What a difference a day makes

Downtown Northville hosted the annual Summer Song festival over the weekend, but the summer and the songs got a little damp on day one. A rainstorm kept most of the artisans and shoppers off the streets all afternoon Saturday. At right, Augustine Mancisci waits for the rain to let up. But Sunday dawned clear and bright, and stayed that way, helping to salvage the weekend. Above is the view of Sunday's crowds from the Main Centre building. For more pictures, see page 12-A. Summer Song is a project of the Northville Community Chamber of Commerce.

Bell tolls for Northville trolley

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

The Northville Trolley, purchased by restaurant owners John and Toni Genitti and Al Valente in 1989, was sold Monday to the City of Wyandotte.

The Genittis had few comments on the sale other than to say that the trolley did not generate enough revenue or community support to justify keeping it.

"It's a sad day for me because the town really needed it," Toni said. "It was not a good financial investment for us . . . You have to make it a full-time commitment."

When it was first purchased, the Northville Trolley was hailed as an asset to the community's image and a potential solution to downtown parking problems. The trolley was used during Northville's Victorian Festival, Christmas celebrations and other community events, and rented out to private parties including weddings at Mill Race Historical Village.

The city council agreed to insure the trolley through the city, at an estimated annual cost of $600, but never agreed to a specific policy regarding what events would qualify for city insurance. The council also threatened to pull the trolley's insurance altogether to avoid potential legal problems.

Wyandotte's Downtown Development Authority voted to purchase the trolley for $13,000 last week and the Wyandotte City Council approved

Livonia officer will not face charges

By MIKE TYREE
Staff Writer

A Livonia police officer who last April allegedly threatened a building contractor and later smashed a car windshield will not be charged in the incidents.

The Wayne County Prosecutor's Office did not seek malicious destruction of property charges against Livonia police Det. Sgt. James Kenneth Prokes because "nobody wanted to press charges," said Assistant Prosecutor Dan Less.

"We can't do anything without a complainant," he said.

Northville Township police investigated a complaint of an April 19 brick-throwing, sledgehammer-swinging spree on Sunbury. According to police records, the incident occurred after the building contractor refused to move his 1989 Lincoln from the driveway of Prokes' rented home.

Police said Prokes' wife allegedly smashed the Lincoln's headlights with a sledgehammer and the contractor threw a brick at a 1988 Ford Escort owned by Prokes.

Prokes, who was off-duty at the time of the incident, returned home and allegedly confronted the contractor, threatening the man and eventually throwing a brick through the Lincoln's windshield.

Township police said both parties originally wished to press charges. That desire changed quickly, Less said.

"The owner of the vehicle (the contractor's wife) said she didn't want to press charges," Less said.

Less said the contractor failed to return numerous messages and Prokes and his wife also refused to press charges.

Less said Prokes was given "no special consideration" because he is a police officer.

"If anything, we were more thorough," he said. "We became more strict and rigid."

Township police last week said they consider the matter closed.

Baja looks to step into Goss' post

By MIKE TYREE
Staff Writer

A possible successor to Supervisor Georgina Goss has emerged in Northville Township.

Township resident Karen Baja said she will seek the supervisor's post if Goss captures the vacant 36th District state representative seat.

Goss will square off against two opponents in the Aug. 6 Republican primary. The primary winner is expected to gain the state seat since Democrats failed to promote a candidate for the post.

And Baja, 37, a current member of the township planning commission and zoning board of appeals, hopes to fill the void if Goss leaves township government.

Baja informed Goss of her plans Monday morning.

"I simply think I have something to offer," Baja said. "I think I can be a benefit to the township."

Baja has served six years on the township ZBA, chairing the appeals board the past 17 months. She earned appointment to the planning commission in November 1989.

An outspoken advocate of township rights and concerns in development issues, Baja refuses to conceal her thoughts or feelings.

"I come straight from the hip (and) what you see is what you get," she said. "Honesty and a straight-forward style are my (trademarks)."

Should Goss win the state election, the township board has the right to select her successor. Baja hopes the board will consider her resume and conduct interviews with interested candidates.

She said her "record, attendance and performance speak for themselves."

Baja stressed a need for more public input in the township decision-making process. Too often residents learn about the inner workings of government through television or newspapers, she said.

"I would like an open forum where questions can be asked of the supervisor," she said. "I would try to encourage more public participation in meetings."

"I would try to open up the communication lines between government and the people," she said.

Baja holds a bachelor's degree from Western Michigan University and has earned 22 graduate hours from Wayne State University. A wife and working mother of four, Baja said she could devote full-time hours to the supervisor's post.

"It just can't be done as part-time," she said. "My personality won't allow me to go 50 percent anyway."

"I put 100 to 150 percent into everything," she said.

Baja called mediation and delegation of authority keys to the supervisor's job. She said she has the ability to "see all sides of issues" and "listens to all sides of the story" before making decisions.

Baja does not see Goss' potential departure as a signal of wide-scale upheaval at township hall.

"I don't think Northville needs to be shaken up," she said. "I'd like to see things continue to progress and grow."

Planners cut downtown building height

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

The city planning commission has agreed to lower the allowable height of new buildings in the Central Business District.

But the commissioners have yet to agree on the details behind dropping the height.

Planning Consultant Don Wortman presented the commission with a proposed zoning amendment to change the allowable height at last week's meeting. The amendment was the result of a previous meeting's discussion.

"It was generally agreed that what would be acceptable would be a three-story height limitation, but where there is sloping land heights may be increased to four stories," Wortman said.

The amendment would reduce the maximum number of stories in the Central Business District from five to three, and reduce the maximum height from 60 feet to 36 feet on level ground and 48 feet on sloping ground.

The building's height would be measured from the average ground level of the grade at the front building wall, to the highest point of the coping on a flat roof, the deck line of a mansard roof, or the average height of the highest gable on a pitched or hip roof.

"I feel confident that what we have here is close to what I've been hearing that you want . . . I think just a plain three-story limit would be too restrictive," Wortman said.

Though the commissioners agreed to the general nature of the amendment, they disagreed on specifics, and on whether the proposed amendment would do what they want it to do.

"I only want a building that's 48 feet high at any point measured along its face ... that's what I thought we were getting," said Chairperson John Hardin.

Commissioner Roland Stapleton agreed, and added, "The way to make sure that's complied with is to stipulate that (height) is measured from the lowest point on the (building's) footprint."

Audience member and local architect Greg Presley had several questions about the proposed amendment. "I think 36 feet is a little too restrictive on an architect who's trying to do a good job," he said.

Presley suggested allowing up to three additional feet for a parapet to screen rooftop mechanical units, a suggestion to which the planning commission agreed.

Presley added that modern construction techniques often require several feet of space between the inside ceiling and roof line for mechanical equipment, and suggested at least two feet should be allowed for that.

But the proposal was quickly shot down by Commissioner David Totten. "I just plain don't agree with you," he told the architect. "This one, I think, violates the rule. If we keep listening to your exceptions, we're not going to have any rules at all."

"I'm not looking for exceptions," Presley replied. "I'm looking for a little elbow room."

Presley also pointed out that several buildings now in the Central Business District would be in violation of the new rule if they had to conform to it. The amendment would only apply to new construction.

Totten replied, "I don't think we should be inhibited by what presently exists."

The commissioners directed Wortman to return to the commission with a rewritten ordinance to allow a parapet and encourage mechanical units to be placed in the center of a roof, to make them less visible.

Gans tabbed to chair council

By SUZANNE HOLLYER
Staff Writer

A Northville man has been selected to serve as the first chairperson of a national council for physical education to be chosen from a community college.

Marvin Gans, assistant dean of continuing education services at Schoolcraft College, was selected as chair of the College and University Physical Education Department Administrators Council. The position has been held by a representative of a four-year college or university in the past.

The council is part of the larger National Association for Sports and Physical Education.

Gans, a three-year council member, said membership in organizations gives him a chance to contribute to his profession.

"I've always felt that the association and my profession has been good to me, and I try to give something back," he said.

One of his jobs as chair will be to organize a national convention for physical education department administrators to be held in April in Indianapolis.

As many as 7,000 administrators will attend the convention, which will focus its seminars and workshops on motivational skills.

Gans has lived in Northville since 1967 and has worked at Schoolcraft since 1964.

His term as council chair expires at end of the convention in April 1992.

Trolley shuffled off to Wyandotte the purchase Monday. The city was scheduled to take the trolley Wednesday.

Leslie Lupo, director of community relations in Wyandotte, said the trolley will be kept very busy at its new home. "The possibilities are endless for what we can do with it," she said. "We have special events for 10 months out of the year . . . and we may get into a regular route for the trolley."

The trolley's offer was just too good to pass up, Lupo said. "It was our plan to buy a brand-new trolley, eventually, but when this opportunity came up so early, we couldn't turn it down. A new trolley is at least $100,000."

Besides the city's International Fun Fest, Spring Fling and Heritage Days, the trolley could provide transportation to the 18 annual festivals in Yack Arena and six concerts in Bishop Park. Lupo said the trolley may also be made available for weddings and other special uses, uses to which members of the Northville City Council had objected.

Thieves look to yew as valuable commodity

Twenty yew bushes valued at a total of $900 were stolen from the Main Centre building sometime between 6:30 p.m. June 20 and 7:30 a.m. the next day. The two-foot-tall bushes with 30-inch root balls were at the northwest corner of South Center and Cady when they were taken.

YARD, VEHICLE DAMAGED: A Farmcrest resident told township police that someone slashed the right rear tire of his 1990 Cadillac and destroyed trees, bushes and flowers around his home early June 23. The man said he heard a loud noise outside the home shortly after midnight, but did not discover the damage until 8 a.m.

The man said someone pulled flowers from a flowerbed and threw them around the yard, knocked a mailbox off its post and threw it in the street, pulled bushes from his yard and broke a branch off a tree.

Damage was estimated at $300. The resident told police he had no idea who would have caused the damage.

OUIL: A 26-year-old Livonia man was arrested on suspicion of operating a vehicle under the influence of alcohol June 23 at 8 p.m. on southbound Haggerty north of Five Mile. Township police said the man's blood-alcohol level measured .18 in two breathalyzer tests.

STEREO EQUIPMENT STOLEN FROM CAR: Thieves made off with more than $2,700 worth of car stereo equipment early June 18 after breaking into a 1989 Ford Mustang parked on Scenic Lane.

The vehicle owner told police a compact disc player, two power amplifiers, a preamplifier and a graphic equalizer, and 45 compact discs were stolen. The stolen items were valued at $2,740.

LARCENY FROM MELJER: Township police charged a 25-year-old Northville woman with larceny after she reportedly attempted to steal two cassette players and a leather wallet from Meljer, 20401 Haggerty, June 20.

PURSE STOLEN FROM VEHICLE: A Livonia woman told township police someone stole a purse containing $50 cash and a $2,800 check from a 1980 Buick LeSabre parked outside a Marilyn residence June 19. The woman told police she was inside a home for 10 minutes and when she returned to the unlocked vehicle, her purse was gone.

ATTEMPTED CAR THEFT: A man who parked his unlocked car at McDonald Ford, 550 W. Seven Mile Road at 8 a.m. June 20 returned at 5 p.m. and found the ignition broken. City police believe someone may have attempted to steal the car by tampering with the ignition switch.

The car was parked on the south-east side of the lot behind the main sales and service building at the time.

SUSPENDED LICENSE ARREST: City police arrested a 23-year-old Warren man for driving with a suspended license June 21 after stopping him for speeding on Taft Road at Morgan Boulevard.

A computer check turned up an East Lansing felony warrant for assault and two traffic warrants from Redford. The man posted a $500 personal bond for the suspended license arrest, and was turned over to East Lansing police on the assault warrant.

BIKE STOLEN: A $500 bicycle was reported stolen June 21 from the sidewalk in front of a Dunlap Street home. The bike, a red Haro Extreme in excellent condition, was reportedly taken sometime between 3-3:30 p.m.

LAWN ORNAMENTS STOLEN: More than $100 in lawn ornaments were stolen from two Northville City homes last week.

Three white ducks valued at $50 were taken from in front of a Lexington Boulevard home sometime between 9 p.m. June 21 and 8 a.m. the next day. The ducks had been stolen last year but they turned up at Northville High School, the owner said. Two black and white wooden sheep valued at $54 were taken from in front of a First Street home sometime between noon June 21 and 9 a.m. June 23.

FENDER BENDER: City police cited a 45-year-old Novi man for driving through a stop sign after he drove north into the path of a westbound car at Dunlap and Wing. The man reportedly attempted to drive around backed up eastbound traffic when the accident occurred.

Citizens with information about the above incidents are urged to call Northville City Police at 349-1234 or Northville Township Police at 349-9400.

Sports car driver cruises Hines Park sans clothing

By MIKE TYREE
Staff Writer

A man who cruises Hines Park in a flashy red Camaro caught the eye of a Northville woman last week when he climbed from the car and ran naked into the roadway. The woman told township police a man driving a red Chevrolet Iroc-Z followed her as she walked along the parkway June 23. The man reportedly pulled the vehicle alongside the woman and beckoned to her.

When the woman ignored the man's comments, he "ran into the middle of the street with no clothes at all," she told police.

The man then returned to the vehicle and continued to follow the woman, stopping behind her several times.

The woman eventually was able to walk away from the man. She told police she did not see which direction he left the park area.

The suspect is described as a young, 6-foot white male with dirty blond hair. The man's vehicle is described as "fire engine red" and was dirty at the time of the incident.

The woman could not provide township police with license plate information.

According to police records, Plymouth City police and Canton Township police are investigating a similar incident with the same vehicle and suspect descriptions.

Police said the man faces indecent exposure charges if apprehended.

Detroit man socked with weapons charge

By MIKE TYREE
Staff Writer

A Detroit man who could not explain why he was standing outside a township business at 3:30 a.m. June 20 pleaded guilty later that day to a weapons possession charge.

Thirty-fifth District Court Judge John MacDonald fined Andrew Udo Wilson, 20, of Detroit, $265 for possessing a blackpowder replica revolver after Wilson was arrested in a parking lot adjacent to Adistra Corp., 16580 Northville Road.

Wilson was arrested after township police said they saw a vehicle traveling west on Mill near Northville Road stop and back up behind Adistra

Corp. at approximately 3:30 a.m. June 20.

Three young men emerged from the vehicle and began to walk toward another car that had stopped in the parking lot. Police said the men included Wilson, a 21-year-old Dearborn Heights resident, and a 16-year-old Detroit boy. A 22-year-old Royal Oak resident was seated in the other car, police said.

When police asked them what they were doing outside the business at such an early hour, the men did not respond, other than to say they were "waiting for friends."

Police then searched a vehicle owned by the Dearborn Heights man and discovered a blackpowder revolver.

Wilson admitted owning the gun, police said, and said he had bought it from a pawn shop in Redford. A computer check cleared the gun, but not Wilson.

He was wanted for outstanding warrants out of Northville Township and Livonia for failure to appear on driving with a restricted license charges, police said.

Police arrested Wilson and recovered nine percussion caps from his pants pockets during a booking process.

After pleading guilty to weapons possession and failure to appear charges, Wilson was turned over to Livonia police on the second driving charge.

Petrie leaves board

By SUZANNE HOLLYER
Staff Writer

Northville school board President James Petrie got a two-in-one duck Monday.

Superintendent George Bell carved song birds, ducks and fish as a hobby. Bell's wife Ruth paints the carvings. Any board member who leaves his or her position receives one of the Bells' originals. Board presidents also receive one of the animals at the end of their terms.

Petrie received his Red Breasted Merganser on two counts. He is leaving the board, and he served as president this year.

He was elected to serve on the board of the Wayne County Regional Educational Service Agency. The agency serves as a liaison between districts in Wayne County and the state.

"When you get off the county board, you don't get a duck," Bell said.

Petrie received the traditional duck memento at the last meeting of the 1990-91 school board and his last regular meeting as president. His position officially ends June 30. The tradition of Bell passing out carved animals ends with it. Bell is retiring at the end of July.

Petrie said participating on the school board has been a "team experience."

"I'm proud to have been part of that team. Thank you very much. I've enjoyed it," he said.

The school board passed a resolution extending its "heartfelt gratitude for his service on the board and their best wishes for continued success as trustee" on the county board.

"But don't forget where you come from," trustee Carol Rahimi added.

Newcomer Richard Brown was elected to fill the slot left vacant by Petrie.

The new board will meet July 8 to select officers for the 1992-93 school year.

Also receiving a carved animal courtesy of Ruth and George Bell was outgoing PTA President Margaret Surdu and PTA president-elect Sharon Ferrara.

Surdu and Ferrara both received carved chickadees, Bell said.

City debates buffer zones for downtown

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

The Northville City Planning Commission is debating strategies to soften the transition between the Central Business District and residential areas.

Creating a buffer between the two zones is one recommendation in the city's recently enacted Master Plan.

"The problem arises from concerns that established residential areas are being encroached upon by commercial development," said Planning Consultant Don Wortman. "How do you keep the integrity of those residential areas intact?"

"Part of the problem is that there are no front and rear setbacks in the CBD. So you can have a building butting right up to the lot line."

Wortman suggested five "strategies" to improve the buffer between the two districts: rezoning some North Center Street CBD properties to Local Commercial District to require front and rear setbacks, requiring CBD buildings to be set back at least 40 feet from residential lot lines, requiring a green-belt buffer between a CBD building and residential property, encouraging developers to use building setbacks when abutting residential areas, or reducing floor area ratios (FAR) and offering increased FAR to developers who use building setbacks or green belts.

Commissioners rejected the first, fourth and fifth strategies, though Chairperson John Hardin agreed that floor area ratios, the allowable ratio of floor space to total property area, should be reviewed in another context.

At least one planner saw no problem with the present situation. "Frankly, I don't have a problem with leaving it just like it is," said Commissioner Chris Gazlay. The commissioner said he saw no difference between a business abutting another business and one abutting a home.

Gazlay's stand was a lonely one, though, as the rest of the commission agreed on the need for some sort of buffer between the CBD and residential areas. "I think there's a fundamental difference between a CBD business that abuts a residential property and a CBD business that abuts another business," said Commissioner Stephen Ball. "There's a social cost that the developer is asking the residential property owner to pay."

Hardin agreed, saying, "I think the easiest thing to do is provide a softening of the edge between the CBD and residential districts."

Several planners wondered whether the proposed 40-foot setback would prove too great a hardship to CBD builders, and Hardin asked the consultant to show the effects of 20- and 30-foot setbacks on CBD properties.

The planners also asked Wortman to review the buffers required by other zoning districts, and report back to the commission.

Ring thief sentenced to two years probation

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

A 30-year-old Canton woman pleaded no contest last month to a charge of stealing a ring from a Northville man's home.

Cynthia J. Kasperski made the plea in Oakland County Circuit Court May 9, and was sentenced to two years probation. She was also ordered to pay $1,650 in restitution, $600 in court costs, a $30 victim rights fee, $30 a month in probation costs, and attorney fees.

Her plea followed a monthlong investigation into the theft by Northville City police, who tracked the ring to a pawn shop in Ypsilanti.

Police were first notified of the theft Feb. 1, the day the owner discovered it missing. He had last seen it on Sept. 2, 1990. The ring had been located in a jewelry box in the man's upstairs bedroom.

The ring, originally valued at $2,700, was described as a gold band with a .8-carat old mine cut diamond.

The man told police he had left home for a weekend vacation Nov. 29 and left a door unlocked for a Livonia cleaning company.

Kasperski had worked for the company for two months before the theft, and she was one of several people who cleaned the Northville man's house that day.

Using computer records of jewelry sales to area pawn shops, police found that Kasperski had recently pawned at least 10 pieces of jewelry, including a ring matching the description of the stolen one. Police tracked the ring to a pawn shop in Ypsilanti and the shop's owner confirmed that the ring he bought for $250 matched a sketch of the one stolen, but he said he had already removed and sold the diamond and melted down the band for its gold.

Plan to change tuition benefits fails at township

By MIKE TYREE
Staff Writer

A recent proposal to modify township employee tuition benefits failed after the township board decided the plan discriminated against non-union employees.

Manager Richard Henningsen tendered a plan that would have required employees to repay tuition benefits if the employee voluntarily left the township within a year of taking courses for which the township paid.

The township currently allows individual employees up to $1,000 per year in tuition reimbursement.

Board members appeared ready to accept the plan — as well as a move to halt payments for course-related books — but recanted when Supervisor Georgina Goss pointed out the "difference between union and general fund employees."

"I have a little trouble penalizing general fund employees," she said. "That just bothers me."

All full-time members of the township police department — with the exception of Chief Chip Snider — belong to unions. The township's Water and Sewer Department is also unionized. Tuition and book benefits are written into union contracts.

The balance of township employees are non-union personnel.

The board's interest in tuition repayment cropped up after Finance Director James Graham resigned to take a position with the South Lyon Public School District.

That Graham left the township after using tuition reimbursement funds for graduate studies apparently rankled some board members.

Trustee Richard Allen said he encouraged employees to take courses, but he complained about those who "improve themselves to take a job somewhere else."

But Henningsen later said he had no problem with Graham's decision. "I got my money's worth out of him," he said. "The board just asked me to come up with a proposal."

Some township employees spoke out against the proposed pay-back plan and the reduction of book expenses.

"Books are used in 90 percent of the classes we take," said township Fire Chief Rick Roselle. "For us to buy (books), I don't think that's fair."

The people here that (take classes) do it for the township; the township will benefit and the employee will benefit," he said.

Planning and Zoning Administrator Carol Maise said two of her staffers use the tuition reimbursement program to improve their job-related skills. Maise feared pay-back rules would "discourage" employees from taking classes.

After considerable discussion, the board voted 4-3 to delay a pay-back system until the police union contract expires in 1993.

Sidewalk sale scheduled

The Northville Merchants' Association is sponsoring Sidewalk Sales this year on Friday and Saturday, Aug. 2 and 3. There will be new events in addition to the bargains offered by the retailers.

The theme for Sidewalk Sales will be "Northville Recycles" and the events and activities will be based around recycling and re-using.

On Friday, the merchants will set up their wares on the sidewalks for all the early bargain hunters. On Saturday, the streets will be closed and the stores along with non-profit groups and food vendors will be out on the road.

Three special areas will be set aside for up to 100 families to have their own garage sale on Saturday, August 3. Applications are on a first-come, first-served basis and are available at Traditions by Bartley & Boyd, Mountain Rags, and The Shipping Station, all located on Center Street. There is a $10 sign-up fee for the garage sale space.

During the day Saturday, there will be family-oriented activities and informational booths and fun for everyone. The finale will be an auction at 5 p.m. in the bandshell. The auctioneers Braun & Helmer have generously agreed to auction donations from the local stores and from the community.

The Merchants' Association has designated Civic Concern, a local charity that helps Northville residents, to receive a portion of the proceeds from the Sidewalk Sale events.

The members of the Sidewalk Sale committee are: Cathy Noble, The Shipping Station; Teri Fry and Tudy Licht, Mountain Rags; and Karen Slack and Susan MacGonigal, Traditions.

Safety home will show fire victims a way out

By MIKE TYREE
Staff Writer

Where there's smoke, there's fire. The adage is ancient but the warning still rings true.

Smoke and fire in the home doesn't necessarily mean disaster, though, as a host of local fire departments hope to point out.

Fire departments from the township and city of Northville, together with the township and city of Plymouth, are combining efforts to build a fire-safety house, an educational tool aimed at heightening fire awareness throughout the communities.

Designed to replicate a mini-residential dwelling, the 8-foot-by-25-foot fire-safety house is intended to teach its visitors how to react to smoke and fire situations by using windows and door as escape paths.

Local firefighters hope the mobile, trailer-towed fire-safety house will become an institution at schools, senior citizen centers and community events throughout the Northville/Plymouth area.

But here's the rub: The fire safety house carries a $15,000 price tag.

The fire departments plan to approach businesses throughout the Northville/Plymouth area and seek donations to purchase materials for the house. Firefighters plan to handle construction chores themselves.

Contributions from local govern-

"There will be many benefits to the fire safety house . . . It will bring residents up to snuff on what to expect if their house goes up in smoke."

RICK ROSSELLE
Northville Township Fire Chief

ments are expected to be nominal. The Northville Township board earlier this month agreed to appropriate $500 for the safety house.

Plymouth Jaycees have also kicked in $500.

The township fire department plans to send out donation requests later this week to businesses, builders, and homeowners associations throughout Northville Township, Fire Chief Rick Rosselle said Monday.

"There will be many benefits to the fire safety house," Rosselle said. "The biggest benefit is that it will be available to educate the whole township."

"It will bring residents up to snuff on what to expect if their house goes up in smoke," he said.

The safety house will be equipped with three types of windows, standard house doors, and carpeting. Township firefighter Guy Balok said. Exhaust vents will pump non-toxic smoke into the fire house during demonstrations.

The idea is to familiarize residents with escape techniques.

"We'll teach how to exit the house through windows, so when the firefighters enter, it won't be a rescue situation," Balok said.

The proposed safety house's teaching potential is unlimited, township Assistant Fire Chief Bill Zmenda said.

"We want adults to go through it, not just (elementary students)," he said. "We want it to resemble a structure they're used to living in."

"Chief Rosselle and I support this thing 100 percent," he said.

If funding is obtained, firefighters hope to construct the safety house by early fall.

Fire safety house donations are tax deductible, Rosselle said. Donations may be sent to the township fire department at 41600 Six Mile Road. Envelopes should be marked to the attention of the fire safety house, Rosselle said.

The Environmental Protection Agency is working to clean up these and other hazardous waste sites in the Detroit area. If the companies responsible for the waste are not found, the government may have to spend millions of dollars in this effort to protect human health and the environment in Southeast Michigan.

Call the EPA's Detroit Superfund Hotline if you have any information about these sites. We especially need your help if you ever drove a truck carrying liquid waste or worked at a company that sent hazardous waste to these sites. You don't have to give your name.

Private schools share services

By SUZANNE HOLLYER
Staff Writer

Five private and parochial schools in Northville received over 800 hours of services this year from nine therapists, consultants and social workers employed by Northville Public Schools.

State law requires public school districts to provide special education services to all private and parochial schools within their boundaries.

Five private and parochial schools in Northville required 832.75 hours of time from Northville Public Schools' staff. That is a total of 111 days of service, not including travel time or time involved by the special education office.

Executive Director for Special Education Leonard Rezmierski said the equivalent of one full-time staff member was needed to accommodate the needs of local private and parochial schools. But one person could not be hired to do the job. Physical therapists, speech teachers, a psychologist, a social worker and two consultants worked with local private and parochial schools.

Thirty-eight students were evaluated by Northville Public Schools' staff, and 61 students were provided with services.

Services included consultations with staff and parents, parent conferences, liaison work with outside service agencies and testing.

Only 40 percent of the students served in Northville private schools were Northville residents. Rezmierski said he suspects some parents of special education students "shop around" for a private school located in a public school district with a respected special education program.

Rezmierski said students who have transferred three or more times are considered "shoppers" and are part of a "growing situation."

Relations between Northville's private/parochial and public schools are good, Rezmierski said.

"I can only reflect on my 15 years here. We've had improved relationships every year," he said.

Building administrators at each of the five schools volunteered unanimous support for the public school millage held June 10, Rezmierski said.

"I am pleased this cooperation exists," he said.

The five public and parochial schools located in the Northville Public School District are:

● Our Lady of Victory, 133 Orchard Drive, serves 260 students in kindergarten through the eighth grade.

● Our Lady of Providence, 16115 Beck Road, serves 104 students between the ages of 8 and 28.

● Fairlane Christian West, 41355 Six Mile Road, serves 270 students in kindergarten through the eighth grade.

● St. Paul's Lutheran, 201 Elm Street, serves 140 students in preschool through the eighth grade.

● William Allan Academy, 49875 Eight Mile Road, serves 100 students in preschool through the fifth grade.

Path cleared to nursing degrees

It's a smooth path to a four-year nursing degree under a new joint agreement between Schoolcraft College and Madonna University.

The two Livonia-based schools have entered into an agreement that will enable Schoolcraft nursing students to earn a bachelor's degree at Madonna with no loss of credit.

"This is a very rapid program for the student and yet we're not cutting corners," said Sister Rose Marie Kujawa, academic vice president of Madonna.

Students could receive up to 2.5 years of credit for classes taken at Schoolcraft. Madonna officials estimated students could complete their studies in as little as nine months instead of the standard two years.

"It's an advantage in that our students wouldn't have to take some classes over again," said Midge Carleton, Schoolcraft assistant dean for health care programs.

The program begins with Madonna's fall semester.

Agreements such as this are seen as helping ease the nation's nursing shortage by putting more nurses in the field faster.

Though Carleton said graduates of Schoolcraft's licensed practical nurse program have had little difficulty in finding jobs, nurses with four-year degrees are in heaviest demand.

Madonna officials agreed both two- and four-year nursing students are in demand, though they added that four-year nurses are generally in greater demand for more technical, highly specialized jobs.

"The RN is in high demand whether he or she is a two- or four-year graduate but going on does provide advantages," Sister Rose Marie said.

Under the agreement, Madonna will conduct National League of Nursing aptitude tests several times a year on the Schoolcraft campus. It is believed to be the first time another educational institution has monitored testing of Schoolcraft students.

Students who pass the tests will receive full credit for equivalent Madonna courses, provided they complete 12 credit hours at the university. Test results are valid for five years.

Students would be required to take 11 courses, or course-exempting placement tests, after enrolling at Madonna.

Schoolcraft students would enter Madonna as juniors. Up to 64 credit hours would be accepted, with students required to complete an additional 35 credit hours at Madonna.

Students who fail any portion of the aptitude tests could still be admitted, but would have to take the test again at Madonna.

Madonna's 600-student school of nursing is the university's largest.

Madonna has similar agreements with Oakland and Henry Ford community colleges.

Madonna student nurses are currently placed in about 20 area hospitals, Sister Rose Marie said.

RESOLUTION 91-120

At a regular meeting of the Northville Township Board of Trustees held on June 13, 1991, at 7:30 p.m. at the Northville Township Civic Center the following resolution was offered:</

Cost for entry study concerns commission

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

The planning commission sent consultant Don Wortman back to the drawing board recently to redraft a suggested study of the city's entryways.

Wortman, with the Ann Arbor consulting firm of Ayers, Lewis, Norris & May, first recommended the study earlier this month.

"Much has been done to the downtown and the Central Business District, and I think in some sense the entry corridors are equally important to the image of the city," he said.

"Another big problem is traffic," he added. "I think Center Street is going to be the main problem. I don't see too many traffic changes on Main Street. I don't see too many traffic changes on Novi Road, though we all know about the problems with the one intersection (at Novi and Eight Mile.)"

Wortman also cited another potential eyesore, the Northville Downs parking lot at the northwest corner of Seven Mile and Center Street.

But some commissioners were skeptical of the need for a detailed entryway study. "Are you guys short of work over at Ayers, Lewis?" asked Commissioner David Totten.

Commissioner Rolland Stapleton asked the question on the minds of several fellow planners: "How much is it going to cost?"

"I was thinking in the range of between $8,000-$12,000," Wortman said. But he added that the range did not include the potential cost of consultant services for a detailed traffic plan.

Chairperson John Hardin said he would prefer to see more detailed price estimates, including mapping costs, potential consultants fees, and other costs.

Stapleton echoed Hardin's concern about the bottom line. "I have no basic complaints with this," he said, "but to be honest with you, my decision will be based partly on price."

"I'm not thoroughly convinced that this is a particularly wise expenditure . . . Would we be prepared to walk up to the citizens of Northville and say, 'Would you be willing to fund this for $2 or $3 apiece?'"

Stapleton compared the proposal to a previous planning project. "We got into a Master Plan study without getting any idea of the cost," he said.

Hardin did find some benefit to the proposal. "I think one thing programs like this do, they begin to establish the goals of the city," he said.

He also cited the need to foster an attractive appearance at the city's entryways. "That's important in maintaining commercial viability," he said.

Commissioner David Totten said he liked the concept but was uncertain whether a comprehensive plan was needed. "I'm in favor of doing something positive about the corridor plan, but I'm not sure all the bells and whistles need to be on it," he said.

Commissioner Richard Wilhelm asked Wortman to bring back cost estimates on two or three different versions of the project, of varying levels of detail, a suggestion supported by the rest of the planners.

Baby waits for vacation

Winchester Elementary School teacher Sue Keene had a baby girl on June 23. The baby was due on June 14, the last day of school for teachers, but waited an extra nine days to be born. Jordan Michele was born at 3:23 a.m. to Keene and her husband, Doug. She weighed 8 pounds 1 ounce at birth and was 20 inches long. The Keenes are Northville residents. Father and daughter are pictured above.

Local representatives oppose tax base sharing

By TIM RICHARD
Staff Writer

State Rep. Jan Dolan, R-Farmington Hills, wore a black arm band on the House floor last Thursday.

The second-term lawmaker held up a black bandit's mask and offered it to Rep. William Keith, D-Garden City. "There should be give and take. There's only take. That's not fair," she said.

Her GOP colleague from the other side of the metropolis, William Bryant of Grosse Pointe, called it the "sheriff of Nottingham bill," a companion to last year's "Robin Hood" school aid bill.

The topic was tax-base sharing—taking half the growth in business property taxes and spreading it to all schools.

The tone was unusually bitter as a coalition of Democrats and rural Republicans advanced their own version of a plan to use commercial and industrial property taxes from growth areas—mainly outlying suburbs in Macomb, Oakland and Wayne counties—to sweeten the school funding pot. Growth areas like Northville would be particularly hard-hit.

The bill is on a fast track. It emerged suddenly from the House Taxation Committee with an hour's discussion and no staff analysis.

Although it wasn't on the House calendar, it was pushed through second reading Thursday and could be passed soon.

House Bill 4267 has some technical differences from a Senate-passed version, which was part of the school aid bill. The House will set up two districts instead of three. The House bill's first-year impact would be $23 in per-pupil aid for the poorest districts versus $30 in the Senate version.

So the question appears to be not if the Michigan Legislature will make

"They're sharing not their tax base but their future growth. . . . Some districts levy 18 to 20 mills. Others levy 40 mills to get the same amount of money. Bloomfield Hills levies only 23 mills and raises $8,000 per pupil. Inkster passed 8 new mills last year and raises half as much."

REP. WILLIAM KEITH

the dramatic move to tax-base sharing but what kind of collection system it will set up.

Keith, a former Garden City school board member and a chief proponent of tax base sharing, was nearly as adamant that districts like Inkster are the real victims of Michigan's "King John" taxation policies.

"They're sharing not their tax base but their future growth," Keith said to lawmakers from the growth suburbs.

"Some districts levy 18 to 20 mills. Others levy 40 mills to get the same amount of money."

"Bloomfield Hills levies only 23 mills and raises $8,000 per pupil. Inkster passed 8 new mills last year and raises half as much."

In 1990 Keith was architect of a plan to "recapture" $72 million in categorical aid from wealthier districts, a measure called the "Robin Hood law." It cost Dolan's home district $5.8 million. Other suburbs also lost millions.

"We shouldn't be playing Robin Hood," Keith said. "We shouldn't have been sending $6 million to Bloomfield Hills in the first place."

"If this is a Robin Hood approach, they (wealthier suburbs) must be King John," he said.

Keith said bluntly his goal is to end all categorical programs and put the money into the general school aid formula, aiding poorer districts. "Today we're putting half the money into categorical and half into school aid," he said.

The goal of Keith and like-minded lawmakers is to reduce the gap between the state's richest districts ($8,400 per pupil) and poorest (less than $2,500).

He, Rep. James O'Neill, D-Saginaw, and Sen. Dan DeGrow, R-Port Huron, say it's impossible to raise state taxes to pump more into state school aid. The only way to close the gap, they argue, is to spread local resources.

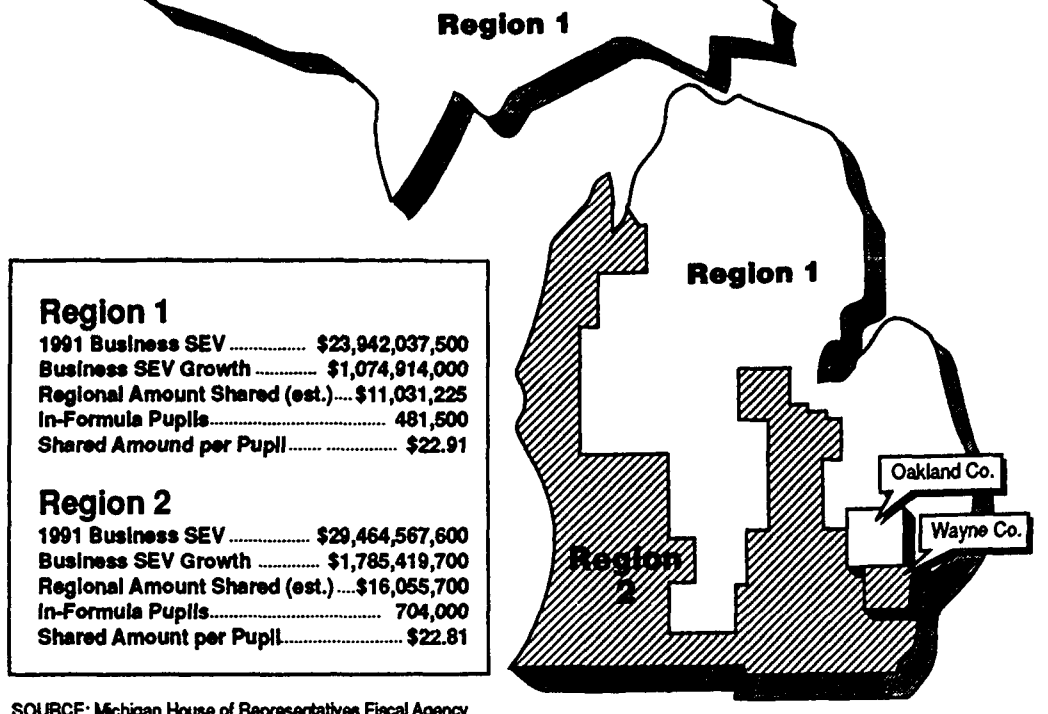

Bryant said tax base sharing will cost a few districts a lot of money but spread "a measly $14 million this year" to poorer districts.

The veteran GOP leader said that if Lansing can raid half the local business tax base this year, next year it may raid all the business tax base, and the year after it may start taking residential tax base.

Bryant found an irony in the tax bill: "This doesn't affect Bridgman (one of the wealthiest districts in the state, with its nuclear power plant). It operates on allocated millage."

His point was that tax base sharing affects only new growth, not old wealth.

Plan does little to help poor districts, Bell says

By SUZANNE HOLLYER
Staff Writer

A state attempt to equalize school funding does very little toward helping poor districts, said Northville Superintendent George Bell.

A state House of Representatives version of tax-base sharing legislation would give poorer school districts $22.85 per pupil in new money. The money would come from growth in out-of-formula school districts. Out-of-formula districts like Northville are considered property wealthy by the state's funding formula.

Under the plan, the state would be divided up into two districts. Fifty percent of all new commercial and industrial growth in out-of-formula districts would be shared within regions being distributed to in-formula districts.

A state Senate version is similar but would divide the state into three districts.

Bell said the plan does little to equalize funding with equal amounts of additional aid going to all in-formula districts regardless of need.

The state claiming some of local state equalized valuation (SEV) growth is a step toward erosion of local control, Bell said.

"It's the first time in history the state is taking local SEV. That's a dangerous precedent in my mind," he said.

While the plan would do little damage to Northville schools this year or even next year, if tax base sharing were to become a permanent part of the school aid act, Northville could lose big.

Half of the tax base brought in by expected development would be shared with other districts as far away as Traverse City.

Oakland County would be part of the other tax base sharing region with revenue from taxes in that county going to the Upper Peninsula.

Redrawing of districts delayed

By TIM RICHARD
Staff Writer

Don't be in a rush to see the new congressional and legislative district maps. They'll take a few months.

"Some 100,000 people were not counted (by the census) in this state — maybe more," said Rep. Maxine Berman, D-Southfield, who chairs the House committee handling legislative districting. "Four hundred cities challenge their figures."

"The secretary of commerce is to decide in July if there will be a census recount," added Rep. Willis Bullard, R-Highland, minority vice chair of the panel. If the federal government decides there was an undercount in 1990, a new total will be fed into the government computer, which will adjust those numbers by census tracts, he said.

Only then can lawmakers start redrawing maps.

Berman and Bullard say their committee will work on apportionment during the summer and fall.

Four new district maps — one from the Senate panel, one from the House, one from Republicans, one from Democrats — are likely to emerge.

A lawsuit — if any — will come about December in the state Supreme Court.

"It's not totally out of the question to agree," said Berman.

Bullard is less optimistic. "Conventional wisdom is that we will not have a plan approved by everyone," the Republican spokesperson said. "In two of the previous three reapportionments, the filing deadline was postponed because the parties failed to agree."

In 1982 the state Supreme Court threw out the method of reapportionment devised in the 1963 Michigan Constitution — a four-member, bipartisan panel. The high court said it violated the U.S. Constitution.

At that time, the Supreme Court appointed an expert, former elections director Bernard Apol, to draw up a new plan.

This time the Legislature is supposed to do the job.

"Republicans are raising money. I presume Democrats are raising money," said Bullard. The money will be used for computers and legal fees.

"Democrats have no war chest I know of," said Berman. "We're in debt."

Reapportionment, done after every census, is the key to control of Michigan's 38-member Senate and 110-member House. Few seats change parties between censuses.

"Most people snore their way through it, but apportionment is critically important," said Berman.

Republicans contend Democrats were able to control the State Capitol in the 1960s and '70s largely through gerrymandering. Their unabashed goal is to take control of the House in 1992.

It's widely expected Detroit will lose one of its five state Senate seats. Probable gainer: an area on the Oakland-Macomb border.

Berman has held two hearings so far — in Detroit and Grand Rapids. In July she will hold three more — in Flint, Traverse City and Marquette.

So far, minority groups have asked that redistricting not dissipate their political influence.

The Supreme Court has given lawmakers no guidelines on what will satisfy their constitutional minds.

"We don't have any definitive guidelines," said Bullard. In 1982 the court said districts couldn't vary more than 16 percent plus or minus in population; districts were to be maintained within county lines so far as possible; and there were to be a minimum of breaks in city and township lines.

Bullard said Republicans asked the justices to reopen the case, but the court declined. Six of today's seven justices weren't on the court in 1982.

"We'd like to narrow the gap to 8 percent," said Berman. "We'd like not to split cities and townships, but in metro Detroit, you'll see more splits."

A separate pair of committees is handling apportionment of congressional seats. Its job will be particularly difficult because Michigan, due to population stagnancy, will lose two of its 18 congressional seats. Any judicial review is likely to be in federal court.

Headlee goes to court to put tax cut on ballot

Taxpayers United leader Richard Headlee said his group filed suit in the state Court of Appeals to put the "Headlee Tax Cut Initiative" on the 1992 ballot.

TU seeks a vote on its proposal to enact a 20-percent cut in property tax rates. The case — Taxpayers United for Assessment Cuts vs. State Board of Canvassers — was filed in Lansing by attorneys Tom Downs and Jerry Sutton.

"We're asking the court to defend the basic constitutional rights of the people who signed and collected over 224,000 signatures in good faith," he said in a news conference.

TU's signatures, filed last Sept. 11, exceeded the 191,726 needed for an initiated law. After eight months of review by the secretary of state, the State Board of Canvassers deadlocked, 2-2, on party lines, Republicans for certifying and Democrats opposed.

"We're asking the court to defend the basic constitutional rights of the people who signed and collected over 224,000 signatures in good faith."

RICHARD HEADLEE
Taxpayers United

The suit charges many practices used by the Secretary of State Richard Austin's office to discard signatures are unconstitutional.

Examples:

- 3,000 signatures were discarded because voters failed to check a box indicating whether they lived in a "city" or "township."
- The secretary of state rejects signatures unless proven valid while the law presumes petition signatures are valid until proven otherwise.
- The secretary of state used double scrutiny — a random sampling statistical procedure and a technical check procedure. This method forced the discarding of many signatures.

Other plaintiffs include David Beck, a forge worker and registered voter from Lansing, whose signature was on the petition discarded because he did not check the "city" box; Mary Milanowski, a petition circulator from Grand Rapids, a volunteer circulator; and James Barrett, president of the Michigan State Chamber of Commerce.

Stars and stripes deserve respect

The coming Independence Day holiday is sure to result in many displays of the American flag, but some may be improper.

For instance, although the flag may be displayed 24 hours a day, it should be properly illuminated at night. If the flag is to be flown during bad weather it should be made of an all-weather material.

The protocol is established by the Federal Flag Code enacted as Public Law 94-344 by the 94th Congress on July 7, 1976.

Among the items of protocol specified include:

- It is the universal custom to display the flag in the open only from sunrise to sunset. When a patriotic effect is desired, the flag may be displayed 24 hours a day if properly illuminated during the hours of darkness.

- The flag should not be displayed on days when the weather is bad unless an all-weather flag is used.

- The flag should not be draped over the hood, top, sides or back of a vehicle or of a railroad train or boat. When displayed on a car the flag should be fixed firmly to the chassis or clamped to the right fender.

- No other flag or pennant should be placed above, or if on the same level, to the right of the American flag.

- The flag of the United States should be at the center and at the highest point of the group when a number of flags of states or localities or pennants of societies are grouped and displayed from staffs.

- The American flag should be hoisted first and lowered last.

- When flags of two or more nations are displayed, they are to be flown from separate staffs of the same height and should be of approximately equal size. International usage forbids the display of the flag of one nation above that of another in time of peace.

- When displayed horizontally or vertically against a wall or in a window, the union should be uppermost and to the flag's own right (the observer's left).

- The flag should never be used as a covering for a statue or monument.

- When flown at half-staff, the flag should be hoisted to the peak for an instant and then lowered to half-staff and before it is lowered should be raised to the peak. On Memorial Day the flag should be half-staff until noon only. On other occasions a flag may be flown at half-staff only by order of the President or of a governor.

- When used to cover a casket, the flag should be so placed so the union is at the head and over the left shoulder. The flag should not be lowered into the grave and not allowed to touch the ground.

- The flag should never be displayed with the union down, except as a signal of dire distress in instances of extreme danger to life or property.

- The flag should not touch anything beneath it, such as the ground, the floor, water or merchandise.

- The flag should never be used as wearing apparel, bedding or drapery.

- The flag should never be used as a covering for a ceiling.

- The flag should never have placed on it any mark, insignia, letter, word, figure, design, picture or drawing of any nature.

- The flag should never be used for advertising purposes in any manner. It should not be embroidered on such articles as cushions or handkerchiefs, printed or impressed on paper napkins or boxes designed for temporary use and discard.

- No part of the flag should ever be used as a costume or athletic uniform. A flag patch may be affixed to the uniform of military personnel, firefighters, policemen, and members of patriotic organizations. The lapel flag pin, being a replica, should be worn on the left lapel near the heart.

- The flag, when it is in such condition that it can no longer be displayed, should be destroyed in a dignified way, preferably by burning.

- When the national anthem is played, all present except those in uniform should stand at attention facing the flag with the right hand over the heart. Men not in uniform should remove their hats. Persons in uniform should render the military salute. When the flag is not displayed, persons should face toward the music. The same rules apply for when the pledge of allegiance is said.

Boy scouts recognized for religious education

Eric Abbey and Andrew Stuart of Northville Boy Scout Troop 755, and Dan Pilarz of Northville Troop 903 were presented the Ad Altare Dei religious emblem by the Rev. Paul Kreimes during June 2 mass at Our Lady of Victory Church.

Parishioners, parents and scouts from Northville Troops 755 and 903 and Novi's Troop 54 attended the occasion. Additionally, these scouts were also recognized at their troop's Court of Honor on May 20.

The religious emblem programs are basic scouting character-development tools. They constitute the scouting-spirit aspect of the advancement program, and combine scouting and religious education.

Ad Altare Dei is the Catholic emblem for Boy Scouts. The scout must be an active member and have been registered for one year to receive the emblem.

The emblem is meant to recognize the scout's advancement in the spiritual content of scouting and to help him live fully the scout oath and law.

According to John Duneske, a certified Ad Altare Dei emblem counselor who worked with the scouts, the emblem is meant to recognize the scout's advancement in the spiritual content of scouting and to help him live fully the scout oath and law.

The purpose of the program, Duneske said, is to equip the boy scout to take his place in the world as a maturing Catholic and a maturing American.

The requirements concern themselves with action and knowledge, he explained. The scout is to have some understanding of what it means to be a follower or friend of Christ.

In addition, to earn the emblem, the scout must live and apply to his daily life the teachings of the church.

Abbey, Stuart and Pilarz completed several service projects, in addition to other activities, to earn the emblem. The service projects included Christmas food baskets, volunteering in a Detroit soup kitchen, and helping the sick and elderly in their homes.

Poetry honor

Recent Northville High School graduate Amy Lewis was placed among the top level of high school poets in Michigan during a competition sponsored earlier this year by Albion College. Albion sponsors the contest for unpublished poetry. Lewis was named a finalist, meaning top honors. The contest drew over 800 entries.

Artists complete arctic sculpture

The tenuous bond of understanding between the United States and the Soviet Union will soon be strengthened through the vision and effort of sculptor David Barr of Napier Road.

Barr and his wife, Elizabeth; Jim Pallas, Michigan sculptor; Paul Gray, Chicago art dealer; and Dan Kruzyniec of Hamtramck, a video cameraman, will leave for Uelen in the Soviet Union on the Bering Straights early in July. With them will be the second part of Barr's Arctic Arc sculpture project to be installed on a promontory facing the American coastline, some 50 miles across the icy waters.

Barr, who has been working on global projects since 1980, installed the American half of his Arctic Arc in Wales, Alaska, on the westernmost tip of the Seward Peninsula, in 1989. That one is a wood sculpture with an extended hand. The main wooden beam of the sled is a 30-foot timber weighing about 500 pounds.

The work to be installed next month is a 30-foot-long stainless steel structure, reminiscent of the hull of an umiak, a traditional walrus-skin boat, minus the skin. The sculpture, with a hand motif in the ribs of the hull, will be aligned with the equinoxes and summer solstice.

Barr said, "The Arctic Arc is drawing attention to geographical history—the land bridge that's always been there. I'm responding to invisible history. There's nothing there to tell you that the first migration took place there." His wish to memorialize that momentous ancient migration from Asia to North America, is readily accepted by the Eskimos in the remote coastal villages: "I never had any problem getting the most humble of the villagers to understand."

The villagers are aware of the link across the narrow waters. Many on one side have close relatives on the other and until the last few years, when tensions between the super powers eased, they couldn't see each other.

"On the Soviet side, we are going to be assisted by the Elgar Native Corporation in housing and moving around. Here is the Soviet Union in the depths of depression and art is still a priority, cultural exchange is still a priority and in my own backyard is the most resistance to these ideas. . . the Arctic is the hardest place in the world to live, the temperature is 50 degrees below zero, the wind blows at 50 miles an hour and 12 people live in an area the size of my living room." Barr acknowledged the valuable assistance he's had in cutting through bureaucratic red tape, getting visas and making things happen. "Sen. Carl Levin has helped me in all these efforts."

Help in the cutting and machining of the sculpture came from Capital Welding of Southfield. The art work was designed to be assembled like a kit, because the final leg of the journey will be by bush plane from Providence to Uelen and space will be tight. Northwest Airlines, he said, has been very helpful in scheduling.

All of these projects are strictly out-of-pocket for Barr, no grants, no stipends. "I couldn't do them without a credit card," he said.

Then why does he do it when, as he says, they are "financially and physically draining"? Why leave the beautiful, contemporary home (which he built himself) and the broad lawn and pond, which he has turned into a magnificent sculpture park for his own work?

One of the early projects was to mark the four corners of the globe. Another was "Sun Sweep," a series of sculptures along the U.S./Canadian border. He is already working on "Sun Weep," marking the U.S./Mexican border. In all instances, the response, the connections made with other artists and individuals who have social concerns reward him for his efforts. It is about creating a broader understanding in the world.

"On an intimate level, it helps my own understanding and deepens my experience of things . . . doing them knocks rigidity, arrogance and certainty out of you—you don't do any of it alone."

"I know that when we get there, there will be a number of human stories and a number of human beings that will be with me the rest of my life. Jim Pallas went with me to New Guinea and he's still corresponding with some missionaries we met there."

Pallas may make an accessory piece for Arctic Arc. Four Soviet villagers from around Uelen, two of them artists, are on their way here to meet Barr. He wants them to do some accessory pieces to Arctic Arc—maybe a ring of harpoons.

Well-known native artist Joe Senungetuk did a bird for the one in Alaska.

As a studio sculptor, Barr likes to portray the invisible—the subject of some of his newer works is atomic cloud chambers and atomic particles and their pathways.

There are references to math and astronomy in many of his large pieces. In his global projects, he adds a spirit of human history, a touch of humanity—and sometimes those are as invisible as atomic particles.

Mill Race Matters

Summer has arrived and with it a variety of interesting activities at Mill Race Village. Of course, the Village is open every Sunday afternoon from 2-5 p.m. Come out on an afternoon, bring your friends, and visit all of the buildings. Docents will be on hand to describe the buildings and our village.

Next Thursday, July 4, join us for our traditional afternoon at Mill Race. In addition to all the buildings, you'll be able to see craft demonstrations, entertainment on dulcimer and by the Novi Concert Band, an early re-enactment encampment and much, much more. All are encouraged to bring picnic lunches and spend the afternoon in a relaxing setting. There will be food and beverages for sale as well. We hope to see everyone there.

Summer craft classes and workshops are also under way. There is still time to sign up for many of them. If you are interested in additional information contact 348-1845 or 349-9005. Classes yet to run include: quilting, advanced spinning, Godey bonnet making, band box making, basket making, herbal remedies, natural cosmetics, and contra dancing. Victorian Festival enthusiasts should be particularly interested in advanced training for the dances performed at the Victorian ball as well as the opportunity to create their own bonnets. The band box making class offers the opportunity to create a box large enough to hold your hat, hats or other festival paraphernalia from year to year. Registrations are now being taken.

CITY OF NORTHVILLE NOTICE OF ENACTMENT

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN, that the Northville City Council following a public hearing on Monday, June 17, 1991, at 8:00 p.m., in the Municipal Building, 215 West Main Street, amended the following ordinances:

AN ORDINANCE TO AMEND TITLE 4, CHAPTER 6, REFUSE AND RECYCLING, SECTION 4-605, BILLING RATES AND CHARGES, OF THE CITY CODE OF ORDINANCES OF THE CITY OF NORTHVILLE, TO ESTABLISH REFUSE COLLECTION FEES AND PROVIDE FOR THE ENFORCEMENT OF THE COLLECTION THEREOF.

The City of Northville Ordains:

Section 1. Title 4, Chapter 6, Refuse and Recycling, is hereby amended as follows:

Section 4-605 BILLING RATES AND CHARGES — The charges for refuse collection for users shall be fixed periodically by resolution of the City Council as follows:

(a) BILLING — Charges for refuse collection shall be collected in bi-monthly periods utilizing the existing water and sewer billing system. Customers due to receive utility bills on August 1, 1991, will be charged refuse collection rates for service provided during the months of July and August of 1991. Customers due to receive utility bills on September 1, 1991, will be charged refuse collection rates for service provided during the months of July, August and September of 1991. Thereafter, each bi-monthly billing shall include charges for a two-month period for services provided during the month before and the month following the billing date.

(b) BILLING FOR EXCESSIVE VOLUMES OF REFUSE — An operator of commercial establishment which has been determined by the City Manager to have a larger than normal amount of refuse for City collection shall be charged for the collection of the excessive amount of refuse, in accordance with rates based on the City's cost of collection. If payment of such charges is not made within thirty (30) days of billing, then collection by the City shall be halted until the account is current. Such termination of service shall not preclude the City from proceeding to collection the amount owed in any manner provided by law. An operator may appeal his determination or billing to the City Council if he feels that such is not equitable in relation to other commercial establishments being serviced by the City.

(c) PENALTY — For all bills not paid within thirty (30) days of the date of the bill, a penalty of 10% shall be added to the bill per billing period.

(d) ENFORCEMENT — Charges for refuse collection shall constitute a lien on the property served and if not paid within six months shall be placed on the next general tax roll of the City including 10% per billing period and collected as part of the general City taxes.

Section 2. This Ordinance shall become effective ten (10) days after enactment thereof and after publication thereof.

A printed copy of the full text of the ordinance is available for inspection and distribution to the public at the office of the Clerk during regular business hours.

Strip service reviewed

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

The entrepreneurial spirit is alive and well on Nine Mile Road, and lustily demonstrated by the addition of a new erotic dance "outcall" service.

Though the spirit seems willing, the legal footing of the new establishment may be weak.

Three advertisements in a recent issue of a Detroit newspaper, under the heading "Entertainment Services," offer erotic dancing and massage on an outcall basis. Outcall means that a customer phones in an order, and the entertainer is sent to the customer's home.

The advertisements, labeled "A Gentleman's Choice," "Fantasy Dancers" and simply "Fantasy," list local phone numbers with a 349 exchange and offer the same services at the same rates. The services are all run by a Novi business registered with the city as "Fantasy Dancers."

As a woman at "A Gentleman's Choice" explained, "We have a sexy, totally nude strip dance available, and a full body massage." Each costs $145 for an hour, she said, with a special combination of the two available for $175.

A nearly identical voice at "Fantasy," which shares a phone number with "Fantasy Dancers," gave a nearly identical spiel.

"We can provide you with a totally nude strip dance or a full body massage in the privacy of your home or hotel room," she said. "Does that sound like something you'd be interested in?"

Though the services may sound interesting, at least one may be illegal. Offering massages on an outcall basis is an apparent violation of the City of Novi's ordinances.

Novi City Clerk Geary Stipp said the business known as "Fantasy Dancers" is registered with the city at a Nine Mile Road address, but not as a massage service. Stipp said the new business received zoning approval from the Novi building department on May 14.

Fantasy Dancers is owned by Joe Garcia and managed by wife Susan, and lists 10 full-time and part-time employees, Stipp said. "It says, under where we ask for a brief description of the business operation, 'outcall dancing, bachelor parties, etc. and escort,'" she said.

"If it was a massage parlor itself, it would come under our massage parlor ordinance, (but) they didn't say on this application they're doing any massage... That's something we would have to prove."

But Business Manager Susan Garcia said "Fantasy Dancers" does not offer massages (see related story).

The City of Novi adopted an ordinance in 1987 that forbids offering massage services on an outcall basis. Northville adopted a similar ordinance the same year. The only allowable outcall massage service listed in the Novi ordinance is for clients who are physically unable to travel to the massage establishment "because of reasons of physical defects or incapacities or due to illness."

The new business may also run afoul of other sections of the Novi ordinance. Anyone engaging in "this business of massage" must first obtain a special massage license from the city. Also, massage businesses may not operate between 10 p.m. and 8 a.m.

Each of an establishment's masseurs or masseuses must obtain a permit from the city.

Stipp said the matter has been turned over to the Novi Police Department, which will investigate.

Manager rebuts claims

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

The manager of "Fantasy Dancers" defended the Nine Mile-based erotic dance outcall agency as a legitimate business, and insisted the agency does not provide massages.

Manager Susan Garcia said she had no knowledge of massage services being provided by her company. "To the best of my knowledge, it hasn't been being offered," she said. "However, if it has been or is being said, it will not be said in the future. It was done completely without my knowledge."

Garcia said that receptionists at "Fantasy Dancers" misspoke if they offered massages. "Our phone girls do work on a commission basis," she said. "This has prompted questions in my mind that perhaps I should restructure the payment plan. If they are saying more than they should be saying or doing more than they should be doing to make that booking, then by golly I want it stopped, because that's not the type of business that I want to operate."

As for the erotic dancing, Garcia insisted that the agency operates aboveboard. "We're running a legitimate business, we are not offering anything illegal or immoral," she said. "The dancing is done with class and taste, and it's definitely done within the limits of the law."

Dancers, called subcontractors by Garcia, must sign a contract with the company promising not to solicit prostitution, appear at an assignment drunk or on drugs, or attempt to sell a client drugs.

"I act as a booking agent/contractor... That is my service that I provide. The type of service that the ladies provide must definitely should fall in the guidelines which I lay out," she said.

"Every subcontractor... must agree to the terms and conditions," she said. "If (the conditions are) violated in any manner, it's grounds for immediate termination or immediate dissolution of the contractor/subcontractor relationship."

Garcia said the agency tries to head off such problems by avoiding clients who are looking for prostitution. "We do turn away a lot of business," she said. "If there is the slightest suspicion that the individual is looking for more than what we're offering, I don't hesitate to say, 'Thank you anyway; you'll have to try another service.'"

Garcia's husband Joe, the registered owner of the business, said, "We want to run an honest business, we want to make an honest living, just like anybody else."

The Novi-based business known as "Fantasy Dancers" received zoning approval from the Novi building department on May 14. In applying to the city for a business license, the agency listed as its business outcall dancing for bachelor parties, and other occasions, and personal escorts.

A caller to the business this week was told that "Fantasy Dancers" does not service Northville.

Our Opinion

Hiring of consultant bad move for township

Northville Township's recent decision to hire a consulting firm to manage its police millage campaign was simply poorly conceived and improperly executed.

Although faced with a miniscule general-fund balance and cash-poor departmental budgets, township officials forged ahead and hired local consultant Chuck Keys — at $75 an hour — to punch up the township's image in several areas, including the police department.

And one of Keys' main tasks is to formulate a strategy to help the township pass an August police millage renewal.

For the record and to the point, township funds must not be used to promote political campaigns.

Apparently, the decision to hire Keys was made at the executive committee level. When Keys introduced himself to the township board at its June 13 session, the consultant and executive committee members seated on the board spoke of his employment only in vague terms. He was there to help out, smooth the rough edges, plant a positive word about township operations in the ear of residents.

The board members heard nothing about $75 an hour or a planned total expenditure of $3,000. They did not seem to know they were giving an implied okay to spend general fund monies on a campaign organizer.

And officials last week were not in complete agreement as to the financial arrangements surrounding Keys' employment. Supervisor Georgina Goss said consulting fees would be paid from the general fund, which later would be fully replenished by private fund-raisers. Treasurer Betty Lennox, who dug through the general fund and came up with an extra $3,000, said there were no guarantees that fund-raisers could foot the entire consultant bill.

Which brings up an interesting point. If fund-raisers could amply handle consulting expenses, why weren't they instituted in the first place? What are the guarantees the money will be returned to the general fund? And does the township feel that residents don't mind kicking in a few dollars to support an election campaign that some surely will oppose?

We know the answer to that one.

We should state right now that concerns about the consultant expenses do not extend to the police department or the millage renewal. In fact, the police department has proven itself as a community anchor. In his first year, Chief Chip Snider has brought a positive, progressive approach to the department that resonates from his command staff down to road patrol officers.

Clearly it's that new attitude — along with quick responses to citizen complaints and visibility of patrols in subdivisions — that will sell the police millage question. Residents won't be bought with a glossy ad campaign.

For his part, Keys has jumped into the township's public relations campaign with gusto. He has organized a focus group to review the police department and pieced together a strategy to make the department more visible. He seems to be taking all the steps one would expect of a consultant, but the fact remains that he should not be getting paid with tax dollars, especially during these difficult financial times.

The township should immediately suspend its plans to pay Keys from the general fund. Private monies should take care of the consultant's previously incurred expenses, and future consulting work should be based only on a guaranteed cash amount in a non-public fund-raising pot.

A similar situation cropped up in 1988 when township officials expended funds to print a newsletter urging passage of a millage proposal. After that happened, everyone involved learned that Michigan Attorney General Frank Kelley has stated in no uncertain terms that spending public money in support of a ballot proposal violates state election law.

Apparently no one learned the obvious lesson of three years ago. Township officials were wrong then, and since a stated goal of Keys is to "develop (a) PR campaign for (the) police department millage election," they are wrong now.

Police millage defeat likely will only come about from a perception of township impropriety, and to avoid such a loss, officials immediately need to change direction on consulting plans.

Fourth of July almost here

Seven days and counting.

We've been hearing about this year's Independence Day celebrations for so long now, it's a little hard to believe that they're just a week away. Next Thursday is the day, and all the grandiose plans are coming to fruition.

I'm not sure everyone realizes the extent of the planning and organizing which has been done by the steering committee. Led by Ginny Hathhorn — who of course also co-founded the now-famous Military Family Support Group, West Side Chapter — the committee has put together a day absolutely full of various events. Major attractions, besides the biggest-ever parade and the biggest-ever fireworks, are a ceremony and rally at Northville Downs (3:30 p.m.), a fun fair downtown after the parade, and an evening dance-a-thon.

Add to this the other events already in place — the traditional Fourth picnic at Mill Race, the Recreation Department's bed race, and the early morning pancake breakfast at Masonic Temple — and this just might beat out a Victorian Festival Saturday for the amount of activity.

The size of the crowd should be something to see, too. It will be interesting to compare attendance at this year's parade to the usual crowds, which are mighty healthy themselves.

Expect plenty of media coverage to raise the level of excitement even higher. In addition to The Northville Record and Omnicom Cable, you can bet that Detroit area television will be on hand. I think it's very likely the Detroit papers will come to town as well. And national television coverage — from Cable News Network, and even a major broadcast network — is certainly within the realm of possibility.

Big, big doings. And just seven days away.

The national news this week brought the announcement that President George Bush will go to Grand Rapids on the Fourth for that city's parade, and will also appear in Missouri earlier in the day. I suppose that means he won't be coming to Northville, although he has been invited.

Oh well. It'll be his loss.

State removes some privacy

The scene:

It's June 27 in the year 2005. Democracy, decried as outmoded and passe by government leaders around the world, was abolished in the United States in 1995.

An ensuing second civil war sent the country into anarchy for 10 years. Individual states declared themselves independent countries and fought border skirmishes.

Michigan swallowed up Ohio. Illinois annexed Wisconsin. California was overrun by a coalition of Utah, Oregon, Nevada and Colorado.

But, out of the ashes of confusion arose one man, a ruthless tyrant bent on unification of the country and complete domination of the people. The following is an excerpt from a declaration made by the tyrant in his first days of control.

"The days of reckless freedom are over. No longer will the individual be allowed to indulge his whims at the expense of the country. The last decade has shown me the only way to save this nation and restore order is through obedience."

"So I will not ask for your cooperation. Each and every person will give their obedience to the state, or be dealt with in a most unforgiving manner."

"And don't think the state won't know if you aren't obedient. Cameras will be installed in every home, every public place in this country. Why, you won't even be able to do your business at a highway rest area without the state knowing about it."

If the above scenario sounds a little ludicrous, it is. But the part about cameras being installed in public rest areas isn't. Soon, Ingham County will be installing cameras to curb illicit sexual actions in highway rest areas. The Michigan Supreme Court recently gave counties and police the right to use video cameras in highway rest stops.

In Ingham County the system will work like this:

A pair of cameras will be stationed in the rest areas, one outside of stalls and another inside each stall. When the outside camera detects two sets of feet in a stall, the inside camera will be activated to video tape the goings on. The cameras will be monitored by police.

So much for privacy.

I can see it now. Ingham County officials will make a collection of the tapes and televise them nationally as "America's Funniest Highway Rest Stop Videos."

Obviously, highway rest areas should be safe places. Nobody needs to be solicited on the way to a lavatory.

But this is going a bit too far. I don't really care for the idea of someone potentially watching while I'm taking care of bodily functions — and I'm not talking about sex, either.

It smacks of big brotherism, to say the least. Thankfully, such measures aren't being considered locally.

Northville State Police Post Commander Jack Moulik said his post has no plans to use cameras in rest areas. The post's coverage extends from Canton Township to Brighton.

Moulik said the post has two rest areas in its jurisdiction where frequent public sex acts have occurred. They are in Canton, off of I-275, and in Novi, on I-96 near Beck Road.

But, instead of cameras, troopers patrol the rest areas frequently and conduct "stings," Moulik said. Undercover troopers let people solicit them in the stings, he said, and then arrests are made.

While that system may be less than perfect, I'd rather take my chances at the rest areas than have the state looking over my shoulder.

What about you?

The Class of '91 moves onward

To the editor:

Back in the early '70s, we parents of the Class of '91 began an adventure with our newborn babes. Little did any of us realize how challenging, exciting, and rewarding our adventure would be. On Friday, June 14, 1991, our young adults graduated from Northville High School.

Following the graduation ceremony, we sponsored an all-night party at the high school to celebrate our seniors' accomplishments and to provide a safe atmosphere for them. The theme which we chose for this year's party was "The Mustang's Excellent Adventure." All who attended the party had a wonderful time. Many class members have said that the party couldn't have been more perfect. Everything went very smoothly for the 236 graduates who attended. This can be attributed to the hard work and efforts of many senior parents who have been working for months to ensure the party's success.

I would like to personally thank the following people for their dedication to making this final adventure at Northville High School so excellent for the Class of '91: Party Co-Chairperson: Charlene Hugener; Treasurer: Kathleen Pidrutzny; Entertainment: John and Doris Cross, Mark and Mary Jane Cryderman; Decorations: Janet McClintock and Marilyn Parke;

Publicity and phone: Audrey Jacobson and Judy Beyersdorf; Security: Ken Jacobson and Larry Skynar; Casino: Pat Kilner and John Parry; Buffet: Jack and Susan Couzens, Jack and Nancy Trabin; Breakfast: Bill and Sue Todd, Larry and Janine Hillfinger; Cleanup: John and Norma Beemer, John and Brenda Garner; Checkroom: Richard and Cheryl Pearson; Decorations Sub-chairs: Judy and Al Berlinski, Dennis and Cheryl Cassidy, Sandi and Bob Donnelly, Sue Holstein, Terry and Jay Johnson, Patrick and Phyllis Kennedy, Gail and Rick Keim, Linda Kimbrough, George and Marilyn Nagy, Larry and Maureen Osiecki, JoAnn Parry, George and Margaret Surdu; Casino Gifts Sub-Chairs: Charlotte Callaghan and Denise Maclean.

I would like to thank the local businesses who so willingly donated prizes for our casino and raffle, food and beverages for our buffet and breakfast, and gave generously in numerous other ways.

Great big thank-yous to the entire NHS staff, custodians, and the board of education for their help and support.

To the Class of '91, I would like to say, you are an outstanding group of young people. Thank you for all of the joy and good memories you have given your parents, teachers, friends, and family. How proud we are of your achievements and your fine conduct. May God bless you and may all of your future adventures be excellent.

Soccer team finishes another outstanding season

To the editor:

The Northville High School Girls Soccer Program has ended another very successful season with an excellent 12-4-2 record. The players, coaching staff, Dennis Colligan (Athletic Director) and Melissa (trainer) deserve a great deal of credit for their many hours of hard work and fine achievements.

In order to create a winning program it takes a great many other components as well, including:

● Exuberant and supportive parents and fans from the community at large who attend games rain, shine or sleet! No other school has a larger contingent of fans, even at away games.

● An energetic fund-raising structure including: Nancy and Ron Schuerman, Judy and Charlie Whiteley, Marilyn Snyder, Lynn Schwartz, Cindy Howland and Judy Jambor... with special recognition to Bob Dart (a generous bumper sticker provider) and Andy Valakas of Complete Home Co. for his special sales skills.

● The best concession stand crew — headed by Liz Carroll and Carol Goode — in the Western Lakes, who provided tireless workers and tasteful treats during the hectic season. Special thanks to Cathy Held... and Ken Romine (for pitching in at the State Championship game). Also, Toni and John Genitti of Genitti's Hole-in-the-Wall Restaurant for their continuing support of the Northville community.

● Tom Beyersdorf for scheduling the volunteer referees for the pre-season scrimmage and those refs who donated their time and abilities.

● Neil Geoghegan for the continuing fine coverage of the state-ranked Northville High School team.

● And last but not least, the Northville Sting Girls Under 12 Soccer Team whose vivacious and continuous cheering inspired the high school team during the Churchill game.

Good job everyone. Another fine season.

Chip Snider/Northville Township Police

Prevention is key to police service

Editor's note: Northville Township Police Chief Chip Snider has agreed to write an occasional column on this page about public safety and related issues.

Policing in America has improved substantially over the years through recruitment of officers who are better-educated and more representative of the community they serve.

The well-trained officers of today are equipped for peace-keeping with community involvement supplementing their efforts. Prevention is by far the most essential element to improving the quality of police service.

The challenge of a police administrator is to coordinate, plan, and direct the efforts of an officer-citizen teamwork concept in an effort to reduce crime in the community we serve.

Since citizens are dependent on their local departments to exchange information regarding local crime patterns, the administrator must establish an open relationship with the community papers, allowing for accurate information to reach the citizens. Critics urge that media reporting generates fear in citizens; however, if fear motivates people to invest time and money in preventive measures reducing their vulnerability, then the end may justify the means.

A recent example of officer-citizen teamwork involves volunteers from the Northville Commons subdivision. Volunteers from the subdivision contacted the police department with an outlined strategy of preventive patrol throughout their neighborhood. The efforts of these volunteers assisted by the Northville Township Police Department will better prepare the neighborhood to proactively protect itself while providing useful intelligence to the patrol division.

In order to better facilitate the neighborhood watch program, the Police Department's Detective Bureau, commanded by Capt. Phil Pressnell, regularly conducts crime prevention seminars and provides technical advice to neighborhood watch groups.

By conducting these neighborhood watch programs, the homeowner volunteers are directly contributing to the reduction of "opportunistic" crimes and are enhancing their quality of life in Northville Township. You may ask, what is neighborhood watch? Simply, neighborhood watch is a community based program organized by neighbors to discuss common crime problems and help protect their neighborhood by being aware of unusual or suspicious activity. This activity is then reported to the police department for response by a police officer.

An example of this excellent program comes to mind. In the past, the volunteers of the Northville Commons neighborhood watch witnessed destruction to their neighbors' property when a vehicle intentionally drove over lawns and mailboxes. The volunteers obtained a vehicle description and license plate number. The police department responded, investigated, and subsequently solved the crime. Again, without the rapid and accurate information from the neighborhood watch volunteers, a positive solution would have been greatly reduced.

In order to reduce crime and enhance community-based involvement, Supervisor Georgina Goss and the Northville Township Board of Trustees have reaffirmed their support for cooperative efforts between government, the police department and the citizens we serve.

It is important to remember that "Crime feeds on apathy." If people simply mind their own business, their entire neighborhood is vulnerable. Alert citizens, however, can change the crime trend by working with each other and the police to become aware of what is happening in their neighborhoods. Community concern, alertness to suspicious activity, willingness to call the police, and involvement in neighborhood watch are all important steps toward discovering criminals. To this end the Northville Township Police Department is committed to cooperation and professionalism for the residents of Northville Township.

Teenagers face disaster in alcohol

A.E. — Aftercare Group — NHS
Class of '93

As a result of the cooperation between the students, faculty and Student Assistance Program the following term paper was prepared. The student received an "A."

"TEENAGERS FACE DISASTER WHEN THEY EXPERIMENT WITH ALCOHOL."

"Nearly all high schoolers, 92 percent, have had experience with alcohol and 66 percent have used it in the past month. 38 percent have had five or more drinks in a row on at least one occasion in the past two weeks." (National High School Senior Survey.) This shows that teenagers' experimentation with alcohol is becoming more disastrous everyday. "Alcohol is the most widely abused drug in the United States." (Winters Communication, Inc.) The use of alcohol is accepted within society, so people often forget the potency of it and how addictive it is. Alcohol is also harmful to the body and causes many health problems. If alcoholism is diagnosed, a person has four options that they can choose to help or not to help themselves. (C. Stilec.) Alcoholism is a rough word to accept, but anyone is susceptible to the dangers of alcohol.

Many people feel that they will not become addicted to alcohol. We have all heard stories about Mom, Dad, or whomever and their nights out on the town. However, people do become addicted. Every day more people, especially youths, experiment with alcohol. This experimentation often leads to addiction. A person who is addicted to alcohol has alcoholism. "Alcoholism is an illness; it can hit anyone. When it comes to drinking it doesn't matter what, when, for how long, where or why. It is the overall effect of the alcohol that counts." ("Under Age, Under the Influence.")

Not only does alcohol affect the person's behavior, it also has many bad effects on the body. Unlike most substances humans take in, it is not broken down and digested. The stomach absorbs 20 percent of it immediately. The other 80 percent flows through the blood stream. The main effect is on the brain where control centers are knocked out by this depressant drug. The most long term damage is done to the liver. The liver burns up the alcohol in one average drink in about one hour. Excessive alcohol can lead to cirrhosis (scarring of the liver) and also to alcoholic hepatitis and cancer of the liver. Other long term effects are heart disease, ulcers and gastritis, malnutrition, brain damage and fetal damage if a woman drinks while she's pregnant.

Charlie Stilec, a counselor who helps teenagers with substance abuse problems at Northville High School, says that four consequences face a person who has alcoholism. The first is jail. Drinking by a minor is illegal and punishable by jail time if it occurs repeatedly. Transporting open intoxicants and driving while intoxicated is also heavily punished. Insanity is the next consequence. "Drugs affect mental capacity to deal with life and can cause one to lose touch with reality. Alcoholics rank among the highest of all psychiatric groups in terms of rate." (Addiction Research Foundation.) The next consequence is by far the worst, death. Alcohol-related deaths have many causes. A person could get into an automobile accident. This is one of the number one killers of teenagers. Alcoholics also have slow progressive mental and physical deterioration of the body. Getting help is the last consequence. It is probably the hardest but by far the most rewarding. Teenagers can seek help in many places: a counselor like Mr. Stilec, different organizations such as Alcoholics Anonymous, or a treatment center just for teenagers called Adolescent Recovery Center, or hospitals that you can check into yourself, or have someone else check you in.

Everyone will know someone with an alcohol problem in their lifetime. Hopefully the information that's available today will help the teenagers of tomorrow. With counselors, friends and family as well as a strong will and the ability to choose not to drink, the number of teenagers who will have to face the disaster of alcoholism will decrease. With more awareness that alcoholism is in fact a illness and not just someone who can't control themselves, more teenagers will think twice before they choose to sip that one beer, do that one shot, or have just one glass of wine.

JUNE BRIDES

Novi senior citizens display their wedding gowns

By CRISTINA FERRIER
Staff Writer

It was THE dress. The one that, at least at the time, seemed like the most important item of clothing ever worn.

It was the dress that would probably be worn only once, then carefully packed away to weather the years until a daughter or granddaughter might perhaps choose to wear it again.

It was the wedding dress. And last Thursday, a collection of ladies saw theirs worn again. A rare few who have maintained their pre-wedding sizes even wore their own.

"Wedding Fashions Through the Ages: June Brides," a fashion show at the Novi Civic Center, was presented by a collection of Novi senior citizens and others who relived their wedding days by pulling their dresses from their storage places, pressing away the wrinkles, and sharing them with others as a tribute to fashions over the past 50-plus years.

In addition to tables full of wedding photos, flowers, invitations and a wedding cake, there was narration by Novi Parks and Recreation Director Kathy Crawford and live piano music by George Giese. Giese played "Here Comes the Bride" and various love songs as ladies — including his wife, Caroline — modeled their gowns.

The newest dress, aside from two brand-new ones from Novi's Bridal Celebration and After Five shop, was newlywed Deanne Adaschik's from her April wedding. Adaschik's headpiece was handmade by her aunt, Mary Coratti, whose dress was also in the show.

The oldest gown, a pure silk dress from 1901, had a 20-inch waist and was worn by Bertha Mable Teachout Miller. That gown was displayed on a table, because no one with a 20-inch waist could be found to model it.

"We even tried an 8-year-old girl," said Miller's daughter, Arlene Gillett. Arlene and her twin sister, Maxine, also participated in the show by including the matching 1946 dresses from their double wedding to twins Victor and Vincent.

The 1901 dress was yellowed, but still sturdy and in one piece. Arlene's and Maxine's dresses looked almost new.

It was luck that the twins' dresses preserved so well, said Arlene, because "we didn't store them very well," she said.

"It was just in a box. It was up in a hot attic for 40 years," she said. "I guess you would say it was good material that saved it."

The matching dresses of white satin with seed pearls and lace were the result of a long search for the twins, who had trouble agreeing on a matching dress.

"We went all over Detroit, and our to-be-husbands chased us all over," Arlene recalled. But when they saw the dress they ended up wearing, "we just knew it was right," she said.

Seeing Adaschik and Julie Cote model their dresses after 45 years was "a thrill," Arlene said.

"They were two nice, dark-haired girls who looked a little like we did," she said.

Victor married Arlene and Vincent married Maxine in Lansing on a hot, bright June 22 in 1946. The children are twins, but none of the children are twins. The two twin couples live next door to each other in a duplex in Novi.

Another beautifully preserved dress was Genevieve Burke's 1943 white chiffon and lace, modeled by her 12-year-old granddaughter, Sharon Rosenberg.

Genevieve also enjoyed seeing her wedding dress being worn again.

"It was really kind of thrilling, but I told (Sharon) I hope she waits a long time before she gets into one herself," she said.

If the dress is still intact by then, she said it would be lovely if Sharon chose to wear it in her own wedding.

Genevieve preserved her gown by wrapping it in black tissue and storing it in a cedar chest.

She bought her dress in Hamtramck. "There were loads of bridal shops there," she said.

Genevieve married Chuck Burke on a beautiful August 1943 day at Jesu Church across from University of Detroit.

The day after the wedding, the couple left for Texas, where Chuck was stationed in the service. Her sister Marjorie later wore the same dress for her own wedding.

Ruth Sherlock almost threw her dress away when she moved from New Jersey to Michigan.

"It was strange," she said. "When I moved back here I heave-ho'd everything. I almost threw it away, but I decided to keep it just in case someone wanted to wear it," she said.

And sure enough, this fashion show provided just that opportunity.

"I didn't think it was too well-preserved," she said. "It was in a box, stored in a basement for 28 or more years, then in a locker in my apartment."

Ruth's wedding took place just as World War II was heating up. The day after her wedding, her husband was shipped off to war and she didn't see him again for nearly three years.

"It was really awful," she recalled. "They were gone for about three years, then when it was over in 1945 there were no ships and the telephones were on strike, so I couldn't get a message to him."

After her husband came home, a housing shortage led to a wait of over two years before they finally found a place to call home.

"Those were rough times," she said. "Everything was rationed."

Even finding her wedding dress was a challenge. "I worked six days a week until 6 p.m., and the stores all closed at 6," she said. "I ran into Hudson's before they closed, and tried on a dress, and this was the one that fit me."

But the dress, as well as the wedding, turned out beautifully.

"It rained for 21 days before my wedding,"

Ruth remembered. "On my wedding day, the rain stopped."

The marquisette and lace gown, still looking beautiful, was modeled by her friend Wanda Diebold.

And Ruth is glad she didn't throw the dress away.

"It just shows, even after 50 years, you never know when you might need something again."

Hughes family celebrates half-century of marriage

Bill and Irene Hughes of Northville celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary with a family gathering at their home June 16.

At the celebration were six of the family's eight children — Linda, Carol, Bill, Patty Jo, Mary Beth and Alice Jane — and 14 of the couple's 19 grandchildren, who spent the day fishing, swimming and eating. Two other children, Kathleen and Susan, live in Washington and Denver.

Bill and Irene grew up together in Dearborn, but were "almost enemies" as kids, Bill said. They became a couple after an "unexpected" date in college.

A friend of Bill's talked him into calling Irene and asking her out so they could double date. Their first date was to the State Fair, where Guy Lombardo was playing.

"And we ended up spending the next half-century together," he said. Irene, an expert seamstress, sewed her own wedding gown as well as wedding gowns for each of her daughters. She is currently living with an illness that affects her muscle and movement coordination, so she doesn't sew any more. However, she was able to enjoy her time with her children at the anniversary celebration, Bill said.

Friends Scholarship

The Friends of the Library awarded a $500 scholarship to Dawn Schweim, 22, of Northville June 12 at their monthly board meeting. She is a student of library science at the University of Michigan.

The scholarship is named for John Carlo, for whom the library wing of the Northville municipal building is named. Carlo's nephew, Louis, gave the money to the Friends, so they decided to use it as a scholarship.

Schweim is a Northville High School graduate as well as a University of Michigan graduate with an English major.

Another Anniversary

Judy and Frank Skolarus of Northville celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary with a Marriage Blessing during mass on May 4 at Holy Family Church in Novi. They have two children, Jeff, a 1990 graduate of Michigan State, and Sheryl, a 1990 graduate of the University of Michigan.

To celebrate their anniversary, the couple enjoyed a seven-day Caribbean cruise.

Historical Society Workshops

Anxious to tune your dancing skills in preparation for this year's Victorian Ball? Disappointed at your failure to make your own bonnet for last year's Victorian Festival Parade? The Northville Historical Society has an opportunity for you to learn these as well as many other skills during its series of summer workshops.

Contra Dancing workshops begin Aug. 20 for four sessions. In addition to bonnet making, learn to make a Band Box of your own, learn basket making and quilting, or learn to create your own natural cosmetics and herbal tonics and remedies.

The Northville Historical Society is also offering a poetry workshop for ages 12-15 on July 9, 11, 16 and 18. This is an opportunity for young people to learn to express themselves through poetry.

For additional information about all of these classes call the society office at 348-1845 or 349-9005. Each class has limited space and some are filling quickly.

U of M Club

Dedication to the University of Michigan and to the community marks the end of the first year of existence for the Northville University of Michigan Alumni club.

Oanh Parrett, Novi High School salutatorian, and David Smith, a Northville High School valedictorian, are recipients of the group's first scholarships.

U-M Alumni sweatshirts are on sale at Perrins. Perrins is donating a portion of the proceeds to the group's scholarship fund for next year.

Other activities of the group have included an April 21 trip to a production of "Into the Woods" at Power Center in Ann Arbor and an outing to the Detroit Race Course April 28.

U-M President James Duderstadt is scheduled to speak at a Town Forum Thursday, Oct. 3 in the Northville High School auditorium. Area businesses, clubs and organizations are invited to attend.

Malack to compete

Michelle Malack of Northville will be competing in the 1991 Miss Teen Renaissance of the U.S.A. scholarship pageant on June 29. The pageant takes place at the Smith Performing Arts Theater, on the campus of Oakland Community College-Farmington Hills. Over 40 teens will compete for the crown and prizes which include a college scholarship, two modeling scholarships, gift certificates and more.

Doris Close and Mary Louise Cutler at the check presentation. Proceeds from the annual Northville Town Hall lecture series go to a variety of nonprofit groups throughout the area.

Class of '31 reunites

By CRISTINA FERRIER
Staff Writer

It's been 60 years since the Class of '31 graduated from Northville High School, but that didn't keep some members from dancing at their class reunion June 13.

The reunion, organized by class member Wilfred Sterner, attracted 16 people from as far away as California and Florida. The program of the day included a welcome speech from Sterner, updates on class members who weren't able to attend, an invocation by Velma (Blake) Velasko, and a moment of silence for class members no longer living.

The group then enjoyed a luncheon followed by dancing and entertainment by Johnny Chase, a one-man band.

Although Sterner said a few times that this might be the group's last class reunion, some members thought otherwise. In fact, the two who traveled the farthest — Joy (Thompson) Nelson and Eunice Cousins from California and Florida — wanted to do it again next year.

At the reunion were Northville residents Florence (Balko) Orr, Fred Kerr, Velma (Blake) Belasco, Bob Litsenberger, Miriam (Richards) Mitchell and Martin Sommers in addition to Sterner, of Novi.

Other Michigan residents at the reunion included Hazel (Cordukes) Starr of Brighton; Elmer Westphall of Fenton; Howard Christensen of Midland; Mary Ellen (Barber) Maxson of Battle Creek; Hazel (Archbald) Lyke of Livonia; and Eleanor (Westphall) Windhorst of Stanwood.

In addition to Nelson and Cousins, Frank Sprenger also traveled a long distance from Lakeland, Florida.

Members of the Class of '31 had many experiences to share with each other.

Joy (Thompson) Nelson just retired from her job as a teacher. Eunice Cousins is running a dress shop with her sister in Florida, and she makes seasonal trips to New York City to buy items for the store. Hazel (Cordukes) Starr is part of an entertainment group that produces plays, and she spends a lot of time in Florida.

Howard Christensen, who is now retired, spent many years in charge of giving charitable gifts and scholarships on behalf of Dow Chemical Company. And Fred Kerr, who just got out of the hospital, used to work in Venezuela as a petroleum engineer.

Ziegler's acre is a nature trail

By PATRICIA A. ZIELKE
Special Writer

If he'd let me, I'd pitch a tent and vacation under the spreading 150-year-old walnut tree in Robert Ziegler's one-acre "nature trail" garden, listen to the birds sing and watch the sun set.

Located in Northville Township, south of Six Mile and east of Northville Road, is a pre-civil war two-story home tucked away on Meade Street, which Ziegler, a Northville native, purchased six years ago and restored. A carpenter and home renovator by trade, he tore away the asbestos siding to reveal the original 8-inch hand-hewn timber frame.

He recounted some historical data surrounding the house. During the Civil War, a tunnel was built beneath the house and served as a link in an underground railroad network used by slaves on their way to freedom. The tunnel ended at the cemetery on Franklin Road where the slaves were aided by sympathizers in reaching their journey's end.

Although considerable renovation has taken place, the home's original charm and historical integrity have been preserved. The property, surrounded by trees, shrubs and flowers, includes a 4-by-6 foot "out-house" now serving as a pigeon house for more than 40 fancy pet pigeons such as Fan Tails, Indian Rollers and Ice Pigeons.

Approaching the house, you are greeted by dozens of roses (and a very friendly Afghan hound named Ellie) lining the walkway leading to the front door. There are florabunda, tree roses, climbers, minis and rosa ruga.

A spectacular display of over 100 varieties of day lilies points the way to a wood boardwalk leading from the side of the house to the back where steps take you to the garden's lower level. A path, winding through the garden, is bordered in the spring by hundreds of crocus, narcissus, daffodils and tulips, with a cascading carpet of purple phlox covering the hillside.

Deep in the background, creating a dense green screen against Northville Road, are majestic sky rocket evergreens, flowering crab, pussywillows, century-old lilac bushes (reaching 25 feet tall), Rose of Sharon, white and paper birch, weeping willows, blue spruce, and holly bushes.

The garden seems to have a life of its own. In fact, when no one is watching, I think it weeds itself!

Closer to the home are Japanese maples, weeping cherry, weeping evergreen, a box of Kleenex, quince bushes, mock orange shrubs, blue and variegated hydranges, snow ball hydranges, sun burst locusts, dwarf Alberta spruce, azaleas, rhododendron, and over a century-old walnut tree that is home to red and black squirrels and an old owl who just doesn't give a hoot.

The garden holds a thick lush array of sub-tropical and native plantings. A myriad of unusual perennials may be seen along the way, from the more exotic bird of paradise, kaffir lily, crown of thorns, orange tree and peace lily (most of which are house-bound in the winter) to over 75 peony bushes, giant ferns, sweet William, blood root, shasta daisies, coral bells, fox glove, bittersweet, calla lilies, iris, luminaria, Jack in the Pulpit, and columbine.

The pathways are punctuated with hand-crafted bird feeders and houses which Ziegler constructs from fallen Birch trees. A lily pond with gold fish is sunk deep in the earth beside clusters of day lilies and Seadum.

The back deck holds a sizeable collection of exotic plants and flowering cactus, enhanced by a gallery of handsomely designed terra cotta and stone sculptures and wall hangings. A hand-crafted stone waterfall stands on the deck's edge and is available to any creature who needs a cool drink on a hot day.

The garden continues its colorful display into winter, thanks to northern holly, red twigged dogwood, pyracantha, paper birch, fern leaf sumac, cranberry bittersweet, mountain ash, contorted hazel shrub, boxwood and euonymus.

Ziegler, an active conservationist, has rescued, from the iron jaws of the waste disposal truck, many discarded straggly shrubs and plants which he has carried home and planted in the rich black dirt that looks and feels like potting soil — and they are all thriving. Nothing goes to waste. Twigs, grass clippings, leaves — all are returned to the soil. Waste not, want not.

Working with the natural contour of the land, which dips, slopes and curves, Robert has created a habitat for the feathery and the furry. While I was there, we saw fox sparrows, red-winged blackbirds, nuthatches, thrushes, goldfinches and a hummingbird enjoying the sweet nectar of a trumpet vine. Hidden away was a 6-by-6 foot brush pile, gathered by Robert, which is home to many small critters.

I understand there is a family of bats who just "hang around the house" all day and dine out every evening.

Q My aunt tells me that Catholics must be buried in Catholic cemeteries and that non-Catholics may not be buried in a Catholic Cemetery. Is this true?

A No. As to your first question, Catholics may be buried in non-Catholic cemeteries. Some of these have "set aside" a section for Catholics. But many Catholics prefer a Catholic cemetery in which all the grounds have been blessed by a Bishop and where families of the same faith may bury the dead in a Catholic setting. For instance, Resurrection Cemetery features Stations of the Cross and chapels on its beautiful grounds.

Are there non-Catholics in our cemeteries? Of course, because we welcome every member of a Catholic family. Lower rates on family sites are offered at both Resurrection and All Saints. We also offer time payments, accept credit cards and will refund the purchase price on unused graves if you should move away or change your mind. For more information about any of our Catholic cemeteries, call 286-9020.

Fireworks will light up the area

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

Northville will have something in common with Detroit during this year's Independence Day celebrations.

Both municipalities have hired the internationally known Zambelli Internationale of New Castle, Penn., to provide the pyrotechnics behind the parades.

Zambelli Internationale's fireworks displays have been seen around the world, during the World's Fair and the visit of Pope John Paul II to the United States and to celebrate the release of American hostages from the Middle East.

Tomorrow, June 28, the International Freedom Festival goes off with a bang in downtown Detroit with the launch of a spectacular fireworks display just after 10 p.m. The Freedom Festival Fireworks Display involves the launching of 8,000 shells off seven sand-loaded barges anchored in the Detroit River.

This dazzling fireworks display will feature a segment called "Thunder over Detroit" and six exciting new scenes, each set to famous patriotic songs. Sharing center stage on the Detroit River will be the famous half-mile-long "Wall of Fire" in red, white and blue, and the Grand Finale, "A Salute to the Armed Forces."

Northville's own fireworks display was rescued from potential oblivion by the Michigan Military Family Support Group this year, as traditional sponsors the Northville Jaycees faced declining membership and an uncertain future. The support group is planning a long list of Independence Day activities in honor of troops returning from the Persian Gulf and all military personnel, entitled Operation Welcome Home.

The display will be held at dusk on July 4 from its traditional location across the street from Northville High School. Spectators are welcome to view the display at dusk from the high school grounds.

Residents are also invited to "Adopt-a-Firework" and have a say in the fireworks to be launched at this year's display. Sponsors can purchase any of several types of fireworks, including Boomers for $1 apiece, Screaming Meanies for $5, Crackling Delights for $10, Whistles and Stars for $25, Thunder and Rainbows for $50, and Starbursts for $100. To adopt a firework, send your tax-deductible donation to Michigan Military Families Support Group, P.O. Box 418, Northville, MI 48167-0418. Be sure to include the kind and quantity of fireworks you would like to sponsor.

For more information on Northville's fireworks or Fourth of July celebrations, call Ginny Hathorn at 349-0996.

Northville will be treated to fireworks like this on Independence Day.

"There are several things that couples don't think about when they are planning a honeymoon. For example, they never realize how exhausted they will be when the wedding is over."

That is the voice of Risa Weinreb, author of "Frommer's Honeymoon Destinations." I wrote a honeymoon story for Risa many years ago when she was travel editor of Modern Bride magazine, so I wasn't surprised to find her in town last week promoting honeymoons in Puerto Rico.

Risa is not married, but she takes several honeymoon trips a year to research destinations for Modern Bride and can always be counted on to have current honeymoon information at her finger tips.

Lots of couples still get married in June, but weddings are now spread out from May to October, according to Risa.

"Some people get married in January, February and March, but it's hard to plan an expensive wedding for 400 people when you are not sure whether they can make it through the snow to the church," she said.

"The Modern Bride surveys show that most couples want warm, sunny weather, beautiful natural scenery and outdoor sports and sightseeing attractions, in that order."

Do people still go to those heart-shaped bathtubs in the Poconos? "They were designed for another generation, but a certain segment of the honeymoon population still goes there. They were the first all-inclusive vacation resorts."

Risa says the number one honeymoon destination is the Caribbean. Another very popular destination is Florida, where the "in spot" for honeymooners is Walt Disney World.

That shows that newly-married couples are looking for something quite different from what we have always imagined. The popular image is a young couple who check in, hang a "Do Not Disturb" sign on the door and are not seen again for eight days.

That image is not true. They are looking for fun. Where they go and where they stay depends on their budget.

Risa's survey indicates that the average honeymoon costs $3,000 for eight days. Inside the continental United States it averages $2,200, outside the continental U.S. it averages $4,000. Other popular spots: Hawaii ($4,500), the Caribbean ($3,800), Puerto Rico ($3,400).

The three components of honeymoon travel are the same as any travel—transportation, hotel, food. All inclusive resorts can often be bought to cover all three, so that you only need to pay for incidentals. Jamaica is the best-known island for couples' resorts, but there are others.

It is increasingly popular to get married at a resort. If Mom and Dad give you the honeymoon as a gift, your costs are almost completely covered. "If the bride comes from Buffalo and the groom comes from Denver, and they met in Detroit, it's easier to take 20 close family and friends to the Caribbean than it is to gather 300 cousins from around the country for a Michigan wedding."

Recession-weary newlyweds should not give up the honeymoon. If you can't do anything else, Risa suggests you at least splurge on a night or two at a local hotel, drink champagne and take a limousine to the baseball game.

If your budget is under $2,000?
□ Drive to the Poconos for seven nights in a moderately-priced room.
□ Ask your travel agent about a package to Walt Disney World. Disney hotels are expensive; check the hotels in nearby Kissimmee.

□ Check Caribbean package rates. You can go to Puerto Rico for a week, spend a few days in San Juan and then stay in paradises out-land for under $60 a night.

□ You probably can't do Hawaii, but how about Mexico? Check packages to Acapulco or Puerto Vallarta. "Cancun is the most popular destination so hotels are sometimes more expensive there; sometimes they are not, so check it out. But a dinner that costs $40 in Cancun costs $20 in Puerto Vallarta."

So what about advice to the wedding-worm?

"Don't go away the day of the wedding. Stay 24 hours and enjoy the parties before you leave. Expect to be exhausted after the wedding. You will want to flop in the sun for two or three days without thinking about where you will sightsee or how you will find your way through a foreign language."

By IRIS SANDERSON JONES
Travel Writer

An alligator moves slowly across a lagoon towards a Great Blue Heron, which stands three feet tall on the bank beside a group of modern villas.

That was one of my first images of Kiawah Island, although the real alligator stories come from the golf courses, where the gators snooze beside the greens.

I press a periwinkle against my neck while standing in a low marsh beside the sea with naturalist Mark Madden instructing his walking tour participants: "Hum and the periwinkle will come out of his shell."

I walk the long strand of sand between the surf and the dunes, enjoying the illusion that I have the world to myself at sunset.

The chimneys and rooftops of Kiawah Island Inn and Villas are visible amid the palmetto trees beyond the dunes, but I share the beach with one lonely jogger, one kayaker and a pelican diving 30 feet straight down into the sea for his supper.

Those are just three of the many scenes that imprint the mind on Kiawah Island, an interesting combination of resort life and nature 21 miles by road from Charleston, South Carolina.

I emphasize "by road" because for 200 years the Vanderhorst family traveled by tidal river to the plantation house sagging gently against the reeds on the marsh side of Kiawah.

Kiawah is one of the dozens of barrier islands that border the Atlantic coast of America. It is part of the estuary that surrounds Charleston, where the Ashley and Cooper rivers come together to form the Atlantic Ocean.

Kiawah Island was at peace with nature for millions of years before the developers came and could easily have lost its innocence then, as so many resort islands have done.

The Indians never lived here, because there is no fresh water, but they hunted red fox, elk and woodland buffalo amid the magnolia and loblolly pines that now line the wood-

Golfers on Kiawah Island must contend with an occasional alligator land trails.

Dig your fingers under the matted forest floor near the Vanderhorst Plantation and you can still feel the ridges where indigo and cotton were planted by slaves in the 18th century.

British soldiers occupied the house during the American Revolution and, if they ever restore and open the house to tours, you'll see graffiti left behind by Union soldiers during the Civil War.

The island was sold to Kuwait Investment Co. in 1974. The Kuwaitis commissioned an environmental inventory from the Environmental Research Center, Inc., of Columbia, S.C., so that resort development would not disturb the natural barrier island setting. It was ecotourism ahead of its time.

Resort buildings were built behind the dunes, so the loggerhead turtles still lay their eggs near the beach. They protected the marshes, so shrimp babies still feed on the tidal flats and the periwinkle can still climb up his own piece of spartini grass when the tide comes in and down again when the tide goes out. Hold him against your neck and hum, and the periwinkle will come out of his shell because he thinks he is covered by seawater.

The Kuwaitis are gone now, although Saleh and Suad Alzouman still live in Charleston, but the environmental philosophy remains—nature comes first. Most of the time, anyway. This is still a resort island and most people still come to play golf. I was there during the early spring; it is much more crowded in summer.

Mary and Bill Crowley of Novi spent part of their honeymoon on Kiawah. "There is not much to do if you are not a golfer," Mary said, "but if you bike along the beach and beyond the resort areas you will find jungle wilderness. There are a lot of places on that island that have never been developed."

"Bill is a bicycle racer with the Wolverines in Northville so he loved riding that long sand beach."

I asked her if she would go back. "Yes, for a few days, although it is very expensive to stay there. The only restaurants are in the hotel and they cost a lot of money. It was our honeymoon, so we splurged."

Daily rates at one of the two-story wooden inn buildings are $100 to $220 a day. One bedroom villas are about the same, but they have kitchens—weekly rates range from $546 to $1,344. Two-, three- and four-bedroom villas are also available, as are special packages.

The Kiawah Island Inn and Villas are built among the palmetto trees and lagoons at West Beach. The villas they manage for owners are spread out along the beach in either direction behind the dunes.

The Kiawah Investment Co. crashed before the amenities at East Beach were finished, so the resort is now owned by Kiawah Resort Associates and managed by Oak Tree Hotels. There are plans to finish the rest of the eastern complex by the mid-1990s.

Meantime, golfers and alligators share the four golf courses on the island. When guests get tired of golf, tennis, beach and periwinkles, they eat at the Buccaneer restaurant just outside the gate or drive into Charleston.

Kids enjoy lots of daily activities under summer programs called Kaamp Kiawah. They can crab in the marshes or pull a seine full of sea life from the Atlantic under the supervision of young naturalists.

But the day begins and ends on that beach that runs the 10-mile length of the island, 100 feet wide at low tide. The beach runs east and west, facing south across the Atlantic, so a beachcomber's day begins when the sun rises at the east end of the beach and ends when the sun sets at the west end.

Three Mustangs named to 2nd team

With four of five area teams sporting at least .500 records, it was a good year for local prep baseball. Milford, Lakeland, South Lyon and Novi combined to average nearly 18 wins this spring and the stars from those four teams make up the HomeTown East All Area Baseball First Team. The squad was selected by sportswriters of the Novi News, Northville Record, Milford Times and South Lyon Herald.

Here's a closer look at the first team:

SHAWN FURMAN, catcher, Lakeland: Furman—who Lakeland Coach Jerry Ganzel described as "tough at the plate"—finished the year with a batting mark of .357 and was Lakeland's second leading hitter. Of his 25 hits, five were doubles and four were home runs. He drove in 16 runs and scored six of his own. Behind the plate, Furman had 109 putouts and recorded a fielding average of .958. "Shawn is a good long-ball hitter," Ganzel said. "He swings hard and pulls the ball hard. He's a nice kid, too, and a decent student. So much revolves around the catcher. He was one of our leaders out there and he really came on toward the end of the season. He got huge hits against Holly, Milford and North Farmington."

DAN SVELLER, pitcher, Novi: Perhaps the biggest surprise for the 'Cats in 1991, Sveller put up some great numbers on the mound, including an 8-2 record and a solid 2.88 earned run average. "I knew he'd be good, but I didn't think he'd be this good," Novi Coach Brian Howard said. "Dan doesn't throw hard but he's got a good change-up and he doesn't walk anybody." The junior was the quintessential "crafty pitcher" with only 18 strikeouts and 25 walks in 68 innings of work, and he came up big in the MHSAA Districts, beating strong teams like Walled Lake Western and Milford. "Dan is a pitcher, as opposed to a thrower. He's very crafty—his off-speed pitches baffled a lot of hitters. He was impressive."

CRAIG PETERSON, pitcher, Milford: In his second year on varsity, Peterson was among the team's hitting leaders with a .360 average, including 27 hits, four home runs and 15 RBIs. On the mound, Peterson recorded five wins against three losses and was clearly one of Milford's best pitchers with a 1.89 earned run average and 53 strikeouts. "He's a good strong hitter," said Coach Mike Shearer. "He was more consistent this year. He made good contact. He has good baseball sense and we're looking for good leadership from him next year. He's got a good arm and he's a good, coachable player."

DARNEL KRAUSE, infield, Novi: This senior was Novi's leader both on and off the field. He paced the Wildcats in most categories, and was a valuable leader. "Darnel was the guy the players looked to and he came through," Howard said. "He's loaded with natural talent, like speed and quickness. He was a pleasure to have on the team." Krause missed all of the pre-season practices with a broken wrist but missed just one game and ended up leading the 'Cats in batting average (.376), hits (41), runs (38), doubles (9), home runs (4), on-base percentage (.504) and stolen bases (32). He also notched 22 RBIs and two triples. Krause played shortstop for much of the season, but also was a valuable fill-in outfielder. "He solidified our team by being very versatile on defense," Howard pointed out.

GREG PETRU, infield, Milford: Petru—a pitcher and infielder for the Redskins—led the team with a .486 batting average despite having to come out of the starting line-up late in the season because of an injury. The four-year varsity player scored 21 runs, drove in 15 runs, stole two bases and smacked two homers. Petru finished the year with a 4-3 record, striking out 23 in 28 innings. "He's an all-around perfect athlete," said Shearer. "He's a natural hitter. He's got a good temperament and he learns while he plays. Greg is respected by his coaches and he's a leader on the field. Any coach would love to have nine Greg Petrus on their team. He's very unselfish. He always expects more of himself than anyone and he works hard on his game."

DAN TAYLOR, infield, Milford: Taylor was the Redskins' second-leading hitter with a .402 average. He smacked 43 hits in 107 at-bats, driving in 15 runs, including one home run, and scoring 34 of his own. "Taylor is quick and he's a good leadoff hitter," Shearer said. "This was his third year on the varsity team and he was a very fundamentally sound player. At the plate he hits to all fields and he showed more power this year than last year. He could have had four or five home runs, but it depended on where we played. He's a good contact hitter and he's a good base runner. Next year will be his time to shine. Hopefully he'll pick up right where he left off this year. Like Petru he knows baseball and expects everyone to make the plays. He's a winner and he knows nobody is going to give him anything."

ANDY DUNCAN, infield, South Lyon: Duncan—the Lions' premier pitcher this year—finished with a school record eight wins and three losses in 65 innings pitched. He also struck out 80 and recorded an earned run average of 2.14. Duncan, who holds a 3.2 grade point average, also ensconced himself in the school's offensive record books with 45 hits and 31 RBIs in 34 games. He finished the year with a .413 batting average, including five doubles, three triples, three homers and eight runs scored. "He had an outstanding season. At the beginning of the year I expected him to be good, but he surpassed even my expectations," Lions' Coach Tom Jackson said. "He's a good hitter, too. He makes good contact. You can't line any type of defense against him because he

Five-year slump dogs baseballers

What is wrong with the Northville High School baseball program?

A once proud program has now suffered through five straight losing seasons — and we're not talking about close to .500 campaigns either. The average season record for the Mustangs since 1986 is 9-18.

Sure it's unfair to totally judge a program on statistics alone, but the numbers are kind of alarming. The Northville baseball squad has a record of 43-89 the last five seasons — a winning percentage of .325. That should tell you right there that Coach Bob Frellick's team is not as competitive as it was in the mid-'80s.

Frellick took over the varsity program from Fred Holdsworth in '85 and by the next season the Mustangs notched a 14-8 record and grabbed a share of the WLAA Western Division title. The team was loaded with star players like Keith Dutkiewicz, Paul Newitt and Mark Olsen.

At that time, Frellick was confident that the program could continue to be successful. "To be honest," he said at the time, "I think we have one of the top baseball programs in the area."

But things quickly deteriorated. An 8-18 record in '87 was followed by 9-17, 10-17 and 10-17 seasons, and this spring's 6-20 campaign was the worst yet. In the last half decade, the Mustangs boasted some fine players — and all those teams played hard — but something's been missing.

In 1986, both Newitt and Dutkiewicz batted well above .400, but that kind of hitting has been absent ever since — with the exception of Derek Osborne in '87. This spring, not one single Mustang was among the top dozen hitters in the area. Northville only had a couple batters flirting with the .300 plateau, and only Danny Walsh (.303) finished above that mark.

And in the years when the Mustangs had a decent offensive attack — like in '87 — the pitching was a problem. As a matter of fact, the only time the 1991 Mustangs showed up among the area baseball leaders came in the pitching categories. After all, the team batting average was just .230.

With Mike Lang and Steve Christenson, Northville had two of the better hurlers around. You won't find either listed for their won-loss record (5-10 combined), but Lang — for instance — had a fine 1.89 earned run average and 49 strikeouts, despite a 3-6 record. Christenson's ERA was a respectable 2.69.

The highlight of the '91 season was a late-season surge. The Mustangs finished with three wins in the final six games, and advanced to the district final before bowing out to Redford Catholic Central. It marked the first time a Northville baseball squad had advanced to the district semifinals since 1984.

But as nice as the finish was, the rest of the season was a nightmare. The Mustangs dropped seven of their first eight, swept a non-conference doubleheader, and then promptly went on a 10-game losing streak.

In all, Northville lost 11 times to Western Lakes Activities Association opponents before notching its first win. The team had an overall record of 1-15 against WLAA foes — that certainly isn't very competitive.

Despite the numbers, I still believe that the program can come out of its five-year slump. Northville Junior Baseball is well organized and is producing fine players every year, and help may be on the way real soon. It's bothersome that this community doesn't field a Connie Mack (age 17-18) level summer team anymore, but the Northville Mickey Mantle squad — consisting of 15-and-16-year olds — is currently 5-2 this summer and features talented players like Jerry Birdsall, Joe Staknis and Fred Swarthout, as well as Christenson.

As the host of several prestigious NABF Tournaments each summer — thanks to Frellick's tireless work as tournament director — Northville is obviously a fine baseball city and deserves more.

can hit to all fields. On the mound he got stronger and more confident as the year went on. Working with an individual like him is a thrill. If I had nine Andy's I'd be happy, and relaxed, too."

CHRIS LOWERY, outfield, Novi: A .321 batting average would be great for most players, but for Lowery it was a down season. But when you consider this senior played most of the season while battling walking pneumonia, he was still remarkably productive. "Chris missed some games and was never really 100 percent until the very end of the season," Howard said. "That tends to rock your consistency and really hurt your timing. Yet Chris was very valuable to the team." Lowery knocked in 17 runs and scored 21 times in only 26 games. He added eight doubles, three triples, one homer, a .456 on-base average and stole 18-of-19 bases. "Once he became healthy, he really came into his own," Howard said. "He had the game-winning hit in our win over Walled Lake Western. He played a good outfield for us too."

JASON PINHO, outfield, South Lyon: South Lyon's leadoff hitter and captain, Pinho batted .339 and led the team with eight doubles, 36 runs and 21 stolen bases. He smacked two triples, one home run and had 18 RBIs. "He's the best leadoff hitter in the KVC," Jackson said. "He's also the best defensive center-fielder in the league. He chased a lot of balls down and he didn't make too many mistakes. There was a lot of pressure on him as a senior, but he stayed pretty focused. He's a nice person, too. I have no complaints. As a hitter, he hits to all fields. Last year he was a pull hitter. He was more versatile this year. He's a steady player. We'll miss everything about his game."

ADAM WOOD, outfield, Lake-land: This leftfielder batted .321 for the year, including four doubles, one triple and driving in six runs. He stole six bases and scored seven runs. In the field, Wood finished the year with a fielding average of .914, making only three errors all season. Wood also saw action on the mound on occasion, recording a record of 2-4. "He pitched well for us," Ganzel said. "He lost a one-hitter to Howell, which was disappointing. In the outfield he gets to the ball well. He made a couple of great catches and he has a good strong arm. At the plate he usually hits the ball. Wherever the ball is pitched, he usually got the bat on it."

MIKE GRAHL, designated hitter, South Lyon: If there was a "Comeback Player of the Year" award in the KVC, it should undoubtedly go to Grahl, who spent most of the year in the designated hitter position. Grahl injured his left arm a year ago playing summer baseball and had to undergo surgery in January to repair torn ligaments that resulted from an enlarged bone in the capsule of his shoulder joint. Nevertheless, Grahl worked out during the winter and came back to bat .388 and lead the team with five triples and five home runs. Grahl drove in 29 runs and scored 28. On the mound Grahl struck out eight batters in six innings of work, including a 3.50 earned run average. "My hat is off to this guy. After his surgery I didn't expect he'd be back, but he's got a huge heart. He didn't miss many games. His rhythm was down, but he had a lot of enthusiasm and a lot of determination," Jackson said.

Local Mickey Mantle team extends win streak to three

The Northville Mickey Mantle squad is on a roll.

The locals have won three straight and two were impressive shutout victories. The most recent was a 7-0 triumph over Monroe on June 18.

Starting pitcher Steve Christianson fanned seven and walked four to earn the victory. Northville hitters struck out 13 times, but did take advantage of nine hits, five walks and nine steals.

"Monroe's starting pitcher was no slouch," Northville Coach Joe Staknis said.

Neil Yackle drove in a run in the second, and Jerry Birdsall delivered an RBI hit in the third and later scored on Christianson's single to make it 3-0. The locals rounded out the scoring with some insurance runs in the seventh, and the big hit was a bases loaded double by Kevin Shaw.

NORTHVILLE 5, BIRMINGHAM 4: The locals overcame a 4-0 deficit in the bottom of the seventh to steal a win from Birmingham on June 15.

Three walks and RBIs by Scott Hartsough and Farrar cut the lead in half and a balk allowed another run to score, making it 4-3. That set up a game-winning two-run single by Fred Swarthout.

"She showed a lot of poise in the seventh," Staknis said.

NORTHVILLE 2, SOUTHGATE 0: The Mantle team blanked Southgate on June 13, thanks to an impressive pitching performance by John Farrar.

"We were looking for three or four innings out of John and he pitched a beautiful game," Staknis said.

Northville scored all of its runs in the first inning. Kevin Shaw got an RBI on a sacrifice and then Chris Shepard notched an RBI single. Northville is now 5-2 overall.

How you can combat allergies

Itchy, red eyes and stuffy, red nose? Coughing, wheezing and sneezing? That breath of fresh, spring air that causes your plants to blossom may be causing your allergies as well.

Dr. Michael J. Hepner, of the Allergy and Asthma Center of Southeast Michigan, said there are more than 40 million allergy sufferers in the United States. If you're among them, you know how important it is to get relief, without taking medications which may make you drowsy or overstimulated.

Among the general measures he suggests to help avoid seasonal allergies and difficulties, such as hay fever and asthma attacks, is to avoid being outdoors when allergies are troublesome, especially early in the morning when the amount of pollen is higher than at other times of the year.

For indoor allergies due to dust, mold, and pets, he advised that sufferers concentrate their efforts on keeping the house as clean as possible, particularly the bedroom, and keep animals out of the bedroom.

Both Hepner and his partner, Dr. Michael S. Rowe, have done extensive research into new allergy treatments. From their ongoing studies there have come a number of effective new medications which have been introduced at their Novi practice.

When summer comes around, so will an increase in ragweed and hay-fever suffering. Hepner and Rowe have new studies planned for that time. If you're a victim of these allergies and wish to participate in the program, contact the Allergy and Asthma Center of Southeast Michigan now. Call 473-8440.

When non-prescription remedies don't provide enough relief for your problems, you may need to investigate prescription medications. Both doctors have found that antihistamines such as Seldane and Histmanal seldom make a patient sleepy and do not produce the overstimulation of some non-prescription drugs. There are also a number of helpful nasal sprays, which do not have the addictive potential of their non-prescription counterparts.

For really severe allergies, Dr. Rowe said that some patients need to consider allergy injections. Injections build up a tolerance over a period of time, so that symptoms improve and medication needs are decreased, enabling the allergy sufferer to enjoy life, indoors and out.

Requests should be made at least three weeks before the intended speaking engagement. There is no charge for the service and participants will give valuable information about how this service can help them day or night. For more information or to make a reservation, please call the ASK-A-NURSE office at Catherine McAuley Health Center toll-free at 1-800-526-MERCY (1-800-526-3729) or in the Ann Arbor area, (313) 572-5500.

The Sisters of Mercy Health Corp. is the largest health-care provider in Michigan.

the caller to an appropriate source of care," Hintze said. "The protocols have been approved by medical staffs from all the hospitals involved in the program."

She added that a medical diagnosis is never made. After assessing a caller's situation, the nurse may make a physician referral or refer the caller to another appropriate resource such as an emergency room, clinic, health care service or community service.

"Ask-A-Nurse is staffed by registered nurses who have the expertise to provide the best possible service to callers," Hintze said.

Ask-A-Nurse going strong after one year

One year after beginning operation, Ask-A-Nurse, a free, 24-hour-a-day health information and referral service staffed by registered nurses, has provided 110,000 answers to callers on a wide range of health care topics and physician referrals.

Program Director Linda Hintze said, "This first year has been very successful. We are receiving more than 300 calls a day."

The nurses, trained to answer health-related questions, are assisted by a computer database of health care information. "They can answer anything from what to do about treating bee stings or how to find a drug rehabilitation program to where to find the nearest hospital emergency room," she said.

The Ask-A-Nurse telephone number is 1-800-52-MERCY, or in the Ann Arbor area, 572-5500.

Nurses can also refer callers to physicians in their communities who are accepting new patients. "This is especially helpful to newcomers to the area or people seeking specialists," Hintze said.

Ask-A-Nurse is currently licensed by 170 hospitals nationwide.

The Mercy hospitals involved with Ask-A-Nurse are: Catherine McAuley

Health System, Ann Arbor, (St. Joseph Mercy Hospital); Mercy Hospital, Port Huron; St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, Pontiac; and Mount Carmel Mercy Hospital and Samaritan Health Center, Detroit.

The program is based at Catherine McAuley Health System.

Nurses staffing the phone lines are familiar with hospital services and physicians in Wayne, Oakland, Washtenaw, St. Clair, Sanilac and Livingston counties, Hintze said.

"Based on symptoms described by the caller, the nurse follows a standardized set of protocols in referring

The Primrose 3

Stately tone with heart

By James McAlexander
Copley News Service

The entrance to the Primrose 3 puts one in mind of a capitol rotunda, with its curved portico outside and vaulted foyer bordered by an open circular staircase inside. While the same stately tone carries over into the high-ceilinged formal living room and oval-shaped dining room, the rest of this large contemporary home is much more relaxed.

At its heart is a combined kitchen and family room with a sunny eating nook nestled into a bay window. The L-shaped center island, which houses both a range and a vegetable sink, also doubles as an eating bar. Plenty of counter and storage space here to feed and serve a small platoon of family and friends. Sliding glass doors provide access to a deck that wraps around the entire back of the house, a natural for summertime entertaining.

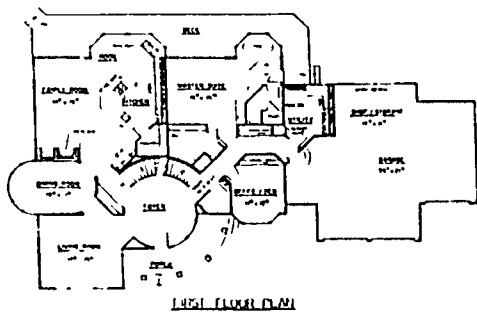

Since personal computers and modems have made working at home more feasible, many home buyers are requesting home offices. If necessary to keep business and home functions separate, an outside entrance could be added to this one. Having the half-bath so close is a definite plus.

The master suite is downstairs, separate from the other bedrooms. It features a large walk-in closet and double vanities located outside the water closet. A raised nook could either hold a spa, or serve as a small, bright sitting room.

The utility room has plenty of cupboards, counter space for folding clothes, and a fold-down ironing board. Clothing, bed linen and towels, from upstairs, arrive via a laundry chute. This will, no doubt, be put to other uses if there are youngsters in the house.

OVERALL DIMENSIONS: 98'-0" x 55'-0"
LIVING: 2454 square feet
GARAGE: 990 square feet
COVERAGE: 3474 square feet

Norm Finkelstein (left) and Paul Levine of the Irvine Group are developers of a housing project that appeals to horse enthusiasts.

STABLE BUSINESS

Developers create an equestrian subdivision

By Martin E. Deschaine

orses without hassles.

That's what the developers of Berwyk Place and Berwyk on the Park are offering in their new Milford Township development.

Boasting an "equestrian" community, the developments will allow the homeowner to enjoy all the comforts of owning a horse without the hassle of feeding, grooming and cleaning up after the animal. Instead, Berwyk residents pay a monthly fee to have someone else do the work and worrying for them.

Just a phone call down to the stable allows homeowners at Berwyk developments to have their horses saddled up and ready for riding by the time they arrive home.

The two developments are located off both sides of S. Milford Road, south of Buno Road.

On the east side (Berwyk Place) 14 custom homes will be constructed on 42 acres. The homes will each sell for $300,000 and up and measure 3,000-5,000 square feet.

The west side will consist of 57 homes (from 1,800 to 2,700 square feet) built on 48 acres. The homes will sell for under $200,000, said Norm Finkelstein, vice-president of the Farmington Hills-based Irvine Group which is the project developer. Each of the homes (on both sides) will include at least a two-car garage.

The west side development is known as Berwyk on the Park because of the community's proximity to Kensington Metropark.

Finkelstein said similar communities are popping up in West Palm Beach, Fla., Lexington, Ky., and Atlanta, Ga. "We made the decision (to go ahead with the projects) before we saw the others," said Finkelstein.

Finkelstein believes equestrian communities will not proliferate as fast as other development ideas. "I think it is a trend, it's not a major one but it will grow." He added that horse-based communities mark a different type of housing trend, one that will require a definite market before such communities come to fruition.

"It's not an easy development to do," he said, adding the complexity of this project was minimized because stables already existed on the site. "It's hard to start from scratch. It's difficult to start without the right operating conditions."

People living in the developments will pay about $50 a month for association fees if they have no horse and about $250 a month if they do. The $50 fee, for those who choose not to board a horse, includes use of the club's exercise room, whirlpool and sauna and the ability to ride "club" horses, Finkelstein said.

A trainer also will be available on site to assist the novice horse rider. A full-time manager and several other employees will be on staff, he added. Owners of various horse breeds are welcome.

It helps that the Milford/Lyon area is known for its many horse farms and as a center of horse training and breeding throughout the Midwest, Finkelstein said.

"The area offered the best potential because of its closeness (to the rest of the metropolitan area), yet it still has the country feel."

"And being on the edge of Kensington (Metropark) cannot be underestimated as a benefit," he added.

REAL ESTATE

Strategic real estate partnerships can work

By James M. Woodard
Copley News Service

Real estate brokers and sales associates are forming "strategic partnerships" to generate more property listings and sales.

The concept is definitely growing. Two brokers or sales associates will team together in all efforts to list and sell properties. Commissions are usually shared equally. The basic idea is that two people working together effectively can be more productive than both of them working individually.

"My partner and I have been working together successfully for the past two years," said Harriet Clune, a member of an active two-person partnership.

She and her partner, Judy Singer, work together on all business projects. The detailed terms of their working relationship are spelled out in a contract, or written agreement.

"We started helping each other on an informal basis," Clune explained. "Our team efforts worked so well we decided to formalize a partnership. Our different personalities and business perspectives seem to work well during consultations with prospective seller and buyer clients."

Clune noted that any successful partnership of two individuals should generate at least 2-1/2 times the amount of business that could be realized by one of the individuals working alone.

The Clune-Singer partnership does not concentrate on a "geographic farm" area — one location where listing and selling efforts are primarily focused. Rather, they pursue a "social farm."

They are active members of several professional and community groups.

Roy Hovas and Elaine Welch also work as real estate business partners.

They concentrate their efforts in an exclusive residential district.

"A man and woman partnership is effective because of their different personalities, capabilities and tastes," Hovas said. "This is definitely an advantage when communicating with clients and prospective clients. It works particularly well during our door-to-door canvassing."

"A two-person partnership must be based on a solid foundation of mutual trust and understanding," Hovas noted.

Both of the partners have their own families. One has been married 38 years, the other 40 years. Both have three children.

One of the nation's best-known partnership teams is Debbie Berman and Pat Kandel, associates with the Marina del Rey, Calif., office of Jon Douglas Co. This team of attractive and very articulate women has been a notably successful partnership for eight years and generates about $35 million in business each year, according to Jon Douglas, president of the firm.

"The key to success with partnerships is compatibility of the partners," Douglas said. "The two persons must work together positively, creating synergistic results."

Many brokers shy away from the idea of partnerships because of their high failure rate. Often, one partner will work significantly harder or longer hours than the other. Or one will pull ahead of the other in productive effort. This can result in tension and disintegration of the partnership.

However, an increasing number of partnerships throughout the country are being formed and appear to be working successfully.

Q. What is an HECM mortgage loan?

A. This acronym stands for Home Equity Conversion Mortgage. It is more familiar to many people as a "reverse mortgage" — a special plan for senior home owners age 62 or over that allows them to tap the accumulated equity in their home to generate added tax-free income every month.

These mortgages can now be insured by the Federal Housing Administration

(FHA) and they can be purchased by Fannie Mae, the nation's largest secondary buyer of mortgage loans.

"These unique loans mean thousands of house-rich but cash-poor older Americans can live at home with long-term financial security," said James A. Johnson, Fannie Mae's chief executive officer. "Our intention to invest in these mortgages gives local lenders an incentive to make these important loans more available."

Today, the FHA will allow all of its approved lenders to issue HECMs, lifting its previous limit on the number of lenders eligible.

Q. Where has the recession least affected the real estate market?

A. A good candidate for that prize would be Omaha, Neb.

I recently received a letter from a broker in Omaha, associated with RE/MAX Advantage Real Estate. He noted that this city on the banks of the Missouri River has experienced almost no adverse effects from the recession.

The unemployment rate in Omaha is only 2.3 percent—second lowest in the nation among major cities. And the average home price is only $78,000.

Davenport desk was a real bargain

By James G. McCollam
Copley News Service

Q. This desk was purchased in Dublin, Ireland, over 30 years ago for $40. It is 33 inches high, 21 inches wide, and 21 inches deep.

The top is inlaid and has a leather writing surface. The drawers go all the way through so the knobs are simply decorative on one side.

It seems to be quite old, but I have seen what appear to be modern copies in Italy priced at $52,000.

A. This is an English Davenport desk (named for a Capt. Davenport who designed the first one over 150 years ago). Yours was made in the mid-19th century and would sell for about $2,000 in good condition.

The reproductions are so labor-intensive that they cost as much as an original. However, the original will continue to appreciate in value.

Q. Can you place a value on a Chinese garden seat in the rose medallion pattern.

The local museum determined that it was made in the mid-19th century.

A. Based on the sales listed in several price guides, a garden seat such as you describe would probably sell in an antique shop for $2,500 to $2,750.

A dealer will probably be offered about $1,500 to $2,000.

Q. The mark on the bottom of an earthenware soup tureen is decorated with an Oriental scene in shades of red.

I would appreciate any information you can provide about the value and when and where it was made.

A. The manufacturer was Charles Meigh & Sons in Staffordshire, England, about 1850 to 1860. It would probably sell for about $125 to $135.

Q. We have an Edison Model A Home Phonograph that plays cylindrical records. The horn is almost 4 feet long and has a rod to support it.

Can you tell me when this was made and what it should sell for?

A. Your phonograph was made between 1900 and 1905. The extra long horn is somewhat rare.

In good condition, this should sell for $500 to $600.

McCollam is a member of the Antique Appraisers Association of America.

Building horse subs could be stable business for developers

Besides horse riding lessons for the children, other family amenities will be available. A full-size riding track will let the would-be equestrian obtain some practice.

An indoor track will be built and existing buildings on the property will be turned into stable space.

If the response is any indication, the development's success should be smashing. The response has been overwhelming," Finkelstein stated. "It's beyond what we ever imagined."

More than 150 people have already inquired about the homes months before they go on the market and at least 60 days before ground is broken on the project.

While similar housing ideas have failed miserably in the past, Finkelstein said the Irvine Group did its homework on the whole issue. He thinks other horse communities may sprout up if Berwyk developments is a success.

Customers range from urbanites who own horses but have no place to board them, to equestrian enthusiasts, to people without horses (who have no plans to own or ride a horse) who are attracted to the lifestyle.

The concept has piqued the curiosity of home buyers.

Wall-to-wall carpet offers contemporary comfort underfoot in a traditional room.

Carpet and traditional decor

By Rose Bennett Gilbert
Copley News Service

DECORATING

Q. Our bedroom is fairly formal, with traditional mahogany furniture and a canopy bed.

My question is about the floor: I have two small Oriental rugs in there now, but the room doesn't feel cozy. In fact, it's cold in winter.

My husband wants to put down wall-to-wall carpeting, but I'm afraid that will look too contemporary. Will you settle this, please! —I.D.

A. You do have a point. Wall-to-wall carpeting is a relatively modern idea. You won't find it in authentic rooms from the 18th and 19th centuries, but then, you wouldn't find electric lights or central heating, either.

Our foremothers would have loved wall-to-wall carpeting if they could have bought it. In fact, you still see period rooms where narrow strips of carpeting have been sewn together to achieve the "broadloom" look we take for granted today (the true "broadloom" is a 20th century invention). Authentic or not, wall-to-wall background and flowers in lots of bright colors.

I want to buy it for our living room, which is Williamsburg colonial. It would work if I slip-cover the sofa (which is a print that has nothing in common with the rug), but we just bought that.

I've always heard that you should buy something when you really love it, but am I just asking for trouble? —W.G.

A. You've already discovered the trouble with an overly extroverted rug. It will always be the center of attention, and everything else in the room must be subordinated.

A truly fine rug might be worth the effort, but as New York designer Margot Gunther cautions: "You'll be basing your decorating decisions on that one thing for a lot of years, since good rugs last a long, long time. So if you don't think you're going to have a life-long love affair with a rug, don't buy it."

Bare surfaces of interior doors could allow in moisture

By Gene Gary
Copley News Service

Q. I am having difficulty with the interior doors swelling and sticking. The problem is worse during high humidity.

I had the doors adjusted by a handyman, who shaved a small portion from the edges. Do you have any suggestion to correct this problem?

A. In addition to having the edges of the doors planed or sanded, you need to seal the raw wood on the edges to prevent future penetration of moisture.

Often the bare surfaces at the top and bottom of the doors do not get painted. Moisture is then allowed to penetrate and expand the wood. Once the doors fit and the wood is dry, seal the edges with wood sealer or paint.

Q. I have tried to remove the finish from my dining room chairs without success. I've tried several brands of paint and varnish remover.

The chairs are approximately 80 years old. I am wondering if during that period some special finish was used that requires a different type of removal.

A. You have probably guessed the basic problem. The paint you are working with is most likely an old-fashioned milk paint.

Although impossible to remove with paint and varnish strippers, it is readily removed with ordinary ammonia.

However, you may want to think twice before removing it. If the paint is still in good condition, your chairs are probably more valuable to collectors with the milk-based paint.

Money Management

Take the mystery out of company's annual report

If reading an annual report holds as much mystery for you as an Agatha Christie novel, rest assured that it doesn't have to be that way. The Michigan Association of Certified Public Accountants has some information that may help you unravel the mystery.

Most annual reports open with a letter to shareholders. The letter generally includes financial highlights, a review of the past year and a look ahead to future operations. When reading the shareholder's letter, keep in mind that management wants to show the company in the best light possible. However, an informative letter should explain why a company has had a good or bad year.

To get the most out of an annual report, you have to evaluate what is said in the letter. Test the chief executive's track record by reading previous years' reports. Compare projections made in past letters with subsequent results to assess management's credibility.

Once you have an overview of the company's operations, proceed to the financial statements. It is there — in the financial statements, footnotes and auditor's report — that you will find the most important information.

The balance sheet and the income statement are the heart of a company's report. A balance sheet simply reflects the financial status of the company at the close of business on a particular day, usually the last business day of the company's fiscal year. The income statement reports on the company's earnings and profitability for the last year or period covered by the report.

A balance sheet has been compared to a still photograph: it shows you how strong a company's finances are on a given day. A balance sheet shows a company's assets, liabilities and owner's equity. The company's assets are represented by what the company owns and may include cash, marketable securities, accounts receivable, inventories, property, buildings and equipment.

The liabilities of a company are represented by what the company owes and include the company's accounts payable and notes payable, accrued expenses, debts due and federal income tax payable. The difference between the company's assets and its liabilities is the shareholder's equity.

If the balance sheet is like a still photo, the income statement is more like a motion picture — it represents a cumulative review of the year's operations. The purpose of an income statement is to show how a company performed last year by showing how much income was earned (and from what sources) and how many expenditures were incurred (and for what). Income statements generally present data for at least the last two to three years, making it easier to evaluate the company's performance over a period of time.

When you subtract the company's costs and expenses from the revenues received for its goods and/or services, you arrive at the net income or net loss for the year — the company's bottom line. This figure represents the amount of profit available to be paid out in dividends to shareholders, retained by the company, or some combination of the two.

If you are a shareholder in a company, pay particular attention to the earnings per share amount — the earnings of the company divided by the number of shares of stock outstanding. An increase in earnings per share is a positive sign. But be sure to determine whether the increase in earnings came from normal company operations or from a one-time occurrence, such as the sale of plant or a subsidiary.

After carefully reviewing the financial statements, turn to the footnotes or disclosures for further explanation. Many experts view the footnotes to be as important as the statements

The Novi Service Center features extended hours for credit union members, and an adjacent automatic teller machine

Service Center opens in Novi

By RICK BYRNE
Copy Editor

If you haven't banked at a Service Center, chances are you look at banking as an inconvenience.

You've probably experienced the headaches of trying to fit a trip to the credit union on your lunch hour, or hustling out of the office to get to your credit union before it closes. If your credit union is part of the Service Centers Corp. network, you can relax. Service centers stay open later, and they offer Saturday hours, too.

And now one has come to Novi. The Credit Union Family Service Center which opened last Thursday in the Novi-Ten shopping center is the 13th in the Southfield-based Service Centers Corp. chain.

The concept of a service center is simple. It's a cooperatively owned and operated branch that serves a number of different credit unions, all at one location.

Branch sharing is unique to credit unions, and enables them to expand their member services without the expense of bricks and mortar.

"We're basically an agent for 100 different credit unions," said Novi assistant branch manager Alan Buchanan. "We can do deposits, withdrawals, loan payments and loan applications. We sell money orders, traveler's checks and certified checks. The only thing we can't do is open an account or close an account."

Specifically, there are 109 credit unions in Michigan and one in Texas

(which has members in Michigan) that participate in the Service Centers Corp. program. Together, these credit unions have a combined total of $4.5 billion in assets, representing 43.6 percent of the total assets of all Michigan credit unions.

The credit unions represented by Service Centers have a total of 1.5 million members, or over 44 percent of all Michigan credit union members.

According to Buchanan, customers come to service centers for the expanded hours. Where most credit unions close their doors at 5:30 p.m., Service Centers remain open until 7 p.m. Saturday hours are available, too. The Novi Service Center is open from 9:30 to noon on Saturdays.

And if that's not good enough, there's an automatic teller machine

House reaches stalemate on single business tax break

By TIM RICHARD
Staff Writer

The state House of Representatives reached a stalemate last week over how to deal with a $500 million single business tax break, sending the bill back to the Taxation Committee.

"The Democratic version expires at the end of 1992," said Rep. Sue Munsell, R-Howell, floor leader of Republican efforts.

That would mean a $500 million tax increase for major industries beginning in 1993.

"They want to use the $500 million to fund their Democratic property tax cut on the 1992 ballot," said Munsell, a member of the Taxation Committee.

Republicans want to make the cut permanent. Munsell almost won with her amendment to strip the dates out of the bill. She had 54 votes in favor and 39 against but needed 55 for passage.

The House rejected the Democratic version on a vote of 51 yes to 54 no.

Area lawmakers voted with their parties. Democrats Clarke Harder of Owosso and Kirk Profit of Ypsilanti voted yes.

Republicans Munsell and Willis Bullard of Highland voted no. In addition, a half-dozen Democrats crossed party lines to help defeat the measure.

"I voted no," said Rep. Michael Bouchard, R-Birmingham, "due to the temporary nature of its existence. Business needs and deserves some continuity in the rules it must follow and have the ability to do long-term planning and investing. Anything less will add to the flight of business from Michigan," said Bouchard who will take his newly won Senate seat next week.

The battle started when a Court of Appeals panel last winter extended the capital acquisition deduction

(CAD) to investments of Michigan firms in other states.

Twin results: a revenue shortage of $500 million and a severe cash flow shortage, leading to the delay of state school and college aid payments. Both political parties want a bill that will plug the leak.

But the Democratic bill also provides that if the Supreme Court reverses the appeals court ruling, there will be no CAD at all.

Democrats generally believe CAD is bad tax policy.

"The Democrats think they'll get a reversal in the Supreme Court," said Munsell. "There would be a $1 billion swing (business tax increase) in the other direction."

Gov. John Engler's administration supports a permanent solution to the CAD problem, as do the Michigan Home Builders Association, state Chamber of Commerce, and National Federation of Independent Businesses.

themselves. Although the name and/or placement of the footnotes may imply that they are an afterthought or that they contain superfluous information, don't be misled. In fact, the notes are an integral part of any financial statement.

Footnotes generally serve two functions. They usually explain a company's accounting policies as well as provide additional disclosures. In the footnotes, you may find such details as changes in the company's method of accounting, the condition of the employee's pension plan, information on pending claims or lawsuits that could affect the company's finances and others.

Another feature of annual reports in the auditor's opinion. In 1988, a new standard audit report form was adopted by the American Institute of at the Novi site which is part of the network called SC24. It links 100 ATMs around the state, with affiliations to Magic Line, Network One, CIRRUS and PLUS System.

Buchanan said the major benefit of Service Centers is that it's like moving a member's credit union (which may only have one branch) into the member's home neighborhood.

"We're conv for members of a lot of different credit unions," he said. "We're located where more of the people are."

If members of the same family belong to different credit unions, they can all bank at the same location, he added.

"And if they have more than one account at different credit unions, they can transfer money from one to the other without having to go to different credit unions to do it," said Buchanan. "It saves a couple of trips."

Traveling around the state or moving to a different city will no longer separate members from their credit unions. Service Centers Corp. has locations in Kalamazoo, Lansing, Ann Arbor and several sites in the Detroit metropolitan area. Novi is the farthest west of any metro-area branch.

Last year Service Centers handled over five million transactions, representing $800 million in deposits, $350 million in withdrawals and loan disbursements totaling $20 million for its participating credit unions.

Call 380-8920 or 380-8921 for more information on banking at the Novi Service Center.

Certified Public Accountants (AICPA). The new form was "designed to caution the public on the nature and limitations of the audit." The first paragraph of the new report explains that it is the management of the company, and not the auditors, who are responsible for the financial statements. The second paragraph describes the scope of an audit.

The third, and most important, paragraph contains the auditor's opinion of the financial statements and the accounting principals used. A "clean" opinion indicates that the figures have been fairly presented. Keep in mind that a clean auditor's report does not necessarily mean that the company is financially sound.

Watch out for "qualified" opinions. This means the auditor has reservations about the report and could not unequivocally approve its contents. An auditor may also give a report an "adverse" opinion or they may "disclaim" or express no opinion at all.

If a company's annual report still has you mystified, CPAs suggest you consult an expert for help in solving the mystery.

Novi man starts electronics group

A new statewide association was recently founded to represent businesses handling low energy technology such as sound systems and television antennae.

Officially named The Electronic Communications Organization of Michigan (ECOM), the group includes contractors who install and service telephone, TV, intercom, nurse-call, sound, data processing and microwave antenna systems. Founder of the association is Novi businessperson Leonard Kruszewski, executive vice president of Clover Comm.

"The organization was founded to establish a unified voice for an industry that has come of age in our high-tech society," stated William McCall, spokesperson for ECOM. McCall is president of Shalco, manufacturers agency for sound equipment whose Ferndale offices serve as ECOM headquarters.

"The goal of the association," McCall said, "is to serve as spokesman for the industry in the legislative and regulatory arena, and to insure that members have the opportunity for impact in areas that affect their livelihood."

In addition, ECOM plans to offer member services such as newsletters, seminars and assistance for members by negotiating group insurance programs and other needs of the low energy industry.

One catalyst for forming the association was introduction of legislation in the last legislative session that would have drastically rewritten the state electrical code. Although the bill was significantly altered before being signed into law, ECOM believed the time was ripe for organizing the low energy industry in order to participate actively in the legislative process.

"Working with low energy communications devices differs from the normal tasks a licensed electrician performs," said McCall. "We believe in mandating qualifications and safety requirements for our industry, but we may want to accomplish that in our own act, not the current state electrical code, which doesn't specifically address our industry.

"If those individuals working with electronic communications are to be licensed, it should be in the technology they are working with, not high-voltage technology."

McCall estimated approximately 4,800 Michigan men and women are employed in the low-voltage communications industry, and the number will continue to increase in the '90s.

"Our industry has needed a united voice for some time," said McCall, "and introduction of the recent legislation gave us the impetus we needed to move forward."

In addition to establishing new contractor ratios on the job site and tougher enforcement penalties, the act also requires formation of a joint legislative committee. The committee is charged with reviewing the current electrical code, and determining what changes are needed. The joint committee must report back to the full legislature with its recommendations by June 1991.

"We have an excellent opportunity to offer input and shape the future of the low-voltage industry," said McCall. "We believe ECOM membership offers the best avenue for participation in a unified fashion."

"The other founders of this organization and I stand ready and committed to making this a strong association that speaks for the needs of its members. However, an association is only as strong as its membership, and we need the support of everyone in the low-voltage industry if we are to succeed."

In addition to McCall, the organization's founders are Paul Boudreau, CEO, Executone Business Systems; Troy, Bruce Chapin, president, Pulsar Electronics, Trenton; Jack Feltig, chairman, Executone of Western Michigan, Grand Rapids; Leonard Kruszewski, executive vice president, Clover Communications, Novi; Robert Swayze, vice president, Communications Systems Group, Oak Park; Rod Uffner, president, Industrial Communications Co., Oak Park; and Mel Wierenga, president, ASCOM, Inc., Wyoming, Michigan.
