Commission axes plan for asphalt plant

By MIKE TYREE

It's strike two for Holloway Sand and Gravel in a high-stakes game over control of township zoning guidelines.

But Tuesday's planning commis-sion rejection of Holloway's latest proposal for a Ridge and Six Mile roads parcel does not signal the end of the ballgame.

This one's surely headed for extra

Three weeks after recommending denial of Holloway's special land-use application for a gravel mining operation, the planning commission reached the same conclusion with the company's asphalt plant request. Commissioners on Tuesday unanimously agreed that Holloway did not provide enough information to judge its asphalt plant application. A 24-point asphalt plant criteria checklist prepared by WBDC, the township's planning consultant, was dotted with insufficient information

Is 13th Geake's lucky district?

State Sen. R. Robert Geake (R-Northville) this week confirmed that he is eying a run for U.S. Congress in the newly formed 13th District.

Geake, elected to the state Senate in 1977, said he is busy testing the political waters in a district that would appear to favor a Democratic candidate.

"Yes, it's true I am looking at that," Grake said Tuesday. "I'm in the prosee if it's possible for a Republican to

.Fallout from a recent redistricting decision has piqued Geake's interest in Congress. Old district lines were scrapped in favor of a new district that combines western Wayne County, Ypsilanti, and Ann Arbor, territories with an overall Democratic it's something I've always wanted to do, and as the highest ranking Republican in this congressional district, (other Republicans) are looking at me as a standard bearer to carry that torch," Geake said.

That change helped U.S. Rep. Carl Pursell opt for retirement, and Geake may look to fill the vacuum.

Geake faces a formidible foe, if he does decide to run. U.S. Rep. William Ford (D-Taylor) has indicated that he will move to the 13th District in an attempt to claim the vacancy. Local Democrats have said the district is Ford's for the taking.

Dennis Shrewsbury, an attorney and Plymouth city council member, last week issued feelers for the con-ing in a different direction.

Shrewsbury said he told Ford staffers he will not run for Congress, and instead will campaign for a Wayne County Probate Court judgeship.

"Last week there was no congressperson in this district in a technical sense," he said. "I said that since I'm the only (well-known) Democrat out here, I'll explore that possibility.

"Really, my long-term goal is to be a probate judge," Shrewsbury added. "I'm going to concentrate on that right now."

Geake has little to lose by mulling a congressional run. He currently sits in the middle of a four-year Se-

"It's a logical time to do this," he said. I can do it without risking my seat in the Michigan Senate.

Geake holds a seat on the Senate Mental Health Appropriations Subcommittee, and said if elected he would push the federal government to focus more attention on mentalhealth-related issues

He said a decision on a possible congressional run is due within two weeks. For the time being, Geake said he will research voting records to size up his chances.

Geake was elected to the state House of Representatives in 1972 and served there until his 1977 Senate victory. He since has racked up four Senate election wins.

Climbing the ladder to the Moraine Elementary School rooftop Tuesday morning was less of an experience than it was last year, thanks to Mother Nature, but Najarian was steadfast.

All in a day's work, she said.

"I had a very healthy breakfast with the former principal of Moraine, did some science experi ments, and danced with a very nice man from Channel 2," she said. In addition, Margo Kramar from Margo's of Northville braved cold temperatures to give Najarian the "coldest and highest manicure" she's ever given a customer.

GOP faces fight for township board

By MIKE TYREE Staff Writer

Those lazy, hazy, unopposed Republican campaign days apparently are over in Northville Township.

Enter an era of competition for township board seats, complete with - drum roll, please - Democrats and Independents.

At least 10 township residents had pulled petitions for board posts by Tuesday afternoon, said Eunice Switzler, township deputy clerk. Among office-seekers are three supervisor candidates, two clerk hopefuls, and five trustee aspirants. Four recent petition pullers are incumbents, including Betty Lennox (supervisor), Tom Cook (clerk), and (trustees). All four seek re-election as Petrie (trustees). Republicans.

Others pulling petitions in antici-

District says article used misleading math

By SHARON CONDRON Staff Writer

A recent newspaper article saying Northville is one of 18 school districts in the tri-county area with top-heavy administrative costs raised district officials' eyebrows at the school board offices Monday.

The article, which ran in Friday's The Detroit News, said that Northville is one of many districts in Wayne. Macomb, and Oakland counties that spend more than 26.3 percent of their budget on administrative expenses. According to the article, Northville spends 30.2 percent on administrative expenses.

That figure would eliminate the district from Gov. John Engler's

Davis honored for school work

By SHARON CONDRON Staff Writer

It's ironic that the women Glenna Davis admires the most were the ones who recognized her for what they inspired her to do.

The women of the Northville chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma Society International, a professional wo-men's education fraternity, honored school board member Davis two weeks ago with their annual Woman of Distinction award.

The award, which recognizes wo-men who have made significant contributions to education, was bestowed on Davis at a celebratory dinner March 16 at Ernesto's in Plymouth.

It was nice to be recognized by the people I respect and admire the most. Davis said after winning the award. "It's nice because they inspired me to go on and get my degree in education, even though I knew there were no jobs."

Glenna Davis

Vivian Henderhan, co-vice president for programming of the Alpha Nu chapter and teacher at Silver Springs Elementary, said Davis is one of two recipients that has received the award from outside the sorority.

The critieria we look for in a recipient is someone who contributed to education," Henderhan said. "We look overall for an individual who has been active in many ways in helping education.

And Davis fit that bill, Henderhan

A longtime resident of Northville, Davis has been on the school board since 1981. During her tenure on the board, she has held every office and has served as president twice. Prior to be electing to the board, Davis was active in the PTA, where she too served as a former president of the Silver Springs group.

In addition to her administrative positions, Davis is active in the women's rights movement and has been instrumental in patient rights as a former board member of the Northville Regional Psychiatric Hospital. She's won numerous distinction awards for completion of state school board training seminars and will be recognized along with board President Jean Hansen on April 9 for her completion of a state training course tailored specifically for school board members. "She's really a super lady," Hen-derhan said. "She's always been in there pitching for people who needed her help. She's just always been a person who supported the rights of others." Currently Davis, who finished her degree in English in 1989 after plugging along since the '60s, is employed as a teacher at the Detroit Parts Plant of the Ford Motor Co. She teaches English to the company's employees as part of the automaker's Employee Enrichment Services progam. She's excited about what she does. She's truly committed to education and that's what we applauded her for," Henderhan said.

Cycle shop manager lassoes another bad guy

The manager of Town & Country Cyclery, 148 N. Center St., nabbed another would-be shoplister March 29. The incident marks the third time in a month that youths have been caught trying to steal items from the

The latest case involved three Novi boys who entered the store about 1 p.m. March 29. One of the boys, age 14, asked the manager to see a $200 pair of bicycle crank arms. When the manager briefly left the part of the store where the crank arms were located, the boys began to leave the store themselves. When the manager returned and noted that the crank arms were missing, he ran after the boys and told them to stop.

The boy denied knowing about the crank arms, but when told to open his jacket the items were seen sticking out of an inside pocket. City police responded to the scene, and eventually released the boy into his mother's custody. The case will be turned over to Oakland County Juvenile Court. Town & Country employees had thwarted similar theft attempts Feb. 28 and March 2.

Also upcoming in April, Pat Hibbard will hold a rose pruning clinic on Saturday, April 18 from 1-3 p.m. Pat is the award-winning individual who has developed the beautiful rose gardens for Mill Race Village's Yerkes House. Call Pat at 643-1623 for additional informaton. On the following Saturday, April 25, members and friends will again meet for the Spring Village Cleanup/Planting Bee and the Village Docents will hold their opening lunch. Additional announcements on these events in upcoming weeks.

Thanks this week to Jo Krause for her donation in honor of the 80th birthday of Ruth Pritchard.

Last week's column discussed some of the earliest businesses in Northville. Before the Civil War these businesses were joined by two additional mills (Argo and Ambler), a clayworks which made tiles, showmakers whose leather was used as underlay on the first street in town, at least three hotels, several general stores, at least two blacksmith-carriage works, a furniture factory, lumberyards, a millinery and more.

Throughout the remainder of the 19th Century the little village continued to grow. It grew to such an extent that by the 1890s, a forerunner of our Chamber of Commerce created a brochure entitled, "Northville — The Ideal Suburban Village." Promoters of that bro-chure claimed that this community would soon surpass Detroit in size, power and industry. More about that next week.

Barrier-free project gets grant money

By STEVE KELLMAN Staff Writer

And the winners of this year's awards are ...

When it came to $68,500 in Wayne County Community Development Block Grant funds, award winners included the handicapped using municipal facilities and seniors who live at Allen Terrace and spend time at the 215 W. Cady St. Senior Center.

The winners edged out at least two area groups, the Livonia-based Community Commission on Drug Abuse and First Step: Western Wayne Project on Domestic Violence and Sexual CCDA sought funds on behalf of the Northville Counseling Center, which provided clinical services to more than 50 Northville City residents in the past year. CCDA requested at least $6,000 in CDBG funds to provide outpatient services to the city's low-income residents.

First Step requested $5,000 in funding for domestic and sexual assault survivors who meet CDBG eligibility guidelines, noting that 22 Northville City families sought assistance through the organization last

"We're not saying that these are not worthwhile programs or that they don't impact the Northville area, be-cause they do," said City Manager Gary Word. "But we had to draw the line somewhere."

The city drew the line at services which are directly represented by the city, and improvements that will be required by law.

The funds will pay for $36,639 worth of barrier-free projects at City Hall, the Northville Public Library, Department of Public Works and Senior Center. The barrier-free items, including new doorways and ramps. are required by the recently enacted Americans with Disabilities Act.

Another $22,000 will go toward energy efficient projects at Allen Terrace, $8,000 toward replacement of the Senior Center roof, and $1,861 toward the Senior Alliance.

The Senior Alliance grant will go toward the city's annual municipal contribution, the alliance's nutrition program, and Information Home

'As you know, Home Share hopes to match compatible people to share housing," said Project Coordinator Karl Popowitz. This year, your support is more important than ever because some of our other funding sources have been cut."

Township releases bills — after OK from biller

By MIKE TYREE

After considerable foot-dragging, Northville Township officials this week admitted involvement with a controversial public relations firm.

Communications Management Corporation, a Plymouth public relations firm owned by the law firm of Law, Hemming, Essad & Polaczyk, in 1990 billed the township a total of $4,000 for two publications.

The township paid Communications Management Corporation $2,000 for a February 1990 newsletter and another $2,000 for *professional services rendered in connecEvent," according to invoices the Record obtained under the state's Freedom of Information Act.

Communications Management Corporation is one of three "brother and sister" firms owned by Law, Hemming, Essad & Polaczyk, legal representatives for Northville, Plymouth and Canton townships and the three townships' Western Townships Utilities Authority.

The public relations companies billed WTUA about $100,000 for work on the sewer project since 1989.

Records indicate that the township board approved the public relations expenses.

The township on Tuesday released copies of two checks written to CMC. but not without a fight. The Record originally filed a Freedom of Information request March 16, and after five working days, the township invoked its right to delay official response another 10 working days.

But township staff located the CMC checks early last week. Some officials reportedly sought to release copies of the checks at that time, but the materials instead were sent off for legal review - to Law, Hemming, Essad & Polaczyk, the same firm that owns CMC.

Township Supervisor Betty Lennox was asked why Law. Hemming would need a week to review billings that originated from one of its oilshoot companies.

"it is township policy to send things over to see if there is any invasion of privacy or (an ongoing) court case," Lennox said. "But I think that's a little too slow for you to get determinations.

The feeling that Holloway was not playing by the township's rules clearly frustrated some commissioners.

At one point, commission Chairperson Charles DeLand charged that Holloway representative Richard Zanotti was being "uncooperative" and wasting the commission's time.

Zanotti shot back: "I take issue with that, Mr. Chairman. I'm not being uncooperative at all."

For its part, Holloway rejects the township's stance that the company must adhere to a recently adopted asphalt-plant ordinance. The company confends that the township must judge the asphalt plan on zoning guidelines in place last April, when Holloway first submitted the asphalt-plant request.

There is a discrepancy in what the township believes and Holloway believes, Zanotti said. . . . We're going through an exercise here obviously for legal reasons."

The planning commission was under court order to make a decision Tuesday, and the recommendations to deny the gravel mining and asphalt plant permits "most likely" will appear on the township board's April 9 agenda, said Carol Maise, township planning and zoning administrator.

Zanotti has said Holloway will appeal the decisions to the township board. The board is expected to follow the commission's findings, and township officials fully expect that the case will eventually appear on a ctrcuit court docket.

Residents have been outspoken in their opposition to Holloway's township plans. Tuesday was no excep-

Vorva to challenge Goss for seat By MIKE TYREE Staff Writer

Jerry Vorva was beaten at the wire in last year's 36th District state House race, but his engine is revved for another run at the office.

Vorva, a Plymouth city council member, on Tuesday said he would seek the 36th District seat currently held by former Northville Township Supervisor Georgina Goss. Vorva said he will run as a Republican, setting up a possible primary battle with Goss.

Redistricting is expected to alter the 36th District, but the Plymouth/Northville communities likely will continue to be lumped together.

Goss recently said she "of course, absolutely" would seek 36th District re-election.

But Goss' ties to the Western Townships Utilities Authority controversy make her an inviting target, Vorva said.

"I'm really disappointed with Georgina Goss, not only for what she did as a township supervisor, but as a woman," Vorva said.

Speaking figuratively, he continued: "She could have thrown a wrench in that good old boy system, but all Goss did was get in bed with them. "Last year, I noted that a group of people had absolute control over the whole area," Vorva added. "The (WTUA) revelations that have come out the last couple of months were what I was talking about.

"I think people will now see I was telling the truth," he said.

Goss has declined comment on WIUA-related

Vorva said Plymouth-area residents are "upset, and looking like beaten dogs from constantly hearing about local, state, and national political scandals. He said he can provide a change of pace for disillusioned voters.

"They're so dejected," he said. "I hope to put a smile on their face. Vorva also called himself "a real people's candidate and grasped a populist theme.

We as taxpayers have to take government by the hand and lead it around for awhile until it realizes what its true purpose is," Vorva said. "That's to serve us."

Vorva said his 1991 campaign was plagued in part by "lies and innuendo" spread by opponents. He called a tightly knit group of area politicians—including those with WTUA roots—a "machine" and said the upcoming campaign could be fiercely proposed incentive plan to reward districts spending 26.3 percent or less of their operational budget on administrative expenses with a $10-per-pupil incentive in state

However, the figure was news to district officials and to other districts throughout the tri-county area who flooded state agencies Monday and Tuesday with inquiries about the origin of the story.

It is difficult to comment on the exact information presented," said John Street, Northville's director of business and finance, "because Gov. Engler and Sen. DeGrow seemed to believe that it was more important to the give the information to The Detroit News than it was to present it to local districts."

According to Doug Drake, director of the Office of Education for the state Department of Management and Budget, the information which the reporter used to arrive at the figures was based on a "preliminary computer analysis of what might happen if the proposal passed. Drake said Tuesday.

Drake said that information contained in his report to the House Fiscal Agency was denied to the reporter because of the potential impact it could, and eventually did have, if it were released in its raw form.

"He (the reporter) asked me for it and I told him he couldn't have it, but he got it from someone else anyway," Drake said.

Since that story appeared, Drake said he has made a list of calls from district officials, Northville excluded, asking him to substantiate the figures in the report, which were attributed to a House Fiscal Agency report compiled from 1990 data.

Tve had a list of people calling saying they can't come up with the numbers in the story; how did you do it?" he said.

Once Drake explains the figures were derived from specific line items supplied by districts to the state department of education on a form known as Form B. He rarely gets a disputed caller.

What the article failed to point out was that the figures represent more than just saleries and fringe benefits for central administrators.

"If my assumptions are correct, then the so-called administrative costs include such things as custodial, utilities, repairs, property/ liability insurance and other similar items, Street said.

Drake concurred.

Line items Drake's department pulled off the Form B provided by the districts included subtotal figures for support services: for general administration; for school administration; for business operations, less busing costs; central planning, research and development, information services, statistics and data processing costs: and a catch-all category which lists any remaining support services costs not included in any of the above accounts. Also included was a portion of employee benefits for support service personnel, Drake said.

The reporter just oversimplified the information, he said.

This is a long way from the implication of top-heavy administration," Street said. "It is ironic that at a time when state mandates only serve to increase the need for adminstrative attention there is an attack on such

Despite the negative impact of the article, Street said the report showed that Northville placed sixth out of 34 Wayne County districts in the percentage of budgets allocated to teacher salaries, supplies, and Street criticized the governor's proposal, saying it "attempts to discredit public schools.

*By the standards set in this proposal, one-half of the districts in the state instantly become top-heavy with administrative costs."

RECORD OPINION

Our Opinion

Now, make the best of WTUA situation

Second of two parts.

The Western Townships Utilities Authority sewer project is plagued by problems; at this point addressing those concerns may seem a little like closing the barn door after the horse escapes. An element of that exists, but the truth flows much deeper.

First, a quick look at what not to do. One natural reaction, after hearing and reading of the many mishandled facets of the program, is to argue for Northville Township to withdraw from the project.

That's probably not possible; it's certainly not realistic. And even if it were both, withdrawing at this point would also be a mistake.

The project itself features good points. It appears indisputable that sewage flowing to the Ypsilanti plant, as will WTUA's, will receive a higher level of treatment than sewage going to the Detroit Wastewater Treatment Plant. (Interestingly, though, WTUA officials only recently cited environmental considerations as a major issue. Costs, local control, and getting things done in a timely manner were the motivators as this project was developing, not environmental concern. But environmental benefits do indeed exist, and deserve to be considered.)

Beyond that, the sewer expansion itself may be good for the township. Paying folf the project's costs should be a tremendous concern to township officials. But they would have had to pay for exspanded sewer capacity one way or another, whether it was under WTUA. Wayne County's Super Sewer, or some other route.

; Super Sewer has been touted as Scheaper: WTUA officials argue their project is more cost-effective. The plain truth is that nobody at this point can accurately estimate the final cost for either project. Too many uncertanties loom in the future, including possible federal grants, costs of upgrades to both the Detroit and Ypsilanti treatment plants, and more. It will be years before anyone knows for sure whether WTUA was a fiscally wise move.

In the meantime, the township has sunk a great deal of money into the project, and is stuck with it. Trying to get out now would be a mistake.

With that said, several positive steps - on the part of both Northville Township and the authority itself — can mi-'nimize the damage.

First, even WIÚA officials are beginning to agree that the authority should use some sort of bid process to select its firms for legal services, engineering, etc. But in many cases, the bulk of that work already has been done, the money spent.

Is this a lost cause? Yes and no. More money will be spent in the future. WTUA will exist as an entity for many years. Legal and auditing services in particular will be required, albeit at a lower cost than we've seen so far.

WTUA officials are now on track to request proposals for all professional services, after weeks of pressure from the public. Good, good, good. It should have been done years ago, but doing it now is better than not doing it at all.

In another effort already under way, state Rep. James Kosteva, a Democrat from Canton, has proposed a state investigation into the WTUA project. Frankly, we have to look at this with a skeptical eye. We wonder if partisan politics aren't behind this effort, at least as much as concern for constituents. Whether the probe will uncover some sort of smoking gun that will demand further action, well just have to walt and see.

Another step is Northville Township's proposal to adopt a financial disclosure rule for those doing business with the township. This suggestion, which met with positive response from the township board, should help avoid unpleasant surprises along these lines, at least within the township.

But this course of action needs to be taken a lot further. The sewer authority cries out for an ethics/conflict-ofinterest/financial disclosure policy of its own. All three WTUA townships carry similar codes; obviously, WIUA has no such guidelines.

There's a lesson to be learned here. WIUA apparently violated no codes of conduct, because the authority itself does not have any. Some of the circumstances haunting WTUA - the involvement of Plymouth Township Trustee Abe Munfah as the president of the authority's engineering firm; the lack of bids for professional services; the fact that attorney Robert Law benefits financially from a project which his brother Gerry now helps run — would violate Northville Township's ethics rules, if the project was within the township alone. WIUA desperately needs similar guidelines.

Particular scrutiny — not necessarily for ethical violations, but for simple common sense -- should go to Cassidy and Associates, the Washington lobbying firm which has racked up a cool $750,000 in fees with no tangible results. One of the arguments for forming WIUA was that federal funding for the alternative, Super Sewer, appeared uncertain. Well, good heavens. That project did in fact find federal assistance with no help from a high-priced lobbyist. WTUA is still waiting. We don't understand why officials figured their three-township project was a better bet than Wayne County's to win grant money. The more the less appears.

Meanwhile, the lobbying company continues to send WTUA its monthly bill, and even project leaders aren't convinced this is a wise investment. This situation alone demands serious attention, with definite consideration given to eliminating this expense.

On another front, if indeed Northville Township expects to pay off its sewerexpansion obligations through new construction, some significant new projects had better come along. In addition to any goals of improving tax base, the township needs to solicit development to pay off its sewer debt.

This is very dangerous turf. Though the pressure to find and approve new development will be enormous, the township must guard against lowering its development standards. It will be up to the planning commission to guard against the temptation to develop at any cost, and we fear that temptation might become significant.

An important lesson has been learned throughout the WTUA project: Vigilant review by taxpayers, elected officials, and the media is needed to serve as checks and balances against powerhungry politicians.

Many of us let our guard down when WIUA was tossing around tax dollars, but when the names of those caught up in this scandal come up again, the taxpavers themselves will have the final say. In the wake of the WTUA flasco, the biggest action may well be that taken by the electorate come August and November.

Pursell not typical politician

Politics aside, Carl Pursell is the most unusual politician I've ever covered - a category that ranges from the Zolton Ferencys to the Dave Jayes, from Gus Scholle to Dick Headlee.

At 59, Pursell was eagerly planning another decade on Capitol Hill - maybe even a Republican takeover and a committee chair. But a U.S. Court of Appeals panel gerrymandered him into an impossible situation. The lifelong Plymouth resident wasn't about to turn carpetbagger and move to a favorable district. He won't run again.

hat made Pursell unusual wasn't that he flew home each weekend and avoided booze, babes and bad checks. It goes Most politicians practice the art as they learned it in high school: sederal government in one paper box, state government in the next box, local the next, private enterprise in that box. The ordinary lawmaker develops expertise on a committee that becomes his world.

Pursell adopted a problem-solving approach: What can the feds do? Where does the state fit in? How can city hall, the chamber of commerce and the press help? The walls came down when a Pursell committee focused on the Rouge River, Jackson's industrial development or elementary counseling.

Nothing like it. Say "city" and the ordinary politician answers Detroit or New York. Pursell looked at cities, plural. One of the key regrets he and I shared about Coleman Young's tenure was that the mayor thought only about Detroit, not about the Northvilles, Royal Oaks, and Adrians that have similar problems.

Quite a rarity.

If you're a Democrat, you kow-tow to the UAW, the teachers union or the public employees groups. If a Republican, you cultivate entrepreneurs.

Without question, Pursell is in the entrepreneur class, but he never forgot that he had worked in a plant in his youth and held a minor Michigan Education Association office as a teacher. His hands-on union experience tempered many votes as a lawmaker.

The ordinary congressman with a world-class university in his district would say his bailiwick is "home of the University of Michigan."

Pursell's boast, at one time, was that his district had more college students than any in the U.S. He respected U-M's scholarship and clout but looked out for the regional universities, community colleges and private schools that do the

It's commonplace for politicians to talk about the need for scientists and engineers and doctors.

Pursell thought nurses deserved a voice in health policy and scholarship money. He pushed a nursing administrator from U-M into a health policy post in the Bush administration. It made him a cult hero in the profession.

Far out.

Scores of politicias have young, enthusiastic campaign staffs. I've covered dozens of conventions of four different parties, and Pursell was the only middle-aged politico who repeatedly helped young people get elected to party vice chairmanships or nominated for state boards. To find Pursell at a GOP convention, you'd case the hall for a pack of mop-haired kids and look for the bald spot in the middle.

Absolutely the most unusual politician I've ever covered. My guess, without consulting him, is that Carl Pursell isn't through with public service. A re-elected Bush may make him a deputy to Lamar Alexander in Education, or the Michigan GOP could tap him for the State Board of Education.

If so, don't expect him to become a turf-conscious bureaucrat. Most likely he'll punch holes in those governmental paper boxes.

Tim Richard reports regularly on the local implications of state and regional news.

Let's get real on county land

It's encouraging to read about a committee from the Historical Society planning to study the possible rehabilitation of the existing buildings at the old Wayne County Child Development Center site.

Being in the architectural community, I have seen a variety of redevelopment proposals for this site. I have seen wonderful plans for a mixed-use senior citizen village with independent living units within the renovated structures, as well as a newly constructed extended care facility and delightful color renderings. These were plans designed by some of the finest land planning firms in our state, yet they all suffer from the same basic problems with which designers, developers, and dreamers ultimately have to deal - such as, return on investment, equity partners, tax abatement, up-front construction financing, end-loan financing, and, oh yes, the big *P" word — Profit!

In June of 1989, a design competition was held by Wayne County in which a developer would be selected to purchase the 933 acres of land to construct a mixed-use community deviopment, including a championship golf course, estate homes, condominiums, ranch homes, multiple-family apartments, research and development/industrial, senior housing, and a municipal park. Magnificent designs were submitted, all vying to purchase this jewel in the western suburbs for some $25 million.

The development group we were involved with spent over $100,000 on their proposal to retain the architect, land planner, golf-course architect, real-estate investment consultant civil engineer, soils engineer, traffic engineer, environmental testing engineer, and an environmental scientist. They were in the final cut, down to two development groups, and pulled out of the final selection process at the last minute because of the site's environmental cleanup costs which included removal of contaminated soils, asbestos, underground storage tanks, and possible PCB contamination from vandalized electrical transformers.

A local developer was awarded the project and, as you may have noticed, it's spring of 1992 and the weeds are poised for the coming spring rain and sunshine.

As architects, we can dream and stir up the pot for civic concern groups to study constructing libraries out of old industrial plants, double the downtown Central Business Districi, expand the boundaries of our Historic District, or maybe even build a bridge across Center Street - some good ideas, perhaps, and perhaps, some not-so-good ideas. However, today our city is broke and we have see-through store fronts vacant in our downtown areas: blind enthusiasm without a realistic economic perspective tends to stare back at us throgh the eyes of a lonely, vacant lot.

Some can't afford the very best

Northville enjoys a reputation as a quaint, caring community with a very good school system. In many instances we live up to that expectation, but sometimes we don't. Sometimes we don't seem to be in touch with reality. We can't see past our big houses, cars and wellkept yards. Maybe we don't care about people who are getting pushed out of Northville due to our ever-escalating property taxes. Do we recognize the moms being forced back to work instead of being able to stay home and care for their families? Is having an 'exemplary" school system that's always on "the cutting edge" worth any sacrifice?

What do you think will happen as the economy worsens and we continue to have the burden of rapidly rising taxes? Money can't make up for a mother (or father) who's no longer available at home for their children, nor will they be available to volunteer at their children's schools because they will be busy working to make ends meet. Ask any resident who has been here 10 years or more and how much more their property taxes have increased at the hand of these school millage increases. What seemed at the time to be a small sacrifice has added up to an extremely large one.

We are being told in order to maintain our level of education we need to continually approve millage increaes. We, as parents and taxpayers, have to realize the quality of education is not always related to how much money is spent per student. Any building principal can confirm the invaluable resource on which they rely heavily on is parent volunteers who put in countless hours at each and every school. At least that's what they tell us at our PTA meetings.

We must face the reality of the economic climate and not pretend we are above being affected by it. We all must take responsibility for our finances and live within our means, both individually and as a community. Raising taxes again is not necessarily the best option for our schools; creative solutions are what's needed. Despite denials from our school board and administration, there are things in our school budget that we don't need and can be cut without jeopardizing our kids."

I'm sure many scare tactics will be employed to convince us to vote yes "for the sake of our children." But for the sake of our children. families, schools and community vote "NO" to higher taxes. We do not need to fear the process of making our school system run more efficiently. Cutbacks do not need to start in the classroom; let's remind the administration that they work voting April 28 and in the school governing board has such unmitt-board election. governing board has such unmitt-should look at who is really cheating our kids.

Invest in the future and OK millage

To the editor:

In considering the issues connected to the April 28 school millage election I would hope citizens would consider the following:

Northville has an outstanding education system. The quality of instruction and the range of programs are respected across the country and around the state. The excellence of the program is re-flected in the MEAP scores released annually in reading, math and science. Northville is always at or near the top in all categories. Quality programs and instruction equal quality results.

The fiscal strains on Northville schools come straight from Lansing. The state has pulled out for is about to pull out) most of the funding it once provided to our schools. From the vast amount of state income and sales tax that flows to Lansing hardly a dribble returns to support our schools. This is clearly a neglect of duty on the part of state government

The state neglect puts Northville schools out here on our own. If we want to protect the quality of our schools. It's clearly up to us. Are your school dollars being spent well? Visit the schools and see for yourself. Schools are open to the public so make arrangements for a visit and draw your own conclusions.

Schools are an investment in Northville's future. I hope that citizens want to see that investment strong and growing. These are funds carefully and well spent. I hope you join me in voting "yes" on

> Jim Petrie, Trustee Wayne County Regional Educational System

Value of education is overrated

To the editor:

I am writing relative to the March 26 article, describing the plan of the Northville School Board to ask for an even higher property tax rate, in a public election on April 28. One can only assume that the board is sheltered, along with its "Executive Director"-style administration, from the economic storm raging outside its "ivory for us. Let's also remind the school tower." It is hard to believe that in cheating our kids out of an educaboard that they were elected to rep-resent us, and you can do that by these times of severe economic de-privation in our community this at PTA meetings. I think taxpayers gated gall.

Our family has paid Northville school taxes since 1969. It has one family member who attended (K-12), graduating in 1989. My observation is that this community has tended to view education as an unquestioned ticket to future prosperity for its children. It has avoided a pragmatic assessment of the value of the services provided in light of their cost, something I feel has been long overdue.

Possession of a college degree is no guarantee of the ability to make a living wage, now. In light of this reality, the value of a high school diploma is certainly of substantially less economic weight. Yet, our board continues to act as if the economic value of its "product," this diploma, is continuing to inease in value just like the salaries it pays its administrators and teachers. Until now, the community could and did accept this premise. It will no longer do so. It wants to reduce school taxes! I will cast a NO vote on the inease request. If the board wants to get my "yes" vote, it will have to drop its rate below 22.63 mills and start to assume its fair share of economic hardship as my family and community neighbors have done for the past several years. I think the board should be ashamed to ask for even more!

We know the source of any added money

To the editor:

In learning about the upcoming millage election and hearing the pros and cons about the suggested increase, I received, in the same week, the Northville Schools Newsletter. This publication, while highlighting some of the attributes of the Northville Public Schools, also highlighted the goals and objectives of the Stategic Planning Committee. I was dismayed to see the No. 1 goal listed by this committee is to be, "obtaining more funding." No matter where this funding is to come from, (and I think we all know the No. 1 source), I can hardly believe that the intention of more funding is to benefit the children. The annual incomes of the top four or five adminisrators leads me to believe that somewhere, someone has bought into the theory that better paid administrators and staff will produce a better education for our children. Northville educators are paid very well especially following yearly millage increases. Although threats of cutting programs, and therefore tion, will continue to be soapboxed ing our kids.

Time is here for schools to face reality

To the editor:

There comes a time when an employer is placed in the undesirable position of telling a valued employee, because of unfortunate economic circumstances, that pay raises and bonuses will have to be forgone until further notice. It is now such a time that taxpayers of the Northville School District must exercise their right and duty, as an employer, upon their employees, the administration of said district.

Because of the generosity of Northville taxpayers, the school administration has ballooned into an unresponsive, inefficient behemoth. Handing the school board a blank check and then hoping for responsible use of these funds has obviously not worked. Witness the fact that salaries for all personnel have or will increase 7 to 8 percent over a six-year period. It's doubtful that anybody working in private industry has been the recipient of such a generous escalation in wages. There is no doubt that, on the whole, teachers in Northville are some of the best in the state. Because of this they should be wise enough to accept the ecconomic realities currently experienced. What will be of interest is to watch how the administration reacts to the hoped-for failure of the upcoming request for a 12 percent millage increase.

A prediction:

Thousands of taxpayers' dollars will be spent to intimidate voters into voting yes. Dollars in the form of material and manpower, which would be better spent if directed toward educating school children. not political posturing and featherbedding. But alas, it is certain that students will be used as political hostages. They will be the ones to be made to suffer the wrath of an angry administration. The time nas come to call the administration's bluff. Vote no on April 28. In doing so we can send the following

1. Bring back a millage request that is a renewal, not an increase. 2. Do not threaten us with horror stories of reducing direct teacher involvement. 3. If cuts must be made, then

Governing for the governors

Mr. Mike Tyree has done a magnificent job through his articles in the Record of revealing how the Northville Township government has been operated for the benefit of the governors and not the governed.

Due to the prodding of the Record and particularly since the departure of Mrs. Goss, (unfortunately to another government (ob). the township government has been taking some steps to clean itself up.

Rampant and arrogant favoritism which characterized the appointment of professional consultants seems to be giving way to proper and open selection procedures.

The sewer mess has put the spotlight on the legal firm of Law. Hemming, Essad & Polaczyk, as well as the engineering firm of Ayres, Lewis, Norris & May. I hope the current emphasis on dropping the assessors (Wayne County Appraisal Co.) does not indicate a return to "business as usual" with regard to the other two firms.

It is poor business practice for three Western Wayne townships to use a common law firm. Particularly if the firm is headed by the brother of the supervisor of one of the townships. The interests of the towships do not always coincide and advice to one is likely to be influenced by connections to another. We are entitled to undivided loyalty from our governmen-tal officials and from the consultants that they hire.

The use of an engineering firm which has an official sitting as a trustee in Plymouth Township is equally poor practice and for the same reason. Both firms have displayed very poor judgment (as have those offi-ctals who have employed and continue to employ them). Both firms have made repeated contributions to township officials responsible for their selection.

The divided loyalties which surely must exist in the case of both government officials and consultants cannot be allowed to continue. The services of the firms and those officials who employ them should be dispensed with.

This is a year for political cleansing and Northville Township government has needed a bath for

A new event

To the editor:

There is a brand new event for the 1991-92 Northville Downs season, brought to you compliments of the Zayti Trucking Compny of Northville/Novi. This brand new event, beginning in November 1991, was the introduction into the dumping season of horse manure and urine at Eight Mile and Beck Road by the Zayti Trucking Company. Why is this new event allowed? How did it get started? Who is going to put an end to it? When will it end, when the track closes in April, only to be started up again this fall? Believe us, the stench is unbearable.

Just drive into any subdivision east of Beck Road during the dayor night, (east of Zayti Trucking), or on a Saturday or Sunday afternoon. ICKI Heaven help us if we have friends or relatives visiting us. are barbecuing outside, or have our children playing in the yard. Just the sight, along Beck Road of the enormous mounds of manure (it seems), is hideous and repulsive.

The point is we're trying to make is, why now? Why is Zayti dumping the horse manure it gets from Northville Downs on the side (Beck) of their property now, this season? Many of us have lived in Northville in excess of 15 years and have never known the Zayti firm to do this type of dumping. So then, why

Respect flag

To the editor:

I am writing this letter on behalf of one of America's greatest symbols — the flag. Since the birth of our country and all of its trials and tribulations, it is our flag that has always stood bold and proud. I am greatly concerned at the condition and respect shown to one particular flag. This flag is found on the corner of Seven Mile and Rogers. I do not know who owns the flag, but straight. I do feel those who perished for it and their families would be as disappointed as I am.

We must be proud, and we, as a country and people, must continue to stand above all. This is what our flag represents. I do hope that the owner of this particular flag will do the patriotic thing, bring down this great symbol, and give it its proper burial for it has more than done its

Get the facts

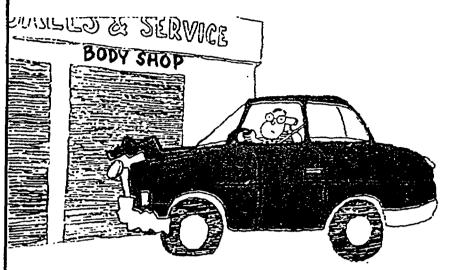

To the editor:

I am a member of the committee that is currently in the process of rewriting the Code of Conduct and Ethics for Northville Township. There have been a lot of critical comments regarding this committee and I take exception to them.

I especially take exception to Rick Engelland's comment in the March 23 edition of The Northville Record. His comment was, "I think it's humorous they have an ethics committee. They should look at ethics, but should have some ethical people on the board." Before you start criticizing, Mr. Engelland, get your facts straight. We are not an ethics committee. As I said a moment ago, we are a committee that is rewriting the Code of Conduct and Ethics for the Township. Where were you, Mr. Engelland, when Supervisor Lennox was asking for volunteers for our committee? Home, perhaps, watching TV and couldn't be bothered? Or perhaps it's because we are serving without compensation and you figure your time is too valuable. It's easy to sit back and criticize, but as I said, at least get your facts

Opring Hing

By SHARON CONDRON Staff Writer

Unlike their fall predecessors, this year's spring fashions accommodate the masses.

Brightly colored solids, plaids, and florals vie against classic navy and white coordinates for crisp spring looks. Metallic accessories and the return of cat-eye styled sunglasses complete the total look and project a definite '90s style.

"More of the season's trends are equal in dominance," said M.J. Burns, the fashion office manager for the entire Hudson's chain. "Not one trend is more dominant than any other, unlike what we saw in the fall lines. Each pattern and selection has something for everyone."

"Colors and styles in the spring line are more pleasing to everyone and are more accommodating to fit everyone, unlike the fall, where red was dominant, and if you couldn't wear it — tough luck," she said.

Despite what old man winter may be saying, area department stores are following the lead of the calendar and jumping right into spring.

Hosts of local women's clubs and organizations, in Northville and Novi, are sending out annual invitations to spring fashion shows, paving the way for sneak previews for cruisers and tropical vacationers.

WOMEN'S, MEN'S FASHIONS — COLORS

Color trends for the spring are brilliant. Natural fibers - like cottons and linens — are bursting in bright spring colors. Sousan Rahimi, assistant man-

Sousan Rahimi, assistant manager at First Issue at Twelve Oaks Mall, said she's seeing a palette of green, yellow, and reds.

"We are seeing anything in bright colors. Green is in, yellow is very big, and we have a lot of what we call strawberry red," said Rahimi, who introduced the store's spring line-up at the Northville Mothers' Club fashion show last Saturday.

"Mixing and matching anything in bright colors is what's new for spring," she said.

Classic navy and white has made a big comeback this year, both Rahimi and Burns agreed.

"But this year, it's much more than nautical." Burns said. "We are seeing it blocked, banded, dotted, and striped in everything from dresses to jackets and blazers."

In addition to the classic look, Rahimi said spring styles are dictating a splash of color — preferably in yellow — putting a new twist on an old look.

Mom of three sees Novi Jaycees as skill builder

DOROTHY NASH Special Writer

Words tumble out in rapid succession when Becky Staab talks about her volunteering for Novi Jaycees.

Who are the Jaycees? "It's a national leadership training organization," she answered, "with classes given monthly in skills to use personally." Members are men and women—singles and couples—ages 21 through 39.

Staab is married to a former Jaycee president, and she is also the mother of children ages 12, 11 and 9. So she does have things to occupy her time at home.

But when she's called on to volunteer for Jaycees, she said, "I don't know that I have the time, but I make the time."

Examples of her volunteering in her five years of membership are:

1. For the Jaycees Christmas Concert with singing by the Choralaires.
Staab makes the arrangements between the two organizations because she is a member of both.

2. For the Arts and Crast Fair, which is sponsored jointly by the Jaycees and the Novi Arts Council, she said, "I have chaired it," for the Jaycee involvement.

For the silver anniversary celebration this year of Novi Jaycees.
 Staab said, "I am chairing the dinner dance."

4. "Speak Up" training program is one which Staab has taken, and so she occasionally gives speeches to Novi Jaycees as well as to other groups throughout the state.

But what about money which Jaycees raised? The answer is that it goes in various ways, such as to a scholarship fund and a needy family fund.

Partners raise money to fund trips

By SHARON CONDRON Staff Writer

Seeing is believing.

That is the premise on which the Partnerships for Education program is based.

For Northville students seeing math, science. and art in action at the workplace has just become more affordable. Through its first "Spring Fling raffle, the Northville Partnerships for Education program raised more than $8,700 to help continue the district's annual business partnership program.

The money will enable program leaders to increase the number of field trips students can take to their respective business partners' workplaces. Students, like Julie Winneur's fifthgrade class at Winchester Elementary, will now have the opportunity to travel to places like the Meijer warehouse and the Standard Federal Bank headquarters building.

Partnerships coordinator Jan Purtell said the response to the raffle was surprising in light of economic times.

*Some people wrote checks for the full amount; that's $15 a book." Purtell said. "I think that says a lot about our community."

The Partnerships program, which now has 19 business partners affiliated with Northville Public Schools, offers students a close-up opportunity to see academics in motion. Partnerships like the one with Ford Motor Co. teach students about aerodynamics, engineering, and technology being used in today's workplace. Some 30 engineers from Ford participate in the second annual partnership program, helping students build mock race cars illustrating aerodynamics and material handling.

With the additional money, art students from the district's middle schools will be able to travel to the Standard Federal Bank Building in Troy to see the bank's renowned art collection. This trip is one of several new field trips available to students, compliments of the community through the fundraiser.

Spring lines bloom to bright colors

"We are seeing a lot of navy and white accented with gold — whether that be a gold silk shell or a knit T-shirt worn underneath a solid or patterned navy Jacket with matching shorts. It's all in the mixing and matching," she told the crowd at the annual fundraiser.

White is also very big this spring. Present in anything from denim to jersey knits to crisp piquets, fabrics in radiating whites are ideal for casual weekends, on-the-job, and nights out on the town.

Floral patterns in full blooming colors and again in softer hues and smaller prints are also bountiful this spring too.

"Florals are very big too. We are seeing both florals in huge cabbage, oversized prints and in soft vintage small floral prints," Burns said.

For men, colors are equally popular. Bright, festive colors—turquoise, orange, and red—and primaries in casual vertical stripes and plaids offer men an outfit to complement their female counterparts.

Bountiful in natural fibers like linen and 100-percent cotton, this year's color schemes and patterns are prominent in ties, shirt pocket squares patterns. STYLES

Unlike Hudson's, which sells a variety of designer lines, fashions from First Issue are exclusive designs from Liz Claiborne.

"We manufacture all of our clothes to match so pieces work together to create a whole wardrobe, not just a single look," Rahimi said.

While First Issue sports its fullline of coordinates, other retailers are showing off plentiful plaids and checks in gingham or big buffalo plaids.

Styles are clean and crisp. Jackets and blazers in both solids and florals are basic necessities in any women's wardrobe. They can dress up a walking or city short, skirt, or trouser, or provide a nice accent for any demin. Either way, fashion consultants across the board agree this year's fashions aren't complete without a jacket.

"Jackets are basic necessities. Teamed up with demins or shorts, every woman should have atleast one." Rahimi said.

Burns echoed that excitement. "City shorts teamed up with blazers are a great suit alternative."

Available this year in long or short waisted options, jackets work well with this year's popular shorts, skorts, skirts, and trousers.

"There are lots of options here in fitted or boxey styles jackets," Rahimi added.

Also on the market is what third

Also on the market is what Hudson's fashions consultants have dubbed the Bare Necessities trend. A look that combines basic lingerie with casual dresses and brings lingerie out of the drawer and into the daylight. Bra tops and bustieres coupled with slip dresses, halter dresses, and long dresses bring all the allure of lingerie to daywear and achieve a positively feminine look. ACCESSORIES

Metallic is this spring's buzz word in accessories. Gold, silver, and bronze shoes and purses are perfect accents for today's styles. White clothes accented with metallic accessories provide a "very crisp" look for spring. Burns said.

Sheer hose ranging in color from ivory to pale blush tones provides the perfect accent for almost any spring outfit. Matching hose to the shoe provides continuity of color and makes the outfit the focal point.

"The focal point is on the suit and its accessories to complete the outiff so wearing neutral hose and hoses that match the shoe don't fight with the outfit," Burns said.

Shoe styles this spring bring open back shoes in the forefront. Metallic, mesh, and canvas shoes are also popular options to accentuate today's most discriminating styles.

A guided tour of travel guides

New crop of travel guides lets readers harvest vacation info

By EVERETT POTTER New York Times Travel Syndicate

Summer is the busiest time of the year in the travel business. So it's no surprise to find a new crop of travel guides waiting for eager readers. Here's a selection of the best:

A series called the Access Travel Guides has long been distinguished for succinct writing and a savvy insider's grasp of locale.

The new *Florence/Venice/Milan Access" by Dwight V. Gast (Harper-Perennial, 1991, $17) is an admirable entry in the series. Gast is a New York writer who is former resident of Italy. He knows his history, art and trattorias.

This book reports on gelato parlors, Renaissance churches and Milan's chie boutiques.

Two other entries of note: "Miami & South Florida Access" by M.M. Cloutier, et al (HarperPerennial, 1992, $17) and "Northern California Wine Country Access by S. Irene Virbila [HarperPerennial, 1992, $17].

Fodor's Affordables is a brandnew series. Almed at cost-conscious travelers who aren't quite ready to return to youth hostels and backpacks. the first three titles cover France. Germany and Great Britain.

Fodor's 1992 Affordable Great Britain" (Fodor's Travel Publications. 1992, $14) is typical of the group. It is written by a team of authors and incorporates pertinent information from Fodor's standard travel guide to the country.

What is different is the expanded range of moderate- and low-priced hotels and restaurants.

For London, for example, where it's difficult to find a room for less than $200 a night, the guide lists hotels and guest houses ranging from about $52 to $163 per night.

A Venice gondolier is among the sights described in a host of new travel guides

There is also detailed information on public transportation for travel within cities and for day trips, on the assumption that rental cars will not Anglophiles should also note "Cottages, B&Bs and Country Inns of England and Wales" by Elizabeth Gundrey (Fodor's Travel Publications, 1992, $15).

Published in England as "Staying Off the Beaten Path," this popular guide to more than 500 properties is in its 1 Ith edition in England and has now been published for the first time in the United States.

If the new series of Berlitz Travellers Guide books seems familiar, it's because the entire group was originally published as the Penguin Travel Guides.

Last year Berlitz bought the series from Penguin and brought along general editor Alan Tucker. While the covers have changed, the books continue to be written by a committee of writers who really know their

The first nine titles include New York City, Mexico, Hawaii, and the Caribbean. They range from $10.95 to $14.95 per book.

Just in time for the summer

Olympics is "Slow Walks in Barcelona: A Visitor's Companion" by Michael Leitch (HarperPerennial 1992, $13), a series of 16 detailed walks throughout the city.

They include strolls to Antonio Gaudi's Sagrada Familia church, to the Miro and Picasso museums and to the bird, flower and food markets Chatham.

Those who love the outdoors will enjoy Exploring Colorado's Wild Areas by Scott S. Warren [The Mountaineers, 1992, $14.95]. This guide introduces readers to 65 backcountry areas. Each area is assessed for hiking, cross-country skiing, canoeing and kayaking.

Best Hikes with Children: San Francisco's North Bay by Bill McMil-lion, with Kevin McMillion (The Mountaineers, 1992, $12.95) is the latest entry in that popular series. It lists 90 day hikes that encompass such places as Mount Tamalpais and Point Reyes National Seashore.

The Lonely Planet travel series has a mission to cover the planet. These books appeal to youthful, adventurous and budget-minded travelers. One of the latest entries is "Zimbabwe, Botswana and Namibia by Deanna Swaney and Myra Shackley (Lonely Planet, 1992, $16.95).

For the traveler who has always dreamed of going to Victoria Falls, meeting the "bush people" of Kalahari and seeing African wildlife without an organized safari, this is the

Visitors to New England should examine "Massachusetts Off the Beaten Path: A Guide to Unique Places" by Patricia Mandel (Globe Pequot Press, 1992, $9.95).

The author highlights such travelers' finds as a 150-year-old general store in South Egremont, the maritime treasures of the Peabody Mu-seum in Salem and the brass-band concerts held every Friday night in summer in the Cape Cod town of

Ballroom dance spots remain; they're just a lot harder to find

By GENE and ADELE MALOTT New York Times Travel Syndicate

DEAR TMT: I love ballroom dancing and belong to a dance club in Palm Beach, Fla. We have a very nice group of elderly ladies who like to go places for dinner and ballroom dancing. We also have a very fine group of gentlemen who accompany us.

Besides local dinner-dancing, we take seven-day or long weekend cruises out of town to such places as New York, New Orleans, San Juan, Chicago, Dallas. But it seems good ballroom dancing is scarce. When we choose a trip, such as our upcoming one to San Juan . . . it is hard to find nice, elegant places to go.

I see beautiful ads in various highquality magazines extolling the amenities of luxury hotels — golf, spas, tennis and so forth — but rarely, if ever, dancing. What are guests supposed to do during and after dinner? Go to bed and watch television? We can do that at home!

Do you have any suggestions as to how to locate hotels with good dinner-dancing or even good dancing in cocktail lounges after dinner?

In researching this reply — which took us almost a month — we came across two other specialists. Both can arrange ballroom-dance trips in America and abroad, no matter where participants live.

DaNaze Dalby of St. George Travel in Salt Lake City, Utah, is a longtime travel specialist who has the research experience to organize such a trip. She regularly puts together overseas trips for a tap-dance group and says she can handle ballroom dancers too.

"Nikki (Bailey) was responsible for offense. Rachael was responsible for everything else," said Baldwin. Perry has been described as a great blend of communication abilities and playing skills. She displayed physical quickness on the floor and combined that with mental speed to make fast decisions that resulted in South Lyon points. Baldwin said Perry was referred to as "our future lawyer." "Anytime there was a questionable call, she was asking the ref about it." Baldwin said. "Her talking to the refs gave everybody a chance to re-group."

Perry's upbeat attitude was essential to the team's game disposition. Even when the Lions were playing poorly or losing. Perry's smile was present, a fact that Baldwin said was very important to team success.

"If we smile and are mentally up, we play mentally up," Baldwin said. Rachael was the epitome of everything a leader should be on the

The coach commented that Lower was the team's second best hitter, behind All-Area first-team selection

"She's not as vocal as Stacey," Osborn said, "but she's just as good." Lower made quick improvements in her first varsity year. Osborn said her serving and vertical jump were just a couple of areas in which Lower improved.

Jenny made tremendous strides," Ósborn said.

Lower went 251 for 278 on serves for a 91-percent mark. Osborn said Lower's work ethic was one of her big-

With a host of returning seniors and an excellent 1991 showing. the Mustang boys track team is looking forward to a banner campaign this spring.

Northville concluded with an 8-1 dual-meet record last year and won the Western Division of the Western Lakes Activities Association. The Mustangs placed third in the conference championships as well.

Top performers such as Kevin Gill and Bob Holloway are gone from that team. But with the likes of Jamie Miller, Chris Lehr, John Gatti and Ryan Huzjak returning, coach Dennis Faletti is confident Northville will again be among the league leaders.
I think we can fill those gaps and end up with the same results," said Faletti.

Wagner picked as top coach

By SCOTT DANIEL Staff Sports Writer Turning around a losing program is no easy task. But that's what Amy Wagner has done for Novi High's volleyball program. The Wildcats, after posting losing records year after year, rebounded to an 10-8 overall mark in 1992 and a 7-5 showing in the Kensington Valley Conference.

That's why Amy Wagner is Hometown Newspapers' East Coach of the year," Wagner said, adding that there was no bickering on her team. That was the biggest plus, their ability to get along and help each other.

The coach commented that she has high expectations each new season. She said her team reached those expectations, for the most part.

I guess you can always do better." Wagner said. But I think they played the best they could."

The highlight of the year were wins over Lakeland and South Lyon near mid-season. Wagner said the 'Cats showed those and other KVC rivals they would be in for a battle this year.

"I think we have taken a hard look at ourselves and sald we can be competitive," Wagner said. "I think the other teams know you just don't take Novi for granted anymore."

With just 13 juniors and seniors, the Mustang girls track team is fielding one of its youngest squads in repent years.

are working very hard," she said. "But it's going to be a watch-and-see year."

Last season was anything but watch-and-see. The Mustangs went 5-3 in overall dual meets and 2-3 in the Western Lakes Activities Association.

· Turnbull said it's too early to predict if Northville can match that record. She said the Mustangs will surprise some people in the conference. however.

"I think (they) will be surprised by our sprinters," Turnbull commented. "And our distance people will be competitive."

Senior Angle Tune will be the top long jumper. Marcy Bolger, a sophomore, will also compete.

Underclassmen will make up the bulk of track events.

Bolger, Kissenger, senior Trish Lusomski and freshman Adrianne Browne will fill out the 100-meter sprint group. The 200-meter dash will feature sophomores Val Po-hutski, Kristi Darkowski, Urvi Mujumdar and Sharon Saydak: Cook: Buser; and freshman Lindsay Petrie.

I think we will see better individual performances," he said.

Northville will need top performances in all of those areas to challenge for a WLAA crown.

RECORD RECREATION

Basketball tourney slated for Saturday basketball tournaments and leagues has swept the country in recent years. Tournaments and leagues are soon becoming an integral part of re-creation programs around the state. Northville Parks and Recreation Programs will meet that demand by offering a three-on-three basketball tournament for teens ages 12 to 17.

The tournament will be held Saturday, April 4, with tip-off beginning at 10 a.m. Games will be held at the Recreation Center, located at 303 W. Main Street in Northville. Teams of four players can pre-register for the tournament before April 1 at a cost of $28 per team. Both boys and girls teams are encouraged to sign up soon to ensure they receive a spot in the tournament.

The recent interest is due, in part. to the Gus Macker tournament held in Belding, Michigan every summer. Thousands of people attend this tournament and others like it every > Another twist is having no referees, which makes for some interesting situations. Surprisingly, court honesty usually prevails and things always balance in the end.

> Games wil be self-officiated, meaning only the players will call their own fouls and infractions. If push comes to shove and no resolution can be reached, an on-site referee can intervene with his own, sometimes arbitrary, decisions.

The tournament will be set up in a round-robin format, which allows each team a chance to win the tournament regardless of their win/loss record. The number of games will depend on how many teams sign up for each age group. Three games will be the minimum any team would play. Why spend another Saturday morning lying around the house? Register now and "Air It Out."

Future tournaments and leagues are being considered. If the interest is there, it can be a strong program for adults and youths alike. For more information about this tournament or other recreation activities, contact the Recreation Department at patient, a physician relies heavily on what the patient says to reach a correct diagnosis. The patient's description of the health problem is known as the patient history and may be the most important information available to the physician. In fact, some people state that 85 percent of the diagnosis rests on the patient's history and the actual examination yields only another 15 percent. In 1992, with all of our high technology and fancy laboratory tests, it's easy to overlook the significance of the history. But it must be remembered that the history determines to a large part what tests need to be ordered. If the information is incomplete or wrong, it will take that much longer to arrive at the correct solution to the problem. Since the history is of such vital importance. I have listed the types of useful information that the patient would be wise to have at hand.

• 1. When eplaining a problem to the physician, try to be specific. When was the problem first noticed, how has it changed, and what is it

When examining a doing now? As an example, saying, "I have a have seen at least one patient who was taking attent, a physician lump in my breast that has been there since two brands of the same drug at the same time 1978 and has not changed" will tell the physician much more than a simple, "I have a lump."

> parents. It is always useful to know whether something runs in the family. Heart disease, breast cancer or colon cancer and sickle-cell anemia are a few examples where heredity is important. • 3. As the American public becomes mobile > and visits foreign countries, physicians are treating problems that ordinarily are not seen in the United States. For instance, malaria is seen in Michigan, but would not be thought of unless it was known that the patient had been in Africa or another foreign country. If you develop a problem after visiting another country, let your physician know.

• 4. If you are allergic to a medication, tell your physician. It is also important to describe what happened when you took the drug. For instance, getting sleepy after taking an antihistimine is a side effect and not an allergy. Developing hives after taking an antibiotic would be an allergic reaction.

• 5. List all medications you are taking, including aspirin, Tylenol, birth control pills, laxatives and all over-the-counter medications.

because neither physician knew about the other. • 7. If you have or had a job that could influence your health, tell your physician.

 8. A history of vaccinations is important. If everyone who cut themselves knew when their last tetanus shot was, there would be fewer injections.

 9. A history of operations and childhood diseases is important. As an example, certain heart valve problems commonly follow rheumatic fever by many years.

 ■ 10. Although embarrassing, sexual problems should be mentioned. Frequently they may be due to another health problem. For instance, impotence may be caused by diabetes.

 11. Smoking, drinking alcohol or taking drugs, even if no longer being done, is important information for the physician to know. There are many conditions such as lung cancer or cirrhosis of the liver where past behavior is very important.

 12. Obtaining old medical information when seeing a new physician is extremely important. This cannot be overemphasized. For instance, some people with a "new" spot on their lung or their chest X-ray have undergone lung surgery

Home warranty coverage can be a good investment

By James M. Woodard Copley News Service

"Without home warranty coverage after the sale of a previously owned residence, the seller and his agent are just standing there in their shorts—a vulnerable target for after-sale problems."

Haven Burke, a regional president of First National Realty, candidly expressed that view when asked about the value of home protection (warranty) coverage in today's market. He also stressed the importance of studying and comparing several plans.

"All home protection plan service contracts don't offer the same coverage. It's important to read them carefully to be sure you're getting the coverage you need and expect," he said.

George King, another brokerage firm executive agrees that warranty coverage is particularly important today.

"It provides much-needed potection against liability risks as well as other unexpected financial losses. We strongly recommend it to all owners of our listed residential properties." King said.
King noted that the one-time fee for the coverage is usually paid by the home seller, but the cost is sometimes paid or shared by the buyer or broker.

A typical home protection plan covers costs of repairing or replacing "working parts" of a home
—the mechanical, non-structural systems and components. The

Degrees of plants

By C.Z. Guest Copley News Service

A green thumb isn't difficult; it's fun and it's easy! Here's how to choose the plants that are right for you and how to meet their needs.

Whether you live in an apartment or house, there's a wide selection of plants to choose from. Some love the idea of living in a window loaded with sunshine, others will practically grow in the dark.

Many colorful flowers thrive and bloom all year-round under the proper conditions. while others will be happy in bottles, water, window containers, teacups, baskets or anything else. You can grow plants for fun, food, presents or just because you love them. If you are just beginning to cultivate your green thumb, start with easy ones and gradually work up to those plants that need more care and attention.

Your very first step is recognizing the conditions of your indoors and choosing the proper plant for it. For example, tropical plants won't do, very well on a cool sun porch. On the other hand, cool-temperature plants will not thrive and be happy in rooms kept warmer than 70 degrees.

GARDENING

Here's the way professional growers call their shots, temperaturewise:

· Cool is 55 to 60 degrees during the day, 40 to 50 degrees at night

• Moderate is 65 to 68 degrees during the day, 55 degrees night (minimum).

• Warm is 62 to 68 degrees during the day, 70 to 77 degrees at night.

The service contract is usually for a one-year period following the sale of a home, costing a onetime fee of from $250 to $400. Some warranty firms will allow the new homeowner to extend the coverage for additional one-year periods for an added fee.

It signifies greater use of service agreements by homeowners to repair or replace covered mechanical systems and major appliances.

Two years ago home warranty companies paid out an average of 74 claims for every 100 home warranty service contracts issued. In 1991,126 claims were paid out for every 100 homes covered, the NHWA report noted.

"As a result of increased usage, warranty claim costs have jumped

Along with increased public awareness and usage of home protection plans, an influx of new plans have entered the market. Some of these service contracts are dangerously deficient in coverage aspects.

The key to finding the best possible plan is to read the terms and conditions in the contract carefully. And be sure the warranty company is licensed by the state, and its financial resources and stability are above state-required minimums," Branson said.

With increasing sales of previously owned homes, particularly to first-time buyers, the importance of solid home warranty coverage will continue to grow.

Even major insurance compa-

The first toad abode in my yard just happened by accident," Dudderar relates. "A child's plastic pail ended up upside-down under a juniper in a slight depression filled with old leaves. The wooden handle on the pail propped the pail up a bit so a toad could move in. And one did.

The next one, made from a flower pot placed in a flower bed (as suggested in a National Wildlife magazine article), attracted a toad that would come out at night to catch bugs attracted to the porch light.

"It got so used to seeing us that we could feed it," Dudderar relates. "We would put a bug down on the porch and the toad would either flick its tongue out and catch it, if it was close enough, or hop over to it and catch it. Pillbugs, beetles, moths, slugs, earthworms - it wasn't particular."

A toad in your garden - or even more than one - won't necessarily cure all your pest problems, Dudderar points out. But if you're interested in using biological controls or an integrated pest management approach to minimize chemical use. inviting a toad into the garden can certainly be helpful.

Coca-Cola's Santa is collectible

By James G. McCollam Copley News Service

Q. In 1958, when I was a little girl, the Coca-Cola bottling company gave children of their employees a Santa Claus doll. I am sure that it would be considered a collectible. Can you tell me what it might sell for?

A. Based on recent sales figures, this Coca-Cola Santa would probably sell for about $125 to $135 in really good condition.

COCA-COLA COLLECTIBLES

The Coca-Cola trademark is probably the best known in the history of marketing. It is recognized all over the world. It's only natural that people would gravitate toward collecting items with the famous logo.

Simple things, like bottles and glasses, quickly come to mind. The first bell-shape glass with "Trade Mark" in the tail of "Coca" was introduced in 1929 and sells for about $30.

The straight-sided bottles used before World War I sell from $15 to several hundred dollars for the very early ones.

Bottle openers range from a few dollars to several hundred. Tin serving trays are one of the most popular collectibles. They can range from S50 to more than S100 for the trays produced in the last 50 years. The 1900-1910 trays run $1,000 to $2,000, but beware of reproductions.

Toy trucks and cars bearing the Coca-Cola logo are double-barreled collectibles since they also are sought by toy collectors.

A 1930s Metalcraft truck in good condition runs about $500. If it is mint condition, in the original box, the price is $1,500. Budget prices of less than $100 are found on Coca-Cola trucks of the 1960s to 1980s.

The prima donna collectible is probably the Baird gallery (round) clock with *Coca-Cola - The Ideal Brain Drink" imprint around the dial. Now we're talking $4,000 or $5,000.

John O'Brien's first week's pay was $20. That was a competitive wage for a mortician's apprentice in Nowaster 42 years in the business, the owner of the O'Brien Chapel/Ted C. Sullivan Funeral Homes, O'Brien can reflect on the ways funerals have changed.

The biggest changes I've seen are that we're more aware of aftercare to families," said O'Brien. "Some of the hospitals are intent on working with the families. For example, for widows there's a lot more care available.

"it's been a great step in the right direction. Even our clergy are more trained for service to the families." With that in mind, the O'Brien Chapel in Novi recently added a bereavement counselor to its staff.

Sometimes all people need is a push or a nod, or to tell them it's all right to cry. Then they can heal." O'Brien said.

O'Brien noted that there is more compassion for the families of infants who have died as well.

When I first started, the father would come in for a stillborn child. and the child would be buried before the mother was out of the hospital."

It's all part of a greater understanding for the humanities that modern funeral directors are still learning. Theirs is, after all, a customer-service business.

The most important part of our job is thinking of all the details that the client needs, and acting on them," O'Brien said. "We have to make sure the funeral goes smoothly for them because God knows they've got enough problems. We get a lot of letters from families who've said they liked our service."

At the funeral home on Grand River Avenue, little has changed since it was opened in May of 1976. There are two rooms for visitations. one decorated in a cool Mediterranean blue, and the other in green which O'Brien will neither confirm nordeny is in honor of his proud Irish heritage.

A third room showcases the line of caskets which come in a variety of

We do traditional funerals, and alternatives too," O'Brien said. "If we don't have a two-day visitation, we can do immediate cremation or other

"At one time, every burial was at the gravesite. But now we're seeing more chapel services at the cemetery."

Back when O'Brien was an apprentice attending mortuary school, visitations weren't always held at the funeral home either.

Tive seen it go from house funerals to what we have now," O'Brien said. The person would be layed out in the front room, which was sometimes on an upper floor in those Detroit twofamily flats."

In 1970, Ted Sullivan made O'Brien manager of his second funeral home on Fenkell Road in Detroit. When Sullivan died a couple of years later, O'Brien was elected president of the company, though he retained the name of its founder.

It remains a family business, too. John's son, John Patrick O'Brien, is a licensed mortician, and his daughters help out as well. Mike Watt is the Black said neither "semi-private" nor private listing service (nonpublished) would prevent customers' numbers from being displayed when they call businesses - such as mail-

Tax strategy for the self-employed

The tax advantages of being selfemployed, even if it's only a part-time business, can be significant. The Michigan Association of CPAs suggests some basic strategies you can follow to make the most of your selfemployment income.

TAKE ADVANTEAGE OF BUSINESS EXPENSES

Whether you are your own boss full-time or part-time, many of the expenses you incur are deductible as business expenses. These include fees for professional services (such as accounting and legal advice), advertising, equipment rental, uniforms, alarm systems, automobile expenses and even answering service.

ESTABLISH RETIREMENT PLANS People who are self-employed or have sideline businesses are generally eligible to open a Keogh plan or a SEP (Simplified Employee Pension Plan). Depending on the type of plan you open, you can contribute as much as 20 percent of your earned income or $30,000 a year, whichever is less. Even if you have a full-time job, as long as you earn income on the side, you can set up a taxdeferred Keogh or SEP using the proceeds of your sideline work.

TRACK HOME OFFICE EXPENSES

If your office is in your home, you may be entitled to special tax breaks. To qualify, your home office must be used exclusively and regularly for you business. In addition, your home office must be your principal place of business or a place where you regularly meet customers or clients. The deduction works like this: Because part of your home qualifies as business property, part of the cost of running it becomes a business deduction. Let's suppose your office space accounts for 10 percent of the space

Speeches get your word out

Taking advantage of the op-portunity to speak profession-ally represents a key business strategy that many independent business owners and managers typically ignore.

The reasons why business professionals avoid "public speaking are the same as would be for anyone asked to present information in front of a group. "Stage fright" is the most common deterrent, as is fear of rejection and unwillingness to be the center of attention.

Business people need to speak in order to become true professionals, be recognized in their fields and further their careers," said Kay Britten of Kay Britten Communications. Britten said that practice and experience are the two primary ways to help individuals overcome the fears associated with speaking in front of others. "It isn't going to be easy, but no one needs to start speaking in front of 100 people.

Britten offers a series of tips to help both the novice and seasoned professional speaker give great presentations. The first step relates to preparation.

"If a person has never spoken in front of an audience, the first step is to identify what topic(s) he or she is comfortable discussing." Britten maintained. "As an example, an accountant who is a master sailor may want to start out by speaking to the local Rotary Club about sailing. On the other hand, a professional speaker would already have a prepared list of topics that he or she would submit to local business groups and organizations for consideration."

Next. Britten suggested that the speaker understand his or her main audience. What is the average age? Predominately male or female? Education and lifestyle? Active in what field(s) of business?

*Agroup of advertising executives won't respond to a speaker who presents introductory information relating to the field of advertising," she said.

When it comes to preparing the speech, Britten suggested writing down the main theme in one sentence. This helps to avoid the problems of presenting too much information in too short a time period. A person speaking for 15 minutes should cover only one main point with several examples. Someone speaking for 30 minutes has time for two main points and the appropriate backup information.

It is also recomended that 15 percent of a speaker's time be used to introduce the subject matter, 75 percent to discuss it, and 10 percent to wrap up.

As final suggestions relating to preparation. Britten suggested becoming familiar with the site where the speech will be given and having the right kind of visual guide or notes to use during the talk.

"And by all means, rehearse your speech over and over again," she said. "You want to be throughly prepared - as though your life depended on it.

in your house. That means you can deduct as a business expence 10 percent of the many costs associated with running your home.

DEDUCT HEALTH INSURANCE

The IRS allows self-employed taxpayers to deduct 25 percent of the premiums they pay for medical insurance for themselves, their spouses and dependents. The 25 percent deduction does not apply, however, if you or your spouse are eligible to participate in an employer's health

TAKE OTHER SPECIAL INSUR-ANCE DEDUCTIONS

Insurance premiums on policies that protect your business are also deductible. These include policies practice and worker's compensation. CPAs point out that the cost of premiums on a policy providing coverage for more than one year must be de-ducted over the life of the policy.

OFFSET EQUIPMENT COSTS

Tax law generally requires that you depreciate over a number of years the cost of equipment you buy for your business. As an alternative to depreciation, you may choose a special expensing provision that allows you to take an immediate tax deduction of up to $10,000 per year for equipment purchases.

CHECK ESITMATED PAYMENTS AND SELF-EMPLOYMENT TAX

If you are self-employed, you are still responsible for paying income tax and Social Security tax on your earnings. To comply with the rules. you need to make quarterly esti-mated tax payments. You do not have to make estimated tax payments if your withholding for the year equals 90 percent of the total tax shown on this year's return, or 100 percent of the tax you paid last year.

If you make a profit of $400 or more, you may also be required to pay a self-employment tax to provide funds for Social Security and Medicare benefits. Self-employment tax is treated as part of your income tax and must be taken into account when you figure your estimated tax. In an attempt to set the FICA tax rate for self-employment persons at the same rate as that paid by employees. a recent change in the tax law allows self-employed people to deduct onehalf of the Social Security tax they

TWINGES-IN-THE-HINGES "Arthritis Aquatic Program"

The National YMCA and the National Arthritis Foundation have joined together to establish a recreational water program for persons with arthritis. Swimming ability is not necessary for participation. This class does not replace prescribed regimen of therapeutic exercises, but studies have shown potential resistance property of water can help decrease pain or stiffness and improve coordination. Class will meet for 45 minutes, two times per week with an additional half hour water time at the participant's convenience.

A special registration form is required and participant's doctors will be contacted by the YMCA for a medical consent form. Registration form may be obtained from the Physical Education Secretary or Aaron Reeves, Aquatic Coordinator.

Class is open to any adult with arthritis who is able to climb stairs to locker rooms and pool.
