Driver bound over for trial

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

Kenneth Loveday, the man charged with two counts of manslaughter in the death of two joggers on Eight Mile Road, was bound over for trial in Oakland County Circuit Court after a July 11 preliminary examination into the charges.

35th District Court Judge John E. MacDonald ordered Loveday bound over after finding probable cause to believe his vehicle struck and killed the joggers. MacDonald also kept Loveday's bail at $100,000, the amount set at a July 2 arraignment.

Loveday, a 19-year-old former Novi resident, remained in Oakland County Jail as of press time Friday. He is scheduled to return to court July 31, in an arraignment before Oakland County Circuit Court Judge Francis X. O'Brien.

Loveday told Northville City police two days after the June 5 accident that his white Jeep Wrangler hit joggers Yusuf Hanania of Novi and Albert Abdelnour of Livonia when he swerved to avoid an eastbound pickup truck that crossed into his lane. But three witnesses at the preliminary examination Thursday, including a woman who was following Loveday's vehicle at the time, testified that they did not see a truck matching Loveday's description in the area. They said all the vehicles on Eight Mile appeared to be in their proper lanes when the Jeep swerved off the road.

The Jeep's passenger, 20-year-old Michael Gibson of Farmington Hills, testified Thursday that he and Loveday smoked a marijuana joint about 15 minutes before the accident.

Gibson said he and Loveday drove to a friend's house in Farmington Hills on their way to work that morning and picked up "two or three grams" of high-grade marijuana in a plastic bag. He said Loveday rolled the marijuana into a joint at a stoplight on Halsted Road between Eleven Mile and Grand River, and the two smoked it in "five minutes or less."

Gibson estimated he took six or seven "hits" off the joint. "I took a couple more hits after he (Loveday) did, 'cause he said he . . . had enough," Gibson said.

Prosecuting attorney Roman Kalytiak, an assistant prosecutor with the Oakland County Prosecutor's Office, called nine witnesses to the stand Thursday. City Police Sergeant Donald Lancaster testified that he saw no skid marks from the Jeep on the roadway or the dirt shoulder and that Loveday's Jeep apparently struck the joggers before it hit a guardrail and became hung up on the rail. Lancaster was the first officer to arrive at the scene of the incident.

Marsha Temirian, who was driving west on Eight Mile directly behind Loveday's vehicle before the incident, testified that she saw Loveday's hands on the steering wheel just before the accident. She said she saw Loveday "cut the wheel real hard to

The Northville community has reacted swiftly and with heartwarming generosity to a man in need.

The Record switchboard received calls Friday from people offering assistance to Paul Diels, the 73-year-old Northville man injured when a getaway car from Northville Regional Psychiatric Hospital stole his car.

Financial pledges totaling $800 had been received in the Record office by mid-morning Friday. Another caller asked if she could provide transportation for Diels.

Civic Concern, a Northville charitable organization, on Friday began gathering food to deliver to Diels.

Township police say Terrance Jenkins, 27, walked away from the state hospital the evening of May 9, yanked Diels from his 1983 Ford Fairmont, and threw the elderly man to the ground outside Perry Drugs in the Northville Plaza Mall.

Jenkins was bound over to circuit court last Thursday, after it was determined he is competent to stand trial, township police Capt. Philip Presnell said. Jenkins will face unarmed robbery charges July 26 in Detroit Recorder's Court, Presnell said.

Diels was hospitalized for two weeks while receiving treatment for a shattered elbow, broken finger and head injuries.

Police later recovered the stolen car in Highland Park, but damages incurred in the theft left the vehicle in extremely poor condition, said Scott Anderson, a mechanic who said he has used a "band-aid" approach to keep the car running.

"It's essentially a totaled vehicle," Anderson said Friday. "Repairs will cost as much as the car is worth."

A "conservative" repair bill would

Concert for kids returns

The summertime entertainment series for kids at the downtown bandshell returns this Thursday with a popular singer and guitarist.

The Downtown Merchants Association sponsors the series, which is scheduled to run for four consecutive weeks. Each performance starts at 10 a.m.

Diane Wise of Baby Baby, who is organizing the series, said the entertainment is geared to kids ages 2 to 8. The first performer in the series is Ann Shaheen-Herndon, scheduled for 10 a.m. this Thursday, July 18.

The performances are free. The bandshell is located off the south side of Main Street downtown, between Center and Church streets.

Into the past

It was an adventure into the past as First United Methodist Church held its annual Vacation Church School last week. The theme was "Circuit Rider" and it explored the early beginnings of Methodism in America. The Fellowship Hall was converted to a main street from the year 1780 complete with a millinery shop, tannery, tin smith, general store, apothecary, wood shop and candle maker. Kids also created crafts in the shops and learned songs of the time. Above, 8-year-old Matt Schwartz bobs for apples. Shores site legal dispute gets settled

By MIKE TYREE

A 35th District Court Judge on Friday fined D & T Construction $100,000 after the Shores of Northville developer entered no-contest pleas to a pair of reduced state criminal charges.

Defense attorneys pleaded no contest to state Department of Natural Resources charges that D & T enlarged a lake without a permit and structurally interfered with the flow of a drain, said Reilly Wilson, assistant Wayne County prosecutor.

Judge James Garber accepted the no-contest pleas, which means the defendant is convicted without admitting guilt. Three additional charges against D & T boss Vincent DiLorenzo, managing partner of the troubled Shores of Northville development

The Mt. Clemens-based development firm is to pay the settlement within thirty days, Wilson said.

The settlement came just four days prior to a scheduled jury trial in

Township near to decision on waste hauler

By MIKE TYREE
Staff Writer

An Inkster firm has gained a nod of approval from township engineers to handle the township's preferred-solid waste contract.

Painter & Ruthenberg outbid four other companies and should be awarded the township's solid waste contract, said township consultant Abe Munfah of Ayres, Lewis, Norris & May.

The township board will hold a special study session July 25 to ponder the recommendation. The study session is scheduled for 7 p.m. at township hall.

Painter & Ruthenberg tendered a bid of $6.08 per household for monthly solid waste collection. The firm would also handle compostable materials collections at an additional $1.40 per household, according to the bid.

Browning-Ferris Industries is set to provide township residents three years worth of free recyclable materials collections, as part of a complex deal cut earlier this spring.

In addition to other perks, BFI will exchange its recycling services for excess sewer capacity in the Western Townships Utilities Authority sewer line.

Board members most likely will okay Painter & Ruthenberg's bid if the company offers assurances on key side issues, township Supervisor Georgina Goss said.

"This is the lowest bid and I'm sure the board will go with the engineer's recommendation, as long as we have a guarantee on the landfill capacity," she said.

Landfill capacity seems to be the only potential drawback to Painter & Ruthenberg, since the company does not operate its own landfill. The company did offer assurances from the right, and he went off and hit the two pedestrians.

Temirian saw no reason for the Jeep to go off the road.

Defense Attorney Daniel Goldstein established through the testimony of several witnesses that Loveday did not appear to be drugged after the accident, and that his driving pattern before the accident was normal. The defense attorney attacked passenger Gibson's testimony, questioning Gibson's account of Loveday rolling the joint at a stoplight and ridiculing his claim that he could tell Loveday was under the effects of marijuana by Loveday's "perma-grin," the smile on his face.

Gibson testified that he was "high" for more than two hours after the accident, but under cross-examination by Goldstein, he admitted that the "high" behavior he observed in Loveday ceased several minutes before the accident. Gibson said the marijuana did not seem to affect Loveday's driving.

Gibson said that the Jeep's move off the road suggested that Loveday was attempting to avoid an oncoming vehicle. "Something had to be coming our way for that type of turn, or something had to be coming that way for him to turn that way, that sharp," he said.

Goldstein called no witnesses of his own, but did call a prosecution witness that Kalytiak did not use Thursday. Kathleen Mary Goetsch, a paramedic with the ambulance company that responded to the scene, testified that she saw nothing in Loveday's behavior to indicate that he was drugged.

The court also heard testimony that Loveday had a habit of swerving toward oncoming traffic, and that he and other friends played games where they would drive toward pedestrians to harass them.

Brian Eschbach, 18, who said he lived with Loveday for more than two months and drove with him on several occasions, testified that the two had been involved in several "near misses."

Eschbach said Loveday would drive close to pedestrians while passengers in his vehicle would yell out the window, and that he and Loveday would jerk the steering wheel to one side into the path of oncoming cars. "We've had a few close calls," Eschbach said. Judge MacDonald allowed Eschbach's testimony despite Goldstein's objection that it was irrelevant to the case at hand. Kalytiak argued successfully that the testimony was needed to "negate the concept that the incident here was strictly an accident," and that such testimony is allowed under Michigan law.

Goldstein said the prosecution's case consisted of "inferences upon inferences upon inferences."

top $2,000, Anderson said. To fix the vehicle would "be like throwing good money after bad," he said. Diels, who lives on Social Security, is an independent sort who needs dependable transportation, Anderson said.

Record callers have expressed an interest in donating money to buy Diels another vehicle.

A Northville woman on Thursday said she would give $100 to help

Diels, and "a Northville businessman" who wished to remain anonymous pledged $700 toward a car fund.

Marlene Kunz, Civic Concern director, said her organization has helped Diels in the past. In addition to a food gift, Kunz said Civic Concern would accept checks in Diels' name to start a car fund.

Those interested in contributing to a car fund may make checks payable to Civic Concern, 215 W. Cady Street, Northville, 48167. Diels' name should be written on the memo portion of the check, Kunz said.

Shores site legal dispute is settled before trial

the controversial Shores case. The DNR originally had alleged that D & T and DiLorenzo had violated the state's Inland Lakes and Streams Act by failing to obtain work permits for the 350-acre Shores site.

Wilson said prosecutors decided to settle because a no-contest plea means the developer "is convicted of the crime."

State statutes allow fines of up to $10,000 per day for violating the act, but Wilson was happy with the settlement.

The fine is substantial for a firm that "did not send a piece of paper to Lansing," he said.

DiLorenzo said defense attorneys agreed to the settlement in order to protect the Shores developers.

"We settled because, obviously, we are suing everybody," he said. "It's better to do it in the circuit court."

DiLorenzo said the developer has filed lawsuits against Northville Township, the DNR, and a pair of firms that previously worked for the Shores developers.

The settlement "kept everything off the table," DiLorenzo said. "We thought this misdemeanor case would prejudice our circuit court case."

Northville Township Supervisor Georgina Goss was not overjoyed by the settlement.

"To me, it looks like a slap on the wrist," she said. "The state gets the $100,000 and the (Sump) drain still isn't repaired."

"The township plans to vigorously pursue our legal action (to recover funds to repair Sump Drain)," she said.

Wayne Disposal of Ypsilanti that landfill space would be available at one of two Wayne Disposal sites, Munfah said.

Painter & Ruthenberg's original bid included Northville city solid waste collections. But the city and township seemingly have parted company, as far as collection services are concerned.

The township's deal with BFI for recycling services apparently prompted the split.

In a letter to Goss, Northville Mayor Christopher Johnson said "... if the township is committed to a separate curb-side recycling agreement with BFI, then the city will be forced to re-bid the entire refuse service package, preferably with one or more governmental units to provide a sufficient number of customers to be an efficient service area for the bidders."

Northville city officials reportedly are discussing a possible combined solid waste bid package with Plymouth city officials.

Ironically, the township may have to re-bid the entire solid waste package if the city takes a separate avenue and Painter & Ruthenberg rejects a township-only $6.08 per household bid.

Painter & Ruthenberg officials were unavailable to comment Friday on the rest of a township-only bid.

CITY REVIEWS PLANNING CONSULTANT MOVE: Northville City Mayor Chris Johnson will meet with Council Member Jerry Mittman, City Manager Gary Word and Planning Commission Chairperson John Hardin in a study session at city hall July 16 to decide the fate of longtime planning consultant Don Wortman and his former firm, Ayers, Lewis, Norris & May. Wortman recently left the Ann Arbor consulting firm to take a vice-presidency position with a similar agency, Carlisle Associates.

Though the city's consultant contract is with Ayers, Lewis, Norris & May, Wortman has expressed a desire to leave the city's consultant, a position he has held since 1988. Wortman helped guide the planning commission through its drafting of the recently-enacted Master Plan. Several commissioners have declared their wish to see him remain as the city's consultant.

Ayers, Lewis, Norris & May President Abe Munfah has lined up planner Glen Bowles to fill Wortman's shoes. Bowles assisted Wortman on research for city projects including the Master Plan, and has sat in for Wortman on the planning commission several times when he could not attend.

BASEBALL RESULTS: Clutch hitting of Barry Bonds, Hojo, and Darryl Strawberry offset the late-season heroics of Wade Boggs to give Ralph Polumbo the "General Manager of the Year" award over runner-up Tom Gamfield. John St. Clair came very close behind to grab third place.

All three were winners of their respective divisions in Northville Public Library's Fantasy Baseball League, as were Josh Melton, Eric Abbey, Brian Buckman, Steve Napier, Susie Heintz, Mark Sander, Tom Lindenmuth, John Moore, and Rob Tori. All 12 division winners will have an opportunity to vaunt their managerial prowess for the rest of the summer as they will be awarded "Division Winner" T-shirts. First-, second- and third-place winners for highest points of the 72-team league will receive trophies.

Complete final statistics are posted at the library and will be available to those requesting their own printout. To compete during the 1992 season, inquire at the Northville Public Library when spring training begins next February.

SOLICITORS NOT AFFILIATED: Northville city police report that a group calling itself the Michigan Association of Police is misrepresenting itself in phone solicitation in the area.

The group is seeking contributions over the phone and saying it is affiliated with the city police department. According to Senior Clerk Susan Hatch, the department is not affiliated in any way with this group. In fact, the department is not connected to any group doing phone solicitation, she said.

LOCAL OFFICIAL ENTERS STATE ELECTION: Northville school board Treasurer Robert McMahon was nominated by the school board as a candidate for a position on the Michigan Association of School Board's Board of Directors.

Eight positions are open. McMahon is eligible to run for two of the positions. He has not decided which seat he hopes to fill, but he could be in direct competition with Novi school board Trustee Raymond Byers. Byers was nominated by the Novi school board to run for the association's board.

Homeowners' group proposed

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

Northville Historic District residents looking for a greater say in city affairs soon may have a new forum.

Northville resident Chuck Keys is holding the inaugural meeting of the Historic District Homeowners Association at city hall Thursday, July 25. He said he hopes the new group will help keep residents better informed about the workings of city government, and the effects of government policies on the Historic District.

"People don't go to the city council meetings and I think they should," Keys said. "But they don't have the time. I think a homeowners' association could fill that role and represent the Historic District... What goes on downtown affects this district whether it's a parking lot, changing a traffic pattern or paving a street."

Keys listed 12 "possible items of concern" on a flyer advertising the meeting. The items include increased traffic and speed on residential streets, the Board of Education preschool program and school buses on Main Street, downtown parking and traffic flow, commercial development on and around Cady Street, and rising property taxes. Keys also listed potential concerns over the city budget and planning process, and progress on the proposed city/township police consolidation.

"I think the increased development surrounding the city has put certain pressures on the city in terms of growth," Keys said. "There's a negative budget that we have. I think people have to be involved and concerned with how the city spends its money, and I think the mayor and the council should be responsive to the people."

"I think many people want to know what's going on."

Keys said he plans to distribute the flyer to all the homes within the Historic District.

Local people back from the USSR

By SUZANNE HOLLYER

Taxis made from Mercedes Benzes, and Soviet students wearing shirts from the state of Utah, were just a few of the many aspects of the rapidly changing Eastern European culture encountered by Northville students last month.

A group of 21 Northville students, teachers and friends of teachers saw perestroika at work in a school board-approved trip to the Soviet Union.

They returned late last month and gathered July 9 to share pictures and memories with the excitement of their trip still lingering.

While on the trip, they found thriving black-market economies where they traded everything except the clothes on their backs.

"They have more of our clothes than we do," said Northville high school teacher Chris Ford.

But they didn't always get the best deals in return. Student Jessica Henthorne bought a fur hat for $5. Later, someone else on the trip found a similar hat selling for 11 rubles — or about 35 cents. "We got ripped," she said.

Sponsored by Educational Tours, the trip cost each student $1,774 in advance. Food, tours, transportation and hotels were included. Chaperones, including two Northville High School teachers, took the tour for free.

Eleven Northville students, two teachers and nine friends and relatives of teachers left Michigan on June 18. Most of them returned June 28. Others, including Northville teacher George Aune and his son, are still overseas.

Goods purchased on the black market were not the only things the travelers brought home. They returned with rolls of film and reams of video footage to remind them of the trip.

Scenes from video shot by Henthorne might even make an appearance someday on a television show about funny home videos. Her tape of the trip includes footage of American baton twirlers also traveling in Eastern Europe. In an unplanned scene of the slapstick genre, the camera receives a blow to the lens as one twirler loses her baton in mid-throw.

Members of the group also got pictures of senior Mike Williams playing in Peter the Great's fountain. The Russian czar built a fountain hoping children would someday play in it. Williams took him up on the offer and the moment is memorialized in several pictures of the trip.

But the heavily guarded tomb of Lenin will not be remembered in photo albums of local travelers; photos are prohibited. The body of former Soviet leader Vladimir Ilyich Lenin is on display and a must-see for tourists. Northville's group described the visit to the tomb as "an experience."

It was quiet, cold and somber, according to Marge Hoy. Hoy and her husband, Lewis, traveled as friends of Aune.

The group traveled to Copenhagen, Denmark at the beginning of the trip and to Stockholm, Sweden at the end of the trip.

City police seek ferret which bit local resident

Northville City police are seeking the assistance of Yerkes Avenue and neighboring residents in their search for a missing ferret. The dark brown ferret, a small animal resembling a weasel, bit the hand of a woman who picked it up July 9.

The woman told police she was walking along Northville Road between Five and Six Mile when she saw the animal, which seemed tame. Believing it was someone's pet, she picked it up, wrapped it in a shirt, and took it back to Yerkes Avenue. There the ferret bit her on the hand and leaped out of her arms.

Police are searching for information on the ferret's whereabouts or, if it was someone's pet, its medical condition. Citizens who have seen the ferret or know about it are asked to call the Northville City Police at 349-1234.

CARS VANDALIZED AT DEALERSHIP: Thirteen cars parked at McDonald Ford, 550 W. Seven Mile, were vandalized sometime between 1 p.m. July 6 and 9 a.m. July 8. The trunks of the cars were scratched, possibly with a key, causing an estimated $5,200 in damage. The cars, including several Thunderbirds, Crown Victorias, Mustangs and a Chevrolet Caprice, were parked in a row on the east side of the building.

TAILGATE STOLEN: The tailgate was stolen off a new Ford Ranger pickup truck parked at McDonald Ford last week. The black tailgate with stainless steel trim, valued at $1,000, was taken sometime between 7 p.m. July 5 and 1 p.m. July 8.

FELONY WARRANT ARREST: City police arrested a Mt. Clemens man July 8 on an outstanding felony warrant for credit card fraud. The man was wanted by the Westland police department for four counts of credit card fraud. A computer check revealed the warrant during a Northville City police investigation into a fraud complaint. The man was arrested at a local residence at 2:53 p.m. and turned over to Westland police.

PARKING LOT VANDALISM: Two cars parked in the southwest corner of the city lot at Main and Wing were vandalized early this week.

One car had its antenna bent sometime between July 8-9, causing $50 damage, while the other had a line of white spray paint sprayed along the passenger side, fingernail polish poured on the passenger floor mat, and its rear window hatch broken. The damage to that car, estimated at $250, was done sometime between 10 a.m.-noon July 9.

FENDER BENDER: City police reported one accident last week.

A Northville man driving south on Griswold just north of Butler Avenue drove off the road and into a directional sign at 1:10 p.m. July 10. The accident also damaged lawn and shrubbery at a Griswold residence. The man told police he was reaching across the passenger seat to retrieve some business papers when he left the road. He was cited for unsafe lane usage.

VEHICLES DAMAGED: Someone slashed all four tires on a 1991 Ford Aerostar parked in a driveway near the Steeple View/Bradner intersection late July 1 or early July 2, township police said. Damage was estimated at $400.

A Greenridge Drive resident told township police that someone smashed the driver's window on his 1989 Mercury Sable late July 3. Damage was estimated at $250.

CAR STOLEN FROM MEJER LOT: A Farmington Hills man told township police that someone stole his 1983 Chevrolet Celebrity while he worked at Mejer. 20401 Haggerty, July 3. The car was valued at $2,300.

HUBCAPS SWIPED: A Northville woman told township police someone stole three hubcaps from her 1990 Buick LeSabre while it was parked on Eddington Place late July 2 or early July 3. The hubcaps were valued at $150.

A Novi man reported that four hubcaps were stolen from his 1987 Ford Taurus while it was parked in the Mejer lot July 3. The hubcaps were valued at $400.

Citizens with information about the above incidents are urged to call Northville City Police at 349-1234 or Northville Township Police at 349-9400.

GMI JOINT PROGRAM: Schoolcraft College and GMI Engineering and Management Institute have developed a joint articulation transfer program in engineering and management that will enable students to begin their first two years of education at Schoolcraft College, and complete their final three years at GMI Institute in Flint.

Students participating in the program will be enrolled in a co-op experience as an integral part of their study. The completion of the program leads to a bachelor of science degree in engineering or management.

For admission to the Schoolcraft College program, the student will be required to participate in the Schoolcraft College assessment program. Students who complete the required coursework at Schoolcraft College within six years of beginning their specific program will be guaranteed transfer to GMI, pending placement with a co-op employer. In addition, they must carry a minimum 3.0 cumulative GPA, have earned a 3.0 in transferable science and math courses, and a minimum 2.5 in each of the course categories from Schoolcraft. Upon successful completion of these standards, a student will be admitted with sophomore II standing and will have approximately 122 credits remaining at GMI to complete the baccalaureate program.

Students interested in the GMI/Schoolcraft College Engineering or Management Co-op Program should apply to Schoolcraft College early in their senior year of high school. The student's preparatory coursework should include a heavy concentration of science, mathematics and english, and their high school transcript should be submitted to Schoolcraft College as soon as possible. All materials, including the results from the Schoolcraft College assessment program, will be reviewed by a GMI/Schoolcraft Co-op Engineering/Management Program Admissions Committee, and students will be notified of their status. Students not initially accepted into this program may qualify for admission at a later date by demonstrating proficiency in a suggested series of courses taken at Schoolcraft College, GMI, or elsewhere.

For further information, call the director of admissions at Schoolcraft College at 462-4400.

ENDOWMENT SCHOLARSHIP: An endowment scholarship has been established at Schoolcraft College in memory of former Plymouth resident Sheila Marie Tripp.

Tripp discovered she was diabetic when she was 11 years old. Her illness affected her life, sometimes frustrating her, but she would always work through it. When she could no longer participate on a hockey team, she began swimming and became an excellent swimmer. She had a great deal of artistic talent. The first piece of jewelry she created was chosen for a student display at the Toledo Museum of Art. She designed her own clothes and designed and sold sweat-shirts. When her vision deteriorated, she had her mother help sort everything by color so she could complete her projects.

At age 24, she had a pancreas transplant in an effort to alleviate the life-threatening complications she was experiencing from the diabetes. It helped for a few months before the side effects of anti-rejection drugs caused further damage. Her philosophy was that she was willing to take the risks for an improved quality of life, and, if it didn't help her, perhaps what was learned would help others.

Tripp was a Schoolcraft College student. The college is accepting applications for the Sheila Marie Tripp Scholarship. Any diabetic will be given first consideration. Individuals may plan to enroll in any of the College's programs and financial need is one of the criteria to qualify for the scholarship. For a scholarship form, call the Schoolcraft College Financial Aid Office at 462-4433.

POLICE ACADEMY: Schoolcraft College-Radcliff offers a 13-week Police Academy through the Wayne County Regional Police Training Center. The academy provides training for certified law enforcement officers required by the Michigan Law Enforcement Officers Training Council. Fred N. Dansby, Chair of the Police Academy Advisory Board, says, "The Police Academy promotes academic excellence in a semi-military environment."

Recruits in the Police Academy program receive training from a broad cross-section of professionals, including police officers, attorneys, psychologists, civil and criminal law, police dispatching procedures, and how to prepare criminal cases for prosecution. Recruits also learn skills necessary to use firearms, self-defense, and vehicle control procedures.

A 13-week Police Academy session is scheduled for Sept. 16 to Dec. 16.

Anyone interested in seeking admission to the Police Academy should contact Orville Kappen, Academy Coordinator at 462-4410 for more information.

Schoolcraft College is located at 18600 Haggerty Road, between Six Mile and Seven Mile roads, in Livonia.

WHY PEOPLE DON'T GO TO THE DENTIST

- They had a painful experience
- They are concerned about cost
- It's been so long that there is probably not much that can be done to save their teeth
- They have more important things on which to spend their money
- They've been thinking about it
- The pain will go away by itself
- They can't justify spending money on themselves at this point in life

Do any of these sound familiar? Dentists hear these all the time, but the truth is that dental problems snowball. When a regular preventive routine is not maintained, simple problems grow. If you find yourself described in the reasons above, give today's dentistry a second chance. Find an office that is gentle and careful and listens to your concerns. GET ON TRACK AND STAY THERE! There are no valid reasons to neglect your teeth and lots of long lasting reasons to go back to the dentist.

NORTHVILLE CITY COUNCIL MINUTES SYNOPSIS JUNE 17, 1991

Mayor Pro-Tem Ayers called the regular meeting of the Northville City Council to order in the Council Room at 8:00 p.m.

1. PLEDGE OF ALLEGIANCE:

2. ROLL CALL: PRESENT: Mayor Pro-Tem Ayers, Councilmen Paul F. Folino, G. Dewey Gardner. ABSENT: Mayor Christopher J. Johnson, Councilman Jerome J. Mittman — both members excused, out-of-town.

ALSO PRESENT: Interim City Manager Mark Christiansen, City Clerk Cathy Konrad, Police Chief Rod Cannon, DPW Superintendent Ted Mapes, Finance Director Bev Morrison, Chuck Keys, Mike Kahn, Jim Mills, Kathleen Otton, Mark Terphrier, and Northville Record Reporter Steve Kalkman.

3. APPROVAL OF COUNCIL MEETING MINUTES: The minutes of the regular meeting of June 3, 1991, were approved as submitted and placed on file.

4. CITIZEN COMMENTS: None.

5. ADOPTION OF THE AGENDA AND APPROVAL OF THE CONSENT AGENDA: Motion by Gardner, supported by Folino, CARRIED UNANIMOUSLY, to approve the agenda as submitted and the consent agenda A through J.

6. PUBLIC HEARING: AMENDMENT SECTION 4-605, REUSE & RECYCLING: Moved, supported, CARRIED UNANIMOUSLY, to adopt the amendment to Title 4, Chapter 6, Reuse and Recycling, Section 4-605, Billing Rates and Charges, as amended.

7. CALL HEARING TO AMEND ZONING ORDINANCE SEC. 17.03 & 21.03: Christiansen stated as a matter of clarification in the procedure which is followed by those cases where both a site plan review as well as a variance is required, the Planning Commission has recommended to Council that an ordinance amendment be proposed which would require petitioners involved in this type of action to appear before the Planning Commission first for a contingent review and approval prior to their appeal before the Board of Zoning Appeals. This proposed ordinance, which would be called for hearing at the next meeting, amends those sections of the ordinance dealing with this procedure and the appeal procedure in cases involving both the Planning review as well as the Zoning Board action.

8. CONSENSUS OF COUNCIL TO REQUEST THE Board of Zoning Appeals review the revision of amending Section 17.03 and 21.03 before calling the public hearing.

9. SINGH DEVELOPMENT — DESIGNATED PARKING IN MAGS LOT: Moved, supported, CARRIED UNANIMOUSLY, to adopt the amended parking lot configuration and signage as presented, including the revision at the front of MAGS.

10. REQUEST OF MARK TARPINIEN — PURCHASE PARKING CREDITS, 217 SOUTH CENTER: Christiansen noted in order for Cady Street to be relocated, 6 feet of Mr. Terphrier's property would be needed. Tarpinien wants to convert the property to commercial use which would require 7 parking spaces. He has certain problems providing parking on site and is in need of purchasing 4 parking credits. The current cost per credit for this type of use is equal to the value of the land. The Planning Commission reviewed Tarpinien's plans on June 4, and because of drainage and lack of information on parking, it was tabled. He recommended, because this property involves the deck, that Council exchange 4 parking credits for the land needed to relocate Cady Street. Council was sympathetic to Mr. Tarpinien's situation and it was their consensus to do some creative thinking and come up with a solution to his parking problem. Christiansen will research and will discuss further at the next meeting.

11. BUDGET AMENDMENTS: Christiansen presented the budget amendments prepared by the Finance Director. Based on these amendments the only fund with the problem is the General Fund, as a result of the lack of race-track revenues. It is becoming clear that we will receive those revenues within two months following the fiscal year, it will not be a deficit and we will not have to deal with it. If that is not the case, we will have to file a deficit reduction plan.

Moved, supported, CARRIED UNANIMOUSLY, to amend the 1990-91 Budget.

12. PROJECT STATUS REVIEW: Council reviewed the project status list, noting that most are on hold until the new city manager arrives. Council did review each item and it was determined that some should be moved to a lower priority. Christiansen will revise the list for the next meeting.

13. COUNCIL COMMENTS: Christiansen contacted Senator Geake this morning regarding the racetrack funds and was advised that the funds are coming and there are no cuts in the current year funds (1990-91). These should be coming in a couple of weeks.

14. CLOSED SESSION: UNION NEGOTIATIONS: Ayers recessed the regular meeting at 9:25 p.m. for the executive session.

Ayers reconvened the regular meeting at 9:45 p.m.

Moved, supported, CARRIED UNANIMOUSLY, to accept the MCOA proposal for application to both police unions for a six month, 5% wage freeze with scheduling of 16 hours of compensatory time totally at the discretion of the Chief of Police and immediate implementation of the 5% pay increase if any additional layoff occurs during the 6 month period.

Mayor Pro-Tem Ayers, adjourned the regular meeting of Northville, June 17, 1991, at 9:45 p.m.

City should stick with Wortman as consultant

Planning Consultant Don Wortman's recent decision to leave Ayres, Lewis, Norris & May for a fancier title with another firm leaves the City of Northville with a difficult decision.

Should city officials stick with the man who has sat through dozens of planning commission meetings, or with the company that put the man in the seat in the first place?

Mayor Chris Johnson and Council Member Jerry Mittman, together with City Manager Gary Word and Planning Commission Chairperson John Hardin, will meet July 16 with ALNM officials and Wortman, to decide in which direction to head.

The issue is this: When it comes to a planning consultant, which is more important, the man or the firm behind him? We believe that in this case, the city should stick with the man.

We do not fault ALNM's consulting skills; far from it. Wortman could not have provided the level of service to the city that he has without the support of his home office. We find no fault with Glen Bowles, the man who would be consultant if the city stayed with ALNM. Bowles was Wortman's right-hand man when dealing with the city, and filled Wortman's seat at the commission table several times.

But the consultant himself has sat with the commissioners week after week, through some 75 meetings at city hall. He has heard the concerns of various residential groups and business owners regarding proposed site plans and ordinance changes. He was involved in drafting and collating the results of a 1989 questionnaire mailed to 3,500 residences, which outlined neighborhood demographics and detailed the community's desire for more single-family residential development and lack of enthusiasm for further commercial growth.

Wortman also helped the planners write the 88-page Master Plan, the result of two years of drafts, rewrites, and revisions.

The commission recently recognized that fact by citing its preference that Wortman be retained as the consultant, at least through the implementation of the Master Plan he helped draft. That process, involving public hearings and the drafting of specific ordinance amendments, could take many months.

The planning commission is currently drafting new rules to limit building heights in the Central Business District, and provide buffer zones between the CBD and residential properties. Two weeks ago, the commission sent its recommendation to the city council that the Bealtown neighborhood be rezoned to duplexes, to preserve the neighborhood's historical and residential character. Wortman was at the sometimes-heated public hearing on the proposed rezoning, providing a reasoned overview of the situation and the commission's stance.

The city should, of course, satisfy itself that Wortman's new firm, Carlisle Associates, can provide both the planner and the planning commission with the resources Wortman needs to continue providing the city with high-quality consulting services.

Once satisfied, the city ought to retain the services of the man from ALNM who is most familiar with Northville — Don Wortman.

The night the lights went out

So where was I when the lights went out?

Well, besides being in the dark (and how many times did you hear that stupid old joke this week), I was in the hot-dog section of Meijer.

As the whole store went pitch dark, I heard two women shriek over in the produce section. A couple of children whimpered, and for a while, there was an eerie silence. But in about 10 seconds, everything came back on again.

I thought it odd that nearly everyone headed for the check-out lanes. All the better for me, I thought. No more muscling aside brutish housewives to get to the 2-for-1 frozen orange juice specials. It was nice to have those big, wide aisles to myself.

Back home, though, reality came crashing down. The power was out — which left several complex questions.

What was I going to do about the two loads of laundry that were only half done? (Let them sit there for two days until I can figure out where there's a coin-op laundromat.)

Where was the flashlight? (At my uncle's house.) Where were the batteries? (Ha! The last time I bought some was around 1985.)

The candles? Well, those I could find easily enough. I had been entertaining for two just the night before, but why didn't I have the common sense to keep the matches in the same drawer? (Because I don't have any — common sense, that is. The matches were in the bathroom.)

And then there was the matter of four bags of groceries I'd just bought. How would I keep them refrigerated? (Fill up the lunch refrigerator at work.)

Like most journalists, I pride myself on my resourcefulness. I had this silly notion that while most of Northville around me was without power, I would carry on a normal lifestyle. A blackout was no major crisis. It was merely a test of my adaptability.

Yep, I figured, if my ancestors could live without electricity, so could I. After all, what could be tougher than the housewives in the freezer section? So on Sunday night, I fired up the barbecue grill and popped open a bottle of some good hooch to toast my personal return to pioneer days.

Fortunately I still had hot water, so shaving and showering were no problem. Cooking? Well, we have all electric appliances, but there was the barbecue grill. Monday morning dawned, and I ambitiously prepared scrambled eggs, and managed to boil water for tea, all on the grill.

Lunch was hot dogs, but by dinner, the novelty was wearing off. I called on a friend that owed me a dinner, and ate out.

From there on, it was downhill. While my laundry festered, so too did my enthusiasm for grilling. On Tuesday, I hit Dunkin' Donuts for breakfast, had some hamburgers for lunch, and a couple of pork chops for dinner.

Wednesday I skipped breakfast completely, had peanut butter and jelly for lunch, and had hamburgers (again) for dinner.

There was a certain lack of variety in what I was cooking, and as far as side dishes, there was no feasible way to steam vegetables or saute anything. The scrambled eggs, though a satisfying accomplishment, were more troublesome and time-consuming than they were worth. And without light to read by or TV or radio or Nintendo, how was I to spend that 20 minutes or so that it took the coals to heat up.

Now, it's late Thursday, and Woodland Hills (and, I might add, a good number of Detroit Edison customers in surrounding neighborhoods) is still dark. I'm ready to concede defeat. I'd pick my pioneer ancestors over the housewives in the freezer section any day.

Updating some recent events

It's update time, everybody.

The truth of the matter is I don't have any good column ideas, so I have decided to go back to a couple of recent columns and update you on what has happened since they appeared in The Record.

UPDATE ONE: The phone rings and it's Fil Superfisky, the famous Realtor from ERA Rymal-Symes.

"I saw the Bickersons this morning," he said, referring to the column I wrote last week about the couple squabbling over who decorated the kids' bikes for a July 4th Parade.

"How they doing?" I asked. "They mad at me?"

"Not at all," said the only man in the world who spells Phil with an F. "In fact, they thought it was pretty funny. Sharon told me she was surprised that anybody reads your column."

"Sharon said that?"

"I guess she and Jim have been getting a lot of kidding," he replied. "But that's not why I called. Ask Sharon about her golf game. Jim is trying to get her to play golf, so they were out the other day and Sharon got hit in the leg with a golf ball. Has a big bruise. Now she thinks golf is really dangerous."

"Thanks for the tip," I told him. "That's the kind of stuff my readers want to know."

UPDATE TWO: "This is Mrs. Bickerson," said the voice when I answered the phone.

"Hey, Sharon. How's it going? An anonymous source already told me you and Jim aren't mad."

"An anonymous source?" she queries. "Who's your anonymous source?"

"You know I can't reveal that. An anonymous source is an anonymous source. There's no way you're going to weasel it out of me. He also told me you have a golf-ball-sized bruise on your leg," I added.

"Have you been talking to Fil Superfisky?"

"Sorry. I can't reveal that. But there's one other thing he told me, and I'm pretty upset. Did you really say you were surprised that anybody reads my column?"

"No, that's not true," she replied. "What I said is I was surprised so many people read your column. You didn't use our last names, but everybody figured out who the Bickersons are and we've been getting a lot of nbbing."

UPDATE THREE: This one is not about the Bickersons. It's about Kathy, the world's meanest bartender who works at The Starting Gate in Northville.

Now some of you have asked whether Kathy was mad about being called the world's meanest bartender. Well, I'm happy to report that Kathy is not at all angry. In fact, she's quite pleased. "Why should I be mad?" she asked on my first visit after the column was published. "You made me famous."

Unfortunately, a couple of others at The Gate are not as happy. Lynn is angry because she wanted to be the world's meanest bartender. Terri's upset because I only mentioned her name once. And Gail's sulking because I've never mentioned her name in one of my columns.

On my last visit to The Gate, I attempted to capitalize on Kathy's pleasure with the column by suggesting the least she could do for the person who made her famous was to send him a drink on the house.

"No way," she grinned. "I've got a reputation to protect."

Proud to have played a part

What's more hometown than the Fourth of July?
Not much, as far as we're concerned.

That's why we'd like to take this opportunity to thank the advertisers who participated in our special "Operation Welcome Home" section marking this year's celebration.

All the revenues from "Operation Welcome Home" (except the cost of newsprint) will be donated by The Northville Record and HomeTown Newspapers to help fund the day's events — an amount in excess of $2,500.

None of this would have been possible without the assistance of those who purchased advertisements in "Operation Welcome Home," so we want to extend our recognition of and appreciation for their efforts.

All in all, it was a grand and glorious Fourth. Thanks again.

Well-brought-up in Burgundy

In 1850, the Burgundian Symphorien Moillard, a Nuits-Saint-Georges vineyard owner, became a negotiant as a result of his customers' requests. They wanted him to obtain more wines from Burgundy and other regions for them.

Selecting, as well as cellaring wines, became Moillard's main concern. Today, his descendants are the owners of Burgundy estates which have been enlarged by each generation.

Domaine Moillard sources or owns parcels in several important grand cru and premier cru locations. At Vosne-Romanee, as an example, the company is distinguished at Les Beaux Monts and Les Malconsorts, a site contiguous with the renowned La Tache.

Wine production from Moillard's grape sources in the Hautes-Cotes de Nuits offers consumers more reasonable priced Burgundy wines. Moillard planted chardonnay in this region about seven years ago.

"In Burgundy it is not sufficient to be 'well born.' It is also important to be 'well brought up,'" maintains Henri Thomas, a Moillard descendant and the firm's general manager.

The Moillard policy stresses quality. In order to source and produce quality wines, it is necessary to make thoughtful selections. We do this from three avenues of supply: the family vineyard holdings; grapes purchased by Moillard and fermented in the winery, and the wines purchased either by contract or from various, carefully selected growers.

These grape supply resources qualify Moillard to be termed a negociant-eleveur. The negociant capacity extends to wines from the Maconnais, Beaujolais and the Rhone. The latter makes up about 22 percent of production.

The key advantage of Moillard may be a 140-year experience in the Burgundy wine trade, consisting about 50 percent of wines produced.

"In general, the 1988 vintage is still tight and not showing that well," Thomas states. "The acid is still too obvious. The 1985 reds are more mature, but the whites need another six to eight months' bottle aging."

In a three-year projection, Thomas believes that the 1988 white Burgundies will show better than the '85s. "The reds from 1985 will remain ahead of the '88s," he affirms.

"I believe that it's a mistake for importers and wholesalers not to stock back vintages. Too often consumers are deceived by the hype given to certain vintages. Currently, Moillard still has some 1983s available. They are drinking well and they cost less than either the 1985s or the 1988s.

"Consumers tend to read the wine press, and the 1988s and 1989s are being discussed now. They've forgotten about a drinkable vintage like 1983."

Looking to the future, Thomas believes that eventually the 1990 vintage wines will be much better than the 1989s. "Perhaps the 1990 wines will be as good as 1988," he says.

Thomas claims the 1990 red burgundies (pinot noir) have deep color, rich fruit with balanced acid and tannins. "The 1990 whites (chardonnay) are balanced with generous fruit," he reports. "Chablis wines from 1990 should prove very good. In general, all the 1990 white wines are better than whites from 1989."

Thomas is not shy to say that a string of good Burgundy vintages is not without problems. In particular, he points to the growers asking higher prices year after year. "I try to point out to them that the market will not bear increases currently," he contends.

WINE SELECTIONS OF THE WEEK

Moillard is no exception when it comes to Burgundy producers with high-priced bottlings from premier and grand cru vineyards. We found the following lesser appellation wines representative of the Burgundy region and very good values.

1988 Moillard Bourgogne, Hautes Cotes de Nuits "Les Vignes Hautes" ($14.95) is generously fruity with ripe cherry aromas and flavors. It is stylish, user-friendly and approachable in its youth.

1988 Moillard Cuvée, Clos de Vouvray ($15.50) has expressive black cherry aromas with a gentle oak and fruit palate impression. The lengthy finish is quite elegant.

Kidz Cookery

Course combines learning with fun activities

By RICK BYRNE
Copy Editor

"Mom, I'm hungry." Those words can be an endless source of frustration for parents because they always seem to come at the most inopportune moments. When a young child is hungry, he or she doesn't know that the laundry needs doing, the bills need paying, the phone needs to be answered and the house needs to be cleaned.

All the child knows is that he or she wants a snack.

At the New Morning School on Northville Road, some 6- to 10-year-olds are learning to fix their own snacks, and making some pretty fair attempts at breakfast and lunch, too. It's part of a course called Crafty Cookery, a class that combines learning about history, science, crafts and a double helping of fun with some basic cooking skills.

"When we do these classes, they incorporate science, language arts and math and all these activities in one class," said Marilyn Romack of the New Morning School. "The kids do everything. They have their own recipe cards, which they read. They mix the ingredients with adults talking them along."

The two-week class, which began on July 9, highlights a different topic each day. One day focused on peanuts, with instruction on George Washington Carver's studies into the many uses of peanuts, combined with the making of fresh ground peanut butter and some peanut butter cookies.

Another day spotlighted waffles, with the kids making their own batter. They started with cream, and played games while they shook jars of it into butter.

Measuring for recipes teaches the children valuable pertinent uses for math and science.

"They compare teaspoons to tablespoons," said Romack. "They learn how things change when you mix them together. They also learn what happens when you use too much or too little of something."

"And it's all individualized. They make their own portions."

In a day of study on apples, Johnny Appleseed and "Tall Tales" figure prominently. The kids make dried apples to take home, and fruit salad with yogurt sauce. Then they go outside to plant apple seeds.

Another day immerses the children in chocolate. Well, not literally. But they do learn about candy making with chocolate, a chocolate fondue for dipping pretzels, and the history of Hershey's.

The New Morning School is a private school for pre-schoolers through eighth grade during the regular school year.

"It's very parent-involved," said Romack. "It's a cooperative school which means that the more the parents are involved, the lower their tuition."

She added that building self-esteem and independence are emphasized, and the cooking class is a good example of that. Though the summer session class is a fun activity with learning mixed in, the regular school program includes lessons on cooking as well.

"Every summer, we offer some kind of cooking class," said Romack. "It's always a little different. Sometimes it's Cooking Around the World, and sometimes it's something else. But cooking is part of the regular classroom too."

"For some of the older kids, they'll learn to balance checkbooks, place orders in catalogs, or go shopping. Once a week we have a pizza day."

Flavor of salt needs careful touch

"If it doesn't taste good, don't serve it." "Flavor is important; looks are second." "Taste is the most important aspect of cooking."

It is impossible to count the number of times I have heard the above quotes. From my grandparents, from teachers, from fellow cooks. The underlying current is the same — seasoning is the vital part of cooking.

The most universal flavoring ingredient is salt. Salt is a very controversial issue in this day and age. Like fat, eggs, and sugar, doctors recommend limiting your salt intake. We all know how poorly we feel after a sodium-laden day. Bloating. Logy.

Like "bad ingredients," salt and its relatives should be used wisely. If you cannot use salt because of a physical condition, by all means do not. The careful use of salt is the sign of a good cook. Salt and salt flavorings are meant to bring out the flavor in food. Just a dab will do the trick.

Most people add salt at the beginning of cooking. This is acceptable if the dish you are cooking will not be simmering away on a back burner for hours. As the juices reduce, the product will become saltier and saltier. Ingredients such as bacon and cheese will greatly alter a dish also.

Do not add salt before tasting. I am amazed watching people pick up salt shakers and dousing their food without even trying it. In some fine restaurants, salt and pepper never go on the table. A dish that is too heavily salted is hard to remedy. The addition of more liquid is the usual solution.

Salt is indispensable in the baking of bread and pastry. Its addition to cake highlights sweetness. Salt is used to draw off the bitter juices of some vegetables such as eggplant. Sprinkling salt on watery vegetables such as cucumber will leech them of water and consequently soften them.

Beware of salting the cut surfaces of meat before cooking as they will become too moist to brown properly.

Salt is available in several forms to the home cook. Most common is table salt. After refining it is ground into fine grains and iodine is added as a dietary supplement. Kosher salt is refined into larger, irregular crystals and is free of all additives. Considered less salty than table salt, it is the preferred salt of most professional chefs.

Sea salt is the byproduct of evaporated shallow sea water and is refined as table salt. Flavored salts, such as celery and garlic, are popular with some cooks. Their flavor deteriorates after a while. The same effect can be had crushing celery seed or garlic powder with salt as needed.

Light salts are available for people on a sodium restricted diet. To me there is a bitter aftertaste. Alternatives to salt are vinegar and lemon juice.

Other salty flavorings include soy sauce, anchovies, bottled hot sauces and olives. Soy sauce is one of the oldest salty flavorings in history. Used for centuries in Asia, it was imported to Europe about 300 years ago and now is one of the most popular bottled flavorings.

Soy manufacturing is a carefully balanced process. Soy beans are fermented, mixed with wheat and injected with a special mold. The taste depends on the proportion of beans to wheat. Good quality soy is aged from six months to two years.

The initial liquid drained from the vats is light colored and subtly flavored. When the beans are pressed the second time, a darker sauce is obtained. There are many varieties of soy with delicate differences.

MSG is a byproduct of the soy-making process. It is a controversial product as reactions can occur in people allergic to it. Especially affected are those with asthma. Although tasteless itself, MSG (monosodium glutamate) stimulates the taste buds to detect flavors.

With so many other options available, I do not advocate the use of MSG. It is not necessary. Anchovies or anchovy paste gives a salty flavor to robust tomato, fish and salad dishes. Many people do not care for the "fishy" taste. I think this is a mind-over-matter syndrome.

There have been many times people have eaten anchovies in salad dressings or sauces and never even known. All I can ask is to be open minded and to keep a tube or can of anchovies on the shelf to use sparingly. You'll be pleased. My 5-year-old niece, Elizabeth, calls them "trophy's" and eats them out of the can. Needless to say she likes salt.

Olives are a favorite ingredient of mine lately. The dried, cured, black Italian or plump, large, green, Spanish unpitted are great additions to most sauces and dishes. A little goes a long way. The better the olive the fewer you will need for flavorings. Try them on pizza, in bread and in salads.

Italy is the world's largest producer of olives, followed by Greece and then California. I stress — quality is better than quantity.

Finally there are the common everyday table sauces. Worcestershire, salsa, bar-

SPAGHETTI ALLA PUTTANESCA (Spaghetti with olives and anchovies)

- 4 garlic cloves, minced
- ¼ tablespoon dried hot pepper flakes
- ¼ cup olive oil
- ½ cup minced fresh parsley leaves
- 4 drained Italian tomatoes, chopped
- 4 flat anchovy fillets drained and mashed
- 6 black olives minced (preferably Greek or Italian)
- 2 tablespoon bottled capers ½ pound spaghetti or favorite pasta
- 2 tablespoon freshly grated parmesan or romano

In a skillet, cook the garlic and the red pepper flakes in the oil over moderately low heat, stirring for 20 seconds. Stir in the parsley, and cook the mixture for 10 seconds. Add the tomatoes with the juice and cook over moderate heat for 1 minute. Add the anchovies, the olives, and the capers and cook the sauce, stirring for 2 minutes. In a kettle of boiling salted water, cook the spaghetti until it is al dente. Drain and toss in a bowl with the sauce. Sprinkle the pasta with cheese. Serves 2.

Cooks can slice energy use

By CAROL CUTLER
Cape News Service

In the '70s, when we had a real gasoline crunch, we mended our ways — temporarily. We stretched every gallon of gas to its ultimate limit to avoid standing in lines that stretched for blocks. Even though we did slip up a lot, some habits remained. To this day I use a route to the supermarket that avoids two red lights.

This was brought to mind by a new campaign for energy conservation, just at a time when there is a big swing back to home entertaining. A lot of energy gets burned up in the home, and more than you think is wasted.

Just a few minor adjustments can save pennies, even nickels and dimes, every day. At the end of the year, those economies can add up to a tidy sum.

Here are a few concrete examples for when you are working in the kitchen: If you're not in a hurry, defrost foods in the refrigerator. This cools down the refrigerator while retaining the heat of the kitchen.

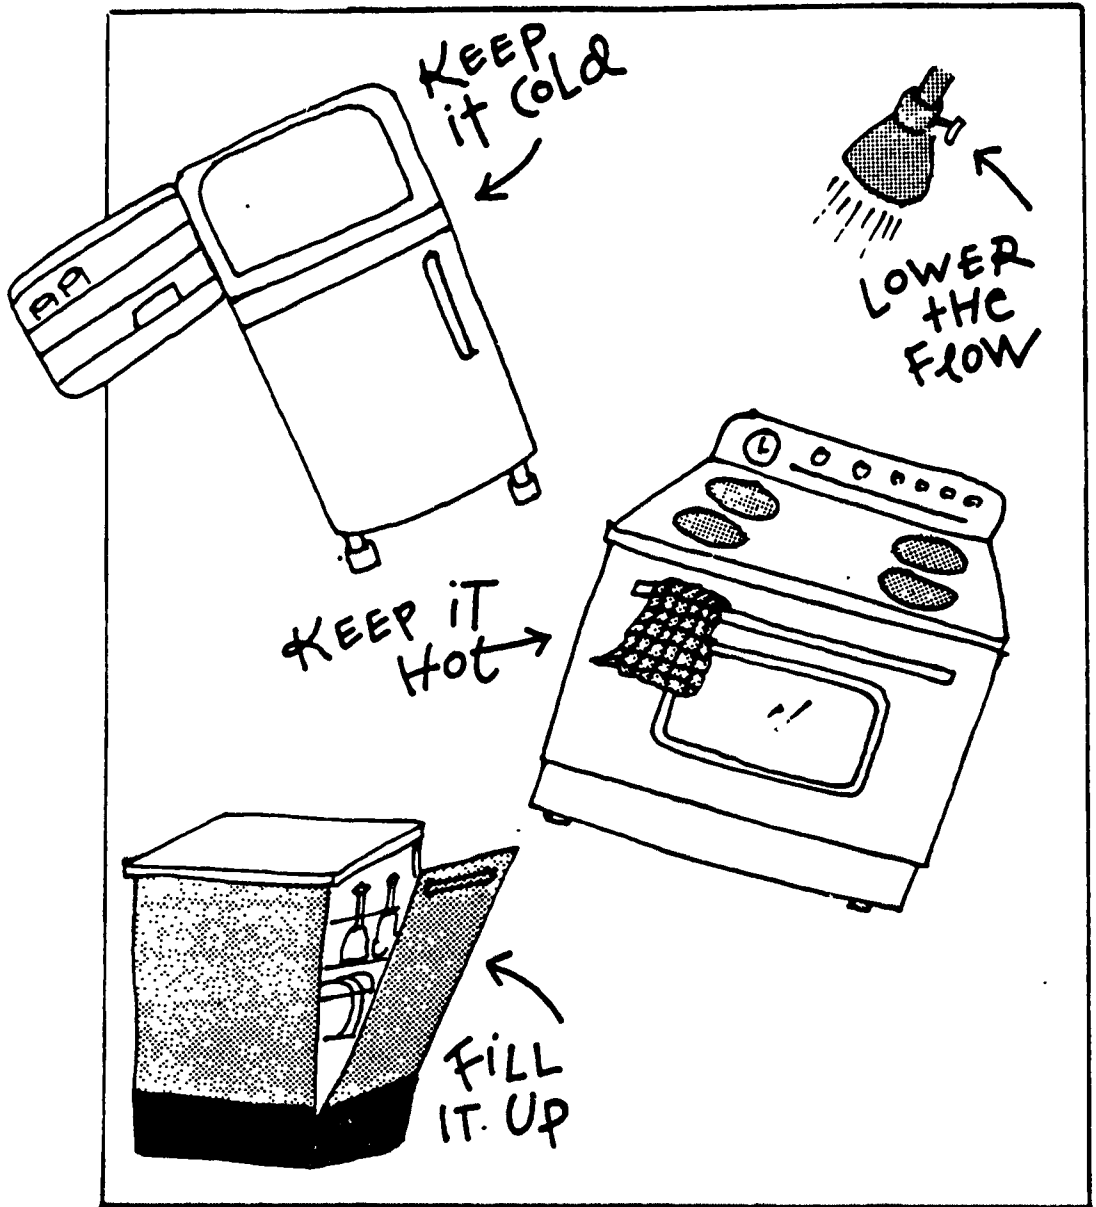

Simple, isn't it? But it's something that had to be pointed out to us, which is just what Texaco Inc. has done with its campaign, "Smart Choices," a half-hour television special produced for Public Broadcasting Service by WNET in New York. PBS stations around the country are showing the educational show, which also happens to be entertaining because of the appearance of Jeff Smith, the "Frugal Gourmet."

Here are a few of the other tips that could keep dollars in your pocket. Ice is a terrific insulator — why do you think Eskimos live in igloos? Defrost your refrigerator regularly. Still on the refrigerator, make sure the door gasket is sealing the door when closed. If worn or cracked, replace it.

Cook as much as you can at one time, making enough for leftovers. That advice can also apply even when you're entertaining. Making a pork roast? Bake a luxuriously large roast and have plenty for later cold meat platters and sandwiches. The sliced meat can also be cut into slices or silvers and added to a spicy barbecue sauce for a great barbecue sandwich.

Keep appliances clean. A dirty stove will not run efficiently and will need more energy to finally heat up. Just think of the food caked on the stove as an extra layer that the heat has to penetrate before it gets to the oven or the burners.

Run only full dishwasher loads. Hand-wash frying pans and all knives, but put everything else in one load. That fully loaded dishwasher will actually use less water than if you washed them under running water. Similarly, showers consume less water than baths, and "low-flow" shower heads can cut hot water bills by as much as $59 a year.

That last piece of advice came from Avian Rogers, the co-host and expert of the record-breaking television feature, "The Do-It-Yourself Show." Texaco has sent Rogers around the country with the message, "Let's put our energy into saving it."

While on water, Rogers suggests lowering water heater temperatures from 160 to 125 degrees Fahrenheit. This is a figure that astounds me because 160 degrees is mighty hot. But it explains a lot of near-scaldings when washing hands in other homes.

Warm and cozy, however, is how we like our homes.

"Smart Choices" points out that a small twist of the thermostat dial — downward, from 72 to 68 degrees — will reduce bills by more than $80. And that cheery fireplace? Forget it; the draft sucks more heat out of the room than the fire gives off.

Whether you're sitting in the dining room, kitchen or living room, keep the draft off your feet. That can be done in seconds. Just fill a cloth tube with sand and drop it in front of the door and stop the wind whistling in. Don't have sand? Use kitty litter.

That's how practical the advice in the program is. And there's still much more for inside your home, outside your home, and even your car.

To get a brochure outlining conservation tips, and for the "National Energy Test," write to Texaco Energy Tips, 1114 Taft, Houston, TX 77019.

Carol Cutler is the award-winning author of eight cookbooks. "Catch of the Day," published by Consumer Reports Books, is her latest.

Restaurants plan summer menu

The bustling farmlands throughout Michigan are at their producing peak in the months of July and August and this has prompted the Kruse and Muer restaurants to create a special summer menu to showcase the wonderfully fresh tastes of "Summertime in Michigan."

The special menu will be the basis for a promotion entitled "Summertime in Michigan" at both July 11 through Aug. 31 at Kruse and Muer Restaurants in the Rochester and Rochester Hills areas.

Some of the special menu items include Strawberry Spinach Salad with fresh strawberries, mushrooms, toasted almonds, and strawberry vinaigrette dressing; Homemade Basil Cheese Ravioli Primavera Alfredo — cheese filled ravioli with baby vegetables, fresh herbs and the classic sauce Alfredo; Smoked Salmon Fettucine — smoked salmon with spinach fettucine, egg cream and tomato concasse.

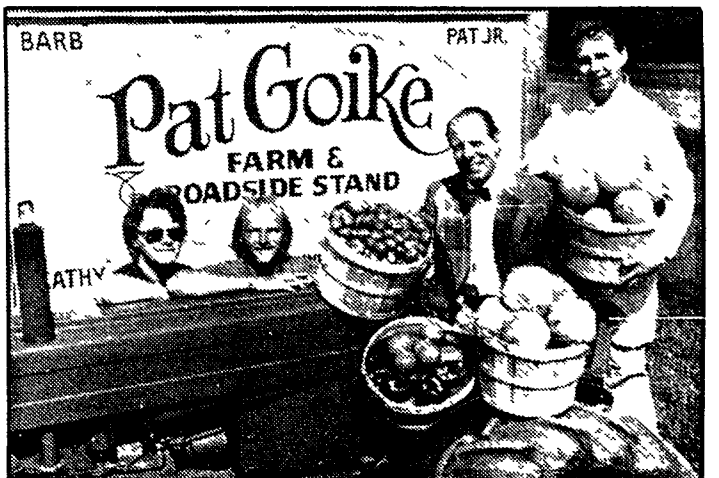

Diners will be able to choose their favorite Michigan harvest wines and "brewed in Michigan" ales to enhance their meal. And for the dessert lover there will be plenty of Michigan Apple Crisp Creme Caramel — served with Michigan's own "Ray's Ice Cream," Michigan Two Fruit Pie, Mackinac Island Fudge Ice Cream or Sander's Hot Fudge Cream Puff.

Walking the Wine

He's off and walking. Mike Mnich of Northville held a wine auction at his home last January to raise money for the Children's Hospital of Michigan. One of the auctioned lots, a backpack filled with some light-bodied, summery California wines, included a little catch. Mnich would hand deliver the backpack on foot to the high bidder's doorstep, regardless of how far he had to travel. Mnich's friends had the last laugh as practically everyone in attendance conspired to make certain that the most distant party guests, Mark and Donna Angotti of Utica, would have the high bid. Everyone chipped in for a total of $693 ($3,050 was raised that evening). Mnich planned his walk of 47 miles, which included an overnight stay at his brother's home in Royal Oak. He stepped off at 8 a.m. last Thursday, and arrived late Friday afternoon. The Angottis then hosted a dinner party for all the people who contributed to the high bid. Here, Mnich laces up his walking shoes and prepares to walk the wine.

Blueberries go way beyond muffins

By LINDA SUSAN DUDLEY
Copley News Service

We all know what to do with those cellophane-covered baskets of blueberries, don't we? We make blueberry muffins, a blueberry pie and mix them with other fruit chunks for fresh fruit salads. Then we're finished making our blueberry dishes — unless we want to start over again.

Not so fast, fruit fans. Blueberries have been discovered by cookbook authors and others in the produce world.

Take, for example, the book "Berries," by New York chef Robert Berkley. It lists 14 blueberry recipes — more than any other berry except for raspberry. And the 367-page "Fresh Fruit Desserts" by Sheryl and Mel London indexes 16 recipes that use blueberries.

Sure, there are also fruit salad and pie, but also blueberry:

- Sun-dried bagels.
- Sauces.
- Yogurt shakes.
- Cornmeal pancakes.
- Tarts, buckles and crisps.
- Curd (a sweetened puree).
- Sorbets.
- Vinegar.
- Bread and jam.
- Cakes.
- Syrups.
- Soups.
- Flummery, mousses and puddings.

And even ice cubes (put one or two blueberries or raspberries in ice cube trays, fill with water and freeze). They sound great to chill the trendy sparkling waters that are so popular.

So the familiar muffins are just the start of a rewarding culinary relationship with this fruit.

Whether fresh or frozen, this high-fiber fruit is growing in popularity. Even in season, though, they're not dirt cheap.

Blueberries are closely related to cranberries, and it was a cranberry grower, working with the U.S. Department of Agriculture, who developed commercial blueberry varieties around 1910.

The wild blueberry is native to North America, and the Indians introduced the Pilgrims to it. Blueberries, which are rich in vitamin C and have only 90 calories per cup, may be eaten fresh, but cooking greatly enhances their flavor. When you select a basket of blueberries, look for plump, fully ripened berries, dark in color with a light gray bloom.

Like all berries, they do not benefit from being kept. If you have to store them, pick them over to remove any squashed or moldy examples, but don't wash them. Keep them loosely covered in the refrigerator. Some berry growers say the fruit will last as long as two weeks in the refrigerator but try to use as soon as possible.

When you are ready to use them, rinse and drain the berries thoroughly. Remove any small stems still clinging to the fruit. One pound of blueberries equals 4 cups of fruit.

If necessary, they may be frozen. To freeze — place in a freezer container without washing, remove air, seal and freeze. When ready to use, rinse, drain and add them to recipes without defrosting.

In the following recipes, other smooth berries, such as cranberries, currants, lingonberries or gooseberries, may be substituted for blueberries. But would you really want to?

BLUEBERRY ORANGE PIE

Pie crust (see note):

- 2 cups all-purpose flour
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ¾ cup shortening
- 5 to 6 tablespoons cold water

Filling:

- ¾ cup sugar
- ¼ cup cornstarch
- 3 tablespoons orange liqueur or orange juice
- 1 ½ teaspoons grated orange peel
- 2 pints fresh blueberries, rinsed and drained

Preheat oven to 425 degrees.

To prepare pie crust, mix flour and salt in bowl.

Blend in shortening with fork. Sprinkle water over mixture, a tablespoon at a time, mixing lightly with fork just until mixture holds together. Divide into 2 balls, one slightly larger than the other. Roll larger portion to circle about 2 inches larger than diameter of pie plate. Ease into pie plate. Roll remaining pastry to a circle, ¼-inch in thickness. Set aside.

To prepare filling, mix sugar and cornstarch in bowl. Add all remaining filling ingredients. Toss until well mixed. Pour filling into bottom pie crust.

Top with pastry for top crust. Trim pastry edges with scissors or sharp knife, leaving 1-inch overhang. Fold overhang under, pinch together. Make a decorative edge on pastry. Cut a few slits in pastry to allow steam to escape. If desired, brush top crust (not edges) with a little milk for deeper browning. Bake 45 to 50 minutes or until pastry is browned.

Note: Prepared pie crust may be substituted.

BLUEBERRY ALMOND CUSTARD TART

Pastry:

- 1 cup all-purpose flour
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ¼ cup finely chopped, lightly toasted almonds
- ½ cup shortening
- ¼ teaspoon almond extract
- 2 tablespoons water

Filling:

- 1 (3-ounce) package egg custard mix
- 1 ½ cups milk

Topping:

- ½ cup sugar
- 3 tablespoons cornstarch
- Dash salt
- 1 cup water
- 1 pint fresh blueberries, rinsed and drained
- 2 tablespoons almond liqueur or ¼ teaspoon almond extract
- ½ cup heavy cream, whipped and sweetened (optional)

Preheat oven to 425 degrees. To prepare tart shell, mix flour, salt and almonds in bowl. Blend in shortening with fork. Mix extract and water; sprinkle over flour mixture. Mix lightly with a fork. If necessary, add a little more water, a teaspoon at a time, until mixture holds together.

Roll pastry into circle a little larger than 9½-inch tart pan or 9-inch pie plate. Ease pastry into tart pan; press pastry to side of pan. Trim excess pastry from top of pan. Prick pastry all over with fork. Bake 12 to 15 minutes or until pastry is browned. Place on rack.

To prepare filling, bring custard mix and milk to boil in saucepan, stirring constantly. Remove from heat. Cool, stirring occasionally, until mixture begins to thicken. Pour into tart shell.

To prepare topping, mix sugar, cornstarch and salt in saucepan. Stir in water. Bring to boil and boil 1 minute. Stir in blueberries and remove from heat. Cool to lukewarm; stir in liqueur or extract. Spoon blueberry topping over custard layer. Chill at least 1 hour. Remove side of tart pan.

If desired, garnish tart with rosettes or mounds of whipped cream just before serving.

An ice cream scoop is handy to drop muffin batter into baking cups.

BERRY-FULL BLUEBERRY MUFFINS

- 2 cups all-purpose flour
- ½ cup sugar
- 1 tablespoon baking powder
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- Grated peel of 1 lemon
- 1 egg
- 1 cup milk
- ¼ cup vegetable oil
- 1 pint fresh blueberries, rinsed and drained

Yields 12 muffins.

Preheat oven to 400 degrees. Grease 12½-inch muffin pan cups.

In large bowl, mix together flour, sugar, baking powder, salt and lemon peel. In small bowl, beat together egg, milk and oil; pour over flour mixture.

Add blueberries. Stir just until flour is moistened. (Do not overmix, which causes tough muffins.)

Spoon batter into greased muffin cups. Bake 20 to 25 minutes or until tops are golden brown. Immediately remove muffins from pan. Serve warm, if desired.

This is something different and fun (and easy to make.) Use it mixed with oil as a salad dressing and reduced and mixed with butter to make a creamy sauce for fish.

BLUEBERRY VINEGAR

- 2 pints fresh blueberries, rinsed and drained
- 1 quart white vinegar
- ½ cup sugar

At least 2 days in advance of use, make blueberry vinegar.

Place 2 pints blueberries, 1½ cups vinegar and sugar in saucepan; simmer gently for 5 minutes. Cool.

Pour into 1½-quart jar; fill jar with remaining white vinegar. Cover and let stand at least 2 days. Strain vinegar as it is used but do not discard blueberries. Store in refrigerator.

Blueberries can be used in sauces and marinades for meat or poultry or in salad dressings such as vinaigrette, sour cream or yogurt.

DOUBLE BLUE CHEESE DRESSING

- ½ pound blue cheese, about 1 cup, crumbled
- ½ cup blueberry vinegar, strained
- ½ cup oil
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon black pepper
- ¼ teaspoon garlic powder

In 16-ounce jar, shake together blue cheese, blueberry vinegar, oil, salt, pepper and garlic powder until well mixed. (If a smoother consistency is desired, whirl in electric blender until smooth.) Pour dressing into serving bowl.

BLUEBERRY UPSIDE-DOWN CAKE

- 1 quart fresh or dry-pack frozen blueberries
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- ¾ cup sugar
- 4 tablespoons shortening
- ¼ cup sugar
- 1 egg
- 1½ cups flour
- Dash of salt
- 1½ teaspoons baking powder
- ¾ cup milk

Yields 8 to 10 servings.

Wash and drain blueberries. Squeeze lemon juice over top and sprinkle with sugar. Place in bowl and set aside.

Cream shortening and sugar together. Add egg. Sift together flour, salt and baking powder. Add to shortening. Then add milk and beat for 2 minutes until smooth.

Place smoothed blueberries in 8-inch square cake pan that has been well-greased on sides. Arrange berries in even layer and smooth cake dough over berries.

Bake in preheated 350 F oven 30 minutes. When cake is done, invert on platter. Cut in squares and serve warm with plain or whipped cream.

BLUEBERRY JAM

- 2½ cups fresh or dry-pack frozen blueberries
- 3 cups sugar
- ½ cup orange juice
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- ½ (3-ounce) bottle fruit pectin

Yields 3 to 4 (6-ounce) jars.

Wash blueberries. Measure 2½ cups berries into enamel or stainless steel pan. Crush blueberries in pan. Add sugar and fruit juices. Mix well. Bring to full rolling boil and boil hard for 1 minute, stirring constantly. Remove from heat. Stir in pectin.

Seal in hot sterilized jars. Refrigerate. Storage: 2 months.

One-dish meals make life easy

These three dishes are ideal for on-the-go, nutrition-conscious cooks who want to prepare a delicious and attractive meal in minutes.

Each of the dishes — two entrees and a hearty salad — are prepared in one pan or bowl and combine ingredients commonly found in most kitchens, making them perfect for those fast-paced days when meal time is limited. Yet they are tasty and attractive, and each contains less than 450 calories per serving.

Cheese-Topped Skillet Chicken and Rice and Two-Cheese Fettuccine Primavera are surprisingly simple to prepare. Medici Cheddar Bean Salad is a zesty cold salad that blends three types of beans and chicken for a perfect stand-alone light meal or a complement for other dishes.

The dishes are lower in calories and fat because they use reduced-fat cheese as well as other lower-fat ingredients. As a bonus, a special shopping trip may not be necessary because all three recipes call for ingredients that can be found in most kitchen refrigerators and pantries.

Cheese-topped Skillet Chicken and Rice, at 440 calories a serving, is made with chicken and rice, sautéed onions and garlic, a blend of spices and topped with shredded reduced-fat mild cheddar cheese.

Two-Cheese Fettuccine Primavera, at just 400 calories a serving, includes a creamy white sauce that is made with skim milk instead of cream. It features fettuccine, sautéed onions and garlic, a delicate blend of spices, all tossed in the skim milk "cream" sauce and combined with shredded low-moisture part-skim mozzarella cheese and grated Parmesan cheese. Broccoli and red pepper are mixed with the pasta for added taste and color.

Medici Cheddar Bean Salad, at 420 calories a serving, features a popular protein-packed, three-bean combination, chicken or turkey, added spice from red pepper, salsa and onions, all combined with cubes of reduced-fat sharp Cheddar cheese. The salad can be prepared in 15 minutes and left to chill until you are ready to serve it.

CHEESE-TOPPED SKILLET CHICKEN AND RICE

- 1 cup chopped onion
- 1 garlic clove minced
- 1 tablespoon oil
- ¾ pound boneless, skinless chicken breasts, cut into 1-inch pieces
- One (14½-ounce) can tomatoes, undrained, cut up

- ½ cup cold water
- 1 teaspoon chili powder
- ½ teaspoon cumin
- ¼ teaspoon each: hot pepper sauce and salt (optional)
- 1 cup (4 ounces) shredded reduced-fat mild Cheddar cheese
- 2 tablespoons green onion slices

Saute onions and garlic in oil in 10-inch skillet. Stir in chicken, tomatoes, rice, water and seasonings.

Bring to boil. Cover; reduce heat. Simmer 20-25 minutes or until rice is tender and most of liquid is absorbed. Sprinkle with cheese and green onion. Cover 1 to 2 minutes or until cheese is melted. 4 servings.

Kids mix fun and learning in kitchen when Little Caesar's will deliver pizzas to the school. But the kids do it all. They have to figure how much pizza is needed, and collect all the money. They do all the math."

The summer classes usually draw different teachers, who design fun classes around different topics. Some of the topics tackled this summer have included arts and crafts, jewelry-making, pottery, insects and bugs, and "lots of field trips." The classes are for pre-schoolers through 10-year-olds.

The kids seem to respond very well to learning to cook, but there's little doubt about their favorite part. It's the eating they get to do afterward.

And for the parents, their favorite part comes when they hear the old familiar "Mom, I'm hungry."

They can say, "You had your cooking class, and you know where everything is. Go help yourself."

Watt's new?

John Snyder

Bridgman, Michigan—

"We've worked to make them very human, but their show is popular precisely because Jared and Velva aren't human. They're different and unique in this area."

That's Eustace Smarella's view of the humanoid news anchors, Velva and Jared, who deliver a fast-paced broadcast tour of America's energy future in Cook Energy Information Center's new "Energy 2001". Smarella is manager of the Cook Center located in Bridgman, Michigan.

"The newscast is an entertaining way to help people understand and be more aware of our important energy resources," explains Smarella. "The entire presentation — lights, video monitors, cameras, even views of the actual audience as they visit — makes the learning fun, and therefore, more memorable."

Set in Theatre I's television station in the year 2001, the news anchors explain how important renewable energy resources are to the earth's preservation in this new century. In news clips from "contributing roving humanoid reporters", visitors learn how energy is supplied in 2001 to homes and businesses.

The two humanoid stars were manufactured by Mannetron Corporation of Battle Creek. Their movements and voices are logged into a computer's digital memory, which also coordinates the TV set lighting, sound and video. The result is a smooth, approximately human TV performance.

To humanize Jared and Velva further, people at Cook Center have created complete, autographed biographies for their electronic stars. For example, Velva enjoys light rock (Electric Light Orchestra) is married and has two sons, Atom and Chip. Jared, on the other hand, is on the singles circuit and dreams of doing color commentary for the San Diego Chargers.

Despite this history, it was their robot qualities that led to the two newscasters doing "guest spot" commercials for area television stations promoting Star Trek and Star Trek—the Next Generation. (Naturally their favorite character on Star Trek—the Next Generation is the android, Lieutenant Commander Data.)

From Jared and Velva's newscast, the energy lesson moves on to Cook Center's Theatre II — a high-tech model of the adjoining Cook Nuclear Plant which uses light animation, mechanical movement, and sound to show how nuclear energy is produced.

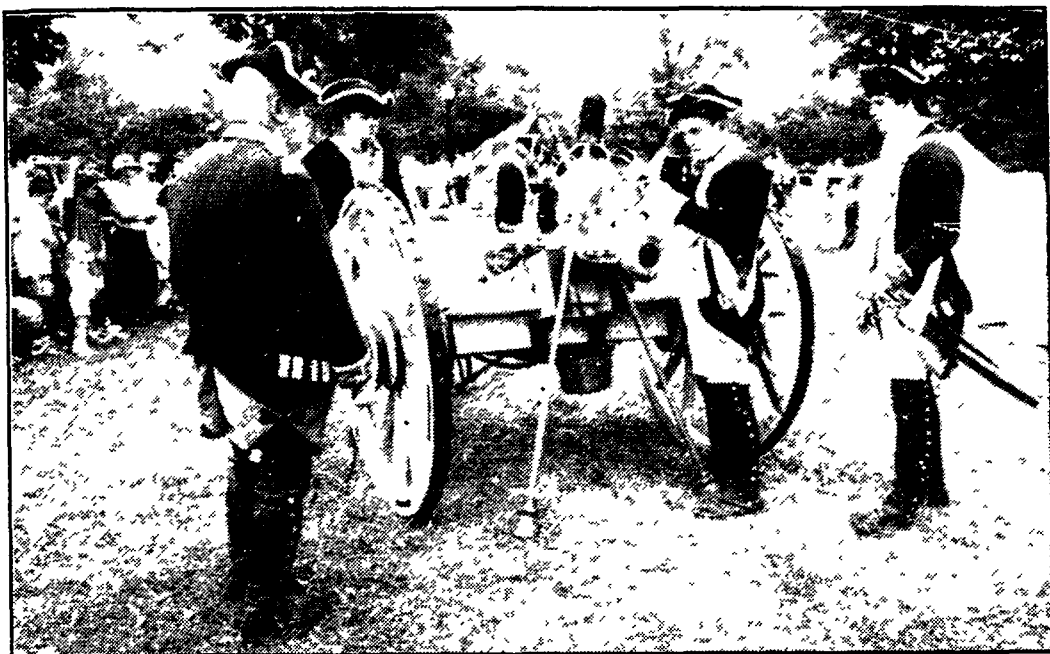

Next, Theatre III's Vistascope wide-screen film takes you on a helicopter ride along Lake Michigan and then down into the nuclear plant to witness the unique refueling process. A 'copter ride along the lines traces the electric power to the very wall switch you use every day.

Cook Center's energy education tour is then completed with a series of hands-on video games, touch-screen computers, video monitors, displays, and a panoramic view of the actual Cook Plant.

Located off Interstate 94 near Bridgman, Michigan, Cook Center is open for groups and individuals from January - May and October - December: Monday through Friday, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Summer hours are June - September: Wednesday through Saturday, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Sundays 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Closed Mondays and Tuesdays. For groups, reservations are suggested, but individual or group admission is always free!

HUMANOID NEWSCASTERS— Jared (left) and Velva, the newscast anchor team at Cook Energy Center, may have what it takes to challenge Joan Lunden and Charles Gibson for the early morning ratings lead.

LIVING HISTORY— Trappers, voyageurs and military units taking part in the Ypsilanti Heritage Festival recreate an early American experience that's both fascinating and educational.

Who needs a history book? Ypsilanti recreates its past!

Ypsilanti, Michigan—

Nestled along the tree lined banks of the Huron River, the Riverside Park grounds offer a leisurely and relaxing setting for the 13th annual Ypsilanti Heritage Festival. Arts and crafts, live entertainment and a fabulous selection of food awaits you at the popular summer festival, set for Aug. 16-18.

Wile away the hours visiting over 160 artists and crafts-people exhibiting items from exquisite jewelry to homespun country curios. Booths will be located throughout Riverside Park along the Huron River. Browsers are encouraged to attend as over 70 percent of the vendors plan to give live demonstrations of their work. Plan to come early for the best selection and a chance to see more of the many exhibits.

There are few, if any, contenders for a better downtown parade than will be witnessed on Saturday, Aug. 17 at 10 a.m. Billed as the largest of its kind in the State of Michigan, this year's Ypsilanti Heritage Parade will feature a special patriotic theme in addition to celebrating Ypsilanti's rich heritage.

Entrants in this year's spectacle include antique automobiles, restored vintage firetrucks, calliopes, marching bands, precision drill teams, clowns, horses and a variety of homemade floats representing organizations from all over Washtenaw County. Starting at Michigan Avenue and South Congress, the parade progresses through the heart of downtown Ypsilanti. It then will head south down Huron Street to Cross Street, concluding near the entrance to the festival grounds.

Who needs a history book? Experience the past as the Living History Encampment recreates life from the 1700's to 1840. Voyageurs, military troops, trappers, traders and Native Americans will all be authentically represented at the shores of the Huron River. Among the 500 expected participants this year will be crafters demonstrating their skills and offering original wares for sale. Not only does the Living Encampment appeal to the avid history buff, it provides the whole family with an educational and fascinating look into our past.

There's always plenty of musical entertainment during the Ypsilanti Heritage Festival. No matter what your taste, there's something for you. Listen to Michigan's top jazz artists perform at the Depot Town Jazz Competition. A lively Country Music Jamboree promises to attract many of the area's best traditional and progressive country performers, as well. Everyone should drop by the Riverside Dock Stage, where a variety of continuous entertainment can be found and the adjacent Children's Activity Tent will delight families with its concerts and special programs designed for the little ones in your group. And best of all... it's all absolutely free!

This year's festival also features a special presentation of the Vietnam Veterans Memorial Moving Wall. This is a traveling replica of the Vietnam Veterans Memorial in Washington, D.C. that was created so that more people would have the opportunity to share in this profoundly American experience. The Ypsilanti Heritage Festival wishes to honor the families of those members of the armed forces who made the supreme sacrifice in the service of their country. A special program of memorial services will be conducted by local chapters of various veterans organizations.

Add a historic home tour, Rubber Ducky race (to benefit P.A.L.) down the Huron River, a millionaire's party, bingo tent, jitterbug dance contest, a 10K, 5K, and 1 mile fun run and an antique car show for a weekend full of fun and excitement. And do arrive hungry. There's a smorgasbord awaiting your appetite - from elephant ears to pancakes to grilled chicken.

For more information, contact the Ypsilanti Area Visitors and Convention Bureau at 313-482-4920 or call the Events Hotline at 313-930-6300.

Lake Erie's hot spot great bay to put into

Julie Candler

Allen Hayes

It took us three hours by car and ferryboat to get from Birmingham, Michigan to the popular boater's destination at Put-In-Bay on South Bass Island in Ohio. Yet an owner of a small boat that cruises at 20 to 25 knots can make it here from Downriver Detroit in an hour and a half.

On a balmy Friday afternoon in June, we watch a Toledo couple pull alongside one of the Crew's Nest's docks in their 40-foot Chris Craft. Their trip took two and a half hours at about 15 knots.

The charterers of a 63-foot Hatteras report that they get to Put-In-Bay from Detroit in about three hours.

Many Michigan boaters come here to enjoy the charms of this little haven among the American Lake Erie islands. It was here that Commodore Oliver Perry was based in 1813, the time of the naval battle establishing the United States' domination of these waters. On a clear day, boaters 25 miles away can see the 352-foot tower of the Perry's Victory and International Peace Memorial. It stands on a 25-acre site within walking distance of the municipal docks. The national monument welcomes visitors daily from early May through late October.

The nearby village of Put-in-Bay is still time-warped in the 19th century. Homes and stores built more than 100 years ago still shelter their occupants and grace the town. Its 400 wintertime residents are served by one gas station and one grocery store.

But in May the action begins. Owners reopen their restaurants, shops and watering-holes for the annual invasion of summer visitors.

Families are drawn here. Children can enjoy playgrounds, picnicking, camping, swimming, and biking. Among the child-pleasers are old-fashioned ice cream parlors, fudge shops and candy stores. An authentic 1917 merry-go-round (one of 185 left in the country with carved wooden horses) draws young and old with the cheerful whistle and thump of its vintage calliope.

The environment pleases because cars are discouraged on the island. Visitors get around on rented golf carts, bikes and bicycle rickshaws and a few vintage cars. Rolling trains provide island tours and permit stop-offs at major points of interest. Just plain walking is a joy, and available at the best price of all: nothing.

"We used to cruise over here with our children," says Marianne Lee, of Tiffin, Ohio. "Now that they're grown, the two of us come back for the entertainment." Lee and her husband, Bob, are late Friday arrivals via a 23-foot Crutchfield they keep docked at Port Clinton. It takes them half an hour to breeze over for good food and music at Put-In-Bay night spots. We meet the Lees at what is billed as the world's longest bar, in the Beer Barrel Saloon. It makes the Guinness Book of Records for its length of 400 feet, forming a 100-foot front and winding around three rectangles at the back.

People rave about the entertainment at the Beer Barrel. From 9:30 p.m. to 12:30 a.m. Friday and Saturday nights, Patrick Huston Dailey, folk-singer and guitarist, injects comedy into verbal ramblings between his numbers. (There's a $4 cover charge.) Marianne Lee is such a fan that she named her dog "Dailey."

Live bands play other nights, and from 2 to 6 p.m. on Saturdays and most Sundays.

Live bands also play for dancing and entertainment at most of the pubs within an easy walk of the docks. At 3 p.m. on a Friday in June, a crowd is already gathering at The Round House, a quaint circular structure with a cupola and high, Victorian-era windows.

It has stood in downtown Put-In-Bay since 1867. Guests at tables on the popular bar's front porch can look out on the harbor and Lake Erie. The story is that The Round House's wooden floor had to be replaced recently because all the beer spilled in more than 100 years had rotted it out.

There's no food served at The Round House, but you can dine on poulet next door at The Chicken Patio.

The nearby Boathouse restaurant and nightclub is a favorite of Lila Hegazi of Plymouth and friends who visit Put-In-Bay with her. "Their sandwiches are marvelous," he says. Others praise the Boathouse's Lake Erie perch.

By 5:30 p.m. on Friday, there's hardly a seat left at another popular spot, Frosty Bar and Family Pizza. Affectionately known as Frosty's, its lively interior needs only a set of swinging doors to duplicate a 1950's Western.

We recommend the food at The Boardwalk, where you can enjoy their

Historic brig revisits scene

Returning this summer to the scene of the eventful battle that secured her place in the history books will be Commodore Perry's brig Niagara. She is the only remaining brig from the War of 1812, and will be at Put-In-Bay September 7 to 9.

WORLD'S LONGEST BAR—Here's the longest section of the 400-foot bar at the Beer Barrel Saloon. Thirsty patrons can belly up to other sections that wind around the back of the Put-In-Bay watering hole.

seafood specialties at a picnic table overlooking the water. Umbrellas shade guests who choose to sit on one of the outdoor decks.

At the Crescent Tavern a live band plays for dancing starting at 5:30 every night but Tuesday. The scene reflects the 1870's, when the place was built—a beautiful old bar, and a century-old hardwood dance floor beneath a tin ceiling. A singer-guitarist entertains on the Tavern's patio while drinks are served from a nearby gazebo.

Despite all the pubs, the village maintains order with strict enforcement of the Ohio open container law, prohibiting consumption of alcoholic beverages in public places. A boater who steps one foot off the docks with an open beer bottle risks jail. (Credit cards are accepted for bail.) A homegrown supply of wine is available at Heineman's Winery and Crystal Cave, one of the stops on the island tour. (The island is dotted with vineyards.)

The island is dotted with excellent bed and breakfasts and hotels, although most are booked until September. (For information, call 419-285-2832.) Camping at the state park at the island's northwest corner is $7 per day. Fisherpeople catch walleye, smallmouth bass, perch and catfish in Lake Erie, and can find bait and tackle at island stores.

Nearby Kelley's Island is also a popular resort area about six miles from Put-In-Bay, with downtown marinas, a rich history and the world's largest glacial grooves.

If you're coming by boat, remember that Lake Erie's shallow waters can become choppy and hazardous in high winds. Boaters should check marine weather reports before heading for the island. Navigational charts are essential to avoid Erie's shoals.

It's also best to arrive during the week. Some docking facilities require that transients seeking hard-to-find weekend spaces purchase memberships.

The Boardwalk Marina

(419-285-6183) has a waiting list to join, at $335 per year. But daily transients can dock here for $1.25 a foot per day during the week. It costs $2400 to join the Crew's Nest Club (419-285-3625.) Members can use its two tennis courts, swimming pool, Victorian clubhouse and restaurant as well as its 95 docks. Yearly dues are $682. But non-member mid-week transients can use the club's facilities by paying the dockage rate, ranging from $40 to $125 per day, depending on boat length.

The Put-In-Bay Yacht Club has social, recreational and boating memberships, sponsors regattas and sailing classes for juniors and adults. No dockage is available, but the club welcomes applicants, who may write to them at P.O. Box 51, Put-In-Bay, Ohio 43456.

The scene at the municipal dock, operated by the Village of Put-In-Bay is wall-to-wall power boats, rafted everywhere three and four deep. Weekenders in bikinis and swim trunks are draped all over them.

We meet Frank Gladowski, a handsome bachelor from Grosse Ile, who made it here in his 1967 Slickcraft in one and a half hours. A frequent summer visitor to Put-In-Bay, Frank met a girl from Toledo on these docks a year ago. This is the first anniversary of that momentous meeting, and they are celebrating with friends.

As assistant dockmaster Ian Fenberg says, "Everybody here gets to know each other real well."

Plan a retreat into summer

Iris Jones

The setting was Pine Mountain State Park in Kentucky, but it could have been anywhere with basic accommodations in a wooded setting out of sight of the twentieth century.

The players were 10 writers who had been friends and business associates for a long time and wanted to spend a week working and relating together, but it could have been any sisterhood, any brotherhood, any group of friends or associates with a common purpose.

The action was a retreat, a way to get away from the everyday world to do what you want to do with people you want to be with.

The stars of this movie are not family members, although a retreat setting is also a great setting for a family reunion. They are not workmates either, unless the players are there to make decisions or get to know one another in an out-of-office setting.

Retreats are for people of like mind who want to focus on something, whether it's religion or bridge or business decisions or just getting away from it all.

Whatever the purpose, the location should meet certain basic requirements. It should be different from the settings you find at home, preferably slightly rustic and wooded so that you get away from the hustle of the everyday world.

The 10 members of the Detroit Women Writers who spent that week together in Kentucky defined their needs at a preliminary meeting:

They wanted a place far enough away from home that they couldn't be pulled back by the everyday demands of work or family; a place where each writer could have a private workplace by day and the group could get together informally at night; a natural setting for walking through the woods; cooking facilities for breakfast and lunch, but a restaurant nearby for those who chose not to cook.

At Pine Mountain State Park Resort we had five two-bedroom cabins clustered within walking distance of one another. There was a lodge nearby for those who wanted to eat out, woods to walk in, no distractions.

It was a wonderful week full of private work and public sisterhood. It cost us $35 a night each for accommodation, plus food and other expenses.

The cost was much less when a larger group of writers went to another kind of retreat this summer at Emrich Conference Center near Brighton, Michigan. In this case we wanted a rustic setting close to the metro Detroit area for a weekend. Nobody really expected to put many words on paper, although a few did.

Emrich is a cluster of red wooded buildings spread across a field of grass in the woods. Each room has two or three single beds. No telephone or television there. Each of us brought our own bedding and towels and made our own beds.

Three good meals were prepared for us each day, so none of us did any cooking. We planned a few structured seminars and lots of do-it-yourself time for people to explore their own individual wants...trekking through the woods...brain-storming a writing problem. The cost was less than $30 a day per person including three hearty meals.

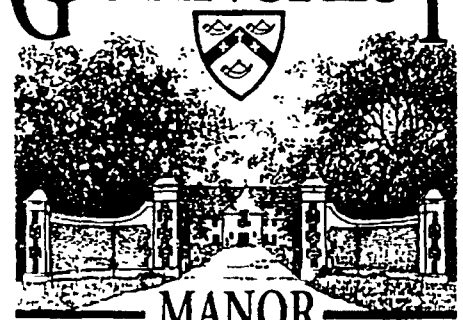

How do you choose your retreat setting? There are state parks with cabins and lodges in Ohio, Indiana and Kentucky, if you want to duplicate our first experience. There are wooded conference centers all over the Midwest if you like the very rustic second experience I described.

But don't stop there. University campuses are good choices for some groups. Consider Grand Valley in western Michigan or the University of Western Ontario in Ontario, Canada. Accommodations are basic, rates are low, obviously the setting is more appropriate to study or for meetings than total relaxation.

Almost every hotel or inn makes arrangements for small groups, so your choices are unlimited. I advise you to stay with relaxed natural settings. The only rule: create just enough structure to do what you want to do and not a scrap more.

County gardeners show off bloomers

Kalamazoo, Michigan—

Floral fanciers will once again be able to enjoy the Kalamazoo County Flowerfest, July 24-28, in celebration of the county's contribution to the horticulture industry. The colorful celebration of annual bedding plants will involve downtown Kalamazoo, Portage City Center area, and surrounding county communities.

Kalamazoo County, the nation's largest producer of bedding plants, showcased its first Flowerfest in 1984 and, in 1991, will celebrate its eighth anniversary. The four-day tribute to gardeners' and nature's beauty attracts thousands of people with its numerous cultural events. The festival incorporates floral sculptures, displays, live entertainment, garden tours, herbal and floral demonstrations, art exhibits, and much more.

Each year the festival follows a specific theme and in 1991 Flowerfest's master gardener, Betsy Valentine, is promoting "See Our Bloomers" (meaning flowers.) In downtown Kalamazoo, more than 96,000 bedding plants have been planted for residents and visitors to see and enjoy.

For more information, call 616-381-4003. Kalamazoo is located in southwest Michigan along Interstate 94, about midway between Detroit and Chicago.

FLOWERFEST CENTERPIECE— This floral peacock on display in Kalamazoo's Bronson Park during Flowerfest is made entirely of bedding plants. Floral fanciers can picnic nearby.

Museum acquires Frank Lloyd Wright window

Toledo, Ohio—

The Toledo Museum of Art announces the acquisition of a leaded glass window designed about 1912 by Frank Lloyd Wright for the Avery Coonley Playhouse in Riverside, Illinois. On permanent exhibition, the window is both the first example of 20th-century leaded glass and the first design by Wright to enter the Museum's collection.

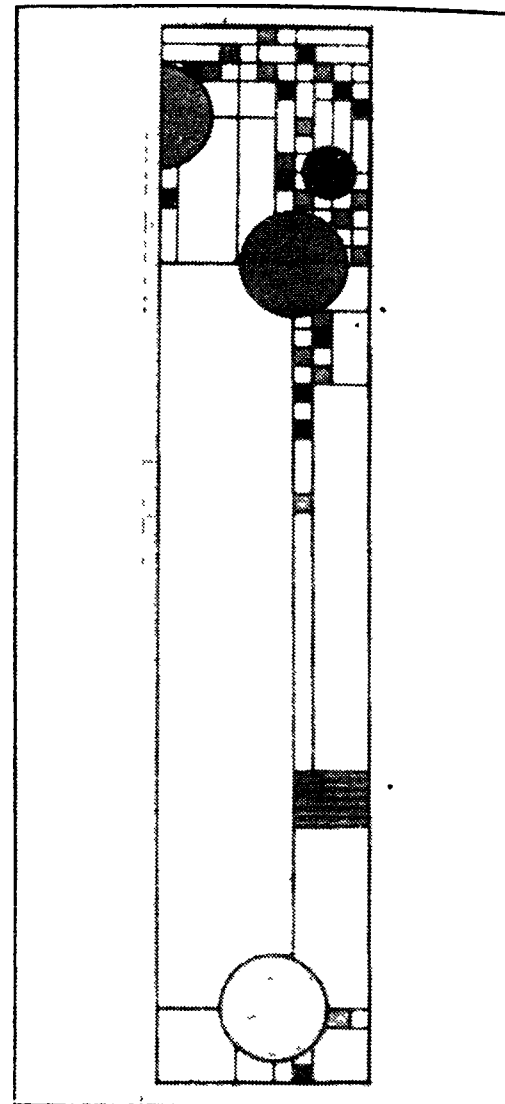

The Coonley Playhouse, which Wright designed for Mr. and Mrs. Avery Coonley after completing the scheme for their residence in 1907, was an independent structure on their Riverside estate that was used as a school. It is considered one of Wright's masterpieces, chiefly because of its extraordinary windows.

Like the more than 40 other windows in the Playhouse, all of which were removed in the 1950s, the theme of this window is a parade with its geometric forms representing balloons, flags, and confetti. Unlike Wright's other architectural commissions that contained major art glass programs, each window from the Coonley Playhouse is a unique composition. Only one other window of a similar size exists, but it has a different composition and color range.

The window is significant within

Wright's career because it is one of his earliest and most dramatic, asymmetrical designs in glass. It is one of the few times he used primary colors in his decorative designs, perhaps reflecting the influence of contemporary non-objective European painters such as Francis Picabia and Frank Kupka. The Toledo Museum of Art is open Tuesday-Saturday, 10 a.m. - 4 p.m.; Sunday, 1-5 p.m.; closed Mondays and major holidays. The Museum is located at 2445 Monroe Street at Scottwood Avenue, just west of the downtown business district and one block off I-75 with exit designations posted. Call 419-255-8000 for more information.

WRIGHT WINDOW—The architect was said to have been so enamored with the window's playful motif that he called it "kindersymphony" (symphony for children).

'Hometown USA' celebrates past with 3-day fest

Northville, Michigan—

Historic Northville will celebrate its heritage with a nostalgia filled three-day event—the Northville Victorian Festival.

This year's festival takes place Sept. 13-15. Downtown Northville will be transformed through costumes and turn-of-the-century games and entertainment for a weekend of old-fashioned family fun.

First settled in 1825, Northville still exemplifies "Hometown U.S.A." With several family-owned businesses established as early as 1907 still in operation, it's not uncommon to find two or even three generations working side by side in downtown stores.

Mill Race Historical Village is located on the outskirts of downtown and features an interesting array of circa 1900 buildings that represent the early stages of Northville's development.

The east end of Main Street features the Northville well, where folks still come from miles around to fill jugs by the gallon with fresh, delicious water. Henry Ford's original "cottage industry" plant is located near the well, and while no longer operational, it provides a pleasing back-drop to a large number of waterfowl that call Northville home.

Other points of interest include Northville Down harness race track; Parmenter's Cider Mill, one of the state's oldest which offers cider and crafts September through November; the newly restored Marquis Theatre; and nearby Maybury State Park, where outdoor recreation is available year round.

Northville is easily accessible via Interstates 96 and 275 and M 14. Call 313-349-7640 for Northville tourism information.

Hessel boat show a floating classic

Hessel, Michigan—

As many as 170 wooden boats—classics ranging in age from 30 to 90-plus years, from as far away as California and Florida—float proudly in the annual Antique Wooden Boat Show and Festival of Arts at Hessel.

Set this year for Saturday, Aug. 10, the boat show features vessels ranging from powerboats and sailboats to dinghies, launches, cruisers and canoes. Most are deeply varnished, highly polished mahogany jewels, bearing such historic names as Chris-Craft, Gar Wood, Hacker and Century.

The Festival of Arts features the works of 50 artists and folk dancing and songs. A ferryboat tour of the islands and the landing of 12 costumed voyageurs in a 34-foot replica of a seventeenth-century voyageur canoe round out the festival.

Hessel is located east of Interstate 75 on M-134 in Michigan's Upper Peninsula, about 315 miles from Detroit, 425 miles from Chicago.

Rebs, yanks square off in 2 battle reenactments

Jackson, Michigan—

Few events in the history of the United States had as great an impact as the Civil War. Many of this country's present laws, customs, and folklore may be traced back to this period.

On Aug. 24-25, the Cascades Civil War Muster will be held as a Memorial to this critical period in American history. The largest Civil War reenactment in the Midwest, the Civil War Muster introduces visitors to the armies, battles, and people who played instrumental roles in the struggle to save the Union.

The Cascades Civil War Muster includes two battle reenactments, a Union and Confederate camp, reenactments of civilian life, a music festival, an arts and crafts show, a Civil War gun show, and a military ball.

The battles, which are planned to be as historically accurate as possible, are by far the most popular events. One is always won by the Union, the other by the Confederacy. Visitors will also witness reenactments of civilian life, an 1860's church service and school, a battalion drill, and artillery and cavalry demonstrations.

A fine arts and crafts show features the work of some of the country's best artists and craftspeople, while the country music festival has become a traditional favorite. One of the highlights of the weekend is the military ball, complete with a string band and period costumes. Visitors will feel as though they have stepped into a scene from Gone With The Wind.

Since its inception in 1983, the Cascades Civil War Muster has become a tradition in Jackson. For those who would like to become more familiar with the people and events that shaped the Civil War and view "living history," the Cascades Civil War Muster is a "don't miss" event. Tour groups are welcome and most events are free. Call 517-788-4320 for more information.

Jackson is located along Interstate 94, about 60 miles west of Detroit.

What's new in old things along the Sunrise Side

Jean Day

Not the least of the attractions on the Sunrise Side of Michigan are the many antique and collectibles shops located in almost every town along the U.S. 23 on the Lake Huron shoreline.

If you're a lighthearted collector of, say, teacups, souvenir spoons, decoys, glassware or vintage clothing, you can combine a vacation trip with lots of browsing amidst a wide variety of merchandise.

You might begin, as we did, by leaving the I-75 north of Bay City at the junction of M-13 and stopping at Country Folk Creations on M-13 in Pinconning. Owner Robert Pelton has a goodly number of consignment booths. Consignees on duty the day we stopped pointed out that having so many ensured a changing variety of merchandise.

This is a good spot for collectors of railroad and shipwreck items, Pelton's specialty.

One booth held many teacups and saucers; others had glassware and woodcrafts, both painted and unpainted.

I purchased a framed piece of scissor art which the consignee was quick to make sure I realized was not antique. I appreciated the honesty but feel I have a fine example of this craft.

Pelton's Country Folk Creations at 3726 N. Huron Road, Pinconning, is open all year Monday through Saturday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Sunday, from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. It's a good place to pick up a free map of antique shops in northeast Michigan.

Next stop is just south of the intersection of U.S. 23 and M-13 three miles south of Standish. Jim and Virginia Wells keep their antiques barn filled with oak, walnut and primitive furniture open all year. J & V Flea Market is open May 1 through Nov. 1 Saturdays, Sundays and holidays.

A feature of the flea market is the booth along the roadside filled with clay pots of herbs—171 varieties, according to the sign.

My flea market purchase was a necklace of three strands of beads in varied shades of pink. It probably was from the '40s, but I couldn't go wrong for $1. Recently, costume jewelry has been popular at the various flea markets I've visited.

In Omer there's Cody's flea market and, across the street, the Quilt Patch. Open from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. May 1 to Nov. 1 browsers will find a general line of antiques and collectibles.

As you approach Au Gres, watch for Michigan Avenue on the right. Nick's Wood Shop is housed in a delightful Victorian home at 134 Michigan and features furniture.

Stripping and refinishing is done in the back room for customers.

When we visited in June, a large collection of spear fishing decoys was on display along with some contemporary shore bird carvings and many desks, mostly of the 1920 vintage.

My friend who has a cottage in Au Gres solved her storage problem with a large armoire she found here.

Also in Au Gres at 611 E. Michigan is The Second Time Around in another Victorian house, this one shaded by a giant chestnut tree.

Open seven days a week from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. the shop is crammed with china of all kinds, mirrors and varied collectibles. Here I found a pair of Delft crocus pots with familiar blue designs for $3 each.

Rounding the bend at Alabaster, you'll find the Alabaster Flea Market open on Friday, Saturday and Sunday. New in 1990 the market still is seeking dealers. Last year it was worth my stop as a dealer in vintage clothing featured lovely items, including a blue embroidered nightgown in a 1910 style.

Next door is Alabaster Corners with old tools, glassware and china sharing space with gifts and Christmas merchandise. When we stopped, a most unusual collectible was a red lacquer Oriental table with green leather top for $125.

Coming into Tawas City, watch for Uncle Winnie's in Bruggers Plaza four blocks south of the M-55 intersection.

This is the largest antiques emporium on the Sunrise Side with consignment booths filled with a wide variety of antiques and collectibles. Many are most attractive as room settings. Fostoria glass was noted last month in one booth. Another contained a 1940s cocktail shaker and glasses. An old wedding gown and a fur jacket were spotted in others.

The conversation piece, however, is right inside the front door: an AUTHOR'S CHOICE— Jean Day's Sunrise Side hunt for antiques netted her beads from J & V Flea Market, crocus bowls from Second Time Around, lamp from Uncle Winnie's and sugar bowl from Nuffer's Sunrise Antiques.

EVERYTHING UNDER THE SUN—Country Folk Creations in Pinconning specializes in shipwreck and railroad items and offers a changing variety of assorted merchandise in consignment booths.

incredibly carved Earhart pump organ made in Chicago. It was priced at $1,600.

Not on the shoreline, but 12 miles west of Tawas on M-55 is a longtime shop, Karry's Antiques. Mrs. Bert Karry has operated the shop for years and is known for having lots of glassware. The shop is open all year from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Continuing north, at the south edge of Oscoda, look for Hobart's Antique Mall in the back building of Hobart's Plaza. One of the five dealers specializes in antiquarian books. Before we left, we had acquired a book on fishing and one on the last works of English poet A. E. Housman.

Turn right at the downtown traffic light in Oscoda, and you'll find A Summer Place at 118 E. River Road with antiques and collectibles. Glass is a specialty. The shop is open from May to October, Tuesdays through Saturdays from noon to 5 p.m., by chance otherwise.

Nearby at 110 Park Street is Wooden Nickel Antiques with primitives, advertising memorabilia, furniture and glass. The shop is open daily except Tuesday from noon to 5 p.m. during the summer.

Inside the Wooden Nickel is Joan Shively's Cottage Antiques and Stencils. In addition to custom stencils and supplies, she features quilts.

One block south and three blocks west of the downtown Oscoda traffic light is Riverview Antiques at 308 Dwight. Alonzo Sherman, who carries a general line of antiques, says, "Just ring the door bell" as there are no signs.

Continuing north to Greenbush, watch for 1823 Sunrise Drive right beside Greenbush Golf Course. Don and Sandy Nuffer's shop is at the end of the road; they are conscientious about "open" or "closed" notices on their sign on U.S. 23.

In addition to primitives and furniture, the Nuffers have china and other "small." When I stopped in June, Sandy Nuffer had acquired some nice silverplated Victorian sugar bowls and a tea set. She noted that old silverplate is becoming popular with collectors.

Another reason to make this stop is Sandy's bunches of baby's breath and German statice that are very reasonably priced.

Good eating: Readers recommend favorite Great Lakes restaurants

The next time you work up a mighty appetite cruising down Interstate 94, take Jane Butler's advice: There's good eating ahead at Jackson's Brandy Wine Pub and Kalamazoo's Black Swan Inn.

Jane, a Great Lakes Getaway gourmet from Hillsdale, Michigan, heartily recommends the Brandy Wine for its diverse, reasonably-priced menu, which features several fresh fish entrees daily. Salads are crisp and the vegetables are steamed to order.

The casual roadhouse setting is enhanced by an interior done in barnwood siding, brick walls and original Tiffany lamp shades. The wait staff is consistently courteous and friendly, she reports.

"There's never any bad surprises at the Brandy Wine, it's always excellent," Jane says.

Meal prices, excluding drinks, are in the $10-$15 per person range. The Brandy Wine Pub (517-783-2777) is located at 2125 Horton Rd., Jackson, Michigan.

Jane describes the Black Swan Inn as "a lovely place, graceful and gracious." Overlooking a small lake in the secluded Parkview Hills section of Kalamazoo, the restaurant's top rate staff serves up American and "Creative Cuisine."

Expect to pay $15 and more for superbly prepared dishes such as Beef Wellington, Veal Oscar and Sole Mousseline, Jane says. The Black Swan Inn (616-375-2105) is located on Greenleaf Circle in southwest Kalamazoo.

And while you're eating your way through southern Michigan, don't miss the Clinton Hotel on US-12 in downtown Clinton.

That's the word from Ethel Culver of Plymouth, Michigan, who raves about the eatery's lunch and Sunday brunch selections.

Brunch features the likes of medallions of chicken breast over spinach, and veal smothered in delicious sauces, in addition to omelets cooked to order and other hearty breakfast dishes, Ethel says.

Lunch and brunch is served up fast and friendly and costs less than $10 per person. The century-old Clinton Hotel (517-456-4151) retains its original floor and many original fixtures.

Heading to northern Michigan again this summer? A meal at Hermann's European Cafe in Cadillac is an absolute must, says bed and breakfast owner Vickie Essenmacher.

"We have guests who come to Cadillac for the sole purpose of dining at Hermann's! Who can blame them for returning time and time again to try entrees such as Fettucini Morello, Sautéed Duck Breast ala Normande

Toward the top of the Sunrise Side in downtown Alpena are four antiques shops located on Second Avenue.

Across from the Thunder Bay Theater is the Avery Park Antique Mall which has collectible offerings of four to six dealers. Hours are 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Saturday and noon to 5 p.m. Sunday.

Beside the theater is Thomas McKeever's Artis Books featuring used out-of-print and rare books as well as maps and prints. Open Monday through Saturday.

At Thunder Bay Antiques at 109 N. Second fine glassware, china and furniture are sold. At Country Cupboard, 102 N. Second, antiques, collectibles, old medicine bottles and pharmacy items are sold along with country gifts in an old general store. It's open Monday through Saturday from 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m.

As you drive north along Lake Huron, you'll enjoy a bonus of water views even if you haven't found an antique treasure. Tawas Bay is popular with sailing enthusiasts who race most every weekend; the Oscoda area shoreline usually is populated with Canada geese and sea gulls; and U.S. 23 gently rises toward Harrisville to offer an overview of this Great Lake. *Jean Day is a journalist and free lance writer who retired as editor of the Northville Record, a weekly newspaper in Michigan. MAGIC AND MERRIMENT— Children's activities, including hands-on science, preschool fun, sidewalk games and folklife traditions, will be presented weekend days during the Michigan Festival. (Photo by Timothy Trumble).

Michigan Festival — Fab, folky family fun

East Lansing, Michigan—

The Michigan Festival returns to present its fifth annual celebration of the arts and Michigan folklife traditions Aug. 9-18. One of the state's premier arts festivals, the 1991 Michigan Festival is expected to attract more than 350,000 people to East Lansing and the campus of Michigan State University.

The festival features four weekend days of family entertainment with more than 200 performances on six stages, and 10 evening concerts with some of the nation's top headline acts. This year festival attendees will be able to enjoy a variety of musical styles from four time Grammy Award winner Bonnie Raitt on Aug. 9 to two of soft rock's most popular bands, Air Supply and the Little River Band on Aug. 18.

Some highlights of the weekend, daytime events are a children's parade and talent show, a live chess match with costumed celebrities, a musical saw player's convention, a forum on Native American writers, and a '50s street dance. Other popular activities include hands on arts projects and science experiments for children, walking tours of the MSU campus, and performance's by Michigan's favorite musical, dance and theatrical groups.

The MSU Museum Festival of Michigan Folklife, one of the Michigan Festival's most unique components, will have a theme of wood-related traditions this year. Native American drummers will open the folklife festival with sacred songs of the forest. Then various tradition bearers will demonstrate their particular skills. There will be lumberjacks rolling logs, Amish furniture makers creating hickory chairs, a German-American family making tree cakes and mushroom hunters with some new recipes for preparing morels.

A 1991 Michigan Festival button admits a person to all 10 days of festival events. Children 6 years old and under are admitted free. Buttons are $12 in advance and are available at Quality Dairy Stores in the greater Lansing area, and all Kroger stores and AAA full-service branches statewide. Button prices increase to $15 during the festival. For more information, or a free brochure, call the Michigan Festival office at 517-351-6620.

Alpenfest

Gaylord, Michigan—

Gaylord, northern Michigan's "Alpine Village," dons its Alpine attire July 16–20 for a fun-filled, Swiss-flavored celebration. Liederhosen, dirndls, blumenkrantz and Bavarian music are as familiar as baseball and apple pie during Alpenfest.

Up to 40,000 people join in the fun. On the first night of Alpenfest, the Sechselauten Celebration (6 p.m., Tuesday ringing of the bells) beckons one and all to the center of town for the opening of the Alpenstrasse. The Alpenstrasse, three blocks of downtown Gaylord closed to auto traffic for the festival, is now officially opened with much fanfare.

Later that evening is the burning of the Boogg, an adaptation of a Swiss custom. People write their troubles on a slip of paper and then place the paper inside the Boogg, which is a 10-foot-high, 300-pound monster. Troubles go up in smoke when the Boogg is burned.

During the festival you'll find the Pfannekuchen and Wuerstchen (pancakes and sausage) breakfast, an open air, all you can eat free breakfast on the Alpenstrasse. Sausage and sauerkraut supper and die Groste Kaffee Pause, or more suitably, the World's Largest Coffee Break (free coffee and doughnuts) are other festival food celebrations. The coffee break follows the 9 a.m. Wednesday walking parade, a promenade of Gaylord's citizenry in Bavarian dress.

Entertainment on the Strasse appeals to all ages and tastes. Selling their wares are basket weavers, glass blowers, potters, photographers and many others. Downtown restaurants become outdoor cafes during Alpenfest. Not to be missed is Ethnic Alley with its international offerings of Italian, Oriental, Polish, Mexican and American foods.

There are a variety of events for children (diaper derby, money scramble, three-legged races, etc.) and for adults (the knee and ankle contests, waiter/waitress relay, and many more.) Culminating the festival is the Grand Parade at 4:30 p.m. Saturday.

For more information on Alpenfest, call 517-732-4000 or 800-342-9567 (in Michigan.)

Gaylord is located on Interstate 75, about 225 miles north of Detroit.

Canoe mecca welcomes paddlers of all levels to AuSable River Fest

Grayling, Michigan—

America's oldest, longest and most challenging canoe race is the focal point of Grayling's AuSable River Festival, set for the July 25-28.

An international field of paddlers compete on the AuSable River in a grueling 120-mile race from Grayling to Oscoda, on the shores of Lake Huron.
The race begins in Grayling at dusk on Saturday, July 27 with an exciting LeMans-style run to the river. Two person teams then paddle at 60-90 strokes per minute for the entire 15 hours.

Paddlers battle darkness, the river's natural obstacles, and six hydroelectric dam portages before finishing just before noon on Sunday in Oscoda. Even spectators have a tough time following the marathon by car all night long.

Other racing events, some for novice racers or just for the fun, are scheduled during the weekend. A fine art and country craft show with more than 80 artists offers much diversity for discriminating buyers.

Families wishing to beat the summer heat can camp at one of Michigan's largest state parks, Hartwick Pines. The Pines feature Old Time Days on July 27-28, with a working, vintage 1900, lumber village in operation.

JUST FOR FUN— Recreational canoeists will find plenty of activities during the AuSable River
Festival, which also features
America's longest and most challenging canoe race.

For more information on the AuSable River Festival and Grayling accommodations, call 800-937-8837.

Grayling is located along Interstate 75 and US-27 in central northern Michigan.

'It's A Scream'

by David DeBoy

"It's A Scream" is a horribly funny comedy that takes place in the fifties. Spencer Pierce, who has recently inherited his father's film studio, has no experience in running a film studio (naturally). But, he thinks he knows better than his late father, how to produce commercial movies. The studio specializes in horror films, and their biggest star is Alexander Moreau, a Karloff/Price/Carradine soft of actor, whose mansion this comedy takes place in.

Spencer has come to Moreau's house to inform him that the studio is not renewing his contract because the public no longer wants Moreau's kind of horror film. Moreau, suave and undeterred, offers to demonstrate that he is still one scary guy. His proposition: If he can scare Spencer out of his wits, Spencer will renew his contract and give him creative control of his films. How Moreau pulls it off provides the lion's share of the fun in this comedy/thriller.

VICTORIAN SHOWCASE— Once the dream house of a wealthy industrialist, the 38-room Barker Mansion features seven fireplaces, 10 bathrooms and a backyard Italian sunken garden.

Turn-of-the-century opulence highlighted at Barker Museum

Michigan City, Indiana—

Take a look at a piece of history--the Barker Mansion is a living monument to Michigan City's past. The mansion, located at 631 Washington St. was donated to Michigan City by Catherine Barker Hickox in 1968. Her father, John H. Barker, earned his fortune in the railroad car industry, after becoming president of his father's company in 1883.

Barker Mansion stands as a symbol of John H. Barker's generosity. He had the mansion built in 1886 as a memorial to his three children who died in early childhood. It was remodeled and expanded in 1905 to become a dream house offering every luxury possible.

An enormous residence, Barker Mansion boasts 38 rooms, 7 fireplaces and 10 bathrooms. All of the furnishings and art objects were the personal property of the Barker family. The decor is typical of the turn-of-the-century, and includes such items as a walnut table, decorated with handcarved cherub's heads and a handcarved marble fireplace. Outside the huge house, a sunken Italian garden holds fragrant flowers, a bubbling fountain and Grecian statues.

Tours to see this tribute to history are available Monday through Friday, with weekend hours beginning in June. For more information, or to book a group tour, call the LaPorte County Convention and Visitors Bureau at 1-800-634-2650.

LaPorte County has a rich heritage that is just waiting to be explored. The many historic sites and tours of LaPorte County can provide history buffs with a variety of exciting attractions to view and explore.

Michigan City offers a plethora of historical sites including the Old Lighthouse Museum, and the historic downtown shopping area. Numerous historical markers point out gone-but-not-forgotten places, such as the first log cabin in Michigan City, the site of the Battle of Trail Creek and Camp Anderson, a Civil War camp.

Westville, south of Michigan City, is the site of a house that is on the National Register of Historic Places. Westville was also a stop on the Lincoln Funeral Train route to Illinois.

LaPorte County is located in northwest Indiana and is accessible via Interstate 80-90 (the Indiana Toll Road.)

Hillsdale, Michigan—

Little-known but much admired Hillsdale County, Michigan is the site of an inaugural event for art and garden enthusiasts. The 1991 Palettes & Petals art show and garden tour is scheduled for July 20-21.

Located at the convergence of the three states, Michigan, Indiana and Ohio, picturesque Hillsdale County is the highest point in the tri-state area. Situated throughout the hills and dales are 350 lakes and ponds, and the headwaters of five major rivers. Slicing through the center of the county is US-12, the old Sauk Indian Trail, later known as The Chicago Road. US-12 intersects US-127 to the east and I-69 to the west making the area easily accessible.

The Palettes & Petals program includes Hillsdale County's own artists who will be displaying and selling their works on the lawn at the county's nearly 100-year-old courthouse in downtown Hillsdale. Additionally, there is a tour of 11 private and public gardens displaying different gardening techniques and philosophies—an Egyptian healing garden, a five sense garden, hand-pollination experiments, a hidden main street courtyard, and a Japanese garden with a pool.

The garden tour includes a trip through Allen, Michigan, known nation-wide as the "Antique Capital." The tour through Allen, titled "Petals of the Past," features antique garden tools, books and prints.

One stop on the tour offers a step back in time when the historic Grosvenor House Museum in Jonesville serves high tea in an adjacent garden.

The garden tour will also feature Hillsdale College's Slayton Arboretum, a 90-acre botanical garden, a look at the American Forestry Association certified national champion oak tree, and a stop at the old town hall in Allen to see "First People," a museum of American Indian artifacts.

For schedules, ticket information or overnight accommodations call Hillsdale Chamber of Commerce at 517-439-4341.

LAI-D-BACK LOOK— The contemporary decor of this Shanty Creek condominium includes natural wood work, muted tones and a wood-burning fireplace—all designed to contribute to a casual atmosphere.

Getaway Property: World class resort amenities in north woods

(Great Lakes Getaway likes to poke around, out of editorial curiosity, to see what's available on the travel and leisure real estate market. We have no stake in the sale whatsoever, and would refuse it if offered.)

Bellaire, Michigan—

Breathe deeply of the clear, northern Michigan air. Look out over gently rolling fairways, across the downhill slopes and cross-country trails. Revel in the deeply cut valleys blanketed with white or speckled with green or ablaze with color.

Thus is life at Shanty Creek.

Homesites at Shanty Creek place each owner directly within the heart of America's summer golf and winter ski capital, and provide breathtaking views of glimmering lakes, emerald forest and manicured golf courses.

For a limited time, the purchase of a golf course homesite entitles the purchaser to a free family golf membership with full golf privileges on the Arnold Palmer designed Legend Course or the Bill Diddle designed Deskin course.

Custom homes are also available for purchase or property owners can design and build the home of their dreams on the homesite of their choice.

For those who opt for the condominium lifestyle, Shanty Creek's offerings present an appearance in perfect blend with the natural surroundings. Contemporary in design, at home in the woods, the condominiums are wrapped in natural materials—rough sawn cedar, hand split shakes and stone.

A variety of sizes and styles are available in luxurious condominiums and deluxe townhouses. Complete rental and property management services are available for owners' convenience.

All property and condominium owners have the use of Shanty Creek's world class resort amenities: swimming pools, tennis courts, the private Beach Club, nature trails, cross-country skiing, and discounts on the Health Club, downhill skiing and golfing.

Shanty Creek offers a quarter-ownership program which makes it possible to own a luxurious vacation condominium and yet be released from many of the cares and financial obligations of sole ownership. Quarter-ownership is a fast-growing trend which shares the costs and responsibilities of ownership equally among four families.

Shanty Creek homesites start at $15,000; golf course homesites begin at $25,000, including pre-paid golf membership. A typical homesite encompasses approximately one acre of rolling, wooded terrain. Custom built homes are priced at $85,000 and up.

A wide variety of condominium offerings include studio to five bedroom units. Prices range from $30,000 to $275,000 and include golf membership discounts.

For more information, call Shanty Creek Properties, 800-822-0884 (in Michigan) or 616-533-8636.

Shanty Creek is located in northwest Michigan near Bellaire, about halfway between Traverse City and Petoskey.

GOLF PARADISE— Shanty Creek's two manicured courses provide a challenge for golfers of all skill levels.

Wile away the hours at art community B&B

Bay View, Michigan—

Looking for all the world like it was covered in pink cake icing, the delectable Gingerbread House serves up a tranquil getaway to harried travelers.

Innkeeper Mary Gruler has chosen minty shades of blue, green and pink for her five guest rooms, each with private bath and entrance. The emphasis is definitely on comfort—one upstairs suite features a veranda perfect for lounging, and guests have their choice of porches for wiling away the hours.

Breakfast muffins, breads and sweet rolls are baked in a 1929 Tappan oven. Fresh fruit, yogurt and juice complete the morning meal as this bed and breakfast.

Mary, a nursing instructor, purchased the 115-year-old Victorian structure four years ago as a retirement project.

"It seemed like a natural evolution to continue taking care of people," she says. "But here, they are healthy and happy!"

The Gingerbread House architecture (nooks and crannies abound, windows number in the hundreds) is typical of the quaint resort styling that permeates Bay View. The community of summer cottages has offered a peaceful escape for more than a century, when it was first established by the Methodist church as a chautauqua, or educational retreat.

Today, Bay View continues to flourish, offering a bevy of cultural events in an atmosphere largely unchanged by time. Gingerbread House guests are welcome to experience Bay View's rich heritage.

Excellent restaurants, including Stafford's Bay View Inn, are within walking distance. Guests are invited to use the sandy beach and tennis courts otherwise reserved for Bay View residents.

Petoskey's Gaslight District shopping area is five minutes drive away and the resort towns of Harbor Springs and Charlevoix can be reached in 30 minutes or less.

The Gingerbread House, open Memorial Day through October, is located on US-131 in Bay View. Call 616-347-3538 for reservation information.

NOOKS, CRANNIES, PORCHES— The 115-year-old Gingerbread House typifies the quaint Victorian resort architecture of Bay View, Michigan, a community established as an educational retreat.

State parks safeguard heritage

Mackinaw Island, Michigan—

A colorful panorama of Michigan history unfolds at the four Mackinac State Historic Parks. As keepers of a 300-year plus heritage that stretches back to French and British colonial times, Mackinac State Historic Parks includes Colonial Michilimackinac and Mill Creek in Mackinaw City, and Fort Mackinac and Mackinac Island State Park on Mackinac Island.

Noted for their authentically restored and reconstructed buildings, these outdoor museum sites located at the picturesque Straits of Mackinac offer re-enactments of American history using interpreters garbed in clothes of long ago.

At Colonial Michilimackinac, a fur trading outpost originally built in 1715, interpreters portray the frontier spirit of fur traders, British soldiers, voyagers, missionary priests, blacksmiths and village homemakers. A few miles south of Michilimackinac is Mill Creek, a 625-acre nature park where sawyers demonstrate how early settlers pioneered progress using a water-powered sawmill.

A short ferry ride from the mainland communities of Mackinaw City or St. Ignace brings the visitor to Mackinac Island and historic Fort Mackinac. Here, soldiers dressed in navy blue uniforms and spiked helmets share the military traditions and music that prevailed in the 1880s.

Browsing through state's best book stores

Dorothy Webster

To me, visiting a bookstore should be akin to spending time with an old friend. One should expect to be made welcome, to feel comfortable, to anticipate learning what's new - and a bit of refreshment wouldn't be amiss either.

Luckily, here in Michigan we have several bookstores that approach that level of hospitality; whether they're large or small, they have that extra ambiance that makes shopping a pleasant experience and makes you want to return often.

Young and Welshan's at 4270 Miller Road (Somerset Town Centre), in Flint (1-800-366-8290), is one of them.

To my mind, this is simply the best bookstore in the state.

That opinion is based on tangibles: 49,000 titles on the shelves, a well-informed and cheerful staff, a richly diverse selection of subjects, an in-depth magazine rack, Sunday newspapers from cities in England to Alaska, ample lighting, and the aroma of gourmet coffee, freshly brewed. That opinion is also based on intangibles: a very comfortable feeling to the place, a never-hurried pace, a ceiling of the right height (high enough to feel spacious, yet low enough that the store doesn't feel cavernous), an obviously well thought out traffic flow, and a sense of restfulness.

Plus, it has the largest and best selection of Michigan books I've found anywhere.

Manager Gina Mincey says they stock between 450-500 Michigan-related items on their shelves. "Our real emphasis, however, is on children's books," she explains. And what a wonderful array of children's books they have. Besides having such a wide selection of titles, you'll find them well displayed and easy to browse among.

During the past year, the store has doubled the number of titles it carries, Mincey says. This autumn, expect about 500 different calendars to be available. "We stocked about 250 last season, and we've ordered double that for this year," she adds.

The staff will special order books and ship them to one's home via UPS, if requested, Mincey says. "That's one of our services that's very popular with our customers," she comments.

In-store customers are treated to a cup of gourmet coffee while they browse among two greeting card lines and a colorful array of posters as well as thousands of books.

Parking is at the door and free.

Store hours are Monday-Saturday 10 a.m. to 9 p.m., Sunday 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. during the year, except for the holiday season, when, beginning Thanksgiving weekend, the store opens a half-hour earlier and closes a half-hour later from Monday through Saturday; on Sunday it's open from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Young and Welshan's is typical of what I consider the "new breed" of bookstores with light-colored woods, soft colors, good lighting, what seems like acres of space, ample display counters and shelving - and yet has that personalized feeling readers came to expect from old-time bookstores. They've successfully combined the best of yesterday with the best of today.

I can't ask for anything more.

Entirely different, and just as interesting, The Log Mark Bookstore at 334 N. Main St. downtown Cheboygan (616-627-6531), blends into the city's Victorian theme with ease.

Amid patterned-tin walls and ceilings, the cozy bookstore manages to carry a wide variety of titles, and makes an effort to stock volumes from small presses and less well known publishers.

Manager Sharlee Nordman, a former English teacher who agreed to "try" managing the bookstore for a year (that was nine years ago), obviously loves books - and readers.

"Readers are the nicest people!" she enthuses.

Perhaps it's partly that conviction, and partly a commitment to pleasing customers that gives The Log Mark Bookstore its reputation. "Many summer residents do their Christmas shopping with us during the warm months," she comments.

Cheboygan's population swells in the summer, and the bookstore's business triples, Nordman says. "We get to know our customers and when they return, we feel as if old friends are back again."

Serving the customer - that seems to be the theme of successful bookstores, be they large or small, and The Log Mark goes to great lengths to see that elusive or hard-to-find volumes are found. "We carry backlists and regularly order from small presses," says Nordman in her perched-high balcony office. "We order new books every week and there are shipments arriving almost daily," she adds.

The children's book section here is excellent, and, tucked away in its own space, it invites small fry as well as parents and grandparents to browse in cozy comfort.

Both the manager and staff of five know books, and to readers, that's important. They can answer questions, make suggestions, and aid bewildered buyers.

Yes, The Log Mark carries the Sunday New York Times, one of my personal criteria for a "favorite" designation.

The Log Mark Bookstore is open during the summer Monday-Saturday from 9:30 a.m. to 9 p.m. and from noon to 4 p.m. Sundays. Winter hours may differ.

Customers drive miles to shop here. I know, I live nearly 100 miles from Cheboygan, yet manage frequent visits. I think it's worth the trip.

In Harbor Springs, on Michigan's northwest coast, there is a charming bookstore with a confusing name, Between the Covers at 152 E. Main Street (616-526-6658).

I blush to tell you I ignored the sign (glimpsed from across the street) during two visits to the town, because I mistakenly believed it was a bed linen shop.

It is, in fact, a bookstore, presided over by a dignified, if portly, Siamese cat named Bobby McGee. During my first visit, he chased a crumpled-up bit of paper with glee; during my second visit, he (a few pounds heavier) snoozed in a wing chair in front of the working fireplace. He did, however, purr with deep satisfaction when his ears were scratched.

There is nothing like a cat to add atmosphere to a bookstore.

Between the Covers, besides the resident cat and large working fireplace, boasts a shaded back deck, a patterned-tin ceiling, soft classical background music, and a knowledgeable staff. You'll like it.

Its magazine rack includes upscale publications like Gray's Sporting Journal, Orion, and wonderful sailing magazines. If you've had trouble locating those, look here.

And yes, there are books. Plenty of them. Manager Connie Fisher says they also emphasize children's books, and that's evident. Buyer Sarah Cohen is enthusiastic about her mission: to provide lively, interesting volumes for young readers.

"When we unpack a shipment of children's books, we usually stand around and peak through them before we shelve them," she confided. "There's no shortage of volunteers to help with that task!"

Harbor Springs' Main Street is made for ambling along at a leisurely pace. Do stop in this summer Monday-Saturday from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. or Sunday from about 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. "Our Sunday hours may vary," says the manager.

In winter, they're open Monday through Saturday only, from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Back downstate, it's worth braving the traffic to reach Schuler's Bookstore at 2975 28th Street, Grand Rapids (1-800-331-1727).

Greatly expanded, with 10,000 square feet of floor space on two levels, Manager Jeff Boughner says the added display space has allowed him to carry 75,000 titles and enlarge sections that interest his customers: psychology, fiction and cookbooks.

"We opened the basement floor for display space," he says, "and were able to put all our cookbooks in that lower level."

matter here. For instance, Native American books command six full shelves. That's the largest selection I've found anywhere.

"We emphasize our special order department," Broughman says. "Each month we receive between 1300 to 1400 books. If our customers want them sent, we ship by UPS."

The children's book section is also noteworthy. Each time I've looked for suitable gifts for grandchildren, I've been delighted with the finds among the hundreds of volumes offered. Activity books are also stocked - I've purchased some wonderful books of cut-out masks.

You'll find art and photography books galore, nature and gardening departments well stocked and varied, but Broughman says most of the space is devoted to fiction.

With a contemporary look, Schuler's features light-colored woods, excellent lighting, stools to rest on while making selections, and an unusual raised-ramp area (called "up the steps" by staff) that is visually interesting and breaks the main floor into another level.

Both Schuler's in Grand Rapids and Young and Welsh's in Flint have one other virtue - they're both near Olive Garden restaurants. If you haven't yet tried their pasta, salad and breadsticks, do so.

Bronner's Christmas Wonderland a double delight

Frankenmuth, Michigan—

The new 100,000 square foot addition to Bronner's CHRISTmas Wonderland opened to the public on May 23, making the world's largest Christmas store even bigger. Total building square footage is 201,243—nearly 5 acres or 4 football fields—with a salesroom the size of 1/2 acres or 11/3 football fields.

An ever-increasing number of visitors (2 million visitors and 2000 motorcoaches annually), necessitated the expansion program.

Visitors now have a choice of two entrances, the original south, or new west entrance with a four-lane covered canopy and two sets of automatic double doors. The focal point of the west approach is an 18-foot tall Star of Bethlehem with a banner proclaiming Bronner's motto, "Enjoy CHRISTmas, It's HIS Birthday; Enjoy Life, It's HIS Way."

A trio of 9-foot tall heralding angels flanks a Bronner-produced life-size Nativity gracing the entryway. Up on the rooftop Old Saint Nick pops out of a chimney. Signs convey messages in over 50 languages to visitors such as "Welcome," "Merry Christmas," "Happy New Year," "Meeting Point," "Thank You," "See You Again," and "God Bless You."

The addition features a more spacious shopping environment with more room for visitors and merchandise displays. The expanded portion of the salesroom is 22,000 square feet with a 27-foot high center atrium, all of exposed wooden construction. Balcony decor around the atrium is characteristic of a European Alpine village.

Merchandise displayers in the style of booths are arranged to resemble a European outdoor Christmas market known in Germany as a Weihnachtsmarkt or Christkindlesmarkt. The booths house Nativity scenes ranging from miniature to life-size, nutcrackers from 4 inches to 6 feet, Advent wreaths and calendars, angels, souvenir items, and sweet treats. An extended Precious Moments department features a background facade simulating Sam Butcher's Precious Moments chapel in Carthage, Missouri.

Also expanded wide array of interior and exterior commercial decorations for cities, parks, shopping centers and malls, stores, churches, as well as industrial, commercial and institutional buildings. A beautiful display of these sparkling decorations and lights may be enjoyed outdoors every evening from dusk until midnight along Christmas Lane. Visitors may view the 18-minute, 10-projector, multi-image presentation "The World of Bronner's" shown daily in the Program Center. In the future, a special exhibit of glass ornaments collected through the years is planned.

Days of knights and chivalry relived

Holly, Michigan—

Return to an age of wonder and adventure, where pleasure reigns and merrymaking is the rule when the 12th annual Michigan Renaissance Festival opens its turreted gates Aug. 17 through Sept. 29 on Saturdays, Sundays and Labor Day.

Visitors are welcomed to the wooded grounds of Hollygrove by King Edward and Queen Katheryne as the village unites in weekend celebration. Hollygrove includes more than 50 craft shops and food merchants.

Each weekend offers a unique theme in which to enjoy and explore the Renaissance—choose from Childhood's Quest, Renaissance Romance, Fool's Fantasy, Music and Dance, Tournament of Chivalry, Highland Fling, and Country Wine Affair.

Continuous entertainment by more than 200 costumed revelers is performed on seven stages and along the tree-lined paths of Hollygrove. Many activities are available for adventurous festival patrons, who may compete in the press—a-wench strength contest, attempt to stump the Royal Court, or climb Jacob's Ladder.

Feeling hungry? Fret not, for the festival offers many savory dishes, all of which are hand held. Grab a roasted turkey drumstick, scotch egg, sausage on a stick and an apple dumpling. Toast the day with lemonade, soda, apple cider, ale and wine. Or visit Watneys Pub and taste the art of English brewing as it has been practiced since 1487.

Shop in a bustling bazaar where artisans demonstrate their timeless crafts. Weaving, pottery, woodworking, blown glass, jewelry and herbs are just some of the treasures available as you explore the village.

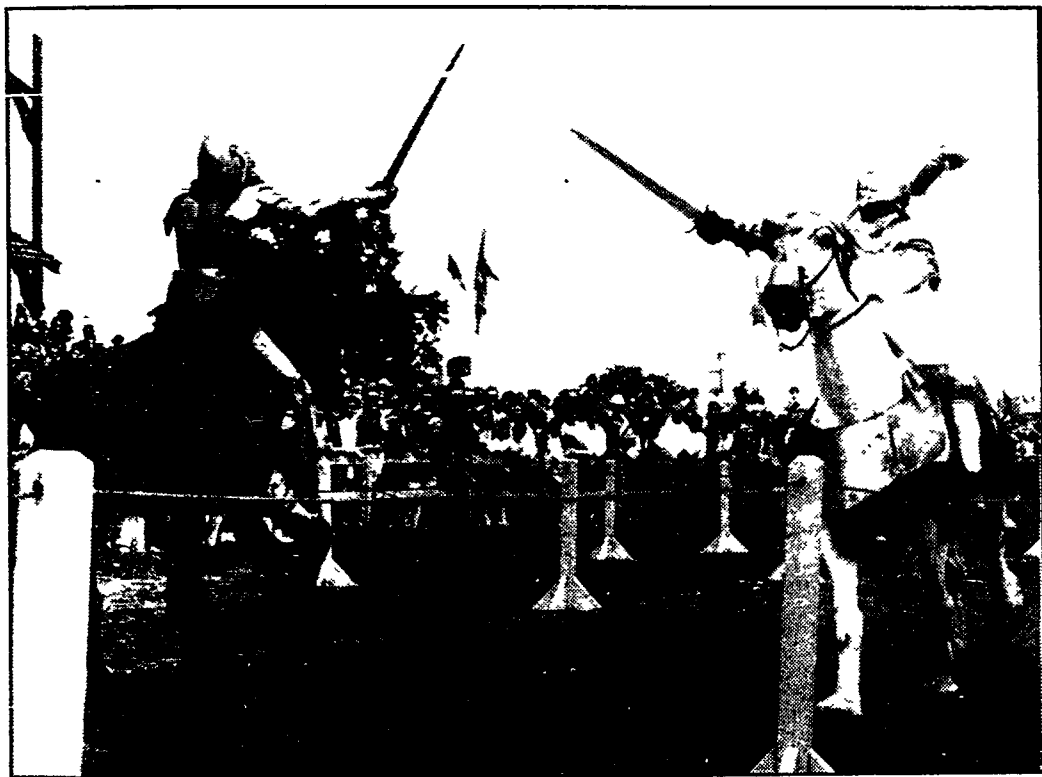

Cheer for your favorite knight as he dares a death defying contact joust on horseback, performed three times daily.

Hollygrove, Renaissance Festival site, is located in Holly, one mile north of Mt. Holly ski area on Dixie Highway between Pontiac and Flint. It offers easy access from Interstate 75 and US-23 and lots of free parking.

Adult tickets are $9.95 at the gate, $8.75 in advance at Kroger food stores, Kessel food markets, Total gas stations and the festival office. Tickets for children 5-12 are $4.95 at the gate, $4 in advance. Children under 5 are free.

Group and motor coach tickets and other festival information may be obtained by contacting the Michigan Renaissance Festival office Monday through Friday at 313 645-9640, 700 East Maple, Birmingham, Michigan 48009.

BATTLE FOR HONOUR— Thrill to the excitement of the joust as brave knights strive for glory at the Michigan Renaissance Festival.

CRUISE IN STYLE—Voyageur, a 105-foot twin deck aluminum cruise boat, can accommodate 150 passengers on its upper deck, bow and cocktail lounge.

Boats and bandshell make Charlevoix a summer must

Charlevoix, Michigan—

If you're a boating family without a boat, or simply enjoy beautiful scenery, there are some new and exciting water fun opportunities in northwest Michigan that can make the trip there even more of an adventure.

In the charming city of Charlevoix, located between Lake Michigan and Lake Charlevoix 51 miles north of Traverse City, three new cruise ships are available for day and evening trips.

The boats - two double-deck power tour boats, Voyageur and Miss Charlevoix, plus an 85-foot replica of a Maine schooner, Appledore - once again offer visitors a chance to enjoy the yachting season even if they don't have a boat. The last Charlevoix excursion boat ceased operation in 1989.

Both power boats offer cruises daily through October 19, and Appledore sets sail every day until October 1, running on Friday through Sunday after Labor Day. Private charter cruises are available on all three.

Voyageur is a 105-foot twin deck aluminum boat with a 23-foot beam. It holds up to 150 passengers with seating on its upper deck, bow and in the luxurious cocktail lounge. July ports of call include Boyne City, Beaver Island and Petoskey. Other northwest Michigan ports are being considered. Boarding point in Charlevoix is the municipal marina dock, where all three boats have their headquarters.

Voyageur offers one and two-hour "loop" cruises from various ports. Dinner packages at Boyne City's "One Water Street" and Charlevoix's "Weathervane Restaurant" (both operated by Stafford's Hospitality) also are available.

Miss Charlevoix is a 56-foot, 100-person capacity tour boat with an enclosed lower deck, open bow and upper observation deck. It offers daily afternoon, evening and "sunset" cruises. The two-hour rides tour Lake

Charlevoix and include a Lake Michigan visit, weather permitting.

Operated by Ward Brothers Cruises, Inc., which also has charter fishing boats, the cruise boat will depart Ward's dock in Round Lake except Monday evenings, when it will leave from and return to Boyne City's Memorial Park.

The topsail schooner Appledore has a full galley with snack bar, and is licensed for 49 passengers. Four two-hour cruises are scheduled daily between 11 a.m. and 10 p.m. The yacht is owned and managed by Bay Breeze Schooner Company.

Passengers of Appledore get a glimpse of the past, as the boat is modeled after an old Maine schooner, and sails are handled without the aid of modern sailing conveniences such as winches. Appledore's sister ship, Appledore II, has twice sailed around the world.

Musical fare is also being provided to Charlevoix visitors, for the first time this year in East Park's new bandshell. Various area groups will provide free entertainment at 8 p.m. Tuesdays and Wednesdays in July and August, and 1 p.m. Saturdays in July, August and September.

Also, for the second year the Northwood Orchestra will have "Midsummer Music Magic" through August 4 at The Barn at Dunmaglass, Charlevoix. Fifty of the finest musicians from across the country come together each summer for this series, which this year features special talents including Al Hirt and the Four Freshmen.

For additional information on cruise scheduling and rates call Voyageur Cruises Unlimited (616) 547-0188, Ward Brothers Cruises, Inc. "Morton & Hayes"

one-of-a-kind TV

Rob Reiner and Co. deliver the goods

By Steven Alan McGaw

Undeniably, television has its highlights, works that break the mold in terms of insight, execution, intelligence or originality. But, to tell the truth, TV fare is often guilty of glaring repetition, a numbing sameness that diminishes each program and the medium as a whole. That, of course, is why audiences react when a truly original program comes along. And that's also why Rob Reiner's brilliant new series, "Morton & Hayes," deserves a swift and immediate response from the viewing public. The innovative comedy premieres Wednesday, July 24, on CBS.

The premise of the show is inspired; each episode (introduced by Reiner) features a comedy short by '40s duo Chick Morton and Eddie Hayes, played by Kevin Pollak and Bob Amaral. Reiner admits the team was never truly popular with audiences and their cheaply produced two-reelers were mediocre at best. Still, a number of Morton & Hayes' works were unearthed in the vaults of producer Max King and readied for television. The shorts have no continuing theme or devices, save for Morton's acidic wise-cracking, Hayes' blubbing buffoonery and their colossal ineptitude as a team.

Kevin Pollak is terrific as sharp-tongued Chick Morton, arguably the "brains" of the duo. Morton is a blow-hard, a coarse loudmouth given to snap decisions and unable to admit a mistake. He also loves to berate his dim-bulb colleague. Bob Amaral (where has this guy been?) is a delight as Eddie Hayes, a big, fearful baby of a man, clumsy, goodhearted and devoutly eager to please his contentious partner. Amaral's face is a playground of expression, his big eyes threatening to pop out of his head.

The show's look is very authentic, which adds mightily to the humor. The cheap sets, tacky sound effects and silly camera tricks of factory-style filmmaking are well in evidence. Reiner and company's sharpest idea, however, was to film the show in great, grainy black and white. Instantly, viewers' living rooms will become '40s-style movie houses, where features were preceded by a spate of newsreels and "programmers" much like the works of Morton & Hayes.

The opening episode, "Daffy Dicks," finds the team in fine, or at least as Reiner implies, representative form. Morton and Hayes are inept private detectives, clearly ready to bungle any assignment that comes their way. In walks tearful socialite Amelia Von Astor (Catherine O'Hara), determined to prove her husband's infidelity. When she presents the pair with the time, date, place and even the address of her philandering hubby's next assignment, Eddie remarks grimly, "Well, it's not much to go on." What follows is as unlikely and corny a series of plot contortions as ever devised, punctuated by the peerless bumbling of Morton & Hayes.

The hilarity is aided by Christopher Guest as Dr. Von Astor, a sinister man with a loonily incomprehensible dialect. Guest, one of the show's producers, also directed the premiere.

"Morton & Hayes" is billed as a summer show, implying a finite place on the schedule; perhaps vigorous audience response can change that.

Bob Amaral (right) and Kevin Pollak star as Eddie Hayes and Chick Morton, a near-forgotten '40s comedy duo whose mediocre two-reel shorts have been unearthed and readied for national telecast. "Morton & Hayes" premieres Wednesday, July 24, on CBS.

Ex-salesman Donahue sold on talk-shows

By Lisa Otoupal

"Guess who's here?" Phil Donahue asks his audience. He paces in front of them while he lists his guests' claim to fame, common problem or concern. As the questions start, he darts in and out of the audience, trying to get to everyone. He pauses to ask, "Is the caller there?" And then he's off and running again. Donahue's style is unorthodox, but it's prompted the press to call him "the best talker in television."

Donahue has been in television more than half of his life. He was born on December 21, 1935, in Cleveland. His broadcasting career began while he was attending Notre Dame University.

After he graduated, Donahue returned to his hometown, where he landed his first professional job. He stayed there until 1959, then did a ten-month stint at WABJ Radio in Michigan. His next move was to WHIO-TV/Radio in Dayton, Ohio. Not only did he anchor the television news, but he was also the host of a radio

SOAP TALK

Jensen Buchanan to play twins

By Candace Havens

Dear Candace: I read in your column that Anne Heche (ex- Marly/Vicky) on Another World was leaving the show. I was wondering if they were going to replace her? I like those characters, and I want them to get together with their respective guys. Thanks for your column; I look forward to hearing from you. —S.N. in Wisconsin.

Dear Reader: Actor Jensen Buchanan is supposedly taking over as the twins. Buchanan was previously on One Life to Live as Sarah Buchanan. She left the New York-based soap to pursue prime time in L.A., but it looks like she is headed back to soapdom.

Dear Candace: I watch The Young and the Restless. Why don't they catch old David Kimbell? He's been so mean to Nina. I want him caught and brought to justice. Why don't they catch him, and take him off the show? I like good people who do good things. Thanks very much. —Sarah Lewallen, High Point, NC.

Dear Reader: It wouldn't be a soap if it didn't have a bad guy. I recently spoke with Michael Corbett, who plays Kimbell. He said he felt his character was a little more sympathetic now that he is all scarred up. He also enjoys playing the new character Jim Adams. Look for a rather strange turn of events when Adams begins dating Nina's mom, Flo.

Some of you who have been in school may be a little confused by the David/Nina situation. Nina is David's wife, but she discovered that he was planning to kill her (for her money) and was fooling around with another woman, so she shot him five times in the chest. David pretended to be in a coma and then he escaped from the hospital.

He went to a plastic surgeon and ended up with a scarred face and the word "killer" across his forehead. Now he is making himself up to look like a totally different person so no one will recognize him and he can have his revenge. Ail this should make for an interesting summer on Y&R.

I want to hear from you! If you have a favorite soap scenario you would like to sound off about, or a question about the soaps, write to Candace Havens, Soap Talk, P.O. Box 961009, Fort Worth, TX 76161-1009. © TV Listing Inc

TRIVIA, ETC.

Elvis lives! For rock'n'roll tribute from Graceland, anyway

Graceland will mark the 15th anniversary of Elvis Presley's death with a rock'n'roll tribute scheduled for the summer of 1992. Priscilla Presley is looking to sign a few big-name stars to perform Elvis' tunes in concert. A taped TV special and an album are also in the works.

Could this be the truth, or is it simply a dare? Word has it Madonna is planning a new board game based on her expose documentary Truth or Dare. The singer/actress' merchandising groups are said to be pondering two different versions: a racy version for adults and a G-rated version for kids.

Here's a short one: Woody Harrelson, on hiatus from Cheers, is currently filming White Men Can't Jump with co-star Wesley Snipes. The basketball comedy is directed by Ron Shelton (Bull Durham).

Country star Hank Williams Jr. will dance as well as sing a newly recorded ditty for ABC's Monday Night Football. The new song, "The Monday Night Football Boogie," will kick off games telecast this fall. This will be the third season Williams has performed the show's theme song.

Young-gun Christian Slater discusses his latest film, Mobsters, on Thursday's Entertainment Tonight.

Elvis Presley

Michele Greene has jumped on the L.A. Law jumping-off bandwagon. Greene has asked the show's producers to write her character, Abby, off of the show and release her from her contract.
