Students remember old

By MIKE TYREE
Staff Writer

His teacher remembers Michael Calleja as a happy child, an all-boy who loved soccer and football. His principal said Calleja was the kind of child who always had a smile on his face.

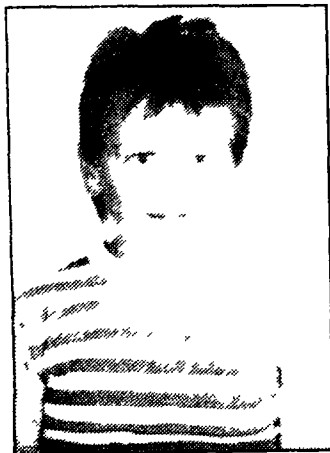

One of his classmates at Silver Springs Elementary repeated "I miss him" throughout the day last Thursday as he began to comprehend that the likable, freckled fourth grader would not be returning to school.

Michael Charles Calleja, 10, 42640 Swan Lake Drive, died Dec. 12 — a day after he ran into the path of a car as he attempted to cross Seven Mile Road near the Swan Lake Drive intersection.

Northville Township police said the boy ran out in front of a 1985 Oldsmobile driven westbound on Seven Mile by a 73-year-old Northville man. Calleja suffered severe head and internal injuries as a result of the Tuesday afternoon collision.

Police said the driver was traveling within the posted 40 mph speed limit and was not at fault.

"It's a clear-cut case that the motorist was not at fault," said police Chief Chip Snider.

you'd think he was their friend forever," Higbee said. "He was an all-boy who loved sports, but was always fair. The girls even liked him because he was always nice."

"We'd laugh at him sometimes because he'd come to school and his hair would be all messed up," she said. "We'd ask him if he had combed his hair with an egg beater."

"Mike was the kind of child that sat in the room and did what he was supposed to. He was a little quiet, a little shy."

A little quiet, a little shy. A leader, Principal Kenneth Pawlowski said. A son to Kimberly. A brother to six-year-old Nicolas and one-year-old Rickey.

Silver Springs social worker Sue Borchert spent Thursday speaking with small groups of classmates, teachers and others pained by death.

"The students could hug or touch," she said. "They were allowed to express their feelings. They talked about the positive things about being with Mike."

One of Calleja's close friends was so aggrieved he chose not to speak, Higbee said.

"One boy wanted to keep him all to himself," she said. "He didn't want to share him."

"(But) they understand Mike will not be coming back," Borchert said.

Witnesses said Michael Calleja dashed into Seven Mile as he and a 13-year-old friend prepared to go to Big Lots in the Northville Plaza. As Calleja ran into the northern-most westbound lane, a Ford Taurus driven by an Oak Park woman skidded to a halt, narrowly missing the boy.

The driver of the Oldsmobile did not have a chance to stop, police said.

One witness said "he seemed to be trying to cross the road against the flow of traffic." Another said "he simply ran in front (of a car)."

Township fire department emergency workers arrived at the scene within minutes, but it was soon evident the situation was bleak.

Calleja was transported to St. Mary Hospital in Livonia and then airlifted to University of Michigan Medical Center in Ann Arbor.

"Massive trauma," one disheartened emergency worker said Friday. "There wasn't anything more we could do. We were only with him 19 minutes, but we kind of got close during that time."

Borchert and Higbee sat in Pawlowski's office Friday amidst brightly colored Christmas decorations and recalled the close bond that characterized the relationship of Michael and his six-year-old brother Nicolas.

"Nicolas looked up to his brother as a role model," Borchert said.

"And one of Mike's friends said, 'He's going to have to look up to us now.'"

Tiffany Art Glass is back in business after its devastating fire

Back in business after fire

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

A local couple is rebuilding a business from the charred remnants of their Main Street store.

The owners of Tiffany Art Glass have been keeping shop at a new location, 125 E. Main St., just two doors east of the second-story shop that was gutted by fire in September. The couple lost nearly all their supplies in the fire.

"Pretty much everything was wrecked or destroyed," said owner John Zawadzki. "There wasn't anything that wasn't affected. I've had to purchase the hand tools again and other hardware-type tools."

But he and his wife, Lauren Chlason, are back in business making their stained glass lamps and other works of glass art. "We're going to be working very hard through the holidays," Chlason said. "It's just a matter of getting rolling," she said. "The customers have been great, patient, when they find out what happened . . . They've known us for a long time, they have confidence in us."

The couple has been working out of their Main Street location for more than 13 years. "This is our livelihood, this is our bread and butter," Chlason said.

The fire that closed their store also shut down the first-floor Holloway's Old Fashion Bakery through smoke and water damage. While Tiffany Art Glass was open for business again several weeks later, Rich Holloway chose to act on an earlier thought of moving his bakery north to Rogers City.

Fire officials are still investigating the cause of the blaze after discovering a flammable chemical on the floor where it started, but have not yet determined the fire's origin.

Easement runs through house

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

It may be a mere technicality, but a city-owned easement is making the new owners of a Novi Street house just a little nervous.

The easement runs through the center of their home.

The residents politely notified the city of the situation in a letter to the city council, writing, "It has come to our attention, through the title search and resulting survey (done when the house was bought), that a 12-foot easement . . . runs through our garage and home."

The homeowners suggested that the easement should have been vacated when the developer first built homes in the subdivision, and requested that the city relinquish it now.

The council quickly agreed two weeks ago that the easement, which apparently has never been used, was not needed by the city and that its abandonment would not affect any public utilities. It originally was intended to be used for a storm drain which has since been built on another Novi Street property, according to Public Works Superintendent Ted Mapes.

The council called a public hearing for Jan. 7 on its resolution to abandon the easement. The hearing is needed to make the resolution legal.

MUSTANG UPDATE: If the name Paul McCreadie doesn't ring a bell, it should.

That's because the 6-foot-3 forward for the Northville basketballers is tearing up opponents so far this season. His 32-point, 13-rebound effort on Dec. 11 propelled the Mustangs to a 69-44 non-conference road triumph over South Lyon. It wasn't a surprise victory, but Northville has struggled on the Lions' home court for some time.

"It's always hard to win over at South Lyon," Mustang Coach Omar Harrison said. "We've had a lot of problems winning over there."

Northville outscored the Lions 36-13 in the second half, after struggling to a two-point halftime lead.

Northville's pressure defense made a difference in the third quarter. Four quick steals and conversions helped the locals open a 10-point lead. McCreadie and guard Ryan Huzjak combined for 14 points in the quarter as the Mustangs took charge 54-39.

WILDCAT UPDATE: The Novi basketballers won their first game of the season on Dec. 11 at Walled Lake Western 66-52.

MONDAY EDUCATION

Chinese are awed by Parkview

By SUZANNE HOLLYER
Staff Writer

The design of award-winning Parkview Elementary School received further accolades Thursday when a group of Chinese educators visited the school.

"A paradise for the kids" and "a dreamland for the children" described the impression the building left on Jim Weidman, a district superintendent in Tianjin, China.

Tianjin is the third largest city in China located to the southeast of Beijing.

The 18-month-old Parkview Elementary School building won a national award for design on its opening from the American Association of School Administrators.

Weidman agreed, speaking through a translator, that the building is well designed, and said the school's unique style makes the building convenient and practical.

School superintendent Cui Fuhong has 1.4 million students filling 4,000 buildings in his Tianjin school district. Fuhong would have to see a different school in his district every day for 12 years if he hoped to see all the buildings.

None of the 4,000 schools in his district are like Parkview, at least not yet, Fuhong said. He praised the design of the building as practical.

The five-member delegation came to the U.S. as part of an ongoing educational exchange program. They came at the invitation of the L'Anse Creuse school district in Mt. Clemens.

Most of the week was spent visiting L'Anse Creuse school buildings. The delegation was expected to spend the weekend in New York before returning to China today.

L'Anse Creuse principals Don Jordan and Chen Chang have visited the Orient in the past.

"We are just reciprocating," Jordan said. "We have set up a network of sister schools with Taiwan."

The group that visited Novi Thursday was the second group to come from China to Michigan, Jordan said.

Most of the educational exchanges are done with school districts in Taiwan which Jordan says are "light years" ahead of schools in mainland China in terms of technology.

"It's a little more bureaucratic (in mainland China), more autocratic," Jordan said.

The first thing Jordan noticed when visiting a Chinese school was the lack of maintenance in school buildings. He said he thought the visitors to Michigan were amazed with the level of technology and maintenance in school buildings.

"I think they're overwhelmed," Jordan said.

Novi Superintendent Robert Piwko explained Parkview's design. The building is equipped with moveable classroom walls that give teachers the ability to join with other classes for group activities.

The concept was well demonstrated Thursday for the Chinese visitors. Walls between the fourth-grade classes were separated joining students together to form a "mini-society."

The "mini-society" is a social studies exercise that gives students a chance to try their hand at becoming young entrepreneurs.

Students make products like wood toys and cookies and attempt to sell them to parents, teachers and other students for credits that can eventually be turned in for money.

A middle school principal in China, Yan Zhi Shen, called the students "future enterprisers" as he walked through the large opened area that would return to separate fourth-grade classrooms at the end of the project.

"In China we call this kind of lesson social studies," Shen told Novi assistant superintendent for instruction Rita Traynor through an translator.

"That's what it is here too, economics," Traynor said.

The tour ended with Piwko presenting pencils and paperweights to the visitors.

The visitors presented Piwko, Traynor and Parkview principal Joseph Imrick each with a white silk scarf printed with a picture of a panda.

Fuhong invited Piwko to someday visit Tianjin.

"I would welcome the honor," Piwko said. "I would look forward to it. It has been an honor to host a very fine group, and we hope we've been able to offer some information."

Piwko may be honored by the invitation, but the Novi school district may not have to worry about losing its Superintendent to a trip to China.

Personal invitations must be made in writing from the Chinese education bureau for them to be considered valid, Jordan said.

"Personal invitations don't do it," Jordan said. "It's a different culture. When we want to invite a delegation we send a letter to the most important person, and they send someone."

Schools collect labels to buy new equipment

By SUZANNE HOLLYER
Staff Writer

A can of Campbell's soup is more than just "good food" for Northville and Novi elementary school students.

Campbell Soup Company is offering free equipment to Novi and Northville's public elementary schools and Our Lady of Victory in Northville.

The catch is the schools must "buy" the equipment with labels from canned Campbell's products.

For example, a school can receive two red rubber all-purpose balls for 725 labels.

Labels from Campbell's soups, beans, Fresh products, Juice Bowl juices, Prego spaghetti sauces, and V-8 Juice are accepted.

Other Campbell's products are not only accepted, but also will bring bonus points to schools saving for equipment.

The proof of purchase seals from Swanson frozen foods, the quality pledge printed on Mrs. Paul's products, lids from Vlassic Pickle Jars, UPC seals from all Pepperidge Farm cookies and bakery items and safety seals from Marie's Salad Dressing will bring bonus points if schools receive them early in the year.

Moraine Elementary School's Parent Teacher Association sent in 50 lids from Vlassic Pickle Jars this fall and got 500 bonus points, said parent and chairman of a PTA committee for collecting labels Joan Julow.

"Last year our school got a lot of outdoor equipment like balls and jump ropes," Julow said.

The decision about what the individual schools will receive is made by the school's PTA and principal.

Community members interested in participating in the label drive can send their collected labels to school with any elementary school student in Novi or Northville.

Community members who don't know any elementary school students can still participate in the drive by dropping off labels at any elementary school. Collection boxes are located near the entrance of most buildings or in the office.

Northville's five elementary schools are:

- Amerman Elementary School on 847 North Center St.
- Moraine Elementary School on 46811 Eight Mile Road
- Silver Springs Elementary School on 19801 Silver Springs Drive
- Winchester Elementary School on 16141 Winchester Drive
- Our Lady of Victory on 133 Orchard

Novi's five elementary schools are:

- Novi Meadows on 25549 Taft Road
- Novi Woods on 25195 Taft Road
- Orchard Hills on 41900 Quince
- Parkview on 45825 Eleven Mile Road
- Village Oaks on 23333 Willowbrook Drive

National testing raises some doubts

I hear that a national test out of Washington D.C. is going to be given to every child in our schools. Speaking as a teacher, we already have enough testing in our schools. Will this new national test serve any purpose?

However, in a broader sense the national test has served a purpose. Let's take just one situation. Years ago the test found that young women were not scoring as well as young men in math and science.

A follow-up soon discovered that the young women, including the brightest ones, were often being steered away from math and science and continually into secretarial type courses whether they wanted to be a secretary or not.

Guess what happened once counselors started encouraging young women to consider engineering, high tech, the medical profession by citizens. This will not be a problem says Washington, the report will go directly to just your own school district.

This type of information is most valuable and a national test brings this evidence to the educational leaders' attention.

The political problem for many is that a national test will result in a national report card for each and every school district, information which can be used for comparison purposes by citizens. This will not be a problem says Washington, the report will go directly to just your own school district.

The Michigan Department of Education promised that individual MEAP test results would not be published, that the MEAP test was for only for local district use for program improvement. The "sunshine law" changed that, and rightly so. Today, every Michigan school district compares their MEAP results to other districts whether they like what they see or not.

On the other hand, some educators see nothing wrong with school districts comparing test results. San Diego Superintendent Thomas Boyesen stated in Educational Weekly that the national assessment test will compare all school districts in each state and across the nation. And he says, "That's fine with me. I'll put my program and testing results up with any district."

Indeed, when our test results are compared with, for example, Japanese children using national test results, we don't look so good.

One wonders how some of the school districts in this readership area would compare with Japan if only their school district test scores were used for comparison and not national averages — national averages that lump all school districts together. There would be some pleasant surprises.

You see, many students in high test scoring districts score as well as the Japanese but not when they are lumped together with some of our less fortunate, lower socioeconomic areas.

UPDATE

12 Mile expansion opens in Farmington

No ceremonies or drum rolls heralded the opening of the new mile-long boulevard on Twelve Mile Road between Farmington and Drake roads.

But the roll of traffic last Monday down the first stretch of the planned three-mile boulevard is nonetheless historic for Farmington Hills.

"This will provide an outlet for businesses and residents with easier access because they won't have to make left turns and it will be safer," said Farmington Hills Assistant City Manager David Call, project coordinator.

After years of discussing the need for a boulevard, a failed attempt to finance a project with tax-increment financing and then more discussion, the opening of the first boulevard mile represents a major stepping stone in city history.

"This is the first time we have combined a state grant, city funding and cooperation with Oakland County on a county road. We've gone from a two-lane road to a four-lane boulevard," Call said. "We've never had a project like this."

Permanent traffic signals will replace the temporary ones within three to four weeks. Landscaping will be completed in the median and on the northern residential side later.

The same goes for pedestrian lighting on the northern residential side of the boulevard, as well as the sidewalk and installation of benches and trash cans.

On the commercial south side, the benches and baskets, sidewalk, and a majority of the sod and plantings have been completed.

Because the four lanes of traffic on the boulevard will squeeze back to the existing two lanes past the Drake/Twelve Mile intersection, signs are posted warning motorists of the change, Call said.

Novi is expected to make improvements to its end of Twelve Mile with part of an $18.8 million bond proposal approved by voters this year.

City officials applied for grants under the state fund's economic growth category for areas experiencing development along a major road incapable of handling the growth.

The approximately $6-million first phase of the Farmington Hills project was completed before winter weather set in as city officials had hoped. The segment was financed with the help of a $3.2-million grant from the Michigan Transportation Economic Development Fund.

About $2.3 million in motor vehicle bonds were sold to pay Farmington Hills' share of the first segment. The Oakland County Road Commission contributed the engineering, environmental assessment, inspections and helped coordinate payments to the Novi contractor, American Construction & Management Co.

City officials have long planned to widen the office corridor — home to many national and international corporations — not only to relieve traffic congestion, but also to boost development.

Improvements on Twelve Mile also are necessary for the long-discussed Haggerty Connector, which is still in the planning stages.

The second one-mile phase, from Halsted to Haggerty, is supposed to be built next year. The city received a $3.6 million matching grant from the state transportation development fund earlier this year.

This phase is expected to be more expensive because "the ground conditions are worse and the Seeley Drain runs through there," Call said.

A public hearing is scheduled at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, Dec. 19, to hear opinions about the second phase. The hearing will be held in council chambers, at 31555 Eleven Mile.

Oakland County Road Commission, Farmington Hills and Novi staff members will be at the hearing. The environmental assessment, which covers the area west of Drake to Haggerty Road, is available for review at the Farmington Hills and Novi libraries.

The third phase of the boulevard would run from Drake to Halsted. But that area is not experiencing development and would not qualify for the same grant used for the first and second phases.

After years of disappointment trying to get Twelve Mile improvements moving, the Farmington Hills Economic Development Corporation lent a hand. In 1988, the EDC financed and completed a computerized right-of-way plan for the boulevard.

Botsford plans to modernize

Think of it as retooling. Cramped quarters and changes in health care are prompting a $30 million, multi-phase expansion program that will add another 130,000 square feet to 25-year-old Botsford General Hospital.

"Now is the time. We feel it's quite essential to us that we retool similar to what the auto industry faced several years ago," said Peg Reihmer, vice president of planning, marketing and corporate development at the Farmington Hills hospital.

Expansion and renovation will be financed with a new public fundraising campaign, some of the hospital's own money and with tax-exempt bonds issued by the Farmington Hills Hospital Authority.

By 1993, two new buildings will be added to the medical complex and by 1994 areas of the existing hospital are expected to be renovated. No new beds will be added to the 336-bed hospital.

"Beds are not where it's at. There's a lot of indications there are a sufficient number of beds in the region," Reihmer said.

Botsford is retooling to meet increased emergency services and outpatient care. Technological changes, for example, have already made Botsford's operating rooms too small.

"There's been phenomenal changes in medical care: instruments, technology and economics. Inpatient surgery is typically much longer than it used to be and on patients who are much sicker than they used to be."

Peg Reihmer,
Vice President, Botsford Hospital

"There's been phenomenal changes in medical care: instruments, technology and economics," Reihmer said. "Inpatient surgery is typically much longer than it used to be and on patients who are much sicker than they used to be."

Emergency services and outpatient care are hot areas for hospitals, now and in the future.

The days of long hospital stays are over. Today, hospital patients generally are sicker and have shorter hospital stays. A lot of care, including diagnostic testing, surgery, rehabilitation, for example, is provided through outpatient services.

Because some people lack comprehensive health care insurance and others do not consistently visit a doctor, urgent care services — unscheduled, immediate need for health care — has increased.

"Our emergency department is very busy. We want to meet all needs of these people. We are not meeting all these needs as we would like to and at a price structure where you recognize a trauma versus a sore throat," Reihmer said.

Botsford saw a big jump in emergency services when Redford Community Hospital on Grand River closed, and expects more visits when Grace Hospital closes next year.

An average 30,000 visits are made to Botsford's emergency room annually. The expansion, Reihmer said, will accommodate an average 40,000 visits.

Increased efficiency is expected as a result of the expansion though some new jobs are also anticipated, Reihmer said.

In the old days, competition was pretty much restricted to status, now it's having enough business volume to maintain the hospital and invest in the ever-changing technology.

One of the new buildings — on the east side of the complex between the existing north and south towers and the administration building — will provide more space for emergency services and inpatient surgery on the first floor. The second floor will be devoted to medical records, laboratories and supplies. Parking will be in the basement.

The other new building, near the professional building on the west side, will house expanded outpatient and recovery services. The third floor of the building will be available as rental units for physicians.

Hospital officials expect to get the required certificate of need from the state Department of Health by January for the new west-end building with construction sometime next year. The expansion, including renovations to the existing building are expected to be fully complete by 1994.

The latchkey program at St. Paul's

Not the typical latchkey kids

By SUZANNE HOLLYER
Staff Writer

The term "latch-key kid" brings to mind the image of a child wearing a house key for a necklace, spending hours alone in front of a television after school every day.

The students in the two-year-old latch-key program at St. Paul's Lutheran Church and Christian Day School in Northville don't quite fit the image.

About 16 students who attend the Lutheran school during the day spend their time after school playing in the school's gym or new playground, making crafts, singing and occasionally taking field trips.

They do not have keys hanging on a rope around their neck, and they definitely do not sit in front of a television after school.

The program has a television, but it is only used with a VCR to watch an occasional Walt Disney movie.

"The kids really enjoy a good movie once in a while," said Jennifer Beagan, the program's director.

Beagan said she hesitates to use the term latch-key in front of the students in the program.

"It's just a time for us to get together after school and share a few hours before moms and dads come to pick them up," Beagan said.

Beagan began teaching at the school and directing the program for kindergarten through fifth-grade students in September.

She enjoys her job, which she said challenges her to think of activities the kids will enjoy.

"The kids sometimes say, 'No, I can't leave yet' when their parents come to get them," Beagan said.

The program also provides an opportunity for students at the school to make friends in different grades.

"They're really chummy, and they take care of each other," Beagan said. "They're a close-knit group; they're kind of like a family."

For parents who work early in the morning, students can come in as early as 7 a.m. After school, the students can stay as late as 6 p.m.

In the morning, the students can do homework, relax or work on an art project. After school, snacks are provided before the students get involved in an activity.

When the school has a half-day, the kids in the program get to take a field trip. This year, the group has been to an apple orchard and the Northville State Police post. Next week, they will take a trip to a television station.

For the morning and afternoon service, including everything, the program costs $7 a day. The school offers discounts for extra children in the program, and for parents who use the program every day.

"It was important to me to have parents able to afford this," Beagan said.

Wayne County parks unveil course

Imagine a setting of lush green, edged on one side with mature weeping willows wending along the Rouge River. In the background stand two historical structures, restored to picturesque splendor. A riot of color, the smell of roses in full bloom. Scenic, enchanting, romantic.

The setting, six acres of rolling land in Westland, is a vision yet to be developed. But if all goes well, county officials said, an outdoor rose garden suitable for weddings, garden parties and other social galas and receptions may well be reality by late next summer.

"It's to be the kind of place anyone can come and use. Everyone will be welcome," said George Cortos, co-owner of the Hawthorne Valley Golf Course, who is spearheading the project.

Of the six acres slated for use, two belong to the Hawthorne golf facility. The remaining four are public lands maintained by the Wayne County Division of Parks. Estimated cost to develop the project is $500,000, according to Cortos.

The County Park Division is supportive of Cortos' idea, according to park director Hurley Coleman, who said the project will result in improvements the park system could otherwise not afford.

"We always try to work with the private sector. It's important," Coleman said.

As conceived, the area will be planted with multiple rose bushes. Two old structures on the property, a century-old pump station and a house dating to the 1930s, will be renovated and a memorial will be erected to Rev. Marcus Swift, a 19th century abolitionist who once lived nearby.

Swift's home was burned to the ground by protestors who opposed his work in freeing slaves. The area where the house stood is now a designated historical site.

The pump station and old house are to be converted into a reception hall with complete catering facilities and a bridal suite where women to be married will prepare for the big event.

The overall investment is "a hefty sum of money," according to Gary Warnell of the Michigan Travel, Tourism and Recreation Resource Center maintained by Michigan State University's College of Agriculture and Natural Resources.

Warnell is conducting a marketing study on the feasibility of the project. "A garden concept may be fine and workable. But it's one thing to invest this kind of money and another to make it profitable," Warnell said.

Gun control bills await signing

By TIM RICHARD
Staff Writer

A package of bills to make Michigan's pistol laws uniform and punish violators more severely is awaiting Gov. James Blanchard's signature.

The bills would prohibit "street sweepers" — shotguns that can spray nine rounds of ammunition — and armor-piercing bullets.

But the state Senate last week eliminated a House-passed requirement that first-time gun buyers take a safety course.

"Mandatory training was the biggest obstacle as viewed by proponents of the pre-emption bill," said Rep. James Kosteva, D-Canton, a major player in the deal.

"The Senate stripped it out. We accepted a compromise that the State Police and a review board would develop a brochure and pamphlet. All pistol purchasers would take a test, akin to 'What Every Driver Should Know.' The objective is to see that some training takes place," Kosteva said.

Buyers would be given the answers they got wrong.

"I've never seen information that can relate the benefits of safety training," said Kosteva. But he said research does show the benefits of a personal background check and seven-day waiting period.

Detroit has a city ordinance — nullified by Blanchard signs the legislative bills — requiring a safety course for first-time pistol buyers. But Kosteva said there had been problems with the availability and high cost of Detroit's course. Michigan still requires a safety course for hunters under 16.

Sen. Chris Dingell, D-Trenton, sponsor of a similar bill passed last summer by the Senate, opposed mandatory training. "I have grave misgivings over requiring training and putting that tool in the hands of bureaucrats," Dingell said.

The big issue was House Bill 5436, stripping local governments of the power to establish their own pistol licensing ordinances. It will affect Detroit and East Lansing. It was a home-rule issue as well as a gun issue.

"Some of our cities would like to take stronger measures with regard to the control of firearms," said Sen. Jack Faxon, D-Farmington Hills, who voted no. His district includes part of Northville.

"It may be that the Constitution has certain protections about what people have a right to bear, but the society also has a right to protect itself by imposing appropriate rules," Faxon said.

Although voting yes, Rep. Maxine Berman, D-Southfield, called it disgusting that the Senate Tuesday stayed in session eight hours beyond its normal noon adjournment time but couldn't take up other important matters.

The pre-emption bill was pushed by the Michigan United Conservation Clubs and the National Rifle Association. They threatened to file a lawsuit if mandatory training was included. They say such a requirement would violate the constitutional right to have firearms and was really intended to discourage people from buying guns.

The bill also sets up a computer system for gun stores to check the criminal record of potential purchasers before handing over the weapon.

On HB 5437, the pre-emption measure, the Senate voted 23-10 in favor. Yes votes included Robert Geake, R-Northville. Nays included Faxon.

The House passed the measure 73-7. Yes votes included Willis Bullard, R-Highland, who represents part of Northville. Gerald Law, R-

Plymouth, who represents most of the Northville community, missed the vote.

The bills were tie-barred, meaning all must be passed and signed for any to take effect. Here are the roll calls on the others:

● HB 6009 — prohibits licensing of pistols to persons under 21 and those convicted of felonies in the previous eight years.

Passed Senate 31-2. All local senators voted yes.

Passed House 71-16. Bullard voted yes. Law did not vote.

● HB 6010 — increases punishments for altering firearm markings.

Prohibits sale of firearms and ammunition to known convicted felons and persons under indictment. Provides 10-year penalty for possession of a "street sweeper" during commission of a felony or during a drug sale. Prohibits wearing of body armor during commission of a felony. Requires safety check of newly purchased pistols.

Passed Senate 30-3. All area senators supported the bill.

Passed House 73-6. Supported by Bullard; Law was absent.

● HB 5366 — prohibits manufacture of armor-piercing bullets. Critics said it also should have banned purchase and possession.

Police News

Northville Township police are investigating a breaking and entering at Bob's Coney Island, 40370 Five Mile. Police said a door check revealed that the front door glass to the building had been shattered sometime between 2:40-4:28 a.m. Dec. 12.

A cash register valued at $700, and $237.65 in cash were taken during the theft.

LARCENY FROM AN AUTOMOBILE — Four wheel covers were reportedly stolen from a 1988 Oldsmobile parked at a carport 305 at Northville Place Apartments late Dec. 2 or early Dec. 3, Northville Township police said.

RADIO STOLEN — An AM/FM cassette player valued at $250 was reportedly taken from a 1988 Ford Econoline 150 that was parked inside the body shop of McDonald Ford Collision, 17000 Northville Road. The theft occurred sometime between Dec. 1-3, Northville Township police said.

LARCENY AT MEIJER — A 19-year-old Detroit woman was charged with larceny after attempting to steal a blouse, skirts and a snowsuit from Meijer, 20401 Haggerty, Dec. 3, Northville Township police said.

LARCENY FROM RACETRACK — Northville City police are investigating the theft of $150 in cash from Northville Downs, 301 S. Center St. The cash was reportedly stolen from the purse of a clubhouse hostess sometime between 11:30 p.m. Dec. 7 and 10:50 the next morning. Police are interviewing other racetrack employees and cleaning crew members in connection with the incident.

LARCENY FROM STORE — An employee of Anne's Crafts, 110 N. Center St. in Northville, reported the theft of $40 in cash and a pair of black sunglasses from her purse about 11:30 a.m. Dec. 10. The woman told city police that the money may have been stolen by a black female, about 30 years old, with short curly hair. The possible suspect was wearing a black coat and boots, with no makeup or jewelry at the time, the woman said.

RECKLESS DRIVING — Northville City police have received a report of reckless driving at the corner of High and Randolph streets. A 6-year-old boy waiting to cross High Street about 3:30 p.m. Dec. 10 was reportedly nearly hit by a car after the driver waved for him to cross the street and then sped across the intersection. The driver's car was described as a small, newer-model blue car, like a Ford Escort. The male driver was estimated to be about 40 years old.

WINDOW SHOT — An eight-foot-long window at Perfumania at Novi Town Center was reported damaged Dec. 12 when someone shot it with a BB gun, creating a small hole.

LIGHTS CUT — A resident on Antler in Novi discovered Dec. 11 that his Christmas tree lights had been cut and tangled about in his bushes. Novi police reported that the strand had been cut in various sections by what appeared to be a pair of wire cutters.

WALLET LOST AND FOUND — A 68-year-old Novi woman reported her wallet stolen from the F & M store in Novi Town Center, but recovered it later when an unidentified man found it in the parking lot.

The woman told police that she was at the cashier's counter in the store, paying for her purchase. She set the wallet down to the side of the register, grabbed her purchase and left the store.

Approximately five minutes later she realized she had forgotten the wallet and returned to the store, but the wallet, which contained cash, seven credit cards and identification, was gone. Police said the store was very busy at the time.

Later the same day, the wallet was returned by the man, who did not give his name. All of the original property was still in the wallet.

STOLEN CAR — A 1985 Mustang GT was reported stolen from Lakeview Court at Springs Apartments in Novi.

Police said that although the car was equipped with an alarm system, the alarm was never activated.

The vehicle had been parked there while the complainant had been in Canada with some friends, police said. There were no signs or broken glass or other forced entry at the site.

The car, which was registered in the complainant's mother's name, was described as black with blue stripes, mag wheels, and a Kenwood stereo system.

LARCENY FROM AUTO — A car stereo and speakers were reported stolen from a 1982 Ford EXP on Park Ridge in Novi Dec. 10. Police said entry was gained by a broken rear window. There is no further information.

MDOP — The branch manager at Manufacturers Bank in Novi reported Dec. 10 that someone had torn the cast iron facing and light cover off the bank's automatic teller machine.

Police said there was no evidence of any attempt to enter the machine's safe. There are no current suspects or witnesses.

LARCENY FROM VEHICLES — A license plate tab was reported stolen from a slake truck and an AM/FM radio was reported stolen from a semi tractor at Copeland Asphalt on Meadowbrook in Novi Dec. 11.

Both vehicles were parked in the storage yard of the business. The door of the semi tractor was reportedly unlocked.

Citizens with information about the above incidents are urged to call Northville City Police at 349-1234, Northville Township Police at 349-9400, or the Novi Police Tip Line at 349-6887.

Glut halts hotel construction Experts predict occupancy will remain low for three years

Occupancy rates and average daily room charges for hotels in metro Detroit are expected to decline during 1990 for the third year in a row, according to a study compiled by the accounting/consulting firm of BDO Seidman.

That's good news for business travelers heading here and locals who enjoy getaway weekend packages. Oversupply generally leads to competition and top value for the dollar.

But the decline isn't especially good news for hotel operators and, perhaps down the line, for those who work in the hospitality industry. As revenues shrink, profit margins tend to decrease and belt tightening could lead to job cutbacks. A mediocre market has evolved at the dawn of a new decade due to tremendous overbuilding in the tri-county suburbs and Ann Arbor/Ypsilanti.

Since 1986, according to the BDO Seidman report, available hotel room nights here have soared from just under 5 million to more than 10.2 million annually.

"Probably for a good three to four years, at least, there won't be any substantial new development of hotels," said Wanda L. Spencer, senior manager for the hospitality consulting group at BDO Seidman.

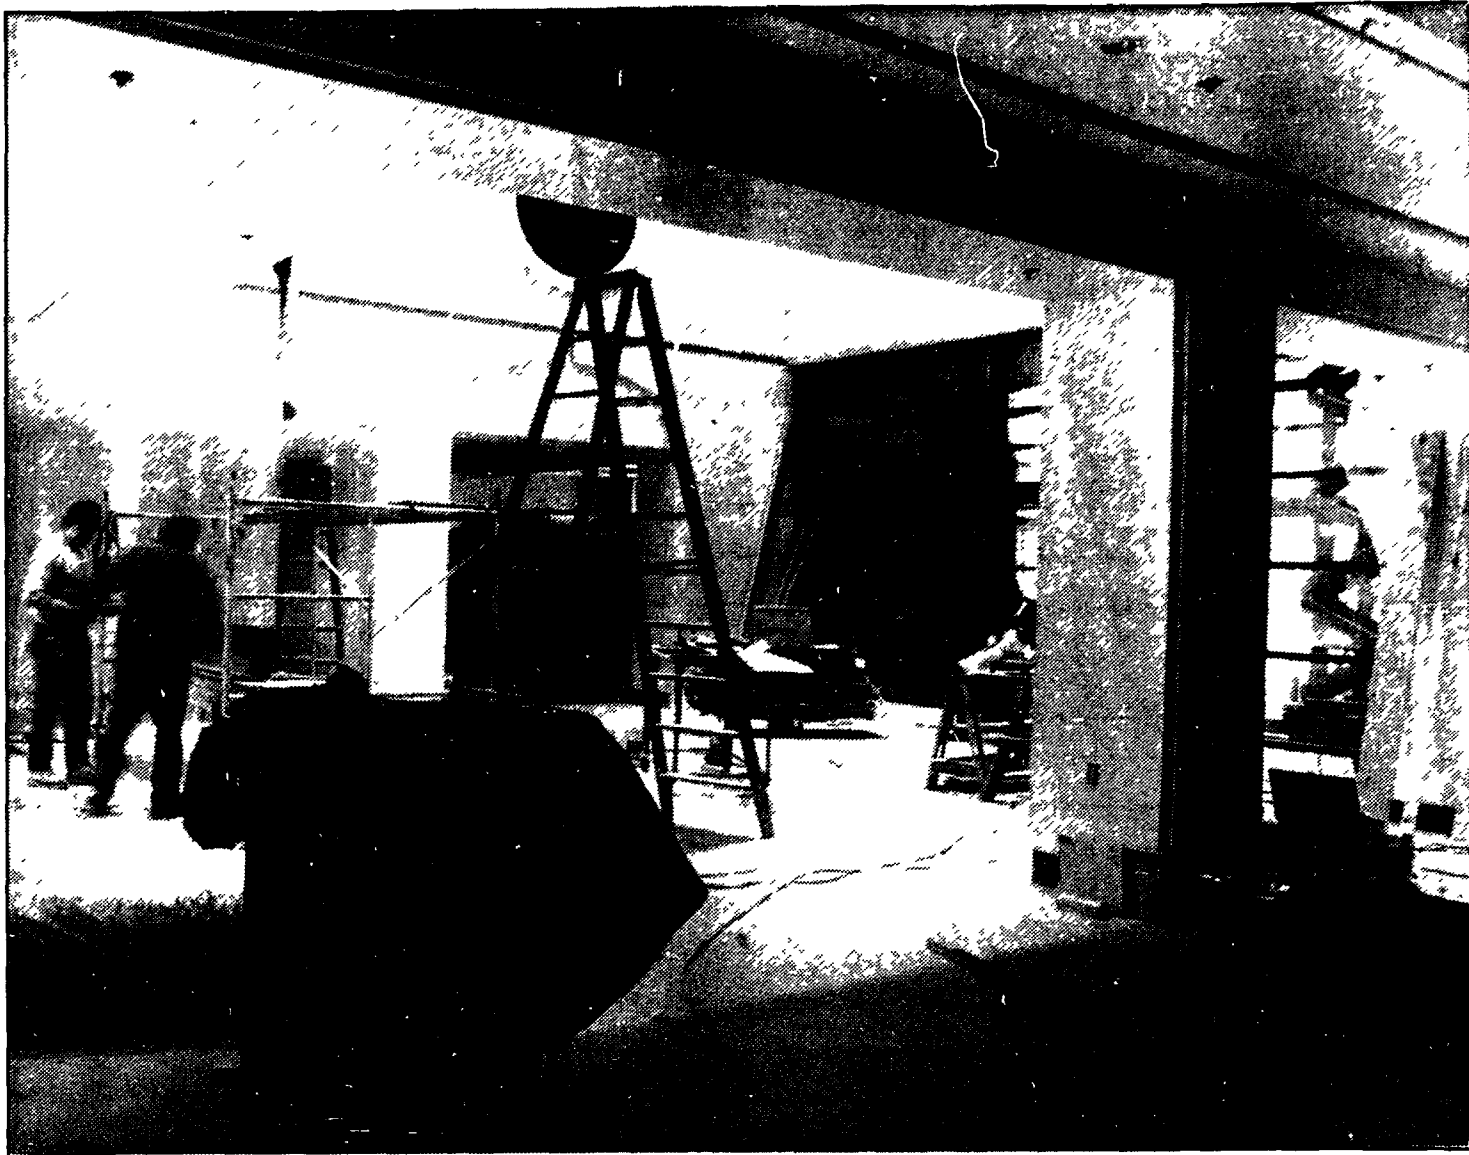

A look at Seidman's numbers tells why.

■ For the entire metro area including the central business district of Detroit, occupancy rate for 1990 is estimated at 57 percent, down from 58 percent last year and 66 percent in 1987.

■ Average daily room rate for the metro area this year is estimated at $56.94, down from $57.49 last year and $60.46 reported in 1987.

"I think the report is disconcerting," said Haydn Kramer, general manager for Residence Inn by Marriott, Troy. "It's obvious our industry is in for some difficult times, I would guess, at a minimum for the next five years."

Russell Carlson, general manager of the Berkshire Hotel in Southfield, was a little more optimistic about a

The Baronette Hotel in Novi could be the last built for a while, as occupancy rates in the region take a tumble recovery, though he did acknowledge the problem.

"I think demand will catch up to market supply in another year or year and a half," he said. "There is definitely an oversupply of hotel rooms in the area."

Even most suburban submarkets are expected to show slight declines in occupancy and room rates this year.

Occupancy along the I-275-96 west corridor, which includes Canton, Plymouth, Northville, Livonia and Novi, is expected to slip to 58 percent this year from 60 percent in 1989. The rate was 77 percent in 1986.

Average daily rate along that corridor also is expected to increase from last year — $53.86 compared to $53.64. The rate in 1987 was $56.30. Occupancy in an area designated North Woodward, which includes Birmingham and Bloomfield Hills, Rochester Hills and Auburn Hills, will slip to 54 percent this year from 56 percent in 1989, Seidman projects. The figure was 69 percent just three years ago.

Average daily rate — $69.57 in 1987 — is expected to show little change between this year, $63.18, and last, $63.86.

Occupancy in Troy/Madison Heights is projected at 59 percent this year compared to 65 percent in 1989. It was 71 percent in 1987.

Average daily rate this year is expected to decline to $55.55 from $59.84 and from $63.02 in 1987.

Occupancy in hotels along the I-696/Lodge corridor, which includes Southfield and Farmington Hills, is expected to decline to 49 from 48 percent. It was 58 percent three years ago.

But average daily rate is projected to rise to $64.25 from $63.50 in 1989. The rate was $62.12 in 1987.

The Seidman study projects an occupancy rate of 56-60 percent and an average daily rate of $56-60 for the metro Detroit area as a whole in 1991.

Occupancies in the range of 60-65 percent are considered to be acceptable in the industry, Carlson said.

A report prepared by the consulting firm of Pannell, Kerr and Forster indicated an occupancy rate of 62 percent for hotels in the north central part of the U.S. last year.

Several hotels have opened in the suburbs this year.

They include the Troy Marriott with 350 rooms, Comfort Inn in Livonia, 112 rooms, a 250-room Marriott at Detroit Metropolitan Airport and Hampton Inn, Dearborn, 119 rooms.

Scheduled to open next year are Hilton Suites in Auburn Hills, 224 units, Hotel Baronette in Novi, 149 rooms, and the International Hotel in Grosse Pointe, 180 suites.

William McLaughlin, president of the Metropolitan Detroit Convention and Visitors Bureau, acknowledged the irony of oversupply in the suburbs with the metro area's inability to attract more major conventions due to lack of hotels downtown.

"No doubt there's a frustration," he said. "It has been for many years."

Firms need better sales letters

As a freelance writer and marketing consultant, I am frequently asked to prepare company proposals, brochures and other written materials for organizations of all sizes. Regardless of the project, one question never fails to come up: "How can we write better sales letters?"

Unlike letters addressed to individuals, sales letters are designed to reach large numbers of current and potential customers at the same time. They must capture readers' attention and interest while further convincing them to do whatever it is you have asked. As a result, writing better sales letters requires much more than a unique writing style to be effective. The following guidelines will help those who want assistance in this area.

Before you start, put yourself in the right frame of mind. Anyone who receives promotional material expects to be sold on something and will throw your letter out if they have to waste time trying to discover what it is that you want. The purpose of any sales letter is to sell the audience — and to sell them right away.

Next, the opening of the letter can make or break its overall effect. It is at this point where recipients decide to keep on reading or file your letter into the wastebasket. Any opening remarks, headlines or introductory paragraphs must get attention and arouse interest if you want your audience to read on.

Little-known facts, "startling" statistics and quotable quotes that pertain directly to the point of your letter would be appropriate to use in this section. And whatever you do, don't start off your letter with salutations such as "Dear Loyal Customer," "Dear Neighbor," or other meaningless greeting. It's already obvious to the reader that a sales letter is not a personal letter.

Maintaining reader attention until the letter ends is a trickier proposition, yet it is possible when you make your point immediately, expand upon it and wrap it up. Don't waste words or include additional information that causes you to stray from your original point. If you want your material to promote a particular product or service of your business, don't confuse your readers by mentioning everything else that you offer. Your company brochure is meant to be used for this purpose, not your sales letters.

Also plan your letter so it will be written from the readers' point of view. Why should readers call you for an appointment, visit your shop or buy your product/service? What makes you any different (and better) than the competition? How reputable are you? The answer to these questions explaining the benefits of doing business with you ensures that your sales letters will be written from the proper perspective.

Condos get custom touches

Presented with more customizing options than ever, new home buyers today can avoid a "cookie cutter" look and express their individual style, even in a planned development.

"Jetted tubs in the bathroom are very popular right now," noted Cathy Doig, selections coordinator for Crosswinds Communities, a development company in Southeast Michigan.

Even more distinctive and luxurious are four-person spas with ceramic tile and decking, installed in a finished lower level.

It's not surprising that these items are in vogue, since 50 percent of homeowners surveyed recently by the National Association of Home Builders said they will look for more luxury features in the next home they purchase.

What else is "hot" these days?

"Many buyers are into the 'all-white' look for kitchens," Doig said. "They choose appliances that are completely white, even down to the handles, control knobs and trim."

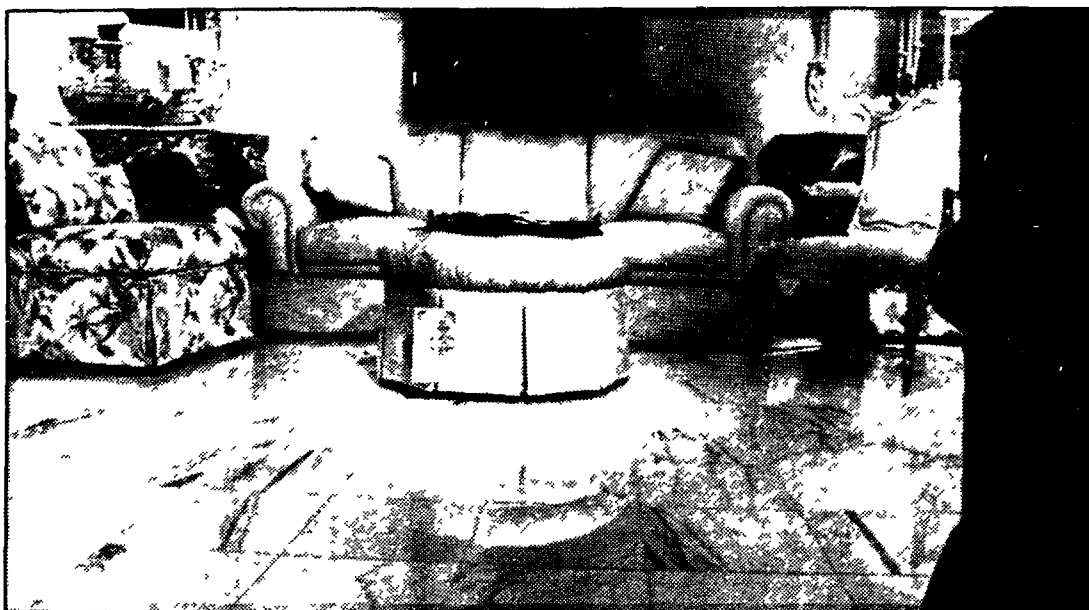

Taking his cue from the automakers, Crosswinds President Bernie Gieberman offers more than the usual number of choices in just "standard equipment."

Then, there are the many optional features that may be selected.

For example, his new condominium homes in "Greenpointe at Copper Creek" in Farmington Hills offer over 2,400 choices in options.

Very popular here are skylights and decorative mirrors that add extra light to the home.

Natural and natural-looking products also are favored: marble, cer-

Natural materials, like this marble floor at Scott-Shuptrine in Novi, are gaining popularity amic tile and counter tops that resemble stone, especially the granite finishes; and wood cabinets and blinds in a white "pickled" finish.

Once the buyer has signed a purchase agreement, Doig arranges for them to come in and select the colors, styles, materials and optional features they want to customize their home.

"They usually don't believe me when I tell them to allow at least three hours for the first appointment," Doig said.

But then, they don't know that they can choose from eight types of crown moldings, 23 kinds of ceramic tile and marble, 25 styles of carpeting, 30 types of pleated shades, 60 styles of blinds, and 40 patterns of vinyl flooring — including size, color and texture variations.

Besides "upgrading" the standard kitchen appliances, the owner can add such amenities as a microwave oven, rangetop grill, intercom, electronic air purifier, special lighting and more.

A second appointment with Doig is usually needed to finalize the homeowner's selections.

"We keep track of everything they order on computers," she added. "As long as they make their selections beforehand, choosing more options won't slow down construction of their home."

When it comes time for resale, options help increase the value of a home, just like they do for a car.

"People who know about our options know that no two homes in our communities need be alike," Gieberman said, "and it's that individual touch that home buyers want."

Robert Meisner/Condo Queries

Handling a suspicion

I am a member of a condominium association who has been closely observing the actions of the board of directors as they relate to several contracting firms hired by the board on major projects. I believe that the company is giving kickbacks to at least the president of the association. I don't have any direct proof except a strong gut feeling. How do I confront the board about my suspicions?

Like corruption in government, there is always the ugly possibility of corruption in the governance of a condominium association, but it is hard to prove and, hopefully, very rare. Contractors who offer kickbacks to general contractors may also offer them to board members. Often service-related entities may also be inducing these uncompensated volunteer directors to look their way for business.

I would learn as much as you can about the relationship between the contractor you suspect and the board or managing agent who hired him. For example, what the competitors bid, how was the decision made to hire him, who made it — the board as a whole, the president or managing agent, if there is one. Put your questions in writing but be careful because you don't want to slander someone by falsely accusing him or her or it of taking payoffs. Be discreet but thorough. Your inquiry may itself have a chilling effect on any improper conduct that may be going on under the table.

Our association has a policy against "ghetto blasters" and the like being used in the clubhouse. Is it enforceable and if so, how?

Yes, it seems reasonable to require that members or guests using the recreational facilities of the condominium comply with reasonable rules regarding their use. Insuring that the facilities in question are free of excessive noise or other disturbances is commendable and legally sustainable if these rules are enforced uniformly and consistently and were properly passed in accordance with the condominium documents and not for discrimination purposes.

Can you explain what is meant by the phrase, obtaining a title policy "without exceptions" when buying a condominium? Aren't all title insurance policies the same?

Not all title policies are the same, not all title insurance companies are the same. But there are certain expectations to most standard title insurance policies that are issued to ensure the owner that he or she has marketable title to the property purchased free of any liens or encumbrances except as listed on the "schedule" to the title policy — the purchaser's mortgage.

But "standard exceptions" that are excluded from the protection to the title policy include such things as unrecorded mechanic's liens, survey errors, boundary disputes. If you ask for a policy without exceptions, these "standard exceptions" to the policy will be deleted.

Batteries are most recycled

Of all recyclable materials, which is recycled at the highest rate? Newspapers? Cans? The answer often surprises many Americans. Of all recyclable materials, lead acid batteries — including car, truck and boat batteries — have the recycling edge. In fact, battery recycling is the best managed consumer product reclamation effort in the country.

But there's a cloud with this silver lining. The results of a recent survey by Battery Council International (BCI) may interest those Americans who don't know a lead acid battery is 100 percent recyclable.

The survey found that nearly 20 percent of U.S. homeowners store at least one spent (or used) automotive battery — and most store two or more. If you multiply those figures by nearly 90 million American households, it means there may be as many as 30-40 million batteries sitting around in our nation's garages.

If not recycled, those batteries have the potential to contaminate soil and water with sulfuric acid and lead. If they are recycled, not only do we protect our environment, but the recycled lead and plastic are returned to the manufacturing process for the production of new batteries.

BCI also discovered that while 65 percent of us realize batteries are recyclable, 45 percent of us don't know how. One manufacturer of batteries, GNB Inc., of St. Paul, Minn., has an active recycling effort with a number of its customers, including Wal-Mart. The company, which manufactures the Champion batteries, among others, is one of the country's largest battery recyclers. Check with your retailer to see whether he accepts spent batteries. If he does, verify that he will turn it over to recyclers like GNB. Some stores may even pay you a rebate for your old battery.

Recycled items offered for sale

Materials used in recycled paper products come from two sources. Post-consumer waste consists of paper refuse from stores, offices and homes — including newspapers — and has been reused in consumer items such as newspapers, magazines and cards.

Pre-consumer waste (mill broke) is generated during the paper-making process and constitutes the bulk of "recycled" paper.

The goal of recyclers is to increase the percentage of post-consumer waste in products. Ten percent appears to be the average.

The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency has established minimum content standards and definitions for paper that is advertised as recycled.

For most purposes it is 50 percent wastepaper and includes post-consumer and pre-consumer.

Some sources for recycled paper products are listed below. ■ Earth Care Paper Catalog, P.O. Box 3335 Madison, Wis. 53704, offers a variety of paper products including stationery, writing pads, office paper, journals, gift wrap and greeting cards.

For school classes they offer an educational/fund-raising program with a recycling curriculum unit.

Earth Care also offers free literature on recycling and environmental organizations. Ten percent of its profits are given to organizations working to solve environmental problems.

Example: 12 Christmas cards and envelopes are $6 per package. Buy eight to 29 packages and the price drops to $5 per, etc. They pay postage.

■ Seventh Generation, Colchester, Vt. 05446-1672, distributes a variety of products made from recycled paper, including paper towels, toilet paper, paper plates, tissue, wrapping paper, computer and copier paper.

Example: A full case, 30 boxes of tissues, is $29.95. Shipping is another $5.95.

■ Quill Corporation, 100 Scheller Road, Lincolnshire, Ill. 60069-3621, sells office products directly to consumers. The first two pages of its catalog are devoted to recycled office products.

Example: yellow legal pads, 8/4 by 11 inches, are $9.99 per dozen, $9.49 per dozen over three dozen, or $8.99 per dozen over six dozen.

By contrast, regular virgin paper legal pads of similar weight and quality are $8.79 per dozen, $8.37 per dozen for three or more dozen, or $7.69 per dozen, six or more dozen. Delivery is free for orders of $45 or more.

■ Atlantic Recycled Paper Co., P.O. Box 11021, Baltimore, Md. 21212, sells office paper and family products. They offer sampler boxes. Example: The complete sampler box contains two rolls of toilet paper, one roll of paper towels, 10 of each luncheon and dinner napkins, one box of facial tissues, 10 each of dispenser paper towels, a sample of hard roll paper towels, several sheets of office-type papers and five envelopes. The office papers include copy paper, printer paper, pads, etc.

Henry Ford Hospital completes the cycle

Concerned citizen Lorna McEwen has taken her private convictions on the value of recycling to her job as public relations representative for Henry Ford Hospital's Maple Grove Center for Chemical Dependency.

She has been a strong advocate of putting your money where your mouth is — seeking out printers who will print Henry Ford Hospital brochures on recycled print stock.

"We don't do a lot (of printing)," McEwen said, "but we've had a couple of projects in the last few months."

On one occasion, McEwen simply asked the printer not to give her a quote, but to tell her only how much a project of 10,000 brochures would cost with recycled paper.

The printer called and said, "You're not going to believe this." The cost was $18 more.

"If it was $500 more, I wasn't going to do it, but $18 is nothing for a cause that's worthwhile," McEwen said. "I wasn't surprised. Too many people think that it's too expensive. That's just the perception."

McEwen has since begun a campaign to persuade Henry Ford Hospital to take an active part in "the green challenge," and adapt a system-wide use of recycled paper and other products.

"I feel very positive about it. Once it gets talked about within the Henry Ford system people will be surprised at the response."

By LARK L. SAMOUELIAN
Executive Director,
SW Oakland Cable Comm.

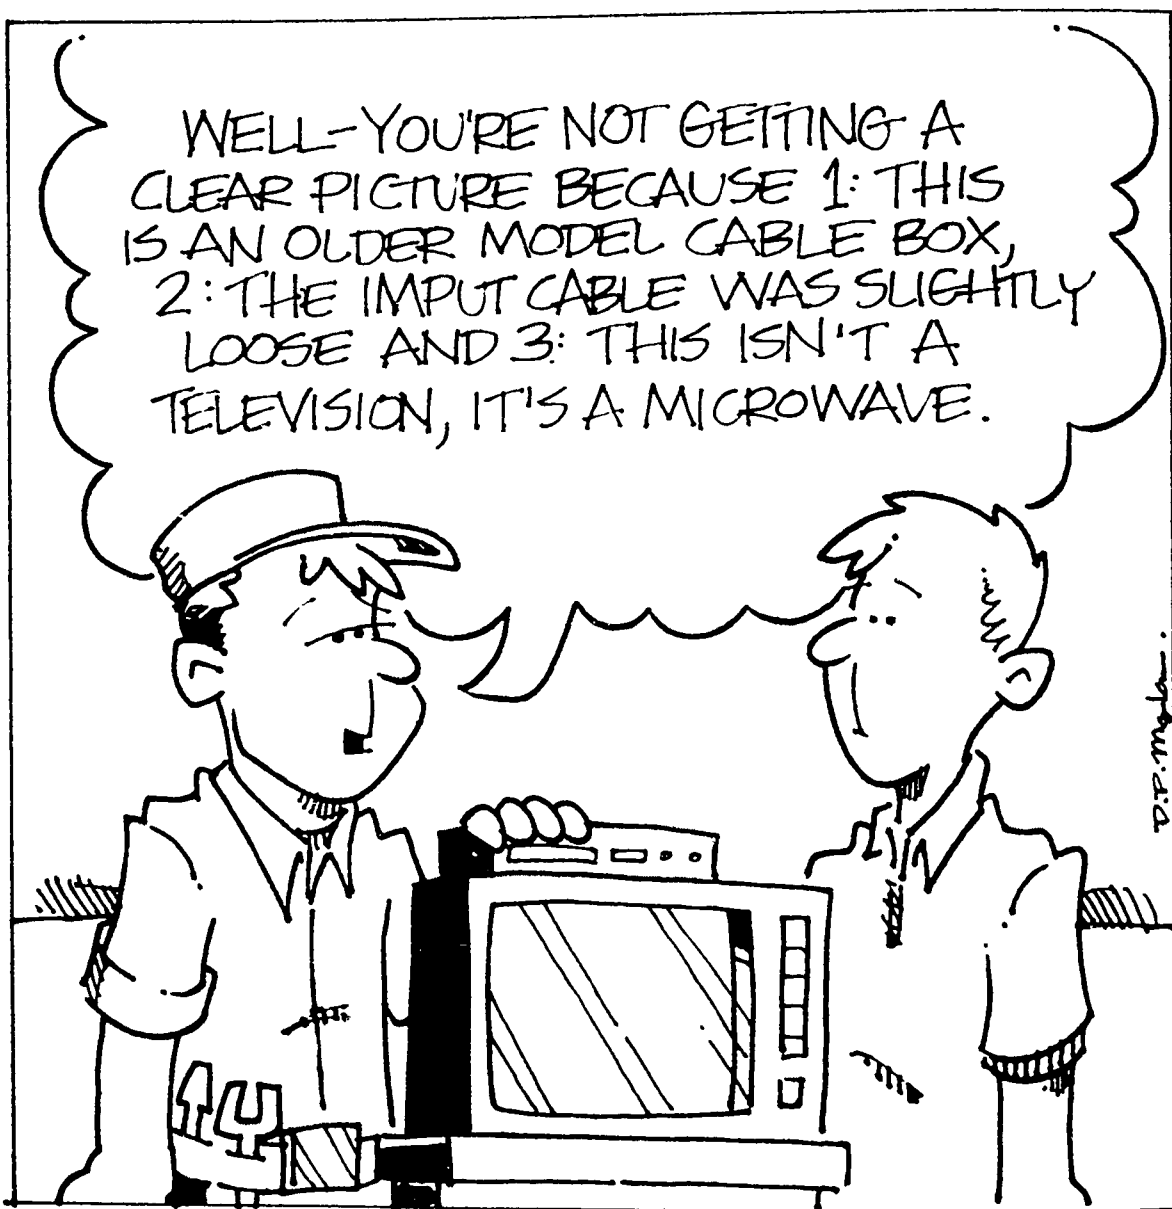

Once a person becomes aware that they are able to express themselves artistically they become willing and even curious to try alternative mediums. Laura Novak is such a person. Laura is an amateur writer who is attempting to write murder mysteries. She took a writing class in which the instructor suggested that she try her hand at public access television. She then took MetroVision classes with 14 other people.

The television instructors suggested that each person would be more successful in following through with the television experience if they used their personal interests or causes to create a show.

Being a proud mother of twins, Laura created her first program around this subject which is dear to her heart. It made the learning easier and more fulfilling. She followed with two other children's shows, entitled 'Twins: Seeing, Being Double', 'Children's Christmas Celebration' and 'Children's Halloween Special'.

Laura then decided to tackle a more difficult project. She decided to create a documentary style, entertainment special. The theme of her show was an historical musical presentation written and performed by Candace Anderson. Laura secured a grant from the Southwestern Oakland Cable Commission to bring Ms. Anderson to our facilities.

Laura Novak's program is entitled "A Michigan Sampler . . . Pioneer Women: Their Lives through song". Candace Anderson is an historian in the Kalamazoo College Area. She researched pioneer women's lives and shared their experiences through song. This led her into their homes, their diaries and their letters.

"Listening to her songs makes one feel as if they were back in time," says Laura.

One song is about a Michigan Black woman who was a slave, had no education and could not read. As a slave she grew up and watched all her children sold into slavery. This woman was one of the speakers at a convention where the women wanted a chance to vote. The woman in charge of the convention heard that she was a great speaker and scheduled her to speak. The crowd was shocked because she was Black; however she prevailed with her eloquence and opinions on voting and she received a standing ovation. From this song you get a feeling of history and you feel like you know the person. Candace's songs are about these kinds of

Kennedy Center honors performing artists

Katharine Hepburn among honorees

By Mary Ann Townsend

President John F. Kennedy had a dream that one day the performing arts would be duly recognized in this country. To that end, he helped establish the John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts in Washington, D.C.

Years ago at a fund-raiser for the center, Kennedy said, "I look forward to an America which will not be afraid of grace or beauty . . . which will reward achievement in the arts as we reward achievement in business or statecraft."

His dream has become a reality.

For 13 years, the Kennedy Center has been recognizing those who have excelled in the fields of dance, theater, opera, motion pictures and television in the annual "Kennedy Center Honors: A Celebration of the Performing Arts." This year's honors show, a GM Mark of Excellence Presentation, airs Friday, Dec. 28, on CBS.

The five honorees are jazz trumpeter Dizzy Gillespie, actress Katharine Hepburn, opera star Rise Stevens, composer Jule Styne and screen writer Billy Wilder. Walter Cronkite will host.

At the "Kennedy Center Honors," taped Dec. 2 at the Kennedy Center Opera House, legendary actress Hepburn was moved to emotion when, for the first time ever, she viewed a clip of her Oscar-winning performance in "Guess Who's Coming to Dinner." It was not her performance that moved her, but the fact it was the final film of Spencer Tracy, her co-star in nine films.

Hepburn is known for openly expressing her thoughts and feelings. The second of six children, Hepburn was born Nov. 8, 1907 in Hartford, Conn. to unorthodox parents who encouraged candidness in their family.

Her parents were crusaders. Father Thomas, a distinguished surgeon, pioneered public education about venereal disease; mother Katharine tirelessly pushed for women's rights and birth control. It was at a women's suffrage rally that the then 8-year-old Katharine first performed publicly.

By the time she entered her mother's alma mater, Bryn Mawr College, in 1924, Hepburn had considered following in her father's footsteps, but looked at her prospects realistically. "I knew at that time I wouldn't have gone to a woman surgeon," she reasoned. "I felt, 'Well, I better dump that, and I said, 'I'd better become an actor. So I did.'"

For Hepburn and the entertainment industry, it was a wise move.

For more than five decades, the actress has made an indelible mark on the silver screen. Hepburn's credits include more than 40 feature films (many of which are considered classics), numerous TV movies and more than 30 stage productions. Nominated for 12 Oscars and winner of four, she has obviously achieved quality as well as quantity.

"My career has wavered around, stumbled, fallen, picked itself up, crawled back and jumped," the actress summarized. "If I'm confused about some things, I'm sure about one thing. I'm a professional actress. I'm an amateur painter, an amateur sculptress, but as an actress, I'm a professional."

Dizzy Gillespie, Katharine Hepburn, Rise Stevens, Jule Styne and Billy Wilder will receive "Kennedy Center Honors." The GM Mark of Excellence Presentation, airing Friday, Dec. 28, is hosted by Walter Cronkite.

Q: I am writing to inquire about the actor James Garner. I remember some months ago he had heart surgery. However, I haven't seen anything or heard about him in the news or in magazines. Did he go back to acting after his surgery? One other question. When and how did Richard Long of The Big Valley die? —Dixie Muellerleile, Mankato, Minn.

A: I may have missed something along the way, but I don't think James Garner ever had heart surgery. In 1984 he starred with Mary Tyler Moore in the ABC Movie Special Heartsounds, the story of Dr. Harold Lear, who suffered and lived through a series of heart attacks. Garner recently starred in the NBC Hallmark Hall of Fame presentation Decoration Day. Richard Long succumbed to a heart ailment Dec. 21, 1974. He was 47 years old.

Q: What can you tell me about a young lady called Erin Moran from Happy Days? She is married and lives in Ventura County. I would like to have her address so that I may write to her. —John Daniels, Chicago, Ill.

A: Mr. Daniels, I must tell you, I have received all your letters requesting this address, and believe me I have looked. Your best chance of receiving information about her is to write to: Screen Actors Guild, 7065 Hollywood Blvd., Hollywood, CA 90028. Meanwhile, I will ask the readers of this column if they have information on Erin to please write me and I will pass it on to you.

Week filled with holiday specials

By Lee Irby

Frosty, that "jolly, happy soul" whose old silk hat full of magic has turned him into a musical Christmas legend, demonstrates his unique showmanship in the popular holiday perennial Frosty the Snowman. The animated special is narrated by Jimmy Durante and is to be rebroadcast Wednesday, Dec. 19, on CBS.

Comedian Jackie Vernon provides the voice for Frosty in the musical Christmas fable based on the popular song of the same title by Jack Rollins and Steve Nelson.

Another Christmas favorite, A Charlie Brown Christmas, is back this year. Charlie and Linus weed through all the commercialized trees to find the true, unornamented meaning of the Yuletide season. The show is also broadcast on Dec. 19 on CBS.

For a true trip back to the past, tune in to The Judy Garland Christmas Show on The Disney Channel, Sunday, Dec. 16. Legendary singer Judy Garland will be featured in a series of specials on The Disney Channel's Sunday Night Showcase. Garland performs holiday melodies with her children Liza Minnelli and Lorna and Joey Luft. She also gives a moving rendition of "Over the Rainbow."

TBS is showing a plethora of Christmas movies all week including Pocketful of Miracles, The Bells of St. Mary's, Miracle on 34th Street, A Little House Christmas, A Christmas Story and It's a Wonderful Life. © TV Listing Inc

STAR NOTES

Dana Delany put feature films on hold

By Candace Havens

Dana Delany has the face of an angel, but she is best known for playing the tough nurse Colleen McMurphy in ABC's China Beach.

Delany received an Emmy in 1989 as best actress in a drama for the role. Born in New York City, the actress prepped at Phillips Andover Academy and majored in theater at Wesleyan University. After college, she returned to New York, where she remained for seven years, appearing in the daytime dramas Love of Life and As the World Turns.

She also performed on Broadway in A Life and in the off-Broadway production of Bloodmoon. That play then moved to Santa Monica, Calif., where Delany caught the eye of James Keach and was cast as Keith Carradine's girlfriend in the TV movie A Winner Never Quits.

She went on to make several feature films including Moon Over Parador, Masquerade and Patty, the story of Patty Hearst in which Delany plays a member of the Symbionese Liberation Army.

Delany was hesitant about putting her movie career on hold to take the role of McMurphy. She had created a minor sensation playing Tom Selleck's girlfriend in a couple of episodes of Magnum, P.I.

It proved to be a good move, since her movies didn't fare well at the box office and China Beach became an immediate success.

TIME OUT

Rams subject to 49ers' revenge

By Steve Paschal

The world champion San Francisco 49ers will have an opportunity for revenge Monday night when they travel to Anaheim, Calif., for a rematch with the Los Angeles Rams on ABC's Monday Night Football.

It was the Rams, along with the Philadelphia Eagles, who threw a monkey wrench into the much-anticipated showdown between the 49ers and New York Giants with upset victories Thanksgiving weekend. The Giants and 49ers were just one game away from the first-ever meeting between two 11-0 teams when the Eagles upset the Giants and the Rams took San Francisco. To make matters worse, the Rams stopped the 49ers just one game shy of setting an all-time record for consecutive victories. San Francisco had won 18 straight to tie a record set twice by the Chicago Bears and equalled by the 1971-73 Miami Dolphins.

Despite the loss, the 49ers still have an iron grip on first place in the NFC West and appear on course for another record-setting playoff appearance. The Rams, once thought to be a shoe-in for the playoffs, got off to a dismal start and are battling just to make it to post-season play as a wild card team.

Sunday, CBS features a schedule of regional games that begins with either Atlanta at Cleveland, Minnesota at Tampa Bay or Phoenix at Dallas followed by Green Bay at Philadelphia.

Michigan Pioneer Women. Other examples are a fur trader, underground railroad lady, and the woman who started Michigan's first Catholic Church.

The crew for the show fell in love with Candace Anderson, because she was so personable. Her premise is that true appreciation of the happenings of today can only come with an understanding of what came before."

Candace performs her songs in period costume, thereby visually capturing the imagination and emotions of the television viewer.

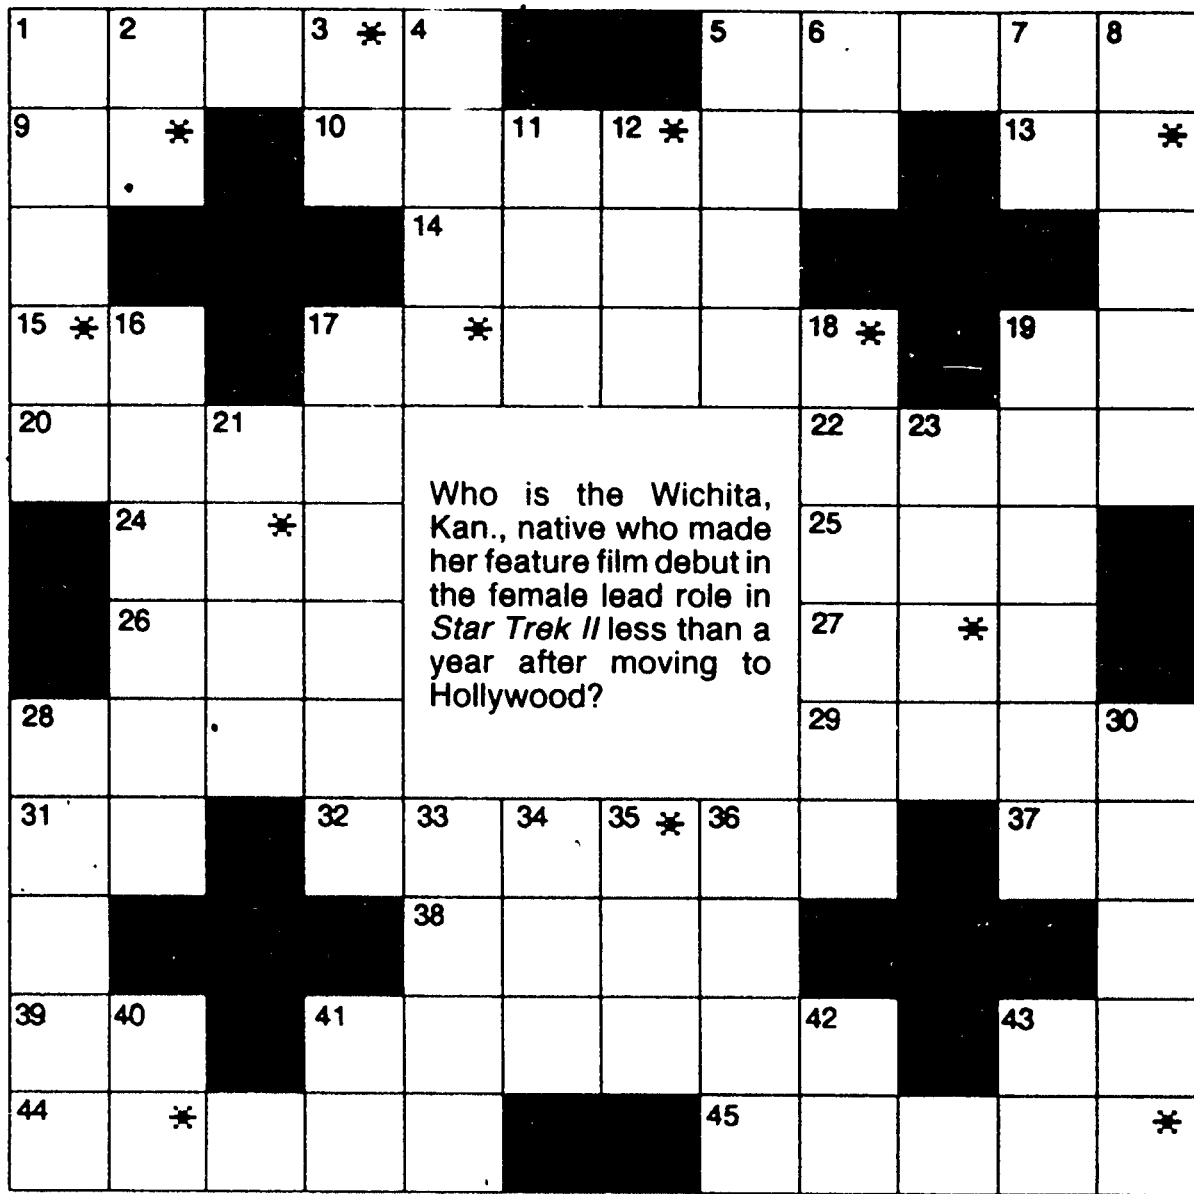

This was Laura Novak's fifth program. Her plans include involvement with local theatre groups as they become more familiar with videotaping their original works or public domain works. We can also look forward to seeing another Christmas program which will keep our spirits bright.

From week to week we will hear of more individuals who inspire others to share their creativity through the medium of Community Television, which richly appreciates all of the 'arts'.

Daytime TV losing actors to hopes of success in prime time

By Candace Havens

You win some. You lose some. Daytime television is definitely on a losing streak as far as its top stars are concerned. Everybody wants to hit the big time, and most are heading to L.A. to discover their dream. Chances are, most are going to be sadly disappointed in the outcome.

It all began a few months ago when Days of Our Lives lost Stephen Nichols (Patch). Now they are losing a heartthrob of young and old, Billy Hufsey (Emilio).

It seems Hufsey is leaving because the daytime program ties down his schedule too much and he isn't as free to do other things as he would like to be. He reportedly had to turn down more than five feature films because the show's execs wouldn't let him off for an extended period of time.

All My Children is losing Michael Knight (Tad), yet again. Knight is also looking for work in prime time and films, but he's keeping his home base in New York. Much like Hufsey, Knight left the soap once before and returned when things didn't pan out the way he thought they might.

The folks at Guiding Light aren't faring much better. Michael O'Leary (Rick) has given notice and plans a relocation to Los Angeles. The part will be recast, hopefully by Christmas.

Early next year Robert Newman (Josh) is also relocating to L.A. to pursue a career in prime time. Newman spent some time out West earlier this year and was a great success in his two-show stint on Hunter.

And as if that weren't enough, Loving's Perry Stephens (Jack) isn't renewing his contract. You'll never guess where he's heading — L.A., of course! He recently married his long-time fiancée, Jenny Jackson, and now he's ready to try his luck in prime time and feature films. The show's execs haven't decided what to do with the character, so they are not going to do anything for now.

I want to hear from you! If you have a favorite soap scenario you would like to sound off about, or a question about the soaps, write to Candace Havens, Soap Talk, P.O. Box 17748, Fort Worth, TX 76102-0748.

Roger Whittaker backs efforts to save African black rhino

By Polly Vonetes

Q: I have read that Roger Whittaker's new album will be available in record stores. I thought he only sells his records on TV. He was truly wonderful in concert here in Los Angeles. At the concert, he mentioned he was an environmentalist and gets involved in good causes. Could you tell me what causes he is associated with and where I can send him correspondence? —Sid Shiner, Los Angeles, Calif.

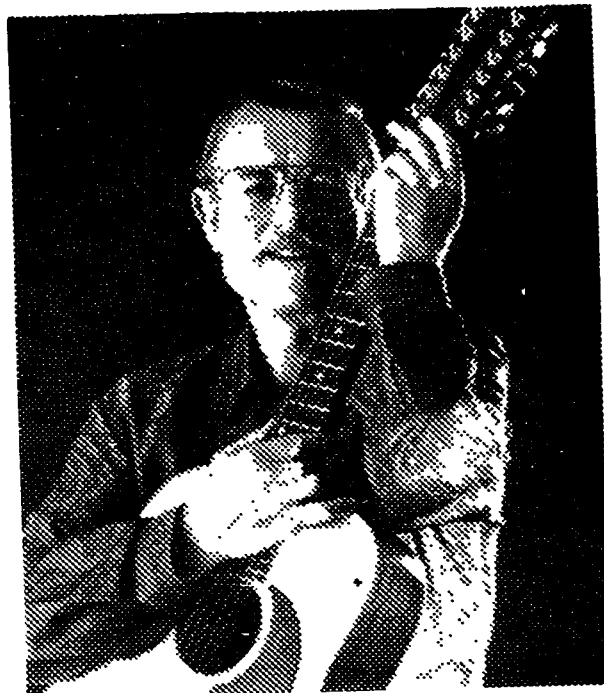

A: No, Roger Whittaker's records are available in record stores across the country. Living and Loving, his newest recording, will be available in January, 1991, under the Capitol/Nashville label. Currently available is I'd Fall In Love Tonight, released under the Universal Records banner. He is active in efforts to help save the endangered African black rhino. Proceeds from program sales at concerts and recording royalties are donated to the Rhino Rescue Trust to create sanctuaries for the rhino in Kenya. Write to him: c/o Flo Selfman Public Relations, 330 Washington St., No. 400, Marina del Rey, CA 90292.

Q: For the last four years I have been watching Wheel of Fortune trying to find out how to write in and become a contestant. I watch every day and have not been able to find out what I need to do. I feel that I am a very comparable contestant and need to be on the show. —Danny Moore, Nacogdoches, Texas

A: You aren't the only one who has become frustrated looking for this information. All you would-be contestants write to: Wheel of Fortune, c/o Merv Griffin Enterprises, 1541 Vine St., Los Angeles, CA 90028.

Q: Please settle a dispute for us; recently we have seen Abe Vigoda star on a couple of shows. A few of us were under the impression that he passed away. Is he still living? —E., Rhinelander, Wis.

A: Poor Abe, they have been burying him since Barney Miller went off the air. Born in 1921, he is an active senior-citizen actor of just 69 years.
