Students help out at home

By SUZANNE HOLLYER
Staff Writer

Sunaina Gill started volunteering at Star Manor of Northville to fill a community service requirement at Mercy High School in Farmington Hills.

Her requirement is filled, but she still visits the Main Street nursing home every day.

"I could have stopped a week ago," Gill said last week. "I like it so much, I just keep coming back."

When she went to the nursing home to fill a requirement, the 17-year-old girl would stay for one hour.

"Now I'm staying longer; I'm having so much fun," Gill said.

Thirteen-year-old Becky Keys is spending some of her summer days at Star Manor.

Her father suggested she begin volunteering at the home. She thought about it, and decided to try it out.

Now she is a regular volunteer. "It's fun to make everyone happy," she said.

Kate VanDerworp, 13, is another regular volunteer. VanDerworp came at the suggestion of Keys.

VanDerworp and Keys travel each day to Star Manor from their Northville homes. But Sabine Schmitt came from Brazil.

Politics lively during Victorian era

Each Monday until the Victorian Festival, Sept. 13-15, the Record will publish an article on some aspect of the Victorian era. Today's story looks at politics.

By SUZANNE HOLLYER
Staff Writer

The Victorian era is named for Queen Victoria, who occupied the English throne from 1837 until 1901. The early part of her reign — the 1830s and '40s — were active decades politically.

George Eliot wrote in the 1860s that the '30s and '40s were a time of hope "when faith in the efficacy of political change was at fever heat in ardent reformers."

Author Dorothy Thompson later wrote that the changing political atmosphere at the time allowed for the acceptance of Victoria as queen.

"It was the atmosphere of hope and the faith in peaceful, political change which led liberal and radical politicians, even those who inclined towards republican views, to welcome the advent of a new, young monarch who contrasted in every way —

Township settles on trash hauler

By MIKE TYREE
Staff Writer

Northville Township and an Inkster-based firm on Thursday tentatively agreed to a preferred-status trash-hauler contract.

The township board accepted Painter & Ruthenburg's $6.08-per-household, per-month bid, contingent upon final review by township attorneys, engineers and Trustee Thomas Handyside.

The township and hauler will enter a four-year contract if the tentative agreement is approved.

The agreement will affect some 3,100 single-family homeowners in Northville Township. Board members pointed to Oct. 1 as a possible start-up date for solid-waste, compostible, and recyclable materials

pick-ups

Selected condominium developments and apartment complexes will retain individual haulers, Township Manager Richard Henningsen said.

Other subdivision and rural residents will have to contract with Painter & Ruthenburg or sign on with a firm that will provide services up to township standards.

The township's new agreements will force residents to separate recyclables such as newspaper, plastics, and glass from their trash. No determination on pick-up dates for solid waste made recyclable materials has been made.

Township officials say the move to a preferred-status hauler will dra-

Meeting slated on walkaways

By MIKE TYREE
Staff Writer

Walkaways are leaving Northville Regional Hospital in "epidemic proportions," the township police chief says.

The state hospital director says it's not true.

The township supervisor hints that legal action might be the only way to remedy the conflict.

Township officials and state hospital representatives planned to meet this morning in an attempt to sort out heightened tensions caused by concerns over psychiatric hospital walkaways.

Supervisor Georgina Goss requested the meeting after at least 10 hospital patients walked away from the Seven Mile facility during the past week.

One patient walked away from hospital grounds Aug. 13, and allegedly stole a worker's pickup truck from the Northville Trail construction site off Six Mile Road. The patient was still at large Friday afternoon, state hospital Director Walter Brown said.

Police records indicate that at least 68 hospital patients have walked away between January and July 31, 1991. Fifteen patients are still at large, police said.

Topics of this morning's meeting were to include security staffing, walkaway routes and the type of patients admitted to the hospital, Goss said.

Victorian Fest seeks helpers

Putting together the annual Northville Victorian Festival, Sept. 13-15, is a massive undertaking, and the Northville Community Chamber of Commerce welcomes help.

A meeting of the Victorian Festival Committee last week outlined several different ways in which anyone interested may assist the cause. Anyone wishing further information about the following options should call the chamber at 349-7640:

• Setting up and taking down chairs.

Entertainment Chairperson Judy Dore is looking for volunteers — it would be ideal for groups of Scouts — to manage chairs near the bandshell. In addition, the festival will need help setting up, and taking down, chairs and tables for nonprofit groups to operate their booths on Center Street.

• Decorating for the ball

The location of the annual Victorian ball will move this year to the Northville Community Center, 303 W. Main. Volunteers are needed to help decorate the building so it looks like a period mansion.

The decorating crew will start at 8 a.m. Saturday, Sept. 14 and probably work until mid-afternoon. Ball co chairperson Edward Postiff of Edwards Caterer promises lunch to everyone who comes out to help decorate.

• Walking in the parade
The annual parade will begin about 6 p.m., and organizer Mark Cryderman welcomes participants to matically decrease collections costs.

"The board felt that accepting the low bid with conditions as noted would effect a major cost savings to the residents of Northville," Supervisor Georgina Goss said.

Thursday's agreement moves the township closer in line with Wayne County's solid waste master plan, which calls for individual municipalities to develop solid-waste and recyclable materials strategies and lessen burdens on landfills.

The township board began looking closely at trash collections last winter.

Bid invitations attracted a half-dozen firms interested in the township's contract.

The selection process lagged at times — implementation of a solid-waste ordinance was pushed back from June 30 to Sept. 1 — but Painter & Ruthenburg's combined $7.01 bid for both solid-waste and yard-waste collections was considerably lower than its competitors.

When the firm persuaded the board that it had an agreement with a disposal firm to provide landfill space through the duration of the township contract, the deal was sealed.

Township officials say the Oct. 1 start-up date may be optimistic, but pledged to meet this week with Painter & Ruthenburg representatives to work out collections details. The start-up date will coincide with recyclable materials collections, as well.

The township earlier this year announced a deal with Browning-Ferris Industries that will provide township residents with four years of free recycling services. The deal is not official, but is expected to be finalized soon, Supervisor Georgina Goss said.

Both Painter & Ruthenburg and BFI will work with the township to create educational programs for solid-waste and recyclable collections.

Victorian Festival looks for helpers in several areas dress up in Victorian finery and walk along. In keeping with the era, motor vehicles are decidedly unwelcome. Kids should be accompanied by an adult.

Anyone interested should gather at 5:30 p.m. Friday, Sept. 13, at the Northville Community Center, 303 W. Main.

● Staffing a booth for your group.

The festival is looking for non-profit groups that wish to run their own fund-raising booths on the streets during the festival. Especially needed are groups interested in staffing a chicken or turkey concession, or other food booths.

Representatives of interested groups should contact Sarah Minor at 348-8596 or 348-8568.

● Donating to the auction.

For the first time this year a silent and verbal auction will be part of the festival. Co-organizer Paul Foster is looking for some business or individual to donate a big "hook," a major prize to headline the event. A trip to the Bahamas or something similar would be perfect.

● Informing the chamber of sources for Victorian costumes.

The chamber will serve as a referral service for people interested in getting appropriate dress for the festival, and it welcomes submissions of sources for period clothing. Marris said the chamber wants to develop a list of individuals willing to make Victorian costumes or ball gowns, and that list will be available to anyone who wishes to pursue that course. In addition, the chamber is developing a list of costume shops where festivalgoers may purchase or rent clothes which are already made.

● Working the information booth or other assorted tasks.

The festival runs Friday through Sunday, Sept. 13-15, and Marris said the chamber welcomes volunteers to work any or all of the three days. Specific jobs include things like crowd control for the parade, assisting with the family auction, and staffing the information booth. Call the chamber at 349-7640 to volunteer or for more information.

● Donating money.

SUPERINTENDENT INTERVIEW SCHEDULE CHANGED: The Northville School Board will not interview a candidate today at 4:30 p.m. due to schedule changes.

Norine Blake, Superintendent of the Lincoln Consolidated School District, has withdrawn from the search.

Blake was scheduled to be interviewed today at 4:30 p.m. The board still will interview Larry Thomas at 6:30 p.m. today. Thomas works in the West Bloomfield School District.

Another change will be made in the Tuesday interview schedule. David Zuhlke, a superintendent in the Yale Public School District, accepted a job with another school district. Instead of interviewing Zuhlke, the board will meet Michael LaBay at 8:30 p.m. LaBay is a superintendent in the New Haven School District.

The remainder of the schedule stays the same. The board interviews Holland Public School Superintendent Ronald Rolph at 4:30 Tuesday, Aug. 20.

Wednesday, Aug. 21 the board interviews local candidates. Northville Executive Director for Special Education Leonard Reznierski will be interviewed at 6:30 p.m. Northville Assistant Superintendent for Instructional Services Dolly McMaster will be interviewed at 8:30 p.m.

Thursday, Aug. 22, the board interviews a superintendent from Ohio, Errol Frank, at 6:30 p.m. and a superintendent from Iowa, Larry Beard, at 8:30 p.m.

On Sunday, Aug. 25 the board will meet at 6 p.m. to decide on the finalists.

All of the interviews are open to the public. They will be held in the board's conference room in Old Village School, 405 W. Main St.

DISABILITIES COALITION BUILDING: The League of Women Voters of Northville/Plymouth/Canton will participate in a project of LWV Michigan and the Michigan Developmental Disabilities Council.

The project focus is coalition building. Participants will conduct a survey that will address barriers to the political process for people with disabilities including physical access, attitudes of poll workers and clerks, transportation, time and location of meetings, and communication barriers. The final product will be published in the community.

The objective of this project is to help handicapper organizations and their leaders learn about forming coalitions and working within those coalitions. The LWV is still seeking a cochair from the handicapper community. Interested citizens and groups are encouraged to participate. A meeting will be scheduled in September. Contact 349-9005 for additional information or to become involved.

TREE DEDICATION PROGRAM: Forty-two sugar and Norway maples will be planted on both sides of the lane of Mill Race Historical Village, across its entire eastern edge, and around the parking lot across the front berm.

Each tree is available for a donation of $250 and may be dedicated to a family member or someone else. Trees will be planted in October. Specific tree location selection is available on a first-come, first-served basis.

This program is a continuation of Mill Race's overall landscape plan, developed by historical society member Tom Holleman of Dumas Construction.

To reserve a tree contact Sally Henrikson at the Northville Historical Society office, between 9 a.m. and 1 p.m. Monday, Wednesday, and Friday, at 348-1845.

NON-PROFIT GROUPS WELCOME: The third annual Northville Victorian Festival is scheduled for Sept. 13-15, and organizers are currently seeking non-profit groups who are interested in operating a booth during the festival to raise funds for their organization.

They invite you to join Northville in participating in this unique event. The Victorian Festival is a great way to earn money for a group while having a lot of fun. For more information, call Sarah Minor at 348-8596 or 348-8568.

Musical stores

Another round of moves hits the downtown area

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

Business owners engaged in another game of musical stores in downtown Northville this month as they jockeyed for position on Main Street.

The round started when Dan and Carol Hussey, owners of the Little People Shoppe, moved from their spot at 103 E. Main St. to the new MainCentre building and renamed the store Pied Piper in the process.

The Husseys own similar stores in Ann Arbor and Plymouth.

That move allowed Preferences store owner Peggy Robison to move her gift shop down a flight of stairs, from the second-floor location in the Uptown Shops at 107 E. Main St. to her new streetside spot at 103 E. Main.

Robison had spent nearly four years in the upstairs location.

Preferences specializes in custom silk flower arrangements, which Robison simply calls "silks."

"We have mainly home accessories, pictures, lamps, mirrors, dishes, and custom silks, and at Christmastime we switch to mostly Christmas items," she explained.

"I wanted to be uptown where the action is . . . I've seen more people wander through here in a day than I did in a month at my old location."

SUSAN SHERWOOD
Sherwood Picture Framing

Besides increasing her visibility, the move gives Robison double the space of her old location. She was still trying to fill up that space last week.

"I'm hoping to be open Saturday, but I don't know if we're going to make it," a weary Robison said Wednesday. "It's really tore up here right now."

With the sound of hammers knocking in the background, Robison explained that the move was taking longer than she had anticipated. "I had no idea I had this much stuff," she said with a laugh.

Robison said the move downstairs was designed to increase her store's visibility. Being located up a flight of stairs limited her store's exposure, she said.

"It was, of course, inconvenient for a lot of people, and I was missed a lot."

Even so, the store owner taking Preferences' place is thrilled with the location. Susan Sherwood, owner of Sherwood Picture Framing, said the move from 342 E. Main St. to Preferences' former location would mean an instant increase in potential customers.

"I wanted to be uptown where the action is," she said while unpacking boxes and hanging pictures at her new store. "I've seen more people wander through here in a day than I did in a month at my old location."

Sherwood spent just over two years at her former location, east of Hutton Street.

As the name implies, Sherwood's store offers a variety of frames. "I've got about 3,000 frame corner samples to pick from . . . I've got some boxes (of samples) I haven't even unpacked yet," Sherwood said.

"And I do repair and restoration of antique frames," she said.

But Sherwood said she is happiest when building frames for needlework art and antique photographs, and she specializes in shadow boxes, "memorabilia boxes, I call them."

Other specialties offered at Sherwood's store are Staffordshire English pottery, and works by wildlife artists including Charles Frace and Alan Hunt.

The eclectic collection of items at her store is a reflection of Sherwood's own interests, she said.

"Whatever strikes my fancy, I grab."

In addition to the jockeying on Main Street, Baby Baby has also entered the downtown area. The store, owned by Diane Wise, moved from Seven Mile to 144 Mary Alexander Court.

Baby Baby offers "quality recycled clothes and equipment" for the maternity-and-kids (up to age 14) set.

Township home under construction broken into

A home under construction on Red Oak Drive was broken into late Aug. 5 or early Aug. 6, township police said.

Thieves apparently entered the home through a basement window and stole two ladders and a drill valued at $625, according to police records.

HOME DAMAGED: A Robinwood Drive resident told township police that someone damaged his home sometime between Aug. 4 and 6. The resident told police the aluminum siding on the north side of his garage was dented in four places. Police suspect the damage was caused by a BB or pellet gun.

SCHOOL VANDALIZED: Winchester Elementary School officials said someone broke an exterior light at the 16141 Winchester Drive building late Aug. 6 or early Aug. 7.

Township police said the light was broken with a rock. The light was valued at $80.

HUBCAP STOLEN FROM RESTAURANT LOT: A South Lyon man told township police that someone stole a hubcap off his 1992 Mercury Marquis while the vehicle was parked at Ruffe's, 18730 Northville Road Aug. 7.

VEHICLE DAMAGED: A Surrey Lane resident told township police that her 1989 Dodge Spirit was damaged when someone apparently walked on the vehicle. Police said it appeared someone walked across the vehicle's hood and roof.

The vehicle was parked in a carport in front of the resident's apartment. Damage was estimated at $933.

TOOLS STOLEN: Sockets, screwdrivers, hammers and other miscellaneous tools belonging to a Northville woman were stolen from a Randolph Street apartment sometime between Aug. 13 and Aug. 15. The tools were taken from a storage area behind a locked gate. Police reports indicated the lock on the gate was faulty.

MAN ARRESTED: A Livonia man was arrested Aug. 14 at 11:23 p.m. outside of Getzie's Pub, 157 E. Main St., after a pedestrian told city police the man and a Northville woman were "trying to hustle" passers-by.

The man was arrested when police found he had outstanding misdemeanor warrants issued by the Dearborn Police Department. He was later turned over to the Dearborn Police.

OUILS: A 28-year-old Livonia man was charged with operating a vehicle under the influence of alcohol after his arrest late Aug. 8 on northbound Haggerty near Six Mile, township police said.

An 18-year-old Northville man was charged with OUIL after his arrest early Aug. 11. Police said the man was arrested after he drove off Sheldon Road and came to a stop on Hilltop View.

A 23-year-old Detroit woman was charged with OUIL after city police stopped her Aug. 15 at 12:55 a.m. on Center Street heading north from Main Street.

The woman told police she had consumed two beers at around 6 p.m. that evening. She showed a .20 percent blood alcohol level on a breath test.

Citizens with information about the above incidents are urged to call Northville City Police at 349-1234 or Northville Township Police at 349-9400.

Auto accident

An 18-year-old Northville man struck a tree and some brush on Randolph Street south of Eight Mile Road on Aug. 14 at 9:05 p.m., police said. The auto flipped onto the passenger's side after swinging around 90 degrees. No one was hurt in the accident. The driver was ticketed for a seat belt violation and speeding.

State police post in midst of furloughs

By SCOTT DANIEL
Staff Writer

Gov. John Engler's budget-cutting ax hit the Michigan State Police Post in Northville Thursday as command and support staff started short layoffs.

The move, which also idled thousands of other state employees for four working days, will last through tomorrow. The Northville post's commanding officer, the assistant post commander, secretarial staff, and custodial workers, among others, got the pink slips.

"It's probably going to have the least amount of impact on direct service to the public," said Post Commander Lt. Jack Moulik.

Troopers were not scheduled to be taken off road patrols because of the layoffs, he said. Administrative offices at the post were to be closed Thursday, Friday, today and tomorrow.

According to Tom Tallafiero, personnel manager for the state police in Lansing, the "temporary furlough" will affect about 1,200 workers in the department. He said government leaders were adamant about not including troopers in the layoffs.

"The legislature and governor felt that the citizenry would be best served by troopers staying at work," Tallafiero said.

The furloughs are expected to save the department nearly $700,000 in the current fiscal year, he said. Statewide, Tallafiero said, furloughs are projected to save $14.2 million.

Reasoning behind the move was simple, he said.

"There is a shortage of money to operate the state government," Tallafiero said.

The furloughs had to be taken by workers by Oct. 1, the beginning of the state's '91-'92 fiscal year. The period ending tomorrow was suggested by the state for the four-day layoffs.

Tallafiero said the state has made no decision about additional furlough days after Oct. 1. Rumors around the state capital are that as many as 14 layoff days may be planned for the new fiscal year, he said.

"We hope not," Tallafiero said. "It costs me a piece of change."

Moulik said many are unhappy about the cost-saving move at the Northville post, including himself. "I'm not too thrilled about it," he said.

The post commander said similar furloughs were handed down by the state about a decade ago. Moulik, who was a post commander near Jackson at the time, said a riot at the prison brought him back to work during the furlough.

"On the one hand, I'm laid off," he said. "But I'm still expected to do my job."

NORTHVILLE CITY COUNCIL MINUTES SYNOPSIS JULY 1, 1991

Mayor Johnson called the regular meeting of the Northville City Council to order in the Council Room at 8:00 p.m.

1. PLEDGE OF ALLEGIANCE:

PRESENT: Mayor Christopher J. Johnson, Mayor Pro-Tem Carolann Ayers, Councilmen Paul F. Fazio, G. Dewey Gardner, Jerome J. Mittman.

2. ROLL CALL:

ABSENT: None.

3. APPROVAL OF COUNCIL MEETING MINUTES:

The minutes of the regular meeting of June 17, 1991, were approved with corrections and placed on file.

4. CITIZEN COMMENTS:

None.

5. ADOPTION OF THE AGENDA AND APPROVAL OF THE AGENDA:

Moved, supported, CARRIED UNANIMOUSLY, to approve the agenda as amended and the consent agenda A through F.

6. M.A.C. REQUEST FOR OPEN HOUSE PARTY ORDINANCE:

At Qualman reviewed the Northville Action Council's request for the City to support an Open House Party ordinance, similar to Northville Township's. Johnson felt it appropriate to request the City Attorney to review a draft ordinance. Chief Cannon stated there is a draft in place. Johnson asked that the ordinance draft be reviewed by the City Attorney and then Council will consider calling a public hearing.

7. TREE TOP PARK APARTMENT IMPROVEMENTS AND CITY PARK PROPERTY:

Christiansen reviewed the revised proposal from Tree Top Park Apartments. Johnson felt there was no legal basis for permitting a private parking lot in a public park, and felt Council would be supportive of amenity changes to improve property as long as it would not expand the use.

Benecke & Krue Developers stated they want to do the best they can with their project and are willing to drop the proposed use of park property and increase in density. They requested Council help in clearing up the boundaries of the city park, as they are owners of a triangular piece in the middle of the park.

Council referred Benecke & Krue to the Planning Commission for upgrades to the facade of their development.

8. REQUEST OF FIRE DEPT. TO PRESENT FIRE SAFETY HOUSE PROPOSAL:

A fire safety house is a scale model of a home, where the effects of smoke can be demonstrated, the operation of safety devices such as smoke detectors, and help instruct the very young and elderly on how to successfully escape a fire in the home. The proposed fire safety house will be 25 feet long, 8 feet wide and 11 1/2 feet high, and be on a trailer to move from one community to another. The cost will be about $15,000.00 and built by the donation of labor by the fire fighters. The money is proposed to be raised by solicitation of private businesses and civic organizations. Each of the other three communities have allocated $500.00 of public funds towards the project, and they requested the same of the City. Moved, supported, CARRIED UNANIMOUSLY, to allocate $500 for the Fire Safety House and adopt the Safety House resolution.

9. REVIEW AND ADOPT REFUSE COLLECTION FEE SCHEDULE:

Christiansen reviewed his interim refuse collection fee and refuse rate addendum memos. The recommended monthly rate of $18.30 for residential includes an additional 10% to maintain the integrity of the fund. The refuse collection target cost is $545,000.00 and this would deal with 20% of the current subsidy between residential and commercial/industrial users. The total cost per month for commercial/industrial service has been distributed on the basis of the relative SEV of each property to the total SEV of the district.

Moved, supported, CARRIED UNANIMOUSLY, to accept the recommended fee schedule with 80% subsidy as an interim fee (i.e. $18.30 - residential, $13.26 - 6 yard service, $8.10 - 2 yard service and $3,447.60 shared downtown service).

10. REVIEW DRAFT FEASIBILITY STUDY - WAYNE COUNTY SOLID WASTE MANAGEMENT PLAN:

Christiansen noted this is an informational update for Council and the City Manager. This draft was prepared by the Conference of Western Wayne on behalf of communities in that area in conjunction with Wayne County who has certain requirements that they want to fulfill. Council passed a resolution in November of 1990 to follow curbside recycling. By September, 1992, this recycling option requires us to submit a work plan which will reduce our solid waste stream by 75% of its present level. By January, 1993, implementation of that work plan must be in operation.

11. SCHEDULE HEARING - NPOA GRIEVANCE 91-0191:

Moved, supported, CARRIED UNANIMOUSLY, to schedule the NPOA Grievance 91-0191 for hearing at 7:00 p.m. on Monday, July 15, 1991.

11.A. PUBLIC WORKS LABOR DISTRIBUTION SUMMARY:

Mittman was concerned with the cost of the recycling center, based on the amount of the overtime hours; the period from March 27 to April 23, shows 31 1/2 hours. He asked, because of the financial situation of the City, that the DPW Superintendent find an alternative solution to eliminate this overtime.

Moved, supported, CARRIED UNANIMOUSLY, to call a Council Study Session for Tuesday, July 16, at 7:00 p.m. in the conference room.

Mittman asked for the recommendation from the Planning Commission on the Middle Rouge Park walkway, that the Planning Consultant be reviewed by a committee and the Planning Commission review the personnel changes at Ayres, Lewis, Norris & May, and that the pedestrian walkway/bike path be extended from Northville Estates to Back Road and possibly involving State Park access.

12. CLOSED SESSION: UNION NEGOTIATIONS

Moved, supported, CARRIED UNANIMOUSLY, to go into closed session regarding union negotiations.

Johnson recessed the regular meeting at 10:05 p.m. for the executive session.

Moved, supported, CARRIED to approve 16 hours of compensatory time for the clerical and DPW union members.

Mayor Johnson, adjourned the regular meeting of Monday, July 1, 1991, at 10:15 p.m.

RECORD OPINION

Our Opinion

Talks should address some serious concerns

A scheduled meeting between Northville Township and Northville Regional Psychiatric Hospital officials is but the first step in a much-needed review of hospital security procedures and staffing levels.

Hospital and township representatives were to meet Monday morning to discuss topics including walkaways, walkaway routes, staffing levels, and patient criminal histories.

The meeting is just in time, given all the adverse attention paid the hospital of late.

Hospital walkaways are causing major concerns around the Northville community these days. It's not hard to see why. In May, a 27-year-old patient walked away from the hospital — for the third time in as many days — and injured an elderly Northville man while stealing his car. The case is well-documented and sent a chill down the community's collective spine.

The thief later was convicted of unarmed robbery and is expected to cool his heels in the state prison system for the better part of the next three years. But Terrance Jenkins was merely one of 68 psychiatric patients to leave the state hospital grounds at 14001 Seven Mile during the first seven months of 1991.

Dr. Walter Brown, the hospital director and official spokesperson, says the figures are no real cause for alarm. Walkaway reports aren't up, he says, and most walkaways only leave to get away from the hospital, not to wreak havoc on the community.

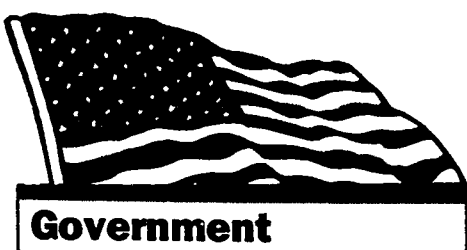

That may well be the case. Brown certainly knows his patients better than we do. But while scanning township police reports, we are noticing a rather disturbing trend among many of the walkaways. "Potentially dangerous," some are called. Others carry an "assaultive and combative" tag. One patient escaped in the aftermath of the Jenkins affair and has yet to be recovered.

He reportedly had threatened to kill his mother and children before he left.

And last Tuesday a man apparently dashed away from the hospital, traveled south into the under-construction Northville Trail subdivision, and stole a worker's truck. At press time he hadn't been heard from since.

Brown says walkaway numbers are consistent with past figures. Quite frankly, we don't buy it. August walkaways are spiraling toward 20 by mid-month, which would be a dramatic increase over the nine-per-month average thus far in 1991.

Clearly a problem is at hand. Township police speak publicly about addressing the walkaway situation in a proactive manner — stepping up patrols in neighboring residential areas, closer scrutiny of hospital radio communications, etc. Privately, though, they're afraid that a crime more brutal than the Jenkins incident is on the horizon.

We feel the same fears. And residents are worried, too. They are fearful for their children and for themselves. Some are upset that they can't recline in a lawn chair in their own backyard without lingering feelings that a psychiatric patient will accost them.

What can be done? First of all, if the state hospital has nothing to hide, as Brown has long stated, township officials should be provided substantial information pertaining to hospital operations.

Brown said approximately 720 patients reside at Northville Regional. What is the effect of former Ypsilanti patients on the Northville facility? How many of those 720 patients have criminal backgrounds? We don't need specific names; we do need specific numbers and types of crimes. We also think it would be a good idea to immediately communicate criminal histories to township police when any walkaway occurs.

How many security personnel are on duty — inside buildings and patrolling the grounds — during each shift throughout the day? Have state layoffs affected staffing levels? Those figures should be documented and made available to local government officials at regular intervals.

And if state Sen. Robert Geake is going to trumpet the fact that a fence has been constructed around the perimeter, shouldn't it be a fence that would at least discourage a walkaway? The current fence is easy to vault or scale. It seemingly is nothing more than a political compromise between the fencing and non-fencing bureaucrats who work in Lansing.

Township officials threaten to take legal action against the state if their questions are not answered and the walkaway problem does not diminish. Here's hoping Brown is not too saddled with Lansing directives to achieve some form of positive communication with the township.

It's obvious to many that some serious problems exist at Northville Regional Hospital. We hope the state recognizes local concerns and addresses them promptly and effectively.

Entertainment from the mail

Now I'm an adult, and I have a little more self-discipline. If someone dangles a participle in front of me, I can let it go. I can channel the energy into my blue pencil at work.

But even the boo-boos of the staff in this office can't compare to the reams of fractured English being turned out by the nation's public relations firms.

Managing Editor Mike Malott estimates that we receive something like 100 press releases a day in this office. As you'd expect, that leaves a lot of room for errors.

I can't say it really bothers me that press releases seem to be printed in a language other than my own. It amuses me, and at times it enthralls me like ancient Latin prose. And is about as useful.

For instance, the word "service" takes on strange new uses when a PR writer gets ahold of it. Where I come from, when service is used as a verb, it describes what a stud does to a mare. So when I read that "XYZ Co. will service the entire Northville community," I wonder whether I should tip off the vice squad or congratulate the company for its fortitude. (It should have been "XYZ Co. will serve. . .")

Another popular PR move is to remove all the little words like "in" and "of," and replace them with commas, as in "Bill Sellers, Vice President, Marketing, ABC Bank, has announced that. . ."

Taken to the extreme, this phenomenon results in sentences like, "Tom Shifty, Vice President, Personnel, Corporate, Northeast Region, Framingham, Mass., was promoted to Trustee, Headquarters, Corporate."

It baffles me as to why the writer hacks out all those friendly little words, and rearranges the names and titles in an unusable order. It makes me wonder if the writer also backwards, talking, enjoys.

While we're on the subject of titles, I should probably point out that they're a very important part of any press release. PR people know that a client loves nothing better than to hear his title alongside his name. Important people, and even not-so-important people, are like that.

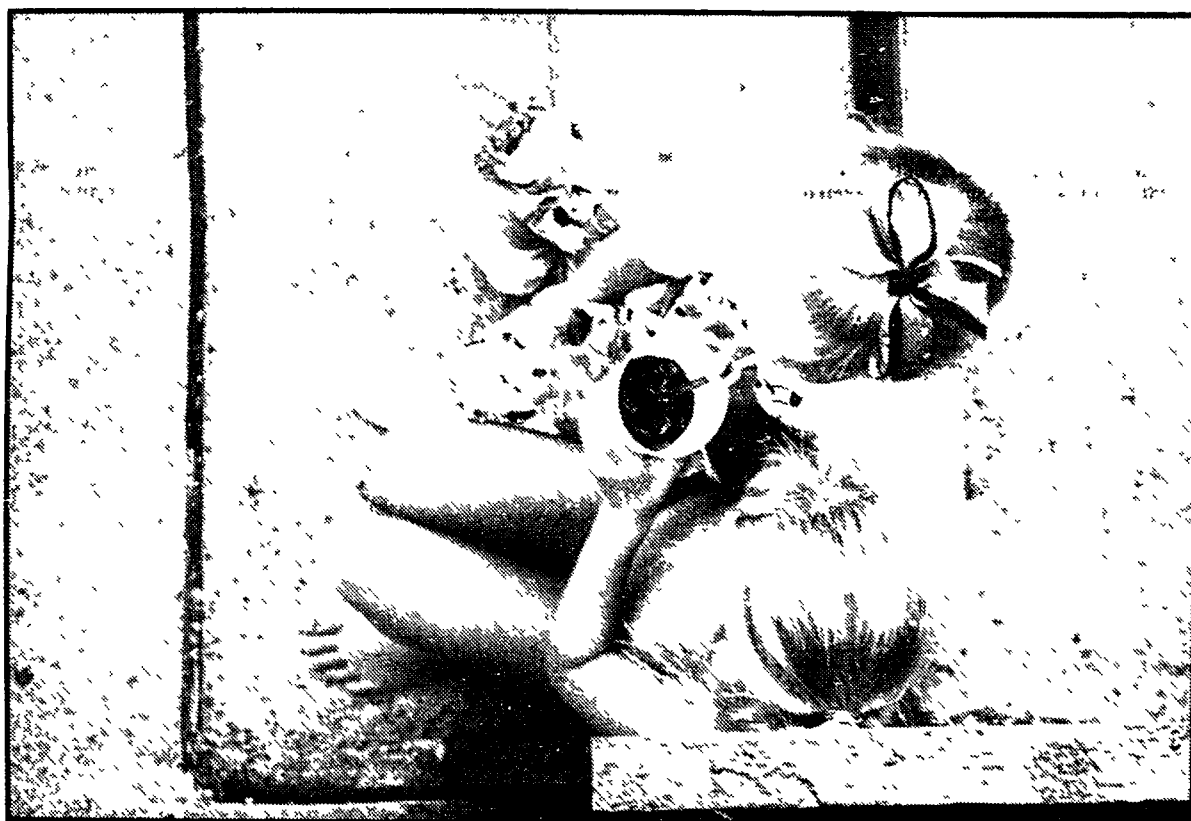

At every opportunity, the person's title and any words attached to it — and even those appearing near it — should be capitalized. Yet in an effort to hit the highlights, the writer sometimes elevates capitalization to ridiculous heights.

I mean, would you really print a story that said, "Joe Blue-collar has been promoted from Broom to Mop in the Custodial Engineering Division?"

Weeding through this jungle is a tough job, but if somebody's got to do it, it might as well be the copy editor. Oops! I mean Editor, Copy.

Confession good for the soul

Sorry. Hope I haven't burst any bubbles. . . shattered any illusions.

But the flat-out truth is that nasty, little impure and/or unkind thoughts occasionally creep into my consciousness.

It's not something I'm proud of. And please don't blame my parents. They did the best they could. They made sure I attended church every Sunday, and it was not unusual for my name to be on the list of students who had both perfect attendance and memorized all the Bible verses in Sunday school.

They say that confession is good for the soul, so, with any luck, my soul ought to be feeling a whole lot better right now.

What brings this sudden compulsion for confession to mind is a phone call I received from Fran Hopp of the Northville Housing Commission last Thursday.

Fran called to say she had read my column about our class reunion and was interested in the questionnaire I had mentioned — the one in which we asked classmates to respond to a variety of questions ranging from who was your favorite teacher to what were your best and worst high school memories.

Seems like Fran is helping to organize her own high school reunion and thought it might be fun to send out a questionnare to all of her former classmates. So, she called to ask if I would send her a copy of the one we used.

I told her I didn't have a copy of the questionnaire with me, but I felt I could remember most of the questions if she would just like to write them down.

"Well, you'll probably want to include the one about who did you always want to date in high school but never did," I said. "That was a fun question. And if you're feeling brave, you will also want to include the 'virgin' question."

"The 'virgin' question?" she asked, puzzled.

And that's when it occurred to me that I had deleted any mention of the infamous "virgin" question from my column about the questionnaire because I didn't want people to think I'm a dirty old man.

"Oops," I told Fran. "I forgot that I deleted all reference to the 'virgin' question from my column. Please forget that I even mentioned it."

"No, no," she insisted. "What was the 'virgin' question? I want to know about the 'virgin' question."

So I told her. Quite simply, the "virgin" question was that we asked people whether they had been a virgin when they graduated from high school.

But we figured some people might be offended, so we softened it up a little by making it a multiple choice question — Yes. No. Or. None of your blankety-blank business.

"Did anyone answer the 'virgin' question?" asked Fran.

"About half and half," I answered truthfully. "About half ignored it completely. Left it blank. One girl even retyped the questionnaire and deleted the 'virgin' question entirely."

"But the other half answered it?" queried Fran.

"Well, yeah, but the most popular answer was none of your blankety-blank business."

Goss will be accompanied by Police Chief Chip Snider and a township attorney. Township officials will seek "some documentation" of security staffing levels and patient criminal histories, Goss said.

Township officials have become increasingly outspoken about walkaways in recent weeks.

Snider told the township board Thursday that the walkaway problem had reached "epidemic proportions" and the township wanted an explanation.

"We're tired of the speculation; we'd like to find out why," he said.

Snider said the police department has saturated patrols in the hospital area and has changed the way it monitors hospital security radio transmissions.

Police are now responding when radio communication offers the "inclination" that a patient has walked away, rather than waiting for assistance calls from hospital security staff, Snider said.

Goss said the township would ask Brown "what the problem is . . . demand some type of remedy" and eventually take "legal action" if the hospital does not provide satisfactory answers.

Brown on Friday disagreed with claims that walkaway incidents were on the upswing. He also dismissed reports that only two security staffers were on duty during the day shift Aug. 12-13, when eight walkaway reports were filed.

"That's not true," he said of the staffing reports. "I've checked that; we had six staff (on the day shift) Monday and Tuesday."

Township police Lt. Gary Batzloff said hospital security staffers twice reported having only two persons on duty Monday and Tuesday. Batzloff also said township police were forced to deliver returning patients directly to hospital security on two occasions early Monday afternoon.

Police usually return patients to the hospital admissions office, Batzloff said, but admissions personnel told him "there were no security personnel to pick (the walkaways) up."

Police say security staffers tell them layoffs are partly to blame for walkaway problems, but Brown says layoffs have not affected security personnel.

"We have the same number as we've had the past six to 10 months," he said. "We have not had any layoffs of security staff."

Brown said most walkaways are patients who have received "ground cards," passes that allow them access to various points around the hospital. If patient "symptoms and behavior are under control," the patient cannot be held in restrictive custody, Brown said.

Those patients that do walk away tend only to get away from the hospital grounds, not to "cause problems for the community," Brown said.

More troublesome are patients who escape from custody in the ward areas, Brown said.

Ward patient Terrance Jenkins walked away from the hospital on three occasions between May 7-9. The third time, Jenkins injured a 73-year-old Northville man and stole his car.

Jenkins recently pleaded guilty to unarmed robbery charges and was sentenced to 3-15 years in prison.

City hires firm to do work on water, sewer

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

Thomson-McCully Co. of Belleville last week won the lion's share of a public improvements project for city water mains and storm sewer drains.

The work involves replacement of a water main under East Main, Hutton and Dunlap streets, storm sewer drainage and pavement improvements on Wing and Fairbrook streets, and pavement repairs on East Main, Hutton and East Dunlap. The improvements also included the dredging of Lexington Pond, but that project was postponed because Thomson-McCully was not the low bidder on it.

"Oakland County (officials) had a little problem with that because they're funding the largest part of that project as part of the Randolph Drain," explained City Clerk Cathy Konrad.

The city is awaiting word from Oakland County on whether the dredging project should be rebid, Konrad said.

The Belleville firm was awarded the contract for the rest of the improvements when its overall bid proved to be the lowest of the three bids submitted. Thomson-McCully's $585,974 offer beat figures of $593,675 from Peter A. Basile & Sons of Livonia and $606,305 from ABC Paving Company of Trenton.

But the company's $52,745 bid on the dredging project was beaten by ABC's $45,593.

McNeely & Lincoln, the city's engineering firm, had estimated that the complete repair program would cost $652,368.

Bids for the project were opened Aug. 8, and the city council held a special session Aug. 12 to award the contract.

McNeely & Lincoln Engineer Robert Warner said the street, storm sewer and water main work would be planned so as not to disturb city functions.

"We do have to work around the various Northville events such as the Victorian Festival," he said.

While construction is under way, he added, "Traffic's going to be maintained on a limited basis on most of the streets most of the time . . . We're going to do our best to maintain at least one lane."

He said the project would be handled much like the South Center Street water main enlargement project last year.

Warner was uncertain when construction would begin, but he was fairly certain that it would not be finished for at least three months.

"The work is probably going to be going on, I hate to say this, until the first week in December, right to the end of the construction season," he said. "If we get a long stretch of good weather, it might be finished sooner."

Politics a lively business during the Victorian era

age, gender and political loyalty — with her unpopular predecessors," according to Thompson.

Victoria remained popular through male suffrage uprisings of the 1840s and a mid-century loss of faith in politicians.

Far from Victoria's London home, Northville in the 1830s and '40s was in the early stages of forming town government.

More than 150 years ago, township men gathered to elect William Bartow the first township supervisor.

Jack Hoffman, in his book Northville — The First Hundred Years, writes that the town had 42 eligible voters (women were still not permitted to vote), but no record exists of the number of people who elected Bartow.

Northville and Plymouth Townships were all one municipality in 1827, and it was Bartow who suggested the name Plymouth for the area, according to Hoffman's book. Before he suggested Plymouth, the names Pekin and LeRoy had been discussed.

In April 1827, the name Plymouth was officially chosen. A month later, in May 1827, Bartow was elected. At the same meeting taxes totaling $154.40 were levied.

That July, Austin Wing was elected to represent the district in Congress. Wing beat John Biddle by a margin of 27 to nine.

Residents must have been more active in politics than they are today. With only 42 eligible voters in the township, the election had an 85.7 percent voter turnout. Elections today often have a 10- or 20-percent voter turnout.

National politics also was very different in the 19th century than it is today.

Despite the fact that he voted against his party as much as for it, the Democrat John Tyler was selected to run as the vice president in the 10th presidential race.

But similar to modern politics, Tyler's campaign against ninth President Martin VanBuren was full of mud-slinging.

VanBuren was painted as a wealthy snob, while Tyler and presidential hopeful William Henry Harrison were painted as friends of the common person.

Harrison and Tyler won. A local researcher of the campaign, Julia Bennett, came to Michigan in 1840. Bennett was the granddaughter of Tyler, and later she found she was a relative of John Quincy Adams. While in Northville, Bennett worked for David Lapham in a mitten factory, Hoffman writes.

Another Victorian-era politician, Abraham Lincoln, spurred the entire country to take sides in this country's most heated political debate ever.

The Civil War began in 1861. A local regiment was ready to join by the fall of 1862. A total of 35 men from what was then the Township of Plymouth were enlisted.

John Lewis, the last Civil War veteran to die in Michigan, was not counted in the figure. He was black and did not fight next to his white Michigan neighbors. Lewis, a member of the Colored Michigan Regiment also known as the 102nd United States Colored Troops, died in 1941.

Two years after the war ended in 1865, Plymouth Township was divided into Plymouth and Northville.

The first election was held in March 1867, with William Yerkes being elected the first president of the Village of Northville.

Students volunteer at nursing home

On her first day volunteering at Star Manor, Schmitt showed videos about her home country.

Gill likes to volunteer her time to Star Manor because she has made a special friend in Gladys Miller. They sit and chat everyday with Gill sitting on the bed and Miller in a chair.

One favorite of all the volunteers is Lila Talraas.

Talraas is feisty, funny and easy to talk to, VanDerworp said.

The four students are regulars, but they are just a small selection of the many people who volunteer at Star Manor.

Nearly 60 volunteers showed up at a picnic earlier this month, and Star Manor officials hope to get a similar turnout at events scheduled later this month and beyond.

On Aug. 26, a trip to the Michigan State Fair will require one volunteer for every Star Manor resident who attends.

A Labor Day cookout also will require the help of volunteers.

And volunteers are welcome any time to read or talk to residents.

Anyone interested should call Audrey at Star Manor, 349-4290.

Rhone shows off France's finest

Americans are accustomed to identifying wines by the name of the wine's principal grape variety. The grape wines of France are generally given place names rather than grape names and the wines are frequently blends of several grape varieties. California winemakers blend merlot with cabernet sauvignon because that is exactly what has been done for centuries in Bordeaux.

In France's Rhone Valley, which stretches 140 miles south from Lyon to the Mediterranean Sea, the grape varieties used to produce the mighty red Rhone wines are syrah (see-rah), grenache (grenahsh), cinsault (san-so), and mourvedre (moor-vedr). The Rhone Valley is divided into two distinct sub-regions — north and south.

The principal red grape variety in the north is syrah. The red wines of the south are always blends and may consist of as many as 13 grape varieties.

Place names (appellations) given northern Rhone wines are Hermitage (air-me-tahj), Crozes Hermitage (crows air-me-tahj), St. Joseph (san zho-sel), Comas (cor-nahss) and Cote Rotie (coat roat-ee). In the south, principal red wine place names are Cotes du Rhone (coat dew rone), Cotes du Rhone Villages (vec-lajh), Chateaufort-du-Pape (shot-toe-nuff dew pap), Cotes du Ventoux (coat dew vawn-too), Vacqueyras (va-kay-ras), and Gigondas (jhe-gone-dahs).

We are particularly fond of red Rhone wines, especially those of Paul Jaboulet Aine. Gerald Jaboulet is the managing director and the fourth generation of Jaboulets to guide the firm, which annually produces 10 percent of the nearly two million cases of wines from the Rhone. We had the opportunity to taste and discuss the 1989 vintage with him on his recent visit to Michigan.

"When I arrange a tasting of Rhone red wines, I always begin with the wines of the south and work my way north," explains Jaboulet. "This is because the southern wines are blends of several grape varieties, grown in a warmer climate. They are softer and more approachable when young."

"Northern wines are made principally of syrah and tend to be more muscular and tannic, with greater longevity."

The following wines are discussed in Jaboulet's preferred order and represent a sampling of some of the region's best wines.

1989 Chateaufort-du-Pape "Les Cedres" ($24). "Our Les Cedres is more popular than the regular Chateaufort-du-Pape because it is more complex and will age better," Jaboulet comments. This wine is produced from grenache, syrah, mourvedre and cinsault from a Jaboulet proprietary vineyard surrounded by cedar trees which give it its name. Grenache lends character to Chateaufort-du-Pape, while syrah gives tannin, elegance, and longevity. Les Cedres usually exhibits hints of plums, black currants, blackberries, and black truffles.

1989 St. Joseph "Le Grand Pompee" ($21). St. Joseph is an expanding appellation on the west side of the Rhone River. Situated on very steep, eastern slopes, it is difficult to work the vineyards of St. Joseph. The wine is pure syrah, but without the character of Hermitage because of its eastern exposure. After five o'clock in the afternoon, there is no sun on St. Joseph, but there is still sun on Hermitage.

"We call this the Beaujolais of the Rhone River," Jaboulet says. "The wine is pretty, charming, elegant, without much tannin, and harmonizes with any type of food. When chilled, it will complement fish."

WINE SELECTION OF THE WEEK

1989 Gigondas ($19) is 100-percent Grenache highlighting ripe plummy fruit with gentle spiciness. The wine's full flavors are balanced by a fruity finish that's generous and structured yet finesseful.

1989 Muscat de Beaumes-de-Venise ($25) is a white Rhone dessert wine showcasing the flowery nose of the muscat grape, followed by richly sweet nectar and full fruit flavors of peaches, apricots, kiwi and pineapples. It should be served well-chilled. Jaboulet explains, "This is a wine to drink young because it loses its fruit very quickly. It should be consumed before the end of the year. A year from now, this wine will be completely different because the fruit will disappear and it will just be a very sweet wine."

Summer-izing the best This season's bounty is available and fresh

Copley News Service

Summer is a season that can slip up on you. Wasn't it just Easter a week or so ago? Wasn't it just yesterday that you had six weeks to shape up for bathing suit weather?

And all of a sudden, it's screen-door weather. Barbecue time. Days that stretch past 8 o'clock.

When it comes to meals, the summer season's best is fresh — and cool and light and served outdoors.

GRILLED VEGETABLES

lemon juice or wine vinegar salt and pepper to taste potatoes, small red or new, halved and cut into thick slices onions, red, yellow or white, peeled, halved or quartered, but with root portion attached to hold segments together artichokes, boiled for about 10 minutes and drained, then trimmed completely to the hearts Belgian endive, root trimmed but attached, halved lengthwise mushrooms, preferably large and thick, trimmed (halved or quartered if very large) asparagus, preferably large stalks, with tough ends trimmed

Mix oil coating by mixing 3 parts oil to 1 part lemon juice or vinegar. Prepare vegetables and brush with coating mix and sprinkle with salt and pepper if desired. (Remember, however, that grilling will probably intensify flavor of vegetable so you may not want salt.)

Place vegetables on grill. Longer-cooking vegetables, such as potatoes, should be put on first and over higher heat. Watch to turn them as they begin to brown and then to put them on cooler area of grill to finish cooking. Sliced potatoes cook faster than whole or halved ones.

For onions, the outside cooks first; a little charring can be delicious, especially as this contrasts to the sweet inside.

Artichokes take on a roasted flavor. Large hearts may be cut in half, if desired. Hearts should be grilled over fairly low heat, and turned as they turn color.

Cook Belgian endive slowly to a golden brown. Mushrooms cook quickly and should be brushed frequently with oil coating so they don't dry out.

Grilling asparagus brings out the vegetable's natural sweetness and intensified green color. Take care not to overcook.

When choosing vegetables, look for an assortment that contrasts in texture in color. Move vegetables that need longer cooking to a cooler place on grill to finish cooking. Brush with oil coating as vegetables cook at end of cooking time.

SEAFOOD ON THE GRILL

For cooking seafood on the grill, here are some hints from the California Fisheries and Seafood Institute.

- To prevent fish from sticking to the barbecue, spray cold grill with non-stick vegetable spray or brush with any salad or cooking oil.
- Always cook fish on preheated grill.
- For tender fish fillets or kabobs, place a sheet of greased foil, cut just large enough to hold a single portion of fish on grill. Use skewer to poke holes in foil, then place fish on foil.
- Before placing fish on grill, have coals cooked down to even, gray ash. This means starting charcoal 30 to 45 minutes before cooking.
- After placing fish on grill, brush it often with marinade of lemon juice and oil mixture. Mix melted butter or oil on basis of 2 parts to 1 part lemon juice.
- If fish is less than 1 inch thick, cook about 7 to 8 minutes, turning only once. Thin fillets do not need to be turned at all. If it is 1 to 2 inches thick, allow 10 to 15 minutes. Fish is cooked when flesh changes from translucent to opaque. Take care not to overcook.

Serve this marvelous sauce over vanilla ice cream, or cake . . . or anything else sinfully delicious. It would even make a tasty sauce to serve with ham. The time for these plump sweet cherries is short. Generally the season only extends from June to August.

BURGUNDY CHERRY SAUCE

2 cups fresh sweet cherries, pitted and halved
3 tablespoons orange sauce
3 tablespoons Burgundy wine
¼ cup sugar
1 tablespoon grated orange peel
1 tablespoon cold water

2 teaspoons cornstarch

Combine all ingredients except water and cornstarch. Cover and simmer gently five minutes. Combine water and cornstarch; stir into cherry mixture. Cook and stir until thickened and clear.

This fruity salsa is perfect over grilled fish, especially swordfish. Apricots are a source of vitamin A, potassium and fiber.

FRESH APRICOT SALSA

1 cup diced fresh apricots (3 or 4 apricots)
¼ cup diced fresh or canned pineapple
¼ cup chopped onion
1 small avocado, diced (¼ cup)
¼ cup red bell pepper, seeded and diced
1½ tablespoons lime juice
1 teaspoon finely chopped cilantro

Yield 4 servings.

In medium bowl combine apricots with next 4 ingredients. Sprinkle apricot mixture with lime juice and cilantro; toss and chill until ready to serve.

NECTARINE HOT AND CHILLY THAI SALAD

½ cup each corn oil and lime juice
2 tablespoons each chopped fresh mint leaves, cilantro and pickled jalapeno chili, seeded
¼ teaspoon sugar
12 ounces cold vermicelli, cooked, rinsed in cold water, drained and cooled
¼ cup chopped red onion, peeled lettuce leaves
¾ pound medium-sized shrimp, shelled, cooked and chilled
3 fresh nectarines, sliced
1 cucumber, peeled and sliced dried, crushed red chili flakes

Yields 4 servings.

Combine in jar first 6 ingredients. Cover with tight-fitting lid and shake vigorously until well blended; set aside. In medium bowl, combine pasta, onion and half of dressing; toss until well mixed.

Reflections on starting a new restaurant

My husband and I are opening a bar and grill. It's the third he has been involved in and the second for me.

With a combined experience of 40 years, one might think it would be easy. It isn't. Our name is at stake. We are putting ourselves on the line once again.

Daily decision-making in an operating restaurant is easy. The considerations are routine. The guests are the major concern; they are why we're here.

But the decisions before opening are awesome. For example, decisions must be made about menus, uniforms, hiring, purveyors, beer and wine selections, linen, dishes, glassware and silverware. They are endless, mind-boggling.

For instance, our reputation has been built on great burgers, excellent caesar salads, steak dinners, shrimp cocktails and great drinks. The Brady's on Seven Mile and Greenfield never had a deep fryer or an automatic dish machine. Waitresses did food preparation before shifts, and the kitchen was small and open with a grill and minimal refrigeration. If you needed backup food, a large walk-in cooler was down 30 steps, as was the store room.

There were about 65 seats. Seven Mile was a stopoff on the way to or from events, like when the Red Wings played at Olympia or the Pistons at Cobo. Joe Louis Arena hadn't been considered in those days. The Fisher was lit up much more. Downtown was the place to go.

Also, ours was a true neighborhood meet ing spot. Many of the customers were area residents. Literally generations of families have been guests in our restaurants. Great-grandparents bring in new babies, and we are honored.

In 1979, Diamond Jim's in Southfield was born. We went to a 5,000-square-foot space serving 225 people. What a change. Menus grew in size. French fries were "admitted." The kitchen was minimal by today's standards, but mammoth compared to Seven Mile. It required a crew of five instead of two; ten waitresses versus one or two.

The bar room was a fairly accurate copy of the first Brady's, but it took eight years for it to have that "lived-in" feeling. The grill finally became as good as Seven Mile's — it was worn, nicked and seasoned

Now we're doing it again. It has been more fun this time. We are more knowledgeable, and designing the restaurant to be a fun, easy spot is a bit more natural. The kitchen has grown again, many times the size of the earliest. It is open, as it was over 35 years ago.

Many of the old favorites are still on the menu in addition to new exciting items. The logo is new but a contemporary variation of the original. The dishes and glasses have been ordered, a bar built and the interviewing and hiring started. The beginning of the end to opening a new restaurant is quickly approaching.

One of the questions we ask prospective employees is to name a long-term goal. Many answer that they want to have their own restaurant. Why? It is a hard, brutal business. The market trends are very volatile, food prices vary greatly from day to day and week to week, and the hours get to you.

So why do we do it? There are some simple explanations: challenge, creativity and intensity; constant change and versatility; fun; the pleasure of encountering so many different people each day, striving to make everyone happy.

It boils down to a love-love relationship. We love our work.

Northville resident Mary Brady is a certified executive chef.

FOOD FESTIVALS: Here's a taste of a two of the popular summer food festivals around Michigan:

- The Presque Isle Lighthouse, just north of Alpena, will host a Pig and Corn Roast Aug. 31. For this one-day occasion, guests can climb the otherwise off-limits lighthouse.
- Romeo, one hour north of Detroit on M-53, will hold a Peach Festival Aug. 29 to Sept. 2 including an antique car show and a carnival in addition to fresh peaches, a peach bake-off and fresh baked peach pie.

LOW-FAT BEEF: GFI America, a Minneapolis-based meat processor, has introduced SmartMeat, beef which it says has less saturated fat, total fat, cholesterol and calories than grain-fed beef. The company says it uses solid muscle meat from selected lean cattle, then makes it tender and flavorful through a process called Vacu-Marble. SmartMeat will be available at selected supermarkets and restaurant chains. For more information, call (612) 872-6262.

Bread is herbaceous and bodacious

Bread! Just the word suggests a picture of bread baking in the oven and the aroma wafting throughout the house. With herbs, fresh or dry in the mixture there is a provocative aroma, and the flavor is exquisite.

Bread has been a staple food for centuries; grains used for this purpose have been found dating back 25,000 years. Most every country has a bread suitable for their cuisine, culture and climate.

Wheat, rye, bran, buckwheat, rice, amaranth and others, or a combination of these grains, are used for bread-making. Whole-grain breads are gaining in popularity because they are healthy and give such unique texture and taste.

Of all the grains commonly used, wheat contains the highest amount of gluten (a protein) which, when mixed with water, forms an elastic network to help the dough rise. Many bakers prefer unbleached flour to bleached.

Yeast is a key ingredient in bread-making and is activated when it is mixed with a sweetener such as sugar, honey or molasses. When it is then mixed with the flour a fermentation process begins.

It isn't clear whether the Chinese or the Egyptians first used yeast, but it is the most common leavening agent for bread. Others are eggs, baking powder, baking soda and starters... mixes that were kept for years by the homemaker for this purpose.

On the other hand, salt slows down this action. It also brings out the flavor of the bread. Fat, whether butter, lard, oil or margarine, or a combination, lubricates the gluten in the dough and facilitates rising. It also adds flavor, richness and tenderness. When milk (butter or sweet) is used, the loaf is softer than bread made without it.

Kneading develops the gluten and incorporates air into the dough, causing carbon dioxide to form. This makes the dough rise. After the first rising, it is sometimes necessary to punch the dough down to redistribute the yeast and let it work again before baking.

One grain, amaranth, is new to me. It is very high in protein and is available as an un-hulled whole-grain, a finely ground flour and in pasta. Substitute 1/4 cup of this flour for all-purpose flour for a fresh and unusual flavor. Look for it in health-food stores.

Just about anything can be added to bread dough. Fruits, nuts, meats,

DILICIOUS BREAD IN A CASSEROLE

This light-textured bread is great to serve with a hearty soup. The "secret" ingredient is cottage cheese.

- 1 pkg. active dry yeast
- 1/4 cup warm water
- 1 cup creamed cottage cheese
- 2 tablespoons sugar
- 1 tablespoon instant minced onion
- 1 tablespoon softened butter or margarine
- 2 teaspoons dried dill weed
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon baking soda
- 1 egg beaten
- 2 1/2 to 2 3/4 cups all-purpose flour

Soften yeast in warm water. Heat cottage cheese to lukewarm and combine with yeast mixture. Add remaining ingredients, except flour, and blend together.

Add enough flour, in several additions, beating well after each, to form a stiff dough. Cover with buttered wax paper and a linen towel. Let rise in warm place (80-90 degrees) until light and double in size, about 50-60 minutes.

Stir down dough and turn into a well-buttered round ceramic or glass casserole (1 1/2-2 qt. size). Cover and let rise again in a warm place until light, about 30-40 minutes.

Bake in preheated 350 degree oven for 40-50 minutes until golden brown. Brush with melted butter and sprinkle lightly with salt. Remove from casserole and cool on rack. Serve warm. Makes one round loaf.

HERBED BREAD FROM A BOX

The herbs may be changed to suit your taste.

- 1 pkg. (13 3/4 oz.) hot roll mix
- 1/4 teaspoon nutmeg
- 1/4 teaspoon sage (or rosemary)
- 1/4 teaspoon thyme
- 1/4 teaspoon oregano (or marjoram)

cheeses, vegetables and wine enhance the flavor, as do many herbs. Try one or more of the following:

Mix hot roll mix as directed on label, add seasonings with flour mixture. Cover with cloth and let rise in a warm place about 40 minutes or until doubled in size. Punch down and roll or pat into a 9-by-5-inch rectangle; place in a greased loaf pan 9-by-5-by-3 inches. Cover and let rise 30 minutes. Bake in 375 degree oven 35-40 minutes or until done. Remove from pan and cool on rack. Makes one loaf.

GARDEN-FRESH HERB BREAD

The combination of herbs in this recipe can be changed to use herbs growing in your garden.

- 2 cups warm water
- 2 pkgs. active dry yeast
- 1 teaspoon sugar
- 1 tablespoon instant chicken bouillon
- 1/4 cup brown sugar
- 1/4 cup oil
- 3 cups unbleached all-purpose flour
- 2 tablespoons finely chopped fresh chives
- 2 tablespoons finely chopped fresh parsley
- 2 tablespoons finely chopped fresh dill
- 2 tablespoons parmesan cheese
- 3-3 1/2 cups unbleached all-purpose flour

Combine first three ingredients and let set 3-5 minutes to activate yeast. Stir in the next four ingredients and beat well. Blend in the herbs and cheese. Gradually add the remaining flour; turn out on a floured board and knead until smooth. Place in a greased bowl, turning once to grease the top. Cover and let rise until double in bulk 45-60 minutes. Knead dough down in bowl and divide in half. Shape into loaves and put in 9-by-5 inch rectangle pans, or shape into balls and put into round pans (well-greased). Cover and let rise until almost doubled 30-45 minutes. Bake 350 degrees for 40-45 minutes. Cool on wire racks. Makes 2 loaves.

basil, chives, dill, garlic, marjoram, parsley, rosemary, saffron, sage, savory, tarragon or thyme. Herb seeds also add their special pizzazz. Anise, caraway, cumin, dill, fennel, poppy and sesame are possibilities. Ground spices such as cinnamon, nutmeg, and coriander also change the taste and are fun to try.

There is no set way to incorporate herbs into breads. Dried herbs can be mixed with the dry ingredients; fresh or dried herbs can be mixed with the liquid or infused in the oil before they are mixed with the dough.

Kneading herbs into the dough will also work. A pinwheel effect can be achieved by sprinkling them over the dough when it is flattened and rolled, before it is put into the pan.

As a general rule, use a tablespoon of dried herbs or 1/4 cup of fresh for each loaf. Used alone or in combination with others, herbs can help you make a bread to suit your own palate.

Here are some combinations to get you started: equal parts sage (or garlic chips, oregano) and parmesan; equal parts basil and chives; one-fourth teaspoon nutmeg with a half tablespoon of thyme; or plain parsley added to the dough... all are good. A quarter cup of rosemary is also recommended.

Becky, of Becky's Oven in Royal Oak serves the wholesale and retail trade. She told me that when onions are put in bread a bit of garlic will sweeten the flavor. For two loaves, use less than 1/4 teaspoon garlic and 1/4 cup of dehydrated onion flakes, or 1/4 cup fresh onion.

Dave Auer, of Baking by the Auers in Southfield (also wholesale and retail), uses only fresh herbs and ingredients. He makes bread using rosemary, basil and red and yellow peppers.

Jim Maier, Executive Chef, Henry Ford Museum, Greenfield Village, suggests sprinkling the herbs used in the bread on top of the loaf before baking. If the top is lightly brushed with water or egg and water, the herbs or seeds will adhere better. To add crunch to some breads, corn meal is sprinkled on the bottom of the pan.

Breads can be made quickly using one bowl, or at a more leisurely pace (especially when yeast is used). Whether you begin with frozen dough or a box mix or start from scratch, experiment and enjoy. Bread making has been around for a long, long time, and many wonderful meals can be planned around this simple food.

To Serve: Place pasta on lettuce-lined platter, arrange shrimp, nectarine and cucumber slices on top of pasta; drizzle with remaining dressing and garnish by sprinkling with dried crushed red pepper chili flakes.

Peach experts say peeling isn't necessary for peaches. I prefer peeled fruit in a pie, but do it your way. It's easy to peel peaches if the fruit is submerged into boiling water 30 seconds, removed with slotted spoon and immediately plunged into cold water. Skin will slip off easily.

"My face was numb. It was maybe 25 degrees out, there was snow on the ground, and right in front of my apartment door was a bum wearing a Mets T-shirt freezing to death."

I stepped around him and went in. I thought 'great, just the ending I needed to an already lousy day.' Just then, this sick feeling came over me. Forget me, what about that guy? I went to my closet and pulled out a coat I haven't worn since college. I stood there, feeling dumb. Was he going to be mad if I gave him a hand out? He's freezing to death. I opened my door and handed him the clothes. He put them on and stared at me. Then he walked away. It was weird but it was good. I'm not the Salvation Army, but giving out a coat isn't all that hard."

Fruity vegetable enjoys its comeback season

Copley News Service

Rhubarb is an old-fashioned food you may remember from your grandmother's table. Surprise: It's being discovered again.

Part of rhubarbs new appeal is to the health- and environment-conscious consumer. Rhubarb contains significant amounts of calcium, potassium and vitamins A and C. And because rhubarb has abundant natural resistance to most garden pests, it can be grown pesticide-free.

While rhubarb is an ancient plant, the cherry variety was developed by an Orange County, Calif., family named Cleugh around the turn of the century.

Once, their rhubarb covered several thousand acres of agricultural land in that county, but real estate development reduced the Cleugh's rhubarb-growing acreage to only five acres. That's when the remaining plants were bought by Mike Horwath and moved to Valley Center, Calif.

In the field, cherry rhubarb shows long, bright-red stalks crowned with dark-green leaves (the leaves are always discarded before cooking). It cooks up to a dusty pink that looks inviting in sauces, baked goods and even wine.

Although rhubarb is really a vegetable, it is traditionally prepared like a fruit, sweetened with sugar or some other sweetener to mellow its normally tangy flavor. It is most often served cold or at room temperature, but it can be served warm, too.

Most of the rhubarb found cut and frozen in plastic bags or fresh in the produce section of supermarkets is of a less colorful variety, the Victoria or Crimson.

You might call rhubarb a condiment, and it can be used in place of applesauce or chutney. Rhubarb can also be paired with other fruits, including strawberries, apples, cherries, pears and blueberries.

RHUBARB SAUCE

4 cups chopped rhubarb
1/2 cup water
1 cup sugar (to taste)

Yields 8 servings

Cook rhubarb in water until tender. Add sugar. Stir to dissolve.

Cook until rhubarb is softened. Rhubarb sauce can be served plain or as a topping for shortcake, ice cream or pears.

RHUBARB-RASPBERRY SAUCE

1 pound fresh rhubarb, trimmed and cut into chunks
1 package frozen raspberries
1/2 cup sugar

Yields 8 servings.

Combine ingredients and cook over very low heat, stirring often until rhubarb is tender. Do not overcook.

Use sauce either warm or chilled as a topping for waffles, pancakes, biscuits or toast. Keep it on hand in a tightly covered jar in the refrigerator.

RHUBARB STREUSEL CAKE

1 1/2 cups all-purpose flour
1/4 cup sugar
1 1/2 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
5 tablespoons butter or margarine, cut into small pieces
1 egg
1/2 cup milk
1/2 teaspoon vanilla
3 cups thinly sliced fresh rhubarb
3 tablespoons butter or margarine
3/4 cup brown sugar, firmly packed
1/2 teaspoon cinnamon

Yields 9 servings.

Preheat oven to 400 F. Grease 9-inch square baking pan. In mixing bowl, combine flour, sugar, baking powder and salt. With fingertips, rub 5 tablespoons butter into dry ingredients until mixture resembles cornmeal.

In small bowl, beat egg with milk and vanilla. Stir into dry ingredients until just blended. Spread batter into pan. Scatter rhubarb over top; press in gently.

In small saucepan, over low heat, melt remaining butter. Stir in brown sugar and cinnamon. Sprinkle over rhubarb. Bake for 25 minutes, or until wooden pick inserted in center comes out clean. Cool on wire rack for 10 minutes.

RHUBARB YOGURT

1 pound rhubarb, chopped
2 tablespoons raw brown sugar
1 tablespoon grated orange rind
1 tablespoon orange juice
2 1/2 cups plain yogurt

Yields 8 servings.

Blend rhubarb, sugar, orange rind and juice in saucepan and cook gently until tender. Stir in yogurt. Taste and add more sugar if necessary. Chill before serving.

RHUBARB SALAD

3 cups rhubarb, finely cut
1/2 cup sugar
Salt, to taste
1/2 cup water
1 (6-ounce) package strawberry gelatin
1 cup celery, finely chopped

Rhubarb, old-fashioned fruit (actually a vegetable, but prepared like a fruit) is enjoying new popularity

2 1/2 cups water
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1/2 cup chopped nuts
Yields 6 servings.

Cook together rhubarb, sugar, salt and 1/2 cup water until tender. Add gelatin, celery, 2 1/2 cups water, lemon juice and nuts. Mix well. Chill until firm.

CUSTARD RHUBARB PIE

3 cups cut rhubarb
1 1/2 cups sugar
3 tablespoons flour
1 tablespoon butter
2 eggs, well beaten
Pie crust for 2-crust pie

Line 9-inch pie pan with pastry and fill with cut rhubarb. Blend together sugar, flour and butter; add well-beaten eggs and beat mixture until smooth. Pour over rhubarb in pie pan. Cover with top crust, press down and flute the edges, cut a design or slits in crust to allow for steam to vent.

Bake in 450 F oven for 10 minutes, reduce heat to 350 F and bake for an additional 40 minutes.

If you want to pair the tastes of rhubarb and strawberry, here's a recipe for that classic pie.

STRAWBERRY RHUBARB CUSTARD PIE

2 (8-inch) unbaked pie crusts
2 cups rhubarb cut into 1-inch pieces
2 cups fresh strawberries, cut in halves
1 1/2 cups sugar
3 tablespoons flour
1/2 teaspoon nutmeg (or more to taste)
3 tablespoons butter, melted
2 eggs, lightly beaten

Place strawberries and rhubarb on bottom crust. Mix all other ingredients well; pour over top and spread around fruit. Top with solid crust or make a lattice weave for top crust; flute edges.

Preheat oven to 400 F. Turn down to 350 F and bake pie for 35 minutes or until rhubarb is soft.

Freezing is fine if the cook takes care

Make a friend of your freezer. A freezer can help you add variety to your meals and save time and money.

Remember, though, that a freezer does not work miracles on over-the-hill foods. Select top-quality foods to freeze.

Be wise in preparing foods for freezing. Think about how you will be cooking or serving the food later, then choose company size, family size or individual portions, whichever suits your purposes better.

For example, when freezing a couple of pounds of ground beef in one lump, allow extra thawing time if you want to make hamburgers. It's just easier to package food in convenient servings in meal-sized quantities.

Be ruthless when wrapping foods for freezing. Wrap tightly in a moisture-and-vapor-proof wrap, allowing no unnecessary air to remain. Storage bags, plastic sandwich bags, produce bags, bread bags or plastic margarine or cottage cheese tubs do not seal well and should not be used.

Don't put a small amount of food in a large container. Extra air left in the container or package draws moisture from the food. It shortens storage life and can cause freezer burn and possible nutrient loss.

Protect the food from drying out and from possible odors coming from the freezer, causing "off" flavors in food.

Freezer-burned foods are edible, but will have an unpleasant flavor. Generally, the burned area is cut away and wasted.

The faster you can freeze the product the better. When freezing foods, place them in the coldest part of the freezer and allow for plenty of air circulation.

Also, try to avoid freezing too much food at one time. If food is frozen slowly, large ice crystals form and it is mushy when thawed.

Place containers in a single layer on a shelf. Once the food is frozen, stack containers on top of each other to save freezer space.

Some foods do not freeze well. Hard-cooked egg whites toughen when frozen, but the cooked yolks freeze reasonably well.

If pasta products are well-done before freezing, they tend to become soggy or tough when frozen. However, when they are mixed in a combination dish with some liquid, they freeze well.

Pepper, onion, cloves and synthetic vanilla can become strong and bitter when stored. Season foods lightly before freezing. If possible, add herbs and spices when you are ready to cook or serve.

Sauces frequently separate during freezing and thawing. Using homogenized milk and large amounts of fat increases the separation. Beating the sauce when thawed may make it smooth again.

Fried foods, with the exception of french-fried potatoes and onions, become soggy and tough. Pieces of potatoes in soups and stews also may become soggy or grainy, but mashed potatoes freeze very well.

Most breads, cookies, pies and other baked goods freeze well. Fruit pies and cookies can be frozen raw and baked after freezing.

For best results, freeze cakes without the icing. Frozen icing sometimes takes on a "fired" look after thawing. If freezing butter, unsalted butter stores better than salted.

Be very thoughtful about thawing frozen foods. The foods you freeze, as well as the commercially frozen foods you buy, may be thawed in the refrigerator under cold running water or during cooking.

We recommend very highly that foods be thawed in the refrigerator and definitely not on the kitchen counter.

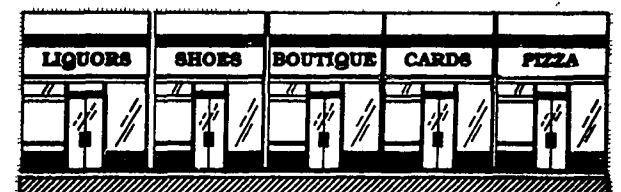

To prevent drying and discoloration during thawing, foods should be left in their original freezer wrap except, of course, when they are to be thawed during cooking.

Use the rule "first in, first out." Rotate the food, checking out the back or bottom of the freezer to make sure you are getting the older-dated foods first. Don't collect antiques in your freezer.

Today's busy lifestyles allow limited time for preparing meals. By cooking ahead of time, you can thaw as needed and serve a nutritious meal in just minutes.

Use proper freezing techniques to ensure good taste, flavor and quality of your frozen foods.

What would your children's future be like without The Bill of Rights?

Stumbling. Falling. Searching aimlessly.

Thanks to The Bill of Rights your children are not blindfolded to the world around them. They can experience life. Without restriction.

Their lives are too important to be left to hit and miss.

Don't let your children grow up in the dark. Help them realize the significance of the personal freedoms we take for granted every day.

Tell your children about The Bill of Rights.
Their future is too important to play games with.

Sasha was expecting to go to the prom.

Now she's just expecting.

We'd like to talk to you about a growing problem. Teen pregnancies last year, over one million teenage girls became pregnant and this year over one million more will join the ranks.

Like Sasha, many young girls are confused about what it means to take on the responsibility of a child. Barely out of childhood themselves, these girls may have an adult's picture of motherhood. But unfortunately, reality paints a harsher picture.

What's even more likely to face the unhappy teenagers, abandon their low-income employment and probably welfare.

If you're a parent, take the time to talk to your daughters and sons about sex and love. Find out what they don't know. What they do know. Because when they don't know, it's their best protection.

Too many victuals

John Snyder

LeBlonde Richardville plumped a finger against my ample girth and asked, "Been partakin' of a might few too many victuals?"

It's hard to get any respect from a 19th century frontier fort cook, who has to make do with whatever critters the hunting party is lucky enough to scare up.

"Your wife oughten better be a-runnin' you round the parade ground, instead of you spending so much time a-scribbling," LeBlonde adds.

I kindly decline her offer of muskrat stew and head toward the storehouse, where the salted meat, flour and whiskey is put up in large oak barrels. Private Bailey, musket at the ready, makes it quite clear that no interloper is going to share in his ration of spirits.

The reception is more cordial at the house of Major John Whistler, who's happy to tout the fort's strategic location to "any visiting scribe." But the commanding officer isn't above grousing a bit about his monthly pay, which is a few dollars less than that of the Indian agent ("that no account Mr. Stickney.")

For you see, it's always 1816 at Historic Fort Wayne, where interactive first-person interpretations bring the Midwest frontier back to life.

Visitors are engaged in the day-to-day tasks, concerns, interests and outlooks of the people who live at the American fort in the days when Indiana became a state, and trader settlements began to give form to the community that one day would become the city of Fort Wayne. Pass through the fort gates and you'll mingle with some of the actual characters who lived, loved, worked and bickered at this outpost.

There's Sergeant Dougherty ("I be a Whig from Massachusetts and proud of it."), and Mrs. Bourie, one of the French settlers in the area. And keep your womenfolk away from the garrison blacksmith, a single man with an eye for a comely ankle.

All of the civilian and military personnel are accurately costumed, including the soldier's wives and daughters who perform their daily chores of baking, spinning and dipping candles—with a fair share of gossip thrown in too. Officers and enlisted men conduct musket drills, fire cannons and clean their flint lock weapons.

The full scale, reconstructed fort is a faithful copy of the post built by American troops under the command of Major Whistler (the famous painter's grandfather) in 1815-16. The original complex was regarded as one of the most sophisticated all-wooden forts ever built in North America, and was designed to be easily defended against Indian attack by a contingent of only 50 to 75 soldiers. Two lines of pickets, heavy gates and well-placed blockhouses kept potential enemies from entering. It was not the fear of Indians, but rather the rapid westward movement of the frontier, that caused Fort Wayne to be abandoned after only three years of use.

Historic Fort Wayne sits on a plot of ground less than a quarter mile from the original site, which was chosen for its transportation significance. By crossing a nearby nine mile portage, a traveler could journey from Canada to the Gulf of Mexico with only two major portages: one at Niagara Falls and the other at the site of Fort Wayne.

The fort presents special event weekends when guest participants and fort personnel demonstrate various folk crafts, and military and Indian events. Among the most popular are Trapper's and Trader's Rendezvous, the Christmas Program and the Glorious Fourth of July.

The trading post offers visitors a chance to purchase many of the crafts made at the fort and other hand-crafted gifts made in Indiana.

Historic Fort Wayne, 211 S. Barr St. (just north of downtown), is open April through the end of October. Hours are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesday through Sunday. The fort is closed Mondays except holidays.

Admission to this piece of authentic American history is $3.50 adults; $3 seniors; $2 students 5-18; children under 5 admitted free.

Call 219-424-3476 for more information.

Fort Wayne is located along Interstate 69 in northeast Indiana, about 160 miles from Detroit, Chicago and Grand Rapids, and some 100 miles from Toledo.

So loosen up your 20th century collars (or waistcoat or bodice) for a trip back in time. And be sure to be nice to the cook.

FRONTIER COOK—Visitors to Historic Fort Wayne are greeted (and sometimes pestered) by characters who actually lived at the outpost in 1816.

Kalamazoo, Michigan—

Traditionally, fall signifies the start of the harvest season, and with that, the start of annual harvest celebrations. One of the most enjoyable celebrations is the Michigan Wine and Harvest Festival, which will take place in Paw Paw and Kalamazoo, Sept. 4 through 8.

Now in its eleventh year, the festival has grown to become a true community celebration filled with entertainment, food, fine wines and juices, and fun for the entire family. Best of all, the proceeds from the festival benefit local charities.

First and foremost, the Michigan Wine and Harvest Festival celebrates the harvesting of Michigan-grown grapes and the making of premium Michigan wines and sparkling juices. The festival traces its roots to 1968 when the Paw Paw Jaycees staged a Grape Festival, taking up several blocks of Michigan Avenue with rides, concessions and displays. Ten years later, the governor declared the festival week "Michigan Grape and Wine Week."

In 1981, the success of the festival led to a split of the festival activities (and the crowds) between Paw Paw and Kalamazoo. Kalamazoo took on the parade, bed races, food booths, wine, tents and other special events; Paw Paw kept the wineries, arts and crafts fair, antique show, the Turtle Derby and the Incredible Grape Stomp. Since then, other components have grown, and together Kalamazoo and Paw Paw host more than 200,000 persons annually.

This year, the 1991 Festival begins in Kalamazoo on Wednesday, September 4, with a new event. The "Best of Michigan Wine Tasting" will feature award-winning Michigan wines and will be held in the newly renovated Radisson Plaza. The proceeds from this gala event will benefit Kalamazoo's Hospital Hospitality House. The festival will continue through Saturday in Kalamazoo and Friday through Sunday in Paw Paw.

Visitors attending the Michigan Wine and Harvest Festival can enjoy the Grand Parade, arts and crafts shows, live entertainment, ethnic foods, winery tours, a carnival midway, steamboat rides and much more. As well, the festival offers an opportunity to sample premium wines and sparkling juices from many of the state's wineries.

SIPPING SITE— Winery tours and taste tests are a highlight of the Michigan Wine and Harvest Festival.

PAW PAW STOMP— Competitors of all ages heed the urge to wade in during the annual Incredible Grape Stomp contest.

With all these ingredients, the 1991 Michigan Wine and Harvest Festival truly offers something for everyone. For more information on the festival, call or write the Festival Office, 128 N. Kalamazoo Mall, Kalamazoo, MI 49007, 616-381-4003.

Fall's first color cruise: 500 glorious miles along 'shining big sea waters'

A Michigan scene never feels quite right without a vast lake stretching to the horizon. Using Michigan as a starting point, travelers can circle the world's largest freshwater lake—Lake Superior—in all its autumn splendor. And it can all be done on dry land, in the comfort of a car, on well-marked highways, with the possibility of frequent stops and hundreds of attractions in interesting lakeside towns.

As travelers color cruise the Lake Superior shoreline, they can contemplate these staggering facts: This wild and sometimes raging freshwater sea is 350 miles long and 160 miles wide, covering 31,699 square miles, reaching a maximum depth of 1,335 feet, and containing 2,934 cubic miles of water. Fall color reaches its peak in the U.P. from mid-September to early October.

The Michigan segment of this three-state, two-nation circuit is just under 500 miles long. It follows the north shore of Michigan's Upper Peninsula—an area larger than Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut and Delaware combined, where wilderness abounds but visitors are never more than 30 miles from restaurants, motels and campgrounds. A tour can begin at the eastern end in Sault Ste. Marie or in Ironwood at the western end.

SOO LOCKS Sault Ste. Marie

First named "Le Sault de Sainte Marie" (the falls of St. Mary) by French Jesuits, Sault Ste. Marie is the oldest city in Michigan and the third oldest in the United States. The International Bridge links the city with its sister Sault in Ontario.

Commonly known as the "Soo," this is where the largest locks in the world raise and lower thousand-foot freighters 21 feet between Lake Superior and the rest of the world. From viewing platforms and covered observation towers, visitors can watch ships from all over the world being "locked through." Or they can tour the locks by train or boat, or take a dinner cruise.

There's more: Visit The Antlers, a popular colorful tavern; tour the steamer S.S. Valley Camp; climb the 21-story Tower of History with splendid views of Canada; or stop at a Vegas-style casino operated by Chippewa Indians. More information: 906-632-3301.

TAHUQUAMENON FALLS Paradise

The "Gateway to Tahquamenon," Paradise is a small village nestled in a lush forest on Whitefish Bay. A short drive west are the Tahquamenon Falls, 14 miles to the upper falls and 10 miles to the lower. Made famous in Longfellow's Song of Hiawatha, copper-colored Tahquamenon Falls is the third largest waterfall east of the Mississippi. At the Upper Falls the river plunges down a 48-foot sandstone cliff. Scenic hiking trails offer easy access to overlooks with magnificent views. Two alternate routes to the falls await the unhurried traveler: the Tom Sawyer riverboat and Paul Bunyan timber train; and the Toonerville Trolley and Hiawatha Riverboat.

At the Lower Tahquamenon Falls, three sets of falls and a series of rippling cascades surround an island that can be reached by rental boats. The largest of the falls can also be viewed from a lookout near the park headquarters. More information: 906-492-3310

With waterfalls in town and multicolored cliffs at its doorstep, Munising is headquarters for the Pictured Rocks National Lakeshore. The multicolored sandstone formations, immortalized in Longfellow's epic, Song of Hiawatha, extend some 25 miles along the "shining big sea waters" of Lake Superior from Munising Falls to Grand Marais. They can be seen by land or by sea.

Munising is the starting point for either trip. The 55-mile trip by land, partly on unpaved roads, takes at least 1½ hours to drive. A shoreline hike can last from 2 hours to 4 days. There are 3 drive-in campgrounds. An excursion boat cruises along the 20-mile stretch of shoreline that includes Miner's Castle, Battleship Rock and Rainbow Cave. More information: 906-387-4864.

MARQUETTE

Marquette, unofficial capital of the Upper Peninsula, is the urban hub of the peninsula. Surrounded by rugged Laurentian uplands, nineteenth-century sandstone buildings rise above red-brick sidewalks. The city is home to the nation's third Olympic Training Center.

Here, too, visitors will find vivid reminders of the 1959 classic film Anatomy of a Murder, particularly the recently restored Marquette County Courthouse. The courthouse was not only featured in the film, but was the site of the trial on which the film was based. Among Marquette's other treasures are its Maritime Museum, Presque Isle Park, the 124-year-old Marquette Lighthouse, and its giant iron-ore docks. More information: 906-226-6591.

KEWEENAW PENINSULA Copper Harbor

Keweenaw, Michigan's northernmost peninsula, just more than 80 miles out into Lake Superior. Perched on its tip, Copper Harbor is named for its once abundant resource. Today, Michigan's northernmost community is a popular summer resort and fall retreat.

The big lake and surrounding woodlands can best be viewed from Brockway Mountain Drive, one of the highest roads in the Midwest at 900 feet above sea level. Its spectacular panorama is often listed among the nation's top autumn color areas. The Estivant Pines Reserve, a grove of 100-foot virgin white pines some 500 years old, grows along the Montreal River.

Also along the Keweenaw's rocky spine are waterfalls, ghost towns, lighthouses and quaint lakeshore villages; a rare natural treat, the thimbleberry, wild cousin to the raspberry; fine local cuisine in charming restaurants; golf courses; and the Keweenaw Mountain Lodge, with 32 of its 40 rooms in log cabins. More information: 906-482-5240.

ONTONAGON

The American Indians named this site Ontonagon, "Place of the Bowl," because of the shape of the river's mouth. The community's claim to fame is the Ontonagon Boulder now in the Smithsonian Institution. This huge mass of pure copper, measuring 50 inches by 41 inches and weighing 3,708 pounds, was found upstream in the Ontonagon River. The Indians believed the "rock" was a mediator between them and the Great Spirit. The man who moved it to Detroit in 1843 used a railroad car and temporary wooden tracks to haul it 4½ miles to a navigable part of the river. More information: 906-884-4230.

LAKE OF THE CLOUDS

OVERLOOK

Porcupine Mountains Wilderness State Park, Ontonagon

In the far northwest corner of the Upper Peninsula, the Porcupine Mountains shoulder up against the Lake Superior shoreline. Towering virgin timber, secluded lakes, miles of wild rivers and streams, and the possibility of sighting black bear make a visit to the "Porkies" a trip to remember.

And although it's called Porcupine Mountains Wilderness State Park, access is easy. A short hike from a paved parking lot takes visitors to an escarpment that looks out over a five-mile vista that includes the Lake of the Clouds. The beautiful, placid alpine lake lies 300 feet below and a mile away. A trail leads downward to the lake and its only cabin. Through prior arrangement at the park office, this dwelling and its rowboat can make an overnight stay at Lake of the Clouds a once-in-a-lifetime experience. More information: 906-885-5275.

COPPER PEAK SKI-FLYING HILL Ironwood

Ten miles northeast of Ironwood, on County Road 513, is Copper Peak Ski-Flying Hill. It is one of six ski-flying hills in the world and the only one in the Western Hemisphere. Copper Peak's 469-foot slide towers 241 feet above the summit, allowing fliers to leap more than 500 feet. It also allows visitors who ride the 810-foot chair lift to the top of the hill or take the 188-foot elevator to the Observation Deck to view Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Canada and Lake Superior.

Gateway to the western Upper Peninsula and the Ottawa National Forest, Ironwood is the main trading, lumbering and winter recreation center of the region.

Ironwood, as far west as St. Louis, Missouri, is accessible via some of Michigan's most scenic roadways. A turn-of-the-century railroad depot and the Ironwood Theatre are among the city's historic sites. The 18-mile Black River Drive tunnels beneath virgin oak and maple trees as it passes Copper Peak, seven waterfalls, and one of the most picturesque harbors in Michigan, complete with campground and beaches. Want to be left alone? All in favor say island!

Jack Hoffman

Choppy waves pound the bow of the ferry that falls and rises as fingers tickle the stomach lining. We are an hour into our three-hour journey and beginning to wonder if we couldn't have learned as much about our destination from the mainland.

We are bound for Beaver Island.

Having sailed eight or nine times in the Atlantic waters of the Bermuda Triangle on far smaller vessels than this ferry, we are surprised by the ferocity of Lake Michigan on what seemed like a calm, sunlit day when we pushed off at the Charlevoix port one early morning this summer and slipped quietly from the channel into the lake.

Lake Michigan is deceiving; its calm is belied by scores of wrecks rotting deep beneath the surface.

"You'll find more moderate temperatures on Beaver than on the mainland," we overhear an islander telling a passenger. And, indeed, as the forested islands of the Beaver group (there are 18 islands in the Beaver Island Archipelago) come into view, the waters grow quieter and the temperature seems a bit more comfortable.

Beaver Island is the largest of the Beaver group. Larger than all the islands anywhere in Lake Michigan, it's more than four times the size of Mackinaw Island, which lies in Lake Huron, and it's about as long as Manhattan Island.

Although Beaver is part of Charlevoix County, which lies south of Petoskey, it is closer to the Upper Peninsula than the Lower Peninsula. It is 32 miles northwest of Charlevoix, half that distance to the U.P.

If you have an affinity for lots of people, luxurious accommodations and shops, best you avoid Beaver. But if you like quiet, a feeling of aloneness, this island is a haven. It has been so for centuries.

It has 350 year-round residents. And although its population increases substantially with the peak of tourism in July and August, it is still largely unpeopled, a quiet place steeped in history. Says Dave Gladish in his delightful little book, All in Favor Say Island: "Beaver Island's museums are not gaudy. It isn't a gaudy island. The accent is on people and what people are. The quaint touches your own quaint heart. Sham melts away, and reveries come to life."

Our ferry enters the harbor, gliding past Whiskey Point and an unimpressive lighthouse on the northern shaped-like-a-hook end of the island and into a place called Paradise Bay. We dock in "downtown" St. James, the unofficial capitol of this island, and from the deck we survey the main street shops...half dozen clapboard buildings, some badly in need of paint, and a brand new one going up that maintains the turn-of-the-century facade of its neighbors.

No cabs waiting here. Scant greeters. We walk to our bayside motel a hundred yards away. It is nothing to write home about. But it's clean, adequate. We could have hiked (or called for transportation) to the more distant Beaver Island Lodge, which sports more deluxe accommodations, or to the McCann House, an intriguing bed and breakfast Victorian home, circa 1899, but we are staying only overnight and we're saving our energy for walking about town.

Our motel, the Erin, is located on the waterfront, conveniently next door to a building housing the chamber of commerce, realty and newspaper offices, and across the street from the Shamrock Bar and Restaurant. The Irish name of our motel and the restaurant is replicated throughout the 14 mile long by six mile wide island. Aside from the Indians who first inhabited Beaver, Irish families have resided here longer than all others. Longer even than the Mormons, who were driven from the island--every man, woman and child--more than a century ago but who remain so popularly linked to the colorful history of this place, now divided into two Charlevoix County townships--St. James on the north and Peaine on the south.

After checking into the motel (just in time to escape a brief rainstorm), our first stop is the Old Mormon Print Shop--a two-story frame museum, constructed in 1850, on a downtown corner of St. James. The building is filled with memorabilia of the town's history. It is here that we learn of James Jesse Strang.

crowned king by the people who once inhabited the island.

Self-professed ruler of the Mormons, Strang and his followers moved to the island in the mid-19th century. In absence of the asked for consent of Congress and the President, Strang simply announced on July 8, 1850--on the occasion of his coronation--that God had gifted the "Islands of the Great Lakes" to King Strang and his people. He sold or gave parcels of lands on the island to his followers, gradually forcing those already living there, including the Irish, to leave. Their lands and buildings were confiscated, and the Mormon inhabitants quickly turned the island into a productive community of farms and businesses.

The print shop served as the home of Strang and his wives.

Strang's reign was short-lived, however. In 1856 he was assassinated by two of his disgruntled Mormon saints, and soon thereafter, emboldened by Strang's death, an angry Gentile mob--mostly Mackinac Islanders--stormed onto Beaver, pillaging it and driving every Mormon--2,600 men, women and children--from the island. A historian called that July 5, 1856 "the most disgraceful day in Michigan history."

The visitor to the print shop museum could spend an entire day browsing through the materials, pictures and artifacts related to "King Strang" and to the history of the island.

On the opposite side of Paradise

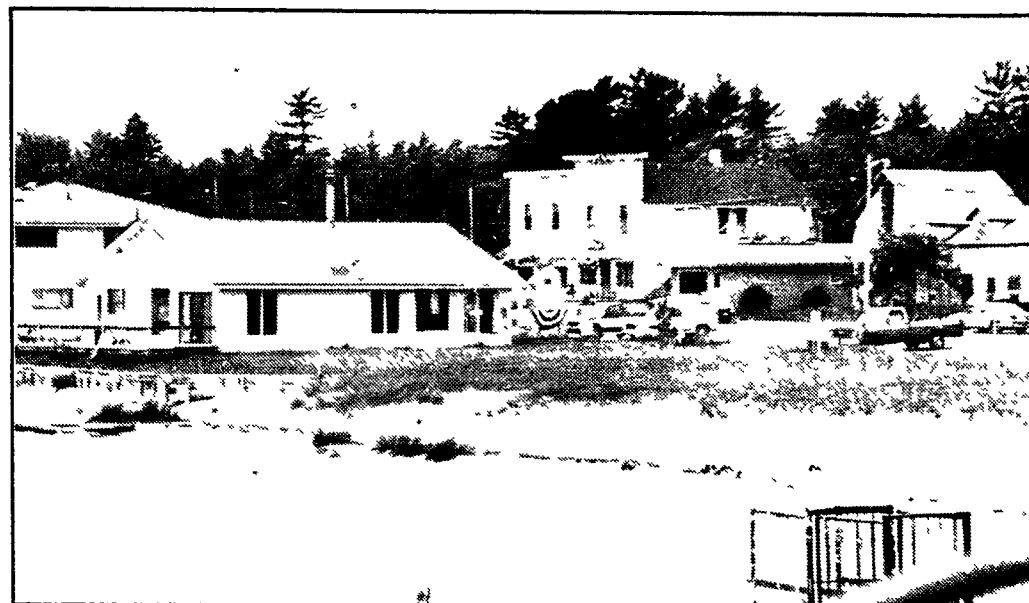

Bay, up the road from the lighthouse, is the Marine Museum, an authentic net shed, built in 1906. It houses a growing collection of memorabilia from the days when the St. James harbor was teeming with commercial activity. At one time the water's edge was ringed with fishing vessels and the harbor was home of many Great Lakes captains and crewmembers.

Between these two museums are scattered shops, stores, restaurants, and homes--including the handsome former King Hotel, a large, frame building that now is a private club. We enjoyed visiting many of these places, spending an inordinate amount of our time at the surprisingly delightful Beaver Boat-Tique gift shop and the fascinating St. James Boat Shop where small handcrafted boats are produced.

In early afternoon we walked what seemed like a mile along the island's lone two-lane paved road (King's Highway), south of the print shop museum and out beyond the pretty, frame schoolhouse, to what we were told was "the" place to eat by inhabitants of the island. And, indeed the food was delicious, but it was the building and its location that intrigued us most. Located in a converted barn, on a lonely gravel side road off the blacktop, the busy Stoney Acre Grill Family Restaurant represents someone's amazing, successful gamble--to locate and succeed in an old building far from the mainstream of activity.

The island has a number of roads (100 miles of them), but its only paved road is a five-mile stretch of potted

"The Haunting of Hill House"

Adapted by Andrew Leslie from the novel by Shirley Jackson

A chilling and mystifying study in mounting terror in which a small group of "psychically receptive" people are brought together in Hill House, a brooding, mid-Victorian mansion known as a place of evil and "contained ill will" Led by the learned Dr. Montague, who is doing research in supernatural phenomena, the visitors have come to probe the secrets of the old house and to draw forth the mysterious powers which it is alleged to possess -- powers which have brought madness and death to those who have lived there.

Cut off from the outside world by its remote location and shunned by all who know its forbidding and sinister reputation, Hill House has remained empty and silent except for the daily visits of its grumbling caretaker, Mrs. Dudley. Its isolation is broken by the arrival of Dr. Montague, an investigator of supernatural phenomena.

A Beautiful
Fall Color Trip

Aerial ballet sure to send spirits soaring

Kalamazoo, Michigan—

Football and 3-on-3 basketball will not be the only games in town this fall. The Kalamazoo County Parks Department is bringing a new sporting event to Kalamazoo County this September: The first Mid-American Sport Kite Classic kite tournament is scheduled for River Oaks Park on September 7 and 8.

Sport, or stunt, kites are multi-line controllable kites that can be flown through precise maneuvers and beautiful ballet routines. Sport kites are the fastest growing segment of the kite market, both nationally and in the Kalamazoo County area. The popularity of these kites has spawned a number of competitions across the country.

Before the Mid-American Classic, there were no competitions in southwest Michigan. Organizers of the Mid-American Classic expect to attract flyers from throughout the Great Lakes Region for this event.

The organization of sport kite tournaments is similar to that of ice skating competitions. Flyers can compete in both Precision and Ballet events. In the Precision events competitors must fly a predetermined pattern in the sky. Performances are judged by how closely the pattern flown matches the figure as drawn. In Ballet, flyers perform routines choreographed to music.

Flyers compete in classes from Junior (under 12), Novice, Intermediate, Experienced, through Masters, the class for the world's top flyers.

There are both Precision and Ballet events for individual flyers, but it is the team events that are the real crowd pleasers. Teams of three, four, and even five flyers create intricate patterns in the sky. The effect is much like the air show performances of the Blue Angels or Thunderbirds. The sound generated by the kites is reminiscent of the precision aircraft teams as well. A number of teams, including the Hobby House Team from Battle Creek, are expected to compete. Several Master Class teams, such as the Windjammers from Detroit, are expected to perform demonstrations.

For more information about the Mid-American Sport Kite Classic, including registration forms, please contact the Kalamazoo County Parks Department at 616-383-8778.

Leelanau County: Orchards, islands and coastal dunes

Leland, Michigan—

Almost completely surrounded by the clear waters of northern Lake Michigan, Leelanau County is made up of sand dunes, forests, islands, inland lakes and streams, orchards, vineyards, and small towns. All these features are woven into a special charm that is unique to this northwest corner of Michigan's lower peninsula.

Much of Leelanau County and its beautiful coastline are part of Sleeping Bear Dunes National Lakeshore. One of 357 units of the National Park System, it ensures that development is held in balance and much of the county will remain preserved for future generations to enjoy.

Summer is here and among the many outdoor activities to enjoy are ranger-guided walks at Sleeping Bear Dunes National Lakeshore. Each week 14 different guided walks are offered with intriguing names like "Stalking the Wild White-Tailed Deer"; "Damsels and Dragons, Lacewings and Lions"; "Combatting Alien Invaders"; and "A Town That Vanished."

Within the National Lakeshore are campsites, scenic drives, beaches and trails to hike, crystal clear streams, beaver dams, dunes to climb, and educational programs hosted by park rangers. Waterfront activities include sailing, fishing - from beach or charter boat, kayaking, canoeing, windsurfing, beachcombing, shipwreck exploration, a maritime museum, and much, much more.

Other activities in the county include horseback riding, bicycling, tennis, volleyball, golf, special programs for children, winery tours, and casino gambling, to name just a few. And during the winter, the ice fishing, downhill skiing, snowboarding, cross country skiing, and snowshoeing are unmatched. Spectacular fall colors and springtime displays of wild flowers along with delicious morel mushrooms, round out the seasonal attractiveness of the region.

For those who like to shop, there are farm markets - including pick-your-own fruits, studios, galleries, antiques, boutiques, and countless one of a kind shops. There's dining and entertainment for all tastes. And when it comes to lodging, guests may choose from the best of bed and breakfasts, clusters of rustic log cabins, cozy inns, mom and pop hotels, and four season resorts with all the amenities. There are choices in Leelanau County!

The rolling topography is accentuated by the quaint country villages and cherry orchards which run the entire length of the county. The family owned orchards and vineyards ensure that Leelanau has a future based on strong family ties and respect for the land.

For more information, call 616-256-9895.

Jean Day

September visitors to Mackinac Island will have a new reason for climbing the hill to walk across the porch of the world's largest summer hotel. Sept. 13-15, the Grand Hotel will be holding its first antique show and what a show it promises to be.

Called Carleton Varney's Fall Antique and Design Festival, the event will begin with a preview cocktail party on the Friday night to benefit the Mackinac Island Public Library building now under construction.

Missy Musser, wife of Grand president R. D. Musser III, has planned the festival with the assistance of Carleton Varney, president of the internationally known decorator firm of Dorothy Draper & Company, and Dick Sheppard, owner of Danbury Antiques in Suttons Bay, Michigan who is serving as the dealer consultant.

Varney is responsible for the acclaimed redecoration of the Grand Hotel which resulted in the much-commented-upon green and red geranium-pattern carpeting which greets lobby guests. His redecoration of the Audubon Bar in the hotel utilized 18th century furnishings and bold color.

In 1990, Architectural Digest magazine cited Varney in its compilation of the best international interior designers over the past two decades. His work at the Grand reflects his belief in "bright colors and unexpected color relationships."

Because of his association with the Grand and the Mussers, Varney is part of the festival project and will be one of the speakers during the event.

Lesley Keno, vice president and director of the American Furnishings and Accessories of Sotheby's, is coming to discuss American arts and antiques during the festival.

"I guess he is coming because we have purchased so much from Sotheby's and got to know the firm," says Missy Musser. The Audubon prints that line the walls of the Audubon bar are from Sotheby's.

Third speaker, Clem Conger,

Manoogian collection at Grand gallery

Through Labor Day weekend a charming selection of paintings from the collection of Detroit-area industrialist Richard Manoogian is on display in the gallery and parlor of Mackinac Island's Grand Hotel. The exhibit, Women and Children in the Victorian Era, may be viewed by all visitors to the Grand at no additional cost beyond the hotel's usual $5 admission fee.

Grand President R. D. Musser III notes that the exhibit is a small selection of the collection of American paintings that is large and varied and has become one of the most important private collections in the country.

Manoogian, who with his wife has a summer home on the island narrowed his collection for the exhibit to pictures that have the theme of Victorian women and children, "feeling it appropriate for our building," adds Musser.

Also included are John Singer Sargent's (1856-1925) Portrait of a Young Girl (Polly Barnard) (c. 1885) and Martha Walters (1875-1976) Nursemaid and Baby at Gloucester, Massachusetts. Another captivating painting, Water Lilies by Edward Henry Potthast (1857-1927), shows four youngsters happily wading.

"Highlighted in this exhibition are works ranging from Victorian to Impressionist paintings featuring women and children from an era of great prosperity in our nation - dating from the late 19th to the early part of the 20th centuries," it is explained.

Portions of the Manoogian collection have been exhibited at the National Gallery of Art in Washington, the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York and the Detroit Institute of Arts.

Musser comments that having the Manoogian exhibit in the hotel seems "quite grand in my mind."

We absolutely agreed as we read the pamphlet comment, "the notion of Victorian and turn-of-the century American paintings generally evokes thoughts of light and color, yards of velvet and lace, stalks of hollyhocks and blooming peonies, and sipping iced tea on an open wood porch on a sweet summer's afternoon. A more apt setting than these rooms in the Grand Hotel could not be found."

Across From Bronners

VERANDA VIEW— A treasured work of art in its own right, the Grand Hotel on Mackinac Island will host its first antique show Sept. 13-15 to benefit the island's public library.

curator of the State Department, is being brought by Varney to complete the list of speakers.

Sheppard, whose shop is known for its quality English small antiques, expects to have 30 to 35 dealers at the show which will be held in the hotel's conference center.

"It's planned to be a very well rounded show," Sheppard notes, pointing out that he has signed dealers bringing such specialties as quality antique wicker furniture, fine jewelry and ceramics.

Sheppard recalls that the Mussers came to him in January to ask if he would be interested in helping with such a show. Of course he was, he says.

He adds that the hotel will be responsible for transporting the dealers' stocks from the dock at St. Ignace right to the show area. "All they will have to do is get it to the dock, and it will be taken across (the Mackinac Straits), probably on the Arnold Line's Corsair car ferry, and then up to the hotel in horse-drawn drays."

While most dealers will be from Michigan, there are others from Ohio, Pennsylvania, Indiana, Illinois and Wisconsin. Included will be jewelry dealer Virginia Franz of Grosse Pointe, Michigan, Melrose Antiques of Mt. Clemens, Michigan, Harriet Lauffer of Manchester, Michigan, Paul Fisher of Indianapolis and Steve Levine of Pennsylvania.

Sheppard adds that working with the Mussers has been rewarding as "their primary concern has been that the dealers will make it - they have a very common sense approach."

When you realize that admission to the library benefit night has been set at a modest $25 and that the remainder of the show may be viewed for only the usual $5 admission to the hotel, Sheppard's comment rings very true.

Dan Musser reports that the Grand still has some package accommodations available for the weekend at the price of $579 a couple. This includes accommodations for two evenings for two, including gratuities and taxes, dinner and breakfast and the cocktail reception. All other guests of the hotel will be invited to attend the cocktail benefit for the $25 charge.

The Mussers are hoping to have Gov. and Mrs. John Engler, who visit the Governor's mansion on the island as well as the Richard Manoogians as cocktail party guests.

Missy Musser reports that the Manoogians are hoping to be able to be on hand for part of the weekend briefly as they have a commitment in Detroit. Currently the Manoogians are sharing part of their collection of American paintings with the Grand's guests. (See related story.)

The brochure of the charming exhibit of Women and Children of the Victorian Era explains that the Detroit-area industrialist and his wife Jan became so enchanted with Mackinac Island's beauty and charm that they purchased a cottage and have become summer residents.

Both Mussers are pleased that island residents are most enthusiastic about the festival and its benefit for the library.

Foundations have been started for the library which is being located right at the beginning of the boardwalk on the waterfront. It will have a fireplace and windows facing the water.

Until now the city has rented space in a house. However, it was not large enough Musser explains, to house the material being acquired by the library. "We think (it) is going to be a wonderful addition to the island," he sums up.

On his part, Sheppard thinks the idea of a show at the Grand is one whose time has come and is working hard to complete the list of dealers, choosing to ensure variety. He also will have a booth of his English antiques.

And two weeks after the antique festival he plans to be off to England, leading a group of antiquers. This is a new venture for him as he previously led culture groups in excursions formed by a Birmingham agency. This he also will do later in the fall.

He adds that, if everyone who has picked up the colorful announcement of the festival in his shop attends, the event is certain to be a successful "first" at the 104-year-old island institution. We think so, too.

'Big Mac' attack set for Labor Day

Mackinaw City, Michigan—

Lace up your walking shoes and attack the "Big Mac" Sept. 2 during the 34th annual Labor Day Mackinac Bridge Walk.

It's your once-a-year opportunity to traverse the Mackinac Bridge on foot and get a bird's eye view of the five miles of gleaming water separating Michigan's two peninsulas.

The walk begins at 7 a.m. Participants may start anytime after 7 a.m. but must begin walking before 10 a.m. There is no fee or registration.

The trek begins in St. Ignace, at the northern terminus of the Mackinac Bridge in the Upper Peninsula, and ends in Mackinaw City at the southern terminus in the Lower Peninsula.

Participants in the Lower Peninsula must cross north on the bridge to get to the starting point. The options are:

—drive to St. Ignace, park your vehicle there, take the walk, and then return to the Upper Peninsula on school buses which will be available at the bus loading area, where tickets may be purchased on one of the gates designated "Return" to St. Ignace. Tickets are $1 for adults and children, infants are free.

—buy your bus ticket in Mackinaw City at the bus loading area (north of Traverse Bay Woolen Co. on South Huron Avenue), board the bus to cross the bridge to join the walkers already at the north end, then take your walk and return to your vehicle.

Parking is available on the old state ferry dock on South Huron Avenue, across from the Little Red Shoe House and one half block south of the bus loading area. The buses are hired by the Mackinac Bridge Authority from various schools in northern Michigan. However, the Authority strongly advises walkers to arrange for their own transportation to the starting point because of the increasingly heavy demand for these buses. Tickets go on sale, and buses begin transporting walkers at 5:30 a.m. from Mackinaw City.

The two east lanes on the bridge are used by walkers until 9 a.m., and the two west lanes by vehicular traffic.

After 9 a.m., only one east lane is available to walkers.

The National Guard and other official units will be available in the event of an emergency. Please note there are no rest rooms on the bridge. Portable toilets will be located at both ends of the bridge and at the bus loading area.

Not allowed are bicycles, roller skates, skateboards, wagons and similar vehicles. With the sole exception of seeing-eye dogs, no dogs are allowed. Vehicles allowed are baby strollers and wheelchairs. Walkers must stay away from bridge railings.

Walkers will receive a numbered bridge walk certificate at the completion of the walk. The number of the certificate may match a number on display in any of the store windows in Mackinaw City. Winning numbers entitle walkers to claim a prize which may be worth from $15 to $150.

More than two dozen restaurants and food services in the Straits area will be open on Labor Day for "early bird" breakfasts.

The Mackinac Bridge is easily accessible via Interstate 75, US-23 or US-31. Call 906-643-7600 for more information.

STRAITS JAUNT— The once-a-year opportunity to cross the five-mile Mackinac Bridge on foot is set for Sept. 2. Walkers receive a certificate upon completion.

SHIPWRECK SITES— Divers coming to the Straits of Mackinac have their choice of well-preserved historic shipwrecks to explore.

Mackinaw City, Michigan—

The Straits of Mackinac contain one of the most unusual collections of shipwrecks in the Great Lakes. And that collection is attracting scuba divers from across the U.S., according to Steve Harrington, author of "Divers Guide to Michigan."

"The cold, fresh water of lakes Michigan and Huron have preserved a variety of sunken vessels and their cargoes. The result is a sport diving attraction that is quickly growing in popularity," said Harrington.

Among the most popular diving sites in the Straits of Mackinac are the Cedarville and the Sandusky according to Harrington.

The Cedarville was a 588-foot freighter loaded with limestone when it approached the Straits of Mackinac in a light fog on the morning of May 7, 1965. Out of the fog a Norwegian freighter appeared and struck the Cedarville, tearing a 20-foot gash in its hull.

The captain of the Cedarville was aware the ship was about to sink and attempted to ground it in shallow water but it was too late. The ship capsized in about 110 feet of water with a loss of 10 lives.

Today, the Cedarville offers scuba divers an opportunity to explore the ship's superstructure and holds. Divers often find schools of fish accompanying them in their underwater explorations.

The Sandusky was a working-class vessel of an earlier era. The brigantine was 110 feet long with two masts and a square stern. The Sandusky left Chicago on Sept. 16, 1856 with a load of freight, but found herself in a violent storm at the Straits of Mackinac two days later.

The Sandusky was unable to handle the heavy seas and sank with a loss of seven men. The ship lies upright in about 90 feet of water. Divers who explore the interior of the ship find broken masts, an anchor, wheel and tiller.

These shipwrecks are unusual because of their preserved state, Harrington said.

"Unlike saltwater shipwrecks, these vessels are only slightly corroded and the wood is not significantly damaged. These sites are like time capsules that permit us to glimpse our maritime heritage at a time when the Midwest was growing rapidly," he said.

Lodging and restaurants can be found on both sides of the Straits of Mackinac. A dive shop, air station and charter service is located in St. Ignace.

More information about the scuba diving in the Straits of Mackinac can be obtained by contacting the Mackinaw Area Tourist Bureau at 1-800-666-0160.

Monroe, Michigan—

Old French Town Days in Monroe's historic Hellenberg Park recreates 18th century life of the old North West Territory. Set for the weekend of Aug. 24-25, the festival includes authentic craft displays, military pageantry, period music, voyageurs, games and other related activities spanning the time period of the 18th century to the War of 1812, when the area was a French settlement.

In 1784, Francois Navarre became the first permanent settler on the River Raisin. The settlement quickly grew as many French families left Detroit where British dominion had become excessive. On and near the River Raisin they built their French-Canadian style homes. And so a French community was established which flourished and later came to be known as French Town.

The site of the festival is very historic ground. During the War of 1812, the land played a part in the Battles of the River Raisin. During the first Battle of the River Raisin, Jan. 18, 1813, the American army charged over this area and across the frozen river to rout the British and Indians from their positions on the opposite shore. In the second Battle of the River Raisin, nine days later, more than a third of the American army crossed over this ground in a disastrous retreat which led to the American defeat.

The military units which participate in Old French Town Days are members of the North West Territory Alliance, an organization dedicated to educating the public about life during the Colonial and Revolutionary periods. All uniforms, equipment and activities, including staged battles and military camp life, are thoroughly researched to insure authenticity.

Authentic displays of domestic crafts of the 18th century are presented each day. Spinning, basketry, bread baking, blacksmithing and hide tanning are some of the crafts to be demonstrated.

A Children's Corner presents many activities children would have taken part in during the 18th century, including rope making, coil basketry and candle dipping. Period music and entertainment is also included on the program.

Admission to Old French Town Days is $3 adults; $1 children age 5-12; children younger than 5 are admitted free.

Hellenberg Park is located on Front Street in Monroe, just off Interstate 75 Exit 14. Call 313-243-7137 for more information.

Toledo, Ohio—

A comprehensive exhibition exploring mid-20th-century international design, What Modern Was is the first exhibition to examine the many different styles that make up modern design, including Bauhaus, Streamlining, Scandinavian Modern, post-war Italian, Pop and the Studio Crafts.

On exhibit at The Toledo Museum of Art Sept. 29–Nov. 17, What Modern Was consists of 250 examples of both mass-produced and handcrafted furniture, decorative arts, and graphic design selected from the Liliane and David M. Stewart Collection of the Musée des Arts Décoratifs de Montréal, which is considered one of the most significant collections of mid-20th-century design in North America.

The exhibition is organized thematically and includes examples of furniture by Marcel Breuer, Wendell Castle, Chares and Ray Eames, Isamu Noguchi, and Ettore Sottsass; textiles, tapestries, and rugs by Alexander Calder, Henri Matisse, Marimekko, Joan Miro, and Frank Lloyd Wright; glass and ceramics by Alvar Aalto, Pablo Picasso, Gio Ponti, Toshiko Takaezu, Russell Wright and Eva Zeisel; jewelry and metalware by Harry Bertoia, Salvado Dali, Jean Puiforcat, and Tapio Wirkkala; and graphics by Milton Glaser, Herbert Bayer, and Max Bill, among others.

Twentieth-century design has been greatly concerned with the concept of Modernism, a movement generally associated with the growth of the Bauhaus in Germany in the 1920s and the rise of the International Style in the 1930s. Simplicity of forms and of means of production were its fundamental canon.

"Modern" implied not only what was up to date but also a sense of mission, of responding to economic and political reality. It reached all areas of artistic endeavor, from furniture and textiles to typography and glassware.

What Modern Was will be open during regular Museum hours: Tuesday–Saturday, 10 a.m.–4 p.m.; Sunday, 1–5 p.m.; closed Mondays.

There is an admission charge every day except Wednesday, which is a free day. Timed tickets are necessary for admission but may be purchased on the day of your visit prior to viewing the exhibition. Cost is $3 adults (18–64); $2 (seniors and students 6–17); children 5 and under are admitted free with a timed ticket.

General admission, timed tickets go on sale Sept. 1 and may be ordered by calling 419-243-7000. During exhibition hours, tickets are available at the Museum for same-day admission or advance reservations.

The Toledo Museum of Art is located at 2445 Monroe Street at Scottwood Avenue, just west of the downtown business district and one block off Interstate 75 with exit designations posted.

MATISSE RUG—This landmark exhibition exploring modernism in mid-20th-century international design is the first to access the significance of the many aesthetics that have comprised modern design.

Late summer art fairs abound

Webster*

As summer hits midstride across the Great Lakes region, skies deepen to a cobalt hue, water in the upper lakes finally warms to permit almost-comfortable swimming, and you can be sure, in some lakeside community, an art fair will be in full swing.

You've probably enjoyed water sports by now, maybe you've participated in one of the numerous fishing derbies, and surely you've had several summer cookouts but have you seen what artists and craftsmen have been producing all winter?

Most, if not all, of them have "regular" jobs to keep food on the table and to make the car payments, but to satisfy their creative natures, you can be sure they're crafting a product they hope will be saleable.

They'll find out this summer.

You'll let them know.

You'll either buy or pass by their carefully thrown pots, their unique jewelry, their bright watercolors or oils or acrylic paintings, or their colorful photographs. You may decide to purchase your Christmas gifts while on vacation - as you notice a unique toy, a batik scarf, a glass paperweight.

Some of these artisans will finish the season richer financially, but all of them will be richer for the conversations and appreciation expressed by their customers - you.

"I like to make art and I enjoy meeting people" is heard again and again from art fair exhibitors. I know, I've talked with hundreds of them while jurying art shows throughout the state. Always, I've been struck by the commitment of time they make, and by the sacrifices that go along with being on the summer art fair circuit as many of them follow the fairs from town to town, weekend after weekend.

Understand that art fairs and shows - indoors or outdoors, held in summer, winter, autumn or spring - vary widely in quality, structure and content.

While some are now organized by a single person and travel from mall site to mall site, others are sponsored by local arts organizations or even by chambers of commerce. Some are rigidly juried by qualified persons to assure that only original art and crafts of high quality are on sale. Others have varying degrees of selection, while some are termed "open" - just show up, pay a fee and take a space to sell your product.

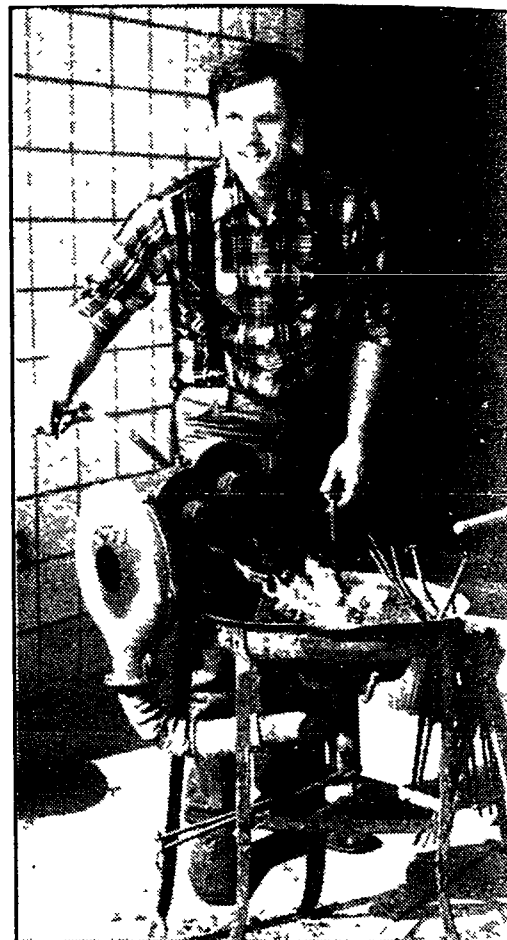

All are fun. Some have amazing bargains. Others have prices comparable to galleries, but the selection is wonderful. You benefit. You're sure to find an art fair suited to your style and pocketbook.

Personally, I've found grand selections at most of the well-known art fairs. Those that have the experience of several successful seasons behind them are reliable and serve as examples to those groups beginning to sponsor their own shows.

From the Ann Arbor area to Flint, from Marquette to Escanaba, from Charlevoix to Tawas City, there are art fairs to suit a variety of needs.

I've purchased wooden toys for grandchildren with smoothly rounded surfaces, delightfully designed and inexpensively priced; dinnerware that rivals anything I've found in stores; innovative jewelry made of pressed papier-mache and hand painted in unique designs; hand pulled prints; color photographs in varied sizes; beautifully drawn colored pencil pieces and inspired watercolors - usually always under $25, which is an arbitrary limit I set myself.

first weekend in June), I was lucky enough to find individually made thin wooden pins in cat shapes, hand painted with safety catches attached, for just $8 each. Every time I place one of those fanciful cats by George Landino on a lapel, I smile, because they're exactly the sort of whimsy one hopes to run across. He also crafts exquisite Christmas decorations unlike any seen elsewhere, and reasonably priced. Look for his work at the 18th Annual Ann Arbor Winter Fair at the U of M Track and Tennis Building October 26-27. Call Audree Levy at (214) 369-4345 for times and details.

In August, you have a choice of many art fairs. Here's just a sampling...

Tents That Contain Wonders, the offering of Artist's Showcase at Mackinaw City Aug. 24-25, is presented at Mackinaw Park. About 100 artists and craftsmen are expected and Yulonda Stockwell (616-873-5154) has the details.

Over at Algonac, the local Rotary Club presents the 19th Annual Algonac Art Fair on Aug. 31-Sept. 1. Set in the Algonac Riverfront Park, about 100 exhibitors will offer their wares. This show usually has between 8000 and 10,000 viewers, so you can be sure it's a popular one. Mary-Jane Hardy (313-794-5937) has details.

If you are interested in touching a number of art fairs this summer, send a stamped, self-addressed business-size envelope with 75 cents postage to Michigan Council for the Arts, 1200 Sixth Street, Detroit MI 48226-2461 and request the Michigan Art Fairs Directory. And before you visit an art fair, be sure and telephone first to confirm dates and places. Sometimes, changes are made.

In September, just because school has started again and some people think vacation time is over, art fairs go Wyandotte Heritage Days at the Wyandotte Museum Sept. 6-8 features about 100 exhibitors and nearly 40,000 viewers. Call Beth Labadie (313-246-4520) for more information.

A huge event, the Michigan Wine/Harvest Festival Arts and Crafts Show really attract a crowd. We prefer to think it's to see art, although we suspect the wine has its followers. In downtown Kalamazoo, crowds of 220,000 have been noted viewing works by 150 artists. Contact Marilyn Clear (616-381-4003) for details of the Sept. 7 event.

Always interesting, the Artists and Craftsmen Show in Plymouth is sponsored by the Plymouth Community Arts Council and is held at 650 W. Church Street Sept. 7-8. Kathleen Angell (313-455-5260) has details.

Another top-rated art fair is held Sept. 7-8 as Art 'N' Apples Festival is held at Rochester's City Park. With 275 exhibitors and 125,000 viewers, the popularity of this annual event is evident. Kat MacKenzie (313-651-4110) has more information.

Birmingham's Art In The Park 1991 is another standout. Scheduled for Sept. 14-15 this year, Shain Park will see 155 exhibitors showing excellent quality works. Usually, about 50,000 viewers and buyers throng to this well-planned affair. Rebecca Reedus (313-543-3050) has more information.

A bit further north, Midland hosts the Fall Art Fair at the Grace A. Dow Library grounds Sept. 14-15. This is worth the drive! Not only do you have a chance to see the Midland Center for the Arts, which is just across the parking lot, but a bit further is Dow Gardens. You'll be able to appreciate art and crafts, plants and history all in one afternoon. Watch for ceramics by Pat Oberloier at this art fair. Rebecca Houck (517-662-4357) has details.

The 5th Art Market & Victorian Festival is scheduled Sept. 14-15 in downtown Northville. Sponsored by the Northville Art Commission, this fair features about 75 artists and attracts nearly 4,000 viewers. Besides, it's fun. Michael Key (313-349-6104) has more information.

Milford's Historical Society sponsors the Milford Home Tour Craft Show Sept. 21-22. This very popular event attracts travelers to Central Park in Milford for two days of interesting viewing. Expect about 75 craftsmen to display their wares. Bill Corbin (313-684-2455) has details.

Mark Sept. 22 on your calendars and travel to Port Huron for Pioneer Day. Held at the Museum of Arts and History, the invitational fair features high quality crafts. You'll also have a chance to visit the museum, which is worth the trip by itself. Steve Williams (313-982-0891) has more information.

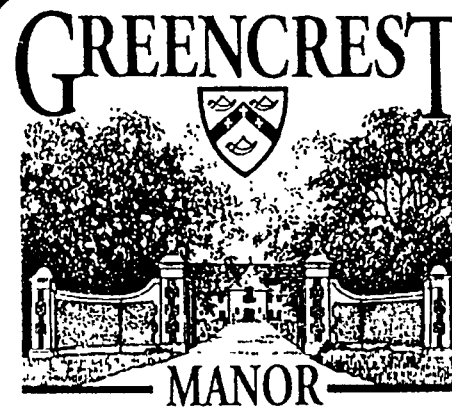

Remember, these are just a few of the hundreds of art fairs being planned in Michigan this August and September. A long afternoon of browsing or a shorter walk-through any of them will round out your summer activities in the Great Lakes region.

Manistee makes fashion statement

Manistee, Michigan—

Here's a fashion event that promises to be the most exciting of the season (the Victorian season that is)!

It's a Victorian Costume Contest, set to take place during the Victorian Port City Festival, Sept. 28-29 in historic Manistee.

The Victorian period from 1837 to 1901 is perhaps best remembered for its elegant clothing. Manistee is recognized as Michigan's Victorian Port City, rich in Victorian lore, history and architecture...and during this unique Festival contest, Victorian fashions of all sizes, shapes and sorts.

Men, women and children are invited to participate in this fun event. Recognition will be awarded in 10 categories; Most Elegant Lady, Most Dapper Gentleman, Most Charming Lady, Most Dashing Gentleman, Best Dressed Family About Town, Victorian Children; Businesses...and oh yes, even Victorian Nightwear.

Bathing suits will also be judged...but watch out for the risque'...some may have a hole...in the knee!

So get out your best Victorian period clothing and come join the fun. Judging will take place Friday and Saturday of the Festival, with a promenade set for Sunday at noon, recognizing the winners.

Contestants must fill out an entry form by August 31st. Complete rules and judging times are available from the Manistee County Chamber of Commerce and local businesses.

For more information, contact the Manistee County Chamber of Commerce at US-31 at Bridge Street, Manistee, Michigan 49660 or call 616-723-2575.

Grand Rapids, Michigan—

Sinking the winning putt on the 18th green holds a new look for this year's Senior PGA Tour event in west Michigan.

First of America Classic (formerly Greater Grand Rapids Open) officials announced the course's front and back nines will be reversed for the tournament. The traditional ninth hole becomes the new 18th hole, the old eighth hole becomes the new 17th hole, the 10th hole becomes the first hole, etc.

"We're changing to accommodate the spectators," says Greg Zadel, one of the tournament's co-chairmen.

"The new arrangement should improve traffic flow and viewing areas around the finishing holes."

Specifically, Zadel pointed to the increased congestion between the traditional 18th green and 10th tee at
The Highlands course, site of the Sept.
6-8 tournament.

"Because of the driving range's proximity to the old 18th fairway, foot traffic has been limited to one side of the 18th fairway," he explained.
"That has created a logjam behind the 18th green. The new 18th hole allows spectator traffic on both sides of the fairway—meaning better flow and more viewing areas."

A second problem area was around the traditional 17th green.

"The green's elevation and adjacency to the driving range severely reduced gallery vistas," said
Millie Lindquist, tournament co-chair.

"The new 17th offers an amphitheater-type setting. It's perfect for spectators."

"Our primary objective is to stage a top-quality professional golf tournament for west Michigan," added Lindquist. Among the players committed to play in the tournament are Arnold Palmer, Lee Trevino, Bobby Nichols, Miller Barber, Bruce

Devlin, and Larry Ziegler.

"Certainly, Arnie and Lee provide us with an attractive marquee," Lindquist says. Combined, Trevino and Palmer own 77 PGA Tour victories, including 14 major championships.

The 1991 First of America Classic offers a purse of $350,000 to the Senior PGA pros. Tickets are on sale at First of American bank branches in southwestern Michigan and in the Lansing area, and at The Highlands.

Grand Rapids' first citizen, Gerald
R. Ford, will play in the Pro-Am portion of the tournament, officials announced. The former president is scheduled to be part of a Wednesday afternoon grouping. The two-day
Pro-Am is Wednesday and Thursday,
Sept. 4-5.

Senior Shootout set for Tuesday

West Michigan's Senior PGA Tour event will sport a new look for its annual Tuesday afternoon Shootout.

The First of America Classic has reached an agreement with Anheuser-Busch Co. for Anheuser-Busch's sponsorship of the "Michelob Shootout." The event, featuring total prize money of $20,000, is slated for Tuesday, Sept. 3 at 2:30 p.m. at The Highlands.

The Michelob Shootout will be taped and edited into a 30-minute program for broadcast on ESPN television. The program will air three separate times in the weeks following the tournament. Dates and times have not been determined.

The list of pros for the Michelob
Shootout is yet to be finalized.
However, it is expected that a majority of the field will be from last year's top ten Senior PGA Tour money winners.
The nine-hole Shootout format begins with 10 players teeing off as a group. The player with the highest score is eliminated. The remaining players move on, with one player eliminated at each hole. If two or more players end a hole tied, a tournament official selects a shot for them to make, and the player farthest from the hole is eliminated. Typically, the players compete in a relaxed and jovial atmosphere.

Tickets for the Michelob Shootout are $6 at the gate. First of America
Classic Single Day tickets, Weeklong Passes and Clubhouse Passes will be honored for the Shootout. Tournament tickets are on sale at First of America branches and The Highlands.

The First of America Classic,
formerly the Greater Grand Rapids Open, is organized and produced by the Grand Rapids Jaycees. Proceeds from the event benefit St. John's Home and other area charities.

Tour visitors are invited to stay for both days. Davenport College is celebrating its 125th anniversary and is opening the W.A. Lettinga Business Training Center, which is a lovely old home. Central High School graduated its first class in 1862 and the current school building, completed in 1911, will be open for touring.

Advance sale tickets for the tour are $8; a 20 percent discount is available for advance sale ticket purchases of 10 or more. Mail ticket requests to: Heritage Hill Association, 126 College Southeast, Grand Rapids, MI., 49503. Include 50 cents for postage and handling.

Ticket price on the days of the tour is $10. Tickets will be sold from 10:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday, 11:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Sunday at Central High School.

"A Taste of Grand Rapids," presented by Heritage Hill, is set for Friday, Oct. 4, from 4 p.m. to 9 p.m. at the Ford Fieldhouse on the Grand Rapids Junior College campus. Call 616-458-6498 for more information.

The Heritage Hill section of Grand Rapids showcases more than 60 architectural styles and is on the National Register of Historic Places. The restored homes were originally built for lumber barons, teachers, judges and legislators who shaped Grand Rapids' future.

Pass the pie and painting

Rochester, Michigan—

Art 'n Apples, one of Michigan's oldest and largest outdoor art fairs, is slated for Saturday and Sunday, Sept. 7-8, at Municipal Park in downtown Rochester. Admission is free.

Two hundred and seventy-five artists from 26 states will showcase their baskets, ceramics, jewelry, paintings, prints, sculptures, toys and more. These artists were elected from more than 700 who applied to the festival.

The festival runs on people power: more than 400 volunteers donate their time and talents to this wonderful community event. All the food at the festival is provided by Rochester area service groups and nonprofits. For pie like Grandma used to make, don't miss the homemade apple pies baked by Rochester Older Persons Center ladies.

For more information on Art 'n Apples, call the Paint Creek Center for the Arts 313-651-4110, Tuesday through Saturday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Rochester is 20 miles north of Detroit. Exit I-75 at University (Walton Boulevard) and proceed east into downtown Rochester.

ART FOR KID'S SAKE— Do-it-yourself art brings out the creative juices in children attending Rochester's Arts 'n Apples fair, set this year for Sept. 7-8.

Canal town rings out in barbershop harmony

Coshocton, Ohio—

Banjos and barbershop quartets are the main attraction for the 10th annual Gay 1890s Festival in Historic Roscoe Village. Scheduled for Sept. 21-22, admission to the Gay 1890s Festival is free. The hours of this Festival are from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. both days.

Entertainment will include featured banjo players, Jerry Weaver, who will be performing on Saturday, and Mike Evans, who will be performing on Sunday. Also performing on the outdoor stage in the Village will be barbershop quartets and various other four or five string banjo players. Open stage periods allow banjo players or barbershop quartets to perform at their leisure. Banjo displays, sales, informal jam sessions and workshops also add to the excitement of the Gay 1890s Festival.

Historic Roscoe Village is an 1830s restored canal town located on SR 16/83 near the junction of US 36 in the east-central Ohio town of Coshocton. For further information, contact The Roscoe Village Foundation, 381 Hill Street, Coshocton, Ohio 43812, or call (614) 622-9310, toll-free 1-800-877-1830.

Now, in its 22nd year of restoration, Historic Roscoe Village is commonly referred to as Ohio's living museum and quite often as the "little Williamsburg."

Once, a bustling wheat port on the Ohio & Erie Canal, Roscoe Village was originally plotted as Caldersburg in 1816, but changed to Roscoe in 1830 after the English abolitionist and poet, William Roscoe. Although, the advent of the train slowed the canal waters from the mid 1800s, Roscoe did not meet its demise until the infamous 1913 flood.

Roscoe Village is an open Village, free to the public. You can drive through the Village, enjoy the shops, restaurants, and Country Inn as much as you like. There is a minimal fee if you choose to take the historic tour, the canal boat ride, or the horse drawn trolley. And, of course, there are the irresistible shops with merchandise so unique, you will have a hard time passing them by.

Roscoe Village is open year-round boasting 21 shops and restaurants. It offers a host of entertainment for the history enthusiast from lodging at the lovely Country Inn to exploring the Village for historical evidence. Each year, Roscoe Village is host to multiple festivals and special events.

Coshocton is located in east-central Ohio along US-36, about 60 miles northeast of Columbus.

Woollybears and wine good reasons for celebrating along Ohio's coast

Sandusky, Ohio—

Known as one of the most popular summer destinations in the country, the Sandusky, Ohio area is becoming popular for its autumn vacation getaways as well. Celebrating everything from the woollybear to the area's wine industry, Sandusky and its neighboring communities focus on fall festivals and events during Vineyard Days.

"Vineyard Days began as a way for us to promote our attractions and activities beyond Labor Day," said Joan Van Offeren, executive director of the Erie County Visitors Bureau. "Our area has an abundance of quality festivals and special events in September and October, therefore Vineyard Days was born."

This two-month celebration begins on Sept. 14 with the Kelleys Island Butterfly Festival. A flea market, auction and games pay tribute to the migrating Monarch butterfly which makes Kelleys Island a stop on the way to the mainland.

Kelleys Island also welcomes a Vineyard Days luncheon cruise and wine tasting on Friday, Sept. 20. This 5-hour cruise includes an on-board homemade buffet, a tour of the island and wine tasting at the Kelley's Island Wine Company. The following day is Treasure Island Day, when island residents hold an island-wide garage sale.

The Lake Erie Factory Outlet Center gets into the swing of Vineyard Days with an Art and Craft Show on Sept. 27-29. Seasonal and holiday creations from Ohio artists will be on display.

On Saturday, Sept. 28, the Antique Classic Fly-In displays aircraft from years gone by at the Kelleys Island airfield. A clam bake at 5 p.m. tops off the day.

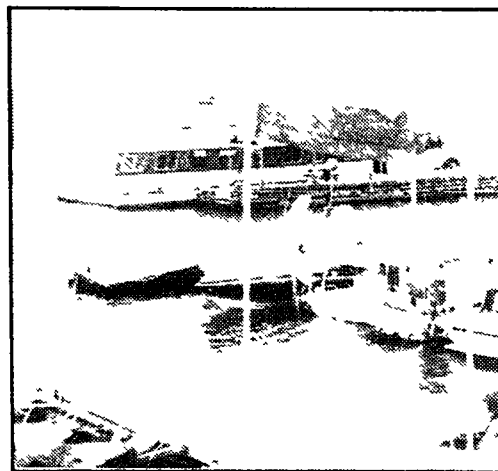

Perhaps the most popular Vineyard Days festival is the Woollybear Festival in Vermilion. Held on Sunday, Sept. 29, this festival is the largest one-day event in Ohio. Activities include games, woollybear races, river boat rides and the annual Woollybear Parade.

Birmingham hosts one of the largest craft shows in Ohio on Saturday and Sunday, Oct. 5-6. The Country Harvest of Antiques and Crafts displays wares from over 130 antique dealers and craftsmen. Where there are crafts, there is food and the Country Harvest of Antiques and Crafts is no exception with their corn rival soup, bean soup, homemade desserts and krauts.

The Harvest Happenings in Huron gets underway on Sunday, Oct. 13, with harvest crafts, hayrides, herding demonstrations and games. The same day also presents the Settlers Day Social in Milan with demonstrations and music.

The Engels and Krudwig Wine Festival will be held Friday and Saturday, Oct. 18-19. Free tours of this historic winery are held all day.

Halloween festivities include the Vermilion Old Haunted Schoolhouse held every weekend in October, and the Halloween Costume Parade at the Lake Erie Factory Outlet Center on Monday, Oct. 28. Kelleys Island hosts its Halloween Party on Saturday, Oct. 26, and several excursion boats depart from downtown Sandusky for trips to the island celebrations.

Other events in the area include Cedar Point, which is open every weekend in September from noon until 8 p.m.; four local wineries and specialty cruises.

For a free brochure listing all Vineyard Days activities, call the Erie County Visitors Bureau at 1-800-255-ERIE, or write 231 W. Washington Row, Sandusky, Ohio 44870.

There is more to back to school than books

Soon 40,000 students will re-invade the campus of Michigan State University. Many of these students, brought by their parents, will come back to campus, get settled in their dorm or apartment and dive right into their studies.

When they do this, they will be missing many of the opportunities of attending school in the State Capitol. Not to mention the many opportunities to be found on campus.

This summer MSU's famous botanical gardens were moved across campus to a much larger area giving visitors an expanded panorama of floral beauty. Don't forget, on a beautiful fall afternoon, Spartan Stadium, where you will find a true family atmosphere with 76,000 family members, offers tremendous excitement in Big 10 football. Come early and have a picnic outside, enjoy the game, enjoy the crowd, enjoy the campus.

The area offers the students many opportunities to find out how state government really works. The House and Senate chambers are open and would be a terrific place to learn the who and how of our legislative process.

From an historical perspective the greater Lansing area has much to offer. The Michigan Library and Historical Center is a fabulous place for student and parent alike to find out about Michigan's history. The library is a resource the students will want to be familiar with. It is a vast resource facility. While still on campus, the MSU Museum is a wonderful place to see what was. Also, the Impressions 5 Science Museum in downtown Lansing, offers hands on science education.

When you come back to school, or you are bringing a student to MSU for the first time don't forget there is more to education than books and class time. If you are looking for an education, take the time to experience a complete education.

Gaylord peaks for fall color

Gaylord, Michigan—

And with the highest altitude of any city in northern lower Michigan, Gaylord rates at the top of the fall tour list.

Exhilarating color may be viewed on foot in the thousands of acres of state forest land near Gaylord. Hiking trails abound in this state land, which is also home to the largest elk herd east of the Mississippi. Elk sightings are common, especially just after sunrise or shortly before sunset.

Commune with nature by boat on six-mile-long Otsego Lake or on the 30-mile scenic bike route which meanders along back roads. Otsego Lake, just south of Gaylord, offers much to the vacationing family: camping, hiking, fishing, swimming, sailing and boating.

A color cruise by car could follow the 45th parallel, halfway between the equator and the North Pole. Latitude 45 degrees north is marked approximately by M 32 east and west of Gaylord. Watch for deer and elk among the gold and crimson leaves. Bright and Glory Lakes, on the road from Frederic to Hartwick Pines, show how Michigan's lakes looked before settlement.

Call 800-345-8621 for color reports and tour maps.

Recreation and leisure opportunities in the city and additional activities within a 60-mile radius make Gaylord an ideal getaway destination. Here's a sampling of coming events:

—Sept. 2, annual bridge walk, Mackinaw City, 616-436-5664.

—Sept. 6-8, Posen Potato Festival, Polish music, ethnic food, parade, 517-766-8128.

—Oct. 11-13, Sportsman Weekend, hunting activities, wild game dinner, Garland Resort, Lewiston, 517-786-2211.

—Oct. 11-13, 18-20, 25-27, Murder Mystery Weekend, Hidden Valley Resort, Gaylord, 800-752-5510.

Major highways make Gaylord an easy destination. Nestled along Interstate 75 (Exit 270, 279 and 282), Gaylord and Otsego County is only a morning's drive from metro Detroit. Connections with the US-27 and US-131 freeways smooth the road for travelers from Chicago, Indiana and Ohio. Pilots may prefer the convenience of landing at Otsego County Airport, about one mile from downtown Gaylord.

Hooked on classics: Million-dollar autos at home in Indiana

Auburn, Indiana—

If you have even a casual interest in classic cars, there's only one place to be come Labor Day weekend—the 36th annual Auburn-Cord-Duesenberg Festival.

Auburn 1991, "The Year of the Auburn," will be celebrated Aug. 29-Sept. 3. Nearly 300,000 antique auto buffs from around the world are expected for the extravaganza, which includes the world's largest car auction, quilt show, art shows, golf tournament, swap meet, decorator showcase house, historic tours of the city, chicken barbecue, steak fry and a 225-car parade.

Highlighting the event is the Saturday, Aug. 31 "Parade of Classics" featuring hundreds of Auburns, Cords and Duesenbergs valued at millions of dollars. Famed sports car designer Carroll Shelby will serve as parade Grand Marshall.

The International Collector Car Auction, set for Aug. 29-Sept. 3, will draw collectors and investors from around the globe to bid on classic cars that routinely sell in excess of $1 million each. Some of the significant classics already consigned include a one-of-a-kind 1935 Mercedes Benz 500K cabriolet A; a 1940 Cadillac Series 90 V-16 Fleetwood convertible sedan, believed to be one of four in existence; and a 1931 Franklin roadster, reportedly owned by Amelia Earhart.

More than 200,000 people are expected for the auction, billed as the largest of its kind anywhere with over 5000 collector cars for sale.

Auburn '91 visitors can view the festivities from a 1931 Stinson Tri-Motor, one of America's first airliners, which was produced by Cord company. Public rides will be offered at the DeKalb County Airport throughout the festival.

At the center of the festival is the Auburn-Cord-Duesenberg Museum, housed in the original company building. Listed on the National Register of Historic Places, the museum is itself a work of art and houses an extensive collection of classic automobiles.

Auburn, the birthplace of the Auburn, Cord, deSoto and other automobiles, is located along Interstate 69 in northeast Indiana, about 20 miles north of Fort Wayne. For more information about Auburn '91, call 219-925-1444.

A-C-D Museum displays dream car collection

Auburn, Indiana—

It's a universal trait of car people to dream of owning and driving special cars. Joe Bortz's fantasies have been coming true for years now as he has accumulated the largest collection of factory concept dream cars in the world. The Auburn-Cord-Duesenberg Museum will display 12 cars from the famous Bortz Dream Car Collection, Aug. 12 through Sept. 7.

In allowing the Museum to exhibit 12 cars, Bortz pointed out that he has no plans of ever doing so again. Museum Executive Director Skip Marketti notes "no more than six of these fabulous works of automotive art have ever been shown at any one time. Enthusiasts will now have a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity to view 12 of Joe Bortz's dream cars in our beautiful art deco showroom. We expect them to be the center of attention during our 1991 Labor Day festival."

The exhibit will represent many major auto manufacturers—Ford, Chrysler, General Motors, Hudson and Packard. Dream cars are factory prototype "concepts" created for national auto shows. The Museum display will include the 1957 Chrysler Ghia Diablo, the 1953 Pontiac Parisienne, the 1953 Chrysler Thomas Ghia Special, the 1954 Packard Panther Daytona, the 1954 Hudson Italia, the 1953 Buick Wildcat I, the 1970 Dodge Diamante, the 1955 Chrysler Falcon, the 1964 Pontiac Banshee XP-833, the 1954 Pontiac Bonneville Special, the 1954 Dodge Fire Arrow Roadster II and the unrestored 1954 Mercury XM-800.

This marks the first time the Museum has devoted a wing of its front showroom to anything other than Auburns, Cords and Duesenbergs. It took an exhibit of this magnitude to justify such a historic decision, Marketti says. It is the first time so many dream cars have been on display at one place and at one time. Prior to this, six cars have been shown for the last two years at Pebble Beach and this year at the Concours d' Elegance for the Center of the Arts at Virginia Beach.

During the 1991 Labor Day weekend Dave Hollis, retired vice president of General Motors for styling, will be at the Museum on Sunday from 4 p.m. to 6 p.m., immediately following the ACD Club's awards brunch. He will speak on the origin of dream cars and car art. The collection's originator and curator, Joseph Bortz, will be available as well as owner Marc Bortz and official display historian Mike Lamm.

The Bortz Dream Car Collection, considered to be one of the most valued "auto art collections in the world," represents the unleashed creations of the best auto designers from the 50s and 60s. Productions of these auto show turn-table "dream cars" were done without the normal constraints and safety requirements. They are indeed works of art.

CONCEPT CAR— This 1953 Buick Wildcat I is part of the Bortz Dream Car Collection now on display in Auburn, Indiana. Previously, no more than six of the cars have been exhibited together.

All steamed up over power from the past

Hesston, Indiana—

Nostalgia buffs will discover a forgotten era at an unusual outdoor museum in rural northern Indiana. Visitors can explore the world of the steam engine and ride behind a genuine coal fired steam locomotive through 155 acres of rolling meadows and deep forests.

This bygone age comes to life at the Hesston Steam Museum, where one of the most varied collections of steam equipment in the country is on display weekends throughout the summer and fall. Here you can stroll among machines that once furnished the power for a growing America's transportation and industry, ride a scenic railroad powered by vintage locomotives or hike through the rustic countryside.

The operating museum of restored vintage equipment includes an electric power plant, 92-ton crane, sawmill, traction engines, stationary engines and three gauges of trains.

is free except during special events.

Train fares range from $1.50 to $2, depending on the size of the train.

Labor Day weekend, Aug. 30–Sept. 2, is set aside for the 35th annual Hesston Steam and Power Show. Steam powered demonstrations will include plowing, threshing grain, a flour mill and a blacksmith shop. Antique tractors and cars will be on display and a parade of steam powered vehicles is planned for Saturday and Sunday.

Admission to the steam show is $3; children under 12 are admitted free.

The Hesston Steam Museum is located between Interstate 94 and Interstate 80–90 (Indiana Toll Road) in northwest Indiana, about 10 miles east of Michigan City. Take Exit 1 south off I-94 or Exit 49 north off the toll road to County Road 1000 North, then east 2 1/2 miles.

Crews cruise in companionable convoys

Julie Candler

Allan Hayes

"There's nothing quite so pleasant, after a long rough passage, as having friends standing on the dock to cheer you in and help you tie up," says Jamie McManus, of Shelby Township.

The friends he's talking about are fellow members of the Sea Raiders,

"A lot of little clubs like ours just get together and basically go cruising," says Bob Carroll of Fraser, Michigan, commodore of the 17-family New Wave Boat Club. Most of the members have permanent docks at the Beacon Cove Marina in Harrison Township.

"The little groups don't own real estate or club houses. Usually they just pay an annual membership fee. For instance, our fee of $75 per boat funds the wintertime Commodore's Ball and the Halloween party."

"For a lot of people who are relatively new to boating and may not have the experience level behind them, it's better to cruise with a group," says Carroll. "A new boat owner might not feel too comfortable going to Mackinac alone. But there's safety in numbers."

We learn how the system works when we visit a three-boat New Wave cruising group on a vacation trip to Alpena. Their boats are 29-foot Bayliners, all sister ships of identical design, inside and out.

They had intended to go from a rendezvous point in Sarnia, Ontario to Oscoda, Michigan on their first day. Because of threatening storms, they put in at Harbor Beach instead. The next morning at 6:30 they took off in a flat calm, but by the time they were crossing Saginaw Bay a headwind chop was kicking up. After days of stifling heat, a cold front was moving in from Canada. Sandy Kadlitz, of Warren, Michigan, claims she was the only wife who stayed up on the bridge with her husband, Ron, "through the whole ugly mess."

At 10 a.m. when they got to Alpena, they could barely see the breakwater. But they were in constant touch by cellular phone, and kept comparing positions, and talked each other in.

"After the first boat was docked," says Sandy, "the other boats had somebody to take their lines. That's how it always is. Everybody helps everybody else."

As always, when a difficult passage has been completed, there is a strong atmosphere of togetherness and goodwill.

"It was fun," says Bill Mason of Sterling Heights, Michigan.

Mason is captain of this cruise, and responsible for rules, regulations, dockage reservations and reporting to the dockmaster on arrival at the port of call. Before the trip begins, he gets participants together for a briefing. Afterwards, he turns in a report to the club's board.

"One of the reasons for travelling together," he says, "is that in case of a breakdown you have somebody to back you up. Nobody ever gets left behind. The cruise captain assigns somebody to stay with a boat if it breaks down."

According to the club's cruising rules, the assigned boat must remain with the disabled member until the problem is rectified or until proper assistance has arrived.

Once in port, crews of the three boats on the seven-day Alpena trip get together aboard Bill and Donna Mason's Fun Ship II to discuss their adventures. They are at the handsome new Alpena Harbor, part of Michigan's harbor of refuge program, in an area whose clean air and water are typical of northern Michigan.

The New Wave club's boats are docked three abreast, all flying the triangular New Wave burgee from their bows. We board the center boat and the Masons give us a tour. They show us how the boats' 10-foot-plus beam allows room for three double bunks, microwave, stove, refrigerator, and head with shower. We slide onto the comfortable seat in the dining area and enjoy a soft drink.

We meet Frank Howard of Mt. Clemens, whose wife Vivian is out shopping. The excellent shops in Alpena are among the reasons why the group chose this port of call. "We shop 'til we drop," says Donna.

In a sort of five-way chorus, the companionable group adds with enthusiasm, "All six of us go hiking around the area. When the water's warm, we take the dinghy to the beach and go swimming."

"Sometimes we get together for potlucks on the dock, but it's a vacation and the women prefer eating out. We know the best restaurants in every port. Tonight we're having dinner at the Thunderbird Inn. The owner picked us up at the dock in a limo last year. After that, we're going to see "Terminator II." Sometimes we just sit in chairs in front of the docks. And docking here only costs us $18 a night.

"Our way of socializing with other people is to putt around the marina in the dinghy. Every boater is friendly and will always talk to you."

Like the New Wavers, most boat club families prefer to travel in small convoys of similar-size boats. With more than five boats, a convoy will usually go in two groups. The slower ones stick together.

There is no limitation on boat size for membership. However, Bob Carroll says the New Wave theory is that "it's a little dangerous to use anything under 24 feet to cruise on the Great Lakes. Otherwise, you have problems trying to handle three-to-four-foot waves." He says couples with smaller boats often trail them to the cruise destination and then join the larger boats at the docks.

The 69-family Sea Raiders are all owners of Sea Ray boats ranging from 22 to 46 feet. They also prefer to cruise in small groups of similar-sized boats.

"It's a lot easier for them to stay together," says Director Jamie McManus.

Besides a lot of weekend jaunts, the Sea Raiders stage one extended trip every year, attended by 25 to 30 boats. In 1990 they went to Bayfield, Ontario, with a Christmas in July theme, including holiday-decorated boats. This year's was to Leamington, Ontario and Cedar Point with a 1950's theme.

"Our trips are quite family oriented," says McManus. "When we get to wherever we're going we do fun things the kids will enjoy. Our beach olympics include dinghy races, and we have cookouts and beach bonfires at night. Everybody's compatible and has a great time."

Most of the clubs are for power boaters. Sailing clubs seem to be devoted primarily to racing.

Tom Day of Rochester Hills is commodore of the Albatross Yacht Club, strictly a sailing organization active in racing. Allan crewed in their Tuesday night races a few years ago, and remembers those evenings with fondness.

The AYC is similar to the power boating groups in one respect: a notable lack of possessions. The only property it owns is a starting-gun and some course markers. "We have a building fund," says Day, "but nothing seems to come of it."

"We used to have family cruises, and now we're trying to revive them to some degree," he says. Their current cruising events are related to racing, but not very serious racing. As opposed to the cut-throat variety, it's fun-racing -- the kind where children and landlubber family members can act as crew.

"We have our traditional club race every year, with a lot of children in the crews. We race from the Clinton River to the Thames River and then stay overnight. This year we ate at a restaurant, but next year we plan a cook-out. And we also have our treasure hunt, where clues are left in bottles you have to sail to pick up."

"In our Williamson Memorial Race the boats start at anchor from different places, assigned according to each handicap. The finish is boat for boat, and that's fun."

For information about a club, contact a dealer who handles your make of boat. Most of the New Wave boats are Bayliners. Commodore Bob Carroll can be reached at 313-792-5283. The Sea Raiders are sponsored by Bill McMachen Sea Ray, in Sterling Heights 313-939-7100, and Mt. Clemens, 313-469-0223. Tom Day of the Albatross Yacht Club is at 313-651-3198.

If you join a club, you may find another advantage: there's usually someone keeping an eye on things. Bill Mason tells of his experience as cruise captain of a nine-boat weekend trip earlier this year.

"I don't think anyone stayed up past 8:30 p.m. that Saturday night," he reports. "Around 11:30 p.m., I was awakened by a loud noise. I jumped up and discovered a beer bottle was thrown from a bridge and connected with my windshield."

"After reporting the incident to the police and coming back to the marina, I discovered a cooler with beer was stolen from one of the New Wave boats, and a fishing pole was stolen from another. The remaining boats on the cruise slept through it all. The Fun Ship II crew (Mason and wife, Donna) stayed up until 3 a.m. standing guard."

WHAT A VIEW!— The "new" Presque Isle Lighthouse, built in 1870, opens its doors to the public Aug. 31, noon to 5 p.m., one of only two days a year the 109-foot lighthouse is available for climbing. A pig and corn roast is scheduled for the grounds, along with music and an antique car display. Presque Isle, Michigan, north of Alpena, is located just off US-23. Boating's big around Ontario's Essex Peninsula

When the early French explorer, Adrien Jolliet, paddled down the waterway linking lakes Huron and Erie in 1669, he was skeptically following the advice of an Iroquois Indian who spoke of a Great Lakes route as a less arduous way to get back to Montreal.

Jolliet had gone to Lake Superior in 1667 by way of the Ottawa and French Rivers, Georgian Bay and northern Lake Huron in a search for Indian copper deposits, a journey that had required more than 50 difficult and time consuming portages. The Iroquois claimed that Jolliet would face only one lengthy portage to get past Nee-agh-ara, a great waterfall on the river linking lakes Erie and Ontario.

Jolliet certainly wasn't looking forward to a northern journey back to Montreal, and so took the Indian's advice. Thus, he became the first non-Indian to see the densely-forested lands on which the great cities of Detroit, Michigan and Windsor, Ontario now stand.

Indeed, there were no portages on the Huron-Erie link, but a river, a lake, and another river known today as the Detroit-St. Clair Waterway. They are the St. Clair River and Lake St. Clair, named for the ancient French "Feast of St. Clair", and what later French explorers named Detroit, "the strait."

The Indians had used the waterway for centuries for trade and communications among tribes. Today, the waterway is a major commercial transportation artery for foreign-flag "salties" from overseas, and for domestic U.S. and Canadian bulk carriers and self-unloaders up to 1000 feet in length.

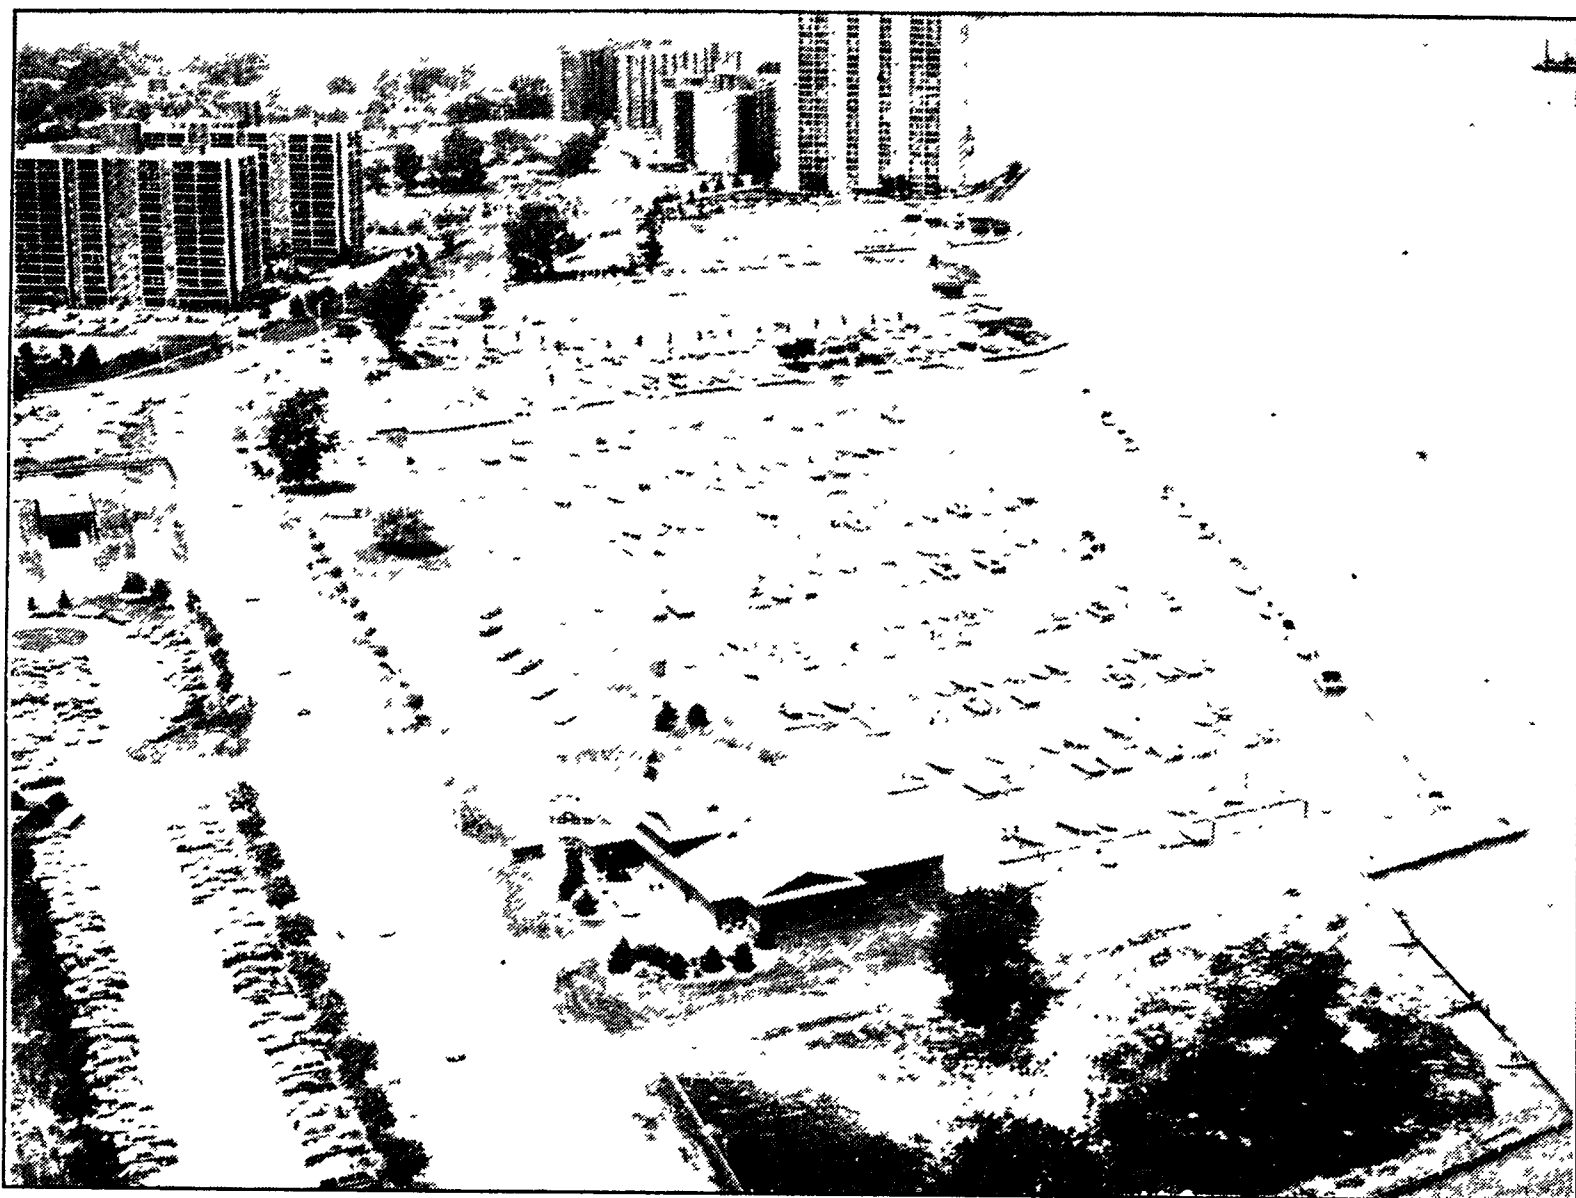

But there's really much more to it than that, for it is a booming playground for thousands of pleasure boat sailors and sports fishermen. From early May until almost freeze up, untold numbers of sleek and powerful motor cruisers, majestic sailboats and ubiquitous small fishing boats ply the waterway along with those big commercial ships.

There's plenty of room for all. There are more pleasure boats in the Detroit River, Lake St. Clair area than there are in either Florida or California. Sailboat racing is a major sport among members of local yacht clubs.

The towns along the Canadian shores of these waters are recognizing the growing economic importance of recreational boating, and that transient boaters from more distant ports are fine visitors to have around. Several have built new marinas and more are in the planning stages.

Between Lighthouse Cove in the southeast corner of Lake St. Clair, and historic Amherstburg on the lower Detroit River, there are 30 marinas, with six more along the Lake Erie shore. Many are full service marinas, while others offer only fuel and sewage pumpout. Some have docking only.

But not just a few are adjacent to PLAYGROUND FOR BOATERS—The city of Windsor's Lakeview Park Marina is among the newest of more than 36 marinas along the shores of Ontario's Essex County, a popular destination for sailors from all over the Great Lakes.

or near restaurants which cater to local and cruising boaters. Some even provide courtesy transportation from and back to the marina.

Most of the marinas are at small communities with no municipal transportation, so you should carry some kind of bicycles on your boat. Car rentals are available in the larger centres should you want to do some exploring.

The largest community, the city of Windsor, has a population of 200,000 and a municipal bus system. Bus stops are within walking distance of the marinas. Fare is $1 for adults, 60 cents for seniors and children under 18. Canada's $1 coin, the "loonie", so named for the bird depicted on it, is ideal for the adult fare since bus drivers won't accept paper currency. Use exact change otherwise.

The town of LaSalle, downriver from Windsor, is so pleasure boat-oriented that it has declared a major part of town "the Nautical Mile". LaSalle has 13 marinas, and there are nautical boutiques and good restaurants nearby. Several boat yards offer hull, sail, engine and electronics repairs. Boaters should pay close attention to channel markers in this area however, to avoid groundings. Give the big freighters a wide berth as well. They'll bellow if you get in the way.

The town of Amherstburg, where the Detroit River flows into Lake Erie, is Ontario's oldest town, and settlement dates back to the 1700s. Fort Malden National Park, part of Canada's national heritage park system, played a key role in the War of 1812 as headquarters of the British Army on the northwest frontier. It features an excellent historic museum and is a pleasant walk from the local marina.

The Park House Museum, the Gibson Art Gallery, and good shopping, including a boutique featuring marine paintings, are other attractions. Offshore, Boblo Island Amusement Park has its own marina on the western side. The family-oriented park has numerous thrill rides and other attractions.

The two lakes, St. Clair and Erie, have popular attractions for visitors to Essex County. St. Clair's Canadian marinas are located at Pike Creek, Puce, Belle River, Stoney Point and Lighthouse Cove. Most have adjacent or nearby restaurants, and one Belle River eatery offers courtesy transportation in a vintage Rolls Royce.

Puce features the only full-service marina, but some limited servicing is available at others. Lighthouse Cove is marked by an historic lighthouse at the entrance to the navigable Thames River.

Sport fishing is popular in all those waters, and the angler can get walleye (pickerel), perch, smallmouth bass and muskie. If you don't want to use your own boat, professional charters are available.

On Lake Erie, marinas are located on the Canadian shore at Cedar Creek, Kingsville, Leamington, and on Pelee Island. Vegetable and fruit growing is a major industry in this area so you can pick up fresh produce for your on-board or dockside meals. There are also wineries in the area; Colio, Pelee Island, and Kingsville Estate, where you can purchase the increasingly palatable local vintage of gold medal quality.

If you feel adventurous and energetic, you can pedal your bikes inland from Kingsville a few miles to visit Jack Miner's wild bird sanctuary to view Canada geese, and Colasanti's Tropical Gardens. Leamington's close neighbor is Point Pelee National Park, a stop-off point for 350 species of migrating birds and monarch butterflies.

Both communities offer fine shopping and even memorable dining. Both have long time marine traditions dating back to the 18th and 19 centuries.

The Canadian ports noted in this article are drawing increasing numbers of pleasure boaters from Michigan, Ohio, Pennsylvania, New York and other states on the Great Lakes, from Ontario, and from ports along the Hudson River and the Intra-coastal Waterway. You might well encounter old boating friends while on a visit here, and you'll most certainly make new ones. And Adrien Jolliet would approve.

For pamphlets about marina locations and facilities, dining, accommodation and attractions, contact the Convention and Visitors Bureau of Windsor, Essex County and Pelee Island, 80 Chatham Street East, Windsor, Ontario N9A 2W1. Telephone (519) 255-6530.

blacktop from St. James down the center of the island. We were amazed by the traffic on this stretch, mostly old pickups and cars of islanders and, surprisingly, a large number of construction trucks, all of which appeared to be in a hurry to get into or out of town.

Cars and bicycles can be transported to the island by ferry (cars $40 and bikes $5, one way), or they may be rented on the island. To tour the island from one end to the other requires some means of motor transportation. Walking about the town is fun but walking the island or touring it by bicycle is a pipedream. Once the main highway runs out of blacktop, it's all sand and dirt roads not easily traversed by bikes. Taxi service is available and the outlying restaurants provide transportation for their customers.

There are two rustic camping facilities on the island--the township campground one mile from St. James and the state campground seven miles out of town. Central Michigan University maintains a biological station on the island and the Charlevoix School System, which operates the island's in-town school, has renovated the fascinating Beaver Head lighthouse on the southern tip of the island where it offers summer programs for Northern Michigan children.

A large number of rental units are available throughout the island, but advanced reservations are required.

The island has two airports--the "close-in" Welke Airport near a nine-hole golf course--or the larger and more distant township airport.

Most of the island's cottages are located on the east side, which is densely wooded but marked with hiking and skiing trails and sandy beaches. The large sandy bays on the west side of the island are rimmed with dunes, but swimming on the west side is not ideal because of the stony beaches.

Three churches are located on Beaver.

The island boasts, in addition to its many miles of Lake Michigan coastline, a dozen inland lakes--two of them quite large, Font Lake just outside the town and Lake Geneserath in the southeast corner of the island. Although large, Font Lake is a very shallow body of water.

Bob Fullerton, former Indian River police chief, who owned a cabin on Lake Geneserath, and later a farmhouse on the King's Highway (the paved road), says the island is a haven for fishermen and hunters. In years past, he found Geneserath and Fox lakes best for fishing. Smallmouth bass can be found in various locations around the island in Lake Michigan waters.

"Things we liked about the island most were its quiet, laid-back lifestyle, its safety for children, and the people's friendliness," Fullerton says.

Here's a place where few people fear leaving their keys in their parked vehicles. Car theft is a joke. "Even if someone takes a car, where are they going to take it?" Fullerton asks.

Fullerton, a pilot, says the island is an easy place to reach by light planes from either the lower or upper peninsulas. And, indeed, much of the island's business and residential activity is dependent on air travel.

In the evening we ate at the Shamrock Bar and Restaurant and had a delicious seafood dinner. A large, plain place, it had only a few customers when we arrived, but by the time we left it was jammed with people, who spilled out onto a deck patio where ribs were sizzling on a charcoal grill, and the place was jumping with music and friendly, noisy conversation. As we left for an evening stroll in town, we noted that all the parking spaces were gone; everyone on the island, it seemed, had come to town for the fun and food.

By morning the visitors from the island's crannies were gone and we were again alone in the reverie of it all.

Frankfort, Michigan—

Power and sailplane pilots sometimes describe soaring as "running on empty." Phrases such as "on silent wings" and "like the eagles" are reality for those who have discovered the joys of actually riding the air currents, gaining altitude in a thermal or riding the updrafts along a ridge line, powered only by the natural resources of sun, terrain and air currents. The sport of soaring with sailplanes, gliders and even hang gliders is made possible by these natural resources which are available in such great abundance everywhere the sun shines or the wind blows.

Along the Lake Michigan shoreline, near Frankfort-Elberta, the sun shines, the wind blows, and the natural beauty of Lake Michigan, Crystal Lake and other inland lakes, the magnificent sand dunes, the distant vista of Sleeping Bear Dune and the Manitou Islands all combine to add to the joys of soaring. Multiple images of beauty impinge at every glance.

Prior to World War II, the Frankfort-Elberta area, in northwestern Michigan, was the unofficial soaring capital of the United States. During the years 1938-39, it hosted two American Open Soaring meets, had one of only three sailplane factories in the country and was home to a number of the greatest glider pilots in the world. The war, however, caused the temporary abandonment of motorless flight.

'ON SILENT WINGS'— A glider skims the surface of the Frankfort airport after a soaring trip over the dunes. The two-seater is used to introduce beginners to the art of powerless flight. (Joyce Kittleson photo.)

And although the area has not recaptured the national stature of those glory years, the Northwest Soaring Club of Frankfort is very active and invites persons to visit and watch their soaring activities at the local airport located one mile east of Frankfort.

May through October, the club offers introductory rides for a nominal fee. Information on how to become a soaring pilot and instructions are available from a certified instructor.

Soaring is a social sport. It takes a tow-plane pilot, or winch operator, a glider pilot, an instructor for beginners, plus a couple of guys to manhandle the sailplanes into position and guide the wingtips when the tow starts.

Sunglasses are approved uniform and a long-billed cap helps. Everyone squints at the sky, studying clouds and feeling the wind, trying to estimate the elusive lift.

When your turn comes to take a glider ride you help the pilot and others manhandle the glider into position at the end of the runway. The glider pilot climbs in the back seat and you get into the front and cinch up the seat belt. Your position is semi-reclining in the Schweizer trainer sailplane and the instrument panel in front of you seems to lack a lot of instruments.

And, there's no engine or propeller out in front, which takes a little getting used to.

Someone hooks the tow rope to the nose and you shut the canopy. The towplane ahead eases into motion, the rope tightens and the glider starts bumping along on its single wheel. An assistant birdman runs at the wingtip, holding it level for a bit. Speed picks up and the glider flies quickly. The tow plane flies and starts a long flat climb out toward the lake.

Slowly you climb to more than 2,000 feet over the dunes. Then you release the tow rope by grabbing the bright red knob in front of you and pull. There's a terrific bang and the rope snakes away from you.

The tow plane heads back to the airport. Turning down the beach, the sailplane requires a lot more control movement than a power plane with its much faster slipstream over the control surfaces.

You listen to the silence, made more audible by the whisper of wind over the canopy. Below, swimmers and boaters could not but envy the occupants of the sailplane, drifting effortlessly above them.

You circle back toward the airport, practicing turns and speed control. The sailplane comes down rapidly, flares over the grass alongside the paved runway, and touches to earth with a rattle and rumble. When the roll stops the ship poses momentarily on its single wheel, then topples easily onto a wingtip. The silence is sudden and eerie. Euphoria is yours . . . for $30 per flight.

Every weekend in the fall, the Frankfort airport is busy with soaring activity, much to the liking of the town's "oldtimers" who can remember when the area was home to the sport's pioneer greats. Sometimes, as many as ten gliders fill the skies at one time.

Frankfort is located on M-115, 150 miles northwest of Lansing. It also is home to the Frankfort/Elberta National Soaring Hall of Fame and Museum, with some of the earliest and most complete memorabilia of the sport. Call 616-352-7251 for Frankfort tourism information.

CLOSE ENCOUNTERS— The walk-through kangaroo enclosure provides an opportunity for first-hand contact with the Fort Wayne Children's Zoo's great grey kangaroos.

Great Australian Outback is as close as Fort Wayne

Fort Wayne, Indiana—

Take a walk on the wild side at the Fort Wayne Children's Zoo. And don't let the name fool you—no matter what your age, you'll be enchanted by the hundreds of exotic and domestic animals.

Go on a safari at the African Veldt, or journey to the outback at the Australian Adventure, the most complete exhibit outside Australia. There you'll be greeted by dingoes, wallabies, kangaroos, and even a Tasmanian devil.

The zoo is the 11th in the country accredited by the American Association of Zoological Parks and Aquariums and has won several national awards for zoo design and programs. Visitation now tops 500,000 a year.

A piece of the grasslands of Africa is recreated in northeast Indiana at the zoo's African Veldt, a savanna environment of shade and long grass. Zebra, cheetahs, giraffes, gazelles, wildebeest and a great variety of birds can be seen close up from an electric car during a miniature safari.

The zoo's white stork breeding program has won national recognition. More white storks have been raised in Fort Wayne than in all other American zoos combined. Storks nest on rooftops in Europe during spring and summer then spend their winters in Africa.

As visitors pass beneath the Australian Adventure arch, they are transported to the continent Down Under. Building architecture—red tile, corrugated steel roofs, white stucco—is designed to resemble typical sites in Australia.

The walk-through kangaroo enclosure provides an opportunity for first-hand contact with great grey kangaroos. Close association with other Australian birds and mammals, including wallabies, wombats and tree kangaroos, is assured as you venture through the Walkabout exhibit, where birds fly just overhead in flocks numbering one hundred.

Many beautiful and unusual aquatic species can be seen here—gorgeous yet poisonous lionfish, gaudy yellow and blue tangs, and sinister white-tip reef sharks. The sharks are well fed by the zoo aquarists to keep them from the temptation of attacking other exhibit species.

The Adventure River Ride circles the billabongs. Black swans and other Aussie animals can be seen from a different perspective from log boats as speakers narrate along the way.

The zoo's contact area offers youngsters a chance to pet and feed a variety of farm animals and deer. Pony rides provide an opportunity for children to share the experience with mom or dad.

Special events include the Great Zoo Halloween set for evenings beginning Oct. 21. Parents and children enjoy the variety of pumpkins, animals, costumed humans and decorations.

Getting into the holiday spirit is easy during Christmas at the Zoo. Each season the zoo is decorated with tens of thousands of colorful lights. Santa is available for the youngsters and their favorite cartoon characters are on hand.

Admission to the Fort Wayne Children's Zoo is $3.50 adults; $2 children age 2-14; infants free. Hours are 9 a.m.-5 p.m. daily; 9 a.m.-6 p.m. Sundays and holidays. The zoo is open through mid-October and for special events.

The zoo is located in Fort Wayne's Franke Park and is easily accessible from Interstate 69 via Exit 111-A or 109-A. Call 219-482-4610 for more information.

Escape to Hoosier dunes

Michigan City, Indiana—

Pack up a beach towel and umbrella, a pail and shovel, some cold beverages, and a bathing suit and head for the sandy beaches of LaPorte County, Indiana! Among the vast sand dunes of the National Lakeshore lies Mt. Baldy, providing a great escape for late summer fun in the sand and water.

The adventurous beach-comber will want to tackle the highest living dune on the southern shore of Lake Michigan, which, at 123 feet tall, towers over sun bathers on the beach below. Mt. Baldy is called the "living dune" because it actually moves southward an average of 4 feet per year, burying woodlands in its path.

The dune's bare plateau is a perfect spot to view the lakeshore and the surrounding area as waves meet the sand and woods around Mt. Baldy. It is also the pinnacle point from which to enjoy a beautiful sunset against a magnificent backdrop.

Hiking trails, beaches, and concessions are available for those who would rather relax in the sun than scale to the top of the mountain of sand. Mt. Baldy is a part of the National Lakeshore and is located on US Highway 12, in Michigan City.

For more information on Mt. Baldy or other summer recreation in LaPorte County, call 1-800-634-2650.

From Bloomfield to Goshen, via B&B

Iris Jones

Goshen, Indiana—

When I opened my eyes, I saw three straw Amish hats on the wall above my bed, the sun coming through the wooden window blinds and a small coffee pot ready to brew on a table across the room. One cup and I was ready to start a new life: lots of exercise and no food.

I ate dinner here at the Checkerberry Inn last night and I may never eat again.

According to the list of inn services, there is a walking trail that begins between the barn and the garage of the yellow farm house across the street. The house is the private home of innkeepers John and Susan Graff.

I followed the sun down the long driveway to County Road 37 and followed the souvenir "road apples" left by horses as they pulled their black Amish buggies past the farms and villages of Elkhart County. North to Middlebury and Shipshewana. West to Goshen, Nappanee and Wakarusa.

A small ball of fur hurtled against my legs as I entered the path cut by a Graff tractor between the corn field and the soybean field, both in their midsummer glory. It was a farm puppy who was very, very, very happy to see me or any other passerby.

John and Susan Graff grew up in Goshen. Susan spent some of her high school years at Cranbrook Academy in Bloomfield Hills, Michigan. They went off to Purdue University, got married and were deeply immersed in the manufacture of pontoon boats when they got into the lodging business.

"We had sailed all over the Caribbean and were on vacation in the island of Anguilla when we decided to build a house there," John said. "We built a resort called Skiffles Villas 15 minutes drive from the house and found out we really like the hospitality industry."

The Graffs came back to the Midwest in 1985, trying to decide what was next on their agenda. "We bid on a potential inn in Leland, Michigan, and lost that bid by two hours," John said. "So we came back to Goshen and decided to build an inn right here."

They won awards for the restoration of the 1880's farmhouse that came as a gift from Susan's father, and built the new Checkerberry Inn on a grassy knoll across the road in the same mood: large light rooms filled with pale woods and a touch of country.

I followed the path that they cut from the yellow farmhouse to the end of the fields and into the woods. Nobody can get lost in a patch of woods amid Indiana farm fields, I said, and ate my words an hour later as I thrashed out of the wood into the corn.

The corn was as high as an elephant's eye, so I couldn't see over it, but I followed the rows blindly and eventually saw the path again.

The best view of the Checkerberry Inn is from that path, seen past a fringe of Queen Anne's Lace, foxtails and cornsilks. It is a large three story inn of cream-colored siding: a main building, seven windows across, contains the dining room and most bedrooms; a smaller second building holds a large library and additional rooms.

The first thing that greets a guest as he opens the front door is an Amish straw hat on the stair rail, just one of the artistic touches that Susan Graff has made in the interior decorations of the Inn.

As I huffed back across County Road 37 and climbed the long driveway back to the Inn, I noticed that none of the guests were around. There was nobody playing croquet or putting a golf ball on the flat patch of green beside the door, or sitting in the white wicker chairs on the pillared veranda. The tennis courts were empty.

Nobody was on the terrace or in the swimming pool. It was easy to see where they were. They were in the dining room, having the breakfast that comes with the price of your room.

The dining room attracts a lot of people from Fort Wayne, South Bend, Toledo and other nearby cities, although the local folk of Goshen shake their heads at the prices. Dinner costs $25 to $30 for a set meal that includes entree, salad and dessert. Add wine, appetizers, tax, tip.

I kept my morning's resolution, by exercising my way through the fields, the woods and the cornfield. Maybe I'll just have a little of that continental buffet: cereal, hard boiled eggs, fruit, bagels with strawberry butter. Well maybe just a little fruit...

IF YOU GO: The Graffs still run Skiffles Villas in Anguilla during the winter season, but the Checkerberry Inn is open under the supervision of assistant innkeepers Jane Erickson and Mark Frederick year-round except for the month of January.

Room rates for two people, including breakfast, are $96 Sunday through Thursday, $120 Friday and Saturday. Add $50-$150 for suites. Room 11, a nice air room with no sitting area, can be had for about $15 off the regular room rates. Package rates usually available February and March.

Exhibit brings space travel down to earth

Bloomfield Hills, Michigan—

The year-long DESTINATION: SPACE project, conceived and constructed by the Cranbrook Institute of Science, is a walk-through hands-on display occupying 3200 square feet of the science museum. DESTINATION: SPACE has several computerized stations and includes a space training academy and space exploration vehicle.

"For most adults and children, space is still a fantasy. We designed DESTINATION: SPACE to help make space more real," said Dr. Robert West, director of Cranbrook Institute of Science.

According to Larry Hutchinson, curator of exhibits at the Institute, DESTINATION: SPACE will cast visitors into the role of would-be space travellers who (like real-life astronauts) first study the challenges and capabilities of human survival in outer space and later embark on a space mission."

The first stop in the DESTINATION: SPACE exhibit is Spaceflight Academy where visitors learn the principles of space physics, engineering and life support. How do space vehicles travel in space without air pressure? What are the sources of energy in space? How do astronauts maintain a food supply in space? Spaceflight Academy will demonstrate the uniquely different environment of outer space and how earthlings must adapt to it in order to survive.

To evaluate their progress during Spaceflight Academy training, astronaut trainees will be given a Passport to Space that will activate Training Test Station activities located near each section. Graduates may then board the DESTINATION: SPACE space ship, Explorer, to begin their mission in space.

Conceptually, the Explorer is located in deep outer space. It contains four interactive and challenging 'space'

In the Exploration Module, newly graduated 'astronauts' explore unknown worlds via computer, analyze probe data to identify space objects and learn about space station operational systems. The Crew Module, equipped with a zero-gravity bed, toilet, board games and other activities specially designed for weightless outer space, offers a close-up look at the personal aspects of space travel. At the control center of Explorer in the Flight Control Module, visitors take an imaginary trip through the solar system while viewing a panoramic view screen of planets, moons and other remote places in space. Travellers venturing into the Outside: Deep Space module will try their hands at experiments that show the complexities of working and maneuvering in the frictionless environment of outer space.

Sharon Newman, teacher in space and recipient of the Christa McAuliffe Fellowship, believes that the DESTINATION: SPACE interactive experience may mean a world of difference to children when making career choices in the future. "(DESTINATION: SPACE) is going to be the hook to get their interest in space," she said. "I wanted to fly ever since I was seven years old and I saw Minnie Mouse on TV become an airline stewardess. This experience will plant a seed in many of the parents and children who come to Cranbrook this summer -- and you never know which one of the seeds is going to grow."

Newman added that it is important for aspiring astronauts to develop a background in math, science and high technology, but emphasizes that "anyone with a speciality could have been the payload specialist aboard the U.S. space shuttle Columbia, there's a real diversity among the astronauts that are on board, they could have been Cranbrook kids."

Video game enthusiasts will enjoy the museum's new interactive video exhibit, Beyond Earth, A Space Adventure. This video adventure takes visitors on a tour of famous constellations, mysterious planets and on a journey through time to examine methods of sky watching used by civilizations from ancient to modern times. Indian sky watchers, the mission to the Moon and the fantastic mission of the Hubble telescope are presented.

And all summer long, visitors can enjoy the Institute's new Laser Universe show and other Lasera and planetarium programs featured during afternoon and evening hours, Monday-Saturday and Sunday afternoons.

Hours for DESTINATION: SPACE are Monday-Thursday, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.; Friday and Saturday, 10 a.m. to 11 p.m. and Sunday, 1-5 p.m. Admission is $4 for adults, $3 for senior citizens (65+) and children (3-17). Children under 3 are admitted free of charge. There is an added charge for Lasera and planetarium shows. For more information, call 313-645-3200. Succulent melons cause for celebration

Howell, Michigan—

It was almost 50 years ago that August Schmitt was having lunch in a Howell restaurant, where he tasted a melon of exceptional quality that had grown on an Ohio farm. Sensing a new market for Howell farmers, Schmitt, with the aid of farmers Howard Dankers and Stanley Knight, began work on crossbreeding plants to create a melon whose taste would be beyond compare.

In fact, the taste developed was so unique, it was actually granted a patent from the State of Michigan. After many years of crossbreeding, the plants began to develop a disease which threatened the very existence of the crop. However, a hybrid plant was soon developed and the succulent flavor of the Howell melon was here to stay.

In 1959, Stanley Knight presented a basket of melons as a gift to the City of Howell. The citizens were so impressed with the flavor that work began on an event to honor this tasty fruit. In 1960, the first Howell Melon Festival was held and it combined the efforts of many people working on a variety of projects, ranging from a barbecue to the selection of a queen to reign over the festivities.

That first celebration drew over 10,000 people, virtually doubling the population of Howell. Today's festival has grown into one of mid-Michigan's biggest attractions, drawing more than 60,000 people. Even though the city and celebration have grown in size since the days of that first celebration, Howell has maintained its small town hospitality and atmosphere.

One of the highlights of this year's festival, set for Aug. 23-25, is sure to be the giant parade. More than 60,000 spectators are expected to line Grand River Avenue at noon on Saturday, Aug. 24 to view 100 units of Shriners, bands, horse clubs, antique cars, floats and more. The parade lasts more than 90 minutes.

The Melon Tent is the focal point of the festival. Located on Walnut Street, it's the place for information, food and fun for the entire family. Barbecued chicken, hot dogs, fresh melons, and beverages will be served up Saturday and Sunday, along with entertainment and music for all ages.

An arts and crafts show and sale on North Barnard Street is one of the most popular festival attractions. Everything from oil paintings and stained glass to jewelry and pottery will be on display, all handcrafted. With more than 250 exhibitors from all over the country, it will be one of the largest shows in the state. Many exhibitors have called it one of the state's finest and save their best works for the Howell show. The wacky Landlubber Salty Dog People Powered Contraption Race is set for Sunday, Aug. 25. It starts on land, continues across Thompson Lake, and then finishes back on land. There are a number of rules which govern the race, the two most notable being that the crafts must be hand-built and must be people powered. Prizes are awarded based on originality and performance.

The Melon Festival is planned and coordinated by the Howell Jaycees and is the chapter's major source of funds for the year. Most of the activities are run by the Jaycees, but other community and civic organizations are invited to participate as well.

Call 517-546-7477 or 517-546-8672 for more information. Howell is located along Interstate 96, about halfway between Detroit and Lansing.

Northport, Michigan—

Residents of surrounding Great Lakes states and beyond now have the opportunity to experience an exciting new tall ship sailing adventure not previously available on the Great Lakes. The Traverse Tall Ship Co. has added the two-masted gaff rigged topsail schooner Manitou to its operations based in northern Lake Michigan.

The Manitou will offer classic six-day windjammer cruises with optional hiking exploration on the beautiful and remote islands which abound in the area. The sailing adventure is complete with an island hiking guide, sailboards, kayaks and delightful home cooked meals to satisfy hearty sea-going appetites. Both this new acquisition and the company's 105 foot Tall Ship Malabar (Michigan's only "Floating Bed And Breakfast") are two of the largest sailing vessels on the Great Lakes.

Legendary Mackinac Island, Beaver Island, Harbor Springs, the Manitou Islands (designated wilderness areas within the Sleeping Bear Dunes National Lakeshore) and a host of other remote anchorages and coastal villages are among the spectacular destinations to be visited in the northern parts of Lakes Michigan and Huron.

The charming coastal village of Northport, located in beautiful Leelanau County, will be the new home port for the ship.

The Tall Ship Malabar which sails out of Traverse City, offers a popular one-night "Floating Bed And Breakfast" and two-hour daily afternoon and evening sunset sailing adventures. Reservations and information for either vessel are available from the Traverse Tall Ship Co., 13390 W. Bay Shore Dr., Traverse City, MI 49684 (616) 941-2000.

Denny McClain opens lecture series

Adrian, Michigan—

The Croswell Opera House announces the 1991-92 Town Hall Lecture Series. Each year this series brings an array of dynamic and informative speakers who are outstanding in their profession to speak on subjects of interest to the community. This season the Croswell's Town Hall Committee has chosen lectures that promise to be diverse and interesting.

The series opens Wednesday, Oct. 2, when one of Detroit's most famous talk show hosts, Denny McClain, comes to the Croswell. McClain is also a former Detroit Tiger pitcher, winner of the 1968 Cy Young Award, ex-convict and occasional nightclub organist. McClain is a big, bold man who has built a quick loyal following through his innate honesty.

Next, the Croswell will feature Joe Clark, a lecturer, writer, educational consultant and former principal of Patterson, New Jersey's Eastside High School. The school, located in a poor, mainly black and Hispanic section of town was overrun with drug dealers and thugs. To correct the problems created by these high schoolers, Clark used his theory that "discipline is the ultimate tenet of education Clark will share his beliefs, strategies and success stories with the Croswell on Nov. 5.

The new year will bring Heloise, the most famous name in household advice, to the podium. "Hints from Heloise," the internationally famous column printed in Good Housekeeping, is her most widely known communicator of helpful household hints. Heloise also appears frequently on network and local talk shows. People has described her as "The world's best known housekeeper." Heloise will be speaking at the Croswell on March 25, 1992.

The series will end April 29, 1992 with Ronna Romney speaking about women in politics. Romney is a writer, lecturer, politician, wife and mother of five who enjoys being involved in the political world. She was first introduced to politics when her father-in-law George Romney (former governor, presidential candidate and cabinet member) ran for the presidency in 1968. She has chaired and co-chaired many political campaigns such as the Nixon campaign in Utah and the 1982 Gubernatorial Race in Michigan.

Ticket subscriptions for the entire lecture series are $30. Individual lectures are $10 per person. All seats must be reserved. Each lecture begins at 10:30 a.m. and is followed by a luncheon held at the Lenawee Country Club.

Reservations for the lectures or luncheons can be made by calling the Croswell at 517-263-5674. Tickets may be picked up at the Croswell Business Office Monday through Friday 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Adrian is located in southeast Michigan along US-223 and M-52, about 50 miles from Metro Detroit and 25 miles from Toledo.

For those who demand the beauty of unspoiled country living, the convenience of city life, and the best in a custom designed home. Phase II under construction.

HOROSCOPE

August 18 through August 24

By C.C. Clark

LEO (July 23 - Aug. 22)

Another person's idea could help you make a major decision. Your tendency toward stubbornness could cause big problems with co-workers.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 - Sept. 22)

Outsiders looking in may not understand your motives where a certain project is concerned. Explain yourself carefully and all should work out.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 - Oct. 22)

Your love life may be scrutinized by family members. It is not their business, and you need to make sure they know it.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 - Nov. 21)

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 - Dec. 21)

It's time to take matters into your own hands at work and on the domestic front. You've been pushing too many responsibilities off on others.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 - Jan. 19)

A wonderful opportunity will present itself to you this week. Keep an open mind when working with others. Find your creative powers.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 - Feb. 18)

Realize that criticizing others will get you nowhere. Concentrate on what you are doing and don't worry so much about other people.

PISCES (Feb. 19 - March 20)

STAR NOTES

Keenen Ivory Wayans' talents are enviable

By Amy Schmidt

Whether or not you appreciate his irreverent brand of comedy, you've got to admire Keenen Ivory Wayans.

For the past two years, and soon to be three, Wayans has been pushing the envelope out on Fox's In Living Color. "In Living Color makes people laugh from a whole new perspective," says Wayans. "The comedic energy is fresh, progressive and street-smart and really presses the limits in terms of what's traditionally seen on television."

As executive producer, writer and a cast member, Wayans' talents have made him a creative force to be reckoned with in the burgeoning arena of black filmmakers. He first caught the public's eye in 1987 in the comedy, Hollywood Shuffle, which he co-wrote with comedian Robert Townsend and in which he starred. He subsequently co-produced and co-wrote Eddie Murphy's Raw, the most profitable concert film ever made.

Wayans made his own directorial debut with 1989's I'm Gonna Git You Sucka. Again, he served as writer and star. Produced on a shoestring, I'm Gonna Git You Sucka grossed over $19 million, astounding movie industry analysts who insisted there was no market for a black-casted parody film.

Not bad for a kid, the second of ten, who grew up in the Fulton housing projects in Manhattan, N.Y.

FAMILY FARE

Networks lure kids with new lineups

By Susan Truscott

Parents beware. There's a new fall season of kiddie fare coming your way, and here's a rundown of what your children might be watching while you sleep in:

New entries include ABC's Land of the Lost, Darkwing Duck, Hammerman, with rapper M.C. Hammer as host, and The Pirates of Dark Water. All premiere on Sept. 7, amid such returning favorites as The New Adventures of Winnie the Pooh and Slimer & the Real Ghostbusters.

CBS hopes the kids want to go Back to the Future with an animated Michael J. Fox. Also new to the lineup, which debuts Sept. 14, are Where's Waldo?, Riders in the Sky and Mother Goose and Grimm, adopted from the popular comic strip. And returning for a second season and more pizza are The Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles.

NBC presents its new Saturday fare on Sept. 14, as well. The popular Saved by the Bell is back, but in an hour-long format.

George C. Scott shines in 'Finding the Way Home'

Actor suffers heart trouble on the set

By Amy Schmidt

There's nothing missing from ABC's splendid new telefilm "Finding the Way Home," debuting Monday, Aug. 26. And next year's Emmy nominations won't be missing anything either. This one's a winner. No one gets kidnapped in "Finding the Way Home," no one gets killed, and no one even gets switched at birth. Still, the good-hearted, visually stunning film makes this year's big Emmy vote-getter, "The Josephine Baker Story," look like a yawn.

"Finding the Way Home" also features one of Hollywood's acting legends—George C. Scott, who lives up to his reputation here. Providing sensitive back-up support to Scott are Hector Elizondo ("Pretty Woman"), a deservedly rising talent, and Julie Carmen ("The Milagro Beanfield War").

Scott plays Max Mittelman, a meticulous, elderly hardware-store owner who has taken it on the chin. His old-fashioned, home-style business has been wrecked by chain-store competition. The savings and loan in which he's invested his life savings has gone bust. His building isn't up to code and the city's threatening to close him down.

In short, Max needs to modernize, move more merchandise and get a better attitude, or so his wife (Beverly Garland) says. Instead, Max wrecks his car, suffers amnesia and wanders into a migrant workers' camp, where Elizondo and Carmen take him in.

On the set of "Finding the Way Home," which was filmed last December in Denton, Texas, even to the casual observer it is evident Scott is a bear of a man, a giant professionally among those around him.

Remember, this was the gruff actor who branded the Academy Awards a "meat parade," rejecting an Oscar for his performance in 1970's "Patton." One month later he refused an Emmy for "The Price." In "A Christmas Carol," he played Scrooge. In "Beauty and the Beast," he was the beast. Reportedly, Scott at one time threatened to tear a photographer's camera off of his neck if he took one more picture.

But when given a moment alone with Scott, his normally gravel-laden voice softened. He sat talking in a porch swing in the dark, away from the lights of the set. He evinced a sense of humor, albeit a dry one.

"I like this (film) because it was human, it was warm, it didn't have a lot of violence, a lot of aggressive sex in it. It was a gentle script about nice people trying to get along in life," said Scott.

Was he sure he didn't want to do a love scene? (A long-ago tempestuous affair with Ava Gardner had recently captured media attention.) "I'm a little old for that," he said good-naturedly.

He talked a little about his favorite roles, pastimes (bridge, tennis, swimming) and about his health. Scott suffered artery blockage while making "Finding the Way Home." He was hospitalized, underwent a procedure called angioplasty and finished the film.

Did he have any new Year's resolutions? He laughed. "I never make

New Year's resolutions. I'm just lucky to make it to the New Year!"

To say, "So are we, George," would be a vast understatement. Be that as it may, don't expect the spellbinding actor to gratify the star-struck by showing up at the Emmys.

Respected actor George C. Scott stars as a troubled small-town businessman whose temporary amnesia leads him to unexpected relationships with a group of Latino migrant workers and a rejuvenated enthusiasm for life in "Finding the Way Home," premiering Monday on ABC.

TIME OUT

Volleyball teams vie for record purse

By Steve Paschal

A sport that started as a casual Southern California pastime makes another appearance on network television Saturday, Aug. 24, when NBC presents live coverage of the U.S. Beach Volleyball Championships.

Chris Marlowe, who began his sportscasting career with Southern California's pioneer Prime Ticket Cable Network and has become known as "the voice of beach volleyball," will be at Hermosa Beach, Calif., along with Paul Sunderland when many of the top names in the game go after a record purse and a place in the World Championships next month.

This year's competitors include two-time Olympic gold medalists Karch Kiraly and Steve Timmons; Sinjin Smith, the winningest player in the history of the sport, and Randy Stoklos, voted the Miller Lite Most Valuable Player in 1988 and 1989.

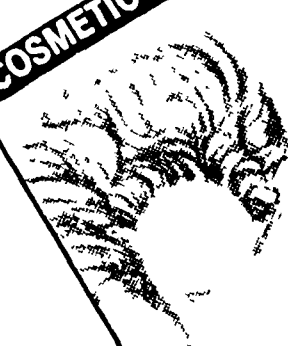

Pro Beach Volleyball was almost unknown in 1976, when the winners of the first World Championships walked away with a mere $5,000. But through cable-television exposure and the relentless work of the Association of Volleyball Professionals, the sport has steadily increased in popularity.

James Brown: new album, tour and video feel good

James Brown has enhanced his new album and U.S. tour with a video single — his first in over three years. "So Tired of Standing Still, We've Got To Move On," was shot in Brown's hometown of Augusta, Ga., and features many sites from Brown's past, including the grammar school where he first daydreamed of a show-business career.

The Godfather of Soul's "Love Over-Due" tour kicked off July 20 in Atlanta and features an impressive list of guest acts: Aretha Franklin, Little Richard and Al Green, among others.

Wings starlet Crystal Bernard and Annabeth Gish (Mystic Pizza) will play crime-solving partners in a new World War II-set drama slated for telecast on NBC during the 1991-1992 season. Titled Dol Bonner and filmed in Los Angeles, the movie is based on the novel Hand in the Glove by Nero Wolf creator Rex Stout.

ABC's In Concert '91, which premiered June 7, has been renewed through the end of the year. Upcoming acts will include Alice in Chains, David Coverdale, Bad English, Fishbone, Don Henley, Susanna Hoffs, Chris Isaak, Depeche Mode, Morrissey and Yes.

Marcy Walker gets whisked into prime time

By Candace Havens

Dear Candace: I usually watch Another World, Santa Barbara and Days. I'm a big fan. I would like to say in response to the ex-Days fan in Texas, that Days has changed for the better. When I saw Carly come to Bo and they kissed, I cried!

I'd also like to know what Marcy Walker's plans are now that she has come back to Santa Barbara as another character. —Concerned fan in Nashville, Tenn.

Dear Reader: Walker plans to leave the show again sometime this fall, as her prime-time career is beginning to take off. In fact, on her last day of Santa Barbara, she is whisked off in a limousine by Stephen J. Cannell, her new producer for her upcoming prime-time show, Palace Guard.

Dear Candace: We are glad Days of Our Lives has Jennifer and Carly spending more time together. After all, they are best friends. We'd like to see them spend even more time together. We're also glad Carly found out about Victor switching the letters. Thanks. —Kelly and Nicole, Canton, Mich.

Dear Kelly and Nicole: Real friendships on soaps are a rare thing. Often people only come together when there is a major crisis. It would be interesting to see the writers develop friendships between women and between men.

Dear Candace: I've always watched One Life to Live, and my favorite star plays Megan Gordon. She married Jake Harrison on the show and I really like him, too. He's so cute! I read in a soap magazine that he is going to leave the show. Do you know if he really is leaving? I want to see him and Megan have a couple of kids. Thanks. —A fan in New York.

Dear Reader: I don't like being the bearer of bad news, but Joe Lando (Jake) is definitely leaving One Life to Live. His role was only meant to be temporary. You never know, however. It is always possible he could return at a later date.

I want to hear from you! If you have a favorite soap scenario you would like to sound off about, or a question about the soaps, write to Candace Havens, Soap Talk, P.O. Box 961009, Fort Worth, Texas, 76161-1009.
