Develop positive from project

By BOB NEEDHAM
Editor

Huntington Falls will help the Northville community in several ways, the project's developer said Thursday.

In a breakfast address to the Northville Community Chamber of Commerce, managing general partner Robert DeMattia said the community will reap benefits from the development of the old Wayne County land in Northville Township.

"It's going to be unique in the marketplace and it will be unique in southeastern Michigan," DeMattia told his audience at MacKinnon's.

The basic concept, he explained, will build on the community's residential character and its recreational amenities.

The 11-year, 930-acre, billion-dollar-plus Huntington Falls plan features roughly equal parts residential, recreational, and light industrial/research-and-development land, DeMattia said. The project involves a swath of land north of Five Mile Road, from Hines Park on the east to Beck Road on the west.

DeMattia said a primary impact of the development and its new resi-

Plan to include homes, business

By BOB NEEDHAM
Editor

The Huntington Falls plan includes roughly equal parts of residential, recreational, and non-residential development, lead developer Robert DeMattia explained Thursday. And road improvements will almost constitute a fourth facet.

Major entrances to the development will be on Sheldon and on Five Mile, he said. The development group hopes to establish public transit between these areas and the downtowns of Northville and Plymouth.

In addition, Wayne County plans upgrades and/or repaving to Sheldon, Five Mile and Six Mile in conjunction with the Huntington Falls project.

As for the development itself, initial plans include:

RESIDENTIAL

Homes will comprise much of the east side of the site, the part east of Sheldon Road. Platted, single-family homes, detached condominiums, and traditional condominiums are all planned over 300 acres.

DeMattia fielded several questions about prices of the planned homes, but shied away from specific figures.

"They will be built into the norm of what we come to expect in the Northville area," he said. "The houses will be what the market demands in the Northville area. . . We're not trying to make a community that is above the means of everybody."

In response to a question, DeMattia said the developers plan to reuse the old Wayne County buildings on the site wherever possible, probably keeping the shells for condominium conversions. He called the idea "a great approach. . . That's what we're planning."

Senior-citizen housing may also be a part of Huntington Falls, he said.

RECREATIONAL

The centerpiece of Huntington Falls' recreational amenities will be a championship golf course and an aqua driving range. The course will be "designed, built and maintained as one of the finest clubs in Michigan," DeMattia said.

It will be open to the public, but preferential starting times will probably be available for Huntington Falls residents and business people, he said.

Other recreational facilities planned are tennis courts, swimming pools, minimal eating facilities (snack bar type), riding stables tied into Hines Park, jogging trails, cross-country skiing trails, and ice skating. Items like the stables — available to rent space — and the trails will be open for use by the general public.

Don Bogotaitis sets up a sign advertising the valet parking service

Downtown valet parking extends to daytime hours

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

A weekend valet parking program set up by the owners of Genitti's and MacKinnon's restaurants has been expanded to offer daily service.

The program, in which employees of Key Parking Co. from Farmington Hills collect and return cars to Main Street business patrons, will now offer valet parking daily starting at 11 a.m. The service will likely be offered from two locations near the corner of Main and Center streets, said restaurant owner John Genitti, "so we can cover both the east- and west-bound traffic."

Genitti said Friday that the valet program has been well-received by restaurant patrons despite little advance publicity. "They parked 40 cars in front of my place yesterday, and we're just telling customers (about the service) over the phone," he said.

The service will be offered until 8 p.m. Monday through Thursday, 11 p.m. Friday and Saturday, and 6 p.m. Sunday. After 6 p.m., the service will only be offered from Mary Alexander Court off Main Street.

Between 4-5 attendants will be standing by daily to collect cars. Key Parking provides valet services at Laurel Park Place Mall in Livonia, Garden City Hospital and Cranbrook Education Center, said president Brett Phillips, who runs the company with partner Rachel Zameck.

Another company, Executive Parking Services in Auburn Hills, had originally been slated to provide the service. But that firm was not hired after its insurance coverage was judged insufficient to cover potential liability problems.

Initially, valet parking was offered at the corner of Main and Mary Alexander Court Thursday through Saturday between 6-11 p.m. The city council granted conditional approval to the evening program Nov. 5, and has been reviewing its progress.

The Downtown Merchants Association agreed at its meeting Monday, Dec. 3 to help fund an expanded program. The expanded program began Friday and will run until Dec. 24, but Genitti said the restaurant service will continue after Christmas.

The service costs $3. Cars are parked on parking lots along Cady Street until they are retrieved.

Captive returns in days

A hostage homecoming nears. Almost four-and-a-half months after he was taken captive by Iraqi forces, former Northville resident Kevin Bazner is set to come home.

And according to Bazner's sister Paul Heath, the media can prepare to take the preface "former" from Bazner's residential status.

"I know Kevin and (wife) Dawn's plans are to come here," Heath said. "Dawn just told me: 'Pat, Kevin said we didn't have to go back to Malaysia.'"

"I want to go out to California to see them, but I think I'll just wait until they come to Northville house-hunting."

The Bazners moved here in 1984 and lived at 46151 Bloomcrest in Northville Township. Kevin Bazner is vice-president of international operations with Livonia-based A & W Restaurants, Inc.

Heath said Friday that her brother could leave Iraq by mid-week — this week.

"The very latest is, my mom (Virginia Bazner) called today and had heard from Kevin," she said. "He's fine and they're in real good spirits. Kevin's got his paperwork completed and they're waiting for the Iraqi government to complete their paperwork."

"He could be (released) in as little as five days."

"It's unbelievable," she said.

Heath can be excused for an inability to comprehend a possible release.

Kevin, Dawn and their two children — along with thousands of other westerners — became unwilling guests of the Iraqi government after Saddam Hussein's troops invaded Kuwait.

Dawn and the children were released Sept. 2, and could only anxiously await the conclusion of a drama that began when their lay-over flight to Malaysia was detained in Kuwait.

For weeks, tensions seemed to mount until war seemed inevitable. But Hussein recently surprised the world with offers to release the hostages.

And now it appears that the anxiety is about to wither; the fears are about to be calmed.

"We couldn't talk about this before, but we had been hearing from Kevin sporadically," Heath said. "His life had been more precarious the first month after Dawn and the kids

Equal time comes up the following Tuesday, Dec. 18, in a Men's Shopping Night from 5 to 8 p.m.

Starting this evening, most downtown merchants will be open every evening until 8 up until Christmas.

FIREFIGHTERS RESPOND TO SPILL: Three Northville firefighters responded to a chemical spill near Metro Airport Friday morning, Dec. 7.

The spill reportedly resulted when an Avis employee broke one of six pint-sized containers of bromine discovered in an Avis Rental Car parking lot. Several Avis employees were transported to Annapolis Hospital for possible exposure to the chemical.

Bromine is a corrosive liquid used as a cleaning solvent and fuel additive. Its vapors are extremely irritating.

Two hazardous materials experts from the city fire department, Firefighter John Kahler and Sergeant Michael Asher, responded to the 10:37 a.m. spill. Kahler — who also works for the Metro Airport fire department — was among the first firefighters on the scene of last Monday's collision of two Northwest jets.

The Northville Township Fire Department sent Carl Meck, one of its hazardous material team members, to assist at the spill.

NORTHVILLE GIFTS: That perfect stocking stuffer is available at the Northville Community Chamber of Commerce office.

The chamber is selling new mugs and license plates featuring a Northville design. Mugs, available in both blue and white, are etched with a scene featuring the clock on Main Street and surrounding scene. They sell for $10 each.

The new license plates also show the clock and a street scene. They cost $6.

Both items are available at the Northville Community Chamber of Commerce office, 195 S. Main. Call 349-7640 for more information.

PARKING PERMIT RENEWALS: Northville city residents who park overnight on city streets or in city parking lots must renew their overnight parking permits before Jan. 1, 1991. The $5 yearly permits exempt residents from the city-wide ordinance that prohibits parking on city streets or lots between 2:30 7 p.m. The permits can be renewed at Northville City Hall, 215 W. Main St., and are available now.

Renaissance man

He's a family man, janitor, future lawyer, poet to the middle east, more

By SUZANNE HOLLYER
Staff Writer

He is a father, a husband, an actor, a University of Michigan student with a pre-law major, a full-time custodian for Northville schools, and now a published poet.

Meet David Dixon, Renaissance man of Northville schools.

"You're a well-rounded person," co-worker Joyce Elvy told Dixon, who attends the University of Michigan by day and cleans the halls of the Early Childhood Center and administrative offices by night.

A 10-year employee of Northville Public Schools, Dixon recently finished a school project requiring him to work with 38 students to publish a newspaper dealing with a social reality.

The conflict in the Middle East was chosen as the social reality the group would address. A newspaper, named The Home Front, was completed and mailed to Michigan service men and women in Saudi Arabia as a means of addressing the issue.

The newspaper was mailed last week to 4,500 soldiers.

As head of circulation, Dixon was required to find the names and units of as many Michigan soldiers in Saudi Arabia as possible. He met with little success from the Pentagon, where officials told him such information was classified.

Their plight was mentioned in Bob Talbert's column in the Detroit Free Press, and that was how Dixon finally received the names of Michigan's soldiers.

The responsibilities for production of the newspaper were shared by everyone in the class, Dixon said. "We all had to work together," he said.

"We each had to write 25 pages of paper total having to do with putting together a newspaper."

The 25 pages could be written as minutes of meetings or even letters. Everyone wrote at least one story for the newspaper.

But not everyone got their story into what became a 24-page newspaper. Dixon was among the published students in the class. A poem Dixon wrote to the soldiers ran, as well as a quiz he wrote challenging his readers to guess what Michigan city he was describing.

The city was his home town of Jackson. The poem, titled "I'm Proud of You," was written as a tribute to the American soldiers in Saudi Arabia and is printed below as it appeared in The Home Front.

I wonder, as you answer duty's call; And, lacing up your boots, go join them all. Who's goal it is to build a desert wall, I wonder if you know I'm proud of you?

As "Nightline" shows the image of that place; I long to see a smile upon your face. I search, and though I may not see a trace, I wonder if you know I'm proud of you?

On long, dry, desert nights, when winds blow hot; You may be wide awake upon your cot. Alone, you ask yourself, "Have they forgot?" I wonder if you know I'm proud of you?

If with it darkness brings on thoughts untrue, Search out the dawn, where black skies turn to blue. Aun, thoughts toward home, and let your soul renew; And know within your heart, I'm proud of you!

Dixon became involved in the project to fill a university writing requirement. He became involved in the university after an educational gap in his life.

An academically mediocre high school career was followed by a somewhat short-lived college experience in Jackson. Dixon worked in theater and later for Northville schools when maintaining a career in theater was not enough to pay the bills.

"If you like food, theater is not a good thing to get into," Dixon said. Dixon worked for Northville as an aide for bus drivers working with special education students.

He returned to school after working for the district for five years. His starting point was Schoolcraft College, where he received an associate's degree in business.

With a 3.9 grade point average under his belt, Dixon decided he was ready for the Big 10. He was accepted to the University of Michigan and expects to receive his bachelor's degree in a year. He said he sees law school in his not-too-distant future.

Dixon relies on the one thing every college student is familiar with to get through late nights of studying: "I do drink a lot of coffee."

The field of journalism was never in his plans, but he said he enjoyed the experience.

"I'd never been really interested in journalism; that's why I wasn't that enthusiastic about this project in the beginning," Dixon said. "I didn't think we would be able to do it."

Doing it required the participating students to raise money for the project. Two raffles raised $2,000 the group used to publish one edition of The Home Front.

As head of circulation, Dixon was responsible for getting the names of soldiers and mailing the newspapers. He saved around 400 copies.

He said he is willing to send out more copies of the newspaper if Northville residents with relatives in Saudi Arabia are interested. Dixon can be contacted by leaving a message through Northville schools.

The newspaper could be enjoyed by anyone, Dixon said. But the idea was to send it to Michigan's soldiers.

"It's pretty localized to Michigan," he said.

Vigil mourns Montreal massacre

By SUZANNE HOLLYER
Staff Writer

Lighting candles and singing "We Shall Overcome," women from Northville joined about 75 women and men from other parts of the state including Wayne and Oakland county at a candle-light service in memory of 14 female engineering students killed in Montreal a year ago.

The women were killed by a man who, after being rejected from the University of Montreal's School of Engineering, entered an engineering class and told the men in the class to leave before calling the women feminists and shooting them.

Northville resident Tracey Martin was involved in planning the event held at the University of Michigan's Dearborn campus which brought mixed feelings to sponsors attending from seven National Organization for Women Chapters including Western Wayne County, Oakland County, North Oakland County, Macomb County, University of Michigan-Dearborn, Detroit and Downriver.

"There's a conflict of feelings," Martin said. "We feel strength through solidarity and bonding and at the same time a sense of helplessness."

"The question we should be asking is why we train half our population to be violent and the other half to be passive."

Madeline Hansen
NOW President

The sense of helplessness comes from knowing we can expect many more violent crimes will be committed against women in the future, Martin said.

"It's going to happen again and again and again," she said.

What happened in Montreal could have happened as easily in Northville because the root of the problem lies in an unspoken societal understanding of violence by men against women from rape and spouse abuse to murder, Martin said.

"(The murders in Montreal) are not an aberration," she said. "It's different in degree only."

Outgoing NOW president Madeline Hansen agreed, citing justifications of frustrated engineer Marc Lepine's actions in last year's newspapers.

Newspapers, she said, explained the murders by citing the examples of Lepine's broken family, lack of academic success and problems relating to women.

By listing his problems newspapers documented an undercurrent of thought in society, Hansen said.

"Of course they deserved to die; they were linked with the 'F' word," Hansen said. "The 'F' word being feminist of course."

The issue is missed by discussing Lepine's problems, Hansen said.

"As long as we keep asking why did Mark do this — did he have a bad day — we are asking the wrong question," Hansen said.

What should we be asking? "The question we should be asking is why we train half our population to be violent and the other half to be passive," she said.

Men were welcome and attended the service, and they, like the women in attendance, were asked to join in an effort to change society.

"We have to teach our children violence is not something cool and wonderful, violence is not acceptable," Hansen said. "The best way you can remember these women is to get involved in changing the world."

The event is expected to be held annually on the anniversary of the death of Genevieve Bergeron, Helene Colgan, Nathalie Croteau, Barbara Daigneault, Anne-Marie Edward, Maud Haviernick, Annette Turcotte, Barbara Maria Klueznick, Annie St. Arneault, Maryse LeClair, Michele Richard, Maryse Leganiere, Sonia Pelletier and Anne-Marie Lemay.

The purpose of the service was to remember the women, but they in essence appear to have become martyrs of the women's movement, which Martin pointed out was probably not their main goal in life.

"They didn't ask to be martyred, this was not in their plans," Martin said.

"The last thing any of us wants is to be remembered for the wrong reasons. They will be remembered for what they were prevented from becoming."

Paper aids drive for needy

Readers of The Northville Record have the opportunity to participate in the "Help Feed the Hungry: Buy a Case of Food" campaign that begins November 13 and continues through the holiday season.

The campaign is being conducted by Gleaners Community Food Bank of Greater Detroit, with the cooperation of Michigan National Bank and The Northville Record.

Appearing on page 5 of this paper today is a public service ad being printed free of charge that explains how readers can select the foods they wish to donate for the hungry and where the checks should be sent.

"Readers can check off the cases they wish to provide," explains Gene Gonya, Gleaner's president. "The campaign features twelve highly nutritional canned foods that can be purchased for the hungry through Gleaners."

"Food processors and distributors are providing the cases of food at substantially lower than list prices as their contribution to the campaign," Gonya said.

Residents of Southeastern Michigan contributed $77,637 to the "Buy a Case of Food" Campaign last year.

"We are hoping that this figure will be exceeded by at least 10 percent," Gonya said, "because the food needs among Gleaners' agencies are increasing."

Gleaners works in partnership with over 180 feeding agencies in more than 60 communities in Wayne, Oakland, Macomb, Washtenaw, Monroe and Livingston counties.

Soup kitchens, church pantries and emergency shelters receiving food from Gleaners are serving over 155,000 meals a week to the hungry in southeast Michigan.

In addition to The Northville Record, many Southeast Michigan companies are supporting the campaign by running stories in their employee publications and providing space for Gleaners displays.

For example, Michigan National Bank branches have displays that show the foods which can be purchased and are providing special donor envelopes for individuals to mail their contributions.

Readers can obtain more information about the campaign by calling Gonya at 923-3535.

All contributions to Gleaners are tax deductible to the extent permitted under current federal and state law.

Donations of packaged food, canned goods, money or volunteer time to Gleaners help hard-pressed senior citizens burdened with property taxes, our young working poor and inadequately provided-for families subsisting on public assistance who continue to find themselves without food or funds at the end of the month.

Assault reported at residence

A Northville man reported an assault that allegedly occurred at his residence on Curtis Dec. 1. The man reportedly told Northville Township police that his 16-year-old stepson struck him with his fists and bit his finger during an argument. The victim refused to press charges, police said.

CHARTER BUS VANDALIZED: A charter bus parked at Northville Downs Dec. 3 was vandalized sometime between 7-9 p.m. A padlock on the bus door was broken, a table inside the 16-seat bus was crushed and the interior was ransacked in the attack, though nothing was reported stolen. Two males between 14-15 years old were seen walking from the area before the damage was discovered, and Northville City police found two pairs of footprints leading to and from the bus during their investigation.

Police News

CAR WINDOW DESTROYED: An employee of Meijer, 20401 Haggerty, told Northville Township police that someone destroyed the passenger side window of her 1990 Geo Storm late Nov. 28 or early Nov. 29. Damage was estimated at $250.

VEHICLE DAMAGED: The owner of a 1990 Dodge Shadow reported damage to his vehicle Nov. 25. Northville Township police said the owner told them someone scratched the hood, left side and trunk of the vehicle.

MAIL STOLEN FROM BOX: A Rippling Lane resident told Northville Township police someone stole personal checks from his mailbox sometime between 1:05 p.m. Nov. 25 and 10 a.m. Nov. 26. Town & Country Cyclery Dec. 5 between 7:50-8 p.m. The detector, a Cobra Trapshooter II with a cigarette lighter power cord, was valued at $180. The truck was unlocked at the time.

FENDER BENDERS: Northville City police reported five accidents in the past week. A 21-year-old Dearborn man driving north on Lexington Dec. 3 struck the car ahead of him about 4:25 p.m. The car was stopped at the Eight Mile stop sign. The man was cited for falling to stop.

The next morning, a car heading south on Novi Road slid on ice and was struck by the car behind it. No citations were issued. At 5:02 that evening, a 19-year-old Novi woman was driving north on Center Street south of Cady when she struck a car turning left into the city parking lot south of Main Centre. She was cited for falling to stop. At 6:30 p.m., a 72-year-old Northville woman was driving east on Dunlap east of Rogers when she struck a parked car. She was cited for falling to stop.

The next day, about 4:05 p.m., a car turning left off Northville Road in front of a tanker truck was struck by a southbound car. The driver of the turning car, a 46-year-old Westland woman, was hospitalized and both cars were towed. She was cited for failing to yield.

Citizens with information about the above incidents are urged to call Northville City Police at 349-1234 or Northville Township Police at 349-9400.

Police seek suspect

Northville Township police have released a composite drawing of a man suspected of abducting and robbing two 18-year-old Livonia men at National Pride Car Wash on Five Mile Road Nov. 17. Police said the man forced the youths at gunpoint to drive him to the Five Mile/Lahser intersection in Detroit. There he reportedly stole $40 from them and fled on foot. The man is described as approximately 40 years old, with brown hair and a mustache. He was last seen wearing a jeans and a blue denim jacket. Police ask anyone who may have information on the suspect to call them at 348-5811 or 349-9400.

Drug-free school zones set

By MIKE TYREE
Staff Writer

Thinking about tempting curious and trusting young minds at local schools with illegal drugs? Anxious to move your wares at a discount in order to create a demand?

A word of advice. Don't try that marketing strategy in Northville.

Northville school and law enforcement officials have reached accord on a plan to increase penalties for those who would sell illegal drugs on school grounds.

Members of the Northville board of education, city council and township board of trustees will be asked this week to adopt resolutions establishing Northville Public Schools as Drug Free Zones.

Established by the state Legislature in 1988, the Drug Free School Zones Act provides for stiffer than usual penalties for drug pushers who distribute or use children to distribute drugs on or near school property.

Penalties for those convicted of violating the act can be two to three times as severe as normal, township police Chief Chip Snider said Friday. "School kids are easily approachable (for drug pushers)," Snider said. "We're delivering a message that the stakes are going to be real high — including stiffer penalties."

A Drug Free School Zone covers the area within 500 feet of a school, he said.

Snider said he spoke to school Superintendent George Bell about the drug-free zone idea last week.

"He was extremely receptive to the concept and intends to present it to the school board (tonight)."

The drug-free zone plan did not come about because of heightened illegal drug activity, Bell said. Instead, the zone is meant to serve as a deterrent.

"It's a preventive thing," he said. "The intent is to let anyone know if they choose to deal drugs on school grounds they will face severe penalties."

"Work by the Northville Action Council and our Charlie Stilec (high school student assistance program coordinator) has probably put us way ahead of many communities (in drug awareness programs)."

Signs will be posted at all Northville school buildings alerting the public to the drug free zones, Bell said.

"I'll order them as soon as the board passes the resolution," Bell said. "They'll probably be up after the holidays."

The move toward drug free zones was a cooperative effort between the schools, Snider and city police Chief Rodney Cannon, Bell said.

The school board and city council are expected to adopt resolutions tonight, and the township board will hear the resolution Thursday evening. Snider said drug dealers stalking school children should be aware of the zone.

"If they're near the schools and have second thoughts, they have the opportunity to turn and back off," he said.

dents will be more business for existing downtowns in Northville and Plymouth. Initial plans call for shuttles from the Huntington Falls area to both downtowns.

"It's going to provide customers for your stores, customers for your restaurants; it's going to provide customers for the services you have. Our plan was made so it isn't going to be competitive with the existing establishment; it's going to be complementary," DeMattia said.

"In an aside, the developer said that to this date" people continue to approach him with proposals for heavy retail development at the corner of Five Mile and Sheldon, but the proposals get turned down.

"I did not believe this would be complementary to our two communities," he said. "We wanted to have something that's complementary and that's what we have."

Tax revenue to Northville schools and Northville Township will rise significantly with the new project, DeMattia said in response to a question.

"When Huntington Falls is completed in 11 years, the estimate is that the total investment there will be from one-and-a-half to two billion dollars," he said. The project will create a great deal of new tax base without any real added pressure on services, he said.

"There's jobs and there's housing for our community," he added.

Asked about his timetable for the project, DeMattia said he plans on 11 years to construct the entire development. The first step is permit approvals from Northville Township, which he estimates will take nine months.

After that all three sections of the development will get under way, with a ring road being an early priority. The golf course, to be completed in one-and-a-half to two years, will be one of the first parts completed.

Three facets

NON-RESIDENTIAL

The non-residential side of Huntington Falls will be toward the west, reaching to Beck Road. The golf facilities will serve as a buffer between this area and the residential, DeMattia said.

In this area will be research-and-development buildings and smokeless light industry, he added, along the lines of R.A. DeMattia projects in Plymouth Township. He said this will be the only such park in Michigan with direct frontage on, and access to, a golf course.

Contrary to what some might think, DeMattia said the location next to the Scott Regional Correctional Facility on Five Mile can actually be turned into a marketing tool: Who wants to commit crimes around a prison?

Other non-residential aspects to the development will include limited restaurants and service shops geared to the development itself, DeMattia said. He also hopes for some medical facilities.

"It's so neat," she said. "We were at the Northville Victorian Festival and people were so nice . . . hundreds of people just stopped to say Kevin was in their prayers."

"I know Kevin and Dawn enjoy it here because this is such a neat little town."

MONDAY BUSINESS

Manufacturers crack down on parts

In May 1989, a 30-year-old truck driver died in a steering-loss accident in Ontario. The accident was traced to a counterfeit bolt, manufactured overseas, that was falsely marked as meeting Society of Automotive Engineers standards.

Today, automotive manufacturers, including the Big Three, continue to fight counterfeiters of replacement parts. Companies estimate that as much as $3 billion of the $50 billion per year automotive aftermarket involves counterfeit or simulated parts. The Federal Trade Commission translates this into 210,000 lost jobs for Americans, who would be producing legitimate equivalents.

"Counterfeiting is the imitation of something genuine with the intention to defraud or deceive," said Michael Dinger, Chrysler product development manager. "In my five years of fighting this problem, all counterfeit parts I have examined were definitely inferior to genuine ones."

Counterfeit parts may originate overseas, imported legally as generic parts before being placed in counterfeit boxes, or be made in the United States. Original equipment manufacturers warn that these parts usually fail to meet industry or individual company standards.

In other cases, called simulation, parts of uncertain quality are offered in "look-alike" packages. Boxes with Motorcraft and Autocraft labels, for example, have been used to deceive customers looking for Ford's Motorcraft trademark.

The counterfeit and simulation problems need to be distinguished from the current crash parts controversy where less costly, but clearly marked, parts are used in collision repairs, Dinger said. In this case, automakers contend that such "imitation" parts do not provide satisfactory quality of repairs.

Manufacturers, worried about safety as much as lost sales and reputation, are getting tough with counterfeit parts makers and distributors.

In April, Southfield-based Federal Mogul Corp. claimed success in a civil case against a Marysville, Calif. parts distributor doing business as Mid-Valley Industrial and Hust Bros. Inc.

The suit charged that Roy Lanza, operator of both businesses, sold inferior oil seals as Federal Mogul parts he placed in counterfeit Federal-Mogul boxes that he had printed.

"We discovered the problem in 1988 when a customer of Mr. Lanza tried to return the oil seals to Federal-Mogul for credit," said George Bashara, Federal-Mogul vice president and general counsel. "This practice, involving hundreds of thousands of dollars of parts, had been going on for at least three years."

In a federal court-approved settlement, Lanza admitted fraud, pledged to stop counterfeit practices and

"Federal-Mogul is no longer going to assume that this is a cost of doing business and let it go at that."

George Bashara
Federal Mogul Vice President

agreed to pay damages to Federal-Mogul. The counterfeit parts and boxes were confiscated by the U.S. Marshall's office.

Manufacturers have an ally in the Federal Counterfeit Trademark Act. Enacted in 1986, the act imposes criminal penalties of up to five years in prison and fines of up to $250,000 for individuals and $1 million for businesses dealing in counterfeit goods. In contrast, those "simulating" genuine parts are subject only to civil penalties.

The message for counterfeiters, Bashara said, is that "Federal-Mogul is no longer going to assume that this is a cost of doing business and let it go at that." In the past, Bashara said, Federal-Mogul feared bad publicity, but now will prosecute whenever it can.

In 1989, aftermarket sales accounted for 68 percent of Federal-Mogul's earnings of $56 million. Federal-Mogul components include engine bearings, sealing devices, fuel pumps, and lighting and electrical systems.

Federal-Mogul continues vigilance against counterfeiters with the same strategies used by the Big Three: constant checking of products in the field, information programs, improvements in packaging, and the willingness to prosecute offenders.

In January, a nationwide FBI sting netted 30 counterfeit parts distributors. The FBI had been working on the case with major manufacturers for nearly three years. The investigation is continuing.

"Seven indictments have been handed down, but no cases from January have been completely settled yet," said Ken Myers, marketing manager for Ford's Parts and Service division.

While Myers sees less counterfeiting from Ford's standpoint in the last few years, he believes that it "probably will never go away; there is too much money to be made."

Myers said that counterfeit parts distributors are getting more sophisticated, with some using telemarketing schemes to reach auto service centers.

Both Chrysler's Dinger and Ford's Myers believe that counterfeit parts are more likely to be found in repair centers than auto parts stores.

"In my experience, no prosecutions over the last four to five years have involved any legitimate parts stores," Dinger said.

Locally, auto parts dealers also see less of a problem than in the past. Scott Harthun, manager of Southfield Auto Parts in Southfield, said he has never encountered any counterfeit parts or offers of them.

"We also buy direct from manufacturers, so we are unlikely to have the problem," Harthun said.

Bob Morton, owner of Stem's Auto Supply in Livonia, agreed.

"I am not aware of any problems with counterfeit parts for the last two or three years," Morton said. "Brand name stuff is all I sell; other projects don't last."

At Mid-5 Auto Supply in Livonia, manager John Ginther said he may be offered parts from independent jobbers two to three times a year. Ginther shies away, buying strictly from established warehouses.

Morton and Ginther, each with more than 20 years of experience in auto parts, suggest buying from reputable stores and repairing cars at well-established service centers which are more likely to resist the temptation of selling off-brand parts as genuine.

"The problem is probably greater away from the city, especially when you are on a trip and need a repair," Morton said. He recommends carrying routine replacement parts such as belts or hoses when traveling.

Berst energizes dulcimer

By RICK BYRNE
Copy Editor

Mike Berst is aptly named. A virtuoso hammered-dulcimer player, he takes an instrument most often played in a soft and pastoral manner, and infuses it with a burst of energy.

Berst will be performing in concert at the Marquis Theatre in Northville on Dec. 11-13.

For those unfamiliar with the hammered dulcimer, it is an instrument with a long history. "It goes back to Persia about 2,500 years ago," said Berst. At that time the instrument was known as a santur.

It has strings fretted across a trapezoidal wooden sounding box, and when the strings are struck with small hammers — not unlike those inside a piano — the sound produced is somewhere between a piano and a harp.

The hammered dulcimer came to America with the British colonists, and saw its greatest popularity in the Appalachian Mountains region in the mid-1800s. Only in the past several decades has the instrument's popularity waned.

"The dulcimer survived mainly in Michigan," said Berst. "People are surprised to learn that the best ones are made right here. It was Henry Ford's favorite instrument, and he had a dulcimer player on the Ford payroll."

Berst also noted that the dulcimer is generally taught by ear and observation, without formal lessons or sheet music, and passed on from generation to generation. In that tradition, Berst, a Detroit native, was taught by his father, who worked in a dulcimer factory.

"I started out playing in clubs for older people," he said. "I did the usual assortment of private parties, and then festivals, art fairs and craft shows. I was a fixture at the Old Shillelagh (a Detroit night spot near Greektown) for a while."

The revival of the dulcimer began in 1964, when Chet Parker, a Michiganander, played at the Newport Folk Festival, and acquired an eclectic East Coast following. Then younger players — Berst among them — began playing publicly in Michigan and elsewhere.

Berst has broken from tradition with his playing style, however. While the dulcimer can accompany a fiddle for square dance music, it is rarely played with quite the intensity that Berst puts into it.

"The way I play is different from everyone else," he said. "It sounds like a mandolin. It's a tremolo sound. I do more chording."

His recordings include "Sweet Georgia Brown" and "Listen to the Mockingbird" the way you've never heard them before. And his recordings are self-produced.

"I've done it all (the recording) myself," Berst said. "We're fortunate to live in the age of the independently produced recording industry. There's a lot of self-produced stuff out there. People hear pop music, but they don't realize that Christian music is 35 percent of the market. Less than half of all the music sold is (on pop labels)."

This fertile field has created opportunity for musicians to build a following. So great is the opportunity that Berst recently quit a fast-track job in the automotive aftermarket to make his living as a musician. He now tours regionally with some accompanists.

"A lot of things that used to be done for the fun and love of it — like sports, for instance — have become big business," Berst said. "In music, there's a lot of rebellion against that. People pick up on that."

"When we perform, it's just us up there. There's no hype and we're real available and straightforward. Compare us to this Milli Vanilli thing. Lip-synch? We don't even use a sound system."

"Sometimes we don't even know what we're going to play past the first song," he added, jokingly.

Venues like the Marquis Theatre suit Berst's style.

"It's ideal because it's intimate and small. It's got some character," he said.

The shows generally attract a wide audience. "I attract a pretty broad spectrum of young and old," Berst said. "They're just awed by the sound of the instrument. I had a woman come up to me once and say, 'It's a miracle. My teenage son, who only listens to rap music, just bought one of your tapes.'"

"Realistically, though it's an older audience; 35 to 45, the intellectual and academic crowd."

"But the dulcimer is incredibly hot right now at a grass-roots level. I think I've got a good shot to be on top of that wave."

Video Viewing

Boxed set a must for Chaplin fans

More good news for Chaplin fans. Media Home Entertainment will quench your thirst for comedy with its Chaplin six-pack — six tapes at $19.98 each, or the entire set for the price of five.

The collection very nicely complements the three 55-minute "Unknown Chaplin" tapes released in August. That footage demonstrated Chaplin's technique. "Unknown Chaplin" contains extensive sequences of Chaplin's experiments in developing comic routines for "The Cure" — one of the selections in this new set.

Running from 60 to 100 minutes each, these six programs contain just over 8½ hours of early Chaplin, 25 of the 62 films he made for Keystone, Essanay and Mutual Studios from February 1914 through October 1917.

Mack Sennett spotted Chaplin playing in Philadelphia with Karno Komedie Kompany, a British music hall (vaudeville) company, with whom Chaplin had appeared for several years. Interestingly enough, Stan Laurel was also a Karno alumnus. Sennett thought Chaplin was very funny and put him under contract for the calendar year 1914.

Appropriately, Chaplin's first film, "Making a Living" (February, 1914), opens the first of these six tapes. "Charlie Chaplin at Keystone Studios," which includes four more of the 35 films Chaplin made for Keystone that year.

So successful were those 35 films that Chaplin was lured away from Keystone by Essanay for $1,250 per week, more than eight times his $150 weekly Keystone salary. The second and third tapes in this set present eight of the 15 films Chaplin made for Essanay from January 1915 through April 1916.

Program acquisition is a major problem companies face with such sets for video distribution. Assembling a collection like this and obtaining the necessary copyright releases is a significant problem. The easy way out, of course, is to pick up existing packages. That's what Media Home Entertainment did here, and the first three of these six tapes are 1984 Artpal Enterprises' productions.

Artpal credits one Dennis Doros for musical synchronization. Whoever he and Artpal may be, their musical sense is truly awful. The musical selections range back and forth — with no apparent theme — from '50s "cool" jazz, to schmaltzy orchestra and elevator music with an occasional (and appropriate) vaudeville-style piano selection. In one case, "The Champion," the switch from "cool" jazz to piano comes right in the middle of a boxing match.

There's no sense to it whatsoever and such weird selections throw the visual rhythms off balance. The first three tapes in this set are best viewed with the sound level at zero. Artpal's title-writer was pretty heavy-handed and pompous but no one reads titles anyway.

Tapes four through six are titled the "Charlie Chaplin Carnival," a program containing the 12 Mutual Comedies that David Shepard assembled in 1984. The musical accompaniment fits and properly reinforces Chaplin's very visual rhythms. Titled comments are limited and avoid the pretentiousness of the first three tapes.

Charlie's first year at Keystone led to his lucrative salary at Essanay. By April 1916, when he left Essanay, he was an international star and Mutual hired him for $10,000 per week — beyond comprehension in 1916.

The 12 Mutual comedies are considered Chaplin's best and were produced from May 1916 through October 1917, when he left Mutual. Some of Charlie's finest routines and cleverest comic comments are in these 12 films.

Despite the complaints about the music and titles of the first three tapes, this set has a lot going for it. In addition to some very funny stuff, the visual quality is excellent for film of that era.

But most of all, it's Charlie Chaplin, the master comic at his best. Try it. You'll laugh.

Dan Greenberg/Grading the Movies

New releases just in time for the holidays

There'll be no time for Christmas shopping this week as Hollywood has just released 10 new movies for your viewing pleasure. Don't miss Kevin Costner's sensitive and touching look at America's western frontier during the Civil War.

Costner directed himself in "Dances with Wolves" (A, PG-13, 180 minutes) as Lt. John Dunbar, a Northern Army cavalry officer who receives the post of his choice for bravery in action against the Confederates.

He picks a distant outpost, Fort Sedgewick, on the western frontier in order to see the wilderness "while it's still there." It's strange that an officer would desire to be away from the "real action" during the Civil War but Dunbar is a thoughtful, battle weary veteran in search of himself.

"Dances with Wolves" opens with much of the widescreen grandeur associated with John Ford westerns but quickly turns into something very different and very special — an epic poem to humanity and brotherhood.

Like great paintings hung in museums, the vast panoramas depicted in Dean Semler's cinematography are worth seeing for their intrinsic beauty. But they serve as well to emphasize the ultimate insignificance of individuals facing the overwhelming power of social and natural forces. One has only to see a small wagon with a few lonely souls to understand the great bravery of those who crossed the western plains on horseback or in Conestoga wagons.

Lt. Dunbar becomes friendly with a nearby Sioux tribe. Much to the film's credit, the problems of inter-cultural contact are not minimized nor taken lightly. It is a slow process as Dunbar and the Sioux learn each other's languages, customs, feelings. There is a white woman, Stands with a Fist (Mary McDonnell), who had been captured as a young girl and had grown up in the tribe. She married the Indian who had captured her.

When Stands with a Fist's husband died, she went into mourning and is reluctant to speak English or translate for Dunbar. This is a very slow process of inter-cultural accommodation, handled delicately, and is at the heart of the emotional appeal of "Dances with Wolves." This atmosphere is reinforced by the vast visual pleasures of the scenery.

"Dances with Wolves" is a remarkably fine-textured film, a movie to make one wax eloquent and poetic about human courage and about the brotherhood of man.

Ordinarily, sequels of hit films don't pass muster when the basic plot is simply rehashed for those who loved the original. That's exactly the case in "Three Men and a Little Lady" (B+, PG, 105 minutes), a very funny look at parenthood from a very different point of view.

In the original "Three Men and a Baby," the American remake of the successful 1985 French film, "Three Men and a Cradle," the three were bachelors. Jack Holden (Ted Danson), Peter Mitchell (Tom Selleck) and Michael Colum (Steve Guttenberg) care for and raise a baby left in their care.

Now, five years later, the baby, fathered by one of the swinging bachelors, is the adorable and precocious Mary, played with engaging sweetness by Robin Weisman. The plot thickens, as they say, when her mother, Sylvia Bennington (Nancy Travis), an actress, returns and moves in. It's quite a marriage and "Three Men . . ." plays it to the comic hilt.

Further complications arise when Sylvia's boyfriend, Edward, an English theatrical director offers Sylvia a part on the London stage — and a permanent part as his wife. The three bachelor fathers are devastated but quickly summon up a number of clever strategies to avert that terrible fate. Not since "The Graduate" have viewers been treated to such a comic wedding-chase scene. But there's much more.

The film's only drawback is its failure to explain the background for those who missed the original. That, however, shouldn't spoil your fun.

There's no truth to the rumor that Sylvester Stallone goes in a roomful of mirrors in "Rocky XXXVI" and beats himself up. But it is true that Stallone beats viewers over the head in "Rocky V" (C+, PG-13, 100 minutes) with the same stuff that made "Rocky I-IV" successful.

As "V" opens, Rocky loses everything because his brother-in-law, Paulie (Burt Young), had him sign a power-of-attorney to an accountant who used Rocky's wealth in a real estate deal that went sour. Rocky thought he was signing some IRS documents. It also turns out that the accountant hadn't paid Rocky's taxes for six years.

That's all pretty thin for a major plot device. It's hard to believe such a widely known celebrity could dodge the IRS for six years while living on the top of the heap. There are similar plot flaws later on as the four of them — Paulie, Rocky, Adrian (Talia Shire) and their son, Rocky Jr., played quite well by Sylvester's son Sage — return to the old neighborhood and settle in together.

Seems doubtful that the brother-in-law who just lost the family fortune would be welcomed into the family's bosom with everything forgiven and forgotten. Even Rocky isn't that punch-drunk. Nor is it reasonable that Rocky would quickly come to his senses after alienating his son in favor of a new young boxer, Tommy Gunn (Tommy Morrison). The latter had come to Rocky for training in the old gym, which, incidentally, is inhabited by the ghost of Rocky's trainer, Mickey (Burgess Meredith).

Just a few words from Adrian and father and son quickly reconcile. Despite doctors' orders, Rocky fights again and neither his brain nor his vision are strained. Viewers who aren't "Rocky" fans will find their patience strained by the trite and repetitive plot development and by Stallone's exaggerated, nervous rendition of uneducated street talk.

On the other hand, "Rocky" fans will be pleased to see their hero bash the opposition in flashbacks as well as in the present. Me, I've taken enough beatings from "Rocky. I'm punch-drunk . . . rocky, you might say.

"Home Alone (B-, PG, 100 minutes) is a fairly engaging comedy that is at its best when Kevin McCallister (Macaulay Culkin) is left alone to do his thing — that is protect his home from intruders with the mature cleverness children often display.

The McCallister family is vacationing in Paris and accidentally left Kevin behind when they rushed off to catch their plane. Some of the film's activities strain one's credibility and certainly Kevin's wise advice to a reclusive neighbor is a bit much. On the whole, however, it's pleasant holiday entertainment and there's nothing offensive. Wow, a real family film!

"The Rescuers Down Under" (G) features the voices of Bob Newhart and Eva Gabor in this animated story from Disney. It's all about Bernard and Miss Bianca traveling to Australia to help a young boy save a rare eagle from a poacher.

"The Nutcracker Prince" (G) is an animated fantasy of the classical ballet by Tchaikovsky, "The Nutcracker Suite." The music is played by the London Symphony Orchestra with character voices done by Kiefer Sutherland, Megan Follows, Mike MacDonald, Peter Boretski, Phyllis Diller and Peter O'Toole.

"ROBOT JOX" (F) is a post-apocalyptic tale where international disputes are settled by warriors in gigantic machines.

"Predator 2" also opens in another attack of sequeltips. This one's set in L.A. in 1997, with Danny Glover and Gary Busey leading the hunt.

Check Alternative Viewing for the last two, "C'est La Vie" (no rating) and "Jesus of Montreal" (R).

That's the big 10 for Thanksgiving. All open Wednesday, Nov. 21, except "Rocky V," "Rescuers Down Under," "Home Alone" and "Jesus of Montreal," which got a head start last Friday.

Belushi is effective as middle-aged fellow haunted by a youthful strikeout. Michael Caine gives him another swing.

Despite an obvious plot with a hokum-laden conclusion, Gene Hackman and Anne Archer are entertaining in this DA vs. the Mob chase film.

"Night of the Living Dead" (R).

Remake of George Romero's 1968 cult zombie film.

"Pacific Heights" (A-, R, 105 minutes).

Suspense and excitement as psychotic tenant terrorizes his landlords.

Disappointing, jumbled, show biz story of mother-daughter conflict doesn't live up to its advanced billing nor to its superb cast.

"Pretty Woman" (A-, R, 120 minutes).

Charming, romantic fantasy with Wall Street mogul (Richard Gere) falling in love with a prostitute (Julia Roberts).

MONDAY FOOD

Chef Larry Janes

Rice breaks free from the ordinary stuff

It was inevitable: rice, the food that is relied upon as a dietary staple by more than half the world's population, is beginning to be appreciated in the United States.

There are more than 40,000 varieties of rice in the world but only a handful of them are changing the way Americans think about this simple grain.

Walk into any trendy restaurant in metropolitan Detroit and rest assured that rice will have some sort of premier presence on the menu. With the exception of Oriental eateries, plain old white rice took the last slow boat to China and, it is hoped, will never return. In its place, the new and coming rices to watch for will have exotic names like Basmati, Texmati, Wild Pecan, Arborio, Jasmine and Black Japonica.

Most common on the trendy rice circuit these days is the very aromatic Basmati, heralding from Pakistan and Northern India. This thin, long-grain, cream-colored rice fills the kitchen with an alluring aroma from the minute it begins to cook — an aroma which lingers all the way to the table and stays on the palate.

Not to be outdone, the Americans have since developed a strain similar to Basmati called Texmati. This domestic version, grown in Texas, smells much like popcorn and carries a typically nutty flavor at about half the price of the imported competition.

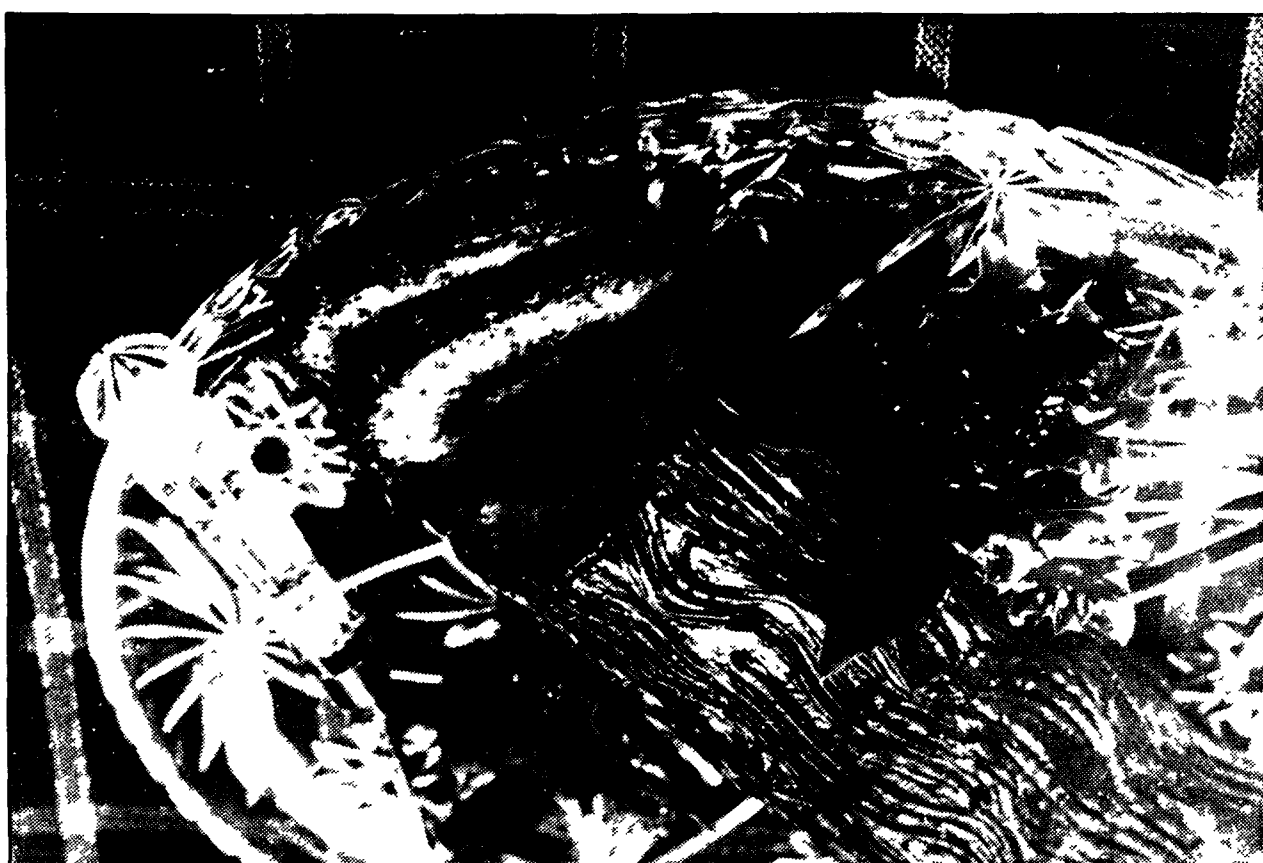

Arborio rice is a short-grained import heralding from Italy. With nearly 80 percent of the rice eaten in America being a long-grained version, the short grains are gaining in popularity, mainly because they are softer, stickier and, if anything, more versatile in cooking. Their outer layer softens more readily and has a tendency to absorb the flavors in the cooking medium more than long grains. Arborio makes a great rice used in the preparation of risotto, a classic creamy rice dish flavored with chicken stock, butter and Parmesan cheese.

Here's a rice that's creeping up in popularity: Knoriko Wild Pecan. This aromatic rice grown in New Iberia, La., is neither wild nor tastes of pecans, but it smells nutty when cooked. Mike Davis, president of Conrad Rice Mill, the oldest operating rice mill in the USA, says they are called Wild Pecan because, "When we think of nuts, we think of pecans, and the best pecans are wild."

Already appearing on the best-dressed plates on the West Coast are telltale signs of Jasmine and Black Japonica rices. The Jasmine variety is a long-grain rice that cooks up like a short grain, soft and moist. And, yes, it does have a faint aroma of Jasmine, something that West Coast chefs are sporting as the latest food trend.

The Black Japonica variety appearing from Japan has unusually tinted indigo-colored bran layers that leach out during the cooking process, turning the cooking water and rice purple. Unfortunately, this rice looks better than it tastes and can usually be found being mixed with other rices, mainly for the interesting color contrasts.

So if you thought that the only thing Momma could cook was something from an Uncle Ben's box, try one of the new aromatics and watch the family's taste buds say "Wow!"

The Christmas yule log recipe traces its roots to Austria

Yule log cake warms hearts

By Larry Janes
Special Writer

Holidays in the Janes Gang home just wouldn't be complete without the traditional log cake, otherwise known as a Bushe de Noel or Baumstamm Cake. As familiar on the table as the sliced contents of an Ocean Spray cranberry sauce can, this luscious creation has always been the centerpiece of our dessert table. But the cake's heritage goes far beyond its calorie-laden nutmeat batter and artery-hardening frosting.

To call this dessert a simple cake would be like calling a Maserati a car. Steeped in European folklore, the creation of this cake brings with it many tales.

The term "Buche de Noel" is French. "Buche" translates into "log" while the "Noel" denotes "Christmas." It didn't take long for this holiday tradition to go beyond territorial borders, because research indicates the Germans have a similar cake dubbed "Baumstamm," also meaning "log."

Actual recipes are similar, but folklore has it that the cake was invented when holiday revelers, traveling from home to home, would carry a log that was presented to each homeowner. The log, signifying the friendship between the visitors, was promptly thrown on the fireplace, to bring forth warm wishes for a happy holiday.

The travelers undoubtedly tired of carrying around all those heavy logs, and the cake was created as a delicious substitute. Tradition declares the cake must be rolled in the shape of a log, complete with frosting resembling the bark. Some purists go so far as to include erstatz "knots," shaped from the frosting, coupled with edible candy mushrooms made from a merengue piping. The sliced, log cake filled with chocolate resembled the rings seen when cutting logs.

Depending on whose cookbook or culinary magazine you choose for a recipe, the cake itself is made with an egg-enriched chocolate batter spread thinly in a jelly-roll-type cake pan and baked to just the right moment so that once cooled, a filling of chocolate, butter and more eggs could be spread upon it. Then, tightly rolled to resemble a log, it was covered with the same rich chocolate frosting.

The Buche de Noel shown in the photograph accompanying this story was made from an old Austrian recipe provided by my oldest sister, Rose. Her recipe was brought directly from Austria from her immigrant in-laws. It was originally made using an authentic balance-beam-type scale to measure the ingredients and had to be transformed from metric to standard American equivalencies.

Sure, there are other recipes that call for box-mix chocolate batter and, if need be, you could even cheat a little by using a Betty Crocker chocolate frosting, but to quote my sister directly, "The cake and filling itself is rather simplistic, and when the recipe calls for unsalted butter and not packed but loosely measured nuts, for optimum results, don't cheat."

Personally speaking, I made the recipe and found it fairly easy, with the majority of time spent on the actual rolling and frosting. Once presented on a platter or cake plate, the creation can be bedecked with festive holiday paraphernalia such as Pointsettia leaves or holiday greenery.

If the festive season finds you visiting friends and relatives, or if you're looking for a scrumptious holiday centerpiece that will be fondly remembered by all, this holiday cake can be just what Santa ordered

BUCHE DE NOEL OR BAUMSTAMM CAKE
Batter: 9 large eggs 1 cup plus 2 tbsp granulated sugar 2 cups fresh ground nutmeats (walnuts or hazelnuts are best, loosely measured but not packed) ½ cup sifted flour	ness with toothpick inserted in the center. If not completely cooked, check cake at 5-minute intervals. Remove from the oven and cool on wire rack for 5 minutes. Then gently remove and allow to cool completely on a flat surface while preparing the filling and frosting.
Separate eggs in two large bowls. Combine egg yolks with the sugar and beat on high speed of an electric mixer for 10 minutes, scraping bowl often. Add flour, a little at a time and continue beating for 5 minutes. In another bowl, using impeccably clean beaters, beat egg whites until they peak. Alternate the addition of the beaten whites and nuts into the yellow batter, folding mixture in very carefully and slowly as not to reduce volume.	Filling and Frosting: 4 large eggs 1½ cups granulated sugar 1 tsp vanilla 4 squares unsweetened baking chocolate ½ pound unsalted butter, room temperature
Spread batter onto an ungreased buttered 11-by-15-inch jelly roll pan and level out batter as best you can. Bake in a preheated 325-degree oven until done. After 15 minutes, test for done-	Combine eggs, sugar and vanilla in a double boiler, stirring constantly over medium heat. When mixture is hot, add chocolate (it will melt as you continue stirring) and continue cooking and stirring until thick, about 20 minutes. Allow to cool and then beat in room-temperature, softened, unsalted butter, scraping pan often. If mixture is too thin to spread, refrigerate for 30 minutes or until it gets more firm.
Apply frosting to the entire surface of the cake, about ¼-inch thick. Roll up a long side, as you would a jelly roll. Place cake carefully on serving dish and frost the entire cake including ends and sides. With a fork, make bark designs resembling that of a log. Place cake in refrigerator and keep there until ready to serve. For best results when slicing, slice with a very sharp, thin knife that has been dipped in cold water, with excess water shaken off.	Holiday shopping, party planning and all the other extraneous holiday jobs have got you calling "help"? If you think you don't have the time or effort to make the Buche De Noel in its regular state, how about trying this speedy version? Guaranteed to garner the same rave reviews as the complex recipe looks-wise, at least with minimal effort. Of course, set them side by side, and the regular recipe will win hands down.
	SPEEDY BUCHE DE NOEL 1 box Betty Crocker Super Moist Devil's Food Cake Mix
	1 ½ cups milk ½ cup vegetable oil 3 eggs 1 cup finely chopped nutmeats (walnuts or hazelnuts) 2 containers Betty Crocker double chocolate frosting
	Combine mix with milk, oil and eggs. Blend on low speed for 30 seconds. Then beat on medium speed for 2 minutes. Stir in nutmeats. Pour a little more than half the batter into a greased 15-by-10-inch jelly roll pan and tap lightly to spread. Then bake at 350 degrees for 20-25 minutes or until a toothpick inserted in the center comes out clean. Cool on a baking rack for 5 minutes. Gently remove from pan and place on waxed paper until cool. Bring frosting to room temperature. Gently spread frosting over surface of the cake. Roll lengthwise into a roll and sides on platter. Frost entire cake and sides with frosting. Using a fork, score top and sides of cake frosting to resemble a log. Chill well before serving. Use remaining batter for cupcakes or small cakes, if desired.

Muer choices put emphasis on harmony

Wine and food harmony is the most discussed topic in the American wine industry today.

This is not a new phenomenon for Chuck Muer. He has been matching his food offerings with the world's finest wines in his restaurants for 25 years. The American seafood lover can benefit from this quarter-century of experience in 16 Chuck Muer restaurants in Michigan, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Florida and Washington, D.C.

At the Charley's Crab restaurants in Troy and Grand Rapids, the Gandy Dancer in Ann Arbor and the River Crab in St. Clair, diners can sample about 10 wines by the glass or order from the extensive wine list.

To celebrate his 25th anniversary in the restaurant business, Muer organized a tasting panel to select a chardonnay and cabernet sauvignon for private labeling under the Muer Cellars brand.

The 25th anniversary Chardonnay is the 1988 Jefferson Ranch Chardonnay produced by Napa Valley's Monticello Vineyards. The 25th Anniversary Cabernet Sauvignon is the 1986 Jefferson Cuvee Cabernet Sauvignon, also from Monticello. Both wines are $5.25 by the glass or $20.75 per 750ml bottle.

Because price is always an issue, we are pleased to say that, in the main across the wine list, prices are approximately twice wholesale. With some restaurants in this country charging three times retail, the Chuck Muer restaurants receive our applause on their wine-pricing policy.

"The chardonnay is a perfect complement to our many fresh fish and seafood offerings," Muer says. "The cabernet matches superbly with our New Zealand rack of lamb, filet mignon or London Broil."

To test Muer's remarks, we paid a visit to Charley's Crab in Troy for an extensive wine and food pairing from the regular dinner menu and current wine list.

"With the exception of the German Rieslings, not all Chuck Muer restaurants have the same wine list," says Bill Young, dining room manager at Charley's Crab in Troy. "Chuck allows the wine director and general sales manager at each location to make wine purchases based on clientele demographics. As an example, Alsace Rieslings are more expensive and appear on only some lists."

About 90 percent of wine sales are white wines. Of that, 60 percent is chardonnay, 30 percent is German and 10 percent are other available whites, with sauvignon blanc in the lead.

"Chuck Muer restaurant staff is educated once each week on wines currently on the list and wines under consideration," Young says. "Wine and food harmony for approximately 20 wines are discussed at each training session."

The 25th anniversary Chardonnay is a delicate wine that may be paired with lake trout, perch or any of the usually available whitefish.

A 1987 Hanna Chardonnay and a delightful 1988 Zind-Humbrecht Silvaner matched with nearly every dish including the fried calamari and fried smelt with Dijon-mustard dipping-sauce appetizers. It could even handle paella with spicy sausage.

While Muer paired the 25th anniversary Cabernet Sauvignon with lamb and steaks, we found it to be a perfect red wine with fish — a match that has to be believed.

Family bakes for 118 years

By ARLENE FUNKE
Special writer

It was 1872 when German immigrant Anton Burghardt began selling his crusty sourdough rye bread in Detroit.

Down through the generations, family members carried on the baking tradition. They carefully guarded the recipe's "secret formula," which Anton Burghardt brought from Germany where he had been a baker's apprentice.

Today, Burghardt's Bakery is still going strong, with a plant and retail bakery in Livonia. Bob Burghardt, great-grandson of the founder, runs the 118-year-old family business.

"I started working at the bakery when I came back from Vietnam," said Burghardt, 47, of Northville. "I'm the fourth generation.

"Everything happened so fast," he recalled. "My dad had a heart attack. I was the only one available to keep the business going. After I got into it, I felt the tradition was still there." Burghardt's stock-in-trade is the sourdough rye, a hearty bread with no preservatives, oil, fats or sugar. The recipe has been known only to a handful of family members through-out the years.

The company has prospered by catering to the tastes of people who relish hearty rye breads and Old World pumpnickels. Among the most loyal customers are people from German, Slovak and Polish backgrounds, Burghardt said.

"It's a hard-crust bread," he said. "It's different from ordinary bread. People who lived in Germany say this is the closest they can find here." Burghardt learned to bake bread from his father, Robert.

The elder Burghardt and a brother, Joseph, operated the bakery for many years. Both now are deceased.

In 1978 Bob Burghardt moved the business to Livonia. The sourdough rye, which lasts for several days if refrigerated, is versatile.

Smear on butter and savor the slightly sour, chewy taste. Peanut butter is a simple, tasty accompaniment. Or go all out with a stack of sliced ham, topped with sweet onion and slathered with hot mustard.

Around 4,000 loaves are baked each week. Most are sold through major supermarkets and independent groceries in areas with a large demand for European-style breads.

Burghardt also targets his market by advertising in the Detroit Abend Post, a German-language newspaper. The sourdough rye is sold unsliced. It is wrapped in plastic and packed in a brown paper bag. The price ranges from around $1.50 for per one-pound loaf to around $2.50 for a two-pounder.

Burghardt's Livonia shop also sells a variety of other breads, including pumpnickel, French, white, wheat and cinnamon raisin.

During the holiday season Burghardt sells traditional German cookies called springerle and pfefferneusse. Both are flavored with anise, which has a subtle licorice overtone. Both cookies are baked by outside vendors and available only at the Seven Mile Road shop.

"A little old man makes the springerle," Burghardt said. "The pfefferneusse cookies are made in Canada. The pfefferneusse has a soft, fresh texture and a delicate anise flavor. It is covered with fluffy powdered sugar. The springerle is stamped with quaint, old-fashioned designs. Both sell for $3.99 per pound, which yields 24 to 30 cookies.

Burghardt also sells stollen, a yeast-based Christmas coffee cake studded with candied fruits. This, too, is baked elsewhere.

Burghardt's Bakery is at 33309 Seven Mile Road, just east of Farmington Road. Hours are 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesday-Friday and 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday. Closed Sunday and Monday. Phone 477-7153.

Season's Greetings

Wise In Years. Young At Heart. Great American Investor.

If you stop for gas at Wally Bonfield's service station, be prepared to fill up on a few good stories, as well. Wally's seen a lot of things change since he opened Bonfield's back in 1927. Thankfully, there's always been one thing he could count on. U.S. Savings Bonds, the Great American Investment. "Like it or not, I might have to retire one day," he says. "I'm just glad I found a way to do it comfortably." Bonds pay competitive rates, and they're one of the safest investments around. Which leaves a lot of folks thinking that Wally is wise beyond his years. Call for information, or write U.S. Savings Bonds, Dept. 893-N, Washington, D.C. 20026.

UNTIL NOW, THE VALUE OF ADVERTISING WAS SOMETHING EVEN ITS STRONGEST SUPPORTERS COULDN'T PUT INTO NUMBERS.

They could cite success stories of advertising going into a market, how this was followed by a shift in purchase patterns, in market share, in immediate sales.

But no one expressed the value of advertising as return-on-investment until The Strategic Planning Institute did its study* called PIMS (Profit Impact of Market Strategy) with the Ogilvy Center for Research and Development.

The study found that advertising nearly doubled return-on-investment! The graph on the left makes it perfectly clear.

Brands that advertise much more than their competitors enjoy an average return-on-investment of 32 percent. Brands that advertise much less than their competitors average 17 percent.

The PIMS study provides the first systematic evidence that links advertising, profitability, and growth. It draws on more than 700 consumer businesses in North America and Europe, spanning the years 1970 to 1986—years of both rapid and slow inflation, both good and bad years of the business cycle.

The graph on the lower right shows further evidence. It represents the competitive performance of two actual brands over a 10-year period, as analyzed by Robert M. Prentice, a management consultant in advertising and marketing. He distinguishes between consumer-franchise-building (CFB) activities (whether advertising or promotion) and non-CFB activities.

Brand A used predominantly price-incentive promotions. Brand B spent approximately the same amount. However, most of the money went into consumer-franchise-building activities—particularly advertising and promotion.

In the first year, the two brands were nearly even in their category. But after 10 years in which they took dramatically contrasting approaches to the spending of marketing funds, they ended up in remarkably different positions.

Brand B had become a resounding success, not only in terms of its sales performance versus Brand A, but also in terms of its contributing profits to the company.

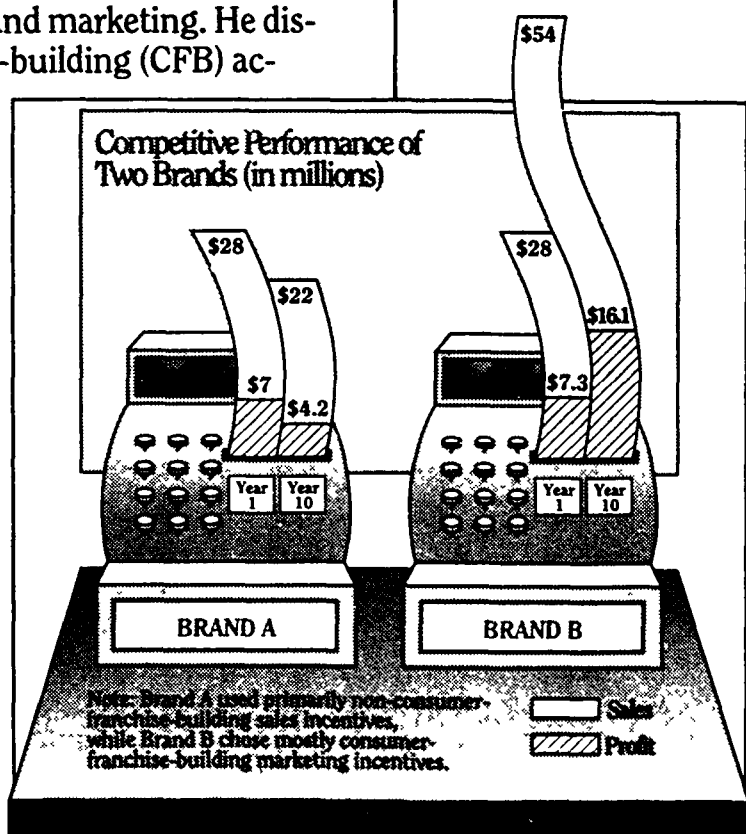

Brand B had become a resounding success, not only in terms of its sales performance versus Brand A, but also in terms of its contributing profits to the company.

For brand franchise owners and managers, the insight into how advertising contributes to profitability will be as interesting as how much it contributes.

For more information, you can write to The Committee on the Value of Advertising, Department A, American Association of Advertising Agencies, 666 Third Avenue, New York, NY 10017.

Now that there's finally proof of advertising's true value, there's only one thing you need to do.

Take advantage of it.

Cable Comments

By LARK L. SAMOUELIAN
Executive Director,
SW Oakland Cable Comm.

Yes, it is exciting to design a television studio! It has been in the planning stages for several years and a number of people have made contributions to the project. The new facility will be located in the Farmington Hills industrial park hosting several film, video, photography and advertising studios. This studio is limited to television productions produced for non-commercial, residential, governmental or non-profit organizations. The governing authority of the Southwestern Oakland Cable Commission administrative offices will be housed here.

The residency policy established within a cable franchise is fairly common throughout the nation. The resident is defined as someone who lives in the franchised cities who owns property or a business within any of the cities, is employed in the cities or is affiliated with a local organization. This definition serves as a guideline to help people to know where they can most conveniently become involved with Community Television. After taking television workshops through the cable franchise and becoming certified, the qualified person has access to the equipment and facilities available.

The completion date of the new studio is scheduled for January 1991. This studio will be one of many television options provided through the MetroVision Cable Franchise in the cities of Farmington, Novi and Farmington Hills.

Are you aware that studios exist throughout this television viewing area for your use?

In the MetroVision of Oakland County Cable System there are several options available. There are television studios at Novi High School, North Farmington High School, MetroVision Community Studio for classes, 3 camera shoots, cuts only editing, and also there are six remote portapacks for resident on-location shoots. The New Studio is available for those who need a maximum of 5 camera shoots, audience involvement, elaborate set designs, animated graphics, or chromakey. There is also equipment for AB Roll Editing, Suiteage Studios and a Remote Van are also available.

New community studio in Farmington Hills before remodeling.

In the Omnicom System there is one large Community Studio which has 3 to 5 cameras, Amiga graphics, cuts only editing and room for large audiences. This facility also has a Chromakey and Audio Booth, and includes a waiting room for guests. It is located at the Omnicom administrative offices. Portapacs of Super VHS Camcorders are available for on location resident use and a remote van is also used.

This is the age of information and education. Dr. Roy Butz of Community Telecommunication Network expands the definition of education to suggest that education is the experiences of a growing nature through information exchange which goes beyond the four walls of a classroom.

More and more educational opportunities are being facilitated through distribution services.

The mission of studios for non-commercial use by the public, educators and the government is to increase the diversity in television programming and education.

To grasp the true meaning behind all these ventures, one must look beyond the tv programs seen on the channels. Whether or not you like the show is not as important as the production of the shows themselves. The effort and cooperation involved in putting the shows together is the most important aspect of all. The purpose of the shows is to inform, entertain, and to extend coverage of an event to those who could not be there. Expanding minds and informing people about what is important in their community is a wholesome and worthy objective.

These objectives are taken into consideration when studio facilities are being designed. The continuity and the sturdiness of equipment as well as the functional simplicity of the building itself are very important considerations. Therefore, a lot of different people with uniquely different skills must cooperate to make the best decisions.

We will report more on the details of our new studio soon, so that you will be able to share the opening up of all our worlds through telecommunications!

Dolly Parton celebrates a family-style Christmas

200 relatives unite for singer's ABC special

By Amy Schmidt

Growing up in the foothills of the Smoky Mountains, little Dolly Parton waited for Santa every Christmas. She never saw him. "I figured he couldn't find his way that far back into the Smokies," said country music's glamour queen.

Who would have thought that, with or without Santa, one day young Dolly would make Christmas come to her house. On Friday, Dec. 21, she does just that on her ABC special, "Dolly Parton... Home for Christmas."

Over 200 (count 'em) of Dolly's relatives will join her. Dolly has six brothers, five sisters, 15 nieces and nephews, and then, of course, there are the cousins to contend with. Parton said the special is "the most expensive home video we've ever shot." They join Dolly for singing and reminiscing on her trip down memory lane. (The sheer volume of their voices should rival that of The Mormon Tabernacle Choir.)

"I'm from a very musical family," said Parton. In fact, her Uncle Bill, himself a musician, helped her make her start. When she was 10 years old, he borrowed a car to drive her to Nashville so Dolly could talk her way onto the Friday night Grand Ole Opry broadcast.

Her show biz-shy mate, Carl Dean, won't be participating in the special. "I didn't need to ask him. I'm sure he would've said, 'Hell no, you know better than to ask,'" she said. Dolly met her husband of 24 years at the Wishy Washy Laundromat her first day in Nashville. The asphalt contractor is rarely seen or photographed.

The first destination of "Dolly Parton... Home for Christmas" will be the three-room cabin where she grew up. During most of those years, the tiny house didn't even have running water. But they always had a Christmas tree, said Dolly. Her father would cut one down, and they would decorate it with homemade ornaments.

Other destinations include her theme park, Dollywood, where some of her relatives are employed, and the Nashville studio where she recorded her Christmas album.

Even if there were no special, Dolly makes a point of spending Christmas with her family every year. In 1984 she flew everyone, including her nieces and nephews, to her new home in Hawaii.

Truly, the girl in "the coat of many colors" has come a long way. Dolly is one of the country's wealthiest country music stars, having expanded her empire to recording, film and television. At one point, Dolly admitted she spent thousands of dollars each year on shoes alone. Her collection of blonde wigs exceeds 300. She owns rooms full of clothes.

Admittedly, she's larger than life. But Dolly says she's just got to have it all: "Since I was a child, I've loved anything that sparkles and shines. So Christmas gives me a great excuse to decorate my house with all that's gaudy and glittery. I'm sure I would make every interior decorator shudder at my overstated Hollywood-hillbilly taste, but I don't care what anyone says," she said. "Too much has always been just about enough for me, and Christmas is no exception."

Yes, Santa Claus, there is a Dolly.

New Kids learn meaning of Christmas

By Anne Wheeler

The New Kids on the Block have a Christmas they'll remember forever when a little boy teaches them the true meaning of the Yuletide on the New Kids on the Block Christmas Special, a prime-time special airing Friday, Dec. 14, on ABC.

In the animated special, the New Kids are caught up in plans to spend Christmas with their own families. But their plans are interrupted by an 8-year-old boy named Albert.

Albert takes the Kids to New York's Spanish Harlem, where they meet Rosa, a woman who provides food, blankets and toys for the neighborhood needy each Christmas. However, this year she won't have enough to go around unless there is a miracle.

The New Kids take it upon themselves to make that miracle happen.

Before the animated adventure of the New Kids, the real New Kids on the Block reminisce about past holidays. After the animated special, another live-action segment features the New Kids' concert performance of "This One's for the Children."

Other Christmas specials kids may enjoy this week are The I Love Lucy Christmas Show, Monday, Dec. 10, on CBS, and the holiday classic Rudolph the Red-Nosed Reindeer, tentatively rescheduled for Friday, Dec. 14, on CBS. In Monday's special, the Mertzes and the Ricardos trim the tree and reminisce about Christmases past.

STAR NOTES

Dixie Carter stays close to stage work

By Candace Havens

Dixie Carter plays the delightful Julia Sugarbaker on the popular CBS series Designing Women. Her character is quick-witted and always gets what she wants, yet always remembers her perfect Southern manners.

Carter grew up in the South in McMorsville, Tenn., and from the beginning she wanted to be an opera star. After receiving a bachelor's degree in English from Memphis State University, Carter headed for New York to study her music more intensely. Then, she recalls, "came the rude awakening. My voice simply wasn't big enough for opera."

With the encouragement of a friend, Carter decided to audition for a part in a Shakespearean production by Joseph Papp. Her acting career began in The Winter's Tale. Then what seemed to be a promising career ended when she married her first husband, Arthur Carter. Two children and eight years later, she returned to acting with hopes of working in musical theater.

She later headed for Hollywood to star opposite Richard Chamberlain in a West Coast production of Fathers and Sons. She starred in a few feature films and was a regular on several series including On Our Own, Filthy Rich, Out of the Blue, Diff'rent Strokes and The Edge of Night.

Carter recently reprised her singing career with a cabaret act at the popular Carlyle, for which she received rave reviews.

TIME OUT

49ers to have rematch with Cincinnati

By Steve Paschal

It will be a rematch of Super Bowl XXIII Sunday when the San Francisco 49ers and Cincinnati Bengals go at each other in the headline game of CBS Sports' Regional NFL coverage.

This will be the first time the teams have faced each other since Joe Montana led the 49ers to a 20-16 victory in one of the great Super Bowl finishes of all time. In that game, San Francisco got the ball at its own eight-yard line with 3:05 left in the game and marched 92 yards in 11 plays to win their second consecutive NFL championship.

Although the Bengals slipped to 8-8 last season and finished fourth in the tough AFC Central, they are back in the middle of a dogfight for first place with Pittsburgh and Houston. However, a 27-3 win over Pittsburgh three weeks ago helped them reclaim the division lead.

San Francisco wrapped up its division with six weeks left in the regular season and appears headed for an NFC championship showdown with one of the best New York Giant teams.

While the majority of the country watches the Bengals and 49ers, other areas will see either the Giants taking on the resurging Minnesota Vikings or the Atlanta Falcons going against the Phoenix Cardinals. The second game also offers a pair of interesting matchups with Chicago facing Washington and New Orleans playing the Los Angeles Rams.

TRIVIA, ETC.

BITS AND PIECES

Which film proved Santa's existence?

By Steven Alan McGaw

Questions:

1. Identify the film which features this line: "Your Honor, we request an immediate ruling from this court. Is there or is there not a Santa Claus?"
2. Here's an easy one. Carrie Fisher's parents are...
3. The most-often-filmed Shakespearean play is...
4. OK, this is really a theater question, but if you've ever seen The Dresser, with Albert Finney, you'll get it. (And if you've not seen that wonderful movie, you should!) All right, here it is: Theatrical superstition demands that the title of one of Shakespeare's plays never be uttered in the theater, except on stage. What is it and how do the actors refer to the show?
5. Who played the title roles in Zeffirelli's landmark film version of Romeo and Juliet?
6. Name the classic film that was originally advertised with the line, "They also pay who meet in hotel rooms."

Answers:

1. Miracle on 34th Street
2. Debbie Reynolds and Eddie Fisher
3. Hamlet
4. The play is Macbeth. Theater folk usually call it The Scottish Play.
5. Leonard Whiting and Olivia Hussey
6. Psycho

Pamela Reed plays a homecoming queen who becomes a cleaning woman, Thursdays on Grand, on NBC.

Marlee Matlin enters into contract for hour-long series pilot

Academy Award-winning actress Marlee Matlin has entered into an exclusive development arrangement with Lorimar Television and executive producer Robert Singer to star in an hour-long pilot written and produced by Singer, for the fall of 1991 on NBC.

Marlee Matlin

Although Frances Fisher and Maurice Benard, cast in the title roles in the upcoming CBS film Lucy & Desi Before the Laughter, were not "discovered" in the open talent calls held in New York, Miami and Los Angeles, producer Larry Thompson did discover one actor he liked enough to hire. Mauricio Rivera, one of the aspiring Desis who auditioned, has been signed to play a member of Desi Arnaz' band in the film.

ABC Television has made a mid-season series commitment to Dinosaurs, the first series to be produced by Jim Henson Productions and the Walt Disney Company since Henson's death. The half-hour, live-action comedy series focusing on the last days of the dinosaur, features a human-sized family of dinosaurs and their blowhard, bombastic dad. The series will utilize state-of-the-art technology, taking puppetry and audio animatronics to a new level.

George C. Scott is set to star in the telefilm Mittleman's Hardware for ABC. Hector Elizondo also stars in the drama about an aging owner of a hardware store who suffers amnesia and is helped by a group of Hispanics.

Rick Dees, host of ABC's late-night comedy show, Into the Night Starring Rick Dees, has been named radio personality of the year by Billboard Magazine. Dees' radio show is heard each weekday morning on Los Angeles stations KIIS-FM/AM. He also hosts Rick Dees Weekly Top 40.

Gary Cole stars as talk show host Jack Killian on NBC's Midnight Caller, Fridays on NBC.

A holiday tradition, the Bob Hope Christmas Special, broadcasts Sunday on NBC.

'Days' actor related to 'M*A*S*H' star

By Candace Havens

Dear Candace: Is Antony Alda (Johnny Correlli) on Days of Our Lives any relation to Alan Alda? There seems to be a resemblance. —D. in Arkansas

Dear D.: Alda is the son of the late actor Robert Alda and is the brother of Alan Alda.

Dear Candace: I enjoy reading your column very much. You said to write if we wanted to sound-off about our favorite soaps. My favorite is Falcon Crest.

I want it back! Since they kept Knots Landing and Dallas, why did they have to dump mine? Especially with a star as great as Jane Wyman.

Whatever happened to the cast of actors? My favorites were Lance (Lorenzo Lamas) and Melissa (Ana Alicia). They made a terrific team. I also miss Maggie (Susan Sullivan), Richard (David Selby), Chase (Robert Foxworth), Julia (Abby Dalton), Emma (Margaret Ladd) and Angela (Jane Wyman). I never hear anything about any of them. —Betty Wasmuth, Montclair, Calif.

Dear Betty: I want to let you know you're not the only one upset over the demise of Falcon Crest. Several readers have written in about that very subject.

As for the actors you mentioned, Lorenzo Lamas is devoting time to auto racing, and Susan Sullivan can be seen in commercials for Tylenol. She is currently in production on a TV movie. Robert Foxworth and Ana Alicia also have been keeping busy with TV movies. Little has been heard from David Selby, Abby Dalton and Margaret Ladd. Jane Wyman has earned the prerogative to take on only selected projects.

Dear Candace: I like The Bold and the Beautiful; it is the best of any soap. I would like to know why it is only 30 minutes long. Thanks. —Just wondering, Nacogdoches, Texas

Dear Reader: B&B is a fairly new soap; it's been on the air four years. As the show becomes more established and moves up in the ratings, it could then go to one hour.

I want to hear from you! If you have a favorite soap scenario you would like to sound off about, or a question about the soaps, write to Candace Havens, Soap Talk, P.O. Box 17748, Fort Worth, TX 76102-0748.

LET'S TALK

'Three Men and a Baby' rumor laid to rest

By Polly Vonetes

Q: Recently a story came out concerning the movie Three Men and a Baby. The rumor was that a little boy had been killed in a fall from a balcony in the apartment where they did the filming. In the scene where Ted Danson's mother comes to visit, there is a dark haired boy looking in the window. The story I've heard is that this is the ghost of the little boy. I watched the movie and saw the little boy and he didn't seem to fit into the scene. Can you tell me what the true story is behind it? —Jorja Maxwell, East Palestine, Ohio

A: I am aware of the rumor; in fact one other rumor has it that the boy killed himself with a rifle some say is visible in the movie. (I didn't see the rifle.) I watched the movie, and yes, there is a boy in the window. In checking with my sources, I am told the image is of a prop. There are many such props on a soundstage. They are used in place of the stars to focus the cameras between scenes. Many have written in about this rumor, so hopefully this will put that "ghost" to rest.

Q: I live in rural Madelia, and for a long time I have enjoyed watching the program Discovery. It has now been replaced with a travel program. It is mostly commercials and lots of talking. Is there a possibility that Discovery will come back on station 26? —M.A., Madelia, Minn.

A: There may be several reasons your local channel chose to drop Discovery. One way to have them bring it back is for viewers, such as yourself, to write the programming director at Channel 26 and request the program be rescheduled on their channel. Enough letters from the viewing audience just may cause him to reconsider the program.

Q: Some four months ago a friend told me about an article you printed about a Joni James Fan Club. I missed that article and would surely love to acquire one of those addresses you printed. Joni James is one of my favorite artists and I would love to have some of her music again. —Wilda Hanson, Interlachen, Fla.

A: I know how you feel. She is one of my favorites too. There are two addresses I have for you. Write to: Joni James Fan Club, c/o Fred J. Mann, 15 Maryanne Ave., Pt. Jefferson Station, NY 11776; or Joni James Fan Club, c/o Wayne Brasler, P.O. Box 7207, Westchester, IL 60153.
