Walters fills Plymouth vacancy

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

Perhaps hoping the third time will be the charm, Plymouth officials are asking Northville City Manager Steven Walters to consider becoming that city's new manager.

The Plymouth City Commission agreed Monday to give Walters an inside track on the position being vacated by former Battle Creek City Manager Gordon Jaeger on May 1.

Walters was asked to be one of two final candidates for the position last year, but Plymouth officials gave the job to Jaeger in April after deciding Walters' asking salary was too high.

Walters also was asked to consider the position in 1981, but he declined. He served as Plymouth's assistant city manager between 1967-1970.

Walters said Tuesday that he has not decided whether he will pursue Plymouth's offer this time.

"I will sincerely discuss it with them, but I haven't even really started doing that with them yet," he said.

"I only know that I'm going to have to say 'yes' or 'no' based on last night's action. Which is OK. It never hurts to be asked.

The Northville city manager cited several concerns about the Plymouth position last year, including the rule requiring that Plymouth department heads live in that city, the city's problems paying for refuse disposal, and several outstanding legal actions involving the city. He was uncertain on Tuesday whether all those concerns still applied.

"I haven't even really looked at it yet," he said. "Gordon Jaeger's been there a year and the situation has improved. Some of their political problems have been dealt with."

Whatever Walters' response, he predicted it would come within the next month.

"I would think 30 days would settle it one way or another," he said.

Plymouth Mayor Pro Tem Ralph (Jack) Kenyon said his city's next move will be to call a public meeting on Walters' potential candidacy. That meeting should be called within the next week, he said.

The meeting will give commissioners a chance to ask Walters about his personal objectives and obtain public feedback on his candidacy.

"If all goes well," Kenyon said, "there would be a resolution directing somebody, probably the mayor, maybe me, maybe several commissioners, to sit down with Steve and work out a potential contract."

Kenyon was uncertain whether Walters' asking salary would derail this year's negotiations between the manager and Plymouth.

"We haven't even talked numbers yet, so I don't even know," he said.

The Plymouth commission agreed to search for a new full-time manager despite Jaeger's offer to stay on part-time.

Describing Jaeger as a "wonderfully capable manager," Kenyon said, "My feeling about a manager is he has to make the store run and he's perfectly capable of running the store... but it isn't good politics to have a part-time manager."

"The consensus was that we really should have a full-time manager."

Kenyon said Plymouth city commissioners valued Walters' ties to local communities, and his interest in shared services. Walters is currently overseeing a consolidation of Northville police dispatching services with Northville Township Manager Richard Henningson.

"One of the big advantages of Steve is that he has an existing working relationship with community leaders in the area," Kenyon said. "Steve already has experience in that area (shared services) and has cited a willingness to do that."

Plymouth Mayor Dennis Bila said Walters was given first shot at the position because of the city's previous interest in him, and the fact that Walters completed the city's screening process. "If he's interested in being a candidate, then we would consider him the sole candidate for the time being," Bila said.

Bila also cited Walters' familiarity with the community as a factor in the commission's decision. "He's close to our community, we have some problems, and he knows them," he said. "He's one candidate that could start the job running."

But Bila admitted that salary still may be a problem. "That may well be a sticking point again," he said.

"I'm sure the commission will at some point establish a salary range, although they haven't done it at this time... There is a maximum that the City of Plymouth can pay."

Northville officials gave Walters a 9-percent raise last year, bringing his annual salary to $60,580. The raise included the general 6-percent increase approved for all administrative personnel and a 3-percent merit increase.

Assessments up in township

By MIKE TYREE
Staff Writer

Little mystery marked last week's annual rendezvous between township residents and their assessment notices.

In fact, it's much the same old story — assessment rates and collective residential blood pressure are on the rise.

Townshipwide assessments came in at an average 5.7 percent increase over last year's figures, and slightly less than earlier Wayne County estimates, said Nancy Molloy, township administrative assistant to the treasurer.

Actual increases varied from a half-percent to 7.5 percent in township subdivisions, Molloy said.

And as expected, township personnel busied themselves fielding requests for appointments with the Board of Review.

More than 130 appointments for six scheduled Board of Review dates had been set by Tuesday afternoon, township officials said. Additional dates will be set as needed, officials said.

This year's increase compares with an average 13.5-percent increase in 1990 and average 17-percent increases in 1989.

Township assessors are required to determine a property's fair market value by setting a price which would be obtained at a non-forced or non-auction sale, Molloy said.

The assessed figure is then halved to determine the state equalized val-

Assessment review process questioned

Lee Haller has a problem with this whole assessment business.

Like many other township residents, Haller thinks his property is overassessed. Last year, he even convinced the township Board of Review to agree with him.

The board cut his assessment figure and Haller claimed a measure of victory.

His win was short-lived, however. Now, Haller can't figure out why he's readying another assessment defense.

Haller said he appealed last year's figure on his house because he said the home was "severely over-assessed." He won, but the assessment notice he received last week was based on last year's pre-adjusted figure — with an increase for this year, to boot.

Haller wonders why residents must "knock themselves out each year" justifying their cases before the Board of Review.

He also wonders why the figure can't be based on the amount determined by the Board of Review.

Good question. Why can't it?

"That's the way the law is written," said Nancy Molloy, township administrative assistant to the treasurer.

"Any Board of Review or Michigan Tax Tribunal decision is only good for one year."

Wild party takes its toll on family

By MIKE TYREE
Staff Writer

Workers trooped through Jim and Kathy's home Monday with the same mechanical diligence they had displayed the past week.

Crews removed electrical outlet covers and fixtures as they readied the walls of the home for a new — and badly needed — coat of paint.

Already workers had slapped plaster over a hole in one of the walls. New carpet for the entire house would come later.

Decisions on damaged crystal, a 50-inch television, bedding and a host of other nicked, scraped and splattered items would lie with an insurance company, but a week after the parents returned from vacation, their home in an affluent Northville Township subdivision was well on its way to repair.

But for the family, the healing will take longer, and surely will be more painful.

Jim and Kathy are not their real names. Names aren't vital to this story. What is important — what for now is lost — is trust, and that hurts the parents more than home damages estimated at over $42,000.

The parents hope their story will prevent similar tales of hurt and estrangement between teenagers and their parents.

vacation Feb. 25 with their 16-year-old daughter in tow. The daughter, an honors student at an area private school, had been placed with a relative while Jim and Kathy were away.

The parents left express directions that the daughter was not to use their home. She was not given a key or garage door opener. The message seemed clear: Stay at relatives until we get home.

The daughter simply had other plans. Party plans.

When Jim and Kathy pulled into their driveway, the daughter took a long walk. She may have contemplated not returning.

The parents opened their front door to chaos, devastation, destruction.

littered the floor. Bottles too were strewn with reckless abandon. Cigarette butts were everywhere; their embers had pockmarked expensive carpeting in every room.

Each step painted a more horrifying picture. A hole in a wall. Vomit in pricey crystal vases. Alcohol and vomit stains on carpeting, walls and bedding.

In every room, each glance of disbelief revealed debris from a hastily planned, poorly conceived and out-of-control party hosted by their daughter the previous Friday.

The couple soon discovered other, more troubling intrusions. Partygoers helped themselves to Kathy's jewelry and sifted through her ling-

Drug use down, speaker says

By SUZANNE HOLLYER
Staff Writer

About 100 Northville parents and school district staff members heard the good and bad news about the war on drugs from a 30-year veteran of the fight.

The good news is drug use has been decreasing since 1978. The bad news is the "war on drugs" has never been more than political rhetoric. Hugh Shanahan, a 30-year veteran of the law enforcement field, was the man who brought the news to Northville.

Shanahan spoke at Northville High School to kick off Red Ribbon Week.

Red Ribbon Week is a local event to focus community attention on drug and alcohol abuse. The week's activities are sponsored by Northville schools and PTAs, Northville Action Council and local Students Against Driving Drunk chapters.

Shanahan came as an expert to discuss the problem of substance abuse as he sees it. He began by warning the audience of his "tainted" perspective.

"I stand somewhere to the right of Brooks Patterson and Ollie North," he said.

Shanahan currently is a lecturer and teacher. He has worked in law enforcement as a federal narcotics agent and a Detroit officer assigned to the Organized Crime Drug Enforcement Task Force.

The war on drugs only will be won if it is fought like the U.S. fought the war in the Persian Gulf, Shanahan said.

But even then, most people alive today will not live to see the war won.

"We're Americans. We want a decisive victory in 50 days or less," Shanahan said. "We want it right, by God, now."

Shanahan brought statistics to his Northville listeners including one that says half of U.S. cocaine use is done in places like Northville. The other half is done in places like Detroit, where cocaine users smoke an inexpensive, rock-like version of the drug known as crack.

But the real culprits in the area of substance abuse are tobacco and alcohol, Shanahan said.

Alcohol is involved in 70 percent of violent acts perpetrated against children. Alcohol also is involved in one-half of the murders and one-third of the suicides in this country, he said.

But is prohibition of alcohol the answer? Shanahan seemed to think it may be.

"At that point (during prohibition in the early part of this century), we had the smallest number of alcoholics in the country," he said.

"Alcohol in the community is a far greater tragedy than cocaine ever was or ever will be."

But Shanahan said legalization and the common usage of alcohol and tobacco make the two substances less interesting in speeches like his own.

"What you really want to hear about is cocaine," he said.

"(You want me to) stop this talk about alcohol and tobacco so (you) can get out to the coffee break and have a cigarette. (You) want to get out and have a martini on the way home."

For those interested in substances other than alcohol and tobacco, Shanahan had a warning.

"Heroin is going to come back," he said. "If smoking it becomes popular like it did with cocaine, you will have an epidemic on your hands never before seen."

Those interested in doing their part to prevent the spread of heroin use or the abuse of any other substance should continue working on events like Red Ribbon Week. Events that promote awareness help improve the value system which could have the power to decrease the demand for drugs.

Shanahan also put in his endorsement for substance-abuse-awareness techniques used in the Michigan Model for Comprehensive School Health Education.

The model is a series of lesson plans that can be used to fill a state requirement that every school district have a health curriculum. Controversy has arisen in Northville and elsewhere over some exercises.

Northville Assistant Superintendent for Instructional Services Dolly McMaster joked that Shanahan's endorsement of the model was unsolicited.

"I came as an expert to reaffirm you are doing the right thing, and you are," Shanahan said.

Shanahan was brought to Northville because he holds nothing back when discussing substance abuse, said Roxanne Casterline, a Northville Action Council organizer of the event.

But it is the information he brings that scares her as a parent, Casterline said.

"As a parent, some of this frightens me because he's a little too straightforward," she said.

The $7 dessert and dinner event was a fund-raiser for the Northville Action Council. Northville Action Council member Ette Ann Hirth donated 30 pies that were served following Shanahan's presentation.

Truck stolen from city lot

A 1986 Ford Bronco valued at $10,000 was reported stolen from the city parking lot south of the Main-Centre and MAGS buildings March 3. The Bronco, described as two-tone grey with running boards, was stolen sometime between 5:30-9:20 p.m.

FELONIOUS ASSAULT REPORTED: City police are investigating a reported knife assault in living quarters at Northville Downs Feb. 27. According to city police reports, a couple living at Northville Downs began fighting about 8 p.m.

The 29-year-old woman reportedly told police she grabbed a knife to defend herself when her 38-year-old companion would not let her leave a friend's room. The man reportedly told police he was going to "beat the witch up" when she grabbed the knife and swung it at him. He said he hit her several times on the wrist with a broom until she dropped the knife. City rescue personnel treated the woman for injuries but the man refused treatment for cuts on his arm.

The two refused to sign complaints against each other.

LARCENY FROM MOTOR VEHICLE: A Ferndale woman told city police someone stole a purse containing her driver's license, credit cards and $350 in cash from her car March 1. The car was parked on a vacant South Center Street lot between 9:30-11:30 p.m. A city police officer had placed a parking ticket on it at 10:05 p.m. and reported the car had not been broken into at that time. The woman was unsure if she had locked the car before the theft. She later found the purse — minus the cash — on the front porch of her home.

FENDER-BENDERS: City police reported two accidents last week. On March 1 at 4:22 p.m., a Northville woman drove into the back of the Mobil station on Eight Mile Road. She said the accelerator pedal stuck as she was leaving the Northville Wine Shoppe next door, and she lost control of the car. She was hospitalized and her car was impounded.

Two days later, a Plymouth man driving north on Center Street just south of Eight Mile struck the car ahead of him at 2:09 p.m. The man was unable to stop due to ice on the road. No citations were issued.

AUTO THEFT: A Novi man told township police someone stole his 1991 Chevrolet truck while it was parked in the lot at Meijer, 20401 Haggerty, Feb. 25 between 5:40-5:55 p.m.

Detroit police located the vehicle the next day near the corner of Manfield and Plymouth. Police said the vehicle was stripped. The vehicle's dashboard and steering column were damaged and the seat, doors, fenders, grill, hood, radiator, tailgate and radio were missing.

The man told police he had owned the truck a month. The vehicle was valued at $16,000.

THEFT REPORTED AT BUSINESS: The owners of Conroy Landscaping, 16525 Ridge Road, told township police someone entered their business sometime between Feb. 22-25 and stole more than $2,000 in landscaping tools and equipment. Police said the thieves entered the building by peeling the aluminum siding off a west wall.

OUIL: A 49-year-old Plymouth man was arrested and charged with driving under the influence of alcohol Feb. 28 while driving southbound on Haggerty south of Six Mile, township police said.

GAS STOLEN: An attendant at Sunoco, 39950 Five Mile, told township police a young male dressed in blue jeans, a baseball cap and a dark-colored jacket drove away from a self-service island without paying for $6 in gas he had pumped into a Chevrolet Chevette. The station employee said the man drove north on Haggerty after leaving the station.

WINDOW SHATTERED: An Althea Court resident told township police that someone shattered a window pane at the home Feb. 27 between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. No entry was gained, police said. The window was valued at $40.

CASH, CREDIT CARDS STOLEN: An employee of Tanger Elementary, 40260 Five Mile, told township police a wallet containing credit cards and cash were stolen from a drawer at the school Feb. 27 sometime between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m.

Police are looking for a male suspect who was seen in the school that day. The man is described as

Injury accident

A 38-year-old Wixom man was taken to St. Mary Hospital in Livonia for treatment of head injuries Monday after he was involved in a three-car collision near the Eight Mile/Haggerty intersection. Northville Township police said the man tried to exit the Meijer store at that corner onto Haggerty and was struck broadside by a southbound vehicle driven by a 32-year-old Novi man. The first car was then hit by a vehicle going northbound. Police ticketed the Wixom man for failure to yield.

5-foot-10 with brown hair and brown eyes and who was wearing a plaid shirt, jeans and a baseball cap the day of the theft.

The stolen wallet was the third similar theft at the school in recent months, police said.

CAR WINDOW SMASHED AT MEIJER LOT: A South Lyon man told township police that someone smashed the driver's side window of his 1987 Chevrolet Camaro while it was parked at Meijer, 20401 Haggerty, Feb. 27 between 9:15-10 p.m.

Police said the damage may have been caused by a shot from a BB gun. Damage was estimated at $200.

City to hold line on commercial refuse rates

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

The city council agreed recently to refrain from charging commercial property owners more for refuse disposal, after difficulty finding a fair way to distribute the charge.

The council had decided previously to pursue a commercial charge to correct a discrepancy in the millage amount paid for refuse disposal by residential and commercial property owners. City Manager Steven Walters had shown that residential owners pay more than their share of the cost of refuse disposal.

The council's most recent decision followed a report from Walters showing that the annual amount of the discrepancy, though still about $78,500, may be dropping. The report also explained the difficulty of determining how to assess specific commercial property owners or businesses for the cost of the discrepancy.

"The shortage of Commercial contribution . . . would require an additional contribution equal to 3.52 mills on all Commercial property," Walters wrote in his report. "As a monthly charge, this would amount to $22.00 on a typical downtown building assessed at $75,000. However, there would be some office buildings which would be assessed much higher but produce relatively low refuse volumes. In addition, this average rate would have to be much higher if it were charged on the basis of City service volume, since some commercial properties do not receive City service at all."

Walters told the council that a drop in the budgeted refuse costs has lessened the need for an immediate commercial charge. "The total costs have been lower than originally budgeted, however the discrepancy between residential and commercial continues to exist," he said.

"It's possible that the discrepancy will get more tolerable as we get into recycling," he added.

Walters has been working with Public Works Superintendent Ted Mapes to determine who uses the city's commercial refuse receptacles, in an effort to apportion a commercial charge fairly.

"It's not very practical to send out bills to the individual tenants, unless they have some ability to choose a (waste disposal) system," Walters said. "It's been real difficult to figure out how to distribute the charges."

The difficulties are due to the different levels of waste generated by different commercial businesses, Walters said.

Council Member Dewey Gardner, himself a downtown business owner, noted that the amount of waste generated by commercial businesses varies greatly both between and within business types.

"The real problem is that even if there's a tendency, the tendency can change weekly," he said.

The council agreed to wait for more data before assessing bills or special assessments.

City, township eye joint curbside recycling effort

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

Northville City is seeking to join the township's efforts to set up a curbside recycling system as mandated by the Wayne County Solid Waste Plan.

City Manager Steven Walters and Public Works Superintendent Ted Mapes attended the township's latest briefing by waste disposal firms eager to set up a curbside recycling network in Northville, and found Township Supervisor Georgina Goss receptive to the concept of a joint service.

Walters cited several advantages to the joint service including the lower cost of curbside recycling per customer, the lower cost of operating a single recycling drop-off center, and a simpler educational program for residents.

"It would give us a lower cost . . . and also it would be so much less confusing for the community if there was one set of rules coming out," Walters told the city council.

"Obviously, it means we have to make the nature of the process the same."

The council unanimously approved a resolution expressing its interest in "a jointly developed and operated refuse and recycling system for the Northville Community." The resolution authorized Walters to negotiate such a joint system with the township.

Several waste disposal firms have met with the township board in recent weeks to pitch their plans for community curbside recycling.

The township is expected to consider bids from Waste Management of Livonia, Laidlaw Waste System Corp. of Southfield, Browning-Ferris Industries, and City Management Corp. for a solid waste and recycling plan to be implemented June 30.

Party damages extend past furnishings — go straight to heart erie. They also did things Kathy will not publicly discuss.

The effect on the parents was immediate and powerful.

"I was physically sick," Kathy said.

"We have several suspects aged 16-18."

And Kathy is determined to prosecute.

"They were in every inch of space in every room," she said. "I picked up cans and cigarettes in every inch of my house."

"It's a feeling of being violated," Jim said. "Your house is a very private thing to you. People came in and violated it."

"It's a violation of who you are and what you are," he said.

The parents said their daughter realized too late the party was out of hand. When she attempted make a stand, an older boy — like many of the partyers, a stranger — punched her.

The couple's daughter fled in tears to her room, where she locked herself for the party's duration.

new cars with cellular phones," he said. "These are the sons and daughters of this community."

"What I'd like to get out is that a harmless get-together can turn into mayhem and turn lives upside down."

dictive," he said. "The mere presence of that many kids encouraged (the ensuing problems)."

"We're not dealing with criminals; we're dealing with kids that screwed up," he said.

Kathy is not so forgiving. She knows some of the partyers; she has welcomed some to her home in days past.

"I'm disappointed in all the kids I know," she said. "I've entertained them in my house."

"I'm disappointed in the lack of respect they have for me," she said.

But they won't heap the blame on reluctant neighbors.

"They are our friends and we want to stay that way," Kathy said. "Obviously, things are a little strained right now."

If relationships with friends are strained, the bond between parents and child is frayed and tattered.

"There is pain and mistrust between us and our daughter," Jim said. "The love is still there and I guess a message I'd like to leave is that we are going to be a much closer family."

"She was able to see firsthand what pain it had caused her mother and me,"

"I'd tell parents to know where their kids are," Kathy said.

Township police estimate more than 300 youths attended the party before police broke it up around 11:30 p.m. Twenty friends had been invited, but word of mouth passed the news of a big bash throughout public and private schools in Northville, Novi, Livonia, Plymouth and Detroit.

The turnout was impressive; so too is a compilation of damaged property and a list of charges township police are seeking against some of the revelers.

"Larceny from a building, malicious destruction of property, contributing to the delinquency of minors, furnishing alcohol to minors, assault and battery and possession of stolen property," township police Captain Philip Presnell said Monday.

Township Police Chief Chip Snider said the affluence of a community is not a buffer to violence and destruction.

"These kids came to this party in

X-RAYED DENTISTRY

The x-ray in dentistry has nothing to do with racy movies. The picture the dentist takes with his x-ray machine is one of the most essential tools he has in treating dental problems. It is always used with the greatest concern for your safety. In fact, the exposure takes less than a second and is less than you receive from everyday living from the rays of the sun or from natural radiation in rocks and other materials.

It's the x-ray picture that reveals hidden cavities or early signs of gum disease. It can also save a life by detecting certain kinds of oral cancer in its early stages, when it's curable.

Without his x-ray machine, the dentist would not be able to spot a cavity that may be lurking under an old filling. Unnoticed, it may destroy the pulp of the tooth, causing severe pain. By then it might be too late to save the tooth.

The x-ray is a super sleuth. It can apprehend abscessed teeth and other culprits, such as extra teeth, crooked roots, and broken root tips or damaged bone structure.

Assessments can be checked

By MIKE TYREE
Staff Writer

Northville Township officials are no strangers to the grumblings which inevitably follow assessment notice mailings.

But this year, the township has compiled a list of hints for residents seeking to lower their assessment rate.

The first step is to determine the accuracy of an individual property. Residents should check with a township tax clerk to review individual "appraisal field cards." The card contains information such as property square footage, type of construction, garage, swimming pool, patio, and other items that help determine value.

Residents should then compile lists of methods to use when appearing before the township Board of Review. The township recommends property owners consult a list of properties sold over a one-year period ending with March 1990.

The list is housed at township hall. Review of similar homes (size, style, age) in the resident's same neighborhood can help with assessment comparisons. If a home sold in a resident's neighborhood is lower than the resident's assessment, the resident may have an increased chance to prove a lower assessment is applicable.

Residents can also find similar neighborhood homes and compare appraisal field sheets. Assessment levels may differ.

On recently purchased property, assessments should be compared to the purchase price. If the assessment is higher, the resident may have a good case for an assessment reduction.

If a resident's house is significantly larger or of much higher quality than the surrounding neighborhood, its value would be less than the same house in a neighborhood containing similar houses.

If a resident is trying to sell a property and it is currently listed with a realtor at less than assessed value with current offers consistently below assessed value, the offers should be presented to the Board of Review.

Environmental impacts may make a difference. If residents can show that impacts such as highway proximity, proximity to a noisy or odorous business, or structural damage has occurred, residents may have a solid case.

The Board of Review will not consider some resident arguments. Poor repair or maintenance is not an excuse for a lower assessment, nor are noisy neighbors, loose dogs or the number of cars or people living in an adjacent home.

Carpeting and landscaping are not considered permanent features of the property and are not considered in the assessment value.

If the Board of Review renders a decision which does not satisfy the resident, an appeal can be forwarded to the Michigan Tax Tribunal. To petition the tax tribunal, residents must contact the state agency by the end of June during the year the appeal was initiated.

The Michigan Tax Tribunal address is P.O. Box 30232, Lansing, MI 48909. The telephone number is (517) 334-6521.

uation (SEV). That figure is used to set individual property taxes, which are based on the amount of millages levied by each governmental unit.

Molloy said assessments are calculated by using recent property sales studies. Wayne County's earlier proclamation that township rates should increase an average of 6 percent was based on sales figures dating back to the last quarter of 1988, all of 1989 and the first quarter of 1990, Molloy said.

Township assessors used figures from 1990 to arrive at a lesser percentage increase, she said.

All the talk of a weakened economy has had limited impact on the township, Molloy said.

"People keep telling us the (real estate) market has dropped," she said. "But sales are still there, they have not dropped."

Assessments in some tax-battered subdivisions have leveled after years of steep hikes, Molloy said.

The Lakes of Northville (303 lots) and Maple Hills (173) subdivisions on a whole saw only a half-percent increase," she said. "They've been hit hard the last couple of years."

"We've got them to the point where they're in the right range," she said.

Pricey subdivisions were harder hit.

Residents in Shadbrook, Edenderry, and Snow Acres subdivisions witnessed increases averaging 7.4 percent, Molloy said. Her explanation for the larger increases was simple: bigger and better costs more.

"They're building some big houses in rolling, tree-lined areas," she said. "They have bigger houses and bigger lots in very desirable areas."

Appeals only last one year

"The individual has to prove himself again and again," she said. "It's always been like that."

Molloy said some successfully appealed decisions are based on hardship cases. Some hardship cases — including death, income loss, etc., are rectified by the following year.

Other factors, such as completed construction zones, can change the assessment amounts, she said.

But residents slogging through repeated treks to the Board of Review to wage familiar battles may have an option, Molloy said.

Wayne County Appraisal Co., the township assessment firm, can offer permanent assessment adjustments, she said.

"If residents have a question or feel something is wrong with the assessment, the assessor can go out to the home at no cost," she said. "That's the only way permanent changes can be made."

Residents should follow regular channels before inundating the assessors for re-assessment requests, Molloy said.

"We like them to come in and tell us about the problem," she said.

Prior notice allows the assessor to better identify potential assessment problems before going on-site, Molloy said.

Township welcomes new planning consultant

By MIKE TYREE
Staff Writer

Two concepts stood out in the minds of township officials during a recent planning and zoning consulting firm search.

The two concepts — innovation and progression — are key to future development of the township, and officials feel the choice of the WBDC Group will cement the township's goals throughout the 1990s.

WBDC's use of high-tech graphics and the availability of traffic consultants and woodlands and wetlands experts highlighted township needs, and convinced planning commissioners to drop its consulting firm of 20 years in favor of a fresh approach.

The decision to cut ties with veteran planner Claude Coates and Vilcan-Leman & Associates of Southfield was difficult, but the township is eager to look to the future with its new consultant, planning commission Chairperson Charles DeLand said.

"The committee that did the interviewing was very impressed (with individual WBDC planners) and the capabilities of the firm," DeLand said.

WBDC offers the township a "refreshing" and "very knowledgeable" planning perspective, said Carol Maise, township planning and zoning administrator.

"They are bringing in resources we haven't had before," Maise said. "They are just right on top of everything in the field of planning."

WBDC planner Brad Strader and landscape architect Jerry Sosnowski will handle the bulk of site plan reviews for Northville Township. Strader is based in Southfield and Sosnowski in Lansing. WBDC headquarters is in Grand Rapids.

Strader characterized WBDC as a "statewide firm that is well-established in the west side" of Michigan. During a get-acquainted session with the planning commission, Sosnowski referred to Strader as someone "who gives 150 percent all the time."

"His strong asset is that he brings a fresh approach to planning without reckless abandon," he said. "He has a very clear understanding of the issues."

Strader's background includes transportation planning, hospital and university master planning, and work with Michigan townships and counties, Sosnowski said. Sosnowski boasts 15 years experience in landscape architecture, including 10 years with WBDC, Strader said.

"His expertise is in natural environment ecosystems; wetlands and woodlands," he said. "Your approach and goals tie in very well with Jerry's."

Strader said WBDC's strength is in its resources. "We have a lot of people behind us," he said. "Zoning is very complicated (and) we try to solve problems jointly."

Geake against school choice

By CRISTINA FERRIER
Staff Writer

State Sen. Robert Geake met with the Northville Action Council Feb. 21 to discuss the schools-of-choice initiative, a plan he opposes.

Geake met with the group in response to a letter from NAC Chairperson Scott Wilson expressing concern that the proposal's open enrollment policy, in combination with the recapture of funds from out-of-formula schools, could adversely affect substance-abuse programs and other programs in the schools.

NAC is a citizens' group that works to make students and parents more aware of substance abuse and its consequences.

The schools-of-choice initiative is a combination of several proposals, including one that would allow parents to choose their children's schools within their district, something already offered in Northville. It would also require public school districts to open 1 percent of enrollment to students from outside the district.

"I'm personally very critical of the plan because it would be very bad for our area," Geake said. He called the proposal a "statewide scheme for sharing property tax growth."

"If the have-nots are in a position to take away from the haves, they will always try," he said.

"Some people believe that schools would be fairer and more equal if the amount spent on students was the same," he said. "They believe this in spite of the fact that there's not one lot of research to prove it."

Geake said he also opposes another aspect of the bill — one that would require statewide testing for graduation — because he believes it could lead to a higher drop-out rate.

"The kid who has a reading disability or serious learning disability — if he knows he won't get his diploma, he might just drop out. More students would be alienated from the school system, and it still has a lot to offer."

Geake said he does not expect the proposal to pass.

"I'd be surprised if it does," he said, adding that similar legislation has failed in the past.

"The only difference is now we have a governor who seems to support it."

Mill Race Matters

The weather these past few weeks reminds all of us that spring is just around the corner. Mill Race Village is preparing for another active year. Work on the Cady Inn is progressing well and it is anticipated that the Northville Historical Society office will be relocated into that building very soon. Work on the remainder of the building is moving along rapidly now as well.

One upcoming event to mark now on your calendar is the Annual Progressive Dinner. The date is Saturday, April 20. A committee is at work planning the menu and selecting the host homes. If you would like to work on this committee call Janie at 344-3052. Invitations can be expected within the next few weeks.

Soon members will receive their Spring Quarterly. In this issue you will be asked to consider volunteering for a position on the Northville Historical Society Board of Directors. In the past some have felt disappointed at not being asked to serve. Of course, it is impossible for Nominating Committee members to know all of those willing and able to serve. For that reason, the board is requesting that all interested members volunteer or nominate themselves. We hope that this will result in a larger pool of capable workers. The job requires time and interest, but we are certain that many capable members will accept the challenge and come forward. Those interested in serving can contact Nominating Committee Chair Steve Ball at 349-7964.

Remember ongoing work Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday from 9 a.m. to noon on the Cady Inn and the Archives Committee cataloging Wednesday 10 a.m. until noon.

Attorney asks Supreme Court to expedite recapture lawsuit

By SUZANNE HOLLYER
Staff Writer

An attorney representing 51 property-wealthy school districts, including Northville, in a lawsuit against the state has asked the Supreme Court to expedite consideration of the case.

If the Supreme Court accepts the motion, the lawsuit could be decided in time to prevent funding cuts to out-of-formula school districts like Northville for the next school year.

The lawsuit was filed after the July passage of the School Aid Act which "recaptured" $72 million from out-of-formula school districts in an attempt to equalize state school funding.

With the passage of the act, social security payments were designated "categorical" aid for the first time and therefore subject to recapture.

Northville schools made up the $1.3-million shortfall through a one-year, voter-approved millage increase.

Both the Northville and Novi school districts joined a lawsuit against the state to prevent further recaptures of money designated for social security payments to district employees.

Attorney Dennis Pollard is representing all of the 51 school districts participating in the case.

The lawsuit was dismissed in November by the state Court of Appeals, on what Pollard said was "a totally erroneous basis."

In a letter updating participating school districts on the status of the case, Pollard said even the state attorney general conceded that the dismissal of the case was not made on a legally sound basis.

Within one week of the dismissal, Pollard filed a petition to have the Court of Appeals reconsider its decision.

Such motions are typically decided within 30 days, according to Pollard, but because the court had not responded within 60 days, he requested that the Michigan Supreme Court take "superintending control" of the case in January.

More recently, Pollard requested that the Supreme Court expedite consideration of the petition. If the court agrees, then it will consider the petition sooner than the normal nine to 10 months it takes to decide such issues.

According to Pollard, the Supreme Court mostly likely will decide within one month whether or not to hear the case.

The need to have the case heard quickly is caused by the state's budget crisis, according to Pollard.

"Our argument is that the Legislature and the governor need to be advised of constitutionally mandated funding obligations before making their decisions on budget cuts because those expenditures are baseline costs about which they have no discretion," Pollard wrote in his letter to superintendents involved in the lawsuit.

Pollard also wrote that he expects some state legislators to endorse the schools' petition request to the Supreme Court.

Future of Shores site remains up in the air

What's next for the Shores of Northville (a.k.a. the Thomson Sand and Gravel site)? Only time will tell.

It's virtually impossible to make an educated guess on the outcome of this local melodrama that has stuck like mid-summer tar to the feet of developers, the state, residents, township officials and their consultants.

Each step along the trail to proposed development of the 400-acre gravel pit site has been rocky. Seemingly, each step has clouded an already muddy issue.

The most recent action came when the township board upheld the bulk of an earlier Zoning Board of Appeals decision to terminate a mining permit between the township and holders of a half-million-dollar escrow account. The escrow account was intended to ensure that suitable rehabilitation of the gravel pit would take place before development.

But problem upon problem has occurred with rehabilitation and the township — spurred by a diverted creek that continues to erode residential properties neighboring the gravel pit — is looking for answers. The ZBA took legal steps necessary to terminate the permit and use escrowed funds to finish rehabilitation; the permit-holders appealed and were rejected by the township board. Now the permit-holders (and the township) likely are headed to circuit court.

One township decision not-contested by the permit-holders is a source of consternation to some township officials and residents. The attorney for the permit-holders challenged the ZBA's ruling that escrowed funds could be used to rehabilitate off site damages caused by the diverted creek. The township board agreed that the mining permit contained no language that would force such a use of the funds.

Sad but true.

Neighboring residents — especially one hard-luck couple — have been hard hit by erosion from the diverted creek. The township badly wished to step in and offer help, even in the form of assurances that their problem would be resolved.

But now it's up to the affected residents to rectify a situation they played no role in. A developer came in and changed a waterway that has irreparably damaged their property. Developers and state and local governments bickered, stalemated, bickered some more and the residents' property washed into the gravel pit lakes.

And it's solely up to them to do something about it. They have to incur the cost of time, attorney fees, treks to court, ad nauseum. But they should have a cut-and-dried case. It's obvious that someone must pay.

As much as the board wished to help its residents, the correct decision was to abandon them at this time. There was no legal avenue to force off-site financial relief with the escrowed funds. Such a posture surely would have landed the township in court, unnecessarily so.

The township may wish to enjoin residents in a lawsuit against the developer and/or permit-holder. But that's down the road and open to debate. The board realized it could not win this particular battle and wisely stepped aside.

City manager saga, Chapter 3

Here we go again.

The City of Plymouth finds itself without a city manager, so its city commission looks around — and sees Steve Walters.

Walters, the Northville city manager for more than 17 years, is a natural for the folks in Plymouth to go after. He worked there as assistant city manager right after he earned his master's degree. He guided and shaped the process of making the City of Northville, and the downtown area in particular, what it is today. He knows the ins and outs of sharing services between a city and a township. He's a good administrator and a very intelligent person. He's used to working in a small city in western Wayne County. Who could ask for anything more?

Nobody, and that's why the folks in Plymouth courted Walters when they faced an opening in city hall in 1981. And that's why they sought him out again the last time they needed a manager — just last year, in fact.

In last year's go-round, after Plymouth's interest became known, Northville officials made it very clear to Walters that they wanted him to stay. Plymouth (after three other candidates turned them down) settled on Gordon Jaeger, the Northville City Council formalized things with a healthy 9-percent raise for Walters, and that was that.

But now Jaeger wants out. He's offered to work half-time, but Plymouth wants a full-time manager. And Plymouth once again looks to the north.

It will be entertaining to see how far this little deja vu experience goes. Will Plymouth make its salary range public again? Will it be any higher this time? If so, is Northville ready to counter with yet another raise?

In short, will Walters stay or will he go?

Take a look at where Steve Walters sits nowadays. I believe that's what they call the catbird seat.

Because, obviously, the same qualities that make him such a strong choice for Plymouth make him just as strong for Northville — and add to that his considerable experience in, and ties to, this community. Losing Steve Walters would be a real blow to the city.

The adage that "no one is irreplaceable" is true in a sense: If its manager leaves, Northville will probably be able to find a capable replacement, and the city certainly won't fall into immediate disrepair. (One of Walters' strengths is hiring excellent department heads.) But there's no way in the world anyone could step in and do the same quality job, right off the bat; those 17 years of Northville experience count for a lot.

In a situation like this, it's tempting to predict outcomes, but I don't have a clue what comes next. I wouldn't be too surprised to see Walters move on; he's been here far longer than the average city manager's tenure. I also wouldn't be surprised to see the city council offer him another raise, if that's what it takes for him to stay. And if that does happen — well, you won't hear any complaints from this resident.

Uneasy lies the head in Lansing

"Uneasy lies the head that wears a crown."

Shakespeare summed it up 300 years ago when the mouth of Henry IV, a king who slept poorly because he was target of a deposition.

As pundits noted after the 1990 elections, people blame governors for everything, whether they're to blame or not. Governors are visible. The buck stops there.

Gov. John Engler is getting 100 percent of the blame for "the cuts." So let's just sort out the budgets.

Plural, "budgets." There are six going on seven:

1. In September, the Legislature adopted and Blanchard signed the general fund budget.

2. Later Blanchard submitted a "supplemental" budget of nearly $600 million, 90 percent of it for social services. Republicans said Blanchard had a bad habit of doing that to hide the "bad news." Anyway, it was adopted.

3. After the election, we learned revenues were low by a half-billion. Blanchard, then-Sen. Engler and everyone else agreed to preserve education and cut everything else 9.2 percent.

4 and 5. Engler became governor, discovered spending was a half-billion out of whack and submitted two more budget documents: one making transfers, the other an executive order with a quarter-billion in cuts. The transfers actually restored a lot of ADC welfare and mental health spending. Engler preserved programs that got federal aid and would have reduced staff layoffs from 8,000 to 3,000.

Understand this: Engler's budgets never became law because Democrats on the House Appropriations Committee rejected them.

6. Budget No. 3 (supra) goes in effect. Politically, it now becomes the House Democratic budget — with Engler administering it.

7. This revision of No. 6 is to be a compromise and is going through the Legislature now.

Who gets the blame for everything bad? Engler, of course. He asked for the job, didn't he?

The biggest single line item in the arts area is the Detroit Institute of Arts (DIA). Engler was pilloried by a Detroit paper and his own musical and arts tastes examined via an interview with his ex-wife.

What everyone forgot is that DIA is a department of Detroit city government, its director a mayoral appointment and its budget the responsibility of the mayor and council under the Detroit city charter.

Fault the rest of Engler's arts budget, if you will, but it's patently unfair to gore him over the DIA. The City of Detroit abandoned both the DIA and the Detroit Symphony years ago in favor of having the largest police force per capita in the nation.

In seeking to cut GA and job training, Engler was cutting Democratic programs. In proposing to eliminate the arts pork barrel, however, the governor is alienating his Cranbrook area Republican constituency. He could be a one-term governor.

King Henry IV never was deposed, but he died, worn out, at 47. Uneasy lies the head that wears a crown.

Soldiers, VFW offer thanks

To the editor:
The VFW wishes to acknowledge with thanks all who participated in the recent Desert Storm T-shirt packaging and shipping program.

There were many contributions: 1,000 envelopes by Gordon's Office Supply; 1,000 letters of support by Speedy Printing of Novi; hundreds of copies of support letters by The Northville Chamber of Commerce; $100 by the postal employees of Northville; $240 by the Rotary Club of Northville; $100 by the Ladies Auxiliary of VFW Post 4012; and all the workers' lunches by Casterline Funeral Home.

In addition, Roxanne Casterline coordinated the program and was instrumental in its development beginning at Perrins Souvenirs to the mailing of over 1,100 to date. Perhaps of interest, the first reply from Desert Storm was received on Feb. 23 and follows.

Henry R. Tulikita

VFW Post 4012

VFW members,

Thank you for the T-shirt and information on the VFW. I guess I qualify now to become a member of the VFW! Most of us out here really appreciate y'all's support back home. We are doing our duty proudly and wish this war ends soon. We are just proud to be Americans and I speak for the 4,800 people on board the USS Saratoga! Again I thank you! Most of all we thank y'all back home!

Service person responds to volume of mail

Feb. 18

To the people of Northville:
Due to the large volume of mail I have received, it's impossible for me to answer all the letters that friends, family, acquaintances, and strangers have written me. I just wanted to thank everyone who took the time to let the soldiers know we have your support.

It's people like you who let the guys so far away know they are not forgotten, and everyone who supports the troops are as important as the men and women who are involved in Operation Desert Storm. Keep the morale high, and pray for peace.

Military family offers thanks for assistance

To the editor:

AAL Branch 1860, St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Northville and the Northville Civic Concern supplied food and toys for a military family during Operation Desert Storm. The following letter of thanks we received from the family and we feel the "thanks" should be shared with all of the supporters of the military forces and their families.

Dear Folks,

I just wanted to drop you a note to thank you for the groceries you dropped by. More important, though, was the thought behind it. Each time I speak with my husband, he asks how the support back home is. It's so important to all of us military people! It's great to be able to say "110 percent!"

I'll be headed back home to Shaw AFB, South Carolina, (I need to thaw out!), back to a "military town." I tell you what, Northville may be adopted to be a base. You've all been great and couldn't be more of a military town if you had a base smack-dab in the middle!

Thank you again from the bottom of my family's hearts. May God bless you all!

AAL Branch 1860 would like to thank everyone who attended the chili supper or donated money to this worthwhile support effort. This is an example of one family's appreciation for your support.

Poem: To the Lightning and Thunder

To The Lightning And Thunder
Now seize the air
You lightning strike,
In relentless pursuit through day and night.

Wear the enemy
So never to sleep,
Confound him with his own defeat.

March proud you Thunder
Upon the sand,
Reclaim the freedom
Of a once peaceful land.
Scatter the intruders
To their region beyond,
In disgrace disarm them to face God's dawn.

Go forth oh Lightning bright
And raucous Thunder peal,
Whose name at birth was Desert Shield.

You've gathered momentum and amassed in form,
Be yours the Victory of the Desert Storm.

Inspired by the words of U.S. General H. Norman Schwarzkopf and dedicated to the U.S. armed service personnel of Operation Desert Storm.

Animal cruelty is not a solution

To the editor:

I was appalled when I read the article "Township has plans to count cold, wet noses" by staff writer Mike Tyree in the Feb. 21 edition. One of the ordinances proposed to the Township Board during a recent meeting was intended to control outdoor cats. Trustee Don Williams is quoted as saying, "I shoot at them (cats) with a BB gun."

I am a Northville Township resident and a member of the Board of Directors of the Anti-Cruelty Association. The Anti-Cruelty Association is an organization which protects animals in the State of Michigan and operates an animal shelter in the City of Detroit. A BB gun can kill or severely injure a cat. If Mr. Williams is shooting at cats with a BB gun he is in direct violation of state anti-cruelty laws and could be subject to a cruelty investigation resulting in legal fines.

I contacted the Township Hall to verify that the Northville Record correctly quoted Mr. Williams and that the quote was not taken out of context. Supervisor Georgina Goss told me that the quote was correct and other township officials were shocked at Mr. Williams' statement. She was not sure if he was joking when he made this comment. I was assured that Mr. Williams would return my call with an explanation that evening. He did not call.

Joking or not, I feel that this remark is inexcusable for a township official. When the township trustee makes a statement like this, it implies that shooting at cats with BB guns is an acceptable practice in Northville Township. The Anti-Cruelty Association advocates leash law ordinances and licensing for cats. Outdoor cats are subject to many dangers and require more medical attention than indoor cats. But shooting at cats with BB guns is not an acceptable way to deal with this problem.

Most people would probably agree that although Mr. Williams' behavior is totally unacceptable, it is not grounds enough to order a recall. However, I hope that the township residents will show their compassion toward companion animals at the next election by NOT re-electing Don Williams to township trustee.

Pizza store prevents poll from its purpose

To the editor:

I am sorry to see that Papa Romano's had so little confidence in its product and its customers that it felt the need to stuff the "pizza box" during the recent restaurant poll.

Their actions prevented local residents an opportunity to see how their neighbors and friends rated local restaurants. I believe an apology to the residents of Northville and Novi is in order.

Townships group works to ensure good government

To the editor:

I noted with interest a recent editorial under Tim Richard's byline in The Northville Record, plus the South Lyon Herald, and the Redford, Garden City and Westland Observers. I do thank you for the compliment that you paid to the Michigan Townships Association for our efforts to inform our membership on the requirements of the Open Meetings Act. You did, however, take a circuitous route to get there.

We traverse the state with our educational effort conducting district meetings and workshops on various topics. In 1990, in excess of 4,000 township officials attended a workshop or meeting conducted by this association. This number does not include those attending the annual winter educational conference. We also provide daily advice to our membership and legal counsel one day a week.

All the questions we receive are presented in terms of how to comply with the Act; not how to evade it. Many townships are relatively low in population and because they are grass roots government officials, I think their actions see a lot more "sunshine" than other types of government. There is no "one place" to go to learn how to be an effective local government leader once you are elected to office. We work hard to fill that requirement and having worked toward that goal for many years, we hardly think that our steps forward are unexpected.

Your obtuse comparison of our efforts to those of the Soviet Union are not worthy of further discussion.

Parents can help build self-esteem

It is believed that one of the most common failings of human beings is a lack of self-confidence. Most persons have a tendency to remember their failures and forget their successes. To become healthier and get rid of self-doubt, it would be helpful to turn this scenario around — forget the failures and remember the successes. As parents we can help our children build their self-confidence by focusing on our children's successes.

Dr. Maxwell Maltz, in his book, Psycho-Cybernetics, wrote that "Confidence is built upon experience of success. When we first begin any undertaking, we are likely to have little confidence, because we have not learned from experience that we can succeed. This is true of learning to ride a bike, speak in public or perform surgery. It is true that success breeds success. Even a small success can be used as a stepping-stone to a greater one. . . . If a child is not seeing his successes it is helpful for parents to point them out to the youngster.

Parents can encourage their children to use their errors and mistakes as a way of learning and then dismiss them from their mind. Teach kids to remember and picture in their minds past successes. Everyone has succeeded sometime at something. Especially when learning a new skill or beginning a new task, help the child remember how it felt to be successful in some past experience. And no matter how small the success was they can still remember it and build on it.

Recalling brave moments is a very sound way to restore belief in yourself and belief in your child. Too often people are prone to let one or two failures blot out all good memories. It is important to practice vividly remembering our past successes and brave moments whenever our self-confidence is shaken. If we feel our children's self-confidence slipping we can help them recall a brave moment in their lives.

If you feel your child needs a special person in their life to help build their self-confidence, call Mary Ellen King at 344-1618 and we can help.

ART to the RESCUE

Julie Giordano, above right, was the organizer of Art to the Rescue. Gary Cooper and Julie Herridge, above, provided music for the event.

By CRISTINA FERRIER
Staff Writer

What can artists do to help the homeless? After all, most artists aren't exactly wealthy people. They don't have lots of money to donate.

"Most artists are starving, too," said Julie Giordano, portrait artist and owner of J. Giordano Gallery in Northville. "We can't feed them. We can barely feed ourselves."

But when Giordano was asked by a director for the Detroit Rescue Mission what could be done to improve the environment of Genesis House II, a new facility for homeless women and children, she realized that artists can do something very important to help the homeless.

"They can make them feel at home."

"He (the director) just said, 'Do you have any ideas for how to make it more warm?'" Giordano recalled.

"The facility is huge. I thought,

"I can't provide enough art to fill this; I'd have to clean out my whole gallery."

"Then I thought, 'If I call all the artists I know, maybe I can come up with some artwork to meet this need.'"

Giordano said she realizes that providing art for the homeless is an unusual concept. After all, when you think of what homeless people need you tend to think of the basics. Food, clothing, shelter.

But Giordano knows art is something she would not want to live without.

"I'm an artist, and I can't imagine living without art," she said. "I can't imagine life without visual stimuli. My own home is like a gallery."

"The facility (Genesis House II) is beautiful, so why not make it more homey?"

She started out by calling a few people she knew. J. Giordano Gallery is a cooperative gallery that rents space to artists, so she knew quite a few talented people.

Families still wait in fear

Jeremy's mom dropped off a letter Monday.

"Due to the large volume of mail I have received, it's impossible for me to answer all the letters that friends, family, acquaintances and strangers have written me. I just wanted to thank everyone who took the time to let the soldiers know we have your support," he wrote. "It's people like you who let the guys so far away know they are not forgotten."

Jeremy Kitchen is one of ten soldiers who were featured in a Jan. 10 article on local service members who had been deployed to Saudi Arabia as a part of Operation Desert Shield. The article was published less than a week before the war broke out in the gulf. The letter was dated Feb. 18.

Jeremy, like many of the other soldiers featured in that article, has received a tremendous outpouring of letters and gifts from the people of Northville and Novi. It's great to know that the people of our community read about them and cared enough to, as the article urged, write to them.

And now that the war is over, we are all waiting anxiously for them to come home. It's hard to imagine the feelings of the families here waiting to wrap their arms around the shoulders of their loved ones, waiting to look again into the faces of their sons or daughters or husbands, wives, brothers, sisters.

I imagine the families are probably elated that the war is over. But, as one family member commented to me, they are also on pins and needles, still fearful. Nobody will relax until those people are really and truly home again.

From what I've heard, many of these family members have gone for many weeks without hearing from their loved ones over there, and they are terrified. Every time there is a report of a casualty, they freeze. Every time they learn it wasn't their friend or relative, they relax — but only a little.

I was never someone who prayed very often until the war broke out. Now, as everyone (including Jeremy Kitchen) urged, I've been moved to pray many times. I've prayed for peace. I've prayed the war would end and everyone could go home.

Now part of our prayers have been answered. The war is over.

It's time for them to come home.

At the very least, it's time for them to be able to contact their families and let them know they're alright.

Please, let it be soon.

Singing brightens nursing home days

By DOROTHY NASH
Special Writer

Irene Witzke described her volunteer singing at Star Manor Nursing Home: "Two afternoons a month — whenever I want — I call and say, 'I'm coming.'"

"I take a whole pile of music and just sing" to the 12 or 15 men and women, some in wheelchairs, who are in the lobby.

The activities director and her aides have brought out the residents who would most appreciate her singing.

"I sing songs like 'Put on Your Old Gray Bonnet' and 'Carry Me Back to Ol' Virginny' — songs they're apt to know."

"There's one woman who sings along all the time," she said. "Others may join in now and then. Some smile. Some hum. And some sleep right through it."

But Witzke said, "It's hard to tell.

The one who sings along with me — she seems to enjoy it. She knows me when I come, but five minutes after I've gone, maybe she wouldn't know I'd been there."

Witzke started doing this when she lived in another community, she said. "A group of women at our church wanted to do some kind of volunteer work." So they decided on going to a mental institution for adults once a month. One would play piano and the others would sing.

Then a hospital chaplain came along and suggested they go to a convalescent home, instead of just one of them singing songs. Her friends volunteered her to do it.

She offered to sing at a convalescent home and was signed on for once a week.

A while later — 26 years ago — she moved to Northville and started volunteer singing in one nursing home and another until now, she said, "It's a way of life for me."

Homeless lives get some art

"Right away I had 20 people who said yes, so I thought I'd work toward 50—I made that my goal," she said. "Some of the people I talked to said, right off the bat, 'Oh, you'll never get artists to donate their work,' but 90 percent said, 'What a wonderful idea.'"

The best thing about Art to the Rescue is probably the way it has spun off to help in more ways than simply providing art.

"One of the artists from Pontiac said maybe she'll donate to the shelter there, and some artists are going to donate their time to the shelter," she said.

"I really believe in the law of sowing and reaping," she said. "We have to help others for others to help us. We've been blessed by God with this talent, this ability. I want to pass that blessing on to others, so we'll bless other people and they'll bless other people in turn."

St. Paul's kids get lots of variety

ST. PAUL'S

The students and staff of St. Paul's Lutheran School, located at 201 Elm St., will be experiencing learning through many different types of activities during the next few weeks. Grades five through eight have already participated in a school spelling bee. The winner, seventh-grader Mark Sander, will represent St. Paul's at the regional competition spelling bee in mid-March.

On Feb. 14 the students, teachers and many parents enjoyed an all-school roller skating party at Bonaventure Park. This Valentine's Day skating party is an annual event, in keeping with a tradition begun many years ago at St. Paul's.

During the week of March 4-8, St. Paul's students and staff will participate in the community drug awareness program entitled "Say No to Drugs." Look for red ribbons around the school and also being worn by the students.

The focus for March at St. Paul's will be the observance of Lutheran Schools Week from the 10th through the 16th. Different special activities are being planned for each day, beginning with Grandparents' Day on Monday. Children will have the opportunity to bring their grandparents to class, and grandparents will be encouraged to share their school experiences with the students.

On Tuesday and Wednesday the theme will be Community Awareness, and there will be opportunities for members of the community to visit St. Paul's. On Tuesday evening, March 12, school tours will be available for all who are interested.

On Wednesday, March 13, at 9 a.m. the community is invited to attend the weekly chapel service which will be led by the children of the school. Following the service, visitors may join in a reception and then take advantage of an opportunity to see St. Paul's; students and their teachers in action by attending the All-Day Open House. During the open house, visitors are encouraged to "drop in" and observe any of the classes any time that day. Teachers and the principal, Ron Beardsley, will be available to answer any questions about St. Paul's Lutheran School.

The pre-school round-up for both 3- and 4-year-olds will also be held on Wednesday. The week will culminate in Friday's CLASH Fair in which each student will be required to submit an entry in either of five subject areas: collections, literature, art, science or history. Entries will be judged, awarded ribbons and on display Friday evening, March 15. Additional information on the activities for Lutheran Schools Week may be found in the ad elsewhere in today's edition or by calling the school at 349-3146.

The Northville Record publishes "PTA News" on Thursdays, on the following schedule: First Thursday of the month, private/parochial schools; second Thursday, Northville High School; third Thursday, middle schools; and fourth Thursday, elementary schools. The deadline is the Friday before the Thursday of publication. All schools are encouraged to participate. Submit articles, including name and phone number of the writer, to 104 W. Main, Northville, MI 48167. For more information call 349-1700.

Michigan travelers talk about the Keys

By IRIS SANDERSON JONES
Travel Writer

Everywhere I go I meet people from Michigan. And every time I write a travel article, I meet people who know more about the destination than I do.

Both things happened to me in relation to the story we ran last week on the Florida Keys.

I was on a tour boat out of Key West when I met Dina and Jeffrey Anderson. Captain Dave was at the wheel, telling the same jokes he tells every night and getting the same laughs from the 25 people aboard. Joel, the first mate, was serving cold beer and champagne.

The Sebago is a catamaran so we were all sitting around the edges of the boat, in shorts and T-shirts, watching the sun go down. I was on the landward side of the sail with a young couple who were on their honeymoon.

"Where are you from?" I said.

"Chicago. What about you?" "Michigan."

"I grew up in Bloomfield Hills," Jeffrey said. And there it was again, the Michigan Connection.

Jeffrey graduated from Andover High School and attended Eastern Michigan University before he moved to Chicago and met Dina. They were staying at the Casa Marina in Key West, planning a little parasailing and a little jet skiing. Their favorite place in Key West was Sloppy Joe's, "loud bands and fun people."

After I got home and started talking about my trip, I found all kinds of Michigan travelers who love the Keys, and there it was again — voices, voices.

Barbara Blaharski, Better World Travel, Howell: "My favorite place to stay in the Florida Keys is Holiday Isle. There are always people aged 20 to 40 having fun on the beach, maybe listening to the two or three bands that play in the Tiki Bar and Grill."

"You can go to the pier and watch the fishing boats come in with their day's catch."

"Travelers who want more peace and relaxation would probably be better at someplace like the Sheraton Key Largo or the Cheeca Lodge in Islamorada. But Holiday Isle is very in tune with the younger traveler."

Charlene Sinelli, Howell Travel: "The best place for me was the Palm Island Resort. We took a ferry to get there. It was uncrowded, had great food and a friendly staff."

Judy Berne, West Bloomfield: "I have been going to the Florida Keys once or twice a year for 12 years. My husband Ed and I stay with my mother. Rolla Doner of Birmingham, in Islamorada."

"The Keys are a most relaxing place to visit, quite unlike Fort Lauderdale or Miami."

Here are some tips for potential travelers:

□ "Don't take anything dressier than a pair of white slacks. You can wear jeans and shorts everywhere. The only exception in the middle keys is the Cheeca Lodge, and even there you can wear slacks to dinner."

□ "Don't eat anything but fish. Lots of other things are good, but the fish is so wonderful that it is a waste of time to eat anything else."

□ "Try the Key Lime Pie in different places because everybody has their own recipe."

□ "The best restaurants in the middle keys are Mile Marker 88, Cheeca Lodge, Ziggy's and the Lorelei."

□ "You don't have to like fishing to be in the Keys. There is great tennis at The Net, Cheeca Lodge as well as other resorts and condominiums in the Keys."

I learn a lot from other travelers, so if you have a travel tip for us about anyplace in the world, but especially a place in North America, send it to me at 23000 Springbrook, Suite 206B, Farmington Hills, MI 48333.

A different kind of Alaskan cruise Smaller ships take tourists closer to natural wonders

By MICKY JONES
Travel Writer

Alaska is hot this year!

They broke tourism records in 1990, and this summer will be even bigger. The middle-east war and rising overseas costs due to the slumping dollar are at least partially responsible for the great interest in Alaska.

This year, hundreds of seven-, 10- and 14-day Alaskan cruises are being offered on ships diverted from the Caribbean for the summer months.

One-week trips from Seattle or Vancouver take you through the "inside passage" to the southeastern "panhandle" area of Alaska and back. Some ships go all the way to Anchorage.

These huge cruise ships travel mostly at night so passengers can spend their days in the ports of Ketchikan, Sitka, Juneau, Skagway and Anchorage. They also cruise into Glacier Bay and some of the larger fjords.

An alternative way to appreciate coastal Alaska is to fly from Seattle to Ketchikan or Juneau and spend a few days on one of the small ships operated by Alaska Sightseeing Tours.

The "Sheltered Seas," for example, is a modern 90-foot motor yacht offering three-day, all-daylight cruises between Juneau and Ketchikan. It has no state rooms, so motel or hotel accommodation is provided on shore each night. A similar boat, the "Spirit of Glacier Bay," makes two-day cruises to Glacier Bay from Juneau. It has state rooms to accommodate 49 passengers for the two days and one night at sea.

These small boats are extremely comfortable and have the advantage of being able to navigate narrow passages and shallow waters where the big cruise ships can't go. They get you really close to nature in the raw.

I boarded the Shelter Seas in Ketchikan one morning last September for a three-day cruise to Juneau. As we cruised between misty islands, a crew member used a large map to give us an overview of our journey. Almost all of it would be within the Tongass National Forest, the largest national forest in the U.S.

We spent much of the first day cruising along the mountainous coastline of Southeast Alaska which is 500 miles long, has 1,000 islands and 65,000 people.

After a satisfying lunch, another crew member lectured on the native cultures of Alaska which we would shortly encounter during a 90-minute stop at the small fishing village of Wrangell.

Founded by the Russians in 1834, the town has an interesting collection of totem poles and a tribal house on tiny Shakes Island. The masthead of the "Wrangell Sentinel," Alaska's oldest continuously published newspaper declares it to be "The only Newspaper in the World that gives a damn about Wrangell."

On our second day we saw plenty of wild life. Dozens of porpoise danced alongside our hull as we snapped pictures of their smiling faces 10 feet away. Whales spouted so close that we could feel their spray, and we were able to get within 100 feet of bald eagles perched in tall trees.

After following a black bear along the shore, we literally barged our way through floating beds of ice floes covered with hundreds of harbor seals as we approached the towering blue face of LeConte glacier.

During an overnight stop in the quaint fishing town of Petersburg, passengers were treated to a Norwegian smorgasbord and ethnic dancing in a waterfront restaurant.

The next day, as we cruised northwest toward Juneau, our ship made a long side-trip into Tracy Arm to view the magnificent Sawyer glacier. We again bumped our way through masses of floating ice and icebergs; some white and some brilliant blue. Thousands of harbor seals were basking in the sunshine.

In another part of the inlet, the skipper nosed our bow right into the spray of two waterfalls and later pulled up to a rocky little island covered with dozens of huge coarcing sea lions.

It was getting dark as we pulled into the glistening harbor at Juneau where three huge cruise ships were strung with lights from stern to stern.

A comfortable hotel for the night and a bus ride to the Mendenhall Glacier the next morning concluded our Sheltered Seas Tour.

The cost of these three-day trips on the Sheltered Seas, including all meals and accommodation for four nights is $795 to $1,295 per person depending on departure date. The season runs May through September with the highest prices from mid-June to mid-August.

The two-day Glacier Bay cruise from Juneau on the Spirit of Glacier Bay runs between $399 and $649 per person depending on state room selection.

These two tours can be combined or tied-in with various other Alaskan air, land and water packages that include Anchorage, Sitka, Fairbanks and Skagway.

If a close-up look at Alaska from a small boat sounds appealing, write Alaska Sightseeing Tours, Suite 700, Fourth and Battery Building, Seattle, Wash. 98121, or call them toll-free (800) 426-7702. Ask for two brochures: "Alaska Yacht Tours" and "Alaska Cruises and Tours."

Local couple recalls highlights of trip into Alaska's backlands

By IRIS SANDERSON JONES
Travel Writer

We called Colleen Tiscornia of Tiscornia Travel in Milford to see if she had been to Alaska recently. She hadn't, but she sent us to fellow Rotarian Pete Sugierski, who drove to Alaska in his Aerostar van a couple of years ago.

Pete works in Milford, but he and his wife Doreen live in South Lyon. They are particularly happy to have visited Alaska before the great oil spill.

"They call that coastal area the 'Switzerland of Alaska,' and it was very beautiful," Pete said.

"It took us five days to drive to the Alaska border, with stops along the way. We stopped in Edmonton, Canada, which has the biggest shopping mall in the world."

"I highly recommend Denali National Park, surrounding Mount McKinley. McKinley is America's highest peak, and Denali is one of North America's great wildlife sanctuaries."

"We drove to the Arctic Circle, 150 miles one-way on a gravel road. We wanted to go to Prudhoe Bay, but there are no gas stations for 500 miles and our car only had a 400-mile cruising range. We went as far as the scenic Kenai Peninsula instead."

"And we traveled on into the Canadian Yukon. The Yukon really surprised us. We expected it to be a barren wasteland, but found instead scenic pines, mountains and lakes."

Some of the highlights of the Sugierski's Alaskan trip were on the sea. "We took a pontoon trip to the glaciers and really enjoyed watching puffins, otters and sea lions from the deck of a boat," Pete said. "We were going to go whale watching, but the waters were too rough."

Alaska offers plenty of choices

By extending your Alaska trip by a day or two, you can include such attractions as a day of salmon fishing, a flight or boat ride to Misty Fjords National Monument, helicoptering to nearby glaciers or traversing a mountain lake in an Indian War canoe.

You can also swish down the bumpy Mendenhall River in a rubber raft, fly over Glacier Bay or zip over to the goldrush town of Skagway for a few hours and then ride one of the coastal ferries of the Alaska Marine Highway System affectionately known as "blue canoes."

It's a six-hour ferry ride from Skagway to Juneau and almost 24 hours from there to Ketchikan. If you have three extra vacation days, you can "blue canoe" all the way to Alaska and back from Bellingham, Washington. For a 1991 ferry schedule and fare information call toll-free (800) 642-0066.

These extras are not cheap so, if you follow the crowds to Alaska this summer, you may spend a lot of money but you won't be disappointed. It truly is America's last frontier. For more information, contact your travel agent.

Model train lovers love Plymouth

By SCOTT DANIEL
Staff Writer

A CSX engine sits lazily on the tracks waiting for an angling couple and business person to board its passenger cars. Two old men, resting near a small lake, look across the way to the mighty engine.

You won't find this scene in any nearby town. But it is one of several that can be found in the Plymouth Yard, a hobby and gift shop that specializes in model trains.

The store offers patrons the latest in model trains — for beginners to lifelong collectors. Located in Plymouth's Old Village, the one-time train station sits along a stretch of the city's many railroad tracks.

"Plymouth is a unique town because the railroad plays such an important part of the town," said Plymouth Yard owner Bob Reckinger. "We have a unique setting for a train shop."

The store opened in January of 1983. Reckinger said he began the shop because of his love for the hobby and his desire to start a business. Keeping the shop going, however, hasn't always been easy.

"It's a struggle at times," Reckinger said. "It's a very competitive and tough business."

"But one of the reasons I've stayed in it is giving people the joy of collecting," he continued, "especially the kids."

The Canton Township resident said he was active in the hobby until his high school years. Reckinger added that the "bug" hit him again about 11 years ago and hasn't left since.

"Building and operating trains just became an obsession when my wife was pregnant with our second child," he said.

Similarly obsessed patrons visit the store on a regular basis. Ryan Beck, 16, also of Canton Township, is known to visit the shop two or three times a week.

"You can create anything you want," he said. "It's like your own world."

"I just can't get enough of (trains)," Beck said. "There are so many I would like to buy."

Reckinger said he has had customers from around the state visit the shop. Patrons from Ohio, Indiana and Canada have also visited, he said.

Upon arriving, customers will find varieties of train tracks, sets and reading materials to help them in their hobby.

Tracks come in all different sizes, or "gauges," Reckinger said the most common selling tracks are the O-27 and O gauges, adding that they are used for larger scale trains.

The best-selling sets are made by Lionel, the widely recognized model train builder. Many sets, such as the 105-piece "Empire Builder," can be purchased for under $100 at the shop. Kits that allow builders to create their own towns, with varieties of buildings and figures, can also be purchased inexpensively.

Reading material, such as "The World of Large Scale — 1991," provides helpful information for train collectors. Power boxes, paints and advice from Reckinger put the finishing touches on the shop's offerings to patrons.

"It's really a family-oriented hobby," he said. "It teaches a lot of skills and develops creativity."

The Plymouth Yard will sponsor a train show Sunday from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. The show will be held in the Plymouth Cultural Center at 525 Farmer St. For more information on the show or the train shop call 455-4455.

TEATIME: The Plymouth Historical Museum announces the opening of a new exhibit, "It's Tea Time!" featuring the artifacts and collectibles associated with an afternoon tea.

Tea pots, tea sets, tea tins, caddies and spoons along with antique silver, linens and lace will be featured in this elegant ritual. The exhibit will also include a collection of Victorian figurine napkin rings.

Afternoon tea became a national habit in England during the 19th century. Fashionable society lunched just after noon; dinner parties did not begin before 7 or 8 p.m. To forestall hunger pangs, the upper classes took tea and cakes in the late afternoon.

The lower classes embraced the custom and 4 o'clock tea became an English Institution that quickly crossed the Atlantic to America.

The Plymouth Historical Museum is located at 155 S. Main St. in Plymouth. Hours are Wednesday, Thursday and Saturday from 1-4 p.m., and Sunday from 2-5 p.m. Admission is $1.50 for adults, 50 cents for students 5-17, under 5 free, and a family rate of $4.

The Plymouth Museum is a non-profit, educational institution.

DRAMA OUT, MYSTERY IN: Meadow Brook Artistic Director Terence Kilburn announced that Sleuth will replace Inherit the Wind in the March 26 to April 21 slot at the professional theater at Oakland University.

Kilburn stated, "The freeze on state funds allotted to arts organizations throughout Michigan, plus an anticipated downturn in fundraising due to economic conditions, necessitates our cutting expenses. Inherit the Wind, with its 27-member cast, is just too expensive to do at this time. We will produce it in our 1991-92 season."

Anthony Shaffer's Sleuth, called "The best thriller I have ever seen" by former New York Times drama critic Clive Barnes, received a Tony for its Broadway production and was made into an Academy Award-winning movie starring Lawrence Olivier and Michael Caine.

Mustangs struggle through playoffs

Cagers go 1-2 in tournament

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN
Staff Writer

For whatever reason, the Northville cagers and the WLAA playoffs just don't mix.

For the second year in a row the Mustangs struggled their way through the postseason tournament with a less-than-inspiring 1-2 record. On March 2, Northville salvaged a little pride by knocking off Livonia Franklin 72-63 to place seventh in the 12-team playoffs. The win ended a three-game losing skid.

"It was a repeat of what happened to us in the playoffs last year," Mustang Coach Omar Harrison pointed out.

Northville opened a sizable lead in the first half against the Patriots, and then held on the rest of the way. A 14-9 advantage after one quarter was due mainly to accurate free-throw shooting (8-of-10 in the quarter), and a 24-point outburst in the second upped the margin to 12 (38-26). Ryan Huzjak and Paul McCreadie combined to score 13 points in the period.

Franklin never got closer than six in the second half, but did narrow the lead, thanks to the hot shooting of Steve Stasevick. He scored eight of his game-high 30 in the third quarter.

"He was hotter than a firecracker," Harrison said. "We had the lead the whole ballgame but it wasn't a comfortable lead. I'm never confident of a win unless we have a 20-point lead."

McCreadie led a balanced attack with 22 points and 13 rebounds, but senior guard Mark Hillinger was the standout with a career-high 17 points and five assists. Huzjak added 13 points before fouling out and Mike

"It was a repeat of what happened to us in the playoffs last year. This loss hurt more than any other this season. We were playing for pride and we felt it was a team we should beat."

OMAR HARRISON
Northville Basketball Coach

Lang chipped in with 10.

"Mark Hillinger had a fabulous game for us," Harrison said. "He had 13 points against Franklin earlier this season, so he plays well against them."

For the game, the Mustangs connected on 22-of-27 free throw attempts.

NORTH FARMINGTON 48, NORTHVILLE 47: The Raiders entered this Feb. 26 clash with just seven victories but still managed to edge the host Mustangs by a point. North Farmington outscored the locals 9-4 in the final quarter to erase a four-point deficit.

"This loss hurt more than any other this season," Harrison admitted. "We were playing for pride and we felt it was a team we should beat."

The first half was as close as a game can be. The score was tied at 14-14 after one period and 30-30 at halftime.

Northville inched ahead by four (43-39) heading into the final period, but then went ice-cold at the offensive end. Neither team could get untracked but the Raiders went to the free throw line 13 times in the final eight minutes while limiting the Mustangs to just two field goals.

"It just wasn't our night, but I guess we got passive on offense," Harrison said. "If we score what we normally score in a quarter, we win the ballgame. I mean, they only hit one basket in the fourth quarter."

"We did not play up to our potential."

Despite the collapse, Northville still had a chance to win it at the buzzer. Trailing 48-47 with four seconds left, McCreadie's 10-footer was long and Chris Lehr's putback at the buzzer rolled around and out.

"That whole sequence at the end of the game typified our night," Harrison said.

For the game, the Mustangs shot a pathetic 11-for-44 from the field for 25 percent. Mike Lang (11 points) was the only Northville player to score in double figures. Bill Chnallik paced the Raiders with 16.

The Mustangs (12-8 overall, 8-6 in the WLAA) will tackle ninth-ranked Plymouth Salem in the opening round of the MHSAA Districts tonight (March 7) at Novi.

Gymnasts fade at WLAA Meet without DeHart

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN
Staff Writer

When a team doesn't put much, if any, emphasis on a particular athletic event, the results are usually less than spectacular. And if that team is forced to compete in this event without its top performer, the situation becomes even more difficult.

That's what happened to the Northville gymnasts at the WLAA Meet on Feb. 28. Without junior standout Mia DeHart, the Mustangs finished ahead of just two teams en route to placing fifth in the seven-team competition. Northville's team score of 122.45 was a season low.

"It was not a good meet for us at all," Mustang Coach Jeff Pergament said. "Mia tore up the muscles in her big toe in practice, so she was out and that certainly didn't help."

"That cost us about two points per event which is eight for the meet. So with Mia, we probably would have scored about 30, which is what we've been averaging."

The Mustangs did not place any individuals in the top 10 in any event, but freshman Sara Kolb did place in the top 12 in the vault, uneven parallel bars and balance beam. In the all-around competition, Kolb scored 33.8 and placed 12th.

"It was Sara's first time in the all-around this season and she did a great job," Pergament said.

Kolb led Northville with an 8.8 in the vault (11th place) and was followed by Karen Kosman and Stacy Kasmerick (both scored 8.0). In bars, Kolb tied for 12th with an 8.2 and was followed in order by teammates Kristen Brown (6.7), Val Pohutski (5.45) and Lisa Hohnacki (5.3).

Kolb's 8.7 was the 11th-best balance beam score, while Kosman (8.1), Ris Fleming (7.75) and Leslie Allen (7.65) also contributed. Trade Surdu paced the Mustangs with an 8.35 in the floor exercise, and Kolb was 17th (8.1) in her season debut in the event. The other Northville scores came from Allen (7.9) and Kasmerick (7.65).

Pergament placed very little emphasis on the event, so the team's low scores weren't unexpected.

"The conference meet, in my eyes, is a nothing meet," he said. "It's just a chance to get more medals and awards. I downplayed the importance of the meet."

DeHart didn't compete but earned regular-season honors as the WLAA Western Division's top performer in the all-around and bars.

The Mustangs (5-43 overall) will be competing as a team and as individuals at the MHSAA Regionals on March 9 in Fraser. A top-three finish will qualify a team for the state meet and a top-eight finish will qualify an individual.

"Hopefully, Mia will be back by then," Pergament said. "We've been resting her and all we can do is hope."

Mustang spikers upset in districts

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN
Staff Writer

The long-awaited rematch between the Northville and Novi volleyball squads never materialized last weekend at the MHSAA District Tournament.

The Mustangs clobbered the Wildcats 15-6, 15-5 back on Dec. 17, but the Novi team has improved a lot since then. It would have been an interesting rematch but Northville was upset by Plymouth Salem in the first round of the single elimination event on March 2.

So the 'Cats semifinal opponent later that same day was the Rocks instead of the Mustangs, but that didn't seem to bother the host team. Thanks to a late comeback, Novi dumped Salem 15-10, 12-15, 16-14.

"It was really neat," Northville Coach Amy Wagner said. "Wildcats played their hearts out."

After splitting the first two games, Novi found itself trailing 9-3 in game three. Just six points from elimination, Wagner called a timeout.

"I just tried to build their confidence and they responded," she said. "Christy D'Agostino really did a great job at the service line and that helped us get back into it."

The 'Cats outscored Salem 13-5 the rest of the way to win it. Wagner did not have any team or individual statistics at press time.

PLYMOUTH SALEM 11-15-15, NORTHVILLE 15-13-9: In the opening round, the Mustangs lost senior standout Karen Vogt to an injury, proceeded to lose a big lead in game two and that ultimately led to a three-game defeat.

"We didn't do too well, but we should have," Northville Coach Paul Osborn said.

In game one, the Mustangs needed over a half-hour to turn back the Rocks 15-11. Northville led the whole way after getting off to a 7-3 start.

"It was a long game with a lot of side-outs," Osborn said. "It was probably one of the longest we've played all year."

The Mustangs were cruising in game two, ahead 7-1, when Vogt went down with a twisted ankle. Up until that point, Vogt had been 9-for-9 at the net with four kills.

"Karen was a key reason we were dominating at the net," Osborn said. "Until she went out, (Salem) had not attacked successfully one time."

But without Vogt, Northville soon fell apart. Trailing 11-2, the Rocks reeled off 10 straight points to pull in front 12-11. Salem then ended it by scoring three of the last five points.

KAREN VOGT

"We were not able to defend against their tips and dinks," Osborn explained.

In the third and deciding game, Salem was clinging to an 11-9 lead, but broke it open with a 4-0 run.

"(Salem) had all the momentum and it was hard for us to get back into the flow," Osborn said. "Our stats were good, except we didn't win the match."

As a team, the Mustangs were at 84 percent or better in the four major statistical categories (serving, hitting, setting and receiving). Ashley MacLean (23-of-27 hits, 11 kills) and Stacy Nyland (18-of-23 hits, seven kills) paced the offensive attack.

Northville ends the season at 23-11-4 overall and 8-2 in the WLAA Western Division.

LIVONIA STEVENSON 15-15, NOVI 7-2: Novi met powerful Livonia Stevenson in the finals and promptly fell in two games. The Spartans had a 45-minute wait while the Wildcats were busy putting Salem away and appeared more rested and fresh.

"The Salem match took a lot out of my kids, especially the last game," Wagner said. "Stevenson plays a good one-set offense and that killed us. We were not prepared for it and we didn't adjust to it."

Despite the loss, Novi made its first appearance in a district final in a long time. The program's last district title came back in 1982.

"It's the first time we've been in the finals since I've been here," Wagner said. "I was really proud of the way we came on at the end of the season. I wish there were more matches because we finally got confidence in ourselves."

Novi finishes the season 6-12 overall (4-8 in the KVC).

Stevenson edges tankers for title

Livonia Stevenson has been a thorn in Northville's side this swim season.

The Spartans handed the Mustangs their only dual-meet loss of the season (102-84 back on Dec. 20), and then came back more than two months later to deny Northville a title at the WLAA Meet on Feb. 27-29 at Plymouth Salem.

Stevenson (rated eighth in Class A) took first-place honors in the event with 499 points. Northville (ranked eighth) was second with 442 and Salem (ranked 10th) was third with 437.

The standout in the meet was Northville senior Eric Newton, who won the 200-yard IM (1:59.48) and was a member of the winning 200 freestyle relay that established a new conference record with a time of 1:29.89.

Mustang Coach Mark Heiden was unavailable for comment.

Olympic dream is closer for Swallow

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN
Staff Writer

He began skating at age 9 at the Plymouth Cultural Center and now, 15 years later, Northville's Jerod Swallow is a national champion.

Swallow, 24, and ice dance partner Elizabeth Punsalan, 20, bucked the odds to place first at the 1991 National Figure Skating Championships in mid-February in Minneapolis. Swallow, a former Junior National champion, is now another step closer to the ultimate goal of competing in the 1992 Winter Olympics in Albertville, France.

"The nationals is the place all skaters in this country get their rankings for the entire year," Jerod's mother, Gayanne Swallow, explained. "Everybody aims toward that."

A year ago, Swallow and Punsalan placed fifth in the '90 nationals in Salt Lake City, and then moved up to second in last summer's Olympic Festival. But heading into the Minneapolis event, they were picked for third, which would have been another step forward but not good enough to qualify for the prestigious World Championships.

"I think Jerod and Liz were shooting for third," Gayanne Swallow admitted.

So when they emerged as the champs, everyone was surprised and excited. Swallow and Punsalan revamped their ice dance routine, and incorporated a unique race car theme complete with checkered attire, just for the nationals. And while the top two ranked teams — April Sargent/Russ Witherby and Jeanne Milley/Michael Verlich — battled each other, Swallow and Punsalan skated off with the title.

"Up until December of '90, they had another routine, but they wanted to do something unique that would shock everyone," Gayanne Swallow explained. "They did the choreography themselves along with their three coaches, they chose the music and designed the costumes. "But the key was that they performed brilliantly."

Following the competition, Swallow and Punsalan were presented the "Unexpected Twist Award" for their unique routine. They beat out all the other skaters on hand for the award.

Swallow and Punsalan, who've been together not quite two years, will be off to the World Championships next month in Munich, Germany. The event will be televised by CBS.

"Their routine at the nationals was supposed to represent the speed and excitement of the Indianapolis 500," Gayanne Swallow said. "But when they compete in Europe, for obvious reasons, it will represent a Grand Prix."

"They are hoping for a top-10 finish."

The Olympic question won't be answered until the 1992 Nationals in Orlando, Fla. Another top-two finish would guarantee the duo a spot on the Olympic team.

"If they skate as well as they did this year, they should do fine," Swallow said. "Jerod's goal was originally to get to the nationals and from there his goals have steadily increased. Now, it's getting to the Olympics. Both Jerod and Liz speak French fluently, and that would be a plus. "They are still two of the younger ice dancers to compete at the national level."

And with another Winter Olympics scheduled for 1994, Swallow and Punsalan will have two opportunities in the next three years to fulfill a dream.

Five Cooke Middle School swimmers win state titles

Six Cooke Middle School students qualified and participated in the Middle School Swimming and Diving State Championships on Feb. 16 in East Lansing, and five came home with state titles.

The girls' 200-yard freestyle relay team of Amity Heckemeyer, Tammy Cook, Katrina Heckemeyer and Daneen Lang finished first with a time of 1:54.53. The combo not only grabbed the state title; they also established a new state record in the event.

The second title came from Rebecca Anderson who claimed the 100 backstroke crown with a 1:08.82 effort — a personal best by nearly two seconds. In addition, Anderson teamed with Amity Heckemeyer, Cook and Daneen to place second in the 200 medley relay (2:07.37).

In other events, Amity Heckemeyer was second in both the 100 IM (1:08.66) and the 100 freestyle (59.12). Anderson was eighth in the 100 IM (1:11.52). Cook was fifth in the 50 freestyle (27.89), 10th in the 100 freestyle (1:03.65). Lang was ninth in the 100 freestyle (1:03.23) and 10th in the 200 freestyle (2:21.93). Katrina Heckemeyer was ninth in the 200 freestyle (2:20.82) and 12th in the 100 breaststroke (1:24.29). Jeff Sieving was fourth in the 100 IM (1:03.31) and the 100 breaststroke (1:09.63).

As a unit, the girls trimmed over 11 seconds from the previous best times at the state meet and eight of the 12 individual places were best times for the participants.

Lots of choices for happy campers

When you think of summer opportunities for children, it's the traditional camp that comes to mind, but there's more to summer fun than cabins without plumbing and butterfly-chasing, says Ruth Lax of West Bloomfield.

Kids can work on their tennis, try a little white-water rafting or study hockey in the Soviet Union. You just need to explore the vacation opportunities out there.

Lax is ready to help. She's the area representative of Student Camp and Trip Advisor, which for 21 years has been assisting kids 7-18 in the selection of camps, school and travel experiences. The Boston-based company represents 600 programs in the United States, Canada and abroad, ranging from New York stage experience to community service in Appalachia. Their aim is to match young clients with the most suitable summer experience for their interests and wallets.

"We're not just a referral service," Lax said. "We don't just send out brochures."

Her service begins with a telephone call and the completion of a profile sheet that asks for special information on the child — interests and previous camp experience. She sets up an hour appointment with the parent and child to focus on the child's interests and parents' expectations.

"What makes SCATA different is the personal contact," Lax said. That and the fact that SCATA representatives spend their own summers visiting the camps for evaluation.

"When I can talk about it, it makes it much more viable than just handing out a brochure," she said.

After acquainting the young client with suitable potential camps, the camps take over, Lax said. She collects no fees from the client. If the child enrolls in a camp, the camp pays her a commission.

Summer camp is different today than it was 20 years ago, Lax said, because of the proliferation of specialized programs. For a young child, she said, a traditional camp might be the best approach, but for the already experienced camper, a more sophisticated summer adventure might be in order.

So, what is there besides sleeping on bunks and eating cafeteria chow? Lax offers a few examples of a variety of the specialized summer programs she represents:

Expert to pay to play for the top quality sports camps, Lax said. One company offers hockey training in Russia, two weeks for $3,150; tennis in Florida, one month for $2,895, or skiing in British Columbia, three weeks for $2,695.

"Or you can go to a traditional camp that offers a variety of activities like swimming and night activities although tennis is the main focus," Lax said.

"A moderate camp might run $600 per week. There's an interest camp for every sport."

One company hosts expeditions of 12-18 teens, grouped according to age, chaperoned by three adults. A beginner's 24-day expedition in Pennsylvania offers bicycle touring, caving, rock climbing, backpacking and white-water rafting. The adventure starts with a ropes and initiative course in the forest surrounding the camp. The cost: $1,950.

Teen tours combine camping with dormitory life as participants explore a region, including city sights. One 21-day excursion begins with arrival in Los Angeles, then on to San Diego, Las Vegas, the Grand Canyon, Lake Tahoe, San Francisco and points in between. For $2,495 teens receive air transportation to and from California, three meals daily, all entertainment, recreation and lodging.

"Yes, it's upscale," Lax said. "Kids are seeing the country with friends. Safety is an incredible factor. Every teen is told — no smoking, no alcohol, no substances. If you do, you go home. There's no second chance."

Academic programs are offered by eastern schools, including Wellesley. Serious students can delve into subjects like philosophy, literature, archaeology, ecology, physics, and medicine. Attendance is required and class participation and preparation are expected, but there is no credit, no grades. Tuition for residential students at this camp is $1,725 for a three-week session.

Teenagers who want to spend the summer being useful can help out in countries as far away as Hungary or Botswana, or closer to home — the West Indies or Jamaica or Appalachia. Prices, programs and lengths of stay vary, and there is plenty of work out there. An in-country visit might cost $2,200 to $2,400, Lax said.

Ruth Lax of Student Camp and Trip Advisors can be reached at 851-9622. Or write to SCATA, 7447 Franklin Ridge Lane, West Bloomfield, 48332.

Exercise programs may ease PMS time

Dear Myrna: Can you explain PMS? I've had problems with it the last few years. I am 31 years old and I exercise already. Does exercise help PMS or should I not exercise during my PMS time?

PMS — what a time! What a time!

The major PMS (premenstrual syndrome) time occurs during the last two weeks prior to the onset of menstrual bleeding. This 14-day period occurs after ovulation and rarely varies in length. PMS symptoms are absent during the two weeks after the start of menstruation and recur at least three months in a row. That leaves two weeks on and two weeks off, if you are a heavy PMS person.

Nearly 90 percent of all women experience premenstrual syndrome at sometime or another and 40 percent claim it disturbs their lives. Yet, there is no definition, no cause, and no cure for PMS. We don't know whether it is psychological, hormonal, normal, abnormal or a vitamin deficiency. We do know that while you can't cure it, you can control or even eliminate some of the symptoms through diet and exercise. By planning ahead, your PMS times and adjusting a bit can improve PMS symptoms.

There have been furious battles between the American Psychiatric Association and feminist organizations. Psychiatrists claim that PMS should be categorized as a psychiatric disease suffered by nervous women. Feminists charge that PMS is too widespread, therefore, being something physical.

For those lucky women out there who do not suffer from PMS, let me briefly touch on some of the symptoms (and men, you just might recognize these symptoms also). They include: tension and sometimes migraine headaches; depression — crying spells for no reason; backache; a feeling of losing control and anxiety; weight gain; food cravings — salt and sweets; acne and allergies; and bloating and breast soreness.

You can ward off PMS blues by avoiding certain foods that contribute to water retention and bloating. Try a good, low-fat healthy diet, avoid caffeine, reduce salt, protein foods (animals), alcohol and sugar, increase carbohydrate intake, eat fruit and leafy green salads, never go hungry (eat several small meals rather than one or two big ones).

Another little helper might be vitamin B-6 to calm the PMS jitters. I have read that it helps.

Now my expertise — exercise. I know that because aerobic exercise stimulates the production of beta-endorphins, it can help reduce the anxiety and depression common to PMS sufferers. Of course, exercise at least three times weekly (five or six times being best). On those PMS times, make sure you push a little harder. Whatever you choose — speed walking, swimming, aerobic class, etc. — many doctors highly recommend an exercise program as an important part of treatment.

In my opinion, labeling PMS a psychiatric illness is dangerous and sexist. There have been no studies to prove this.

So what is a woman to do? First, recognize PMS for what it is. Don't consider yourself abnormal. Even use it when you are having a bad day.

Myrna Partrich, co-owner of The Workout Company of Bloomfield Township and a recent appointee of The President's Council on Physical Fitness, is happy to answer any questions readers may have regarding exercise. Please send your letters to Sports Department, Myrna Partrich, 805 East Maple, Birmingham, MI 48093.

The Illusion 3

Unique "multiplex" design for large family

BY JAMES MCALEXANDER
Copley News Service

The Illusion 3 is a unique and exciting "multiplex" design that features two stories plus a three-car garage. The home is designed for a large family or for two families.

The home is entered through a double entry/airlock, which makes the single family/multiplex design possible. The entry includes multiple windows, a large coat storage area, a spa storage area, and windows looking into the central spa/garden solarium area. To the right is a separate interior entryway with a staircase and a large octagonal living room with corner fireplace, built-in shelves and oversize windows.

Immediately ahead from the interior entry is the dining area, featuring oversize sliding glass doors leading to the spa/garden solarium and allowing full natural lighting through that area. The large kitchen is just ahead here, featuring a built-in barbecue and cooktop, a separate wall oven, a freezer, a corner walk-in pantry, a breakfast bar, a dishwasher, a garden window, plenty of counter and storage space, a wood stove and a breakfast nook.

Below the kitchen is a private hallway featuring a storage closet and easy access to water heater and heating unit. A full bath is located off the hall, with a double basin with vanity unit located in one room and a full bath with both tub and separate shower in another room. At the head of the hall is a den with a corner fireplace and a double closet.

To the left of the main entry is a utility room with plenty of counter space. Just ahead is a living room/family/recreation area.

The upper level of the left wing features a large landing with storage closet/water heater area. A full bath is located off the hallway. Two bedrooms are located here, one with a large walk-in closet, the other with a full closet and an oversize window looking out into the central spa/garden solarium area.

The right wing area of the upper floor features a balcony sitting room with full fireplace, which overlooks the living room below. Above is the large master suite, featuring a window wall overlooking the spa/garden solarium. Also located here are another oversize walk-in dressing closet, two separate wash basins (one with vanity) and two doors off the balcony into the sleeping area. The bath is entered through swinging "saloon doors" and features a stall shower and an oversize soaking tub.

Most professionals view commuting the same way they view a trip to the dentist. It's a necessary evil.

But is it really necessary? Whether you're a professional employed by a large company, or a small-business owner seeking to cut overhead, perhaps a home office is the solution for your problems.

A short commute is one advantage of being a home-based worker. As some of us are out scraping car windows, attaching jumper cables or contemplating a long commute, that brief walk might just become more appealing.

The number of home offices being established is astounding. LINK Resources, a New York-based research and consulting firm, noted that in 1987, 2.1 million Americans instituted new home offices.

In 1988, that figure doubled, as 4.2 million people established offices at home. That brings the total number of people involved in work-at-home situations up to 26.6 million.

It's been predicted that the number of people working at home will nearly double by the year 2000. Several local home-based entrepreneurs have found that the benefits outweigh the disadvantages.

If you own your own home, you're have an advantage in designing a home work center. In most cases, a home affords the space to at least set aside a corner of a room as a work space. If you have an unfinished or semi-finished basement, or a spare bedroom, so much the better.

One question to answer when designing a home office is whether you need a separate entry or additional parking for clients. If so, call the city's building department about zoning regulations.

In Northville Township, for example, home business is technically not allowed under any circumstances. Carol Maise, the township's planning and zoning administrator said that will soon change, however.

"Right now you can't have (an in-home business), but the planning commission does have an ordinance amendment that is in its final stages," she said. "It will allow home occupations under certain conditions."

The new ordinance would allow businesses that don't impose on the residential character of their neighborhoods.

Signs outside the building won't be allowed, employees will be limited to family members, and business which increase traffic or require visitation by more than one client at a time will be no-nos, Maise said, though variances may be granted.

Maise said this is one example of where local ordinances haven't kept up with the latest trends, but she's optimistic that the new ordinance will pass. In general, she expects the township will be friendly toward home businesses.

"We don't necessarily go out and police them," she said. "If we get complaints, we'll monitor them for a while. If there does appear to be a problem, we'll go to the zoning board of appeals."

"A lot of communities have more restrictions. I know that in Farmington Hills, they get into it more. They check in terms of hazardous materials and chemicals. Some communities require the fire department to go in to inspect home offices ... Some require a license, and an inspection."

The City of Novi requires home businesses to register, just like conventional businesses. A spokesperson for the city said the bulk of its home business owners run secretarial services or computer software operations.

If you're claiming the office space as a tax deduction, current regulations require the room be used specifically for business and be a place to meet clients.

The Michigan Association of Certified Public Accountants pointed out that you may be able to depreciate your home office. Also, you can generally write off part of your various operating expenses, like utilities, for the office portion of the home. You can even deduct a portion of the cost of a home-

REAL ESTATE

More affordable housing likely in future

BY JAMES M. WOODARD
Copley News Service

Every American family should be able to afford a decent home in a suitable environment.

That's the national goal, as expressed in a major new housing legislative bill—the National Affordable Housing Act. It's the first really significant housing legislation in 10 years and opens the door to new and experimental affordable housing programs.

The legislation makes it possible for mortgage lenders, government units and non-profit organizations to join together in establishing local affordable housing programs. The act makes $57 billion available over the next two years for qualified programs. The funding is subject to the congressional appropriations process.

Among other things, the law made some changes in the Federal Housing Administration single-family mortgage insurance program. For example, it permanently increases the FHA mortgage limit to $124,875.

Also, the law changes the maximum loan-to-value ratio to 98.75 percent for mortgage loans up to $50,000—and 97.75 percent for mortgages above that level. In other words, smaller down payments will be required from qualified buyers.

On the negative side, the law requires that at least 43 percent of closing costs be paid in cash. And the FHA mortgage insurance premium has been increased for high loan-to-value loans.

Other key provisions of the new law include the establishment of a special trust fund, administered by the Department of Housing and Urban Development. This will help low- and moderate-income families buy their first home. It provides down payment and closing cost assistance and subsidies to reduce mortgage interest rates to 6 percent.

The law also provides funds for the Housing Opportunities for People Everywhere (HOPE) program. This will help low- and moderate-income tenants in subsidized housing to buy their units.

Overall, the new legislation is a major step forward in helping families purchase a home of their own and enhancing their lifestyle.

Q. Is a lease-purchase plan a good way to acquire a home?

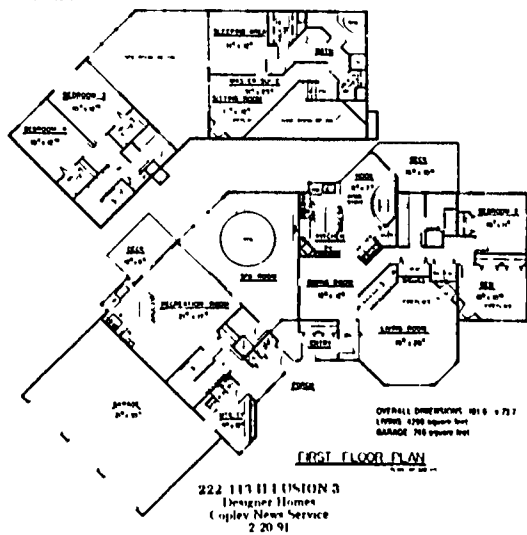

A. In certain situations it works out very well indeed. It's particularly suitable for young families who have found a home they would like to buy but lack the needed down payment. They can lease the property for a specified time period while saving for the down payment, then proceed with the contracted purchase transaction.

In Michigan, a special lease-purchase program has been set up to help low-income families acquire a home. A non-profit organization, using funds from an Affordable Housing Program grant, purchases and rehabilitates single and multi-housing properties. The units are then leased to qualified low-income families earning less than 60 percent of the area median income. The contract allows the family to purchase and take title to the residence at a future time.

The lease period gives the family time to save for a modest down payment, establish a favorable credit record and receive financial counseling. At the same time, they are residing in the home.

Painting stucco can be sticky

BY GENE GARY
Copley News Service

Q. The exterior of our stucco home is dingy and needs a new, refreshed finish. I have considered painting, but one of my neighbors said it is best not to paint stucco.

A. Stucco refinishing by a commercial firm is more expensive than I am able to afford right now. What is your opinion about painting stucco, and what would you recommend?

A. The alkali-resistant paints on the market today, together with special brushes and rollers for masonry surfaces, have made painting masonry a relatively simple matter.

Some experts do not recommend painting stucco in colder climates where the freeze/thaw cycle can cause damage and peeling. The theory is that the stucco should be able to breathe, and that moisture can get between the paint and the stucco, causing peeling and disintegration of the masonry.

However, if you live in a moderate climate, painting should be a viable option. The purpose of the painting, the condition of the surface and the expected exposure all combine to dictate the selection of the right paint.

Consequently, these factors should be related to your local reputable paint dealer who will help you choose the right paint for your project. There are many quality alkaline-resistant paints, and each has its advantages and disadvantages.

For example, latex paints for use on masonry surfaces can be used with confidence. They come in a wide variety of colors, are water-thinned and can be applied to a damp surface. In fact, the surface should be dampened before applying the first coat.

Oil-based stucco and masonry paints are similar to conventional house paints in many respects. Their flat or low-sheen qualities tend to hide surface irregularities, and these paints produce good results where concrete and adjacent wood surfaces are to be painted the same color.

As with any painting project, proper preparation is essential to assure satisfactory, durable results.

First, be sure that the surface is clean, cracks, indentations and spalls filled, and the surface otherwise intact (no crumbling or scaling) before painting.

Wash away oil and grease; remove dirt and other materials with a wire brush. If there is any white, salt-like material adhering to the stucco, it is likely efflorescence. This is caused by moisture that dissolves salts in the interior of alkaline materials and carries them to the surface. Efflorescence must be removed before painting (use a solution of muriatic acid, mixed 1 part to 9 parts of water, applied, scrubbed and rinsed with clear water).

Paint will help seal the masonry surface and will help prevent efflorescence in the future.

If you have any moisture problem near the foundation, use a colorless masonry sealer on the lower portion of the building to help prevent problems. This is a wise precautionary measure in almost any case. Then apply an alkali-resistant primer followed by the finish coats. Two finish coats will be more satisfactory than a one-coat finish.

For best results, always choose a quality paint and use a special masonry brush or roller to make your job easier. You will probably have to repaint every three to seven years, depending on the exposure and climatic conditions your house is subjected to.

If you wish to consider options other than painting, there are firms that will resurface the stucco finish.

Another option would be to use stucco refinishers. One such brand is "Revive" made by Expo Stucco Products. This product can be sprayed over large surfaces, or brushed or rolled in areas where spraying is difficult.

It has the consistency of a very thin paint, but won't work on a surface that has already been painted. A natural untreated, unpainted wall is required; without it, you won't get a good application.

Q. Can you offer some sound advice on the best way to operate the damper on a fireplace? We have been told that the damper should be closed when embers are still left in the fireplace, so that the chimney will not draw all of the warm air out of the room.

A. I am confused, as I always thought the damper should remain open several hours after burning a fire to assure that all of the fumes go up the flue rather than saturating the interior of the house.

A. Here is professional advice on the operation of dampers, taken from a technical publication:

Make sure the damper is wide open before lighting the fire. Many fireplaces are operated with dampers constantly open, but dampers do not have to be constantly opened and closed in order to be of great value in promoting a smooth discharge of smoke and arresting the down draft.

Experiment to see how much the damper opening can be cut down to save heat while still discharging all of the smoke. When only a bed of glowing coals remain, the damper can be brought nearest to a fully closed position.

But, again, be sure to open it before refueling with a smoke-producing fire.

Home sweet office

security system.

The MACPA also notes that the deductions for business use of the home are allowed only to the extent of the taxpayer's net income from the business — that is, gross income less deductions attributable to the business. The net effect of this limitation is that home office deductions may not be used to create or increase a net loss from the business conducted in the home.

Speaking in even broader terms, you shouldn't be making any moves toward your own business — home-based or otherwise — without an accountant.

The editors of Home Plan Ideas offer some guidelines to find space for a tailor-made work area.

Typically, homeowners simply desire a private space to attend to paperwork. If minimal space is needed, consider quiet locations. Look over the floor plan for an idle corner, alcove, end of a hallway or empty stretch of wall space for a desk. Specify enough electrical and phone outlets to hook up special equipment such as computers and phones, as well as to provide for adequate ambient and task lighting.

If working odd hours when the rest of the family is in bed, think about installing the work center in the guest room rather than a main bedroom.

Laundries and work areas make good roommates: They share plenty of storage, spacious work surfaces, good lighting and easy-to-clean finishes.

Libraries and dens meet the need for more formal refuge. Talk to a builder about maximizing the use of this space with built-in shelving and furniture.

Apartments present a different challenge, but the task is by no means impossible. Check to make sure a home office doesn't violate your lease.

Some apartment complexes' advertisements say the second bedroom is ideal for converting into a home office. Sometimes the clubhouse features a fax machine, word processor and printer for use by residents.

Victorian era revives Louis XVI

BY JAMES G. MCCOLLAM
Copley News Service

Q. This antique chair was inherited from my father. We had it refinished and covered with needlepoint several years ago.

Can you tell me something about its style, when it was made and its current value?

A. This would be classified as Victorian Louis XVI Revival furniture that was prevalent from 1865 to 1880. It would probably sell for $300 to $350 in good condition.

Q. Does my old Kodak Bantam camera have any value? This camera takes 828 film which I can't buy anymore. It is beautifully made with a fine lens and a high-speed shutter.

Should I keep it or deep-six?

A. Your camera was one of the best produced by Eastman in the late 1930s.

It is obsolete as a working camera but a hot item with collectors. They will pay up to $200 for one in fine condition.

Q. I have a 26-inch-high bronze figure of a shepherd sitting on a rock. He is clothed in a tunic and cloak with a straw hanging on his back. He is holding a shepherd's crook in his hand.

It is signed "Cootenot."

A. This statue was probably made in France during the late 1800s. It would probably sell in an antique shop for $800 to $900.

Q. The attached marks on the bottom of a ceramic vase. It is 10 inches tall and decorated with a floral design. It has two handles near the rim.

Please provide information as to maker, vintage, and value.

A. Your vase was made by the Charles Volkmar pottery in Greenpoint, N.Y., about 1880. A dealer would price it at about $165 to $185.

Q. I would like to know when my candlestick-type telephone was made and what it might sell for today.

It is marked "American Telephone & Telegraph" and has several patent dates ranging from 1913 to 1920. It is finished in black enamel and trimmed with brass.

A. Since the latest patent date is 1920, it was probably made between 1920 and 1925.

The chair above would be classified as Victorian Louis XVI revival.

Worth its salt

Aquarium service offers education as well

By RICK BYRNE
Copy Editor

Old ideas about how to maintain a tropical fish tank are all wet. A Novi company, SeaCare Aquarium Service, is looking to bring the aquarium business into the 1990s.

Not a retailer of aquarium supplies, SeaCare is a service organization, dedicated to setting up and maintaining tropical fish tanks for customers. Though the company handles freshwater tanks, its specialty is saltwater tanks. Saltwater aquariums, though harder to maintain, can harbor much more colorful and attractive fish.

"Saltwater aquariums are a multimillion-dollar business," said Erik Bean, owner of SeaCare. "New technology, such as the wet-dry filter, has completely revolutionized the care of saltwater aquariums."

Though SeaCare is there to help the hobbyist, half of business is with commercial clients. The company installs and maintains tanks in restaurants, hotels, doctors' offices and dentists' offices. Not content just to clean fish tanks, Bean points with pride to his company's educational program as an important service.

"Others do what we do, but what we have going for us is we install the equipment and make sure the people know what they have," said Bean. "We educate them to the type of fish and equipment that they have."

Bean said its important to educate the corporate clients, since they often have no experience with a tropical fish tank, and want to minimize their time commitment to keeping the tank.

"In the office world, it becomes an interior decorating prop," said Bean. "We have people who like to match the color of the carpeting."

He said they're also popular with doctors and dentists because fish tanks have been shown to reduce stress. Placed in the waiting room, a fish tank has a better calming effect than a stack of old People magazines.

Bean also hosts classes through the Novi and Livonia public schools to educate hobbyists about saltwater aquariums.

"I'm not a marine biologist, but I can pass on my experience as a hobbyist and a businessman," said Bean. "The class is for anybody who is at a stage where they've been working with freshwater for a while. They want to move up to a saltwater tank and they want to do it right."

In addition to sorting the good equipment from the bad — a kind of Consumer Reports for aquarists — Bean passes on cost-saving tips on how hobbyists can build their own equipment.

For instance, the new wet-dry filters which totally eliminate the old air-stones and undergravel filters in the tank, can be duplicated for less than a quarter of their $400 price tag. "I show them how they can build by hand this high-tech filter system for under $100, with stuff they can buy from the hardware and plumbing store," said Bean.

He cites the wet-dry filtration system as the ideal for home or office. All the filtration and heating equipment is kept in a second tank, which can be kept hidden in a cabinet below the fish tank. It makes for a roomier and more attractive fish tank, not to mention the efficiency and ease of maintenance.

He also helps people select fish that are healthy, handy advice when you see how pricey saltwater fish can be.

"Only a few breeds can be bred in captivity," said Bean. "The rest are all trapped wild in the Caribbean, South America, Hawaii."

"When they buy the fish, I tell them to watch the fish being fed. If the fish doesn't eat, that usually means he's unhealthy. If he won't eat, he'll die."

"Also, if the tank is unlit, or the inside corners of the tank have blue staining, that means the fish is being medicated. You don't want to buy an unhealthy fish."

Still reeling from taxes? Wait 'til next year

If three years of minor changes in tax law have lulled you into complacency, it's time to wake up.

After a 10-month debate, Congress finally passed a new tax law last fall that is likely to affect how much tax you have to pay for 1991. If that day seems far off, you're fooling yourself. For many taxpayers—especially those in the upper-middle class—a year-round tax plan may be the only way to keep tax bills from soaring sky high. But before you can start planning, you need to know the rules. Here's a synopsis of the new tax laws provided by the Michigan Association of CPAs.

A NEW TAX RATE

Say goodbye to the 33-percent tax bracket. In its place is a 31-percent bracket for joint filers with taxable income of more than $82,150 ($49,300 for single filers). That may sound like good news, but for many taxpayers, it is anything but good news. The 33-percent marginal bracket was actually a surcharge to progressively increase the tax rate from 15 percent to 28 percent and to eliminate the tax deduction for personal exemptions. Once this was accomplished, the tax rate dropped back to 28 percent. In other words, the highest tax rate under the old law was 28 percent.

Money Management

Under the new law, the 31 percent tax rate applies to all taxable income in excess of the dollar amount prescribed by law. Fortunately, the increase does not affect the majority of taxpayers, who remain in the 15-percent and 28-percent tax brackets.

SUBSIDIZING MEDICARE

Middle-income workers do not escape the new tax laws unscathed. The culprit this time is a Medicare tax extension. In 1991, the Medicare payroll tax (1.45 percent on wages and 2.9 percent on self-employment income) applies on earnings up to $125,000, instead of $53,400. In concrete terms, this extension means that a single taxpayer earning $125,000 will have to pay $1,038 more in 1991, under the new law. The bill for a self-employed individual earning the same amount will be $2,076 higher.

PHASE-OUT OF DEDUCTIONS

Individuals with high incomes have another tax burden with which they must contend: the phase-out of personal exemptions. Once adjusted gross income exceeds $100,000 on a single return or $150,000 on a joint return, personal exemptions will be cut by 2 percent for every $2,500 over these thresholds.

For example, under the old rules a married couple with three children and an AGI of $200,000 would have been entitled to five exemptions, equal to $10,750. Under the new tax law, they will lose 40 percent of their exemptions, or $4,300. The end result will be a tax bill approximately $1,350 higher than it would have been under the old laws.

NON-DEDUCTIBLE COSMETIC SURGERY

One of the least publicized changes brought about by the new tax package is the elimination of tax-deductible medical expenses for cosmetic surgery or similar procedures. Starting in 1991, cosmetic surgery is considered a personal expense (and thus non-deductible) unless the surgery or procedure is needed to correct a deformity arising from a congenital abnormality, a personal injury resulting from an accident or trauma, or a disfiguring disease.

Tax law goes one step further. If you are insured under an employer-provided health plan and your insurance company reimburses you for non-deductible cosmetic surgery expense, you must include the reimbursement in your gross income and pay tax on the amount received. For example, if your incur $12,000 in cosmetic surgery expenses and your insurance company reimburses you for $10,000 of that amount, the $10,000 will be deemed taxable income.

NEW RULES ON ITEMIZED DEDUCTIONS

If you are counting on your itemized deductions to reduce the bite of a higher tax rate, here's some more bad news. Congress has limited most deductions—including mortgage interest, charitable contributions, local taxes, and miscellaneous expenses—for taxpayers with adjusted gross incomes above $100,000 ($50,000 for married couples filing separately). These high-income individuals will have to reduce their total itemized deductions by 3 percent of the amount by which their adjusted gross incomes exceed $100,000. In other words, a taxpayer earning $150,000 will have to reduce his or her itemized deductions by $1,500. The maximum limitation under this rule is 80 percent of the allowable itemized deductions, not counting such deductions as medical expenses, investment interest or casualty losses.

A SMALL BREAK FOR CAPITAL GAINS

The silver lining in the new tax law is a maximum tax rate on net long-term capital gains of 28 percent. Benefiting from this tax break are taxpayers who formerly paid 33 percent on capital gains. Here's an example. A capital gain of $30,000 in 1990 would have resulted in a tax bill of $9,900. That same gain in 1991 means $8,400 in taxes, a savings of $1,500.

THE COST OF LUXURY GOES UP

Luxury items just became more expensive. Buyers now have to pay an excise tax of 10 percent on the amount by which retail prices exceed $30,000 for cars, $100,000 for boats, $250,000 for aircraft, and $10,000 for jewelry, watches and furs.

A TAX ASSORTMENT

The new law provides a unique tax break for individuals planning to make charitable contributions. For 1991 only, taxpayers can generally donate art or other appreciated tangible property and claim a deduction based on the property's fair market value without triggering the alternative minimum tax (AMT)—a special tax computation that applies to high-income individuals with numerous tax deductions. The catch is that the donated item must be used by the recipient for its express charitable purpose. An example of a qualified contribution would be a rare painting donated to an art museum. This tax break is especially valuable now that the AMT has been raised to 24 percent from 21 percent.

A provision extended for 1991 enables individuals to accept employer-paid educational assistance of up to $5,250 a year without having to report the amount as taxable income. What's more, this year payment for graduate-school courses also becomes tax-free.
