Porta-John delivered 30 portable toilets to Northville Downs racetrack last Friday in anticipation of a strong turnout for Cajunfest '91.

The toilets feature large, yellow smiling faces and lined the fringes of the Downs' infield.

Like most of the businesses providing services for Cajunfest, Porta-John accepted an out-of-state check.

And now the portable toilets may be the only thing smiling, a few days after Louisiana-based Cajunfest Productions rolled through Northville.

Cajunfest promoter Cy Holley wrote checks totaling thousands of dollars to area businesses on a Covington, Louisiana, bank account. But bank officials and others say the checks are not worth the paper they are printed on.

"(Holley) has written checks against funds he does not have in this bank," David Lindsey, manager of the Covington branch of Whitney National Bank, said Tuesday. "In the past, he has wired money to cover checks. . . but I've seen no such wire (recently)."

Holley could not be contacted for comment Tuesday. A recorded message at his home and office in Covington, Louisiana, said he and his charges were "producing our Cajunfest '91 August Tour."

Lindsey said he has attempted to reach Holley and Cajunfest Productions "on a daily basis" to inform him of overdrafts and insufficient fund problems. Such attempts are fruitless, he said.

Northville Downs management knows the feeling. Employees there said Holley and his band of musicians, cooks and laborers skipped town without paying a $3,000 rental bill. The group also ignored a $2,000 cleaning deposit bill, said Northville Downs' Margaret Zaytl.

Zaytl said Holley gave her a check Aug. 14 to cover rental expenses. The check was not certified, and Downs management tracked the check to Holley's Louisiana bank.

The bank informed Northville Downs representatives that Holley's account could not cover the check. Northville Downs then demanded Holley pay cash for the rental.

A Record reporter on Friday asked Holley about reports that he had written the Downs check on an insufficient funds account. Holley called the problem a "mix-up" and said he was "paying cash for the grounds" that evening, under an agreement reached with Downs management.

He never got around to it, Zaytl said.

"There was supposed to be a cash payment Saturday morning," Zaytl said. "We went back Saturday night and Sunday night (in search of money) and he said he'd pay us Monday morning."

"He said we didn't have to worry because the stuff (Cajunfest equipment) was going to be here."

But Holley and his crew left Northville early Monday with its equipment in tow. Rented materials such as the Porta-Johns, tents, tables and trash bins were left behind.

"It's amazing what this man did," Zaytl said.

The list of those holding Cajunfest Productions' checks is long. Representatives of businesses that provided Cajunfest services on Tuesday said they had accepted Holley's out-of-state checks.

"We're probably one of the victims," said Beverly Weingarten, events coordinator for Shelby Township-based Porta John.

Weingarten said her company accepted a check for $1,495.50 from Cajunfest Productions when the Township wants fewer walkaways

By MIKE TYREE
Staff Writer

Township officials are taking a wait-and-see attitude toward a state hospital director's pledge to reduce Northville Regional Psychiatric Hospital walkaways.

An Aug. 19 meeting between township officials and NRH Director Walter Brown was cordial and cooperative, Supervisor Georgina Goss said Monday.

But she said it was too soon to tell if the state will address township concerns over hospital walkaways.

"Dr. Brown is going to provide us with documentation on staffing levels," Goss said. "And he maintains there is no change in patient personalities."

"By the end of next week, we'll have a pretty good idea of the number of walkaways this week," she said. "We'll use this week as a barometer (for future actions)."

Goss last week hinted that the township might pursue legal means to address the number of walkaways from the 41001 Seven Mile Road psychiatric facility.

Police Chief Chip Snider said Brown acknowledged that walkaways do occur. The director also understood the township board's concerns for resident safety, Snider said.

The first step to real cooperation is to cut walkaway numbers, he said.

"We're looking to cut the average number of walkaways in half," police Chief Chip Snider said Tuesday. "We walked out with one mutual agreement, to cut that figure in half."

Other topics on the agenda included patient population levels, staffing levels, impact of patients transferred from Ypsilanti Regional Hospital, and classification of the types of patients transferred from Ypsilanti, Snider said.

Hospital and township officials agreed to further discussions in September.

"It's an issue that's got to be resolved," Snider said.

Brown was unavailable for comment Wednesday.

Police millage up to taxpayers

● Township Police Chief Chip Snider discusses the millage proposal and his department. See story below.

By MIKE TYREE
Staff Writer

Northville Township voters face a taxing question Aug. 27: Should they dip into their pockets to support a police millage renewal?

The renewal request stands at 1.3921 mills and represents a tax of $1.3921 per thousand dollars of assessed property value. The three-year tax is slated to run through 1993 and would generate approximately $624,000 annually for the police department.

That figure represents about 40 percent of the police department's current $1.5-million budget.

Voters originally approved a 1.5-mill request for police operations in 1976, renewed the same rate in 1981, and okayed an additional .7-mill the same year.

The two millages were renewed in 1986, and Headlee rollbacks have since cut the maximum allowable tax

Snider discusses millage renewal

Record Staff Writer Mike Tyree recently interviewed Township Police Chief Chip Snider on the department and the proposed millage. Following is a transcript.

RECORD: You've been police chief for about a year now. Please share some of your impressions of the community and the township police department.

SNIDER: My first impression is that the community's been supportive of the police department; it seems to be happy with the level of service that has been provided prior to my arrival and hopefully after my arrival.

I think that some progress has been made the last few years with the police department to be in synch with the community — the educational level of the police officer, their pay, their benefits are commensurate with the community that they serve.

Our statistics show that we're producing court revenues; our involvement with the community in neighborhood watch and other community events shows that we're in tune with them. I'm pleased with our progress levy to .9491 and .4430 respectively. A decision to combine the taxes places the current ballot rate request at 1.3921.

Township voters decide police millage renewal

A third police millage, approved at 2 mills in 1988, currently stands at 1.4849 mills, after Headlee rollbacks. That millage generates just over $666,000 for the police department, which operates outside the township general fund budget.

Other incidental revenues such as fees, licenses, and penal fines round out the department's $1.5-million budget.

Police funding accounts for fully 65 percent of the township portion of individual property tax bills. The police department in turn receives 85 percent of its funding from property taxes.

Township officials thus far are mum on potential fallout of a millage defeat.

Police Chief Chip Snider said capital gains, equipment, and a planned October officer hiring will suffer if voters reject the millage. Snider indicated that current personnel in the 19-member department will not feel initial effects of a millage defeat.

Township Manager Richard Henningsen refused to speculate on potential cutbacks, although he did acknowledge that a defeat would send tremors through all aspects of township government.

A millage defeat Aug. 27 would create only one certainty, Henningsen said.

"We'd have to run another election," he said. "Probably a November election."

The police millage ballot question has not sparked vocal opposition, unlike recent millage proposals. A township library millage was quashed last year, and city voters rejected a recreation millage in 1989.

A township fire department millage was defeated last August, but voters later approved the measure when the township board clarified ballot language and set the renewal at a .33 Headlee rollback rate.

In addition to the police millage question, township voters will notice two names on the general election ballot. Township Supervisor Georgina Goss is running unopposed for the 36th District state representative's post after winning a three-person showdown in the Aug. 6 Republican primary.

Incumbent Maurice Breen is running unopposed for his first full term on the Wayne County Board of Commissioners.

Polls open at 7 a.m. Aug. 27 and close at 8 p.m. at regular polling sites, throughout the township. Anyone not sure where to vote should call the township offices at 348-5800.

DISABILITIES COALITION BUILDING: The League of Women Voters of Northville/Plymouth/Canton will participate in a project of LWV Michigan and the Michigan Developmental Disabilities Council.

The project focus is coalition building. Participants will conduct a survey that will address barriers to the political process for people with disabilities including physical access, attitudes of poll workers and clerks, transportation, time and location of meetings, and communication barriers. The final product will be published in the community.

The objective of this project is to help handicapper organizations and their leaders learn about forming coalitions and working within those coalitions. The LWV is still seeking a cochair from the handicapper community. Interested citizens and groups are encouraged to participate. A meeting will be scheduled in September. Contact 349-9005 for additional information or to become involved.

TREE DEDICATION PROGRAM: Forty-two sugar and Norway maple trees will be planted on both sides of the lane of Mill Race Historical Village, across its entire eastern edge, and around the parking lot across the front berm.

Each tree is available for a donation of $250 and may be dedicated to a family member or someone else. Trees will be planted in October. Specific tree location selection is available on a first-come, first-served basis.

This program is a continuation of Mill Race's overall landscape plan, developed by historical society member Tom Holleman of Dumas Construction.

To reserve a tree contact Sally Henrikson at the Northville Historical Society office, between 9 a.m. and 1 p.m. Monday, Wednesday, and Friday, at 348-1845.

NON-PROFIT GROUPS WELCOME: The third annual Northville Victorian Festival is scheduled for Sept. 13-15, and organizers are currently seeking non-profit groups who are interested in operating a booth during the festival to raise funds for their organization.

They invite you to join Northville in participating in this unique event. The Victorian Festival is a great way to earn money for a group while having a lot of fun. For more information, call Sarah Minor at 348-8596 or 348-8568.

CHORE WORKERS NEEDED: Senior citizens in western Wayne County need assistance with yard work, window washing, and other chores around the house. The Senior Alliance Chore Referral Program is a new service designed to help older adults and chore workers establish contact.

Older adults may contact the Senior Alliance to see if any workers are available in their area. Once a senior chooses a worker and decides to hire that worker, it is the responsibility of the senior to set up a work schedule and pay the worker.

Workers are asked to charge no more than $6 per hour and must provide three references to the Senior Alliance before they will be entered into the program.

If you or someone you know would like to join the Senior Alliance Chore Referral Program call 722-2830 for more details.

School head hopefuls speak

By SUZANNE HOLLYER
Staff Writer

Seven candidates for the position of Northville Public School superintendent were scheduled for interviews this week. As of press time, the school board had interviewed three candidates. Following are short summaries of each interview. Summaries of the remaining interviews will appear in Monday's edition.

LARRY THOMAS, Ed.D.

Thomas, an assistant superintendent in West Bloomfield Schools, was interviewed Monday at 6:30 p.m.

He has held the positions of assistant superintendent for administrative services and administrative assistant to the superintendent in West Bloomfield.

A former art and history teacher, Thomas began in the Taylor School District.

He earned a bachelor's degree from Eastern Michigan University in 1969, a master's degree from the same school in 1975, and a specialist's degree in general administration and supervision from Wayne State University in 1981.

Thomas also completed a doctorate in education from Wayne State in 1987.

He said the formal training of most candidates will be similar. But his varied administrative experiences would make him the best candidate for the job, he said.

Northville has always been a "place I've looked up to," said Thomas, a lifelong resident of the metro Detroit area.

Thomas said his experience running millage elections in West Bloomfield has been mainly positive, although the district had a tie vote last year in an election.

He said he holds building principal's somewhat responsible for the success of millage elections, but year-round community involvement in the district helps, too.

"I think it's wrong to only look to your community when there is a vote or when you need money," he said.

He thinks strategic planning is one way to encourage community involvement throughout the school year. And on the subject of strategic planning, Thomas said he has been promoting long-range plans and goal-setting for 15 years.

"You have to know where you're going before you get there," he said.

State funding of schools is major concern for planning in West Bloomfield as in Northville, Thomas said.

He said involving state legislators in the schools helps ensure some support on the state level, and he gave an example of his relationship with West Bloomfield's representative.

Finances influenced Thomas' comment about a trend toward inclusion in special education. Inclusion encourages school districts to put special education students in regular education classes whenever possible.

"I'm not against inclusion . . . but there are some cost factors," Thomas said, citing the need for more teachers' aides as an example.

Thomas said he wouldn't change just to change in Northville schools. But any improvements he could make would most likely be complete within five years, he said.

RONALD ROLPH, Ph.D.

Rolph has held a superintendency for six years in the Holland Public School district. He was the second candidate interviewed by the school board.

Before accepting the job in Holland, Rolph was a deputy superintendent, a director of secondary education, a high school and junior high school principal, and a high school teacher in Birmingham.

He graduated with a bachelor's degree in 1957 from Central Michigan University, earned a master's degree in 1959 from the University of Michigan, and received an educational specialist's degree in 1975 from Michigan State University and a doctorate in 1980 from Michigan State University.

In his Tuesday interview, he told the board he has enjoyed all his experiences in education.

"I wasn't always ready to move on, but I was asked to take many of the positions," he said. The hardest thing about being an administrator, he said, is being further away from students.

Northville is the first district he has applied to work for since accepting the job in Holland, he said. He likes Holland, but his family is from southeastern Michigan, Rolph said.

Holland, like Northville, is an out-of-formula district. Both districts are considered property wealthy by the state's funding formula and are ineligible for most state aid. In fact, Holland is "way out" of formula, Rolph said.

He has run successful millage campaigns in Holland with the exception of a June election. He expects a September election to be successful.

Trends toward inclusion in special education should be encouraged, Rolph said, saying he prefers the term "handicapped" over the traditional term "handicapped."

Rolph said many of the problems in schools today result from societal problems over which the schools have no control.

"Schools can't do it all; teachers can't do it all," he said.

He believes the schools can work to help all kids reach their potential by providing positive experiences early in education to build the self-esteem of students.

Rolph said he could make his presence known in Northville within a month by meeting local teachers, community leaders and residents.

MICHAEL LABAY, Ph.D.

LaBay has been a superintendent for just one year, but he said his experience prior to the superintendency makes him a strong candidate for the position of Northville school superintendent.

Before beginning his tenure in the New Haven Community School District, LaBay served as an assistant superintendent, director of elementary education, and director of curriculum development and evaluation in Birmingham schools.

He also has worked as an assistant professor at Youngstown State University, as a program evaluator in a San Diego school district and as a research instructor at the University of Toledo.

Early in his career, LaBay was a teacher and coach in an Ohio school district and in Grand Blanc.

LaBay was the school board's third interviewee. He replaced a candidate who dropped out of the process to accept a job in another school district.

He said he is "not a job hopper." New Haven is one-fourth the size of Northville, and LaBay said the location, salary, quality of the school board and soundness of the community attracted him to Northville.

"You are a very, very desirable school district," he said.

LaBay's experience running millage campaigns has been positive. He passed his first millage proposal as a superintendent in June.

He said winning millage elections requires year-long communication with parents. In New Haven, LaBay organized a parent teacher association. He said parents feel comfortable to approach him.

"They're not reluctant to ask me to pay my PTA dues," he said.

LaBay has mixed feelings about the trend toward inclusion in special education.

He said regular education teachers often are reluctant to bring special education students into their classroom. He feels some better option must be formulated for special education students.

"Your heart goes out to these children. . . There has to be something else for these children," he said.

YOU REALLY CARE HOW YOU LOOK. SO DO WE.

Man assaults police car after high-speed chase

A 29-year-old Huntington Woods man was charged with malicious destruction of property after beating a city police car with a dowel rod.

The man led police on a chase reaching speeds of 80 miles per hour down Eight Mile Road on Aug. 18 at around 7:30 p.m., according to police reports.

Police attempted to pull the man over for speeding violations on Eight Mile near Center Street. The man did not stop until police had followed him down Eight Mile east of Meadowbrook Road.

After the man stopped, he walked toward the police car with a 6-inch dowel rod in each hand yelling, "Why do you want to kill me?" according to police reports.

The man then smashed the front windshield on the police car before he was arrested.

He was arraigned on charges of malicious destruction of property and released. A pre-trial exam date of Aug. 30 was set.

MAN CHARGED WITH DRUNKEN DRIVING, OTHER OFFENSES

FENSES: Northville Township police charged a 40-year-old Detroit man with operating a vehicle under the influence of alcohol after his arrest on westbound Seven Mile near Gerald Avenue early Aug. 13.

Police said the man was arrested after failing several field sobriety tests. A preliminary breath test indicated the man's blood-alcohol level was .22, more than twice the state's legal intoxication limit.

Police said the man became abusive on the trip to the police station and spat on the arresting officer. Police eventually cited the man for OUIL, driving with a suspended license, and spitting on another person. The man also was wanted on a Wayne County Circuit Court warrant for child neglect, police said. He was given a Sept. 3 court date at 35th District Court on the local charges and turned over to Wayne County Sheriff's deputies.

OUIL: A 38-year-old Novi man was arrested on charges of operating a vehicle under the influence of alcohol on Aug. 18 at 3:40 p.m.

The man told city police, "I have had too much to drink, and I'm sorry," according to police reports.

He was driving west on Eight Mile when police stopped him for driving to the left of the center line.

VEHICLES DAMAGED: The owner of a 1987 Ford Escort told township police someone let the air out of two of the vehicle's tires and ripped off and destroyed a lighted license plate holder while it was parked on Crystal Lake early Aug. 12.

A 1988 Cadillac DeVille was damaged when someone scratched the vehicle's driver's side door and panels while it was parked in the lot at Highland Lakes shopping mall late July 31 or early Aug. 1. Damage was estimated at $600.

A 1986 Pontiac Grand Am received an estimated $200 damage when someone broke the right rear passenger window while it was parked on Lyric Court late Aug. 13 or early Aug. 14.

A Cedar Lake Circle resident told township police someone slashed the right rear tire on his 1991 Chevrolet Corvette late Aug. 14 or early Aug. 15. Damage was estimated at $321.48.

WALKAWAY RECOVERED: Patrolling township police apprehended a 20-year-old walkaway patient from Northville Regional Hospital, 41001 Seven Mile, just before 11 a.m. Aug. 17.

Police spotted the man walking eastbound on Seven Mile near the Haggerty Road intersection and said the man appeared nervous when he noticed the police car. The man told police his vehicle had broken down five miles to the west and that he was searching for a payphone.

Police contacted state hospital security staffers who then determined the man was a walkaway. He was returned to hospital grounds.

STREET SIGNS STOLEN: Township police are investigating the theft of eight street signs from the Highland Lakes subdivision area. The signs apparently were taken between Aug. 9-12, and included signs marking Lake Success, Juliet, Vallant Ct., Savoy, Lyric, Seabrook, Bryn Mawr Ct., and School House. The street signs were valued at $500.

TIES BIND MEJER THEFT SUSPECT: A 22-year-old Redford man was charged with larceny after he attempted to steal three men's ties from Meijer, 20401 Haggerty, Aug. 12.

Township police said the man was convicted on a larceny charge in 1986 and was convicted on armed robbery charges in 1987.

CURTIS HOME VICTIMIZED: A Curtis resident told township police that someone stole two lawn chairs and a hammock from their backyard late Aug. 17 or early Aug. 18. The chairs and hammock were valued at $175.

VIDEO CAMERA STOLEN FROM BROOKLANE: A video camera valued at $1,900 reportedly was stolen from Brooklane Golf Course, 44115 W. Six Mile sometime between 2 p.m. Aug. 16 and 2:30 p.m. Aug. 17, according to township police records. The camera and attachments were taken from a basement area where golf lessons are held.

RESIDENTIAL BREAK-IN: A Woodcreek resident told township police that someone stole a gas-powered weed trimmer from his garage Aug. 17 or Aug. 18. A pair of wooden benches were stolen from the resident's deck, as well, police said.

TRAFFIC ACCIDENTS: City police reported two traffic accidents. On Aug. 16, a 57-year-old Florida woman was ticketed for making an improper turn after she struck a 33-year-old Northville man driving on Main Street west of Wing Street.

On Aug. 18, a 69-year-old Northville woman was ticketed for failure to yield following an accident with a 34-year-old Northville man at the corner of Main and Center streets. The accident was witnessed by city police.

Citizens with information about the above incidents are urged to call Northville City Police at 349-1234 or Northville Township Police at 349-9400.

Ypsilanti man injures police officer during brawl

By MIKE TYREE
Staff Writer

An Ypsilanti man and a Northville Township police officer were injured last week during a scuffle that began outside a state mental health facility.

Police charged the 33-year-old Ypsilanti man with assaulting a police officer and malicious destruction of property after an Aug. 12 incident at the Sheldon Center, 15480 Sheldon Road.

The man reportedly assaulted a patient at the Sheldon Center, brawled with a security worker there, and kicked and punched out a pair of windows before he was restrained by police.

Township Police Sgt. Michael Panagiotides, 37, was struck in the chest during the brawl and then suffered an injured left arm when he wrestled the man to the ground. Panagiotides was treated and released from St. Mary Hospital in Livonia.

Police said they reported to the Sheldon Center on a disturbance report. When they arrived, the Ypsilanti man was standing outside a building yelling at a security guard. The guard, a 35-year-old Detroit man, was inside the building and earlier had escorted the man from the building, police said.

The man reportedly was attempting to check himself into the facility for psychiatric care, according to police records.

The shouting match between the suspect and security worker quickly escalated after the security guard confronted and challenged the man, police said. They began to fight and police separated the two.

The Ypsilanti man then broke free and punched two glass windows, shattering them. Panagiotides then attempted to talk to the injured and bleeding man, but the suspect struck the police officer in the chest. Panagiotides reportedly was struck a concrete surface. Two other officers helped handcuff the man, according to reports.

The suspect continued to attempt to kick the security guard before he was placed in a squad car. Once inside the vehicle, the man kicked and bent the top of the vehicle's door.

Police said the man was bleeding heavily from cuts to his arms, hands and feet. Police removed the handcuffs at the police station so the man could be treated by emergency workers, but the suspect again became "very violent," and had to be cuffed again, police said.

Panagiotides and the suspect were transported to St. Mary Hospital. The suspect was treated for glass cuts and also for a fractured left hand.

The suspect also was admitted, on request, to the hospital's psychiatric ward.

Northville commander enforces at fair

Everyone thinks of the Michigan State Fair as fun. But for Northville's state police post commander Jack Moulik, it's work.

For the fifth straight year, Moulik will be in charge of state troopers at the fair. The Michigan State Police provides all law enforcement at the fair, which runs through Sept. 2.

"It comes with being at Northville," Moulik said.

The commander at the post has been heading law enforcement at the fair since the late '60s, he said. Several other officers, including assistant post commander Bob Clark, will also serve at the fair.

State troopers from the "lower half of the lower peninsula" are brought in to patrol fair grounds, Moulik said. A total of 56 officers will be on duty.

Moulik described crime activity at the fair as minimal. He said troopers usually handle between 150 and 180 incidents at the fair ranging from lost property to assault.

By far, the most common incident, though, is lost children. Between 300 and 400 children lose sight of their parents at the fair, Moulik said.

The post commander said he looks forward to the state fair each year.

"I enjoy it," Moulik said. "But when it's over, I'm glad it's over."

Polo match for exceptional equestrians

By SUZANNE HOLLYER
Staff Writer

Some think of it as the sport of kings, but Novi's Tollgate 4-H Education Center is sponsoring a polo match that is more of a family activity.

A polo benefit will be held for Tollgate's Exceptional Equestrians program from noon to 5 p.m. Aug. 25 at the Detroit Polo Club in Highland.

The equestrian program helps handicapped people improve their muscle tone and self-esteem by learning to ride horses.

At least 30 percent of the participants are from Northville.

"The program services kids from the entire area," Tollgate assistant Cynthia Richards said.

Face painting and pony rides will be available for the kids.

Mom and dad can picnic or participate in one of the auctions that will be held.

The cost is $10 for adults and $5 for kids in general-admission seating. Richards said those purchasing general-admission tickets should bring lawn chairs or a blanket.

Food will be sold, but anyone may feel free to bring a picnic, she said.

Reserved seats are $50 for adults and $25 for kids.

The reserved seating area is more formal, but "it's not black tie," Richards said.

Those who purchase reserved seats will attend a champagne buffet prepared by 1991 Schoolcraft College Chef of the Year Richard Benson.

The event opens at noon. At 1 p.m. a drill of handicapped riders will perform. The match begins at 2 p.m.

A silent auction will be held all day, and a live auction will be held at half-time.

Items up for auction include a baseball and bat autographed by Al Kaline, a trip to Frankenthuth, golf outings, jewelry and some less expensive, hand-made items.

Northville Saddlery is among the sponsors. The Northville shop is a big supporter of the Exceptional Equestrian program, Richards said.

Proceeds from the polo match will go toward operating costs of the program. Tollgate also hopes to build an indoor riding facility in the future, she said.

Reserved seating tickets must be purchased in advance at Tollgate. Call 347-3860 for more information. General admission tickets will be available the day of the match.

Mara Opperman, age 5, of Northville, participates in the Exceptional Equestrians program

Office hours slated

State Sen. Bob Geake (R-Northville) announced a new schedule for district office hours.

Geake and/or representatives from his staff will be available to meet with constituents from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. on the following dates:

Thursday, Aug. 22 in Redford Township at the Redford Public Library, 5150 Norborne;

Friday, Sept. 6 in Livonia at the Livonia Civic Center Library, 32777 Five Mile Road;

Friday, Sept. 13 in Canton Township at the Canton Public Library, 1200 S. Canton Center Road;

Friday, Sept. 27 in Plymouth at the Plymouth Public Library, 223 S. Main St., and;

Friday, Oct. 4 in Northville at the Northville Public Library, 215 W. Main St.

Constituents from Geake's 6th District are welcome to come to the most convenient location and share their views about state government. The 6th Senate District includes all of Northville Township, the City of Northville south of Baseline Road, Redford Township, Canton Township, Plymouth and Plymouth Township.

City tables proposed solid waste agreement

By MIKE TYREE
Staff Writer

Council seeks same collection fee as township

City officials say Painter & Ruthenburg is an attractive choice for Northville's solid waste and recyclable materials collections contract.

But the city likely won't ink an agreement until the firm matches the basic rate extended to Northville Township.

The city council on Monday tabled a staff recommendation to sign a four-year contract with the Inkster-based trash hauler. Council members agreed that the firm's bid will cut residential trash rates, but objected to portions of the proposal.

Some of the concern focused on differing rates for basic solid waste collections in the city and township.

Painter & Ruthenburg's pending four-year contract with Northville Township calls for a $6.08-per-unit monthly cost for solid waste pickup. The firm's proposal for similar city service is $6.71 per unit, even though Painter & Ruthenburg told city officials they would honor the $6.08 figure tendered at a bid opening earlier this summer.

Council member Paul Folino said the firm should stick to its previous rate statements.

"They said they would not change their bid," he said. "I'm not going to pay $6.71 now."

City Assessor Mark Christensen said an update of the number of city residential stops differed from a figure applied to the original bid specifications. A decrease in actual collections stops from 2,320 to 2,103 prompted the bid change, he said.

Mayor Christopher Johnson said he felt "uncomfortable" accepting the staff recommendation. Johnson said at least three questions need to be answered prior to contract approval.

Johnson said the firm should be asked to accept $6.08 per residential unit. He also said a movement by city business leaders to create their own collections system should be factored into the bid.

The city needs to negotiate a 30- or 60-day "cancellation situation" if a privatized commercial refuse collection plan takes wing, Johnson said. He also said the city attorney must study the bid process before the council approves a collections contract.

Painter & Ruthenburg's tentative contract with Northville Township calls only for solid-waste and compostible materials collections. The township has a pending agreement with Browning-Ferris Industries to provide free recycling for township residents.

The city has no such agreement, and would turn to Painter & Ruthenburg to handle recyclable collections chores.

Recycling and compostible fees would boost Painter & Ruthenburg's first-year monthly residential bill to $10.23, minus a 10-percent administrative fee.

That figure compares with the city's current $12.20 flat rate, which is inflated after a 20-percent commercial subsidy is tacked on.

All of which could mean a monthly $4 savings to city residents, the council agreed.

"It looks like a good bid to me, as far as the residential," said Mayor Pro-tem Carolann Ayres.

The council did not set a date to revisit the issue.

Lottery blurbs filmed locally

By SUZANNE HOLLYER
Staff Writer

Don't be surprised if the scenery in Michigan Lottery television commercials starts to look a little familiar. W.B. Doner and Co. advertising agency was in town Tuesday with August Larry Productions to film a commercial advertising the lottery.

The commercial was directed by Dan Hackett, a Northville resident.

The producers staged scenes of lottery winners celebrating their winnings at four Northville locations: the William Allen Academy on Eight Mile Road; the home of Jeffrey Moon and Josselyn Moore, also on Eight Mile Road; at the clock on Main Street in downtown Northville; and at Cal's Car Care on Main Street.

Winners were brought in from around the state; about half of the winners were models who just happened to have won something in a Michigan lottery, according to producer Sue Atwell.

"We are taking liberties as to where we shoot. We want to make it look like we went all over the state," Atwell said.

So the winners may not have been from Northville, but Northville will be featured in the commercials.

"It was just a neat-looking building," Atwell said as to why the William Allen Academy was chosen as a shooting location.

Jeffrey Moon and Josselyn Moore's house was chosen because it looks like an old house on a country road — that is, if you look at it from the right angle.

For the purposes of the commercial, the Northville couple's driveway became a country road.

Their mailbox was moved and their dog was placed on the porch with an actor.

Dorothy Evans of Berkley was brought to Northville to stand in front of their relocated mailbox and waive an envelope.

The envelope represents the $2,800 winnings she won a couple of years ago while playing Lotto, Atwell said.

At William Allen, model Karen Barna posed with students. Barna once played the game Fame and Fortune for three months. She said she "broke even" on the cost of the tickets, thanks to several small winnings.

The commercials will air after Labor Day throughout Michigan, mostly during Detroit Tiger baseball games.

Atwell said the purpose is to let people know that someone wins a Michigan lottery every second.

Rampant consumerism may harm young psyches

This is the last story in a three-part series on back-to-school trends. We have looked at fashion trends and what's hot in school supplies in previous stories. But before you go out and buy your kids the latest items, you may want to read today's story on the psychological effects of back-to-school consumerism on young people.

By SUZANNE HOLLYER

Brightly colored clothing and Girbaud brand jeans are in this year.

But in some high school circles the trend is to wear second-hand clothes purchased in a thrift shop.

For some local parents, supporting their children in the pursuit of the trendy at all costs might be affordable, but it is not necessarily the best idea, a local psychologist said.

"Kids are not taught to march to the beat of their own internal drummer," Jacque Martin-Downs said.

Martin-Downs, a therapist with the Northville Counseling Center, said Northville parents tend to be very interested in doing what's right for their kids.

But it is not always easy to tell your third-grader that he or she cannot have the Nintendo game that everyone else has.

"Kids think they're entitled to the good life, and parents sometimes think their kids are entitled to the good life, too," she said.

But when kids grow up into adults who feel they are entitled to a good life they can no longer afford, self-esteem and self-worth problems can arise, she said.

"What we have becomes so important to us," she said. Martin-Downs led parenting classes during the last school year.

She said parents want to do what's right for their kids, but encouraging individuality can be difficult when the individual ideas expressed by children are annoying or strange to adults.

"Parents have a tendency to smooch down kids' true feelings," she said.

"Don't be yourself" is sort of the message kids get when they hear things like, "Stop crying, stop acting like a 5-year-old," or "Stop being a sissy," she said.

"Parents need to affirm kids, to allow their true feelings to show. That's not to say kids can step on mom by lashing out, but they should be allowed to have their own feelings."

Kids who are encouraged to identify and express their own feelings are more likely to be strong individuals willing to defend their beliefs, she said.

Those kids who are allowed or even encouraged to conform may build a mask around their real personality.

And it is the people who have the biggest walls built around them that Martin-Downs said she sees most often at her clinic in need of help with drug and alcohol problems.

Northville Counseling works with addictions, she said. Drugs, alcohol, compulsive shopping, gambling, and even exercise can be addictive.

But all addictions, she said, are attempts at avoiding internal conflicts.

"All these outside things, we buy into them to ease the pain. He who dies with the most toys wins — that's where that comes from," Martin-Downs said.

"But when you want and want and want, there is never enough."

Sizes change and so do styles. Good reasons exist to do some shopping every fall.

"You don't want your kid to be totally out to lunch," she said.

But parents can make a lesson out of back-to-school shopping if they want, and Martin-Downs thinks a lot of Northville parents are willing to do what's best for their kids.

"Northville parents have a tendency to try really hard," she said.

She suggests teaching kids to be creative with what they have.

"They can mix and match. We don't spend a lot of time teaching kids to be respectful of what they have and to value what they have," she said.

Northville Public Schools open their doors to students Sept. 3. All students will attend for a full day except first graders, who have half days the first week, and kindergartners, who always have half days.

INTRODUCING THE RE-DESIGNED, RE-CALIBRATED, RE-ENGINEERED, RE-INVENTED BMW 3-SERIES.

In today's volatile economy, people of means are asking a question that should alarm the world's automobile makers

"Exactly what is it that makes this car worth the money?"

The new BMW 325i sports sedan welcomes such scrutiny. Because not only does it embody BMW's traditional passion for driving, it also offers an entirely new set of more practical-minded virtues — namely efficiency, durability, safety and ease of maintenance. To name a few.

BMW'S IMPACT-ACTIVATED SAFETY SYSTEM

The new BMW 325i sedan is built on the premise that driving should be fun. But, at the same time, driving safely is infinitely more satisfying.

The best defense, of course, is a car that has been designed to help you avoid accidents in the first place. So the 325i offers a firm grip of the road, responsive steering and quick acceleration, as well as our latest-generation antilock brakes.

The new 325i is also prepared for that which you can't avoid. In the event of a frontal collision, it is designed to launch an entire sequence of events to help minimize injuries.

Hydraulic bumpers absorb part of the initial impact energy, while a system of "crush tubes" absorbs yet more. The seat belts tighten their grip. Three sensors trigger the driver's-side airbag. The interior lights are turned on and all the doors are automatically unlocked, to aid passengers in escape or rescue.

THE NEXT BEST THING TO A CAR THAT MAINTAINS ITSELF.

At the heart of the new 325i lies a new 189-hp, 24-valve engine that is so highly advanced, it demands very little regular maintenance beyond the simple act of changing the oil, filters and plugs.

The sophisticated electronics of the 325i incorporate a "black box" system that can play back past engine events for the BMW technician, and in so doing, point out problems that could otherwise be difficult to detect. Or even describe

When it comes to comfort, the 325i is now even longer, taller and wider than before. It offers firmly supported seats. Even a unique microfiltration system that can remove dust and pollen and most odors, from interior air.

The 325i also offers the comfort of a 4-year/50,000-mile, bumper-to-bumper warranty. A Roadside Assistance plan that you can call upon any day, on any road or highway in the U.S.A. And, perhaps most remarkably, an MSRP of only $27,990.

If you would like to obtain literature on the new 3-Series, we strongly suggest that you visit your nearest authorized BMW dealer. While you're there, you'll be able to take an invigorating test drive. You'll see exactly how the 325i not only raises the standard for the sports sedan, it redefines the class.

Local officials to mull urban sprawl problems

By TIM RICHARD
Staff Writer

In courthouses and town halls across the seven-county region, local officials in fall will look at a list of controversial ideas to halt urban sprawl.

The ideas include property-tax-base sharing, mandatory regional planning, local "impact fees" for new development, and revamped public transportation funded by a regional sales tax.

"Every county commission and every local unit" will be asked to schedule the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments' presentation, said John Amberger, executive director of the 140-member, seven-county planning agency.

"Public participation has been delayed," said Gerald McCaffrey, SEMCOG chairperson from the Macomb County Intermediate School District, until local elected officials have had their input.

"Mull them over," Marilyn Gosling, Oakland County commissioner who co-chaired the yearlong regional development initiative (RDI), told the SEMCOG executive committee Friday.

"It will take some time to determine who should do what," said Cosling, referring to seven broad recommendations drafted by the RDI steering committee.

"Urban sprawl" is the eating up of farms, woods and wetlands for development in spite of a stable population, accompanied by abandonment of land and utilities in older cities.

The RDI study was prompted last year when the city council of Auburn Hills (pop. 19,000) approved plans for a 2-million-square-foot megamall. Neighboring communities saw the mega-mall as a potential economic and environmental disaster to them.

Earlier, SEMCOG released a draft of its conclusions as to why urban sprawl has occurred: racial bias, governmental subsidies to "green field" fringe development, and land-use decisions based only on profits and property taxes.

Those conclusions and these seven recommendations will be presented to SEMCOG's general assembly in October and afterward to all interested of the 230 counties, cities, villages and townships in the region afterward:

1. Balance local resources by reducing reliance on the property tax, including perhaps sharing municipal property taxes. (The state Legislature is expected to pass a school tax base sharing bill this session.) Oakland County is expected to do most of the sharing.

2. "Adopt and aggressively support anti-discrimination programs" in every local unit, with all schools implementing racial and cultural understanding programs.

3. Develop land use guidelines encouraging compact development, protecting of farm lands, preserving of older communities and balancing of jobs and housing locations.

4. Create "a mandatory regional planning review process" for projects with multi-community impact.

5. Adopt state laws requiring "currency" for new development — roads, sewer lines and public-safety equipment must be in place before development begins.

6. Prioritize state and federal spending to maintain older communities with existing infrastructure.

7. Revamp regional public transportation with support of a regional sales tax in order to "link residents of older communities with the developing job markets of the suburban fringe."

SEMCOG executive committee members greeted the recommendations with little comment.

New hearings set on plan for area hospital

By SCOTT DANIEL
Staff Writer

Providence Hospital next week will continue its battle with the Michigan Department of Public Health to build a 200-bed hospital in the area.

Providence has battled with the DPH since early last year to win a certificate-of-need approval (CON), which is necessary before construction can begin. The two sides plan to meet Wednesday and Thursday in an effort to resolve the issue.

Marty Cerier, director of strategic planning for Providence, said next week's hearings wouldn't likely be the last. She said at least seven more hearing dates, within the next two months, would be set.

"I thought, initially, they would be done in a month," Cerier said.

Hearings this month were originally slated to begin this week, but were canceled because of scheduling conflicts, she said.

If granted CON approval, Providence will build the hospital at the southwest corner of Beck Road and Grand River. The hospital would be one of several developments at the site.

A medical office building and ambulatory diagnostic treatment facility, both of which have already received CON approvals, are currently under construction. Providence received preliminary approval from the Novi Planning Commission for a 50,000-square-foot addition to the office building on Aug. 7.

The DPH and Providence will both present testimony at the hearings, Cerier said. The testimony will be heard by a state-appointed hearings officer.

The officer will make a recommendation on Providence's request at the conclusion of the hearings. Cerier said there was no timeframe for that recommendation.

A final decision by the director of the DPH will be made within 60 days after that recommendation.

If Providence is again denied the approval, it will file an appeal of the decision in circuit court, Cerier said. If the matter goes to circuit court, a final ruling could be delayed for years, hospital officials have said.

Providence first filed for CON approval in June 1989. In January of last year, the request met with a proposed denial citing overbedding in the area. The hospital appealed that decision.

In October 1990, Providence filed reconsideration material with the state agency and was granted public hearings on its request. Hearings began in May of this year.

Joan Iversen, President, North Lexington Condo Association, protested the charge for refuse collection and questioned how the charge was determined.

Johnson reviewed the change in refuse collection from a tax base to a fee base system which was designed to be as close to the SEV base system as before. The major exception was reducing the subsidy that general homeowners had been paying into the system to support the downtown trash collection (commercial).

Johnson suggested that he and the Manager meet with the homeowners' association with exact figures on how the cost was evaluated during the budget sessions.

A. PROPOSED BID SOLICITATION FOR PLANNING CONSULTANT

Word recommended seeking proposals from area planning consultants for a new contractual relationship to begin on or about October 1, 1991, and terminating the contract with Ayres, Lewis, Norris & May (a minimum 60 day advance notice required).

Moved, supported, CARRIED UNANIMOUSLY, to proceed as recommended by City Manager Word.

B. PROPOSED AGREEMENT TO HOUSE PRE-ARRAIGNED STATE POLICE PRISONERS

Word stated since 1988 the City has housed pre-arraigned State Police prisoners until January of this year. At that time it was discontinued because of a lawsuit, filed by the City of Detroit against the Wayne County Sheriff. The City staff is receptive to housing State Police prisoners provided there is assurance of reimbursement of expenses.

Moved, supported, CARRIED UNANIMOUSLY, to authorize the Northville Police Chief to sign the Letter of Understanding with the Wayne County Sheriff's Department to participate in the housing of pre-arraigned State Police prisoners.

Just ducky

The Woodland Glen apartments on Eight Mile Road east of Griswold saw some of the more serious flooding during the rains earlier this week. Some residents were less than thrilled, but the area's duck population didn't seem to mind.

Snider reviews department, explains millage

RECORD: Some people might call the first year a honeymoon, but now, after a year, where would you like to see the department go in terms of providing service to the public? What are some of the department's strong points, and what are some of the areas that need work?

SNIDER: First off, I don't view this past year, or 10 months, as a honeymoon period. I think I've got a very intelligent board that's very mindful of my budget and money, and I've had to defend each and every move that we've made — each and every expenditure. As far as the level of service we're providing, I'm happy with our manning, and staffing levels have been addressed and they're at a level currently that is not only suiting our needs but are in concert with the staff study that was done on the department in 1988.

We're providing patrol service, investigative service, community involvement without straining our manpower. I think our response times are well within the parameters of what they should be for a township. . . . We've got some certain areas that create a stress on a department but we're managing it, and one thing we're doing a lot in the last year to enhance is shared services and cooperative (ventures) with other police departments in western Wayne County to offer services we couldn't afford alone, such as narcotics enforcement, auto theft. Communications we're looking at sharing services on.

As of right now, we're opening up a mobile data terminal consortium in western Wayne County where we're going to share the cost of that and have a communications network that will be second to none in this area. I think the wave of the future in this department and with the other area departments is to take those other levels of service and enhance through cooperative shared services.

RECORD: You've listed some positive aspects of the department. What about areas that need improvement? Are there problems that are evident, or is this department pretty well set, as far as resources allow?

SNIDER: I'm pleased with the bureau and the organizational stature of the department. One area that I'd like to look at that I think's going to be a problem in the next five years is traffic. I'd like to enhance our traffic capabilities through a selective enforcement bureau that's comprised of officers that are solely assigned to selective enforcements throughout the township. Fatal accident investigations, recommendations for engineering changes, truck traffic — a weighmaster program would be involved that offers the ability to test and measure some of these trucks traveling the highways. . . .

RECORD: And that might be a necessity because of the Holloway (gravel mining) situation.

SNIDER: Well, it's not much out of the realm of a necessity at this time, without Holloway. I think that we have a considerable amount of truck traffic through the township and we don't really have the tools at this time to monitor them.

RECORD: I'd like you to explain the department's funding process. How is the average property tax bill expended and how are you set up to receive monies from the general fund? What does this separate millage have to do with the department?

SNIDER: The millage is currently going to come before the people on Aug. 27. It is, as I've said, a rollback renewal of an existing millage. It is 1.392 (mills), but it accounts for 48 percent of my budget. General fund contributions add to that, which brings me up to the current total budget of $1,573,512.

RECORD: Are staffing levels actually threatened by a millage defeat? What would defeat of the millage do to the department?

SNIDER: To be honest with you, we have not sat down and strategized our approach to staffing levels if there's a defeat of the millage. Any considerable cut in funding would result in some service loss somewhere, but if staffing would have to be viewed, it hasn't even been considered yet.

RECORD: Forty-eight percent is a pretty considerable amount of your budget. What are some of the things you think would suffer if the millage is defeated?

SNIDER: Currently we have some (patrol) hiring that will occur late this year — October possibly. Certainly that would be put on hold. Putting that on hold would save some money. Rotation of vehicles and equipment would certainly have to be looked at first. My personal impression is I'd want to look at capital gains, maintenance cost and improvement of current equipment before I'd want to look at people.

There's no possibility to provide the level of service we're providing today with any less staff.

RECORD: The board approved sergeant testing, or assessments, back in February. That, combined with construction of the dispatch area, came to about $30,000. Do you think those two expenditures were worthwhile with the budget so tight?

Have both those expenditures been beneficial to the department?

SNIDER: When I arrived, I certainly didn't think the communications area would service this department properly. The environment that the dispatchers worked in, I thought, was not adequate. We'd also been talking at that time about a shared-services agreement with communications for the City of Northville, whereby this department would be the host, and we were not capable of hosting any additional incoming calls or business to our dispatch.

Foremost was just to take care of the staff. Records were in bad shape, the area was too small and ill-lighted. The approach coming to people at the front desk I felt was cold; I wanted an open area where we could greet the people and spend some time with them, rather than shout through a three-inch Lexan window, so those arrangements were made.

The promotional process — our contract currently calls for a testing procedure which eliminates the ability for a chief to appoint someone, and eliminates nepotism in the department. The exact procedure outlined by contract couldn't be accommodated. . . . Through union agreement, we decided to go through the assessment process.

My concerns were that if we're going to test leadership, then let's put it to a test in an environment that's suited for that. . . . We went out for bids; there were two local Michigan companies and one in Pennsylvania that won the bid. They had an executive simulator that was set up and I was familiar with it. It was the best scenario available.

To send them (nine candidates) to Pennsylvania was cheaper than to fly the company in. We weren't set up for it — the phones, communication and offices — and secondly, to fly them in, house them in a hotel and provide transportation and airline tickets. . . . We put that money in the process and had (candidates) drive out to Pennsylvania. The union consented and made some definite sacrifices. The cheapest way we could do it was the way it came out.

One of the concessions I wanted from the union was an eligibility list for three years (for promotions), so that should there be movement in the department or additional hiring, we would not have to go through the expense again on a yearly basis. Typically, a union will consent only to a year eligibility list. This way, by consenting to a three-year, that gives me much more time should change occur in the department and there will be no expense in regard to promotion.

RECORD: There are a couple of areas here in the township where incidences of crime are fairly common. I'm talking about the Meijer store on Eight Mile and Haggerty, and the state hospital on Seven Mile. It seems your department spends a lot of time involved with both those establishments. Do you feel that the security staffs at both sites are doing a sufficient job? Do you think residents are safe, shopping at Meijer or living near the state hospital?

SNIDER: Starting with Meijer, when I first came here, my impression was we were spending much too much time out of patrol at the Meijer store. Although I could not change the amount of crime on the premise, I could change the time that an officer spent out of service while we processed the suspect. The amount of time would vary from 45 minutes to 90 minutes while we processed a shoplifter. We've taken that down to about 15 minutes now.

We've put the burden on Meijer security personnel to complete the investigative report, process the suspect, and manage the evidence. All the officer does is check and review the report for content so the prosecution will be successful.

The Northville state hospital (walkaway) situation has escalated in the last couple of months due to an influx of inmates from the Ypsilanti forensic center, where they're winding down their personnel there, and I don't know exactly what the problem is that's allowing the leak. We've been told through some sources that it's staffing that has been reduced through layoffs. . . . Whatever the problem is, there's no doubt that more have walked away and caused harm to citizens than in the past.

The board and supervisor are very concerned about it, and steps are being taken to correct the problem. The areas that are adjacent to the hospital and across Seven Mile are certainly within striking distance for a runaway. They should use extreme caution during this time by securing their doorways and doors until this problem is resolved.

RECORD: There literally are hundreds of homes within a 15-minute walk or run of the hospital. Are you taking any extra steps to provide protection for residents? One might suspect that the problem is going to get worse before it gets better.

SNIDER: I can't predict what may or may not occur as far as a violent crime. Those residents are within striking distance. We are saturating that area more on patrol, but we're also monitoring their frequency, so that if there is even a suspected walk-away, we're on top of it and maybe will save some time and enhance our opportunity to make an arrest.

RECORD: Earlier you alluded to joint dispatching between the city and township. Could you update us on the status of any joint agreements concerning the police departments?

SNIDER: My impression with the joint-services agreement that was being worked on was that there was increased opportunity to share services, reduce spending and progress was being made to do that. Agreement was readily reached on both sides.

Unfortunately, there was just a political shift that occurred with the city manager making a move and at the same time the supervisor was running for state representative, and it's just put it on hold. There's not any other reason. Everybody's got to get their own homes in order before we can move on to a shared services agreement.

I would suspect when everyone gets settled in, talks will resume. . . .

Cajunfest leaves frowns behind toilets were delivered Friday. She said the check had been deposited, but she did not know if it bounced.

Waste Management of Livonia was paid by a check for dumpsters it provided. Budweiser Central Distributing of Romulus was paid by check "in the neighborhood" of $500 for 10 kegs of beer used during the Cajunfest, a spokesperson said.

The Livonia branch of the Muscular Dystrophy Association was supposed to receive half the proceeds from the event. A spokesperson who refused to be named said MDA received a check for $1,000 from the Cajunfest promoters, as part of a prearranged deal.

The spokesperson said she "did not know the status of the check." MDA also supplied "manpower" to work booths and other facets of the three-day fest. Holley apparently reneged on a promise to pay those workers, she said.

The Northville City Police Department was one organization that was paid for its services. Police Chief Rod Cannon said Cajunfest organizers had requested two officers to work security for the duration of the festival.

Holley offered a check, but Cannon and City Manager Gary Word nixed that arrangement when the Northville Downs check news arose. Cannon removed his men from the Cajunfest detail and demanded cash payment for the $60 worth of time city police had accrued.

Cannon said he "saw this thing dying on the vine" early Friday afternoon.

Word said he "kind of knew they were going to have problems" by Friday afternoon, but said the city could do little but pull its security staff. "As far as I know, they met all the criteria we established for them," he said. "We're essentially talking about an event on private property."

The city council approved a permit for the Cajunfest at its Aug. 5 session. Holley listed five references in his permit request, which also said the Cajunfest would "bring multiple benefits... ranging from economical to social gains" to Northville.

When asked if city officials checked Holley's references, Word said, "No, not that I'm aware of."

One of Holley's references, Norfolk Festevents of Norfolk, Virginia, was well aware of Cajunfest. Promotions Director Kathy Conroy said Cajunfest drew huge crowds as part of a July 13 festival, but said Holley "was difficult to work with" and has ignored an Aug. 13 deadline for payment of a 10-percent vendor agreement, she said.

"They owe us a lot of money," Conroy said.

The telephone number of a second reference was not in service, and a third reference said a Cajunfest held in Alexandria, Virginia, "three or four years ago" was problem-free.

"But I made them pay cash upfront," said Loretta Wells, of the Alexandria City Department of Recreation.

Cannon said the city police have yet to receive a formal complaint from those who may have received bad checks from Cajunfest organizers. Police could pursue fraud charges against Holley and his band, but it likely would be a difficult chore, he said.

"The fly in the ointment is that they are out-of-state," he said.

At last report, Cajunfest was headed toward greener pastures in New York, carrying the theme on Holley's business card: "(Cajunfest) Bringing Louisiana's Best to You."

Mill Race Matters

Adopt-a-Tree Program: Many changes have been taking place at Mill Race Village — no, we haven't acquired any more buildings — the Yerkes hedge and Victorian Rose Garden, the rose planting around the Gazebo, and a lot of TLC around the village. Now that fall is almost here, the next phase of planting trees along the land and around the parking area is to start. We're hoping that a lot of our friends and supporters will want to "Adopt-a-Tree." Each tree will cost $250 — this includes the planting costs. All donors will be included in a special donor and/or memorial book. Every donor will select which tree they would like to sponsor. For more information contact Carolyn Stuart, 349-5462 or Sally, 348-1845.

Tivoli Fair: Please contact Jayne Murphy, 448-1748, if you would like to help on Tivoli Fair either on Friday, Sept. 27 or Saturday, Sept. 28. We need hostesses and tucker sellers. Also, if you would be willing to help with set-up and clean-up, call Sally at 348-1845.

Thank you to Par Orr and the Northville Library for the donation of a microfilm reader and microfiche reader for use in our Archives Room.

Visitors also unhappy

By MIKE TYREE
Staff Writer

At first glance, last week's Cajunfest '91 in Northville appeared to be a poorly promoted, misrepresented affair.

Visitors to Friday's Cajunfest '91 opening were anything but thrilled.

Northville Downs gates were to open at 4 p.m., but by 5:30, only three tents had been erected.

Visitors anxious for a taste of Cajun cooking spilled slowly but steadily into the Downs infield area. Most took one quick loop of the area and left.

Most of the Cajun delights — including the bulk of the seafood — had not found its way north by Friday evening. And Cajun musicians searched helplessly for missing wire leads to fire their instruments.

Organizers did not charge the $1 admission Friday because of the problems.

"How come you guys didn't get this better organized?" a woman angrily asked a Cajunfest crew member.

Northville residents Gene and Marilyn Kramer sampled a $5 plate of Cajun rice and sausage. Gene Kramer called the concoction "real tasty," but his wife said "we would not want to invite them back to Northville."

Another unhappy couple simply remarked: "We should just stand here and look at all the disappointed people."

Later in the weekend food did arrive and the musicians eventually were able to play. But the huge crowds predicted for the event never materialized.

Our Opinion

Police millage question vital for public safety

Tuesday's general election is of special import to Northville Township residents, and reaches far beyond the expected election of Georgina Goss as 35th District state representative.

It's police millage time, and township residents face the difficult task of choosing between a significant individual tax cut, or renewing 1.3921 mills for police operations.

The millage is expected to earn the police department about $624,000, and represents approximately 40 percent of the police budget. All the figures are significant, and a fundamental township theory — separating police operations from the township general-fund budget — is at stake.

We're well aware of increased assessments and mounting property taxes in the Northville area. We know the semi-annual tax bill-opening ritual can be a mind-boggling and frustrating experience.

But we also understand a bargain, and think township residents will be well-served voting YES in the Aug. 27 general election.

The police department maintains an air of competency and professionalism. Chief Chip Snider has stepped in and righted a ship that in the past has sometimes seemed rudderless, and township residents should acknowledge that progress.

Major crime is not common to Northville Township. For now, geography and the nature of the community shields it from the harsh reality of big-city crime. But urban sprawl carries with it the darker side of progress, and we think the police department is well-prepared to handle the changes that are in store for this community.

We agree with Snider when he says the department should reflect the community. His officers are highly-educated, salaries are competitive, the equipment is sound — all the things that an upscale community such as Northville should expect.

To pull the plug on a progressive police department simply does not make sense.

To be sure, the department will not take the brunt of a millage defeat. The burden likely would be cast upon the shoulders of all facets of township government. Some residents surely would like to see cuts in some areas. We just don't think this is the place to look for tax breaks or revenge against unpopular past township decisions.

The role of this department is to cruise subdivisions, watch over local businesses, investigate larcenies, and provide a sense of protection for township residents. We think they do their job well, and we wonder about the alternative. Would residents feel as secure with a potentially lessened police force in return for a 1.3921-mill savings?

Perhaps the most telling indicator of the police department's standing in this community is the fact that no individual or organization has stepped forward to speak against the millage. Other recent millage questions have been hotly contested. There seems to be none of that public ill will here. The police must be doing something right.

In exchange for voters' support, the police department should be especially mindful of current economic difficulties. The department may want to tighten its belt and refrain from pushing for every new bit of police equipment that rolls down the pike. Department personnel should also continue to seek high-profile status in the community by attending homeowners' association meetings, community events, and working with educators. Township police already have a good record in these areas; anything less would be a slip.

We can think of no plausible reason for voters to reject this millage. No scare tactics are needed to promote a yes vote; common sense is the key.

Bob Needham

It's not easy being Bob . . .

This hurricane business is just the final straw. All over creation, suddenly, somehow, for some unknown and unknowable combination of reasons, Bob is hot.

It's the in name. The ultimate non-trendy name, the primary reason I've enjoyed it all these years, suddenly gets trendy. Sheesh. What'll they think of next?

Like I said, Hurricane Bob put it over the top. All week I've been getting nasty starts from newspaper headlines: "Bob hammers coast," "Canada and U.S. pick up after Bob," and so on. But the trend was in full swing long before this.

There was, of course, the Bob commercial, where the guy named Bob feels like he owns the world because he's driving some certain brand of car or something. There was the latest Bill Murray movie, What About Bob?, where my name got me in to a sneak preview for free. There's Elmore Leonard's new book, Maximum Bob.

We could trace it all back a good deal further, from the old television show Love that Bob through The Bob Newhart Show and so on. But it's impossible to deny that recent months have seen an explosion of Bobness.

The silliness became an official trend the way all trends become official, through the release of a cutesy trade paperback book. I haven't bought it, but I've spent some time looking through The Bob Book while bumming around the bookstores. It's pretty interesting, at least to those of us with a Bob connection, although I don't think the publishers have another Official Preppy Handbook on their hands.

No, as trends go, I think the Bob trend will be a minor one, in spite of all the recent activity. And believe me, that recent activity has been more than enough. Bob this, Bob that. I'm getting tired of my own name.

It's gotten so bad I even thought about changing my name. Even a slight change might prove useful. My legal name, of course, is Robert. Problem is, Bob suits me best. Going by Robert is completely out of the question, and Rob just seems a little too energetic or something. Bobby invariably gets shortened, to, you guessed it.

So I'm sticking with Bob, at least for most purposes. But if you want, you can always call me Maximum for short.

Rebuttal on the tennis issue

I'm not a happy camper right now, folks.

Somebody who signs his name Dan Boland has taken exception to a column I wrote recently about the quality of my tennis game.

Loyal readers may recall that I wrote a week or so ago about an upcoming tennis match with my neighbor, Andy. During the course of that particular column, I recounted some of my greatest tennis conquests of the past — a list that included none other than the same Dan Boland who has taken exception to my recollection of history.

Ordinarily, trash like that which Boland has written would find its way immediately into my wastebasket. Unfortunately, those of us in the journalism business are obligated to abide by some Communist-inspired legislation commonly known as the "Fairness Doctrine."

As a consequence, I've decided to reprint his letter verbatim in the same approximate space and format in which my column originally appeared. And so, here it is.

Dear Phil:

Your tennis column/fantasy requires a response from at least one of us maligned in said fantasy. If I ever played and you were somewhere on the other side of the net, I didn't notice you.

What I do remember about your tennis skills is that I would have rated you no higher than third in the Jerome family — well behind your Dad and probably even behind (your brother) David, as bad as he was.

We often watched the Jerome family and enjoyed the laughter that accompanied your tennis outings at the high school. You guys had fun!

Northville was a tennis hotbed back in the '60s and '70s. It might be coming back as more people realize the pleasure and benefits.

The mecca of local tennis was the clay courts at Cass Benton. For 40 cents an hour, we had tennis from 9 a.m. to dark. The courts were always full, and some of the best in the Detroit area came out. We just gathered, and matches were spontaneous.

Some of the tennis-related items that stand out:

1. Rudy Hernando playing with us regularly at Cass Benton two years before he had two wins at Wimbledon.

2. Ian Wilson, Northville's open city champ at age 57, dying on the Fish Hatchery courts. Probably one of the finest men those of us who knew him will ever meet.

3. A group of people who had spent a week together in Miami preparing for the Orange Bowl football game, playing a "grudge" match on a Sunday morning at 7 a.m., complete with Northville Record coverage, announcers and 50 people attending. The "Orange Bowl" parade at the high school parking lot preceded the Dave Longridge/Bob Mandell duo losing to Ron Horwath and this writer, even though we gave them a four-game advantage.

4. Larry Fiest still playing at 82 years of age.

5. "Old Milt" and his daughter hitting a million balls a week at Cass Benton.

Northville has had some excellent high school players. I'd put Tom Long at the top. But there's a youngster named Schwagle up there now who might be as good.

Yours 'til the next insult, Dan Boland.

Thanks for the letter, Dan. You might be right. Maybe I didn't beat you. On the other hand, I'd be forever grateful if you could find it within the goodness of your heart to recall something about a hotly contested tie-breaker.

Finally, don't make me resort to another insult before hearing from you again.

Band deserves thanks, support

To the editor:

Recently I was disturbed to read in The Northville Record a letter critical of the Northville High School band for not having marched in the July 4th parade. How quick we are to criticize the band's absence at one event, yet how slow to acknowledge its presence at four other yearly parades (Homecoming, Santa, Memorial Day, Victorian Festival). I was very pleased to read Sherry Abramovich's subsequent well-written explanation of the band's absence on the 4th of July.

Now I would like to add my own sense of disappointment, certainly not in the band, but in the community of Northville, for its lack of support for this great group of kids. Four years ago, upon moving to this area and before having children at Northville High, my husband and I attended a band concert at the school. We were delighted with the evening's entertainment, but truly surprised by the poor attendance. In the years that have followed the attendance, unfortunately, has not improved. Band Director Mike Rumbell and his talented young musicians work very hard and never fail to give a fine performance, but how disheartening it must be for them, when the curtain opens, to look out at so few faces. Let us try this year to support and encourage their efforts by attending at least one of their several performances.

And yet the excellence of our high school's band program has not gone unnoticed. This year the Northville High School Jazz Ensemble has been honored with an invitation to take part in the Montreux Detroit Jazz Festival! On Monday, Sept. 2 (Labor Day), these 21 jazz musicians under the direction of Mike Rumbell, will perform from 1:15 to 2:15 p.m. at the Harmony House Pylon Stage near Ford Auditorium in the Hart Plaza area. Congratulations and good luck to them all! I plan to be there to enjoy and cheer their performance. I hope many of you will be there, too!

Township police deserve recognition

To the editor:

I am thrilled to see the Northville Township Police Department targeting establishments that sell alcohol to minors. The Township Police have taken a leadership role in discouraging adults to provide alcohol to minors. At the suggestion of the Northville Action Council, the police department presented the Township Board of Trustees with a Host Party Ordinance. The ordinance provides for legal action against an adult (legal definition: 17 years or older) who provides alcohol to any person under 17 years of age. The Township Board of Trustees swiftly and successfully passed the Host Party Ordinance. Several weeks later the Northville City Council unanimously passed the same ordinance. The ordinance is just one tool in the arsenal available to the police departments in fighting illegal consumption of alcohol. This positive initiative by the Northville Township Police Department should be recognized and fully appreciated.

Millage loss would hurt the city also

To the editor:

It is like having your little brother who has always been smaller and weaker suddenly grow up and become very important both from a protective and social standpoint. This, in reference to the coming vote on August the 27th, in the township for the police millage renewal.

The repercussions of a millage defeat would be felt in the city as well as in the township, for like your little brother, it sure at times provides a sense of well being to know that someone is looking after you, not necessarily in your back yard, but down the street.

Police protection provided by dedicated personnel cannot be readily replaced. In reality, all services of government must be of high quality, for the weakness of one reflects on the value of the other.

I believe all of the divisions of the township government should be congratulated on their dedication and progressiveness. Now, it is up to those who have the privilege to vote to sustain the effort.

Success of program due to community

To the editor:

The success of the Northville Library's Summer Reading Program, "Read on the Wild Side," was in large part due to the support of the Northville community. We are very appreciative of the help which came from the following Northville businesses: Crawford's Bakery, Perrin Souvenir Distributors, Goodtime Party Store (Custard Time) and M Care Health Center.

Also contributing to our program were Max and Erma's Restaurants and White Castle Restaurants. Talented performers and educators came from local and outstate sources to present weekly programs for Northville children at the library. A special thank you to our Northville program presenters, Mary Kay Pryce, Northville High School Choral Director, and Sherri Pingle, Education Director, Mayberry State Park.

We are especially thankful for the continued support of the Friends of the Northville Library who provide funding for programs and volunteers whenever they are requested and also parents who were here at the library and agreed to help when asked. Because these and many others care, children are provided with opportunities that the library would not otherwise be able to offer. Thank you, all of you!

Political scene sparks mixed feelings

To the editor:

Thirty-five years ago I came to Northville as a young teacher, and I have observed the political scene ever since with many mixed emotions:

1. Childish, immature behavior of the township vs. city and vice versa.

A small, half-sized township playing one-upmanship and a city gleefully satisfied with the racetrack money. A complete lack of cooperation with the recreation program (generally inadequate); no cooperation with long-range planning; four rather expensive departments of police and firemen that could easily and economically be one department; bickering over the cost and placement of a somewhat limited library facility. Now we again see a divisive action as to the handling of recyclable and waste materials.

2. Rampant growth is now the mode as we rush to become another Livonia.

The rationale being that if the land is taxed with well-to-do citizens, the taxes will then go down. But services always supersede taxes and they continue to jump up. The Super Sewer just encourages this growth and is probably the worst thing that could have happened to the township. We are told our property values will rise but no one seems to realize that if we were an island of tranquility within the megalopolis (Bloomfield Hills), our property would rise much higher.

3. The school system — which is quite good but not fantastic, considering the socio-economic educational base — portrays some duplicity by not mentioning the $4-million property owned on Six Mile. I thought for a school complex. Frankly, this was probably the smartest thing the board did years ago — but it should be mentioned as an asset and a parachute for the future.

4. Finally, the primary election just completed was disgusting to me with thousands of dollars spent in pursuit of a half-time job in Lansing. Georgina Goss could have given $10 bills to each promising voter and had money left over.

And look at the contributors. I can understand friends giving a $10-spot, but thousands from DeMatia, Friedman, Horowitz, Lafave, Park, and developers Greenspan, Jacobson. All these people have dealings with the township; I assume it's legal, but is it kosher? "Methinks something is rotten in Denmark." Whatever happened to the concepts of Lincoln, Washington, and Jefferson?

We should be angry, I think, and noisy. We should write letters and communicate our feelings. The victory has already been celebrated but the election has not been held. If I were younger, I would run a write-in campaign on the Democratic ticket, but in this area of a three-to-one Republican-Democratic ratio the chances are nil. I won't vote for Ms. Goss; perhaps I could vote for Abe, or maybe Elvis — he's out there somewhere; or perhaps I'll just write my name in.

Disgusted and disenfranchised.

Hotel tax is insanity for business

To the editor:

Insanity reigns — It is already difficult enough to sell Detroit as a convention site, corporate meeting and group tour destination. The one advantage Detroit has had was less expensive hotel rooms.

Currently, hotel guests are required to pay a 1 1/2-percent to 6-percent tax to cover the Cobo Hall expansion. Imposing an additional tax to subsidize Tiger Stadium would be insane.

Since occupancy rates are at an all-time low, how can anyone conceive of imposing further hardship on the hotel community?

I am a life-long resident of the Detroit area and I have never met a single person who stayed at a hotel after attending a Tiger game.

Tim Richard

It's the administration that counts

"I don't care who makes the laws," my hero Alexander Hamilton once said, "as long as I can administer them."

That visionary founding father and first Treasury secretary was a practical politician who made a point still valid today: Lawmakers can pass a ton of thoughtful legislation; but unless your administrators have the energy and resources to do the job, the laws are a waste of time and paper.

Particularly in modern Michigan, where our safety regulations are being shredded.

Think of Michigan's budget as an apple pie with three roughly equal pieces:

1. Social services — it's driven not by the Legislature but by the high divorce and soaring illegitimate birth rates. To Democrats, it's a source of votes, hence sacred. Even Gov. John Engler doesn't want to cut aid to families with dependent children.

2. Education — Democratic Gov. Jim Blanchard increased school and college aid. Republican Engler has made it such a sacred cow that even Democrats don't try to cut it in a recession.

3. Everything else — prisons, courts, state police, attorney general, labor regulations, business regulation, natural resources, public health, mental health, and so on.

Some parts of "everything else," such as prisons and courts, are leaping skyward faster than income and population growth.

But the regulatory side of government has been butchered, and it will get worse.

Engler and the GOP have visions of a $1-billion school property tax cut. Where will the money come from? "Everything else."

School districts (like Northville and Novi) are suing the state for categorical aid, and communities are suing for court support. If (when) they win, where will the money come from? "Everything else."

That third piece of pie was squeezed by Blanchard in the 1980s. Engler is squashing it in the '90s.

Let's play "connect the dots," the kids' coloring book game, to see the big picture:

● As more stringent anti-drunk driving laws are passed and signed, only one drunk driver in 3,000 is caught. Our 55 mph urban freeway speed law is a dangerous joke, thanks to the State Police shortage.

● MIOSHA, the state's occupational safety and health program, is targeted for zero by Engler.

● You read a year ago about the high accident rate in small auto-supplier plants, thanks in great part to the shortage of labor inspectors.

● Child care is a necessity for working moms and dads. But many parents fear state inspection of small facilities, in particular, is dangerously weak.

● Michigan's bridges and highways are being pulverized because we have the heaviest weight limits in the U.S. — 159,000 pounds for an 11-axle truck. Last week the University of Michigan reported some are carrying 230,000 pounds. Truckers in anonymous interviews say it pays to violate the law as long as they are caught only one time in 10.

● Michigan has seen an explosive growth of proprietary trade schools and an equally explosive growth in the minority that are financially shaky, incompetent and dishonest. But we've seen no explosive growth in the number of state regulators (three).

● Zippa-dee-day, we have a new "Polluters Pay" law — with little new in the way of natural resources regulators to make polluters pay.

● The attorney general's office, enforcer of laws for many state agencies, has taken a serious budget cut. And as for getting the AG to enforce the Open Meetings Act against sneaky local governments, that stopped 10 years ago.

Connecting the dots, one can see Michigan looking like a 1964 Corvair — unsafe at any speed.

Tim Richard reports regularly on the local implications of state and regional events.

If we all shared just a small part of the things we take for granted in life, we could take better care of the things which have become taken for granted in our community. Like conservation. The Arts. Or education.

Millions of people have helped establish five percent of their incomes Give Five.

What you get back is immeasurable and five hours of volunteer time per week as America's standard of giving. If we all reached this standard, we could generate more than $175 billion every year. With a force equivalent to 20 million full-time workers.

This year, make it your goal to give five. And help bring the curtain down on society's problems.

(Pre)school bells to ring

It's that time of year again. Time to start thinking about shopping for back-to-school stuff for the kids.

But residents with youngsters too young to begin kindergarten are faced with a tougher task than deciding between a Bart Simpson or Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtle lunchbox. They have to decide where to enroll their children in preschool.

To make the decision a little easier, we have compiled a list of local and area preschools, their locations, their requirements and their rates.

A GROWING PLACE

Location: Spirit of Christ Lutheran Church, 40700 W. Ten Mile, between Meadowbrook and Haggerty Roads.

Age group: Ages 2½ to 5 years
Rates: $85/week, $19/day, $13/half-day

Registration: Korene Jett, director, 471-2333

A Growing Place has been serving the Novi community for 12 years. The program emphasizes structured activities and free-choice play centers. Head teachers hold bachelor's degrees in early childhood education and are assisted by trained aides. All staff members have current CPR training. Student-teacher ratio is 1-6.

Nursery school for 4-year-olds is offered Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays from 1-3:30 p.m. Classes for 2½-3 year olds are Tuesdays and Thursdays from 1-3:30 p.m. Day care is offered year-round from 7 a.m. to 6 p.m.

THE CHILDREN'S ARK

Registration: Diane Miller, 349-2691

The Children's Ark opened its doors in Novi in September, 1983. Among its program offerings are preschool and day care.

Year-round preschool includes both full and half-day programs for children. Hours are from 6:30 a.m. to 6 p.m.

The program emphasizes language enrichment, communication and motor skills, attention training, social skills and beginning academics. Children are required to bring a lunch and a breakfast (if necessary).

Age Group: 3-5

Rates: $52-$85 per month for nine months, depending on the program

CHARLES AYERS

Appeals board stops zoning hardships

By DOROTHY NASH
Special Writer

"We're not there to allow people to skirt the law," commented Charles Ayers, who is chairperson of the Northville Board of Zoning Appeals, but "we do want to prevent the zoning ordinance from becoming a hardship."

Property owners, residential and business, appeal to the board for rulings and sometimes a variance of the zoning ordinance, he said, on an average of four cases a month.

"Packets go out to the board members two or three weeks in advance" with the encouragement that they need to at least look at the site.

Also, Ayers said, "Neighbors are specifically notified by letter."

Variances to the ordinance are sometimes granted, he admitted, in cases of construction done prior to the current zoning regulation or of undue hardship.

Construction done prior to current zoning ordinance would include buildings which were houses and now are business. The reason for appealing to the board is usually a matter of setback and parking.

Also construction done prior to the current ordinance could be fences which are near the sidewalk fronting residences. Repairs to the fence would be allowed, but construction of a similar new fence for the adjacent house would not be allowed.

One case of undue hardship was the location of a driveway. Trees would have to be cut down if the driveway were put in the logical place. So the board had to consider, "Is there an alternative way?"

Another problem is the sign in front of commercial property. A new sign has to be set back so many feet from the property line. However, a sign existing before the zoning ordinance is allowed closer to the sidewalk.

Serving on the Board of Zoning Appeals "is time-consuming," Charles Ayers said. He knows. He has been on it for 15 years.

Georgina Goss, Northville Rotary's first female president, will likely give up the position in September.

Wanted: Memories of the Victorian era

Do you remember the Victorian Era?

If so, The Northville Record wants to talk to you.

We are seeking people who can remember the year 1910 or earlier for a series of articles in connection with the Northville Victorian Festival. If you remember what life was like back then, please call Cristina Ferrer or Bob Needham at 349-1700.

You talk, and the whole town will listen.

Goss marks several firsts for Northville Rotary

By CRISTINA FERRIER
Staff Writer

Northville Township Supervisor Georgina Goss is the first-ever woman president of the Northville Rotary Club. She might also hold the record for the shortest term.

Goss, who has held the position of president since July 1, won the Aug. 6 primary race for the 36th District state House of Representatives seat. Because she faces no competition in the Aug. 27 general election, she will likely head for Lansing in September.

"It's only been about four years since women were allowed in the Rotary," Goss explained, recalling a 1988 court case that led to all-male groups opening to women.

"I think I was the second woman to come into the Rotary."

Members of the Rotary join by invitation. They must fulfill certain requirements and must represent a cross-section of the community.

Membership in the Rotary has led to hours of community service that Goss has found highly enjoyable and rewarding.

"Mainly, we have a hot dog stand, and we sell hot dogs at all the different events throughout the year," she said. "That money is used for scholarships, and different organizations and groups sometimes write us for donations."

But selling hot dogs is not the only thing they do. For example, last week several members volunteered their time to paint a school wall.

The Northville Rotary Club also maintains the historic Silver Springs well site on S. Main Street, in memory of longtime Rotarian Jan Reef.

Although Goss doubts she'll be able to continue her work as Rotary president once she begins her new position in Lansing, she said she still plans to continue her involvement with the organization.

"I was hoping to continue, but it looks like I will have to turn the presidency over to Mr. (Vice President Pat) Bradley," she said. "But I still want to be involved."

In doing so, Goss will join state Sen. Robert Geake, who also combines work in Lansing with community service through the Northville Rotary Club.

Local psychic hosts annual benefit for MDA

Whether tarot cards or the stars are your future-reading method of choice, Psychathon '91 has it.

Psychathon is a 36-hour parapsychology fundraising event to benefit the Muscular Dystrophy Association.

The other-worldly event begins Sunday, Aug. 25 at noon and runs through Monday, Aug. 26 at midnight.

Palm readers, psychics, handwriting analysts and numerologists will be on hand at the Novi Hilton on Haggerty Road north of Eight Mile Road.

The cost of $15 will cover short psychic readings by 60 Detroit-area parapsychologists.

Hosting the event is Diana, a Farmington Hills psychic who began the annual event.

Diana hosts and produces "The Shores of Your Mind" television show on MetroVision cable. The live program showcases Diana's talent as well as the gifts of her guests who range from handwriting analysts to American Indian medicine doctors.

Diana also works with police in criminal investigations. She said her most recent investigation was into the Nancy Ludwig case. Ludwig was an airline attendant who was killed in a Detroit hotel room.

Television appearances made by Diana include visits to the "Dayna" show, "Inside Edition," and "Kelly and Co."

She also has appeared on WJR, but Diana is probably most well known for her weekly appearances on the Savage and Steve morning radio program on WDFX.

The two radio anchors, Savage and Steve, will be in attendance at the Psychathon, as will Kevin O'Neill from WKQJ.

For those waiting to have their future read, Psychathon will feature a nightclub setting with a Galaxy of Stars performing live music, magic and comedy acts.

Psychathon is an annual event in its fourth year. Over the past three years the event has raised close to $20,000 for the Muscular Dystrophy Association.

"There's great interest in psychic and metaphysical events in this area and throughout the Midwest," Diana said.

"At previous Psychathons, we've had guests come from as far as Canada, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois, and they never leave disappointed."

The Muscular Dystrophy Association is a national voluntary health agency formed to conquer neuromuscular diseases that affect over one million Americans.

In the metro Detroit area, MDA funds patient and community services to support families that have been affected by muscular dystrophy. Research efforts also are supported locally.

New play featured at Wayne State

The Hilberry Theatre, part of Wayne State University's Department of Theatre, announces a new play for the 1991-92 season.

"Interrogating the Nude," a murder mystery-fantasy exploring the genesis of Marcel Duchamp's famous painting, "Nude Descending a Staircase," will fill the new play slot on the Hilberry Theatre's 1991-92 season, playing in repertory from Oct. 18 through Dec. 12.

The play, a sort of Dada-surreal work, is by Doug Wright, whose fictional murder mystery captures the whimsy and sinister wit of Duchamp, one of the most enigmatic and influential artists of the 20th century. Introduced at Lloyd Richards' Eugene O'Neill Summer Playwrights Conference in 1988 and produced by the Yale Repertory Theatre in 1989, "Interrogating the Nude" won the HBO Playwriting Award and the Charles MacArthur Award. It is scheduled for publication by Heinemann Books.

"Interrogating the Nude" will join Feydeau's classic French farce, "A Flea in Her Ear," in the opening weeks of the fall repertory. Later additions will be Shakespeare's "Julius Caesar," Christopher Hampton's "Les Liaisons Dangereuses," Bernard Shaw's "Arms and the Man," A.R. Gurney's "The Cocktail Hour," and Frank Galati's stage version of John Steinbeck's novel "The Grapes of Wrath." The season runs from Oct. 4 through May 16.

FALL FESTIVAL: The annual Plymouth Community Fall Festival was started by the Plymouth Rotary Club in 1956. Over 35 years ago the local Rotary Club had the idea to host a community picnic at a neighborhood park to raise funds for playground equipment for that park. The Rotarians banded together and served 500 chicken dinners at Hamilton Park (Wing Street and Harding Street).

While the Plymouth Rotary Chicken Dinner has grown in size over the years, the one day community picnic has grown into a full blown four-day event. The four-day event now serves the needs of many Plymouth community non-profit organizations.

This annual event (since 1956) will take place between Thursday, Sept. 5 through Sunday, Sept. 8. City officials expect several thousand visitors in the town of Plymouth during the event.

DANCE: Sunday nights will no longer be boring in the motor city. CIMX radio and Tremors nightclub in Livonia team up to bring you Club Cutting Edge. Every Sunday, radio station CIMX, 89-FM, travels to Tremors to throw the biggest party to be found anywhere on a Sunday night.

Tremors' DJ Jimmy Stoddard spins a wide variety of rock, pop, house, industrial, hardcore, punk and new wave dance tracks.

The Cutting Edge began Sunday, July 14, and continues each and every Sunday, 7 p.m. to close.

CONTEST: The first annual Mr./Ms. Michigan Physique Contest will be held at the Holiday Inn-Fairlane, Saturday Sept. 7 at 8 p.m. Door proceeds will be donated to the Make a Wish Foundation of Michigan.

Contestants must be between the ages of 18-35 years of age. Males and females will be judged separately. Marital status is unimportant. Contestants will appear in "After 5" attire and in swimsuit attire on stage before a panel of judges.

Prizes include crowns, a banner, cash, gift certificates, a trophy, and a royal cape.

CROSSROADS

The Michigan chapter of the American Society of Travel Agencies (ASTA) met at the Botsford Inn in Farmington last week.

All your local travel industry professionals were there, travel agents like Ellen Worthy and Darlene Leader of Brighton, plus industry reps from airlines, cruise lines, convention bureaus.

Abraham Over of KLM's Southfield office (known to his friends as "Bram") announced that KLM has applied for permission to fly from Detroit to the Netherlands, "Hopefully by January 1."

Carolina Miranda of USAir's Southfield office had good news: you can change USAir's "non-refundable" tickets for a $75 penalty.

I met Victor Szymanski of AAA whose voice you hear on WJR radio. Megan Parks of the Metropolitan Detroit Convention and Visitors Bureau, newly hired to attract individual tourists to Detroit. Kate Rosevear of Suncoast Travel in Plymouth, who specializes in condo rentals.

Joe Hallissey of Hallissey Travel Service Inc., former national president of ASTA, warned agents to check the state Commerce Department about being relicensed to sell insurance, because of changes in the law.

That's what industry associations are for — to spread the word.

Here's a word you may not have heard: if you buy a cruise at a rate designed for Florida travelers only, you may be caught in the spot check made at the gangplank and forced to pay a higher rate. Stick with your Michigan travel agents.

The two main agenda items were the introduction of new officers and a seminar on cruises. The new president is A. Carlene Howe, General Manager of Hudsons Travel Service in Southfield. Her officers: First Vice-president Gloria Schuler of Morely's Travel Service in Saginaw; 2nd VP Dean Markwardt, president of Suburban Travel in Rochester Hills; Secretary Joan Brooks, District Manager of Carlson Travel in Farmington Hills; and Secretary Dena Noonan, Vice President of Royal Oak Travel.

Carlene attended Margaret Thatcher's launch of the new Regal Princess in New York City Aug. 9 and thinks it's a great cruise experience, more cabins with moderately priced balconies. It started sailing last weekend out of the Everglades.

Here are some newsy tidbits from local cruise reps who were part of the ASTA seminar:

Lori Purcell of American-Hawaii Cruises: "Free upgrades if you book before Sept. 30. Our packages of three days at sea and four days on land are still the best way to see Hawaii. The Nov. 3 and Dec. 7 cruises commemorate the 50th anniversary of Pearl Harbor."

Randi S. Hoffmann of Premier Cruise Lines, known as the "BIG RED Boat" or sometimes the Micky Mouse boat because it is associated with Walt Disney World, specializes in families and has theme park characters aboard for the kids: "We've extended our special so you can get a free upgrade at Walt Disney World through December 20 or a discount on a cabin."

Premiere sails out of Port Canaveral with three ships; the Majestic was formerly the Love Boat.

Maureen Morrell of Norwegian Cruise Lines: "The Sunward Two has been sold. In October we launch the new Sunward, formerly the Royal Viking Sky."

Patty Crichton of Holland American and Windstar: "We expect Alaska to be even bigger next year than it was this year. Detroit is the number one source of passengers for Holland America."

When asked how you get seated at the captain's table, Patty said "don't expect to sit with the captain on our Alaska cruises. The passages are so treacherous that the captain is always on the bridge."

Horse-drawn wagon is the preferred mode of transportation in Shaker Village in Pleasant Hill, Kentucky

Traveling back to the 19th century Kentucky's Shaker Village preserves a kinder, gentler life

By ELEANOR BREITMEYER
Travel Writer

Every time I pick up a broom to sweep my kitchen I will think of this 2,700-acre farm community built by the Shakers before the Civil War.

It was the Shakers, a dissident sect of the Quakers, who first crafted the corn broom, along with the clothes pin, cutnail, washing machine and circular saw.

The Shakers are gone but you can still eat, sleep and tour your way through their 19th century life here in Shaker Village in Pleasant Hill, Kentucky.

Mares and colts grazed the countryside, beside black Angus cattle and Border Leicester sheep, when we drove to the neatly-stacked fieldstone fences of the village. An interpreter in an ankle-length cotton dress and white net cap welcomed us, gave us a brief introduction to Shaker life and sent us to explore the 30 original structures built here in the early 1800s.

The limestone, brick and clapboard buildings, set off by white picket fences, are furnished with a stunning collection of 2,500 pieces of Shaker furniture and tools. A friendly guide spun the Shaker story in the 40-room Centre Family Dwelling. An illiterate textile worker called Ann Lee led eight dissidents, seeking religious freedom, from the English factory town of Manchester to the New World in 1774. The United Society of Believers in Christ's Second Appearing settled outside Albany, New York, and eventually built 18 colonies stretching from Maine to Indiana.

The Shakers' goal was to create utopia on earth by practicing celibacy, renouncing worldly possessions, living in communes in a spirit of racial and sexual equality.

By 1830, the Pleasant Hill community was a thriving place with 500 residents and some 5,000 acres of land. Two separate doorways lead into the Centre Family Dwelling — one for women, the other for men. Men and boys slept on one side of the house, women and girls on the other.

"Did anyone ever cheat?" I asked.

"The elders dusted the hallways with flour, so cheaters would leave footprints behind," the guide said.

"If the Shakers were celibate, how did the community grow?"

"They took in orphaned children and a few converts from the area. When the children became 21, they could decide whether to leave or stay."

Our next stop was at the white frame Meeting House, where a costumed interpreter directed us to a bench, then burst into song. The brothers and sisters of the congregation cleansed themselves of carnal desires by singing and dancing. They shook themselves so violently that they shook the sins out of their bodies.

Shakers worked from sun-up to sundown, as their songs were dedicated to worship and work. That work is still visible in the buildings scattered around Shaker Village. Women card and spin wool, make quilts, dip candles, dry herbs for medicines, and weave fabrics and rugs. Men make shoes, flat brooms, shaped oval boxes, barrels and cabinets.

The Shakers sold seeds, brooms, herbs and preserves as far away as St. Louis and New Orleans until the Industrial Revolution and the Civil War weakened their thriving community.

The number of converts and orphans dwindled. By 1910, the 12 remaining Shakers deeded their last 1,800 acres to a merchant in nearby Harrodsburg, who looked after them until the last member died in 1923.

The village was deteriorating badly when a preservation group formed in 1963. Today this outdoor history museum flourishes as a monument to a people who believed that perfect craftsmanship reflected their spiritual beliefs.

Twentieth century visitors can see their hand-crafted chairs hung in pegs on the walls of rooms where they once lived; pegs keep them free of dust and makes it easier to sweep the floor.

Shaker men and women dined in silence on identical food served in separate rooms. We ate on the same rough-hewn tables, where dinner is served family-style in the former Trustees Office. The meal was bountiful, sumptuous and nicely served by young costumed waitpersons.

We spent the night in one of the 83 guest rooms scattered in 15 buildings on the grounds. The room was large, comfortable and air-conditioned, with private bath. It was furnished with pieces from the Shaker collection.

We wound up the evening down by the pond skipping stones and watching a mother duck and her brood bobbing about the water.

Visitors also can hike or drive to Shaker Landing on the Kentucky River, where the foundations of Shaker warehouses still stand, and take a one-hour tour on the paddle-wheeler Dixie Belle.

For information, contact Shaker Village, 3500 Lexington Road, Harrodsburg, KY 40330 or telephone (616) 734-5411. Admission is $7.50 adults, $4 children. Accommodations are $50 to $65 for two people.

Furniture reflects Shakers' lifestyle

They sang and danced and shook the evil out of their bodies.

They built a community on celibacy, dooming it to extinction.

People said they were a little crazy. But the qualities espoused by the Shakers are exactly the qualities that travelers are looking for in the late 20th century.

That's why people go to Shaker Village in Pleasant Hill, Kentucky, and value the simple lines of their hand-crafted furniture.

Bill and Betty Murphy of Northville are Friends of Shakertown and have visited the village many times.

"There isn't much entertainment but it is very relaxing," Betty said. "Shaker Village is absolutely beautiful. It's on top of a hill and out in the country."

Judy Poole of Novi stayed overnight at Shaker Village two years ago and had the same feeling. There were a lot of people there but it didn't feel crowded."

"There is something wonderful about walking around the top of a Kentucky mountain after the crowds have gone home." That's Joy Hillbrand of Livonia.

"We love the idea of staying in an historic place that is both clean and charming. Stay overnight. Imagine what it would be like to stay in Greenfield Village overnight."

Amy Crumm of Canton worked in a Shaker shop in Ann Arbor several years ago, and learned about Pleasant Hill from a guide book. "We love to go in the early spring to get away from the drab chilly weather in Michigan. The spring wildflowers are out there."

Charlie Jarrait was the only local finalist to put his $1-million shot on the green.

Four local golfers try for $1 million

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN
Staff Writer

Nobody won a million dollars, but more than $42,000 was raised at the Ronald McDonald Children's Charities Million Dollar Hole-In-One Shoot Out last weekend at Country Club Village in Northville Township.

The nine-day event culminated on Aug. 18 when 40 finalists — including four Northville residents — had one chance from 175 yards to win the million dollars. It didn't happen, but Jim Skender from Dearborn Heights did put his tee-shot just 7-feet, 9-inches from the pin to win a Volkswagen Fox, while the other top five finalists were awarded everything from diamond earrings to a suite at the Palace for Pistons games.

Northville residents Ivan Jimenez and Douglass Sherwood provided much of the early excitement when they fired holes-in-one during the preliminary rounds a week earlier.

Sherwood's ace came on the open day (Aug. 10) and Jimenez's the next day. Other local golfers to qualify for the finals included Stephen Dixon (16% inches from the pin on Aug. 11) and Charlie Jarrait (11% inches on Aug. 12), both of Northville. None of the locals placed in the top five in the finals.

During the preliminary rounds, a total of nine golfers notched holes-in-one, including Skender. John Kennelly of Rochester Hills didn't make it to the finals, but that didn't stop him from plopping down $25 and firing 23 balls at the pin on Aug. 16.

"This is a riot," he said afterwards. "I think this is a great idea because it looks like they are raising a lot of money for a good cause."

"I was hitting a wedge and a couple of them were inside of 10 feet, but it wasn't enough."

The event was open to amateur golfers only. During the preliminary rounds (Aug. 10-17), entrants paid $5 for three golf balls and $1 for each additional ball. The five individuals closest to the pin each day qualified for the finals.

The three holes used for the qualifying rounds each measured about 110 yards and all three sported water from tee to green. They will eventually be holes number 1, 6 and 8 when the new layout at the Country Club Village course is completed.

"People are coming from all over," spokesperson Tom Bell said. "As the competition continues, we are finding that more and more people are coming out. People are showing up in droves and it gets real hectic in the evenings. And during the day, you find a lot of businessmen coming out during their lunch breaks."

Bell reported that more than 22,000 golf balls were dredged from the water on the three holes as of Aug. 16. Daily prizes, like airline tickets and jewelry, were also awarded during the preliminary rounds.

Every shot that made it to the green was measured from the pin during the finals on Aug. 18.

Former Novi star goes pro

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN
Staff Writer

Playing minor league ball for the St. Louis Cardinals' Class A affiliate is a long way from competing for Novi High. For Jeff Tanderys, it took nearly five years and a stint at the University of Michigan before he finally got a shot at professional baseball.

The former Wildcat All-Stater was drafted by the Detroit Tigers right out of high school, but chose to attend U-M on a full-ride athletic scholarship. Unfortunately, some arm troubles scared the pro scouts away and Tanderys was not drafted again when his college eligibility was exhausted this spring.

Just when it looked like a lifelong dream had been shattered, the Cardinals offered Tanderys a free agent contract and assigned him to Hamilton, Ont., to play for the Class A Redbirds.

"I'm pretty sure my shoulder troubles had an effect on turning the scouts away," Tanderys said by phone from Hamilton. "But I'm not worried about not getting drafted. I'm just happy to get a chance — that's really all I wanted."

Tanderys was an All-Conference quarterback on the Novi football team and the starting point guard on the basketball team, but he was a prep superstar in baseball. He set virtually every school pitching record and a slew of hitting marks for the Wildcats before graduating in 1987.

"Sometimes, when I think back to high school, it seems like 100 years ago," he said. "But it has been almost five years, which is a long time. I have a lot of fond memories."

Choosing between the Tigers and the Wolverines would be a tough decision for any 18-year old, but looking back, Tanderys is confident he made the right choice.

"It was the right way to go," he said.

"The way I look at it, unless you're a top pick and get offered a lot of money, college is the way to go."

"I'm only eight credits away from getting my degree (in sports management and communications), and I plan to go back and finish up this fall unless (the Cardinals) send me to the instructional league."

Tanderys' college career had its ups and downs. He led all first-year pitchers in victories as a freshman, but suffered through a scandal that rocked the baseball program and resulted in NCAA probation and the resignation of head coach Bud Middaugh. And the right shoulder bothered him on and off for nearly three years.

So when the 1991 draft came and went, it was yet another setback. But former major league catcher Ted Simmons — who is in charge of player development for the Cardinals — kept tabs on Tanderys and questioned him about the shoulder on June 10. He obviously liked what he heard because five days later, Tanderys reported to Hamilton.

The Redbirds are currently more than halfway through a grueling 78-day, 80-game summer schedule and sit in last place with a 17-24 mark. Tanderys has appeared in nine games with six starts and sports an impressive 4-1 record with a 3.15 earned run average. In 45% innings of work, Tanderys has allowed 37 hits and 19 walks, and has fanned 25.

"It's what I thought it would be," Tanderys said. "My shoulder feels pretty good so far. Maybe it's behind me — I don't know."

Tanderys rooms with four teammates and is finding life in Hamilton — a city of 320,000 people located west of Toronto — very similar to a typical city in the Midwest. His monthly salary is just $850.

"The city is not bad," he said. "The price of everything is astronomical — that's been the biggest adjustment."

In June, Tanderys was the No. 4 starter in a five-man pitching rotation, but in July he was relegated to long relief.

"I got back into the starting rotation when our No. 1 pick was called up," Tanderys explained. "That happened Aug. 2."

Tanderys does not have any specific long-term goals other than getting his degree from U-M.

"As far as pro ball goes, I'm just taking it one day at a time," he said.

Northville's Nelson receives EMU award

Northville resident Jim Nelson — chairperson of the Health and Physical Education Department at Henry Ford Community College — was named Eastern Michigan University's Alumni Golfer of the Year.

Nelson was honored at the EMU Alumni Golf Outing at the Huron Golf Club. He is the fourth person named golfer of the year by the EMU Alumni Association. Nelson earned his bachelor's degree from Eastern in 1971, a master's degree in '72, and was EMU men's golf team coach from 1972 to 1985.

In 1980, Nelson was named Mid-American Conference Co-Coach of the Year and in 1981 his squad finished second in the conference. During his coaching career, Nelson's teams produced two NCAA Tournament qualifiers.

Nelson also served as president of the Mid-American Conference Golf Coaches Association from 1979-85 and was named to the NCAA District IV selection committee in 1979. He was the chairperson of the committee in 1983.

Nelson, 43, began as an instructor at Henry Ford in 1985 and has served as chairperson of the Health and Physical Education Department for the last two years. A native of Lincoln Park, Nelson lives in Northville with his wife Marian and daughter Laura.

Soccer team excels in summer tourneys

Rather than splitting up in the off-season and playing for a number of different teams, the Northville High School girls soccer players decided to form one squad and play together all summer.

Called the Northville Sting and competing in the Little Caesar's Under-19 division, the team proved to be a big success. The summer season culminated on Aug. 11 when the Sting placed second in a six-team under-18 tournament held in Kitchener, Ont.

The locals, under coach Harve Rossing, won the first four games of the Mutual International Kitchener Tournament before falling 4-3 in double overtime in the finals to The Guelph (Ont.) Royals. The wins came against King City (4-1), Milton (4-2), Kitchener (3-1) and Milton Youth (3-0).

On Aug. 3, the team traveled to Okemos to participate in the Great Lakes State Games and finished in first place. The following players are on the roster: Renee Androsian, Mary Pat Bahl, Wendy Carroll, Amy Goode, Tracy Jambor, Kathy Kozler, Beth MacLean, Suzi Morton, Karen Saydak, Valerie Schuerman, Karen Schwartz, Angie Snyder and Laura Whiteley.

The Northville team is looking forward to the upcoming Troy Soccer City Classic over Labor Day Weekend and the Oakland Marriott Soccer Classic on Sept. 21-22.

BOB DUDLEY

Former Northville football standout BOB DUDLEY is beginning his second season as a defensive lineman at Bowling Green State University in Ohio. The Falcons began preparations for the 1991 season on Aug. 4, with the first day of practice in full gear scheduled for 10 days later. Bowling Green opens the season on Aug. 31 against Mid-American Conference rival Eastern Michigan.

Former Novi football and wrestling great BRETT KEIR is preparing to begin his senior season as a starting defensive lineman for Washburn University of Topeka, Kan.

Keir, a 6-foot, 270-pounder, is a two-year team captain who started all 10 games as a junior. He was third on the team with 31 solo tackles and 21 assists, and led the Division II Ichabods with three fumble recoveries and four sacks.

"Brett is the nucleus of our defensive line," Washburn Coach Dennis Caryl said. "He has great strength and quickness, and is one of the better tackles we've had at Washburn. He understands our defense and should cause a problem for our opponent's offense. We expect him to perform like an all-conference tackle." Keir, the son of David and Carol Keir of Novi played two seasons at Grand Rapids Junior College before joining the Ichabods.

Young bowler seeks professional stardom

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN
Staff Writer

Jason Johnson may be just 14, but he already has his dream career planned out.

Numerous youngsters want to become professional athletes, but when Jason says his ultimate goal is to be a pro bowler, he has the credentials to back it up. Johnson may already be the state's best 14-year-old bowler.

"I'd like to eventually be a professional bowler," he admits. "Most people say I have a good chance, but I'm not kidding myself—I know it will be hard."

Johnson will start his freshman year at Novi High School this fall, but he is already a veteran around area bowling alleys. He plans to compete in three leagues this season in addition to his part-time job at Novi Bowl. He first started bowling at the tender age of 6, with instruction from his father, Jerry Johnson, also an accomplished bowler.

"Bowling takes up a lot of my time, but I really like it," Jason said. "My dad is a real good bowler—he's had two 300 games. He got me started as a kid and I liked it. I was pretty good and that spurred me on."

Unlike most bowlers, Jason is left-handed. But it hasn't hampered his game—it's actually been an advantage.

"There aren't many lefties, but that's good," he explained. "The oils on the lane don't break down as fast so the conditions are more consistent. It makes things a bit easier."

The 1990-91 season was a smashing success for Johnson. Competing in the Junior Male Division (ages 12-15), Johnson won a number of city and state honors. He was named captain of the Greater Detroit Young American Bowler's Association All-City team and led the squad with a 212 average. From the Michigan State Young American Bowler's Association, Johnson was selected as a member of the All State team and boasted the squad's best average.

When he's not at Novi Bowl, you can probably find Jason at Drake-shire Lanes in Farmington. Last season, he participated in the Sunday Youth Classic League for 10-19 year olds and traveled to 13 different bowling alleys during the season and carried a 193 average. In the Monday Doubles League at Drake-shire, Johnson averaged 212 with a 762 series and a high-game of 290.

On Aug. 10-11, Johnson entered his first Michigan Junior Masters Association Tournament, held at Lodge Lanes in Belleville, and placed in the top 12 in a field of 150.

Q My husband and children are all Catholics but I have never formally joined the faith. May I still be buried with my family at All Saints Cemetery?

A Our cemeteries are for Catholics and all members of their families. So, of course, you may be buried with your family. And to ensure that you will all be together, we suggest that you and your family choose a family site, now, before it is needed. At our All Saints and Resurrection locations, we offer lower rates (as much as 20% lower) on family plots. We also allow time payments, credit card purchases and refunds on unused sites should you change your mind or move away. For more information on All Saints or any of the four Catholic cemeteries in the Mt. Elliott Cemetery Association, please call 623-9633.

Doctors agree that working on a computer with a video display terminal will cause eyestrain and fatigue.

Keeping an eye on computers

When you were a kid, your mom told you not to sit too close to the TV — it's bad for your eyes.

Now you're an adult and you spend your working days with your nose — and your eyes — just inches from what looks amazingly like a television screen.

Doctors agree that working on a computer with a video display terminal will cause eyestrain and fatigue. But for most people, computers are an unavoidable blessing — and evil.

Optometrists don't necessarily see eye-to-eye on the situation.

"Quite a few people have problems using computers all day long. The problem with a computer is that it emits ultra-violet radiation," said Dr. Arnold Sokol of Novi Vision Clinic.

Sokol said that he advises patients who wear glasses to spend the extra $20 to $25 for a special coating on their lenses which will cut down down by almost 100 percent the amount of ultra-violet radiation reaching the eyes. Tinted lenses can also be helpful, he said.

People who wear contact lenses — or don't need any corrective lenses at all — can still benefit by wearing non-prescription lenses with the coating.

"For people who use computers eight hours a day, it's an investment for them," Sokol said.

He also recommends an annual eye examination.

On the other hand, Dr. Arnold Miles, a Detroit optometrist says studies have shown that people may need the ultraviolet light for their overall health and well-being.

Miles compares the difficulties experienced with computer operators to the adjustment problems undergone by workers at the onset of the industrial revolution.

"The emphasis should be you should not blame the computer for your problem. It's typical with a new procedure," he said.

He agrees with Sokol that computer operators need a regular eye examination. Miles also recommends a computer with a control to adjust the brightness level, a glare screen to eliminate reflections and a chair with a good back support. It's also crucial to position the computer screen below eye level.

"If you look up, it's a strain on the muscles. It's a muscle problem that produces a nervous fatigue that could lead to headaches," he said.

The environment in which you use the computer counts, too.

"The room should be well-lit. The person shouldn't work with a computer in a darkened room because when the eyes look away from the computer, they dilate. When they look at the computer, they need to focus and that is fatiguing," Miles said.

"The person who does computer work all day long should look away from the screen every 15 minutes. Look off to a distance, that helps to relax the eye muscles."

Glasses wearers can have a prescription made especially for computer work. Reading glasses are fitted to provide a 13-inch vision range, but computers need a 16- to 30-inch range to accommodate reading the material the operator is entering into the system, as well as the display screen.

"Near-sighted persons need weaker glasses for doing close work. If you're doing computer work, use your old glasses for that," he said.

While preventing eye strain is better than relieving it once it happens, Miles recommends cold compresses and massaging temples for fatigued eye. But don't rub your eyes, he added, that's how infections are picked up.

Dr. Martin Levin of Northville Vision Clinic advises people who use adjustable computer screens to find the display typeface color and brightness that seems comfortable.

He also suggests a slight tint in the lenses for glasses wearers which will complement the selected display color — perhaps a light gray.

It's questionable how much ultra-violet radiation is emitted by a computer screen, Levin said.

"It's important if you can look up every 15 minutes and look across the room and focus for five minutes. That helps a lot. It's more uncomfortable to look at a bright display than reading," he added.

"It seems to be a universal complaint."

Myrna Partrich/Fitness

Set realistic exercise goals, then meet them

Dear Myrna: I'm a discouraged exerciser. I must have started and stopped exercising more times than anyone I know. I have gotten to the point where I'm embarrassed to tell my friends I exercise at all. I have tried everything — started exercise with many friends who are still loving it. I set goals, but I'm running out of patience.

How are you setting these goals and what time period do you allow yourself to accomplish your goals?

You might be too hard on yourself. It is far better to set realistic goals and double or triple the time in which you expect to reach them, than to aim too high and feel as though you might have failed and then quit again.

This leeway of time allows you an occasional pat on the back as a reward for meeting small goals on the way up.

Why don't you talk with an exercise professional and decide what your goals are realistically?

Decide what type of exercise will fit your lifestyle.

How about a brisk 10 minute walk every third, maybe add one minute every first day till you reach 20 minutes?

You'll start to feel accomplished without much effort. This is much better than to have set too high of a goal.

It might be best not to share this long range goal with your friends

Wait until you feel accomplished and please don't get discouraged.

Myrna Partrich, co-owner of The Workout Company of Bloomfield Township and a member of the President's Council on Physical Fitness, is happy to answer any questions readers may have regarding exercise. Please send those questions to: Sports Department, 805 E. Maple, Birmingham, 48009

REAL ESTATE

Rules get tight for appraisers

By James M. Woodard
Copley News Service

Establishing a realistic market value for homes or other real property has become a difficult challenge. It's a particularly tough time for real estate appraisers.

Since 1986, property values have been on a roller-coaster ride in many areas of the country—especially in East and West Coast regions. Values increased sharply until 1989, sometimes rising from 1 to 2 percent per month.

In 1990, values stabilized, then started dropping in many areas. In a typical case, a property might have almost doubled in value between 1986 and '89. Then in the past couple of years, its value might have dropped back to near its '86 level.

"In recent months, values have again stabilized," said Harold C. White, SRA, an appraiser for 30 years. "The problem we, as appraisers, now face is a lack of comparables in the area. There just haven't been enough significant sales to establish a solid base for determining current values of comparable properties."

White has an uneasy feeling about the future direction of property values. Values and sales of residential properties traditionally peak during summer months. But nothing much is happening in the current market, he said.

"I've lived and worked through many cycles, seeing property values rise and fall. But the immediate future is really difficult to predict," White commented.

To make things more confusing for appraisers, a new federal law will require them to be state licensed or certified by the end of this year to appraise properties for federally related transactions. To be so licensed or certified, appraisers must meet experience, education and examination requirements.

Reflecting familiar bureaucratic style, the new license-certification procedures for appraisers are complicated. For starters, appraisers must decide whether they want to apply for a (1) license, (2) provision-

Freesia 2 combines family room and kitchen

By James McAlexander
Copley News Service

A combination family room and kitchen is the heart and soul of the Freesia 2, a home with areas to accommodate both individual privacy and family living.

While definitely designed with a growing family in mind, with the luxurious master suite on the main floor it could also fill the bill for empty nesters. Once the kids have moved away, living can be confined largely to the ground floor, leaving the upstairs ready for grandchildren and other guests. An oversized walk-in linen closet is located right at the top of the stairs.

The wide, sunny, half-octagon-shape eating nook is the focal point of the spacious family room, offering unimpeded views of the back yard, side yard and deck. Glass doors that open onto the deck bring even more light into the area. This room can accommodate quite an array of furniture and equipment—couches, a bigscreen television, entertainment and/or computer center, an exercise bike or even a pool table.

In the kitchen, fresh herbs snipped from the garden window can go directly into meals being prepared. A range and oven are built into the long eating bar, convenient for serving meals in a hurry.

As for the master suite, the combined space of the huge walk-in closet, dressing room with vanity and water closet are almost equal in size to the sleeping area. And the sleeping area is not small. Room enough here for a desk or sewing machine and a couch or a couple of easy chairs. Glass doors provide access to the deck.

The living room and dining room are bright, each with its own wide bay window looking out onto the long wraparound porch. Nearly totally enclosed, these rooms can be as formal or as relaxed as their owners.

Open to the second story, the high entry foyer sets a tone of gracious formality. A railed stairway sweeps up the right side, leading to the bedrooms on the second floor. Access to the basement is below the stairs, to the back, and a half-bath is located conveniently close to the front door.

A laundry chute from the second floor feeds into a utility room that is actually right at the center of the home. Busy people will appreciate the convenience of being able to tend to their laundry while fixing dinner or relaxing in the family room afterward.

For a study plan of the Freesia 2 (330-62), send $7.50 to Landmark Designs, c/o HomeTown Newspapers, 323 E. Grand River Ave., Howell, MI 48843. (Be sure to specify plan name and number when ordering.) Designers, architects and readers with plans they would like to see featured also are invited to contact Landmark.

Satellite TV is here and ready to assault your senses

By RICK BYRNE
Copy Editor

It was Captain Kirk of the old "Star Trek" TV series who called space the final frontier.

In the world of television, that would seem to be true, at least when it comes to satellite TV.

Orbiting the Earth, there are roughly 20 satellites, each capable of broadcasting 24 different signals. A satellite system can offer you over 125 different television channels. And you thought you were in good shape because you were getting Nick at Nite from your cable system.

With a home satellite system, you can pick up all the same channels your local cable company offers — and all the ones it doesn't. Did you know, for example, that there are music channels besides MTV and VH-1?

If you're not satisfied with the sports offerings from ESPN and PASS, there are the SportsVision and Sportsvue channels not often seen in this area. You can even watch live bullfights from Mexico if you're an aficionado.

"Sports are one of the biggest offerings," said Gus Semaan, partners with Cliff Engerer at Advanced Satellite in Northville Township. "There's a lot of sports programming out there."

There are religious channels and adult movie channels. Educational channels are available, and schools are rapidly beginning to tap into them as a cheap and ready source of information. Schools may choose programming — such as foreign language studies, for example — which is supplied by corporations like General Motors.

"I'd say, comparing apples to apples satellite is about 50 to 75 percent less than comparable cable programming."

Anything you can receive on your current broadcast or cable system can be picked up on a satellite system. Some 85 to 100 channels are available for free, and 15-20 scrambled stations are available on a subscription basis from various wholesalers. Industry experts estimate that in five years, there will be some 200 channels, the majority of them free and unscrambled.

Such popular "basic" stations as CNN Headline news, ESPN and MTV are scrambled, as are premium movie channels like HBO and Showtime. Their use may be purchased in various combinations from wholesale clearinghouses. However, these clearinghouses are the same companies that provide basic and premium channels to your cable company.

Now any good shopper knows that you get the real bargains when you buy wholesale. The same is true with satellite television transmissions. Wholesalers will deal by the month, quarter or year at rates below what cable companies charge for their "basic" service. Their prices are also lower for pay-per-view first-run movies.

What's more, you get your choice from among 12 to 16 wholesalers, so you can shop the best price for the channels you want.

Cable, on the other hand, doesn't offer you a choice of companies. Each community has one supplier, and that's it.

"We have about 12-16 wholesale programming clearinghouses available in this area," said Semaan. "They compete for customers. I've been in the business since 1986, and the cost of satellite has actually come down about 10 percent every year since 1986."

"I'd say, comparing apples to apples, satellite is about 50 to 75 percent less than comparable cable programming. That's an average. The bottom line is the winner is the satellite end user."

Satellite systems are not just suited to the tube-aholic, though. There are dozens of stereo radio channels on satellite that can easily pipe into your existing stereo

Look (to the South) before you peek

By RICK BYRNE
Copy Editor

Assuming that you know the cost advantages, programming options and superior audio and video capabilities of satellite TV, you may be left wondering, "Can I get satellite?"

In the case of most homes, the answer is yes. A recent study by a national distributor of satellite systems found that 95 percent of all homes have the room to put in a dish antenna with the needed clear line of site to the satellites.

"Trees are the biggest problem we have," said Gus Semaan of Advance Satellite in Northville Township. "You have to have a clear view of all the satellites, which are in the southwest and the south."

As long as you can see sky from the southeast to the southwest, you should be OK. If you have trees, buildings or other obstacles nearby, you may have to call in a professional installer to do a site survey.

A qualified installer will use a special instrument that imitates exactly what the satellite sees. If your installer doesn't use some kind of viewfinder, Semaan recommends seeking a new installer.

"We do it to eliminate a lot of wasted time and money on the customer's part," he said.

With the proper instruments, an installer can also see the only invisible obstacle to satellite installation: microwave beams used for international telephone transmission.

"The two signals are almost identical," said Semaan. "If a microwave telephone signal is hitting your dish, it can cause interference."

But just because you live near a microwave tower doesn't mean you'll have a problem. Towers in this area can be found in Milford and Plymouth townships.

"You could be right next to it and not have a problem," said Semaan. "It just depends on how they have their guns aimed."

Technology also exists now to compensate for telephone interference. It may cost a little more, but your TV will never know the difference.

"We just installed one in Milford within a mile of a microwave tower," said Semaan. "With the right equipment and filters, his picture is perfect."

Your city, township or village may have ordinances governing the installation and operation of satellite dishes. For example, Northville requires that the dish be hidden from street view, and doesn't allow dishes on roofs or in front yards.

The best advice here is to call the appropriate office (generally the building department or clerk's office) in your municipality and request a copy of the regulations.

For $1, the City of Brighton will provide you with a copy of all the pertinent codes. Some municipalities even go so far as to publish a pamphlet on the subject.

A 19th century cupboard is valuable

By James G. McCollam
Copley News Service

Q. Enclosed is a picture of a cherry corner cupboard with a painted interior and blown-glass doors. It is all original and in mint condition. It was supposedly made in Pennsylvania.

I would appreciate your opinion on its vintage and value.

A. Your corner cupboard was made between 1800 and 1820 and would probably sell for $1,200 to $1,500.

Q. The mark is on the bottom of a pair of ceramic bookends in the shape of an Indian head. I would like to know who made them and what would be a fair price for them.

A. These were made by Van Briggie Pottery in Colorado Springs, Colo., during the mid-20th century. A dealer would price them in the $165-to-$185 range.

TYPEWRITERS

Just how valuable are old typewriters? Which ones are the most valuable? They can turn up anywhere; probably half the homes in the country have an old manual typewriter stored under a pile of boxes on a closet shelf.

The ones that worked the best sold the best, are also the ones you are most likely to have. Remington, Underwood, Corona, etc.

Since they are not rare, they are the least valuable. These and others that bear familiar names usually sell for $30 to $100.

Then there are those that for one reason or another were not sold in great numbers, like Bennington Merritt, Hammond, etc. These and others with less familiar names will bring higher prices — $100 to $300.

The really choice collectible typewriters are even less well-known, with names like Dactygram, Niagra, McCool, etc. All of these will sell for more than $300 if and when you find one.

The really once-in-a-lifetime finds are usually strange-looking contraptions that don't really look like the average person's concept of a typewriter. They bear names like Fitch, Sholes & Glidden, Maskelyne, etc. For one of these you can expect the price to be more than $1,000.

So if it has a familiar name and looks like you think a typewriter should look, it's not a rare find.

Rules tighten for prospective real estate appraisers al license, (3) residential certification or (4) general certification. We won't try to sort out the differences here. The appraisers are having a tough time figuring it all out themselves.

The primary objective of the new requirements is to prevent increasing problem cases of fraud and abuse in property appraising.

"A climate of unregulated investment during the 1980s encouraged unscrupulous thrifths to seek out appraisers who would indulge in speculation by providing over-inflated or fraudulent appraisals," said Patricia Marshall, MAI, president-elect of the Appraisal Institute.

"The situation was worsened by the fact that less than a fourth of practicing appraisers belong to a reputable appraisal organization with a system of accountability," she said.

The new law will probably be healthy for everyone. It will screen out many incompetent appraisers and improve business prospects for those who are serious about their profession. And the public certainly has the right to expect consistent appraisal quality and competence.

Q. Since some home values have dropped over the past couple of years, are people less inclined to invest in a home of their own?

A. No. People are generally just as motivated as ever to purchase a home. Also, it's important to keep a proper perspective on home purchase investments.

As a long-term investment, there is nothing better than purchasing your own home. If you consider these investments in seven-year increments, it has always produced a handsome return.

Consider the past seven years. Despite a volatile up-down market, the average home value in the Los Angeles area increased 79 percent during that period. The average home in Chicago increased 53.9 percent — in New York City area, 96.3 percent.

real estate market to achieve full recovery?

A. A very conservative estimate was expressed by Peter F. Korpacz & Associates, a large real estate appraising and counseling firm.

"The real estate market recovery will be slow. The market will stay down for two to five years," according to a special Korpacz report.

Deadening sound between common walls

By Gene Gary
Copley News Service

G. We need information on deadening sound between our condo and the next unit. We share common walls.

A. A quick way to improve the sound resistance is to use a manufacturer's recommended adhesive to attach a second layer of drywall over the original (preferably your neighbor's side of the wall as well as yours).

If the first layer of drywall was installed vertically, install the new layer horizontally, and vice versa. You also can include the installation of a sound-deadening board under the drywall.

A better way is to build a freestanding wall two inches away from the existing one. This will require about 5 to 6 inches of floor space. It is important that there is no connection between the second wall and the first wall.

The framing of the second wall should be from wall to wall and ceiling to floor, leaving 1 to 2 inches of dead airspace as a buffer for sound transmission. A blanket of insulation between the framing members also will help.

Additional sound resistance can be obtained by installing resilient metal channels to the studs on the new (second) wall. These channels are installed horizontally and screwed to the studs. The drywall is attached to the opposite side of the channel.

Although builders use these frequently, they are not readily available in hardware or some supply stores. You may have to check with a building supply dealer.

Send inquiries to Here's How, Copley News Service, P.O. Box 190, San Diego, CA 92112-0190. Only questions of general interest can be answered in the column.

HOW TO

Satellite television offers more choices for video-aholics

system.

"Superior audio and video are two big selling points," said Semaan. "You can turn on a CD, or you can turn on your satellite system. It sounds the same because satellite is digital."

"I can create a home theater system with a nice Bose or Surround Sound system, and your satellite system will make your living room sound like a commercial theater."

And the cost for a "home theater" sound system is not a big ticket expense as compared with most electronics purchases: about $250 above and beyond the cost of the satellite system, according to Semaan.

The clearer picture of satellite is easily explained.

"It looks better because it's not going through miles and miles of cable," said Semaan. "It comes directly from the transmission source — the satellite."

With the right additional equipment, satellite data transmissions can be plugged in to your home computer.

Farmers and business people use satellite systems for low-cost and up-to-the-minute commodity and stock reports. Doctors, lawyers and other professionals can use the systems to view important seminars or continue their education.

While you may end up paying subscription costs for scrambled channels, what frightens some people away from satellite is the initial cost of the system. It just seems to make more sense to pay a cable company $40 to install a box and have done with it.

But is that the most cost effective way to get the programming you want? In the long run, probably not for most homeowners.

The average satellite system costs $1,500, on up to $4,000 for a premium system. Financing options are available for up to 60 months, however. Even adding a monthly expense for scrambled channels, satellite television comes out ahead.

"I can take someone who's paying $40 to $50 a month on their cable bill, and give them all the same channels, a deluxe satellite system with a remote, and a digital stereo receiver for the same cost. $40 to $50 a month," said Semaan.

When the financing is all paid for, the cost drops even further, and you own the system.

You're probably thinking that something this good has got to be illegal. Many people are under the false impression that satellite systems are illegal.

In truth, following a 1979 deregulation move by the Federal Communications Commission, laws were passed in 1984 allowing anyone to own and operate home satellite systems. The rationale was that taxpayer dollars went into creating and launching all the satellites, so taxpayers had the right to receive the transmissions from them.

"The biggest obstacle we've had to confront is re-educating the customer," said Semaan. "You can quote a customer of mine. He said,

"Why don't more people have satellite with all the advantages I've got here?"

"I told him the bottom line is education."

Transmissions from orbiting satellites are out there hitting your backyard now, and they're free. Space may be television's final frontier, but with the right equipment, you can tame it.

Finances are sweet music for singer

Lyman P. "Dusty" Rhodes recently acquired a resident insurance agent's license from the State of Michigan under the sponsorship of the New York Life Insurance Company. Rhodes has been an entertainer in the southeastern Michigan area for about 20 years and has been a resident of Highland for four years.

"I've done a lot of different things in business, but it's all related to communications. Entertaining a crowd with music is no different than giving a business presentation, or teaching a technical training course. Different audiences, different messages, different communications methods, but always the same job — getting through to people."

Rhodes' involvement in Michigan business, other than as an entertainer, began with the establishment of The Grainery Pub in Fenton in 1981. Rhodes built the furniture, designed the food and beverage layout, managed the establishment and provided the mainstay entertainment act. The pub was a favorite entertainment and gathering place for many people in the area.

After leaving the pub, Rhodes continued his entertainment career but began working in an entirely different area of communications as well. "My father was an engineer . . . I always had an affinity for technical things . . . and my formal education was English — so technical and marketing writing was a very natural endeavor for me. I soon became involved in more complex business writing projects and the whole thing eventually evolved into a publishing and communications consulting company that I call Wordsmith. My logo is the anvil and the quill because the job is to craft words, sentences, paragraphs and pieces into useful objects that get people's attention and communicate a message."

At first glance, the financial services business seems to be worlds apart from entertainment and writing, but Rhodes doesn't see it that way. "It can be very technical, but it is primarily another communications challenge. I am especially enthusiastic about the fact that I am now able to help people attain another important life goal. As an entertainer I help people have a good time and access powerful emotions within themselves . . . as a writer I help people get their message out into the world so that others can benefit from it . . . as a financial services professional I help people attain security and financial well-being. Both from a business and personal point of view these are goals we all share and with which we need assistance."

Rhodes points out the history and track record of New York Life. "Through its affiliates and subsidiaries, New York Life offers a complete line of financial services to business and industry as well as to the family market. For example: New York Life is working with IBM to provide high quality insurance, annuity and investment products to their employees through a convenient payroll deduction plan. IBM chose New York Life because it is one of the highest-rated financial companies in the world and has been in business for over 145 years. Its integrity, conservative financial management practices, and a progressive customer service philosophy have allowed this company to become a powerful and extremely stable leader in the industry."

As representatives of the New York Life companies, Rhodes and his colleagues offer their clients a wide variety of financial services options to suit their personal and business needs. "With an organization like this behind me, I feel very confident that I can contribute to the financial well-being of this community in very meaningful way."

Getting wows while taking vows

Shop suits brides fine

The perennial gardens are always in bloom gracing the flagstone and brick walkways. Ground covers of myrtle, purple ajuga, and impatiens in pink surround the house at 402 S. Main Street which has been transformed into Elizabeth's Bridal Manor.

The grounds were recently honored by the Northville Beautification Commission.

Owners Elizabeth Clancy and Alan Brown have turned the former residence into a business which not only caters to every need of the bride, but will also completely outfit the groom, bridal party and mom and dad too.

Clancy and Brown each owned successful businesses prior to combining efforts in opening the bridal manor in February of 1990. After careful research, Northville was chosen as an ideal location for the upscale, service-oriented business which is located just north of W. Seven Mile on South Main Street.

The layout of the house was redesigned by Clancy and Brown to include a two-story entrance. "We wanted to create drama and space," said Clancy. Original hardwood floors were refinished and beveled glass french doors were saved and incorporated into the interior decor by Clancy.

Upon entering the manor, you find yourself in a European setting — shoes come off at the door.

"I do not want my clientele trying on soiled samples," said Clancy. The interior decor includes swagged moire drapery treatments, oriental rugs and a European armoire which holds an abundance of bridal accessories.

An open, circular faux marble staircase leads upstairs to swagged and draped fitting rooms. A five-tiered crystal chandelier suspended from the second floor enhances the European charm the owners sought.

Clancy's favorite aspect of the business is her clientele.

"By taking into account their age, size and budget, I can assist them in finding the perfect dress and transform them into Cover Girl brides," said Clancy.

Hand-sewn sequinned appliques set off bridal dresses made of satin, taffeta and natural silk fibers. All the colors of the rainbow can be found in the rows of bridesmaids gowns, flower girl dresses and for the all-important mother of the bride.

"Dresses and headpieces can be customized, and the manor carries a full size range to meet the needs of the larger bride," said Clancy. Available accessories include: head pieces, slips, bras, jewelry and shoes which can be customized with appliques or hand dyed to match.

Clancy said that her goal is to see that every bride is a pampered princess for the most special event in her life.

With a large selection of prom dresses, Elizabeth's Bridal Manor was an "in" place to be this past March and April. Informals were also featured and a special line of dresses, "Country Elegance," contribute to the charm of the manor by featuring gowns with yards of old-fashioned laces.

A full line of tuxedos adds to the convenience of the manor for total attention to the wedding party. Gifts, invitations and a bridal registry are also available. Elizabeth's Bridal Manor will also refer local and reliable related businesses, which will save the couple-to-be many hours of homework.

Clancy attributes the success of the business to the ambience of the manor, variety of price ranges and styles, and the enthusiasm of her sales consultants who exhibit sincerity and genuine interest in each bridal party.

"We personally guarantee everything that goes out of our doors," said Clancy.

Plans for further renovation include custom designed gingerbread trim and a new roof. "We've already outgrown the house and hope to add on in the near future," said Clancy.

The hours of business accommodate the working woman seven days a week: Monday through Thursday, 11 a.m. to 9 p.m., Friday 11 a.m. to 8 p.m., Saturday 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Sunday, noon to 5 p.m. For more information, call 348-2783.

STAN SWIES, a AAA Michigan employee living in Northville, was recently presented with a sales achievement award by AAA Michigan President Robert A. Alkema as a top life insurance producer in 1990.

Swies received the award at the company's annual life sales banquet in Detroit. Auto Club Life offers 16 different products including universal life, annuity programs, payroll deduction plans, term and permanent life insurance.

KERRY BAHL has joined The Berline Group as an account coordinator, announced Jim Berline, agency president.

Bahl graduated from Michigan State University with a bachelor's degree in advertising, and is a resident of Northville.

Prior to joining The Berline Group, Bahl worked for Young & Rubicam as an intern in their creative department. She is a member of the Michigan State University Advertising Association.

With offices in Birmingham and North Palm Beach, Fla., The Berline Group is a full-service advertising and public relations agency with billings of more than $32.5 million. The agency was founded in 1982 by Jim Berline.

COMMUNITY FEDERAL CREDIT UNION has announced the 1991 recipients of the Margaret Dunning Scholarship. These scholarships are administered by Community Federal Credit Union. Lee Anna Leonard of Gaylord will receive a $1,000 scholarship and Steven Michael Urbaniak of Canton will receive a $500 scholarship.

Leonard attends Northwood Institute in Midland, Michigan. Upon graduation in 1994, she will receive a dual major in marketing and management, with a minor in hotel and restaurant management. Leonard's work experience has reinforced her desire to follow this career path.

For four years she has been working at Treetops/Sylvan Resort in housekeeping, concierge and presently the front office. "I'm honored to have been chosen as a recipient of the scholarship award and, as a future entrepreneur, hope I will be as successful and giving to the community as is Margaret Dunning," said Leonard.

Leonard also keeps herself busy as an active member of the Northwood Institute Hotel and Restaurant Association (NIHRA) and the Circle-K Club, a college community service organization related to Kluwan.

Looking ahead to an ambitious future, Leonard has definite career plans. "I would like to find someone who will believe in me and my talents and help me establish the finest resort in the United States. It may all sound like a dream now but I've even begun to think about a name and location. I hope that all of my work and dedication to my future career will be an adventure."

Urbaniak is attending the University of Michigan-Dearborn working on a bachelor's degree in business administration—professional accounting. "Being an accounting major, one of my goals and career plans is to become a certified public accountant (CPA)," said Urbaniak.

Urbaniak has volunteered time collecting money for the Muscular Dystrophy Association, getting involved with various church-related community service projects and participating in the Canton recycling program. In addition, he is an active member of the Professional Accounting Society and recently worked with VITA (Volunteer Income Tax Association) to prepare income tax returns free for low-income families.

Currently Urbaniak is working on an internship at KPMG Peat (an accounting firm) preparing individual, partnership and corporate tax returns. Looking forward to a bright future, he said, "This work experience will provide the opportunity to further enhance my knowledge of accounting as it enables me to gain practical experience in the profession."

Community Federal Credit Union established the Margaret Dunning Scholarship Fund in recognition of Margaret Dunning's 23 years of volunteer service as a member of the credit union's board of directors, serving 19 of those years as president. The scholarships are a tribute to Dunning's tireless efforts and profound achievements as a leader at Community Federal and in the community at large. They were created to benefit students studying the business, vocational, financial or technical fields. In addition, the scholarships allow the credit union to return a portion of its earnings to its members as part of its continuous efforts to promote credit union uniqueness.

In 1989, the first $500 Margaret Dunning Scholarship was awarded. With additional contributions from Community Federal and donations from individuals outside the credit union organization, last year's recipient received $1,000. This year, according to James Cantrell, general manager of the credit union, Community Federal proudly announced that in addition to the $1,000 scholarship, the credit union would be able to offer the additional $500 scholarship. Community Federal is one of the few credit unions in the state to offer two academic scholarships of this magnitude.

All applications were reviewed by a committee of credit union members. The scholarship is designed to give assistance to students entering, or enrolled in college to study the business or financial fields, or to those attending an industrial/skilled trade school. Applications and guidelines for the 1992-93 school year will be available in January of 1992.

Mary DiPaolo/Focus: Small Business

Micro marketing hits right targets

"Micro marketing" strategies have been used to promote small businesses for years. Unfortunately, these same techniques never seemed to command the level of recognition they have historically deserved. For some reason, smaller firms were not perceived as having "made it" until they began sponsoring full-blown ad campaigns which appealed to the masses. The good news, however, is that micro marketing works and will continue to do so as long as customer markets remain fractured.

Recent examples of micro marketing techniques reflect the creativity and imagination of the firms that have developed them. "Wallboards" now appear in high schools, dentist offices, and other locations to promote various products and services. In the case of Kentucky-based Central High School, a giant poster of Michael Jordan has been used to promote mouthwash and shampoo. Mobile units have also been seen at state fairs and other outdoor events to provide free services for attendees. These services range from diaper changing to conducting seminars on diet and nutrition . . . to performing color analysis.

Probably the "newest" micro marketing technique involves local video store owners who now rent "space" at the beginning of videotapes for local business advertisements. The completed spots are "spliced" in and can run up to a minute in length. "Anyone who rents the 'Wizard of Oz' will see a spot for a nationally distributed fabric softener," says one local video shop owner, " . . . so why not see one for the local restaurant or car dealership as well?"

Non-media sources have also been used to help firms "micro market" to local customer groups. Sponsors of charity functions, summer festivals, and sporting events have found out firsthand how business can be successfully mixed with pleasure. Local examples include the recent "Le Fete Au Jardin" to benefit the St. Vincent-Sarah Fisher Center for Children, "Operation Welcome Home" sponsored to benefit the Michigan Military Family Support Groups, and the "Tour de Michigan" attracting 125 cyclists from around the state.

"Infomercials" represents yet another means available to promote a firm's products and services. Community-based cooking shows featuring local restaurateurs, hair and makeup demonstrations sponsored by local salon owners, and other programs serve as both a teaching and promotional tool available to small business owners.

For a comprehensive list of micro marketing alternatives for small business, readers may send a SASE with their request to Mary DiPaolo, 104 W. Main, Northville, MI 48167.

Mary DiPaolo is a resident of Northville and the owner of MarkeTrends, a small business marketing research and promotional consulting firm. She lectures extensively on a variety of marketing topics to professional groups, associations, and non-profit organizations, and has produced two small business television series for MetroVision and WXON-TV20.

Selling home in a downturn

Looking for some magic formula for selling your home in a soft market? Well, you can stop looking. Market conditions have not altered the rules for selling your home, says the Michigan Association of CPAs. On the other hand, they have made it more important for you to put a little extra muscle — and comprise — into the process.

SET A REALISTIC PRICE

The right price is probably the single most important factor in a timely sale. Unfortunately, these days you may have to accept the fact that your home is worth less today than it was worth just a few years ago.

The value of your residence is generally based on four factors: your home's age, location and condition, as well as the condition of the real estate market in your area. To arrive at a realistic price for your home, you can hire an independent appraiser to determine your home's current market value. Alternately, you can request estimates from real estate agents familiar with your community.

If you need to sell your home quickly, start with a realistic price. In a soft market, the common tactic of listing a house at an elevated price with the intention of lowering it later can backfire. Remember, your house appeals most to buyers when it first comes on the market. If you set your list price too high, you may miss out on the initial rush — exactly the time when brokers are most likely to show a new listing to all prospective buyers.

OFFER CREATIVE INCENTIVES TO BUYERS

To entice potential buyers, you may need to resort to creative incentives. Generally, creative financing is the most attractive lure, particularly for first-time buyers. To assist a buyer, you can offer to pay all or part of the buyer's points, title insurance or closing costs. Mortgage buy-downs that help a buyer qualify for a mortgage are also popular. With the typical buy-down, the seller makes a one-time payment to the lender that will lower the interest rate on the buyer's mortgage for the first few years, making monthly mortgage payments more affordable.

Buyers who are trading up may be more interested in a $1,000 redecorating or landscaping allowance. Or you may offer to include in the sale one or more of the items that your listing indicated was not included — draperies, carpeting or even furniture.

If you're having trouble selling an older home, an appropriate selling tool might be a homeowner's limited warranty that covers a home's major systems, such as heating, air conditioning and plumbing.

SELECT A GOOD REAL ESTATE AGENT

To maximize the profit on your house, you may be tempted to try to sell your house on your own and avoid paying a real estate agent's commission. Most experts do not recommend sellers attempt this course during a slow market. In many cases, you can improve the chances of successfully selling your house by selecting a professional who will carefully and enthusiastically market your home.

By most estimates, over 90 percent of all home sales are accomplished through professionals — and for good reason. A good broker can help you price your home realistically, advertise and show it skillfully, and negotiate the sale professionally. Another major advantage of listing with a realtor is that he or she can put your house on the multiple listing service for your area, providing your house with much broader exposure.

Selecting the right real estate agent takes time. Start by obtaining recommendations for brokers and neighbors. You should also scan the real estate pages in this newspaper. The next step is interviewing various brokers. For example, find out how familiar they are with properties in your neighborhood. How do they plan to market your home, and to whom? Do they plan to schedule an "open house" for your property — and if so, when and how often? Where will your home be advertised? Does the broker expect to have an exclusive listing and if so, for how long? You should also find out whether an agent works with a relocation company, which can be a valuable source for potential buyers.

When you are ready to sign a contract, request one with a relatively short term so that the agent is motivated to perform quickly. If your house has not been sold by the end of the contract, but you are satisfied with the agent's service, you can always opt to extend or renew the contract.

Finally, do not assume that all brokers charge a set rate of commission on the sale of real estate. The commission paid to brokers is negotiable. But if you're considering negotiating for a reduced broker's commission, keep in mind that, right now, brokers have an abundance of homes from which to choose to show potential buyers. If your property requires a reduction in the broker's commission, it may receive less attention.

INVEST IN YOUR HOME

Of the factors that influence the price of your home, your home's condition is the only one over which you have substantial control. In today's market, a home that is poorly maintained and in need of repair doesn't stand a chance. Most real estate agents agree that "curb appeal," your home's first impression, is of critical importance. A fresh coat of paint and a neatly manicured lawn can put buyers in a favorable frame of mind for viewing the interior.

CPAs point out that you can generally deduct the cost of fixing up your home providing the work was done no earlier than 90 days before you sign a contract to sell your home. You must pay for the work no later than 30 days after the sale date.

It may very well take a little longer than you would like, but with a little work and some compromise, you can sell your home — even in a soft market.

Madonna expands offerings

Meeting the managerial needs of the professional business community, Madonna University's School of Business has implemented two new business master's degree programs. Beginning in September, Madonna will offer a Master of Science in Business Administration (MSBA) with majors in International Business or Operations Management. Both distinguish themselves as the only graduate programs of their kind offered in the area.

With over 400 export service providers in metropolitan Detroit alone, the MSBA in International Business is designed to support and sustain the development of these organizations and their employees.

"The demand for professionals with a global orientation has accelerated as international trade and global markets have become increasingly important," said Charlotte Neuhauser, Madonna University dean of business and computer systems. "The program will prepare professionals to promote leadership in the international business development process." The course of study will benefit students from a variety of industries including manufacturing, distribution, accounting and finance.

The international business master's program requirements include a series of business foundation courses and courses focusing specifically on international business and trade. A demonstrated foreign language proficiency, foreign study or travel and a comprehensive international research project are also required.

Madonna faculty have been involved in internationalizing the University curriculum over the past three years. The School of Business has produced video tapes on international business and has sponsored export workshops and trade missions through funding received from the U.S. Department of Education.

The MSBA in Operations Management is designed for people employed in either manufacturing or nonmanufacturing environments who are interested in the process of creating and planning a product, service or process and monitoring it through implementation and evaluation.

"With total quality management the current business focus, the content of the operations management degree is especially pertinent for today's competitive environment," says Neuhauser.

Madonna's curriculum requires a series of business foundation courses, production and operations courses, practical applications and a comprehensive research project. A minimum of two years of relevant work experience is also required for admission.

The Operations Management degree appeals to such groups as engineers, production staff, quality control and assurance departments, and plant managers of small and medium-sized businesses. Certificates will be granted to non-degree seeking students for the completion of selected courses in operations management, quality control systems and competitive strategy analysis and planning.

For more information about Madonna University's MSBA programs in International Business and Operations Management, call 591-5117. Madonna University is located at I-96 and Levan Road in Livonia.

"I went from house to house, getting any food or clothes they would give me. Then I handed it all out to needy people in the neighborhood."

Greetings:

As Governor of the State of Michigan, it is my honor to welcome you to the Novi Town Center Grounds for the second Annual Novi International Festival.

This three-day event is a wonderful opportunity to emphasize unity among the diverse citizens in the Novi area. This festival allows us to become more knowledgeable about many ethnic and cultural backgrounds which Michigan features, and promotes the understanding that differences between people are not detrimental to greater harmony. Through diversity, we experience new and exciting perspectives, expand our horizons, and improve our own lives. Indeed, Michigan is a rich tapestry of many ethnic groups, each contributing its own folklore and traditions.

The Second Annual Novi International Festival will allow you to experience foods and entertainment from Europe, the Middle East, Latin America, Asia, and Africa. My wife, Michelle, and I invite you to take advantage of this unique opportunity to enjoy this wonderful "unity among diversity."

I would like to thank the Rotary Club, the Lions, the Optimist Club, the Kiwanis, the Jaycees and all other civic and service organizations involved in this entertaining and enlightening festival. I would also like to express my appreciation to the City of Novi, the Parks and Recreation Department, the Novi police and fire departments, the business community, and all the residents who worked together to make this event happen.

Sincerely,

John Engler

Indian open fest ceremonies

'Wolf Shadow' drum, dancers to be featured in 'powwow'

By SUZANNE HOLLYER
Staff Writer

If your only knowledge of American Indians is what you've seen on television, if you think Indians are dark-skinned people who live on reservations in tepees, then you are in need of a little consciousness raising.

And Mickey Two Eagles Bulmer has just the thing for you.

Bulmer, a trustee of the North American Indian Association in Detroit, said the opening ceremonies for the International Festival will help people understand the American Indian better.

"We're just trying to keep the tradition alive," Bulmer said.

"Powwows have been going on for I don't know how long, and not that many people have ever been to one."

The opening ceremony to the International Festival will be a mini-powwow of sorts.

One large drum and a group of Indian musicians known as "Wolf Shadow" will open the August 23 ceremony. In Indian culture, both the group and their instrument, the drum, bear the name.

Dancers will accompany the musicians for nearly 2 hours.

The festivities begin at 5 p.m.

Dancers and drummers will only be at the festival on Friday, but Native American food will be available all weekend, Bulmer said, including fried bread, an American Indian version of tacos and possibly corn soup.

"(The food) is real good; everybody likes it," he said.

Native American jewelry, paintings and other artwork will be available at a table at the festival.

If this event were an authentic powwow, then two or three drums will be on hand with many dancers and art traders.

Bulmer hopes to hold a real powwow at next year's festival if all goes well this year.

He said a typical powwow can draw crowds of 40,000.

"This could be a mini powwow if you want to call it that," he said.

The ceremonies will begin with the blessing of the Wolf Shadow drum. The instrument is made from a tree stump with the inside burned out. A cow hide is processed and drawn tightly over the empty tree stump. Before performing, the group blesses the drum with tobacco.

Then the head drummer will say a few words, possibly in the form of a prayer and possibly in his own language, Bulmer said.

Drumming and dancing begin following the prayers. Bulmer hopes to have seven or eight dancers. Wolf Shadow will consist of five or six drummers playing one drum.

He said the performers could be from any number of tribes. Many Native Americans who moved to Michigan from other states in search of work still maintain an identity with their tribe.

"You name the tribe, and they're represented through our association," he said.

The purpose of holding powwows is to educate both Native Americans and others.

"People think if you live on a reservation you live in a tepee. I say, 'yeah, my tepee has a microwave and color TV,'" Bulmer said.

"We're hardworking people, but we're stereotyped."

He hopes to break some of those stereotypes on August 23.

"Powwows are open to the public so people can learn about us, and we can learn about non-native people," he said.

"We don't go out scalping people! We didn't even start that. The French started it," he said.

Bulmer lives in Canton and owns a janitorial service.

In his spare time he makes Native American art work, including wall hangings that will be on display at the festival.

He blames the misconceptions the public has about American Indians on the mainstream media. Bulmer said films like "Dances with Wolves" show the true side of the Native American.

Acts from across globe to perform in Festival

The purpose of the Novi Ethnic Festival will be to emphasize the unity among the diversity of our citizenship in the community and the surrounding area.

It will also be to educate those in attendance about the different ethnic cultural and traditional uniqueness and at the same time to emphasize understanding amongst all the people of the world and foster friendship and peace on the planet Earth.

The festival will run for three days at Novi Town Center on August 23, 24 and 25.

The festival will consist of:

Ethnic entertainment from Poland, Italy, Ireland, South America, China, India, Austria, Germany, Finland, and American Indian tribes will be presented. Cuisine from China, Vietnam, Greece, India, Italy, Germany, Poland and Indian tribes will be available at the festival as well.

A committee of different service and civic organizations and interested citizens of Novi are sponsoring the festival. The Rotary Club of Novi, Lions Club of Novi, the Optimist's Club of Novi, the Kiwanis Club of Novi, and the Jaycees of Novi all worked together to present this great civic educational and entertaining festival.

I Ballerini di Troy: Marna Canterella Russo has been teaching for seven years, but her group of Italian folk dancers has been in existence even longer.

Sponsored by the Italian Study Group of Troy, the group focuses on Italian culture, including foreign language, an Italian choir group, and lectures on Italian culture.

It is composed of students from the entire Detroit area. Formerly known as the Youth Folk Dance Ensemble, the group aims to learn and perform Italian folk dances and, through their performances, to educate the community on regional Italian folk dances and costumes.

The groups

The group offers two different classes: one for ages 4-7 and one for ages 8 and up. Both classes work together during performances, and they currently perform 17 folk dances from all different parts of Italy.

Mo's Clogging Fever: Based in Walled Lake, Mo's Cloggers have been in existence for about three and one-half years and has performed at numerous functions and benefits.

Clogging is an American folk dance that originated in the Appalachian region of this country. The dance derives from numerous cultural backgrounds that came to the USA, including Dutch, French, Irish, Scotch, African and American Indian. Tap dancing evolved from traditional clogging.

Over the past few years, clogging has grown in leaps and bounds. This show will try to capture the change that is presently occurring in clogging.

The performance will begin with bluegrass music, move to country, and end with modern music of today.

Los Flamencos Dance Theatre: This troop offers an exciting blend of traditional Spanish music and dance with innovative works by international choreographers.

The company has entertained audiences for more than a decade with dynamic performances combining rhythmic footwork, palmas, castanets, guitar and song with theatrical staging and colorful costuming. Under the artistic direction of "Cristina," the company's repertoire ranges from the light and whimsical to the profound and haunting dances of Spain.

The soul of flamenco lies deep in the sun-parched villages of southern Spain. Like most folk traditions, it sprang from the desire to interpret the emotional experiences of life into a shared cultural expression.

The intricate variations of guitar, song, and dance entwine to evoke emotions that range from passion and longing to spontaneous gaiety.

Bis Morgen: The five-piece German/American musical ensemble Bis Morgen started out seven years ago as a trio, founded by accordion player Hans Steiner, who remains the driving force of the current quintet. The entire band hails from the Detroit metropolitan area and most of the members have been playing music together for over ten years. In addition to Hans on accordion, the group features: Rick Kosky on trumpet, Scott Boozan on Guitar, Bob Mead on bass guitar/saxophone, and the newest member, Roger Pietrantonio, one of the best drummers on the ethnic music scene today.

Bis Morgen can usually be found playing in the Detroit metropolitan and surrounding areas. They have appeared at Frankenmuth, Freedom Hill, Hart Plaza, as well as many local organizations, such as the Kolping Society, Saxon Club, Austrian Society, Novi's Church of the Holy Family, and this year for the first time at the Novi International Festival. The "Bis-boys" don't just play locally, however. They also have fans in Ft. Wayne, Indiana, where they've wowed the crowd for two years straight at the German Fest there. The future Bis Morgen will start opening new markets in Ohio, Illinois and Minnesota. They're also very excited about their upcoming tour of Germany and Austria with the local dance group "Froehlicher Kreis" in June, 1992.

The Syrena Dance Ensemble, PRCUA: This group of the Polish Roman Catholic Union of America was organized in 1975. The ensemble is one of twelve P.R.C.U.A. dance schools in Michigan. The ensemble, under the choreography of Shirley Galanty, makes their home in Dearborn Heights. Laura Fliss is the school director. Syrena students range in ages from three through 18 years of age. Many students remain with the ensemble graduating from the Ensemble as well as from their respective high schools. We have seen eighty-five of our students graduate from the ensemble.

The purpose of the school is to instill knowledge and pride within the students of their Polish-American heritage together with its customs and traditions. We do this through our weekly folk dance classes and active participation in all civic and religious activities and multi-performances in and out of the state for various programs and functions. Through song and dance performances, Syrena has developed a deeper appreciation and understanding of their heritage and can more readily appreciate the talents and achievements of all other nationalities and cultures.

Over the years, the ensemble has been privileged in being a part of the Pope's visit in Hamtramck, as well as President Bush's appearance in Hamtramck. They have performed special cable Christmas and 4th of July programs, participated in many pilgrimages, a Polish wedding procession, festivals in Grand Rapids, Kalamazoo, Alpena, Bronson, Belleville, Novi and Hart Plaza to name a few. They have also performed at various nursing homes, senior citizens homes, public and parochial school systems, Polish Night at Tiger Stadium, Polish Day Parade in Hamtramck and the Darborn Heights community parades. Recently, the students had the honor of meeting and then presenting gifts to the new Archbishop of Detroit, Archbishop Adam J. Maida during his Welcome Dinner Reception Program at the Royalty House of Warren.

Troupe Ta'amullat Fi Buhayrit Al Zaman, Reflections in the Pool of Time: This troupe is an Ann Arbor-based dance ensemble dedicated to the presentation of music, dance and culture from the Near East, North Africa and Central Asia. Since its founding in 1976, Troupe Ta'amullat has continually won acclaim for their skill, authenticity and beautiful costuming.

The Troupe's presentations are solidly based on the dances, dance styles, music and ethnic costuming indigenous to these geographic areas. The focus is not solely on an isolated ethnic group or region, rather, in a performance, the audience is presented with a montage of costumes, music and dances spanning much of the area. Some of the choreographies are recreations of dances observed "on location" while others are original works based on authentic styles and set to appropriate music. The goal of every performance is to present an entertaining and educational cultural experience for audiences of all ages.

The members of Troupe Ta'amullat have an extensive background in classical Danse Orientale and the folkloric styles of North Africa, the Near East, Central Asia and the Mediterranean. Several members have traveled on dance-study tours through Morocco, Egypt and Turkey bringing back a wealth of "first hand" cultural knowledge.

Troupe Ta'amullat's love and respect for the cultural heritage of the Near and Middle East has won it the distinction of being recognized by both the International Institute of Detroit and the Arab Community Center for Economic and Social Services (ACCESS) in Dearborn.

Monica Folklorico Group: South American culture will be represented at this year's International Festival by Colombian Monica Hurtado.

Hurtado performs folkloric dance representative of many South American countries.

She was a dancer in Cali, Columbia in South America before coming to the United States. The 30 year old has been dancing since she was 5.

She performs Saturday afternoon at the festival.

Some of the dances Hurtado has been performing this year are based on cumbia, joropo, and bambuco.

Cumbia means to dance.

Originally a dance of the black slaves from Africa, Cumbia is now the national dance of Panama.

Joropo is a mixture of Arabic, Spanish and Mexican folk dances.

Some of the movements are of Indian origin. Joropo is the national dance of Venezuela.

Scottish dancer Michelle Jacobi

Culture around the globe

(Clockwise from top left) Kathleen Holleran and Alice Sano, of the Ko-Nami Koto Ensemble will play traditional Japanese music on the floor harp. From Columbia, Monica Hurtado will perform South American folk music and dances for the International Festival crowds. American Indians, dressed in their traditional costumes will lead off the festival with a powwow during opening ceremonies. In last year's festival, ethnic dancing, such as the one performed by this Italian group, were a hit. The four will perform folk dances of South American with Hurato.
