by the commission."

Plymouth City Mayor Ralph (Jack) Kenyon predicted little if any commission opposition to the proposed contract. "I can't imagine who would be against it; I would expect a unanimous vote," he said. The full Plymouth commission will vote whether to accept Walters' terms at its 7:30 p.m. meeting tonight.

Walters confirmed the proposed an agreement that will be supported contract Friday. "If they (Plymouth commissioners) approve it, the agreement is made," he said.

Walters said his decision to leave his present post reflected no dissatisfaction with his 17-year tenure as Northville's manager. "It is feeling that this may just be right for me at this time, and the opportunity is here," he said. Walters would take over as Plymouth city manager June 1 under he needed that time to get them (Northville) through their budget process and wrap things up."

Neither Walters nor Loiselle would discuss details of the new contract before reviewing it with the entire commission tonight, but Loiselle did say it is close to the manager's current compensation.

"It's more than he's making in Northville," he said. "The contract is the agreement, Loiselle said. "He felt very similar, with health benefits, re-he needed that time to get them tirement benefits. The car allowance may be a little better."

Northville officials gave Walters a 9-percent raise last year, bringing his annual salary to $60,580. The raise included the general 6-percent increase approved for all administrative personnel and a 3-percent merit increase. He earns an additional an-

A criminal trial involving the managing partner of a controversial Northville Township development has been postponed until April 12. The Michigan Department of Natural Resource's case against Vin-cent DiLorenzo and D & T Construction on Friday was adjourned be-cause the developer and DNR are scheduled to resume discussions on the Shores of Northville project this week, said Reilly Wilson, Assistant Wayne County Prosecuting Attorney.

Wilson, representing the office of Wayne County Prosecutor John D. O'Hair, is prosecuting Dilorenzo and D & T for alleged violation of Michigan Inland Lakes and Streams Act 346

The DNR charges that the defen-dents failed to obtain permits and eventually rerouted a stream illegally on the former Thomson Sand and Gravel site during reclamation work in 1990.

There are criminal charges pending," Wilson said. "We allege failure to apply for and get permits in five charges.

Wilson said violation of the state Inland Lakes and Streams Act is a misdemeanor punishable by fines up to $10,000 per day.

7. 1990. Wilson said. Discussions between the developer and DNR will not change the focus of the April 12 pretrial, Wilson said.

"They didn't get permits; that can't be changed," Wilson said.

The state may seek additional legal action against DiLorenzo and D & T that could benefit neighboring residents whose property has been damaged by the rerouted stream, Wilson said.

"State statutes provide for the possibility of a petition to circuit court looking for injunctive relief," Wilson said. "The court could tell (the developer to rectify damages)," he said.

"(The damaged property) is serious stuff," he said. "There's ongoing injury to the land."

Wilson said the prosecution has not decided if it will seek injunctive relief

"I don't know what's appropriate," he said. By April 12 we should know where we are.

DiLorenzo and D & T Construction served as the reclamation agent for the Shores of Northville development. The Seven Lakes of Northville Limited Partnership, the owners of the property, were not named in the DNR violations charge.

The April 12 pretrial will be held in The DNR charges date back to Feb. 35th District Court in Plymouth.

Township may sue

An "emergency situation" affecting the former Thomson Sand and Gravel site and adjacent properties has prompted Northville Township to seek legal action to remedy problems caused by a redirected stream.

The township will petition Wayne County Circuit Court to allow the township to access a half-milliondollar escrow account to repair Sump Drain on the Thomson site, Supervisor Georgina Goss said Friday.

Goss said the township is seeking declarative relief because it will "allow us to access escrow funds immediately to correct the Sump Drain.

We are definitely moving ahead with it," Goss said. "The township attorney will petition the court to let us clarative relief, Goss said. begin working with the Department Sump Drain."

petitioned within the "next 10 days." DNR will work with us."

The court is expected to act on the petition soon afterward, she said. My understanding is they will hear it because we're doing an emergency action," Goss said. "I certainly hope they will, because we have a serious problem."

The escrow fund consists of approximately $523,000 collected by the township from the former owners of the gravel pit. The monies were meant to ensure proper reclamation of the site after gravel mining was completed.

Environmental problems caused after the alleged redirection of Sump Drain spurred a series of legal manuevers by the township to wrest control of the escrow account.

The township is prepared to repair Sump Drain if the court agrees to de-

Northville City homeowners tired of double-digit property assessment increases may be pleased by next year's figures, said assessor Mark Christiansen.

The (real estate) market is sliding down," he said. "Because the market is declining the (assessment) sales study is going to reflect lower values, and I wouldn't be at all surprised to see (assessment) decreases in some of the neighborhoods, if not many of them."

Homeowners this year saw their assessments rise an average of 13 percent in the Wayne County portion of the city and 6 percent in Oakland County. Numbers varied widely between neighborhoods and even more widely between individual properties.

Near-record numbers of city homeowners have signed up for Board of Review hearings this year, in part due to the wide range of assessment increases. Christiansen, who was hired due to city complaints over county assessing, attributed much of the range to previous county assessing errors.

This is simply an unavoidable situation when you're trying to go into an area and establish new equity from a situation where things were poorly highest sales that we've experienced were occur-

This year's wide range between assessments should be a thing of the past in many cases, Christiansen said. "In the future, within these neighborhoods, the increases should be pretty much across the board, since we've corrected for a lot of these problems . . . Because of what we've done this year with the huge increases in assessments in some areas of Wayne County, I really don't expect to see the kind of disparity between the two counties next year that has historically been the case."

Of course, the assessor admitted, next year's predictions do little for residents protesting this ear's increases. "We're having a difficult time talking with some people who come in who have just purchased a home recently, for instance, since June of 1990," he said. "They come in and they've got a sales price, and in many cases those sales prices are showing a decline in the market."

The problem is that assessment figures are based on sales that are already an average of two vears old. Christiansen explained. "The sales data that we had to use by law for the basis of our sales study is over a two-year period that started April 1, 1988 and ended in March 31 of 1990," he said. That was the peak of the real estate market. The

"None of the sales which have occurred recently, which are showing that they are going down, are taken into account in the study. They will be next year and they will be the following year. But that doesn't appease the people who are coming in with a deed right now, when in fact I've got an assessment that may in fact now exceed 50 percent of the market value of his particular property because it's based on the value that may have been in effect a couple of years ago."

Christiansen said he has a trick up his asessor's sleeve that might limit next year's assessment increases even further. "The state lets you use either a 24-month sales study or a 12-month sales study," he explained. Because last year's sales figures were higher than the previous year's, limiting the sales data to that year would not have limited assessment increases this year. But Christiansen said that this year's sales may well show a decrease over last year.

The advantage to taxpayers is that if sales figures begin to decline, the assessor can ignore the earlier year of sales figures and just use the latest and therefore lowest - figures possible.

If the 12-month sales study is to the advantage of the taxpayer, it'll be used," Christiansen said.

Cost increases force subscription hike

The cost of an annual subscription to The Northulle Record will rise from $18 to $22 effective April 1.

The $4 annual increase is the first since 1987.

Philip Jerome, executive editor of the Record and HomeTown Newspapers, said the price increase is tied directly to operating costs, including an 11-percent hike in the cost of newsprint and a 19-percent increase in postal rates.

The newsstand price will remain 50 cents.

Jerome emphasized that the current rate of $18 per year will remain in effect until April 1. Anyone wishing to take out a new subscription to the Record or renew a subscription can take advantage of the opportunity to beat the increase by placing their orders prior to April 1.

To order a new subscription or renew an existing subscription send a check or money order in the amount of $18 to The Northville Record, P.O. Box 899, Brighton, Michigan 48116.

More information about new subscriptions and subscription renewals is available by calling the circulation office at 349-3627.

Trustees table trash ordinance

By MIKE TYREE Staff Writer

The township board on Thursday scrapped a proposed solid waste ordinance onto the table after board members voiced distaste over the plan's first-draft language.

The ordinance, intended to comply with Wayne County Solid Waste Management Plan mandates, was returned to the township attorney for modifications.

The board is expected to review a revised document at its April 11 session.

Trustee Thomas Handyside said he was not satisfied with the ordinance as written. He said language concerning licensing and bonding was flawed.

"There are problems the board needs to address." he said. "If we're stuck with it right now, I can't support it.

"I'm not going to support it this way." Handyside pointed to a passage in the proposed ordinance that referred to licensee bond requirements based on potential solid waste-hauling revenue.

"How do we monitor or set a minimum bond?" he asked.

Handyside also protested a portion of the proposed ordinance that gave individual residents the right to seek damages from the designated hauler. Such terms would be unacceptable to any bonding firm, he said.

The township can act (as a litigant), not the citizens," Handyside said.

Handyside did say the township was headed "in the right direction" with the ordinance.

Supervisor Georgina Goss stressed the need for the township to hasten adoption of the solid waste plan.

"Time is running out on compliance with the Wayne County Solid Waste Plan," she said. "We need to start moving it along one way or another." Handyside's misgivings were echoed by Trustee Richard Allen.

"I don't think it should be rushed through," he said. "It should be done right the first time."

The township's solid waste plan will include a curbside solid waste and recyclable materials collection system. The township currently plans to select a preferred solid waste hauler by the end of May.

Curbaide collection under the new township ordinance is expected to begin in September.

The items were stolen sometime between 12:30 a.m. March 9 and 2:30 p.m. March 10. The Mitsubishi 555 receiver, valued at $355. was located in a storage space under the dashboard, while the $120 Uniden RD9XL radar detector was in a glowe box.

LIQUOR LAW VIOLATIONS: City police cited three Sterling Heights teenagers for having beer in their car March 12 after stopping the vehicle at 7:20 p.m. The car was stopped for speeding on Eight Mile at the North-ville High School pedestrian bridge. A police officer noticed a grocery bag with empty beer bottles in the back seat and cited the 18-year-old male driver for transporting open liquor. The two male passengers, 18 and 19, were cited for posession of open liquor.

SUSPENDED LICENSE AR-REST: An 18-year-old Harper Woods woman was arrested for driv-

OUIL: A 58-year-old Northville man was charged with OUIL after being stopped by state police on Grand River in Novi March 13. Reports said troopers stopped the man after he turned onto eastbound Grand River from the wrong side of Wixom Road. A breath test later revealed that he was legally impaired at the time of the incident

BREAKING AND ENTERING: An owner of McRea Electric, 19720 Gerald Avenue, told township police someone broke into a storage trailer and stole 500 feet of copper wire sometime between March 9-11. The wire was valued at $1,000.

VEHICLE DAMAGED: A Northville man's 1988 Pontiac 6000 received approximately $400 damage after someone broke the rear and front windshield, taillights and headlights while it was parked in front of layer's Choice, 43003 Seven Mile, March 10 between 9:50-10:10 p.m., township police said.

FENDER BENDER: City police reported one accident last week. A 22-year-old Northville man was cited for failing to yield March 11 after he drove into the path of an oncoming car at 6:17 p.m. The man was heading west on Dunlap Street when he turned south on Center and was struck by the eastbound car. He told police that the sun was in his eyes, and that the other car was traveling too fast.

Citizens with information about the above incidents are urged to call Northville City Police at 349-1234 or Northville Township Police at 349-9400.

Earth Day seeks ideas, helpers

An Earth Day '91 celebration is being planned and sponsored by the University of Michigan M-Care Health Center in Northville for Sunday, April 21, at Maybury State Park. Northville Community Recreation is assisting with the event. The planning committee is looking for more ideas and assistance from the Northville community. The day's activities currently consist of three sections: physical fitness activities including aerobics, a 2-mile walk and a 10k fun run; a children's program featuring a kid's concert by Mustard's Retreat; and a possible salute to the Desert Storm troops. In addition, environmental educational exhibits by area organizations including Moraine Elementary School and The Aware of the World Club from the Northville High School will be on display throughout the day. The petting farm and playground area will also be available throughout the day.

With more than 7,000 people in the park on Earth Day last year, organizers expect Earth Day '91 to be another success. Northville community members are welcome to "lend a hand" or to share ideas on possible activities.

This is an opportunity for everyone to get involved in Earth Day. For more information, please contact Peg Campbell at 936-9538 or Traci Gottschalk at 349-0203.

Manipulatives a new approach

By SUZANNE HOLLYER Staff Writer

A mental light bulb came on for visitors and school board members who may have had a more shadowy understanding of some mathematics concepts than they had thought.

At a meeting last month, the Northville Board of Education got a lesson in math similar to the math lessons given to Northville students for the past five years.

When the concept of square roots was demonstrated using small yel-low blocks, "ah-ha"s echoed throughout the board room as the numbers under a radical sign were seen in a new light. Northville kindergarten through eighth-grade students learn math using manipulatives, or objects they can touch and move. And the way they have been taught could give them an edge on a new Michigan Educational Assessment Program schools "very progressive." "I know that from my experience traveling around the state and around the country that Northville is on the cutting edge," she said. "Most districts are just beginning to use manipulatives.

The concept of mathematics manipulatives first came to the district in a spring 1986 position statement endorsing manipulatives as tools to promote abstract thinking.

"I don't think any of us realized the kind of implementation we would see." said Assistant Superintendent for Instructional Services Dolly McMaster.

With the passage of a 1989 bond issue, the district was able to purchase over $60,000 worth of math manipulatives.

That is over a half-million objects being used by Northville students, McMaster said.

The objects range from the small, ellow blocks used to teach board

Mathematics achievement

Northville High School Senior Pete Beyersdorf, above, has received a Math Department Recognition Award in honor of his accomplishments as an outstanding mathematics student. On Feb. 23, Beyersdorf was honored by the Mathematical Association of America as one of the top 100 students in the country, out of 18,500 who participated in the Michigan Mathematician Prize Competition this year. In his four years at Northville High School, Beyersdorf has taken Honors Algebra I, Honors Geometry, Honors Algebra II and Calculus, receiving A's in each. He has also maintained a cumulative grade point average of 3.9 Beyersdorf has been accepted at the University of Michigan, Purdue, Western Michigan University and Notre Dame, and hopes to study aerospace engineering.

math test, said Northville science and math resource teacher Betty Parker.

The MEAP math test will change beginning next fall. The test has been 80 percent computation in the past. The test will be 20 percent computation when changed. On the new MEAP, 80 percent of the test will be made up of story problems and estimations, and of work done on calculators, or problems Parker said will require "strategic thinking skills."

Northville students should be better prepared than most students for the new MEAP, she said.

The MEAP test is spearheading a lot of changes," Parker said.

She said many districts are now beginning to teach with math manipulatives in order to provide the greater understanding of mathematics concepts the new MEAP will require.

Many districts are just discovering the value of using miniature cubes and boxes, calculators and random math. Parker said, calling Northville said.

members a new way of looking at square roots to calculators that can be used on an overhead projector for demonstrations.

Criticisms of math manipulatives have been from people who learned math just fine the old way, and do not see the need for change, Parker said. But the old ways have been scientifically proven to be less effective than teaching with math manipulatives.

Today, we do things based on scientific research that shows the best way children learn," Parker said.

We are not a tradition-based profession any longer. We are a research-based profession."

For those with criticisms of teaching calculator use, the response would be that the new MEAP math test will include a section requiring calculators. Parker said.

And Northville students are taught to understand the functions their calculator is completing and to number generators (dice) to teach check the logic of their results, she

A controversial library study whose implementation could have cut state aid to the Northville Public Library was rejected after it received no support from state librarians.

The study, by King Research of Tennessee, was the subject of a recent report by a statewide committee of public library directors and trustees. The committee recommended that the King Research study be rejected, and the recommendation was approved late last year by the state legislative council that oversees public libraries in Michigan.

"It's good to see that the (King Research) report was dismissed," said Northville Library Director Pat Orr. It raised some questions that are going to have to be answered, but I think what will happen is that public libraries in Michigan will work together to come up with some answers."

Local librarians like Orr were most concerned over a King Research recommendation that state funding be cut to libraries serving communities of more than 25,000. Northville's population - including both city and township residents --- was measured at 23,539 by the 1990 U.S. Census.

Beverly Papai, a member of the committee that recommended rejection of the King study, said the legislative council stood behind her committee's recommendations. "They endorsed the Library of Michigan recommendation that the King study not be used for long-range planning, and they ack-nowledged that consideration be given to the other recommendations (made by the committee)," she said.

The committee urged the state to address the lack of stable, adequate library funding, and preserve local autonomy over the control of library cooperatives. The committee also recommended that the library community develop standards defining quality public library service.

Papai said the King study was not entirely negative. "The (study) identified issues and concerns that were universally perceived as important by librarians and trustees statewide." size said.

It was the King study's implementation plans that worried library directors, Papai said

The primary recommendation was that the public library cooperatives be replaced by another type... but public librarians viewed cooperatives as crucial," she said.

"The King study developed proposals without consideration given to funding," she added.

"I think it is a victory to some extent, but I think we still have all the long-range problems that the public library community cited in calling for a long-range study in the first place," Papai said.

nual $800 in longevity pay and $3,000 in car allowance.

The current Plymouth city manager, Gordon Jaeger, earns an annual $59,500 base pay and $4,800 in car allowance.

The Plymouth City Commission agreed last week to give Walters first shot at the position being vacated by Jaeger May 1. The commission had decided to search for a new full-time administrator despite Jaeger's offer to stay on part-time.

Walters had been asked to be one of two final candidates for the position last year, but Plymouth officials gave the job to Jaeger in April.

Walters was asked to consider the position in 1981 but he declined. He served as Plymouth's assistant city manager between 1967-1970.

Walters, 46, has served as Northville City Manager since 1973, after a three-year stint as manager in St. ignace.

Loiselle predicted that Walters would bring "a fresh approach" to Plymouth government and oversee several upcoming Plymouth City projects.

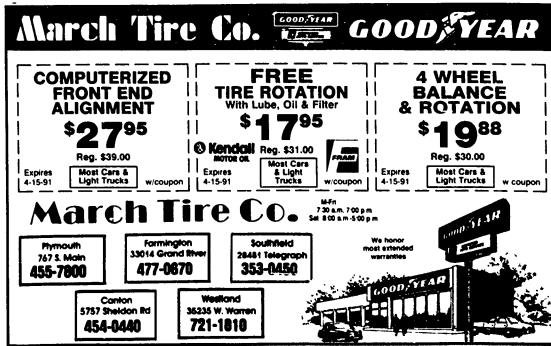

We have a very large streetscape program," he said. "The two largest things we've got going are the DDA (Downtown Development Authority) project and we're looking to do some shared service things with Plymouth Township that our current city manager, Gordon Jaeger, has started. We'll hopefully be able to continue along that, investigating the possibility of more shared services and keeping our budget problems under control.

'We're (also) looking at job descriptions and internal structure. That's a program that was started under Gordon and needs to be completed."

Northville's departing manager will enter a turbulent Plymouth City Hall. Plymouth residents are still protesting the city's agreement to back Plymouth Township's attempt to operate Mettetal Airport, and the City Commission is still reeling from Mayor Dennis Bila's sudden resignation two weeks ago, not to mention Jaeger's recent decision to step down after a year on the job. Plymouth's chief of police also announced his resignation two weeks ago, to take a similar post in Lisle, Ill.

But Walters has said he welcomed the opportunity to set up Plymouth's proposed Downtown Development Authority and explore the merger of public services.

Waiting on sidewalks not the best approach

It's easy to understand why the Northville City Council would want to put off discussing the controversial sidewalk program in the city. That doesn't make it right, however.

Council members briefly took up the sidewalk issue last week as part of a review of city projects. City Manager Steven Walters suggested the council put off any in-depth discussion of sidewalks until next winter, saying it was probably already too late to do anything with sidewalks this construction season. The council readily agreed.

That may be partly because of the tremendous headaches city officials suffered the last time they tried to address the question. The problem is basically this: The city is supposed to have sidewalks along all its streets, on both sides. It doesn't, and there is some unfairness to that fact.

Most places in the city do indeed feature sidewalks. Residents in essence paid for these walks, in a variety of ways, direct and indirect. Residents who don't have sidewalks, on the other hand, didn't pay. If everyone is supposed to have them, this situation is clearly unfair.

But — the city's proposed solution was also unfair. The idea was to charge residents the full cost of new sidewalks in areas without them. It was a shock to many unsuspecting homeowners, who were in a way being punished for work left undone by other people, years ago, when costs would have been less. And a host of other questions cropped up too; most importantly, who exactly should share in the cost of putting in the new walks?

GOVERNMENT

If you don't remember the controversy, you can at least see how it happened. Sidewalks became a very --- pardon us - bumpy issue, and in the end nothing got settled.

Nothing remains settled. And putting everything off another nine or 10 months will not help.

It's easy to picture the sidewalk question dragging on into eternity. If this doesn't get taken up again until November or December, it will still probably take months to work out. By that time, in all probability, a new city manager --- unfamiliar with all these issues — will be the one trying to devise a policy. Finding a workable solution would take quite a while under the best of circumstances, and these won't be the best of circumstances.

It could easily take so long that nothing gets done next summer either. So it could get put off again . . . and so on . . . and all the while, the cost of actually doing the work keeps going up.

The city council should decide the real importance of the sidewalk question. If it's worth going through all the trouble to resolve, then it's worth resolving now. Putting it off does not solve anything.

But now, living on Eight Mile (actually in Novi if you want to get technical). I'm little more than a mile from the office. Mill Race. Not since the days when I walked to and from high school have I used my feet for commuting (not counting college, of course, where everyone walks). I must say this idea of walking (and on some days biking) to work appeals to me. It saves war and tear on my venerable

Dodge, not to mention the reduction in expenses. From an environmental standpoint, it gives me a good feeling to be doing my part to conserve fossil fuels and reduce emissions.

It's going to be an adjustment for me.

was a piece of cake by comparison.

There's just one thing standing in my way. Perhaps more accurately, there are a lot of things standing in my way - and none of them are traversed by a sidewalk.

Perhaps I've been spoiled, but whenever I wanted to walk somewhere in Ann Arbor, I could. There was always a paved footpath to lead me where I wanted to go.

In Passing

There wasn't much fanfare when I As a youth growing up in New York City, I knew of only moved into Northville last week. More three ways to get around. The bus, the subway and walking,

Even if I don't have anywhere to go, I still like to walk. Once around the neighborhood is enough to refresh my spirit when I need it.

But from my new home in the Woodland Glen apartments, I don't set foot on a sidewalk until I'm halfway to Main Street. Pavement on Griswold doesn't even start until Pennell Avenue, west of the railroad bridge. And that's only on the southwest side of Griswold. The sidewalk on the other side of the street starts at Main Street, and goes about 100 feet before stopping in the middle of nowhere. It doesn't even reach

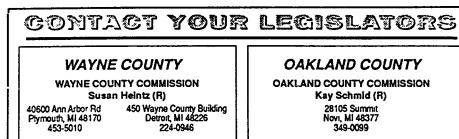

From what I've been told, I'd be barking up the wrong tree if I wanted the City of Northville to extend the sidewalks on-Griswold to the city limits. Asking a city politician to address sidewalks is like asking the Pentagon about battle plans. The city will give you a lot of waffling, but no walkways.

Yeah, this living in Northville business is going to take ye some getting used to. If you happen to drive past some guy.... slogging through the mud alongside Griswold around rush hour, give me a honk and a wave.

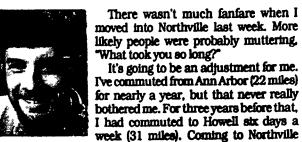

And if they ever hold a vote to improve sidewalks in the city or the township, vote with my feet instead of your own.

o more man-eating tigers

Remember the joke about the guy waving his arms in a big, crazy circle and snapping his fingers? His buddy walks in, asks what he's doing and is informed that waving your arms and snapping your fingers is a foolproof way to scare away man-eating tigers.

"Don't be ridiculous," says his friend. There aren't any man-eating tigers around here."

"See," says the first guy, brightly. "It works."

Okay, so it's not a great joke. But I was thinking about it the other day because of a present I received from my wife last Christmas.

You must remember that my wife is something of an animal lover. Actually, she's an animal-lover of the highest order. She donates regularly to the Nature Conservancy and the Michigan Humane Society, but more than that she has converted our palatial Westview Drive estate into a shelter for homeless animals.

Sort of a West Northville chapter of the Michigan Humane Society.

Cats rate highest at the Jerome pound. They're allowed in the house; we have seven of them now. But they're not the only animals which get special treatment. All other animals are welcomed to climb through a former milk chute into the garage where they'll find cozy "beds" made of old rags, incubator lights to keep them warm during the winter and, of course, plenty of food and water.

At various times, the garage has been home to opossume, raccoons, rabbits and an occasional skunk.

But back to man-eating tigers and Christmas presents. What happened was that she bought me two of those little things that look like miniature sirens, and, when you put them on the grill of your car, they allegedly emit a highpitched noise which warns animals that a car is coming and they'd better get out of the road.

Well, I dutifully installed those little sirens on my car the day after Christmas and am happy to report that I have not hit a single animal since they were installed.

Unfortunately, there's a down side to this story as well. Like they say, there's a dark cloud inside every silver lining.

There are many nights when I get home from work fairly late. And one of the little moments I used to treasure after a long day at work was seeing an occasional wild animal while driving south toward Northville on Beck Road between Eleven and Eight Mile.

But that's where the problem comes in. I can't tell you that I used to see red fox and deer everytime I drove down Beck Road late at night, but I used to see them often enough that I always looked forward to it.

The key words in this previous paragraph are "used to." I 'used to' see all kinds of wildlife with some degree of regularity.

But not any more. Nope, the sad truth is that I haven't seen any animals at all along Beck Road - or any other road for that matter - for a good long time . . . not since the day after Christmas when I installed those animal-warning sirens on the front of my car.

Of course, I haven't seen any man-cating tigers either.

Books provide a guided tour

One of the major differences between American and European wines is the label. Most American wine labels are dominated by a grape name, such as cabernet sauvignon or chardonnay. European wine labels emphasize the place where the wine was made, such as Bordeaux or Burgundy.

As you become more interested in wine and its origins, place names become important to identifying a wine's quality. With the long history of wine making in Europe, a classification of wine quality evolved principally on a wine's geographic origin.

Without being predisposed to geography, an interest in wine tends to generate a curiosity about place. It is now possible to learn everything you've ever wanted to know about Italian wines in Burton Anderson's "The Wine Atlas of Italy: And Traveller's Guide to the Vineyards" (Simon & Schuster, $40).

The book is well written by one of the best authorities on Italian wines.

"Oz Clarke's New Encyclopedia of French Wines" (Simon & Schuster, $24.95) is an accurate, refreshingly humorous text covering all the wine regions of France. The book's features offer a comfortable introduction to French wines.

Clarke, a British wine authority and broadcaster, has traveled the length of France. He understands the wines and gives superb descriptions of aromas and flavors. Clarke is opinionated and doesn't mind letting you know.

doesn't mind letting you know. He calls Muscadet "the perfect easy-going light, soft, fresh dry white." For good value he predicts, "We're going to see more and more Corbieres. Minervois, Fitou and Cotes du Roussillon." He contends that Beaujolais' Gamay grape "can perform brilliantly but frequently doesn't."

Of the famous red Bordeaux wines of Chateau Lafite Rothschild, Clarke said, "I wish I could draw near in humble mood to worship at this shrine of perfection, but I can't, and the reason is simply that the wine is so wretchedly inconsistent." On the other hand he admits, "La Lagune has given me more pleasure than any other single wine."

Despairing about the quality of the white wines of Macon, Clarke suggests that although we should see a steady stream of enjoyable, fruity, fresh, creamy Macon-Villages Chardonnay, the wines of Australia and New Zealand have twice the flavor at half the price.

"The Simon & Schuster Beginner's Guide to Understanding Wine" (Michael Schuster, Fireside Books, $12.95) is a guide for the novice and experienced alike. Schuster experily focuses on tasting techniques, grape varieties and winemaking methods, accompanied by illustrative color photographs.

A proponent of language as a part of wine enjoyment, Schuster emphasizes correct vocabulary as he describes tasting techniques. He uses all the senses (sight, smell, taste and touch) to encourage a complete experience.

Grapes, and the wines they make, are discussed from aligote to viognier, for whites, and cabernet to zinfandel red wines. Sparkling and fortified wines are explained and a brief discussion of spirits also is included.

The Health Police are on the prowl, and they're coming to get you, all you lovers of sour cream, cream cheese and mayonaisse.

They know you've been sneaking around, dipping into cheesecake, chip dips, creamy salad dressings, cheese blintzes and potato salad, knowing full well that all that stuff is high in fat, cholesterol and sodium.

Perhaps you've been asked by your doctor to give up all those creamy goodies. Or perhaps you'd just like to for health's sake, but can't live without a dollop of sour cream on your baked potatoes.

Well, sneak no more because there's a new low-fat, low-calorie, low-cholesterol alternative to sour cream, cream cheese and mayonnaise. It's called yogurt cheese. Yogurt cheese is simply yogurt that has been drained of liquid.

Yogurt cheese is not just some substitute that looks and acts like cheese. From a dairy expert's point of view, it is a true cheese.

Remember the "curds and whey" line from the "Little Miss Muffet" nursery rhyme? When you got too old for nursery rhymes, you still wondered what whey was, right? Whey is, quite simply, the liquid that comes out of any dairy product when it's curdled to make cheese.

Yogurt cheese has a long tradition in Middle Eastern and Indian cookery. The arabs call it laban. In India, it is sweetened, spiced with saffron and cardamom, and mixed with pistachios to make a festive dessert called strikhand. Greek farmers mix it with chopped cucumbers for lunch.

Graham Kerr, the "Galloping Gourmet," makes frequent use of it in his recently revived television show. It also appears frequently in recipes on Jeff Smith's "The Frugal Gourmet" show, and in his cookbook of the same name.

According to the University of California, Berkeley Wellness Letter, "yogurt cheese can be an excellent substitute for high-fat cheeses, sandwich spreads and dips. What makes yogurt cheese so special is that it picks up the flavor of anything it's mixed with." Further kudos for yogurt cheese come from Cardiac Alert, a newsletter dedicated to the prevention of heart disease: "Because yogurt cheese is low in sodium and low in fat, it is a healthy addition to anyone's diet. It is especially useful, however, for people with high blood pressure and heart disease specific nutritional comparisons between cheese made from lowfat yogurt, and the creamy favorites, cream cheese, sour cream and mayonnaise. Yogurt cheese is clearly lower in sodium, calories and fat, and is higher in calcium.

For those who with lactose intolerance, yogurt cheese is also lower in lactose. And it is high in protein as well. If you want no fat at all, use nonfat yogurt to make your yogurt cheese.

The Surgeon General, the U.S. Department of Agriculture, the American Heart Association and the American Cancer Society have all told us to get the fat out of our diets. Most importantly, we've been told to be aware of the "calories from fat" in the foods we eat.

Yogurt cheese gets 30 percent or less of its calories from fat. By comparison, Gouda and Edam get around 65 percent of their calories from fat; cheddar, colby or jack cheeses get a whopping 72 percent.

Making yogurt cheese is quite simple. In the old days, yogurt was spooned into a cheesecloth (now you know where that word comes from, too) sack and suspended over the kitchen sink to drain.

Rather than dangling a drippy sack over your sink, ty this method: line a small colander (or large strainer) with a couple layers of cheesecloth, and place in a bowl. Spoon in the yogurt and let it drain.

- Technology has also made available a number of yogurt funnels, which can be found in gournet stores. We tried one called the Really Creamy Yogurt Cheese Funnel, and found it convenient to use, and effective at making delightful creamy cheese.

You can't use fruit yogurts to make yogurt cheese. You're generally limited to plain, coffee, vanilla or lemon. The yogurt you use must be free of gelatin. Check the label if you're not sure. Certain highly-processed yogurts (such as Yoplait) won't work either.

Made with plain yogurt, the cheese is mildly tart, somewhere between sour cream and cream cheese. Sweet enjoyment.

Irish cookery demonstrates more skill than luck

Luck. The Irish believe that luck has a tremendous influence on their lives.

The phrase "luck of the Irish" applied to me early this year when I was awarded a trip to Ireland to do what I love the most — cook and eat.

The jokes started to fly among friends and colleagues. Ireland is not known for its cuisine or culinary expertise. Anyone I ever spoke with that had traveled to the Emerald Isle told me how bland and unimaginative the food was. Well, I was going to find out firsthand.

January is not the time of the year to go to Ireland unless you are happy sitting by a fire to keep warm. Of course, I had no choice in the matter and was just thrilled to be visiting the home of my ancestors.

I could hardly wait to see the brilliant and varied shades of green looming out of the ocean as we flew over. I had expected to have teans well in my eyes at the sight. It was the only disappointment I was to have for 10 days. Snow covered the entire tiny country. There was literally no green. I learned quickly that keeping warm was a priority.

The plane landed early in the morning at Shannon Airport. Since there was short layover before going on to Dublin, we were allowed to get off the plane. My feet had touched the irish soil. How exciting. It is hard to explain the feeling you have knowing that you are in the land from which your relatives emigrated.

We decided to celebrate with an Irish coffee at the spot that made them famous, the home of the Irish coffee, the Shannon Airport Bar. The barkeep smiled, knowing we were tourists, and put on his show. A bit of sugar, a dash of Irish whiskey, hot coffee and the richest, lovliest heavy cream I had ever tasted. Skip everything else, give me a bowl of that hand-whipped cream with a spoon.

The Irish coffee at Diamond Jim Brady's (our American Irish pub) has been made the exact same way for years. But that cream. What a difference an Irish cow makes.

Our culinary journey began in a small town about two hours from Dublin in a town called Limerick. We had been on the go for nearly 48 hours without sleep, a shower or a decent meal. To top that off we were driving on the wrong side of the road and sitting on the opposite side of the car. Talk about scary.

The tourist board recommended a B and B nearby. I have never, even in this country, stayed at a B and B and didn't know what to expect. The room was clean and neat, the proprietor charming. But boy was it cold. The Irish are used to no or minimal heat. Obviously, we were not.

Thank heavens for the breakfasts. Fresh orange juice, hot, perfectly brewed tea, that wonderful cream, porridge (oatmeal), brown Irish bread with luscious jam and butter, two eggs, ham and bacon. The bacon is like nothing Ive ever had. The cheest comparison is the true Canadian peameal. Lean and jukey. Who needs hunch with a start like this? Each morning began the same. I am not a lover of fried eggs so the next day asked for scrambled. Their texture was light and soft. Totally different than ours. Tiny, tiny curds. Very delicious. I found out later that the eggs are stirred over a hot water bath until curdled, not fried and stirred over direct heat, thus the contrast.

unch was generally skipped with a pint of Guinness stout used as a substitute. Stout in this country does not compare. Chemicals added for travel make it bitter. Not being a beer drinker, I amazed myself by asking time and time again for a "pint of Guinness, please." Dinner was not the affair we make of it in the Dinner was not the affair we make of it in the U.S. Little fanfare; just good, earthy, simple food. The tastes were incredible. Irish salmon is revered in culinary circles. It isn't hard to figure out why. The flesh is firm and a beautiful pink. And the flavor cannot be topped.

Accompaniments are unpretentious — lots of potatoes prepared all of the usual ways but better, and loads of fresh vegetables, broccoli and carrots being the most popular. And that wonderful Irish brown bread and rich butter.

Plaice is another popular fish. A variety of flatfish, it reminded me of an upscale orange roughy/sole combination. Fried and sauteed, its fresh, non-fishy taste is one I'd love to encounter here. Prawns (shrimp) as big as a finger are also abundant. Dublin Bay prawns are repowned around the world for their succulent qualities. The most popular meat is lamb and mutton. Sheep dot the hillside wherever you go. Young lamb is superior and the sausages and stews made from mutton are out of this world. Veal and steaks ere available and very good. I did not miss any "American" food while gone.

Our travels took us to Lahinch, Dublin, Caven, Virginia and all in between. Each meal was a delightful experience. The Irish people are thrilled to have an American visitor. We are their idols. Service was superb. When was the last time your french fries were served using French service? French service is the hardest and most time-consuming of all styles of service. It is rarely if ever used in the United States anymore. Truly classic but very unpretentious when done by the Irish.

Sandwiches were a mainstay for locals for the evening meal. A chicken sandwich was just that — chicken and bread. Chicken salad consisted of chicken, bread and a piece of lettuce. Nothing glorious except that the chicken was real: no pressed luncheon meat here. Then the rich stock left from boiling the chicken was used in the marvelous soups.

Ireland is one of few countries that produces most of the food that it uses. Very little is imported. The variety of produce does not compare to what we are used to, but wonders are worked with what is available. The fish is extraordinary. Meat very acceptable. Dairy products excellent. Brown bread the best.

And, oh, what I'd give for a pint of stout.

IRISH DARK SODA BREAD

3 cups all-purpose flour 2 cups whole-wheat flour 2 tsp. baking soda 1 tablespoon baking powder

2 tablespoons brown sugar

2 ½ cups buttermilk

Preheat oven to 375 degrees. Add all the dry ingredients in a large bowl and mix very well. Pour all the buttermilk into the bowl and stir until a soft dough is formed. Do not try to make it smooth. Pour the dough onto a floured board and knead for one minute. Divide the dough in two and form into round loaves. Put the loaves on an ungreased sheet and slash an "X" into the tops with a sharp knife. Allow to rest for 10 minutes and bake 40-45 minutes in the center of the preheated oven. Cool on racks or serve warm with butter, honey or jam.

Snack foods can still be healthy

Snacking is quite a popular activ-ity in America. The wide availability of packaged products and convenience foods made the art of anacking easier than ever before. With all this munching going on, snacks can add up and become a big part of your diet. Which isn't all bad. It just depends on the kinds of snacks you choose.

Most people munch on not-sonutritious snacks because they grab what is easily available when they are hungry. We all know that fruits and vegetables are the healthiest snacks to enjoy, but other snacks can be tasty and good for you, too. With some advance planning and "nutritious alternatives," you can learn to become a healthy snacker.

Have a craving for something crunchy? Pass on the potato chips, salted nuts, buttered popcorn and french fries. They are all high in sodium, fat and calories. Instead, try unbuttered popcorn sprinkled with garlic powder or Parmesan cheese, unsalted tortilla chips dipped in a snack that is both sweet and crunchy.

If you have a sweet tooth, beware. Cakes, pies, cookies and candy can be high in sugar and fat. Instead of a per (optional) jelly donut as a morning snack, sink your teeth into a warm Apple Cheddar Muffin. If chocolate is your weakness, enjoy Chocolate Cupcakes prepared from a low-calorie, low-fat recipe.

Do you snack while you are watching television? When you're bored? Suppose you always get hungry in the late evening before you go to bed. It is important to recognize when you anack so you can prepare healthy snacks ahead of time and have them on hand when temptation strikes.

Keep fresh fruit, low-fat frozen yogurt, air-popped popcorn or low-fat crackers readily available. Another good rule to follow is to keep unhealthy snacks out of your house completely. A little "nibbling knowhow can turn your anack breaks into health breaks as well.

All of the following recipes use yo- mixture with a little liquid to make a gurt cheese, or yogurt drained of its whey. Draining should be done overnight, as it takes an average of 10-12 hours, and the whey should be discarded. Timing is a matter of preference: longer draining yields a thicker, dryer cheese.

Here are some other pointers: • Yogurt cheese is best blended into recipes with a fork. Vigorous blending with a blender or food processor is not recommended.

• Like all milk products, yogurt corned beef and pickle relish; Flaked cheese is sensitive to heat. Do not saimon or sardines; Chopped shrimp heat it alone, or allow it to boil. To cook without risk of separation or thinning, combine yogurt cheese with flour, cornstarch or eggs.

• To combine with hot foods, bring Lime or lemon juice and honey; Dried yogurt cheese to room temperature, soup or salad dressing mix. and/or allow hot foods to cool slightly. When possible, add yogurt cheese to hot foods at the end of cooking time.

• Yogurt cheese softens slightly when stirred with other ingredients. Therefore, it is best to make a spread a few hours before you plan to use it and let it stand in the refrigerator to firm up.

Italian Minestrone is American favorite

Every town in Italy boasts its own favorite version of minestrone. This hearty Italian soup ranks among America's favorites, too, and contemporary ingredients make it easy to prepare for casual entertaining.

Italian-style Minestrone features convenient canned kidney and garbanzo beans. The canned beans are precooked, eliminating the long soaking time and reducing the cooking time. In addition, they provide the same important nutrients and great taste as packaged dry beans.

Serve Italian-style Minestrone the traditional way - with a green salad and crusty bread warm from the oven.

March 17 through March 23

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) This a good week to take it easy. Those uptight feelings you've been experiencing will melt away with good oldfashioned fun.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Meeting new people will bring you great joy. Taking up a new hobby or activity now will give you a sense of accomplishment.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Concentrate on career concerns this week. When times get tough, make sure you have your facts straight. Be prepared to confront opponents.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Stick with what you know and things will work out. Complete projects you have already started, rather than undertaking new ones.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You will need an outlet for your creative energy. Put excess energy to work doing good for those who are less fortunate than you.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) It seems you are surrounded by tension. Avoid conflict because no good will come of it. Know this difficult time will pass quickly.

By C.C. Clark VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)

Take a close look at yourself. Certain areas of your life haven't been what you expected, but you have the power to change it all if you want.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) Finances take priority. Managing money well could bring you a big windfall. Don't spend it before you actually have it in your hands.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) A friend needs you to lend a helping hand. Give them all the support you can and listen carefully. You benefit from helping this person.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) Don't let friends and relatives get you down. Take off for some time on your own and think about what is really most important to you.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You inspire one who is close to you. Your wise words could change this person's life dramatically. Don't get too involved with this person.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) Don't let your emotions get the better of you. Keep your head together and rely on others to pick up the extra work load. 4 TV Listing Inc

Wolves' threatens to run away with Oscar

Costner's western leads the pack

By Amy Schmidt

Tinsel Town's biggest night of the year will culminate Monday, March 25, with "The 63rd Annual Academy Awards." ABC will broadcast the Hollywood gala live from the Shrine Auditorium in Los Angeles.

Front and center with the most nominations is Kevin Costner and his western drama "Dances With Wolves." "Dances With Wolves" scored 12 nominations, the same number as 1981's "Reds," and one short of the 13 nominations received by 1966's "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?"

Costner's film is the first western to be nominated since 1969, and would be only the second ever to win. ("Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid" (1969) was the last western nominated; "Cimmarron" (1931) captured best picture.) Runners-up in the most-nominated category are "Dick Tracy" and "The Godfather Part III" with seven; "GoodFellas" follows with six; "Cyrano de Bergerac" and "Ghost" each with five.

Vying for this year's 24 Oscars will be film professionals from 223 movies. The top nominees include:

Picture: "Awakenings," "Dances With Wolves," "Ghost," "The Godfather Part III," "GoodFellas"

Director: Kevin Costner, "Dances With Wolves"; Francis Ford Coppola, "The Godfather Part III"; Martin Scorsese, "GoodFellas"; Stephen Frears, "The Grifters"; Barbet Schroeder, "Reversal of Fortune"

Actor: Kevin Costner, "Dances With Wolves"; Robert De Niro, "Awakenings"; Gerard Depardieu, "Cyrano de Bergerac"; Richard Harris, "The Field"; Jeremy Irons, "Reversal of Fortune"

Actress: Kathy Bates, "Misery"; Angelica Huston, "The Grifters"; Julia Roberts, "Pretty Woman"; Meryl Streep, "Postcards From the Edge"; Joanne Woodward, "Mr. and Mrs. Bridge"

Supporting Actor: Bruce Davison, "Longtime Companion"; Andy Garcia, "The Godfather Part III"; Graham Greene, "Dances With Wolves"; Al Pacino, "Dick Tracy"; Joe Pesci, "GoodFellas"

Supporting Actress: Annette Bening, "The Grifters"; Lorraine Bracco, "GoodFellas"; Whoopi Goldberg, "Ghost"; Diane Ladd, "Wild at Heart"; Mary McDonnell, "Dances With Wolves"

An Oscar first would occur if Costner wins best director and best actor trophies. No actor/director has ever done so. A win by Graham Greene would be the first win by a Native American. A win by "The Godfather Part III" would be the first win by a "three-quel" and would mean a best picture sweep by the mafioso series.

Two honorary Oscars will be awarded during the ceremonies, one to actress Myrna Loy ("The Thin Man"), and one to the legendary Sophia Loren. Last year's host Billy Crystal, returns as emcee this year, and Bob Hope will make this 27th appearance on the show.

A lawyer seeks to legitimize her father's crime syndicate in Lady Mobster, rebroadcasting Saturday on ABC. Susan Lucci co-stars with Michael Nader in the drama.

March 18-March 24

It was Saturday and we had just moved into our new offices and studio. Boxes were piled high and we had no phones. I was camped out to oversee the painting contractors for the day. Peeking around the corner were two sets of eager eyes with glowing grins on their faces. Meet the co-producers of the ncw monthly series. "The Cosmic Connection" Jill Turley and Fran McClellan. Jill is a counselor at Harrison High School and Fran is in promotion for 96.3 Radio. They have been friends and business partners for ycars. With all the television options in our area they decided to bccome reaquainted with us.

Preproducing their show with Joan Lillie of MetroVision, they decided to capitalize on Fran's natural, insightful characteristics and center their show around Metaphysics. Fran has been unusually aware of her capabilities since six years old and at the age of thirty-eight she felt confident enough to pursue learning more of this phenomena. She is a member of the Astrological Association and had training in California.

Jill is a natural organizer who understands production and she also has people skills and professional training which will help to create a very well-tuned team as a production crew.

The objective of 'The Cosmic Connection' will be to develop an awareness and an understanding of the 'Aquarian Age'. Guests will include local celebrities such as Michael J. Fox and they are also gathering their resources to bring on movie stars who come to Detroit. The show will encourage residents to be part of a studio audience and there will be a segment for live call-in questions. Evelyn Button, a teacher-lecturer will be cohost with Fran McClennan. Her expertise is in providing Astrological Predictions.

A very unusual feature is the introduction of the Tederington family. Mary and Todd Tederington have a three month old son Tory. The family is interested in the Astrological phenomena which surrounds their lives. An Astrological chart will be created for Tory. The show will feature Tory through home vidco clips and the shows followers may follow Tory's development.

The 'Cosmic Connection' program will have expenses. Preproduction for Community Television everywhere is a very creative process whereby resourceful people use new found treasures in their attics, cellars and garages; and search for funding to reimburse or funding to underwrite costs or services.

Grants for Community Television usually deal with the material expenses and usually do not allow for labor cost. Every show will have considerations for promotional items such as posters. flyers, newsletters or ads. Most print shops and even duplicating services have artists on staff to assist those of us whose artistic flare leans to a different medium.

Supplies and Materials can add up to include props, new sets. artifical plants, cue cards or costumes. Research materials may need to go beyond a library or a supplier and therefore have an expense.

Production Services such as having large 'special effect' props hauled: or expenses for talent such as appearance fees; lodging and food expenses if the talent is from out of state: graphics or artwork could be a subcontract and supply expense; special effects such as design cookies or artifical environment inducement such as a fog machine or a fan for a wind effect will have costs. Copyright approved music is usually subscribed to by a studio. One may select to secure the rights and pay the fees 'per needle drop' for a special musical score.

Grants may also cover miscellaneous expenses for such items as long distance telephone calls: mileage for budgeted out of town projects (necessary for B-roll): child care with documented studio or edit schedule; mass photocopying necessary for on-location distribution: or registration fees or entrance fees.

Once an organization has established a television grant program there is always a procedure necessary to ask for the funding. This may seem belabored however, this process is necessary to assure two things. One is that your follow-through will also indicate your serious intent and commitment to your television project. The second, is that money for such grants is a privilege and only those who genuinely need the funds should apply for them. This process will assure the serious producer that their competition for money is playing on a level field. Grant forms and contracts will ask for several levels of detailed information. The first form will have you detail your request for financial help. A

ABC goes to Cuba for Pan Am Games

By Steve Paschal Discerning fans of television sports received a double shot of good news recently when ABC Sports introduced a series of educational vignettes and announced that it had reached an agreement with the Cuban Government to broadcast the 1991 Pan Am Games from Havana.

For decades ABC has billed itself as the leader in television sports. Although the network faces stiff competition for Nielsen numbers from CBS and NBC, the moves prove ABC has renewed the commitment to excellence it first made with the ground-breaking Wide World of Sports almost three decades ago.

The vignettes, which debuted on Wide World of Sports Feb. 16, will run throughout the year. They cover a wide range of sports and show the relationship between sports, science and technology. include anticipated crew positions. A contract which recognizes the grantor and grantees expectations and responsibilities will be issued. An itemized budget and any necessary auxillary invoices will be insisted upon.

Organizations may have a deadline for submission and a reviewing committee. Submission is not an implied assurance that you will receive the grant. In Community Television the criteria is frequently focused around the intent to encourage diversity in public, educational and governmental community access programming via a cable network.

Along with the formal grant requests resident producers should enthusiastically remember the great opportunity their program is to local and small businesses. If a busines supplies your show with props, set materials, hairdressing, clothing, art supplies etc. without monetary compensation, then their name and general location may be listed in the credits of the show. If they are financially underwriting portions or the all of your program then a sponsorship message with their name recognized may also be listed in the closing credits or at a break.

All and all the experience of pursuing grants or underwriting of any kind for your show is an exhilarating opportunity. Everyone who begins developing an idea for a television show is full of adrenalin and joyous anticipation. Talking about the process of the show to be produced feeds the momentum and the drive to follow-through which burns up a tremendous amount of energy and time. Including others will help emphasize ones purpose as well as reinforce the assurance that your show will be the best it can be.

We congratulate Jill Turley and Fran McClellan on their new idea! We look forward to seeing your programs!
