Board names new treasurer on a split vote

By MIKE TYREE
Staff Writer

A split vote by the township board last Thursday propelled Jack Hosmer to the township treasurer's post.

Hosmer, director of business and finance for the Van Buren School District and an also-ran candidate for the treasurer's post in a 1990 special election, was selected by a 3-2 vote to replace Betty Lennox as township treasurer. Lennox recently won a controversial appointment to the supervisor's position.

Lennox, Trustee James Nowka, and Trustee Donald Williams supported Hosmer after a board majority rejected another board member's request to hold a township-wide candidate search and interview process.

The decision prompted an angry outburst from some township residents. Audience member Jeff Hampton said he was "obviously appalled by the proceedings tonight."

"(You) thumbed your nose at your constituents," Hampton said. "This is a democracy and you folks have completely turned your back on the will of the people."

"(The appointment) is an abomination of the first degree," he said. "You basically told the people of Northville to go to hell."

Township resident John Swienkowski said it was "obvious there are some problems in the township."

"It's obvious we need to make some changes," he said. "I think there should be some new people on the board."

Jeff Schroeder, a 16-year-old Northville High School student, likened the board to an unfeeling, distant federal bureaucracy.

"A lot of people in the township are really upset with the way this was handled," he said.

Trustee probes reporter

By RICK BYRNE

In-depth reporting was met with sabre-rattling Thursday night as a Northville Township official announced that he was conducting an investigation into the background of a local reporter.

Trustee Don Williams told Northville Record reporter Mike Tyree that he was looking into Tyree's background with the help of a Florida attorney. Tyree was a reporter with the Bonita Banner in Bonita Springs, Fla., for nine months before coming to the Record in September 1989.

Although he hesitated to use the word "investigation" again, Williams confirmed Friday that he was indeed conducting a background check of the reporter.

The prospect of an investigation into Tyree's background was greeted with outrage by Record management.

"This is purely harassment. It's inappropriate and an outrage," said Michael Malott, managing editor of The Northville Record.

"Don Williams has absolutely no reason to believe that there is anything wrong in Mike Tyree's background. His only motivation can be that he dislikes the coverage which Mike has given to the fouled up supervisor's appointment, treasurer's appointment and Williams' other questionable actions on the township board."

"Apparently, Mike's coverage has been too good from Williams' perspective. And there is an old saying in the journalism trade

Fairy tales make for spirited festivities

By SUZANNE HOLLYER
Staff Writer

Northville High School's homecoming queen and king have one thing in common. They're both presidents.

Queen Beth Cannizzaro is the Student Congress president. King Jeff Berkaw is president of the senior class board.

Cannizzaro said she was surprised by the announcement. Berkaw modestly said he was happy to win, but did not feel more deserving of the honor than any other student.

The homecoming court, including king and queen, was announced at a Friday pep assembly. The court was also honored at halftime of Friday's homecoming football game, won by Farmington Harrison, 38-7.

Senior court members include Jennifer Vigh, Angela Helmer, Clara Vitale, Kimi Rahimi, Tracy Jambor, Michelle McNally, Joe Kontuly, Jim Luebke, Bret Butz, Matt Maliszewski and James Miller.

The junior court is Katy Murphy and Rob Subotich.

Amy Cristof and Ted Downs are sophomores on the court.

Freshmen representatives are Anthony DeBenedet and Melanie Helmer.

Floats were decorated in the theme of fairy tales. The senior class, under Berkaw's leadership, won the float contest with a castle. Smoke poured from the castle roof and a drawbridge opened and closed on a pulley system.

The seniors also won a homecoming spirit week contest.

Juniors came in second in both contests.

Hospital hosts unusual fashion show

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

The Friends of Northville Regional Psychiatric Hospital held an unlikely fashion show last Wednesday, where hospital staff members modeled the fashions of Westland designer Lauren Lein.

The show was designed to draw attention to the work done by Friends of NRPH, a non-profit organization dedicated to providing the hospital's patients with services, facilities, equipment, programs and support.

The morning show featured the casual styles of Lauren Lein (pronounced "Line"), a designer with an international list of clientele whose custom-designed clothing incorporates classic themes and a relaxed style. The clothes are tailored to fit the individual client.

Carol Park, director of community relations at NRPH, said the show grew out of a chance connection between the designer and the non-profit group. "Our former (Friends of NRPH) chairperson, Marilyn Rusche, happens to work in the same building and saw her fashion shows and said, 'That's a unique idea.'"

Park said the fashion show, like Lein's fashions themselves, was a little less formal than others.

"This isn't one of those big, high-powered $500-a-throw luncheons, it's our attempt to let people know who we are and what we want to do," she said. "It's also an attempt to expose Friends of NRPH to our staff."

The non-profit group has hosted a variety of fund-raisers in its several years of existence, including a concert by the Blue Pigs and dinner at New Hellas Cafe in Greentown.

The group has also raised funds to install park benches for the hospital's residents, and recently donated a video projector to the hospital for entertainment and education of patients and staff.

"Certainly with the rather stringent budgets for state facilities... we wouldn't have been able to get a video projector in the state budget and we wanted to make life for the patients entertaining," Park said. "Anything we do for them has therapeutic value."

Of mental illness itself, she said, "It's an equal-opportunity illness, unfortunately."

Northville Regional Psychiatric Hospital is a state-funded mental health facility on Seven Mile Road serving area residents. Friends of NRPH is a non-profit, tax-exempt organization. Contributions to the organization are tax-deductible.

For more information, call Carol Park at 349-1800.

Committee irked by charges for copies

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

A member of the business people's committee examining the city's finances expressed anger that the city council voted to charge the committee "several hundred dollars" for an estimated 4,000 copies of city documents.

"They really don't want to cooperate," said Chuck Keys. "They're just trying to flood us with paperwork."

But Manager Gary Word insisted that the city was willing to cooperate with the committee.

Keys was referring to the city council's decision last Monday to charge the committee 10 cents per document, and staff time involved in collecting the documents. The decision overrode a city staff recommendation that the documents be provided free of charge, despite the staff time and expense involved in collecting them. The recommendation was signed by Word and Assessor Mark Christiansen.

The committee had asked for copies of documents including contracts, competitive bids, bills, invoices, bank statements and canceled checks regarding the city's refuse collection and disposal system

Driver charged in two-car collision

By MIKE TYREE
Staff Writer

A Northville man was driving erratically and at an excessive speed when his vehicle collided with a car occupied by three Northville girls late Sept. 13, the Wayne County Prosecutor's Office has charged.

John Clinton Kukich, 22, 18380 Jamestown Circle, faces felonious driving charges in connection with a two-car collision on Seven Mile Road near Innsbrook Road that left five people hospitalized.

One of those injured, Meghan Kathleen Kearney, 17, is hospitalized in intensive care at University of Michigan Hospital in Ann Arbor.

Kukich was arraigned Oct. 9 at 35th District Court in Plymouth. He faces up to two years in jail and/or a $1,000 fine if convicted of the charges. He was released Wednesday on $500 bond and is scheduled to appear in court Oct. 18 for a preliminary exam.

Kukich made a "violent right turn and left turn" on westbound Seven Mile before losing control of his vehicle and swerving into the eastbound lane, said township police officer Matthew Mayes.

His vehicle then struck a car driven by Gina Signorelli, 17, of Northville. Kearney and Jessica Bates, 16, were passengers in Signorelli's vehicle. Kearney was seated in the back of the vehicle and was thrown into the car's windshield upon impact, according to police reports.

She received serious head and neck injuries.

police and emergency workers said.

Mayes said statements from three witnesses and other evidence prompted the felonious driving charges.

Police did not find any skid marks on Seven Mile and there was no way to estimate Kukich's speed, Mayes said, but other factors may be incriminating.

"Someone going 40 mph (the posted speed limit) is not going to make those violent turns," Mayes said. "He admitted to losing control when he made the lane change."

Mayes said drugs or alcohol were not a factor in the collision.

Signorelli, Kearney, and Bates are students at Northville High School.

Senate approves kids' state song

By SUZANNE HOLLYER
Staff Writer

It took a little begging and pleading on the part of a local senator, but in the end Amerman Elementary fifth graders were not disappointed by their first experience working with government.

Cheryl Holmberg's class visited the state capital on Sept. 25 to sing "Two Peninsulas — One People" to the Senate Committee on State Affairs and Military / Veteran Affairs. The song was favorably reported out of committee on Oct. 1.

The state Senate on Thursday passed, 24-12, a measure to establish "Two Peninsulas — One People" as the official state song.

The vote came on the heels of a Wednesday vote that rejected the song 23-13.

Sen. R. Robert Geake, R-Northville, said he got the senate to reconsider with some begging and pleading. Some senators traded their votes to hear Geake sing the song, he said.

After a disappointing Wednesday, the Amerman fifth grade class was thrilled on Thursday, Jarvi said.

"A couple of kids were in the office yesterday. They were so excited they were almost in tears," music teacher Ann Jarvi said.

Jarvi, who is a friend of song authors Charlotte Moore-Viculin and Norman Davies, got the students involved in the legislative process.

Despite their excitement, "Two Peninsulas" is still far from becoming the official state song.

The state House of Representatives must vote on the song and the governor would have to sign legislation before Two Peninsulas could be the official state song.

Jarvi said she is planning a second trip to the capital for students to sing to a House committee.

She hopes to bring a different fifth-grade class to give more students the opportunity to participate in the governmental process.

Michigan is one of only three states with no official state song.

Engler slashes racetrack monies

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

Gov. John Engler has whipped his budget-cutting scissors out again, and is preparing to take a deep slice out of the City of Northville's budget.

The governor's office announced Friday that Engler has slashed state-returned racetrack revenues, that perennial target of Lansing legislators, in his latest series of cuts to the 1991-1992 state budget.

Under Engler's proposal, the city would lose all of the potential $900,000 in state-returned racetrack revenue allocated to the city from Northville Downs. The funds represent about 25 percent of the amount skimmed off the racetrack's profits and sent to the state, and are allocated to police, fire, and other services that benefit the track.

If there is a bright side to the announcement, it is the timing. Last year, the governor's office simply delayed payment of the already-allocated revenue for months, and the money was only released after several trips to Lansing and threats of lawsuits against the state by irate officials from racetrack cities including Northville. The delayed payments, and the lack of warning about them, threw the City of Northville's budget into disarray and was one of the factors cited in the temporary removal of two patrol officers' positions and an across-the-board city budget cut. The city also passed a tax-anticipation note while waiting for the withheld funds.

"It's probably better (to be informed) sooner than later, but it's bad news nonetheless," said City Manager Gary Word.

The grants were actually eliminated in the first 1991-1992 state budget proposed by the governor, but were subsequently restored minus a 10-percent cut. The 10 percent was a further cut under last year's 9.2-percent reduction, reducing the amount allocated by the State Racing Statute of 1980 from $900,000 to about $735,000, a 165,000 difference.

Visitors to Michigan racetracks wager more than $400 million a year, resulting in over $20 million in annual revenue to the State of Michigan.

State Police waiting for budget approval

By SCOTT DANIEL
Staff Writer

Despite approval of a state budget in late September, Northville's state police post is still operating on funds from last fiscal year, according to commander Jack Moulk.

Michigan's new fiscal year began Oct. 1. But, Moulk said, final details of the state police's budget are still being hammered out by lawmakers.

"Our people in Lansing are meeting with the governor's staff," he said. "How this is going to impact on us, I don't know."

The agency's funding could become subject to Gov. John Engler's budget axe.

The approved budget was projected at $125 million in the red by state officials. An announcement of line-item vetoes, to balance the budget, was expected to be made late Friday.

"I haven't heard one way or the other," Moulk said regarding potential cuts. "We know we have a budget, it's just a matter of what (Engler) decides to do."

Saginaw Republican Jon Cisky chairs the Senate appropriation subcommittee on state police funding. According to Scott Stevenson, administrative assistant for Cisky, state police could lose $4.3 million from its nearly $200 million budget.

Legislators were meeting before the announcement of Engler's cuts to put final touches on a $4.3 million "fee bill," he said. The bill would okay a hike in fees paid for civil infractions, such as speeding tickets.

Stevenson said if the bill wasn't passed by Friday afternoon, state police would lose the $4.3 million in expected revenues for the budget.

If funding is lost, he said, programs such as Northville's central dispatch could have its plug pulled. Patrolling of secondary roads could also be eliminated, Stevenson said.

State troopers wouldn't be laid off, however, Stevenson said.

Moulk said his post, which also houses the state police's second district headquarters, will likely work under a "continuation budget" for fiscal '91-'92. Such a move would keep the post operating at the past year's funding level, albeit adjusted for inflation.

Salaries and wages make up about 90 percent of the post's budget. Moulk said between $4 million to $5 million was spent last year on wages for Northville's 80 employees.

Supplies, rent and other bills round out the post's yearly budget, he added. That portion came to just more than $100,000 last year.

Moulk said it's too early to say if the post would suffer other budget cutting measures. Administrative employees of the state police, including the post commander, were given four furlough days last fiscal year to save money.

Board names treasurer

O'Reilly called the decision the "final chapter in a long list of pre-ordained decisions."

"It's just incredible, almost beyond belief," he said.

Handyside had pushed for a new round of interviews, noting that a 1989 treasurer search attracted a dozen candidates for the part-time, $9,000 post. He asked his fellow board members to reopen the interview process to seek the most qualified candidate.

But board members such as Trustee James Nowka nixed that plan.

"I feel it's time to make (the) decision," he said. "I feel . . . we should act on it tonight."

Nowka staunchly opposed another public call for resumes and interviews, preferring instead to pick a treasurer from among the three men defeated by Lennox in the 1990 election. He nominated Hosmer, who garnered 450 votes less than election runner-up Rick Engelland.

"I kind of feel we have a responsibility to be responsible to the people of the community," Nowka said.

He also said "the board has to believe (in itself) and choose not to be intimidated."

Nowka did not say who he felt was attempting to intimidate the board. He also shot back at those who blasted the treasurer selection process.

"I feel I owe nothing to anybody," he said. ". . . the collective residents really should be the winners."

As treasurer, Hosmer will hold a township board voting seat and will be in charge of township tax collections.

Police News

Thieves take away big haul with moving van

Thieves may have used a commercial moving van to burglarize a Franklin home during daylight hours Oct. 1, township police said.

Police said the homeowner told them someone ransacked the residence and stole more than $3,400 worth of household items.

A witness told police she observed a bright yellow, full-size commercial van with blue block letters on the side driving north on Franklin at 11:30 a.m. — the approximate time the theft occurred. Police have no suspects at this time, but may have a bevy of clues to work with.

Police found prymarks on a window, a bedroom screen was cut and rolled back, a chair was braced against a dog door, a tire iron was found on a bed, and a tire was on the ground in front of the residence.

vents from walls and tire tracks were found on the front lawn and from the driveway to the front door.

The homeowner told police that the following items were stolen: a 25-inch woodgrain console television and a 13-inch television; a video camcorder; two 35 mm cameras, a telephoto lens, and tripod; a portable radio, a microwave oven; an answering machine; a video cassette recorder; a stereo with attached record player; a musical keyboard; a silver charm bracelet; and a wall clock and planter.

CASH STOLEN FROM BUSINESS: A white male approximately 19 years old reportedly stole $400 cash from Player's Choice One, 43003 Seven Mile, the afternoon of Oct. 4.

The complainant told police the man was seen in a side room near a cash register holding a "large amount" of cash. The suspect then dashed from the building and climbed into an older gray Ford Escort.

The suspect reportedly wore his hair in a long pony tail and stood approximately 6'1" and weighed 190 lbs. The suspect was wearing a black cap and glasses at the time of the theft, the complainant said.

JACKET STOLEN FROM RESTAURANT: A Livonia high school student told township police that someone stole his school varsity jacket from a coat rack at McDonald's, 39700 Five Mile, sometime between Sept. 22-25.

The youth is an employee of the restaurant. The jacket was valued at $175.

DRUNKEN DRIVING ARREST: A

34-year-old Livonia man was arrested by city police for operating under the Influence of liquor Oct. 9, after being stopped for speeding at 1:48 a.m. The man's speed was measured by radar at 71 mph in a 40 mph zone as he drove east on Eight Mile Road near Novi Road.

His blood alcohol level was measured at .14 percent. He was arrested, held until he sobered up, and released after posting a $100 cash bond.

SUSPENDED LICENSE ARRESTS: City police arrested two men last week for driving with suspended licenses. A 24-year-old Plymouth man was arrested at 8:53 p.m. Oct. 7 after being stopped for disobeying a stop light while driving west on Dunlap at Center. His license had been suspended for failing to comply with the judgement stemming from an improper lane charge in Walled Lake. He was released after posting a $500 personal bond.

A 21-year-old Dearborn Heights man was arrested at 2 p.m. Oct. 9 after being stopped for an extended load. His license had been suspended for failing to comply with a safety belt violation in Westland. He was released after posting a $100 cash bond.

PARKING DECK PAINTED: A vandal or vandals spray-painted several slogans, including one of a racist nature, on the lower north wall of the Cady Street parking deck, sometime between 5:30 p.m. Oct. 8 and 8 a.m. Oct. 9.

Citizens with information about the above incidents are urged to call Northville City Police at 349-1234 or Northville Township Police at 349-9400.

Seminar helps senior citizens protect assets

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

Financial planner Paul Leduc completed the latest of several legal seminars for seniors Oct. 4, before an appreciative audience of about 40 people at the Northville Senior Center.

Leduc said previous seminars held at the Northville Recreation Center drew more than 100 people, "as many as the room would hold."

The standing-room-only crowds came to learn how to protect their assets and assure that their heirs are provided for in the way they want after they pass away.

"It's a complex subject," Leduc said. "Folks, though the majority are retired, really don't understand this and no one's ever explained it to them. . . . I try and get it said so that the average person can understand what's going on."

Leduc does that by cutting through the technical jargon that legal and financial professionals often use in their work.

"You give them the technical term, but you take just a couple seconds to explain what that term means," he said. "It's simply good communication skills."

Leduc said he decided to focus his attention on probate and estate matters when he realized how desperate the need was for such information.

"It's just important to families," he said. "This is a family matter, not a money matter, and people have a difficult time understanding that. But you can do so much good for so many people, by simply explaining this to them."

"They need to do this, and no one's taking the time to explain it to them."

Leduc tells his listeners how to set up binding legal contracts to protect their assets and hold their heirs to their wishes.

"They need to make some sort of legal framework where they can leave what they've accumulated to those that they need to," he said. "For example, I've just finished talking with a couple. They have five children and one of them is very affluent, the other one married someone who is very affluent, and the other three kids are normal middle-class kids. Well, they don't want to leave what they have to the more affluent ones, they want to leave it to the ones that are struggling . . . the three who will really benefit the most from that.

"You try and do that in a will and you may end up in court and probate for years, especially if the ones with the money want to attack it. They can afford all the lawyers and they can really mess things up."

Which is why Leduc recommends living trusts, documents that lay out the parents' wishes more specifically and more forcefully than a will.

Leduc described a will as more of a suggestion than a command, in the eyes of the law. "It's not a document, it's just a statement of what you'd like to have happen, if it's OK with everybody else, the kids, the lawyers, everyone," he said.

"If you create a trust, you've really created a contract . . . you can lay out what you want to have happen and the kids aren't going to bicker with each other. They're going to do what mom and dad say they're going to do."

Prior legal planning can also help assure the parents' financial well-being when they are less able to care for themselves.

"They need to set up a legal framework where the kids can take care of them and their money," Leduc said. "You need to set up a situation where husband and wife have legal guardianship for each other. Just because you're married for 50 years to somebody doesn't mean you're their guardian. So they've got to set up a framework where their spouse and their children can take care of them, when they're disabled or incompetent, and take care of all these issues after they've passed away."

A financial planner, federal and state registered investment adviser, licensed broker with the Securities and Exchange Commission and an insurance agent for 17 years, Leduc gives such seminars across and outside the state.

He offers financial planning ser-VICES to his listeners after the seminar. He and his wife will return to Northville early next year for a two-part seminar on consecutive Fridays.

The first part, entitled "living wills versus trust" like the most recent seminar, will be held Jan. 31 and cover such topics as how to avoid probate, how to reduce taxes to your heirs, and the advantages of a living trust and living will.

The second part, titled "how to protect your assets from the high cost of nursing home care," is scheduled for Feb. 7.

The seminars are free of charge and open to all. For reservations or information, call 349-4140.

and street paving. The vast majority of the requested documents were related to street paving, according to city officials.

The council cited the "excessive" number of documents requested in making its decision to charge for them.

Word informed the committee of the council's decision in an Oct. 8 letter to Keys, in which the manager suggested several alternatives to copying all the documents.

"In order to reduce these charges, the Committee may wish to inspect the desired records in City Hall at its leisure," Word wrote. "In addition, I would welcome the opportunity to make myself and Mr. Christensen available to review the budget, accounting procedures or other matters with the Committee in an effort to provide the desired information without the necessity of incurring excessive costs."

Keys said he suspected a different reason behind the copying charges.

"I think the city's trying to hide something, and I'm not sure what it is," he said. "But I would think that they would want to cooperate and basically open up their books so people are a little bit more relaxed."

"There is a cloud of suspicion over this city council, especially with the business people, and I would think that the city would want to cooperate just to get rid of that. But they don't. They want to resist it."

Keys also protested the fact that his committee was not notified that the council would be discussing their request for documents last Monday.

"They didn't want anyone there," he said.

Word said the administration was not required to notify the committee of its discussion, and suggested that it was the committee's responsibility to keep track of the council's actions.

"I don't think that's our obligation to inform them of that," he said.

But Word insisted that the city administration was willing to work with the committee to meet its request and merely questioned the way in which the committee was seeking the information.

"By law, our records are open to the public, and they're entitled to get everything asked for," he said. "Our council thought that their request was unusual [in its volume], and perhaps there was another way for them to get what they've asked for . . . to save time, expense and all that."

Our Opinion

Board again quashes plea for fair play

After a week or so of avoiding controversy, the good old township board is back — much like the aftertaste of a cheap meal.

And the result of the board's most recent action is even less satisfying than said meal.

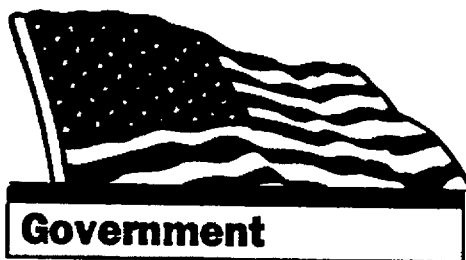

Jack Hosmer was selected to replace Betty Lennox as township treasurer at the board's Oct 10 meeting. That in itself is not highly objectionable; Hosmer holds a financial position of relative import with the Van Buren School District. He most likely is qualified to handle the treasurer's job.

But like so many decisions before it, the board's quick-pick was handled with public-be-damned bravado and dim-vised perspective.

The board did a complete hack-job on the supervisor selection. Everyone but the township's elected body seems to realize that. Public outcry was loud, swift and sure, but township officials such as Trustee James Nowka were satisfied to chalk up the furor to an allegedly slanted newspaper and a handful of regular dis-sident residents.

But as Nowka and Co. were busy attempting to kill the messengers, others in township hall — notably Supervisor Betty Lennox and Clerk Thomas L.P. Cook — decided to barge ahead with a non-public treasurer replacement process. Instead of seeking resumes and holding unbiased interview sessions (veteran board watchers will get a laugh out of that scenario), they decided to poll three vanquished 1990 treasurer candidates about their current interest in the job.

The three, including election runner-up Rick Engelland, Bill Butterfield and Hosmer, all expressed interest in the post. But the skids were greased for Hosmer, who raked in a grand total of 215 votes in the August 1990 election. Shortly after Lennox won that battle, Hosmer was hustled into the deputy treasurer's post, a non-descript township job that for years had sat vacant.

And Nowka shuttled Hosmer onto the township's 1992 budget review committee during an August meeting. He clearly was the choice of a select faction of the board — quiet, agreeable, none-too-well-versed in township politics, and experienced from a management perspective in union negotiations. He was safe, in other words, unlike Engelland, whose ties to board-baiting Citizens For a Better Northville made him the persona non grata among treasurer candidates. Let's put it this way: If Hosmer and Butterfield had decided against another go at the position, the board would have agreed to an outside resume search rather than appoint Engelland.

The board's refusal to open this process to the public — in short, to pull no punches in search of the best candidate — highlights the good ol' boy method of government employed, but so vehemently denied, by township officials.

Yes, the board spit in the face of the public on this issue, but irate rumblings from its constituency mount. And despite a desire by many to "throw the bums out" now, the sands of the political hourglass are falling at a hurried pace toward 1992, when the entire board faces re-election.

This, township residents, is a board that has rejected its constituency on a troubling number of issues. It has frittered away any last shard of public trust that may have escaped disintegration during the supervisor selection process. And it has proven its absolute lack of accountability time and again.

But the beat goes on, and it should be remembered that this board continues to control the purse strings on local financial and policy matters. It would be a shame to forget all they've done for you, the residents of Northville Township.

Mike Tyree

He's No Magnum P.I.

Meet Don Williams, private eye. He's the veteran Northville Township trustee with the oft-baffling voting record and the man who can pull a political slogan-etched emery board on you faster than a wink of an eye.

He's the author of the mystery thriller "What Was the Question?" a tale of intrigue that provides an insider's view of the quick-thinking, always-responsible township board.

He's the man who thinks political preference is the bottom line for every township employee or appointee from administrative assistant to water cooler repairman.

And I'm his quarry. Williams told me prior to last Thursday's township board meeting that he is investigating my background. Apparently, Don has targeted me as a troublemaker who has pointed out his pro-cat-shooting sentiments, his attempt to promise his township board seat to Karen Baja, and his "what was the question" comment before a crucial board vote on the township supervisor selection process.

Obviously, anyone who has the audacity to report such gaffes should be subject to FBI and/or Williams review.

The fact that I moved from the ritzy resort city of Naples, Fla., to Northville in 1989 — when combined with my reporting manner — apparently was sufficient reason for Williams and his hired guns to do some digging.

"I talked to my attorney down there (Naples) to see where you came from, and what you did," Williams said Thursday. "I wanted to know why you quit Florida to come here."

You think perhaps I'm a criminal on the run from the Florida heat, Don? That maybe you'll uncover enough goods to put me on the lam to another overpriced community? Williams said he didn't know the answer to those questions. That's why he was investigating me. Hey, copper, you'll never take me alive, see? Actually, I'd have told you the whole story, Don, if only you'd have asked.

I was living in Michigan — my beloved home state — when word came in late 1988 that my younger brother was diagnosed with an advanced case of Hodgkin's disease. He lives in Naples, and I decided to move there to be with him as he underwent months of extensive chemotherapy and radiation treatments.

Sinister so far, huh? In January 1989, I took a job with a small, community newspaper in Bonita Springs, a town just north of Naples. I worked there until Sept. 1989 when it appeared my brother was out of the woods.

All the time I had been sending resumes back to Michigan, wanting to return here after my brother was pronounced fit. I eventually received two offers — from a daily paper in Holland and the Northville Record. Since I had my eye on a future in the Detroit media, I took the job here.

I also was promised a salary a bit higher than the $270 weekly stipend I received down south.

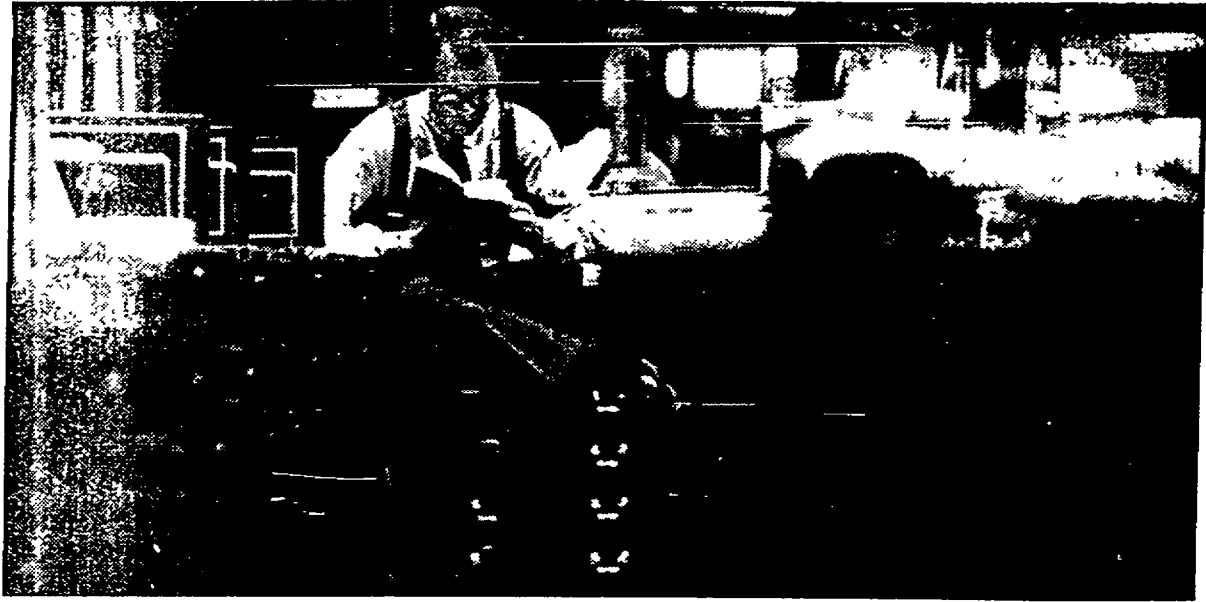

So northbound I came, Don, to Northville and a gig covering the township board of trustees. And what a pleasure it's been, following you and Jim Nowka and your unique interpretations of the Constitution and the democratic way.

Of course, Don, I expect you will continue your background check on me. After all, you may uncover evidence linking me to some tawdry, decadent tropical lifestyle of sailboats and margaritas and bikini-clad young women.

But I can assure you, pal, that if I had that, I wouldn't be here.

An employee at a store in Twelve Oaks finds time to catch up on some reading

Rick Byrne

My favorite place to shop

Can we talk? I've found what has to be my favorite place in the world to shop. It's the Big Lots store down on Seven Mile Road, east of Northville.

If you're unfamiliar with Big Lots, it's a regional chain of stores that sells merchandise at discounts so low, they're at worm's-eye level. It's like shopping at a seven-day-a-week garage sale. And if you've ever seen the frenzied buying that goes on at a garage sale, you'll know what I'm getting at.

Having grown up in New York City, the Birthplace of the Bargain, I have a certain sixth sense that enables me to find a discount the way a compass finds magnetic north. So whenever I need something around the house, I head for Big Lots.

Where else can you get three rolls of paper towels for a buck, four rolls of black electrical tape for 69 cents, a collander for 99 cents or a big can of spray paint for 88 cents?

Big Lots' secret to offering such deep discounts is that it's an odd lot store. That means it buys up and sells things manufacturers and distributors can't sell to anyone else. This means overstocks, discontinued items, or generic labels. It's the kind of place that sells Christmas wrapping in July (and I got mine, you better believe).

As such, you won't always find what you're looking for. The store only stocks what its buyers can find on the cheap.

It is, however, a great place for the young single person. If you need housewares, Big Lots usually has what you need. Like the time I went hunting for barbecue utensils. I found a set — fork, spatula and basting brush, stainless steel with wooden handles — for $1.99 which was selling for $8 to $12 everywhere else.

Kitchen supplies at Big Lots are a true find. I take my cooking seriously. In my kitchen, I spared no expense on knives, baking dishes and pots and pans. But I see no reason why I should fork over big bucks for a designer slotted spoon or soup ladle. With the money I save, I can buy better cuts of meat and the imported cheeses that I can't get enough of.

If you've never shopped at Big Lots before, be forewarned: it's kind of an oasis of funkiness in the suburban sterility you find in most stores around here. There's no hostess at the door saying "Welcome to Big Lots," there's no mood lighting, and the stock is sometimes shelved a little haphazardly.

Still, it surprises me how often I see Porsches, Vettes and other expensive cars in the parking lot outside.

The various departments change aisles from time to time. One week garden supplies may be on Aisle 4, the next week they're on Aisle 5. I take the existential view. It doesn't matter where the garden supplies are, as long as they are somewhere.

It beats me why someone would pay 50 bucks for a pair of Ray Ban Wayfarers (which will only get lost, sat on or stolen) when you can go to Big Lots, buy 50 pairs of the knockoffs at 99 cents apiece, and lose them, sit on them, and give them away to your heart's content. Like ZZ Top says, go and get yourself some cheap sunglasses.

Well, let's see if you've learned anything here. Here's a quiz. Your daughter is in charge of getting the paint for the homecoming float. Do you: (A.) hand her a twenty and send her to Meijer for four cans of Krylon; or (B.) give her a five and send her to Big Lots for four cans of whatever they have.

The correct answer is (C.) You give her the twenty and send her to Meijer. She's smarter than you, and goes to Big Lots, pocketing the remaining 15 bucks.

If you're not careful, one of those Porsches or Vettes may belong to her one day.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

This newspaper welcomes letters to the editor. We ask, however, that they be issue-oriented, confined to 400 words and that they contain the signature, address, and telephone number of the writer. that when they start striking back at the reporter, you know you've been right on the mark with your coverage.

"Williams can proceed with his investigation if he likes. I've every confidence he will find nothing of note. But frankly, I think his time would be better spent straightening out the mess he's made of Northville Township government."

Tyree was taken aback by Williams' statement, and remained mystified as to its intent.

"I was surprised, and it was a little troubling," said Tyree. "Don's a nice guy, and he's been around for a long time, but he makes some strange comments from time to time. He said he was contacting an attorney in Naples, was checking into my background."

Williams and Tyree met before Thursday's Board of Trustees meeting at Northville Township Hall. The two exchanged greetings, and during the course of conversation, Williams made his announcement.

"He said he was looking into things and that he was investigating me," said Tyree. "He said he couldn't understand why I would leave someplace as nice as Naples."

After the meeting, Tyree confronted Williams again, asking why he was being investigated.

"I asked him the name of the attorney, and he refused. I asked him why he didn't come to me and ask, and he just kind of laughed it off. He said I was being kind of suspicious."

On Friday, Williams hesitated to use the word "investigation," but did confirm that he had contacted a friend in Florida who is a retired attorney and asked him to check into the reporter's background. He contended that he was motivated by professional curiosity.

"All I wanted to know was, is he all right mentally, physically, financially? Is he having a tough time?" Williams said. "What I want to know is, where'd he come from? Who is he? Let me ask you this. Has Mike got something to hide? He never presented his credentials when he came here."

Williams also suggested that it was Tyree's reporting of the recent events in the township — and the public's response to it — that played a role in his decision to conduct the investigation.

"(Tyree) wants to know everything about everybody," said Williams. "The g-damn newspapers and reporters started this."

"I'm just getting tired of a few people showing up at meetings who don't do anything but bitch and gripe."

He again refused to divulge the identity of the attorney.

Though he was surprised to be a subject of study, Tyree asserted that Williams' investigation would find nothing unusual.

"Absolutely (nothing), no criminal history," he said. "I think that unfortunately Don wasn't thinking this out too carefully. I respect what he's done in the past on the township board, especially for senior citizens. I just don't think he respects or appreciates the legitimate scrutiny that we've placed on the township board."

"It definitely wasn't a joke. If he wanted information, he could have come to me and asked for it."

Tyree's sentiments were echoed by Managing Editor Malott.

"Mike's credentials were checked at the time he was hired," he said. "He is not only a professional journalist, he's an award-winning journalist."

"Williams is on a fishing expedition. He's trying to intimidate our reporter and get him to back off the story. It's not going to work."

Maybury's new bridge

Melissa Dillon, a Northville High School tenth grader, is pictured horseback riding at Maybury State Park. Dillon and other students built a bridge at Maybury last year as part of a business and education partnership with the park. On Oct. 3, five students and two teachers took a ride across the bridge when they were rewarded with discounted rides on the park's horses. Dillon was joined by students Jenny Ritenour, Curt Novara, Rusty Rayl, Kirk Hendricksen, and teachers Mary Culik and Bob Sharrar. Other active participants in the bridge building were students Ben Borrusch, Kelly Walro, Teri Percha and parent Curt Ritenour.

Toast Eastern Europe with a sip of Vodka

Vodka, the diminutive of voda (water), originated in Russia if you're Russian, and in Poland if you're Polish. As the argument continues, far be it from us to take sides. Not all vodka is made in Russia, Poland or Sweden. American vodka has been produced since the 1930s.

The history of vodka's rise to popularity in the United States can be traced to the Russian Revolution. When fighting reached Moscow, home of the Smirnoff distilleries since 1818, the family was devastated. Vladimir, the only family member to escape, soon found that his only remaining asset was his family's recipe for making vodka.

Smirnoff's formula was eventually brought to America and became the first vodka to be produced in the United States.

Vodka has always been made from the most inexpensive materials available to the distiller — potatoes and grains. Premium imported vodkas and American-made bottlings are made from grain, principally corn, wheat and rye.

Vodka, like whisky, is distilled from a fermented mash. It is made neutral in character, odor and taste by distilling to a very high proof, diluting with crystal clear water and filtering the colorless spirit through activated charcoal.

Having no flavor of its own, vodka is a versatile mixer and combines especially well with fresh fruit juices. The Screwdriver uses vodka with orange juice while the Bloody Mary incorporates tomato juice. Traditionally, vodka was drunk straight, ice cold, in small glasses accompanied by sharp-flavored appetizers like smoked fish and caviar.

Americans have also come to enjoy vodka straight, directly from the freezer, on the rocks or straight up in a chilled snifter. Premium vodka is for sipping, not quaffing. The best are clean, perfectly neutral spirits with an elevated viscosity that promotes a silky mouthfeel.

The following premium vodkas are listed in increasing order of our taste preference. Wyborowa (Vee-ba-rov-a, Polish): neutral aromas, thin mouthfeel, slightly alcoholic aftertaste; Stolichnaya (Rus-slan): perfume and citrus zest aromas, clean, viscous, tastes like it smells; Tangueray Sterling (English): perfectly neutral, viscous, clean, refined, elegant finish; Stolichnaya Cristal: delicate lemon, citrus aromas with complementary flavors, balanced, smooth finish, vanilla-caramel aftertaste; Absolut (Swedish): delicate bramble bush aromas, viscous, glycerine-like textures, coffee-toffee finish, very sophisticated.

Traditional hors d'oeuvres of caviar, smoked salmon, ham, anchovies and salt herring still make the best food accompaniments to an icy glass of your favorite vodka.

The U.S. fashion of drinking vodka began after World War II when a Hollywood restaurateur "got stuck" with a large unsalable stock of ginger beer. Desperate to find a way to sell it, he experimented with several alcoholic beverages. He found success when he mixed the ginger beer with vodka and lime juice, served it in a copper mug, and called it a Moscow Mule.

With the increasing popularity of vodka, several brands have created products flavored with pepper or citrus. Three of the best are listed here in increasing order of our taste preferences. Tangueray Sterling Citrus has a lemon-lime candy character with a sweet impression; Absolut Peppar is flavored with natural jalapeno pepper and paprika

WINE SELECTIONS OF THE WEEK

1990 Firestone Vineyard Chardonnay ($15) has appealing apple, pineapple, citrus and vanilla aromatics. A full fruit expression with barrel nuances make a handsome, well-balanced presentation for broiled fish, chicken or pasta with cream sauce.

1989 Robert Pecota Merlot ($20) is blended with 5 percent cabernet sauvignon and receives a six-month infusion in new oak that is evident in the complex overtones of oaky anilins. Berry aromas heighten the nose of this lengthy, complex, generous wine.

1989 Rochioli Vineyards Pinot Noir ($18) is highlighted by complex aromas of cherries, dried leaves, rose petals, truffles and mushrooms. Exuberant fruit, luscious flavors and lengthy finish make this a very complete and excellent wine.

For an unusual accompaniment to serve with tortilla chips or as a garnish for meats, try this zippy strawberry salsa

BERRY LAST CHANCE
Grab berries while they're still juicy

Sure, strawberries are available all year, but the peak season is mid-summer through fall. Now's your last chance to get the berries at their sweetest and juiciest.

When buying strawberries, look for bright red fruit and fresh green caps as strawberries do not ripen after picking. Refrigerate the berries immediately to maintain maximum flavor, but do not wash them. Washing berries before you're ready to use them will hasten the onset of mold. They should be bone dry if you're going to store them. When ready to prepare or serve, gently rinse, with caps still attached.

The best news about strawberries is you can consume a whole cup and only pack in 60 calories; yet as a bonus they provide 150 percent of the daily recommendation for vitamin C and some iron and fiber, according to the California Strawberry Advisory Board.

Try some of these easy suggestions for using strawberries:

Float the biggest, most beautiful berries in flutes of champagne.

Mound a large wicker basket to brimming with red berries and surround it with dishes of powdered sugar and then let guests help themselves to their favorite berry dips.

Serve sliced berries over vanilla ice cream, frozen yogurt or pound cake with a dollop of whipped cream, if desired.

For a no-fat dessert that looks festive, mix sliced berries with enough no-calorie sweetener to taste and then mound on a serving slice of no-fat chocolate loaf cake.

Add sliced berries to salad or pile them on hot waffles.

Cooks are pushing the limits of strawberries. No longer just a berry to slice on top of cereal or build a better shortcake, strawberries are turning up in everything.

Case in point — Marie Shaw-Payne, who has been successful in a number of Southern California regional cooking contests, has created an award-winning hors d'oeuvre recipe. She serves this salsa with unsalted tortilla chips or as a sauce on meats, including pork tenderloins, lamb or chicken or over asparagus.

STRAWBERRY SALSA

- 1/2 cup strawberries
- 2 tablespoons sugar
- 1/2 cup jicama, diced
- 6 large red radishes
- 3 tablespoons rice wine vinegar
- 2 tablespoons crystallized ginger, minced
- 1 tablespoon orange peel, orange part only, shredded

Yields 6 to 8 servings
In a small bowl, combine strawberries and sugar; let stand until juices form, about 30 minutes. Add jicama, radishes, vinegar, ginger and orange peel; mix well. Chill and serve.

Strawberries are colorful, elegant and delicious all by themselves or topped with half-and-half. But here are some desserts to try to further enhance fresh strawberries.

STRAWBERRY ANGELS' CAKE

- 1 baked and cooled 10-inch angel food cake (made from recipe which follows or from a packaged mix)
- 2 cups whipping cream
- 2 tablespoons powdered sugar
- 2 tablespoons unsweetened cocoa powder
- 2 pint basket fresh strawberries, stemmed and halved

Yields 10 to 12 servings
Slice off entire top of cake about 1 inch down; set aside. To form a tunnel, cut around cake 1 inch from inner edge, leaving a base of cake 1 inch thick on bottom. Gently pull out cake within cuts. Place hollowed cake on serving plate.

In a bowl, combine cream, sugar, and cocoa; whip until soft peaks form. Fold half the strawberries into half the whipped cream mixture; spoon into cake tunnel, pressing down firmly. Replace top of cake; press gently. Frost cake with remaining cream mixture. Cover top of cake with remaining strawberries. Chill about 15 minutes before slicing to serve.

ANGEL FOOD CAKE

- 1 cup flour
- 1 1/2 cups sugar
- 1/2 teaspoon nutmeg

- 12 large egg whites
- 1 1/2 teaspoons cream of tartar
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon vanilla

Preheat oven to 375 degrees. Sift together flour, 1/2 cup of sugar and nutmeg. In mixer bowl, beat egg whites until frothy; add cream of tartar, salt and vanilla. Beat until soft peaks form. Gradually beat in remaining sugar, 1 tablespoon at a time, until stiff, shiny peaks form. Fold in flour mixture. Spoon batter into ungreased 10-by-4-inch tube pan. Cut gently through batter to remove large air bubbles. Bake 30 minutes or until wooden pick inserted into center comes out clean.

Invert cake on rack to cool. Remove cake from pan.

STRAWBERRY COOKIE PIE

- Chocolate Crumb Crust (recipe follows)
- 2 envelopes unflavored gelatin
- 1/2 cup cold water
- 2 pint baskets fresh strawberries, stemmed
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 2 egg whites
- 1 cup whipping cream

Prepare Chocolate Crumb Crust; set aside. In small saucepan, soften gelatin in water about 3 minutes. Reserve 12 whole strawberries for garnish. With blender or food processor puree remaining strawberries until slightly chunky. Transfer to large bowl; stir in lemon juice.

Add sugar to gelatin mixture; cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until gelatin dissolves and mixture is clear; do not boil. Cool 5 minutes; mix into pureed strawberries. Chill, stirring occasionally until mixture mounds slightly when dropped from a spoon.

In a bowl, beat egg whites until stiff but not dry. Fold strawberry mixture into egg whites. Beat whipping cream until soft peaks form. With rubber spatula, fold cream gently into strawberry mixture until white streaks disappear. Mound into prepared pie shell. Garnish with reserved strawberries. Chill until set, about 2 hours.

Chef Mary Brady

The new restaurant is finally up and running

Yes, we are finally open. This is the start of the fourth week for Diamond Jim Brady's Bar and Grill. It is hard to believe.

Time has flown. At times it seemed as if we would never finish. The last touches seemed to be the most time-consuming. Twelve hours before opening, TVs were installed, and the sound system updated. Thanks to the blessing of our landlord and the City of Novi, a satellite dish is in place.

Final decisions were made on the menu, and the laser printer put to work. The POS or "points of sale," known as cash registers in the old days, were powered up.

Months and months of planning and decision-making had culminated into the "Opening Day." Construction workers are gone. Plumbers and painters are done.

Since we acted as general contractors, the tradesmen and women became like family. Some of them were. My brother Bud coordinated the plumbing, tiling and electrical work. He encouraged and helped us all the way. Dan "the man" (my brother in law) spent months painting over varnished wood. The results were incredible. Nancy and Dick, a husband and wife team, handled the construction from start to finish.

Many long days ended with the crew discussing the work they had completed. It was fun, but at the same time, extremely difficult. Had we made the right choices.

Now, a month later, we are fairly comfortable with our "home away from home." That can be taken as a literal description. We are working a minimum of 14 hours a day, six days a week. I'm not complaining. There is nothing I would rather do as a profession.

Our employees are great and have been working extremely hard. Laura and Pat, my sous-chefs, are doing a tremendous job with the management of the kitchen and menu. Even though the famous Brady chili and burgers are still available, we have graduated to a bit more sophisticated menu.

Fish is flown in from Boston. I kiddingly say that it is so fresh, it is still moving. It almost is. Pasta dishes have been added, an extensive appetizer selection is available, and prices are fair. Tom and I have made this the type of restaurant we would want to visit on a regular basis.

In the past several weeks, we have met many great people. One of life's eminent pleasures is a positive response from our guests. The wonderful comments we receive daily make it all worthwhile.

I don't want to seem presumptuous and sound as if nothing ever goes wrong. We're not perfect, but it is our job and goal to become so. It cannot happen overnight. We still learn every day, and remain open-minded.

I am honored at the number of people who have missed my column. Everyday, I am asked when I will resume writing again. Well, I'm back, and believe me, it feels good.

Mary Brady is a Northville resident and certified executive chef, and part owner of the new Diamond Jim Brady's Bar & Grill in the Novi Town Center.

COOKING CLASSES: The following cooking classes will be offered by Williams-Sonoma: soups, 11 a.m. Saturday, Oct. 19 with Larry James; 4:30 p.m., Wednesday, Oct. 23 Children's Cooking School; 11 a.m. Saturday, Oct. 26, pasta and ravioli class at Williams-Sonoma, 37642 West Six Mile, Livonia. Call 953-0515 for information.

HEALTHY SNACKS: The Food and Nutrition Hotline sponsored by the Oakland County Cooperative Extension Service can answer many food and nutrition questions. To contact it, call 858-0904 from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday to Friday. Sylvia Treitman, home economist for the Extension Service, offers several suggestions for healthy snacks.

- Keep low-fat crackers, boxed juices, microwave natural popcorn, fresh and dried fruits and nuts and seeds on hand at work for healthy snacking.
- Use microwaves and slow cookers to make easy one-dish meals instead of buying fast food from restaurants.
- Keep plastic bags of cut vegetables in your refrigerator for easy snacks.
- Stay away from vending machines unless they offer fresh fruit or yogurt.

LOW-FAT BEEF: GFI America, a Minneapolis-based meat processor, has introduced SmartMeat, beef which it says has less saturated fat, total fat, cholesterol and calories than grain-fed beef. The company says it uses solid muscle meat from selected lean cattle, then makes it tender and flavorful through a process called Vacu-Marble. SmartMeat will be available at selected supermarkets and restaurant chains. For more information, call (612) 872-6262.

NUTRITION INFORMATION: The Food Marketing Institute, the American Academy of Pediatrics and the American Dietetic Association recently launched a nationwide nutrition campaign aimed at encouraging families with children ages two to six to make better food choices. Four free booklets offer information concerning reducing fat and cholesterol, avoiding arguments about food and healthy food choices. To obtain free copies of the brochures, you must include the brochure code in the address where indicated. The codes are Good Nutrition, Healthy Foods, Food Hassles and Cholesterol. Send a self-addressed, stamped, business-size envelope to the American Academy of Pediatrics, Department C—(Brochure Code), P.O. Box 927, Elk Grove Village, IL 60009.

BEEF BROCHURE: Get a head start on easy, carefree outdoor cooking with the help of a new recipe folder from the beef industry, "Marinate and Grill Beef Recipes."

To receive a single free copy, send a stamped, self-addressed, business-sized envelope to the Michigan Beef Industry Commission, 2145 University Park Drive, Suite 300, Okemos, Mich. 48864. Allow four to six weeks for processing.

The newly released brochure contains a grilling guide for beef chuck steaks and three complementary marinades.

The robust flavor of economical beef chuck cuts such as top blade, chuck eye, shoulder, blade or seven-bone and bottom blade steaks, as well as shoulder steak strips for kabobs, are enhanced through the use of flavorful marinades.

Mix and match the steaks and marinades for a variety of beef meals.

Flavorful and quick-to-prepare recipes offered in the brochure include Hot 'n Spicy Beef Steaks, Caribbean-Style Steak, and Beef and Plum Kabobs.

SUPERMARKET TIPS: An informative sheet, "Charting Your Way Through the Supermarket," offers tips for making educated decisions at the supermarket. It is available free from the Oakland County Cooperative Extension Service, 1200 N. Telegraph, Pontiac, MI 48341. Questions about food, nutrition or food safety can be directed to the Food Hotline, 858-0904.

KITCHEN HELP: Ever wonder about a certain food you've just bought, or how long to store that frozen turkey or what to do if your freezer fails? Help is available from the Oakland County Cooperative Extension Service. The Food and Nutrition hotline, 858-0904, is open 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday to Friday. If your organization, school or other group is in need of a speaker to discuss food safety or nutrition, home economist Sylvia Treitman is available to speak to your group. Call the hot line for details.

CHOCOLATE CRUMB CRUST

Place 7 ounces chocolate cookie wafers in blender or food processor container; process to make crumbs (you should have 1 1/2 cups). In a bowl, mix crumbs and 1/2 cup melted butter. Press firmly onto bottom of 9-inch pie pan. Bake in 350°F oven 10 minutes. Cool.

STRAWBERRY CROWN TART

Pastry for single crust 9-inch pan
2 eggs
1/2 cup sugar
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 teaspoon grated lemon peel
1 teaspoon vanilla
1/2 cup flour
3 tablespoons butter or margarine, melted and cooled
1/2 cup melted currant jelly
2 baskets fresh strawberries, stemmed

Yields 6 to 8 servings
Line 9-inch tart pan with removable bottom with pastry. Prick all over with fork; bake in 425 degree oven 10 to 12 minutes, just until pastry begins to brown. Remove to rack to cool. In mixer bowl, beat eggs, sugar, lemon juice, peel and vanilla until thick and pale, about 10 minutes. Gently fold in 1/2 of the flour, then 1/2 of the butter. Continue folding in, alternating flour and butter until all has been incorporated. (Do not overmix.)

Brush bottom of tart shell with some of jelly. Slice about 1/2 basket of strawberries and arrange over jelly. Pour batter over strawberries (it will not quite cover.) Bake in 375 degree oven 20 to 25 minutes until golden and filling is set. Cool on rack. Arrange remaining whole strawberries, stem ends down, on top of tart. Brush with remaining melted jelly.

Try out these much-maligned veggies

Some vegetables you either love or hate. Everybody loves beans, corn and carrots but what about parsnips, turnips, kohlrabies, rutabagas and eggplants?

These poor vegetables have been referred to as "only fit for the peasants."

No matter how they have been maligned, they are packed with good-for-you nutrition.

They add color, flavor and variety to meals besides vitamins, minerals and few calories, and are fat free unless you add butter or a heavy sauce.

Parsnips are a vegetable that has no middle ground. Either you like them or you don't.

Parsnips are a carrot-shaped, white-fleshed root vegetable. To bring out the best flavor, store them for several weeks in the refrigerator before eating. When stored at cold temperatures they become sweeter.

Parsnips can be substituted for carrots although they do look like a dingy carrot. Choose parsnips that are small or medium width, well formed, smooth, firm and free from blemishes.

They are excellent in side dishes but probably most popular in soups or stews. Try not to overcook them, as they become mushy.

Parsnips contain a lot of potassium, some protein, iron and calcium and are only about 100 calories per cup.

Turnips bring up visions of "greens" but not necessarily the rest of the root vegetable.

The greens are rich in vitamins A and C and calcium, contain iron and protein and are only 29 calories a cup of cooked greens.

Turnip greens need to be refrigerated and used within one to two days after purchase. The root can be eaten raw as well as cooked.

When eaten raw, they are crunchy and have a bittersweet flavor a little like a radish. Raw turnip slices or strips provide a nice addition to relish trays, or turnips may be shredded for an unusual slaw.

Choose small, firm, smooth turnip roots free of cracks and scars with fresh green leaves. Avoid large turnips that look fibrous. Store turnips in a plastic bag in the refrigerator crisper.

Cooked turnips make an elegant side dish to serve instead of potatoes, or they enhance the flavor of soup or stews by adding cubes or slices.

A cup of cooked turnips contain about 36 calories and is high in potassium.

Kohlrabi is sometimes known as a "cabbage turnip" because it resembles a turnip but tastes like cabbage.

Kohlrabi is a plump, light green or lavender, many-stemmed vegetable that resembles a bulb but grows above ground. When cooked it has a sweet taste and can be substituted for turnips.

To eat raw, peel and shred bulb into a slaw. The cooked vegetable can be served sauteed, mashed or in a stew.

Choose small bulbs, as the larger ones tend to be woody. They can be stored in the refrigerator for several days or longer in a cool cellar.

Kohlrabi is rich in potassium and vitamin C and contains some protein. There are about 40 calories per cup of cooked vegetables.

Rutabaga is a cousin to the turnip and sometimes called a "yellow turnip." A turnip has white flesh and a purple top, where rutabaga is yellow fleshed.

Choose rutabaga that is smooth, uncracked heavy root with no skin punctures or cuts. Since rutabaga is generally waxed to keep a longer time, peel it before cooking.

Rutabagas are good sources of potassium, vitamin A, niacin and iron and only have 60 calories per cup cooked.

They are delicious in soup and stews as well as steamed for a side dish. Turnips and rutabaga are interchangeable in recipes but tend to have stronger flavor than a turnip.

Eggplant is the unappreciated relative of the potato. Instead of cooking the eggplant, many people simply use it as a centerpiece because of its shape and beautiful color.

Choose a firm, heavy eggplant, free of scars or cuts. Small, slender eggplants have smaller seeds and are sweeter and more tender, but it is more practical to choose a large one for slicing.

Eggplant can be stored at room temperature but lasts longer and stores better in a plastic bag in the refrigerator.

Eggplant soaks up oil like a sponge, so allow the cut eggplant to stand in salt water for 30 minutes before cooking. Doing this seems to help cut down on the amount of oil needed.

Eggplant should be prepared in glass, enamel or stainless steel cookware, as other cookware can darken the flesh.

About one-half cup cooked eggplant has about 13 calories, is sodium-free and has dietary fiber besides potassium, iron and protein.

Eggplant can be used to top pasta or pizza, added to soups or used as a meat substitute. Eggplant adapts well to many preparation methods.

Most vegetables are available year round, but whenever you choose, demand freshness, handle with care and avoid buying anything with even a small decay area.

If you are being a snob about trying these plain and simple peasant vegetables, you may be missing a taste treat.

Defrosting is no hassle with your microwave

Most of us regularly rely upon frozen foods and can't imagine life without them, but it wasn't until 1930 that the first line of frozen foods went on the market in Springfield, Mass. The newfound convenience must have been welcome.

Today, with a microwave at your service, frozen foods are more convenient than ever. No need to remember to remove foods hours in advance; you can defrost whenever it's convenient.

Foods wrapped in paper or plastic may be placed in the oven without unwrapping. Cover other foods with waxed paper to hold in warmth and speed defrosting.

Defrosting times can vary depending upon your oven's wattage and on a number of other factors; size, shape, and density and weight of food. Defrosting time will also depend on how solidly food is frozen. If not completely defrosted at end of suggested time, let stand for a few minutes at room temperature to complete thawing.

Separate frozen hamburger patties, chicken pieces, chops, etc., as soon as possible for quicker, more even defrosting. Remove packaging (plastic foam tray and paper liner) from meats before defrosting. The tray will insulate meat like a plastic foam ice chest and keep it cold. Always completely defrost meats before using in a recipe.

Defrost ground beef at 30 percent power five to eight minutes per pound. Check meat frequently and use fork to scrape off and remove thawed portions, especially when defrosting a package of more than one pound. This allows inner portion to thaw more quickly. Let stand five to 10 minutes to defrost completely before using in a recipe.

Defrost steaks or flat roasts at 30 percent power four to six minutes per pound, turning over halfway through defrost time, and letting stand until meat can easily be pierced in the center with a fork (five to 10 minutes).

Defrost chicken and fish at 30 percent power six to eight minutes per pound; turn over halfway through defrost time and let stand 10 minutes before cooking.

Most frozen foods require standing time after the defrost period to allow them to complete thawing without starting to cook (some ovens allow you to program standing time).

For large items — a roast or whole frozen chicken — alternate microwaving/standing time. Alternate five minutes of defrost with five minutes of standing time until food is thawed. This method allows heat to reach center of food without cooking inner portions. Allow 10 to 15 minutes of standing time at end to complete defrosting.

Defrost roasts nine to 11 1/2 minutes per pound; whole chickens six to 10 minutes per pound.

Do not completely defrost frozen fruits, since they will taste freshest when served still slightly frozen. To thaw a 10-ounce bag of frozen fruit, turn into a microwave-safe bowl and microwave at high (100 percent power) setting one to three minutes, or until slightly icy. Use immediately or let stand 10 to 15 minutes to complete thawing.

(Recipes in this column are tested in 625- to 700-watt microwave ovens.)

RED SNAPPER FLORENTINE

- 2 (10 ounce) packages frozen chopped spinach
- 2 tablespoons minced onion
- 1 1/2 teaspoons lemon juice
- 1/2 teaspoon Dijon-style mustard
- 1/2 teaspoon each salt and pepper
- 1 pound red snapper fillets
- 1/2 tablespoon butter

- 1 teaspoon dried parsley flakes
- 1/2 teaspoon paprika

Yields 4 servings.
Preparation time: 10 to 15 minutes.
Cooking time: 11 to 17 minutes.
Oven setting: high (100 percent power); Medium (50 percent power).

Place unopened spinach packages in microwave; cook at high setting 5 to 7 minutes, or until packages bend easily, rotating and turning over after 3 minutes. Turn spinach in to colander and drain well.

Place spinach in 8-inch round microwave-safe baking dish. Stir in onion, lemon juice, mustard, salt and pepper, then spread spinach mixture over bottom of dish.

Arrange snapper fillets over spinach. Dot with butter and sprinkle with parsley and paprika. Cover with plastic wrap, leaving 1 corner open to vent. Microwave at medium setting 3 to 4 minutes. Stir and rearrange spinach around edges of dish. Replace cover and microwave at medium setting 3 to 6 minutes longer, or until fish flakes easily. Serve with fluffy rice.

EASY CHICKEN GUMBO

- 1 pound chopped skinless, boneless chicken breasts
- 1 stalk celery, chopped
- 1 small onion, minced
- 1/2 cup chopped green pepper
- 1 clove garlic, minced
- 1/2 tablespoon butter or margarine
- 1 (10 1/2 ounce) can condensed chicken gumbo soup
- 1/2 cup milk
- 1/4 teaspoon pepper
- 2 cups hot cooked rice

Yields 4 servings.
Preparation time: 10 to 15 minutes.
Cooking time: 8 to 12 minutes.
Oven setting: high (100 percent power).

Combine chicken, celery, onion, green pepper, garlic and butter in 2-quart microwave-safe casserole. Microwave 4 to 7 minutes, stirring halfway through cooking time, until chicken is no longer pink.

Stir in all remaining ingredients except rice. Cover and microwave 4 to 5 minutes longer, stirring twice, until heated through. Serve over rice.

Book highlights Irish cookery

By CAROL CUTLER
Copley News Service

Beyond Irish stew, soda bread and coffee, not much about the cooking of Ireland is known this side of the Atlantic. The really sophisticated traveler could tell you about colcannon, that rustic mixture of potatoes, cabbage, milk and butter. And that's about it.

Word is being spread, however, and mighty tasty information it is. For years, Europeans have known of Myrtle Allen's exemplary cooking at Ballymaloe House, a large Georgian manor with 400 acres of surrounding fields and farmland.

At the beginning, Ballymaloe was a family residence and farm. As word of Myrtle's cooking skills spread, it was inevitable that there would be a restaurant. It opened in 1964. Later, rooms were added to give guests a complete and relaxed experience in this beautiful part of County Cork. Now there is a cooking school, too. In all facets of the enterprise, Myrtle and her daughter-in-law Darina, who runs the school, hold the same culinary philosophy: a style of cooking that subtly enhances the natural flavors of the best ingredients available from the countryside and sea around them. Though this has been Ballymaloe cooking for decades, it sounds suspiciously like the nouvelle cuisine that came onto the scene later.

Myrtle's cooking was so exceptional and her character so daring, that she opened a restaurant in that chauvinistic capital, Paris. She called it La Ferme Irlandaise (The Irish Farm). There she introduced chic Parisians to Irish smoked salmon and bacon, sausages, tomatoes and black-and-white pudding. They stood in line for brunch, an unheard-of phenomenon.

Alas, the commute, the trials of provisioning from farms in Ireland, proved too much and Myrtle sadly closed The Irish Farm a few years ago.

To introduce Americans to Irish cooking at its best, Stewart, Tabori and Chang has published a scrumptuous book, "Myrtle Allen's Cooking at Ballymaloe House" ($24.95). The photographs by Mick Hales transport you to the Emerald Isle and present Ballymaloe food as it is enjoyed on the spot.

The genesis for this new book was a modest tome first published in England in 1977. It contained much more technical information and was peppered with amusing drawings rather than enticing photographs.

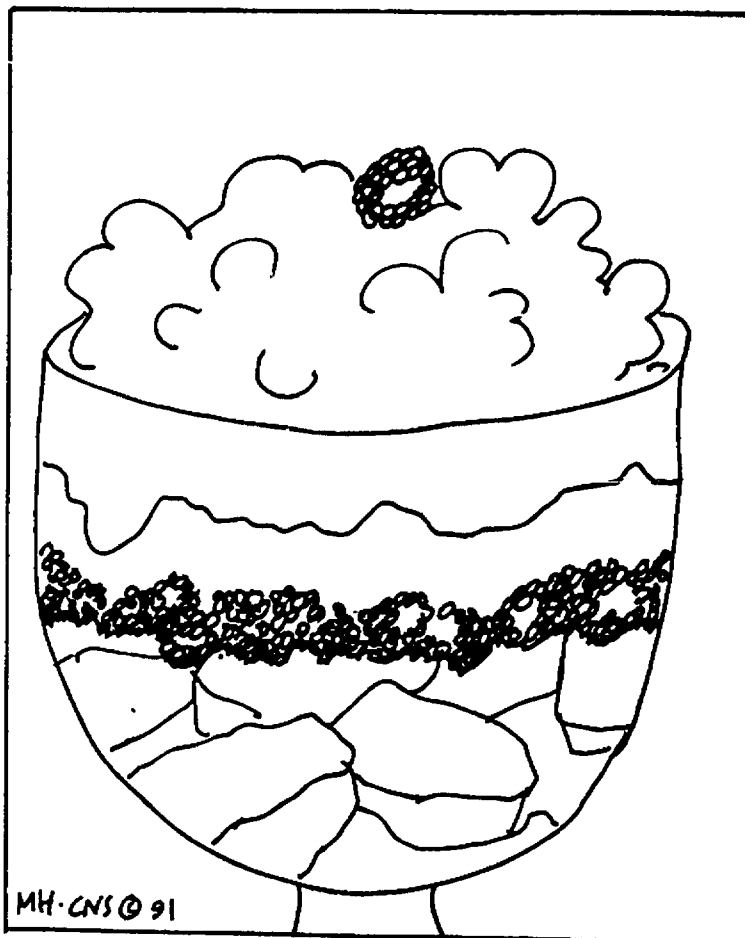

While the new book has but three recipes in the "Drinks" chapter, Allen published eight in her first book, including "A Cure for Sore Throat" and "Carrageen Throat Syrup," neither of which made the transition and will no doubt not be missed.

Ballymaloe's Carrageen Moss Pudding does make it, however, and comes complete with the necessary explanation of what carrageen is (Irish moss), and how it is harvested, dried and used.

Intriguing as it sounds, this is one recipe that few of us will be able to replicate since no source, nor substitute, for carrageen is given. It hardly matters, though, since this is a book about authentic Irish cooking, and when you come across it in your travels in Ireland, you can order it very knowingly.

One recipe that everyone loves is Trifle. Despite its name, it's not an inconsequential dessert. This is a particularly fine example and gives a hint of what awaits you at Ballymaloe, either the manor house or the book.

TRIPLE

- 1 recipe Mrs. Lamb's Sponge Cake (in book), 1 day-old, or 1-pound bought sponge cake layers
- 1 to 1 1/2 cups raspberry jam or preserves
- 1/2 cup sherry
- 1 recipe pastry cream*
- 1 1/2 cups heavy cream, whipped
- 8 blanched and skinned almonds
- 8 glace cherries
- 8 sticks of angelica

Yields 8 to 10 servings.
Slice cake layers horizontally with serrated knife and cut into large pieces. If raspberry jam is thick, thin it to spreadable consistency with 1 or 2 tablespoons sherry.

Spread jam over all cut surfaces of cake and arrange cake pieces, jam sides up, in layers in 2- to 2 1/2 -quart attractive glass serving bowl. The cake should come within 3 inches of top of bowl.

Drizzle remaining sherry over cake, then spread with pastry cream followed by whipped cream. Halve or quarter almonds and cherries, cut angelica into thin 1-inch-long sticks, and use these to decorate top of trifle.

Chill trifle, covered, for about 8 hours. To serve, spoon down through all layers.

Note: Pastry cream recipes (also known as custard sauce and creme Anglaise) can be found in all standard or dessert cookbooks.

Carol Cutler is the award-winning author of eight cookbooks, including "Catch of the Day."

Pumpkin pie makes low fat alternative

The Thanksgiving feast can be a healthful meal of turkey, dressing, green vegetables, and sweet potatoes. But the traditional dessert, pumpkin pie, can sometimes add an overload of fat and calories.

The following recipe for pumpkin pie is wonderfully rich, yet it's low-calorie, low-fat and low-sodium. Instead of the usual evaporated milk or cream, we have used creamy yogurt cheese to give a rich taste and feel to the pie. Each delicious slice has only 113 calories. Family and guests will leave the table satisfied and without guilt!

Yogurt Cheese: only 10 calories per tablespoon. Why didn't someone think of it sooner?

If you haven't been introduced to yogurt cheese, it's the creamy, white cheese that comes from separating the whey from the yogurt. And though the process has been around for centuries, it has only recently been gaining in popularity.

All you have to do is place yogurt in a draining device, and leave it alone until the cheese is the desired consistency — 4-6 hours for most purposes. (To produce one cup of cheese, use a 16-ounce carton of plain yogurt.)

Empty the yogurt (without gelatin) into a colander lined with several layers of cheesecloth and set over a pan to catch the whey. There are also several drain devices being manufactured to drain yogurt, one of which sells under the name Really Creamy Yogurt Cheese Funnel. It rinses clean and store flat.

The yogurt Cheese Funnel and two cookbooks featuring yogurt cheese ("Not Just Cheesecake!" and "Snack to Your Heart's Content!") are available at bookstores, cookware and health food stores, or from Triad Publishing Co., 1110 NW 8th Avenue, Suite C-4, Gainesville, FL 32061. Call 1-800-525-6902 for more information.

PUMPKIN PIE

- 2 cups yogurt cheese (made from 32-ounce carton vanilla lowfat yogurt)
- 5 tablespoons sugar (or more taste)
- 2 tablespoons cornstarch
- 1 cup canned unsweetened pumpkin
- 1 teaspoon cinnamon
- 1/2 teaspoon ground ginger
- 1/2 teaspoon ground cloves
- 1 whole plus 2 egg whites (or 4 egg whites)

For best flavor and texture, make the pie a day (or more) before Thanksgiving. Allow enough time to first prepare the yogurt cheese; keep uncovered container in refrigerator and pour off any whey that accumulates.

To make the pie: preheat oven to 325 degrees, and lightly grease a deep 8-inch pie pan. Blend yogurt cheese and pumpkin with dry ingredients. Stir in eggs, and pour into prepared pan. Bake until center is firm, about 35-40 minutes. Cool slightly, then refrigerate over night. Do not cover.

As an optional treat, serve with a dollop of "whipped cream," vanilla yogurt cheese seasoned to taste with cinnamon. Adds 15 calories per tablespoon.

"What Spare Time?"

That's what I said when I was asked to spend some spare time with Girl Scouts. Then I remembered... I didn't have much self-confidence as a young girl. It wasn't until I joined Girl Scouts that I really began to feel good about myself. The support of my Girl Scout leader was really important. Girls today need support, too. They need the Girl Scouts and they need you! Call your local Girl Scout council and volunteer.
