

Road work downtown nears finish

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

The city streets that were torn up recently had all been repaved as of Tuesday, but another coat of asphalt is still needed.

The final coat will put the finishing touches on a $533,000 water and sewer main replacement program that has snarled traffic but will result in freshly paved streets and increased capacity for the city's water system.

The road project involved installing larger water mains under Main Street from Griswold to Hutton, Hutton north of Main, and Dunlap between Hutton and Center, installing a new storm sewer line on Wing Street, and repairing a sanitary sewer line under Fairbrook Street that had collapsed in two places.

The Dunlap / Hutton intersection is also being rebuilt to make it safer for pedestrians.

The construction work is being done by Thomson-McCully of Belleville and overseen by the city's engineering firm, McNeely & Lincoln.

The streets could receive their last coat in a matter of days, providing that the weather cooperates.

"Hopefully, by the first part of next week they'll get a cap on everything," said Ted Mapes, director of the city's Department of Public Works.

Main Street was the most apparent, and most obstructive, construction site to area residents and visitors. McNeely & Lincoln engineer Maureen Turner explained that the curb line on the north side of the street was removed and the street regraded to reduce the steep inclines into the parking lots of north side businesses like the Dandy Gander restaurant. Once the regrading was complete, a "base course" of asphalt was laid Tuesday similar to the ones already placed on Fairbrook and Wing Street south of Cady.

Turner predicted that the weather would remain warm and dry enough to allow the repaving to be completed soon.

"I might be an optimist, but I think we're going to have a warm spell before winter sets in for good," she said.

But if the roads do not receive their final cap before the weather takes a more permanent turn for the worse, Turner said they still can be driveable. "It's not that that can't be used like that; it's just not optimal," she said.

Trash pickup will cost less

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

Northville City residents should soon be paying less to dispose of their trash, under a newly adopted refuse / recycling ordinance.

City officials estimate that the average resident will end up paying several dollars less each month for curbside disposal than under the city's current, temporary fee system.

The city council on Monday approved the new ordinance to comply with the Wayne County Solid Waste Plan adopted earlier this year. The county plan requires municipalities to greatly reduce their waste streams, requiring either incinerator use or mandatory curbside recycling.

The city's new ordinance, which takes effect Jan. 1, sets up a mandatory curbside recycling system in Northville, and sets the fees that will

Party preference causes headaches

By MIKE TYREE
Staff Writer

If registered voters think a law forcing them to list political party affiliations is an invasion of privacy, the State of Michigan has a message for you: Tough luck.

Michigan voters must announce their party affiliation by Feb. 18, 1992, if they intend to vote in the March 17 presidential primary. The move stems from a 1988 legislative act aimed at curtailing crossover voting in presidential primaries.

But as the initial deadline for filing party preference forms nears, opposition and outrage has increased.

Perhaps no one feels the brunt of public resentment to this new law as much as local government officials — the bearers of bad tidings.

Township officials have spent the past week mailing political preference forms to registered voters in order to abide with state guidelines for the presidential primary. Voters must fill out the forms, stating their political preference and submitting other information such as driver's license number and signature, and return the cards to the township clerk's office prior to Feb. 18.

Failure to do so effectively disenfranchises voters who may have been casting ballots for years. Voters who refuse to list a party preference, who do not claim to be Republican or Democratic, cannot vote in the March 17 primary.

Nowka elaborates on letter, views

By MIKE TYREE
Staff Writer

Township Trustee James Nowka hasn't been too pleased with news coverage afforded Northville Township issues of late. On several occasions Nowka has taken pen in hand to air his beliefs.

A sampling of Nowka's comments appears in today's "Letters to the Editor" section of the Record. But some of Nowka's views seem to be fodder for discussion. On Tuesday, he was ready and willing to do just that.

Nowka spoke with a reporter at length about issues ranging from the appointment of Betty Lennox as township supervisor; the difference between a tax and a fee; the state of the township budget; and the public's perception of township government operations. Some of those views follow.

The local press and public overreacted to a 1-percent administrative fee on tax bills proposed last month by the township budget review committee, Nowka said.

"It's not really a new tax at all," he said. "It was a fee and didn't really relate to new taxes at all."

Nowka said the township historically collected the administrative fee but recently removed it during less-stringent budgetary times. With the township facing a serious cash-flow problem, the committee recommended the fee be reapplied to tax bills.

Nowka objected to the public's perception of the fee as being a tax, but later softened his stance.

"Whether the fee is a tax or a fee depends on a person's point of view," he said. "It's a matter of how you perceive it. The government calls it a fee."

He also said the administrative fee was charged to help the township with collection expenses and with assessment costs, as the township is "burdened by being the tax collector."

Nowka originally did not comment on the fact that Northville Township charges each public school system in its taxing area a fee — currently $5 per parcel — to collect school taxes.

And the administrative fee initially was implemented in part to help the township treasurer hire part-time workers to collect taxes. Today, the township employs an administrative assistant full-time to help with tax bills.

"No, I didn't mention that," Nowka said of his letter.

Jug stays!

The Northville Mustangs continued their perfect streak for the "Baseline Jug" in the annual season-ending football game against Novi on Friday night. Above, star quarterback Ryan Huzjak leaves the field after his last game in a Northville uniform. Novi led early in the game, but Northville came back to win the game 24-14. The Mustangs have won the game for all four years of the jug's existence. For a full report on the game and all the high school sports, see page 9-B.

Incumbents take all in election

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

Mayor Chris Johnson won 519 votes in Tuesday's election, and Paul Follino's 471 votes just edged out fellow Council Member Carolann Ayers' 470.

In other words, they all held on to their seats.

With no declared opposition, Johnson won his third two-year mayoral term while Ayers won her fourth four-year council term and Follino secured his sixth.

The newly re-elected candidates begin their new terms Nov. 11.

Given the lack of declared candidates against the incumbents, it was no surprise that only 627 residents — 14 percent of the city's 4,341 registered voters — made the trek to the polls. But a few surprises were found among the nine write-in candidates.

John O'Brien garnered the greatest support of the non-incumbents with four ballots for a council seat and one for mayor's position, while two voters thought Planning Commissioner David Totten would make a fine mayor.

Other write-ins for mayor included former mayor A. Malcolm Allen and mystery candidates Garrick Davis and Terrance E. Ryan.

Terrance also got a vote of confidence for a council seat, as did Sara Ryan (no known relation).

Enc Hammer, Beautification Committee Member Hohn Haas and Consultant Charles Keys.

The ballot did contain one contested race for about half the city voters. Oakland County residents cast their votes for a plan to sell $500 million in county-backed bonds to finance the county's overall trash-management program, which includes an incinerator. Overall, county voters approved the plan about 52 to 48 percent.

In Northville, however, voters narrowly rejected the plan by a 209-193 margin. Absentee voters actually favored the incinerator plan 81-47, while those who went to the polls voted against the plan 162-112.

Police News

Northville man takes his life on Devil's Night

A 33-year-old Northville man apparently took his life on Devil's Night. City police reported to a Hutton Street residence in response to a 911 call on the night of Oct. 30 and found the man's sister outside the home. She had broken into the house and discovered the man, who lived alone, after family members had failed to contact him earlier that day.

Police found the man lying on a sofa bed in the front room with a 12-gauge shotgun lying by his side. He appeared to have died sometime between 9:40 a.m.-4:30 p.m., of a massive head injury resulting from a shotgun blast.

Police found a pint of whiskey and a bottle of Seven-Up by the sofa, and an apparent suicide note on a nearby table. There was no sign of a struggle.

CHILD NEGLECT CASE INVESTIGATED: Township police reported a possible child neglect case to the Oakland County branch of Children's Protective Services Oct. 28 after finding an infant locked in a car that was parked in the lot at Meijer, 20401 Haggerty.

Police said a witness noticed the female infant — who was less than a year old — strapped into a baby seat inside a 1989 Mercury Sable. Police responded to the complaint, identified the parents through a computer check, and had the parents paged inside the store. The child's mother, a 27-year-old Novi woman, walked to the vehicle a short time later.

Police said the woman claimed she did not know it was illegal to leave a child unattended in a vehicle. The woman said she often leaves the child in the car while she shops. She also said she is a resident alien and is applying for citizenship.

The baby reportedly sat unattended for at least 30 minutes, but survived the ordeal unscathed.

BIKES STOLEN: A pair of 21-speed mountain bikes was reportedly stolen from a garage on Whiteside Court sometime between Oct. 24-26, township police said. Police said they found no evidence of forced entry to the garage. The bicycles were valued at $950.

BREAKING AND ENTERING ATTEMPT: A Meadowbrook resident told township police someone broke a window at the home and left a door ajar sometime late Oct. 27 or early Oct. 28. Nothing was reported missing, but damage to the window was estimated at $100.

VEHICLES DAMAGED IN TOWNSHIP: A fleet of vehicles reportedly was damaged throughout Northville Township last week, according to police reports. Incidents include the following: A Bryn Mawr Court resident told police someone smashed the passenger's side door window of his 1986 Buick Skyhawk late Oct. 29 or early Oct. 30. Damage was estimated at $300.

A 1988 Chrysler New Yorker parked on Smock was damaged when someone attempted to pry the lock on its passenger side door sometime between Oct. 14-28. Damage was estimated at $300.

A Northville woman told police someone broke the driver's side door window of her 1989 Ford Mustang late Oct. 30 or early Oct. 31. Damage was estimated at $200.

Someone reportedly broke the driver's side window of a 1985 GMC Jimmy Nov. 2 while it was parked on Scenic Lane east of Savoy Court. Damage was estimated at $200.

The rear window of a 1984 Ford Bronco was broken while the vehicle was parked on Crystal Lake Road Nov. 2. Damage was estimated at $300.

A Maple Hill resident told police that someone smashed the driver's side door window of his 1989 Pontiac Bonneville late Nov. 1 or early Nov. 2. Damage was estimated at $175.

An Ann Arbor man told police that someone shattered the left rear passenger window of his 1990 Ford Probe Nov. 2 while it was parked on Pommeadow near Winchester. Damage was estimated at $250.

Police on patrol on Weatherfield Nov. 2 discovered a 1984 Buick Regal with its left rear tire flattened and its rear window shattered. Damage was estimated at $300.

The owner of a 1987 Pontiac Sunbird told police that someone smashed the vehicle's driver's door window while it was parked on Crystal Lake Oct. 29.

CARS VANDALIZED IN CITY: At least a half dozen vehicles were reported vandalized in the city in the past week. A car parked in front of a Morgan Circle home had its driver's side window broken sometime between 8:15-10:30 p.m. Oct. 30, causing an estimated $100 in damage.

On Nov. 1, a vehicle parked in the city lot north of the MAGS building was scratched with a sharp instrument sometime between 9:40-11 p.m., damaging the paint on the right front fender and passenger door.

That same night, sometime between 8:30 p.m. and midnight, the driver's side window of a car parked at Northville High School was broken.

Three vehicles were vandalized between Nov. 2-3. The rear window of a vehicle parked on West Main was cracked by a BB or pellet gun sometime between 6 p.m.-9 a.m., causing an estimated $200 in damage. The driver's side rear window of a car parked in a North Rogers driveway was broken sometime between 10:30 p.m.-11 a.m., and the rear window of a car parked in a Linden Street driveway was shattered sometime between 11 p.m.-7:30 a.m., causing $100 in damage.

THEFT REPORTED AT WAGON WHEEL: A customer at the Wagon Wheel Lounge, 212 South Main St., said $300 was stolen from her purse sometime between 2:15-2:30 a.m. Oct. 27. The woman said someone took three $100 bills from her purse while she performed with the bar's sing-along machine. Police are investigating the charge.

POSSIBLE ABDUCTION ATTEMPT: Three children sitting in a car at Northville Downs Nov. 2 were the apparent object of a stranger's attention, though city police are still unsure about the man's ultimate intentions.

The children, a 10-year-old girl, 5-year-old girl and 1-year-old boy, were approached by a man at 10:30 that night, who peered in the car's window, opened the door and reached inside the car without saying a word. The 10-year-old told her sister to bite the man's hand, which she did, and the children began screaming. The man promptly left, and the children ran into the racetrack's clubhouse.

The dark-haired man was reportedly wearing glasses, a black jacket and blue jeans, and had been walking across the parking lot with a blond woman when the incident occurred. Police are uncertain whether the man was a potential kidnapper or a good Samaritan scared off by the children.

SHRUBS STOLEN AT NORTHVILLE OAKS: City police are investigating the reported theft of shrubbery and small trees from Northville Oaks Condominiums, 20726 Taft Road, between Sept. 7-Oct. 30. Among the items reported taken from the common grounds at the complex are a 10-foot blue spruce valued at $550.

VANDALISM AT DANDY GANDER: The Dandy Gander restaurant at 333 E. Main St. received an unwanted coat of paint sometime between 10:10 p.m. Nov. 2 and 6:45 the next morning. A red stripe of paint was sprayed on the restaurant's east wall, across windows, bricks and siding. Obscenities were found on the restaurant's north wall.

WINDOW SHATTERED AT LOCAL BUSINESS: An office door window reportedly was shattered at Davis Auto Care, 807 Doherty, late Oct. 29, according to township police. The window was valued at $500.

MAILBOXES MAILED: Several mailboxes on West Main were destroyed by pumpkins the night after Halloween. The boxes were struck sometime between 9:30 p.m. Nov. 1 and 12:30 a.m. Nov. 2, apparently by pumpkins thrown from a moving vehicle.

One resident told city police he heard a loud bang and saw a vehicle speeding east on Main as he left his house at 9:30 p.m., but he did not notice any damage at the time. The man said the silver vehicle resembled a Ford Mustang or Chevrolet Cavalier.

STOLEN CAR RECOVERED IN DETROIT: An $11,000 car stolen from Northville Downs sometime between 9:30 p.m. Nov. 1 and 2 a.m. Nov. 2 was recovered in Detroit the night of Nov. 3, just hours after the owner filed a stolen car report.

The black 1990 Mustang was missing its engine and transmission, all four wheels and tires, radio and Michigan license plate 765-FPD when found at Joy and Abington roads in Detroit. Its front end was damaged from an apparent collision. The car had been parked in the 310 S. Center St. racetrack's preferred parking lot.

SUSPENDED LICENSE SEVERELY: City police arrested several drivers last week for driving with suspended or revoked licenses. A 28-year-old Belleville man was stopped for speeding east on Eight Mile near Center Street Nov. 1 at 10:50 p.m. when police discovered that his license was suspended. The man had failed to comply with a court judgement in Plymouth following a speeding offence. He was arrested and released after posting a $500 personal bond.

A 65-year-old Wellston man was arrested for driving while his license was revoked at 2 p.m. Nov. 2.

Youths take political stage

By SUZANNE HOLLYER
Staff Writer

Public office seekers were not the only ones to use catchy slogans, sound bites and campaign managers in preparation for the Nov. 5 Election Day.

Students at Winchester Elementary had a lesson in real-life campaigning.

"We're doing it a little different this year to give students a taste of what real elections are like," said Winchester principal Kathy Morhous.

Winchester gave every fourth- and fifth-grader running for student council $100 in Winchester Wampum.

Wampum is currency accepted only within the walls of Winchester.

Students could buy a 30-second spot on the public address system for $25.

Posters could be hung on the wall to advertise a particular candidate. Fourth-grade candidate for the vice presidency Joe Tracz told voters: "You hold the key; vote Joe T."

But Tracz and other candidates who used the walls at Winchester to campaign had a price to pay.

Winchester's walls were available for between $5 and $15. The smaller signs — eight inches by 10 inches — cost only $5 to hang.

Signs 12 inches by 18 inches cost $10 in rent for wall space.

Teacher Janie Dushane deals with future President Crystal Hampton.

To rent a wall space 22 inches by 2 feet cost $15.

Finally, students could rent an overhead projector during a campaign assembly held on election day.

The projector cost $20 a minute.

Students who didn't run for office could get involved as poll watchers.

And voters cast their ballots using more technologically advanced systems than those voting in the city election. Votes were cast in the morning on Winchester's computers and tallied by lunchtime the same day.

Candidates even got to experience a little real-world mud slinging. One student had a sign torn. Another sign hung in support of Student Council presidential candidate Crystal Hampton was found in the boys' bathroom after someone tore it off the wall.

"We told them in reality it does happen," Morhous said.

But Hampton had the last laugh: She was the top vote getter and will serve as the new Student Council president.

Hampton, a fifth-grader, said she liked the election process used at Winchester. She wasn't bothered by the financial restrictions placed on campaigning.

"If everyone just put up as many signs as they wanted, there would be signs everywhere," she said.

Hampton's campaign manager is Lisa Scheich.

Serving with Hampton will be Jason Santeiu as vice president, Natalie Wooderson as secretary and Brian Boyes as secretary.

Those candidates who were not selected to fill an office will remain on the Student Council.

Billiards hall racks up planner support

By MIKE TYREE
Staff Writer

An "upscale" billiards hall may be on the table in Northville Township.

Taking its cue from similar area ventures, the township planning commission last week gave a tentative nod of approval to a billiards operation targeted for a 9,565-square-foot portion of the struggling Northville Plaza mall on Seven Mile Road.

Planners last week reacted favorably to the billiards hall proposal and hoped other new businesses could be pocketed in Northville Plaza, which has been beset by financial and legal troubles the past few years.

But commissioners also said they would not be snookered by another ill-conceived, short-term Northville Plaza business.

"I'd hate to see another (business) go in and out," said Commissioner Larry Sheehan.

The proposed business, dubbed "Miss Q Billiards and Cafe," supposedly would be sandwiched between an oriental restaurant and hair salon in Northville Plaza. Would-be developer Lawrence Wathen said he aims to attract "only quality clientele" by renting billiards tables at $9 per hour.

That rental rate would discourage patrons of "typical smoky pool rooms," Wathen said.

Wathen, who said he has traveled from state to state the past two-and-a-half years in search of the correct site, reportedly has reached a lease agreement with the owner of Northville Plaza. Wathen wants a liquor license for the establishment, but said he would open — and remain viable — without liquor sales.

"I know what I'm doing," he said. "I'm very involved in the billiard industry."

Miss Q Billiards and Cafe would be Wathen's first business venture.

A sizable barrier stands in the path of the billiard facility. Before he can outfit the Northville Plaza site, Wathen must chalk up a victory before the township zoning board of appeals.

Among other problems, the shopping center currently is deemed a non-conforming use because it does not have sufficient setbacks from a nearby residential development.

The planning commission's action was to approve the billiards hall as an acceptable use, contingent upon ZBA approval. Wathen now must convince the ZBA that he has a building hardship.

A ZBA review of the billiards plan has yet to be scheduled.

Maybury avoids state's park manager reduction

By TIM RICHARD
Staff Writer

As state money dries up, the Department of Natural Resources will cluster up to four parks under a single manager, eliminating 50 managerial jobs.

Many parks will be kept operated just seasonally, said Russ Harding, chief of DNR's parks division. Northville Township's Maybury State Park is one which will see no changes.

"In 1992's first phase, 17 permanent park managers, three permanent park rangers, and 14 permanent-intermittent secretary positions will be eliminated," Harding told the House Conservation Committee.

The reason, he said, is that "funding for the system has gone from 70 percent general fund (10 years ago) to 30 percent."

The other 70 percent comes from park users fees—annual vehicle permits and nightly camping fees.

The shift to user fees is part of a long-term trend. The Legislature has raised the social services, prisons and education portions of the budget, squeezing DNR and other departments.

The cluster system calls for 36 designated "core" parks with the rest designated "satellite" parks.

Here is the DNR's list of core parks followed by satellite parks:

- Maybury in Northville Township (open year around) — no satellite.
- Waterloop in Washtenaw County (open year-round) — Pinckney (April 1 to Oct. 31 for camping), Lakelands Trail.
- Island Lake in Livingston County — Brighton Recreation Area (both open April 1 to Oct. 31).
- Proud Lake in southern Oakland County (year around) — Highland (April 1 to Oct. 31).
- Holly in northern Oakland County — Seven Lakes (both open April 1 to Oct. 31).
- Bald Mountain in northern Oakland County (year around) — Metamora-Hadley, Ortonville and Rochester-Utica (all April 1 to Oct. 31).

● Pontiac Lake in central Oakland County (year around) — Dodge No. 4 (April 1 to Oct. 31).

"It's our intention not to close parks," said the chief of the 71 state parks.

"We do make money in summer and have a negative cash flow in the winter months. We've tried to market the parks for year around use and have been only partially successful."

Most parks "closed" for half the year for camping will remain open for hunting, hiking and fishing.

"In some satellite parks, some roads will not be plowed (in winter) and campgrounds will not be opened."

The local park manager would have authority to decide which services — such as snow plowing — to reduce, based on local usage, Harding said.

Hitting the trails

Madonna University students used a Department of Natural Resources grant to build and maintain trails in the Upper Peninsula's Hiawatha National Forest last summer. Grant money was used to provide equipment and maps to 17 students

Cubs to rummage for food stuffs

Cub Scout Pack 755 will drop off "Operation Can-Do" bags to Northville area households through Nov. 13. The scouts will pick up the bags Saturday, Nov. 16.

The activity is part of the annual "Scouting for Food Program." Last year, the "Can-Do" program donated 171 tons of food to 92 community food programs in Wayne, Oakland and Macomb counties.

Selected Elias Brothers Big Boy restaurants throughout the area will serve as collection points for the food. The Southeast Michigan Hunger Action Coalition will distribute it to hungry people in area communities. Organizers expect to collect 500,000 bags of food, which will provide six million meals to people in need.

The Scouting for Food program is part of a National Good Turn. Scout councils across America will collect food Nov. 16.

Also, Pack 755 will once again participate in the "Toys for Tots" program that distributes toys to needy area children who might not have a Christmas otherwise. Representatives of the U.S. Marine Corps will pick up the toys donated by scouts at the pack meeting at Amerman School at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, Nov. 21.

Davis testifies on vocational training proposal

Glenna Davis

By TIM RICHARD
Staff Writer

School officials from Northville and Romulus opened a crossfire against a legislative bill to set up a state system of vocational training in every high school.

But the sponsor, House Education Committee chair Bill Keith, D-Garden City, insists job training is needed — systematically — statewide. He won support from a former Pinckney man who now heads a vocational school in Ypsilanti.

"I sense a threat, a fear of getting into this," Keith said after a three-hour public hearing Monday in Garden City.

"We need to integrate school and work," agreed Rep. Glenn Oxender, R-Sturgis, co-sponsor of Keith's House Bill 4165. "It's frustrating. Business says high school graduates aren't prepared. Educators say business should be more involved. The school-to-work transition is not very smooth (for graduates)."

Northville School Board Vice President Glenna Davis said 85 to 91 percent of local graduates pursue higher education and are well served without state-mandated vocational training for only 15 percent.

She criticized Keith's two-tiered school system as "restrictive," adding that federal courts have found systems forcing students to choose between vocational and academic tracks at age 15 are "arbitrary and unconstitutional."

Davis said the bill provides no state funding of state-mandated programs, as required by the state constitution — "financial oppression" for out-of-formula districts like Northville which get no state aid. Replied Rep. James Kosteva, D-

Canton: "Some of those Northville students might be wasting their time in an area (college) where they don't benefit. Forty percent (of college students) don't graduate, and 27 percent of graduates don't work in the field they studied."

But Rep. Lyn Bankes, R-Livonia, came to Northville's defense. The state gives no aid to out-of-formula districts, has taken away their categorical aid, is forcing them to share their local business property taxes, has frozen property taxes — and now is proposing to make them pay for vocational training.

"There should be pilot programs in in-formula districts so the out-of-formula districts don't lose again," Bankes said.

An educator who agreed with Keith was David Ottwell, a one-time Pinckney farm boy and now principal of a three-district career technical center in Ypsilanti.

In a blistering attack on the "general" curriculum as opposed to college prep and vocational, Ottwell said, "I didn't want my son and daughter to be generally prepared for generally nothing. They have to have a focus — not be wandering generalities."

Ottwell said he learned about equipment by "muddling around" on the farm, but today's kids lack that opportunity. "We're serving 30-40 percent (of college-bound) kids very well, but 60-70 percent are not served very well," he said.

Romulus Superintendent William Bedell sees only 25 percent of his graduates go to college but opposed Keith's bill for another reason.

"I don't think a local school district should train 16- and 17-year-olds for specific jobs," Bedell said. "No one can tell us what the shop of the 21st century is going to look like.

"Traditionally, the purpose (of high schools) has not been to train skills for industry. Traditionally, it has been to educate functional human beings, not drill-press operators."

Bedell said his problem is to bring kids from poor and single-parent families up to academic grade levels, not to train them for jobs. "Forty percent of our ninth-graders fail math," he said, and 30 percent drop out. Industrialists tell him, "Bill, just give us kids who can read, write, do math and come to work on time, and we'll do the rest."

Dr. Youssef Yomtoob, superintendent of Willow Run schools, criticized Keith's plan to start the vocational track at age 15. "Age 15 is too early to pick a specific occupation," he said.

House bill restructures high school vocational education

Here are the main features of House Bill 4165, an amendment to the school code to restructure vocational education

- Students, after counseling and testing, would choose between academic and career technical programs after 10th grade. They could transfer between programs
- Businesses would provide students on the job training and apprenticeships for the last two years of high school. Half of a student's time would be in class, half on the job.

- A statewide advisory council and smaller local councils would develop and oversee the vocational programs. Four groups — business, state officials, educators and the general public — would be represented equally on the state panel. It would determine what skills are needed in the market and set subject standards.

- Students would be tested for proficiency in basic subject areas before they could continue on to grades 11-12. Those who flunk would receive "alternative" education with individualized instruction.

New refuse program approved be charged to pay for the system.

Under the new city ordinance, residents will pay a monthly $4 flat fee and purchase $1.50 stickers to affix to each of their trash bags. Officials estimate that the average residence will generate about six bags of household trash a month, adding up to $13 monthly in fee and sticker charges.

Residents will be required to separate recyclable and compostable materials from their trash bags into separate containers, and will not be charged for the city's curbside pickup and disposal of those containers. Those who fail to separate recyclables out of their garbage may find the garbage bags left on their property, because the city will not be required to collect trash bags containing recyclable or compostable material.

Those who manage to recycle more material than required by the ordinance, and reduce the amount of non-recycled trash, can reduce the number of bags that need trash stickers.

Residents now pay $16.30 a month every two months for refuse collection under an interim refuse rate schedule, and commercial clients outside the downtown area are charged $35.06 or $57.46 for each time their rolloff containers are emptied, depending on the size of the container. About 50 commercial property owners in the downtown area who share dumpster service are being charged a total of $3,447 a month, divided among the owners according to their property values.

The current fees, which have drawn complaints from both residents and business owners, are part of the switch from a millage-based to a fee-based refuse system and are paying for refuse service until the new curbside refuse/recycling system begins.

The residents, who now pay 80 percent of the city's trash collection costs despite generating only 56 percent of the waste stream, also protested their continued subsidy of commercial refuse collection costs under the current fee schedule. The current fees did reduce the historical subsidy of commercial refuse collection costs by residents under the city's previous millage-based system, to about 80 percent of its previous amount, but the new fees reduce the subsidy to about 20 percent.

Assessor Mark Christiansen defended the slight subsidy by saying it will help the city keep the downtown business district cleaner.

City officials also plan to adopt some high-tech weaponry in the war against unauthorized use of city dumpsters. The city will install up to five dumpster / compactors in the downtown to serve commercial enterprises. The dumpsters would be accessed by a card or numeric key-board similar to those used by automatic teller machines.

The council's 4-0 approval of the plan (Council Member Jerry Mittman was excused from the Monday meeting) followed a continuing public hearing on the ordinance. No one in Monday's audience commented on the plan.

Few file political preference forms

Those who are not pleased with the system are ready to kill the messenger, said township Deputy Clerk Eunice Switzer.

"We're trying to make it clear to the public that this is not something the township is doing," Switzer said. "We're trying to let the public know how this came about, and we're trying to give our people the right to vote in this election."

Only about 13 percent of the township's registered voters have listed their individual political preference, Switzer said, even though the forms have been available at township polling sites since 1988. The idea that the township is harvesting a political preference hit list is off-target, Switzer said.

"It's not sitting well with the people, and not just here," Switzer said. "People across Michigan are very concerned."

Switzer said those wishing to vote in the March 17 primary likely will have to show up at the polling site, state their name, and receive a Republican or Democratic ballot from a poll worker. Absentee voters will be mailed a ballot listing candidates from their preferred party.

Although the political preference law is limited to presidential primaries, the "R" or "D" will remain next to individual voters' names in the voter registration logs, Switzer said.

The township currently does not have any local issues scheduled for the March primary, but the addition of an issue or two might require printing a third ballot, she said.

Township voters do not need to send in political preference cards the minute they are received, Switzer said. Many voters may want to mull the field of candidates before tipping their party hand, she said.

Individual political preference cards may be changed at any time up to 30 days prior to the primary vote, Switzer said. Those seeking a change must contact the clerk's office, she said.

Nowka defends, amends letter

But Nowka fears the township may be too optimistic about anticipated 1992 revenues.

"I believe very strongly revenues are overstated, from the state and possibly the building department," he said. "We have to know what the revenues are going to be (from state sources).

"It's a hopeful budget and a little scary," he said. "If (expected) revenues don't come, we've got a real problem."

That real problem does not include township personnel layoffs, Nowka said.

"I absolutely hope not; (that) hasn't been considered," he said.

Nowka also worried about an "erosion" in the township's virtually nonexistent fund balance. The crumbling of the fund balance owes to the purchase of additional police department expenditures and the costly Haller Library plan, he said.

"We were pressed; it happened too quick," Nowka said of the Haller plan, which cost the township slightly more than $100,000 in architectural fees. "We weren't designed to handle this type of situation."

Nowka still bemoans the loss of the 72 acres of Haller property, and said the land could have benefited the township. But the township must face the failure — and loss of $100,000 — that resulted when voters rejected the $7 million library plan, he said.

"Looking back . . . because this did not occur, obviously it was a waste, was unproductive," he said. Nowka said he was surprised by furor surrounding the selection of Betty Lennox as township supervisor. The township asked for resumes, "held interviews and made a selection," he said.

Nowka, who voted for Lennox, led the push to select the supervisor on the night interviews were held, even though the township board's publicly stated process reserved the selection for the following Thursday.

Asked if he knew prior to the interviews that the selection would be made on Monday, Nowka said: "I knew I wasn't going to be there Thursday. I went in hoping to have the (second) meeting Friday or Saturday. I said Friday night or Saturday I would be back. In fact, I'm certain of that. That didn't seem to be agreeable to the board."

Based on transcripts of the meeting, Nowka said it would be "fine" with him if a second meeting were held the following weekend. But the board began discussing another issue, and Nowka later prodded fellow board members to decide that evening.

Nowka said he felt there was a lot of "sourness" vented by some of the unsuccessful supervisor candidates. Some criticism aimed at the board was "pretty wild," he said, adding that he "accepted" that the appointment schedule was changed without notifying the public.

"Overall, that was unfortunate," he said.

Nowka also said stark public turnout for the interviews hinted that residents were not very concerned about the process or candidates. Asked if a Thursday session — as scheduled by the board — could have prompted more public input, Nowka said:

"That's an interesting point (but) certainly wasn't reflected on the interview night."

"The whole dilemma was it did not occur as scheduled," he said. "I have no questions about good decisions being made, (but) maybe it didn't go in sync as far as the (stated) timetable."

The suggestion that the township board practices political favoritism and constructs "done deals" causes Nowka to gnash his teeth, he said.

"I don't like them; strict politicians, they don't make me feel that good," he said. "When there's deal-making, there's some agenda other than serving the public."

"These old boy networks really turn me off," he added.

Nowka said he has not decided if he will run for re-election in 1992. But he said he hopes new blood will course through the township's veins in near future.

"I'd like nothing better than to see some dynamic personalities, some idea people (on the board)," he said. "That's leadership; I think there's a need for change."

Annual audit outlines city's dire straits

This year's Plante & Moran review of the City of Northville's financial status differs from previous years' audits.

The language is more direct, the recommendations more numerous and pointed, and the findings certainly more ominous.

The city has fallen on hard times financially, and it's been a painfully hard fall. There has been some warning, but not much.

Plante & Moran's list of comments and recommendations has grown from four pages in 1989 to six pages in 1990, and to 11 pages in 1991. Part of the reason for the growth is that the city has failed to act, or chosen not to act, on some of the auditing firm's original recommendations.

The auditors questioned in 1989 whether existing water and sewer charges were high enough to support the city's water and sewer fund, in light of a working capital deficit of $9,728. City officials finally raised the rates 18 percent this January — the first rate increase since 1982 — following a near-financial crisis in the water and sewer fund. The crisis was largely the result of a court-mandated regional sewer improvement system, but the fund's already depleted condition did not help.

In 1990, the auditors recommended that the city review its own audit procedures to assure that the procedures were adequate to monitor the city's increasingly complex computer-based accounting system. "We recommend that a review be performed to ensure that internal audit procedures are coordinated and deemed adequate in light of the increased computer system utilization," they wrote then, and this year the message remains the same.

The auditors reiterate their recommendation that the city hire a deputy city manager this year, another point first raised in 1990. As we noted in this space at the time, the auditors make a persuasive argument that this apparent added expense would most likely save money in the long term.

So the city could have acted more quickly on some recommendations of the past, and probably should have. But even full application of all auditors' recommendations might not have contributed anything tangible toward avoiding the current situation.

To simplify the picture as much as possible, the city in essence faces a $450,000 deficit with no clear way out of it. A third of this amount comes from unexpected shortfalls caused in juggling tax anticipation notes. These notes — in essence, loans to the city against future tax collections — have become almost routine in city operations recently, but the current deficit points out the dangers inherent in their use.

Government

The other two-thirds of the problem comes from the street improvement fund. This project has become a huge money pit for the city, with work stretching on years longer than it was first supposed to. Last year's extra, voter-approved bond issue for the program was supposed to fix its financial state. Obviously, it didn't.

Couldn't someone have seen all this coming? Shouldn't someone have known better?

Just a year ago, in spite of some recommendations and points deserving attention, the city auditors were all smiles in their report to the council. The city earned "a clean opinion without exception, which is the type of wording that you would like to have in your auditor's opinion," as one of the Plante & Moran representatives explained it at the time.

Yet something fell apart during the most recent fiscal year, maybe several somethings, and the result is mighty disturbing. The auditors didn't object to the tax anticipation notes, finding them a necessary evil. Why did that system develop such problems? Similarly, last year's audit assured city officials that the new bond issue should resolve any difficulties in the street improvement fund. Why didn't it?

Direct answers to these questions are distressingly absent from the latest city audit, although they may be buried somewhere in the maze of numbers. We're not accountants, but it seems to us that auditors should be able to foresee problems like this to some extent, and address them head-on when they arise.

One recommendation in the new audit certainly should, and probably will, receive quick action: a suggestion to develop a financial master plan to guide the city through the coming years. It will be a depressing document, considering that the loss of state-returned racetrack money makes this and future years look even bleaker than last year.

The problem requires immediate attention. The city has to find the right remedy to cure its financial ills, and may need to swallow some bitter pills in the process. Whatever happens, the cure will be painful.

Just a little catching up to do

Well, I'm back.

Not that I ever left, but I haven't been writing a column in this space the last few weeks. Just haven't been able to find a spare ten minutes. (You didn't think it took any longer than that, did you?) Anyway, here are a few things to catch up on...

● The long-awaited results of our inaugural Fall Fiction Contest appear in the "Our Town" section today. You may recall that we introduced this contest a couple of months ago, with the simple proviso that the stories had to, in some way, be "about" the Northville/Novi area.

We did this with some trepidation. What if no one entered? What if none of the entries were any good?

We shouldn't have worried. We got 23 entries, which to my mind is an excellent response. Many or most of the stories were written specifically for the contest. And while, naturally, I liked some stories better than others, every single entry had its strengths.

The winners appear in today's paper; we'll print honorable mentions in the future. Congratulations to the winners and to everyone who entered; this was a lot of fun. I'm sure we'll do it again next year, and maybe by then we can offer an actual prize.

● So Northville continues its dominance of the Baseline Jug season-ending football battle over Novi. Was there ever any doubt?

The Baseline Jug, you may know, is a trophy The North- ville Record and The Novi News introduced in 1988 to go to the winner of the annual game. The Mustangs won the jug the first year, and have continued to win it every year since. Four straight and counting.

Now, I don't want to sound too superstitious or anything, but it seems to me that before the jug came around, Novi usually dominated this game. Could it be?...

● There's a story in today's paper (page 10-A) about Glenna Davis of the Northville Board of Education testifying before a state committee considering a plan to set up a state-required vocational training program in every high school.

It's an interesting issue, and one worthy of attention. But what really caught my eye was a comment — in support of more vocational training — from state Rep. James Kosteva of Canton: "Some of those Northville students might be wasting their time in an area (college) where they don't benefit. Forty percent (of college students) don't graduate, and 27 percent of graduates don't work in the field they studied."

Hmmm. Personally, I think more (or better) vocational training is a good idea, though funding is an open question. But Kosteva completely loses me when he assumes students are "wasting their time" or "don't benefit" from college when they don't graduate, or graduate but don't work in their major field.

Seems to me just about everyone can benefit from college in one way or another, whether they go on to be a brain surgeon or a trash collector, and I think that's in large part the philosophy which drives Northville's strong college-prep efforts. Speaking as someone who isn't really working in the fields he studied (I majored in English, meaning literature, and psychology), I don't think those four years were a waste. Furthest thing from it.

Adopt the 'English rule' here

I ran into him at a cocktail party in Birmingham. Well cut suit, if a little bold in the pattern. Hermes tie, that special shade of bright red. Silk shirt — the whole nine yards.

"You must be a lawyer," I said.

"Yup." He stood a little taller.

"What sort?"

"I'm a member of the plaintiff's bar." Taller still.

"Does your wife know what you do for a living?"

Brutal tactics, but necessary.

Plaintiff's bar lawyers — the ones who sue doctors for malpractice or small airplane manufacturers for product defects — are the most visible part of the legal system that Michigani-ans love to hate.

The extent of hatred was revealed recently when Bill Balenger's newsletter, Inside Michigan Politics, ran results of a statewide poll of Michigan voters.

"With 5 percent of the world's population, America just doesn't need 70 percent of the world's lawyers." Total agreed: 73 percent. Total disagreed: 20 percent.

"The high cost of lawsuits is making America less competitive in the world economy." Total agreed: 72 percent. Total disagreed: 20 percent.

"We should change the legal system so that the party that loses a lawsuit has to pay for the legal expenses of the winner of the lawsuit." Total agreed: 50 percent. Total disagreed: 39 percent.

It's this last proposal, made most notably by Vice President Dan Quayle, that makes lawyers like my Birmingham friend foam at the mouth.

It's easy to see why. Under present rules in Michigan, you can go to a lawyer and sue somebody for any purpose, no matter how frivolous, with no real cost to you. You hire the lawyer "on contingency," which in Michigan means you agree to pay him or her one-third of the net sum recovered if you win the suit.

If you lose, you pay nothing. But the guy you sued — the doctor or the airplane manufacturer — has to hire a lawyer to defend himself, and that costs money. Last year nationwide, plaintiffs and defendants paid out $22 billion in attorneys' fees.

Making the loser pay erects a disincentive against silly or groundless or merely trouble-making lawsuits. Judging from the experience of other countries — most of the rest of the world — adopting the so-called "English rule" would sharply reduce the number of lawsuits.

Which makes members of the plaintiff's bar very, very nervous. After all, they are making a very, very good living off the rest of us. Fewer lawsuits, reduced income, they argue with commendable self-interest.

But what about the poor people whose access to justice would be "chilled" by a loser-pay rule? Try the German system, where a special panel reviews lawsuits by poor people and waives the rule if the case has merit.

Why is all this relevant just now? A big package of legislation dealing with "tort reform" — including setting an inverse sliding scale for contingency fees — is under debate in the Legislature.

Some House members are thinking of amending the package by adding the English rule to tort reform. I think it's a great idea.

Will it pass? I doubt it. Here's why:

My Birmingham friend's lobbying group is called the Michigan Trial Lawyers Association. One state representative who is thinking of introducing the loser-pay rule informs me that the trial lawyers have so much money, "they even give contributions to people like me."

Fee issue needs clarification

To the editor:

Your headline in The Northville Record of Oct. 24 read, "Township will ponder tax increase." This headline exaggerated an issue and the article did not clarify the matter or dwell sufficiently on the concerns about taxes. I will try to help you do this.

As a part of past property tax in Northville Township a "tax administration fee" of 1 percent was added to the bill. As designated assessor and tax collector for all other governmental units, provision had been made for this fee. The Township, despite its use of a small share of the total taxes received, bears the very certain burden of being the collector. The fee's origin in all likelihood acknowledged this burden and this responsibility.

Within the past year, the Township Board felt the Tax Administration Fee could be eliminated reducing property tax bills for residents. This was done. Now, because of a weaker revenue position, the Township Citizens Budget Review Committee has recommended that the fee be restored.

I do not feel this Township Administration Fee will come to life.

Total township property tax used for township general fund for administration amounts to about $200 per person annually, if considered by population of the township. The estimated Township property tax income for 1992 is $312,000 or 17 percent of the general fund, to support administrative activities, joint services and to augment other township expenses. Remaining revenues come from state shared funds and special services fees collected by the township. A major part of fire and police operations are covered by separate and special millages.

Isn't it ironic that more Northville Township property tax income is provided for the Wayne County Jail than to the Township General Fund?

Residents are interested in low tax rates and the resistance to any form of new taxes is understandable. In quickly growing communities, the immediate personal concerns such as school financing and safety services get strongest attention. This is also understandable. However, there is no room to squeeze the Township General Fund without sacrifice and any cutbacks will hurt.

The greatest pressure hits the township/city sponsored joint services because of the effect of any income loss on growing fixed costs. This may mean a need for individual millage for support of these services added to an equal flat contribution by township and city. General millage requests have not been successful in the past, so specific or focused tax support might be the only approach. Such optional services that add to quality of community life are at lower priority than the absolute service requirements. Taxpayer interest and taxpayer demand for these services may be tested sometime soon.

As an example of general and millage failures, your paper points out persistently Northville Township spent $100,000 on the Haller Library Proposal. This is true and I, among others, worked hard on the Haller effort. The costs were related to architectural expense, which related to performance deadlines for title to the 72 acres of prime land.

Coming with the Haller Library Proposal were high goals for the community attached to the risks of seeing needs and being responsive. The initiative failed from a collective inability to illustrate to our residents a high value this investment would provide them. The benefit of this proposal was both short and long term and sought a vision of commitment and also esteem by the taxpayer for the community. You cannot move toward achievement and away from risk at the same time.

The reader may gather the impression from the newspaper that the township is poorly run. This is not so at all. Northville Township government has been well designed, organized and operated for years with an outstanding group of skilled employees. It can stand up under heavy scrutiny. Townships have historically provided great responsiveness to citizens, well beyond other local governments, and Northville Township follows this pattern.

Township meetings have poor attendance. Beyond the Board of Trustees and those with political interests, the meetings seem generally of low priority to the public unless a hot issue develops.

The press is always at the meetings to provide some news and sometimes more of an editorial slant that meets a prevailing disposition and attitude. Ringing claims and assertion of favoritism over sound judgement on the part of the Township Board over selection processes are ludicrous. What benefit is it to anyone to make less than a reasoned critical decision for improvements? The selection process was complete and good decisions made. I'm sorry I have seen viewpoints driven by sourness of political efforts and aspiration.

All of this seems nitpicky when the big picture of state and national economics, deficits and real political problems are taken into view. However, local government and local issues are important to residents since they maintain greater control of their quality performance. Forebearance of unbiased and baseless criticism in any area is not acceptable to me.

Important to demand recycled stock

To the editor:

With Northville striving to become an environmentally conscious community, it would seem only obvious the leaders of the community begin playing a vital role in the pursuit of an environmentally friendly society. One of those leaders happens to be The Northville Record. If the people of the community are willing to recycle their old newspapers, then the community paper should be willing to print the news on recycled paper as well.

Each year, millions of trees are used in the paper-making process. It takes countless trees to produce one paper. To me, this seems a terrible waste.

Technology has provided us with the ability to reuse instead of destroy. It is time we begin to use this technology.

Understandably, recycled paper would cost more to use. Creating the demand, however, would lower the costs associated with the product. This is basic economics. Creating the demand must start someplace.

As a prominent figure in Northville, the paper should be making every effort to be exactly what they are, a leader. The Northville Record can and should be using recycled paper.

Kenneth J. Neal

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Northville Record and its parent company, HomeTown Newspapers, currently draw 25.4 percent of their newsprint from recycled stock. Throughout the industry, demand for recycled newsprint far exceeds available supply, and this company uses all the recycled stock it can get.

Youth soccer deserves more space in paper

To the editor:

I'm sure the U-9 Northville Cup game between the Lightning and United was exciting, but was it really worth the 700-plus word write-up in the League Line section? I appreciate the coverage for soccer but not when it results in the exclusion of the write-ups on the other rec teams. As the U-14 commissioner I have submitted a write-up for the Express & United teams each of the seven weeks of the fall season and these teams have received coverage only half the time. I'd like to see the Record do a better job using the NSA Commissioners input to cover the recreation soccer efforts of our kids.

I'd also like to second the complaint in Laura Whiteley's letter over the inadequate coverage given to the Northville High School Men's Soccer Team this season. These young men certainly deserved more recognition than was given to them by The Northville Record. In the future, I hope you'll take the steps necessary to correct these problems.

Report brings a tear to eye, not a twinkle

To the editor:

Last night I was in my kitchen preparing the liquid milkshake for my wife's supper, while Channel 2's 6 p.m. newscast was giving step by step graphic detail of Dr. Jack Kevorkian's latest episode, which my wife (Lee) watched from her hospital bed. When I took the "shake" to her I had no idea what caused the tears in her eyes, until I heard a portion of the newscast myself.

Let me first say that I believe suicide is a private issue between a single person and God. Also, I don't believe Dr. Kevorkian should be allowed to practice medicine in this world. If he would have devoted just half of the time he had used to assist people to die, in an effort to help them live, he could have put forth an effort to ease their pain and suffering, or at the very least, help them understand it. In that he could have been a useful person.

Lee and a mastectomy in 1983. In 1985 a drug, Vin Christine, was administered in her chemotherapy treatment. One of the side effects of that drug is muscle weakness. The cancer is in remission but the side effect marches on. Her voice started to get hoarse, she started using a cane, soon a walker and then a wheel chair. VFW Post 4012 bought her an Electric Mobility "Rascal" which helped her to get around town. The people of Northville have seen her in stores, bowling alleys, selling "Poppies" and in parades, etc. Her moving-around days are over now, but she is very uncomfortable in the wheelchair or in the car. I have to turn her in bed and can only feed her liquid. Her communication skills are gone. I can still pick out key words most of the time, but sometimes even that is difficult. For about three years she had intense pain in her shoulder and side but for the past six months the constant pain seems to have subsided, or maybe she just got used to it?

Now let's get back to Dr. Kevorkian. Back when we could still communicate properly, we both decided that neither of us wanted to be placed on life support systems. We would like proper care to ease that pain and suffering but not to prolong it. However, if the good Lord up above decides that there is something else for us to do before He calls us home, then we believe we should stay to do it, regardless of the pain and suffering, even if the thing he wants from us is only a prayer.

In the meantime, I'll take care of all her needs, and keep her as comfortable as possible, as she would have done if it had happened to me. My reward will be her smile when I say Good Morning, or I love you, or just when I pat her butt as I'm passing by.

Oh, I almost forgot. I'll also screen the news as best I can, for repeated reports of Dr. Kevorkian, so I can switch the channels and keep a twinkle in the corner of her eye instead of a tear.

Consider these self-esteem issues

Recently I came across a questionnaire which could help assess a teen's level of self-esteem. It would be helpful to go over these questions with your teenager. Keep in mind that most people feel bad about themselves from time to time. So when answering these questions, have the teen think about how they feel most of the time.

Are you easily hurt by criticism?
Are you very shy or overly aggressive?
Do you try to hide your feelings from others?
Do you fear close relationships?
Do you try to blame your mistakes on others?

Do you find excuses for refusing to change?
Do you avoid new experiences?
Do you continually wish you could change your physical appearance?
Are you too modest about personal successes?

If your teen answered most of these questions "yes", his/her self-esteem could probably use improvement.

Do you accept constructive criticism?
Are you at ease meeting new people?
Are you honest and open about your feelings?
Do you value close relationships?
Are you able to laugh at (and learn from) your mistakes?
Do you notice and accept changes in yourself as they occur?
Do you look for and tackle new challenges?

Are you confident about your physical appearance?

Do you give yourself credit when credit is due?

Are you happy for others when they succeed?

If your teen answered most of these questions "yes," they probably have a healthy opinion of themselves.

If your teenager needs help building their self-esteem, call Mary Ellen King at 344-1618. We can pair your teen with a volunteer from our community. This person is a caring and concerned Northville resident who has been interviewed and trained by the NYA staff. This person will help your teen begin to feel good about him/her.

FIRST PLACE

Remembering Charlie

By Robert H. Thomas

Even though he was an alcoholic, Charlie was sure of one thing. He'd never take another drink. And this time he meant it. The reason he didn't tell anybody was because nobody really cared what Charlie thought about anything. After all, they figured, you don't get to be the Town Drunk by sitting as sober as an opening prayer in the front row of the Reverend Whitfield's church every Sunday morning. People had decided a long time ago that a man like Charlie, who'd lived his entire life right across the street from the church, practically eavesdropping on the Sunday services, but had never once gone inside, wasn't about to start now. So Charlie had made it a point to stay on his own side of the street.

But Slim Jim's place, also across from Charlie's house but down a block in the opposite direction from the church — well, that was a different story. Before it had become a bar somebody had lived there, a home, but that was so long ago even Charlie couldn't remember who it could have been.

People said Slim Jim's was Charlie's "home away from home," sort of his public living room that somehow got separated from his own house and had walked itself down to the corner where the interurban turned around and you could get a cold beer at the end of a hard day. Or at the beginning. Naturally everybody knew which end of the day Charlie preferred, although they never came right out and said so.

What they did say was that Charlie's problem was pretty simple: He just didn't know one church key from another. They chuckled a lot when they said this, which was kind of funny in itself considering how often they said it.

There was a lot about Slim Jim's (besides who used to live there) that Charlie couldn't remember. Like who stole his left shoe the night of the big snow storm and he walked home without knowing a thing about it until the next morning when the clanging of the interurban (or was it those damned church bells across the street?) woke him up.

There were other stories Charlie couldn't recall and they got circulated around town like two-dollar bills that people liked to show off but were glad to get rid of.

For a long time Charlie couldn't figure out why he kept going back to Slim Jim's, that weathered old house that didn't have a right angle to its name. He'd sit at the end of the bar and think about it. The best he could figure out was that he had to be someplace doing something and this was as good as anything he could think of.

Sometimes at the end of the day the younger men would come into Slim Jim's after the long interurban ride from Detroit. Charlie would hear the bells at the turnaround over on Griswold Street. That gave him time to empty his glass before the thirsty workers banged through the front door and ordered a couple of beers for themselves, and, on a good day, for Charlie too. Especially on Fridays. But first they'd ask, "Got the church key, Charlie?" "Ya," he'd answer with a vague smile, knowing what was coming. "Well,

Judges found excellent work

The Northville Record/Novi News 1991 Fall Fiction Contest was judged by seven local people in fields related to writing, reading and publishing.

First the authors' names were removed from the stories and stories were assigned a random identification number. Then each judge read every story — 23 in all — and assigned it a rating from one (low) to five (high). The numbers were tallied and the stories with the three highest scores were singled out as first-, second- and third-place winners.

"Remembering Charlie" by Northville resident Robert H. Thomas won first place with 32 of a possible 35 points.

"Remembering Charlie" stands out as cohesive and complete; the writer knows how to explore an image thoroughly and presents a meaningful conflict for a sympathetic character," wrote contest judge Wanda Freeman, publicist for Borders Book Shop in Novi. "The result is believable and moving."

Al Berlinski, Novi resident and owner/operator of Sun Dog Press publishing company, agreed that "Remembering Charlie" was a winner.

"This is a top choice," he wrote. "It just feels right."

Second- and third-place winners were "The Visitor" by J. Drews of Livonia (29 points) and "Josephine" by Jane Powell Corder of Northville (28 points).

Six stories with scores of 25 or above received honorable mention and will be printed in upcoming issues of The Northville Record and The Novi News.

- "Did the Icicle Fall?" by M. M. Hines
- "Lost in Northville" by Richard A. Standing
- "Homecoming" by John A. Joboulian
- "An Old Man" by Richard J. Henderson
- "New Curtains" by Lynn Parkilan
- "Ducks, Dollars and Dreams" by Michael McCutcheon

Kathleen Ripley Leo of Northville, a published poet and creative writing teacher, said every story she judged had qualities that impressed her.

"After years of teaching creative writing, I was really impressed with the caliber of all the entries," she said.

"Really, everybody who wrote had strong points in their stories. All of the stories had wonderful twists and turns. I would encourage each of these people to keep writing. They were all ambitious pieces and there was potential for good writing in every one of the entries."

A special thanks goes to our judges — Freeman, Berlinski, Ripley, Leo, Northville Public Library librarian Susan Petersmark, Northville Record/Novi News editors Mike Mallott and Bob Needham, and staff writer Cristina Ferrier.

Staff Writer

When Robert H. Thomas sat down in September to write "Remembering Charlie," it was his first attempt at creative writing in about 40 years.

But the story beat out 22 other entries to grab first place in the Northville Record/Novi News 1991 fall fiction contest.

"I haven't done any creative writing since I was a sophomore in college in the 1950s," Thomas said. "I read the article in the paper about the contest, and I wanted to see if I could do some genuine creative writing. . . . It was a chance to write without restrictions."

Thomas, 62, is no stranger to writing. He works as a free-lance sales promotion writer, writing such things as training programs, internal publications, and marketing and promotion materials for various companies.

"Remembering Charlie," he said, was "just the fortunate coming-together" of his knowledge of area history, a person he knew, and a place that was once in downtown Northville.

Although the story is based on a real person and place, he said, the events in the story are entirely fictional.

"When I started writing it, I really didn't know how it was going to end," he said, adding that writing the story was "a lot of work."

The bar in the story is Little Joe's, an establishment that once existed in a house that was where Getz's now stands on Main Street. The character of Charlie is based on someone who "had been in there a lot," he said. "The story does not have great social significance, but it has significance to me because it was based on a person I admire very much."

J. Drews is the pen name of Joan Gardner, author of The Last winner "The Visitor." She is a Livonia resident and a special education teacher in Plymouth.

She was inspired to write the story after her daughter's boyfriend bought her a suncatcher that made a colorful pattern on the floor of her bedroom.

"I do a lot of writing," she said. "I write a lot of children's stories, and some on death, and some senior citizen stories." She described "The Visitor" as one of her senior citizen stories.

Jane Powell Corder, author of third-place winning story "Josephine," said her story began with the idea of the main character.

"That happens to me a lot," she said. "I thought of what people think about when they're hanging clothes, then I thought, what if they were someone else's clothes?"

Corder, who moved to Northville a little over a year ago, is currently looking for a part time job so she can devote the rest of her time to her writing.

Robert Thomas wrote "Remembering Charlie."

In Our Town

Folinos travel far to see daughter lead in play

Paul and Mamie Folino of Northville traveled to Florence, Alabama the first week in October to see their daughter, Marie, star in a local production of "The Pirates of Penzance."

Marie, 25, is a 1984 Northville High School graduate and a graduate of the University of Michigan.

She is currently working on her master's degree in music at the University of Alabama.

Paul Folino said his daughter saw in a newspaper there that they were holding auditions for the musical, and she auditioned just to meet people, thinking she might get a small part.

Instead, he said, she got the lead role.

The Folinos drove down to see all but the first two of her shows, and stayed a few days after the show closed so they could spend some time with her.

Marie Folino also sang the national anthem at the Northville Fourth of July festivities.

Town Hall

The 1991-92 Northville Town Hall series continues Monday at the Livonia Holiday Inn with B. Carter Randall. The speaker will begin at 11 a.m., and lunch will follow immediately after.

Fashion Show

A fashion show for girls sizes 12 months to 12 years will be presented at the Rose Cottage Tea Room during tea time Tuesday, Nov. 5 from 3 to 5 p.m.

Presented by nationally known and esteemed Wee Clancy, the show will feature a distinctive collection of originally designed dresses and playwear.

The styles are both whimsical and romantic with classical old world flair incorporating brighter colors and 100 percent cotton. Included in the show will be holiday fashions and a winter collection. Ann Medonis, a Northville resident, will describe the collection. The Rose Cottage Tea Room is located at 505 N. Center in Northville. For reservations please phone 349-0508.

New dimension of recycling

When John Hall, director of the Northville Players, marries Janet Eory next Saturday, Nov. 16, the bride's dress will demonstrate the idea that everything old is new again.

She will be wearing the same dress worn by her future mother-in-law, Dale Hall, in Dale's marriage to George Hall 45 years ago. The Halls were married May 25, 1946 in Vancouver, British Columbia.

Since the two women are built differently, the dress underwent major alterations by a costumer for the Marquis Theatre.

Friends of Northville Library

The Friends of the Northville Library will hold a used book sale on Saturday, Nov. 16, in the council room of the Northville City Administration Building, 215 W. Main, from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m.

Hardcover and paperback books including many children's books, cook books, books on decorating, sewing, crafts, technology, politics, science, religion, art, psychology, philosophy and fiction will be available.

Some of the sale books are classified as "antiques" or are out-of-print. Maybe that special Christmas gift is waiting there.

OUR LADY OF VICTORY

Many thanks to all of the parent volunteers who baked delicious pies for the Northville Action Council annual Pie Sale on Saturday, Oct. 19. Kudos also to OLV students who donated over 200 cans of fruit to Civic Concern in commemoration of World Hunger Day on Oct. 16.

Book It!, the five-month reading incentive program sponsored by Pizza Hut, began Oct. 1 at OLV. Its purpose is to motivate children in the elementary grades to read more, both at home and at school, and to help pre-readers develop a positive attitude toward learning to read.

The OLV Express, with librarian Virginia Krozek as engineer, is picking up momentum as it travels around the walls of the library. It has added 21 boxcars in its first month of operation. Each boxcar represents a parent donation of a new library book to celebrate some special occasion in their child's life.

Chairperson Diane Brazunas announced that the annual student candy sale sponsored by the School Committee grossed $33,843.50 this year. The winning class was Grade Four. Top salespersons were Skylar Swiecki, Chrissy Argenta and Katherine Bruce. Top sales families were teams of Jeff and Greg Brazunas, Sarah and Jason Marchioni, and Julie and Maria Sturla. Zig Grutza of Papa Romano's in Plymouth will give the whole school a pizza and pop lunch on Friday, Nov. 15. Special thanks to all the moms who helped count the money and distribute the merchandise.

The Spanish classes taught by Berlitz International Language School have really caught on in the classrooms and corridors of the school. Student greetings to one another reflect bits and pieces from the latest Spanish lesson.

It is appropriate on All Saints Day (Nov. 1) for Catholics to pause to give thanks to God for such saintly role models that have lived among His people over the centuries. At OLV the celebration begins with an all-school Mass followed by a Thanksgiving cluded Tom Zimmerman of West Bloomfield, David Griener of Coventry, Conn., and Tim Carbury of Lexington, Ky. Ushers were David Yodhes, brother of the bride and Dan Lounides of Tazewell, Conn. Heather McKnight, 1982 graduate of Northville High School, of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, the groom's sister, performed a special reading during the ceremony. A dinner reception followed the ceremony at the Dearborn Inn.

The bride, a graduate of Allen Park High School and Alma College, is presently working on a master's degree in social work at the University of Chicago.

The groom graduated from Northville High School and Alma College. He is director of admissions for Albany House, an intermediate care facility in Evanston, Ill.

The newlyweds honeymooned on Monhegan Island, Maine. They are now living in Chicago.

The couple were married at the Academy of the Sacred Heart in Bloomfield Hills by Fr. John Budde. The bride was given away by her brother Gregg Artley of Scottsdale, Ariz.

The gown was traditional gown of summer satin with alençon lace, sequins and pearls, a high regina neckline with a lace collar and yoke came with the jeweled cameo bodice. The gown had a full skirt with lace cascading down the back, creating a majestic train accented with a large bow. The matron of honor was Tisha Johnson of Chicago with Chen Richmond, Leslie Lane and Laura Whitwam as bridesmaids.

The Rev. James Peterson officiated at the double-ring ceremony.

The bride wore a formal satin wedding gown with a wedding band collar. Lavish sequined sposabella lace covered the bodice from the neck to the basque waistline. The same imported lace was echoed in the full cathedral train and closely fitted sleeves.

Her headpiece was a headband of small alençon lace flowers embellished with tiny satin rosebuds.

Her bouquet consisted of miniature roses, white carnations and baby's breath tied with pink and aqua satin ribbons.

Christine Crews of Dallas, Texas was matron of honor. Bridesmaid was Judy Spencer of Anchorage, Alaska. Flower girl was Jessica Segal of Birmingham, the groom's cousin; and ringbearer was Daniel Spencer of Anchorage, the bride's cousin.

More Detroit suburban shoppers

The SPRING Newspapers' circulation more than doubles the daily suburban circulation of either The Detroit News or Free Press.

In fact, SPRING's suburban circulation is greater than the two metro dailies' combined.

And that's not all.

According to the 1991 Belden study, SPRING reaches more of the affluent suburban shoppers who have more—and spend more.

► 152,700 more suburban buyers of women's fashions than the daily News (78,600 more than the Free Press).
► 145,700 more suburban buyers of men's fashions than The News (64,500 more than the Free Press).

► 115,900 (and 63,600) more suburban buyers of children's clothing.

► 177,100 (and 80,000) more suburban shoppers at malls.

Simply put, one order in SPRING delivers more.

Shouldn't you be advertising in SPRING more?

Feast in the Social Hall. The day ends with an All Saints Parade. Students in the primary grades are paired with their Big Brothers and Sisters in the middle school to present a program on the lives of some of the Church's great heroes and heroines. This year the celebration was outstanding thanks to Karen Mazure and her volunteer moms who helped serve the feast, and Laurie Fowler and Rita Nalodka who coordinated the Mass and All Saints Parade.

Parent-chaperones, teachers and students are spending some of these beautiful fall days visiting nearby points of interest. Kindergartners have gone to Plymouth Apple Orchards, Grade one took a trip to Sugarbush Farms, Grade three went to Greenfield Village and Grade four just returned from Plymouth Historical Museum.

spelling lesson which featured Brendan Kownacki's paragraph-long story about a fox and his parents. (Happily, in the end the fox was the loser!).

● The second-third grader's Spanish skit in which Nicole Kownacki and Kelsey Jenny acted out a pet shop purchase of a dog (the closing line was particularly good as the dog exclaimed "Arf, Arf" — and no translation was needed).

● The fourth-fifth graders' presentation of a Social Studies project in which they graphically portrayed the land and water terms they had learned through the use of a clay-dough medium (the work was superb!).

The WAA Parents Group recycled paper-sale fund raiser was a monumentally huge success. Approximately $1,400 will go toward purchasing books for the school library. Indeed, the students say, "Thank You!"

But the most unexpected and spectacular news of the month was the winning of the Lord Mayor's First Prize Float Award at the Annual South Lyon Pumpkinfest. William Allan Academy's students depicted a scene from the musical, Johnny Appleseed. Producing resonant sounds and tossing pencils to onlookers was a Golden, Delicious, Apple-aling way for them to spend part of a day. Val Hambleton, the WAA principle, reported that there were no "crab apples" among the participants and Granny Smith, a local resident who was green-ling from ear to ear, said there were none in the crowd!

What an event-filled month it has been for the "Little Red Schoolhouse" on Eight Mile Road! The students can hardly wait for the upcoming Thanksgiving vacation as parents await the first progress report on their children.

WILLIAM ALLAN ACADEMY

As an adjunct to the William Allan Academy Parents Group monthly meeting, one parent suggested a "parental thought for the month." This month's theme — "A Parent's Role is Not to Mold, but to Unfold" — synthesizes the school's idea that in child rearing parents should not be so concerned with molding their offspring into some preconceived pattern or form as if they were gelatin desserts; rather, parents should concentrate on helping their youngsters unfold (i.e., discover and thereby fully develop) their multiplicity of talents as if they were budding roses.

And indeed, at the every-Tuesday-morning school assemblies, the intellectual bouquet of student talent has been immense. Recently, the array included:

- The kindergartners' fruit loop neclaces, done to reinforce their mastery of the letter "O," colors and sequencing. The students liked it because they got to eat their mistakes . . . seven boxes of cereal later . . . just kidding! (Actually, very few errors were made as the youngsters strove for excellence.)
- The sentences composed by the first graders to reinforce their weekly

‘The Visitor’

By J DREWS

The tall, young man was carefully mowing the lawn around the "For Sale" sign on Dunlap Street when the cab pulled up. Glancing towards the curb, he continued to mow. He noticed an old woman in the front seat, but she didn't get out. When he finished the front yard, he walked over to the open window on the passenger side of the cab.

"Can I help you?" he asked. The woman, who was older than he had originally thought, stared past him at the house.

"Yes. Do you live here?" she asked, now looking directly at him with the lightest blue eyes he had ever seen. "For 18 years," he replied. "I lived here for 20 years."

"You're kidding? When?" "My father built the house in 1907, and I was born the next year."

"My God! Is your last name Burmiller?"

"It was. When I left, I married a man named Richard Carlson. So now it's Carlson."

The young man smiled. "My name's Nick Wesson. Would you like to see the house?" he asked.

"Yes. I hoped you'd ask," her face lit up. "For the first time, Nick saw the cab driver."

"Sir, would you mind waiting a few minutes?" he asked. "Take your time. It's been a long ride to Northville."

"Would you like to come in?" "No thanks. I'll take a little snooze," he laughed, as he laid his head back on the headrest.

The old woman opened the car door and slowly got out. "I'm still from sitting so long," she said, straightening her back.

"Where did you come from?" Nick asked.

"I live in Eaton Rapids now."

"Isn't that about a hundred miles west of here?" he asked in surprise.

"Yes. I got some money for my birthday, and decided to take a ride with it."

"Great idea."

As they approached the porch, she stopped. "I'm going to need a hand up these steps."

"You got it," smiled Nick, as he offered his arm.

When they got in the front door, she smiled. "What a bright living room. My mother believed in dark drapes. You know, so the sun didn't fade the carpet," she chuckled.

"Yes, and my mother believes in mini-blinds, no drapes, and fading the carpet."

They both laughed. "Would I be able to see the upstairs?"

"Sure. I'll help you."

As she reached the top, Nick could see her breathing harder.

"You OK?" he asked. "Yes. I'd like to see the small bedroom if that's all right?"

"Sure. That was my sister Julie's bedroom. She got married last summer so my mother made it into a sewing room."

She walked into the center of the room and faced the back window.

"This was my room. When I was 16, my boyfriend gave me a cut glass sun catcher, and I hung it on that window."

"I didn't know they had sun catchers back then," Nick said shyly.

She smiled. "It reflected the sun's light and made a colored rainbow right in the middle of my carpet."

She looked down at her feet and motioned where it had shown.

"Is that the boyfriend you married?" asked Nick.

"Yes. He was my best friend for 61 years. He died last summer."

"I'm sorry. I bet you miss him."

"Yes."

Without another word, she walked back into the hall and smiled.

"Thank you so much, Nick. You made my birthday special."

"Is today your birthday?" he asked.

"Yes."

"Happy birthday, Mrs. Carlson."

"Thank you."

"Did you want to see the rest of the house?"

"No. I'm happy."

Nick helped her back down the stairs and out to the cab. As it pulled away, something fell out onto the curb. He bent down and picked up a plastic ID bracelet and read: Willow Nursing Centers, Julie Carlson, Ph. 487-3192.

With the bracelet in his hand, he walked slowly back into the house and up the stairs to the small bedroom. In the middle of the carpet was a bright spot. He stepped closer to it. It was a rainbow-colored prism. He looked up at the empty window. Then he knelt down by it and ran his fingers across the colors.

Walking back down the stairs, he reread the ID bracelet, walked over to the phone, dialed the first two numbers, and hung up.

First Place

"You'd better give it back," they'd shout. "The Reverend Whitfield's lookin' for it!" Then they'd all laugh and Charlie would pop open the cold bottles with his shiny opener the Goebels beer truck driver had given him years ago.

When it was time for another round the young turks would repeat the question "Got the church key, Charlie?" "Ya," he'd answer as he held it up for everybody to see. Only this time the response would be different. "Well, you better put it back in your pocket, Charlie, 'cause Slim Jim's lookin' for it!"

They'd all laugh again, but after that they'd lose interest until the bells of "St. Whitfield's" (as they called it) reminded them it was time to go home or take care of other important business.

That always left Charlie with Slim Jim and the regulars who'd get down to some serious drinking before thinking up more stunts to play on Charlie. Charlie went along with the game because he knew that nobody liked to play tricks on a sober drunk and it was an easy way to get some free beer.

And that's how it went, for years. But one night something changed. Slim Jim and the regulars had fished the bottle opener out of Charlie's back pocket and were ready to throw it in the ladies room toilet and make Charlie reach in for it — maybe even flush the toilet in his face at just the right moment.

Charlie knew what was coming because they'd pulled this one so many times before. But without quite knowing why, he realized he was sick and tired of it all. And maybe with himself. So he snatched the opener from their hands and took a poke at one of the guys — probably Slim Jim himself because that's who threw him out the front door.

"Town drunk, that's what you are," Slim Jim cursed. People on the street heard him say it and were startled. They knew it was true, of course, but they also knew the rules of the game had just been broken.

Slim Jim said it out loud. And if people could speak unspeakable things like that about Charlie, who'd be next? What forbidden accusation might now be spoken by anybody about anybody else in town?

The question never entered Charlie's mind. All he could think about was the worn and shiny church key in his pocket, which he dropped through the mail slot at the Reverend Whitfield's office before he crossed the street and went home.

That was when he made his decision. It was ten o'clock.

He remembered it clearly because that's when he heard the church bells ring.

Third Place

‘Josephine’

By JANE POWELL CORDER

The slightly stooped woman carried the heavy basket of freshly laundered clothes into the cool, spring morning, Spring 1912, the calendar might say, Josephine thought, but it sure did not feel like it. Scattered remains of the night's frost dusted the Northville lawns. She gathered the shawl collar of her tattered grey sweater around her neck and looked up at the clear Michigan sky. Bright sun and blue skies might mean spring, but the warm wet clothes in the basket emitted clouds of steam as the cold air hit them.

The Mrs. wanted the clothes to have a spring scent so Josephine had to freeze to make sure her lady got it. She took the old rag from the side of the basket and slowly wiped winter away from the clothesline. As she walked back from the old elm tree where the clothesline ended, she caught a glimpse of herself in the broken pane of the garage window.

Old and wrinkled, that was what the glass reflected. But, how deceiving. No one was old at 30 and those lines would just be laugh lines on a woman from the proper class. Life had etched a road map on the translucent skin. The once shiny brown hair was streaked with silver and caught in an unflattering bun at the nape of her neck.

Her hands reached down and pulled the first piece of clothing from the wicker basket. As she shook out the master's white shirt, she paused to look at her hands. Her hands had once held such promise. They had once held tiny, delicate patterns on cloth as fine as any she now hung up for other people. Now, the veins shone blue, the nails were cracked and broken, and the skin was rough red from wash water.

With a push of her foot, she edged the basket across the damp grass, hanging each article of clothing so that the wooden clothespins would not leave a mark. Smoothing out the young mistress's school jumper, she felt that she could have endured all her troubles if it weren't for her hands. They were a constant reminder of a finer time, when there had been hope and love. She remembered the way the soft, pale fingers had stroked Mannie's chest; the way they had clutched the handkerchief when the news from the plant came.

Not one to feel sorry for herself for long, she shook out the last article of wash and almost smiled to herself. There was a certain pleasure in hanging the Mrs.'s bloomers in the wind for all to see. How improper!

A flock of Canada geese flew overhead, honking noisily, heading home. The fresh laundry crackled in the wind. The basket was empty. She bent over to pick it up, each hand strongly grasping a handle. It was so light now that its burden had been taken away. With the basket resting on her hip, she turned to see the starched clothes salute the arrival of the new season.

Tour to highlight local artists

Spend an entertaining Sunday afternoon supporting local art and artists while riding a trolley through the historic streets of Northville and Plymouth during the first Holiday Gallery Tour Sunday, Nov. 10.

Tour hours are noon to 5 p.m. J. Giordano Studio of Northville, in conjunction with D & M Art Studio and Cooperative Gallery of Plymouth, organized the tour of 11 galleries in the two communities. Tickets are $10 and can only be bought in advance.

"We wanted to pull together the communities of Plymouth and Northville to show that art is alive and flourishing," said Julie Giordano, event coordinator and owner of J. Giordano Studio.

"Because of the economy and cuts in Michigan's budget for arts funding, it's time for us to rally around each other and the community, supporting the communities and the arts."

The tour begins in Northville at historic Mill Race Village. After boarding the trolley, art lovers will travel to Plymouth, where they will visit seven galleries.

Northville gallery stops are J. Giordano Studio, Atrium Gallery, Painter's Place and Tiffany Art Glass. Galleries participating in the tour through Plymouth's downtown and Old Village area are D & M Art Studio and Cooperative Gallery, Native West, Penniman Showcase of Art and Crafts, Chameleon Gallery, Frameworks, Wild Wings and the Plymouth Community Arts Council's Art Rental Gallery on the second floor of the Dunning-Hough Library.

"Gallery stops are 20 to 25 minutes long and there will be progressive snacking at each gallery along the way. The galleries offer everything from photo-realistic portraits to the Southwest art at Native West," Giordano said.

"Chameleon and Atrium exhibit contemporary art. Tiffany Stained Glass has beautiful Tiffany-style lamps. Penniman Showcase features fine art and decorative crafts. Carolyn Dunphy of the Painter's Place just returned from France. She'll have watercolors that she painted at Monet's gardens in Giverny," Giordano said.

"D & M will offer demonstrations by Jim DeArmond, who'll be doing airbrush, and Hugh Burley, who will be painting," said Sharon Dillenbeck of D & M Art Studio.

"This is going to be a fun tour. We're really getting excited. We have nice art places and we wanted to let the public know what they have with the local art and artists."

Along with the gallery of artworks done in a variety of media at D & M Dillenbeck will have hand-painted ornaments priced at $5 for small bulbs, $10 for the large.

Entertainment will be provided at the Art Rental Gallery in Plymouth by wind instrumentalist Gary Cooper and Friends. They will perform classical and jazz music.

"This would be a good idea to do a little Christmas shopping," said Nancy Pilon, Plymouth Community Arts Council tour coordinator.

The art Rental Gallery will have originally designed Christmas cards and desk calendars at $10 apiece.

"Our main purpose is to showcase our rental gallery. We want people to know they can choose from a large variety of artwork and prints here for just $5 a month," Pilon said.

Ten pieces of original artwork will be given away in a drawing to buyers of tour tickets.

"The tour is a welcome addition to the Western Wayne County area. The whole idea is wonderful, the concept of showcasing entirely different types of galleries," said Scott Smith, Penniman Showcase owner.

"All of the galleries are totally unique. There's not one gallery that repeats the other's inventory. We sell only crafts we refer to as three-dimensional, and we only sell American-made work."

Chameleon Gallery owner Denni

The historic streets of Northville and Plymouth will be the venue for a tour of local art galleries, including Tiffany Art Glass (above) this weekend.

Englehart is excited about the tour because it will bring the communities of Northville and Plymouth together in support of the arts.

"It's going to be fun to work with Northville and share in this special event to showcase visual art establishments. Every gallery is so different and unique."

"Chameleon's emphasis is contemporary, with over 150 artists represented, 25 of them from Michigan

We like to emphasize glass and ceramics."

Art prices on the tour range on the average of $4 to $500 with some up to $2,000. The tour concludes with a closing reception hosted by the Northville Arts Commission at Mill Race Village.

Giordano sees the afternoon promoting "good fellowship. We need to band together as local galleries and artists."

If your name is Ethel and you work at the business center in Detroit Metropolitan Airport, you have my eternal gratitude.

The last thing I need in the Caribbean is an old, stained winter jacket, the kind you shovel snow in but wouldn't wear anywhere else, not even to the supermarket.

It was chilly when I left home at 6:30 a.m. on Saturday morning, and all I wanted was something to keep me warm in the car on the way to the airport.

As I grabbed the old red jacket from the hall closet, a voice in my head said "don't leave it on when you get out of the car."

Obviously I wasn't listening.

Obviously my husband Micky doesn't notice what I wear. It's his jacket, the sleeves hang down over my hands, so why didn't he notice that I was still wearing it when he gallantly carried my over-packed suitcase to the Delta Air Lines counter and waved me goodbye.

It was a busy morning, everybody lined up waiting to board a plane to Walt Disney World.

I hadn't been in line for more than a few minutes before I started getting warm. That's when I noticed that I was standing in line between a Micky Mouse shirt and a straw hat with a very warm, lined, winter jacket hanging over my hands.

Nobody at the airline counter had time to help me get rid of it. The agent told me that the lockers available in the terminal were cleaned out every 24 hours.

The girl at the news stand gave me a plastic shopping bag to carry it in. The two sales clerks chatting away in the only open gift shop were not inclined to help.

The clock was ticking. I was there, after all, to catch a plane.

I went upstairs to the airport offices, still closed early on a Saturday morning.

I went to the post office counter, closed on a Saturday morning.

I was heading downstairs to the baggage counter when I spotted the business center. Ethel didn't have big envelopes either, but Ethel cared. She offered to hold the jacket for my return, but my return flight was due in at 10 p.m., after she closed.

Ethel found two old envelopes and some tape and helped me make a package. She offered to take the package to the post office, repackage it if necessary, call my husband and tell him to pick it up. In short, to do whatever was necessary to take it off my hands.

So here I am, aboard a Delta flight to Orlando and Nassau, where I will not have a single thing to wear if I have to shovel snow.

The annual Detroit Ski Show has moved. It will be held Friday, Nov. 15, from 6-11 p.m.; Saturday, Nov. 16, from noon to 10 p.m.; and Sunday, Nov. 17, from noon to 6 p.m. at the Lad broke Detroit Race Course, 28001 Schoolcraft in Livonia.

The show will include a ski sale, ski exhibits, and floor skiing demonstrations on a revolving deck, as well as films, ski celebrities, rollerblade demonstrations and ski technique talks.

Tickets cost $6 for adults and $2 for children six to 12 years old, at the door. Call 332-5050 for information.

So what's a kid to do in Las Vegas?

Parents will find lots of activities for youngsters in 'Casino City'

By MARY QUINLEY
Special Writer

Las Vegas, Nevada: The signs in the gambling casinos read: PERSONS UNDER THE AGE OF TWENTY-ONE ARE NOT ALLOWED IN THE GAMING AREA.

Take the kids anyway.

There are lots of things for youngsters to do in Las Vegas. Stay at one of the numerous themed hotels: Circus Circus, Mirage, or Excalibur.

Circus Circus caters to kids. Acrobats, trapeze artists and trained animal shows perform under the big top daily, beckoning young customers to shoot-the-hoop or knock down bowling pins while parents relax in the Horse-A-Round carousel bar within sight of the midway.

A tropical forest of waterfalls, palm trees and lagoons welcomes Mirage visitors. Behind the lobby's front desk sits a 20,000 gallon saltwater aquarium filled with sharks, rays and pufferfish. You can view the bottlenose dolphins through an underground glass window at the Dolphin Habitat.

The Mirage also houses several white tigers, which star in Siegfried & Roy, an illusionist act.

A medieval motif at the Excalibur features a moat, drawbridge, stone turrets and moving walkway, all of them alive with jugglers, madmagicians and magicians.

Tips on getting to Las Vegas

Darlene Leader of Leader Travel in Brighton sends her clients to Las Vegas on Northwest Airlines packages, or on three-, four- or seven-day charters from either Key Tours or Hamilton, Miller, Hudson & Fayne.

Charters sell either "air-only" or packages that include air, transfers and hotels.

"Northwest flies four times a day in both directions. The advantage is that you can fly at the time of your choice and you can take the red-eye home at 11:45 p.m. and arrive home at 6 a.m. That gives you a very full day in Las Vegas.

"Northwest packages are comparable, sometimes higher than the charters, which go Monday to Friday, Thursday to Sunday or Friday to Monday.

"Charter rates are under $350 if you stay at the Excalibur, under $450 at the Mirage. Sometimes charters are delayed, but that is offset by the slightly lower price."

Leader tells her clients to explore some of the lesser-known attractions of Las Vegas.

"Go to Binion's Horseshoe Casino and see $1 million in U.S. $10,000 banknotes hanging between sheets of bulletproof glass.

"Bonnie Springs Ranch is 20 miles away and has guided horseback rides and an unusual petting zoo.

"The Imperial Palace auto collection includes 200 classic and historic automobiles. Nearby attractions include Hoover Dam, Lake Mead and Laughlin, known as Little Las Vegas on the Colorado River."

lights.

"King Arthur's Tournament" features jousting, sword fights and romance during dinner at the Excalibur.

Some shows feature topless performers, so ask first.

You can enjoy a 24-hour bowling alley; visit slides, pools and wave machines in the Wet 'n' Wild water park; explore Ripley's Believe It Or Not; Guinness World of Records Museum or the popular Liberace Museum.

Walk through the Museum of Natural History and view the animated dinosaur demonstrations.

If you crave "music that soothes the soul" go to the Hard Rock Cafe. The walls are smothered with guitars, drums, photographs and music memorabilia from recognized artists.

With a little planning and a sack full of quarters for slot machines and arcade games, this desert town guarantees family fun.

Inexpensive meals are available round the clock, buffet breakfasts start at $1.99. Hotels accommodate kids in their dining rooms.

You've gotta be kidding! A Vegas wedding?

By MARY QUINLEY
Special Writer

I admit it — I was skeptical. When my younger brother, John "J.D." Diroff, and his fiancée, Suzy Norton, announced Las Vegas wedding plans, reactions were mixed.

Why Las Vegas?
"Why not?" they said.

They kidded around for a long time and finally they did it. This month Mr. and Mrs. John Diroff will move into their new home in South Lyon. Their wedding day was May 4, 1991, at high noon.

Suzy was bewildered when she encountered other brides lingering around the Circus Circus chapel. "This is my wedding day!" she mumbled.

The Chapel of the Fountain, hosting 30-40 Saturday marriages, is tucked discreetly away on the mezzanine floor at Circus Circus.

Family and friends from Arizona, California, Michigan and Nevada enjoyed the comfortable, intimate atmosphere. In 15 minutes, John and Suzy were proclaimed husband and wife in a solemn ritual performed by a non-denominational minister.

Applause, happy tears and lots of hugs completed the ceremony.

Contemplating a Las Vegas wedding? The procedure to obtain a marriage license is simple. Bring $27.50 and your driver's license to the downtown City County Building. You will complete a simple questionnaire.

There are no blood tests or AIDS counseling. You can arrange a no-frills "I do" service or a lavish, limo escorted ceremony.

The Circus Circus package chosen by the Diroff couple included chapel fee, garter, bouquet and boutonniere, bottle of champagne, video tape, photographs and minister.

Cost: approximately $250.
Extras are available.

In a hurry? The Little White Chapel, located on the strip, offers a 24-hour drive-up wedding window. "WHO'S NEXT? CEREMONIES PERFORMED IMMEDIATELY," says the sign outside the tiny white brick structure. For $25 come as you are — and never leave the car!

Need a witness? No problem. Arrangements can be made.

Forget your wedding dress? Relax. Wedding chapels are prepared — even if you're not.

"Whether we had married in Las Vegas, Michigan or Timbuktu, it was still our wedding day!" says the newest Mrs. Diroff.

Clearly, I was mistaken. The Diroff wedding, Las Vegas-style, was a warm and special experience. Congratulations, John and Suzy!

Local woman hits the jackpot

By DENISE BAHS

It was three o'clock in the morning when Sue Leja of Millford hit the jackpot in Las Vegas last spring.

She had been playing the machines all night, so she almost didn't put that last quarter in the slot.

"The slot machine started flashing, blinking and beeping!" she said.

When the excitement was over, Sue had won $2,500.

The crowd looked on with envy. The security guard rushed over to inspect the machine. The next thing I knew, I had $2,500 cash in my hand. The guard walked me to a safety deposit box in our hotel.

Sue has visited Las Vegas before and has learned that the only way to come home ahead is to budget your gambling money.

"Decide how much money to take each night and don't stray from that amount," she said.
"I budget $100 a day."

"We like to go casino hopping. My favorites are the smaller casinos such as Barbary Coast and O'Shea's. We like to gamble when the casinos are less crowded in the middle of the night."

"One advantage to playing the casinos is you drink free, but this can be dangerous as it is easy to spend money after a few drinks."

Northville retains Baseline Jug, 24-14

Mustangs overcome 14-0 first-half deficit

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN
Staff Writer

Maybe Northville High School should build a special trophy case to permanently house the "Baseline Jug." After all, the traveling trophy isn't doing much traveling.

Introduced by The Northville Record and Novi News in 1988, the Jug goes to the winner of the annual Northville Novi football clash. But for the fourth straight season since its introduction, the Wildcats failed to gain possession of it. The Mustangs made sure of that last Friday (Nov. 1) by overcoming a two touchdown deficit and beating host Novi 24-14 in a very emotional and hard hitting contest.

"The rivalry seems to be getting more and more intense every year," Wildcat mentor John Osborne said.

Unlike a year ago, there wasn't an MHSAA playoff berth on the line, but that didn't take away from the ferocity of the game.

"It was a very physical game," Mustang Coach Darrel Schumacher said. "Novi gave us everything we expected and then some. We expected a war, and we got it."

Northville bungled its way through much of the first half, and that provided Novi with the opportunity and the momentum that led to a 14-0 lead with six minutes remaining before the intermission. But the Mustangs woke up late in the second quarter, scored two quick touchdowns, and then added 10 unanswered points in the final 12 minutes of play to pull it out.

"I thought we made some dumb mistakes, especially early in the game," Schumacher admitted. "But once we geared up mentally, we responded very well."

Wildcat receiver Randy Naumann thrilled the home crowd with a 24 yard first-quarter touchdown run and then set up Novi's second score with a run and reception that covered 36 yards total. But the Northville defense regrouped, and shut out the "Cats the rest of the way."

"Our kids played very well, but (Northville) has great strength on offense and they are dangerous right to the end," Osborne said. "All in all, we made a good accounting for ourselves."

It looked like it was going to be Novi's day right from the start. The Mustangs took the opening kickoff and marched inside the Wildcat 30 before turning the ball over on downs.

Several minutes later, Novi linebacker Matt Kobe sacked quarterback Ryan Huzjak and that forced a Northville punt out of its own end zone and into the wind. The Wildcats took over just 29 yards from paydirt and three plays later, Naumann took it in untouched on a misdirection play.

"The strength of our formation is to one side, so we added the inside handoff play to Naumann to try and keep the defense honest, so they just can't key on Kobe," Osborne explained. "He has a nice knack for running the play."

On the next possession, the Mustangs moved into Novi territory, but Kevin Shaw fumbled the ball on the eighth play of the drive, and Ron Kane recovered. The Wildcats failed to move the ball and were forced to punt, but Northville's Rob Subotich was whistled for his second roughing the kicker call of the game, and that gave Novi new life. Nine plays later,

Northville's Danny Walsh goes high into the air to grab one of four pass interceptions throw by Novi quarterback Ryan McCarthy.

Kobe barreled into the end zone from a yard out and then ran in the two-point conversion to make it 14-0 with 6:44 remaining. The key play in the drive was an eight-yard pass reception by Mike Borashko on fourth and five at the 15.

But the Mustangs quickly wrestled away the momentum. A botched squib kick gave Northville the ball near midfield and Huzjak needed just four plays to score. He hit Subotich with a key 19-yard gain on a screen pass and then found Kevin Shaw for a 15-yard scoring strike.

The Mustangs threatened to tie the game soon after that, but a questionable call at the goal line helped the Wildcats temporarily preserve the 14-7 lead. On the play, Subotich appeared to break the plane of the goal line before the ball came loose but the officials ruled a Novi touch-back when Naumann pounced on the ball.

"I felt like the (controversy) was a wake-up call for us," Schumacher said. "Ryan (Huzjak) was very upset, but he channeled that frustration into determination."

With 1:17 remaining, Northville got the ball back and marched 59 yards in eight plays. Huzjak connected with wideout Jamie Miller on passes of 26, 12 and 12 to move inside the Novi 10 with 39 seconds left. He then found a well-covered Danny Walsh in the right corner of the end zone with no time left on the clock.

"That catch by Danny was incredible," Schumacher said, and Osborne agreed that the last-second score was crucial. "It was a very big play," he said. "It had a great deal to do with momentum."

Cagers extend win streak to 4

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN
Staff Writer

Don't let Northville girls basketball coach Ed Kritch tell you there are no let-up weeks during the course of the WLAA season.

His Mustangs prepared for the post-season with a pair of extremely one-sided wins over Farmington and Walled Lake Western. But the truth of the matter is that his squad could have won these two while sleepwalking.

"They are two teams we expect to beat," Kritch admitted. "All we really needed to do was come out and play anywhere near our potential and we'd be OK."

Northville won both games by a combined score of 125-54. The 73-22 triumph over Farmington on Oct. 29 was the most lopsided game of the season, but the 52-32 win against the Warriors two days later was equally impressive. According to Kritch, his team didn't play all that well, but still clobbered Western by 20.

"Western has played pretty good in spurts this season, so we felt we'd need a little more intensity against them," Kritch said. "I think we eventually wore them down, even though it wasn't a game where everything was clicking."

Seniors Karen Pump and Kara McNeil combined to score 10 first-quarter points to power the Mustangs to an early 14-5 lead. Two other starters — Bethany MacLean and Laura Apligian — got into foul trouble early in the second quarter, however, and it slowed Northville down. The margin was 23-13 at halftime.

"(Western) was holding the ball, trying to slow down our running game and it seemed to work," Kritch

"(Farmington and Walled Lake Western) are two teams we expect to beat. All we really needed to do was come out and play anywhere near our potential and we'd be OK. . . . If teams aren't committed to running with us and trying to stop our fast break, we end up scoring at will."

ED KRITCH
Basketball coach

admitted. "It was frustrating because we got into four trouble trying to pressure them."

The Mustangs came back strong at the start of the second half, outscoring the Warriors by 10 over the next eight minutes of play. McNeil, Pump and Apligian combined to score 13 of the team's 17 third quarter points.

"We had a nice third quarter, and that pretty much put it away," Kritch said.

Pump led the way with 14 points on 7-for-7 shooting and added eight rebounds and seven assists. McNeil chipped in 13 points and 13 rebounds.

NORTHVILLE 73, FARMINGTON 22: Thanks to a 27-2 first-quarter outburst, this contest was over soon after it began. The Mustangs went on to register its highest point total of the year, and did it with young substitutes like Julie Bermingham playing a key role.

"The most encouraging thing was that it was over after the first quarter, but we still played well the rest of the game," Kritch said. "I started substituting early so everybody on the team played big minutes. Julie (Bermingham), Gretchen (Sander) and Keri (Krupansky) all got quality minutes and their play makes me very encouraged for next year."

The lead ballooned to 33 at half time and 45 at the end of three quarters. Kritch was looking for a win, but not a total demolition.

"Farmington has beaten teams like Farmington Harrison and Livonia Churchill, so it's not like they are the worst team in the league," he said. "That's why it was surprising to me that we were able to absolutely crush them. But if teams aren't committed to running with us and trying to stop our fast break, we end up scoring at will."

"It was a night where we were very good."

McNeil led all scorers with 19 points just over two quarters of play. MacLean scored 10 of her 12 points in the first quarter and Bermingham added 10 points and 11 rebounds off the bench.

Northville (14-3 overall, 8-3 in the WLAA) will take a four-game winning streak into the first round of the conference playoffs on Nov. 8. The opponent, Livonia Franklin, will be out to avenge a 50-49 home loss to the Mustangs on Oct. 24.

"We are seeded fourth in the play offs and Franklin is fifth," Kritch said. "This should be a great game."

The showdown will be played at the Northville gym at 5:30 p.m. Just one victory in any of the three playoff games will give the 1991 Mustangs the best regular season record in school history. Just three more wins the rest of the season (including district play) will break the school record for most wins in a season (16).

Mustang girls turn rebuilding season into a winner

What started off as a rebuilding season wound up being a reloading one.

The Northville girls cross country program entered the 1991 season with little, if any, experience, and a lot of question marks. But Coach Nick Dunwoodie and his runners worked hard, the team developed quickly and a winning season was the result.

The Mustangs had an overall mark of 4-3 and were 2-3 in the WLAA Western Division — good for fourth place out of six teams. But more than anything, Northville was competitive, which is something Dunwoodie wasn't sure his team would be prior to the season.

"We lost our whole varsity team to graduation last season, so our group was very young and inexperienced," Dunwoodie said. "Out of 13 kids on our roster, 10 were ninth- or 10th-graders — and only three of those had any running experience."

"After you graduate eight or nine of your top runners like we did, you really don't know what to expect."

Most of the team's dual meet victories came in the first half of the season, but the toughest part of the schedule came later. And according to Dunwoodie, the Mustangs' inexperience became a factor down the stretch.

"We did very well initially, but we struggled at the end when experience plays a big part in the season," he said.

"But overall, it was a good year and we'll get better."

Dunwoodie will have to replace two of his top three runners — Mari Kissenger and Joleen Filkun — who will graduate next spring, but a host of young and talented runners are expected back.

Kissenger was a rookie runner despite being a senior and paced the squad for the first half of the season. But a knee injury slowed her down and she faded as the season wore on. Filkun had been hampered by injuries as a sophomore and junior, but this season she ran injury-free, cut her best time under the 23 minute barrier, and wound up as the team's No. 3 runner.

The only other senior on the squad was Julie Buser, who wound up missing a half dozen races due to illness.

"Our future could be bright because we have a lot of potential," Dunwoodie said. "But the key is how hard these kids are willing to work — especially in the off season."

Freshman Laura Brown could be a star in the making by the end of the season, she was Northville's top runner. Dunwoodie is also optimistic about sophomore runners like Michelle Splan, Laura Thomas and Rachel Fedel, and freshmen Adrienne Browne and Angie Groves. Splan and Fedel show great potential and Thomas has been a model of consistency, but Browne and Groves have been hampered by injuries. Between the two, they missed a total of nine meets.

Tankers battle Chargers to tie

When the Northville and Livonia Churchill swim teams meet, it is usually one of the best contests of the season for either the boys or the girls.

That was certainly the case on Oct. 31, when the Mustang and Charger girls battled to an exciting 91-91 draw. The tie ended Northville's five-meet win streak, but the Mustangs still boast a fine 9-1-1 mark.

It was a classic battle between two evenly matched teams, and it — appropriately — came down to the last race, the 400 yard freestyle relay. Churchill took first in the event, but Northville added a second and third to salvage the deadlock. It was a microcosm of the entire meet as the Chargers won seven of 12 races while the Mustangs kept pace with superior depth, grabbing seven seconds and seven thirds.

The only double winner was Jodie Wesley, who notched her fifth state-meet qualifying cut in the 100 backstroke and also improved her season best time in the 200 IM. Then rest of the individual wins came from Teri Juhasz in the 100 breaststroke and Beth Frayne in diving. The 200 medley relay team — with Megan Goble, Juhasz, Wesley and Sheila Osborne — also took first-place honors.

The Northville seconds came from Goble in the 200 freestyle and the 100 backstroke, Brenda Newton in the 50 freestyle and the 100 butterfly and Daneen Lang in the 500 freestyle.

NORTHVILLE 121, NOVI 65: The Wildcats may be the unofficial Kensington Valley Conference champs this season, but that didn't seem to impress the Mustangs on Oct. 29. Northville used superior depth as well as wins in nine of the 12 events to turn back host Novi.

The two-time winners were Wesley in the 200 IM and the 100 butterfly, and Goble in the 200 freestyle and the 100 backstroke. The other firsts came from Frayne in diving, Daneen Lang in the 500 freestyle and three relay teams. The 200 medley relay team featured Lang, Juhasz, Wesley and Osborne, the 200 freestyle relay squad included Osborne, Tammy Cook, Kathy Lang and Newton, and the 400 freestyle relay unit featured Wesley, Goble, Juhasz and Newton.

The Mustangs runner-up efforts came from Allison Sieving in the 200 freestyle and the 100 backstroke, Juhasz in the 200 IM, Amy Cristoff in diving, Newton in the 100 butterfly and Katrina Heckmeyer in the 100 breaststroke.

In all, Northville went 1-2 in more than half of the events. The team will host Plymouth Canton today (Nov. 7), and a win there would guarantee the Mustangs at least a share of the WLAA Western Division title.

Gabrys analyzes season

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN
Staff Writer

Ed Gabrys doesn't want to make predictions anymore — but it's easy to understand why.

After saying he thought the 1991 Northville boys cross country team would be much improved and very competitive, Gabrys watched helplessly as three of his top runners either left the team or were severely hampered with injuries and illness. Needless to say, it had a negative effect on the program.

"We didn't have much depth to start with, so losing some of our top runners hurt even more," Gabrys said. "We didn't start the season where we thought we'd be."

Before the first official dual meet of the season, the Mustangs suffered a severe blow when senior Steve Coon — the team's No. 1 performer and State Meet qualifier — quit the team. Junior Parag Parikh and senior Doug Huntington were already questionable due to medical problems.

"Out of the five guys we thought were returning, we only had two that were 100 percent," Gabrys said.

Parikh made a valiant comeback from a serious bout with Hodgkin's disease, but it was clear he would not be able to match his times from a year earlier when he was the No. 3 runner. He still practiced and competed in meets, and was later selected as the recipient of the "Guts Award" by his teammates.

"Parag is really an example for the other kids not to give up," Gabrys said. "I give him a lot of credit."

Huntington suffered a knee injury in the summer and ended up missing two thirds of the season. He was never 100 percent.

The highlight of the season came in mid September when Northville registered two wins in three days. It wound up being the team's only victories of the season.

"We did have one exceptional week," Gabrys said. "Looking back, I thought we peaked too early. That can happen with an inexperienced team. You have to learn how to pace yourself, not just in a meet but for the whole season."

Junior Rob Kukainis was one of the few experienced runners to return for Northville from '90.

fenced runners on the squad. They were among Northville's top seven performers and will be expected to fill that role next fall. But the top runners were underclassmen like Jeff Zwiesler, Diasuke Ishikawa and Mark Ritter. Those three took turns as the Mustang's top runner, with Juniors Rob Kukainis and Chris Smith ended up being the only experienced runners leading the way until a knee problem slowed him down.

"We should have a nice corps of returnees next season but I'd hate to predict anything," Gabrys said. "We do have the potential to be a legitimate, competitive team."

She was a multi sport standout in high school, and now KAREN BAIRD is doing the same in college. The former Northville star was named to the Michigan Intercollegiate Athletic Association (MIAA) women's golf all-league team. As a member of the Adrian College squad, Baird tied for fourth place in the MIAA with a tournament average of 92.0. Last season, Baird also lettered on Adrian's two MIAA championship teams: basketball and softball. She earned All-MIAA honors as a shortstop on the softball squad and led the team in hitting (.393) and RBIs (21). As a point guard for the Lady Bulldogs, Baird set a single season record for three pointers (39) and averaged 8.5 points per game.

AMY GOODE, a freshman for the Kalamazoo College women's soccer team from Northville, is posting some excellent offensive statistics for the Hornets. Goode has 19 points on the season with seven goals and five assists. In early October, Goode notched a hat trick and had one assist in a 9-0 victory over Albion College. The Hornets boast an overall record of 10-1-1. Goode is the daughter of John and Carol Goode of Northville.

ROZANN STAKNIS, a 1990 graduate of Northville High School, has been accepted on the Michigan State University girls' bowling team. Staknis has competed in bowling leagues since the age of 7. In high school, she earned varsity letters in softball and cross country. In 1986 and 1987, Staknis won the Coca Cola singles bowling scholarship tournament. She later represented the state of Michigan in Memphis, Tenn., for the National Coca Cola Scholarship Tournament. The MSU bowling team will be competing in such places as Columbus (Ohio) and Chicago.

SOCCER: Sting goes 3-5-0

BOYS UNDER 10: The Northville Sting select team is the youngest of the premier teams in the city. In their first season, the Sting labored through some difficult times, but managed to notch three wins in the final four contests for an overall record of 3-5-0. Members of the team include Erik Anderson, Travis Bliss, Garrett Brun, Brandon Bethell, Greg Brazunas, Eric Cooley, Chris Kneisel, Andy Medonis, Eric Nadeau, Chris Price, P.J. Schlosser, Jason Santieu, Scott Shumsky, David Tovey, Tony Wampler and Scott Weickel. The team was coached by Bob Cummins, Matt Ashby, Jenny Turnage and Tom Ortmann.

GIRLS UNDER 10: The Northville Express topped Livonia No. 2, 4-1. The winning team's goals came from Amy Guinan, Katie Lemieux, Meredith Hasse and Janel Hasse. Livonia No. 1 handed Northville United a 4-0 defeat. Laura Kozub and Kathleen McLaughlin were the MVPs.

BOYS UNDER 12: Northville Sting '81 notched its first win of the season, beating Farmington 2-0. Greg Rankin and Keith Sebastian scored for the winners. Northville Sting '80 battled the Troy Terminators to a 1-1 draw and finished the season at 5-3-2. J.R. Graff scored for Northville while Josh Brugeman and Nick Straman were the MVPs. Gabe Cristof scored twice to power Northville United past Farmington No. 1, 4-0. Keith Droz and Michael Cristof also scored for United.

Matt Schlosser (2) and Armand Samouclin notched goals as the Northville Rowdies blanked Farmington No. 5, 3-0. David Handley and John Julow were the defensive standouts. Northville Arsenal edged Livonia 2-1. Shawn Guinana and Larry Lin scored for the locals.

GIRLS UNDER 12: Novi shut out Northville Arsenal 4-0. Erin Bowdell and Mandy Sheppard were the MVPs. Carne Wasalaski's goal was all Northville United could muster as Livonia cruised to a 5-1 triumph. Jaclyn Ansara was cited for her fine play.

GIRLS UNDER 13: Northville Sting captured the Little Caesars Premier Division championship with a 2-0 victory over the Redford Blue Stars. The Sting finished the season with an 8-1-1 record and outscored opponents 25-4. The players include Kristin Baja, Meghan Cautillo, Gina Chiasson, Sarah Crawford, Amanda DeKoker, Kirsty Greer, Lex Hopkins, Lyndsay Huot, Jessica Kenny, Denise Larabell, Patricia Mazzola, Lauren Metaj, Dana Novara, Gwen Osborne, Rebecca Pearson, Carla Polinelli, Lisa Tolstedt and Tracie Vock. The team was coached by Bill Tolstedt and Jim Hopkins.

GIRLS UNDER 14: Michelle Mackinder scored twice to pace the Northville Express to a 6-0 triumph against Livonia No. 2. The win sealed the division championship for the Express. Beth Luebkert, Sarah Gregerson, Sheila O'Sullivan and Erin Vogel also scored for the winners. Farmington No. 1 turned back Northville United 2-0. Angela Kuriban and Katie Rempel were the MVPs.

BOYS UNDER 19: Canton was too much for Northville Arsenal as the Plymouth team won the match 4-1 on Oct. 27. Mike Hamilton scored Northville's only goal. Jay Tharp's two goals helped Northville Arsenal crush Farmington 6-1. Eric Abbey, Brandon Robison, Mike Hamilton and Mark McCarthy also scored for Arsenal.

GIRLS UNDER 19: Livonia topped Northville Arsenal 3-1. Debbie Schultz and Lindsay Peine were the most valuable performers.

How to choose health club, trainer

By DEBRA LEE BALDWIN
Special Writer

The health club you choose should fit you like a comfortable pair of running shoes.

Of course you should listen to friends' recommendations and read up on what competing clubs have to offer — but most importantly, you should visit the clubs you're considering before you sign up.

Check to see if they fit in these areas:

- Proximity to work or home. The ideal club will be conveniently located; if it's on your way to work, you may find it easier to go on a regular basis.

- Membership fees you can afford. Watch out for high-pressure sales tactics, contracts with lots of fine print and "lifetime" memberships you may not use. (Better to join first on a temporary basis, to see if you'll stick with it.)

- Classes you know you'll enjoy. If you're into aerobics, stay and watch several levels of classes. Evaluate the instructors, the ambience, the space available and the flooring — it should be wood or cushioned to absorb shock.

- People you feel comfortable with. This includes the staff as well as the members. If you're young and single, you'll be attracted to a different group that you will if you're middle aged and married.

- Availability of equipment. Be sure to visit at the time of day you normally would be using the facilities. How crowded is it? How long would you have to wait to use the more popular equipment?

- Types of equipment. Try out both Nautilus and Universal exercise equipment to see which you prefer, and find out if the club regularly updates its equipment to meet the changing interests of members. (Stair-climbing machines, for example, are currently in demand.)

- Quality and availability of instructors. The more individualized attention you are offered, the better. Interview trainers, watch them work with clients, and check credentials.

CLUB TRENDS

Mega clubs, with their high turnover rates, have become a thing of the past.

Today, a successful club's focus is on making the experience efficient as well as enjoyable for members.

Knowing that time is of the essence, clubs that cater to busy executives offer amenities that help clients get ready to exercise and to return to work: shavers, shaving cream, towels, blow driers, curling irons — even T-shirts and shorts, and laundry service.

From weights to classes to stationary equipment, gyms can be a great place to get fit.

"We see to it they don't have to bring anything," says the manager of one Southern California executive health club.

Hospitality is the key, the emphasis is less on quantity of members and more on quality of service, with the trend toward individualized attention.

Which is not to say clubs are immune to gimmicks (or innovations) that attract the curious.

For example, some are installing flotation tanks filled with skin temperature water in which in which 1,000 pounds or so of epsom salts have been dissolved. Members who float experience what some call "the ultimate relaxation of mind and body."

The coaches at some clubs are computerized. In the form of talking exercise machines, these robotic trainers are programmed with the member's name, goals for gaining or losing weight, and toning or building muscles. Using a 1,000-word vocabulary, the machines talk to the person during a workout.

Residents of the Washington D.C. area are availing themselves of mobile fitness trailers, 32 feet long and loaded with $30,000 worth of high-tech exercise equipment. "Fitness Fleet" charges from $40-$60 per hour, and participants claim the motivation of having a fitness center come to them is unbeatable.

More and more hotels and resorts are adding spa and fitness centers. According to Bill Tomicki, publisher for the Entrepreneur travel newsletter, "For both business and leisure travelers, a well-equipped fitness center with knowledgeable personal instruction is often the most significant amenity a hotel can offer."

THE PERFECT TRAINER

Moviestars and high-profile personalities aren't the only ones availing themselves of the services of personal trainers.

For many people, these fitness specialists represent status symbols. Others see them as a necessary catalyst for motivation.

In many clubs, personal trainers cost extra; at others, their services are included in the fees.

Keep in mind that no standards govern the profession. You should ask about degrees and credentials, but your ultimate decision will probably be based on rapport. You'll choose someone you like, whom you believe will help you achieve your goals — with minimum time and discomfort.

Because the more your trainer knows about you the better off you'll be, don't hesitate to provide medical information — including the name and phone number of your personal physician.

The trainer should not only be informed of your health record, he or she should report your progress to your doctor at regular intervals.

Another advantage to working with a personal trainer is that you'll learn how to exercise properly — with greater efficiency and less potential for injury.

If your primary concern is controlling what you eat — with an eye to fitness, well-being and loss of weight — consider working with a personal nutrition counselor. A nutritionist will help tailor your food intake to conform to your long-term goals, and keep tabs on your progress, providing guidance, encouragement and emergency support.

Slow Drains?

You'll never have a slow running, or clogged drain again!

The secret? Clean drains don't run slow. The "slows", or periodic clogs are signals that a thick layer of "gook" is choking your pipes. This gook coats the entire length of your pipe from sink to sewer, or septic.

Conventional drain openers cannot remove this build up. Even a small tunnel through the waste lets them flow through the pipe, leaving the gook behind!

Now, with just a few minutes each month, you can easily clean out your pipes like new. and KEEP them clean with Plumb Clean. It clings, and penetrates deep into the gook. No other product has the Plumb Clean formula. That is what allows it to liquefy even years of build up. Plumb Clean will clean the entire length of your pipes. It will make your drains run like new when used as directed. This penetrating action is so revolutionary, Plumb Clean is money-back guaranteed! Don't be confused. Plumb Clean is the brand with the guarantee right on the label.

Save Money. A 1 lb. jar of Plumb Clean holds up to 41 drain treatments. It costs only about 35¢ per treatment.

Independent laboratory studies show Plumb Clean more effectively breaks down organic waste than all other products tested. So, if your drains have the "slows", get safe, guaranteed Plumb Clean today!

How to make your house more salable

By James M. Woodard
Copley News Service

The right interior decoration of your home could expedite its sale and nudge the price higher. It also could improve your health.

That's the opinion of California decorator Nancy Dale. The projects she handles are about evenly split between residential and commercial properties.

Homes being marketed should be decorated with soft "colors from nature," Dale said. Rooms should be cheerful and uncrowded. Pictures and furniture items usually need to be weeded out, with all personal photos removed. Generally, the home should be untied from its current owner and made as appealing as possible to a prospective buyer.

"The owner family will soon be packing for a move anyway," Dale said. "It's better that they pack a lot of their stuff before the marketing process begins so prospects can see the home's architecture and envision rooms as their own."

"Being an interior decorator, I can recommend marketing-

The Billings offers cozy-spaciousness

By James McAlexander
Copley News Service

Looking for a home that's both cozy and spacious? The Billings may be just the ticket.

A gambrel, or barn-shape, roof line and redwood siding give this three-story home the look of a cabin you would expect to find dwarfed by tall conifers at the end of a snowy mountain trail. Building the Billings as a year-round home just might allow its owners the fantasy of being on full-time vacation.

On the main level, open beams stretching up the side walls and to the peak of the high vaulted ceiling of the living room bring the cabin flavor inside. Most shared activities will take place in the great room on this level. Due to the inward sloping interior walls created by the exterior roof line, the kitchen counter along the outside wall is exceptionally deep. Sliding glass doors in the dining room open onto a wide deck.

A luxurious master suite fills the entire upper level, while two additional bedrooms, a bathroom and a large family room occupy the basement space below. Wide hearths at the far end of both the family room and living room offer warmth, color and an open invitation to spend leisurely hours watching the flames. Each comes complete with a wood box easily large enough to hold a week's supply of wood.

Exposed beams also grace the walls and ceilings of the master suite. The sleeping room is separated from the high ceiling of the living room by nothing more than a wide balcony railing that stretches along the widest edge of the sleeping area. While waiting for sleep to come, this allows the luxury of watching the flickering shadows from the fireplace below as they play across the bedroom ceiling.

For a study plan of the Billings (400-33), send $7.50 to Landmark Designs, c/o HomeTown Newspapers, 323 E. Grand River Ave., Howell, MI 48843. (Be sure to specify plan name and number when ordering.)

Tips for winterizing your home

By Maria Stuart
Staff Writer

Unless you actually enjoy Jack Frost nipping at your nose, there are plenty of easy-to-accomplish items that you can do to help make your home warmer and cozier, and help you get the most for your heating dollars.

Some of these items do require the services of a professional, but from the bottom of the house to the top, there is plenty that even the most unhandy of homeowners can accomplish.

One job that should definitely be handled by a professional is the annual furnace maintenance.

A furnace is a machine, and, like any machine, it needs proper maintenance to function at its best. Most experts agree that an annual inspection and cleaning will help keep your house warmer and your heating bills down.

"There are different things that need to be done to different kinds of furnaces," said Tom Boylan, president of Lakeside Service Co. in Brighton. "We recommend that furnaces be professionally cleaned and the motor oiled once a year."

Boylan explained that with gas furnaces, heat exchangers must be inspected for cracks that allow gas fumes to seep into the home. Oil furnaces must be tuned so that they will not smoke while burning, and electric furnaces should have an annual oil change.

One simple job that the homeowner can do to help the furnace work easier and keep the air inside the house cleaner is to make sure the furnace filter is changed on a regular basis.

Fireplaces also should have annual maintenance. A chemical called creosote, a byproduct of burning, can build up on the walls of fireplaces and in chimneys.

If enough creosote builds up it can ignite, causing a chimney fire, according to Pauline Aldrich, a salesperson at Country Squire in Howell.

"Fireplaces and wood stoves must be cleaned annually," Aldrich said, adding that there are products homeowners can use, such as poles and chimney brushes, to do the job themselves.

Adding insulation to a home is another job that homeowners can easily and safely do themselves.

"We generally recommend that there be 12 inches of insulation in the attic," said Dave Bain, salesperson at Holkins Home Center in Howell. "Most homes probably have six or eight inches already, and the additional insulation can be added easily."

Bain said that he recommends additional insulation be installed in the opposite direction of what is existing to ensure a good barrier against escaping heat.

Windows also are a common source of heat loss, and homeowners can inspect and repair them easily.

One of the easiest ways to tell if air is leaking through a window is to light a candle, stand near the window, blow the candle out and watch the smoke. If it blows about, you know that there is air getting in.

Many windows, especially in older homes, need to be reglazed on a regular basis. Glazing is the caulk-like material inserted at the junction of the window and its frame.

"Sometimes, even if the glaze is just chipped, it can let cold air leak in," Bain said.

And if a window is particularly drafty, and you don't want to pay to replace it right away, plastic insulation kits are available to keep the cold air out, and let the view and sunshine in, according to Bain.

On the outside, plugged up gutters can wreak havoc on roofs. Snow will back up, and moisture can seep in between shingles to the roof below.

Overflowing gutters also can cause the formation of icicles, and the weight of these can sometimes cause the gutters to separate from the roof.

"It makes sense to be sure that gutters are clean," said John Weir, manager of Main's Garden Center in Brighton. "People should also be sensitive as to where the snowy areas of their roofs are and where that snow falls to."

Weir recommends that if snow falls directly onto trees or shrubs, something should be used to deflect it.

"Delicate plants, like rhododendrons, azaleas and holly should be screened with burlap," Weir said.

Another important item to do on the outside is to be sure that leaves are picked up from the lawn.

"Removing the leaves from grass is very important," Weir said. "Leaves suffocate the grass, and rotting leaves can breed fungus. It's best to get them up off the grass."

Weir said that leaves make good mulch for vegetable garden areas, provided that they are broken up.

"This is an excellent time of year to till those leaves into the ground," Weir said. "It's also a great time to transplant trees or shrubs because they are dormant."

Paying attention to windows and insulation and heating units is mostly a matter of common sense.

Homeowners can take care of most of these maintenance chores in a day. When the snow is falling and temperatures dip below zero, you'll be glad you did.

This finger-carved Victorian rocker is worth about $450.

A finger-carved rocker

By James G. McCollam
Copley News Service

ANTIQUES

G. Enclosed is a picture of a rocker that I have. It belonged to my grandparents. I have had it completely restored. I am wondering if you can tell me how old it is and its worth.

A. You have a finger-carved Victorian chair made in the third quarter of the 19th century. It would probably be worth $400 to $500 in good condition.

WELLER POTTERY

Early in the 1870s, Samuel A. Weller started making clay flowerpots decorated with house paint, which he sold door to door in Zanesville, Ohio.

In 1894, he introduced pottery that featured underglaze decoration on a blended brown background. It was marked "Lonhuda." This was followed by a similar but more brittle pottery marked "Louwelsa."

These were followed by "Turado" in 1898. It featured a dark background with a lacy decoration in light colors.

In 1900, he introduced a series decorated with characters from Charles Dickens, naturally called "Dickens Ware."

In the first decade of the 20th century, he produced a similar ware with a high-gloss brown glaze similar to Louwelsa. This was sometimes marked "Aurelian."

Weller brought Jacques Sicard from France in 1902 to produce a beautiful metallic-luster ware. This was made for only five years, and Sicard never divulged his secret formula. This was marked "Sicard-Weller."

A more salable home

enhancing changes to a homeowner, including removal of cherished personal items, that others could not suggest without incurring hurt feelings," Dale said.

In a sense, she serves as a middle agent between the broker and homeowner.

Dale provides a special consulting service for homes being marketed. Her fee of $250 is paid by the owner, broker or shared by both. It is usually paid out of escrow when a sales transaction is closed.

Whether or not a home is being offered for sale, the key trend in today's world of residential interior decorating is a swing back to nature. This involves simple, basic and natural colors, woods, furnishings and decorative items.

"This tends to relax the occupants, making them feel more secure and comfortable," Dale said.

To achieve this objective, truly natural materials are selected—no synthetics. Earth-tone colors are frequently used.

These natural materials not only look good, they also are kinder to the occupant's health. Many synthetic materials and paints actually pollute the house with unhealthy but undetectable fumes, Dale said. A knowledgeable selection is vitally important.

As with most other artistic pursuits, the interior decorator's talent and capabilities stay with the practitioner for life. Melva Wickman, 80, a decorator now residing at a retirement community in Santa Barbara, Calif., remains active in the field.

Wickman assists new residents in planning the furnishing and decorating of their residence to match their individual interests and tastes. She also tries to absorb as much of the furniture they brought from a previous residence as possible. That's often a major challenge.

"Many new residents move to an apartment residence from large homes," Wickman said. "They have collected many museum-quality furniture items, as well as antique silver, glass and china pieces. I try to blend them into the overall decor in the most effective way."

New residents sometimes have a basic traditional or early American design motif in mind, she said. But often they want a certain eclectic variation to a standard plan, such as a splash of Spanish in an otherwise strictly modern decor.

"A well-designed, colorful home gifts us with peace of mind and a happy heart," Wickman said.

Q. What is the "Innovations in Housing" competition?

A. It's an international award program recognizing particularly creative and innovative new home designs. It's sponsored by Better Homes and Gardens magazine and the American Plywood Association.

The 1991 grand award winner is located on the western outskirts of Des Moines, Iowa. The home was selected from about 350 entries at points around the world. It will be featured in future issues of Better Homes and Gardens, Progressive Architecture and Builder magazines.

It's quite a pad, complete with an array of new technologies and creative design elements. For example, it features custom-curved wood beams, energy-efficient windows and a state-of-the-art electronic management system.

The full basement includes a huge media room and a climate-control system that makes the basement as dry, warm and comfortable as the main level.

Q. Is there a good resale market for vacation time-share units?

A. No. Time-share units should be purchased for personal use and enjoyment, not for investment advantage.

Many existing time shares are being offered for about a fifth of their original cost. And buyers are hard to find at those prices. Sometimes owners turn their unit over to an auction company for a quick sale.

At one recent West Coast auction, 83 timeshare units were sold at an average price of $2,341. Individual units sold for as low as $600.

Move To Woods of Novi For Lots of Little Reasons

Interiors by Gorman

You won't find another neighborhood in the Farmington Hills and West Bloomfield areas quite so appealing as Woods of Novi, a value packed new community of single family homes.

Start with Woods of Novi's prized location within Walled Lake's school system which has received national recognition for excellence. Add the wonderful convenience of being just minutes from Twelve Oaks Mall and the 1696-196 and I-275 expressways.

Consider the superior craftsmanship and one-of-a-kind copyrighted plans priced from the $160's. And the fact that when these remarkable homesites are sold one of the region's best values will be gone.

Once you drive out you'll find Woods of Novi just as irresistible as others have. Because, when it comes to where you live, you have your reasons.

A Community By Susan Cohen Associates & Susan Building Corporation

In 1845, a teenager helped free a slave.

Last year, he was kicked out of school for causing racial tension.

It's true. Huck Finn's been banned from many high school classrooms and libraries. But Huckleberry Finn is not the only book. Steinbeck's Of Mice and Men. Vonnegut's Slaughterhouse Five. Even Little Red Riding Hood has been taken out. Every day, more and more books are thrown out of our schools.

But thanks to the 1st Amendment, many are going back on the shelves. Our government can't make a law "abridging the freedom of speech." That means you can read, watch, or listen to whatever you like.

And that means you have to make sure our government keeps this promise. The Promise of your rights.

Find out about your rights. Find out what you can do to keep them.

Call (202) USA-1787 for more information.

Read the Bill of Rights. It's the code you live by.

Archery store covers range of needs

By PAMELA DEAR
Special Writer

If terms such as bowsight, compound, mark, quiver and broadhead are in your sporting vocabulary, you must be an archery enthusiast.

"It's a great sport," Gary Clement said. "It's very challenging to be able to stand there at 20 yards and put five arrows into a bull's-eye."

Gary and his wife, Brenda, are owners of Treestand Archery and Range, an indoor shooting gallery and pro shop located at 182 E. Livingston Road, Highland. Son Randy and daughter Donna Davey are lending a helping hand to this sporting venture, which opened Sept. 25 of this year.

"Everybody that comes in has a positive attitude about the need for something like this around here because there are an awful lot of archery people in the Highland Milford area," Gary said. Brenda explained that what makes the range so special is the fact that it is an indoor range, and that there isn't another around for miles.

The 1,900-square-foot range consists of nine lanes with five different yardages marked — from 20 yards, the state qualifying yardage, down to six yards. Leagues are currently forming for children under age 16, ladies, men and coed teams; leagues are scheduled to begin in November.

There will be designated times posted for open shooting. Lane fees are $3 for one hour and $5 for two hours. An archer must bring in his or her own equipment because rental is not available. There is, however, complete archery equipment, including a selection of bows, arrows, arm guards and other supplies for sale in the pro shop. Instruction is available.

"The advantage of this place is somebody can come in with their bow and say, 'This bow is doing this and this bow is doing that,'" Gary said. "So I've got the range and I can take them out and let them shoot so I could see what is their problem. Most places that just sell the equipment can't do that because they have no place to shoot."

"I've had people come in here that have been to other places and bought their bows, then went into their backyards to shoot and weren't shooting properly. And then when they walked out of here I got them all straightened out," he said with pride.

Gary is an experienced archer who has been involved in both competition and hunting. He is a member of Livingston County Archery Association and the National Field Archery Association.

"Years ago I hunted all the time, then I got away from it due to the family growing up. About a year and a half ago, my brother got me interested in it again," Gary explained. "I enjoyed it so much, but every time I wanted to get some equipment I had to take a drive so far I decided, by golly, to open my own shop."

When not working at the range, Gary drives a 42-wheeler gravel train, and Brenda is a billing clerk in the business office at Huron Valley Hospital.

Gary recommends shooting a bow at an indoor range rather than in a backyard with a bale of straw.

"The arrow goes through the straw and there's the possibility of losing the arrow. But in here, after shooting an 80 or 90 pound bow into these excelsior bales, the arrow will only go in maybe six or eight inches. It stops it cold," he said. "By using a straw bale in the yard, you can also damage your arrows more for the simple reason that it goes all the way through the bale."

"That tears the feathers up and bends the arrow once it hits the ground. Coming in here and shooting, you know the proper yardage and you don't take the chance of damaging your arrows. Once the vanes on the arrows are damaged, then it won't fly properly."

He explained that an archer should be careful to select the right arrow to match the bow. He said the most popular arrow today is an Easton XX75 and the best-selling type of

Know the needs of customers

Zeroing in on key customer groups to attract and serve is crucial when planning your firm's promotional strategy.

Business owners who believe that their products and services appeal to "everyone" are only kidding themselves. This "mass marketing" mentality assumes that any individual or business has the potential of becoming a regular customer, so long as "everyone" has the same opportunity to be reached through promotion.

Nowhere has the ineffectiveness of mass marketing been more apparent than in prime time television advertising. Ten years ago, approximately 92 percent of prime time viewers watched the commercials presented to them; since then, audience share has dropped by nearly 30 percent.

In an article appearing in Business Week magazine, the authors point out that even Procter & Gamble, "the king of mass marketers" is experimenting with various micro marketing techniques to better identify, locate and satisfy new customer markets.

By definition, "mass marketing" promotions attempt to attract large numbers of people at the same time in order to quickly boost sales. Any significant differences that may exist between customer groups is unimportant when promoting to the masses, the goal is to get as much "bang for the buck" over the shortest period of time possible.

On the other hand, micro marketing techniques treat the total customer market as being made up of several small segments with different needs and wants. As a result, it becomes much more effective to develop numerous promotions that appeal to each of these segments and subsequently "pay off" in small increments.

Large organizations that have historically dumped large sums of money into mass advertising and promotions are now realizing what their small business counterparts have known for years. Company management must be able to identify who their customers are, where they come from, and what they want and expect when buying particular goods and services. Once this information is collected, promotional efforts can then be structured to reach specific customer groups through the "right" variety of both media and non-media sources.

To find out "who" makes up a firm's current and potential customer markets does not require high-tech consumer research techniques or mega-bucks computer programs. There are still basically three methods to help identify how customers may be segmented and include demographic, benefits-related, and lifestyle characteristics. The goal is to be able to identify one's key customer groups in ways that are meaningful to the business, while understanding each group's similarities and differences as much as possible.

Next week, we will review these three customer identification techniques and present free data sources to help small businesses with this process.

Mary DiPaolo is a resident of Northville and the owner of MarketTrends, a small business marketing research and promotional consulting firm. She lectures extensively on a variety of marketing topics to professional groups, associations, and non-profit organizations, and has produced two small business television series for MetroVision and WXON-TV20.

Archery shop hits the mark bow is a compound bow.

As far as promoting their new business, Brenda and Gary said that to date the only one who has done any advertising for them is Ted Nugent, a rock entertainer with a reputation as an avid hunter.

"A couple of weeks ago he was on WRIF for a week," Gary said. "I faxed him a note that I opened up a bow shop and I thanked him for his support. Three or four times a day he was plugging the shop on the radio."

Gary mentioned that Nugent has his own line of hunting equipment, manufactured by Martin and he plans to stock some of the merchandise. "We really think he will come in here to say hi," Brenda said.

Although they have not been open very long, the business has been enjoying a good start. "Nothing ventured, nothing gained," Gary said. "So far, it looks like it will be fine. We have been dog-gone busy," he added with a smile.

Treestand Archery and Range is open Monday through Friday, 10 a.m. to 9 p.m., Saturday and Sunday, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. The phone number is 313 889 2031. Gary said he will gladly offer tips to bow hunters on where to find the deer this time of year. "I tell them to go down Livings-ton Road where there is plenty of state land and lots of deer out there. I don't give them the tips on where we go," he laughed.

Boca Grande,
Florida The Way It Once
Was. Boca Bay,
Florida Living
The Way It's Meant To Be.

If you haven't yet found the quiet and charm of old Florida, let us introduce you to Boca Grande, a unique island village suspended in time on Gasparilla Island, just north of Sanibel and the Captivas.

Boca Grande has long been a popular, safe anchorage for those traveling to or from the Florida Keys.

Boca Bay's pedestrian entrance at the foot of Boca Grande's main street.

Miles of bike paths throughout Boca Grande and Boca Bay are a wonderful way to get any where on the island.

Ever conscious of protecting the environment, Boca Bay provides dune walkovers to the calm waters of the Gulf of Mexico.

One of many tranquil settings at Boca Bay.

BOCA GRANDE

Secluded and very private, Boca Grande is a quiet island village lying just north of Sanibel/Captiva on Gasparilla Island between the waters of the Gulf of Mexico and the sheltered estuary of Charlotte Harbor.

Little has changed since the early 1900s. The flavor and tone of the village is preserved in the architecture, as well as in the lifestyle. Tropical, timeless and steeped in cherished traditions, it is truly the singular Florida experience.

Accessible only by a private toll bridge and forever protected by the Florida Legislature's Gasparilla Act, Boca Grande remains today a remote enclave—a seaside retreat which fulfills our vision of what Florida was, and what Florida should be.

Stately banyan trees line Boca Grande's streets. Coconut trees sway in the breeze. Shrimp boats dot the horizon and all varieties of fishing boats fill the surrounding waters. "In season," Boca Grande Pass is where the action is, as sport fishermen flock to the Tarpon Capital of the World.

For over a century, Boca Grande has played host to a discriminating few who have sought out its pristine setting and casual style of living, its easy-going village atmosphere and its quiet seclusion. Unlike the rest of the world, Boca Grande cherishes its past and its remoteness.

Step back into bygone days and experience what will forever be protected for all to enjoy—Boca Grande.

BOCA BAY

Boca Bay was designed to be a community in harmony with Boca Grande . . . preserving the past, creating timeless value and enhancing enjoyment of the future. It harmoniously blends with Boca Grande's casual lifestyle and coastal architecture—strong traditions that have been jealously guarded for generations.

Meandering from Boca Grande's old town center to Boca Grande Pass, Boca Bay is a village of lushly landscaped neighborhood clusters meticulously sited on 127 acres, with more than two miles of private waterfront.

Ten years in the planning, Boca Bay is a community of residences, not a resort or just a development. It offers a grand array of private recreational and social amenities designed with pastimes in mind . . . beach club, marina, nature walks, tropical gardens, pools, tennis, croquet courts and world-class tarpon fishing.

We invite you to experience Boca Bay, our special village by the sea, where time stands still and precious memories of valued traditions are preserved. Boca Bay, offering a way of life found today in only a few special places in the world.

Boca Bay, single-family waterfront homes of distinguished architectural character and unsurpassed quality.

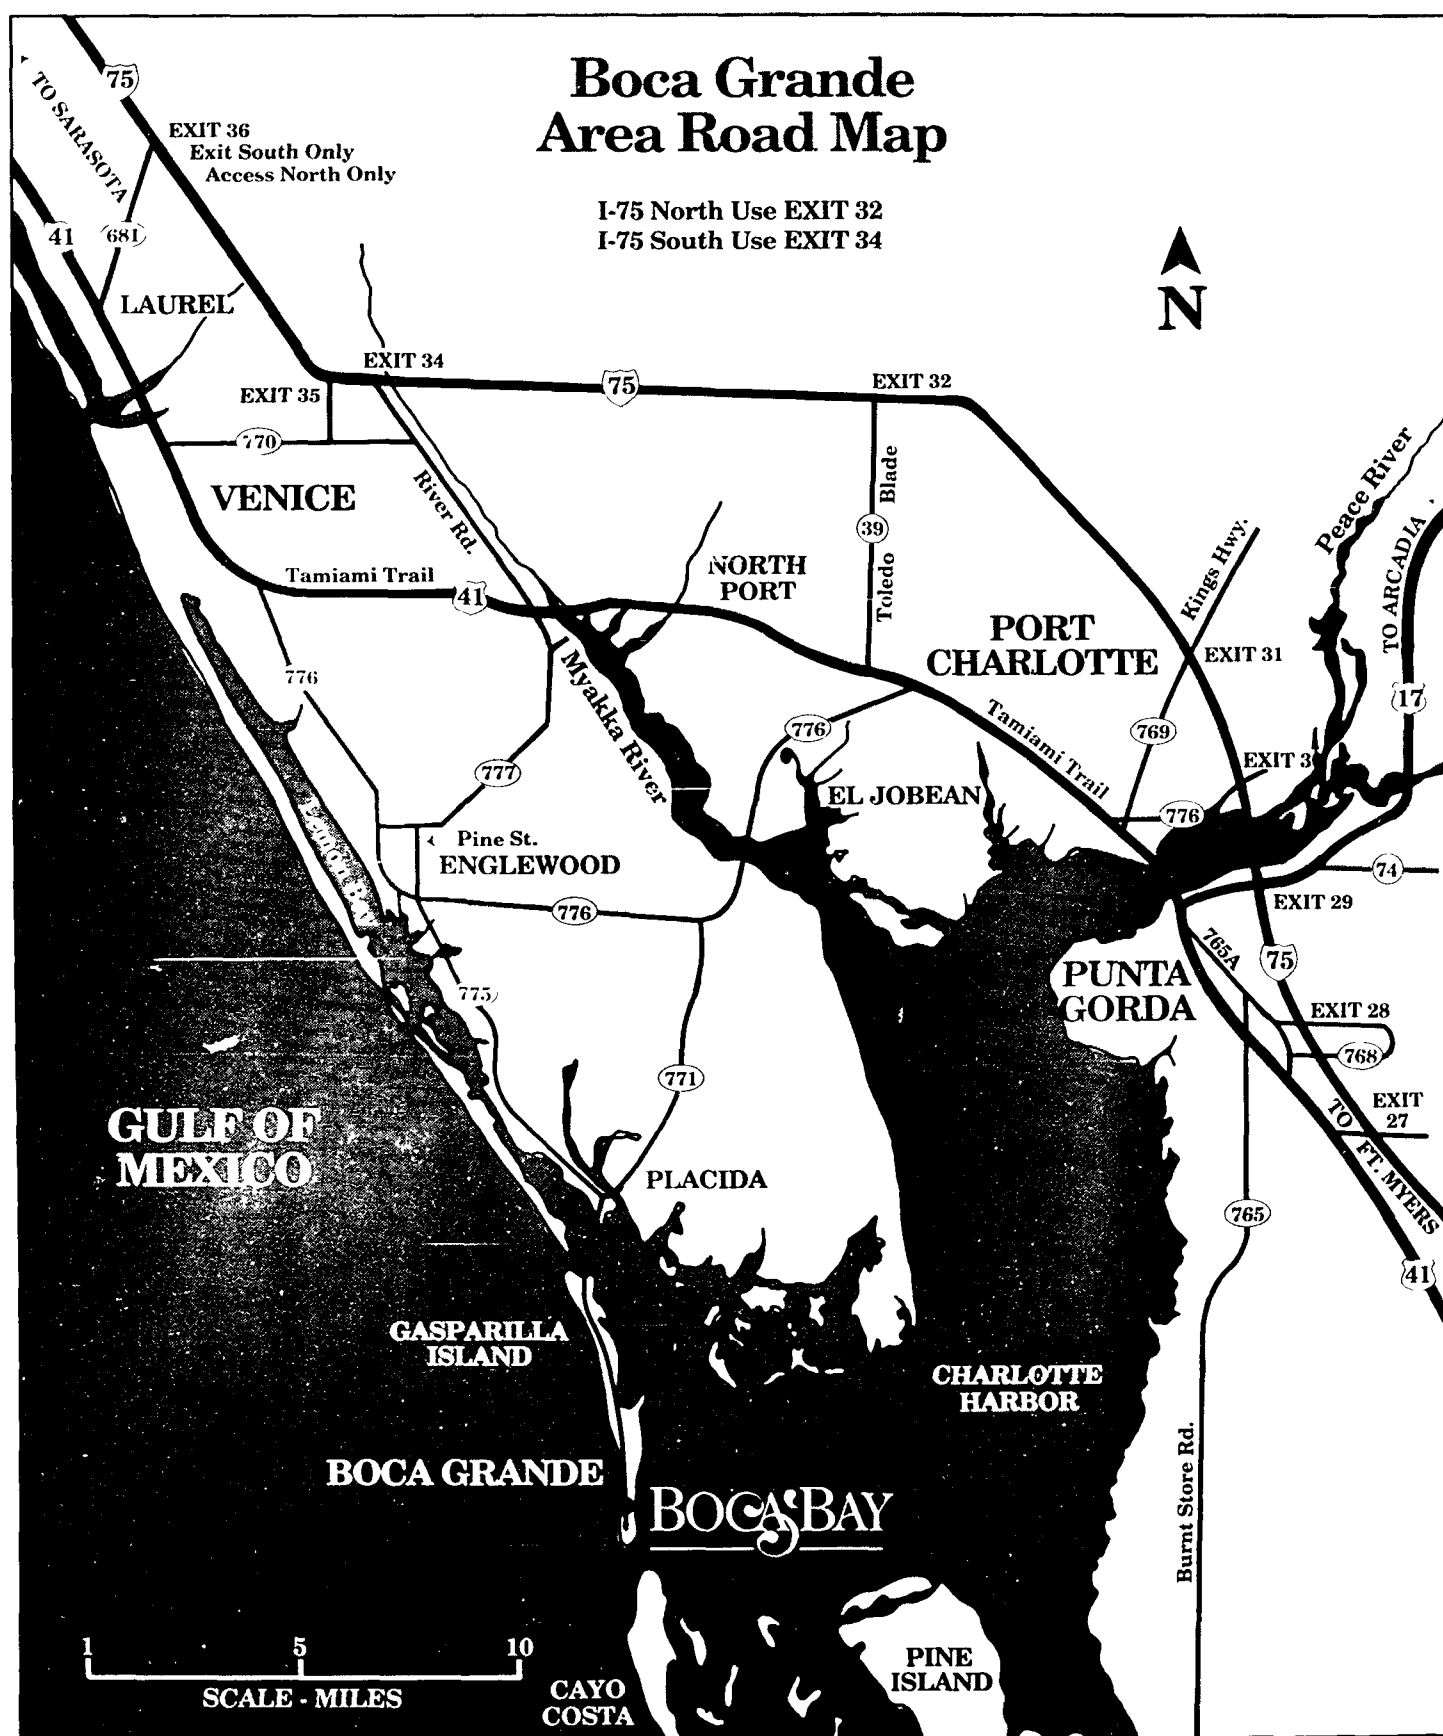

Boca Bay is a community by CSX Realty, the real estate development subsidiary of CSX Corporation, an international transportation and real estate corporation.

Homes at Boca Bay are priced from the mid-$400,000s.
