Schools win state technology grant

By SHARON CONDRON Staff Writer

Northville Public Schools has used its technol ogy to be on the receiving end of state funds for once in a long time.

The district was notified last week it was one of three in the state to be awarded a $3,000 grant for its use of technology inside the classroom and sharing of its resources between educators.

Gov. John Engler announced Sunday that Northville is one of the three Michigan winners in the Pioneering Partners for Educational Technol ogy Program. The program recognizes schools for their creative use of educational technology and their willingness to share their innovations with other educators.

William Hamilton, director of instructional ser vices, said the grant will be used to pay for staff de velopment this summer to help staff learn to use and refine their ability to access the district's Idea bank, a data base that was central to the district's recognition by the state.

Hamilton said Ideabank, which is the brainchild of teachers Barbara Fife, Steve Sutherland, and Gary Gandolfi, is a data base that allows teachers in every grade level to input lesson plans that they have used successfully to integrate technology into their conventional lesson plans. Once stored in the data base, that information is available to teachers in the same building and across the district Teachers can access a plan that has proved successful for other teachers, and can they can integrate them in their own classrooms.

"In our K-12 technology outcomes plan, for every grade level and subject, teachers will be integrating technology into the curriculum. All those lesson plans will be put into the Ideabank," he

"Anytime a teacher uses a project that successfully integrates technology into the curriculum we will ask that teacher to write a lesson plan and put it in the bank," he said. "It is our attempt to get all the best ideas for every use."

In addition to district educators sharing intormation among themselves. Northville's system has been linked with neighboring systems to tie it with other school districts across the state.

Hamilton said that thanks to the grant, he hopes next fall to have Northville's system on line with a Wide Area Network that will allow the district to access even more information from state and national colleges and universities, and national resource centers like NASA.

'Our local network is operational now but our Wide-Area Network will be operational next fall with a little fine tuning over the summer," he said.

Northville was selected from more than 180 applicants by an advisory panel composed of government and business representatives appointed by the governors in the Great Lakes Council's eight member states. The award specifically recognizes Fife, Gandolfi, Hamilton, and Sutherland.

Cable firm rips model ordinance

By STEVE KELLMAN

A proposed cable television ordinance is being jammed by interference from the cable company it would most likely regulate. Omnicom of Michigan has filled a notebook with feedback on a model ordinance drafted by the New-Yorkbased legal firm Municon. Northville City Council members are reviewing Omnicom's comments prior to a scheduled June 15 public hearing on the ordinance.

The city council signed on with Municon earlier this year to review the city's cable ordinance and propose changes. The city and township are currently within a "window" period to review the cable operator's performance and renegotiate the contract or seek another operator.

Omnicom's 15-year contracts with both the city and township expire in Municon has been hired by several communities in Omnicom's service area, including Northville, Plymouth city and township, and Canton. Northville Township recently hired Cable Management Associates of Belleville, which submitted a lower bid, to do its negotiation.

Omnicom's general manager, Lisa Boland, noted that the model ordinance presented to Northville City was the same one that Omnicom objected to last year when it was presented to Canton. Canton subse-

Citizens group backs millage

By SHARON CONDRON Staff Writer

Members of Citizens for Quality Education hope to drop a line this week to each and every hous hold in the Northville School District asking voters to vote yes on June 8.

About 120 volunteers siding with the pro-millage citizens group Tuesday launched a massive door-to-door campaign handing out blue flyers and urging residents to vote yes on both the millage renewal and 1.4-mill tax increase on the school ballot June 8.

"We need to get complete information into the hands of the voters about the ramifications of their various alternatives," said CQE President Mike Hassler. "Unfortunately, they (alternatives) have been labeled threats, but in actuality it is a plan I think it is a good plan and a fair plan."

CQE organizers said the flier drive isn't the only step the group is taking to promote a "yes" vote in two weeks

In addition, group members are soliciting donations from their supporters to pay for a series of "yes" ads in The Northville Record and to spon sor a cable television show hosted by Superintendent Leonard Rezmierski and school board members. Group members have also launched a letter-writing campaign and are seeking residents' signatures in favor of the millage to be featured in one of the group's advertisements. Hassler, an engineer with Nissan,

Park proceeds despite delays

By MIKE TYREE Staff Wnter

For years, questionable management, cash shortfalls, and general confusion have plagued the Beck Road community park site.

Toss in a handful of recently unearthed environmental concerns, and the community recreation picture seemingly turns bleaker with each passing day.

But Northville Parks and Recreation officials remain upbeat, and yesterday hammered out final details on what they hope will prompt construction on the 39-acre parcel between Five Mile and Six Mile roads.

Local soccer and baseball leaders agreed on a park design concept which would upgrade recreation fa-cilities by three baseball fields and four soccer fields. Still undecided is the number of fields that could be immediately constructed. Preliminary plans indicate that the park would be built in two phases, but recreation officials may look to obtain a loan to construct the entire field at once.

"It should be done all at once or we're never going to see phase two, youth baseball representative Do nald Samhat told a gathering of re creation leaders on Wednesday

Several problems still hamper the site, including a recent revelation that virtually no topsoil exists on the

Rescue returns to banks of Rouge June 6

The Rouge River needs your help.

The annual "Rouge Rescue" effort to clean up the river returns to Northville and the rest of the Rouge River basın on Saturday, June 6, and vol unteers are needed.

This year Northville will host two cleanup sites along the Middle Rouge River, which runs through the community. One site will be just above Phoenix Lake on land owned by Wayne County; the other will be behind Parmenter's Cider Mill, just above the Mill Pond.

Volunteers will help clear away logiams, branches, garbage and other debris which can restrict the river's flow and detract from its appearance. Some may work in the water, but that's not required.

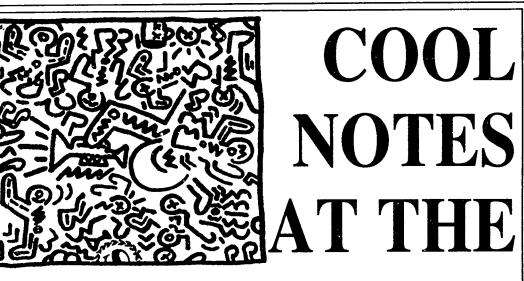

Long-sleeved shirts and long pants are recommended attire for the cleanup, and Northville Recreation Director Traci Gottschalk also recommends bringing your own heavy work gloves. Volunteers will be supplied with soap, clean wash water. and a sandwich afterward. Toilet facilities and a first-aid kit will be on hand at both sites.

The cleanup effort will run from 9 a.m. to about noon. Advance registration is strongly urged so that organizers will be able to get an accurate count of how many people will work at each site.

To register, call the Northville Parks and Recreation Department at 349-0203. You will receive more information about the cleanup and detailed directions on locating the exact cleanup sites Northville Parks and Recreation has sponsored "Rouge Rescue" every year. This year, The Northwille Record is serving as co-sponsor.

Health officer warns of increased threat from rabies

Wayne County Health Department Director-Health Officer Cynthia Taueg has issued an advisory to county citizens about the need to have their pets immunized against rabies and to not handle wild or stray

"As summer months approach, there is a greater likelihood for people to be exposed to wild and stray animals. Too often individuals who mean well, by feeding wild animals, get scratched or bitten by the animal and thereby expose themselves to potential life-threatening disease," the health officer said. "Each year, the Wayne County Health Department receives hundreds of reports through animal control officers, physicians, veterinarians and the community, concerning individuals who are exposed needlessly to bites and scratches of animals. This year is no exception and the health department has received numerous reports of individuals exposed to wild animals including raccoons, skunks, and stray domestic animals such as dogs and cats. Some of these people will subsequently undergo expensive anti-rables treatment," Taueg said.

The number of rabid animals reported throughout the state has been fairly high over the past several years. In 1990, for example, the number of rabid animals found totaled 52 positives which were comprised of 47 bats, one skunk, three cats and one fox.

During 1991, there were 36 rabid animals found throughout Michigan. This included 32 bats, two skunks and two dogs.

One of the alarming statistics in Michigan has been the increase in domestic animals, particularly dogs and cats. Already in 1992 there has been one dog found positive. These domstic animals are more likely to result in human exposure than wild

Dr. Donald Lawrenchuk, medical director of the Wayne County Health Department, said, "Rabies in man is a serious disease and is virtually 100 percent fatal once the clinical symptoms have begun. The rables virus is usually spread through the bite of a rabid animal, but may occur through a scratch or often a fresh break in the skin. In man, the symptoms begin with a sense of apprehension. There may be headaches, fever, malaise (general ill health) and changes in nerve senses. Paralysis usually follows and spasms in the muscles used for swallowing can occur, resulting in the fear of water (hydrophobia). Delirium and convulsions follow, with death usual once symptoms occur.

"The incubation period (time from exposure to development of disease) of the virus in man is usually two to eight weeks, but cases have occured as short as 10 days or as long as a year after exposure."

Keith A. Tait, director of disease control for the Wayne County Health Department, indicated that "throughout recorded history, in Michigan rables has been reported in a variety of animals including dogs, cats, bats, racoons, coyotes, foxes, crows, horses, sheep, oxen, bobcats and ferret. There have been people in Michigan who have died of the disease as well, with the most recent reported case having occurred in a child in 1983 from an apparent bat bite. All pet owners should consult their veterinarian and their local animal control center about vaccinations and licensing requirements."

"Citizens of Wayne County don't hear about rables very often, until they are confronted with a family member or loved one being bitten by an animal," said Dr. Val Vangieson, public health veterinarian for the Health Department. Vangieson added. There are measures that we can all follow to help prevent animal bite exposure and rables."

These measures include:

1. Having your animals

2. Not keeping or handling wild

3. Supporting animal vaccination programs. 4. Encouraging your relatives, friends and neighbors to have their pets vaccinated.

5. If you are involved with, or know someone bitten or having contact with a potentially rabid animal, seek medical attention as soon as possible. In all cases the victim's wound should be evaluated by a qualified physician for possible treatment and wound management.

6. Report bite incidents to your local animal control center, so that appropriate measures can be taken to quarantine the animal and/or make the necessary arrangements to have the animal tested, if warranted." For further information please contact the Wayne County Health Department Environmental Health Division at 362-4900 or the Disease Control Division at 467-3325.

Library seeks consortium

By RYAN TUTAK Staff Wnter

A potential district library involving Northville city and township could also include Salem Township and the City of South Lyon.

South Lyon recently began to explore a joint venture solely with Salem, amid inconclusive negotiations with Green Oak, Lyon and Salem townships for a looser form of shared library services. Meanwhile, the township and city of Northville have taken initial steps to consider a district library arrangement locally.

District libraries involve agreements by two or more communities to share facilities and provide services as a separate unit of government. Northville's library currently operates with money provided through the township and city budgets, allocated through the respective governing bodies. A district library would be run by a separate, elected library board and could propose a property tax dedicated solely to library operations.

South Lyon envisions a partnership that would build a new facility because its current library is bursting at the seams, much like the current Northville library. Lyon Township — now wrapping up a $100,000 expansion of its own library - has resisted this idea. Over months of talks, no middle ground has been Consequently, the library cooperation study committee for those four communities will meet for the last time in June, South Lyon Public Library Director Nancy Noble said.

South Lyon will seek to form a new study group with parties that more closely share its goals, Noble said, adding she harbors some hope Green Oak, immediately to the west of South Lyon and Lyon Township, will join the new group.

Green Oak, whose residents comprise more than one third of South Lyon's library patrons, has been approached by Brighton to discuss sharing library services.

Northville Public Library Director Patricia Orr has invited members of South Lyon's library board to attend the first district library committee meeting for Northville and Northville Township in late June. Orralso plans to invite Salem officials.

The governing boards of Northville city and township each passed resolutions to form a joint committee in April. Orr approached Salem and South Lyon because she said they are communities close to Northville and are interested in expanding library

Novi, Plymouth and Plymouth Township are closer, but they already have satisfactory library facilities. Orr said. The Plymouths operate a district library, and Novi runs its own library through the city council.

The need for a district library has become critical, Orr said, because the Northville facility has operated on no-growth budget the last two years. The future looks even more grim because the city has lost state-returned revenues from Northville Downs.

The general fund has not kept pace with the increasing need for services," Orr said South Lyon's library board was scheduled to discuss Orr's invitation at its meeting Tuesday, May 26. Four board members began dis cussing a district library between South Lyon and Salem two weeks ago with four Salem officials. Supervisor Michael Geary, Clerk Nancy Geiger, Trustee Ferman Rohraff and library committee alternate Rhett Hanert.

Geiger, who is aware of movement for a Northville district library, said Salem officials would seek the views of township residents on sharing expenses for library services.

"All these things are brewing out there," Geiger said. "Total services for Salem Township is my goal."

A district library including Northville, Northville Township, Salem and South Lyon is the best option, Geiger said, because costs of shared services for each community decreases as the number of participants

The plan might attract more Salem Township residents if Northville and Northville Township are parties because many Salem residents live near those two communities.

Orr would like to see the study committee complete plans for a district library sometime this tall. The governing board for each interested municipality would then vote on the plan, which would include a millage proposal. Boards that approve the plan would then put the millage proposal before the voters.

Highland Lakes residents pilot recycling program with township's company

By MIKE TYREE Staff Writer

The age of recycling is on some Northville Township residents' door-steps, but for most, the wait

Highland Lakes area residents could begin an organized recycling program within a month, separating cans, bottles and newspapers under an agreement with Browning-Ferris Industries.

The balance of township recycling plans hinge on a tentative multiplayer deal that was struck a year ago, but has bogged in recent months Officials say they do not know when a township-wide recycling program will take root, but hope to see a plan in place by fall.

In Highland Lakes, some 700 families could begin recycling by the end of June or early July. Russell Fogg. a member of the Highland Lakes Homeowner's Association board, said economic and environmental issues prompted the move.

Highland Lakes is in the process of dropping its current trash hauler in favor of BFI Since the township anticipates an eventual recycling agreement with BFI, Highland Lakes also will cast its recycling lot with the firm, recycling is coming, and it makes Fogg said he expects Highland Lakes and BFI to sign an agreement in the near future, in what he termed good economic move for us."

Moving on without the township will help Highland Lakes residents learn the ropes of recycling. Fogg said But homeowners there will expect free recycling if and when the proposed township/BFI deal is finalned, he said.

The tentative township/BFI plan supposedly would provide township residents with four years worth of free recycling services, part of the township benefit for granting BFI capacity in the Western Townships Utilities Authority sewer line.

In addition to the recycling carrot. BFI would pay in excess of $1 million in capitial connection fees, and pay for construction of a tie-in sewer line from the western point of the WTUA line to BFI's Salem Township property.

For now, Highland Lakes sees a chance to grab a fair garbage rate while lessening its impact on landfills sense to do it."

The density of Highland Lakes offers some logistical problems. Officials have not ironed out a recycling strategy, but could use special recycling bags, or bins, or a combination of both, Fogg said.

Northville city residents place recyclable materials in blue plastic bags at the curbside. After a few early bugs, city officials have said the program is catching on, though many residents continue to use the recycling facilities at the city Department of Public Works yard.

Township officials say they are concerned with delays in their curbside recycling program, which was to begin last fall.

"I'm always concerned about it, because I think this township will pick up and go when we get it in place," said Township Manager Richard Henningsen. "But we've got a pretty good recycling center that's getting a lot of use."

The township's Sheldon Road recycling center accepts glass, bottles, newspapers, cans, and other recyclables. Some items, such as newsprint, are handled in heavy volume.

"The paper's coming in so fast, we can hardly keep (an open bin) a full week," Henningsen said.

Project wins OK

By STEVE KELLMAN Staff Writer

Developer Sheldon Gordon won flnal approval for five luxury town-houses next to his Randolph Street apartment complex.

The new townhouses, off Randolph and southeast of Northville Green, will be called Northville

The city planning commission approved Gordon's design May 19, after Gordon addressed several commission concerns from an earlier meeting. The planners had sought more detailed landscape and lighting plans, and had Gordon comply with an engineering consultant's recom-mendations that the site needed more fire protection.

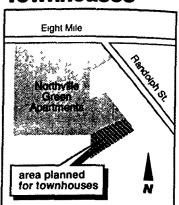

Gordon had sought to rezone a portion of his property from single-family to multi-family residential use, to place an eight-unit apartment complex on the site. The city council turned down the request in March despite planning commission support, following protests by Randolph Street residents that the rezoning would detract from the neighborhood's character and conflict with the city's Master Plan.

Gordon's revised plans call for five two-story luxury townhouses and a 13-space parking lot containing a five-car garage.

The staggered row of townhouses will run from east to west, with the backs of the units overlooking the it. Neither commissioner gave a reabanks of the Randolph Street drain to the south. A majority of commissioners had sided with Cordon against a recommendation by Planning Consultant Don Wortman that the building be reonented 90 degrees to provide a larger buffer between it and Randolph Street residents.

Gordon argued that his orientation would give townhouse and Ran-dolph Street residents the more attractive view.

The commission's support of the new plan was not unanimous, as commissioners Rolland Stapleton and Richard Wilhelm voted against son for his vote.

City takes bids on confiscated goods, items

By STEVE KELLMAN Staff Wnter

Northville City may not be holding a liquidation sale just yet, but the city council has authorized the sale of surplus property

As part of its May 18 consent agenda, the council approved the sale of dozens of pieces of city equipment that are no longer suitable for public service. The sale represents an effort to find additional revenue," according to a memorandum signed by City Manager Gary Word.

Most of the equipment has been collected by the Police Department over the years, either as unclaimed merchandise or suspected stolen goods that cannot be returned to their owner. The equipment includes heavy-duty repair jacks, an engine hoist, a drill press, two typewriters, two AM/FM cassette stereos, several bicycles, five radar detectors, seven hood ornaments and various tools.

From the Finance Department, antique buffs can purchase a Model 350 Series Philips computer with magnetic ledger cards from 1974.

The library contributed a manual typewriter, card catalogs, cassette cases and a microfiche reader, while the Housing Commission pitched in a gold wedding ring, an electric adding machine, another manual typewriter, 8mm camera and projector, two projection screens, two sewing machines, and lawn equipment including a lawnmower and weed trimmer.

The Parks and Recreation Department threw in a canoe, carpeted platform, a desk and folding chairs, banquet tables, black and white television and yet another typewriter.

The auction will be held 10 a.m. Saturday, June 13 at the police department at the back of Northville City Hall, 215 W. Main St.

Proceeds from the auction will be deposited in the city's general fund.

Used car plan nixed

By STEVE KELLMAN

The city council drove away a proposal for a weekend used-car market at Northville Downs.

Entrepreneur Brian Moore was unsuccessful in his attempt to sell the council on his plan May 18, despite his assurances that a similar business at the Pontiac Silverdome has had no adverse impact on that area.

Council members cited concerns about increased traffic and unfair competition with other car dealers in turning Moore down.

Moore argued that the plan provided a needed forum for people's used vehicles.

"If you put your property out in a local mall or public place, chances are it would be ticketed," Moore said. "What I would propose is providing a place for people to sell their property.

Moore proposed renting spaces for between $10-$15 a day in Northville Downs' preferred parking lot to people trying to sell their cars, trucks, recreational vehicles and boats. The lot would be open Friday afternoons and all day Saturday and Sunday, and people would have to move their vehicles off the lot when it was closed.

Potential buyers could visit the lot and examine the vehicles, and take them off the lot for a drive.

Moore promised to police the grounds for litter at the end of each day, and prohibit sellers from racing their engines in the lot.

"We want this as a family event; we don't want a hundred motorcycle people to come into town and scare anybody," he said.

But Council Member Dewey Gardner cited concerns that the market would hurt existing businesses like McDonald Ford, while Mayor Pro Tem Carolann Ayers worried that would-be buyers would endanger the public safety by test driving the vehicles on city streets.

I admire your entrepreneurial spirit; however, I don't think this is the proper location." Ayers said.

Mayor Chris Johnson agreed, saying, "It's an interesting idea; I just don't think it's in the right form yet for us to accept it."

The council's rejection was

In the historic tradition of small-town life, the plant swap is an ideal place to make some changes to the garden, to trade with neighbors and to keep historic varieties of plants budding all across the Northville area.

There will be historic varieties of herbs, perennials, annuals and trees to trade and buy. Pots and plant containers will also be available to swap and buy. In keeping with a renewed interest in reusing and recycling, the Historical Society urges gardeners not to just throw out — but to swap and send on to another family that which has lost its place in your own

Summer concert lineup continues thanks to local business support

The Northville Arts Commission has announced its lineup of Friday evening summer concerts in the downtown Northville bandshell.

This year, the Northville Arts Commission faced a severely reduced budget and at first questioned how it could continue to offer the community free concerts this summer.

The commission approached local businesses and asked for help in sponsoring the music series. An arts commission spokesperson said the response was overwhelming, and the commission extends thanks to the sponsors.

Model ordinance debated

*Omnicom believes that passage of the current MCS Provider Ordinance before the City of Northville would be a disservice to the residents, any MCS provider, and the local government which will have to live with and administer the Ordinance in the future," she wrote.

Omnicom's legal firm in Michigan - Dickinson, Wright, Moon, Van Dusen & Freeman - concluded after its review of the model ordinance "that the proposed regulatory ordinance constitutes a substantial impairment of Omnicom's rights under the existing franchise ordinance and, therefore, its enactment would violate both the Michigan and United States Constitutions.

The firm's biggest disagreement was with the proposal's switch from a combined franchise agreement and ordinance to a separate franchise agreement and regulatory ordinance. Separating the two gives the city the ability to change the ordinance while the franchise agreement is still in

"It is obvious that the proposal imposes many obligations on cable providers to which Omnicom is not subject under the existing contractual franchise ordinance," the firm noted.

The proposed ordinance constitutes a patent attempt at governmental micromanagement of the private operation of cable service for Canton residents. Each additional burden, as well as each provision that is inconsistent with the current franchise ordinance, is an impairment of Omnicom's contract with Canton.'

A Washington, D.C. legal representative for Omnicom presented Municon with a series of amendments to Municon's ordinance.

Municon representative Larry Monroe said his firm took some of Omnicom's considerations into account when amending the ordinance, but not many.

Quite candidly, we had three or four in-person meetings with the company to listen to their concerns and we made some changes to the ordinance, but nothing of substance. rectly into the company's pockets." "Anybody who believes that not renothing that gave up or gave away any rights or abilities of the municipalities to protect the public." Monroe said Those changes we agreed to were more a matter of procedures or methodology." Municon held the line on Omnicom's proposal to change the definition of "franchise fee," the percentage of revenues paid by a cable operator to the municipality in which it operates. Omnicom sought to change the definition from a "fee . . . for the privilege of using the streets, rights of way, public ways, and easements" to a "tax, fee or assessment of any kind" on the the cable provider, the subscriber, or both.

What we're saying is that it's a fee that the city or township imposes on us because we have a subscriber," Monroe disagreed, saying, "A franchise fee is not, in any manner, shape or form, a tax on anyone. It's rent charged the company for the use of the valuable public property and rights of way . . . for private gain."

Municon proposes that member communities seek an increase in their franchise fees, from 3 to the maximum 5 percent of revenues.

There's another 2-percent tax on everybody's bill," Boland said.

Boland argued that Municon's ordinance would raise the company's cost of doing business overall, and subsequently the cost to its subscribers. "I don't think any city or township official would want to pass an ordinance that raises the cost to their residents," she said.

Monroe agreed that the cable company could easily pass increased franchise fees along to its subscribers.

"With rates being deregulated, thanks to Congress, the municipality cannot prevent any expense from being passed on to subscribers," he

But he scoffed at Omnicom's claims that franchise fees are directly related to subscriber fees. If the municipality dropped its franchise fee, he predicted, "the money would go di-

"Anybody who believes that not requiring the maximum franchise fee. or anything else, will keep rates down, also probably believes in the Easter Bunny or tooth fairy," Monroe said. They're going to charge what they're going to charge." What's really on the table here is the difference between the current rate . . . and what's known as the level of subscriber tolerance. Below that (level), subscribers will not disconnect because they need cable." Another central issue in the cable debate is whether to require a cable company to provide "universal service," cable service to all the residents in a franchise area. Such a requirement, Boland said. would require residents in more densely populated areas to subsidize the cost of running cable lines out to less densely populated ones.

We don't think that somebody on Main Street in Northville wants to pay more for their cable service so somebody on Napier Road can get cable," Boland said.

But Monroe disputed the claim that a universal service requirement would amount to an unfair subsidy.

'Cable by definition is subsidy . It's the entire subscriber base that pays for everything," he said. "If it weren't for subsidization by everybody, everybody would have to have a (satellite) dish."

Legally, communities have every nght to require universal service, Monroe added.

Monroe estimated the added cost of universal service per subscriber at 10 cents per month. "Of course, the public benefit to be derived certainly justifies a five- to 10-cent increase in the rates overall," he said.

Monroe attributed the need for a strict ordinance to the nature of the cable television market, in which each company is the sole provider of service within its franchise area.

"There's no way to control a monopoly other than regulation," he said. That's the underlying point behind the ordinance."

said Tursday the aim of the group is to get a positive vote on both requests June 8 by providing voters with a complete, accurate package of information

"Our position is to convey to the district what the results of a no vote will be," he added.

Hassler said he is concerned about the divisiveness in the community since the district's millage request was rejected in April. Hassler said he attributes residents' migration to opposite sides of the issue to a lack of complete information and to the campaign tactics of local opposition group. Citizens for a Better Northville.

"I don't really care what CBN's (Citizens for a Better Northville) position is," Hassler said. "I'm really concerned abou, the divisiveness this entire situation has created in the community. All the name-calling and issues of people's responsibility and ethics, I just don't think that has any place in a school millage election.

"I'm hurt by the divisiveness and the ill feeling it has created in the community."

Hassler said he isn't pointing his figure at any one group as the root of the problem, but said a lack of complete information being fed to voters prior to heading to the polls has been a major catalyst.

"We are trying hard and hoping for a positive response on June 8," he said.

For Lynda Baca, CQE's secretary and treasurer, organizing the distribution of 12,000 fliers hasn't been an easy task, but she hopes all her hard work will pay off in the end with a "yes" vote on June 8.

"We are trying to be positive and move forward," she said. "We are in support of the administration and as a citizens group we are sending a message to the district."

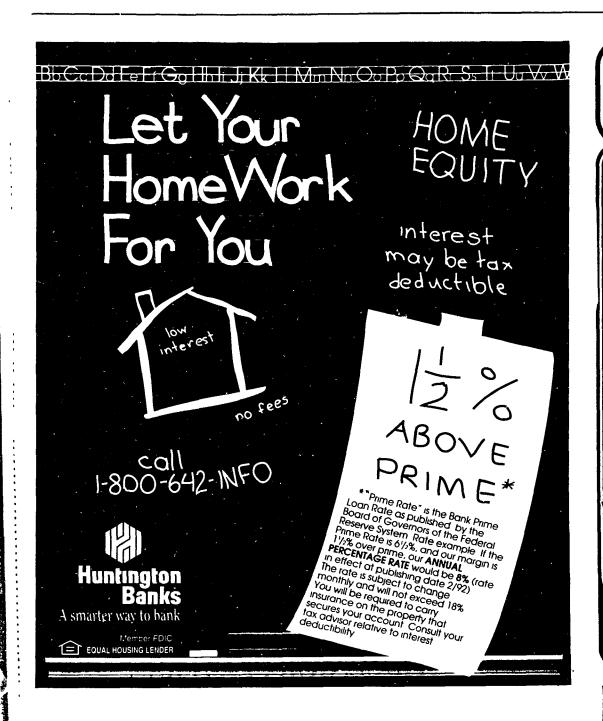

Since the defeat of the millage proposal in April, Baca said she's seen district administrators listen to the voters and make the necessary concessions to come back to the voters with this second proposal.

"The district has cut costs and held their salaries in line," she said. "In addition they (district admini strators) are putting pressures on the unions to reopen contracts and renegotiate salaries. I think they are doing everything they can do "

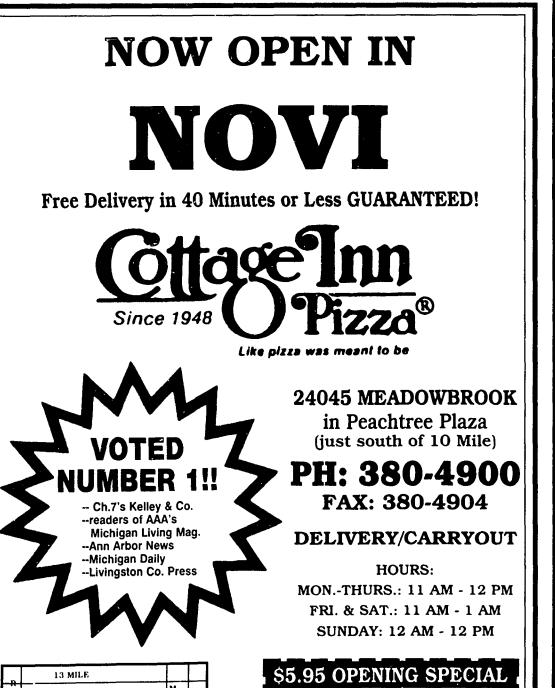

Baca said the uncertainty of state school funding and contracts that were negotiated by a previous admi nistration have caused havoc in the district's budget and are uncontrollable variables for the current administration.

"The district is not the same as the private sector," she sadi. "So many things are not assured, like state funding. They (district officials) really don't know where their next dollar is coming from. The state is balancing its budget on the backs of districts and municipalities; we've seen that with the racetrack tax. The district is trying very hard to put a positive spin on this campaign."

Beck park plan has problems, potential

park property. Soil borings conducted by Snell Environmental, the park development consultant, indicated that the Beck site soil covering is 99 percent clay.

A high clay base would hamper drainage and create the need for a network of swales. Ground elevation is much higher on the northeast portion of the property, and considerable grading will be necessary, according to recreation officials.

A significant part of the property also is blighted by tons of concrete slabs and asphalt piles, remnants from activities on the land prior to 1985, when the state deeded the land to Northville Township.

Snell representatives have warned recreation officials that removal of the concrete and asphalt could chew up much of the current $150,000 park development fund.

Another problem came to light recently, when Parks and Recreation officials were told that Consumers Power holds a gas and oil lease for a middle section of the Beck park site.

Records indicate that Consumers has paid the state nearly $1,000 annually since 1985 for lease rights to the park property and an adjacent state parcel. Township officials earlier this week indicated that an attempt will be made to recover lease money from the state.

For its part, Consumers apparently is willing to play ball with the local recreation department. Consumers will waive its lease rights in exchange for a 30-foot easement along the park's northern property line, said Traci Gottschalk, Parks and Recreation director.

The township holds the final say on any easement swap, Gottschalk said. She also said the easement would not interfere with park development plans.

Soccer and baseball officials agreed on a compromise field design package Wednesday morning in order to reach the three baseball, four soccer field set-up.

According to the plan, a parking area will front Beck Road, and buffer Beck from north and south baseball fields, each with up to 375-foot center field fences. Two 60 x 120 yard soccer fields would lie west of the southern baseball diamond.

A third baseball diamond would be a scaled-down version of its neighbors, and would provide space for an east-west soccer field along the northern property line.

The fourth soccer field would rest in the northwest section of the park

The next development task is up to Snell Environmental. The firm will offer a design plan complete with drainage and elevation figures, and will draft construction bid specifications.

Bids could be let by the end of June, with grading and seeding due this fall, Gottschalk said.

Northville School District needs our support

An open letter to Northville citizens:

The June 8 millage vote is very important for maintaining the nationally renowned quality of education for which all Northville citizens can be proud. We all know that a top notch educational system is not just a benefit for Northville students and parents, it is also a continuing benefit to the whole community. It is a partnership with business, churches, human services and all the voters in this special community. Northville is a real community - indeed, a family and as such we all benefit when our educational system is one of exceptional quality. Northville Public Schools are exceptional.

As your State Representative, I am very aware of the extraordinary difficult economic climate that surrounds us - locally, at the state level, and nationally. However, I also know that this is not the time to curtail the support for Northville's superb educational system for which the Northville community is known. Northville's MEAP scores reflect the talent of Northville's teachers and students. Who in this state or on the national level can match the Science Education Program in Northville Schools? Your vote is needed to continue this quality program and others in reading, math and foreign languages.

Northville Public Schools stand in the forefront of the educational community. Northville Public Schools need your support; Northville Public Schools deserve your support. Please cast your vote for the Northville Public Schools by voting "Yes" on June 8, 1992.

Georgina Goss State Representative

Meeting report misleading

To the Editor:

Having been in attendance at the May 11 School Board meeting. I was disappointed and angered by the inaccurate reporting of that meeting by The Record. After verifying for myself with others in attendance what was actually said, I am convinced that statements from both the President of the local teachers' union and Dr. Rezmierski were incorrectly reported. and unfortunately, have now left a negative impression, perhaps created false expectations, and added to misinformation of the

The issue of school funding in our community is too important to allow this type of inaccurate reporting to go unnoticed. Even if a retraction is printed, it will never have the same impact as the original story on the front page did, especially for those residents who rely solely on this newspaper for provided to our district by the state the facts.

As a parent who plans to vote yes" on both the renewal and the 1.4 mill increase on June 8. I have based my decision on facts obtained first-hand from meetings I have attended, phone calls I have made, and questions I have asked, rather than from second-hand reporting. This incident reinforces my opinion that, at least in this may have been community, this is the only way to make a truly informed decision. community, this is the only way to Mary Ellen Wolbers Editor's note: A clarification was printed in the next issue.

Decide June 8 on our local situation

To the editor:

As I listen to Northville School District residents discuss the millage issue. I sense that people are very angry about the economic uncertainty we face and the lack of government leadership in solving the problems brought about by the

Proponents of both sides of the millage issue present arguments. but these seem to be overshadowed by frustrations resulting from: • the state government's failure to equitably solve the property tax question. • the "taking" of education funds government for many years, or the unfortunate experience with a teacher who is unwilling or unable to fulfil the commitment to provide the quality education hich all of our children deserve. Our school board and administrators have been chastised for failing to foresee and deal with these problems. But these same people have also shown leadership in the strategic planning process for the future of our schools, have built a quality education program that ranks with the best, and have put together a team which provides the environment, the knowledge and the skills needed by our children to compete in today's changing

These people could not complete this task without the help and support of many dedicated parents. but they do complete this task despite the apathy and indifference of many other parents. We are con-cerned about the millage issues. yet few of us attended the "school board candidates night," and even now fewer still attend school board meetings.

Our Board and school administration must deal with a revenue system which allows state government to withhold and eliminate funds for our schools at any time during the budget year, which severely affects current and proposed budgets. The school system is not a for-profit business, and cannot reduce its expenses easily in response to revenue losses without significantly affecting the quality of education.

Is the millage increase and/or renewal necessary for quality education for our children, and for Northville in general? Are the achievements of our school district worth the cost? Has the administration prepared a fiscally responsible budget?

By June 8, we all must answer these tough questions. I hope we all can set aside our frustration and anger with state government and deal with "our" problem - what is necessary for quality education? I hope we will all do the right thing. whatever we thoughtfully perceive that to be.

deal on the state level with those items that affect our community.

Don't express anger with millage vote

To the editor: Everyone is angry at someone or something: George Bush, the Savings and Loan debacle, John Engler, the check writing scandal, etc. Unfortunately one of the only ways available to the average person to vent this anger is to vote on millage requests. And we saw anger vented aplenty in the recent election here in Northville. Please find another way to release this anger and don't take it out on our excellent schools and our children's education.

If you are going to take the time to vote on June 8 take the time to find out the facts before then. Marcia Cromas our education is enmeshed are numerous and very complex, the direct impact an excellent school system has on a given district is plainly seen. There is a sense of community and inherent pride that comes from being associated with a positive, successful entity. In Northville this is immediately evident to visitors and newcomers alike. The important aspect of this is that it continues when newcomers to Northville Public Schools become "oldtimers." The more we come to know the individuals involved in bringing public education to our children, the more evident it becomes that this is not merely a district intent on making a good impression on outsiders.

The dedication I have seen from the teachers, support staff and administrators is unlike any I have personally witnessed in three other quality districts. We all understand the extreme importance in our business of dealing with competent, concerned workers and nowhere is it more essential than in the business of educating the young people of our community. The notion that our schools are in some measure failing is readily dispelled when an individual spends even a small amount of time observing the many talented teachers who are able to make learning come alive for our children in an age when competition for their attention is extreme. I would encourage anyone who doubts that our tax dollars are being well-utilized to direct your questions to our very receptive superintendent, his staff, or our Board of Education members and, more importantly, to visit our schools and attend school board meetings. The commitment

Pull together as community and vote yes

To the editor:

Like many concerned parents. we selected Northville because of its schools. We became involved in our children's school lives through PTA, and as members of committees in Partnerships for Education, Schools of Choice and Strategic Regardless of the June 8 millage outcome, our school district will not be the same this September. Cuts will be made, many objectives of the Strategic Plan have been set aside and our community has been unnecessarily divided.

Those that wanted to be able to vote on separate millage renewal and increase will get their chance. Others that wanted to see our schools maintain their high level, lost their opportunity with the failure of the 2.8-mill increase (which was needed to just stay where we were). This amount still fell short of providing the "extras" that truly de-than that they are against everything that means excellence and progress to our town. And the Northville Record prospers as it promotes this divisiveness by making them front page news.

We have a fine school district because of dedicated board members, outstanding teachers and talented administrators. We have always found these people to be worthy of our trust. But for the millage defeat, we could have been a great school district that would have benefited everyone in this community - especially our

If we pull together as a community, we can overcome the problems created by our state government that led to this crisis — a crisis that is happening in every other fine school district in the state. Let's start rebuilding on June 8 and support our school system - all of it. Take the time to be informed on the issues and candidates. We must vote YES to renew and YES for the 1.4-mill increase.

Let's hope we can avoid L.A. virus

To the editor:

Let us hope that those of us not yet infected by the Los Angeles virus. which compels one to destroy the very things that make a city great, will vote "yes" on the school millage renewal and the needed increase on June 8.

Continual performance needs support

To the editor: As a former teacher in a nearby school district for 16 years, I believe I am able to observe the Northville Schools with a critical and practiced eye. I find I am continue in election ally pleased and encouraged by the high level of instruction, enthusiasm and dedication in the Northville instructional community. However, I now find that the exemplary caliber of our schools is in grave danger, and I am greatly saddened at the prospect of another millage defeat. I implore all positive voters to get to the polls on June 8. I also urge our Senior Citizens to investigate the Homestead Act, which ensures that the great majority of them will not be levied by higher taxes from millage increases. Finally, I encourage all homeowners to remember that our outstanding schools are one very significant reason our properties retain their high market

We are all aware of the "nay sayers" in our community. Their voices are raised during every school funding campaign. Certainly, they have a right to be heard, but we too have a right to call upon them, to demand from them some solutions should the millage be defeated. Where are their programs, their "strategic their educational expertise? How are they actively involved in our schools between funding campaigns? If their programs ex-

Children are the issue

To the editor:

"A mind is a terrible thing to waste." We have all heard this saying. The minds of the children and youth of Northville are the issue here. They are the leaders of tomorrow - for our community and our country. We need to give them the best possible education today if they are going to be the best possible leaders of tomorrow.

The upcoming millage and renewal are crucial to the minds of these children. We need the best possible teachers and staff members to feed the minds of these eager learners. We can't have that if we don't have the necessary funds to do it.

Please give us your support It affects all of us, whether or not you have children in the schools of

Unfair tactics distort the true issues

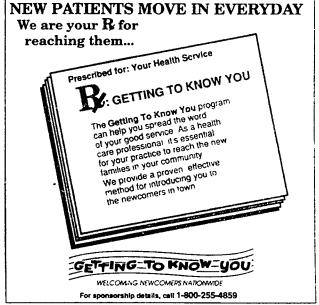

To the editor:

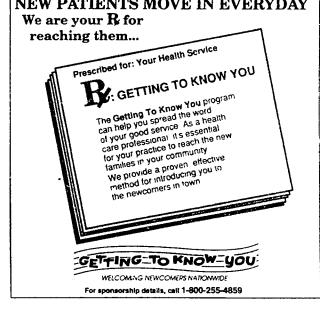

Mr. Phil Phillips, a spokesman for the CBN, was quoted in the May 18 Northville Record, "But you can't tell me that Klokkenga doesn't benefit from the $40,000-$50,000 his wife makes." This is a blatant sexist comment. I am a professional. I earn my salary. What I do with my salary is not appropriate for public debate, and is irrelevant to the educational issues facing this community.

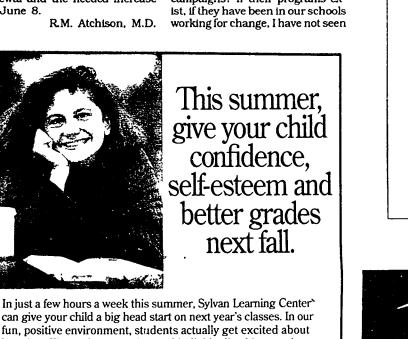

These tactics are dishonest. They serve only to divert and distract. The real issue is. How are we going to maintain a quality educational program with reduced funding, and larger class size? We teachers are already making plans for next year. Advanced teaching techniques, such as Cooperative Learning, and our computers must substitute for some of the personal attention we now share with our

Loss of city's clerk will be sorely felt

The morale at Northville City Hall takes yet another hit this week as Cathy (Konrad) Watkins ends 20 years of employment with the city.

Her contributions to the community in general and specifically to city government have been substantial, and she'll be difficult to replace. At the same time, on her way out she's making some statements which deserve attention as the city adjusts to its future.

Coming on the heels of Deputy City Clerk Tonni Burns' departure, the city takes a double hit with the resignation of Watkins, who has been city clerk since Heading the department climaxed her career, but she has actually worked for the City of Northville since 1972, starting as a clerk. She's given just shy of 20 years of quiet, better-than-competent service, and that deserves recognition.

Watkins' work has been so smooth, in fact, as to be unnoticeable, and that's the best possible compliment. A city clerk's job is the kind of thing that only draws attention when there's a problem — election foul-ups, inaccurate minutes, messy bookkeeping, or that type of thing. Those things were never issues during Cathy Konrad's tenure, and that's a testament to a job well done.

The fact that she did her job here so well makes her comments on the way out doubly worrisome. Watkins strongly questioned the current level of staffing at city hall, particularly in the clerk's department, saying the head clerk job as currently composed is too much for her to handle.

If that's true of a top-level employee with 20 years of local experience, how much truer will it be for her

We understand full well that the city's budget crunch has forced some very difficult moves to bring the finances into line. But the clerk staff got hit particularly hard, and Watkins' recent comments give new weight to the idea that the clerks got hit too hard.

The city council eliminated the deputy clerk position and laid off one other clerk, while the remaining employees in the department volunteered to take a 10-percent reduction in hours to save the axing of yet another post. And this was by no means a large department to begin with.

The result has been an inability to keep up with meeting minutes in a timely manner - in fact, the city is way behind in its legal requirements for publishing minutes. Konrad worried that the upcoming elections will create an enormous strain on a staff already stressed to

Frankly, we have no easy solution to offer. (We've already said that sharply curtailing the scope of meeting minutes, which would help ease the workload at least a little, is not a good idea from our perspective.) More staffing in the clerk department would only mean less staffing somewhere else, and/or an even higher tax increase. Neither of those options look very good either.

So as Watkins leaves her city employment, we congratulate her tenure and wish her well. But she leaves the city with the sinking feeling that now, things are going to get even worse before they

Forum shopping in Michigan

You've heard of judge shopping looking around for a friendly

Michigan also has "forum shopping" - looking for the right place to file a suit. The Legislature tried to do something about it, and failed. But that's getting ahead of

There was a bad auto accident in Gratiot County - one dead, several injured. Gratiot is farm country north of Lansing, no interstate freeway, kind of in the middle of nowhere.

A 1982 Ford Escort was involved — designed, manufactured and inspected in the Wayne Assembly plant in western Wayne County. Where do you file the lawsuit? Two couples, the Lorenczes and the Grosses, elected Wayne County and filed separate suits.

Now: Wayne, Oakland and Macomb counties - particularly Wayne - have reputations as producing jurors generous with defendants they perceive to have deep pockets, like Ford Motor Co. Ford asked the circuit judges - Marvin Stempien, a local resident, and Marianne Battani — to change venue to Gratiot County. The judges agreed and were upheld by the Court of Appeals.

The state Supreme Court thought otherwise. In a 6-1 decision (Robert Griffin dissenting), the high court said Wayne County was the right place. And now it gets thick.

It seems the Legislature in 1985 was amending the Revised Judicature Act "to eliminate forum shopping," said the high court. The first draft of House bill 5150 set priorities for determining venue:

(A) The county in which all or a part of the injury occurred. (B) The county in which a defendant resides.

(C) If none of the defendants meets any of the criteria in subdivision (B), the county in which the plaintiff resides.

The House rejected that version. It dropped the priority list and said venue shall be the place "in which all or a part of the cause of action arcse," removing the words limiting venue to the site of the injury.

The Senate went along, and Gov. James Blanchard signed it seven months later.

Blanchard's legal adviser is now a justice of the Supreme Court. Conrad I. Mallett said the law is clear. "That a cause of action may arise in more than one place, making venue proper in more than one Jurisdiction, is apparent from the clear wording of the statute." he wrote. The high court kicked the case back to Wayne County for trial.

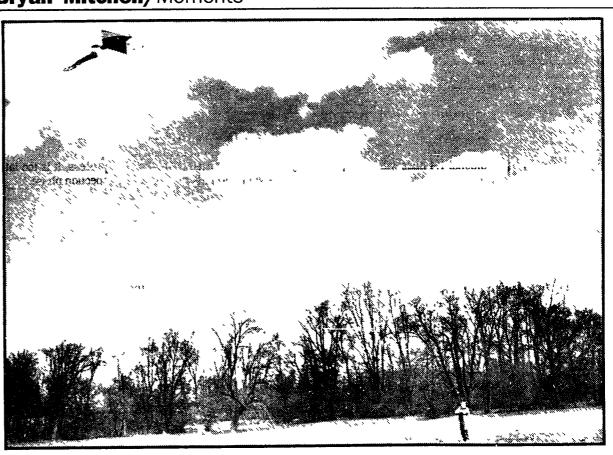

You've heard it said Michigan has a hostile business climate. You've heard that the Michigan Association of Trial Lawyers, the plaintiff's bar, has enormous political influence, particularly in the House. You've heard that our liability costs are high, particularly in the tri-county metropolis.

Now you understand why.

I don't fault Mallett, the high court, or the lawyer for the plaintiffs, who is just doing his darndest for his clients. The Legislature takes the heat. It can't write a law that prevents forum shopping.

Charles Stilec/Student Assistance Program

Program could be casualty

Many community members and students have come to me with concerns about the future of the Student Assistance Program at Northville High School for the 1992-93 school year, should the millage fail to pass as well as the 1.4 mills addition on June 8. Yes, as stated in the paper the program will not continue without the passage of the 1.4 additional. This is a time for our community to consider the power of their vote and to consider what the Student Assistance Program means. I have been asked to share the following.

The Student Assistance Program at Northville High School was implemented in November 1987. It is a school-based program which provides education, support, and awareness in order to intervene, identify, assess and refer students and family around the issues of chemical use, abuse and dependency. In the past almost five years, the program has evolved into a resource for any child at risk, be it seeing a student on occasion or an ongoing basis. In today's world every student is at risk at some point. Students can be referred by family, staff, friends or themselves.

Most students involved in this program are seen weekly on a rotating hour with teacher and parent permission.

At Northville High School the Student Assistance Program coordinator is responsible for:

1. Interviewing identified students. 2. Facilitating education and support groups.

3. Working with individual students.

4. Co-facilitating SADD (Students Against Driving Drunk).

Speaking to various community groups.

6. Speaking to high school groups.

7. Serving as a referred source for staff, students and the community at large.

8. Co-facilitating community and parent support education groups as needed.

Presently the Student Assistance Program talks to and works with 40 to 45 students in an average day. We are currently offering the following groups, which are well attended:

Summer Workshop on Awareness and Prevention Support Group; Fresh Start Stop Smoking Group with Meads Mill, Cooke and High School students - sections 1 and 2; Aftercore-Recovery Support Group - sections 1 and 2; Keeping a Balance Support Group - sections 1 and 2; Chemical Awareness Support Group — section 1 and 2; Relationship Stress Support Group -- section 1 and 2; Grief and Loss Support Group; Divorce Support Group; and Grief and Loss Sup-

We have 11 support groups that involve 88 students. We have tremendous support from the high school administration, faculty, students and community members. The programs are based on trust, sharing and caring. The overall goal is to help students deal with their concerns in a positive and appropriate manner with the end goal in mind of happiness

We the co-facilitators have watched hundreds of students' get back on track by taking advantage of the support and education offered by the Student Assistance Program.

If you have any questions or concerns contact me at Northville High School, 344-1825.

I have lived, along with my family, in Northville and paid taxes the past six years. This is a wonderful community and we offer a safe environment in our schools. I have entrusted the education and emotional care of my two children to the Northville Public Schools.

Charles Stilec directs the Student Assistance Program.

Quality schools only come at a cost

Vote yes — twice - on June 8. The children of Northville need the resources that both the millage renewal and the additional 1.4 mills will produce.

Yes, taxes are high in Northville, and yes, quality does cost. We, the citizens of this fine community, must be willing to step forward and tax purselves to provide the level of educational excellence our children deserve and will need to compete in a global economy. I am tired of hearing that "I support the kids — but the money goes to teachers' salaries!" Who do you think educates our children? We need to be willing to 'pay for quality. Voting "no" on a millage is the only chance we as taxpayers have to say no to taxes in Michigan. However, we must remember that voting "no" on the upcoming millage requests may be equivalent to striking out our Northville schools are relatively good. In fact, our schools are considered to be at least in the top 10 of all school districts in Michigan. Given our ranking with other school districts we should be justifiably proud. However, our sons and daughters will be competing with children of the world. To say our schools are excellent (given the state of schools in Michigan and the USA) is like saying you are the smartest kid in the dumbest class. A dubious honor at best.

The decisions we make today will have an impact on our children's future. Our schools are facing new challenges in preparing students for their academic and career futures. The statistics are overwhelming, compelling and clear:

 U.S. schools and school children rank lower than those of most other industrial nations, especially in areas such as math, science and language skills. The National Academy of Science ranked U.S. high school seniors lowest in mathematical proficiency of all industrialized countries. U.S. students spend fewer days in school than students of many other countries - much less than Japan. • U.S. students spend fewer hours per day at school or doing homework outside of schools than students in many other countries. We cannot afford to risk slipping further

The key to maintaining and improving the standard of living in our country is investing in the education of our children. Children make up approximately 25 percent of our country's population - but they are 100 percent of our Few of us tax ourselves further. It is easy and convenient to point to "bloated administrative staffs," "high-paid union teachers," "fat in the system" and unspecified frills as excuses not to reach into our pockets and pay more. While any administration can do better, as a member of the strategic planning committee, I believe our school administrators and teachers are hard-working and competent and are educating our children and managing our tax dollars well. Yes, we need to urge them to do even better in the future and I applaud individuals and groups that raise issues of accountability. There is an old African proverb that goes, "It takes an entire village to educate a child." We need the voices and actions of all, to assure that our children are the best educated students in the world.

William C. Hollister, general manager and treasurer of Coil Center Corp. of Howell, addressed the importance of investing in education when he said, "All of us are stockholders in a large and expensive organization called public education. We need to be involved at the front end of the educational process. In business, we have learned that you cannot inspect quality into a product. If it is not there in the process. it is too late to add quality in the inspection phase."

If we begin to let educational quality in Northville slip in 1992, by not adequately funding our schools, then perhaps the students in the upper grades will not be adversely affected; but certainly the students beginning their education will be shortchanged. Remember, quality cannot be built in later.

If you are still reading, I am certain you are wondering, "What is the writer's angle?" "What is in it for him?" Please understand, I am biased in my support for the millage. First, and most important, my wife and I moved to Northville in part for the strong school programs. For the benefit of our son Daniel and our daughter Katherine I want our schools to be the best they can be. Second, strong schools enhance property values. For the sake of the investment we have in our homes, I want to maintain quality schools. Third, I have participated in the School District's strategic planning process that has involved a number of persons from our community to engage in setting the course of "our" schools. We can and should be involved in the governance of our schools and the School Board is paying more than lip service to this idea — they actively encourage people to be involved. Finally, in my professional capacity working at Wayne State University with public schools I have seen what the results of not investing in schools produces — let me assure you it is not pretty.

Please vote yes twice — for the millage and renewal and the 1.4 mill increase - because our children and future depend on it.

imperfections with our school system, but parents, students, teachers, administrators and the Board of Education all work together to improve our school system. That is why we have an excellent educational program. The CBN seems intent on discrediting the teachers, administration and board. They sow suspicion, proclaim halftruths, misinterpret data, and propose solutions that are illegal or unworkable. All of this to fix a school system that they admit delivers an excellent educational program!

The only way they have of getting their babble publicized is through The Northville Record. Unfortunately, as their continual allegations make headlines, The Record's oredibility approaches that of the CBN. I invite The Record to join the rest of the community in our partnership to build better schools. Shirley Klokkenga

Be aware of effects of budget cuts

To the editor:

As a family therapist in Northville, I wish to point out what a loss the possible cuts in our educational funding may be. Our schools do an exceptional job of recognizing emotional and substance abuse signals that often go unnoticed by parents. Skilled social workers and psychologists keep in constant communication with teachers to provide direct assistance to our children and their families. When warranted they encourage and help the family to find an appropriate therapist.

While we all are making important decisions regarding our investments, now let's protect our children first and regard their well being as a necessity.

Remember programs when voting

To the editor:

Among the many quality programs which will be eliminated if the additional school operating millage is not passed are Charlie Stilec's

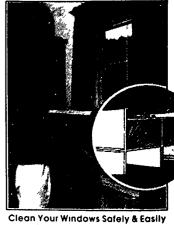

Student Substance Abuse Program at Northville High School and Jan Purtell's Partnerships in Education Program. Although together they consume a very small portion of the overall budget ($54,000 out of $23,806,710), these two programs and the people responsible for them have had a significant po sitive impact both on our students and the physical, emotional and social health of this community while generating tremendous good

If indeed our mission is "to challenge ALL students to reach their potential and to meet the demands of the future as responsible citizens

. . . " then programs such as these must be maintained in our school district. I urge the voters to consider this when they cast their votes on June 8.

Passing on the GIFT of

By CRISTINA FERRIER

When Kim Larson was a little girl, she received a gift from the Lions Club. Because one of her eyes did not completely develop at birth, she needed an artificial eye. The Lions provided it.

SIĞHT

That was 25 years ago. Two weeks ago, Kim Larson passed on the good deed and helped provide the gift of sight to approximately 10,000 povertyndden Panamanian people. She traveled there with 20 fellow LensCrafters employees to give free eye exams and provide used glasses, which had been donated by area residents to the Lions Club. The mission was sponsored by LensCrasters and Lions Club International.

Larson is assistant retail manager of the LensCrafters store in Twelve Oaks Mall. She was selected to join the 20-person mission team from over 150 applicants.

To apply for a position on the mission team, she wrote a letter that "expressed why I wanted to go, and my supervisor wrote a letter saying why I would be a good candidate," she said. A co-worker also wrote a letter on her

In her own letter, Larson wrote of her expenence with a Lions Club

She was about 2 years old when she received her first artificial eye from the Lions. She doesn't remember it, but "my parents always reminded me of it, and I always felt grateful," she said. "This was my way of helping others in a similar situation.

"I'm blind in one eye, and I know that I'll never be able to correct that, to see out of both eyes. But I wanted to do what I could to help other people — whose sight can be corrected — to see."

Larson said it was an "amazing" experience to put the glasses on the faces of people who had never worn them before. When people need glasses, they are usually shocked to discover how much clearer and brighter everything is when they first put on a new pair.

The people Larson helped in Panama were often adults whose eyes had progressively worsened since childhood — to the point where they were probably unable to function well — but had never had any glasses.

"Oh, their eyes would just light up," she said, smiling at the memory. "I don't think they realized what they'd been missing. If you don't have, you

Larson and the other members of her team went to the cities of San Miguelito and Changuinola. She described San Miguelito as a community near Pa-

Changuinola, she said, is more rural. Despite its title of "banana capital of the world," it is much poorer, too. "The roads were just one pothole after

In San Miguelito, Larson's team set up shop in a school gymnasium where people filled the bleachers as they waited to receive eye exams and glasses. In Changuinola, people waited outdoors in hot weather all day, with no water. In that city they set up in a "hospital" that was nothing but a building with no modern facilities.

"While we were there, someone cut himself and we couldn't find a Band-Aid," she said.

Although the group did the best it could in the time available, there were still some people who had to go home without glasses.

Some people needed prescriptions that the mission group did not have on hand. For some of them, especially children, Larson said her group will make glasses and mail them back. But there were others who they simply had to turn away because there was no way they could get to them.

"It got to the point where we were just doing the best we could in the time frame available," she said.

If she ever got the chance, she said, she would go back and try to help more people. But she knows that she helped a lot of people while she was there.

This gave me a personal knowledge that I've helped not just someone but a bunch of people that never would have had a chance," she said. "I feel really good about myself."

This trp was the second LensCrasters/Lions Club mission to third-world areas. Last year a similar group went to Costa Rica and performed the same service, and next year there will be another trip to a yet-unnamed country.

For the Panama mission, 2.715 pairs of eyeglasses came from the Detroit area Used eyeglasses for the next mission can be donated at any LensCrafters store, including the Twelve Oaks location. The donated eyeglasses are cleaned, repaired and sorted by prescription by Lions volunteers.

Kim Larson stands with some of the eyeglasses recently donated at the Twelve Oaks Mall Lenscrafters store.

Dancers tap local stage before touring abroad

After receiving top honors at several state dance competitions throughout the year, Northville's Piazza Dance Company is currently preparing for its 11th annual spring performances on June 18 and 19 at 7:30 p.m. at Birmingham Groves High School.

In addition to the company's local shows, the company will travel to Orlando, Fla., to compete in the American Dance Spectrum's National Competition in July. Also, the dance company has been invited by the government of Italy to show-tour that country in the summer of 1993.

Four competing groups and two soloists from Northville racked up high honors and several trophies for the Piazza Dance Company. Amy Frankel, a 13-year-old eighth-grader at Meads Mill, took three first-place awards and three second-place honors for her two solo routines in dance competitions this year. She is also a member of two award-winning groups competing for the Piazza Dance Company. The senior tap group, "Shave and a Haircut," took the overall high-scoring awards at every state competition this year, winning over $300 in cash awards.

Dena Chemotti, 12, a first-time contender, won a second-place trophy at the regional American Dance Spectrum Competition for her solo pointer routine.

The company's petite jazz group, "The Engineers," which also took top first-place awards this year, includes several young dancers from Northville: Lauren Bethall, 12; Daphney Dudek, 12; Allison Cohne, 11; Natalie Dickinson, 11; and Tiffany Couillais, 12.

the company, but no less talented. The trio consists of Jennifer Chiroyan, 8, Lauren Kozak, 9; and Erin Riggs, 8, all of Northville. They debuted this year and took three first-place awards for a jazz routine.

Tickets for the spring shows are $6 and can be purchased at the studio in advance or at the door. For more information call 348-3720 Monday through Thursday from 4:30-9:30 p.m.

AMERMAN

We saluted our teachers during the week of May 4-8 with special daily activities revolving around the theme of "Our Future is Bright Thanks to Amerman's All-Star Cast!"

A star-studded bulletin board was the first thing greeting teachers in the morning that first day, followed by a continental breakfast displayed on a tablecloth decorated by first- and second-grade students. Tuesday, third-graders delivered maize and blue corsages (Amerman's colors) to all staff members and industrious upper el students washed car windows for the staff as a special treat. Special thank-you books from the students in each class were compiled by the room parents and given to the teachers on Thursday, and on Friday, treats were provided and plants with signs made by the students were given to the teachers. These were small tokens of our appreciation for all our teachers do throughout the school year. What a terrific staff we

Our end-of-the-year Appreciation Luncheon was held on Tuesday, May 19 and was dedicated to Mr. Milt Jacobi, our retiring princopal, with special recognition given to Mrs. Marilyn Kaestner and Mrs. Vi Wuestnick, two very special teachers retiring after 25 and 23 years at our school, respectively. We are very sorry to see these three educators leave and can only convey our sincere thanks to them for their exceptional dedication to our chiddren over the years. Our best wishes to each of you as you begin a new, exciting chapter in your lives.

The very busy month of May also includes a very special and well-orchestrated celebration of the arts at Amerman during "Arts in Action Week" May 18-22. Daily presentations ranging from displays to demonstrations, from lectures to readings provided the students with a vast array of visual, audio, and intellectual stimulation. Under Mrs. Gail Raben's capable leadership, the Arts in Action committee, comprised of Mr. Jacobi, Mrs. Anderson, Ms. Jarvi, Mrs. Kaestner, Mrs. Krictzs. Mr. Lightfoot and Mrs. Thompson, were able to organize and coordinate the participation of many community members in this exciting program. Special thanks were extended by the community to Community Federal Credit Union for their assistance with funding. Be sure to ask your children about some of the interesting lessons they received last week.

The final PTA meeting for the school year will be held at 9:30 a.m. on June 2. Weather permitting, there will be a unique slant to the meeting. Plan to join us.

Plan to join us.

Amerman's 24th Annual Ice Cream Social will take place on Friday, June 5 from 5 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. This is everyone's favorite event of the year, so in addition to crossing your fingers for good weather, exercise that dialing finger and call Sue Wood (348-7867) if you have not yet volunteered to work a shift that evening. It takes over 150 adults to sponsor this event, so please consider giving a small amont of time to help our children and families celebrate another terrific year at Amerman. Special thanks to Pat Melvin for continuing on for one last hurrah as chairperson of this major event.

As the last day of school on June 16 rapidly approaches, please accept our heartfelt thanks for all of your generosity of time and spirit this year and know that all of our activities couldn't happen without you. Have a happy and safe summer.

SILVER SPRINGS

The Silver Springs PTA held its last meeting of the season May 19. The Student Council opened the meeting with remarks about the anti-cruely to animals program that Silver Springs is currently involved in. The classes are encouraged to bring food in for animals residing in Detroit shelters. Natalie Thomson, Student Council president, said that the class with the largest donation will receive a popcorn party as well as a coupon for an ice cream bar from Baskin-Robbins. Secretary Robin Gosdeck along with student coucil members Jimmy Herrren. Tracy Chichester, Jenni Houslander and Josh Reece told the PTA of their plans for a Memorial Day Parade to take place in the school Friday, May 22. The classes decorated wagons and pulling them througout the building.

Ken Pawlowski made some brief remarks about upcoming events at Silver Springs. May 28 and 29 will be the kindergarten orientation. June 2 will be the fifth grade activity and also fifth grade parent orientation. On June 5 the fifth-graders will also visit Meads Mill Middle School.

Dr. Rezmierski addressed the PTA encouraging them to vote for the June 8 election of two board vacancies, as well as the millage. The millage ballot will be divided this time. The renewal of 22.63 mills will be separated from the new millage increase of 1.4 mills. He stated that even with the renewal and the increase there will still be some budget cuts.

The last co-council meeting was held April 28. Diana Stadtmiller, Silver Springs PTA representative, explained the council's interest in getting Northville residents involved in writing their congressman. Six letters a year on a particular issue can stall and even cancel certain bills from before they are brought before Congress. So let's write some letters.

Once again, the grounds at Silver Springs are budding with flowers. Last Wednesday and Friday Scouts and parent volunteers planted more beautiful flowers and cleaned up the grounds surrounding the school. Pam Hoetger has done an excellent job this year in organizing the ground maintenance. Also, Val Troschenitz has coordinated the acquisition of new equipment for the playground. This year the playground will receive new gymnastics equipment. This will replace existing monkey bars that are getting old and are too big for small children. The installment of the new equipment will take place May 30 at 9 a.m. Anyone wishing to help with this endeavor contact the school

This year's Junior Enrichment Series has really done a fine job. Ellen Corniclius spearheaded this effort and has been very successful in providing interesting and educational assemblies. Last Thursday she provided us with a Bike Safety assembly. The children each received a coupon to purchase a bike helmet at a special price. This was to encourage safe bike riding habits. June 11 will be the last assembly this year featuring the Flying Aces. We all look forward to the exciting assemblies we will have next year.

Kindergarten Orientation is well underway. Last Wednesday night was the New Parent Orientation. Mary Rupley did a superb job of organizing the evening. The parents received tours through the building and met some of the teachers and PTA members. May 28 and 29 will be the Kindergarten Round-up.

Peggy Quick and Mary Rupley deserve a lot of credit for the wonderful newsletter put out last week. The change in publishers has made a drastic difference in the quality of the letter. Their hard work in gathering all the photos and articles has been greatly appreciated by the students as well as parents.

Since this was the last meeting of the year, nominations were made for next year's PTA officers. The President will be Debra Shutt, Secretary Eileen Asteriou, and Treasurer Jan Naigus. Lee Freeland, this year's president, thanked all the parents who showed their support by working on the committees or helping in other ways. It has been a wonderful year and a lot has been accomplished. The Silver Springs Family continues to grow each year.

Silver Springs clearly reflects the dedication of the staff in education our children along with the parents who spent hours volunteering at school or at home helping with homework. Let's keep up the good work—it's been worth it.

-- Debra Shutt

Bountiful wildflowers flourish in local garden

Tom and Linda Pallas cultivate their backyard paradise.

By PATRICIA A. ZIELKE

Spring came in slowly and reluctantly this year, and when it finally arrived, we were captivated by its beauty and soon forgave its

My first glimpse of spring was in a wonderfully tranquil woodland garden on the corner of High and Baseline streets, where Linda and Tom Pallas chose to build their lovely contemporary home four years ago and to preserve the wildflowers and trees already occupying the land. Northville's TB sanitorium once stood on this and surrounding lots, but all that remains of the facility is a wall of rock and stone covered with flowers.

The home, built at the foot of a steep hill, is surrounded by a woodland garden where wildflowers and perennials fill the hillside and its base. Three walking levels were carved out of the hillside and dry-laid stone paths were made using wood chips and stones. An existing stone wall was repaired, extended, and rocks found on the property were used as retaining walls. Massive boulders and rocks stand throughout the garden, creating additional interest to the natural setting. The landscape design and labor were done by Linda and Tom, but I think the boulder-moving was left to Tom - only his chiropractor knows for sure. Another "plus" for this garden - no grass to cut. (That's a husbandpleaser.)

The subtle beauty of the wildflowers is apparent throughout the garden and includes: trillium, May apple, wild geranium, Jack-in-thepulpit, wood phlox, cone flower, ox-

eye daisy and cutleaf toothwart. Perennials introduced in the area are: iris, baby's breath, daylilies, Grecian wind-flower, bleeding heart, columbine, daffodil, tulip, creeping phlox, lavender, pinks, pansies, and alyssum. Varieties of ground cover wending their way through the terrain include: myrtle, pachasandra, ajuga, and sedum. A number of shrubs dotting the landscape are euonymus, juniper, variegated and flowering dogwood, dense yew, boxwood and slender deutzia. Providing cool shade against the heat of the day are some old granddaddy maples. oaks, ash, ironwood and natural white Michigan pine trees.

The soil is rich through years of natural mulching, and Linda maintains the quality as she begins the fertilizing process in the fall by grinding leaves and twigs, spreading them on the ground to decompose into the soil. This encourages earthworms which aerate the ground and provide nitrogen. Also added to the soil is lime powder which provides additional nutrients. In the spring, the compost is used around flowers to retain moisture and prevent intrusive weeds.

This is the kind of garden where you could just hang up your hammock between two trees, sip a cool drink, and watch the furry and feathery critters scurry around all day. Another pleasant aspect of this location - hardly any traffic - so all the

RECORD TRAVEL

By WILLIAM T. TOMICKI New York Times Travel Syndicate

G: We'll be in Montana this summer. Any ideas for entertaining our kids?

A: Your children might enjoy an old ghost town in Garnet, Mont., about 14 miles west of Drummond. Back in 1866 $1 million in gold and silver was mined in the town, which was being considered as a possible site for the state capital.

A fortune is still buried in the steep cliffs around the town, according to local legend. Visitors who tour the old buildings and souvenir shops are welcome to try and dig for the treasure.

Garnet is about a two-hour drive from the current capital of Helena. For further information on what to do and how to get there contact the Bureau of Land Management at (406) 329-3914. Information is also available from your local travel agent.

9: We're going to a seminar at Swarthmore College in Pennsylvania. Is this a particularly historical area?

A: Swarthmore, Pa., is about a five-minute drive from Chester, an interesting old port town with shipyards that once built Navy and merchant marine vessels.

Chester is the oldest settlement in Pennsylvania, 15 miles southwest of Philadelphia on the Delaware River. It was established in 1643 by the Swedish Trading Co., and colonized by William Penn, who arrived in 1682.

Also in the area is one of the country's oldest courthouses, the Morton Homestead, built around 1655, and the Caleb Pusey Home on Landingford Plantation, built around 1683. For further information contact the Delaware County Convention and Visitors Bureau at (215) 565-3679. Information is also available from your local travel 9: We want to tour Australia — the cities as well as the outback. Any ideas?

A: For a custom-made tour. Andre Vogel, owner of Colonial Pacific: Private Tours and Safaris. offers an intimate view of Australia.

His trips take in popular tourist attractions as well as secluded areas of Australia that commercial tours rarely include. Each journey is led by a personal guide, native to the area.

Participants meet a variety of Australian people, learn about their daily lives, ideas and culture and are offered an opportunity to stay in various accommodations, from farms to vineyards to

Q: Is there any place to hear classical music in Hawaii?

A: This June the curtain rises for the 11th annual Kapalua Music Festival on the Hawaiian island of Maui.

The festival will feature worldclass musicians playing chamber music by composers such as Mozart, Beethoven and Schubert.

The concerts will be during two weekends, June 5-7 and June 12-14.

For a detailed schedule and ticket price contact the Maui Philharmonic Society, 95 Mahalani St., Wailuku, Maui, Hawaii 96793 or call the music festival operator at (808) 244-3773. Information is also available from your local travel agent.

Readers are invited to submit questions to William Tomicki, P.O. Box 5148, Santa Barbara, Calif. 93150. Music fills the air in Charleston

City comes alive with performing arts during Spoleto Festival

By CECILY McMILLAN New York Times Travel Syndicate

For 15 seasons Spoleto Festival U.S.A. has lured Charleston's highmindedness from its drawing rooms. libraries and walled gardens to its streets and theaters.

This year more than 100 events are scheduled from May 21 to June 7, including United States premieres of opera and dance and dozens of chamber music, choral, jazz and orchestral performances.

At no other time of year does Charleston seem more endearing than during Spoleto, when the city turns its attentions from the past to the bustling life set before it — musicians carting instruments, street mimes and basket-weavers, groups of theater-goers absorbed in conversation.

THE FESTIVAL

The disputes over artistic control that rocked the Spoleto Festival last year seem to have been resolved, resulting in a new season under the firm hand of the festival's founder, Gian Carlo Menotti.

This year's program carries forward his vision to produce in a single blow an astonishing variety of performances.

The performances may be traditional or radical ("shocking," Menotti called the production of Richard Strauss' "Elektra," to be performed with the American soprano Deborah Polaski on May 29, June 2 and June 5), as intimate as chamber music or as grand as a choir.

Dance troupes, such as the Paul Taylor Dance Co. (May 30 and 31) and the Bebe Miller Co. (May 29 to 31) celebrate ensemble work; the tenor saxophonist Joshua Redman will be playing with the Ramsey Lewis Quintet (May 24).

And there are new features: latenight cabaret concerts and a oneman show throughout the festival by the Polish sculptor Igor Mitoraj.

The festival will close June 7 with a concert by the Duke Ellington Orchestra. The regular Spoleto events are augmented by some 600, often free, Piccolo Spoleto performances.

The best ways to get tickets are by person, by phone — (803) 577-4500, 24 hours a day with a handling charge of $1 a ticket - or by fax to (803) 723-6383. Request ticket information for specific performances or dates and return the ticket-order form with a Visa or Mastercard number. Tickets range from $8 to $45.

The main ticket office, located at 4 p.m.

A new box office at the Dock Street Theater, located at 135 Church St., is open daily from 10 a.m. to about 30 minutes after the last performance at the theater begins.

Tickets are available at 14 George St. up to one hour before curtain time; remaining tickets go on sale at performance sites 30 minutes before

The Nathaniel Russell House, completed in 1808, is a neoclassical dwelling turned into a museum interpreting the domestic life and habits of old Charleston.

Street Theater and the Garden Theater go on sale at 10 a.m. on the day of performance.

Tickets and schedules for Piccolo Spoleto are available at 14 George St. and the Gaillard Municipal Auditorium, located at 77 Calhoun St., daily from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. Ticket prices range from $5 to $16.

SIGHTSEEING

Mountain town draws seniors with 'summer living' program

By GENE and ADELE MALOTT New York Times Travel Syndicate

New Paltz is a village about 75 miles north of New York City in the foothills of the Mohonk mountains. Seniors who take part in the New Paltz Summer Living program can spend almost three months there --- June through Aug. 21. Vacationers are invited to free dances, barbecues, tennis matches and bridge tournaments.

They may also attend free courses at the State University of New York at the New Paltz branch. A nine-hole round of golf is $5 per person. A day-trip to Atlantic City or New York is $11 per person.

The living units are located in a garden-apartment community two blocks from the university campus and three blocks from the village center. Units are furnished, except for linens, silverware and a television set. There are extra charges for telephones and cable-TV hookups. According to Judi Topper, the project spokeswoman, the offer provides a bit of nostalgia for senior travelers. "For the past 11 years the New Paltz Summer Living Program has served as a practical and fun way for seniors to . . . return to the Catskills, where many of these native New Yorkers once grew up, married, brought their children and created their own summer social circles." To stay in a small studio the total price is $1,240 per room; to stay in a large two-bedroom suite the fee is $3,200 per suite.

It is possible to reserve shorter stays, but the minimum is six weeks. For further information contact New Paltz Summer Living, 110 E. Atlantic Ave., Suite 305, Delray Beach, Fla. 33444 or call (407) 243-0811.

BRING YOUR MEDALS ON A PACIFIC REUNION CRUISE

World War II veterans and their companions get 20 percent discounts on Valor Tours' "Pacific Reunion." That is a 27-day cruise-tour aboard Paquet's Ocean Pearl liner from Manila in the Philippines to Cairns and Sydney in Australia.

A clue to the trip's mood is in Valour's brochure: "Bring your medals and wear them with pride."

Accompanying the Valor Tours group will be Capt. Edward L. Beach, former captain of the submarine Triton and author of the classic Navy war novel "Run Silent, Run Deep.

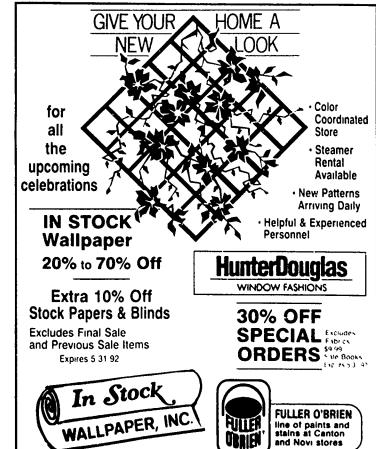

Also on the trip will be Martin Sheridan, a former war correspondent, who landed with the 96th Army Division on Leyte, in the Philippines, and later flew a B-29 firebombing raid over Tokyo.

A third host will be Robert Reynolds, Royal Air Force bomber commander and World War II historian. After Manila, tour-goers visit Corregidor, in the Philippines, and its Malinta Tunnel, where troops of Gen.

ouglas MacArthur and Gen. Jonathon Wainwright fought for 27 days. Then travelers board the Ocean Pearl to cruise the Sibuyan Sea and San Bernadino Strait, the Coral Sea and The Slot," a former Japanese resupply route through Northville left the competition in the dust last week.

Tracksters take first WLAA championship, send group to finals

By SCOTT DANIEL Sports Editor

Like the commercial says, it doesn't get any better than this.

Northville's boys track team took its first-ever Western Lakes Activities Association title May 20 by winning the conference championship meet held at Farmington. According to coach Dennis Faletti, the whole team contributed to the triumph.

"It was a total team effort," he said. "You have to have that. No one person is going to win it for you."

With the championship, the Mustangs can claim to be possibly the school's best track squad in history. Northville went 8-1 in dual meets, placed second in the tough Western Division and second in regionals not a bad resume.

"I think this is the best team I've ever coached," commented Faletti, who was the women's track coach at Eastern Michigan University for a decade. They are a great group of athletes that do everything I ask them

The top five finishers at the WLAA meet were all from the Western Division. Northville took the title with 1311/2 points, Walled Lake Western was next with 116 Farmington Harrison had 98. Livonia Churchill 81 and Canton was fifth with 76.

Faletti said he felt it would take at least 125 points to win the meet. He added that he thought his team would come just short of that mark Faletti said the performance showed great character by his team. They were tired," he added, noting that regionals had been less than a week before "But they dug down deep and came out with a championship. As could be expected with such a tremendous point total, the Mustangs tallied across the board.

John Gatti started the meet by cus. He recored a toss of 46-3 to win the shot put and 136-1 to take the discus. Teammate Todd Osborne was second in the shot and fourth in the discus.

Pole vaulter Mike Drozdo placed eighth. He cleared 10-4.

The Mustangs had mixed success in the relay events.

A time of 45.4 placed fourth in the 400 with Brian Dogonski, Ryan Huzjak, Matt Hemp and Jamie Miller competing. The Mustangs were sixth in the 3,200 as Jason Petrie, Todd Zaytı, Kevin McGlinchey and Matt Hamister ran a time of 8:31.1.

The 1,600-meter relay team of Huziak, Brandon Cuadra, Miller and Mike Subotich with a time was 3:26.5. Northville got a win in the 800-meter relay with a time of 1:32.3. In the 110-meter hurdles, Brett Butz placed fourth with a time of Cuadra placed second in the winning both the shot put and dis- 200-meter dash with a time of 23.4.

Northville finishes season

It's a wrap!

The Mustang track team completed its season May 19 by participating in the annual Western Lakes Activities Association meet held at Salem. Northville, despite a number of improved times, finished last with just 10 points

"We did have a lot of improvement at the meet," said coach Ann Turnbull "Our distance people, for example, brought their times down, but couldn't place."

In just two short years, the Mustang golf team has established itself as a legitimate power in the Western Lakes Activities Association.

After just missing in its first year, Northville claimed the Western Diviaccomplished it with a 7-0 WLAA mark and a 10-3 overall record.

Heading into the conference meet. Waldecker said she believed that two Livonia schools. Stevenson and Franklin, would be the biggest obstacles to winning. The coach's fears turned out to be reality as Stevenson won the 18-hole meet with a score of 437. Franklin was next with 443 and Northville finished third with a total of 450.

Besides that tough competition. Waldecker said Huron Meadows was a very difficult course. She added that pin placements were almost unfair with as many as 13 holes located on a "mound."

"The pin placements were unbelievable," Waldecker said.

Kickers drop Lakeland for district championship

By SCOTT DANIEL Sports Editor

A determined and hard-working Mustang soccer team left Walled Lake Central High School Friday night as district champions.

Northvule scored an impressive 2-0 win over Lakeland in the final to take the district crown. That effort put the last touches on a nearly flawless week for the squad in state competition The Mustangs opened district play May 18 with a 4-0 win over Baseline rival Novi. The kickers then came back to shut out Milford 3-0.

Friday's district final paired two state-ranked schools. Northville had been rated as high as fourth while Lakeland also made the top 10. It seemed neither team wanted to the ball was almost exclusively in Lakeland's end with an aggressive Mustang attack. Androsian hit the crossbar with 31:35 left in the game.

The tides changed with about 25 minutes left. Lakeland dominated for about six minutes until Androsian finished scoring in the game with 18:50 left.

Androsian nailed a long kick from 20 yards to the left of the Eagle goal for the score.

Tracksters finish last at WLAA meet

Julie Buser and Wendy Forster qualified for the state finals, which will be held Saturday in Grand Rapids, at regionals two weeks ago. Buser will compete in the high jump and Forster in the long jump.

It is the first time in seven years the girls team has sent members to the state finals It's also the first time in many more years that two have qualisied, Turnbull said.

As a team. Northville finished at the .500 mark last season. Although the Mustangs fell off that pace this year, the coach said her team gave it everything they had and did improve.

"What I look for is improvement from the girls," Turnbull commented. "As long as they improve, I'm happy."

Northville may be able to significantly improve upon its record next year. The team will lose only five members, albeit important ones, to graduation.

Aimone, Buser, Trish Lukomski. Mari Kissenger and Angie Tune comprise that group. But, Turnbull says, a solid core will return.

"I'm always optimistic," she added. Among the returnees will be Laura Thomas, Laura Brown and Michelle Splan in distance events. Sprinters will include Browne and Marcy

Michelle Fetterman will continue on in the discus and shot put. Sara Kolb will likely be the top hurdler. It won't get any easier in the WLAA,

"It's always been a tough conference." Turnbull said. "It's where (track) people shine."

Softballers crush South Lyon

By SCOTT DANIEL Sports Editor

Northville played a lot of softball games last week, but only one of them really mattered.

The Mustangs destroyed South Lyon Thursday 12-1 in a pre-district matchup and will advance in the state tourney. Northville will play Brighton Saturday in the district. A win would send them to the final against Lakeland or Milford.

With the Mustangs' strong finish. 12-4 since spring break, it could be their best chance to take a first-ever district championship.

"It would be a great ending if we could win the district," said coach Frank Friemund, "and be one of the final 16 teams.

Sometimes final scores aren't indicative of how close a game really was. But the scoreboard didn't lie in this Northville pounded out 12 hits. And, to add injury to insult, Stacey Nyland no-hit the Lions — her fourth no-no of the season.

The Mustangs scored single runs in the first and second innings. They closed the game in the fifth with 10 runs, including seven hits and a pair

Four Northville hitters had two hits The Mustangs had two RBIs. "It was a storm waiting to happen," said Friemund "We did everything nght in the fifth."

Going into district action, Northville is 14-10 overall and 7-3 in the Western Lakes Activities Association

NOVI INVITATIONAL: The Saturday tourney started good and went downhill for Northville.

The Mustangs opened the eight school invitational with an easy 12-1 win over Birmingham Groves. Northville again did most of its damage early, scoring 10 in the first two Kara McNeil led off with a double to start a four-run first inning. Christie Green then walked and was followed by an RBI single from Nyland.

Green scored on a fielder's choice off the bat of Laura Apligian. Nyland later scored on an error. Sara Christianson reached base on a walk, stole second and scored on two passed Northville added six in the second and two in the fourth. McNeil led the way going 2-4 with an RBI while Nyland had two hits and Apligian three

The Mustangs weren't as fortunate in game two. Redford Thurston clipped Northville by a 5-3 score.

Northville started strong with three runs in the first inning. Apligian tripled in two in that inning.

But Redford scored three of its own in the third, without the aid of a hit, to tie the game Thurston added single runs in the fourth and sixth to win. "We played an excellent game," said Friemund "We just had one bad Northville went up against arch rival Canton in its final game of the tourney and fell 1-0.

But, don't tell Friemund that. We are confident we would have tied it up." he said. "You have to put an asterisk on that one." The game was halted heading into the seventh because of rain. Northville beat the Chiefs twice earlier this the first inning.

Causes of anemia vary between sexes

Anemia is a relatively common ailment that refers to a deficiency of red blood cells (RBCs). Since RBCs carry the oxygen in the blood. it is easy to predict what a deficiency would do. The patient may feel weak, tired, have a lowered activity level and be palelooking.

Red blood cells are produced in the bone marrow and have a normal lifespan of 120 days. This production is governed by the genetic "plan" passed on by the parents and by the availability of the necessary building blocks such as iron. In addition, anything that destroys or shortens the lifespan of RBCs leads to anemia. In fact, there are basically three types of anemia based upon what has just been mentioned: anemia due to production of a faulty RBC because of a mistake in the "blueprint," anemia due to the lack of the necessary building blocks and anemia caused by increased loss of RBCs.

The best example of anemia caused by a defect in the "blueprint" is sickel cell anemia. In wrong amino acid in a particular portion of the and bowel by the physician. oxygen-carrying molecule of the RBC. The result is that in certain situations the blood cells lose their normal doughnut shaped disc appearance and become banana- or sickleshaped. This unusual shape makes passage of the blood through the body more difficult and shortens the life span of the cells to 10-12 days. Although treatable, the disease is incurable since the defect is inherited as a permanent part of that individual's genetic plan for making blood. Other similar conditions include Thalassemia and hereditary spherocytosis.

For blood to be produced in an effective manner, the necessary building blocks must be present in sufficient quanity. Three defects of this type are B12, folic acid or iron deficiency. Iron deficiency is the most common type. Usually the amount of iron lost by the body is equal to ing the blood-forming cells in the bone marrow. the amount taken in every day. In addition, when RBCs are destroyed by the body after their life span is over, iron is reused. In an adult the therapy may be different. Fortunately the the most common reason for iron loss is bleeding. If more iron is lost than is replaced, anemia occurs. In women, heavy menstrual bleeding is these reasons, anemia in a male will usually versity of Michigan Health Center staff.

this condition the "blueprint" calls for the lead to a complete evaluation of the stomach

Folic acid is a substance found in leafy vegetables and is essential to RBC formation. Fortunately, in the United States such nutritional deficiency is rare. B12 deficiency will lead to anemia and is uncommon except in cases such as pernicioius anemia where B12 is not absorbed because of a lack of the necessary factor by the stomach. Once fatal, it is now easily treated.

The last type of anemia is due to bone marrow failure. This can be caused by exposure to specific poisons such as radiation, benzene. certain rare reactions to antibiotics and many of the drugs used to treat cancer. In these situations the bone marrow is destroyed and not able to produce the cells. Invasion of the bones by cancer can also cause anemia by simply replac-

In summary, anemia can result from various causes. It is important to identify the type since therapy is usually quite good.

Time-share swapping new vacation twist

I was surprised to learn recently that a large number of foreign vacationers use their ownership of a time-share interval in a resort in their country to arrange vacation accommodations in the United

Many time-share owners at resorts in this country exchange their units with others in foreign countries. In other words, they use their purchased time-share interval in this country to arrange vacation accommodations at selected points worldwide.

By the same token, time-share owners in foreign countries use their interval ownership at a resort in their country to arrange accommodations in the United States.

Recent vacationers have included those from England, France, Germany, Holland, Singapore and Japan, according to Charles Abul-Haj, manager of the Harbortown Point Resort operation in California. All of his units are booked through Christmas.

Most time-share owners use their interval as an exchange vehicle, said by Frank Marasco, a partner with Darrik Marten Development, Inc., a time-share resort developer.

"Some interval owners haven't stayed in their own resort for a single one-week interval," he said. They always exchange for another

The Channing: An airy world unto itself

By James McAlexander Copley News Service

As the only room at midlevel, the living room is a world unto itself in the tri-level Channing, and an exceptionally airy and spacious world at that. Here, a 12-foot-high ceiling combines with a wall of custom-made multi-paned windows to create a cathedral-like

The Channing is designed for construction on a hillside that slopes down toward the street. A two-car garage is at ground level, the living room is at midlevel, and the rest of the house is another half-flight up. From the back, it looks like a single-level home.

The dining room overlooks the living room, separated by nothing more than the change in levels and a graceful railing. The kitchen, family room and master suite are located along the back of the house, and two more bedrooms face the street.

The family room is every bit as large and bright as the living room, though the ceiling is not as high. Sliding-glass doors open onto a wooden deck.

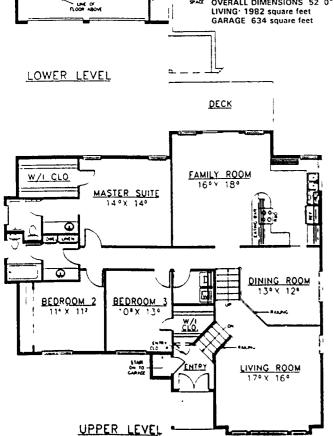

There's plenty of space to move around and plenty of counter space in the adjacent kitchen. Placement of the range top and oven, built right into the eating bar, makes it convenient to dish up quick meals and snacks right onto plates and bowls lined up along the bar.

The master suite has a huge walk-in closet and a compartmentalized vanity. The other two bedrooms share a bathroom, also outfitted with a separate vanity area, along with linen storage.

The stately country home belonging to Maryanne and David Peoples is new in one sense, while almost a hundred years old in another. Their two-story farmhouse, built in 1989 on two plus acres on Carey Road in Commerce Township, incorporates quality crafted materials that were salvaged from now demolished build-

"You might as well say we have a brand new house with the decor of the old," David explained. "We wanted an old farmhouse, a country house," he said. "We looked for two years and just couldn't find anything unless you went farther out. So we decided to build a new house."

Before beginning construction. Maryanne and David found an interesting collection of pieces from the past to use in the home, including solid cherry doors with genuine brass trim and glass doorknobs, ornate plaster molding, wood trim. French doors, glass-paneled kitchen cupboards, mahogany fireplace mantel, a three-section oak staircase, and other venerable treasures which they rescued from two Grosse Pointe man-

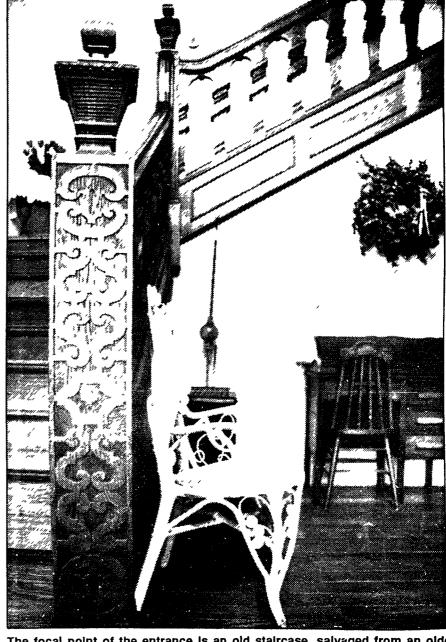

"I stumbled across a guy named Columbo who owns a used lumber yard in Detroit and he stumbled upon another guy named Kirby who tears down these mansions," David said.

"The heirs of the estate don't want them," Maryanne said, "so they tear them down and sell the property to developers. It's virtually impossible to get in one now. The historical society is involved," she said.

Maryanne said they were able to walk through two scheduled-fordemolition mansions and pick out what they wanted to buy. The wrecking crew removed or dismantled the items for them. The couple, in turn, had to haul the items away Maryanne remarked that the materi-

Preserving flowers

By C Z. Guest Copley News Service

The easiest way to dry flowers is by hanging them upside down. The first step is to find a spot that is dark and dry with good air circulation. An attic is really best because your basement may be too damp.

Harvest before the flowers are fully open and strip the foliage from the stems Tie small flowers in bunches so that their flower heads don't touch, then hang upside down. Within two to three weeks, they should be dry.

The most popular annual for drying is the strawflower. They grow up to 2 inches tall, with flowers in all shades of pink, gold and red. The showy, stiif bracts surround and conceal the tiny flowers inside.

For fuchsia or vivid purplecolored flowers, try statice or globe amaranth. The 3/4-inch round flower heads of globe amaranth dry quickly and are long-lasting Sea lavender and purple statice (like florists use) are easily dried at home. Rattailed statice has 18 inch-long pencil-thin spires of tiny lilaccolored blossoms and should be cut when the flowers are fully expanded

For warm colors--golds, red and yellows - grow marigolds,

Bells of Ireland are delicate green spikes that enhance any arrangement. Pick off most of the leaves so the bells will be more conspicuous. Dusty miller dries to a delicate silver white and compliments soft pink and lavender flowers.

For a light, airy touch add dried grasses. Just about any ornamental grass will do such as a rabbittail grass, quaking grass, squirreltail grass and animated oats.

Air drying is easy and quick. When the flowers are dry, use them generously in flower arrangements, wreaths, etc, Why not add even more flowering annuals (just for drying) in your garden?

als were inexpensive. For example, she said they paid $75 for all the French-style glass-fronted cupboards.

"One of the problems that we had was that everything in the mansions were so mammoth in size. David said. "We didn't want as big a house as this.

but we had to keep some kind of proportion." he said. For example, David said the cupboards were originally 16 feet in length and most doors were at least seven feet tall. "One door was so big I had to cut it in half." he recalled.

The 3,500-square-foot home contains three bedrooms, three baths, a family room, very large kitchen. formal dining room, entrance foyer, utility room, three fireplaces, parlor (a current project), basement and an attached two-and-one-half car garage.

With a great deal of imagination, vision, and assistance from designer Randy Hatcher, the couple drew their home plans with the newly acquired artifacts first in mind. "I think we had a hard time imagining where it would all go," Maryanne said. According to David, the house is built around the oak staircase, located in the foyer.

The staircase only went one way in the old house. so I had to duplicate it." he said. The staircase, a handsome gem for which he paid "a modest amount," was dismantled and packed in boxes. David, a pattern maker at Commerce Engineering, was able to expertly reconstruct it, taking seven to eight weeks to complete. Some pieces were broken or missing and all the rails had to be moved.

Maryanne, who works in the receiving department at Heslops, refinished the staircase. She is also responsible for refinishing and staining all the woodwork, trim, doors, oak plank floors, and antique furniture in the home. Her wonderful gift for interior decoration and good sense of color is evident with her own sewn curtains, handmade dolls, wallpapering, and other crafts in this lovely home. "We have been in a lot of old houses through the years. I love to decorate," she said. "Experience is a wise teacher," she added.

Her flair for decorating is seen in the spacious family room which is conveniently located off the kitchen area. This room is furnished with warmth, color, and comfort. Maryanne selected a vibrant dark blue to accent the walls. The large windows are delicately trimmed with crisp white lace curtains. A stenciledpattern sofa faces the massive stone fireplace, providing a good area for entertaining.

Other interesting features here include an old radiator retrieved from a house in Detroit, a black walnut screened cabinet purchased at an auction in South Lyon, and a mounted bear, shot by David and proudly displayed on the wall.

The dining room evokes a peaceful picture of the past. It is a charming blend of family treasures and antiques. The table originally belonged to Maryann's grandmother. Maryanne found and finished the reproduction chairs to match. The oak china cabinet, with its ornate claw feet and rounded glass, and an oak sideboard grace the room. White plaster panels, with carved clusters of grapes, purchased from one of the mansions, will be inserted on each side of the bay

The very large white kitchen boasts a country look in French style. The eye-catching glass-fronted cabi nets enhance the airy openness of the space. "I've gotten a lot of compliments on them." Maryanne said These compliments were well deserved.

An oak pedestal table and chair ensemble is in the center of the room. David installed two-inch white ceramic squares on the counter tops and added a grey-tone ceramic, easy-to-care-for flooring. A functional wood cook stove, purchased at an auction in Cadillac, will be installed soon.

"I can't believe all we did," Maryanne said. David estimated that it will be two to three years before this house is done. "I like the quality and craftsmanship of the older homes. It was actually a better wood," he

The time-share concept usually works well for everyone involved. Marasco said. In addition to people from other areas who exchange into a time-share interval in a local area, many others visit the area when considering the purchase of a time-share unit in a local resort.

In fact, the prospect-to-sales ratio is about 10 to 1, he noted. Ten prospects visit the area in which the resort is located for every time-share sale closed. And when you consider the number of timeshare intervals sold, that's a lot of visitor

Everyone is familiar with the nondescript grayish-tan jugs and crocks that our ancestors used to store edibles and potables. It was made from a single natural clay to which no special clays were added. It was fired only once with a salt glaze that provides a pebbly water-

Early stoneware was hand-thrown on a potter's wheel and frequently freehand decorated with a cobalt-blue slip. Although some of this hand-thrown stoneware was produced in the 18th century, by far the majority was made throughout the 19th century.

Mass-produced factory-made stoneware was introduced in 1872 by the Monmouth Mining and Manufacturing Co. in Monmouth, Ill.

In 1906, Monmouth merged with eight other smaller companies to form the Western Stoneware Co. with a total of seven plants.

ANTIQUES

The market for early 19th-century handthrown stoneware has grown to the point that some really rare pieces have sold for more than $30,000. The items that bring the best prices are those that are marked by the maker and are decorated with cobalt-blue freehand

A bird-decorated crock made by S. Hart in ed in the $1,000 to $1,200 range. A butter crock with a picture of a cow made by John Johnston in Pennsylvania is offered for $2,000. If we examine sales of factory-made stoneware from the kilns of Monmouth, Western, Red Wing, etc., we find that prices are more reasonable and within the budgets of average collectors.

We find all kinds of stoneware churns, complete with original dashers, selling in the $75 to $125 range.

One-gallon crocks sell for about $100, while 10- to 12-gallon crocks are worth slightly less. Large, heavy stoneware crocks are not very popular.

A Monmouth water cooler with a spigot but no cover lists for $75 to $85. Red Wing water coolers complete with covers and bails list in the $265 to $285 range.

Red Wing chicken feeders are inexpensive and can be had for about $50. Chamber pots and pitchers run about the same.

Rolling pins complete with wooden handles sell from $125 to $135. If the handles are missing, deduct $25; those with advertising have a premium of about $25.

HARDINESS ZONE MAPS

Gardeners should be aware that a number of hardiness zone maps exist, all differing from one another. These dif-ferences are especially important when considering the hardiness of a specific plant because a zone number from one map cannot be paralleled with that of another without comparing the maps themselves.

For example, a United States Department of Agriculture 10.

Zone 4 winter low temperature is minus 30 degrees to minus 20 degrees while an Arnold Arboretum (Boston. Mass.) Zone 4 low is only minus 20 to minus 10.

The differences between these two most commonly used zone maps are compared below. The first measurement is for the USDA zone map, the second for Arnold Arboretum.

- Zone 1, below minus 50 degrees vs. minus 50 degrees • Zone 2, minus 50 to minus 40 vs. minus 50 to minus
- Zone 3, minus 40 to minus 30 vs. minus 35 to minus
- Zone 4, minus 30 to minus 20 vs. minus 20 to minus

• Zone 5, minus 20 to minus 10 vs. minus 10 to minus

• Zone 6, minus 10 to minus O vs. minus 5 to 5. •Zone 7, 0 to 10 vs.5 to 10.

Use this map to select the best plants for your growing area. The first step is identifying the zone in which you live. Then, use that zone number as a reference when ordering your seeds.

Most of the trees, shrubs, and perennials offered in garden catalogs will grow over a wide region of the country. and for that reason, a range of hardiness ratings is often

Carving hearts on trees seems harmless enough.

But the fact is, it cut short the life of this majestic oak.

By gouging into the bark, vandals crippled the tree's vascular system. So, like thousands of other innocent victims each year, the tree slowly died.

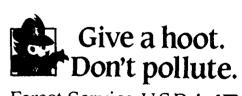

But the fight against vandalism is gathering strength from the example of Lynn Brauer and Carol Eichling.

When vandals girdled a 300 year old Chinquapin Oak near their Marthasville, Missouri home, they wrapped the wound in sphagnum moss and tended the tree daily. despite blizzard conditions.

If not for the severe winter. arborists feel the Chinquapin might have survived.

We believe miracles can take root. When people care enough.

Equipment company cuts bigger piece of pie

By RICK BYRNE Copy Editor

It's said that homeowners move from Detroit to Novi for the wide open

As long as they keep moving and building homes, Cougar Cutting is going to sell equipment to the construction firms to do the job. And the homeowners will keep coming to Cougar for lawn and garden equipment.

"We've kind of grown with Novi," said Al Whitfield, one of the owners of the firm. "We have a good clientele that we've built up and a good name with all of our retail and construction

In fact, Cougar Cutting has grown so much with Novi that the company moved into new larger quarters on Feb. 1. The new showroom is at 46845 Twelve Mile Road, and offers more wide open spaces than the old location on Novi Road.

"To give you an idea, the old location had about half the space in the showroom, our service and parts department was about half the size. and the service area was about half of what it is," said Whitfield. "The whole operation was half the size in a nutshell.

The elbow room allows the company to cater more to its commercial and construction customers, which account for more than 70 percent of its business "In the old location, we were just able to display our retail lawn and garden equipment," said Whitfield. Now we can display our construction equipment as well. Now our contractors can come in and feel confident that they're not walking into a lawn mower shop."

The showroom is clean and bright, and each department has its own large counter. Lined up on the sales floor are row after row of mowers, tillers, edgers, leaf blowers, spreaders, chippers, weed trimmers and chain saws. But also on display are an assortment of heavy duty cutoff saws, pumps, sprayers, masonry cutters and cement spreaders.

Construction people have expressed their happiness with the new location which is just east of the the Beck Road exit off I-96. Landscapers also like the new larger parking lot so they can roll in with their large trailers.

"Mostly we're concerned with serving the applications of landscapers, said Whitfield. "We're talking about diesel tractors up to 28 horsepower. and up to 65 horsepower concrete

The company services everything sells, too — and then some.

"As far as engine work, we can handle pretty much everything," said Whitfield. "We offered that even in the old location. About the only thing we can't handle is the big, heavy equipment like Michigan Caterpillar does."

Most importantly, the retail end of the business - all those homeowners with lawns to mow and hedges to trim - doesn't suffer because of the dedication to commercial customers. On the contrary, Whitfield says his retail customers benefit from Cougar's construction business with fast and reliable service.

"The carry over comes from the construction service, which is a very demanding service," said Whitfield. That's why our retail customers are so happy with our service. A contractor can't wait for a piece of equipment. He's got to have it."

Cougar's staff of certified mechanics performs all service and warranty work from one location, and even handles warranty work for the local Builders Square store.

Throughout the warmer months, Cougar Cutting is a busy place as both construction and retail customers are constantly in and out. Snow thrower business, though slow in re-through the winter. The weather brings other boom

"Power outages --- we sell a lot of generators after big storms," said Whitfield. We've sold a lot of them and we're waiting for the next one. A lot of people procrastinate. They say. 'I'll wait. It ain't gonna happen.' And then when it does, look out."
