up as death personified and dragged volunteer students from classes into deathly chambers with chains of beer cans clanging behind. The event, held annually at the high school, falls right before students recess for spring break and prior to the onset of prom and graduation festivities.

Schools note Month of Young Child

By SHARON CONDRON Staff Writer

Walk into the Early Childhood Center this month and you'll see a flood of purple ribbons. Children are wearing them to honor the Month of the Young Child.

For years the State of Michigan has designated April as the Month of the Young Child. The designation is intended to recognize the needs of young children and to celebrate their accomplishments.

Northville's Early Childhood Center, at 501 W. Main, is no exception. In addition to a host of month-long activities celebrating young children, are important people to us," said Gal-such as the center's partnership with the local senior center. For Gallagher, the presentation was one technique for bringing young children to the forefront of board members' minds, to draw attention to their needs, and to recognize their accomplishments.

Purple ribbons are illustrations of the support and commitment administrators have made to young children.

"We are wearing them so people are more aware that these children the center, now in its seventh year, lagher. "Children are our greatest re-

The partnership with the Senior Center has had real positive outcomes for both children and the seniors," said Nancy Shuerman, chairperson of the parinership program. We've become friends through cooperative learning."

For Karl Peters, director of the senior center, the program's benefits have been as equally positive.

"It was really nice being with the kids," he said. "The seniors really enjoyed being a part of the program. It's the first time I've ever seen the bridge players stop playing cards and not program.

They just wanted to give some-thing back to the community." Peters said.

The seniors' responsiveness to the center mirrors the demand for the center's services. Since its inception seven years ago, the program has experience tremendous growth in enrollment, content and curriculum, Gallagher said. Gallagher, who has been in charge since the center opened, said she's heard great things from parents and teachers involved in the center.

brought its act to school board members last Monday.

In anticipation of the presentation, the school board lent its support to the center's program by adopting a resolution to locally recognize April as the Month of the Young Child.

Students at the Early Childhood Center—under the direction of prog-ram administrator and early child-hood specialist Mary Kay Gallagher - gave board members an hour-long presentation to showcase some of their highlights and activities at the center.

needs of the young child." In an effort to meet their needs, program administrators are doing some creative things both inside and outside the classroom.

Inside, kids are enthusiastic about learning to read, understanding the weather and habits of animals, and about life. Through cooperative prog-rams, students have been able to take what they've learned inside the classroom out into the community to share with others, Gallagher said.

As part of the partnership program, students have paraded through the center, made cookies and decorations for impromptus and holiday get-togethers, and sung songs, all in return for a reciprocal visit from Santa and Mrs. Claus at Christmas.

The most inspiring part was when the citizens joined in on the songs, Shuerman said. Some of them knew all the actions to go with the songs. The children were very excited and thrilled to be there with the seniors." Seniors were excited too. In response to the program, the seniors have started a $250 scholarship rors what national experts are recommending.

"I consider our staff an expert staff," Kosal told board members, because they are already doing what goes on at national workshops."

For board member Carol Rahimi, who used to work with Gallagher at the center, that news was no surprise.

"It says great things to you that you still have the same staff you did from the start," Rahmi said. "It says there is something exciting happening over there."

Northville escapes damage

on new PUD rules

By STEVE KELLMAN Staff Writer

It took several meetings, but the city's planning commission has finally hammered out the details of a proposed Planned Unit Development ordinance revision.

The revision would give developers the ability to shift the building den-sity on their parcels. In effect, a developer could build residential or other units closer together on one part of a parcel provided that the parcel's overall density remained the same.

The current ordinance was designed to encourage diverse types of residential housing and the preservation of a site's natural features and open spaces on large lots. The proposed revisions will allow Planned Unit Developments for other uses besides residential, and permit the developments on smaller parcels.

The proposal follows a recommendation in March by Planning Consul-tant Don Wortman. *Keep in mind that if someone wanted to put in a PUD at this time for a R1a or R1b (single-family development), they would need 80 acres. For R2, they would need 40 acres," Wortman told the commission March 3.

"I felt this was overly restrictive."

Wortman noted then that some other communities offer a slightly higher density for Planned Unit De-velopments, saying, "It's a carrot-and-stick arrangement." But he assured the commission that his proposed PUD revisions would not allow any greater density greatly than the city's current capitor overall than the city's current zoning.

The applicant is really not getting any break on density," he said. "The message that I heard in the Master Plan was that you didn't want to play with that."

News Briefs

FOLLOW THE BOUNCING CHECKS: The official list of U.S. representatives who bounced checks at the infamous House bank included one of Northville's representatives as well as a potential future representative.

Rep. Carl Pursell, R-Plymouth, made the list with a reported 17 bounced checks. Pursell has announced he will retire after this term because he was essentially redistricted away from most of his constituents under the new House boundaries.

Rep. William Broomfield, R-Lake Orion, did not make the list. But Rep, William Ford, D-Taylor - who has announced plans to run for the new district which will include some of Purseli's current turf - had six bounces, according to the list.

NEW SCHOOL GROUNDBREAKING: Northville school officials are hoping to get to the site of Thornton Creek Elementary school before construction crews break ground for the new school on Nine Mile Road.

A week from today, Monday, April 27, school, city, and town-ship officials, will converge at the vacant site, on the northside of Nine Mile Road between Taft and Beck in Novi, at 6:30 p.m. and hold a groundbreaking ceremony for the school, which is expected to open in the fall of 1993.

"EDUCATION CELEBRATION": RSVPs are being accepted for the Northville Coordinating Council of PTAs' second annual Education Celebration.

The reception recognizes the efforts of hundreds of people from the community who work to help bring quality education to Northville students. Everyone in the community is welcome to attend.

Anyone interested may RSVP to the Office of Instruction at 344-8442.

The event will run Wednesday, April 29, in the Northville High School cafeteria from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. Hors d'oeuvres, desserts, and beverages will be served during the reception. For more information call Marcia Cromas at 348-1261.

Schools ask for county tax levy

By SHARON CONDRON Staff Writer

The Northville School District and City of Northville aren't the only taxing authorities getting their budget together for fiscal year 1992-93.

Wayne County officials are also compiling budget requests for the upcoming fiscal year. As a result, budget requests for shares of county levies allocated to county school districts? were due today to the county's tax allocation" board.

Northville's budget request for its 8.90 mills of approved by the school board last Monday. Under the Public Act 62 of 1933, which legi-slates the county's 15-mill tax levy, the taxing board has the authority to allocate up to 8.90 mills to each district inside the county. The actual allocated millage rate is based on the taxable value of real and personal property in the district and it is apportioned by the county for school operating expenses. Since past allocation of those mills has been an automatic practice, this year should be no different, said district Business Manager John Street.

If all goes according to years past, the district should receive its entire allocated 7.23 mills, which is its total 8.90 mills, less 1.67 mills from Headlee rollbacks.

As the budget request was submitted to the board for approval, board treasurer Robert McMahon suggested the district mail a copy of it to Northville's state representatives and state senators for review.

"I would like to see this be sent to our senators and state representatives so they can see what's going on here with state and local funding." he said. "Maybe then we can get answers to a number of questions."

Vear miss for Northville

BY BRYAN MITCHELL Staff Photographer

A tornado scooted along North Territorial Road Thursday afternoon. barely sparing Northville Township from damage while destroying several structures in Salem and Plymouth.

The tornado hit about 4 p.m., cutting a jagged path about two miles long. Plymouth Hills Mobile Home Park, of Ridge and North Territorial. suffered the most damage with at least three people reporting minor injuries.

Eight trailers there were destroyed including several which flipped over - and more than a dozen others suffered minor damage. The twister caused gas leaks in the mobile home park and made some areas near the trailers "hot" from electricity and forcing evacuations.

Parts of Salem saw barns wrecked and trees uprooted. The Northville Township Fire Department received a call to aid Plymouth Township, but reported no storm damage in Northville

Plymouth Hills resident Bill Schultz recalled very hard rain just before the tornado hit. "It really did sound like a train," he said. "I saw my roof lift up . . . I could feel my house move."

Gail McPherson's husband, Bob, was hurt slightly with a cut on his arm. "We had no warning" of the tornado, she said.

Another witness, Cary Papas, remembered looking out his window and seeing all kinds of debris flying around. "Clouds were black and spinning," he said.

Take care during tornado season

Now that March has come in like a lion and gone out like a lamb. April may prove to be a more feroclous month.

Most tornadoes in Michigan touch down between April and July, which is why March 29-April 4 was declared Tornado Safety Week.

Wait continues for township recycling

Just over a year ago, Northville Township officials announced they had reached agreement with Browning-Ferris Industries on a plan that effectively would swap some township sewer line capacity for perks including free township recycling for four years.

The agreement was heralded as a win-win situation, with the township receiving the free recycling and about $260,000 cash for its general fund. BFI program will kick in until late fall? gained some highly valuable capacity in the township's portion of the Western Townships Utilities Authority sewer line.

The importance of the announcement was magnified because the township was headed down the home stretch of a county-mandated solid-waste plan. Township officials had to put a program in place last year to abide by county standards, and momentarily, it looked as if the township might have been ahead of the game.

Northville city's adherance program appeared to lag in comparison. But a strange thing happened as 1991 began to slip away. Township officials talked of a September curbside recycling start-up date, but quickly changed the goal to November. A new preferred-status solidwaste hauler came on board, but November came and went and township paper, glass, plastics, etc., continued to clog rapidly filling, increasingly expensive landfill space.

The township's solid-waste hauler then came back to the township and told it to cough up more money for collection services, since the contract was based on a notion that a recording plan would be, implemented, with recyclable materials separated from the waste stream. The township then agreed to pay its hauler an additional $3,600 monthly stipend dating back to October 1991 - and was forced to maintain its costly Sheldon Road recycling area.

Meanwhile, the city went about its business and put a curbside collection program in place. Despite a few glitches, residents are now catching on to the idea of recycling, and city officials estimate that 20 percent of household refuse is now recycled — spared from burial in a landfill. The city eventually hopes up to 50 percent of its refuse will be diverted from landfills, which is, after all, the real reason for stepped-up emphasis on recycling programs.

Environment

Quite frankly, the agreement with BFI actually removed control of recycling from township hands. Township officials won't say they are being held hostage by BFI and the Ypsilanti Community Utilities Authority, but nothing can or will happen until those two entities ink a contract. No curbside pickups. No educational programs. No reduction in bills paid to the solid waste hauler. No scaledback recycling center.

BFI won't even order recycling trucks to handle township curbside pickups. It will, however, continue to bill the township for collections it makes at township offices.

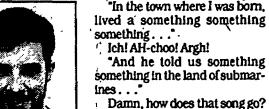

This isn't the most healthy position for a governmental unit, regardless of the potential future benefit. Officials of all involved parties feel the logiam is about to give, but best-case scenarios still place township curbside recycling startup in the fall of 1992 — a year after the program was scheduled to begin.

Interestingly enough - and despite delays suffered by the township - officials here sure jumped when BFI wanted action on a special assessment district it needed to the into the WTUA line. The township seemingly stumbled all over itself requesting bids for the sewer line which would connect BFI to the western WTUA line, even going so far as to accept bids before finalizing the special assessment district terms.

BFI will pay the entire cost of that tiein line, in case you imagined the township somehow got snookered into that expense.

Potentially, the BFI/Township/ WIUA/YCUA deal will benefit Northville

The effects of the terrible cold something ... * / Ich! AH-choo! Argh! "And he told us something something in the land of submar-Damn, how does that song go?

God, I hate headcolds. I know that because I have one right now. Seems like every two years or so, I have to do battle with the Gooey Death.

You know the cold I'm talking about. It's the one where your nose plugs up and drips nothing but water, your sinuses swell up like a football; your ears feel like you're listening to the ocean through a seashell; you get a fever that makes your skin say, "Don't touch me! EVER!" But the worst side effect of all is that the pressure of all these swollen tissues and membranes and suchlike does something to your brain. It makes you stupid. AH-choo!

Trying to decide a coin flip (in this case, do I go to work to-day to spread my wealth of germs, or do I sack out on the couch and sweat?) becomes as difficult as integral calculus. You can't even remember the words to a song when you try to sing it in the shower.

Indeed, long showers become a requirement when you are sentenced to the Gooey Death. The moisture from the steam gives a little relief to your nasal passages. My doctor recommended bed rest and lots of fluids (no, not margaritas, Rick). But no amount of liquid intake will keep your nose from getting that wrung-out dishrag feeling. Near as I can tell, the water goes in my mouth and straight out my nostrils, so what's the point?

AH-choo!

Where was I? Oh, yeah.

I do have a few things worked out, despite the brain damage. In order to keep from turning the skin around your nose into hamburger from blowing so much, the answer is simple: stop blowing. There is a better substitute.

Take a single sheet of toilet paper, wad it up, and stick it in the offending nostril. This shouldn't harm you, although J wouldn't go out in public this way. The paper absorbs the water, and chances are you weren't using that nostril to breathe with anyway.

My other piece of advice is to load up on aspirin, pseudoephedrine HCl and vitamin C. The aspirin will help break the fever, and the pseudo-ephedrine (the brand-name Sudafed can be found in generic versions at about half price and equal. effectiveness) will act like Drano for your head. And the vitamin C, well, that will, uh . . . or was it vitamin D? God, I hate headcolds.

But what about the township? Why is it lagging so far behind the city? And why don't township officials think a recycling Township residents. It surely will help those other entities. Our concern is that the township gave away a significant measure of autonomy when it bought into the plan, and in return, the solid waste program it grasped has suffered. Only time will tell when actual recycling will begin, but that late most likely will be later than sooner.

which you pray will last forever. One of those days which you pray will never begin.

Au revoir, my trusted friend

"Phil, you've got to get up now," I heard her say. "You've got to go out to the garage and make sure the tractor starts before they come to pick it up."

There it was. The bitter reality. They were coming to take away my beloved friend. The lawn tractor on whose seat I have spent the past 10 summers, mowing the grass, mulching the leaves, hauling fertilizer to all the gardens around the house.

"I don't feel good about this," I said as I joined her for a cup of coffee in the kitchen.

That tractor and I have spent a lot of time together. Oh, sure, there have been bad times. She's probably had more than her share of mechanical problems over the years. But there have been good times, too. The times when she let me load her little red wagon with firewood to haul to the back of the house. The times when she purred across the lawn, carefully slicing each blade of grass. The times when . . .

I must have been drifting off because I was startled when I heard her voice.

"Knock it off, Phil," she said. "It's only a machine."

"There you go again," I said. "You never did understand the special bond that develops between a man and his riding lawnmower. That lawnmower and I have spent a lot of time together over the years. This is very difficult for me. It's like saying goodbye to a very dear friend.

Only it's worse. Because I'm sending my trusted friend off to an uncertain future. Who knows what fate awaits her. How

It was one of those nights would you feel if you were sending one of your best friends to maybe even the junkyard?"

My impassioned plea for understanding apparently did some good because she abandoned her "it's only a machine" theme and began to show a tad of sensitivity to the possibility that there can indeed be a bond between a man and his machine.

"You've got to be kidding," she said. "That tractor is not your friend. How many times have you been able to mow thelawn over the past two years without having it break down?

"How many hours have you spent lying on your back underneath that tractor, trying to fix this part or that part trying to get the darn thing to work so you can mow the lawn?

*Do you know that all the neighbors laugh about how ; much time you spend trying to fix that crummy tractor? And * the scary thing is that the worse it treats you . . . the more you grow attached to it."

It was becoming increasingly obvious that she just didn't understand so I got dressed and went out to the garage to start my beloved tractor and make sure her powerful engine would be purring like a kitten when the men arrived to take her away.

"Hello, old friend," I said as I climbed up on her seat.

I turned the key one last time. She coughed and sputtered: but wouldn't start. I tried it again. She turned over, but she wouldn't start. Again. Same thing. Nothing.

"Look at that," I said in frustration to my wife who had been ? watching the entire episode from the doorway. "She senses it... She senses that this is goodbye. And she doesn't want to go."

"You're sick, Phil," she sighed. "She's doing it to you again. and you won't even admit it."

There are some things, I had to tell myself, which women just don't understand.

But extended negotiations be-tween BFI and the Ypsilanti Com-munties Utilities Authority. WTUA's treatment plant, have stalled township recycling plans. Township curbside recycling, initially slated to begin in November 1991, now likely will be pushed back a full year from that date as a result.

Indications are that the BFI/YCUA stumbling block soon may be removed. Robert Line, BFI director of external affairs, on Friday said his firm is near agreement with YCUA. "I think we finally have froned out all the issues that (delayed agreement)," Line said. Line said he was "cautiously optimistic" that BFI and YCUA had settled their differences.

Line and YCUA Director Bruce Jones declined to comment on sticking points that thus far have stalled the township's recycling program. Line did say BFI's Salem Township/Washtenaw County site prompted logistics problems, since the other three WTUA communities are located in Wayne County.

"What delayed us longer than anything else was that BFI was out of the (WTUA) service area," Line said.

BFI is paying the full cost of a $250,000 special assessment district tap-in line from WTUA's westernmost Northville Township site. The township board recently approved construction bids and the special assessment district, contingent upon a signed contract between BFI and YCUA. 1.12.12.1

BFI currently trucks about 30,000 gallons of wastewater per day to YCUA. Under the pending agree-ment, BFI would be able to transport up to 100,000 gallons per day of wastewater to YCUA through the WTUA sewer, Line said.

But township recycling hinges on completion of the BFI/YCUA agreement.

BFI will not start township recycling collections until the agreement with YCUA is finalized, said township Supervisor Betty Lennox. In addition, the solid waste giant will not order recycling trucks — a lengthy pro-cess — until agreement is reached, Lennox said.

The parent company wants an agreement in place before starting the recycling program," Lennox said. "We've hoped for a long time the (BFI/ YCUA contract) would be signed

Planners settle on new PUD rules

Progress on adoption of the proposal stalled during a March 24 meeting due to a discussion over the revision's use of the word "unreasonable," but resumed after the word was deleted from several places.

The planners settled on a final draft version April 7, after arguing over how to ensure that a developer cannot create a PUD, build to the higher density on a portion of the parcel and then sell off the undeveloped portion for redevelopment at a normal density. The revisions stipulate that a PUD's open space would be dedicated as an easement, and recorded with the city as such.

The planners asked Wortman to insert language into the revision recording the easements as deed restrictions on the total property.

They agreed to a May 19 public hearing on the proposal.

The ordinance would then go to the city council for its review.

Milk products are turning up everywhere

"Drink your milk." We have heard that or maybe said that! Milk is important in a healthy diet because of the important nutrients it contains - calcium to name one.

A large share of the milk consumed in the, United States is a beverage; however, milk is also an important ingredient for cooks. Due to its milkfat, milk adds moisture and richness to cakes, cookies and bread dough. It makes breads brown better, improves their keeping quality and gives a creamier softer crumb. Milk is sometimes used as a soaking me-dium for fish or chicken livers. This soaking helps to get rid of strong flavors or provides the stick-em to coating for foods to be fried. Milk plays a major role in making sauces, and is the primary liquid in most puddings and the base for ice cream and sherbels. Milk moistens breakfast cereal, sweetens coffee or tea and is the major part of other beverages like hot or cold cocoa, eggnog and milk shakes. Milk is also the starting point for yogurt and cheese.

Acidophilus milk is pasteurized skim or low-fat with a bacterial culture added. The milk is immediately packaged and cooled to prevent fermentation. When consumed the bacterial culture is activated at body temperature. Many people believe that these bacteria help maintain the balance of beneficial microorganisms in the intestinal tract.

Buttermilk is made by adding bacterial cultures to pasteurized milk (usually skim) to produce the acidity, body, flavor and aroma. Yellow flecks in soe buttermilk are bits of real butter. Buttermilk is the base to many creamy dressing and gives flavor and tenderness to pancakes, biscuits, quick breads and cakes.

Evaporated milk is canned whole milk concentrate that has been heated to remove about 60 percent of the water. Evaporated milk can not contain less than 7.5 percent milkfat in this concentrate. One-half cup of evaporated can be acconstituted with equal amount of wa-ter to make one cup whole mills. Sweetened condensed milk is a canned milk concentrate containing not less than 8 percent milkfat, with 40 to 45 percent sugar added. It can not be substituted for evaporated milk.

Imagine a milk so stable that it needs no re-frigeration. It's called U.H.T. (ultra high temperature) milk. This is a very popular milk in Europe and starting to account for a fraction of the milk sales here. U.H.T. milk production requires temperatures of 275 degrees -300 degrees Fahrenheit. It is exposed to this high temperature for only a few seconds but long enough to destroy all bacteria. The milk is then placed in aseptic packaging and is safe to drink for about six months. Southwest with style Indian, Mexican foods spice up new class

By RICK BYRNE Copy Editor

It's boom time in the American Southwest.

This time, though, the hardest reservations to get aren't for Indians. They're for dinner.

Restaurants sprang up in the American Southwest proffering food based on the Spanish and Native American influences of their region. Visitors liked the idea and spurred a nationwide trend toward Southwestern cooking. Master Chef Jeff Gabriel of Schoolcraft College is a devotee of the style, and will teach a class in Southwestern Cooking. The class will be given Thursday, April 30, at the Les Auteurs School of Cooking in Royal Oak.

We do cleases on many different topics. but the main thing is I teach by objective." said Gabriel. "I will write a Southwestern menu, and it will probably consist of a Southwestern marinated grilled steak with chili black beans, an herb-roasted cilantro potato, and also a soup with some kind of feathered game. I may also try chicken with a roasted pepper sauce." Gabriel explained that whatever the topic, his classes generally require students to assist in preparing a soup, a fish course, an entree and sometimes a dessert. From this class, students should come away with an understanding of the flavors, ingredients and style popularized by restaurants of the Southwest.

The influences come mainly from the West and California," said Gabriel. "There's a lot of grilling. They use a lot of western ingredients, such as different tomatillos and pepppers. There are also different types of salsas, western more than Spanish or Mexican.

Native American influences are also evident, especially in the cooking methods. The grilling Chef Gabriel emphasizes isn't a far cry from the primitive style of the Indians of New Mexico and Arizona. They dians of New Mexico and Arizona. They also make good use of what the land has to offerer and the second second second second They do'a lot of things with cactus, and again peppers, all the varieties of peppers, Gabriel said. "Venison is very popular, and all kinds of game are very widely eaten." Corn, black beans and Texas beans are readily available. Blue some furbleb (south readily available. Blue corn (which is actually more brown than blue) and blue cornmeal show up often in Southwestern dishes, Gabriel added, and hors docuvres with blue corn tortillas are popular.

Flavoring in most Southwestern cooking is accomplished with cumin, chili powders and cilantro.

What many newcomers to Southwestern food don't realize is that there are variations by region, and even from pueblo to pueblo in parts of New Mexico

Whole milk has to contain at least 3.25 percent milkfat and 8.6 percent solids that are not fat. Lowfat milk has had sufficient milkfat removed to bring the fat level to between 0.5 and 2 percent. Many people assume that "2 percent" means that 2 percent of the milk's calories come from fat. An eight-ounce glass of 2 percent milk has about 130 calories and five grams of fat, and 45 of the calories are derived from fat - 35 percent of the total. Whole milk derives about 50 percent of its calories from fat. So 2 percent milk is better, but not much.

Skim milk, also called nonfat milk, has had sufficient milkfat removed to bring the total to less than 0.5 percent. Powdered milk or nonfat dry milk is skim milk with the the water removed. It reconstitutes readily in warm water. Instant nonfat dry reconstitutes readily in cold

"I like to incorporate the different regions," said Gabriel. "Most of all I like keeping it real simple. I like a Southwestern marinated grilled steak on top of a warm bean salad and a little bit of roasted pepper sauce. That's keeping it simple, but with unique presentation. It's not just separate meat, potato and vegetable. The spicy flavors are there along with the cool flavors."

The fact that the class is focusing on a trendy style should bring out some funloving would be cooks, but that's usually the case anyway, said Gabriel.

"The classes are really good," he said. They are a lot of fun. What I always hear is that people feel like they get a good value." Students come from all backgrounds and culinary abilities. They include professionals, housewives, single people and Just plain people who want to learn how to cook, according to Gabriel.

Cactus pads benefit from a jalapeno pepper sauce in this Southwestern-influenced offering

One class, like Southwestern Cuisine. costs $25, but if you sign up for three classes, the total is $65. They usually last for two to two and a half hours, and students go home with detailed recipes for the food they prepared.

"It's important that they be able to go home and duplicate it," Gabriel said. "I don't just do a demonstration, and I don't make it so difficult that they can't do it at eaten a full meal," Gabriel said. home. It's simplicity with elegance."

Students also get a complimentary glass of wine, which is matched to the food prepared. Wine choice is just one of the topics covered during the class. And of course students sample everything that is made.

Recent classes have included a special roast rack of lamb in preparation for Easter, and a couples-only class called Romantic Cuisine, which Gabriel teaches along with wife Pam.

Bay scallops require same scrutiny as fish

Every day, I'm asked "What would you recommend we order from the special menu?" Which fish is best?" "What doesn't taste fishy?" If it tastes fishy, it isn't fresh. Consequently none of our fish tastes fishy. In general, we try very hard to order mild flavored species. We do not always have varieties that the layman is familiar with. Sometimes it takes a bit of coaxing to persuade you to taste wolfish (ocean catfish), rockfish (similar to grouper) or taltoug, also known as blackfish.

and firm, with a snow white flesh. I prefer it to farm-raised catfish because of the texture. Is is also perhaps the ugliest creature in the sea, vicious looking with big, gooey teeth. But it makes such beautiful fillets.

Six months ago, I couldn't sell a piece without guaranteeing its wonderful flavor. Now I can sell out an entire shipment in one evening. This is happening more and more with the unconventional fish. We have lists of people to call when their favorite comes in.

Of late, one of my favorites has been bay scallops. If they are available, we buy them. Their flesh is creamywhite and smells very similar to the ocean. If they are quickly seared and finished in the oven, an incomparable sweetness comes out --candy of the sea.

Bivalve mollusks, belonging to the same family as mussels and clams, scallops have two hinged shells, and feed on Loup de mer, or ocean catfish, is sweet microscopic plants and animals which they filter out of the nutrient-rich ocean waters.

They swim only when threatened by clapping their shells together to create a "jetting" effect. A single propulsion can carry a scallop up to 14 feet.

Sea scallops have a maximum lifespan of 16-17 years, and their shells can grow as large as 18 inches. They become marketable in approximately four years. In its early life, a scallop grows rapidly and its age can be determined by counting the lines on the outside of the shell.

The shell has historic and symbolic interest, having been used as symbols for the crusaders, incorporated in the coat of arms for Sir Winston Churchill, and as the logo for Shell Oil.

There are over 300 species of scallop with those from the Northwest Atlantic being the most prized (Guess where ours come from?). Fishing vessels towing large chain dredges across the ocean bottom collect the shellfish. Once on board the boat, the scallops are dumped, shucked. washed and iced. Once in a while whole scallops are brought to market. I've used them one, and although beautiful, they're not practical or cost effective.

It is imperative that the fisherman use good judgement on bringing up the dredges before they are too full. If the scallops are not cleaned and iced in the least amount of time possible, they heat up, and when bagged begin to spoil from the inside out

Many plants take part in a practice called "soaking," which masks off odors. adds weight and improves appearance. The soak solution has a tremendous water-binding capacity, so 100 pounds of scallops becomes 120 pounds of scallops in just two days. Salt is cheap, so there is a tremendous return on investment.

These "bargain" scallops show their true colors in your kitchen. The cell walls break down when cooked, and the water is released. The trapped odors are liberaited, and even if the scallop wasn't old when soaked, the process destroys the rich. sweet flavor.

Soaked scallops will be white in color, or have white fringes around the meat due to the bleaching effect. Generally they will have no odor or foul smell, and will be slimy to the touch. Unsoaked sea scallops have a sweet ocean smell with firm, moist meat. Their natural color varies from creamy white to tannish pink to orange.

I know I've said it a million times, but [1] do II again. Know whom you buy your fish from. Ask to smell and inspect it before purchase.

It is heavenly to open a tin of scallops from our purveyor in Boston. The ocean smells so real. It is as if you've just returned from a walk on the beach.

Clippin' coupons can save on your food bill ver the course of a year, the avershopper will walk 4½ miles be-Hind a grocery cart, according to Lois Theleke, home economist for the Cooperative Extension Service.

A survey by Kraft Light Naturals of A survey by Krait Light Indexed 1,000 consumers nationwide found and average shopping trip is 42 time and energy. To get the most from your workout, plan ahead and shop smart. Mary Bugis of Beverty Hills pulled out all of her coupons when area procery stores advertised double coupons up to $1 in November and December. Some stores also offered a free turkey if you bought a certain amount of groceries.

On Nov. 21, Bugis went shopping at Farmer Jack. She redeemed 51 coupons that added up to $53.46 in savings on a $153.34 grocery bill and got a free turkey worth $8.55. Her total out-of-pocket expense was $91.33.

"I cut coupons out every week and save $20 to $21 regularly" she said.

When I heard they were offering double coupons up to $1. I started a special envelope for coupons over 50 cents. We were having a party so 1 bought more than I usually do."

Bugis stocked up on coffee, juice. sponges, noodles, paper products. canned goods and and other nonperishables. "I'm still using laundry soap that I bought in November," she said.

To save with coupons, you've got to clip them and organize them; many people don't.

A 1989 survey showed that consumers in the Metro Detroit area took advantage of less than 3 percent of their potential savings. Clipping coupons adds up to an average savings of $35 per week, times 52 weeks in a year, which equals $1,820.

The average time spent organizing year, 7.46 billion. Consumers have and clipping coupons is one hour. The average number of coupons used per month was 26, but some people used over 100.

A follow-up survey of the state of the economy and its effect on coupon usage by NCH Promotional Services found that during the current economic slowdown, consumers consider it essential to increase their coupon use.

Manufacturers distributed 292 billion coupons in 1991, a 4.5-percent increase over 1990.

In response, consumers redeemed a record number of coupons last also changed their buying habits.

The study found that over three-fourths of the 500 men and 500 women surveyed said they are now more careful when checking prices in the grocery store.

Since most families spend about a fifth of their disposable income on food, it pays to shop with a strategy.

Don't shop when you're hungry or rushed," said Linda DeVore, registered dictitian at St. Mary Hospital in Livonia. 'You'll probably spend more."

Thieleke recommends planning meals a week in advance, making a list of the foods you need, taking an inventory of your pantry, checking newspapers and magazines for food specials, coupons and recipes, and comparing food prices at different markets. Shop where the values are better.

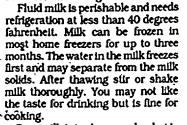

File your coupons in an organzer, and keep it in your car for lastminute shopping tips.

At the store, do your shopping quickly; buy only what is on the list. Buy what you need and will eat without wasting food.

water. These products are convenient for their long shelf life.

Pour milk into glasses only what is needed, so the balance is not left unrefrigerated. Milk can host many microbes and is easily contaminated. If milk is served in a pitcher, never pour contents back into original container but store separately in a covered container. Covering prevents absorption of other flavors from the refrigerator.

To scald milk, heat to just below the boiling point until tiny bubbles will form at the edge of the pan. Prevent skin formation on milk during heating by covering the pan.

54. There are many milk products available at the supermarket. Whether you drink your milk or cook with milk, it is a healthy addition to the diet.

Sinful pleasures

Simple recipe has large following

By RICK BYRNE Copy Editor

It's ironic that the inscription on the bottom of Verna Wall's recipe card for Sinfully Delicious reads. You'll think you've died and gone to heaven.

But, then again, one taste will tell you've probably done something that merits a little penance. Sinfully Delicious, a simple yet rich-tasting chocolate cake, is not just for chocoholics. It really is the everyman's cake.

It's flavorful enough to serve for . company, but it's so simple (the ingredient list is just five items long) that it can be made at midweek and packed in kids' lunches.

'You can't really make a cake like that for just two people, she said, although we thought we could find a friend who wouldn't mind packing in half of one. When I have my bridge club, or family over for dinner. I make it. The one I made the other day I distributed amongst the neighbors."

Wall also admits to a penchant for making desserts.

"I like all kinds of foods," she said. "But mainly I just do ordinary food. I'm not a gourmet cook. If I have to take anything anyplace. I always ask if I can bring dessert. I like fancy desserts.

Wall said she got the recipe from a friend just a little more than a month ago. "It's new, and I think it's new to the area," she said. "No body I know has heard of it. My friend came back from Minneapolis where her daughter-in-law had made it."

In an even stranger turn of events. Wall doesn't know what her own creation tastes like. She hadn't even made one before she decided to give up cake for Lent. "Im fasting on cakes," she said.

"But everyone I've served it to has loved it.

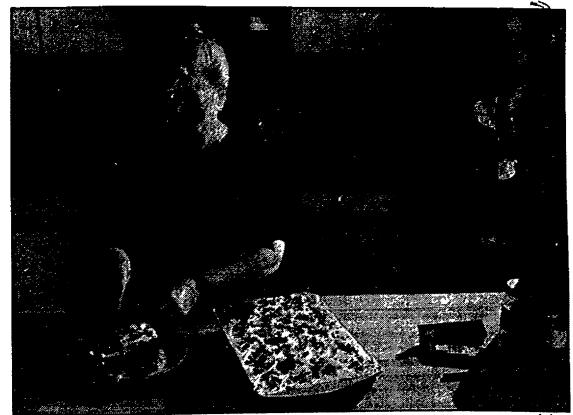

So in her case, the cake truly does live up to its name of Sinfully Delicious.

Recycling starts in the kitchen this Earth Day

April 22 is Earth Day, a celebration of the important aspects of environment protection: preservation and conservation.

Amid reports of such global catastrophes as vanishing rain forests and holes in the ozone layer, we are becoming more aware of the need to protect our natural resources and wildlife.

The magnificent California condor, thought by some American Indians to transport the souls of the dead to heaven, now stands a better chance of survival from extinction. Several of the birds were released recently from captivity, introduced back into a natural habitiat sadly devoid of condors for the past six years.

Dolphins are freer now to frisk through the waters of the Atlantic and Pacific. Publicity about the dolphin-killing seiner nets used to trap tuna launched a campaign to boycolt this form of tuna fishing. Dolphin-safe tuna is available on grocers' shelves, and this is the tuna to buy - on Earth Day and every day:

To the benefit of ourselves and our planet. we have begun an environmental turnaround in recent years. We are becoming more aware of the repercussions of a disposable lifestyle, as throwaway containers choke landfills' already brimming with trash. We are making progress to but much remains to be done. Bear in mind the following grim statistics:

Fact: The average American family pro-duces 100 pounds of trash per week.

Fact; More than half of the cities in the Un-ited States will exhaust their current landfills by the year 1995.

What can you do, as a consumer, to protect and perserve our Mother Earth? Here are some ideas:

• Ask for biodegradable paper bags instead of plastic at the market — and reuse them. Better yet, buy reusable cloth or net bags to tote groceries home. Use plastic vegetable and fruit bags only when necessary. Buying a bunch of bananas? No need for a plastic bagi

Make it a point to buy recycled paper products: toilet tissue, paper towels, napkins, etc. Limit your use of paper plates, cups, napkins. Instead, use china dishes and cloth napkins whenever you can.

 Don't patronize restaurants that package food in plastic foam containers. Tell restaurants you will come back when they switch to a more environmentally safe form of packaging.

• Recycle newspapers, cans, plastic bottles and glass. Use biodegradable detergents. Walk or ride a bike whenever possible, or take the bus instead of driving.

Plant a tree.

As you celebrate Mother Earth on April 22, keep in mind the following thought from the American Indians who cherished this land long before "environmentalism" became a watchword:

"We do not inherit the land from our ancestors, we borrow it from our children.*

Tell your kids!

Recipes in this story are tested in 625- to 700-watt microwave ovens.

Micro-Tip of the week: Did you know that microwaves use only 1/4 the energy of conventional ovens? Combine with the timesaving benefits your microwave oven offers, you can turn out a delicious, quick and energy-efficient meal in honor of Earth Day.

Meet The Faces Behind Most Medical Advances.

There are a lot of doctors and researchers out there who deserve credit for society's medical achievements. But the fact is, they'll have to share the credit. Because before any medical project can break new ground, it has to get off the ground. And that takes money. We urge you to contribute to the hospital of your choice. Your help could mean a solution to many of today's most pressing medical concerns. The first of which is, quite frankly, funding.

TAURUS (April 20 - May 20) A disappointment may turn out to be something that has happened for the best. Relationships may need some extra attention immediately.

GEMINI (May 21 - June 20) Your past may be catching up with you, so perhaps this is the time to set things straight. Be honest with yourself and follow your heart.

CANCER (June 21 - July 22) Make those travel plans now. You need to get out of town and smell the roses, literally. Don't ask questions if you don't want to hear the answers.

LEO (July 23 - Aug. 22) You should take problems with coworkers and family members seriously. Your 'I know everything' attitude could get you into some big trouble.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 - Sept. 22) Important events concerning children will send you into a tailspin. Do what you know is right without regrets. Don't worry about love.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 - Oct. 22) Domestic problems may be bothering you more than you realize. Take stock and determine the priorities in your personal and professional life.

By C.C. Clark

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 - Nov. 21) Be wary of sharing secrets with anyone but those closest to you. Well-meaning people may think they have your best interest at heart, but they don't.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 - Dec. 21) If you are having trouble communicating, try writing down your ideas first. Spending a little time on yourself is the ticket for lagging spirits.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 - Jan. 19) You are tired of broken promises, especially ones made to yourself. You will soon understand much that has baffled you in the past.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 - Feb. 18) If you are bored, it's your own fault. Make life a game for a while. See how much you can accomplish in a short amount of time.

PISCES (Feb. 19 - March 20) Try to see a certain situation from the other guy's point of view. You will surprise yourself with your own intuitive powers.

ARIES (March 21 - April 19) Throw caution to the wind and take charge of a troublesome situation. Listen to your intuition. You will accomplish a long-term goal soon.

Dual worlds collide for Miss Rose White'

Divided family clashes on reunion

By Dan Rice

Rose White arranged her life to fit the postwar American dream, complete with an advancing career at Macy's and the New York nightlife with the boy next door. But a family reunion shatters her illusions and returns her heritage. The Hallmark Hall of Fame presentation "Miss Rose White" airs Sunday, April 26, on NBC.

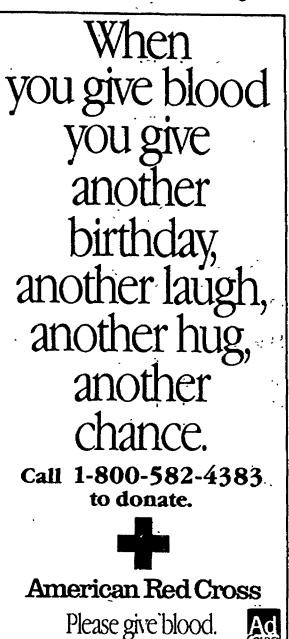

During the week, Rose (Kyra Sedgwick) climbs the Manhattan ladder alongside her Midwestern beau (D.B. Sweeney) and her fashionable friends. Every Friday night, however, Rose White reverts to Rayzel Weiss and goes to Brooklyn to share the Sabbath with her Polish/Jewish family. She has kept her dual worlds separate; her stern haberdasher father? Mordechai (Maximilian Schell), never vists her apartment and knows nothing of her Americanized identity. Rose enjoys practicing the Old World rituals with her loving aunt and uncle (Maureen Stapleton and Milton Selzer), but she is equally comfortable in her workaday ethnic denial.

Then Mordechai announces that Rose's long-lost sister Lusia (Amanda Plummer) has been rescued from a concentration camp and is coming to America, where she will live in Rose's apartment. Sketchy memories are triggered in Rose's mind of the separation from her now-deceased mother when she was 4 years old, and anxiety arises from the feeling that the Yiddishspeaking Lusia has no place in the world of career girl Rose White. what were their fates in Poland? The exposure of family secrets and shame that left heartbreaking chasms between father and daughters creates an intense drama that will leave no viewer unmoved.

Barbara Lebow's play "A Shayna Maidel" (A Pretty Maiden) was the source material for the teleplay, which was penned by Anna Sandor. According to executive producer Marian Rees, Sandor, whose mother narrowly escaped her Nazi captors while en route to a death camp, brought a "sense of integrity" to the project.

Rees chose Richmond, Va., for the settings of Manhattan. Brooklyn and Poland because of its varied ethnic base and its suitable architecture. (An old tobacco warehouse was used for an Ellis Island-type immigration center.) She gives credit to the detail-minded costumers and art department, and especially cites the artful composition of director Joseph Sargent, who worked wonders with the limitations of the locales. "We had a great opportunity to create not only the look but the authentic sense of people and place," Rees says.

Kyra Sedgwick ("Born on the Fourth of July," "Mr. and Mrs. Bridge") creates a believable Rose whose guarded assimilation into American society transforms into a fervent desire to reclaim her past. She learns forgiveness, acceptance and that her father was wrong when he claimed all he could give her was his name. Maximilian Schell ("The Man in the Glass Booth") constructs an intense man who's sealed years of unspoken grief and pain within a hard exterior. But Amanda Plummer, the acclaimed actress of stage ("Agnes of God"), screen ("The Fisher King") and television ("L.A. Law"), is most memorable as the catalyst Lusia whose abandonment and suffering have not stifled her compassion. For as Lusia tells her sister, despite the years and miles, "Love never dies."

Local. Local Cable Listings and Shopping Values. It's where it's at.

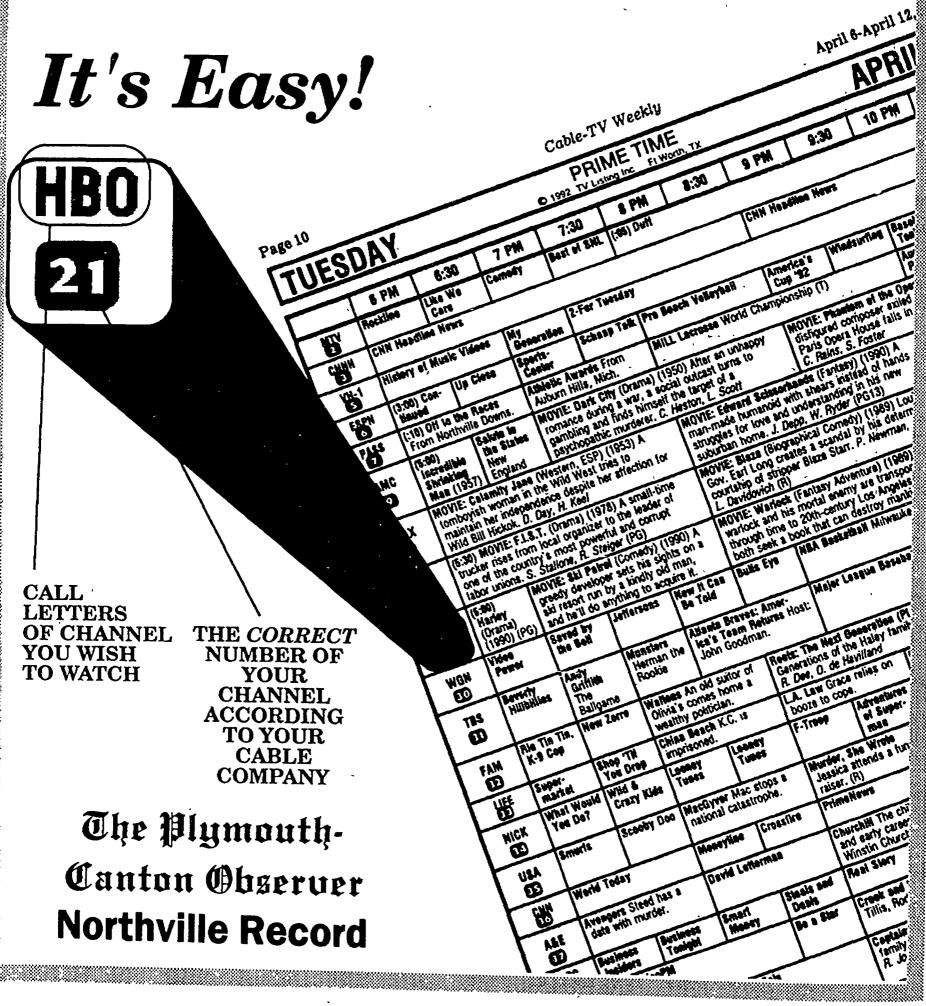

Lusia brings with her the answers to matters Rose had never questioned: Why did Mordechai leave his wife and Lusia behind when he and Rose immigrated to America, and more importantly,

Carlin back on HBO for live performance

By Dan Rice

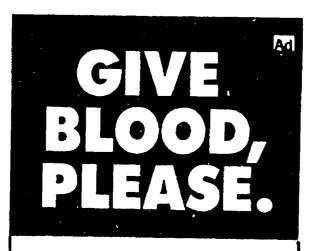

Counterculture comedian George Carlin, who in the 1960s created stand-up characters such as the "Hippy-Dippy Weatherman," says his material is "absolutely not" relaxing into mainstream humor. "If anything has happened," he says, "the mainstream has come to me."

George Carlin Live at the Paramount, which will air live from the Madison Square Garden theater on Saturday, April 25, is Carlin's eighth HBO special since 1977. He reports that among the topics touched on will be "man's psychosexual need to prove his potency by fighting wars, and golf courses for the homeless, which is an attack on the upper class."

The former radio disc jockey began his stand-up career in 1960, developing his style in folk clubs and coffeehouses. The late '60s brought much exposure on TV and the first of many successful comedy albums. His ultimate goal of acting was best realized with his role in Bill & Ted's Excellent Adventure and its sequel, and then a fine turn in Prince of Tides.

Carlin derives his humor largely from the redundancies and oversimplifications of language. The social commentator strikes out against censorship and is amused by politics.

"I look on politics as a blood sport and high theater, and I enjoy it the same way I enjoy watching auto racing," Carlin says. "I'm in it for the accidents." C TV Listing Inc.

By Taylor Michaels Q: When I was growing up, my brother and I used to rush home from school to watch The Brady Bunch. I recently heard that Florence Henderson, who played Carol Brady, and Barry Williams, who played stepson Greg Brady, were romantically involved either during the series or after it was canceled. Could you clear this up? --Don Walker, Menominee, Mich.

A: Barry Williams' agent, Artists Group, Ltd., said they have "no knowledge of anything like that," but confirmed that Williams' tell-all book, Growing Up Brady, will be out in May. Perhaps it will reveal a bunch of Brady sour grapes.

Q: I'm a big fan of Alan Autry. I watch In the Heat of the Night every week. I think he makes the show worth watching. I would very much like to write him. Can you give me his address? -Kelly Humphrey, Chanute, Kan.

A: You can write the former Green Bay Packers quarterback in care of the show, NBC, 30 Rockefeller Plaza, New York, N.Y., 10112.

Q: I'm a great fan of Judith Light. My family and I watch Who's the Boss? every week. Where can we write her? —Ann Pellegrino, New Hyde Park, N.Y.

A: You can write her in care of the show, Capitol Cities/ABC, 77 West 66th Street, New York, N.Y., 10023. Who's the Boss? airs its final episode this Saturday, April 25, but Light has a six-episode contract for a new CBS comedy.

Q: My 7-year-old daughter is infatuated with the character Doogie Howser. Could you please send me an address where she can write to Neil Patrick Harris, who plays Doogie? She is inspired by him and wants to be a doctor when she grows up. —Connie and Allison Fellows, St. Cloud, Minn. A: Write Neil Patrick Harris in care of Doogie Howser, M.D., Capitol Cities/ABC, 77 West 66th Street, New York, N.Y., 10023.

Barry Williams as Greg Brady which airs its last first-run episode on Saturday, April 25, were usually created by the show's writers and occasionally by the producer. Star Richard Dean Anderson contributed ideas as well.

Q: I really love the show Designing Women, but I can't stand Julia Duffy. Actually I hate her. She has ruined every show she's been on. Will they ever take her off the show? I hope so. —A Reader, Knoxville, Tenn.

A: Many viewers are unhappy with the recent casting changes on Designing Women. The controversial exit of Delta Burke was not forgotten with the entrance of Duffy as Allison Sugarbaker. Duffy bailed out of ABC's Baby Talk following bad reviews, but that series suffered from a lame premise and poor writing. In all fairness, Duffy was generally enjoyed in her role on Newhart.

It has been reported that when CBS and Columbia Pictures Television, which produces Women, made the deal for next fall, one proviso imposed by the network was that Duffy does not return to the series. A possible overhaul of the series could include guest appearances by Jean Smari (Charlene), who had left the show to spend more time with her family, and the addition of Jackee as a regular (she will be introduced as Anthony's fiancee in this season's finale). This would mean a back-up job for the actress if The Royal Family ends its run. Send your questions about the world of entertainment to Let's Talk, Features Dept., P.O. Reader wants 'Days' without Vivian

By Candace Havens Dear Candace: I've been a big fan of Days of Our Lives for a long time. I know all about the families and characters and so on. I just want to say that the character of Vivian Alamain should not be a part of it. The actress who plays Vivian is terrible. I don't understand why she had to come help Lawrence. Could you please explain why she is in Salem and what she is supposed to be doing?

I'd also like to know why, when Carly came to ask Lawrence for help in finding Bo and collapsed, did Vivian want to keep Carly ill? —Jody Young, Portland, Ore.

Dear Reader: Louise Sorel must be doing a great job as Vivian if you already dislike her so much. Vivian's sole purpose in life is to wreak havoc in other people's lives. In the coming weeks her devious scheming will ruin the lives of some of your favorite Salemites. Stay tuned.

Dear Candace: I've been watching Guiding Light for about 12 years and I love it. I'm so glad Mallet finally showed Harley how he feels about her. I'd also like to see Frank punch out Alan-Michael!

I'd like to know what happened to Mallet's leg. Did he really hurt it? He's been on crutches for a long time now! —Jennifer Compton, Walnut Ridge, Ark.

Dear Reader: Mark Derwin (Mallet) really did break his ankle and it required surgery. He is going through physical therapy and will be trading his crutches in for a cane very soon.

Dear Candace: I heard that Santa Barbara may be going off the air. Is this true? I hope not. I really like Jack Wagner, who plays Warren. He is a terrific singer. Could you tell me where I could write to him? —Tammy N., Knoxville, Tenn. Dear Reader: It looks like Santa Barbara may be headed for soap opera heaven. There are some last ditch efforts going on to save the show, but it doesn't look promising. NBC is already gearing up to bring some new soaps on board.

Q: I know the show is off the air, but could you tell me who thought up all the tricks MacGyver used to get out of sticky situations? —Laurie Johnson, Prescott, Ariz.

A: Paramount sources say the resourceful inventions of MacGyver,

Networks' series ideas limp along same lines

BIITS AND PIIEC

Network programmers have always tried to keep up with the Joneses, and the prospects for next fall indicate nothing different. For example, NBC recently debuted Mann & Machine, a drama revolving around a female cyborg police officer. Now ABC has produced a fall pilot called Running Delilah, starring Kim Cattrall as a spy who is half-cyborg. Both stories focus on the characters' search for their human identity. Other programming trends are found in the following projects being developed by the networks.

Both NBC and ABC think a TV kids-show host would make a good subject for a sitcom, so you might see Rise and Shine on the peacock network and Griffin Dunne as Graham on ABC.

If you can't think of anything new, go to the past. ABC will produce a pilot for the drama Charing Cross, sort of a medieval Bonanza starring Ione Skye, while Fox goes for laughs in the Middle Ages with Knight of the Realm. CBS may try out two other centuries with the 1800's frontier drama Medicine Woman, starring Jane Seymour and Mel Harris, and Ryan O'Neal as an amusing Philadelphia innkeeper in the year 1775.

Next week, this column looks at more of the silly and serious pilots the networks hope will fly.

Kim Cattrali

Atta boy. The Greater New York Councils of the Boy Scouts of America has presented its annual Good Scout Award to Howard Stringer, president of CBS/Broadcast Group, Born in Cardiff, Wales, Stringer participated in scouting as a boy and earned the U.S. Army Commendation Medal in Vietnam. As executive producer of CBS Reports, Stringer helped garner 31 Emmys in six years. In 1986 he was appointed president of CBS news; in 1988 he became network head amid predictions that CBS would be the first of the big broadcasters to fold. This season, CBS is rated No. 1.

'Bedtime Stories' nothing to snooze at

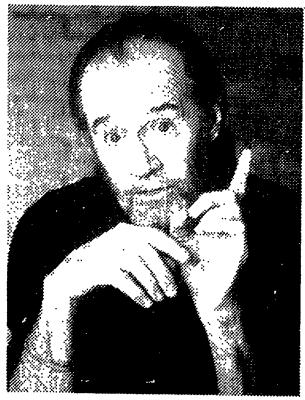

By Chris Carpenter Shelley Duvall, who's been producing original cable programming for the little person lo these many years, is at it again. In a childlike voice that fluctuates between solemn whispers and squeaky exuberence, she introduces Shelley Duvall's Bedtime Stories, spotlighting two popular children's books per episode. The series premieres on Showtime Tuesday, April 19.

Duvall's previous success with Faerie Tale Theatre and Tall Tales and Legends paved the way for this series, which she also produces. But other than the brief observations she delivers from the midst of a pop-up book setting at the beginning and conclusion of the tales, Duvall's presence is secondary.

Primary consideration is wisely given to the delightful animation and narration, both of which brim with professionalism. From Jean Stapleton's New York dialect to Dudley Moore's unmistakably regal English, the voice-over cast Duvall assembles spins the animated tales as entertainingly as any of the actors picked to perform in her previous live-action series.

Duvall's stories are hand-picked from among the most cleverly written children's books available. At the end of the shows, she encourages kids to use their imaginations to draw pictures for stories of their own. In fact, the only thing this show may fail to do is put kids to sleep.

Fridays on NBC, James Coburn plays a sinister billionaire recluse in The Fifth Corner.

Debuting Saturday, George Carlin Live at the Paramount is the comic's eighth special for HBO.

Michael Ontkean plays a cop who learns an unhappy truth in Legacy of Lies, Wednesday on USA.

Future NBA stars play prep ball on CBS

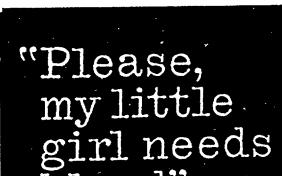

By Steve Paschal Over the last decade Michael Jordan has become one of the most publicized athletes ever. So many people thrill to Jordan's NBA exploits and are eager to buy anything he eats; drinks or wears it's hard to imagine a time when practically nobody outside of Wilmington, N.C., had heard of him. That was before his first national exposure, in the McDonald's All-American high school basketball game.

Jordan is just one of many NBA stars to have played in the annual McDonald's classic since its inception in 1977. More than 97 percent have gone on to play major college ball, and 21 percent are playing in the NBA today. Selection committee chairman Morgan Wootten says those facts draw fans,

"From the fan's point of view, one of the biggest thrills they can imagine is being able to say that they saw a Magic Johnson or a Christian Laettner play high-school ball," says Wootten, who coaches DeMatha High School in Hyattsville, Md. "It gives them a chance to see some of the best players in the country compete in a game that raises money for worthy causes like Ronald McDonald House."

No one can say for sure that another Jordan will emerge from this year's game, which airs Saturday, April 25, on CBS' Sports Sunday. But with players like Jason Kidd, Rodrick Rhoades, Corliss Williamson and Othella Harrington on the rosters, it's possible.
