McMahon in, Petrie out of schools race

By SUZANNE HOLLYER
Staff Writer

Northville School Board Secretary Robert McMahon may vie with two mystery candidates for one of two places on the Board of Education in June.

But board President James Petrie's name won't be appearing on the ballot this year.

McMahon, a four-year board veteran, announced at Monday's board meeting that he will seek re-election to the school board on June 10. Two positions will be up for grabs, with Petrie's term also expiring in June. After eight years on the board, however, Petrie is calling it quits.

Petrie is running for the Wayne County Regional Educational Service Agency Board of Trustees, a position he could hold concurrently with the Northville school board.

But Petrie said he will leave the Northville school board in order to dedicate his time in future months to the county election. Petrie also cited work and family commitments as reasons for leaving the school board.

McMahon and two other potential candidates requested petitions to have their names placed on the election ballot from the district's central office at 501 W. Main St.

McMahon said in his one term on the board "much has been accomplished."

He attributed the district's success to staff, parental and community involvement.

"In this district we involve the citizens at the start," McMahon said. "By the time it gets to the board there's not much of a controversy."

In addition to McMahon, the two others who have pulled petitions asked to remain anonymous, said Northville's director of business and finance, John Street.

But a clue as to the identity of the two other possible candidates might be found in looking at one controversy that has made it to the board level in recent months. A critic of the district's board-adopted health model said one or more advocates of her position may seek a post on the school board.

Candidates must return petitions of 20 signatures to the district's central office by April 8 at 4 p.m.

Petrie gave a brief speech at Monday's meeting to announce his plans to leave the board, saying it is "tradition to let the community know of our intentions."

Board watchers can expect a longer "thank you" speech from Petrie when his term expires, he said.

Instead of bidding farewell to the board, Petrie said the board has a lot of work to do before he leaves.

"The things I'm thinking about are the many issues we have to address before the end of the school year," Petrie said.

One of those issues may be a millage election that also will be held June 10.

All of the district's 27.78 voted mills are expiring. The district currently levies 22.63 of the 27.78 mills for operating purposes.

Polls for the dual-purpose election will be open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m.

Engler speaks to local concerns

By TIM RICHARD
Staff Writer

Gov. John Engler tilted an open ear to Northville Township's complaint that there's too much unused state land within its borders.

"That's true in many parts of the state. There are unproductive assets that, in the state's long-term planning, could be put on the tax rolls," the governor said in an exclusive interview with The Record. "I'm not satisfied with the property management of the state. We hope to take a look at a number of these issues. In the first nine weeks, we haven't had time to devote to that."

With less than 18 square miles — half of a survey township — Northville Township has two mental hospitals, two prisons, a state park, and a state police district headquarters and post, much of it on prime land in the path of development.

Engler said much of his time so far has been devoted to budget battles — cutting property taxes and preserving education while "downsizing" the remainder of state government. Engler praised an idea of Sen. R. Robert Geake, R-Northville, to privatize mental health care and get the state out of running large hospitals.

"Jim Haveman will be looking at that," Engler said, referring to the ## Residents argue assessments

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

Northville City's new assessor is finding himself inundated by complaints from city residents who argue that their assessments have risen too much.

Ironically, many of the complaints may be due to historical inaccuracies corrected in this year's assessments.

Homeowners in the Oakland County portion of the city saw their assessments rise an average of 8 percent, said assessor Mark Christiansen, but that average varied widely between neighborhoods and even more widely between individual properties.

Lexington Condominiums owners actually saw their assessments drop an average of 3 percent while the neighborhood between Eight Mile and Baseline roads saw an average 14-percent hike.

The range was even more severe in Wayne County, which had an average 13-percent increase. East Street condominiums saw a 5-percent increase and assessments in the neighborhood between Cady and Fairbrook shot up an average of 32 percent.

Individual property owners saw an even greater range of assessment increases and decreases.

Christiansen attributed the wide ranges to historically inaccurate assessments, particularly in Wayne County. The assessor was hired last year due to the city's concern that its commercial properties were underassessed.

"My concern is dealing with what the value of the property is," Christiansen said, "and if it means that I've got some underassessed from previous years, and some overassessed, then obviously some are going to come up and some are going to go down to meet what I think are the new values. That's basically what happened this year. There is no consistent increase that applies to anybody."

The assessor took the unusual step of explaining the reason behind the huge variations to the Wayne County residents who saw their assessments rise more than the county average, by way of a letter included in their assessment notice envelopes.

In the letter, Christiansen explained that the city's newly installed computer appraisal system had uncovered a pattern of errors by previous county assessors.

The system was approved by the State Tax Commission prior to its use.

"I realize that the large increases will have a negative impact on many residents," Christiansen wrote. "The current problem of inequities is the result of inadequate past assessing methods by Wayne County which were compounded over the recent years."

The Board of Review already has scheduled time for 280 appeals this year, after hearing 252 appeals in 1990, Christiansen said.

Despite the complaints, the assessor said his department's new computer system has made assessments more equitable between properties.

One condominium owner complained to Christiansen that his assessment had been raised from $58,000 to $60,000 while his neighbor, who owns an identical condominium unit, saw a $5,000 decrease. True enough, Christiansen discovered, but the man's neighbor had seen his assessment drop from $68,000 to $61,000, bringing the two assessments closer together where they should have been all along.

Business expo features free food

What are you doing for dinner next Wednesday? How about sampling food from 10 different Northville eateries while entering prize drawings and learning about your local businesses? And how does a cost of $4 sound?

If the answer is great, you'll want to head to the first-ever "Taste of Northville" Business Expo set for 5:30 to 8 p.m. next Wednesday, March 21, at Cooke Middle School, on Taft one block north of Eight Mile.

The brainstorm of the Northville Community Chamber of Commerce, the expo will feature 46 exhibitors — all from Northville — showing their stuff to the public. In addition to all the good eats, the evening will also include lots of giveaways and prize drawings.

Although this is the first time the chamber has tried such an event locally, businesses jumped on the idea in force. The 46 slots are full and several businesses are on a waiting list to try to get space. Chamber Executive Director Laurie Marrs expects next year's show (they fully intend to have another) to be even bigger.

But this year's will be plenty big, Marrs said. The main attraction may well be the 10 restaurants offering free food. Since admission is just $4 — or $3 for seniors — expo organizers are hoping lots of people will bring the kids for a different kind of night out.

"You can come and have your family dinner," Marrs said — and from 10 different places. Eateries slated to appear at the expo are Papa Romano's, MacKinnon's, Edwards Caterer, Genitti's, Cloverdale Cafe, Gradma Betty's Sweets 'n' Treats, Rifles, Pizza Cutter, Heavenly Bakery, and Crawford's Bakery Connection.

ford's Bakery Connection.

Many exhibitors plan freebies for members of the public attending the expo, Marrs said. The chamber chips in with perhaps the biggest prize: a drawing for a Northville basket featuring all sorts of good local stuff. The winner of this prize will take home a Northville mug, Northville playing cards, a Victorian Festival sweatshirt, a Northville map, a copy of Northville: The First Hundred Years by Jack Hoffman, and more.

The Northville Public Schools are donating the use of the Cooke gymnasium for this event. Cooke is paired up with National Bank of Detroit under the school district's Partnerships in Education program, and NBD Branch Manager John Mahler is one of the expo's organizers.

Township curbside recycling ahead

By MIKE TYREE
Staff Writer

Northville Township will adopt a trash disposal ordinance in 1991. Township officials say that's a fact.

Just when the plan will be implemented remains a mystery.

The township board will review the first draft of a proposed solid-waste ordinance this evening (March 14). The ordinance is designed to establish a multi-tiered plan that would institute a curbside recycling program and ensure compliance with Wayne County's Solid Waste Management Plan.

The township's proposed ordinance radically differs with past local solid-waste programs. Features of the draft ordinance include: Authorization for the township to enter into a contract for trash collection from residential customers; a requirement that solid-waste handlers and residents separate recyclables from other trash and set materials out for collection separately; prohibition of rubbish or garbage burning; licensing all solid-waste haulers; and township legal recourse against ordinance violators.

The township has taken steps toward compliance with county solid-waste mandates. It established a recycling center in December 1989, is in the process of securing a site for a composting site and has interviewed four haulers expected to bid on a townshipwide solid waste collection contract.

But pronouncements that the township would kick off collections of recyclables and other solid waste materials by June 30 may be premature.

Township Manager Richard Henningsen this week said bid specifications for the recycling program are currently under review by the township attorney's office.

Upon attorney approval, the specifications must be okayed by the township board before they are forwarded to potential bidders.

But none of the four solid-waste collection firms interviewed by the township last month would be prepared to implement a collection plan by June 30 under that scenario. Representatives of the four solid-waste firms told the board that a minimum of 60 and a maximum of 120 days were needed to ready a collection strategy — after the bid award announcement.

So when do township residents start separating household refuse? The date varies from official to official.

"I don't think I have a problem (with county guidelines) until Sept. 1," Henningsen said. "Personally, I would say Sept. 1 would be the starting date."

"July 1 is an optimistic date, a very optimistic date," said Supervisor Georgina Goss. "We want it as soon as possible after (July 1)."

"Realistically, I'm looking at it within the next six months," she said.

Township grabs Tigers by tail

By MIKE TYREE
Staff Writer

Northville Township officials don't want the Detroit Tigers in their backyard and are devising a plan to drive home the point.

Rumors that the Motor City Kitties were interested in the Northville area prompted the township planning commission to devise a list of stadium standards that may soon grace the township's zoning ordinance.

Stadium standards pondered by the commission clearly are designed as a brush-back pitch.

"Because of all the rumors, everybody's asking if we're protected," said Carol Maise, township planning and zoning administrator. "We wondered what would happen if a stadium plan were to walk in today. Would we be protected?"

To shield the township from the horrors of increased traffic, parking woes and mediocre baseball, the commission directed planning consultants

WBDC to draft strict stadium guidelines. The end result should shut out interest in Northville as a baseball town, said WBDC's Brad Strader.

"The standards we came up with are not inviting (and are) fairly strict," Strader said. "They would have to go through a lot of steps, a lot of documentation (to get a stadium approved)."

Strader said his firm contacted communities throughout the country that recently went through the stadium-building process. The goal was to find out what problems other communities encountered, he said.

He listed traffic flow as an oft-mentioned problem and also said parking, afternoon games ending during rush hour and accommodating transit lines as typical stadium-related woes.

WBDC then drafted a zoning ordinance amendment that addressed those specific items of concern. To build in the township, a stadium operator would have to follow tough guidelines for parking, traffic, wetlands setbacks, and landscaping, Strader said.

"Also required would be a very detailed analysis of water and sewer impact and police protection and on-site security," he said.

Strader called the proposed stadium standards amendment "strict, but not overly strict," in reference to a tougher code that could be tossed aside in court.

The township's interest in stadium standards does not mean the Tigers will be mewing and purring into town, Maise said.

"Everything's rumors, all rumors," she said. "We just thought of something that could be done very quickly to protect the township at little cost."

Maise said a public hearing on the proposed ordinance amendment will be held prior to the planning commission's April 2 session. The amendment will then be reviewed by the Wayne County Planning Commission before township board consideration, she said.

Governor addresses local woes

new departmental director from Grand Rapids. "Haveman is the first director in quite a while with actual system experience in a private-sector orientation, having most recently headed Bethany Christian Services, which is a national organization."

"Prior to that he was Kent County community mental health director. So he's very conversant with some of the challenges of a community-based mental health system, which is what we mandated some years ago for Michigan."

"Bob Geake is correct when he points out you cannot operate state institutions, as we are doing at the Arnell Engstrom school in Traverse City, where you had over 100 employees and an average census around 10 to 15, and as recently as three weeks ago we were down to five."

Engler stood firm on his budget proposal to cut money to cities housing horse race tracks. Northville has been getting up to $900,000 from state racing taxes that Engler wants to put in the general fund.

Officials from Northville, Livonia and Hazel Park argue that the aid provides necessary police and fire protection for the tracks' customers, and makes it worthwhile for the cities to retain the tracks rather than turn the land over for other development. Some have grumbled that they would prefer to see more intensive development, such as industry, on the racing ovals if they can't get their fair share of state racetrack revenue.

"I haven't heard that suggestion from Northville and Livonia, but it's something we could look at," the governor replied. "I think the racing industry has been an important part of Michigan, in the past, and it's also under great stress these days."

"That is not an area where I have devoted considerable time in my legislative career," said Engler, who spent 20 years as a representative and senator before his election last November. "I hear too many rumblings, though, from people in the racing industry and around it to be satisfied that everything is well there today. I think race tracks ought to be in the areas where they're desired."

Blazer snatched from Meijer, trashed in Detroit

A Farmington Hills woman told township police that someone stole a 1991 Chevrolet Blazer from the lot at Meijer, 20401 Haggerty, March 7 between 9:20-11 p.m. Police said they found no physical evidence of the theft in the lot.

Township police were contacted by Detroit police March 9 and told that the vehicle had been recovered near the corner of Rutherford and Elmira. The vehicle's tires and radio had been stolen and the dash, steering column, rear window and driver's door lock were damaged.

OUIL: A 30-year-old Union Lake man was charged with operating a vehicle under the influence of alcohol after his arrest March 5 near the Five Mile/Haggerty intersection, township police said.

WHEEL COVERS STOLEN: Four wheel covers valued at $400 reportedly were stolen from a 1989 Ford passenger van parked at McDonald Ford, 17000 Northville Road, sometime between March 1-5, township police said. The van was parked in the business's southeast lot and also received damage to its left side rear window.

CHILD BITTEN BY DOG: A Swan Harbour Drive resident told township police his one-year-old son was bitten by a dog March 5 at 8 p.m. The man told police an 11-year-old Chow bit the child on the lower left cheek. The dog was impounded for a 10-day observation period.

OUIL: A 31-year-old Southfield man was charged with OUIL after township police stopped him for speeding on Haggerty south of Six Mile Road March 7 at 1:52 a.m. Police said the man was clocked at 75 mph in a 45 mph zone. Tests indicated that the man had a blood-alcohol level of .17 at the time of arrest.

JEAN JACKET STOLEN FROM HARDEE'S: A green and blue waist-length jean jacket and books were stolen from Hardee's, 401 N. Center St., sometime between 2:30-3 p.m. March 8. The jacket was valued at $120.

POOL CUE FOUND IN CAR: A two-piece pool cue in a black case was found in an unlocked car parked outside St. Paul's Lutheran Church, 201 Elm St., between 7:10-10 p.m. March 8. The car's owner was attending a military family support group meeting at the time.

SCHOOL WINDOWS BROKEN: Three windows were broken by rocks at the Amerman Elementary School, 847 N. Center St., sometime between March 8-11. Damage was estimated at $125.

FENDER BENDER: A 45-year-old Northville woman was cited for failing to stop March 6 after driving into another car on Novi Road. She was driving north on Novi just south of Allen Drive at 7:04 a.m. when she struck the other northbound vehicle, which was stopped for a southbound school bus with flashing red lights. The woman's car was towed from the scene.

Citizens with information about the above incidents are urged to call Northville City Police at 349-1234 or Northville Township Police at 349-9400.

City assessor defends hikes

The assessor detailed other assessing problems in a report to the city manager. "Historically, increases in Wayne County have been across the board and analysis has never been conducted by neighborhood," he wrote. "In Oakland County prior increases have been fairly uniform within neighborhoods. Unless the field data is very accurate, such as the case with Oakland County, across the board increases year after year perpetuate and magnify inequities."

Also, Christiansen said, Wayne County assessors had typically assessed new construction at the full 50 percent of its value in previous years, while older homes were under-assessed. The result was that much larger increases were needed in some older neighborhoods this year to compensate for the previous underassessments.

Oakland County assessments were mailed out at the end of February, while the last of the Wayne County assessments were mailed March 6.

Residents who disagree with their assessments can take their case before the Board of Review. The board is meeting at City Hall between 1-5 p.m. and 6-10 p.m. March 12, 21, and 26, between 1-5 p.m. and 7-10 p.m. March 15 and 25, and between 9-5 p.m. March 14, 19, 20 and 23. More meetings will be scheduled as necessary.

In his letter, Christiansen encouraged homeowners living on low and fixed incomes to appeal their assessment increases to the Board of Review, which can grant lower assessments based on financial need and ability to pay.

"The Board of Review has always adhered to a policy that would prevent homeowners from being taxed out of their homes," he wrote.

School to remember student with quiet area

By SUZANNE HOLLYER
Staff Writer

A maple tree will be planted in the Silver Springs Elementary School playground to provide a shaded place for students to reflect on their lives, and remember a classmate who lost his life.

Michael Calleja died Dec. 12 after being hit by a car when crossing Seven Mile Road near Swan Lake Drive. The 10-year-old boy will be remembered by Silver Springs students thanks to a decision by the Silver Springs PTA to plant a maple tree in his honor.

The tree will be planted in a quiet area, complete with benches, grass and flowers. Plans for a quiet area have been in the works for over a year. PTA fund-raiser Val Troschinetz said.

Early plans to hold a fund-raiser to earn money for purchase of a tree in Calleja's honor were canceled, Troschinetz said.

"We will be doing no fund-raising on it," she said. "We've decided that there is money already appropriated for the tree, and that would be sufficient."

"We decided not to focus on fund-raising, because with times being the way they are, the kids in the fourth grade have been through enough."

Troschinetz said she expects the maple tree will have a plaque or sign nearby to remember Calleja.

The quiet area will be behind the school. Two benches are already located in the area. An additional three benches will be placed in the area, as well as, sod, flowers and the maple tree, Troschinetz said.

Work on the area will probably begin in April, said Silver Springs PTA President Meg Coponen.

Novi Dental Center

TOPICAL ANESTHESIA

The principal objection patients have to local anesthesia is the sensation caused by the entry of the needle. If you have this fear, be open and frank with your dentist. Several techniques have been developed to eliminate this problem.

Most needles used in dental offices today are disposable. They come presterilized, are used only once, and are then disposed of. This means a smoother entry, since needles used more than once may roughen slightly on the edge and make penetration more irritating.

To protect the area being injected, dentist often use a topical anesthetic, frequently in the form of benzocaine or lidocaine in a cream base. The solution is painted on at the point of injection and causes numbness that may help eliminate the sensation associated with the injection.

A recent innovation is the forcing of a drop of anesthetic into the area to be injected via a charge of compressed gas. This rapidly numbs the area and the anesthesia can then be given with no sensation whatsoever.

Everything you need to close down a crackhouse.

You aren't helpless when crime invades your neighborhood. You're fully capable of helping police and they're ready to show you how.

The Case of The Stanton Park Stand-off.

When crack moved into a row house on a quiet block of Stanton Park in Washington, D.C., folks decided to serve an eviction notice. They met with police to find out what they could do to keep drugs out of their neighborhood. The cops told them to keep an eye out - to let police know when they saw something suspicious. They began to notice faces. They wrote down license numbers of strange cars they noted the times of odd behavior. They worked with each other. They worked with the police. Armed with field glasses, note pads, and telephones, folks kept track of the neighborhood.

Within one month enough evidence had been gathered. Police moved in. Crack moved out.

Citizens participating beat crime in D.C. It's the same for you. For more success stories, write The McGruff Files, 1 Prevention Way, Washington, D.C. 20539 0001.

Police become even more responsive when their people are then patrolling. Together we can help.

America and youth

Northville middle schoolers use essay contest to speak out

Smoke-filled skylines, racial hatred and substance abuse were identified by Northville eighth-graders as problems confronting America.

But the students did not just register complaints about their country. Solutions to the ills of modern America were offered by Meads Mill and Cooke students involved in an "America and Me" essay contest.

Three winners were chosen from each school. One student from each middle school will go to a state-level competition and become eligible for plaques and U.S. savings bonds valued from $500 to $1,000.

Winners of the statewide contest, sponsored by Farm Bureau Insurance, will be announced in May. A team of judges, including Gov. John Engler, will chose the winners.

The contest was begun in 1968, before this year's competitors were born. Northville students were among students from about 430 schools who participated in this year's contest.

Ten Northville students from each school had their work submitted after the entire eighth grade wrote essays as an assignment about how they will help preserve America.

Cooke will send Jennifer Sekerka to the state competition. Vikram Srinivasan and John Mathews won second and third place respectively at the school level for their essays.

Meads Mill will be represented by Stacy Carwan's essay in the state competition. Vivek Mohta won second place, and Rocky Zizzo won third place at Meads Mill.

Jennifer Sekerka's award-winning essay is titled "America the Beautiful."

Wild ducks in flight, pounding waves caressing the sandy shores, and lush green forests abundant with wildlife are all sights that we as Americans treasure. These picturesque scenes are increasingly hard to find. Oil laden ducks unable to enjoy flight, garbage thrown heartlessly on our glistening beaches, and fallen trees, victims of a massacre by the snarling teeth of a chainsaw, give us a new vision of an America in trouble.

Pollution is one of the most serious problems facing humanity today. This is a complicated situation because much of the pollution is caused by things that benefit us. Exhaust from cars fills our air making the people in major cities wheeze and gasp. Factories spew out harmful pollutants. Dumps near large cities are overflowing with aluminum cans that can possibly stay in their original state for many years. Paper and cardboard packaging are being replaced by plastics that will not decay and are hazardous when burned. Our latest technology has brought with it those very items that are hardest to dispose of.

One does not need to look far to realize the devastation caused by years of a careless disregard for our environment. It only takes one person to take the first step toward preserving our environment, and others will follow.

In our home I am setting up bins to recycle aluminum cans, paper, and glass. Others in my family will be urged to follow my example. Campaigning for political figures who vow to pass bills protecting our deteriorating environment is a very important action I will support. I will strive to be an aware consumer who refuses to buy products that harm our environment. There are hundreds of programs to protect our air, land and water. Most are geared to a mass effort. However, the hope for a clean America will not come from company mandates or congressional hearings, but from each individual who pledges to do his or her share in helping to preserve "America the Beautiful."

Stacy Carwan won first place at Meads Mill for a story about the new girl in school.

Still laughing at my friend's joke, I sauntered into history class. I immediately saw her timidly stepping toward Mr. McDonald at the front of the room. They smiled at each other and said their "new person" greetings. Mr. McDonald kindly pointed me out to her, and she nodded her silky, black head of hair and walked in the direction of the empty seat behind me.

She had the most frightening look on her visage, one that I have worn many times. The expression was of the "new girl." Flashing through my mind was the memory of her briefly observing the gymnasium with the school counselor the other day. She hadn't looked as bewildered then, but today her eyes looked like they were about to explode with tears of frustration.

As she softly took her seat, I had a flashback of my first day at this school, recalling how nervous I was and how I prayed that someone would befriend me. I decided to take my turn as the caring friend.

Turning around, I said hello and asked her name, which was Sakura. As I inquired to what class she had next, I realized we were going to the same place. When I asked to escort her there, Sakura gave me a small smile of relief like a young child being helped across a busy street, as an indication of her gratitude.

Having almost the same schedule, I assured Sakura that she could eat lunch with me. I believe that going down to the cafeteria was more of a trying experience for her than going to class. We all had the same attitude about the food; Sakura even asked for the "chicken things."

When we went to science after lunch, Sakura sat on the opposite end of the room. Despite this, Sakura seemed to blend in with the rest of the class. She didn't act nervous or show any fear. It was as if she had been there the past days of the eighth grade with the rest of us.

When seventh hour arrived, I directed Sakura to her class. For the rest of the day I pondered about how she was doing; and when the bell finally rang, I considered going back to her locker, but reasoned I wouldn't find her.

Therefore, I was astonished to see Sakura climbing onto my bus and called her back to sit with us. She accepted appreciatively and I reflected on the day, and how my helping one Japanese girl made a minute difference.

I believe that some of the problems destroying America are anger, fear and hatred. Many people don't care enough about others, and that's a battle we all must fight. There is not much a young teenager like me can do to save the United States aside from doing little things like not polluting. I think I helped preserve America by removing the fear of one new girl from a different state.

City debates sidewalk issue

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

A controversial issue reared its ugly head again Monday night as the city council debated whether to insist on new sidewalks in certain city subdivisions.

Most council members feared the move would rekindle the controversy surrounding a failed council attempt to require new sidewalks throughout the city in 1989. The attempt was put on hold after fierce resident opposition during public hearings on the proposal.

The latest sidewalk discussion was spurred by a review of city projects, and City Manager Steven Walters suggested that the city postpone fanning those fires again until next winter. Walters noted that construction of new sidewalks would probably not begin this year even if the council began formulating a new policy soon.

Council Member Jerry Mittman suggested that the city require sidewalks in the Potomac Road area because the sub was originally planned to have sidewalks.

Walters cautioned against that, saying, "I don't know where we'd go from there without getting into major police issues."

Other council members, particularly Mayor Chris Johnson, said that the city should formulate a specific sidewalk policy before requiring any new sidewalks.

"I think you still need that policy in place," Johnson said. "We can make it known to homeowners that there's a platted sidewalk on one side (of the street) or the other . . . That's the easy part. The hard part is assessing the costs."

Residents in 1989 protested the city's attempt to assess them the costs of new sidewalks, and their protests led to council debate over whether property owners on both sides of a street would be assessed the cost of sidewalks on a single side. Homeowners also feared the potential disruption of landscaping and existing trees.

Council Member Carolann Ayers agreed with Mittman that the city should require sidewalks on Potomac, despite debate over who should be assessed their cost. "If that sidewalk had been built as platted, the people who had the sidewalks on their properties, as far as I'm concerned, are responsible for the assessment. That's the way the plat was made."

Johnson disagreed, saying, "It looks to me like it ought to be part of the policy review . . . I think it's fair, potentially, to assess the north side for sidewalks on the south side, and vice versa."

Walters noted that similar situations to Potomac exist on Hill, Grace and Carpenter, in neighborhoods that were built after enactment of a 1962 city ordinance requiring sidewalks in new subdivisions. For various reasons, Walters said, the sidewalks were never built. "You had sidewalks throughout the subs except for there, and those are gaps there too."

Johnson said insisting on sidewalks in one part of the city will impact any eventual sidewalk policy discussion, so the policy should come first.

"Those people will be concerned about the policy on Potomac, and the policy would be significant beyond Potomac," he said. "By one stretch here, we're really getting back into that whole issue of sidewalk policy."

The council agreed to defer further work on a new sidewalk policy until next winter, at Walters' recommendation.

City Council adjusts budget

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

The Northville City Council tightened its collective belt at a recent meeting by approving a reduction plan trimming $146,000 from the city's budget.

The reductions are needed to offset a projected 4-percent drop in state-shared revenues from income, sales and single-business taxes, and a 9.2-percent cut in state-returned racetrack revenues, said City Manager Steven Walters.

"The loss of the racetrack revenue is the single most serious loss," said Walters.

The city had been receiving about $900,000 annually in state-returned racetrack revenue, and the 9.2-percent cut is projected to cost the budget $82,500. But the loss was less severe than city officials feared at the start of the year. An initial attempt by Gov. John Engler to sever state-returned racetrack revenue altogether, part of his first plan to slash the state budget, was overturned by the House Appropriations Committee in late January.

The loss in state-shared revenue will cost the city's revenue an estimated $35,000, Walters said, and the city will receive no adjustment in this fiscal year for the 1990 Census figures despite a 9-percent population growth in the past ten years.

Another $48,000 will go to pay for Department of Public Works refuse containers.

Those losses were partially offset by an additional $11,700 in interest from city investments, a $4,800 surplus from last year's budget, and a $3,000 payment from Omnicon of Michigan for cable TV fees.

The city reduced its planned expenditures in several ways, with the largest reduction coming from an across-the-board 1.72-percent cut in all city budget items but refuse collection, police patrol and street lighting. The across-the-board cut trims $43,600 from the budget.

The city's contracted refuse service will cost $38,000 less than planned, Walters said, "primarily the result of landfill costs not going up as much as we predicted in the spring, and landfill amounts dropping."

Police department costs were reduced as well, partly the result of the replacement of a senior patrolman by a new patrolman. The $15,000 saved reflects "patrol wages and fringes reflecting a new patrolman—who replaced a senior patrolman—who would not be kept past June 30," Walters said.

Also included in the reduction plan is the city's decision to postpone replacing two patrol cars. The decision was made possible by an agreement with the patrol and command officers' unions to extend for one year the amount of mileage allowed on a patrol vehicle before replacement.

The one-year delay will save $26,000 in 1991.

Colorful theme chosen

Once again the Northville High School parenting classes are hard at work planning their annual preschool.

This year the students have chosen a "colors" theme. They are anxious to take the preschoolers on a "Journey Through the Rainbow."

The preschool program will be held Tuesday, April 30, through Tuesday, May 16, from 9:45-11:15 a.m. The program will provide boys and girls with an introductory preschool experience and is recommended for children who will be entering other preschool programs or kindergarten in the fall. A variety of activities dealing with self and social awareness that relate to the theme have been planned for the children. A mid-morning snack will be served each day.

There is no charge for the program. An orientation program for parent and child will take place on Friday, April 26, from 10-11 a.m. During this time parents and children can view the preschool and visit with the high school students who will be working with the children. We hope this will make the first day less anxious for all concerned.

If you are interested in the preschool program, enrollment forms can be picked up at the High School office. The application form should be returned by Tuesday, March 26. Enrollment is limited. Slots will be filled on the basis of the receipt of the application. For additional information call Carle Tibble at 344-8420 (ext. 46) or after 4:30 p.m. at 349-4896.

Mill Race Matters

Mark your calendars now for Mill Race Village Spring Cleanup Day.

The date is Saturday, April 6, and the time is 9 a.m. to noon. At this time members and friends are encouraged to gather together to spruce up our exterior in preparation for spring opening. We'll clean away winter's accumulation of debris and tidy up our buildings. If enough volunteers appear we may even be able to do some necessary interior work. The possibilities are endless.

Bring along a sandwich and when the work is completed we will gather for lunch. Beverage and dessert will be provided by the Northville Historical Society. One morning of work can mean a lot in the general appearance of the village for the remainder of the year. So why not give a little of your time and share in the rewards? Young helpers are welcome as well. If you've been longing to see something done at the village this would be a good time to get that project started, so bring not only yourself, but your ideas as well.

The Historical Society office has been moved to the Cady Inn. Office hours remain Monday, Wednesday and Friday from 9 a.m. until 1 p.m. The telephone number remains 348-1845. For a short time equipment may operate out of both buildings, but soon the move will be complete. If you get a chance stop in and see the new facility.

School follows zoning

By SUZANNE HOLLYER
Staff Writer

Northville school officials will follow the guidelines of local zoning ordinances when constructing a new elementary school even if state law does not require compliance, an architect working for the district said Monday.

The state superintendent was given total control over school developments with a law passed last year.

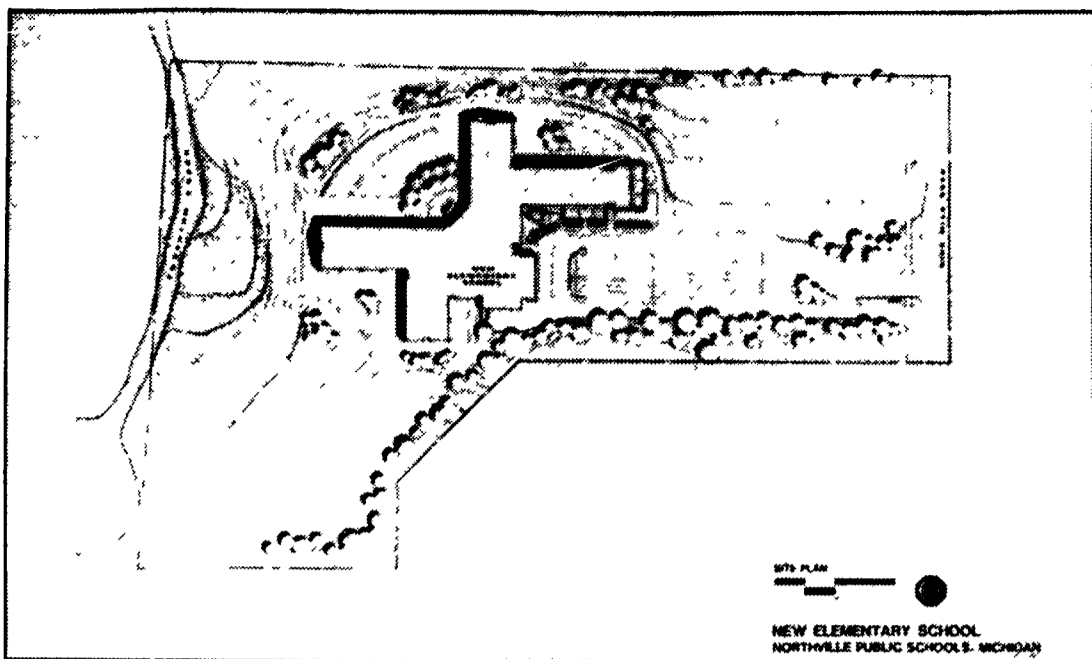

But Northville schools have worked with the City of Novi through-out the process of developing a new elementary school, said John Argenta of the architectural firm Co-quillard, Dundon, Peterson and Argenta.

The school, which is in the Northville School District, will be located in Novi north of Nine Mile Road between Taft and Beck roads.

Working within the city's ordinances has not caused major problems for the architects to this point, he said.

"So far, we haven't come up with anything that's detrimental," Argenta said.

Novi's woodland and wetland ordinances forced the architects to adjust the building's position on the lot. The district will add additional foliage to the school yard to provide a buffer zone between the building and houses in the area.

A problem between the city and developers of the area surrounding the school has been resolved in the boards, Petrie said.

Argenta agreed.

"There's a whole industry thriving on roofs going bad," Argenta said.

The building will have art, music and health rooms, a media center, and gym. One wing of the building will be for upper elementary students and the other for lower elementary students.

The heating system will permit each wing of the building to be shut off individually when not in use.

Building plans were presented to the board for approval Monday with the endorsement of a district committee.

The board approved the plan, permitting architects to move to the next stage of development.

Argenta said the school will undergo five stages of development before the building is completed.

The schematic stage has been finished. Architects will now work on design and development. Each area of the building will be refined, Argenta said.

When the design and development stage is complete, developers will receive estimates and request bids from construction companies.

The fourth stage will include receiving and negotiating bids.

Construction will be the final stage developers' favor, Argenta said.

A controversy arose early in the planning process because the city wanted developers to pay for the cost of building the infrastructure to provide services like water and sewers to the area.

"Now, there has been almost a total flip-flop," Argenta said. The city will pay for providing services to the developments by levying a tax on residents who move into the area, he said.

Argenta, who was joined by Mark Lynden, said the new school building will be very "interesting" and "exciting."

The school will lose the flat-roof look popular on school buildings until recently, Argenta said.

Board President James Petrie said he is glad to see the flat roofs abandoned. Because of the water damage that is caused when rain and snow is allowed to sit on a flat building, flat roofs have been the "curse" of school of development, Argenta said.

The school, which was funded by a 1989 bond issue, is expected to be open by September 1992.

An accident victim receives attention Monday

Woman hurt in two-car crash

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

A Northville woman is recuperating after a traffic accident at Seven Mile and Sheldon roads Monday night.

The 53-year-old woman sustained a broken leg during the 5:44 p.m. accident, in which the northbound car she rode in was broadsided while reportedly running a red light.

According to the driver of the other car involved, the northbound car drove through a red light right in front of her westbound vehicle. City police said another witness confirmed the westbound driver's claim, though the accident was still under investigation as of press time Tuesday.

Both vehicles spun halfway around after the impact, with the westbound vehicle left in the middle of the intersection and the northbound car facing south at the northwest corner of the intersection, just off the side of the road.

City police and rescue personnel arrived at the scene within one minute.

Police officers blocked off Center Street between Seven Mile and Fairbrook Street while city rescue personnel used the hydraulically-operated "jaws of life" to pry open the northbound car's passenger door. Once inside, the rescue personnel and ambulance workers treated the passenger as though she had sustained a spinal injury, a typical precaution after an accident.

Said Fire Chief Jim Allen, "They put a brace around her back while she was still in the car and then she was put on a backboard."

The passenger was then taken to Botsford Hospital in Farmington Hills by Community Emergency Medical Services. The drivers of both vehicles were uninjured.

Firefighters hosed down the intersection to wash away the gasoline that had leaked from the two vehicles after the crash.

The woman's injuries were less than rescue personnel originally feared. "I just got done talking with the ER (Emergency Room) nurse and she said she had a fractured left tibia (lower leg), but nothing other than that," Police Officer Kenneth Evans said late Monday night.

"She came out of it pretty lucky," Evans said. "It could have been a lot worse, especially when you have an impact like that at a 90-degree angle."

Recession. Economic downturn. Scale-backs.

Frightening terms all. And everyone has a different strategy to deal with decreased revenues.

Some businesses are tightening belts by scaling back on seminars, trips, lunches and cost-prohibitive community involvement programs.

But a Northville Township company is among those willing to buck the wagon-circling trend by offering some of its time to the community—at no cost.

Employees of Northville city, township, and Northville Youth Assistance staff and trainers recently participated in a two-day seminar sponsored by Alexis Risk Management Services, 41000 Seven Mile Road.

The seminar focused on presentation skills and was intended to heighten participants' ability to communicate, said Kay Wright, Alexis staff development manager.

"All our participants do work before audiences," Wright said. "We hope to sharpen presentation skills and help the individuals gain credibility before an audience."

The class included community employees such as Rick Roselle and Guy Balok of the township fire department, Mary Ellen King of Northville Youth Assistance, and Cathy Konrad and Fran Hopp from the City of Northville.

Wright used a handful of techniques, including videotape, to critique the participants. She tutored the nine-member class in methods to channel nervousness, body language, design and use of visual aids, structuring the content of a presentation, using a lectern, and managing question-and-answer sessions.

From humble and oft-self-conscious beginnings, the group responded to Wright's insight and gained confidence, said Lauren Chiasson, a Northville teacher and Youth Assistance trainer who helped arrange the Alexis seminar.

"The things she stresses are very important for those who have to speak in front of groups," she said. "Your credibility increases with the ability to communicate."

Roselle said he learned a professional approach benefits the speaker and his audience.

"It was a very good class; I got some skills out of there that I did not have," he said. "I learned a lot."

King said those involved with the Youth Assistance program benefitted from the program.

"I thought it was absolutely one of the most practical classes I've taken," she said. "It was extremely generous and they had no ulterior motive except for community service."

The program was a gesture of good will, Wright said.

"It's just a way of saying Alexis cares about the community," she said. "We're here in Northville and are glad we could help."

Sikh Society church nears needed funding

By SCOTT DANIEL
Staff Writer

Financing for the development of a Sikh Society church on Eight Mile Road is nearing completion.

Michael Kahm, vice president of Singh Development, developers of the church, said the Madison Heights-based congregation is close to raising the necessary funds. He said the church, which will be located on the north side of Eight Mile between Garfield and Beck roads, will cost between $1 million and $1.5 million to construct.

An extension of a special land use permit and preliminary site plan for the church was granted by the Novi Planning Commission recently. The extension gives the church an additional year to finalize funding and complete final site plans for the project.

"We are almost to the point where monies are raised and plans are finalized," Kahm said. "But, these things take time. They are very interested and the church is high on their priority list."

The Sikhs, a religion brought to the U.S. from northern India, have about 250 families worshipping in Madison Heights. Worshipers are made up of mainly second-generation immigrants from India.

If all goes well, Kahm said construction could begin by this fall and be completed by the spring of 1993.

Township ponders feline rules

By MIKE TYREE
Staff Writer

The days of stray cats strutting about the hallowed grounds of Northville Township may be over.

No more of this alinking around like you own the place, cats. And using the township's manicured yards as personal litter boxes is out, too.

If the township board so desires, in an attempt to reclaim the township from marauding felines, the board this evening will consider the first draft of a cat control ordinance.

Based on the township's dog ordinance, the cat code is the brainchild of Clerk Tom Cook.

Cook, who freely admits that cats rank low on his list of favored pets, said his cat ordinance will leave residents purring.

"I got a letter from a guy who said 12 cats run wild and use his place as a sandbox," he said. "I think some people just don't take care of their pets."

Cook said he has endured considerable ribbing since he first broached the cat plan, but said he has corralled ample support.

"Everybody got a good laugh over it, but they think we need it," he said. Highlights of the cat ordinance?

Depending on one's point of view, a three-cat-per-home limit could spawn controversy.

"We consider anyone having over three cats is running a kennel," Cook said. "We figured more than three cats in somebody's house is too much."

But would a township cat-catcher actually come and snatch a fourth feline?

"If we say three, that's the limit," Cook said. "I don't know why they'd have any more than that."

The proposed cat ordinance is practical, too, Cook said.

According to the sample ordinance, a cat (or "carnivorous quadruped belonging to the feline family") is subject to a death sentence if it is caught "in the act of pursuing, worrying, or wounding any livestock or poultry or attacking persons."

Take careful note, cat owners. Your pets no longer may legally worry livestock.

Robbed cats would also be banned in the township.

Of course, the scads of bureaucracy that would accompany a cat ordinance needs financial support. But the township has thought that through. Based on the proposed ordinance, cat owners would have to apply for a license by providing information such as breed, sex, age, color and markings (cat) and telephone number, full name and residence (owner) and valid certificate of vaccination for rabies (cat again).

The township would then issue a license at a to-be-determined fee.

"It's a way to pick up extra bucks," Cook said.

But the plan to control cats has a much deeper meaning, he said.

"We don't want them using your yard as a sandbox," he said.

The board will discuss the proposed ordinance and could send it on to the township attorney for legal review, or allow the plan to be buried. But not in a township sandbox, please.

Trustee regrets his catty remark

By MIKE TYREE
Staff Writer

Attention all cat lovers and those who are repulsed by inhumane treatment of animals: Donald Williams is sorry. He says he didn't mean it.

Williams, longtime township trustee, recently apologized for a statement he made during last month's township board session.

While the board discussed the pros and cons of a cat ordinance, Williams said: "I shoot at them (cats) with a BB gun."

Some board members and audience groaned. Others laughed. At least one reader of a newspaper article that reported the comment was not amused.

Marilyn Iskra, a township resident and member of the Board of Directors of the Anti-Cruelty Association, chastized Williams for the remark.

"If Mr. Williams is shooting at cats with a BB gun he is in direct violation of state anti-cruelty laws and could be subject to a cruelty investigation resulting in legal fines," she wrote in a letter to the editor of The Northville Record.

"... I hope that the township residents will show their compassion toward companion animals at the next election by not re-electing Don Williams to township trustee," she continued. Williams was contrite when the board met Feb. 27.

"I'd like to make a public apology for my ill-timed remarks," he said. "I do not own a BB gun (and) would not be cruel to any animal."

"I was probably out of line and being facetious," he said.

Iskra was not available Tuesday to comment on Williams' apology.

Local BPW offers scholarships

The Northville Business and Professional Women's Club is based on the principle of women helping women. It is a local chapter of the State and National Business & Professional Women USA Federations. The organization works to elevate the standards for, promote the interests of and bring about a spirit of cooperation among working women.

Any woman who needs short-term financial assistance to begin, resume, or upgrade her career is invited to apply. The award, the scholarship committee emphasizes, may be used for education-related expenses including child care, travel to school and books.

An applicant must be accepted officially into an accredited program or course of study, be a resident of the city or township of Northville, or be a member of the Northville Business and Professional Women's Club or be in the immediate family (parents, children, siblings) of a member of the Northville BPW. She must demonstrate need for financial assistance to upgrade skills or complete education for career advancement; or plan to use the desired training to improve chances for advancement, train for a new career field to enter or re-enter the job market. The award does not cover study at the doctoral level, correspondence courses or post-doctoral studies.

Selection of the recipient will be based on need, as shown on application, and potential for use of the grant. Application must be requested by mail from: Northville Business and Professional Women Scholarship Committee, 23216 Hawthorne, Farmington, 48336. NORTHVILLE CITY COUNCIL MINUTES SYNOPSIS FEBRUARY 19, 1991

Mayor Johnson called the regular meeting of the Northville City Council to order in the Council Room at 8:00 p.m.

1. PLEDGE OF ALLEGIANCE:
PRESENT: Mayor Christopher J. Johnson, Mayor Pro-Tem Carolann Ayers, Councilman Paul F. Folino, G. Dorey Gardner, Jerome J. Mitzman.
ABSENT: None.

2. ROLL CALL:
PRESENT: City Manager Steve Walters, City Clerk Cathy Korman, City Assessor Mark Christensen, City Engineer Bob Warner, Police Chief Rod Carron, Nancy Berg, Chuck Kays, and Northville Record Reporter Steve Kellman.

3. APPROVAL OF COUNCIL MEETING MINUTES:
The minutes of the regular meeting of February 4, 1991, were approved as submitted.

4. CITIZEN COMMENTS:
None.

5. ADOPTION OF THE AGENDA & APPROVAL OF THE CONSENT AGENDA: Moved, supported, CARRIED UNANIMOUSLY, to approve the agenda as amended and the consent agenda A, through P.

6. HUTTON/DUNLAP INTERSECTION DESIGN:
Walters reviewed the revised drawing by the engineers as discussed at the last meeting, dealing with the pedestrian crossing and traffic situation. The traffic counts indicate quite a lot of left turn activity. The left turn lane by eliminating three parking spaces immediately west of the intersection. The southeast island was widened keeping one lane of traffic in each direction.

Johnson stated it was City Council's consensus to refer the intersection landscape design to the Beautification Commission and have the engineers work on the suggestions of Council.

7. PARKING DECK DESIGN:
Walters noted in the development process, a substantial savings was found by building a new two-story building with 25 levels of the existing deck wall and leaving an open space between the two. The space between the two could be covered by a building and referred to the concept drawings of the Chamber of Commerce building with public restrooms, or landscaped and used as short-term parking area.

Johnson requested a more detailed report from the parking deck architect, and check with the Chamber for their interest.

8. REFUSE COLLECTION:
a. Current Service Cost — Walters reviewed the refuse collection costs estimated at $426,000 and mileage revenue (2.66 mile). The commercial tax base is projected to go from 14,269 in 1990 to 17,539 in 1991. If curbside recycling is implemented, the cost of residential collection will increase, and it will further reduce the cost/contribution discrepancy. If refuse service continues to be funded by General Fund millage, there will still be a discrepancy between commercial and residential; a shortage of commercial contribution of approximately $78,500. The problem with this discrepancy is how to equitably allocate the additional charge. Council discussed and will continue to review.

b. Solid Waste Plan and Recycling — Moved, supported, CARRIED UNANIMOUSLY, to adopt a resolution that is a City Council of the City of Northville hereby endorse the concept in principle of a jointly developed and operated refuse and recycling facility for the Northville Community, and authorize the City Manager to enter into negotiations with the Charter Township of Northville to explore the potential of such a jointly operated system.

9. 1990-91 BUDGET AMENDMENTS:
Walters reviewed the necessary amendments to the General Fund on the following basis: State-shared revenues will fall below the original budget based on the first two quarters actual experience, and the City will receive no adjustment for the 1990 Census figures in fiscal 1990-91; and the City's share of State Permitted Taxes will be cut by the 8.2% general State guidelines, and will be absorbed entirely by the General Fund.

Moved, supported, CARRIED UNANIMOUSLY, to adopt the General Fund revenue and expenditure amendments, a reduction of 148,000.

10. 1991 TAX RATE REPORT:
Mark Christensen summarized his memo to Council and noted the new 1991 assessed values for the City with Oakland County increasing 6% and Wayne County 13%. The SEV will be increasing from approximately $186 million to $193 million. Although next year's SEV increase will probably not show this kind of increase, perhaps at a half or third of this.

11. WTUA SANITARY SEWER EASEMENT PROPOSAL:
Walters noted the authority engineer furnished a composite map and the City engineers have reviewed it and found a few technical discrepancies in the descriptions and are now being worked out by the WTUA engineers. Also the City attorney reviewed it and found no problem other than a recommendation that the restoration clause for work in the easement be removed. This needs to be referred to WTUA because of the engineering issues, and Council could take action at their meeting on March 11. He recommended Council consider supporting a sanitary sewer easement right for the Fish Hatchery Park for the potential of a shelter and restroom.

12. GOALS AND OBJECTIVES:
Mitzman felt it would be helpful for the project status list to have target dates for each project. Walters thought that would be a good idea and state why some of these projects are not being worked on.

13. COUNCIL COMMENTS:
Walters reported on the Ford Motor Plant through Ted Fox that they are ready to begin specific negotiations with us. They have worked out their internal concerns about the pond oil contamination with the DNFL. They have a private developer interested in the building and will meet with us to discuss a joint venture. Also Ford seems willing to give us a time option for some period of time to allow for the process of a local election to finance the City acquisition.

Walters updated the Council on the Black's Hardware and variety store on East Main. The Ann Arbor Commerce Bank will loan the Black's $125,000 for a period of 4 years with the City depositing $30,000 in a Certificate of Deposit to serve as collateral for the loan. Johnson felt the variety store would bring a real service back to the downtown. Walters stated the formal agreement would be before Council on March 11.

14. CLOSED SESSION:
Moved, supported, CARRIED UNANIMOUSLY, to adjourn the regular meeting and to go into closed session to discuss item 14, Closed Session: a) Union Negotiations, b) Property Acquisition, and c) Smith Levee.

Johnson recessed the regular meeting at 9:30 p.m. to go into the closed session and depending on the discussion of Smith vs. the City of Northville litigation, there may be Council action. Johnson recessed the regular meeting at 10:05 p.m.

15. SMITH LAWSUIT SETTLEMENT:
Moved, supported, CARRIED UNANIMOUSLY, to permit Mayor Christopher J. Johnson to abstain because the Mayor's firm is involved in the litigation.

Moved, supported, CARRIED UNANIMOUSLY, with Johnson's approval to approve the settlement as presented and authorize the City Manager to sign the necessary settlement documents on behalf of the City at the meeting of 2/20/91.

Mayor Johnson adjourned the regular meeting of Tuesday, February 19, 1991, at 10:07 p.m.

Our Opinion

Cooperating on trash will serve town well

"Garbage in, garbage out," goes the saying in the computer industry. "Garbage out, recyclables in" seems to be the approach in Northville these days, and it's a heartening attitude to see.

Township officials recently hammered out a first draft of a comprehensive new ordinance to regulate trash disposal. The proposal is on the agenda for review at tonight's board meeting.

As we've noted before, the ordinance as eventually adopted will require major changes to the way people deal with their garbage. To comply with the Wayne County Solid Waste Plan, the township will eventually require residents to separate their trash by type when it's set out at the curb — so that things like glass, paper and grass clippings may be recycled or composted, rather than taking up ever-more-expensive landfill space. This won't start tomorrow, but it's almost certain that it will begin before the year is out.

The city has not moved as quickly as the township on developing a comprehensive trash-management plan to comply with county requirements. Lately, however, city officials have talked of jumping on the township's garbage bandwagon. It's a good idea and we hope it comes to fruition.

Two city officials recently approached the township about cooperating specifically in the curbside recycling program, and found their township counterparts willing to listen to a joint effort. The city council even approved a resolution favoring a "jointly developed and operated refuse and recycling system for the Northville Community." We hope this system moves forward, and develops to include all facets of trash disposal.

The advantages to combining this service are obvious, and are similar to the benefits of the shared city/township services already in place: it eliminates duplication of administration, lowers overall costs, and simplifies the rules for residents of both communities.

Or, to look at the other side of the coin, think of the disadvantages to two different programs: higher costs, duplication of services, and difficulty selling different sets of rules to residents of the township and the city. Right now, for example, each government operates its own recycling drop-off center; they work quite differently, yet they're both in the community and both costing money.

There may be some benefits to sharing at least some trash disposal services beyond the Northville community (the Western Townships Utilities Authority townships, including Northville, plan to combine on a composting site).

At this point it's tough to pinpoint the most efficient size for a trash-disposal "district," but it's clear that joining at least the city and township of Northville will benefit both. A completely shared system of trash disposal will require a lot of work, but the results will make it worthwhile.

Cats may be trouble, but this is too much

A cat control ordinance for Northville Township? Pray tell, what brought on this blatant attempt at felineous assault?

The township board is scheduled to review an initial draft of a cat ordinance at its regular session tonight. The board reportedly will ponder the merits of such an ordinance and debate action that could lead to registration and licensing of domestic cats.

Thumbing through the proposed ordinance, we wondered why handgun ordinances couldn't have as much bite. We also wonder if the board doesn't have something better to do.

Okay, so some township residents have complained that loose cats are digging up their yards for use as litter boxes. Admittedly, that could be annoying and potentially could — and this is a real reach — pose health, safety and welfare problems to residents.

But we have the idea there might be a topic or two out there of slightly more relevance and impact than tabby trotting through the tulips. A good percentage of the board is sure to agree and we rather doubt a great deal of time will be spent on this issue.

Still, the proposed ordinance is an agenda item and deserves scrutiny. Fortunately, we're here to do just that.

A cat ordinance in Northville Township probably would do little to discourage cats from prowling the community. Cats are like that; it's in their blood. The ordinance if adopted would give township law enforcement officials the right to shoot cats if they behaved in ways unbefitting township standards.

But what if Northville city cats strayed into the township? Or Plymouth Township or Livonia cats? How would they know that chasing or worrying livestock in Northville township is on a long list of verboten cat behavior? Would the township post signs? And if you were a rabid cat, would you have the presence of mind to know you weren't welcome here? These are serious questions that the board would be wise to discuss at length.

Also, what about the proposed three-cat-per-household limit? Would the cat police break down a barn door to pull a suckling kitten from its mother just because it was pet number four? We should hope not. Would the cat-catcher barge into the home of a feline devotee to enforce the proposed law? Could we sell as many papers with headlines screaming "Elderly Woman Found Dead With No Food in House — Her Three Cats (as limited by township ordinance) Well Fed"? We think not.

As you might surmise, we have given this ordinance much thought. We think the board should do the same. Perhaps they should table this item for, say, 10 years or so . . .

Gerrymandering getting worse

It's not news that Michigan's 18th and 17th Congressional Districts are among the most gerrymandered in the United States.

Gerrymandering is the custom, nearly as old as the Bill of Rights, of misshaping legislative districts to concentrate an opponent's strength in as few districts as possible.

"Moreover, gerrymanders will only get worse — that is, more effective — as computer software and hardware grows in power and sophistication," say two professors in a paper published by The Heartland Institute, a conservative think tank based in Chicago.

The 18th District takes in a corner of northwest Macomb County, meanders in an S-shaped curve across Oakland County, gathering in the north end of the City of Northville; and ends in the Brighton area of southeastern Livingston County. It was arranged to give 70-percent margins to Republican Bill Broomfield.

We all have known, since the 1964 U.S. Supreme Court ruling, that districts should have nearly equal populations. In Michigan they're also supposed to minimize the number of communities cut apart.

The Heartland study by Daniel Polsby, a Northwestern University law professor, and Robert Popper, a New York City litigation attorney, proposes a new standard: compactness.

They measure compactness by the ratio of a figure's area to the length of its perimeter. By this standard, the most compact figure in the world is the circle. It is assigned a score of 1.0.

Michigan's 18th gets a score of .325 and the 17th gets .348. Ohio's 19th and 20th get .104 and .170 respectively. The lower the number the less compact the district is and the more reason to suspect gerrymandering.

Sen. Doug Cruce, R-Troy, and this writer received early copies of the study. Cruce is an important figure because he chairs the Senate Local Government and Reapportionment Committee, making him the GOP's point man on congressional and legislative redistricting.

"I tend to agree with the authors," Cruce said, "but I'm not sure the courts will buy the idea."

"Courts will deal with those issues that have direct impact on the rights of people. They've looked at the integrity of district boundary lines. I'm not sure the courts would look at it (compactness) the same way as the authors."

Michigan is due to lose two of its 18 congressional districts by 1992. The average district will have 590,000 souls.

Detroit Democrats are adamant that they have two congressional districts in their city of barely 1 million.

Oakland Republican chair Jim Alexander also wants two self-contained districts for his bailiwick of 1.1 million. Currently, Oakland has portions of five districts.

Cruce may be right. In this atmosphere, political integrity will rank above compactness.

No secrets in open meetings

Apparently, there is a misconception out there that anything can be taken off the record with just a simple request, even at a public meeting.

Let's get this straight once and for all. For those of you who attend public meetings and contribute to the public process either in your line of work or as a concerned member of society, congratulations. You get an A+ in civic duty.

But try to remember that if you comment during a public meeting, what you say is on the record. And it is absolutely on the record, no questions, no negotiating. If you speak during a meeting, do not be surprised if you read your comments in the newspaper the next week.

In covering the Novi and Northville school boards, I have had a few situations arise where parents address the board, and then ask that I not quote them in the newspaper. I can understand that the average person on the street may not know that what he or she says at a meeting is non-negotiable ON the record. For that reason, I don't mind explaining to parents that the proceedings of public meetings are always open, by law. But when a school official appears to be unfamiliar with the law relating to open meetings I have a little more trouble patiently understanding.

An architect brought plans for a new elementary school to the Northville School Board on Monday. With his plans, the architect also brought a model of the proposed school building. I was ready with a camera to get pictures of the building's designs. The model is impressive, although not exactly representative of the future school building. A few changes have been made in the building's design since the model was built.

Fine with me, I thought. That's why we have captions to explain what can and cannot be seen in a picture. But the architect had other plans. Stuffing the model in a plastic bag, he made his escape while I protested.

I left the meeting fuming. You would think an architect that works with schools would have some clue about the Open Meetings Act, I thought. I woke up a little more relaxed, telling myself that the architect was young and would hopefully know better next time. But then a surprising thing happened. He called and said the schools, specifically Assistant Superintendent for Administrative Services Burton Knighton, told him the district did not want a record of the model, which I assume means both the architect and the schools expected to keep the model out of the newspaper. I called Knighton to confirm that he had made such a deal with the architects.

He had indeed told the architects their model could be off the record. But he wanted the board to see the model because it is so "impressive." I have to ask why Northville residents would be any less interested in seeing this impressive work of architecture than the board? And why did a school official think he could take something presented at an open meeting off the record? And come to think of it, why did the architect think Knighton had the power to take something in an open meeting off the record?

Maybe the school official and the architect both honestly didn't know. I could understand that. But isn't there an old saying about ignorance of the law being no excuse?

Please repair Waterford Dam

To the editor:

This is another plea to the Jonna Construction Company from a concerned Northville resident. Please repair the Waterford Lake dam and restore our wildlife preserve.

The wildlife and natural beauty of Northville is one of the reasons we chose Northville as our home, too. It has been so beautiful to see ducks and mallards on the lake. It has been splendid to see a swan as part of our neighborhood, swimming on the pond. It has been awesome to see hundreds of geese circling and landing on the lake in the evening.

Our wildlife is a very precious part of Northville and of our planet. There are not many residents of the Detroit metropolitan area that have the natural beauty found here. Please don't let our home wildlife die!

Township residents support city buying old Ford plant

To the editor:

The purpose of this letter is to express our support for the purchase of the old Ford plant by the City of Northville. Although we live in the township, one of the reasons we moved to this community was because of the presence of a cohesive, traditional downtown. The Ford plant is a very natural central focal point for the city, much as the central park is a focus for Plymouth. A renovated Ford plant with adjacent parkland and waterwheel are attractive development plans, in our view.

It is encouraging to see the progressiveness of the City of Northville in its planning efforts. The leadership shown in pursuing the purchase of the vacant Ford plant demonstrates the recognition of the need to preserve the city's greatest assets: its history and its community center. In addition, this purchase would direct community development (rather than being directed by developers).

The downtown location of this property is a critical, yet intangible quality that must be considered in planning the community. As township residents, we would be willing to spend our tax dollars to share the burden of such a purchase if the property is renovated for a community purpose.

'Noville' residents get caught both coming and going

To the editor:

I am a resident of Novi. However, we are in the Northville School District. Yes, I live in "No-Ville," as many of us call ourselves in Dunbarton Pines Subdivision. The reason is simple: When we register for an activity in Northville through Parks and Recreation, we pay an extra $3 per person because we are non-residents. If we want to sign up for something in Novi through Community Education, we have to wait until everyone else who lives in Novi is done signing up, because we are in the Northville School System! This is very frustrating, especially since I am trying to sign my 3-year-old up for preschool this fall, and was told I can't sign up until the rest of Novi has done so. By then, the chances are that the preschool will be full and we will be too late to sign up for anything else by then! Is there anything that can be done?

Charles Stilec/Student Assistance Program

Activism needed to win our battles

Red ribbons were on everything in our community of Northville depicting the spirit behind the slogan "The Choice For Me, Drug Free." The past week's activities by the members of the community including businesses, PTAs, SADD chapters, Northville Action Council, schools, parents, students, even Wayne County Sheriff "sniff dogs" all continued to support positive choices and prevention of substance use and abuse. Many thanks should be given to the excellent coverage by the Northville Record staff writers and photographers.

However, as someone who works directly with the students I heard stories about this incredible party that had taken place in one of our subdivisions. A party where "hundreds of kids attended," unsupervised and uninhibited until one of the students out of fear called the police to intervene. I picked up the March 7 paper and there on the front page was the article "Wild Party Takes Its Toll on Family." I'm glad the article was written but saddened that a family's hopes and dreams are put on hold. You are talking major trust violations here. The article needed to be written because this scenario is not uncommon in our community. Some kids have an uncanny way of manipulating and making adults feel that all is well when it isn't. Some kids are masters of disguise and where there is a will there is a way. Kids of teen-age years seem to like to party. Many like to drink, so they will work the system to provide themselves with the proper forum of party places.

What we as adults need to do to prevent this carnage, abuse and total loss of control as depicted in the article is to become educated and organized.

We have a problem and all share in enabling this problem to go on. We as citizens, as students, as parents, and adults who care, have a responsibility to do more in terms of prevention and intervention. Our kids are able to buy cigarettes, alcohol and other drugs without consequence in most cases. In some cases parents even "buy" for them and provide places for them to party. These kids are losing ground spiritually, emotionally, socially, intellectually and physically. I see this death in terms of wrecked family relationships, dreams being put on hold and school grades and motivations being hurt.

As parents and adults we have to get the control back and to each reader I propose a partial solution.

Attend the next Northville Action Council meeting 7 p.m. Thursday, March 21, at the Northville City Hall Council Chambers. The discussion will center on the use of alcoholic liquors and controlled substances at open house parties and the penalties. This meeting, in my opinion, is an important step in looking at our present legal system regarding open house parties at homes, motels and hotels. We will be looking at laws in Northville and Novi, in terms of parental responsibility, and also laws in Farmington Hills pertaining to hotel, motel and home parties where alcoholic beverages or drugs are consumed by minors.

Please, readers, before you say that "it's not my problem," look again at the hundreds of kids, underage, who were at the "wild party" where $42,000 worth of damage was done, many of these students who drove home through our neighborhoods and in some cases slept in our homes. Look again at that article and say in conscience that we don't all bear a responsibility to not let this happen again!

The soul and life of the Red Ribbon faces each one of us. The Choice For Me, Drug Free means commitment and change where necessary. At the Red Ribbon dessert, the guest speaker, Hugh Shanahan, said that Northville is on the right path and has the right prevention attitude. For the parents who came home to devastation after the party, I know the healing will take a long time. We, the ones who are left, can learn a lesson!

Please come to the NAC meeting March 21, 7 p.m., City Hall, and share your opinions. This problem affects all of us.

Further questions or concerns can be directed to Charles Stilec at 344-1825 or to Jacques Martin Downs, Community Commissioner on Drug Abuse, at 261-3760.

Charles Stilec coordinates the Student Assistance Program for Northville Public Schools.

U.S. still has national will to win

God of our fathers, known of old, Lord of our far-flung battle-line, Beneath whose awful hand we hold Dominion over palm and pine — Lord God of Hosts, be with us yet, Lest we forget — lest we forget!

This verse begins "Recessional," a poem written by Rudyard Kipling in 1897, just as he began to sense the retreat of the British empire from worldwide dominion.

Those lines came to mind exactly a year ago when I stood with my family, gawking and sad, on the immense flight deck of the aircraft carrier USS Independence, berthed at Coronado Island, Calif.

Built in the 1950s when America was rich and powerful and self-confident, this great ship had projected for 25 years the might of our nation throughout the world. But then she lay vast and dark and unused, a silent symbol of the hollowing out of our sense of national purpose and of our own recession from power.

Far-called, our navies melt away; On dune and headland sinks the fire: Lo, all our pomp of yesterday is one with Nineveh and Tyre! Judge of the Nations, spare us yet, Lest we forget — lest we forget!

This week in pride and national self-renewal, we celebrate the first return of our troops from the Persian Gulf. We won the war — a just war, in my view. We not only changed forever the way wars will be waged, but we also demonstrated to ourselves and to the world that we could summon up our national will to carry out a large and difficult enterprise.

What a difference a year can make! I suspect that the war and the way President Bush has handled it will become a "defining event," one that fundamentally restructures the way things will work for many years.

Abroad, America no longer will be regarded as a paper tiger, with a guilt-ridden military and a political system incapable of sustained purpose. At home, it just may be that the ghost of Vietnam has at last been exorcised.

The Republicans are on a roll, and with good reason. It was their team that won this one, against the doubts and hesitations of many national Democrats who now are scrambling to look like they were on board all along.

Liberals are in trouble, and they will continue to be unless and until they can figure out a way to show that patriotism is not something to be ashamed of and that America's national interests are something to treasure and defend.

It would be well for such people to remember that the last successful Democratic presidents — Franklin Roosevelt and Harry Truman — were those who also successfully conducted wars to defend our national interests.

The tumult and the shouting dies; The captains and the kings depart; Still stands Thine ancient sacrifice, An humble and a contrite heart. Lord God of Hosts, be with us yet, Lest we forget — lest we forget!

Policeman leaves township for a home on the range

By MIKE TYREE
Staff Writer

The lure of greener pastures — complete with mountainous terrain and white-water streams — was too much for Sgt. Clyde Anderson to ignore.

And the steady westward encroachment of metropolitan Detroit helped cement his decision.

Anderson, a 12-year police veteran, last month announced his resignation from the township police department and said he will move his family to Colorado.

Anderson has accepted a position with the Moffat County Sheriff's Department in northwest Colorado. His last scheduled day of duty for Northville Township is March 24.

The change will be dramatic, said Anderson, whose township chores included shift command, breathalyzer operator and trainer, and vehicle operations officer.

"The sheriff's department is about the same size as the township's, but instead of covering 18 square miles, we'll patrol 8,736 square miles," he said. "The county has rolling mountain areas and high plains desert areas."

"There's a lot of open range; the number-one crime problem is cattle theft," he said.

But Anderson welcomes the challenge of the open range.

"I grew up in Plymouth and back then it was a small town," he said. "When you drove into Detroit, you would pass a lot of farm land. Now with this traffic, you just sit on the freeway."

"I just thought maybe we'd get away from this urban hassle."

Get away, indeed. But Anderson said his wife Sally, and daughters Lauren, 9, and Kelly, 5, are raring to wrangle the west.

"The kids are excited; they've seen the area," he said, adding that dad is also filled with anticipation. "There are trout streams everywhere you go and the area has the best hunting in the state, from what I'm told."

A dozen years with the township produced a lot of memories, Anderson said, but one job-related encounter stands out in his mind.

An August 1984 jewelry store robbery in Plymouth netted two gunmen upwards of $1 million in cash and jewelry and placed Anderson squarely on the firing line. On patrol near Five Mile and Beck Road, Anderson spotted a vehicle matching the description of the suspects' car.

"I saw a car that looked like them and the license plate and descriptions matched," he said.

Ensuing moments were anxious, but Anderson stopped the vehicle and "fortunately, they gave up without any resistance."

Former police Chief Kenneth Hardesty presented Anderson a department citation for his efforts and a promotion to sergeant soon followed.

Anderson admits the move causes "a little apprehension — that's normal anytime you put in 12 years somewhere," but said a change was due.

"A lot of people sit around and say they have another 12 years before retirement and then they'll do something else," he said. "I just figured, if we can do it now, why wait to retire?"

Speaker shares hard lesson

By SUZANNE HOLLYER
Staff Writer

John Foley is not mentally retarded, although some people mistake his communication difficulties for a lack of intelligence.

Foley, a 1982 Northville High School graduate, attended a party nearly four years after graduating from high school. He drank 10 beers and several shots of alcohol at the party before driving home.

On the way home, Foley crossed the center line, hit an oncoming vehicle and changed his life forever.

But Foley did escape with his life, and for that he is grateful. Foley learned a lesson about drinking and driving the hard way.

"I almost died finding out," he said to a group of Students Against Driving Drunk members at Northville High School.

Foley offered to share his experience in hopes of preventing someone else from learning the lesson firsthand.

He visited Northville High School as part of the school's Red Ribbon Week activities. Red Ribbon Week is jointly sponsored by the Northville Action Council and Northville school organizations to promote awareness of substance abuse.

Foley approached Northville High School's SADD adviser Charles Stillec offering to share his story after four years of rehabilitation.

Foley has spent the last four years relearning to walk, drive and talk. The accident caused, among several other injuries, a traumatic brain injury.

More specifically, Foley has aphasia. Aphasia is a brain injury affecting communication skills.

He explains it saying his problem puts most of his thoughts right on tip of his tongue. Foley has trouble finding the exact words he needs to express his thoughts.

But he found enough words to tell around 50 SADD members about the four years of recovery since his accident.

And he has found enough words to make it possible to enroll in one class at Schoolcraft College, the school he was attending before the accident.

Foley lives with his parents, but it is not because he is incapable of living alone. Like many 22-year-olds, Foley lives with his parents for financial reasons.

But less than a year ago, Foley could not even form a complete sentence, said his tutor, Sherry Duff.

After the accident, he was in the hospital for eight months. He visited a clinic every day for a year after that. Then he lived in a clinic for a year. Now, he visits Duff every day for therapy on his communication skills.

Foley was in a coma for six weeks following the accident. When he woke up, "He didn't walk. He didn't talk. He said he didn't know who his mom and dad were. Everything had to be relearned," Duff said.

"Last July we were lucky to get a sentence out of him," Duff said.

Foley's talk with Northville High School's SADD chapter was his first public speech.

Colleen Foley, John's mother, was present for his debut speaking engagement.

"I hope the kids really do realize that it can happen to them," she said.

One SADD member wanted to know what happened to the driver of the truck Foley hit. The other driver injured his ankle and is fine now, but that is all Foley knows about him.

THEater

Theater thrives in your backyard

By CRISTINA FERRIER
Staff Writer

The curtain rises. The room darkens. A hush falls over the audience. It's showtime. In this case it's "Charlotte's Web" at the Marquis Theatre, and the audience is a group of elementary school students filled with delight at the prospect of watching a goose and a sheep, a rat, a spider and a pig dance and sing on stage.

And in the role of Fern, Northville's own Katie Bondy is in the wings, waiting to take the stage.

For area actors and actresses, this is their chance to be someone else. It's a chance to get behind a character, a chance to sing and dance, to be a star, or maybe just to ham it up (no pun intended).

For the audience, it's a time to get wrapped up in a story and experience the magic of a live performance.

The local area offers plenty of theater, at all levels of skill. It may not be Broadway, but it's fun, just the same.

There are four community theater groups that perform in Novi and Northville, in addition to the Marquis, which employs professionals as well as amateurs.

The Novi Players perform in the Novi Civic Center, and are currently in production with the show "Daughters," running March 16 and 17.

Northville Players is a group that formed about three years ago from a community theater workshop. The group does mostly melodramas and "spoofs." Their most recent performance was "The Best Christmas Pageant Ever" in December, and they are currently working on the melodrama "Her Fatal Beauty," due to open in May. The Northville Players are a regular part of Northville's Victorian Festival and usually perform at Mill Race Village.

"We like to use the Mill Race because it's very quaint," said Judy Kohl, a member of Northville Players. The group has also used the Northville VFW hall and Northville First United Methodist Church for performances.

"We're hoping to find a permanent home,"

Kohl, like many community theater participants, is someone who was once involved in high school or college theater, and later found she had no time for it. Only recently, now that her children are grown, has she found herself back in the spotlight.

"Most of the people in our group got out, then got back in," she said. "Some people make that commitment to get back into it. Others just keep saying, 'Someday I'll do theater again.'"

LISA ENGLS

She volunteers for her children

By DOROTHY NASH
Special Writer

"I like being part of my child's education," said Lisa Engles in justifying the time and effort she puts in for the Northville Co-operative Preschool, which provides a supervised play-learn for currently 65 children ages two to four.

For three years Engles took part in the classroom when her older child, now in kindergarten, was in preschool. Now she is starting all over with her two and a half year old.

This means being helper once or twice a month for her child's teacher, who is a paid employee. The number of helpers at one time, she said, is regulated by state law.

In talking about the two-year-olds program, where she is volunteering now, Engles said, "It isn't terribly structured," and the parents' responsibilities are mainly bringing a snack and doing clean-up.

Also being part of the program means attending monthly membership meetings.

And for Engles there is another monthly meeting because she is member of the twelve-person board. And being a member of the board, she has a special interest: the annual fund-raiser, which is an auction held in November.

"For the last two years," she said, "I have helped organize and run it."

Members and area businesses donate items, and a professional auctioneer comes in, donating his services.

Included, too, in her auction responsibility is that of assigning jobs to parents — jobs like doing the books, buying supplies, and cleaning up.

For Lisa Engles, being part of Co-op Preschool is a must because it's making her a part of what's going on in the classroom and it's giving her an opportunity to meet other parents of small children.

In Our Town

Former Northville residents are visited in Malaysia

Alan and Sharon Buell, former Northville residents who now live in Malaysia, were visited recently by their children, Doug, Jeff and Deborah Buell and Kim Trimble.

While visiting, they ate at a popular, though simple, restaurant called Din Bamboo. The owner, Bapak Din, is an ex-fisherman and a proponent of the Malay martial art called silat. He is also a Bomoh, or Malay medicine man.

Bapak Din opened his restaurant in 1973 to serve Malay food to tourists. His English vocabulary consisted of little more than "thank you," (which he can now say in some 20 languages) but he has built up a large and faithful following.

The restaurant is an unassuming place consisting of two long tables covered with oilcloth in the front room of Bapak Din's village home. The food is the type rarely found in restaurants and if one doesn't know how to eat correctly Bapak Din eagerly will demonstrate just how to mix the sauces with the rice before adding the meat.

Papa Din, as he is affectionately known, is a kind, warm-hearted and entertaining man. After an hour or so at his restaurant he provided the Buell family with a unique and fascinating perspective on life in Malaysia.

Town Hall

The 1990-91 Town Hall series picks up again, March 21 with 1988 Miss America Kaye Lari Raye Raiko at the Plymouth Radisson. Coordinators of the event must turn in an accurate count of guests one week before the event, so no refunds will be made after that date.

In addition to a presentation by Raiko, the 1991-92 series speakers will be announced at the March 21 speech. Tickets for the 1991-92 series will be on sale at the April Town Hall.

Raiko will speak at 11 a.m. The luncheon will follow immediately after.

Silver Springs Questers

The Silver Springs Questers, chapter 417, met in February for their annual White Elephant or spring cleaning auction. In spite of smaller turnout due to vacationing or ill members they managed to raise a very appreciable amount for their donations to national and local historic preservation and restoration. The group's auctioneer, Connie Eis, created the jovial atmosphere to tempt participation.

This month the program will involve informative discussions and narrative on this year's national Quester topic: "Taking the Waters" or the history of spas and mineral baths.

Woman's Club

The final meeting of the 1990-91 year of the Northville Woman's Club will take place tomorrow, March 15, on a St. Patrick's Day note.

Accompanied by Alice Chamberlain, Florence Hammer and Lonna Lemon will sing songs featuring "A Bit of Ireland." All are members of the club.

The annual Tureen Luncheon will open the meeting at 12:30 p.m., with all members bringing a contribution of food to be shared.

This is also the annual meeting, the last to be conducted by president Geraldine Mills. New officers will be elected.

Spaghetti Dinner

Attention Shoppers! Come and enjoy a spaghetti dinner Friday, March 22 during the Moonlight Madness/Handcrafters show. The dinner is sponsored by Single Place of First Presbyterian Church of Northville.

Cost of the dinner, which includes spaghetti, salad and dessert, is $5 for adults, $3.50 for children or $15 for a family ticket. Dinner will be served from 5:30 to 8 p.m.

Tickets can be purchased at Single Place on any Wednesday evening or at First Presbyterian Church during regular working hours.

Child care with entertainment is also available at $2 per hour.

Single Place

Single Place presents "Crime Wise" with Donna Baylor Wednesday, March 20. Baylor will present what every criminal hopes that you won't learn, how victims are chosen, what criminals look for in a target at home, in the car or on the street, and when to fight and when to escape.

Baylor is a single parent and is active in the Berkley schools and community. She works with the Drug Awareness Program and is a certified hypnotherapist and a certified teacher of hypnosis.

Used Book Sales

After a lapse of a year and a half, used book sales are being resumed by the Friends of the Northville Library. The first will take place on Saturday, April 20, in the city council chambers in the municipal building.

Contributions of used books are now welcome at the library and will be moved for sorting as they come in.

Most used books are acceptable for re-sale with some exceptions. The Friends cannot accept encyclopedias more than 10 years old or textbooks up through the high school level.

High school juniors urged to apply for Girls State

Northville High School junior girls are urged to apply now for 10 scholarships available to attend the American Legion Auxiliary Girls State program in June.

Thanks to the strong sponsorship of the program in government by local organizations and businesses, Northville is able to send one of the largest delegations from the area to the program to be held June 15-23 on the campus of Central Michigan University in Mt. Pleasant, according to local chair Jean Day-Couse.

This is the 51st year for the program sponsored locally by Unit 147 American Legion Auxiliary. Co-chairs locally for the program are Nan Oliver and Betty Allen. Allen was a delegate from Northville in the early years of Girls State and attended the 50th anniversary session last year.

Girls in the 11th grade at Northville High School who are interested in attending the session should apply to their counselor now. Selection of applicants will be made before April 1. Civics teachers and counselors make the selections from those who apply to attend.

Local sponsorships for the 1991 session have been funded by Northville Mothers' Club and Northville Rotary, two each, and by Northville Kiwanis Club, Northville VFW Auxiliary 4012, Northville American Legion Auxiliary Unit 147 and by Northville Woman's Club and Northville Business and Professional Women, a joint scholarship.

In addition, local businesses have funded two sponsorships. Casterline

Funeral Home Inc. has sponsored the program for many years. Day-Couse notes, adding that she is pleased this year also to have a joint sponsorship by the Jackson Trotting Association, Northville Driving Club Corporation and Northville Downs.

The Girls State program is designed as a practical experience in the problems of self-government as operated in Michigan, the legion auxiliary notes.

Theater's fun for actors, audience

She enjoys it, she said, because "it just kind of gives you an outlet to be someone you're not."

Theatre Street Players is a new theater group that formed in February in conjunction with Novi's Performing Arts Academy. The group is currently working on a one-act festival consisting of "The Lottery" and "Who Calls." The production, set to open in early May, will be the first for the group, which hopes to focus on musicals in the future.

Linda Wickert, organizer of Theatre Street Players, has been teaching and directing theater since 1972. She said one of the aspects of community theater she enjoys is the feeling of everyone pulling together to create something.

"I think what happens in theater — even when you're just being in the chorus or pulling the curtain — you're creating something. You have someone else's words and you are taking those words and breathing life into them.

"You are creating another living, breathing person. And you are totally in control of what you are creating."

Wickert said she likes the fact that everyone who is part of a play is doing something important in creating the show.

"What every person does is important," she said. "One voice director I know always stands his performers in a circle for warm-up exercises because nobody's at the head. This is our performance, our rehearsal."

The Plymouth Theatre Guild, in spite of its name, performs in Northville at the Tower Theatre on the campus of the Northville Regional Psychiatric Hospital. The group just closed a production of "Crimes of the Heart" and is now working on "The Princess and the Pea," set to open May 3.

Karen Groves, who has the lead role in "Princess and the Pea," said she works hard to create another character.

"I put myself through a lot when I'm on stage," she said.

But she echoed the sentiments of many other community theater members. What she does is fun.

"It gives you a chance to be someone else, to play a different role," she said. "It's not always fun to be yourself."

In addition to these groups, there is also the historic Marquis Theatre in downtown Northville, where "Charlotte's Web" is running through March 24.

Sassaman to award two $500 scholarships

For the third year, John B. Sassaman, director of Ross B. Northrop and Son Funeral Home in Northville, will award two $500 scholarships to graduating seniors from the Northville community.

Sassaman said he decided to offer the scholarships "as a way of putting something back into the community that could benefit the younger generation."

"I hope that they will do the same for someone someday," Sassaman said.

About 25 students applied for the scholarships last year, Sassaman added. He encourages local students to apply for the scholarships.

Following is a list of criteria by which the applicants will be judged and the awards given.

The purpose of the scholarship is to financially assist high school seniors from the Northville community to attend the Michigan university or college of their choice.

The applicant must:

1. Be a high school senior and a U.S. citizen.
2. Live in the city or township of Northville.
3. Have carried a B average throughout their junior and senior years of high school.
4. Demonstrate leadership qualities.
5. Have been accepted at a Michigan university or college.
6. Have not been offered a full scholarship to attend a Michigan university or college.

Applications are available through the Northrop Funeral Home. An applicant may call 348-1233 or write: John B. Sassaman, Ross B. Northrop and Son Funeral Home, 19091 Northville Road, Northville, 48167. Print the word "Scholarship" on the envelope.

Completed applications must be turned by March 31 of the senior year and must be typed. In addition to the completed application there must be:

1. A letter of verification from the high school office stating the junior letter grade average and the senior letter grade average thus far.
2. Two letters of recommendation from senior teachers specifically addressing the applicant's academic performance and leadership abilities.
3. One additional letter from an adult friend or neighbor.

All letters must be in by the March 31 deadline. Note: none of the applications or letters can or will be returned.

Notification of the two awards will be made by May 31 of the senior year. The scholarship will be $500 payment of tuition made directly to the university or college that the student will be attending the fall of the same year.

If a selected awardee cannot accept the scholarship, a new awardee will be determined and notified as soon as possible.

Employees who are employed by Northrop Funeral Homes or John Sassaman, Inc. are ineligible.

Gelderland: A Dutch treat for tourists

By IRIS SANDERSON JONES
Travel Writer

The people of Apeldoorn were outraged when the government stripped the white stucco from Het Loo and returned "their palace" to its 17th century splendor, but William and Mary would have been delighted.

Het Loo, which means "open space in the woods" looks now exactly as it did when William of Orange built it as a hunting lodge in 1685.

The royal woods are still there too, full of red deer and wild boar, but the woods do have several touches of the 20th century. The extravagant hunting lodge built by a Mr. and Mrs. Kroller-Muller in 1920 is still there. The stunning Kroller-Muller art museum and sculpture garden is a national treasure. And Nederlanders regularly walk or bike the network of paths through the country's largest nature preserve. Sometimes they use the "white bikes" available in the National Park de Hoge Veluwe for their free use.

Het Loo and Apeldoorn are at the north end of the national park. The 17th century also has been restored at the south end, near Arnhem, where community-minded Gelderland established an open-air museum to preserve the 17th and 18th century traditions disappearing from Dutch life.

I call the Netherlands Open-Air Museum the Greenfield Village of Holland, although it was built in 1912, long before Henry Ford built Greenfield Village in Dearborn.

The site of all this old and new Dutch life is the province of Gelderland, specifically the area known as the Veluwe. Put your finger in the dead center of the Netherlands, two hours east of Amsterdam, where the map sports a large green and purple splotch. Those colors stand for the woodlands and heather-covered heath of the Veluwe.

Veluwe means "poor soil." Science says that land-ice pushed mounds of sand across Gelderland, but I prefer the Dutch version—glants dumped sand out of their clogs while walking through.

The Veluwe has been known for its woodlands and sheep-pasturing heath for centuries. The area was described by a 17th century Englishman as "one of the best hunting Countrys in ye World but good for Little Else."

It's not hunting that attracts most people. The Dutch go to bike, jog and play in the royal woods; to tour the palaces, museums and other attractions, such as the Apenheul, an innovative ape sanctuary in Apeldoorn. They also go to frolic on the grand sand beaches left around inland lakes when the Dutch turned sea into land beside the old Zuider Zee. The Dutch didn't invent dikes, but they may be the only people in the world who can create a new province out of the sea.

"Gelderland is one of 11—pardon me, 12—provinces of the Netherlands. It's hard to keep track."

That was Gonnio Sobkowiak, pronounced "coney" with a guttural "c." North and South Holland are two of the 12 provinces, which is why the Netherlands are often nicknamed Holland.

Gonnio was walking with us through the Netherlands Open-Air Museum, a pleasant and informative way to explore the life of all the Dutch regions. We walked across wooden bridges, down gabled streets, into the kind of sod farm house where Vincent Van Gogh was born, through the paper mill and were on our way to lunch when I stopped dead in my tracks.

There was a windmill exactly like De Zwaan, which stands on Windmill Island in Holland, Michigan. No surprise to the well-informed. The Reverend Albertus van Raalte left Arnhem in 1846 to establish Holland, Michigan.

Arnhem was still a medieval city then, but it's a modern city now, thanks to the destruction wrought during World War II. If you saw the movie "A Bridge Too Far," you saw the Battle of Arnhem. Many refugees spent 100 days in the relative sanctuary of the open-air museum during the battle.

The museum shows how ordinary people lived while the royal family was retreating over the centuries to the Het Loo Palace in Apeldoorn, 27 kilometers north. If the kings called William confuse you, this William of Orange married Mary Stuart and became King of England; he planted the protestants in Ireland; it was this William and Mary they named the college after in Williamsburg, Virginia.

One William succeeded another until Napoleon changed the map of Europe and planted his son Louis on the Dutch throne. Louis only hunted at Het Loo Palace for four years, but he made a lot of changes, including plastering the red brick palace with a stylish white.

When he left, the Dutch reinstated the monarchy, who used et Loo until Queen Wilhemina, who abdicated in 1948, died in 1962; the royal family gave the estate to the government. It took years, and millions of dollars, to restore the palace and grounds, but there it is in all its splendor.

The palace includes a three-story main building, the wing where they kept the royal horses and now show the royal carriages, and the sculptured formal gardens. The royal family uses a smaller palace next door for vacations. Princess Margriet, who was born in Canada during World War II, lives with her family in a modern house beyond the grounds.

The royal hunting grounds—25,000 acres around Apeldoorn—are also open to the public. You can follow gamekeepers down wildlife trails to observation huts or just wander or bike at your leisure. The national government has preserved all of these woodlands, so you will also find Park Berg en Bos at the edge of town, with its lakes and woods. A highlight is the Apenheul, where 250 apes roam free in an innovative zoo setting.

If you have already seen the streets of Amsterdam, this small stretch of Gelderland is a wonderful way to spend a few days exploring lesser-known attractions, as well as biking or walking off some of those pounds you've gained touring Europe.

For information, contact your travel agent as well as the Netherlands Board of Tourism, 225 N. Michigan Ave., Suite 326, Chicago, IL 60601; telephone (312) 819-0300 and ask for information about trains, points of interest, hotels and restaurants, and the Holland Leisure Card and Museumpass which gives you special privileges and discounts throughout the Netherlands.

Local pair married in Europe

By IRIS SANDERSON JONES
Travel Writer

"Daniel Fitzgerald and Jonnie Leverette of Novi planned a European wedding ceremony with the romantic intent of eloping to Switzerland."

That was in a letter received from Daniel's sister Dawne Fitzgerald, who is living in Luxembourg.

The half-hour ceremony took place in the Hotel de Ville, the city hall in the heart of Geneva, which displayed its 16th century charms. The founding signatures of the International Red Cross by the Geneva Convention of 1864 can be found in this building.

"We were ushered into the wedding room and seated at a gleaming cherry wood table, surrounded by life-sized murals, a marble fireplace, a massive mirror and a bouquet of peach roses. It was truly a special place to be wed."

The ceremony was completed in about 20 minutes, with the signing of the marital decree by all involved. A formal reading of the document in French reminded us of our whereabouts!

"We spent the next two hours exploring Geneva, including a park where 20 Asian tourists photographed themselves one-by-one with the bride and groom."

Geneva is a truly international city, especially the old town, with its well-preserved medieval charm. A musical carousel provides a big thrill for small children.

"We climbed the North Tower of Cathedral St-Pierre for a terrific view of the old city, the Alps and Lake Geneva. On the picturesque waterfront, popular sights are the beautiful flowers of the Jardin Anglais, and the world's tallest fountain, the Jet d'Eau. Cruises are available, ranging from one to 12 hours."

The close of our special day was spent in Montreux, a resort at the east end of Lake Geneva, 40 minutes by car from the city. Montreux is renowned for its International Jazz Festival.

The bridal couple chose the Hotel Excelsior, with its marble floors and exquisite parlor overlooking Lake Geneva. Dreams can't come true, because I for one can attest to being part of one."

So you'd like to stay in a haunted castle

By IRIS SANDERSON JONES
Travel Writer

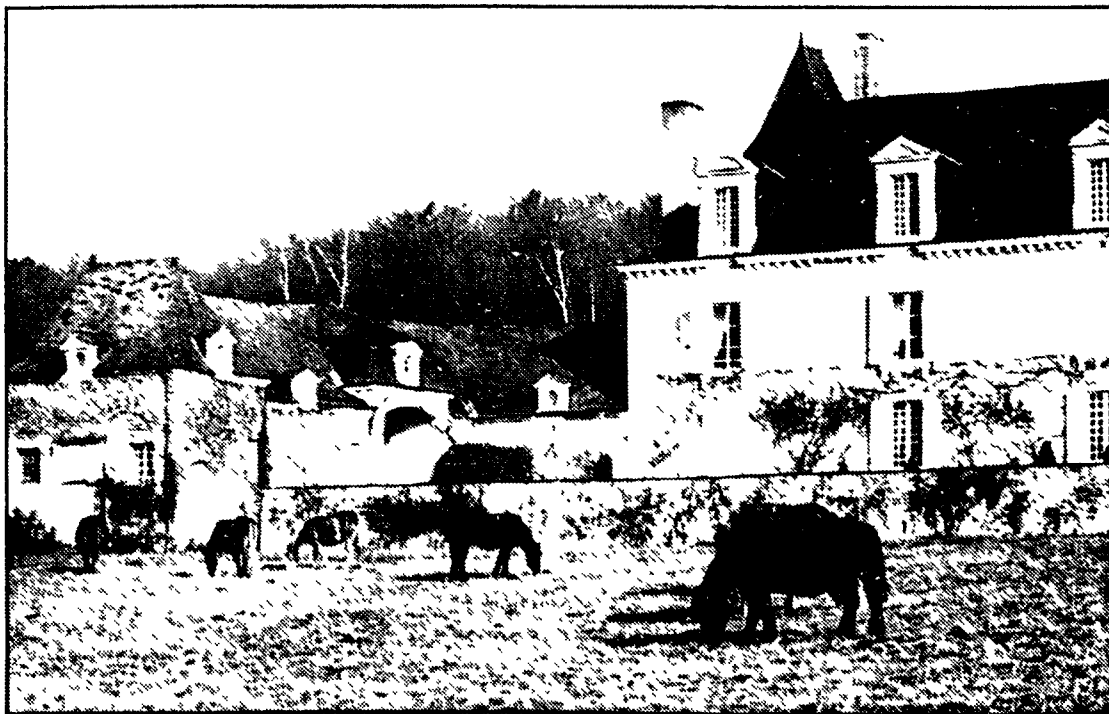

Dear Iris:
My husband and I would like to visit Great Britain and part of the continent sometime in the spring or fall. Instead of spending a lot of time in London, Dublin or other large city, we would prefer to spend time in the country. We are very interested in old castles—or, better yet—haunted castles like you see in the movies. Do you know of any? Are there any circumstances where tourists can stay overnight in castles? Any information you can give us will be much appreciated.
V.H., Harland

One of the nice things about castles is that they are almost all haunted. You can stay in castles in many parts of England, Ireland and Scotland, as well as in several countries on the continent of Europe.

If you and 20 of your friends want to rent a whole castle for $4,000 to $9,000 a week, you can call Home Tours International toll-free at (800) 367-4668 and ask for listings in Castiglione in Italy or the country of your choice.

If you just want a room, and you are not inclined to mortgage your house to get it, read on.

Spain and Portugal both have built tourist hotels in their old castles. They are very popular, so book ahead. For information about Spanish paradises, contact the National Tourist Office of Spain, 845 N. Michigan Avenue, 60611, (312) 842-1992. For Portuguese posadas, contact

Tourists can stay at the Chateau de Telldras, a castle hotel in Anjou, France

Portuguese National Tourist Office, 548 Fifth Avenue, New York, N.Y. 10036, (212) 354-4403.

A hotel association called Relais et Chateaux will connect you with excellent, if somewhat high-priced, castle hotels in Europe, mostly in France. You can get information by calling David Mitchell and Co. in New York, toll free at (800) 372-1323. A copy of the hotel guide will cost you $5.

The most popular castle accommodations in Great Britain are in Scotland, just across the border from England. For information on England, Scotland or Northern Ireland, contact the British Tourist Authority, 625 N. Michigan Avenue, Chicago, IL 60611, telephone (312) 787-0490.

You will find a few castles and a lot of large manor houses in Ireland, north and south. For the Republic of Ireland, contact the Irish Tourist Board, 757 Third Avenue, New York, N.Y. 10017, telephone (212) 418-0800.

Remember, it doesn't cost you a penny to work with your local travel agent.

Baseball fans love those Mud Hens

 By RICK BYRNE
Copy Editor

Between the firing of broadcaster Ernie Harwell and the anti-Tiger Stadium bledings of Tigers' owner Tom Monaghan, there are all sorts of calls going out to boycott the Tigers in 1991.

That makes good sense if you're the type who likes to vote with his feet. You send a message to the management about just how unpopular they are — especially in the case of Tom Monaghan, who right now seems about as popular as typhoid fever.

There's just one problem: what if you're hooked on baseball? What if you can't live without hearing the live crack of a clean base hit? Wofding down stadium hot dogs? The roar of the crowd? The singing of our national anthem? "Thank God I'm a Country Boy" being played for the grounds crew?

What's a baseball fan to do? How about going to a Toledo Mud Hens game? Yes, the baseball team that Cpl. Max Klinger of the old "M*A*S*H" series made famous plays 144 games a year just an hour away. And there's good news for the Mud Hens.

"We're going to have a good team this year," said Joe Napoli, Hens' director of marketing and public relations.

The Mud Hens are the minor league AAA affiliate of the Tigers, which means the level of competition is just one notch below the major leagues. They've been part of the Tigers' farm system since 1987 (and also from 1967-73), but at various times in their history, the Hens have been associated with the Twins, Indians, Phillies and Yankees.

Their history is steeped in tradition. Baseball has been played in Toledo since 1883 — with the exception of a 10-year gap from 1956-65. The team has been known as the Mud Hens since the turn of the century, named for a bird better known as the American Coot. This chicken-like slate-gray bird has an ivory white duck's bill, and allegedly made its home in the muddy swamps around Toledo.

Today you'd be hard-pressed to find one in the area, but they're more often heard than seen. A bird-watcher's text says that "in its incessant fighting, splashes water noisily," in addition to an "infinite variety of cackles, groans, grunts, whistles and bleats."

Hall of Famers like Addie Joss, Bill Terry, Fred Lindstrom and Hack Wilson wore the red and blue colors at one time or another. Other well-known former Hens include Olympian Jim Thorpe, Dazzy Vance, Dizzy Trout, Kirby Puckett, Rick Dempsey and manager Casey Stengel.

This year, fan interest is rallying under the slogan "It's a whole new ball game." Napoli's goal is to draw 200,000 fans for the first time in nearly 10 years. The stadium seats 10,000.

"The difference between major and minor league ball is that when you come out here, it's like one big party," said Napoli.

It's not unusual, he said, to have a drawing for a bale of hay, a 50-pound watermelon or a live rabbit. Scoreboard sing-alongs are a popular staple. There will also be visits from the Famous (formerly San Diego) Chicken and the Phillie Phanatic. Those two will likely talk shop with Toledo's own mascot, Muddy the Mud Hen.

And like the big club, the Hens will have giveaways of helmets, hats and other Mud Hen paraphernalia. On Singles Saturday, one section of the grandstand will be set aside for singles, with men being sold odd-numbered tickets, and women receiving the even numbers.

There's optimism on the field too, since the Tigers are likely to send down at least two good, young pitchers for one more year of seasoning in AAA ball. In addition, the team has a new manager with a winning history.

"Joe Sparks is our new manager," said Napoli. "In 16 years managing in the minor leagues, he has eight championships. And 14 of the 16 teams he's managed have finished first, second or third."

Ironically, one of his teams that didn't finish in the top three was the 1974 Mud Hens. Jim Weber, longtime Hens' radio play-by-play man, said the club was an Indians' affiliate that year.

"The Indians had the worst minor league system in baseball at the time," said Weber.

Napoli added, "Joe Sparks feels he owes something to Toledo. He wants to give them a winning ballclub."

Boshoven analyzes campaign

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN
Staff Writer

One of the most talented and balanced wrestling classes ever to go through Northville High School wrapped up its four-year career last month. Senior standouts like Brandon Mardossian, Kevin Khashan, Jason Vertrees and Jeff Lower combined to register an incredible 112-31-1 record this season.

That averages out to a .783 winning percentage, which is impressive considering the hardships many of these wrestlers had to endure during the season.

"It was a great wrestling class," Northville Coach Bob Boshoven said. "Guys like Mardossian, Khashan and Vertrees have been very big contributors to our program for the last two and three years."

In many ways, it was sad to see this group's final season hampered by so many injuries and illnesses. For example, in the WLAA Meet on Feb. 2, Northville placed sixth out of 12 teams, but then undefeated Khashan was unable to compete due to a back injury and Mardossian was forced to default in the 135-pound championship bout after sustaining a head butt.

"It was definitely a frustrating season because of all the injuries and illnesses," Boshoven admitted. "Other than the first dual meet back in early December, we never were healthy enough to field our best team at every weight class."

After winning the WLAA Western Division title last winter, the undermanned Mustangs had to settle for a second-place tie (3-1-1 record) this time around and a less-than-spectacular 8-12-1 overall mark.

But a surge in the post-season — particularly by Mardossian and Khashan — helped soothe the disappointments of the regular season. Mardossian regrouped to become the No. 2 135-pounder in the state, and finished with a 30-5 record. He advanced all the way to the state final before falling by one point (6-5) to unbeaten Tom Costello of Warren Lincoln.

"Brandon is a three-year state-meet qualifier and a four-time regional qualifier and no other Northville wrestler's ever done that as far as I know," Boshoven said. "He started at Livonia Stevenson as a freshman and finished the last three years here, so I'm sure he has well over 100 prep victories in his career."

As for Khashan, he was undefeated at 125, but the back injury forced a move up to 130 and prevented him from practicing much at all in the final three weeks of the season. Despite that, Khashan scrapped his way into the state meet field for the second time in his career and then staged the biggest upset of the tournament in the first round by knocking off unbeaten and top-ranked Kael Williams of Southfield Lathrup.

"It was a tribute to Kevin's courage in the last few weeks that he could even wrestle, let alone at the level he was showing," Boshoven said. "In the last three weeks, he only practiced three times."

Khashan wound up 29-4-1 overall.

As for the other seniors, Vertrees was just one win away from qualifying for the state meet and had a 29-9 record at 189. Lower was 24-13 at 171, and Jeff Todd was just 9-17 at 152 but did finish fifth at the WLAA Meet.

The team's top returnee next winter will be Matt Allison, who was 28-6 at 112 and 119 as a sophomore, and is already a two-time regional qualifier.

"Matt's been wrestling since he was 6 or 7 years old," Boshoven said. "From a technical standpoint, he is by far the best wrestler we have."

Other key regulars who are expected back include junior Mike Moore (11-11 at 130), junior Dave Kovacovich (19-13 at 119) and sophomore Rob Subotich (5-14 at 160), who probably made more strides in his first year of wrestling than anybody.

Boshoven is also encouraged by what he calls "the best freshman class we've ever had, in my opinion." The ninth-grade brigade is led by 103-pounder Jason Tarrow, who was only 8-12 but shows great promise. "Tarrow will be a future standout," Boshoven predicts.

Other freshmen who received valuable varsity action include heavy-weight John Gatti and 140-pounder Mark Fagnani.

Kolb and DeHart qualify for states

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN
Staff Writer

For the first time since 1989, Northville will be represented at the MHSAA State Gymnastics Meet.

Two Mustang individuals — junior Mia DeHart and freshman Sara Kolb — qualified for the berth last weekend (March 9) in regional action at Fraser. As a team, Northville placed eighth in a field of 11 teams with a 128.95 score.

"We did rather well on one or two events and we suffered on a few others," Mustang Coach Jeff Pergament said. "We aren't real healthy right now, so I guess we did OK despite that."

DeHart returned after injuring the big toe on her right foot in practice prior to the WLAA Meet in late February, but was clearly below 100 percent. To make matters worse, junior Ris Fleming was unable to compete due to an injury.

"Mia competed but she was in obvious pain and it affected her performances," Pergament admitted.

As a team, the Mustangs scored 31.9 points in the uneven parallel bars, but the highlight came when both DeHart and Kolb qualified as individuals for the State Meet with their routines. DeHart tied for fourth place out of 63 competitors with an 8.9 and Kolb was eighth (8.8). The other Northville scores came from Sue Okasinski (7.35) and Kristen Brown (8.85).

According to Pergament, the Mustangs' best event was the vault. The squad scored 34.85, which was the fifth highest team score, and Kolb qualified for the State Meet with a 9.15 that tied her for fourth place out of 84 participants. The rest of the Northville competitors included Melanie Apligian (23rd place, 8.6), DeHart (24th, 8.55), Stacy Kasmerick (24th, 8.55), Leslie Allen (35th, 8.35) and Karen Kosman (7.95).

In the floor exercise, the Mustangs boasted five scores in the eights, led by DeHart's 8.85 (11th place). She was followed by Allen (15th, 8.7), Kasmerick (26th, 8.4), Tracie Surdu (8.2) and Beth Cannizzaro (8.0). The team's worst performance came in the balance beam (team score 28.05), and Kolb (23rd, 8.2) led the way. The other scores came from Kosman (49th, 7.4), DeHart (6.6) and Allen (5.85).

In the all-around competition, DeHart scored a 32.9 and placed in the middle of the pack among 44 participants.

"That was excellent considering her condition," Pergament said. "She is one tough cookie."

The State Meet is scheduled for March 16 at Ann Arbor Pioneer.

"I'm happy for the girls that made it," Pergament said. "With Mia on bars, it shouldn't affect her too much unless she hits her foot on the bars. As for Sara, she's just a freshman but I think she'll do really well."

Salem ends Northville's year, 51-42

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN
Staff Writer

Northville Coach Omar Harrison was pleased and proud of his team's effort following a closer-than-expected 51-42 loss to eighth-ranked Plymouth Salem in the MHSAA District semifinals on March 7 at Novi — but the Mustang players were disappointed.

A heavy underdog, Northville stayed with the Rocks through much of the contest and actually knotted the score midway through the third quarter. But Salem — thanks to the outside shooting of Mike Mulder — outscored the Mustangs 23-14 down the stretch to move into the finals.

"I was very, very happy but I know the kids were disappointed," Harrison said. "They had mixed feelings heading in on whether we could win or not, but as the game continued and we stayed close, the kids started to believe."

The Rocks jumped ahead 15-8 after one quarter but Northville fought back in the second and pulled to within three (23-20) at halftime. Senior center Mike Lang scored six points in the quarter.

"We were a little bit tense at the beginning and gave up some easy fast-break baskets," Harrison explained. "But we started executing our game plan better in the second quarter. We wanted to be more patient and make our shots count and the fact that we shot seven free throws in the quarter shows me that we were being more aggressive and going to the basket."

The Mustangs tied the score at 28 midway through the third, but Mulder nailed a pair of three-pointers and Salem inched in front 39-32 heading into the final period.

"Those three-pointers really give a team a spark," Harrison said. "We tied it but we never took the lead."

Senior guard Mark Hilfinger scored five of his nine points in the fourth but Northville never got closer than five the rest of the way, and poor free-throw shooting was a big factor. The Mustangs made just 3-of-7 attempts and several were one-and-one opportunities.

"Our chance to get back into it was at the free-throw line, and we didn't take advantage of it," Harrison said. "Free throws have been our undoing at times this season."

Lang scored a game-high 16 points and Paul McCreadie added 10, but that is nearly six points below his average. In addition, Hilfinger swiped five steals and Ryan Huzjak dished out seven assists. Mulder wound up with 16 (including four threes) for the Rocks but the Mustangs held Salem stars Jake Baker and K.C. Kirkpatrick to just 10 points combined.

"I thought our defense was very good," Harrison said. "Our problem was we didn't have much of an offensive punch."

The loss ends Northville's season at 12-9 overall. Salem went on to face rival Plymouth Canton in the finals on March 9 and were upset 68-65 in overtime. Canton now advanced to the MHSAA Regional and will take on the Flat Rock District champion at Wyandotte Roosevelt.

Marathon scheduled for April

The 15th running of the West Bloomfield Half-Marathon is scheduled for Sunday, April 21 beginning at 12:30 p.m.

Annually co-sponsored by West Bloomfield Parks and Recreation and Henry Ford Medical Center-West Bloomfield, the 13.1-mile course winds through the naturally scenic and rolling residential streets of West Bloomfield Township.

Ranked among the best long-distance races in the state, over 700 runners enter annually to challenge; both their personal times and also the course record, the latest of which was set in 1989 by Doug Kurtis of Northville. Kurtis' time in 1989 was 1:07:32. Cheri Sly of Dexter set the women's record also in 1989 with a time of 1:15:57.

The race begins at the front of West Bloomfield High School, Orchard Lake Road north of Walnut Lake Road. The route is marshaled with volunteers and there are manned water stations every two miles.

For an entry form to either the West Bloomfield Half-Marathon or the Earth Day Walk, send a self-addressed stamped envelope to West Bloomfield Parks and Recreation, 3325 Middlebelt Road, West Bloomfield, 48323. For further information, contact parks and recreation at 334-5660.

Newton, Lang and Osiecki grab All-State honors

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN
Staff Writer

The 1991 MHSAA Class A Swimming Championships went very much like a good movie: It certainly went according to the script and the performances were outstanding.

As expected, top-ranked Bloomfield Hills Andover won the team title convincingly, and eighth-ranked Northville placed eighth overall in the field of 42. As for Novi, the Wildcats placed 23rd overall and all 13 points came from junior standout Derek Speerschnider — which wasn't a surprise either.

"We've been ranked 10th and ninth all season, so the (pollsters) were correct concerning us," Mustang Coach Mark Heiden said. "Last year we placed sixth, so that's two years in a row we've been in the top 10. We'd love to see that trend continue."

Northville scored 56 points and topped all other WLAA entries, including the conference champs from Livonia Stevenson. A sellout crowd of 1,500 was on hand at the Don Canham Natatorium in Ann Arbor for the competition.

"We're always interested in finishing atop our conference, and beating Stevenson was nice, since they edged us at the WLAA Meet," he said.

The Mustang star was undoubtedly Eric Newton. The senior ended his brilliant prep career as arguably the greatest Northville swimmer ever, and added two more All-State awards to his already impressive resume. "Eric sure went out with a bang," Heiden said.

Newton placed sixth overall in the 500-yard freestyle and the 200 IM, and set career best marks in both. His time in the 200 was 1:56.3 and he followed that up later in the day with a 4:43.78 in the 500.

"Because those were top-six finishes, (Eric) is recognized as All-State in both," Heiden explained.

"That means he leaves as a four-time All Stater."

Newton was also a key contributor in Northville's 400 freestyle relay team that placed ninth (3:17.34). His leadoff split of 48.81 set a new school record for the 100 freestyle. The rest of the Northville swimmers in the event included Brad Cook, Matt VanHorn and Bob Holdridge.

"Eric holds eight school records," Heiden said. "I'd say it's safe to say that he is the greatest swimmer we've ever had at Northville High School."

The same four (Newton, Cook, VanHorn and Holdridge) also combined to place 11th in the 200 medley relay (1:39.44).

"Relays score twice as much as individual events at the state meet, so they are very important," Heiden said. "Getting two of our relays in the finals really helped us score enough points to get into the top-10."

The Mustangs added three more top-12 finishes and two came in diving. Recognized as the top 1-2 punch in the state, Northville's Steve Lang and Larry Osiecki lived up to the billing with a pair of top-six finishes, and consequently All-State honors. Lang placed third overall with a 4:15.55 score and Osiecki was sixth with 392.45.

Tankers take 9th at state meet

"To have two in the top six is amazing," Heiden said. "Both these guys reached the goals they set for themselves. Steve wanted to be in the top three and Larry wanted to finish in the top six and be All State."

Osecki did it and becomes one of the few athletes in history to be an All-State selection in two sports in the same school year. Osecki was a first-team All-State goaltender last fall in soccer.

"He's a very talented kid," Heiden said.

The final point-scoring effort came from Brad Cook, who placed eighth in the 100 butterfly in 52.96. Cook — who seems to be in Newton's shadow much of the time — broke the school record in the preliminary round and again in the finals.

"Brad always does a nice job for us," Heiden said. "He was also a key performer in our relays."

Ironically, the Mustangs scored just one less point than they did a year ago at the state meet, despite placing three slots higher.

"It was a great way for the seniors to end their careers," Heiden said.

NOVI RESULTS: Derek Speerschnelder carried the entire load of the scoring for the Wildcats with a sixth-place finish in the 100 backstroke (53.96) and a ninth-place finish in the 200 IM (1:58.02).

"Placing 23rd doesn't concern me because the state meet is not really a team event," Novi Coach Kevin Lane said. "We only had five kids qualified, and 10 of our 12 performances were career-bests. We had an excellent meet."

Speerschnelder notched a time of 53.6 in the preliminaries of the backstroke to get into the finals (top-six). That assured him of All-State status.

"His goal was to be under 55 seconds, so it was just about a perfect swim in the prelims," Lane said. "We were hoping he could be All State, but we didn't think it would take that fast of a swim to do it."

Speerschnelder's 1:56.3 time in the prelims of the 200 IM was a six-second drop from his previous best.

"His goal was to be under two minutes, so he had an incredible performance," Lane explained. "I think the 200 IM was the toughest event of the meet. In any other year, Derek would have been in the top six."

The 'Cats did not score any other points, but did set a pair of new school records in the 200 freestyle relay. Leading off, Mark Chirgwin broke Jon Cohen's 50 freestyle mark with a 22.42 split. The rest of the team — including Derek Speerschnelder, Mike Speerschnelder and Jamie May — joined in to shatter the relay record by two seconds in a time of 1:31.78. The team placed 20th overall.

In addition, the 400 freestyle relay team featured the same four swimmers and placed 13th overall in 3:19.66. All four participants set their season best splits.

KAREN BAIRD of Northville is Adrian College's first sparkplug off the bench in basketball. Baird, a sophomore three-point shooting guard, is averaging 8.8 points per outing and has already set the school record for three-pointers in a season (36). In 24 games, Baird has compiled 59 rebounds, 65 assists and 49 steals. She is shooting .353 from three-point range and .759 from the free-throw line.

JON BARBARA of Northville Township, a senior at Detroit Catholic Central, recently signed a football letter of intent to attend Northwood Institute in Midland. The 6-foot-2, 220-pound fullback led the Shamrocks in touchdowns and was the leading rusher and most valuable player for the Class AA state football champs. He was also selected to the All-Catholic, All-League, All-Metro, All-Observerland and All-State honorable mention teams. Barbara's career began with the Northville/Novi Colts and he later played for Meads Mill Middle School. Barbara turned down scholarship offers from Wayne State, Ferris State and St. Joseph's of Indiana and spurned preferred walk-on status at Bowling Green, Western Michigan, Michigan State, Wisconsin and Ohio State. He has been captain for Catholic Central's basketball squad for the last two years.

... Former Novi High School swimmer CHRISTIE DUTHIE, who transferred and graduated from North Farmington, broke four individual school records and was a member of two record-breaking relay teams at the Great Lakes Intercollegiate Athletic Conference Championships in late February. Duthie set new standards in the 100-yard butterfly (1:00.86).

Apartments offer fitness facilities

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

The newest shift in fitness is not to some new machine, or an elaborate workout schedule, or even a high-protein diet.

Fitness is making its way home, in the form of expanded health facilities at apartment communities.

When it comes to home health facilities, apartment dwellers no longer have to settle for a single weight-lifting machine in a small room under the rental office. Many complexes now offer complete fitness facilities on their grounds, though typically on a somewhat smaller scale than the local health club.

Park Place of Northville offers its residents their own workout room with several pieces of equipment, two tennis courts and an Olympic-size swimming pool as well.

The residents can also stroll along the fitness trail that meanders through the 105-acre complex.

When asked whether residents take advantage of the health facilities, Manager Christine Zielski said, "The majority of our residents do, and we find that we are expanding it."

Just last year, Park Place increased the number of aerobics classes to six days a week in response to growing demand, Zielski said. The classes are offered in the morning and evening, and are free of charge.

Aerobics instructor Alda Dzielw, a former instructor for United Health Spas, leads the residents through the aerobic sessions and other fitness activities, Zielski said. "She periodically will take them on walks throughout the complex where they'll stop and do calisthenics along the way," she said.

As the winter ice begins to melt, water sports in the Park Place pool are becoming more popular. "In the summer, we'll be adding water aerobics and water volleyball. We're also checking into water ballet and possibly scuba lessons in the pool," Zielski said.

Zielski attributed the growing popularity of residential health facilities to their convenience. "It's so much easier for people to come down here, where they don't have to leave the place they live. They can even walk down," she said.

Another advantage is the more relaxed atmosphere, she said. "It's not so much where they feel they have to put on a performance like at Vic Tanny... It's not so much of a fashion show."

At River Oaks West on Novi Road, residents have 24-hour-a-day access to their own private health club with the same access key they use to open the complex's entrance gate. The recently opened health club offers a small selection of aerobic and weightlifting equipment, free weights and several weight-lifting benches, a tanning booth, racquetball court, indoor hot tub, even a small indoor pool for swimming laps.

The carpeted workout area also offers an amenity not often found in gyms, a roaring fireplace.

Outside, a large pool and hot tub surrounded by a huge deck sits next to two sunken tennis courts.

An attendant is on hand evenings and weekends in the workout room at River Oaks, to monitor the club and pool and take racquetball and tanning booth reservations. And aerobics are offered for a fee on Monday and Wednesday nights and Saturday mornings.

Resident manager Diana Kern said that the health club draws people throughout the day and night, but the majority of its users fall into two groups. "There's a group of people who come in in the morning and do all their stuff then, before they go to work, and another group that comes in at night," she said.

The health clubs have been real popular with the residents, I've found. The free weights are really popular with a lot of the diehard fitness fans," Kern said.

"About the only thing we don't have is an indoor track," Kern said. "That's just something that takes a lot of space."

But Kern said she would not be surprised if residential complexes soon started offering such amenities.

River Oaks tailors its fitness program to its clientele, offering golf instructional classes in the winter and health and fitness testing in the spring. Residents will receive a questionnaire in their next newsletter, Kern added, to determine what of activities and fitness programs they want to see.

HEALTH SCREENING: The Novi Parks and Recreation Department offers a variety of health screening events each week.

One is blood pressure screening for senior citizens. This free service is offered each Wednesday in the Novi Civic Center from 11 a.m.-noon.

FITNESS OVER 50: A one-hour exercise program called "Fitness Over 50" is held Monday and Wednesday mornings at Twelve Oaks Mall. It takes place 9-10 a.m. in the Lord & Taylor corridor near the east entrance.

The program, conducted by the University of Michigan Division of Physical Education, is particularly aimed at older people and others who would benefit from an invigorating but non-strenuous exercise program.

Fitness Over 50 welcomes all interested persons, regardless of age and current activity level. Call the Twelve Oaks Management Office, 348-9438, for further information.

YOGA CLASSES: Seven-week yoga classes are being offered in Northville this winter. Diane Siegel-Divita, past president of the Yoga Association of Greater Detroit, is the instructor.

Cost is $28. For more information, call Siegel-Divita at 344-0928.

Myrna Partrich/Exercise

Lots to learn about muscle strengthening

Dear Myrna: I would love to be stronger. I'm a 23-year-old woman who has been working out about five years. I just started using light free weights. I don't like machines. Can you explain more about muscle strengthening?

Now that you've started using light weights, let's talk safety. There is a lot to learn about muscle strengthening.

Each muscle is made up of thousands of string-like fibers. When you contract any muscle against resistance, at first you actually use only a small percentage of the total number of fibers in the entire muscle.

Each successive contraction with the same weight recruits additional muscle fibers. After enough contraction, the muscle produces lactic acid, then the fatigue point. Continuing to lift weights after this fatigue point can lead to injuries.

If you want to become stronger, pick up the heaviest weight you can lift comfortably and press it eight times, if possible. Do this three times per week. As you become stronger, you will be able to lift that weight more times.

Begin to do sets, eventually leading to two sets of eight. When you can do this comfortably, add weight slowly in this fashion.

Lifting lighter weights faster and for longer periods of time along with large, lower body movements can help aerobic endurance.

All women can benefit from lifting weights. Women tend to have weak upper bodies. A strong upper body can help a women's daily chores such as lifting, carrying, etc.

There are three types of contractions:

Isometric contraction: The muscle develops tension but does not change length. You hold this contraction and feel the muscle.

Isokinetic contraction: The muscle moves at a constant rhythmic speed. Pressing iron with a full range of motion.

Isotonic contraction: When the muscle shortens as it develops tension with movement, contracting without a full range of motion.

While lifting weights, you might want to try all three different types of contractions. Young muscles will get a good overall workout.

It is self-gratifying to feel strong. I find it also helps exercisers' mental attitudes.

The Dominion

Graceful with luxurious touches

Copley News Service

The Dominion is a home to help master graceful and elegant entertaining, or a private life with all the luxurious touches, with much of the effort removed through design work that pays careful attention to details.

A broad front entry guards the entrance to a sunken living room with a full wall of windows. A step up beyond it, but open to it for large-scale entertaining, is a formal dining area. It is served by a kitchen where two or more can work together comfortably at its long counters, built-in desk area, or island counter with cook top.

A sunny breakfast nook offers a pleasant spot for informal meals, with a view of a deck that extends from the garage to the master bedroom, echoing all the angles of the house along the way.

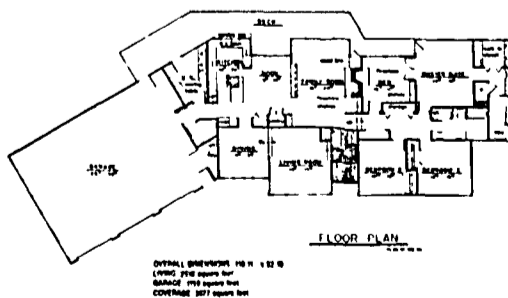

Sliding doors to that deck open from the family room. There is a built-in bar here. A wood box filled directly from the outside keeps the fuel readily available for fireplaces in the den and family room.

The den offers a quiet retreat for the home owner. Although it could be used as a guest room or private study, the French doors between the den and master suite make it an ideal sitting room.

The master bedroom itself is a luxurious retreat. There is a large walk-in closet, dressing area and vanity, optional sauna, and then a full bath beyond, with a sunken tub that looks out to a private garden.

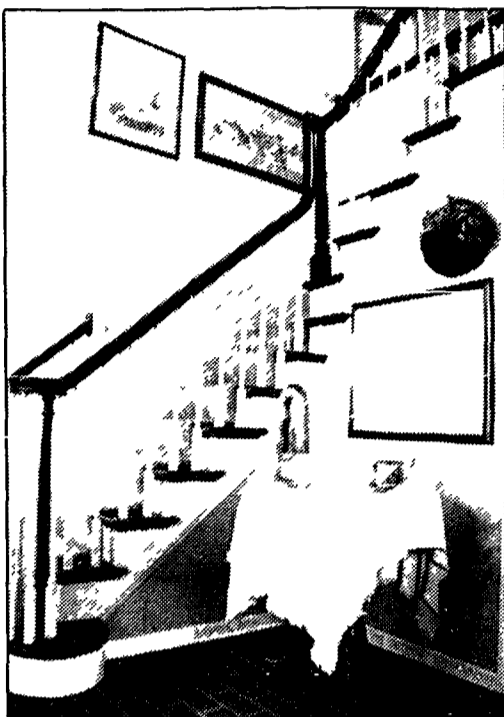

A second full bath with double vanities is available for guests and for the two bedrooms facing the front of the house. There are several large storage closets along the hallway.

A three-car garage has a place for everything, with storage area between it and the house for the heating system, a half bath/mud room, and a large utility next to the kitchen that even allows ample space for sewing and hobbies.

For a study plan of the Dominion (108-54), send $7.50 to Landmark Designs, c/o HomeTown Newspapers, 323 E. Grand River, Howell, MI 48843. (Be sure to specify plan name and number when ordering.)

Art in the home today accentuates comfort and coziness.

Whether we fancy an impressionist print by late 19th Century French painter Claude Monet — complete with its soft, defused look — or watercolor landscapes by contemporary artist Andrew Wyeth, art touches our soul.

Art is intimate.

And when we hang art on a wall, it is the framing that can breathe new life into the work.

"The job of the framer is to enhance and protect it, not overpower it," said Ann Edwards, co-owner of Framers' Mark, a custom frame and mat design business with a design center located at The Interior Place, 242 Summit, Milford.

Framer's Mark is a tandem team. Edwards' partner, Tony Collinson, works out of Ann Arbor.

"We want to maintain the integrity (of the art)... have it blend into the environment," said Edwards.

REAL ESTATE

Lack of water puts building plans on hold

BY JAMES M. WOODARD
Copley News Service

The lack of water is frustrating many people with real estate plans. The problem is particularly acute in California coastal communities where an ocean of water is nearby — yet far from being usable. Or is it?

A common dilemma:

A family has been saving money for years to build their own custom dream home. Now is the ideal time. Money is in a special savings account, mortgage interest rates are low. Everything is in a go position, except water. Without a water hookup permit all plans must be put on hold.

That's the situation facing many families.

If the proposed building site is within coastal Ventura County and Casitas Municipal Water District, for example, a moratorium on new residential water hookups is in effect. No "will-serve letter" will be issued by the district until at least April 11 — one year from the date last year when a "resolution declaring a water shortage emergency" was issued by the district, according to Dick Barnett, engineering manager for the district. And the moratorium will probably be extended.

The resolution states, in effect, that all new requests for service connections and expansions of existing services will be denied, or delayed to a future date. There are certain exemptions. In other words, in most cases the district is saying, "Sorry, bub, no water at this time."

There is no question about the basic problem. The area is experiencing a severe water shortage, and it could worsen. Southern California is now in the fifth consecutive year of drought and past droughts in this area have extended as long as 21 consecutive years. And the need for water is multiplied by steadily increasing consumer demand.

"We are now considering 51 different alternative methods to solve the water shortage problem," Barnett said.

Among them is the installation of a desalination facility making it possible to tap and process seawater.

Such a facility is now under construction in Santa Barbara. Located in the beach area, the desalination plant is expected to start producing consumable water in one year, starting at the annual rate of 5,000 acre-feet. Then in about six months of operation, it will increase its processing to an annual rate of 10,000 acre-feet.

It's a temporary facility — a vast "reverse osmosis" filter system constructed on trailers. The filters, or membranes, remove salt and other impurities from the water. It is expected to function for about five years.

The construction and operation of the plant in Santa Barbara are being planned, funded and developed by IONICS Inc., a firm that specializes in producing water for municipalities throughout the country. They will sell the water they produce to the city for a contracted sum of $1,900 per acre-foot.

While communities frantically look for solutions to the insufficient water problem, home building plans and other real estate development activities must be postponed. A new home or office building without a water hookup is just a useless collection of construction materials.

Q. What's the current status of the resale market for condo units?

A. Resale activity for condominiums has been slipping downward in recent months. But prices have continued to edge upward.

During the last quarter of 1990, the national condo resale rate fell 3.8 percent from the preceding quarter—and 15.8 percent from a year ago, according to the National Association of Realtors. At last report, the median price of existing condos was $82,700, up nearly a percentage point over the median price one year ago.

However, the declining interest rates and a stronger economy this spring should turn the condo and co-op market around. It was predicted in the NAR report.

Q. Is it true that two of the nation's biggest title companies are merging?

A. A major acquisition is taking place within the real estate industry, involving two of the nation's largest title companies. Chicago Title and Trust Co. is in the process of acquiring Titor Title Insurance Cos. Both firms have been active nationwide for many years.

Chicago Title, founded in 1847, is the largest title insurance firm in the United States, now issuing over 2 million title insurance policies annually. Titor, established in 1894, now operates about 300 offices and has a network of 2,500 agents.

Putting together two industry giants in a smooth and efficient way is a huge and complex task. That process is now under way and includes the formation of many task forces and committees comprised of executives of both firms, according to Larri Jones, a Chicago Title vice president.

"There is a myriad of issues and questions that must be addressed to enable the combined organization to operate efficiently when the transaction is completed," he said.

Jones is very optimistic about the impact of the acquisition.

"The transaction should work its way through the final maze of regulatory requirements and procedures and close very soon," he predicted.

Art framing: 'It's a total design process'

a puzzle together, explained Edwards, who has worked in the framing business for approximately 13 years (eight years out of The Interior Place).

Customers of Framers' Mark routinely undergo Edwards' proverbial "List of 20 Questions," including the size and colors of the wall, furnishings in the room and wood tone colors.

"Art is such a personal thing. Many people have strong emotions about art. That's why I ask the questions," said Edwards.

"To be a good framer you have to have a good sense of color, composition. The work has to be precise. You have to be good with people (clientele), understanding what they want."

A part-time English teacher, Edwards, of Commerce Township, now puts her instructional skills to use through Huron Valley Schools Continuing Education.

Students who will enroll in her six-session class, Introduction to Picture Framing, set to begin Monday, April 15 at the Highland Middle School shop learn the basics of picture framing, from cutting simple mats to assembling a wood or metal frame. Students are asked to furnish artwork and the essential tools: metal yardstick, three-inch C-clamp, art eraser. The cost of the course is $26.

In her framing classes, Edwards tries to emphasize that it takes a lot of patience and practice to become proficient. "You cannot learn this without tons of practice."

Perhaps the biggest public misconception about framing is that "it is something simply slapped together to hang on a wall," said Edwards.

Her classes are designed to:

- allow students to share in the enjoyment of creating an art object to hang on the wall;
- give students the basic skills so that even if they don't take up framing as a hobby, they will become better educated consumers when selecting a professional to do a job;
- teach them that framing is a precision craft. For example, measurements on the mat board must be accurate and corners need to be at 90 degree angles or run the risk of looking awful.

The Continuing Education Department limits the number of students in each class so that Edwards can spend time with each one. The students who enroll vary in age and background, from builders to retirees to craft and needle work enthusiasts.

"Out of a class of about 12, you may have about one-third of the class do projects later at home," she said.

Like the framing business itself, customers who come to the frame shop are more sophisticated today, Edwards said.

"People are more conscious of colors and how they work. They want to take care of their art work. They know what's involved in good framing."

Similarly, the industry follows national trends, creating mat boards that reflect more jewel tones and deeper colors.

As part of Edwards' business, she designs and cuts mats for artists who will assemble them prior to shows. During the past couple of years, she has become more involved in corporate art. In that capacity she is asked to design the frames for any number of prints to blend with the surroundings.

"Corporations today are cognizant of making the office more comfortable for workers. They understand that it helps production," said Edwards.

In addition, corporate officials want to attract the attention of clients when they walk through the lobby or foyer area.

Some corporations buy art works for strictly investment purposes, said Edwards.

Persons serious about making a career out of framing can expect to invest between $2,000 and $3,000 in equipment. For example, a mat cutter can cost up to $700. Some of the other essential tools are a dry mount press, saw (if you are going to chop your own wood), framing vises and miscellaneous hand tools.

The cost to customers at Framers' Mark ranges from $50 for a small print to as much as $500, depending on the size and amount of detail involved.

Above all, Edwards' guiding principle of picture framing for the home or office is that "it's a total design process."

"To be a good framer you have to have a good sense of color, composition. The work has to be precise."

An old sofa and a new Kovel's

BY JAMES G. MCCOLLAM
Copley News Service

Q. When this sofa was purchased secondhand around the turn of the century, it had black horsehair covering. It was refinished and reupholstered in 1965.

Can you tell me when it was made and its approximate value?

A. This Victorian Louis XVI Revival sofa was made about 1875. A dealer would offer something like this for at least $1,000 in good condition.

Q. The enclosed mark is on the bottom of a chocolate set consisting of a pot and six cups and saucers. They are decorated with pink and white roses with green leaves. I would appreciate your estimate of the set's value and also its age.

A. Your chocolate set was made in Tiefenfurth, Germany, by the Donath Co. Most dealers would price it at about $175 to $200.

Q. I have a ceramic cup in the shape of a fox's head. There is no flat surface for it to sit on. It has a lot of hairline cracks and appears to be very old.

Have you any ideas about what this was used for?

A. Your description suggests that what you have is a stirrup cup. These were filled with wine and served to men on horseback at the start of a fox hunt.

Yours was probably made in the 19th century and might sell for about $300.

Q. Please evaluate my counter-top balance scale. It has a cast iron base with a brass beam and weights. It is marked "Empire Hardware Co., New York" and "Patented 1867."

A. Your scale was introduced in 1867 and could have been made in any time in the next 10 or 15 years. It would probably sell for about $265 to $285.

A patent is good for up to 17 years.

Q. Can you tell me what my Wallace Nutting print is worth? I know that it was made early in the 1900s. It is titled "Camden Clouds" and measures 14 inches by 17 inches. It depicts fishing boats in a harbor.

A. The latest sales price that I can find for this rare print is $660 in good condition.

Repairing porcelain isn't easy

BY GENE GARY
Copley News Service

Q. The porcelain washbasin in our bathroom has several small chips in the rim. The color of the basin is an off-white or cream.

Can these chips be filled with anything so they don't show?

A. The repair of porcelain enamel, short of an entire resurfacing, is almost impossible. This is particularly true when the surface is constantly exposed to water.

However, you may be able to effectively treat these chips on the rim, which is a surface exposed to less water than the basin. You will need one of the resin repair products available at larger hardware stores or home centers.

Lightly sand the area (a medium-grade sandpaper) to remove any rust and expose a fresh surface of metal and porcelain for good bonding. Be careful not to scratch the surrounding area. Confine the sanding to the chipped area only.

Resin fillers can be tinted to match the color of your porcelain. When you have a close match, fill the chipped area. If you overfill the chipped area, the excess can be removed with a solvent such as xylol, acetone or even fingernail polish remover. The solvent is also helpful in smoothing and blending the edges of the patch after it has set and dried.

The patch may or may not last long. However, it is worth a try before having the entire basin resurfaced or replaced.

Q. During the holiday season a candle overflowed, leaving wax on my cherry wood table.

I am afraid to use any solvents to remove the wax, as it might mar the finish of the table. Do you have any suggestions on how to remove this wax without harming the tabletop?

A. Chill the wax with a piece of ice to make it easier to remove from the surface.

Crumble off wax with your fingers. Scrape gently with the dull edge of a plastic knife or rubber spatula. Apply a cream wax, rub well; dry with a soft cloth.

Frozen yogurt featured at Whip 'n' Dip

By DIERDRE DANCEY
Special Writer

Are you suffering from a prolonged case of the winter blues? Don't despair. Instead, grab that baseball schedule for reading material and head over to Whip-N-Dip, South Lyon's new ice cream parlor.

From the red and white checker-board floor to the old-fashioned parlor-style tables and chairs, Whip-N-Dip offers both atmosphere and edibles that will leave you in search for the first robins of spring.

Located at 558 N. Lafayette in the Huntington Square shopping center, the store's grand opening in February was a dream come true for owner Sherry Yarnell. "It's something that I've always wanted to do," she said. Previously, Yarnell spent five years working at the Twist and Shake in Canton.

Her experience in the ice cream business is reflected in the high quality products that she offers. Colombo frozen yogurt is a standard, as is Ashby's brand ice cream. A large assortment of fresh toppings, including kiwi fruit and sunflower seeds, is available upon request. The hand-dipped ice cream flavors will rotate, so if you don't find your favorite today, try again tomorrow.

Yarnell isn't alone in realizing this dream come true. Her husband Tom, who is employed at Westland Car Care, is helped out whenever he can. Yarnell's son Page and her daughter Melanie are also helping her get the business off the ground. Page's fiancée Kim runs the store during the day while Yarnell maintains her job

Consider these ideas itemizing deductions

Ever since Congress rewrote the rules for deducting miscellaneous itemized expenses, fewer taxpayers have been able to take advantage of these write-offs. But if you familiarize yourself with the tax rules, you may be surprised to find yourself with a substantial deduction.

The current rules are fairly easy to understand, according to the Michigan Association of Certified Public Accountants. If you itemize, you may generally deduct only the portion of your miscellaneous deductions that exceeds 2 percent of your adjusted gross income. Most miscellaneous itemized deductions fall into three general categories: employee business expenses, investment expenses and tax-related expenses.

Employee business expenses are costs you incur in connection with your employment. Some of the more common business-related miscellaneous itemized deductions are:

Travel, lodging, meal and entertainment expenses. As a general rule, you may deduct 100 percent of your allowable travel and lodging expenses, and 80 percent of your expenses for business-related meals and entertainment — subject, of course, to the 2-percent floor.

Business gifts. There's a $25 limit on how much you can deduct for gifts to any one person in a year.

Subscriptions. You may deduct the cost of subscribing to professional and trade journals that are related to your work.

Education. In many cases, you may deduct the cost of employment-related education expenses, including tuition, books, supplies and lab fees. The primary requirement is that the courses help you maintain or improve your present work skills, or are required by your employer or the law to keep your present job. You may not deduct education expenses that qualify you for a new trade or line of business.

Job search. You may deduct many of the expenses that you incur when looking for a job as long as you are looking in your same line of work.

Use of home telephone. You may deduct unreimbursed long distance calls made for business purposes.

Uniforms and work clothes. If your employer requires you to wear a uniform that is not suitable for everyday wear, you may deduct the cost of the clothes as well as the cleaning bill. Clothing that protects workers — such as safety shoes, hard hats, glasses or work gloves are also deductible.

Small tools required for your work. You may deduct the cost of small tools and supplies you need for your work. Other tools/supplies with a longer life may need to be depreciated.

Dues to union or professional organizations.

Home office expenses. If you use your home for business purposes and meet IRS qualifications for a home office, you may be able to deduct the cost of operating and maintaining a portion of your home.

You may also deduct certain investment-related expenses. A sample of deductible items is listed below:

Safe-deposit-box rental fees. If you use a safe-deposit box to store income-producing stocks and bonds or papers related to your investments, you may deduct the annual rental fee.

Investment-management fees and legal fees. If you pay someone to manage your investments, you may deduct the amounts you pay that person as long as your investments produce taxable income. The same is true of legal fees, providing the lawyer's advice is related to producing taxable income.

IRA administration fees. You may deduct administrative fees that are charged for maintaining your IRA, as long as you pay the fees with separate funds.

Subscriptions to investment-related publications.

Tax advice and return preparation. You may deduct fees you pay for tax advice or for having your return prepared.

Tax-preparation and tax-planning books and videos.

Long-distance calls and postage on mail to the IRS.

Appraisal fees. You may deduct appraisal fees that you pay to determine the fair market value of property you donate to charity.

Although claiming a deduction for miscellaneous itemized expenses has become more difficult, careful planning can pay off. CPAs advise that you bunch your expenses into alternate years so that you can maximize your deductions. Review all of your itemized expenses early in the year and if it appears as if they will fall short of your standard deduction, you may be able to postpone enough expenses into the next year so that you can take full advantage of them.

as part-time bartender at O'Shea's Tavern.

The menu at Whip-N-Dip offers a range of ice cream yummies from hot fudge cream puffs to turtle sundaes.

Perhaps the most appealing feature of the store is the 99 cent daily specials that will remain throughout the summer. If you're partial to tin roof sundaes, Wednesday is your day. Waffle cones are featured on Thursdays and flurries on Mondays. A complete listing of specials is posted in the window.

Yarnell is excited to offer birthday party packages for children in addition to individual customer service. The package includes a hot dog, chips, slush, balloons and a t-shirt for the birthday boy or girl. The price is $3.50 per child. "I'm really concentrating on the birthday party packages," Yarnell said.

Yarnell wants to make a contribution to the community and proves her desire by offering special discounts for special people. Senior citizens receive a 50 percent discount every Monday. As summer rolls around, she will offer 50 percent off to sports teams who stop in for a celebration (or consolation) after the game. By then she will have outside seating available.

Whip-N-Dip will be open from Feb. 1 through Oct. 31. Currently the store is open from noon to 8 p.m. Monday through Thursday and from noon to 9 p.m. Friday through Sunday. Those hours may change as the weather grows warmer. The phone number is 486-4760.

WINIFRED FRASER

LISA MARRONE

Dr. WINIFRED D. FRASER of Northville on Jan. 18 was elected chairperson and vice chairperson, respectively, of the Western Michigan University Board of Trustees. Both terms are for one year.

Fraser replaces Geneva J. Williams of Detroit. Her selection is in keeping with Section One of the board's bylaws that identifies seniority as a key criterion for chairperson.

A WMU trustee since 1985, Fraser served as vice chairperson of the board in 1987. She is a senior associate with Lutz Associates Inc., a human resources development consulting firm in Detroit. For more than 25 years, she was employed by Wayne State University as a researcher, faculty member and administrator. When she retired in June 1984, she was associate dean of the Graduate School and associate professor of psychology. She earned her bachelor's, master's and doctoral degrees in psychology from Wayne State.

Fraser has been a leader in a number of organizations, including serving on the boards of: the Mental Health Association of Michigan; the Visiting Nurse Association of Southeast Michigan; and the Child-Youth Initiative of Detroit-Wayne County. She is a past president of the Mental Health Association and the Women's Economic Club, and is the current chairperson of the Michigan Association of Governing Boards.

Her community activities also have included service with the United Community Services' task force on children of the unemployed, Detroit Institute of Arts' Founders Society, National Organization for Women, American Association of University Women and Coalition of Labor Union Women.

Fraser and her husband, Doug, recently made a gift to the WMU Foundation, naming the seminar rooms in the new Lee Honors College building.

Three new appointments were made in the Branch Administration Department of Society Bank-Michigan, announced George H. Cress, chairman, president and chief executive officer.

LISA M. MARRONE of Northville has been named branch administrative manager at the Main Office in downtown Ann Arbor. She joined in October 1990. Previous positions have been with Cushman & Wakefield in Southfield as an executive assistant, as a lending assistant with the American National Bank in Fort Lauderdale, Fla. and from 1983 to 1986 at the First Union National Bank in Lighthouse Point, Fla. as an account representative supervisor.

Society Bank-Michigan is an affiliate of Society Corporation, one of the largest bank holding companies in the Midwest with assets of $15.6 billion at Sept. 30. The holding company has 370 offices in Ohio, Michigan, Indiana and Florida including 24 in Michigan. Through its affiliates, Society engages in commercial banking, consumer banking, mortgage banking and leasing, and provides trust and investment banking services.

THOMAS TRAIAN MOGA, a resident of Northville and a member of the patent and trademark law firm of Gifford, Groh, Sprinkle, Patmore and Anderson, P.C., Birmingham, recently participated as speaker on intellectual property developments in Taiwan and China at the Annual Fall Meeting of the American Bar Association Section of International Law & Practice held in San Jose, California.

Schoolcraft College has hired STEVE WRUBLE of Plymouth as the new Computer Aided Art and Design instructor. In addition to computer graphics, Wruble specializes in sculpture, illustration, and animation. He has worked and received awards in each discipline. His most recent award was for computer animation from SigGraph, an international computer graphics organization.

Wruble earned his fine arts degree at Michigan State University, and has continued his education at Wayne State University.

In his previous positions he has been the graphic designer and computer operator at Cale's Graphic Services, senior designer and assistant production manager at COMMA Publishing, and producer, editorial and feature illustrations for The Community Crier.

Wruble has been teaching part-time at Schoolcraft College since Fall 1988. He worked with Professor Lincoln Lao to develop the Desktop Publishing course. He was the first person to teach the class, which he describes as a design class that uses computers. One of his current interests is computer animation.

RONALD BREAUH has been appointed to Manager at Follmer, Rudzewicz & Company. Prior to joining Follmer, Rudzewicz & Company in 1987, Breauh was a staff accountant with KPMG Peat Marwick.

Breauh resides in Novi with wife, Karen, and daughter, Alyssa. Follmer, Rudzewicz & Company is one of the largest independent Certified Public Accounting firms in Michigan with offices in Southfield and Mt. Clemens.

Industrial Video Productions (IVP) Inc. of Northville recently completed a nine-volume video series, "Supplier Certification: The Path to Excellence" for a West Palm Beach, Florida, management consulting firm, Professionals for Technology Associates, Inc. (Pro-Tech). Pro-Tech selected IVP to produce the series because of its background and expertise in manufacturing and technology.

Each video program, approximately twenty minutes long, explains the concepts and step-by-step process of how to select and maintain supplier relationships for Total Quality Control (TQC), Just-In-Time (JIT), Team Building and other quality methods.

The series will assist manufacturers with their internal quality process and help them work with their external suppliers toward quality programs.

Using the documentary approach, Industrial Video Productions incorporated eight major manufacturers from around the U.S. who shared their experiences and how they are successfully implementing quality techniques. Some locations included Loreal Cosmetics in Piscataway, NJ, Baxter Healthcare in San Diego, CA, and Future Products of Clawson, a Q-1 supplier to Ford Motor Company.

Pro-Tech has packaged and is marketing the video series through several industrial trade publications.

YOU'RE LOOKING AT A LETHAL WEAPON.

Fact is, more Americans may die by the fork than by any other weapon. That's because so many of them use it irresponsibly. Like to fill up on high-fat, high-cholesterol foods. Foods that can lead the blood with cholesterol, which can build up plaque in their arteries, increasing their risk of heart attacks and threatening their lives. So next time you pick up a fork, remember to handle it as you would any other weapon. For self-defense, not self-destruction.

Exercise your options

By Debra Lee Baldwin
Copley News Service

Once you have committed yourself to a regular exercise program, sticking with it is half the battle.

To avoid boredom, consider the following:

- Try to exercise with a partner. There will be times when exercising is the last thing you feel like doing. Having a partner will make you accountable for showing up and can give you the encouragement you need to keep going when you're not motivated.

- Unless you really enjoy one activity, vary your activities and the amount of time you spend at each per week. For example, don't just walk three times a week for 20 or 30 minutes. Walk 15 minutes, then ride a bike for 15 minutes.

- Join a health club. Most clubs provide stationary bikes that are designed to work your upper and lower body as well as develop your cardiovascular system, plus rowing, StairMaster and crosscountry skiing machines.

- Enjoy your newfound fitness. Reward yourself with clothes that show off how lean and trim you have become; treat yourself to a facial, new hairstyle and/or a massage; plan a trip to a luxurious health spa.

- If you struggle with addictive tendencies (alcoholism, drug problems, overeating), join a support group. Consider it part of your overall health program—and ask the members of your group to encourage your success

- Work out with a personal trainer. Sure, this is an expensive option, but one that is virtually guaranteed to work. A trainer will create an exercise program tailored to your needs, and monitor you as you progress toward your goals.

Preventing and treating sport-related injuries

By Sharon Achatz

Copley News Service

Exercise is good for you. You know that. It strengthens muscles, burns calories and conditions the heart.

It also can turn you into a gimpy wimp.

If you push it to the limit in your exercise program or sports activity, you're heading for a head-on collision with injury that can leave you sidelined for days—or forever.

Whether your sport is tennis or jogging, bicycling or kayaking, walking or weight-lifting, aerobics or skiing, softball or squash, the key to preventing sports injury is to forget the "no pain, no gain" adage.

Most injuries are caused by overdoing an activity, and pain is a sign that you've gone too far.

Regardless of your fitness level, there's a tendency to overdo—whether you're a weekend athlete who crams in as much exercise as possible in a single day or a seasoned competitor who gets hooked on an endorphin fix and overtrains.

"While it's OK to be a little stiff or sore for a couple of hours after exercising, if you're still sore the next morning, you've gone too far," said Victor M. Goldberg, M.D., chairman of the orthopedics department at Case Western Reserve University in Cleveland in an interview with McCall's magazine.

To avoid injury, slow down when your body tells you to.

As you exercise, your body will gradually strengthen to meet the challenges you give it, and you'll gradually reach greater levels of fitness—enjoying it all the while rather than struggling with pain.

Of course, injuries are not limited to those caused by overuse of muscles and ligaments. Any sport can be dangerous if the participant fails to use proper equipment and the right technique.

Trips to sporting goods stores will keep you up-to-date on the latest sports equipment—from biking helmets to ski boots and from basketball goggles to aerobics shoes.

As for technique, there's a clinic, pro, trainer or sports physician ready—whatever the sport—to give you practical tips for improving your stance, grip, stroke, stride or posture.

Hire a pro to grade your tennis or golf swing, check in with a clinic for an analysis of your running gait or consult with a personal trainer about your use of weight machines.

A near-universal injury-prevention tip from sports specialists is to gently stretch your entire body—head to toe—both before and after a workout.

"When our athletes have used stretching ... they become more physically comfortable during exercise and less sore afterward," said Robert Mangine, administrative director for the Cincinnati Sports Medicine and Orthopedic Center, in an interview with American Health magazine.

If you're not a self-motivated stretcher, consider getting sports massage. Designed to improve circulation, relieve tension and reduce post-activity muscle soreness, sports massage is a sort of passive stretching that can do your body wonders.

The first step on the road to healing is to stop and rest the injured area.

For sore muscles the day after a workout, take one day of rest then do a shorter, lighter workout than usual. Repeat the one-day-off, one-day-easy sequence until the pain is gone.

For strains and sprains, try RICE—rest, ice, compression and elevation. For a day or two after the injury, apply ice several times each day for intervals of 20 to 30 minutes, said Dennis Quinlan, M.D., of the University of Medicine and Dentistry of New Jersey.

Ice treatment—whether from specially shaped ice packs or ice cubes in a plastic bag—helps reduce swelling, as do compression, through the use of an elastic wrapping, and elevation of the injured part.

Once the swelling is stabilized, Quinlan said, you can alternate ice with heat. Use a heating pad or wrap a hot, wet towel around the strain, cover with plastic wrap and finish with a dry towel to hold in the heat.

For tennis elbow or other joint pain, the self treatment is even more simple—rest and take aspirin or comparable pain reliever to soothe the inflammation that causes joint pain.

Before you enter the arena again following an injury, work gradually to regain strength and flexibility in the injured area. For every day of disuse, Quinlan said, it takes two to three days of reconditioning to return to your former level of fitness.

If pain persists or if the injury is recurring, consult a sports physician, physical therapist or chiropractor.

Healthy Habits

Spring into action with the McPherson Hospital Healthy Habits aerobic fitness program. Considered Livingston County's fitness "sport" for both men and women, Healthy Habits offers two formats to choose from. Traditional choreographed classes are available in Brighton, Howell and Fowlerville. The aerobic circuit class is offered in Howell only (see schedule below).

Our eight week program cost is $40.00 to attend classes twice weekly. Unlimited class attendance is available for an additional $15.00. A family rate of $70.00 is also available for two family members (residing at the same address). For additional information or to register for classes contact Jayne Kelly at (517) 548-2478 or (517) 548-2755.

Ski, Skate, and more fit options

By Debra Lee Baldwin

Copley News Service

Exercising outdoors can't be beat. You breathe in fresh air, enjoy the scenery and thrill to the exhilaration of a good workout.

So why don't you do it more often?

You may be in a rut. When you think of exercise, you remember a routine that undeniably has benefits—but also is a bit boring.

The solution is to treat yourself to a variety of outdoor exercise options. Be receptive to combining several in one week, and substituting others as the seasons change.

And if you think you've tried 'em all, you'll be pleased to note that fun new activities, ideal for the great outdoors, come along all the time.

You may have to travel to enjoy some of the following, but you'll find that the experiences they offer are well worth it.

Cold Weathers Warm-Ups

Ice skating and skiing come immediately to mind, but for a refreshing change, try snowboarding—a sport that is more like skateboarding than skiing. This single-ski sport once was considered too radical by ski resorts, but is now allowed at most of them; there's even an International Snowboard Magazine.

Cross-country skiing is not just a peaceful, healthful, inexpensive way to spend a day in the snowy countryside—it's also a lot of fun, and offers an unbeatable workout. It's ideal for beginners, who can go at the paces that suit them, but it also offers elite athletes a higher maximum oxygen uptake than any other sport.

Warm Weather Coolers

Summer is a great time to learn a new sport or improve your skills in an old one.

If the beach calls to you, by all means enjoy swimming, bodysurfing, surfing, sailing, diving and snorkeling. But this year, try boardsailing (also known as sailboarding); you can learn it in a day. It's sailing on a surfboard, and when the wind fills the canvas, you'll cut through the surf like a shark, quiet and smooth.

Back on the sand, toss a Frisbee, organize a game of touch football, set up a net for volleyball. Or play Volleybird—sort of like badminton without a racket, this new game consists of two or more players batting back and forth a feathered object with a rubber-padded striking surface (available in toy, gift and sporting goods stores).

Jet skiing is one of the easiest water sports; you just rent a water motorcycle (also called "personal watercraft") and go. There are sitting and standing models, and you should know how to swim. Remember to be careful—and considerate—of swimmers and others using the same area.

Para-sailing is an unforgettable adventure. You soar hundreds of feet above the water, the views are beautiful, the freedom incredible. You don't have to be athletic to enjoy becoming a human kite—but it's not a sport for those afraid of heights.

Rock climbing is more popular than ever—with both men and women. A Vogue magazine article describes the experience: "Just above me I see salvation in the form of a rock, a quarter-size knob poking out from a smooth stone face.... Slowly, I crawl to the ledge and lean against the mountainside, panting ..."

Food to boost your athletic prowess

By Debra Lee Baldwin

Copley News Service

In the competitive, split-second world of sports, sometimes the difference between winning and losing depends on what you ate for lunch.

It is possible to diminish performance by eating the wrong foods, and to enhance performance by consuming the right ones—at the correct times and in the proper quantities.

Power Chow

"In general, what's good for top-performing athletes is what's good for all of us: a diet high in carbohydrates and low in fats," says Self magazine.

"Overall calorie requirements will vary depending on the individual and level of physical activity. For example, swimmers in training need to consume as many as 7,000 calories a day."

Active or not, most Americans get enough protein—in fact, usually more than they need. One drawback is that when too many calories come from protein it usually means too few come from the real source of energy: carbohydrates.

Another downside of eating too much protein is the tendency for the excess to be converted to body fat.

A sensible intake is 3 to 6 ounces daily of low-fat milk or yogurt, plus lean meat, poultry or seafood.

Carbohydrates stored in the muscles and liver take the form of glycogen—so when athletes sit down to a plate of spaghetti or a stack of hotcakes before a sporting event, they're loading up on glycogen.

Top-condition athletes will store glycogen more efficiently than less-than-peak performers. In any case, few athletes have glycogen reserves that will last longer than an hour and a half to two hours.

A method of enhancing glycogen storage recommended by Idea Today magazine is to increase carbohydrate consumption from 60 percent to 70 percent of total daily calories to 70 percent to 80 percent (500 to 600 grams), for three days prior to an event—and to do little or no exercise. The result: a 20 percent to 40 percent increase of stored glycogen.

Best glycogen sources are complex carbohydrates: potatoes, pasta and legumes, whole-grain cereals and breads. Simple sugars—found in candy, fruits and fruit juices—also convert to glycogen, but at a less efficient rate.

Of course, fruits are preferable to sugary foods because they're also excellent sources of vitamins, minerals and fiber.

As for fat, the better your fitness and endurance levels, the more efficiently you'll burn it. Fat is a source of fuel during aerobic activity, and using it for energy helps preserve muscle glycogen stores.

This doesn't mean you should load up on fatty meats, butter and cream before an event. On the contrary, fats tend to be digested slowly, and because they stay in the stomach longer, may cause discomfort. Don't avoid fat, but eat limited quantities (15 percent to 25 percent of total calories).

Timing

It's not only what you eat, it's also when.

Even if you are in the excellent habit of ingesting the most nutritious foods possible, you may inadvertently sabotage your performance if you skip a meal before a workout or competition.

According to Self, "In one study, athletes who consumed just 70 grams of carbohydrates 45 minutes before exercise—the equivalent of an apple, a banana and a slice of bread with jelly—extended their endurance time by 12 percent."

You needn't worry that eating during exercise will slow you down. On the contrary, it may be a necessity—particularly if your glycogen stores are depleted. You actually can delay fatigue by half an hour to an hour by consuming carbohydrates while working out.

It takes muscles at least 20 hours to fully recover glycogen stores after strenuous exercise, and you'll return to normal levels sooner if you eat at least 100 grams of carbohydrate (for example, a banana plus half a cup of raisins) within a half hour of exercising—when your metabolic rate is still high.

Fluids

Whatever you do, don't dry out.

The American Dietetic Association and the American College of Sports Medicine offer these guidelines for marathoners and endurance athletes:

- Prior to the event: Drink at least eight 8-ounce glasses of fluid the day before, 16 to 20 ounces two hours before, and 6 to 16 ounces 15 to 30 minutes before.

- During the event: Drink 3 to 7 ounces of fluid every 15 to 20 minutes.

- After the event: Drink 16 ounces of fluid for each pound of weight lost.

Guidelines for short-term exercisers:

- Before the workout: Drink 8 ounces of water half an hour to an hour before.

- During: Drink 4 to 5 ounces of water every 15 minutes.

According to Self, sports drinks (specially formulated beverages laced with easy-to-digest carbohydrates plus a dash of sodium to speed water absorption) are best for endurance activities; "but for activities under 90 minutes long, water is still the best defense against dehydration."

Extra

Naturally you're wondering if there isn't something extra you can consume that will give you a competitive edge.

Vitamin and mineral supplements won't help your performance—unless you suffer from deficiencies (women athletes may want to take iron supplements).

The same goes for "fad" items such as amino acid supplements and mythical vitamins such as B16. Watch out for any product that claims to do wondrous things.

But if you do want to ingest something that just might make a difference, try baking soda. According to American Health magazine, 1 gram of baking soda (in capsule form) for every 7 pounds of body weight, taken two or three hours before a race, improves runners' 800-meter times by as much as four seconds.

The theory is that baking soda delays the effects of lactic acid, which builds up in muscles during exertion and causes fatigue. Side effects may include diarrhea, nausea and belching, however, and you should avoid baking soda altogether if you're on a low-sodium diet.

Builders show heralds spring's arrival

THE 1991 International Builders Home, Flower and Furniture Show comes to Detroit's Cobo Exhibition & Conference Center March 16-24.

This year marks the 73rd anniversary of the builders show, which has become the largest home show in the world, all under one roof.

Local folks consider the builders show to be the first official sign of spring with its lavish and extravagant gardens and hundreds of home improvement exhibits spread over 600,000 square feet, using the entire main floor of Cobo.

If you're considering buying a home you'll be able to get some ideas from the display of three full-size, modern manufactured homes in the builders show.

The homes range in price from $25,000 to $50,000 and are part of an exhibit sponsored by Michigan Manufactured Housing Association.

Showgoers will find that today's manufactured homes offer many amenities of conventional stick-built homes, but are at prices attractive to many first-time home buyers.

The builders show is sponsored by the Builders Association of Southeastern Michigan (BASM).

This year, the builders association's Remodelers Council will give attendees a visual example of what a big difference a little remodeling can do. The council is sponsoring an exhibit of "before" and "after" projects to give the public ideas on the variety of remodeling magic available to spruce up a home.

MORE THAN 500 exhibitors will show off their wares, offering the best in home renovations, furnishings and accessories.

Among the exhibitors are:

• Architectural Roof Tile — A Kalamazoo-based company offering colorful and stylish alternatives to traditional asphalt shingles.

• Michigan Bathtub Liners — featuring its new custom-fitted wall systems that can revive the look of an old shower. The Auburn Hills company also markets a similar area. Detroit Edison will provide a peek at futuristic user-friendly devices that give homeowners fingertip control of their kitchen, living room, bedroom and home office.

Within this backdrop the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers and the HomeTown Newspapers, both part of Suburban Communications Corp., have put together this special builders show section.

IT'S A lavish harbinger of spring. And it's chock-full of springtime magic: lush gardens, fresh flowers, home displays, remodeling tips, futuristic technology, kitchens and spas.

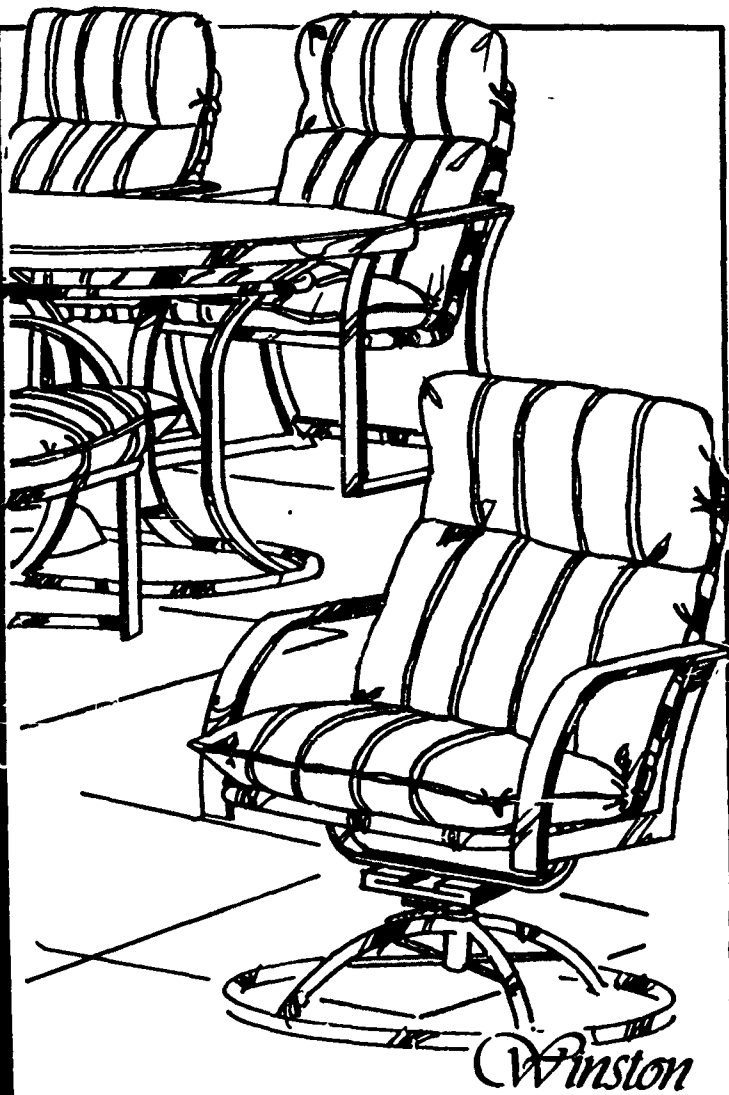

It's the 73rd annual International Builders, Home, Flower and Furniture Show March 16-24 at Detroit's Cobo Center.

The garden and home improvement spectacular has come to be recognized as a national-caliber "fix-up, spruce-up" show. Attendees often are treated to demonstrations of products and services brand-new to the industry.

As always, the do-it-yourselfer will find a host of "how to" workshops and demonstrations.

The gardens will boast an international theme representing various countries, including Japan, Holland, England and Italy.

Lushness sprouts in these gardens

WHAT WOULD a builders show be without the spectacular gardens that will fill more than one-fourth of Cobo Center?

"The garden portion of the show has become an increasingly important part of the Home, Flower and Furniture Show," said James C. Scott of James C. Scott and Associates, Birmingham. "It's one of the major draws."

All of the gardens' greenery is orchestrated by Scott, who has designed and coordinated the flower portion for 29 years.

Gardens continue to grow in popularity as greenhouses and landscapers offer more alternatives, he said. "People are becoming more and more landscape conscious."

Whether it's of the simple home handyman variety, or the elaborate professional formal to specialized gardens, landscaping can mean the difference between a great home and a truly spectacular showcase, Scott said.

The availability of annuals, which bloom every year, hearty versions of rare and exotic plants that previously couldn't survive the harsh winters, and exciting hybrids developed by horticulturists permit the home, office or commercial property owner to add distinction.

"We are constantly trying to entice the public, to whet their appetite for spring," Scott said.

THE FLOWER section, with its huge variety of flowers and plants, appeals to all the senses.

Obviously, the flowers and plants give the display a visual and aromatic appeal, Scott said, but there also is the aural appeal contributed by the sound of water in the constructed waterfalls and ponds.

And although visitors are not encouraged to touch the displays, plants and flowers can appeal to the touch.

As for taste, well, wait until next year. If all goes well, Scott said he is planning an edible garden that appeals to the sight as well as the appetite.

Scott said the garden show can at times be a logistical nightmare. There are gardens to design, plants to grow, workers to organize, greenhouses to contact, he said. "We're already planning next year's."

There are 3,000 to 4,000 cubic yards of sand and dirt, 10,000 to 15,000 pots of plants, 300 evergreens, 200 hearty flowering shrubs and trees, and 200 tons of stone.

"Add 250 workers, 15 tractors and 18 garden builders, put them all together, shake them up, and after four days working 24 hours a day, you have a show," Scott said.

FOUR OF the most elaborate gardens will be sponsored by Detroit's Parks and Recreation Department, Standard Federal Bank, National Bank of Detroit and First Federal Savings and Loan.

'People are becoming more and more landscape conscious.'

— James C. Scott landscape architect

The Hall of Gardens, a collection of specialty gardens, florist exhibits and smaller displays throughout the show will make up the remainder of the show, Scott said.

In the Hall of Gardens, there will be a garden dedicated solely to perennials, another to cactus and tropical plants, a Japanese garden featuring miniature or "Bonsai trees, a formal garden and fountain, a patio garden, and a colossal 18-foot flowering bunny rabbit.

Tom Trueman, the owner of the Bonsai Center in Mount Clemens, is building a Japanese Garden of Bonsai miniature trees and specially important plants built around a model of a Japanese tea house.

Trueman, building a garden at the show for only the second year, said the essence of the Japanese Garden is a wish for quiet contemplation on the presence of nature.

Trueman said he has several excellent examples of Bonsai to display this year, including a 100-year-old Chinese Sweet Plum Bonsai and a 130-year-old White Spruce bonsai.

THE FLOWER portion of the Home, Flower and Furniture Show, Trueman said, gives people a chance to see there is more out there than the garden variety garden.

"We can expose people to what's out there. It gives the specialist a chance to show what he has to offer," he said.

Gary Bates, owner of Grass Roots Nursery in New Boston, is designing and building a water garden, a first for the show, sponsored by first Federal of Michigan.

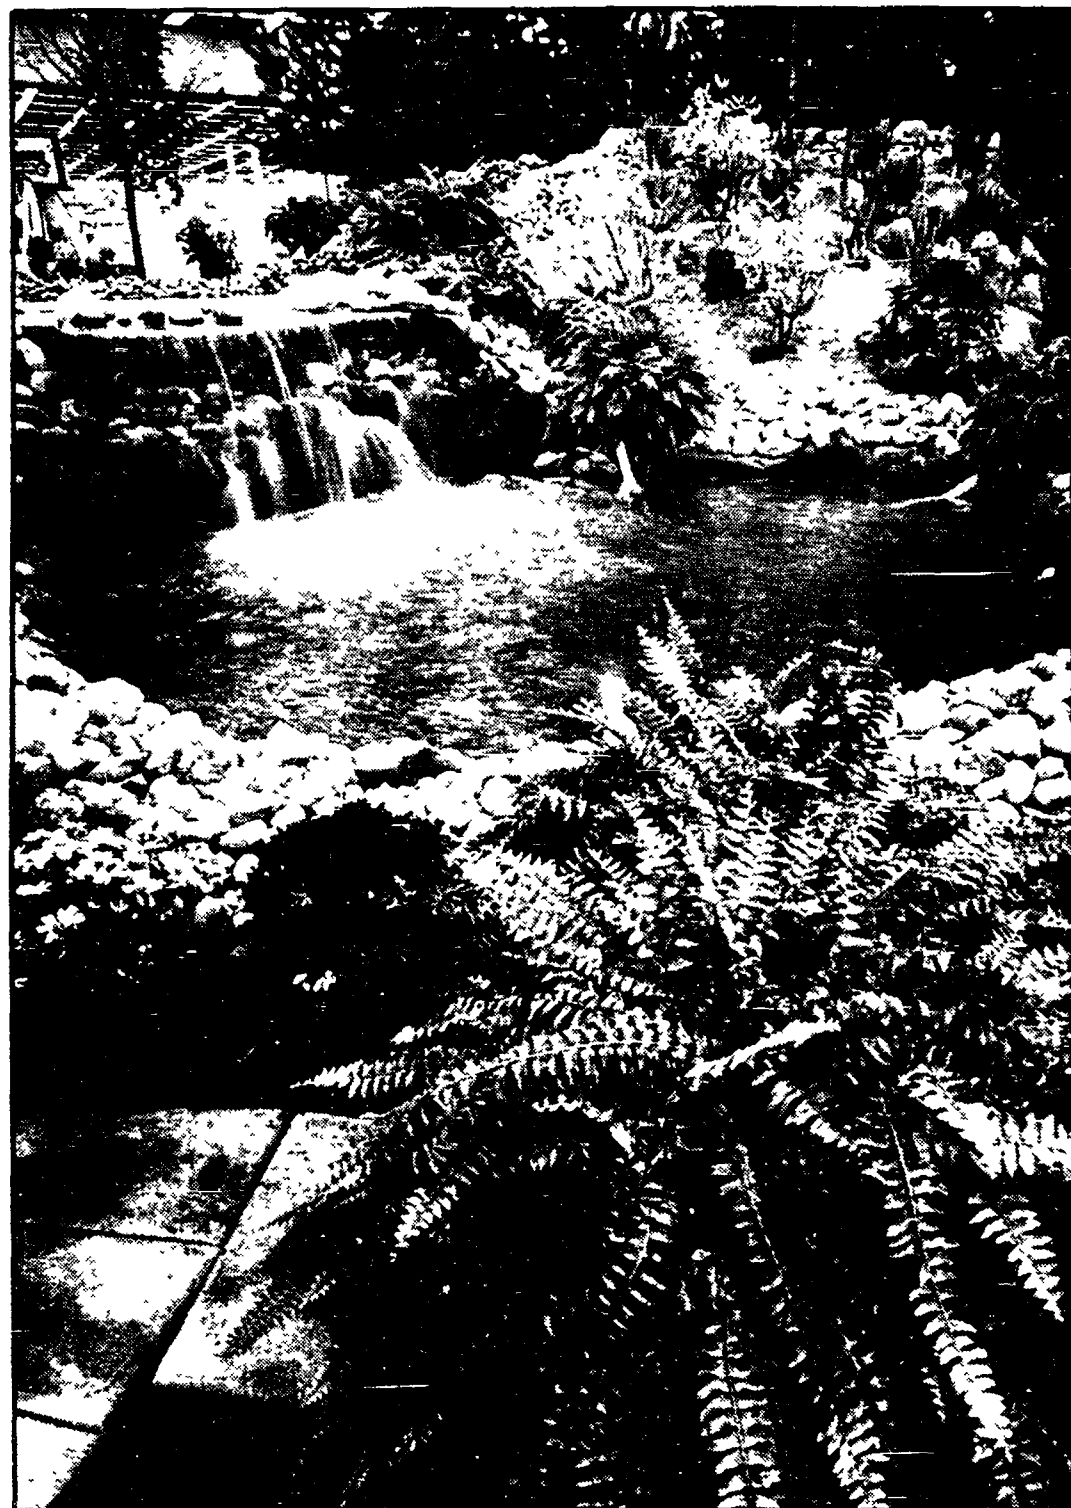

A collection of bog plants, water lillies, water hyacinths and an assortment of hearty and tropical plants will be built around a series of ponds containing a variety of tropical fish.

"We're actually creating a form of wetland, but a shallow water wetland," he said.

And unlike the kind of wetland that many people might prefer to fill in, these wetlands are actually highly desired.

"We build quite a few of these, ranging from the elaborate, large backyard garden ponds to the simple barrel gardens people might put on a deck," he said. "It's for the garden enthusiast who's gone one step further."

The Detroit Parks and Recreation Department is keeping a tight gap on its plans, but promises a real showstopper unequalled by past efforts.

DOUG SUSALLA

Waterfalls are a big part of the lush natural settings that help make the builders show a popular wintertime respite.

As always, builders show gardens will showcase mini parks with flowing fountains and benches for attendees to stop and smell the flowers.

Best birdhouses bask amid prizes

THE ACCENT'S on creativity for student woodworkers in the Best Birdhouse Builder contest, quickly becoming a popular part of the builders show.

Last year, nearly 1,200 young architects from suburban Detroit participated in the second annual contest.

This year, the contest again is sponsored by the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers, the Michigan Department of Natural Resources and the Builders Association of Southeast Michigan.

Designed to meet the Michigan state guidelines for math and science proficiency, the contest is open to all seventh- and eighth-grade students within the O&E circulation area.

In this contest, each student builds a birdhouse designed for a specific species of bird: house wren, bluebird, wood duck, barred owl, great crested flycatcher, American kestrel, American robin and tree swallow.

All birdhouses are judged on strict criteria because each species of bird is very choosy in selecting its home. The house must be perfect to attract the species it was designed for.

EACH STUDENT is supplied with information from a book entitled "Woodworking for Wildlife," by the DNR. The book describes the habitat needs of each species and gives instructions on how to build the most suitable house for each species.

Participating schools each choose one seventh- and one eighth-grade winner. The more than 1,000 birdhouse entries will be on display in Birdhouse Garden at the builders show, located near the middle of the back of the builders show floor, next to the Cafeteria/Entertainment Area.

A panel of judges from the sponsoring organizations will select and announce winners from each grade level on Saturday, March 16.

The two first-place winners will each receive $150 gift certificates. The two second-place winners will each receive $100 gift certificates. The two third-place winners will each receive $50 gift certificates.

Twenty-five honorable mentions will each receive $25 gift certificates. All students whose birdhouses are on display at the builders show will receive a certificate of appreciation from the O&E and $10 gift certificate to Harmony House.

Teachers of first-, second- and third-place winners will receive an evening for two at The Golden Mushroom, Southfield. A plaque commemorating the contest winners will be awarded to each participating school.

Future houses to be smart

THE HOME of tomorrow is coming — soon.

But visitors to the builders show can get a glimpse of futuristic technology and experience first-hand the benefits of the Smart House system in the interactive Smart Playhouse at the Detroit Edison exhibit.

Bille Steele, Detroit Edison builder liaison, said show goers will be able to walk through the four-room "Smart Playhouse" and familiarize themselves with the Smart House system.

"People will be able to go through and play with it, see exactly what we're trying to do," Steele said. "It brings the Jetsons to life. Things we used to see on cartoons, we can do today."

"In it (the Smart Playhouse) are the four most-used rooms in a house: the kitchen, living room, bedroom and home office," Steele said.

Each room will demonstrate specific applications appropriate for that room.

THE THREE most significant technological leaps in the Smart House are in energy management, safety and security, Steele said. Smart House system demonstrations will include control of the home security system, lighting, communications, energy management and various entertainment features.

Specifically, demonstrations will allow visitors to witness what Smart House will do in case of fire, watch as drapes open and close electronically, and learn how to assign switches to various light fixtures.

"You'll see everything work from outside grills, to speaker systems to lights," Steele said.

A further demonstration will show how a videotape playing in any VCR can be viewed on television in the house and how the same television can be switched over from viewing entertainment to monitoring a child in the bedroom.

Visitors will see how the Smart House system monitors energy rates and schedules appointments to work at the most efficient times during the day.

DESIGNERS OF the Smart House were aware many people are still uncomfortable with technology, so to encourage use of the systems, controls have been built around items already common to most men and women, Steele said.

These controls include a video touch screen, touch tone phone, remote control, keypad and personal computer.

Perhaps even more exciting than the Smart Playhouse, however, is the advent of a fully functioning real Smart House, Steele said. Detroit Edison, Consumers Power and the National Association of Home Builders will choose a builder soon to construct a Smart House in southeastern Michigan.

The first Smart House in Michigan is scheduled to be built in 1992.

"After the first is built and showcased for several months, it will be sold to an average homeowner. Then other builders will have an option to build other smart houses," Steele said.

A Smart House will appear much like the average house on the outside, Steele said, but its capabilities will be significantly different, thanks to an integrated wiring/computer system.

UNLIKE THE conventional home, which is wired with basic 120-volt copper wiring, the Smart House will include three different types of wires designed to carry power, video and communication signals.

● The Gramophone — a Birmingham-based retailer of high-quality stereo systems and components and a distributor of audio/video products. It'll demonstrate a home theater system, including a 70-inch big screen TV and Dolby Surround sound.

● Also, Jenn-Air kitchens, Trevarrow kitchens, Pella Windows and Doors, California Closets.

THE BUILDERS show has come to be recognized as the premier "fix-up, spruce-up" show in the nation. Attendees are often treated to demonstrations of products and services that are brand new to the industry.

For example, this year's show will include a demonstration of concrete pumping. If a patio or sidewalk starts to fall apart, sand can be pumped under it providing a permanent, convenient fix in about two hours, without having to replace the concrete.

As always, the do-it-yourself handyperson will find a variety of "how to" workshops and demonstrations at the builders show.

More than 500,000 people are expected to attend the nine-day builders show. Hours are from 1-10:30 p.m. weekdays, 10 a.m. to 10:30 p.m. Saturdays and from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. Sundays.

THE REAL BEAUTY OF A HOW HOME IS WHAT YOU DON'T SEE.

Lots of kitchen cabinets, crown molding, and extra-large closets are things you can appreciate the moment you see them in a new home.

But the intangibles—things like security and peace of mind—take a little while longer to surface.

That's why more and more new homebuyers are insisting on a home protected by the Home Owners Warranty 10 year protection program.

They know they're getting the best protection money can buy. Good for 10 years, and even transferable to the new owners, should you sell your home during that period.

And even though the odds are slim that something will go wrong, it's good to know you're protected against workmanship and material defects the first year. Defective wiring, ductwork, and piping in the second.

And your home is protected against major structural defects that vitally affect the use of your new home for the full 10 years.* Your builder can give you all the details, including the reasonable exclusions.

So when you look for a new home, look for the HOW symbol.

Forum topic: wildflowers

COLOR IT springtime. The Wildflower Association of Michigan will hold its annual Wildflower Conference and Exhibit in conjunction with the builders show.

The conference will be March 18-19 at Cobo Center. The wildflower exhibit, on display throughout the nine-day builders show, will consist of a wildflower garden and various other exhibits relating to native Michigan wildflowers.

General sessions will be each morning; the afternoon sessions will be split into two separate groups covering growers' issues and practitioners' issues.

While the focus is on wetlands, a variety of other topics also will be addressed throughout the conference.

The wildflower conference is open to all who have an interest in native Michigan wildflowers and would like more information about them. The registration fee of $15 covers both days of the conference, but does not include admission to the builders show. Pre-registration is encouraged.

To attend the two-day conference, send a check or money order made payable to M.A.S.-W.A.M. to: Wildflower Conference, 6011 West, St. Joseph, Suite 403, Lansing MI 48908-0527.

Showstoppers

Builders show exhibits will include:

- Smart House — a futuristic four-room home whose appliances and utilities are on a computerized system that can be remotely controlled. It is sponsored by Detroit Edison.

- Manufactured Housing — three full-size model homes, including one of the first model homes from the 1940s.

- Consumers Power — an exhibit charting the progress of gas technology through the years.

- Remodelers Council — an exhibit showing current remodeling techniques.

- Wildflower Association of Michigan — the annual Wildflower Conference and Exhibition, including a wildflower garden featuring native Michigan wildflowers.

A VARIETY of contests and demonstrations will spice up the builders show. These events will focus on a variety of interests, including love, food and carpentry:

- Bachelor/bachelorette competition — sponsored by International Dating Service. One man and woman will be selected who best represent the typical Detroit-area single.

- Couple of the year — contestants will be judged for poise, personality and their overall appearance. This contest is sponsored by Affiliated Models.

- Cooking demonstrations — featuring the culinary talents of local chefs. A different ethnic cuisine will be featured each evening.

- Nail driving competition — apprentices from the Detroit Carpentry Apprentice Training School will challenge patrons on their carpentry skills.

Show visitors will also have the opportunity to enter contests and drawings for prizes. Highlighted contests and drawings include:

- Treasure Chest — numbered entries are dropped off into respectively numbered treasure chests. Daily drawings will be held for prizes. One daily prize will include a wishing well built each day at the show by Detroit Carpentry apprentices.

- House of Nails — tests attendees' skills of approximation to estimate the correct number of nails in the plexiglass structure. Prize is $20,000.

- Exhibitor prizes — various exhibitors will hold drawings for prizes. Prizes range from a houseful of new windows to a new car.

- Radio stations — participating stations will be staging giveaways during live remotes and on-air contests.

- Flower auction — springtime floral displays from Allied and FTD florists will be auctioned Sunday, March 24, with proceeds benefiting Muscular Sclerosis.

Smart Houses bring Jetsons to life

Instead of rolls of wires, the modular wiring systems are laid in the walls, Steele said. Systems can be attached at any point by plugging them in through a small cut in the wall.

And thanks to the microprocessors that control the system, the Smart House wiring system recognizes systems as they're plugged in. "A child could put a fork into a plug and not risk shock."

Steele estimated it will cost an additional $7,500 to integrate the Smart House system into a 2,000-square-foot home.

The Smart House is the product of the Smart House Limited Partnership, a research and development consortium originated by the National Association of Home Builders National Research Center in 1985.

Detroit Edison is a member of the Smart House National Advisory Council and participates in generating public awareness of the Smart House System.

Nail down money

ESTIMATE THE correct number of nails in the House of Nails and become $20,000 richer.

The popular House of Nails contest will once again be part of the builders show.

The plexiglass House of Nails, 20 by 26 inches wide and 24 inches tall, with a 12- by 12-inch wide, 17-inch-tall addition, is traditionally filled with nails one month before the builders show to give show attendees the chance to brush up on their "skills of approximation."

The House of Nails will remain on display in the lobby of First Federal of Michigan in downtown Detroit until the builders show opens.

On Saturday, March 16, when the doors open at the builders show, attendees will have the chance to register their estimate of the number of nails contained in the house. The person estimating closest to the correct number of nails in the house wins $20,000. The House of Nails will be on display in the center of the show floor from March 16-24.

Vignettes of who's exhibiting what

Home

Business is booming at McCoy Inc., Livonia. The company has been experiencing a 20-percent annual growth in sales and much of the business increase is due to the popularity of its saunas.

"More and more people are making staying healthy a part of their lifestyle, but quite a few of them are getting a little tired of the 'health-club' scene so they're turning to bringing some of the health-club home by installing a sauna," said Russell Elvy, sauna division manager.

McCoy Inc., which also carries fitness equipment, has been an exhibitor in the builders show for the past five years. For the show, they have the latest sauna model, a triangular-shaped corner heater unit with an all-glass front.

McCoy's saunas are computer-designed and built from kiln-dried, western red cedar. They can be custom installed by the company or it can become a winter project for the do-it-yourselfer. Sizes range from four feet wide to as large as you can accommodate. Prices start at $1,200.

Home

Homeowners are discovering a new, economical way to transform traditional concrete paving into colorful works of art.

Albanelli Patterned Concrete of Farmington Hills is at the forefront of this trend by turning ordinary concrete sidewalks and driveways into colorful and realistic-looking patterns that resemble elaborate tile and paving stones.

Depending on the size ordered, there can be significant savings compared to hand-laid brick or tile.

Owners Paul and Wayne Albanelli shape and color concrete to resemble fancy brickwork, tile or cobblestones. The patterns may be standard or textured.

More than 30 different textured patterns and 40 colors are available. Interior surfaces will keep their original look with occasional vacuuming or mopping. Patterned concrete also has excellent durability in harsh northern climates.

At the builders show, Albanelli will show some of the many ways patterned concrete can be used to enhance a driveway, walk, pool deck or patio.

Flower

Jerry and Valerie Constance of Ann Arbor say they have the perfect solution for those who want to start a garden but haven't the time nor the soil to do it.

The solution is hydroponics, or "Soil-less Gardening." As the owner/operators of Bronk Hydro Garden, Jerry and Valerie want to show homeowners how easy it is to raise flowers and vegetables in water and nutrients. There are no weeds and no cultivating.

The gardens themselves are designed by Jerry Constance, a builder/contractor. A pump circulates water and nutrients through the plant's roots via PVC pipe. When the pump shuts off, gravity drains the water, allowing the plant's roots to dry out. During draining, the water recaptures oxygen to be circulated next time.

Plants grown this way require less intense sunlight to thrive. Last year, Jerry and Valerie raised tomato plants hydroponically in their heavily wooded back yard.

"Yet the plants grew to nine feet tall," Valerie said.

Furniture

Martin and Morgan Cates, owners of Grandma's Loft, are in the process of readying their highly successful furniture business for franchising. How successful?

In the past five years, they've sold 3,000 dining room sets from just one manufacturer. Since the first store opened in Grand Blanc, six years ago, they've added two more, in Flint and Rochester.

Cates credits part of the company's success story to his lines of solid wood and upholstered, country-style furnishings.

"There was and still is, a lot of junk furniture on the market. So we reasoned that there was also a consumer need and desire for quality, solid wood pieces. I like oak, so we chose that wood for most of the furniture, and a country-style. The combination has worked out quite well," Cates said.

Along with dining room sets featuring pedestal tables, Grandma's Loft carries hutches, occasional tables, bookcases, entertainment centers, decorating accessories and custom furniture, which makes up 20-25 percent of the company's sales.

DIY information fills the airways as Glenn Haege, metro Detroit's foremost "handyman" expert, gives timely tips on simple home repairs.

Back by popular demand, Haege once again will broadcast live from the builders show both weekends of the nine-day show, March 16-17 and 23-24, from 8 a.m. to noon.

Haege has served metro Detroit's do-it-yourself hardware audience for eight years.

Known as "America's Master Handyman," he broadcasts his radio show from WXYT-AM 1270. Once a three-hour show, the program, due to its popularity, was expanded by an hour last year to air from 8 a.m. to noon every Saturday and Sunday morning.

During his talk show, do-it-yourselfers have the chance to call

Glenn Haege

Little factory-built house is grown up

WHAT'S ABOUT 50 years old, eight feet wide, 20 feet long, made a family happy after World War I, and is now the darling of the builders show.

Answer: A vintage model of one of America's first manufactured houses, or, if you prefer... an antique trailer.

The war was over, men and women were coming home, and they needed quick, efficient and affordable housing. The manufactured house was born and people moved in and set up housekeeping.

Today, the little house has grown up to be America's best bargain. It's big, modern and still very affordable. In some cases, it can cost about half as much as a conventional "stick-built" house. It's a modern residence that's easy to finance and made of high-quality materials.

The 1940s-era house and two modern 1991 models from manufacturers Schult and Fairmont will be on display at the builders show. Both houses have professionally designed interiors and are surrounded by extensive landscaping.

THE SCHULT house is about 1,800 square feet and includes a master bedroom with attached master bath, two additional bedrooms, another bath-and-a-half, a kitchen, a morning room, a dining area, a family room and a living room. The Fairmont house has two bedrooms, two baths, living room, kitchen and dining area. Both houses are open to visitors.

Visitors can also see free films about manufactured housing in a video theater.

The display is sponsored as an educational exhibit by the Michigan Manufactured Housing Association of Okemos. The MMHA is a professional trade association with 900 members celebrating its 50th anniversary this year.

Manufactured houses are an alternative for those who want to build a new house and still want it tailored to specific needs and desires. Manufactured houses allow the buyer to choose different room shapes and configurations, along with an array of different building materials.

Factory-built houses are put together in a controlled environment, then shipped in sections to the consumer.

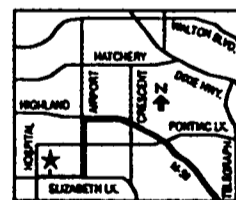

"Manufactured houses are great buys because they're built inside a factory and not subject to adverse weather conditions and costly delays," said Timothy DeWitt, MMHA executive director.

Burning desire: natural-gas logs

WHAT'S MORE inviting than burning logs in a fireplace?

Being warmed by the heat of the fire and comforted by watching the dancing flames and glowing embers does wonders for those dull fall and winter days.

What we don't need, however, are the hard work, mess and expense that accompanies this heartwarming desire. Whether you cut your own wood or buy it from a vendor, it must be stacked, sorted and dried before it is ready for use.

Once we get the wood in the house, we pray that the creatures who have adopted their wood home for the winter don't wake up and look for a new place in the house to sleep.

Also, no one appreciated the dirt, snow and loose bark scattered along the carpet during the wood-hauling chores. But, what the heck, the warmth and glow of a nice fire are worth it! Or are they?

WELL, THERE'S an alternative that will give you the same warmth and atmosphere without the mess.

Today's alternative is a clean-burning natural-gas log. All it takes is a turn of a valve and . . . instant fire.

Modern natural-gas logs are sculptured to make it extremely difficult to tell them from the real thing, that is unless they can find a way to implant those tiny creatures inside. Materials placed at the base of the log simulate burning embers.

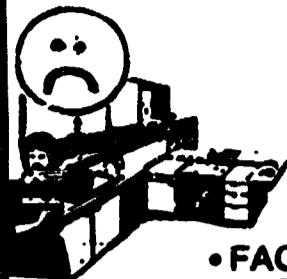

After we have experienced this romantic interlude, we again turn the valve, close the damper to keep the heat inside the home, and the magic disappears until we command it again. All this for about 15 cents an hour.

Stop by the Consumers Power exhibit at the builders show and learn how easy it is to create your own fireside comfort with the flick of a wrist.

Also, come see the progress of the latest developments in natural-gas products from yesterday, today and tomorrow.

Enjoy historical look into gas technology

ROBOTS, MANNETRONS (electronic mannequins) and futuristic displays will entertain and educate you at Consumers Powers' "Yesterday, Today and Tomorrow" exhibit at the builders show.

The exhibit features the progress of natural gas from 1859, when only 100 American families were using gas stoves, to today, when some 50 million homes nationwide use natural gas.

YESTERDAY

See how early natural gas appliances heated homes, cooked food and provided hot water and comforts considered revolutionary for this day and age.

The display features a mannetron from the turn of the century, talking to his wife who is at the gas stove heating water for his bath. Mittens hang drying over the fireplace and an authentic "ice box" adorn the rustic room.

TODAY

On display for outdoor usage are the latest in gas grills, infrared heaters, and pool and spa heaters.

Moving indoors, the versatility of natural gas is featured in water heaters that vent directly outside, eliminating the need for a chimney; high-efficiency furnaces; natural-gas air conditioners; and a combination water heater and furnace that has proven attractive to apartment and condominium dwellers.

Natural-gas technology also has combined efficiency and contemporary looks in producing the glass-top gas range.

Other modern products on display include a small wall-hanging water heater, a fireplace with cozy, clean and economical gas logs and a modern Whirlpool dryer.

TOMORROW

Behind the friendly robot who greets you are five displays of tomorrow's natural gas applications:

- Natural-Gas Heat Pump — in Japan, 60,000 of these efficient and practical heat pumps are currently in operation.
- Outdoor Gas Grills — through remote control, a central computer tells you when the food is ready.
- Natural-Gas Generators — during a power outage, this gas generator produces the necessary power to keep your home up and running.
- Advanced-Gas Water Heaters — automatically and remotely controlled using built-in sensors, the heaters are made from non-metallic material that lessens leakage and guaranteed for the life of a home.

Lifestyle homes going on parade

TRY A homey encounter.

The second annual Parade of Homes exhibit will be a highlight at the builders show.

Visitors can saunter through the 6,600-square-foot promenade done up in an "Old World" theme of brick-paved streets, Victorian lamps, landscaping and gazebos, said Rosalie Lamb, Builders Association of Southeastern Michigan senior staff vice president.

Scattered throughout the display will be renderings of 80 homes, suitable for every lifestyle, in five different counties, Lamb said. Included with the renderings will be information about special features, floor plans and pricing, she said.

But the Parade of Homes is more than just a display of architectural renderings. These homes actually exist and are available to purchase, Lamb said.

The display is a way to gather the work of 80 builders in one place without doing the actual legwork. Potential buyers will be able to see a variety of homes, ranging from condominiums to single-family structures, from Oakland, Macomb, Wayne, Livingston and St. Clair counties without ever leaving Cobo Center.

ALSO AVAILABLE at the display is the Parade of Homes magazine, published by Marketplace Publications, which contains renderings and floor plans of all the homes, said Michael Gauthier, Marketplace publisher.

The magazines contain a map to each home site and give the hours the homes will be open for public tours.

Then, for one month after the show, potential home buyers can take on-site tours of the houses, Gauthier said. He added that builders have agreed to maintain the prices listed in the Parade of Homes magazine.

Gauthier said the Parade of Homes is actually the precursor to the annual Homearamas, which showcase builders efforts. "Ten years ago, we used the Parade of Homes to kick off the spring building season."

Since then, southeastern Michigan builders have held Homearamas, but these events have one drawback, Gauthier said. "Instead of 80 or more builders, the Homearamas are limited to only 10 or so homes."

THE PARADE of Homes also feature homes in a wider range of prices than Homearama, Gauthier said. Instead of elaborate homes costing $300,000 or more, the Parade of Homes will feature more modest houses starting at $80,000.

The $1.2-million homes, of course, also will be featured. "Most homes will be in the $150,000 to $200,000 range."

Similar programs are held — and are quite successful — in other parts of the state and country, he said. "Grand Rapids holds an annual Parade of Homes and they have 170 builders (participating)."

Builders in the Minneapolis area have nearly 500 builders in their annual Parade of Homes, Gauthier said. "That's what we're hoping for. With an area like southeastern Michigan, we ought to have at least 250 builders involved."

A NEW feature for this year's Parade of Homes will be a home builder competition, Gauthier said. A panel of five architects will judge the homes and award prizes to builders of the two best homes in each of four categories: homes priced under $100,000, $100,000 to $200,000, $200,000 to $400,000, and $400,000 and up.

Judging will be based on the design; architecture, special features of the house and the value of the house for the money. Winners will be announced Thursday, March 21, at a luncheon for builders and mortgage bankers preceding a keynote speech on the building industry by Gov. John Engler.

On tap: pools, spas gazebos and jacuzzis

GET IN the swim.

This year at the builders show, the Southeast Michigan Pool Association will display 7,000 square feet of above-ground and in-ground pools, spas, gazebos and jacuzzis.

The Southeast Michigan Pool Association is a local chapter that brings together, in one exhibit, all the new advances and pool products as well as patio furniture and spa enclosures.

Ten different pool dealers will display their wares at the show. Among them will be Viscount Pools, Pietila Pools, Sunspace, Dobat Pools, Michigan Pools and Cornwell Pool and Patio.

Kevin Zacharski of Viscount Pools, manager of the Southeast Michigan Pool Association, is enthusiastic about this year's display.

"It's the best time for consumers who are interested in pool products to see all that's available to them," he said.
