Supporters send off Rep. Goss

By MIKE TYREE
Staff Writer

Georgina Goss beamed as the gathered luminaries trooped to a podium at Plymouth's Mayflower Meeting Room on Monday.

U.S. Rep. Carl Pursell was the first to sing her praises. Retired Michigan Supreme Court Justice Dunbar Davis followed suit.

Then Lt. Gov. Connie Binsfeld welcomed Goss to the ranks of women in Michigan state government.

and accept the oath of office.

And then the former Northville Township Supervisor officially became 36th District State Rep. Georgina Goss, R-Northville.

"What a way to start a new career," Goss said with a wide smile, "surrounded by friends and supporters."

Those friends and supporters turned out in big numbers at Monday's swearing-in ceremony to cheer their favorite daughter. The list of those in attendance was a veritable who's who of local political and business leaders.

They came to see the Northville woman who rose from the ranks of township police dispatcher to defeat two other candidates in August's special Republican primary and win an uncontested general election three weeks later.

And they came to congratulate a friend.

"I was overcome; it was just a wonderful celebration," Goss said later. "Those were all the people who worked so hard on my campaign."

"It really was a celebration for them," she said.

The afterglow of her victory and Monday's gathering will continue, but Goss has some real business at hand. She started work in Lansing yesterday.

"We're starting out with a caucus at 9 a.m. and then a joint session with the Senate and House of Representatives," Goss said Tuesday. "Gov. (John) Engler is going to speak."

Following the joint session, Goss said she would head back to her office, meet with her secretary, and go through "the stack of mail I heard was sitting on my desk."

Lennox will sit through interviews

By MIKE TYREE
Staff Writer

Betty Lennox plans to "sit quietly" on the township board during interview sessions with prospective supervisor candidates.

But Lennox will not temporarily step down from her board seat, even though the township treasurer will be competing with other candidates for former Supervisor Georgina Goss' post.

"I'm going to tell the board I'm not going to ask questions," she said last week. "I want to be ethical and fair."

Lennox confirmed that she will apply for the supervisor's post. She cited experience and a knowledge of local government as keys to her job search.

"Doing what is good for the community is the number-one priority," she said. "It seems to me we need to think about the township at this point."

Lennox was appointed to the treasurer's position in 1989 after Richard Henningsen was hired as township manager. She defeated three other candidates in an August 1990 special election to retain her board seat.

Goss' Aug. 27 election to the state House of Representatives opened a position atop the seven-member township board. The supervisor's position in Northville Township currently is defined as a part-time, $25,000-a-year post.

The supervisor serves as the township's top law enforcement and tax assessment official and is at the forefront of most township decisions. Supervisors are elected to four-year terms, and like the balance of the board, the supervisor faces a primary and general election in 1992.

The board has stated that it will seek resumes for the position from Northville Township residents. The board will interview candidates at special sessions and likely will tab Goss' successor this month.

At least three candidates are expected to interview for the job. In addition to Lennox, Karen Baja, a planning commissioner and zoning board of appeals chairperson, and Maureen Oslecki, planning department administrative assistant, have said they will pursue the job.

Lennox can vote for herself as supervisor, according to a succession outline suggested by Goss at the board's Aug. 28 meeting. Township attorney Ernest Essad on Monday said Michigan law allows such a vote, including a vote that would mean a pay raise for the winner.

If Lennox is selected by the board, her salary would jump from $9,000 to $25,000.

The board likely will accept resumes until Sept. 20, Clerk Tom Cook said. Interviews may be held Sept. 23-24, depending on the number of applicants, he said.

A decision could be made after the last round of interviews or at a special board session, he said. Lennox admitted that the succession plan could become a sticky issue.

"I would not nominate myself, but I would vote if I felt I was the best (candidate)," she said. "I want everybody to have a fair chance."

Lennox did not seem thrilled that a Record reporter planned to interview supervisor candidates before board interviews.

"The board is going to interview them," she said. "I think you ought to report their interviews."

City parking deck concept approved

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

The latest version of an expanded Cady Street parking deck gained conceptual approval from the city council Monday night, after a presentation by architect Greg Presley.

Presley, who is working with Singh Development on the design of its proposed CadyCentre building, filled in for parking deck consultant Matt Jobin of Rich & Associates.

CadyCentre would be built atop the west portion of the city deck designed by Rich & Associates, and the two firms have been working together to integrate the building and deck.

Presley's briefing turned into a presentation on CadyCentre as well.

City Manager Gary Word provided the impetus for Monday's council briefing. "We thought that the time was right for the city council to be briefed on the status of the parking deck, at least as far as its design," he said.

Presley brought the council up-to-date on a number of changes to the deck, including the fact that it has been shifted to the south to allow more landscaping and a potential building site on the north side.

The top floor of three-story deck would be flush with Mary Alexander Court, while the lowest floor would be even with a Cady Street moved about 150 feet south of its present location. Towers at the northeast and southwest corners would provide stair access between floors, with an elevator included in the northeast tower.

On the south side, two entrances would be provided into the deck off Cady Street. The west entrance would access 120 secured parking spaces, 74 of which would be reserved for MainCentre residents with the remainder available for lease. The east entrance would head up a ramp to the deck's second floor, with parking along either side of the ramp.

Overall, the deck would provide 489 parking spaces, including 18 on the site of the proposed CadyCentre building that would be lost when the building is constructed. The amount of parking would replace the spaces provided by both floors of the existing deck, and provide enough excess parking for MainCentre, CadyCentre, the office/retail building proposed by James and Glenn Long at Main and Wing, and about 20 added spaces, Presley said.

The deck will be built strong enough to allow an additional three floors of parking in the future, he said.

CadyCentre, Presley said, would

Victorian era returns in festival

Get ready for the return of hoop skirts and bustles, satin waistcoats and silk cravats to the streets of downtown Northville.

Yes, it's that time of year again, as the days grow shorter and the hemlines grow longer.

The Victorian Festival returns to town Friday, Sept. 13, and organizers are predicting that the third time will be the charm for Northville's three-day event.

Chamber of Commerce Executive Director Laurie Marrs cited one big difference to this year's event. "We have an awful lot more food," she said.

"We have increased the number of (types of) foods and increased the number of restaurants participating, because that was the only complaint we ever heard about the last two festivals."

Marrs said this year's headline performers are a little more down-to-earth than last year's, though they promise to be just as entertaining.

The Victorian Review rolls into town following Friday's 6 p.m. Victor-

Township views gravel pit site

By MIKE TYREE
Staff Writer

Township officials spent much of last Saturday on a field trip, but they didn't go to the zoo, or a ballgame, or out to eat.

Their trek to a gravel pit and asphalt plant was less glamorous than all that — and much more important.

Holloway Sand and Gravel representatives escorted seven township planning commissioners, four board members, and planning department staff and consultants on a tour of a Washtenaw County gravel mining operation Saturday.

Holloway has proposed a sand and gravel mining operation and an asphalt plant for a 177-acre tract west of Ridge Road and south of Six Mile Road in Northville Township. Planners this summer tabled a special land use review and are scheduled to hear Holloway's plan again Sept. 17, during a 7:30 p.m. meeting at township hall.

Saturday's field trip was designed to familiarize officials with the gravel

Numbers up in Northville schools

By SUZANNE HOLLYER
Staff Writer

Enrollment is up more than expected in Northville Public Schools, but administrators are not planning any immediate staffing increases.

District officials predicted 125 new students would enter Northville schools this year. So far 180 new students have enrolled.

Most of the extra students have enrolled at the high school, said acting Superintendent Burton Knighton.

Staffing increases may be necessary at some point. Administrators are monitoring enrollment figures daily.

"We're waiting to see how things even out before we make any recommendations for increased staffing," said Assistant Superintendent David Bolitho.

A total of 4,044 students were enrolled in Northville Public Schools on Sept. 5. The figure was down three from 4,047 on Sept. 4 and down four from Sept. 3. Final enrollment figures must be reported to the state by Sept. 27, the fourth Friday of classes. The Michigan Department of Education uses the figures in determining state aid.

The number of students enrolled in Northville schools will affect the amount of state aid money recaptured from the district. Northville lost over a million dollars last year when the state stopped funding social security payments and other programs it had traditionally paid for in out-of-formula school districts like Northville.

The property tax rate and state equalized valuation of property in Northville also will determine the amount of money recaptured, said Wallace Beggs, a finance consultant for the Michigan Department of Education.

Last year, Northville schools reported 3,887 students enrolled on the fourth Friday classes were held.

The rise in enrollment this year continues a six-year growth trend in the school district.

Council approves concept of Cady Street parking deck

be a brick structure with design similarities to MainCentre but in a different type of brick, to give the building its own identity. "It's proposed to be a brick structure but one that has somewhat the feeling of the downtown area," he said.

"One of the design standards in CadyCentre was to provide for a strong link between the parking deck and the shops on South Center Street," he added.

That has been accomplished with a pedestrian access from the second level of the three-floor parking deck, through the proposed CadyCentre building, and onto the ground level at Center Street. A small pavilion area between the deck and the north face of CadyCentre would help draw shoppers down Mary Alexander Court and to the retail shops on the east side of CadyCentre.

Through council members seemed pleased with the parking deck design, at least one voiced an objection against the look of CadyCentre.

"I do have a little bit of a problem with the architecture of CadyCentre," said Dewey Gardner. "It's a little too institutionalized, it looks like the old high schools."

Presley also pointed out that CadyCentre itself would just about two feet east and 17 feet south onto city-owned property. The city planning commission had previously raised concerns about a private building being built on public property.

Singh Vice President Mike Kahn acknowledged the commission's concern, and suggested to the council that the matter could be handled through cross-easements or quitclaim deeds relinquishing claims to the property in question.

"That's an item to be discussed," said Mayor Chris Johnson.

The council granted conceptual approval of the project at Manager Word's request.

"In light of recent discussions at the planning commission... I think the city staff would like the council to go on record indicating that the parking deck has received at least conceptual approval of the deck," Word said.

The council agreed, and voted 4-0 to grant that approval. Council Member Carolann Ayers was absent.

City explores financing of deck

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

City Manager Gary Word said his staff has begun exploring in detail the method to be used to finance an expanded Cady Street parking deck, and the city's ability to enter into such a financial arrangement.

City council members previously had cited financing as the major challenge facing the roughly $5.5-million city project.

"Staff does recognize the council's concern with the financing of the deck," Word said. He said that city officials have begun discussing the financing both with school officials and with the city's bond counsel, Al Dieble of Manufacturers National Bank. Northville Public Schools would be asked for its approval of any financing plan that used captured taxes, since the plan would affect their finances as well.

Word added that a preliminary audit report due soon from city auditors Plante & Moran should shed light on the city's ability to sell the bonds needed to finance the project.

The project would be paid through a tax increment financing authority similar to the one used to finance the MainStreet 78 downtown renovation program. TIFA programs use taxes captured from the new revenue created by annual increases in property values.

At Mayor Chris Johnson's suggestion, the council authorized Johnson and Word to begin negotiating with Singh Development over two points: the exact price that Singh would pay the city for parking credits required at its CadyCentre project, and the project's partial placement on city-owned land.

Johnson described the points as the "two essential issues that must be resolved between the city and Singh."

News Briefs

CORRECTIONS: A story that appeared in the Sept. 5 Northville Record incorrectly stated the number of cars stolen in the city during 1991, based on information provided to the paper by the Northville City Police Department. But the police department's quarterly report to the Northville City Council noted — correctly — that three cars have been reported stolen in the city as of June 30.

Also in the Sept. 5 Record, information should have said the Northville High School Jazz Band made its second appearance in the Montreux Detroit Jazz Festival on Labor Day.

CALENDAR AVAILABLE: The Northville PTA Coordinating Council calendar made its debut in school offices early this month. The calendars contain important dates for school and community functions, and names and telephone numbers of school personnel. Dates when school will not be in session are highlighted on the calendar. And each month features artwork by a student artist from Northville.

The calendar's are available for $3 in each school's office. PTA spokespeople recommend purchasing calendars before or during school open houses held this month.

NORTHVILLE RECYCLES: "Northville Recycles" canvas tote bags are now for sale by members of the Northville Merchants' Association.

Downtown stores are selling the bags to help support some of the functions the Merchants' Association promotes, such as the children's programs on Thursdays during the summer and the flower show.

Made of durable natural canvas with a hunter green recycling logo, these make great school bags for children and shopping bags for adults. They have a medium-length double handle to make it easy to carry. The price is $6.

Many of the stores on Main and Center streets have the bags available; or call 349-0199.

FARMERS MARKET CONTINUES: The Northville Farmers Market continues to offer fresh produce and more every Thursday from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m.

The fall harvest is coming in now, so the farmers are offering goodies like fresh-picked raspberries, squash, and even pumpkins and gourds. Flowers and crafts are also on hand.

The market, sponsored by the Northville Community Chamber of Commerce, takes place in the Northville Downs auxiliary parking lot on the northwest corner of Center Street and Seven Mile Road.

MAYOR ON THE AIR: City of Northville Mayor Chris Johnson will join host Lou Farrell on a talk radio program Sept. 19.

Johnson will be the guest on "Globe Talk," a call-in show on WLQV, 1500-AM. There will be open lines for questions and comments. "Globe Talk" covers local, national and international matters. The show starts at 7 p.m. Thursday, Sept. 19.

VICTORIAN TRUNK SHOW: A special show and sale of men's and women's Victorian-style clothing is scheduled for today, Sept. 12, just in time for the third annual Victorian Festival.

Mountain Rags and Traditions will sponsor a trunk show by an expert on period clothing from 5-9 p.m. in the atrium near their stores, on the west side of Center halfway between Main and Dunlap. Mary Ptasznik, who works at Greenfield Village, will show off the period finery in a nick of time for the festival, which runs Sept. 13-15.

Honor for ordinance

Northville Action Council members Maureen D'Avanzo, Roxanne Casterline, and Al Qualman presented plaques of appreciation to the city council and city police department Monday night. Above, Mayor Chris Johnson receives the honor from D'Avanzo. The plaque reads that it is presented "in appreciation of your understanding and devotion as elected officials by enacting positive legislation for the betterment of the Northville community and the citizens of Northville." The council recently approved an ordinance holding homeowners responsible for parties where minors consume alcohol or drugs. The township passed a similar ordinance and has also been honored by Northville Action Council.

Costs force cuts in library hours

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

The Northville Library has cut back its hours in response to a tight budget, Director Pat Orr told the city council Monday.

The library is opening an hour later and closing an hour earlier Monday through Thursday. The new schedule is 11 a.m. to 8 p.m. Monday through Thursday, and 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Friday and Saturday.

Orr explained the reasons behind the cutback to the city council at its Monday meeting.

"Usually I come before you with good news, and it's different this time," she said. "This is one of a number of reductions in service that we've had to contemplate. It was not done lightly."

The director cited three reasons for the cut in hours: the impact of increased costs of salaries and fringe benefits with no concurrent increase in the library's budget, an auditor's recommendation that the library restore a $15,000 fund balance spent to cover increased health-care costs in 1990, and vacancies created through the attrition of two circulation clerks.

"We have increases in health care costs, and we have increases in salaries and benefits that we know are coming based on the clerical union's agreement," Orr said.

"We haven't actually laid off people," she added. "As vacancies came up, we simply haven't filled them... It was 42 hours of staffing that I lost, that the library lost, that was purely public service."

Without those public service employees, the library cannot continue to operate and serve the public for the same number of hours that it has,

Orr said. "Books don't get themselves on the shelves, programs don't get planned, and we cannot figure out a budget while we're standing there at the desk checking out books... There's too much activity for us to absorb with the staff we have."

The new schedule, which began last week, is one of several steps taken by the library to reduce expenditures. Others include a 20-percent cutback in the budget for new books and materials, and the deferral of expenses including a computerized catalog for which the library had budgeted.

Meijer parking lot scene of S-10 Blazer theft

A Livonia woman told township police that her 1991 Chevrolet S-10 Blazer was stolen from the parking lot at Meijer, 20401 Haggerty, sometime between 3:30-4:30 p.m. Sept. 4.

The woman told police the vehicle was parked in the "D" section of the lot adjacent to a shopping cart rack when it was stolen.

Detroit Auto Recovery police notified township police later that evening and reported that the vehicle was found on a Detroit street. Police said the Blazer's ignition had been "punched" and that the vehicle's wheels had been stolen. No arrests were made when the vehicle was recovered.

GOLF CLUBS STOLEN: A Northville resident told township police that someone stole two sets of golf clubs and shoes from a vehicle parked in her Parklane driveway late Sept. 2 or early Sept. 3.

Thieves reportedly broke the trunk lock to the woman's 1989 Pontiac Bonneville and stole a 12-piece set of men's golf clubs and a 12-piece set of women's golf clubs. A pair of women's shoes and a pair of men's shoes also were stolen, the woman said.

Stolen items were valued at $1,250 and damage to the vehicle was estimated at $100.

SUICIDE THREAT: A 40-year-old Detroit woman was admitted to Detroit Riverview Hospital after threatening to kill herself with a handgun while visiting her daughter at the Our Lady of Providence Center, 16115 Beck Road, on Sept. 4.

Township police said the woman told a Providence Center employee that she was going to kill herself with a .32-caliber handgun she carried in her purse. Police transported the woman to the Detroit hospital after the woman agreed to admit herself for psychiatric observation.

WOMAN NABBED ON THEFT CHARGE: A 20-year-old Waterford woman was charged with larceny after her arrest at Meijer late Sept. 4. Township police said the woman attempted to steal a pair of shoes from the store.

PATIO WINDOW BROKEN: A Dunwood resident told township police that someone broke a patio window at the residence sometime between 4-9 p.m. Sept. 4. Damage was estimated at $300.

VEHICLE DAMAGED: A Northville man told township police someone damaged his 1988 Ford Ranger while it was parked in a lot at 42637 Northville Place Drive East late Sept. 5 or early Sept. 6.

The man told police that the vehicle's driver's side door was pushed in, the vehicle was "keyed," and its front fog lights smashed. Damage was estimated at $800.

RESIDENCE DAMAGED: A Lincoln Park man told township police that a home under construction on Rolling Woods Drive was damaged sometime between 6 p.m. Sept. 4 and 4 p.m. Sept. 6.

The man told police that the building's wiring was torn out and cut and that electrical outlets were torn from walls. Damage was estimated at $500.

DISGRUNTLED EX-EMPLOYEE DAMAGED DOOR: An employee fired from MacKinnon's Restaurant Sept. 7 reportedly kicked open a screen door on his way out, causing $125 in damages. The man was reportedly notified of his termination about 2 p.m. and kicked open a rear screen door at the 126 E. Main St. restaurant, breaking the door, tearing apart the hydraulic cylinder that held the door closed, and staining wood latticework outside the door with hydraulic oil. City police are investigating the report.

DRUNK DRIVING ARREST: City police charged a 23-year-old Northville man with operating a vehicle under the influence of liquor Sept. 6, after stopping him for speeding on Griswold at 10:55 that night. Police pursued the man after watching him speed east on Main Street and turn north onto Griswold, squealing his tires. Police stopped the man and had him take a preliminary breath test after he failed field sobriety tests. His blood alcohol level was measured at .138 percent, above the state's legal limit of .10 percent.

Police also found a case of beer, containing two partially consumed bottles, under a passenger's legs. The driver admitted to drinking while driving. He was arrested and taken to the police station, where he refused to take a Breathalyzer test. He was placed in a cell until his blood alcohol level dropped, and released after posting a $100 bond.

VEHICLE WINDOW BROKEN: The rear window of a vehicle parked in a Rogers Street driveway Sept. 8 was shattered sometime between midnight and 3:13 a.m. A neighbor noticed the damage and reported it to city police. Nothing appeared to have been taken from the vehicle.

FENDER BENDER: City police reported one accident last week. A 70-year-old Northville man driving west on Randolph Street west of Center at 5:15 p.m. Sept. 6 struck an eastbound car as he turned left off Randolph. He was cited for failing to yield.

Citizens with information about the above incidents are urged to call Northville City Police at 349-1234 or Northville Township Police at 349-9400.

Law enforcers share car theft information

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

Wayne County law enforcement agencies met last week to share what they know about car thefts, in the hope that their knowledge will help identify places where cars are most often taken, the types of cars stolen, and the people involved.

Northville city and township police took part in the Romulus meeting of suburban police departments last Tuesday, coordinated by the Wayne County Sheriff's Department. Representatives from about 35 local departments, the State Police and the Western Wayne Auto Theft Unit attended the hour-long meeting.

The cooperative effort is in response to a recent surge in car thefts in the Detroit area, where nearly 300 cars have been stolen already this year.

Northville has not escaped the rash of auto thefts that have hit the metro Detroit area in recent months, though local thefts have not been marked by the violence associated with several of the Detroit thefts.

In Northville Township this year, 26 cars have been reported stolen. The city has seen three car-theft reports. Wayne County Sheriff Robert Ficano said the interdepartmental effort will help individual departments track the types of people stealing cars and those getting their cars stolen, and the most common locations for car thefts.

"This is really a sharing of information and strategies,"

Ficano said. His department has set up a computer database to store reported thefts, a standardized form for local departments to use in reporting thefts, and a program to search for patterns. Ficano said the program should help pin down "any profiles that might lead us to identify either geographic locations or type of individuals (involved as thieves and victims)."

What makes this effort unique is the scope of information being sought, Ficano said. "What happens in law enforcement is if something occurs, many times that department or surrounding departments may have it, but this is something where it's on a countywide basis. We've gotten the cooperation of the City of Detroit as well as Washtenaw, Macomb, Oakland and Monroe counties."

Northville City Police Captain James Petres said the new cooperation between departments is a welcome change from the past. "Up to now, there's been no real dissemination of the information," he said. "There hasn't been a real sharing and review."

The profiles will help local agencies act to prevent thefts rather than react after a theft has taken place. "If there's a particular pattern involved, the officer will know what to look for," Petres said.

The sheriff's office has also pledged its technical support to local departments, he said: "If a car has been stolen and it's recovered, they will help us print and process the scene."

Township Police Chief Chip Snider called the meeting

"a concerted effort by agencies in Wayne County to compile data centrally on the victims . . . and also to compile data on the perpetrators to see if in fact it's the same people committing the crimes in different jurisdictions or if it's more or less a copycat-type crime."

"This is an effort to put everything in a central repository and be able to draw from it, should we experience the crime out here."

The information will not only be valuable to the police, Snider said. "We can disseminate (the results) to the public for their information, including the profile of the victim. Because I think that's important to know . . . I would suspect that one or two men would rather take a vehicle from a young woman than they would a 6-foot, 250-pound man. And if that's the case, we need to determine that through the data and get back to the public and say, 'If you are a slightly-built female driving after dark, beware, as you should be anyway.'"

"We're also going to ask them to look at all the vehicles to see if there's any similarity. Are they looking for hot cars, like IROCs, are they looking for Oldsmobiles, General Motors, Ford, what do they seem to be taking the most of?"

Snider was impressed with the level of cooperation pledged between the departments at Tuesday's meeting.

"I thought it was not only informational, but it was good to see that all the administrations collectively in one room are concerned," he said. "We're concerned because this is not a new crime. But because of the copycat effect of it and because, really, of the hype that the media's given it, and not only that but because of the youth of some of the perpetrators . . . We need to slow this (series of crimes) down, take some defenses against it."

To illustrate his point, Snider recounted a story told at the Romulus meeting about an attempted car theft in Detroit. A young teenager in Dearborn reportedly read about the series of thefts and attempted to steal a car himself, forcing a woman out of her car at knifepoint.

"(He) pulled the woman out of the car, put a knife to her, got in the driver's seat, sat in the car, and realized he didn't know how to drive," Snider said. "He'd never driven a car before. So he had the vehicle, completed the crime, but he couldn't get away."

The Western Wayne Auto Theft Unit shared some information with the departments, but will have less involvement overall, Snider said. "They offered some statistical information, but that unit deals primarily with what we call conspiratorial teams, and that is to lead us to the chop shops. Through surveillance and through intelligence data they try and determine where these cars are being taken, and then they crack the chop shop, which of course cracks the demand for the stolen cars."

Chop shops are illegal operations where cars are stripped for their parts.

Northville Township and city each have committed a police officer to the auto theft unit.

Students chosen as semifinalists for scholarships

By SUZANNE HOLLYER
Staff Writer

Six Northville High School seniors will compete nationally with over 15,000 students for $26 million in college scholarships.

Matthew Bassin, Jolie Graf, Leanne Michaelis, Justin Ord, Jeffrey Pheley and Brent Williams were among the semifinalists announced yesterday in the 1992 National Merit Scholarship Program.

Michaelis and Williams reported an interest in business management as a career. Graf and Pheley said they have an interest in a legal career. Bassin hopes to go into the aerospace industry, and Ord is undecided.

Over a million students from more than 19,000 high schools entered the program by taking the 1990 Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude Test / National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test. Semifinalists, the top scorers in each state, will now advance to the finalist level. Finalists will be announced next spring.

To qualify as a finalist students must be endorsed by the school principal, maintain an outstanding academic record and submit SAT scores compatible with their PSAT scores. Students also must submit an application.

About 90 percent of the semifinalists will become finalists, according to competition organizers.

Three types of merit scholarships will be awarded through the program.

National Merit Scholarships of $2,000 will be given to 1,800 students. Merit scholarships provided by corporations, foundations and business organizations will be given to 1,300 students who meet specific qualifications. And colleges and universities will provide over 3,000 awards.

Meijer parking lot scene of S-10 Blazer theft

A Livonia woman told township police that her 1991 Chevrolet S-10 Blazer was stolen from the parking lot at Meijer, 20401 Haggerty, sometime between 3:30-4:30 p.m. Sept. 4.

The woman told police the vehicle was parked in the "D" section of the lot adjacent to a shopping cart rack when it was stolen.

Detroit Auto Recovery police notified township police later that evening and reported that the vehicle was found on a Detroit street. Police said the Blazer's ignition had been "punched" and that the vehicle's wheels had been stolen. No arrests were made when the vehicle was recovered.

GOLF CLUBS STOLEN: A Northville resident told township police that someone stole two sets of golf clubs and shoes from a vehicle parked in her Parklane driveway late Sept. 2 or early Sept. 3.

Thieves reportedly broke the trunk lock to the woman's 1989 Pontiac Bonneville and stole a 12-piece set of men's golf clubs and a 12-piece set of women's golf clubs. A pair of women's shoes and a pair of men's shoes also were stolen, the woman said.

Stolen items were valued at $1,250 and damage to the vehicle was estimated at $100.

SUICIDE THREAT: A 40-year-old Detroit woman was admitted to Detroit Riverview Hospital after threatening to kill herself with a handgun while visiting her daughter at the Our Lady of Providence Center, 16115 Beck Road, on Sept. 4.

Township police said the woman told a Providence Center employee that she was going to kill herself with a .32-caliber handgun she carried in her purse. Police transported the woman to the Detroit hospital after the woman agreed to admit herself for psychiatric observation.

WOMAN NABBED ON THEFT CHARGE: A 20-year-old Waterford woman was charged with larceny after her arrest at Meijer late Sept. 4. Township police said the woman attempted to steal a pair of shoes from the store.

PATIO WINDOW BROKEN: A Durwood resident told township police that someone broke a patio window at the residence sometime between 4-9 p.m. Sept. 4. Damage was estimated at $300.

VEHICLE DAMAGED: A Northville man told township police someone damaged his 1988 Ford Ranger while it was parked in a lot at 42637 Northville Place Drive East late Sept. 5 or early Sept. 6.

The man told police that the vehicle's driver's side door was pushed in, the vehicle was "keyed," and its front fog lights smashed. Damage was estimated at $800.

RESIDENCE DAMAGED: A Lincoln Park man told township police that a home under construction on Rolling Woods Drive was damaged sometime between 6 p.m. Sept. 4 and 4 p.m. Sept. 6.

The man told police that the building's wiring was torn out and cut and that electrical outlets were torn from walls. Damage was estimated at $500.

DISGRUNTLED EX-EMPLOYEE DAMAGED DOOR: An employee fired from MacKinnon's Restaurant Sept. 7 reportedly kicked open a screen door on his way out, causing $125 in damages. The man was reportedly notified of his termination about 2 p.m. and kicked open a rear screen door at the 126 E. Main St. restaurant, breaking the door, tearing apart the hydraulic cylinder that held the door closed, and staining wood latticework outside the door with hydraulic oil. City police are investigating the report.

ing the report.

DUNK DRIVING ARREST: City police charged a 23-year-old Northville man with operating a vehicle under the influence of liquor Sept. 6, after stopping him for speeding on Griswold at 10:55 that night. Police pursued the man after watching him speed east on Main Street and turn north onto Griswold, squealing his tires. Police stopped the man and had him take a preliminary breath test after he failed field sobriety tests. His blood alcohol level was measured at .138 percent, above the state's legal limit of .10 percent.

Police also found a case of beer, containing two partially consumed bottles, under a passenger's legs. The driver admitted to drinking while driving. He was arrested and taken to the police station, where he refused to take a Breathalyzer test. He was placed in a cell until his blood alcohol level dropped, and released after posting a $100 bond.

VEHICLE WINDOW BROKEN: The rear window of a vehicle parked in a Rogers Street driveway Sept. 8 was shattered sometime between midnight and 3:13 a.m. A neighbor noticed the damage and reported it to city police. Nothing appeared to have been taken from the vehicle.

FENDER BENDER: City police reported one accident last week. A 70-year-old Northville man driving west on Randolph Street west of Center at 5:15 p.m. Sept. 6 struck an eastbound car as he turned left off Randolph. He was cited for failing to yield.

Citizens with information about the above incidents are urged to call Northville City Police at 349-1234 or Northville Township Police at 349-9400.

Law enforcers share car theft information

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

Wayne County law enforcement agencies met last week to share what they know about car thefts, in the hope that their knowledge will help identify places where cars are most often taken, the types of cars stolen, and the people involved.

Northville city and township police took part in the Romulus meeting of suburban police departments last Tuesday, coordinated by the Wayne County Sheriff's Department. Representatives from about 35 local departments, the State Police and the Western Wayne Auto Theft Unit attended the hour-long meeting.

The cooperative effort is in response to a recent surge in car thefts in the Detroit area, where nearly 300 cars have been stolen already this year.

Northville has not escaped the rash of auto thefts that have hit the metro Detroit area in recent months, though local thefts have not been marked by the violence associated with several of the Detroit thefts.

In Northville Township this year, 26 cars have been reported stolen. The city has seen three car-theft reports.

Wayne County Sheriff Robert Ficano said the interdepartmental effort will help individual departments track the types of people stealing cars and those getting their cars stolen, and the most common locations for car thefts.

"This is really a sharing of information and strategies,"

Ficano said. His department has set up a computer database to store reported thefts, a standardized form for local departments to use in reporting thefts, and a program to search for patterns. Ficano said the program should help pin down "any profiles that might lead us to identify either geographic locations or type of individuals (involved as thieves and victims)."

What makes this effort unique is the scope of information being sought, Ficano said. "What happens in law enforcement is if something occurs, many times that department or surrounding departments may have it, but this is something where it's on a countywide basis. We've gotten the cooperation of the City of Detroit as well as Washtenaw, Macomb, Oakland and Monroe counties."

Northville City Police Captain James Petres said the new cooperation between departments is a welcome change from the past. "Up to now, there's been no real dissemination of the information," he said. "There hasn't been a real sharing and review."

The profiles will help local agencies act to prevent thefts rather than react after a theft has taken place. "If there's a particular pattern involved, the officer will know what to look for," Petres said.

The sheriff's office has also pledged its technical support to local departments, he said. "If a car has been stolen and it's recovered, they will help us print and process the scene."

Township Police Chief Chip Snider called the meeting

"a concerted effort by agencies in Wayne County to compile data centrally on the victims . . . and also to compile data on the perpetrators to see if in fact it's the same people committing the crimes in different jurisdictions or if it's more or less a copycat-type crime."

"This is an effort to put everything in a central depository and be able to draw from it, should we experience the crime out here."

The information will not only be valuable to the police, Snider said. "We can disseminate (the results) to the public for their information, including the profile of the victim. Because I think that's important to know . . . I would suspect that one or two men would rather take a vehicle from a young woman than they would a 6-foot, 250-pound man. And if that's the case, we need to determine that through the data and get back to the public and say, 'If you are a slightly-built female driving after dark, beware, as you should be anyway.'"

"We're also going to ask them to look at all the vehicles to see if there's any similarity. Are they looking for hot cars, like IROC's, are they looking for Oldsmobiles, General Motors, Ford, what do they seem to be taking the most of?"

Snider was impressed with the level of cooperation pledged between the departments at Tuesday's meeting.

"I thought it was not only informational, but it was good to see that all the administrations collectively in one room are concerned," he said. "We're concerned because this is not a new crime. But because of the copycat effect of it and because, really, of the hype that the media's given it, and not only that but because of the youth of some of the perpetrators . . . We need to slow this (series of crimes) down, take some defenses against it."

To illustrate his point, Snider recounted a story told at the Romulus meeting about an attempted car theft in Detroit. A young teenager in Dearborn reportedly read about the series of thefts and attempted to steal a car himself, forcing a woman out of her car at knifepoint.

"(He) pulled the woman out of the car, put a knife to her, got in the driver's seat, sat in the car, and realized he didn't know how to drive," Snider said. "He'd never driven a car before. So he had the vehicle, completed the crime, but he couldn't get away."

The Western Wayne Auto Theft Unit shared some information with the departments, but will have less involvement overall, Snider said. "They offered some statistical information, but that unit deals primarily with what we call conspiratorial teams, and that is to lead us to the chop shops. Through surveillance and through intelligence data they try and determine where these cars are being taken, and then they crack the chop shop, which of course cracks the demand for the stolen cars."

Chop shops are illegal operations where cars are stripped for their parts.

Northville Township and city each have committed a police officer to the auto theft unit.

Students chosen as semifinalists for scholarships

By SUZANNE HOLLYER
Staff Writer

Six Northville High School seniors will compete nationally with over 15,000 students for $26 million in college scholarships.

Matthew Bassin, Jolie Graf, Leanne Michaelis, Justin Ord, Jeffrey Pheley and Brent Williams were among the semifinalists announced yesterday in the 1992 National Merit Scholarship Program.

Michaelis and Williams reported an interest in business management as a career. Graf and Pheley said they have an interest in a legal career. Bassin hopes to go into the aerospace industry, and Ord is undecided.

Over a million students from more than 19,000 high schools entered the program by taking the 1990 Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude Test / National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test. Semifinalists, the top scorers in each state, will now advance to the finalist level. Finalists will be announced next spring.

To qualify as a finalist students must be endorsed by the school principal, maintain an outstanding academic record and submit SAT scores compatible with their PSAT scores. Students also must submit an application.

About 90 percent of the semifinalists will become finalists, according to competition organizers.

Three types of merit scholarships will be awarded through the program.

National Merit Scholarships of $2,000 will be given to 1,800 students. Merit scholarships provided by corporations, foundations and business organizations will be given to 1,300 students who meet specific qualifications. And colleges and universities will provide over 3,000 awards.

Teresa and Sem headline the Victorian Review.

Victorian weekend ahead

ian Festival Parade, giving revelers a first-hand view of world-class unicyclists, a magician, and a juggler. The headliners, sponsored by the Casterline Funeral Home and Genitt's Hole-in-the-Wall, will return for encore performances at 1 and 4 p.m. Saturday and at 2 p.m. Sunday.

Marrs said the review represent a conscious departure from the Great Wallendas, who performed feats of aerial daring high over the streets of Northville last year.

"We couldn't even imagine topping that," she said. "We couldn't keep topping ourselves."

But the Victorian Review promises fun for people of all ages, Marrs said. "This is just a little bit different. It's family entertainment, and it lasts a lot longer."

Whereas the Wallendas' stunts were over in minutes, the Victorian Review will perform for about an hour each time.

The weekend's festivities officially begin at 6 p.m. Friday with the annual parade, and continue through the weekend with the Northville Art Market on Main Street Saturday and Sunday, the Antique Show throughout the weekend at the American Legion Hall, the family picnic and box-lunch auction on Sunday, and the Victorian Costume Ball Saturday at 8 p.m. at its new Northville Community Center location.

Besides a new location, this year's ball will be more reasonably priced than last year. "It will be bigger and better and, of course, less expensive, which opens it up to a whole new group of people," Marrs said.

The Victorian Festival's many events were organized by individual committees set up under the auspices of the Northville Community Chamber of Commerce. Here is a list of those committees and their chairs: Elementary school activities: Susan Couzens, Bo Hall.

Entertainment: Judy Dore.

Friday night family auction: Paul Foster, Jeanne Vafakas.

Mill Race children's games: Traci Gottschalk.

Saturday children's games: Dan Hackett and Nancy Rochon, Bill and Carol Jean Stockhausen.

Victorian Costume Ball: Leslie Benser, Kevin Pavlina, Edward Postliff.

Victorian Parade: Mark Cryderman.

For the inside information on all the festivities, just look inside today's Northville Record. The Victorian Festival is the subject of today's special section.

Festival remembers past with Victorian fashions

It was a time of refined elegance and poetic romance.

The era of Queen Victoria's reign in England, 1837-1901, was characterized by rapid changes of style and ornamental dress.

Victorian ladies wore elaborate dresses with long skirts, puffs of lace, high collars, and jeweled brooches during the day. At night, necklines plunged and sleeves were worn off the shoulder.

Men were most appropriately outfitted in sack-style suits, vests accessorized by gold watch chains, and colorful soft ties, ascots, or bow ties.

The Northville Victorian Festival, Sept. 13-15, attempts to recreate the magic of that era, complete with authentic costumes, music, a parade, a ball, and a Sunday afternoon picnic. Organizers ask that festivalgoers observe the style and atmosphere of the Victorian era by dressing in appropriate attire. Non-profit groups and merchants throughout downtown plan to get in the spirit.

Attendees at the first two festivals have found that costumes don't have to be elaborate or expensive. Adaptations of things already in the closet can work very well.

An ordinary woman's blouse, for example, can take on a Victorian air merely by raising the collar and pinning it at the neck with a colorful brooch or pin.

Daytime Victorian attire for women may consist of a white blouse, dark skirt, and an apron of striped, gingham or printed material.

Suggested accessories include umbrellas or parasols, which are sold inexpensively at many antique shops; hand-held fans; and wide-brimmed hats for the ladies. Cameos, lockets on delicate chains or ribbons, jeweled combs for the hair, and any type of black jewelry also signify the Victorian era.

Men can transform their wardrobes into Victorian styles by wearing vests over white shirts tied with a bow tie, ascot, or scarf at the neck. For a fancy touch, men may choose to wear a vest designed from a remnant of upholstery fabric. Any pants or trousers in dark hues are representative of the era.

Straw hats are appropriate for men during daytime activities, such as the Sunday afternoon picnic or afternoon games, while top hats or derby hats can be worn with evening attire.

Women's shoes should be low-heeled, ballet-style slippers. There were no such things as high-heeled pumps as we know them today in a Victorian woman's closet.

Men are advised to simply wear dark-colored shoes.

Recommended children's clothing for girls consists of short dresses that fall below the knee in simple styles gathered on a round or square yoke.

Necklines as worn most often by Victorian children were high, and sleeves were short. Cover a dress with a pinafore or apron, and the outfit is easily transformed into a Victorian fashion.

To fit into the festival spirit, boys may wear knickerbockers with long socks, an effect that can be achieved by simply tucking a pant leg into the top of a long sock. Victorian boys wore pleated shirts with round collars tied with a string or scarf tie. Other boys' fashions consisted of loose-fitting overalls without a shirt.

One highlight of the festival is the costume ball on Saturday evening.

Suggested apparel for women attending the ball includes full-skirted gowns with crinoline — coarse, stiff cloth used as a lining in garments — that can be worn off the shoulder. Gowns with pleating and bustles would also be appropriate. Ladies who don't own a gown are encouraged to wear a full, dark skirt with a lacy blouse. Old prom dresses, bridesmaid dresses or graduation gowns may serve the purpose.

Evening wear for men may consist of formal, dark suits, white shirts with wing-tip collars, and black ties, ascots, bow ties or scarves. Cutaway tuxedos would be most appropriate for those seeking a bit more elegance. Scottish kilts are also appropriate.

Not on me! On the car!

Things got just a little bit out of control Saturday at the free car wash sponsored by the Senior Class at Northville High School. But it was awfully hot and everyone did need to cool off. A lot of cars did get washed and the seniors raised a lot of money toward next spring's prom.

Chief to train at FBI school

By MIKE TYREE
Staff Writer

Chip Snider recently learned he is on the FBI's Most Wanted List. But Snider, Northville Township's police chief, is not about to take it on the lam. In fact, he's turning himself over to the G-men.

Snider is one of 45 lawmen nationwide selected to train at the Federal Bureau of Investigation National Academy at Quantico, Va. Sept. 27 through Dec. 16.

The academy is set up like a cross between college and military training and is designed for experienced law enforcement administrators, Snider said.

"It fosters personal growth and development while providing an informational network of administrators throughout the nation," Snider said. "I'll give me a better handle... on how to manage police organizations."

"And it'll bring me up to date on what's happening in law enforcement," he added.

Snider, 41, and a 21-year police veteran, was one of six Michigan law officers selected for the academy. The federal government picks up the training tab, but Snider will continue to earn his Northville Township paycheck.

FBI Academy life stresses nutrition and physical fitness, as well as a full load of course work. In addition to a class schedule that includes topics such as stress and crisis management, executive leadership, contemporary problems in law enforcement, and forensic and technical training, Snider is starting into the grueling "rigorous physical fitness training."

"I'll probably lose 15-20 pounds," he laughed, speaking of the academy's strict training regimen. Academy classes are taught by FBI personnel and University of Virginia instructors, Snider said. Completion of the program will earn Snider 12 credit hours at the University of Virginia.

Of all the practical applications he might learn from the academy, the ability to upgrade his informational network could be the most important, Snider said.

"The network of people you meet across the nation is invaluable," he said. "It can really help to cut through the red tape."

Snider's planned three-month absence will create some changes in the township police department. But experienced personnel on staff will run a tight ship, he said.

Capt. Philip Presnell and Lt. Gary Batzloff will divvy command chores, Snider said. Presnell will be in charge of administrative duties, the investigations bureau, and media requests to follow-ups on crime reports.

Presnell also will represent the department at township board meetings.

Batzloff will command all uniformed personnel. His other tasks will include scheduling, press relations, and recruitment and hiring.

"I'm very confident that the command staff and troops will be able to continue to work in an air of cooperation," Snider said. "I don't expect to be missed."

Seniors, rec building win grants

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

The Northville City Council allocated $17,000 in community development block grant funds Monday to improvements at the senior center and recreation building.

The approval followed a public hearing on the proposed allocations.

The Oakland County funds will pay for $9,000 in acoustic tiles at the Northville Area Senior Citizens Center, 215 W. Cady St., and $4,000 for air conditioning for the senior center bus. The remaining $4,000 will fund a barrier-free sidewalk to the Community Recreation Building at 303 W. Main St.

The City of Northville receives block grant funds yearly from both Wayne and Oakland counties, with about $6,600 annually in Oakland County funds. Some $34,000 in unspent Oakland County funds had been accumulated from as far back as 1984. The city was in danger of losing the $17,000 of that amount that had not yet been designated for specific projects, under federal regulations.

The remaining $17,000 has already been allocated to barrier-free restrooms and a ramp to the Cady Inn at Mill Race Historical Village, sidewalks along Griswold Street between Mill Race and Main Street, and the continuing construction of barrier-free sidewalk intersections throughout the city.

Block grant funds must be spent on improvements that help low- and moderate-income people, seniors or the handicapped.

Schools set planning dates

By SUZANNE HOLLYER
Staff Writer

Northville schools' Strategic Planning Initiative began in 1988, but school district staff members, community members and parents who weren't around for the original orientation session will get a second chance.

On Sept. 17, a strategic planning orientation session will be held in the high school Forum from 7-10 p.m.

Over 50 percent of strategic planners and school improvement team members are new this year, according to Assistant Superintendent for Instructional Services Dolly McMaster.

About 12 new parents have gotten involved as leaders in PTA and parent advisory groups. And since 1988 over 130 new district staff members have been hired.

Participants in the Sept. 17 session will be given an orientation packet and a short summary of accomplishments resulting from strategic planning in Northville.

One goal of the strategic plan is to establish exit outcomes for all students leaving Northville Public Schools. A group of seven people intended to provide leadership will attend an outcome-based education conference in Illinois in late September.

In October, more district staff members may have an opportunity to get involved in outcome-based education.

A day-long strategic planning session will continue the process on Nov. 14.

From 9 a.m. until 4 p.m. the strategic planning team and other Northville Public School representatives will focus on exit outcomes.

Garage sale strategies

... or how you too can score a three-legged chair

By PATRICIA A. ZIELKE
Special Writer

As garage sales season is rapidly winding down, it's interesting to reflect on some of the more memorable occurrences.

For the uninitiated, a garage sale does not mean selling your garage. It's using your garage to display the stuff you don't want in an attempt to sell it to someone else who probably doesn't want it either. Some of the stuff may include items that are cracked, chipped, torn, snagged, soiled, ripped, dented, or melted — and then there's the bad stuff I personally have come home with a three-legged chair, a one-udder cow and an understuffed pillow that I thought was a training bra. I definitely need glasses!

In order to eliminate the flawed items from your selection, you should have the sharp eyes of a hawk and the smooth touch of a safe cracker. Look at the item for obvious imperfections and feel for chips and cracks. If your fingers don't bleed, it's not cracked.

Garage sales usually begin at 9 a.m. However, the garage sailors who go on a regular basis (a.k.a. "regulars") are always gathered at the seller's garage by 8:30 in order to get first dibs on the good stuff. Most of the sales are identified with signs and balloons. "Inflate your balloons and they will come."

So join me as I approach my first garage sale of the day. It's 8:30 and all of the regulars have gathered at the garage and are staring fixedly at the door — reminiscent of the Zombies who ate Cleveland. I take a spot at the door with the rest of the sleep-deprived. At 8:45, the electric door slowly groans open and I notice one of the regulars bending over and peering into the garage — the contents of which remain a mystery to rest of us.

Suddenly, without warning, and breaking the silence of the morning, a penetrating scream comes from the bending one: "I'LL TAKE THE WICKER," she cries. And there it stood, six pieces of snow white wicker. Good maneuver. It secured the wicker for the bending one who bought all but two ratto pieces — which she generously left for the rest of us to battle over.

I didn't get the coveted wicker, but I did learn something: bend, look, scream. Armed with this new information, I embarked the following week on yet another grand adventure. There they were — the regulars. I walked up the drive to the garage, and as the door hummed open, I bent over and peeked into the dark interior and YES! OH YES! Was it the prized white wickers? IT MUST BE! IT LOOKED LIKE IT!

I gathered up my loudest and most officious voice and shouted, "I'LL TAKE THE WICKER!" Wrong, garage sale breath. Standing there in knee-high white socks were five very old people on 10 of the skinniest legs I've ever seen. Oh, how do I recover from such a faux pas and regain credibility with the regulars — to say nothing of assuring the old people that I'm not a fugitive from the road company of "One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest?" Before skulking away, I bought a cracked souvenir plate of Hamtramck (the least I could do) and quickly faded away into the dust of yet another garage sale.

This is the first of two parts. Patricia A. Zielke is a Northville resident, freelance writer and avid garage-saler.

Mill Race Matters

It's Victorian Festival time once again. Northville's third annual festival begins Friday, Sept. 13. Society members will participate on Friday morning and afternoon activities which include historic tours for local school children as well as other special events for the students.

The official festival gets under way Friday evening with the 6 p.m. parade through town. Again this year Northville Historical Society members will march together. Fran Gazlay will lead the group. Look for him and the Mill Race Village sign. Put on your costume and join in. Costumed non-members are also welcome to join. We'll be meeting behind the Recreation Building at about 5:30.

Mill Race activities for the Festival include village opening both days from 11 a.m. until 5 p.m. Spread the word, as some of the festival literature has been distributed with incorrect information. Special To Docents: Ruth Crawford can still use some late afternoon decent assistance both days so if you are able to help out give her a call. The traditional festival picnic will take place at Mill Race on Sunday afternoon from about noon until 3 p.m. The recreation department's children's games will also be held at Mill Race during those hours. A wide variety of craft demonstrators will be displaying their talents throughout the afternoon.

Mill Race Village will be the site of the Festival Hat Judging Contest. Hats will be judged for practicality as well as creativity. Prizes will be awarded, so don't miss out. There is no charge to enter. The contest is scheduled to begin about two p.m. Entrants are encouraged to meet at the Mill Race Village Gazebo at about 1:45 for instructions.

The much heralded Great Duck Race (not live ducks) will also be held Sunday afternoon at Mill Race. Again there will be no entrance fee, just a fun event. Prizes will be awarded so be sure to come out and enjoy the fun.

Historical Society members Bruce Turnbull and Diane Rockall will be conducting the Festival Historic District Walking Tours at 1:30 and 3:30 p.m. on both days. Tour participants will meet at the Crows' Nest in town. There will be no charge for the tour which will last about one hour and cover about one mile.

We're still looking for help with Tivoli Fair. This year's Fair is scheduled for Friday, Sept. 27, and Saturday, Sept. 28, at Northville Downs. Be sure to attend. If you'd like to volunteer call Sally at 348-1845. Adopt A Tree donations are also still being accepted. Norway and sugar maples are to be planted in October at a cost of $250 a tree. Call 348-1845 if you would like to make a donation.

This week we thank Sandra Phillips of Brighton for the donation of books, bottles and medications from an old pharmacy in Butler, Ind.

Kite flight planned at unlikely site

By MIKE TYREE
Staff Writer

All the colors of the rainbow will appear in the sky over Browning-Ferris Industries' Arbor Hills East landfill Sunday.

The reds, yellows, and greens of all shapes and sizes will be provided by J. Bird Enterprises, a Kalamazoo-based kite-flying group, as part of an exhibition sponsored by BFI.

"They say they're going to flood the sky with color," said Robert Line, BFI director of external affairs.

J. Bird Enterprises will launch its multitude of kites from the peak of BFI's Arbor Hills East landfill at the corner of Six Mile and Napier roads, Line said.

Kite enthusiasts and the just-plain-curious are invited to witness the display, which is free, open to the public and scheduled to fly from 2-5 p.m.

The show will feature kites of varying shapes, including demonstration kites, Line said.

Ample parking is available at the BFI office on Six Mile, Line said, and BFI will run a shuttle van to the summit of the capped, grass-covered landfill, some 200 feet above ground level.

Why a kite-flying exhibit above a landfill? Line said BFI merely is interested in showing off its facility.

"We're doing an awful lot of tours . . . It's an impressive visit to the top of the hill," Line said. "We've found that when people come in to see the operation, they get a totally different impression."

Sunday's show will be the second sponsored by BFI. J. Bird Enterprises will also give an exhibit Saturday at its Lyon Township site near I-96 and Milford Road. That demonstration will span a 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. stretch, Line said.

Those interested in the kite-flying exhibition should be impressed by the display, regardless of their vantage point, Line said.

"It ought to be a pretty colorful sight from a lot of views," he said.

Building height limits shelved

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

Proposed planning commission limits to the city's building heights could prove to be too restrictive, according to the Northville City Council. The council agreed Monday to postpone discussion on the proposed ordinance revisions, with several council members saying they felt the revisions could discourage development in downtown Northville.

The council also agreed that the city's new planning consultant should be hired before the ordinance change is made. The city has requested proposals for planning consultant services in the wake of Don Wortman's departure from Ayres, Lewis, Norris & May. Wortman's new firm, Carlisle & Associates, and Ayres, Lewis, Norris & May are among the seven firms that have applied for the position and a decision is expected within a month.

The planning commission's proposed ordinance revisions would reduce the maximum building heights for new construction in the Central Business District from five to three stories, and from 60 to 36 feet. Buildings on land that slopes more than 12 feet could be up to four stories or 48 feet high.

The revisions would also require the screening of roof-mounted electrical and mechanical units, and the placing of the units as far as possible from the roof's edge.

The revisions do not apply to "chimneys, church spires, wireless transmission towers, decorative parapets not exceeding 36 inches, or heating, electrical and mechanical units which are screened on all sides."

The city council followed the recommendation of Manager Gary Word, who said he and his staff found the revisions "too restrictive." Word said that, though he understood and agreed with the planning commission's desire to protect the city's historic character, the new limits went too far. "We feel, quite frankly, that they would inhibit quality development," Word said.

Word's report to the council urged that more public input be sought on the revisions, and that their passage be delayed until a new consultant is hired.

"Staff is not aware of any other community with as severe a height restriction as the one being proposed," the report noted. "The concept of limiting the height of buildings in a central business district of a small town is generally advisable for public safety and aesthetic reasons. However, they should not be arbitrary and prevent quality development from occurring. . . . Perhaps a more moderate reduction could be achieved."

Council members Dewey Gardner, Jerry Mittman and Paul Folino agreed with Word's assessment. "I think there has to be a little more work done on this, really," Folino said, adding that he would like to see the height regulations used by other municipalities for comparison.

Planning Commissioner Kathleen Otton spoke against the revisions, despite having voted for them earlier.

"Although I voted to approve the recommendations that are before you now, I now feel that they could indeed prevent quality development," she told the council. "I would be in favor of seeing more flexibility and more variation in height. . . . although I do feel that the present ordinance — 60 feet — is too generous."

Mayor Chris Johnson emphasized the need to have any revision reviewed by the incoming planning consultant, saying, "This is going to have a major impact on anybody who comes in here to do any building downtown." He noted that the new ordinance would affect Singh Development's proposed CadyCentre development.

The new ordinance, if passed before Singh gains preliminary approval of its proposed three-story retail/office building, could force the company to remove a floor from its design. The 48-foot building planned for the corner of Center and Mary Alexander Court, with its 50-foot tower for a pedestrian bridge to MainCentre, is located on a site that does not drop 12 feet.

The commission denied Singh's Aug. 6 request for preliminary site plan approval despite the recommendation of planning consultant Glenn Bowles of Ayres, Lewis, Norris & May.

Commissioner Roland Stapleton, who led the opposition to the CadyCentre development, asked the council "for speedy adoption" of the revisions during the commission's Aug. 20 vote to recommend them to the council.

Property tax cuts, term limits sought

By TIM RICHARD
Staff Writer

One property tax proposal already is on the 1992 Michigan ballot.

Three groups are organizing petition drives to put property-tax questions on the ballot.

A third tax-cut proposal is in court.

Another group is seeking a state constitutional amendment to limit terms of federal and state lawmakers.

Here is the status of each and contact places if you want to join.

ASSESSMENT CAP

Sponsor: Placed on the 1992 ballot with bipartisan support by both chambers of the Legislature.

Proposal: Homestead property assessment hikes would be capped at the consumer price index or 5 percent, whichever is less.

Assessments would be equalized by two classes of property: (1) homes and farms, (2) everything else. Homeowners would have a greater chance of seeing millage reductions because stable business assessments wouldn't neutralize the impact of rising home assessments.

Impact: Schools would be reimbursed but not cities, villages, townships, counties, community colleges and special districts.

"CUT AND CAP"

Sponsor: Gov. John Engler and state Senate Republicans.

Proposal: Amend state constitution to:

- Cut school operating property taxes for everyone by 30 percent over five years.

- Cap assessment growth at 3 percent.

- Reimburse schools for lost taxes by dedicating half of growth in state revenues (historically 4.5 to 5 percent annually).

Impact: $1.3 billion in property tax cuts, less growth in state general fund budget.

How to join: Petition forms available from Oakland County Republican headquarters, (313) 681-1990, or "Cut and Cap" headquarters in Lansing at (517) 487-2090.

DEMOCRATIC PLAN

Sponsor: House Democrats, Speaker Lew Dodak, Taxation Chair Lynn Jondahl.

Proposal: Amend state law to:

- Exempt the first $15,000 of a home's state equalized valuation ($30,000 of market value) from school operating property taxes. In average district levying 34 mills, tax break would be $510 per home.
- Reimburse lost school revenues by ending business property tax abatements and raising the single business tax by eliminating deduction for capital investment.

Impact: $1.1 billion in homeowner tax cuts, estimated $750 million in business tax increases.

SALES TAX SHIFT

Sponsor: Fair Share Financial Planning Committee, 304 S. State, Ann Arbor 48104.

Principals: George W. Sallade, Democrat of Ann Arbor, former state representative; Roy Smith, Republican of Ypsilanti, former representative, now Washtenaw County commissioner; Fred Veigel, International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers. IBEW paid for the petitions.

Proposal: Amend state constitution to:

- Increase sales tax rate by 2.5 percent (to 6.5 percent).

- Require state to refund 85 percent of property taxes on homesteads and resident farms (up to $10,000 per home; $12,000 per resident farm).

- Give a 100 percent refund of school operating taxes for persons 62 or older.

- Provide proportional refunds for renters.

Unaffected: Circuit breaker rebates of 100 percent for persons over 65 would continue; no break for commercial, industrial, personal and mining property.

How to join: Call George Sallade (pronounced Cal-a-day) at (313) 662-1218 or Roy Smith at (313) 434-9347.

"LIMIT POLITICIANS' TERMS"

Sponsor: Campaign to Limit Politicians Terms, a coalition of groups headquartered at 3309 Rochester Road, Royal Oak 48073. Chair is Michael "Ross" Amroy of Royal Oak.

Proposal: Amend state constitution to place these limits on elected officials:

- U.S. senator — two terms in a 24-year period.

- U.S. representative — three terms in a 12-year period.

- State executives (governor, lieutenant governor, secretary of state, attorney general) — two terms.

- State senator — two terms.

- State representative — three terms.

Goal: More citizen involvement and fewer lengthy careers in government. Incumbent congressmen are sure to oppose this on the grounds Michiganans could never accumulate enough seniority to gain powerful committee chairs.

How to join: Call headquarters toll free 1-800-272-1011 or (313) 585-6776.

"HEADLEE II"

Sponsor: Taxpayers United, chaired by Richard H. Headlee, Farmington Hills insurance executive.

Status: Petitions filed but not approved for ballot. Supporters are seeking a Court of Appeals order to place on 1992 ballot.

Proposal: Amend state law to:

- Cut all property assessments 20 percent over two years.

- Require Legislature to use general fund to reimburse local units for lost revenue.

- Allow any taxpayer to sue in circuit court to enforce.

Contact: Call Bill McMaster, McMaster Communications, (313) 647-0370.

Board has a chance for progressive change

Georgina Goss' tenure as township supervisor has ended. The township board should use this vacancy at the top to end an era of backroom politics that often alienated taxpayers and cast a negative light on township operations over the last several years.

The status quo needs to go. And the onus is on the township board to cast aside small town machine politics and select a qualified, progressive supervisor to help ready the Northville community for the 21st Century.

Goss certainly did some good things for the township during her five years as supervisor; we reviewed some of them in this space on Monday. Others and the system itself share the blame for the negative cloud which hangs over township hall.

In fact, with her network of political associates and knowledge of local government, Goss seems well-suited for Lansing and should be able to deliver pro-36th District legislation. She clearly was the best choice in the recent Republican primary for that seat.

But Northville Township historically has been too much of a "you pat my back, I'll pat yours" arena, and that trend must stop. Local government should be the most accountable to its constituents, but that attitude often isn't evident in the township.

As it is, many residents have lost faith in township government and feel too many important decisions are pre-ordained.

Residents need look no further than the current supervisor selection process to witness a status quo operation at work. Even though this supervisor selection process is an improvement over the last one — which included neither formal applications nor any interviews — it's still far from ideal.

The township board recently took great pains to announce an "open" resume submittal and interview process. Goss herself recommended the strategy, and a three-page procedure plan was included in board members' packets for an Aug. 28 meeting.

The succession outline, quite frankly, was one of the most vague communiques to emanate from township hall in recent years. It was not addressed to anyone, and was not signed by anyone.

This mystery procedure quoted Michigan law, where appropriate, and included a passage which stated: "While Board members can vote for themselves to fill the vacancy, the person resigning cannot vote or participate in the nomination or election procedure."

The second point is moot — Goss officially left office Monday — but the first point is troubling. Treasurer Betty Lennox reportedly is Goss' heir apparent, and by the board-approved procedure, could vote herself a pay raise of $16,000 if she chooses to run.

And Lennox wants the position. She refused to make an official announcement prior to Goss' victory in the 36th, but she has been politicking for months.

The possibility that Lennox could vote for herself is not the only negative in the approved replacement plan. Lennox would also be able to review other candidates' resumes and question the applicants. That hardly seems fair — or appropriate. To her credit, she has said she will not question the other applicants.

But the township board wants everyone to believe the process will be fair and thorough. Board members supposedly will review the resumes, interview candidates at an open session, and make their decision — possibly all in one evening.

Depending upon the number of candidates, that scenario doesn't leave much time for true contemplation.

Unless the decision has already been made — which is exactly what some insiders say has occurred.

But is Lennox the best candidate? And can the board afford not to pick the best applicant? The remaining seated members are up for election in 1992, and indications are that many residents are fed up with the current regime.

Detractors can tick off a list of questionable, costly situations and moves over the last few years: The Ward Church issue, the township newsletter endorsing ballot questions, the Ken Hardesty handgun sale controversy, the Haller Library boondoggle, vague ballot language that resulted in a fire millage defeat, hiring a consultant to help pass a police millage, a questionable township manager selection process, and a secretive police chief selection process come to mind.

Lennox is a very nice person and is a dedicated public servant. But do those qualities make her the runaway choice for Goss' seat? With her years of local government experience in both the township and city, she may turn out to be the best choice. But it's a choice which can only be made after an open-minded selection process.

Goss rode herd her way for a long time, but the board has an opportunity to spread its own wings. And the township is crying for new leadership that can implement a vision of community spirit and pride.

Times are changing and the impetus, more than anything else, is frustration over tax increases. The day is nearing that the Northville police departments will consolidate, as should fire, public works, and other duplicated services.

With Goss and former City Manager Steven Walters gone, new city and township leaders might be able to take a fresh approach to developing a Northville community, one that can use formerly duplicated tax dollars to provide basic services and improve other services that currently are not up to snuff.

Some such visionary might be among the candidates the board will interview. The board owes it to this community to prove that there is no "done deal," as so many now believe.

If the board cannot adequately justify its choice, and highly qualified candidates are rejected, voters are sure to chalk the decision up as another example of indifference to citizen concerns. And then come the 1992 elections...

Victorian Festival and more

Items from our catalog:

● Tomorrow's the big day.

Or, rather, this weekend is the big weekend. The third annual Victorian Festival comes to town in all its 1800s glory. All your favorite events from past years are back, and organizers have added a new one: an auction with dinner at the community center Friday night.

Looking back, it was amazing to see how successful the very first Victorian Festival was. It often takes years to really get such things off the ground.

But a dedicated group of volunteers gave the Victorian Festival a running start, and it has only gotten more sure-footed since then. It's already established as the centerpiece event in Northville, drawing participation from countless different segments of the community.

There are a long list of people who deserve thanks for turning this idea into reality, starting with Laurie Marrs, the executive director of the Northville Community Chamber of Commerce and de facto director of the festival; and Greg Presley, who, it should be remembered, came up with the idea in the first place. To these folks and everyone else involved in the planning and execution, congratulations and good luck. This year's festival promises to be another winner.

● When my wife and I were enjoying ourselves listening to the Northville High School Jazz Ensemble play in the Montreux Detroit Jazz Festival on Labor Day, we thought we were watching history. See, the festival's publicist had told the newspaper that this was Northville's first time in the festival.

Wrong. I had completely forgotten that Northville played the festival in 1987, but this week we got reminded. Oh, well. It may not have been quite as historic as I thought, but it was still some excellent music and well worth the trip.

● Been lots of fun trying to drive around Northville lately, hasn't it? Seems like every time I make up my own detour to avoid some tie-up I know about, I run across two other new ones I wasn't expecting.

It seemed like the situation hit rock bottom last Thursday, but we're not out of the woods yet. In fact, the powers that be behind all this construction aren't quite sure when they'll be done for good. Scary thought, isn't it?

Problem is worse than thought

I had just written a story about the State Board of Education's reaction to Michigan students' dismal showing on national math tests. I asked an ad sales colleague, "How did you do in math in school?"

"I hated math," she replied.

Which didn't answer my question. Or perhaps she revealed even more than I was asking.

At the Lansing meeting, Dorothy Beardmore, the state board president, handed me a Seattle Times article headlined "Math: A nation of dunces." The headline was wrong. The first paragraph said American parents and students hate math.

Our nation's problem is worse than most educators fear. It's greater than too few students studying too little math and being unable to reason.

Most Americans hate math. That's different from being less than proficient.

I field ground balls dismally but still enjoy watching an infield double play. You may play the piano sloppily but still appreciate Andre Watts performing Franz Liszt.

Math is the language of science, commerce, industry, governmental budgets. Without math, you're half illiterate.

I can't boast because I was an indifferent math student through 12th grade. Like everyone but the future engineering majors, I hated math.

Why?

Maybe it was because math teachers assumed their course was the only one you were taking. They were conversant in no topic but math. They never related what they were teaching to anything else in the world. They were devoid of humor.

Apparently schools haven't changed.

The only math course I ever aced was in college. Can you imagine? After grinding through math at the grade and high school levels, I broke the bank at the toughest university in the state.

The young math professor had wit. He explained binomial functions with the reproduction of bunnies. For reasons I can't explain, I began to grasp trig and five to the power of 10.

Sadly, it didn't last. Near the end of the semester, he was hauled before the House Un-American Activities Committee, quizzed about extensive Communist connections, suspended, fired and sent to a federal slammer for contempt of Congress.

H. Chandler Davis was the only math teacher who ever got me to like the subject.

Davis wound up teaching in Canada and contributing to Encyclopedia Americana. His articles are models of lucidity and clarity.

Unlike liberal Democrats, Davis never inflicted his political views on a class, so I can't personally tell you he was (not) a Commie. U-M didn't go in for that open meetings stuff, so I don't know whether they had evidence he was (a) Communist, or (b) dangerous off campus.

There's a leftist movement on campus to make amends to him 37 years later. Here's a better idea:

Skip the politics. Address the math hatred problem by offering Davis $1 million to return to Michigan and transfer whatever magic he had to our math teachers.

Given our deteriorating position in the world economy, $1 million invested in a master math teacher would be a wise capitalist investment.

Schedule sends wrong message

Editor's note: This is a copy of a letter sent to the Northville School Board.

I am appalled at the lessons being taught to kindergarten and middle school students here in Northville: In an age of heightened awareness of the benefits of physical exercise, able-bodied kids, some of whom live only two to four blocks from their schools, are being bused!

According to your schedule, Bus R's run takes just 20 minutes. These kids could beat the bus to school on foot!

I'll not bore you with my history (I walked four miles through snow up to my knees, and it was uphill in both directions.) But it is not irrelevant to mention that my kids from the same neighborhood walked to those same schools. I ask you to consider the following questions:

1. Has the concept of energy conservation gone out the window?
  2. Wouldn't it be cheaper to hire an extra crossing guard if danger is a concern?
  3. And what danger are these students being subjected to? A little walking? Fresh air? Some rain? Snow?
  4. Where else might this money be spent? On academic education, perhaps?
  5. Why are you pampering these students? In just another year or so they'll be walking almost the same distance to the high school.
- My concern is not the money, although that is important, but the principle involved. Please consider the subliminal lessons being taught these youngsters.

Public input made search a success

To the editor:

We would like to thank the many, many community members who responded to the Northville Board of Education's request for suggestions and recommendations to be considered in the selection of our new superintendent. Your response was overwhelming!

We reviewed all of your suggestions, both oral and written, and they were used to establish criteria against which each candidate was judged.

The entire board sincerely appreciates your time and effort in assisting us with this all-important task. Additional thanks go to all of you who attended the interview meetings. Your support and input during this final stage of the selection process continued to be most helpful. Each of us is totally convinced that in Dr. Leonard Remzinski we have found a superintendent who more than reflects those qualities the community was seeking.

We are proud to serve on the Board of Education for a community so deeply involved and concerned with its school system.

We pay too much to suffer power woes

To the editor:

Many of us residents of Northville (Township and City) experienced a loss of electrical power after this summer's "big storm." Personally, I feel that considering the magnitude of the storm and resultant incredibly large number of downed power lines and other problems, Detroit Edison and Consumers Power did a very commendable job restoring our power. However, I've had an ongoing concern which seems to have become yet more apparent since the storm. That is the occasional short-time loss of power when there is no storm or other apparent reason. I can't even guess in five years since I've moved here how many times I've lost power for as little as five or ten seconds. (Enough to reset all the clocks, VCR, etc.), to 10-20 minutes to five or six hours.

I wrote Detroit Edison about this and received an informative and courteous response, and they are fully aware of the problems and intend to be taking them on. However, I urge our fellow Northvillians to keep the "heat on" our utilities to continue to improve and upgrade our area's facilities, equipment and services. Our homes' and properties' values and high taxes plus high utility rates entitle us to the best utilities service available with virtually no "little problems" to annoy us.

Taxes, not services, are the problem

To the editor:

Chief Snider was most relieved and grateful that the police millage passed, although by a small margin. He did express concern, however, that 400-plus voters chose to say no and he wondered what the police had done to warrant this negative response.

The police did nothing wrong, Chief. My husband and I were sorely tempted to vote no. Not because of any negative feelings toward the police, but because of high taxes. I imagine most of the no votes reflected the electorate's overwhelming anger with huge assessments and resultant taxes. How else can voters say that taxes must be brought under control and spending curtailed than to vote no on crucial issues? If the voting had been any time other than summer, I'm sure the millage would have been defeated.

We voted yes because our relationship with your department has been very positive: understanding, polite personnel; fine response time; and excellent advice. For once our emotions beat our financial concerns and you got our vote.

Charles Stilec/Student Assistance Program

Strong pressures, but there is hope

As I was looking over my morning Free Press on Aug. 28, there on page 9A was a graphic illustration of what faces the teachers, administrators, counselors and concerned persons in any school today. Each school area may have different pressures, stresses and problems and indeed an education system is emotionally charged. Training and services are important tools in dealing with these social situations.

In the picture I mentioned above there is a teacher in front of a class ready to teach on day one. The caption reads, "Good Morning, teacher." On the skirts of each student are the words, "stoned, pregnant, alcoholic, bulimic, selling drugs, hungry, homeless, abused, no father, on probation, gang member."

Having worked and lived in this area for many years I know too well what the pressures are that affect our community, our schools, our families and our youth.

I believe that the philosophy that an active, involved society can do more for troubled kids is the only path. I believe, as do many others, that in a public-school-dominated society as ours is, these schools are the very places to start looking closely for deep-seated problems. We need parents educated to bear responsible future members of a society. We need students who are able to have a broad base of experience and ability to pick the most positive options.

The Detroit Free Press on Aug. 29, front page, printed an article titled "Insurance covers kids for alcohol, drug abuse." The article was about the Little Rock, Ark., School District of 26,000 students, and how "city and school officials worked with Blue Cross-Blue Shield of Arkansas to provide full coverage of the district students at a cost of $10,000 a student." I'm not saying this will solve all the problems, but it shows the wave of the future in my opinion and the needed cooperation between the community, schools and families.

The Northville Public Schools has a program in place that also shows the cooperation between the community, schools, and families, and it works. Hundreds of kids have been supported and families turned around. This program is called the Student Assistance Program. It is a school-based program in Northville High School that began in November of 1987. It provides education, support and awareness in order to intervene identify, assess and refer students and families around the issues of chemical use, abuse and dependency. Students may be referred by families, staff or by self-referral. Most students involved in this program are seen weekly on a rotating hour with teacher and parent permission.

At Northville High School the Student Assistance Program coordinator is responsible for interviewing identified students, facilitating support groups, working with individual students, co-facilitating S.A.D.D. (Students Against Driving Drunk), speaking to community groups, speaking to high school groups, serving as a referral source for staff, co-facilitating parent concern programs.

The scenario is often the same regarding the students who come in my door. Hungry, angry, lonely and tired are some of the symptoms. My goal is to support them, help them get back on track so they can feel hope, get motivated and graduate some day.

Yes, there is hope. The following letter, which I received Aug. 22, portrays it.

"Dear Charlie,

"I really need to thank you for all you have done for me. Since the first day when my teacher brought me to your office because I wrote a suicide letter. Do you remember? I need to apologize and know you did what you had to, to help me and I am very grateful you did what you did."

"I am currently working on steps eight and nine. I pray for guidance and direction and willingness."

"Love Always—J."

Through the communication, trust and efforts by a teacher and the counseling, social work and Student Assistance Program this student and family are still in treatment after a year and a half, and they are happy.

For more information or concerns call me at 344-1825 Monday through Friday, 7:15 a.m. until 2:45 p.m.

Charles Stilec coordinates the Student Assistance Program.

Good schools idea hangs in the air

A ritual in our house is taking a picture of my son, Nathan, as he boards the first bus of the new school year. Nathan, 9, will be a fourth grader for the 180 days that Michigan children attend school.

Nathan's counterparts in Scotland attend school 200 days a year, in Israel 215, South Korea 220, in Japan 243 — two full months longer than American kids.

It isn't surprising that children who go to school longer than Americans learn more. Most tests comparing school achievement show our kids lagging behind those of our international economic competitors.

Why not increase the number of days of school from Michigan's currently mandated 180 days?

Habit, for one reason. Schools resist change.

Cost, for another. According to Beverly Wolkow, executive director of the Michigan Education Association, our biggest teachers union, the average teacher in Michigan makes around $38,000 per year — $210 a day. Paying 80,000 teachers for five extra days would cost $84 million.

Admittedly, there's a big argument about extra pay for those extra days. Some say teachers are paid an annual salary; working extra days is just part of the job. Wolkow says that's not fair.

Let's compromise: $100 a day for five more days, or $40 million — not peanuts.

Not until you realize that the total local and state spending for Michigan K-12 schools is nearly $6.5 billion a year. So $40 million is only a 0.6 percent increase in the total.

There are other costs: bus drivers, custodians, administrators, utilities, materials, wear and tear on the buildings.

Who's to say five more days of school — a 2.7 percent increase in the total school year — aren't worth a 1 percent increase in spending?

Political reality, that's who. Gov. John Engler asked for $150,000 for six pilot districts to bump school days from 180 to 200. There's bipartisan legislative support for much the same thing.

But with the state facing a $300 million revenue shortfall and legislators from both parties preoccupied with survival after reapportionment, don't hold your breath waiting for a 200-day school year.

Hugh Jarvis, president of the Michigan Federation of Teachers (the smaller union), is pushing consideration of a year-round school calendar.

"Research has shown conclusively that students, especially in lower grades, lose much of what was learned during the school year over the traditional two-and-a-half months summer vacation," Jarvis said.

A brief, pre-bus preview of the multiplication tables with my son validates Jarvis' point.

A few districts are trying a year-round calendar — 45 days of class, 15 days vacation, repeated through the year. Huron Valley School District, around Milford in western Oakland County, was on such a plan when superintendent James Doyle arrived eight years ago.

"People like it," said Doyle of the optional year-round program. He estimated only 5 percent of district children enroll — "mostly because of tradition . . . families like taking the summer off."

Any learning improvements? "Statistically, you can't find much evidence in test scores, but you get the impression that they retain more," he said.

Added costs? "No big ones, although you'd probably have to air-condition all the buildings."

A good idea hangs in the air, one that doesn't cost much and just maybe helps kids learn. On the other side are tradition, inertia, fear of change.

When will we ever learn?

County officials back posed asphalt plant

By MIKE TYREE
Staff Writer

Holloway Sand and Gravel apparently has landed a powerful ally in its attempt to develop a gravel-mining operation and asphalt plant in Northville Township.

Three Wayne County officials last month signed a letter addressed to the Whom-based firm pledging their support of the proposed Six Mile/Ridge roads facility. "The Department of Public Services of Wayne County supports and encourages the development and production of a natural sand and gravel operation and the operation of an asphalt plant on a tract of land located in a section of Northville Township which lies east of Naper Road and south of Six Mile Road," states the letter, signed by Russell A. Gronevelt, assistant county executive/director of public services, and co-signed by Robert A. Mahoney, director of roads, and G.E. Stiemert, director of engineering.

The letter also states that the Wayne County Department of Public Services will require a million tons of aggregate per year over the next 10 years for construction projects.

Holloway's proposed mining facility is scheduled to operate for 10 years. Holloway representatives in July told township officials that gravel demand for county projects was high, and justified the firm's latest foray into Northville Township.

The county's letter surprised township officials and may undercut a point of contention in the township's review of the Holloway proposal.

The township had asked Holloway to provide proof of gravel demand at meetings earlier this summer.

Location of the Holloway site here will provide significant savings to county taxpayers, the county officials state in the letter.

"The development and production of aggregate in this section of Northville Township will benefit the residents of Wayne County in that it will stimulate competition and provide a source of materials which is close to the place of intended use, thereby reducing the cost to the public for (county projects)," the letter states.

The bulk of the county's gravel needs reportedly are targeted for renovation and expansion of Detroit Metropolitan Airport.

The next public meeting involving Holloway is slated for 7:30 p.m. Sept. 17 at township hall.

Field trip gives township heads a glimpse at site

business, said Holloway representative Richard Zanolli.

"To some degree, I think we were talking about things most of the planning commissioners had never viewed," Zanolli said. "I think it was a real positive trip."

Zanolli first showed township officials an active mining operation in Washtenaw County's Freedom Township. The group then shifted gears and visited Holloway's asphalt plant on Browning-Ferris Industries property in Salem Township.

Holloway plans to move the asphalt plant to the proposed Northville Township site.

Zanolli said the trip allowed officials to "feel, touch, and smell" an active quarry.

"It gave them a chance to see what one really looked like," he said. "It may not have changed their opinion." It couldn't have hurt. Planners and many township residents have expressed reservations and resentment about the proposed quarry.

Some western township residents fear a gravel pit and asphalt plant will lessen property values, and dread the idea of large gravel trucks barreling along township backroads.

Planners also worry about truck traffic, dust, and noise, as well as a proposed 55-acre lake that will be created by the mining operation.

If the field trip answered some questions, it did not answer them all, said Richard Allen, who serves on both the planning commission and township board.

"I'm not sure we saw the whole thing, because it was Saturday and (truck) traffic was down," Allen said. "But people got a little better understanding."

Allen said he was "turned off by the asphalt plant" proposal, and said he held other concerns, including proximity of the site to residential developments such as the proposed Shores of Northville.

Township officials asked a number of questions about the proposed Six and Ridge mining operation, said Carol Maise, township planning and zoning administrator. Most officials felt the field trip showed an accurate portrayal of a working mine, she said.

"In terms of seeing an operation, I think this was adequate," she said. "We basically learned the impacts of the operation, the dust, noise, that type of thing."

Maise said Holloway will respond to resident and commission questions and concerns at the Sept. 17 meeting at township hall.

The commission could recommend that the township board approve Holloway's special land use request at the Sept. 17 meeting, Maise said. Planners also could deny the request, place conditions on the plan, or table the matter pending further review, she said.

BMW PROVES A SAFE CAR NEEDN'T BE A BORING ONE.

INTRODUCING THE NEW BMW 3-SERIES.

After eight years of intensive research, thought and effort, BMW is proud to announce a dramatically different and completely new 325i sports sedan.

As you'll soon discover, it's a car built around the philosophy that driving a true performance sedan can be tremendously satisfying. And that driving safely can be considerably more so.

THE BEST WAY TO SURVIVE ACCIDENTS: AVOID THEM.

By design, the very features of the new 325i that make driving it so exhilarating also serve to make it that much safer.

A powerful engine offers even greater agility. Assertive steering allows you to maneuver out of tight situations. An entirely new suspension offers greater stability in hard cornering and a better hold of the road overall. And BMW's newest-generation antilock brakes give drivers the ability to stop authoritatively in most kinds of situations and road conditions.

BMW'S IMPACT-ACTIVATED SAFETY SYSTEM.

In the event of an unavoidable accident, the 325i sedan is well-prepared. In a frontal impact, for instance, the 325i will launch an entire sequence of events that is designed to minimize injuries.

Hydraulic bumpers absorb a part of the initial impact energy. A unique "crush tube" system absorbs yet more. Seat belts tighten their grip. Three sensors trigger the driver's-side airbag. Interior lights turn on and all of the doors unlock, to assist passengers in escape or rescue efforts.

Like all BMWs, the 325i sedan offers economic practicality as well. It arrives with BMW's 4-year/50,000-mile bumper-to-bumper warranty. A Roadside Assistance Program drivers will be able to call upon any day of the year, on any road in the U.S.A.* And, perhaps most remarkably of all, an M.S.R.P. that is a mere $27,990.**

For information on the 325i, visit your nearest authorized BMW dealer. And while you're there, we suggest you treat yourself to a 325i test drive. If you're looking for an automobile to feel safe in, it's easily the most exhilarating drive you can take.

THE ULTIMATE DRIVING MACHINE.

Take pen in hand and write for our 1991 Fall Fiction Contest

"Writing is easy; all you do is sit staring at a blank sheet of paper until the drops of blood form on your forehead."
—Gene Fowler

Calling all fiction aficionados.
Those who write the stuff, that is.
The Northville Record/Novi News is launching its first-ever (we think) short story contest for adult writers, and you are invited to attend.

"It is a fact that few novelists enjoy the creative labour, though most enjoy thinking about the creative labour."
—Arnold Bennett

Have you written a short story? Or have you got an idea for one buzzing around in your head, but you haven't found the impetus to sit down and write it?
Then get busy, and send a copy of your original short story to us for our 1991 Fall Fiction Contest.

"Most writers are in a state of gloom a good deal of the time; they need perpetual reassurance."
—John Hall Wheelock

Your story will be rated by our esteemed panel of judges — Northville author/teacher Kathleen Ripley Leo; Novi publisher Al Berlinski; Borders Book Shop publicist Wanda Freeman; and Northville librarian Susan Petersmark — as well as Northville Record/Novi News staff members and avid bookworms Mike Malott, Managing Editor; Bob

FICTION CONTEST RULES

2. Stories must be original and relate in some way to Novi or Northville. For example, the story might be set in the area, relate to local history, or involve a local experience.
3. One entry per person
4. Entries must be short fiction; no essays, articles or poetry
5. Entries must be limited to 1000 words
6. All entries must be typed
7. Entries must be received by Friday, October 3. Winning stories will be published in the November 7 Northville Record/Novi News
8. Attach a cover sheet to the manuscript, which includes your name, age, address, telephone number, and the title of your story, as well as any other pertinent information. Do not put your name on any other page of the manuscript. Judges will not know authors' names.
9. Entries with self-addressed, stamped envelopes will be returned whenever possible. However, we cannot be responsible for lost manuscripts.
10. Mail your entry (or drop it off in person) to:

Needham, Editor and Cristina Ferrier, feature writer.

"Read over your compositions and, when you meet a passage which you think is particularly fine, strike it out."
—Samuel Johnson

But wait! There is a catch. The story must somehow, in some way, relate to this community. After all, we are your hometown newspaper, so please don't send us any stories about, say, Jack the Ripper unless he's terrorizing our own streets. Don't send us a love story about a weekend in Paris unless the characters are from our own area. You get the idea. If you have any questions, call us at 349-1700.

"Writing is an adventure. To begin with, it is a toy and an amusement. Then it becomes a mistress, then it becomes a master, then it becomes a tyrant. The last phase is that just as you are about to be reconciled to your servitude, you kill the monster and fling him to the public."
—Winston Churchill

Winning stories will be published in the Nov. 7 issue of The Northville Record/Novi News.

"I love being a writer. What I can't stand is the paper-work."
—Peter DeVries

There are a few more rules. Just read the box at the left. Good luck!

Volunteer

JEAN MORRISON

Delivering flowers is one of her tasks

By DOROTHY NASH
Special Writer

This is the story about the hold that hospital volunteering can have on one woman. The hospital is St. Mary Hospital in Livonia, and the woman is Jean Morrison.

As Morrison put it, in 1982, "I wanted to do something different" — different from civic activities — and so "I picked St. Mary Hospital, also because it was near home."

She did drop out after a couple of years, she said, because civic activities were so demanding, but she had to come back.

Two years ago she and her husband decided to move away, and they decided on Northville because it was near enough for her to continue at St. Mary Hospital.

What is the attraction at St. Mary? What has Morrison done there? In the beginning, she said, "I worked all over," doing things like escorting incoming patients to their rooms, keeping company with friends and relatives in the surgery lounge to delivering flowers. She said, "Oh, delivering flowers was a fun thing to do."

Her main responsibility now is to "keep a clip book of articles about St. Mary's appearing in local and Detroit publications."

But there are additional things that she finds on her desk now and then — like envelopes to be stuffed or little bows to be attached to name tags.

And a special plus for volunteering at St. Mary Hospital, Morrison said, is this: "There's a sense of belonging with a wonderful group of employees and other volunteers. And you feel that you're appreciated."

So she urges any man or woman of any age who would like to volunteer five hours any day of the week to call Sherri Fletcher in the volunteer office for an appointment. The number is 464-4800.

In Our Town

Annual Victorian Ball is right around the corner

The Victorian Costume Ball is just two days off. In only its third year, the ball—a centerpiece of the Northville Victorian Festival—has established itself as one of the major events in town. This year's edition promises to be the best yet.

The location is moved this year to the Northville Community Center, 303 W. Main. Organizers will decorate the building inside and out, transforming it into a beautiful Victorian manor with all the trimmings. As usual, ballgoers are expected to dress up in their own Victorian-style finery.

In addition to the dancing called by Glen Morningstar, the ball will feature hors d'oeuvres from several local restaurants and dinner by Edwards Caterer.

Admission to the ball has been reduced this year to $40 per person. The ball runs from 8 p.m. to midnight this Saturday. For reservations or more information, call the Northville Community Chamber of Commerce, 349-7640. And to read more about the ball and the rest of the festival, see the special section inside today's newspaper.

Sweet sixteen celebrated

Natasha Kelliher, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry P. D'Avanzo of Northville, celebrated her sixteenth birthday Sept. 6.

Natasha and 45 of her closest friends celebrated with a formal "masked ball" at the Novi Hilton. There was an Italian buffet followed by dancing until midnight. Afterward, the party-goers journeyed from the purple and gold stars at the Hilton to the familiar setting of Elias Brothers restaurant, where they usually find themselves after school events.

Irish Strings

Mike Berst, a dulcimer musician renowned for his recordings and concerts, will appear for one evening only at the Marquis Theatre in Northville, Sept. 18 at 7:30 p.m. Tickets are $5.

The dulcimer is a traditional Irish instrument with wire strings of graduated lengths stretched over a sound box and played with two padded hammers.

Berst has been playing the dulcimer for over 20 years and is one of the best known and most widely respected performers to emerge from the Michigan tradition. He learned directly from surviving traditional players and plays by ear, as it has been done for centuries.

Berst's non-academic approach lends a refreshing spontaneity and spark to the music, often lacking in many dry, lifeless efforts to recreate "old-time" music that we hear today. His songs have full arrangements and elaborate harmonies, and the rich, full, driving sound he gets from his instrument also reflects the traditional Michigan style of playing.

Single Place

Single Place will offer its Divorce Recovery Workshop for seven Thursday evenings from Sept. 12 through Oct. 24. All sessions will meet at Northville First Presbyterian Church's library/lounge beginning at 7:30 p.m.

Cost of the seminar is $30 and includes the book "Growing Through Divorce" by Jim Smoke, and notebook, speakers, refreshments and childcare. Scholarships are available.

To register contact the church office at 349-0911 weekdays between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. If you need child care, you must inform the church two days in advance.

Topics of the workshops include Stages of Grief (Sept. 12), Networking (Sept. 19), Legal Aspects of Divorce (Sept. 26), Helping Children Through Divorce (Oct. 3), Church and Divorce: Spiritual Help (Oct. 10), Passage of Divorce (Oct. 17), and Relationships Old and New (Oct. 24). Rev. Jim Russell of Northville First Presbyterian Church will lead the Oct. 10 seminar.

Town Hall location changed

Town Hall organizers have had to scramble for a new Town Hall site, following the unexpected closing of the Raddisson Inn-Plymouth.

The new location for the series will be the Livonia West Holiday Inn, 17123 Six Mile at I-275, North Laurel Park. In order for the hotel to accommodate the series, it was necessary to change all dates to Mondays.

The new schedule is as follows:

Monday, Oct. 14, Carmel Quinn.

Monday, Nov. 11, B. Carter Randall.

Monday, March 9, Richard Lamparski.

Monday, April 13, Dr. Vladimir Sakharov.

A luncheon is held at 12 noon immediately following each lecture. To order tickets, send a check for $12 for each luncheon wanted, or $48 for the season. Luncheon tickets may be purchased by season lecture ticket holders only. Checks must be received no later than one week preceding each lecture.

Send luncheon ticket orders with a self-addressed, stamped envelope and a check payable to Northville Town Hall to Virginia Kaiser, Northville Town Hall, P.O. Box 93, Northville, 48167.

If you wish to reserve a table for 10 at the luncheon, please mention it on the check. Use one person's name for the table, and note that you wish to sit at that person's table.

Georgia Chris Poulos/Elias Koumariotis

Georgia Chris Poulos of Northville, daughter of Chris and Penny Poulos, and Elias Koumariotis of Dearborn Heights, celebrated a double-ring wedding ceremony on Saturday, June 22, at St. George Greek Orthodox Church in Southgate, with Fr. Phil Karamanos as witness.

Sister of the bride, Jo Anne Metrusias, was matron of honor, with bridesmaids Gayle Koumariotis, Susan Koumariotis, Toulis Gangas, Stephanie Dionysopoulos, Katina Dionysopoulos, Pam Alexander, Georgia Kontos and Tassia Kankos, Christina Kanellos and Athena Kanellos of Toronto were flower girls.

The ushers were Jerry Koumariotis, Angelo Koumariotis, Dino Poulos, John Metrusias, Stratos Pangalides, Elias Kanakos, Brasidas Kanakos and Peter Milonas. Matthew Koumariotis was ring bearer, and Leo Salvaggio was crown holder.

Three hundred fifty-five people attended the reception at the Grecian Center in Southgate. The couple spent three weeks in Greece for their honeymoon.

Novi High School 1991 salutatorian Oanh Parrett and Northville High School 1991 valedictorian David Smith began their first semester at U of M with an unexpected $500 from the

U of M enjoys active local alumni

By CRISTINA FERRIER
Staff Writer

University of Michigan President James Duderstadt will come to Northville High School at 7 p.m. October 3. He will speak to members of the local U of M alumni club as well as any other interested members of the community.

That's a big event for the alumni club, which after only one year of existence, has gathered 119 members.

"We are really excited," said Jackie Murray, the club's publicity chairperson. "This is really an honor, and it's only our first year of existence."

"We are inviting all alumni from the Northville and Novi area, and also some local officials and dignitaries," she said. All interested persons are also invited to attend.

The club, which draws its membership from Novi and Northville, has enjoyed a variety of activities celebrating its alma mater over the past year.

"We've been having a good time," Murray said. "It looks like we have a lot of Go Blue, die-hard U of M fans."

Among other activities the group has enjoyed this year, there has been a trip to Hill Auditorium, a golf outing, and a basketball outing.

For the basketball outing, "we couldn't get a block of seats, so the group met at a local bar and watched the game together, and enjoyed the companionship of being U of M fans," Murray said.

A football outing for either the U of M vs. Purdue game on November 2 or the Nov. 9 Northwestern game is in the process of being scheduled.

"It will just be a bunch of us going to the football game and having a tailgate party," she said.

But the group's focus, she added, has been on more than just having fun. "We are a social, cultural and educational group," she said. A major goal is to contribute to the community.

One way of accomplishing this in their first year was to grant two $500 scholarships to local high school graduates planning to attend U of M.

Oanh Parrett, Novi High School's 1991 salutatorian, and David Smith, Northville High School's 1991 valedictorian, were the recipients of the first annual scholarships. The scholarships are funded by alumni donations and will be awarded each year to outstanding area students planning to attend U of M.

Parrett intends to use her scholarship toward her studies in chemical engineering. She later plans to attend medical school.

Smith plans to pursue an engineering degree.

Murray said it's been a lot of work setting up a new alumni club, but the results have been worth it.

"The U of M alumni association was helpful in getting us started, but other than that our group can be as large or small, as active or inactive as we want it to be," she said.

"Our membership isn't just open to U of M alumni," she added. "Anyone who is a friend of the university, or a U of M fan, is welcome to join."

Novi or Northville residents interested in joining the U of M club should contact Lou LaChance, membership chairperson, at 348-9077 or write University of Michigan Club of Northville, P.O. Box 453, Northville, 48167; Attn: Membership Chairperson.

On Campus

1990 Northville High School graduate STEPHANIE ROSSI is on the dean's list at Michigan State University with a 3.8 GPA for the past two terms. The dean's list includes all those with a 3.5 and above.

She is also part of the Phi Mu social sorority on MSU's campus.

The Columbus College of Art and Design (CCAD) recognized students for outstanding academic achievement by naming them to the president's list and dean's list for the spring semester.

The president's list recognizes those students who have grade point averages of 3.4 and over on a 4.0 scale. The dean's list includes students with grade point averages between 3.0 and 3.39.

DAWN DODGE of Northville is presently on the dean's list.

KRISTOPHER C. BERLIN, KIMBERLEY A. MACDONALD, LORI K. OSBORN, GREGORY R. PAWLAK, and KIMBERLY M. VALADE of Northville are now 1991 graduates of Grand Valley State University.

AAUW to study women in science

By CRISTINA FERRIER
Staff Writer

The Northville branch of the American Association of University Women (AAUW) has expanded this year to include Novi as well.

Renamed the Northville-Novu branch, the group has dedicated its 1991-92 season to the study of women in scientific and technical fields.

AAUW program vice president Renee Boving, a retired doctor and former professor of anatomy at Wayne State University, said members of the group were appalled by the results of a study last year that showed high school girls' test scores in math and science dropped significantly compared to those of boys.

The study, based on an AAUW poll, looked at the test scores of 30,000 male and female students.

"The poll was on how girls are treated—[whether they are] deterred from math and science," Boving said. She added that the results indicated that, even today, girls are pushed away from high-tech and scientific fields.

"We're going to study why (the scores) go down in Northville and Novi," she said.

The group's first monthly meeting of the 1991-92 season will take place Sept. 17 at Northville First United Methodist Church, Eight Mile and Taft, at 8 p.m.

The September meeting will feature a talk on "Perspectives on Women in the Sciences" by Barbara F. Sloot, Ph.D., from the department of biology and Residential College, University of Michigan. The talk will follow the group's traditional Reception and Autumn Buffet at 6:30 p.m.

Sloot is a research scientist who, in addition to her work in cell biology, has done research about recruitment and retention of women students in the sciences. She was the founder and first director of the Program for Women in Science at the University of Michigan.

The Oct. 8 meeting will feature a roundtable discussion at Northville High School on equity in education. The discussion will include counselors from Northville and Novi High Schools, a physicist from the University of Michigan, and a job recruiter from Ford Motor Company.

The November meeting will feature a representative from the Women's Resource Group's "Women in Transition" program at Schoolcraft College, and the January meeting will feature Farmington Hills author/historian Jean Fox. The February meeting will feature 1949 Northville High School graduate Velma Louis Ward, who is a biochemist currently working on her Ph. D. at Wayne State University.

The March meeting will focus on several AAUW members who participated in a trip to the Soviet Union last spring.

"That should be very interesting, because they met with University Women in the Soviet Union," Boving said.

The April meeting will focus on Michigan women who contributed to the suffragette movement, and the May meeting will involve presentation of scholarships and the group's annual dinner.

Times and locations of upcoming meetings will be announced.

AAUW is a nationwide association of graduates from an accredited college or university. The organization promotes equity for women, education and self-development. For more information about activities sponsored by the Northville-Novu Branch of AAUW, call Boving at 349-3161. To join, call Paula Rivard at 344-9843.

Arts Commission hosts series

By CRISTINA FERRIER
Staff Writer

Michael Farrell—a Windsor and Detroit-based art instructor and historian who is becoming well-known all over the country—will speak in Northville in a series of art lectures sponsored by the Northville Arts Commission.

Each of Farrell's lectures will include a slide presentation accompanied by the popular wit and easy speaking style for which he is known.

"He was recommended to us in the past, and it was very successful, so we have had him back," said Arts Commission member Edie Pegrum, who arranged the series. "This is the fifth year that the Arts Commission has had him here."

Pegrum said that, in the past, "literally hundreds of people" have attended Farrell's appearances in Northville.

"He's very interesting, and a wonderful speaker," she said. "Even if you're not excited about the topic, his speaking style makes it very enjoyable."

Farrell is an associate professor of art history at the University of Windsor; adjunct curator of the Detroit Institute of Arts; and an instructor at Art House of Detroit.

The first three lectures of the series will take place at 7:30 p.m. October 2, 9 and 16 in the Northville High School forum. These lectures are titled "Journeys Down the Nile: Europe discovers Egypt."

This series is a three-part slide illustrated lecture series tracing the monuments of ancient Egypt and Islamic Cairo as described by travelers then in paint and prose, and seen today in Farrell's own journey down the Nile.

The second three lectures will take place at 7:30 p.m. March 11, 18 and 25, 1992, in the Northville High School forum.

Titled "Men and Myth: The Art of the Ancient Aegean," this three-part lecture series will illustrate the art of ancient Crete and Greece as reflected in the art and architecture of Knossos, Mycenae and Athens.

To order season tickets, send your name, address and telephone with a $30 check payable to Northville Arts Commission to Joann Dayton, 42085 Banbury, Northville, 48167.

RECORD DIVERSIONS

THURSDAY
September 12, 1991

Remote control racing cars like these will line Royal Oak's streets this weekend.

Royal Oak plays host to 'race'

Downtown Royal Oak will erupt in a frenzy of spectator activity for the third annual Royal Oak Grand National, "The Race of Champions."

Forty drivers and their remote-controlled quarter-scale cars will converge on the downtown area for a day of racing.

Area businesses have signed up to have their names recognized in this annual race. National Bank of Royal Oak and First of America SEM will be competing not in their board rooms, but out on the street.

To name just a few, they'll be joined by Les Auteurs, Famie's Chicken, Jim Fresard Pontiac, Comedy Castle and last year's defending champion, Pasquale's.

Saturday, Sept. 14 is the date which will bring thousands into downtown Royal Oak. The race will be held in the north parking lot of Oakland Community College's Royal Oak campus.

Metro area businesses paid $600 each to sponsor one of the cars. Sponsorship allows them to custom design their car and helps offset driver expense. This year, small businesses with twelve employees or less, can join the race with another small business to split the entry cost.

Most important, the Grand National raises funds for "Give-A-Christmas Year Round," an emergency fund which benefits eight area human service agencies. Those agencies include Community Services of Oakland, Common Ground, The Boys and Girls Clubs of Royal Oak and the Salvation Army, among others.

All the money donated to "Give-A-Christmas" is used for emergency aid. There are no administrative costs. Every cent donated goes to someone in need.

The cars will be driven by many of the top quarter-scale drivers from throughout the country. Each driver will provide his own engine and chassis.

A large variety of food concessions and family entertainment will be available throughout the day.

For more information call the Greater Royal Oak Chamber of Commerce at 547-4000.

The play, a sort of Dada-surreal work, is by Doug Wright, whose fictional murder mystery captures the whimsy and sinister wit of Duchamp, one of the most enigmatic and influential artists of the 20th century. Later additions will be Shakespeare's "Julius Caesar," Christopher Hampton's "Les Liaisons Dangereuses," Bernard Shaw's "Arms and the Man," A.R. ## CROSSROADS

Mark Kneisel graduated from South Lyon High School and earned a teaching degree at the University of Michigan.

His wife Sarah grew up in West Bloomfield, graduated from Mercy High School and earned a degree in industrial design from the University of Michigan.

They were married Aug. 10 and honeymooned in Massachusetts. We asked them for some tips about traveling in New England.

"We drove to Cape Cod, spent three nights there, two nights in Boston and drove home through Canada. We wanted some place cooler than the Caribbean, but still near the beach," Sarah said.

"Cape Cod has lots of little towns close together. I was surprised to see that none of the towns are close to the water. It's not like Traverse City where you can walk out of a downtown restaurant and then walk to the beach. The beaches are great, but you must drive to the beach and that means an $8 parking fee."

"We stayed in the town of Sandwich and visited very touristy places like Hyannis, which is full of shell art and T-shirt shops. If we go to Cape Cod again, we will stay in Chatham, a nice town with a lighthouse and a lot of charm."

Mark and Sarah came home from Massachusetts to settle into their new home in Troy. Sarah is an engineer at General Motors. Mark teaches at St. Mary's High School in Orchard Lake. We've heard a lot about Orchard Lake in our mail this week.

Every traveler has a story to prove that truth is stranger than fiction. My "impossible coincidence" occurred when I learned that a South African living in Michigan has a sister who lives across the street from my grandmother in Stratford-on-Avon, England.

We had never met before and discovered this during a casual conversation among mutual friends. The chances of that happening are much less than the chances of winning the million-dollar lottery.

James LoPrete and his wife discovered their impossible coincidence on a recent 33-day tour of Poland, Czechoslovakia and eastern Germany. They live in Orchard Lake. They knew about St. Cyril and Methodius Seminary, on the western shore of Orchard Lake, but they didn't expect to run into that name in the farmlands outside of Warsaw.

Someone broke into their car on a Saturday afternoon, so they were driving with two broken windows when they went 40 miles west to Chopin's birth place the following day.

"On the way back we saw a young priest hitchhiking. He spoke some English and in the course of our limited conversation we learned that his best friend had spent time at the Orchard Lake seminary."

That mild coincidence was compounded the next day, when LoPrete went to "a small farm outside Warsaw where an individual entrepreneur was making a very good living replacing auto windows. Some Polish people whose car was also being repaired spoke some English."

The two couples were sitting over a farmer's kitchen table drinking coffee when the Polish people pulled out photos taken during a trip to the United States.

"He showed us some pictures of the two of them with a lake in the background. The picture had been taken in front of the Orchard Lake Seminary where they had visited his brother, who had been a priest there for a short time."

The LoPretes and the Kneisels have joined our Travelers' Round Table by sharing their travel experiences with our readers. Why not do the same? We have stories coming up about cruises Sept. 23. The Eagles Nest with its lobster dinners is a popular eating spot on the harbor in Bar Harbor, Maine

Exploring the rocky Maine coast

By IRIS SANDERSON JONES
Travel Writer

tourist town full of tour buses and tour boats.

It ends at Kittery, a few miles south of Kennebunkport, where President George Bush and his family spend their vacation days.

Byroad, it is 228 miles from Lubek to Kittery, but if you stay on Highway 1 you miss the tiny seacoast villages found in every cove and at the end of every rocky peninsula.

Follow the shoreline and you will travel 3,478 miles to go that same distance from Lubek to Kittery, which tells you everything you need to know about the perils and pleasures of coastal Maine.

That shoreline is a meander of rocky peninsulas and river estuaries cluttered with lighthouses, boat harbors, funky seaports, fishing fleets and sailing vessels of every kind.

There are sailboats, fishing boats, motor boats and high masted schooners from Bar Harbor to Rockland and Boothbay Harbor. You could spend lifetimes exploring all the charms of that wrinkled coast.

There are hundreds of interesting spots accessible from Highway 1 between Eastport and Brunswick, where Highway 1 is swallowed up by Interstate-95.

Bar Harbor is a cheerful, busy

Bar Harbor, Maine: Or "bah hah-bur" as they call it here in Maine.

Early settlers called the nearby Island Eden; today it is Mount Desert Island, home of the popular Acadia National Park.

It was off-season when I turned off Route 1, looking for just the right accommodation. I didn't want luxury or sophistication, just a place where I could have my morning coffee on a deck overlooking the sea.

I began to get the picture as I approached town.

Emery's Cottages on the Shore: "No Vacancy."

Edgewater Motel and Cottages: "No Vacancy."

Down Cottage Street, down Main Street, through the polished signs of tourist shops. Past signs that read, "No Vacancy, No Vacancy."

The price went up as I approached the Golden Anchor. "Sorry, Mam, we're full."

It went up again when I walked my sweatshirt and Easy Spirits down the driveway to the casual elegance of the Bar Harbor Inn. "Sorry m'am, we're completely full."

I looked enviously at a deck on an old Tudor house nearby as I walked back to my car and drove to the Chamber of Commerce.

"I didn't expect you to be so busy," I said. "My dream was to have my morning coffee on a porch overlooking the sea."

And that's how I got to a bed-and-breakfast called Ullikana in the Field — that same Tudor house with the very deck that I had seen while walking down the driveway of the Bar Harbor Inn half an hour before.

The room cost $80. Not much sea, but I could see a little patch of water, especially when the wind blew the trees hard enough. I could smell the sea, hear the boat motors, watch the whale-watching boats come in. And I was just around the corner from the main street of town.

Bar Harbor is a great cheerful clutter of shops, restaurants, sea captain's houses, bed-and-breakfasts, tour boats, fishing boats, people and traffic. If you love to shop, tour and join the lineups for a variety of New England restaurants, you will love Bar Harbor.

Otherwise, have lobster chowder and fried clams at a greasy spoon on Main Street called the Acadian, where the local fishermen eat, order the cheapest and best lobster in town, and go on to Mount Desert Island and the national park.

There was an artists' colony and a cottage colony on the island in the 19th century; by the turn of the 20th century the "cottages" were owned by people like J. P. Morgan, Joseph Pulitzer and John D. Rockefeller.

Rockefeller built 57 miles of carriage roads on his 15,000 acres before donating his land to the government as Acadia National Park.

The Mount Desert Mountains slope down to the rockbound coast for which Maine is famous. I spent several hours in the park, exploring the old villages, the inns and the 500 varieties of wildflowers. Then I went "home" to my little porch at Ullikana in the Field.

The next morning, I had my coffee in the breakfast room. I had a wonderful deck that almost overlooked the sea, but it was raining.

South Lyon runs over Northville 29-10

Huzjak feels heat, picked off 4 times

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN
Staff Writer

Behind a big, physical interior line, the South Lyon football team ran over, through and around the outmanned visitors from Northville. The result was a 29-10 loss for the Mustangs in the 1991 opener on Sept. 6.

Other than a few first-half offensive highlights, the Lions were also able to contain superstar quarterback Ryan Huzjak. The Northville senior was under constant pressure from Lion defenders, who forced him into five turnovers, including four interceptions.

"That was one excellent football team we played," Mustang Coach Darrel Schumacher said. "I won't take anything away from South Lyon. We knew heading in that we'd be inexperienced on both the offensive and defensive lines. When you face a team with the strength they have up front, it causes big problems. They manhandled our kids."

Northville actually took an early lead, but South Lyon scored three unanswered touchdowns before the end of the first half and then held the Mustangs scoreless for the final two quarters.

Behind the passing and running of Huzjak, Northville took the opening kickoff and marched 63 yards in eight plays for a quick 7-0 lead. He connected with receivers Danny Walsh and Jamie Miller for 15 and 17 yards on back-to-back plays, found tailback Rob Subotich for 11 yards on a screen pass and then scrambled for 14 more to move the ball inside the Lion five. The touchdown was to Walsh from five yards out on a beautifully timed touch pass at the 9:07 mark of the opening quarter.

"That drive was a sign of what we are going to do on offense this season," Schumacher said. "Danny (Walsh) made an excellent watch for the TD."

Unfortunately, that was to be the Mustangs' only touchdown. South Lyon knotted the score at 7-7 late in the first quarter on a drive that covered 52 yards in just three plays. The big play was a 33-yard scoring strike from quarterback Jason Williams to Gary Landrum off a play-action pass. Huzjak's first interception of the game set up the drive.

The Lions took the lead two possessions later when junior tailback Billy Porter broke loose for a 44-yard touchdown run with about six minutes left in the half. The two-point conversion failed but Northville compounded the situation on the ensuing kickoff when an illegal block negated a big return by Walsh.

Huzjak promptly turned the ball over again, fumbling after gaining 11 yards on a brilliant run. South Lyon took advantage of the turnover when Porter capped a 51-yard scoring march with a five-yard touchdown run. Again, the Lions failed on the two-point conversion and led 19-7.

With 1:38 remaining in the half, Huzjak led the Mustangs down the field and senior kicker Brandon Hayes booted a 25-yard field goal with time running out to narrow the gap to 19-10. The big play in the drive was a 24-yard pass from Huzjak to Miller. Hayes — who suffered a serious elbow injury this summer — was originally a long-shot to even play this fall.

"Brandon just received permission from the doctor to kick for us," Schumacher said. "He's a big threat."

Northville never really threatened to score in the second half, other than a last-minute drive that covered 43 yards but ended when South Lyon picked off Huzjak's fourth pass.

The Lions, however, turned two more Northville turnovers into points in the second half. Andy Duncan intercepted two passes and the first set up South Lyon's final touchdown. Williams scored at the 4:45 mark of the third quarter on a nicely executed six-yard bootleg. Duncan's second swipe led to a 23-yard field goal by Jason Lipke with 11:58 left in the fourth.

"All the interceptions were a combination of Ryan trying to do too much and the pressure (South Lyon) was putting on us," Schumacher said. "Every time we turned the ball over, they made us pay."

Huzjak was 11-for-24 for 129 yards through the air. He also rushed for 60 yards on nine carries. Miller and Walsh combined for eight receptions and 110 yards. On defense, linebacker Brett Butz registered a team-high nine solo tackles and seven assists.

Porter rattled the Mustang defense for 223 yards rushing and two touchdowns.

"I was impressed with Porter all night," Schumacher said.

Northville's home opener will be tomorrow (Sept. 13) against Walled Lake Central. The Vikings dropped their opener to Millford 14-13.

"I think they are a good club," Schumacher said. "They will be bigger than we are physically, but I think we will show a great deal of improvement. It should be an interesting game."

Tennis contest canceled

Every year, the Northville and West Bloomfield tennis squads get together for an early season warm-up. But this year a paperwork snafu put an end to that tradition.

The two teams were slated to meet in a non-conference meet on Sept. 5.

"There was a mistake in the paperwork," Mustang Coach Uta Filkin said. "Somehow, West Bloomfield — as the host team — forgot to send us a contract, so we didn't play."

Northville did, however, take on always-tough Farmington Hills Mercy in a scrimmage on Aug. 30 and beat the Marlins 4-3. The Mustangs won three of four singles matches, including an exciting 7-5, 6-4 victory for Diane Vogt at No. 1 over Megan Leibelter. In other singles action, Jenny Lower topped Julie Schurer (6-2, 6-3) at No. 3 and Molly Gudritz downed Karura Nanera (6-2, 6-1) at No. 4. In doubles, Kelly Woodsum and Jody Buttigieg topped Kristen Kudelko and Peggy Mueller (6-3, 6-3) at No. 2.

The Mustangs (1-0 overall) will travel to North Farmington to take on the Raiders on Sept. 13.

Mustang cagers win tournament, whip Novi 54-33

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN
Staff Writer

The Northville girls basketball team obviously learned a valuable lesson after getting off to a slow start last season. The Mustang cagers had to put on a furious rally at the season's end to salvage a respectable season, but won't have those worries this time around.

That's because Coach Ed Kritch and his squad are off to a perfect 3-0 start. After whipping Novi 54-33 in the season opener on Sept. 3, the Mustangs traveled to Portland, and captured first place in the Portland Tip-Off Tournament. Northville downed the host team 49-28 in the opening round on Sept. 4 and then topped Mason 44-34 in the finals three days later.

In the championship game on Sept. 7, the Mustangs broke open a tight battle by outscoring the Class B Bulldogs 25-18 in the second and third quarters. Northville then secured the 10-point victory with an 11-8 advantage in the final eight minutes.

Senior swing player Karen Pump paced the Mustangs with a game-high 18 points on 8-for-13 shooting and added 10 rebounds, six assists and five steals. Stacey Nyland chipped in with 11 points and nine rebounds.

NORTHVILLE 49, PORTLAND 28: In the opener, the Mustangs jumped all over the Class B Bulldogs in the first half.

Northville outscored Portland 15-0 in the second quarter to take a commanding 25-4 halftime lead. Kritch emptied his bench in the second half but the Mustangs still managed to outscore the host team 24-22 the rest of the way.

Pump led all scorers with 11 points and was the only Mustang in double figures. But Northville got at least two points from 10 players while exhibiting a balanced attack. Point guard Laura Apligian and Nyland each chipped in eight.

Pump, who leads the team in scoring (14.3), rebounding (7.3), assists (4.3) and field goal percentage (.678), was the unanimous pick as the Tournament MVP. Pump and Apligian were selected to the All-Tournament Team.

NORTHVILLE 54, NOVI 33: The veteran Mustangs dominated Novi from the opening tip-off on Sept. 3. Northville scored the first nine points, led 13-7 after one quarter and 28-17 at halftime.

"They got off to a good start and we just weren't able to catch them," Novi Coach John Hoffman said. "I'm guessing that (Northville) will be one of the top three teams we'll face this season. It went pretty much as expected."

The Mustangs outscored the Wildcats 18-5 in the third quarter and with a 24-point cushion heading into the fourth, Northville cruised the rest of the way.

Pump was the leading scorer again with 14 points on 7-for-10 shooting. Kara McNeil chipped in with 12 points and six steals.

The Mustang defense limited Novi's Tammy Snider, the team's only returning starter, to just two points and four rebounds.

Northville will try to keep the winning streak intact when it hosts Wayne tonight (Sept. 12) in a non-conference battle.

Senior star quits cross country team

Staff Writer

The Northville boys cross country program suffered two losses last week. One was a 15-50 defeat against powerful Walled Lake Western on Sept. 5, but that was expected. The most surprising and damaging loss came when senior standout Steve Coon quit the team.

"Steve decided not to run cross country any more," Mustang Coach Ed Gabrys said. "It just wasn't satisfying for him any more and he has other interests."

Coon did run in the season opener against Novi and Farmington on Aug. 28 before leaving the team. He entered this season as a three-year varsity runner and a two-time All-

Division selection. The first indication of his discontent with running came at the end of the '90 season when Coon qualified for the MHSAA State Meet and then declined to compete.

"It changes a few things, but I think the other kids are responding well," Gabrys said. "It obviously hurts us this season because (Steve) was usually good for 10 points a meet."

Without Coon, Northville struggled against the Warriors at Willis Park. Western put all seven of its varsity runners across the finish line before the first Mustang finisher. Junior Daisuke Ishikawa was first for Northville and eighth overall in a time of 20:08. He was followed by Mark Ritter (ninth place, 20:17), Chris Smith (10th, 20:20), Rob Kukalnis (12th, 21:04) and Parag Parikh (13th, 22:10).

"We only ran five guys—I wanted to hold back the freshmen in this one," Gabrys said. "We put our top three runners within 12 seconds, so we are developing a nice pack time."

Senior Doug Huntington—one of Northville's top seven runners last year—missed the meet because of a leg injury.

WEST BLOOMFIELD INVITATIONAL: A total of 66 teams competed in this mammoth race on Sept. 7 at Marshbank Park in West Bloomfield. The field was narrowed down to three divisions of 22 teams each, and Northville wound up placing 16th in one of them with 427 points. Ishikawa again led the Mustangs and placed 73rd overall with a 19:22 effort, while Ritter (83rd, 19:38) and Smith (85th, 19:42) rounded out the top three. They were followed by freshmen Jeff Zwiesler and Nathan Kirmis. Zwiesler placed 89th (19:55) and Kirmis was 97th (20:29).

The rest of the Northville finishers included Kukalnis (107th, 20:57) and Parikh (119th, 21:42).

"We packed pretty close," Gabrys said. "With Huntington expected back this week, we should have a decent top-five pack time."

Tankers place 4th at Brighton Relays

The Northville girls swim team opened the 1991 season with a promising performance at the traditionally competitive Brighton Relays on Sept. 7.

Against a field of 11 teams from all over the state, the Mustangs managed to place fourth overall. Farmington Hills Mercy was first with 104 points.

According to team spokesperson Linda Wesley, the team met or exceeded its goals for the meet. "The relay teams consistently placed in the top half of the field," she said. Senior Beth Frayne was named diver of the meet after placing first in the event. And the diving corps—featuring Frayne, Sarah Carney and Amy Cristof—placed second overall.

The 400-yard freestyle relay team—with Jodi Wesley, Teri Juhász, Brenda Newton and Katrina Heckemeyer—placed third overall.

The Mustangs are scheduled to host Dearborn Edsel Ford tonight (Sept. 12) at 7 p.m.

Football career over for Briningstool

Tony Briningstool's college football career is, sadly, over.

The bad news came from East Lansing on Sept. 3 after the former Northville High School superstar suffered a dislocated shoulder the day before during pre-season practice. Just like in past seasons, the 6-foot-5, 240-pounder was in a fierce battle for a starting linebacker position when a recurring shoulder problem reared its ugly head.

As a key veteran player and an outstanding special-teams performer, the Michigan State football program will miss Tony on the field. But appropriately, nobody is looking at this latest setback in that way. Everyone's thoughts — from Spartan Coach George Perles on down to the sportswriter at Briningstool's hometown paper — are focused on a talented young man who's had more than his fair share of misfortune.

You can't help but wonder what his college football career would have been like if all the injuries hadn't happened. It's also hard not to feel a sense of frustration for Briningstool, especially after seeing him at full strength as an All-State prep linebacker in the mid-80s.

Big, strong, powerful and smart, he will probably go down as one of the best defensive players ever to come out of the Western Lakes Activities Association.

Even though Briningstool's collegiate career has been filled with pitfalls on the football field, it has been a huge success academically. In 1990 he made his third straight appearance on the Big Ten's all-academic team, and his area of study — physiology — isn't the stereotypical major for a football player. With a fine 3.4 grade point average, Briningstool is planning on a career in medicine and has already been accepted into medical school at Georgetown University.

"(The injury) was very unfortunate," Perles said. "The only important thing is Tony's health and his future in the medical profession."

The surgery is scheduled for next week. It will be the third shoulder surgery for Briningstool since coming to MSU in 1987 and the second on the right shoulder. Just prior to the 1989 Gator Bowl, he suffered a similar injury to the left shoulder. He first injured the right shoulder midway through the 1990 campaign. In all, he missed eight full games and numerous practices.

When healthy, Briningstool was a solid player. In 1989, he played in all 12 games and started once on Nov. 14 versus Northwestern when Carlos Jenkins (now in the NFL) went down with an injury. Briningstool responded with nine tackles and two pass deflections and was named the MSU Defensive Player of the Week. Ironically, Briningstool broke a finger early in the game but kept on playing.

That was the kind of player and person Tony was. He never backed down from a challenge whether it was on the field or in the classroom. He earned the respect of everyone with whom he came in contact.

Former coach and current Northville Athletic Director Dennis Colligan echoed the feelings of many: "Tony was probably the finest individual I've ever had the pleasure of coaching. We all feel terrible about it but Tony has so much going for himself, he will probably handle this setback better than anyone."

When a serious injury takes down a big-time college athlete, there is a tendency to wonder if they will ever be successful. There will never be any doubt about Tony Briningstool because, although he loved the game of football, he knew all along his future would be guaranteed with an education.

Numerous shoulder injuries have been frustrating to Briningstool.

GREAT LAKES TOUR: The Great Lakes Amateur Golf Tour has expanded to Western Michigan and four regional tours: 1.) West Metro Detroit, 2.) Northeast Metro Detroit, 3.) Kalamazoo/Battle Creek, 4.) Grand Rapids/Muskegon.

1990 marked the inaugural year for brothers Rob and Dean Naudi, and Roy Gaddie with the Great Lakes Amateur Tour in the metro Detroit area, and from all indications, it was a major success. Over 650 players attempted to qualify for 260 tour cards, and play some of Michigan's finest courses.

The Great Lakes Amateur Tour is every golfer's chance to play "The Tour." Patterned after the PGA tour, the players will compete with players of equal ability in four different handicap divisions. The players must play two 18-hole qualifying rounds in May to earn their "Tour Card" and be eligible to compete in their section of the Great Lakes Amateur Tour.

Men or women who have an established USGA handicap, or a league average that can be verified, are eligible to participate. There is a $60 entry fee (players will also pay greens fees) to compete in the qualifying rounds. Each golfer will receive a Great Lakes Amateur Tour logoed golf shirt from the PGA Tour Collection.

The tournament players will be competing for over $100,000 in prizes and awards on the four regional tours. Sponsors for 1991 include some of the biggest names in golf: Ram Golf, PGA Tour Clothing, Foot-Joy Shoe Company, Grand Traverse Resort, and Total Golf Inc.

Booths at the golf shows in Grand Rapids and Rochester this month have generated a strong response for this year's tours. Brochures and entry forms are available in most of the retail golf stores and the pro shops of the courses hosting tournament events for the Great Lakes Amateur Tour this year, or by calling the Great Lakes Amateur Tour at 227-0720.

MHSAA announces prep rule changes

For even the most knowledgeable sports fan, many of the rule changes affecting high school basketball, football and soccer for the 1991-92 school year are hardly noticeable.

Granted, some changes — such as regarding the number of fouls counted in basketball to reach the bonus situation — are obvious. But many changes are not.

Several changes in basketball related to fouls will take place this year, the most notable of which involves seven fouls now being the number which must take place before a team moves into the bonus. The seven fouls may be any combination of personal and technical fouls. The combination of personal and technical fouls also now counts towards a player's five fouls for disqualification from a contest.

Two technical fouls will now result in the ejection of a team member from a contest, except the head coach, who is allowed three. A bench technical counts against the head coach.

Additionally, on three-point field goal attempts, a foul on an unsuccessful try will result in three free throws.

In football, the most visible change again involves the football itself. Last year, schools were given the option to play with the visibly enhanced ball, with the stripes from end to end of the football. These markings could be in white or yellow. This year, traditional half stripes may also be in white or yellow.

Games may also be played on college or professional fields using narrower goal posts than used for high school. The high school crossbar is 23 feet, four inches across. The college width was recently reduced to 18 feet, six inches.

From a sportsmanship perspective, a player or coach intentionally making contact with an official will now receive a 15-yard penalty and automatic ejection from the game. Players intentionally swinging or kicking at another player will be penalized in the same manner, even if no contact is made.

The new international offside definition will now be applied in soccer. An offside position occurs when a player is closer to an opponent's goal line than the ball, unless the player is in his or her own half of the field or the player is not nearer to the opponent's goal line than at least two of the opponents.

Serious foul play now includes an intentional foul which denies an opponent who has an obvious opportunity to score, and such a foul will result in a player being disqualified.

Other visible changes in soccer involve the clarification where attempting to trip an opponent is also a foul; and in a tournament progression situation, a team may change its goalie on each kick during a shootout.

Healthways offers a multitude of organic foods, according to owner Barbara Wade.

Healthways: natural food market

By SCOTT DANIEL
Staff Writer

Ever wonder where you might find dandelion leaves, ginseng or horse-tail root?

Healthways of Plymouth.

Those three herbs are just a few of the products found at the store, which bills itself as the "natural food supermarket." According to co-owner Barbara Wade, Healthways has a very specific focus in the items it provides patrons.

"We sell only organic foods," she said. "No pesticides, no dyes, no preservatives — only natural foods."

Wade bought the company nearly a decade ago and operated it in downtown Plymouth until January. Healthways is currently located at the corner of Ann Arbor and Sheldon roads.

The 56-year-old Canton Township woman, a former speech therapist, said she became interested in nutrition as a means of preventing and curing health problems. After taking many courses on the subject over the years, Wade said, she decided to make a career change.

"I got to the age where I wanted to get out of teaching," she said.

In starting Healthways, Wade said she wanted to share what she had learned about nutrition and self-healing. She said eating organic foods is one step in leading a healthier lifestyle.

Wade said while organic foods are healthier, they aren't boring. She added that many of the same type of items found in regular grocery stores can be found at Healthways.

Indeed, ice cream-style treats and chocolate chip cookies may be purchased to satisfy any sweet tooth. Other convenience foods, such as frozen entrees and all-natural turkey hot dogs, can also be found.

All types of grains, pastas, meats and produce are available. Products made for individuals with food sensitivities — for example, to dairy products or food dyes — are also at the Plymouth store.

Nutritional supplements, from A to Zinc, are also on hand.

Healthways also features a wide variety of sports nutrition products. Protein powders, energy drinks and supplements round out the section. Non-animal-tested beauty products are another featured section of the store. Everything from shampoos to hand lotions is available.

A complete supply of herbs offers patrons healthy solutions to minor ailments.

Wade said items are about 10 percent higher in price at Healthways, compared to regular supermarkets. She said, however, many products are discounted.

Besides all of the store's products, Healthways also conducts periodic courses covering such subjects as sports nutrition and allergies. A vegetarian cooking class will be held Sept. 19 at the store.

Wade said she has noticed in her time in running the store that more and more people are interested in leading a healthier lifestyle. She the practice of preventing health problems by eating organic foods is on the increase.

"It's starting to come into its own in this country," Wade said. "We are starting to catch up."

Healthways is open 9:30 a.m. to 8:30 p.m. Monday through Saturday and from 11 to 4 p.m. Sunday. For more information call 455-1440.

Refinancing a mortgage

By James M. Woodard
Copley News Service

Selecting a mortgage loan to finance a home purchase is tough in today's market. The number of available loan types and forms has never been greater.

One basic decision—whether to go for a variable-rate or fixed rate loan—is largely motivated by the potency of your gambling spirit.

I'm not much of a gambler. When I am on a trip and stop overnight at a Las Vegas hotel, the limit of my gambling investment is usually eight quarters in the slots. That can't spark much of a financial disaster.

When we purchased our town house residence nearly five years ago, I was pushed into a variable-rate mortgage. That has been bugging me ever since. I well remember when interest rates zoomed up to 17 percent.

That could indeed trigger financial problems. Being a confirmed non-gambler, I wanted a solid, fixed-rate mortgage.

The answer, of course, was to refinance with a new fixed-rate loan. And that's precisely what we did. Many other families are doing the same thing — many for the same reason.

I was surprised by the amount of information now required by a prospective borrower when applying for a simple refinance loan. The era of the low-doc (minimal documentation) mortgage loan is over. Too many lenders suffered huge financial losses by not checking deeply enough into borrowers' qualifications.

Our new refinance loan was only that—no other moneys requested. The total loan amount was only about 85 percent of the property's current value. And our past payments and credit record were unblemished. Even so, the required information was voluminous.

If you are now considering a mortgage loan, for a home purchase or refinance, be prepared to dig deeply into your "personal records" box.

For starters, many lenders now want copies of tax returns and W2 forms for last year, or covering two or three years if you're self-employed.

They also ask for a complete list of credit card accounts with the outstanding balance of each account. And, of course, they want the account numbers and out-

Contemporary styling highlights Azalea 2

By James McAlexander
Copley News Service

It would be hard for anyone to complain that there's not enough storage space in the Azalea 2. This medium-size country-contemporary home is built to accommodate a growing family and all of its belongings, with room to spare.

Not only do each of the three bedrooms have a walk-in closet, but there's also an entry closet, a pantry, twin linen closets, a closet by the utility room, cupboards in the utility room and a large extra storage area in the two-car garage. (Half of this could easily house a small workshop). Even the trash has its place, tucked into an enclosure just outside the garage.

But storage isn't the only attraction. Not at all. The solarium, living room and dining room are each richly windowed to take advantage of every bit of light possible, especially important in northerly latitudes during winter months. Window seats in the front corners of the living room and dining room offer cozy getaways for reading, drawing or other quiet pursuits.

And the solarium is not only lined with windows, but further brightened by two skylights. Hanging plants flourish in this bright nook, and breakfasting here gets the day off to a cheerful start.

The sink in the wide country kitchen faces into the solarium, over an eating bar that doubles as a serving center. There also are a cooking island, double oven, plenty of cupboards and counter space—room for several cooks at once—as well as space for a freezer. A desk could go here if no freezer is desired.

Another skylight brightens what would otherwise be a dark dressing area in the master suite. His and hers basins prevent early morning competition for space, and a window allows light into the far end of the huge walk-in closet.

The master suite is located as far away as it can get from the other two bedrooms, providing maximum privacy and noise separation. This arrangement will be especially appreciated by families that include teen-agers.

The utility room, convenient to both the kitchen and the bedrooms, includes a built-in ironing board.

For a study plan of the Azalea 2 (330-02), send $7.50 to Landmark Designs, c/o HomeTown Newspapers, 323 E. Grand River Ave., Howell, MI 48843. (Be sure to specify plan name and number when ordering.)

The Howards have redecorated this home that was once located on the practice green at Meadowbrook Country Club.

'FORMER TIES

By RICK BYRNE
Copy Editor

The home of Joseph and Rose Howard of Northville has a lot of history both ancient and recent, wrapped up inside.

The charming farmhouse, which dates from the mid-1800s, is the classic Michigan farmer's home.

"It's not the kind of place you'd see downtown," said Rose. "They built it with just the basic rooms they needed. Farmers didn't have a lot of money for fancy gingerbread."

Though the home now rests on two and a half acres of secluded, wooded land just west of Meadowbrook Country Club, it was built on the site of the club's present practice green. It was moved in 1958 by former owner Ernest Wood, from whom the Howards purchased it in 1983.

A picture of the home hangs in the entryway of the clubhouse at Meadowbrook Country Club. The house's ties to the club are well-known to longtime area residents.

On one particular occasion an older visitor described his recollections of the place to Rose.

"The man said, 'I remember this house well. I used to caddy at Meadowbrook when I was younger. This was the greenskeeper's house. We used to shoot craps behind the house.'"

Rooms were added on to the two-story frame home at various points in its history.

There is a central core with a comfortable-size kitchen, dining room and living room, and upstairs are two bedrooms. Joined onto the kitchen is a sunny family room with southern exposure. Also at the south end, the living room has been extended, and includes a charming fireplace with a carved cherrywood mantle.

Off the west end of the kitchen is a library, which gathers light from both the north and south. Rose, an avid reader, calls the peacefully decorated room her sanctuary.

As a result of the growth and expansion of the home, the exterior has a strange hodgepodge look, with no two sides bearing similarity to each other.

"We're never really sure what's the front and what's the back," said Rose. "We call it our funhouse — and it really is our fun house."

Rose has most of her fun on the inside, though. An interior decorator by trade, she's the subject of a good-natured joke among her friends who say, "That's Rose. She goes around redoing houses."

The Howards, 25-year residents of the Northville-Novi area, have hopped from home to home, living out their own version of the TV show "This Old House." When they first purchased this home, it was full of knotty pine, but, said Rose, "It had yellowed something fierce."

The result was a very dark appearance, which the Howards combatted with lots of white paint and lively print wallpaper. Contemporary appliances and new white countertops brightened up the kitchen, and in the adjoining bathroom, lighting was added where previously there had been none.

In the living room, the ceiling is decorated with huge beams that came from a barn which once stood on the property.

On the walls are many framed artworks — paintings and sketches Rose has created, as well as contributions from local artists.

"I have a few friends that do pottery and art stuff," she said. "I decorate for them, and they decorate for me. It's a nice tradeoff of talent."

As ardent antiquers, the Howards have sprinkled some unique, old country furnishings around the home. Much of the furniture, though, was made by Joseph in his spare time.

"He's great," said Rose. "All I have to do is say, 'Gee, I need a ...' and he makes it."

They tend to think of these home-made pieces as their own future antiques.

"We're doing our own little antiques, sort of our heritage for our kids," said Rose. "I believe in supporting a little of our own Americana, if you will."

Rose Howard reads in the back room of her Northville Township home. The home is sprinkled with collected and home-made furnishings.

No 'tea'-sing about 19th century cigar box

By James G. McCollam
Copley News Service

Q. Enclosed are several pictures of a silver tea caddy including one of the bottom showing the hallmark.

I would appreciate your evaluation.

A. This is a silver-plated cigar box made by the Derby Silver Plate Co., in Derby, Conn., during the late 1800s. The "hallmark," SPWM means silver plated white metal. It would probably sell in the $165 to $185 range in good condition.

Q. The attached mark is on the bottom of a cylindrical vase with a bulbous top. It is 8 inches tall and 4-1/2 inches in diameter. The scene on it depicts an old-fashioned sailing ship against a tan and light blue background.

I would like to know the identity of the maker, its value and vintage.

A. Your vase was made by the Rookwood Pottery in Cincinnati, Ohio, in 1920. The RP monogram was used in 1886 and a flame was added each year until 1900. From 1901 on the Roman numeral (XX) indicated the year of manufacture. Your vase would sell for over $1,000.

WEDGWOOD

This company is so often associated with blue and white jasper-ware that some people mistakenly believe that is all that Wedgwood made. On the contrary, they made everything from calendar tiles to dinner sets for royalty.

In addition to blue and white jasperware, they made green, violet and red combined with white. Other products included were several luster wares — Fairyland, Moonlight and Dragon. We can add Creamware and Basalt and still not all forms of ceramics made by Wedgwood.

There were other companies whose marks tend to deceive. The one that confuses most frequently is "Wedgwood & Co.," a name used by Podmore, Walker & Co., in Tunstall, England. In 1965 they changed the name to "Enoch Wedgwood." Other misleading marks are "Wedg Wood," "Wedgewood" (with an extra "e") and "Wedgwood Ware."

Genuine Wedgwood is simply marked "Wedgwood" (with one "e") or "Wedgwood & Bentley" on very early pieces.

The largest, most comprehensive collection of Wedgwood can be found at the Buten Museum in Merion, Penn., just outside Philadelphia.

Prices for Wedgwood china can range from $15 for an ironstone plate to over $5,000 for a Basalt urn. Basalt is a matte-finish black ironstone. The prices range from about $100 to several thousand dollars.

Jasperware is a matte-finish stoneware produced in combination of white with blue, red or violet. Prices range about $100 to over $2400.

Moonlight Luster is splashed or marbled pink or purple with tinges of yellow and green. Dragon Luster is a Chinese design featuring dragons. Fairyland Luster depicts whimsical creatures in a fairyland setting. The various Wedgwood luster wares sell from the low hundreds to the low thousands.

Wedgwood was first made in Burslem, England, where Josiah Wedgwood started in 1759. Later it was produced in Etruria and since standing balances on any loans on any real or personal property, including auto finance loans.

Refinancing your home loan requires homework

Lenders often ask for all bank statements over the past two or three months to verify account numbers and outstanding balances. And they will ask for a list and current market value of owned bonds, stocks and mutual funds. They will also want to know about other assets, such as IRAs, vested amounts in retirement plans, life insurance policies and value of other real estate.

If you are planning to purchase a home, it's a good idea to go through a preliminary qualifying process with a selected lender before shopping for a property. This way you will know the maximum loan amount for which you will qualify and a home price range you should target.

Being self-employed, I was asked to provide considerably more documentation than would be requested of a person who has held a long-standing corporate position. At first, this may seem discriminatory. But thinking it through from the perspective of a prudent loan officer, it's a reasonable request.

Most of the mortgage loan closing costs can be financed (included in the loan amount). But most lenders require a few hundred dollars up-front, usually to cover appraisal or certain processing fees.

If you are refinancing your present home, be sure the current market value of your property will support your requested loan before committing yourself to all new loan expenses. And shop around — interest rates, points and fees vary from lender to lender.

John and Judy Rybski are owners of Woodmasters Furniture in Milford

TLC for antiques

Refinishers treat furniture like family

By SUSAN MAXWELL
Special Writer

Woodmasters Furniture Service, Inc. emphasizes old-fashioned custom service. The shop, located in a scenic setting in Milford, offers its customers services ranging from furniture repair and refinishing to caning and whitewashing.

The owners, John and Judy Rybski of Milford, emphasize quality work and personalized service at Woodmasters, located at 321 S. Houghton.

As you step inside the door of Woodmasters, you seem to go back in time. Everywhere you look, you see an antique or what appears to be an antique.

Touring the facility with owners John and Judy Rybski, visitors can visualize the process of furniture repair in Woodmasters' offices and workrooms. The master woodworkers in the workrooms can turn a bag of broken pieces of wood and various screws, nuts and bolts into a beautiful, finished piece of furniture.

The Rybskis employ seven additional woodworkers. There is an expert to carve a replacement dowel to match those hand-carved original pieces in grandma's rocking chair, or to match that missing leg from great Aunt Elsie's dining room table that's been in the garage for 22 years.

If you have a memory of a gorgeous gun rack in granddad's house but somehow it didn't withstand the test of time, Woodmasters can restore it for you. There's a wood artist on staff, too.

How did Woodmasters get started? Here's the story by which John Rybski swears truth. A difficult history class presented a problem for him in high school. Try as he might, it just wasn't clicking enough to ensure a passing grade.

That particular instructor required the assistance of a cane to walk. It was a nice cane — but it was pretty worn. John had taken woodworking classes in high school, and he found he enjoyed them a lot.

He got this great idea: Maybe, just maybe, he could impress the instructor by refinishing his cane, and possibly influence his final grade.

He took the cane home to his parent's garage and did his best to make that cane look like new. He succeeded. He also passed the class.

Not long after that, someone called and asked him to refinish another cane after seeing the work completed on the teacher's cane. Word traveled, and he started receiving more and more calls to work his magic on other old pieces of treasured wood items. His parent's garage turned into his first shop. That was 12 years ago.

John met and married Judy, and they have been in business together ever since. That 200-square-foot garage at his parent's Dearborn Heights home has been replaced by a 3,400-square-foot building in Milford. The Milford shop opened five years ago.

John gives more than a personal touch to each finished piece. He carefully chooses, trains and serves as mentor to his support staff.

One thing John requires of his woodworkers, in addition to talent, is that they adopt his philosophy. John understands that old table is not just an old table. It was grandma's table; the one its current owner remembers sitting at as a child for Sunday dinner or every Thanksgiving.

He knows that memory is what the person sees every time they look at that table. John sees that, too, and when Woodmasters is finished with it, it looks as good as it did all those years ago.

Each piece brought to Woodmasters to be repaired and/or finished receives this kind of treatment. There are no production assembly lines; each piece is worked on individually and receives personalized TLC.

JIM SMALL of Novi was among 11 prominent Michigan business and community leaders selected as founding members of the Ferris Foundation Board of Directors.

The Ferris State University Board of Control approved the appointments during its meeting today (Friday, June 28).

The Foundation, whose establishment was approved last month by FSU's Board of Control, will operate as a non-profit corporation under contract to the University to raise funds through planned giving and major gift programs, and eventually to organize and oversee a University capital campaign.

The Foundation Board will hire and supervise a fund-raising staff. Its initial operation will be financed by an advance from the FSU Board of Control made possible by the transfer of development office funding from the University to the Foundation.

"No great university can operate without a successful private fund raising foundation," said FSU President Helen Popovich. "Once the Ferris Foundation gets up and running, it will be able to respond quickly to University's needs, and it will implement a long-range fund raising program that will greatly benefit our entire University."

Small is vice president of the Quarton Group, a Troy advertising and publications agency. He is the immediate past president of the Ferris Alumni Association.

Mary DiPaolo/Focus: Small Business

Backdoor routes to competitive data

Information is knowledge, especially when the information relates to the competition. Unfortunately, many small business owners complain that getting "good" competitive data is a very difficult, if not impossible, process.

Since the overwhelming majority of our nation's small businesses are privately owned, company documents such as annual reports and SEC filings are not required by law and, as a result, are not made available to the public. To further complicate the problem, many small business owners and managers simply refuse to discuss their operation or may provide false information when asked to do so by industry peers.

But... all is not lost. Business owners can obtain the competitive information they require, without resorting to unscrupulous tactics or spending large sums of money. The first step involves a trip to the public library. Initially, a database search is conducted to reveal any published articles, reports, or statistics relating to major competitors and/or the industry of interest. Articles appearing in local magazines, newspapers, and trade publications often provide valuable information on competitive activity... especially if firm management has been interviewed as part of a "business profile" feature story.

In many instances, the "best" competitive data does not come from firms within your area of service, but those running a similar operation in other parts of the state or country. Many of these competitors are willing to share additional information when contacted by letter or telephone to answer specific questions.

Next, association directories are used to identify and locate professional groups that represent your industry at the state or national level. As an example, the 1991 Michigan Associations Directory lists all existing Michigan-based associations by city to include the association's purpose, available reports and publications, annual events, and contact personnel. Many of these industry groups conduct member surveys in order to compile industry trends and statistics pertaining to competitive activity.

Rather than conducting your own survey, association inquiries may reveal that recent survey reports already exist and are available at a nominal fee. If competitive information has not been collected via a survey, a business owner may choose to speak with association representatives to obtain the information they are seeking.

Other association-related opportunities to obtain competitive data include participation at upcoming association events where key competitors will be speaking, obtaining copies of recent association newsletters or other publications that have featured competitor firms, or requesting company information and reports that have been made available to the association and/or its members as part of recent conventions, workshop series, or special meetings.

For additional information regarding competitive data sources, readers may contact the MarkeTrends office at 344-0088.

Mary DiPaolo is a resident of Northville and the owner of MarkeTrends, a small business marketing research and promotional consulting firm. She lectures extensively on a variety of marketing topics to professional groups, associations, and non-profit organizations, and has produced two small business television series for MetroVision and WXON-TV20.

Money Management

Renting vacation home gets tricky

Once you rent a vacation home to others, you enter a maze of tax law. Depending on how often it is used for personal pleasure and how often it is rented, the tax treatment will vary significantly.

According to the Michigan Association of CPAs, if your vacation home is used strictly for your pleasure you can deduct your mortgage interest and real estate taxes, just as you do on your primary residence. You can even rent your vacation home for less than 15 days a year and collect the rental income tax-free. You don't even have to report it. But any related rental expenses cannot be deducted.

What happens when you rent your home for more than two weeks? Here, the answer becomes a little more complicated. If your personal use of the home exceeds the greater of 14 days or 10 percent of the time it is actually rented at fair market value, your vacation home is still considered a second residence. As such, the mortgage interest and property taxes you can attribute to your personal use remain tax-deductible. Other expenses — including a portion of the cost of utilities, repairs and insurance related to the time the home is rented — are deductible rental expenses. However, the deductions for rental expenses are basically limited to the income received from the property. In other words, if you run up $20,000 in rental expenses and receive $15,000 in rental income, you can deduct only $15,000 in expenses. The extra $5,000 can be carried forward to a future year to offset any excess rental income.

In addition, the IRS requires that rental expenses be deducted in a prescribed order — you must deduct interest, taxes and casualty losses first; then insurance, utilities, repairs, and other operating expenses; and finally depreciation.

The story is quite different if you limit your personal use of a vacation home to 14 days a year, or 10 percent of the number of days the home is rented at fair market value — whichever is greater. In this case your home is deemed rental property. In addition to deductions for mortgage interest and property taxes, owners of rental properties may be able to deduct utilities, maintenance, insurance, depreciation and other operating expenses. You must still allocate your expenses based on the ratio of rental days to total use days. You should also note that the portion of the mortgage interest attributed to your personal use is considered consumer interest, which is no longer

If your home qualifies as a rental property in the eyes of the IRS, you may be able to deduct rental expenses in excess of rental income. To qualify, your adjusted gross income must be under $100,000 and you must actively manage your property. If you meet these requirements you can deduct $25,000 of passive losses against other kinds of income — including salaries. The $25,000 allowance is gradually phased out by the time an investor's adjusted gross income reaches $150,000.

The rules governing vacation homes can be tricky — but knowing the rules allows you to make the most of your second home. If you need help negotiating your way through the vacation-home maze, consult your CPA.

Owner puts personal care into refinishing

lence are the primary focal points of Woodmasters. They keep the customer involved during the refinishing/repairing process by discussing progress along the way. A Woodmasters customer will not just receive one phone call saying their piece is finished.

They believe in teamwork and enjoy the craft of the business, not just "getting the work done." John said that this personal approach is true whether the jobs are for a corporate contract for a room full of furniture or for Aunt Barbara's old footstool.

Woodmasters services many businesses in addition to individual customers. You may have seen some of Woodmasters work last year at the Brighton Homearama.

You won't see much in print about Woodmasters. Mostly you'll hear about them from someone who has used their services.

John and Judy suggest having that old chair or whatever refinished for someone for Christmas this year. If you decide to do this, be sure to call ahead. The normal time frame for service at Woodmasters is three to five weeks; however, allow five to seven weeks for the Christmas season.

Woodmasters is open Monday through Friday from 8:30-4:30, and on Saturday by appointment. They're located at 321 S. Houghton in Millford. The number to call is 313-684-6411.

ADVERTISING UNSELLS.

In 1986, drug abuse officially became America's number one concern.

In that same year, the Partnership for a Drug-Free America was organized by the American Association of Advertising Agencies (AAAA). Its mission: to decrease drug use in this country by changing attitudes.

Many of the country's top persuaders—members of the AAAA—were enlisted by the Partnership. Some 200 ads created for all major media have been donated by the agencies. The messages have been run by the media on a pro bono basis at an estimated weight of $310 million since the program began in

Some highlights:

From 1987 to 1989, children who think "it's easy to get hooked" rose 5 percentage points. Those who are "scared of drugs" rose 4.

Teenagers who "don't want to hang around drug users" increased 6 points. And those who think "doing cocaine occasionally is risky" went up 4.

Most significant: Changes in attitudes and consumption were greatest in markets where the advertising appeared the most:

Among Adults	Low Media	High Media
Basic Attitudes	+5.2%	+9.7%
Fear of Drugs	-1.0%	+3.7%
Act Against Use	-1.7%	+4.5%

Two independent studies confirm declining usage. One, from the University of Michigan, found drug use among high school seniors to be down. Marijuana usage dropped from 21.0 percent in 1987 to 16.7 percent in 1989. Cocaine use fell from 4.3 percent to 2.8 percent in the same period.

The second was conducted by The National Institute of Drug Abuse (NIDA). It found that, between 1985 and 1988, trial of marijuana and cocaine among people 18 to 25 declined at a significant rate.

Releasing this data, NIDA's director, Dr. Charles R. Schuster, said, "...a significant decrease in trial and occasional use of illicit drugs is a result of major changes in social attitudes. In my opinion, the Partnership's messages have had a direct impact on these attitudes and usage declines."

At a special White House conference, Gordon S. Black, Ph.D., president of the firm that conducted the Partnership research, concluded, "If these were the results of a tracking study for one of your own advertising campaigns, I think your advertising director would be rather pleased, to say the least."

To get a booklet that summarizes the findings, please write to The Committee on the Value of Advertising, Department B, American Association of Advertising Agencies, 666 Third Avenue, New York, New York 10017.

These studies confirm the power of advertising. It can change attitudes. It can cause action.

Or, in this case, inaction.

Northville goes back in time

Town celebrates its heritage in third Victorian Festival

By BOB NEEDHAM
Editor

The Victorian Festival is a celebration.

The third annual event returns to downtown Northville this weekend, Sept. 13-15, with a schedule packed full of events designed to appeal to everyone. And it's all in a spirit of celebrating.

It's a celebration of history, of the Victorian era, the time when Northville began its growth into the town we know today. It's a celebration of a lifestyle, a simpler time without fax machines, cellular phones or even automobiles. And it's a celebration of Northville, a community remaining true to and in touch with its roots.

Expect the third annual festival to be the best yet.

The grand opening will come at 6 p.m. Friday with the annual parade. The streets of downtown will close for a display of Victorian finery.

Also getting under way at 6 p.m. is the annual antique show and sale held in front of the American Legion Hall at Dunlap and Center. It continues throughout the festival.

Following the parade will come the first look at this year's headline entertainment, a special Victorian Review brought to you by the Casterline Funeral Home and Genitti's Hole-in-the-Wall. This will include world-class unicyclists, a magician, and a juggler — all family entertainment. The review will play in the downtown bandshell, and will repeat at 1 and 4 p.m. Saturday and at 2 p.m. Sunday.

A great deal of other entertainment is being scheduled as well. Music at the bandshell starts up Friday evening. Throughout the day Saturday and Sunday entertainment will fill the bandshell and the streets, with varied acts including magic, a puppet show, music, the medicine man show, mimes, and more. The Northville Players will stay busy offering performances of the melodrama "Her Fatal Beauty" at the American Legion Hall. The free performances are planned for noon, 2:30 and 4 p.m. Saturday; and noon, 2, and 3:30 p.m. Sunday.

Probably the biggest addition this year is a Family Victorian Auction to cap off Friday evening's events. Scheduled from 8-10 p.m. at the Northville Community Center, restaurants will offer food during the bidding. Admission is $5, with kids under 5 free.

The Art Market — the annual juried street art show running in conjunction with the festival — opens from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Saturday and 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Sunday. The Northville Arts Commission, which sponsors the event, expects 47 artists this year. The Art Market will run all along Main Street and near the bandshell.

Throughout the entire festival, the downtown streets will also play host to a variety of booths for non-profit groups to raise funds. Restaurants will also be on hand, so the food will be plentiful.

Saturday night will feature the annual costume ball, with a new location this year at the Northville Community Center. The decorations and food promise to outdo even the last two years.

On Sunday the focus will shift somewhat to Mill Race Historical Village, where the Northville Historical Society will sponsor a day full of activities. Historic re-enactments and craft demonstrations will be ongoing in most Mill Race buildings and in the lane. Northville Community Recreation will sponsor family games at Mill Race starting at 1:30, and the village will host a duck race for added excitement at 2:30.

At 12:30 p.m. Sunday the PTA Coordinating Council will again hold its annual box-lunch auction, this year at the bandshell.

For more information on these activities, see the articles in the rest of this special section. But there's still more:

Other festival attractions include free transportation; a pancake breakfast from 9 a.m. to noon Saturday at First Presbyterian Church; the Northville Arts Commission's chalk art contest at 9:30 a.m. Saturday; walking tours of the community at 1:30 a.m. and 3:30 p.m. both Saturday and Sunday (meet at the Crow's Nest, corner of Main and Center streets); wheelmen exhibition at 1 p.m. Saturday at the Open Door Christian Church parking lot; pony rides on Saturday; and a continental breakfast and Art Market awards presentation at the bandshell 10 a.m. Sunday.

Dr. Rudy Randolph has become a fixture at the Victorian Festival.

World-famous unicycle team Teresa and Sem headline the Victorian Review.

Review is main attraction

By SUZANNE HOLLYER
Staff Writer

Headlining the Victorian Festival this year is a Victorian Review with a hometown feeling, said festival planner Judy Dore.

A three-act show, sponsored by the Casterline Funeral Home and Gennitti's Hole-in-the-Wall, will be performed four times throughout the festival in the downtown Northville bandshell.

A juggler / comedian, a magician and a balancing act will perform for 20 minutes each.

The balancing act performed by Teresa and Sem Abrahams is called Semcycle. Sem holds two world records for riding the tallest unicycle. He rode a 45-foot unicycle in 1976 and a 72-foot unicycle in 1980.

Teresa and Sem are multiple world champions in artistic unicycling. They have performed in 20 countries on 4 continents, including Europe, Asia, and North and South America.

The Review will play four times: on Friday following the parade (about 6:45 or 7 p.m.); on Saturday at 1 p.m. and again at 4 p.m.; and on Sunday at 2 p.m. All shows are expected to last one and a half hours.

This year's Victorian Review will be "more townsy" than last year's high-wire performance by the Great Walendas, Dore said.

Depending on the weather, Dore said about 10,000 people are expected to attend the festival. Those who watch the Victorian Review will be able to sit in chairs set up for the event. Standing room also will be available.

John Bullington and Jacquie Rundell of the Northville Players will be the masters of ceremonies throughout the event.

Festival offers wide range of entertainment

By MIKE TYREE
Staff Writer

Organizers promise nary a dull moment at Northville's 1991 Victorian Festival.

And judging by the list of performers, artists, musicians, and exhibits scheduled for the third annual foray into the 19th Century, that promise looks quite safe.

Victorian Festival entertainment includes everything from pony rides to puppet shows and melodramas to street mimes, said Judy Dore, festival entertainment coordinator.

"We're hoping to make it just like it was in the 1890s," Dore said. "When people walking around stop, there will be something going on."

Indeed. The lineup for the Sept. 13-15 festival is staggering.

Friday events include the Victorian Review (see story this page) and the parade (see story on page 6). Other Friday entertainment includes a performance by the Salvation Army Choir (6-7 p.m.), the Fifth Michigan Regiment Band (8-8:45 p.m.) at the Northville Community Center, and the SWEAT Band (formerly Schoolcraft College Wind Ensemble, 8-9:30 p.m.) at the bandshell.

Festivities kick into high gear Saturday and Sunday, with regular performances by dancers, Dixieland musicians, puppet shows, cloggers, Wizard of Oz characters, street mimes, caricature artists, kids' games, palmists, magicians, "Punch and Judy" shows, and a host of other costumed and 1800s-bedecked entertainers.

A special treat scheduled for three shows each on Saturday (noon, 2:30 and 4 p.m.) and Sunday (noon, 2 and 3:30 p.m.) is Her Fatal Beauty, a melodrama in the "hiss at the villain, cheer the hero" style, performed by the Northville Players at the American Legion Hall, northwest corner of Center and Dunlap streets.

A photo booth will allow those with an eye for Victorian Era threads to try on a flowing gown or britches. Barbershop quartets, medicine man shows, and ever-present sidewalk shows will add to the fun, Dore said.

Ponies fit for riding by youngsters will be stationed on Main Street near Wing on Saturday, as will carriage ride pick-up points throughout the festival.

Victorian Festival visitors will be hard-pressed not to find something entertaining at every corner at every minute, and Dore, who has worked on festival events preparations since February, expects nothing less.

Friday parade kicks off fun

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN
Staff Writer

Although the 1991 Victorian Festival officially starts the morning of Sept. 13, the big kickoff doesn't really come until 6 p.m. when the popular Victorian Parade takes to the streets of Northville.

The parade route (see map pages 10-11) has been changed slightly but will again wind its way through the city's Historic District.

"It's a little different route," Parade Organizer Mark Cryderman said. "We ask anyone who wants to in the parade to be at the marshaling area behind the Northville Community Recreation Building (Community Center) on 303 Main Street."

The parade route will start in front of the Community Center and continue west on Main to Rogers, north on Rogers to Dunlap, east on Dunlap to Center, south on Center to Main, and east on Main. The parade will go past the Victorian clock and end in front of the First Presbyterian Church.

"Everybody is invited to participate in the parade," Cryderman said. "We only ask that they dress in Victorian clothing. Horses, horse-drawn carriages and carts are welcome in the parade, but no motor vehicles."

The parade will feature two marching bands: the Northville High School Band and the Fifth Michigan Regiment Band. Another annual attraction — "The Wheelmen" — will be featured riding high-wheel bicycles.

Organizers welcome everyone to join the parade. Victorian bike optional.

New auction promises treats

By SCOTT DANIEL
Staff Writer

"I hear $35. Do I hear $50, $50? Yes, the gentleman in the bow tie bids $50. Will anyone else bid $50? Going once, going twice . . .

"Sold."

Those are the words that will be heard tomorrow when the Northville Chamber of Commerce holds its first annual Victorian Festival family auction. Bidding will be fast and furious when the auction kicks off, beginning at 8 p.m. at the Community Center, 303 W. Main.

Plenty of food will be available for the price of admission, and of course a host of exciting items will be auctioned off.

Autographed sports memorabilia, including a Detroit Red Wings hockey stick and Detroit Piston basketball, are on the block. Tickets to Red Wings home games will be featured as well.

Two tickets to the annual University of Michigan/Ohio State gridiron battle will also be available to festgoers. The package includes dinner at a fine local restaurant.

Another fine local restaurant, MacKinnon's, is offering a special treat. For the highest bidder, restaurant owner Tom MacKinnon will come to your home and prepare dinner for six.

The auction will not forget young festgoers. A Victorian doll as well as Garfield stuffed toys will tempt parents' soft spot.

Local magician Mike Thorton will also be on hand to entertain the kids. Free submarine sandwiches, pizza and soda pop will refresh young and old fest goers.

Most of the auction items were donated by local merchants.

According to Chamber Executive Director Laurie Marrs, proceeds from the auction will go toward funding a building expansion for the chamber. She said current facilities, constructed in 1982, have simply been stretched to the limit.

"Since then we've expanded dramatically," Marrs said. "It's a necessary expansion for us to stay in operation."

The chamber hopes to raise about $10,000 from the auction.

Marrs said the Northville Road office is limited to about 500 square feet. She said the chamber, which also hopes to receive in-kind donations for work on the expansion, will add as much as funding will allow.

A conference room, storage space and an executive office are high on the chamber's priority list for the expansion. Marrs said the current home, which now serves both the city and township, was designed for one person. The chamber now has several workers.

Plans for the expansion were recently approved by the city. Marrs said they are anxious to start the work "as soon as possible."

Chamber board member Ann Willis said the auction will provide fun to Victorian Festival participants, besides raising funds for the chamber.

"We are really hoping that people will be interested," she said. "People tend to like auctions."

Admission to the auction will be $5. Children five and under are free.

NORTHVILLE'S VICTORIAN FESTIVAL

Antique Show returns

By BOB NEEDHAM
Editor

The front lawn of the Northville American Legion Hall transforms into an antique show for the Victorian Festival weekend again this year, and what a show it is.

The show and sale attracted constant crowds throughout the first two festivals, and this year promises to again offer items to appeal to all sorts of differing interests. The antique show traditionally features everything from old-fashioned jewelry to a variety of antique furniture. It's all gathered together under a tent roof at the American Legion Hall, on the northwest corner of Center and Dunlap streets.

The show, organized by Sue Kage, runs from 6 to 9 p.m. Friday, 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. Saturday, and 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Sunday.

Art Market offers fine works

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

From as far away as Arizona and Florida, to as near as downtown Northville, artists will flock to town for this year's Fifth Annual Art Market.

The Art Market, assembled and operated by the Northville Arts Commission with the able assistance of Northville Friends of the Arts, runs Sept. 13-15 during the Victorian Festival. Forty-seven artists are scheduled to attend this year's juried art show.

The market will be held on Main Street east of Center, and along the entrance to Mary Alexander Court just off Main.

Michigan native Rita Kent has established a nationwide following for her works in fiber art, ranging from rugs and placemats to tapestries interwoven with all sorts of material.

Kent now lives in Kentucky and travels to shows around the country with fellow artist and partner Woody Drumheller.

When asked what she does, Kent said simply, "I weave." But her range of weaving is anything but simple.

"The pieces are traditional coverlet patterns that I have adapted to the framed format," Kent said. "I also do little tiny rag rugs where the material I use is about three-eighths of an inch wide . . . and they are also framed. And I do cotton and wool rag rugs, and I also have some, well, I really don't know how to describe them . . . they're very contemporary pieces."

Drumheller — perhaps better able to be objective about Kent's work — did a better job of describing her more unique creations.

"They include all forms of weaving with all kinds of fiber, from material through paper and mixed media, even the modern metallic thread," he said. "It's all together on handmade paper and then types of weaving or thread are integrated into that . . . If it's determined by the dictionary to be fiber, she works with it."

Drumheller admitted that the fiber arts incorporate a broad number of subjects and materials. "When they say they're a fiber artist, God only knows what that means, because things have changed, materials have changed so rapidly and continue to do so, and the manner of presentation is something to be accomplished in and of itself," he said. "It's a challenge to keep up with the marketplace."

But Kent has done an admirable job of sustaining and increasing her share of the fiber art market, he said, and she often sells her work to the children or grandchildren of her original clients.

"We can count at least four generations of people," he said. "Families buy rag rugs, and then they buy more for their kids, and the next thing you know you see the kids buying rag rugs for their kids . . . It's an undepleted marketplace."

Though the Northville Art Market show has attracted national attention, most of this year's artists hail from Michigan with four from Northville alone. Tiffany Art Glass owners John Zawadzki and Lauren Chiasson will simply be moving their wares downstairs from their second-story shop at 121 East Main.

Zawadzki, who has participated in the art show "since the beginning," said he has been building several of his trademark Tiffany-style lampshades for this year's event.

"The lampshades we do are kind of a special item," he said. "There's not too many people in Michigan that make them, and I only know of one other guy, really, that does the same quality work. There's a lot of labor involved."

Zawadzki and his wife will share a large booth this year, with Chiasson displaying her line of contemporary glass bead work.

Chiasson makes necklaces, bracelets and anklets "incorporating glass beads of every color and variety," she said. "I work with glass of every size, from seed bead to 6- or 8-millimeter diameter (and) I use some metal for accent. A lot of the beads you can see through. It reflects off the earrings, and it really has a glistening quality to it."

"I do big dangling things, real hip-hop, happening stuff . . . It's just really upbeat."

Chiasson was also pleased with a lampshade recently completed by her husband. "He just finished a reproduction rosebush lamp that's just beautiful," she said. "The colors are really rich, with turquoise, and violets and reds in the same rose petals."

Brighton painter Michael Glenn Monroe will display his acrylic and watercolor wildlife portraits at the art market for the first time this year.

Monroe, who cited deer among his favorite four-legged subjects, has a unique way of capturing his subjects on canvas. He uses animals that have already been captured.

"A lot of the animals I work with are from a rehabilitation center for wild animals out here in Brighton, and I get to work right with them," he said. "They have some deer out at the center, and I can get right in the cage and paint right there. It's a fairly good-sized pen."

The center releases the animals back into the wild if and when they can fend for themselves, or otherwise keeps them as permanent guests.

Several of the artists at this year's market will display their artistic creativity along with the results of their work. Jeff Simmington of Otsego will demonstrate how he makes jewelry while Lorrie Love of Farmington Hills will show how to spin pottery.

Other artists this year include photographers, painters in watercolors and oils, a woman who works in batiks and a couple that makes flutes.

Acclaimed local artist Tom Hale will judge the entrants into this year's art market, and award two Best of Show awards Saturday, Sept. 14 at 10 a.m. Award ribbons will be displayed on the winning artists' booths, and they will receive $250 cash prizes at the Artisans Brunch Sunday morning between 10-11 a.m. The brunch will be hosted by the arts commission at the Main Street Bandshell.

Hale has worked with the Birmingham Art Show, Ann Arbor Art Fairs and Charlevoix Art Fair, and is an elected member of the American Watercolor Society.

Northville Arts Commission Chairperson Jacquelyn Murray said the painter has helped make this year's art market an improvement over previous years.

"He really helped us put together a better show," she said. "He gave us tips on things to do to attract national artists, and came up with the idea for an annual poster."

The poster is being designed by commission member Kathryn Peltier and former member Henry Caroselli.

The Art Market runs from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Saturday and from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Sunday. The commission will conduct a raffle throughout the weekend, with the grand prize being a romantic getaway to a bed and breakfast restaurant in Union City and other prizes including works of art from local artists.

The raffle is designed to help the commission defray the cost of the show.

The Shipping Station, 136 N. Center St., sponsors an old-fashioned game of marbles at 1:30 p.m. Everyone gets to keep their marble shooter and any marbles they shoot outside of a chalk boundary line. The kid who shoots the most marbles outside the boundary line wins a bag of 40 marbles.

At 2 p.m. the game is jacks at Perrin Souvenir Distributors, 113 W. Main St. Perrin's and Genitti's Hole-in-the-Wall, 108 E. Main St., cosponsor the event. The winner gets to keep his or her jacks. Others get coupons for ornaments at Genitti's.

At 2:30 p.m. the hunt for wooden nickels is on at Heritage Federal Savings Bank, 127 Hutton St. Forty nickels have colored buffalos emblazoned on their surface. Kids who find the colored nickels may exchange their wooden nickel for a real quarter courtesy of Heritage Bank. Unmarked nickels may be kept as souvenirs.

Return to elegance at the ball

By JAN JEFFRES
Staff Writer

Whatever we may think of the Victorians today, they knew how to have a good time — especially on the dance floor.

A lady may have been throttled into her corset, but she was ready, willing and able to waltz the night away — provided she had a pretty fan and a bottle of smelling salts on hand.

An out-of-breath merry-maker at this year's Victorian Costume Ball doesn't have to worry about melting into a graceful, Melanie Wilkes-inspired swoon. Manipulating her voluminous skirt and petticoats as she trips lightly through a series of contra dances will be the premier challenge for today's woman.

That — and making sure her dance card is filled.

The real feat, however, is behind the scenes as the ball's committee works out the details of turning a prosaic, basketball hoop-lined gym into a 19th-century fantasia of a ballroom.

In prior years, the ball — a fundraiser for the Northville Chamber of Commerce — was at historic Mill Race Village. But that was cramped and hot. This year, the Northville Community Center was selected.

"Everyone's saying it's a gym. How can it be as wonderful as it was at Mill Race?" said Edward Postiff, a Victorian Ball committee member.

They will succeed, he promised.

From the moment that costumed ladies and gents are conducted by horse and buggy on Sept. 14 to the center they will descend into another century. They will remain there from 8 p.m. to midnight.

Where basketball hoops once beckoned, potted ferns will perch, backed by huge, white Victorian fans. The ceiling will be draped tent-style in snowy-white fabric festooned with tiny white twinkle lights.

Palladium windows made of foam core will cover the bleachers. Northville cake-maker Kevin Pavlina is in charge of the decorations.

"The whole theme is to make it soft. They're going to turn off all the lights. There'll be a lot of candles," Postiff said.

"We're hoping everyone will walk in and they'll all go 'aaaahh.'"

But the decor won't be the only show. Guests typically dress to the nine(teen)s for the event. Men wear 19th-century style tuxedos with cutaway jackets, top hats and white gloves.

The women have a wider range of fashions to flirt with — anything from Scarlett O'Hara's antebellum hoop skirt to the Gibson Girl's fin de siecle sweep.

For one guest, the Victorian splendour may be an authentic antique gown. Another may make her own dress, opt for a clever conversion of contemporary wear or rent the whole package.

"Usually everyone goes all out . . . They get into it, they do it up," Postiff said.

Northville resident Donna Tinberg, a veteran of past Victorian balls, chose a hoop skirt this year to avoid the problems she experienced at the 1990 event. Dancers trod on the train of her bustle skirt, she said.

This year's gown poses other challenges.

"The etiquette of the day was that it could not swing back and forth. You have to walk like you're gliding," she said.

Admittedly, most people today do not know how to dance the waltz, never mind the schottische, the mazurka or the Virginia reel. No problem. Caller Glen Morningstar will be leading the dancers through the steps of contra dances while the Olde Michigan Ruff Water Spring Band plays.

Do not expect, however, to remain with your dance partner all night. The rules of the game are no one dances with the same person twice, Postiff said. That's why the event starts with a mixer.

"You will grab a person and say, 'I will do a minute waltz with you.' You fill in your dance card at the cocktail hour," he explained.

"When I did it last year, you'd bump into people. Sometimes, it's a little frustrating."

The first few minutes, Morningstar will walk the couples through the steps. Then, the pace will pick up.

Naturally, all those high-stepping hoofers will work up an appetite. The $40 ticket price for the event includes hot hors d'oeuvres prepared by Northville restaurateurs, a box dinner from Edwards Caterer and a cake by Pavlina. In addition, there will be a cash bar.

Postiff is planning to fill gold foil lunch boxes with filet of beet tenderloin accompanied by mustard horseradish sauce, chicken roulade and wild rice with nuts and Michigan dried cherries and vegetables, french rolls and scones.

The tables will be decorated with massive silk flower arrangements by La Belle Provence.

Putting this all together with Postiff and Pavlina are Laurie Marrs, Leslie Benser and Jennifer Tobias Turner.

NORTHVILLE'S VICTORIAN FESTIVAL

The Northville Community Recreation Department sponsors games during Sunday's family picnic at Mill Race Historical Village.

Family picnic welcomes all

By CRISTINA FERRIER
Staff Writer

The festival focuses on Mill Race Historical Village for much of the day Sunday, with a traditional picnic offering entertainment for all.

The village will be open from noon to 5 p.m., but everyone is encouraged to come down for any part of that time to enjoy the atmosphere and a nice picnic lunch. Special highlights are planned throughout the afternoon.

From 1:30 to 2:30, the Northville Community Recreation Department will sponsor games for kids again this year. At 2:30 a new event debuts: a race of plastic ducks in the Middle Rouge River.

Organizer Greg Presley said of the race, "We're going to have fun. We will have prizes from local merchants and businesses." Anyone interested — "kids of all ages," Presley said — is welcome to join in the race. Just show up and get a number; then root for your duck.

Also at Mill Race will be a host of people re-enacting and demonstrating crafts of the era, including a blacksmith, a rug hooker, a seamstress, basket weavers, a wheat weaver, and a dulcimer player. In addition, other people will act out roles of the era — a banker, a prohibitionist, and so on. And of course, the Mill Race Docents will be on hand for guided tours of the historic buildings.

The Victorian-era characters will be busy throughout the day on Sunday.

"We have a fully outfitted blacksmithing shop," Presley said. "So the blacksmith will be plying his trade, along with a basketweaver from Plymouth and members of the Northville Weaver's Guild."

Presley said the wheat weaver, a Clawson woman, will represent a uniquely Victorian craft. "It's an unusual thing, and was really quite popular then."

The dulcimer player, he added, will bring a variety of Victorian-era instruments for display at Mill Race.

Although many of the artists who will be displaying their crafts do sell items, Presley stressed that their purpose at Mill Race will not be to set up displays and make sales.

"They are not here for the purpose of selling," he explained. "The idea is to be transported back into history. We want to really have the appearance of 100-150 years ago."

Presley added that, because some publicity about the picnic has stated that it starts at 1:30, there could be conflict with the games, which start at the same time. Instead of coming at 1:30, he suggests people may wish to begin their picnic at noon, then participate in the games.

Whatever time you wish to come, you're in for a Victorian experience.

"It truly is stepping back in time. It's very magic, especially if you come in costume," Presley said. "You really get a sense of what it felt like to live during that time."

Box-lunch auction aids PTA

By SUZANNE HOLLYER
Staff Writer

From a champagne lunch served in a decorated basket to a dollhouse loaded with gourmet food, the Northville Council of PTAs' box-lunch auction will have it all.

Box lunches designed by community members, businesses, school groups and district personnel will be auctioned during the Victorian Festival to benefit Northville PTA activities, said PTA Council President Sharon Ferrara.

The auction will be held Sunday, Sept. 15 at 12:30 p.m. in the bandshell off Main Street in downtown Northville.

Each box will contain a lunch for four people and be decorated in a theme reflected in the content of the lunch.

In the past, dollhouses with gourmet foods, baskets with champagne and children's lunches with toys and prizes have been auctioned.

This year the Northville Community Chamber of Commerce plans to auction an Italian peasant lunch, and the Historical Society will auction a lunch themed toward the Tivoli Fair, Ferrara said.

"It's a lot of creativity that has gone behind this," she said.

Auctioning the box lunches will be

"Dr. Rudy," described as the Victorian Festival's resident medicine man.

Dr. Rudy's true identity is a secret. Throughout the festival, Dr. Rudy will have a wagon set up "like in the old days of the traveling medicine man," Ferrara said.

Box lunches will go for all different prices, she said. Opening bids have begun at $25 in the past, but this year the PTA plans to have Dr. Rudy open bids at varying amounts.

Those who attend the auction will be encouraged to eat their box lunch at the Mill Race Historical Village, where entertainment and children's games are scheduled.

Immediately following the auction, a trolley will take auction-goers from the downtown bandshell to Mill Race.

The PTA expects to earn about $2,000 on the auction, committee chairperson Caryn Doehler said.

Profits will go toward a parent education program held in the school district next winter. In January, the PTA will bring four speakers into Northville schools to lead a workshop on parenting adolescents.

But Doehler said the PTA became involved with the auction more as a community service than as a fundraiser.

"We got involved to draw more people to the auction — to be part of the community," she said.

When in Northville, dress Victorian

By SUZANNE HOLLYER
Staff Writer

Those who take a trip back in time to the Victorian Festival's annual ball will sport long skirts, puffed sleeves, detailed fabrics, petticoats, and possibly even waist-slimming corsets.

The men may wear double-breasted suits or tails to the ball. And a few walking sticks and hats might be seen accessorizing the gentlemen's wardrobe.

Victorian fashion was a period of "unequaled wealth and ostentatious opulence," according to Tom Tierney in Great Fashion Designs of the Belle Epoque.

But Victorian Northville was far from the world's major shopping capitals — even Detroit was a three-day journey.

Rural towns like Northville were at the mercy of local retailers until 1872 when the new Montgomery Ward & Co. catalog entered the scene. Prior to the catalogue's introduction the rural family was often required to make the trip to larger retail outlets to purchase clothing.

"In sparsely settled parts he found himself forced to ride miles by horseback to reach the nearest store. If he was unable to leave his farm chores to go himself, he was compelled to send some member of his family or a hired hand, and the results of this indirect purchasing were not always happy," Boris Emmet wrote in an introduction to a reprinted 1895 catalog.

But until Ward's entered the scene in 1872, there was no choice for the rural family. Wards was the first "mail-order house which could fill all the needs of all members of the rural family from grandma to the family dog," according to Emmet.

The catalog was advertised as "the cheapest cash house in the country." It claimed to cut out the middleman.

The rural man's clothes were more useful than fashionable.

"His clothes were almost entirely utilitarian, designed to afford whatever warmth might be necessary and meet minimum standards of modesty and decency," Emmet wrote.

"Appearance and fit were allowed wide latitude. Clothes had to be durable and comfortable enough to stand up under work on the farm and in the kitchen or to present an acceptable appearance at church."

Much of the catalog's clothing section was used for men's and boy's clothing. Women were encouraged to "insist upon it that the men of your family dress well provided they do so without increased cost," Emmet wrote.

Ward's specialized in the $10 suit. But even the wealthy could purchase clothing through the catalog. A $28 Prince Albert suit was marketed to "ministers, physicians, and professional men," the catalogue said.

For women, Ward's offered a selection of material to make clothing and those items women may not have wanted to sew by hand like underwear, gloves, bonnets and corsets.

The corset department was four pages long. The modern woman might cringe at the thought of binding herself up in lace and stays, but the Ward's corsets were called "light, comfortable, well-shaped and very durable."

Corsets were the foundation of Charles Dana Gibson's creation. The Gibson girl was copied by women around the world, according to Tom Tierney in his book Gibson Girl — Paper Dolls in Full Color.

"His lovely creation, the Gibson Girl — the all-American girl turned into an American aristocrat, the thing that dreams are made of — dated an era and made it hers," Tierney wrote.

Northville, however rural, may have had one advantage late in the Victorian era that other rural towns did not have — a local tailor.

Bruno Freydl opened Freydl the Tailor in 1894. A dry cleaners was added in 1911. By 1943 a men's and women's clothing store was opened.

More information on Victorian-era fashion is available at the Northville Public Library, 215 W. Main St., including the books Victorian and Edwardian Fashion by Alison Gernsheim, Evolution of Fashion by Margot Hill, Costume, an Illustrated Survey by Margot Lister, Victorian Fashion by Ulseth Hazen, Dress from Three Centuries, American Dress Pattern Catalogs, and Patterns for Theatrical Costumes by K. Holkeboer.

NO ONE DOES MORE TO IMPROVE YOUR VIEW OF THE WORLD

Of all the decisions you can make in building or remodeling your home, choosing Pella brand products may prove to be the most satisfying.

They look beautiful. They perform beautifully. And we go through extraordinary measures to ensure they will stay that way, giving you lasting pleasure season after season, year after year.

They are, quite arguably, the finest windows, doors, sunrooms and skylights in the world. And it's not just us doing the arguing. With more than one hundred brands to choose from, more architects specify Pella windows than any other brand.*

To find out for yourself what sets Pella products apart from the rest, just turn the page. We're confident that the more you know, the easier your decision will be.

BUILT TO IMPOSSIBLY HIGH STANDARDS. OUR OWN.®

DOUBLE-HUNG AND CASEMENT WINDOWS

For classic American style and state-of-the-art performance, look to Pella's Double-Hung windows. Solid wood construction and superior weatherstripping provide outstanding insulating value. Washing our double-hung windows is easy — each sash pivots to give you full access for cleaning from inside your house.

The Pella Casement window is so well constructed, it's eleven times tighter than the industry standard, stopping drafts cold. Upper and lower locks operate in unison with a single handle, preventing sash warpage. An interior wash feature makes cleaning easy.

Both our casements and our double-hung windows are ideal for remodeling or replacement projects, with a large selection of standard sizes designed to fit most houses.

THE ARCHITECT SERIES™

Incredibly beautiful, yet energy-efficient, The Architect Series™ captures the beauty of true divided light while maintaining the performance of insulating glass. Elegant narrow windowpane dividers characterize these extraordinary windows and French doors, which are particularly suited to historical renovations or traditional new construction. Available in wood or low-maintenance clad.

OPTIONS, OPTIONS, OPTIONS

Our exclusive Double Glazing Panel System provides a 1/2" insulating air space between the panes of glass. This extremely versatile, energy-efficient system eliminates the need for storm windows, and provides room for Slimshade® blinds, pleated shades, or wood windowpane dividers between the panes and away from dust and damage.

Slimshade® blinds are narrow-slit adjustable blinds that are safe from dust and damage, because they're protected by the glass in our Double Glazing Panel System. Extremely popular for Pella Windows, Sliding and Traditional French doors, and Sunrooms, Slimshade blinds offer measurable increases in energy efficiency.

Pleated shades can be raised or lowered to control light. Installed within our Double Glazing Panel System, or mounted room-side, they offer a fashionable, energy-efficient alternative to drapes or blinds. A variety of colors and fabrics are available to complement your decor.

On casement windows, consider adding our convenient Rolscreen® rolling screen. It pulls down when you need a screen and rolls up when you don't. When it's rolled up you get a clear view and 40% more light than you'd have with a fixed screen.

BOW AND BAY WINDOWS

A bow or bay window can provide a uniquely beautiful focal point whether you're replacing ordinary windows or remodeling an entire room.

Add living space and sunlight with a walk-in bay, or bring a room to life with the graceful charm of a bow window. With the exceptionally flexible Pella® Bow and Bay System, you can combine casements or double-hungs to create a window that will complement your home perfectly.

WOOD ENTRY DOOR SYSTEMS

Few things provide a warmer welcome than a richly crafted wood door. Finely constructed, superbly engineered, the Pella Wood Entry Door System is quite possibly the most elegant entry door system you can buy. But there's more to its appeal than looks: our exclusive Warpguard™ laminated construction makes these handsome doors three times as warp-resistant as regular solid wood doors. Warping, sticking and drafts are virtually eliminated. A variety of styles, from traditional to contemporary, are available in both 6'8" and 7'10" heights.

SUNROOMS AND SUNSPACES

For truly extraordinary living, a Pella Sunroom or Sunspace is an unparalleled choice. Create a small, sunny retreat, brighten an attic room with a skylight, or add light and living space with a walk-in sunroom b/w. Our flexible system allows you to design the perfect sunroom or sunspace for your home.

TRADITIONAL FRENCH DOORS REGULAR AND FRENCH SLIDING GLASS DOORS

Pella Traditional French and French Sliding doors open up a world of design options, from elegant to classic to contemporary. Choose the traditional charm of in- or out-swing French doors, or consider stylish sliding French doors if space is at a premium. All feature an easy-care clad exterior, energy-efficient glass and our exclusive Pella Double Glazing Panel System, which allows you to select Slimshade® blinds or pleated shades for between-the-pines shading.

For a more expansive view and the energy efficiency of insulating glass, choose our regular sliding glass door. On all sliding doors, a security footbolt allows you to lock the door in either of two positions: closed or open about 3" for ventilation. Stainless steel door tracks ensure years of trouble-free use.

New Name-New Look

Your neighborhood M-CARE Health Centers now sport a new name: the University of Michigan Health Centers.

"We made this change because there was some public confusion as to whether M-CARE HMO insurance was required to use the health centers. The fact is, we accept many insurance plans," says Sharon Redmer, associate hospital administrator and director of health center operations.

"The new name also clarifies our relationship to the University of Michigan Medical Center and its resources," adds Redmer.

Along with a new name, we are introducing a new look for the health centers newsletter with this first issue of Health Tips. We hope you find it useful. If you would like to suggest a topic for upcoming issues, please write to our office.

Children's Safety

By Inta Ertel, M.D.
Professor of Pediatrics and Coordinator of UMH Pediatric Clinic

To school-age children, summer means fun. Unfortunately, some favorite warm-weather activities can lead to serious injury.

The Good News: Prevention Works
During the 1980s, more progress was made toward preventing injuries than in any decade this century. Deaths due to injury decreased by 28 percent between 1978 and 1988 in school-age children (5 to 15 years old).

Still, injuries are the leading cause of death in this age group. And more than 50,000 disabilities occur each year.

At the U-M Health Centers, we teach age-appropriate safety practices during well-child visits.

We invite everyone who cares for children to join us in our campaign to make the world a safer place for children.

Special Risks

Children are exposed to special risks during their developmental stages. School-aged children, for example, seek social and peer acceptance. Many feel they must prove their worth by performing daring feats.

Of course, children do not fully understand the possible consequences. Their concepts of movement, distance, sound and speed may not be fully developed. And gender adds a risk factor: Boys take more risks and suffer more injuries.

You can reduce injuries by providing adult supervision until your child is ready for a reliable buddy system. Here are some basic safety rules that will help reduce injury.

Motor Vehicle Safety. Do not start the car until your child is buckled in. And always wear a seat belt yourself. We recommend you do not permit school-age children to ride a motorcycle. The injuries we see are frequent, and horrible.

Water Safety. Provide swimming lessons to help your child learn to swim well. Drowning is a leading cause of death in school-age children, so provide adult supervision whenever your child is near the water. Remind your child never to swim alone and to always wear a life jacket when boating.

Bike Safety. Make sure your child wears a helmet every time he or she rides a bike. Be firm: No helmet, no bike. And set a good example by wearing a helmet yourself. Ask your doctor for bike safety guidelines. Teach your child the rules of the road. When children learn bike safety early, they adapt easily and become safer automobile drivers as adults.

Avoiding Burns. Teach your child what to do when the smoke alarm rings. Make a fire escape plan and practice it with your child. Your local fire department can help you design the most efficient plan.

Preventing Sports Injuries. Provide your child with protective equipment made especially for that sport. A school coach will know what is needed. If your home contains hunting or other guns, keep them under lock and key. An unlocked gun is an invitation to disaster.

A Final Thought: Teach your child your phone number and address. It could be a valuable piece of information if he or she ever becomes separated from you.♦

How to Get the Most from Your Health Care Visit

By Jill Weber, R.N., B.S.N., Clinical Nurse, Ambulatory Care Nursing and JoAnn Neher, R.N., Clinical Nurse, Ambulatory Care Nursing

Preparation for Visit

When you make an appointment, ask if any special preparation is necessary, such as need to fast or medications to take.

Prepare a list of questions prior to your visit. Bring the list to your appointment and share with your caregiver.

Bring (do not send by mail) pertinent medical records and X-rays for evaluation as a new patient.

Keep your own health care diary, especially if your health care is complex. Bring it to your appointment. Be prepared to report your physical observations, changes in your condition or drug reactions.

Bring a list of your current medications, dosages and drug allergies (keep this in your wallet).

Know if you are up to date with your immunizations, such as tetanus, pneumovax, MMR, polio and hepatitis B. Bring your immunization record with you.

During Visit

Listen to the questions asked and answer as honestly as possible.

Keep a health care folder for your health educational information, appointments, etc.

Ask questions. If your treatment makes sense to you, you are more likely to comply.

Ask for written instructions or write instructions down if necessary. If you do not understand or forget instructions, ask.

Ask how you can educate yourself regarding your health care needs.

Believe in yourself. If you think something is wrong, do not ignore it. Ask questions. Take action.

When Checking Out

If tests or diagnostic studies are scheduled, ask if special preparation is necessary.

Know about new medications ordered. Make sure you have enough medication to last until your next appointment.

Know your health care team. Team members can include physicians, nurses as well as a social worker, pharmacist, nutritionist, physical therapist and psychologist. Ask for their names and phone numbers.

Make sure a return visit is scheduled to discuss and evaluate treatment, medication and/or test results.♦

Maternal and Child Health Center and the U-M Health Centers

A look inside the MCHC

The Medical Center's new Maternal and Child Health Center expands and improves the already outstanding health care services offered here for women and children.

The MCHC, as we call it, includes newly constructed space and ongoing renovation to C.S. Mott Children's Hospital, Women's Hospital, Holden Perinatal Hospital and the Child and Adolescent Psychiatric Hospital. These four hospitals have been integrated under one roof into one of the leading facilities of its kind.

Women's Hospital

Doctor, physician-nurse teams and nurse midwives at Women's Hospital deliver more than 2,200 normal and high-risk babies each year. The new MCHC includes eight home-like birthing rooms, three high-risk delivery rooms, increased space for neonatal care and the addition of new outpatient obstetrics and gynecology clinics at the A. Alfred Taubman Health Care Center. During the next phase, Women's Hospital will be adding a new mother/baby unit and even more prenatal testing facilities.

C.S. Mott Children's Hospital

Mott is one of only two specialized children's facilities in the state of Michigan. Known for both its innovative medical technology and family-oriented care, Mott ranks nationally with the leading child health care facilities.

Child & Adolescent Psychiatric Hospital

The integration of CAPH into the MCHC underscores our commitment to the total health care of our patients by allowing us to deliver both medical and psychiatric care in the same facility.

James & Lynelle Holden Perinatal Hospital

Holden is one of the Midwest's leading medical facilities for high-risk infants. Here, highly trained medical teams, supported by the latest advanced medical technology, save the lives of hundreds of critically ill infants each year.

By combining the services formerly housed in four separate medical facilities, the MCHC gives you more convenient access to a multitude of services. It enables us to provide a new level of medical care and technology.

If you would like to learn more, the staff at our U-M Health Centers will be happy to assist you.

Labor Relations

"At the University of Michigan Medical Centers, women have the best of both worlds. They have the convenience of prenatal and postnatal care in their community, while delivery is at a world-class medical center with facilities for both normal and high-risk pregnancies," says Lauren Zoschnick, M.D., obstetrician/gynecologist and medical director of the Plymouth Health Center.

Prenatal Care

"Care during pregnancy can vary depending on a woman's risk factors and likelihood of complications. These could include lifestyle behaviors (such as smoking), family history, past obstetrical history, nutritional history, social support and medical conditions," explains Thomas Schwenk, M.D., family physician and chairman of the Department of Family Practice.

These factors and others determine whether an expectant mother should be cared for in a low-risk, family-centered or high-risk fashion. Sometimes patients begin in the low-risk category and become high-risk during pregnancy.

At the health centers, physicians care for patients requiring normal prenatal care. High-risk patients are referred by their family physician or obstetrician to the U-M's Maternal and Child Health Center, where advanced technology allows close monitoring.

"Normal prenatal care emphasizes ongoing risk assessment, minimal use of technology and a focus on education and family involvement," adds Schwenk. "High-risk care doesn't discount the importance of these things, but the focus is on the complexity of the problem, the technological interventions required and close multidisciplinary monitoring."

Labor and Delivery

"Women are impressed with the attention they receive at the Maternal and Child Health Center. It's very personalized, from labor and delivery through post-partum care. People don't always expect to find that at a large medical center," says Zoschnick.

"We believe childbirth is a major family event," explains Barb Dubler, head nurse at Women's Hospital in the MCHC. "That's why we offer special services like our Big Brother & Big Sister Tours and an atmosphere of flexibility."

In private rooms at the MCHC, dads are encouraged to spend the night. (And in semi-private rooms if mom doesn't have a roommate.)

Moms can care for their babies in their rooms as long as they like. "However, if you prefer not to have the baby room-in, or if you need a break, the nursery staff is ready 24 hours a day to care for your infant," says Dubler.

"Our staff is one of the most experienced teams in the medical center," adds Dubler. "Our 35 caregivers collectively offer more than 500 years of experience."

Ob Tea & Tour

At the Plymouth, Northville, Northeast Ann Arbor and Brighton health centers, obstetricians work together as partners, with rotating call schedules to cover all labors and the delivery unit.

Four times a year, the obstetricians host a social tea for patients more than 28 weeks pregnant. "It's really an ideal time for the patients to meet the obstetricians from the other health centers and ask any pertinent questions," says Susie Himebaugh, M.D., an obstetrician/gynecologist at the Brighton Health Center.

"The tea is also an informal gathering and an opportunity to meet other expectant mothers/parents and hear their concerns," adds Himebaugh. "We serve hors d'oeuvres and punch in the Sloan Dining Room. Guests enjoy a brief talk by each of the obstetricians, a slide presentation and a walking tour of the MCHC facilities."
