Committee to recommend $200,000 in cuts

By Sta

...ing and poking through the 1991 preliminary budget, a township budget review committee is poised to dissect.

And the scalpel is sharp. The committee will recommend at least $200,000 be sliced from the preliminary budget many department heads considered bare-boned.

Review committee chairperson and township Treasurer Betty Lennox said final interviews with department heads were completed Tuesday. She said the committee will recommend cuts to the township board at a special budget meeting Oct. 29 at 7:30 p.m. at township hall.

Lennox would not discuss specific cuts, but said the committee had identified areas that need to be cut to ensure a balanced 1991 budget.

"We're going to make recommendations for cuts in the range of $200,000," Lennox said. "We've tried to be very thorough."

Estimated 1991 township revenues are approximately $3.28 million. Preliminary budget expenditures are $3.68 million.

The review committee, which also includes township residents Frank St. Louis, John Sassaman and Wes Henrikson, may recommend additional cuts if the township decides it needs to operate with a fund balance.

Lennox said she favors a 5-percent fund balance, which would extract at least another $150,000 from the general fund. The township board will issue the final decision on a fund balance.

Lennox would not say if the committee would recommend a township-wide hiring freeze.

"Not in so many words," she said. "But every department head is going to have to look down the road. It might not be responsible to hire someone now and have to lay them off later."

Lennox was also cautious when discussing shared services.

The review committee visited all shared service sites and met with directors and employees to gain knowledge of the programs, Lennox said.

Speculation has centered on cuts that may be proposed for joint city/township programs such as library and recreation services, Youth Assistance, and senior citizen services. Lennox said most of the shared service programs were not in jeopardy.

"They aren't (up for large cuts), except for one thing, the library plan," she said. "We're not sure we can fund that right now."

Library Director Pat Orr had budgeted approximately $50,000 more for library services in 1991 than the previous year. Orr said added township funding was needed to keep the library open on Saturdays throughout the summer.

Township police and fire departments will not escape cut recommendations, though Lennox would not speak in specifics.

"We looked carefully at those budgets," she said. "Yes, we located areas (to cut) there, too."

Lennox said the review committee's recommendation will be a document for the township board to ponder.

"We'll make the presentation Oct. 29 and the board will have the final say," she said.

The township board has scheduled a 1991 budget public hearing at 7 p.m. Nov. 8, prior to its regular session. The board will then decide whether or not to adopt the budget as its 1991 working financial document.

City on solid ground

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

The city received a clean bill of health from its auditors Monday, but the council was warned that city finances will continue to be tight following extensive public improvement programs.

Jim Eagan, of the Ann Arbor accounting firm Plante & Moran, said the firm's annual auditing report of the city represented "a clean opinion without exception, which is the type of wording that you would like to have on your auditor's opinion."

The city's financial picture is marked by both increased revenues and continued long-term debt from street repair, water main repair and other city improvement projects, according to the auditors.

Eagan pointed out a 19-percent rise in the city's total property taxes over last year, to $1,761,865. The rise represents a 12-percent increase in the amount of Wayne County property taxes collected, and a 26-percent jump in Oakland County taxes.

At 53 percent this year, he said, property taxes make up an increasing share of the general fund.

But he also outlined several increased general fund expenditures since last year, including a jump in public works department expenses from about $767,000 in 1989 to about $1,088,000 in 1990. He attributed much of that $321,000 jump to the cost of running the city's new recycling center.

Most other funds, including the fire department and police department, remained at relatively the same expenditure rate, Eagan said.

Eagan also pointed out that, though the city anticipated having about $12,000 more in general fund revenues than expenses this year, the actual expenses ended up costing about $8,500 more than the revenues.

The auditor suggested several strategies to improve the city's financial oversight procedures, including hiring an "internal auditor." Internal auditing services are now being provided by City Manager Steven Walters and Finance Director Beverly Morrison, but Eagan said that increasingly complex auditing requirements may make it worthwhile to hire a separate staff person just to monitor the city's financial situation.

"Step back for a moment and review whether the level of internal auditing that is being done is adequate to your situation," he said. "Given the higher volume of work and the greater complexity... we think it would be worth considering an additional person."

Restaurateurs credit others for Citizen honors

By STEVE KELLMAN

Northville's new Citizens of the Year accept the honor and resulting attention gracefully, but insist that the award does not belong to them alone.

"The plaque that they gave us is not big enough to fit all the names, so they just put our names on it," said John Genitti, who runs Genitti's Hole-in-the-Wall Restaurant and Gift Shop with Toni, his wife.

The husband-and-wife team gave much of the credit for winning the Northville Community Chamber of Commerce award to the rest of the 40-odd staff members serving meals, entertaining patrons and assisting in the increasingly popular catering business run out of their 108 E. Main St. store.

"There's a lot of people who helped along the way," John insisted. "The town itself and the people who work with me have made it happen, and allowed us to do what we wanted to do."

What the Genittis have done is build a small restaurant into a local

"They have stood out in our minds for all of their involvement... They've donated their time, their employees' time and their restaurant to generate a lot of support for local organizations."

institution — one that attracts tourists to town from as far away as California, and keeps corporate clients like the Ford Motor Company well-fed as well.

The Genittis' famous seven-course weekend dinner is another Northville tradition — one which John would not miss for the world, or even for an awards ceremony honoring the restaurateur himself.

"I was working when they gave the award," he said. "I haven't missed one of those dinners in 15 years." His parents accepted the Chamber of Commerce plaque on the couple's behalf.

The Genittis declined to mention the many things they do to better the community.

But their refusal to brag about their civic actions was interrupted by a request from a local garden club representative. Toni was on the phone a minute later, referring the woman to someone who could help her cause.

The Northville Community Chamber of Commerce is more vocal about the reasons that the Genittis were honored as Citizens of the Year. "They have stood out in our minds for all of their involvement," said Chamber Secretary Greg Spinazze, a member of the selection committee. "They've donated their time, their employees' time and their restaurant to generate a lot of support for local organizations."

Local non-profit groups including the Northville Action Council, Northville Youth Assistance, Students Against Drunk Driving and Friends of the Northville Library have all been helped by the Genittis, through both use of the restaurant and the donation of food for fund-raising purposes.

The Genittis have owned and operated their Main Street store for two decades now. John joked that he bought the business — originally a small grocery store and deli — because it was the only way he could break into business after getting out of a two-year stint in the Army. "I couldn't find a job so I bought one," he said.

Police check theft report

By MIKE TYREE
Staff Writer

Township police are investigating a gas station attendant's claim that she was robbed at knifepoint Oct. 11 while working at the Mobil station at 39425 Six Mile Road at Haggerty.

Police said the attendant told them a white male in his mid-20s fled with $1,264 cash after he brandished a knife and demanded the attendant empty the station's cash drawer.

The theft allegedly occurred while another Mobil employee was in a back room and just before the cash was to be deposited in a safe, township police Chief Chip Snider said. Snider also said the attendant was the only witness to the theft.

The attendant told police a man entered the station through the east door and went to a rear pop cooler. The man reportedly selected a 20-ounce bottle of pop and waited until the store cleared of customers before approaching the counter.

The man then handed the attendant $20 to pay for the pop, the attendant told police. When the employee opened the cash register to change the bill, she said the man took a "utility-type knife" from his right jacket pocket, pointed the weapon at her and said "Give me all your money in the drawer."

The employee said she gave the man the cash and he left through the east side door. The attendant said she did not see an escape vehicle and did not see the man leave the scene.

The woman described the suspect as a 5'-10" white male of thin build with shoulder-length blond hair tied into a ponytail. The attendant said the suspect had a "baby-type face" and smooth complexion.

She said the man wore a waist-length black leather jacket, torn blue jeans and tennis shoes.

Snider confirmed the cash theft and said police have been unable to contact the attendant since the night of the incident. He said the case remains open.

A Mobil employee who said she was the store's assistant manager refused comment on the incident. She refused to say if the employee was still working at the station.

"I'm not at liberty to say anything," she said Tuesday. "It's a police matter now."

Store files for bankruptcy reorganization

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

The venerable Northville clothier behind Del's Shoes has filed for reorganization.

Del's Shoes Inc. — which includes the still-functioning "Del's Department Store" in Northville and "Del's" in Plymouth — filed Oct. 1 for reorganization under Chapter 11 in U.S. Bankruptcy Court in Detroit, according to court records.

Unlike a Chapter 7 proceeding, Chapter 11 does not require a business to close its doors. It simply allows the owner to obtain a federal court order freeing the business from the threat of creditors' lawsuits, while the owner develops a creditor-approved reorganization plan.

Owner Del Black attributed his credit problems to former stores, not to the current Northville and Plymouth shops which he said continue to turn a profit.

"These... have been the stores that enabled us to build the company... They've paid the load," he said.

Black opened his first store in Northville in 1963. At the height of his career, the local entrepreneur owned and operated 14 shoe stores. Eight were in Michigan — two in Rochester and one each in Northville, Plymouth, Brighton, South Lyon, Wayne and Duck Lake.

Six more stores were located in Indiana, including Indianapolis, South Bend, Merrillville and Elkhart.

But Black has been slowly consolidating his business interests for several years. He closed the original Northville shoe store at 153 E. Main St. in August, moving the inventory into his 141 E. Main St. department store just down the street.

"We did a lot of things to reorganize already," he said. Those steps included the consolidation in August.

"We've got problems, but we're solving our problems," he said.

Black owns a similar shop at 322 S. Main St. in Plymouth. That store, which also sells both clothing and shoes, opened twenty years ago.

Black is former president of Northville's Downtown Merchants Association.

Artistic license signals trouble for Detroit men

Two Detroit men were arrested by city police Oct. 14 after being stopped for speeding on Eight Mile Road. The driver of the car gave a city police officer the passenger's license, but admitted that the license was not his after a computer check turned up a paternity warrant.

The driver's own license had six suspensions and a Livonia traffic warrant on it. He was charged with speeding, driving with a suspended license, and displaying another person's license as his own, and released on $105 bond. His passenger was charged with knowingly permitting the use of his license by another, and released on $500 bond.

Police News

Police said the man responded to a question about how long he had been drinking by saying "Since Friday (Oct. 12)."

Citizens with information about the above incidents are urged to call Northville City Police at 349-1234 or Northville Township Police at 349-9400.

Arson suspected in trailer fire

By MIKE TYREE
Staff Writer

Arson is suspected in a Sept. 30 fire that damaged contents of a semi-trailer parked in a vacant lot in Northville Township.

Township police and fire officials said damage to a trailer parked east of Highland Lakes Shopping Mall on Seven Mile Road was "suspicious in nature."

Firefighters restricted the blaze to the 40-foot trailer. The owner estimated damage to electrical wire and lights inside the trailer at $4,000, police said.

According to township police reports, officers on patrol on Seven Mile smelled something burning at approximately 10:25 p.m. Sept. 30. Police then noticed smoke rising from the trailer.

Assistant Fire Chief Rick Roselle said the left rear door of the trailer was ajar when firefighters arrived. He said the fire started in the rear of the trailer and may have burned between "20 minutes to two hours" before smoke was detected.

The owner reportedly told police he was inside the trailer to retrieve materials Sept. 27. He said he locked both rear doors when he left the trailer.

Roselle said no accelerants or

"There was no gas or (live) electrical wiring... They just don't start on their own."

other evidence of arson were found at the scene. But he said it was likely the fire was intentionally set.

"There was no gas or (live) electrical wiring," he said. "They just don't start on their own."

Police Chief Chip Snider said the fire was "suspicious."

"It was an unoccupied dwelling that was in poor condition," he said. "We're not sure of the cause and origin (but) our suspicions are that it was a juvenile (set) fire."

Police Captain Philip Presnell said the township sent the owner a letter informing him that the trailer was "an attractive nuisance" for further arson or vandalism.

The owner has been unavailable for comment since the fire.

County waste plan approved by DNR

At least three years in the making, Wayne County's solid waste plan is now a reality.

The Michigan Department of Natural Resources approved the plan recently, along with solid waste plans submitted by 49 other counties.

Wayne County's plan, which relies on recycling and new landfills, drew special praise, according to Milton Mack, chairperson of the county's solid waste implementation committee.

"What they were telling us is it's almost too good a plan," said Mack. "So, naturally, we're quite pleased."

The county grappled with several approaches before ultimately requiring communities to maintain at least one recycling center for every 100,000 residents by Jan. 1. Locally, Northville Township and the City of Northville each operate a recycling center.

"We'd like to see every community have one, but there's some flexibility for smaller communities," Mack said.

New landfills will be added in Van Buren and Sumpter townships. The Wayne Disposal landfill, in Canton, will be expanded, as will an existing landfill in Riverview.

"We're looking at Wayne Disposal operating for another 15-18 years," Mack said. Woodland Meadows, another Canton landfill, will also be expanded. "That will only be temporary," Mack said, "adding another two years until the new landfills are complete."

In addition to the DNR approval, the plan also met with approval from more than two-thirds of the county's municipalities. Communities voted their approval earlier this year.

"We were much happier with the plan as it finally appeared," said Daniel Gilmartin, executive director of the conference of Western Wayne. The multi-community group raised concerns about an earlier draft that — members feared — would promote incineration over recycling.

County communities that don't incinerate their waste must submit a waste reduction plan to the county by January 1992. Those that don't comply with the new county law will be prohibited from sending their waste to county landfills.

At one time, the county sought to mandate decreases in waste, but Mack said that approach was impractical.

"You just can't tell communities to cut waste by 50 percent or 20 percent," he said. "What we've achieved is a more realistic approach."

To the disappointment of some environmentalists, the plan also allows incinerators to continue operating.

TIPS FROM TUCHKLAPER

Novi Dental Center
A. Allen Tuchklaper
D.D.S.

ANALGESIA: "LAUGHING GAS"

Some patients, for psychological reasons among others, don't take readily to the idea of an injection. What is needed is a form of anesthetic where the patient feels pretty good, where nothing could bother him, not even pain, and where he is completely relaxed.

Dentistry has an agent that can bring a patient to a high degree of relaxation and is easily administered, with almost no side effects. It is nitrous oxide, sometimes called "laughing gas." It has been used by dentists for more than a hundred years. When inhaled with a mixture of oxygen, it will lessen pain sensations and put the patient in a receptive frame of mind for dental treatment.

Nitrous oxide is not ideal for long, intricate procedures. Many dentists start treatment with nitrous oxide, and after the patient has reached a relaxed state, will augment it with a local anesthetic. When the treatment is completed, pure oxygen may be given to flush the gas out of the patient's system, and he immediately recovers to an alert state of mind.

City assessor learns on the job

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

Northville city assessor Mark Christiansen told the city council that his first six months on the job have been a learning process.

"One of the things I found when I came here was the vast differences between assessments in Wayne and Oakland counties," Christiansen said at a city council meeting. He said he plans to gradually equalize the assessments to do away with the disparity.

Christiansen was hired on a two-year contract to coordinate the city's property assessments. Before his arrival, assessing had been provided for a fee by Wayne and Oakland counties. City officials hope the new assessor can relieve disparities in assessments between the Wayne and Oakland portions of Northville, and reassess the city's commercial properties at the same time.

Since starting in April, the new assessor has already set up a fully functioning assessing office in city hall. But the office has experienced growing pains, moving from cramped quarters opposite the finance department to new rooms in the east wing of city hall.

"The office physically works very well," Christiansen says now. Armed with a high-speed microcomputer and a software program called — appropriately — the Equalizer, the office can track property values and access the city's own computer information network and tax rolls.

When he has completed compiling data on city properties and assessment figures, Christiansen says he will have "a very intensive data base" containing detailed information on building structure types and locations. He said the information will be available for use by other departments, including police, fire, and the department of public works.

"One of the things I found when I came here was the vast differences between assessments in Wayne and Oakland counties."

MARK CHRISTIANSEN
Northville City Assessor

Christiansen said he plans to begin field work on an extensive review of the city's commercial properties next month. City officials have complained for years of underassessment of commercial businesses by Wayne County assessors, and the council approved Christiansen's position in hopes that an intensive commercial reassessment could be done by the assessor.

"There has not been a major reappraisal of commercial property in 20 years," Christiansen agreed.

County officials have apparently been less than helpful to the new as-essor. "I literally received no data from Wayne County regarding rental data and other data needed for a complete commercial reappraisal," he said.

Another unfinished goal of Christiansen's is to make the assessing department more accessible to the public. He said a computer terminal could be provided to allow property owners and others access to assessing records, and relieve the burden on his time. "All they'll need to do is enter a Sidwell number or an address," he said.

The race is on for Senate seat

Many eyes in Michigan are on the state Senate's District 15, as Republicans pin their hopes and money on beating a 26-year veteran legislator, and Democrats campaign hard to keep him in place.

Facing off on the Nov. 6 ballot are incumbent Democrat Jack Faxon of Farmington Hills and two challengers, Republican Denise Alexander of Southfield and Libertarian Steve Silver of Huntington Woods.

Combined, the candidates are predicting they will spend upwards of a quarter of a million dollars. The winner will represent an area including Northville above Baseline Road as well as all of Novi, Wixom, Farmington, Farmington Hills, Southfield, Lathrup Village, Oak Park, Huntington Woods, Ferndale and Royal Oak Township.

Republican leaders say both the state and national GOP are putting big dollars plus a volunteer network behind their race to unseat Faxon, although they are coy about how much money will be spent. Alexander said she expects to spend between $120,000 and $150,000 in her election bid.

More is riding on this race than just one Senate seat, as Republicans carefully eye their current majority there and look to legislative redistricting in the next two years. They believe they have a chance this year because the district has grown heavily in the western end in Farmington Hills and Novi during the past 10 years.

"Keeping Republican control of the state Senate is very important," said Dave Doyle, Michigan Republican Party executive director. "The 15th is a district the Michigan Republicans have always looked at as potential for 1990. With Denise's strong support, it made us look at it even stronger."

Although he expects to spend less than $100,000 and less than Alexander and her party, Faxon believes he can retain his seat handily. "They certainly are spending more," he said. "I'm getting good feedback. I've not experienced any major disaffection."

Here is a brief sketch of each candidate:

• Alexander, 38, is a freshman member of the Southfield City Council and a seven-year veteran of that city's planning commission. An attorney who practices family law in Birmingham, she is a graduate of Oak Park High School, the University of Michigan and Detroit College of Law.

• Faxon, 54, has been a state senator since 1970, and prior to that served as a state representative for six years. A former teacher, Faxon is founder of The International School, a bilingual elementary and preschool in Southfield. He holds a bachelor's degree in education from Wayne State University, and advanced degrees in education and history from Wayne State and the University of Michigan.

• Silver, 34, owns and operates the Oil Dispatch, a chain of quick oil change businesses based in Southfield. He holds degrees in computer science from the University of Michigan and Wayne State University. He is running on the traditional, Libertarian philosophy of abolishing big government.

Arrest after fight

By MIKE TYREE
Staff Writer

A man's apparent fondness for exercise videotapes led him to a strenuous but unanticipated workout with Meijer security and township police last week.

Police said Jerry Wayne Mayberry, 37, of Keego Harbor, was arrested and charged with larceny Oct. 9 after an alleged shoplifting incident at the 20401 Haggerty store.

Meijer security personnel allege that Mayberry attempted to steal a Jane Fonda workout videotape by hiding the tape in his clothing. Mayberry made no attempt to pay for the item, according to Meijer employees. Store security then tried to arrest Mayberry, who allegedly resisted and fled through the Meijer parking lot, police said. Mayberry also allegedly punched a 35-year-old security employee in the face, police said.

Three members of the Meijer security staff reportedly captured and handcuffed Mayberry after a brief struggle.

A computer check revealed that Mayberry was wanted in Alpena on a warrant for illegal possession of a deer. He also is currently on parole from a larceny in a building conviction, police said.

Mayberry was arraigned in 35th District Court Oct. 10 on a felony charge of retail fraud. A not-guilty plea was entered for him and a $5,000 cash bond was set.

THE SAD TRUTH IS BABIES HAVING BABIES ISN'T ALWAYS MAKE-BELIEVE.

TEEN PREGNANCIES HAVE RISEN 25 PERCENT IN THE LAST 5 YEARS.

The harsh reality is hundreds of babies are born every year to teenage parents. A growing number to children under the age of 16.

The United Way Torch Drive needs your donation to help organizations, like Children's Aid Society and Oakland Family Services, educate and counsel teenage parents. Plus, your contribution will aid over 150 agencies that retrain displaced workers, provide health research, offer services to the mentally disabled and more.

Give generously to the United Way Torch Drive. The good it can do goes beyond imagination.

'BPW honors resident

Powerful women from throughout Michigan were honored Saturday at the Holiday Inn in Spring Lake. The ceremonial banquet kicked off National Business Women's Week festivities observed Oct. 15-19 across the country.

Martha Jane Trapp of the Northville Business and Professional Women's Organization was among the group.

The award recognizes women who have career, community and BPW activities. Trapp is self-employed with Avon Products Inc. and has worked with the company since 1957.

"Women are setting higher standards for themselves than ever before," remarked Women of Achievement Chair Leona Skol of Dearborn.

"They have set their goals high, and no one is going to stop them from reaching them. We are happy to be able to honor these outstanding people and reward them for their service."

Trapp has been a resident of Northville for 44 years and actively involved in the Northville BPW since 1975.

Auditors give report

The auditors improved the city's ongoing public improvement programs, but warned that the programs leave Northville strapped for extra funds. "Within a $3-million budget you came within about $8,000, which is about as close as you can shave it and still get along," said auditor Ken Kunkel.

"These last five years, when you look back on them, will be some of the city's most productive years," he said.

But financially, according to Kunkel, "You really don't have any leeway at all, you have virtually no fund balance to work with, so you have to keep a tight rein . . . which you are doing."

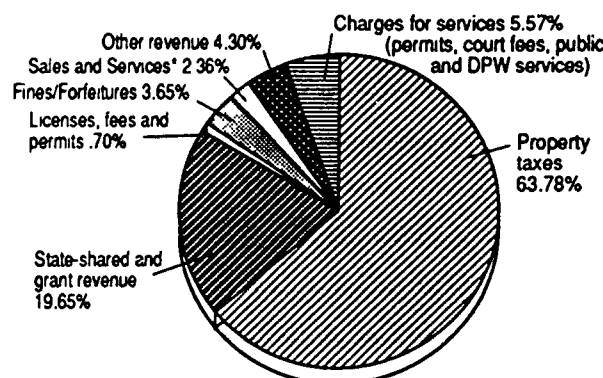

The auditors gave the council both good news and bad news concerning future city revenues, and the news reports balanced each other out. While a 10-percent increase in the city's population could result in increased state-retained revenues on sales, small-business and income taxes, Eagan warned that state officials may decide to cut back on state-retained revenues if the current economic recession grows worse. "We believe the head count increase will at least offset the economic decrease — at least that's what we hope," Eagan said.

Plante & Moran was unanimously reappointed as the city's auditors for the 1991 fiscal year, at a maximum audit fee of $22,450. Other potential fees may be added to that figure, including a $1,450 Community Development Grant Program audit fee and $975 fees for auditing bonding, construction and special assessment activities, if such programs are required.

WHAT'S GOOD FOR THE EARTH

IS GOOD FOR YOUR HEALTH

How to save a bundle.

Each one of us throws out almost 1200 pounds of trash every year, and America is running out of places to put it. Much of this trash, over 40%, is paper — one of the easiest materials to recycle.

For many households, saving old newspapers is an easy way to begin the recycling habit. Simply: (1) Separate your newspapers from the other trash. (2) Sort out hard-to-recycle slick inserts and magazines. (3) Bundle the newspapers and take them to your local recycling center.

To learn more about recycling and other everyday things you do to help keep the environment safe and clean, stop by your neighborhood M-CARE Health Center now through October 29th for a free copy of our new booklet, Earth Care: What's good for the Earth is good for your health.

And while you're here, pick up a free, reusable, string shopping bag. Because if every shopper took just one less paper bag each year, we could save hundreds of millions of bags each year.

Township police increase staff

By MIKE TYREE
Staff Writer

Police Chief Chip Snider wants more officers patrolling Northville Township streets and more dispatchers to tell them where to go.

The township board likes the idea. Board members last week told Snider to proceed with the hiring of one additional officer and two part-time dispatchers. Snider had requested the additions in an attempt to fill vacancies created by departures and assignments to other units.

"I'm asking for... an officer that was never replaced some time ago," he said.

Snider told the board that department manpower decreased when officer John Werth was assigned to a grant-funded auto theft unit. He said a replacement officer was a 1990 budgeted item.

The department presently is reviewing police officer applications. Snider said the new officer could be selected by November's board meeting.

Eighteen uniformed officers will staff the police department after the hiring.

The board also agreed to add two part-time dispatchers to the department. The new dispatchers will work 20 hours per week, Snider said.

Three full-time dispatchers tend the telephones at township hall. Another full-time employee serves as a clerk/dispatcher and three additional part-time dispatchers work for the department.

Local students launch food drive

Meads Mill students plan to demonstrate their civic concern for the sixth year in a row next week, with their annual Spirit Week food drive.

The 470 middle school students will collect canned goods for the local emergency assistance program Civic Concern. Last year's drive raised more than 500 items for the program, which provides food and services to the needy in Northville and surrounding communities.

Paula Stachura, the Parent/Teacher Association representative for the drive, said students have two goals during this year's food drive. "Besides raising spirit in the school among themselves, they're also trying to do some good for the community," she said.

"We're running it as a contest," she added. "It's the sixth-graders versus the seventh-graders versus the eighth-graders to see who can show the most school spirit."

Spirit Week runs from Oct. 22-26, and student parents are urged to assist in the drive.

SAT critics push exam changes

By SUZANNE HOLLYER
Staff Writer

Critics of the Scholastic Aptitude Test, a test used by colleges and universities to decide admissions and award scholarships, will have to wait to see any drastic changes.

The College Entrance Exam Board, which sponsors the test, was expected to vote on proposed changes recently at a meeting in New York.

The vote was tabled, with critics blaming the postponement on internal controversy.

"They tabled the vote pretty clearly because of the controversy surrounding (the changes)," said Sarah Stockwell, university tests coordinator for the National Center for Fair and Open Testing.

The board said no decision was made because of the importance of the issue, not the controversy surrounding it.

"There was no decision made due to the importance and complexities of the issue under consideration," said Anne Buckley, assistant director of public affairs.

Financial and program changes in the testing process will also have to be considered before the board votes on the changes, Buckley said.

"They tabled the vote pretty clearly because of the controversy surrounding (the changes)."

SARAH STOCKWELL
National Center for Fair and Open Testing

The board hopes to vote on the changes some time this month.

Students in the Northville Public School District have scored well on the test in the past, but the district still supports the re-examination of the test.

Assistant Superintendent for Instructional Services Dolly McMaster said any test should be periodically reviewed to ensure biases are not built into the test, and to make sure the test is still measuring what it needs to measure.

The proposed changes include the addition of written essays, the elimination of some multiple choice questions in the math and vocabulary portions of the test, more testing of vocabulary based on readings, and permitting the use of calculators.

These changes still will not be comprehensive enough to satisfy Stockwell, who said she wants to see the test become optional for students or discarded from the educational process altogether.

Discrimination charges made against the test may be one reason the changes were proposed.

Stockwell said a 60 point difference between girls and boys on the math portion of the test shows an unfair bias is built into the test.

She said that because of socialization by parents and teachers and tracking methods used by counselors, girls get less math and science in high school.

Although it may be social problems and not the SAT that cause education gaps, Stockwell said the SAT exaggerates the gap between girls and boys level of knowledge in math and science.

"Their scores were lower even when girls had the classes and got better grades," Stockwell said.

What causes the gap? Stockwell said it is the test itself.

"The context of the questions are geared much more toward male than female," she said.

She gave the example of multiple choice questions with ambiguous choices requiring the test taker to choose the "best" answer.

"Girls might be more likely to see grays than blacks and whites," she said.

The test has problems for minorities too, Stockwell said, at least minorities that come from poor socioeconomic backgrounds.

The test is "clearly coachable," according to Stockwell. The unfairness in the test is caused by placing uncoached students in competition with coached students.

The classes and books to prepare students for the test cost money and may be more accessible to wealthier students.

Haunted forest walk set for Maybury

A haunted forest walk at Maybury State Park will be held the evenings of Oct. 26 and 27.

The walk, appropriately called "Maybury Madness," will be a guided tour along a path where participants will experience spooky Halloween events. The event is being offered to provide a unique, fun activity for kids in a drug-free setting.

The University of Michigan M-Care Health Center of Northville, Northville Community Recreation and Northville Students Against Driving Drunk (SADD) are the main sponsors for the event, with other businesses and organizations participating.

The walk will take about 20 minutes and conclude with a 20-minute hay ride which will return participants to the starting point at the concession stand where free cider and doughnuts will be served. Other food and beverages will be available for parents who do not wish to enter the haunted forest.

The walk is directed at junior high and high school students but all age groups are welcome. Children under sixth grade must be accompanied by an adult.

Tickets are $5 and include admission to the park. Large-group ticket sales began Oct. 1 and individual ticket sales began Oct. 8. Tickets are available at the sponsoring organizations: Community Recreation, 303 W. Main St., M-Care Health Center at 650 Griswold and the SADD chapters of Northville schools. No tickets will be sold at the park, but must be purchased ahead of time. Only those with tickets will be admitted to the park.

If the weather is bad, WJR radio station (760 AM) will announce the cancellation of the event at 5 p.m. A recorded message at 349-0203 will also provide cancellation information.

All profits will be donated to the Northville S.A.D.D. chapter. If you have any questions please contact Northville Community Recreation at 349-0203.

Mill Race Matters

Next Wednesday evening, Oct. 24 Mill Race Village and the Northville Historical Society will host the Local Area Historical Societies' semi-annual meeting.

The festivities will begin at 6:30 p.m. with a one-hour tour of all buildings. At 7:30 all participants will meet in the New School Church for light refreshments followed by a short presentation: "Preserve the Past, Plan for the Future" by Susan Lapine and Don Mroz. The short program will explain to those gathered why it is important for a non-profit organization like a historical society to develop a long-range plan and how to get started.

After the program, organizations present will have time to tell about their own activities. This is a meeting you won't want to miss, so be sure to come down and join us. We look forward to seeing all of you there. Perspective, new and old members are welcome.

Drug suspect smoked from Meijer parking lot

By MIKE TYREE
Staff Writer

A 36-year-old Wixom man was charged with possession of narcotics paraphernalia after his arrest last week in the parking lot at Meijer, 20401 Haggerty.

Township police said an officer on patrol at Meijer Oct. 11 noticed a vehicle without designated handicapped license plates parked in a handicapped space.

The officer walked to the front of the vehicle to check for a temporary parking permit and saw a man inside the vehicle smoking what the officer believed to be a marijuana cigarette. According to police reports, the man was holding the cigarette with a pair of surgical clips.

Police said the man saw the officer and attempted to hide the marijuana. The officer said he asked the man what he had, and the man showed him the surgical clips and what police allege was a "roach," the remnants of marijuana joint.

The man then gave police a nylon bag that police said contained two pipes, two cigarette clips, a cigarette rolling device and a plastic bag with what police suspect was marijuana.

Police searched the vehicle but did not find additional drugs or paraphernalia, according to reports.

Police said the man could not walk without the aid of a wheelchair. The suspect told police the suspected marijuana was not a prescribed pain reliever.

The man was released at the scene pending a warrant for narcotics paraphernalia possession.

Violence a county-wide woe

Violence is a problem in Wayne County — not just in Detroit — county leaders said in unveiling a comprehensive plan to reduce violent crime.

Homicides have been on the increase since 1984, according to county statistics, with 3,816 slayings reported in the five-year period.

While county leaders acknowledged recent violence outside the Detroit night spot Harpo's drew new attention to the problem, the Wayne County Task Force On Violence Reduction began meeting in March.

Among its findings: Wayne County has one of the nation's highest homicide rates and the highest homicide rate for black males of any state, county or city compiling such statistics.

While violent crime is considered a problem of epidemic proportions in inner-city neighborhoods, county Executive Edward McNamara said violence is also a problem in the suburbs.

"It's more publicized in the black community, but it exists in the white community, too," McNamara said.

Domestic violence is considered a major problem in all county communities, McNamara said.

A symposium on spouse and child abuse has been called for December, with all county mayors and police chiefs to be invited.

In addition, a permanent county anti-violence commission will be established to oversee task force recommendations.

Recommendations include:

- Helping hospitals implement counseling programs for victims of violence, especially in teaching them how to avoid being victimized again.

Detroit Receiving Hospital handled nearly 9,500 assault victims in 1988, the last year for which figures are available. Assault cases ranged from a low of 206 in January to a high of 1,036 in July.

- Creating neighborhood anti-violence programs.

Pilot programs will be developed in up to three neighborhoods, task force members said, with anti-violence programs eventually available to all neighborhoods.

Task force members included Clementine Barfield, founder of the Detroit program Save Our Sons and Daughters (SOSAD).

- Embarking on a countywide advertising campaign, similar to national anti-smoking ads, instructing youngsters to turn away from violence. Rap music may be included, task force members said.

"We live in a society where a look can get you killed," said county commissioner Bernard Kilpatrick, D-Detroit. "We've got to tell people to just walk away."

Task force members were aware previous efforts had failed, they said. The difference this time, they said, was that anti-violence programs would become a top priority of all county departments.

While state and federal grants may be sought, "there are things we can do right here in Wayne County, without anyone's help," said Vernice Davis-Anthony, assistant county executive for health and community services.

County officials are considering shifting money from the 1988 jail millage to finance anti-violence programs but aren't sure whether they can do so, said county commissioner Kay Beard, D-Inkster.

"There's all kinds of interesting things we could do, but we aren't sure we'd be given permission to use the millage," Beard said.

Programs would begin as soon as financing could be secured, task force members said.

With M-CARE, the sky is not the limit.

There's a serious accident. Time is crucial. A helicopter is dispatched to speed the victim to the University of Michigan Burn Center... a service you, hopefully, will never have to call on. But it's there if you need it, and much, much more through M-CARE.

M-CARE is the only HMO that links all the resources of the U of M Medical Center to the personal care of your family doctor and your nearby hospital. M-CARE covers you for office visits, checkups, hospitalization—even emergency helicopter transport.

Of course, with the M-CARE network of hospitals in cities like Royal Oak, Dearborn and Rochester, you don't always have to go to the U of M Medical Center. But isn't it good to know it's there whenever you need it? To find out more, ask your employer. Or call M-CARE at 747-8700.

NORTHVILLE CITY COUNCIL MINUTES SYNOPSIS OCTOBER 1, 1990

Mayor Johnson called the regular meeting of the Northville City Council to order in the Council Room at 8:00 p.m.

1. PLEDGE OF ALLEGIANCE:

PRESENT: Mayor Christopher J. Johnson, Councilmen Paul F. Folino, G. Dowdy Gardner, Jerome J. Mitman.

ABSENT: Mayor Pro-Tem Carolann Ayers, excused out-of-town.

ALSO PRESENT: City Manager Steven Walters, City Clerk Cathy Konrad, Assessor Mark Christensen, Library Director Pat Orr, Recreation Director John Anderson, Fire Chief Jim Allen, Architect Ron Cieslak, Kathleen Otton, Northville Record Reporter Steve Kallman.

2. ROLL CALL:

PRESENT: Mayor Christopher J. Johnson, Councilmen Paul F. Folino, G. Dowdy Gardner, Jerome J. Mitman.

3. APPROVAL OF COUNCIL MEETING MINUTES:

The minutes of the regular meeting of September 24, 1990, were approved as presented and placed on file.

4. CITIZEN COMMENTS:

None.

5. ADOPTION OF THE AGENDA AND APPROVAL OF THE CONSENT AGENDA:

Moved, supported, CARRIED UNANIMOUSLY, to approve the agenda as amended and the consent agenda A through D.

6. SINGH DEVELOPMENT RE: S. CENTER STREET RECONSTRUCTION:

Walters requested discussion be held until Mike Kahn arrives.

7. ASSESSING DEPARTMENT STATUS REPORT:

Mark Christensen, Assessor, reported to the Council on his goals and objectives for the Assessing Department.

8. SINGH DEVELOPMENT RE: S. CENTER STREET RECONSTRUCTION:

Moved, supported, CARRIED UNANIMOUSLY, to proceed with the reconstruction of S. Center Street between Main Street and Cady Street with the City's share estimated at $57,753; and approve amended reconstruction drawings.

9. 1991 RECREATION BUDGET REVIEW:

Walters noted the Recreation Budget and Senior Citizens Budget were presented for Council's review. Any serious changes by the Township would be brought back for City Council's response.

Mitman found it inappropriate that interest from the Park Development Fund is used by the General Fund Operation. Walters noted that interest from the Park Development Fund is about $8,000.

It was the consensus of City Council to remove the interest earned by the Park Improvement Fund from the General Fund Revenues.

Council discussed the 1991 Senior Citizens Budget, and asked the Director to look at ways to reduce that budget; also, the proposed deficit for the 1990 budget be balanced as it was projected to be an additional $260.

10. 1991 LIBRARY BUDGET REVIEW:

Walters noted the Library Budget was presented for Council's review. Any serious changes by the Township would be brought back for City Council's response.

Library Director Pat Orr stated that our residents use the Novi, Plymouth and Canton libraries by exceeding the 1-2% allowance. We are at 5.7% over circulation in Novi now and are borderline for an assessment fee and limitation of use (to be negotiated). The overload is at Plymouth and Novi in the evenings, Saturday and Sunday during the academic year. To overcome this, the Library Director is proposing to increase the hours our library is open.

The Council was sensitive to increasing hours at the library because the Township residents opposed additional mileage for library purposes.

The 1991 Library Budget proposed an additional $82,000 to increase staffing. Council requested that hours vs. facility and materials borrowed be analyzed. Also, what are our peak days and what peak days do our residents use other WOLF facilities. The City and Township will need to review the budget increase vs. cutting hours on other days.

11. THEATRE PARKING LOT PROJECT:

Motion by Gardner, supported by Folino, CARRIED UNANIMOUSLY, to approve the City Manager's report dated 9/27/90, to proceed with the Theatre Parking Lot Project as presented.

12. RECREATION CENTER PARKING AREA RE: MAINTENANCE AGREEMENT:

Moved, supported, CARRIED UNANIMOUSLY, to negotiate with Singh Development to obtain a credit for the Scout Building parking area, which will not be built as originally agreed, and apply the credit against the City's share of the S. Center Street improvement project.

13. FIRE HALL EXPANSION STATUS REPORT:

Moved, supported, CARRIED UNANIMOUSLY, to request the Northville Public School Board enter into a lease agreement with the City to allow the proposed fire hall addition to occupy a portion of the school's property.

14. COUNCIL COMMENTS:

Mitman asked if the tree plantings along Eight Mile Road and Tall Road would start this year. Walters will check with Ted Mapes and report.

Anderson stated the senior citizens are thankful for their building and appreciate the renovation accomplished by Ted Mapes.

Moved, supported, CARRIED UNANIMOUSLY, that the Council go into closed session to discuss the Smith law suit.

The meeting recessed at 10:10 p.m.

Mayor Johnson adjourned the regular meeting of October 1, 1990, at 10:20 p.m.

Waiting on bids pays off

The city council's decision to reject September bids on a water main replacement project turned out to be worthwhile, to the tune of nearly $35,000.

The latest round of bids resulted in a figure that much lower than the lowest figure in September.

The council voted to accept a bid of $221,035 from Peter Basile Sons, Inc. of Livonia, to replace water mains under South Center and West Cady streets. The lowest bid in September, from SDI Construction, Inc. of Farmington Hills, had been $264,983.

Peter Basile Sons did not bid on the project last month.

City Engineer Robert Warner of McNeely & Lincoln Associates said the company was qualified for the project, pointing out that Peter Basile Sons has worked with the city before, on the Main Street '78 project and on the concrete repair portion of the 1985 road rehabilitation program.

City Manager Steven Walters cited another advantage in selecting Peter Basile Sons for the job. While the other two bidders, SDI Construction and D.O.C. Contracting of Westland, estimated the time required to complete the project at 39 and 60 days respectively, Peter Basile Sons planned on 20 days for the project.

The timing of the project is important because the mains must be replaced before the city parking lot south of Main Centre is repaved, and before Center Street is reconfigured in connection with the Main Centre project.

The water main project is designed to replace deteriorated mains under Center and Cady, and increase water pressure to St. Lawrence Estates in order to provide adequate pressure for fire-fighting purposes there.

During 1989, on the national level there was a 423-percent increase in the amount of measles disease compared with 1988 levels.

For the first several months of 1990, there has been over a 40-percent increase in cases over the same period in 1989 with 45 deaths reported throughout the nation attributed to measles or its complications.

The Centers for Disease Control, Immunization Practices Advisory Committee, and the American Academy of Pediatrics have determined that, in general, individuals who have not had physician diagnosed measles disease, or who do not have laboratory evidence of having antibody against measles and were born after January 1, 1957, should receive two measles, mumps and rubella (MMR) immunizations at 15 months of age or older.

Persons born prior to January 1, 1957, are believed to have been infected with naturally occurring measles that was prevalent at that time and therefore, are considered immune. If a person, however, is concerned whether or not they have ever had the disease or whether the person was adequately immunized, a measles antibody blood test can be obtained through the person's private physician.

Although the national recommendations propose this second dose for those listed above, MMR vaccine supplies are limited and will not be available initially for the entire nation.

Call the Wayne County Health Department Disease Control Division at 467-3325 or 467-3326 for more information.

Official backs election foes

A report in the Novi News that Lyon Township Supervisor James Atchison is endorsing Kay Schmid, the Republican candidate seeking the 24th District Oakland County Commissioner's seat, caused a bit of confusion, at least for Jeff Potter, Schmid's Democratic opponent.

Atchison, it seems, is endorsing both Schmid and Potter. His endorsement was originally given to Schmid.

"Kay asked me first," Atchison said. "Then Mr. Potter cornered me and I said I would support him too."

Atchison said he is not sure who he thinks will do the best job once elected.

"I think (Schmid will) do a good job," he said. "Potter could do a good job too, but who knows."

Potter speculated that the dual endorsement was given because Atchison originally supported Schmid in the primary.

"My guess is that he's probably endorsing her because she is on the Republican ticket, and he's endorsing me because of the work that I have done in (the South Lyon area)."

Potter maintained that Schmid is running her campaign based on her role in the Republican party, and not issues. He said the endorsements he has received have been based on his experience, not his involvement in a political party.

Schmid said she is tired of being forced to react to Potter's accusations and attempts at using the media to "spread his propaganda."

"He's trying to get me to play reactionary to everything he does and I don't think that's fair," Schmid said.

The 24th District includes the City of Northville above Baseline Road, as well as Novi, Novi Township and South Lyon.

Oakland wrestles over county taxes

Oakland Democrats would like to make a political mountain out of a financial molehill.

Hours after the Republican-controlled Board of County Commissioners reduced the county's share of property taxes, Democrats were drafting at least two press releases saying the cut wasn't enough.

"It's a matter of principle," said Lawrence R. Pernick, D-Southfield, who is chairperson of the Democratic caucus.

The amount of money involved may be small, he said, but Republicans are the ones always talking about cutting taxes.

"Yet when we (Democrats) want to cut taxes, they won't go along," said Pernick.

Republicans, however, dismissed the criticism as election-year politics. "They're always saying we didn't cut taxes enough," said commissioner Roy Rewold, chairperson of the board. "We did great to cut taxes at all

... not many places could do that."

During the regular meeting of the Oakland County Board Thursday, commissioners voted to cut the county millage by .0671 mill per $1,000 assessed valuation.

Instead of paying $231.96 in county property taxes as he or she did in 1990, the owner of a $100,000 house will pay about $228.60 next year, or about $3.36 less.

The cut was mandated by the Headlee Amendment that requires the millage rate to go down when the tax base gets larger.

With Oakland's state equalized valuation increasing to $25.8 billion in 1990 — up from $23.4 billion the previous year — the Headlee Amendment required the county's tax rate to be cut accordingly.

The county's portion of the property tax bill is usually about 10 percent of the total. School and municipal taxes are usually much higher, generally around 60 and 16 percent.

The Northville Record

Our Opinions

Program grounded in sound principles

Some parents in the Northville School District and around the state oppose using the Michigan Model for Comprehensive School Health Education in the public schools. Their concerns are understandable, but the program makes a great deal of sense.

Sponsored by the state, the Michigan Model teaches the things traditionally taught in health class, like anatomy and sex education. However, some opponents of the model object most to the lessons that teach students how to deal with problems, make choices and resist peer pressure. These opponents talk about how the model takes away their right to teach their own values to their children, and how it confuses kids with too many choices. Some people believe that using the model curriculum may even encourage kids to have sex and experiment with drugs by raising the issues.

Actually, kids do not seem to be having too much trouble involving themselves in sex and drugs. The Michigan Department of Health reports that 30.3 percent of 13-14 year olds have had sex. That is, one of every three kids in the eighth and ninth grade has had sex. The number goes up to 74 percent by the time these students graduate from high school. And these kids are not all careful. In 1988, 17,374 teen-aged women gave birth. In 1989, 9,625 had abortions.

The statistics for drug use are equally grim. If trends hold true, when today's students reach the eighth grade, 13 percent will have used marijuana; 31 percent, alcohol; and 40 percent, cigarettes. These students will enter high school where 17 percent will regularly use marijuana, 9 percent will use illegal drugs not including marijuana, 29 percent will smoke cigarettes and 60 percent will drink alcohol.

These statistics clearly show that the government has a vital interest in educating today's youth about the hazards associated with drugs and unsafe sex, as well as general health. The Michigan Health Model is the solution the state has devised. It may not be perfect, but it appears designed to meet the needs of the students.

Education

Maybe if some of the 13 percent of eighth-graders using marijuana had participated in the "problem solving with people" activity, one that has some health model opponents in an uproar, they would have been able to find the words to say no. The activity has students role-play situations, like resisting a friend's pressure to smoke cigarettes. The activity goes beyond the simplistic "just say no" theory that no longer works.

The model also teaches stress-reduction methods like deep breathing, which opponents say treads into the realm of "New Age" thought, perhaps even to the point of constituting religion. They say the kindergarten-through eighth-grade students should not be taught such stress-reduction techniques in the public schools.

But the statistics show that these kids do have stress and they turn to drugs and alcohol to deal with it. With families splitting up at a greater rate than ever before, combined with fears about high school, college, and even the onset of puberty, elementary school students can have serious stress which adults find difficult to understand. It's hard to picture the limited meditative techniques included in the model undermining any moral education from the home or the church.

If the Northville School District can teach its kids to deal with their stresses and reduce drug abuse, teen pregnancies and improve the health of its students, then we have to ask: Where is the controversy?

Area can still be wild; be aware and careful

Whitetail deer, perhaps Michigan's most beautiful animal, made news twice last week in the Northville area.

A township woman on a horseback ride along Six Mile Road stumbled across the remnants of a hastily butchered deer. Next to the carcass, which had been wrapped in a sheet and newspapers, were three dressed quarter sections of deer meat.

Police and DNR officials said the animal — a doe — probably was the victim of a poacher. Authorities said the woman probably interrupted and scared off the poacher.

Poachers. Hunters and non-hunters — who agree to disagree on virtually all wildlife management issues — are like-minded in their disgust of the person that would shoot a light-blinded deer. Or someone that would shoot an American Bald Eagle to sell on the black market. Or the person that would slaughter a Michigan elk and rip out its eye teeth for a high-priced sale to seekers of strange status.

For all the talk about growth in the Northville community, the area still retains strong rural traits. Cornfields and wooded lots abound, as do swampy, hard-to-reach deer retreats. But those spots also attract poachers.

Residents can help cut down on poachers by listening for and reporting gunshots. Township ordinance forbids the discharge of firearms. Consider gunshots illegal and call the police and/or DNR. Shining deer by using spotlight beams to sweep a field is illegal after 11 p.m. and is illegal throughout deer season. Again, call the authorities.

An Ann Arbor woman also came in contact with a whitetail last week. Unfortunately, she sighted the animal only a few seconds before striking it with her car. The accident occurred on Sheldon just north of Six Mile and points out a problem with an area undergoing increased development.

As deer habitat is cleared, the animals must roam a greater area to feed and reproduce. In the fall rutting season, deer activity increases, as does the incidence of animals dashing in front of vehicles. Ask five Northville residents where they've seen deer crossing the road and they'll give you five different answers.

The DNR says 5-10 deer per acre may call Northville Township home. That means up to 200 deer may be roaming the area. Ironically, the same number of deer die annually in Wayne County after collisions with vehicles.

Motorists should increase their awareness of deer, especially during the fall. Most deer weigh well over 100 pounds, and impact with a moving vehicle is not pleasant for man nor beast.

Kelley: us-versus-them stance

Frank Kelley, Michigan's hyper-sensitive attorney general, said it better than his opponent could have.

Kelley is in his 30th year as the state's No. 1 law enforcement official. A Democrat, he mows down Republican opposition every four years.

Cliff Taylor, the 1990 opponent, said Kelley pays too little attention to organized crime and drugs. The East Lansing lawyer's exact words were: "The attorney general can be more than a consumer ombudsman. He need not be reflexively anti-utility."

A day after that interview, I received a Mail-gram with Frank J. Kelley's name on it endorsing Gov. James Blanchard and U.S. Sen. Carl Levin. It revealed that Kelley isn't just "reflexively anti-utility" but vehemently anti-business. Note the tone of Kelley's rhetoric (italics added):

"John Engler delayed property tax relief for us — in order to protect loopholes for wealthy corporate interests . . . siding with oil companies and big polluters against taxpayers."

"Bill Schuette . . . supports tax breaks for the rich . . ."

"Levin and Blanchard stand up for us against powerful interests."

Now, Kelley is hyper-sensitive about his age — 65 — as readers of our letters column last June observed. But the man dates himself with his choice of words.

Kelley's language is straight out of the Great Depression of the '30s, an era when Kelley turned 10 and was most impressionable, according to management experts.

It's the old class struggle — us versus them. Business people aren't humans but "interests." To read Kelley literally, businesses don't even pay taxes.

What about the teachers unions and the UAW? Aren't they "interests"? What about the spread-the-wealth crowd in the Michigan Trial Lawyers Association?

How about the NAACP, the Urban League, the Booker T. Washington Association and Detroit's city government? Don't they have anything at stake?

How about the Sierra Club, Michigan United Conservation Clubs, the environmental action groups and all the other hunters, bird watchers and tree-huggers? Aren't they interests?

Of course they are — and all legitimate interests. They're all human beings who want to make a living and enjoy life.

If Michigan has learned anything in the last decade, it's that we can't afford the luxury of class warfare. Automakers won't take it and will turn instead to Tennessee.

University students aren't studying the head-bashing methods of Henry Ford I and Harry Bennett. They're studying the cooperative style of the Japanese.

Last weekend the U.S. government paid off the Japanese-Americans whom it incarcerated in the early '40s, indicating World War II is over. The Berlin Wall is down, and many say the Cold War is over.

But in Frank Kelley's world, the battles of the Great Depression are still to be fought. Us versus them. People versus the interests. We versus the rich. Hoary stuff.

Strong partnerships develop

Up until recently, I guess I never really thought that public schools and private businesses would have much to offer each other.

Shows how much I know. The Northville Public Schools this year launched an ambitious program called Partnerships in Education, along the lines of similar ventures around Michigan and across the country. Meanwhile, the Novi Community School District and the Ford Motor Co. recently debuted a pilot venture called the Ford Academy of Manufacturing Sciences. Both programs spring from similar visions.

Schools and businesses do have a natural, vested interest in each other. Schools hope to prepare their students to someday enter and succeed in the world of business. Companies hope to hire educated people who are ready to do the things the companies need to accomplish their goals. So why not get together and help each other out?

That's just what's happening locally, and it's fun to watch. In the interests of full disclosure, I ought to say that the Record is participating in the Partnerships in Education program, so I'm kind of biased in favor of the idea.

At the first meeting of the Partnerships in Education Advisory Council last week, the excitement level was high. It was mostly a get-acquainted session, with everyone talking a little about their individual partnerships. The companies are large and small; from giants like Meijer, McDonald's and Dow Corning to local-scale places like Community Federal Credit Union.

Most of the partnerships are just getting rolling. The first official kickoff was last week, between McDonald's and Silver Springs Elementary (there's a photo on page 6-A in this paper).

Each school in the district will probably have at least one business partner. The Record is one of several companies paired with Northville High School. You may have seen the early results: a story we ran in this paper which was written by Matt Howie and Chuck Hugener, the editors of the high school paper, the Mustang.

Great things are ahead for all the Northville partnerships. You'll be seeing more about the different activities in the months ahead. Personally, I can't wait.

Up in Novi, similar things are happening with the Ford Academy of Manufacturing Sciences. The focus is narrower in a sense, involving just one company and one school (Novi High School). But it's also more intensive and longer term; spanning two years. Ford considers the program a pilot for wider implementation, with the ultimate goal being better training for, and understanding of, manufacturing careers.

It's probably still true to say, in the words of the famous report from a few years back, that America is "a nation at risk" in regard to public education. Northville and Novi, however, continue looking for ways to eliminate the risk — and I think they're finding some.

Release of records may harm

the editor:
I am writing in response to the article in The Northville Record on Thursday, Sept. 27, on page 11A regarding township police's decision to allow the media to view all police records.
Last Oct. 2, my husband, a car salesman, was the victim of crime — a gun held to his head and back; two shots were fired and although he escaped physical injury the emotional trauma was far beyond anything one could ever imagine.

The only peace of mind we had was that although the gunman knew my husband's name, he had no idea where we lived. Having three small children (at the time, ages 4, 3 and 1), this was of great concern to us.
The newspaper (in Livonia) found an armed robbery newsworthy and reported the story on the front page revealing the fact that the salesman was a resident of Northville Township. As the incident occurred in Livonia we felt the fact we lived in Northville was of no importance to anyone.

The only thing printing that sort of information accomplished, other than taking up space, was to add unnecessary worry and more stress to us.

Yes, the media should have access as to what sort of crimes are happening, but they should not have any access to information concerning the victims. Victims need to be protected physically and emotionally. No information should be revealed about them unless it is at their consent.

Michigan Model is discussed

the editor:
Your paper recently carried an article concerning New Age Religion. At the conclusion of the article, it was mentioned that a meeting would be held at the First United Methodist Church of Northville at 7:30 p.m. No time was given for this meeting. So as to avoid confusion on this matter, it is suggested that persons interested in giving information on the meeting list those persons mentioned in the article as to the date of the meeting. Also, please mention that our church is pleased to make its facilities available to groups of the community which may or may not express opinions congruent with those of the United Methodist Church. We feel that it is important to provide this community service of allowing groups of different persuasions to have a forum for their meetings. In no way does it mean that our congregation approves or disapproves of the viewpoints being expressed.
Thank you for your attention to our concern.

sliding we will cheer the graduating class of 2001, if we are still residents here.
I would like to say that we have seen many changes in Northville Public Schools. We began with year-round school and open class concept, seemed good for awhile. Moved within the community, had to change schools and really struggled with the many differences in the new building. Even tried to get my son back into his first school. Rules didn't let that happen too easily. Opted for private school for a few years.
Family grew, other changes and we found ourselves back in the system. Big changes in Northville Public Schools too, closings, remodeling. Very satisfied with buildings, personnel, especially the Middle School Team concept. Excellent educational innovation for teacher, student and parent. I've also observed and experienced teachers who should not be teaching. They no longer relate or care or have the spark they started with. Some of you know them and hope they would find other jobs more self-satisfying.
It's sad because as our children move up the assembly line, they will be affected by a few of them and their quality will be less than what it should be, defects that may not show up right away. There have been marvelous men and women that have touched my children's lives and I pray their input will far outweigh the negatives.
Now I, a mom, am greatly concerned about something that is getting put into our children's minds, which is different from closing and reopening buildings and overcrowding and millages and a less happy teacher. It is not ABCs or 123s, it is concepts and techniques that I do not think should be classroom material.
I am trying to find out more about Michigan Model so I can clarify to myself and to others why this does not belong in our schools. I am also finding out that I may and may not have rights to my child in this matter. But I am also finding out that I am a voting tax-paying mom, who needs to get back to understanding the rights I do have in electing school board members (they do work for us, you know) and in turn the school board needs to oversee the school officials and the job they are doing.
Maybe I need to do some homework in educating myself about changes in the learning process which will take more pain and stress to undo than the reopening of closed buildings. Parents, concerned citizens and educators — we should care and make every effort to be aware of our shared responsibility in this matter.

hear that our school system would implement such an unproven program as this one without any prior parental awareness.
Our children's minds are a precious thing that should not be experimented with. Our school system also says that these classes are mandatory and that we have no choices, and no options. Should we have to submit to their pre-set curriculum?
I object to our children being used as "pawns" in this program by the so-called "professionals." The word "professional" was being used so often in the Monday (Oct. 8) edition of The Northville Record, it seemed to imply that the judgments of we parents were "unprofessional." Does this mean that we parents are incapable of using sound judgments, in the choosing of the methods necessary in the education of our own children?
In praise of the Northville Schools, our seven children graduated from the Northville school system and have gone on to various professions, and have excelled and achieved in whatever goals they sought. And this was done without the need for any drastic new program such as this present "Michigan Model" system. I hope we parents will stand up in this matter and get active in knowing what is being taught to our children, and also our school board officials should take a stand with us and demand the removal of "Michigan Model."

Society cries out; crime keeps on

I remember the shock and sadness of the 1967 Detroit riot: 47 killed, blocks devastated, armed National Guardsmen patrolling streets. That was bad enough.
But what is now happening in our inner cities every day and year — sporadic shootings, random muggings, the drug-use epidemic, the unceasing decay of neighborhoods — can only be described as a continuing riot in very slow motion.
Worse, this slow dance of crime and violence persists largely unaffected by a society far tougher on crime than in 1967. Prison sentences are longer. Today Michigan prisons hold 30,514 convicts, four times the 7,037 inmates of 1967.
Costs are mounting. To warehouse one felon in prison costs an average of $25,000 per year. The state Department of Corrections' budget has grown from $193 million to $770 million in 1990. That doesn't include more cops, prosecutors and judges. Yet the criminal justice system is, by all accounts, swamped.
As a taxpayer, I begin to wonder if my money is being well spent when it costs seven times more to keep a criminal in prison than a family pays in tuition at the University of Michigan.
As a citizen, I begin to wonder when, if ever, we will see a payoff in reduced crime for all the millions of dollars we spend on hiring more police, building more prisons and voting for politicians who are "tough on crime."

Robert Trojanowicz, director of Michigan State University's School of Criminal Justice, wonders if we are spending tons of money treating symptoms without getting near the root causes of criminal behavior.
He is experimenting with an idea called "community policing" — the old idea of the neighborhood cop walking the beat. For instance, instead of responding to repeated purse-snatchings at a bus stop, a cop might work with transit officials to move the bus stop away from the vacant lot which provides easy hiding places. Or he might help organize neighborhood kids into a basketball team, putting the vacant lot to better use.
In the process, folks might begin to trust the familiar officer by giving him tips and information.
"Police can't do it alone," said Darrel Stephens, executive director of the Police Executive Research Forum, a group of big-city police chiefs. "But they can be vital coordinators, organizing tenants for self-protection one block at a time. . . . Pretty soon, they know who the troublemakers are. . . . the 10 percent of addresses that produce 60 percent of police calls or the 10 percent of criminals that do 50 percent of the crime."
Starting this January in Lansing, Trojanowicz will help test a system of "neighborhood network centers" where local officers on the beat will coordinate their work with other agencies such as public health, social services, foster care, school truancy and even building inspectors.
Each worker will focus on the same cause, developing together a network of devices to evict drug dealers from neighborhood buildings, for example, or to steer troubled parents into drug treatment programs and their kids into foster care.

"We're after the other Yuppie — the young urban predator," said Trojanowicz. "The goal is to bring back a system of informal social controls because the police can't do it all. . . . We want to use the formal criminal justice system as a last resort the way neighborhoods do."
Already 30 experimental community police beats are being operated in 17 Michigan cities such as Dearborn Heights, Flint, Saginaw, Bay City and Detroit.
Trojanowicz said the biggest problem is political. Politicians are reluctant to try something new which might cost money and has no guarantees of working quickly. They're also scared of being made to look soft on crime by an opponent. And so they keep on doing the same old thing.
I like the idea. I don't know if it will work, and I hope Trojanowicz and other reformers will publish their research findings.
What we are doing now is the worst of both worlds: It's terribly expensive and isn't stopping the slow motion riots.
Roger Smith, late of General Motors fame, is not widely noted as a philosopher, but he said something a while ago that appealed to me: "If we keep doing what we've always done, we'll get what we've always gotten."
He's right, and I hope our political system will be sufficiently sensible to try something new. What we've always gotten is simply unacceptable.

Charlie Stilec/Student Assistance Program

School meetings help fight drugs

All Americans know that there is a serious alcohol and drug problem in our country today and many of us are concerned about how it may affect our own families. As parents, we want the best for our families and children. We want them to grow up healthy, educated to their fullest potential, and ready to meet the challenge of the future. But we may feel powerless before the threat that drugs pose for our children and for our community.
Fortunately, there is a lot we can do to protect our children from drugs. Family values and standards opposed to drug use, strong bonds between parents and children, and open communication all promote healthy development and lessen the chances that young people will use drugs.
In addition, we can give our children the straight facts about alcohol and other drugs and the harm they can cause. Two of the most effective prevention tools are awareness of the problem and knowledge of ways to help motivate our children to resist the pressure to use alcohol and other drugs.

The need to support and educate is being taken up by several community organizations, one of which is the new Northville Counseling Center at 115 N. Center St., Suite 204, Northville. This outpatient treatment center is offering parent education and support groups during the upcoming year.
Credit for this program goes to the ongoing efforts by the Northville Action Council to educate our community on the effects of drugs and alcohol, as well as the need for continued parent to parent communication. The purpose of the group is to provide education related to children's growth and development and to facilitate supportive relationships among parents. Discussion topics will range from discipline and basic parenting strategies to prevention of substance abuse. The monthly meetings will be held at various Northville schools and are open to all parents.

Each monthly meeting will consist of a brief presentation on a parenting topic and will be followed by questions and answers, and informal parent discussion. The groups, which begin this month, will be facilitated by licensed therapists from the Northville Counseling Center. All sessions will run from 7:30 to 9 p.m. on the following schedule:
Amerman, Moraine: first Thursday of the month
Winchester: second Thursday of the month
Silver Springs: third Thursday of the month
Northville High School: fourth Thursday of the month

Family affair Compos collaborate on 'American' dream

By RICK BYRNE
Copy Editor

The fall Homearama near Brighton is a family affair for Jim, Janet and Christopher Compo, principals of a Farmington Hills building firm.

The three have a hand in two of the 10 luxury "idea homes" on display at the fall Homearama in the Pine Creek Ridge subdivision, south of Brighton Road and a mile west of Grand River. The houses, priced at $500,000 to $875,000, will be open from 3 p.m. to 10 p.m. Monday through Friday, and noon to 10 p.m. Saturday and Sunday through Oct. 28.

James D. Compo, a Farmington Hills resident and president of the company that bears his name, has been in the building business more than 30 years.

Christopher Compo, a Northville resident, is also a vice president of the company.

Janet Compo, Compo's wife and a vice president of the company, is involved in architectural design and interior decoration in the houses. She was the first woman to receive the Builder of the Year Award from the Builders Association of Southeast Michigan.

James S. Bonadeo, president of the BASM and Bonadeo Builders Corp. in Plymouth, says the homes at the Homearama are based on the same concept as the special "show cars" that Detroit automakers build every year for the auto show.

"The homes we are displaying at our eighth annual Homearama contain some of the latest concepts in both architectural design and interior decoration," says Bonadeo. "To make it convenient for anyone who wishes to see these innovative homes, we are keeping them open as long as possible each day."

Each home has been created by a separate builder in conjunction with an architect, an interior designer and landscaper. The result is 10 highly individualized homes, each with a laundry list of custom features suited to the lifestyles of the rich and famous, or maybe just the rich.

Witness the first of Compo's creations, "The American," a Cape Cod-style home built entirely in the American tradition and with American materials.

Visitors to "The American" are greeted by a stone entrance with a mammoth triple-panel oversized oak door and sidelights featuring beveled glass. The garage on the left is canted at a 45-degree angle from the home for security and privacy.

The two-story circular foyer allows access to all parts of the home, and is graced by stone columns and angled tile. The circular theme is carried through to the astounding six-level deck which provides a view of the unspoiled woods behind the home (the site is on a former boy scout camp).

The huge living room also features columns. They are structural — not just for looks — because of the massive open space of the room.

The American features a unique stone entrance

The lower level features an exercise area, sauna, custom spa, changing room, complete bath, fireplace and a bar with adjacent aquarium. Americans are known around the world for wanting everything big, and at 7,500 square feet of living space, "The American" keeps with that tradition. The kitchen is a master chef's dream, and features a separate sink for washing vegetables and oak-edged countertops which seem to span for miles.

Elegance is in abundance in the dining room where there is more oak on the floor and stone columns. Large bay windows give light to the room, and there is an adjoining butler's pantry.

A leaded glass entry and transom leads to an oak-paneled library, complete with a two-way bar.

The Parkview, with builder Bob Moore, is designed in the French country tradition

The family that builds together . . .

One of three fireplaces throughout the home is in the master bedroom, which offers access to one of the decks, abundant seating, a media corner and an arched ceiling in the master bath.

Compo's other home at the Homearama is "The Parkview," on which Janet Compo collaborated with Bob Moore of R.W. Moore & Associates.

The home is built in the country French style, with plenty of wide-open spaces in its 4,715 square feet.

The oak entry is flanked by beveled and stained glass sidelights. In the two-storey great room, custom lighting draws attention to a 1½-storey tall marbled and mirrored fireplace.

An adjoining library is reached through an oak door with more beveled glass, and features a 1½-storey pan ceiling. A curved "floating" staircase overlooks both the great room and library.

The fully open dining room with stained glass pass-through to the kitchen. Elsewhere in the house are a media room, oak bar, exercise room and a wine cellar (what French country home would be complete without one?).

The Brazilian hardwood deck designed by Christopher Compo.

Both homes feature interior design touches by Janet Compo, and she also directed the landscaping on "The American."

Admission to Homearama is $5, which includes a plan book covering each house. Discount tickets are available from AAA Michigan Metro Detroit and Flint locations, and offices of Standard Federal Bank and Detroit Edison. Parking is free. Refreshments are available. Know the meaning of interest rates

Trying to decide where to invest your money based on available interest rates can be baffling. Just look at the financial advertisements in your daily newspaper, each trying to entice you with annual rates varying by fractions of a percentage point depending on how much you plan to deposit, which account you choose and whether the yield is taxable, tax-free or tax-deferred.

If you are trying to figure out which investment offers the best return on your hard-earned money, the Michigan Association of CPAs suggests you learn how to interpret interest rates.

THE SECRET OF COMPOUNDING

Most people choose to deposit their money in a bank or other savings institution by virtue of newspaper advertisements that proclaim the highest available interest rates. But, in fact, those impressive interest rates may not always be the best available. To really understand the investment value of a savings account, you have to know how often the interest earned on your money is compounded.

Imagine you have only two possible choices for your investment: a CD with an annual rate of 8 percent, compounded monthly, and a CD with an annual rate of 8.1 percent, compounded semi-annually. Which is the better investment? Believe it or not, the account that offers the 8 percent rate will earn more than the CD with an annual rate of 8.1 percent, compounded semi-annually. The key factor is compounding.

Compounding means that your interest is periodically added to your savings, so that your interest earns more interest. Interest can be compounded in any number of ways: daily, monthly, semi-annually or annually. In general, the shorter the compounding period, the more total interest you earn from the account.

Look at the difference compounding makes. At maturity, a one-year CD advertising a 10 percent simple interest rate would earn $100 in interest on a $1,000 deposit. By comparison, the same 10 percent compounded daily would be equivalent to an account earning 10.52 percent — for a return of $105.20 on the same, one-year CD. Those extra dollars mount up over time. An account that earns a non-compounded interest rate of 10 percent would double in value in 7.2 years. The value of an account that compounds interest daily, would double approximately 1.5 years earlier.

Although the Federal Reserve Board does not require bank advertisements to disclose the compounding period applied to an investor's deposit, many ads do volunteer this information — often in fine print, located beneath the interest rate figure.

EFFECTIVE ANNUAL YIELD

Another number that is frequently trumpeted in ads is the effective annual yield which provides a more accurate gauge for those shopping for the best savings account. This figure reflects the impact that compounding has on the annual interest rate. By comparing effective annual yields between two or more accounts, you can get a fairly accurate idea of how hard your money will be working for you in the account.

A simple comparison of yields may not work, however, if you are comparing taxable investments to those exempt from taxes, such as a municipal bond. The actual yield of a tax-exempt account depends not only on the account's interest rate, but also on your tax bracket. If you are in the 33-percent bracket, a 5-percent tax-free yield is really the equivalent of a 7.5-percent taxable yield.

In a tax-deferred account, such as an IRA or a 401(k) plan, the tax is not eliminated; rather, it is merely postponed until a later date. The primary advantage of such investments is that they allow you to build assets at a faster rate by dramatically enhancing the effect of compounding.

THE FINE PRINT

A few other wrinkles must be smoothed over before you can rest assured that the account with the highest annual yield will actually provide you with the best bottom-line earnings. For instance, some accounts require you to deposit a specific amount in order to get the advertised yield. While the boldly printed rate and yield numbers may catch your eye, the ad may make no mention about any minimum deposit.

Another factor to consider when choosing a savings account is whether the institution imposes restrictions on or charges fees for establishing, maintaining or terminating your account.

According to a Federal Reserve Board study, some depositors are paying fees as high as $60 a year. Some banks that offer the convenience of automatic teller machines charge as much as $1 for each transaction conducted at one of their machines. Other fees that take a bite out of your savings include penalties for low balances or early withdrawals.

According to the Michigan Association of CPAs, the best way to avoid any surprises is to ask your banker to calculate how much will be in your account after a specific period of time. If you are shopping for a two-year CD, for example, find out how much money you will be able to withdraw when the CD matures.

The Murphy Mountain hideaway economizes space and design

By James McAlexander

Elk nibbling clover in the front yard at dawn. Trout broaching the lake's surface in shimmering contortions. Home owners bedding down to a duet of hoot owls and crickets.

These are a few sights, sounds and smells of the wilderness brought to you compliments of the no-nonsense Murphy, a practical mountain hideaway designed by guest architect George Bunzer of Murphy, N.C.

From its living room and dining room to its screened front porch, the Murphy blends urban comforts with wilderness musts. This city-country mix makes it a cinch for any city slicker to slip into a Jeremiah Johnson alter ego every weekend.

For a retired couple with more time, this weekend getaway easily ranks as a permanent address, owing to its three bedrooms and ample living space for two. Creature comforts like washer-dryer, and eating bar and twin kitchen sinks, help seniors call this place home.

The no-frills exterior belies the economy of space inside. Outdoor enthusiasts, who, if lucky, are often laden with the catch of the day, take heart in the Murphy's entrance—it leads right to the kitchen. Dripping trout quickly become sauteed amandine with little mess or fuss. Meanwhile, wet fishing gear and other messy outdoor trappings—like skis—are left on the screened front porch before entering the house.

The simple rectangular layout makes for an easy guided tour. All shared areas—kitchen, bathroom, living and dining rooms—occupy the middle. Nearly equal size bedrooms line either side like bookends. In a touch of tasteful discretion, the master suite sits by itself on the right side.

Also, guests do not need to disarm themselves, piling all hunting, fishing or skiing gear into one heap on the screened porch. That is just begging for a mix-up. Instead, each bedroom sports big closets, capable of storing any matter of gear, from fly-fishing poles to bird-watching telescopes.

Then at night, when the fish have been fried, the ski slopes have been conquered, or only if another chapter has been read, relax on the deck and talk of tomorrow's plans.

For a study plan of the Murphy (299-02), send $5 to Landmark Designs, P.O. Box 2307 CN, Eugene, OR 97402. (Be sure to specify plan name and number when ordering.)

DIRTY WORK

Top, White Wolf Chimney Sweep Craig Lundquist operates the soot sweeper used to eliminate dust from spreading during the cleaning process. At left, Lundquist uses a long fiberglass rod with an attached brush to clean the flue. Below, wearing his respirator, Lundquist removes a chunk of creosote buildup from the chimney.

Craig Lundquist, 31, of South Lyon has always been fascinated by chimney sweeps.

In 1983, Lundquist turned his fascination into reality when he left his cashier job at Kroger and opened White Wolf Chimney Sweep. He's been happily sweeping chimneys ever since.

Lundquist conducted a lot of research before opening White Wolf. He combed through trade magazines and studied at the library. During his research, Lundquist discovered a company in Massachusetts, known as August West, that was a supplier of chimney sweeping equipment.

With an investment of less than $2,000, he purchased the tools of the trade — brushes, a vacuum, and a top hat and tails and White Wolf Chimney Sweep was born. Lundquist decided to incorporate some of the myths and legends surrounding chimney sweeps while pondering over a name for his chimney sweeping business.

"I wanted a name that was unique," he explained.

Chimney sweeps are thought to be omens of good luck, so Lundquist started with that idea. While studying another interest of his, the white wolf, he discovered a French legend which said that if a white wolf crosses your path, you would be blessed with good fortune. Lundquist combined the two omens and came up with White Wolf Chimney Sweep.

The history of chimney sweeps dates back at least 200 years. During Lundquist's research, he discovered many different tales regarding the origin of chimney sweeps.

For example, the Irish used to take a live goose, tie a rope around it, and drop it down the chimney. As the goose got frightened and started flapping its wings, it would be pulled back up, cleaning the chimney with its flapping wings. As the story goes, the blacker the goose that arose, the cleaner the chimney would be.

The chimney sweep's attire, a top hat and tuxedo tails, also has an interesting origin. As the legend goes, original chimney sweeps were rotten guys. They would "adopt" young boys from orphanages and send them up the chimneys to clean them — often with their bare hands.

In order to upgrade the image of the chimney sweeps, one sweep stole a top hat and tails out of the local undertaker's garbage and began wearing them. From that point on, chimney sweeps good and bad started wearing top hats and tails.

Although the history of chimney sweeps is full of myth and silliness, the job that they perform is as essential today as it was 200 years ago.

Lundquist recommends that fireplace chimneys be inspected and cleaned at least every one to two years, depending on how often they are used. Fireplaces with inserts need more frequent cleaning than traditional fireplaces.

"There are a lot of different factors that determine how often a chimney should be cleaned — the type of wood that is burned, the size of the fires, and the size of the chimney," Lundquist explained. He encourages a monthly visual inspection of any chimney that is used often.

Lundquist charges about $55 to sweep a standard fireplace and approximately $75 to sweep a fireplace with an insert.

Sweeping chimneys is not a pleasant job. Lundquist wears a special respirator to protect himself from the dust and fumes. By the end of the day, his appearance is similar to Dick VanDyke in Mary Poppins.

Lundquist's job is seasonal with his busiest months occurring August through January. He works part time as a mail carrier for the U.S. Postal Service when he's not sweeping chimneys.

His wife, Michele, takes care of the bookkeeping for White Wolf. She also takes care of the Lundquists' three children (number four is due any day). Lundquist would like to include the entire family in a float for the South Lyon Pumpkinfest next October.

If you are presently cleaning your own chimney, you will probably agree with Lundquist. "It's a nasty job," he said. "If I weren't a chimney sweep, I'd hire one."

Added Lundquist: "I get to do the dirty work. It's a good feeling to know that I did a good job and that I may have helped prevent a chimney fire."

There will always be pumpkins in my garden

By Patrick Denton

Now that my son and daughter are young adults, I thought I was safely off the hook regarding the annual family pumpkin-carving ritual—until my daughter asked how many pumpkins there would be to carve this year. She clearly is not ready to let go of this long-standing custom, perhaps because of all the pleasant memories that accompany it.

Throughout their childhood years we celebrated Halloween with costumes, candlelit jack-o'-lanterns, a short stroll through the neighborhood canvassing for treats, and a pie-making spree. For the sake of these happy memories, and also because pumpkin pies are still one of my favorite desserts, I think I will always grow pumpkins in my garden.

Whether you have grown or purchased pumpkins for yourselves, your children or grandchildren, perhaps today I could re-stage the afternoon and evening fun that my family enjoyed for many years on Halloween.

It all starts after school, or during the afternoon for preschoolers, on Halloween. The children begin the pumpkin project by spreading newspapers over the kitchen table and assembling everything they need to make jack-o'-lanterns from the pumpkins—large spoons, short knives, bowls in which to place the pumpkin seeds and flesh. When the children were small, they drew the face outlines on the pumpkins for an adult to cut out. As they grew older they took over the carving.

Next, with great ceremony the pumpkins are brought out and placed on the table. A circle cut out of the top of each pumpkin forms a lid for the jack-o'-lantern, with the stem supplying a handle. Next, the seeds and the surrounding loose fiber in the center of the pumpkin are removed.

We never waste the delicious seeds, but share the task of separating them on a cookie sheet and lightly dusting them with sea salt. Roasted crisp in a low oven, pumpkin seeds constitute a much-anticipated treat that disappears quickly in our house.

Then the orange flesh is scooped out. Cooled and refrigerated in covered containers, it will be transformed during the evening into pies for the freezer.

Meanwhile, back at the pumpkin shells, the children are busy drawing and carving their jack-o'-lantern faces. With each year as the children matured and grew in confidence to exercise their lively imaginations, the faces became more and more intricate and interesting.

With the faces complete, the children place securely at the bottom of each hollowed-out pumpkin a short, stubby candle. Each pumpkin is set on a solid surface with a thick plate underneath it, at a window where it can be seen by the evening's visitors. Once the candle is lit, the pumpkin is carefully watched.

While the children draw and carve, my wife and I prepare piecrust shells in foil pie plates and set them in the freezer until the evening. Then, while I accompany the children on their neighborhood rounds, my wife remains at home to greet the goblin visitors and fill the pie shells with this easy Freezer Pumpkin Pie Filling. It's quickly done in the blender or food processor, and it's delicious.

Freezer Pumpkin Pie Filling

1 1/2 cups pumpkin
1/2 cups brown sugar
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1/4 teaspoon cloves
1/4 teaspoon ginger
1 tablespoon flour
2 eggs
1 1/2 cups homogenized (not skim) milk

Blend smooth, and pour into pie shells set on plate or solid pie plate for support. Wrap pies in freezer bags after they are frozen. Bake frozen pumpkin pie at 400 F for 1/2 hour, and another 50 minutes at 375 F, or until filling has set.

There is a good opportunity, while the children draw and carve, to speak with them about growing their own pumpkins next year. These are very satisfying seeds for children to grow because they sprout and develop so fast. And if the seeds are sown in peat pots the plants are very easy to set out into the garden, a mere three weeks following seeding.

Children will enjoy monitoring the growth of the vines, their flowering and the formation of little pumpkins. And while the pumpkins are small, each child in the house can personalize one by lightly scratching his or her name or initials in the skin. As the pumpkin grows, so the name will enlarge to form a clearly autographed pumpkin.

Jack-o'-lantern carving

- Begin project by spreading newspapers over kitchen table and assembling tools—large spoons, short knives, bowls in which to place seeds and flesh
- Younger children can draw face on pumpkins for an adult to cut out—older children can do the carving themselves
- Circle cut out of top of each pumpkin forms a lid, with stem supplying a handle.
- Remove seeds and loose fiber in center, saving seeds to roast
- Scoop out orange flesh for steaming, cool and refrigerate in covered containers for pie filling

Good and bad news on the real estate front

By James M. Woodard

Prospects are looking brighter for families who need to finance the purchase of a home—or refinance their present residence. But overall, current factors affecting real estate add up to a mixed bag of good and bad news.

Many experts now predict home mortgage interest rates will decrease during the second half of 1990, in the wake of an inevitable mild economic recession. This was clearly delineated in a special report from the National Association of Realtors:

"Sinking consumer confidence in the U.S. economy and a fall-off in consumer spending are leading to a recession, which has now become inevitable because of the crisis in the Middle East." It was stated in the NAR report.

"The stage is set" for the end of eight years of economic expansion in the United States. Very slow gains in the growth rate of the gross national product (the value of the nation's goods and services), coupled with low household savings and low income growth indicated the recession was imminent even before the crisis occurred in the Persian Gulf.

A brief, mild recession is predicted, beginning in the final quarter of 1990 and ending in the first quarter of 1991, stated NAR.

Other positive and negative factors in the real estate market, primarily tied to the Middle East crisis, were pointed out in the NAR report.

Sharply higher oil prices will have negative effects for housing, notes NAR chief economist John A. Tuccillo. He states that the housing industry will be hurt from both the supply and demand sides. Since housing uses oil-related products, construction costs will rise, curbing supply; and, since consumers will be more reluctant to take on debt for big expenditures, such as homes, demand will be hampered.

However, the economy of the oil-dependent areas will be boosted from the oil-price hike, helping to sustain a revival that has already begun in several Southwest markets, Tuccillo noted.

The positive impact of higher oil prices in the "Oil Patch," and the resulting higher real estate values there, will benefit the federal government's disposition of the large volume of properties it has acquired from failed thrifts, he said.

At the same time, special "incentive" mortgage loan programs are helping many families find affordable financing for a home purchase.

For example, buyers can qualify for a larger loan (higher debt-to-income ratio) when buying an energy-efficient home. Ask your lender about these little-known energy-efficient mortgages (EEMs).

Also, special buy-down mortgage loans are becoming more common in many regions. In recent years, this was a technique primarily used by new home builders and developers to entice prospects and help buyers qualify for a loan.

A buy-down mortgage is one that carries a below-market interest rate during the first few years of the loan. The builder or other seller subsidizes or "buys down" the interest rate for those initial years.

Usually, a flat sum is paid to the lender when the purchase transaction is closed to buy down the interest rate.

Recently, the same technique has been used increasingly to expedite home resales. The seller buys down the interest rate for the buyer.

Q. How are developments in the Middle East affecting international real estate investing?

A. We directed that question to Christopher Mead, president of Mead Ventures Inc., a Phoenix, Ariz.-based firm that published newsletters and directories on international investments. His response:

"The Middle East crisis is prompting a new flow of petrodollars to the United States. This will result in increased Arab real estate investment in this country, although most people in the U.S. real estate business are not aware of it yet.

"Iraqi strongman Saddam Hussein's invasion of Kuwait has sent jitters throughout the Persian Gulf region. Many wealthy people and governments in the area wish to move funds out of the Middle East and into safe havens in Europe and North America."

Q. What is a "100 percent" real estate brokerage firm?

A. It's an increasingly popular way to handle compensation for associate brokers and salespersons. Instead of giving them a portion of the commission earned on the sales they handle (the traditional method), they receive 100 percent of the commission.

The individual brokers and salespersons pay the firm a monthly fee for their office space, advertising, staff assistance and other services. Many local and regional firms and at least one national real estate franchise group (Re/Max International) use this concept.

Some firms now offer associates a choice between a 100 percent or commission share setup.

Wanted To Rent

YOUNG man non-smoker, non-drinker desires room with kitchen privileges in Burkhardt, Mason Rd. area of Howell. (313)227-7888

We'd like to meet the man who made Ike what he is today.

In fact, we have a warrant out for his arrest. Because no one should be able to do things like this to an animal and get away with it.

On December 15, in response to an emergency call, Michigan Humane Society (MHS) cruelty investigators arrived at a house that had been abandoned by its former tenant for over a month. There, among the trash and other garbage the owner had no further use for, they found Ike. A five-month-old puppy lying huddled behind a locked bathroom door. Lying because he was too weak to stand. So malnourished he could barely move his chest to breathe.

He had been locked inside that bathroom for over a month. Without food. Without heat. And with only the water from a rusty toilet to keep him alive. MHS investigators called it the closest to death they'd ever seen an animal. Yet Ike was fortunate. A kitten found in another part of the house was already dead.

This kind of willful neglect and cruelty is more than an outrage. It's a crime.

And that's why your help is so important to us. Your contribution to the Michigan Humane Society helps us fight for stronger legislation and tougher prosecution of animal abusers. To fight back for those who can't. And to make sure that this kind of crime doesn't go unpunished.

Your contribution also ensures that when we finally meet the man who locked up Ike, we can do the same for him.

They were your pride and joy — your huge collection of record albums. You stored them carefully — standing upright and never, never at an angle.

You held each vinyl LP gently, delicately in your hands. You touched only the edges, for only a barbarian would do otherwise. Sometimes you balanced one of them deftly with three fingers, like a waitress carrying a tray of coffee, touching only the paper-covered center.

There was a ritual to removing them from their protective covers. You would slide the inner sleeve from the jacket and hold it by the very edge. You allowed gravity to pull the vinyl disk from its paper shell, then you performed your carefully practiced balancing act, easing the record onto your expensive turntable.

But wait — it wasn't time to play the record just yet. First you would purify it with three drops of a mysterious liquid and a special cloth or wooden-handled sponge known as a Discwasher.

They were your record albums, and they were your connection to your inner self or to a world beyond your own. They brought you more than music — they were the background of your youth. Deep down, you believed that a person's record collection said more about him than astrology, diaries or SAT scores could hope to prove.

Perhaps your collection was in alphabetical order, or maybe it was arranged by musical style. Maybe you had one of those semi-rare, somewhat valuable LPs, like the Beatles' "white album" on white vinyl.

the DEATH of the LP

Maybe you believed that there was one — and only one — way to correctly position the inner sleeve in the album cover. Most likely you believed the opening of the inner sleeve should be facing north, while the opening in the outer cover should be facing east.

But none of that matters any more. Your albums are dead.

Or at least it seems that way. It's tough to buy them any more. And if you have a compact disc player, you don't want to buy them anyway. You don't play them any more. Like dinosaurs, they are going the way of the eight-track tape.

It was hard to believe at first. When the eight-tracks went out, you scoffed at those who complained. They should have invested in vinyl, like you.

You tried to rebel by refusing to buy a CD player. But the recording industry marched on without you, and one day you walked into a record store only to find all of the album racks replaced by CDs.

"It's true," said Roger Craig, manager of Harmony House record store in Novi's West Oaks shopping center. "Vinyl is a thing of the past. Probably 90 percent of new titles do not come on vinyl."

Craig is one of millions of baby-boomers who feels a bit sorry to see record albums go. He's quick to point out that it's not stores like his that are phasing out records — it's the manufacturers.

There are still some die-hard vinyl fans, but they don't yell any more. They've pretty much accepted the fact that it's happening.

It's kind of sad. A lot of manufacturers took the vinyl off the market prematurely. If they would still manufacture it, people would still buy it.

But it's hard to deny that CD's are . . . better than LPs.

"Basically, it is a superior way to listen to music," Craig said. "There are no pops and ticks like on vinyl. And a CD is more durable — it will last virtually forever, while vinyl or cassette tapes will eventually wear out."

Volunteers

Rigmor Cuolahan volunteers at Detroit's International Institute

Former newcomer is now at home

For Northville resident Rigmor Cuolahan, volunteer work is like a full-time job.

Over the past 23 years, Cuolahan has beaten a path from her home in Northville, and before that Livonia, to downtown Detroit where she has been a key volunteer at the International Institute.

"The International Institute is very close to my heart because I am an immigrant myself," says Cuolahan.

Although she moved to the United States from Norway in 1953, Cuolahan still remembers the difficulties that face immigrants after a big move.

"We help them (immigrants) with the little things," Cuolahan says. "Even looking up something in phone book is difficult for a recent immigrant."

Cuolahan says the International Institute helps provide people with translators and references of people with similar ethnic backgrounds.

Although she enjoys meeting and talking with many of the people who come through the Institute, Cuolahan's special project is the Tiny Shop, which she helped start 23 years ago. Maintained within the International Institute, the shop sells various imported gift items from around the world.

After all these years, Cuolahan still volunteers there one day a week.

In addition to the work she does at the International Institute, Cuolahan is active with the Danish Sisterhood, the Swedish Club, the Finnish Center and the Scandinavian Business Women's Club.

"I am very proud of my ethnic background and I like to share my experiences. But, I feel sometimes it is a full-time job," Cuolahan says of her many unpaid activities. "Fortunately, I have an understanding husband."

Northville Mother's Club gets organized for 1990-91

The Northville Mother's Club has started up again for the 1990-91 school year with four new members.

The club's president for the 1990-91 season is Linda Handyside. Vice-president is Margie Sievert; corresponding secretary is Susan Couzens; treasurer is Linda Heaton; past president is Joy Holloway and recording secretary is Jackie Payne.

The new members are Lisa Engles, Karen Hooper, Cheryl Spinazze and Carla Tibble.

Important upcoming dates for the group include the annual Ski-Skate sale Nov. 3, a Christmas Open House Dec. 1 and a Christmas pot luck Dec. 3.

Committee chairpersons are as follows:

- Phone Book — Linda Bond
- Social — Linda Clark

Woman's Club Luncheon

The Northville Woman's Club held its opening luncheon Oct. 5 at Meadowbrook Country Club.

Approximately 200 members attended the meeting, including several past presidents who were honored before the luncheon. Geraldine Chase, who was president from 1944-46 and Ruth Mary Atchison, who was president from 1954-56 were among the past presidents at the luncheon. They are 50-year members of the club.

After lunch, the women enjoyed a presentation by Lila Green of Ann Arbor, who told humorous anecdotes about her years of experience writing letters to members of the royal family in England. She has sent such items as checks for $2 or $3 for their birthdays or books such as "How to Save Your Marriage" to Princess Diana. She has developed a scrapbook of the letters she has received in return.

To get into the spirit of the event, club members wore "ugly hats" and carried "ugly purses."

Green said she has developed her extensive knowledge of the royal family by reading The National Enquirer.

"Also, anything I don't know, I make up," she added.

Single Place

Single Place Ministries of Northville First Presbyterian Church will present a seminar on stress management Wednesday, Oct. 24.

Jo Anne Stroebel will be speaking on the definition of stress, the effects of stress and strategies for coping with stress.

Stroebel is a trainer for General Motors Corp. and gives these talks for GM employees around the country.

Group seeks U of M alumni and friends

By CRISTINA FERRIER
Staff Writer

When the University of Michigan alumni office contacted Jacquie Murray and several other local alumni last year about starting an alumni organization in the Northville/Novi area, they were hoping for results. And they got them.

"We started right out by setting up an acting board and starting a newsletter," Murray said.

They wrote to all 2,400 U-M alumni in the area and "so far we've received 45 membership forms back," she said. "What we hope to do is set up a scholarship fund for a local student who wants to go to U-M."

Meanwhile, the group has developed an active cultural and social committee that has organized a golf outing, a trip to the Power Center for a student theater production on the U-M campus, and several other activities — things like getting together to watch U-M football games.

"Our goal is to further the goals of the university (by providing the scholarships) and to provide comradeship for U-M alumni," Murray said. "What's really nice is we have recent graduates." Area residents who graduated from U-M in the past year receive their first membership in the organization free. The annual membership fee is $15.

Currently Murray said plans for financing scholarships include future fund-raising events. "But we hope to eventually develop a larger endowment."

As far as membership activities, "people can be as involved or uninvolved as they wish," Murray said. "We hope to develop regular newsletters to keep people informed of what's going on."

The group's first meeting will be held Thursday, Nov. 8 at 7:30 p.m. at Genitti's Hole-In-The-Wall restaurant, 108 E. Main, Northville. A cash bar will be available.

The meeting is open to all residents of the Northville-Novi area who have recently joined or are interested in joining the club. Membership is open to alumni, parents of students or alumni, and "friends of University of Michigan," Murray said.

For more information about the club, contact the club's president, Gregory Stempfen, at 464-4500.

Nanette Fabray highlights series

By CRISTINA FERRIER
Staff Writer

Actress Nanette Fabray drew plenty of laughter and applause last week when she spoke to a large group of Northville and Novi area residents as the first highlight of the Northville Town Hall series.

She was a replacement for actress Eileen Fulton, who had to cancel because of a health emergency. But no one seemed disappointed by the last-minute switch.

Fabray is a mother and homemaker and a champion for the rights of handicapped persons as well as an actress, comedienne, singer and dancer.

Fabray, who grew up with a serious hearing problem that was later corrected with surgery, talked about dealing with handicaps and the importance of a good self-image.

She has been honored many times for her work with the handicapped. Among them are the Screen Actors Guild Humanitarian Award, the International Platform Association's Holbrook Award, the President's Distinguished Service Award and the Eleanor Roosevelt Humanitarian Award. She and Helen Keller are the only women to receive the Public Service Award from the American Academy of Otolaryngology.

Fabray told the crowd that liking yourself and accepting yourself for who you are is the best advice she can give a handicapped person — or any person.

She recalled coming to that realization as a young woman when her best friend told her she was very selfish for not wearing her hearing aid. Because she wouldn't wear it, everyone else had to make special arrangements for her.

"Have an open mind and be understanding of others," she advised people with handicaps.

At a luncheon following her speech, Fabray talked about some of the highlights of her life and her career as a celebrity.

She said she is most proud of her son, Jamie MacDougall, who recently graduated from USC Medical School and is now a dermatologist.

"My son was 15 when my husband died," Fabray recalled. "He stood up, walked across the room and died. That's a pretty heavy load for a 15-year-old. But he worked very hard, went to medical school and graduated in the top 1 percent of his class."

"Now when he comes home he says 'Hi, Mom' and examines my head."

She has no grandchildren, she added, but said she recently found out her son had been a sperm donor. "So I might have plenty of grandchildren out there; I just don't know it."

Although she has been a widow for 16 years, she does not expect to remarry.

"People who are celebrities are quite a threat to men," she explained. "I once dated a man who was president of a large corporation. Later he called and told me he couldn't see me any more." The man explained to her that he couldn't deal with the reactions she would get when they went out in public.

She has won many awards for the entertainment side of her career, too. She has two Donaldson awards for her work in High Button Shoes and a Tony Award for her performance in the musical Love Life. She has three Emmy Awards for her comedic work with Sid Caesar ("a genius," Fabray said). She is also well-known for the six years she appeared on the television show One Day at a Time.

Her most recent performance was in the season opening episode of Coach, in which she played actress Shelly Fabares' mother. Fabares is Fabray's niece.

Fabray spoke with great animation and energy. "Energy is in the mind of the doer," she said. "You get tired and there's a second set of energy you get to. And it's the one that uses up fat. If you want a lot of energy, get off your chair and go out there and do it."

And she is thankful for her sense of humor. "You've either got it or you haven't. Either you're funny or you're not," she said.

"You cannot fool an audience about anything. I don't know why I'm funny, but I am."

The audience laughed.

"Now I said that seriously, but you laughed," she said. "Someone else could have said that and you would have nodded. We don't know what funny is, but whatever it is, I thank God I have it."

Middle schools take off smoothly

MEADS MILL

The 1990-1991 year began without a hitch, including a successful open house Sept. 11. 75-percent participation shows the kind of support that makes Meads Mill so great.

Upon school opening it was a pleasure to find the many new things the 1989 millage provided. Three new computer labs including one computer in every classroom, the stage outfit with a new fireproof curtain, a totally repaired roof, and a newly paved and expanded parking lot are only a few of the luxuries we received.

A PTSA meeting was held on Sept. 10 at which time many committee reports were given. Current PTSA projects included a Domino's Pizza coupon book that is on sale at a small fee of $5. The students will all receive a Halloween treat at the close of the Oct. 31 school day. There was also a very successful sweatshirt sale. The PTSA calendar proves to be a busy one.

Parent/teacher conferences were Oct. 9 at 12:15-2:45 p.m. and at 5-7:30 p.m., and also on Oct. 11 from 3-5:30 p.m.

MEAP testing began Oct. 8 and ran until Oct. 16. The seventh-grade class took the portion on reading and math while the eighth-grade class was tested in science. The results will be mailed home the first week of December.

The eighth-grade class held a field trip to the Mill Race held during the Victorian Festival in conjunction with a unit on colonial times being studied. The eighth-grade English program took them to the Redford Theater on Oct. 17 to view five classic short stories read by the nationally traveled Chamber Repertory Theater. English enrichment is also taking eighth-grade story tellers to the lower elementary grades with audio and visuals. These youngsters are in for a treat.

The midwest talent search is underway. It is offered by Northwestern University for students who score 95 percent or above on a nationally standardized test. These students may take the SAT or ACT test early. Above 30 percent of our school's population at Meads Mill qualify to take the test. The deadline for applications is Nov. 5.

The football team is doing great this year. There is one more game to go: Oct. 24 at home vs. Pierce, 4 p.m.

Congratulations to the cheerleading squad. The seventh-grade cheerleaders are Chrissy Collings, Jenny Cooley, Becky Engle, Telisha Farris, Jenny Frisbie, Kelly Hughes, Brie Nelson and Cindy Phillips.

The eighth-grade cheerleaders are: Janet Harvey, Arin Hornberger, Heather Hutzling, Nikki Lalonde, Lindsay McMullen, Jenny McPhail, Sandy Morgente, Melissa Petrosky and Courtney Price.

After-school activities will be held on Oct. 29, from 2:45-4:45 p.m.

Appreciation goes to all who participated in the millage.

There are still PTSA calendars available in the office for $3.

COOKE

"This school is awesome," one eighth-grader was heard to say as Cooke Middle School opened its doors this fall. Parents had an opportunity to view the newly painted and carpeted classrooms, refurbished practical arts rooms and gym, computer labs, and brand new media center at the September Open House. Students and staff are off to an enthusiastic start.

When does $9 equal $2,000? When you buy a Gold C Savings Book full of valuable coupons redeemable at more than 2,000 locations. Coupons may be used for fast food, recreation, stores, videos and more. Order your book from any Cooke student and help fund educational assemblies at Cooke.

Cooke T-shirts are also for sale at $9 each.

Cooke PTSA promoted school pride during Spirit Week with a myriad of activities. The week included contests, an after-school activity, and special dress days.

Each grade competed in an attempt to show the most "spirit" during hat day, college day, and school color day. A new wrinkle was added to the competition when principal Jeff Radwanski and counselor Dave Adair challenged the students to donate 800 cans of food for the needy and watch them shave their mustaches.

Students showed their community spirit and with the help of the school's business partner, National Bank of Detroit, donated over 812 food items to Northville's Civic Center. As a result of this generosity Radwanski and Adair have a different look about them.

In a class contest, the seventh-grade class accumulated the most spirit points and won free admission to the next after-school activity.

The seek culminated with the announcement of contest winners. Seventh-grader Megan Spillane won the school motto contest with "United for Success and Excellence" and Nick Barnes, sixth grade, for year-book art.

The word is out about Northville's middle schools. Educational teams from Novi and Walled Lake are scheduled to visit Cooke and Meads Mill soon to study and observe Northville's middle school philosophy, team planning and scheduling.

All-district band night was held on Oct. 12 as the halftime performance at the football game.

Liv-Oaks student council exchange day is Oct. 23. Three representatives from Cooke's council will travel to Brighton and swap ideas with their counterparts from the 11 league schools.

We are pleased to announce that Laurie Convery was named an "Outstanding Teacher" by the Association of Michigan Home Economics Educators.

PTSA plans to help Cooke students celebrate Halloween with an after-school treat of doughnut holes and cider.

Woman's Club changes tomorrow's meeting site

The location for the Northville Woman's Club meeting Friday has been changed.

The meeting, which was originally scheduled to be held at the First Presbyterian Church, will now be held at First United Methodist Church. The meeting will begin at 1:30 p.m.

The meeting will feature Northville jewelry maker Michael Key, who will talk about his work and display his "Konkoktions by Key."

In addition to his lapidary and silversmithing,

Key brings to his work an interest in collecting stones in Utah and the Wasatch Mountains of the Western Rockies. He found that the colors and patterns found in the West were similar to those caused by glacial movement in Michigan.

An active member of the Northville Arts Commission, Key directed and organized the fourth annual Art Market facet of the recent Victorian Festival.

Key's love of the outdoors has fostered his interest in orienteering, mushrooming, outdoor survival and photography. His indoor interests include computing and woodworking.

Key has put his master's degree in social work to use as Commissioner of Scouting for the Handicapped, as well as running two Boy Scout troops, one in Northville, the other in Detroit.

Members may bring guests to the meeting, where Key's work will be displayed.

These members of the Northville branch of the Women's National Farm and Garden Association are making bows for this year's Christmas wreath sale. Left to right are Jo Krause, Jeanne Frogner, Shirley Millard, Rosemary Palarchio and Polly Kelly. Last year the group sold over 1,600 wreaths. Funds from the wreath sale went toward civic improvement and scholarships for graduating high school seniors in the Northville district. This year the wreaths will be sold in the usual spot on the corner of Main and Center streets during the Christmas walk. However, since the wreaths usually sell out by noon, it's a good idea to use the order form (elsewhere in this newspaper) and order ahead. The wreaths range in cost from $11 for an 18-inch wreath to $21 for a 60-foot balsam roping. All orders must be prepaid by Oct. 26 and may be picked up at Mill Race Historical Village between noon and 3 p.m. Nov. 12.

Vinyl becomes a thing of the past

"And it's smaller... easier to handle," said Pawczuk, assistant manager at Record Town in Twelve Oaks Mall. There are rows and rows of CDs, but there are almost no records at Record Town.

In spite of the store's name, Pawczuk said he rarely meets customers looking for records. "I think people have pretty much accepted it," he said. "CD's are better... There's better sound quality and better durability."

Pawczuk doesn't seem to mind that manufacturers have stopped making LPs.

"It's really up to the manufacturer whether they want to make albums or not," he said. "If people aren't buying the albums, they'd lose money if they kept making them."

Still, the demise of the LP is a sore spot for Ed Flora, an audio salesperson at Novi's Highland Appliance store, where the collection of turntables has dwindled to "about five."

Although he does not call himself a die-hard album fan, he meets up with them nearly every day. "Usually they come in and ask specifically for a turntable," he said. He usually recommends a cheap turntable, and advises the customer to invest in a good cartridge (needle and assembly). He also advises that they stock up on cartridges while they are still readily available.

It's the investment in very large album collections that makes people balk at CDs, Flora added.

"If you have 100 records, that's $1,000 of records," he said. "You can't just replace those albums."

"But I would have to say that if you invested a lot of money in it, you have to look at what it did for the American public. It wasn't a waste. Records brought music to everyone."

"It sort of makes you feel sad that the format's gone because that was the way of the world for so long," he said. "But it's not really gone. It's gotten better. It's just like improving cars for gas mileage. People have to be open minded."

Besides, you can still play your albums.

"It's not like 78s or eight-track tapes," Flora said. "There's still plenty of merchandise out there if you want to play your albums."

Craig agreed: "Maybe monetarily your album collection isn't worth as much, but emotionally it's worth just as much or even more." He still plays his albums.

Flora advised people to keep their albums forever.

"If you are a die-hard record nut—which everyone is to an extent because you hate to throw away money—save your records so you always have them," he said. "Clean them as best as you can and protect them. Record your favorites on a cassette tape so they don't wear out as fast. And stock up on some good cartridges—you don't need an expensive turntable, but if you have good cartridges your albums will last longer and you'll be happier."

"And remember," he said, "that the industry is changing for the better."

Canada's well-kept secret Georgian Bay a real find for budget-minded travelers

By John Castle

Canadian gasoline prices are outrageous. The currency exchange gap keeps narrowing. But Ontario remains a vacation bargain. With her scenic charms close by, she's tailor made for the budget-minded weekend traveler.

One of her most picturesque areas is the south shore of Georgian Bay, only 250 miles from metropolitan Detroit.

For years the shoreline has been one of Canada's best kept secrets. But it's starting to catch on. Condos sprout where fishing camps once stood. Fast food chains crowd the shoreline. New is replacing the old, but Georgian Bay still has enough rustic charm to go around.

About twice a year, we get Georgian on our mind. The urge hit us again this fall. Why not take a weekend trip to Owen Sound, prowling the Georgian Bay shoreline for a full day, then go back home to Birmingham. Why not?

We gassed up and had breakfast at Port Huron before crossing the Blue Water Bridge into Canada. We got travel literature and exchanged our money ($1.12 Canadian for $1 U.S.) at the Tourist Information Center in Sarnia.

Traveling northeast over nearly deserted country roads, we jiggled across Ontario farmland for four hours. At lunchtime we pulled into the Journey's End motel in Owen Sound.

With 20,000 residents, Owen Sound is the largest city on Georgian Bay. It edges a natural harbor and nestles between the cliffs of the Niagara Escarpment. The Sydenham River crashes over the Inglis Falls at nearby Rockford and then meanders quietly through town.

Flanking the Sydenham inside the city is Harrison Park. Its 100 acres boast tennis courts, wading and swimming pools, play and camp grounds, mini golf, paddle boats, walking and ski trails, and a picturesque inn.

While we were there, a band of joggers flashed by on the last lap of a 3K race. Under the bridge, fishermen stood in ankle-deep water casting baits ineffectually at huge salmon thrashing upstream to spawn.

Anglers are everywhere, but Owen Sound is more than a fishing town. It has museums, modern motels and malls, and a good selection of family ethnic eateries. The Palace, a downtown Chinese restaurant, offers a dinner buffet. The sweet and sour pork melts in your mouth.

We spent the first afternoon rubbernecking in Owen Sound. After a good night's sleep, we had eggs-over-easy and thick slices of homemade toasted bread at Smitty's in the Heritage Place Mall. The restaurant was crowded with locals; it's that good.

After breakfast, we took scenic Route 26 along the west shore of the Sound to Warton, gateway to the Bruce Peninsula. The Bruce juts 100 miles northward, separating Georgian Bay from Lake Huron. A wilderness trail follows its rocky spine.

The Bruce Peninsula is a paradise for bird watchers with over 170 species. On one trip, a large gaudy bird flashed across the road in front of us. Later we identified the strange bird as a rare pileated woodpecker.

There wasn't much time to explore the peninsula's 500 miles of shoreline. We had to return to Owen Sound for lunch. Afterwards, we would drive eastward along Georgian Bay, passing through Meaford, Thornbury and Collingwood to Collingwood.

As we cruised Highway 26 toward Meaford, we passed along an uninhabited peninsula pierced by only three dead-end roads. It is a place of mystery. On a previous trip, we drove in as far as possible. Ambiguous signs marked the dark woods as a military reservation. Almost every post had a "no trespassing" sign nailed to it.

We couldn't help but think of a sign we saw in the hills of Kentucky: "Trespassers will be shot on sight. Survivors will be shot again."

Approaching Meaford, we could see we were entering apple-growing country. Signs proclaimed the annual Meaford Apple Harvest Craft Show. We were a week too early. Besides, we prefer antiques over crafts.

Georgian Bay is a happy hunting ground for antique buffs. We've found great buys on hand-carved wooden duck decoys, ancient kitchen utensils, and old hand tools. Flea and farmer markets are good places to look. Most of them are open on Saturdays or Sundays, just right for the weekend wanderer.

East of Meaford, the bay is always in sight. The next stop is Thornbury. And during the fall run of rainbow, splake and salmon, you must stop and watch the action. Fishermen line the Beaver River below the main street dam. We watched one angler lose a lunker salmon and another net a seven-pound rainbow trout—all in less than 30 minutes.

Collingwood is another good place to stretch your legs. There is a picturesque harbor and a shale beach with fossils exposed in the bedrock. A short walk along the beach is worth the effort.

Collingwood was the last stop that afternoon. Once one of Canada's largest ship building centers, it now is experiencing a tourist and vacation boom. Several years ago, you had a hard time finding a restaurant in town. Now you can hardly walk a block without passing one.

Scenery, skiing and sunbathing are largely responsible. You can have fun in Collingwood every month of the year. In the summer, nearby Wasaga Beach offers safe swimming and nine miles of golden sand to lie on. Inland, the Blue Mountains provide rugged hiking and spectacular views of Nottawasaga Bay. Downhill and cross-country skiing are winter attractions. Scenery in the spring and fall is superb.

As we drove through Collingwood, passing by the Blue Mountain Pottery store and other familiar landmarks, we had mixed feelings. The Little Red Hen Restaurant was gone. So was the giant cradle with the hull of a Great Lakes freighter nestling in it.

Instead, the harbor was almost deserted, except for a small public dock and a yacht club.

At the time we felt cheated. Modern development had stolen our treasure. No longer would we be able to stroll through downtown Collingwood on a Saturday morning with only a handful of pedestrians at our side. No longer could we wander along silent Blue Mountain trails or watch the evening sun sink into the bay with only seagulls for company.

But as we returned to Birmingham the next day, our attitude softened. We never really owned Georgian Bay. We just happened to discover her early. She doesn't belong to anyone. Georgian Bay is there for everyone to enjoy.

For more information about Georgian Bay, telephone Ontario Travel toll-free Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. at (800) 668-2746.

Fishing facts:

Americans 18 years and older need a non-resident Ontario fishing license to fish Georgian Bay. It costs $34.50 for the season, $28.75 for 21 days and $16.25 for four days—all prices in Canadian money. Licenses are sold at most sporting goods stores and marinas.

Coho and chinook salmon fishing is open all year in Georgian Bay and connecting waterways. River-mouth and rainbow brown trout fishing is open all year in the Pottawatomi and Sydenham rivers at Owen Sound, the Bighead River at Meaford and the Nottawasaga River at Wasaga Beach.

Fall fishing for rainbow and brown trout is extended to Dec. 31 in Thornbury if you fish from the city dam to Georgian Bay. Splake (speckled trout/lake trout hybrid) fishing ended Sept. 30 in Georgian Bay.

Charter boat captains offer inside advice on fall fishing

By Iris Sanderson Jones

Listen to the fishermen.

Denny Grinold of the Michigan Charter Boat Association: "Late fall is one of my favorite times to fish." Ned Fogle of the Department of Natural Resources: "The big lakes can be stormy, but there are a lot of fish to be caught in the streams."

Bob Shaw of Fowlerville: "Lake Erie walleye are best in spring, but you can still get them out in the channel." Note to Mike Morgan of Brighton: Don't bother returning the message I left on your telephone answering machine; I expect you've gone fishing.

I'm not exactly a great fisherman, although Joe Wolf of Southfield, captain of the Ginger Brandy Two out of Manistee, is nice enough to remember the 18-pound salmon I caught with him and to forget that he had to take me ashore when I started turning green.

Joe's wife Ann, a retired school teacher, may be the most avid fisherman in that family. Joe says she runs the boat, and he just comes along to drive it through the water.

The Ginger Brandy Two, like most of the boats in the Michigan Charter Boat Association, is coming out of the water this month. People don't want to drive a couple of hundred miles and end up sitting on the dock because of rough weather. Marinas like to get the boats tucked away before the deer season and ice take over.

Joe says there are still charters on Lake Michigan south of Grand Haven, down St. Joe and New Buffalo way, where the water is a little warmer and the fish are still active. Otherwise the best fishing seems to be in salmon spawning rivers like the Betsie, Manistee or St. Jo rivers running into Lake Michigan or the Au Sable flowing into Lake Huron.

Tips? Spawn bags are very "in" this year. That's salmon eggs wrapped in mesh bags. The steelhead and the salmon love them.

Denny Grinold, past president of the Michigan Charter Boat Association and member of both the Lake Huron and the Lake Michigan task forces, says late fall is his favorite time of year to fish if you can outwit the potential bad weather.

Grinold has been fishing since the salmon were first planted in the Great Lakes in the early 1970s and he is now working with the Lake Michigan Task Force and Lake Huron Task Force to learn why the Chinook salmon have been dying the last few years.

The Chinook were brought in to clean up the alewives; their decline may be occurring because the alewives are disappearing and the salmon must now change their diet.

The task forces also are exploring a European flea brought in through the ballast discharge of ocean freighters. "I started fishing when the salmon were first planted and I bought a boat to fish with my four children. When they grew up, I bought a charter boat."

The charter was a way to feed my fishing habit; I can go fishing, meet nice people and still have fun. What I like about fall is that you don't have to dodge all those summer boats; you might be one of only a few boats on the lake. The color is beautiful.

The weather can be a problem, because it gets very windy and cold, but there is a great window of good weather when Indian summer starts. I think we're into that now, and we can fish well into November.

"I keep a list of fishermen, and I call them when the fishing and the weather looks good." "Small trailer boats can go into the lake in November and December but they can run into rough weather. It's best to go on weekends or sometime when there are people out there to help you if you run into trouble. You don't want to be the only boat in sight during bad weather."

Phantom set to return Oct. 30

The original London stage musical by Ken Hill of The Phantom of the Opera returns to the Fox Theatre Tuesday, Oct. 30 through Sunday, Nov. 4 for an encore engagement. The production returns to Detroit as part of a 36-city tour for 1990-91.

A comedy-thriller, Ken Hill's The Phantom of the Opera takes a lighter look at the 1911 Gaston Leroux tale about the hideously disfigured, mysterious and misunderstood Phantom's love obsession with the gorgeous yet naive soprano, Christine. Ken Hill has written witty lyrics to the operatic music of Verdi, Gounod, Weber, Offenbach and Donizetti — the contemporary music of Leroux's 1880 Paris Opera House.

An early version of Hill's Phantom was produced in London in 1976, written by Ian Armit and Hill, and directed by John Blackmore. In 1984, when working with Blackmore as director of Production for Newcastle Playhouse, Hill suggested doing another version, this time using only music from well-known operas, as a neo-production with his old theatre at Stratford East, the Theatre Royal.

Prompted by ecstatic reviews, producer Cameron Mackintosh and composer Andrew Lloyd Webber approached Hill and discussed producing Phantom in the West End. After a few months, Hill was informed that Lloyd Webber had decided to proceed with his own version.

Ken Hill has always had an interest in great horror and adventure stories. Interspersed in his prolific career as writer and director have been his musical stage versions of Dracula, The Mummy's Tomb, The Living Dead, and The Hunchback of Notre Dame. His other directional credits include Sweeney Todd and The Little Shop of Horrors, as well as the West End production of The Mikado, Fiddler on the Roof and the Andrew Lloyd Webber/Tim Rice Joseph and the Amazing Technicolor Dreamcoat.

The ensemble cast for the 1990-91 The Phantom of the Opera includes five returning performers from the 1989-90 tour: Steve Blanchard (last year's Phantom, now Mephistopheles/The Persian), Suzanne Grodner (Carlotta/Dominique/Chorus Girl), Robert Jensen (Raoul), Eileen McNamara (Lisette), and Vince Trani (Faust).

David Cleveland (The Phantom) comes to Ken Hill's Phantom directly from appearing on Broadway in Andrew Lloyd Webber's The Phantom of the Opera. He was seen Off-Broadway in Fiorello, and has the unique distinction of having been a member of the 1977-78 United States Ski Team. The role of Christine will be performed by Sylvia Rhyne, who recently enjoyed great success as Johanna in the hit Broadway revival Sweeney Todd.

The ensemble cast also includes Wayne Hoffman, Carolyn Marcell, Gannon McHale, Robert Ousley and Serena Soffer.

The Phantom of the Opera by Ken Hill is produced by Allen Spivak and Larry Magid (Electric Factory Concerts), Joe Marsh, Lee D. Marshall and Glenn Bechdel (Magic Promotions), Brad Krassner (Diamond Bullet Corporation) and Jonathan Reins, Inc.

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN
Staff Writer

According to Northville basketball coach Ed Kritch, you'd have to go back four or five years to find a win as big as his team's 43-35 triumph over previously unbeaten Livonia Franklin on Oct. 11.

It was a huge victory and it came in grand style. Trailing by four points heading into the final quarter, the Mustangs outscored the ninth-ranked Patriots 16-4 down the stretch to pull it out. A swarming triangle-and-one Northville defense held Franklin's top scorer — All-Stater Dawn Warner — to just one field goal and six points.

"In this game, we finished it out without a breakdown," Kritch said. "That's something we haven't been able to do this season, so maybe we've learned something along the way."

Franklin entered the game at 11-0 and entrenched in first place in the Western Lakes Activities Association. The team already had a victory over Northville to its credit (a 53-41 decision in the South Lyon Tournament back on Aug. 30), but that all changed last Thursday.

"It's got to be the biggest win for our program since we beat Novi to win the Districts in 1986," Kritch recalled. "Or maybe you have to go back to our upset over Plymouth Canton in 1985. This was a huge win for us."

In the first quarter, the Mustangs continually fed the ball inside where Kate Holstein and Stacey Nyland could cause some damage. They did, scoring six and four points respectively, and the Mustangs took an early 10-3 advantage. Franklin, on the other hand, managed just one field goal in the first quarter.

The Patriots tilted their defense for the second quarter in an effort to shut down Northville's inside game, so Kritch brought in outside threat Maria MacInnis and she responded with eight points from the perimeter. Unfortunately, no other Mustang scored in the period.

Trailing 18-13 with 30 seconds left in the half, Franklin scored five quick points to knot the score heading into the locker room. Patti Shea paced the Pats with seven points in the quarter.

Franklin quickly opened a six-point lead and led 31-27 after three quarters of play, but then started to tire. Down 33-32 with three minutes remaining, Northville's Karen Pump exploded for five points in just 15 seconds, including a clutch three-pointer that gave the locals the lead for good. Laura Apligian and Holstein each scored four points down the stretch to ice the victory.

"We used eight players in the game and (Franklin) used only five, so I think they were finally getting tired," Kritch said. "They did not score a field goal in the final quarter until there was 10 seconds left in the game."

Holstein led all scorers with 14 points and MacInnis chipped in 10 off the bench. Holstein also hauled down 12 rebounds, including five at the offensive end. Shea lead Franklin with 14.

"Franklin has two great players (Warner and Julie Stesiak), so we played them man-to-man and the other three played a zone," Kritch said. "We totally shut them down and that was the big difference in the game."

With Karen Cavanaugh all over Warner and Pump on Stesiak, the two combined for just eight points and one field goal.

Cavanaugh was brilliant on defense," Kritch said. "To hold a player of (Warner's) caliber to one field goal in 32 minutes is unbelievable. Karen was a major factor in the game because she ran our offense and shut down their big gun."

NORTHVILLE 61, WESTLAND JOHN GLENN 43: The Mustangs completed a perfect week with a convincing victory over the Rockets on Oct. 9.

"Glenn played us tough for the first half, but we scored the first six points in the second half to go ahead by 21, and we never looked back," Kritch said.

Northville led by as much as 22 at one point in the second half, and outscored Glenn 39-26 in the final two quarters.

"We scored almost 40 in the second half, and that is by far our best half this season," Kritch said. "(Glenn) has a nice perimeter game, but we held their top two outside threats (Carrie Rachwal and Karen Olack) to just 10 and six points."

The offensive hero was Holstein, who poured in a career-high 27 points. She also added 10 rebounds and four steals. Apligian chipped in with 10 points.

"The way we played this game was a nice set-up for the Franklin game," Kritch said.

Northville, now 7-5 overall, will travel to Walled Lake Western to take on the Warriors this evening (Oct. 18). The Mustangs will be looking for their first-ever win at Western's gymnasium.

Mustangs fall to 5-2

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN
Staff Writer

Hindsight is always 20/20, especially when it comes to second-guessing a coach.

Last weekend in Ann Arbor, Michigan Coach Gary Moeller spurned an opportunity to tie Michigan State, but the move backfired and the Spartans won 28-27. Less than 24 hours earlier, Northville Coach Darrel Schumacher was faced with a similar decision against Plymouth Canton and he elected to go for the tie in hopes of winning in overtime. Again, that move backfired and the Chiefs pulled out an exciting 24-21 win over the Mustangs.

The loss drops Northville to 5-2 overall and 3-2 in the WLA Western Division. Canton improves to 6-1.

"Both sides played a great game, but somebody had to lose," Schumacher said. "Our biggest problem is we have to learn how to win the close ones like this."

The Mustangs almost pulled it off. With 2:20 remaining against Canton on Oct. 12, senior linebacker Bob Holloway scooped a fumble out of the air and rambled 51 yards for a touchdown to narrow the gap to 21-20. Schumacher then elected to kick the point-after and knot the score at 21-21 rather than go for a two-point conversion and a one-point lead.

"We kind of played for the overtime, but second-guessing myself, maybe we should have played for the win," he said. "We felt our defense would hold and we could have a good shot at winning in overtime — but it didn't work out that way."

As it turned out, that decision hardly mattered because the Chiefs drove nearly 60 yards and kicked an 18-yard field goal with seven seconds remaining to pull out the victory. With two losses and just two games remaining, the Mustangs will probably need victories in their last two outings (against 5-2 Plymouth Salem and 5-2 Novi) to have an opportunity to make the program's first-ever appearance in the MHSAA playoffs.

"We've played two very good football teams in Canton and (Farmington) Harrison, and we've been poised for a win heading into the fourth quarter only to come up short both times," Schumacher said. "We thought we could have won either game."

Northville found itself in a 14-0 hole at halftime, but dug its way out with an inspired third quarter. Canton scored midway through the second quarter on a 33-yard toss from Karl Wukie to Brett Howell and then added another touchdown with just 34 seconds remaining before halftime. Wukie ran 11 yards for the score which capped off a nine-play, 77-yard drive. A 25-yard run by Wukie and a 21-yard pass to Mike Wougamon set up the TD.

"It was a very unfortunate sequence for us," Schumacher said. "It's very tough to give up a score with just 34 seconds left."

But the Mustangs bounced back at the start of the second half like they've done so many times this season. Ten plays and 69 yards after taking the kickoff, quarterback Ryan Huzjak ran it into the end zone from five yards out, and Brandon Hayes PAT made it 14-7.

"I don't know what it is, but the third quarter has been our best quarter this season," Schumacher said. "We really come out after halftime and play well."

On the Mustangs' next possession, a costly and controversial clipping penalty negated a 40-yard-plus screen pass to Bill Kelley, but on the next play, Kelley broke loose on a draw play for a 47-yard touchdown to tie it at 14-14.

Late in the quarter, Canton forced a Northville turnover (on a tipped-ball interception) and needed just two plays to turn the mistake into points. Wukie again found Howell, this time for a 40-yard passing touchdown.

Neither team threatened to score again until Holloway nabbed a fumble in the air near midfield with nothing but the goal line in front of him. It was a play widely known in football circles as a "lineman's dream."

"Bob's been something else for us

Mustang defender Bob Holloway (51) returned a fumble 51 yards for a touchdown in Northville's heartbreaking loss to Canton.

all year and if anyone deserves to have something like that happen to him, it's Bob," Schumacher said.

Unfortunately, Holloway's heroics weren't enough as Wukie guided the Chiefs 59 yards in eight plays — including a 19-yard pass to Jason Riggs and a 24-yard pass to Chris James — to set up Jeff Nafe's 18-yard field goal.

Canton had a 321 to 220-yard advantage in total offense, and Wukie was a big factor.

"We knew they were a formidable team," Schumacher said. "Their quarterback is an exceptional athlete."

On the ground, Rob Subotich paced the Mustangs with 65 yards in nine carries — including a 37-yarder that set up Northville's first score. Huzjak was 9-for-17 through the air for 119 yards, but was held to just nine yards rushing.

Holloway led the defense with 11 solo tackles and 10 assists. Jeff Todd added six solos and five assists.

SALEM PREVIEW: In the WLA crossover game tomorrow (Oct. 19), the Mustangs will host a familiar opponent: Plymouth Salem. Northville topped the host Rocks 21-14 in the second game of the season, but Schumacher knows that Salem (5-2 overall) is much improved.

"We'd love to get the (playoff) bonus points from them if we can beat them, but they are playing awfully well and could easily knock us off," he warned. "They are definitely better than when we played them earlier in the season, but we'd like to think we are too."

When Holloway addressed the team following the loss to Canton last Friday, he posed a meaningful question that could determine whether or not the Mustangs get an opportunity to complete in the Class A playoffs: "Which sounds better, 5-4 or 7-2?" he asked his teammates. "Let's make the choice right now."

Golfers take 3rd at regional meet

Two out of three isn't bad. Last week was a key stretch for the Northville golfers, and they came out of it with two season goals tucked away: 1.) a WLA Western Division title, and 2.) a spot in the MHSAA State Meet. Unfortunately, the squad's bid for a win at the WLA Conference Meet never materialized.

The Mustangs secured the division crown, as expected, with a 204-221 dual-meet win on Oct. 9 against Walled Lake Western. Mike Fischer grabbed medalist honors for the first time this season with a 38. He was followed by Chris Lemon (39), Kevin Krupansky (42), Joey Stalnis (42) and Jason Sherman (43).

The big highlight, however, came on Oct. 12 at the Regional tournament at Oak Pointe. The Mustangs, by virtue of their top-three team finish, earned a spot at the state meet.

When you win 15-47 in cross country, it's called a shutout. The Northville girls did exactly that against Livonia Churchill on Oct. 11 by taking the first five places in order.

But what made Mustang Coach Nick Dunwoodie even happier was the fact that just 24 seconds separated his top five runners.

"We won easily, but I was real pleased because 24 seconds is a great pack time," he said. "Churchill isn't a very strong team, but that really shouldn't take away from our performance."

"We've been telling these girls that they are strong enough to run together in a pack and now they are starting to believe me."

Senior Marcie Dart paced Northville and won the race in 22:32, but the rest of the Mustangs were close behind her. Kamal Bagga (22:38), Michelle McQuaid (22:53), Cheryl Mittman (22:54) and Amy Goode (22:56) followed in order to secure the shutout. And to have five runners under the 23 minute mark — especially in wet, muddy conditions — is quite an accomplishment.

"That's really our only hope of doing well for the rest of the season," Dunwoodie said. "We need to keep our top five together and then work on getting the entire group to run a bit faster."

"I'd rather have this kind of depth because it's better for the team than to have one star."

Rounding out the top seven finishers for Northville was Angie Nelson in seventh (23:45) and freshman Laura Thomas in 10th (24:41).

The Mustangs (4-1 overall and 3-1 in the WLA Western Division) must get past powerful Plymouth Canton in dual meet action today (Oct. 18) to remain in the running for a share of the division title.

"It's going to be a real tough meet," Dunwoodie said. "We have a chance to have the perfect type of team to spring an upset."

BOYS CROSS COUNTRY: The Mustang boys came very close to getting a shutout of their own on Oct. 11 against Livonia Churchill. By taking the top four places in order, Northville settled for a well deserved 16-44 triumph.

"It was almost a shutout," Mustang Coach Ed Gabrys said. "The course was awfully muddy and that's why everybody's times were slower. For a better indication, I look at the pack time. Our second through sixth runners all finished within 30 seconds of each other, so that's a good sign."

Steve Coon blew away all the other participants, finishing more than a minute ahead of anybody else in a time of 17:46. He was followed by teammates Jamie Groves (18:59), Andy Haas (18:59) and Parag Parikh (19:13). The other top seven finishers included Mike Connery in sixth (19:21) and Doug Huntington in seventh (19:28).

"This is the time of the year that we'd like to have a dry course, so we can see how much we are improving," Gabrys said. "But since that wasn't the case against Churchill, we made the best of it."

For the first time since early September the Mustangs are back in the black with a 3-2 overall record (2-2 in the WLA Western Division). But with always-tough Plymouth Canton on tap today (Oct. 18), the Mustangs will likely drop back to the .500 mark to end the regular season.

Northville cross country teams whip Livonia Churchill squads

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN
Staff Writer

Livonia Stevenson edged Northville for second place at the the MHSAA Regional Tennis Tournament on Oct. 12-13, and that knocked the hard-luck Mustangs out of contention for a berth at the state meet.

But due to a series of rainouts last week, the WLA Meet has been rescheduled for Oct. 16 (after the Record's deadline) and the Mustangs will get another shot at Livonia Stevenson. In fact, the two teams met in a dual meet back on Sept. 7 and Northville won it 5-2. But since that time, the Spartans have switched around their line-up in a way that doesn't sit too well with Mustang coach Uta Filkin. Stacking your line-up in prep tennis is supposed to be a no no.

"Stevenson has rearranged their line-up since we beat them and it's made them much stronger," she said. "I don't like it, but that's really all I'll say about it."

Northville made an appearance in the 1989 state meet. And even though the Mustangs managed to score two more points this time around, it wasn't enough. Host Ann Arbor Huron ran away with the title. Stevenson was second with 15 points and Northville was third with 14.

"It was very, very close," Filkin said. "The girls really played well. We qualified last year but we played even better this year."

The Mustangs managed to win at least one match in all seven flights. No. 1 singles player Karen Vogt entered the tourney seeded third and wound up third. After winning her first two matches, she fell to second-seeded Laura Worznjak (0-6, 2-6) of Adrian.

At No. 2, Karen's younger sister Diane was unseeded but did win her opener before falling to fourth-seeded Denise Gildo from Canton (3-6, 4-6). Fourth-seeded Shannon Price made it to the semis at No. 3 with a couple of victories, but then lost to Ann Arbor Pioneer's Lauren Golmanavich (1-6, 3-6), who was seeded second. At No. 4 singles, Kavitha Sriraman was seeded second and lived up to it by advancing to the finals before succumbing to top-seeded Jamie Griffith (1-6, 2-6) of Huron.

All three Northville doubles teams advanced to the semifinals before dropping out of the single-elimination tournament. At No. 1, unseeded Melanie Apigian and Rebecca Bellamy won two times but then ran up against top-seeded Lisa Wright and Kirsten Windfuhr of Pioneer (0-6, 4-6).

At No. 2, Jenny Lower and Vicki Eppers fell in the semifinals to Huron's Shannon McHugh and Caley Bollinger (1-6, 2-6), while at No. 3, second-seeded Stacy Green and Kelly Woodsum were edged by Stevenson's Laurie Bibasio and Laura Perry (4-5, 5-7).

"Losing that No. 3 doubles match turned out to be a two-point swing, and that was the difference," Filkin said. "But even though we were disappointed, I can't fault (Green and Woodsum) because they played as well as I've seen them play. There was a lot of pressure on them."

"Overall, we did exactly what we intended to do, but it still wasn't enough. We definitely did better than last year, and that's why it is so frustrating."

on Oct. 20 at Michigan State's Forest Akers Golf Course.

The Mustangs actually tied with Brighton for second-place honors with a 321 team score (11 strokes off the pace set by Farmington), but the Bulldogs were awarded second when the tie-breaker was invoked.

"One of our season-long objectives was to make it to the state meet," Northville Coach Don Morgan said. "We were concerned about Churchill maybe sneaking up and taking that third spot, but it didn't happen. I predicted before the meet that 310 would win it, so I was right on the money. I thought we'd need three guys scoring in the 70s to have a shot at winning it. I'm sure it will take at least that to win the state tournament."

Lemmon came up big again in a big meet by firing a 76 for 18 holes. His five-over-par round was good for third-place honors overall. The remaining three golfers to score for the Mustangs included Sherman (80), Telepo (81) and Krupansky (84). Fischer had an off day (89) but his score didn't count.

"Telepo shot a good round," Morgan said. "I'll take an 81 from him every time. We were hoping for a little lower scores from Sherman and Fischer, however."

WLA Meet: Northville's inability to handle the wet, raining conditions probably had a lot to do with the outcome of this event held at Huron Meadows on Oct. 9. The Mustangs, who entered the meet as the favorites, had to settle for third place with a team score of 418. Farmington took first (396) and Churchill was the runner-up (400).

"Under the circumstances, I wasn't upset," Morgan said. "Farmington and Churchill did better than we did in the rain. In good weather, I know we would have played much better, but if it would have been good enough to move up a notch or two, I don't know."

Lemmon and Fischer led Northville and tied for fifth place overall, but Lemmon won the playoff on the second hole to earn All-Conference honors for the second straight season. Fischer received All-Division recognition.

Both golfers played extremely well on the front nine, but both fell off slightly on the back. Lemmon's 39-40 — 79 round was very similar to Fischer's 38-41 — 79 effort.

Sherman was also awarded All-Division honors for his 43-40 — 83 round. The only other Mustangs to participate were Staknis (42-42 — 82) and Telepo (44-45 — 91).

"It was just one of those days where we didn't play too well," Morgan said. "We were prepared but we didn't respond."

STATE MEET PREVIEW: For the second time in three years, Northville is one of several dozen teams to qualify for the MHSAA State Meet. And Morgan would like nothing better than to end the season — and his coaching career — with a state title.

"We have the players to do it, we just need all the guys to get their games together at the same time," he said. "We have the ability."

Regardless, it will be Morgan's last assignment at the helm of the Mustang program.

"This is my last year, but it has nothing to do with the kids," he said. "I'm leaving for business reasons."

One week later, the Colts clobbered the Canton Lions 33-8 for a homecoming victory. Following an interception by Ryan Poperin, Todd Zayt opened the scoring for the Colts with a 26-yard TD run. Former Novi football and wrestling star BRETT KEIR, a junior lineman at Washburn University in Topeka, Kan., was the coaches' pick as defensive star of the game in WU's 38-3 loss to Southwest Missouri State. Keir registered seven assisted tackles and helped shut down SMSU's inside running game. Northville's SAM KHASHAN, a sophomore griddy at Kalamazoo College, is on his way to another fine season. Khashan is the leading punt returner for the Hornets with a total of 35 yards. In addition, Khashan has 31 tackles as a defensive back, making him one of the top tacklers on the team. He also has two tackles for a loss of 17 yards. The Hornets have a 2-2 record after a 42-0 loss to Findlay. Another former Northville star, MIKE KARFIS, has played an important role in Kalamazoo College football. He has rushed for 125 yards on 20 carries, giving him the second highest rushing total so far this season. Karfis also leads the Hornets in kick returns with 125 yards on 39 attempts. Although he was not the leading rusher in Kalamazoo's 31-7 victory over Chicago, he gained 86 yards on 12 carries and made two pass receptions.

Northville nips Novi in soccer showdown

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN
Staff Writer

In a match viewed by the players as soccer's version of the "Baseline Jug," Northville edged Novi 2-0 on Oct. 12 in a classic defensive struggle.

"It was a fairly close game," Mustang Coach Bob Paul said. "It's always fun to play the crosstown rival. Novi has some very good players and it was quite a battle."

Northville broke the scoreless tie with 13 minutes remaining in the first half on a goal by Jason Flading. It remained 1-0 until the Mustangs added an insurance goal with two minutes left in the match. Matt Oslecki was credited with the goal.

"Up until the second goal, we were right in it," Novi Coach Nick Valenti said. "We played a strong game but Northville was a little stronger. It was definitely a defensive battle."

For the game, the Mustangs had an 8-4 shots-on-goal advantage.

"Novi is always a big game for us," Paul admitted. "The play for the game was end to end, but I thought we moved the ball well and executed our system. That last goal kind of cemented it for us."

NORTHVILLE 3, FARMINGTON 0: Three goals is not normally a big outburst, but for the defensive-minded Mustangs, the Oct. 8 win against the Falcons was an offensive explosion.

After all, it marked the first time since Sept. 12 that the Northville offense managed to score more than one goal in a match.

"It was a great game for us," Paul said. "On paper, we were two very evenly matched teams."

LIVONIA 'CHURCHILL' 5, NORTHVILLE 0: The low point of last week's soccer action was a shutout loss at the hands of the state's top-ranked squad on Oct. 10.

"I didn't think our team played poorly," Paul said. "It's just that (Churchill) has no weaknesses. They deserve to be No. 1."

The Chargers needed 20 minutes before opening the scoring and led 2-0 at the intermission.

"We played a more defensive game against Churchill because they are so explosive, but it's a double-edged sword. Because of that, we couldn't mount much of an offense. 'The better' team won."

Northville is now 5-7-3 overall and 3-5-1 in the WLAA. In district action on Oct. 22 at 7 p.m., the Mustangs will host North Farmington in round one. Ironically, Northville also played the Raiders on Oct. 17 (after the Record's deadline) in the WLAA playoffs.

The Mustangs beat North Farmington 4-0 back on Sept. 12.

Lower cholesterol with exercise?

By CRISTINA FERRIER
Staff Writer

Every year millions of people across the nation decide to go on a diet.

Many of those people try to starve themselves or turn to fad diets in an attempt to shed excess pounds that have been gained over a period of several years.

And that's unhealthy. According to Jean Egan, a nutritionist for the Oakland County Health Department, such tendencies create the famous "yo-yo" syndrome that eventually results in additional pounds, leaving the dieter heavier than before.

Putting yourself on an extremely low-calorie diet is a dangerous thing to do. "Very simply, if you're on a very quick, very low-calorie diet, the body will burn whatever is available to it to keep it going — not just fat, but muscle tissue," Egan said.

She explained that autopsies done on people who have died from such drastic dieting pinpoint where the muscle tissue of the heart or other major organs had been metabolized by the body.

In other words, the body had been eating itself.

But for the short-term dieter, who diets in such a manner to lose weight, the yo-yo syndrome is most likely to occur.

"These are people who don't look at changing their eating habits," Egan explained. "An extremely low-calorie diet doesn't involve healthy eating, so it doesn't teach the person how to keep the weight off."

When people go off the diet, they go back to their old habits that caused them to gain weight in the first place, she said.

In addition, according to research, the body's metabolism has slowed down from the drastic dieting in defense against starvation. So, when the dieter goes back to his old eating habits, the metabolism stays the same and the dieter gains even more weight.

The best way to lose weight, Egan said, is to maintain a moderate exercise program and an appropriate fat intake. Men should have no less than 1,400 calories each day and women should have no less than 1,200. "Maybe 1,000 for very small people," she added.

But what about people who just can't stick to a diet? The weight-loss industry is a billion-dollar business, and the Detroit area is filled with expensive weight-loss clinics that promise a fast reduction in flab.

These centers offer hundreds of "success stories" and most concentrate on healthy eating habits and include maintenance programs to keep the weight off.

However, Egan said that if you want to go to one of these centers, it is important to check into them thoroughly before handing over any money.

When looking into a weight-loss clinic, Egan said, you should make sure the clinic uses a variety of foods. "There should be no food group eliminated from the program," she said. "Or, if there is, there should be something that substitutes for it nutritionally."

Egan said the diet should include milk (or skim milk), fruits and vegetables, lean meats, dried beans and peas, and whole grains as well as a moderate intake of "healthy" fats.

In addition, she said, the dieter should look at the credentials of the staff. There should be professional nutritionists or nurses at the center.

Landfill-based water pollution is a threat

By JUDITH BEHN, M.D.
Special Writer

Every year, each American throws out almost 1,200 pounds of trash and we're running out of places to put it.

At the current rate we're producing trash, we'll need 500 new dumps a year. But finding locations for these will be costly, time-consuming and politically challenging.

Many landfills have shut down because there is no more room. But thousands of other sites are closed because of pollution problems. Because of the things buried in them, landfills represent potentially major sources of groundwater pollution.

Much of the solid waste we discard from our homes includes batteries, painting supplies, cleaners, pesticides and other includes hazardous materials. Residue from these materials can "leach" through the subsoil and get into the water table. Since groundwater contains 90 percent of the world's drinking water supply, landfill-based water pollution is a threat we must minimize.

Some communities are turning to incinerators as an alternative to landfills, but the trade-off is another source of air pollution. And incinerator ash must be shipped to a landfill.

Here's what you can do to cut down on garbage and reduce waste:

- Recycle your trash. Separate newspapers, bottles and cans. Recycling saves energy and reduces materials otherwise discarded as waste.
- Buy products packed in paper, glass or metal. These materials are heavily recycled. Plastic is not.

- Use recycled paper products. At home or at work, use stationery, printing paper and toilet paper made with recycled fiber.

- Recycle organic waste. Start a compost heap if you have a garden or lawn. You can separate compostable organic materials from your trash if your community has a compost program.

- Don't buy disposable products. Buy products with long life expectancies, such as cloth diapers, razors with replaceable blades and refillable pens.

- Avoid products with excessive packaging. Choose products packaged simply in a single material.
- Buy fresh food products. Fresh food is healthier than processed food and isn't packaged for distribution.

- Buy items in bulk. This reduces the need for individualized packaging and saves you money.

- Shop with your own string or canvas bag. Bring along your own bag so you don't need a store-supplied plastic or paper bag.

- Recycle your motor oil. Have your oil changed by a shop that recycles oil. If you do it yourself, take the used oil to a location which accepts recycled oil.

Tankers dunk Harrison

The Farmington Harrison girls swim team was the latest victim of the Mustang tankers. On Oct. 11, Northville won 11 of 12 events in a convincing 65-27 home victory over the Hawks.

In the first event, Kristen Woodsum, Teri Juhasz, Pam Holdridge and Sheila Osborne won the 200-yard medley relay by just two-hundredths of a second. In the 200 freestyle, Jodi Wesley and Megan Holmberg placed 1-2 respectively with times approaching the state meet qualifying cutoff.

Juhasz made her state meet cut en route to a win in the 200 IM, and Claire Cryderman was second. Brenda Newton and Osborne went 1-3 in the 50 freestyle.

Beth Frayne had her season-best score in diving, but had to settle for second place. Lisa Hojnacki was third.

Holdridge — who was named an All-State butterfly last season — pulled to within tenths of a second of the state cut while winning the 100 butterfly, while teammate Susan Kowalski had her best swim of the year to place third.

Juhasz and Newton went 1-2 in the 100 freestyle, and sprinter Megan Holmberg showed her versatility by winning the 500 freestyle. Allison Steving was third.

Wesley won the 100 backstroke and Cryderman just missed the state cut with her win in the 100 breaststroke.

Osborne, Woodsum, Holdridge and Newton combined to win the 200 freestyle relay, and the 400 freestyle relay team — with Holmberg, Wesley, Cryderman and Juhasz — also registered a win.

The Mustangs (5-1 overall) will be out for revenge tonight (Oct. 18) when Livonia Churchill comes to town for a crucial Western Division dual-meet clash. A year ago, the Chargers nipped the Mustangs in a meet that was decided in the final event.

Wildcat footballers keep playoff hopes alive

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN
Staff Writer

The Novi football dynasty is still alive and well after all.

Brighton wrapped up the Kensington Valley Conference title with a win over Lakeland last week but the Wildcats kept their MHSAA playoff hopes alive with a thrilling 28-21 road win over a talented Hartland squad on Oct. 12. With the score knotted at 21-21, Novi marched 77 yards for the game-winner in the final 2:39 of the game. Quarterback Jeff Schram found a wide-open Darnel Krause at the goal line with 1:28 remaining and hit him for a 37-yard scoring strike.

"We showed a lot of character in this game," jubilant Novi coach John Osborne said. "Hartland has a real nice team and we knew we'd be in for a challenge. On paper, they look better than us, but we played our best game of the season."

"The Brighton coach (Bill Murray) told me that he thought Hartland had the best talent in the league."

For the second straight week, the Novi offense shifted into high gear. After stumbling through the season's first five weeks, the 'Cats have combined for 63 points in the last two. Hartland never did stop Novi's offense, but the Eagles and quarterback Charlie Decator gave the Wildcat defense fits — including an incredible 90-yard run from scrimmage.

"We've made some adjustments in our offense and we are changing our formations more and it seems to work," Osborne said. "The last two weeks we've been a very effective football team."

Novi marched 82 yards on its first possession and took a 7-0 lead on a three-yard scoring run by Jason Wladischkin. But Hartland responded early in the second quarter with a 70-yard scoring drive that knotted it at 7-7. The touchdown was a one-yard run by Tom Radlik.

Novi receiver Chris Lowery runs upfield

The scenario continued as Novi made it 14-7 only to see the Eagles tie it just before the intermission. The Novi score came on a 28-yard pass from Schram to Krause over the middle with 4:49 remaining. But 21 seconds later, Decator kept the ball on the option from his own 10 and rambed 90 yards down the right sideline.

"We got hurt several times by big plays, and that was the biggest," Osborne said. "We missed a couple assignments and their quarterback is a big threat. Our game plan was not to let their big fullback (Chad Frazier) hurt us, so that left things open for (Decator)."

"But I was pleased that we were able to overcome those things."

The two teams combined for 367 yards in total offense in the first half.

Novi took its third lead of the game (21-14) midway through the fourth quarter on an eight-yard run by Wladischkin. It capped off an impressive 78-yard drive that featured a good mix of power running and short possession-type passes.

Less than a minute later, senior lineman Scott Vermillion pounced on a Decator fumble at the Hartland 33, and with just over seven minutes remaining, Novi was poised for the win. But Osborne called for an ill-advised pass play and Schram's throw was intercepted by Joe Shelata in the end zone.

"We thought we could execute (the pass), get a quick six points and put the game away, but it was a bad decision," Osborne admitted. "There was really no reason to try it because we were moving the ball on the ground and eating up the clock."

With new life, the Eagles marched down the field to tie it again with 2:48 left. The touchdown was a 46-yard scamper by Matt Chunn on a fourth-and-one situation.

But the Novi offense bailed Osborne out with a brilliant game-winning drive that featured the running and passing of Schram. A pair of runs (of 14 and 16 yards) by Schram off the option moved the ball into Hartland territory, and then he connected with Krause for his second touchdown of the game.

"I was just supposed to run a deep pattern — I'm not really sure how I got so wide open," Krause said. "I knew I was right near the goal line, so all I was concentrating on was catching the ball."

The Eagles' final possession ended when Wladischkin picked off a Decator pass after it was tipped by 6-foot-8 Aaron Federspiel.

"I'm pleased that we have been able to come on strong at the end of our games," Osborne said. "We are well-conditioned and it is paying off. We put together some nice extended drives and that's a credit to our offense."

alive line.

"On the game-winning touchdown, Darnel made a great catch under the circumstances. He was wide open, but that pass seemed to hang in the air and he had a lot of time to think about it. When that happens, it makes it harder to do."

"We should also give credit to (line-man) Eric Mathes, because he made a key block for Schram on that play."

Novi had a 360-306 advantage in total offense and the team's balanced running attack was a key factor. Schram rushed for 78 yards in 16 tries, Wladischkin added 72 yards in 16 carries, and Matt Kobe chipped in with 59 yards in 15 attempts.

Schram was 7-for-10 through the air for 133 yards and two touchdowns. His favorite receiver was Krause, who hauled in four passes for 95 yards.

Schram completed an all-around great game by leading the team with seven solo tackles and three assists. Krause added five solos and five assists.

"We made some mistakes on defense, but (Hartland's) offense will make you do that," Osborne explained. "Other than the big plays, I thought we did a pretty good job."

The win ups Novi's season mark to 5-2 and drops Hartland to 5-2.

SOUTH LYON PREVIEW: It's been a down year for the Lions (3-4 overall), but tomorrow's (Oct. 19) showdown with Novi is always a tough battle. The Wildcats have won the last four meetings, but it's usually close and hard-hitting.

"South Lyon is a very young team, but they now have seven games of experience under their belts and they are always a force to be reckoned with," Osborne warned. "We have shown ourselves to be vulnerable this year and we can't take anybody lightly."

"Plus, I know for a fact that South Lyon really wants to beat us."

Home Improvement Home Improvement

All about H.I. no.2

It is no wonder the Home Improvement sections are among the most popular of all the special sections we publish every year.

After all, home ownership in Michigan is among the highest in the nation. And it's particularly high in the areas served by HomeTown Newspapers.

We published the first of our autumn Home Improvement sections last month, and now we're publishing our second. We know that you—the homeowner—will find it chock full of useful information.

What type of information will you find as you read through the pages ahead?

Well, there's an article on what's new in design trends. You'll be pleased to know that "personal style" has never been so important in putting together the touches that make your house distinctively yours.

An article of particular interest to local residents offers suggestions for dealing effectively with Michigan's blustery winters. There's information on a variety of methods for keeping your humble—or not-so-humble—abode warm and cozy when winter's winds send temperatures tumbling. Look for information about wood-burning stoves, solar heating and ceiling fans.

Another article provides suggestions for making special rooms—game rooms, sewing rooms, media centers, exercise rooms and even home offices.

Of course, the stories are only half the benefit of our Home Improvement section. We want you to read the stories, but we also want you to pay special attention to the information contained in the advertising throughout the section. You'll find all kinds of valuable information on products and services, special prices on home improvement materials, and maybe even some new products you have not even considered before.

What's new in design trends

Current trends emphasize a personal, eclectic look that happily blends the old with the new.

By Monica Perez

Personal style has never carried so much weight.

Architectural and interior design trends. The notion suggests a following of styles dictates by smart designers who have a knack for getting their work photographed and published.

Michael Graves-funny and Mario Buatta-excess aside, what is happening in home design today? If you were planning on a little remodeling or redecorating, what would make your home look hip, absolutely '90s?

Let's start with the house itself.

Warm, real materials are the biggest message coming from designers and homeowners, whose demand is the bottom line.

Wood, for instance, is back in force. Not dark, walnut-stained paneling, and not pickled and bleached, but just plain, natural wood. The finest finish is a light oil, which lets the beauty of the grain come through. This goes for cabinetry (you'll see a big return to wood in the kitchen), hardwood flooring, post-and-beam structural features and, perhaps soon, the rough wood-shingle exterior look of the '70s.

Stone — it's everywhere. Natural stone (slate, limestone, flagstone, marble and granite) flooring tiles are underfoot and creeping up the walls, covering fireplaces and surrounding doorways. Stone countertops are in huge demand.

Because of this demand, new quarries are opening around the world, expanding the available palette to include gorgeous shades of rose, green, gray and some blues.

Indoors and out, the look of natural materials on the surfaces we walk on means lots of brick (real brick, not fake "used") and tile, too. Wall-to-wall carpeting has lost out to these natural hard floors, so you'll be seeing more area rugs.

Rush and sisal matting is a new/old floor covering option making a return. Natural-looking, tough-wearing and inexpensive, it's a great alternative to carpeting in high-traffic rooms and hallways.

Walls are being stripped down to the (hopefully heavily textured) plaster. Any wallpapering that is being done is in romantic, heavy florals and bold stripes: classic and traditional.

Think white. Not as in cold and contemporary, but as in seaside cottage: warm cream muslin-draped windows and slipcovers for the chairs. It's wonderful with wood.

There is, of course, the other extreme to this minimalist, craftsman approach, and that is the return to the very baroque — big floral flourishes, heavy, tasseled draperies, elaborate crown molding and gilt framing.

Think old Europe. But not stiff and fussy; the very essence of all designs in the '90s is about comfortable surroundings. In an Edwardian room, that might mean thick Wilton-style carpets, an inviting ottoman, a big fireplace.

Trends in furnishing the home come back to this, too: Everything invites touch, makes you want to take a snooze. Brown leather is back, brown in all kinds of furnishings. And if you had to put your finger on the single most important statement in furniture, it would have to be tapestry — heavy, elaborate, in rich earthy colors. Tapestry is good if you have children, by the way: very little shows in the way of fingerprints.

Look at the things that concern you today: you'll see a close correlation in design. Who doesn't have the environment on their minds? And so you see a return to earthy, natural colors.

The family — we're reminded again of its importance. So follows the "great room" off the kitchen, the main gathering place of the home.

The living room, although smaller than 20 years ago, isn't off-limits to the kids; rather, furniture accommodates inquisitive hands and dusty sneakers, perhaps by being made of leather. The workplace — home offices are a given, but our living spaces have grown softer in reaction to a harder 9-to-5 schedule.

The whole idea is to surround yourself with a home, not a showcase. The houses we build for ourselves for the '90s will be remembered by our grandchildren as warm and comforting: the best place to be.

Real tips for investing in real estate

By Steve Hurtado

You own your own home, and what a good investment it was!

Now that you've built up equity and the house has appreciated in value, you may be wondering if it's time to buy another.

Perhaps a vacation home that you can retreat to several times a year — and that can offer excellent investment prospects.

Or, if you're ready to retire and your children have moved away, you may be interested in selling the home and buying one that meets your current needs.

Are you serious about making a killing in real estate? You may want to look into commercial properties. People have made fortunes in the development and sale of stores, factories, mobile home parks, garages, parking lots, shopping centers and office buildings.

Vacation Homes

The dream of owning a cozy cottage or condo on a lakefront or seaside site — or in the mountains — is becoming a reality for many families.

There are good deals to be found in condominium developments that have been built in areas where the demand is greater for single-family homes.

As for the impact of new tax laws, it's not nearly as bad as many potential buyers feared.

"The vacation home industry is alive and well and continues to offer buyers superb tax benefits that make it an attractive sheltered investment," explained Richard Robinson, CPA, a noted lecturer and writer on real estate-related tax factors.

"In some cases, a vacation home can generate a positive cash flow of tax-free dollars," Richardson said. "And it can be used by the owners whenever they choose."

Another factor now motivating people to purchase their own vacation homes — full ownership or time-share — is the increasing opportunity to exchange their unit with others located at points throughout the world.

International exchange networks have become more sophisticated and efficient in facilitating exchanges. One network, Interval International of Miami, serves 300,000 vacation home-owning families in 45 countries.

When shopping for that new vacation home, take time to inspect and consider a number of possibilities. There are always many good offerings on the market. On average, they resell every three to five years (as often as primary homes).

Be sure you check the structure of the home owner's association. What are its fees? How much cash reserve does it maintain? What is covered in its master insurance policy?

If you can't afford to pay the high price of your ideal resort condo, consider time-sharing. Another option is fractional ownership, you own one-fourth of the residence and are entitled to 13 weeks of use — a management firm rents it out when you're not using it.

Senior Estates

If you're between 50 and 65 years of age and own your home, lucky you. Believe it or not, you're wealthy. And you might as well relax and enjoy it.

Your real estate assets have grown to values you never thought possible and your mortgage balances are next to nothing. You have the resources and time to map out retirement housing plans.

Ask yourself if you're in the right house for your present and future needs. If it's too large for you, chances are there are younger home buyers who would love to have it.

You're in an ideal position to sell and move into a new home in a better location. Even if you're not ready to make major changes, keep your eyes open because developers in resort areas are building homes with you in mind. And mortgage plans tailored to seniors make financing easy.

If you purchase a house with a lesser value than your current home and you're 55 or older, get tax advice on how to handle one-time capital gains on the sale of residential property.

Move Up!

Even as first-time buyers struggle to come up with down payments on homes that are far from the "American Dream," those who own homes are looking for even better ones.

If you're a "move-up" buyer, you see your next home as a way of improving your lifestyle while investing in a choice piece of real estate.

Heating tips for COZY COMFORT

Heating a home can be fashionable, too. Stone fireplaces not only look good, but they retain heat for hours after the fire has died.

By Alison Ashton

When it's blustery and chilly outdoors, it's nice to come home to a house that's toasty and cozy.

But toasty and cozy can be costly if you're relying on outdated, inefficient heating systems or fireplaces that send more heat up the chimney than into the house.

Luckily, your options when heating your home when temperatures drop are numerous. Books, such as Heating, Cooling, Ventilation by Jay Hedden (Creative Homeowner Press), outline the choices, as well as their pros and cons.

Wood Ways

Whether you go through harsh winters in the Midwest or mild ones in the Southwest, the fireplace is more than a homey amenity. Stone fireplaces are particularly efficient as they radiate heat into the structure of the house, offering warmth long after the fire has died.

Wood-burning stoves are an ideal source if you have an inexpensive, plentiful supply of wood. The downside is that wood-burning stoves cause pollution (so much so that they're banned in Aspen). But more manufacturers are outfitting their stoves with catalytic converters, which cuts polluting wood particles by as much as 60 percent, according to Hedden.

If you opt for a wood-burning stove, invest in a high-quality steel plate or cast iron model. A good 500-pound stove will radiate heat for hours after the fire has gone out.

When using fireplaces or wood-burning stoves, the kind of wood you use makes a difference. Varieties, such as dogwood, live oak, apple, black birch or white ash, have a high heat value. Black spruce, red fir, noble fir and white spruce have a low heat value. If you want warmth, obviously, choose a high heat value. For ambiance, select wood with a lower heat value.

Hedden also suggests mixing green wood with dry to make the fire burn more slowly. And use care disposing of ashes: scoop them out of the stove or fireplace with a metal shovel and put them in a metal container in case there are hot coals among the ashes.

Once you have the right wood, there is the challenge of starting the fire. This "very basic act," says Hedden, "can frustrate a beginning fire maker."

Always open the damper, light newspaper and kindling wood, then add larger pieces of wood. Never use gasoline to start a fire.

Have your fireplace or wood-burning stove cleaned and inspected by a chimney sweep every year to clean away highly flammable creosote and check the damper.

Heating Methods

Homes can be heated in a variety of ways and how your home is heated, says Hedden, depends on when it was built. Houses older than 50 years often have gravity hot air, water or steam systems. Newer homes often use forced hot air.

"No matter how old your heating plant is, if it is working well, don't replace it just to get a more modern system," says Hedden. "The difference in efficiency may be so slight that you will never recover the cost of the new heating appliance."

You can, however, improve and modify a less-than-perfect system by improving your home's ventilation or bolstering its insulation, both of which are important for energy conservation and efficiency during hot and cold months.

Other Options

Solar heating is the source of controversy, and there are a lot of misunderstandings about how and where it can work.

"Solar heating is practical for any home, in any climate where there is sunshine at least a few months of the year," says Hedden.

That means that even homes in the sun-starved Pacific Northwest can store enough solar heat to make a difference. While it can be costly to install a solar heating system, generous federal and state tax incentives can make it an attractive option.

Another option is a ceiling fan. The same ceiling fan that cools your house in summer can help keep it warm in winter. Simply change the direction the fan's blades rotate to force rising hot air down from the ceiling. Fans work particularly well circulating the warm air given off by wood stoves.

Space heaters are also an option, but one that should be handled with care. They can use gas, wood, kerosene or electricity. Because they are highly flammable, look for heaters with a guard around the heat source. And never leave a heater on overnight in the bedroom.

Redesign your home, with or without contractors

By Debra Lee Baldwin

You dislike the idea of moving, but your house is just too small.

Why not stay put?

Even though your home is bursting with kids, you need room for an office or you want a second master suite for Grandma, you may be able to solve your dilemma with remodeling.

Begin by evaluating your needs and setting realistic goals. What exactly do you want to gain? More space, privacy or a better traffic flow? Determine your budget and decide how much of the work you can do yourself.

Once you know exactly what you want and can afford, call in the professionals. An architect can help you create a house that is a delight to live in. Choosing the right contractor is crucial.

If a major renovation is out of the question but you'd like to spruce up your home, consider enlisting the assistance of an interior designer, painter and/or wallpaper hanger; have a handyman fix whatever needs repair.

The addition of light can enhance the ambience of your home's interior. Consider adding skylights or a sun room, or consult a home lighting specialist.

There also are many resources for the do-it-yourselfer. New computer software can help you design your house, from floor plan to furniture placement.

If you don't own a computer, there are kits that show you how to create scale drawings of interiors and their contents. Sources for these are bookstores and shops that specialize in home repair and improvement items.

Preparation

This is the fun part. Browse through books and magazines, snipping and clipping pictures of home interiors that appeal to you. Visit model homes at housing developments. Take along a notebook, and jot down specific materials, manufacturers and products.

Investigate what's available from suppliers of windows, doors, plumbing fixtures — anything you think might enhance your home's interior.

Find out what you're allowed to do, according to local permit requirements. Check codes and ordinances with your community's building department. Be sure to ask for guidelines that explain the permit process.

Be creative. Now is the time to consult an architect and/or interior designer; come up with several approaches to your goal. Don't assume the first solution is the best one.

For painting, papering or remodeling, it's a good idea to have the project evaluated by a professional.

Draw a plan of your remodeling project — the more detailed the better. Use it as a springboard for discussion when you interview prospective contractors.

Up or Out?

Your options for remodeling include staying within your home's footprint (foundation); adding a floor; adding on at one side. You'll need to evaluate which is best for your home's situation and your budget.

Adding a second or third floor is the most expensive and life-disrupting of your options. But it may be best if your home fills its lot or you don't want to sacrifice yard space. Going up also lets you take advantage of a view and make dramatic architectural changes — both inside and out.

If you have a large lot, you may be better off adding on laterally. You'll effectively improve the comfort and function of adjoining rooms. And, during construction, there will be fewer interruptions to your lifestyle.

Hiring A Contractor

The person who will be tearing into your residence and molding its reconstruction must be someone you can trust. A major remodeling project is more than just business.

"It compares to the relationship between doctor and patient," said one man who recently remodeled his home.

It's important to interview and carefully check the references of several contractors.

Also check licenses. Be wary of any contractor with a "pending case" against his license. It can indicate anything from an isolated problem to a series of abandoned jobs.

A remodeling contract should give a precise description of the work to be done and also should note work for which the contractor is not responsible. It should specify a completion date, and may include a daily fine for work completed after that date.

Progress of the Project

Whether you've contracted for a one-room paint job or a second-story addition, you'll want to set up regular meetings with the person in charge of the project. Review what has been accomplished and what will be done next. If goals are not being met, find out why.

Even the most carefully planned home remodels often require changes midstream.

"You may realize after the project is underway that an expansive wall needs one more window to break the monotony," says Better Homes and Gardens magazine. "Or, maybe you're dissatisfied with the quality of the materials and want to substitute a better product."

On a major remodel, be sure to get both the price and the nature of the change in writing.

"Give descriptions and exact dimensions and attach a revised blueprint or plan," says the magazine.

"Include specifications, catalog or model numbers, colors and sizes. Set forth the contractor's estimate for any charges above the original price of remodeling. Include a revised timetable for completion of the work and payment of the fees."

Modular cabinets can fit neatly into a niche to provide office space at home.

By Kelly M. Pyrek

Patti Davis owns a cleaning service with dozens of employees. It's also a business that generates enough paperwork to repaper her entire house. And Davis writes and paints. How can she do all that and still tend to a husband, a cat and a parrot?

Davis has moved her base of operations to her home, where she can run her business, enjoy her hobbies and still keep her life and family in order.

Although she lives in a compact two-bedroom apartment, Davis has turned the spare bedroom into a combination office and artist's studio, proving that you don't have to own a mansion to pursue your interests.

Creating your own spaces tucked away from the traffic of the house takes a little ingenuity (Davis cuts mat board for her paintings using a freezer they are storing as a working countertop), but the results are satisfying.

The secrets to carving out new niches for yourself are learning to view old spaces in a new light and eliminate clutter that crowds out a prime space with niche potential.

The best way to start is to dump items that have outlived their usefulness, but that you can't bear to part with, to reclaim spaces such as basements and storage areas.

When insulated properly, basements make excellent darkrooms for photography buffs. Block out light sources with double-lined curtains and posterboard. Look for wall and floor coverings that are suitable for below-grade spaces and varying temperatures.

Attics can be transformed from catch-alls to clever caches for your hobby-related materials. You can wall in a breezeway between the house and garage, or turn a portion of the garage into a workshop. Add indoor/outdoor carpeting, a workbench made from a board over sawhorses and line the existing walls with pegboard on which to hang tools.

Old milk carton cases can be spray-painted and stacked to form neat shelves and cubbyholes that will reduce clutter and make for easy cleanup.

A good source for clever ways of revamping nooks and crannies in your house is The Complete Basic Book of Home Decorating (Doubleday). The following are some ideas you can follow to create your own niches in no time:

Music rooms.

Wall-to-wall carpeting and lined draperies are not only a luxury, but also a wise accoustical move for music-lovers who want to keep their music to themselves. Check the climate-control system for this niche to protect valuable instruments, tapes and stereo equipment.

Game rooms.

Since you'll be moving the furniture around, look to washable vinyl floor coverings or tiles that form a fun checkerboard pattern. Instead of wallpaper, try stenciling or stick-on letters and graphics you can buy at an art supply store. Go to unfinished wood furniture stores to find simple pieces that you can paint in bright primary or neon colors to add to the spirit of the room.

Hobby rooms.

Look for places in your house with good light and ventilation, such as areas adjacent to the kitchen. An enclosed porch could be converted into an artist's studio so that paint fumes aren't a bother, and the outdoors can provide inspiration for budding artists. An unused wet bar could be an ideal place to set up your pottery work station with access to a sink.

If the niche is located in a corner of the living room or family room, hide projects in the works behind tall folding screens that complement the rest of the room's decor.

Bookshelves can instantly wall off a hobby niche, as well as provide needed storage space. Import stores, such as Cost Plus and Pler One, offer baskets of all sizes and shapes that will hold hobby supplies, but you also can use fishing tackle boxes or rolling microwave carts to make a mobile hobby niche.

Gyms.

According to Home magazine, home gyms are eclipsing private tennis courts or lap pools as a status symbol and the fitness regimen of choice. With the wide variety of machines and equipment available, it isn't hard to find a machine that is trim and light to fit even the tightest spots in your house, which may include balconies for workout al-fresco, alcoves located off master bedrooms or even garages.

Media centers.

Sociologists say that our hectic work lives in the '90s are causing us to cocoon in our homes, so many people are turning their living room into a home entertainment center. Video sales and rentals are shaping lifestyles and even product design. Black is hot, with clean lines reflecting the minimalist tastes of Euro-style.

Sleek audiovisual components that disappear into cabinetry are selling well, as are armoires that feature a sliding, pull-out shelf for big-screen televisions and VCR units.

"Custom-designed audiovisual systems are more of an integral part of the house rather than an afterthought," says Yves Richarz, a California designer.

Home offices.

According to Home magazine, at least 20 percent of Americans work from their homes, so a quiet place with a minimum of distractions is one of the most important niches your house can offer. This niche should be comfortable, but also say "all business" to ward off interruptions.

"Furniture, such as desks and filing cabinets, is now being made in a modular form so that it doesn't scream 'Utilitarian office furniture,'" says space designer Charles Marcossi.

An office is anything you make it, whether it is an entire office/study space, or a small desk or drafting table tucked away in a closet. The important thing is to provide yourself with good light, whether it's natural or artificial, and plenty of storage that is easy to get to and attractively presented in hanging storage bins or straw baskets.

Go modern abstract with bright colors for a small space, or quiet and understated in a larger niche with room for a chaise lounge, brass end tables, a potbellied stove and a collection of treasured photographs. Monochromatic color schemes also work well in tight spaces, but don't forget a plant in a fun coffee cup or a framed puzzle to add life and interest for the times when you take a break from the work at hand.

Energy-efficient and high-tech homes

By Alison Ashton

Homes are more than an attractive way to shelter us from the outside world. Smart homes are safe, toxin-free and energy efficient. Small improvements around the house can make your home all three.

Many safety projects are easy for the do-it-yourselfer; contractors can help with bigger projects.

Safety First

Fire safety should top every homeowner's checklist. Install smoke detectors and fire extinguishers (especially in the kitchen) and inspect them regularly.

According to the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission, there should be at least one smoke detector on every floor. Detectors should not be installed within six inches of where walls and ceilings meet or near heating and cooling ducts.

Electrical currents also pose a hazard, particularly in the kitchen and bathroom, where appliances can get wet. Ground fault interrupters installed in plugs will cut off the electricity if the appliance gets wet.

Avoid potential accidents by removing throw rugs and small pieces of furniture that are easy to trip over. Stairways should be well-lit; put anti-skid strips in bathtubs and showers.

Health Homes

Environmental toxins are an invisible but very real hazard to your home. Dizziness, as well as persistent sinus and respiratory ailments, are a clue that your home may be emitting a toxic element.

Causes include poor ventilation, excess moisture, poor water, formaldehyde, lead paint, asbestos, pesticides, radon and toxic waste. Newly discovered threats include electromagnetic fields emitted from household appliances.

Most environmental threats can be dealt with, however, especially if you contact someone who is qualified to treat environmental hazards.

Asbestos, for instance, is not harmful if it's undamaged. If, however, you think there is a problem, don't try to remove it by vacuuming, breaking, sawing or drilling materials containing asbestos.

Adequate ventilation is important for keeping the air fresh in the house and dissipating excess moisture, which can damage the house itself, as well as your family's health. An exhaust-fan system and a humidistat usually solves the problem.

Formaldehyde is a problem that usually effects houses built since the '60s. It's usually found in particle board subflooring and insulation. There are sealants available to reduce formaldehyde emissions.

Lead paint is usually found in houses built before the '40s. Cracked or peeling paint should be covered by wallpaper or drywall or completely stripped by a professional.

Cancer-causing radon is enough of a problem, says Money magazine, to warrant testing any house you are considering buying. Treating a radon problem can be as simple as caulking cracks in the basement or as complex as installing a subslab ventilation system.

Money recommends having any house fully inspected by a qualified appraiser for toxic threats before purchasing.

Smart Appliances

It won't be too long before your family lives in a house like the Jetsons. Or possibly, more elegantly, like something out of "Star Trek"

Unity Systems already has its Home Manager, which monitors the interior climate, lighting and telecommunications in the house. On a practical level, the system keeps track of who enters the house, closes off access to certain rooms and keeps track of when the lawn needs watering.

On a fun level, it can turn on the oven and VCR and warm up the Jacuzzi before your return home from work.

Another system, which could be in the majority of homes by the end of the decade, is fiber optic video and information services. Minute glass fiber optic wires have been used for telephone communications for years.

The next step is to transmit video information over the wires, meaning two-way video conversations would be possible. Ultimately, banking, shopping and voting transactions will be handled by fiber optics from your home.

Here and now, however, and on a more affordable level, you will find smart, energy-efficient appliances.

Refrigerators are equipped with water dispensers in the door and small compartments for frequently needed items, which cuts down the energy drain of constantly opening the door. Dishwashers are getting quieter and offer shorter, more energy-efficient cycles.

And, of course, there is a host of countertop appliances, from coffee-makers to microwave/toaster ovens with timers and settings to make cooking that much more convenient.

Prepare garden and yard for cooler weather

By Jason Zappe

Cool weather begs you to cease the cutting and pruning in your yard. Take advantage of this dormant season plan for the onslaught of colorful spring growth.

Now is the time to clean up the yard, plan a landscape to end all landscapes and plant those desired spring bloomers.

Pitch the Rake

Cleanup chores no longer have to include raking leaves, hefting bags of them or breathing their eye-watering smoke.

Black and Decker, Toro, Snapper and Homelite offer a simple solution to grooming your lawn.

New hand-held gas blowers and electric blower/vacuums will suck up your unwanted twigs and leaves, blow away your snow and drain the crud out of your rain gutters.

These high-powered gadgets save you plenty of time and back-breaking labor. They're easy to use, lightweight — less than 10 pounds — and can perform a variety of chores.

To ease the drudgery of raking leaves and then mulching them, Toro markets a machine with a mulching attachment that shreds as you vacuum.

When you're not mulching, you can use some of these models to blast snow off your driveway and out of your way in seconds. The Toro Snothrower is just one of the many models on the market.

Most of these vacuums and blowers range in price from $400 to $1,100. For about half the power and a fraction of the price, consider the Black and Decker Sweep Stick.

Spruce Up For Spring

Now that the dreaded fall cleanup is over, it's time to think about spring landscaping. There's no better time than during cool weather to make those outdoor improvements. Beautiful landscapes not only make your home more enjoyable and aesthetically pleasing, they will also increase its value.

Eye-catching landscapes begins on paper. Use graph paper to sketch out areas to be landscaped. Jot down such items as the direction your house faces, the quantity of sunshine you receive and areas that get shade.

It's also a good idea to take a few before and after pictures — this will help you decide if something should stay or not. When planning a landscape project, keep in mind these suggestions:

- Design a long-term plan. Try not to do everything at once. This will give you a chance to make changes and add plants you can't live without. A long-term schedule will be gentler on your budget as well.

- Don't overplant. A little space between shrubs gives room for growth and looks cleaner, less busy.

- Who should do the landscaping? Here you have some choices. You can contract a professional landscaper, do it yourself or consult your local nursery. Nurseries usually have knowledgeable people, who, if you buy your shrubs there, will give free information and advice.

- Landscape for low maintenance. Everyone wants a perfectly manicured yard, but this can become a full-time job. Consider adding an artistically styled rock garden with an even mix of succulents. Consult your local nursery for other less intensive lawn grooming ideas.

- Landscape for energy efficiency. Plant deciduous trees next to your house. They shade the house during summertime and allow maximum winter sun to get through.

- Utilize shrubs and flowers to camouflage unsightly areas. Planting shrubs next to that large air conditioner will hide it perfectly.

- Use color in areas you want to be noticed. Near the door you should put a hanging planter or a large ceramic pot full of radiant flowers.

Taking the time now, when the weather offers relief from the heat, to tidy up and plan ahead will let you enjoy your yard when the colors come bursting out.
