Commission gives approval to parking deck

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

The new Cady Street parking deck moved a step closer to reality Nov. 5 when it was granted preliminary site plan approval by the planning commission.

Matt Jobim, an engineer with Rich & Associates, said the deck's design "plays off both things in Main Centre and Cady Centre, and some other buildings in the downtown." Rich & Associates, the city's parking deck consultant, is designing the new deck.

The new three-floor deck would contain 462 parking spaces, with 125 secured spaces on the ground floor reserved for Main Centre residents and others. The top floor would be level with the top floor of the current Cady Street deck, and the expanded deck would extend about 150 feet south of the current one.

An additional 27 surface parking spaces would be created on the north and west sides of the new deck.

Commission member Steve Ball sought one change in the engineer's plan, asking the firm to combine the two curb cuts planned on the relocated Cady Street, and have the entrance into the secured parking area on the bottom floor just inside the entrance to the deck itself.

Jobim said the entrances could be easily combined, and said the engineers had considered that possibility early in the deck's evolution.

"If you want to make the change, that's a negligible change," he said. But he added that the change would restrict the possibility of a manager's office at the entrance if the city decided in the future to charge all deck users. Most of the deck, in its current form, would be open and available to users free of charge.

City Manager Gary Word cautioned that the administration would want to review the change itself before agreeing to it. "I'd like to review the downside as well," he said.

The commissioners hesitated to give the site plan final approval after Word admitted that the city still is negotiating for the property needed to build the three-floor deck and relocate Cady Street about 170 feet south of its current location.

"The property on which the parking deck would sit has not been acquired yet... there are further property acquisitions to be made," he said.

The commissioners voted 7-1 in favor of preliminary approval, with Chris Gaslay casting the lone no vote.

"I don't have any serious problems with the plan before us... but I am still going to vote against it because of my disagreement with the relocation of Cady Street," he said.

Pistol pamphlet shot down by Senate

A bill to change one of last year's gun control laws won a lopsided 33-3 approval in the state Senate last week despite spirited opposition.

Senate Bill 528 eliminates the need for gun dealers to distribute pamphlets on gun safety and training classes.

"One gets information and safety pamphlets from the manufacturer," said sponsor Chris Dingell, D-Trenton. "I doubt they (buyers) are going to read a third pamphlet."

He added that some State Police posts are failing to make available lists of gun safety classes, putting gun dealers in a "Catch-22" situation.

Sen. Jack Faxon, D-Farmington Hills, who voted no, said the bill "reduces the minuscule protections that are currently in law that would ensure the purchaser of a gun at least have some basic understanding of how to use the thing. We require more tests to use an automobile than we do to use a firearm."

Added Sen. Lana Pollack, D-Ann Arbor: "The provision repealed was for a basic pistol safety brochure... A licensed dealer would (also) post in a conspicuous place information relating to the availability of local voluntary pistol safety programs."

"I don't think we should be removing the availability of needed information. I don't see any rationale for relaxing the laws."

Northville's Community Christmas Tree Needs your help

To help involve the community in the downtown holiday festivities and decorating, the Northville Merchants' Dickens Christmas Dickiee is sponsoring a COMMUNITY CHRISTMAS TREE.

Located in the bandshell area in downtown Northville, this tree will have lights and outdoor ornaments to complement the Victorian decorations being planned for the bandshell.

Families and individuals may have their name of a ribbon attached to this tree for only $3. This nominal fee is to help cover the costs of the decorations and lights.

The tree will be officially lit at the Dickens Christmas tree lighting ceremony on Friday, November 29, at 6 p.m. During this holiday kick-off there will be caroling and previews of the upcoming Dickens Christmas events.

Names for the Community tree may be submitted by filling out the form below, enclosing $3 (payable to Northville Merchants' Association), and sending to Traditions, 111 N. Center St., Northville, MI 48167.

Additional forms will be available at participating stores in downtown Northville, or for more information you may call 349-0199.

Economic woes hinder services

By MIKE TYREE
Staff Writer

A Northville city and township "blue ribbon committee" on Friday convened and agreed on one basic principle: Unstable economic times are prompting many more questions than answers for local shared services programs.

Some of the few available answers may trouble residents and officials. Committee members pointed to service reductions and user fee increases as probable future courses for Northville's recreation, library, senior citizen, and youth assistance programs.

Friday's initial blue ribbon session touched on some of the basic concepts of local cooperative services efforts.

Northville city and township taxpayers generate the bulk of the revenue for shared services programs. Combined, shared services budgets total roughly $526,000.

The city and township split 45 percent of shared services costs equally, under the current contractual formula. The remaining 55 percent is based on the respective communities' state equalized valuations.

Northville Township recently helped balance its 1992 budget by lopping five percent from shared services' 1991 budgets. City officials warn that basic services — not to mention shared services — will be hard hit by the city's impending $1 million budget deficit.

Employee layoffs and tax increases loom in Northville city, Mayor Christopher Johnson told the blue ribbon committee. City officials have told shared services administrators

Trustee moving but won't resign

By MIKE TYREE
Staff Writer

Township Trustee Donald Williams has answered the siren call of the south, but he won't be severing his ties to local government.

Williams last week said he will not resign his trustee position even though he will winter in Florida.

"What's the difference?" Williams responded when asked if he planned a temporary southern migration.

Williams was then asked if he would be able to stay in touch with township policy and financial issues from his winter home.

"Certainly," he said. "I'll be coming back for meetings if it's necessary; when something important happens."

Williams would not say how long he intended to stay in Florida. He said he has installed an 800 number in his winter retreat that will enable him to conduct township business.

Township officials say they will mail Williams township board agendas and supplemental information.

"We'll be sending him a packet, to keep him up to date," Supervisor Betty Lennox. "It's always difficult if you're out of the community, but if he has a packet..."

Lennox said township officials will not publicly exert pressure on Williams to resign, even though board members and others have expressed concerns about Williams' physical condition. Some board members and others close to the township say they have approached Williams and asked him to consider resignation.

On Thursday, Williams flatly rejected questions regarding his possible resignation.

Lennox said the township is in no position to exclude Williams if he wishes to remain on the township board.

"He's elected and unless he would be recalled or resign, and I don't expect him to be recalled (he will stay on the board)," Lennox said. "I think everybody's entitled to a vacation."

Williams was elected to the township board in 1984. His term expires in 1992.

County offering AIDS test

The Wayne County Health Department offers free anonymous and confidential AIDS counseling and testing services throughout the county.

Donald W. Lawrenchuk, M.D., Medical Director for the Health Department, said, "AIDS has become the number-one major public health concern facing the nation today. Already in Michigan there have been over 2,000 cases of AIDS reported in addition to an estimated 40,000 to 50,000 people in Michigan carrying the AIDS virus. Furthermore, until a vaccine and/or cure is developed for AIDS, educating the public on how to avoid becoming infected by the virus as well as counseling high risk people to change their lifestyles to prevent transmission is our main strategy against the disease."

Studies have demonstrated that the Human Immunodeficiency Virus (HIV) which causes AIDS has primarily been shown to be transmitted through sexual contact with an infected person and sharing of contaminated items that have come in contact with infected blood, such as occurs with use of contaminated needles among those using intravenous drugs. Babies born to HIV infected mothers are also at risk for developing AIDS.

Play goes on despite late changes

By SUZANNE HOLLYER
Staff Writer

The show went on over the weekend at Northville High School despite sickness and last-minute casting changes in the school play.

John Norman was cast in the part of Kolenkhov, a lead character in the play "You Can't Take It with You."

A bout with pneumonia put him in the hospital prior to the performance. Norman was recovering and was expected to be released on Friday.

But the show must go on, so M. Scott Bassin traded his small part in the play for the larger role of Kolenkhov. Stephen Sparks took Bassin's original part and Jason Miller joined the cast, taking Sparks' part.

If not for an announcement in the program, no one would have known that last-minute changes had been made in casting. In a short time, Bassin mastered the lines of Kolenkhov complete with a Russian accent prompting some of the many laughs enjoyed by the audience throughout the performance.

The play centers around the quirky, eccentric Sycamore family. Penny Sycamore, played by Leanne Michaelis, has been a playwright for eight years. She began writing when a typewriter accidentally was delivered to her home.

Her husband Paul, played by Chris Dattilio, experiments with fireworks in his basement throughout the performance.

Patriarch of the family Martin Vanderhof offers the audience ideas to live by in the form of quips and light-hearted remarks. Vanderhof has avoided the rat race for 35 years while in the pursuit of happiness. He quit his job and began a life of attending commencement ceremonies and hunting for snakes.

High school senior Jeffrey Dart played Vanderhof. Dart's smooth, wrinkle-free face was the only hint to the true age of the play's lead character.

Dart also should be credited with maintaining the audience's suspension of disbelief. A dart board, which was hung on a door of the set, fell during the second act on Thursday. Never missing a beat, Dart rehung the board, tossing a dart at it for good measure.

Had the other characters not been strong, Dart could have stolen the show with his posture, facial expressions and unexpected proclamations — which surely made everyone in the audience think of their grandfather.

But the other characters were strong enough to stand on their own, including Essie. Played by Katy Murphy, Essie is the daughter of Penny and Paul Sycamore. She has fully adopted the Sycamore and Vanderhof theory of enjoying life. Never discouraged by a lack of talent, Essie flits about the stage throughout the play practicing her ballet. She proved a happy-go-lucky character the audience couldn't help but love.

The Sycamores' daughter Alice is more serious than her sister Essie. The only Sycamore who has a paying job, Alice comes in conflict with her family when a relationship forms between herself and Tony Kirby. Kirby comes from a conservative family more interested in wealth than happiness.

The play reaches a hilarious climax when the two families meet. The Kirbys arrive at the Sycamore house to find Alice dancing with her Russian ballet teacher Kolenkhov.

Ed, Alice's husband, is accompanying the performers on the xylophone while Penny, clad in the garb of an artist, paints the portrait of a man who has come to live with the family. The man, played by Dave Murray, is dressed like a Roman.

The Kirby's learn that life is not meant to be worked away, but the message was intended for the audience as well.

Michaelis hoped at least one audience member would re-evaluate his or her life as a result of the performance.

But even if no one in Northville changed his or her lifestyle as a result of the high school play, the performance provided a two-hour, laughter-filled escape from the everyday.

Wave of vandalism strikes at Scenic Harbour

Northville Township police said several vehicles reportedly were vandalized at various locations during a two day span recently.

Damage reports included. Someone broke the driver's side window of a 1986 Buick parked on Lehigh Lane south of Scenic Harbour late Nov 8 or early Nov 9. Damage was estimated at $200.

The owner of a 1990 Jeep Wrangler told police that someone slashed the vehicle's left rear tire and damaged the weather stripping late Nov 8 or early Nov 9. The vehicle was parked on Scenic Harbour. Damage was estimated at $300.

Someone reportedly smashed the driver's side window of a 1989 Ford Escort parked on Silver Springs near Edgington Place late Nov 9 or early Nov 10. Damage totaled $250.

The owner of a 1992 Ford Taurus told police that someone smashed the vehicle's driver's side door window and damaged an AM/FM cassette player and compact disk player late Nov 8 or early Nov 9. The vehicle was parked on Scenic Harbour.

A 1991 Saturn Sport Coupe was damaged late Oct. 30 or early Oct. 31 when someone scratched the vehicle's passenger door. The vehicle was parked on Innsbrook Drive.

STOLEN VEHICLE FOUND STRIPPED A Kentwood man's 1991 GMC Jimmy reportedly was stolen while parked in the lot at Meijer 20401 Haggerty Nov 8 according to township police.

Detroit police found the vehicle the following day at 15111 Snowdon in Detroit. The vehicle's right rear window was smashed, all four tires and rims were missing, the steering column was damaged, and the driver's side door punched. Also missing were a number of personal items that had been stored in the vehicle.

AUTO PARTS STOLEN The owner of a 1993 Pontiac Bonneville parked on James town told township police that someone stole the vehicle's right front headlight assembly sometime late Nov 5 or early Nov 6. The stolen parts were valued at $100, police said. A Redford Township man, an employee of the Haggerty Road Meijer store, told township police that someone smashed the rear hatch window of his 1988 Dodge Daytona and stole a speaker from the vehicle Nov 5. Damage was estimated at $200 and the speaker was valued at $150.

SHOPLIFTERS NABBED A 54-year-old Northville man was charged with larceny after he reportedly attempted to steal home figurines, a floral arrangement, a figurine, a dish and a film from Meijer Nov 8.

An 18-year-old Farmington Hills woman was charged with larceny after she attempted to steal cigarettes, clothing and personal items valued at almost $257 from Meijer Nov 6. Township police said.

MAN ACCUSED OF UNLAWFUL EN-

TRY. City police are investigating a report of unlawful entry into a Carpenter Avenue home by a 20-year-old Northville man. The man reportedly entered the house at 2 p.m. Nov 8 after obtaining keys to the house and confronted the owner's daughter, a former girlfriend. He reportedly left after collecting some of his possessions.

DRUNKEN DRIVING ARREST. City police arrested a 30-year-old Northville man for driving under the influence Nov 14 after observing his erratic driving on Eight Mile Road at 2:16 a.m.

A police officer at Eight Mile and Griswold saw the man heading west on Eight Mile with his headlights off, and followed the man after he made a U turn before the Eight Mile/Griswold intersection, turned off his parking lights and drove west. The officer notified township police as he followed the man. The man reportedly crossed the center line twice and veered onto the shoulder and was stopped after nearly hitting a curb at Eight Mile and Meadowbrook.

The man was arrested after failing several sobriety tests and his blood alcohol level was measured at 18 percent, nearly twice the state limit. He was jailed until he sobered up and released after posting a $30 cash bond.

MAN TURNS HIMSELF IN A 43-year-old Novi man turned himself in to city police Nov 12 on a warrant for failure to comply with an expired license plate charge, in response to a letter from the police department. He posted a $100 cash bond and was released after a court date was set.

Citizens with information about the above incidents are urged to call Northville City Police at 349-1234 or Northville Township Police at 349-9400.

Curtis-y Call

Northville High School principal Thomas Johnson is pictured with Doug Curtis, five-time winner of the Detroit Free Press Marathon and Northville resident. Curtis spoke Nov 5 at the Northville cross country banquet. Johnson, who also runs the Free Press Marathon, said he is a fan of Curtis.

to expect deep cuts, but cannot talk specifics since the city is only in the infancy stages of its 1992-93 budget talks," he said.

"What we're really talking about (in budget reductions) is people," Johnson said. "That's really the level we're at."

Johnson's dire straits commentary proved unsettling to shared services administrators such as library Director Patricia Orr.

Orr worried that city cuts would be more severe than those imposed by the township, prompting the township to lessen its financial commitment along shared services contractual lines.

"If the city (mandates deeper cuts) will the township do the same?" Orr asked. "I'm real concerned."

Orr said deep budget cuts could threaten library state aid and membership in the Western Oakland Library Federation. Losing those services could sound a death knell for the Northville library, she said.

Johnson told Orr and her fellow shared services administrators — Tracy Gotschalk of recreation and Mary Ellen King of youth assistance — that the city would "need to know what the absolute minimum of service" would be for the programs.

The community library cannot charge fees for its services, but the recreation department charges user fees for all activities. Recreation costs to users are expected to climb as budgetary problems mount.

The committee has scheduled a second meeting Dec. 19. City officials are expected to have a firmer grasp of their financial situation at that time, and depth of cuts may be more evident.

Members of the blue ribbon committee include township Supervisor Betty Lennox, Manager Richard Henningsen, Trustee James Nowka, Johnson, city Manager Gary Ward and King, Gotschalk and Orr.

Our Opinion

Why didn't someone think of this sooner?

The Northville Community Chamber of Commerce recently announced its intention to start poking its nose even deeper into the community's commercial affairs, even to the point of encouraging new businesses to come to Northville.

We have one question. Why didn't someone come up with this great idea sooner?

The chamber's recent discussions with the city's Downtown Development Authority over setting up a "Business Development and Retention Committee" to take a more active role in the city's commercial health are a welcome development indeed. And DDA members seemed equally as enthusiastic as the chamber over the concept.

We suggested back in October, in the wake of several business closures and complaints from retailers about high rental rates, that the city should review the health of downtown Northville and explore ways to insure its continued vitality. The chamber's committee could provide one forum for that review.

But we see much more potential in the proposal, as does the chamber itself.

In essence, the committee could negotiate with current businesses that are considering leaving the city, to encourage them to stay. Using demographic and market data, the committee could also review a potential retailer's chance of financial success in Northville, to help assure that any new business would be an economically viable one.

The idea has a lot of merit for a number of reasons. For one, a committee organized by the chamber with representatives from city boards and other local leaders could bring a broad base of experience to bear on the issue of retaining existing businesses and cultivating new ones. For another, a committee not tied directly to city or township hall could be more free in its conversations with potential businesses over the community's economic and political climate.

Whatever the result of the chamber's efforts, the discussion has begun to focus attention on the city's stagnant business community, which is a reflection of the nation's current economic inertia.

If nothing else, the committee could stimulate a free flow of ideas about the community's economic future and ways to attain it.

Trustee's absence is not acceptable

Donald Williams has served Northville Township as a member of the board of trustees since 1984. A staunch supporter of the township police department and a tireless worker for senior citizens programs, Williams has had many a moment in the sun.

Now, as he treks to Florida for an extended winter vacation, Williams should pass the torch so that another may use his or her skills to benefit the township.

Williams is an elected official, and we know of no particular law that could unseat him for potential neglect of township business during a winter sojourn. But we do not agree that Williams — from afar — can stay current on township issues.

The township may well send him agendas and other support materials, and Williams has hinted that he may return for meetings where individual votes could be crucial, but the role of an elected township official demands more than a cameo appearance.

Obvious and admitted health difficulties also should convince Williams to resign. And regular township board attendees, staff, and fellow township elected officials know that Williams' comments are often far from focused, and too frequently completely off-base.

We have quibbled with Williams in the past, but the root of our resignation plea is not born of conflict. Instead, we ask that Williams reflect upon his solid career, wave goodbye to local government skirmishes, and step aside for the good of Northville Township.

Enjoy the sun, Mr. Williams, and let someone else fight the battles in the cold, dark north.

Rick Byrne

The trash on Detroit's News

Magic Johnson, the Novi tanker fire, the Royal Oak Post Office shootings.

In the Detroit TV news business, it's been the week of the one-story broadcasts. Not to belittle any one of these events, but I'm at a loss to understand how any one of them warrants filling an entire local news broadcast — which is essentially what happened on the evenings they occurred.

Can you accept that nothing else important to you and me occurred on those dates? I sure can't. These stories had plenty of shock value, but as far as long-range affects on the way the people in metropolitan Detroit live their lives, they had little or nothing to offer. TV news judgment in Detroit has gone the way of Bill Bonds' hair as far as I'm concerned.

Mike Wallace, host of CBS's "60 Minutes" assailed the three Detroit newscasts during a recent lecture at the University of Michigan, citing their fetish for "murder and mayhem." While I agree, I'm just as disturbed by the things they don't cover as I am with the things they do.

Even on an average news night, the network affiliates' coverage of Detroit and the suburbs is fair to middling, but when it comes to state news, they're a virtual wasteland. It seems as though the newscasts have conceded defeat to the newspapers on events in Lansing.

Local TV news uses some other bizarre tactics that leave me scratching my head. I suppose my least favorite is the old "interviewing the neighbors" ploy.

What is to be gained by interviewing the neighbors of a criminal or victim of a tragedy? These interviews do absolutely nothing to enhance a story. We saw it when John Zants II died in the tanker crash. A reporter went knocking on doors in Highland Hills asking people about him.

Do any of these kinds of interviews ever differ from any other? The neighbors all say, "He/she was a nice person." Even in the instance of the Royal Oak gunman, where his co-workers all had variations on the "we knew this was coming" theme, the neighbors said, "He was a nice guy."

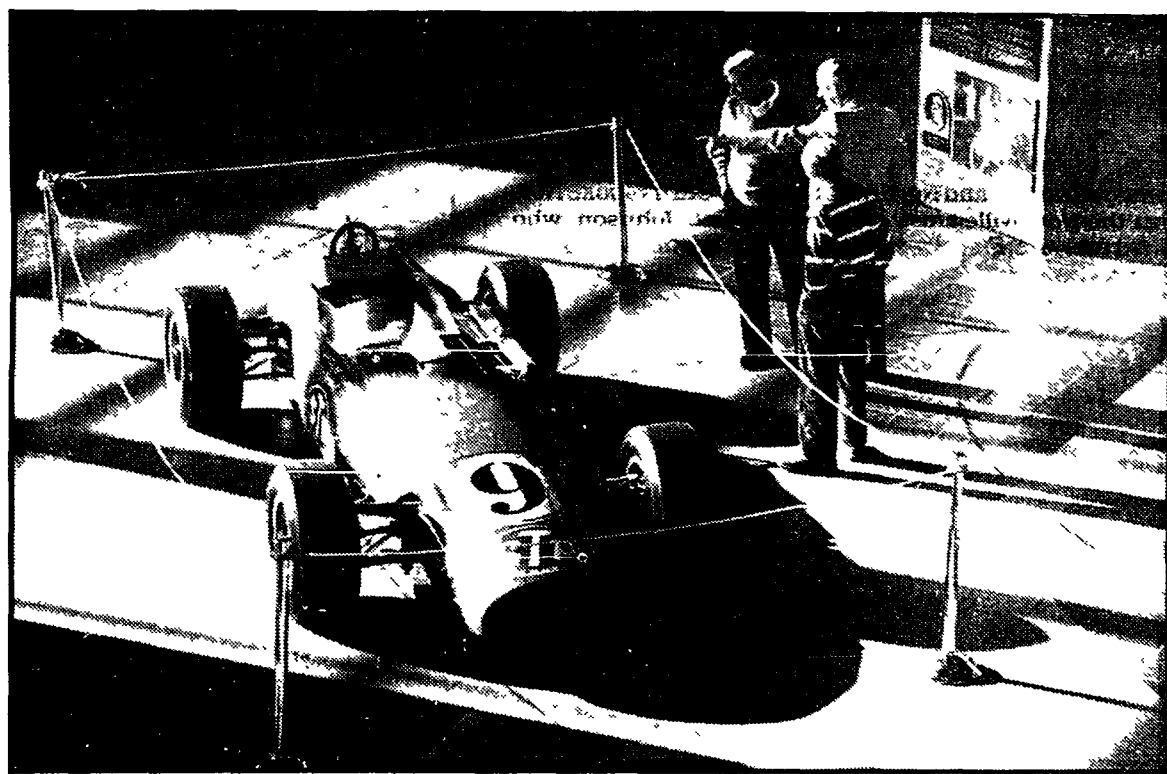

Also on my list of a waste of good oxygen is when the anchor quizzes the reporter at the scene. Bill Bonds practically mocks live reporters when he poses ludicrous questions from his anchor desk. But, God help us, even Amyre Makupson is doing it now on the Channel 50 broadcasts — and hers was a newscast that I considered journalistically sound.

Speaking as a journalist, I can tell you that in some instances, Bonds knows better than to be asking some of the questions he's asking.

I honestly hope people get fed up with the trash on Detroit TV news and stay away in droves. Now that would be a story worth covering.

Phil Jerome

A new business for ol' Phil

One of the advantages of having my own column is that I can write pretty much what I want to write.

Oh, sure, I have to keep it within the bounds of good taste and all that. And I have to make it semi-interesting from time to time in order to maintain at least a few regular readers.

But other than that, I can write pretty much what I want. Which is why I am going to utilize my precious space this week to promote my new business.

It's not a typical business. I'm not selling anything tangible. You can't pick it up and try it on. It's a consulting service.

What happened is that I have discovered I have a real flair for naming babies. Good names. Unique names. Names that will make people stand up and take notice. Names that will last a lifetime.

That's right. This new service comes with a lifetime warranty.

I discovered this penchant for coming up with unique names last Monday with the announcement that Scott Piper, one of our staff photographers, had just become a proud papa for the first time.

Figuring that this was a busy time in Scott's life, I decided to help him with the time-consuming task of naming the new arrival by giving him a list of suggested names. The best of the lot was a unique African name — Yagotta Payda. Yagotta Payda Piper.

Scott like it a lot and thanked me profusely. Unfortunately, he and his wife had already given the infant a different name, even though it was nowhere near as good as the one I had suggested.

Buoyed by that success, I decided to turn my attention to a couple of our editors who are expecting new arrivals shortly: — Matt Valley in South Lyon and Mike Malott in Northville.

Valley names were easy. How about Renfro? Or Harper? Or Shannon Doah? Quality stuff, right?

Of course my favorites were somewhat more creative. Like Dawn Inda. Or, a Chinese/Scandinavian name — Hui Greensma.

Developing names for the newcomer at the Malott residence was a little more difficult, but not impossible. At the top of the list is a Yiddish name — Alachem. Alachem Malott.

Another possibility is a combination Greek/Italian name: — Mahousa Stanzanna Malott.

As you can see, this is a pretty incredible talent. And that's why I've decided to open my new baby-naming service — to make this new-found talent available to the public at a reasonable price and, of course, to rake in a few extra bucks on the side.

I'll bet a lot of you are pretty excited right now. Sure, there are some people who aren't planning to have any more children; and they're feeling a little disappointed.

Virtually all of them are potential clients, however. Maybe they have friends who are expecting children. Maybe even their own children are expecting children.

What could be more thoughtful than a personalized list of unique names for the new parents to consider?

So now comes the big question: How can you take advantage of this great new service? Simple. Just send me a short note, making sure to include the expected arrival's last name. Enclose check or money order in the amount of $100 and send it to: Phil's Baby-Naming Consultation Service, c/o of The Northville Record, 104 W. Main, Northville, MI 48167. And don't forget, this special service comes with a lifetime warranty.

Discovering the pleasures of port wine

Port is big, round, full-bodied, sweet and wonderful. A glass of port accompanying dessert or served as the dessert course is an exceptional treat.

Vintage port is the greatest among ports, gets a great deal of hype, represents just 2 percent of the total annual production and is expensive. Not to worry, it is possible to enjoy good port on a regular basis, rather than just special occasions, once you learn that not all port is vintage and expensive.

Port is divided into two categories: wood port and vintage port. The former is aged in wood and the latter in the bottle. Vintage ports are produced only in excellent years, blessed with perfect weather conditions. These conditions occur an average of three times each decade.

The decision to "declare" a vintage is made by the shipper with the approval of the Instituto do Vinho do Porto. Vintage port is always blended from wines of the best vineyards, grown in a single year of recognized quality, and has exceptional aroma and taste characteristics.

Vintage port ages 2 to 2½ years in cask; the remainder of its life is spent slowly aging in a black-glass bottle for at least 10 and frequently up to 30 years. Vintage port throws a heavy crust in the bottle and therefore must be set upright for 24 hours and carefully decanted before serving.

Most consumers decide to buy port on Friday and open the bottle Saturday. This is exactly why it is important to learn something about wood ports, which are ready to drink when bought. There are no concerns about vintage, age, decanting or the like, and the price is much more reasonable.

Wood ports are divided by type into ruby, tawny (produced from red grapes), and white. Fermentation is halted by addition of brandy, yielding a sweet wine with 19 to 20 percent alcohol. Young red port is a deep-purple color. It gradually turns ruby (red), then takes on brown hues and eventually becomes tawny (brown or dark amber). Port gains flavors and diminishes in body and color as it ages. It throws a crust in the cask rather than the bottle.

Tawny ports are lighter, more delicate and aromatic, and more expensive than ruby ports due to extended aging in cask. This aging produces a tawny color and a woody, nutty flavor. Better tawny ports have an average age stated on the label. The older wines develop a paler color, lighter body, and caramelized character that is particularly attractive.

Vintage-character ports are fuller-bodied, mellow rubies, blended from wines of better-than-average years. They have some of the characteristics of vintage ports but have been aged in wood, rather than in the bottle, for four to five years. The increased quality of vintage character ports is dependent on the vineyard and year, rather than on age.

The difficulty for the consumer is identifying these wines on the merchant's shelf. Each shipper uses a "signature" name because this type of port is not strictly defined as is vintage port.

Late-bottled vintage ports are produced from a single, quality harvest, and must exhibit standards established by the IVP. They are asked in cask four to six years and thus have an aged quality compared to vintage ports because they mature faster in cask than in the bottle. These wines are much easier to identify because the label must say Late Bottled Vintage and include both the vintage year and the bottling date.

An opened bottle of port maintains its taste characteristics perfectly for up to a month.

WINE SELECTIONS OF THE WEEK

The following are quality examples and offer a good introduction to the various types of port.

Taylor, Flaggate First Estate Port ($15) is a fruity ruby style crafted from traditional port grapes. With aroma of cherry, red plums and currants followed by jammy flavors, it will enhance any fresh fruit dessert accompanied by blue-veined cheeses, particularly stilton.

Holiday Harvest

Food banks ready for tough winter

By RICK BYRNE
Copy Editor

Thanksgiving is a time to count our blessings as we gather around a festive table.

In the spirit of the coming holiday, then, it seems appropriate then that we pause to remember that not everyone has a festive table to gather around. For the poor and the needy, there are social service organizations that can step in and lend a hand, and assure that everyone who needs it has food — at the holidays or any other time of the year.

In Northville, the community food bank is located at Civic Concern, in the Scout Building on West Cady Street. There, workers gather food from a number of different sources.

"All of it is donated," said Phyllis Ely, co-coordinator of the program. "It comes from churches, schools and individuals. Mostly when people contribute on an individual basis, they contribute money. Occasionally they'll drop off a bag of food, but most people don't know they can do that — just drop off some food."

Cash donations can be used to defray costs, and also to fill in foods that aren't obtained through donations. The stockpiled food is then packaged in grocery bags for distribution to needy people in Northville and the surrounding communities.

"We make up a menu, and try to give them a balanced sack of groceries," said Ely. "We give them cereal, fruit, vegetables, peanut butter and meat, if we have it. We also have a few of what we call 'goodie' items, like a large can of jam or jelly or a sack of cookies."

Despite the economic downturn and rising unemployment of recent months, Civic Concern has a fairly good stockpile in its "cubbyhole," the group's storage room which has a munchkin-size, five-foot ceiling.

Contrary to popular belief, the most difficult time for food banks is not the holiday season. According to Gary Gonya of the Gleaner's Food Bank in Detroit, holidays usually find food banks well stocked.

"People are more generous this time of year than normal," he said. "The food bank ends up storing a lot of food. It's the end of the fiscal year for the food companies, so we get items from them cleaning out warehouses of material."

At Civic Concern, and at the Gleaners Food Bank, the lean times come in February, March and April. It's tax time, and donations slow as peoples' generosity fades.

"People don't think of playing Santa Claus in April; they think of it at Christmastime," said Gonya.

Marlene Kunz, director of Civic Concern, pointed out, however, that despite a weakened economy, there's only been a slight increase in need for the group's service.

"We haven't noticed it too much yet, but we're kind of expecting that there will be more," said Kunz. "We have had an increase. It's slow, but it is increasing. It has increased less

Polenta brings memories of Italy

The holidays are upon us. It is certainly a convenient being in a shopping center. Whenever there's a break, one of the staff runs out to pick up a gift.

At least they will have their shopping done. I can't speak for myself. Actually, I'm looking forward to Thanksgiving. It is a day off.

All of my family from out of town will be here. Grandmother Smith and Aunt Betty from Buffalo are arriving for a week's visit. They are both excellent cooks, so I'm looking forward to their critique of my fare at the restaurant. I'd better be on my toes.

My favorite (well, only) neices from Tampa, Liz and Maddy will provide the entertainment as they romp with their cousin Alfred. Their mother Marj worked for us on Seven Mile and at Prudential. Kit, the scholar of the family, and her husband Steve are joining us from San Diego. Kit is a year younger than I, and just graduated from law school with high honors. We are very proud of her.

Everything has been going very smoothly. That is until Saturday evening at 11 when the glass shelf broke away from the wall, and five dozen glasses ended up smashed on the floor. Evidently the carpenter neglected to find the studs. Thankfully no one was hurt, but it could have been a disaster.

We continue to do our show and tell each evening with the waitstaff. Any menu changes, specials and "86" items are gone over. This is a mini class each day that we all look forward to.

Last week, we learned about different starches. Our accompaniments are sometimes nontraditional. It is a shame that, in general, our (American) cooking has tossed aside many of our ancestors' traditional dishes. Polenta is a good example.

Over the past several years, polenta has become trendily popular in restaurants. Mostly it is fried and dry.

On Sunday, Achilli Bianchi, the maitre d', or front-of-the-house manager at Too Chez came in to visit, and told of his recent trip to Italy. My first question was, "How was the food?"

"Simple and perfect," was his reply. His uncle owns a small restaurant in Milan that serves food family style. "Everything was uncomplicated and unpretentious. The flavors were exemplary."

What was his favorite? The rich, viscous polenta. Polenta is simply corn meal, cooked the same way as cream of wheat. Water is brought to a simmer, and the cornmeal added in a stream while stirring constantly. It should have the consistency of cooked cream of wheat. At this time other ingredients may be added.

The polenta may be finished in the oven. A delicious and healthful dish is to layer vegetables and polenta and bake like lasagna. With a salad, the meal is very complete. It is very elemental food, but wonderful if prepared properly.

We served the recipe following with a mixed grill of fresh snapper, grouper and mahi-mahi. Hopefully we would pass Achilli's Uncle's expertise.

POLENTA, MILAN STYLE

- 1½ quarts cold water
- 1½ cups corn meal
- 1 tablespoon chopped garlic
- 1 tablespoon chopped shallot
- salt and pepper to taste
- 1 tablespoon fresh chopped rosemary
- 1 teaspoon fresh chopped thyme
- 1 cup asiago or parmesan
- sliced tomatoes or grilled onions

Bring the water to a simmer. Slowly add the cornmeal while stirring constantly. Add the rest of the ingredients

Oil a deep casserole and layer half of the polenta into it. Top with sliced tomatoes or grilled onions. Cover with second half of the polenta and a generous portion of cheese. Bake for 30 minutes.

Civic Concern prepares for holiday than we thought it would."

Need in Northville comes from many quarters. Ely said everyone from older people to young mothers to entire families have come to Civic Concern for groceries.

"We have a lot of people who are needy," she said. They come from Northville Novi Farmington Hills or Livonia.

When demand at the local food bank exceeds donations larger organizations like the Oakland County Food Bank and Gleaners come to the rescue.

Operating under the motto of "Turning Surplus into a Plus for the Hungry" Gleaners serves as a central food warehouse for charitable food pantries soup kitchens and other agencies that deal with the poor. It takes its name from the word "gleaning"—the gathering of grain left in the fields by the reapers.

In its 12 years of operation Gleaners has distributed more than 62 million

"We make up a menu, and try to give them a balanced sack of groceries. We give them cereal, fruit, vegetables, peanut butter and meat, if we have it."

Phyllis Ely

pounds of food to the poor through 360 non-profit agencies in more than 60 communities in Wayne Oakland Macomb Monroe Washtenaw and Livingston counties.

Among the local organizations taking advantage of the food gleaners gets through donations and purchases are the Novi Emergency Food Center Our Lady of Providence Church and Civic Concern.

According to Gony's donations to Gleaners come from the manufacturers of the food themselves.

"We draw from about 200-300 food companies," he said. "The food comes from overproduction or perhaps there is the wrong color on the packaging, or some marketing person decides they need so much more cereal and customers don't buy it."

Much of the food comes from farm surplus as well.

There's food out there," said Gony. "It's just a question of getting it from California or Traverse City or wherever, to Detroit, and from here to agencies in the metro area."

Other donations to Gleaners come from the Buy A Case program, where individuals can buy a case of a certain food item with the distributor sending it directly to Gleaners warehouse. "This is the best route to obtain items that aren't often donated, like baby food, chili, tuna and beef stew."

Gleaners like Civic Concern, is well stocked now but not looking forward to the latter part of winter. "It's just holding steady but our hedge is getting thin, which has us concerned," said Gony. "We also have got to get a bigger warehouse. We need another 100,000 square feet of warehouse, and we're out to raise funds. General Motors kicked in $250,000 to the fund in our start-off."

Generosity like that helps especially at the local level where all volunteer groups like Civic Concern and Gleaners 180 member agencies operate.

"I'd like to thank people for their generosity," Gony said. "That's what makes things go."

Homemade bread will earn raves from family

One of my fondest childhood memories is of coming home after school and smelling the wonderful aroma of freshly baked bread in the oven. That was my mother's favorite way of warming up those crisp November days for us. I carried on the tradition for my children and now for my grandchildren. But today, I make my homemade bread with a little more pizzazz.

Does the morning rush have you frazzled? If you prepare ahead, you can freeze home-baked favorites, like West Indies Banana Bread.

You'll get a round of applause from your entire family. If you don't have time to "monkey around" in the kitchen, but still crave the taste of homemade bread, you might want to try Cinnamon Monkey Bread. It's quick and easy to prepare using ready-to-bake buttermilk biscuits.

If you have a little extra time on a Sunday afternoon, why not try something different like Arabian Pocket Bread? Arabian Pocket Bread is a traditional Middle Eastern bread that's easy to make and sure to please.

Whether you're planning an upcoming social event, a holiday party, the school or church bake sale, or simply a treat for your family, with these recipes, I guarantee you're sure to be a "bread-winner"!

WEST INDIES BANANA BREAD

Makes 12 Servings, 1 Slice Each

- 2 ¼ cups all-purpose flour
- 1 tablespoon double-acting baking powder
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ½ teaspoon ground cinnamon
- ½ teaspoon ground nutmeg
- ½ cup granulated sugar
- ½ cup unsalted margarine
- 1 egg
- 1 teaspoon vanilla extract
- 3 very ripe bananas, peeled and mashed
- ¾ cup raisins
- 2 ounces chopped walnuts
- 2 tablespoons shredded coconut

Into medium bowl sift together flour, baking powder, salt, cinnamon, and nutmeg; set aside.

Preheat oven to 350 degrees F. In separate medium mixing bowl, using electric mixer, beat together sugar and margarine until light and fluffy; add egg and vanilla and continue beating until mixture is thoroughly combined. Add sifted ingredients alternately with bananas, beating slightly after each addition until mixture is well combined (do not over-beat, as this will cause loaf to become tough). Stir in raisins, nuts and coconut.

Spray 9-by-5-by-3-inch nonstick loaf pan with nonstick cooking spray and pour batter into pan; bake for about 50 minutes (until loaf is browned and cake tester, inserted in center, comes out clean). Remove loaf from pan to wire rack and let cool. To serve, cut cooled loaf into 12 equal slices.

Each serving provides: 1 Bread; 2 Fat; 1 Fruit; and 85 Optional Calories.

CINNAMON MONKEY BREAD

Makes 10 Servings

- 3 tablespoons plus 1 teaspoon margarine, melted, divided
- ¼ cup granulated sugar
- 1 teaspoon ground cinnamon
- 10-ounce package ready-to-bake refrigerated buttermilk flaky biscuits (10 biscuits)

Using a pastry brush, brush some of the margarine over bottom and up sides of 7½-by-3½-by-2½-inch nonstick loaf pan; set aside.

Preheat oven to 350 degrees F. In small bowl combine sugar and cinnamon; stir to combine and set aside. Cut each biscuit into quarters; dip each quarter in remaining margarine, then into sugar mixture, turning lightly to coat and using all of the margarine and sugar mixture. Layer biscuit quarters in loaf pan and bake until loaf is browned, 30 to 35 minutes. Invert pan onto serving platter and let loaf stand in pan for 1 minute; carefully remove pan from loaf and serve warm.

Each serving provides: 1 Bread; 1 Fat; 25 Optional Calories.

ARABIAN POCKET BREAD

Makes 16 Servings, 1 Pocket Each

- 1 packet fast-rising active dry yeast
- 1 ¼ cups warm water (see yeast package directions for temperature)
- ½ teaspoon granulated sugar
- 4 ½ cups all-purpose flour, divided
- 2 tablespoons vegetable oil
- 1 teaspoon salt

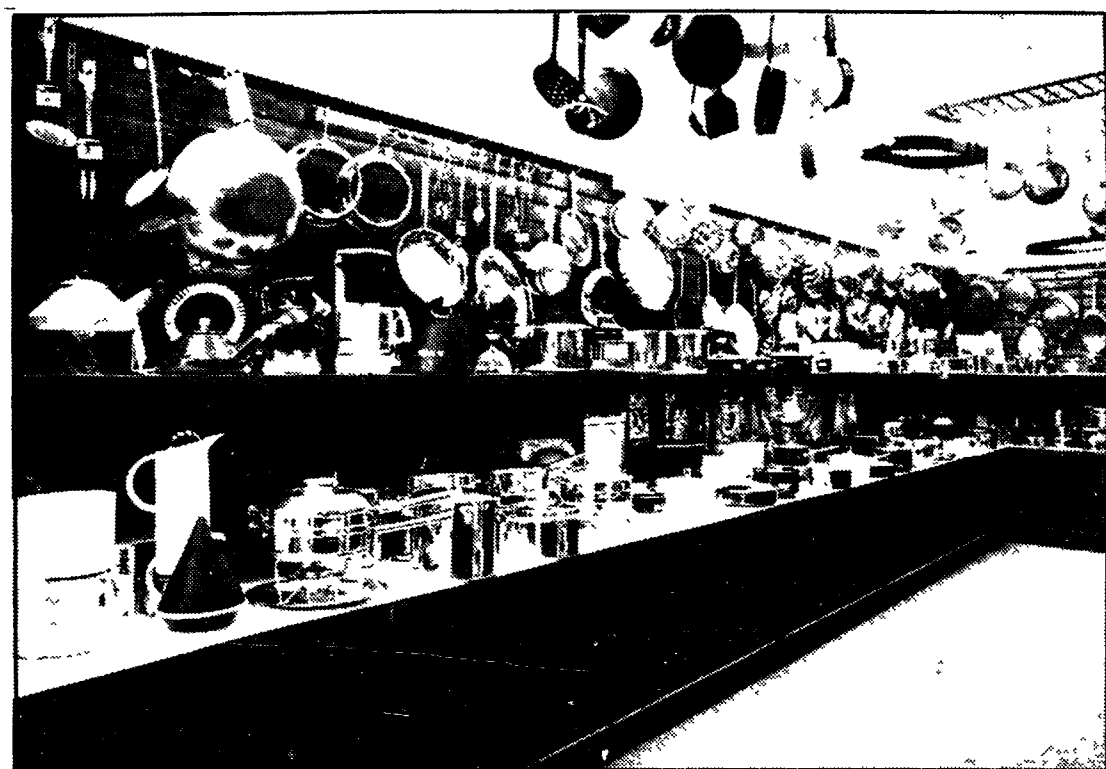

Spray large bowl with nonstick cooking spray; set aside. In another large bowl sprinkle yeast over water; add sugar and stir. Let stand until mixture becomes foamy, about 5 minutes; add 1 cup flour, the oil and salt. Using electric mixer at low speed, beat until combined, 1 to 2 minutes. Stir in all but 2 tablespoons flour, mixing well. Using remaining 2 tablespoons flour, flour work surface; knead dough on floured surface until smooth and elastic, about 5 minutes. Form into ball and place in sprayed bowl; cover with plastic wrap and let stand in warm, draft-free place until doubled in volume 45 to 60 minutes. Remove dough from bowl and punch down. Cut into 16 equal pieces and shape each into a ball.

Preheat oven to 450 degrees F. Using rolling pin, roll balls into circles, each about 5 inches in diameter; set on nonstick baking sheet, leaving about 2 inches between each. Bake until golden brown, 5 to 7 minutes. Remove breads to wire rack; let cool at least 5 minutes.

Each serving provides: 1½ Bread; 15 Optional Calories.

YOU'RE LOOKING AT A LETHAL WEAPON.

Fact is, more Americans may die by the fork than by any other weapon. That's because so many of them use it irresponsibly. Like to fill up on high-fat, high-cholesterol foods. Foods that can load the blood with cholesterol, which can build up plaque in their arteries, increasing their risk of heart attacks and threatening their lives. So next time you pick up a fork, remember to handle it as you would any other weapon. For self-defense, not self-destruction.

HOROSCOPE

By C.C. Clark

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 - Nov. 21)

Things have finally settled down and you can sit back and relax. This is a good opportunity for you to focus on what matters most to you.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 - Dec. 21)

Be confident when dealing with co-workers. Even if you aren't positive you are right, your self-assured attitude will make others believe in you.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 - Jan. 19)

It's time for a change. Don't put it off. You don't have to sever all ties to your past, but do move on to new things, new people and places.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 - Feb. 18)

You are so busy it seems like things will never slow down. Everything is working in your favor, however, even though you may not think so.

PISCES (Feb. 19 - March 20)

You'll be surprised at what being in the right place at the right time is going to do for you. Stop feeling guilty about past relationships.

ARIES (March 21 - April 19)

A friend may be bitter about an unfortunate set of circumstances. Use tact when dealing with this person and things will work out.

TAURUS (April 20 - May 20)

Try hard to focus on what is most important to you. Your scattered thoughts will come together toward week's end.

GEMINI (May 21 - June 20)

Take some time off and get away from everything. You will be amazed at how relaxed and refreshed you'll feel after a decent night's sleep.

CANCER (June 21 - July 22)

Your stubborn attitude is going to get you nowhere with co-workers and friends. Try to stand back and listen to what you are saying.

LEO (July 23 - Aug. 22)

You'll feel like buying some clothes, and you should. A new outfit will do wonders for your self-esteem. Plan for major purchases.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 - Sept. 22)

Look for excitement on your horizons in many shapes and fashions. Wearing red one day might just turn out to be lucky for you.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 - Oct. 22)

You may become involved in a new love relationship that will make you happier than you've been in a long time.

CBS offers another really big Sullivan special Series archives virtual treasure trove

By Dan Rice

To paraphrase George Orwell's axiom from his "1984," who controls the syndication rights to television of the past controls television of the future.

Network television occasionally produces a series that shines like a gem among the dull stones of its bleak wasteland, and these exceptions are granted an indefinite afterlife in syndicated reruns, sometimes earning a sad reunion special or even an anniversary resurrection.

In late November 1991, CBS falls back on its brighter moments for a three-day Classic Weekend, offering "Bob Newhart" and "M*A*S*H" anniversaries, plus "The Very Best of The Ed Sullivan Show II," which airs Sunday, Nov. 24.

Ed Sullivan's "very best" was the best of television in general. For the 23-year run of his show, between 1948 and 1971, Sullivan owned Sunday night. His was the definitive variety show, a cornucopia of acts which brought the family together by providing entertainment for all tastes and ages.

Although Sullivan's wooden mannerisms and awkward delivery make him the antithesis of the modern television host, he was the greatest showman since P.T. Barnum. He introduced American audiences to foreign performers they otherwise would not have seen. And many a Hollywood star took his or her first televised bow on Sullivan's stage: Bob Hope, Walt Disney, Dinah Shore, Eddie Fisher, and the meteoric comedy team of Dean Martin and Jerry Lewis.

Elvis Presley had appeared on television before, but it was his Sullivan appearance (shot from his waist up for reasons of propriety) that opened the door for superstardom and cult worship. And there is an entire generation that vividly remembers where they were on the night of Feb. 9, 1964 — tuned in to the Sullivan show for the TV debut of The Beatles.

"The Very Best of The Ed Sullivan Show II" was produced by one of the industry's best guides for archival journeys, Andrew Solt, whose impressive list of credits includes "Imagine: John Lennon," "Remembering Marilyn," "This Is Elvis" and "It Came From Hollywood," as well as many of the Jacques Cousteau specials.

Solt's involvement with the Sullivan special goes far beyond that of producer/director, for he has purchased the entire Sullivan library for an undisclosed amount of money. The volume of material in the collection is staggering: around 1,100 hours of footage specially housed in a climate-controlled environment. Solt says there is more than enough to make up a third and fourth highlights special, but he plans to precede that with a syndicated release of the show in a re-edited, half-hour format.

In the Nov. 24 special, about 65 performers are featured in clips averaging one minute in length. Besides a few headliners like The Beatles, The Rolling Stones and Presley, who appeared in the first special, this edition carries an "all-new" lineup.

Enjoy once again musical greats Nat King Cole, Johnny Mathis, The Fifth Dimension, The Byrds, Lovin' Spoonful, Credence Clearwater Revival, Roy Orbison and Jackie Wilson; comedians such as Jack Benny and Phyllis Diller; and specialty acts including animal trainer Clyde Beatty, whose loss of control over his big cats drove Sullivan into the audience.

Solt believes "people remember some of the oddest stuff best, like the plate spinner, or Senor Wences... and Topo Gigio." He attributes the popularity of Sullivan's show to its diversity. "Parents watched for one reason, the kids for another; teenagers for another, everybody liked the comedy. It was a very interesting evolution of vaudeville that he had."

David Letterman: Top Ten book No. 2 makes best-seller lists

Late Night With David Letterman's Book of Top Ten Lists was such a hit last year, Letterman and writers have come up with the sequel: An Altogether New Book of Top Ten Lists. Making best-seller lists across the country, the new book is a collection of 169 witty ditties including:

- Top Ten little-known facts about Clarence Thomas
- Top Ten least-popular summer camps
- Top Ten good things about being a really, really, dumb guy
- Top Ten government euphemisms for a recession
- Top Ten features of Saddam Hussein's Bunker
- Top Ten least-popular pay-per-view specials

Gordon Thomson, who played Adam Carrington on ABC's Dynasty series for seven years and now stars on the daytime drama Santa Barbara, has filed suit in Los Angeles Superior Court against Dynasty producer Aaron Spelling. Thomson claims he was hired to reprise his Carrington role for Dynasty: The Reunion, but wasn't given sufficient notice to work around his Santa Barbara schedule. He is seeking $150,000 in salary plus $2.45 million dollars in damages.

After the first four weeks of the new fall TV season, Fox's Beverly Hills, 90210 proved to be the most popular show among youngsters ages 12 to 17, according to Nielsen Media Research. Beverly Hills, 90210 was followed by

David Letterman

NBC's Fresh Prince of Bel Air.

In a Nickolodeon conducted survey of kids 6 to 17 years old, 79 percent said watching television is their most-popular after-school activity. The second-most-popular activity for boys is playing outside, whereas for girls, it is doing homework.

FAMILY FARE

'Tiny Toons' airs script by teen trio

By Chris Carpenter

With what has to be the most dramatically conceived cartoon in history, Warner Bros. has managed to create a half-hour of publicity thinly disguised as a Tiny Toons episode.

In "Buster and Babs Go Hawaiian," the pint-sized spinoffs of favorite Looney Tunes characters follow a scenario penned by a trio of eighth-graders from Waynesboro, Va. Advance publicity indicates the handwritten script "miraculously" made its way into the hands of Toons executive producer Steven Spielberg, who decided to buy it. While it must be immensely pleasing to the girls from Virginia, the fruit of their efforts lacks the luster that usually rubs off on Spielberg productions.

The girls and the famous producer appear as caricatures in the cartoon, and the banter they exchange with Buster and Babs Bunny is designed to let viewers in on the story behind the story. However, these scenes were written after the girls' visit with Spielberg, and the result is an in-joke with no punch line. It would be a stretch, at best, to expect someone watching the show without a press kit to grasp the only real story here: the incredible luck of three young girls.

As one might expect, the animation is terrific, but the story, while pretty good for three eighth-grade girls, says more for having faith in the postal service than it does for big-budget cartoons.

Holiday special promotes positive images

By Dan Rice

As the season that draws loved ones together is approaching, it is a most appropriate time for Gladys Knight's Holiday Family Reunion Concert, a two-hour special due to hit syndicated television markets beginning Monday, Nov. 18. Produced in coordination with the National Council of Negro Women, the musical festivities were inspired by the Black Family Reunion Celebration, a nationally held annual event that has worked to foster positive images of the black family for the past six years.

Carrying a strong message of family unity, the musical numbers are intercut with skits, reminiscences and definitions of "family" offered by stars such as Louis Gossett Jr., Patti LaBelle, Diahann Carroll, Debbie Allen, Jasmine Guy and Marsha Warfield. Also featured are short vignettes filmed on-site at some of the Black Family Reunion Celebration events held this year in various cities.

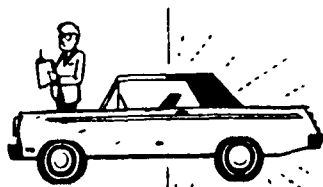

Knight allows that the transition was "challenging," in that such a long collaboration was "like being married. For 39 years you just get used to a certain sound and having those guys on your right or your left."

'Homefront' heartthrob likes his '90s life

By Lisa Otoupal

Twenty-six-year-old Kyle Chandler plays Jeff Metcalf in the ensemble cast of ABC's Homefront, a serial drama set in middle America in 1945. Chandler was born in Buffalo, N.Y., but grew up in Illinois and Georgia. He attended the University of Georgia, and after changing majors "about 10 times," he settled on acting. His first role was in Shakespeare's Comedy of Errors in college. Chandler moved on quickly, doing a few TV movies and then getting into ABC's actors' development program. His first foray into movies, The Color of Evening, has not yet been released.

It was while Chandler was going through the audition process that Homefront came up. His agent called him into her office and they both agreed this was a show he should do ... a show he wanted to do. Originally, Chandler auditioned for the part of Hank, his character's older brother, but got the role of Jeff, the baseball-playing, sensitive younger brother who falls in love with Hank's girlfriend while Hank is at war. Chandler has no regrets. He researched his role by talking to people who had been Jeff's age in 1945.

While acting in Homefront lets Chandler feel as if he's back in 1945, he doesn't wish he had been there. "I like now," says the Los Angeles-based bachelor. And well he should, with a rising career and increasing fame.

Susan Lucci stars in new ABC thriller

By Candace Havens

Seldom has there been so much energy and beauty packed into a 5-foot-3-inch frame as there is with Susan Lucci, who plays Erica on ABC's All My Children. She is a living, breathing, walking dynamo, and this week she's starring in the ABC Sunday Night Movie, The Woman Who Sinned, Nov. 17.

The movie is a thriller, and Lucci portrays Victoria Robeson, who is accused of killing her best friend. Robeson must prove herself innocent, as the police believe they have already solved the case.

"My husband (Helmet Huber) saw the film and felt it was compelling. He couldn't stop watching it," said Lucci in a recent interview. "It is action-packed, it moves (quickly) and it is very suspenseful."

Lucci did many of her own stunts and when asked if she had to do anything to prepare for the physical strain, she commented, "Our studio floor here at ABC is the size of a football field and each of the sets (for All My Children) are arranged all around the perimeter of that space, so there really is a lot of running. You spend 12 hours in the building, and you never have time to sit down. It's a little more physical than anyone would know, and it helps me stay in shape."

Lucci takes four weeks off from the soap each time she does a movie, which takes a lot of coordination between her, the producers and writers. "It takes a lot of team effort, a lot of participation from Agnes Nixon and Felicia Baird, our executive producer. I also do a lot of pretaping and post-taping, so there is a lot of cooperation from the cast and crew."

Family is important to Lucci, and she spends almost all of her time off with her husband and two children, 16-year-old Liza Victoria and 11-year-old Andreas Martin. She attends football games and karate classes and is as active in her children's life as possible. "I make certain we have breakfast and dinner together every day, and we all enjoy traveling and skiing together," says Lucci, showing a maternal warmth she rarely has a chance to display on screen.

LET'S TALK

'Wheel of Fortune' host Pat Sajak knows his p's and q's

By Taylor Michaels

Q: I am quite a television fan and always watch Wheel of Fortune. Am I wrong, or aren't the vowels used in our language a, e, i, o and u? Listen to Pat Sajak when the contestant has used a, e, i, o: He says, "That's all the vowels. Now you have to solve the puzzle or spin." Isn't he forgetting something? —Not Illiterate, Creston, Iowa.

A: No, he's not forgetting anything. As you know, when a contestant guesses a vowel in the puzzle, he can either keep guessing vowels, he can spin or he can try to solve the puzzle. When all the vowels in the puzzle are used, there are no other choices except to spin the wheel or solve the puzzle. For example, if the puzzle were "Taylor Michaels," and the contestant guessed a, e, i and o, he would either have to spin or guess because the letter u is not in the puzzle. Hope this helps.

Q: I am a big fan of Gone With the Wind, both the movie and the book. I heard there would be a made-for-television movie based on the sequel. Could you please tell me when it will air and who the stars will be? —Bonnie Wimmer, Lake City, Minn.

A: The follow-up novel, Scarlett, recently hit bookstore shelves, but the movie based on the sequel may be a while coming. There are rumors that Jane Seymour is the front-runner for the part of Scarlett, but who knows what Hollywood has in mind?

Q: I am a huge fan of Cheers and particularly enjoy Bebe Neuwirth. I would appreciate it if you supplied me with an address so I could write the cast. —Julie Weigold, Farmington Hills, Mich.

A: You can write the cast c/o Paramount Television, 5555 Melrose Ave., Los Angeles, Calif., 90038.

Q: I am in sixth grade. I like to watch old television shows, pick an actor or actress from these shows and look up as much as I can about them. I was wondering why Dick York played Darrin one day and Dick Sargent played him the next day? —Samantha Montgomery, Otis, N.M.

A: I assume you're talking about Bewitched. Dick York originated the role, playing it until a drug-related illness forced his retirement in 1969. Dick Sargent replaced him. Because Bewitched is syndicated, stations can air any episode they wish at any time. In other words, you may not be seeing the episodes in the order in which they were made.

Q: I'm writing concerning the line "I'll cut your heart out and eat it." This was just another version of Shakespeare's, "O God, that I were a man! I would eat his heart out in the marketplace." I'm a 15-year-old girl and I knew that, and as far as I know, it hasn't hurt me in any way. It sounds like TV Listener wants to put Shakespeare out of business. —Laughing in Idaho.

A: My Shakespeare expert tells me this line is from The Merchant of Venice. I'm not answering any more letters about this. I think Laughing in Idaho has said it all.

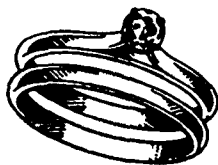

Q: My husband has always been a fan of Audie Murphy. Could you tell me if any of his movies are available on video? If so, where could I send for them? —B.P., Cass City, Minn.

A: The movies available on video are Arizona Riders, Red Badge of Courage, To Hell and Back and The Unforgiven. There is also a Ford Startime drama called The Man available on video. Check with your local video store to see if they can special order the tapes, or call the Video Library of Philadelphia at (800) 669-7157. They specialize in mail-order renting, but they can also special order a movie if you want to buy it.

A&E deregulates Reagan legacy

By Dan Rice

Proof positive of the Peter Principle, Ronald Wilson Reagan's ascent from radio announcer to B-movie actor to governor to president of the United States is traced on A&E's Biography, premiering Tuesday, Nov. 19. Fellow actor Peter Graves accepted the mission of playing host for this character study of the man called "Dutch" who changed wives and political persuasions before climbing the pinnacle of power and public trust. The star of Bedtime for Bonzo is shown in many lights, hues and shades of memory.

When presidential policies of the '80s relaxed many of the country's environmental standards, a portion of the population was sent, literally, scrambling into the woods. On Friday, Nov. 22, A&E's Investigative Reports looks at people with the modern affliction known as Environmental Illness, or hypersensitivity to chemical pollutants, insecticides and other elements of the American atmosphere, who have become refugees from the age of convenience in Toxic Free, TX.

Need an excuse to take the day off? How about the fact that every year 10,000 Americans are killed on the job while another 70,000 succumb to work-related illness? (A paltry 6 million are merely injured.) Death on

TIME OUTWhy Tyson should have been a contender

By Steve Paschal

When defending heavyweight champion Evander Holyfield steps into the ring against Italian challenger Francesco Damiani in Atlanta Saturday, Nov. 23, fight fans will have a pretty good idea who the eventual winner will be. But there's already no doubt that they are the losers in this prime-time, pay-per-view money grab.

Former champion Mike Tyson's tender ribs prevented what a felony indictment could not: a confrontation between great fighters that created the illusion of good vs. evil and promised to line the pocketbooks of the fighters, promoters and anyone else who could get their hands on a piece of the pie.

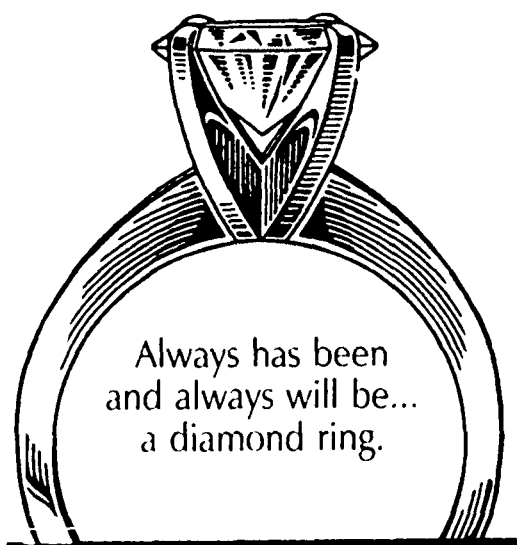

Those who felt that a man accused of a violent crime shouldn't be allowed to fight for the heavyweight championship until he has been cleared of those charges might consider Tyson's injury, which has cost him well over $10 million, to be poetic justice. However, that doesn't change the fact that what once was a great main event has become a Holyfield sparring session.

Damiani looks impressive enough on paper. He was unbeaten in his first 27 professional fights before being stopped by Ray Mercer in January. But
