Thank you, music lovers

Our Lady of Victory School held a talent show last week, and the audience heard from some different parts of the musical spectrum. The Valentine's Day performance included fourth-grader Michael Addison, above, playing a violin solo; and seventh-grader Rick Kowal, left, lip-synching to "Yackety Yak."

Judge stops patient transfer

By STEVE KELLMAN

A judge's restraining order to halt the closure of Department of Mental Health facilities and the lay-off of DMH staff may postpone the transfer of about 120 patients to the Northville Regional Psychiatric Hospital.

Ingham County Circuit Court Judge Peter Houk issued the temporary restraining order last week, in response to a lawsuit filed on behalf of DMH workers and patients. Houk ruled that the closures could harm patients, and that they violated the state's own law requiring 240 days' notice before such closures.

A hearing will be held Feb. 22 on whether to continue the restraining order until the case is decided.

"I thought that there was a likelihood that the plaintiffs might prevail on this issue, and I'm giving them a more complete hearing next Friday (Feb. 22) to give both sides an opportunity to be heard," Houk said. "There is a likelihood that they will prevail."

"I'm giving people an opportunity to leave everything where it is until there's an opportunity for everyone to be heard in a structured fashion," Houk said.

Four DMH facilities — Ypsilanti Regional Psychiatric Hospital, York Woods Center in Ypsilanti, Oakdale Regional Center for Developmental Disabilities in Lapeer and Arnell Engstrom Children's Center in Traverse City — face closure under a DMH plan to slice $87.8 million from its budget.

The Ypsilanti hospital was scheduled to close April 1 as part of the budget-cutting plan. The facility's closure would cut nearly $3.2 million from the DMH budget, lay off 252 employees and transfer 276 positions to the hospitals receiving the patients.

About half of Ypsilanti's 250 patients were scheduled to be transferred to Northville, raising Northville's patient population to 740, Northville Director Walter Brown said in January. Brown said then that he expected the hospital's staff size to remain the same despite the increase in patients.

Northville Regional employs about 1,400 people, including part-time and contractual positions.

Local firm pays $40-million judgment

By STEVE KELLMAN

Guardian Industries paid a $40.6-million court judgment to the Manville Corporation of Denver on Feb. 8, ending a 10-year legal battle with the firm.

Guardian, headquartered on Nine Mile east of Novi Road, had been found guilty of pirating a fiberglass manufacturing process from the former Johns-Manville Corporation in 1980.

The $40.6 million award is believed to be the largest for any "intellectual property" case in Michigan history. Intellectual property lawsuits involve "property of the mind," said Manville attorney Ernie Brooks. "It's the new term for patents, trademarks, copyrights . . . intangible property," he said.

Manville charged that Guardian stole a state-of-the-art fiberglass manufacturing technique from the Denver firm in 1980 by hiring away key employees.

Guardian's position has been that the process used by the Novi corporation was not the one owned by Manville, said group Vice President Peter Walters. "The process was developed at Guardian," he said. "It was certainly Guardian's position from the beginning that the process was not proprietary to Johns-Manville. Unfortunately, the court did not agree."

According to a chronology provided by Manville's legal firm, Brooks & Kushman of Southfield, Johns-Manville Corporation patented a new fiberglass manufacturing process called horizontal electric rotary modular (HERM) in 1977. The HERM process eliminated one production step — hot gas blast attenuation — an expensive and time-consuming procedure.

Court documents state that Guardian "misappropriated" the HERM technology by hiring "many key J-M employees." Guardian hired away 15 Johns-Manville employees between 1977 and 1980, including nine who were directly involved in developing HERM, Brooks said.

Guardian then entered the fiberglass business itself, opening a plant in Albion in 1981.

"Without question, the J-M HERM technology misappropriated by Guardian constituted the state of the art in fiberglass as of 1980," the court's findings of fact state. "Guardian knew that J-M's HERM fiberglass production process could furnish a substantial competitive advantage in the 1980s."

Johns-Manville filed suit against Guardian shortly after the Albion plant opened in 1981, charging that the Novi corporation stole the HERM process.

According to court findings, Guardian used the J-M patent and four J-M trade secrets to process almost 96 million pounds of fiberglass before a court injunction stopped production at the Albion plant in December 1983. Guardian had enjoyed net sales of more than $57 million from the processing, the court said.

U.S. District Court Judge Philip Pratt ruled in favor of the plaintiff in 1983, after hearing a non-jury trial in 1981. The Denver firm, which by then had shortened its name to the Manville Corporation, was awarded $15 million.

Guardian was found guilty of "various patent infringement, trade secret misappropriation, and unfair competition claims," according to the court's findings of fact. Guardian unsuccessfully appealed the case.

A trial to determine damages was held in 1988, but Pratt died before rendering a decision. Chief Judge James Churchill replaced him in a new trial in 1989.

Township switches EMS firms

By MIKE TYREE
Staff Writer

Northville Township has dropped its primary-care ambulance provider in favor of a Washtenaw County-based ambulance firm.

The township board last Thursday agreed to drop Community Emergency Medical Service (CEMS) of Novi as its provider, based on Fire Chief Rick Rosselle's recommendation.

Huron Valley Ambulance will take over township emergency runs beginning March 15.

Rosselle said CEMS fell short of township expectations in a number of categories, including response times, equipment, and knowledge of the township.

Close scrutiny of CEMS activities over the last quarter of 1990 and early 1991 led to the decision, Rosselle said. A list of concerns culled from fire department and CEMS reports was presented to the board Thursday evening.

The list of concerns included long response times, lack of minimum equipment for patient care, no portable oxygen, failure to assess and treat patients properly, and rudeness of CEMS paramedics to fire department staff, patients and their families.

Also listed were concerns over lost

CEMS responding units, basic units responding to advanced life support situations, lack of support units for multiple injury accidents and "erroneous information regarding the availability of units and their locations."

Repeated conversations with CEMS management did not remedy township concerns, Rosselle said.

CEMS President Greg Beauchemin said he was blindsided by the township's action.

"I had no knowledge there was a problem," he said. "I was totally taken by surprise."

Beauchemin said he was notified of the decision by hand-delivered letter Friday at 11:37 a.m. He said it was "quite disturbing" to learn of the change after the board meeting.

"We weren't able to present facts to the township board," he said. "This is something, in 10 years of EMS work, that I've never experienced."

Beauchemin disputed fire department claims about slow response times and other alleged problems. He said the township was not in frequent communication with him, as stated to the township board.

"My office has not received complaints in writing," he said. "My only reaction (on response times) is that it's subjective and not verifiable."

CEMS' service satisfies city

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

City officials expressed surprise at Northville Township's decision Thursday to drop Community Emergency Medical Services as its primary-care ambulance provider.

CEMS ambulance service to the city, though not "ideal," has been effective in conjunction with the city fire department's first-response program, the officials said.

"The (CEMS) response isn't quick enough to be ideal, which is why we started the first-response program," said City Manager Steven Walters.

"Our 1990 fire (department) report shows quite an effective interaction between our first response and CEMS, and the combination seems to be quite viable."

Walters said that CEMS has been monitored by the city, and that long response times might have presented a problem without a first-response program.

"There were some cases where they (response times) were heading towards 10 minutes, and if we hadn't had the first response program that would have been reviewed more critically . . . but we have," he said.

Other city officials agreed that the Novi-based ambulance company provides satisfactory emergency service to the city.

"I'm unaware of any problems with CEMS," said Police Chief Rod Can non. "We've had no complaints. Their response time has been good." The police department monitors fire department and ambulance response times through its radio dispatch system.

Fire Chief Jim Allen echoed Cannon's assessment. "We've had no serious problems with Community (EMS)," he said.

Allen said quick response by the fire department improves the overall level of medical response in the city, by preparing medical and accident victims for transport prior to an ambulance's arrival.

"In a sense, our first-response program makes any ambulance company look better because we've got people in the area . . . when the ambulance pulls up they're (patients are) ready to be loaded in many cases," he said. "It's a joint effort."

Allen also hesitated to criticize CEMS without knowing more about the township's decision to switch to Huron Valley Ambulance Service. "I'm not going to throw stones at a company that's been providing good basic service to the city," he said.

CEMS provides ambulance services to Northville City, Novi, Farmington and Farmington Hills. The City of Plymouth switched from CEMS to Huron Valley in 1989, citing long response times by CEMS and the company's use of basic rather than advanced life support units on several occasions.

SEMINAR BACK BY POPULAR DEMAND: A seminar on "Living Trust vs. Wills" at the Northville Senior Center is being repeated due to popular demand.

Topics covered include how to avoid probate, how to reduce taxes to your heirs, advantages of a living trust, the living will, and more. Questions and answers follow.

Financial expert Paul Leduc will lead the session. The seminar is free of charge and will be sponsored by the Northville Senior Center from 1-3 p.m. Tuesday, Feb. 26. The senior center is located at 215 W. Cady St. The seminar is open to all, but reservations are necessary: call 349-4140.

"SENIOR" PROM TO BE HELD AT COOKE: The reopening of Cooke as a middle school displaced a few groups that had been using the building, including Senior Citizens. That fact has not gone unnoticed by school officials and the school's student council who are sponsoring a "senior" prom for area senior citizens.

The free dinner and dance will be held March 27. Any Northville-area senior citizen is welcome to attend the event. Cooke Principal Jeffrey Radwanski expects to be able to accommodate 100 people.

Spaghetti, cooked by teachers and served by students, will be the evening's fare. Entertainment will be provided by a band of the seniors' choice. Salad and dessert will be provided by the school's life skills class.

Doors open at 3:30 p.m. for the event, which runs from 4-6 p.m. Senior citizens and students will be able to mingle and learn about each other, Kohl said. And a video of Cooke students working and playing in their building will be shown during dinner.

Interested Northville-area seniors should contact Karl Peters at 349-4140.

CHAMBER CALENDARS: Want to know what's going on in Northville for the rest of 1991? The Northville Community Chamber of Commerce can help.

The chamber recently compiled its annual listing of events scheduled for the year. The one-page list is available at the chamber office, 195 S. Main St.

ROTISSERIE BASEBALL: The Northville Public Library is organizing a simplified version of the very popular Rotisserie-style baseball leagues which are active nationwide. "General managers" choose or "draft" major league players who they feel will perform well during the coming season.

The deadline for enrollment is April 1, after which the general managers need only sit back and await the results. Different leagues will be formed depending on the number and type of responses received. The action begins on opening day and will continue until the All-Star break on July 9. Standings will be updated and posted in the library each week.

If interested, pick up a general manager's packet and return its entry form to the library by April 1.

LOBBIA ON NEW BOARD: John Lobbia of Northville has been appointed to the board of trustees for the University of Detroit-Mercy.

The 24 members of the newly formed board were among those who served on the outgoing boards of trustees at Mercy College of Detroit and at the University of Detroit. Those two schools recently merged.

Lobbia, who is chair and chief executive officer of Detroit Edison, will serve a four-year term on the board.

CPR CLASS: Star Manor Nursing Home, 520 W. Main St., is offering a CPR class from 1:30-4:30 p.m. and from 6-9 p.m. Wednesday, Feb. 20.

The public is invited to attend. Call Pauline at 349-4290 for more details and registration.

New firm covers wide area

By MIKE TYREE
Staff Writer

The township's new ambulance service will work closely with township emergency medical teams to provide quality care, a company official said Friday.

Huron Valley Ambulance (HVA) last week added Northville Township to its fold of ambulance coverage communities that also includes Plymouth and Plymouth Township.

HVA boasts a 1,000-square-mile coverage area with service to 375,000 residents, said Dale Berry, HVA executive director.

Twenty advanced life support ambulances patrol HVA's territory, which stretches from Grass Lake in Jackson County, to Milan in Monroe County, to Belleville, Plymouth and Northville Township in Wayne County, up to South Lyon in Oakland County, Berry said.

Ann Arbor-based HVA also services all of Washtenaw County, he said.

Key to the company's success include an aversion to "spreading ourselves too thin, too quickly" and working closely with local rescue units, Berry said.

"Basically, we'll be providing two things: response with paramedics and life support equipment and ambulance transportation to a hospital," Berry said. "These two things will be done in conjunction with the township first-responder program."

Two ambulance units based out of Plymouth's Fire Station Two on Spring Street will monitor and handle emergency calls in the 36-square-mile Plymouth/Northville Township area, Berry said.

He said the Plymouth location will provide "a pretty straight shot up Sheldon Road" for emergency calls in Northville Township.

Runs to remote portions of the township—east and west points on Eight Mile Road—should not be a problem, Berry said.

"We provided Northville Township with a survey of our emergency runs and 90 percent are handled within 10 minutes. That's our goal (to continue that rate)," he said.

"We are not coming to Northville Township saying we are the answer to all possible problems," he added. "We're being very up-front with them, because there may be the occasion that (the township) has to transport."

But transport duties have been few and far between in Plymouth Township, Fire Chief Larry Groth said.

"Huron Valley's been here since September and has provided tremendous services, just tremendous," Groth said. "It's been a great turnaround for the community."

"There have been very few times since September that we've had to transport," he said.

HVA's services are not cheap. Emergency treatment and delivery to an area hospital will cost a patient $350-$375, Berry said. Prearranged deliveries—a ride home from the hospital or delivery to a nursing home—are in the $150 range, he said.

Berry also said HVA is a Medicare and Medicaid provider.

HVA is expected to take over ambulance chores from former provider Community Emergency Medical Services on March 15.

Township switches EMS companies

"I can't respond to verbal accusations," he said. "I have to say it's (the change) the first order of business for a new township fire chief."

Rosselle succeeded retired Chief Robert Toms Feb. 1.

Ann Arbor-based Huron Valley Ambulance (HVA) handles all emergency care runs in Washtenaw County, said Dale Berry, company executive director.

HVA's fleet includes 20 advanced life-support ambulances, Berry said. Locally, the firm operates two ambulances out of Plymouth's Fire Station Two on Spring Street, he said.

Those ambulances will work with Northville Township's first-responder units to adequately cover the township, Berry said.

The township fire department operates two ambulance units designed to provide initial treatment and stabilize patients. The first responder program also allows the township to transport patients to hospitals if the primary provider does not reach the scene of an injury or medical emergency within 10 minutes of notification.

The township can also transport in cases of multiple injuries, but the department prefers that its providers transport, leaving township units to operate in the area.

Guardian Industries pays $40-million judgment

In July 1989, Churchill awarded Marville $38 million in damages from Guardian, and assessed Guardian interest payments of $12,500 per day on the award. A U.S. appeals court upheld the judgment last month, which by then had grown to $40.6 million.

Brooks said the final judgment fell between the amount sought by both parties.

"We asked at various times for substantially more... Something on the order of $60 million was the median we were pursuing realistically," he said.

"Their damages calculations were $2.3 million plus interest... they never offered us anything significant in terms of settlement."

Brooks said he and his client are pleased with the award. "As far as I know, Marville's quite satisfied," he said. "It's sort of a war of attrition in the courts, and it's a relief to both parties, I think, when it's over."

Walters agreed that the payment represents the end of the court battle for Guardian, though the company could have appealed the decision again. "There's no sense, really, in continuing this long-standing dispute," he said.

Guardian Industries, whose world headquarters is located on Nine Mile Road, is considered the fourth largest U.S. glassmaker. The corporation produces glass products used in the construction and automotive industry, fiberglass insulation, molded plastic products and oil drilling equipment, at production facilities in the United States, Europe and South America.

Police News

Unpaid tab at bar leads to arrest of the patron

A 33-year-old Livonia man's refusal to pay his bar tab at Sheehan's On The Green, 39450 Five Mile, led to his arrest Feb. 4, township police said.

Police said the man failed to pay his tab and became abusive with the restaurant manager. Police arrived and a computer check revealed the man was wanted on a Wayne County bench warrant for failure to appear in court on a charge of operating a vehicle under the influence of alcohol.

The man was arrested and released to Wayne County Sheriff's officials, police said.

OUIL ARREST: A 40-year-old Farmington Hills man was arrested and charged with operating a vehicle under the influence Feb. 5 at 2:45 a.m., township police said.

The man was arrested on east-bound Seven Mile near Haggerty.

WINDOW BROKEN: The driver's side window of a 1978 Olds Cutlass was broken while the vehicle was parked at 18605 Innsbrook late Feb. 6 or early Feb. 7, township police said.

OUIL: A 21-year-old New Hudson man was arrested and charged with OUIL Feb. 7 at 1:30 a.m., township police said. The man was arrested on Eight Mile near Garfield Road, police said.

PURSE STOLEN: A teacher at Fairlane Assembly, 41335 Six Mile, told township police someone stole her purse from an unlocked closet at the school Feb. 7 between 3:45-4:15 p.m. Cash and credit cards were in the purse, the woman said.

Citizens with information about the above incidents are urged to call Northville City Police at 349-1234 or Northville Township Police at 349-9400.

Sports Briefs

MUSTANG MEDLEY: Northville secured at least a share of its second straight WLAA Western Division swim title on Feb. 14 with a 118-68 road win at Plymouth Canton.

The visiting Mustangs notched nine firsts and broke three Canton pool records enroute to the team's eighth consecutive dual-meet victory.

"I thought it was going to be a little closer, but we swam well," Northville Coach Mark Heiden said. "The kids knew this was for the division title."

Senior standout Eric Newton was involved in all three pool-record efforts, including an individual first-place finish in the 500-yard freestyle event (4:47.76). Newton joined Bob Holdridge, Brad Cook and Matt VanHorn (1:43.29) to establish the new standard in the 200 medley relay, and the foursome came back to repeat the accomplishment in the 200 freestyle relay in a time of 1:32.31.

The other Northville firsts came from Holdridge in the 200 IM (2:06.17) and the 100 breaststroke (1:05.72), Newton in the 50 freestyle (23.14), Larry Osleick in diving (career-best 289.75 points), Cook in the 100 freestyle (50.86), Jim Fee in the 100 backstroke (1:01.31).

Club offers packages for forces overseas

Four Seasons 4-H Horse Club is joining with others in the Northville area in support of Operation Desert Storm. Members are bringing items to their meetings which will be packed into "Care" packages for our service people.

One member said, "It makes us feel that we are helping out in a small way to encourage the guys that are serving our country." Club members also sent an Operation Desert Storm — "United We Stand" — T-shirt from Perrins to a man from Northville.

Since a Northville man received the first package, the club included The Northville Record which talked so much about how the community was backing their service people overseas. The club sent a picture of their members with notes from each of them.

Other community support activities in which the Four Seasons 4-H Horse Club is engaged include collecting Community Support Certificates from Bill Knapp's for the Michigan Humane Society. They also made a financial contribution to the Hooved Animal Humane Society of Woodstock, Ill.

If readers know of local men or women serving in Operation Desert Storm who would like to receive a "Care" package, contact Judy Trexler at 348-8168 or 349-4550.

Sign-up results in call of foul

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

A change in the Recreation Department notice sent out to parents for Junior Baseball and Girls Softball sign-ups, and the little advance warning given for the sign-ups, has some Northville parents steamed.

Northville resident Carol Strauch said she received her notice Thursday, Jan. 31, two days before the first sign-up on Feb. 2. A second sign-up was held Feb. 9.

The form was sent out a month earlier than in the past two years, Strauch said. The form also failed to list the fees for the programs, most of which have gone up $10.

"What's the problem with being up front about what the fees are?" Strauch asked. "I don't see why we couldn't have been notified earlier with the fees listed up front as they have in the past. If there's an increase that substantial, it's nice to know why."

Recreation Director John Anderson said the earlier forms represent a return to previous Recreation Department practice, because of problems setting up the teams in the past two years. "Last year the league experienced some problems getting uniforms in a timely fashion," he said.

The fees have gone up, Anderson said, to allow the commission and individual programs to fund improvements to the future community park on Beck Road between Five Mile and Six Mile. Grading and other work has begun on the site.

"Since we haven't been able to pass a (recreation) millage and since the city and township don't have earmarked monies for recreation development, that's what we've been doing to fund (them)," he said. Two recreation millages have failed in the past two years.

To raise their own money, several Recreation programs have voted to raise fees by $10. The hikes have pushed the cost of T-Ball and 8-Ball to $31.50, H-Ball to $41.50, and Girls Softball to $39, Anderson said.

"Junior Baseball voted to raise the fees so they'd end up with some money to put in some facilities for the community park when that gets going, and for field development," he said. Those facilities may include bleachers and backstops, he said. "The $10 increase will be in the Junior Baseball account and the $1.50 comes to the Recreation Department."

Anderson said the separate $1.50 surcharge, which was placed on all recreation programs including swimming and dancing four years ago, raises about $8,000 a year.

The February notices were actually the second notice sent out to parents, Anderson added. Baseball sign-up times were first listed in the Recreation Department's winter brochure, sent out in early December. "This is a reminder notice that I guess we're late on," he said.

Anderson said that the form of the new forms is not set in stone, either. "That's open for redesign," he said. "This is the first year we went to this (and) we couldn't fit everything on one sheet."

State makes sound decisions on budget

Action on the state level last week brightened the picture for state-owned facilities in Northville Township.

First, a midweek agreement between both the state Senate and House appropriations committees resolved the immediate crisis facing the prisons on Five Mile Road. An agreement transferred $70 million to prevent layoffs of prison workers; 51 people at Scott Correctional Facility and another 68 people at Western Wayne had received layoff notices; the agreement reduces those numbers to 3 and 1.6, respectively. Phoenix Correctional Facility will still close under the agreement, but those workers are expected to be transferred.

That agreement was followed closely by a judicial order halting, at least temporarily, the closure of four state psychiatric institutions. A restraining order puts on hold, among other moves, the planned transfer of more than 100 patients from the Ypsilanti hospital to Northville — which was to be done without an accompanying increase in Northville's staffing. The order came as part of a civil case over the quality of care provided to residents of the four institutions in question. A final resolution to the suit is a ways off yet, but the restraining order is an indication that the Ypsilanti patients may not come to Northville after all.

With a new governor, a shift in power in the Legislature, and a severe state budget crunch, the future of any state institutions — here or elsewhere — is anyone's guess. But where Northville is concerned, the news so far this year has been almost uniformly bad. Last week's developments, temporary though they may be, constituted good news. Let's hope they're a sign of things to come.

Latest Master Plan sets strong course

After a long, hard process, the new City of Northville Master Plan is almost complete. It's a good draft which will serve city planners well in the coming years.

The Planning Commission cited several goals in its new Master Plan, including enhancing the city's historical character, emphasizing its residential character, and maintaining a "human scale" for new development. Though commissioners frequently quarreled on the best way to promote such goals, their discussions resulted in a document acceptable to all.

The commission has been revising the city's official Master Plan for more than two years. It's just about finished; one final review is scheduled for next Tuesday, Feb. 19.

Assuming the commission passes the draft, the city will find itself with a good plan. Problems and glitches in earlier versions were systematically ironed out; most recently, the planners addressed criticisms that the plan suffered from "elitist" leanings.

A massive undertaking like the Master Plan can easily get put aside, but this one didn't. The work is finally done, and the city will be well-served by the result.

New drop-off point needed

I hope everyone was as shocked as I was at the commentary from the Northville School Board last week with regard to the parking problems in front of the Early Childhood Center preschool.

I drive past the offending Main Street spot every day on my way to the office here. I noticed the problem long before Mary Elwart-Keys spoke both city council and board of education meetings the past couple of weeks.

Parents dropping their kids off at the school form motorcades in front of the building every morning. Elwart-Keys and her neighbors take issue with the parents blocking — and in some cases occupying — their driveways, but I have a different beef.

As a motorist, I find driving past the school at drop-off time more frightening than rush hour on glare ice. I slow to a crawl and honk my horn every time I go by.

First off, the preponderance of parents these days are driving minivans. These vehicles are hard to see around, and easy for kids to hide behind before darting into the street.

Remember the good old days when people drove station wagons? At least if a kid was behind an old Country Squire, you could see his head above the hood ornament if you watched through the windows. Driving past a row of minivans in front of the school is like playing Russian roulette.

And if you want to see an exercise in futility, you should see the moms trying to park their offspring-haulers. The perils of parallel parking have befallen the stalwart matriarchs. They take three or four passes to dock their cruisers in a space big enough to fit the Bismarck.

I'd also like to go on the record as saying that the parents who make U-turns in front of this school should not just be ticketed. They should be vaporized.

It goes without saying that there are usually kids darting around the Main Street starting grid (the mothers are usually accompanied by more than one child, as Elwart-Keys pointed out to the board). But the mothers themselves are perhaps the worst offenders in this regard. They walk out into the street like they were stepping out into their own driveways.

The city has done what it could to alleviate the problem. Signs were posted creating 16 streetside parking spaces with a 10-minute time limit. Can somebody explain to me how the police plan to enforce the limit? What are they going to do? Have an officer chalk the tires of the parked vehicles every 10 minutes?

But perhaps the most annoying aspect of this whole issue has been the school system's response to the complaints.

Mary Kay Scullen, a specialist at the preschool, said no more than four cars are scheduled to arrive at the center during any 15-minute period. Well, that may be what it says on paper, but in the real world, I can count six to eight and sometimes more at around 9 a.m.

Then Superintendent George Bell defended the schools' position by saying the parents are responsible for their own children's safety when dropping off and picking up. That's true enough, but the school should be responsible for providing a safe environment for loading and unloading.

As I see it, this is a two-fold problem: the drop-off area is less than adequate, and the parents are failing to exercise the necessary caution on what is sometimes a busy street.

Admittedly Main Street in Northville is not East Jefferson in Detroit, but the potential for harm is there. Tragically, the consequences of not finding an alternate drop-off point could prove fatal.

For Men Only — no kidding

This column is For Men Only. I mean it, too. It's no laughing matter. This is For Men Only.

Which means that if you're not a man, you better stop reading right now. Find something else to read. Go back and read the front page again. Check out the police blotter. The wine column on Page 1-B is interesting.

But stop reading this column, ladies. It's For Men Only. Do not pass this point.

Alright, guys, I think they're gone now. Which means that I can start talking about a phenomenon which has troubled me since I was a kid.

What I'm talking about is the propensity for the female of the species to position herself directly in front of the television set during any and all sporting events. A corollary to my basic theorem is that the frequency of the phenomenon varies in direct proportion to the importance of the game.

You know what I'm talking about? You've worked hard all week to put food on the table and buy clothes for the kids. The weekend has finally arrived. The big game you've been looking forward to all week is on the tube. And just at the crucial moment — just as Vinny squares up with a second left on the clock or Cecil shuffles up to the plate with the bases loaded and two down in the bottom of the ninth — guess who shows up to block the TV screen.

I first observed this behavior as a kid . . . back when my family lived in a small house on Horton Street between Baseline and the Eight Mile cutoff. My brother David and I would be intently watching the Tigers on TV on Saturday afternoon when the screen would suddenly be blocked by our mother and her vacuum cleaner.

The vacuum cleaner was a particularly insidious flourish because it enabled her to remain in front of the screen until the inning was over and Brewster the Goebel Beer Rooster was crowing about whatever it was he used to crow about.

What made the vacuum cleaner even more sinister was the fact that it was designed to create feelings of guilt for watching the game while others were working. You wanted to yell, "Hey, Mom. Get your 38-inch butt away from my 21-inch television set." But you were afraid to do so because you knew she would order you to go out and mow the lawn with Kaline, Cash and Colavito coming to the plate in the bottom of the ninth.

I used to think the "old block the television trick" was peculiar to my mother. But now I'm beginning to wonder because my wife is starting to do the same thing. She managed to block out a key interception during the Michigan-Notre Dame game last September. She did it again during the Michigan-Michigan State game.

And it's getting worse. She's hitting just about every Pistons game. And she manages to break into Red Wing games whenever Probert drops his gloves. She even managed to interrupt the Super Bowl, for crying out loud. Is nothing sacred?

It's possible, I suppose, that my wife learned this technique from my mother . . . some sort of evil, little husband-baiting recipe that's handed down from generation to generation. But my suspicion is that it's far more widespread than that. My suspicion is that it's part of a world-wide feminist conspiracy to confound us men.

I can't prove it. Not yet anyway. But I am doing research and would be interested in any data you might pass along.

We'll have to do this secretly, of course. But as far as I'm concerned, it's a fight worth fighting.

Hacienda covers spectrum well

Wine shops display a plethora of brands, labels and grape varieties from France, Germany, Spain and California. Shopping for wine is easier when you know the name of a full-spectrum winery that you can trust. One name to look for is Hacienda, a small California winery that still remains relatively undiscovered by most of America's wine-consuming public.

Hacienda Winery is in Sonoma County, where Count Agoston Haraszthy, a Hungarian nobleman, first planted vineyards of European grape varieties in 1857. Here, Hacienda handcrafts seven vintage-dated varietals: chardonnay, chenin blanc, sauvignon blanc, gewurztraminer, pinot noir, zinfandel and cabernet sauvignon.

Believing that great wines are grown in the vineyard, winemaker Eric Laumann harvests and ferments each lot of grapes separately. This labor-intensive and time-consuming practice allows the fruit from each vineyard to be evaluated individually for constant improvement in grape selection.

Laumann creates the Hacienda wines with moderate alcohol, a balance of fruit and oak flavor and a subtle beauty that will enhance fine food.

Over a glass of 1989 Hacienda Dry Chenin Blanc we recently had the opportunity of speaking with Bob Cooley, winery representative and national sales manager.

"Chenin Blanc is fresh, fruity and fun," Cooley explained. "This is a rich man's chenin, not a poor man's chardonnay. Chenin blanc is not a second-class citizen compared to chardonnay. This wine showcases ripe California fruit that goes so well with an appetizer of fresh melon wrapped in thinly sliced prosciutto."

Cooley has the right idea. The wine world is filled with tremendous variety, but when selecting wine most consumers request chardonnay or cabernet.

Tasting two vintages (1985 and 1988) of Hacienda Chardonnay side by side was a education in the flavor evolution of white wine. The more mature wine showed toasty oak aromas that were inviting but with less emphasis on fresh fruit. The youthful version was alive with bright, fresh flavors and creamy feel. Our rule of thumb calls for aging most white wine no longer than three to five years past the vintage.

Hacienda Reserve Cabernet Sauvignon is released from the winery six years after the harvest. The current release is the 1984, a wine with three years' barrel age and three years' bottle age. When a Hacienda Cabernet arrives in the marketplace, the consumer can be confident that it is ready to drink. The 1984 exhibits lush fruit, smooth texture and attractive spice.

If you are in the market for a special meritage blend of cabernet sauvignon, merlot and cabernet franc, consider the 1987 Antares from Hacienda. This is connoisseur's wine and needs three more years' aging. This wine bursts with young fruit flavor and rich, structured tannins. As always, our advice is: If you like it, drink it.

When visiting in California wine country, give Hacienda a call at (707)-938-3220 to arrange a personalized winery tour. Visitors are invited to picnic under the oaks surrounding this historic Sonoma landmark or participate in a complimentary wine tasting from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily.

WINE SELECTION OF THE WEEK

1989 Hacienda Chenin Blanc ($9) is a benchmark, dry-style California chenin blanc. Its true-to-type varietal style, quality fruit and resultant charm make it easy to match with food such as shellfish, salads, grilled fish or poultry. According to Madeline Triffon, sommelier at the Rattlesnake Club, this is the best chenin blanc made in California.

Sea Cruisin' in Novi Hilton's theme buffet is a fantasy fiesta

By RICK BYRNE
Copy Editor

Think of it as dinner and a show. Friday evening buffet dinners at the Novi Hilton have taken on a fun, uptempo style with the hotel's newest promotion, dubbed the S.S. Novi Hilton. This mythical cruise ship docks in a new port of call every few weeks, and the menu in the hotel's cafe highlights a selected country's cuisine.

But the theme doesn't end at the buffet line. Servers greet you in the native tongue, decorations capture the atmosphere of the host nation, and you enter via a gangplank at the doorway.

On Jan. 25, the S.S. Novi Hilton put in at a Mexican port. According to Edwin Rios, food and beverage manager at the Hilton, the original plan was to keep the Mexican theme for a month before changing to something else.

"Now we find we're going to have to do it for about seven weeks," said Rios. "We found there was more demand than we expected. We'll keep each new theme for about six or seven weeks."

Diners choose an a la carte appetizer from among Nachos de Queso (corn chips with cheese, jalapeno peppers and other goodies), Queso Flameado (a flaming sausage and cheese dish) and several other selections, including a Mexican salad bar. The main course offers Quesadillas (two tortillas filled with chicken, cheese or shrimp), Enchiladas, a marinated flank steak or a marinated red snapper. Or you can hit the Fajita station — "La Casa Fajita" — a thatched-roof hut serving all the fixings for fajitas, hot and fresh.

Said manager Bonnie Kirschke, "The fajitas are great. You can walk in the hotel and smell them cooking from one end to the other."

Hot sauce, placed on your table when you arrive, comes in three varieties: mild, hot and "volcanic."

"The volcanic uses lots of jalapeno," said Kirschke. "It's almost green in color." Several dessert options are tempting as well, but the requisite stop for most diners is the Cantina. There, one can purchase Corona and Dos Equis beers, a notorious Cancun Kicker or a margarita. In researching the Mexican theme, Rios learned that "you've got to have a good margarita."

And Rios is quick to point out that the Hilton kitchen staff, led by head chef John Silvia, and the floor staff led by Kirschke, really did their homework before putting on the Mexican spread.

"After choosing Mexico, we visited three or four Mexican restaurants," said Rios. "We looked at the menu, and go to go behind the kitchen to learn the preparation

... We made a couple of contacts in Mexican grocery stores so we have authentic Mexican products and preparation methods.

"We would have been shooting in the dark if we'd attempted to teach ourselves. One of our banquet people, his father owns the Old Mexico restaurant (in Livonia). The Old Mexico was a big help to us."

The staff gets into the act with Mexican dress, and some of them have played their roles to the hilt. One staffer likes to work the Fajita station in sombrero, handlebar mustache and a pair of six-shooters holstered at his sides.

Then there's Antonio, a strolling guitarist. A native Mexican, he plays in matching sombrero and costume, and has demonstrated the talented to segue from "La Bamba" to "Twist and Shout" without missing a beat."

Pick a pounda pasta pleasure

Pasta is a mainstay of the Italian diet, especially in Italy where it is eaten at least once and many times twice a day. Pasta is served with a sauce for lunch and in a broth for dinner.

In our own country pasta popularity has risen to new heights. A simple staple, pasta has a long history. The first record of pasta in Italy was in 1279 when it was listed on an estate inventory as a valuable. This challenges the theory that Marco Polo brought pasta from China as it pre-dates his travels by several years.

The first published recipes appear in a 13th-century cookbook and pasta was being made commercially by the 1400s. In the earliest of times pasta was a means of preserving the wheat crop by drying in the sunny, windy coastal breezes. The industry developed rapidly in Naples around the 1800s.

Pasta, which literally means paste, can be divided into two categories — fresh and dried. The notion that fresh pasta is better than dried is erroneous. Comparing the two is likening apples to oranges.

Dried pasta is the traditionally from Southern Italy and is historically made from just flour and water. The best is made from durum wheat/semolina flour. The flour has a high gluten content which improves the strength of the pasta and allows it to cook al dente, tender and firm.

Seminola produces a fast-drying pasta which contains less fat and more proteins and vitamins than fresh pasta. The gluten shields the nutrients from being lost in the cooking water. When purchasing dried pasta look on the label to verify that it is made of durum wheat and semolina flour.

A strong case can be made for the superior quality of Italian pasta mainly because the government imposes regulations that the U.S. doesn't. Additionally, Italian companies are smaller and usually family run which means limited, quality-controlled ingredients and final products.

Fresh pasta is traditionally from Northern Italy and is lighter and richer due to the use of all-purpose flour and eggs. Fresh pasta needs a more delicate sauce because of its lightness. Again, neither is superior to the other. Dried is by far a better value than fresh, is easier to store and has a longer shelf life.

Pasta sizes are as varied as sauces for a particular reason. Long strands are used preferably for tomato sauces and pestos. Short, thick tubular shapes are coupled with robust sauces since it is desirable to have quick contact between spices and the mouth and they require little or no chewing. Short pastas are matched with peas or beans and flat pas-tas are used with cream and cheese sauces.

When cooking pasta use at least one gallon of water per pound of pasta. This will assure the water will return to a boil rapidly after the pasta is added and allow the pasta to have room to float freely. Salt can be added but there is no reason to add oil. Stir occasionally to keep it from sticking.

About 1/4 -pound of pasta per person is usual but allow a bit more for fresh. Cooking time varies: fresh is done almost immediately while dried takes longer. The only sure way to check for doneness is to taste, and remove and drain while it is still firm/tender, or al dente.

Drain in a large colander giving it a few shakes. Do not rinse with water. Toss with the sauce and place on a hot serving platter or plates. Pasta cools very quickly so the hot dishes are a must. Eating pasta fast also helps.

The number of recipes for pasta are endless. It is possible to eat pasta twice a day for a year and never repeat a dish. Many sauces can be made ahead of time and reheated. Making pasta at home is fun and can be a family affair on a dreary afternoon. Let your imagination lead you to meals that are adventurous, nutritious and reasonable to prepare.

PASTA WITH CHICKEN AND PEPPERS

6 large garlic cloves
2 tbsp. olive oil
1 small red onion, thinly sliced
1 yellow or red bell pepper, thinly sliced
2 scallions, cleaned and thinly sliced
1/4 tsp. red pepper flakes
1 1/4 cu. julienne chicken (smoked, if possible)
12 ounces penne (tube pasta)
2 bunches escarole, trimmed and cut into 1-inch ribbons 12 cherry tomatoes, halved salt, pepper, and Parmesan to taste

Roast garlic in a shallow pan, drizzled with 1 tbsp. olive oil for 20 minutes at 400 degrees. Cool. Peel and chop. Heat a large skillet. Add 2 tbsp. olive oil and saute red onion, green onion, bell pepper, and red pepper flakes until crisp and tender. Add chicken and garlic. Set aside. Boil pasta for 6-8 minutes. Add escarole and cook 4-5 minutes. Drain and rinse. Return pasta and escarole to pot. Mix in chicken and vegetables. Season with salt, pepper, and Parmesan.

STUFFED SHELLS FLORENTINE

Simple Tomato Sauce:

1-pound can of tomato puree
8-ounce can of tomato sauce
1 crushed clove of garlic
3 tablespoons of Italian seasoning

Mix together the ingredients for the sauce, set aside.

Stuffing:

5 ounces Parmesan cheese (1 package)
2 pounds low-fat cottage cheese (1 1/2 percent milkfat)

10-ounce package frozen chopped spinach thawed, or 1 pound fresh spinach jumbo macaroni shells (1 package), available at large grocery stores or at stores specializing in Italian foods.

Cook the shells. When they are done, drain them and cover them with cool water. While the shells cook, prepare the stuffing. In a food processor grate (pulverize with the steel blade) the Parmesan cheese, or grate by hand. Put the cheese in a large bowl. Process the cottage cheese in the food processor until it is only slightly grainy. If you do not have a food processor, use ricotta cheese, but it will have more calories. Add the cottage cheese mixture to the cheese in the bowl. Squeeze as much moisture as possible from the spinach. Mix the spinach and cheeses together thoroughly. Drain the shells and stuff with mixture. Place stuffed shells in a large pan or dish and pour the sauce over them evenly. Bake at 350 degrees for 30 to 40 minutes, until bubbly. 70-80 calories per shell with sauce. Makes six servings.

Through demonstrations and theory, participants will learn to plan, organize and execute award winning platters by applying modern techniques.

Theme buffets set sail in Novi

Servers and hosts have learned a few Mexican phrases to guide diners along, though it did take some getting used to.

"We had some of them saying 'adios' when they were supposed to be saying 'welcome,'" Rios said with a laugh. "As the weeks go by they get more comfortable with it."

In fact, the success of this new promotion is a tribute to the enthusiasm of Kirschke and the restaurant staff. Kirschke admits to being a nut for Mexican food, but her favorite contribution is the decorating, which she oversees.

"Our 'energy force' is Bonnie," said Rios. "It's important to have a key player be so energetic... In this room, with the decor and the menu you can feel the energy level. And I think guests can really read it when a staff is involved."

The S.S. Novi Hilton has already drawn a loyal following, which Rios hopes will carry over when the fantasy liner docks in Italy on March 15.

"With the amount that goes into these promotions, they can look questionable when you put pencil to paper," he said. "But I'd rather have a restaurant full of people in an exciting atmosphere than a place that is empty and has nothing."

"People want variety right now. And they want quality at the right price. They want fun types of food — like Mexican — and good basics, but they don't want to pay through the nose for it."

The Italian buffet will continue through April 19, to be followed by April (and most of May) in Paris. June will see an authentic New England Clam Bake.

Top chefs converge on Schoolcraft

Schoolcraft College, home of one of the finest culinary arts schools in the nation, has scheduled its annual chefs seminar on Monday, March 4. The seminar is open to the public and designed to benefit the sophisticated cook or chef who appreciates the value of techniques and tips shared by talented professionals. Teaching in the seminar are professional, successful chefs, all of whom are award winners and several who have brought home prestigious Olympic Medals in culinary competition.

The seminar is open to the public, with registration beginning at 8:30 a.m. and continuing until 4:30 p.m. The seminar will take place in the Culinary Demonstration Lab on the Schoolcraft campus, 18600 Haggerty Road in Livonia.

Eight separate sessions are offered with registrants selecting two in the morning and two in the afternoon. "Taste-testing the wonderful food selection is part of this learning experience," said a Schoolcraft spokesperson. "We find that participants leave this day with renewed enthusiasm for the constantly changing, always exciting world of cooking."

Scheduled to take part in the Chef's Seminar is Edward Janos, certified executive chef from Too Chez in Novi, who will prepare an award-winning marinated duck presentation.

After serving as chef at several high-profile restaurants including The London Chop House, Janos became executive chef at Chez Raphael. The blue ribbon restaurant changed its name to Too Chez in 1990, adopting a more contemporary format.

This year Certified Master Chef, Jeff Gabriel, chef-instructor for Schoolcraft College Culinary Arts School, and captain of the Regional Olympic Team, will discuss and demonstrate food preparation for competition. Chef Gabriel will address food trends and share techniques for winning Olympic competition dishes.

Milos Cihelka, Certified Master Chef from The Golden Mushroom in Southfield, Chef Milos brings his respected knowledge to the seminar with a background of consecutive Grand Prizes with the Michigan Culinary Team, and numerous others which include nine gold medals, two gold cloverleaves and a grand prize from the Frankfurt, Germany, competition.

William Hall, Executive Chef at the newly opened Arriva Italian Ristorante in Warren, will share his special knowledge in preparing "exquisite Italian" foods. Chef Hall will demonstrate dishes from the Tuscany region of Italy where foods have a more gentle flavor and softer touch.

The new Chimayo Restaurant, sister to the popular Pike Street Restaurant in Pontiac, sends its owner/chef Brian Polcyn to the seminar to present Southwest Cuisine at its finest. Another gold and silver medal winner, Chef Polcyn continues to gain recognition as a creative and talented professional.

The authentic English Tea, a traditional ritual becoming more and more popular at restaurants and hotels, and even in the home, is part of the program. Pauline Palazzolo and Chef Leisa Tompkins-Hoffman who oversee High Tea at The Townsend Hotel in Birmingham (where reservations must be made weeks ahead), will direct the presentation. Palazzolo will focus on elegant service and proper tea brewing of traditional English Tea and Chef Leisa will demonstrate and prepare the elegant sandwiches, canapes, mini-pastries, English trifle and tender scones.

The Lark, the five-star restaurant in Farmington, sends its popular Chef Marcus Haight to prepare his imaginative specialties for the seminar. Coming from a background like The Greenbriar, La Maisonette, Le Francals and Le Bec Fin, Chef Haight has built a loyal following in this area the last four years.

Known all over town for his sumptuous desserts (as well as other foods), Chef Peter Loren from Opus One in Detroit will create new contemporary pastries designed especially for the seminar. Chef Loren will share his artful knowledge about component ingredients, innovative techniques and designs, resulting in the popular dessert selections he serves in this restaurant.

Registration is now being taken for the 1991 Chef's Seminar with a descriptive brochure available by calling Schoolcraft College, 462-4448. Price for the seminar is $150, including luncheon. Space is limited and interested persons are urged to reserve space as soon as possible.

This tree died of a heart attack.

Carving hearts on trees seems harmless enough.

But the fact is, it cut short the life of this majestic oak.

By gouging into the bark, vandals crippled the tree's vascular system. So, like thousands of other innocent victims each year, the tree slowly died.

But the fight against vandalism is gathering strength from the example of Lynn Brauer and Carol Eichling.

When vandals girdled a 300 year old Chinquapin Oak near their Marthasville, Missouri home, they wrapped the wound in sphagnum moss and tended the tree daily, despite blizzard conditions.

If not for the severe winter, arborists feel the Chinquapin might have survived.

We believe miracles can take root. When people care enough.

Give a hoot.
Don't pollute.

Cable Comments

By LARK L. SAMOUELIAN
Executive Director,
SW Oakland Cable Comm.

Creating a Scene for television has more to do with your imagination than it does with money.

In one of our fall community newsletters for cable TV, I wrote about the advent of the 'remote' control and how important it is to our television environment. Convenience, spontaneity and options are key components. Leaning on the eye-hand motor skills means all of us in TV land are up against stiff competition.

The illusions we create through our set designs trigger instant curiosity or boredom for our shows. My philosophy is that we need not be concerned about the dollars behind the other alternative channels, but the 'picture seen' in comparison to our shows. Cable Companies have created teaching materials to help aid in simple, imaginative instruction to local producers. For example, MetroVision corporate, regional and local production staff have updated their instruction manuals into a book of 77 pages entitled, "More Than Just Television."

Back in the late 70's and early 80's we all began producing local TV by the seat of our pants. I remember my first series which hosted about 30 shows entitled, "Around Town with Lark Samouelian." It was telecast throughout the Omnicom franchised areas. Always a decorator at heart, I was thrilled to have the opportunity to create a base of a seven foot high antique Oak Pier Mirror of my Great-Grandfather Rogers. In stead of the 4'x5' mirror, I placed thickly gathered cream sheared curtains which created a lush draped look. I painted two blond oak chairs black and upholstered the seats with black and rose floral fabric. I added a variety of end tables suitable for my guest's props. To lend a unique touch each week 'Sparrs Florist' provided a large fresh floral arrangement which I would give to my guests as a thank you. (Sparr's name and location appeared in the credits of the show which ran everytime and everywhere the show was seen on TV).

Even as I describe this set my senses ring of pleasant visuals. And yet it did not work on TV. Everytime I watched the show I wondered why the viewer didn't get the same effect.

It was because all my props (furniture) were taller than wider! A television screen is ASPECT RATIO...this means that "regardless of the size of a TV screen its' aspect ratio is always 3 units tall to 4 units wide." Your set plans and traffic pattern plans must take this dimensional fact into serious consideration! You see my beautiful family heirloom was much taller than the TV screen and the width was too narrow. This left the camera angles shooting my guests and myself with only a plain wall in the background and the primary set could be seen only when a distant cover shot was used.

Kind of amazing how the

I have been impressed with a group of regulars on our local channel. They captivate the fun and creative visuals through stage productions. The Novi 'Skits-O-Frantic Players' formed in 1982. In recent years they carried their performances to television so that those who could not come to the shows could enjoy them from their home. Novi Public Information Officer Cindy Stewart and Senior Center Director Kathy Crawford are eager for you to watch and join in the fun. The goal of the group is to make people laugh, especially seniors. For a brief moment they will take their minds off their problems, laugh and be happy. Both, those performing and those watching in the audience. Making fun of things they can relate such as: loss of Memory, Treatment by Family or Physical Ailments. "Laughter with a purpose."

Some leaders are Larry Keys, Chuck Burke, Shirley Comp and Aimee Lanford. Their ages range from 65 to 86 years old. They put on two shows a year in the spring and fall and a potluck dinner goes along with the entertainment. With a current membership of twenty, they are delighted to think that more of us will join them.

Most of the performances are Slap Stick. Singing, Dance and Variety Shows are also incorporated. Past Performances video taped were: "A Touch of Class," "Good Old Summertime," "Mister Senior America Pageant," "Fall Frenzy" and "June Is

NBC brings back show with 'Down Home' flair

Co-stars Judith Ivey, Ray Baker glad to return

By Mary Ann Townsend

Like many TV shows of late, NBC's "Down Home" has been on-again, off-again. This week the comedy is on-again when it makes its season premiere Thursday and takes a regular time slot Saturday.

The show centers around a Texas Gulf Coast cafe/bait shop about to buckle under to urban-oriented developers, but not if Kate McCrorey has anything to do with it.

Renowned stage actress Judith Ivey makes her foray into series television as Kate, a woman in her mid-30s who is struggling with her values, trying to balance career advancement with the importance of family. She puts her high-dollar, fast-paced New York City career on hold and returns to her small Texas hometown to keep her family home and business from being bought out.

The original six episodes of "Down Home" first aired in the spring of 1990, then the cast was asked to take a hiatus. NBC liked what it saw, however, and retained the cast to continue production last fall. Now "Down Home" is a mid-season replacement for "The Fanelli Boys," which itself is on hiatus and being considered for a return next season.

Ivey is an established screen and stage actress, having appeared in nearly 20 feature films and on Broadway for 10 years, receiving two Tony and Drama Desk Awards in the process. She admits the commitment to making a series was a bit frightening.

"It meant giving up something," she said, "but it also means...looking forward and learning about a medium I've never done...It's an adventure. That ought to be good for a couple of years, if people watch it, just for me to learn about it."

For Ivey's co-star Ray Baker, the return of "Down Home" was doubly exciting. He's glad the show's back because he thinks it is a good one and also because he'll still be getting a paycheck. That's especially important now since his wife, actress Pat Richardson, had twins — a girl and a boy named Roxanne and Joseph — Jan 3.

Baker plays the obnoxious real estate developer and Kate's former boyfriend, who is trying to buy the McCrorey's cafe. For Baker, who has played mainly serious roles on stage and screen, "Down Home" is an adventure into comedy.

"This is just a lot more lighthearted and a chance for me to get laughs, which is great. So that's unique," Baker said of liking his role. "Another thing is that this is a character that a lot of bad things happen to, and you love it. You like seeing bad things happen to this guy, and they do, every week. And that's a lot of fun, to sort of get pie in the face every week."

Ivey said as an actress she is attracted to roles that have something similar to her own in personality. She identifies with her "Down Home" character's perseverance and determination. "I don't take no for an answer, and I consider myself an independent person. I think I'm imaginative and creative and feisty and probably say too much for my own good sometimes, and therefore, cause trouble. And she's definitely going to do that."

Cable Comments

By LARK L. SAMOUELIAN
Executive Director,
SW Oakland Cable Comm.

Creating a Scene for television has more to do with your imagination than it does with money.

In one of our fall community newsletters for cable TV, I wrote about the advent of the 'remote' control and how important it is to our television environment. Convenience, spontaneity and options are key components. Leaning on the eye-hand motor skills means all of us in TV land are up against stiff competition.

The illusions we create through our set designs trigger instant curiosity or boredom for our shows. My philosophy is that we need not be concerned about the dollars behind the other alternative channels, but the 'picture seen' in comparison to our shows. Cable Companies have created teaching materials to help aid in simple, imaginative instruction to local producers. For example, MetroVision corporate, regional and local production staff have updated their instruction manuals into a book of 77 pages entitled, "More Than Just Television."

Back in the late 70's and early 80's we all began producing local TV by the seat of our pants. I remember my first series which hosted about 30 shows entitled, "Around Town with Lark Samouelian." It was telecast throughout the Omnicom franchised areas. Always a decorator at heart, I was thrilled to have the opportunity to create a fascinating set. A decade down the road, I now shudder at my set design attempts. (Thank goodness the content was fun and lively) because I had great ideas but little basic TV knowledge. In the studio I thought the set was gorgeous and intriguing. It was on a carpeted riser about ten inches high. The backdrop was the frame and book drawer base of a seven foot high antique Oak Pier Mirror of my Great-Grandfather Rogers. In stead of the 4'x5' mirror, I placed thickly gathered cream sheared curtains which created a lush draped look. I painted two blond oak chairs black and upholstered the seats with black and rose floral fabric. I added a variety of end tables suitable for my guest's props. To lend a unique touch each week 'Sparrs Florist' provided a large fresh floral arrangement which I would give to my guests as a thank you. (Sparr's name and location appeared in the credits of the show which ran everytime and everywhere the show was seen on TV).

Even as I describe this set my senses ring of pleasant visuals. And yet it did not work on TV. Everytime I watched the show I wondered why the viewer didn't get the same effect.

It was because all my props (furniture) were taller than wider! A television screen is ASPECT RATIO...this means that "regardless of the size of a TV screen its' aspect ratio is always 3 units tall to 4 units wide." Your set plans and traffic pattern plans must take this dimensional fact into serious consideration! You see my beautiful family heirloom was much taller than the TV screen and the width was too narrow. This left the camera angles shooting my guests and myself with only a plain wall in the background and the primary set could be seen only when a distant cover shot was used.

Kind of amazing how the camera could always make my body look wider and yet didn't do a thing for the furniture! Anyway.....As the text teaches "All scenery used in a cable production should be designed for the camera." The director should practice expected camera shots with each of the camera people to anticipate visual casualties and resolve them before taping!

I have been impressed with a group of regulars on our local channel. They captivate the fun and creative visuals through stage productions. The Novi 'Skits-O-Frantic Players' formed in 1982. In recent years they carried their performances to television so that those who could not come to the shows could enjoy them from their home. Novi Public Information Officer Cindy Stewart and Senior Center Director Kathy Crawford are eager for you to watch and join in the fun. The goal of the group is to make people laugh, especially seniors. For a brief moment they will take their minds off their problems, laugh and be happy. Both, those performing and those watching in the audience. Making fun of things they can relate such as: loss of Memory, Treatment by Family or Physical Ailments. "Laughter with a purpose."

Some leaders are Larry Keys, Chuck Burke, Shirley Comp and Aimee Lanford. Their ages range from 65 to 86 years old. They put on two shows a year in the spring and fall and a potluck dinner goes along with the entertainment. With a current membership of twenty, they are delighted to think that more of us will join them.

Most of the performances are Slap Stick. Singing, Dance and Variety Shows are also incorporated. Past Performances video taped were: "A Touch of Class," "Good Old Summertime," "Mister Senior America Pageant," "Fall Frenzy" and "June Is Busting Out All Over."

The most recent performance was written by Larry Keys, "Ham-A-Lot."

Each time it has been on during the day my ears draw me to the TV. Then I am drawn to the animated actors and actresses and colorful closeups of the play. THEY ARE INDEED UNDERSTANDING THE VISUAL INTENT OF TV!

Co-stars Judith Ivey, Ray Baker glad to return

By Mary Ann Townsend

Like many TV shows of late, NBC's "Down Home" has been on-again, off-again. This week the comedy is on-again when it makes its season premiere Thursday and takes a regular time slot Saturday.

The show centers around a Texas Gulf Coast cafe/bait shop about to buckle under to urban-oriented developers, but not if Kate McCrorey has anything to do with it.

Renowned stage actress Judith Ivey makes her foray into series television as Kate, a woman in her mid-30s who is struggling with her values, trying to balance career advancement with the importance of family. She puts her high-dollar, fast-paced New York City career on hold and returns to her small Texas hometown to keep her family home and business from being bought out.

The original six episodes of "Down Home" first aired in the spring of 1990, then the cast was asked to take a hiatus. NBC liked what it saw, however, and retained the cast to continue production last fall. Now "Down Home" is a mid-season replacement for "The Fanelli Boys," which itself is on hiatus and being considered for a return next season.

Ivey is an established screen and stage actress, having appeared in nearly 20 feature films and on Broadway for 10 years, receiving two Tony and Drama Desk Awards in the process. She admits the commitment to making a series was a bit frightening.

"It meant giving up something," she said, "but it also means...looking forward and learning about a medium I've never done...It's an adventure. That ought to be good for a couple of years, if people watch it, just for me to learn about it."

For Ivey's co-star Ray Baker, the return of "Down Home" was doubly exciting. He's glad the show's back because he thinks it is a good one and also because he'll still be getting a paycheck. That's especially important now since his wife, actress Pat Richardson, had twins — a girl and a boy named Roxanne and Joseph — Jan 3.

Baker plays the obnoxious real estate developer and Kate's former boyfriend, who is trying to buy the McCrorey's cafe. For Baker, who has played mainly serious roles on stage and screen, "Down Home" is an adventure into comedy.

"This is just a lot more lighthearted and a chance for me to get laughs, which is great. So that's unique," Baker said of liking his role. "Another thing is that this is a character that a lot of bad things happen to, and you love it. You like seeing bad things happen to this guy, and they do, every week. And that's a lot of fun, to sort of get pie in the face every week."

Ivey said as an actress she is attracted to roles that have something similar to her own in personality. She identifies with her "Down Home" character's perseverance and determination. "I don't take no for an answer, and I consider myself an independent person. I think I'm imaginative and creative and feisty and probably say too much for my own good sometimes, and therefore, cause trouble. And she's definitely going to do that."

FAMILY FARE

CBS takes a look at TV's classics

By Amy Schmidt

All in the Family, The Mary Tyler Moore Show and The Ed Sullivan Show were three of the best programs ever to air on American television. They were the kind of programs you weren't afraid to let your kids watch — the kind of programs to which the whole family sat down faithfully every week with a bowl of popcorn and tuned in.

Feb. 16, 17 and 18, many of the cast members of these three shows will reunite for a very special look back at classic television on CBS. Feb. 16 marked the 20th anniversary of All in the Family, which starred Carroll O'Connor, Jean Stapleton, Rob Reiner and Sally Struthers. Initially rejected by TV executives, All in the Family finally premiered on Jan. 12, 1971, and lasted seven years.

Carol Burnett will host The Very Best of the Ed Sullivan Show, Sunday, Feb. 17. Film clips of celebrities who have appeared on the show during the course of its 23-year run will include Elvis Presley, The Beatles, Jackie Gleason, Pearl Bailey, The Rolling Stones, Lucille Ball and Desi Arnaz, and George Burns and Gracie Allen.

Finally, Monday, Feb. 18, Mary Tyler Moore will join Ed Asner, Valerie Harper, Betty White and Gavin McLeod for Mary Tyler Moore: The 20th Anniversary Special. The original show aired September 1970 and continued until 1977.

Grammy Awards to be given for 33rd consecutive year

M.C. Hammer could dance away with two awards

By Anne Wheeler

Top rap musician M.C. Hammer, who danced away with five American Music Awards last month, is among the multiple nominees in The 33rd Annual Grammy Awards, set to air Wednesday, Feb. 20, on CBS.

The Grammys, considered the most prestigious awards in the recording field, are given for artistic or technical achievement, not for sales figures or chart positions. Winners, in effect, are selected by their peers. Comedian Garry Shandling will serve as host of the awards for the second year.

With two nominations, Hammer joins Phil Collins and Mariah Carey as nominees for both Record of the Year and Album of the Year honors. Collins and Carey are tied for top nominee, with five each, while new group Wilson Phillips is right behind with four.

Carey and Wilson Phillips are among the best new artist nominees. Others include The Black Crowes, Lisa Stansfield and The Kentucky HeadHunters, who won favorite new country artist at the AMA Awards.

Best song awards go to the songwriters rather than the singers. In the world of country music, best song nominees include K.T. Oslin, Rory Michael Bourke and Charlie Black's "Come Next Monday," Tony Arata's "The Dance," DeWayne Blackwell and Earl Bud Lee's "Friends in Low Places," Vince Gill and Tim Dubois' "When I Call Your Name," and John Vesner and Don Henry's "Where've You Been."

Best song nominees in the pop category include Collins' "Another Day in Paradise," Julie Gold's "From a Distance," Chynna Phillips, Glen Ballard and Carnie Wilson's "Hold On," Prince's "Nothing Compares 2 U," and Mariah Carey and Ben Margulies' "Vision of Love."

Nominations for Grammys are made through the secret balloting of the more than 6,000 members of the National Academy of Recording Arts & Sciences (NARAS). The group consists of singers, musicians, conductors, producers, composers, engineers and others who have contributed creatively to recordings.

CROSSWORD PUZZLE

SOAP TALK

Bradley Carlton's story will likely drag on a while

By Candace Havens

Dear Candace: On The Young and the Restless, why doesn't Bradley Carlton fly to Las Vegas and find out about his marriage? He's supposed to be such a bright person, why hasn't he thought about that? —Thank you, Mrs. D.M. Screder, Stillwater, Minn.

Dear Mrs. Screder: If Bradley were to find out the truth so soon, it would be a definite end to the storyline, and the writers won't let that happen. True to the Y&R format, the Brad-Cassandra-Traci storyline has to last so long that we just become sick of it, or used to it.

Dear Candace: Don't the writers remember on Y&R that Leanna was married to Psychiatrist Stephen Lasiter, Ashley's former husband, who was killed? The storyline now is that she was a virgin before she married Victor and has only had sex with two men.

And why doesn't someone look into David's past — Catherine, Jill, Cricket or Danny — just someone? —Thanks, Vicky Veselenak, Byesville, Ohio

Dear Vicky: Leanna was never really married to Stephen. She fantasized about him incessantly and tried to kill him when he put off her advances. Supposedly, she was a virgin when she married Victor, but who knows, that story could change tomorrow. I'd say from the looks of things David's time is up, one way or another.

Dear Candace: I watch the soap opera Days of Our Lives and love Patsy Pease. She is a wonderful actress and so pretty. I'm so glad she is back on the program, and I hope she never leaves the soap again. Also, is Mike Horton ever going to be on Days of Our Lives again? —Thanks, A Soap Opera Watcher

Dear Soap Watcher: Michael Weiss is now on NBC's Dark Shadows, shown on Friday evenings. With actors you can never say never, but it is doubtful he will return to the soap any time soon. You are not alone in your excitement about the return of Pease. Several readers have written to say how happy they are that she is back.

I want to hear from you! If you have a favorite soap scenario you would like to sound off about, or a question about the soaps, write to Candace Havens, Soap Talk, P.O. Box 17748, Fort Worth, TX 76102-0748.

STAR NOTES

Sarah Jessica Parker multi-talented actress

By Christy Bergslien

The attractive blue-eyed blonde actress who plays JoAnn Harris on ABC's new law and order drama Equal Justice is Sarah Jessica Parker.

Parker is among the lucky few who have made the transition from child actor to adult actor. One of eight children, Sarah grew up in Ohio, where she studied ballet with the Cincinnati Ballet Company. She made her professional debut in a television production of The Little Match Girl.

Her other credits as a youngster include theater roles in The Sound of Music and the hit musical Annie. In 1978 she joined the Broadway cast of Annie and later assumed the lead. Parker also sang with the Metropolitan Opera Company for two years and studied with the American Ballet Theater.

Parker's television credits include starring roles on the series Square Pegs and A Year in the Life, and the TV movies My Body, My Child, starring Vanessa Redgrave, The Ryan White Story, Pursuit and Dadah Is Death. She also appeared in the theatrical films Footloose, Rich Kids, Girls Just Want to Have Fun and Flight of the Navigator.

Off-screen she is active in the American Civil Liberties Union and the Hollywood Women's Political Committee.

Multi-talented, the actress is, most certainly, not just another pretty face.
