Fumes investigated

Environmental Protection Agency employees are helped out of contaminant-proof suits after investigating an abandoned building on Wayne County land off Five Mile and Sheldon last Wednesday. The EPA determined that decomposing batteries and open barrels of caustic agents were causing toxic fume emissions. The EPA ordered Wayne County to contract an immediate cleanup of the site. Barrels were being removed Friday afternoon.

Woman reports assault in city hotel

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

Northville City police are investigating a reported assault and battery at the Wagon Wheel Lounge Hotel.

A Garden City woman told police that a 31-year-old Northville man dragged her to his room at the hotel the night of Aug. 26 and stripped her before throwing her out of the room.

She said the two had been drinking since 11 p.m., though not together, and that she had returned to his apartment to sleep. But when she got to the parking lot, she said, he grabbed her by the hair and dragged her up the rear stairs of the hotel and into his room. She told police he forced her to the floor and took her clothes off.

But when she kicked him, she said, he threw her out of the apartment undressed.

She said he eventually threw some clothes out to her in the hallway.

The woman told police the man punched her twice in the arm during the attack. But the man told police he never touched her. He said she came to his room and "started problems," the police report read.

Both subjects were "very intoxicated and confused as to what actually happened," according to the report.

Township must make cuts to balance budget

By MIKE TYREE
Staff Writer

Northville Township's $3.7-million 1991 preliminary budget exceeds anticipated revenues by approximately $400,000 and must be pared, Supervisor Georgina Goss said Thursday.

Goss said a budget deficit of $101,977 is projected for the ending fund balance, based on figures presented to the township board in an Aug. 30 special session.

In a letter to the board, Goss said a four-member budget review committee would be charged with providing the board a balanced budget by the Nov. 1 budget adoption deadline.

"The proposed budget as prepared by the department heads does not meet my requirements for a balanced budget and prudent fiscal planning," Goss said.

"I urge the budget review committee to carefully review all expenditure requests and to recommend the discontinuance, elimination or reduction of programs or purchases that do not have clear economic justification," she added.

Goss would not say what programs should be reduced or eliminated. She said those decisions would be placed in the hands of the budget review committee.

Goss named township residents John Sassaman, Frank St. Louis and Wes Henrikson to a budget review committee to be chaired by Treasurer Betty Lennox.

"My only charge is for them to bring the board a balanced budget," Goss said. "I would suggest they look at any departments that have more than a normal cost of living increase (over last year)."

The preliminary budget was compiled by Finance Director James Graham from estimated expenditures provided by township department heads.

Department expenditures range from $1.6 million budgeted by the police department to $1,050 requested by township constables.

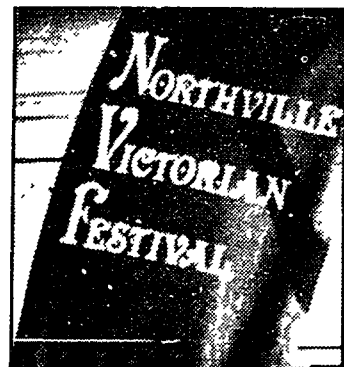

The township preliminary budget includes expected revenues from five sources, Graham said. Property taxes account for more than $1.5 million in revenue.

State sources make up nearly $1 million in revenue, with building department revenues; fees, interest and sundry items; and licensing and enforcement following in order of anticipated revenue.

An expected loss of building department revenues accounted for a reduction in anticipated funds from 1990 to 1991.

Last year, more than $446,000 was budgeted as expected building department revenue. It is estimated

The Victorian Festival committee is seeking money for more banners

Township rejects funding

The township board Thursday denied a Northville Community Chamber of Commerce request for $2,000 to help fund the Victorian Festival.

Board members told Chamber President John Sassaman a Victorian Festival donation was not a 1989-90 budgeted item and financial constraints prevented them from anteing funds for the celebration Sept. 14-16.

"We lost a couple of (millage) elections back-to-back (that) gives us concern to be extraordinarily thrifty," said Trustee James Nowka. "I'd be inclined to support (the festival), but it's a terrible time for the chamber to come before us."

Trustee Donald Williams agreed with Nowka.

"I keep thinking we lost the library and the fire millage," he said. "I don't see how we can afford $2,000 realizing how the taxpayers feel."

Northville City Council members narrowly passed an identical chamber request Aug. 20. But the city's $2,000 pledge was contingent on township board approval.

Sassaman told the board the funds would pay for Victorian Festival banners to be placed around the community. He said the festival was not a chamber fund-raising event and stressed its importance to the community.

"It's a means of bringing the community together," he said.

Former Northville Township resident Kevin Bazner was shown last week on Iraqi TV — later transmitted elsewhere — in a meeting between Saddam Hussein and several western hostages being held in Iraq. Bazner was heard asking the Iraqi leader to release the women and children being held against their will.

VICTORIAN BALL TICKETS — Tickets for the second annual Victorian Costume Ball at Mill Race Village are still available.

The ticket price includes a set of authentic Victorian dances with an instructor to help out; a supper prepared by Edwards Caterer; an open bar; and everyone's best Victorian finery.

The ball is Saturday evening, Sept. 15. Tickets are $50 each. They are available at Edwards or at the Northville Community Chamber of Commerce office. The chamber accepts Visa and Mastercard. For more information call the chamber at 349-7640.

BOX LUNCH FUND-RAISER — This year's Victorian Festival will include an old-fashioned picnic and celebrity box lunch auction.

Northville's area council of PTAs will sponsor the auction as a district fund-raiser, which is chaired by Margaret Surdu. About 50 local (and not so local) celebrities are planning their box lunches in hat boxes, picnic baskets, pails or the like with various themes representing the donors' hobbies or careers.

The list of celebrities ranges from state, city and township officials to school board members and school administrators. Several restaurants in town, including Edward's, Genitti's, and MacKinnon's, will also be donating box lunches.

The picnic will feature games for the entire family. The auction will take place at noon Sunday, Sept. 16.

CHEERLEADING TRYOUTS SLATED — Seventh-, eighth- and ninth-graders interested in cheerleading may attend the first tryout clinic, from 3:30 to 5:30 p.m. Tuesday, Sept. 11 in the Northville High School activity center.

The necessary skills will be taught at the clinic, along with distribution of permission slips, health forms, and tryout requirements. Two more clinics will be held to perfect skills from 3:30-5:30 p.m. Thursday and Friday, Sept. 13-14.

Tryouts will be held Saturday, Sept. 15, beginning at 9 a.m.

Proper practice attire — sweats, shorts, T-shirts, and tennis shoes — should be worn. Positions will be filled for the Meads Mill and Cooke middle school seventh- and eighth-grade squads, along with the freshman squad for Northville High School.

FREY LIKE THE WIND

Northville's Andy Frey was a key participant for the Rollins College Water Ski squad that grabbed the national championship last season.

Frey, a wrestling standout at Northville High School, is entering his junior season this fall at Rollins, located in Winterpark, Fla. As a sophomore, Frey competed in slalom and jump for Rollins and has been named a team captain for this coming season.

"Andy did well in his studies as well as in skiing," his father, Larry Frey said. "It's quite a different atmosphere for him down there, but he's adjusted well. He's really enjoyed it and he's looking forward to going back."

NOVI TENNIS TOURNAMENT

Novi Parks and Recreation sponsors a Youth Singles Tennis Tournament on Aug. 18 at the Novi High School Tennis Courts. There were two divisions: boys 14 and under and boys 15-17.

Ty Fowler won the 14-and-under competition with a 6-2, 7-5 triumph over Joe Scappaticci.

Winner of the boys 15-17 division was Jasen DeGillio. He beat Matt Pierle 6-2, 6-3 in the semifinals and then dropped Chris McCreedy 6-4, 4-6, 6-4 in the finals.

McGREW UPDATE

Novi's Mark McGrew finished in the top-24 at the Boys 14 National Championships held in San Antonio, Tex., earlier this month.

MONDAY EDUCATION

Study shows kids still gender-biased

By TIM RICHARD
Staff Writer

LANSING -- "OK, for this one," the interviewer told the children. "I'm going to ask you to put your heads down and close your eyes, so the answers can't be a secret. Ready?"

"How many of the girls here have wanted to be boys?" Some 42 hands went up.

"How many of the boys here have wanted to be girls?" Only four hands went up. On top of that, the boys laughed, hooted, snickered or acted outraged at the question.

The scene occurred across Michigan last year as the state Department of Education's Office for Sex Equity surveyed 438 students from kindergarten through 12th grade. Rural, urban and suburban students were quizzed. Another 1,100 wrote essays.

Gender bias is alive and well, the report showed. Both sexes strongly believe boys are treated differently — usually but not always better — than girls.

Girls are seen as having more limited opportunities for jobs and advancement, a report to the State Board of Education said.

"School districts throughout the state share the goals of equity and the realization of all human potential. It would appear that these goals remain unachieved," Dr. Eugene Cain concluded at the end of 11 pages of text and quotations.

The state board received the text last week but has yet to discuss it.

The bad news, said Cain: "Compared to earlier findings, even greater percentages of students link gender with jobs."

The good news: "The only change from the earlier study was a 7 percent decrease in the percentage of students who reported teachers treated female and male students differently."

Some 58 percent said boys and girls are treated differently in class. "Boys are expected to be disruptive and tough and are disciplined more severely than girls, even when girls commit an identical transgression," Cain found. Many male science teachers favored boys, the kids said.

Half the students said there are different policies,

A recent study revealed that kids still think boys are treated differently from girls rules, rituals and traditions for boys and girls. Boys are expected to be bad and tough, so they're punished more quickly. A school was reported to have a different "no fighting" policy for boys and girls. In another school, girls were excused from gym class 10 minutes early to allow more time to "do their hair."

Ninety percent said boys are better in some classes, girls in others. Boys' subjects are gym, math, science and shop — "a girl would burst into tears if she broke her nail" in shop, one boy said. Girls' subjects are music, art, English, languages, typing and home economics.

"All sports" were seen as male domains, except maybe figure skating, jumping rope and cheerleading. One boy's opinion: "If a guy plays the flute, he's a fag."

The gender stereotyping showed up strongly in job labeling.

There were 19 female jobs: "waitress, secretary, nurse, telephone operator, art teacher, music teacher, maid, cashier, have babies, beautician, elementary teacher, doctor, First Lady, librarian, laundress, take alimony."

There were 45 male jobs, including: "lawyer, police, news anchor, manager, stockbroker, rock singer, President, 'higher level' teachers, scientist, doctor, principal, rapist, being in wars, pay alimony."

The essay question, posed to 1,098 students, was: "If you awakened tomorrow and discovered that you were the opposite sex, how would life be different?"

Girls said they would "not have to worry about getting pregnant" and have sex "and not get called a whore," but they also would be taken more seriously and given more opportunities in jobs and school.

Few boys saw any advantage to being girls, other than "crying your way out of traffic tickets," not paying for dates and getting in trouble less.

Many boys said they would contemplate suicide at the humiliation of waking up female. Said one: "I would stab myself in the heart 50 times . . . If I were still alive, I would run in front of a huge semi in 18th gear and have my brains smashed to Jell-o."

All students believe personal appearance is highly important to girls. Boys saw an advantage to being able to look scruffy. Said one boy: "If I were beautiful (as a girl), I'd continually have to fend off men; if I were ugly, I'd have to take their putdowns . . ."

Another summed it up: "Women ain't got the same rights in some things."

For this school year, here's hoping

Our children start school Tuesday. Some school districts already are open. What would you like to see happen or not happen in schools this year?

My desire is that:

- Homework is not assigned as punishment or busywork.
- Parents think twice when their son or daughter who is getting C's and D's says, "I don't have any homework."
- Grades are not used to control classroom behavior by giving the B student a C because the teacher doesn't like his/her looks or attitude.
- Students who are eligible for advanced placement classes, i.e., advanced placement English, not opt for regular classes to avoid competing with the school's brightest students while looking for an easy A or B.
- Parents who know their children should be in advanced placement classes don't encourage them to be in regular classes to maintain a high grade point average. A grade point average is inevitably re-calculated by college admission officers who take into consideration the challenge and competition of advanced placement classes vs. regular classes anyway.

- Teachers not punish the entire class for the misbehavior of one or two students and that teachers recognize that using peers to discipline other students only results in a disrespect of the teacher by the whole class.
- Parents will promise to believe only half of what their son or daughter says about their teachers this year if the teachers promise to believe only half of what students say about the parents.
- High school teachers will not blame the poor preparation of some students entirely on the middle school teachers. And the middle school teachers will not entirely blame the upper elementary teachers who will not totally blame the lower elementary teachers who will not blame the parents who tend to blame each other.
- Students who don't master certain concepts are given the opportunity to restudy and to be re-tested until mastery occurs rather than receiving a poor letter grade.

- Teachers remember that no matter how obnoxious a student may be, that a child is a parent's most precious possession.
- Administrators who bury themselves in paperwork, meetings and conferences take time to visit teachers in their classroom, because that's where it's all at.
- High school teachers remember the nervousness of the ninth grader on his/her first day in the "big" high school. And that the sixth grade teachers remember that the study they are getting had only one teacher all day long in the fifth grade and now have to deal with several different personalities during the six or seven periods of a middle school day.

New Cooke school earns high marks

By MAUREEN NASZRADI
Staff Writer

The halls of Cooke Middle School were crowded with curious students and parents Tuesday.

An open house provided an opportunity to see the building after months of preparation to reopen it tomorrow for 400 of the Northville school district's sixth, seventh and eighth graders.

Cooke Principal Jeffrey Radwanski, wearing one of the newly printed Cooke T-shirts, welcomed children and parents. For the hour the school was open, he distributed maps and a teaching assignment list, answered a lot of questions and received many compliments.

Teachers, board of education members and Superintendent George Bell also circulated. Teachers' names were posted above classroom doors to help pupils locate where they will report tomorrow.

"I think it's important that they informally get comfortable with their surroundings," Radwanski said.

The middle school's size — larger than the elementaries — can be intimidating, he said. Future Cooke sixth graders from now on will be invited to a similar open house, he added.

In addition to the many adults and children who walked from their nearby homes to the school, cars nearly filled the parking lots and lined the driveway onto Taft Road.

PTSA President Gerri Reese said she had expected a large turnout. "All the kids have not seen the school yet," she said, "so they were anxious to see it, to check out where they'll be and get familiar."

Radwanski added, "The middle school parents are as excited about the open as the kids."

"They've waited five years for this building to reopen."

Megs Beller is one of the parents who is happy to see the middle school close to home reopen. The timing was perfect, she said.

Her second-oldest daughter finished eighth grade at Cooke the year the junior high closed in 1985. Beller said, and now the school reopened just in time for her youngest, Thomas, to attend sixth grade there.

Radwanski said he heard a lot of enthusiastic comments about the building's appearance, new computers and Cooke T-shirts.

Several PTSA members took orders for the black-and-red T-shirts, jackets, sweatshirts and sweatpants emblazoned with the school name.

Reese said the clothes are one way to generate school spirit. School-wide Spirit Week is scheduled to start Sept. 24.

The PTSA's main fund-raiser will be held for two weeks in October, Reese said. The group will sell $9 Spree coupon books, which include discounts for fast-food restaurants, shoe stores and miniature golf, for example.

On Tuesday, pupils enthusiastically tried on the Cooke clothes.

"It looks like (sales) are going great," said PTSA member Connie Workman. "The jackets are very popular."

"The kids picked black and red (as the school colors) and fortunately, those are popular colors."

Workman's son Jeff will be among the seventh and eighth graders transferring from Meads Mill Middle School to Cooke. According to the district boundaries, pupils who attend Amerman and Moraine elementary schools now will attend Cooke.

Workman said her son is not concerned about switching schools in the seventh grade.

"A lot of his friends — those in the neighborhood — are coming here too," she said.

The sixth graders who explored the school appeared to be a combination of curious, excited and a little nervous.

Sixth graders David Kowalski and Tim Maloney investigated their new school together. Soon after arriving, Kowalski wanted to reserve judgment until he had seen more.

"We just got here," he said. "We're still looking around."

Maloney said the science room with all the animals looked interesting.

"The gym looks good too," he added.

Eighth grader Chris Gomersall, who recently moved into the Northville school district, said he was pleased with what he saw.

"I like the color of the lockers," he said.

Among the pupils, the lockers were a common topic of conversation — their size, their color (red) and their locks.

Phil and Linda Lawrence, parents of sixth-grader Kim, said the locks signified a real difference from Amerman for their daughter.

"She's kind of apprehensive," Phil said.

Lawrence finds new home with the younger set

By MAUREEN NASZRADI
Staff Writer

Jacqueline Lawrence is excited about her new role.

When she started her 23rd year in the Novi Community School District last week, Lawrence assumed the responsibilities of the Novi Woods Elementary School principal. She succeeded Roy Williams, who retired at the end of the 1989-90 year.

"The first day went real well," the new principal said Friday. "Everything's going real smoothly."

Novi Woods' 330 pupils were welcomed Tuesday by red, green, yellow, blue and orange balloons, streamers, banners, and staff members clad in the same colors.

The kindergarten pupils and returning first-through fourth-graders were greeted immediately as they got off a bus or walked up to the front door, she said. Then each child was escorted to his or her color-coordinated classroom and assigned team.

Lawrence said she hoped to create a "warmer experience" for the pupils on their first day of school.

"That way they can call a place their own from the very beginning," she said. "It can be an overwhelming experience sometimes."

"We had no tears," Lawrence said. "It was really fun."

The first-day program was one of the few things Lawrence said she would change when she talked recently about her plans for the 1990-91 school year.

"I want it to be a smooth transition for the children," she said. Lawrence for the last two years was assistant principal at Novi Meadows (grades 5 and 6).

She said she wants things to run smoothly at Novi Woods, for the children, the parents and the teachers.

"I'm really very excited to be here. I'm delighted," she said. "I'm also very intimidated."

"It's humbling to think you're the one who's going to guide a new school to greater things."

A self-proclaimed "eternal optimist," Lawrence said, "I think my sense of humor gets me through most anything."

The new principal said she devoted a lot of time during the summer to preparing to administer younger children and learning about their different developmental levels.

She researched, asked her predecessor and other district administrators for advice, read children's books and played with the neighborhood kids in an effort to prepare for her new job, she said.

"The children are so vulnerable and young," she said. "You have to be gentle with them."

"You have a great responsibility to help them make the right choices in life,"

Lawrence said she continuously is studying and applying techniques to instill in children at an early age a desire to learn.

"You have to nurture that desire," she said. "They come in fresh from home, and eager."

"To maintain that eagerness — that's the challenge."

Lawrence said she plans to foster parent communication.

"Parent input is so important to determine whether we're meeting the community's needs," she said.

"The home life plays such an important part," she added.

Lawrence said parent and teacher input will be considered before she makes any changes in the Novi Woods program. She will maintain the school's open concept.

"It's an excellent school with an excellent staff," she said.

"I don't think extreme changes are needed at all, maybe some refinements."

Novi Woods already has a very good reading program, Lawrence said. "I'd like to make it even better." Also, the school's math and science will be reviewed this year.

"We'll also look at foreign language and how it relates to the early elementary grades," she said.

"We're really looking at the whole issue of preparing children for the future."

For example, Lawrence currently is working with several Novi Meadows teachers to create a new cross-school tutoring program.

The educators plan to bring fifth and sixth graders to Novi Woods on a regular basis throughout the school year to work with the elementary pupils in several subject areas.

"It will have a two-fold effect," Lawrence said. "Novi Meadows students will develop their own self-esteem and awareness, as well as contribute to the welfare of the Novi Woods students."

"It will be kind of a buddy system," she said.

Lawrence has held several positions during her 23 years in the Novi district.

She taught English in grades seven through 12, chaired the English department and served as the first interim in the Novi district's administrative interim program.

Three years ago, she was appointed to administer the district's writing process program. She will continue to conduct the writing process in-service training for the district.

She gained exposure to first through eighth graders through that program, Lawrence said, conducting training about the writing process for teachers in their classrooms.

The new principal also is continuing her education at Eastern Michigan University, concentrating on elementary curriculum and administration. She currently holds bachelor's and master's degrees.

Area Dems back ouster of Griffiths

By TIM RICHARD
and SHEILA PHILLIPS
Staff Writers

Dutiful Democrats said they understood Gov. Jim Blanchard "did what had to be done" when he asked 78-year-old Martha Griffiths to step down as lieutenant governor.

There were more signs of relief than expressions of anger that Griffiths had reached the end of the road.

"I think everybody in the party knew this was coming. I think we're all very relieved the governor made this decision by convention time," said Donald Tucker, Birmingham attorney and 18th Congressional District chairperson. The 18th District includes Novi and part of Northville.

Technically delegates at the Democratic state convention in Flint will make the decision Sept. 9. But as practical politicians, they'll likely rubber-stamp whomever the governor wants.

Congressional district conventions across the area were abuzz with speculation on Griffiths' successor the day after Blanchard announced his decision.

Mentioned as possible running mates: Olivia (Libby) Maynard, head of the state Office of Aging; Macomb Prosecutor Carl Marlinga; state treasurer Bob Bowman; and possibly retiring Sen. Mitch Irwin of the Upper Peninsula.

Taking themselves out of contention: Bowman and Wayne County Executive Edward McNamara.

Keynote at the Oakland Democratic convention Saturday morning, Bowman said: "I am honestly not privy to the governor's position, but I'm sure he'll follow his head, heart and guts in making his appointment. I'm sure he'll make it by convention time in Flint."

When asked if he is in the running, the 34-year-old economic guru of the administration said, "No, I'm not a candidate. I like what I'm doing, and I plan to stay."

Tucker wouldn't speculate on potential candidates. "There are at least 15 people in the administration alone who are well-qualified."

U.S. Rep. Sander Levin of Southfield, who twice ran for governor in the 1970s, said: "I trust the governor's judgment and his goals. I can't and won't make any predictions."

"The governor is concerned that we have someone who can step in if the governor steps down — someone he can count on and who will have good health for the next four years," Levin said.

"I don't think Martha will oppose his decision because she supports the party, and I don't think this will have any effect on the election," he added.

But Louis Miller, Oakland County Democratic chair, was a little more worried about repercussions from nixing Griffiths. He said, "We'll try not to create an open wound with this issue. Martha is well-respected — She's loved by all of us."

When asked about successor predictions, Miller said, "I don't have any inside track as to who will be appointed. I've heard rumors."

He added that a new candidate would help the Democratic ticket in November.

Aldo Vagnozzi, Farmington Hills council member and veteran of Democratic wars, was also worried about the decision's fallout. He said: "It's unfortunate that Blanchard made the switch midway during the election. I hope there won't be a battle for the nomination."

"I think Blanchard will look for someone who's a real fighter and has an established record. I've heard Bowman and Marlinga talked about."

Vagnozzi, editor of the AFL-CIO News, said it wouldn't have to be a woman because Blanchard "broke the all-male barrier in 1982" when he recruited Griffiths, who had retired from Congress, as his running mate.

State Sen. Jack Faxon of Farmington Hills said: "I've known Martha longer than Jim, and she's a real fighter. I have no idea who will be appointed. I'm not a member of the inner circle."

"I don't know if she'll oppose his decision, but I know she has been a team player all her life," Faxon said.

Griffiths stunned Blanchard and the party earlier in the summer with her announcement that she was available for a third term and her remark that Blanchard should see a psychiatrist if he thought otherwise.

"She was a laughingstock with her announcement," said Joe Benyo, a Westland delegate to the 15th District convention in Wayne County.

Commenting on Blanchard's decision not to honor Griffiths' desire to stay in office, Faxon said, "I don't want to say it's forced retirement. I'm sure he would not have wanted to do it this way."

Walter O. Briggs, 18th Congressional District congressional candidate, said, "I think it was a very tough decision for Jim Blanchard, but it was something we had anticipated and something I believe Martha would eventually have come to herself."

In 1966, the first year Michigan's governor and lieutenant governor were elected as a slate, Gov. George Romney allowed the Republican state convention to nominate its choice — state senator William Milliken. Since then, nominees of both parties have made the choice, and conventions have dutifully ratified them.

Law's survey reveals top issues in 36th District

By FRANK EICHENLAUB
Staff Writer

If the voters in the 36th State House of Representatives had their way, the death penalty would be law for first-degree murder, and to fight the drug war, court-approved wire-tapping would be legal.

Recycling would be hot, property taxes would be slashed and a new Tiger Stadium would be built in Detroit.

A huge percentage of voters would support the above scenario, according to the sixth annual district-wide survey conducted by State Representative Gerald Law, R-Plymouth. The district includes all of Northville Township and the City of Northville below Baseline Road.

Law distributed surveys to 30,000 voters and 3,000 responded this year.

"A lot of times I put questions in there to reinforce how I see some of the issues," Law said. "It gives people in my district the opportunity to express their views on a variety of topics."

"I'm kind of interested to find out what some of my folks think. I don't sit down and use (the survey) every time I'm going to vote. I think it's useful from the standpoint of allowing people to communicate to me."

All of the above-mentioned issues received approval by at least 85 percent of the respondents and topped out at 94 percent supporting a local recycling program.

Although 81 percent of the people would also support legislation mandating the recycling of glass, paper and plastic, a smaller 56 percent would support legislation prohibiting grass clippings from being put into weekly rubbish.

"That part of it was very surprising to me," Law said.

He pointed out that grass clippings occupy 30 percent of the space in landfills, making recycling an attractive alternative due to the resulting decrease in landfill space.

The survey also showed that 63 percent of the respondents have ever taken materials to a local recycling center.

"I was very interested in that the vast majority of the people were interested in doing something about recycling," Law said.

clinging," Law said.

The 42-question survey of residents in Northville, Plymouth and Canton also found:

□ Ninety percent oppose any Detroit bail-out packages and believe Detroit should manage its existing resources in a more appropriate manner.

□ Ninety percent favor additional prisons — and are opposed to reduced sentences for felons — if prisons were overcrowded.

□ Eighty-nine percent support legislation to reduce residential property tax assessments from the current 50 percent to 40 percent of true cash value.

□ Eighty-eight percent support legislation giving local school districts the option of making school attendance a prerequisite for driving privileges to those under age 18.

□ Eighty-eight percent said their local property taxes were too high.

□ Eighty-five percent favor a proposal requiring the Legislature to direct 10 percent of the general fund budget to the School Aid Fund along with all profits from the State Lottery.

□ Sixty-eight percent support legislation that would require some condition of parental consent before minors could obtain abortions.

□ The same percentage said they did not favor a law making abortions illegal in all cases except rape and incest.

"That is the only issue (in the survey that is) before the state government right now," Law said.

The survey also including an opportunity for respondents to voice an opinion on Tiger Stadium: 53 percent favored a new stadium, but 55 percent said it should be built in Detroit.

"It's not a heavy question. I just thought it was interesting," Law said.

Democrats set platform

By SHEILA PHILLIPS
Staff Writer

For the first time in several years Oakland Democrats have developed their own party platform, tailor-made to address county problems.

The platform — which was formally adopted by the county's Democratic executive committee — criticizes Republicans, which dominate the county's legislative representation, for their lack of imagination, internal bickering and inefficient operations.

It also promised a more compassionate, practical approach to government under Democratic rule.

The platform states that the elected Democratic officials within the county should work to reduce millage rates and favor legislation to ensure that assessments do not rise faster than the rate of inflation.

The platform also stood behind increased drug prevention programs and enforcement efforts, increased crime victim protection rights, more cooperation among the county's 50 police agencies, more active solutions to area traffic congestion, measures against urban sprawl, expanded job training programs, significant help to seniors and establishing "decent" public transportation.

Police News

Meads Mill window broken

A 4-by 6 window was broken at Meads Mill Middle School Aug. 20 between 10-10:30 p.m., according to Northville Township police records. Police said the window was broken with a traffic sign.

SWING SET DAMAGED — A Westview resident told Northville Township police someone tipped over and damaged a wooden swing set and jungle gym outside his home. The complainant said the play set was heavy and it would have required several people to tip it over. Damage was estimated at $100. The incident occurred late Aug. 13 or early Aug. 14.

BICYCLE STOLEN — A Woodbend resident told police that someone stole a Schwinn dirt bike her daughter had parked at a friend's house. The incident occurred Aug. 20 between 7:15-8 p.m.

MELJER LARCENY — A 47-year old Northville woman was arrested and charged with larceny after stealing merchandise at Meijer, 20401 Hagerty, Aug. 20 at 7:43 p.m.

TELEPHONE STOLEN — A pay phone valued at $1,500 was reportedly stolen from Ramm, 47407 Seven Mile Road sometime between Aug. 18-20, Northville Township police said.

AUTOMOBILE STOLEN — A 1988 Chrysler Conquest was reported stolen from a Harbour Village West apartment sometime between July 9 and Aug. 19, Northville Township police said. The complainant described the vehicle as a blue two-door with a sunroof. The vehicle was valued at $15,000.

WARRANT ARREST — Northville City police arrested a 19-year-old Livonia man on an outstanding warrant Aug. 29, after stopping him on suspicion of driving under the influence. A computer check showed that the man was wanted by Livonia police for failure to appear in court. He was arrested and released on $100 bond.

SHOT IN THE FOOT — A 14-year-old West Street boy shot himself in the foot with a b.b. gun Aug. 29, and was taken to Botsford Hospital for treatment. Northville City police were notified of the incident by hospital officials, and advised the boy's mother that the incident violated the city's gun control ordinance.

OPERATING UNDER THE INFLUENCE — A 45-year-old Northville woman was arrested early on the morning of Aug. 29 for driving while intoxicated. City police followed her car from Eight Mile Road to her home. She was arrested, handcuffed, and taken to the station. Her blood alcohol level was measured at .09 percent an hour after her arrest, just under the state's legal limit of below .1 percent. She was released on $100 bond.

POLICE CAR HIT — A Northville City police officer driving on South Main Street near Beal Avenue just before noon Aug. 28 reported that his windshield was broken by an unknown object. The officer theorized that someone either threw or shot something at the car.

FENDER BENDERS — Northville City police reported four traffic accidents last week. A 33-year-old Northville woman driving north on Griswold was charged with driving while intoxicated Aug. 21 after striking a southbound car turning east onto Main about 10 p.m. The other driver told police that the woman was speeding and driving without headlights. Both drivers were injured, and both cars were towed from the scene.

A 15-year-old boy bicycling north on Eaton Drive just after noon Aug. 28 ran in front of a pickup truck when his brakes failed, and was slightly hurt when the truck knocked him off the bike. The truck driver stopped but did not identify himself.

Later that day, a motorcyclist heading west on the curve on Main Street just east of Cady at 10:30 p.m. lost control of his bike. The bike slid out from under him and off the road, damaging a cable box in the process. The man blamed the accident on sand or water in the road, and police did not issue a citation.

A driver turning south onto Center Street from Randolph early on Aug. 29 struck a car heading south on Center, but the accident was blamed on an illegally-parked moving van that obstructed the driver's view. No citations were issued.

VANDALIZED TREES — Approximately 112 dogwood trees 30 to 36 inches in height were uprooted at the Southpointe Condominium complex on South Lake Road in Novi sometime between Aug. 24 and Aug. 27.

The trees cost $1,800 to plant. However, the owner of the site did not know if any of the uprooted trees were actually missing or severely damaged.

Police suspect that juveniles are responsible for the crime.

STOLEN BIKE — A five-speed Schwinn bicycle was stolen from a residence on Woolsey Street in Novi sometime between 3-4 a.m. the morning of Aug. 14.

The boy's bike was silver and had no reflectors.

VANDALIZED POOL — Vandals threw glass and debris into a pool on Bedford in Novi sometime between Aug. 10 and Aug. 20, doing unknown damage.

STOLEN TAB — A license plate tab was stolen from a 1988 Ford Taurus parked on Henry Street in Novi the night of Aug. 27.

Citizens with information about the above incidents are urged to call Northville City Police at 349-1234, Northville Township Police at 349-9400, or the Novi Police Tip Line at 349-6887.

Prosecutor seeks death penalty

Prosecutor Richard Thompson hopes federal law will enable Oakland County to do something not allowed under state statutes — apply the death penalty to drug dealers who commit murder.

If he has his way, "Dealers who deal in death will risk the same in Oakland County," Thompson said during a press conference recently.

Michigan prosecutors cannot currently seek the death penalty because the state does not allow capital punishment.

Thompson — who believes the death penalty may be warranted in some cases — said the county may be able to circumvent that prohibition by referring some murder cases to the U.S. District Attorney's office where defendants could be subject to more stringent penalties, including capital punishment.

Federal death penalty statutes have not been used yet, but they call for its possible use upon conviction when:

- A person convicted of distributing a specific amount of drugs either murders someone, or directs the murder of another person.

- A person convicted as a key participant in a gang, or other criminal organization involved in drug trafficking, murders someone or directs the murder of another person.

- A person convicted of drug trafficking murders or directs the murder of, a law enforcement official.

U.S. District Attorney Stephen Markman has agreed that cases meeting the above criteria may be referred to federal officials for prosecution to the full extent of the law.

Thompson said Oakland is the only county in Michigan to consider this change of jurisdiction.

But other communities, like Chicago, are considering that option, according to Markman who attended the press conference.

Thompson said the death penalty would represent "the most formidable weapon in the arsenal" against drug users. He said he was announcing his plans to "put drug users on notice."

Punishment under stricter federal regulations is warranted, Thompson said, in light of Michigan's homicide rate which is projected to increase 9 percent this year. If those projections are accurate, Michigan would rank sixth in the nation.

The prosecutor cited a study by the U.S. Senate Judiciary Committee claiming that drug-related homicides are up 118 percent since 1985. The same study predicts 1990 will be the "bloodiest year in American history."

Budget cuts needed

that the building department will actually take in about $301,000 in 1990 and an almost identical amount — $301,900 — is budgeted for 1991.

Chief Building Official Mick Kruszewski submitted an expected revenue figure of $392,900 for 1991, but township officials cut it by $91,000 in the face of a perceived slowdown in the home construction industry.

"We did cut back on building revenues," Graham said. "We don't think we're being ultra-conservative (with those figures)."

"We think actual levels of (building) revenues will be the same as 1990," he said.

Township Manager Richard Henningsen said Friday the budget review committee will need to make enough cuts to provide a fund balance.

"You've got to have something that's set aside," he said. "It's fair to say you've got to look at the whole program and look at what (is most needed)."

"You have to make up that $101,977 (projected deficit) and then look to provide a $3-$400,000 fund balance."

MONDAY BUSINESS

New camera shop's focus is amateur photography

Ritz Camera, located at Twelve Oaks Mall in Novi, is a full-line camera and video store offering discount prices. A family business for about 40 years, Ritz Camera now has some 300 stores nationwide, 11 of which are in Michigan.

Founded by Edward Ritz, the company started out as a photo studio and expanded from there. Today his son David is the president of the company, which is headquartered in Beltsville, Md.

Ritz Camera offers everything from 35-millimeter cameras and video equipment to telescopes and watches.

"As far as photo equipment is concerned, we're geared towards the amateur," says manager Greg Brown. "We don't carry a complete line of professional equipment. We carry some darkroom supplies, but very little in the way of darkroom equipment."

"Ritz's marketing concept is that you can't satisfy all of the people all of the time. We have a real good variety of stock in the store. If we don't have it in the store, we have a large warehouse we can get it from. But, we don't pretend to have everything for everybody."

Brown has been a photographer for about 17 years and has been with Ritz for about four years. He's done some professional work, but regards photography primarily as a hobby.

At Ritz Camera the staff tries to help customers choose the camera that would be best for their individual purposes. Additionally, they offer free classes in learning how to use the equipment.

"We are very competitive with the so-called discount department stores on the items that we sell," Brown says of his prices. "We have our own repair facilities . . . and we have experienced professional staff to assist the camera buyer after the sale."

Ritz offers one-hour photo service at many of its locations. However Brown points out that "one hour" refers to how long the process takes, from the time they load the film to how long the finished prints come out the other end.

"We're very quality-conscious," Brown says. "Our technicians sit and look at each individual negative and prints from that particular negative. When you take it in for machine processing, they basically run it through at one setting. There is nobody who actually sits there and looks at that negative to try to see the best way to print."

Ritz has a policy which states they don't print a negative that they don't think will make a suitable print unless the customer specifically requests it.

"Too many people have a misconception that the only reason to take your film to a one-hour lab is the quick turnaround," Brown says. "To me, that is the least important reason. The most important is the quality of your pictures."

Ritz has full outlab services for black and white and slides. In-store they develop 4-by-6 prints and 8-by-6 enlargements. They even carry their own brand of film manufactured by Agfa.

Another feature Ritz offers is a video transfer whereby home movie film is transferred to video cassette.

They also offer their own store charge and special discounts for club members.

Other Ritz locations in the greater Detroit area include Southfield, Flint, Dearborn and Detroit.

Beware of bulk meat sales scam

The Michigan Department of Agriculture is advising consumers to be cautious of misleading advertisements when buying bulk freezer beef.

Large flashy ads with low prices or special deals entice consumers, but after waste has been trimmed, the price per pound of meat in bulk deals is often greater than that of comparable supermarket purchases.

MDA officials caution consumers to be aware of disreputable dealers who use bait-and-switch tactics, much like most appliance stores do.

An attractive advertisement will emphasize low prices and special deals. This ad is the bait. When customers arrive, they find the advertised item sold out. A salesperson will then urge a more expensive alternate deal, thus the switch.

MDA suggests consumers take the following precautions when buying bulk beef:

Be suspicious if a dealer isn't willing to sell an advertised item.

Find a dealer with a good reputation.

Compare the bulk meat price per pound versus the supermarket price.

Don't let salespersons hurry you.

Don't sign anything without reading everything.

Michigan law requires bulk meat dealers to give customers a signed, itemized statement of the price, cuts and quantity included in the purchase. Also, advertising is required to declare the estimated net price range per pound after cutting, trimming and processing, or the actual price of the delivered product.

Persons who think they have been baited and switched are asked to call the MDA food division at (517) 373-1060.

MONDAY FOOD

Too Chez one of region's 'best'

Fred and Linda Griffith spent a year touring major Midwestern cities and out-of-the-way towns, where they found outstanding chefs preparing stimulating meals with a rich stock of produce, grain, poultry and meat.

The cornucopia of creativity they unearthed is detailed in "The Best of the Midwest: Recipes from Thirty-Two of America's Finest Restaurants" (Viking Studio Books, 1990, $24.95). It inspires not only geographic exploration but a sense of culinary adventure as well.

Three Michigan restaurants are included in "The Best of the Midwest." They include Chez Raphael (now the Too Chez) in Novi, Tapawingo in Ellsworth and Cousins Heritage Inn in Dexter.

What criteria define "the best"? The Griffiths found their greatest enjoyment in restaurants that combined all the elements of good dining into a successful whole: "Among those places where everything worked, the common denominators were generous portions, artfully conceived and prepared, and served by caring people with a lack of pretention that has come for us to typify the Midwest."

Restaurants from 21 cities were selected as the creme de la creme of Midwestern cuisine. The chefs' backgrounds are as varied as the restaurants themselves. Some have been experimenting in the kitchen since childhood. Others took risks for their culinary passion.

Pete Peterson, owner and chef of Tapawingo in Ellsworth, is a prime example. He left a successful career as an automotive designer "to cook fabulous food in the sparsely populated Michigan woods." Peterson uses local ingredients, infusing them with traditional French cooking techniques. Grilled Duckling with Wild Rice Burritos and Onion Confit or a Cassoulet of Morels, Fiddleheads and Asparagus typify his creativity.

For more than 18 years, Fred Griffith has hosted Cleveland's Emmy-award-winning talk program, "The Morning Exchange," on WEWS-TV. Linda Griffith, a former radio show host and television critic, conducts cooking classes and writes for regional magazines. While passionate about exotic travel (Xinxiang Province and Papua, New Guinea, for example), the couple tries to return to France each year for "food, wine and art."

Ed Janos, executive chef at the Too Chez, supervised the kitchen at the former Chez Raphael. Here's a recipe from Chez Raphael offered in "The Best of the Midwest."

STEAMED LAKE PERCH FILLETS IN GINGER-LEMON JUS-LIE

Serves 4

12 ounces lake perch filets, skinned
1 medium Idaho potato
2 cups vegetable oil
1 teaspoon minced shallots
4 medium shiitake mushrooms, sliced, stems removed
1 tablespoon grated fresh ginger
¼ cup dry white wine
½ cup Fish Fumet (see recipe below)
Juice and zest of 1 lemon
6 tablespoons unsalted butter
12 small whole pea pods, trimmed
2 tablespoons minced fresh chives

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Peel the potato and cut into julienne strips. Immediately drop strips into a bowl of ice water.

Heat oil in a medium saute pan until it reaches 325-350 degrees. Remove potato from water, drain, and pat dry. Fry potato in small batches in oil about 5 minutes, or until crisp. Drain on paper towels and keep warm.

Butter bottom of a shallow 8-by-11-inch baking pan. Sprinkle shallots, sliced shiitake mushrooms and ginger on bottom. Lay perch filets on top and pour white wine and Fish Fumet over filets. Cover with buttered parchment paper or foil and bake in preheated oven until fish is just underdone (About 8 minutes).

Remove perch from cooking liquid, cover and set aside in a warm place. Use a slotted spoon to transfer mushrooms, ginger, and shallots to another plate; cover and keep warm. Pour cooking liquid into a small saucepan and reduce to ¼ cup. Add lemon juice and zest and bring back to boil. Then remove pan from heat and whisk in 4 tablespoons of butter a bit at a time. Keep warm by placing the pan in a larger saucepan filled with hot water.

Quickly saute pea pods in 2 tablespoons butter and arrange on four warmed dinner plates. Distribute mushrooms, shallots and ginger onto the serving plates. Carefully arrange perch filets on top.

Pour sauce over perch, mound the potato on top and sprinkle with chives.

FISH FUMET

(Recipe from the Appendix, by Linda and Fred Griffith)

Let your fish merchant know a few days ahead of time that you want to make a fish fumet, so that he has time to gather some good bones for you. Do not use bones from strong fish like tuna or oily fish like mackerel. Linda likes halibut, salmon and bass. Please note that when we sweat the vegetables we do not use butter because fat will make the stock rather cloudy.

Makes 3-4 cups
2 cups chopped onions
1 cup carrots, peeled and chopped
1 cup chopped celery
2½ quarts water
3 pounds fish heads, bones and trimmings
1 bunch celery
1 bay leaf
2 sprigs fresh thyme
10 white peppercorns, bruised
2 cups Sauvignon Blanc wine fr

In a large stockpot, place onions, carrots, celery and 1 quart water. Cover with wax paper directly on the vegetables and bring to a boil. Reduce heat immediately and simmer 15 minutes. Discard wax paper, then add the rest of the water and the remaining ingredients. Bring to a boil, reduce heat to a brisk simmer, and cook 1 hour. Remove scum as it accumulates on the surface of the liquid.

After 1 hour, remove from heat. Use a large, flat Chinese strainer to remove as much of the fish and vegetables as you easily can. Then pour stock through a colander that has been lined with two layers of cheesecloth. Chill.

Chef Mary Brady

As the Labor Day weekend passes and school starts up again, I am reminded that summer has come to an end.

The good part is all the wonderful, fresh, flavorful herbs that are abundant in my garden now. It is such a joy to walk out the door and pick whatever I please. There are few pleasures greater for a cook than the pungent smell of just-picked basil, thyme, oregano and rosemary.

The inevitable arrival of fall means harvesting and preserving our herbs for winter cooking.

Care should be taken as to when and how to pick herbs for drying. Since some herbs lose some of their flavor during the drying process, the best time to harvest is when the flowers first open. At this age, the oils that give the herbs flavor are most distinctive.

Of course, there are exceptions to every rule: pick rosemary and thyme when the blooms are the fullest, and sage just as the buds first appear. It is preferable to cut back the herbs on a dry, sunny day after the dew has evaporated.

Some annuals bloom early in the summer, and if you didn't cut them back too far the first time, this will be an added bonus. When harvesting in the fall, cut to the ground. Shrubby perennial herbs such as rosemary and lavender should be cut back approximately one half of the season's growth to encourage a compact plant next year.

Herbs which produce seeds (caraway, dill, anise) can be harvested also. As the seed heads turn brown—but before they fully ripen and scatter—cut the entire seed head off and shake into a bag to collect the seeds. If seeds are to be used for future planting, cut while the seed head is still yellow.

Perennial herbs can provide you with fresh leaves year-round if brought indoors. Mints, rosemary, chives and thyme are examples.

The main ways to preserve herbs are drying and freezing. Drying is a simple process of exposing the leaves to warm, dry, circulating air. No direct sunlight is important. If the herbs are dried outside during the day, remember to bring them in at night so the dew won't dampen them.

Cut herbs with long stems to facilitate tying them in bunches. Wash them gently, being careful not to damage the leaves, and remove any that are yellow or bruised. Then tie the ends together and hang in a place where air will circulate, where it is warm and out of direct sunlight. If dust is a problem, cover the herbs with a paper bag and punch holes in it.

Other alternatives include drying herbs on screens one layer at a time, turning them every other day. Drying in the oven or microwave is another possibility.

when the leaves are crackly dry, usually after 1-2 weeks, remove them from the stem whole. Flavor retention is better in whole leaves. Crush them only when you are ready to use them.

Store in carefully labeled airtight containers in a cool, dark place. If moisture accumulates after packaging, take them out to dry for another day or so.

Some tender herbs such as dill, parsley, basil, chives and tarragon freeze well. Harvest and wash them as you would for drying, leaving the foliage on the stems. Tie them small bundles and blanch in boiling water for 30 seconds. Use the string to pull them out and immediately plunge them in an icewater bath, necessary to stop the cooking process. Remove the leaves, chop if desired, and freeze in carefully labeled plastic bags.

Blanching is not necessary for dill, chives and basil.

Another alternative is to chop fresh herbs and freeze with a small amount of water in ice cube trays. Pop the cubes and add them frozen to soups and sauces.

A few words of caution when cooking with herbs. Try to match the food you're cooking with the herb. Try to imagine beforehand how different combinations will taste. Don't use too many herbs during one meal, and be conservative with the amounts used. An herb is meant to flavor, not overpower.

A good rule of thumb is to use twice as many fresh herbs as dry. Heat releases flavors and oils better so cold foods need time to marinate or develop flavor. Dried herbs lose flavor as they are stored. Buy only what you will use in three months. Crumble dry herbs to release flavors.

There are still enough days left to use your herbs fresh, too. Several times a week, I will pick assorted bunches of herbs, wash and chop them for use at a moment's notice. Simply store them covered in the refrigerator, and dig in when the urge arises.

This week's recipes can help you answer the urge. Herb butters can be made now and frozen for later use. They are a great way to flavor sauces, fish and vegetables. Margarine is a good substitute for butter. For those not willing to eat butter or oleo, try mixing up a package of Butter Buds and add 2 tablespoons of fresh herbs.

Pesto, an Italian seasoning blend, is becoming a popular flavoring ingredient for soups, meats, eggs and vegetables. Or, simply toss a half-cup of pesto with your favorite pasta.

Tabouli, a Mediterranean specialty, makes a nice appetizer or salad, and is a great way to use up parsley.

Fisher wines affirm craftsmanship

Fred J. Fisher II—owner of Fisher Vineyards high in the Mayacamas Mountains dividing the Napa and Sonoma Valleys—is a Michigan native.

In 1886, the Fisher family began a tradition of excellence with hand-crafted carriages produced at the family coachworks, which later became the Fisher Body Corp.

In 1973, Fred Fisher II extended quality craftsmanship to the art of winemaking when he founded Fisher Vineyards with his wife Juelle. In 1979, Fisher Vineyards became the 52nd bonded winery in Sonoma County, which today shares company with 154 others.

The soft-spoken, modest Fisher heads a winery producing about 15,000 cases of elegant chardonnays and complex cabernet sauvignons. Fisher Vineyards Coach Insignia wines are a tribute to more than a century of craftsmanship associated with the Fisher family.

Fisher admits that Michigan is his largest market outside of California but shrugs off overall consumer recognition when mention is made of the fact that his donation to a 1987 California wine auction fetched the largest single lot price of $5,600.

"I take pride in this," said Fisher, "but much of the credit goes to Max."

Henryk "Max" Gasiewicz is the winemaker at Fisher Vineyards. Together, Fred and Max have mapped out the Fisher style, which is typified in the Coach Insignia wines. "I want to present nuances in my wines rather than powerful, upfront flavors," said Fisher.

"Fine-tuned wines with layered complexities is our goal," Gasiewicz said.

Fisher wines are aged in barrels made from center of France wood that give delicate flavors. "Limousin oak imparts heavier flavors that are not always in balance," Gasiewicz said. "I like barrels from the forests of central France with medium-to-heavy toast levels. Toasting removes the resinous character along with other harsh wood qualities and leaves a subtle spiciness in the wine that has become part of the Fisher style of chardonnay."

Fisher showcases his Coach Insignia wines when possible. The 1988 Fisher Coach Insignia Chardonnay ($20) points up an important Fisher philosophy. Blending mountain-grown and valley-floor grapes offers a greater opportunity for complexity of flavors than wine made strictly from a single site.

The wine features pineapple aromas, subtle spice and toasty oak vanillins revealing that it had both barrel fermentation and time on the lees. There is complex fruit and creaminess on the palate with pineapple and spice following through into the balanced, lengthy aftertaste. It's drinkable and delicious.

Each of the three Fisher estate vineyards producing the fruit for the 1987 Coach Insignia Cabernet Sauvignon ($22.50) is part of a unique marriage of fruit made in the winery. Napa County grapes account for 44 percent of the wine, with the remaining 56 percent originating from Sonoma County vineyards. A blending with 10 percent merlot softens the overall impression of youth and makes the wine enjoyable now.

Evolution of both spicy aromas and flavors in the glass reveals a potential to age through the decade of the '90s. The wine's charm is represented in the complex, rich and extended finish.

Use home-grown carrots and tomatoes

Hippocrates touted the medicinal benefits of carrots. In early America and France they were revered for the same reason.

Carrots are used in many culinary dishes. They may even contain an active cholesterol-lowering compound (the same one as in oat bran), with fewer calories, especially if the bran has been used to make muffins. In fact, the fiber in carrots, whether raw, cooked, frozen or canned, is the same.

An unusual way to grow this vegetable is in a hanging container. Be sure to use one that is 8-12 inches deep, with good drainage holes and a soil mix that drains well such as equal parts garden soil, vermiculite or perlite and organic material. Begin the crop by sowing seeds, then when carrots are 2 inches high, thin by cutting off the tops. These root vegetables will grow well in partial shade. Don't forget to water and fertilize, following package directions.

Seed packets will indicate which carrots are suitable for containers. In addition, the tops alone will be an attractive foliage while the carrots are maturing.

Tomatoes are a favorite of many home gardeners. It's difficult to imagine that the translation of its first name literally means "edible wolf peach," but was so-called in South America where the wild cherry tomato was discovered. The Aztecs named the plant tomato from their word "tomatl," cultivated it and tried some early breeding.

When tomatoes reached Europe, they were grown as ornamentals because of the notion that they were toxic, being members of the nightshade family. Thomas Jefferson grew them and used them as food in this country.

Plant them deeply in well-drained soil—new roots will form along the stem to help with the nutrients. Collars can be made as a barrier to cutworms. Stakes should be installed at planting time. Mulch will help retain moisture and reduce weeds. They need 6-10 hours of sun daily.

Tomatoes can also be grown in containers. Leopold Klein, dubbed "America's champion tomato grower" by the National Garden Bureau, has written a book on the subject. He has been experimenting with the process for 15 years, and discusses soils, growing conditions, hardening transplants and all the other things it takes to grow tomatoes successfully.

His approach is to make boxes of foam or wood and grow tomatoes in them. He gets a very high yield and has tomatoes ready for harvest six weeks earlier than the conventional growing method. His instructions are very clear, as though he is standing next to you. To order his book, send $10.70 for "100 Pounds of Tomatoes out of an Inexpensive Foam Box," Leopold Klein, 103 Putney Road, Valley Stream, N.Y. 11580.

It may be too late for this season, but the boxes could be made as a winter project and ready for early start next spring.

Thyme to harvest herbs for winter

Herb Butter

1½ tbsp fresh minced or 1-2 tsp dried herbs or crushed seeds
¼ cup softened butter
1 tbsp. lemon, orange or lime juice

Mix ingredients and pack in a crock, or roll into logs using plastic wrap (being certain to secure ends). Freeze logs and slice as needed. Flavored butters add a special touch to fresh breads, baked potatoes and vegetables. They are good with eggs, pastas, and melted on vegetables and meats.

Tabouli

1 cup dry bulghar wheat (found in bulk food stores or specialty area of grocery)
1½ cups boiling water
1½ tsp salt
¼ cup fresh lemon or lime juice, or vinegar
¼ cup chopped scallions
¼ tsp dried or 1 tsp. fresh mint
¼ cup high quality olive oil
2 medium tomatoes, diced
1 packed cup. fresh parsley, chopped
1 peeled, seeded cucumber, chopped
1 clove garlic, minced
1 shallot, minced
salt, pepper to taste

Combine bulghar, boiling water and salt in a saucepan. Cover and simmer for 10 minutes. Remove from heat and let sit until tender. Add lemon juice, olive oil, mint, shallot and garlic, and mix well.

Refrigerate at least 3 hours, or overnight. Add vegetables and parsley just prior to serving. Garnish with feta cheese, olives or chick peas. Best when stuffed in pita bread, or served with belgian endive leaves as "scoopers"

Classic Basil Pesto

2 cups fresh basil leaves
2 large garlic cloves
¼ cup freshly grated parmesan cheese
2 tbsp. freshly grated Pecorino Romano
¼ cup pine nuts or walnuts
¼ cup olive oil
salt and freshly ground pepper

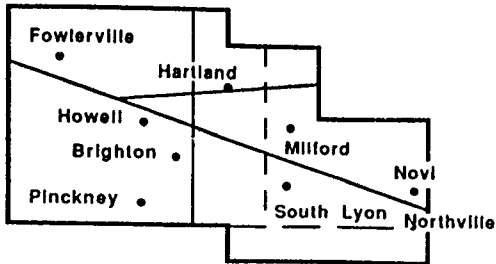

Combine basil, garlic, cheeses and nuts in a food processor or blender. Process to mix. With machine still running, slowly add olive oil. Season to taste with salt and freshly ground pepper and process to desired consistency. Let stand five minutes before serving.

Creamy Tarragon Pesto

1 cup fresh tarragon leaves
¼ cup fresh parsley leaves
1 large garlic clove
¼ cup freshly grated parmesan
¼ cup walnuts
2 tbsp. whipping cream
1 tbsp. hot water
¼ cup olive oil
2 tbsp. (roughly) lemon juice
salt and freshly ground pepper

Combine the tarragon, parsley, garlic, cheese, walnuts, cream and water in a food processor or blender. Process to mix. With machine still running, slowly add olive oil. Add the lemon juice, salt, and pepper to taste. Process to desired consistency. Let stand five minutes before serving.

CBS engages in week-long quest for education crisis solution

By Amy Schmidt

The CBS special Project Education truly is a project. For one week (Sept. 2 through Sept. 7) the network will air seven-plus hours of special broadcast segments on Sunday Morning, 60 Minutes, The CBS Evening News, Nightwatch and a two-hour primetime special hosted by Charles Kuralt.

The subject is America's education crisis. According to one study, America's 13-year-old math students rank last among all industrialized nations. By the age of 15, Americans rank 15th among the 16 industrialized nations in scientific knowledge.

Says Joel Heller, the executive producer of America's Toughest Assignment, the two-hour primetime special airing Thursday, Sept. 6, "The deterioration of our nation's schools has the potential to do greater damage to this country than the national deficit. We cannot hope to compete as a nation if we continue to allow our most precious resource—the minds of our children—to fall short of their potential."

Neither the problem nor the solutions to it are new, says Heller. "The ideas for better education are already out there, but what's needed is a strategy for implementing them. That's what this CBS special is designed to do."

To implement these strategies CBS News has organized a national education conference Sept. 5 at Georgetown University in Washington. Education, business and political leaders will attempt to reach a consensus on methods to improve our nation's schools, such as training teachers, funding and setting academic goals.

Segments of the conference will then be broadcast on Nightwatch, Thursday, Sept. 6. A nationwide forum will also be held on Thursday. Teachers, students and community leaders at local CBS affiliates across the country will participate. Charles Kuralt will mediate.

MDA Labor Day telethon marks its 25th year

Half-billion dollars raised helps patients

By Amy Schmidt

This week marks the 25th anniversary of the MDA Jerry Lewis Labor Day Telethon. After a 17-year run in Las Vegas, the telethon moves this year to Hollywood.

Once again Ed McMahon anchors the special. Co-hosting will be Leeza Gibbons of Entertainment This Week and talk show personality Sally Jessy Raphael.

King of comedy Jerry Lewis has been with the MDA for 40 years: "Each man must choose the cause closest to his heart. I've chosen mine. I want every father and mother in the world to have the joy of seeing their children free from the threat of neuromuscular disease," says Lewis.

The half billion dollars the telethon has raised in the last 25 years has gone a long way in helping those affected with MDA, including this year's poster child, Ashley Nichole Antolak.

Six-year-old Ashley has spinal muscular atrophy (SMA). As a baby, Ashley had trouble crawling and holding her head up. A blood enzyme test determined that something was wrong. When Ashley was three years old a doctor at an MDA clinic discovered she had SMA.

In the last year MDA-supported scientists announced a significant discovery in the treatment and cure for SMA. The landmark finding pinpoints the location of the gene or genes that cause the disease.

"Until this discovery, my husband Bob and I lived one day at a time. Now we realize that Ashley's future has brightened significantly," says Donna Antolak, Ashley's mother. "Scientists are well on their way toward understanding the genetic makeup of the disease that affects our little girl."

Ashley's duties as MDA's National Poster Child (she has even met with President Bush) have given the family strength and boosted little Ashley's morale.

"We're proud to serve as ambassadors of goodwill for MDA," says Bob Antolak.

'TV That Hits Home'

By LARK L. SAMOUELIAN

During the week of September 9-15, we will be celebrating the first annual Local Cable Programming Week. The theme throughout the country is "TV That Hits Home". Over 600 cable television systems are joining in the celebration.

As an industry, cable has centered its programming thrust around pay and premium channels. The local channels have usually been left up to the communities to develop, but in our viewing area, both MetroVision and Omnicom have had an ongoing commitment to local television.

Throughout the country cable systems are planning special programs to encourage the public to watch and participate in community television. The National Academy of Cable Programming, the non-profit organization which helps the non-commercial departments of cable systems develop local programming, is sponsoring the week. This group is also responsible for the nationally recognized 'Ace' competition. The other organizations, who lent support by suggesting public relation ideas, are the Cable Television Public Affairs Association, the National Association of Telecommunication Officers and Advisors and National Federation of Local Cable Programmers.

The catchy slogans, which will be aired on TV and the radio and featured in newspapers will highlight the week's main themes.

'For Seven Days In September, Your Town is Going to be a Star.' You will be delighted as you turn to your local channel to see your town reflected on the screen. With so much happening, small town news must be very dramatic to be covered. Through local community television, your town is the priority.

'Political Leaders You Won't See Anywhere Else. Except Maybe At Town Hall.' What a great opportunity to understand how the people you voted into office are carrying out their responsibilities. Through the local channels, time is taken to cover a community event or meeting.

'Superstars You Won't See Anywhere Else. Except Maybe At The Supermarket.' This is one of the great perks of having a local channel and watching a local channel. It is really a wonderful feeling having someone recognize you from TV. It is also a great feeling to be involved enough in your town to recognize someone on the street and remember just how much they care about your town.

'Performers You Won't See Anywhere Else.' Our Community Television Studios are so accessible that it doesn't take much effort to fulfill your dream to be a performer! No one will tell you 'No.' They will only try to help you enhance your performance by providing a crew that will take into consideration the technical elements necessary to accomplish your goal.

'Programs you won't see anywhere else.' Cable Exclusive Programming at its best. No other medium has made such opportunities available to the general public!

To help celebrate Local Cable Programming Week, MetroVision's Cable Coordinator Kathy Friedrichs and her staff have planned many exciting activities for the TV buffs in Farmington, Novi and Farmington Hills.

Wednesday, September 5

The MetroVision Van will be set up at the Grand River-Farmington Shopping District in the parking area near Harmony House. Between noon and four p.m. you will be able to send 'video greetings' and give opinions. MetroVision will turn your friendly smiles and creative messages into several shows which will be cablecast on Channel 12.

Thursday, September 7

The MetroVision Van will be set up in Novi at the Novi Town Center. Come on down! Noon to four p.m. will find the cameras on and you will be the Star!

Monday, September 10

The Studio at MetroVision will host an Open House for non-profit service groups. Between 5-9 p.m. guided tours will be given of the television facility. They will also have staff available to help script a Public Service Announcement 'with an appointment'. Call MetroVision in advance at 553-7303. And be sure to tune into Channel 12 and keep the channel on while you are home this week. Give your friends a chance. Tune into Your Town. We'll Be There!

Maria Homes and John Martin of Omnicom report that they will kick off the celebration at the Plymouth Fall Festival as they wrap up four day coverage live from Kellogg Park.

The Omnicom local programming staff has been serving western Wayne County Communities with local programming since 1980. Their staff prides themselves at being 'where the action is'. Community volunteers are part of every shoot. Their other celebration week activities:

Sunday, September 9 — Live outdoor entertainment at the Plymouth Fall Festival may be seen on Channel 12. See area high school cheerleaders and bands.

Wednesday, September 12 — Non-Profit Business and Service Organizations are invited into the Omnicom Studio to produce their own Public Service Announcements of thirty seconds in length. These spots will be included within television shows.

Channel 8 in Plymouth, Canton, Northville, Belleville and Hamtramck will spotlight all week a town each day.

Monday, September 10 'Spotlight on Northville'

Tuesday, September 11 'Spotlight on Hamtramck'

Wednesday, September 12 'Spotlight on Canton'

Thursday, September 13 'Spotlight on Belleville'

Friday, September 14 'Favorite Series of the Past'

Saturday, September 15 'Spotlight on Plymouth'

Turn on Channels 8 or 15 especially these two weeks to enjoy the enthusiasm of your community. Come on down to the events or join us at the studio...

You are who and what is important. You are who counts. You are who makes the difference. You will be missed if you don't stop by.

"Roseanne" kids return for third season

By CHRISTY BERGSLIEN

The TV hit comedy series "Roseanne" returns for a third season and so do the show's popular kids, Sara Gilbert, Michael Fishman, and Lecy Goranson.

"Darlene is easy to do," says 15-year-old Sara Gilbert of her character on the ABC series. Perhaps acting comes naturally for Sara, a third-generation offspring of a well-established show business family.

Sara's maternal grandfather created and wrote the classic comedy series, "The Honeymooners." He currently supervises a number of network shows. You probably came to know Sara's older sister Melissa as Laura Ingalls on "Little House On The Prairie." Her older brother Jonathon also had a role on that series. Sara's mother is a successful Hollywood talent manager.

With this kind of background, Sara was bound to give acting a shot. At age 6 she made her first commercial and soon thereafter she was cast for television in "The Apple Dumpling Gang" with Ed Begley Jr. and Arte Johnson. Her next role was in "Calamity Jane," starring Jane Alexander. Sara stopped acting for a while and then returned to play in "Runaway Ralph," an "ABC Weekend Special."

"Roseanne" is Sara's first regular TV series, and although her career has really taken off, the series and "Darlene" being such a hit, she denies she is the star of the family. "Melissa's doing a new film every other week," she says.

The littlest star on the set, 8-year-old Michael Fishman began acting after his aunt, a talent manager, began encouraging him and his sister Robyn to give acting a try. Robyn decided she wanted to earn money for college and began auditioning. A couple months later, Michael declared that he wanted to audition, also. He subsequently won the role of D.J. on what was to become TV's top-rated show.

Fishman was born in Orange County, California, the son of a jewelry manufacturer and a nursing professor. He also really like his series' Dad, John Goodman, he says. Fishman's hobbies include eating Chinese food and pizza, going around the curves on Mulholland Drive, cartoons, playing with puzzles and dinosaurs, and telling jokes.

Like Michael Fishman, "Roseanne" is Lecy Goranson's first television role, Lecy (which is short for "Alicia") plays the eldest daughter, Becky, on the comedy. Being the oldest, and the first to go through life's first challenges, her role can be demanding.

Lecy is a native midwesterner of Evanston, Ill. Her father, Steve, is a statistician, and her mother Linda, an English teacher. She has one older brother. Her life had been that of a typical teenager before "Roseanne."

But when Lecy was 8-years-old, she began attending an acting workshop near her home, and things were to change. An acting teacher heard about the role of "Becky" on "Roseanne," and Lecy subsequently found herself on a plane headed for Los Angeles. "It's all sort of amazing," says Lecy of her bit show business break.

Lecy's hobbies include jazz dancing and riding her bike. She also like to water ski and play soccer, tennis and badminton.

Matt Frewer stars as zany Dr. Mike Stratford in the CBS comedy Doctor, Doctor, Mondays.

Q: In the TV Applause, a weekly TV and cable listings guide, it mentions Dixie Carter won a Drama Desk Award for her role as Calamity Jane in Fathers And Sons. None of the video rental stores has it. I am a great fan of Calamity Jane and would like to see it or buy it. —Dean Estroge Meister, Mankato, Minn.

A: Dixie Carter was nominated for the Drama Desk Award for her portrayal of Calamity Jane in the off-Broadway play, Fathers And Sons. It was never made into a movie, therefore it is not in the video stores.

Q: I have heard several different stories about one of the precious children on Full House, Mary Kate Ashley Olsen, who plays Michelle. Is she "one" of a set of twins? And is Mary Kate Ashley Olsen the actual real-life daughter of one of the three main actors on the show? —Wanda Wells, Diboll, Texas

A: Michelle Tanner is played by twins, Mary Kate Olsen and Ashley Fuller Olsen. Their parents are not involved in the series.

Show's executives responsible for Emmy samples

By Candace Havens

Dear Candace: I used to love watching Ryan's Hope. I was really upset when they took it off the air, mainly because I couldn't watch one of my favorite actors, Bernard Barrow, who played Johnny Ryan. He was one of the most sexy men on daytime. What is he doing now? Also, please tell me anything else you know about him. —Thanks, Betty in Conroe, Texas

Dear Betty: I hope I'm the first to give you the good news. Barrow can now be seen on the daytime soap Loving. He plays Louie Slavinsky, a sanitation worker who has fallen in love with Kate Rescott.

The veteran performer began his professional career as a child radio actor in the 1940s. He went on to act in theater, and then motion pictures. He had featured roles in Serpico, Rachel, Rachel, Glass Houses, Claudine and The Survivors.

Barrows has a Ph.D. in theater history from Yale University. He has been a member of the faculty for Brooklyn College since 1955. He recently retired from academia as professor emeritus.

He is a native New Yorker and was born and raised in Manhattan's Yorkville section. He continues to make his home with his wife, actress Joan Kaye.

BITS AND PIECES

Jaclyn Smith, Perry King to star in Danielle Steel TV movie

Jaclyn Smith and Perry King will star in Danielle Steel's 'Kaleidoscope,' an NBC World Premiere Movie based on a best-seller by internationally renowned novelist Danielle Steel. It will be telecast in October 1990, coupled with the NBC premiere movie Danielle Steel's 'Fine Things.' The dramas will be presented back-to-back in individual-movie formats to create a multi-hour miniseries event.

Academy Award-winner Olympia Dukakis and Amy Madigan will star in Lucky Day, an ABC telefilm for the 1990-91 season. Madigan portrays the younger sister of a mentally retarded young woman who wins a state lottery, while Dukakis plays their estranged mother, who resurfaces when she learns of the good fortune.

Michael Jeter, direct from his Tony Award-winning performance in the Broadway musical Grand Hotel, will join the cast of Evening Shade, starring Burt Reynolds, Elizabeth Ashley, Charles Durning and Hal Holbrook, which premieres Friday, Sept. 21, with a one-hour special on CBS. Durning also won a Tony this season for Cat On A Hot Tin Roof, and Ashley won a Tony in 1961 for Take Her, She's Mine.

Jaclyn Smith

Trump Card is in production on its premiere season at the lavish Trump Castle Hotel and Casino in Atlantic City, N.J. Hosted by Emmy Award winner Jimmy Cefalo, Trump Card is a fast-paced question and answer game show in which three contestants compete to fill a 15-space Trump Card. The game is divided into three rounds with the winner playing against the "house" for substantial cash in a 45-second bonus round.

Who played title roles in 1968 version of 'Romeo and Juliet'?

By Steven Alan McGaw

Questions:

1. Which U.S. president was depicted in the film The Wind And The Lion and who played him?
2. Which river was patrolled in the film The Sand Pebbles?
3. The movies' first Henry Aldrich was...
4. Three actresses played the Catwoman. (Purrfectly) identify them!
5. There is a movie titled 9/30/55. What happened on that date?
6. Jimmy Durante first sang the song "Inka Dinka Doo" in which film?
7. Who played the title roles in Franco Zeffirelli's 1968 version of Romeo And Juliet?

Answers:

1. Brian Keith played President Teddy Roosevelt, brilliantly.
2. The Yangtze.
3. Jackie Cooper.
4. Julie Newmar played Batman's felonious feline most of the time. Eartha Kitt growled her way through one episode as the criminal kitten, and Lee Meriwether padded across the big screen in the original Batman movie.
5. James Dean was killed in an auto wreck.
6. Joe Palooka (1933)
7. Leonard Whiting and Olivia Hussey.

LET'S TALK

Jack Nicholson surrounded by women in formative years

By Polly Vonetes

Q: I wrote to you last August. I have checked each week for my answers to Jack Nicholson's life and the movies he has starred in. Please give me his birth date, birth place, wives, children, brothers and sisters names. I know this is of general interest. —Mona Ayers, Petersburg, Penn.

A: You know the old saying, "better late than never." I am sorry it took so long, but it could be I never received your first letter. Jack Nicholson was born on April 22, 1937, in Neptune, N.J., to John and Ethel Nicholson. His father, a sign painter, left soon after his birth. He grew up surrounded by women, his mother and two sisters. Of the three women, only his sister Lorraine is alive today. He was married once, to actress Sandra Knight. They have a daughter, Jennifer, born in 1964. He also has a son by Susan Anspach, and more recently, a daughter by Rebecca Broussard. His films are too numerous to list here, but they include: The Passenger, The Shining, The Postman Always Rings Twice, Little Shop Of Horrors, Reds, The Trip, The King Of Marvin Gardens, Drive, The Missouri Breaks, Chinatown, The Last Tycoon and Batman.

Q: In the 1950s Admiral Thomas Dykes produced a program, The Silent Service, at Paramount Studios. It was about WWII submarines. Adm. Dykes passed away and his family and several of us in the Sub Vets have been trying to locate the old films. Do you think you can locate them? —Gerald Merwin, Palatka, Fla.

A: I suggest you write Yesteryear Video, Box C., Sandy Hook, CT 06482, or call 1-800-243-0987. They may be able to help you locate your film.

Q: I've been waiting for such a long time for someone else to ask this question, but no one has. So, I guess I'll have to ask myself. Whatever happened to Garry Moore and his announcer Durward Kirby? Nobody ever mentions their names anymore. Are they very sick or possibly dead? If Garry is still alive, how old is he? —Mrs. Harold Groff, Prescott, Ariz.

A: Now that wasn't so hard, was it? Aren't you happy you asked the question? You are right, very little is known about Garry Moore and Durward Kirby since they elected to retire in the mid-'70s. Moore was born Jan. 31, 1915, in Baltimore, Md. Even during the height of his popularity, he kept a very low profile, never permitting his wife or children to be photographed. Kirby was born Aug. 24, 1912, in Indianapolis, Ind. He resides in Covington, Ky.

HOROSCOPE

September 2 through September 8

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)

There may be trouble in the next few days, but you are prepared for anything. Don't let others' malice keep you from your goals.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)

A problem on your domestic front will start you thinking about the past. Don't dwell on it, but do seek counsel about the problem.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)

This week will offer much laughter and you should rejoice in it. Now is a great time to develop new skills needed for your work.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)

There is clear sailing ahead. Problems at work and home will seem to dissipate almost magically and you will feel a sense of renewal.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)

This is the time to make business decisions that you've been putting off for too long. Watch your back for envious co-workers.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)

It seems wise not to reveal yourself in connection with financial dealings. Watch your money carefully and invest it wisely.

By C.C. Clark

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)

Make sure you have all of your facts straight before confronting superiors. Hobby classes will help you understand more about yourself.

ARIES (March 21-April 19)

It is important to be patient with those around you. You feel compelled to get everything done right now, but take your time and do it right.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)

Don't lose your temper with loved ones. Think things through and you will probably see that the other person is right. You needn't reveal secrets.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)

Financial matters keep you busy. A friend will call and ask you out on an impromptu date. Let yourself relax and have a good time.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)

It is time to forget the past and get on with your life. Take some time to get a new haircut or some new clothes. You deserve a little "me-time."

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)

You have the opportunity to do something wonderful for someone, and it is important that you do.

How much is enough?

Measure the total distance around the house and multiply by the average height. This is the number of square feet to be painted. Divide this by 450 square feet per gallon, the approximate area a gallon will cover. This will give you the number of gallons needed for a single coat.
