City hikes water rates, mulls ordinance change

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

Northville City residents will see at least one 10-percent increase in their water and sewer bills in 1992.

The city council voted Dec. 2 to raise the fees, following recommendations by city auditors Plante & Moran. The raise follows a 19-percent increase Jan. 1 of this year to cover the expense of court-ordered regional sewer system improvements.

But the council postponed voting on an amendment to the city's water and sewer rate ordinance that would allow rates to be raised without a public hearing.

The latest rate increase follows an October report by Plante & Moran that recommended three 10-percent increases over a two-year period — Oct. 31, 1991, June 30, 1992 and June 30, 1993. The auditors' report attributed the need for the increases to higher rates charged to the city by the City of Detroit for the water purchased from the Detroit system, and by Wayne County for city sewage disposal. A smaller increase than those recommended, they warned, would quickly result in a deficit in the city's water and sewer fund.

The council, which has discussed the proposed rates in several recent meetings, wasted little time before voting on them Dec.

2. The vote came after a largely-silent public hearing on the rates in which one resident, who attended the council meeting on another matter, asked whether the city placed notices of the proposed rates and public hearing in the newspaper. City staff members assured him that they had.

Council members had hoped that a water system study by Ayres, Lewis, Norris & May would locate the reason or reasons behind the city's historically high rate of water loss from its system, and suggest a cost-effective way to reduce the loss. The loss, now estimated at more than 40 percent of all the water pumped into the city from Detroit, costs city coffers about $150,000 annually when compared to a more typical loss ratio of 15 percent.

The final draft of the ALNM study did not point to any easily-correctable causes for the loss, but suggested that it was largely the result of an older water supply system with many leaking water mains (see related story).

"That study has not identified any sources that could result in an immediate savings, so the Plante & Moran study's findings are just as valid if not more valid," said Mayor Chris Johnson. "I think we have to face up to that fact."

Johnson and council members Carolann Ayers and Dewey Gardner voted for the increase. Members Jerry Mittman and Paul Folino did not attend the meeting.

Under the newly-approved bi-monthly water rates, residents will be charged $1.67 per thousand gallons for the first 5,000 gallons used, $3 per thousand gallons for the next 9,000, and $1.82 for every thousand gallons thereafter. For sewer service, residents will pay $2.95 per thousand gallons for the first 14,000 gallons used and $2.27 for every thousand gallons thereafter.

The council postponed its vote on a proposed ordinance amendment that would allow water and sewer rates to be adjusted without a public hearing. City Manager Gary Word

Asphalt company files suit over township delays

By MIKE TYREE
Staff Writer

Holloway Sand & Gravel Co. on Thursday filed suit against Northville Township, alleging the township dragged its feet on the company's proposed 177-acre development.

The Charter Township of Northville and Michael Kruszewski, the township's chief building official, were named in the suit, which was filed Dec. 5 in Wayne County Circuit Court.

A show-cause hearing is scheduled for Jan. 22 in circuit court in Detroit, said Carol Maise, township planning and zoning administrator.

Holloway submitted an asphalt plant plan for the proposed Six Mile and Ridge roads site on April 11, 1991. Since that time, the township has reviewed the sand and gravel mining application process and has attempted to draft an ordinance to cover asphalt plants.

The township has not started an official site plan review of the controversial development, which would combine a gravel-mining operation and an asphalt plant on property south of Six Mile and west of Ridge Road.

Holloway officials apparently felt it was time to press the issue.

"There has been no decision rejecting, approving, or conditionally approving the site plan in spite of the fact there have been numerous requests to do so by Holloway," Holloway attorney John R. Brennan wrote in the filing document.

Some township staffers were not surprised by the basis of the lawsuit.

"The gist of it is that they submitted a site plan for the asphalt plant in April, and it hasn't been acted upon," Maise said.

Residents and township officials alike have spoken out against the proposed asphalt plant. Neighboring residents, including many from the Blue Heron Pointe subdivision, have jammed township meetings whenever the Holloway proposals appear on an agenda.

The township thus far has failed to adopt an asphalt plant ordinance, which officials hoped would set strict

District leaders review candidates

By SUZANNE HOLLYER
Staff Writer

Anyone interested has had a chance to meet the future superintendent of Novi schools.

But who that man will be remains in question.

Saturday, the school board voted to narrow the field of three candidates.

They chose Williamston Superintendent Emmett Lippe and Waverly Superintendent Jon Reynolds to be the finalists.

Zealand Superintendent Kenneth Harper was eliminated when board members wrote their top two choices on note cards and turned them in to board President Stephen Hitchcock.

Lippe received seven votes, Reynolds received six votes, and Harper received one vote.

Perspectives on the candidates were given by the public prior to the school board vote.

Most agreed, that Lippe was the least charismatic of the three. They also agreed the 15-year Williamston superintendent could be trusted.

"I felt he would never steer me wrong," said parent Sally McInnes.

Gilbert Henderson agreed, and said he would not mind having Lippe as a neighbor or son. But Henderson expressed some reservations about having Lippe come and work in Novi, a place Henderson called a "type-A community."

Henderson defined a type-A community as one that is "hell bent in going down the road at 90 miles an hour."

The two finalists will visit Novi on Dec. 10-11 to meet with the administrative staff, union representatives and three board members in an informal setting.

A small group of board members also will drive to both Lansing and Williamston to see the school districts on Dec. 13.

On Dec. 14 at noon, the final candidate will be selected in a public meeting. The meeting will be held in the Education Services Building, 25345 Taft Road.

Mary Kuzila enjoys breakfast at Northville High

Students, seniors join in breakfast banquet

By SUZANNE HOLLYER
Staff Writer

It was a give-and-take event when senior citizens visited Northville High School Wednesday.

Seniors were provided breakfast, entertainment, plates of cookies to take home, homemade tea, mugs and tickets to the Wednesday night band concert.

And Northville High School might get a scholarship out of the first annual event.

A breakfast of scrambled eggs and sausage got rave reviews.

"And I'm not a sausage eater," she said.

The high school concert choir performed after breakfast.

Then students asked seniors to join the choir in a round of "Deck the Halls."

No one volunteered, but students went into the audience and coaxed some seniors to join the choir.

Student Jason Miller convinced Miriam Mitchell to join the singers.

Miller was one of the students who volunteered to stay after school Wednesday and visit with seniors. It was a half-day and students could have left by 10:30 a.m.

But Miller and others remained an additional two hours.

He sang with the Concert Choir and a barber-shop quartet.

Mitchell, who recently celebrated her 60th Northville High School reunion, said she would return next year if the breakfast was held again.

"They're always so happy to see us," she said.

The seniors were invited to the high school in an effort to give something back to the community, said high school principal Thomas Johnson. He hopes to make the breakfast an annual event.

"We need to reach out to the community," Johnson said.

But the high school might end up winning out in the end.

Senior Citizens' Center Coordinator Karl Peters asked seniors to donate the approximately $4 per person cost of the breakfast. He said the money would be used to provide scholarships next spring.

Jogger's family bitter over trial delay

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

The legal maneuvering surrounding Kenneth Loveday continued Dec. 5, as Oakland County Circuit Court Judge Francis X. O'Brien granted the former Novi resident a one-month adjournment in his manslaughter trial.

The trial had already been delayed from Oct. 24, due to a backlog of cases at the court.

Loveday, 19, was charged with two counts of manslaughter after his Jeep Wrangler struck joggers Yusuf Hanania and Albert Abdelnour June 5 on Eight Mile Road. He pleaded not guilty to the charge.

Judge O'Brien granted the trial adjournment Thursday after Loveday decided to switch defense attorneys, from David Goldstein of Plymouth to Ronald D'Avanzo of Canton. Goldstein had defended Loveday at a July 11 preliminary examination at Plymouth's 35th District Court, but was reportedly unable to attend Thursday's court appearance due to a case in federal court.

Loveday was led into O'Brien's Pontiac courtroom shackled to two other defendants Thursday, and sat silently while the judge appointed the new attorney and adjourned the trial until Jan. 6.

He remained lodged in Oakland County Jail as of press time Friday under a $100,000 cash bond.

Relatives of the two joggers who attended the Thursday court appearance expressed frustration at the trial's delay.

Angela Hanania, Yusuf's wife and the mother of his three children, noted that the Dec. 5 trial date was six months to the day after her husband's death.

"I wanted it over with," she said. "I want people to remember that my kids don't have a father this Christmas."

Basim Abdelnour, Albert's brother, said the holidays have been a bleak time for the family. "It's still hard to fathom how one person can change the course of so many people's lives with one stupid act," he said. "This Thanksgiving, we had absolutely nothing to give thanks for... and Christmas is not going to be any better."

Yusuf Hanania of Novi and brother-in-law Albert Abdelnour of Livonia were running east on the north shoulder of Eight Mile Road just east of Beck Road on the morning of June 5 when they were struck by Loveday's westbound Jeep Wrangler.

Loveday claimed he hit the joggers after swerving to avoid a grey pickup truck heading east on Eight Mile. City police questioned that claim after several witnesses to the accident could not recall seeing such a vehicle.

The teenager was charged with manslaughter after police found evidence of marijuana use prior to the incident. The evidence consisted of a "roach," the remains of a marijuana cigarette, found in the Jeep's ashtray.

Manslaughter is a felony punishable by up to 15 years in prison.

If you answer "yes" to three or more of these questions, you may be a compulsive overeater. You are not alone. Millions of Americans suffer from this disease.

Compulsive overeating is a painful, relentless illness that interferes with every aspect of life. It is a disease that gets progressively worse if left untreated.

Weight gain often accompanies this illness. But not always. Many compulsive overeaters maintain normal body weight by strict diets, fasting, strenuous exercise, vomiting, or excessive laxative use. These methods are ineffective and medically dangerous.

Weight is not the problem, and dieting is not the solution. The problem is the disease of compulsive overeating, and the solution is a program of treatment and recovery.

The Eating Disorders Recovery Center (EDRC) of St. Mary Hospital offers an outpatient treatment program that leads to lasting recovery. Our approach is comprehensive. We help our patients make lifestyle changes that give them renewed confidence in themselves and more control over their lives. Gradually, the chronic binge/diet cycle is replaced by a healthy, more satisfying, and more productive way of life. With food in its proper place, weight normalizes.

At EDRC, we work as a team -- psychologist, psychiatrist, physician, nutritionist, and specially trained therapists -- to diagnose and treat eating disorders. This experienced staff provides treatment with understanding and sensitivity.

If compulsive overeating is a problem for you, or someone you love, take the first step toward recovery. Call us today at 591-2936, WE CAN HELP.

Planners hoping for compromise

By TIM RICHARD
Staff Writer

Officials from Novi, Wixom and Hamburg Township joined environmentalists in asking a state Senate panel to save local wetlands ordinances.

Their massive protest may work. A compromise over state versus local wetlands regulation is shaping up in the Local Government Committee chaired by Sen. David Honigman, R-West Bloomfield. Key elements:

- Many environmentalists said they would accept a uniform, statewide definition of "wetlands" and standardized permit forms for building on wetlands.

- In return, they want continued "home rule" power for cities, villages and townships to regulate wetlands smaller than five acres.

"It wasn't to stop growth," said Novi city forester Chris Pargoff of that city's 1985 wetlands ordinances. "Wetlands purify water, control flooding, foster natural beauty, serve as habitat for wildlife and control erosion."

Pargoff and a parade of others said Senate Bill 522, designed to prohibit local wetlands ordinances, "violates home rule" guaranteed by the state constitution.

"I wouldn't walk out of Lansing unhappy" with a compromise, admitted Norman Hyman, a Detroit attorney for developers. Hyman drafted SB 522 "out of frustration in my dealings with municipalities."

Last month the bill was sent to the Senate by the Natural Resources Committee with strong support from developers, builders and real estate businesses. Honigman maneuvered it off the Senate floor two weeks ago and into his committee.

The panel on Dec. 3 listened to more than four hours of testimony. Members took heat from Hamburg Township Clerk Martha A. Parrish for failing to hear everyone who drove to Lansing and sat in the packed committee room.

Honigman promised to hear everyone when his five-member panel takes up the bill again in January.

Hamburg Township in Livingston County hasn't used its wetlands ordinance to halt growth. Supervisor Harry Bater said. "We've had 1,400 building sites in two years," he said.

Bater said his township, where the Huron River runs through seven lakes, needs to oversee wetlands because the state Department of Natural Resources is too short-staffed.

"DNR has properties they're trying to control that they can't control now," Bater said, citing a golf course developer who he said was trying to divert water from the river.

Many opponents of SB 522 were furious at homebuilders' printed charges that "local control" is "a code phrase for economic and racial exclusion in some communities."

"A bill of goods that just isn't true," said a Hamburg Township Board resolution. "They don't fill wetlands to make 'affordable' housing. They fill wetlands because they are usually in proximity to valuable lake-related property that appeals to the most upscale buyer."

Mark Taormina, a planner for West Bloomfield Township, a particular target of the "exclusion" comment, said the criticism was wrong.

"Our ordinance has not slowed growth, but we have 25 lakes to guard," he said. Of criticism that local units delay the permit process, Taormina said his process is faster than DNR's.

"I don't understand how $300,000 in a wetlands is affordable housing" for minorities, said Don Hoes of Waterford, vice president of the Michigan Lakes and Streams Association.

"People demanded wetlands ordinances. They didn't come out of thin air," said Farmington Hills attorney Gerald Fisher, representing West Bloomfield and several other Oakland County units.

Fisher said DNR is too short-staffed to handle wetlands regulation alone and needs the help of local units. "In southeast Michigan there is one DNR representative for six counties. You can't get through a phone call to make a complaint," he said.

"I've seen developers come into Farmington Hills, take out every tree and rename it 'Woodland Pines,'" said Mary Johnston of Farmington Hills, drawing laughter at the developers' expense.

Scoffed Sen. Gilbert DiNello, D-East Detroit, a commercial real estate broker who supports the bill: "Environmental groups oppose all commercial and industrial development. They say you can't do anything with wetlands."

DiNello is pushing a bill requiring government to buy wetlands for which it refuses development permits.

James N. Ash, member of a Wixom committee that oversees wetlands, said, "Our committee has taxed itself to buy sensitive properties."

Hyman, the development lawyer, wouldn't name names but insisted it's true that "environmental regulations are used for the purpose of excluding."

"Of 30 communities with wetlands ordinances, all are in the fringes of development. Why these 30? I suggest to you it's not out of any concern for the environment."

"Amateurs" serve on local wetlands boards, Hyman said, and developers must bounce back and forth between several local boards and the DNR before obtaining permits.

The olive branch of compromise was waved by lobbyists for the Michigan Municipal League, Michigan Townships Association and Detroit Audubon Society.

Don Stypula, MML's environmental affairs adviser, said there should be a single definition of a wetland. "Local units should be allowed to control wetlands below five acres," the cutoff point under the state Wetland Protection Act.

Spokesman Gene Thornton said MTA would "support a uniform definition and uniform application process."

Omnicom raises cable rates again

By MIKE TYREE
Staff Writer

Here's a surprise: Local cable television rates are on the rise.

Come Jan. 1, Omnicom Cablevision's 5,600 Northville township and city subscribers will notice an increase of $1.55 in their basic cable package.

The increase is primarily due to steadily climbing programming, insurance and local origination costs, Omnicom General Manager Lisa Boland said recently.

"Satellite programming costs are up 13 percent," she said. "You know, unfortunately, costs have to go up every year."

Cable staples such as the Discovery Channel, VH-1, MTV, and Nickelodeon are the chief culprits in the latest round of rate hikes, Boland said.

And channels like ESPN and CNN are costing Omnicom about 12 percent more this year than last, she said.

Consumers have felt the brunt of annual industry hikes. Local subscribers last year were slapped with a $1.50 increase.

The current basic cable rate will jump from $19.95 to $21.50, a 7-percent increase for basic service subscribers. But the increase is only 4.5 percent for the average cable customer, whose bill is about $32.50 monthly, Boland said.

Customers last year received additional channels with their rate increase. No such benefits are forthcoming this year, Boland said.

"We didn't feel we could incur costs for any additional channels," she said. "When we do add a channel, we look at it very, very carefully."

The cable television industry is regulated by the Federal Communications Commission, but rates and profit margins are not public record, Boland said. She was not willing to discuss Omnicom's profit margin.

Omnicom lists approximately 35,000 subscribers in its local region, which includes Canton Township, Plymouth township and city, and Northville township and city. Boland said about 1,900 new customers signed up for cable in 1991, and 2,200 new subscribers are eyed for the company's fiscal year 1992, Boland said.

With rate increases a common occurrence and regulators apparently unwilling to hold the line on costs, residents might wonder if they have any recourse — other than pulling the plug — on further rate hikes or poor service.

Local governments may have control, however remote, over those issues.

Omnicom was awarded Northville Township's cable franchise in August, 1979. Other local communities entered in similar agreements at about the same time.

The township's 15-year contract is due to expire in August, 1994, and communities are just entering a "window" which allows them to negotiate with the cable provider on a new contract. Theoretically, local governments could choose not to renew the Omnicom contract, opening the door for another cable operator and possible lower rates.

Realistically, a new operator would have to invest huge amounts of money to purchase or lease poles, wires, and other equipment owned by Omnicom. That is one of the reasons why Boland said it is "very difficult to deny a renewal."

"An operator would have to be not meeting the community's needs, or be unable to do so," she said. "We don't expect that (a denial) to happen."

But the communities reportedly are taking a close look into the proposed contract.

Supervisor Betty Lennox said Northville Township will soon form a committee to look into citizen complaints or questions about Omnicom's services. Lennox said "five or six" people will serve on the committee, which she said will include township staffers, elected officials, residents, and others.

The committee is expected to offer recommendations for township negotiating strategies.

One of those negotiating plays may include an increase in the basic fee Omnicom pays Northville Township. The township currently receives a "franchise fee" of 3 percent of Omnicom's revenues.

Omnicom pays Northville Township on a monthly basis. Most recent franchise fee figures show Omnicom paying the township about $3,700 in September, based on local revenues of $123,000.

Franchise fees for local governments could be bumped to 5 percent of revenues, based on guidelines of the Cable Communications Act of 1984. Lennox said that adjustment "has to be a negotiable item," but Boland said any such increase would be immediately passed on to consumers.

Northville City Manager Gary Word said he has not received "much feedback" from the public concerning increased cable rates or services. He said the city would show interest in a possible joint community negotiating strategy, and he said the city would likely raise Omnicom's franchise fee.

Police News

Jewelry taken during home burglary

A Northville Township resident told police that someone broke into his home on Seven Mile sometime between Nov. 23 - Nov. 30.

The thief broke a back window to gain entry to the residence, township police said. Among items reported stolen were: A diamond ring, a sapphire and diamond ring, a gold chain, a gold bracelet, earrings, seven bottles of liquor, and a small amount of cash.

The stolen items were valued at almost $1,600. Police have made no arrests in the case.

EXPOSED TO THE ELEMENTS: A Plymouth woman told township police she was rollerblading on Hines Drive north of Five Mile Dec. 1 when a man driving a dark blue sedan raised up in the vehicle's seat and exposed himself to her.

The woman said the man was approximately 34-42 years old, had short, dark hair and a mustache. She also said the man was wearing a dark sweater or shirt that was pulled up over his stomach.

INCIDENTS AT MEIJER: A Livonia woman told township police that someone took her purse Nov. 29 while she was standing at the photo counter at Meijer, 20401 Haggerty. The purse contained credit cards and cash. Meijer security reportedly recovered the purse later that day and returned it to the woman.

A 32-year-old Detroit man was charged with larceny after he attempted to steal four cartons of cigarettes from Meijer Nov. 29. A computer check revealed that the man was wanted on four warrants, including a felony warrant out of Oakland County, a larceny warrant out of Riverview, and two traffic warrants out of Detroit, township police said.

A 40-year-old Detroit man was charged with larceny after he attempted to steal four cases of golf balls from Meijer Nov. 25. The golf balls were valued at $112.

OUIL: A 32-year-old Westland man was charged with operating a vehicle under the influence of liquor after his arrest late Dec. 1 on Six Mile east of Winchester, township police said.

CASH STOLEN FROM CLUBHOUSE: An employee of Park Place of Northville Apartments, 43001 Northville Place Drive, told township police that someone stole $300 in cash from an office desk drawer late Nov. 21 or early Nov. 22.

RECKLESS DRIVER ARRESTED: City police arrested a 43-year-old Dearborn Heights man Dec. 1 after chasing his vehicle south from Main Street and Griswold to Northville Road near the entrance to Hines Park.

A police officer saw the man run a red light on Main at Griswold at 3:30 p.m. and followed the man, who was driving between five and 10 miles over the speed limit. Despite being signaled to stop several times by the officer, the man drove south through another red light at Northville Road and Seven Mile, and ran another southbound vehicle off Northville Road. The man pulled over just south of the entrance to Hines Park.

Police arrested the man for reckless driving and discovered a traffic warrant from Detroit for fleeing and eluding a police officer. He was released after posting a $69 bond on the Detroit warrant and a $500 personal bond on the Northville charge.

DRIVER REFUSES BREATH TEST: A 49-year-old Eastpointe man was arrested for operating a vehicle under the influence of liquor Dec. 5 after a city police officer saw him run a red light at Eight Mile and Beck and drive off Eight Mile Road several times.

The eastbound driver was pulled over at Eight Mile and Randolph. When asked to shut his vehicle off, the man reportedly tried several times to turn off the radio, which was not on, before finding the ignition key and turning off the engine. When asked to exit his vehicle, he reportedly slipped and nearly fell before grabbing the door for support. When the officer asked him how much he had had to drink, the man reportedly replied, "too much."

The man later refused to submit to a Breathalyzer test, and refused to answer any questions after being read his Miranda rights. He was released to his wife's custody after posting a $100 bond, and after police discovered that he needed regular dialysis treatments.

SUSPENDED LICENSE ARREST: A 30-year-old Northville man was arrested for driving with a suspended license early on Dec. 4 after being stopped for an improperly displayed license plate at Center Street and Edward Hines Drive.

The man's license was suspended for failing to appear in court in Plymouth on a charge of driving with an expired license. Police also found an outstanding Northville Township warrant for an expired license. The man was released to Northville Township police after posting a $500 personal bond. His vehicle was impounded and license plate confiscated after a computer check found no record of a vehicle bearing that plate.

VCR STOLEN: A black Sharp videocassette recorder was stolen from the Community Emergency Medical Services office at 432 N. Center St. The theft occurred sometime between 2:30 p.m. Nov. 30 and just after midnight Dec. 1. Police found no signs of forced entry at the scene.

FENDER BENDER: A 15-year-old Northville girl was driving south on Novi Road at 12:35 p.m. Dec. 4 when she drove off the road and the car's tires became stuck in a rut just south of Allen Drive. She lost control of the car and drove into the bridge on Novi Road, and the car had to be towed from the scene. Neither she nor her mother, a passenger in the car, were injured. No citations were issued, and Northville City police notified the Oakland County Road Commission about the ruts.

Citizens with information about the above incidents are urged to call Northville City Police at 349-1234 or Northville Township Police at 349-9400.

Bill would target minors' licenses

By TIM RICHARD
Staff Writer

Michigan would use drivers' license suspensions as a tool against both adult drug dealers and minors who drink under bills passed by the state Senate.

All go to the House, where they face an uncertain future.

The Senate approved, 29-6, a pair of bills to require a 30-day drivers license suspension for anyone committing drug-related offenses. Some 80,000 licenses a year could be affected.

Sens. Jack Faxon, D-Farmington Hills, and Lana Pollack, D-Ann Arbor, were the only area members voting no.

Faxon protested that the state "would be impeding their opportunities at both securing legitimate employment and functioning within our community. I think it is counterproductive. It would only further compound the problems of their being reincarcerated for driving without a license."

Sen. Virgil Smith, D-Detroit, said the bills amount to "minding apples and oranges" because the drug offenses may not be driving related.

The bills would mandate the suspensions for 90 days for the second offense and six months for subsequent offenses. Sponsor was Jack Welborn, R-Kalamazoo.

The Senate approved 30-4 even tougher bills affecting minors, sponsored by Robert Geake, R-Northville.

A minor would have his license suspended for six months for a first offense or until age 18 for a list of offenses.

The list includes drunk driving, impaired driving, transporting alcohol, consuming alcohol, and using or dealing drugs. An estimated 13,300 youngsters per year could be affected.

All area senators voted yes except Pollack, who missed the vote.

"It's going to be a gimmick," said Sen. Don Koivisto, D-Ironwood, who voted no. "Everyone wants to show how tough they are on drunk driving and how tough they are on drugs because MADD (Mothers Against Drunk Driving) has gotten so powerful."

"But sometimes you go overboard. This is a case where you are saying if your teenager gets caught with a beer, they lose their license, their insurance goes up another couple thousand dollars, and they are unable to drive," Koivisto said.

Holloway sues over township's delays

guidelines for such uses, and specifically the Holloway proposal. Asphalt plant ordinance talks bogged down in recent weeks when township attorneys and planning commissioners quibbled over language in the proposed law.

Planners and attorneys recently have attempted to find a common ground on language for setbacks and other asphalt plant-related issues. The idea, officials said, was to develop tough, but not overly-restrictive wording that would not be tossed out of court.

Now the township finds itself stuck in litigation without any asphalt plant ordinance.

Planning commissioners will meet in what amounts to an emergency session at 7:30 tonight (Dec. 9) at township hall. The commission will attempt to approve the asphalt plant ordinance, which would then be sent on to Wayne County planning for review on its Dec. 18 agenda.

The township board then would review the proposed ordinance at its January session.

Holloway officials were unavailable for comment and did not return a reporter's telephone calls by presstime.

Supervisor Betty Lennox said officials were aware that a lawsuit was likely, but she expressed surprise at the timing.

"We didn't realize it was coming," she said. "But we're trying to do the best we can for the residents of that area."

Consultant outlines water main plan

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

A recently-completed review of the city's water supply system recommends more than $840,000 in water main replacements over the next five years.

The recommendations by Ayres, Lewis, Norris & May concern water mains under 10 city streets with a history of breaks and freezing due to their shallow depth. The list is made up of those mains that have had "more than five major breaks and / or experienced significant failures of the service leads."

The mains, listed in order of priority for replacement, are under Dubuair, Baseline, Grace, North Center, Maplewood, Rural Hill, Yerkes, Seven Mile and Ely South. The price tag for replacing existing four- and six-inch diameter water mains with new six- and eight-inch ones ranges from $217,000 for the replacement of 3,000 feet of pipe under North Center Street to $31,000 for 550 feet of pipe under Rural Hill Drive.

The costs include the estimated price of partial street replacement needed after replacing mains under the first seven streets.

The report also recommended a city program to replace all the city's water meters over the next 10-15 years, at an estimated cost of $16,000 per year.

The 21-page report, together with seven appendices — including a 10-page appendix which lists the estimated cost for repairing the city's 10 worst water mains — is the result of a year-long Ayres, Lewis, Norris & had recommended changing the ordinance to bring it in line with other city rate ordinances.

"I personally feel that this (ordinance) should be modified to be adopted by resolution and not ordinance," Word said. "not only to be more in line with the way other city fees are modified, but to match the system used by many other Michigan cities, and indeed cities throughout the midwest."

Word added that the Michigan Department of Natural Resources had just reviewed the city's water and sewer rate ordinance and found that it does not fully comply with the state's requirements for a user-charged collection system.

Among the state's requirements, Word listed the requirement that the ordinance collect enough revenue to operate, maintain and replace the system, that each system user pay a proportional share of operational, maintenance and repair costs, and that an annual report be submitted to users detailing the costs of operation, maintenance and replacement. The state also requires an annual review of the rates.

Council members agreed with Word's recommendation to continue the Dec. 2 public hearing on the proposed ordinance change to Dec. 16, to give the council more time to review the proposed ordinance, allow city staff the opportunity to make more revisions, and garner more public input on the change.

May study of the city's water supply system.

The Ann Arbor engineering firm was authorized to perform the $12,000 study in December, 1990, following an auditors' report that estimated the cost of the abnormally high rate of water loss at $150,000 a year.

While most water systems typically lose between 5-15 percent due to leaks and unmetered water uses like fire hydrants, Northville's rate of loss has hovered around 40 percent for the past 20 years.

"We had originally hoped to find a single large source of water loss that could be repaired and relieve the problem considerably," said ALNM president Abe Munfah. "Unfortunately, that did not happen."

City officials were unsure what to do with the report's findings, given the city's current fiscal shortfall.

"One idea we've had was a major program to replace roads throughout the community, and we're doing that," said Mayor Chris Johnson, "but we haven't taken the same approach with the water lines or sewer lines."

Johnson asked Munfah for a comparison between the cost of the individual repairs and the amount of money they would save in the long run. "What's the payback, and how long a time are we looking at before a payback," he asked.

Council Member Dewey Gardner questioned the scope of the suggested repairs. "The estimated water main replacements over a five-year period seem like such a small patch," he said.

"Not really," Munfah replied. "These are the major problem areas in the city."

Munfah noted that the cost of replacing the first three water mains on the list, those under Dubuair, Baseline and Grace, would be the same as the cost of allowing them to leak for three to five more years.

New water mains are also more durable than the old ones used throughout the city, he said, with up to a 50-year life expectancy as opposed to the current cast-iron pipe's 30-year life expectancy.

"We estimate if all these improvements are made, you could reduce the water loss by about 10 percent," Munfah said.

That reduction, cutting the loss from 40 percent to 30 percent of the city's total water intake, could save the city about $60,000 annually according to an analysis by auditors Plante & Moran.

Some Restrictions May Apply

Support students' rights of expression

Example: A high school student working on the student newspaper is asked by a principal to submit a story for review. The principal deletes several sentences and changes others. The student decides to withhold the story from publication rather than publish the revised version, which by this point has lost its timeliness. The year is 1991.

Education

The issue is what is known as "prior restraint" or censorship. And it was among the first battles fought that led to the American revolution and creation of a First Amendment, which protects freedom of speech and freedom of the press. But in many high schools, the practice is still with us today.

Our readers would rebel (we hope) if we began submitting our stories to the city council or school board for approval prior to publication. By the same token, we don't believe students should have to submit to such prior review before school administrators.

But a bill sitting in a Michigan House of Representatives committee would force principals to end their practice of occasionally censoring the student newspapers. And we strongly support the legislation.

We respect the intelligence and good intentions of Northville High School Principal Thomas Johnson. However, we find his policy of reviewing the student newspaper prior to publication unacceptable.

He has stated that his goal in reviewing the paper is to insure that nothing is published that someone might find offensive. He also believes the principal bears the brunt of criticism for what is published and, therefore, should have the right to review what goes in the student newspaper.

The legal justification for allowing administrators to censor and review student publications is that schools generally provide the financial support that allows a student newspaper to exist. Therefore, the theory says, school administrators are responsible for the paper's content and must regulate it.

But there are inherent flaws in this thinking that the proposed legislation hopes to correct. For many reasons, not all of them self-serving, we feel that the First Amendment freedoms practiced daily by professional journalists should be exercised by our youth as well.

First, and most importantly, we put faith in our educators to train students to become productive adults. For interested students, the school newspaper is the perfect vehicle to convey lessons on the Constitution, and the rights to freedom of expression that it grants.

The Michigan Constitution, in fact, grants greater freedoms of expression than the U.S. Constitution. In Article I, Sec. 5, it says, "Every person may freely speak, write, express and publish his views on all subjects . . ." The Article makes no qualifications, not for white people, not for men . . . and not for adults.

The Article follows the above phrase with the caveat, "... being responsible for the abuse of such right." Here, too, is an important opportunity for lessons to be taught. With an seasoned advisor, students can not only be schooled in responsibility for their words and expressions, but the importance of responsibility in all aspects of their lives.

Furthermore, it is important to give high school students, ready to embark on adulthood, some feelings of empowerment. Students whose speech is squelched today will not have the courage or desire to participate in public life as adults. In fact, the only thing they may learn from a censored attempt at righting a wrong or influencing their peers is that they need not bother participating in public life at all.

Student journalists interested in leading their classmates by using the student newspaper should be encouraged. They could be the leaders or even journalists of tomorrow. We wonder if Watergate or the Iran Contra scandal would have come to light if the journalists that broke those stories had been censored and repressed as high school students.

Under the proposed legislation, the newspaper advisor or, if journalism teacher would bear the responsibility for guiding students, reviewing publications and striking libelous or obscene material. School administrators would be prohibited from reviewing the paper prior to publication or censoring anything that goes into it.

We feel that the legislation puts the responsibility for student publications exactly where it should be — in the hands of an expert. School principals have a difficult job, and in a community like Northville, one doesn't rise to this position without a wealth of training and experience. But while they may be good at budgeting, scheduling and people management, principals generally don't have adequate backgrounds in journalism and communications law, not to mention the standards practices of the trade.

Finally, allowing administrators to judge the content of a school paper is a conflict of interest pure and simple. The media often acts as a check on government, and schools are a unit of government. Even if an administrator was well-versed in communications law, he couldn't be counted on as an unbiased judge of a medium that may be critical of him or his school.

What better medium to act as the watchdog on school administration than a school newspaper? The students might not always be right, but with proper training (by an advisor not an administrator) they will learn to get both sides of every story.

Fur flies during annual hunt

I finally got serious about Christmas shopping last week.

Carefully choosing a weeknight during the dinner hour, I was hoping to avoid the masses at Twelve Oaks. A friend of mine calls the place Twelve Jokes, in reference to the traffic situation on weekends during the holiday season.

As luck would have it, I ran into the same friend that night. After we congratulated each other for avoiding the crowds, I asked him how the deer season had gone. He's an avid huntin' and fishin' type from Howell.

"Oh, don't get me started," he said, rolling his eyes.

My curiosity piqued, I pressed him for details.

It seems he and two buddies had gone north during firearms deer season. The party took to the woods before dawn on the first day, only to be joined by eight animal activists, clad in blaze orange.

They introduced themselves as animal activists, and said they were there to "discourage hunters from taking part in the slaughter."

Spreading the word wasn't enough, however. The activists followed my friend's hunting party for most of the morning, talking loudly, rattling branches and shuffling their feet through the leaves.

Around 11 a.m., the hunters gave in. They hadn't seen a deer all day — though the DNR said the woods would be overflowing with whitetail this season — because of the noise. They hopped in their car and headed to a saloon to grumble.

The rest of the weekend went as planned. One of the guys got a nice eight-pointer, and the rest had stones of ones that got away. There were no further intrusions by the two-legged beasts.

My friend's tale left me with a sour taste in my mouth, though. I've always characterized myself as an animal lover. I worked in an animal shelter for two years when I was in high school, and would have been a veterinarian if I'd have had a better mind for chemistry.

But on the other hand, I've never numbered myself among the anti-hunting legions either. I earned marksman status in target shooting during my summer camp days, though I've never felt the urge to try my skills on wildlife.

I do understand, though, that annual hunts are there for a reason. An overpopulated herd needs to be thinned.

How then, can the activists stand in judgment of others, and harass them in pursuit of perfectly legal recreation? I haven't met any of these people, but I have a hard time believing they are better informed about wildlife management practices than people who've made it their career.

For that matter, why don't these people devote their energies to improving the human condition? I think these are the same people who would step over someone sleeping in a cardboard box to spit on someone wearing a mink coat. At the very least, they could team up with hunters to stamp out poaching, a truly wasteful and heinous crime.

It's unfortunate that a minority of misguided, underinformed people are being guided by misplaced emotions, and parading harassment under the guise of a noble cause.

If there's a light at the end of the tunnel in this matter, it's that the anti-hunting activists probably aren't bright enough to get anywhere with their cause. I mean, how stupid do you have to be to go trooping out into the woods, miles from any witnesses, to harass three guys with high-powered rifles?

New specs get little respect

I never read the book, but it was written by somebody named Gail Sheehy and it was called "Passages," and what it was about, I think, was those various little transitional stages that just about everybody can count on experiencing as they go through the process of getting older.

What brings all this to mind is that I have recently experienced one of my own little "passages."

No big thing, mind you. In fact, many of you are going to be struck by the insignificance of the matter when I tell you what my "passage" was all about. To me, however, it was an episode of great magnitude and the source of deep depression. What it is is that I finally had to get a pair of glasses last week.

That's right, ol' Phil, after almost 48 years of toil and strife on this mortal coil, is bespectacled for the first time in his life.

Actually, it's been coming on for some time. It was about a year ago that I started having trouble reading the small print. You know the way some papers scrunch up their crossword puzzles to conserve space? That's where I first noticed it.

And there were other places, too. Like the statistics pages in the sports section. I have no idea who made the All Big Ten football team this year.

And trying to keep track of the pittance I have stashed away in a mutual fund by reading the financial pages is another totally lost cause.

Gradually, my affliction became more and more obvious as I started moving newspapers and magazines closer and closer to the tip of my nose in order to read them. Until finally, I succumbed and scheduled an appointment with my favorite optometrist, Marty Levin at the Northville Vision Clinic, a man I used to destroy rather systematically on the racquet-ball courts.

"You're getting older, Jerome," he said after ascertaining that what I had told him about the small print was true. "You need reading glasses."

Actually, the trauma-inducing recognition of creeping senility was not quite as bad as the heartless abuse I have received since I started wearing my glasses.

Take the good eye doctor, for example . . . after he directed me over to the part of the clinic where you get to select your frames.

"I'm looking for frames which will make me look intelligent and make me absolutely irresistible to women," I said. "I'm an optometrist, Jerome; not a magician," he replied. And it got worse when I got to work.

"I told 'em I wanted glasses that would make me look intelligent and make me irresistible to women," I said when people first noticed my new spectacles.

"So why didn't you get them?" said Marilyn from the Comp Shop. "They must have been all out," snapped Comp Shop Robin.

"You know who those glasses make you look like?" asked Judi, another Comp Shopper.

"Robert Redford?" I suggested.

"Tom Selleck?"

"Nope, neither of those guys," said Judi. "Actually, I was thinking of that old guy on teevee."

"Jed Clampett?" asked Marilyn, referring to Buddy Ebsen from the old Beverly Hillbillies show on television.

"Nah, not him," snorted Judi. "I was thinking more of that guy from HeeHaw — Grampa Jones."

You get what you pay for with Bordeaux

In practical terms, Bordeaux is a generic expression for the wines from the geographical areas known as the Medoc, Graves, St. Emilion and Pomerol. The Bordeaux region has 60,000 inhabitants, many of whom work the nearly 193,000 vineyard acres producing Appellation Controles (ADC) wines.

If they are not vineyard workers, Bordeaux residents live or work in one of the 7,000 chateaux, or produce wine in one of the 60 cooperatives. Many others work for one of the 300 wine negociants (shippers) located in the region.

Annually, about 500 million bottles of wine are produced in Bordeaux. A stock capacity equivalent to 1.7 billion bottles is available. Slightly more than 75 percent is red wine and slightly less than 25 percent is white wine. All totaled, the region accounts for 1/4 of the exports of French ADC wines, but only three percent of this production is classified Grands Crus — the most talked-about wines in the world.

Recently, Jim Lutfy of Cloverleaf Market, Michigan's largest wine retailer, conducted a tasting of 35 Bordeaux wines from the 1988 vintage principally. After tasting through all the wines, the following is our assessment.

With respect to quality, you get what you pay for in the 1988 vintage. Modestly priced wines (below $15) from lesser-known chateaux have pleasing, but average flavors. Two of the most flavorful examples are Chateau Canon de Brem and Chateau Horteve. Both have a solid fruit impression on the palate and in the finish.

A step up to the $20 to $25 range, reveals wines with a bigger, fuller expression and cellaring potential. The best wine in this category is the 1988 Chateau Phelan Segur. One of the largest in the Medoc region, this property as it is known today, was established in the early 19th century by Frank Phelan, who came from Ireland to settle permanently in Saint-Estephe.

Today, Thierry Gardinier is an owner of Chateau Phelan Segur. "The 1988 Phelan Segur is a classic Saint-Estephe wine with ample fruit and tannins," Gardinier remarked. "It will start to drink well in 1994 and has a 15-20 year cellaring potential."

We found the wine generous with well-balanced fruit, soft tannins and a lengthy aftertaste. It is a blend of classic Bordeaux varietals: 60 percent cabernet sauvignon, 30 percent merlot and 10 percent cabernet franc.

The 1988 Chateau Bahans Haut Brion ($23) also competed well with higher-priced offerings. Nathaniel Johnston, owner of one of the oldest negociant houses in Bordeaux, exclusively represents this property. Thomas Jefferson is said to have bought some of his wines from this negociant firm. "Bahans Haut Brion, the second label for the renowned Chateau Haut Brion, has the special cabernet sauvignon taste always attributed to Haut Brion," Johnston maintains.

In the upper price brackets and the better-known chateaux, the following are stellar examples: Latour ($58), Cos D'Estournel ($37), Figeac

WINE SELECTIONS OF THE WEEK

A preview of wines from the 1989 Bordeaux vintage revealed the following values.

To avoid wine drinkers, red wines are synonymous with Bordeaux. The 1989 Dourthe Numero 1 Blanc ($9.50) is a white Bordeaux blend of 70 percent sauvignon blanc and 30 percent semillon with charm and personality. It's a good value for holiday entertaining as an aperitif wine or an accompaniment to fish courses.

1989 Chateau Pitray ($7.50) shows the fruit opulence of a warmer-than-average growing season in Bordeaux. It's fruit packed and generous for current drinking at a value price.

GINGER:

The spice-lover's spice isn't just for gingerbread houses

Ginger is showing up in a variety of forms

Care and feeding of ginger

SELECTING: Like all ground spices, powdered ginger loses much of its flavor as time goes on.

The useful shelf life is 6 months or less. If you haven't taken down your supply since the last holiday baking season, it's time for a new bottle.

For fresh ginger, look for "roots" that are firm, unblemished and not showing signs of shrinkage.

STORING: Powdered ginger should be kept in a cool, dry, dark place.

Fresh ginger will keep in the refrigerator vegetable crisper for a week. To maintain it for two or three weeks, place ginger in a plastic bag with a paper towel to absorb moisture; refrigerate.

The Chinese use this method for longer storage: Cut the ginger into convenient chunks and peel. Place in a jar and cover with shao hsing (Chinese rice wine, available in Asian markets) or inexpensive domestic sherry, which tastes similar. Put a lid on the jar and store in the refrigerator.

The ginger will last for a few months, although it gradually loses flavor. Top up the wine as needed.

GROWING: Ginger will grow in most regions of Southern California except the higher mountains and the deserts.

You can plant the same rhizomes that you use for seasoning: Cut into 1- to 2-inch lengths containing buds; let the cut ends dry. Plant just covered with soil.

Ginger needs rich soil, plus moisture and heat. Good drainage is important. If you are successful with camellias and begonias, you will probably be with ginger, too, for it calls for much the same conditions.

Stems will grow up to 4 feet tall. You can harvest the rhizomes any time after the plant reaches an appreciable size.

By CHARLES BRITTON
Copley News Service

The holiday season brings on a ginger binge. Cooks reach for jars of the pale tan spice, which may scarcely have been touched for a year, as the calendar suggests that it's time for pumpkin pies and fruitcake. Ambitious families construct gingerbread houses, and dishes of candied ginger appear as a traditional sweet.

But although more ginger is likely to be used in November and December than at other times, the spice is working its way into widespread acceptance as a virtual staple.

"It's right next to apples in the produce department," said Linda Merinoff, author of "Gingerbread" (Simon & Schuster). "When people were first getting interested in Chinese cooking, they would use ground ginger. But now you can get the fresh anywhere."

Ginger has been described as the spice-lover's spice. It might appear in almost any course, sometimes as a prime ingredient rather than just an incidental flavoring. It forms the basis of the popular soft drink, ginger ale. It's the only spice commonly found here in the fresh form (unless you count chili peppers), and it can even be eaten candied. You can grow your own — something you can't say about other "sweet spices," cinnamon, cloves and nutmeg.

Most fresh ginger comes from Hawaii and Fiji, depending on the season. Taiwan, the Philippines and Central America are other sources. China and India export most of the dried, ground ginger, the form in which it was long best known in the west.

In the fresh state, it is sometimes called gingerroot, but that is a misnomer. The business end of the plant is actually a rhizome, an underground fleshy stem. The spice comes from "official ginger" — zingiber officinale — and relations include the somewhat similar galangal and mild, bright yellow turmeric. Another branch of the family provides us with cardamom seed, and there are ornamental varieties as well.

With the widespread availability of fresh ginger, cooks may be tempted to substitute it for the dried traditionally used in Western recipes. Merinoff had this advice: "Don't shift — it doesn't work. When you use fresh in place of ground, the flavor becomes harsh, for some reason. It's a different taste, much heavier. Of course, if you want to experiment, go ahead."

For the adventurous or heedless, she suggests that 1 tablespoon of fresh ginger equals 1/4 to 1/2 teaspoon of ground. The intense powdered spice definitely does not substitute for mild candied ginger, which can be eaten like a sweetmeat.

"When my sister Katie and I were kids," recounted Merinoff, "we were looking in the pantry one day and saw a box of ground ginger. Katie said 'Gee, ginger bread is good. I bet this stuff is really good, too.' So she took a spoonful of ginger and ate it — she was a basketcase. She cried for hours."

In keeping with its protean nature, ginger is available in various forms:

- Ground ginger, still the most familiar type. Jamaica has the reputation of growing the most choice ginger in this form.
- Dried sections of ginger "root" available in some Asian markets. Pieces can be ground when needed for much better flavor, though few Western cooks take the trouble.
- Fresh ginger, sold in "hands." Hawaii sends us the largest and most succulent examples.
- Young ginger, cream-colored rhizomes tipped in pink, available in early summer. This ginger has a tender, crisp texture, very suitable for preserving in syrup or vinegar, but without the pronounced flavor of the mature crop.
- Pickled ginger, sold in Asian markets. Sushi fans will recognize this as the thin, purple stained slices eaten as a plate-cleanser between orders.
- Ginger in syrup, sometimes called, "stem ginger." This can go into sweet dishes. Another form of preserves is marmalade, usually seen as a British import, ginger fanciers will love it on toast at breakfast or tea.
- Candied or crystallized ginger. The best nowadays comes from Australia. This is for true ginger lovers, because although the candying process softens the flavor, the peppery bite comes through with authority. In the 19th century, a plate of candied ginger would be passed around after dinner as a digestive. It also can be

Chef Mary Brady

Buffalo remains a melting pot for culinarians

What a fantastic day Thanksgiving was. The anticipation had begun days before. All my family, except for Isabelle, was going to be together for the first time in two years. This is no small feat since I have six siblings, three of which live out of town.

Isabelle is an emergency room specialist in Tampa and is very kind to work on holidays so her co-workers who have families may spend them at home. As a surprise, she flew in. We did not have any idea. What a delight. We celebrated our first holiday together in years.

On Tuesday the relatives from Buffalo arrived. Aunt Betty brought roast beef and au jus from my Uncle George who owns a butcher shop. Buffalo is known for its beef on a wick, and rightly so. Like Buffalo wings, no one can make them as good as they are in my home town. What is it about the roast beef? Other than that it's excellent I can't say.

I only know that there isn't anyplace in Detroit that compares.

Buffalo is a food town. There are many ethnic groups that still live in "neighborhoods." These mini-states are self sufficient when it comes to food. Every corner and in between boast family markets. Grant Street is Italian. Broadway, Polish. Niagra Street is known for the raw bars that line its borders. These are established enterprises. They have been around for years because they deliver quality products. Generations have shopped and owned the markets.

Uncle George is an example. Puehn's Meat Market celebrated its 65th anniversary this year. Imagine, his grandfather started his business as a young man in 1926.

My visits to Buffalo are few and far between, but I always stop by to visit Aunt George, my mother's sister. She works from dawn to dusk making soups, salads, sausages, turkey burgers, pasta, and sauces for carry out. In order to keep up with the super stores she has to. Her kitchen is barely large enough to turn around in. There is sawdust on the floor and meat is cut to order. Each and every customer is pampered and greeted by my vivacious aunt and uncle.

I admire them for their devotion and perseverance. It doesn't get any easier as time goes on. On my last trip I was compelled to stop for milk at Wegman's, a monstrous, brand-spanking-new gargantuan of a store. As I recall, I had just left a 1,000-square-foot mom and pop meat market. Wegman's must be 500,000 square feet.

There is everything from fruit to nuts and beyond. There were organ meats that I can only special order. Sweetbreads, pigs tails and feet and ears. Real sausage casings, tongue and various other innards that I will refrain from mentioning. If you are into food, it was mind boggling. The displays put any other supermarket I've ever seen to shame.

They have food designers that know exactly where to put the merchandise so we will buy it. And it works. I exited with a lot more than milk, not because I wanted or needed to. As much as I was awestruck by the varieties I left feeling sorry. How does a Puehn's Meat Market, established in 1926, compete with this? Personalized, friendly service. No one at Wegman's knew my name.

You could say it runs in the family. Every day I speak with at least 20 people who "used to go into the Seven Mile Brady's." They went with their parents, then with their dates and friends, then with their own families. Many of their happiest memories are tied to Seven Mile. They were engaged there, celebrated anniversaries and birthdays, enjoyed their leisure time relaxing, eating and drinking.

There was always a Brady to greet you, chat and listen. That's why it was loved. Good food, drink and atmosphere. Time goes on, though, and the neighborhood changed. The bar was sold and now, we hear, houses a dance floor. We won't go back. It is better to remember it as it was.

Diamond Jim Brady's is celebrating its 38th year in business. Like Uncle George we are still a family enterprise. There are no mega bucks available to cover the obligations. We survive because we work hard. Our name is on the door. We have an obligation to the "Seven-Milers" to carry on a tradition of food, drinks and a comfortable atmosphere. A Brady ever-present to converse, to ensure a pleasant visit. Last night a couple got engaged while having dinner. A new era has begun.

The Refrigerator Door

TIP OF THE WEEK: "Now is the time to start preparing, packing, and mailing homemade goodies," said Sylvia Treitman, home economist for the Oakland County Cooperative Extension service.

Most bar cookies and quick breads travel well, said Treitman. Select foods that do not require refrigeration. Package cookies quickly after baking and thorough cooling. Wrap two cookies back to back in plastic wrap or foil. Wrap all foods in plastic wrap before putting in a box.

Bake breads and cakes in foil pans, remove while cooling, slip back in pan for mailing. Use air-popped pop corn, dry cereal or marshmallows as a filler to avoid breakage — cushion outer areas with tissue or newspaper.

For more information, call 858-0904, weekdays, 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m.

NEW ICE CREAM PRODUCTS: Ashby's Sterling Premium Ice Cream, formerly only available through ice cream parlors and restaurants, is now available in 1/2 gallon cartons through ice cream parlors and retail stores. There are 10 flavors, including Mackinaw Island Fudge, Peach Cobbler and Turtle Sundae.

It is available locally at Quarten Market in Birmingham, Market Basket in Franklin and Sav Mor in Westland. Containing 14 percent butterfat, Ashby's Sterling Premium Ice Cream is very creamy.

For the holidays, serve Ashby's French Vanilla ice cream alongside baked apple pie. Top with whipped cream and sprinkle with cinnamon.

CHRISTMAS BRUNCH: The Orchard Cafe inside the Novi Hilton has planned an elaborate Christmas Day Brunch. The buffet style menu includes fresh fruit and vegetables, poached salmon, smoked fish, cream cheese, bagels, pate, assorted cheeses, sweet and sour ham salad, german potato salad pear Waldorf salad, greek salad, pineapple time salad, seafood pasta salad, sweet potato walnut salad, duck cranberry and orange salad, assorted breads and rolls with fruit-flavored butter, honey-glazed ham with raisin sauce, roast turkey with dressing and giblet gravy, roast beef au jus, whipped potatoes, sweet potato soufflé, saffron rice, roast goose with apple pear dressing, fillet of sole, basil champagne, squash, bread pudding, pecan, pumpkin and mince meat pies, trifle, chocolate mousse, holiday cookies, macaroons, assorted tortes, ice cream sundae bar, waffles with toppings and the egg nog. Call 349-4000 for reservations.

GINGERBREAD HOUSE CONTEST: Northville Merchants Association will sponsor a Gingerbread House Contest this holiday season.

Entrants can be individuals or families. No culinary arts students, professional caterers or restaurateurs, please. Contact Ronnie Cambra at the Kitchen Witch for instructions if you need them.

The Northville Historical Society will also be offering a class in gingerbread house making at the Kitchen Witch. Call 348-0488 for more details.

Contest rules are available at the Kitchen Witch, 107, N. Center.

NEW FOOD GUIDE: Bring on Healthy Food Choices! Oakland County Health Division has updated the American Red Cross Food Wheel for healthful eating. The revision is the work of the Health Division's registered dietitians. The colorful one page handout features plenty of grains, fruits and vegetables.

Are you confused about fats? Where are they hidden? How do make trade offs? The new Food Wheel will show you how. A special section describes fat serving sizes.

The guide is based on the new U.S. Department of Agriculture and Health and Human Services Dietary Guidelines for Americans and the American Cancer Society recommendations. The daily plan is easy to follow. It shows suggested numbers of servings from each food group for different ages.

chopped and used as an ingredient, like candied fruit.

It's hard to start any review of ginger recipes without that all-time favorite, gingerbread. The cake was neglected for years, Merinoff noted, but is making something of a resurgence with the revival of old-fashioned American dishes.

Gingerbread has been made for centuries, and originally it was a rather dry and not particularly sweet bread, noted for its keeping qualities. The Dutch, who once ruled the spice-rich East Indies, still make it that way, and serve it along with other breads for their elaborate breakfasts.

Here's gingerbread as American comfort food, from Merinoff's "Gingerbread":

BASIC GINGERBREAD CAKE

3 large eggs
1 1/2 teaspoons ground ginger
1 1/2 teaspoons ground cinnamon
1/4 teaspoon ground nutmeg
1/4 teaspoon ground cloves
1 teaspoon baking soda
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup unsalted butter
1/2 cup molasses
1/2 cup brown sugar
1/2 cup water
2 cups all-purpose flour, sifted
Yields 6 servings.

Preheat oven to 350 F. Grease 7-inch square pan. Wisk together eggs, ginger, cinnamon, nutmeg, cloves, baking soda and salt and set aside.

Melt butter in small saucepan. Turn off heat, beat in molasses and sugar. Stir in water, then egg and spice mixture, then flour. When just blended, pour batter into prepared pan. Bake 50 minutes, until a skewer inserted into center comes out clean. Serve warm or at room temperature.

Variations: Substitute cardamom or allspice for some of the spices (but not ginger). Replace part of flour with whole-wheat or rye. Add grated lemon or orange zest. Use honey instead of molasses.

This side dish benefits from ginger-ing it up.

RED CABBAGE WITH GINGER

3 tablespoons butter or oil
1 large onion
1 head red cabbage (about 3 pounds), shredded
2 teaspoons peeled, minced fresh

ginger
3 whole allspice
1 cup dry red wine
3 tablespoons brown sugar
Salt, pepper
1/4 cup cider vinegar
Yields 6 to 8 servings

Heat butter in large skillet; saute onions until tender but not brown. Add cabbage. If it doesn't fit all at once, let a batch cook down before adding more. Add ginger and cook, covered, until cabbage is softened, about 10 minutes. Stir occasionally. Add allspice, wine, sugar, salt and pepper. Cook another 10 minutes. If possible, let cabbage sit overnight, refrigerated, to blend flavors. When ready to serve, bring to a simmer and add vinegar.

Adjust seasoning by adding more sugar or vinegar as required.

Salmon on a plank mingles flavors

Chef Joseph Weissenberg of the Culinary Institute of America likes to combine the old and the new. A favorite recipe of his is grilled salmon and creamed new potatoes and peas.

"Grilling salmon, especially with cedar shingles, is very up-to-date, while the cream sauce with the vegetables is a nod to the past," Weissenberg says.

SALMON STEAK

Juice of 2 lemons
1/4 cup olive oil
Six 5-ounce salmon steaks
1 small bunch fresh dillweed

For the marinade, combine lemons, olive oil and salt and pepper to taste. Coat salmon steaks with marinade and place in a baking dish, alternating fish with sprigs of fresh dillweed. Cover and refrigerate for 2 to 3 hours.

Cut untreated cedar shingles into 5-to-6-inch squares. Preheat a grill with a lid. Place cedar shingles on the grill and char lightly; reserve.

Sear salmon on grill on one side. Place each salmon steak, uncooked side down, on the charred side of a cedar plank. Grill salmon on plank in covered grill until fish is just cooked through. Season to taste with salt and pepper. Makes 6 servings.

Note: If cedar shingles are not available, hickory or mesquite chips that have been soaked in water can be added to the coals for additional flavor.

CREAMED NEW POTATOES AND PEAS

1 cup milk
1 cup cream
1 bay leaf
1 small onion
2 whole cloves
3 tablespoons butter
3 tablespoons flour
2 pounds new red potatoes
2 pounds peas, unshelled, or 1 pound peas on the pod
Salt and white pepper to taste

Combine milk and cream in a saucepan. Attach bay leaf to onion by studding with cloves. Add to milk and cream mixture; bring to a boil. Reduce heat and simmer for 5 minutes. Remove from heat and cover. Allow to steep for 20 to 25 minutes.

In another pot, melt butter, add flour and cook the roux over low heat for 3 to 4 minutes, stirring constantly so the flour will not burn. Remove from heat and allow to cool. (A roux is a mixture of flour and fat that is cooked slowly and then used to thicken a sauce.)

Remove onion from milk and cream mixture; bring mixture to a boil again. Combine liquid with the cooled butter-flour mixture, stirring until smooth. Return to boil and cook at low boil for another 5 minutes. Discard onion.

In a saucepot, place potatoes in enough water to cover by at least 1 inch; bring to a boil. In another pot, bring to a boil enough water to cover peas; add peas. Cook potatoes and peas until tender. Drain and combine with the hot cream sauce. Season to taste. Makes 6 servings.

Note: New potatoes have very thin skins and need not be peeled. Wash thoroughly and rub off skin, if desired.

You get what you pay for with '88 vintage

($39), Leoville Las Cases ($47) and Palmer ($50).

An outstanding Sauternes bot-ling must be mentioned. The 1987 Chateau Raymond Lafon ($60.50) is ultimate opulence. This property is adjacent to the prestigious Chateau

Yquem. "Each vine produces only one glass of our wine," explains Lafon owner Jean-Pierre Meslier. "The vineyard is selectively picked four to six times each vintage to insure the best fruit. If you produce three or four glasses per vine, it's not the same quality."

"Detroit: Santa Isn't Coming to Town???", a locally produced half-hour Christmas special featuring Detroit-area celebrities, airs Monday, December 16, at 8 p.m. on WJBK-TV 2.

The story unfolds when Santa Claus, played by WOMC-FM morning personality Tom Ryan, announces that he is skipping this year's Detroit Thanksgiving Parade due to a severe economic crunch at the North Pole. Instead, Santa has accepted an offer of "a million billion dollars" to appear in a Thanksgiving Parade in a foreign country.

Stunned city officials begin interviewing possible replacements for Santa, including a deadpan Maurice "Mr. Belvedere" Lezell practicing his best "ho, ho, ho." In the meantime, four local children take matters into their own hands, inviting Santa to come to Detroit on a fact-finding mission with hopes of changing his mind.

The kids escort Santa around town, showing him such highlights as Belle Isle and taking him to see local celebrities who try to convince him to appear in the Detroit parade. The final stop on the tour is a visit to the home of Santa's favorite baseball announcer Ernie Harwell for a last-ditch pitch.

As Santa struggles with the dilemma of disappointing the children of Detroit or taking the million billion dollars, he is reminded by one of the kids that Christmas is about giving, not getting. The story concludes with TV news coverage of the Detroit Thanksgiving Parade, revealing the outcome of Santa's decision.

"Detroit: Santa Isn't Coming to Town???" was written and produced by Tom Delisle and shot at locations in and around Detroit by TV 2 photographer Bob Berg.

After 50 Christmases, Bob Hope's a regular-issue Santa

Yule special features Culkin, McEntire, AP gridiron team

by Suzanne Gill

"Let's put on a show!" That was the stock solution for bluesbusters from Mickey Rooney's Andy Hardy to South Pacific's Nellie the nurse. But, as any high school thespian will tell you, it's easier said than done.

Except when Bob Hope does it. For 50 years — ever since he came across the fledgling USO during World War II — Hope has been putting on shows for troops stationed at bases and aboard ships from Asia to the Middle East. And for four decades, he's been entertaining the civilian populace on television. In the opinion of the U.S. Air Force, Hope's earned his oak-leaf clusters, which are to be presented to him as part of this year's Christmas special, airing Wednesday, Dec. 18, on NBC.

Hope's on-screen producer is daughter Linda Hope, who seems to have the master chef's recipe for success close at hand as she draws up the guest list for one of her dad's specials.

"What I've been trying to do," she says, "is get some of the hottest people around in their respective fields. For this show, I wanted to have a child, because my dad works particularly well with children, and also because it's Christmas. So I said to myself, 'Who's the biggest child star around?' and Macauley Culkin of course comes to mind."

Typical of Hope guests, Culkin was eager to accept the invitation, but already rather busy with other commitments. Still, Hope is Hope, and a deal was struck with 20th Century Fox to spring the child actor from the set of "Home Alone 2" for a couple of days to do the Christmas show.

A few more phone calls and country music's Reba McEntire and Carolyn Sapp, Miss America 1992 ("My dad worked with her for a charity show in Florida about two months ago and thought she was a very talented young woman, and said, 'Let's see if we can get her for the Christmas show.'") were added to the roster for a show taped between Dec. 7 and 15 in Colorado Springs, Colo., the site of the U.S. Air Force Academy, and Nashville, Tenn.

Also featured this year is a tribute to comedian Redd Foxx ("because my dad loved Redd Foxx, and Redd went with him on a couple of those overseas Christmas tours") that includes a memorable sketch from the 1972 Christmas show that saw Foxx playing Santa.

An annual highlight is the singing of "Silver Bells," a latter-day holiday standard Hope introduced in the 1951 movie "The Lemon Drop Kid." He's included it as a duet in 15 shows, and this year asked that wife Dolores, whose singing voice still earns well-justified praise, join him on the stage.

Because taping of the show would be completed just three days before its scheduled air date, with guests (including the Associated Press All American college football team) flying in from all over, producer Linda Hope has developed some contingency plans, but she says her father usually gets what he needs for a show — from guests to weather.

"My father has been really amazing with the weather," she recalls. "Last Christmas we were in Bermuda, and we were out on a beach doing a sketch which was the final piece of the show. All of a sudden, the rain came up. But we had everything set up, so we went ahead and did the thing, and we were just going to do it one more time to take off any rough edges, and we got through three quarters of it and it started raining, so we at least had everything in the can, as they say."

Although showman Hope has been heard to say that he puts himself in his daughter's hands during production of the television specials, she insists with a laugh that "he's being very kind, but he's the man who's been doing it all these years."

"I deal with the scheduling — the nuts and bolts part of it." She laughs again. "He's very cute to say that."

And now, for the fiftieth year and counting, on with the show.

CROSSWORD PUZZLE

SOAP TALK

Question 'Turns' on Warrick's role

By Candace Havens

Dear Candace: I enjoy your articles in Soap Talk, but there is one thing you weren't very clear on. You talked about Ruth Warrick (who plays Phoebe Tyler Walingford in All My Children) and the shows she had played in.

You said she played five years on As the World Turns, but you didn't say what character she played. I watch the show, but I don't remember her. Please clear this up if you can. —Thank you, Herbert McMillan. Fredonia, Kan.

Dear Reader: I'm sorry for the omission. Warrick portrayed Edith Hughes from 1956-1960 on ATWT. According to The Soap Opera Encyclopedia by Christopher Schemering, she was a pivotal character early in the show's run.

Dear Candace: I saw the name David Shaughnessy in the credits for The Young and the Restless. Is he related to Charles Shaughnessy, who plays Shane on Days of Our Lives? —L.M. in South Carolina.

Dear Reader: The two men are brothers and come from a family of actors. Both their parents were actors, and their father was also the principal writer and screen editor for Upstairs, Downstairs, the British drama series that aired on PBS' Masterpiece Theatre. It was David, the younger of the two brothers, who first had the acting bug. Charles had decided to go into a more "respectable" occupation as an English barrister, but while a student at Cambridge University, he too discovered the joys of acting.

Dear Candace: I have been watching The Young and the Restless for a very long time and I really enjoy it. What bothers me is they do not get Miguel out of Nikki's kitchen. He is talented and nice looking; why not give him a chance? I also think Leanna needs to get a boyfriend her own age. Rex and John are both old enough to be her father. Well, that's what I think. Thanks from a forever fan of Y&R. —Peggy Chavez, Rialto, Calif.

Dear Reader: I agree with you. Anthony Pena (who plays Miguel Rodriguez on Y&R) is quite talented and has an impressive list of feature-film credits, including Altered States, Colors and Born on the Fourth of July. When given the opportunity, he does his best to add dimension to his character on the show. Maybe someday producer Bill Bell will take notice.

The answer to the Crossword Quiz is found within the answers in the puzzle. To find the answer, unscramble the letters noted with asterisks within the puzzle.

Rise and fall of Russian Empire

By Dan Rice

Thanks to gremlins in the Kremlin, the superpower that was the Soviet Union seems to be crumbling, to the dismay of no one but American defense contractors. When Red Empire first aired on English TV in 1989 it was hailed as "the definitive history of Russia." Now updated, this documentary uses eyewitness accounts to trace the history of the world's largest nation from the fall of Czar Nicholas II to the failed coup d'etat against Gorbachev, and its aftermath. Part of Time Machine With Jack Perkins, the seven-part series begins Friday, Dec. 13, on A&E.

Hark, the heralded angel sings. Celebrated opera singer Jessye Norman performs a special recital from the Cathedral of Notre Dame de Paris on A&E Stage, premiering Tuesday, Dec. 10. In Jessye Norman at Notre Dame, the diva offers an eclectic selection of sacred music, spirituals and Christmas carols.

Switching to down-home harmonies with the emphasis on brotherhood, on Saturday, Dec. 14, TNN's The Statler Bros. Show welcomes guests Larry Gatlin and the Gatlin Brothers.

Write to 'Beverly Hills' cast in, er, Beverly Hills

By Taylor Michaels

Q: Please give me an address where I can write to Jason Priestley and Luke Perry of Beverly Hills, 90210. —Ronnie Edington, Redwing, Minn.

A: You can write them c/o Beverly Hills, 90210, Fox Broadcasting Company, P.O. Box 900, Beverly Hills, Calif., 90213.

Q: I would like to know whom to write concerning bringing back old programs such as Six Million Dollar Man, Bionic Woman, Incredible Hulk, Little House on the Prairie and many more. There are no decent shows on for children or adults anymore. —Jill Appelhanz, Montrose, Colo.

A: All of those shows are available in syndication, so you need to write your local stations. They are the ones who need to know what the public wants. In the meantime, why don't you check out Quantum Leap, MacGyver, Northern Exposure, Superboy and Star Trek: The Next Generation? You should probably also check out what's on your local PBS station. Public television is not the dull, dry television it used to be.

Q: Whatever happened to The Party Machine With Nia Peeples? Is it in hiatus? —Trena Harris, Tenaha, Texas.

A: The show was canceled due to poor ratings.

Q: Would it be possible for you to provide the address of the producer or director of Monday Night Football? I would like to offer some comments about the presentation. —J. Kelly Unger, Brooksville, Miss.

A: Send your comments to Geoffrey Mason, Executive Producer, ABC Sports, 47 West 66th Street, 13th Floor, New York, N.Y., 10023.

Q: Could you please tell me what movies Rebecca Schaeffer was in? Are there any biographies on her? —Michael Canavaw, Montrose, Calif.

A: The actress, who co-starred with Pam Dawber in My Sister Sam, appeared in the films Radio Days and Scenes From the Class Struggle in Beverly Hills. She was shot to death on July 18, 1989, at her home in Los Angeles by Robert Bardo, an obsessed fan. One psychiatrist described Bardo as more disturbed than Mark David Chapman, the man who shot John Lennon. According to a Waldenbooks staffer, there are no books about Schaeffer yet.

Jason Priestley

Q: I am a big fan of Star Trek: The Next Generation and was wondering if you could give me some information on Patrick Stewart and Marina Sirtis? Also, is that Stewart's voice we hear on the Pontiac commercials? —D. Long, Beaufort, N.C.

A: Stewart grew up in the English town of Mirfield. For 25 years, he has been an associate artist of the Royal Shakespeare Company. He appeared in the BBC productions I, Claudius, Smiley's People and Tinker, Tailor, Soldier, Spy. American filmgoers will remember him as Gurney Halek in Dune, which was directed by David Lynch.

Sirtis was born in East London to Greek parents and was brought up in North London. Sirtis attended the Guild Hall School of Music and Drama, and after graduating became a member of the Worthington Repertory Theatre. She has worked extensively in British television, musical theater and repertory companies throughout Europe. She appeared in The Wicked Lady with Faye Dunaway and in the European touring version of Rocky Horror Picture Show. Sirtis recently played a cameo role in Waxwork II: Adventures in Time.

The folks who make Pontiac commercials seem to have a knack for picking distinctive voices. It is indeed Stewart's voice you hear on the voice-overs. The woman singing the theme is pop star Laura Brannigan. Previously, singer Richard Marx did the commercials with his mother.

Send your questions to Let's Talk, c/o Features Dept., P.O. Box 961009, Fort Worth, Texas, 76161-1009.
