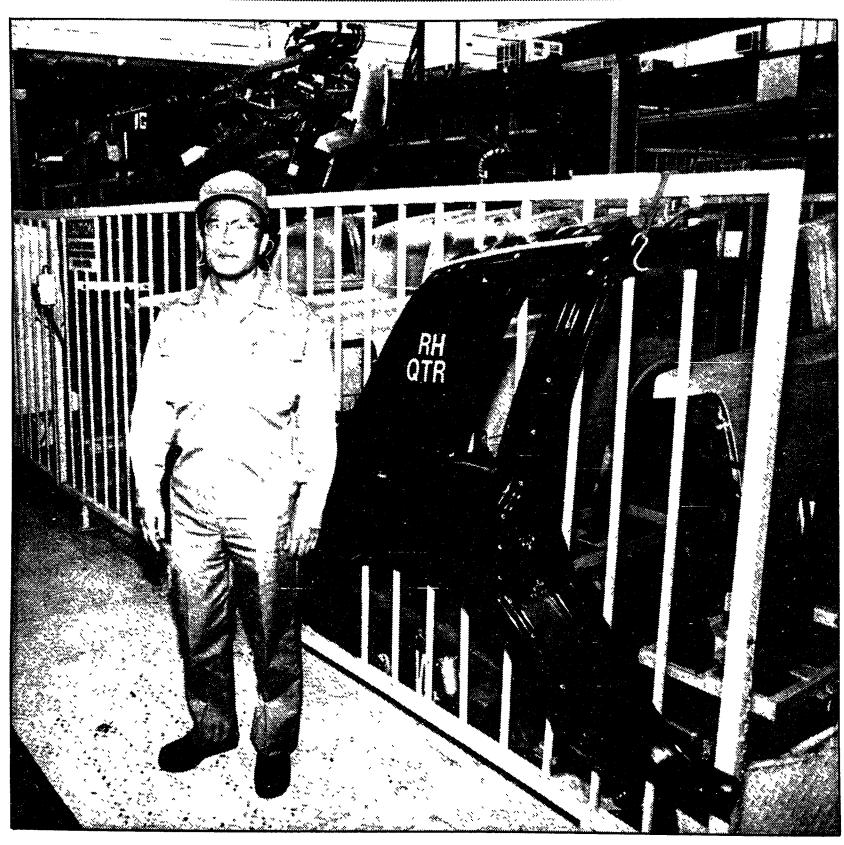

The River Rouge is littered with fallen and decayed trees. which disrupt the naural flow of the stream.

Michigan CAT has avidly pursued cleaning the Rouge River by donating their time, money and equipment. For more information on how you can help please call Friends of the Rouge at 427-1234.

Top challenge: Global competition

QUESTION 1: What are the major challenges facing the business community in Southeast Michigan during the next decade?

We see global competition as the greatest challenge facing business during the next decade. As a supplier to the automotive industry, including American and Japanese transplant companies, we are keenly aware of global competition and its effect on the survival of our company.

We are influenced by challenges not only from our existing customers for continuous improvement, but also from competitors throughout the

We have to keep abreast of global changes that are taking place which could force changes in our business plans. Businesses which do not adjust to global competition will not survive.

QUESTION 2: How can these challenges be addressed? What needs to be done?

There are three issues which must be addressed in meeting the challenge of global competition.

First, each business must know its competitors' strengths and weaknesses, both on a local and global basis. Second, a highly trained work force must be developed which can produce quality results in all phases of the business. Third, advanced technology in both methods and mchines must be utilized to maximize efficiencies.

in the strategic planning process and considered as high priorities in every business.

QUESTION 3: What role does local government play in this process?

Local government units will continue to compete against each other for business expansion within their communities. Communities which demonstrate a positive business climate by assisting and encouraging growth will be successful in obtaining new business.

Benefits of new businesses will be the creation of jobs and new tax revenues which are vital to the residents of the community.

QUESTION 4: How important are "quality of life" issues to the success of the business community during the 1990s?

Employees of a business are its greatest resource. Without the community providing a high "quality of life," businesses will be unable to attract good people.

"Quality of life" issues must be considered by the business community as they plan for the future. Business must also participate with the community to help foster that quality of life.

The increased emphasis on the family in the 1990s will continue to make this an important issue for businesses planning to expand.

QUESTION 5: What are the primary advantages and disadvantages of doing business in southeast Michigan?

Southeast Michigan provides a skilled work force with a positive work ethic and a good transportation network. The cost of doing business in Michigan continues to be higher than neighboring states which makes attracting new business more difficult.

QUESTION 6: Is public education adequately preparing people to enter the work force of the 1990s?

Advanced technology requires training and educational levels far above previous requirements. Production workers are now expected to think and improve the efficiency of their product through teamwork and recommending process improvements.

QUESTION 7: Following the recession/depression of the first half of the 1980s, state government launched a campaign to improve business conditions in the state. To what extent has that campaign been successful? What still needs to be done?

Ogihara America Corporation was formed at the beginning of the second half of the 1980s. Its success can in part be attributed to the improved business conditions in Michigan.

QUESTION 8: What kind of economic climate do you expect in southeast Michigan in the 1990s?

As stated in our response to the first question, we expect new global competition to impact the survival of many companies in southeast Michigan. While we expect strong competition, we see good opportunities for businesses that develop strategic directions to effectively deal with knowing their competition, maintaining a highly trained work force, and utilizing high technology in methods and machines.

SETTING STANDARDS FOR IT'S INDUSTRY PEAKER SERVICES BEGINS 20th YEAR

In the growing industry of rebuilding large diesel engines and railroad locomotives, there are companies bigger than Peaker Services, Inc. of Green Oak township.

But as PSI's customers will tell you, there's none better.

"From the beginning of the company twenty years ago," recalls President Dick Steele, "it was decided to follow a path of quality, not quantity. In an increasingly competitive industry, it was a good choice because today what PSI does and how it does it are regarded as standards for our industry."

PSI started in Belleville, Michigan, in June 1971 with three - Steele, Ron Brush and Ramon Scott - to service diesel generator sets owned by Detroit Edison. These "peaker" units produce electricity during peak demand periods, and are located throughout Edison's southeastern Michigan service area.

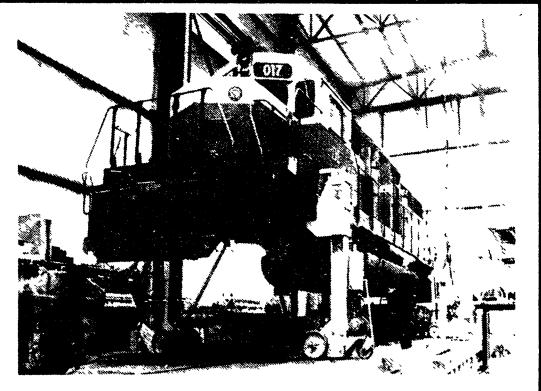

PSI offered Edison 24-hour, on-call service, reducing the utility's out-of-service rate from about 25% to 5%.

"It seemed logical that Detroit Edison should ask us to maintain their fleet of diesel locomotives that bring coal from West Virginia to generating plants in Michigan. The engines in these locomotives are very similar to those in the peakers," said Steele.

PSI continues servicing DE's locomotive fleet, but also provides parts and does work for many smaller railroads and industrial railroad operations as well as large systems such as Union Pacific and Amtrack. "Amtrack needs dependability from their locomotives, and we're giving them that," Steele noted.

Today, PSI has over 60 employees at its Green Oak plant - a plant opened in 1978 and expanded in 1984 - but does work throughout the United States as well as overseas. The company's technicians have worked in the Middle East, Central Africa, England, Samoa and on the islands of Siapan, Hawaii, and Guam.

The PSI field service group maintains and repairs diesel engines on huge Great Lakes freighters and peaker units worldwide.

"Customers often ask how a growing company like ours can maintain consistent high quality in our products and services," said Steele. "Well, it comes down to this. As president of the company I'm responsible for the products. But more important, I'm responsible for the system that produces high quality of our products and services.

Everyone nere knows that PSI was built and has prospered on a reputation for quality work. Our continued growth depends on improving our processes and constantly monitoring our quality. We look at increasing customer satisfaction as a result of our improved quality. If PSI is to grow, it'll be the result of improvement in our quality."

Scott A. Lowery, CPA, PC CPA Firm Tailors Services to Meet Needs of Small Businesses

More than 50 years of experience lies behind every service ofered. That's the combined length of time Scott Lowery and his staff have furnished businesses and individuals with accounting, tax and various financial consulting services.

Over that period the firm has developed a specialty for tailoring these services to small businesses. "Small family owned businesses are of particular interest to me," says Scott. "They have their own unique financial needs not found in larger companies. I get a lot of enjoyment from servicing these needs and watching them grow."

The firm is able to keep in touch with these small business needs at close range as it is located just outside of Northville, at 18600 Northville Rd., in Northville Township. As a Northville Township resident himself, Scott is able to gain even further insight. "Being personally located close to town, I naturally frequent the Northville Businesses," Scott says. "Participating on the customer side of the counter simply enhances my understanding of their business. It also provides me with satisfaction knowing that I'm supporting the community I live and work in.

The firm's experience with small businesses extends to many different industries. These include retail, manufacturing, construction trades, medical/dental, restaurant, hotel/motel, real estate and insurance agents, real estate development, non-profit and various others,."This is one of the reasons why I like what I do so much," says Scott. "Being involved in so many types of businesses keeps our work interesting and challenging."

Years of involvement with different businesses has led to the firm's development of its many services. Fully computerized general ledger processing and financial statement preparation are the foundation of the accounting practice. Tax return preparation for corporations, partnerships and individuals is performed on-site with state-of-the-art tax software. "We take pride in our commitment to quality," Scott says. "Bringing all of our computerized tax processing in-house last year played a big role on that commitment."

Financial consulting services are a heavily emphasized and growing part of the practice. Accounting system design and implementation, business buy/sell consulting, business succession planning, personal financial and estate planning and general business consulting are the prinary services offered. "Through this consulting we can help our clients increase their income accumulation and minimize income taxes at the same time," says Scott. "This is where we can benefit them the most!"

For further information, contact Scott Lowery at 313-348-7575.
