City considers police, other layoffs

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

Nearly the entire Northville City police department lined the front rows at Monday's city council meeting, urging the city to find alternatives to the proposed layoff of two patrol officers.

The proposed layoffs are the city's first round of drastic cost-cutting measures in its attempt to cope with a state proposal to return no racetrack revenue money to cities with racetracks during the next fiscal year (see related stories). The move would cost the city $900,000.

The state proposal, described as "devastating" by City Manager Steven Walters, follows an expected $82,800 cut in this year's state-returned racetrack revenue.

The police department's two junior patrolmen, Kenneth Evans and John Shier, were given their 30-days notice last Wednesday, March 27. They elected under a union contract option to become dispatchers rather than be laid off, and current dispatchers Monica Allenbaugh and Lori Boisvert would be laid off April 28 in their stead.

The officers' salaries would be reduced from $36,192 to $23,046 by moving to the dispatching positions, a 36-percent pay cut.

Evans and Shier each have worked for the police department for about four years. Allenbaugh has been a Northville dispatcher for two and a half years, and Boisvert has been with the department almost a year.

The loss of two patrol officers will cut the department down to 13 full-time officers including the police chief and captain, and leave four clerk/dispatchers including the senior police clerk.

Police Chief Rod Cannon was uncertain what effect the layoffs would have on police services. "It's going to hamper some plans, for example vacations and training . . . Historically, in the summer months we load up on training because there isn't time during the racetrack season," he said.

"The overall impact we really won't know until we walk down that road a little while," he said.

The city administration's move follows an agreement by the police patrol union to extend the mileage allowed on patrol cars, to postpone a year the purchase of two new cars. The postponement, part of the city's recently passed budget reduction plan, will save the city $26,000 this year.

School board election nears

The deadline is nearing for people interested in one of two Northville school board positions.

Hopeful school board candidates must submit petitions of 20 signatures to the district's administrative offices, 501 W. Main St., by 4 p.m. Monday, April 8. Petitions are available in the business office.

Two school board positions are up for election June 10, when the terms of board President James Petrie and Secretary Robert McMahon expire.

Petrie will not seek re-election, but McMahon will run for another term on the board.

Northville resident Richard Brown also plans to run for the school board.

In addition to McMahon and Brown, two other candidates may be on the ballot. Two other petitions have been pulled, but the unknown potential candidates have chosen to remain a mystery.

A millage election also will be held on June 10. All of the district's 27.78 mills are expiring. The district currently levies 22.63 of the 27.78 mills for operating purposes.

Uneasy planners OK McDonald's latest site plan

By MIKE TYREE
Staff Writer

Township planning commissioners on Tuesday unanimously approved McDonald's Restaurants' preliminary site plan request to construct a fast-food restaurant near the Six Mile/Haggerty intersection.

Commissioners grudgingly okayed the plan. Neighboring residents grumbled at the decision.

And both parties felt force-fed by the chain that advertises the billions of hamburgers it has sold over the past three decades.

But McDonald's took advantage of a since-closed window in the township zoning ordinance to gain approval of a restaurant to be built on the south side of Six Mile just west of Standard Federal Bank.

A fast-food restaurant was an approved use under a Freeway Service zoning strategy embraced by the township in the mid-'80s.

The original idea was to buffer neighboring subdivisions from large office development, but the strategy backfired when residents and commissioners complained that McDonald's was not an appropriate gateway to the eastern portion of the township.

McDonald's first presented its site plan request Oct. 31. Wary over the threat of increased traffic at an already busy intersection, commissioners delayed approval since that date by demanding McDonald's conduct two extensive traffic studies.

The commission on Tuesday quibbled with portions of the most recent traffic study, but realized approval was inevitable.

"I'm not thrilled with having another McDonald's (the third in a three-mile strip near Haggerty), but I'm legally obligated to vote yes," Commissioner Richard Allen said.

Commissioners Pat Wright and Barbara O'Brien also chafed at approval, but agreed with Allen that McDonald's could not be kept out of the township.

Residents were not appeased.

County Club Village resident Ed Nazradi said 100 families in his subdivision were polled about the restaurant.

"Not one was in favor of McDonald's," he said.

Residents and commissioners continually pointed to traffic congestion at the intersection, but McDonald's attorney Joe Galvin soft-pedaled the restaurant's role in the busy corner.

"Tonight some issues have been raised," he said. "We will deal with those issues."

"The real, substantive issue is that we are not going to create a traffic problem."

Commissioner Karen Baja said McDonald's should not be singled out as the cause of Six Mile/Haggerty traffic woes.

"This one particular business . . . can't be held accountable for all the problems at that intersection," she said.

Site plan approval is contingent upon resolution of outstanding conditions outlined by township planning consultants.

BFI to clean tainted water supply

By MIKE TYREE
Staff Writer

A nondescript building slated for construction on Browning-Ferris Industries property in Northville Township will play a key role in a clean-up of the Arbor Hills East Landfill.

Township planning commissioners last week approved a final site plan for a 784-square-foot building that will house equipment for cleansing contaminated groundwater.

The pole barn-style building and cleanup equipment are mandated as part of consent agreements between BFI and Northville Township and the state Department of Natural Resources and former landfill owner Holloway Sand and Gravel Co.

BFI has been ordered to clean groundwater along its Napier Road property line contaminated during Holloway ownership. In addition to the landfill, west of Napier between Five Mile and Six Mile, BFI owns some land east of Napier where the company will build the treatment facility.

Under terms of a DNR permit issued to BFI, the company will excavate approximately 200,000 cubic yards of contaminated soil involving just under an acre of wetlands area. BFI will "install a wetland augmentation water distribution system consisting of one 6-inch diameter well, approximately 2,000 feet of water distribution line and six water distribution points," according to the permit.

A new 1.75-acre mitigation wetland must also be constructed, the DNR said.

BFI will pump shallow groundwater through a water purifying device called an ion exchange unit, said John Myers, assistant district manager at Arbor Hills Landfill.

Myers said the device is "identical to a large water softener." Purified water then will be discharged into a plastic-lined ditch and then into treatment pools on the south end of BFI property, he said.

The water eventually will flow into the Johnson Drain, he said. The Johnson Drain eventually flows into the Middle Rouge River.

Cleansing the contaminated water will not be an overnight project.

"We'll be here until the groundwater reaches a certain level of purity," Myers said. The process could take "two to three years," he said.

DNR monitoring of the landfill site has turned up contaminants in wells such as benzene, dichloroethane, dichloroethene, trichloroethene, toluene, methylene chloride and "several other organic compounds."

The DNR determined that potential sources of contamination included the landfill, a former feed-lot operation on landfill property, and road brine which had previously been applied to Napier Road.

According to the consent agreement between Northville Township and BFI, the "company agrees to provide a permanent, safe drinking water supply to any person whose well is impacted by this construction or by existing contamination . . ."

The township also reserved the right to conduct groundwater testing of the affected area throughout the clean-up process.

Calling the building a "temporary facility", the planning commission said the building must be removed within five years. BFI could come back for an extension, if necessary, planners said.

Forum called on group home move

This Highland Lakes house is proposed for a group home

By MIKE TYREE
Staff Writer

Northville Township residents will have the opportunity this evening to speak out on the proposed relocation of a local group home.

And township officials are expected to ready a plan to combat the potential move.

The state Department of Social Services is seeking to relocate a six-resident group home for the developmentally disabled to 19749 Scenic Harbour, in the Highland Lakes subdivision.

The state proposes the move based on a perceived need for improved facilities. The outgoing home is an aged farmhouse at 42777 Eight Mile Road with an assessed value of $34,510.

The new location is assessed at $64,990.

Township Supervisor Georgina Goss opposes the move. She said the township called the public hearing to gain an official record of public comments on the group home.

"The purpose is to allow residents to ask questions of the state, Wayne Community Living Services (and of state elected officials so the township has documentation of concerns," she said.

Goss said relocation to a pricier address—combined with state ownership over a large amount of township property—are adequate reasons for the township to dispute the move.

"Northville Township has a substantial amount of property already

Woman arrested for alleged ring theft in Northville

A 30-year-old Canton woman was arrested by city police March 21 for the alleged theft of a $2,700 diamond ring. Police tracked what they believed to be the stolen ring to a pawn shop in Ypsilanti. The arrest follows a two-month investigation into the theft of the ring from a South Ely Drive home.

The case began when the homeowner returned from a vacation Feb. 1 and found his .8 carat square-cut diamond and gold ring missing. The man told police that he had left his home unlocked when he went on vacation Nov. 29, to allow a Livonia cleaning company to enter the house that day. A company manager confirmed that the company had cleaned the home, but told police the female employee who did the cleaning had been fired the next day following complaints from other customers about alleged thefts.

Police computer checks of precious metal sales revealed that the woman had sold 14 items of jewelry recently, including a ring resembling the one stolen. A city police officer interviewed the owner of the Ypsilanti pawn shop that bought the ring for $250 Nov. 29, who said the woman was a frequent customer and confirmed that the ring she sold to the shop resembled the one stolen. But by that time the shop owner had sold the ring.

The woman was interviewed several times by city police, but did not admit to the theft. She was arraigned in 35th District Court on March 21, and pleaded not guilty to a felony charge of larceny from a building, a charge punishable by up to four years in prison and/or a $2,000 fine. She was released on $1,000 personal bond and will be arraigned in Oakland County Circuit Court April 11.

SLEEPING SUSPECT FOUND IN CHURCH: An 18-year-old Howell man was found asleep on a couch at First Presbyterian Church, 200 E. Main St., and charged with unlawful entry March 31. A church pastor found the man at 6:25 that morning and notified city police.

Police noticed signs of a break-in at the church, finding a door window broken in the pastor's office, a desk drawer open and keys missing from the drawer, and a flashlight. The man told police he entered an unlocked door on the west side of the church because he needed a place to sleep. A police officer noticed a small cut on the man's wrist, and the man said he got it while cooking. The man later admitted entering the church with another man to make some phone calls, but continued to deny breaking into the church.

He was arraigned at 35th District Court April 1, and a pretrial date was set for May 10.

FORGERY ARREST: A 17-year-old Novi girl was arrested by city police March 27 for impersonating another person to cash a $296 check made out to the other person.

The girl had tried to pass herself off as the person named on the check at Hamlet Food Mart, 1051 Novi Road, that day. A store employee became suspicious when he noticed the picture on the driver's license the girl presented with the check did not resemble the girl. He called city police, who arrested the girl. She told police that she had got the check and license from another girl, in exchange for a gold chain.

The subsequent police investigation revealed that the check had been drawn on an account closed since June, 1988. The girl turned herself in for arraignment at 35th District Court March 27, and pleaded not guilty to a charge of uttering and publishing a false check and a charge of acting under false pretenses. The first charge, a felony, is punishable by up to 14 years in prison.

The girl was released on $1,000 personal bond. A preliminary examination was set for April 12.

DRIVER BERTED, CAR SCRATCHED: A female driver who parked in a "No Parking" zone near a Northville Downs barn March 30 at 10:30 p.m. told city police a race-track employee harassed her and prevented her from leaving. She said the employee, a 32-year-old Northville man, parked a water truck 1-2 inches from her car and blocked the car from leaving with a pickup truck, yelled obscenities at her and wrote an obscenity on her car window.

The woman said she had to call the racing commission before the employee would move the pickup truck and let her leave. When she returned to her car, she said, the driver's side had been scraped. The man admitted harassing the woman but denied scraping the car.

CAR KEYS: A car parked outside a 335 N. Center St. business was scratched from bumper to bumper and its fuel filler door was broken sometime between 6 p.m. March 15 and 10 a.m. March 16. Damage was estimated at $500. The owner said he delayed reporting the incident to city police because he thought he could rub the scratch out himself.

BICYCLE STOLEN FROM HARDEE'S: A $50 bike was reported stolen from Hardee's, 401 N. Center St., sometime between 3:20-3:30 p.m. March 31. The specialized boy's mountain bike was described as black and maroon, with a silver fork and scratched paint. A blue combination chain was on the bike.

HUBCAPS STOLEN: Hubcaps were reported stolen off a 1988 Chrysler LeBaron parked in a Reed Court driveway. The theft reportedly occurred sometime between 3-6:30 a.m. March 31.

LARCENY: A 20-year-old Highland Park man was arrested and charged with larceny March 29 after he attempted to steal a pair of tennis shoes from Meijer, 20401 Haggerty, township police said.

A computer check also revealed that the man was wanted by the Isabella County Sheriff's Department on a felony warrant for fraud, police said.

RADIO STOLEN: A Northridge Drive resident told township police someone smashed the driver's side window of his 1990 Ford Bronco and stole a two-way radio.

GIRL STEALS MOTHER'S CAR: A Plymouth woman told township police her 14-year-old daughter took her 1985 Mercury from her Provincetown residence without her permission.

The daughter told police she was "driving around for fun." The vehicle was not damaged and the mother chose not to press charges against the girl.

DNR to review developer's erosion repair plan

By MIKE TYREE
Staff Writer

Injunctive relief. Declarative process. Temporary remediation.

A band-aid approach.

From bureaucratic terminology to home-spun phraseology, state, local, and development officials have sought since December to define a wide-scale erosion problem that has haunted a Northville Township development and adjacent property owners.

Actions may soon — finally — take precedence over words.

Representatives of D & T Construction this week were scheduled to submit a plan to the state Department of Natural Resources to repair erosion damage on the former Thomson Sand and Gravel site and neighboring property owned by township resident James Malecki.

DNR acceptance of the plan could pave the way for re-storage of Malecki's property, damaged when a rain storm helped wash away a culvert on the gravel pit site.

The culvert had been placed on the proposed 400-acre Shores of Northville development to reroute Sump Drain, a creek diverted last summer by the developer's agent, D & T Construction.

Heavy December rains prompted a washout on the development site and resulted in upstream erosion which claimed more than 20 adult trees, numerous shrubs and bushes and tons of topsoil from the Malecki property.

The DNR currently is prosecuting D & T Construction and Shores of Northville general partner Vincent DiLorenzo for violation of the state Inland Lakes and Streams Act. A pretrial hearing is set for April 12 in Plymouth's 35th District Court.

A possible breakthrough in the Sump Drain repair saga occurred March 18, when DiLorenzo met with township officials, engineers, and state DNR representatives at township hall.

An agreement reportedly was hammered out which would end a DNR-instigated cease-and-desist order and allow D & T to return to work on the site — if the DNR approved the repair plan.

D & T Construction will prepare and submit plans to the DNR which provide for temporary relief of the conditions which exist on the property of Mr. James Malecki, located to the north of the site, as well as relief of increased lake levels occurring on the site," said David Pingel, of the DNR's Land and Water Management Division in Pontiac.

Township engineering consultant Donald Weaver, of the firm Ayres, Lewis, Norris & May, said he expected to receive a copy of the DiLorenzo repair plan this week.

The plan was intended, first and foremost, to repair the Malecki property, Weaver said.

Weaver said the DNR expects DiLorenzo to construct a clay-lined ditch through the Malecki property along with a "closed conduit to let the flow into their property."

A culvert-type apparatus will transport water to a newly created ditch on the Shores of Northville site, he said. The water will be routed away from Shores site lakes, some of which have witnessed dramatic water level increases and may eventually threaten the Blue Heron Pointe development to the east.

"The bottom line is it will bypass water out of where it's going now," Weaver said.

Cost of the repair project is not known. DiLorenzo did not return a reporter's calls by press time Tuesday.

Also up in the air is the actual date that repairs will begin. Weaver said the DNR still has to approve D & T's plan, but he "fully expects this month" that activity will occur.

The main goal is to get the repair project moving, Weaver said.

"Obviously, we want it to be expeditiously attended to," he said.

Township readies backup plan for eroded sites

By MIKE TYREE
Staff Writer

Township officials are preparing a contingency strategy if a developer's plan to repair erosion-damaged property is not deemed DNR-friendly.

If developer Vincent DiLorenzo's plan to repair Sump Drain, the Shores of Northville site and James Malecki's property is rejected by the state Department of Natural Resources, the township is in the position to gain a permit to do the repair work itself, a township engineer said this week.

"Our plan is consistent with what the DNR wants," said Donald Weaver of Ayres, Lewis, Norris & May, the township's engineering consultant.

"We're pretty confident that it would immediately be acceptable."

Weaver said the township prefers the task of repair and restoration be left to DiLorenzo and hopes a March 18 meeting spawned a resolution to a five-month-old problem.

"I think everybody's ready to cooperate," he said.

But the controversial background of the Shores of Northville project caused township officials to scramble for legal levers to ensure site repair.

Supervisor Georgina Goss last month called for instigation of a "declarative process" which would allow the township to petition circuit court for release of a $523,000 escrow account to repair affected properties.

Goss said Tuesday that it was too early to tell if the emergency declarative process was necessary.

"We can't very well set a deadline for DiLorenzo or the township to begin repairs) until the DNR has an approved plan in hand," Goss said. "The key to the whole situation is a DNR-approved plan."

TIPS FROM TUCKKLAPER Novi Dental Center A. Allen Tuckklaper D.D.S.

MORE THAN ONE TREATMENT PLAN

It's truth time. Your teeth have been x-rayed and examined. Now your dentist explains in detail what, if any problems exist and how he intends to proceed. It is called the treatment plan. There are usually several ways to reach the desired results, therefore many dentists will prepare two or more treatment plans. Dental needs and financial resources can vary from patient to patient. The patient will then decide which plan he desires.

For example, a few missing teeth can be replaced with either a fixed bridge or a removable partial denture. The fixed bridge, due to the time involved and laboratory expense, will cost more, however, it does have the advantage of being fixed in place. Many individuals can't afford a fixed bridge so they may opt for the less expensive alternative plan of a removable partial denture.

Within reason, the patient should know exactly what is going to be done, how long it will take, the cost, the alternatives, and the chances of further treatment of the future.

Police cuts may be tip of iceberg

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

The proposed layoff of two police officers may be just the first step to slash the city's budget in response to anticipated loss of state-returned racetrack revenue, said City Manager Steven Walters.

He said other steps — including layoffs in other city departments — will soon follow if a state proposal to stop returning racetrack revenue is approved.

"That's just a start," he said. "If they actually cut all the racetrack revenues, we'd be talking something way more severe than this. If they only cut it 10 percent, then this should take care of it."

Other departments that may face layoffs are the city's department of public works and clerical staff.

"If the indications from the state in the next two or three weeks continue to be as negative as they are currently, then I would expect to give preliminary layoff notices to two DPW employees and one clerical employee as well," Walters wrote in an April 1 memo to the council.

"The department heads are trying their best to control costs for the remainder of fiscal 1990-91, and we have postponed some budgeted capital outlay items until we know more about our financial fate. There will be other non-staff cost reductions which the council will need to consider for the 1991-92 budget, but decisions about capital expenditures do not involve the lead-time that is required for staff reductions," he wrote.

If racetrack revenues are eliminated, Walters said, "We're going to have to make some hard decisions on what items get funded and what items get postponed."

"If you got to the point where the police department could no longer provide an adequate level of service, you might have to look at contracting with the township to provide police services. We might have to be looking at billing for refuse collection for the first time . . . Raising taxes obviously is another approach."

To cover the lost revenue through taxes alone, Walters said, the city would have to raise the millage rate more than 5 mills. "It'd be a 50-percent increase in taxes basically to provide essentially the same services," he said.

Layoffs cause city police shuffle

cluded another $15,000 in savings from the replacement of a senior officer by a new patrolman. Lance Leighton, a part-time officer, had been hired full-time after Officer Hugh Jordan was terminated Jan. 8. Leighton was laid off last Sunday, having been hired originally with the understanding that he would be let go when the racetrack season ended March 30.

Now Jordan's position will not be refilled.

The two most recent layoffs are expected to trim about $100,000 a year in salary, benefits and other expenses from the city budget, though the savings will not be realized until the next fiscal year due to the 13 weeks of unemployment compensation payments required when an employee is laid off.

City Manager Steven Walters said the layoff notices were sent to give the city the option of laying off the officers, but added that the notices may be rescinded if the proposed state cuts do not take effect.

"This is strictly on the basis of anticipated cost reductions being required, having nothing to do, of course, with their (the officers) performance," he said. "In the best case they (the layoffs) could be rescinded or postponed . . . We could conceivably be calling some officers back this summer or even rescinding this if we get some sort of (financial) commitment from the state."

The close of the racetrack season March 30 made the layoffs more practical, he said. "Because we provide the kind of service we do to the track, we're essentially overstuffed in the summer," he said. "To the citizen, the impression would be that nothing had happened."

"When we get into the fall, that will be a serious problem, if we're still being required to provide the service to the racetrack."

Council Member Jerry Mittman asked why the city administration had not explored other potential reductions first, like limiting overtime and postponing capital expenditures.

"One of the things that bothers me is that we're starting to lay off without looking at all the alternatives," Mittman said. "I haven't seen anything concrete in terms of action, and the first thing I'm seeing is two people being laid off . . . Generally, you talk about laying off as a last resort."

Walters pointed out that postponing capital expenditures only postponed the cost to the city, and said the council can explore other cost-cutting measures during the ongoing budget review process.

Mittman asked Walters to present the council with a list of other options and alternatives at its April 15 budget study session. Council Member Carolann Ayers suggested seeking resident input on what services are most essential, so the council would know what services to cut if the state cuts go through. "That's what it comes down to, basically, reductions in some services," she said.

The council left the layoff notices in place despite a suggestion by member Dewey Gardner to postpone them until the city received more information from the state. "I don't think I want to stop the process," said Mayor Chris Johnson.

The police officers at Monday's meeting expressed their willingness to work with the council to avoid laying off officers.

Officer William Edgar, president of the patrol officer's union, suggested that the council ask whether the state would be amenable to direct billing for police services at the racetrack. He also asked whether Northville Downs would be willing to co-finance the necessary police services at the track.

Det. Sgt. David Fendele, president of the command officers' union, proposed a quicker pursuit of joint city/township police services. "If consolidating occurs quicker, and there's a savings, we could save city police jobs and maybe other city employee jobs as well," he said.

Mill Race Matters

On Saturday, April 6, Northville Historical Society Board members will spend the morning formulating the Long Range Plan which will be used to project the organization and Mill Race Village into the next decade.

The workshop is the culmination of this year's work by the board, which included a survey sent to all society members and many local businesses and organizations. The results of that survey and the board's own self-study will be used to develop the plan for future programs and growth.

Other upcoming events include the Progressive Dinner on April 20. Contact 348-1845 for reservations. May begins a busy schedule which includes Mill Race Village cleanup day on Saturday, May 11, from 9 a.m. to noon, the annual meeting on Thursday, May 16, and the resumption of summer village hours. Members will receive a letter soon discussing all May events. If you are not a member and would like more information on how to become involved call 348-1845 Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays between 9 a.m. and 1 p.m.

Budget cuts unprecedented, Walters says

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

Though state-returned racetrack revenues are a frequent target for legislators attempting to trim the state budget, City Manager Steven Walters said recent attacks on the revenue source are like nothing he's ever seen.

"In the 17 years I've been here, I have never seen the state propose nothing, and I have never seen the department proposals include other than the normal allocation," he said. "The cuts that have been made were made during the year as a response to other budgetary problems, not as a budget item."

The city is already facing an anticipated 9.2-percent cut in this year's state-returned racetrack revenues, and the Department of Agriculture's proposed 1991-1992 budget includes no state-returned racetrack revenue funds at all. The complete loss of racetrack revenues would cost the city $900,000 next year, on top of the projected $82,800 loss in this year's revenues.

Also, the state has failed to make normal payments of this year's racetrack revenue to the city since November, Walters said. The city had only received $242,000 of the $900,000 it is slated to receive under state tute for police and other services already provided to Northville Downs, according to Finance Director Beverly Morrison.

Michigan's racetracks generate an estimated $20 million in revenue for the state each year.

A percentage of state racetrack revenues has been returned to racetrack cities each year for the past 34 years, and the money has been used to cover police, fire and related racetrack expenses. The 1980 State Racing Statute spelled out the percentage of revenue that would be returned to cities, and limited the total amount to $800,000. Though the state has held back some of the funds statutorily promised to the city in the past, the city has received about $800,000 for the past several years.

This year, the city has seen several frontal assaults on its racetrack revenue source. A January executive order by Governor John Engler — part of which would have eliminated the revenue from the remainder of the 1990 budget altogether — was apparently replaced by the less-severe 9.2-percent cut, though the city is still waiting for most of this year's payments.

City officials thought they had made clear to legislators the need for the returned racetrack revenue when Engler's executive order was rejected, but the recent agriculture department proposal has sent them searching for new ways to get the point across.

"That message, it's sad to say, needs to be redelivered to the state by the affected cities, which I think is a sad commentary on the state's own understanding of this revenue-generator," Walters said. "They're still looking at it like a grant, rather than looking at it like an operating cost for generating revenue for the state."

Mayor Chris Johnson agreed. "We look at what we do at the track as a service to the state to protect its golden egg . . . Nobody's going to come to an unsafe track," he said.

Walters and Johnson told the rest of the city council at Monday's meeting that they plan to deliver the message to the agriculture department themselves, at public hearings before the agriculture subcommittee in Lansing April 9 and April 16.

"We don't have any indication yet which way the state's going to go, or even an inclination . . . I guess I'll have as many questions for the Legislature as testimony," Johnson said.

One of Johnson's questions likely will be how the state plans to provide security at racetracks if it does not pay cities to provide the service themselves.

If the racetrack revenue is removed, Johnson said the next step may be to sue the state. "I'm not sure we're to that point yet, but it may make sense somewhere down the road to consider legal action," he said. Other council members quickly agreed.

Progressive reservations still taken

Open registration is still under way for the Northville Historical Society's 1991 Progressive Dinner, scheduled for Saturday, April 20.

Call Laurie Marrs, 349-7640, or the Northville Historical Society office, 348-1845, for reservations. Tickets are $40 for couple for NHS members; $45 for non-members; plus an assigned dish for the dinner. All checks should be payable to the Northville Historical Society and sent to Mary Jane Cryderman, 206 W. Dunlap St., Northville, MI 48167. Reservations will be confirmed by the receipt of your check.

The evening starts with cocktails at Mill Race Historical Village (Yerkes House, New School Church, School House or Cady Inn) from 7-8 p.m. Dinner follows at various Northville homes from 8:30-10:15 p.m.; then dessert at one of four Northville homes from 10:30-11:30 p.m.

The springtime Michigan dinner includes wild mushroom en croute, brie and Canadian bacon with pear chutney, spring vegetables with three vinaigrettes, peppered beef tenderloin canape; then grilled Amish chicken breast and shrimp with tarragon cream, asparagus pointes au beurre, maple-glazed sweet potato, mixed greens dressed with Michigan dried tart cherry vinaigrette, herbed breads, and vintage wines.

Parents hold meeting on Michigan Model

By SUZANNE HOLLYER
Staff Writer

Parents Concerned with the Improvement of the Michigan Model will hold a public meeting April 15 to discuss their complaints and share their research about the district's health model.

The Michigan Model for Comprehensive Health Education is a series of lesson plans used to fill a state requirement that school districts have a health curriculum.

At the request of Superintendent George Bell, the group of parents presented the school board with 227 specific objections to Michigan Model activities.

A district health committee is expected to respond to the complaints at an April 22 school board meeting. That meeting will be held at Moraine Elementary School at 7:30 p.m.

But interested community members may meet with the parent group to hear background information on the 227 items before the health committee responds.

The parent group will meet on April 15 from 7-9 p.m. at Orchard Hills Baptist Church on Novi Road between Nine Mile and Ten Mile roads. The meeting is intended to provide information to concerned parents and is "not a place for public debate," spokesperson R. Kraft Bell.

The parents have made their complaints based on an alleged anti-family bias in the model. They also say the model teaches responsible sex and use of illegal substances.

The parents have compiled a book titled "Improvement of the Michigan Model in Northville Public Schools."

The book, available at the meeting, explains the medical, legal, and moral objections of the group to the Michigan Model. Board of Education members have also been mailed a copy of the book, Kraft Bell said.

"People can read it and reach their own conclusion," he said.

Of their 227 complaints, 152 are based on a perceived anti-family bias.

An additional 75 complaints are based on the idea that the model teaches responsible use of illegal substances and sex as opposed to abstinence.

Model advocates have said the health model does encourage abstinence, but the parent group said the model "pays scant lip service to abstinence, mentioning it as an alternative with the emphasis being the responsible usage of sex and illegal substances" in a press release.

Additional complaints with specific model activities could be released soon. Kraft Bell said he has found at least 30 model exercises that he finds unacceptable in addition to the 227 problems originally presented to the board.

The parent group also plans to visit the state capital on April 18 to discuss their concerns with some state lawmakers, Bell said.

Line item school vote sought

By SUZANNE HOLLYER
Staff Writer

Northville voters will have the chance to approve specific school budget expenditures and reject others if Citizens for a Better Northville has its way.

The group will ask Northville school Superintendent George Bell to allow the community to choose specific budget items they want approved, said CBN School Coordinator Jeff Hampton.

Hampton expects Bell to receive a letter outlining the plan sometime this week.

For example, voters could decide if they would like to continue spending or increase spending on athletics. Voters also could cut funding on teacher compensation or administrative costs.

Voters would not have to choose whether or not to accept or reject an entire millage proposal under the plan.

"Our overall goal is to provide the citizens of Northville a little bit of idea about how their money is being spent," Hampton said.

If voters decided to eliminate a program or department budget, then the school board could ask voters to approve a lower, higher or similar funding plan. The board also could stick with the voters' decision.

If Bell rejects the proposal, members of Citizens for a Better Northville hope to bring the plan to the voters in the form of a ballot initiative.

The group will ask Bell for the necessary petition language, the number of signatures needed, and deadline dates they must meet to have the issue on the June 10 millage election.

The specific budgetary items CBN wants voters to approve or reject are athletics; counseling; social work, special education and gifted programs; administrative costs; transportation; operations and maintenance; teacher compensation; curriculum development; and miscellaneous operating expenses.

Programs required by state law, like special education, cannot be completely removed from the district budget, but Hampton said the amount of money spent on such programs could be reduced.

"Even though they're required, the amount of money is, to a great deal, discretionary," he said. Hampton expects school officials to find value in the proposal.

Township to debate group home site

under state control," she said. "I believe that the township authority has been usurped by the state on a number of occasions and we're reviewing the application thoroughly to see if legal recourse is possible."

Goss said it would be more "fiscally responsible" for the state to pay for repairs at the Eight Mile location than to "pay for a larger facility."

Goss would not comment on a potential township legal strategy, but a challenge may be based on factors including health, safety and welfare of group home and neighboring residents.

A group of Highland Lakes residents has voiced concerns about "serious and unusual danger to the proposed residents of this facility."

In a letter to Barbara Stevens, of the Adult Foster Care Division of Wayne County Living Services, the residents say lack of protective barriers to three subdivision lakes and accompanying factors could pose "inherent, grave and unusual danger to the physical safety of those mentally handicapped people . . ."

Safety of subdivision residents is also a pertinent question, Goss said.

"Highland Lakes is already subjected to walkways (from Northville Regional Psychiatric Hospital)," she said. Asked if she believed group home residents to be comparable to hospital patients, Goss said: "Yes, I do."

There are those who would not agree.

Denise Mogos, director of public affairs at Wayne Community Living Services, said distinct differences exist between group home residents and hospital patients.

"The state hospital serves those with mental illnesses," she said. "Mental illness is more of a thought disorder."

Mogos said group home residents are developmentally disabled and "are slower to learn and apply that knowledge."

Residents of the group home may be afflicted with mental retardation, cerebral palsy, epilepsy or autism, Mogos said.

Township police Chief Chip Snider downplayed comparisons between group home residents and hospital patients.

"(It's) a whole different ballgame," he said.

Goss said she was not opposed to group homes in principle.

"The township has a number of group homes and I applaud the work and concept," she said. "As far as the location on Eight Mile, it would seem to me with the current state budget (problems), it really should be viewed with more fiscal responsibility."

Tonight's public hearing is set for 7:30 p.m. at Northville Township Hall, 41600 Six Mile.

State's shenanigans lead to layoff threats

To the state, it may be a simple matter of a few rearranged numbers in a department budget proposal and a few million more dollars for another use.

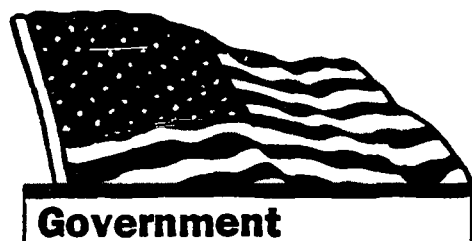

To the City of Northville, the state Department of Agriculture's proposal to return no racetrack revenue to cities with racetracks in the 1991-91 fiscal year is nothing less than a financial nightmare. And the nightmare may be coming true.

City officials have already begun planning ahead for the potential loss of $900,000 in state-returned racetrack revenue next year, even as they cope with the state's apparent 9.2-percent cut in this year's racetrack revenue and wonder why the state is months behind on payments of the rest of this year's money.

Two police officers have received layoff notices already and two DPW workers and a clerical worker are next in line for pink slips. The purchase of a DPW dumptruck, stake truck and pickup truck have been postponed, the mileage allowed on patrol cars has been extended to extend their usable life, and most city departments have faced across-the-board cuts as part of a January budget reduction plan.

To city officials, the state's proposal is a short-sighted — in fact, stone-blind — attempt to trim the budget without reviewing the results of its actions. How will the city provide Northville Downs with the police and fire services it is required to provide under state statutes, they ask. And if the services are not provided, what will happen to the crime rate at the racetrack and surrounding neighborhoods? And if the crime rate goes up and attendance goes down, what will happen to the state's $20 million in annual racetrack revenue?

And why are the funds being cut at all, they ask, when the same state statutes that require the services be provided by the city require the state to return a certain percentage of the revenue to the city in the first place?

State officials have no reply, other than to refer to the state-returned racetrack revenue as a "grant" or "aid," inferring that the money has been a gift graciously given to racetrack cities in the past rather than a payment for services rendered.

Mayor Chris Johnson and City Manager Steven Walters plan to travel to Lansing themselves next week, seeking answers to their questions.

The two plan to sit in on Senate and House appropriations subcommittee meetings April 9 and 16. There, they'll hear Representatives Dick Allen, Robert Bender, Charlie Harrison Jr., Carolyn C. Kilpatrick, Wilfred Webb and Joseph Young Sr., and Senators Harry Gast, George McManus and Lana Pollack, debate the proposed Agriculture Department budget and with it the fate of two city police officers and who knows how many other city employees and services. Northville's two representatives are sure to have a word or two for the legislators on the proposal. City residents are welcome to join them.

For now, the city holds its breath and waits for the state to drop the other shoe, squarely on the heads of city services and taxpayers. If the shoe drops, the current cutbacks will seem mild in comparison to what will be needed to offset the nearly $1 million revenue loss.

Don't blame district

A state law went into effect last week requiring that unemancipated minors have one parent or guardian's permission before obtaining a legal abortion. The Parental Rights Restoration Act is a controversial law, and we are not taking a position on it. But the controversy extends beyond the issue of whether a parent should have to give his or her permission before a minor can obtain a legal abortion.

The last section of the new law intensifies the controversy. Section nine requires schools be used to convey information regarding the law to students in grades six through twelve. The information schools must give students includes information on how to get around the parental consent requirement.

With the permission of a probate court judge, minors may get an abortion without parental consent or notification. Under section nine, schools must tell sixth- through twelfth-grade students how the system works. The schools will even be giving the phone number and address of the local probate court to students.

Needless to say, some parents do not want their children knowing how to get an abortion without their permission.

The issue is going to create tension. Because the schools have been chosen as the instrument by which the state will disseminate information, the tension is going to be between parents and school officials. The conflict, if it must exist, ought to be between parents and the state.

Tensions are already developing between schools and some parents, but it is misdirected. The schools did not vote on this law. They had no special say in it. And they cannot avoid working within the confines of the law. Northville Public Schools has shown a willingness to work with parents in preparing them for the information their children will begin receiving in the sixth grade. The district should be commended for its attempts at making a potentially shocking announcement easier for both parents and students.

Section nine is intended to inform minors of their rights under the law, nothing more. Some of our lawmakers decided that minors should have the information as soon as the sixth grade. Maybe you agree. If you don't, however, the state is to blame for this, not your school. Write your legislator, call the state Department of Education. Blaming the schools is misdirected anger.

After three weeks in 'No-ville'

What I've learned in three weeks of living in 'No-ville.'

● My fantasies about walking to work, mentioned in this space a couple of weeks ago, remain just that: fantasy. My first week in town, I walked to work twice. Both times I ended up walking back home at lunch to pick up my car to use for assignments or errands that came up.

I haven't hoofed it again since.

The errands I can attribute to the fact that I'm still not settled into my home completely, and frequently have to go to the bank (the closest branch of mine is in Livonia) or the store after work.

As for the assignments that crop up, well, it's going to take some better planning on my part before I can give the Dodge a rest.

● My apartment complex, Woodland Glen, has some pretty healthy speed bumps, but they're still not the worst around. That honor goes to the old South Lyon High School. In four-plus years as a sports reporter and editor, I tore up front ends and shook loose the mufflers on three cars covering games at South Lyon.

● Speaking of speed bumps, those brick crosswalks in downtown Northville do a pretty fair job of rattling my molars as well. They've got to be a good inch or two below grade level. I've found a way to beat 'em, though. If you hit the crosswalks a foot or two off-center, the difference in the grade levels is somewhat less. It's smooth sailing from there.

● If you're shopping at Meijer, don't get in the checkout line until you're sure you remembered to get the paper towels. I got in line, realized I forgot the paper towels and ran back to get some. The store is so darned big (and the towels are so far in the back) that by the time I got back in line, the freshness date on my milk had expired.

● I've been on a health-food kick for a little over a year now, and I'm used to eating stuff like tofu, alfalfa sprouts and tempeh. I used to shop for such eccentric goodies at a couple of different stores in Ann Arbor — Seva, Arbor Farms, People's Food Co-op. Now I'm at a loss as to where to get all my weird food.

I saw a place on Eight Mile in Farmington Hills that might be the ticket, though I haven't dropped in yet. Is there a health-food store in Northville or Novi that I've just overlooked? Can someone tell me? I'm starting to run low on tempeh.

Elections look disappointing

Election time is coming up, and I've been looking forward to covering the campaign for school board. I covered a county commission election during my first months at this newspaper, and much to my surprise that turned out to be a pretty heated race. In districts with as much parental involvement as Northville and Novi, I expected a few sparks would fly during the school campaigning. But it looks like I'm going to be disappointed.

With just a few days left to file ballot petitions, only two candidates have declared their intentions of running in both districts. In Northville, two additional people have requested petitions. Because no one has announced their candidacy yet, it's starting to look like those two decided against running. In Novi, only the two incumbents have requested petitions. That leaves us with two candidates vying for two positions. So much for choice. It could be a boring election.

I expected parents to fight for a chance to be involved in planning for the schools their children attend. The attendance at athletic events and school plays is proof that parents are involved in Northville and Novi. So, what's the problem? Why doesn't anyone want to be on the school board? It can't be that everyone in Novi is busy on Thursday nights and everyone in Northville is busy on Monday nights.

One woman offered the theory that too many people are worried that the state is taking away local control of the schools. No one wants to be on a school board if the board is going to lose its power to do anything to improve schools locally when the state messes them up. And if the state does do something to hurt the condition of the schools locally, it will be the local school board that takes the rap.

Or maybe it's the apathy that everyone loves to talk about rearing its ugly head. No one wants to get involved because no one cares. Disillusioned Americans living right here in Northville and Novi. No, it can't be.

I have my own theory. People think students in Northville and Novi are doing well enough. Why should they worry? Why get involved? Test scores show Northville and Novi students are way up at the top. But it seems that people keep forgetting that the best students in Northville and Novi still test below the students in every other industrialized country in the world. We're at the bottom of the barrel globally even if we are the cream of the crop nationally.

Maybe my motives are a little selfish. I want to cover an exciting election. But I really want people, especially parents, to take an honest look at why they are not running for the school board this June. And if it's because they think the schools are good enough, then maybe they should think again.

Testing is not the best answer

Editor's Note: This letter is in response to one addressed to State Sen. R. Robert Geake which appeared recently on this page.

Dear Mr. John Swienkowski: Thank you for your recent letter asking me to clarify my views opposing competency testing for high school students as a condition for receiving a diploma. I certainly agree with you that graduating high school students should be able to read, write and figure competently. As you have noted, many graduate with deficiencies in one or more of these skills.

My thesis is that even students who are deficient in these skills, either due to a low IQ or specific learning disabilities, still have something to gain in terms of readiness for the real world of jobs and self-support if they do not drop out (or feel pushed out) of high school. For example, the student with a very high performance IQ but low verbal skills (the kind emphasized on scholastic achievement tests) could do well if he stayed in school through his junior and senior year even if he majored mostly in auto mechanics and computer graphics. Just as importantly, society would be the better off for his skills in these areas, skills which he might never achieve if he dropped out because he knew that he would never be able to pass the graduation tests in all academic subjects.

Several years ago, I had a personal experience that I would like to share with you. One of the trouble lights kept coming on in my car, and even though the car was running fine, I decided I had better take it to the dealer's shop to be fixed. A state licensed auto mechanic (he passed all the tests) kept me coming back week after week while he replaced the distributor, the timer, the alternator, and Lord knows what else to the tune of several hundred dollars (labor plus new parts), but that darn light kept on warning me that my engine or its electrical system was seriously malfunctioning.

Finally, in exasperation, I stopped at Phil's Pure station on Main Street and asked the kid who was working there what he thought might be wrong. He reached under the dashboard, pulled out a blown fuse, and replaced it with a new one (25 cents, five minutes). This solved the problem. I was so impressed that I got the kid's name, and when I got home, I told the story to my son who at that time was a senior in high school. He was amazed, for the kid I named was well known to students and staff at Northville High School as a total failure who was about to drop out and had no future.

Legal compliance violates rights of the parents

To the editor:
After reading the article of March 28 on the schools' position on the parental consent law, I was totally confused. Which part of "the law" is Superintendent George Bell talking about complying with? The legislation prohibiting minors from seeking an abortion without parental consent, or the contradicting measure under Section 9: "How to get around the law."

Three easy steps to getting around what your parents might think, and a form, for putting such decisions in the hands of the state.

And for six consecutive years, bombarding our young people with how to bypass a law initiated with the intent to protect them. What I'd like to know is how apathetic can our school board get to such a manipulation of the parental consent law, by implementing only its contradictory element. George Bell states that "Northville schools will comply with the law," (which I may remind you is called The Parental Rights Restoration Act) "even if local parents do not want their children to have the information necessary to obtain an abortion without parental consent."

Then to top it off he states, "You can't select what laws you want to obey." Well I thought the gist of the law was intended to encourage minors to talk to their parents, while the only action the school is taking is assisting children on how to waive the law. Again George Bell leans on the hope that our apathy in accepting such mocking manipulations of our laws will cause controversy to pass; "Once it's done one year it won't be a problem."

Parents, are we all truly too busy to be investigative or at least inquisitive to what the state and the school boards are collaborating on concerning our children's education?

Many thanks to selfless volunteers at nursing home

To the editor:

April 1991 had been designated as National Volunteer Month so that we might recognize the valuable contributions made by our nation's volunteer force. Our country has prospered and flourished with the help of these committed people.

At Star Manor Nursing Home, our volunteers really make a difference. These caring individuals spend their precious, personal time improving the quality of life for our elderly residents. Since time is indeed a valuable commodity in our society, the residents, families and staff of Star Manor would like to take this opportunity to thank our volunteers for sharing their time and talents with us.

So, to all the schools, churches, musicians, magicians, the garden club, ladies, men and children: THANK YOU!

Ignoring anger causes problems

Many of the adolescents that I have interviewed in the last year have a common problem — they are angry! They are angry at their parents, siblings, school and society in general. It is important for adolescents to learn that anger is a perfectly normal emotion that we all feel from time to time. But failing to recognize and understand anger can lead to serious problems such as:

- Health Problems — These may include high blood pressure, heart problems, headaches, stomach problems, skin disorders, constipation, diarrhea and obesity.
- Tension — Some experts believe that repressing anger (holding it in because you don't know you're angry) is a primary cause of anxiety.
- Accidents — Repressed anger can make a person more likely to have accidents.
- Interpersonal Problems — Anger that's not expressed can disrupt relationships, especially if the angry person becomes hostile, sarcastic, critical, etc.

It is also important that adolescents learn how to manage their anger. Help them RECOGNIZE the anger and admit it. Commonly the adolescent feels ashamed or guilty about it. IDENTIFY the cause. For example, a teenager may be hostile toward their parents when they are really angry at a teacher for not giving them a fair grade on a test. And DECIDE what to do and follow through. Decide which options will resolve the problem or situation that caused the anger. For example, consider whether a direct expression of anger will do more harm than good. Take positive steps to implement your options.

Teen-agers and adults must find constructive ways to express their anger. Physical activities such as tennis, golf, weight lifting and jogging can be an excellent outlet for angry feelings. Rest and relaxation can help avoid irritability. Meditation, breathing exercises and deep muscle relaxation are good ways to reduce tension that often occurs before an angry outburst.

Talking things over can often be the best way to settle problems. Some Do's: CALM DOWN before you discuss the issues. Shouting matches rarely lead to effective solutions. UNDERSTAND YOUR MOTIVES before you express your anger. Are you trying to defeat the person, or are you trying to solve the problem? If your motive is negative, the results are more likely to be too. BE ASSERTIVE — not aggressive. Assertive people express themselves firmly and clearly without making insulting remarks. They understand the importance of negotiating and compromising to resolve differences. If your teenager is having trouble communicating his/her anger in a constructive way — SEEK HELP. Call NYA at 344-1618 for guidance in dealing with an angry child or adolescent. Pent-up anger can only lead to more serious problems.

Mary Ellen King is the director of Northville Youth Assistance.

Why not a new structure for DIA?

I didn't coin the term "killer bees" as applied to the political arm of the arts community, but I have seen them at work.

Friends of the Detroit Institute of Arts are engaging in a savage attack on those who would eliminate its $16 million state subsidy during this year's budget crunch — beginning with Gov. John Engler.

Either you are one of them or you deserve to be stung. This column is addressed to cooler heads.

In all the phone calling and propaganda, several key facts are left out:

- DIA is owned by the city of Detroit and operated as a department of Detroit city government. Repeat that 1,000 times a day during the debate of the next few weeks.
- Only Detroit residents may work there. Suburbanites may work as volunteers and give money but can't hold paying jobs for the city.
- For the better part of a decade, state government has been paying $16 million and the city $500,000 to operate DIA — a 32 to 1 ratio in favor of the state.

(The remaining $10 million of DIA's $26.5 million budget comes from admissions, tickets and the Founders Society. Acquisitions are paid for privately.)

Give Detroit Mayor Coleman Young credit: He won't give money to anything he can't control. Why, then, should anyone in his right mind expect Gov. Engler to behave differently and just write out checks?

DIA Director Samuel Sachs II wrote me a letter containing one of the cleverest plays in the propaganda textbook — assuming what you want to prove:

"It seems to me that one-half of one cent of a tax dollar is not too much for the state to afford itself for arts and culture, particularly when the arts return so much to the state."

Notice how he casts the issue in terms of the state's budget. Having repeated the truth 1,000 times a day, we can cast the issue in its true light:

- Detroit collects an income tax on non-residents who work there. How much of that could be dedicated to operating DIA for the benefit of non-residents?
- State government pays the full cost of district courts for only one city in the state — Detroit. Why can't Detroit use that savings for DIA?

There are a ton of other taxes which only Detroit collects, but there's no need to belabor the point. Detroit can operate DIA with revenues from non-residents — if it chooses to do so.

The time has come for DIA's leaders and friends to consider another system of governance.

Are they thinking about it? "No comment," snapped Sachs when I asked him directly.

OK, then I'll comment. Clearly there's a lot of antipathy toward Detroit in state government, more so in the Legislature than in the Engler administration.

A multi-county authority is in order. The people in southeastern Michigan who get the most enjoyment out of DIA should run it and pay for it.

Detroit used to run a prison (DeHoCo) and a TB hospital but got out of those businesses. It used to support the Detroit Symphony Orchestra but pulled the rug from under DSO. It booted the Detroit Concert Band into the suburbs.

Well, it's time for the city to admit it can't handle the Detroit Institute of Arts either.

It's not a new idea. I raised the same possibility 13 years ago, before the auto industry and state government fell on their faces.

Once again state government is on its face, cutting aid for kids on welfare and grants to foster parents. Now is the time for a creative new approach to governance, not for an attack of killer bees.

Tim Richard reports regularly on the local implications of state and regional events.

SUPER GIRL

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN
Staff Writer

Who was the greatest female athlete in Northville High School history?

There are probably many deserving nominees, but it's doubtful anyone could stack up to 1980s track star Cindy Heitmeyer — formerly Cindy Panowicz. A quick glance at the Mustang girls' track records is enough to prove the point.

"She was awesome," Northville Athletic Director Dennis Colligan admitted.

Schwagle to pace Mustang netters

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN
Staff Writer

Breaking even is not considered a successful boys' tennis season at Northville.

The Mustang netters are coming off an admittedly mediocre season (6-7 overall in 1990) but return one superstar and a host of experienced supporting players this spring. That's why you can look for the Northville program to rebound and return to Western Lakes Activities Association (WLAA) prominence.

"We're looking to have a better season than we did last year," Mustang Coach Dick Norton said. "It wasn't one of our better seasons."

"We've already scrimmaged and I've been quite pleased with the way we've played so far."

The team's key performer is sophomore standout Mark Schwagle, who burst onto the scene a year ago to become the first-ever freshman to take the WLAA No. 1 singles title. If that wasn't enough, Schwagle went on to take runner-up honors at the state championships, which earned him All-State and All-American recognition.

Schwagle — who had a fine 19-3 record in '90 — is a year-round player. His off-season work included dozens of tournaments, including a second-place finish at the Western Indoor Closed in February.

"Mark also had a fantastic tournament in Kalamazoo last summer in the Under-18 Nationals," Norton said. "I just kind of leave him alone and let him play. His only weaknesses — and he realizes this — are that his serve and net game aren't outstanding."

"We're looking to have a better season than we did last year. Our strength will lie again with our singles players, but our doubles are very competitive and balanced."

DICK NORTON
Tennis coach

A pair of singles regulars — Brit Davis (Jr.) and Brad Telepo (Sr.) — also return to give the Mustangs a solid 1-2-3 punch. Davis was 14-4 a year ago at No. 4 singles and will probably move up to No. 2. Telepo was 10-6 as the No. 3 singles player in '90.

"Basically, Davis and Telepo are interchangeable," Norton said. "Brit has a good overall game and Brad is experienced. We should be stronger in singles."

It appears the fourth slot will go to senior Kyle Legel, who played some singles and some doubles last season.

"It looks like our strength will lie again with our singles players," Norton said, "but our doubles are very competitive and balanced."

The top doubles team could be Shaun Linderman (Jr.) and Mike Connery (Sr.). Linderman is a new-

Senior Brad Telepo returns to singles play for Northville this spring comer to the program, but has shown a lot of potential, and Connery was a part-time regular a year ago and sported a 5-5 record in doubles play.

The No. 2 doubles team from a year ago — Jeff Lower (Sr.) and Eric Black (Jr.) — will likely resume that slot this spring. According to Norton, the Lower/Black duo play well together and are coming off a winning season, but the two didn't play much tennis in the off-season.

Seniors Chris McCreedy and Jasen Deglilio saw limited varsity action a year ago, but should fit in nicely at No. 3. Other doubles candidates include Jeff Ozanich (Jr.), Rob Kukalins (So.), Jason Brown (So.), Ryan Moak (Fr.), Chris McCormick (So.) and Dave Spies (So.).

"I think, overall, (McCreedy and Deglilio) have improved more in the last year than anybody on the team," Norton said.

The defending division and conference champs from Plymouth Canton will probably be favored to go it again, according to Norton. He is also impressed with teams from Plymouth Salem, North Farmington and Livonia Stevenson.

"If we could go 9-4 or 10-3 it would be a super season for us," Norton said.

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN

Former Coach Bob Gerlach inherited a struggling Northville softball program several years back and turned things around. Now his successor — Gail Trepicone — is hoping to keep the program at a highly competitive level.

Trepicone won't have the services of pitching ace Rozann Staknis — who has graduated — but Gerlach didn't leave the cupboards bare. A half-dozen returnees and a slew of talented newcomers should allow the Mustangs to challenge last season's 13-8 record and third-place finish in the WLAA Western Division.

"I'm very optimistic," Trepicone said. "There is a lot of potential on this team."

As a former freshman and junior varsity softball coach at Northville, Trepicone has previously coached many of the varsity players.

"I think it's a big help knowing many of the girls already," she said.

The top returnee is probably junior catcher Laura Apligian, who led the team with a .352 batting average and garnered All-Division and All-Area honors last season. Apligian also belted three homers and is considered an excellent defensive player.

"She's outstanding," Trepicone said.

Sister Melanie Apligian is poised for a memorable senior season, after grabbing All-Division and second team All-Area accolades as a junior. She was a starting outfielder last season but is being moved to shortstop.

"Melanie has played shortstop in the past and she looks very strong at that position," Trepicone explained. "She's a versatile player who will also be our backup pitcher."

The starting pitcher will be senior Karen Trepicone, the coach's daughter. Karen played second base a year ago and was the backup to Staknis. Another pitcher on the varsity is sophomore Lori George, who

Paul pleased with chemistry of girls' soccer squad

Marcie Dart (right) and Northville Coach Bob Paul discuss strategy during the 1990 season

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN
Staff Writer

The Northville girls' soccer squad is coming off a mildly disappointing 10-4-4 campaign, and two key players from that team — All-State goal-tender Kristi Turner and leading scorer Nikki Higdon — are no longer around.

For most programs, that would mean a rebuilding-type season, but that shouldn't be the case, according to Northville Coach Bob Paul.

"I think we've got a pretty good team this year," he said. "We may not match up talent-wise to the teams of the past, but the chemistry is better than I've ever seen it — and that's more important."

The backbone of the team is a talented and experienced senior class, featuring mainstays Marcie Dart, Karen Cavanaugh, Michelle McQuaid, Amy Goode and Ashley MacLean. All five were key performers in 1989 when the Mustangs advanced to the Class A championship game.

Dart is probably the marquee player of the group. She's been a fixture as Northville's center-midfielder for four years, and is a likely candidate to continue playing soccer at the collegiate level.

"Marcie is going to have a tremendous year," Paul predicted. "She makes for a good role model. Combine that with her talent level, and she is very dangerous."

"Her work rate is great, she loves the sport and she's one of the better players in the area."

McQuaid and Cavanaugh will team up to provide the Mustangs with quickness in the defensive positions. Both were All-Division selections last season, but McQuaid is the team's only returning defensive starter. Cavanaugh is a former All-State forward who is making the switch to defense while at the same time trying to overcome a serious injury to her right knee.

"Michelle's done a nice job showing our newcomers how we play defense," Paul said. "She's been a great leader. And Karen, if she stays healthy, she'll do well. She has a lot of offensive ability."

Goode will join Dart at midfield and MacLean will return to her starting forward spot.

"(Goode and MacLean) are both very solid players with experience," Paul said.

Three juniors — Wendy Carroll, Laura Whiteley and Tracy Jambor — all figure prominently in Paul's plans this spring. Carroll was a reserve forward last season and is expected to start on defense; Whiteley was a part-time starter at midfield in '90, but will make it full-time; and Jambor is up from the junior varsity and has earned a starting job as a fullback.

"(Whiteley) has improved tremendously," Paul said. "She's played a lot of off-season soccer."

Sophomore Valerie Schuerman is a returning letterwinner that will probably start at forward, and another returnee — junior Cindy Tolstedt — will probably be the first forward off the bench.

Three freshmen have made the team, and already Renee Anderson has been penciled in as a forward starter. A product of the Northville Soccer Association, Anderson — according to Paul — "undoubtedly shows future star potential."

Freshman defenders Angie Snyder and Mary Pat Bahl will probably see a lot of playing time, especially if Cavanaugh is hampered by the injury.

"After two years as the head coach, I've realized that the (WIAA) conference title is more difficult to win than the state title," Paul said. "Our top priority is always to win the conference."

According to Paul, Northville's top obstacles include Livonia Stevenson — the defending state champs — and always-powerful Livonia Churchill.

"These kids really have good rapport with each other and they have a drive to succeed," Paul pointed out. "We also have an additional incentive because the state championship game will be held at Northville."

Mustang softball team gets new coach

was the top junior varsity hurler in '90. The big question is whether this staff can fill in for Staknis, who was the team MVP with a 13-5 record, a 1.43 earned run average and 110 strikeouts.

"We've been very fortunate to have a pitching coach like Frank Frie-mund," Trepicone said. "He developed the skills of Karen and Melanie when they were underclassmen and now he's the pitching coach at Adrian College."

Other probable starters include juniors Kara McNeil, Karen Pump and Stacy Nyland. McNeil was an All-Division outfielder last year, but Trepicone was undecided where she'll play. Pump's role also has yet to be determined but Nyland will start at first base after spending last season on the junior varsity.

"I imagine (McNeil) will see a lot of playing time," Trepicone said. "And Nyland is an excellent athlete."

Other candidates for starting positions include sophomore Chrisy Green (second base) and senior Beth Sargent (outfield). The rest of the roster: seniors Kathy Chase and Roberta Zaas, juniors Kara Kelley, Kathy Lang and Michelle McNally and sophomore Sarah Christenson.

"I'm pleased overall and I think we'll be very competitive," Trepicone said. "Our goal is to remain at a competitive level."

Panowicz still dominates girls' track records

Heitmeyer is living in Somerville, Mass., with her husband, David, and works for a Boston law firm. She currently holds six individual records, and was the anchor leg in three relay teams that also set school marks in the early- to mid-'80s. That means Heitmeyer has had a hand in more than half of the Mustang girls' track records.

"She's the best I ever coached," Northville Coach Ann Turnbull said.

The 1985 Mustang graduate is also one of the top track performers in Western Lakes Activities Association history. She still holds five WLAA marks.

"I'm sure the coaches all around the league will attest that Cindy was one of the best," Turnbull said.

The thing that impressed everyone was Heitmeyer's versatile athletic ability. Her Northville records include everything from the sprints to the field events. And in the two hurdle events, she was the WLAA's best.

"She was one of the greatest athletes ever to go through Northville High School," Turnbull said. "But not only was she a great athlete, she was a hard worker — very determined."

"She had a lot of potential, but she worked at it."

Turnbull knew Heitmeyer was something special even before high school. She started running competitively at age 11 and showed great promise through junior high.

"Cindy was on a different level starting in junior high and that carried over into high school," Turnbull explained.

During her sophomore season, Heitmeyer shattered school records in the 200-meter dash (25.7) and the long jump (17'-3"). Both were also WLAA records.

The next year, two more marks fell — this time in the 400-meter (58.3) and 300-meter low hurdles (43.6). And as a senior, Heitmeyer went out in a blaze of glory with individual records in the 100-meter high hurdles (14.75) and the high jump (5'-4"), as well as three new relay standards (in the 400, 800 and 1600-meter events).

"I was very fortunate to have Ann Turnbull as my coach," Heitmeyer said. "We had some very successful years when I was there and I'm really excited to see that she is back as the head coach. We worked hard, but we also had fun."

Looking back on her days at Northville High, Heitmeyer is able to better appreciate her accomplishments — now that nearly six years have passed.

"Looking back after all the years, it's even more rewarding," she said. "God really blessed me with ability and I worked to further myself. I had the flexibility to compete in a lot of events, and that helped the team, but I always considered myself as a hurdler. Those were the events I focused on."

Heitmeyer accepted a full-ride track and field scholarship from the University of Kansas after graduation, and spent four years in Lawrence, Kan.

"It was a great four years," she said. "I had a tough time choosing a college, but I never regretted my decision. Kansas has a great track program."

Throughout her collegiate career, Heitmeyer focused on three major events: the seven-event heptathlon, the 400-meter hurdles and the open 800-meter run. In her first year, Heitmeyer became the only Jayhawk freshman to letter in both the indoor and outdoor seasons.

She repeated that feat as a sophomore and then helped rewrite the Kansas record books as a member of the record-setting indoor two-mile relay team as a junior.

"That was very exciting to be a part of," she said.

An injury to the right leg in the fall of her senior season essentially ended Heitmeyer's track career. Arthroscopic surgery revealed torn cartilage in the knee cap and forced her to miss the entire indoor season. Although she tried to come back for the Big Eight outdoor season, her times were never the same.

"It was a very tough time for me because I had never had a serious injury before," she explained.

Heitmeyer graduated in the spring of 1989 with a degree in journalism, and married a year later.

The name has changed from Panowicz to Heitmeyer, but the records are a constant reminder of a great athlete with tremendous ability and dedication to a non-glamorous sport like track and field.

Faletti shooting for winning season

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN
Staff Writer

A year ago, the Northville boys' track team notched the program's first winning season since 1977. With a solid foundation from that squad still in place, Mustang Coach Dennis Faletti is confident his team can make it two in a row this spring.

"I'm optimistic because we have about 50 or 60 kids out for the team, which is a lot for our school," Faletti said. "We have a good group coming back and we have 30 new kids. We have more numbers now and that should help push our veterans."

Top performers in four of the five field events return for Northville, including high jumper Chris Lehr (Jr.). Lehr topped 6'-1" last season and will be pushed by newcomers Pete Beyersdorf (a senior who's already cleared 6'-0" in practice) and Jim Luebbe (Jr.).

Senior Kevin Gill — the squad's top performer in the shot put and discus — is back, and he'll be backed up by seniors Bob Holloway (in the shot put) and Angelo Perakis (in the discus). The long jump will be strong with junior Jamie Miller and senior Bill Kelley around. Miller was a state qualifier in '90 but Kelley is giving him a run for team supremacy. Both are fine all-around athletes.

"They are both very close," Faletti said.

State qualifier Jon Okasinski headed a fine group of pole vaulters who were lost to graduation. Sophomore Jason Petrie and junior Ryan Huzjak will try to fill the void.

Both hurdle events will be capably filled by junior Brett Butz, who was the team's best hurdler last year. Todd Osborn (Jr.) has also looked

Junior Brett Butz is Northville's top returning hurdler in both the 110 and 300-meters strong in the 110-meter highs.

"As of now, we seem to be stronger in the highs than in the 300-meter lows," Faletti explained.

In the 100-meter dash, Matt Hemp returns as the top sprinter, but freshman Bob Oiler and Brian Dogonski have been impressive. Kelley was fourth at the WLAA Meet in the 200-meters in '90 and should be the team's best again this spring. Kelley and Hemp provide Northville with a fine 1-2 punch in the event.

The team's top two 400-meter runners — Rob Subotich (So.) and Mark Hilfinger (Sr.) — are also returning. The probable No. 1 runner in the 800 is senior Mike Negri, but Petrie and Amanual Liben (So.) could wrestle that title away.

The distance running corps is young and untested, but Faletti has been impressed with sophomore Eric Goerke. Other possible contributors include Beyersdorf, Bo Fowler (So.) and Chris Smith.

As for the relays, Faletti is especially excited about the 400-meter foursome, featuring Oiler, Hemp, Miller and Kelley. Three-fourths of this group broke the school record a year ago, and Faletti is hoping for more of the same. Subotich, Lehr, Miller and Kelley will probably team up in the 800-meter relay.

Northville's mile relay team — with Subotich, Lehr, Miller and Hilfinger — placed third in the WLAA last season, and Faletti is hoping to move up.

Study shows inequity among coaches

A study of Michigan interscholastic athletic programs indicates that the number of women coaching girls' athletic teams is only half the number compared to men guiding such squads, but that there may be some promise for the future.

For the 1990-91 school year, Northville High School employs four female varsity head coaches, while Novi sports two. For the Mustangs, Ann Turnbull (girls track), Uta Filkin (girls tennis), Gail Trepicone (softball) and Trish Waldecker (girls golf) are the females varsity coaches out of 10 total positions (40 percent). For the Wildcats, Connie Ahrens (girls track) and Amy Wagner (volleyball) are the only two female varsity coaches out of eight slots (25 percent).

The survey of school athletic directors, conducted by the Youth Sports Institute at Michigan State University, polled 703 schools, with 498 responding. Of those responses, 482 school reports were used in compiling the figures.

The percentage of male coaches directing girls' teams is 62.2 percent, compared to 35.5 percent female coaches. However, some sports have higher percentages of women coaches at the sub-varsity level than the statewide average.

"Looking at that statewide figure, you could say the groundwork for more women to move into the most visible of coaching positions, the varsity head coaching level, has been laid," said John E. "Jack" Roberts, executive director of the Michigan

High School Athletic Association. "Work in making the public aware that women role models in positions of athletic leadership are necessary for today's student-athletes must continue."

The preliminary results of the survey were announced at the MHSAA's 1991 Women In Sports Leadership Conference at the Sheraton Lansing Hotel.

Girls' basketball saw perhaps the largest male coaching percentage at the varsity level, where 80.3 percent males coach girls' teams. However, that number dipped to 68.6 percent at the junior varsity and 51.2 percent at the freshman team level. Softball, swimming, tennis and track showed similar trends.

Only two teams in sports are coached by a majority of women. Gymnastics has 68.3 percent female coaches at the varsity level, and 76.9 percent at the reserve level. In volleyball, 57.5 percent women at the varsity level, 73.6 percent at the JV and 85.1 percent at the freshman level.

"We need to spotlight those people, because if in fact women are coaching, but they are at the lower levels, it sounds like a deficit, but it can be an asset if we look at it in terms of the future because these might be some of the future coaches who can move up to the junior varsity and varsity levels," said Yvonne Smith of the Youth Sports Institute in reporting the findings of the survey. "But we have to begin to systematically target efforts to prepare them in terms of confidence, to prepare them in terms of skills and experiences so they can come up to the varsity levels, be willing to coach and be certainly qualified and competent to coach."

The study also showed that more female coaches do not teach in the building where they coach compared to men. In most instances, the percentage of boys' team coaches ran 7 percent higher than girls' team coaches. However, the survey reflected what MHSAA administrators had projected for several years — that nearly half or more of the coaches across the board are not faculty members where they coach.

The survey also studied the ethnic background of coaches, and found that breakdown to be similar to that of teachers. In girls' sports, 6.6 percent of the coaches are of minority backgrounds (Asian-American, Afro-American, Hispanic, Native American, et al) and 6.2 percent of the boys' coaches are minorities.

"To the extent that we can provide the kinds of quality models, in some cases same-sex models, same-ethnic models, we are going to be encouraging our young people to get into coaching and stay in it to be involved," Smith said.

Golf Notes

CHAMBER GOLF OUTING: Plans are already set for the annual Northville Community Chamber of Commerce Walt Ellis Memorial Golf Outing.

The big event takes place Thursday, June 13, at Golden Fox Championship Course in Plymouth. The day includes 18 holes of golf with cart, a small lunch, dinner, refreshments and door prizes.

Cost is $80, if paid by May 1, or $85 after May 1. Deadline to register is Thursday, May 30. Business hole sponsorships cost $75. For more information call the chamber at 349-7640.

BOOSTER CLUB OUTING: A golf outing sponsored by the Our Lady of Victory Booster Club is set for May 18 at Fox Hills Country Club located at 8768 North Territorial Road in Plymouth.

Format for the event will be a four-person scramble and the $60 entry fee includes golf, lunch, dinner and refreshments. Golfers can rent motorized carts for an additional $10.50 per person. Dinner only tickets are available for $20.

Trophies will be awarded in both men's and women's divisions. All proceeds from the outing will go to support youth athletic programs at Our Lady of Victory parish. Tee times are limited and payment must accompany registration. Interested golfers should contact Larry Lemieux (349-0012) or Ray Medonis (349-7039).

The Our Lady of Victory Booster Club's fundraising activities provide financial support to two boys' and two girls' basketball teams, a boys baseball team and a cheerleading squad. Approximately 75 youngsters participate in these programs.

GREAT LAKES TOUR: The Great Lakes Amateur Golf Tour has expanded to Western Michigan and four regional tours: 1.) West Metro Detroit, 2.) Northeast Metro Detroit, 3.) Kalamazoo/Battle Creek, 4.) Grand Rapids/Muskegon.

1990 marked the inaugural year for brothers Rob and Dean Naudi, and Roy Gaddey with the Great Lakes Amateur Tour in the metro Detroit area, and from all indications, it was a major success. Over 650 players attempted to qualify for 260 tour cards, and play some of Michigan's finest courses.

The Great Lakes Amateur Tour is every golfer's chance to play "The Tour." Patterned after the PGA tour, the players will compete with players of their same ability in four different handicap divisions. The players must play two 18-hole qualifying rounds in May to earn their "Tour Card" and be eligible to compete in their section of the Great Lakes Amateur Tour.

Men or women who have an established USGA handicap, or a league average that can be verified, are eligible to participate. There is a $60 entry fee (players will also pay green fees) to compete in the qualifying rounds. Each golfer will receive a Great Lakes Amateur Tour logoed golf shirt from the PGA Tour Collection.

The tournament players will be competing for over $100,000 in prizes and awards on the four regional tours. Sponsors for 1991 include some of the biggest names in golf: Ram Golf, PGA Tour Clothing, Foot-Joy Shoe Company, Grand Traverse Resort, and Total Golf Inc.

GOLF SHOW USA: A new kind of golf show is coming to the Detroit area.

Recreational Promotions, a Michigan producer of outdoor events, announces the formation of Golf Show USA, a unique blend of golfing demonstrations, contests, exhibitions and showing of equipment and services in the beautiful outdoor setting of Metro Beach Metropark, in Mt. Clemens May 16-19.

With six full size 18-hole golf courses currently in operation, another to begin construction this spring at Lake Erie Metropark, still another to be completed in 1993 at Lower Huron Metropark, plus two 18-hole par-three courses, Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority, the parent organization of the Metropark system, is far and away the largest provider of golf in Michigan.

Berniece Fredrick (standing) and Mary Nowlan cut the cake at the Rhymestones' two-year anniversary

RHYMESTONES

Poetry inspires memories for seniors

By CRISTINA FERRIER
Staff Writer

Inside Novi Charter House, there's a group that meets twice a week.

Twice a week, they walk down the hall, or they ride in wheelchairs. Twice a week, as many as 30 of them — they gather together to read poetry.

They've been meeting for two years. Led by retired English teacher Berniece Fredrick, they listen as she reads poems and occasionally, when a poem stirs a memory or has repetition, some of them chime in, repeating poems as she reads them aloud.

They bring in their favorite poems, or new ones clipped from magazines. Berniece reads them. They listen and chime in.

They're called the Rhymestones, and poetry is a way to stimulate the minds of these Charter House residents, who sometimes count the days until the next meeting.

"We do all kinds, from childhood poems to fairly sophisticated ones — Japanese or Greek poems," Berniece said. "But not in Greek, of course. That's all Greek to us."

At the last Rhymestones meeting, the group celebrated its two-year anniversary with a cake. And they took a trip down memory lane.

"We did Robert Louis Stevenson," she said. "We read his children's poems."

At Rhymestone meetings, Berniece usually reads each poem aloud, then asks for comments.

"I share experiences that I've had over the years. There is one humorous poem about dishwashing. I read the poem, then I tell of an experience of my own — a very happy experience I remember of washing dishes with my sister."

BERNIECE FREDRICK
Rhymestones leader

"Frequently when I read aloud some people will chime in, and that's very satisfying," she said. "A few of them look for poems they'd like me to read, and they bring them in."

Rhymestones participate in the meetings as much or as little as they want.

"This is something they can take part in and give as much of an active part as they are willing to give," she said.

Librarians from the Novi Public Library bring in books for the residents there, and members of Rhymestones often check out poetry books. Also popular are small, paperback books with religious poems and sayings.

"I always begin a session and end it with a slightly religious note," Berniece said.

Another thing the Rhymestones get from meetings is a chance to share memories and feelings inspired by the poems.

"I share experiences that I've had over the years," Berniece said. "There is one humorous poem about dishwashing. I read the poem, then I tell of an experience of my own — a very happy experience I remember of washing dishes with my sister."

Berniece's shared experiences usually lead to other Rhymestones sharing their memories.

"Those that are capable of it get their minds working, get communication skills, recreation and remembrance," she said.

And in spite of her English background, Berniece has learned a lot by leading the meetings.

"There are worlds of poetry that I don't know about," she said. "I'm learning, too. I'm having a new experience."

"I have found, for myself, a very illuminating trip into unknown territory."

The members of Rhymestones really love the meetings.

"They will ask me, 'Is it this week? Do we have it this week?'" Berniece said. "I'm constantly told how much they love it."

The best part of Rhymestones is the "warmth, love and acceptance on (the members') part," she said. "We're like family."

A homeless experience

I've been homeless for over a week now.

I'm starting to understand a little about what it might be like for the real homeless, although I know my situation isn't anything really comparable to theirs.

Cristina Ferrier

During the weekend of March 23, we tore the entire roof off our house as part of a major remodeling project. That, of course, rendered the place unlivable.

After it was all over, we stood looking at our home, feeling stunned. What had we done? The sight of our home without a roof — wind whipping debris all over the place and rain pouring in — was shocking, to say the least.

But, because there was no choice, we went on with the task of our daily lives as we waited for the contractor to make our house livable again.

Meeting basic necessities became a challenge. Because we both love to go camping, we attempted to stay in a friend's camper in our yard for a few days.

It was kind of fun, but we were without running water or a lavatory of any kind. After a while we began to feel guilty about barging in on our neighbors all the time, even though they were wonderful and insisted they didn't mind a bit.

A friend of mine in Novi also let me use her apartment for a shower a few times. The morning after our big storm, after I had survived a frightening evening in a camper but never lost any electricity, it was ironic to arrive at her apartment and find she had none.

We finally gave up on the camper idea last weekend and moved in with my husband's parents. Suddenly I realized how much I had been taking for granted.

There, in that warm house, was carpeting and television. A bathroom with running water. Lights that come on at the flick of a switch. A refrigerator full of food. Books to read. Soft chairs to sit in. A phone number where people can reach me.

Now, when it rains and the wind whips things around, I'll think of how lucky I am to be inside.

After all, I'll be going back to my own home in a week or so. But the homeless will still be sleeping on the street, or in crowded shelters, or wherever they can find a hidden corner or an abandoned building.

Yep, being homeless for a while can sure put things into perspective.

Kohl finds work full of rewards

By DOROTHY NASH
Special Writer

If you like old-fashioned melodrama where you can hiss at the villain, you'll like the output of The Northville Players, of which Judy Kohl is charter member, board vice president, and all-around active person.

"I've done everything except direct," she said, and that "everything" includes acting, working on props and construction, and "picking up lights when we rent them." Oh, yes, she also helps select plays, get publicity, and sells advertising for the programs.

The Northville Players, according to Kohl, is a volunteer activity except for the director, who "as of now will be paid." It's an outgrowth of a workshop conducted by the Community Education Department in the fall of 1988. And going a step further, this year it became a member of the Community Theater Association of Michigan.

On stage last year for three evenings in May in the school house at Mill Race Village, Judy Kohl played the part of "Mrs. Hyacinth, a widow, wealthy and socially prominent," according to the program. In the play, entitled, "Dora, the Beautiful Dishwasher (or The Heroine Who Cleaned Up)."

Admission was $5, she said, but when the play was repeated during the Victorian Festival in September at the American Legion Hall, there was no charge.

This May for three evenings at Mill Race, she said, "I have a small part in a cast of eight."

The play is called "Her Fatal Beauty," and Kohl is Alberta Humdinger, whom she describes as "an aristocratic woman in her 50s, who is used to having her own way."

Why do melodrama? Kohl answered, "It lends itself to the Victorian nature of Northville."

Newcomers hold an up-to-the-minute fashion event

Spring fashions and up-to-the-minute make-up and hair styling tips were the focus of the Northville Newcomers annual fashion show presented at the Novl Hilton on Thursday, March 21.

"A Splash of Fashion" featured the "totally coordinated look" and fashions were presented in a unique audience participation format by Take Time Fashion Services in conjunction with the Twelve Oaks Mall Fashion Guild.

The evening also featured complete hairstyling and makeup makeovers of five members of Northville Newcomers courtesy of Gerald's.

Gini Britton, Sue Hillebrand and Gretchen Lapham worked very hard with their committee to present a memorable evening. All those who attended learned many useful tips for combining new fashions and accessories with their existing wardrobes for a fresh, new spring look.

Dinner Dance

The Northville Mothers' Club is in the process of planning its annual dinner dance, scheduled for Saturday, April 27 at the Walnut Creek Country Club in South Lyon.

The non-profit event, which is the club's way of thanking members for work done during the year, will include dinner and dancing to the band Sound Impressions.

Couples interested in attending the dinner may call Janine Hilfinger at 349-6408 or Sue Nix at 348-1634. The cost is $60 per couple.

Spring Fling

Northville Newcomers will present a Spring Fling luncheon on Thursday, April 11 at noon at First United Methodist Church, Eight Mile and Taft roads.

A complimentary salad lunch will be provided by the 1990-91 Newcomers board. In addition, Newcomer Margo Kramar, owner of Margo's Hair Salon, will be doing makeovers and hair. New board members will also be announced.

Reservations will be accepted through April 8. An unlimited number of reservations are available.

For reservations call Linda Cooley at 348-0951 or Ruth Davis at 420-3597.

Used Book Sales

Plans for a used book sale by the Friends of the Northville Public Library have been changed and a new date set for the popular fund-raiser to benefit the library.

The new date is Saturday, Aug. 3, when the sale will be held in conjunction with the annual Summer Sidewalk Sale.

Because an insufficient number of books have been contributed to offer a large selection, it was decided by the Friends board to move the date to late summer.

Contributions are still needed of all kinds of books with the exception of textbooks for grades K-12, encyclopedias more than 10 years old and Readers Digest Condensed Books.

Contrary to past policy, picture magazines are now welcome, including National Geographic.

Used book sales were discontinued 18 months ago because a storage and sorting place in Cooke School was no longer available. A new place was found in January and the Friends expect to resume their former pattern of three or four sales a year.

Auction benefits head-injury patients

Two hundred fifty VIP guests, a veritable who's who in the field of head injury rehabilitation, guaranteed the colossal success of the Michigan Head Injury Alliance's first auction, "Starlight Extravaganza," at the Novl Hilton on Saturday evening, March 23.

"I am grateful to the many who contributed to make this a successful fund-raiser," said Gaylord Walker, executive director of MHIA, and master of ceremonies for the evening. "Over 200 auction items were donated by caring and concerned merchants and individuals all over the state," he said in presenting plaques of appreciation to 20 corporate sponsors.

Honorary chairperson of the event, Don Massey of Massey Cadillac in Plymouth, said, "We need to increase MHIA services for survivors and their families, and to educate professionals, government officials, and the public about this silent epidemic that is affecting hundreds of thousands of people each year. Every dollar collected from the auction goes directly to MHIA. Thank you for being so generous in your bidding."

Guests dined to music by the Ann Arbor Brass Quintet. Disc jockey Scott Craig of Ypsilanti's Integrated Sounds added pizzazz to auction skits by Renee Brown of Simkins and Simkins in Northville and her crew, Peggy Allen, of New Medico Ann Arbor, and Brown wore gowns donated by Eleganza of West Bloomfield.

"We'll start the bidding at $1,000," said flamboyant auctioneer Evelyn Hayes, dressed in black and gold and sporting a black cowboy hat, as she spurred guests to begin bidding for the full-length mink coat donated by Steve Butcher Furs in Farmington.

Donations for the live auction included two expressionist paintings donated by Connoisseur Galleries of Troy; a Seiko quartz bracelet watch from Edmund T. Ahee Jewelry Co. of Grosse Pointe Woods; dinner for 20 at Genitti's Hole-in-the-Wall Restaurant in Northville; a 6-foot-by-7-foot freeform installed pond and two Japanese white birch trees from Grass Roots in New Boston and Special Tree in Romulus; a Hoover Conquest Commercial Vacuum donated by Unifair Maintenance Services of Ann Arbor; a Texas barbecue for 50 donated by Traveling Chef Catering in Madison Heights; a suite for 10 at the Pistons vs. the Cavaliers at the Palace donated by Matz and Rubin of Farmington Hills; a week in a Cape Coral condo donated by William Hart of Jackson; a week at Higgins Lake donated by Nick and Martha Simkins of Northville.

Decor of black, white and gold, uniquely suited to an evening under the stars, was created by sisters Rhonda Atchison and Roxanne Casterline, daughters of Dr. Russell M. Atchison of Northville, and included two balloon tuxedo men greeting guests at each end of the ballroom entry arch. Top hat center pieces with cascading gold stars adorned each table. Pussywillow trees decorated with lights and glittering stars lined the hall and dining room. A special tree was decorated in red, white and blue in honor of the soldiers in the Persian Gulf (Richard Atchison, brother of Rhonda Atchison and Roxanne Casterline, is Deputy Chief Commander of Military Intelligence in Riyadh). The trees and centerpieces became a part of the auction.

Guests sought over 150 silent auction items displayed during cocktail hour with competitive bidding for ski packages, tickets to sport and musical events, a mink teddy bear, Seiko watches donated by Edmund T. Ahee, golf clubs and lessons, weekend use of a Lincoln automobile from Budget Car and Truck Rental in Livonia, plane tickets to Chicago from Silver Jet Travel in Northville, a miniature hockey stick signed by the entire Red Wing hockey team, elegant dining packages, Abstract Intaglio prints by Susan Hinds donated by Connoisseur Galleries in Troy, a physician's scale donated by Foley Medical Supply in Northville, and hotel packages donated by the Ann Arbor Regent at Domino's Farms, Auburn Hills Holiday Inn, Novl Hilton and Sheraton Inn Fashion Square in Saginaw.

"Proceeds from the auction will enable MHIA to continue its good work in improving the quality of life for survivors of head injury and their families," said Northville attorney Nick Simkins, Chairperson of the MHIA Development Committee who spearheaded this First Annual Auction.

Freighter trips: Are they right for you?

By IRIS SANDERSON JONES
Travel Writer

Should you consider freighter travel and if so, which ship? I asked Ed Kirk, president of TravelLips Cruise and Freighter Travel Association in New York.

"A traditional freighter carries 12 passengers or less. If they carry more, they must have a doctor aboard. They include good-sized outside cabins with private facilities, and a ship's lounge with a television set, VCR, small library and games.

"Most have a pantry and an honor system bar. Passengers dine in the officers' dining room. Each line has its own protocol. Officers either eat with the passengers or at separate tables in the same dining room. They eat the same food, which is plentiful and varied but not gourmet.

"Activities are unorganized. You are on your own; no cruise director. One officer may assist with sightseeing in a port, but there are no cruise-type shore excursions. The ships have deck chairs, maybe some ping pong or shuffleboard.

"You can travel to South America, the Far East, the Mediterranean, Africa, Europe. Short trips across the Atlantic are two weeks one-way. Others are four weeks and up. Sailing around the world takes 130 days.

"Americans sail from the east or west coasts or the Gulf. This is not a way to go from point A to point B. Passengers are either retired or have very flexible time schedules."

Examples?
"A popular route is on Cast Line from Montreal to Antwerp, Belgium. It takes 12 days one-way, 32 round-trip, and it stops at a St. Lawrence River port and in Antwerp. Cost is $1,995 per person double or single one-way; the return costs $1,695, the round-trip $3,690. You can use the hotel for the four to seven days it is in Antwerp.

The best bargain?
"The least expensive is on the Lykes Line which goes from New Orleans through the Panama Canal to the west coast of South America: Ecuador, Chile, Peru, Colombia. That's 30-40 days for $3,500 per person double occupancy.

"That's the least luxurious, very basic, good-sized rooms but they have metal cabinets and linoleum floors and chairs that don't match. Clean but basic."

Your recommendation?
"The Ivaran Lines have two ships, the Salvador and the Santa Fe, who leave out of Houston for the east coast of South America: Rio de Janeiro and Santos, Brazil; Buenos Aires, Argentina; Montevideo, Uruguay. They go north to Paranaguá, Brazil and into the Caribbean to Barbados, Puerto Rico and Santo Domingo.

"That trip costs $6,000 double or $6,450 single for 50 days. It's the best 12-passenger service to South America and includes a plunge pool and a lounge."

"A true freighter traveler wants to do sea travel without all the stuff that goes on aboard cruise ships. Wants to be on his own, doesn't mind reading a book or playing cards or enjoying life at sea without a cruise director."

According to Kirk, real freighter buffs don't buy the American or other large luxurious ships listed in our main article. Those ships are more attractive to people who have done some upscale cruising and want to try freighters.

Kirk will send you a free copy of his pamphlet, "35 Most-commonly Asked Questions about Freighter Travel" and information about the newsletter TravelLips. Write to 163-07 Depot Road, P.O. Box 188, Flushing, New York, 11358. For reservations and $15-a-year membership call toll-free (800) 872-8584.

Freighters offer an off-beat alternative to cruise ships

By DAVE HOUSER
Special Writer

I recently heard a feisty, suntanned gent of considerable years exclaim to a travel agent, "I wouldn't go on a cruise ship if they paid me!"

There are many such adventurers who aren't swooned by love boats, lavish reviews and ports-of-call bristling with fancy boutiques.

They go "off-beat" instead. There are a surprising number of ships out there that break the cruise-ship mold and enough exotic itineraries to satisfy your Magellan urge.

Passengers have been bunking down on cargo-carrying ships since Phoenician times, but the sentimental vision of stowing away on a rusty old tramp steamer bound for "Banana-land" is outdated. Today's cargo vessels are modern container ships with a few comfortable, roomy cabins. Some of the newest ships boast swimming pools, lounges, libraries and other amenities.

Freighter travel has become more expensive. "Gone is the era of the $10 or $20 per day fare on freighters," says Mary LeBlanc, president of Freighter World Cruises, Inc., a Pasadena, California, travel company that serves as a passenger agent for 15 steamship lines.

LeBlanc points out that the current per diem range of $75-$150 for most freighters is "about half of what you'd pay for space on a typical cruise ship and still represents one of the best values in today's travel market."

Three major elements distinguish freighter travel from cargo liners and cruise ships.

□ Typical freighter itineraries are 30-70 days, with extended stretches on the open sea. Shorter segments can be booked on some ships, a few in the 10-20 day range.

□ Freighters usually call at fewer and much different ports than do their cruise ship cousins. They stay a day or two while cargo is transferred, not at fancy cruise terminals, but at dingy loading docks in commercial harbors not noted for their scenic splendor.

□ Most freighters accommodate 12 or fewer guests. More passengers would force the line to carry a medical doctor and additional stewards; it also means more amenities, such as those found in the Americana and the Aranui, listed below:

□ The Americana is the world's most luxurious passenger freighter. Purists may not go for the pampering or the price, but it's a romantic introduction to the world of freighter travel.

This 578-foot beauty totes 1,100 cargo containers on her foredeck and 88 passengers in a four-story aft-deck hotel complex, with swimming pool, bar and lounge, gymnasium, library and beauty salon.

Designed by the same firm responsible for the ultra-luxurious Sea Goddess and Seabourn cruisers, and introduced in 1988, Americana sails a 46-day round-trip schedule between New York and Buenos Aires.

Calling at more than a dozen ports — including Miami, Rio de Janeiro, Montevideo and lesser known Brazilian ports such as Fortaleza, Bahia and Itajai — Americana explores South America's eastern seaboard in style.

Fares range from $150 to $250 per day depending upon cabin choice and season. Shorter segments are available, as are optional, escorted excursions from most ports. Ivaran Agencies, Inc., One Exchange Plaza, New York, N.Y. 10006. (800) 451-1639.

□ The Aranui may be the freighter for you if exotic destinations are your dream. This burly 343-foot German-built island trader sails 15 times a year from Tahiti to the Marquesas Islands, hauling out building supplies and baby food and returning home with copra, the dried meat derived from coconuts.

It makes room for 66 passengers willing to trade cruise ship amenities for the rare opportunity to spend 16 days cruising the remote Marquesas — the farthest island chain from any continent.

Renowned for their spectacular volcanic landscapes, unusual archaeological sites, artistic heritage and friendly people, the Marquesas are one of Polynesia's most appealing destinations.

Aranui calls at six islands where passengers watch cargo operations, a spectacle in itself, or join guided excursions (included in the cruise price) to pristine beaches, verdant mountains valleys and ancient temples.

Cabins are small and spartan, but air-conditioned; some include toilet and shower. The dining room serves three hearty meals a day, family style. A sun deck sports a small salt-water pool.

Fares range from $160 to $220 per day, expensive by freighter standards but a giant vacation value in pricey French Polynesia. If you're willing to sacrifice comfort and privacy you can reserve space on the covered aft deck for $80 a day, including mattress, meals and shore excursions. Perhaps the romance of freighter travel isn't dead after all. Compagnie Polynésienne de Transport Maritime (CPTM), 595 Market Street, #2880, San Francisco, CA 94105. (415) 541-0677.

□ The Narvik serves up scenery of a more Nordic nature. It's one of the newest and largest members of an 11-ship coastal steamer fleet serving the fjord-slashed coast of Norway.

For nearly a century, this family of sturdy, versatile ships has carried cargo, mail and people from Bergen in the south to Kirkenes in the north on a 12-day round-trip run, calling at 35 different ports.

Although it can accommodate as many as 316 passengers in 164 modest cabins, Narvik is far too unassuming to take on the airs of a cruise ship. She more often resembles a ferry, carrying up to 40 vehicles and hundreds of short-hop passengers.

Cliff-lined fjords, brightly painted fishing villages, rocky islands and forest-clad mountains line the way as Narvik churns a serpentine course along one of the world's most spectacular seacoasts, more than half of it lying north of the Arctic Circle.

Brief stops, often as short as 45 minutes, don't leave much time for land-roving but optional excursions, offered whenever the ship makes an extended call, let you see the countryside.

Summer fares range from $112 to $200 per day, less from October through May. Bergen Line, 505 Fifth Ave., New York, N.Y. 10017. (800) 323-7436.

For information on freighter travel, contact your travel agent. Several freighters can be booked through Freighter World Cruises, Inc., 180 S. Lake Ave., #335, Pasadena, CA 91101. (800) 449 3106, or through Cruise and Freighter Travel Assn., P.O. Box 188, Flushing, N.Y., 11358. (800) 872-8584.

'Plenty to see in North America'

Dear Iris Sanderson Jones:

I was real intrigued with your travel column in the March 7 edition as Key West and Alaska are our two favorite destinations. Here are some tidbits of information of places we have found:

ALASKA: Very rarely in any travel plans do I see or hear the "Top of the World Highway" mentioned. It runs from Dawson in the Yukon to Tok, Alaska.

Fantastic high country scenery, but it requires good drivers and care. Dawson is special, too, in that so much of the gold mine equipment remains where it was left when they quit mining. In the Kenai in lower Alaska, is the Russian River. In June there are thousands of fishermen lining the banks and all catching the high salmon. What a sight.

Alaska doesn't have to be expensive cruise ships to enjoy. In June and July of '88, six of us traveled just about every major road in Alaska in a new Ford Conversion Van with a Coleman pop-up camper.

We ate well, enjoyed a lot of salmon bakes, University of Alaska, the Glaziers by boat. Total cost per couple for the entire 60 days was just under $3,000. We drove the entire Alaska highway on the way up and returned by the state ferries from Haines, with several days stop at both Juneau and Ketchikan, debarking at Prince Rupert and back through Jasper and Banff.

That was our third and best trip to Alaska. Most people just get to the "front door" of Alaska with the cruise ships. Canada's extra taxes now will bring up costs for time spent there or driving through.

FLORIDA: Many people only ever see the Orlando attractions and never see the real Florida. What a pity. A reasonable yet delightful time to see the Florida Keys is November. Motels and restaurants charge far less; the Conch Train and everything are not crowded. The sun drops just the same.

They could see Lake Okeechobee, the cane fields. Other very well-kept secrets are Fort De Sota, a huge free township park on the furthestmost tip of land below St. Petersburg.

There you and family can spend the day on the gulf's edge, hunting for shells, watching the birds and pelicans, seeing ships, fishing from the piers, and the Sunshine Bridge is beautiful as the sun gleams on it.

The pier in St. Petersburg is a lovely place to spend a good portion of the day, or evening. Has good restaurants. Pine Islands, west of Fort Myers, still is a lot of the real Florida.

There's real beauty in Florida that many folks never consider for vacation time — early to late December. By day on walks watch the poinsettias in yards change from vibrant green to flashing red.

By night there are sections that are handsomely decorative for the holidays. After all they can decorate with out chill of the fingers.

Zephyrhills, northeast of Tampa, has a hospital that sits on a hill. Early in December a tree is planted on the side of that hill for each state plus an international tree.

People are invited to help decorate, usually on a Sunday. Early evening a switch is turned on, and the hospital and trees are burst forth into light. Cookies, hot chocolate, etc. are served, and there's a pops orchestra, choir, etc.

Nearby Dade City has its Church Street Christmas, streets blocked off, homes lit beautifully, choirs in churches.

Anyway, there's a lot out there from one end of North America to the other to see. And at least for this year, to help our recession I think it's wise for most travel to be here.

Appreciate your articles; will watch for more.

Most sincerely
Edna Alexander

The Michigan Council of Teachers of Mathematics is sponsoring a regional math competition on Saturday, April 27, at the University of Detroit. Competition is open to sixth-, seventh- and eighth-grade students. The OLV team participating in this event will include Michael Andersen, Tomas Sirgedas, Meghan Cauzillo, Lyndsay Huot, Rick Kowal, Mike Clancy, Paul Moore and Josh Grutza.

A tradition of excellence at OLV continues as students participate in academic competition in school and locally, regionally and statewide. Gina Betancourt, a sixth-grader, is OLV school winner in the Lawrence Technological University/Detroit News Spelling Bee. She will represent OLV in the final rounds of competition next month.

Eve Radzialowski, fifth-grader, was school winner in McDonald's "When I Grow Up" speech contest. Lyndsay Huot, sixth-grader, is OLV winner in the National Geographic Geography Bee. Cara Cecil, eighth-grader, will advance to state level competition in the annual "America & Me" Essay Contest sponsored by Farm Bureau Insurance.

Tomas Sirgedas, fifth-grader, is all-school winner in the American Junior High School Mathematics Exam and Mike Clancy, seventh-grader, won third place in the written section of the Detroit Country Day School Math Invitational and is OLV school winner in the Michigan Mathematics League competition. Michael Matthews, grade one, won third prize in the Detroit District Dental Society's Children's Dental Health Month Poster Contest. The school is very proud of this roster of winners.

Members of Our Lady of Victory Student Council have been busy in recent weeks doing for others. They sponsored a Spirit Week for the middle school which was very successful in chasing away the winter blahs for all of the students. They planned and catered a Teacher Appreciation Luncheon during Catholic Schools Week. The food was excellent and the ambience they created with flowers, balloons and paper products made the entire faculty feel very pampered and appreciated.

Members just completed sponsoring a Handicapped Awareness Day on March 21 from which they raised $110 to donate toward the funding of a special field day for developmentally disabled students in the Archdiocese of Detroit. Service for others is of primary importance to Student Council when it plans its projects and programs throughout the year.

The PTA provided a forum for faculty to present The Middle School Experience at OLV to parents at their recent meeting. Videotapes of this event are available upon request to Northville parents who are in the process of making enrollment decisions.

Thanks to the efforts of OLV teacher Sharon Brandt, Red Ribbon Week was celebrated in a very special and meaningful way at OLV this year. The school was wrapped in red ribbons inside and out. Every student wore a red ribbon throughout the week. Classrooms planned daily programs on chemical dependency and its consequences. Highlight of the week was a full day of teach-ins presented by professionals from Henry Ford Hospital-Maple Grove Center.

Grade Four won the Campbell Soup Label Contest in the school with 2,783 labels collected. The PTA rewarded them with an ice cream party.

Kindergarten Roundup and Registration is planned for Sunday, April 14, at 2:30 p.m. in the Church Social Hall. Mrs. Swift, kindergarten teacher, will make an audio-visual presentation. She welcomes parents to bring their children to this roundup.

First Grade Orientation will take place in the school library on Monday, April 15, at 7:30 p.m. Rita Nalodka, first-grade teacher, will be the presenter. She will discuss the goals and objectives of the first-grade curriculum at OLV. Only parents are invited to this evening function.

PTA recently sponsored a Book Mark Contest to mark National Reading Month. Winners were chosen from each grade level. They included: John Shefferly, Emily Monforton, Dainel Arnold, Katie Lemieux, David Nay, Danielle Raub and Sharyn Sanderson. These students were treated to ice cream at the Northville Pharmacy Ice Cream Shop. Their bookmarks were framed and hung in the school library. Duplicates were passed out to classmates to encourage them to participate in National Reading Month.

March 21 and 22 the students in grades K-5 attended Charlotte's Web at the Marquis Theatre. Two classmates, Christine Price and Tish Mazolla, are performing in the play. A good time was had by all.

ST. PAUL'S LUTHERAN
Many events are happening at St. Paul's Lutheran School to facilitate academic, social, emotional and spiritual growth among both students and staff. The School Choir, under the direction of Barbara Hoffmeier and Myra Prueter, received a Superior rating at the Music Festival competition which was held on Feb. 26 at Lutheran High Westland. Congratulations to all members of the choir and their directors.

During the week of March 11-15, St. Paul's joined with other Lutheran schools in celebrating National Lutheran Schools Week. Grandparents' Day was an especially interesting part of this special week. On that day, Monday, March 11, students were encouraged to bring their grandparents to school to spend an entire morning and to have lunch. Some students who did not have grandparents living nearby brought "adopted" grandparents. The grandparents attended class with the children and were encouraged to share their early school experiences with their grandchild's class. About 70 grandparents participated in this event.

On Thursday of Lutheran Schools Week, the Parent-Teacher League honored the entire staff of St. Paul's with a special Staff Appreciation Luncheon. Twenty members were honored in this way.

The week concluded in a CLASH Fair. CLASH is an acronym for the words Collections, Literature, Art, Science and History, and each student at St. Paul's was required to submit an entry to the fair in one of those five subject areas. Judging of the projects was done the evening prior to the fair, and each child's project was awarded a ribbon of first, second or third place based on a point value system. The panel of judges for the event consisted of four area educators: Colleen Foster, who teaches elementary students in a program for the gifted at Steppington Educational Center in Farmington Hills; Jo Krause, a retired teacher who has taught in public school and also at St. Paul's; Brad Massey, fourth-grade instructor at St. Paul's Lutheran School in Ann Arbor; and Professor Ken Schmidt, a member of the art department faculty of Concordia College in Ann Arbor. An extra added attraction to the fair was a hot dog supper which was enjoyed by St. Paul's faculty, students and their families.

On Wednesday, March 13, seventh-grader Mark Sander represented St. Paul's in the Area Spelling Bee which was held at Our Lady of Good Counsel in Plymouth. Mark placed ninth in a group of 30 area students.

All students of St. Paul's have recently participated in a service project which involved making puppets for children who are patients at Mott Children's Hospital in Ann Arbor. The students learned and worked on this project under the guidance of Florence Beardsley and Kathy Fox, who provided materials such as fabric, yarn and thread. 100 puppets were made and delivered to the Hospital and then were included as part of the patients' Easter packages.

St. Paul's has taken part in "Book-It," a reading incentive program sponsored by Pizza Hut. Children who fulfill a specific reading requirement by reading a certain number of hours or number of books each month are awarded a certificate for a free pizza at Pizza Hut. Those students who completed all five months of the program were treated to a Breakfast Banquet by St. Paul's Parent-Teacher League. Forty-five students were honored at the Breakfast on March 18.

On Sunday, March 24, the seventh and eighth grades traveled to Cross of Christ Lutheran Church in South Lyon where they presented, under the direction of their teacher, Robert Kuelbe, three chancel dramas depicting three different Bible stories: the story of Lazarus, Palm Sunday and the Crucifixion of Jesus. The acting of the group combined with dramatic music and lighting contributed to a meaningful and poignant experience for those in the congregation.

Special upcoming events at the school include a presentation by an area meteorologist and a trip by the fifth grade to visit the Capitol in Lansing. St. Paul's Lutheran School and Church are located at 201 Elm Street, Northville.

The Northville Record publishes "PTA News" on Thursdays, on the following schedule: first Thursday of the month, private/parochial schools; second Thursday, Northville High School; third Thursday, middle schools; and fourth Thursday, elementary schools. The deadline is the Friday before the Thursday of publication. All schools are encouraged to participate. Submit articles, including name and phone number of the writer, to 104 W. Broadway returns to Marquis

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

Artists from the Michigan Opera Theatre's Department of Community Programs will be joined by eight young performers April 12 in a return engagement at Northville's historic Marquis Theatre.

The performance, titled Broadway Connection, is billed as a sparkling, fast-paced musical revue of Broadway melodies from the past and present, appealing to audiences of all ages.

The show's highlights include the famous show tunes of Irving Berlin and Harold Arlen, as well as selections from contemporary Broadway shows such as Big River, Evita, and West Side Story. Also included is an elegant and romantic tribute to the world of operetta, featuring the music of Sigmund Romberg and Victor Herbert.

Performer Mark Vondrak said this year's show will follow the theme set by last October's performances of Broadway Babies and Phantom at the Marquis. That show also featured a wide selection of popular tunes, he said.

"We did some operetta, we did some Phantom of the Opera, we did some Rodgers and Hammerstein, Les Miserables, some Gershwin and some Cole Porter," he said, "and we're coming back to do basically the same type of show with all new material."

The performers are looking forward to returning to Northville and the city's appreciative audiences, Vondrak said.

"We always have a good time and we always enjoy performing at the Marquis," he said. "It's good to be on the stage, and it's nice to see legitimate theater still operating along those lines."

Broadway Connection will be performed at the Marquis for three consecutive weekends, Friday through Sunday, between April 12-28. Friday and Saturday performances are at 8 p.m., with Sunday performances starting at 2:30 p.m.

Additional weekday performances are scheduled for Tuesday, April 16 at 2:30 p.m., Tuesday, April 23 at 8 p.m., and Wednesday and Thursday, April 24 and 25, at 2:30 p.m.

Tickets for the three weekday matinee performances are $7.50 each, with April 23 tickets priced at $9, all Friday and Sunday performances at $10 and Saturday performances at $11.

To reserve tickets, call the Marquis Theatre at 349-8110.

VERDI OPERA: Genitti's Hole-in-the-Wall Restaurant announces two evening performances of the "Verdi Opera Dinner Theatre" on March 21 at 7:30 p.m. All arias are performed live by the Verdi Opera Theatre of Michigan.

The standard seven-course dinner, served family-style, in addition to old-world atmosphere and humor of John Genitti makes this evening a rare treat.

"For opera lovers this is a must," said John Genitti. "Tom and I have been wanting to do something like this for a long time."

The Genitti family, of John, Tom, Andy, Laura and Christina, as well as the many employees, make guests feel comfortable and relaxed. The family-style dinners are reminiscent of a large Italian wedding.

"We will explain the story line, scene and content of each aria to our guests," Genitti explained. "We will help them appreciate opera, even for our guests that have never been exposed to opera before. Our guests have come to expect something different and exciting from us. We will continue to provide an enjoyable evening of dinner and entertainment."

Genitti's is also known for its Murder Mystery dinner theater. Performances are every Friday night at 7:30, and include the seven-course dinner. Reservations are required.

The "Verdi Opera Dinner Theatre" night, including the dinner and a glass of wine, costs $25 per person (including tax and tip). Phone 349-0522 for further information or reservations, which are required.

Route 10 Gallery offers glass art

This April in celebration of Michigan Glass Month the Route 10 Gallery of Farmington Hills is pleased to present "A Touch of Glass." Several local artists will be represented, each using the glass medium in their own unique style.

Featured artists are Michelle Plucinsky and Marti Johnson, both from Center for Creative Studies, and Jeffrey Black, a 1990 recipient of the Juror's Merit Award.

There will be a reception to meet the artists on April 7 from noon to 3 p.m. Refreshments will be served.

In addition to the work of the three artists, glass furniture, fused glass and a large array of glass jewelry will be shown.

The Route 10 Gallery is located at 32430 Northwestern Highway in Farmington Hills. Its hours are Wednesday through Sunday 11 a.m. to 5 p.m., Thursday 11 a.m. to 9 p.m. and closed on Monday and Tuesday. Please call 932-4160 for more information.

SLEUTH: Meadow Brook Artistic Director Terence Kilburn announced today that "Sleuth" will replace "Inherit the Wind" in the March 26 to April 21 slot at the professional theater at Oakland University.

Kilburn states, "The freeze on state funds allotted to arts organizations throughout Michigan, plus an anticipated downturn in fundraising due to economic conditions, necessitates our cutting expenses. 'Inherit the Wind,' with its 27-member cast, is just too expensive to do at this time. We will produce it in our 1991-92 season."

Anthony Shaffer's "Sleuth," called "The best thriller I have ever seen" by former New York Times drama critic Clive Barnes, received a Tony for its Broadway production and was made into an Academy Award-winning movie starring Lawrence Olivier and Michael Caine.

Arthur Beer and Alexander Wedd will head the cast.

Playwright-director Charles Nolte will direct "Sleuth." Nolte's adaptation of "A Christmas Carol" is staged annually at Meadow Brook.

WSU BENEFIT PLAY: The Wayne State University Theatre Department announces the selection of "Playboy of the West Indies" by Mustapha Matura as the 1991 Martin Molson Scholarship benefit production. The play is produced by Wayne State University's Black Theatre Program and runs April 4-6 and 11-13 at the WSU Studio Theatre (downstairs at the Hilberry Theatre at Cass and Hancock).

The Black Theatre Program is an integral part of the Wayne State University Theatre Department. The program's function is to provide experience in Black culture to both the university and the community.

The proceeds from the Martin Molson Scholarship production are awarded to worthy undergraduates to help defray educational costs as they hone their skills in acting, directing and designing.

"Playboy of the West Indies" is an adaptation of "The Playboy of the Western World" by J.M. Synge. This adaptation set in the small village of Mayoka in Trinidad, is also a romantic comedy about hero worship. While Synge used the Irish folk vernacular, Matura's version uses the poetic language of the West Indian people.

Ticket prices are $6 for adults, $4 for students, staff, faculty, alumni and senior citizens. Reservations can be made by calling the box office at 577-2972.

MELODRAMA: The Brecht Company, Ann Arbor's respected 12-year-old theater troupe, will return to the stage in early April with a production of Bernard Shaw's tongue-in-cheek melodrama, "The Devil's Disciple."

Performances will run Thursdays through Saturdays at 8 p.m., Sundays at 1 p.m., April 4-14, at the Residential College Auditorium, 701 E. University Ave. in Ann Arbor. Tickets are priced at $5 on Thursdays and Sundays, $6 on Fridays and Saturdays, with a $2 discount available to students and seniors for all regular performances. Tickets will be available at the door only, which will open one half hour before showtime. For further information, please call 747-4354.

"A DAY IN THE DEATH": The multi-levels of love, marriage and parental responsibility provide a backdrop for "A Day in the Death of Joe Egg" by Peter Nichols, a play rampant with black humor, ruthless honesty and razor-sharp insight that will run on the Ann Arbor Civic Theatre MainStreet stage Thursdays through Saturdays, April 4-20. The Utopia 2

Energy conserving and natural light

BY JAMES MCALEXANDER
Copley News Service

The front door leads into a small air lock, which in turn opens into the entry area.

To the left is a "great room" area, with a living room area recessed into the entry court and a dining area above.

Kitchen features include a separate cooking top and wall oven, a freezer, and a snack bar that has a vegetable preparation area.

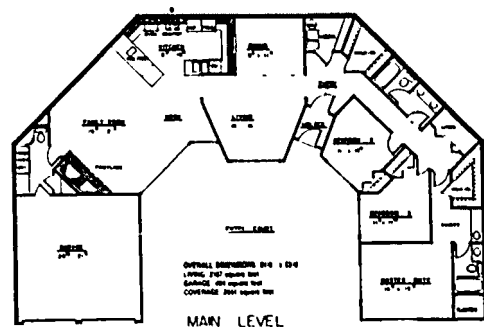

A nook is located just below the kitchen, and blends into the family room. The family room area features a fireplace and oversize windows looking out into the entry court.

At the end of this wing of the home is a utility space with half bath, with access to the attached garage.

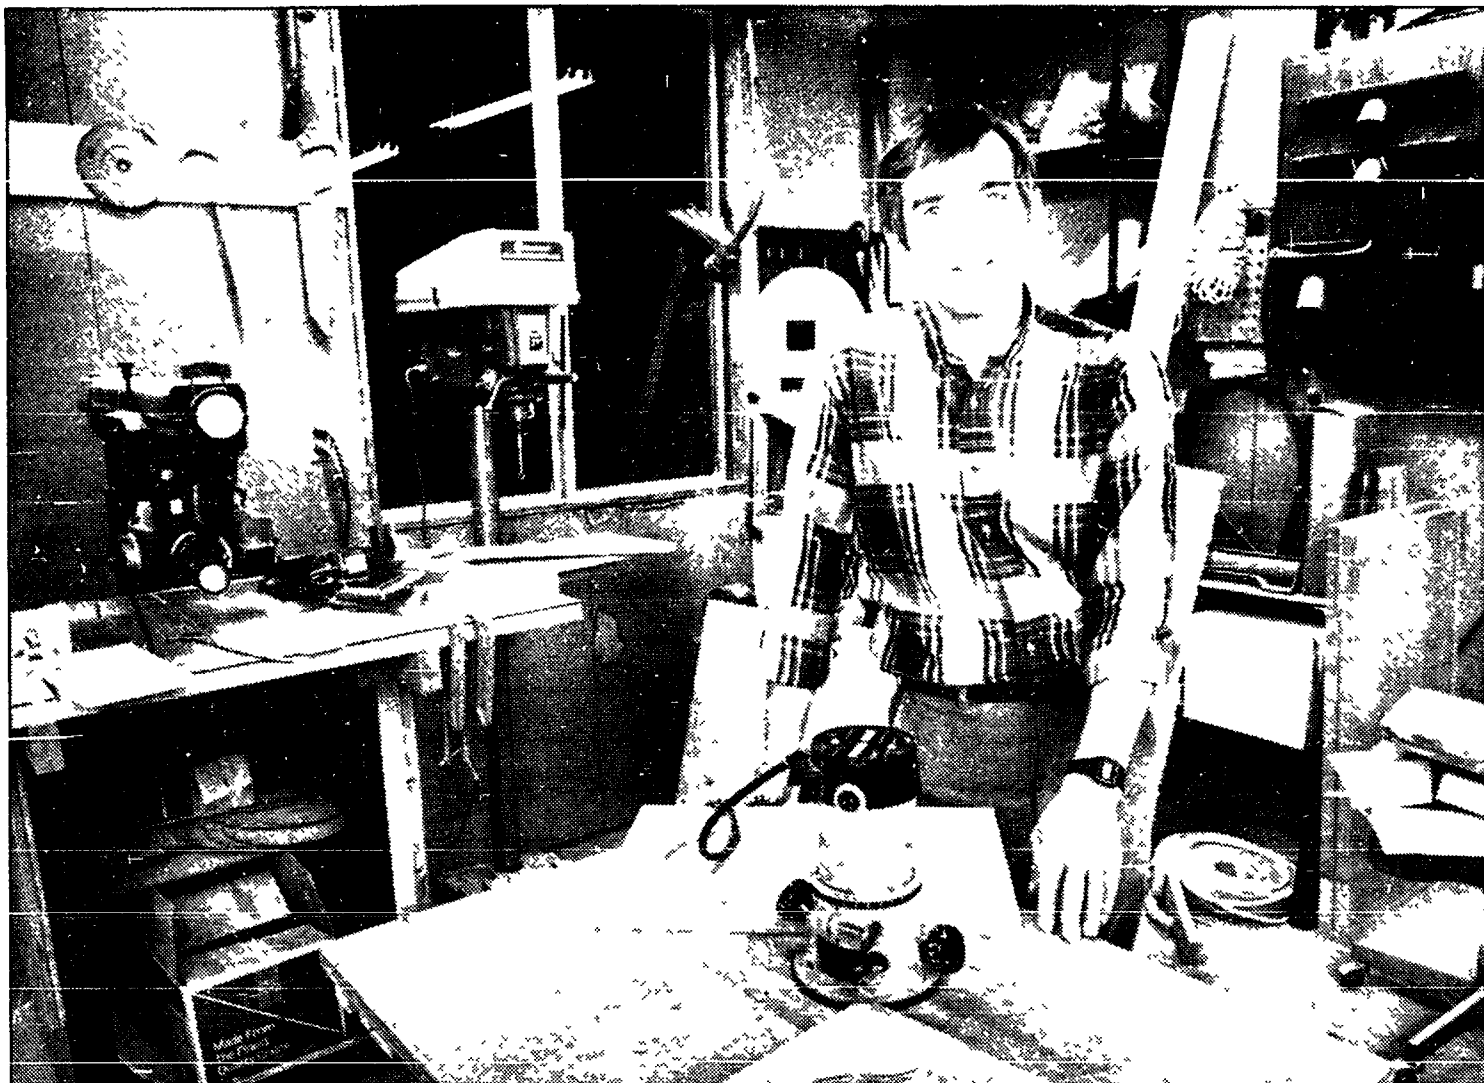

To the right of the entry is the family's private area: a full bath, a large linen storage area, and two bedrooms, both with ample closet space. At the end of the hall is the master suite, featuring a full walk-in closet and a separate bath with enclosed planter off the tub.

The utilization of the shed roofs allows for a clerestory area with celestial windows, and the front entry court/solarium increases the availability of natural light.

The earth-sheltered idea behind the Utopia 2 allows for conservation of energy by providing natural insulation, while allowing the home to literally blend into the surrounding terrain.

WORKING WOOD WELL

"If I can't blow my nose and get a bucketful of sawdust, there's something wrong."

BY AILEEN WINGBLAD
Special Writer

"The difficult we do immediately. The impossible takes a little longer."

So says Cliff Drochak, a self-taught furniture maker from Highland Township.

Albeit a rather unusual approach to life, Drochak does seem to follow this credo as he meets challenges head-on — particularly when it comes to his at-home hobby: designing and creating wooden furniture, cabinetry and decorative items.

"I enjoy everything about woodworking. It's a lot of work and takes plenty of concentration, but it's really a lot of fun, too," says Drochak.

Indeed, Drochak's love of the craft is apparent as he proudly shows off his creations, many of which are part of his personal home furnishings and accessories. From occasional tables to glass-enclosed cabinets, to the family dining table to a delicate-looking yet sturdy Windsor side chair, Drochak is a master of versatility, customizing and innovation. He's even designed and built pint-sized seating with a matching desk and play table for his daughter Kimberly, 2-1/2.

Quite simply, Drochak says he just doesn't "feel right" if he's not surrounded by the sights, sounds and scents of woodworking in progress.

"If I can't blow my nose and get a bucketful of sawdust, there's something wrong," he quips.

"I grew up in sawdust," adds Drochak, 42, a construction project manager and estimator by trade who spent his teen years as a carpenter's assistant.

He says he learned most of his woodworking techniques from reading magazines and craft books, as well as from talking with others who share his penchant for the art. Lots of trial and error, especially when he sets out with a new design idea, is also part of the creative process, but Drochak says that's what it takes to make heirloom quality pieces.

In fact, Drochak says his furnishings are all built to "last forever." He focuses on using the best wood for each project — he usually prefers cherry for most — and pays particular attention to structural soundness when putting a piece together, as with chairs, for example.

"My chairs will last a million years. I look at chairs as I would a building — structurally, it should act like a high-rise," explains Drochak. "Instead of wind load, it's the wiggle of a person and the leaning back that puts the stress on the individual joints. The joiners are what is most important."

A lack of good joints, Drochak says, is a major flaw of plenty of commercial furniture on the market today, along with poor quality of wood that is sometimes used. But by going with a custom-ordered piece, such as those created by Drochak, there is the assurance of quality wood, as well as close-to-endless design possibilities.

"I will sit and work with someone to come up with the design they want, whether it's from a conglomeration of ideas or whatever. Then, I'll make shop drawings before actually starting to make the piece," he says.

Incidentally, all of Drochak's works have hand-rubbed, paste-wax finishes, a process which takes longer than the more-common polyurethane coating but is more durable, he says. And because of its finer grain, cherry wood is usually his wood of choice because it lends itself to more intricate detail work without splitting and, he says, it has a warm, rich finish that darkens with age.

Drochak says he'd like to turn his hobby into full-time occupation someday, given a steady flow of custom orders.

But for now, he'll continue to work with precision and patience, with an eye toward developing a distinct character within each piece he creates.

REAL ESTATE

Real estate enters age of specialization

BY JAMES M. WOODARD
Copley News Service

"Real estate professional" is a term most often used to identify brokers, builders or developers. But there are an increasing number and variety of specialists in today's market — people who focus their professional expertise on a narrow niche of real estate service.

As in the medical field and other professions, real estate is moving into the age of specialization. Buyers' brokers (representing buyers' interests only), real estate counselors, exchange specialists, relocation consultants, international brokerage — these and other precise fields of service are among the growing breed of specialists. These niche professionals are found in all major markets throughout the country.

In a traditional home-seeking situation, a prospective buyer responds to an advertised property by contacting the broker named in the ad. This is usually (but not always) the broker who has an exclusive listing on the property. If seriously interested, the prospect works out a purchase offer contract with that broker.

Most prospective buyers do not realize that this broker is legally and ethically an agent (or subagent) for the seller. It's his responsibility to land the best possible deal for his seller client. In most cases this arrangement works out well because the broker must satisfy and bring together all parties in the transaction if a sale is to be consummated and a commission earned.

However, the matter of broker representation has become increasingly controversial in recent years. Forty-three states have adopted disclosure rules and regulations to be sure home buyers are aware of whom the brokers represent. Full consumer disclosure is mandated. And that has resulted in the increasing number of buyers' brokers.

"About 30,000 to 38,000 buyer representatives are operating in the residential real estate business today," said Barry Miller, president of Buyer's Resource Inc., an education-information center for consumers and brokers based in Denver.

Most of these specialists are located in the nation's West and Southwest regions, but are now emerging at points throughout the country, he noted.

Harley E. Rouda, president of the National Association of Realtors, believes the role of the buyers' broker is in the future but hasn't really taken hold yet—at least in his market in and around Columbus, Ohio. He heads a brokerage firm with 22 offices and 475 associates. Of the 5,200 homes sold by his firm last year, 25 involved a buyers' broker, he said.

Real estate counseling or consulting is another increasingly active area of specialization. This involves communicating information and recommendations to a client for a fee. Each assignment often includes a substantial amount of research by the counselor-consultant.

Professional real estate counseling has never been more important than it is today, according to N.A.R. President Rouda.

"With the savings and loan crisis, problems related to the Resolution Trust Corp. and complex purchasing and financing arrangements prevalent in today's market, expert advice and guidance are essential to the success of projects."

The largest organization of counselors is the 900-member American Society of Real Estate Counselors, an affiliate of N.A.R. established in 1953. Membership is attained by invitation of peers only, said Eugene Carver, S.R.E.C. president.

Relocation counseling is also an increasingly important area of specialization, particularly the process of selling one home and purchasing another in a distant location. Full-time relocation counselors are now retained by many major broker firms. They work closely with corporate personnel directors and individual transferees.

The only independent trade council available to relocation specialists is the Employee Relocation Council (ERC). This group recently reported that more than 12,000 relocation professionals now transfer about 270,000 people annually. A year ago, E.R.C. created a professional designation for relocation specialists—Certified Relocation Professional (CRP).

International real estate brokerage and counseling is also becoming a major specialization. The major trade association of people specializing in international brokerage is the International

Real Estate Federation, known by its French acronym FIABCI. This growing 1,200-member organization now has chapters in 44 countries, including a very active U.S. chapter. The group established the professional designation Certified International Property Specialist (CIPS).

As real estate transactions become more complex and high-tech communications open doors to international activities, the need for specialists grows.

Q. Now that the Persian Gulf War is over, what are the prospects for real estate sales activity for the remainder of 1991?

A. Prospects are excellent for a revitalized real estate market. It was good even before the end of the war. Now the prognosis is better. That's the consensus of most real estate analysts.

Q. Are Japanese investors continuing to increase their purchase of U.S. real estate?

A. No. Japanese acquisitions have tapered off in recent months, according to a survey of Japanese executives by Mead Ventures Inc., a Phoenix-based research and publishing firm.

Cabinetmaker did not mark his work

BY JAMES G. MCCOLLAM
Copley News Service

Q. This is a picture of our oak kitchen cabinet. I would like to know who manufactured it, date of manufacture and current retail value.

A. Since your kitchen cabinet is unmarked, it is impossible to identify the maker. It was made in the early 1900s and would probably sell in an antique shop for $800 to $900 in good condition.

Q. Please provide me with whatever information you can about my figurine of a brown and white spaniel dog holding a ball in his mouth.

It is about 6 inches high and marked with a crown and the letters, "R.C."

A. The mark indicates that this was made by Rosenthal China in Selb, Germany.

It was probably made in the early 1900s and might sell for $125 to $135.

Q. I have a small cream pitcher in the shape of a cow. It has a white body with orange spots, tall and horns. It is marked "Czechoslovakia."

I have been told that it is over 100 years old. Can you confirm this? I would also like to know its value.

A. This cream pitcher is not 100 years old. Czechoslovakia was founded in 1918; anything so marked was made after that date.

It would probably sell for $35 to $45.

Q. The mark on the bottom of my vase is an eagle with the letters, "M.Z." The vase is 10 inches tall and has 8 portrait of an old-fashioned lady in an elaborate gown.

Can you tell me anything about its origin and value?

A. The mark you describe was used by the Moritz Zdekauer Co. in Althofen, Austria, during the late 19th century.

It would probably sell for about $125 to $135 in an antique shop. Q. The attached mark is on the bottom of a hat-pin holder that is 6 inches tall and 3 inches in diameter. It is fine porcelain and hand painted with daisies and poppies.

A. This mark was used by the Schlegelmilch brothers in Suhl and Tillowitz, Germany, during the late 19th and early 20th centuries.

Your hat-pin holder was probably made about 1910 and might sell for $125 to $135.

How to fix your squeaking floor

BY GENE GARY
Copley News Service

Q. We have a two-story town house. The upper level (where the bedrooms are) has an annoying squeak in the flooring.

Is there any way this can be corrected?

I would particularly like to know if something can be done without removing the wall-to-wall carpeting.

A. It is very likely that loose floorboards are causing the problem and need to be resecured to the subflooring.

Finished wood flooring is comprised of planks nailed or screwed into the floor. Squeaks result when two loose floorboards are stepped on and rub together.

However, in today's modern construction it is a common practice to install carpeting directly on subflooring, which is made of lumber or plywood sheets supported by beams called joists. These joists are usually spaced 16 inches apart.

Subflooring that has dried out or warped and pulled away from the joists can also cause squeaks.

First, isolate the noisy spots. Have an assistant help you by walking around on the floor, while you listen for the squeaks.

In the area of the squeaks, use 2-inch ring-shank finishing nails to secure the loose flooring strips to the subflooring. You can hammer the nail right through the carpeting and use a nail set to drive the head flush with the floorboard. The nail hole in the carpet should be undetectable.

If you suspect that the subflooring, rather than the finishing flooring is loose, toenail from above into the joist or beam that is under the saddle.

Toenailing is a term describing the method of driving two nails into the joist at an angle crossing each other, so that they form a "V." This gives the nails a much better grip than if they were driven in at a straight angle. The nails should be spaced an inch or two apart. Hammer the nails most of the way in; then countersink the nail heads.

If loosening of floorboards or subflooring is extensive, it will be best to remove the carpeting. This will give you a better opportunity to inspect the condition of the flooring, as well as pinpoint the exact area of squeaks.

To locate joists use a block of wood and a hammer, and tap along the surface of the floor. The sound will be dull and hollow; when it sounds more solid, you are over a joist.

Send inquiries to Here's How, Copley News Service, P.O. Box 190, San Diego, CA 92112-0190. Only questions of general interest can be answered in the column.

Shade plants

Some of the loveliest garden plants thrive in the shade:

- Hosta (plantain lily) is an easy-care plant with highly decorative, tropical foliage.
- Bleeding heart comes in three varieties—regular pink, a dwarf variety and white-flowering.
- Bergenia are imposing spring-flowering plants with spikes of pink or white flowers and large leathery foliage.
- Lungwort has sky blue, milk white or pinkish red flowers in spring, one variety has silver spotted foliage.

Bleeding heart

Copley News Service/Dan Clifford

From 'volunteer' flowers to shade lovers

BY PATRICK DENTON
Copley News Service

Today I have some green spring thoughts to share with my gardening friends.

SELF-SOWN FLOWERS

Over the years I have come to appreciate those tough, generous flowers that happily reseed themselves to bloom year after year in the garden. It seems to me that these easy "volunteers" would be ideal for growing in spots the gardener would just as soon not have to concentrate much effort on.

Nasturtiums, for example, are ideal for places where a summer-flowering carpet would be a yearly attraction. Tall, old-fashioned cosmos is perfect for a sunny corner, perhaps against a fence. Both these flowers self-sow with enthusiasm.

Other flowers that have perpetuated themselves beautifully in my garden include foxglove and Canterbury bells, forget-me-not, poppies, vicia, calendula, echium (bugloss), poached egg flower (limnanthes), lobelia, linaria (baby snapdragon), alyssum, pansy, portulaca, love-in-a-mist (nigella) and canary bird vine.

Among the herbs dill, Italian (flat-leaved) and curly parsley, and summer savory self-sow year

Of course all this reproductive abandon does depend upon a certain amount of laissez-faire. Plants meticulously manicured to remove every faded flower to the end of the season will be sadly frustrated in their urges to perpetuate themselves.

Neither do man-made hybrids work well for a self-perpetuating flower bed. Any seed that does form on such hybrid plants, if it germinates at all, will yield plants and flowers that are throwbacks to traits in their ancestry. This is surely not a disaster in a "gift" flower bed. Still, it's the old-fashioned, open-pollinated sorts of hardy flowers that shine at reinvigorating themselves with comfort and precision.

TOMATOES FOR DRYING

Dried tomato halves or slices are quite the current rage for use in winter salads, pasta dishes and pizzas. Italian plum, or pasta, tomatoes are best for drying since they are naturally low in juice and high in pulp. For the most highly concentrated flavor in these tomatoes, plant in a fully sunny, warm site and give the plants a fertile, humusy soil.

San Marzano and Roma are longstanding favorite and often recommended Italian plum tomato varieties. But where the season is cool or short, select from among the earlier paste tomatoes. Nova is an example.

Bellestar is a new, large-fruited plum tomato developed in Ontario. I've not grown it yet, but the fruits are described in catalogs that I respect as being very flavorful.

One of the sources is Johnny's Selected Seeds, a company that tests varieties rigorously before listing them. The address for Johnny's is Foss Hill Road, Albion, ME 04910. The catalog is free.

Also carrying Bellestar is Stokes Seeds, P.O. Box 548, Buffalo, NY 14240 or Box 10, St. Catharines, Ontario, Canada, L2R 6R6. The catalog is free.

SHADE

Many people consider shade to be a problem. But actually some of the loveliest garden plants thrive in shade. You will find local garden outlets responding this spring to the increasing demand for shade plants.

There will be more varieties of hosta (plantain lily) than ever before. These are easy-care plants with highly decorative, tropical foliage. Ferns are another easy-care shade plant.

Feathery-flowered astilbes, lily-of-the-valley and Solomon's seal with its arching sprays of little white bells are more examples of choice shade plants.

You will find three kinds of bleeding heart in many outlets—the regular pink and a dwarf variety as well as a white-flowering one.

An excellent woodland shade plant is wild ginger (Asarum), notable mainly for its deep glossy green heart-shaped foliage.

The bergenia are imposing spring flowering plants with imposing spikes of pink or white flowers. Their large leathery foliage is striking as well.

A sweet little plant is liverleaf (Hepatica), which grows in a neat rosette of dainty foliage above which appears a cloud of pale lavender flowers early in the spring.

Lungwort (Pulmonaria) is a well-known and highly valued shade plant with sky blue, milk white or pinkish red flowers in spring. One variety has silver spotted foliage.

All these plants benefit from a layer of damp peat moss mixed with compost or compost manure placed over the root area as growth begins at winter's end, to help maintain high levels of humus and moisture in the soil.

recycle those ideas.

Two hundred years ago, your freedom was guaranteed in writing. In the Bill of Rights. Because of those words, you're free to choose your own life. You can say, read, pray and be whatever you like.

But these rights have to be renewed every year. They have to be applied to our ever-changing lifestyle.

That means you have to make sure our government re-affirms these promises. And it will. As long as you protect your freedoms.

Find out about your rights. Find out what you can do to recycle them. Call (202) USA-1787 for more information.

Read the Bill of Rights.
It's the code you live by.

12 alternatives to lashing out at your kid.

The next time everyday pressures build up to the point where you feel like lashing out—STOP!
And try any of these simple alternatives.

- 1. Take a deep breath. And another. Then remember you are the adult . . .
- 2. Close your eyes and imagine you're hearing what your child is about to hear.
- 3. Press your lips together and count to 10. Or better yet, to 20.
- 4. Put your child in a time-out chair. (Remember the rule: one time-out minute for each year of age.)
- 5. Put yourself in a time-out chair. Think about why you are angry: Is it your child, or is your child simply a convenient target for your anger?
- 6. Phone a friend.
- 7. If someone can watch the children, go outside and take a walk.
- 8. Take a hot bath or splash cold water on your face.
- 9. Hug a pillow.
- 10. Turn on some music. Maybe even sing along.
- 11. Pick up a pencil and write down as many helpful words as you can think of. Save the list.
- 12. Write for prevention information: National Committee for Prevention of Child Abuse, Box 2866L, Chicago, IL 60690.

You'll feel better . . . and so will your child.

Linda Sharron (l) and Pat Fons (r) help tailor a wedding gown for Barb Shelton at Allure Bridal Salon

Bridal salon puts emphasis on service

The Allure Bridal Salon is a new bridal shop which has opened at 49308 Wainstock in Wixom.

Owners Linda Sharron and Patti Fons offer a whole range of bridal gowns, tuxedos and accessories from their Victorian-style manor house. Though they are new to the area, they have been in the bridal business 29 years, and have experienced personnel who can work with a bride to meet her needs for wedding day.

Personal service is important to the bride-to-be, and Fons and Sharron always extend a helping hand.

"We do a lot of special things," said Fons. "We'll make a lot of extra things that other shops won't do. For example, other shops may not make a handbag to match their garter or whatever. We've done that."

They also try to be up front and honest about costs involved, too.

"We just tell them the truth about what to watch out for in other stores," said Fons. "When we give an estimate, it's honest. We've had customers tell us they thought it was very honest. It's better that they know, instead of getting the dress and having the salesperson say, 'Oh, it was plus this and plus that.'"

Allure is even willing to go above and beyond the call of duty.

"For one of the prom girls that we had in here recently, we made a videotape of her to show her grandmother who's ill in Florida," said Fons.

Prom dresses are part of the Allure program. Allure can provide gowns for the bride, bridesmaids and mother of the bride, and a selection of invitations is available. As a special service, custom-made headpieces and crinoline rentals are offered. Allure also handles all its own alterations.

Business hours are Mondays and Thursdays 10 a.m. to 9 p.m., Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Fridays 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., and Saturdays 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Call 960-1500.

JOYCE JOHNSON

SUSAN VETTRAINO

DR. DAVID M. SHEPHERD, an eye surgeon with the DMC Health Care Centers in Novi and Detroit, is now able to offer patients a one-stitch cataract surgical procedure which allows for a quicker recovery time.

Traditional cataract surgery has required multiple stitches to close an incision needed to remove a cataract. The one-stitch method, performed on a same-day, outpatient basis, usually means less discomfort and faster recovery for patients, an important consideration for older people. In addition, patients are able to get glasses within a few days after surgery rather than waiting six or more weeks as with conventional methods. Today, comparatively few surgeons are trained to perform the one-stitch method.

Using a technique called phacoemulsification, Shepherd extracts the cloudy lens through a micro-incision no more than three-sixteenths of an inch long. One self-absorbing stitch is usually all that is needed to close the incision. This results in minimal trauma to the eye, less distortion of vision and a much shorter wait for glasses.

"I am pleased to be able to offer my patients a procedure which means most of them will be able to see better sooner," says Shepherd.

Shepherd specializes in cataract surgery and is a board-certified ophthalmologist. He has been in practice since 1978 and is affiliated with several Detroit Medical Center hospitals including Harper, Grace, and Huron Valley.

For more information about the new procedure and to learn if a person is medically eligible for the surgery, please call Dr. Shepherd's offices at the DMC Health Care Centers, 41935 West 12 Mile Road in Novi, at 347-8030 or at 22341 West Eight Mile Road in Detroit at 538-4700.

Manufacturers National Bank of Detroit announced several recent officer promotions and appointments. Among them was Novi resident SUSAN VETTRAINO, who was named an operations officer in the deposit accounting-administration department.

Medical expenses yield tax break

Money Management

In totaling your expenses, remember that you may deduct the payment of medical bills for you, your spouse and your children, even if you are divorced and your ex-spouse is entitled to claim the children as dependents. Generally, you may also include the medical expenses you pay for any person you claim as a dependent.

Be sure to look beyond the obvious for expenses that are eligible for the medical deduction. In addition to the more common expenses such as doctor, dentist and hospital bills, you may deduct the cost of transportation to and from the doctor, hospital or pharmacy; special items like eyeglasses and contact lenses, dentures and hearing aids; health, hospitalization and Medicare insurance premiums; and prescription drugs and insulin.

While medical expenses generally do not lend themselves very well to tax planning, timing can be an important tax strategy to follow when it comes to deducting medical expenses.

If you have incurred heavy medical expenses this year and are approaching or exceeding the 7.5-percent floor, it may be wise to accelerate any planned medical expenses that can be scheduled at your convenience. This just might be the right time to buy that extra pair of eyeglasses or contact lenses, refill a prescription that is running low, schedule that long-delayed routine checkup, plan for elective surgery finally get the dental work done that you have been putting off. The costs of a face lift, tummy tuck and hair transplant may also qualify as deductible medical expenses. By paying for all the procedures in the same year, you increase your chances of deducting these expenses.

Since medical bills are deductible in the year you pay them, you may be able to maximize your deduction simply by controlling the timing of your payment. Be sure you know the rules. If you pay by check, the day you deliver or mail the payment is considered the payment date regardless of when the check is cashed. If you use your credit card to charge a medical expense, the date you make the charge is considered the payment date, not the date you pay your bill. So, if you are looking to maximize this year's deduction, be sure your payment is mailed or charged by Dec. 31. Keep in mind, however, that if your return is selected for an audit, you may be asked to provide proof for large, year-end checks written to doctors, dentists and hospitals.

On the other hand, if it appears that your medical deductions for the year will not reach the 7.5-percent threshold, try to delay paying outstanding medical bills until 1991. The strategy of deferring the payment of medical bills to next year is also a good one to follow when you suspect that your adjusted gross income will be significantly lower next year.

Stores target thieving employees

"Our primary focus is education. The loss prevention manager at each store is involved in the training of every employee. We also use videotapes to educate employees on the behavior pattern of shoplifters."

Philip C. Way,
K mart director of loss prevention

73 percent of the security and loss prevention total.

Department stores spent two to three times more than specialty stores or drug chains and supermarkets, as a percentage of sales, to combat losses. An informal survey of local department stores confirms concern with employee theft, although most retailers admit that getting an exact handle on each factor in the shrinkage equation is difficult.

At K mart, Philip C. Way, director of loss prevention, wouldn't divulge company statistics but said that the average employee theft involves considerably more merchandise or cash than a customer incident. Way also said that K mart's shrinkage is below the 2-percent national average.

"Our primary focus is education," said Way. "The loss prevention manager at each store is involved in the training of every employee. We also use videotapes to educate employees on the behavior pattern of shoplifters."

But K mart also aims surveillance at employees through routine observation and investigations of cash or merchandise discrepancies. The K mart accounting system can track individual departments at each store. The laundering of merchandise tends to be a team effort with a non-employee, Way said, while employees usually act alone when stealing cash.

Hudson's relies on a sophisticated computer system to thwart employee theft, according to spokesperson Susan L. Kelly.

"Our initial training for employees has a segment on shrinkage and loss prevention; our employees are informed on what our computer system can do, which often acts as a deterrent," Kelly said. "Our policy is to prosecute employees and customers whenever possible."

Local loss prevention managers see no clear pattern or profile for the dishonest employee.

K mart's Way believes that there is less employee theft with increasing age and length of service. "Other workers haven't gained a stake in our business yet," Way said.

Sears Fricker, with more than 16 years' experience in loss prevention, isn't so sure.

"Unhappy employees may be more likely to steal," Fricker said, "but if I knew why employees steal, I'd quit here and become a millionaire. The problem is difficult and getting more difficult. I hate to see people hurt themselves."

Kenneth Stedman, director of security for Crowley, Milner and Co., is also perplexed.

"I have never found any real correlation between male or female, black or white, young or old," said Stedman, who has 23 years in loss prevention. "The need, as the employee perceives it, and opportunity are the deciding factors."

Stedman also confirms a surprising finding of the loss survey. Forty-five percent of employee thefts were detected at the point of sale, the cash register. This may include false voids, a phony return or undercharging friends for merchandise. Only 10 percent of employee thefts were detected in the stock area.

"There's nothing really new," Stedman said. "Employees keep reinventing the wheel. They try to cover tracks wherever they leave them. Theft of merchandise is least on the list."

But Crowley's has a handle on the problem, Stedman said. In addition to computer inventory systems and plenty of closed-circuit cameras, Crowley's is fighting money losses with money.

Selling staff receive rewards for pointing out thieves: $25 plus 25 percent of the merchandise value for customer theft, and $350 plus 10 percent when identifying employees who steal.

Stedman said this program has helped Crowley's achieve a 1.34-percent shrinkage rate for 1989, well below the 2-percent national average.

Crowley's is also hard on those caught stealing. "We prosecute 80 percent of cases, employee or customer," Stedman said. "We make sure it's a winning case, and we have lost only one case in three years."

Michigan laws against retail fraud are stiff. First-time theft under $100 (second-degree retail fraud) is a misdemeanor with a maximum penalty of 93 days in jail and/or a $100 fine. Theft of $100 or greater, or a second offense of any value, brings the charge to first-degree retail fraud, a felony subject to a maximum penalty of two years in jail and/or $1,000 fine. Stores are allowed to apprehend those caught stealing under the principle of citizen's arrest.

The national survey also claimed that 55 percent of employee thefts were related to drug use, a relationship that was not confirmed by local stores. None of the local stores surveyed test employees for drugs.

A detailed black and white illustration of an Estwing hammer. The hammer features a classic claw design with a single curved claw. The head is shown in profile, highlighting the striking face and the curved claw. The handle is long and tapers slightly, with a dark, textured grip section near the head. The Estwing logo, which includes the word "Estwing" in a bold, sans-serif font followed by a stylized wing, is positioned below the hammer head.

NEED A NEW LOOK?

Come to Gerald's For A Complimentary Consultation.

Our Hair Care Experts Can Help You Choose The Look That Suits You Best.

Receive a gift of $5 off your first visit with each consultation.

S WIMMER'S HAIR

At last — a product that truly removes iron, minerals and chlorine from hair leaving it in great condition. It's new. It works wonders. And, it's available now at all Gerald's salons. Ask us about it during your next visit.

M ODEL SEARCH

"You ought to be in pictures babe". If you've heard that line before and think it applies to you, this could be your chance to break into the limelight.

Gerald's, in conjunction with New York fashion photographer Christian Pollard, is conducting a model search and will be scouting the metropolitan-Detroit area during April and May for fresh new faces. One winner will be selected each month.

If you would like to be a contestant, simply bring a 4 x 6 photo or polaroid shot of yourself to any Gerald's salon. Your address and phone number must be included on the photo.

The winner of our contest will be awarded a complimentary photo shoot with Christian Pollard as well as hair styling and a make-up application from Gerald's. The lucky winner will also have her photo submitted to a New York modeling agency.

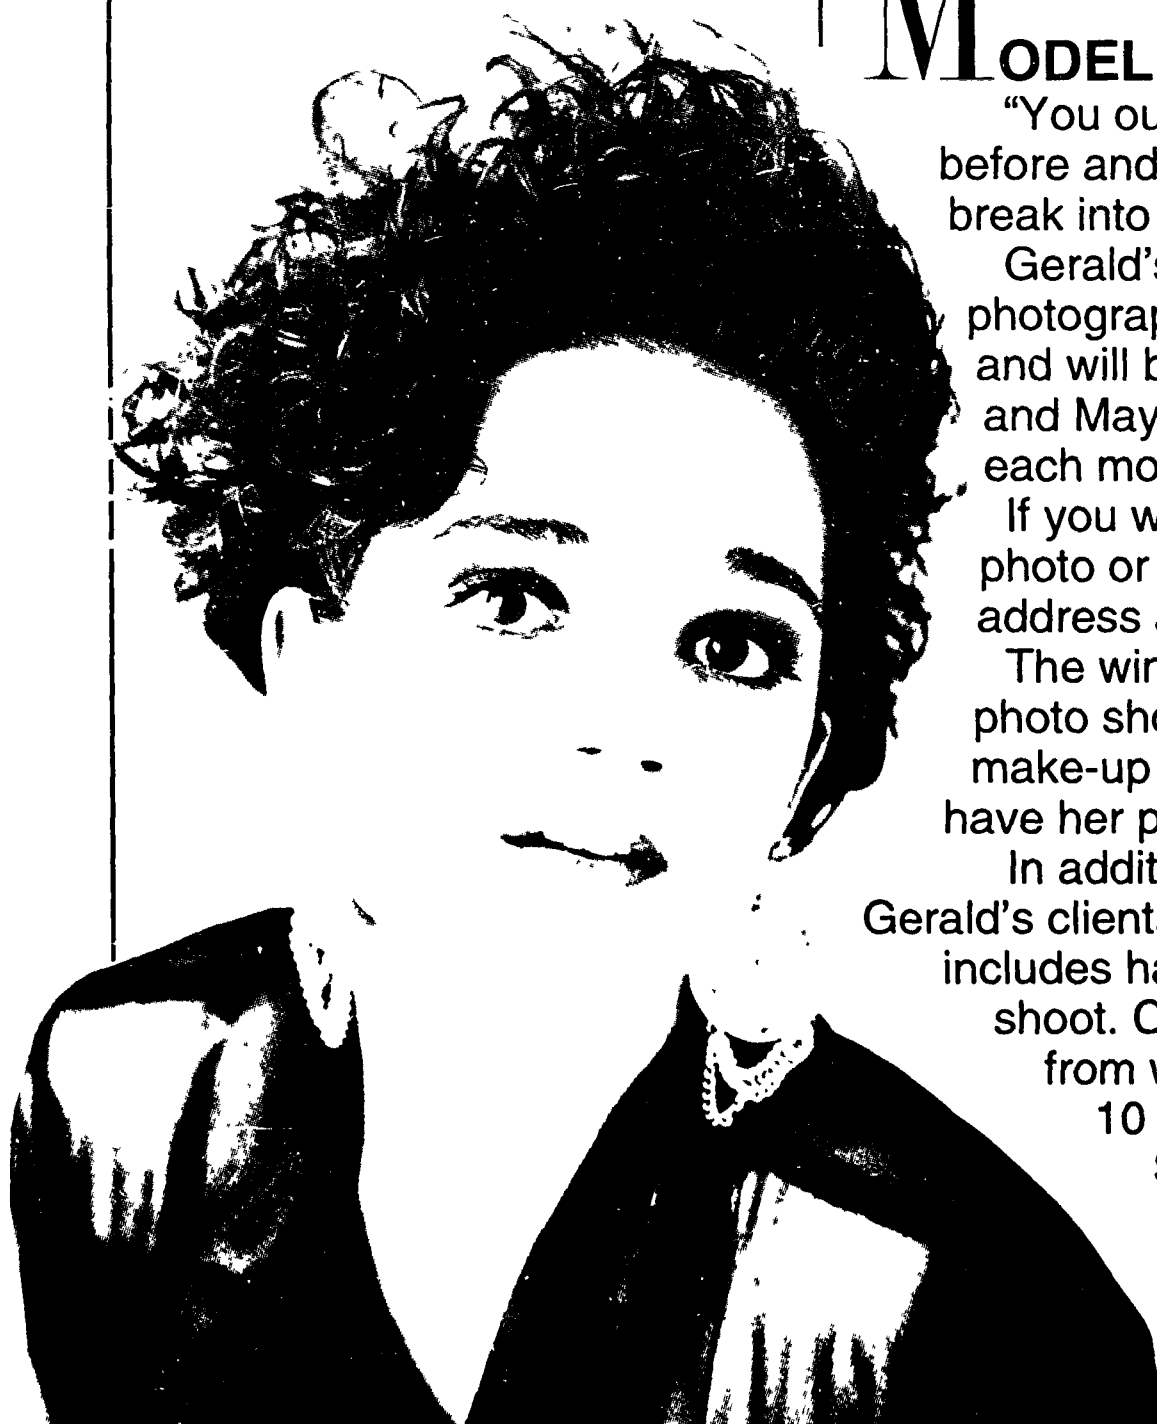

In addition, Christian is also offering a special rate to Gerald's clients for modeling portfolios. This special fee of $150 includes hair styling and make-up application for the photo shoot. Christian will shoot two rolls of film for a contact sheet from which the model can select two black and white 8 x 10 photos.

So if you feel "you've got the look", smile for the camera and bring your photo to a Gerald's salon soon.

BRIGHT IS RIGHT FOR HAIR COLOR IN THE 90'S

Free-spirited color — hair color that's bright, fun and noticeable is the look for the 90's, according to Gerald's color department head Gina Agosta.

"Hair for the nineties will be in living color. It can be outrageous for those that want to exceed the limits of the norm, yet very subtle as well," said Gina.

Also look for a union of three hot shades — gold, bronze and red.

Gerald's expert hair colorists can help create a new look for you with hair coloring. With your first appointment, you can look forward to a complimentary moisturizing treatment and make-up consultation at Northville. Call today.

SALON NOTES
