Hartford heads lineup at music benefit Sunday

By BOB NEEDHAM

John Hartford doesn't know what he's going to play when he comes to town Sunday for the 15th annual Northville Folk and Bluegrass

He says it's always that way with him: He just gets up on stage and plays whatever happens to be in his heart and head at the time.

"I make it up as I go along," he said last week, speaking by phone during the middle of a tour. "I do each one pretty different."

He can afford to. Hartford's musi-cal career spans over 25 years and ten clog dances on a piece of plywood. more than 20 albums, so he has a wealth of material from which to

Much of that material concerns steamboats, which rival music as the great interest of Hartford's life. A licensed riverboat pilot, his song "Miss Ferris" recalls how a gradeschool teacher sparked his lifelong interest in steamboats and their lore, and several other songs explore steamboat life and river lore.

He plays at virtuoso level on banjo, fiddle, and guitar; and is a fine, inter-

In concert — he's scheduled to play sets at 3 and 7 p.m. Sunday — Hartford says he's equally likely to play his own songs as those of others, old songs as well as new: "I mix it all

Asked which of his own songs he likes best, Hartford says it changes day to day, even minute to minute. "Sometimes it's the one I'm working on," but other times it might be decades old, he said.

And the 16-year-old Northville Township resident doesn't believe the bureaucratic line that widespread silting and increased vegetation growth in his old fishing hole is a "natural occurence."

Van Dyke is willing to do his part to restore Phoenix Lake, a meandering body of water located east of Northville Road between Five Mile and Six Mile roads. He just wants someone to take

Van Dyke recently planted a sign in a rapidly spreading silt mass in the northern portion of Phoenix Lake. The hand-painted sign shouts "Help Save The Lake."

The message is clear, he said. "I wanted people to be aware of the problem," he said on a warm, calm Tuesday morning, as geese waddled around a 450-foot long island that threatens to close a northern section of the lake.

"I wanted to do my part to help, but this isn't a one-man job. We've got to get a lot of people involved, he said. Complaints by Van Dyke and Phoenix Lake neighbors have stirred interest from state and local government officials.

Northville High School may have a new principal at its helm Aug. 1.

Thomas Johnson, assistant principal at Troy High School since 1987, was offered and accepted a job as Northville's new high school principal Monday.

But before it's official, Johnson must be approved by the school board. The next board meeting will be his home town in Virginia. He was held Aug. 12 at 7:30 p.m. in Old Vil-

Johnson, 48, holds a doctorate degree in education. He worked as a counselor supervisor in Bloomfield Hills before accepting the job in Troy. Prior to that, he was involved in college administration, working at Oakland and Wayne State universities.

The Virginia native received his bachelor's and master's degrees from Marshall University in West Virginia. Johnson currently lives in West Bloomfield Township with his wife, Suzanne, and five children.

He said Northville reminds him of early for his interview, so Johnson said he had a look around the city.

Vorva attacks party politics

Plymouth City Commissioner Jerry Vorva is one of three Republicans vying for the vacant 36th District state representative's seat.

Vorva will square off in the Aug. 6 Republican primary against North-ville Township Supervisor Georgina Goss and Canton Township precinct delegate Deborah Whyman.

The primary winner faces no formal Democratic candidate in the Aug. 27 general election. Any registered voter may vote in the primary. The 36th District covers all of North-ville Township, Northwille city south of Baseline Road, Plymouth city and township, and approximately half of Canton Township.

Candidates for the post were interviewed by Record staff writer Mike Tyree and editor Bob Needham. Today's interview is with Vorva; an interview with Goss was published July 18, and Whyman's interview will be published Aug. 1..

RECORD: Everyone talks about property taxes as the number-one ssue in the state today. Is that what you hear from people on the street as you campaign? What would you do about property taxes?

VORVA: Not only have I heard it on the campaign trail, but as a Realtor in the western Wayne County/ Oakland area, I have heard that as the number one complaint. In fact, I can't begin to tell you the number of people in areas like Northville and Plymouth — primarily the cities of each — where people have called me and said, 'Jerry, I just can't afford to live here anymore. I grew up in this town ... and now because of the taxes, we cannot afford to live here on a fixed income as retired people.' And I think that's a shame. I think that's something that has to change.

When you realize that a lot of the property tax either goes to running the city, the county, or the schools, which is the larger portion of the tax, it falls right into how are we going to fund our schools. We absolutely need to change the way we do our taxing for services that we feel we want. And that may have to come from a variety of areas as opposed to just hitting

Some people come up with (proptalks about taxing on products or services received. That can be a little regressive, in that it can hurt people who are lower on the income level, and two, how will that stifle any stimulation for selling products? It's a double-edged sword. I think what vou're going to have to do is have a plan that is multi-faceted; you get your taxes from a variety of places so that it can be more evenly and equitably spread over the population. And I think that can be done.

RECORD: If you favor a propertytax cut - including the governor's proposed 20-percent cut - where will school funding come from, especially for school districts such as Northville that depend on property taxes for 95 percent of their revenue? Will your position ensure fair educational opportunities to all Michigan

Model hearing draws a divided crowd

By SUZANNE HOLLYER Staff Writer

Northville residents and school officials with an interest in the Michigan Model had another late night Monday when a state Senate committee asked for input on the model.

The 7 p.m. hearing at Plymouth-Salem High School drew crowds estimated at around 450. Northville residents on both sides of the issue turned out and had their say following the testimony of two speakers. representing opposing sides of the conflict.

The Michigan Model for Comprehensive School Health Education is a series of lesson plans which local districts may use to fill a state requirement for a health curriculum.

It has caused controversy in orthville and around the state beause some parents feel the model works for the Washtenaw Community Health Board.

Shelkun said her ideas for problem-solving and relaxation exercises were based on discussions with teachers and studies of classrooms in the 1970s. During that time, many education researchers were studying similar theories.

Criticisms of classroom techniques known as affective education were made by religious groups in the 70s, and rightly so, Shelkun said.

Many theories espoused in the 1970s actually were based in New Age thought and involved mental health evaluations, she said. Her lesson plans, however, were specifically designed with religious and family

"I thought I was being very respectful to the groups many of whom have representatives in the audience tonight," she said.

The calm-breathing method used in the model. Shelkun said, was based on methods teachers have used for decades to relax students.

Critics, including Bell, have said the breathing technique can be harmful to the physical and mental health of students.

Bell said calm breathing, as presented in Charles Strobel's book The Quieting Reflex, can be dangerous to children with asthma. Shelkun countered that Strobel's technique requires months of practice and is in-

NEW HOMEOWNERS ASSOCIATION TO MEET: The Historic District Homeowners Association will hold its inaugural meeting at 8 p.m. tonight, July 25, at city hall. Main Street resident Chuck Keys, who is organizing the meeting, said he hopes the association will help keep residents informed about the workings of city government and the effects of government policies on the Historic District.

Keys listed 12 "possible items of concern" on a recently distributed flier advertising the meeting. The items include increased traffic and speed on residential streets, the Board of Education preschool program and school buses on Main Street, downtown parking and traffic flow, commercial development on and around Cady Street, and rising property taxes.

PUBLIC HEARING ON BEALTOWN REZONING: The Northville City Council voted at its July 15 meeting to proceed with a proposed rezoning of the Bealtown neighborhood from R-2 to R-1B. The rezoning would prohibit the conversion of single-family homes to duplexes, but allow existing duplexes to continue to operate.

The council called an Aug. 5 public hearing on the proposal. The city planning commission agreed to forward the proposal to the council after its own public hearing July 1. The commission heard arguments from residents on both sides of the issue and voted 7-2 to rezone, with commissioners Chris Gazlay and Dick Wilhelm opposing the proposal.

SUMMER READING: One hundred and fifty prospective young wilderness adventurers attended the Northville Public Library's Summer Reading Program on Wednesday, July 17.

Washtenaw County naturalist Matt Heumann and his son Benjamin demonstrated the joys of backpacking. Next week's program will feature Maybury State Park's Sherry Pingle, who will present "What's New in the Park."

Last week's Poster Puzzle Contest winners were T.C. Lopez, Emily Plasencia, and Vicky Stephens.

CHORE WORKERS NEEDED: Senior citizens in western Wayne County need assistance with yard work, window washing, and other chores around the house. The Senior Alliance Chore Referral Program is a new service designed to help older adults and chore workers establish contact.

Older adults may contact the Senior Alliance to see if any workers are available in their area. Once a senior chooses a worker and decides to hire that worker, it is the responsibility of the senior to set up a work schedule and pay the worker.

If you or someone you know would like to join the Senior Alliance Chore Referral Program call 722-2830 for more details.

Tickets available now, at gate

If you're planning to attend the 15th annual Northville Folk and Bluegrass Festival this Sunday, you can save a little money by getting your tickets in advance.

Tickets are $8 in advance, but $10 at the gate. Either way, the proceeds all go to fight Hunting-ton's disease, which claimed the life of Woody Guthrie. Tickets are $4 for seniors. Children 12 and under get in free.

Tickets are available at the Gitfiddler music store, 302 E. Main, and at all Ticketmaster outlets for the festival, planned for 1 to 8 p.m. this Sunday at Ford Field, on Hutton just north of Main. Attractions of the festival include food concessions by MacKinnon's restaurant and a raffle of a handmade Washburn guitar. But the main event, of course, is the music - a lineup led this year by three-time Grammy Award winner John Hartford (see story on page 1-A).

The festival begins at 1 p.m. with the Silver Strings Dulcimer Society. At 2 p.m. follows the Royal Oak-based Balduck Mountain Ramblers, making their third appearance at the Northville festival. At 3 p.m. headliner Hartford plays the first

He similarly shies away from naming his own favorite musical performers, for fear of leaving out someone important. "Tater Tate and Allen Mundy," from his Grammy Awardwinning album Mark Twang, is a breathless recitation of the names of countless bluegrass music greats. and when the song ends you get the feeling he could indeed have easily kept going.

Hartford often plays in concert with his son, Jamie, a virtuoso mandolin player and the other half of John's latest album, Hartford and Hartford. As of last week John didn't know whether Jamie would be with him in Northville.

Hartford's spontaneous and relaxed attitude toward performances seems to mirror the feeling of his recordings, which sound consistently fresh, creative and beautifully played.

He originally chose the river as a career, but moved to Nashville in the early 1960s to pursue music. He worked as a disc jockey, wrote songs, and recorded as a session musician.

In 1966, coming home after seeing Dr. Zhivago, Hartford sat down and wrote the song for which he's still best known, "Gentle on My Mind." The familiar lyric still sounds touching today, even after literally millions of radio plays: "It's knowing that your door is always open and your path is free to cross/That tends to make me keep my sleeping bag rolled up and stashed behind your Hartford's career took off. While Glen Campbell's recording of "Gentle on My Mind" was racking up a million sales, Hartford himself was appearing, bowler hat and all, as a regular on the top-rated Smothers Brothers Comedy Hour.

He got even more network television exposure with The Glen Campbell Goodtime Hour, but still kept up a rigorous performance schedule. He even found time to contribute to the Byrds' Sweetheart of the Rodeo album, in addition to his own recording

All the while, Hartford has balanced music with his other love, Mississippi River steamboats. He actively helps run the Julia Belie Swain, and has done so for almost 20 years. Five years ago he wrote a book about an actual incident of a stranded riverboat called Steamboat in a Comfield.

Hartford's most recent albums, Down on the River and Hartford and Hartford, earned new critical acclaim. He said a new collection, Cadillac Rag, should be released within a few months.

His most recent fame, however, comes from an unexpected source: the comic strip Gasoline Alley which in a recent series featured Hartford as a supporting character. The plot concerned a steamboat stranded in a cornfield. Cartoonist Jim Scancarelli — a friend and fellow fiddle player — developed the series in conjunction with Hartford, who said he got more reaction from the cartoons than from many of his network television appearances.

Playing the 15th annual Folk and Bluegrass Festival in Northville should be a treat, Hartford said last week. The annual local festival benefits research to fight Huntington's disease, which claimed the life of Woody Guthrie. The festival is dedicated to Guthrie and his wife Marjorie, and Donna Jarski, another Huntington's victim and the half-sister of festival organizer Tom Rice.

"I have done some work for Huntington's chorea," Hartford said, and for Woody Guthrie in particular. He understands the debilitating nature of the disease.

"It sounds real good," Hartford' said of the Northville festival. "I can't

Senate scans Michigan Model

By SUZANNE HOLLYER Staff Writer

A hearing to study the Michigan Model held Monday night at Plymouth-Salem High School was the third in a series of hearings designed to give a state Senate committee input on the model.

The model is a controversial health curriculum that has sparked the interest of several senators. Sen. Gil DiNello, D-East Detroit, chairs the committee. DiNello says he has opinions on the model, but is waiting to hear all the testimony on it before making a final judgement. Sen. Douglas Carl, R-Mt. Clemens, is less objective. "I made no pretense about being impartial," he said following Monday's hearing.

During the hearing he quoted article eight, sec-

"Religion, morality and knowledge being necessary to good government and the happiness of mankind, schools and the means of education shall forever be encouraged."

He asked Northville school district health committee member Barb Flis what she thought of the

"I am not intending to banter with the senator," said Flis, a supporter of the model.

Sen. Jim Berryman, D-Adrian, also is on the committee. Sens. Jon Cisky, R-Saginaw, and James Barcia, D-Bay City, are on the committee but were not present Monday.

And Sen. Robert Geake, R-Northville, was present at the hearing. Geake is not a member of the committee, but attended because the hearing was DiNello said the committee will form an opinion on the model before December 1992 when the next session of the Senate ends. He said the hearings could result in the introduction of legislation to

"But that doesn't mean it will pass," he said. The next meeting will be held July 31 at the Sault Sainte Marie High School. Another will be held Aug. 19 at Central Grade School in Traverse

On Sept. 9, a hearing will be held in the Kent County Intermediate School District auditorium in Grand Rapids. A final meeting will be held Sept. in the state Capitol building in Lansing.

All hearings will be held at 7 p.m. DiNello said additional meetings may be scheduled for the fall, including one in Macomb County, depending upon the amount of repetition of information presented in the next few hearings.

tended for adult use only. Her lessons are specially adapted for children.

But Bell's biggest criticism was of problem-solving exercises that he said leave students with ambiguous feelings about the difference between right and wrong.

"It tells you if you smoke you're going to die, but we know you're going to do it anyway, so be responsible," he

"The (acquired immune deficiency syndrome) education says we know you're going to have sex."

Shelkun said changes in the model have been made and will continue to be made based on the suggestions of parents and educators.

But Bell said before the model is changed, Michigan residents must decide what the overall goal of a health curriculum should be.

"I don't want us to change the Michigan Model any more right now," he said. "I'd like us to stop and agree on, fundamentally, what this model is all about."

Bell helped organize the Northville group Parents Concerned with the Improvement of the Michigan Model. During the past school year, the group presented the Northville school board with a list of objections to the health model.

A district health committee reviewed the objections and told the school board at an April meeting that the criticisms were based on inaccurate interpretations of the model.

Following Bell's testimony members of the public were permitted to address the committee.

Several Northville representatives were called, including outgoing Northville Schools Superintendent George Bell, Assistant Superintendent Dolly McMaster, health committee members Scott Wilson and Barb Flis, board member Joseph Dunkerley, and model critic Karen Lemieux. Lemieux said she wanted Northville parents to have the ability to take their children out of Michigan Model activities. The district has refused to allow parents the option of removing their children from model activities. other than reproductive health education. McMaster warned the committee not to be swayed by the critics of the model. She said opponents of the model are a well-organized minority.

*Do not misunderstand the silent majority that is out there in your communities, she said.

She offered to walk the committee through the district's findings that the objections to the model presented by Kraft Bell are based on inaccuracles and misinterpretations.

Other Northville speakers relayed the conflict in the district leading to the board's renewal of support for the model in April.

Overall, DiNello called approximately an equal number of speakers on each side of the issue.

Many speakers opposed to the model suggested religion should be used in the classroom as an alternative.

"We took the value of God out. We put the value of Satan in. The schools are a dangerous place," said Canton resident Ötis Johnson.

Virgil Tanner, 14, said he recently "escaped" public schools. He gave examples of hypnosis he said were used in his Plymouth classroom to sway his opinions.

"My decisions are between myself, my parents and my Lord Christ," Tanner said. "I'll pray for you as much as I can, but it's up to you."

State puts Northville racetrack money down

By STEVE KELLMAN Staff Writer

The City of Northville became a half-million dollars richer this week, and city officials said it was about

The city received a $501,439.81 payment from the State of Michigan Tuesday morning, most of the money it has been waiting for since the state stopped paying local municipalities their share of state-returned racetrack revenue. The payment is part of the roughly $570,000 owed to

City Finance Director Beverly Morrison said the payment was for three months worth of racetrack revenue from Northville Downs. That was December, January and February." she said, "so we'll have a small March payment coming in yet, hopefully."

The payment represents the end of this year's long battle over statereturned racetrack revenue. Northville, like all cities that host horse racetracks, is entitled under state statute to receive 27 1/2 percent of the state's 4 1/2 percent cut of all money wagered at Michigan tracks, up to $900,000. But the state has paid citen with little advance warning.

This year's fight for the money was particularly tough. The state simply stopped making payments to the city after December, and a January ex-ecutive order by Gov. John Engler would have cost the city all of its allocated $900,000 in racetrack revenue. Much of the revenue was for police services already rendered to Northville Downs.

That financial nightmare was replaced by a less-severe 9.2-percent across-the-board budget cut, which tion against the state.

racetrack revenue by $82,800.

The city laid off two police officers, instituted its own across-the-board budget reduction and put off several equipment purchases in response to the state's moves. One officer was rehired after the police and other departments agreed to defer their scheduled pay raises for six months.

The city council passed a $600,000 tax anticipation note as well, to cover city expenses while waiting for the payments. City officials even considered taking legal ac-

The state-returned racetrack revenue is used to pay for increased police protection and rubbish disposal services at the racetrack, as well as road, water and other improvements around the track.

This year's struggle for the revenue has already begun. The Department of Agriculture, which oversees disbursement of the racetrack revenue, originally proposed returning no money to racetracks in the coming fiscal year. After intense lobbying in Lansing by officials from racetrack cities including Northville, the department reworked its budget to return about 82 percent of the designated funds, or $735,000 in Northville's case.

Sen. Robert Geake (R-Northville) has proposed legislation that would have racetracks pay their cities directly, rather than routing the money

Busy? New judge logs 1,692 cases in six months

By STEVE KELLMAN Staff Writer

When Patricia Campbell was elected to a new judgeship at Northville Regional Psychiatric Hospital in November, she and the voters who elected her expected that her years of experience in the juvenile justice system would be put to good use.

Campbell, with 15 years of experience as an attorney nine as a Detroit Probate Court referee, finally heard her first juvenile case this week.

"We did our first abuse / neglect cases yesterday . . . We broke ground," Campbell said Tuesday. The judge had earlier complained about the lack of such cases despite an overloaded Wayne County juvenile justice

Part of the problem has been that since the court began hearing cases in January, the staff has been operating without the necessary equipment, Campbell said. We have hopes, maybe tomorrow, that we might have a Xerox machine delivered to us. We still don't have computers or video recording equipment, which is on order."

One piece of equipment the courtroom does have is a speaker phone, which is used to take testimony from witnesses who cannot come to the courtroom if the parties involved in the case all agree.

Campbell hopes that her court will institute even more creative solutions once all the equipment and procedures are in place.

The lack of cases from juvenile court has not left Campbell with idle time. The position at Northville Hospital was created largely to alleviate the need to transport mental health patients to Detroit for competency hearings, and the new judge has been fulfilling that goal at a "I have managed to fill my time doing what I feel was

By Tuesday, Campbell had heard 1,692 mental health cases in her first six months on the bench. "That's a lot, let me tell you," she said. "I've done more in my first six months than judges have done in a lifetime on the bench in other counties.

The figures, I think, are what were expected, but I don't think anyone thought of the fact that one person would be doing all this."

Campbell has also overseen the implementation of procedures used during mental health cases. Though patients do not need to be transported to Detroit anymore. witnesses may need to be transported from other areas. "In some cases they were due downtown at a hearing and mos saying. Where is my equipment? "

Overall, Campbell said she is pleased with the court's progress in its first six months. "I'm pleased with how the mental health cases are going, and I'm pleased that we've begun the abuse / neglect cases . . . although we've only had a couple.

That's the area I'm most knowledgeable in." The probate court at Northville Hospital hears mental competency cases from that facility, the Hawthorne Center in Northville, and the Walter Reuther Psychiatric Hospital in Westland, and juvenile justice cases from western Wayne County.

Township studies? trash proposals

By MIKE TYREE Staff Writer

A study session slated for this evening is expected to provide answers to a number of questions surrounding the township's preferredstatus trash-hauling contract.

Township board members will gather at 7 p.m. this evening to mull bids tendered by five firms seeking the contract.

The board will not take official ac-tion tonight, but could identify the firm that is most able to handle the township's solid-waste needs.

The board has voted to implement its solid waste and recyclable materials strategy by Sept. 1. in accordance with Wayne County mandates.

Township engineers last month recommended Painter & Ruthenberg for the job, based on the firm's $6.08-per-household trash-disposal bid. The recommendation is contingent upon Painter & Ruthenberg providing evidence that it has adequate landfill access for the duration of its proposed five-year bid.

Another topic for the board to consider is the stance of all five firms on contract revisions if the township and city choose separate solid-waste haulers, said Township Manager Richard Henningsen.

Indications are that the township and city will not reach mutual agreement on a hauler. The city is said to be pondering an agreement with Plymouth city for solid waste and recycling needs.

Painter & Ruthenberg President L.C. Ruthenberg on Tuesday said his company will "stand by those (bid) figures," with or without Northville city's participation.

Ruthenberg also said he can pro-start solid-waste collections within. 30 days of the township's contract.

"Whatever date they wish to implement, we'll be willing to go along with," he said. "But we would preferstarting at the same time as the recycling program; it cuts confusion."

And there still seems to be plenty of confusion over various facets of the township plan.

A deal between Northville Township and Browning-Ferris Industries for sewer capacity space apparently gained township residents three years of free recyclables collection.

But experts say a community must be educated before entering a recyclable materials collection program. That education could take anythere from 60-120 days, they say.

The township could suddenly find itself well into the last quarter of 1991 without a set solid-waste plan.

Township Supervisor Georgina, Goss would not say when the board, would finalize collections plans, but did say, "We can begin solid-waste collections as soon as we have a plan in place.

Recycling education could be "expedited," she said.

Ruthenburg said his firm, which presently handles solid-waste collections for 11 local communities including Northville and Plymouth cities, is anxious to gain a stronger foothold in the western Wayne County area. We're happy to participate in the bidding," he said. "We want to prove we can (do the job)."

The Michigan Public Service Commission will hold a series of public hearings this month to solicit public comments on the response of the Detroit Edison Company and Consumers Power Company to electric outages caused by the recent storms that swept through the state. Specifically, the commission is asking customers to identify based on their arms. tomers to identify, based on their experiences, how Consumers and Detroit Edison responded to electric outages caused by the storms; what safety procedures were used by the utility companies to protect the public; and whether changes are needed to deal with future storm damage. The public hearings will be held at the following locations:

• Monday, July 29, 1991, from

7:00-9:00 p.m. Livonia City Hall, Main Floor Auditorium, 33000 Civic Center Avenue, Livonia (Five Mile east of Farmington Rd.)

• Monday, July 29, 1991, from 2:00-4:00 p.m. Troy Public Library (located in the Troy Civic Center) 510 West Big Beaver, Troy.

Following the public hearings, the Commission Staff will prepare a report on: (1) the utilities' system maintenance and emergency preparedness before the storm, (2) the adequacy of the response to the outages, and (3) options available to the commission to improve the quality of electric service and ensure the safety of the public. Consumers and Detroit Edison will be directed to reply to the staff report and future hearings will be held as needed.

The declining quality of electric service provided to Michigan citizens has been a major concern of the Public Service Commission in recent years," Chairperson Steve Fetter said. "The significant outages last week and questions raised concerning the companies' response makes it imperative that the commission investigate to assure that safe and reliable electric service is provided in the future."

Repaved Beck Road to open next month

By MIKE TYREE

Travelers weary of bypassing Beck Road rejoice: The stretch between Seven Mile and Eight Mile roads is paved and should open by mid-August.

Traffic will flow as soon as Wayne County officials complete a passing distance study, road paintings, and sign placement, said Earl Ollila, county engineer of road maintenance.

"The base paving is completed and hopefully, all of that (detail work) will be completed in two weeks at the most," he said.

County workers rolled a 4.5-inch asphalt base over Beck Road's previously gravel-based surface. An additional 1.5-inch patch of paving is to be spread next summer, Ollila said, after the initial swath has "settled in."

The county still must touch up shoulder and driveway entrance areas, he said.

But there may be a down side to a freshly paved, dust-free road. Residents have long contended that paving the stretch will create an attractive truck and business travel route from 1-96 south to M-14.

County officials tend to agree and expect the Beck Road paving to heighten traffic patterns in western Northville Township.

"I would suspect volumes would be increasing on the corridor," said Rick Hodges, Wayne County engineer of traffic operations.

The county will begin monitoring traffic and producing studies after Beck is reopened, he said.

Those studies, including traffic accident reports filed by the township police department, could lead to traffic signal alterations at the Seven/Beck and Eight/Beck intersections. Hodges said tersections, Hodges said.

Seven Mile and Beck is currently controlled by a four-way stop and four-way flashing red light system. Traffic flows along Beck would have to dramatically increase before signalization changes at that intersection, Hodges said.

"I would say at Seven Mile it would remain a four-way stop," he said.

Super Summer Sale

Changes are due at Eight Mile and Beck, though, where no signal exists currently.

Oakland and Wayne counties are nearing agreement on a cost agreement that would provide full signalization at that intersection, Hodges said.

A tentative plan would include Oakland County paying 50 percent of the cost based on east/west traffic flow along Eight Mile, he said. Novi would pay 25 percent of the signal cost, based on city jurisdiction on the north part of the intersection, and Wayne County would kick in the final 25 percent due to its southern intersection boundary.

Hodges said he did not know when a light would be constructed, but said signalization was prompted by the completion of the Beck Road paving project.

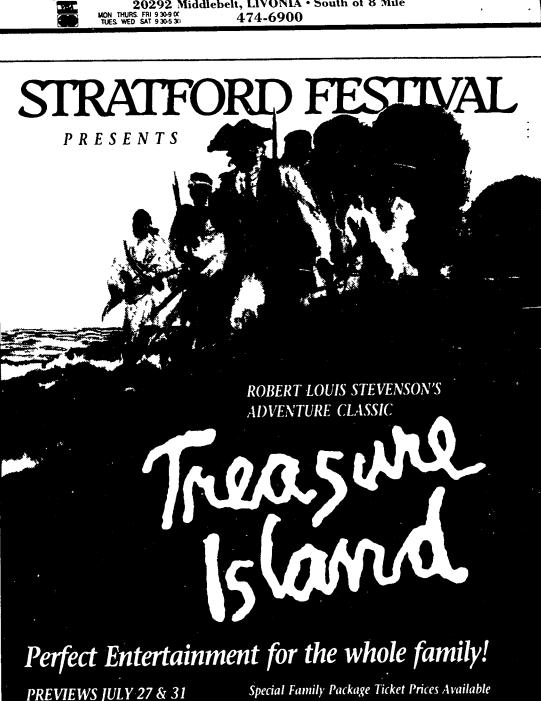

Land donation finalized

Gov. John Engler will visit Northville Township July 31 to sign legislation authorizing the sale of 16 acres of state property to the township. Engler is scheduled to sign the bill at 4 p.m. at township hall, 41600 Six Mile Road. The township purchased the property, shown above, for $1 earlier this year as part of a deal to allow state prison cap increases at Scott Correctional Facility. The property is located along Seven Mile between Northville Regional Hospital and the Michigan State Police Post.

City seeks bids for new planning consultant

By STEVE KELLMAN Staff Wnter

The City of Northville will seek bids for a new consulting firm in the wake of Planning Consultant Don Worti'man's departure from Ayres, Lewis, Norris & May.

Wortman, as a member of the Ann Arbor consulting firm, has acted as the city's planning consultant for the past three years. He left ALNM July 1 to join another Ann Arbor firm. Carlisle and Associates.

Both Wortman and ALNM have announced their desire to remain the city's planning consultant. The planning commission has worked closely with Wortman on '-site plan reviews, ordinance revisions and the Master · Plan review. Several commission members cited their desire to see Wortman remain as the city's consultant, at ' least through the commission's ongoing implementation of the Master Plan. That process could take many

The city council at its July 15 meeting reviewed four options outlined by an ad hoc planning consultant review committee July 5. The ad hoc committee consists of Mayor Chris Johnson, Council Member Jerry Mittman, Planning Commission Chairperson John Hardin and City Manager Gary Word. Its options included staying with ALNM and its designated successor to Wortman, Glenn Bowles; terminating the city's contract with the firm after the required 60 days' notice and contracting directly with Wortman; having Wortman continue as consultant through a special arrangement with the firm; or giving the firm 60 days notice and seeking new contracts for planning consultants, including ALNM and Wortman.

better consultant for the dollar, said Johnson.

"Please recognize that we're going to invite both Ayers. Lewis and Mr. Wortman to compete on this, he said.

We felt it was in the best interests to recommend to the city council that the last option be pursued," Word said. In his report to the council, Word explained in greater detail the reasoning behind his recommendation. "Following extensive discussion it became apparent that the last option was the fairest, albeit the most time consuming of the four. Implicit in the discussion and in reaching this recommendation was the City and Planning Commission's discomfort with Mr. Bowles' professional services through Ayers, Lewis, Norris & May, Inc."

The council unanimously agreed with Word's recommendation. This really seemed to be a better idea to get a 30.

Council members were uncertain whether Wortman or Bowles, who worked with the consultant on city planning issues at ALNM and sat in for him at several commission meetings, would serve as consultant during the

The ad hoc committee will select the final three to five consultant candidates and the finalists will be interviewed by the council and Hardin. The new consultant should be hired by the end of October.

Applications for the consulting position are due Aug.

Vorva calls for term limits on state politicians

VORVA: Presently, Northville and Plymouth-Canton school districts are out-of-formula. It's something that's happened over the past couple of years that's causing a problem for both school districts.

We're going to have to realize that education is our number-one priority. Education actually is the solution to most of our problems, whether it is the social ills we are faced with, or having a work force that is welleducated that will stimulate business and industry coming to us because our resource of educated people is so high that business will want to come here. It solves our social ills and solves our economic ills. We have to say you're going to have to pay for that. However, I believe in getting a good dollar's worth for your dollar.

I believe we're going to have to say not only are we going to give the students a report card, but we'll give the teachers a report card, we'll give the parents a report card, we're going to give the administrators of the school a report card — everyone is going to have to be accountable. They're going to have to realize that you can no longer take a child in a basket, set it on someone else's doorstep, and expect them to take care of the child. That's what a lot of Americans have done with the school system and it's

We have to cut costs for doing education. I have never seen a governmental unit that doesn't have fat on it. In the City of Plymouth, I came in there and we were fat and I made sure we cut. Cut people. And guess what? The services didn't change. I made sure that the polices of purchases and expenses were changed and adhered to. They weren't before. You can look at the audit report for the past 10 years prior to my coming to the board, and they all said the same thing - those things weren't done properly. Why weren't they done properly? There's no reason for them not to be run properly. We have to run our schools and governments like a business and make sure we end up with a product that is accessible and acceptable.

RECORD: Are you suggesting that Northville Public Schools could deflect a property tax cut by maintaing a tighter budget? If there were to be a property tax cut, with the school district so dependent on it, is that where they could . . .

VORVA: That's one way. When you talk about tax cut, you have to talk about services rendered. How can I deliver this service more efficiently and with less cost to my customer? That is one way you'll have to we're going to have to pay more for education. There is no question about that. It is the answer, we've known it for years and years and years and years, but we're not willing to pay for it. But I think that payment has to come from more than one area so you spread the cost of doing business fairly. And it can be done.

RECORD: More of the state general fund might go to education if you cut back on some programs?

VORVA: Well, it all depends on what those programs are. I think if you take some of the money from property tax, some of the money from tax on services, some from an income tax, possibly, and spread it over everyone so that it's equitable, so that everyone's paying their fair share and we're going to have to spend a little bit more on education. There's just no other way of getting around it. As far as the other services, I don't think there's any American out there that doesn't care about his fellow man. What we are tired of, though, is for generation after generation of people being on social services and not breaking out of it. We don't mind paying for service where we get a good product, or a good service. What's happened in the past, is we've just thrown out money. and then not had a test at the end. Is it working?

I would cut any program that is not working. I want an end result. I want the kids to come out of school and be able to read. People who are on social services need to be made whole so that they can contribute back to the system. That's why people are revolting. It's not that people don't care about their fellow man or woman. We're tired of programs not working and just throwing our money away.

RECORD: You talked about the impact you had in the city. Do you think you could have similar impact from the state seat?

VORVA: Everyone could have that impact if they want to. The problem is, everyone just goes along with the system. No one is willing to buck it. You don't have limitation of terms. You have people with all the seniority who have all the power and you can't get anything done. You have to limit terms. Another reason you have to limit terms is the way this whole thing came about. You look at all these people trading jobs; they set it up ahead of time, everyone knows it vas set up ahead of time. And that's politics as usual. I changed politics as usual in the City of Plymouth, and I can change it in the state.

RECORD: You're talking about the Law, Heintz, Breen situation, and despite their denials, you feel that VORVA: Absolutely it was, and I'll pay for the polygraph. And they can ask me any question they want first. and I'll answer it and then they can answer the questions, and we'll see who was telling the truth.

RECORD: The 36th District and especially the Northville community - hosts a considerable number of non-revenue-producing state facilities. What is the impact of these facilities on the district? Is the impact significant? What can be done to lessen the burden of state facilities on local municipalities?

VORVA: Well, one of the reasons you have a problem is that they're all ocated here — in one particular area. How did that happen? Poor planning. as far as I'm concerned. Where were our legislators before then? Where were our township leaders before then? What were they doing? Was someone missing out on the boat here? Didn't they realize where these things were landing? We need those facilities, but we have to spread it out over an area. We have to find ways to efficiently handle those situations, to cut down on the number of criminals, and to be proactive, not reactive.

RECORD: Several patients listed as dangerous have walked away from Northville Regional Hospital in the past few months. One elderly man was injur.d when a walkaway stole his car. Are you satisfied that the state is doing all it can to provide security for Northville residents while maintaining a psychiatric facility the state feels is not overly restrictive?

VORVA: It's funny you bring up that particular scenario. When I was a police officer in the City of Plymouth, I remember an incident where a person escaped, walked away, assaulted a person, stole his motorcycle and was headed south through Plymouth and I apprehended him. I caught this person that was causing a lot of trouble. But this person was really disturbed. The problem is, with diffent types of facilities, who's evaluating these people? Don't we have experts evaluating these people to determine their needs? How come they're not doing their job? How come we don't have the proper facility for the proper job?

RECORD: Apparently part of the problem stems from state budget cuts and the transfer of patients from Ypsilanti to Northville. Going back to what you said about needing more money for education, if you spend more on education, will you have to take more from the Department of Mental Health, causing the closure of more facilities and creating more of an impact on Northville?

VORVA: Here it is in a nutshell. You're going to have to have interdiction-type facilities. You're going to have to maintain what you have. That's no excuse to not take funds and solve the problem from the beginning. That's no excuse. Either you're going to solve it, or you're going to pay lip service to the citizens because you want to get elected.

RECORD: The state's failure to return racetrack revenues to communities such as Northville has created considerable financial strain on those communities. Even though the governor's office has promised to return hundreds of thousands in racetrack revenues, does the initial delay signal a worrisome precedent? What steps would you take to ensure prompt return of racing revenues?

VORVA: What's happened to Northville is that they were probably getting 95 percent of the money, and then it was cut way back and now I think ultimately you're going to work yourself back up to about 75 percent of what you were getting. (City Police Chief) Rod Cannon (has) a terrible problem there. He's not going to have enough money to hire policemen for that area. So you have a problem here that needs to be resolved. You need to have your money to operate these

That particular track is a main drawing card for this community. It is an anchor — it draws people to this community. You just can't pull the rug out from under it. It's stupid to pull the rug out; it doesn't make any sense. Money's going to have to be there to operate that facility and ser-

RECORD: It doesn't make any sense to Northville to pull the rug out, but it seems like it does make sense to Lansing to do that because it's a significant amount of money they VORVA: It's going to have to come from the top. And the real problem is all the fat that's in government and all the poor work that's done. Here we have a bunch of educated people -lawyers, accountants - sitting up in Lansing, and what are we getting for it? As far as I'm concerned, we aren't getting anything. How many days do they work in a year, 125? And you're paying them how much money? Either make their pay part time, or make them work full-time so they don't have to have an assistant and a secretarty. It's going to have to start at the top, and I believe in reforming that whole system and saying. You're going to have to go to work.

How many days a year do you work? About 280? How many does the average person work, 280? Gee, what's the matter with making our legislators work 280 days? Then you would end up with less foolishness and more serious legislation because they'd have to do the work themselves as opposed to having a secretary doing it.

We're going to have to have our le-gislators work for their money, and I'm serious about this. I'm not going to pay someone $50,000 a year to work 125 days. I want them to work just like I have to work - an average of 280 days, just like every other hard-working taxpaver. If he's working every day, you can get rid of his secretary or his assistant. Save some RECORD: Please state your position on abortion. Are you in favor of a Supreme Court overturn of Roe vs. Wade? If individual states had the right to outlaw abortion, how would you vote?

VORVA: I've always been, ever since I've been an adult, in favor of a woman's right to choose. I've always believed that; I can't imagine myself changing for any reason.

On the other hand, my opponent Georgina Goss, who was endorsed by the Michigan Abortion Rights League, has come out locally and said she doesn't know how she feels about it — in two local papers. Is that leadership? It's either one way or the

This is indicative of the same backroom kind of politics I'm talking about. In private she says one thing, in public she does the other. Which one is it, Georgina?

They decided ahead of time they were all going to trade jobs, and they did it in a back room and they did it while we were paying them. We were paying them to look out for our best interests and they were serving themselves. Once again, Georgina Goss only wants to get elected. She's waffling on it. You want waffles, go to the International House of Pancakes.

RECORD: What specific issues concern you most, other than the issues we've already touched upon? Please outline your strategies for dealing with those issues.

VORVA: We've talked about social services. Funding for the arts. The arts were very important in my education. It's important in my child's education, and I think it's important in your education. We have to have some funding for the arts, even if it's just for educational value.

family in the south. I was illegitimate. My father was 54 years old and married to someone else and my mother was 16. I lived with my grandmother and her and 16 other kids. Half of my mother's brother and sisters were illegitimate. It was a cycle that continued and continued. I picked cotton when I was a little kid with my grandmother for $2 for a hundred pounds.

A gentleman came along when I was about six or seven years old and with my mom, we moved to southern California. I received a liberal, progressive education, and that's the reason I'm here taking to you in the fashion that I am right now. And unconditional love for my mother - that's why I'm here. I know what works. I'm a prime example of that. It's time we faced up to it and stop beating around the bush.

RECORD: What makes you uniquely qualified to hold the 36th District post? Why should voters pick you? What makes you better than the other candidates?

VORVA: I think it's rather obvious. I'm not part of the inside group. I owe no allegiance to anyone except to the taxpayers who elect me. I'm a proven performer under that type of situation. I was elected in the City of Plymouth for two years. I have put down good legislation, reformed situations that were poor and made them work better. I am tenacious, energetic. I am tireless when it comes to getting the job done. I'm intelligent, I cannot be intimidated by anyone or any group. I understand how government works. I understand how it was intended to work, and that's with a citizen legislature, not groups of people making decisions because of special interests.

All of my money has come from private people, except for $200 from the Police Officers Association of Michigan, and it's obvious why they endorsed me. It's because I was a police officer before and a damn good one. The people can count on me to be there when they need me. I'm going to have a local office. I'm going to be accessible.

The people appreciate me in the City of Plymouth. They don't necessarily want me to leave, but they understand that I can service them at another level and will continue to service them at the local level. I'm not going away because I'll be working at Lansing part of the time. I'm going to make sure I come back to (Plymouth), to Northville Township, to Canton Township, to the City of Northville, and sit in on some of their meetings to make sure what it is my constituents want. They know I'm honest and that they can count on me.

Get discussion going on situation at lake

It seems residents who live on or near Waterford Pond are not the only folks affected by last winter's failure of Waterford Dam.

The fallout of the dam break and resultant emptying of Waterford Pond is painfully evident, just a few bends of the Rouge River downstream.

Phoenix Lake is filling; already silt deposits have formed a massive shoal in the northern secition of the lake. Cattails, lilypads and other vegetation indigenous to still backwaters are popping up in alarming numbers.

Geese have staked out the approximated 450-foot by 40-foot shoal as their personal hangout, and wading birds skitter along the muddy fringes. Fish slosh through the surrounding shallows, a good portion of their backs exposed to the air. And no one has refuted claims that much of Waterford Lake's floor now rests at the northern mouth of Phoenix Lake.

Once-clear waters are now clouded and muddy, and disbelieving residents - who long have enjoyed the lake - are beginning to raise their collective voice. They want elected officials to provide some answers and guidance and to bring about a resolution to the problem. One resident has posted a sign on the newly formed land: "HELP! SAVE THE LAKE"

That won't be easy.

By all appearances, the Waterford Pond, dam, and Phoenix Lake situation falls into one of those seemingly gaping cracks in the world of public vs. private domain. The Jonna Company, for instance, was the private owner of Waterford Dam. The company admittedly knew the dam was at risk well before it eroded, but when the collapse did occur. the state Department of Natural Resources could do nothing but sit on its hands (surprise!) and monitor the pond as it changed into a mud flat.

In a mind-boggling turn of events, the DNR now insists upon strict dam replacement guidelines. The Jonna Company has at least inferred that it would rebuild the dam, but will not do it if shackled with exorbitant costs and regulations.

Which leads us to the less-thanpleasing scenario that Waterford Dam might never be repaired. If so, Waterford Pond is also history and Phoenix Lake which the DNR reportedly says is filling in a "natural" manner - may follow.

It's a gloomy forecast, to be sure. But Wayne County Commissioner Maury Breen has pledged to round up all the key players, sit them down, and hammer out at least an understanding of the problem. Breen wants to know who can and can't do what as the impetus for any potential repair strategy.

We strongly support the commissioner's plan and hope he organizes the meeting in the near future. Communication is the most important step to cooperation, and a round table-type meeting could go a long way toward rectifying the Waterford/Phoenix saga.

A great time for a great cause

Northville plays host to many enjoyable annual events. Without meaning to slight any of them, the one I'd have to say is my favorite takes place this Sunday — the Folk and Bluegrass Festival.

If, on Sunday afternoon and evening, you find yourself with nothing much to do — or even if you just want a change of pace for a couple of hours - I have a suggestion. Head down to Ford Field for the Folk and Bluegrass Festival.

This can be kind of a low-key event, so maybe you're not aware that this is the 15th straight year Northville has hosted it. And maybe you're not aware that it's one of the best things that happens in this entire area.

For starters, it's a day full of terrific music. Maybe you don't consider yourself a fan of folk or bluegrass music. Well, that's okay. I suggest you just give it a chance. I bet anyone who comes to the festival with an open mind will find themselves enjoying the sounds. It's hard not to; this is good stuff, music with lots of heart played on beautiful acoustic instruments.

The lineup of performers is impressive. Headlining is John Hartford, a great performer and songwriter. His musical resume stretches from the old Smothers Brothers television: show, through composing such well-known songs as "Gentle $\,\cdot\,$ on My Mind" and "Natchez Whistle," to a host of well-received albums drawing from various musical traditions.

All the other performers are sure to please as well; they're all listed on a flier inside today's paper. But good though it is, the music is just half the attraction of the festival.

See, this event is all for charity. All proceeds go to the fight against Huntington's disease. The festival is the way Tom Rice, operator of the Gitfiddler music store, keeps a promise made to his late half-sister, who suffered from the disease. The festival is dedicated to her and to folk music pioneer Woody Guthrie, who also suffered from Huntington's, and . his late wife Mariorie.

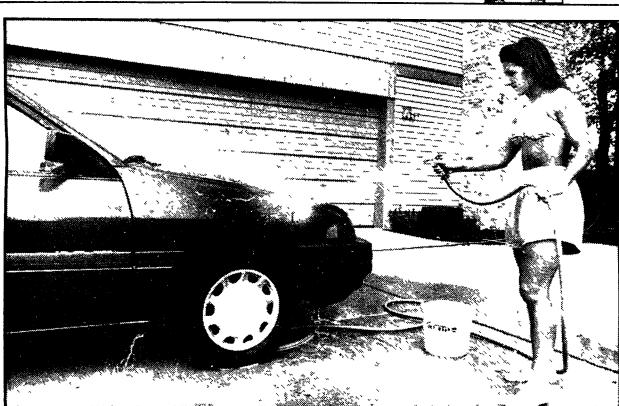

You couldn't find a more worthy cause. And you probably couldn't find a way to have more fun supporting it.

The festival runs from 1 to 8 p.m. this Sunday at Ford Field, on Hutton north of Main. Ticket information appears on page 3-A of this newspaper. I hope to see you there.

Checking out the other half

I'm not really looking to move. The missus and I are quite happy where we are - in our modest home out near Maybury State

But I couldn't resist the temptation to do a little house shopping last Sunday. We were headed back from the Saline Antiques Fair when we decided to check out the models in the Pheasant Hills subdivision - one of those swanky new subs on the north side of Eight Mile as you're headed for South

And we didn't decide to check out just any house either. We picked out a great big one.

"And how much does this particular model cost?" I asked the salesman who greeted us at the front door, attempting to appear nonchalant and wishing I had pulled up in a 1997 BMW instead of my reliable 1987 Mustang.

"This one goes for $895,000," he said.

I can t say the price tag was a total surprise. After all, I had heard rumors that the houses in Pheasant Hills are on the expensive side. At the same time, hearing the numbers live and in-person while standing inside one of those mansions was something of a jolt.

"Hmmmmmm," I replied, trying hard to sound like $895-thou was something I might consider and trying even harder not to break out into gales of laughter.

"Mind if we look around?"

"Go right ahead," he replied, politely. "I'll be happy to answer any questions.

It wasn't a bad place. Huge living room with a fireplace on the first floor, overlooking the indoor swimming pool and hot tub which were on sort of an intermediary level between the : main floor and lower level. The lower level was nice, too. Built-in bar. Pool table. Exercise room. Wine cellar (unstocked, of course), And a sauna. The bedrooms were located on the upper level. Four of 'em. ...

The master suite was nice enough with a large bath, and a fireplace installed in the wall so half of it was on the bedroom side and the other half next to the whirlpool tub on the bath-

One of the other bedrooms had its own bathroom, but the other two had to share a bathroom. Must be for the kids, I. thought.

Oh, yeah. There also was a nice winding stairway that led directly from the master bedroom on the upper level down to the indoor swimming pool. I think it was for convience in case you got the urge to go swimming in the middle of the night and didn't want to walk through the rest of the house.

"What kind of people live in this subdivision?" I asked the salesman when we had completed the tour.

"A lot of them are self-employed," he said. "They own their own businesses. Some professionals, too."

"What about all the children's bikes and toys I see in front of these places? They're not exactly starter homes for young

"A lot of professional couples are waiting until their careers are well-established before starting their families," he explained. "So? Is there anything else I can show you?" I redirected the question to my wife. "Frankly, we were looking for something where the indoor pool was a little bigger," she said. "Yeah, that's the ticket," I added brightly. "It'd be hard playing a good game of water polo in there. Besides, I don't want all those horses clomping through my living room."

Goss not best successor to Law

In the stepping down of Gerald Law as state representative for the 36th district, I am puzzled as to why a candidate like Georgina Goss — who does not hold the same priorities, attitudes, or beliefs as Gerald Law — would even be a consideration for his seat.

In the 25 years I've known Georgina Goss, especially the years that she has been in the public eye. I have become more and more dismayed at her decisions made and actions taken in regards to this community. My familiarity with her still has not been a bridge that I felt comfortable to use as a means of communication. Her answers to the questions The Northville Record asked her proved to me that her asset of "experience" really means "politics," therefore making it impossible to really get a straight

I therefore decided to meet the other Republican candidate, Deborah Whyman, and was pleas-antly surprised. Here is someone that answered my question straight on - no dancing around the issue to say what she thinks I want to hear. Deborah is soft spoken but strong in her convictions. If Ms. Whyman couldn't give me a detailed explanation of what I wanted to know, she didn't fake it, but promised to look into it before commenting fully. This is the type of person I can trust. Sitting on the fence in an always lukewarm position is not her style.

Ms. Whyman has been very active politically in the Plymouth, Canton and Northville areas and is a professional in every sense of the word. She is the only candidate running. Democrat or Republican, that is a college graduate. She is available to the public, not just the political hierarchy and is most deserving of Gerald Law's former position. Anyone else following in his footsteps would undo all the good he's done in this community and cost us money and heartache. Karen L. Lemeiux

Byrne column cord will take note of the businesses in four and exerciseable the missed on several points

To the editor:

We, as owners of Brickscape Gardens, a garden center in Northville, were appalled to read Rick Byrne's Record Opinion in the July 8, 1991 issue of the paper. We 8, 1991 issue of the paper. We thought writers wrote articles takes two based upon facts, which certainly wasn't so in this case.

We have several points we'd like to bring to your attention:

1. Brickscape Gardens have spent several hundreds of dollars each month to advertise in your paper. Our ads have been large and always in color. If you've missed these, then we suggest you take closer note of advertisements placed in your paper and the businesses they represent.

2. In the past, The Northville Record has written three detailed articles about our brick paving and nursery business located on "Old Novi Road." Perhaps you've missed

3. Our garden center has a variety of annuals, perennials, nursery stock, tools, and many other garden-related products. If we don't have something a customer is looking for, we do our best to get the item or at least refer them to someone in the area who carries it.

4. In reference to Rick Byrne not being able to locate herb seeds, if he would have come to Northville's local garden center, Brickscape Gardens, he would have found the following herb seeds:

Basil, Common Chives, Coriander, Dill, Oregano, Parsley, Sage, Spearmint, Sweet Basil, Sweet Marjoram.

The township vital actions

To the editor:

As the Student Assistance Program Coordinator at Northville High School, I work daily with the needs of students and families around the issues of cigarette, alcohol and other drug use and abuse. I am acutely aware of the relative ease by which minors acquire illegal substances and use them at will if they choose to. I am a firm believer in early intervention and prevention if at all possible which brings me to the point of this letter.

In recent weeks, two important actions have been taken by the Township of Northville and specifically, the Northville Township Police. Through the excellent support and guidance of Captain Phil Presnell, Northville Township Police Department, a program called USAM (Unlawful Sale of Alcohol to Minors) and a Motel/Hotel/Home Party Ordinance have been enacted to intervene specifically in the use and abuse of alcohol by

I applaud these efforts. Keep up the good work!

Incident As local business owners, we feel sparks new appreciation

To the editor:

An unfortunate incident on July 4 has caused me to re-evaluate and appreciate my 17 years of residency in Northville.

My home was broken into while we slept that night. I immediately called the police - they arrived quickly, located and arrested the man, and began processing all of the legal paperwork. My thanks and appreciation go out to officers Fendelet and Peters for the actual incident as well as the follow

In a fearful and confusing time how grateful I was that our police department acted with such compassion and intelligence.

Long-term, I realize how fortunate I am to live in a community where I continue to feel safe and secure knowing my rights are protected with graciousness and professionalism.

I am proud to say I live in Northville.

Criticism of band was not just

To the editor:

I am writing in response to Marge Lenheiser's letter to the editor on July 18, 1991. I feel she has unjustly criticized the members of the Northville High School Marching Band. I take personal insult to this because I have been a member of the NHS bands for four years and during this past year, as a senior, I was co-drum major of the marching band. I hope to inform everyone of the reasons we did not march in the Fourth of July parade.

Many families go on vacation during the summer. A lot of those families have band members and they choose to go away that holiday weekend. Also, the band did not choose to not march in the parade. At the end of the school year, a poll was taken to see just how many members of our seventy member band would be around on July Fourth. Around twenty or thirty students said they would be around. With those few members we would not have the proper instrumentation a band needs. Another reason we did not march is because in past years when the band has showed up with less than all of its members, we have taken criticism from citizens, noticing how small the band looks and sounds. Then everything we had accomplished that year as a band was erased in peoples' minds, because all they remembered then was how small the band looked in the parade.

And contrary to some citizens' beliefs, all your school taxes do not go to the band. By not marching. none of the band members meant to disappoint anyone in Northville. To set the record straight, our attitude is NOT, "You owe us everything, we owe you nothing," as Ms. Lenheiser believes. I personally know our attitude since I have been with the band for so long. Our real attitude is to play our best for the enjoyment of ourselves and the people of Northville. We give our talent to the community in many ways and all we ask for in return is your support, not your unenlightholism and Drug Dependence, medically de- your drinking? fined, "Alcoholism is a disease in which there is impaired control over drinking, preoccupation with alcohol, continued use of alcohol in the face of adverse consequences and distorted thinking. Generally speaking, alcoholism is repeated drinking that causes trouble in the drinker's personal, professional, family or school life. Denial of the negative effects of alcohol in their lives is common in alcoholics and those close to them. There is no known cure for alcoholism. The disease can be arrested through complete abstinence from alcohol and other addictive drugs. Alcoholism is a family disease, directly affecting others close to the alcoholic. These other individuals need and deserve appropriate help to recover as well."

By STEVE KELLMAN

Local firefighters from Northville and Plymouth have begun building a mobile home to teach children and adults about house fires.

The home, a scale model of a threeroom house complete with windows and a front door, will be used at schools and local events to promote fire safety.

City firefighter Steve Ott explained the premise behind the house to the city council at its July 1 meeting. As an educational tool . . . this kind of structure will be invaluable to us," he said. Ott described the house as "a scale model that people can come into where we can demonstrate show people how to escape a fire."

A unique aspect to the fire-safety house is the interagency cooperation involved. Ott said. This is a project that's being carried out by all four fire departments from Plymouth and Northville. Similar presentations have been made to each of the other municipal bodies."

The Northville City Council added a $500 grant to previous $500 donations from Northville Township and the Plymouth Jaycees, and gave its blessing to fundraising efforts by the fire departments.

The firefighters plan to build the house themselves, and hope to com-plete its construction by the end of things like the effects of smoke, and show people how to escape a fire."

25-foot wood-frame home will cost $15,000. That's less than it would cost to purchase one of these prefabricated, and I think we'll end up with a better house," Ott said.

> The fire departments are sending requests for donations to businesses throughout Northville and Plymouth, and plan to raise the remaining funds through donations from the businesses and civic organizations.

The three-room house will contain three different types of windows, to give people experience opening and escaping from different exits. A video monitor will be used for educational presentations. A smoke generator will further enhance the effect. "It 4,000 people in two days.

gives an aura of realism to the presentation which is, I think, very helpful," Ott said.

The need for such public education is all the more acute because of the poor record of fire safety in this country, Ott said. He pointed out that three of every four deaths in the home are fire-related, and most of the victims are young children.

Public interest in such a structure seems high in Michigan. Similar structures have been purchased by Saginaw, Southfield and Canton. The Plymouth fire department borrowed Southfield's fire safety house and displayed it at the Plymouth Fail Festival last year, drawing about

By SCOTT DANIEL Staff Writer

The parent company of Guardian Photo has agreed to sell all of the firm's assets to one of the nation's largest photo finishers.

The Nine Mile-based company is a subsidiary of Continental Inc. of Livonia. Continental and Qualex, a Durham, N.C. business, agreed to the deal late last week.

According to James Hewitt, senior vice president of administration for Qualex, the deal will be currently studying how Guardian will be integrated into the company, but added that jobs in Novi won't likely be lost.

Idea takes off like house afire

"It's a beautiful facility," Hewitt said. "The Novi facilities will remain intact."

Guardian employs about 2,000 in Michigan, he

Terms of the deal were not disclosed. The agreement is subject to an upcoming vote by Continental's shareholders.

Guardian Photo is being puchased to provide higher operational efficiencies and better cusfinishing nationally and is jointly owned by the Eastman Kodak company and Fuqua Industries,

The North Carolina company, which has 62 factories in the U.S., has annual sales of $600 million, Hewitt said. He added that Guardian Photo's annual sales are about $100 million.

Guardian has nine photo processing plants nationally, located in the northeast, midwest and northwest.

Guardian Photo was started by Detroit Pistons owner Bill Davidson in the 1950s. The company became a subsidiary of Continental in 1987, ac-

Mill Race Matters

We've reached summer's midpoint; now is the time to sign up for one of Mill Race Village's few remaining summer workshops. Classes remaining are quilting, herbal remedies, natural cosmetics, and contra dancing.

Contra dancing is being taught for four sessions beginning Aug. 20. Students will learn a variety of dances that were done during the Victorian period. These dances are the ones used at Northville's Victorian Festival Ball every year. What an advantage to be familiar with the dances before they begin. It's so much more fun to just join right in.

The other remaining workshops are all one-time sessions. Quilting will teach the basics of piecing and quilting (a pin cushion will be made) on July 29. Herbal remedies will explore herbal tonics and remedies relied on in the past. We will experiment with nonpoisonous simple remedies used for ailments in the past on July 30. Natural cosmetics will create facial creams, hair rinses, shampoos, conditioners and other beauty items from the items in nature around us on Aug. 6.

You may register for any or all of these classes by contacting the Northville Historical Society office at 348-1845 or 349-9005. Remember, sign up today.

Work is continuing on restoration of the Cady Inn. It looks like we can actually see the end in sight. The Archive Room is being painted with only installation of carpet remaining before we begin to move the collection into its new home. Look for information in this column announcing the official opening of the Archives. Cataloging and indexing of this collection will be an ongoing project, but should move along more swiftly when the materials can be consolidated in one location. You can expect to hear of the opening for the remainder of the building some time this fall as well.

Many volunteers and friends have also been busy with the ongoing replanting and relandscaping. We can now boast a new more attractive front gate to replace the tired wood frame one.

Upcoming society events include a two-day opening for the Community's Victorian Festival, Sept. 15 and 16. Also the society's major event of the year, Tivoli Fair, Sept. 28 and 29 at Northville Downs. The village will close for the season in October, so you still have plenty of time to stop by on a Sunday afternoon between 2 and 5

Marathon biker Niki Hart, 11, cools down after a long ride.

ND THARTOF BICYCLING

By CRISTINA FERRIER Staff Wnter

"I can make it, I can make it," she repeated to herself.

"I can make it." And as she said the words over and over, she began to believe it. She could make it. She could. And she did. Between June 22 and June 28, Niki Hart, 11, of Novi, pedaled all the way across the state of Michigan. Niki crossed the state with her father. Tom Hart her grandfather, Bill Hanna; and her cousins Emily and Mark Porter of Kansas City, Missouri. They traveled with a group of bicyclists in an organization called PALM (Pedal Across Lower Michigan). They started in Grand Haven and ended in Pinconning.

"My grandpa is a big biker, and I always wanted to go with him," Niki said. "He told me when I was old enough to ride a bike I could go."

"She's wanted to go with Grandpa since she was 3 years old," explained her mother, Nancy, who stayed home from the trip to care for her newborn baby.

But next year, she said, she hopes to be able to make it an entire family affair. This year's youngest trip participant was an 18-month-old, who rode in a child's seat.

Niki got her first 10-speed when she was 7 years old. Her grandfather took her into a parking lot and showed her how to use the brakes and the gears.

From then on, Niki was converted to a practicing bicyclist. It was as if it was destined to be.

This year was Niki's fourth year on the PALM trip. When she first started, she was the youngest in the group. To train for her cross-state trips, Niki rides the bike trail along I-275, traveling 15 to 20 miles per day. The PALM trips involve traveling 35 to 65 miles per day.

"If it was a really, really hot day it was hard. I'd get really tired," she said. "The first day had a lot of hills, and we didn't really get a lot of downhill. It would just level off." But she would just keep repeating the chant inside her head. "I can make it. I can make it."

PALM is fun for Niki because many of the same people participate each year. Each trip is a reunion of sorts. "And there are some people I don't even remember, who come up to me and say Oh, hi, Niki. The PALM participants traveled with small personal bags of belongings and lunches, but heavier equipment was transported on a truck. They slept in campgrounds and schools.

Before beginning the trip, the group always attends bicycle safety classes. Helmets are required on the road.

There are lots of people who have been in accidents riding a bike, and they would have been killed without a helmet," she said.

When the group reached its destination, Niki felt she could have kept going.
"It was different," she said. "I felt like I didn't even ride all that long.

"But I was happy. It felt good."

Exceptional Equestrian is fun for special kids

By DOROTHY NASH

Exceptional Equestrians is a horseback-riding program for physically or emotionally impaired children as young as 5. It includes adults also. It's conducted at the Tollgate 4-H Education Center on Meadowbrook Road just off Twelve Mile.

And Carol Megdan is its volunteer coordinator. Yes, she's a volunteer, too, putting in 20 to 25 hours a week and sometimes 40. She needs volunteers, she said.

We need leaders and side-walkers in ages from 14 and up. We have 300, but that isn't enough" to handle the 120 handicapped riders in the program. At least at the start, she said, each rider is apt to need one leader and two persons to walk alongside.

Megdan needs this kind of volunteer, especially on Friday evenings from 4 or 5 p.m. to 9 or 9:30 p.m. and also on Saturday in the daytime. The length of time with each person, she said, is 45 minutes.

"And we need volunteers to work on fund-raising," for example, in sell-ing tickets to the benefit polo match on Aug. 25 at the Detroit Polo Club.

Fund-raising, Megdan said, is necessary because Tollgate wants not only to maintain its present program, which is now in its third year, but also to expand it so it will be available in the cold weather months as well. That means building at least an arena and a stable.

"And we need volunteers," Megdan continued, "to do administrative work — typing, mailing, general office

After having been involved in Exceptional Equestrians at Toligate for a year and a half, Carol Megdan commented, "There's a lot of satisfaction in this kind of volunteering. You can't imagine how excited some of the kids are when they get up on a horse especially those who have never been out of a wheel chair."

Radar' visits Northville friends

Mike Solomon of Northville had an interesting guest at his home Monday.

Gary Burghoff, who played Radar O'Reilly on the television show MAASH, was at the Solomon residence for about an hour, and then he dined at Little Italy with the Solomons and several other people.

Burghoff was in the Detroit area working on an advertising campaign for the WB Doner advertising agency, where Solomon is employed.

Ord wins national award

Northville artist Linda Banks Ord recently was awarded the Silver Award (second place) at the Georgia Watercolor Society national exhibition at the Columbus Museum of Art in Columbus, Georgia.

The painting, Reflection Series #2, is a large, free-flowing watercolor of two figures in close-up view. The painting incorporates the concept of "color theory," which involves placing certain colors together which noticeably brighten and enhance each other. In Ord's Reflection Series #2, blues, greens and rose colors are used in -such a way.

This recognition marks Ord's 21st award in the past four years. She continues to show extensively on a state and national level.

Ord has exhibited watercolors nationally this past month at the Louisiana Watercolor Society International Exhibit at the World Trade Center in New Orleans and the Watercolor Society of Alabama National at the Montgomery Museum of Fine Arts.

She has also won awards during this same period of time at the Left Bank Gallery in Flint and the Scarab Club of Detroit.

Ord will be opening her home and studio to the community this fall for an exhibition, sale and studio tour, tentatively scheduled for October 27. It will be open to all, but for a personalized invitation with directions to her home/studio, write or call Ken Ord, Kelly Services Inc., 999 Big Beaver Road, Troy, MI 48084. The number is 362-4444, extension 528.

Ord's work is currently on display at Atrium Gallery in downtown Northville.

Dr. Douglas Vernon, the new minister at Northville First United Methodist Church, hasn't had time to hang his pictures on the walls yet. But his favorite is propped up so he can look at it.

It's a painting called "The Peace-able Kingdom." It shows a collection of animals and people lying together in a clearing in the woods.

This is my favorite painting." he said. "It shows so much peace, where the lion and the lamb lay down tegether.
I think if my ministry is about anything, it's about that. That sense of peace."

Vernon, a native Michiganian, has come to Northville after living and working in a wide variety of communities.

He was born in Flint and grew up in Jackson. He graduated from Michigan State University in 1966. Appalachian mountains. and from Garrett Theological Seminary in Chicago in 1970.

Vernon's immediate plans mainly consist of becoming acquainted with the members of his new church.

"They're helping me by having 14 backyard picnics," he said. "That's a wonderful way to meet new people." But his plans go beyond the getting-aquainted phase. "I'm concerned about managing the growth of the congregation," he said. This church is known for its fine music and youth programs. I want to make sure we keep that good quality. I need to make sure new people don't slip through the cracks. I

Fireworks display is scheduled at mall

Great balls of fire and a whole lotta shakin' will Lord and Taylor, said Elaine Kah, Twelve Oaks sponsors a fireworks display for Novi's fourth annual Michigan '50s Festival. The show begins at 9:30 p.m.

This is much better than the displays you see at your local ballpark," said Chuck Tenge, a nationally recognized fireworks consultant who is planning the show. "It's pure entertainment, featuring custom-made fireworks that will draw 'oohs' and 'aahs' from the first shot."

*People will have the best view from the southeast side of Twelve Oaks, between JC Penney and gan. It provides five days of family entertainment:

be going on Saturday, July 27, when Twelve Oaks marketing director and '50s Festival president. The display will include about 300 individually fired shells, many more than twice the size that most shows use, according to Tenge. "On top of that, our shells open up into more compartments," added Tenge, "producing really nice stuff that most people never see. This is a star act - not just fireworks."

The Twelve Oaks display is a new addition to Novi's '50s celebration. The annual festival, to be held July 24-28, is the largest of its kind in Michilive rock 'n' roll, dancing, vintage cars and street rods, sidewalk sales, clowns and magicians, lip sync and dance competitions, a '50s trivia contest, an ice cream social and pancake breakfasts.

The festival began in 1988 with 12 food booths and 30 exhibitors. Since then, it has more than tripled in size, drawing visitors and exhibitors from the midwest and Canada.

Throughout the festival, most events will occur at Novi Town Center, I-96 and Novi Road. Except for the Sock Hop Express and two dances, all of the activities are free.

Derby not for the faint of heart

By RICK BYRNE Copy Editor

Somehow, my college education didn't prepare me for this.

I strapped myself inside what was once a 1978 Mercury Marquis. Its former owner would have a hard time recognizing it, though, and in a very short time I reduced it to such a condition that he certainly wouldn't have wanted it back. I entered it in a demolition derby.

For those of you unfamiliar with this brand of lunacy, a demolition derby is a staple attraction at the multitude of county fairs which begin around the state this month. About a dozen junkyard-bound cars line up in a 100-foot square arena and smash each other around. The goal is to be the last car left running.

It's a kind of automotive survival test. The prize is generally around $500, with smaller amounts going to runners-up and heat winners.

More than 27 demolition derbies around Michigan are run by U.S.A. Demolition Derby, an organization based in Belleville.

Demolition derby is definitely a contact sport," said Sonny Hall, promoter of U.S.A. Demolition Derby. "Cars must make aggressive contact. Simple contact within the time limit does not constitute combat, and will lead to disqualification."

U.S.A. requires that cars be modifled for safety. That includes removing all glass and plastic, chaining or welding of doors, hoods and trunks, and removing the factory gas tank.

The back seat is removed, and an auxiliary gas tank is installed in its place and covered with a fire shield. Holes are cut in the hood and trunk lid for inspection.

"We try to make everything as safe as possible for the drivers and spectators," said Hall.

To increase my chances of survival. I talked over strategy with some veterans. As a spectator, you may also watch for these tactics. They'll separate winners from also-rans.

It's important to "protect your nose," or keep from getting hit in the front end. A hit to the radiator will cause the engine to overheat and seize up. For that reason derby cars deliver all their blows with the back

Another tactic is called "working the corners." Rules prohibit hitting another car in the driver's door. Therefore, a smart driver will keep his driver's door facing the action whenever possible. He'll deliver a blow, then quickly drive to the corner of the arena, effectively protecting three sides of the car from damage

From the driver's perspective, it's like bumper cars for big kids. Though some of the blows may look violent from the grandstand, injury is practi- July 27 cally unheard of. In my event, I took (and delivered) some jarring blows. A sore neck went away after a day or two, and could have been avoided with some stretching exercises beforehand.

Smashing up a car on purpose is like dipping into a vat of forbidden fruit. Delivering the death blow to another vehicle brings out a certain Neanderthal glee that feels like nothing else. I did it twice before getting wedged between two immobile cars and being disqualified.

Admittedly, this is lowbrow entertainment. You won't see Jack Nicholson and Dyan Cannon in any frontrow seats at a demolition derby. But the appeal definitely crosses all socio-economic barriers.

If you've ever been cut off by some jerk on the highway, maybe you've indulged a secret fantasy to knock his car off the road and beat it into a little ball of tinfoil. Since insurance companies and law enforcement agencies frown on that sort of thing, the next best thing would be to take in a demolition derby.

Following is a list of the derbies U.S.A. has planned for this summer.

Fall exhibition planned by artist

Northville artist Linda Banks Ord will be opening her home and studio to the community this fall for an exhibition, sale and studio tour, tentatively scheduled for Oct. 27

It will be open to all, but for a personalized invitation with directions to her home/studio, please write or call Ken Ord, Kelly Services, Inc., 999 Big Beaver Road, Troy, MI 48084; 362-4444, ext. 528. Linda Banks Ord's work is available year round at Atrium Gallery of Northville, 113 N. Center. 349-4131, or by contacting the artist at her home.

ART SHOW: New Morning School will be sponsoring an annual juried art show Saturday, Nov.

The show will run from 9:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. at the Northville Community Center, 303 W. Main St. A $1.50 admission will be collected at the door to benefit New Morning School. Artists or crafts people interested in participating should call 420-3467 for further information.

FOLK AND BLUEGRASS BENEFIT: The Northville Folk and Bluegrass Festival benefit marks its 15th year this summer with JOHN HARTFORD headlining the event.

Hartford is a well-known singer-dancer-multiinstrumentalist with impressive credentials behind him in performing, recording and composing. He has won three Grammy Awards, two for his most famous song, "Gentle on My Mind."
The event is slated for Northville's Ford Field, on Hutton just north of Main, on Sunday, July 28. As always, proceeds from the festival go to the fight against Huntington's disease.

It begins at 1 p.m. with the SILVER STRINGS

DULCIMER SOCIETY. At 2 p.m. follows the Royal Oak-based BALDUCK MOUNTAIN RAMBLERS. making their third appearance at the Northville festival. At 3 p.m. JOHN HARTFORD plays the first of two sets.

LADY OF THE LAKE, an all-female string trio out of Lansing, makes its first festival appearance at 4 p.m. At 5 p.m. perennial festival favorite NEIL WOODWARD returns.

THE FRITTS FAMILY plays at 6 p.m. At 7 p.m. comes the second set from JOHN HARTFORD. As always, there is more than music to attract people to the festival. Food will be available, and this year the concessions will be run by MacKinnon's restaurant. A major raffle is also planned.

Volunteers may help in several different capacities. Anyone interested should call the Gitfiddler at 349-9420.

CROSSROADS

"It was hard to believe we were in Romania once again."

That was John Schroth who spent three weeks this summer traveling through eastern Europe with his wife Mary. Mary's family comes from Hungary. John's family comes from Romania. They traveled to both countries by car two years ago, before the wall came down in Berlin and things began to change in eastern Europe.

The State Department has issued a travel advisory about Romania, which means that they don't recommend you travel there, but Schroth didn't know about that until after he got home. It probably wouldn't have stopped him anyway.

"When we went to Romania in 1989, before the revolution, we had a hard time getting in." he said. "The border guards searched everything. We had to take everything out of the car. They even made us open the hood. It was the same way going

*But this time, in 1991, we had no problem at the border of Romania. I paid $63 for a visa for my wife and myself. The border guard gave me a small form to be filled out, and that was

"If you drive into Romania as we did, you must buy coupons at the tourist office to purchase gas. Usually there are about 20 or more cars in line for gas, but foreigners are allowed to go ahead of the line.

I love to hear stories like that about readers who travel. Governments and public relations professionals give us the factual information we need to plan trips, but there is nothing like a personal experience to make that information real.

If you have a brief experience to share with us, in or out of the country, send it to me at 22000 Springbrook, Suite 206C, Farmington Hills, MI 48336. Feel free to include one color print of yourself in a travel setting, as long as it does not need to be returned.

THE MIDWEST is more likely to be on your calendar this month. If so, here are some of the events that may brighten your summer:

NAUTICAL FESTIVAL: The Rogers City Nautical Festival has been chosen by the state for its special list of festivals celebrating the Great Lakes this summer. It will be held July 31 through

They are advertising it as a real homecoming, Lake Huron-style. There will be brass bands, polka music, ethnic foods, a kiddie carnival, a children's parade, fishing and softball tournaments, grand prix bike race, 10-K run and fireworks

Rogers City, in the northeast Lower Peninsula 255 miles from Detroit, is known for its beaches, boating facilities, fishing and for the world's largest limestone quarry. Offshore shipwrecks are accessible to scuba divers.

The twin seven-foot Ocqueoc Falls cascade over fossilized coral limestone into natural wading pools 12 miles west of town.

MICHIGAN FESTIVAL: You can now buy a $12 admission button for the fun and games scheduled for the fifth annual Michigan Festival in East Lansing Aug 9-18. The button, which saves $3 over the gate charge of $14, will buy you four weekend days of music, dance and folklife activities as well as general admission to 10 evening concerts

A stopover guide to Hawaii

Advance planning is the key to enjoying this tropical paradise

By CHRISTINA ZAROBE Special Writer

Hawaii is not just for honeymooners and family vacations anymore. Strategically located between Asia and the U.S. mainland, this island paradise has attracted a new type of tourist—the business traveler.

As U.S. corporations have increase their business trade with Japan, Korea, Taiwan and other Asian countries, Hawaii has become a common stopover between East and West.

The layover may be only for a day or two, but a weary business traveler can still get a taste of the rich Hawaiian and Polynesian cultures as well as some much needed rest and relaxation. An island stop breaks up what can be as long as 15 hours of flying time from the Midwest to Asia.

The key to a Hawaiian mini-vacation is knowing in advance what you want to see and how long and how complicated the excursion will be. By applying the same business practices used in the financial world—research and a bit of time management—a stopover can offer nearly as much as a full vacation.

Hawaii's cultural scene is constantly evolving as the stream of both visitors and immigrants from the South Pacific and Asia continues, but visiting a few choice sites can be both informative and enjoyable. It can also help you plan a longer stay another time with your family.

stay another time with your family.

Renting a car is the best way to see Oahu, the most populated of the islands and home of the capitol, Honolulu. With a map in hand, getting around Oahu is not difficult—remember, you're on an island so don't panic about getting lost.

Midwesterners find convertibles almost irresistible, but remember that part of the reason Hawaii has such colorful rainbows is because of its frequent, misty rains, known here as "liquid sunshine." They are not storms that will drench your car interior and belongings, but expect things to be dampened.

ROYAL HAWAII

IOLANI PALACE, built in 1882, is the only palace in the United State. The official residence of King Kalakaua and Queen Liliuokalani, the last monarchs of this island kingdom before its overthrow in 1893, the palace is conveniently located in downtown Honolulu at King and Richards streets.

Pad around the palace with your guide, wearing cloth slippers to protect the soft wood floors, and you'll receive a concise history of a crucial time in Hawaiian history.

Despite the island's isolated position in the Pacific, King Kalakaua was fond of European finery. Notice the Bohemian crystal and the Parisian china in the royal dining room. The Hawaiian Koa wood used on the graceful stairway is as rich as the legacy of royalty in the islands.

While the monarchy ended tragically, the $6 million restoration of the palace gives visitors a sense of the flamboyance of the kings lifestyle. Balls were held in the crimson and gold throne room, with guests spilling out onto the lanai that encircles the palace. The king would entertain until dawn along with his guests; who were not allowed to leave before the king.

A couple from Oklahoma City were touring the palace when they recognized a plant stand in the royal bedroom. It was a reproduction, similar to a plant stand they had bought at a flea market back

When they checked the bottom of their plant stand in Oklahoma, the couple discovered the royal seal which was traditionally imprinted on royal belongings. The plant stand was returned to palace officials and is now on display.

Tour time: 45 minutes to an hour. Call (808) 522-0832 for reservations. Admission $4. Open 9 a.m. to 2:15p.m. Wednesday through Saturday.

HANAIAKAMALAMA, the Queen Emma Summer Palace in the Nuuana Valley, is maintained by the Daughters of Hawaii in a charming Victorian setting with a dash of Hawaiian show.

Queen Emma was born in 1836 and later became the wife of King Kamehameha IV. Tucked back from a busy highway on a slight hill, the summer getaway home is surprisingly private.

The small palace is filled with priceless and exquisitely handmade furniture, such as the koa wood cradle for Emma's son; his godmother was Queen Victoria. The large feather plumes signifying royalty sway in the cool breeze that travels literally in the front doorway, through the house and out the back door.

Tour time: about 30 minutes. Open 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. seven days a week. Admission, $4. Located at 2913 Pali Kwy., Honolulu; 595-3167

GOLDEN BEACHES

It's the stuff Midwestern daydreams are made of—pristine, deserted beaches as far as the eye can see. Or, if you like a bit of scenery in a skimpy bathing suit, there are packed beaches where tourists from Germany, Japan, Australia and beyond come to bake under the hot Hawaiian sun.

HANAUMA BAY BEACH PARK on Kalanianaole Highway (72) past the well-to-do neighborhood of Hawaii Kai is the place to go for spectacular vistas. Shaped in a splendid half circle, the bay can be photographed from the parking lot above before you follow the steep paved path down to the beach This is a good place for snorkeling Cet there early on weekends because people are regularly turned away when the parking lot fills. It's located along the coastal highway, so parking is risky.

If you plan to go to Hanauma during the week, keep in mind that there will be major construction on the highway as it heads out of Honolulu for the next several years. Traffic slows to a standstill during morning and afternoon rush hours. Travel time: East of Waikiki, about 45 minutes plus traffic jams.

ALA MOANA BEACH PARK, on Ala Moana Park
Drive off Ala Moana Boulevard (92) west of Walkiki, is easier to reach, especially if you only want to spend an hour or two tanning. It is located across the street from Ala Moana Center, a huge outdoor mall with Chanel, Gucci and Cartier shops, as well as more reasonably priced stores.

Ala Moana Beach is nice because there is a grassy picnic area, a cool respite from the blazing sun. Locals camp out all day at Ala Moana next to a barbecue. There is parking on a two-lane road along the beach.

For walking, jogging or even roller skating. Magic Island, a man-made peninsula, is located on one end of the beach.

TROPICAL SCENERY

THE PALI LOOKOUT, on the Pali Highway (61) about five miles past Queen Emma's Summer Palace, is the place to stop for breathtaking views. If it's a clear day, bring your camera. You will get an entirely different perspective on the Hawaiian landscape.

From the Lookout everything looks lush and green, completely opposite from the volcanic scenery you found around Hanauma Bay. Deep ridges are carved into the mountains that stretch on for miles.

CHINAMAN's HAT, a small peaked island, can be photographed through palm trees from the North Shore. You can get there via the coast road past Hanauma Bay or via the Pali Highway; either way will take you around the volcanoes to Highway 83.

This excursion can take the better part of a day but it is beautiful. The North Shore is famous for attracting surfers from around the world who take on the huge waves such as the Bonzai Pipeline. The lifestyle is very laid back.

I felt like I had gone through a time warp back to the 1960s: long hair, Volkswagen Beetles and vans everywhere. After the glitz of Waikiki, the North Shore is refreshing. Be sure to stop in the pretty little harbor town of Haleiwa, near the old sugar plantation town of Waialua. Art galleries, surf and T-shirt shops line the streets.

Stop at Kua Aina Sandwiches, at 66-214 Kame hameha Highway, for excellent hamburgers and sandwiches. Then, wander down the street and have a shaved ice for dessert at one of the many stores that sell the sweet concoction. To speed the trip back, cut through the middle of the island past the pineapple fields on H-2 and H-1 highways which eventually lead back Honolulu.

A couple strolls past the Iolani Palace, located conveniently in downtown Honolulu. Built in 1882 and restored at a cost of $6 million, the palace gives visitors a sense of the flamboyance of King Kalakaua's lifestyle.

Schwagle wins six-state age group title

Local star goes 7-0 in Indy

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN Staff Writer

Tennis followers throughout the midwest are learning what people in Michigan have known for some time - that Northville's Mark Schwagle can really play the game.

The Northville High School junior completely dominated all comers en route to winning the United States Tennis Association (USTA) Boys 16 Western Closed Championships in Indianapolis earlier this month. Schwagle — a two-time Michigan Class A finalist — went 7-0 and did not drop a set in the week-long tournament, which qualifies players from a six-state region (Michigan, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Wisconsin and West Virginia) for the 1991 USTA National Tournaments.

Seeded fourth, Schwagle joined 128 of the finest 15- and 16-year-olds in the midwest, including Novi's Mark McGrew.

"I had a good draw — probably the easiest of the top four seeds," Schwagle said.

To win the title, Schwagle had to get past the top two seeds in the semifinal and final rounds - and he did so impressively. Top-seeded Mashis-ka Washington of Swartz Creek the brother of professional tennis player MaliVai Washington — fell to Schwagle 6-4, 6-4 in the semis.

"I had beaten (Washington) twice last year, so I was pretty confident," Schwagle said.

In the finals, Schwagle disposed of second-seeded Ron Mencias of Indiana in straight sets (6-4, 6-2).

"I'm playing pretty well now," he said. "I'm serving and volleying better and my ground strokes aren't a problem. The finals were tougher than the score indicates, but I played well."

With the exception of a nagging case of tendonitis in the knees, Schwagle is healthy and injury-free. That wasn't the case in early June when a shoulder injury hampered his drive for the state high school singles title.

"My shoulder is fine now," Schwagle admitted. "I just need to worry about the knees. They are sore most of the time."

The top-12 finish in Indianapolis qualified Schwagle for a spot in the National Western Closed Championships the first week of August in Kalamazoo.

"The tournament in Kalamazoo is the biggest one this summer for me," Schwagle said. "Hopefully, if I play well I could win it. But more realistically, my goal is to place in the top

Following two very successful high school seasons — that included a pair of WLAA singles titles -Schwagle will return as Northville's No. 1 player next spring, but he has yet to make a decision concerning his senior year.

"I'll play (high school tennis) my junior year, mainly because we'll have a good team," he explained. "Ive been to the (MHSAA) State Meet alone the last two years and I'd really like to go as a team. I think we should probably make it as a team next

"I don't know what I'm going to do for my senior season."

Schwagle's long-term goal is to earn a college scholarship and, if possible, give professional tennis a shot.

These USTA tournaments are much more important to me than the high school stuff." Schwagle said. The college recruiters don't seem to pay much attention to high school tennis and you don't play for national rankings. It's bascially for fun and for

"I'd like to eventually get a scholarship to a good college and then see if I progress enough to go professional."

Another reason Schwagle is returning to high school action is the opportunity to play on the same team as younger brother Matt, who will be a freshman this fall. Matt also competed in the USTA Western Closed Championships earlier this month for 13-14 year olds. Held in Okemos, the younger Schwagle teammed with Michael Russell of Bloomfield Hills and advanced to the doubles finals before falling to John Cheregi and Charles Nelson (6-0, 5-7, 3-6) from Illinois. In that match, Matt was forced to use his partner's spare racket after breaking strings on both of his rackets. It was a freak occurrence that had a big impact on the McGrew - who was Novi's top singles player as a freshman last season. went 4-2 at the Western Closed in Indianapolis, but failed to place in the top dozen. He was seeded 15th and reached the fourth round before falling to eighth-seeded Brooke Blain: of Bloomfield Hills 6-1, 6-4.

As in all qualifying tournaments. losers from the first four rounds are fed into a consolation draw. McGrew needed to win two more times toautomatically qualify for the Nationals, but it didn't happen. He fell to higher-seeded Brad Goldberg 6-2, 7-5 in his next match

As the host of the NABF Sophomore and Junior World Series, Northville will offer you a lot of top-notch sandlot action this summer.

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN Staff Wnter

If it's mid-summer in Northville, it must be NABF World Series time.

For the sixth straight year, Northville is preparing to host the National Amateur Baseball Federation Sophomore World Series — a tournament featuring some of the top sandlot teams in the nation for 13- and 14-year-olds. The festivities get under way today (July 25) with the opening ceremonies slated for 8 a.m. at the Northville High School Baseball Field. The double-elimination tournament will conclude on either July 26 or 27.

"I'm looking for a strong, well-balanced tourney," Tournament Director Bob Frellick said. Five teams will fight it out for the 1991 title. The host team is Northville's Sandy Koufax A squad, which finished the regular season at 10-10 and is coached by George Surdu.

Late last Sunday, the rest of the field was finalized after the completion of regional playoffs. The Michigan Region winner - Warren TSI - will open the tournament at 9 a.m. today against the Dayton Raiders, winners of the Maryland Region. The Northville entry will then take on the Miamisburg (Ohio) qualifier at noon, for the right to meet Gassneys - the St. Louis Region winner who drew a first-round bye - at 9 a.m. on July 26.

The Northville Koufax team won 10 of its final 14 games and wound up placing a respectable eighth in a 22-team league this summer. As a result, Surdu has high hopes for his team's chances.

"We are real excited, especially since we've been able to selectively recruit some pitchers from other teams in our league," he said. "We should have a strong pitching staff."

As a matter of fact, Northville picked up a total of five hurlers, and they all come from a Riverview squad that placed second this summer. Throw in Northville aces Ron Marshall and Dave McCullough, and the pitching looks solid.

The team's top hitter is Jason Rice, who led the team with a .491 average and 24 RBIs.

According to Frellick, Warren TSI is making its second appearance at the Sophomore World Series (the first was back in 1988). The Michigan champs won their division and were undefeated during the regular season. The Miamisburg entry comes in with a fine 42-7 mark.

"Gassney's from St. Louis comes from a new region, so we don't know much about them." Frellick said. "As the for the Maryland team, they are from a strong program and we expect them to be tough

"And don't count out Northville. With the picks they got in the draft, they've really improved

Northville will also play host to the NABF Junior World Series (for players 15-16 years old) on Aug. 1-4. Some of the consolation games of this eightteam tourney will be played at the Novi High School Baseball Field.

The host team is the Northville Mickey Mantle squad, which just wrapped up a 12-8 regular sea son. They will play an as yet-undetermined team from Georgia on Aug. 1 at 3 p.m. at the Northville

Northville Mantle drop final three

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN Staff Writer

With the NABF Junior World Series fastly approaching, the North-ville Mickey Mantle squad wanted to finish the regular season in winning fashion. But just the opposite happened as the locals dropped their flnal three games in a row, including a 9-0 shutout at the hands of the North Farmington/West Bloomsield (NFWB) American Legion team on July 20 at the Trenton Tournament.

The score in no way reflects the closeness of this game." Northville Manager Joe Staknis said.

In the blistering heat, Northville starter Steve Christenson blanked a powerful NFWB team for the first seven innings, and the game went into extra innings tied at 0-0. Christenson kept NFWB off the scoreboard until surrendering six runs in the 10th. Reliever Ron Marshall gave up three more runs to provide the final

"It was a defensive duel of titanic proportions," Staknis said. "They threw their best pitcher and Steve Christenson was equal to the task "NFWB was 20 0 in our league but they weren't on our regular-season schedule, and we wanted to see how we could compete against them." In nine innings of work, Christenson allowed four hits, two earned runs and nine walks. He also fanned nine batters. Northville did threaten offensively several times, but never got the key hit. The locals had a run ner at third base with one out in both the fourth and seventh innings. They (NFWB) showed why they are undefeated, but we also know that we can play with anyone," Stak nis said. "Christenson certainly de served to win this game."

LIVONIA 8, NORTHVILLE 7: On July 18, the locals dropped a heart breaker to Livonia in eight innings "We apparently will play up or down to the level of our opponents,"

Staknis said. A three-run homer by Christenson "They (NFWB) showed why they are undefeated, but we also know that we can play with anyone."

> JOE STAKNIS Northville Manager

gave Northville a 3-1 lead after one inning, but Livonia inched in front in the third and eventually opened a 7-3 advantage in the top of the fifth. In the bottom of the inning, Northville narrowed the gap to 7-6 and then tied the score in the sixth.

It remained 7-7 until the eighth . when Livonia scored the gamewinner on two errors and a ground out In the bottom of the eighth, the locals loaded the bases with no outs and then — unbelievably — hit into a triple play. Joey Staknis pitched all eight innings and suffered the loss. He allowed nine hits and six earned runs.

WESTLAND 6, NORTHVILLE 1: A late game rally on July 16 enabled Westland to break a 1-1 deadlock and beat Northville 6-1 Christenson turned in another great pitching performance, but he didn't get much offensive support. Northville scored once in the second inning (without the aid of a hit), but then proceeded to strand 10 runners twice with the bases loaded We needed the proverbial timely hits and didn't get them," Staknis

Westland broke the game open with three runs in the fifth and two more in the sixth but none of the ' runs were earned Christenson allowed just four hits and four walks while striking out 10

Northville ended the regular season with a respectable 12 8 record.

Annual road race to Mackinac to start in Novi

By DENNIS TOPOLINSKI Staff Writer

While many boaters will be taking to the waters this weekend in the annual Port Huron to Mackinac Race, others will be eyeing a similar destination — only their feet will be their primary means of support.

For 27 relay teams the only way to get to Mackinac this weekend will be along the back roads and beaten paths of interior Michigan.

From July 26-28 the second annual Race to Mackinac will be taking place. "Road Kill" is one of the 27 entries and is comprised of runners from the Novi Trackers running club: Bill Smith of Northville, John Rogucki of Hartland, John Hunt and Jeanne Wolford of Brighton, Doug Goodhue of Milford, Bruce Coffin of Fenton, Tim Emmett of Redford, Bill Jones of Bloomfield Hills, Brett Milley of Plymouth and Bill Scott of Commerce.

The race was originally designed for runners to challenge the boats in the annual race to Mackinac, and last year the landlubbers handily defeated the winning vessel by almost 12 hours.

Because of that, running teams are now seeking to defeat the opposing relay squads as well as the boats cruising on Lake Huron.

In 1990, the winning relay team from Grosse Pointe turned in a time of 33 hours, 42 minutes and 40 seconds.

"I wanted to get in the relay last year but I never got around to it," Rogucki said. *But I'm pretty excited about it this year, as is everyone else on the team. I've always liked running in team races."

The format of the race works like this: The contest begins at 5 a.m. Friday at the Novi Town Center. Runners then stride northward through such sites as Clarkston, Frankenmuth, Bay City, Pinconning, the Huron National Forest and the Mackinac State Forest.

The 330-mile race is divided into 53 stages, each ranging in distance from three to eight miles. Runners are responsible for logging at least 25 miles over the three-day affair.

While the yachts have nothing but water and waves ahead of them, the runners must endure often harsh geological conditions. Indeed, washed-out bridges, muddy bogs, slippery river banks and overgrown roads are among the obstacles competitors must deal with throughout the route.

This will be an iron-man type race," Rogucki said. "On the first day, I have to cross over a river and run on some tough trails. But that's what I like. Plus, this race should toughen me up for the fall marathons.

Randy Step, the owner of The Fitness Source in Novi who brainstormed the relay race, said a difficult course was purposely chosen in order to add some flair to the event.

We take the roads least traveled by," said Step, who also participates this year," he said. "In one week, 27 in the event. "We took topographical maps and tried to choose the most difficult course there was. When we found a road that dead-ended, we had the course go beyond that, sometimes over abandoned bridges.

"We wanted the course to be tough to give the race a different appeal. We also wanted it to be out of the way so that everyone could enjoy the not-sowell-known areas of Michigan."

Last year's race began in Port Huron, but Step said he was turned off by the tremendous crowds and packed hotel rooms, so he moved the start to Novi.

"It'll be a lot nicer now because there are some beautiful places to run in northern Oakland County and lower Michigan," he said. "The whole course is just great."

But the physical condition and the actual race aren't the only reasons runners have flocked to the event, according to Step.

"We limited the entry to 25 teams teams had already sent the forms back with their checks. We didn't even have to advertise.

Division II

The thing is, the camaraderie of the relay is incredible. We spend three days together running and camping out. And the runners really pull for each other the whole way. When they finally get to Mackinac, it gets pretty emotional. There's always a lot of hugging and crying."

Rogucki said he is looking forward especially to the camaraderie aspect of the race.

We'll be camping out for two nights along the way and then there will be a big party in Mackinac City," he said. "So we'll be there to have fun and also compete. But that's how team races should be."

Not everyone makes it to Mackinac on foot, however, as runners often end up getting sidelined because of injuries. But when that happens, teammates pick up the slack and continue onward while the injured runner rides alongside to cheer them

Step said relay races are in high demand across the nation, so that was one of the reasons he started the event.

There are some big races in other states that are just so hard to get into," he said. "So I started this one up. It has really taken off. We may allow more teams in next year, but it depends on if we'll be able to handle that many people."

This year, more than 400 people and 150 vehicles will make the trek northward. Step said he would have to find a large enough camping area to accommodate more if the race grows bigger. "We've already cut our own campground in the Au Sable Forest that we will stay in on the second night," he said. "I don't know how many more people we can handle.

No matter, as long as runners like Step, Rogucki and the Road Kill team have difficult terrain to run over, they'll be ready to put up with any conditions.

GREAT LAKES TOUR: The Great Lakes Amateur Golf Tour has expanded to Western Michigan and four regional tours: 1.) West Metro Detroit, 2.) Northeast Metro Detroit, 3.) Kalamazoo/Battle Creek, 4.) Grand Rapids/Muskegon.

1990 marked the inaugural year for brothers Rob and Dean Naudi, and Roy Gaddey with the Great Lakes Amateur Tour in the metro Detroit area, and from all indications, it was a major success. Over 650 players attempted to qualify for 260 tour cards, and play some of Michigan's finest courses.

The Great Lakes Amateur Tour is every golfer's chance to play "The Tour." Patterned after the PGA tour, the players will compete with players of equal ability in four different handicap divisions. The players must play two 18-hole qualifying rounds in May to earn their "Tour Card" and be eligible to compete in their section of the Great Lakes Amateur Tour.

Late surge gets Delwal into playoffs

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN Staff Writer

A 15-9 come-from-behind victory over Fleger on July 21 was just enough to qualify Novi-based Delwal for the fourth and final Livonia Colleglate Baseball League (LCBL) playoff spot. Delwal ended up three points ahead of fifth-place Hines Park.

The locals looked good in the early going as they raced to a 5-0 lead after two innings. Fieger rallied for six runs in the third to take a brief lead, but Delwal regained the lead with two runs in the fifth and then salted away the victory with an eight-run explosion in the sixth.

Billy Hardy (Michigan) led the attack by going 3-for-4 with two RBIs and three runs scored. Mike Schwartzenberger (3-for-4), Vince Sacco (3-for-4) and Todd Bruce (three RBIs) also contributed. Pitcher Tim Bruce (University of Detroit) went to 5-1 with the victory as he fanned five and surrendered 11 hits. Paul Mancini (Michigan State) notched the FIEGER6, DELWAL2: On July 19. Dewal dropped a hotly contested game to Fleger.

The locals managed just five hits and two came from Hardy. delwal starter Leo Hutchinson (Eastern Michigan) struck out eight, but surrendered two walks and two hits in the three-run fifth inning.

Todd Bruce (U-D) knocked in both Delwal runs in the fifth.

Jason Ahee (Hillsdale) broke a 3-3 tie with a two-out single that drove in Eric Sumpter (Michigan State) for the winning run in the fifth inning.

Delwal took a 1-0 lead in the first on a Steve Money (Michigan State) triple and a Billy Hardy RBI, then briefly feli behind 2-1 before regaining a 3-2 advantage in the fourth. A run-scoring double by Schwartzenberger was the big hit in the rally.

Starting pitcher Tim Bruce held Fleger to one earned run and struck out nine. He is now 4-1 on the Fleger's RBIs came from Bill Flohr and Aaron Mach.

LCBL STATS: Delwal wound up

DELWAL 4, FIEGER 3: Delwal the 1991 LCBL regular season with a edged key rival Fieger by a single run top-half finish in the eight-team field, on July 17 at Ford Field in Livonia. which is quite impressive for a firstwhich is quite impressive for a first-year franchise in a collegiate league. Not surprisingly, Delwal players were among the LCBL league leaders in almost every statistical category. Former Brighton star Ron Hollis who will play for Bill Freehan at the University of Michigan this fall - led Delwal and was second in the league with a .444 batting average. Michigan State's Eric Sumpter was sixth in the LCBL with a .413 average and was also among the top three league leaders in RBIs with 22.

In the pitching categories, Delwal's Tim Bruce sports a fine 1.34 earned run average in 36% innings of work to rank second in the league. In addition, Delwal's Leo Hutchinson leads the LCBL in strikeouts with 57.

Making exercise more productive

Has jogging around a track again and again got you feeling like you're getting nowhere fast?

Does facing an hour of bouncing up and down to the same aerobics tunes long-since memorized seem impossible?

If another 15-minute session on a stair machine seems like an effort in futility, then maybe a more productive exercise session is in order.

Few would argue that exercise is not important in and of itself. But for a change, try a little home maintenance or repair to finely tune those Skeptics need only look as far as the landscaping men and women working on the lawns of Northville homes for the proof. If the rippling muscles of landscapers seen manicuring local front and rear yards is not proof enough, then head back to the gym for another 50 laps.

But if you're convinced, here are a few ideas for home maintenance and repair guaranteed to get the heart beating and the muscles pumping. Sand a wood floor.

What to look for in a personal trainer

Dear Myrna: I read your column on personal training. I compliment you on your answer in your column. I am that client who gets personally trained. I am requesting you write a little on personality. I have had two trainers with bad personalities and it is tough, if a personal trainer isn't fun, or at least pleasant, it could be an awful experience.

OK, personal trainers — here we go again.

You certainly are correct in your comments about personality. Being a personal trainer requires a certain personality type. You need to enjoy working with people and to be comfortable with some degree of intimacy.

A trainer must nurture and encourage clients and not let them be intimidated by the trainer's being in shape. The trainer should try to be the client's friend with some authority. They must be sensitive and demanding as the same time.

CREATIVE LIVING

The Camellia 1

Storage space galore!

By James McAlexander Copley News Service

It has been said that no home can ever have enough storage space, but in the Camellia 1 the designers made a valiant effort to belie that old saw. With more closet and storage space than is found in many larger homes, this is truly a small home-owner's dream.

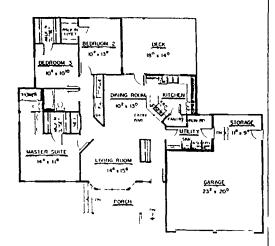

While most modern home designers include walk-in closets in the master suite, this plan has one in each of the other two bedrooms as well. And all three of them are substantial in size. In addition, two linen closets make good use of space along the hallway to the bedrooms, there's an entry closet, a pantry, cupboard space in the utility room, and still more storage space in the garage.

The dining room isn't exactly formal as it is only partially separated from the kitchen by an eating bar with a built-in range and oven. The room opens onto a partially covered deck and is totally open to the living room as well. Some families might prefer to outfit it as a family room, installing a home entertainment center here and a couch or a few comfy chairs along with an expandable table for dining.

The master bedroom features double vanities located in a dressing area outside the water closet. By using a sliding door to separate the two, the designers have avoided problems that a hinged door would create in such small spaces.

For those dark and snowy winter nights, the passageway from the garage into the utility room makes it easy to park and be safely and warmly inside closed garage doors before leaving your car. In addition to the extra storage space in the garage, there's also room for a workbench. And the utility room is fairly large, with counter space for folding, a utility sink and a fold-down ironing board.

In the living room, the bay window overlooks a covered porch complete with railings and posts. The porch adds a touch of country charm to this otherwise contemporary home.

IN THE WINS

From old tires and small planks of wood suspended by rope to the double glider with canopy and the hanging porch variety, home swings have been a longtime favorite of generations of families.

By ROXANN STEC

The appeal may stem from childhood remembrances of the soothing feeling of being rocked to sleep or just gently cradled back and forth in mother's arms.

Bob Beattie, manager of the the Sun Valley Casual Furniture retail store in Hamburg, believes the demand for yard and porch swings has increased because people are getting back to their roots and "remembering the days when their grandmother had one and sat and rocked with them."

rocked with them."

The store Beattie manages is a division of Moon Valley Rustic Furniture of Clarkston, which supplies many area and out-of-state retailers with yard and porch swings.

Main's Garden Center at 4669 S. Old 23 in Brighton Township carries the three Moon Valley swings—porch, single and double glider—and according to yard manager Randy Marburger, the swings sell the best in mid-spring.

Each rustic-looking swing is made of cedar, has a slatted fan back and slatted seat and is varnished.

The porch swing has a 48-inch seat which may accommodate two people, is suspended by chains and sells for $135.

The freestanding single-glide yard swing has a 60-inch seat suspended from a log-like A frame, seats three people and sells for $229.

The double-glide yard swing has two facing 48-inch seats suspended from a frame, operates by pushing on the platform or footboard and costs $529.

Striped, canvas canopies with pipe frame and in colors of beige and rust and blue and gray may also be ordered at $115 for the single glider and $145 for the double glider.

The Fuelgas Division Euro Propane Co., at 645 E. Highland, Howell, also carries the single and doubleglide Moon Valley swings for $135 and $229, respectively, but is currently conducting a close-out sale to get rid of stock.

The company will also specially order the $135 porch swing and the canopies priced at $115 for the single glider and $149 for the double-glider, but require a deposit.

Kelly Coffey of Fuelgas also said that there has been an increase in sales over past years.

"I think we've sold more swings this year because more people are staying home and relaxing or fixing up their yards and not going on trips," Coffey said.

The Country Squire, at 209 W. Grand River Ave. in downtown Howell, sells a blonde-colored porch swing with horizontal plank chair that may also be used on an A-frame for backyard use. It sells for $120 and the freestanding swing also has side shelves that drinks may be set Salesperson Pauline Aldrich said that the swings sell very well.

Terry Farmer of 10087 Spencer Road in Brighton Township bought his backyard swing at a garage sale two years ago and said his family frequently uses

Ken Weed of 732 W. Grand River Ave., Howell, has had his dark gray wicker porch swing for three years and bought it for approximately $300 from Wicker Works of Hillsdale.

Weed said that while he enjoys using the porch swing, he also believes they can be dangerous, as he has toppled over backwards in his. He suggests that porch-swing owners put a heavy rope or wire behind the back as kits only include the two side chains for hanging.

"I think people can tip over in them because the chains really don't offer support behind the chair," Weed said. "I had to put a rope behind the back of mine."

Beattie, however, said that people can't tip over in the swing because of the angle of it when hanging. He did caution users, however, from swinging too high but said that the company has never had a safety problem with any of the swinge

According to Beattie, the swings are extensively tested for safety and weight limitations with certain criteria such as checking hooks.

Evelyn Fogle of 403 E. Clinton, Howell, said that her husband, who is now deceased. built their yard swing 10 years ago and that they used it quite a bit.

She now enjoys sitting in the swing in the early morning watching the traffic go by and with her family during events such as the Melon Festival or Memorial Day Parade or when just relaxing

Time-share vacation homes grow popular

By James M. Woodard Copley News Service

In summer months, a family's thoughts often focus on the dream of owning a vacation residence. It could be a condo or rustic cabin in the mountains or on the shore of a lake or ocean—a favorite getaway place where they can occasionally settle into a second home.

After the initial excitement and enthusiasm about such a plan comes the financial facts of life. This leads many families to purchasing a "slice of ownership time" at a selected resort instead of totally owning their own residence.

An increasing number of vacation time-share units are being sold. And the factors that are motivating buyers seem to be changing.

That was the subject of a recent study by Lynn Masterson, Ph.D., a professor at Appalachian State University and director of the university's commercial recreation management degree option.

The study revealed that age, geographic origin and children living in the home had significant impacts on what families are seeking in a vacation time-share unit For example, Canadians expressed most interest in socializing golf, tennis and sightseeing

Families in the Pacific region are less interested in golf and tennis and definitely less interested in meeting other owners. Masterson reported. Families with children rated tennis and skiing higher than other groups

Single owners of time hare units place high priority on evening entertainment and convenience to local night spots. Shopping is particularly important to women—fishing and golf facilities to men

Prospective time-share buyers over age 60 want an orientation session and tour of the area before making a decision

"Resort developers try to position their time-share offerings to match vacation expectations." Masterson said. "It's important that they pay close attention to varying tastes and preferences."

The Masterson study report was carried in Vacation Industry Review, a popular trade magazine published by Worldex Corp.

The ability to exchange a timeshare unit with others is also very important to many owners, it was reported.

"Owners who exchange vacation time want to receive pretravel information about the resort and its area," Masterson said.

These studies influence the type of services planned and offered by major exchange networks like Miami-based Interval International, according to Arthur Simons, executive editor of Vacation Industry Review.

"Most industry leaders now recognize that long-term success within the time-share industry requires knowledge of what satisfies owners," Masterson said. "This knowledge is essential if a time-share product is to effectively produce a quality vacation experience"

Q. Now that real estate sales are up, will auctions phase out of the marketplace?

A. Real estate auctions seem to be an established and permanent sales technique in the market. The number of homes sold by auction companies in this country rose from about 16,000 to over 25,000 per year between 1987 and 1989, according to a report from the National Association of Realtors.

Along with private owners, the federal government is marketing an increasing number of homes through auctions. This includes homes owned by the U.S. Housing and Urban Development and Resolution Trust Corp. In fact, the largest real estate auction ever was recently held by the RTC.

Q. What are prospects for an up or down real estate market in coming months?

A. Most real estate industry leaders point to a continued strengthening of the market — slow but steady gains in activity. That prognosis applies to the rest of this year and 1992.

Unique German plaque dates to late 1800s

By James G. McCollam Copley News Service

g. Enclosed is a picture of a plaque. It is marked with a castle and the name, Mettlach. Underneath are the initials,

"V.B." and "2622." We have researched it in the books under Mettlach with no results.

If you can help, I will be grate-

A. Your plaque was made in Mettlach, Germany, by Villeroy & Boch in the late 1800s.

It's a choice collectible and would probably sell for about $325

9. This mark is on the bottom of my antique soup tureen with matching ladle. It is decorated with an Oriental design in blue, orange and green. It is 14 inches

Can you tell me anything about its origin and value?

A. Your tureen is Mason's Patent Ironstone made in Lane Delph. England, between 1830 and 1845. It's a valuable piece, worth between $330 and $400.

Q. We have a small porcelain figurine of a little girl putting on a pair of gloves. It is marked "The New Gloves" and "Goldscheider" and "Made in Aus-Can you evaluate this and estimate when it was made?

A. Your figurine was made in Vienna about 1930, shortly before the company moved to Trenton, Goldscheider figurines are very popular with collectors: this one would probably sell for $500 to

Marx toys are being collected. How about a two-door coupe from the 1930s? It is painted red, black and brown and is in good condition. It is about 8

A. You are right in your assumption that this is a collectible. Marx automobiles such as you describe are selling for about $100 in good

g. I have a World War II poster for Defense Bonds & Stamps. It depicts a U.S.A.F. pilot saying, "You buy 'em-we'll fly 'em!" It measures 14 by 10 inches. Can you tell if this is very valuable?

A. Your poster dates back to the 1940s, of course; it would probably sell for close to $100 in good condition.

Removing rust from freezer is do-able

By Gene Gary Copley News Service

9. How can I remove the rust from the white enamel finish on my freezer? Also, is there something I can do to prevent it from rusting?

A. Rust on major appliances can be a very serious problem. Once the rust begins, it is often difficult to keep it from spreading. If the areas affected are minor, you can probably use a commercial rust converter and repaint with a matching enamel. There are several brands on the market. Check your local hardware or auto supply store for recommended products.

One such product is Rust Avenger, which comes in a handy-to-use pen applicator (manufactured by 3M/Retail Automotive Products, BLDG. 223-4S, 3M Center, St. Paul, MN 55144). A arust converter chemically converts The rust into a paintable primer.

First scrape the rust residue. then apply the product according to manufacturer's directions.

When it has dried the surface is ready to be painted. This type of product is great for touching up nicks, scratches and areas where rust damage is not extensive.

However, if your problem has spread, you may have to get into major sanding and painting, even parts replacement, to correct the problem.

Another option would be the application of a new porcelain coating applied by a professional refinisher.

prevent To rust, it is important that you keep your appliances in a dry place. Damp basements. garages or breezeways where they are unprotected will cause problems.

Keep the appliance clean. Wipe with a clean, damp cloth frequently, using mild, non-abrasive cleaners. Consult your appliance's use and care manual for specific cleaning instructions. Apply a coat of paste wax such as that used on automobiles. This will help protect the finish from damage by moisture and dirt that can cause rusting.

so rust does not get a chance to form and spread. Most appliance manufacturers sell such paint to match your appliance's color.

Q. A friend of mine has a bathtub that has a lot of rust stains all over the bottom. She wants to paint the tub with a regular spray paint.

I don't think it is a good idea because of the warm and hot water. This is a steel tub, and I believe the paint would peel.

Could you tell us something about this? Can it be painted and if so what type of paint should be used?

A. Do not use a regular spraypaint enamel on your bathtub. It will certainly peel and deteriorate. You can paint the tub fairly successfully with the newer epoxy or polyurethane paints now available. These are plastic coating systems.

The most durable of these paints come in two-part systems that react chemically when combined to form an exceptionally strong bond and durable finish that has excellent resistance to the permeation of water.

They are difficult to apply successfully. Be sure to follow manufacturer's directions carefully including the preparation of the surface to be painted (some type of etching of the surface is best to assure maximum bonding of the

Although painting can be successful, a better method of refinishing is to have a new synthetic porcelain glaze applied. This is not do-it-yourself process. It takes a trained professional to apply the new finish accurately.

The refinishing process requires that the entire surface be cleaned sanded and chemically etched. Rust is chemically removed. Cracks, chips - and pits are filled and sanded smooth. Several coats of primer and the final finish coat is sprayed on.

The new coating is available in several colors, and custom colors can be mixed. Check with firms that specialize in repairing and refinishing bathtubs and sinks. It is best to obtain price estimates and information on the type of guarantee provided from several different contractors. You also might want to check with previous customers for recommendations on their work

Q. Over the years, my dishwasher has become dingy and dirty on the inside. It still cleans the dishes, but I would like to know if there is any particular product that would clean away stains and water deposits.

A. Powdered laundry bleach will help considerably.

Simply fill the soap container with the bleach instead of dishwasher detergent. Run the machine empty for the full cycle.

This will both clean and disinfect the washer.

THE R.O.I. ON ADVERTISING IS NOW A HARD NUMBER. AND YOUR COMPETITORS MAY ALREADY HAVE IT.

What is the real impact of advertising on profitability? If you spend less, how much do you hurt your brand? If you spend more, is there any real gain?

Perennial questions, to be sure. And now some hard answers have come from a comprehensive research program* conducted by The Strategic Planning Institute with the Ogilvy Center for Research and Development.

For more than 15 years, the Institute tracked 700 consumer businesses through good and bad economic cycles, in both North America and Europe. The unique study was called PIMS (Profit Impact of Market Strategy).

Using this substantial data base, researchers were able to determine the extent to which the level of advertising influences the "perceived value" of a product, and how this perception affects both the relative market share and the relative market price of the product.

Measuring these factors against what really happened in the marketplace, scientists were then able to quantify the direct impact of different advertising strategies on profitability and on growth.

Their finding: "Brands that advertise much more than their competitors average returns-on-investment of 32 percent, while brands that advertise much less than their competitors average only 17 percent return-on-investment."

In other words, it not only pays to advertise—it pays more to advertise more.

In an era when productivity so often is understood only in terms of cutting costs, this research reaffirms the enduring importance of adding to the sales value of the products you sell.

And it proves that, even today, there is still no better way to build a consumer perception of added value than through the use of advertising.

For more information about this important new research, write to The Committee on the Value of Advertising, Department A, American Association of Advertising Agencies, 666 Third Avenue, New York, New York 10017.

We'll send you a booklet that will lead you to one, and only one, conclusion. When it comes to determining your advertising budget, there truly is "strength in numbers."

Education helped firm find success

By SUZANNE HOLLYER

In 1971 the Pyant family left their home in Detroit and moved to Novi's Village Oaks subdivision. The move helped set the course of life for William Pyant Jr. and ultimately the en-

Pyant skipped half of his ninth grade year in Novi schools. In the eleventh grade he signed up for vocational training in computers through Novi High School and the Southwest Oakland Vocational Educational Center, now known as the Oakland Technical Center's Southwest Campus.

On 10 IBM computers in the vocational school classroom, Pyant learned the basics about an industry he would later make a career. To me, that room was filled with nothing but toys," he said.

Pyant took his basic education in computers to Michigan State University, where he received a degree in computers.

Now Pyant, 34, is the vice president of a million-dollar-a-year business. He credits his education at Novi High School for some of his and his family's success.

Owned entirely by the Pyant family, Input / Output Computer Aided Designs (IOCAD) is run by William and his brother Kevin, 31, in their Detroit office.

Their father, William Pyant Sr., maintains a full-time job outside of the family business. The senior Pyant, who still lives in Novi, is the president of the company, having supplied the financial backing to get the graphics information systems business off the ground.

The business began in 1986 as a computer-aided drafting firm with only a few computers. Today, IOCAD offers a range of computer graphics services using computers on the cut-ting edge of technology.

Kevin Pyant, also a vice president at IOCAD, was the first family mem-home seems to be on a treadmill. For a growing number of families and young adults, homeownership may appear to be just out of reach.

For many, the everyday costs of living and rising rent costs continually eat away at the savings needed to make a down payment and pay closing costs on a first home.

The result is that many families delay or even abandon the effort to become home owners. The good news is that there may a way to fight back.

The Michigan Association of Home Builders' (MAHB) "Yes, You Can" campaign is designed to inform prospective home buyers that now is the time to enter the market due to low interest rates, readily available mortgages, and stiff builder competition.

The MAHB has taken an active role with its ability to influence the legislative policies of federal, state and local governments. But it is every citizen's right to make his or her voice heard by our governing bodies.

Following are a number of MAHB proposals which differ in detail, but promote increased homeownership and affordable housing:

• Support the enactment of a long-term national housing policy that provides increased homeowner-

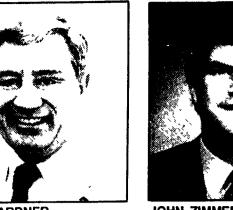

The American dream of owning a ship opportunities for low and moderate-income home buyers.

- Support an increase in the Federal Housing Administration's mortgage limit targeted to the median sales price of homes and each locale's housing market conditions.
- Support provisions that allow home buyers to withdraw funds from their IRAs and 401 (k) plans to meet down-payment requirements on a first home.
- Support measures that will increase badly needed affordable rental housing and keep existing privately owned rental housing in the affordable rental housing industry.
- Support the expansion of housing support services available to the homeless and our increasingly elderly populations.

By working together, the MAHB and its local home building associations hope to ensure that the American dream of homeownership is a reality for our nation's future generations.

The Michigan Association of Home Builders in Lansing is comprised of 8,500 member companies representing over 400,000 people in the home building/construction industry. with 35 local home builders associations throughout the state.

RUS GARDNER

JOHN ZIMMERMAN

As a former wrestling coach in the Novi Schools, RUS GARDNER was named Coach of the Year in Michigan three times.

Today, as an agent for Farm Bureau Insurance, Gardner is still

A resident of South Lyon, Gardner has earned the 1990 Distinguished Sales Award, recognizing him as the top Farm Bureau Insurance agent in Michigan. This is the fourth year in a row that Gardner has earned the company's highest sales honor. Gardner, whose office is in Novi, is the first agent in company history to earn the top award so many times.

The award is presented annually to the top Farm Bureau Insurance agent in Michigan, based on outstanding sales achievements and superior client service. Gardner led the company in several sales categories last year, including new issued life policies, new life prememium, new auto premium, and new property-casualty policies. His life insurance sales last year set two all-time records in the company.

The Detroit office of Price Waterhouse has announced the promotion of Novi resident KUMAR RANGABASHYAM to the position of senior manager in the management consulting services department of the firm, effective July 1.

Military personnel serving in the Persian Gulf received support from a variety of sources, including the Michigan Association of Certifled Public Accountants. Member firms lent their assistnace to an "Information Day" held for Ann Arbor area Family Support Groups, an organization of families for those serving in the Desert Storm conflict.

Among those participating on behalf of the MACPA was CPA JOAN HURSEY, a tax specialist from the Northville firm of LEE HOL-LAND AND ASSOCIATES, PC.

More than 500 people attended the event held at the Ann Arbor Regent Hotel. Other sponsors included the American Red Cross, Veterans Administration, the Support Our Soliders group and the Internal Revenue Service.

Dearborn Federal Credit Union announced the promotion of KIRK F. HARTMANN to associate manager of the marketing department.

Hartmann, a Northville resident, joined Dearborn Federal in 1990 from his previous position as first vice president of produce development at First Federal of Michigan.

Three members of BRUCE ROY REALTY, 150 N. Center, Northville, "Northville's Broker," were recently honored at the Embassy Suites Hotel in Livonia. The Board of Directors of Western Wayne Oakland County Association of Realtors has named owner/broker GENE: KOMARYNSKI, sales manager JUDY CULLEN and agent ROD OEHR-ING to their prestigious 1990 President's Club. The decorative plaque they were presented with epitomizes the Association's "Professional Realtor - a Realtor of high sales production (over a million dollars in sales last year) and one who gives back to the association in donated. time (i.e., association committee involvement, etc.).

The two new agents, JORGE BUENDIA and LINDA DALY, were watching intently to learn how they can receive the prestigious award next year. Buendla is recently out of the Air Force and is attending-Henry Ford Community College. Daly is a recent college graduate and soon will become a mother.

Highland resident JOHN ZIMMERMAN was recently appointed producer at THE COVIDEO COMPANY.

Zimmerman's duties will include creating video presentations forbusiness development. His past experience includes producing videosfor such organizations as the United States Olympic Committee, American Society of Executive Management and the Society of Auto-

Most recently Zimmerman was public relations director with: American Way Service Corp. He was producer and director for Pro Am-Sports System (PASS) for six years. He also worked for the Metropolitan Detroit Convention and Visitors Bureau and was program coordinator for Greater Media Cable in Walled Lake.

FARMERS PETROLEUM COOPERATIVE recently appointed BILL REIF as manager of the FPC Highland Retail Center.

Prior to his hiring by FPC, Reif managed Homer Elevator in Homer, Mich., and Countrymark Elevator in Leslie. He holds a degree in Elevator and Farm Supply from Michigan State University.

Comerica Bank recently named South Lyon resident MICHAEL L. MICHON vice president of Michigan middle market banking and JAMES M. BEHEN, also of South Lyon, to the position of installment loan officer.

Michon, who holds a bachelor's degree from the University of Michigan and a master of business administration degree from Central. Michigan University, joined the company in 1985.

Behen joined the company in 1982.

Milford resident JOHN E. ODELL was recently re-elected depuy: district director of the Michigan Association of Governmental Employees. Odell is park manager with the Department of Natural Resources.

KENNETH ROBERTS recently relocated his dentistry business from Toledo, Ohio, to Huntington Square in South Lyon.

KENNETH W. ROBERTS, D.D.S. P.C. provides complete family dentistry 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. and by appointment. The office is located at ; 614 N. Lafayette.

Effects of Advertising on Return-On-Investment

ADVERTISING ALMOST DOUBLES YOUR RETURN-ON-INVESTMENT. (THE ADVERTISING CLAIM ADVERTISING COULDN'T MAKE UNTIL NOW.)

Traditionally, even advertising's strongest supporters have hesitated to ascribe numbers to what experience has taught them is the value of advertising.

Now there's proof. The Strategic Planning Institute's PIMS (Profit Impact of Market Strategy) data base now provides systematic evidence on the way advertising drives profitability and growth.

The study,* done with the Ogilvy Center for Research and Development, draws on more than 700 consumer businesses in North America and Europe, durables and non-durables. It also spans the years 1970 to 1986—a range that covers both rapid inflation and slow inflation, through both good and bad years of the business cycle.

Using this substantial data base, researchers were able to determine the extent to which advertising levels influence a product's "perceived value," and how this perception affects both a product's relative market share and also its relative market price.

Measuring these facts against real market performance, the researchers were then able to quantify the direct impact of different advertising strategies on profitability and growth.

Their finding: "Brands that advertise much more than their competitors average returns-on-investment of 32 percent, while brands that advertise much less than their competitors average only 17 percent return-on-investment."

In other words, it not only pays to advertise, it pays more to advertise more.

Much More

Relative Advertising Spending

Much Less

In an era when productivity is often understood only in terms of cutting costs, this significant research affirms the enduring importance of adding to the sales value of the products you sell.

And it proves that, even today, there is still no better way to build a consumer perception of added value than with advertising.

For more information, you can write to The Committee on the Value of Advertising, Department A, American Association of Advertising Agencies, 666 Third Avenue, New York, New York 10017.

You'll get a booklet that spells out all the findings of this important new research. It just may be the most persuasive advertising material you've ever read.

you ve ever reau.

John Hartford

To call John Hartford multifaceted is a vast understatement. He sings. He dances. He writes. He plays three instruments. There is no simple term to describe the many albums he has recorded in the past 20 years, but they all confirm one thing: John Hartford is a genuine free spirit.

Hartford could have retired long ago just on royalties from a song he wrote, "Gentle on My Mind." Far from resting on his laurels, however, he has pursued a myriad of interests, most especially the riverboat life that has always captivated him.

He first received national exposure on The Smothers Brothers Comedy Hour and The Glen Campbell Goodtime Hour. He presented the audience with a tall, lanky frame holding a banjo, trademark derby cocked and singing lyrics that required careful listening.

Major success came with his "Gentle on My Mind," which brought him two Grammy Awards. He earned a third for his landmark album Mark Twang.

With financial security came the chance to return to the river. He earned a riverboat pilot license and became a frequent crew member aboard the steamboat Julia Belle Swain. He expanded his responsibilities as a curator of an outstanding collection of riverboat memorabilia, and authored the book Steamboat in a Comfield.

The balance and harmony this has brought to the man is bountifully reflected in the artist, in his work and in his performances. Today, he is in constant harmonious communication with his audience and often tap clogs on a specially made piece of plywood or leaves the stage to sing and dance in the aisles.

He has evolved into a musician who plays the styles and sounds of music he likes best. Hartford has positioned himself in teh middle of the oldest and most enduring traditions of country music.

He is scheduled to play at the Northville Folk and Bluegrass Festival at 3 and 7 p.m.

Silver Strings

ety is a locally formed group that combines the sweet sounds of several hammered dulcimers with harpsi-

The Silver Strings Dulcimer Soci- chord, fiddle, guitar and more. The result is a lively and beautiful sound rich in tradition. The society kicks off the festival at 1 p.m.

Balduck Mountain

Making their third appearance at the local festival are the Balduck Mountain Ramblers, playing at 2 p.m.

The band is an acoustic ensemble dedicated to playing the finest American string-band music. This allows them to wander freely from bluegrass to cowboy music, from the sea chanties to drinking songs. No folk or classic pop tune can be considered safe when they're rolling.

The band's philosophy dictates that it's not what you play, it's how you play it. The group is proud to be the only known string band named after a popular landfill.

Lady of the Lake

New to the festival but familiar throughout the Midwest is Lady of the Lake, a string trio based in the Lansing area. They play at 4 p.m.

Karrie Potter, Wanda Degen and Pooh Stevenson formed Lady of the Lake in 1983. Based in the Lansing area, the group known for its threepart harmonies also combines autoharp, banjo, bouzouki, cello, flute, guitar, mountain dulcimer, and mandolin to create music that can be gentle, fun or haunting.

The Fritts Family

The Fritts Family Band, playing at 6 p.m. in its third straight festival appearance, had its beginnings when Larry Fritts was 12 years old. Larry heard bluegrass and early country music being played and convinced his mother to get him a guitar.

Inspired by an uncle, James Dugger, and other local musicians, Larry began to study under the direction of the late Buddy Rose, a celebrated bluegrass musician.

Welcome

It seems hard to believe that it's already been 15 years since we set up a stage off the back porch of our old store and spent a long, cold afternoon listening to folk and bluegrass. That's how it all began, our first annual festival to benefit Huntington's

I lost my half-sister to Huntington's disease in 1974. Just before her passing she made a very special request. She asked me to do anything I could for her three children, Lori, Dean, and Sean, "who are at risk of contracting this hereditary disease." I took that promise to heart, and between my wife, Rita, and I, we came up with the idea of a festival. Its purpose is not only to raise funds for research, but also to bring a better public awareness of Huntington's disease and its tragic results.

Marjorie Guthrie spent over 10 years watching her husband, Woody, deteriorate in lowly mental institutions, suffering with HD. She fulfilled a promise to him that she would educate legislators in Congress to appropriate funds for HD research. In 1984 Marjorie passed away knowing we were heading in the right direction. There has been progress in the research of genetic, neurological diseases.
