FIFTY CENTS

Challengers win

By MIKE TYREE
Staff Writer

It was nothing short of a revolution.

Northville Township voters on Tuesday rejected township government and effectively scrapped a political network that ruled here for more than a decade.

Challengers pounded incumbents in every township Republican primary contest, winning by landslide proportions.

Karen Baja will be the new supervisor. She defeated current supervisor Betty Lennox by a nearly 3-1 margin, winning 1,916-730.

Sue Hillebrand racked up similar numbers in her race with Clerk Tom Cook. Hillebrand easily outdistanced Cook, tallying 1,865 votes to Cook's 657.

Four new trustees will sit on the township board as well. Those receiving the Republican primary nod include Mark Abbo (1,477 votes), Barbara O'Brien (1,379), Russ Fogg (1,292), and Gini Britton (1,249).

The four Republicans will square off against Democrat James Petrie in the November general election, with the top four vote-getters gaining township board seats.

Unopposed Treasurer candidate Rick Engelland won the Republican primary nod.

Britton's late charge allowed her to edge fellow newcomer Angela Thomson (1,149 votes) for the fourth trustees slot on the November general election ballot. Rebecca Connell placed sixth with 876.

Long-time incumbent trustees Richard Allen and James Nowka fared poorly Tuesday, finishing seventh and eighth in the eight-person field. Allen, a 12-year board veteran, took 740 votes—about half Abbo's total—and Nowka, with 18 years on the board, won 561.

More than a third of the township's registered voters trooped to the polls to demand change in a troubled local government. Over the past year, the township struggled with the public and media over an altered supervisor selection process, questions of conflicts of interest by some members of boards and commissions, a controversial ouster of O'Brien from the Planning Commission, and a lingering controversy over the Western Townships Utilities Authority sewer project.

Baja was happy with the results. "I was very pleased," she said. "If I had lost tonight I would have been very disappointed that voters would have re-elected people who used such low, dirty tricks to get re-elected."

"I'm glad the good guys won, and we stayed positive, focused on the issues, and were rewarded," she said.

Also rewarded was Fogg, who said voters had change on their minds.

"As I stood by the polls today, the last question from voters was, 'Are you an incumbent?'" Fogg said. "I talked to a lot of people, and there was a lot of animosity."

Vorva wins House seat

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

The race for the state's new 20th District House of Representatives seat was virtually decided Tuesday night as Plymouth City Commissioner Jerry Vorva won the Republican Party primary.

Vorva won 40 percent of the vote to beat current 35th District Rep. Georgina Goss (R-Northville), who took 34 percent. Northville computer software designer Robert Bernard took 18 percent while Realtor Ronald Ambrose's shoestring campaign pulled in eight percent of the vote.

Winning a successful write-in campaign by a Democratic opponent Nov. 3, the uncontested Vorva will become the first representative of the reapportioned district covering Plymouth, Northville Township, Northville City south of Baseline Road and western Livonia on Jan. 1, 1993.

Goss narrowly defeated Vorva last August in a special election to replace Gerald Law in the now-obsolete 35th district covering Northville, Plymouth and part of Canton.

"This was a two-year process," Vorva said Wednesday. "I was upset with the system and decided to do something about it. The citizens responded in a very positive manner. As they learned more, they responded in kind; they responded to an honest and positive candidate."

According to unofficial vote tallies, Vorva's 4,154 votes were enough to put him over the top, beating Goss' 3,554, Bernard's 1,869 and Ambrose's 887.

Northville Township made much of the difference in the bitterly fought primary election, where former township supervisor Goss was soundly defeated at the hands of Vorva supporters by a vote of 1,244 to 709. Bernard garnered 512 votes in the township while Ambrose pulled in 146. Goss and Vorva split the vote in Northville City, where voters cast 105 ballots for each. Bernard, a Northville City resident, posted a respectable third with 82 votes while Ambrose came in fourth with 20.

A total of 1,132 Northville City residents turned out for the primary, just over 25 percent of the city's 4,478 registered voters.

In the City of Plymouth, voters rallied around their commissioner with 559 votes while Goss drew 367, Bernard garnered 101 and Ambrose got 27. Goss squeaked by Vorva in Plymouth Township, drawing 1,581 votes to Vorva's 1,553 while Bernard won 427 votes and Ambrose drew 138.

In the City of Livonia, Goss scored a first-place finish with 798 votes, followed by Bernard's 747 and Vorva's 693. Livonia resident Ambrose came in a close fourth with 556 votes.

McCotter takes primary

By SHARON CONDRON
Staff Writer

Thaddeus McCotter believes his positive campaign antics in an election year full of dirty tactics clinched his bid for the 10th District seat on the Wayne County Commission away from incumbent Maurice Breen in Tuesday's primary election.

McCotter was the top vote-getter in the Republican primary with 5,336 votes (42 percent), followed by Breen with 3,379 votes (27 percent), Patrick Downes with 3,104 (24 percent) and Clayton Stacey with 868 votes (7 percent).

With the primary clinched, McCotter subsequently won the right to face off against sole Democrat Michael Caffery in the Nov. 3 general election.

McCotter said he will run a clean, positive campaign against Caffery because he's almost assured that is what clinched the primary for him.

"I think people got tired of all the negative ads. I took a risk going with an incumbent who I could have taken pot shots at, but I didn't."

"We were very worried at first about running a positive campaign against the incumbent," McCotter said. "It was a real risk, but in the end I think people wanted change and they wanted a positive change."

"Positive candidates can effect change and running an issues-oriented, positive campaign tells the voters something," he said.

McCotter carried his hometown of Livonia and the city and township of Northville. The township vote was McCotter, 1,173; Downes, 666; Breen, 468; and Stacey, 122. The city vote was McCotter, 117; Downes, 110; Breen, 78; and Stacey, 18.

Breen and Downes split their hometown of Plymouth, with Breen taking the township—where he was previously a long-serving township supervisor—with 1,165 votes. Downes claimed the City of Plymouth with 315. Downes took second in that township with 1,091 votes, followed by McCotter with 1,008. McCotter took a close second in Plymouth city, falling just shy of Downes' win.

City to interview council hopefuls

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

Would-be City Council members looking to avoid an election-year brawl can take advantage of an open slot on the five-member council.

The city is seeking candidates to fill the term of G. Dewey Gardner, who stepped down in July to move to Brighton. Gardner's term expires November 8, 1993.

So far, five candidates have applied for the privilege of earning $500 a year and spending every other Monday night at city hall. The deadline for submitting applications is tomorrow, Aug. 7, at 5 p.m.

The current crop of candidates includes planning commissioners Mark Cryderman and David Totten, tax Board of Appeals Chairperson James Cutler, two-time council candidate Kevin Hartshorne and marketing consultant Charles Keys.

Cryderman, who markets industrial lasers used in the automotive and other industries, cited his experience as a ZBA alternate, planning commissioner and Northville Historical Society member as qualifying experience for the council. Commissioner David Totten listed his union activity, community work and 10-year Planning Commission stint, and a master's degree in government from Wayne State University, on his application.

Cutler, a longtime Realtor, listed his 20 years of service on the city's Board of Review and 15 years on the Planning Commission among his qualifications.

Hartshorne, a council candidate in 1979 and 1989, listed his five years in the Northville Jaycees and familiarity with the city's charter and ordinances as qualifying factors.

Keys wrote that his involvement in the city's "business, economic, civil and social affairs," and membership on the city's Economic Development Commission and the Northville Youth Assistance Advisory Council, qualified him for the slot.

The council will conduct interviews of the top four or five candidates after the deadline for submissions has passed. Interviews will be scheduled for the evenings of Aug. 17, Aug. 28 and Aug. 27, and council members hope to appoint Gardner's replacement at a special Aug. 31 meeting.

Shores site auction pushed back

By MIKE TYREE
Staff Writer

A scheduled auction of the troubled Shores of Northville property was adjourned yesterday and will be revisited next week.

The Wayne County Sheriff's Department is slated to auction the 370-acre parcel Aug. 12 at 10 a.m. at the Jefferson Avenue entrance of the City/County Building in Detroit.

The Shores of Northville property is located between Beck and Ridge roads and Seven Mile and Six Mile roads. Wayne County Circuit Court Judge Pamela Harwood earlier this summer issued a notice of foreclosure against Seven Lakes of Northville Limited Partnership, paying the way for a public auction.

Sources close to the sale say the bidding will start at $7.8 million—about $2.5 million more than original general partners Vincent DiLorenzo and Angelo Evangelista offered in late 1989 for the former Thomson Sand & Gravel site.

Local developers—including Beck Development, the firm behind Blue Heron Pointe; and Mark Jacobson and Associates, of Hickory Creek at Six Mile and Beck—have admitted interest in the site, which is nestled in a serene portion of the township and boasts seven man-made lakes.

But potential bidders may face serious hurdles, including a high price tag and continued site reclamation.

Originally billed as a 400-unit subdivision with homes priced in the $400,000 range, the Shores of Northville suffered from almost constant conflicts with township officials and neighboring homeowners.

DiLorenzo never hit it off with the township and its consultants, and the property quickly became a magnet for lawsuits, especially after one of DiLorenzo's firms was charged with illegally diverting an on-site creek—a charge to which DiLorenzo's firm eventually entered a no-contest plea.

Board accepts revised version of pay-to-play

By SHARON CONDRON
Staff Writer

The fee for Northville High School athletes opting to pay-to-participate next fall just got steeper. But just how much remains to be seen.

On Monday, School Board members accepted Superintendent Leonard Rezmierski's recommendation to adopt a more expensive version of the pay-to-participate plan offered by an ad hoc committee last week—without knowing how much it would cost individual high school athletes.

The approved plan deviates from the committee's suggestion by restoring the ninth-grade sports program and reinstating both the athletic director and trainer positions to full-time jobs. Those additions serve as addendums to the committee's basic recommendation, but will conceivably raise the price per athlete, per sport, he said.

Without having all the figures before him, Rezmierski "guesstimated" that under his plan high school athletes could pay anywhere between $158 and $225 to play on a team next year. But David Bolitho, assistant superintendent for administrative services, suggested the additions would trigger even higher fees, possibly up to $250 to participate in a single sport.

The new plan does not affect middle school athletes, nor does it in-

Meeting will focus on buses

By SHARON CONDRON
Staff Writer

A small but vocal part of the crowd that flocked to the special Northville School Board meeting Monday night was there to voice opposition to the proposed new bus routes under consideration for the 1992-93 school year.

Four mothers expressed concerns over the district's proposed routes, set up to bus only students living outside a 1.5-mile radius of their schools this year.

In years past the district has bused students living as close as a half-mile from their schools. Two defeated millage-increase requests last spring put a stop to that luxury for most students and parents in the district.

Their comments were heard but not acted upon by school officials because the board intends to hold a public study session on the busing issue Tuesday, August 11 at 7:30 p.m. in the high school Forum. The issue is expected to be the lone item on the board's agenda.

That is the time and place school officials hope to hear residents' comments about this year's busing plan.

School Board President Carol Rahimi Monday deflected questions, comments and concerns about the district busing plans to David Bolitho, assistant superintendent for administrative services, who is spearheading a three-person transportation committee to devise the new routes.

Superintendent Leonard Rezmierski isn't taking the busing issue—and the potential number of safety hazards associated with cutting out a substantial number of bus routes—lightly.

"It is that serious of an issue, that we need to have a whole meeting to study it," he said.

School officials are expecting a large turnout at the study session meeting next week and hope then to reach a tentative accord on the busing issue so they will have a final recommendation before them at a special board meeting on August 17 at 7:30 p.m.

Man deters burglar

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

A Grace Street homeowner scared a prowler from his home with a shotgun just after midnight Aug. 4.

City police responding to a 12:47 a.m. report of a robbery in progress reported hearing a shotgun blast and seeing the homeowner standing on his sidewalk with the shotgun as they drove up to the house.

According to the city police report, the man returned to his Grace Street house about midnight Monday night and heard noises upstairs. He grabbed a loaded shotgun and called 9-1-1, then headed toward the stairs, where he saw the prowler at the top of the stairs holding a box of ammunition and another of his guns in a plastic case.

The man told police that he ordered the prowler to stop or he would shoot, but the prowler walked down the stairs toward him apologizing and admitting that he had been caught, threw the gun case and ammo at his feet and dashed out the door.

The homeowner ran out to the sidewalk after the prowler and fired a warning shot in the air as police drove up, but he kept running south on Grace Street.

City police cordoned off the neighborhood, called Northville Township police officers and Livonia's canine officer to the scene and searched the area until 2:36 a.m., but failed to find the prowler.

He was described as a 5-foot 11-inch white man with black hair weighing about 200 pounds, wearing denim shorts and no shirt.

City police are continuing to investigate the incident.

City gets part of track tax money

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

Northville City's 10-month battle with the state over racetrack revenue has nearly ended, with one check from Lansing in the city's hands and another on the way.

The city received a check for $360,000 June 19, and City Manager Gary Word said he expects to receive another check for about $40,000 before the state's fiscal year ends Sept. 30.

"It's my understanding that they withheld . . . 10 percent (from the first check)," Word said. "My understanding is roughly another $40,000 is coming. It's also my understanding that they treated all the (racetrack) cities the same, so I don't have a beef with the state other than over the arbitrary withholding of the money in the first place."

The battle for the funds, marked by an attorney general's ruling and threats of a lawsuit against the state, began in October when Gov. Engler vetoed the return of any racetrack revenue to the cities that house horse racing. The move cost Northville an anticipated $735,000 in revenue from Northville Downs and threw the city's finances into disarray, prompting a string of layoffs, budget cuts and a 4.2-mill tax increase as part of a 2 1/2-year deficit reduction plan.

Under the State Racing Statute of 1980, the city is entitled to receive up to $900,000 in racetrack revenue, a percentage of the roughly $20 million that the state collects annually from bets placed at Michigan tracks.

But the state often returns less than the allocated percentage, although the governor's action was the most severe threat to the revenue stream in recent memory.

The governor's move did not go unchallenged prior to his release of the funds.

State Attorney General Frank Kelly ruled last December that the withheld funds would not lapse into the state's general fund at the end of the fiscal year, and so could not be used to balance the general fund budget.

Northville and six other racetrack cities agreed in March to band together and research the possibility of suing the state to release the money.

But in May, state legislators agreed to an Engler proposal to return half the allocated funds.

The $400,000 in overdue payments still leaves the city's budget in the red, though it should shorten the path to financial recovery.

Once the first check was received, the city reimbursed Northville Downs $83,368 for the racetrack's payments for city police services during the 1991/92 racing season (see related story).

The Northville City Council agreed June 16 to apply any excess racetrack revenue to the city's $1 million deficit, rather than rehiring employees laid off during this year's cutbacks.

Next year's city budget is based on the return of no racetrack revenue.

Dispute reduces Downs' payment

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

Northville Downs just received an $83,368 payoff from the City of Northville, but the winnings are less than thrilling for racetrack officials.

Downs officials had expected a much larger check, in the neighborhood of $112,000, to cover the racetrack's payments to the city for police services during the 1991/92 racing season. The track had agreed to pay for police services on the condition that it be reimbursed if the city received any of its allocated racetrack revenue from the state.

But the city's July 21 payment was reduced by the $29,000 in refuse collection costs that Northville Downs has withheld from the city.

"We withheld the amount of money that they owed us for trash removal that they haven't paid," said City Manager Gary Word.

The disagreement centers around a dispute over who should pay for trash pickup at Northville Downs. While Downs officials believe the city should fund the cost from state-returned racetrack revenue, city leaders counter that they are not required to divert racetrack revenue toward trash pickup and cannot afford to do so since the state has cut the city's allocated share of racetrack revenue in half.

The city began charging the racetrack for trash removal costs late last year along with the rest of the city's commercial businesses, after the switch from a millage-based to a fee-based refuse system.

"They were billed for service like everybody else," Word said.

The racetrack was charged $6,500 a month for refuse collection, according to Northville Downs Executive Manager Margaret Zayti. But track officials eventually refused to pay, citing their belief that the racetrack's refuse collection costs should be paid from state-returned revenues.

Zayti said the dispute has been referred to Northville Downs' legal representatives. "Right now, we're just going to ask our attorney to write a letter (to the city), because we feel that the money from the state should have been applied toward trash collection," she said. "If they're getting paid by the state, then they shouldn't be charging us again and double-dipping."

The State Racing Statute of 1980 makes no mention of providing for refuse disposal. It only specifies that "local units of government participating in the distribution of (racetrack) funds . . . shall allocate sufficient portions to provide for adequate police, fire, and traffic protection of persons and property at and near each race meet, including areas where occupational licenses are required."

Though the racing statute does not appear to require it, the city has listed refuse collection as a racetrack revenue expense in the past. In a Jan. 14, 1990, report to Racing Commissioner Luke Quinn, then-City Manager Steven Walters listed $19,375 in expenditures for "Refuse collection at the track." The money paid for "Refuse collection service furnished by City above normal level for other businesses — 6 days per week for track compared to twice weekly for others," according to the report.

A Jan. 15, 1991, report listed $21,749 in refuse collection expenditures.

The council discussed the disagreement Monday night, after Council Member Paul Folino asked why the racetrack was not reimbursed for the full amount it had paid for police services.

"My opinion is that they have received full payment," Word responded, because of the money owed for refuse collection.

Mayor Chris Johnson conceded that the city had paid for refuse collection at the track before. "The city had traditionally done that when we were getting $900,000 from the state," he said. "We were the only city providing that service to the track, and when the budget picture changed, we changed our procedure."

WHAT SHOULD A PROGRAM FOR GIFTED STUDENTS OFFER?

Gifted children have needs that go beyond what can be offered in a regular classroom setting, where instruction often is paced so slowly that the bright student becomes bored and discouraged. And where, at times, the gifted child's need for in-depth learning is neglected. What, then, should a gifted program offer to address the specific needs of bright students?

- * Freedom to be creative
- * Small class sizes
- * Experiential learning
- * Opportunity to see learning applied to life outside the classroom
- * Permission to enjoy learning

All gifted education programs, whether in public or private schools, should have these basic features. If you would like more information on Gifted Education, Gibson School's Gifted Program for 4-13 year olds, or the Gibson School Lecture and Discussion Series (GLAD), please call or write:

Man turned over to Livonia police on warrant

City police arrested a 36-year-old Detroit man Aug. 1 after discovering 15 suspensions on his driving record and 11 warrants for his arrest.

The man was stopped for running a red flashing light at Edward Hines and Center at 1:30 a.m. when a computer check revealed the suspensions and warrants. He was arrested for driving on a suspended license and turned over to Livonia police on one of the warrants.

PEEPHOLE UNCOVERED AT EATERY: A customer at Center Street Cafe, 134 N. Center St., told city police she was watched while using the restaurant's downstairs restroom. The woman told police she looked behind her while preparing to use the restroom at 1 p.m. Aug. 2 and noticed a hole in the wall, and saw someone staring at her through the hole. She told her husband, who plugged the hole with a paper towel. Police found a 1/4-inch hole into a storage room matching the woman's description, with a loose piece of grey duct tape covering the hole. The woman decided not to file a complaint.

Crash injures driver

Northville city police investigate an accident at Eight Mile and Lexington on Monday. A 17-year-old Northville girl was cited for failure to yield at a stop sign after driving south on Lexington into the path of a westbound car on Eight Mile. The girl was taken to Providence Hospital in Novi for treatment and both cars were towed away.

p.m. Aug. 3 and 6:30 a.m. Aug. 4. The thief or thieves apparently gained entry to the building by prying a plexiglass window off a door on the building's north side. Inside the building a cash drawer was pried open and money was taken from an unlocked safe.

MAN ARRESTED ON WARRANT: A 45-year-old Ann Arbor man arrested by Ann Arbor police was turned over to Northville City police on an outstanding warrant recently. The man had failed to comply with a court judgement stemming from his assault on a Northville police officer at Northville Downs in February. When turned over to Northville police, the man reportedly was "intoxicated, uncooperative and combative."

Northville police noted injuries on the man's right forehead and right leg, and Ann Arbor police said he had been involved in a fight in their city.

LARCENY AT NORTHVILLE GREEN: City police spotted a vehicle parked at Northville Green Apartments, 725 Randolph, that had been broken into sometime between 8 p.m. July 29 and 6:30 p.m. July 30. Stolen were a pair of speakers valued at $200. According to the car's owner, the speakers were not hooked up and may have been broken.

The vehicle's driver's side vent window was broken during the theft, causing an estimated $10 damage.

ATTEMPTED BREAK-IN ON BOULDER CIRCLE: A Boulder Circle resident told city police someone tried to break into his home sometime between 6 p.m., July 28, and 7 p.m., Aug. 2. Investigators found pry marks on the man's door wall, but it appeared that entry had not been gained to the home.

WOMAN THWARTS THEFT ATTEMPT: A Village Run resident told township police that a young man attempted to steal a set of golf clubs from her residence late July 31.

The woman told police that she saw a white male about 18 years old with spiked hair running from her garage and carrying a full set of golf clubs. The woman chased the suspect, who ran toward a white four-door Chevrolet parked in the street in front of the home.

The woman reportedly gained on the suspect, who threw the clubs at the woman as she drew within 10 feet of him, according to reports. Two of the clubs hit the woman, who was not injured. The suspect sped away eastbound on Village Run toward Haggerty, police said.

BIKES STOLEN: Two 21-speed mountain bikes reportedly were stolen from a carport outside a Harbour Village residence late July 27 or early July 28, township police said. Stolen were a 20-inch men's bike and a 19-inch woman's bike. The bikes were valued at $800, police said.

ITEMS STOLEN FROM VAN: A gym bag filled with clothing, a wallet, credit cards and cash reportedly was stolen late July 27 or early July 28 from a 1988 Ford Econoline van parked on Waterwheel, township police said. The stolen items were valued at $260.

POOL EQUIPMENT STOLEN: A pool skimmer and pool vacuum valued at $260 reportedly were stolen from the pool area around Northridge Villas clubhouse sometime late July 31 or early Aug. 1, township police said. The cleaning items had been hanging on hooks attached to the clubhouse.

GOLF CLUBS STOLEN: Two sets of golf clubs reportedly were stolen from a Blue Heron Pointe residence sometime between 8-9 p.m. July 31, according to township police reports. The clubs were valued at $1,600.

Citizens with information about the above incidents are urged to call Northville City Police at 349-1234 or Northville Township Police at 349-9400.

Mill Race Matters

Thanks this week to Lela Roberts Pelley for the donation of photographs for our Archives. Thanks also to the many other individuals who have been dropping things off anonymously recently. Thanks once again to the unknown young person who encouraged her family to report that a door on our school house had been mistakenly left open. The world needs more caring individuals.

On the same note we hope you will care as well. Our rose gardener, Pat Hibbard, reports the loss of some unplanted bushes. They had been left for some time in preparation for planting. When Pat returned to plant them, they were gone. She would much appreciate their return. Pat buys, plants and cares for all of the beautiful flowers in this garden and the loss of these bushes is a personal loss to her.

Are you beginning to think of fall? Cider time is always a special time to visit our village. The village remains open throughout the fall on Sunday afternoons, 2 to 5 p.m. Combine a visit to the local cider mills with a trip to Race Fall. Fall also brings the annual Victorian Festival, this year Sept. 18, 19 and 20. Members of the Historical Society will again be marching in the city parade on Friday evening in costume. The village will be open Saturday and Sunday all day. Right now original Victorian hats are available for sale in our Country Store in preparation for the festival. You might also wish to purchase some trim to be used to create your own hat.

One week after the Victorian Festival is Tivoli Fair. Tivoli is the major fundraising event for the Northville Historical Society. Proceeds from this quality, juried arts and crafts show are used to restore, refurbish, and renovate the buildings at Mill Race Village. Tivoli Fair is a major undertaking for the Historical Society and volunteer help can always be used for set up, tear down, hostessing, public relations, and a host of other tasks. If you are interested in getting involved call Sally in the office Monday, Wednesday or Friday morning at 348-1845.

Efforts are being made to complete the Northville Oral History Project begun jointly with the Northville Public Library in 1988. If you would like to volunteer some time for this last end-of-summer effort contact Diane at 349-9005. We need volunteers for transcription, auditing, editing, final typing, and clerical tasks.

Police capture larceny suspect

By MIKE TYREE
Staff Writer

A stakeout at a local apartment complex netted township police a suspect in a spate of recent vehicle larcenies.

Police arrested a 17-year-old Detroit resident early July 17 and charged him with prowling and possession of stolen property.

Police said the man confessed to possessing stolen radar detectors, car stereo equipment, and ammunition from a 9 mm handgun.

Most of the items were stolen from vehicles parked in the area of Cedar Lakes Apartments near Six Mile and Northville roads.

Township police officer John Werth said the arrest was the culmination of a two-day surveillance effort by Northville Township and Plymouth Township police officers.

An early morning stakeout on Knightsford in southwestern Northville Township did not pay off, but officers struck gold early July 17, Werth said. According to reports, several officers were posted in the area of Cedar Lakes Apartments when a 1977 green two-door Chevrolet Malibu turned off Six Mile and onto the apartment complex grounds.

The car drove east onto Cove Drive and parked near the complex's tennis courts. Police followed the man on foot as he walked from the vehicle to a set of bushes, and then returned to his car.

Police followed the suspect to the Six Mile and Haggerty intersection, where officers stopped the car at the Amoco gas station on the northeast corner of the intersection. Several radar detectors and tools reportedly were strewn about the car, police said. When questioned, the man told police that he was driving to Beck and North Territorial roads, but had stopped at the apartment complex to go to the bathroom. Police said the man "became very nervous" when police asked if he had receipts for the radar detectors.

The man reportedly told police he did not have receipts for the radar detectors and was arrested. A search of the vehicle uncovered several radar detectors, tools, and electronic equipment, police said. The suspect then reportedly allowed police to search the vehicle's trunk, where police found additional electronic equipment, tools, gym bags, and compact discs.

During an interview with police, the man reportedly admitted to stealing the items from the Cedar Lakes complex on July 14, 15, and 16. He reportedly broke into at least five vehicles during that time, stealing an estimated $1,950 worth of items.

Werth said police actually recovered an estimated $3,300 of suspected stolen property from the man.

He returned to Cedar Lakes on July 17 to retrieve tools and electronic equipment left the previous evening, when a police patrol had "spooked" him, Werth said.

"The suspect does not appear to be entirely responsible for a rash of larcenies in the township, Werth said.

"By all indications, he was strictly in Cedar Lakes," he said. "He said Cedar Lakes was an easy target."

Other groups and individuals probably are involved in thefts elsewhere in the township, Werth said.

The man was charged with prowling and possession of stolen property and has a 35th District Court appearance scheduled for Aug. 7 at 9 a.m., police said.

DDA seeks expansion of downtown district

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

Northville's Downtown Development Authority is seeking to update the city's Mainstreet '78 program by expanding the downtown development district.

The expansion, dubbed Mainstreet '92, is designed to incorporate the vacant Ford Valve Plant property and Ford Field, and Main Street properties across from the Ford Plant, into an expanded downtown. Properties along the south side of Cady Street between Main and Griswold would also be included, to encourage commercial growth into that area in conjunction with a proposed 489-space Cady Street parking deck and relocated Cady Street.

The proposed project lists $6.2 million in improvements to the DDA district, including property acquisition and construction of the new Cady Street parking deck, relocation of Cady Street about 200 feet south to accommodate the new deck, and streetscape improvements on Main, Center and Cady streets to match the appearance of the current downtown area.

The improvements would be funded through a 15-year bond.

"We're really viewing this plan as an amendment to the original plan," said Planning Consultant Don Wortman.

While the $6.2-million bond is projected to cover all the improvements, Chief Financial Officer Mark Christiansen noted that an improving economy could adversely impact the deck's financing. "If we could bid it right now, we'd get great construction prices. But the longer we wait, the more we'll get hit by rising construction prices and, probably, rising interest rates."

While most DDA members supported the plan, one was opposed to a portion of it.

DDA Member Glenn Long protested a diagram included in the plan showing Cady Street being relocated to intersect with the Hutton Street extension. Though the proposal made no mention of it, Long saw the diagram as a first step toward implementation of a previously proposed Loop Road proposal to turn the Hutton Street extension into a two-way street. That move could eliminate seven angled parking spaces alongside Long's Fancy Bath Boutique and 20 angled spaces along the First Presbyterian Church, or require a reduced number of parallel parking spaces along the extension.

"We're out of business if this goes through," Long said. "The day after it goes through, there'll be a sign on the building. I can assure you of that. If you want to drive us out, go ahead."

Long suggested that Cady be extended to Griswold instead, but the DDA already had turned down that proposal because it could not be funded as part of the parking deck project.

"Everyone, I think, would like to see it go to Griswold," said DDA member Bill Demray. "It was a question whether it could be financed by the bond issue."

Long said the new parking deck would not help his family's business as much as the loss of close-in parking would hurt it. He also said the church needs privacy, and a two-way road alongside the church would be bad.

Wortman noted that the diagram was just a sketch, and subject to revision. He agreed to add a notation to the map stipulating that the exact alignment of Cady Street was still subject to revision.

The DDA will review the Mainstreet '78 plan again at a special Aug. 11 meeting. Members hope to settle on a final version at that meeting, so that their recommendation can be acted on by the city council and the Ford Plant can be brought under tighter city control before it is sold to a private developer.

"The main thing is to get this approved for the Ford Plant," said Mayor Pro Tem Carolann Ayers.

Antique car show returns

By RICK BYRNE
Copy Editor

Even if you wouldn't know a Hupmobile if one ran you over, you're sure to find your favorite car at Sunday's classic car show at Northville Downs.

This event will be the 17th annual swap meet and car show for the Northville Antique Car Club. The meet is expected to draw everything from the earliest turn-of-the-century automobiles, the classic roadsters of the '30s, the chrome-bedecked monsters of the '50s, to the muscle cars of the '60s — and everything in between.

The show begins at 9 a.m., rain or shine, and will continue until 3 p.m.

Admission is $2, and children under 12 are free. However, if you have a classic car of your own that you'd like to display, you'll be allowed in for free.

Cars will be competing for best-appearing honors in 14 different classes for both restored/original vehicles and modified hot rods and customs. In all, some 70 trophies will be awarded. A large turnout of vehicles is expected from around the Detroit metropolitan area.

Though the club is based in Northville, spokesperson Diane DeVincent says there are old car buffs everywhere you look.

Bob Castell of Novi, who has several old cars in his collection, is typical of the members of the Northville club. "I'm in several clubs, for Buicks, Cadillacs," Castell said. "I may come out with a '38 Buick, or one of my '54 Cadillacs. This usually turns out to be a pretty good show. This is their 17th year."

And DeVincent said it's just a natural for collectors to socialize.

"We do a lot of events all year long," DeVincent said. "Every month they plan another event. Some are adults with kids too."

In addition to the cars for competition and display, there will be a separate area for cars for sale. The swap meet is also just the right place to find that missing piece for your own restoration project.

A craft show is also planned as part of the event, and vendors will be selling refreshments all day.

NOT the Problem

Here's how to cure slow drains forever. Professional plumbers know the real problem is not in the U-shaped trap. It is in the pipes behind the wall and underground-- the other 99% of your plumbing system.

It starts with a deposit of grease or soap film. The same film that leaves a ring around your tub or sink. In time daily deposits form a black, smelly layer of gunk. As the gunk gets thicker your drains run slower and slower.

Now, without calling a costly roofer service, you can remove this gunk with Plumb Cleans.

Amazing Plumb Cleans contains safe, natural bacteria. As they multiply they move from the trap to the sewer or septic. Since they use the gunk for food they literally eat your pipes clean.

Revolutionary Plumb Cleans is so simple and safe even a child can use it!

Only original Plumb Cleans has this unique formula. Only original Plumb Cleans Gook makes promise: Use Plumb Cleans as directed for 30 days and we guarantee your drains will run like new or your money back!

So cure the slows. Get safe, guaranteed Plumb Cleans today.

Bullard sails onto November ballot

By CRISTINA FERRIER
Staff Writer

Incumbent Willis Bullard earned a chance at a sixth term in the Michigan House of Representatives after defeating Republican challengers James Ash of Wixom and John Riley of Milford in Tuesday's primary election.

Bullard defeated Ash and Riley with 57.8 percent of the vote. He had 3,849 votes to Riley's 1,948 and Ash's 866.

He will now face off against Democratic challenger Robert Havey in the Nov. 3 general election.

Northville's results mirrored the totals: City voters backed Bullard with 202, followed by Riley with 167 and Ash with 64.

Bullard said he was happy to win the primary in a year when the general voter mood seems to be anti-incumbent. He said he was encouraged by the general results of this election.

"We had one incumbent congressman lose, had a couple state legislators lose, and had some township officials lose. But not all the incumbents lost."

"I think what that means is that the electorate is going to be skeptical of incumbents, but it is not going to just throw all the incumbents out. Voters are going to look very carefully at them. They're going to want them to prove they've done something before they'll vote for them."

Taxes were an issue in this primary election, with Riley challenging Bullard's support of impact fees for developers. Bullard supports charging developers of large projects fees to pay for roads and other infrastructure. Havey charged that such fees are an example of taxation without voter approval because the fees would be passed on to homeowners through increased housing costs and property taxes.

Ash ran on a platform that would push for legalized casino gambling in the state. He contended that it would help resolve tax problems by creating new jobs and businesses, which would in turn create more tax dollars.

Bullard has served in the current 60th House District since 1983, serving the communities of Highland, Milford, Rose, Holly and Groveland as well as the Oakland County portion of the City of Northville. He recently moved from his home in Highland to Milford so that he could run for a seat in the newly formed 38th District.

The new district includes the communities of Novi, Wixom, South Lyon, Lyon Township, Milford Township, Milford Village, and Northville north of Eight Mile Road. Bullard has said he chose to move into the new district so that he could continue to represent the majority of his constituents.

RECORD OPINION

Our Opinion

New township leaders start with clean slate

Voters cleaned house in Northville Township Hall on Tuesday, resoundingly ousting all four incumbents running for re-election. The township now has a unique chance to set a strong course into the future.

Some turnover at election time is not uncommon, maybe even to be expected. The changes on the township board this year, however, started to take on interesting proportions when three incumbents — two trustees and the treasurer — announced they would not seek re-election. In Tuesday's primary, voters completed the sweep.

The exact makeup of the board for next year is not yet known. The Republican nominees for supervisor, clerk and treasurer all face no opposition in the November general election, although write-in campaigns are always possible. Beyond that, there are still five people — four Republicans and one Democrat — running for the four trustee slots.

The important point is that the board will be entirely new. That might seem intimidating at first blush, but it's really a unique opportunity.

Government

The problems and challenges facing the township can now get a completely fresh look. Tough times lie ahead, but now they can get a needed new perspective. Entirely new solutions to old problems may surface; the township can take a progressive and aggressive approach to the coming years. Perhaps a proactive attitude may anticipate and head off some additional problems from ever developing.

It's not very often that a community gets the chance to start completely over with an entirely fresh set of elected officials. Northville Township has that chance. We hope the new board makes the most of it.

Nasty campaign ends, but worse may follow

Whew. Now that the primary election is finally behind us, we can all take a big sigh of relief. Perhaps we'll get a break from the negativity which has charged the atmosphere lately.

And perhaps not.

Playing Monday-morning quarterback with election results is always a dangerous business, though it can be mighty entertaining at the same time. Factor A had an effect; factor B didn't. The pundits may sound like they know what they're talking about, but they're really just guessing.

One thing already debated, and sure to get more attention in the weeks ahead, is the role of attack advertising. The tactics which seemed to have worked so well in the past in some cases fell flat this election.

We may or may not have seen the anti-attack backlash in some of the more local races. But in some of the bigger contests, it almost certainly had an effect.

In the three-way Republican primary for the 11th District in Congress, Alice Gilbert came out swinging against David Honigman. He tried to play innocent, preening for a higher level of discourse, but his campaign organization matched Gilbert, smear for smear. So, although his hands didn't stay completely clean, that left Joseph Knollenberg to occupy the true high ground.

We're not suggesting that's why he won; obviously his positions, background, impressive organization and the backing of William Broomfield all helped. But we're convinced the tone of the Gilbert and Honigman campaigns worked against those candidates.

Another clear example is probably the Democratic primary for Wayne County sheriff, where Kevin Kelley came out swinging early and hard against the incumbent, Robert Ficano. The sheriff ended up responding in kind, but Kelley's campaign clearly put forth the more negative image. Boom — a resounding win for an incumbent who, for a variety of reasons, could have been quite vulnerable.

In the Democratic primary for Oakland County executive, Philip Marcuse's bizarre comments on women's fitness political life could only have helped his opponent, Elizabeth Howe, to trounce him. Outside the local area, the most outrageous campaign in the state probably came from Gus Mangopoulos in the 8th District of Congress, whose TV ads — showing incumbent Bob Carr with other images like an aborted fetus and two men kissing — landed him a distant last in a four-way Republican primary.

We hope this points out a lesson to the wizards behind the campaigns which lie ahead this November and beyond. It appears that attack ads may have lost their effectiveness, at least for the time being. Let's hope they're gone for good.

Facts, fiction and elections

Fact and fiction... tricky concepts these days, especially as they relate to politics and elections.

Maybe you saw the brochure titled "Facts not Fiction" which came out shortly before this week's primary election. Chances are good that you didn't; it doesn't appear to have had a large distribution. It supposedly came from a group of independent people called Citizens for Accurate Editorial Content, and it was quite simply an assault on the Record and one of our reporters, Mike Tyree.

A sampling of its contents: The flier accuses Mike, among other things, of "insidious and deliberate attempts to control our thinking." "... this scandal mongering has damaged and impacted on each of us — lessening our home values and making our community the target of ridicule and disparaging comments." "It is time to protect ourselves and our communities from the special interests and lack of ethics and morals The Northville Record has exhibited..."

To this lay person's eye, the publication violated state law at least twice.

By accusing the Record of publishing "lies and innuendo," "false and erroneous information" about political candidates, it libeled us. More than one scandal-plagued politician in recent weeks has complained about our coverage, threatened us with legal action, and publicly slammed our integrity. Not once have they pointed out a single untruth. Not once.

Now as I say so often, we're not perfect. Like everyone, we make mistakes. But when people point out errors of fact in the paper, we correct them. We haven't had to do that over this election. The offer's always good — anyone who knows of a mistake, please call.

The other apparent violation is of state election law, which requires groups like this alleged organization to file papers. This one hasn't.

But set aside those things for a moment. Also set aside the fact that these "independent citizens" get the luxury of complete anonymity in making their charges. And set aside the fact that their main headline — "We're mad as hell, and we're not going to take it any more" — paraphrases an unstable and ultimately deranged movie character who ended up killing himself.

What about the complaints? Has the paper been unfair? Has the paper caused Northville to become a laughingstock in surrounding areas? Has the paper caused a drop in Northville property values?

My answer: of course not, three times over.

Mike's reporting is scrupulously fair. If some of it has reflected badly on officeholders, that's because of what was being reported, not how. The flier says this was all a conspiracy to hide Karen Baja's supposed lack of qualifications for township supervisor. That would mean there's an awful lot of gullible people out there — including the Chamber of Commerce board, which unanimously endorsed Baja, and the township voters, who elected her Tuesday almost three-to-one.

Now, it's news to me that Northville has become the butt of jokes in our neighboring communities. It's harder still to picture the Record being the cause; its circulation outside Northville is not exactly staggering, (it's supposed to be.)

And the property-values accusation just boggles my mind. Sure, the real estate market is a little slow right now (all over), but I haven't seen any drop in housing prices around here. If your home's value is falling, be sure to call your assessor; you can save a bundle in taxes.

Oddly, a couple of the flier's points make sense. It encourages people to disregard the Record's endorsements; while I wouldn't go quite that far, we always encourage people to seek out alternate opinions and make up their own minds. For heaven's sake, newspaper endorsements are simply a contribution to the debate, not a directive.

But my favorite line is unquestionably this: "Our local, home town newspaper should be working to inform us, to provide objective information, not attempting to destroy our leaders and our reputation throughout the area." Hear, hear. That's a pretty good summary of what we've always been about, and always will be.

Reflections on the primary

Michigan's political system is changing.

Not through voter anger, although there's plenty of that, but through the old-fashioned mechanisms that have driven our politics for half a century. Population shifts, mainly from cities to suburbs, and the redistricting that comes every 10 years, have given Oakland and Wayne County suburbs larger counts in the 1990 census than the city of Detroit.

Consider Michigan's delegation to the U.S. Congress. Population losses cut our quota of representatives from 18 to 16. Redistricting, plus tough primary fights, plus age, plus frustration led six congressmen unexpectedly to decide to retire.

Among these were some seriously senior members, like Bill Broomfield, Bob Traxler, Dennis Hertel and Howard Wolpe. It will take another generation for Michigan to regain the clout in Washington it has today.

Likewise, the clout held in Lansing by inner cities is eroding under the steady pressure of population shifts to the suburbs.

The entire state House was redistricted this year. The biggest primary fights took place around the periphery of Detroit, where districts were pushed out, putting into sudden retirement a series of previously secure, white, Democratic reps.

The political system is still in crisis, but don't for a moment think that this primary has been without consequence.

Negative advertising is still all the rage.

We had mudslinging in the 11th Congressional District (Dave Honigman versus Alice Gilbert). We saw character assassination in the 7th (favorite Joe Schwartz versus long shot Brad Haskens). And we experienced real attack politics in the race for Wayne County Sheriff (Bob Ficano versus Kevin Kelley).

We saw literally obscene television advertising on behalf of John Mangopoulos, a (fortunately) unknown Republican running against favorite Dick Chrysler for the GOP nomination in the 6th Congressional District. The spot showed men kissing, aborted fetuses and a naked boy.

After this systematic assault on our public sensibilities, one is tempted to ask, why? The answer is clear: Negative works. And until it doesn't, politicians will be tempted to use it.

One reason it works is it gets coverage in the media.

The sanctimonious two-faced media monster is loose once more in the land.

On one hand, editorial writers grandly tut-tut about negative ads, while the news side plays up the mudslinging and resolutely refuses to cover any of the serious issue positions of the candidates. The Detroit Free-News Sunday paper was the worst, heading page one coverage with a roundup devoted entirely to mudslinging.

Ask any candidate about his or her success in getting the media to cover an issue-oriented campaign, and you'll get one mad candidate.

Conclusion: We in the media ought to clean up our own act before we dump on the politicians again.

It's high time to demand action

To the editor:

There are many of us Northville Township residents and taxpayers who are concerned about our township's high taxes. There are also many of us concerned about the safety and health hazards of the old, abandoned and blighted buildings of the institution along Sheldon and Five Mile roads in our township. Then what naturally follows is that most of us should be very upset over the fact that the area is not only an ugly scar on our community but a drain on our taxes. While this area is a "black hole for our tax dollars," immediately adjacent to this property south of Five Mile Road, Plymouth Township has a very attractive industrial park (Metro West Industrial Park) which not only is making good use of the land but bringing in substantial tax revenues, taking advantage of the location near the freeway (M-14), yet away from residential areas.

Now I realize there have been efforts to sell and develop the land in question. But given the nearby successes of (seemingly) more aggressive, more progressive efforts and actions of Plymouth Township officials and business leaders, Northville Township is being left in the dust, holding the tax burden and blight and all the problems that go with it.

I would encourage our (Northville Township's) citizens to take a short, leisurely drive through Metro West. Then, take a less pleasing drive or walk through the broken glass, open sewers, trash, decaying buildings that you'll find on your side of Five Mile Road. Plymouth's south side of the road is bustling with vitality, growing and progressive—an asset to the community, representing substantial tax base. Our side of the road is an eyesore, represents inaction and short-sightedness of our county, township and business leaders and is a tax drain for us.

It is time more of our community speak out and demand action on this issue—NOW! Plymouth continues to garner more new businesses and residents to their jewel while we sit idly nearby and watch and wonder. The possibilities are endless in what we could develop in the area—industrial park; up-scale condos and housing; a golf course; an up-scale, classy, small shopping mall; a hotel and some top-drawer restaurants. Compare these to what we currently have and it's no contest. Come on, Northville Township, let's go for it, let's do it—soon.

Don't miss production of Fiddler

To the editor:

Genitti's Players in Fiddler on the Roof.

This is a show you will want to see just to observe the scenery and changes that can be done on a small stage. Not only will you marvel at the magic of the background, you will enjoy the music and story. Excellent voices carried this lively, spirited theme of the "Matchmaker."

The ingenuity of the props makes this setting unique in a room that seats more than you expect, but is not crowded. It only lends to the feeling of being with the 23 characters and action that takes you into the streets and homes of the Jewish community.

The small orchestra was strong enough to be just right for the singers and size of the room. The score was fitting for the production and well done for the number of musicians. The voice of the cast blended well, creating songs you tapped your feet to or just sat back and became engulfed in the situation.

Lighting was effective and brought out the various plots that carried the story.

A small stage but the dancing was not inhibited—well choreographed.

In this cozy setting of the Masonic Temple, everyone could hear all the words and see the action.

The Genittis have done it again—a family that cares about their town and brings programs to keep activities here in Northville.

Whether you go for the meal or just the show, it's well worth the experience and a pleasant evening.

This is not an amateur group, but professionals doing a professional production. The only drawback is some of the makeup on the men, but one needs to remember—we are close to the action.

Take your family to see this show in a comfortable setting close to home.

Statements should be answered

To the editor:

In a letter to the editor published a few weeks ago the former supervisor of Northville Township, Georgina Goss, made some statements that should be answered. In her letter Mrs. Goss stated, "Mr. McNeely remembers that he was given 30 days notice to resign or be fired, but he forgets the specific reasons..."

The reason for the firing was that I refused to abandon my plan to save the township millions of dollars in the method used to transport and treat Northville Township's wastewater as opposed to the WTUA system. The method, which I had explained to Mrs. Goss, Clerk Thomas Cook, and then-Treasurer (now Township Manager) R. Henningsen, has been effectively buried by the secrecy clause which was insisted upon by Maurice Breen (then supervisor of Plymouth Township) and was included in my contract with WTUA. Effectively, Breen dictated to Goss the termination of the services of my firm, McNeely & Lincoln.

Additionally, Mrs. Goss refers to "...frivolous lawsuits instituted by Mr. McNeely that were thrown out of court..." In fact, I filed a petition with the Michigan State Tax Tribunal because of the gross inequities in the special assessment roll for the Haggerty Road Sanitary Sewer District. My petition was dismissed by the Tax Tribunal but not because it was without merit. Northville Township requested dismissal because "petitioner has made no substantive allegations that he will suffer any damage different than that of any other taxpayer." Even though I knew of massive inequities I could not bring them to light. If I wasn't financially hurt I couldn't complain.

My petition was never reviewed by the Tax Tribunal. The six items which I listed, plus one which has come to light since October 1989 (a tens-of-thousands-of-dollars benefit to the owner of land in Plymouth Township, who was at the time, and still may be, the landlord of Maurice Breen, Suzie Helntz and the Township's legal consultant Law, Hemming, Essad & Polaczky), are in fact an improper assessment to the Haggerty Road Sanitary Sewer District of approximately one million dollars.

My petition was not frivolous. Edward J. McNeely

Movement will keep on going

To the editor:

I felt a need to respond to the July 27 article on the "closing" of our local Perot Petition Campaign Headquarters. Northville residents were among the state's most active participants in the Perot campaign. From Northville's coordinator (Sheri Kahn) to the editor of Michigan's Perot newsletter (Jean Bryant) to the many individuals and groups that passed around petitions, we generated enormous political momentum.

Over and over, we heard moderates, liberals and conservatives espouse the same concerns for our nation. We, as a group, were concerned with our eroding job base, the difficulties in starting and running businesses and particularly in the federal deficit. Working in Romulus (at the headquarters for the State of Michigan) I had the opportunity to meet with a large cross

Tips to avoid verbal abuse of child

With children home because of summer vacation, parents have told me that they seem to get into more arguments with their children than they do during the school year. When arguments occur, it is of the utmost importance that parents do not become abusive to their children. Even if children are saying hurtful words, parents must keep in mind that they are the adults and they must act as adults.

Below are listed a few helpful tips to help parents break the habit of verbal abuse. Some of these tips were taken from the book The Psycho- chologically Battered Child by James Garbarmour.

- Learn to recognize the gut feeling that usually precedes an abusive argument. When you feel it coming, go into another room and count to 10, scream into a pillow or hit the floor if necessary.
- When disciplining your child, concentrate on the act, not the child. Your message should be, "I didn't like what you did," not, "I don't like you."
- Write a list of words you never want to use with your kids.
- Substitute a few preposterous terms such as "You chunk of cheese" or "You cucumber casserole" for abusive ones. You can get your message across without going for the jugular.
- Train yourself to start with "I" when you are angry. For example, "I get angry when I see your room is messy" is more constructive than "You lazy slob."

- Write a list of things that set off abusive incidents. Analyze the list and devise ways to avoid those things.
- Get enough sleep and rest. Dealing with children requires patience and humor—two qualities you lose when you're tired or frazzled.
- Be lavish with affection and praise. Children treated as intelligent, good and lovable become just that.

If you are having difficulty dealing with your children this summer, don't hesitate to call Mary Ellen King at 344-1618. We are here to help.

Victorian Festival seeks volunteers

The Northville Community Chamber of Commerce is beginning to work on the return of the Victorian Festival, scheduled for Sept. 18-20.

A committee has been organized and we are presently looking for volunteers to serve on these various committees. If you have any interest, please contact the following chairpersons: publicity, Maria Marcantonio, 980-9979; non-profit, Sarah Minor, 348-8596; Victorian Ball, Kevin Pavlina, 348-8568; entertainment, Jeanne Claire, 348-8238.

This is the fourth year the Victorian Festival will be celebrated. The Friday night parade will be the kick-off for the weekend's events and afterwards the streets will be closed for two days to accommodate the entertainment, fine art market, non-profit food booths and numerous costumed pedestrians. As in the past, we expect the festival to be featured in numerous publications and on local radio and television. Our entire community eagerly looks forward to this event.

The success of the festival, in part, results from having every activity free of charge. To continue this success, we must rely on funding through corporate sponsorships, business donations and individual patrons. While we recognize that the economy is recovering slowly, we ask that you think about the past successes of the Festival when determining how much to donate. Those individuals or companies interested in becoming a sponsor or giving a donation should contact Laurie Marrs at 349-7640.

WEDDING PLANS: It is that time of year again when everyone seems to be getting married. Chamber member Carolyn Arlen of Carolyn's Creations can assist brides when choosing flowers for that special day. Carolyn's Creations offers personalized service—fresh flowers that reflect uniqueness, custom silk arrangements and full service wedding specialties (bouquets, church and reception arrangements).

Even if you are not planning a wedding, Arlen offers these tips when trying the new highest quality Michigan roses—beautiful, fragrant and long lasting (up to one week). For "bent" heads in roses, re-cut rose stem with a sharp knife under water. Put the roses in fresh water to revive in an hour. When bringing "garden variety roses" inside in summertime, cut the roses early in the morning or late in the evening; put the roses in water immediately and "condition" in your refrigerator for about an hour before putting in the home. Roses will last much longer if these tips are followed.

For additional information, contact Carolyn Arlen at 474-4241.

Bashing was inappropriate

To the editor:

I would like to respond to an interview held with Northville Township Clerk Thomas Cook which was printed in the July 23, 1992 issue of The Northville Record. As an elected official of the Township of Northville I find it repulsive that Mr. Cook finds it necessary to bash the City of Northville. I find it difficult to believe that Mr. Cook speaks for the entire population of Northville Township to include its political structure when he states, "People in the township don't want to have that much to do with the city." Obviously, Mr. Cook is like an ostrich with his head in the ground. As we know, many functions that are held within the city are in fact shared functions of both populations, and they occur on a yearly basis. Where has Mr. Cook been? The question may very well be, what does the city have to lose?

Mr. Cook is correct in stating that the city was in full agreement and that they would be doing all of the dispatching. Once it was revealed that the city dispatchers would be let go, the decision of losing such talented, experienced employees raised some concerns with the present administration and the original plan appeared to be inadequate. There is no power struggle on the part of the city. If the truth be known it is that a combined police dispatch would be better served and more effectively administered if the service was implemented in the city rather than the township. This service could be implemented immediately as the present radio equipment that would have been used is in fact housed in the city, not the township, as Mr. Cook reports in his interview.

If joint services ever become a reality then attitudes as displayed by the present township clerk must come to an abrupt halt. Why he must continue his city bashing is beyond our comprehension.

Thanks to all who helped Mack team

To the editor:

I would like to thank the Northville Connie Mack parents who supported us this summer. A special thanks to the parents who traveled with us to West Virginia and Tennessee, cheered us on and kept us looking sharp after many down and dirty ball games.

The team was composed of some very fine ball players: Jerry Bird-sall, Dan Hutchinson, Joe Kalhorn, Ty Kopke, Eric Messner, Andy Nicholas, Aaron Rumberger, Eric Shaw, Kevin Shaw, Andy Smojver, George Smojver, Joe Staknis, Dan Sveller, Choj Wadowski and Dan Walsh.

Several more thanks: Scott Baldwin for our away jerseys. Chack Apligan and Tim Carney for their coaching expertise and time. Scott Daniel of The Northville Record for his coverage.

My thanks to Dan Shaw for keeping me sane in check and being there when I needed a friend.

An extra special thanks to my wife, Barb, for putting up with everything.

Don't ethics apply to newspapers?

To the editor:

Do ethical standards apply only to township officials? Apparently they do not apply to The Northville Record, based upon Executive Editor Phil Jerome's approval of Mike Tyree's evaluation of Karen Baja for supervisor when in fact they were close friends.

Mrs. Baja was a member of the group that formulated the most recent township ethics policy. At these meetings it was repeatedly stressed that situations that appear to be unethical, whether they are or not, must be avoided. She must have known that her friendship with Mike Tyree at this time would certainly raise ethical questions when it was common knowledge that Mike would be an active participant in the Record's recommendation process for supervisor.

There is absolutely no question that Mike Tyree was unethical (by elected official standards) when he openly conducted interviews with both Mrs. Lennox and Mrs. Baja and participated in the recommendation process. He should have removed himself; instead he arrogantly proceeded to propagate his obvious bias.

How can readers believe Mike Tyree in the future when he blatantly operates with a double ethical standard?

School Board adopts revised pay-to-play plan crease the $100 fee for co-curricular activities.

Rezmierski said the costs to pay the athletic director's $30,000 annual salary, coupled with the $6,000 wage the athletic trainer earns and the expense of reinstating the ninth-grade sports program, is to blame for the higher participation fees.

Not knowing the total costs of running the ninth-grade sports program—including transportation expenses—is what prevented Rezmierski from giving board members, parents, and students a firm dollar figure Monday night.

That figure has yet to be determined, the superintendent said. Since drafting his recommendation, Rezmierski said he has not yet met with the athletic director and the district's business manager to crunch the new figures into the old formula.

"We will do that and get it out ASAP," Rezmierski said. "The minimum fees will go up if the board accepts this recommendation. But all the figures will have to be calculated."

The revised version of the plan surprised some members of the ad hoc Committee and Athletic Director Dennis Colligan, who questioned Rezmierski about the changes after the meeting.

Rezmierski, who sat in on the deliberations of the 14-member committee throughout its 15 hours of debate over the pay-to-participate issue, told committee member Scott Wilson he couldn't justify eliminating the ninth-grade program after hearing comments made by citizens at last Thursday's study session that dealt with the issue.

Furthermore, he said once he made the decision to bring that program back he couldn't see it thriving under the auspices of a part-time athletic director or trainer.

In presenting his plan, Rezmierski warned the crowd that packed the board room that adhering to their wishes and restoring the ninth-grade program would cost them.

"It is a matter of equity," he said. "This is a major issue. . . and, mark my words, this will not go easy financially. But if we are a community, as represented by the school district, we need to provide a program for all students to the best of our ability."

"It is supposed to be a program for all kids and I don't know how I can do it by eliminating the ninth-grade program," he said.

According to school officials and freshman sports from the original pay-to-participate program was a cost-effective move. School officials said retaining the program would put additional financial and transportation burdens on an already overextended or stretched district budget.

Since junior varsity teams could piggyback on varsity team buses and ninth-grade teams would have to use separate buses, the costs for keeping the freshman sports program alive was higher, committee members decided.

But dropping the ninth-grade program didn't fly with some parents or with Rezmierski.

For Elaine Vince, the parent of an incoming freshman who spoke out against the committee's plan last week, the new version was just what she wanted to hear in spite of its higher price tag.

"I really hoped he (Rezmierski) would reconsider his recommendation to reinstate the ninth-grade sports," she said. "He made a good decision and everyone will benefit."

Rezmierski's plan won unanimous but hesitant approval from the seven-person board.

Trustee Jean Hansen, who vehemently opposes the notion of a pay-to-participate program, said she believes providing both athletics and co-curricular activities is a fundamental part of providing public education. Unfortunately, she said the idea of moving toward a pay-to-participate program mirrors trends that are looming on the educational horizon.

"It is a trend," she said. "Not only in our district but in districts across the state and country are being chased by this kind of change. It's an omen to what is shaping up to be the future of public education."

Letters/Primary election

McCotter would show integrity

To the editor:

Much of the publicity and the campaign literature in the Wayne County Commissioners' race focuses on what at best can be considered questionable activities of Maurice Breen.

A number of citizens, remembering that I once served on the Schoolcraft Board of Trustees, have drawn a parallel between Maury Breen's involvement with some of the contracts awarded in Plymouth Township and the decision of Schoolcraft College to hire Bob Law's firm to represent the college. As you may remember, under the leadership of Mary Breen, Maury's wife, the college board shifted much of its legal business to Bob Law, who is a close personal friend of the Breens. This change of legal services was controversial, since open competitive bidding was originally not part of the process in the hiring of Bob Law's firm. The college trustees were not obligated by college guidelines to participate in an open, objective process. I felt it was essential, since we were using tax dollars to pay for legal services, that the contract be determined on a competitive basis. When the final vote was taken, a majority of the Schoolcraft board supported Mary Breen's approach and awarded the contract to her friend, Bob Law. To bring focus to this poor public policy decision, I resigned from the Schoolcraft Board of Trustees.

For the record, the citizens in this area should remember that only Trustees Harry Greenleaf and Thaddeus McCotter were significantly involved in trying to make the process open and competitive. In fact, it was McCotter who successfully sponsored a motion to open the process to interviews after a similar earlier motion had failed.

I am certain that if Thaddeus McCotter is elected to the Wayne County Commission his great sense of integrity and trustworthiness would serve the citizens in this area well.

Column fails to serve the readers

To Mike Tyree:

This letter is regarding your column dated July 2, and your constant harping on Representative Georgina Goss. I feel you have failed your readers by not doing true investigative reporting. For example, if you had done your homework you would know that it is thought that Representative Goss was responsible for the recent Earthquake in California, she has been linked to the hole in the ozone layer and rumor has it, that she is standing in the way of obtaining a peaceful solution to the crisis in the Middle East. In case you miss the point, I feel that you lacked objectivity when you wrote your column about Representative Georgina Goss. You seem particularly interested in creating controversy. I suppose that helps sell newspapers. Additionally, as to your comments about her taking PAC contributions, if the well-meaning media is truly concerned about candidates taking PAC contributions, then why not try something innovative and give them free space in your paper; that way they won't have to raise so much money to run for office. Moreover, I would like to think that you would be more sensitive to the fact that it is particularly difficult for women candidates to raise money and that it has kept women from winning in the past.

Robert L. Gasaway

Editor's note: We invite all local candidates to for interviews which we print as direct transcriptions — a chance for them to communicate with the readers at length and for free.

O'Brien can get township back on track

To the editor:

Northville Township sorely needs to "Get on track" for progress. Because of her past services, Barbara O'Brien has proven she is knowledgeable and qualified, sincere and reliable, earnest and devoted to serving our community.

Look over all the choices, but vote for Barbara for Northville Township Trustee. She's the one to serve us best.

Time for a change in township

To the editor:

It does matter who represents us in Township Hall — and it is time for a change.

1992 has not been a pretty year in Northville Township government. Perhaps previous years have been just as ugly — but "politics as usual" have kept the lid on until The Northville Record began to ask some tough questions of the people who supposedly represent "our" interests. Northville Township government needs to be opened up and let the light of full community participation shine in.

How have our elected Township officials treated you? Let me count the ways:

- Democracy and due process were thrown out the window (not to mention decency and fair play) last fall in the selection process of the current Township Supervisor. The rumors of back room deals and good old boys and girls club became a reality as the current Board of Trustees elevated one of their own — violating their stated public open process at every turn. I was told at the time that the Northville Township "power brokers" were going to do as they wanted and citizen input be damned. The selection of the current Township Supervisor is tainted by the total and blatant disregard for the public process and the citizens' right to know.

- Appointments, without competitive bids, of politically connected individuals and firms to lucrative contracts — the clear appearance of "sweetheart deals."

- Top elected Township officials were collecting medical benefits and pensions and telling other "part time" employees that the Township could not afford such perks.

- Talk admirably about "ethics in government" and then take "free lunches" and golf outings from those they are charged with regulating.

- The current Township elected officials lack a clear vision for the future of our community.

- Betty Lennox's campaign material has been an insult to the voters of Northville. Mrs. Lennox, you are running against Karen Baja, not Coleman Young. Your latest campaign brochure attempts to play racial politics — this type of campaign does not belong in Northville or America. I trust the voters of Northville will see past your racist attempt at Detroit bashing.

- The Township officials seem more interested in blaming The Northville Record for reporting the news than owning up to the problems and dealing with them. Don't shoot the messenger — clean up your act — or better yet, clean out your desks.

The list could go on. Think back over the past year and I am certain you can recall your favorite antics our Township officials engaged in.

Northville is a wonderful place to live and raise a family — we need to keep it that way. The decisions our elected officials make in the next few years will affect us all for years to come. We need new leaders — willing to lead and not afraid to ask the community for input.

There are choices for Supervisor, Clerk and the Trustees positions. My father used to tell me when someone offered you a choice you should take it. Dad, I plan to take your advice and I hope others will as well.

If you believe Northville is headed in the right direction — vote for the incumbents. If you want change vote for it. Vote Tuesday, Aug. 4.

The barber's post at Jack's Barber Shop on Dunlap is a trademark of a traditional barber. Inside this shop, however, the people are what keep the tradition alive.

Ed Barry takes a little bit off the sides for regular customer Robert Hock.

THE CUTTING EDGE

SHARON CONDRON
Staff Writer

There are a lot of reasons people go to a barber shop, and a good haircut at a reasonable price isn't the only one.

Few have speculated on the question; many have a definitive answer.

It's tradition, most say. Others think it's the quality of service. And still others believe they are just getting a good deal.

But it's more than that, say a trio of local barbers at Jack's Barber Shop on Dunlap in Northville, the area's oldest shop.

It's the camaraderie.

Men bond there. They banter with each other. They talk about "male things." They show off their sons and grandsons.

There bright-eyed little boys attached securely to the fingertips of their fathers and grandfathers learn a little bit about life and a lot about growing up.

Greeted at the door with a familiarity that mirrors that of their paternal heroes, timid little boys become brave and loosen their grip. Eagerly they climb into the chair and feel safe as daddy's buddy cuts their hair.

Boys remember that feeling. It's safe and familiar. They pass it on generation after generation. It's become a tradition, an institution of sorts. It's a coming of age, a rite of a passage.

A special thing only daddies and sons share. And a memory that lasts a lifetime.

People laugh there and laugh aloud. They talk sports and news and share stories. Barbers know the talk on the streets. They know the gossip and the facts and all sorts of personal things about their clientele. They've become chairside confidantes and everybody is on a first-name basis.

What makes it all an integral part of growing up and allows barbers to withstand tough economic times like those of late, is the camaraderie.

Local choir serenades European congregation

Northville residents John and Barbara Frank were among 44 enthusiastic, and musically synchronized, members of the Plymouth Counsellors Choir to perform in several of the major cultural centers of central Europe in June.

Under the direction of Dr. Michele Johns, the choir consisted largely of parish choir members from Our Lady of Good Counsel Catholic Church, Plymouth, with additional choir members from Our Lady of Victory Catholic Church, Northville. Together the group, along with its handbell choir, spent 11 days performing five major concerts in the Cathedral of Salzburg, Voithkirche of Vienna; St. Stephen Church of Baden, Austria; St. Jacob Church of Dachau, Germany; and the Cathedral of St. Laurent of Strasbourg, France.

"We had a marvelous time," John Frank said. "The reception we received from the audience was marvelous."

Frank said the architectural designs of these cathedrals and churches provided a rare acoustical experience for the choir.

One of the many highlights of the trip was singing in some of the most prominent and beautiful cathedrals in the world. A personal highlight of Frank's was being able to sing solo in one of the cathedrals before a European crowd.

"I sing solos here, but I don't get to sing in front of European audiences in huge, huge cathedrals too often," he said.

The four- and eight-part focused blend of the Latin, "Gloria In Excelsis Deo" or the very beautiful sounds of Mozart's "Ave Verum Corpus" almost suggested a centuries-old monastic setting, as the sounds of this beautiful music returned in reverberation for several seconds. An informal concert was also performed with the Dachau Community Choir in the Dachau Concert Hall.

This cultural exchange provided an excellent opportunity for hosts and visitors alike to experience and enjoy a personal association with each other through the common bond of music.

Of special interest to audiences were the performances of The Plymouth Counsellors Bell Choir. The exclusive use of handbells in an instrumental solo performance or in accompaniment is very unusual in Europe; however, in recent years they have become extensively used in religious liturgies and concerts in the United States.

The choir's participation in the sacred liturgies at the Cathedrals of Salzburg and Strasbourg included the Latin presentation of Missa Secunda by Hans Leo Hassler; as well as Johannes Brahms, "Schaffe in Ir Gott" (Create in Me, O God); sung in both English and German. Other churches and concert selections included: "Ave Maria," "This Is The Day the Lord Has Made," "Salvation Is Created," an American favorite, "Beautiful Savior," and several others. Austrian audiences especially appreciated "Ave Verum Corpus" by Mozart.

Several opportunities to explore and savor the pleasures of playing some of Europe's oldest and most unusual organs were presented to the four professional organists who accompanied the choir on this tour. None was so enjoyed more than the organ designed and constructed by Andreas Silberman in 1710 in the Abbey at MarMoutier, located near Strasbourg, France. In addition to Dr. Michele Johns, these accomplished organists were Kay Ray and Sue Lindquist of Plymouth, and Sr. Christine Gvetka of Bay City, Mich. Sue Lindquist also presented the audiences with very talented solo and accompaniment performances on the flute. Nearly all appearances included organ solos by each of the organists.

This musical journey through central Europe provided ample opportunity for group tours and individual sightseeing for the choir, and the nearly 60 guests who accompanied them on the tour. The churches, museums and other buildings, both public and private, with the dominance of baroque and neo-baroque architecture, exhibited a definite European preference to maintain and preserve a centuries-old traditional way of life.

"We all got to do a tremendous amount of sightseeing in spite of the rigid schedule we had," Frank said.

"It was just a real memorable experience...one we will never forget," Frank said.

Traveling with the choir were three trained video programmers who managed to tape the choir in action to be broadcast on local cable stations at a later date.

Technology fosters future scientists' curiosity

By SHARON CONDRON
Staff Writer

They were supposed to use technology to learn about math and science. But instead more than a dozen future young scientists from Meads Mill and Cooke middle schools used a summer school program to develop a middle school recycling program.

A paradox? Not likely. These seventh-graders completed all their assigned work in a unique summer school program and decided to use the resources available to them to devise an innovative solution to a problem. After all, isn't that what scientists do — find solutions to problems?

Thanks to their efforts, students returning to both middle schools this fall will be asked to recycle paper and plastics used in classrooms and in lunchrooms. Collection bins will be monitored by students and put in strategic places on the school's premises, students said.

The recycling program is an outgrowth of a voluntary four-week program called Wayne County Math-Science NETWORK. NETWORK is a state-funded program designed to keep females and minorities enthusiastic about math and science. The program uses high-tech equipment to afford students the opportunity to explore scientific questions and share resources with other students on-line with the NETWORK.

Seven middle schools participate in math-science NETWORK which links students together by a file server. Access to the server allows two-way communication for students across the metro Detroit area. Students can talk with each other via computers and share resources, information, and ideas they've learned during the month-long summer course.

Katie Singer looks over Chris Farah's shoulder as he calls up the math-science NETWORK file server.

The class, which is taught by Kathleen Mroz, is limited to seventh-graders and participation is hand-selected by school administrators. In it, students perform a number of hands-on activities using computers, laserdiscs, video equipment, a fax machine and a modem.

This year students took soil samples from the school grounds and tested them for organic substances to determine their cultivating ability. They built a barometer and did a host of other scientific-related activities. Each student had his or her individual experiment as well. In addition, students played science-oriented computer games which challenged their abilities and heightened their scientific awareness.

After those are completed, students can delve into their own questions and using technological resources available to them, they are encouraged to find innovative solutions.

That's where the recycling program was conceived.

For Jennifer Taylor, a student at Cooke, the program offered her information about being an ecologist, a job she hopes to pursue in the future.

"I want to be an ecologist when I get older, and the program said it would provide information about ecology," she said. "I thought it would be fun and it looked interesting."

But as it turned out, the students took learning about ecology one step further than the prescribed course work. And they were excited to talk about the comprehensive recycling program they created.

"We knew it (this program) would help," Taylor said.

Kristen Winter agreed. "I know this sounds corny, but we wanted to do our part," she said.

Prior to creating the actual recycling program, students interviewed other Northville students in upper and lower grades enrolled in the district's summer program about recycling. While most in this class recycle now at home, they were surprised to learn that students in the higher grades don't care or know much about recycling.

On Campus

MARY L. DAAVETILA, of Northville, an office administrator major, received the Office Administration Scholar Award from Dr. Sue Rigby, professor and head of the Management, Marketing and Computer Information Systems Department at Northern Michigan University. Daavettila, a 1988 graduate of South Lyon High School, is a member of the Golden Key National Honor Society. Her sister, Jean, is a 1983 graduate of Northern.

Wedding

Martha and Andrew Kallestad

Wedding brings family, friends in from all over

Martha Lindholm of Sylvan Lake, daughter of Janet and Peter Lindholm of Northville; and Andrew Kallestad of Auburn Hills, son of James and Betty Kallestad of Carefree, Ariz., and Remer, Minn., celebrated their double-ring wedding ceremony at Holy Cross Evangelical Lutheran Church in Livonia on April 4. The Rev. William C. Lindholm officiated the ceremony.

The bride wore a white satin fitted gown with a jewel neck and heavily beaded bodice with detachable train and beaded appliques. She carried an arm bouquet of white tulips and pink and white roses.

Cynthia Lindholm, sister of the bride from Boston, was the maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Kelly Bockrath of Jamestown, New York, Susan Bosanko of Sylvan Lake, Terri Johnson of Cincinnati, and Renee White of Sterling Heights. Kirsten Kallestad, niece of the groom from Minnesota, was flower girl.

The bridesmaids wore emerald green sheath dresses with jewel necks and a sash and bow at the hip-line. They carried arm bouquets of white tulips and pink roses.

James Dunlap of Wayzata, Minn., was the best man. Ushers were James Kallestad and John Kallestad, brothers of the groom from Minnesota; and John Patterson and Anders Peterson, also from Minnesota.

A reception for 170 guests was held at Walnut Creek Country Club in South Lyon. Guests came from Massachusetts, Minnesota, New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Missouri, Wisconsin, Illinois, North Carolina, Arizona, Florida and Oklahoma to celebrate.

The couple honeymooned at Whistler Ski Resort in British Columbia, Canada.

The bride is a 1982 graduate of Brighton High School and a 1986 graduate of Northwood Institute. She is employed by AT&T Systems in Lansing.

The groom is a 1982 graduate of Orono High School in Orono, Minn. He is a 1986 graduate of St. Olaf's College and is employed at Prudential Insurance Co.

They will reside in Auburn Hills.

Barbers offer more than just a clean cut, shave

"It's a meeting place, kind of like the local restaurant. You can get all the sports scores here," said Terry McDearmott, one of the hundreds of customers who rely on the local barber shop for a sharp cut and a bit of bantering. "You'd never get a sports score at the beauty shop. You can only get them here."

"It's more of a buddy-buddy thing," he said.

McDearmott is a former partner of Jack's owner Tom Arbanas. Years ago McDearmott and Arbanas shared a shop in Detroit. Now McDearmott, who lives and works in Ann Arbor, travels back to Northville for a "good haircut" and a chance to "chit chat with the guys."

"A lot of kidding goes back and forth," McDearmott said. "There's a lot of sports-oriented stories being told here, whereas in a beauty shop I'd guess you'd hear more soap opera talk."

"It's less formal that a beauty shop," he said. "Heck, sometimes I just come in to chit-chat with the guys and have lunch."

Arbanas, who bought the shop on Dunlap four years ago, has seen it grow in that span from a one-chair shop to a three-chair business. In response to an increase in business, Arbanas has signed on fellow barbers Ed Barry and Steve Tomen to help field the overflow. Together the trio boasts a collective 120 years of barbering experience.

Both Robert Hock and Elmer Balko of Northville, regulars of the shop, know the routine and — like most — they share stories and poke fun at each other and at the staff.

"You get a lousy cut, but the personality is worth coming in for," said Balko, who's been a regular customer of the shop for years. "You can also get advice . . . but it isn't worth much."

Balko, who says jokingly he comes in for the senior citizen's discount rate, brought his two sons in for their first cuts.

"No, they didn't like it because they liked their hair long, but I didn't," Balko said. "But that didn't matter because I was paying for it."

But there's more to it.

Hock, who's lived in Northville since his late teens, remembers coming to Jack's Barber Shop since then. Back then the shop was owned by its founder, Jack Gray, and stood in its former location in the Rathbun Building on Main Street.

"I come here just to get a hair cut," Hock said. "There are nice people here. Nice local people. They treat you good and seniors get a discount."

For Hock and many like him a trip to the barber serves a dual purpose — he gets a haircut and an update on the latest happenings at the local VFW post, where he and Arbanas are both members.

"We talk mostly about the VFW," Hock said. "We are both veterans down there."

A VFW certificate recognizing Arbanas hangs inside the shop and serves as a bridge between Arbanas' personal and professional lives. It's a conversation piece at the shop, too.

Few breakers are needed. Most of the shop's clientele are regulars and they feel free to talk with the barbers about family, friends, and old times.

For Steve Tomen, one in the trio of barbers there, cutting hair is a people-person's job.

"I like the people. Every customer that comes in has a different story," Tomen said. "If you didn't like people you wouldn't be in the business."

"We see third and fourth generations in this business. We get them young, and if they are local we keep them coming back for a long span of time."

Anniversary

Norman and Lyla Witt celebrate their 55th wedding anniversary.

Norman and Lyla Witt of Northville celebrated their 55th wedding anniversary June 28 at their home.

They celebrated with a backyard family picnic and included the putting up of a garage door opener, a gift from the children. The party was hosted by their children, Margaret Segrest of South Lyon, Edith Rasegan of South Lyon, and Fred Witt of Pinckney; their seven grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

Lula Lyke was born in Lyon Township, and Norman was born in Livonia. They were schoolmates and married June 27, 1937, at St. Paul's Lutheran Church in Northville.

Norman is retired, and worked for Ford for 31 years. Lula retired from Old Mill Restaurant and Bel Nor Drive Inn.

They are members of St. Paul's Lutheran Church of Northville. They enjoy their flowers and putting puzzles together.

Q&A

By WILLIAM T. TOMICKI
New York Times Travel Syndicate

Q: Can you recommend a hotel in New Orleans close to the French Quarter but at a distance from the noise and crowds?

A: The Windsor Court Hotel is in the quiet business district between the Riverwalk development on the Mississippi waterfront and the French Quarter.

It is a modern 23-story building with an elegant interior that houses an impressive $6 million collection of British art and antiques.

Among the pieces are works by Thomas Gainsborough, Anthony Van Dyck and Joshua Reynolds.

The Windsor Court has 310 rooms, 254 of which are suites. The hotel's outdoor heated pool is in an area with an outside sound system.

The Grill Room restaurant offers haute cuisine and is the recipient of the American Automobile Association Five Diamond award. For further information contact the Orient-Express Hotels at (800) 237-1236. Information is also available from your local travel agent.

Q: Our family of four wants to take a river trip in the same style as white-water rafting but with a more secure vessel.

A: You may want to run the rivers in a dory — a flat-bottomed, splay-sided wooden rowboat with high upturned ends. Each boat carries four passengers, with hatches to keep gear and belongings dry.

Grand Canyon Dories and Northwest Dories are sister companies which offer guided trips down five American rivers: the Salmon, Snake, Colorado, Owyhee and Grande Ronde.

Trips operate in spring, summer and fall. They range in length from three to 19 days; children as young as 7 years old may participate. Adventurers often bring along inflatable kayaks for exciting side trips.

For further information on schedules, accommodations and rates call Northwest Dories at (800) 877-DORY or Grand Canyon Dories at (209) 738-0805 or write to The Dories, P.O. Box 216, Altaville, Calif. 95221. Information is also available from your local travel agent.

Q: We're interested in hiking in Western Canada and want to join a tour that goes to the area. Any tips?

A: Adventure Canada specializes in adventure travel in British Columbia and Alberta, offering hiking, horseback riding, rafting, wildlife safaris and dinosaur-discovery programs.

In the Canadian Rockies, the company offers a program called The Rockies Panorama, which gives participants the chance to hike, horseback ride and white-water raft during a seven-day trip.

Group sizes are kept small and excursions are fully outfitted with all the necessary gear. Experience is not required, but participants should be in good physical condition. Departures are scheduled through September.

For further information contact Adventure Canada, 227 Sterling Road, Suite 105, Toronto, Ontario M6R 2B2, Canada or call (416) 533-0767. Information is also available from your local travel agent.

Readers are invited to submit questions to William Tomicki, P.O. Box 5148, Santa Barbara, Calif. 93150. Although he cannot answer each query individually, selected questions will be included in his column. Summer vacation at a ski resort?

Aspen is alive with activities before the start of the ski season

By DYAN ZASLOWSKY
New York Times Travel Syndicate

Somehow summer is the best season to observe Aspen functioning as a wholesome little town, not just as a resort driven by skiing.

People do simple, free things: Residents bike to and from work, they play in the parks and older children safely roam the pedestrian mall on their own. So much of what happens in summer occurs beneath one tent or another, but the performances and lectures account for only a portion of Aspen's magnetism.

Along with the town's brimming art and cultural fare it is Aspen's unadorned outdoor beauty that draws ever more devotees.

Few vistas are as gratifying or as easy to reach as the one at the end of the short bus trip from Aspen's Rubey Park Transport Center to Maroon Lake.

From the lake one can tackle a number of hikes of varying difficulty into the back country. Meanwhile, it seems mountain and road biking threaten to overtake hiking in popularity.

After so much daytime exertion, therefore, it is a wonder anyone has the energy to attend a dance concert, a free lecture at the Aspen Institute, a performance at the venerable Aspen Music Festival, or any of the many other entertainments.

Yet they do, although the evening pace slows imperceptibly as the night air cools. After dinner and a concert the day's last activity is often a gentle mall crawl on Hyman Avenue.

Street performers abound and the sidewalks are full of people well into the night. Some shops stay open until 10 p.m. or later — the collegial Explore Booksellers and Coffeehouse at 221 East Main St. is open until midnight in summer and abuzz with browsers.

EVENTS

After 22 summers of performing in the Aspen High School Gymnasium, the DanceAspen festival now commands a state-of-the-art stage in a handsome new 548-seat auditorium at the Aspen Elementary School, a space designed to accommodate any visiting dance troupe.

DanceAspen features seven companies at its new location. Miami City Ballet will perform on Aug. 10, Hubbard Street Dance Company on Aug. 13. Tickets for the festival, which will run through Aug. 22, cost from $5 for matinees to $30 for evening performances. Tickets can be ordered by phone (800-933-3820), or in writing to DanceAspen, P.O. Box 8745, Aspen, Colo. 81612.

The Aspen Music Festival, in its 44th year, will run to Aug. 23. More than 130 events are presented every summer, including orchestral, chamber, opera, choral, jazz and master classes.

Dichter will perform Aug. 13. The Hallam Lake, a peaceful sanctuary in the heart of Aspen, is the site of the Aspen Center for Environmental Studies season closes with a Beethoven Bash. Tickets from $5 to $35. Schedule and tickets: Aspen Music Festival, Ticket Sales, P.O. Box AA, Aspen, Colo. 81612; (303) 925-9042.

A bus costing $2 each way leaves from Rubey Park to Snowmass Village 10 miles away where the Anderson Ranch, an artists' colony that holds gallery exhibitions, is worth visiting. The Anderson Ranch Arts Center Annual Art Auction is Aug. 15; (303) 923-3181.

The Aspen Theatre in the Park performs "Crimes of the Heart," "Burn This" and "The Singular Dorothy Parker" in a tent behind the Aspen Art Museum. Up to four performances a week will be held until Sept. 13.

Tickets cost $15 or $17. Call (303) 925-2750 for tickets, or write Aspen Theatre in the Park, P.O. Box 8677, Aspen, Colo. 81612.

THE OUTDOORS

Mountain biking is a particularly aerobic way to see the country. Bikes can be rented at Timberline Cycle Center below the gondola: The Hub of Aspen, 315 East Hyman Ave.; Blazing Pedals by the Mill Street Fountain and several other bicycle shops. Rates are about $10 and up for road or mountain bikes for a half a day; weekly rates are available.

It is an easy half-day trip by paved road from Ashcroft or along Owl Creek Road, while Aspen Mountain's rugged trails are for the advanced rider only; carrying the bike over certain stretches is not unheard of on the most difficult trails.

Another excursion is fly-fishing for trout on the Roaring Fork River. Ox-bow Outfitters Co., P.O. Box D3, Aspen, Colo. 81612 (303-925-1505), offers fly-fishing clinics every Tuesday from 5 to 7, rents equipment and offers guided fly-fishing trips. A half-day trip for one with all gear costs $150.

Hallam Lake is in a 22-acre wildlife sanctuary in the heart of Aspen, close enough for small children to walk to. Call (303) 925-5756 for information about programs for children and adults. Programs cost up to $3.

HOTELS

One of this season's best deals is the Aspen Arts Package, which offers lodging with one ticket to the music festival, one to DanceAspen and free admission to the Aspen Art Museum and Aspen Historical Society Museum. It also includes a discount coupon to the Aspen Theatre in the Park. It runs through Aug. 22.

Three-night economy packages start at $36 per person per night; double occupancy, up to $76. The package, which has to be reserved 10 days ahead, must be booked through Aspen Central Reservations Travel, (800) 262-7736.

Budget: The Snowflake Inn (800-247-2069), 221 East Hyman Ave., is a simple, modern three-story establishment half a block from the mall. It has a pool and a Jacuzzi. Rooms for two with kitchenettes begin at $95.

The Limelight Lodge (800-433-0832) at 228 East Cooper Ave. is well-maintained and serviceable, with a good location in downtown Aspen; rooms start at $88 for two in summer, including a Continental breakfast.

Ullr Lodge, 520 West Main St. (303-92-7696) is a small family-owned lodge. Rooms for two cost $55 to $85 with Continental breakfast.

Moderate: The Innsbruck Inn (303-925-2980) at 233 West Main St. not surprisingly has Alpine-style decor. Its large two-room units cost $130 a night, including a copious breakfast in a pretty dining room, outdoor heated pool and Jacuzzi.

Luxury: Hotel Lenado (800-321-3457), 200 South Aspen St., re-creates something of the atmosphere of an Adirondack lodge; it is small, with 19 rooms and distinctive log furniture. Rooms range from $135 a night for a room with twin beds to $185 for a room with a queen-size or king-size bed — with wet bar and whirlpool bath. Rates include a full breakfast.

Sardy House (800-321-3457), 128 East Main St., is an elegantly restored Victorian brick house that turned 100 this year. Beautifully landscaped, with a heated swimming pool and hidden brick mews. It has 14 rooms and 6 suites. Rooms cost from $145 to $220 a night; suites from $250 to $375. Rates include full breakfast.

The Little Nell (800-525-6200), 675 East Durant St., which bills itself as Aspen's newest lodge of opulence, has something of a corporate feeling in its decor and atmosphere. Rooms have marble baths, two phone lines and gas-burning fireplaces. A room with a mountain view costs $235, an executive suite, $750. The outdoor heated pool is tiled in black.

RESTAURANTS

ZG, new this summer at 709 East Durant Ave. in the Aspen Club Lodge (303-925-4400), sees the return of Gordon Naccarato, formerly the chef at Gordon's. The food is excellent and creative, with Thai, Japanese and American Southern overtones. Gnocchi with crab, Caribbean scallops and light pan de cota, a creamy dessert with fruit are outstanding. Dinner for two with wine comes to about $140.

A plush Colorado-style interior at Pinons (303-920-2021), 105 South Mill St., makes the most of supple deerskin pillows, rough pine beams and braided leather banisters. Specialties are ahi in macadamia nut bread, elk tournedos, lamb loin and lobster strudel. Delicious mashed potatoes accompany most entrees. Dinner only. Cost for two with wine is about $125.

One of several restaurants of the same name cropping up around the country, Mezzaluna (303-925-5882), 600 East Cooper Ave., is a very popular spot with both locals and visitors. Excellent pasta, such as the penne with spicy tomato sauce, and a tasty buffalo mozzarella and tomato salad. Service is good despite the frenetic pace, and there is a patio for outdoor dining. Dinner for two with wine costs about $60.

Boogies Diner (303-925-6610), 534 East Cooper St. This 50s retro clothing, paraphernalia store and an upstairs diner is particularly loved by children. Hamburgers, hot dogs, salads, lunch specials at $6.95.

Poppycocks (303-925-1245), 609 East Cooper Ave., has excellent oatmeal macadamia nut pancakes, plus sandwiches and soups. It is open for breakfast and lunch (it began serving dinner very recently) and is ideal for families. Breakfast for two costs $15.

SHOPPING

Unusual and reasonably priced souvenirs from Aspen do exist.

At two-year-old Skin (303-920-1447), 645 East Durant Ave., the proprietor Candace Goldfish devotes her own formulas for natural soaps, cleansers, balms and ointments, and packages them in interesting ways. Free-form soaps made from oatmeal, comfrey, milk and honey, or tearose cost $1.50 an ounce.

The Gypsy Woman Shop (no phone), 227 Main St., is an unsung institution of Aspen, where longtime leather worker Chester Goss fashions durable deerskin fringed and beaded handbags; prices start at $80.

Crystal Farm (303-963-2350), 208 South Mill St., is for the extravagant budget. Furniture and chandeliers made from deer antlers are gorgeous to see and costly. Chandeliers from nearby Redstone start at $2,250; a fallow deer antler settee costs $9,500.

Selecting the travel agent who's right for you

By EVERETT POTTER
New York Times Travel Syndicate

This summer's low airfares have been tempting — but often difficult to find.

The reason is simple: The airlines set aside a limited number of seats to sell at an advertised price.

With a computerized pricing system they can monitor, hour by hour, how many seats have been sold and how many are left. Often as the demand changes, so do the fares.

The number of such fare hikes is staggering — as many as 200,000 price shifts per day during the recent airfare wars.

What's a consumer to do? One recourse is to find a trained travel agent who is equipped with a travel computer network that keeps up, second by second, with the new rates.

Preferably that would be a major computer-reservations system, such as American Airlines' Sabre or United Airlines' Apollo network.

In fact, more travelers are using the services of agents, according to statistics gathered by the American Society of Travel Agents (ASTA), which represents more than 20,000 agencies in 129 countries.

STA estimates that 80 percent of all air tickets are now booked by travel agents. So are 40 percent of all hotel reservations and 95 percent of all cruise reservations.

But choosing a travel agent can be difficult.

"You should choose a travel agent the same way you would pick a doctor or a lawyer — by asking friends and relatives to recommend one," says Emily Porter, a spokeswoman for ASTA.

"It's important to visit the agency and to ask questions. Equally important are the questions they ask you, to determine your interests, your budget, where you've been and where you'd like to go.

"Find out if they've been to the destination or taken the cruise line you're considering."

Travel agencies run the gamut from local mom-and-pop shops to well-equipped branches of major travel agencies such as American Express and Carlson Travel Network. Some will book anything and everything; others are specialists, making reservations only, for example, on cruises.

"I always encourage people to speak with the owner or manager of a travel agency," says Brian Robb, vice president of retail marketing for Carlson Travel Network, which has 1,300 branches across the United States.

"That first contact is the most important. That person should be able to steer you to the agent who can best help you, to the one who knows cruises, for example, or resorts.

"You don't want to find yourself speaking with an agent who only does business travel and can book a Hyatt or the shuttle, but has never done resorts before."

Robb prefers agencies that "are in tune with the local scene, but are connected to what the large, national operators are doing."

A good idea is to find an agent who is also a certified travel counselor. To earn this distinction, an agent must be in business five years and finish a series of courses.

Out of an estimated 200,000 agents nationwide, only about 14,000 agents earn the final degree. For further information contact the Institute of Certified Travel Agents at 148 Linden St., P.O. Box 812059, Wellesley, Mass. 02181-0012 or call (800) 542-4282. They can provide a list of certified agents in your area.

A good agent should also have an automatic fare-checker program that quickly searches for the lowest fare. If an airfare drops after the reservation is made, does the agency have the ability to change a reservation?

Carlson Travel Network uses AccuSystem, a program that "continually pulls the reservation system and judges favorable changes," says Robb.

How about consumer protection in case the traveler has a less-than-positive experience with a travel agent?

"In this recession we've seen a lot of telemarketing scams," says Porter of ASTA. "A week's vacation in Hawaii for $89, that sort of thing. Our rule of thumb is, 'If it sounds too good to be true it probably is.'"

Porter advises travelers never to give a credit-card number over the telephone, especially to an unfamiliar agent, and to be wary of brochures and newspaper ads promising the moon.

She urges travelers to get information from the local Better Business Bureau or the ASTA Consumer Affairs department, which monitors complaints about travel agents.

Robb of the Carlson Network recommends that travelers take out travel insurance to protect themselves.

He also stresses that "you should ask the travel agent about supplier protection" — in case, for instance, an airline or a cruise line goes bankrupt while you are holding or using a ticket.

He notes that members of the United States Tour Operators Association (USTOA) — including tour companies, airlines and cruise lines — have an insurance bond that allows an agent to book them with confidence.

For free information on choosing an agent contact ASTA, 1101 King St., Alexandria, Va. 22314 or call (703) 739-2782.

Ryan Huzjak got a taste of things to come Saturday at the 12th annual Michigan High School All Star Football game in East Lansing.

The former Northville quarterback took some tough hits and showed why he was the most prolific passer in Mustang history as he competed among the state's best. Huzjak, who started the game, came up on the losing side as the West blitzed the East 20-0.

"It was great to play with the best players in the state," he said after the game. "In the back of your mind you always wonder if you can compete. I think I competed just fine."

The 1992 graduate will continue his grid career this fall at the University of Toledo. Huzjak, who led Northville to the state semi-finals as a junior, will battle for a starting job with the Rockets in his first year.

The teenager teamed with Allen Park's Brian Nycz to quarterback the East. The duo alternated, playing every other offensive series.

Huzjak did the bulk of the East's passing, however. He hit on 6 of 16 attempts for 46 yards.

"It was hard to get into a rhythm," Huzjak commented. "But we did the best we could."

Besides the rotation system, the former Mustang had to deal with a tough West defense. Twice, Huzjak was blindsided by West defenders that tore through the East offensive line, sometimes untouched.

In all, the West piled up four quarterback sacks. The East managed only 96 yards of total offense.

"The West is a whole lot bigger than the East," Farmington Harrison coach John Herrington observed before the game.

The West made use of that size advantage in the second half.

After a scoreless first half, the West pounded the ball down the throats of the East. Behind the bruising running of Cheboygan's Shannon Scarbrough, the West scored on an eight-play drive at the 7:58 mark. Scarbrough used his 6-foot-3, 225-pound frame to batter the East. He led all rushers with 54 yards and two touchdowns.

The West's final two scores came with just a few minutes remaining in the game.

Scarbrough capped a five-play drive with a one-yard touchdown dive. After receiving the ball on downs, the West's Jim Gilmer ran 25 yards for the score and the gun sounded to end the game at 20-0.

The West's offensive troubles were evident from the start.

After two short runs, Huzjak faced a third-down with seven yards to go. As he dropped back to throw, Scarbrough broke through the line and nailed Huzjak for a 15 yard loss.

The former Mustang's next action came with just 1:27 left in the first quarter.

This time, Huzjak came out throwing and just missed tight end Pete Chryplewicz. Facing a third and 13, he completed his first pass of the day to Detroit Central's William Riggins for 15 yards and a first down.

As the second quarter began, Huzjak seemed to have the West on a march.

On first down on the East 42, he hit Roy Granger for six yards and then Chryplewicz for 11 more. On third down at the West 41, Huzjak was hit from behind by Traverse City's Paul Wills. The ball fell out of his hand and was ruled incomplete, forcing the East to punt.

With less than three minutes to go in the half, Huzjak moved the East again.

Starting at their own 32, hit Granger with a 34-yard bomb. Now at the West 34, the East offense stalled. A field goal attempt from the 32 was blocked and the game remained scoreless.

Huzjak played in only one series in the third. But it was an exciting series.

Wasting no time, Huzjak let loose with a bomb down the right sideline intended for Granger, but led the receiver about three yards too much. The two tried the same play on third down. Again the pass was long. Though Granger dove and got a hand on the ball, he couldn't hang on.

Huzjak played in two series in the fourth quarter. He completed one more pass in the period, but failed to get his team on the scoreboard.

"I'm never happy when we lose," Huzjak said. "It could have been different except for a few key plays."

He added that the game was a little different from those in his Mustang years.

"The game itself is a lot faster," Huzjak explained. "But I got used to the first day of practice."

Despite the risk of injury, he said he wanted to play against the best before his college career started. Huzjak added that the experience will better prepare him for what is to come.

"This helped further my training," he said.

Dixie Stars charge through junior series undefeated

Lexington dumps N.Y. in final

It's a good thing these guys didn't fight the Civil War.

Using an offensive attack that would have made Lee proud, the Dixie Stars marched through the National Amateur Baseball Federation Junior World Series last weekend en route to its third championship in five years.

Trailing 5-2 in Sunday's championship game, the Lexington, Ky. team exploded for three homers and six runs in the fifth inning to move past the Long Island Tigers and win the tournament 9-5. The Stars' finished undefeated in the series with six wins.

Host Northville came closest to beating the champs. A seventh-inning home run gave Lexington a 5-4 win over Northville Saturday (see related story).

In all, nine clubs competed in the series, which was shortened a day because of rain. Washington, Ohio, New York, and Maryland all sent teams, as did Windsor.

Sunday's final turned out to be the second meeting of Lexington and Long Island in the tournament. An early-round game saw the Stars whip the Tigers 13-8.

It looked as if New York would change its fortunes in the early going of the rematch, however.

Long Island's Matt Seitz started the game on the mound and looked sharp through the first three innings. In fact, the Tiger hurler didn't allow a hit until the third, when Lexington got two to score its first run.

New York batters, meanwhile, wasted no time in getting on the scoreboard.

In the first, the Tigers scored one as Steve Kreytak singled home Mike Fleming from third base. Long Island added single runs in the second and third innings.

Ahead 3-2 going into the bottom of the fourth, the Tigers added two more. Casey Kubelka reached on an error to lead off the inning.

After two outs, he scored from third base on a passed ball by Lexington catcher Rod Smith. A second run scored on an RBI single by Chris Faruol.

That 5-2 lead quickly evaporated in the fifth for New York.

Eric Baugh was hit by a pitch to lead off the inning for Lexington. Jason Ratliff then sent a rocket over the left field fence to cut the lead to 5-4.

After a walk, Long Island changed pitchers. But the Tigers' Rob Fox was rudely greeted by the Stars' Jon Case with a towering homer to left. Kentucky scored two more on a third blast, this time off the bat of Tony Blackburn.

Dixie's outburst seemed to steady pitcher Jim Osting. After allowing five

Northville goes in 0-2 in tournament

Some losses just can't be recovered from.

Northville's opening-round World Series loss to Lexington, Ky., falls into that category. With the locals leading 4-3 in the bottom of the seventh, Billy Blythe of the Dixie Stars connected on a two-run home run to give the Lexington team a heart-breaking win over Northville.

Coach George Surdu said his Mickey Mantle squad was devastated by the defeat. But, he said, he was very pleased with the way his team battled Kentucky.

"It made me very proud of them," Surdu commented. "I told them it was the best game they've played all year. By far."

The Stars power carried them to the Northville-hosted National Amateur Baseball Federation Junior World Series title. Lexington hit 14 home runs in six games. Shortstop Rob Hauswald tied a series record with five homers while Blythe had four.

"The thing that amazed me about Dixie was that they were behind every game and won all six," Surdu said. "I've never seen such a strong team. We were the only team that stayed really close to them."

Northville's ace Steve Christenson started and went the distance on the mound for Surdu. The locals wasted little time in giving the hurler a lead to work with.

In the top of the first, Scott Hart-saugh led off with a single. Kevin Sullivan, who was added to Northville's roster for the tournament, then connected on a home run to give his 'mates a 2-0 lead.

Dixie scored one in the bottom of the inning to cut the lead in half. Christenson, though, held Northville's lead until the bottom of the fifth.

Dixie tied the game in that inning on an RBI single. Lexington then took the lead in the sixth, 3-2, on another RBI single.

But Northville didn't roll over.

Fred Swarthout led off with a single for the Mantle squad in the top of the seventh. Pinch runner Richard Dell was then sacrificed to second by Neil Yaeckle.

Mike Barzantry followed with a clutch one-hop double off the left field fence to tie the game. A John Gibson single then put Northville up 4-3.

Dixie wouldn't be stopped, however. After one out, Lexington drew a walk. Blythe followed with his winning home run.

Surdu said Kentucky fielded an imposing team with many players over 6 feet tall. But, he added, Northville wasn't intimidated.

"You had to feel the intensity in our dugout," Surdu said. "We weren't at all intimidated by these guys."

Northville didn't have much time to recover from the loss of Friday morning's game.

Playing their second game of the day, the locals took on Staten Island, N.Y., and fell 8-0. The loss knocked Northville from the double-elimination tournament.

Surdu said his team was never in the ballgame. The coach said his squad was still feeling the effect of the Lexington loss.

"It was a letdown," Surdu said. "We were extremely flat coming out."

Northville managed just five hits in the game. Dell started and took the loss on the mound.

Despite the quick exit from the series, Surdu said it was a good year. Northville finished 14-12.

Salem Hills provides test

By SCOTT DANIEL
Sports Editor

Hidden along Northville's western border may be one of the community's best-kept golfing secrets: Salem Hills.

Heck, even the name implies that the course belongs to another town. But for residents willing to make the short trek down Six Mile past Napier Road, a rolling, lusciously green bonanza of a golf course awaits.

From beginner to scratch golfer, Salem Hills provides Northville and area players a good test of skills. And that quiz begins immediately on the front nine.

No. 3, for example, will leave many golfers pulling their hair out.

At 202 yards, the par-3 is deceiving. The hole looks shorter than the listed yardage, but isn't. It will take a good 5-wood or low iron shot to hit the green. Make sure the shot doesn't go long, however, because a virtual forest sits in back of the green.

The hole is untypical of the front nine, though.

With the exception of No. 4, the first nine holes are extremely open. A variety of trees, willow and pine among others, line most of the holes, but don't come into play unless you hit a big slice.

That's not to say that the front is boring. Golfers must still make good shots and be able to hit long to score well.

From the blue tees, Salem Hills measures just under 7,000 yards. The less sadistic golfer will probably choose to play from the whites, in which case the links come in a shade under 6,500 yards.

Rated the most difficult hole at Salem Hills is No. 7. A straight away 430-yard par-4, the hole didn't play that way on the day of our review, chiefly because of a helping wind.

While No. 5 isn't rated the toughest, it certainly played that way in our estimation. A 380-yard par-4 dogleg left, plays more like 420 into the wind.

Golfers tee from an elevated position straight into the wind on five. A low-flying 2-iron off the tee may get better results than a standard driver shot.

For our money, Salem Hills' back nine offers a better variety of holes than the front. While the two nines are nearly identical in length, the back requires tougher shot-making and offers a little better scenery in which to do it.

The flavor of the last nine holes comes through at No. 11.

At 407 yards, the par-4 isn't unreasonably long. But a severe dogleg right makes it very difficult to get in good position for a second shot.

A decent, straight drive off the tee puts players in a group of apple trees. If you hit in there, as this reviewer did, forget about trying to make the green in regulation.

Here's where a little slice off tee will work to your advantage. On the second shot, players must negotiate a stream some 30 yards in front of the green and again not go long as the putting surface is protected by woods.

A nice feature of Salem Hills lies between the 11th and 12th holes. A well-maintained flower garden adds spice and real charm.

No. 13 is rated the second most difficult on the links and, this time, plays like it. About the only advantage golfers have at the 392-yard par-4 is that it's slightly downhill.

With an ominous pond directly in front and to the right of the green, two options exist for your second shot: Lay up with a short iron or take a chance and try to hit the green. The bold should be warned that a thick set of trees sits to the left of the green.

The 14th through 18th holes are much like the front. A 465-yard par-5 finishes Salem Hills.

A dogleg left, the green is easily reachable in three. But golfers must shoot onto a small, elevated green that is protected by water on the left.

Compliments must be given to the staff at Salem Hills. The course is very well-maintained and extra care is seemingly given the greens.

"It's a beautiful course and it's a good course for mediocre players like myself," said Plymouth resident Wade Stevens. "A more experienced player may not find it challenging enough."

Alice in Wonderland comes to Novi

By CINDY STEWART
Special Writer

"I'm the Cheshire Cat. I'm always grinning. You've heard the expression, 'Grin and bear it'? Me, I grin and share it. Share what? All the fun and excitement of Wonderland."

The Novi Civic Center will be the scene for all the excitement and fun as the Performance Plus Theatre Group brings Alice in Wonderland, the Cheshire Cat, March Hare, Mad Hatter and rest of the crew to the stage on Saturday, Aug. 8, and Sunday, Aug. 9, at 3 p.m.

The Performance Plus Theatre Group began in January and the group continues to grow in numbers and acting experience under the direction of Linda Wickert. For the Performance Plus Summer Camp, Wickert is teaching and directing 25 young adults in the production of Alice in Wonderland.

"This performance brings together kids from 10 to 18 years of age and it has been a lot of fun," said Wickert. "I don't usually work with such a wide range of ages, but everyone has bonded together well and this promises to be a great production."

Performance Plus meets twice a week and offers much more than acting. The performers rehearse their individual roles for the upcoming play, develop characterization, as well as other aspects of the production including promotion, set design, lighting, costumes and makeup.

Linda Wickert will direct Alice in Wonderland.

Wickert sketched each character's face design and the young actors practiced doing their own makeup prior to the production. They all agreed that it's a great experience and they like learning more than their lines. They also participated in a 90-minute acting workshop last week offered by an actor from the Hillberry Theatre.

Meredith Belloli is playing the role of Alice and had no trouble learning over 350 lines.

"I've wanted to act since I was very young and this role was a big challenge. I'm so glad I took on the role of Alice; it was tough but fun," said

Meredith.

Alice in Wonderland is the first leading role for Meredith, a ninth-grader at Northville High School. But Wickert knew she could handle it.

"If she continues acting, or even in anything she pursues, Meredith will go far," said Wickert.

The majority of Wickert's students have caught the acting fever. Many have performed in the Performance Plus productions as well as their high school dramas and musicals or with the Novi Players.

"I may pursue acting in college, but if not, I'll always act in community theater," said Tracey Ford, a senior at Novi High School. "For some reason, I have always seemed to play the villain roles, but I like it. I am the Queen of Hearts and my sister Andrea plays my daughter, the Heart Child."

Matt Wickert, 16, has been acting for about seven years. It's in his blood! This is his second year with the Michigan Renaissance Festival as a street performer and stage actor, and he acts in all Novi High productions, dramas and musicals.

"I play the Mad Hatter in the wacky version of Alice in Wonderland," said Matt. "But what I'm really looking forward to is The Crucible."

Performance Plus brings in the young actors, and their parents and friends play a big role also. Linda Wickert is assisted at classes by Kathy Vermeulen, whose son plays the March Hare. Jack and Judy Burch are building all the sets and LaReta Roder designing and making all the costumes.

After the production of Alice in Wonderland, Performance Plus continues its fall 1992 schedule with auditions on Tuesday, Aug. 25 and Thursday, Aug. 27 at 7 p.m. at the Novi Civic Center. Rehearsals and class begins in September and will meet on Tuesdays and Thursdays through the end of November.

Tickets for Alice in Wonderland can be purchased prior to the performance at Novi Parks and Recreation for $6 adults, $5 senior and children under 12. Call 347-0400 for more information.

Medicine can solve prostate woes

The first thing to know about the prostate is the correct spelling and pronunciation. It has only one R and is not written or pronounced as prostate.

The prostate is a male gland located between the bladder and the penis. The urine tube (the urethra) runs through the middle of it. It is affected by male sex hormones and tends to enlarge as men get older. If this enlargement encroaches on the urethra, it may become more difficult to urinate and lead to overfilling of the bladder, delayed emptying and possible infections. This condition is known to benign prostate hypertrophy

(BPH) and is a common problem of older men.

Patients with BPH may experience problems with urination such as the feeling that they cannot empty their bladder, difficulty with starting and stopping urination and dribbling. By rectal examination with a finger, the physician can feel the size and shape of the prostate and make the diagnosis.

There are several ways to treat the problem, depending on the severity. Medication helps prevent the obstruction that may be caused by an enlarged prostate. In very severe cases, surgery done by a urologist can alleviate the blockage. An important fact for older men to be aware of is that many over-the-counter antihistamines and cold remedies can suddenly make a prostate problem worse by temporarily making the blockage worse.

Prostatitis — an inflammation of the prostate usually caused by infection — is another problem that may occur in younger males. It is usually treated with oral antibiotics.

The most feared prostate disease is cancer, a tumor that is becoming more common as men live longer. Fortunately blood tests, X-rays, and a rectal exam by the physician can make early diagnosis possible. Since the prostate responds to male sex hormones, it is one of the few cancers that responds to therapy that changes these hormones. Radiation therapy and surgery also play important roles in treating prostate cancer.

The most important things to remember about prostate disease are that it becomes more common in men as they age (especially past 60), it can be diagnosed easily and good treatment is available.

'Mechanics' lien' can create serious problem

By James M. Woodard
Copley News Service

An increasing number of homeowners are facing the risk of losing their home, resulting from a problem they didn't know existed.

The recording of a piece of paper called a "mechanics lien" can create a serious title problem and could lead to foreclosure of the property. Here's an example case:

"Now you can buy the ultimate water treatment device for your home. It will extend your life and prevent deadly diseases. It can be purchased for the bargain price of just $7,000."

This was a company's basic pitch promoting a water filtering and softening device, by a firm in California, according to Greg Brose, supervisor of consumer protection for a District Attorney's office.

The firm's claims far exceeded the truth, Brose said. But after pounding away at the greatly exaggerated benefits of the device during a three-hour "seminar" session, many people took the bait, buying a unit and signing a purchase contract despite the high cost.

Soon thereafter, many of the buyers realized they had been pressured into a bad deal and filed complaints with the DA's office. An undercover investigation revealed the firm did indeed engage in gross misrepresentations and did not allow a three-day cooling off period, in violation of the law.

When these remorseful buyers refused to make payments on their purchase contracts with the firm, mechanics' liens were recorded against their homes. This clouded the title of each homeowners' property, meaning a claim of interest was placed on the title. This makes it difficult to transfer the title or use it for security in obtaining an equity loan. And this action could potentially result in losing the property in foreclosure.

What a lousy deal! In a moment of weakness you succumb to a pressured sales pitch after being worn down in a long seminar. And when you finally wake up and refuse to make payments on a bad contract, the company records a

Spanish-style Salisbury is visually interesting

By James McAlexander
Copley News Service

Graceful arched colonnades flank the stately entrance to the Spanish-style Salisbury. A red-tile roof tops the stucco exterior, and bricks line the high window arches, providing additional visual interest.

A huge kitchen dominates the center of the house. It has a pantry large enough to park a car in, with shelves on one side that can be accessed through cupboard doors in the kitchen.

A vegetable sink, range top, regular sink and dishwasher are all located in a long work island that provides partial separation between the kitchen and family room. Cookbooks can be stored within easy reach on shelves over the built-in desk tucked into a side alcove.

Ceiling fans high in the vaulted ceiling of the kitchen/family room keep the air circulating, and the area is richly illuminated by natural light from one wall composed mostly of windows.

A king-size wood-burning stove sits on a tiled area that extends as far as the back door. The tile allows easy containment of the mess that inevitably accompanies wood-burning stove operation.

The master suite is almost as spacious as the kitchen. Amenities include an oversize shower, a second vanity outside the bathroom, a spacious walk-in closet and French doors that open onto a covered patio.

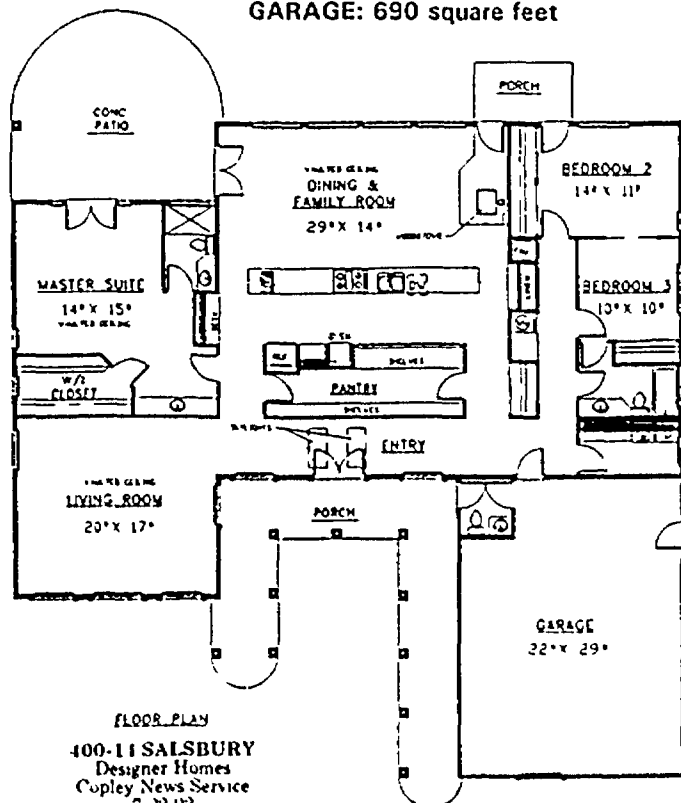

One of the bedrooms on the other side of the Salisbury is larger than the other, but the smaller bedroom has the advantage of direct access to the bathroom.

A utility room, with counter space for folding clothes, is adjacent to the bedrooms and also conveniently close to the kitchen and garage.

A service bathroom, tucked in the back corner of the garage, can also be entered from the front veranda.

For a study plan of the Salisbury (400-14), send $750 to Landmark Designs, c/o HomeTown Newspapers, 323 E. Grand River Ave., Howell, MI 48843. (Be sure to specify plan name & number when ordering). Designers, Architects and readers with plans they would like to see featured also are invited to contact Landmark.

DECKED

Outdoor rooms are gaining popularity. Whether it's a deck, arbor, gazebo, porch or a simple hammock suspended between two trees, an out-of-doors living space can be perfect for relaxing in the sun or shade, as well as entertaining family and friends.

A beautiful outdoor extension can enhance the comfort and pleasure you and your family will share throughout the seasons. According to the National Association of Home Builders, outdoor rooms, particularly decks, rank third as the most popular remodeling projects, following those done in the kitchen and bathroom.

Janice and Michael Watson of Milford Village chose to have two cedar decks, with wolmanized understructures, added to their contemporary home.

"The decks creatively enhance the structure of the home," Janice said. The Watson home, a 2,800-square-foot brick construction, is located in the Heritage Hills subdivision. The couple have lived there for three years.

Their stylish side deck, 440 square feet, makes imaginative use of angles and curves to create a sense of spaciousness and fluidity. The curves provide aesthetic interest as well as harmonize well with the architecture of the house. This is not a standard deck. It is above average in construction, appearance and creativity.

"It's very important to me to have pleasing visual shapes," Janice explained. Janice, who works for Ford Motor Co. in the engine packaging department, has a design background. "The curves represent nature more so than the squares. That is why it is so appealing to see and have the curves," she added.

The Watsons contracted Tim Smith, owner of Hawthorne Construction in Southfield, to build both decks last fall. "Tim drew up the original designs and we worked together on it," Janice said. "As it progressed, we both balanced each other very nicely in terms of coming up with a pleasing design."

Smith explained that to achieve such distinctive curves each board had to be milled three-eighths of an inch. "Then

Fall crops coming

By C.Z. Guest

GARDENING

In late summer, start seeding for fall crops of radish, spinach, peas, lettuce, beans and beets.

If large bites or whole leaves are missing from tomato plants, search for tomato hornworms and pick them off.

Harvest vegetables at their peak and preserve the extras rather than leaving them on the plant, or give them to friends or neighbors.

With fall rapidly approaching, it's also time to start planning changes in your landscape, like new plantings and moving established plants—particularly evergreens that are best planted in early September.

August is a good time to divide iris if needed, followed in September by the division of phlox, peonies and day lilies.

If you haven't started a compost pile by now—it's time.

Composting is one of the most worthwhile and easy things you can do to improve your soil. The energy and nutrition in grass clippings, leaves, plant parts and kitchen scraps (without meat or bones), when recycled and added to your garden soil, will do wonders for your plants. Composting is a cinch and need not be unsightly or smelly. In fact, when done properly, compost has no odor at all.

The easiest way to get started is simply to bury your compost in a hole and cover it over. Be sure that the waste is buried at least 8 inches below the surface. If this is done now, the holes will become usable garden space by next year.

Q. I live in an apartment and have to do all my gardening on a tiny patio that has about all the container plants it can handle. However, I would like to attract hummingbirds. Is there a plant I can put in a hanging basket that might do the job?

A. Yes. Hummingbirds are attracted to flowers that are tubular and bright colors of yellow, orange or red. Fuchsias are a good choice for a hanging basket if you can give them protection from direct sun.

You might also try hanging a feeder next to some brightly colored flowers such as nasturtiums, snapdragons, red salvias, geraniums and petunias.

GARDEN TIPS

Late-summer gardening

- Start seeding for fall crop of radish, spinach, peas, lettuce, beans and beets
- Check tomato plants for tomato hornworms.
- Harvest summer vegetables at their peak.
- Start a compost pile by burying yard clippings and kitchen scraps in an 8-inch deep hole in the garden.

Broken finger lowers value

By James G. McCollam
Copley News Service

Q. Enclosed is a picture of a pair of figurines. They are 10-1/2 inches high and are marked "Made in Occupied Japan" on the bottom. The tip of the lady's little finger is missing. How much are these worth?

A. Your figurines were made around 1945 to 1952. They might sell for $35 to $45 for the pair due to the broken finger on the lady's hand.

Q. I found a plaque in my grandparents' attic marked "Ivorex" and signed by Arthur Osborne. I am wondering if this has any value. Can you tell me anything about it?

A. Ivorex was one of the early types of plastic made around the turn of the century. It was developed by Charles Osborne in England.

The company was operated by his daughter after Osborne's death. Operations of the company were terminated in 1965. It is now owned by W.H. Bossons Ltd., and they have renewed production of plaques.

Ivorex plaques sell in the $35 to $45 range.

Q. I have a Flow Blue platter marked "W.H. Grindley." It measures 16 by 11 inches and is in very good condition. I am interested in any

ANTIQUES

Information you can give me.

A. W.H. Grindley & Co. Ltd. was founded in Turnstall, England, in 1880. Your platter was made soon after the company was founded.

It should sell in the $135 to $145 range.

Q. At a recent antique show I saw some figurines similar to Hummels. They were called "Precious Moments" and were priced quite high. I am wondering if you have any information on these figurines?

A. These starry-eyed little people were created by Samuel Butcher in 1979. They are avidly collected and some of the early ones are selling for more than $500. Except for the first year, each piece is marked according to the year.

Here are some typical prices:

- "Kristy," girl doll, cross mark—$160.
- "Our First Christmas Together," hourglass mark—$25.
- "Surround Us," boy with a wreath, fish mark—$35-$40.
- "Bridesmaid," cross mark—$20.
- "Joy to the World," cross mark—$25.
- "Love Lifted Me," hourglass mark—$35.
- "Holy Smokes," hourglass mark—$45.

'Mechanics' lien' can create serious problem

piece of paper that could cost you your home.

Mechanics' liens have caused serious problems for many homeowners. They can be recorded by any contractor or other person who provides a service or product for your home or other real property, according to Kirk J. Grossman, an attorney who specializes in real estate law.

"A mechanics' lien is a very powerful instrument, cutting a wide swath legally," Grossman said. "It places a cloud on the property's title and can cause major problems and costs for the property owner."

The law in most states provides that anyone who furnishes labor or materials to a home can record a "Claim of Lien" or mechanics' lien against the home if they are not paid in full. This could be a general contractor, a subcontractor, landscape designer, seller-installer of a built-in component, etc.

In some cases, you might pay the bill in full to a general contractor. But if that contractor doesn't pay his subcontractors a lien could still be recorded by the subcontractor against your house.

"The best method to prevent problems created by the recording of a mechanics' lien is to think carefully before signing a contract that could jeopardize your home," Brose said. "If in doubt, check with a knowledgeable attorney."

More thoughtful consideration before signing a contract also was recommended by Grossman.

"A homeowner's risk can be greatly reduced with a contract bond or use of a funding company. And the homeowner shouldn't sign a 'notice of completion' until the job is totally completed to his satisfaction."

It's also a good practice to specify in the contract that the general contractor is responsible for obtaining and providing the homeowner with "lien releases" from each subcontractor and material supplier, Grossman said.

And it's always a good idea to consult with an unbiased third party specialist in the field before signing on the dotted line. Clarify any legal questions by discussing it with an attorney.

Incidentally, the firm that promoted the $7,000 water treatment devices is out of business, Brose said.

"It's now an empty corporate shell," he said.

The purchase contracts were sold to a finance firm, and the DA's office is now trying to obtain some restitution for the unhappy purchasers.

Q. What's a good source of information about real estate brokers, who they represent, the service they perform and how much they charge?

A. Most regional boards of Realtors and state associations of Realtors offer free informational materials on this subject. Public libraries also have a number of books that focus on the subject.

Also, the Consumer Federation of America and the American Association of Retired Persons recently teamed up to produce a new pamphlet, "Buying a Home: What Buyers and Sellers Need to Know About Real Estate Agents." A free copy can be obtained by sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope to: AARP,

Box Home, 601 E Street, NW, Washington, DC 20049

Q. Why are people moving out of urban centers and buying homes in remote, rural areas?

A. Bob Fawcett, a seasoned real estate broker in Denver who specializes in the sale of ranches, farms, resorts and unique country homes, offers this insight:

"High-tech communication systems and computers now makes it possible for many executives and professional people to live anywhere. And it's happening more and more. People are on the move to places where they can live and work in tranquil, scenic settings. Expect this trend to continue."

Fawcett is president of Selected Properties International in Denver.

Building custom wood decks rises in popularity for outdoor living

each board had to be wood glued, wood clamped and screwed right on through around to be able to get this kind of curve," he said. "Because wood doesn't bend this way, it usually has to be soaked in water for about a half day."

The side deck features clean lines, a balcony which entices guests to enjoy the country landscape, and a window effect where the Watsons have hung chimes and plants. Indoors, the living room contains sliding doors which open onto the deck providing ready access to this outdoor room.

The deck is roomy enough for entertaining and steps allow any family and friends to spill onto the lawn to mingle.

The second deck, with a piano shape, provides 220 square feet. It is located off the kitchen, thus making the kitchen area conveniently accessible to the outdoor space. "It's nice to sit and drink my coffee out there and watch the birds," Janice said. "Form follows function," she added. "We are very pleased with the decks."

Margaret and Stanley Bankus of Dear Creek Road in Lyon Township have also added an outdoor room to their country home. A wolmanized deck extends across the rear of the house and it also encompasses the 16-by-38 foot above-ground swimming pool. The decking gives their pool the luxurious feel of an in-ground pool.

The deck was constructed last year by Skip Sampson of Sampson Construction in Lyon Township. It took about two weeks to complete and features a three-foot safe walkway around the pool.

"We're so happy with it," Margaret said. "The pool and deck make the house look larger." If you were to sit inside the living room, the doorwall lends a grand view of the attractive pool and deck and it unifies the interior with the exterior of the house. "We wanted to make sure we could look out and see the trees," Margaret explained. "We wanted to keep the deck low and light. It's a very light house."

"When I appreciate the deck is in the maintenance of the pool," Stanley added. "It's easier to put the cover on, and it's easier to vacuum the pool."

The couple, along with son Stan Jr., age 12, are enjoying their large outdoor room. The deck contains patio furniture, pots of flowers, and the barbecue grill, obviously a perfect setting for summer entertaining and relaxing.

"The deck and pool are just another reason why we like this house," Margaret said. "We plan to stay here forever."

Jan Gurski, realtor with Re-Max

Countryside in South Lyon, commented that a home with an outdoor room, such as a deck that has a nice design and is well constructed, is an asset when the time comes to buy and sell a home. "It can make a difference," she said. "If it enhances the overall beauty of the home, it is a good plus over another home."

Carrying on Perrin's shop makes wholesale changes

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

Reports about the death of Perrin Souvenir Distributors are greatly exaggerated, say owners of the 153 E. Main St. firm.

While Carl and Michelle Perrin recently sold the retail end of their souvenir and gift distributing firm to Plymouth resident Joe Farhat, they continue to run the wholesale operation out of the back of their store.

Carl Perrin said he sold the store to free up his personal time, despite the continued success of the retail business. "The retail's very profitable," he said. "But I'm 68 and can't do this forever."

"Our wholesale is moving so much that they really need me back here, and I can get away with working five days a week instead of six."

While the retail end of the business continues to turn a profit, so does the wholesale, Perrin said.

"We do a little over $2 million in (annual) sales," he said. "It was well over that during Operation Desert Storm last year; that was an extra shot in the arm."

Perrin started the distributing firm in 1982, running it from his home in Novi using the knowledge he gained while operating a Hallmark card shop in Grand Rapids. Perrin still runs a booth at the Michigan Association of Gift Sales building as well.

"We didn't plan on being in the retail business," Perrin said. But when he moved the firm into its last location at 113 W. Main St. several years ago, "we had the storefront and the picture window, so we figured we'd use it."

Perrin's wholesale firm markets items like postcards, custom silk-screened clothing, and personalized souvenirs like pens, coffee cups and calendars throughout Michigan, he said.

The firm is licensed to use logos of sports teams including the University of Michigan's Wolverines, Michigan State University's Spartans, and the Detroit Pistons, Tigers and Red Wings.

"We sell our postcards throughout the state of Michigan, right up to Sault Ste. Marie," Perrin said. The company's largest postcard account is with Metro Airpost.

"There's a lot of things we do that people don't even know," he said.

While Perrin Souvenir Distributors continues to send its shipments throughout the state, the new owner of the retail store plans some changes up front.

Joe Farhat, the retired owner of a trucking company, said he wants to stock the newly named Joe's Sports

Joe Farhat (l) is the new owner of Perrin's retail outlet. Founder Carl Perrin (r) now runs the wholesale business.

Shop with sports items like baseballs, baseball pants, batting gloves and tennis balls. "There really isn't a sporting store anywhere nearby that I know of," he said.

Trading cards have already proved to be a hit with the community's children, he said.

Farhat also wants to publicize the fact that the store carries Northville school jackets. "I don't think a lot of people know we have them," he said.

The Plymouth native said he decided to re-enter the business world when retirement proved too relaxing for him. "I thought I might be able to adjust to retirement and I spent about six months retired . . . and I was bored," he said. "You just don't know what to do."

When he noticed an advertisement for Perrin's retail operation in Crain's Detroit Business, he saw a way out of retirement. "I thought it would be fun to do and it is fun," Farhat said. "I have an 11½-year-old son and I can't keep him out of here. In fact, I wouldn't spend as much time in the store myself except Joey wants to be here. So we're doing some big-time bonding."

Engler's new advisor steps up

It's easy to see why Karl Gregory, a Southfield resident and a professor in the school of business administration at Oakland University, has been appointed to Gov. John Engler's Council of Economic Advisors.

Gregory, 61, brings a wealth of experience in government service, the private sector and academia to the recently named panel.

"I would expect he (Engler) might ask us how we perceive Michigan's climate for attracting and retaining business firms and how that climate might be improved," Gregory said.

"I suspect he may also ask about the impact of three aspects of government-economic policy. One, how to raise revenues, how that may be improved. Secondly, the impact on the expenditure side. And, perhaps, our thoughts on the impact of state regulating policies."

Gregory served as a staff economist with the office of management and budget in the Kennedy and Johnson administrations and in the Congressional Budget Office in the mid 1970s.

He was a member of a U.S. trade advisory committee during the Car-

RIBBON CUTTING CEREMONIES were held Tuesday, July 31 at for a new light industrial park to be built on Sheldon Road immediately north of Ford Motor Co.'s Climate Control Plant in Plymouth Twp.

The 44-acre project is being undertaken by Ford Motor Land Development Corporation in a venture with the Plymouth-based R.A. DeMatia Co. and will become a part of DeMatia's adjacent Metro West Industrial Park.

Local and state government officials will attend the ceremonies along with Ford Land Chairman Wayne Doran and Robert DeMatia, president of the DeMatia firm.

The Ford-owned property is located on the west side of Sheldon Road, south of Five Mile Road, northwest of the city of Plymouth. "Based on the success of similar developments in the area, we believe this project has excellent potential," said DeMatia.

The site is a platted state-certified industrial park with roads and utilities to each lot. The improved lots will be sold for build-to-suit projects to accommodate office, warehouse and light industrial needs.

Construction permits rise in both counties

Residential building permits issued through the first five months of this year increased by 35 percent in Oakland County and 34 percent in Wayne County from the comparable January-May period in 1991.

Permits were pulled for 2,122 units — houses, condominiums and apartments — in Oakland compared to 1,568 last year. Figures for Wayne were 1,012 and 781 units, respectively.

The numbers were compiled by the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments, a regional information-gathering, planning agency.

Bernard Gieberman, president of Crosswinds of West Bloomfield and president of the Builders Association of Southeastern Michigan, attributed the sharp five-month increase to favorable mortgage rates.

"I think what's happened is in January and December interest rates came down, a flurry of buyers came in and you had a lot of building activity," he said. "You had a lot of people buy earlier this year than normal."

Gieberman said his company had its best December ever last year which carried over to the start of 1992.

"I think the attitude of the buyer is good," he said. "They probably realize that if they have a job now they will (continue to) have a job. I think the economy has bottomed out."

"The housing economy is strong because there's plenty of people out there still working who can afford to buy a house," Gieberman said.

Fred Capaldi Jr., a Rochester Hills builder and first vice president for BASM, also attributed the increase in residential permits to low interest rates.

"It seems to me we always have a big upsurge in spring," he said. "We have a home show, the weather breaks, people finally make up their minds. Then we go through a lull, then it picks up again in September."

Capaldi also offered an explanation as to why permits slipped a bit in May.

"When I talk to some competitors, they tell me they see some softening. One problem they see is they have presold some houses with the expectation that Mr. and Mrs. Purchaser could sell their homes. They can't and this is dragging on."

Capaldi said his new housing starts so far this year are on par with last, while his remodeling business has increased.

Weather has little impact on building permits pulled, Capaldi and Gieberman agreed.

Troy exactly matched its five-month 1991 total with 147 units.

Wayne communities showing gains included Canton, 229 units from 118; Livonia, 238 from 220; and Plymouth Township, 48 from 36.

Livonia and Canton placed one-two by a substantial margin in number of units permitted in the county. Novi, with 344 units permitted, led the way in Oakland.

Oakland communities showing gains included Farmington Hills, 178 units from 82; West Bloomfield, 120 from 77; and Bloomfield Township, 66 from 38.

Money Management

Smart moves take sting out of layoff

Gone are the days when a loyal employee could count on a long-time career with an employer. If you have been the unlucky recipient of a pink slip, keep in mind that unemployment need not lead to financial disaster. A positive outlook and wise financial decisions can minimize the damage, says the Michigan Association of CPAs.

As a rule, if you have lost your job through no fault of your own and are actively seeking another job, you are entitled to unemployment benefits. Since each state has different eligibility requirements, you will need to check with your local unemployment office to see if you qualify.

If you receive a severance package, you may have to choose between taking the funds in one lump sum or stretching them out over several weeks or months. CPAs generally recommend that you opt for the lump sum so that you can invest the money and start earning interest right away. What's more, if your former employer's financial stability is questionable, taking a lump sum gives you one less thing to worry about.

When you leave a job, you may receive a sizable sum from your tax-deferred 401(k) retirement plan or pension plan. Because this money is earmarked for retirement, an early withdrawal could trigger trouble. To avoid hefty taxes and penalties, it's best to roll over the proceeds of your 401(k) or other pension plans into an Individual Retirement Account (IRA).

Any money you don't roll over is taxed as ordinary income. If you are under age 59½, you may be hit with a 10 percent penalty as well.

If you think that you may be forced to use some of your retirement savings to meet living expenses, invest your funds in a liquid account. This way, your money will not be tied up in a long-term investment and taxes and penalties will be due only on the amount you actually withdraw.

Employers with 20 people or more are required to offer medical insurance to departing employees. Regardless of whether you are fired or leave a company voluntarily, you and your dependents can continue to receive coverage for up to 18 months, providing you pay for it yourself.

If your spouse works, it may be cheaper for you to get family coverage under your spouse's plan. But find out if your spouse's coverage will last for the duration of your unemployed period.

If you have a family to protect and most of your life insurance came from an employer's policy, you should also consider picking up life insurance coverage. Term insurance is generally the least costly way to go.

If you can't meet your monthly payments, talk to your creditors. Most are willing to work with responsible borrowers. Explain your situation and offer to send smaller payments. If paying your mortgage is a problem, you may need to make formal arrangements with your mortgage lender to delay monthly payments. Some lenders may agree to re-write your loan to lower your monthly payments; others may even offer a forbearance agreement that allows you to pay nothing or interest only for a few months.

For more advice on coping with an economic downturn, contact your CPA.

Advisor: Fiscal policy applies to daily life

ter and Reagan administrations and has had policy-making and staff roles with the Federal Reserve Banking System.

Gregory was a founder and chief executive officer of First Independence National Bank of Detroit. He currently teaches small business development and strategic planning at OU.

Economists don't always agree on policy because so many variables other than mathematical computations go into their work, Gregory said.

"We bring various values to analysis," he said. "Secondly, we come out of different life experiences. We bring different data to issues. We differ in our disciplines within the field of economics."

Economic policy touches us many ways daily whether we're aware of it or not, Gregory said.

"Through our lifetime, we're impacted by the economy perpetually. At birth there's a need for health services to deliver us. Even before that, we can get prenatal care and those who can't get it can have illness throughout their lifetime."

"That gets to the group at the end. How do we leave the world — what kind of departure can we enjoy?"

"More Important, between those events, the quality of life has a lot to do with the set of economic opportunities we're each exposed to," Gregory said.

"A lot of economic variables affect quality of life — skills and level of education we're able to achieve, employment experiences, avoiding spells of unemployment, access to a safety net."

"Public safety, good housing are results of economic policy — public and private," he said.
