Voters approve township fire millage

By MIKE TYREE

Township officials felt plenty of heat after voters rejected a fire department millage request last August, but were feeling cool and breezy after the general election smoke cleared on Tuesday.

One of the largest voter turnouts in township history helped extinguish opposition to a five-year, .33-mill proposal for fire department funding.

Unofficial results indicated voters supported the fire millage request by a 3,173-2,474 margin, Clerk Tom Cook said. Just over 6,000 township residents cast ballots in the general election, a total exceeded only by voters in the 1984 and 1988 general elections. Turnout was just over 51 percent.

In contrast, only 2,377 residents voted in the August primary. The fire millage was rejected at that time by 171

Township Supervisor Georgina Goss said the township board will discuss additions to the fire department budget at the 1991 budget adoption session tonight at

"There will be specific additions to the fire department budget for the board to consider," she said.

The budget adoption will be preceeded by a 7 p.m. public hearing. The margin of victory highlighted resident support of the fire department, Assistant Fire Chief Rick Rosselle

"I think the people just woke up and smelled the coffee," Rosselle said. "I think voters were mislead in August by the people (Citizens) for a Better Northville.

"They were really trying to ruin Northville," he said. Rosselle was referring to a group of residents that campaigned against a .5-mill fire funding request in August. The group did not publicly oppose the millage until last week, but did distribute anti-millage flyers just prior to the election.

 $Citizens \ for \ a \ Better \ Northville \ member \ Rick \ Engelland$ last week urged defeat of the millage because he said it would not benefit the fire department.

But voters rejected that claim. The millage is expected to generate approximately $135,000 for the fire department in its first year, and should raise about $800,000 over five years, township Finance Director James Gra-

A key to the fire millage win was a straightforward approach to millage numbers. Rosselle said. The township board placed a .5-mill figure on the August primary ballot, but confusion clouded the issue after officials were rague about the amount to be levied.

After the unexpected loss in August, the board resubmitted the millage request at .33 mill.

"I don't think they knew (in August) what they were voting for," Rosselle said. "More people came out to vote this time."

Goss had opposed a move to place the millage on the general election ballot, but was pleased with the outcome.

This was a critical issue and I appreciate voter support of our excellent fire department," she said.

The department was scheduled to be funded in full by the general fund in 1991. Additional funds will free up money to be spent elsewhere or increase township fund

One more step

Hundreds watch Mustangs advance to Round 2

By BOB and DAWN NEEDHAM Mustang Fans

Northville moved to Wyandotte for a couple of hours Friday night as hundreds of Mustang supporters cheered their team on to a 23-22 overtime victory in the first round of the Class A state football playoffs.

Northville beat Theodore Roosevelt High School in grand style. with a tough goal-line stand in overtime. But Rachel Held and Dawn Donnelly expected it all along.

'YES!" the students screamed when asked, with the score tied, if Northville would win.

Students made up a good share of the crowd packing the visitors' stands to overflowing. "We're here to root on the guys - our Posse," Donnelly explained.

"Our guys are psyched. They're awesome," Held said. "The guys are so psyched.

And they acted like it, too, as the crowd - urging "Be cool," "Let's do it," "Let's stop 'em" - saw Northville hold off Roosevelt to win the Mustangs' first-ever playoff appearance.

Mark and Cheryl Davis, members of the Northville Class of 1982, came out to the game with some friends to cheer on the Mustangs - even though the Davises have lived in Wyandotte for the last two years.
"It was cheaper than Northville,"

Cheryl Davis shrugged in explaining the move.

PAUL VERTREES

This is really something. You just knew it would have to be like this. too," Vertrees said while watching the game's final crucial plays.

After the Mustangs used their four overtime downs to score a touchdown and an extra point, Roosevelt answered with a touchdown of its own - and tried for a two-point conversion and the immediate win. But the Northville line held when it counted most, and the Mustangs left with their first playoff victory and a trip to the second round. Northville fans spilled out onto the Roosevelt field after the game to congratulate the players and coaches in a wave of

FOOTBALL PLAYOFFS

"It was great. First time ever. It's been the most exciting game of the season," she said. "I was hoping they were going to win. Otherwise it was going to be a long ride home."

Northville School Superintendent George Bell was among the group on the field after the game. That is as good a football game as you'll ever see. Really gutty play," he said.

It all continues at 1:30 p.m. Saturday when the Mustangs take on Dearborn High School at Dearborn. The Posse is ready to ride.

Northville solidified its reputation as a bastion of Republicanism by offering heavy support for all GOP candidates on the 1990 general election

Cloudy skies, cool temperatures, and the threat of snow did not deter voters. Traffic at community polling sites was higher than usual, elections officials said.

City Deputy Clerk Tonni Burns said the crowds had to line up to vote Tuesday evening at the city's Amerman Elementary School polling site. There was probably about a 45-minute wait from 4:30 on," she said. Nearly 58 percent of the city's

4,243 registered voters made it to the two city polls by 8 p.m. closing time. Township voters also turned out in

City voters OK street bond sale

By STEVE KELLMAN Staff Writer

City voters passed a $1.6-million street improvement bond by more than a two-to-one margin Tuesday.

The bond garnered 1,268 votes with 606 people voting against it. The funds will continue a four-year city street improvement program.

Voter turnout in the city was 57.5 percent.

The street improvement program began in 1986 when voters approved a $3-million bond issue to repave streets throughout the city. The need for more extensive repairs has been attributed to the extent of damage found under the original streets. The original bond was not enough to repair the damage found to old roadbeds, storm sewers and curbs. Several streets were also redesigned. which further increased the cost.

The 10-year bond approved Tuesday will allow the city to complete funding of the repaving, recurbing and landscaping of these streets. The alternative was not to not spend the money, because the money had already been spent, explained City Manager Steven Walters. The alternative would have been to find another way to finance it."

The 10-year bond will allow the the repair program debt to be retired over a longer period of time than other financing methods.

City officials plan to fund the bonds out of the general fund rather than approaching city voters for a millage increase.

Portions of Baseline Road, West Main, Grace, Carpenter and Horton have already been improved under the program, with several sections being completely rebuilt rather than repaved as originally planned.

Repairs are still needed to most of Hutton Street, East Main between Hutton and Griswold, Fairbrook, First and South Wing.

The repairs are expected to last at least 20-30 years.

Council OKs bridge concept

By STEVE KELLMAN Staff Wnter

The Northville City Council gave its stamp of approval Monday night to the latest rendering of a proposed MainCentre pedestrian bridge.

The council also took the opprtunity to send a message to other commissions that it would rather see a bridge across Center Street than carports on the city parking lot south of MainCentre.

Council members said that the lack of such a message previously may have led to the Historic District Commission (HDC)'s refusal to act on a previous version of the bridge.

Bridge designer Greg Presley presented the latest plan to the council, and he and Singh Development Vice President Michael Kahm fielded questions on its design and on changes to the parking deck design itself (see related story, page 5-A).

Singh Development officials argue that they need a pedestrian bridge between their MainCentre building and the proposed Cady Street parking deck to market their 74 luxury apartments. The bridge would allow residents access between their apartments and an elevator to the lowest floor of the deck, where secured parking would be available.

The city and Singh originally agreed on either a pedestrian bridge between a MAGS parking deck and MainCentre, or carports on the "I think it's super . . . I wouldn't change a thing on the bridge."

DEWEY GARDNER Northville City Council Member

MAGS lot. Resident opposition then forced the relocation of the parking deck to the site of the present deck on Cady Street.

City officials have stalled plans for pedestrian bridge over Center Street for the last several months, after several residents spoke out against the bridge earlier this year.

The HDC sent the first bridge design back to the drawing board in July, and a motion before the commission to approve a redesigned bridge died for lack of support in

City council and planning commission members have expressed their desire for a pedestrian bridge over carports on the city parking lot south of MainCentre. But City Manager Steven Walters and Singh officials had little success in negotiating potential alternatives to either

Most of the council members spoke in favor of the latest bridge plan, though Paul Folino said he liked the original brick design. "If it (the new design) was approved by the planning commission and the historic district commission, I would have no problem, but personally I would still like to see brick," he said. Personally, I think tying the two buildings together is a great asset.

Folino did say he prefers that Singh build a bridge rather than carports. "I much prefer a bridge of any kind versus carports," he said.

Other council members quickly distanced themselves from Folino's appreciation for a brick bridge and for tying the two buildings together.

said of the new design. "I wouldn't change a thing on the bridge." Mayor Chris Johnson pointed out that HDC members had criticized the original brick design.

"I think it's super," Dewey Gardner

Council Member Jerry Mittman also liked the new design, saying. The iron structure to me is a good break-up (between the two buildings)."

Mittman also voiced frustration over the process used to arrive at a bridge design. "My feeling... is that this thing has been held up long enough and we have to get on with it,"

Planning Commissioner David Mielock, a member of Monday's audience, also voiced his support for the bridge. He noted that the glass bridge would not cast the large shadows already being thrown by downtown buildings — and which would have been thrown by a brick design.

Mielock added that the bridge and tower would look good alone, without being incorporated into a new CadyCentre building. "It has to stand alone right now, because there may not be . . . a future building," he said.

The council voted unanimously to approve the concept of a pedestrian bridge rather than carports, and approve Presley's design for the bridge. As Gardner said, "We are in effect approving the bridge; not necessarily the details of this bridge, but the bridge."

The plans come before the HDC for a design review today, Nov. 8. The planning commission will view them at their Nov. 13 meeting, to review the proposed changes in the parking

A Livonia resident told township police that someone stole his 1983 Pontiac Firebird while it was parked in the lot at Meijer, 20401 Haggerty. Nov. 3. The victim said the thefi occurred between 4:15-5 p.m. The vehicle was valued at $3,000. Police found no evidence of broken glass at the scene and the case remains open.

LARCENY: A 30-year-old Highland woman was arrested and charged with larceny after attempting a price tag switch at Meijer Oct. 31. According to township police, the woman changed the price tag on a two-piece dress suit from $42.97 to $6.40. The woman also attempted to steal over-the-counter medications, police said.

LARCENY: A Redford Township woman was arrested and charged with larceny after she attempted to steal perfume from Meijer Nov. 2, township police said.

Police News

HIT AND RUN: A Northville woman's vehicle reportedly was damaged while she shopped at Meijer Oct. 28. The vehicle was parked in the southern portion of the lot at the time of the incident, police said.

OUIL: A 42-year-old Northville man was arrested and charged with operating a vehicle under the influence of alcohol Nov. 3 at 1:40 a.m., township police said. The man was arrested on Haggerty Road, a halfmile south of Seven Mile, police said.

LARCENY: An Innsbrook Apartments resident told township police that someone stole a patto chair from outside an apartment Nov.1. Police recovered the chair at another residence and no charges were filed.

OVERDUE VIDEOS: Township police investigated a case involving a 35-year-old Northville man who reportedly failed to return a pair of X-rated videotapes and a video game cartridge to Northville Video, 43197 Seven Mile Road. The suspect later agreed to pay the video store $150 for the tapes.

CASH STOLEN FROM HARDEE'S: An estimated $878 in cash was reported stolen from Hardee's Restaurant, 401 N. Center St., city police said. The cash was reportedly in a locked safe, in a locked Manufacturers National Bank bag, a petty cash bag, and four cash drawers. It was stolen sometime between 11:45 p.m. Nov. 3 and 5:54 a.m. Nov. 4. The case is still under investigation.

WEAPONS VIOLATION: City police confiscated a suspected weapon from a 17-year-old Northville man after stopping his vehicle for defective equipment. Police stopped the man on Lexington Blvd. near Eight Mile Road for a broken headlight just after midnight Nov. 3, and noticed a pipe in his back seat. The copper pipe, between 3½ and 4 feet long, was thickly wrapped in grey duct tape at one end.

UNLAWFUL ENTRY: City police found an Ohio woman in a Randolph Street apartment Nov. 3 after the landlord notified police of a prowler in the apartment.

The woman told police that she had been involved with the resident previously, and was searching the apartment "in hopes of discovering evidence of another woman." She told police she had broken into the apartment through the bathroom window. Police confiscated the man's seven guns until his return.

WARRANT ARREST AT RACET-RACK: A 30-year-old Detroit man was arrested by city police for an outstanding warrant. Police arrested the man at Northville Downs, 301 S. Center St., after he became intoxicated and began harrassing other patrons. A computer check revealed an outstanding warrant for failure to appear in 46th District Court on an open intoxication charge. He was charged and released on a $100 bond.

WALLET MISSING FROM RACETRACK: A man reported that his wallet was missing after a night at Northville Downs. The man said the wallet, a green bi-fold containing his social security card but no cash. distappeared sometime between 6:30-9:55 p.m. Nov. 3. He was uncertain whether it was lost or stolen.

MAILBOX BLOWN UP: Someone blew up a metal mailbox in front of a Jeffrey Drive residence, according to city police reports. The mailbox was blown up sometime between 7-14 p.m. Oct. 30, by a plastic bottle filled with an explosive mixture.

BICYCLE FOUND: City police pulled a red Kent boy's bicycle with training wheels out of the creek near Novi Road Nov. 3. Anyone wishing to claim it is asked to call the city police station with a more detailed description.

Citizens with information about the above incidents are urged to call Northville City Police at 349-1234 or Northville Township Police at 349-9400.

Voters in township and city elect representatives

gistered voters cast ballots, a figure exceeded only by general election turnouts in 1984 and 1988 presidential election years, township Clerk Tom Cook said.

Township and city vote totals for Republican candidates were convincing, to say the least. Residents supported John Engler, Bill Schuette, Carl Pursell, William Broomfield, Robert Geake, Gerald Law, Denise Alexander and Willis Bullard on the state and national level.

Gubernatorial candidate John Engler trounced incumbent James Blanchard by a 3,781-2,024 margin in the township. City voters also gave Engler the nod 1,446-916. Engler won by a slim 1,279,745-1,260,345 edge statewide.

In the race for U.S. Senate, Schuette out-tallied incumbent Carl Levin 3,181-2,581 in the township and 1,211-1,159 in the city.

and 1,211-1,159 in the city.
Incumbent Republican U.S. Rep.
Carl Pursell retained his 2nd District seat and showed well in Northville.
Township voters gave Pursell an 4,267-1,220 edge over Democratic challenger Elmer White, while city residents voted for him 658-294. The district total was 95,459 for Pursell and 49,781 for White.

Northville Township resident Robert Geake will serve a fifth term in the state Senate, thanks in part to solid support in his hometown. Geake defeated Democrat Patrick McDonald by an overall 45,338-36,009 margin, scoring a 4,200-1,517 victory in the township and a 678-304 win in the city.

Gerald Law (R-Plymouth) secured his fifth term as the 36th District representative in the state House with an easy win over Plymouth attorney Dennis Shrewsbury. City voters helped his victory by a 646-298 margin, and the township voted for Law by a 4,169-1,485 spread. Across the district, he won by 18,603 to 8,112.

In Oakland County, Northville city voters helped incumbent U.S. Rep William Broomfield to another easy win. The city went 837-400 for Broomfield, contributing to his overall win of 126,627 to 64,189.

Jack Faxon (D-Farmington Hills) was elected to his sixth term as the 15th District state senator despite Northville City support for his opponent, Republican newcomer Denise Alexander. City voters cast 863 ballots for Alexander and 405 for Faxon.

Across his district, Faxon garnered 43,356 votes to Alexander's 38,596.

State 60th District Rep. Willis Bullard defeated Robert Taub

16,616-8,217. In Northville, Bullard outscored Taub 813-349.

City voters also helped elect Patricia Campbell of Detroit to the new probate court seat at Northville Regional Psychiatric Hospital, by a 455-217 margin over her opponent, William Leo Cahalan Jr. She was approved by a 193,621-139,749 margin countywide.

Township and city voters also reflected countywide voting trends with their approval of a Detroit Metropolitan Wayne County Airport improvement bond. The township passed the measure 4,013-1,561, while the city approved it by a 587-285 margin.

Wayne County voters widely approved the $100-million bond for expansion and improvements at Metro Airport. The bond, approved countywide by a vote of 290,445 to 140,843, will fund a new parking deck, noise abatements, flood control and a fourth north-south runway. The improvements are part of a planned $1-billion overhaul of the county-run airport that would include another, terminal, new access roads and two new runways.

The bonds will not be paid off with tax money. Residents had successifully petitioned to put the bond question on the ballot earlier this years.

The latest Center Street bridge would join MainCentre to a new tower on the northeast corner of Center and Cady, part of the proposed CadyCentre building shown at the right of the drawing

New bridge design quite different

By STEVE KELLMAN

The first official unveiling of a the latest proposed MainCentre pedestrian bridge revealed a far different design than city officials had last seen.

The last time this matter was brought before you, the proposed pedestrian bridge looked a little different," Singh Vice President Michael Kalim told the city council Monday

Actually, the two proposals differ greatly. Critics of the original 160-foot brick designs with its arches and cement footings had likëned it to a Roman aqueduct.

The new plan shows a much less massive bridge using iron rather than brick.

Architect Greg Presley mentioned two advantages to an iron bridge, the first being that it would provide a visual-break between MainCentre and CadyCentre, making them look less ike a building complex and more like ond being that its strength would al-low much more glass to be used for a shter design.

Presley, a member of the city's Downtown Development Authority, was hired by Singh to redesign the bridge after the original brick design alled to win approval of the Historic District Commission.

His steel box-girder bridge would be clad primarily in iron and glass the iron acting as a thin framework for the glass panes. It would be topped by an angled glass roof, rising to peak running the length of the holes. The glass along the sides ge. The glass along the sides ocilid be removed during warm Table bridge would extend from a measure only 60 feet long.

"It made a lot more sense, rather than trying to bring the bridge to the deck, to bring the deck to the bridge," Presley explained.

The new portion of the deck would provide the 74 reserved parking spaces alloted for MainCentre residents, and could act as the first floor of Singh's proposed CadyCentre development. The added space in the main deck, and a refiguring of the parking needed by the proposed CadyCentre and Long Development buildings, would allow the top deck floor above Mary Alexander Court to be removed, resulting in a shorter

The deck still would provide sufficient parking to replace the existing Cady Street deck, and for MainCentre and the proposed CadyCentre and Long retail/office buildings, according to Presley.

We were able to reduce the size of the proposed deck from 530 cars to about 490," Presley said. "As I look at this proposal. I think it would cost less than the current design."

Presley also showed the council conceptual plans for Singh Develop-ment's proposed CadyCentre building, to show how it would incorporate into the bridge tower. Those plans retain the tower as a dominant feature and show a landscaped area along Center Street, between it and CadyCentre. A collonaded walkway runs through the center of the bridge, between the landscaped area and the retail shops on the first floor.

The CadyCentre building itself much more closely resembles exist-ing Mair. Street buildings than Main-Centre does, and is shorter than the MainCentre building.

McDonald's plans to go ahead

By MIKE TYREE Staff Writer

McDonald's will not scrap a plan to sandwich a restaurant near the Six Mile/Haggerty intersection, despite vocal resident opposition, a spokesperson for the fast-food giant said Monday.

The site is properly zoned; we neet all the requirements of the ordi-Dance, said McDonald's representa-tive Bernie Whitman. McDonald's wants to become part of that community (and) we intend to pursue bat application.

Whitman said McDonald's corpothe officers were undaunted by angy residents who packed a township planning commission meeting Oct. 30. Residents and individual planning commissioners complained that the proposed site — located south of Şix Mile and adjacent to a new Standård Federal Bank building -- would accentuate traffic problems at the troublesome Six Mile/Haggerty

Others — including commission Chairperson Charles DeLand — said McDonald's is not consistent with the character of newer township developments.

Whitman disagreed and said studies indicate the corner is ripe for a fast-food restaurant.

We're not a harmful use," he said. We're a family restaurant and . . . it's a legitimate use."

He said the company would "try to shoot for the Nov. 27" planning commission meeting with a revised site

Whitman said McDonald's is in the process of revising its site plan on issues raised by township planning consultants.

The planners never addressed the issues from the staff," he said. "We're looking at those comments.

Planning consultants pointed out relatively minor flaws in the McDonald's site plan, including parking layout, trash receptacle placement and landscaping.

Those problems can be erased by simple site plan revisions and De-Land — despite his criticism of the project - admitted that a 1986 master plan zoning change allowed fast-food outlets in freeway service areas.

"I don't know if there's anything we can do about it." he said.

as a buffer to residential areas.

Whitman did say McDonald's would commission a traffic study of the site. He said the study would be completed by "an outside, independent firm," and would be subject to township scrutiny.

Some planners, including township board liaison Richard Allen, recommended McDonald's soften its architectural approach to the proposed Six and Haggerty restaurant.

Whitman said the firm would consider styling changes.

Typically, what we want to do is try to blend in with the architectural style of the buildings nearby," he said. That's something we really need to sit down with the planning staff and communicate.

associations have not been ruled out. but will have to be coordinated through the township planning department, Whitman said.

Conversations with homeowners'

"I think we'd like to talk with the planning staff first," he said.

McDonald's is proposing use of a section of a 1.5-acre parcel, which was originally intended to house a motel. Plans for the motel fell through earlier this year.

Mustang of the Week

BLEEDING GUMS CAN BE SERIOUS

Bleeding gums are unhealthy gums. The state of the gums reflects the health of the underlying tissues that can't be seen - and bleeding should alert you that more serious problems lie ahead if the condition is left untreated.

Fortunately, gingivitis is a reversible condition. With proper treatment it can be cured and the gums restored to normal health. If you can maintain healthy gums, you can avoid periodontal disease - the major cause of adult tooth loss. The villain in the case of gingivitis (and periodontal disease) is as between and on the teeth. Plague can harden and build up if not removed regularly. This hardened plaque is called tartar or calculus. At this juncture, only a professional scaling will remove the accumulation under the gum line, which is where these deposits can quickly build and cause tissue damage and probable loss of teeth.

plaque. It accumulates rapidly and

Man may face weapon, stolen property charges

By MIKE TYREE Staff Wnter

A 23-year-old Inkster man may face concealed weapon and stolen property charges after police stopped him for an alleged traffic violation in Northville Oct. 29.

According to township police reports, the man was driving a 1990 BMW northbound on Northville Road near the Seven Mile intersection at approximately 7 p.m. The BMW reportedly passed a township police patrol car and was traveling 40 mph in a 35 mph zone, according to Lt. Gary Batzloff, the driver of the patrol car.

Police followed the car and said the vehicle continued north on Northville Road and into Northville city limits. The vehicle reached speeds of 35 m.p.h. in a 25 m.p.h. zone, police said.

The driver of the BMW stopped at a traffic signal at the comer of Griswold and Main and turned left without sig-naling, police said. Batzloff then stopped the BMW just north of Cady Street and asked the driver for identification.

A computer check of the driver indicated that the man was wanted by Inkster police on a misdemeanor warrant. Police said they advised the man of the warrant and took him into custody. A 45-year-old passenger of the BMW was released at the scene, police said.

City police were contacted because the arrest occurred within the city limits, according to the report. City police Det. Sgt. David Fendelet responded to the scene.

Fendelet and township reserve officer John Feldman then conducted a search of the BMW, according to police

Feldman reportedly found a 9-millimeter semiautomatic handgun in a pouch on the rear of the passengerseat. Police said the gun was confiscated and the vehicle was impounded.

A computer check revealed that the weapon was stolen from a River Rouge residence.

The driver of the BMW was arrested on charges of car-and on the outstanding inkster warrant, police said. According to a suspect interview conducted by township police, the man said he was going to Northville

Downs racetrack and was carrying the weapon for protection. Police quoted the man as saying he carried the gun because he usually wins "a lot of big money."

City police are preparing a report for the Wayne County Prosecutor's office because of the location of the arrest, Fendelet said Tuesday. He said police are seeking a two-count warrant against the man. Police will file a report with the prosecutor next week,

Youth caught after stealing Halloween candy

By MIKE TYREE Staff Wnter

sweet tooth led a 15-year-old Northville resident to a Halloween en- later returned the candy after police counter he'd probably just as soon traced the license plates of a vehicle

Township police said the 15-yearold committed strong-arm robbery on an 11-year-old Northville boy by Bullying tactics and an overactive pushing him over and stealing a pillowcase filled with candy. The youth used in the incident.

Police said the suspect was a pas-senger in a 1989 Ford Taurus driven by a Northville 17-year-old. According to police reports, the two were driving southbound on Bradner Road south of Chatterton Court when they came across two boys walking north on Bradner.

The vehicle then stopped and the 15-year-old jumped out and reportedly pushed one of the boys to the ground. He then grabbed the pillowcase of candy and returned to the car.

The boys and an additional witness reported the incident to police and also supplied the license plate number that led police to the driver of the vehicle.

Police confronted the driver at his parents' home and the youth con-fessed his involvement. He told police where the 15-year-old could be

The 15-year-old was also interviewed at his parents' home. He admitted that he stole the candy and told police he did not have a chance to go trick-or-treating, was mad at his father and wanted some candy.

Police said the youth returned the candy and no charges were filed. The two victims were not injured.

Bad ballots cause a few hassles

A shipment of ballots that didn't fit voter punch cards caused a big headache for voters and Northville Township elections workers Tuesday.

Faulty punch cards at a pair of township precincts caused concern over 23 ballots that necessitated a special processing proceedure, town-ship Deputy Clerk Eunice Switzler

Switzler said ballots supplied by

Wayne County were not compatible with township punch units. Some of the faulty ballots were placed at Precinct Seven at Silver Springs Elementary and others were used at Precinct Eight at Meads Mill Middle School, she said.

The cards were improperly aligned with the punch units and caused difficulty when voters attempted to punch out choices on the ballot. Switzler said. She said voters were angered by the mix-up and were given four options to correct the

"No one is truly disenfranchised," she said. "We (contacted) the people and their options (were) to go back to the polls; or come into the township for an absentee ballot; or we could take an absentee ballot to them, or the township will record their vote by using a special processing board to line-up the punch cards.

Switzler said faulty cards could be placed on top of the proper cards to effectively record votes.

By 5:30 p.m., Switzler reported that the problem was under control. "Most are either voting again or understand the procedure for special processing," she said.

Switzler said county-supplied ballots caused more of a stir in Plymouth Township than in Northville. All ballots placed at Plymouth Township polling sites reportedly were faulty.

"I can't blame the county totally." Switzler said. "The clerk and deputy clerk have to share the responsibility. We just tried to take care of the problem.

Valet parking eyed for Main St.

By STEVE KELLMAN Staff Writer

Been around the block once too

John Genitti of Genitti's Hole-inthe-Wall Restaurant has a solution. Genitti unveiled plans Monday for valet parking on Main Street, to serve holiday shoppers and evening customers of Genitti's and MacKinnon's restaurants.

The restaurant owner asked the city council to grant the plan a 60-day trial period. Under the plan, valet parkers from Executive Parking Service in Auburn Hills would pick up and return customers' cars for a $2.50 fee, at or near Main Street and Mary Alexander Court.

Genitti originally suggested reserving two parking spaces on Main Street in front of MacKinnon's, 126 E. Main St., for pick-up and drop-off. "After six o'clock, it's mostly MacKinnon's and our customers anyways," he said. But council members changed the location to Mary Alexander Court near the town square.

"Initially, at least on an experimental basis, I don't think you'd need any restrictions. I think you could just go down there (to the gravel Cady Street parking lot) and find

> STEVEN WALTERS Northville City Manager

As City Manager Steven Walters explained, "Pulling in on the other side of the town square would be preferable . . . three or four cars could stack up without being in anybody else's way."

Walters said that the cars could be parked in available spaces at the gravel lot on Cady Street. "Initially, at least on an experimental basis, I don't think you'd need any restrictions. I think you could just go down there and find spaces," he said. Genitti said the service could prove valuable to other downtown customers besides restaurant patrons. Greg Stieber of Executive Parking Service agreed, saying, "Especially with the holiday season, we figure it would be good for shoppers and other people downtown."

For now, Genitti said the valets would probably wait for cars inside the alcove at MacKinnon's. "Hopefully, they won't be standing around," he added. But if the service becomes popular, a valet parking booth may be built.

Genitti was uncertain how many days a week the service would be offered. "It would depend on usage . . . We're hoping every day if business warrants it," he said.

"This is trial-and-error; we haven't done anything like this before," he

Walters noted one benefit of the plan, saying, "It transforms a couple of spaces into a lot more prime spaces from the customer's standpoint."

Mayor Chris Johnson said the plan could solve some of the city's parking problems. But he asked that the company make clear that the city is not responsible for valet-parked vehicles, and admonished Stieber and Cook to assure safe driving by their employees.

The council authorized Walters to grant temporary approval of the plan subject to city certification of Executive Parking Service's insurance coverage, with member Jerry Mittman voting against the motion. Council members plan to review the parking plan's progress at their Nov.

Official explains state school law

By SUZANNE HOLLYER Staff Writer

A state attempt to legislate quality in education has received mixed reviews from local school districts.

The Northville Board of Education voted to comply with Public Act 25 of 1990 at its Oct. 22 meeting, but the resolution was less than whole-

Statewide the reaction has been generally good, but no district is thrilled about the additional paperwork created by the act, said Bob Harris, director of communications for the Michigan Department of Education.

"School districts recognize everything that Public Act 25 is doing is things they should be doing anyway." Harris said. "By and large they've been very positive about it."

The act is noble in its intent, but the result will be costly, said Dolly McMaster, assistant superintendent for instructional services at the October meeting.

Northville has already begun a program to improve the quality of education in the district through its Strategic Planning Initiative, but in order to prevent the state from taking 5 percent of its aid to the district, Northville must also comply with the Noncompliance could cost Northville Public Schools between $50,000 and $75,000, which makes following the act inevitable for the district.

The differences between the district's requirements and the state's requirements are already costing the district about a day and a half per week to implement.

For districts that were not already working on a plan to improve quality in education, the costs may be greater although no estimates have been calculated, Harris said. But the only measurable cost to districts caused by the act is a new requirement for them to publish annual reports and make them available to parents, Harris said.

Bringing parents into the educa-tional process will be worth the extra cost for publishing the annual report,

"How do you measure what they should be doing anyway?" Harris said. "It's not as though most of them aren't already doing most of the

Northville grapples with U-M study results

By SUZANNE HOLLYER Staff Writer

Special education programs distort the meaning of literacy for special education students and reinforces their learning disability, according to a partly finished University of Michigan study.

The study also suggests remedies for problems within special education.

Northville's executive director of special education, Leonard Rezmierski, recently discussed the study and how it relates to Northville Public Schools' program.

"Repetitive, fragmented skill drills" distort the idea of what reading and writing is all about for special education students, according to Annemarie Palinesar, author of the study financed by a $700,000 federal grant and associate professor at the University of Michigan.

The study said special education students lose out on the joys of reading for fun because the activity becomes one of repetitious drills that reinforce a learning disability.

"When you ask a 'special ed' student what writing is. she'll typically tell you that writing is copying down." Palinesar said in a press release. "One 8-year-old special ed student explained to me that to become a good writer you need to hope and hold your pencil right." Rezmierski agrees that reading for fun is important and can be fulfilling. "What I've found is that (reading for fun) is very significant," he said. "I agree with their theory that way." He does not agree that repetitive skill drills have been the main method of teaching special education students. especially in Northville.

The study recommends making reading seem part of a student's life, and getting parents involved when possible. Palinesar, working with a Michigan State University colleague, discusses the need for transitions linking home and school, making school work relevant to their

Northville already encourages parental involvement. and Rezmierski called the ideas Palincsar suggested for forming transitions between school and home 'sensational.'

Northville students are taught to help make shopping lists and encouraged to participate in other home-based activities like changing a car's oil and working on tax forms with parents to help them understand how important writing and reading can be outside of school.

That reinforces the transition: home to education, education to home." Rezmierski said.

Getting parents involved is not always that difficult, he said. And for special education students, parental involvement may be easier to come by than for regular education students, Rezmierski said.

"It's easier on some levels," he said. "Parents know there's a problem."

Bills have to be paid and work has to be done, but many parents of special education students in Northville still get involved in their child's education, Rezmierski

"An overwhelming number of our parents are involved," he said. "Parents are also educators, it is clearly a two way street.

And as for drilling students on dates and figures, Rezmierski said that has its place too.

"There's nothing wrong with that kind of discipline," he said. "Learning is a concentrated effort."

All regular items reduced, plus special purchase items at their terrific low prices.

Group sees sprawl

By TIM RICHARD

You'll be driving longer and enjoying it less by the year 2010.

With 6 percent more people, southeast Michigan will have:

- 19 percent more households and 18 percent more jobs.
- 40 percent more land built on. 40 percent more vehicle traffic —
- but minimal road expansion. • 50 percent longer vehicle trips because of more start-stop traffic.

The culprit will be "urban sprawl." members of the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments were told recently - more vacant land going into development, at a pace faster than population growth, with developed land, streets, water and sewer lines left unused.

That grim outline of what "business as usual" will do to the sevencounty region around Detroit was painted by Edward Hustoles, SEM-COG's chief planner, and Marilynn Gosling, co-chair of SEMCOG's Regional Development Initiative Committee. SEMCOG's general assembly met in Livonia.

"Business as usual" means the kind of bulldozer growth the region has seen since World War I in which a handful of developers make major decisions and fragmented local governments acquiesce.

It is only one of several scenarios SEMCOG will study in the next year. The study was prompted by the city of Auburn Hills' decision to allow development of a megamall drawing traffic from a 50-mile radius to rural countryside and a wetland, with older neighboring communities voiceless.

This situation to date has resulted from a fragmented reaction to a market-driven development pattern," said Gosling, an Oakland County commissioner from Bloomfield Hills.

Decisions are made by literally thousands of individuals, firms and governments. Each decision in itself may be logical, but those decisions generally are without consideration of either the immediate long-term impacts on surrounding communities, counties and the region."

Besides gobbling up farmland, Gosling told SEMCOG delegates, urban sprawl will mean shifting of population with little gain, longer commutes, a widening gap between the location of low-wage, entry-level jobs and people who need such jobs and more taxes to replace unused infrastructure.

Hustoles filled in some of the details.

• The region will have to spend $2 billion to end so-called "combined sewers" in which sewage and stormwater are mixed and overflow into rivers, and no one has any idea where the money will come from.

• A bigger proportion of public budgets will go into environmental cleanup, leaving less for other

"We can't build our way out," said .Hustoles.

The goal will be to project neither a 'doomsday' nor a 'rosy' picture of the future. Rather, we will seek a realistic 'trend' forecast," he added.

SEMCOG planners will hold a series of six workshops to particular issues such as transportation and environment.

A final report to the general assembly is due in October of 1991.

"Urban sprawl" has been denounced politically for years, particularly by Gov. William G. Milliken in the 1970s. SEMCOG's elected leaders put the subject on the back burner in 1979 during the recession and scramble to lure "jobs, jobs, jobs." The Auburn Mills project sparked resistance, however, from even such postwar growth suburbs as Southfield and

Rochester Hills. SEMCOG delegates greeted Hustoles' and Gosling's remarks with polite applause and gasps but no public comment.

Local women protest Clay

By SUZANNE HOLLYER Staff Writer

One thing can be said for Andrew Dice Clay: people react to him.

But the reaction isn't always good. The Western Wayne County chapter of the National Organization for Women joined the ranks of singer Sinead O'Connor and actress Nora Dunn in protesting the comedian's choice of subject matter at his con-cert Oct. 20. About 50 of the Western Wayne County chapter's approximately 350 members live in Northville and the protest was organized in part by Northville resident and the chapter vice president Tracey Martin.

Clay performed at the Palace of Auburn Hills. Working with the Western Wayne County chapter of NOW was the University of Michigan-Dearborn NOW, and the Macomb

The organization decided to avoid criticizing Clay directly, said Linda McCabe, media relations director for the local chapter.

The people attending the concert were obviously fans of his since they were paying $22.50 to see his concert, and criticism of Clay would probably go unheeded, she said.

Instead they decided to give those attending his concert a few things to think about before listening to the comedian, who is known for making degrading jokes about women in his act (Clay has a videotape titled "Guaranteed to Offend," which McCabe said she has watched to verify that he is as offensive as rumor has it). "We were trying to show that his attitude was promoting violence." McCabe said.

"We are here to raise awareness of violence against women in our community and in our country and to say that acts such as Andrew Dice Clay's that glorify the denegration of women are socially unacceptable.

Clay's name was not mentioned on the half sheet of paper NOW distri-buted. The flyer did list a few of the facts of life for women in the United

One side of the paper had clippings of recent news stories covering incidents of violence against women. The other side stated a few statistics compiled and verified by McCabe from several sources including Time magazine, Ms. magazine, and various newspaper articles. "Did you know that in the United • Every 18 seconds a woman is

• Three out of four women are marked for violence in their lifetime. • Every six minutes a woman is

 One out of four women are raped in her lifetime.

• Twenty percent of college women experience rape, sexual assault or attempted rape before they graduate.

• The United States has a rate of sexual assault four times that of Germany and twenty times that of Japan.

• Every 47 seconds a child is abused or neglected.

The reaction was generally good, McCabe said.

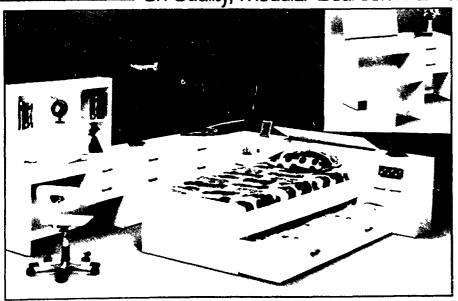

"Most people just took it and said thank you," she said.

Other reactions were not as good. "One guy took it and said, "(Wonen) deserve it and threw it back," McCabe said.

That guy had a date with him . . . so I wished her a happy Sweetest (Clay) says this is all an act. If he's as talented as he says he is then let's see him develop a new act that does not ridicule whole classes of people,"

More positive discipline suggestions

A few weeks ago, I wrote suggestions of how to motivate children to be "good" from the book tion. This is difficult during conflict, so use the Positive Disciplining by Jane Nelson. Other suggestions to motivate children are listed below. • Change your own idea that in order to make children do better, first you have to make them feel worse. Do you feel like doing better when you feel humiliated?

Punishment may "work" if all you are interested in is stopping the misbehavior for the moment. Sometimes we must beware of what works when the long-range results are negative - resentment, rebellion, revenge or retreat.

Teach and model mutual respect. One way to be kind and firm at the same time — kind to show respect for the child, and firm to show re-next step first.

• Proper timing will improve your effectiveness tenfold. It does not work to deal with a problem at the time of conflict — emotions get in the way. Teach children about cooling off periods. You or the children can go to a separate room and do something to make yourself feel better and then work on the problem with mutual

• Use logical consequences when appropriate. Follow the three Rs of logical consequences to make sure consequences are: 1) related; 2) respectful; 3) reasonable.

• During family meetings children can help decide on logical consequences for not keeping their agreements (Remember not to use the word punishment - it does not work for longterm "good" results).

 Teach children that mistakes are wonderful opportunities to learn.

 Make sure the message of love gets through. Start with "I love you. I am concerned about this situation. Will you work with me on a solution?"

If you have any suggestion that have worked in your family to motivate your children, please share your ideas with me. If you need help or someone to talk to about parenting, call 344-1618.

Meetings offer support to parents

By SUZANNE HOLLYER Staff Writer

Report card time may not be very traumatic for the 80 percent of students getting B grades or better at Cooke Middle School, but not every-one can be in the top 80 percent.

For those who are in the top 80 percent, they and their parents may be concerned that their B grades could be A's with a little extra work. At some point, report card time can be traumatic for any parent or student.

It's normal parenting crises like the trauma of the first marking period that bring parents together once a month at district schools.

They are called "Parent to Parent" meetings, and are led by counselors from the Northville Counseling Center. Though they are not a schoolsponsored activity, they are held in district school buildings.

The topics are tailored to the needs of each group of parents.

Parents with students at private schools are welcome to attend the sessions, which consist of a presentation given by a conselor, a group discussion and time for parents to discuss more serious concerns oneon-one with a conselor.

Parents meet at the school their child attends, so they will be meeting with parents of children the same age as own, and parents with concerns similar to theirs.

Monday at Cooke, parents met in preparation of the end of the first marking period. Counselor John Rae lead the discussion.

He told the parents that with 80 percent of Cooke students receiving at least B grades, a lot of pressure obviously exists to get good grades.

The trick for parents is to encourage their children to get into that upper 80 percent but at some point to allow or force them to start taking responsibility for their own grades, he

"Part of our goal is, especially at the middle school level, to try to give your kids as much responsibility as possible for their grades," Rae said.

At the middle school level that kids start to become independent, Rae said, and that is often difficult for parents who are not ready to give up helping and nurturing their sixth-, seventh- and eighth-grade children.

"That's the part that is, I think, sometimes threatening for us parents," he said.

Parents discussed their personal problems relating to their children's grades. Rau as well as other parents contributed suggestions and Future Cooke meetings will be held on the first Monday of the month at 7:30 p.m. in the Cooke library.

Scheduled discussions at other school buildings are: • Successful parenting in the 90s at Winchester Elementary School to-day, Nov. 8. Winchester parents meet on the second Thursday of the month. Next month they will discuss strengthening self-esteem.

Successful parenting in the '90s will be discussed at Silver Springs Elementary School on Nov. 15. at 7:30 p.m.

● The first marking period will again be discussed at Meads Mill Middle School on Nov. 19. at 7:30 p.m.

• Strengthening self-esteem in adolescence will be discussed at Northville High School, room 103 on Nov. 29 at 7:30 p.m.

Our Opinions McDonald's site plan raises questions and future concerns

What do you get when you combine the world's most successful fast-food business with residents and community leaders hungry to control unwanted byproducts of urban sprawl?

Certainly not a happy meal. Maybe a touch of indigestion.

A site plan application presented to the township planning commission by McDonald's Restaurants created quite a stir last week and promises to remain a topic of debate and concern. The restaurant chain rejected an overture by planning commission Chairperson Charles DeLand to de-activate the application until an impact study could be completed. DeLand's request came on the heels of spirited commentary by a grumbling crowd of residents who live near the proposed fast-food site.

Monday, a McDonald's spokesperson said the company will steam ahead with efforts to secure a restaurant on 1.5 acres next to a new Standard Federal Bank building. The spokesperson said the firm will probably present a revised site plan at the Nov. 27 planning commission session.

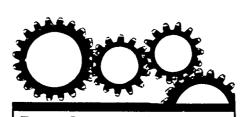

Vocal residents will surely follow suit by turning the heat up on McDonald's and township government ant and founded primarily on emotional

The issue is complicated, regardless of whether or not one considers McDonald's a suitable gateway for Northville Township.

On one side are residents of pricey. immaculate homes of the subdivisions which border the Haggerty Road corridor. The residents speak of high personal standards which obviously do not include a set of golden arches in the back yard. McDonald's also says traffic and safety concerns are exaggerated. The company contends its peak service hours fall outside normal rush hour traffic patterns; thus the restaurant would not cause further problems along the intersection. We can't quite buy that one because the firm aggressively advertises a breakfast menu and because noon traffic is always horrific at the intersection.

But McDonald's is correct when it notes it has proper zoning. The law is on the restaurant's side. In addition, some concerns voiced at the planning commission meeting were absolutely irrelevhyperbole. McDonald's most likely will not allow mud-wrestling and peep shows to take place on the grounds.

Some township planners made it quite clear that McDonald's is undesirable; they can be expected to nit-pick new site plans. However, the thought here is that the firm might be persuaded to soften its appearance — as recommended by planner Richard Allen - and attempt to more readily blend with surrounding environs.

This proposal might be the best point to already dizzying swells of vehi- tack for the planning commission to take. Record welcomes letters

This newspaper welcomes letters to the editor. We ask, however, that they be issue-oriented, confined to 400 words and that they contain the signature, address, and telephone number of the writer. The writer's name may be withheld from publication if the writer fears bodily harm, severe persecution, or the loss of his or her job. The writer requesting anonymity must explain his or her circumstances. Submit letters for consideration by 4 p.m. Monday for that Thursday's paper. We reserve the right to edit letters for brevity, clarity, libel, and taste.

The week prior to an election, this newspaper will not accept letters to the editor that open up new issues. Only responses to already published issues will be accepted, with this newspaper being the final arbiter. This policy is an attempt to be fair to all concerned.

Giant tax increase on horizon

It won't be like Gov. Blanchard's 1983 penny-ante 38-percent temporary increase in the pesonal income tax.

It will be a Kentucky-style increase - income tax, sales tax, use tax, single business tax and whatever else moves or breathes. The reasons are many:

The out-of-formula school districts have had their categorical aid cut by $72 million annually. They are suing the state, arguing the 1978 Headlee amendment to the constitution says state government must pay local units for state-mandated services. Price: $72 million.

 Many outstate cities and counties are suing for equal treatment in court funding. In the late '70s, the state agreed to pick up the local costs of circuit, probate and district courts, starting with Detroit and Wayne County. The Wayne County suburbs and the other 82 counties never got theirs. Last estimated price tag: $175 million to $225 million.

 Poorer school districts want to sue the state for underfunding the school aid formula. Some districts can spend just $2,500 per pupil while others have $8,000-plus.

Right now, they have little chance because the Michigan Constitution doesn't require equal educational oppor-

I smell a gigantic state tax hike coming in two to 10 years. tunity. But some lawmakers, such as Rep. Bill Keith of Garden City and Kirk Profit of Ypsilanti, want it, and Jim Blanchard endorsed it in the second debate.

If such a bland and fair-sounding amendment were to be passed, Michigan would be inviting a Kentucky-style lawsuit for equal financing. I've written about this before. The "fairness" price tag: $1 billion or more.

 Oakland County already has sued the state for health money under the Headlee amendment, which requires state $\ \ .$ government to put 41.6 percent of its budget into aid to local units. Lansing accomplished it by taking state programs and labeling them "local." The case is going to the Supreme Court. I'll wager Oakland wins.

 Many other suits are out there — Medicaid payments to hospitals, mental health and goodness-knows-what-else. ● And then we have Headlee II — the proposal heading for the 1992 ballot in which we have an opportunity to vote ourselves a 20-percent property tax cut and tell the state to reimburse all the counties, cities, villages, townships, school districts, community colleges and special authorities. Depending on whom you're listening to, our yes votes will cost the state treasury $1 billion to $1.5 billion. Admittedly, some of the cost numbers I've quoted are hazy, but many are firm. We're looking at revenue shortfalls of several billion, maybe one-third to one-half of the current Moreover, it will take 10 years to settle some of the lawsuits. That's why I'm using the time frame of two to 10 years.

It's a dangerous world for kids

(Part two)

In 1988, the last year for which The National Center for Health Statistics has complete figures, 16,210 people died in the United States of acquired immune deficiency syndrome (AIDS).

That is indeed a terrible toll for a disease that 10 years earlier did not exist. We need to be concerned about it. We need to educate people about it. And our scientific community needs to continue searching for a cure for it. But we also need to keep it in perspective. If we listen only to the outcry about it, particularly from the national news media, we might be mislead into believing this "potentially devastating epidemic" is much more serious than it really is, that it is our nation's number-one health threat. It is

The fact of the matter is that the number of deaths due to AIDS still accounts for less than one percent of all deaths that occurred in the nation that year. Less than one percent 0.7 percent to be precise.

The number begins to pale in comparison to the 767,400 who died due to heart disease, or the 488,240 who died of cancer. It pales even compared to the 97,500 who died in accidents, the 77,330 who died of pneumonia or flu. the 30,260 who committed suicide, and even to the 22,190 who were murdered.

If we fail to keep AIDS in perspective, if we succumb to the hype surrounding the disease, we are likely to overreact. Overreactions lead to bad public policy.

AIDS is quite rare in children under age 13, making up less than 2 percent of the total number of cases. And the statistics offered by the national Center for Disease Control attribute the cause for all of these cases to blood transfusions and being born to mothers infected with the disease. There is not even a single case on record in which a person under age 13 contracted the disease due to the so-called "high risk" behaviors AIDS education programs are typically designed to warn against.

It is indeed a very dangerous world out there for youngsters, but the primary danger isn't from AIDS. Once kids reach their first birthday, and become a bit less susceptible to things like sudden infant death syndrome and conditions left over from the perinatal period, accidents become the number one killer. And it seems to me, such accidents are precisely the kinds of things educational programs might be ; able to warn youngsters about and to teach them to avoid.

Those 1988 statistics say that 8,069 children ages 0-14 died in accidents that year. The worst category was motor vehicle accidents, which claimed the lives of 3,538. The figure includes incidents in which the children were passengers and in which they were pedestrians. Bicycle accidents not involving cars claimed another 36 lives that year.

Drownings took the next highest number of youngsters, 1,403. Fires were next in line, claiming 1,202 lives. Choking on food or objects claimed 329 lives . . . and that wasn't restricted to just the youngest either - 49 were over the age of 5.

Accidental gunshots killed 234 kids. The majority, 200, were over the age of 5. Falls took 172 youthful lives. Poisonings took 85 lives. Again, that wasn't just the youngest - 26 were over the age of 5.

If schools want an effective health program, they should use their time and resources addressing the real dangers these youngsters face out in the world each and every day. Let's make sure they get to the age they have to worry about getting AIDS, and then we can worry about educating them about that danger.

An apology to forum attendees

To the editor:

An apology is owed those persons who attended a meeting at the First United Methodist Church of Northville on Nov. 1 for the purpose of an open discussion on The Michigan Model" (for comprehensive health education).

The request for the use of the building indicated that there would be free and open discussion concerning this issue. Unfortunately, this did not take place. During the time of the opening presentation, a questioner from the audience raised a question. The response of the presenter was that perhaps the person raising the question was at the wrong meeting. Such a response of the presenter to the questioner was totally uncalled for and was a very uncharitable remark. In addition, the presenter forgot the basic matter: he was a guest of the First United Methodist Church of Northville and had no right to suggest that a person raising a question was at a wrong meeting.

Upon reflection of the meeting, I have come to the conclusion that public education in our community and in much of the country is under assault. It has always been my belief that public education is a basic ingredient of our democracy. While private schools, colleges and universities are an integral part of our learning system, it is public education that provides the strength and the bulwark of a free people. We have seen in recent decades the growth of private schools in communities, some of which are called Christian schools. In many incidents it seems to me this is an appeal to the narrowest sectarian prejudices of people.

It appears to me that the silent majority of persons who send their children and youth to public schools must become increasingly involved and interested in public education or we will continue to see an assault by fringe groups and single-issue pressure groups that will seek to intimidate boards of education of our public schools. The silent majority must, therefore, become much more vocal in support of a public education

Morality must be taught to our children

To the editor:

I am not a philosopher, an intellectual, or a theologian. I am a parent—a mom. However, as a mother, I have made decisions based on much thought and consideration, concerning what basic premises my children would be raised upon. One premise that my husband and I agreed upon even before the kids were born was that of absolutism. We believe that there are absolute truths and absolute rights and wrongs in life which must be taught to children. I agree that until a child is 16 years old, his ability to make responsible decisions is not matured enough to obtain a driver's license, or that until he is 18, he has not matured enough to vote.

Maturity comes with training and guidance in what is right and wrong. When a teenager steals something and on his own returns the item and turns himself in, society responds with "How mature!" When a child hits another child because he feels like it. society responds, "How immature!"
The standard of measure is the ability to do what is right in spite of what he feels like doing.

So in order for my children to become mature, in this sense, I strive to teach them a firm grasp of right and wrong and then encourage them to choose what is right.

According to the Supreme Court rulings, the precedent has been established that the parent is still the ultimate authority over his or her own children.

The curriculum under debate, not just in Michigan, but country-wide. is built on the philosophy of nondirective education or "affective" education. The Problem Solving With People portion of the Michigan Model Comprehensive Health program teaches the teacher to become a facilitator, to allow the children to take a problem in life and explore it, decide or vote on a solution, and if it works, Eric S. Hammar go with it. If it doesn't work, try again.

Pastor Acue word is taught to the class by repetition. The word is "Uh-oh."

Upon hearing the teacher say "uhoh," the class is trained to automatically click into the thought process of PSP. The teacher is not to assign any judgement to the process or interject value prior to the decided on solution. The teacher stresses the importance of one's feelings in solving problems. The exercises help the children decide what is right or wrong on their own. Another name for this process of thinking is relative morality.

Because I am an absolutist, I have not given license to my children to decide what is right or wrong. I want them to be taught what is right or wrong by me, and then the element of choice falls to whether they choose to do what is already predetermined to e right or wrong.

Constitutionally, I thought I was rotected from anyone teaching my children philosophies or religions which are in direct conflict with my own "seriously held religious or philosophically held views." Isn't this why prayer in school has been omitted from the classroom? Why would anyone in authority in the school system want to force any child to learn a rocess of thinking which the parent adamantly objects to? What would it matter if my child were to sit out of 45 minutes of the entire week? It means a lot to me, but what could it possibly mean to anyone else.

This program was listed as the first to go if the last millage did not pass. So why have parents been told that it was questionable if a child would be graduated to the next class level if the child were held out of the Michigan Health classes and lessons?

I don't want to argue absolutism versus relative morality with anyone. The issue is that I have chosen to raise my children one way and the state is forcing me to have my children raised with a process of thought that is diabolically opposed to my way.

This is not a Christian-versus-theworld issue. It's not an issue of subjective rhetoric on what will help our kids say no to drugs, as asserted by The Northville Record a few weeks ago. This is a power struggle over our children. Who wields the power over what goes into your child's mind? Is it our school superintendent, the school board, or you? The hand that rocks the cradle rules the world. I plan to continue to rock my own cradle. I demand the freedom to do so. And if I'm not mistaken, the Supreme Court is on my side. Whose side are you on?

Judy Beckwith

Where do the school board members stand?

To the editor:

As parents of two Northville Public Schools students, I was very disappointed to learn that our school board members were not going to be present at the informational meeting egarding the Michigan Model.

I think the Northville Schools have consistently shown good, quality judgement in choice of curriculum in the past. However, this program has serious flaws and needs to be at the very least reevaluated. The law says that I have the right to opt out of classes which "conflict with my seriously held religious beliefs."

Not so, says Dr. Dolly McMaster, who seems to be the voice for the entire (elected!) school board and admi-nistrative staff. Will we ever know what Mr. (James) Petrie thinks on any issues? If not, let's elect a board president who is not afraid to sign his name to a letter in response to a parent's concerns.

We would not be so bold as to ask that the Michigan Model be totally removed. Let's just put it under the microscope with some loving parents' inputs and see what we can come up with.

When faced with the new PA 25 rule that is being discussed currently by the School Board, Dolly said, "One model does not work for all." I couldn't have said it better myself!

I shouldn't have to take time off of work to physically remove my child from objectionable classes. Are parents' rights no longer recognized? Mr. Petrie, come out from behind Dolly's shadow and face your public who elected you to do a job. Reelection season is upon us!

Assessment of 16-year-olds is vital

All our international competitors -Japan, Britain, Germany, France, the Scandinavian countries — examine all their children for what they have learned at around age 16. We do not. All our international competitors use this assessment as an important device to help their children decide whether to go on to higher education or enter the world of work. We

All our international competitors treat this assessment as an independent measurement of the skill levels achieved by their children. As anybody who has hired a recent high school graduate knows, our diplomas mean nothing as a measurement of skills.

Is there a relationship between the fact that our international competitors have school systems that regularly out-perform ours and their use of independent examinations for all their kids? I think so.

That is why I have been urging our leaders in Michigan to adopt such an assessment for our

We already know what employers want in basic skills from people who enter the work place. The statewide Commission on Employability Skills, chaired by Ford vice president Pete Pestillo, has been working for four years to define the necessary skills — literacy, numeracy, problem solving, social — to enter the work

We also know it is possible to construct an assessment of these skills that works less like the Scholastic Aptitude Test (multiple guess; scored by computer) and more like a merit badge (practical demonstration of skills; portfolios built over time).

If we put these factors together, we have all that's required to create a Michigan Certificate of Opportunity - a certificate that validates a young person's skills levels and functions as a passport to the world of work.

Lots of people have asked me questions about this idea. Now that the election is over, it's a good time to answer some of them.

What's the incentive for kids to take the assessment? We're heading into a recession; jobs will be scarce. Consider an employer interviewing two kids, one with the certificate and one without. Whom is the employer to hire? Kids will catch on real fast.

Can an assessment instrument be developed that's fair to all? (Remember, the SAT is widely regarded as biased in favor of white males.) In theory, yes.

But even if it takes a while to get the perfect assessment, some independent assessment of skills levels is better than none at all. We can fix problems with the assessment instrument. Absent any instrument, we have no idea what skills our kids actually derive from school.

Won't such an examination merely invite teachers to "teach to the test?" I sure hope so. If teachers were motivated to teach every kid in school the basic skills required to enter the work force, our economy would be a lot better

How does this help school reform? Simple. Faced with employers who demand independently validated skills and with parents and children who expect performance to get their certificates, schools will have to improve their Increasingly, I believe that the process of reforming our K-12 system is the most vital task we face as a nation. There's a lot of work going on in this area, within individual schools, in boards of education and in state departments of education. All of this work is taking place on the supply side of education.

What is needed now is pressure from the demand side - from those who hire school teachers and from parents and children. The Michigan Certificate of Opportunity provides an elegant way to help jump-start the process of school reform by applying pressure to the de-

Novi firm offers no-fee job placement service

One private company in Novi is doing its part to battle the unemployment situation.

"Serco is a private corporation that receives federal funds to implement job placement activities," said Suzette Reuter, assistant employment manager.

Serco receives its funds from the Oakland County Employment and Training department. In exchange for these funds, Serco is responsible for helping western Oakland County residents who fall into low income categories or who are dislocated workers, find permanent jobs. There is no fee for this service. However, prospective clients must provide proof of residency in Oakland County and proof of citizenship or right to work. They must also document their source of income for the past six

"Our responsibility at this office is -to approve the applicants that we believe are eligible through the program, Reuter said. Through various means we provide intake services to determine eligibility."

-Serco also assesses prospective client's skills, educational background and interests in order to best match them up with an appropriate available position. Simultaneously, Reu Serco is constantly looking for new companies to work with.

as an employment agency is we can reimburse the company 50 percent of that person's starting rate of pay through the on-the-job training program," Reuter said. "That reimbursement will come to the company once we can demonstrate that the person has worked approximately six weeks on the job."

Reuter said that this policy was enacted to provide an incentive to companies to hire people who are unemployed and might not otherwise have a chance. She also said that prospective clients are screened by Serco and then sent out to interview with prospective companies.

The benefits for the companies are that there is no obligation to hire the individuals. They come to the company prescreened. We only refer applicants to a company upon the company's request . . . A company can use our service as much as they like or as little as they like."

Serco will even customize to fit a particular company's needs. Some companies want Serco to handle all their applications; others may only want to see a limited number of Reuter emphasizes the importance of having the necessary papers. We see approximately 40 to 70 peo-"What makes our program unique ple a month," she said. "So the only people we can send out to the companies for interviews are those people who have all their documentation in never give up," Reuter said.

Once a client has been placed, Serco is required to do a follow-up of the company and the client to ascertain if the person is still employed 90 days after the subsidy period ends. In order to maintain funding. Serco must assure that approximately 80 percent of people referred to jobs retain those jobs.

Serco uses several means to recruit people. There are newspaper ads, contacts with the Department of Social Services office in Walled Lake, and the unemployment office in Livonia. There are also quite a few walkins. Serco prefers to see people by appointment, but walk-ins won't automatically be turned away. Reuter classifies most of the positions Serco fills as clerical, warehouse, light industrial and positions in the service industry.

Serco's parent company is Ser-Metro Detroit, an employment training agency which establishes and runs classroom training programs and assists people from Detroit and western Wayne County.

Educational tax deductions require some homework

A drama professor takes a trip to England for the summer. Besides sightseeing, she spends a considerable amount of time going to plays in London. Would her trip qualify as an educational expense?

The answer is no. The tax law doesn't allow you to deduct the cost of travel that in itself is a form of education - even if those expenses are directly related to your work.

Understanding which educational expenses are deductible and which aren't can be confusing. In general, educational expenses are considered to be of a personal nature by the IRS and are not deductible. However, the Michigan Association of CPAs says that as an employee or self-employed individual, you're entitled to claim certain educational expense. A look at the rules will help sort out the confusion.
THE BASIC RULES

You may deduct educational expenses if you enroll in courses that either maintain or improve the skills you need for your business or job. For example, a teacher who takes a course every year to enhance his knowledge of the subjects he teaches may deduct his expenses. In addition, you may also deduct educational expenses if your employer, the law, or regulations, require that you take course to keep your job, salary or status.
DOES THE EDUCATION PREPARE

YOU FOR A NEW CAREER?

The IRS does not allow you to deduct the cost of education that qualifles vou for a new trade or profession. even if you have no intention of pursuing another profession. For example, a lawyer who studies for an MBA to gain a better understanding of how corporations operate may not be allowed to deduct his expenses even though he is not planning on becoming a financial analyst.

On the other hand, suppose that

Money Management

previous business.

duct them

An exception to this rule is a leave of absence. You may be able to deduct courses taken while you're on temporary leave. For example, a research chemist quits her job to take a one year, full-time course in chemistry. If she returns to work in the chemistry field, and her expenses otherwise qualify, she may be able to deas a year or less. However, the courts have ruled that leaves can be more than one year. The deciding factor in these cases is whether you plan to return to the same trade or business.

The IRS defines a leave of absence you're a teacher and you take courses that qualify you for an administrator's position. Would those expenses be deductible? Yes, because all teaching and related duties are considered the same type of work. The specialty may change but not the profession. Similarly, a psychoanalyst who takes courses to become a psychiatrist or a practicing dentist who studies to become an orthodontist may deduct their educational expenses. However, a police officer who enrolls in evening law school courses may not deduct his expenses because upon completion of the courses, he will be qualified to work in a different profession. Since the rules can be complex, consult a CPA to find out if the educational program you are planning constitutes a career

HAVE YOU MET MINIMUM EDUCA-TION REQUIREMENTS?

You may not deduct expenses for courses taken to help you meet the minimum educational requirements for your chosen trade or profession. For example, a law student is hired by a law firm to do legal research, on the condition that he will obtain a law degree and pass the state bar examination. The law courses and bar review course are not deductible because they are needed to help him fulfill the minimum educational requirement for employment. CPA exam or bar review courses are considered personal expenses and are not deductible.

OTHER NONDEDUCTIBLE EDUCATION

Other courses ineligible for the deduction include those taken for purely personal reasons such as a film course or art appreciation course, and those taken to enable you to enter a profession for the first time or return to work or re-enter a

WHAT MAY YOU DEDUCT?

If you qualify for an educational deduction, what costs can you deduct? In general, any funds you spend on tuition, books, supplies and lab fees are deductible. If you take correspondence courses or use a private tutor, those expenses may also be deducted. And if you have someone type your papers, that cost may be included in your taxdeductible total.

Transportation expenses to and from your job to school are also deductible, including the use of your own car, or train, bus and taxi fares. Depending on the distance between your job and school, you may be able to deduct either one-way or roundtrip expenses.

If you stop at home on your way from work to school, you may deduct the cost of your travel, but only to the extent that it doesn't exceed the cost of going directly from work to school. However, CPAs point out that on non-work days, you may not deduct traveling costs between your home

You may be able to further your education and trim your taxes all at the same time. Just remember that unreimbursed educational expenses are deductible only to the extent that they exceed 2 percent of your adjusted gross income.

Until Now, The Value Of DVERTISING WAS SOMETHING EVEN ITS STRONGEST PORTERS COULDN'T PUT INTO NUMBERS

They could cite success stories of advertising going into a market, how this was followed by a shift in purchase patterns, in market share, in immediate sales.

But no one expressed the value of advertising as return-oninvestment until The Strategic Planning Institute did its study* called PIMS (Profit Impact of Market Strategy) with the Ogilvy Center for Research and Development.

> The study found that advertising nearly doubled return-on-investment! The graph on the left makes it perfectly clear.

Brands that advertise much more than their competitors enjoy an average return-on-investment of 32 percent. Brands that advertise much less than their competitors average 17 percent.

The PIMS study provides the first systematic evidence that links advertising, profitability, and growth. It draws on more than 700 consumer businesses in North America and Europe, spanning the years 1970 to 1986—years of both rapid and slow inflation, both good and bad years of the business cycle.

The graph on the lower right shows further evidence. It represents the competitive performance of two actual brands over a 10-year period, as analyzed by Robert M. Prentice, a management consultant in advertising and marketing. He distinguishes between consumer-franchise-building (CFB) activities (whether advertising or promotion) and non-CFB activities.

Brand A used predominantly priceincentive promotions. Brand B spent approximately the same amount. However, most of the money went into consumer-franchise-building activitiesparticularly advertising and promotion.

In the first year, the two brands were nearly even in their category. But after 10 years in which they took dramatically contrasting approaches to the spending of marketing funds, they ended up in remarkably different positions.

Brand B had become a resounding success, not only in terms of its sales performance versus Brand A, but also in terms of its contributing profits to the company.

For brand franchise owners and managers, the insight into how advertising contributes to profitability will be as interesting as how much it contributes.

For more information, you can write to The Committee on the Value of Advertising, Department A, American Association of Advertising Agencies, 666 Third Avenue, New York, NY 10017.

Now that there's finally proof of advertising's true value, there's only one thing you need to do.

Take advantage of it.

999 9 6 999 999 BRAND A BRAND B Note: Brand A used primarily non-consumer-franchise-building sales incentives, while Brand B chose mostly consumer-franchise-building marketing incentives. ☐ Sales ☐ Profit

The Winchester is one of the many plans that Landmark has to offer that may be converted to an energy-efficient home.

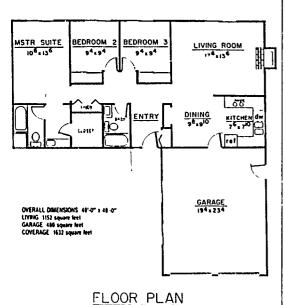

Within 1,152 square feet of living space are three bedrooms and two baths. The garage, with an additional 480 square feet, could be nicely converted to a recreation room, if the extra living space is desired.

When using standard construction, a conveniently placed side-light window beside the front door helps add light to the entry. By making the window out of stained glass you could add your personal touch and color.

The master bedroom suite, one of the home's main features, is unique in that the bathroom has a planter box at the end of the tub, with two windows for natural light. These being made of frosted glass would enhance the corner, as well as adding the needed privacy. The walk-in closet, with the vanity placed outside the actual bathing area, makes a lovely dressing area.

The large living room, adjacent to the dining room, provides an excellent traffic flow. The dining room has a place to put a built-in hutch or beverage bar.

Either way you choose to build—standard or energy-efficient-the possible variations are

Jim Walker gazes up from the lower level of his two-story home greenhouse

Greenhouse offers energy savings and playground

By Marilyn Herald

Many men play softball, hockey, bowl or hunt for their rest and relaxation time. Jim Walker of Valley View Lane in Milford gets his R and R growing plants.

Walker enjoys it so much, he had a greenhouse added to the rear of his home in 1982. And this is no ordinary greenhouse, but a two-level affair with sliding door access from the dining area on the main floor and the recreation room on the ground level.

"Solar greenhouses were the thing in the early '80s when there was a big push for energy savings," said Walker, manager of the Rochester branch of Swett and

"It's an insurance brokerage firm where we solve agents' problems with specialty lines - finding coverage for weird and unusual insurance requests."

Walker said he had recently completed a master gardener's course when he began looking into the feasibility of having a greenhouse constructed as an energy saver for his nome.

"It's 13-by-13 feet with two decks and it cost $6,260 to complete when we had it built in 1982," he explained. "The federal government paid 40 percent of the cost since this was during the energy crunch when they were encouraging homeowners to cut energy use.

"The State of Michigan picked up the sales tax too because of energy savings."

The greenhouse is a solar success because the Walkers have definitely experienced energy savings through efficient use of this glass enclosure located on the southeast corner of their home. "I looked at the greenhouse as a little playground for me and a substantial savings in heat.

"Everything we have is gas powered and the house is about 3,000 square feet. We charted the savings and have cut our gas usage by 50 percent. Our entire gas bill, year-round, is $42 per month."

In addition, Walker and his wife sometimes enjoy a brief winter break by having brunch in the sunshine on the upper level of the greenhouse which is carpeted and includes a set of steps leading to their outdoor

The lower level is the real workroom where Walker cultivates a variety of plants and each winter starts as many as 14 flats of vegetables and flowers for spring planting outdoors.

The greenhouse is equipped with quilted style shades that can be used to close off the cold from the house or the plants when necessary. In the summer when the sun is really shining, there are shade cloths which "knock out ultra violet rays" to keep it from overheating.

Walker said as much as he enjoys his "playground," its principle purpose is to heat the house and that is how it's used. Because of its two levels, judicious opening of the sliding doors also provides circulation

During the two really cold winter months, plants are brought into the family recreation room or other parts of the house at night because the greenhouse gets all

REAL ESTATE

It may be the time to buy real estate

By JAMES M. WOODARD

The current real estate market may be a 'window of opportunity" for buyers. There has been much talk about an increasingly depressed real estate market in recent months in many areas. Declining sales and property values are noted. A tight "buyer's market" is described. More recently, however, some positive signals indicate there may soon be a turnaround in the market, making this period a highly strategic time to purchase a home or other real estate. "The market we're now experiencing isn't a strange new devastating marketplace," said William Fisher, real estate analyst and publisher of the Wednesday Wrap newslet-"We moved into an 'actively falling' stage out of an 'actively topping' stage. Now prices are correcting in changed market circumstance. There is no evidence we're on the verge of lasting declines in home valucs."

A study by the National Association of Realtors revealed that there are recent acrossthe-board improvements in all areas of home affordability. This should help to boost sales and values. The biggest positive impact on the recent market was declining interest rates, an NAR report noted. However, the decline was shortlived due to the Middle East conflict and resulting military build-up in the Persian

No one really knows what direction the market will take in future months. Factorseconomic and otherwise-are just too uncertain and potentially volatile. But many real estate analysts are predicting a more robust market.

While affordability is generally up, firsttime home buyers are still having a tough time getting into the market, particularly in high-priced areas.

Norman Flynn, NAR president, offers this advice for families seeking their first home:

"Individuals and families considering home ownership for the first time should not be discouraged by some of the initial obstacles that face them. Many families who never dreamed it would be possible to own a home are homeowners today simply because they received good advice and were able to make the financial stretch. "The lower adjustable-rate mortgage is a good financing tool for buyers to consider right now. Also, the Federal Housing Administration's single-family mortgage insurance program has helped low-and moderate-income families make the transition from renting to owning with its less stringent down payment and qualifying requirements."

Q. When will the expanded program for FHA-insured reverse mortgages be approved by Congress? Are those mortgages a popular concept? A. Authorization for an expanded FHA reverse mortgage program is part of the new housing bill, now being debated in a conference committee.

A reverse mortgage is a special instrument with which seniors, over age 62, can tap the equity in their home to generate additional tax-free monthly income for the rest of their lives—or as long as they own and reside in their home. There are also variations on that basic plan.

The popularity of the concept continues to be strong.

"We receive about 10,000 inquiries per year about reverse mortgage plans," said Katie Sloan, consumer specialist with the American Association of Retired Persons. "The flow of inquiries into our office has not diminished in recent months."

Ken Scholen, director of the National Center for the Home Equity Conversion, also points to continuing strong consumer demand.

"There's no reason the demand and use of reverse mortgages will not continue to grow, particularly with the availability of the FHAinsured reverse mortgage and a strong secondary market," Scholen said.

Q. is there ever a problem for an owner of a rental property in declaring depreciation of the property on his tax forms?

A. We directed that question to Richard Robinson, CPA, who has long specialized in tax factors related to real estate ownership.

His response: 'One of the requirements for depreciating rental income property is the property must be placed in service. Placed in service means it is rented or offered for rent at fair market

"For example, listing the property for rent at fair rent with a licensed real estate broker would qualify the property for depreciation starting the day of the listing if the property is otherwise available.

"In a recent case, the court denied an owner a depreciation deduction for business property they permitted their son to use rentfree for his business. The court said they did not hold the property for production of income or use it for their trade or business. If the son had paid fair market rent, depreciation (and other related rental property expenses) would have been deductible.

Inquiries are invited and may be answered in this column. Write James M. Woodard, Copley News Service, P.O. Box 190, San Diego, CA 92112-0190.

Greenhouse is solar success

of its heat from solar rays.

"After a rough week at work, half a day on Saturday in the greenhouse takes away the stress," Walker adds as he displays some of his many, variously colored holiday cacti which are about to burst into full bloom. "Cacti do very well now because they like long, cool nights.

"Greenhouses have come a long way since we built ours. Wendy's, McDonald's and Big Boy have all added solarium rooms.

Walker recommended that anyone thinking of adding a greenhouse should decide first whether it is to be used as an energy saver for the house or as a place just for plants.

"You have to decide whether you want to have a heat source in the greenhouse (other than sun) or if you will use the solar energy to heat water or the house. It could take all the energy (stored up) to heat the house at night."

Although he enjoys helping nearly every kind of plant thrive, Walker particularly likes raising jasmine. It is an ivy type plant that features pink buds, opening into a cloud of white flowers. The delicate fragrance during blossom time easily fills the house. Walker said it is ideal for the winter greenhouse because jasmine likes temperatures that do not go above 65 degrees Fahrenheit.

Of course, Walker's many varieties of plants never live exclusively in the greenhouse. They are shifted into the foyer, the dining room, the kitchen, the family room when they are at their best. Some of them even go to the office with Walker and are brought home for rejuvenation as needed.

This master gardener believes in using as many natural products as possible for better growth and less pollution inside and outside his home. He keeps a compost pile for his outdoor plants.

The Hasta Gro liquid fertilizer he uses on the indoor plants is shipped in from Hondo, Texas and comes complete with built-in dispenser on the bottle so that he can be sure of adding just the right amount to the gallons of rainwater he carefully catches in an area near the garage. In winter, he scoops up big barrels of snow and puts them in the greenhouse to melt and provide water for his plants.

"Good organic fertilizer does not stink as some people believe," Walker pointed out. "I believe in watering my plants from the top to wash the salts through them instead of having it build up on top of the soil."

While earning his master gardener certificate, Walker wrote a gardening column for The Milford Timeentitled "Growing Things." The column appeared in 1979-80 amd helped him fulfill one of the master gardening requirements — public

As another form of public service, he spoke on gardening on Saturdays at a weekly family education session at the McDonald's Restaurant in Keego Harbor as well as lecturing occasionally at Oakland Community College.

"I always felt it was good practice for business speeches which I also have to do."

Walker advises those who grow plants and flowers to purchase good stock at the beginning. "You get what you pay for."

Right now, flowering bulbs which will be used as Christmas presents have a good start in Walker's greenhouse where amaryllis. poinsettias and ivy geraniums are grown every year along with lots of other interesting varieties.

Use shim to align hinges

BY GENE GARY

Q. We have two doors that, when opened, will not stay open. They close about halfway.

New hinges did not solve the problem. Do you have any suggestions?

A. This is caused by the door not being hung perpendicularly. To correct the condition, one of the hinge plates on the frame, depending on which one is out of line, must be adjusted.

A thin shim of wood placed under the hinge plate will move it out from the door frame; a more difficult adjustment is made by deepening the recess to move the plate in the other direction.

Q. Several years ago i put safety non-skid strips in the tub and shower.

I am planning to sell my home and I would like to remove them without leaving marks. How should I do this? The tub and shower are figerglass.

A. We have answered this question many times in the past, but readers repeatedly request this information, so we are happy to again provide some suggestions.

The removal of this type of product will depend on the type of adhesive the manufacturer used. Here are several suggestions that have worked for other readers.

Spray the adhesive strips with Spray and Wash, let soak until the adhesive is softened, then remove. If you need to scrape any of the strips or residue glue, be sure to use a plastic scraper that will not scratch the fiberglass.

Another one of our readers recommended peanut butter. Evidently peanut butter, left overnight, is effective in softening some of these adhesives.

Some more conventional methods use lemon oil, rubbr cement solvent or lacquer thinner as solvents to dissolve the glue.

The key is the compostion of the glue; different glues require different solvents. Three other solvents you can try include MEK (Methyl Ketone), 34X and naptha.

To soften the glue, so you can remove the rubberized strips or decals, try using a hair dryer. Once the strips are removed you will only have to worry about the sticky glue

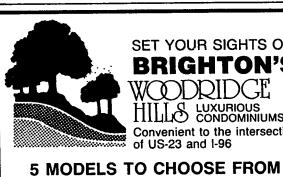

Reader tip

"I've just made the scientific discovery of the century—how to clean water-stained crystal vases.

"Use liquid toilet bowl cleaner. I like Lysol Cling. It doesn't work on very old, very heavy stains but it did wonders for a vase about 3 years old that was cloudy inside. I had tried vinegar and dishwasher detergent.

"I used a squirt (maybe 1 tablespoon) of cleaner, filled the vase with warm water (1 cup), and left it overnight. It cleaned perfectly."

POW! Animal prints are making a comeback

BY ROSE BENNETT GILBERT Q. My aunt, who was an interior decorator in the 1950s, left an attic full of old magazines when she died. I've been fascinated to see a lot of animal patterns used in rooms done in the 1940s and even the 1930s.

Now I'm beginning to see leopard, zebra and other animal prints show up in rooms of today. Is it true that they're making a comeback?—R.C., Shaker Heights, Ohio.

A. Interior designs—like anthing that has to do with fashion-tend to be cyclical. Yes, you've spotted a leopard trend, rising again after a hiatus of a half century or so.

Of course, animal skins—the real thing-provided the first color and design in humankind's habitats. But it was Elsie de Wolfe (Lady Mendl) who first popularized leopard spots-the in the late 1930s.

Today, such top designer as Betty Sherrill, president of McMillen Inc., New York (the world's oldest interior decorating company), have rediscovered animal patterns. Sherrill recently did over her entire dining room—chairs and wall-to-wall-in faux leopard.

Trend analysts credit our concern about the environment for our growprinted kind—in rooms she designed ing fascination with all things natural, including flowers, botanical designs and animal patterns.

> It doesn't hurt that jungle prints are also just plain sexy take a look at the combination of animal motifs in the room we show here. All in dramatic black and white, it features fabrics and wall coverings from the Ellen Tracy collection designed by Linda Allard for United Wallcovering.

The negative color scheme is proof positive of the POW! that animal prints can pack into a room.

Q. I'm thinking of painting my living room walls dark, glossy green. I thought the ceiling should be glossy, too, but the painter savs cellings are always painted flat. Is he right?-R.G., Austin,

A. If the ceiling is low and oppressive, it's usually wise to treat it as unobtrusively as possible.

If it's so high the room feels cavernous, then darker colors in a non-reflective finish will make it feel closer and

Is it JUNK or is it MAIL?

By CRISTINA FERRIER

Did we get any mail? Nah. Just junk mail.

Junk mail. It fills mailboxes, often goes unopened into garbage cans, and is hauled off to fill our landfills. And don't forget the trees that die to make that paper. According to The Whole Earth Review, 62.8 billion pieces of unsolicited mail, including 12 billion catalogs, were mailed to homes and businesses in 1989.

Further, the catalogs alone caused the destruction of 74,000 acres of forest. With magazines, newspapers and other direct-mail advertisements, the total is estimated at over 1 million acres.

But if you want to discuss the situation with Northville Postmaster Wallace Cates, don't even utter the words "junk mail."

"We don't use that word here," Cates said. We call it bulk business

Bulk business mail is the lifeline of the U.S. Postal Service. According to Susan Gillespie, public relations manager for the Detroit area postal service, almost 90 percent of U.S. mail is business-related.

Breaking that figure down, 58 percent of mail is from non-households (businesses and organizations) mailed to households and 30 percent is mailed from business to business. Only 12 percent of all mail originates in a household and is delivered to another household.

"A large proportion of the mail we process is related to business," she said. "Over three-quarters of mail is from services and non-profit organizations and retail and wholesale

And that spells a lot of jobs for people who work for the post office.

"Extra work? That's what we're here for," said Cates. "Our job is to service that mailer, whether it's Aunt Minnie down the street or a big company like Sears or Lord and Taylor. It's just our job, every day."

Cates said that, in his years with

Gillespie said she has no doubt that much of that bulk mail is read.

"You would be surprised at the people who complain if they don't get that mail," she said. "They rely on that mail to find sales, especially now, at Christmastime."

HomeTown Newspapers is "definitely concerned about the environmental waste generated by bulk mailing newsprint, Perlberg said.

"But we're running more newsprint in the papers than the shoppers," he added.

Currently 14 percent of the newsprint used for these papers is from recycled fiber, which is about the national average. However, Perlberg explained, there is only a finite amount of recycled newsprint available.

You say you're sick of unsolicited mail? You don't care how much money junk mail is making for the post office and businesses? All you do is throw it away?

That's fine. You can save a tree and help the environment by getting your name off the mailing lists.

To do so, send your name and address to Mail Preference Service, c/o Direct Marketing Association, 11 W. 42nd Street, New York, NY 10163-3861 or call (212) 768-7277. Ask to be eliminated from mailing and telephone calling lists.

Demray's work creates positive changes in town

By LESLIE PEREIRA Special Writer

Northville resident William Demray likes to try to effect change. And he has been doing just that as a member of Northville's Downtown Development Authority (DDA).

The DDA is an advisory committee to the City Council which helps manage and control Northville's economic growth. The approximately 10 members meet monthly.

I live and work in this community and I feel that you have to give something back," said Demray.

Demray enjoys being part of the decision-making process in the city, but says there are certain pitfalls associated with taking a stand.

You do create some ill will among certain groups, but what is the alternative?" Demray asked.

Demray said he wanted to take knew several years ago that change and rapid growth in Northville was

The most effective way to cope with change is to help create it," said Demray. The no-growth attitude is something that can't exist."

Demray said the DDA played an "instrumental" role in the Main Street parking structure and acknowledged that parking issues were among the city's most pressing demands.

"I think everyone recognizes that we have a parking problem and we have to address it," said Demray. "But there are limits to what you can

For future projects, Demray be-lieves the DDA will be a strong force in the decisions made about the empty Ford plant. The building, at the corner of Main Street and Griswold downtown, has been closed for about a year.

"I certainly want to be there when part in DDA activities because he those discussions are going on, said Demray. "It may not go your way but at least throw your vote in."

Weddings

Kristine Elizabeth Pearce and Mark William Nelson

Kristine Elizabeth Pearce of Northville married Mark William Nelson of Oak Park, Ill., on Aug. 4, 1990. She is the daughter of Dr. Edward Pearce and his wife, Betsy. His parents are William and Marcia Nelson of Oak Park. Ill.

Phillip Nelson of Westmont Illinois and Bruce Calderwood of Southfield officiated at the 11 a.m., double-ring ceremony held at the First Bapist Church of Northville.

The bride chose a satin wedding gown detailed with alencon lace, pearls and sequins having short puffed sleeves and a chapel length train. Her short veil was secured by a pearl and alencon lace headpiece. To complete her ensemble, she carried a cascade bouquet of white dendroblum orchids, white stephanotis and pink and white roses.

Kathy Pearce of Northville, sister of the bride, acted as maid of honor. She wore a Williamsburg blue tea-length dress of moire taffeta and carried a cascade bouquet of cornflowers, mini carnations, zinnias, sweetheart roses and alstroemaria. Bridesmaids were Lydia Bowden of Keystone Heights, Fla., Beth Wood of Northport, N.Y., Amy Miller of York, Penn., and Wendy Williams of Iowa City, Iowa, all college classmates of the bride.

Guest book attendants were Linda Bacigalupi and Karen Peterson of Northville, friends of the bride since elementary school. Emily Howland was the flower girl.

Kevin McGinnis of Quincy, Ill., a college classmate of the groom, acted as best man. Tim Lindquist of Wheaton, Ill., and Jeff Kyle of Effingham,

Stephanie Lynn Asher and Timothy D. Center

Stephanie Lynne Asher of Northville married Timothy David Center of Ypsilanti July 21. The bride is the daughter of Ronald and Beverly Asher of Northville. The groom's parents are Ted and Barbara Center of Hale, Michigan.

Dr. Holland Lewis officiated at the double-ring, 4 p.m. ceremony held at the First Church of the Nazarene in Farmington Hills, and included a solo performance by the bride's cousin, Jennifer Asher.

The bride chose a wedding gown with sweetheart neckline, a chapellength train embroidered with exquisite cutwork, and full skirt trimmed with pearls and sequins. To complement her ensemble, she carried a bouquet of pink and white tiger lillies, mini-carnations, and rosebuds with cascading greenery.

The maid of honor, Daniella Asher, the bride's sister, and bridesmaids Wendy Francis and Danielle Rodgers wore gowns of cotton candy pink satin, full skirt with high-low hem, off the shoulder. They carried bouquets of multi-colored tiger lillies, carnations and rosebuds.

Scott Martin served as best man. Ushers were David Buchel and Joseph Moceri, Kelly Cobb was ringbearer and Jaclyn Cobb was the flower girl.

A reception for 150 guests including the bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. T.L. Blanchard, and cousin Thomas Blanchard, was held at the Country Epicure in Novi immediately following the ceremony.

The bride is a student at Eastern Michigan University, majoring in special education.

The groom is also a student at Eastern Michigan University, majoring in marketing.

The couple honeymooned in California, visiting Disneyland, San Diego and San Francisco. They plan to make their home in Canton.

Dave Howell of Griswold, Iowa, all also college classmates of the groom, along with Steven Pearce of Northville, brother of the bride, and Eric and Lee Miller of Horicon, Wisc., cousins of the groom, served as ushers.

A reception for 250 guests was held at the Livonia Marriott immediately following the ceremony.

The bride is a 1986 graduate of Southfield Christian High School and a 1990 graduate of Wheaton College with a degree in elementary education.

The groom attended Wheaton College, where the two met freshman year, and graduated from the University of Illinois with a degree in Sociology this year.

The two honeymooned in Harbor Springs, Mich., and plan to make their home in Pasadena, Calif., where Mark is attending Fuller Theological Seminary and Kristie is teaching fourth grade in nearby Monrovia.

Tracy Kohl and Jeffrey M. Darrow

Tracy Kohl of Northville became the wife of Jeffrey M. Darrow of Dearborn on Sept. 1. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Kohl of Northville. Darrow is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Darrow Sr. of Northville.

The Reverend Martin Ankrum officiated at the 5 p.m., double-ring ceremony that included readings by Sandee Schall and Susan Libertucci, Susan Bickner singing "Gift of Love" and two trumpets being played.

Wendy Kohl, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a teal shantung two-piece custom-made suit and carried a bouqet of ivory freesia tied with satin ribbon. Bridesmaids were Susan Darrow, the groom's sister-in-law, Diane Tokin and Laurie Darrow and Mary Ann Churchill, sisters of the groom, and Sheila Tadych. Junior bridesmaids were Katie and Amy Kohl, the bride's sisters, who wore floral print dresses handmade by the mother of the bride and carried miniature bridesmaid's held at the Meadowbrook Country Club immediately following the ceremony.

Best men were brothers of the groom Michael and Robert Darrow. Ushers included Scott Tobin, the groom's brother-in-law, George Arnold, Atul Kishore, and Jerry Weltman.

A reception for 250 guests was

The two met while attending Northville High School.

The bride is a graduate of Michigan State University, and is currently employed with a public accounting firm in Detroit.

The groom is a graduate of Wayne State University, and is working on a master's degree from the University of Detroit. He is currently employed as a product design engineer with the Ford Motor Co. in Dearborn.

The couple honeymooned in Bermuda, and plan to make their home in Dearborn.

Janice Margot Van Loke and Dean Allen York

Janice Margot Van Loke of Northville married Dean Allen York Jr. of Peru, Indiana, on May 19, 1990. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cyril Van Loke of Northville. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Dean Allen York Sr. of Northville.

The Rev. Walter Dickinson officiated at the 5 p.m. double ring service held at the Sword of the Spirit Lutheran Church in Livonia.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a white satin wedding gown featuring a Queen Anne neckline, full length sleeves with bridal points and a basque waist trimmed with schiffli lace, seed pearls and sequins. Her cathedral length train accented with schiffli lace and three satin candy box bows complemented a fingertip veil attached to a headband of silk roses dusted with sequins and pearls, a creation of Doreen Earl, mother of the maid of honor.

To complete her ensemble, the bride carried a crescent bouquet of calla lillies, rubrium lillies, freesia and stephanotis.

Tracie Earl of Northville was the maid of honor. Tina York of Northville, sister of the groom, along with Annamarie and Erica Thiele of Harpursville, N.Y., cousins of the bride, and Christine Diehl of Northville were bridesmaids.

Best man was Thomas Viel of Northville. Serving as ushers were Harold York, brother of the groom. Richard White, currently serving aboard the USS Eisenhower, and Vyto Viskantas of Northville.

A reception was held for 130 guests at the Livonia Holiday Inn on Six Mile immediately following the ceremony.

The bride is a 1986 graduate of Northville High School and a 1990 graduate of the University of Michigan. She is currently employed as a middle school science teacher in Logansport. Indiana.

The groom is a 1987 graduate of Northville High School. He is currently a Senior Airman serving as a desk sergeant with the security police at Grissom Air Force Base in Indiana.

The couple honeymoonedin the Poconos and plan to make their home in Peru, Indiana.

There's plenty to learn in airports

By Iris Sanderson Jones

Things I learned while flying American Airlines flight 1353 Detroit to Raleigh-Durham, while waiting for flight 285 to Miami and while hanging around waiting for delivery of a rental car from Carnival ، Rent-A-Car.

Take that long-winded sentence, double it, convert whenever possible to foursyllable words, eliminate punctuation marks and you will be in good shape to enter the Second Annual American Way Faux Faulkner Contest. for which you must submit 250-500 words of the eloquently rambling variety, words like avatar, epicene, promptitude and ineffable, thereaster to be eligible to win two round trip tickets on American Airlines anywhere in the continental U.S. Bahams or Hawaii.

Note to the copy desk: I know that was a very long sentence, but please don't shorten it. Note to readers: Newspaper writers get yelled at by copy editors if a paragraph is more than four or five lines long.

I got that piece of world-shaking news from the inflight magazine called American Way, which also includes a review of a novel by Dan Gerber of Fremont, Mich.

These magazines always have good information, of special interest to air travelers. and much of that good information is in the ads. My travel companion gets nervous when he hears me tearing out pages-about Airfone, the inflight telephone service that now accepts AT&T calling cards; about a software called P.C. Globe (has anyone out there used it?); about a onepound computer called The Poquet PC; about National Geography Week (Nov. 11-17).

Why don't you take the whole magazine. It says on the front that you can take it," he asked.

"Too heavy," I said, as the loose pages fluttered to the floor.

good information. The last time I was in Newark, for example, I noticed that you can pay your parking lot ticket inside the terminal; they give you half an hour to get out of the lot and that eases the traffic jam of cars lined up at the ticket booth.

In Raleigh-Durham I found a do-it-yourself fax machine. Use your credit card. Pay $4 for the first minute and $2.50 for each additional minute and send up to 30 pages on a fax machine standing unattended at Gate 11 of the American Arlines concourse.

You learn a lot of things this way. Here are two things you can get from the government, for example. Call the State Department at (202) 783 3238, and they'll send you "Background Notes" on your next travel destination. Or send 50 cents to the Consumer Information Department, 455 W., Pueblo, Colorado, 81009, and they'll send you a brochure listing foreignentry requirements for 213 countries, including the addresses of embassies and consulates.

Got any tips to add to the list? Send them to me at 35516 Grand River, Farmington Hills, MI 48335.

Touring South Carolina's mountains

By Bettie Cannon

Once upon a time, Cherokee Indians called this place "Sahkanaga, the Great Blue Hills of God," or "Oconee, water eyes of the hills."

Today, people call it "Upcountry" in South Carolina, or "Land of the Sky" in North Carolina.

But whatever you call these Mountains now-Indian names, tourism names or just plain wonderful—they are a place of waterfalls, white water rivers, lakes, parks and scenes of breath-taking mountain scenery.

Tucked into the side of the Blue Ridge Mountains which rise to more than 6,600 feet at Mt. Mitchell in North Carolina, this westernmost part of the Carolinas is famous for its low humidity and moderate climate.

In every corner of natural beauty, you'll also find local arts and crafts: the largest private home in North America; small, unique museums; historic homes and towns; and bustling cities.

DAY ONE: Begin your visit by flying into the Greenville/Spartanburg Regional Airport. Rent a car. Pick a spot to use as your base of operations. Take day-trips out from your hotel or stay in a new place every Pendleton, a good first stop, is a short drive from the airport through the foothills, north off I-85. Ask locally; it isn't on rent-a-car maps. This town was where wealthy "low country" South Carolinians summered in the 19th century and is now one of the nation's largest historic districts.

At the top of the green, in the old Hunter's Store, pick up a cassette tour of nearby historic sites. Shops featuring local arts and crafts and antiques can be found around the

Or sit on a bench in front of the former courthouse and pretend you're part of small southern town life in 1880. (Don't whittle, it's called littering nowadays.)

Make-believe won't be hard, because the Farmer's Society Hall, built in 1826 as the district courthouse, is now a peaceful, cool oasis for lunch. In the small tearoom, you'll hear the pleasant sound of soft Carolina voices mixed with Yankee accents.

To continue the pretense, you might want to stay at the antiquefilled, 1840 Liberty Hall on South Mechanic Street to sit and rock on its wide verandas. The bed and breakfast inn is just outside of town on Route 28.

DAY TWO: Clemson University, home of the famous Clemson Tigers, is on State Route 123, north of Pendleton. The team's orange tiger paw insignia is painted on the streets, leading you to the 80,000-seat stadium which looms over the campus like a misplaced space ship. But, there are reminders of Clemson's historic beginnings here, too. Stop at the University Visitor's Center for tour information:

"Fort Hill," home of John C. Calhoun, Vice President, Senator and Secretary of War, is open for visitors. It was his son-in-law, Thomas Clemson, who bequeathed the family plantation for the land grant college. (Looks like Mr. Clemson got the girl and the farm and the name, too.) And there is Hanover House, once used as a frontier fort, built about 1706 and moved to the campus in

Buy Clemson's famous blue cheese and their even more famous ice cream. Enjoy the ice cream as you stroll through the 70-acre Clemson Botanical Gardens, which contain 2,200 varieties of plants in five gardens and an arboretum.

Drive back to Pendleton or on up toward Salem to Keowee Key Resort for the night.

DAY THREE: The luxurious condominium resort is on the shores of Lake Keowee. You can rent overnight in some seasons or for longer visits all year. Ask for a lake or golf view. There's a country club for dining, an 18-hole golf course, sailing, two swimming pools, tennis and a fitness club.

If you stay here, you might want to take the day off from sight-seeing and get out on Lake Keowee, which has 300 miles of shoreline. Dress warmly this time of year, the temperature can go as low as 40 degrees. In most seasons, sailboats, or the local john boats or pontoon boats can be rented at the Keowee Key Marina on resort grounds. Gaze into the depths of the water and maybe you'll "see" ghostly farms and old towns, churches, and even an old fort or Indian village lost in the watery depths. The area was flooded in 1971 to develop new lakes for energy production. You are surrounded by thousands of acres of game management land, coves and small bays, and in the distance, three ridges of purple mountain majesties rise up in three pale ridges just for

DAY FOUR: This is the day for driving into the high plateaus and mountains, for taking a picnic packed for you at the Keowee Key Country Club, for boots and jeans. Go to Scenic Highway 11 (also called the Cherokee Foothills Scenic Highway) and drive into the Oconee State Park, which is inside the larger Sumter National Forest. Now a place to camp and picnic, this area was the last stronghold of the Cherokee nation before they left in 1792. Here the highest falls in eastern America, the Whitewater Falls, cascade from North Carolina down a rocky gorge into South Carolina from a height of 800 feet. There is an easy walk near the entrance of the park into the falls area, but to get closer, you must be a serious hiker.

The lower falls are accessible by boat. For information, contact the Division of State Parks, 1205 Pendleton Street, Columbia, South Carolina 29201.

Other sites nearby include the Stumphouse Mountain Tunnel, which was cut 1,600 feet into the mountain before the railroad project failed. You can walk into the cool, dark, damp tunnel and then over to Issaqueena Falls. The 200-foot high falls are named for an Indian princess who, according to legend, jumped over them with her baby in her arms.

Also off Scenic Highway 11, you'll find the Keowee-Toxaway State Park. There is a museum here and four outdoor kiosks which portray the history of the Upper Cherokee Indians.

DAY FIVE: Before you leave Lake Keowee, go back north and west on Scenic Highway 11 to Table Rock Mountain. The two major peaks here here are said to be the table and stool of a giant Indian chieftain who, Cherokee legend has it, will dine there one

Drive into the state park for camping sites, cabins, hiking trails, fishing and boating. Brilliant fall color is burning across the mountain sides and into the valleys at this very

On your way back, take an hour to drive into the little town of Seneca and tour the Lunney Museum. It is a fine example of Arts and Crafts period architecture on the outside and Victorian furniture on the inside. Local docents take you through on a personal and colorfully informative tour.

DAY SIX: Now it is time to see a small corner of North Carolina. As you get into the "Sky Country," the mountains seem to be higher and rougher; the road marked by hairpin turns. Via Route 25 north out of Greenville, head for "Connemara," writer Carl Sandburg's 240-acre farm and home at Flat Rock.

During the orientation film shown to visitors here, you will see the poet's image and hear his familiar voice and music. Docents will tell you the Sandburgs led the simple life of goat farmers. The plain furnishings inside the simple home reinforce that statement.

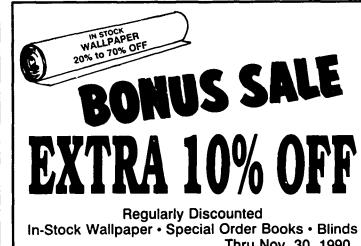

Look for his "dizzy, crazy corner" office where he kept the shades drawn to keep his mind on his work, not on the lovely views of woods and barns outside.

After touring the house, wander around the farm where Mrs. Sandburg raised pure-bred goats. For more information, contact the Superintendent, Carl Sandburg Home Historic Site, Flat Rock, N.C. 28731.

Continue your drive east back to Greenville. This up-and-coming city, once an antebellum resort town, is now the textile center of the south. Be sure to see the collection of Andrew Wyeth paintings in the Greenville County Museum on College Street.

The Carl Sandburg Home National Historic Site in Flat Rock, North Carolina, is a 240-acre farm called Connemara. It was the home of the famed American poet from 1945 until his death in 1967.

Jazz flutist to perform in Plymouth

Jazz Flutist Alexander Zonjic

Symphony fans will have the chance to "Jazz it Up" Friday, Nov. 9 when the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra presents Jazz Flutist Alexander Zonjic and his jazz ensemble.

According to Zonjic's biography, he was "weaned on his mother's Mario Lanza records and his uncle's accordion polka songs." Furthermore, the biography notes, he was a rock guitarist influenced by Duanne Eddy, James Brown and the Beatles and that he picked up the flute for the first time at age 21 and found international success.

This guy who recognized me as a local rock guitarist came up to me and asked me if I wanted to buy a flute. He wanted $50 for it. I offered him $9, which was all I had and he took it," Zonjic explained. "And from that first moment it seemed entirely natural. The flute just fit."

After acquiring his new instrument, Zonjic began a relentless pur-suit to learn to play the flute. He returned to school and earned a degree in music, then launched a career in classical music.

Zonjic's sound is considered unique because it has a rich, reverberating quality that he applies to Bach sonatas as well as pop music or blues. He credits the technique and control necessary for classical music with improving the delicacy of his

Zonjic has been in demand in concert halls, festivals, and leading nightclubs including Baker's Key-board Lounge in Detroit, Blue Note in New York City, Blues Alley in Washington, D.C., George's in Chicago and Cheek to Cheek in Orlando.

In addition, he has toured all sections of the United States, playing at Carnegie Hall, Avery Fisher Hall, the Hollywood Bowl, the Globe Theatre and the Apollo Theatre in New York City as well as Japan, England, the Phillipines, Puerto Rico, the Dominican Republic and Mexico.

6-D

Leading his own group. Zonjic has played in such major jazz festivals as the Montreaux Detroit Jazz Festival. the Orlando Jazz Festival, the Atlanta Jazz Festival and Kool Jazz Festivals in Hampton, Virginia; Los Angeles, Detroit and New York.

With the 1987 release of his latest album "When is it Real," Zonjic has recorded five albums. With the exception of his totally classical album recorded at Orchestra Hall with Detroit Symphony Orchestra principal flutist Ervin Monroe, each of his recordings bear the unique Zonjic signature of a short, hauntingly beautiful classical piece at the end. His albums have received extensive airplay around the country and have been rated in the Top 10 on the Jazz Times airplay chart.

Zonjic is alse a popular television guest. His numerous appearances include "Kelly and Company," "PM Magazine," and "Late Night America." He has also been the featured artist of many TV specials that have been syndicated and appeared as far away as Singapore or Korea.

Zonjic and his band along with guest artist Bob James were featured in pre-event ceremonies when the Pope spoke before nearly a quarter million people in Detroit. And Zonjic was the invited entertainment to perform for the National Governor's Conference on Mackinaw Island.

Tickets to see Zonjic and his jazz ensemble at the Plymouth-Salem auditorium (46181 Joy Rd, Canton) Nov. 9 are $5 for students K-12, $10 for adults and $9 for senior citizens.

Tickets are available at Beitner's Jewelry or Evola Music Center in Plymouth: Orin Jewelers or Bookstall on the Main in Northville; or Hammell

Northville edges Wyandotte in OT

Kelley instrumental in playoff triumph

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN Staff Writer

Northville Coach Darrel Schumacher obviously meant it when he promised his team wouldn't be satisfied with just making an appearance in the MHSAA playoffs.

Playing to win from the opening kickoff, the never-say-die Mustangs survived regulation and then edged host Wyandotte Roosevelt 23-22 in overtime on Nov. 2. The passing of Ryan Huzjak was a big factor in Northville's come-from-behind win, but it was the two-way brilliance of receiver/defensive back Bill Kelley that made the biggest impact on the

The 5-foot-11, 175-pound senior scored on a 97-yard kickoff return in the first half and then made several outstanding open-field tackles in the overtime - including a game-saving stop of Roosevelt's Dan Yates on an unsuccessful two-point conversion near the goal line.

"Our goal isn't just to be in the playoffs." Schumacher said. "We tried to give the kids every opportunity to win the game, and they did a great job. We're starting to have a lot

"We've been in a few good games, but this one was special."

The victory moves the Mustangs (7-3 overall) into the Class A Region IV finals against Dearborn (see related story) this Saturday at 1:30 p.m. Northville suddenly becomes one of only eight Class A teams still in the running for a state title.

In the MHSAA tie-breaker, each team is awarded the ball at their opponent's 10 yard line and has four downs to score. When one team emerges with an advantage, they are awarded the victory. With the score deadlocked at 16-16, the Mustangs put the pressure on Wyandotte by scoring the first touchdown of the overtime. After an incomplete toss, Huzjak found Mark Hilfinger over the middle for a 10-yard TD strike on second down. Brandon Hayes' kick made it 23-16.

"Ryan is a confident leader," Schumacher said. "He looked off a few receivers, got good protection from our line, and found Hillinger in a seam over the middle."

The Northville defense then held plays to set up fourth and goal at the six, forcing Roosevelt to score or lose the game. But Yates rolled out, lound tailback Joe Alfano in the flat and delivered a perfect pass for the touchdown.

We knew they'd somehow get the ball to (Alfano) and we were there defensively, but they executed the play very well," Schumacher said. They put the ball where it had to be."

As the Mustangs were preparing to defend the extra point and get ready for double overtime, Wyandotte

Coach Bart Estola opted to go for two points and the immediate win. He called for the same play, with Alfano in motion to the right and Yates rolling out to the right. But when the Northville secondary had all receivers covered, Yates made a dash for the corner of the goal line. Kelley, who was the cornerback on the right side, waited until he was sure Yates would run the ball, came up to the line of scrimmage and spilled Yates with a classic open-field tackle at the 2.

"Bill was in his coverage zone, but be recognized that (Yates) wasn't go-ing to pass," Schumacher said. "He's a competitor and he came up with everything he had. Without a great play by Kelley, we'd be collecting our gear now and (Roosevelt) would be preparing for Saturday's game."

As the Northville backers rushed onto the field to celebrate. Estola tried to explain the curious move.

"I have a lot of confidence in our offense," he said. "I never for a second thought to kick (the extra point). With our two athletes — Yates and Alfano — I always feel we can get it into the end zone.

The move surprised a lot of people, including Mustang linebacker Bob Holloway.

"I thought they'd go for one and try to wear us down in another overtime," he said. "They thought they could ram it down our throats, but we stopped them when we had to. We've been in an overtime earlier this year (Sept. 15 versus Livonia Franklin). and we won that one too. We knew what to expect."

Northville opened the game with a bang, scoring on its first possession following a Roosevelt fumble. Senior Rick Pierman forced David Teer to cough up the ball and recovered it at the Wyandotte 47. Seven plays later, Huzjak took it in from a yard out to break the ice, but Hayes' extra-point attempt hit the cross bar and fell back into the end zone. The Mustangs had to settle for a 6-0 lead.

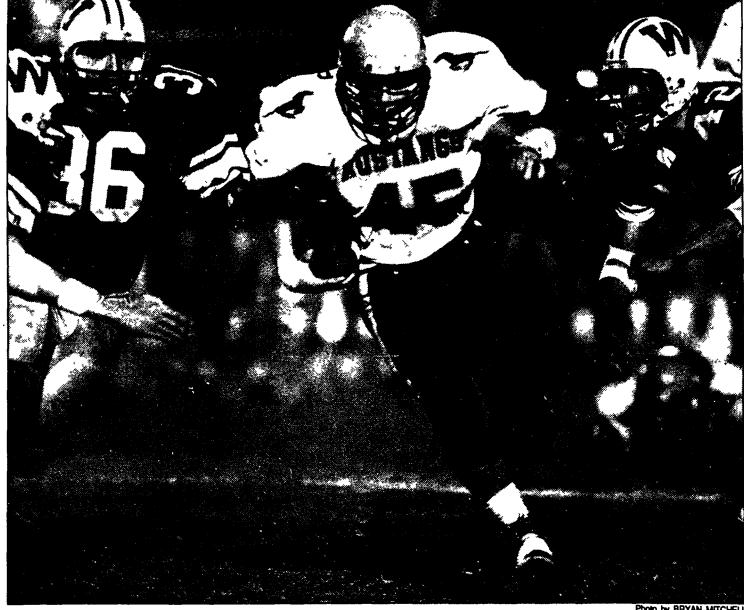

Soon after that, Northville got a firsthand look at the Bear's outstanding kicker, Nathan DeLong. The lest-sooted sophomore booted a 43-yard field goal — that would have been good from 50 — midway through the first half to cut the lead

But on the ensuring kickoff, Kelley the Bears on three straight running took the ball at his own 3, picked up some excellent blocks at the point of attack and streaked 97 yards for the score.

> "Bill got some outstanding blocks, he made some good decisions and let his athletic ability take over, "Schumacher said. "It was a beautiful play."

> Roosevelt came back just before the end of the quarter and DeLong kicked a 36-yarder to make it 13-6. Alfano set up the score with a 48-yard

Mustangs prepare for 9-1 Dearborn

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN

Northville's second-round playoff pponent is a lot like its first-round foe. Like Wyandotte Roosevelt (and Northville for that matter). Dearborn High School is making its first MHSAA playoff appearance this fall. The Pioneers went 4-0 in the five-team Northwest Suburban Conference and captured the school's firstever league title.

And like Northville, Dearborn beat a favored opponent, on the road, in the regional semifinals last eekend. The Pioneers shocked Temperance-Bedford 10-8 on Nov. 3 and will host Northville this Saturday (Nov. 10) at 1:30 p.m. in the Class A Region IV final.

The winner will face the winner of the Birmingham Brother Rice (8-2) Bloomsierld Hills Lahser (9-1) clash, also this Saturday. But Mustang coach Darrel Schumacher isn't looking past

"Dearborn is huge physically and they are obviously an excellent team," Schumacher said. "We will again be the underdogs."

Dearborn doesn't have a great football tradition, but the team is riding an impressive ninegame winning streak. The Pioneers started slowly, losing 40-14 in the season opener to Harper Woods Notre Dame, but have improved dramatically with each week.

Two-way lineman Andy Balestrieri - at 6-foot-1, 250-pounds — will dwarf any Mustang lineman, and quarterback Mohammed Abdrabboh is slippery and dangerous. Dearborn's top ball carrier is Jay Jakubowski — a hard inside-type runner — and the team's outstanding secondary (21 interceptions this season) is led by Jeff Moulon, an excellent athlete.

And like Wyandotte's Nathan DeLong, Dearborn boasts an excellent kicker in Richard Tlusti. His 53-yard field goal against Temperance-Bedford proved to be the deciding points.

Both visiting teams in our region won last week, so we're hoping this trend continues," Schumacher said. They will make us look small on the field, but we're used to it."

As an example, Wyandotte's roster included 10 players over 200 pounds, including lineman Nick Bader (6-3, 265) and John King (6-2, 235). Northville, on the other hand, has just two players at more than 200 (Rick Pierman and Tom Gatti). Schumacher and his assistants scouted Dearborn last Saturday, and came away impressed particularly with the Pioneers' defense. Their defense is imposing," Schumacher said.

Their three best athletes are in the secondary and that's a big concern for us the way we try to move the ball through the air."

The caliber of Dearborn's opponents this season was suspect, but all doubts were put to rest when Temperance-Bedford went down. The Kicking Mules had wiped out a respected Dearborn Fordson team 51-0 a week earlier.

QUOTE-UNQUOTE: Wyandotte Roosevelt Coach Bart Estola was very impressed with

I think they are a very, very good team that's well coached," he said. They made the big plays and deserved to win."

When asked about Mustang quarterback Ryan Huzjak, who riddled his defense for more than 200 yards in total offense, his response was clear and

Mustang junior Laura Apligian (left) battles an opponent for possession of the ball in action earlier this season

Cagers win playoff opener, notch seventh straight win picked up their third fouls, and Records were broken and new milestones set on Nov. 1 when the Northville girls basketball squad topped host Livonia Stevenson 36-34 in the first round of the WLAA plyoffs.

The win marked the first time in school history that the Mustangs have beaten a first-round opponent in the conference playoffs. It was also the team's seventh straight victory—also a school record—dating back nearly a month.

Now, Northville (12-6 overall) is in a unique position. The Mustangs were scheduled to host powerful Plymouth Salem on Nov. 6 (after the Record's deadline) for the right to compete in the WLAA title game. The winner will play the Plymouth Canton-Livonia Franklin winner on Nov. 10 at 7 p.m. in Northville. The consolation game will be at 5 p.m.

We had never won seven games in a row at Northville High School," Mustang Coach Ed Kritch said. This is also the first time we've been in the conference semifinals, so we are treading into new water here. With the rest of the tournament games in our gym, this is a golden opportunity

We lost to Salem 34-33 in our only meeting this season and there's no question we can win the game. But "With the rest of the tournament games in our gym, this is a golden opportunity for we will have to play extremely well." Against Stevenson, Northville took a slim lead in the second half, thanks to a great defensive effort in the third quarter, and then held on down the stretch despite missing several key free throws. It was payback time for the Mustangs, who fell to the Spartans 44-33 on the road back on Sept.

"We knew this game would be close," Kritch said.

The Spartans started off with a flurry, hitting a three-pointer in the first five seconds of the game. But the Mustangs came back, thanks to seven points from Kara McNeil, and opened an 11-6 lead. Stevenson then scored the final six points of the

Early in the second period, Northville's Karen Pump and McNeil each Kritch sat them down. The Spartans inched ahead 20-15 with two minutes left in the half, but Knich reinserted Pump and she promptly scored five straight points (including a three-pointer) to make it 30-30 at

The Mustangs shut down Stevenson's offense in the third, holding them to just two free throws, and built a 28-22 margin heading into the fourth. Down the stretch, the Spartans narrowed it to two on several occasions, but Northville responded each time, including a pair of clutch three-pointers by Maria MacInnis and Laura Apligian.

Neither team scored in the last 1:40. Northville missed four front ends of one-and-one free throw opportunities but never fell behind. Stevenson failed from the perimeter in its last four possessions, including a desperation shot at the buzzer.

We missed a lot of free throws, but we'll take it (the win)." Kritch said. We kept our poise and didn't cave in. I was very happy with the way we played, except for our free throw shooting."

McNeil and Pump paced Northville with nine points each. Kate Holstein was held to six, but did haul down a game-high nine rebounds. Pump added five assists and three steals.

Three local swimmers to compete in Netherlands

Blame it on Swimmers World magazine.

If it hadn't been for a story that appeared in that magazine 18 months ago, 14 local swimmers (including three from Novi/Northville), their coach and a cadre of parents wouldn't be getting ready to spend Christmas vacation in the Netherlands.

It's not quite the Olympics, but competing in the fifth annual KLM International Friendship Meet in Maastricht, Netherlands, is close enough to the real thing to get the swimmers excited. No more fundraisers, just a fall training schedule so they're at their peak in late December.

We thought it would be wonderful for our kids," said Marilyn Ditchkoff, whose 16-year-old daughter Tara will be competing in the meet. "They'll get so much out of this that I don't think we (parents) realize how much."

About 40 swimmers from throughout the country will be meeting in Chicago Dec. 26 for the trip to Europe. They will return Jan. 2. The teen-agers will be representing the United States at the meet, but not as the U.S. swim team. The Spartan Club members make up the largest contingent among the American swimmers.

The group will fly to Amsterdam. than take a 2 1/4 -hour motorcoach ride to Maastricht on the Dutch-German-Belgian boarder. They will housed in the Sport and Recreation Center in dormitory accommodations with swimmers from other countries.

Once the three-day competition is done they will have the opportunity to visit Brussels, Belgium, the World War II cemetery at Margratan and a wooden shoe factory before taking a New Year's Eve party back at the

The club picked the 1990 meet to field a team in order to give the swimmers and parents enough time to raise the more than $1,000 per person needed for travel expenses.

Fund-raising wasn't an easy task, since it was sandwiched in between training, school, work and more training. Many of the swimmers practice up to four hours a day in addition to work and school, Ditchkoff Several of the swimmers are year-round Spartan members as well as members of the high school swim teams. High school swimmers making the trip include Ditchkoff's daughter Tara, 16, Livonia Churchill; Ellen Lessig, 16. Livonia Churchill; Amy Balog, 15, Livonia Stevenson; Jane Seidelman, 16, Plymouth-Salem; Craig Steshetz, 15, Plymouth-Canton; Matt Tertel, 17, Plymouth-Canton; Matt Martin, 15, Westland John Glenn; Jennifer O'Flynn, 16. Novi; and Mary Kate May, 15, Novi.

Also heading overseas are Katie Martin, 13, of Westland; Robbin Tenglin, 17, of Dearborn; Jason Fisher. 14, of Northville; Drew Sopha, 14, of Farmington; and Lisa Butzlaff, 15, of Allen Park.

Also making the trip will the man who is a "builder of dreams and helps pave paths to those dreams," Dave Segraves, the Spartans' head coach. Like his swimmers, he is "looking forward to it.'

"It's the first time I've taken a team to Europe," Segraves said. "I've had teams compete in many parts of the U.S. but this is a first for me. I'm looking forward to the meet, the friendship and the fun."

As swim meets go, the KLM Friendship Meet isn't a "biggie." Rankings, earned by swimming competitively at the senior national level. aren't a criteria for competing. The meet, by most standards, is a sprint, covering all of the ability levels of swimmers who will be competing.

Many of the Spartan swimmers who are going are long distance swimmers. As a result Coach Segraves is beginning the serious part of their training. The emphasis is on starts and turns.

The training will continue until about 10 days before the meet, when Segraves will reduce the work load to bring his swimmers "into the meet rested and at their peak."

Segraves has been the club's head coach for eight years and has built up the organization from a low of 30 swimmers to more than 140. According to Ditchkoff, his "whole life is these kids."

"He lives, eats and breathes for these kids," she said.

A modest Segraves admits that he wants to take every kid that comes into this program and build their selfesteem and take them as far as they can go.

"I take pride in helping in that pro-cess," he said. "I think swimming is a medium through which you teach kids about life."

During the summer, the Spartans use Livonia's outdoor pools, but with the advent of colder weather, practice has moved to the three high school swimming pools in Livonia. Practices are planned around the high school swim team schedules.

And while Segraves is putting his swimmers through their paces at the Stevenson High School pool, parents like Ditchkoff are working on getting together goodwill bags — bags filled with Livonia and Michigan pins, Tiger baseball caps, books on Washington, D.C., and the like that the swimmers can "trade or give away to their new international

Tankers wrap up 10-1 year

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN

The Northville swimmers wrapped up their dual-meet season last week with a pair of lopsided victories.

The Mustangs topped Novi 65-28 in a non-conference battle on Oct. 30 and then routed Livonia Franklin 121-65 two days later. Northville will now head into the WLAA Meet on Nov. 7-9 with a 10-1 overall record. Against Novi, Beth Frayne topped her own school record in diving. "Northville beat us soundly," Novi Coach Larry Teahan said. They are a good team. We went in with the idea we'd do the best we could. I was reasonably pleased with our effort."

Against Franklin, the 200-yard freestyle relay team (featuring Jodi Wesley, Brenda Newton, Pam Holdridge and Megan Holmberg) set a new school-record and qualified for the state meet. It was Northville eighth state meet qualifier.

WLAA PREVIEW: The 1988 Mustangs won the Western Lakes Activities Assocation, but last fall North Farmington edged Northville for the title. Despite a dual-meet loss to the undefeated Raiders this fall (on Sept. 27), the Mustangs have a good opportunity to win their second title in three years.

In dual meets, the first-place swimmers usually determine the outcome. But in a multi-team events like the WLAA Meet, the first, second, third and fourth place finishers all have a significant impact. Northville's depth could be the difference.

Team standouts like Claire Cyderman, Holmberg, Teri Juhasz, Holdridge, Wesley and Frayne will be expected to score high. But how the other entries perform (swimmers like Newton, Sheila Osborne, Allison Sieving, Susan Kowalski, Kathy Lang, Kristen Woodsum and diver Lisa Hojnacki) will have a big impact on how the Mustangs fare as a team.

The meet finals will be Nov. 9 at 6

Northville's Jim Storm with MTU Coach Newell Brown

Northville native JIM STORM begins his first season as forward for the Michigan Technological University Hockey Huskies this fall. Storm has played in all four Huskies' game this season, but has yet to garner a point. Storm, a former Compuware Junior A product, is the son of James and Eva Storm . . . The Michigan Tech football team dropped to 4-3 overall with a 33-15 loss to Minnesota-Duluth in late October, but senior offensive center LEE MOONEN has anchored the line for the Huskies all season. The Wixom native and Detroit Catholic Central graduate has started all seven games this season. He is the son of Thomas and Beverly Moonen.

COLTS: Zayti leads Colts

FALL SPECIALS

VARSITY: In what was probably the most exciting game of the year, the Northville/Novi Colts varsity team defeated the Belleville Cougars 34-20 and nailed down the division title. Todd Zayti got things rolling early with a 98-yard touchdown on the first play from scrimmage. The lead changed hands five times over the next 20 minutes, but the Colts took control following a late fumble recovery by Jimmy Imsland and Matt Jendry-chowski For the day, Zayti rushed for 268 vards and three touchdowns. Brandon Spence added 126 yards rushing and two TDs. For the fourth time this season, the high-powered Colts (6-1 overall) accumulated more than 500 yards in total offense.

The team is coached by Dave Bryant, Bob Lokey, Jerry Imsland and Ron Kane.

JUNIOR VARSITY: Garrett Carter was too much for Belleville. He accounted for all of the Colts' points in a 7-6 victory. Carter scored on a pass from Nick Biagini and added the extra point. With a 2-4-1 record, the J.V. Colts did not qualify for the play-offs. The team was coached by Mike Biagint and Pat Powers FRESHMAN VARSITY: The Colts ended their season with a scoreless draw against Belleville. Overall, coach Jim Harding's squad was 0-6-1.

Northville netters missing something this season: a title

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN

In many ways, the Northville girls tennis season was a lot like past

The Mustangs were again one of the strongest programs around, winning 11 of 12 dual meets, but coach Uta Filkin is the first to admit that something was missing — a title of any kind. For the first time in many years, the Northville netters failed to grab either a conserence or division crown, and then missed making the MHSAA State Meet field by one point. All that took a bit of the luster off what was on paper a successful campaign.

We had a good team and we had the ability to come out as successful as we did last year — but it didn't happen," Filkin said.

A year ago, the Mustangs won the WLAA title and qualified for the state meet as a team. This year, the squad came very close on both counts, but had to settle for third place in the conference and at the regional.

"It's a fine line between making it and not making it when you get as close as we did," Filkin said.

For whatever reason, many of the intangibles went against the Mustangs in '90. For example, due to a delay in the resurfacing of the high school tennis courts, Filkin's team was forced to play many home meets at Fish Hatchery Park.

"Not having home courts for much of the season really wore on us," she said. "We always seemed a little off edge because of it. I don't want to blame all our problems on it, but it was a factor.

"Overall, it was just a difficult season. Psychologically, maybe we weren't as strong as we should have

Northville boasted .500 records or better from all seven flights. In singles, the Mustangs had a combined 49-27 record, and No. 4 singles player Kavitha Sriraman led the way at 18-4. The senior wrapped up the dual-meet season undefeated and wound up placing second in both the WLAA and Regional tournaments.

She was one of our most successful players this season," Filkin said. "She had an exceedingly good

At No. 1, Karen Vogt capped a fine career with an 11-6 mark against the best of the WLAA. Vogt was seeded third in the conference and lived up to it by advancing to the WLAA semifinals before falling to the top seed.

KAVITHA SRIRAMAN

*Karen has been a regular for three years snd she always had a winning season for us," Filkin said. "To be the third best singles player in our conference is very impressive."

Vogt's younger sister. Diane, got off to a slow start at No. 2, but finished with a 10-7 record. Senior Shannon Price was somewhat of a disappointment at No. 3 with a 10-10

"Shannon had, for some reason, a difficult season," Filkin admitted. "She lost some close matches that could have gone either way, and it was frustrating for her. But just like Diane, she played stronger at the end of the season.

In doubles, the No. 3 team of Stacy Green and Kelly Woodsum was the surprise of the season. The two juniors combined for a 13-3 record, and were unbeaten in the regular season. They placed second in the WLAA and third in the regionals.

"(Green and Woodsum) had an extremely successful season," Filkin said. They were a neat combination and they really matured together.

The top doubles team of Rebecca Bellamy and Laura Apligian, both seniors, was 11-7 overall and advanced to the semifinals of the WLAA. Jenny Lower (soph.) and Vicky Eppers (sr.) were 12-7 at No. 2 in what was essentially their first crack at varsity tennis.

"We will be losing six of our top 10, so it could be a difficult season next vear." Filkin said. "Most of our losses are at the top end of our line-up, soit will be hard to find fill-ins."

Golf team flourished under Morgan

Don Morgan's stint as the Northville golf coach was relatively brief but very successful.

Morgan is stepping down due to business obligations after four years at the helm, but he's definitely left his mark on the program. Since taking over in 1987, the Mustangs have had a 38-7 dual-meet record (.844 winning percentage).

I am pretty proud of that." Morgan said. "Each year we tried to sustain a good, solid program.

"I have no regrets except I hate to give (coaching) up. But it's been a problem coaching and keeping up with business. I'll miss the kids but I certainly won't miss having to deal with all the problems that go with trying to secure a home course every

As for 1990, it was a season of ups and downs. Northville had an excellent 10-1 dual-meet record (8-0 in the WLAA), but was stunned by Novi in the season opener for the second straight year. The Mustangs realized their goal of qualifying for the MHSAA State Meet, but placed 11th overall with a mediocre overali performance. "Our No. 1 goal was to go to the state meet, and we accomplished near scratch golf. that," Morgan said. "Another highlight was going 5-0 and winning the (WLAA Western) Division title.

Despite some of the letdowns like placing third at the WLAA Meet -Northville was one of the most dangerous teams in the state. The biggest dual-meet win came in early October against Farmington, who was rated fifth in the state at the time.

To beat the sisth-rated team on their home course was a thrill," Morgan said. "At that time, I felt on any given day that we could beat anybody in the state. If we were motivated, we were tough to beat."

Morgan's tenure coincided with the brilliant four-year career of Chris Lemmon, who wrapped up a fine senior season. His nine-hole (36.9) and 18-hole (76.8) averages amounted to

Chris has a lot of potential, and I think he can play major-college golf," Morgan said. "If he would put more time and effort into practicing, he could be even better. He can become as good as he wants. He's got the physical and mental ability to be a very, very good golfer."

In many ways, Jason Sherman's senior campaign was a letdown. His nine-hole average of 39.9 was respectable, but not up to pre-season expectations.

"I wouldn't say he was a major disappointment, but he didn't improve as much as I anticipated," Morgan said. "He was involved in quite a few other school activities, so he couldn't focus just on golf."

Freshman Matt Telepo had an excellent season for such a youngster. His 42.4 average was fifth best on the team, and he still has three more years of varsity golf ahead of him.

"Matt really did excellent," Morgan said. "His average was great for a freshman. He matured quite a bit and he came through for us."

The highlight of the season for sophomore Joey Staknis was a hole-inone in his first varsity meet against Redford Thurston. Staknis never did duplicate his score from that outing (37) but his 43.5 average is a good indication for the future.

"Jozy is a good athlete and he has the ability to be a good golfer if he works at it," Morgan said. "With him, Krupansky and Telepo returning, the nucleus is there for a fine team next

SNORKELING CLASS: If you would like a water exploration experience, but aren't quite ready for scuba diving, why not try Snorkeling can be done in nearly every body of water with a minimum amount of equipment. Don's Dive Shop will instruct beginning skin divers on equipment, correct techniques and safety procedures.

Participants should wear modest swimwear and should bring a mask, snorkel and fins to class. Held at Northville High School pool on Nov. 12 and 19, 8-9 p.m. Participants must be over 8 years of age. Fee is $18. Registrations accepted at Northville Recreation Department, 303 West Main St.

BOYS BASKETBALL LEAGUES: All boys in grades 6-12 are invited to join the Northville boys basketball league. Games will be played on Saturdays at local school gyms and pratices will be held weekday

Registration deadlines for sixth- and seventh-graders and eighth- and ninth-graders is Dec. 14.

Fees range from $28-$33 per player and a $5 late fee will be charged if you miss the registration deadline. For more information, call 349-0203.

ALL NIGHT SPORTS PARTY: Grand Slam USA (42930 West Ten Mile in Novi) is presenting an All Night Sports Gala Party for boys ages 15 from 7 p.m. on Nov. 23 through 8 a.m. on Nov. 24.

Registration deadline is Nov. 16 and enrollment is limited to 120. The cost is $25 and includes a midnight pizza party, basketball, wifileball, baseball, batting cages, sports movies, volleyball, contests, prizes and continental breakfast.

Call 348-8338 for more information.

SELECT SOCCER TRYOUTS, 1981: The Northville Soccer Association will be sponsoring a Select team for boys born in 1981 if there is sufficient interest.

Play will begin in spring of 1991 and tryouts will be held in early November. Anyone interested should contact Larry Schlanser at

NOVI HOSTS TOURNAMENT: The Metro Detroit Amateur Softball Association has requested the City of Novi to host the 1991 National Women's "Major Softball Tournament."

The tournament will take place over Labor Day weekend next year. A formal presentation is being finalized and for the Novi City Council in the near future. It is believed that the location and overall quality of Novi's Power Park/Civic Center facility is the primary reason the tournament is coming to Novi.

U.S. DIVING CLUB: The U.S. Diving Club of Novi has been formed for those interested in competitive diving.

Students must be 8 years old or more, and able to swim the pool

To join, call Northville Swim Coach Mark Heiden at 478-0775.

Fall, winter can be harsh on skin

By JILL HAMILTON

The beaches are closed The bikinis are stored and we're safe from the sun for another year, right?

Uh uh Although we think we're safe from skin damage because we stay away from sun-bathing this time of year, the fact is that for many people, fall and winter can be just as harsh on the skin as summer. The combination of the cold, dry air outside and the hot, dry air indoors can add up to dry, chapped skin, just as uncomfortable as July's sunburn.

As if all of this weren't enough, dermatologists have recently learned that even winter sun rays can be strong enough to cause sun damage to skin. And sun damage can cause a plethora of skin problems ranging from premature aging to adult acne to skin cancer.

Dermatologist D'Anne Kleinsmith of William Beaumont Hospital dispensed information and advice on fall and winter skin care recently.

"Unfortunately we have found in recent years that the sun isn't so good for us," Kleinsmith said. She offered these tips to minimize the damage of fall and winter weather:

 Buy a bottle of sunscreen. Surprisingly, more than 80 percent of sun exposure comes from performing incidental activities as simple as buzzing around on errands.

• Use a moisturizer generously. Moisturizers are best applied when skin is wet. Look for moisturizers that contain urea, a substance that helps bond moisture to the skin.

• Avoid long baths or showers. Taking long, hot baths and showers can wreak havoc on the skin. Unfortunately those warm, relaxing winter solourns in the tub can dry out the skin and aggravate skin problems. Opt instead for a quick shower using FACING FALL

. . . and worse, winter

• Put a humidifier in your home. Dry furnace air is one of the biggest causes of dry, wintertime skin.

 Avoid harsh deodorant soaps. Deodorant soaps dry out skin and aggravate chapping. Look for a a soap with the words "gentle" or "hypoallergenic" on the label.

 Don't spend a lot of money on expensive care systems unless you really want to. Certain lines of cosmetics claim to work marevelous wonders on your skin — like preventing wrinkles and making users look 10 years younger. Few, if any, of the claims are true. You'd be just as well off using an inexpensive moisturizer or, for that matter, slathering Crisco all over your face.

One product, for example, boasts that it contains collagen, a proven wrinkle-remover. Unfortunatelly, collagen has to be injected for it to be effective. Putting it on your skin in the form of a face cream won't help at

On the other hand, if buying expensive skin care products makes you feel better, there's no reason to stop as long as they don't seem to be doing any harm to your skin. Just remember no matter what the ads say, the product won't make you look 18

Dry chapped hands are another cold season problem. Fortunately hands can also be "winterized" with a few, simple precautions:

• Use plenty of hand lotion. Apply hand lotion when hands are wet. Even just splashing your hands with a bit of water before applying lotion helps the lotion be more effective. • Wear gloves. When performing chores like washing the dishes or working with household chemicals, don a pair of gloves. Sure, they look a bit silly, but your hands will thank

 Deep-condition your hands. If they're very dry or chapped, try putting petroleum jelly on at night, then a pair of cotton gloves to complete the sleep ensemble.

If more drastic measures are needed, but the thought of plastic surgery scares you off, fear not. There are several dermatological procedures short of surgery that can lessen tiny, spider veins and remove laugh lines. Ask your dermatologist about collagen injections to fill in lines, and retin-A to lighten brown spots, stretch marks and tiny lines. Chemical peels can also improve superficial facial lines, brown spots and other skin changes due to sun

Fitness Notes

FITNESS OVER 50: A one-hour exercise program called "Fitness Over 50" is held Monday and Wednesday mornings at Twelve Oaks Mall. It takes place 9-10 a.m. in the Lord & Taylor corridor near the east entrance.

The program, conducted by the University of Michigan Division of Physical Education, is particularly aimed at older people and others who would benefit from an invigorating but nonstrenuous exercise program.

Fitness Over 50 welcomes all interested persons, regardless of age and current activity level. Call the Twelve Oaks Management Office, 348-9438, for further information.

OPEN POOL: The Novi High School pool will be open to the public on Tuesdays and Thursdays through December 20. The open swim will be from 7-8:30 p.m. with the lap swim following from 8:30-9:30 p.m.

The fee is 50 cents per person and senior citizens are free. The pool will be closed on Nov. 22. Children age 10 and under must be accompanied by an adult.

YOGA CLASSES: Seven-week yoga classes are being offered in Northville this fall. Diane Siegel-DiVita, past president of the Yoga Association of Greater Detroit, is the instructor.

The classes will be offered on Thursdays (7-8:30 p.m.) or Sundays (10:10-11:40 a.m.) at the Northville American Legion Hall. Yoga effectively trains the body to develop strength, flexibility and Cost is $28. For more information, call Siegel-DiVita at 344-0928.

WEIGHT WATCHERS: Weight Watchers, the internationally recognized weight loss program, meets every Wednesday at the Northville Community Center at 9:45 a.m. and 6 p.m.

Registration fee is $17 plus a weekly fee of $9. For more information, call Diana Kutzke at 287-2900.

AEROBIC FITNESS INC.: A fitness program called "Aerobic Fitness Inc." is now being offered. The one-hour program is designed to stretch, trim and tone. Six-week classes run continuously throughout the year.

Fee is $33 (two classes per week), $45 (three classes), and $55 (unlimited). For more information, call 348-1280.

ASK-A-NURSE REFERRAL: "Ask-a nurse," the new 24-hour health information and physician referral line sponsored by five Mercy hospitals in Southeast Michigan, is offering a new speakers bureau to community groups. Program director Linda Hintze, R.N. and registered nurses who man the telephone lines seven days a week, 365 days a year, will be available to speak to groups of 15 or more about the calls they receive and how they help callers locate physicians and health or community information.

Requests should be made at least three weeks before the intended speaking engagement. There is no charge for the service and participants will give valuable information about how this service can help them day or night. For more information or to make a reservation, please call the ASK-A-NURSE office at Catherine McAuley Health Center toll-free at 1-800-526-MERCY (1-800-526-3729)

Fitness Tips

History behind immunizations, vaccines

By SUSAN LAURANT, M.D. Special Writer

Childhood immunizations may be painful for both the parent and child, but immunizations can prevent the pain of dangerous infectious diseases. The four most used vaccines are MMR (measles-mumps-rubella), DPT (diphtheria, pertussis, tetanus), polio and HIB (Haemophilus influenzae type b).

Smallpox, a disease that has been eliminated, was the first vaccine discovered about 200 years ago by Dr. Edward Jenner Jenner noticed that milkmaids who suffered from cowpox blisters did not get smallpox. He began exposing patients to the virus and the exposure stimulated the body to produce antibodies against smallpox.

There are four different types of vaccines:

• MMR (measles-mumps-rubella) and polio vaccines contain a weak form of the virus that stimulates the body to produce antibodies to protect against the full-strength virus.

Pertussis (whooping cough) of the DPT (diphteria, pertussis, tetanus) vaccine is made of killed vaccine from inactivated virus or bacteria, which also help the body develop

• Tetanus (lockjaw) vaccine is made from neutralized versions of the toxin secreted by diphtheria bacteria.

 The Haemophilus influenzae type b (HIB) immunizes against meningitis and contains two different antigens that stimulate antibody production.

Common side effects of the vaccines include mild soreness and swelling at the injection site. Fever may occur after DPT, MMR or HIB vaccines, but many children will have no reaction.

Approximately one in every eight million doses of OPV (oral polio vaccine) causes paralytic polio. Encephalitis is very rare but may occur after the MMR shot. Recent studies indicate that permanent brain damage occurring after the DPT shot is a myth. Those cases originally attributed to DPT have resulted from other conditions coincidentally developing at the same time.

Some new vaccines are currently being studied. A purified version of the killed pertussis vaccine is being tested. Both live and killed vaccines against Hepatitis A are being evaluated There is a new vaccine being tested against the Pneumococcus (a cause of ear infections, pneumonia and meningitis). There are several live oral vaccines against Rotavirus, an organism that causes severe diarrhea. Scientists are also working on a vaccine against respiratory syncytial virus that causes respiratory infection in young children. The newest vaccine that your child may receive is the varicella (chicken pox) vaccine. This is currently being tested.

You can make these immunizations easier for both you and your child. Tell your child ahead, in a matter of fact way, what's going to happen. Try to distract your child when the shot is being given. Be brave yourself and encourage your child to be brave. Reward your child after the visit. Many parents take their child to a restaurant or playground as a treat afterward.

Sometimes the pain, expense, inconvenience or the slight chance of a reaction may make you think twice about having your child immunized. By getting these immunizations, you won't have to worry about your child getting diphtheria, lockjaw, whooping cough, polio, measles, mumps, rubella or meningitis. Wouldn't it be great if we could eliminate these diseases as we have smallpox?
