Judge clears way for home

By MIKE TYREE
Staff Writer

A Wayne County Circuit Court judge on Friday gave the state Department of Social Services a temporary green light to relocate an adult family group home in a Northville Township subdivision.

Judge James Hathaway ruled that the DSS could issue a license to allow six developmentally disabled adults to move into a residence at 19749 Scenic Harbor in the Highland Lakes subdivision.

Hathaway's ruling is a "stop-gap measure" to allow relocation while the township continues its legal opposition to the group home, said township attorney Ernest Essad.

"The residents can move in during litigation, but if the township wins, the residents move out," Essad said. "Legally, the state has no vested right in the license; that's on the (court) record."

The township and state will meet July 12 in circuit court for a status conference on the issue, but no trial date has been set, Essad said.

After a bolstered April public hearing, Northville Township decided to oppose the state's attempt to move the group home from its present 42777 Eight Mile Road site.

The township cited excessive concentration of state facilities in a limited radius as partial reason for its opposition.

A state-licensed family day center is located on Windsor Court, less than 1,500 feet from the proposed Scenic Harbour site. State law dictates that similar state facilities cannot be located within a 1,500-foot radius.

The township will "absolutely" continue to press the issue based at least partly on excessive concentration, Essad said. He said the ruling should not be considered a permanent decision.

"This did not decide the case, it allowed the residents to move in on a temporary basis," he said.

Essad said the state argued that its lease had terminated on the Eight Mile site, requiring immediate action. He said state officials did not say when residents would move into the Scenic Harbour site.

State DSS officials could not be reached for comment Friday afternoon.

Township Supervisor Georgina Coss was not pleased by the decision.

"I'm outraged that the judge is allowing the residents to move in even on a temporary basis," she said. "I don't think he gave due consideration to the feeling of township residents."

Coss said the township is committed to keeping the group home out of Highland Lakes.

"Our attorneys have prepared what I feel is an excellent case," she said. "If heard properly, Northville Township will win."

To the rescue

Local woman saves possum pups

You are driving some lonesome stretch of road late at night, your headlights too late picking up the gait, shuffle or waddle of a crossing animal.

Glowing, terrified eyes turn to you; brakes heavy but too late, followed by an unmistakable thump and a lifeless form in the rear-view mirror.

Every motorist has witnessed the mini-drama that occurs when an animal is killed on the road.

Most drive on, tinged by guilt or sadness. Some don't care.

A select few won't accept the obvious.

Northville resident Lorri Shezko recently refused to drive away from the scene of an animal's fatal crossing. And today, three tiny, living, breathing reminders can thank her.

Shezko was driving home on Eight Mile near Novi Road earlier this month when a pair of glowing eyes appeared before her. She swerved her car from the small animal's path, as did a car immediately behind her.

A third vehicle hit the animal. Not many would take the effort — or the risk — to check a stricken animal on busy Eight Mile. But Shezko did.

"Something told me to turn around and check on it," she said. "I'm glad I did."

Shezko cast her headlights on the animal, which turned out to be an opossum. Primarily a nocturnal beast, the lowly, slow-moving opossum is oft-victimised by traffic.

This animal was dead by the time Shezko reached it, but amazingly, three tiny figures swarmed about the body.

Three baby opossums hissed and bawled for their lifeless mother in the middle of Eight Mile Road. A tearful Shezko scooped them up and placed the animals in a cooler.

Shezko frantically called her sister Lynda and friend Tami Dawe for advice. The three — self-proclaimed animal rights activists — quickly placed a call to a local veterinarian.

The veterinarian plucked a name from a file. Call Pamyla Krausman, the vet said.

Krausman, a wildlife rehabilitator who volunteers for the Howell Nature Center, sleepily answered the telephone in her Brighton home.

Late night calls aren't a rare occurrence for Krausman, especially in the spring, when animals and their newborn are on the prowl.

But Shezko's tone was urgent. Three of four opossums — one was killed with its mother — had been saved, and the rescuers wanted to know where to turn next.

Rains turning yards into wetlands area

By MIKE TYREE

Ducks often gather for an early morning swim in a shallow pond that stretches across Eileen Freed's backyard.

Frogs and tadpoles also make their homes in the pond that covers back yards of five other residences along a stretch of Five Mile Road east of Portis in Northville Township.

After heavy rains, portions of Freed's neighborhood take on the appearance of an idyllic, peaceful wetland area.

But Freed and her neighbors don't want wetlands. They want their manicured gardens, close-cropped lawns, and rose bushes.

They want to see their dogs, children and grandchildren romping in the backyards without having to use wetlands.

And they want Northville Township officials to do something about their problem.

Freed gingerly stepped through her spongy backyard last week, searching for a dry spot to stand. It was not an easy task in a setting that more closely resembled a rice paddy than a suburban lawn.

"I think the township should put in drainage to drain off everyone's yards," Freed said. "My taxes are high enough; I don't need this. I'm 71 years old."

Freed says water encroachment from neighborhood back yards has caused $6,000 damage to her family room. Neighbor Deanna Cox has used and replaced sump pumps "continuously" to bail water from her basement.

Some of the residents place partial blame on a neighbor they say filled in a vacant lot several years ago, but Cox points an accusatory finger at the township.

Northville hosts Welcome Home

By MARY DIPALO

"This Fourth of July will be dedicated to the homecoming of the troops ... a nationwide celebration ..."

— President George Bush
The Michigan Military Families Support Group has taken those words to heart and selected Northville as the site for the "Operation Welcome Home" Fourth of July celebration of thanks.

Welcoming home troops from Operation Desert Shield, Desert Storm, and Vietnam, Operation Welcome Home will also honor Michigan's veterans from the Korean War, World War II, and World War I.

According to MMFSG co-founder and Northville resident Ginny Hathorn, Operation Welcome Home is expected to attract about 15,000 veterans and residents from throughout the state and represents the largest single celebration of its kind. Approximately $25,000 is being raised through public and private donations to support this special thank-you to veterans, although Hathorn said her group has a way to go before realizing its financial goal.

"$25,000 sounds like a great deal of money, and it is," she said, "but when you consider all the costs involved to put on an event that's twelve hours long and brings together thousands of people, every penny will be put to use." To date, the

Volunteers sought

By MARY DIPALO
Special Writer

The Michigan Military Families Support Group is seeking volunteers to canvass their local neighborhoods for donations any time during the week of June 10.

This fund-raising effort is being implemented to obtain funding for this year's "Operation Welcome Home" Fourth of July celebration. According to volunteer Program Coordinator Bill Edmonds, the group seeks individual volunteers over the age of 17 from each neighborhood within the city and township of Northville.

Participating volunteers will be required to obtain their Operation Welcome Home identification badges, donation canisters, and other materials from Perrin's Souvenir Distributors, 153 E. Main, any time during the days or evenings they will be canvassing. All canisters and badges must be returned to Perrin's by 9:30 p.m. on the date of each individual's canvassing effort. Edmonds encourages volunteers to include Saturday and Sunday, June 15 and 16, as part of their individual solicitation effort.

Residential homes being canvassed will receive a copy of Operation Welcome Home's calendar of activities and bumper sticker. Edmonds reminds everyone that their donations are tax-deductible and are crucial to the success of this once-in-a-lifetime event. Anyone not home during canvassing may mail contributions to: The Michigan Military Families Support Group, P.O. Box 418, Northville, MI 48167-0418.

"More importantly, we need as many volunteers as we can get over the next few days," Edmonds said. Interested residents from the city and township may register for the program by calling Edmonds at 348-2135, Michelle Perrin at 348-8260, or Ginny Hathorn at 349-0996 no later than this Friday, June 7. All volunteers who register will be contacted before June 10 to confirm their participation.

Walters bids farewell to city

Well-wishers packed into the main dining room at Genitti's last Wednesday to close out a 17-year era in Northville city government.

The occasion was a farewell dinner for outgoing Northville City Manager Steven Walters, who starts a new stint today as the top administrator in Plymouth.

Attendees at the dinner included many past and present government officials, city employees, and others who came to know Walters during his Northville tenure.

City Mayor Chris Johnson read an honorary resolution from the city council, and presented Walters with a goodbye gift: a large, framed Caroline Dunphy watercolor of Northville City Hall.

In a brief address (which he said was cut down from two hours), Johnson thanked Walters for "his dedication, his commitment to the community in all sorts of ways." In addition to serving as city manager and SENIORS SEEKING AIR CONDITIONER: The Northville Senior Citizens Group is seeking a donation of an air conditioner for its Senior Center. Anyone interested in donating an air conditioner may contact Karl Peters at 349-4140.

PRESCHOOL STORYTIME REGISTRATION: Northville Public Library's Preschool Storytime registration begins Tuesday, June 11 for children 3½ to 5, who are not yet in kindergarten. Parents are asked to select either 10:30 a.m. or 1 p.m. sessions and may sign up for any or all days (June 25, July 9, July 16, and July 23) that they would like their child to attend.

Please try to arrive 5-10 minutes early for each storytime to allow your preschooler to adjust to his surroundings and be ready to enter the story room with the group. A child who arrives late distracts other children and takes longer to become accustomed to the program already in progress.

BOOK DISPLAY: Northville Public Library's adult book display through June 21 will feature sport fiction and sport biography.

Accompanying this display are three flyers: one is a WOLF-printed flyer of "Sport Fiction at the Northville Library," the second is an in-house printed list of "Sport Biography," and the third is a copy of the poem "Casey at the Bat" along with some historical data on the original Casey.

From June 24 through Aug. 2 the library will feature gothic and near-gothic novels.

FREE CAR WASH: Take that dusty Dodge over to the First Presbyterian Church on Saturday, June 8 for a free car wash courtesy of church youth.

Students are using the car wash as a fund-raiser for a work camp trip later this summer. Members of the church have pledged money per car washed during the event, which runs from about 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. The trip will take the local students to Holmes, New York, July 13-21 to help repair a children's camp.

For more information, call the church at 349-0911.

ICE CREAM SOCIAL: The Amerman Parent Teacher Association will hold its 23rd Annual Ice Cream Social June 7 from 5:30 to 8:30 p.m. outside the school.

Games will be held from 5 p.m. to 8 p.m. outside of the school, weather permitting. The activities will be held inside Amerman if it rains.

Game booths, a moonwalk, a ball crawl, a cakewalk, face painting, and "hospital" bandaging will be joined by a teacher's dunk tank as activities for the evening.

Popcorn, pop, Pizza Cutter pizza and Guernsey ice cream sundaes will be served. A raffle will be held for $50 gift certificates to area toy and video stores.

Families planning to drive should park in the Northville High School parking lot.

To volunteer or for more information call Pat Melvin, ice cream social chairperson, at 348-6443.

Latest store is really familiar

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

The latest retailers to sign a lease at MainCentre are simply moving their store across the street.

Dan and Carol Hussey, owners of the Little People Shoppe, will change their location to the south side of Main and will change the name of their store to the Pied Piper, to match the name of their children's clothing stores in Ann Arbor and Plymouth.

The new Northville store should be open by the end of July.

The Little People Shoppe has sold children's clothing in downtown Northville since 1958. The Husseys purchased the store in 1985, after buying a similar business in Ann Arbor in 1983.

Dan Hussey said changing the name of the store to the Pied Piper may appeal to a wider range of prospective clients than calling it the Little People Shoppe.

"That name seemed to scare off some of the older kids," he said.

But the Northville move represents more than just a change in name and location. The Husseys also are dropping their current line of Buster Brown shoes, due to a slight decrease in their retail space at MainCentre and a poor market for the shoes in Northville.

"We're losing 200 square feet, so we're dropping the shoes," Dan said. "Buster Brown shoes have not been too successful in Northville. It has been successful in Ann Arbor."

The MainCentre store will sell both medium- and high-end children's clothing, Hussey said.

"We would be comparable to Jacobson's," he said.

Hussey said rising property taxes and increased rent made the move from the store's current location at 103 E. Main St. financially feasible.

"We were faced with a 60-percent increase to renew our lease," he said. "(Building owners) Tom and Nelda Morrison got hit by a real high property tax increase right after we signed our last lease.

"It was just a shocker to us."

Another factor was the willingness of MainCentre owners Singh Development to enter into a 10-year lease agreement with the Husseys.

But the move is not a poor reflection on the store's current site. "We hate to give up the location. It's a great spot right across from Genitt's," Hussey said.

"We really like Northville; it's been a good location for us. And the town has grown a lot. It seems, in the last six years."

The store owner predicted that MainCentre retail locations on Center Street may take some time to become established.

"I feel that they're going to be hurting down there for about two years," he said.

Though Singh officials urged the Husseys to relocate to Center Street, Dan said, the couple wanted to be within sight of their current store.

"It was very important to be on Main Street," he said. "That doesn't mean the others aren't going to be successful, it just means it might take some time. We didn't want to be the guinea pigs, so to speak."

Nevertheless, he predicted that the entire complex would eventually come into its own as a retail site. "I think if it was a normal year, they would probably be filling it faster, because it seems to be a quality place."

Police investigate punching incident at store

Township police have requested a warrant for a 30-year-old Detroit woman who reportedly punched an employee at Meijer, 20401 Haggerty, May 23.

According to police reports, the woman was rebuffed when she attempted to exchange clothing at the store. The clerk reportedly told the woman she could not make an exchange without a sales receipt. The suspect then became irate, police said, and struck the 20-year-old female employee in the face with her fist.

The suspect then left the store, leaving her driver's license on a counter. A few minutes later, the woman returned, requesting her license.

A Meijer employee refused to hand over the license and told the suspect that police had been contacted. The woman then left the store.

OUIL: A 19-year-old Livonia man was charged with operating a vehicle under the influence of alcohol after his arrest in Northville Township May 21. Township police said the man was arrested on Seven Mile near Swan Lake after the man reportedly refused to take preliminary breath tests.

AUTO PARTS STOLEN: A car phone and AM/FM stereo and cassette player reportedly were stolen from a 1989 Chevrolet Blazer parked in a lot at Meadowbrook Country Club, 40941 Eight Mile, May 21 between noon and 5:15 p.m., township police said.

Police said the vehicle's passenger door was punched open by a screwdriver. The stolen items were valued at $780 and damage was estimated at $200.

LARCENY FROM VEHICLE: A Northville resident told township police someone broke into a 1989

Merkur parked in a lot at Innsbrook Apartments early May 22.

The owner told police thieves took a leather briefcase, a leather overnight bag, men's clothing and a compact disc case.

Stolen items were valued at $1,900. Police said entry was gained by breaking a window.

VEHICLE ROBBED: A Livonia man told Northville Township police that someone broke into his 1991 Ford Festiva late May 21 or early May 22 while it was parked in the lot of Sheehan's on the Green, 39450 Five Mile.

The man said thieves took cassette tapes and a case, a leather coat and cowboy boots. Loss was estimated at $1,120.

The man also told police the vehicle's windshield wiper was broken and front seat floor carpeting was burned. His operator's license and vehicle registration were also stolen.

At noon on May 22, the man received a telephone call from a man who identified himself as a lieutenant with the Livonia Police Department. Livonia police told township police they do not employ an officer by the name given to the victim.

TIRES, WHEELS STOLEN: Two tires and brushed steel wheels reportedly were stolen from a Northville woman's 1988 Ford Escort while it was parked on Northridge Drive late May 22 or early May 23, township police said.

The tires and wheels were valued at $840.

VEHICLE DAMAGED: A Ladywood resident told township police someone threw a brick into the picture window of the residence at approximately 3:05 a.m. May 23. Damage was estimated at $200.

LARCENY FROM VEHICLE: A Westland woman told township police someone broke into her 1985 Olds Cutlass while it was parked in a lot at Innsbrook Apartments, 18589 Innsbrook Drive early May 22.

The woman told police two briefcases, a duffle bag and clothing were stolen. Loss was estimated at $325 and damage was estimated at $100.

LARCENY FROM VEHICLE: A Northville woman reported a radio and cassette player stolen from her 1982 Ford Escort.

The theft occurred sometime between 5 p.m. May 29 and 8:35 a.m. the next morning.

The woman's car was unlocked in her Welch Road driveway when the theft occurred, according to city police reports.

BREAKING AND ENTERING: A pry bar was used to break into Detroit

Staple Co., 630 Baseline, sometime between May 2 at 1 p.m. and 8 a.m. the next morning.

A pry bar was also used to open an office door. The company's safe apparently was opened with the pry bar or a hammer, also found near the safe.

Nothing was stolen, but a total of $350 damage was done to the two doors and the safe, according to police reports.

MDOP: An unknown person drove over the lawn at 320 N. Center St. sometime between May 15 and 30. Damage totaling $10 was done to the lawn, a shrub and a metal electrical light pole, police reports said.

Citizens with information about the above incidents are urged to call Northville City Police at 349-1234 or Northville Township Police at 349-9400.

Woman learns the hard way about Michigan's tighter gun law

By MIKE TYREE
Staff Writer

It may be okay to carry loaded guns in glove compartments in North Carolina, but don't try it in Northville Township.

Township police last week said they will charge a Chappel, N.C., woman with carrying a concealed weapon — a violation of township ordinance punishable by 90 days in jail or a fine up to $500.

Police discovered the gun in the glove compartment of the woman's 1989 Mercury Sable after she was involved in a minor traffic accident early May 28 near the Haggerty Road/Eight Mile intersection.

According to police reports, the 33-year-old North Carolina woman was stopped at a traffic signal at the intersection. When the light changed to green, the Mercury was struck from the rear by a vehicle driven by a 27-year-old Northville woman.

The North Carolina woman suffered minor injuries and before she was transported to the hospital told police a loaded gun was in her glove compartment.

Police dug out a Colt .38 caliber handgun and a box containing 27 bullets from the unlocked compartment.

The gun's chamber held six bullets.

The North Carolina woman told police she was visiting relatives in Michigan and placed the gun in the compartment because "when she travels with her children she always puts the gun in the glove box."

She told police North Carolina laws allow guns to be carried as long as the weapon is in the open or in a locked box.

The weapon was purchased in Florida five years ago, the woman said.

Police confiscated the gun and forwarded it to the Michigan State Police crime lab for analysis. A computer search indicated that the weapon had not been used for any shootings in Michigan.

Police are seeking a warrant for the woman's arrest, said township police Lt. Gary Batzloff.

"If she wasn't injured she would have been arrested and arraigned that day," Batzloff said.

Residents and township seek relief from flooding problems the sewer construction," she said. Northville Township cut a path through the backyards of Freed, Cox and other southern township residents last summer to complete connections to the Haggerty Road sewer project.

A 20 foot easement knifes through the back yards, and residents say contractors did not sufficiently replace dirt removed when the sewers were constructed.

They say the connection with a modern sewer system has left their back yards as little more than dank, mosquito-infested stormwater retention basins.

Township Manager Richard Henningsen agrees that the residents have a problem. But he rejects the notion that sewer construction is the root.

Henningsen said standing water existed on the affected properties prior to sewer construction ("I drained it once before"). He calls the area "a natural draining point" because the neighborhood is low-lying at the base of a gradual slope to the north.

But a vested interest in the neighborhood has the township looking for a solution. Standing water threatens the same sewer pipes residents blame for their woes.

"If you leave water on top, you can have sewer line infiltration possibilities," Henningsen said. "Under normal circumstances, the township can't go on private property."

"(But) I personally can feel justified to go on private property, when it's dry, to fix the problem."

Henningsen said the township has devised two plans to attack the standing-water problem. Ideally, he hopes to cut a swale through the backyard easement and a vacant lot near the Five Mile/Portis intersection.

Under that scenario, water could drain into a ditch cut south on Portis to another ditch cut on the north end of Five Mile. Water would then flow east along Five Mile to a distant retention basin.

If the first plan is not feasible from an engineering standpoint, Henningsen is prepared to take another route.

The township could cut a drainage path between two of the Five Mile homes and build a shallow depression — "a little beehive" as Henningsen calls it — drainage system. Water would then flow from the back yards directly into a drainage ditch on Five Mile.

Enter Catch-22.

The township cannot embark on either course because of the standing water.

"I can't come in there until it's all dry," Henningsen said. "But the township needs to protect its investment (in the sewer) and I hope it dries out shortly."

Meanwhile residents watch their backyard pond ebb and flow with each summer rainstorm. They are not satisfied to wait for drought conditions to stimulate drainage construction.

Six families are mulling a lawsuit against the township for what they say is a loss of valuable property.

"I used to be able to go out and sit beneath my tree and look at my garden," Freed said. "I can't do that anymore."

"They're going to have to fix it."

Among other points, the resolution recognized Walters for strong leadership, a spirit of cooperation, work with the DDA and acting as a leader for youth. It concluded with a wish for success in the City of Plymouth.

Walters thanked the people with whom he worked in Northville, crediting the city staff for accomplishments made during his tenure: "The City of Plymouth hired me to do what I did here. I think that's going to require them to be you."

Walters has served as city manager in Northville for close to 18 years, during which time the city saw such accomplishments as the Main Street '78 project, strengthened historic preservation, and the development of

RECORD OPINION

Pros outweigh cons in BFI, township deal

It's hard to look at last week's whopper of a deal between Northville Township and Browning-Ferris Industries without a bit of a cynical eye.

Here's a major waste-handling firm with a landfill adjacent to the township — and a pending bid for the township's preferred-status solid-waste contract — handing out millions of dollars in perks for what township officials call "excess" sewer capacity in the Western Townships Utilities Authority sewer expansion which is currently under construction.

Journalists — and others — might tend to think first, and then begin the questioning process.

At first glance, one could think such a deal too cozy, considering BFI has made the solid-waste contract short list. Perks such as four years of free recycling for township residents (reportedly worth approximately $725,000), $1.3 million plopped into the township's sewer debt retirement fund, $260,000 into the township's general fund, and a pledge to keep Northville Township landfill free seem almost too good to be true.

But guess what? Deal primaries Georgina Goss, Tom Handyside and township engineer Abe Munfah may have pulled off a coup with their negotiating abilities.

Make no mistake, the township possessed something BFI wanted. BFI needs sewer space for its sprawling, soon-to-be-built high-tech recycling facility on the corner of Five Mile and Napier. The firm made an overture to the township last winter, and the township wisely negotiated slowly, until it received adequate compensation.

The sewer capacity assigned expressly to BFI — 110,000 gallons per day of a total of 6.43 million GPD allotted Northville Township under WTUA guidelines — seems fairly insignificant. As Handyside pointed out to fellow board members last week, the $1.3-million payment represents approximately 440 would-be homes in Northville Township. With the building industry bottomed-out, capital connection hook-ups — which will pay for the WTUA sewer debt — likely would not generate $1.3 million nearly as quickly as will the four-year payment scheme devised by the township and BFI.

The plan might also dampen the need to invite low-revenue, service-intensive residential housing around the Five Mile and Napier region.

The township/BFI deal hinges upon approval of the WTUA executive board, but that presumably is a formality. Goss serves as executive board chair, and compatriots Thomas Yack of Canton Township and Gerald Law of Plymouth Township are unlikely to quash the proposal.

On paper, it appears as though the township cut a hell of a deal. What remains to be seen is the long-term fallout.

And because the township's solid-waste contract won't necessarily be awarded to the lowest bidder, we'll surely raise our eyebrows if BFI is selected to handle that chore.

But the bottom line, as always, is what benefits residents receive in the agreement. We feel they may have done quite well.

New cars: form and function

Have you seen the newest models of police squad cars? Being something of a car nut, I notice these things.

The Chevrolet Caprice has been the vehicle of choice among most police agencies over the past few years, but for the 1991 model year, Chevy restyled the Caprice with a radical new aerodynamic look.

The bulky, boxy sedan, favored by senior citizens and vacuum cleaner salesmen, suddenly became a bulky, bloated sedan. Most people I've talked to don't particularly care for the styling, but the Northville Township Police Department will tell you that beauty is indeed in the eye of the beholder.

Since the style of the '91 Caprice was new, the township gave its order a new color scheme as well. In a departure from the traditional Prussian blue with a silver shield, the new cruisers are a dark midnight blue, almost black, with a bold stripe of school-bus yellow down the sides.

The purchasing and the outfitting of the new cars was done by Sgt. (Clyde) Anderson," said township police Chief Chip Snider. "It was his final act in the department. He came to me with the color package and said he thought it would look good."

Though the Northville area has a tradition of involvement with Ford Motor Co., the choice of the Chevy was strictly a smart economic move. The township was able to hitch a ride with Oakland County when Oakland made a bulk purchase of cars for its various police forces.

"We went in on the Oakland County bid because that was the least expensive way to bid," said Snider. "They bought in volume, and they got them cheaper even than the state bid."

Since the arrival of the new cars, the adjectives used to describe them have included "attractive" and "impressive." I think I'd like to add "intimidating" to that list. I can best describe them as a cross between Dale Earnhardt's race car and something from the movie "Robocop."

The futuristic profile of the new Caprices has something to do with it, but not much. I've seen the Michigan State Police with some '91s, and they just look like squashed blueberries. The City of Howell has some silver ones that appear to be beached dolphins. In Westland's white regalia, they look like beluga whales.

The near-black paint on the township cars makes them look like land sharks. When I see one of the new mean machines on the prowl, you better believe I check my speedometer.

"In general, the troops like the appearance of the new cars," Snider said.

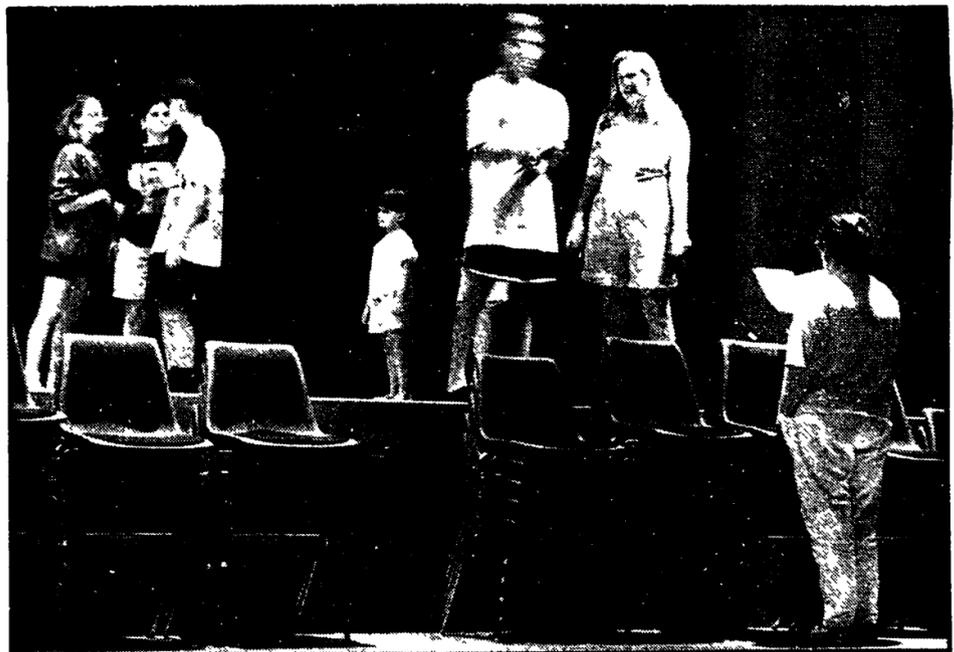

Of course looks aren't everything. With the total police option package — V8 engine, beefier brakes, stiffer suspension, wide, licorice-whip tires — the cars are all muscle.

"The performance of the new cars has been outstanding," said Snider. "The Caprice was voted Motor Trend Car of the Year. We've had minimal breakdowns, and the cars have done everything we expected them to do."

With their new land sharks, the township police can catch bad guys, and look good doing it.

Spotlight shines on lying hubby

News is out. Gossip is in. I don't like it. But look all around you, folks. I'm not talking about Hard Copy, A Current Affair and all those other so-called television news shows.

Nope, what I'm talking about are the so-called news sources which we generally consider much more reputable: The Detroit News, The Detroit Free Press and all the local television news stations.

There may be important news from Lansing, but if Kitty Kelly accuses Nancy Reagan of spending too much time with Frank Sinatra, you can bet your bottom dollar it's going to be Page One in the Detroit dailies and the lead story on the local TV stations.

There may be important news from Washington D.C., but if the Kennedy boys get themselves in another womanizing jam in Florida, you can mortgage the farm that it's headed for lead-story status in the Detroit media.

Okay, okay, I know what you're asking. You're asking, "So what does that have to do with me here in Northville?"

The point here is that I am about to sink to the levels of all the other news media and report a story worthy of A Current Affair or Hard Copy. A story which would make the Detroit media drool in anticipation.

This is a story about a prominent local figure. A man highly respected in the community. A man whose integrity is considered above reproach.

But also a man who misrepresents himself. A man who lies to his wife. But also a man who could very well be subjected to national humiliation through the magic of the video camera.

This is a story about a man who snores. That's no crime. of course. Lots of people snore. But this fellow absolutely and totally denies it, much to the consternation of his lovely but long-suffering wife.

That's pretty much the introduction. She says he snores. He swears he doesn't. But the truth is about to come out — and it may come out on national television.

Seems like this fellow had been working fairly hard recently and decided he needed a mid-day nap to restore his energy. He headed up to the bedroom, laid down on the bed and dozed off. Within minutes, the sounds of his snoring were reverberating throughout the house — disturbing and frustrating the Long-Suffering Wife (L-SW) and disrupting the Brownie Troop which was meeting downstairs.

Now comes the part about the videocamera. It seems that the L-SW, frustrated beyond despair, decided to take matters into her own hands.

She directed her Brownies to make signs, saying "Mr. Jones claims he doesn't snore." She then led the Brownies and their signs up to the bedroom where Mr. Jones was still snoring away. The Brownies made a big circle around the bed and held up their signs. The L-SW then recorded the scene — snores and all — on videotape.

And the best part is yet to come. After the Brownies had made their successful getaway unnoticed, Mrs. Jones sent a copy of the tape to America's Funniest Home Videos.

It's all true, folks. I have it from very reliable sources that it really happened. . . that this lying scoundrel of a husband is about to be exposed on national television.

I'm not revealing any names right now because there's no guarantee the show will even use the videotape. But if they do, just remember that you heard it here first.

Stay tuned. We'll keep you updated on more details as they develop.

group has raised nearly $5,000 and must come up with the remaining funds before July 4.

If not for Hathhorn's group and its volunteers, Northville might not have had a Fourth of July celebration this year. Traditional organizers the Northville Jaycees recently fell below state membership requirements.

"The Jaycees was once a strong organization in Northville and had organized the Fourth of July parade in past years," Jaycees President Bob Cummings said, "and without the MMFSG's help, there is no way we would have had a parade this year."

Cummings volunteered to serve as parade chairperson and is excited to know the parade may receive live local and national broadcast coverage. Rich Fisher, news anchor with WJBK-TV, will serve as the parade's celebrity grand marshal, with the parade featuring entertainment and dignitaries from throughout south-east Michigan.

Cummings said the parade still needs marching bands and other performance acts to ensure its success. "We've set aside two hours for the parade, and we want to make sure that this year we have two hours worth of parade to offer our spectators."

Recent budget cuts at the city and township level also posed problems relative to funding this year's fireworks display. In order to provide fireworks this year, Hathhorn's group instituted an "adopt a fireworks" program allowing businesses and residents to contribute toward their favorite.

This year, Zambelli Internationale of New Castle, Penn., will present the fireworks for a cost of about $6,000. Hathhorn promises this year's exhibition to be the grandest display ever in Northville: "We have the best, and it's up to everyone to help us make it happen."

To kick off the day's festivities, the Satin Sheets Bed Race will begin at 9:45 a.m. at the Main Street clock. Following the race is the parade, with a Downtown Fun Fest scheduled along Main and Center streets from noon to 3 p.m. Fun Fest Coordinator Debbie McDonald said the fest will include games for all ages, live entertainment, clowns, and other special surprises. The Merchants' Association will sell box lunches along with other food concessions to feed the crowd.

A Welcome Home Ceremony and Rally is currently scheduled at the Main Street bandshell from 3:30 to 4:30 p.m. and will feature special presentations by Col. R. M. Aichison, who served in the Gulf directly under Gen. Norman Schwarzkopf; and other state dignitaries. Celebrity guests "Marilyn Monroe" and "Uncle Sam" will also appear to sign autographs and take photos with the troops and their families.

Beginning at 5 p.m. will be a Downtown Dance-a-Thon featuring the music of Silver Sounds of Canton. The kids' dance will run until 7:30 p.m. and feature Pee Wee Herman. From 7:30 to 9 p.m., adults are invited to dance to the hits of the '40s, '50s and '60s.

At dusk, the fireworks exhibition will be held near Northville High School to gratefully recognize the men and women who have served our country.

Event posters and Operation Welcome Home calendars of activities will be available to area businesses, community organizations, and other groups within the next two weeks.

To make a donation to Operation Welcome Home, mail contributions to the Michigan Military Families Support Group, P.O. Box 418, Northville, MI 48167-0418 as soon as possible.

Woman saves opossums

Krausman turned them right back to the mother.

"We were so excited that we saved three," Lorri Shezko said. "But Pam said there could be up to 16 babies."

"She said to check the pouch." Opossums are marsupials, a mammal that often carries its young in a pouch. Forty-five minutes after the mother opossum was killed, the three women stood in Eight Mile and searched for more survivors.

Dawe pulled on a pair of surgical gloves, reached inside the dead animal, and removed a suckling baby from the pouch.

Next came a wild ride to Brighton. At 1:30 a.m., the carload of women and baby opossums wheeled into Krausman's home.

The rescuers had done their job. A little more than a week after delivering the animals to Krausman, the women returned to visit their tiny friends.

Opossums are anything but attractive, with their strong resemblance to rats. But the Shezkos and Dawe squealed with delight when they renewed acquaintances with the gray and white animals. The cuddling and mothering the women heaped upon the critters was natural, but not the ideal way to handle wild animals, Krausman said. She allowed the women to touch the opossums — with gloved hands only.

"I really want to emphasize that baby animals do not make good pets," she said. "People say, 'Oh, they're so cute', but they don't know the dangers (with diseases such as rabies and distemper)."

Krausman should know. Last year, more than 250 birds and animals were carefully treated and prepared for release to the wild from Krausman's home.

That figure will increase this year, she said.

A pen in Krausman's backyard holds swans, geese, owls, squirrels and other injured or abandoned animals. The animals are not pets; the idea is to rehabilitate and release, she said.

Funded by donations, the Howell Nature Center's rehabilitation program is sponsored by The Presbytery of Detroit. Through the program, animals such as the opossums Shezko rescued can be nursed to health and returned to their natural environment.

And that suits Shezko fine. "It makes me feel great to know we saved them," she said.

A guided tour of wine country

Interested in traveling the wine regions of California? Here are a few suggestions based on our trips to wine country.

Driving time to the wine regions of Napa and Sonoma is about 1.5 hours north from San Francisco. Cross the Golden Gate Bridge heading north on Highway 101. About 45 minutes north of the bridge, follow the signs for Route 37 and Napa Valley.

Once in Napa, we suggest you visit wineries along Highway 29 stretching 30 miles from the city of Napa to Callistoga. You can learn which of these wineries is open to the public with specific days and hours for tours and tasting by sending for "Wine Country Guide to California" available from The Wine Spectator, Opera Plaza, Suite 2014, 601 Van Ness Ave., San Francisco, Calif., 94012. Cost is $4.95 plus $2 postage and handling.

Here's a suggested three-day itinerary. Since most wineries open for tours about 10 a.m., you can drive from San Francisco on day one and get started at Robert Mondavi Winery. The tour at Mondavi is complete and sufficiently detailed to get you started on understanding the intricacies of winemaking.

Make lunch reservations in advance, (707) 944-8844, at the restaurant at Domaine Chandon. Request an outdoor table if the weather is pleasant. Follow lunch with a winery tour to learn how sparkling wine is made.

Continue north and stop at Beringer Vineyards, then on to Sterling Vineyards where a gondola ride brings you to the white monastic-looking structure perched atop a hill. Stay overnight in Callistoga and indulge in a massage at a local spa.

Days two and three put you in Sonoma County, much larger and more expansive than Napa Valley. On the morning of the second day, leave Callistoga on Highway 128 north and follow signs to Healdsburg for your day's first visit at Simi Winery. Use your wine country guide for Dry Creek Valley tours and tastings at one or more of the valley's premium wineries.

For lunch, choose one of several smaller eating establishments in central Healdsburg, then continue south on Highway 101 to the sparkling wine producer Piper Sonoma. You will especially want to visit here if you didn't take a tour at Domaine Chandon on day one.

Plan to lodge in Santa Rosa, the heart of Sonoma winegrowing. There are many fine lodging and dining opportunities in Santa Rosa from bed and breakfast establishments to hotel resorts.

Best hotel resort is the Flamingo (707) 545-8530, at Fourth Street and Farmers Lane. It features a complete health and fitness center, massage, tennis, olympic pool and gourmet restaurant. It is also equipped to help arrange horseback tours of wine country, hot air ballooning, canoeing and golfing.

To start day three, drive Route 12 from Santa Rosa toward the city of Sonoma. Many wineries are located along this route. Continue the drive to the city of Sonoma for lunch. Park along the town square and find the French bakery, the Sonoma Cheese Factory and the sausage shop for picnic supplies.

WINE SELECTIONS OF THE WEEK

While you're preparing a trip to California Wine Country, remember that Michigan has a wine industry that's alive and well. A sampling of some of the recent releases from Good Harbor Vineyards in Lake Leelanau exemplify this fact.

1990 Flatown White ($6) is reminiscent of a dry-style German riesling and an exceptional wine for the money. Its fresh apple aromas and flavors are very attractive.

1989 Vignoles ($7) is a beautiful marriage of pear and pineapple fruit with vanilla oakiness. It's difficult to find light-style California chardonnays with this quality at the same price.

1990 Riesling ($7.50) is a perfect warm-weather wine. Serve it with a cold shrimp or salmon dish and enjoy its citrus blossom and apple freshness.

Trillium ($6) is a wine that Good Harbor Vineyards winemaker Bruce Simpson has learned to do right. "I don't mess around and experiment with it anymore," he says. And well he shouldn't! It's delicious in its off-dry style.

Freezer pleasers

Frozen yogurt has new ways to tempt tastebuds

Remember the old saying, "I scream, you scream, we all scream for ice cream?"

Well, that might have been the norm years back, but with the proliferation of yogurt shops sprouting up faster than summer weeds, move over ice cream, here comes something a little healthier and with a lot less fat.

Unless you've been living in the boonies with your head stuck in a cool Michigan foundation basement, you must have tried frozen yogurt. While a trip to the ice cream store of yesteryear offered a choice of chocolate, vanilla, strawberry and an occasional blue moon hand-dipped ice cream in a funnel-shaped, creamy yellow cone for just pocket change, today's ice cream shops are changing fast.

Most ice cream shops offer choices of hand-dipped ice cream, soft-serve ice cream, frozen yogurt and, now, even new nonfat frozen yogurt. Before, it was shoved into a cone or plopped into a shiny, stainless steel, bleached white-paper-cup-lined bowl. Period. Now it can be a plain cone, sugar cone, waffle cone, bowled, flurried, avalanched, dipped and drizzled with everything from caramelized walnuts to crushed Oreos. And the list keeps growing.

Take, for example, Sandro Scopone and his newly opened Polo Yogurt and Cafe on Seven Mile Road just west of Farmington Road in Livonia. Forget about the megabucks that went into the sleek contemporary decor; Scopone wants his shop to feature what he thinks is the best frozen yogurt money can buy, Honey Hill Farms.

Before opening, Scopone and his partner, Tony D'Orazio, spent a weekend in Grand Rapids sampling 30 to 40 different brands of yogurt (some of us have it rough, eh?) only to decide on the Honey Hill Farms brand because of its rich taste, creamy texture and tasty sugar-free offerings. Knowing that man does not live by ice cream and frozen yogurt alone, Scopone also imported a classic espresso/cappuccino machine direct from Italy for what has to be the finest delectable cup of imported coffee in town. All of this is in addition to the 12 flavor options of Guernsey Farms Dairy hand-packed ice cream.

The flavors at Polo Yogurt change weekly but there's always the standard chocolate, vanilla and two more flavors in addition to two sugar-free frozen yogurt options. Rumor has it that soon Polo also will branch out to light deli offerings and homemade soups.

But what's really new in frozen yogurt offerings? Alan Bell, sales manager for Frosty Yogurt Products in Troy, says that the future holds some interesting twists. With the introduction of Olestra and Simplese, fat substitutes without the fat, coupled with NutraSweet, consumers can look for healthier options with reduced calories and better taste.

Health-conscious consumers soon will be able to partake of soft-serve frozen yogurt containing only 10 calories an ounce. That works out to a 50-calorie cone in flavor that would have Mae West asking for more. In addition, Bell claims the hottest item in frozen yogurt on the West Coast is self-serve ice cream and frozen yogurt shops. Self-serve is already flourishing in many grocery stores. Customers soon will be able to serve themselves, get just what they wanted and pay by the pound, contrasted to being served by a pony-tailed teen.

Making your own is simple process

Writers who end up with mega-selling books are often household words who are staples of the talk-show circuit. Media stars.

But there's a pair of authors in Solana Beach, Calif., who produce best-selling cookbooks with sales of up to 5 million copies (per book) and win literary awards — all without much fuss and fanfare.

They are Mable and Gar Goffman, a set of grandparents who look and act like those nice but unpretentious neighbors down the street.

But in the last 16 years the Hoffmans (first Mable wrote alone, now they're a team) have quietly become a force in the cookbook industry, bringing out 10 cookbooks on solid, everyday subjects and winning five Tastemaker Awards, an honor akin to the movies' Oscar award in the American cookbook category.

A major part of the Hoffmans' knack seems to be their thoroughness in research, ease of translating the material for the reader and their ability to sense a trend in the market and get a book on the height of public interest. (Sometimes this happens quite by accident.)

It was in 1974 that Mable Hoffman's first book was published. She was a home economist and University of Maryland graduate with several commercial accounts for whom she was a food stylist and had prepared appliance recipe pamphlets and the like. She was also a mother of two and a wife.

"The publishers asked me to do a book on slow cookers and I had never written a cookbook before," she recalls.

It was that first book, "Crockery Cookery," that has racked up a whopping five million copies in sales, making it one of the best-

Cooking with the elusive fruit-vegetables

Are they a fruit, or are they a vegetable? If we are going to be technical, tomatoes, eggplant, and peppers are fruits. So says the botanist. But as cooks we treat them as vegetables in every respect.

The three share similar cooking characteristics: all can serve as the principle ingredient for a dish, or act as a natural background for more assertive flavors such as garlic or anchovy, and all form natural containers for stuffing with whatever ingredients we wish.

The tomato is by far the most popular of the three. The tomato is native to the "New World" and for much time after its discovery was thought to be toxic and therefore not used in western kitchens. The number of varieties range from the cherry to the beefsteak. The sweetness or acidity depends largely on the type.

Plum tomatoes, purchased as Romas, are long, have particularly meaty flesh with minimal juice and are used principally for soups and sauces. The round common tomato has a bit more juice, thicker skin and is good for slicing and stuffing.

The very juicy varieties seldom make the home market and are sent to commercial packers for juice production.

A ripe tomato is fragile and perishable so much of the crop is picked while still green and firm. The green tomatoes are kept in refrigerated storage until sent to "ripening rooms" where the temperature and ethylene gas is monitored to produce bright red beautiful tomatoes. Unfortunately, they have little or no taste.

Thankfully the peak season for tomatoes is upon us. There are few greater pleasures than eating a sweet, fresh tomato — just like an apple. Or, a sliced tomato salad with a touch of Olive Oil and vinegar sprinkled with salt and pepper. Or, sourdough hot from the oven slathered with butter and topped with tomatoes, the world's simplest sandwich. Or... the list can go on and on.

Choose firm tomatoes with a deep color and smooth surface. Tomatoes freeze well for use in later months. Yellow tomatoes are becoming more popular due to their lower acidity level.

Eggplants belong to the same botanical family and probably originated in Asia. Most are deep purple, but white, tan, green and lavender varieties are available at different times. The sizes of eggplant vary from very small to cantaloupe size.

It is preferable to leave the skin on when cooking, unless it is very tough. Nutrients and color are lost with peeling. Many people salt their eggplant to remove bitter juices. This step is only necessary if you have tasted the eggplant and deem it necessary. I feel it is an extra step and have never been disappointed by omitting it.

Eggplant is also known for absorbing large amounts of fat when sauteed or fried. I have eliminated the frying step, opting to broil slices (even breaded) and then proceeding with the recipe from that point. The result is excellent — no calories from fat and no greasy taste.

Sweet peppers are members of the capsicum family. The most familiar being the bell pepper, known for its shape and grown in shades of green, red, yellow, orange and purple. All bell peppers are green before they are ripe, and naturally, become sweeter as they ripen.

The American Anaheim, the Yellow Banana Pepper and the Mexican Poblano are mild chilli peppers used fresh as a vegetable. All can be used in place of sweet peppers. The fiery hot Jalapeno is to be treated with respect. Use sparingly and wear gloves when handling.

Peppers are eaten raw, baked or roasted and peeled. They are a nice ingredient for grilling or stir fries.

The uses for tomatoes, eggplant and peppers are incredible. They are integral ingredients in many international recipes. They blend well with other flavors. Onions, garlic, herbs and robust spices compliment their flavor.

With the summer upon us find every reason you can to utilize these fruit-vegetables. The recipe for ratatouille will help you get started.

RATATOUILLE

- 2 tablespoons olive oil
- 3 cloves garlic chopped fine
- 1 large onion cut in half, sliced a half-inch thick
- Three-fourths of eggplant, chopped, skin on
- 1 green, red and yellow pepper, roasted, seeded, sliced thin
- 2 zucchini chopped
- 2 tomatoes coarsely chopped

Heat oil and saute garlic. Add the onion and saute 2 minutes. Add the eggplant and cook 5 minutes. Add the zucchini and cook covered for 20 minutes. Remove cover and cook to reduce liquids for another 15-20. Stir occasionally and carefully so not to turn the vegetables to mush. Add the peppers. Season to taste with salt, pepper and cayenne.

Allow to sit for several hours. The older it gets the better the meshing of the flavors. Serve at room temperature with a loaf of thick, crunchy, hot bread.

CLASSES AT SCHOOLCRAFT: Creative French Pastry and Make 'N' Take Advanced Pastry Preparation are two new Culinary Arts courses available this spring through the Continuing Education Services Division at Schoolcraft College in Livonia. For registration information call 462-4448.

Creative French Pastry will teach basic techniques. The class will be taught by A.N. Bozadzis, a graduate pastry chef of Le Cordon Bleu de Paris Ecole de Cuisine et de Patisserie. Specialty items demonstrated include charlottes, bavaresis, eclairs, tortes and French creams.

In Make 'N' Take Advanced Pastry Preparation, the serious pastry cook will learn advanced methods of pastry preparation designed for use in hotels and restaurants. Chef Joseph Decker will teach techniques including chocolate tempering and design, use of marzipan and forms of sugar work. Products made by students will be available to take home.

FOOD/WINE APPRECIATION: Classes in Cooking/Wine Appreciation are being offered by the Community House in Birmingham.

Introduction to Wine Appreciation is set for 7:30-10 p.m. Wednesday, June 12. Marc Jonna and Joe Bruno of the Merchant of Vino will teach how to read between the lines of a wine label, how to look for values, use of the Davis grading system and how to scientifically taste wines. The program is co-sponsored by Baldwin Library. Class fee is $22.

Natural Foods Cooking includes a Totally Italian cooking class from 7:30-9:30 p.m. Wednesday, June 12, and a Sampler from India from 7:30-9:30 p.m. Wednesday, June 19. Each class is $14. Emphasis is on creating meatless meals that contain no refined products, sugars, meat, dairy products or cholesterol, as taught by the staff of Pure n' Simple.

You may register in person, by mail, by phone, or by fax. For more information call 644-5832.

TWO CLASSES: Michigan produce will soon be arriving in local markets, and the Oakland County Cooperative Extension Service is offering two classes to help disseminate the latest USDA safe-canning recommendations to the public.

One class is a home study, for $15, and the other is a hands-on two-morning workshop Tuesday, July 16, and Thursday, July 18, for $7.50 a session. Sylvia Trelman, home economist, will teach. Call 858-0904 for enrollment information.

For other questions on home canning, food safety or food and nutrition concerns, call the Oakland County Food and Nutrition Hotline at 858-0904 from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

COMMUNITY COOKBOOK AVAILABLE: The First Presbyterian Church of Northville is selling a community cookbook full of favorite recipes from Northville and the surrounding area.

Books are $6.50 each and are on sale at the church. For more information call 349-0911.

SUPERMARKET TIPS: An informative sheet, "Charting Your Way Through the Supermarket," offers tips for making educated decisions at the supermarket. It is available free from the Oakland County Cooperative Extension Service, 1200 N. Telegraph, Pontiac, MI 48341. Questions about food, nutrition or food safety can be directed to the Food Hotline, 858-0904.

Making frozen yogurt at home

Always looking over his shoulder and trying to keep up with customer requests is Evans Spyros, owner of Hugley's, in Orchard Place mall just south of Fourteen Mile on Orchard Lake Road in Farmington Hills. You might want to call Spyros a full-fledged yogurt connoisseur because not only does he sell a wide assortment of non-fat frozen yogurt but frequently he chills out with a wide assortment of sugar-free, non-fat varieties, in addition to non-fat soft-serve gourmet sorbet (made with pure fruit juices and natural sweeteners).

And if that weren't enough, health-conscious customers may order up a soft-serve frozen delicacy called Fruitage, which contains no dairy products or lactose and is sweetened with only concentrated fruit juices. This specialized product is manufactured by Smuckers and is the equivalent of one fruit exchange, according to the standards set by the American Diabetes Association. Hugley's also offers soups, sandwiches and a wide assortment of homemade muffins and cookies.

In addition to non-fat, sugar-free and more natural products being introduced by today's soft-serve frozen yogurt industry, what else is new on the frozen horizon? Look for specialty machines that will whip up frozen yogurt with a wild assortment of everything from M&M's to crushed Heath Bars. This special machine costs big bucks and is being test marketed at a few shops in metro Detroit.

After the frozen yogurt is churned from the machine, it is placed in a special cooled auger and then scoops of any kind of toppings can be swirled in, then augered back into a cone. This machine is similar to Dairy Queen's Flurry maker, with the exception that the frozen product can be churned back into a cone. Owners of these specialty machines can offer frozen yogurt with more than 50 different flavor variations, depending on what the shop has on hand.

Alan Bell of Frosty Yogurt Products says the frozen yogurt market is expanding profoundly in the industrial marketplace. Ford Body, Upjohn and Steelcase are just a few of the businesses where Bell has placed soft-serve frozen yogurt makers in the employee cafeterias, effectively raising the conscience of frozen yogurt mania to all age levels and incomes.

Move over ice cream. With the emergence of frozen yogurt on the horizon, expect the ice cream manufacturers to begin introducing healthier and more gourmet products soon.

Industry dishes up fresh ideas selling cookbooks of all time.

Hoffman books, including their recently published "Frozen Yogurt", are filled with good food made from simple, generally easy-to-follow recipes that are written in a clear, concise fashion.

Reviewers have called them "books meant for the kitchen not the cocktail table."

"This past decade there's been an unimaginable growth in frozen yogurt shops and we did the book because so many people told us they didn't know frozen yogurt could be made at home," said Mable Hoffman.

The Hoffmans say it isn't necessary to have an expensive electric ice cream making machine to have homemade frozen yogurt.

You can use the ice-and-salt-packed traditional ice cream maker, either electric or cranked by hand, or the newer Donvier brand ice cream maker that requires the metal cylinder to be frozen in advance and costs as little as $10 in the pint size.

And—if none of the above ice cream makers are available—you can make frozen yogurt by alternately freezing and beating in a food processor or with an electric mixer. (Complete instructions follow.)

Refrigerator-Freezer Instructions:

Because this method does not provide for continuous agitation of the yogurt mixture during the freezing process, the quantity and texture will vary slightly from that produced in an ice cream maker. To produce a smoother and creamier frozen yogurt by this method, beat the prepared yogurt ingredients two or three times during the freezing process.

Here are Hoffman's two techniques.

Food processor technique:

Pour prepared yogurt ingredients into an 8-inch square baking pan; cover with foil or plastic wrap; and place in freezer compartment of refrigerator. Freeze until solid (1 to 2 hours). Break frozen mixture into pieces; spoon pieces into food processor fitted with a metal blade. Process until soft but not melted significantly. Repeat freezing and processing one or two more times, if desired.

After the final processing, stir or fold in any whole or chopped nuts, pieces of candy or cookies, large pieces of fruit, non-dairy whipped topping or prepared ingredients used to produce a swirled or marbled effect. Serve after final processing or return to freezer and serve later.

Mixer Method:

Pour prepared yogurt ingredients into a metal mixer bowl, cover with foil or plastic wrap and place in freezer compartment of refrigerator. Freeze about 2 hours or until firm at the edges and semisoft in the center. Beat with electric mixer on medium-high speed until soft but not melted significantly. Repeat freezing and beating one or two more times, if desired.

After the final beating, stir or fold in any whole or chopped nuts, pieces of candy or cookies, large pieces of fruit, non-dairy whipped topping or prepared ingredients used to produce a swirled or marbled effect. Serve after final processing or return to freezer and serve later.

Another tip from Hoffman: press a piece of plastic film against the exposed surface of the frozen yogurt before the lid is placed on the storage container. Without this extra seal, the surface of the yogurt will dry out. And the plastic minimizes the formation of ice crystals in the yogurt. (By the way, do not store in glass; use plastic containers.)

Here are some of the Hoffman's frozen yogurt recipes:

BOYSENBERRY SUPREME

1/2 cup sugar
2 teaspoons cornstarch
1/2 cup evaporated skim milk
1 egg, slightly beaten
2 tablespoons light corn syrup
2 cups fresh or frozen unsweetened boysenberries

1 cup plain low-fat yogurt, stirred
Yields about 1 quart, 8 servings. One serving contains 143 calories, 1 gram fat and 59 milligrams sodium.

In medium saucepan, combine sugar and cornstarch. Stir in milk, beaten egg and corn syrup. Cook and stir over low heat until mixture coats metal spoon and is slightly thickened; set aside.

In blender or food processor fitted with metal blade, puree berries. Strain and discard seeds. Add to cooked mixture. Stir in yogurt.

Freeze in ice cream maker according to manufacturer's directions or follow refrigerator-freezer instructions above.

KIWI LIME FROZEN YOGURT

For the following recipe, it should be noted that Hoffman cautions that unripe kiwi has very little flavor. Be sure the fruit is ripe.

2 ripe kiwi, peeled and quartered
4 teaspoons lime juice
1/2 cup sugar

1/2 teaspoon vanilla extract
1 cup low-fat plain yogurt, stirred
3 or 4 drops green food coloring
1/4 cup chopped pistachios
Yields 1 quart, about 8 servings.

Per serving 138 calories, 3 grams fat and 37 milligrams sodium.

In blender or food processor fitted with metal blade, combine kiwi, lime juice, sugar and vanilla. Process until almost smooth.

In medium bowl, combine pureed mixture, milk, yogurt, food coloring and pistachios. Stir until well blended.

Freeze in ice cream maker according to manufacturer's directions or follow refrigerator-freezer instructions above.

Note: If using refrigerator-freezer method, stir in chopped nuts after final beating. Serve after final beating or return to freezer and serve later.

BASIC VANILLA FROZEN YOGURT

1/2 cup sugar, 2 teaspoons cornstarch
1 12-ounce can evaporated low-fat milk

1 egg, slightly beaten
2 tablespoons light corn syrup
2 teaspoons vanilla extract
1 1/2 cups plain low-fat yogurt, stirred

Yields about 1 quart, or 8 small servings. Per serving 150 calories, 1 gram fat and 90 milligrams sodium.

In medium saucepan, combine sugar and cornstarch. Stir in milk, beaten egg and corn syrup. Cook and stir over low heat until mixture is thickened and coats metal spoon. Remove from heat; cool. Stir in vanilla and yogurt.

Freeze in ice cream maker according to manufacturer's directions or follow refrigerator-freezer instructions above.
