Henningesen contract to be extended

By MIKE TYREE
Staff Writer

Township Manager Richard Henningesen will be offered a 1991 contract, possibly by the end of this week, Supervisor Georgina Goss said Monday.

Henningesen's initial one-year contract expired Oct. 16. Goss said she has no plans to replace the veteran township political and administrative figure.

"He's made a great deal of progress in the last year in the way he handles the day-to-day business of the township," Goss said. "He's dedicated and enthusiastic and his primary talents are in the area of administering and following through on public improvement projects and policies."

Henningesen, longtime township treasurer, was appointed to the manager's post last year after a protracted search for a replacement of former Manager Steve Brock.

Henningesen was selected, in part, because of his knowledge of the township and western Wayne County. Goss said those attributes have paid off for the Northville community.

"He interfaces well between Wayne County and various boards and commissions," Goss said. "He's really a tireless worker."

Goss said she will conduct a review of Henningesen's performance and solicit input from the township board before offering a contract extension. If the two sides agree to a new pact, Goss said, Henningesen will sign a "fairly standard one-year contract."

Henningesen earned $40,000 in his first year as township manager. Township 1991 preliminary budget figures list a salary of $42,216, but Goss said salary will be a negotiating point.

"I won't offer a specific amount until after we hear the budget review committee's recommendation," she said. "(Any increase) will be within the guidelines of what the budget review committee is allocating for other township employees."

Goss doubted that salary would be a major sticking point in negotiations.

"He's one of the few people who doesn't look at money as the main reason for working," she said.

Northville Township government has faced several key issues and problems in the year since Henningesen was appointed manager.

The township's inability to secure a 72-acre, stipulation-burdened tract of land at Six Mile and Sheldon was a bitter pill for Henningesen, as was an August defeat of a township fire department millage.

The township also suffered through the resignation of police Chief Ken Hardesty and a cumbersome, oft-confused nine-month search for his replacement.

Henningesen was out of town this week and was not available for comment.

Developer shows bridge design

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

The members of Concerned Residents of Northville got a sneak preview of the latest proposed MainCentre pedestrian bridge last Wednesday.

The group was the second local organization presented with the new design — the Downtown Merchants Association got its own presentation the previous week.

"It's been kind of an unofficial, informal unveiling," said Singh Development Vice President Michael Kahm. "We wanted to get a feel for how the citizens and the merchants of Northville feel about a bridge."

Singh Development of Birmingham is the builder of the MainCentre project.

City officials have stalled plans for a pedestrian bridge over the last several months, after several residents spoke out against the bridge.

The Historic District Commission sent the first bridge design back to the drawing board in July, and a motion before the commission to ap-

Schools worry about local control

By SUZANNE HOLLYER
Staff Writer

Northville Schools will comply with a new state law, but less than wholeheartedly.

Not only does Public Act 25 of 1990 force every district to make some potentially costly changes in their programs, but it could signify "the beginning of the end" to local control over schools, said Dolly McMaster, assistant superintendent for instructional services. The school board nonetheless voted Monday to comply with the law.

The act is noble in its intent, McMaster said. But the result will be costly, even to a district like Northville that has already invested in a plan for pursuing quality in education.

Public Act 25 requires state school districts to:

- Work toward the accreditation of every school in the district.

"I think the State of Michigan could have used Northville Public Schools as a model."

DOLLY McMASTER

Assistant Superintendent for Instructional Services
Northville Public Schools

- Work on three- to five-year improvement plans.
- Adopt a core curriculum and plan for implementation.
- Report the district's retention rate (the percentage of students which graduate to the next grade level each year).
- Report student achievement on statewide assessment tests.
- Report the number of parents attending parent conferences.
- Compare the findings with previous findings.
- Report all of the findings and information in an annual report.

Variances from the requirements will have to be approved by the state. McMaster discussed some instances already apparent in which variances from the state's model core curriculum would be requested.

The model requires that arts be taught, including drama and dance. McMaster said that to meet the requirement the district would have to lose a teacher in another area where the state did not require a teacher, like advanced math.

Besides redistributing teachers, the act could create problems within programs that have already developed a comprehensive course outline.

A class specifically called "civics" must be taught under the core curriculum.

In the high school social studies department at Northville High School no class specifically called civics is taught, although the information taught in a civics class is covered in other classes.

To avoid rearranging the department the district would have to seek a variance from the model. Each option would cost the district some amount of time and possibly money.

Northville was already complying with the spirit of the act, through the district's own five-year plan known as the Strategic Planning Initiative started in 1989, McMaster said.

Candidates, issues explored inside

Inside today's Northville Record is coverage of several races of interest to Northville residents in the general election Tuesday, Nov. 6.

A question-and-answer session with Deputy Wayne County Executive Mike Duggan on the proposed Metro Airport expansion appears on page 15A. Also of interest to Wayne County voters, an interview with U.S. Rep. Carl Pursell, running for re-election this year, begins on page 17A. An article about one of two contested seats on the Wayne County Probate Court runs on page 16A.

For Oakland County residents, interviews with U.S. Rep. William Broomfield and challenger Walter Briggs IV start on page 18A. Oakland County Commission candidates Kay Schmid and Jeffrey

Potter face off in individual question-and-answer stories on page 19A.

The Record's endorsements on the election begin on today's editorial page, 22A. More articles — on state Senate, state House and judicial races, as well as the Northville Township fire millage — will appear in upcoming issues.

Health forum set

A forum will be held to discuss the Michigan Model for Comprehensive School Health next Thursday, Nov. 1.

The health model is used by the Northville Public School District to fill a state requirement for teaching health. The model uses techniques that some critics call New Age religion. The model has also been criticized for the way it teaches problem-solving and decision-making methods.

Advocates say the model helps kids deal with peer pressure and stress, and offers hope to students considering using drugs.

The meeting will be held at Northville First United Methodist Church at 7:30 p.m.

The church is located at 777 W. Eight Mile Road

SCHOLARSHIP FUND DINNER: The Northville Veterans of Foreign War Post 4012 will hold a benefit dinner on Sunday, Nov. 4 from 1-5 p.m.

Proceeds from the all-you-can-eat spaghetti dinner will go to a scholarship fund for Northville High School graduating seniors who plan to continue their education.

Two $500 scholarships will be available annually. The dinner will be held at the Northville VFW Post Home on 438 S. Main St. in Northville.

PUBLIC HEARINGS ON RECREATION NEEDS: Northville Community Recreation will hold two public hearings to discuss the community's recreation needs over the next five years. The 7:30 p.m. hearings will be held Monday, Oct. 29 at City Hall, and Wednesday, Nov. 7, at Township Hall.

The purpose of the hearings is to gather public input for a recreation master plan. Recreation Director John Anderson said they should help his department determine resident desire for different forms of recreation, in light of two recent recreation millage defeats.

EFFECTIVE COMMUNICATION: A seminar on effective communication will be sponsored by the Northville Community Chamber of Commerce from 9 a.m. to noon Wednesday, Nov. 7 at the clubhouse at Park Place of Northville.

The program will be presented by Gary Evans, Ph.D., professor of organizational and interpersonal communication at Eastern Michigan University and a private consultant.

Evans will discuss several areas of communication including effective communication, dealing with difficult people/irate customers, effective listening, maximizing employee productivity, and planning and goal setting.

Registration and continental breakfast will take place beginning at 8:30 a.m. Park Place of Northville is located on the corner of Eight Mile and Griswold roads, at 42725 Park Place Drive, Suite 618A.

Registration is $25 per person with a $10 fee for any additional members from a company. Space will be limited. Reservations can be made by calling the chamber at 349-7640.

HAUNTED SELL-OUT: The Maybury Madness Haunted Forest Walk, slated for this weekend at Maybury State Park, is a big success already.

Organizer Peg Campbell reports that the event is completely sold out. If you don't already have tickets — it looks like next year.

U-M ALUMNI MEET: The newly formed University of Michigan Club of Northville will hold its first meeting at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, Nov. 8 at Genitti's Hole-in-the-Wall, 108 E. Main. A cash bar will be available.

The meeting is open to all residents of the Northville/Novi area who have recently joined or are interested in joining the club. Membership is open to alumni, parents of students, parents of alumni and friends of the University of Michigan.

The formal meeting will be followed by refreshments and a social hour.

Student letter campaign pays off

Mike Shea had no idea he would be paid for writing to American soldiers in Saudia Arabia.

But he did actually receive some reimbursement for his time.

Mike received one Saudi Riyal and a letter from the soldier who received his letter. The Saudi Riyal won't make Mike rich. It's only worth about 26 cents in American dollars, but the money does make receiving a response even more exciting.

Mike was one of six third-graders at Our Lady of Victory in Northville to have received a response from an American soldier in Saudi Arabia.

The class, taught by Sharon Brandt, sent three letters each to Saudi Arabia. On Oct. 22, Meaghan Blake was the first to receive a response. The next day Jay Zak got a letter. Jason Fitzpatrick, Maggie McGlinchey and Amy Eischen joined Mike Shea in receiving letters on Oct. 24.

The class sent self-addressed, stamped envelopes and paper to the soldiers to better their chance of receiving a response.

Township resident victim of threatening call

A Northville Drive resident received a threatening telephone call early Oct. 16, township police said. According to police records, the victim received a "hang up" call at 9:30 p.m. Oct. 15. At 1:59 a.m., the victim's mother answered a call. The woman said the caller said, "Your son is dead" and hung up.

The 27-year-old victim told police he had no idea who the caller was or why he was threatened.

Police News

LARCENY AT MEIJER: A South Lyon woman and a Detroit man told township police someone stole a cellular phone from the man while he was inside a restroom at Meijer, 20401 Haggerty.

According to police reports, the man entered the restroom early Oct.

19, occupied a stall and placed the cellular phone next to him. An unknown person then reportedly took the phone and fled the restroom. The complainant said he could not identify or provide a description of the man.

AUTO THEFT AT MEIJER: A black 1987 Ford Ranger was stolen from the northern section of the Meijer parking lot Oct. 16, according to township police reports. The owner of the vehicle told police he entered the store at 10:15 p.m., returned at 10:32 and discovered the vehicle was missing.

Police searched the area and found no broken glass or other evidence.

The truck is described as black with gray and red pinstriping. The vehicle was equipped with a sunroof and black cap. The truck was valued at $5,700.

OUIL: A 28-year-old Northville man was arrested on Seven Mile Road east of Northville Road Oct. 18 and charged with operating a vehicle under the influence of alcohol.

Police said the man was convicted of drunk driving in May 1981 and was also charged with another drunk driving count in April 1986.

Citizens with information about the above incidents are urged to call Northville City Police at 349-1234 or Northville Township Police at 349-9400.

Phone program offers trick-or-treat safety tips

The Greater Washtenaw Area Tel-Med, a free telephone health education program, announces the addition of a new tape especially for children. The new tape, "A Halloween Message," is a way to teach children about trick-or-treat safety.

"A Halloween Message" talks to children about ways to make Halloween trick-or-treating both fun and safe. Developed in conjunction with local law enforcement agencies, the tape's narrator, the "Halloween Pumpkin," makes suggestions about checking candy for tampering, being able to see and be seen while trick-or-treating, and the need to be accompanied by a responsible adult.

Tel-Med is open for calls Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. and on Saturdays from noon to 8 p.m.

From western Wayne County and eastern Washtenaw County, call 434-6120. People from outside local calling areas are welcome to call, but regular telephone charges will apply.

Flyers advertising "A Halloween Message" and brochures that list Tel-Med's entire library of over 300 tapes are available by calling the above numbers. For large quantities, please call 572-3067.

The Greater Washtenaw Area Tel-Med is sponsored by Beyer Memorial Hospital, Care Choices Health Plans, Catherine McAuley Health System, Chelsea Community Hospital, Chelsea United Way, Child and Family Service of Washtenaw, Livingston County United Way, McPherson Hospital, Saline Community Hospital, University of Michigan Hospitals, University of Michigan University Health Service, Veterans Administration Medical Center, Washtenaw County Medical Society and Washtenaw United Way.

School district concerned about lessened local control

"I think the State of Michigan could have used Northville Public Schools as a model," she said.

Because the state created its own model that is not identical to Northville's model, the differences are already costing the district over one day per week to administer, McMaster said.

Strategic Plan programs and staff development programs are expected to lose some of their resources to Public Act 25 requirements. Superintendent George Bell said.

"We're going to have to divert some of that time inevitably," Bell said.

Noncompliance was discussed — briefly.

The district must comply with Public Act 25 or lose 5 percent of its state aid. That would cost the district between $50,000 and $75,000, Director of Business and Finance John Street said.

The state has already "recaptured" over $1.35 million of Northville's state categorical aid for programs like transportation, special education and social security payments. But enough state money would remain in the district to make compliance financially worthwhile.

"It's a very good pot of money there (for the state) to use as a wedge," Bell said.

Bell blames election-year politics on the March passage of the act.

"I'm sure (the governor) will be taking credit for this as will many legislators," Bell said.

"We are being used as a pawn in political maneuverings."

The act is committing what McMaster called "the cardinal sin" in education.

"One model does not work for all," she said.

"It's very difficult to legislate equity and quality, but we're going to give it a whirl again."

What's that, you say? Summer's over? Not by a long shot. Bill Butz of Northville holds tight to the last of the warm weather with a little sunbathing at Maybury State Park last week.

Mill Race Matters

Members of the Northville Historical Society last night hosted the semi-annual Local Area Historical Societies cluster meeting. Attendees toured Mill Race and heard Susan Lapine and Don Mroz discuss long-range planning for non-profit organizations.

Mill Race Village will be open one more Sunday afternoon. Sunday, Oct. 29 will be the final day of this season. The village will be open from 1 to 4 p.m.

Work is progressing on The Cady Inn and on the Interurban building. Both may be ready for viewing by spring. Watch this column for details.

Fall activities will include a special party for volunteers and the annual wine party, which will be Dec. 28. The society expects to print the last Quarterly for the year in early December.

Just outstanding Convery teaches real life skills

By SUZANNE HOLLYER
Staff Writer

Laurie Convery began teaching home economics when classes like "Bachelor's Survival" and "Men's Food" were still taught.

Today, home economics is called life skills in Northville and is required for sixth- and seventh-grade boys and girls. By the eighth grade, boys take life skills classes willingly.

Convery has made the transition well and been rewarded for her efforts.

The Michigan Home Economics Educators Association awarded Convery the title of "outstanding teacher" after former Meads Mill Assistant Principal Jeff Radwanski nominated her.

Radwanski, who has since become principal at Cooke Middle School, wrote a letter to the association recommending Convery be nominated mainly because of her involvement in developing new school programs.

"From an administrative position Laurie is dependable, articulate and professional," Radwanski wrote.

Students, parents and teachers supported Radwanski's nomination with letters of their own.

"I had some really lovely letters

"From an administrative position Laurie is dependable, articulate and professional."

JEFFREY RADWANSKI
Cooke Middle School Principal written for me," Convery said.

Besides winning the title of "outstanding teacher" Convery also received a plaque and a bouquet of roses. Although most winners brought family members or friends to the awards ceremony, Radwanski accompanied Convery.

"I thought it was real nice that an administrator would take the day off to go with me for something like that," Convery said.

The award was presented on Oct. 12. She was one of 10 home economics teachers in the state to receive the "outstanding teacher" award. One teacher was awarded "teacher of the year."

Convery has taught in the Northville Public School District for nine years. She teaches life skills at Cooke and Meads Mill middle schools.

"They're fun classes to teach," Convery said. "You really get to know the kids."

Clothing construction, or sewing for lay people, is no longer taught. Very few people sew their own clothes today and for those who do it's more of a hobby than a necessary skill.

Instead, the classes sew puppets for kids in hospitals learning skills they could someday use to repair clothing or sew a button back on a shirt.

Cooking is still taught, but the emphasis today is on nutrition.

The boys take the classes as often as girls in the eighth grade when life skills is no longer required.

"These kids are so young they don't realize there was a stigma (for boys to take home economics classes)," Convery said.

But a little gender-based rivalry still exists.

"Sometimes they get a little competitive," Convery said. "The boys want to prove they can (cook) just as well or better than the girls and quite often they do."

Report jeopardizes extended library hours plan

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

Library Director Pat Orr's request for year-round Saturday service was further jeopardized last week by a report from the city manager.

Orr had suggested that increased use of the Novi Library and others by Northville residents could leave the city's account for a portion of those libraries' operating costs, and she argued that year-round Saturday service could increase resident use of the Northville Library instead.

But City Manager Steven Walters said that Northville use of the Novi facility was higher in the winter, when the Northville Library is open Saturday as well.

"It appears that usage of other libraries is primarily a matter of convenience rather than hours," Walters

"It appears that usage of other libraries is primarily a matter of convenience rather than hours, and it would seem logical to assume that the usage of other libraries is distributed throughout the week, rather than concentrated on Saturdays and Sundays when the Northville library is closed."

STEVEN WALTERS

report concluded, "and it would seem logical to assume that the usage of other libraries is distributed throughout the week, rather than concentrated on Saturdays and Sundays when the Northville library is closed."

Walters gave the city council another reason that libraries in Novi and Plymouth attract a large share of Northville users, at the council's Monday meeting.

"Part of the reason that the Novi and Plymouth libraries are more in use is because our library is so much smaller," he said. "The literature suggests that the single most important factor in increasing usage of your library is increasing its size."

Council Member Carolann Ayers, who had missed the previous council meeting, expressed surprise that the previous council discussion had centered on the need to decrease the use of other libraries by Northville residents. She said that the library board had previously considered six-day service necessary to meet the needs of Northville residents. Ayers is a member of the board.

"As I remember it, the discussion was initiated by trying to figure out how we could accommodate our current situation for two to five years," she said, not just to decrease the use of other libraries.

Ayers, who also serves as the council liaison to the library advisory commission, said that added service was a constant goal of the library. "You try and keep up with what other state-of-the-art libraries are doing. Certainly it is the trend to be open six days a week, and in some cases seven days a week," she said.

Walters argued that rearranging hours could accomplish the same goal, if some of the library's existing hours of operation are not busy.

Walters also said that the shared-services agreement between the city and township allows the two municipalities to approve the amount of personnel hours for a shared service like the library specifically, and does not limit the city to approving only an overall budget amount.

Mayor Chris Johnson said the city council's concern was not over the additional hours as much as it was over the additional staff needed and the impact on the proposed 1991 budget.

"We did inform the director that we had significant concern with the size of the budget increase in terms of personnel," he said. "The total amount of the budget was not agreeable."

"What is the next step here?" asked Council Member Jerry Mittman.

"The next step here, I think, is to have the director and the commission review some of the suggestions made by the council," Johnson replied.

Deal not done on proposed seminary purchase

The Archdiocese of Detroit begs to differ with a Maryland firm, saying that the proposed purchase of the St. John Provincial Seminary at Sheldon and Five Mile in Plymouth Township is "far from a done deal."

John Erickson, president of Retirement and Health Services Corp., said last week that all the details had been worked out in the purchase of the seminary, and that the church and his firm would close on the 35-acre property in the spring after what are expected to be routine examinations of the buildings and the land.

Not so, said a church spokesperson in response. "We've entered into a conditional contract for sale of the property," said Richard Laskos. "(But) all sorts of things could happen. I was told it's far from a done deal. It's certainly not a done deal."

Michael Erickson, director of marketing for Retirement and Health Services, said of Laskos's statement: "Their response on that sort of surprises me . . . The contract is very specific and we're treating it that way," he said.

He said he hoped current communications with the church would resolve any problems regarding the proposed 1,000-unit retirement center, without the need for litigation.

The church listed all 175 acres at the site, including a golf course, for $20 million in 1988. The seminary buildings and 35 acres, excluding the course, were listed at $7.5 million. When the church was unable to find a buyer for the entire property, it signed the purchase agreement earlier this year for the smaller parcel.

Erickson said the purchase agreement includes an escape clause for the church that would allow it to back out of the deal only in the event that Retirement and Health Services' plans for the 35 acres would lower the value of the golf-course property.

"And there's no way what we're putting in there could make the land worth less," said Erickson. "Our studies show that putting in a 1,000-unit retirement community makes it easier for the church to sell the golf course—for a shopping center or whatever."

Maurice Breen, Plymouth Township supervisor, confirmed that there was a purchase agreement between the church and Retirement and Health Services. "I saw (Cardinal Edmund) Szoka's name on the agreement. We (township officials) wanted to see that before we proceeded. There are some escape clauses in there, but whether they would allow the church to get out of it, I don't know."

The property would have to be rezoned. Current zoning allows single-family houses on one-acre plots.

Retirement and Health Services officials say they will proceed with their plans to open up local offices for their engineering staff to study the infrastructure of the seminary and conduct soil samples. They say they have an escape clause in the contract in the event they discover major structural flaws or contaminated soil.

John Erickson said the firm hopes "to have product on the market" by the end of 1991.

Parents to meet to share their coping strategies

By SUZANNE HOLLYER
Staff Writer

Divorce, coping strategies and peer pressure are among the topics parents may be discussing at monthly "parent to parent" meetings in the Northville area.

Under the guidance of the Northville Counseling Center, parents will be meeting at district school buildings to discuss issues of concern.

The topics are tailored to the needs of each group.

The meetings are not only for parents who are having serious problems with their kids, although they are welcome, but also for parents who have questions about the best strategies for raising their children.

If a kid wants to serve alcohol at a party, and tells his or her parent that serving alcohol is common practice at high school parties, then the parent could use the meeting as a resource to talk to other parents confronted with the same issue.

"Every parent has glitches," said Jacque Martin-Downs, a counselor working on the program. "All of us in a sense are winging it."

The program may be extended to include parents of pre-school and special education students who have concerns of their own.

"It's very comforting knowing that there's someone out there having the same problems with their 2-year-old that you're having with your 2-year-old," said Roxanne Casterline of the Northville Action Council, which is also working on the project.

The meetings will consist of a presentation given by a counselor, a group discussion and a time for parents to address more serious concerns one-on-one with a counselor.

The planning for the program began in May and the meetings began in October.

Parents meet at the school their child attends, so they will be meeting with parents of children the same age as their children. Parents of kids attending private schools are welcome. Although held in school buildings, the meetings are not a school activity.

Upcoming meetings are open to any parent of a child who falls in the age category of students in the building where the meeting will be held.

● On Oct. 25 at 7:30 p.m. at Northville High School in room 103 the teenage years will be discussed. Elizabeth Thomas will lead the discussion.

● On Nov. 1 at 7:30 p.m. in the American School library, coping strategies for the '90s will be discussed. Jacque Martin-Downs will lead the discussion.

● On Nov. 1 at 7:30 p.m. at Moraine Elementary School in Room 11, successful parenting in the '90s will be discussed. Elizabeth Thomas will lead the discussion.

● On Nov. 5 at 7:30 p.m. in the Cooke Middle School library, the first report card will be evaluated. John Rae will lead the discussion.

● On Nov. 19 at the Meads Mill Middle School library, the first report card will be discussed. John Rae will lead the discussion.

County satisfied by four-way stop at Beck Road intersection

By MIKE TYREE
Staff Writer

Wayne County officials think the newly instituted four-way stop system at the Seven Mile/Beck intersection is sufficient for Northville Township traffic volumes.

Traffic studies conducted by county engineers indicate full-signal services will not be needed for the Seven Mile/Beck intersection until Beck Road is paved between Seven and Eight Mile roads, said Wayne County Division of Roads Director Robert Mahoney.

The county changed the traffic signal system at the intersection last month, replacing east-west caution lights and north-south red lights with a four-way stop system.

In a letter to Wayne County Commissioner Susan Heintz, Mahoney said Beck Road development has spurred the county to place increased emphasis on traffic at Six and Seven Mile roads.

"At the intersections of Six and Seven Mile roads, the flashing beacons that were installed were planned because of engineering judgement prior to the paving of Beck Road," he wrote. "Due to a developing pattern of right-angle accidents, the Beck/Seven Mile road intersection control was recently changed to a four-way stop."

Wayne County Division of Roads

"(But) traffic volumes on Seven Mile and Beck still have not grown to the volumes which warrant full signalization; in fact, the existing volumes are a textbook version of those which are effectively controlled by a multi-way stop condition," he said.

"And the multi-way stop control does work well," Mahoney added. Northville Township Supervisor Georgina Goss is not convinced that four-way stops are sufficient for Beck Road intersections.

"I think it should be serviced with a traffic signal," she said. "We feel there is enough traffic for a full service light at Seven Mile and Beck."

Goss said the township — including the police department — has lobbied for a full-service traffic signal because of the potential for accidents at a four-way stop.

"To me, it's a lot more efficient to have a (full) signal, especially during rush hour traffic," she said. "It (four-way) is a cumbersome way to do business."

Township police Capt. Philip Pressnell said the department has not compiled specific information on accidents at the Seven Mile/Beck intersection since the September lighting change.

"No specific problems with (the intersection) have come to my attention," he said. "I heard more about it before the change."

Mahoney said the county anticipates full-service lights at Beck Road's Six Mile and Seven Mile intersections.

"Both these locations have equipment positioned so that when traffic volumes near warranting values, both locations can be easily and quickly changed to stop-and-go signals," he said. "We believe that these changes will be necessary once the final mile of Beck between Seven and Eight Mile roads is surfaced."

ON HIDING PARTIAL CLASPS

The basic design of the removable partial is a framework of metal with metal clasps that grip the supporting teeth and hold the appliance in the mouth. There is generally acrylic over the ridge areas (the area of missing teeth) to support the replacement teeth. Most of the esthetic problem with a removable partial have to do with the clasps or hooks that hold it in place. Patients feel that the illusion of naturalness is defeated by the hooks that immediately indicate "removable denture". The simplest way of overcoming this is to alter the design of the partial. Retention and stability may still be obtained with smaller, thinner clasps. Clasps can be further hidden by placing them as far back on the tooth as possible. This is a very delicate procedure, however, because if the clasp is reduced too much, it loses its function. A partial that doesn't stay in the mouth is useless, no matter how esthetic it is. However, dentistry has come a long way in combining function with pleasing appearance in the area of dentures.

MainCentre pedestrian bridge plan unveiled prove a redesigned bridge died for lack of support in August.

City council and planning commission members have expressed their desire for a pedestrian bridge over carports on the city parking lot south of MainCentre. But City Manager Steven Walters and Singh officials have had little success in negotiating potential alternatives to either option.

The new bridge design was drawn up by local architect Greg Presley, who was hired by Singh to do the design. Presley also serves as a member of the City's Downtown Development Authority (DDA), and as the DDA liaison to the City Council (see related story).

The new plan shows a much less massive bridge, and it does away with a controversial Center Street included in the original design.

The bridge would be built primarily of iron and glass — the iron acting as a thin framework for the glass panes. It would be topped by an angled glass roof, rising to a peak running the length of the bridge.

The proposed bridge has a light, airy look, unlike the original brick design. Critics of the original design had likened it to a Roman aqueduct.

The new design also involves building part of the parking deck further west than originally planned. The new portion of the deck would provide the 74 reserved parking spaces allotted for MainCentre residents, and could act as the first floor of Singh's proposed CadyCentre development. The added space in the main deck would allow the top deck floor to be removed, and still provide sufficient parking to replace the existing Cady Street deck, and for MainCentre and the proposed CadyCentre and Long retail/office developments.

A tower would rise from the deck along Center Street, and the bridge itself would be much shorter than the last design.

Kahm said the unusual public preview was intended to gain public feedback on the new design. "We had some give-and-take in both (meetings) . . . and as a result I think we got enough feedback so that we can start going through the formal process of approval," he said.

"I just didn't want to come out in public with it until I felt more comfortable with it . . . Last time we got kind of shell-shocked by the reaction."

Kahm said he will present the new design to the city council at its Nov. 5 meeting, and he predicted a favorable reaction to it. "If they were comfortable with the last design, I think they'll be very pleased with this one," he said.

Kahm said the council will receive the same basic presentation as the Concerned Residents and the Downtown Merchants Association groups. Presley agreed with Kahm's argument that covered parking and a connection like a pedestrian bridge are needed to successfully market the 74 MainCentre apartments. "It's in all of our best interests that this project succeed," the architect said.

"It's not a contest here, we're talking about the well-being of the community," he said.

He said he considered the previews a good marketing strategy, and one of which the city council would approve. "I think that they would prefer that we do a little bit of homework up front with citizens," he said. "I still think the best thing to do was to get some public comment before bothering city hall with it."

Presley said the merchants reacted favorably to the new design. "All the people who were at the meeting uniformly liked it," he said.

While the merchants favored the bridge design, reaction at the Concerned Residents meeting was reportedly less unanimous — though more were in favor of the design than opposed to it.

City Manager Steven Walters attended the Concerned Residents meeting as a city spokesperson on another matter, and he said the latest proposal was received more enthusiastically than the original design. "There seemed to be a general feeling that it was somewhat lighter and more delicate-looking," he said.

Architects sort out issues with city and builder

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

Local architect Greg Presley, designer of the latest proposed MainCentre pedestrian bridge, is involved in city government as well as in the bridge.

Presley serves as a member of the Downtown Development Authority (DDA), and as DDA liaison to the city council.

Both Presley and City Manager Steven Walters argue that the architect's dual role is completely legitimate, but potential conflicts convinced one other designer to avoid a somewhat similar situation.

Presley said his hiring by Singh Development presented no conflict of interest. "The issue is not that you don't have a financial interest," he said. "The issue is disclosure."

He pointed out that a majority of the DDA is actually required by state statute to have a financial interest in downtown Northville. The city attorney has interpreted the statute to require the ownership or rent of a downtown property.

Presley admitted that his employment by Singh Development could lead to conflicts, if the DDA had a say in the pedestrian bridge design.

"If you had an interest in something that would require a vote, you would have to disclose it," he said. But he pointed out that although the pedestrian bridge is within the district of the DDA's authority, the DDA will not vote on approval of the bridge.

City Manager Steven Walters agreed. "The DDA doesn't have any approval role here," he said. "You have to have some official relationship that you were able to misuse before making a decision."

"Just being a city official doesn't mean you can no longer accept business having to do with the city," he said. As far as Presley is concerned, his background in the community is an advantage. . . . I see it as an opportunity to help," he said. "I see this as an opportunity for a local architect to help this come to a positive conclusion." But ties to the community and city government have reportedly kept two other designers from accepting offers of employment from Singh Development.

Historic District Commission Member Walt Coponen said he was asked to design Singh's proposed CadyCentre retail/office development, opposite MainCentre on Center Street. Coponen said he turned down the offer because of his membership on the HDC.

The HDC presented the central official opposition to a pedestrian bridge, and declined to approve an earlier version of the bridge in August. Unlike the DDA, the HDC will indeed consider whatever bridge design Singh proposes.

Coponen has criticized previous bridge designs as "too massive," and has criticized the fact that the bridge is for the use of residents alone. He has also expressed concern over safety, warning that the planned "security lock" system could result in a resident being trapped "should an undesirable person gain entry into the walkway," according to the minutes of HDC meetings.

Singh reportedly approached another local architect, John Kaloustian, before hiring Presley to draft the latest bridge plan. But Kaloustian, who does not sit on any city board, said he declined the offer.

"I felt if I got involved then I'd be on their payroll, and I'd no longer have an opinion," he said. "When you're getting paid by someone, you're also on their payroll, and you do what they want, I think."

"I don't think it looks very good, either, to get involved with them," he said.

Kaloustian still insists that a ground-level pedestrian crosswalk would be a better alternative than a raised pedestrian bridge. He said Singh officials have expressed concern about the time required for residents to cross Center Street, but he pointed out that the length of time would be similar to that needed to cross a pedestrian bridge and descend to the lowest floor of a parking deck in an elevator. "Heck, the stop light (at Main and Center streets) has to cycle 60 times every hour anyways," he said.

Critic says plan may pass

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

One of the most outspoken critics of previous MainCentre pedestrian bridge proposals said the latest design may be approved by city officials.

But the design still has not earned his vote — not yet.

Walt Coponen, the most vocal opponent of the bridge on the Historic District Commission, said the HDC may approve the latest bridge design. The commission declined to approve a previous design in August.

"I think you could still end up with a bridge," Coponen said. "I'm just one vote on the HDC and I think that the latest bridge that Greg (Presley) came up with the design drawing for could pass."

"If I were a betting man, I'd say odds are that we will have that bridge."

Coponen said previous HDC criticism of the bridge design was not entirely due to opposition to the idea of a pedestrian bridge.

"We weren't so much against the bridge, if in fact a bridge is the best solution," he said. But he said that Singh Development had failed to convince the commission that other solutions had been fully explored.

"Just because you relocate the deck doesn't mean you should necessarily relocate the bridge along with it . . . I don't think that's being responsible," he said.

Coponen also remains unconvinced that a bridge is the only way to get MainCentre residents across Center Street. "I personally think it could be done with a ground-level pedestrian access, and it could be done very well," he said.

Coponen said he liked Presley's bridge design, but he was uncertain whether some of the design elements that looked attractive on paper could be incorporated into a working set of preliminary design plans.

"I think whether or not the bridge would actually work the way everybody thinks it would is a big question," he added. "It's a nice-looking feature but how much does it actually get used?"

"I don't think that building is going to live or die on having a bridge between it and the parking deck," he added.

"You've got to vote your conscience, and that's what I've done thus far, and that's what I think the rest of the Historic District Commission has done," Coponen said.

But he added that he still may change his mind about the bridge, if presented with a well-designed plan.

The annual Sweetest Day mother/son dance night. Here, Rebecca Connell and her son Joshua show their style. Lots of fun for moms and sons alike Friday

Mail to the troops soon for Christmas delivery

It's not too early to begin thinking of Christmas. U.S. Post Office officials said.

Holiday gifts sent to military personnel stationed in the Middle East should be sent by Friday, Nov. 16, to assure timely delivery.

Packages sent to non-military personnel should also be sent early. Deadlines for First Class, Air Mail, Parcel Airlift of Space Available Mail can be obtained by calling local post offices.

Postal officials advise sending all overseas cards, gifts and other holiday mail as early as possible. Mail to military personnel is expected to create a backlog this year.

"With the military build up in Saudi Arabia, we're expecting a big strain to be placed on our mail transportation system worldwide," said Algen Kane, assistant postmaster general for delivery, distribution and transportation.

Cards and letters are sent Air Mail/Priority only and should be mailed by the first week of December.

Packages sent within the United States should be mailed by Friday, Dec. 7. Holiday letters mailed within the U.S. should be sent by Monday, Dec. 10.

The earliest date to send holiday package to U.S. troops stationed in the Middle East is Saturday, Nov. 3 for Space Available Mail.

Special instructions for Middle East mail are as follows:

- Send packages in a sturdy cardboard carton, cushion articles inside and seal the package with pressure-sensitive tape. Do not use plain brown wrapping paper, cord or string on the outside.

- Print the service member's name and address on the lower right portion of the package, one side only. Include name, rank, service number, military unit and APO or FPO address. Addresses should be available from the service member's base in the U.S.

- Print your return address in the upper left hand corner of the package. Include the return address on a piece of paper inside the package as well.

- When selecting a gift, remember desert temperatures regularly exceed 100 degrees. Some items may also be banned by the Saudi government for religious or cultural reasons.

- Popular items with U.S. troops traditionally include audio cassette tapes, newspaper clippings, chewing gum, hard candy.

- Be sure to attach a parcel post customs declaration form (Form 2966-A) to all packages. Forms are available at local post offices.

Overseas holiday mail must be sent early to arrive in time for Christmas. Here are the deadlines recommended by the U.S. Post Office:

- Africa: Parcels, Nov. 20; cards and letters, Dec. 1. Priority mail, Nov. 9; space available, Oct. 26.
- Alaska: Parcels, cards and letters, Dec. 8. Priority mail, Dec. 1; space available, Nov. 24.
- Australia: Parcels, Nov. 16; cards and letters, Dec. 1. Priority mail, space available, Dec. 1.

- Caribbean: Parcels, cards and letters, Dec. 7. Priority mail, Nov. 23; space available, Nov. 19.
- Europe: Parcels, cards and letters, Dec. 1. Priority mail, Nov. 24; space available, Nov. 13.
- Far East: Parcels, cards and letters, Dec. 1. Priority mail, space available, Nov. 15.
- Greenland: Parcels, cards and letters, Dec. 1. Priority mail, Nov. 24; space available, Nov. 13.
- Middle East: Parcels, Nov. 16;

- cards and letters, Nov. 26. Priority mail, Nov. 10; space available, Nov. 3.
- Southeast Asia: Parcels, Nov. 16; cards and letters, Nov. 19. Priority mail, Nov. 9; space available, Nov. 2.
- Central and South America: Parcels, Dec. 1; cards and letters, Dec. 6. Priority mail, Nov. 23; space available, Nov. 9.
- Mail from military personnel overseas to the U.S.: Parcels, Dec. 7; cards and letters, Dec. 10. Priority mail, Dec. 7; space available, Dec. 1.

OUR LADY OF PROVIDENCE SEEKS ASSISTANTS: Our Lady of Providence Center is accepting volunteers to assist staff in the supervision of developmentally impaired girls in the classroom, work training program, residential program and the Volunteer Visiting Foster Family program.

Training for the classroom, work training and residential programs will be provided to all volunteers and hours are flexible. Volunteers from all age groups teen to retirees are welcome.

The Volunteer Visiting Foster Family program allows students whose families live out of the area to "go home" for a few hours or during a weekend to families living near the center.

If interested in volunteering a few hours each week call Jari Smith at 453-1300.

MEALS-ON-WHEELS: Thank you so much for the great people who recently responded to the need for new drivers for Meals-on-Wheels in Northville. Your help is very much appreciated.

There is now a need for kitchen serving help at Allen Terrace, Monday, Wednesday or Friday. You would be there from about 11:15 a.m. to 12:45 p.m. For information call Claudia at 349-9661 or Judy at 348-1761.

NYA COUNCIL NEEDS MEMBER: Northville Youth Assistance is seeking a dedicated, youth-oriented city resident to be appointed to the NYA Advisory Council. The advisory council members are appointed by the city council.

Contact Mary Ellen King at 344-1618 for further information.

RECREATION DEPARTMENT: Need something to do? Have some extra time that you'd like to volunteer? The Northville Recreation Department needs help.

Volunteer opportunities are numerous:

- Coaches: for basketball, softball, baseball and soccer.
- Special event worker: Valentines Dance, lunches with Easter Bunny and Santa Claus, dinner theatres, etc.
- Instruction: Have a special gift? We can use your talents at our summer day camp, or to teach a class.
- Chaperones: Northville Ski Club, trips.

All year round, we have things to do. Call Northville Recreation Department, 349-0203.

The Northville Record periodically publishes a list of not-for-profit organizations in the area seeking people to volunteer their time. We welcome additions to our list. Representatives of any such group may submit the pertinent information to: Volunteer Briefs, The Northville Record, 104 W. Main, Northville, MI 48167. Attention: Bob Needham.

Providence still hopes to expand

By SCOTT DANIEL
Staff Writer

Providence Hospital is proceeding ahead with its plans to construct an extensive new medical facility at the corner of Grand River and Beck Road, but the project still lacks the "certificate of need" it must have to open its doors. And hospital officials indicate their efforts to obtain that CON could eventually turn into a CON fight.

Representatives of the hospital presented a detailed look of the proposed facility and explained the status of the project to a joint session of the Novi City Council and Novi Planning Commission Monday.

The facility, which would cover 153 acres, was first proposed in June 1989. Providence Hospital bought the 153-acre Westbrooke Golf Course in January of this year for the development.

"This is a wonderful piece of property," said Steve Whitney, of Albert Kahn and Associates, the firm hired by Providence to develop a master site plan for the project. "It features lots of trees and water. Our goal is to preserve as much of it as possible."

Providence, which is based in Southfield and owned by the Daughters of Charity of St. Vincent

"This is a wonderful piece of property . . . It features lots of trees and water. Our goal is to preserve as much of it as possible."

STEVE WHITNEY
Albert Kahn and Associates

DePaul, is expected to appear before the planning commission in November seeking preliminary site plan approval for the project, according to Gregg Knepley, vice president of planning and marketing for the hospital. If granted, the site will be cleared and prepared for groundbreaking in the spring of 1991, he said.

Phase one of the project would include the construction of a medical office building and an ambulatory, diagnostic and treatment center with 24-hour emergency care. Completion of this phase would be in April of 1992.

A key to opening the facility is Providence receiving a certificate of need from the Michigan Department of Public Health. Such a certificate is needed before surgery or emergency services, which would be part of phase one of development, can be operated.

In June of 1989, Providence submitted a CON application to the public health department. Knepley said the application was given a "proposed denial," meaning the department would require further information before approving an application.

"Providence sent them more detailed information last Monday (Oct. 15)," he said. "We went through each point the department felt was lacking and gave them an answer."

A conference is scheduled for next month between the hospital and the department of public health to determine how to proceed with Providence's application. A public hearing will then be scheduled, likely in January, for the hospital to present all of its application information to the department.

A final decision on Providence's CON will then be made by the middle of 1991, Knepley said. State Chief of Health Facilities Walter Wheeler and State Director of Public Health Raj Weiner will make the final decision.

A CON is issued on the geographical accessibility of a proposed facility and whether it would satisfy an unmet need for a hospital within the area. In October of 1989, the state attorney general's office ruled that a certificate could not be issued in a region with an over-supply of hospital beds.

Providence's CON application was denied because the area is overbedded. In its application, the hospital proposed to eventually transfer 200 beds from its Southfield hospital to the proposed Novi facility.

If the application is again denied, Knepley said Providence would take its case to state circuit court. If that happens, he added, it could take five to 10 years for the hospital to receive a CON.

If the CON is approved, the new facility would open its doors in three years at the earliest, Knepley said. The project's second phase, which would be construction of an inpatient hospital, depends on CON approval, he said.

A final phase of the project calls for long-term care facilities and senior citizen housing. Completion for this final phase is envisioned after the turn of the century.

Local resident leads team to international contest

With an eye on gold, a team of select Schoolcraft College students is busy honing a winning technique for upcoming World Cup competition in Luxembourg.

The medium: cuisine. The participants: four culinary arts students. The challenge: genuine American fare, tastefully and artfully prepared.

"Functional, edible art work," reflective of traditional autumn foods is the goal, said master chef Jeff Gabriel of the proposed entries in two areas of student competition, the five-course meal and platter-for-two.

Gabriel, an award-winning chef who manages Schoolcraft's American Harvest gourmet restaurant, is preparing the team for competition, assisted by Schoolcraft executive chef Mary Brady, a Northville resident who serves as team captain.

Students, each selected from earlier qualifying cook-offs for culinary know-how, artistic flair and the ability to work with others, are Shawn Loving, Kim Larson, Don Bargo and Pam Ford.

"Lots of preparation. Lots of hours," Gabriel said, referring to the intense effort required in preparing for the competition.

"This is a different kind of art," Gabriel said. "You have to have commitment and be very strong mentally and physically. You might be up two to three days without sleep. Food has to be ready at a certain time."

"Then, you prepare a masterpiece and it's eaten up in 10 minutes," he said.

Chef Brady, former owner of Diamond Jim Brady's in Southfield, estimates she will spend 350 hours in preparation and countless sleepless nights.

"I had nightmares all night," she said, after researching garnish suggestions for Loving's cold platter entry. Loving will be judged on the difficulty in preparation and sophistication of the end product.

Brady carefully researches possible recipes, drawing on her experience as a chef. She also scans photos of former award-winning entries and magazines.

In addition, she is creating an autumn picnic theme, using oysters, miniature mousse and molded Bavarians or flavored mousse.

"Judges look for sound cooking skills, taking an idea and carrying it 10 steps further. Take an apple and see what you can come up with," she said of the intensely creative challenge.

Larson, 33, an Oakland County caterer who is in her second year of studies in the Schoolcraft culinary program, is at the "apple" stage of planning. Competing in the five-course competition, she is just now defining a menu.

"I'm leaning toward lighter fare, less calories, pure and natural food. Not a lot of cream sauces," she said.

Bargo, 20, who commutes to Schoolcraft from Ann Arbor, is a step further along. He has planned a "hunter's delight," drawing on braised rabbit leg, duck consomme, fresh trout and crayfish.

"It's Midwestern regional cuisine with a fall emphasis. We're in fall. You naturally think of different game," he said.

Ford, 26, of Plymouth, is drawing on success at Olympic culinary competition last year in Singapore. She won a gold medal. She has entered both five-course-meal and platter-for-two competition in the World Cup.

Ideas emanate from "food I see and eat." Her selection of lobster consommé with sea beans and pumpkin was first tasted at the Rattlesnake Club in Detroit. Her fondness of game accounts for an entrée of smoked partridge with braised leg. A creamy salad dressing is, she said, balanced by a dessert of molded peach sorbet that "looks like glass. It's beautiful."

Of the hundreds of hours of preparation, Ford said: "It's a month out of life. I figure I'll just do it."

Bargo said he finds little spare time after "juggling school, work (as a cook) and training."

A primary component in training is continual practice. Each serving must be prepared and critiqued three times.

Loving, 19, who first studied culinary arts three years ago at Golightly Vocational School, Detroit, prepared his turkey tray for the first time earlier in the week.

To the undiscerning eye, the effort is a visual delight, a beautifully prepared interpretation of such delicacies as pumpkin bavarian turkey breast with sage mousse and a life-like turkey of wild mushroom, fresh rosemary and rutabaga.

But Gabriel sees "lots of problems."

"Looks like a circus," he critiques, suggesting the turkey be muted by eliminating some of the shaved carrot and green pea pods. Sausages must be more meticulously formed. "Like a machine" and leaves of dough need to be replaced with crackers of toasted pumpkin seed.

Loving is undaunted. After all, this is a first effort.

"It's my basic concept. He critiques it. I learn and go on. Next time, it will be improved."

Wayne officials push for Metro Airport bonds

Wayne County voters will be asked Nov. 6 to approve a $100-million referendum bond for improvements at Detroit Metropolitan Wayne County Airport. The bond, which will be paid by the airlines, will fund the design of a new runway, a new parking deck, flood control, and noise abatements.

County officials argue the improvements are the first phase of a much-needed airport expansion, but residents near the airport have lobbied to have the question put on the ballot, because of their anger over increased noise. Deputy County Executive Michael Duggan explained the county's perspective to The Northville Record Friday.

RECORD: Why should Northville residents vote for the referendum bond to expand Metro Airport?

DUGGAN: We've got an issue here which out in Northville is not the burning issue that it is in some other parts of the county, because Northville for the most part is outside the flight tracks. But we need every vote that we can get, and we have on the ballot $100 million.

These particular projects are not the kind that people get all excited about; you've got flight control, you've got parking structures, you've got the design of a new runway, but they're all necessary steps leading up to the expansion we hope to have five or six years from now.

With the new terminal we gain another 10,000 jobs, and we finally modernize that airport. The airport that we have up there now was built in the '50s and '60s, and for all practical purposes hasn't been updated. We've got a parking structure that's closed because it's literally falling down. And you know what traffic's like—if you can get to the terminal to pick up a passenger, you deserve a medal.

We need to modernize the airport, and I think everybody would be in favor of it, were it not for the fact that last November, the FAA (Federal Aviation Administration) changed the flight tracks and concentrated a tremendous amount of noise over Dearborn, and to a lesser extent, some other western Wayne communities.

When we went to sell these bonds, there's a provision in the law that says if you get 15,000 signatures you can put the bonds on the ballot. It's never been used in Michigan before.

This is fascinating because this is not a tax. It doesn't hit your property tax rolls; it's strictly paid for by the airlines. But when people see a bond issue on the ballot, their reaction is, "It must be my tax dollars." Because that's what every other bond issue they've seen was, for schools, for cities, for counties, or townships, and this is the first time a revenue bond that's got a source of payment other than the taxpayers has ever been on the ballot. And it wasn't related to the financing. It was a noise issue. It was a good strategy move by the noise group.

So we've got a situation here where people are not informed about the issue. Our problem is that on the east side we're getting no responses because they think it's City Airport when you tell them "airport referendum." If you get to downriver and the far northwest corner, the problem is the tax issue. One hundred million dollars in bonds, they're sure that's going to raise their taxes. So we're really trying hard to get out the message that this thing means thousands of jobs to us but it does not affect taxes at all.

RECORD: Could you talk a little more about the financing? The airlines are going to pay?

DUGGAN: There's not a nickel of county tax dollars that goes into operating that airport. The way it works is, you take all the revenue that's generated at the airport—parking concessions, what you pay for a muffin or a hot dog, what you pay for a newspaper—and they all kick into the overall airport operations budget. Then whatever else is needed to run that airport, the airlines pay for it based on how many passengers they fly in.

So it is 100 percent paid for by revenues on the airport, including the bond payments. The taxpayers don't even guarantee the bonds, so even if all the airlines went bankrupt at the same time, the bondholders would lose but the taxpayers are not involved in this in any way. We sell the bonds for Northwest because you get tax-exempt financing, there's advantages like that. They're significant advantages too, but it does not affect the taxpayer.

RECORD: What about the county's overall bond debt, is that a concern at all?

DUGGAN: No, this is not a concern. In fact, I talked to Standard & Poor's (Register of Corporations) two days ago. They'd read that we were going out for $100 million in bonds and said, "How can you guys do this without talking to us?" And I said,

"They're airport bonds," and they said, "Oh, OK."

If the county were to guarantee it, that would be an issue. But the county doesn't guarantee it. This is the credit of Northwest Airlines, American Airlines, United, Delta, TWA. Their credit is what goes on here, not county credit, so it doesn't even go on the books as county debt.

RECORD: What about concerns that the residents won't pay through property taxes, but services at the airport might be increased to pay for this?

DUGGAN: Well, there isn't an air-

Two vie for probate court seat

Diane M. Hathaway and David J. Szymanski each say experience is the key issue in their Wayne County Probate Court race, but with a difference.

Hathaway, a Macomb County assistant prosecutor, real estate broker and former health care professional stresses the experience she's gained in her varied professional background.

Szymanski, member of an Oakland County law firm, is stressing his greater experience as an attorney.

Both seek a six-year seat on the probate bench. Wayne County voters will choose between the two in the Tuesday, Nov. 6 general election.

Unlike the county's other probate race — where Patricia Campbell is taking on William Leo Cahalan Jr. — neither candidate has an edge in name recognition.

Szymanski is the son of former Wayne Probate Judge Frank J. Szymanski. (Current Probate Judge Anthony Szymanski is no relation.)

Hathaway is married to Wayne Circuit Judge Richard P. Hathaway. Though the winner will await case assignment by Chief Probate Judge Freddie Burton Jr., both candidates expect to handle estate and mental competency cases — leaving juvenile law to the winner of the Campbell-Cahalan race.

Not surprisingly, both candidates are stressing their experience in estate and mental health cases.

In her current job, Hathaway heads the Macomb Prosecutor's drug forfeiture division. But before becoming an attorney, she spent nearly a decade as a radiologic technologist at Henry Ford Hospital, Detroit. At the same time, she received a real estate license and conducted classes in real estate law.

Hathaway says all three jobs boost her qualifications for the probate bench.

"As a health care worker, I was able to see how decisions made can affect people's lives," Hathaway said. Her real estate career, she believes, has broadened her experience in handling wills and estate cases in general.

Szymanski, however, points to his eight years as practicing attorney — compared with Hathaway's three — and higher rating from the Detroit Bar Association.

The Detroit Bar rated Szymanski "well qualified" and Hathaway "not qualified." Szymanski received a "Preferred and Well Qualified" rating from Civic Searchlight, an independent agency that evaluates all area political candidates. Hathaway, who was unable to attend the Civic Searchlight interview, was not rated by the agency.

If elected, Szymanski would work toward increasing public awareness of probate court and its activities.

"I feel a probate judge can be a vital asset to the community, but you can't do it by just sitting in your courtroom all day, you have to go out and meet with civic groups," he said.

Toward that end, Szymanski's campaign brochures provide space for recipients to list life insurance, social security, pension, savings bond, and other estate-related information.

In addition to his professional background, Szymanski is stressing his ties to area charitable groups, most notably Big Brothers and Capu-

A member of Clark, Hardy, Lewis, Pollard & Page, a Birmingham-based law firm, Szymanski said his workload routinely includes estate cases.

Like his opponent, Szymanski didn't begin his career as a lawyer.

He taught and coached in the Detroit Public Schools for four years, after graduating from Notre Dame with a degree in history. Szymanski received his law degree from Wayne State University in 1982.

Szymanski and his wife live in Grosse Pointe Woods.

Hathaway, her husband and the couple's two children live in Grosse Pointe Park.

She received a bachelor's in health care from Madonna College, Livonia, and holds a law degree from Detroit College of Law.

The Hathaway-Szymanski and Campbell-Cahalan races are two of four Wayne County Probate Court races on the Nov. 7 ballot. Judges Martin T. Maher and Frances Pitts are running unopposed.

Pursell talks from Washington about finances

By MIKE TYREE
Staff Writer

U.S. Rep. Carl Pursell, R-Plymouth, is seeking his seventh term in the U.S. House of Representatives as the representative from Michigan's Second Congressional District. Pursell, 57, holds BA and MA degrees from Eastern Michigan University. He is married and is the father of three children and has two grandchildren.

Pursell is a former member of the Michigan State Senate and also served on the Wayne County Board of Commissioners.

Pursell faces challenger Elmer White, a Democrat who had not responded to phone calls from The Northville Record by press time.

Pursell, still in Washington with budget deliberations, spoke to the Record by phone Tuesday.

RECORD: Everyone is talking about the budget. Why has it taken ten months to adopt a budget?

PURSELL: Well, you should first have a little history. Carl Pursell is the only member of the House and Senate in the last 14 years in either party that has chaired two opportunities to write a budget. I wrote the Group 92 budget in 1985 in January, February and March . . . We introduced it on time to prove the budget could be written and could be given to Congress under budget deadlines.

I designed the second budget (this fall). The Republican Party in the House came to me . . . and asked me if I'd put a steering committee and a task force together to write a budget. I wrote it in my office on a Sunday afternoon about two weeks ago with about 14 key members from around the country. We turned it into leadership that evening and it became the Pursell-Kasich (John Kasich, R-Ohio) plan. We put it into bill form . . . as the Pursell Plan. That budget is one that differentiates between the two parties.

The Democrats are still considering a budget with $150 billion of new taxes and a very limited amount of reduced spending. Our budget was no new taxes and no new gas tax, with reduced spending, pretty much a freeze on defense, a freeze on discretionary programs, a freeze on foreign aid — basically the principals of a freeze — the same as I wrote back in 1985.

RECORD: What is the status of your budget plan at this time?

PURSELL: It's being used as a negotiating tool by the House Republicans to bring down the Democratic plan, which we did quite well a week ago last Tuesday. The summit last August (which included 21 members of Congress and White House staffers) was a very shaky vehicle to write a budget . . . After the summit attempt failed, they went back to the traditional process.

The Democratic plan was $150 billion in new taxes including a 12-cent gas tax. Our plan had no gas tax. After Democrats saw our plan they took back their plan and dropped gas taxes down to 3 cents.

The Senate version was lowered to 9 cents. The gas tax will probably end up around 6 cents. Because of our plan, we brought the gas tax down from 12 cents to 6 cents because of our ability to have a checks-and-balances system. My point in 1985 and again this year is our plan — less taxes and less spending — was better for America and achieved a $400-billion savings in the deficit over five years.

RECORD: Who's to blame for this long, drawn-out process?

PURSELL: I think a lot of people are in the leadership who felt Dick Darman, (John) Sununu and the Democrats, including Gephardt, felt, "Well, let's send the guys home and we'll go up to Andrews Air Force Base for six weeks and this is the way to do business (by hammering out a budget agreement)." That was all closed . . .

RECORD: Sounds like a rather radical departure . . .

PURSELL: Very radical departure and it fell apart. In fact, George Bush said to me, "Carl, you guys should never have gone home. This (summit) plan was a disaster."

RECORD: That sounds very strange, in a constitutional sense.

PURSELL: You're right on the money. No question. Overnight I kind of became a national symbol (due in part to an appearance on MacNeil-Lehrer on PBS) on getting back to basics.

RECORD: You've said we can achieve a balanced budget without new revenues.

PURSELL: Yes, we can. The growth last year produced $85 billion in new money in last year's budget because of growth in the country.

Both (Democratic and Republican) plans are only talking about a $50-billion savings in the deficit. Why is that occurring? Because the Democrats from the left side are driving up all the social programs . . . on the conservative Republican side — not Carl Pursell, because my budget was different — the western Republicans and southern Democrats and Republicans wanted to drive up the defense budget (in the 1980s) so the defense went up on one side and the entitlements and social programs went up on the other side and revenues began to fall. That's why you're on a collision course today. That's why you're having this fight. It's not just a fight on a simple budget; it's a fight on a revenue and tax policy and who governs this country.

RECORD: One of the hold-ups right now is the debate over the millionaire tax. Should millionaires be taxed at a higher rate or should the tax deduction loopholes be closed?

PURSELL: I think the majority of Republicans and Democrats agree to change that rate (of taxes for the wealthiest Americans) from 28 percent to 31 percent, and that's been pretty much agreed to, as I understand it. But now the Democrats see it as a political document prior to the election.

The fact of the matter is that's the political side of the issue . . . the substance is that the Democratic House plan that's before us is increasing taxes on anyone that's earning income over $20,000. The middle class is being hit by the Democratic plan. That's what we're complaining about, because the middle class is already paying the bulk of taxation. There's no need to increase taxes, period.

RECORD: You talk about a potential freeze on defense spending and foreign aid. Does the Middle East situation put that idea in jeopardy?

PURSELL: It depends. If it breaks out and goes like Pearl Harbor or Vietnam, you have a different set of policies that must trigger in. Right now we think the President can continue . . . diplomatic solutions so there will be no need for war.

RECORD: Didn't Reagan continually tell the people we could increase defense spending and not raise taxes?

PURSELL: Yes, I disagreed with him. I was chairman of the regional group — Group 92 — that went to the White House weekly to say that a good economy is good for defense and national security and not just more MX missiles and more B-1 bombers.

RECORD: Your hypothesis on what is going to happen with the budget in the next week or two, please.

PURSELL: I think the Democratic plan has come to a screeching halt. They're working with the Senate plan today (Oct. 23). It looks like the closer we get to election day, the more they'll realize that the plan doesn't have substance. They're going to come to an across-the-board freeze — back to square one where I came from many years ago. In other words, it's kind of a middle ground between those high spenders and those high taxers and those of us who want to bring taxes down and spending down.

I think you're going to see the best common denominator is that at least you can agree on a freeze across-the-board.

RECORD: This is going to be a compromise budget with no clear winner?

PURSELL: I think so. I think they're coming back to where we were in 1985.

RECORD: When are we going to get a budget agreement?

PURSELL: I was hopeful that maybe we would this weekend. I do not see the Democratic package passing in its present House and Senate form. To me, that's good because it is $150 billion in new taxes. My people do not agree with that.

RECORD: What is your position on the Middle East situation? Should we continue economic sanctions or strike a more confrontational posture?

PURSELL: I favor to proceed as we are doing now . . . We voted for sanctions to keep the pressure on. International support (for sanctions) is the key to keeping the pressure on. I hope diplomatic pressure continues to work.

I think the question in Congress — if anything were to occur militarily — is that we would need to know that Congress would be called back to discuss things with the President . . . on any change in strategy.

RECORD: You made news by pledging to cut home district projects by scrapping a Corps of Engineers Rouge River clean-up project. How is that move being received in Congress?

PURSELL: Very well. We're getting a lot of cutting amendments on the floor. I've demonstrated it can be done. The Rouge River has been very near to my heart, but there's two problems; one is the river running next to it and that's the river of red ink — the deficit.

For me, that was more important. You also need to solve the problem of the pollutants going into the river in the first place.

RECORD: What is your stand on abortion? Do you favor a constitutional ban?

PURSELL: I have always favored no abortion except for cases of rape, incest, or medical life of the mother; it's always been my position.

RECORD: Is that a personal feeling or do you think it should be mandated?

PURSELL: We must look at the consequences of killing children, yet a constitutional amendment allows women to have their choice. It's not an easy issue for any side, whether you're pro-choice or right-to-life. I just think the majority of people in my district support prohibition against abortion except in the case of rape, incest or medical life of the mother.

THE GENERAL ELECTION

Broomfield, Briggs face off for Congress seat

By JAN JEFFRES
Staff Writer

Walter O. Briggs IV is the Democratic challenger to incumbent U.S. Rep. William Broomfield, the longtime member of Congress from Michigan's 18th District, which includes the City of Northville above Baseline Road. The Northville Record Friday interviewed Briggs on some of the issues facing Congress and the nation.

RECORD: What do you consider to be the most significant civic accomplishment of your life in the last six years?

BRIGGS: I think that my participation on the community advisory board of WDET has been my most significant contribution. I've been instrumental in helping that station automate its membership records and improve its membership drive so it's able to sustain itself while actually receiving less and less money from the university.

RECORD: There are many proposed constitutional amendments floating around—the Equal Rights Amendment, prayer in school, right-to-life, flag-burning. The mathematical odds are that only one constitutional amendment will be approved every 12 1/2 years. In the next 12 years, which amendment would you like in the constitution and why?

BRIGGS: The major amendment that I'd like to see get passed is the ERA because I believe that we really do have to constitutionally provide for equal opportunity for everybody. While the constitution generally treats people that way, there is no specific statement of that. We see daily, particularly over the last few years with our court systems, the limitation of an individual's rights.

RECORD: What is your stand on abortion?

BRIGGS: I'm pro-choice. I just don't believe it's government's responsibility to get involved in those decisions and make choices that individuals have a hard time dealing with. I would advocate legislation ensuring that that's the case.

RECORD: For child care should the federal government provide direct subsidies? Offer tax credits to those who pay for child care? Provide alternative relief? Do nothing?

BRIGGS: The federal government has to do something to help—particularly lower-income individuals who need child care to be able to be productive in the economy. Tax credits really don't do the job effectively. They often can only be used by people who are middle-and-above income, they don't necessarily help people who may choose in-home care versus a specific daycare center. As a result, they often don't achieve the results intended. So I think a direct subsidy may be appropriate and how the details of that are worked out, would need to be studied further.

RECORD: Is there going to be a peace dividend as a result of the winding down of the Cold War, and if so, what should we do with the funds?

BRIGGS: We would hope that there would be. And I think there is still, regardless of what's going on in Iraq. Many of the types of weapons that we've been spending our significant dollars on, like the SDI (strategic defense initiative) program and the B-2 bomber are not weapons programs that would be effective nor are intended to provide a deterrent in the situation that we're seeing now. They're intended for a full-scale war against the Soviet Union.

I think we can find opportunities in our military budget that don't fit the situation, that are not geared towards the way that war has changed. To the extent we are meeting whatever targets to bring the deficit down, beyond that we can increase the funds spent on education to ensure that everybody has an opportunity to go to college and ensure that the Head Start program has an opportunity to work and be expanded. When we spend a dollar on Head Start, we save ourselves $4 in prison costs, welfare costs and police costs. Our best bet is to start spending that money on those young children.

RECORD: What can the U.S. do to correct its trade deficit, particularly with Japan?

BRIGGS: We have significant opportunities to correct our trade balance with Eastern Europe. The Eastern Europeans and the Europeans are not as nationalistic as Japan is. Japan's culture is one that precludes them from buying products from us.

It's not to say that we shouldn't encourage them to buy products. We need to ask their government, to work with their government to purchase more of our products so that the cultural bias against

We also have to recognize that we need to be more more competitive price-wise in the worldwide economy and we need to be building quality products—which requires government and business to work together to help ensure that we are playing on a level playing field.

Where somebody's unfairly dumping on us, we're taking action there.

Where we've got businesses that are starting up, that are in trouble or that need to retool too, it's appropriate to help them over a period of time. We ought to insist when we help a business that they do what they say they're going to do.

U.S. Rep. William Broomfield is finishing his 34th year in Congress. A Republican, Broomfield's latest challenger in the Nov. 6 election is Walter O. Briggs IV. Still tied up in Washington with federal budget deliberations, Broomfield spoke to The Northville Record over the phone earlier this week.

RECORD: What do you consider to be the most significant civic accomplishment of your life in the last six years?

BROOMFIELD: Probably the most significant achievement in my life in the last six years has been my work here in Congress, particularly working on foreign affairs, particularly our relationship with the Soviet Union and the changes taking place in Eastern Europe and so forth, working with the administration on arms control and many areas affecting our foreign policy. I would say that as a member of the delegation on arms control, I have been involved in many of the agreements that have been worked out between the Soviet Union and the United States.

RECORD: There are many proposed constitutional amendments floating around—the Equal Rights Amendment, balanced budget, right-to-life, flag-burning, prayer in schools, etc. The mathematical odds are that only one constitutional amendment is approved every 12 1/2 years. In the next 12 years, what one amendment would you like to see in the Constitution and why?

BROOMFIELD: Well, the balanced budget because I think we've got to do something to slow down the big spenders in Congress. We can't continue to have deficits running at $300 billion a year and I just think we ought to have a Congress that's going to be forced to work within the means of the revenue that comes in from the taxpayers.

RECORD: What is your stand on abortion?

BROOMFIELD: My stand on abortion is very well known. I have constantly opposed federal funding on abortion.

RECORD: Do you favor an outright ban on abortion?

BROOMFIELD: I'm just saying this is the subject matter that's before us. As I say, these are the votes I've had to cast on it. In other words, I have voted obviously opposed to any federal funding on abortion in the case of saving the life of the mother, in rape or incest.

RECORD: Would you say you were or were not pro-choice?

BROOMFIELD: I think people have to determine that for themselves. I mean, a lot of people indicate I'm pro-choice. I certainly feel that what I've done has indicated I'm opposed to the federal funding of it. The law provides for funding outside of the federal government. That certainly is something that is legal.

RECORD: For child care, should the federal government get involved by providing direct subsidies to families or by offering tax credits for those who pay for child care? Or by an alternative means? Or by none of the above?

BROOMFIELD: Well, tax credits. Basically, I think it's extremely important. I would like to see a better program for child care. That's a very important program. We've got to do more through the state and local governments.

RECORD: Is there going to be a peace dividend as a result of the winding down of the Cold War, and if so, what should we do with the

THE GENERAL ELECTION

Potter, Schmid run for Oakland commission

By SUZANNE HOLLYER
Staff Writer

Jeffrey Potter, mayor and resident of South Lyon, will face Kay Schmid in the race for 24th District Oakland County Commissioner. Potter, a Democrat, recently discussed his plans for the office if elected on Nov. 6 with The Northville Record.

RECORD: What solutions can you offer a developing area like Oakland County for taking charge of its solid waste disposal problems?

POTTER: Actually, the best place to start is source reduction, then landfilling and incineration. Source reduction is actually the primary target I would look for first because that can eliminate the need for both landfill space and incinerator capacity.

A (South Lyon) council initiative started our local recycling project. Our council started it and I was personally involved in building it into a city/township project to increase participation and to reduce costs.

RECORD: In an area like Oakland County would you favor a county landfill over an incinerator?

POTTER: We should do the most we can to find optimum landfill sites. Incineration is the least favorable option in my view. We need to do everything possible to optimally use sites that are available before we consider incineration. I favor securing suitable landfill sites over incineration, but I'm realistic enough to know that there's no easy way out on this one.

RECORD: Would you support a county plant that recycles waste into energy and new materials?

POTTER: I'm more in favor of privately operated facilities. They should be built on an economic rather than a political model. That is to say, they should be operated at the scale where they can be most efficiently run. I generally think that government should stay out of operating business-type enterprises.

However, they should have an ownership or a control to the extent that they can prevent any one operator from monopolizing service. That's the problem we have with landfills right now. I would prefer a privately-operated facility of any type, but one which had enough public ownership or control to prevent a monopoly from capturing the market.

RECORD: What do you see as the biggest traffic problem in the area, and as county commissioner what could you do about it?

POTTER: Actually there's two. One is the Haggerty connector (a new freeway link between I-275, I-96 and Pontiac Trail a half-mile west of Haggerty Road). That project needs to be finished. The other one is the Eight Mile Road coming out of the western suburbs. That needs to be widened.

The county Board of Commissioners does not have direct control over road expenditures, so to answer your second question, I would help facilitate the restoration of adequate attention to District 24, our district, then through paying a lot of attention to it, getting people together on it, helping our communities build an effective presence at the state level to make sure that we get our share of reimbursement.

We're getting about 60 cents back on the dollar right now for road reimbursement funds. Roads are a major priority for Oakland County's economic future. We need to make major commitments. We have to do those things that support our regional prosperity.

RECORD: What would you do as county commissioner to support environmental preservation in a county developing as quickly as Oakland County?

POTTER: My view is, there's no strategy that's anti-growth that will ever hold up in court in the long run. What we need to do is, in accepting the inevitability of growth, find those elements of our community that we really like and enhance on them.

If you like open spaces we've got to find ways to buy them. The only dependable way to do it is to actually buy it. We don't need to float a bond issue. We just need to get what's ours. It's a matter of getting somebody who's going to actively promote us getting our share of what we deserve.

RECORD: Would you support a county board takeover of the road commission?

POTTER: The idea of taking over the county road commission is at the possibility of making a bad situation worse because instead of having a group that is generally inaccessible to political control or community control, then you would have one that would be rife with favoritism and pork-barreling. The idea is not for the board to directly control the road commission but to set their goals more. You can have also functional integration of certain areas without compromising their political autonomy.

RECORD: Should county government functions like the roads, parks, drains, sheriff's and prosecutor's office be further consolidated?

POTTER: I support any degree of functional consolidation that will save the taxpayers money.

RECORD: What about a crime problem that will probably continue to grow with the area? Would you support more preventive measures for dealing with crime?

POTTER: I would support non-custodial but highly structured and supervised interventions because of the prison space situation. You can't build your way out of it; it's not working. Faster processing and administrative reforms to prevent useless delays in trials, basically administrative reform. Strong probationary-type things. Things like the tether program for non-violent, non-dangerous-type offenders.

RECORD: As a South Lyon resident, how well will you be able to represent the other areas in the 24th District like Novi and the Oakland County portion of Northville?

POTTER: I was elected as a community leader originally. I support the community that I represent now. If elected as county commissioner I will continue to do so. From the very beginning my emphasis and focus in the job that I can do here represents my understanding of the fact as a region we're growing together and we can either do it independently or we can do it together.

By SUZANNE HOLLYER
Staff Writer

Kay Schmid, a Novi resident, will face Jeffrey Potter in the race for 24th District Oakland County Commissioner. Schmid, a Republican, recently discussed her plans for the office if elected on Nov. 6 with The Northville Record.

RECORD: Would you favor a county landfill over an incinerator for Oakland County?

SCHMID: It's been my position that the landfill should be privately owned. In saying that I think that the county should lay down strict rules and criteria that the landfill has to meet and they should have the enforcement power over making sure that this private landowner holds up his end of meeting that criteria.

RECORD: Would you support a county plant that recycles waste into energy and new materials?

SCHMID: Well, I think the county board of commissioners already did that. I have been at every county commissioner meeting since I announced for this position. I have watched the things that have gone on.

I have seen the people that are very upset over having an incinerator in their backyard, and that, quite frankly, is a very emotional issue. So I think the 27 commissioners took a long time to try and do the best job they could to get the highest technology available to control the people's concerns. They thought they had that, and they applied to the State of Michigan for a permit.

The State of Michigan said, "Oh, wait a minute, we're not sure. I think we're going to change the requirements on air pollution and air standards that you have to meet." Obviously the state has been listening to the people.

What the county did was say, "OK, were on hold for this incinerator, but we have the rest of this recycling program that we have to deal with." We have recycling, we have composting and we have landfilling. The incinerator is on hold. I don't know what's going to happen with that.

RECORD: What other solutions can you offer for Oakland County's solid-waste disposal problems?

SCHMID: There is another incinerator in Madison Heights that has been closed down. They are trying very hard to meet (the state's) requirements, but they're not being very successful. They're running into the same problems that our incinerator had.

I went to a meeting of Southfield, Farmington, Farmington Hills, Novi, South Lyon and Walled Lake, and they were talking about the incinerator up here. But in talking privately, I don't know if you can even say this, I have heard rumors, "Hey, I live in Southfield. I'm right on the Detroit border. I'm going to take my stuff to burn down to the Detroit incinerator." So, it's an option that's out there.

But recycling is paramount right now. Novi's already working with a volunteer program on that. You'd be amazed with how many people are using that on a voluntary basis. I think we have to develop a curbside recycling program.

Recycling isn't going to take care of all the problems, but it's paramount right now.

RECORD: What would you do as county commissioner to support environmental preservation in a county developing as quickly as Oakland County?

SCHMID: Quite frankly, I've always been strong on environmental issues. Right now they're working on the Haggerty connector, which has nothing to do with county government, but it will very seriously affect our family. The EPA out of Washington, D.C. is holding it up. They have concerns about that.

I think the City of Novi, because they have a lot of growth, has dealt with environmental issues. It's not part of what county government does. There's parks and recreation port in the country that doesn't charge you significantly more for what you get at the airport. You've got a captive audience.

Airport

But I think realistically, if we get the new terminal it will be because Northwest agrees to it, and we're close to an agreement. There are two reasons, really, why they're agreeing to it. One is that there is more demand for flights, from people who want to come here to do business and people who come here to travel, than we can handle now. Today we're at capacity at our gates. We couldn't add flights if we wanted to. We could add them at two in the morning — there's gate capacity then — but who wants to fly then? So there is certainly a bigger market there.

But the more important reason from Northwest's standpoint is that at the time that this airport was designed, your planes were small and you could run planes in and out both sides (of the two parallel concourses) all the time. Now with the wide-bodies, if there's a plane at an outer gate, all of the other planes are blocked until this plane either gets in or gets out. And Northwest is losing millions of dollars a year in fuel costs, in salary costs for flight attendants and everyone else, while these planes sit.

That was a big part of the on-time problem they used to have. The way they solved their on-time problem was they added 20 minutes to all their flying times. That's the only reason they're on time now. They're not getting in and out any faster.

That extra 20 minutes of flight adds up to millions of dollars, and what we showed them was that if they moved to a new terminal that was designed in the 1990s, they could save millions of dollars a year in operating costs.

So the whole plan for the expansion is likely not to put upward pressure on the airlines; it's more likely to bring downward pressure. Northwest and the other airlines will be more profitable operating out of a modern facility. That's why they're agreeing to it: because they think it will bring their costs down and their profits up.

RECORD: Does passage of this bond by the voters strengthen your case for the rest of the expansion, or can one be done without the other being done right away?

DUGGAN: If this fails, the expansion is done, for probably the rest of the decade. You know what the parking situation's like. Can you imagine trying to go forward on a new terminal without adding parking? Flood control doesn't really affect people up here, but down in Taylor last March we had a situation where during a storm the airport was releasing water into the community. That's crazy. That can't happen again.

Those kinds of things need to be done before you can start talking about more gates and a terminal. If this loses, we don't have another county election for two years. And Northwest is now making five-year capital decisions for the whole company, and they've got options. They've got to decide about Minneapolis, Milwaukee, and Memphis, where they have smaller hubs. They're trying to acquire Eastern and that would give them 50 gates in Atlanta. If we say to them, "Hold your five-year plan for a couple of years until we get another election and we'll try again," we're going to get passed right by.

Or we could say to them, "Lay out $2 million for a special election and we'll try again." But to expect them to spend $2 million just to hold an election, particularly when they're phasing out fuel costs and wage cuts, that's just not going to happen. They're going to go someplace where they can make business decisions that they can depend on.

On the other hand, we are well into the process with the FAA to draw new routes. The FAA's admitted they blew it. When they drew these routes, they didn't have enough concern for what they were doing. They never dreamed they were concentrating this much noise around here.

They're redrawing the routes right now. Unfortunately, they're not going to be done until Dec. 1. We're trying to get them to release something before the end of October, because from the preliminary meetings, there's lots of options that just weren't looked at originally.

But even if we fail to correct the noise problems this year, the opponents are going to have two or three other opportunities to block this expansion. They got 20,000 signatures this time — they'll get 50,000 the next time if we don't deal with this.

So the anti-noise people have plenty of other shots. But if we want to keep the jobs and modernize the airport, this is our last shot.

Congress

funds freed up?

BROOMFIELD: Well, of course, that's been derailed temporarily because of the involvement in the Persian Gulf with Iraq and I think eventually once that war gets over, why, I think that we will be able to receive benefits from the defense budget. It can be reduced down and I would like to see more of it put on taking it off the budget deficit of this country. In other words, so we can keep taxes down for the middle-income people.

RECORD: What can the U.S. do to correct its trade deficit, particularly with Japan?

BROOMFIELD: Well, that's a constant problem and one that is receiving top priority and has been with the administration for many years now. And I think what we've got to do is continue to keep the pressure on to make sure that we have the same terms working for both countries. In other words, not to allow them to have the benefit they've enjoyed over the years.

RECORD: How would this be done?

BROOMFIELD: I think through trade agreements. I think we ought to insist that if they have tariffs affecting the United States trade goods going into Japan, they ought to have the same trade tariffs here in the United States affecting Japanese goods.

RECORD: Should the U.S. be prepared to go to war in the Middle East? Are the stakes high enough?

BROOMFIELD: Well, I think it depends on a lot of factors. The provocation would determine whether we get involved in a war there or not. Our situation is totally different than anything we've ever been involved in before, because practically most of the countries of the world are united with us and many nations are involved in the Persian Gulf.

I think things are going very well right now. I support the president in our Persian Gulf policy and I think we've got to continue to support the United Nations in its efforts through trade embargoes and so forth, to keep the pressure on Saddam Hussein. I think if we do that, there's a good possibility we can avoid a hot war. But if there is one, it will be determined by Saddam Hussein provoking an attack on the United States or our allied forces in the area.

RECORD: When members of Congress know the fiscal year starts Oct. 1, why does it take nine full months plus several weeks into the new fiscal year to adopt a budget?

BROOMFIELD: Well, that ought to be directed to the Democrat leadership that has controlled Congress for the last 36 years.

RECORD: Do you have anything else to say on that subject?

BROOMFIELD: No, not at all. I think what we need is a Republican-controlled Congress to make the changes. I think it's time for a house-cleaning and that means get the Democrats out and give the Republicans a chance to govern.

RECORD: Would the Republicans be able to get things wrapped up before the fiscal year ends?

BROOMFIELD: Oh, I would hope so. But we haven't had a chance in all those years, so I think it would be nice to give us a chance.

RECORD: Is there anything wrong with Gramm-Rudman across-the-board cuts in spending which would kick in without a congressional bill?

BROOMFIELD: Of course, I think the cuts would be so severe and I think that would be unfortunate if we had to resort to that. I think we ought to be statesmen enough down here to get a budget through that obviously will be even-handed across-the-board, whether it's taxes or cuts in the federal government.

have a strong slate of individuals willing to accept the council's nomination. There is no re-election required by this vacancy. The terms do not coincide. There is never a time when you can leave the mayor's position and take a county commissioner position without a gap or a resignation.

This is an open seat, meaning that for once in a very long history there is an opportunity to run for an opening that's not held by an incumbent, which is a real advantage in any election. Before I filed, I sent questionnaires to every identifiable community leader that I could think of, none of them known supporters of past campaigns. They were deliberately excluded. Forty-nine were returned. Two were neutral. Two opposed my running; one of those changed his mind; so 46 supported me. By and large, all of the responses are clustered in a favorable position, there's a couple of them that are more toward the middle.

I live in this community. We go to the same church that many community members go to and my children go to these schools. Can anybody really honestly think that I would do something that was against the interests of our community? I wouldn't. That's the best way I can answer it.

RECORD: Would your being a Democrat create any problems working on a predominantly Republican county commission?

POTTER: I don't see problem with it at all. If I had such a problem with Republicans I wouldn't have two of them actually working on my campaign committee. I don't see that problem. The flip side of that kind of thing is if my opponent gets elected her ties are so close, and these aren't my words this is the kind of thing she's constantly stressing, her relationship with these people is so close. Could she possibly be independent? That's the real problem.

and that's funded by a quarter-mill that the voters pass. That's one of the reasons that they tried to put an issue on the ballot along with renewal of the quarter-mill to build a new park, but that failed.

There are grants that are available that you can help environmental issues. As far as controlling growth for the environment within the county, there's not a lot you can do. That's a local issue.

When I talk to people knocking on doors they're saying "taxes," they're saying "roads." When you talk to elected officials in the area, which I've done, they're talking, "They won't let me build a drain." "When are they going to do Eight Mile Road?" "What are you going to do about the road commission?"

As a county commissioner, you've got to be able to work with all these people and preserve what they think is important. I think environmental issues are better handled at the local level like the City of Novi has done with their wetlands and woodlands ordinances.

RECORD: What do you see as the biggest traffic problem in the area, and as county commissioner what could you do about it?

SCHMID: If you talk to the City of Novi people they're going to tell you Haggerty Road is awful. They're going to tell you Novi Road is awful. They're going to tell you Twelve Mile Road is awful. To the people in the Oakland County portion of Northville they're going to say, "When are you going to fix Eight Mile Road?" When you talk to the people in Lyon Township or South Lyon, "Hey, do something with Pontiac Trail." It all depends on where you are what the concerns are.

RECORD: Would you support a county board takeover of the road commission?

SCHMID: The only way that I would consider moving that road commission under the county executive is if we have additional tools from the State of Michigan. Only if we have enabling legislation from the state to change the way we fund the roads. Not by itself. It would have to come as a package.

Briggs

driven out of business, at the same time our businesses have to compete. That requires a business focus that is different than what we have today. Business owners that I talk to work on a quarter-by-quarter basis. But the Japanese companies, they're looking 15 years down the road.

The American automobile industry got a break when the yen rose so that Japanese cars became much more expensive. The American car companies' response was, "We'll raise our prices," rather than say "I've got an opportunity to make a dent in their growing market share and turn the trend around." That's the kind of thinking I think we need to change.

RECORD: Should the U.S. be prepared to go to war in the Middle East? Are the stakes high enough?

BRIGGS: The stakes are not high enough. I'm very concerned about the position we're putting ourselves in in the Middle East. If our administration continues on its current course, yes, we need to be prepared to go to war.

But we need to be able to ask ourselves if we really have the support of the world, as we are told we have. You see France making noises about a separate peace, you see the Soviet Union and China saying they would not support any military action against Saddam Hussein. Within the Arab world itself, the general population would not tolerate it.

By injecting ourselves into the situation, we became the fox and he had something to rally his troops around. If we had not, it was an Arab against-Arab conflict. The Arab world didn't respect Kuwait, particularly because of their treatment of the working class population. They were very discriminatory.

When we say we're going there to protect oil, I don't think that's a valid reason to go. When we say we're going in there to protect against naked aggression, how come we didn't tell him before he went in? When we had ample opportunity for six months and knew what he was planning to do, how come we didn't tell Saddam Hussein to stop?

Our Opinions

Vote yes on bonds for Metro Airport

When talking about the Metro Airport bond issue, Deputy Wayne County Executive Mike Duggan starts to repeat himself.

This is not a tax, he says. The county's involvement is more a matter of bookkeeping than anything else, he'll tell you. The airlines at Metro will completely pay for the bonds, he emphasizes. The proposal is vital to the economic health of the region, he insists. And, he sighs, this really is not related to airplane noise.

He makes a convincing case. The airport bond issue on the ballot Nov. 6 deserves support of Wayne County voters.

To briefly recap, this proposal is not your typical bond issue. It would not ordinarily require voter approval. It does not involve any tax money. The county does not guarantee the value of the bonds. The county sells the bonds because of some financing advantages, but that's as far as its involvement goes. In essence, this project belongs to Northwest Airlines.

The bond sale appears on the ballot because of a petition drive mounted by a Dearborn-based group fighting noise from the airport. Duggan effectively argues that the two issues deal with different concerns; the Federal Aviation Administration is currently redrawing flight patterns in an effort to alleviate plane noise. The noise is an issue regardless of the bonds, and the bonds are necessary regardless of the noise.

The bonds will go to pay for the first phases of work in a large-scale, long-term expansion of the airport. Duggan believes growth in the region mandates the expansion. Overcrowded Metro will start to lose flights if action is not taken, and that will only mean more bad news for the overall economy of Wayne County. Expansion will indeed mean more flights, but if new patterns can limit noise from all flights then this should not be a problem.

It's important to remember that the airlines will pay for the entire cost of this bond issue. No tax money goes toward paying off the bonds. The airlines will pay them off, and that might mean higher costs somewhere — but then, appropriately, the users of the airport will be the ones who ultimately pay for the expansion. In any case, Duggan argues that the expansion should actually cut the airlines' operating costs in the long run.

There will be other bond sales necessary to accomplish the Metro expansion, and — depending on whether citizens continue to file petitions — those sales may or may not appear on the ballot. But the entire project goes nowhere without this first step. We recommend a YES vote on the Metro Airport bonds.

Schmid better choice for Oakland post

One of the most hotly contested races in the area this year has turned out to be the contest between Novi Republican Kay Schmid and South Lyon Democrat Jeff Potter for an open seat on the Oakland County Board of Commissioners.

The two are vying to replace outgoing commissioner John Calandro, R-Nowi, who chose not to run again for the position. The winner of the race will earn a two-year term in a district which encompasses the Oakland County portion of Northville, as well as all of Novi, South Lyon and Lyon Township.

Among the reasons the race has been so tight is the fact that either candidate would make a capable, competent commissioner, but that neither of their candidacies have really shined. Additionally, the race has become somewhat of a battle of endorsements, with both candidates offering an impressive list of backers.

So voters will get capable representation no matter which is elected. Still, we have to decide our endorsement in favor of KAY SCHMID.

Schmid showed a more impressive command of the issues facing county government and a better understanding of the role of the county board and commissioners during our election interviews. Frankly, it is laudable that she has worked so hard to become familiar with county politics, having researched the issues and attended numerous county board meetings.

She gave an interesting perspective on solid waste issues, favoring privatization of county landfill and incinerator operations which could save the county a good deal of money. She further showed her independent thinking, by opposing further consolidation of county operations under the executive's office, an idea much favored by many in the county GOP.

Being a part of the Republican caucus will also serve to place Schmid in a position where she can have more of an impact on county events and serve the district better, since Republicans hold the vast majority of county seats.

Schmid's one weakness may be in a lack of experience in elective positions. If she wins this post, it will be her first. Still, she has been active in the Republican party and has served as a worker for the GOP. And, in our experience, involvement in the party often provides the skills needed to do well in an elective position. In Schmid's case, we believe it will.

Eating right is just too hard

Look, I try. Really I do. The plain truth is that I am just not able to eat healthy.

My eating habits aren't the greatest. I know that. A few too many potato chips, perhaps too few full meals. But I always figured I eat well when I get the chance.

Then last week, a co-worker looked critically at me as I wolfed down a bag of something or other and a Snickers in between meetings. "Bob, you have the worst diet I have ever seen," he bluntly told me.

The worst ever? I mean, maybe I have a bit of a problem, but is it that bad?

Well, just a little thinking convinced me that yes, I guess it is that bad. The candy-bar-and-Doritos lunches. The bowl-of-cold-cereal-and-a-cookie dinners. The nonexistent breakfasts.

Then I perked up. Hey, it's not my fault. It's an occupational hazard. Newspaper people are notorious for not taking care of themselves. Is anybody in the office any better than me at eating well?

Well, yes. We have at least one vegetarian working here. Almost everyone in the office seems to have actual food for lunch most days. And my wife, who has almost the exact same job I do, but in a different office, eats a lot better than me.

On the rare occasions when we make it to the grocery store, we always buy healthy food. Turkey, lean beef, fresh vegetables, plenty of fruit. And I like all that stuff — but then it rarely gets eaten. Downtown Northville is full of wonderful restaurants and they all offer carry-out, but only infrequently can I seem to find the five extra minutes it takes to order.

I'm determined to solve this problem. I will start eating better . . . tomorrow.

AIDS education gone too far?

AIDS education in kindergarten? Are we maybe getting a little carried away here, folks?

The Novi Community School District decided a month ago to add acquired immune deficiency syndrome (AIDS) education to the Growing Healthy portion of its curriculum. Under state law, the district was required to add AIDS education to the curriculum down to the seventh grade, but the Novi school district went further, initiating the program all the way down to the kindergarten level.

The reasoning was that since AIDS is an incurable and deadly disease, the only effective method of fighting this "epidemic" is through education. And the earlier we can get to these youngsters and dissuade them from engaging in the so-called "high risk behaviors," the more effective that education will be.

Not a word of objection was raised by parents, educators or officials of the school district during consideration of the proposal. We like to think of ourselves as sophisticated, enlightened people . . . and sophisticated, enlightened people don't get upset about the idea of a little sex education for their children.

But I've been pondering the issue and now I'm wondering if our sophistication and enlightenment might not have gotten in the way of our actually thinking about the proposal — thinking about questions like whether there is a need for such a program, whether it has a chance of being effective, whether the resources might not be put to better use somewhere else, and whether AIDS education in the very early grades might not just be counterproductive.

For one, I just can't conceive of the idea that there are any kindergartners, first graders or second graders out there engaging in "risk behaviors" — sharing needles, having high-risk sex.

Well, you say, you might just be surprised. Yes, I suppose I might. But the statistics on AIDS at least bear me out on this point. According to the figures released last month by the Michigan Department of Public Health, there have been 30 cases of AIDS reported in children under age 13 (preschool through grade seven) in this state since AIDS was first discovered here in 1981. Of that number, 24 children contracted the disease at birth from their infected mothers. The remaining six contracted AIDS from blood and blood products coming from AIDS-infected donors.

So if kids this young aren't involved in these activities in the first place, educating them not to participate in such behaviors would seem a little pointless.

Well, why not tell these youngsters about AIDS anyway, you say, and get an early start with them?

I'll tell you why. The one place these very young children seem to be at any real risk of exposure to AIDS is through blood transfusions. And of course blood transfusions are likely to occur only during medical treatment. Any parent who has taken a child to the doctor or to the hospital knows what a frightening experience it can be for them and how difficult it is to calm their unreasonable fears. Add to that a fear that they might contract an incurable and deadly disease like AIDS, no matter how remote the possibility, and it becomes all the more terrifying. Children of ages 5, 6 and 7 just can't weigh the sum risk of getting AIDS during medical treatment against the much riskier prospects of not getting medical treatment at all. So raising the issue with them would seem to be counterproductive.

Don't get me wrong, AIDS education should start early, well before youngsters are likely to be exposed to risk behaviors. But maybe fifth or sixth grade is early enough, when they are a little better able to put what they are being told into perspective.

Coming up: It is a dangerous world out there for youngsters, but AIDS is the least of their worries.

Reject township fire tax proposal

To the editor:

Another millage is due for consideration this November. The .5-mill fire millage was defeated earlier this year, and now the department has reconsidered its demands and will settle for .33.

Why is this millage requested now? The department doesn't need it now. It wants to retain the funds should they be necessary in the future. We want to retain the funds for our own use now. See us later!

The department threatened that unless the millage passes it will not provide the fire safety instruction in the schools. I say, "Don't!" What will you do with the personnel who are now designated to perform said tasks? Fire them? They'll be surprised I taught fire prevention very adequately when I was a teacher. It can be done.

I secured the following statistics from the department:

We, Northville residents, support three stations, 28 firefighters, 15 pieces of equipment. They have responded to 527 calls from Jan. 1, 1990 to Oct. 10, 1990 (approximately 270 days). This averages out to less than two calls per day.

I do believe the department can afford to live without the millage and still give fire safety instruction. Vote no!

A very pleasant return to town

To the editor (and towns):

Twenty-five years goes by fast. That's about how long since the last time I was in the Northville football stadium. And so this year's Homecoming game was interesting for the contrast as well as the contest.

Sitting in the new west bleachers (aluminum — bad idea) I expected to see a lot of familiar faces. But except for my high school football coach and a couple of former classmates, the hometown crowd was new. I'm sure because everyone at the game walked by at least four times. With the weather perfect and the outcome safely in hand early, the crowd was definitely "in motion." Back and forth, back and forth.

What with all the changes taking place in society, it's great to see some things endure. Just going to the game made me feel good. I know I'm not alone. Most of the adults walked around with the same self-satisfied smile. And the young people (those few that weren't in the king and queen congregation) with their freshly scrubbed faces, rolled-at-the-bottom jeans and iridescent ankle bracelets were largely responsible for the positive feeling among us older folks. As the Church Lady used to say, "We are feeling a bit superior, aren't we?"

I hope this note will encourage you to take your family to one of the few remaining home games. Bring a seat cushion, wear a smile and enjoy a great night.

And don't be surprised if you see Norman Rockwell in the corner, near the concession stand, sketching a future Life magazine cover.

Thanks for work on the Tivoli Fair

To the editor:

Now that we have had time to catch our breath, we'd like to thank all the people that contributed in some way to the success of our twenty-first Tivoli Fair. All the proceeds are used for the restoration and continuing maintenance of Mill Race Historical Village.

Again, many thanks to all of you.

Potter active on issues for seniors

To the editor:

I am a senior who has lived in this area for many years, and am active in the AARP. I am writing about a recent article in your paper about the election this November for the Oakland County Commission, between South Lyon Mayor Jeff Potter and Novi resident Kay Schmid.

She mentioned that she has been dropping in to watch the county meetings since she filed for the position. Since she doesn't have a job now, she has the time to go. I don't see why she would think this means she has some special talent for public service, since she doesn't mention going to any of these until after she filed for the job, and hasn't had an elected job before.

I know Jeff Potter because I and other area seniors have had a lot of personal experience with him. My first contact with him was when we had a transportation problem. He read about it in the paper, and he actually contacted us first, to see what he could do to help. He wasn't running to get any job at all, but just trying to do a good job representing people in our area.

Because of his personal involvement, the senior minibus is now up and running, so that seniors who can't drive can get to appointments and shopping. He helped get different groups together so it was done with very little taxpayers' money. He spends many nights away from his family and takes a lot of days off from his regular job at Ford to help the community. He comes to meetings for our senior group, and he has called Lansing for us many times.

I don't see why she is criticizing him for having a job. In fact, I wonder what she would say about him if he didn't have one now. He said he would go on part-time or community leave of absence when he gets elected to the new job. I think this is a lot stronger record than somebody who would visit county board meetings after filing to get elected to an important job, and then try to make some kind of issue of the fact that her opponent goes to the job he has now.

This area has been neglected and needed good representation for a long time. Jeff Potter is a patient and friendly young leader who has already shown a real ability to solve problems for people from all groups, and deserves our support.

Law forgets his public duty

To the editor:

It has always been my understanding that an elected official's duty, regardless of his political party, was to represent all of his constituents and his community without prejudice.

On Oct. 3, I was petitioning near one of the local shopping malls in Plymouth Township when I was confronted by a man that seemed interested in what I was doing. In one sentence, I petitioned this man and expressed my opposition to Mettetal Airport being municipally owned and supported by my tax dollars.

In reply this man shouted very loudly that my statement was a lie, and everything I said was a lie, and that I was deliberately lying to the people. He created such a disturbance with his accusations and shouting that I walked away from him. I told him he was too argumentative and I wanted no further discussion with him.

His persistent demagoguery became too much for me so I asked him to lower his voice as he was creating a disturbance, and any attempt by me to petition the public was out of the question. At this time he introduced himself as Gerald Law. I couldn't believe what I was hearing but then I recognized him from his photographs. This man was State Representative Gerald H. Law who was making accusations that were totally untrue.

I informed Mr. Law that I had supported him at each election since I moved to the area 11 years ago, but he had received his last vote from me.

After Mr. Law had regained his composure, he examined my petition and of the seven points listed at the top he found (in his opinion) one questionable and one he did not agree with, but found no lies. I mentioned his earlier unruly conduct and he agreed and apologized.

In the discussion following, I found it difficult to extract an answer from him when I asked him pointed questions, such as "Where does the money come from that is not funded by federal and state government grants?" since he stood firm that no taxpayer dollars would be used.

He finally asserted that the Airport Authority would ask for a millage to be put on the ballot, and if approved, the local taxpayers would have to pay for it.

The proponents of Mettetal Airport are not being honest with the taxpayers when they say "no local tax money will be used to acquire and support the airport." They prefer to call it "users' fees." The Michigan Aeronautics Commission and the Federal Aviation Administration refer to it as a "compulsory tax." A tax is defined as a percentage of income, property value, sales price, etc. In essence what I am saying is that every single cent that is used to acquire and support Mettetal Airport is taxpayer money, local and otherwise.

So far the only point that I can agree on with (Plymouth Township) Supervisor (Maurice) Breen is his admission that the airport is not revenue-producing and he does not expect it to be revenue-producing. He further states that before he will allow local taxes to be used he would allow the airport to go into bankruptcy. My next question is: Why then is he supporting purchase of the airport at all if he knows it is basically worthless as a revenue-producing endeavor?

What Sup. Breen is actually doing is abusing municipal privileges by using Plymouth Township and his office to acquire an inflated price of $4.1 million and pay it to the present owner who then walks away with a large profit on a bad investment.

There are many more questions to be answered and facts to be given regarding this matter. Hopefully Sup. Breen will give the people whose taxes are involved a chance to obtain these answers and hear these facts, and why he thinks the airport is a community asset when his own statements are contradictory.

Auto insurance still needs reform

To the editor:

Isn't it interesting how the car insurance reform proposals — and any action on them — has dropped out of sight. Our legislators are doing nothing. But quietly, the insurance companies are gradually increasing rates, some as much as 24 percent. It makes one wonder if and whether the legislators are working for the public or receiving benefits from the insurance industry. There are 16 House or Senate bills pending and 11 legislators attached to them, one way or another. They (legislators) won't do anything till after the November elections. We are the losers again. The solution: don't vote for incumbents.

Michigan's 'core' proves hollow

I hate writing columns like this. But here goes.

At long last, Michigan schools are moving toward defining what children are supposed to learn in class. That is what the state Department of Education means when it talks about "outcomes" that are to be the result of the new "core curriculum" adopted last year. That's the good news.

The bad news is that I now find anywhere in the blizzard of paper now drifting around the program any discussion of just how schools propose to define and measure what children are supposed to learn.

It's bad because defining what you want to do while at the same time declining to measure how you are doing assures us that nothing will happen in the effort to reform our schools.

All this comes about through passage last year of state Public Act 25. It required local school districts to "develop and deliver instruction to all students based on a model core curriculum . . . (to) articulate the broad outcomes to be achieved by all students as a result of their school experiences."

Great — an improvement over the old idea that 12 years of schooling guaranteed kids would learn something.

In carrying out this policy, the state Department of Education has described what a student who has undergone the core curriculum would be like: "competent and productive participant in society," "creative, sensitive and flexible," "capable of learning over a lifetime" and so forth.

And the department has set out the topic areas for the curriculum: arts, health and physical skills, language arts, science and math, and world studies. The department even makes a gesture toward the world of work by mentioning the academic, personal management and teamwork skills "necessary for a person to obtain, maintain and progress in a job."

So far, so good.

Now comes the problem.

When the department gets around to defining and assessing success, it gets mealy mouthed.

"Measurement of student attainment of the desired educational outcomes at the state, district and building level is an integral part of a good core curriculum model." OK, how?

"Appropriate assessment techniques should be used to accurately measure student attainment of the various content, process and skill outcomes."

Which techniques? They never say, neither in all the paper I've seen nor when asked orally in public or private. And I get very suspicious whenever somebody in government starts talking about "appropriate assessment techniques" without saying what those are.

My suspicion started to thicken into irritation when I read the detail about the skills outcomes.

In math, kindergarten through third-grade students will "add, subtract, multiply and divide using models and add, subtract and multiply using computational algorithms with numbers appropriate to the models." But will they know their tables down cold?

The writing outcomes are even more bewildering. Organized into areas of "prewriting, drafting, revising, proofreading, publishing," the discussion never seems to focus on the idea that children should learn to write clearly, logically and quickly.

A great shame, because PA 25 represented a terrific start in reforming our schools.

Why have the State Board of Education and the department ignored the real point of any reform: measure of performance? They may be bureaucratic, but these people are neither knaves nor fools.

I believe they are responding to a political fear. They're scared to death they'll be accused of bringing in a set of statewide required courses, standards and examinations, thereby destroying our treasured local autonomy of schools.

In Washington, the story is that there's a reason nothing whatsoever has come out of the much-trumpeted "Education Summit" between the president and the nation's governors. The folks in the White House don't want anything to happen for fear President George Bush will be accused of destroying the sacred cow of local autonomy.

This is a legitimate political issue, one that ought to be debated just like how best to finance schools. But the debate ought to be out in the open, not disguised by mumbo jumbo about "appropriate assessment techniques."

LUKE BATHEY

Former Northville resident Luke Bathey died Sept. 4.

He was born Dec. 10, 1892 in Unionville. He retired from General Motors after 45 years service in 1954 as director of production scheduling. He originated the Bathey Green Sheet, the daily schedule distributed to all the factories.

He was a Northville resident for 25 years and a member of the Northville Planning Commission.

His wife of over 70 years, Inez, preceded him in death in 1985. He is survived by a son, Doug Bathey of Naples, Fla.; two grandchildren; four great-grandchildren; and one great-grandchild.

STANLEY JOHN CROFT

Stanley John "Stan" Croft of Colorado Springs, Colo., died Thursday, October 4. He had lived in the area for 26 years before recently moving to Colorado. He was 69.

Croft was born Feb. 8, 1921, in Plymouth to Samuel Croft and Josephine Rattenberry. He was married to Eva B. Croft in Detroit.

Croft worked a mail carrier for the Walled Lake branch of the U.S. Post Office. He was a member of the postal union, a member of St. Paul's Lutheran Church in Northville and joined the Resurrection Lutheran Church after moving to Colorado. Croft was a veteran, having served in the U.S. Navy.

He is survived by his wife, Eva; son, Paul of Canoga Park, Calif.; daughter, Nannette Denise Grayson of Widefield, Colorado; sister, Margaret Slaughter of Baskum, Fla.; and five grandchildren.

Memorial services were held for Mr. Croft at the O'Brien Chapel/Ted C. Sullivan Funeral Home Thursday, Oct. 11. The Rev. Thomas Lubbeck of St. Paul's Lutheran Church officiated. He was interred in the Oakland Hills Memorial Gardens in Novi. Memorial contributions can be made to the Resurrection Lutheran Church, 4444 Moonbeam Dr., Colorado Springs, Colo., 80916.

CLYDE FERGUSON

Clyde K. Ferguson, 78, of Northville died Oct. 20 at home.

He was born Aug. 9, 1912 in Birch Run to Charles William and Sarah (Stay) Ferguson. His wife of 53 years, Thelma, survives.

Mr. Ferguson lived in the Northville area since 1937. He was employed as a tool and die maker for Bathey Manufacturing of Plymouth, retiring in 1974.

He was an active member in the church scout troop and the Association for Retarded Citizens of the Novi United Methodist Church.

In addition to his wife, he is survived by his children, Dennis Ferguson of Plymouth, William Ferguson of Northville, and Jolene Jacobs of Northville; and three grandchildren.

Services were held Tuesday at the Ross B. Northrop & Son Funeral Home, Rev. Charles R. Jacobs of Novi United Methodist Church officiating. Burial was at Rural Hill Cemetery. Memorials to the Arbor Hospice, Michigan Cancer Foundation or Novi United Methodist Church would be appreciated.

ALEXANDER MURPHY

Alexander P. Murphy, 86, of Northville died Oct. 17 at St. Mary Hospital in Livonia.

He was born July 5, 1904 in Scotland to Robert and Catherine (McCarroll) Murphy. Surviving is his wife of over 60 years, Jessie Conway Murphy.

Mr. Murphy was a chef for the executive dining room at the Ford Motor Co. for 44 years, retiring in 1967.

He played professional soccer for the German-American and Maltese teams. He founded the Shamrock Boys (boxing) Club in 1941.

He was an active member of the senior citizens at Our Lady of Victory and St. Edith's Catholic churches.

In addition to his wife, he is survived by his children, Barrie Murphy of Livonia, Patrick Murphy of Southfield, Kevin Murphy of Dearborn Heights, Thomas Murphy of Northville, Michael Murphy of Sterling Heights, Gerald Murphy of Canton, Hugh Murphy of Clarkston, Joy Fillipak of Mt. Clemens, and Colleen Neilson of Canton; his sister, Anne McLean of Toronto; 30 grandchildren; and five great-grandchildren.

Mass was said Monday at Our Lady of Victory Church, Fr. Frank Polie officiating. Burial was at Rural Hill Cemetery. Memorials to the Salvation Army or Mass offerings would be appreciated.

PAUL NITZEL

Paul E. Nitzel of Northville died Oct. 21 at Garden City Osteopathic Hospital. He was 73.

He was born Dec. 2, 1916 in Texhoma, Okla. to Harry G. and Hazel Shull Nitzel. He married Gertrude Cady, who survives him.

Other survivors include his children, Glenda Hurrelbrink of Plymouth, Paula Thompson of Dearborn, Larry Nitzel of Wayne, and Gerry Nitzel of Wayne; his sister, Opal Paulger of Plymouth; his brothers, Gene of Ohio and Dean of Northville; seven grandchildren; and two great-grandchildren. He was preceded in death by two sons and one sister.

He came to Northville in 1940, and was retired from Warren Products. He was a member of Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 4012, American Legion Post 147, and the Northville Eagles.

A funeral was held Oct. 24 at the Casterline Funeral Home, Rev. Eric S. Hammar of the First United Methodist Church of Northville officiating. Interment was at Rural Hill Cemetery.

The family would appreciate memorials to the Michigan Heart Foundation.

ALFRED WESTFALL

Alfred W. Westfall of Redford Township died Oct. 10 at Botsford

General Hospital in Farmington Hills. He was 79.

He was born Nov. 13, 1910 in Northville to Louis and Carrie Bufington Westfall. He spent his entire life in the area, and was a retired equipment operator for Wayne County.

He is survived by his sister, Grace Dethloff of Redford.

A funeral was held Oct. 13 at the Casterline Funeral Home, Rev. Eric S. Hammar of First United Methodist Church officiating. Interment was at Rural Hill Cemetery.

Marilyn Vosler is one of the owners of Niche & Corner in Milford

Niche marketing Milford shop is packed with items to fill a home

By Phyllis Keger Stillman

Niche & Corner may seem like an odd name for a store selling country merchandise. Marilyn Vosler, co-owner of the store, modestly accepts the blame. "I guess the name was my idea. We sell something for every little niche and corner in your home."

One look at the abundantly stocked store and you'll understand exactly what that means. But no one could possibly have enough niches and corners to accommodate even a tenth of the wares displayed.

The business didn't start out that way. "When we first opened up, we thought, 'Will we ever have enough to display for opening?' Now when the stock comes it's, 'Where are we going to put it?'" explained Vosler.

Vosler opened the store — located at 560 Highland Ave., Milford, in the Prospect Hill Shopping Center — with her daughter, Diane Macdonald, three years ago. They sell all sorts of things: 1928 jewelry; all kinds of dolls, from folk to porcelain; and country-designed accessories, like curtains, rugs and lamps.

What you see here is not always what you think it is: some items fool young and old alike. A local woman makes pies out of glazed salt dough that look just like real pies.

"The children will come in and they'll put their finger on the juice from the pie and they'll look at their finger as if to say, 'Why isn't it sticky?'" commented Vosler. "People want to sit down and have a piece of our juicy cherry pie," added Macdonald.

Even experts can be fooled. "We carry a line of antique reproductions; reproductions of rocking horses and carriages. The antique dealers come in and say, 'Now that's a real antique if I ever saw one.' You can't even tell ADVERTISING AND YOU: The Northville Merchants Association will sponsor a special seminar on "Advertising and You" at 6:15 p.m. Tuesday, Oct. 30 at Northville City Hall, 215 W. Main.

Guest speaker Diane Ryding, a marketing consultant, talk about how Northville merchants can increase their traffic and sales through successful group advertising. Pizza and refreshments will be available.

In addition, view the Northville commercial that has been airing on Omnicom cable, and find out what promotions will be televised. You can also see the many other advertising promotions the advertising committee has put together.

Also, find out what successful business practices you can use to draw new and old customers to Northville and your store. Learn what a six-month commitment to advertising can and will do for you.

DISCOVER NORTHVILLE: Coming in The Northville Record, a special insert to celebrate Northville. Flyers will also be available at sponsoring stores.

that they're reproductions," said Macdonald.

Vosler and Macdonald have tried to make sure that what Niche & Corner offers is unique. "We travel all over the United States looking for unusual and different things that maybe people haven't seen in other stores. A lot of country stores get to look alike after a while," explained Macdonald.

Just this year they traveled to country wholesale shows throughout the Midwest, plus shows in Atlanta, Texas and Valley Forge, Penn. Each show offers different merchandise, and each has its own regional flavor.

Niche & Corner also stocks the work of local crafters, who have stopped by to offer their services. Besides the pies, local people make rag dolls and bears, baskets and more, including a special line of furniture.

"We sell furniture, like the Shaker furniture, and we have several carpenters that do that for us that are local," said Vosler.

"People seem to like the furniture we custom make for them," Vosler said. "They may bring in a sketch and then we'll have the cabinet makers make it for them."

Vosler and Macdonald have always been a team; Macdonald worked as a secretary at the same school where her mother taught. When it came time for Vosler to retire, Macdonald, who had always wanted to own a business, quit her job and the two went into business together.

Although raised in suburban West Bloomfield, Macdonald always liked country things. "A country store is something that I always had a lot of interest in," Macdonald said. "I've always been interested in decorating our home 'country', and when I wanted to open a business I decided I might as well do something I knew a little bit about."

Niche & Corner has been doing quite nicely ever since. "People come back every couple of weeks to find out what we have new, and they tell their friends and neighbors," said Macdonald.

"We keep getting customers from all over. People will visit and they'll pick out things and then we have to mail them to them," added Vosler. One nearby business holds an annual summer program which attracts people from all over the country. Every year, summer program participants come back to visit Niche & Corner.

Niche & Corner appreciates their customers, and offers them something a little special. "We have a birthday mailing list that people sign up for," Vosler said. "We mail them a card on their birthday and they get 20 percent off on one item."

Vosler and Macdonald don't plan to change very much. "I don't think we're going to expand; we don't want to get bigger," said Vosler. They want to be able to handle the business themselves, so they can make sure that the store remains a haven for shoppers who are interested in high quality, unusual items.

MERCHANTS MEETING: The monthly merchants meeting will be held on Tuesday, Nov. 6 at Genlitt's at 6:15 p.m. All merchants are welcome.

RICQUE GOLF CO. of Novi has opened a new facility at 24371 Catherine Industrial Road, Unit 227.

The company, owned by Richard C. Young, specializes in custom golf clubs and accessories. The new 2,000 square-foot facility can accommodate a broader line of products, and features a showroom to display the equipment available.

In addition to the production of its own clubs and accessories, Ricque can repair and refinish all makes and models.

Young, who founded Ricque in 1986, is a 10-year veteran of the golf club industry. He has seen dramatic changes in the industry with regard to equipment.

"We've just begun to scratch the surface with high-tech equipment," he said, "and I anticipate seeing more of it in the years to come."

Twenty members of the Detroit chapter of the PUBLIC RELATIONS SOCIETY OF AMERICA recently earned accreditation.

Among them is Novi resident Eric Kosmider, director of public relations for the Jervis B. Webb Co. in Farmington Hills.

To become accredited, one must successfully complete oral and written examinations designed to test the candidate's knowledge and competence in the practice of public relations. The exam is given na-

UNTIL NOW, THE VALUE OF ADVERTISING WAS SOMETHING EVEN ITS STRONGEST SUPPORTERS COULDN'T PUT INTO NUMBERS.

They could cite success stories of advertising going into a market, how this was followed by a shift in purchase patterns, in market share, in immediate sales.

But no one expressed the value of advertising as return-on-investment until The Strategic Planning Institute did its study* called PIMS (Profit Impact of Market Strategy) with the Ogilvy Center for Research and Development.

The study found that advertising nearly doubled return-on-investment! The graph on the left makes it perfectly clear.

Brands that advertise much more than their competitors enjoy an average return-on-investment of 32 percent. Brands that advertise much less than their competitors average 17 percent.

The PIMS study provides the first systematic evidence that links advertising, profitability, and growth. It draws on more than 700 consumer businesses in North America and Europe, spanning the years 1970 to 1986—years of both rapid and slow inflation, both good and bad years of the business cycle.

The graph on the lower right shows further evidence. It represents the competitive performance of two actual brands over a 10-year period, as analyzed by Robert M. Prentice, a management consultant in advertising and marketing. He distinguishes between consumer-franchise-building (CFB) activities (whether advertising or promotion) and non-CFB activities.

Brand A used predominantly price-incentive promotions. Brand B spent approximately the same amount. However, most of the money went into consumer-franchise-building activities—particularly advertising and promotion.

In the first year, the two brands were nearly even in their category. But after 10 years in which they took dramatically contrasting approaches to the spending of marketing funds, they ended up in remarkably different positions.

Brand B had become a resounding success, not only in terms of its sales performance versus Brand A, but also in terms of its contributing profits to the company.

For brand franchise owners and managers, the insight into how advertising contributes to profitability will be as interesting as how much it contributes.

For more information, you can write to The Committee on the Value of Advertising, Department A, American Association of Advertising Agencies, 666 Third Avenue, New York, NY 10017.

Now that there's finally proof of advertising's true value, there's only one thing you need to do.

Take advantage of it.

The Brantley Wrap-around porch, columns and flanks, oh my!

By James McAlexander

The farm-style Brantley is a big house for a big family. Its wide wrap-around porch, tall, slender windows, high-pitched roof and wood siding combine to give it a definite turn-of-the-century look.

Inside, the living room and dining room carry out the theme, while the rest of the interior is more contemporary in styling. Columns and arches flank the entryways to both of these more formal rooms, and each is brightened by a large bay window.

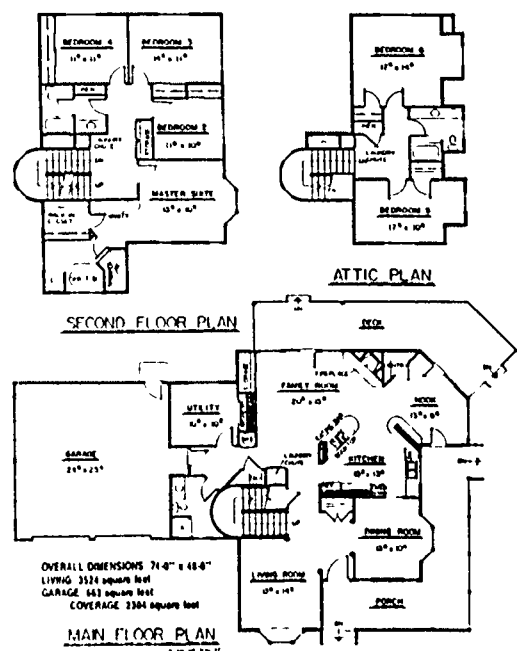

For the most part, family living will center around the great room at the back of the house. The big kitchen has a large nook as well as two eating bars—all a part of the huge family room. In this space, three people could be cooking, another group watching television, a third group playing games, and nobody would be in anyone else's way.

A walk-in pantry and a fireplace nestle together on the far side of the nook, and kids will love the laundry chute that extends up to the third floor.

The utility room is big enough to handle the workload. Utilities can be hidden behind pocket doors, allowing this room to double as an office or guest room if desired.

There are four bedrooms on the second floor and two more on the third. The master suite offers all the amenities, not to mention the elegance of a big bay window. It has a huge walk-in closet, spa tub, separate shower and double vanities outside the tub area. Another bathroom on this floor serves the other three bedrooms. It has its own linen closet as well as a compartmentalized vanity.

Three dormer windows expand the living space on the top floor. The bathroom here has another double vanity and linen storage is just across the hall, next to the upper access to the laundry chute. Slender windows, which wrap around the landing between the second and third floor, create a charming half-circular get-away nook, great for reading or quiet board games.

For a study plan of the Brantley (209-27), send $5 to Landmark Designs, P.O. Box 2307 CN, Eugene, OR 97402. (Be sure to specify plan name and number when ordering.)

The apple could offer the right prescription for your health.

PHOTO BY

"An apple a day keeps the doctor away" is more than just an old wives' tale.

According to bulletins available from the Michigan State University Cooperative Extension Service, apples, as well as containing respectable amounts of Vitamins A and C, are a wonderful source of water-soluble fiber.

This fiber plays an important part in maintaining health for people with blood glucose problems, or those with high serum cholesterol levels. An apple a day could very well improve their health.

One of the problems of the 20th Century is that the consumption of fiber-rich foods has decreased steadily since the early 1900s, while the consumption of animal products, which contain no fiber, has steadily increased.

Some think that this inversion has led to a proliferation of diseases and ailments that are related to low-fiber consumption.

Among these (for which increased fiber intake has been shown to be beneficial) are diabetes, diverticulitis, colon cancer, appendicitis, irritable bowel syndrome, hemorrhoids, and arteriosclerosis, which is associated with high blood cholesterol.

What fiber does is move food through the digestive tract smoothly and quickly. As described in a "Saturday Night Live" skit, fiber is "nature's broom." This quick passage means that there is less time for carcinogens and other harmful chemicals to be digested and absorbed into the body.

Without adequate fiber intake, food can remain in the intestinal tract two to three times longer than if the fiber intake was sufficient.

Today, the average intake of fiber in the U.S. is between 15 and 20 grams per day. Some researchers feel that this amount is too low for optimum health and suggest 25-45 grams per day, depending on body size.

One medium apple, eaten with the peel, contains about 3.2 grams of fiber, which is even higher than the fiber contained in a proportional serving of prunes.

The fiber found in apples is pectin, which is water-soluble, meaning that it absorbs water. When in the stomach, pectin forms a gel. This fact has great implications for those with blood glucose problems, such as diabetics. For these people, the aim is to maintain a normal blood-glucose level.

The Extension bulletins explain that the pectin gel in the stomach slows the rate at which food is emptied from the stomach. In the small intestine, this gel formation slows down the digestion and absorption rates, which may account for lower glucose and insulin levels in diabetics.

This same response has also been observed in non-insulin dependent diabetics, as well as people with normal blood-glucose levels.

The form in which the apple is eaten is also important. In its natural state, an apple eaten with its peel accounts for lower glucose levels than does applesauce or apple juice.

Apples are also an excellent source of complex carbohydrates, a good substitute for high-fat foods which raise cholesterol levels. The important news here is that the pectin in apples can also help lower serum cholesterol levels.

Pectin, which is normally not digested by humans, has the ability to "bind" bile acids and have them excreted from the body. These bile acids are usually absorbed and reused. When they are excreted, cholesterol in the blood is used to synthesize new ones, so the blood cholesterol level drops.

An apple a day can be an important part of a

Homesites up 62.5% nationally

By James M. Woodard

The price of homesites—land only—has increased 62.5 percent since 1985. That rate of increase is much greater than increases in the Consumer Price Index during the same period.

This was revealed in a recent survey and study by the Urban Land Institute. The study tracked residential lot prices in 30 major cities (metro areas) nationwide.

Median homesite prices ranged from a high of $230,000 in the San Jose, Calif., area to a low of $10,150 in Chattanooga, Tenn. The overall median price was about $30,000.

However, these figures can be deceiving. In a number of smaller but "hot" real estate markets the prices and value appreciation rates for homesites are much more dramatic.

A classic example is Aspen, Colo. Here, the average price of single-family homesites so far this year is $791,968, according to the Aspen Multiple Listing Service.

The newest residential site subdivision in the Aspen area—Eagle Pines—now offers wooded homesites for prices ranging from $1.2 million to $1.8 million.

Even with those seemingly high prices, initial response from prospective buyers has been stronger than anticipated, according to Bob Ritchie, one of the owners and developers of the new homesite development.

Ten sites are included in the Eagle Pines project. Four are already committed.

It should be pointed out that the sites range in size from 5.3 to 12.6 acres. They are located in a heavily wooded area near the top of Buttermilk Mountain, overlooking Aspen, Roaring Fork Valley and surrounding mountains—a 10-minute drive from downtown Aspen.

"Home-owners in Eagle Pines will be able to ski-in and ski-out of their community via the adjacent Buttermilk ski runs," noted Ritchie, who is a broker-partner of a major brokerage and property management firm in Aspen—Coates Reid & Waldron.

Aspen, of course, is a one-of-a-kind market. Ever since Jerome B. Wheeler left his position as president of Macy's Department store in New York City in 1884 to live in Aspen, this mountain hideaway community has attracted the rich and famous from points throughout the world.

Wheeler, incidentally, built the famous Wheeler Opera House in Aspen during the early 1890s for $90,000.

He also built the Hotel Jerome for $120,000. Both are still landmarks in downtown Aspen.

Today, homesites are being sold in the Aspen area for $1.5 million. Next year prices will probably be higher. That's how real estate values respond to a uniquely appealing location.

Q. What is a "portable" mortgage loan?

A. It's a new type of home mortgage that permits the borrower to transfer the loan to another newly acquired home. It's a method by which a relocating homeowner can save new loan fees, and the lender retains a seasoned customer.

These loans are not yet available to home buyers. But the concept is being studied and considered by several major mortgage lenders. A variation of the plan would simply give repeat customers certain pricing advantages.

When and if the special portable mortgage loans are offered to home buyers, it will be reported in this column.

Q. Is it common for adjustments in "adjustable rate mortgage" (ARM) home loans to be calculated incorrectly?

A. Unfortunately, it is quite common. Recent studies indicate that nearly half the existing ARM loans have been adjusted with incorrect calculations.

Reasons for the goofed-up calculations are often tied to an inadequate computer system. Or lenders use the wrong index—or wrong index dates. But regardless of the reasons, the errors can cost borrowers a bundle over many months.

It's a good idea to check the accuracy of adjusted figures periodically.

Inquiries are invited and may be answered in this column. Write James M. Woodard, Copley News Service, P.O. Box 190, San Diego, CA 92112-0190.

price for a homesite, in Care and soil factors to consider when planting bulbs this fall

By Patrick Denton

I often wonder what it would be like to have mountains of free time to fuss over the care of my garden. I fantasize about flower beds perpetually cleaned of dead blooms and offending debris, of pristine vegetable plots in shining weedlessness. Alas, such reveries present an ideal always just a little beyond my grasp.

Meanwhile, dearly beloved among the plants I grow are ones that require a minimum of care for a lavish return in beauty and bounty—the raspberries and peonies, for example, and the self-cleaning sorts of impatiens and marigolds.

The aspect of maintenance is one that many home gardeners will want to consider as they select and plant spring flower bulbs this fall. How much care will these plants need? For how many years will the bulbs bloom before needing to be dug, sorted to size and replanted?

Most of the small bulbs—crocus and snowdrops, winter aconites (eranthus), trout lily (erythronium), grape hyacinths (muscari), star of Bethlehem (Ornithogalum umbellatum), Spanish squills (Scilla sibirica)—will naturalize easily for many years until the planting becomes overcrowded.

And now, the results of research into perennializing tulips, daffodils and hyacinths give us some useful guidelines for getting as many good years as possible out of these popular large bulbs.

The trial involved monitoring plantings in different climate zones in the United States over a period of four years. The findings clearly indicate that given a few basic conditions hyacinths and tulips can be counted upon to flower well for at least three years. Daffodils will continue for much longer.

The three key factors contributing to long life in the trial plantings were a well-drained site, the selection of varieties best adapted to perennializing and fertilizing. Of these, drainage turned out to be the critical factor.

Bulbs grow best in deep loam or sandy soil. If a high clay content causes poor soil drainage, then time taken to improve the soil conditions will be important for the long life of a flower bulb planting. Locating bulbs on a slope, if this is possible, is one way to help ensure improved drainage. Mixing compost, peat moss or decomposed bark deeply into the soil will improve drainage and let air into the soil.

To open up a heavy clay soil for planting flower bulbs, or other plants for that matter, use enough organic matter to make up one third of the volume of soil in the bed. Coarse sand can be used at a greater rate as a substitute for the organic matter to lighten a clay soil, but the soil/sand mix will not hold nutrients and needed moisture as effectively as soils amended with organic matter.

For really good root growth in bulbs, a bed should be prepared to a depth of 12 to 14 inches. If beds are not prepared that deeply in a clay soil, the water that accumulates on the undisturbed clay layer makes root injury likely. If you must plant tulips, daffodils and hyacinths in more shallowly prepared soils,

Three key factors contribute to the long life of bulbs:

- 1. A well drained site.
- 2. Selection of varieties best adapted to perennialization.
- 3. Fertilizing.

plant them six inches deep rather than the recommended eight inches deep to the base of the bulb. This will allow space for root growth above a clay layer.

If your soil is very acid, add some dolomite lime as you prepare a site for flower bulbs. A pH between 6.0 and 6.8 is ideal. And incorporate a slow-release bulb fertilizer such as Bulb Booster into the soil at planting time and again each following autumn over the bulb site.

Here are some commonly available tulip varieties that were found to be superior for long-term plantings: White Emperor, Orange Emperor, Holland's Glory, Oxford, Merry Widow, Beauty of Apeldoorn, Parade, Golden Apeldoorn, Golden Parade, Monte Carlo, Golden Oxford, Gudoshnik, Orange Bouquet, Rosy Wings, Gordon Cooper, Maureen, West Point, Burgundy Lace, Orange Favorite.

For perennializing included varietal Follies, February Gold, Unsurpassable, Flower Record, Barrett Browning, Tete a Tete, Jumble, Suzy, Geranium, Cheerfulness, Hawera, Mount Hood, Sugarbush, Sniping Tom, Professor Einstein, Jack Snipe.

Among the best hyacinths were Blue Jacket, Deft Blue, Ostara, Jan Bos and City of Haarlem.

Best for bulbs

■ Bulbs grow best in deep loam or sandy soil.
■ To open heavy clay soil, use enough organic matter to make up one-third of the soil. Sand can be used but will not retain nutrients and moisture as well.
■ Bed should be prepared to depth of 12 to 14 inches for really good root growth.
■ If soil is very acid, add some dolomite lime — a pH between 6.0 and 6.8 is ideal — and incorporate slow-release bulb fertilizer.

WINTER CONSTRUCTION SAVES YOU MONEY!

WINTER CONSTRUCTION. The assumption that "You can't or shouldn't build in the winter" is a MYTH! Both modular and conventional construction is done in the winter months almost as easy as when done in the summer months. MODULAR CONSTRUCTION has many benefits including the fact that the structure of your home will never see the outside weather conditions. Also we can build modular homes up to 3,400 sq. ft. in styles of Ranches, Cape Cods, Colonials, Contemporaries, etc.

WINTER CONSTRUCTION WILL SAVE YOU MONEY: Typically construction slows down in the winter months thanks to the old wives tale. Because of this we have discounted our pricing for all of our homes being built in the winter months. (Specific dates apply) We do this so we can stay busy during the winter months.

NEW OPTIONAL CONSTRUCTION/PRICING METHODS: We have developed some new optional methods of charging customers. These methods range from owner participation to a complete - Turn Key Package, and Fixed Guaranteed Prices to a Percentage Over Actual Cost Program.

Washstand value increased nicely

By James G. McCollam

Q. This beautiful antique pitcher is marked "Losol Ware." Can you tell me anything about its origin and value?

A. Losol Ware was made by Keeling & Co. Ltd. in Burslem, England, between 1912 and 1936.

Your pitcher would probably sell for $35 to $45.

Q. My Currier & Ives plate is marked "Wm. Adams & Sons Ltd.—England." Can you tell me when this was made and what it might sell for?

A. Several Currier & Ives scenes were reproduced on earthenware plates made by Adams and other manufacturers during the mid-20th century.

They usually sell for about $25 to $35 each.

Q. I would like to know the origin and value of a one-quart pitcher decorated with flowers and foliage.

The mark on the bottom is an owl sitting in a crescent moon inside a circle. Over the owl's head is the word "Ivory."

A. The mark you describe was used by the Edwin Bennett Pottery in Baltimore, Md., about 1880. The company was in business from 1846 to 1936.

Your pitcher would probably sell for about $35 to $45 in an antique shop.

Send your questions about antiques with picture(s), a detailed description, a stamped, self-addressed envelope and $1 per item to James G. McCollam, P.O. Box 1087, Nobre Dame, IN 46556. All questions will be answered, but published pictures cannot be returned.

wellness plan. Of course, apples can never replace insulin for diabetics, and no one should ever think that they could. But apples are a nutritious food with healthful side effects.

For further information about apples and pectin, the following publications are available from the Michigan State University Cooperative Extension Service: "Dietary Fiber," Extension Bulletin E-1855; and "Nutrition and Cancer: Food Choices to Reduce Cancer," Extension Bulletin E-2196.

Other interesting facts about apples:

• Apples are Michigan's largest fruit crop: 1,500 growers have produced 22 million bushels yearly for the past five years.

• Apples accounted for $78 million in gross revenues in Michigan last year.

• Apples are one of the oldest cultivated fruits. Varieties have grown for at least 2,000 years in Europe alone.

• Apple trees appear in mythology, traditions, history and archaeology of ancient nations.

• Apples are mentioned in the Bible, the Hindu "Code of Manu," and the Egyptian "Book of the Dead."

• Apples are also mentioned in the earliest annals of China, Babylon and Egypt.

• Charred remains of apple trees have been found in the mud of prehistoric lake dwellings in Europe and are represented in ancient stone carvings.

• When stained, apple wood is fine-grained and hard enough to be mistaken for ebony. Apple wood is used for furniture, shoe lasts, cogwheels, buttons, and in the smoking of meat.

HAUNTED HOUSES: only for the strong of heart

and CRISTINA FERRIER
Staff Writers

Things that go bump in the dark, weird noises, ghosts, goblins and scary characters appearing out of nowhere!

Haunted houses have them all and this is the time of year for this popular form of entertainment to spring up across the country.

Although not necessarily credited with founding the concept of the haunted house as a fund-raiser, area Jaycees have expanded on the theme over the past three decades until each year gets to be more of a challenge for the promoters and more of a thrill for visitors.

This year will be no exception as a wide variety of haunted houses are scheduled to creak open to the public and continue presenting fun, fiends and spooks right through Halloween.

The Novi Jaycees' Haunted House on Ten Mile south of Grand River and the Salem Jaycees' Haunted House at Pontiac Trail and North Territorial are two of the closest to this area.

This year's Salem Jaycees' Haunted House is called "Count Salem" and is open through Halloween. Cost is $3 for adults and $2 for children under 12. It opens at 7 p.m. each night and closes at 10 p.m. Sun — Thurs and 11 p.m. Friday and Saturday.

The Novi Jaycees' haunted house is located in the city's old fire station for the first time this year. The two-story building, owned by the city, is usually used as a training center for Novi firefighters.

"Each room has a different scene," explained Becky Staab of the Novi Jaycees. "There's a swamp room, a coffin room, a ghoulish room. Everything is new and different."

Novi's haunted house opened last night, Oct. 24, and will be open at 7:30 every night through Halloween. On Friday and Saturday nights it will be open until midnight; the rest of the week it will be open until 11 p.m.

The admission cost — $4 for adults and $2 for children under 10 — helps pay for the Novi Jaycees' contribution to the city the rest of the year.

"This is our biggest fund-raiser," Staab explained. It helps pay for the Jaycees' needy family Christmas program, other aid to needy families, events like candidate dinners, and more. "We just do a whole lot for Novi," she said.

The haunted house brings in as much as $10,000 in a good year, or $5,000 in a below-average year.

"We need people to come out and show some support for us," Staab said. "I know there are plenty of haunted houses around, but the one in Novi is the one that goes to the Novi community."

Besides — "It's real scary," she promised. "It is a maze that opens up into different rooms. Along the maze there are pockets where ghosts jump out. And it's very dark."

But if you bring small children, she added, they'll let everyone working in the house know ahead of time and they will make it "less scary."

The amount the Jaycees' make often depends on how much goes into the haunted house. "This year it's costing a little more to build it because of the new location," Staab said.

The new location came for several reasons, the most important being safety.

"It's very important to have an entrance and a (separate) exit," she explained. "The safety of people is most important."

The Novi Town Center, where the haunted house has been held in previous years, now "has businesses filling all the buildings with no entrances."

Before the haunt was in Novi Town Center, the Jaycees had used an abandoned house in that location, which was later torn down.

Since then they've had difficulty finding an available empty house to haunt.

"The owners have to be willing to allow us to use it," Staab explained. "They're not always thrilled about letting us go through and paint all the walls black and build mazes and stuff. And then there's the problem of parking."

Another very unique haunted house a short drive away is the Milford Jaycees Haunted House, located on Milford Road across from Kensington Metropark.

Milford's house is so unique because it is prefabricated to be set up each year, then taken down and stored after Halloween. The walls are interchangeable, so each year's house is different from the year before.

Gary Goodnough, a former president of the Milford Jaycees, is a veteran of many autumns of setting up the house.

"It was built by the Milford Jaycee chapter in 1980 and was designed by Jack Fielder, one of the members then," Goodnough recalled.

Goodnough said Fielder designed the jigs to build the 8-by-8 foot plywood panels of which the house is constructed.

"Basically we have a pole barn that is portable," he said. "It's very sturdy construction with everything bolted together."

One year when the Milford Jaycees did not sponsor a haunted house, they leased their portable building to the Farmington Hills Jaycees.

"It had to be inspected by the building inspector there," Goodnough said. "He said it was fine and we only had to add fire-resistant paint."

With the movability of the inside partitions, the group can make nearly any configuration of rooms they want within the 22-by-48 foot structure.

"One year we had a whole room full of doors," Goodnough remembered. "One kid came in with about a dozen friends and said, 'Come on, I know the way out.' He opened a door and led them into a blank wall."

"We had changed the walls of the maze after he had gone through the first time."

In Our Town

Local artist's work displayed at Birmingham show

Creations by Northville artist Linda Banks Ord were displayed last week at the Our Town art exhibition and sale at The Community House in downtown Birmingham.

Our Town was a juried exhibition featuring Michigan artists and their creative interpretations of "Our Town" and its meaning to them. The program was to benefit The Community House.

The Community House, a non-profit organization established in 1923, is a multi-purpose facility that offers year-round educational, cultural and recreational activities for people of all ages.

Northville BPW

The Northville Business and Professional Women's Club met for an evening of networking and socializing last Monday at Genlitt's Hole-in-the-Wall restaurant.

Dinner was followed by a speech by Sidney R. Bonvallet from Value Management, Inc. The topic was "Stress is not a four-letter word."

The presentation focused on stress management exercises and offered activities such as self-discovery surveys in a light-hearted, interactive manner.

Basket Guild

The Mill Race Basket Guild is getting ready for a Christmas Walk basket sale. Members will be selling their baskets at the Mill Race New School Church on Sunday, Nov. 18, from noon to 5 p.m. Admission is free and open to the public.

The Mill Race Basket Guild, which was organized in 1983, presently has about 12 members and meets the first Wednesday of each month from 9 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. The membership is open to experienced basket weavers. Baskets of prospective members are juried. Anyone interested in joining the guild may contact Barbara Teupert, membership chairman, at 349-8345.

The focus of the guild is to nurture an interest in basket weaving. It offers support to its sponsor, the Northville Historical Society, by demonstrating basket weaving at the Fourth of July celebration, Colonial Days for the school children in the community, and the Christmas Walk as well as being a contributing member of the society. Members also participate at the Tivoli Fair.

Theater Guild

The Plymouth Theatre Guild, which performs at the Water Tower Theatre on the campus of the Northville Regional Hospital, will start its new season off with a bang with their production of "You Can't Take It With You."

Performance dates are Friday and Saturday nights, Nov. 2, 3, 9, 10, 16 and 17. Curtain is at 8 p.m.

Al LaCroix of Plymouth will direct a cast of 19 zany and delightful characters in this Moll Hart and George S. Kaufman comedy about the meeting of two very different families whose children are in love. Cast members include Ford Sutherland as Grandpa, Jacquie Rundell as Penny, Russ Dore as Mr. Kirby and Cathy Lietz and Frank Markus as the young lovers, Alice and Tony.

The second production of the season will be "Crimes of the Heart," a warm-hearted, humorous and passionate portrayal of three Mississippi sisters. Audition dates will be Dec. 3 and 4 at 7 p.m. The performance dates will be Feb. 1, 2, 8, 9, 15 and 16, 1991.

The final production of the season will be "Once Upon a Mattress," the delightful musical comedy based on Hans Christian Anderson's "The Princess and the Pea." Auditions will be at 7 p.m. on Feb. 27 and 28. Performance dates are May 3, 4, 10, 11, 17 and 18, 1991.

All performances are at 8 p.m. at the Water Tower Theatre, Northville Regional Hospital, 41001 W. Seven Mile Road. Tickets are $6 adults, $5 seniors (62 and over) and students (18 and under). Season tickets are $15 and $14 respectively. Group rates are also available. For further information call Karen at 349-7974.

Insight on raising children offered at library

How can you get kids to do what you want?

This age-old question — and others — will be answered at the Novl Public Library on Thursday, Oct. 25 at 7 p.m.

Eastern Michigan University Professor Nora Martin will present a program entitled "Motivating Parents to Motivate their Children." The popular speaker will cover three basic areas of learning, to share with parents the numerous ways that they can plan and interact with their youngsters of all ages.

Martin, a Doctor of Philosophy in Special Education, is a noted expert in the field. She has taught a number of courses relating to the subject, as well as acting as consultant on the topic at the Detroit Psychiatric Institute, Ann Arbor Public Schools, and other facilities around the country and Canada.

At the Novl library, Martin will show parents how to encourage and inspire their children. The program is free to the public, but registration is requested. Please call the library at 349-0720 for more information.

Fall color reaches peak at Metroparks this week

The brilliant colors of fall are in full swing at the Huron-Clinton metroparks, which serve the citizens of Wayne, Oakland, Macomb, Livingston and Washtenaw counties.

The Huron-Clinton Metropolitan

Authority reports that sightseeing is best at nearby Kensington Metropark near Milford and at Stony Creek Metropark near Rochester.

"The wooded, hilly terrain of Stony Creek Metropark and Kensington Metropark each have lakes that help enhance the beauty of the fall season," the authority reports. "The peak of the 1990 fall color season in southeastern Michigan is expected to be from Oct. 20 to Oct. 31, a bit later this year."

Vehicle permits are required at all Metroparks. Annual cost is $10 ($5 for senior citizens) or $2 for a one-day pass.

For details on fall color, contact the Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority at 1-800-PARKS.

Congratulations to Michael Mattis, a third-grader in Bruce Ricketts' class, for designing the winning logo for the Alternative Learning Program for Students (ALPS) logo contest. Michael's design will appear on program correspondence.

Parents beware if you are near Amerman on Oct. 31. Room parents are planning some frightfully fun activities for all the bewitching characters of Amerman.

Amerman teachers once again showed how much they support their school. Every teacher has joined PTA! We have a total membership of 476. We still need more parents to join to reach our goal of 100 percent. Since the teachers participated 100 percent, shouldn't the parents do the same?

Contact Dolly Dolle, 349-7431, if you still need to join. We have a second business membership from Michigan Composting.

Amerman staff is busy preparing for parent/teacher conferences, which are scheduled for Nov. 6-9. Be sure to have those all-important questions ready to help make the most of your meeting. Students will have half-days of school on those conference days.

Thanks to the generosity of all who ordered gift wrap from our fundraiser, our dream to purchase an "awesome" playground structure will be realized. A spiral slide, crawl tube, suspension bridge, climbing pole and log roll are just a few of the pieces that students can look forward to. It is our hope to have the structure in by the holidays.

Come to Amerman Oct. 26 and see your PTA dollars at work. Junior Enrichment Series is bringing back, by popular demand, contemporary harpist Onita Sanders from the Young Audiences of America. Performance times are 9:15 and 10:15 a.m.

He's coming! He's coming! Who? Santa Claus! The rumor is that old St. Nick has Amerman School on his agenda Nov. 17. We have scheduled our pancake breakfast and holiday shop on that day and Santa will be there to collect wish lists from those who have them ready. Mom or dad can enjoy the luxury of not having to fix breakfast if you come down to our cafeteria between 9 and 11 a.m. and feast on hot pancakes, sausage, applesauce and drink. Pancakes are all you can eat! Cost is only $2.50 per person. The holiday shop will be ready to serve you from 9 a.m. to noon. To help alleviate overcrowded conditions, door monitors will be on hand to control the flow of shoppers. All are invited!

No school Nov. 22 and 23 in honor of Thanksgiving Day. It's a great time to reflect with our children on all the many blessings we have.

Our next PTA meeting will be Nov. 6. Please join us if you can.
— Mary Mattis

SILVER SPRINGS

Silver Springs Elementary School has entered into a Partnership in Education with the McDonald's franchise located on Eight Mile and Haggerty.

Every month McDonald's employees will come to Silver Springs to prepare a "Breakfast with the Principal." Each classroom will select a student based on that month's theme (citizenship, leadership, dependability, etc.) and they and their parents will be treated to breakfast. The theme for October was "Students Helping Students" and the following were chosen: Megan Houslander, Nick Moroz, Tae Su Byun, Rafe Petty, Buddy Hammett, Timmy Walter, Elizabeth Sant, Scott Sherrill, Robby Ryan, Danny Shutt, Elizabeth Jeromski, Annie Hodge, Nick Strauch, Scott Wilber, Jason Albosta, Sarah Arndt, Natalie Thomson, Jocelyn James, Jason Van Wormer and Anthony Larosa.

Also as part of the Partnership in Education with McDonald's, Ronald McDonald came to Silver Springs on Oct. 12 and presented two assemblies. The theme for the lower el was safety, and for the upper el, recycling. Our thanks to McDonald's for these and other efforts they are making on behalf of the children of Silver Springs.

Safety has been a theme at Silver Springs this month. As well as the Ronald McDonald assembly, the students also benefited from a bus safety program on Oct. 12 put on by our district transportation department.

Our first roller-skating party of the year will be on Sunday, Oct. 28 from 5 to 7 p.m. at the Skatin' Station in Canton. Face painting and a haunted house will be featured attractions.

Our students are looking forward to a Book Fair in the library during conferences the week of Nov. 5. Parents are urged to come in and browse.

Someone from the Holiday Shop will be in the art room every Tuesday from 9:15 to 3:30 making crafts. If you have a little time to spare we could use your help.

The kick-off for our Morley Fund-Raiser will be Nov. 2 and orders are due back at school Nov. 12. All orders will be filled and sent home Dec. 5. There are many items that would make great holiday gifts. Please support us in our efforts to bring enriching experiences to all the children of Silver Springs.

Our next PTA meeting will be on Tuesday, Nov. 20 at 9:30 a.m. in the music room. Everyone is encouraged to come.

Weddings

Judith L. Taylor and Robert S. Bowling

Judith L. Taylor, daughter of Bernard and Janet Taylor of Plymouth, married Robert S. Bowling, son of Thomas and Barbara Bowling of Plymouth, on July 21.

Father William Pettit officiated at the double-ring service held at St. Kenneth's Church in Plymouth.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. Kelly Dyer of Chicago, Illinois, acted as the matron of honor. Serving as bridesmaids were Janene and Paula Taylor, Stacey Champagne, Kathy Denhard, Colleen McGillis and Tammy Garner. Flower girls were Michelle Sloan and Tara Bowling.

For the groom, Charlie Ploughman was best man, with David Taylor, Dennis Kunka, Richard Bowling, Kirby Lau, Larry Wilkin, and Gary Sutherland of Chicago, Ill., serving as groomsmen.

A reception for 250 guests was held immediately following the ceremony at Romas of Livonia.

The bride is a 1990 graduate of Eastern Michigan University, where she earned a bachelor's degree in elementary education, and is currently employed as a substitute teacher in the Plymouth-Canton school system.

The groom is a 1989 graduate of Eastern Michigan University, where he earned a bachelor's degree in finance, and works as an accountant at Michigan National Bank.

Announcements welcome

Wedding, engagement, anniversary and birth announcements are welcomed by The Northville Record.

Forms for all these events are available at the Record office at 104 W. Main St. in downtown Northville.

Photographs are returned if a stamped, self-addressed envelope is included. Otherwise they are kept at the newspaper office for a month after publication.

Here's the scoop on scary houses

October means football and colored leaves to most of us — to some it translates into one thing: haunted houses.

Area groups are putting the finishing touches on haunted houses and forests which will open this weekend and run through the end of the month.

Most of the events will be hosted by Jaycees, and these people have spent many long hours planning and creating houses of horror designed to frighten even the bravest at heart.

The Jaycees will use the proceeds from their projects to fund programs in their respective communities, such as Christmas Food Baskets, homeless and environmental programs, and local and national charities.

A listing of houses to visit in the area follows.

NOVI JAYCEES will haunt their city Oct. 19-31 at the corner of Novi Road, one block south of Grand River.

Hours will be 7-11 p.m. Sundays through Thursdays; and 7 p.m. to 1 a.m. on Friday and Saturday nights. Cost is $4.50 per adult with children under 12 paying $3.

For more information about the Novi haunted house, call the group's hotline number at 348-6684.

PLYMOUTH/CANTON JAYCEES dare guests to visit their haunted forest, located on the north side of the Ford Motor Company Sheldon Road Plant, across from the M-14 Sheldon Road exit. Ghosts and ghouls will take over the forest beginning Friday, Oct. 19 through Tuesday, Oct. 30. Ten tours lasting 20 minutes will begin at 8:30 each evening.

Reservations are essential, and must be made through Plymouth Parks and Recreation Department by calling 455-6620 weekdays from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m.

The Plymouth-Canton Jaycees advise guests that the forest trail consists of wood chips and sturdy footwear is recommended.

SALEM TOWNSHIP JAYCEES will present "Count Salem" Thursday, Oct. 18 through Halloween Night, Wednesday, Oct. 31.

The Count will appear at North Territorial and Pontiac Trail in Salem Township. Those wishing to make his acquaintance will have to do so between the hours of 7-10 p.m. (Sunday through Thursday) and 7-11 p.m. (Friday and Saturday).

Cost is $3 for adults and $2 for children under 12. For more information, contact Shree Gross at 348-9736.

MILFORD JAYCEES will hold their annual haunted house at Holden's Party Store on Milford Road north of I-96. The house is located across the street from the entrance of Kensington Metropark.

Haunting will take place over three weekends: Oct. 19-21; Oct. 25-30; and Nov. 2-3, with the house open from 7:30-11 p.m. weekdays and until midnight Fridays and Saturdays. Cost is $4 per person.

HOWELL JAYCEES will scare the wits out of Livingston County residents during their witching season — Wednesday, Oct. 24 through Monday, Oct. 29 at Howell City Park.

Those wishing to tour the Howell Jaycees house of fright must make reservations through the Howell Recreation Department by calling 517-545-0693. Tickets may be picked up at the Recreation Center on Grand River Avenue.

Cost is $3 for adults and $2 for children under 12. Hours will be 6:30-9:30 p.m. Sunday through Thursday evenings; and 6:30-10 p.m. Friday and Saturday nights.

Want to spend Halloween in Hell?

THE HELL CHAMBER OF COMMERCE will sponsor a haunted house at the Devil's Den, 4025 Patterson Lake Rd., Hell, Mich.

The house will be open through Oct. 31 from 6-9 p.m. weekdays and from noon to 9 p.m. on weekends. Cost is 75 cents per person.

The Devil's Den carries a full line of Halloween necessities, such as pumpkins, costumes, decorations and novelties.

Proceeds from the house will help fund Chamber of Commerce projects, such as the upcoming Buzzard Festival.

For more information about Hell's haunted house, call 878-3129.

Haunted house is top fundraiser

Goodnough said the versatility of the indoor partitions allows lots of changes and is something the Jaycees enjoy doing. They may even change it in the middle of an evening.

Last year they made half the house into one large room surrounded by any number of scary characters who popped up at unexpected moments. "People think they won't be scared, but they are," Goodnough said. "I really think some parents bring kids who are too young. We like to scare people, but not little kids and when we're standing there in costume in the dark, we don't know who we're jumping out at."

"I had to take a toddler and his parents out last year because it was just too scary."

Goodnough said the haunted house is designed mainly for teens and adults although he added people often bring younger children.

"We have elementary children and sometimes we have to stop and show them the way out right in the middle of the routine," he said. "All the parents have to do is tell us they need a quick exit and we are glad to show them. There are more exits to the building than there appear to be."

It takes about 20 people a night to run the Milford haunted house, Goodnough said, including costumed characters, ticket sellers, crowd control, safety control, refreshments and all the other areas that need to be covered.

While most of the help comes directly from the Jaycee chapter, often friends of members volunteer and sometimes visitors to the house like it so much they want to help. "We use it for recruiting new members, too," Goodnough said.

Milford's house this year will be open from 7:30 to midnight Fridays and Saturdays through Nov. 3. On Sunday and during the week it will be open from 7:30 to 11 p.m.

Goodnough said it takes a crew of really dedicated people to work on the house and staff it through half of October every year.

Last year's Milford house made $6,000-$7,000 profit. "Most of it went to the fireworks display we put on with Camp Dearborn on July 3," Goodnough said.

"We (the Jaycees) made the commitment a long time ago to do the fireworks for the town and this is the best way to make the money it takes."

Goodnough said construction of the prefabricated house in 1980 cost the club around $5,000. "We made that back the first year. When we opened up there were long lines of people all the time," he said. "Some went through once, circled around and got in line to buy tickets and go through again.

"We try to keep the cost to the public under $5 and sometimes we get too elaborate and inventive to make a lot of money. We just brainstorm ideas and let people really come up with off-the-wall stuff. Then, we decide how feasible it is. Costumes and props can cost a lot."

Probably one of the biggest expenses to a haunted house project is the liability insurance since the sponsors have to be protected in case of accidents to the customers or workers.

IT'S STILL GOING STRONG!

Zoo plans Halloween activities in Toledo

By Iris Sanderson Jones

If you are planning a day trip to the Toledo Museum of Art for the highly recommended exhibit "Impressionism: Selections From Five American Museums," take the kids along and have a little scary Halloween fun at the Toledo Zoo.

The Toledo chapter of the American Association of Zookeepers will once again host the Haunted House at the Zoo Oct. 27 through Oct. 29 from 6-10 p.m. It's for kids 13 and older, and costs $3 per person plus $2 to park.

Children of all ages will enjoy the Pumpkin Path, which returns to the Toledo Zoo for the fifth year. More than 500 carved pumpkins light the zoo's pathways, leading costumed visitors to different decorated stations staffed by zoo employees and volunteers. That's Wednesday, Oct. 31, from 5-8:30 p.m. Admission is $1.

Kids, you must bring an adult with you. For more information call (419) 385-5721.

Here are some other Haunting Halloween Happenings:

- In Saugatuck there is a Halloween Harvest Festival Oct. 26-27. For information call (616) 857-2300.

- From Oct. 26-28 enjoy a Haunted Halloween Walk in Trenton. Call 675-7300.

- That same weekend East Tawas and Tawas City are hosting an Oktoberfest at the city docks. Dial 1-800-55-TAWAS for more information.

- At Crossroads Village in Flint, Ghosts and Goodies abound from Oct. 26-30. Call 736-7100 for more information.

- Oct. 27 is a great day for scaring up some fun, with the following events featured: There will be a Halloween Scare Trail in the Dr. T. K. Lawless Park in Cassopolis. Call (616) 445-8611.

- Closer to home, the Detroit Historical Museum will host a Halloween Party. Get into the "spirit" of things at this costume party on the haunted streets of Old Detroit. For more information call 833-1419.

- Experience Sloan's Spooky Saturday at the Sloan Museum in Flint. Call (313) 762-1100. A Halloween Parade and Party will take place at Midtown Mall in Iron Mountain. Call (906) 774-0481.

- If you enjoy magic, the Magic Show at the Houghton Lake Playhouse will be the place to go on Oct. 27. Call (517) 366-5644.

- In Hastings, the Barry Country Expo Center will be the home of the Fiddler's Jamboree and Dance on the same day. For information call (313)434-3442.

- Visit Dracula's Dungeon Oct. 28-31 at the Gratiot Historical Barn in Ithaca. Call (517) 875-5043.

- The Shanghai Acrobats and Imperial Warriors of Peking, featuring acrobats, magicians and jugglers of the Peking Opera, tour the state the last week of October. In Jackson they will be appearing at the Porter Center Music Hall at Jackson Community College on Oct. 27. Call (517) 789-1600.

They will also appear at the Power Center in Ann Arbor on Oct. 28. Call 763-8587. From there they will go to Kalamazoo, where they will perform at the Miller Auditorium at Western Michigan University. For more information on their Kalamazoo appearance call 1-800-228-9858.

- Cranbrook Writers' Guild is auctioning off several Royal Viking cruises during its Literary Solree and Auction this Saturday, Oct. 27. Proceeds go to aspiring writers. The silent auction will be held at 8 p.m. (live auction at 9 p.m.) at Cranbrook House Library, 380 Lone Pine Road, Bloomfield Hills. Tickets are $25 per person.

The famous witchcraft trials of 1689 are reenacted at the Salem Witch Museum in Salem, Mass.

Everyday's Halloween in Salem

By Phyllis Kreger Stillman

It's Halloween every day of the year in Salem, the "witch city" of Massachusetts. But the chills and thrills are at high pitch for the seven days between now and Halloween.

The whole city participates in Halloween festivities. Costumed storytellers scare the kids with tales of haunted houses and pirate walks.

A group of magicians will hold a séance as they do every year, to try to make contact with the ghost of Harry Houdini. And this year they will do it at a secret location in Salem.

Salem is, after all, the home of the infamous Salem Witch Trials of 1692, when more than 200 people were accused of being witches, 23 were convicted and 19 were hanged. For years the town tried to live down its reputation; now they are living it up, especially on Halloween.

In 1689, the Reverend Samuel Parris moved to Salem with his family—his wife; a daughter, Elizabeth; a niece, Abigail Williams; and two slaves from the West Indies, John and his wife, Tituba. Few activities were acceptable for girls in the Puritan society, so Elizabeth and Abigail had very few outlets for their energies.

To alleviate some of the boredom, Tituba would tell them, and several of their friends, stories. Because of Tituba's background, many of these stories were based on voodoo.

Soon after the stories began, the girls started behaving oddly. They were subject to convulsive fits and constriction in their throats, and they often stared into space or cried out in what appeared to be hypnotic states.

A doctor brought in to examine the girls found nothing physically wrong with them. At this period in history, many people believed in witches and possession by the devil. Since he could find no other explanation for their affliction, the doctor concluded that the girls were under the spell of witchcraft.

The girls were repeatedly questioned as to who was casting spells on them. Eventually, one of the girls broke under interrogation and accused three women, one of them Tituba of being witches.

And that's how the infamous witch trials of Salem began—with the rantings of bored, repressed, hysterical girls. Years later, one of the girls asked for forgiveness in public, and confessed that most of what she and her friends said during the period was untrue and most of their symptoms were manufactured.

Two museums in Salem, The Salem Witch Museum and The Witch Dungeon Museum, graphically tell the story. A third attraction, The Witch House, is the restored home of one of the judges who served on the witch trials; he held pretrial hearings in his bed chambers.

The Salem Witch Museum offers a dramatic presentation of the story. Visitors are ushered into a darkened room. As a narrator tells the story of the hysterical girls and the inhumanity of the witch trials, 13 different raised stage settings are illuminated in sequence.

It is worth a visit in spite of the horrific tales told, like that of Giles Corey, an 80-year-old man accused of witchcraft. In an attempt to get him to admit his guilt, officials put a board on his chest and piled heavy rocks on top. Corey refused to confess and was eventually pressed to death. It took three days.

The Witch Dungeon Museum at 16 Lynde Street has its own horrors to offer. After briefly explaining the story, a Salem Witch Trial is reenacted by actresses portraying an accuser and the accused.

The helplessness of the defendant against charges based on myths and pagan beliefs is brought to life. (You must, however, be willing to be caught up in it because the judge and jury are represented by crudely designed mannequins.)

As the tour continues downstairs into the pitch dark dungeon, I had no trouble getting caught up in the spirit of the times. Mannequins are again used, in a much more effective manner, to depict prisoners in cells.

Prisoners were treated in a subhuman manner. Forced to pay for their room and board, those who could not afford better accommodations were housed in telephone booth-size cells, so small that the prisoner was unable to sit or even kneel, but had to remain standing at all times. The food was rotten and stale. And the water was salted so that prisoners would be even more thirsty and have to buy more water.

In this damp, dark dungeon, I could feel the despair the prisoners must have felt (even though this is not the actual dungeon but a recreation). To be treated they way they were and to live in darkness and discomfort must have sapped the strength and sanity of all but the very strong.

The Witch House at 310 1/2 Essex Street is, aside from its connection to the witch trials, an interesting place to visit. Built in the 1640s, Witch House is a good example of what the home of a wealthy person looked like during that period.

A circular fireplace in the dining room is designed to radiate heat out into the room. The front door is studded with nails, which were very expensive back then, pounded into the interior of the door solely to demonstrate the wealth of the occupant.

The tour of Witch House is lively, and the likely origin of everyday sayings based on early furnishings and practices are explained. (For example, the phrase "sleep tight" probably comes from the use of a board to tighten ropes which formed the bed springs.)

The Salem Witch Museum is open year-round from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. with presentations every 30 minutes.

Admission is $3.50 for adults, $3 for senior citizens, and $2 for children.

The Witch Dungeon Museum is open May through early November from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Admission is $3.50 for adults, $3 for senior citizens, and $2 for children.

The Witch House is open through the end of November from 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Admission is $3 for adults, $2.50 for senior citizens and $1.50 for children.

Despite the dominance of the witch theme, Salem has many other attractions. Nathaniel Hawthorne was born and raised in Salem. The setting for his novel "The House of the Seven Gables" was based on the home of his cousin near the harbor in Salem. The home, with its hidden staircase used when it was a stop on the underground railroad, is open for tours year-round.

Pioneer Village, the oldest open-air museum in the country, is a recreation of Salem as it was in 1630. The small village features thatched cottages with boxed kitchen gardens and tours led by costumed interpreters. The village also contains farms animals specially bred to resemble animals from the period. The Village is open from June through October.

Essex Institute Museum Neighborhood at 132 Essex Street was founded in 1848 and is a complex which contains several restored homes, galleries, a research library and a gift shop. During the winter the complex is open Tuesday through Saturday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Sundays and Holidays from 1-5 p.m.

Peabody Museum, East India Square, is the oldest continuously operating museum in the United States. Formed in 1799 by a group of mariners who brought back curiosities from their voyages around the world, the museum houses more than 300,000 objects, displayed in over 30 galleries.

The Salem Maritime National Historic Site is a nine-acre complex on the waterfront which has been restored and which illustrates Salem's illustrious past as a port—Salem was once the sixth largest port in the United States.

The National Park Service offers guided tours through historic homes and warehouses year round. There is also a garden which has been restored to the way it would have been in 1750, growing exotic plants and shrubs from around the world.

Haunted Happenings slated

"Haunted Happenings," a city-wide, week-long festival, runs Oct. 25 through 31.

There will be plenty going on to make Halloween as eerie as it was meant to be, including a haunted house, ghost stories, a spooky treasure hunt, and a pirate walk along the coast featuring gruesome pirate stories.

For those who prefer less-threatening entertainment, there will be a costume ball, a children's costume parade, magic shows, and a pumpkin-carving contest.

Local businesses and organizations get in on the act. In a Pig's Eye Restaurant hosts The 5th Annual Great Pumpkin Pig-Out, an all-you-can-eat Mexican Buffet and Costume Party on Oct. 27.

The Crystal Chamber, an occult shop, sponsors a Spell Casting Workshop on Oct. 30 where you can learn to live better through witchcraft.

Laurie Cabot and the Witches League for Public Awareness host a commemorative candlelight magic circle and a walk to Gallows Hill where those convicted of witchcraft were hung.

For those interested in the occult, a Psychic Festival on Oct. 27 will offer psychic readings of all types—from tarot cards to numerology.

The House of the Seven Gables offers night-time candlelight tours through the mansion, led by costumed characters from Nathaniel Hawthorne's fiction and life, Oct. 27 and Oct. 31.

An outdoor adaptation of "The Scarlet Letter," the novel written by Nathaniel Hawthorne, will be presented at different times throughout the week at Pioneer Village.

On the evenings of Oct. 26-28 and Oct. 31 there will be Eerie Events at the Essex Institute Museum Neighborhood. Costumed storytellers will tell mysterious stories about the local area (Essex County) in some of the historic homes and out on the grounds of the complex.

Historic home is toured

The couple planned to spend $250,000 to build their new house in Dearborn.

They wound up running over budget, with a final $2,421,033 payment for the 56-room mansion and the 1,369-acre estate at the banks of the Rouge River.

But money was no object for Henry Ford — the patriarch of the automotive barons — and his wife Clara.

Today, for the price of a $6 admission ticket, you can tour their home, Fair Lane. In 1957, the mansion and 210-acres were donated by the Ford Motor Company Fund to the University of Michigan for the creation of a Dearborn campus.

Construction began in 1914 and the following year the Fords and their only child, Edsel, moved into Fair Lane. Named after the road Henry Ford's father was born on in County Cork, Ireland, the Scottish Baronial-style manor was massively built of concrete and Marblehead limestone. Edsel soon married and left, but Henry Ford died in his bedroom at Fair Lane in 1947 and Clara Ford stayed at the house until her death in 1950.

Most of their belongings were auctioned off. Not until 1978 were the only original furnishings now at the estate returned, the Fords' master bedroom suite, donated by the Anshut family of Farmington.

While the home was considered less luxurious than those of many early 19th century millionaires, Ford prided himself on owning state-of-the-art mechanical equipment possibly surpassing that of any other private residence. This included a four-level, $244,000 powerhouse including Ford's private laboratory and a 12-car garage. His friend, Thomas Edison, a frequent visitor to Fair Lane, laid the first cornerstone for the facility, which ran all utilities for the estate, including electricity, hot and cold running water, vacuum lines for cleaning, steam heating and compressed air for hairdryers. A 300-foot underground tunnel led from the powerhouse to the mansion.

Ironically, a Rouge River flood rendered the boiler room inoperable on April 7, 1947 and the 84-year-old Ford, who lived for technology, died by candlelight.

While the relatively isolated setting of Fair Lane was chosen to distance the Fords from the social whirl of Detroit and Grosse Pointe, guests to the home included President and Mrs. Herbert Hoover, Charles Lindbergh, the Duke of Windsor, Harvey Firestone and naturalist John Burroughs.

The Fords' indoor heated pool was filled in after their deaths and the vast room now serves as "The Pool" restaurant, open weekdays for lunch. Ford, a vegetarian, was partial to soybeans and bottled Poland Water. Both are still served in the dining room.

Avid birdwatchers, the Fords imported 500 birds from Great Britain, which soon flew the coop. Hundreds of birdhouses and birdbaths — both frequently heated — enabled them to indulge in their favorite hobby while sitting on the sun porch with binoculars. Nearly 100 bird species have been spotted on the grounds, which is now an official birdbanding station of the U.S. Wildlife Service.

Like the family's flock of white peacocks, their lavish gardens where over 10,000 rose plants were tended by over 20 gardeners are long gone.

But the spectacular grounds are made for hiking. A meadow and pond were designed by renowned landscape architect Jens Jensen.

Tickets for the hour-and-a-half guided tour of the mansion are $6 for adults, $5 for seniors and children. Self-guided tours can be taken of the grounds. For information and hours, call 593-5590.

PRINT GALLERY ANDERSON EXHIBIT: The Print Gallery is hosting an exhibit of paintings by Detroit artist Janet Anderson. Anderson, who is known for her renderings of Detroit skylines and landmarks, is a graduate of The Center for Creative Studies.

She has completed numerous commissions including a 48-foot mural in the Penobscot building and a skyline update for the Metropolitan Detroit Visitors and Convention Bureau.

Recently, she has turned to painting in an abstract style. The paintings currently on exhibit are a spray technique including many found objects. They focus on the road and its personal and social implications, depicting an emphasis on the high contrasts of the fragile and overpowering.

The exhibit will run from Sept. 24 through Oct. 30. The Print Gallery is open Monday through Saturday, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. and Thursday 10 a.m. to 9 p.m.

Mustangs fall 27-13 in Salem rematch

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN
Staff Writer

Darrel Schumacher's worst fears — facing a much-improved and revenge-minded Plymouth Salem squad for the second time this season — were realized last Friday (Oct. 19).

In the WLAA crossover game, the visiting Rocks may have knocked the Mustangs out of the Class A playoff picture (see related story) with a 27-13 victory. The two teams first played back on Sept. 7, and Northville came away with a 21-14 road win.

"A wishbone team will always improve a lot during the season, and that's what Salem's done," Schumacher said. "On this given night, their offensive line was better than our defensive line. They really controlled the ball against us."

The loss — Northville's third in the last four games — was certainly well deserved. The Mustangs racked up 345 yards in total offense, but only managed a pair of touchdowns. A trio of early fumbles — two deep in Salem territory — set the tone early on.

The loss also put a damper on a spectacular passing performance by junior quarterback Ryan Huzjak, who has now passed the 1,000-yard plateau in just eight outings.

Most coaches say it's tough to beat a team twice, but Northville's defensive performance wasn't what Schumacher was hoping for. It was pretty obvious that the Rocks have made bigger strides since the first meeting.

"It's hard to fault an offense that generates nearly 350 yards, but all those turnovers were a major contributing factor," he said. "It could have easily been a 35-27 win for us if we hold onto the ball."

The Mustangs drove inside the Salem 30 on the first possession of the game, but Rob Subotich couldn't handle a pitch by Huzjak and Jake Dempsey recovered for the Rocks.

On Northville's second possession, Huzjak coughed up the ball at midfield, and this time Salem took it in for the score. A 31-yard run up the middle by Dan Burke set up a one-yard plunge by Chris Tebben at the 10:47 mark of the second quarter.

Huzjak moved the Mustangs back into scoring range on the ensuing possession with a brilliant 53-yard ad-lib run, but then fumbled the ball away, again, on another botched option play. Tim Galda recovered at the Salem 15.

"(Salem) was forcing Ryan to give up the ball early on the option and it messed up the timing," Schumacher explained.

Northville finally scored midway through the second half on a six-yard run by Subotich, but Brandon Hayes' PAT attempt failed. The Mustangs lost eight yards on another fumbled pitch during the drive, but converted a third and 14 situation with a clutch 26-yard pass from Huzjak to Jamie Miller to keep the march alive.

Mark Hilfinger's fifth interception of the season with just over a minute remaining in the half gave Northville a chance to take the lead by halftime.

The Mustangs drove from their own 32 to the Salem 15, but Hayes' 32-yard field goal attempt never happened because of a penalty.

In the second half, Salem tailback Leon Hister took over. He carried the ball eight times in a row in Salem's opening possession, and that set up a 13-yard scoring toss from Tebben to John Flynn. Less than three minutes later, Hister put the Rocks on top 20-6 with an electrifying 56-yard touchdown run.

"He definitely took over in the second half," Schumacher said. "(Salem) moves us up front and away Hister went. He has tremendous speed and quickness — he's dynamite."

Northville got back into the game just before the end of the third quarter when Huzjak connected with Bill Kelley for a seven-yard TD on a play-action pass, but Salem responded with a 73-yard march that ate up the next seven minutes and iced the win. Hister scored the touchdown from four yards out to make it 27-13 with 5:23 remaining, capping a classic, ball-control drive.

The Mustangs threatened to score once more, but Huzjak was intercepted by Pete Zantop at the goal line at the three minute mark.

Despite all the turnovers, Huzjak was 22-for-29 through the air for 260 yards and a touchdown. He also led the way with 52 yards rushing in seven attempts.

On defense, Bob Holloway (seven solo tackles, nine assists) and Hilfinger (nine solos, eight assists) were the leaders. Hister wound up with 165 yards in 25 carries.

'Baseline Jug' game is battle of 5-3 teams

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN
Staff Writer

It was a clash that could have meant a lot in the MHSAA playoff picture. But a pair of costly home defeats last Friday may end up taking a bit of the luster off the annual season-ending Novi-Northville football rivalry.

The two neighboring schools will meet tomorrow (Oct. 26) in Northville for the battle of the "Baseline Jug" and renew what has always been a hotly contested battle.

The playoff uncertainty arises because the fourth, fifth, sixth and seventh teams in last week's Class A Region IV standings all lost (including No. 4 Highland Park, No. 5 Northville, No. 6 Novi and No. 7 Taylor Truman). All four will be battling for the fourth and final playoff spot in the region this weekend and the winner of the Novi-Northville game may still have a chance.

"All of our (playoff) opponents lost last week, so we aren't totally out of it yet," Northville Coach Darrel Schumacher said. "There still is a faint possibility."

Novi's John Osborne — who took his team to the playoffs in 1987 and 1988 — agrees.

"I think there is still a chance, but obviously we'd have to beat Northville. Looking at it, I think Northville has a better shot than we do if they get past us. Either way, it looks very slim."

The Mustangs come into the game with three losses in their last four outings, but are probably the favorites this year. Novi is having its worst season since 1985, and must battle Northville's best team since '85 without starting quarterback Jeff Schram, who left last Friday's South Lyon loss with a ripped tendon in his ankle.

Northville's three defeats have come against once-beaten Farmington Harrison, once-beaten Plymouth Canton (both on the road), and twice-beaten Plymouth Salem last Friday. "I hope we can make it a good game, but I have my concerns," Osborne said.

The Mustangs have won the last two meetings, including a 10-7 victory last year on the road that knocked the Wildcats out of the playoffs. Northville also has the home field advantage.

"Hopefully, losing to them two years in a row will give us a little more incentive," Osborne said. "We go in as the definite underdog."

Schumacher isn't very comfortable with the role as favorites, and his apprehension is understandable. Northville has used its underdog status to great advantage the past few years. Keep in mind that a 3-5 Mustang squad stunned the same Novi team that went on to the Class A semifinals before falling to the eventual state champs from Traverse City by a point.

"I don't know if we are the favorites," Schumacher said. "Novi is bigger, physically, than we are and they have good speed. As a program, Novi's only lost a handful of games the last four or five years, so I see it as a very even game."

To the winner goes a 6-3 season, possession of the "Baseline Jug" and renewed hopes for post-season play. To the loser, a 5-4 campaign and a long winter.

Cagers trounce Western, 70-44

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN

Watch out.

The Northville girls basketball squad has developed into a solid team with tenacious defensive stoppers and a potentially explosive offense. The same team that lost five of its first 10 games has now reeled off four straight wins and six of the last eight, including last Thursday's (Oct. 18) incredible 70-44 whitewash on the road against a respected Walled Lake Western team.

Amazingly enough, the victory marked Northville's first-ever victory at Western. Mustang Coach Ed Kritch was looking for a win — but never dreamed it would come so convincingly.

"It was great to see," he said. "We've never scored 70 points against a tough team on the road before."

"It really surprised me how easily we won it. We have been playing great basketball the last two weeks."

Northville exploded for 20 points in each of the first two quarters, and junior winger Kara McNeil was a key factor. By halftime, she had poured in 19 points — already a career-high for four quarters of play. In the meantime, defensive-minded Karen Cavanaugh was holding Warrior scoring star Holly Miller in check, just as she did to Livonia Franklin's Dawn Warner a week earlier.

"Just like Franklin, (Western) also has a great player," Kritch said. "So we put Cavanaugh on her man-to-man and then played zone with the other four. She had only one field goal in the first half."

The Warriors opened the game by clogging the middle in an effort to contain Kate Holstein. So the Mustangs kicked the ball out to McNeil on the wing and she ripped the nets for eight first quarter points, including a pair of three-pointers. Center Stacey Nyland chipped in with six points — all on put-backs — and Northville opened a 20-12 advantage.

McNeil continued her hot-hand in the second quarter with 11 more points, but the big play came at the halftime buzzer when Laura Apligian launched a 60-footer than banged off the backboard and in, giving the locals a commanding 40-22 advantage.

"That was the exclamation point of the game," Kritch said. "It really ended the game right there because we went off the floor sky-high and all the Western player's heads were down."

"The amazing thing was we scored 40 points and only two were free throws. We had 17 field goals and that's a whole game's worth."

The Mustangs did a nice job protecting the lead in the second half. In the third quarter, Northville went inside to Holstein and she responded with six points, and then senior Allyson Kennedy added seven points in the fourth to close out a 26-point triumph.

"Western wanted to play an up-tempo game and against us, that's a big mistake," Kritch said. "The key is we've been able to shut down our opponents' big guns. We are forcing teams to find somebody else to beat us. Cavanaugh is a real unique defensive player with great quickness and tenacity."

McNeil wound up with three three-pointers and 23 points. She also added 14 rebounds and five assists, for a great all-around performance. Holstein and Nyland chipped in 10 apiece.

Miller managed just seven.

NORTHVILLE 52, FARMINGTON 21: The Mustangs extended the win streak to three back on Oct. 16 against the Falcons.

"I thought we were more talented," Kritch admitted. "But coming off the big win against Franklin, I was worried about a letdown. It was on the road and I told the girls we need to establish ourselves as a good team with a solid start."

They did. Northville quickly established control 16-5 after one quarter, and extended the lead to 30-9 at the intermission, with Holstein and McNeil combining for 16 points.

"If you're going to give us 30 points at the half, you're not going to beat us," Kritch said. "We play too good defensively. They couldn't figure out how to break our half-court trap." It was more of the same in the second half. Holstein led Northville's balanced attack with 11 points. McNeil added 10 points and eight steals, and Karen Pumpchipped in with eight assists and five steals.

Kara McNeil scored 23 versus Walled Lake Western

"It seems like, all of the sudden, we figured out we could play after we were very competitive against Plymouth Salem and Plymouth Canton," Kritch explained. "Then after we beat Franklin, the ninth-ranked team in the state, we got a big jolt of confidence and it's making a big difference."

The Mustangs (9-5 overall, 5-4 in the WLAA Western Division) will wrap up the regular season tonight (Oct. 25) at home against Farmington Harrison.

Hard-luck netters take 3rd in WLAA

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN
Staff Writer

After failing to qualify for the MHSAA State Meet by a single point on Oct. 12, the Mustang tennis team ran into more troubles at the rescheduled WLAA Meet on Oct. 16 — and in both cases Livonia Stevenson was a major roadblock. That would be frustrating enough, but Northville Coach Uta Filkin has been outspoken against what she believes is a case of line-up stacking by Spartan Coach George Croll.

"When a team stacks their line-up, there really isn't anything we can do about it," she said. "It's the coach's decision, but it's a shame when it happens."

Croll admits changing around his line-up early in the season, but denies any wrongdoing.

"I'm an honest person and I don't cheat," he said. "There is nothing wrong with changing your line-up early in the season to strengthen your team."

The hard-luck Mustangs wound up in third place in the 12-team competition with 15 points. Surprising Farmington Harrison — with All-American singles star Kort Davidson — took first place (17 points) and Stevenson was second (16). The Stevenson issue aside, Northville could have secured at least a share of the title with some clutch three-set wins during crunch time, but it didn't happen.

"We lost three, three-setters in the last round," Filkin said. "We also lost a match against a girl we beat earlier in the season. So right there, that's four points we could have had, but we didn't get any of them. It was just too many points to lose."

"We needed to win two of those four matches to tie for the title. It was that close and that's why it is so frustrating."

The tournament was played at four different sites in Livonia and Filkin was without her assistant coach, Chris Ford. The situation made for limited on-site coaching.

"It was a very, very tough tournament to play and coach in since it was held all over the place," Filkin said.

The first costly loss came at No. 4 singles, where top-seeded Kavitha Sriraman fell to Walled Lake Central's Laura Banion 1-6, 3-6 in the finals. Sriraman beat Banion in dual-meet action on Sept. 19 by a score of 6-2, 6-3.

The remaining three key defeats came in the doubles flights. At No. 3, Stacy Green and Kelly Woodsum were also seeded first and they advanced to the finals before running into Stevenson's Courtney Richa and Laura Perry in three tough sets (6-4, 4-6, 7-5). But according to Filkin, Stevenson inserted its No. 3 singles player and a No. 1 doubles member to form what was supposed to be their weakest doubles unit.

At No. 1, second-seeded Rebecca Bellamy and Melanie Apligian advanced to the semifinals where they came out on the short end of a 6-4, 2-6, 1-6 decision to Plymouth Salem's Kelly Kirkpatrick and Leah Szafran. At No. 2, Jenny Lower and Vicki Eppers lived up to their No. 3 seed despite falling to Julie Heist and Melissa Pendergast of Harrison (6-3, 4-6, 3-6) in the semifinals.

The highlight of the meet was the performance of No. 2 singles player Diane Vogt. She entered the competition unseeded but advanced to the semifinals with a pair of wins — including an impressive 6-2, 3-6, 6-2 victory over Canton's Denise Giblo. Vogt was eliminated by Stevenson's Chiara Granocchia (2-6, 4-6) in the semis.

"Diane had lost to (Giblo) twice in the last two weeks, so she played very well," Filkin said.

Karen Vogt was seeded third at No. 1, but really had no chance to get past Davidson in the semifinals. Davidson — the defending Under 18 National Indoor Champion — ended her run 6-1, 6-0. At No. 3, Shannon Price won a match against a Livonia Churchill opponent at No. 3 but dropped a 3-6, 2-6 decision to top-seeded Stephanie Geelhood of Walled Lake Central.

"To get as close as we did without getting anything is hard for the girls to take," Filkin said.

The Northville Express needed overtime to get past Northville Arsenal 2-1. Susan Hanson and Julie Ellis paced the Express. United slipped past Arsenal 2-1 thanks to goals from Lisa Joboulian and Lauren Metaj. Elizabeth Krueger scored for Arsenal. The Northville Express tied Plymouth No. 4, 3-2. Gina Deffatto and Jessica Chasson scored for the locals.

GIRLS UNDER 14: In Northville Cup action, the Express blanked the Rowdies 2-0. Karlyn Veres and Janet Harvey each scored a goal. Novi No. 1 handed the Express a 1-0 defeat. Carrie Dalziel and Amy Petricola were the MVPs. Tammy Cook scored three times to lead United past the Rowdies 6-0. Angela Dendel and Marsha Keller were the standouts for the Rowdies.

BOYS UNDER 17: Plymouth No. 1 beat Northville Arsenal 2-1. Jeff Ozanich scored and Mike Kapanski led the defense for Arsenal. Northville United topped Livonia No. 1, 4-2. The goals came from Emanuel Liben, Chris Harrison, Jason Petrie and Marc Chasson. In a cross-town battle, Arsenal and United battled to a 2-2 tie. The Arsenal goals came from Jeff Ozanich and Joe Scappatoci, while the United tallies were credited to Jason Petrie and Marc Chasson.

GIRLS UNDER 17: South Lyon nipped Northville Arsenal 2-1. Julie Holmes scored the lone Arsenal goal and Abby Semeyn was sited as the defensive star.

Recreation Briefs

McGREW WINS TWO: Tennis standout Mark McGrew has added two more titles to his credit this season.

The 14-year-old Novi resident defeated Mark Levine of Grosse Pointe Woods 6-0, 6-0 in the finals of a tournament held on Sept. 9 at the Birmingham Racquet Club.

Then on Sept. 30, McGrew topped Evan Hays of Ann Arbor 6-1, 6-1 in another tourney at the Birmingham Racquet Club. These two tournaments assure McGrew the No. 1 ranking in the Southeast Michigan section of the Boys-14 ratings.

McGrew will play one more tournament in preparation for the National Indoor Championships in Chicago in late November. He also plans to play a nationally sanctioned tournament in Aurora, Ill. this weekend (Oct. 26-28).

A respectable finish at the National Indoors will assure a top-25 national ranking for McGrew. A higher finish could push him into the top-20.

ALL NIGHT SPORTS PARTY: Grand Slam USA (42930 West Ten Mile in Novi) is presenting an All Night Sports Gala Party for boys aged 10-15 from 7 p.m. on Nov. 23 through 8 a.m. on Nov. 24.

Registration deadline is Nov. 16 and enrollment is limited to 120. The cost is $25 and includes a midnight pizza party, basketball, wiffleball, baseball, batting cages, sports movies, volleyball, contests, prizes and continental breakfast.

Call 348-8338 for more information.

SELECT SOCCER TRYOUTS, 1991: The Northville Soccer Association will be sponsoring a Select team for boys born in 1991 if there is sufficient interest.

Play will begin in spring of 1991 and tryouts will be held in early November. Anyone interested should contact Larry Schlanser at 420-0285.

NOVI TRACKERS: Membership in the Novi Trackers Running Club is open to all interested individuals regardless of age, sex or skill level.

Prospective members are invited to join the Trackers for either or both of their twice-weekly runs. The group meets Wednesdays at Novi High School at 6:30 p.m. and Saturdays at O'Sheehan's on Seven Mile in Northville at 8 a.m.

More information about membership in the Trackers is available by calling the Novi Parks and Recreation at 347-0400 or new President Bill Rossow at 349-3091.

Former Northville football star ED WALSH is having himself a fine career at Kalamazoo College. The 5-foot-10, 180-pound defensive back was recently named the MIAA Defensive Player of the Week for his performance in the Hornets' 24-14 upset win over Alma on Oct. 13. Trailing 24-14 at Alma, Walsh scooped up a fumble and ran it back 39 yards for a touchdown to spark the come-from-behind win. On the day, the junior added six tackles and a quarterback sack. Northville resident MARGARET DEMATTIA is a starting defender on the Washington University (Mo.) girls soccer team. DeMattia, an All-State performer at Farmington Hills Mercy, has scored three points for the Bears this season (one goal, one assist). The senior has started all nine games for 6-3 Washington this season. In 1989, she was named the Bears' defensive player of the year. "Margaret doesn't let anyone push her around and she's not afraid to mix it up — and that's what we need in the middle (of the defense)," Washington Coach Doug Hippler said.

Northville tankers edge Churchill 47-46

The Northville swim team beat Livonia Churchill 47-46 last Thursday (Oct. 18) in what has become a typical contest between these two WLA Western Division rivals.

A year ago, the Chargers nipped the Mustangs in the final event. This year, the locals had accumulated enough points prior to the final event — the 400-yard freestyle relay — to ensure the victory as long as Northville managed a second-place finish. They did it.

To offset Churchill's strength in the freestyle events, the Mustangs focused their attention on all the other events. As a result, Northville won all the non-freestyle events, and it was enough for a narrow victory.

In the 200 medley relay, the team of Jodi Wesley, Teri Juhasz, Pam Holdridge and Megan Holmberg was victorious. Wesley and Juhasz came back to finish 1-2 in the 200 IM.

Top diver Beth Frayne injured a foot in warm-up, but sophomore Lisa Hojnacki picked up the slack to win the event in her absence. Amy Cristof placed third.

Northville continued its domination in the specialty events with a state-qualifying effort by Hol-bridge in the 100 butterfly. Brenda Newton chipped in a third.

Holmberg, who's only been beaten once in the event all season, notched a win in the 100 butterfly. Claire Cryderman and Juhasz then teamed for a 1-2 sweep in the 100 breaststroke to ice the win.

There were also impressive performances in the freestyle events, including a slew of seconds: Cryderman in the 200 freestyle, Holmberg in the 50 freestyle, Wesley in the 100 freestyle and Allison Sieving in the 500 freestyle.

Golfers place 11th at state tournament

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN
Staff Writer

With just one score that could be considered "good," the Northville golf team did not perform very well at the 62nd annual Lower Peninsula Boys Golf Finals on Oct. 20 in East Lansing.

Hoping for a top-five finish, the Mustangs received just one sub-80 score and wound up placing 11th overall with a team score of 337. Birmingham Brother Rice won the team title with a 314 score at the 6,400-yard Forest Akers West course on the Michigan State campus.

"All the scores were kind of high, but it was cold early on a very windy," Mustang Coach Don Morgan said. "I was kind of hoping to be in the top five, but we got only one good score."

That score came from a familiar figure: senior standout Chris Lemmon. He fired a seven-over-par 78 for 18 holes, which was just four strokes off the pace (set by Ypsilanti's Chris Storm) and tied Lemmon for seventh place overall.

"From what I understand, Chris was scrambling a bit so he was apparently lucky to get a 78, but he was right in there with the leaders," Morgan said.

The rest of the Northville contingent included Jason Sherman (85), Matt Telepo (85), Mike Fischer (89) and Kevin Krupansky (90).

"As you can see, all those guys were scoring way over their averages," Morgan said. "I know Telepo was a bit nervous, but that's understandable for a freshman. It's hard to say what happened to the rest of the guys."

"I think Sherman had a bit of senior-itis this season and Krupansky was probably our most improved player, and he turns in a 90. It's hard to explain."

As for Lemmon, he is in the running for all-state honors and is already drawing attention from some college teams, including Michigan State and Michigan.

"I think Chris has a good chance (for all-state honors)," Morgan said. "I don't think there is any doubt that he is up near the best players in the state."

Canton runners top Mustang boys, girls

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN
Staff Writer

Plymouth Canton has been a thorn in Northville's side for years in cross country. The Chiefs continued that trend with a pair of lopsided victories over the Mustang boys and girls runners on Oct. 18.

For the first time in a long time, the Northville girls had already sewn up a winning dual-meet record heading into the Canton clash. But the Chiefs seemed unimpressed and swept the top three places to quickly end any hopes of an upset, 20-35. The Mustangs did place five runners in the top 10, but Canton's strength at the top was the difference.

"(Canton) seemed to be tougher this year than they've been in the past three years," Northville Coach Nick Dunwoodie said. "I thought we ran pretty well, but we are banged up a bit with injuries. So we did well under the conditions."

Marcie Dart paced the Mustangs with a 22:16 effort, but it was nearly 40 seconds off the pace and good for third place overall. She was followed by Kamal Bagga in fifth (22:25), Amy Goode in seventh (22:36), Michelle McQuaid in ninth (23:05), Cheryl Mittman in 10th (23:11), Michelle Splan in 13th (24:13) and Laura Thomas in 14th (24:28).

"We had five runners in the top 10, but Canton was a bit quicker," Dunwoodie said. "They put the top three across, and that's an automatic win for them."

Northville ends the regular season 4-2 overall and 3-2 in the WLAA Western Division, good for third place behind Canton and Walled Lake Western.

BOYS CROSS COUNTRY: By pushing seven of the top eight finishers across the line, the Chiefs nearly shut out the Mustang boys 18-45.

"It wasn't the kind of effort I had hoped for," Northville Coach Ed Gabrys said. "We put one kid in the top eight."

"I wouldn't say we ran real well. Our pack time wasn't where it should be at this point in the season. The gap between our second and sixth runner was 50 seconds, and it should be down around 30. The track was slow, but we need to overcome things like that."

Steve Coon broke up the parade of Canton finishers by placing third overall in 17:47. The rest of the Mustang runners included Andy Haas in ninth (19:04), Parag Parikh in 10th (19:26), Jamie Groves in 11th (19:33), Mike Connery in 12th (19:34), Doug Huntington in 13th (19:55) and Dave Borg in 14th (20:19).

The loss drops Northville to 3-3 overall and 2-3 in the WLAA Western Division. The Mustangs finished in fourth place in the six-team division behind Canton, Walled Lake Western and Livonia Franklin.

Study examines sleep disorders

By SUZANNE HOLLYER
Staff Writer

Auto accidents, falls and even industrial accidents can cause a closed-head injury. When the victim recovers and returns to a normal life, he or she may be left with a few problems the doctor didn't mention.

Doctors have known for over 20 years that several weeks or even a few minutes of unconsciousness caused by a closed-head injury could lead to memory loss.

They have known for over 10 years that personality changes could result from such an injury.

But more recently, research has found closed-head injuries can lead to sleep disorders.

A closed-head injury is a head wound that does not result in an open wound — the skin is not broken, said Dr. R.B. Sangal, director of the Sleep Disorders Institute in West Bloomfield.

Sleep centers are located in the brain's limbic system. Because closed-head injuries often include minor injuries throughout the brain, sleep disorders can result.

Typically, patients may be unconscious for between a few minutes and many weeks. Most victims go to the hospital for treatment of a closed-head injury.

Doctors do not always know that sleep disorders can result from such an injury because the connection was just recently discovered, Sangal said.

The sleep-related problems are collectively known as post-traumatic sleep disorders.

The problems range from somnolence to violent behavior in sleep.

Somnolence, the most common problem, is a "more complicated term for sleepiness," Sangal said.

The exact reason somnolence develops after a closed-head injury is unclear, but post-traumatic weight gain could contribute. Excessive weight causes sleep apnea or snoring. The treatment for somnolence caused by excessive weight is the same as for sleep apnea: weight loss or upper airway surgery.

INTERNAL STRUCTURE OF THE BRAIN

Normal sleep at night with daytime somnolence could be cured by non-addictive medicines. The Sleep Disorders Institute conducts sleep studies on patients to diagnose the sleep disorder and prescribe a treatment.

Insomnia can develop after an injury. The problem is most often in staying asleep for an entire night, rather than initially getting to sleep.

Sleep walking, violent or abnormal behavior in sleep can occur after a closed-head injury, Sangal said.

The patient could be having a sleep-related seizure or a rapid eye movement (REM) behavior disorder. Sleep studies help doctors diagnose the exact problem and decide on a treatment.

The sleep study requires a patient to sleep at the clinic, Sangal said.

The patient sleeps in a private room following his or her normal routine.

"We want to find out what their patterns are like at home," Sangal said.

The study helps diagnose problems, determine appropriate treatments and determine when the problem has been resolved.

With a disorder like somnolence, the sleep study is important in determining if the somnolence has been eliminated. Driving and machine work should be avoided until the study shows the treatment has been successful.

'Fitness Over 50' classes scheduled

A one-hour exercise program called "Fitness Over 50" is held Monday and Wednesday mornings at Twelve Oaks Mall. It takes place 9-10 a.m. in the Lord & Taylor corridor near the east entrance.

The program, conducted by the University of Michigan Division of Physical Education, is particularly aimed at older people and others who would benefit from an invigorating but non-strenuous exercise program.

Fitness Over 50 welcomes all interested persons, regardless of age and current activity level. Call the Twelve Oaks Management Office, 348-9438, for further information.

OPEN POOL: The Novi High School pool will be open to the public on Tuesdays and Thursdays through December 20. The open swim will be from 7-8:30 p.m. with the lap swim following from 8:30-9:30 p.m.

The fee is 50 cents per person and senior citizens are free. The pool will be closed on the following dates: Oct. 23 and Nov. 22.

Children age 10 and under must be accompanied by an adult.

NEW ATTITUDE AEROBICS: The Northville Community Recreation Department has the fitness program designed to meet your needs: low- and high-impact aerobic alternatives with toning and shaping floorwork, fun and easy-to-follow workouts.

New Attitude Aerobics conducts the one-hour class year-round at the Community Recreation gymnasium the following days: Monday, Wednesday and Friday at 9:15 a.m.; Monday and Wednesday at 5:45 p.m.; Tuesday and Thursday at 7 p.m. and Saturday at 8 a.m. Morning and evening child care is available.

For more registration and scheduling information, call 349-0203 or 348-3120.

YOGA CLASSES: Seven-week yoga classes are being offered in Northville this fall. Diane Siegel-

Fitness Notes

DiVita, past president of the Yoga Association of Greater Detroit, is the instructor.

The classes will be offered on Thursdays (7-8:30 p.m.) or Sundays (10:10-11:40 a.m.) at the Northville American Legion Hall. Yoga effectively trains the body to develop strength, flexibility and balance.

Cost is $28. For more information, call Siegel-DiVita at 344-0928.

WEIGHT WATCHERS: Weight Watchers, the internationally recognized weight loss program, meets every Wednesday at the Northville Community Center at 9:45 a.m. and 6 p.m.

Registration fee is $17 plus a weekly fee of $9. For more information, call Diana Kutzke at 287-2900.

AEROBIC FITNESS INC.: A fitness program called "Aerobic Fitness Inc." is now being offered. The one-hour program is designed to stretch, trim and tone. Six-week classes run continuously throughout the year.

Fee is $33 (two classes per week), $45 (three classes), and $55 (unlimited). For more information, call 348-1280.

ASK-A-NURSE REFERRAL: "Ask-a-nurse," the new 24-hour health information and physician referral line sponsored by five Mercy hospitals in Southeast Michigan, is offering a new speakers bureau to community groups. Program director Linda Hintze, R.N. and registered nurses who man the telephone lines seven days a week, 365 days a year, will be available to speak to groups of 15 or more about the calls they receive and how they help callers locate physicians and health or community information.

Requests should be made at least three weeks before the intended speaking engagement. There is no charge for the service and participants will give valuable information about how this service can help them day or night. For more information or to make a reservation, please call the ASK-A-NURSE office at Catherine McAuley Health Center toll-free at 1-800-526-MERCY (1-800-526-3729) or in the Ann Arbor area, (313) 572-5500.

"Ask-a-nurse" is a free community health information and physician referral service of five Sisters of Mercy Hospitals: Catherine McAuley Health Center-Ann Arbor, Mercy Hospital-Port Huron, Mercy Hospitals and Health Services in Detroit which includes Mount Carmel Mercy Hospital and Samaritan Health Center, and St. Joseph Mercy Hospital-Pontiac.

MERCY CENTER CLASSES: The Mercy Center, located on Eleven Mile between Middlebelt and Inkster roads in Farmington Hills, is offering a wide variety of swimming and fitness classes in 1990.

Mercy is offering open swimming daily from 6:30-8 a.m. and on Saturdays from 7:30-9 a.m. In addition to several fitness classes: like the Trim-Gym-Fitness Class, the Pool and Gym Class and the Coed Trim and Swim Fitness Class.

CPR CLASSES: Botsford General Hospital in Farmington Hills is offering adult CPR classes and infant/child CPR classes.

The adult program is offered the first Thursday of every month in the Administration and Education Center from 7-10 p.m. Pre-registration is required.

The infant/child program is offered the first Monday of every month in the Administration and Education Center from 7-10 p.m. Preregistration is also required.

Fee is $5 for each class. Call 471-8090 for more information.

Environment plays a part in health care

By JUDITH BEHN, M.D.
Special Writer

The earth's biosphere is an intricately balanced home that the human family shares with other plant and animal species. These living things provide us with the oxygen to breathe, food to eat and raw materials for our economy.

But they also provide us with something else: a heritage of natural beauty, a living context by which we define our humanity and a legacy we must pass on to future generations.

By preserving as much of the natural environment as possible, we can also preserve opportunities for advancing health care. For example, one in four pharmaceuticals are currently derived from plant species found in tropical rain forests. About 70 percent of plants identified as being useful in cancer treatment are found only in rain forests and 1,400 rain forest plants may have the potential to provide cures for cancer.

Ultimately, if humanity is to survive on planet Earth, other plant and animal species must also survive. A chain of life connects all living things in our global ecosystem. And it is up to us, through the choices we make every day, to save every link we can. For example:

- Stop buying products made from endangered species. Avoid tropical hardwoods, ivory, reptile skin, tortoise shell and fur products.
- Plant trees. Trees turn carbon dioxide into oxygen, prevent erosion and can lower cooling costs when properly planted around a house.

● Plant a garden. Grow your own fresh fruits and vegetables and participate in America's most popular recreational pursuit.

● Eat lower on the food chain. This means eating less meat and more grains, fruits and vegetables. For each pound of beef you don't eat, you save 16 pounds of grain and soybeans, 2,500 gallons of water and the energy equivalent of one gallon of gasoline.

● Support environmental causes. Join or support organizations working in environmental areas you believe in.

● Get politically involved. Work with political leaders on issues such as recycling, market incentives for alternative power sources and other environmental topics.

● Encourage your workplace to be more environmentally responsible. Promote energy efficiency, recycling, car-pooling and other earth-friendly programs.

The Now News is working with medical authorities at the University of Michigan Medical Center (M-Care) in Northville to provide up-to-date information on a variety of health-related topics. The series is coordinated by Peg Campbell of the M-Care staff.

Enter and you could WIN a HOUSEFUL of beautiful and efficient OMNI® windows!

IT IS WHAT'S INSIDE THAT COUNTS...THE OMNI® DIFFERENCE

- Inside OMNI®'s vinyl framework is 100% pure virgin vinyl, no fillers or ground scrap vinyl. Beautiful and durable, OMNI®'s vinyl framework will never need painting, puttying or scraping. You can relax because OMNI® windows are virtually maintenance FREE!
- Inside the core of every OMNI® window is a galvanized steel super structure. Wood or vinyl windows without reinforcement will sag and bow in a year or two. OMNI® has created a window that will never warp, sag, stick, leak or corrode. Our exclusive reinforced design is so unique that only OMNI® windows come with a LIFETIME TRANSFERABLE LIMITED WARRANTY – our promise to you of quality, durability and value.
- Inside the triple pane glass are TWO spaces of dead air for extra insulation. Together, they keep the inside glass surface closer to room temperature, eliminating drafts, cold spots and condensation.
- Inside the interior pane of glass is space-age X.P.E., a transparent insulation that is poured directly into the pane while the glass is still in its molten state. Space-age X.P.E. will keep your home warmer in winter and cooler in summer. X.P.E. even protects your valuable furnishings by filtering out harmful ultraviolet rays. OMNI® windows with X.P.E. triple pane protection are so energy efficient you will NEVER need storm windows again!
- Inside, cleaning is a snap! BOTH upper and lower sashes tilt in smoothly and easily. No more dangerous ladders to climb, now you can clean the outside glass from the inside of your home any time of year.
- Inside security gives you peace-of-mind. All OMNI® windows have premium, chrome-plated, double sash locks and an extruded inter-lock rail where the sashes meet. Tight and secure, OMNI® windows provide your family with the comfort and security they deserve.
- Inside your home OMNI® really makes a difference! NO other replacement window has OMNI®'s exclusive construction. For quality, durability, value, beauty and security OMNI® windows are clearly the best window system available today!

Start earning triple tax- free income!

The Franklin Michigan Insured Tax-Free Income Fund is a portfolio of insured municipal bonds designed to give you these advantages:

Triple tax-free income: The dividend income you receive is free from federal, Michigan state and many city income taxes.[†] Shares are also free from Michigan intangibles tax.

Insurance for additional safety: Each municipal bond in the fund's portfolio is insured as to the scheduled payment of principal and interest.^{††}

Monthly dividends: Receive your dividend income in cash or automatically reinvest it at the current offering price for compounded returns.

Professional management: Franklin has been managing investments since 1947 and currently manages more than $42 billion in assets for its family of 56 funds.

Easy access to your money: Shares are redeemed at the then current net asset value which may be more or less than your cost.
