Township race offers choice of trustees

By MIKE TYREE
Staff Writer

An entirely new cast of characters will take the Township Board stage Nov. 20, after a clean sweep of incumbents in the August primary election.

Some spots — the supervisor, clerk, and treasurer — are set. But a Nov. 3 battle looms for the remaining four trustee seats.

Five newcomers to the township political arena will vie for those seats, including Republican primary winners Mark Abbo, Barbara O'Brien, Russ Fogg, and Gini Britton. They will contend for votes with James Petrie, the lone local Democrat on the Nov. 3 general election ballot.

The top four vote-getters among the five board hopefuls will join Supervisor-elect Karen Baja, Clerk-elect Sue Hillebrand, and Treasurer-elect Rick Engelland on the new township board.

Abbo, 39, tallied the most votes in the Republican primary. He is a certified public accountant who is making his initial foray into township government life.

Britton, 41, is a member of the Northville 2000 citizens group and serves as president of the Lakes of Northville homeowners association. She edged out Angela Thomson for the fourth and final spot in the Au-

City shovels its way out of red ink hole

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

Northville City is still in the hole, but the city is digging itself out faster than expected.

That was the major finding by Plante & Moran during the auditing firm's annual review of the city's finances. Auditor Jim Eagan made the observation at Monday's City Council meeting during the audit's presentation.

The city's deficit-elimination plan, enacted late last year in the face of a $1-million deficit, predicted that the general fund would be $827,000 in the red by the end of the 1991-92 fiscal year. That fiscal year ended June 30.

Instead, Eagan noted, the general fund's deficit was only $474,000.

Much of the debt reduction was attributed to the state's eventual release of $360,000 in racetrack revenues, $250,000 of which went into the general fund. The original deficit was largely due to the state's withholding of an anticipated $735,000 in those revenues.

But even given the unanticipated windfall from the state, the general fund was $103,000 less deep in debt than had been forecast by the 2½-year deficit elimination plan. That bodes well for the city's books to be back in the black before 1994.

The debt has been reduced through several methods, including a 4.2-mill tax hike and cuts in the city's operating expenses. Those cuts have resulted this year in most city departments receiving a smaller slice of a shrinking fiscal pie.

The Police Department, for example, which faced a string of layoffs this year, saw its expenditures reduced by nearly $66,000 from 1990-91 to 1991-92, while the fire department's expenditures fell more than $42,000.

"That's really due to the deficit-elimination program being executed as planned," Eagan said.

Other changes have been made as the city continues to get its financial house in order.

The city's general fund was restructured as it absorbed the public improvements fund, which had been the recipient of state-retained racetrack revenues in recent years. Future city budgets will not rely on racetrack revenues, and any revenues received will be earmarked toward the public house.

The city's capital project fund was also rolled into the general fund.

While expenses were down, so were revenues, mostly due to the state's refusal to return more than half of the city's allocated racetrack revenue. Offsetting the loss of racetrack revenue slightly was the fact that the city collected slightly more in property taxes this year — $2,984,000 compared to last year's $2,798,000. The increase came despite this year's property tax freeze.

The audit was not without its share of bad news. The city's water supply system, which for years has had an unusually high water loss rate of about 40 percent, showed a 44-percent water loss over the 1991-92 fiscal year. That excess loss has cost the city about $190,000 more than a more typical 20-percent water loss from an older system like Northville's, Eagan said.

"It's going to be important for the water and sewer fund to be carefully monitored over the coming year," he said.

Eagan also cautioned the city to keep tight reins on its proposed Cady Street parking deck expansion, which is to be paid for by a 20-year bond financed by tax capturing from an expanded Downtown Development Authority.

Given the city's current deficit, he said, "It's going to be very important that sufficient planning, oversight and construction management occur to make sure the project comes in on budget."

The city already has spent about $440,000 on design, engineering and land acquisition costs for the proposed deck, but those costs are expected to be reimbursed by the sale of $6.3 million in bonds to finance the deck project.

Citizens supreme

Kunz, Presley share this year's civic award

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

Maybe it's a sign of the growing need for volunteerism in troubled times.

Or perhaps it's a reflection that Northville is responding to that need.

Whatever the reason, the Northville Community Chamber of Commerce was unable to single out a winner for this year's Citizen of the Year. So the honor was bestowed upon two individuals who have worked for the betterment of the entire Northville community.

This year's Citizen of the Year awards were presented to community activist Mariene Kunz and architect Greg Presley.

The awards were presented at the annual chamber meeting Sunday at the Fox Hills Country Club by chamber board member Ann Willis.

Kunz, who runs Northville's Civic Concern program, sees firsthand the effects of tough times and broken dreams. Civic Concern provides emergency food, clothing and shelter, and assists residents facing util-

Recycling plan on deck in township

By MIKE TYREE
Staff Writer

Northville Township appears poised and ready to leap into the recycling era.

No trash talk this time. After numerous delays, the much-ballyhooded township curbside recycling program is set to fly beginning Nov. 30.

All township residents are in line to receive four years worth of recycling collections without charge, a byproduct of an agreement struck by the township and Browning-Ferris Industries early last year.

Residents will be asked to sort newspapers, glass, tin cans, and plastics from their curbside waste stream.

The township and BFI will coordinate education efforts designed to put residents in a recycling mindset.

BFI, as the collection agent, will mail out pamphlets to each township resident in the next couple of weeks, and follow up by dropping off recycling bins at each single family home, said Christie Clark, BFI recycling development manager.

BFI is scheduled to begin delivering recycling bins starting Nov. 16.

Condominium and apartment complex dwellers are due to set up separate recycling deals with BFI, Clark said.

Clark said BFI intends to pick up recyclables the same day as residents' regular trash collections. Residents will place newspapers and other recyclables in BFI-supplied 18-gallon bins that should be "very adequate" for once-a-week collections, Clark said.

The move to recycling should put a sizeable dent in residents' trash flows. Newspapers, glass food and liquid containers, steel and tin food cans, plastic milk jugs, and colored plastic bottles all should be siphoned from the waste stream to the recycling bin.

BFI will ship the recyclables to its Arbor Hills

Materials Recovery Facility in Salem Township, where it will separate and process the items.

Township officials are waiting to see BFI's educational program implemented. Township Manager Richard Henningsen said BFI has been supplied all residential listings to facilitate the educational mailings.

The recycling program should cure a couple of related township ailments. Henningsen said the township will consider scrapping its recycling center on Sheldon Road north of Five Mile, and the move to BFI will lessen payments to Painter & Ruthenburg, the township's preferred-status trash hauler.

The township has been supplementing payments to Painter & Ruthenburg because the solid waste hauler is also currently collecting recyclable materials. The township has been paying the firm an additional $3,600 a month because recyclables were not included in the original solid waste contract.

State hosts great debate

Local students share national political stage

By BEN IBACH
 Special Writer

The third and final debate between the three main presidential candidates was held Monday at Michigan State University, and students from Northville were among those watching closely. MSU hosted the event at the Wharton Center and provided the support staff needed to make the debate successful.

Student tickets were severely limited, and the 230 tickets that were available were distributed by a lottery system. Most students were frustrated by the lack of tickets. A common sentiment was that debates held at a university should be directed at the students rather than simply being a lecture hall for the media.

Not all students felt this way, however. Steve Heitert, an MSU freshman from Northville, said, "The debate really is not for the students, it is a national concern. I think it is amazing that the students get any tickets at all."

Students without tickets were quite active even though they were disappointed about not being part of the debate. Many students were able to participate in various activities sponsored by the university. In the MSU Student Union, large screen televisions and free pizza were provided by area businesses brought in crowds of over 400 students. The Breslin Student Events Center was equipped with a large screen TV to facilitate student viewing. Other students took part in supporting their candidates by surrounding the Wharton Center with signs and chanting slogans.

Jalmece Groves, a graduate of Northville High School, watched all of the debates to learn about the candidates. "The debate in Richmond was the best because the candidates could address each other and they could interact with the audience," he said.

Democratic candidate Bill Clinton is particularly fond of this "Town Meeting" style and says he may use it in State of the Union addresses along with the typical report style. Clinton used this format this summer when he appeared on MTV to talk with a group of college students and voters in their early 20s.

Programs such as MTV's Rock the Vote and the new debate formats make the candidates' platforms more accessible to new voters. New voters in 1988 were described as apathetic and uncaring.

Some believe the changing style of interacting with the voters has brought new interest to the campaigns.

In addition, Ross Perot has increased voter interest by giving an unexpected twist to the presidential race. Heather McManus, another Northville High graduate at MSU, said that Perot was fun to watch, but she was still skeptical of his leadership ability.

"Perot thinks government reform is too easy," she said. "He criticizes the Republican and Democrats but he does not say how he will get Congress to change."

Heitert discussed similar concerns about Perot: "Six years to reduce $4 trillion worth of debt is too quick. Most families have debt, most companies have debt, why can't countries? I think Perot is right about reducing the amount of debt because of the huge interest payment, but six years is too soon."

Although Perot has captured the attention of young voters, he has yet to capture their votes. In an exit poll taken from a group watching the debate, 775 students felt that Clinton had won. Perot finished second with 444 votes, and President George Bush was last with 275.

Not all students watching the debate felt that this was an accurate assessment. Heather Sirt, a fourth-year MSU student from Northville, said Bush was more revealing than Clinton in his presentation. "Clinton talked about statistical facts, but he did not talk about his plans. Bush was more concrete."

Neither Bush nor Clinton, however, seemed to have a firm grasp of the state of Arkansas. Heitert said of the argument of the statistics, "I got kind of annoyed when they kept throwing around facts about Arkansas. I think Perot had a point when he said it was somewhat irrelevant."

Arsenal of weapons stolen from city residence

An Elmsmere Drive resident returned home after a week Oct. 11 to find five of his guns and a hunting bow stolen.

The guns included an Ithaca Model 7 12-gauge pump shotgun in a beige vinyl case, Remington 870 Wingmaster 20-gauge pump shotgun in a brown vinyl case, Krag Springfield rifle in a beige cloth case, and innerarms Mark 10 30.06 with a Simmons Magnum scope, Replica Colt 1860 .44-caliber revolver. The bow was a Bear limited edition compound bow with a 33-inch, 55-75 pound draw in a soft-sided black vinyl case. Also stolen were 12 Eastman graphite arrows.

The items were valued at more than $1,200. The owner told city police they were taken from under a bed in an upstairs room.

POLICE NAB AWOL SOLDIER: A 31-year-old Novi man stopped for speeding at Eight Mile and Lexington last week was arrested after city police discovered he was wanted for desertion by the Army. The man had been absent without leave for seven years.

Army officials first told city police to hold the man until their AWOL Apprehension Team arrived from Ft. McKay, Wis. But because the man had no other charges against him, they simply ordered him to travel to Ft. Knox, Ky., and sent him an airline ticket by Federal Express.

ASSAULT REPORTED AT MAGS: A man with a showroom at the Michigan Association of Gift Salesmen building, 133 W. Main St., told city police he was assaulted by another salesman. The man said he was punched in the arm about 4:30 p.m. Oct. 13., after an argument in which the other man, a 26-year-old Berkley resident, called him a thief.

The dispute stems from jewelry samples that the man kept when he quit working for the Berkley salesman. He said he kept the samples because the salesman owed him $1,000-$1,500. But the salesman told police that he was owed $2,100 for the jewelry samples, which had gone out of style.

Both sides eventually declined to press charges.

TIRES PUNCTURED: A car parked at Shopping Center Market, 425 N. Center St., was vandalized sometime between 6-11 p.m. Oct. 14. The car, parked in the south lot, had both its passenger-side tires punctured by a sharp object. The damage was estimated at $140.

WARRANT ARREST: A 19-year-old Northville man turned himself in to city police on an outstanding warrant just after midnight Oct. 14. He was wanted for failing to appear in court on a prior charge of driving with a suspended license.

FENDER BENDERS: City police cited a Northville girl, 16, for improper backing the evening of Oct. 12 after she backed out of a Baseline Road driveway east of Oakland Avenue.

The woman's vehicle was struck by an eastbound car.

A 31-year-old Northville woman was ticketed Oct. 14 after she drove into the back of another car. The woman was heading north on Center Street that morning when she struck a car stopped to turn in to Northville High School.

DRUG POSSESSION CHARGED: A 33-year-old Sterling Heights man was charged with possession of marijuana after his arrest late Oct. 18 on Haggerty near Seven Mile, police said.

Police reportedly spotted a small amount of marijuana on the seat of the man's 1992 Dodge Dakota pickup during a traffic stop. The man later turned over a plastic bag containing approximately two grams of marijuana that he had hidden in his pants, police said.

THEFT AT TOWNSHIP HOME: The owner of a home on Woodside Drive told police that someone kicked open a garage door and stole nearly $1,400 worth of jewelry from the home Oct. 17.

Reported stolen were a college graduation ring, a man's gold bracelet, a woman's gold necklace, a gold and diamond pinky ring, and three gold charms. Two door frames reportedly were damaged during the burglary, and damage was estimated at $600.

WALLETS, CASH STOLEN FROM HOME: A Northville man told police that a total of $400 cash was stolen from a Northville Road residence sometime between Sept. 1 and Oct. 6. Two wallets reportedly were taken from bedroom dressers in the home.

CAR BROKEN INTO: A 1987 Ford Taurus was the target of a theft sometime late Oct. 16 or early Oct. 17, police said. Police said the vehicle's driver's side window was smashed, and a radio possibly was stolen from the dash. The owner reportedly is out of the country and police were unable to determine if a radio was in the car prior to the theft. Damage was estimated at $200.

OUIL/POSSESSION OF PARAPHERNALIA: A 19-year-old Northville man was charged with operating a vehicle under the influence of liquor after his arrest early Oct. 17 on Maple Hill near Six Mile. Police discovered that the man was driving on an expired license and had a prior conviction for OUIL in 1991. A search of the vehicle reportedly uncovered four marijuana pipes, police said.

VEHICLE DAMAGED: A Northville woman told police that someone smashed the rear window of her leased 1992 Ford Probe sometime Oct. 14, causing an estimated $500 damage. The vehicle was parked on Rayburn west of Winchester at the time of the theft, police said.

Citizens with information about the above incidents are urged to call Northville City Police at 349-1234 or Northville Township Police at 349-9400.

Detroit man arraigned on township theft charge

A Detroit man with a checkered past of drug and assault violations was arraigned in 35th District Court last week on breaking and entering charges.

Joseph Vincent Troutman, 29, had a not-guilty plea entered for him last week at district court. Police say Troutman broke into a home on Eight Mile Road in Northville Township Sept. 25 and fled with $350 cash and credit cards after a confrontation with the 61-year-old homeowner.

A preliminary examination is scheduled for Troutman tomorrow at 35th District Court.

Troutman and another Detroit man were arrested in Redford Township late Sept. 25 while allegedly piloting a stolen 1985 Oldsmobile, said township police Det. Michael Wildt.

Troutman has been convicted of assault and cocaine possession charges, police said. He was ordered held on $50,000 cash bond in the Wayne County Jail at his arraignment Wednesday.

Police said the two Detroit men were driving a stolen vehicle when they allegedly began looking for homes to burglarize. The men drove on Eight Mile between Meadowbrook and Novi roads about midnight Sept. 25 when they noticed a home with an open garage door.

Wildt said Troutman entered the home through the garage and began rifling bedroom drawers. He reportedly had not seen the homeowner sleeping on a living room couch when he entered the house.

Police said the homeowner awakened and saw a light on in a room. The man got up to investigate and confronted Troutman, police said. The homeowner reportedly shouted at the suspect and ran toward him with a chair.

Troutman reportedly ran out the front door into an awaiting vehicle. Police were contacted and issued an area-wide computer report on the vehicle and two occupants. They were arrested in Redford Township. Troutman's alleged accomplice has not been charged in the incident, Wildt said.

Plan may go to vote

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

The City Council is considering it, but a Northville resident wants to make sure that city voters have their say over a proposed Cady Street parking deck.

Kevin Hartshorne is circulating a petition to have the proposed extension of Mainstreet '78, known as Mainstreet '92, put on the ballot for city voters.

The issue for Hartshorne is not the proposed 480-space parking deck, but the city's attempt to fund the $6.3-million project through tax capturing. The deck's expansion is proposed to be paid by a 20-year bond financed by taxes captured from an expanded Downtown Development Authority.

That move will deprive Northville Public Schools and other taxing units of almost all the increase in property taxes from the expanded DDA. School officials already were looking forward to about $250,000 more in tax revenue from the end of Mainstreet '78, due to expire in 1993.

The DDA expansion will be the subject of a Nov. 2 public hearing at city hall. The financing plan itself will be reviewed at a later public hearing, held at least 90 days after the city assembles a Development Area Citizens Council to review the plan.

City officials already are considering putting Mainstreet '92 on a ballot because of its potential impact on the schools and other affected taxing units, said City Manager Gary Word.

"The council is moving in that direction," Word said. "I think the council is waiting until after the Nov. 2 hearing, and will then decide."

But Hartshorne is not content to leave the decision up to the city. "Even if the council does bring it to a vote, I think the parking deck is going to cloud the issue," he said. "Do you want to take money from the school system to fund a parking deck, or whatever? That's the big question."

Hartshorne's task is to collect signatures from 10 percent of the city's 4,780 registered voters by Nov. 7, which is 21 days after he started his petition drive Oct. 18.

Once the signatures are collected and turned in at city hall, the city clerk has 14 days to verify them and turn the results over to the council. The city council then would have 150 days to place it on a ballot or declare a special election.

Man arouses suspicion after contact with girl

By MIKE TYREE
Staff Writer

Police are calling it a "suspicious" encounter, but for a 12-year-old Novi girl, "frightening" might be the more appropriate term.

The girl and her mother on Sunday reported what they felt was more than a casual advance by an unidentified man at the Meijer store at 20401 Haggerty in Northville Township.

Township police Det. Michael Wildt said the girl became separated from her mother while shopping at Meijer just after noon Oct. 18. As the girl walked from aisle to aisle, she reportedly noticed a white male in his 30s following her movements, Wildt said.

The man, described as 5'7" and 200 pounds, was dressed in a fluorescent baseball cap, a "medium colored jacket," and white tennis shoes, the girl told police. The girl said she stopped in a shoe aisle to try on a pair of shoes when the man approached her, placing both hands on the girl's shoulders, police said.

The man then reportedly said, "Excuse me, I tripped" and put his hands on his ankle. The girl took that opportunity to dash away and located a Meijer employee, who alerted the girl's mother, Wildt said.

The man could not be located in or around the store, police said.

Wildt said the girl could not recall enough of the man's features to prompt a composite drawing, and police are not calling the incident an abduction attempt.

"Right now, it's a suspicious person, because he didn't commit a crime," Wildt said, adding that the girl's story seemed genuine. "I don't believe the girl made it up at all."

Zoning board okays park plan

By MIKE TYREE
Staff Writer

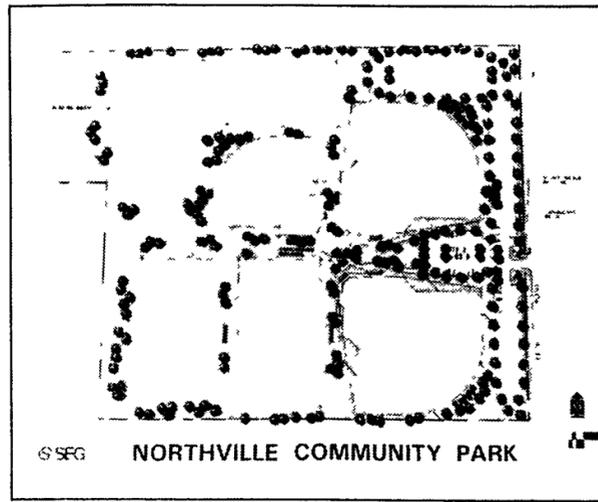

Proponents of the Beck Road community park successfully jumped through another in a long line of bureaucratic hoops this week, gaining approval for a pair of zoning variances.

The township Zoning Board of Appeals (ZBA) on Monday okayed front-yard setback and gravel parking lot variances. Coupled with the planning commission's recent thumbs-up verdict on the proposed park site plan, the way appears to be cleared for actual park development.

But appearances often deceive. Township and recreation officials this week offered no new insight on a move to obtain a $225,000 commercial loan through the township Building Authority.

The plan to use the Building Authority as a means to capture the loan and secure a low bidder's park grading price by a Dec. 8 deadline fell apart early last week.

The project was endangered when it was learned the township failed to correctly word a proposed legal advertisement crucial to the Building Authority program.

The planned park development

By attempting to gain a commercial loan through the Building Authority—a mostly paper extension of township government—the township had to formally announce its loan intentions through a published legal advertisement. The legal ad would start the clock on a 45-day referendum period, meaning any registered township voter opposing the park loan could gather signatures on a petition to attempt to force a township-wide vote on the issue.

Township officials had hoped to publish the advertisement last week, ensuring that the 45-day referendum would expire by Nov. 30, and fall within project low bidder DeAngelis Landscaping's Dec. 8 bid deadline.

But an apparent communication breakdown at township hall doomed the Building Authority plan, at least temporarily. Township officials and attorney Ernest Essad reportedly crossed wires, and after the smoke cleared, Dec. 8 became just another missed deadline.

ZBA members on Monday approved a variance to the township's 35-foot front yard setback requirements, allowing a 20-foot setback. The ZBA also okayed a gravel surface parking area, as opposed to ordinance-mandated asphalt parking.

The ZBA determined that sufficient hardships existed in both cases to justify the variances.

Petrie aims to open, upgrade township board

By MIKE TYREE
Staff Writer

James Petrie, 42, is the lone Democrat running for a seat on the Northville Township Board. Petrie, an educator, has served on the Northville Board of Education, including a stint as board president. He faces four other candidates for four board seats in the Nov. 3 election.

Why are you running for a township trustee position?

I think a lot of people were angry about what was going on in the township last spring; that there was a lot of unprofessional and unethical kinds of activity, in some people's minds. It was kind of "put up or shut up." If you think something's wrong, you ought to try yourself and offer some alternatives to the people that are there at the present time.

You said "unprofessional and unethical" activities. Could you ...

Jim Petrie

Well, I think the appointment of the supervisor, I think that was an activity that was questionable. I think what happened with WTUA and the issues concerning that. How the treasurer was appointed, those issues, how those things were handled was not the way they should have been, in my opinion. They angered me and they obviously angered a lot of people.

Looking back on how some of those things were handled, what would you have done to change those processes?

I think you need to have a wider range of people coming into the township and offering ideas. If you're going to do something like that, you've got to sit down with your fellow trustees and say, "We need to replace blank; what's the most open, honest, ethical way to do it?" Then I think you ought to discuss it with the public and get some feeling and go ahead with the decision.

In terms of the WTUA project, I don't think it got a wide enough hearing; why we got involved in it and what the impact might be. That's one thing, I think the story is not finished. I've been going to some of their meetings over in Plymouth and I'm curious as to what exactly the township's responsibility is in terms of the repayment of the bonds. I know there's a fund that's been created to pay off the bonds; it supposedly has over $8 million, but I would like to know the history of that fund — whether indeed that's the funding level it should be or not.

Now we've always been assured that's adequate, that's more than enough money to pay for it. But I'd like to hear a review from Plante & Moran. I'd like to do a review of that account, the history of the account, what the funds are that flow in, what the flow's been over the years, just see whether three years from now people are going to start getting water bills for $200 to pay for the bonding authority. I've never fully understood that, and I think that's important to know.

As a trustee, would you consider calling for an independent auditor to come in?

I would like to see the information laid out. I would like to create some kind of panel, or a blue-ribbon panel. I know there's a lot of hard-headed, business/accountant kind of people in this community, and I'd like to lay all those numbers in front of them, because that's not my background, and see whether they see any holes in it. If they see any situations where we might have a tremendous obligation down the line.

You've heard [outgoing Trustee Thomas] Handyside, was in charge of that, I believe worked on that fund, and he was saying that when sewer lines collapse, that's a drain on that fund. Well, what happens if a line collapses? Is that several million dollars out so that you can't keep the bond payments up? I think those issues have to be resolved.

You were a member of Northville 2000, an associate of several other people who now are running against you for the four board seats. What are some of the things you learned through Northville 2000, and did you think it was beneficial for you, as someone running for the board?

I think so. I think maybe the theme song was, "There's not a lot of planning going on. There's not a lot of foresight as to where the township needs to be. It's rushing from crisis to crisis."

The committee you were on in Northville 2000 dealt with recreation. What were some of your findings, some of your impressions?

I think the findings were that the Recreation Commission does a good job with (Chairperson) Ken Romine and Traci (Gottschalk, recreation director). A lot of the things they have to prepare for their own work, we adopted those things, for instance the development of the Beck Road park.

To jump back to the question you asked earlier, about the 20 or so people that worked on Northville 2000, they came in and had good ideas and good opinions and I'd just like to take a lot of the things they thought of — being proactive in decisions — and apply those to the township. I think that's something that hasn't been done.

You know that we had a Strategic ...

THIS SUMMER ALANA CAN BE LIKE ANY OTHER KID, AND FORGET HER HISTORY.

Alana is eight years old. For the last six years she has battled leukemia. That's six years of hospital visits and treatments twice a week. It's no way to spend a childhood.

But thanks to your donations to the United Way, agencies like the Children's Leukemia Foundation of Michigan can send kids like Alana to Special Days Camp. A place where Alana can enjoy carefree days of swimming, canoeing, and newfound friends.

The United Way supports 145 agencies. Nearly 90 cents of every dollar you contribute goes directly to work, since only 10.4 cents goes toward campaign and administrative costs. Your contributions help the homeless, and fight child abuse right here in Wayne, Oakland and Macomb counties. So please give to the United Way, and help kids like Alana leave their history in the past.

STILL THE BEST WAY TO SHOW YOU CARE.

Plan for the school district. I think we need to have that kind of thinking when we approach problems over there.

Speaking of problems, the budget seems to be a real problem right now. The township is facing an estimated $560,000 budget shortfall for 1993. How would you, as a trustee, approach a situation where building isn't keeping up with what's anticipated, and people are expecting higher levels of service, etc.?

I'm not up to speed on the budget as much as I should be. If I am elected, we have to look at all the services we provide. If some of that shortfall is in capital funds, obviously some of those issues will have to be postponed.

Give your impressions on the possibilities of increased shared services programs.

We were talking about city and township consolidation (at an Oct. 14 Northville 2000 meeting) and I understand the question was approached in the late '70s and was defeated both in the city and in the township. I think you have to look very carefully at why we have two police departments, and two planning departments. Why can't we put those things together? I don't know what the advantages are, and that would all have to be reviewed, but it makes a lot of sense. It's not as if we're a 10,000-square-mile community. It could be done and also in shared services, as far as ambulance services and fire services, they're often combined into one command structure. That makes a lot of sense. Can we combine the communities and how would it work out? That's something that should be looked at. I think it's going to be more difficult than tearing down the iron curtain. You know how it is.

You mean politically?

I suspect. There may be legal things, but I think if you got the feeling there was momentum and interest in both the city and township, you could get into some kind of advisory vote and see if the whole thing makes any kind of sense. I've been asking people if they know of any history of this, is there any history of cities and townships combining. That's the thing you have to investigate.

What do you see as the future of development in the township?

I think it looks pretty good, when the economy turns around. I think the idea of overreliance on residential property needs to be addressed, and using the (Wayne County) land down toward Five Mile for clean industry is great if we can get somebody to do it.

What separates you from some of the other people who are running for the trustee positions?

What is it that you could bring to the community that's different?

Well, of course I've had a lot of contact with the schools, and the schools and the communities need to work together. Plus, I've got a broader perspective working on the county school board. So I think I've got some contacts and some background that perhaps they might not share.

Would you keep your seat on the county school board?

Yes, I would. I've asked, and they don't consider that to be a conflict of interest. A lot of people don't even know what the county school board does, running special ed and training programs for teachers.

What about just having enough time to devote...?

That's something I'll have to figure out, but I've always been able to set aside time to work on these issues, as I did while I was on the (Northville)

School Board. I was also involved in a lot of other activities then.

How would you slot some of the key issues in the township right now?

I think number one is you've got to open up communications. I think you also have to begin calling in people from the community to assist you in developing answers to these problems. And of course you've got to address the issue of money.

You know (Treasurer Jack) Hosmer, a few weeks ago wanted to collect a third-mill, an override (Truth-in-Taxation attempt). Some people were very angry, and Jack thought it was imperative to do. I don't know if you want to pick up money until you know exactly what you're picking it up for, or where exactly it's going and to what ends.

To be candid about it, I think Jack's been a terrific member of that board. I think he asks excellent questions, he's well-informed; I think he's been a terrific addition to the board. But I think you've got to lay it all out in front of people. At that meeting, I don't know if you were struck by it, there wasn't any paper on it. It was just he was telling you "We need blank." There wasn't any paperwork, or explanation, or understanding, and that's when people wonder what's going on.

Is there a feeling people will support something when it's explained to them?

Sure. When you talk about senior citizens, when you talk about the library, when they know there's a purpose and they can understand it, when it's earmarked for different purposes, it makes sense to people.

The idea of the (Beck Road) park, now here they were, trying to finance this park deal, and when I was at township hall, it looked like there were lots and lots of loose ends, with nobody giving any strategy or any cohesion.

gust Republican primary.

Russ Fogg, 59, placed third in the August primary trustee vote. He has served 10 years on the tax Board of Appeals and was appointed to the Planning Commission earlier this year. He also holds a position with Northville 2000.

Barbara O'Brien, 63, was the second highest vote-getter in the August Republican primary. O'Brien is a Realtor who founded the township's Beautification Commission and served a stint on the Planning Commission.

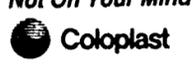

Petrie, 42, is an educator, a former Northville School Board member and president and a delegate to Northville 2000. He ran unopposed as a Democrat in the August primary election.

Voters turned out in big numbers in August, and the November election is also sparking considerable attention, said Eunice Switzler, township deputy clerk. Switzler said township elections staffers are scurrying to keep up with voter demand for absentee ballots.

By Tuesday, more than 1,900 township voters had requested absentee ballots. Absentee ballot requests were flooding in at such a pace that Switzler said, "We can't keep up with them."

McCotter seeks Wayne County Commission post

By SHARON CONDRON
Staff Writer

Thaddeus McCotter

Thaddeus McCotter of Livonia, won the Republican primary election in August and the chance to face sole Democrat Michael Caffery on the Nov. 3 ballot for the 10th District seat on the Wayne County Commission. The 27-year-old attorney said he's quit his practice to take on the commission seat and be the sole Republican on the panel of 15 commissioners. The son of Livonia City Clerk Joan McCotter, McCotter grew up in Livonia and graduated from Catholic Central High School. He's also the youngest member of the Schoolcraft College Board of Trustees, where he's serving out the rest of his first three year term.

McCotter upset incumbent Maurice Breen's plans for another term as the 10th District commissioner in the August primary. He attributes that win to running a clean, honest grassroots campaign.

What follows is an excerpt of a taped interview with McCotter about the election and the issues facing the Wayne County. Caffery did not attend; see related story.

Could you comment on the three Wayne County ballot proposals?

Proposal No. 1 is about the reorganization plan that has to be submitted by the chief executive officer. As it currently stands, upon taking office within 90 days he has to submit a plan. But the new proposal says, because there's been a dispute about what taking office means, whether it means you've taken it after reelection or you stayed, the commission put on the ballot that every four years the county executive will submit a reorganization plan. Within 180 days of taking office. I think it makes sense.

It's sad it came to this point, but I'm glad it happened. Because if they can't work it out at least put it to the people to clear up the language. I don't like the fact they cluttered up the ballot and they had to do it that way. They should have cleared it up themselves, but I don't think it's going to matter one way or another. And it does specifically say four years so there will be no more debate about that. And the reorganization plan is very important because it shows how the county executive will organize the department, the policies he wants to pursue in the department, the people he will assign there. So it gives the commission a good idea, and anyone interested in it, where his priorities are and where they are going. And it's very important and it wouldn't be important if it weren't mandated by the charter.

The second one is the juvenile detention facility, the juvenile detention facility in a perfect world. First of all that was done with the Wayne County jail millage. They put that on there to fund, to acquire, to operate an institution. People wanted an institution. They thought they were getting a building. Turns out the county thought the same thing because they were laying out the plans. But when they laid out the plans and the cost projections, the millage wouldn't cover building a new building. So they decided just to hold it (the money) and it sat there — and they started just this last year or the year before — they started sending money to some programs. In a perfect world they would just end the millage because they didn't give the people what they thought they were voting on. But they won't do that. And given the fact that the millage ends in 1997, and given the makeup of the current commission, I think the best we are going to do is adopt this so there is at least a chance of getting some of that money back into the communities.

The way it stands now is they don't have to give it to us. They can send it to any part of the county for any program that they want as long as it's kind of related to juveniles or juvenile problems. What you're going to find now is that it doesn't guarantee we are going to get the money because it says money that is collected and unspent within the year will be returned proportionately to the communities. It doesn't say that if they collected and spent it within a year we aren't going to get it. I mean it's better than nothing which is probably what we will get if we don't approve this.

Number three is the mental health/indigent health care ballot proposal, which will be a new millage.

I don't approve of that because it was my understanding that it was already a deal to fund it. It was $52.5 million. The funding was going to come $30 million from the federal government, $7 million from the state and $15.5 million from the county itself. Now that's in place. There's been no talk of that not going through. The problem is that some commissioners want to make sure that there's money on hand so they are using this tax as an insurance and you should never tax for insurance. So I'm against this one because we don't need the money.

Do you have any reaction to the way other ballot proposals were vetoed by the county executive? As far as him saying a lot of them were trying to usurp his power?

Well, a lot of them were. There's been a long running turf war down there between the Democrats. Whether they are suburban Democrats or Detroit Democrats on the county commission usually they can agree on one thing. That is, they want more power than they have and they want to take the county executive's office.

I think when the people of Wayne County passed a charter they wanted a strong chief executive to help manage the county's affairs. That's the key reason that that was adopted. I think when the commission, made up of 15 members from individual districts, starts to encroach on what the people adopted, it worries me. With the reorganization plan, it makes sense because it's already in there and they are just trying to perfect it. But in terms of some of the things they want it's just more of a turf war and it takes away from doing the actual job of governing Wayne County. As a Republican I think I'll be in a good position because I won't be drawn into a Democratic turf war. If anything I'll be able to hold out for what I think is right if I'm the deciding vote. I won't owe allegiance to anyone. McNamara, Coleman Young or even the other commissioners. The only allegiance I'll have is to my district. And I think that's a healthy thing.

If you were elected what specifically would you do to correct the problem about the Wayne County land in Northville Township?

One of the things you have to do I think is to find some way to relieve the burden on the services of Northville Township such as the police who have to patrol it all the time. I think that if I get in there one of the first things I'll do is talk to Sheriff Ficano and see if there's anyway we can work out an arrangement that, crazy as it may sound, the county patrols its own property that it's responsible for. That's county property and the Township of Northville is spending its time protecting it. That's not the way it's supposed to be.

Another thing that you could look at is that if they find a new developer, one of the things you could ask is that they hire security to patrol it while they are working on the development of it, or while they are organizing it. Of course they won't want to do that because it all comes down to money. But I don't think that it is fair that if somebody has to pay for it, I don't think it has to be Northville Township because it's county property.

Why do you feel you are a better candidate?

I just think that I'll approach the job in a more energetic manner than my opponent would. I will go out and seek out citizens' input. I will put it the time in because I'm not going to work a job on the side like I believe almost all the commissioners do. I've gone door to door to talk to people and I'll continue to do that. I believe I am more knowledgeable on the issues than my opponent is. I've looked at them. I've worked them over and come to my decisions. And I've put them out there. I just think those are the prime reasons. There is a way I can go with that question and I don't want to do it because I don't want to be negative.

Is there anything specific that you want to accomplish as a commissioner?

One of the things that I want to look at is to get ethics reform for Wayne County. Political officials have no ethics bill or ethical guidelines. They haven't adopted one for themselves and the state has yet to propose one. You can raise as much money from any sources as you want to get down there and spend as much money as you want to. I think you have to look at that. One of the things that would be interesting because I base it on Congress — but I don't think it would survive a constitutional challenge — is if you just said to these people you can only raise your money from within the district and you can't take PAC money and set an individual contribution limit. I don't know that that would work but I think it could.

One step that would be possible is to keep the money the same amount and just say it's a full time job. Because what you find down there are a lot of people who are investment

PMS: Symptoms of the Times

Most women have symptoms of premenstrual syndrome, PMS. And for some, the symptoms make everyday life unbearable, affecting their job and relationships with family and friends.

Symptoms usually appear before a woman's menstrual period every month. They may include:

- physical discomforts such as bloating, weight gain, headache, constipation and fatigue
- behavioral changes such as depression, irritability, anxiety, tension and mood changes

Is It Really PMS?

The cause of PMS is unknown. Symptoms may be misleading. To see if you have PMS, keep daily records of symptoms. If they worsen 3-14 days before your period and stop once it begins, you probably have PMS.

Treatment

There is no cure for PMS, but you can reduce symptom severity. Avoiding salt and caffeine are common steps. Diuretics may also be prescribed. Exercise can be a "wonder drug," strengthening muscles, reducing fat, relieving tension, elevating mood, lessening depression.

Some doctors may suggest vitamin treatments, oral contraceptives or natural progesterone suppositories.

You may have to try several treatments before finding the right combination.

Support groups offer educational and emotional help. Understanding PMS and how it affects you is important for you to lead a happy and healthy life.

counselors or attorneys that go do work on a lot of stuff that affects Wayne County. You see a lot of people leaving podiums and things like that. We've run into some of that in other areas of government and I don't think that's right.

One of the prime things is to really find a solution to the problem of that county property. I said it in the primary; I'll say it again. That's one of the fundamental things I want to look at. One of the first things I'll try to do is try to reduce the burden on the local services of Northville Township and try to have the county at least start carrying some of its weight. And another thing is to just let the people know they have a commission that will work down there and will listen to them. I didn't win with PAC money; I don't listen to those people. I won with grassroots support and I want to keep that up.

People here complain they aren't getting adequate services from the county for their tax dollars. How do you respond to those people?

One of the things you can do is ask the people what specific services they want. You hear a lot about services and a lot of people want more from Wayne County but what is the specific "more" that they want? It has to be hard to get somebody in there and take some of this stuff away and know that we can't get everything they want. But what we can do is send someone — hopefully me — down there and tell them you aren't getting any more from us. I mean I'm not going to let you tax these people. You have to use the money you got so they aren't going to be hit up for any more money. And I'll try to get more services out of them, but that's why you need an active commissioner so when you say you want more services, okay, tell what are those services.

And unless you know that you could get more services, they may not be the ones you want. I don't think anybody ever's asked people out here what they want.

But I'll tell you what, I'm not going to give the commissioners any more money from out here to do what they want. They view us as successful communities. You know, Livonia, Plymouth and Northville City and Northville Township, we have success. We have low taxes out here. We have good services. We have good business development. And rather than ask us how that can help some

Opponent misses interview times

By SHARON CONDRON
Staff Writer

Plymouth's Michael Caffery is the Democratic opponent to Republican Thaddeus McCotter's bid for the 10th District seat on the Wayne County Commission.

The Northville Record tried unsuccessfully four times to conduct an interview with the two candidates.

On three occasions the 68-year-old Plymouth Realtor failed to show at The Northville Record for scheduled joint interviews with his opponent, McCotter.

McCotter, who canceled an earlier joint appointment, was prompt to each of the three remaining interviews.

"I appreciated any time we had to get together to talk about the issues," McCotter said. "I was disappointed he couldn't make it. But then again, I just don't see how sending another Democrat to the commission is going to effect change."

Even though Caffery has participated in other debates around the district, he failed to show for debates with McCotter on Sept. 24 and again on Oct. 5 and 16. On each occasion he did not telephone prior to the scheduled time to cancel.

After his last no-show on Oct. 16, the paper told Caffery it would not reschedule again. The candidate then offered to buy an advertisement in the Record.

"Would it make a difference if I brought a check in for an ad right now?" he asked after calling the Record three hours after his Friday appointment, which he had confirmed the day before. He said he had become tied up with business.

Caffery wanted to know what bearing his buying the advertisement would have on the newspaper's reconsidering another appointment.

He was told it would have no bearing, and McCotter's taped responses would run solo. In a telephone interview prior to the scheduled interviews, Caffery said he was running for the commission seat because he didn't believe district residents were getting an adequate voice with the incumbent, Maurice Breen, who McCotter defeated in the Republican primary. He said at the time he was hoping to get on the commission and work toward improving the Hines Park area.

of the areas of Wayne County that are hurting, they tax us because they think we can afford it. That's their whole approach. Not all the commissioners, but a significant amount. It's almost like the soak-the-rich mentality. When we know that we have budget problems out here. We have budget problems in Livonia, in Plymouth, and in Northville. Why should we be punished for being successful when we are already hurting? That's a problem and that's something I will continually bring up down there . . . that we are not a well you can go to every time you think you have a money problem or you think you'd like to do something better.

What is your reaction to some of SEMCOG's findings and its position on urban sprawl?

SEMCOG frightens me because it's a quiet organization. Not a whole lot of people know about it. It's an organization that began as a strictly voluntary organization that began by making recommendations. It's unelected and it controls $1.5 billion in highway money. $1.5 billion in the hands of an unelected body, the same body that said the People Mover should be moved out to Eight Mile. The same organization that wants to control growth throughout the tri-county area from a centralized planning authority. And now they got $1.5 billion in highway funds that they can use as a hammer over our heads to do that. That's worrisome.

One of the things that I'd like to look at is to see how come the National Highway Transportation Act did not give that money to the county to distribute. They gave it to regional transportation planning organizations. What's a county? We handle roads. We look at transportation. We should have gotten that money. SEMCOG (got it) just because it is larger. It is still unelected. You have no input into SEMCOG. But they have $1.5 billion that they can do whatever they want with it for transportation. They can decide where the roads go. That will affect how development goes.

Development, whether it's urban sprawl or not, should be a decision for the local community because that's where government is most impacted by citizens. The larger the governmental body the farther it gets from the people. In terms of urban sprawl, I don't think so; I think that where there's land, there's development.

Schmid wants to repret people, not politics

By RANDY COBLE
Staff Writer

Kay Schmid, R-Nowi, is running for re-election to the seat on the Oakland County Commission which represents the Oakland part of Northville. Her opponent is Democrat William Brinker, who did not appear for a scheduled joint interview. A transcription of Schmid's comments follows.

Should the 52nd District Court, first division, be located in Novi as the state suggests, or elsewhere, as other local communities suggest?

This is nothing but politics. The City of Walled Lake would like to keep it; the City of Wixom wants it; the City of Novi is supposed to have it. There's been a lot of discussion about where the population of the area covered by the court is centered, and about how long it will take people and police from some areas of the district to get to a courthouse located in Novi.

(But) that's just a way of confusing the issue. The site (near the I-96 Beck Road exit) is two miles from the Wixom site. People from the northern sections of the district won't have a problem. According to state statute, you are allowed to sit at other locations within the district as the need arises. If this (the travel time) is a problem, in White Lake, why couldn't we have one judge go up there one or two days a month?

What I am trying to do is get them to stop looking at all this political stuff and fix the problems and address the needs of the communities.

Do you support or oppose State Rep. Barbara Dobbs', R-Union Lake, bill that would give the county flexibility in deciding where to place the courthouse?

I introduced a resolution to oppose her bill (with the Board of Commissioners) and it was defeated. That was last April. These people have had since last April until now to introduce a resolution to get this done. Nobody's introduced one.

I oppose the plan because it makes the court a political football, and by making it a political football you see exactly what you're seeing now — people running around and screaming. What I'm going to try to do is try and fix the problem. Maybe I'm a lousy politician, but I'm going to try to deal in what works for Oakland County rather than somebody's political pinings.

Following redistricting this April, your new district includes Walled Lake. Some members of the Walled Lake City Council have been critical of you, saying you would not give Walled Lake fair representation as a result of the courthouse issue. How do you respond?

When this all started, the law was as it is now — the state statute provided the court goes to Novi. I started trying to keep that going. Then, along about April, redistricting. Now I am stuck in a position of representing Walled Lake and Novi — that puts me in a political pickle.

Why would I want to endorse that (Dobbs) bill (now) and put myself in that kind of a position when we can solve our problems without doing that? They are very upset because they want the courthouse so bad, and that's why they're bashing me.

I work very hard at my job. I spend more hours (at it) than many commissioners do. I think I've been quite successful in representing my constituents on a great many issues and if I am fighting this hard (for Novi), why would they assume that I would not represent them also? They're going on one issue.

You just can't say I'm a bad person because I'm continuing a fight I started in January and the game changed in April. I think my proven record of working hard (for my constituents) should be some indication to them that I will work just as hard for them.

What is your position on the construction of a county incinerator and why?

It's out of our control at this point. I have continued to support the 20-year, state-mandated, Act 641 solid waste plan, which included an incinerator. We still have not received a permit from the Department of Natural Resources to build an incinerator. Also, because the state keeps changing the rules about whether you can cross county lines with solid waste, you can't control the flow of waste. If you (Oakland County) can't control waste, there is no 641 plan.

Also, the vendor on the waste-to-energy facility has backed out — that left our permitting process in limbo. (But) we want to put the state's feet to the fire — either say this will work or it won't. We have done every possible thing we can to make this (incinerator) a safe operation.

The issue is just kaput until somebody makes some decisions on what the needs are and what the rules are. I'm waiting to see. As it stands now, I support the full 20-year plan.

Do you support or oppose the idea to place the county Road Commission under the control of the Board of Commissioners?

That question comes up every year. In order to do that, you have to have state legislation. The issue is that 90 to 95 percent of a road commission's budget is not for road improvements, it's for maintenance of county roads or township roads.

You can't fix that problem just by having the county take it over; you have to change the mechanism for how those funds are distributed (by the state) as far as what goes to new growth, what goes to existing roads. Right now, the state gives money to road commissions and local communities according to the weights and the gas tax.

There are advantages — in things like duplication of services. We don't need two personnel departments, two different bureaucracies doing the same thing. These kinds of services can be fixed, but if you want to get at the real issue — money — you have to make other legislative choices.

If we could find a plan that works and benefits all the people of Oakland County, I would support it. But not just to make one change.

How do you feel about Brooks Patterson's plan to eliminate the county department of public works and place all of its functions under the drain commissioner, an elected official?

I support that 100 percent. I would much rather deal with an elected official like him.

Why is that?

Because George Kuhn is the type of elected official that comes in and says, "you've given me this budget and this many people. I don't need these two guys for six months, so you can take them out of my budget." He has been the most honest, efficient drain commissioner. In public (works) administration, they are always trying to justify more needs, more people, more funds for every reason.

Are we changing the structure of the county government to fit a single man, and is that wise, considering that George Kuhn may not always be there?

No, I don't think we are. (However), it is true that if Brooks Patterson is the successful candidate (for county executive), he may say to George Kuhn, "I want you over here to run this department."

But then there's the other thing: if it's not broken, don't fix it. If it gets broken because of a change in the leadership over there (in the drain commission), then fix it. But right now, it's not broken.

By voting margins, Oakland County is about 54 percent Republican, but the county board of commissioners is about two-thirds Republican. Democrats have charged that this is the result of unfair apportionment procedures. They also cite that the (county) apportionment commission, which draws the county commissioners' district boundaries, consists of four GOP votes versus one Democratic vote. How do you respond to that?

There are just as many Republican commissioners that are angry at the apportionment board as there are Democrats. Just because there are four Republicans up there and one Democrat doesn't mean we (Republicans) didn't get messed up, because we did. Some of my colleagues were targeted because they didn't go along with what the county (heads) wanted. The easiest way to get rid of those is to redraw those lines to make it impossible for those people to continue on the board.

As far as the apportionment board, that is set by state statute. The people that sit on the apportionment board are your county prosecutor, treasurer, clerk and your Republican and Democratic county chairs. That's true all over the state of Michigan — it's not a whim of Oakland County.

The county has a reputation for running a tight financial ship. However, in the past year controversy has arisen over potentially improper use of county cars and the purchasing of artwork for offices. Given that, what is your assessment of the state of the county budget? Where would you make changes?

I've already started that process. The most obvious one is that we've gone from 27 commissioners to 25. This past year, I sat on a subcommittee of the board. We addressed a proposal for a review and a rewrite of the purchasing procedures that the county follows. We changed 10-12 of their present policies. These are the changes we made so we could save money internally.

There are tough economic times now. There are things that the state would like to shift down to us to take care of. One of the things is the "co-management of community mental health hospitals." The state is trying to empty all the responsibilities for mental health services and shift it over to the counties. We have yet to sign the agreement, because the funds may be there this year, but we have no guarantees that we're getting that funding next year. Until we can get that on a long-term basis, we are not going to participate.

To sum up, why should you be selected over your opponent for this job?

Two years ago, I said that I wasn't looking for a job, I was looking to represent people. Little did I know the time it would take to do the job the way I feel it should be done. I have become involved in not just the standard (work) — when I get involved, I get involved.

When I get into something, I do it because I think it's right. I just get down and I work. I do all the things necessary that most commissioners don't do.

One of my biggest successes is to get Michigan Bell to include Novi, South Lyon and Lyon Township in the new area code district, to go into effect in 1994-95. They were the only communities in Oakland County to be left out. Calling across the street, they'd have to dial a different area code. So I got involved; I said, "I want them in there."

Debbie McDonald and Al LaVine amid the celebrities

Jewelers host star-studded event

Al LaVine and Debbie McDonald, husband and wife owners of Northville Diamond Jewelers in downtown Northville, will host a glamorous evening with a Jewelry Show and Hollywood Premiere Guest Appearance Review.

The show, by invitation only, will be from 4-9 p.m. Friday evening. It will feature champagne diamonds, chatham emeralds and rubies, exclusive one-of-a-kind diamond jewelry pieces, certified diamonds, and a new fine jewelry Christmas collection.

Guests of Northville Diamond Jewelers will be given the "actual red carpet treatment" with complimentary valet parking, champagne and hors d'oeuvres. In addition, guests will be able to be treated to interviews with (life-like) President George Bush and first lady Barbara Bush, Madonna, Marilyn Monroe, James Dean, Michael Jackson, John Wayne, and Clint Eastwood. Media reporters and photographers will be available for "complimentary pictures and interviews with the stars."

Guests at Northville Diamond Jewelers will be treated to tours of their new vertically integrated jewelry design and manufacturing facility. Demonstrations of jewelry manufacturing and repairing will also be available to guests.

When asked about the expected attendance, McDonald said, "We will mail over 8,000 invitations to all of our preferred customers throughout Southeastern Michigan. As a special 'thank you' for their continued loyal patronage over the last few years, we are offering them a 50-percent discount on every item purchased that evening in our store. Our customers have become our friends."

The owners promise "an evening that will be exciting and long remembered" by their guests. Northville Diamond Jewelers is located at 201 E. Main St. at Hutton. For more information call 348-6417.

Mill Race Matters

One Sunday remains for visiting the buildings at Mill Race Village. All buildings will be open with docents on hand this Sunday, Oct. 25 from 2 to 5 p.m. This Sunday is the conclusion of our Summer visitation season. The village will again be open during the city's Christmas Walk in November. It will reopen for the summer of 1993 in May of that year.

All docents are invited to join the final tribute luncheon on Saturday, Oct. 24. Each participant is asked to bring a dish to pass. Beverage, rolls and table service will be provided. The luncheon begins at noon at Cady Inn. Be sure to be there to receive the recognition you so justly deserve.

Thank you this week to Betty Allen for donation of a 1945 Northville High School Class picture and Mayor Christopher Johnson for donation of his wedding fees. Thanks from last week were somehow garbled in printing so thank you again to the Motor Vehicle Manufacturers' Association library for their donation of storage boxes for use in our archives, the Mill Race Basket Guild for their donation of a beautiful basket, and Genittis' for their donation of a gift certificate.

Donations are still being accepted as part of the second phase of Adopt A Tree. These trees will be used to grace the entranceway to our village. Contact Sally at 348-1845 for additional information.

Another portion from the memories of Abraham Markham one of the first settlers in what became Northville Township. He writes of his experience in December, 1825. This week on his home.

"... In two days I was ready for a log cabin raising. I therefore invited all the neighbors who lived within two and a half miles, and they all came, every one of them. I thought I would count them. There was David Phillips, G.P. Benton and myself, that was all. We went to work, and by night we had the building up ready for the roof, the next day the shakes were out and ready for laying. These shakes are used as shingles; they are thin pieces of ash, oak or other timber about three feet long. They are laid onto poles, which serve the place of ribs. Having finished the roof, I went to work at the inside. The floor is made of logs split through the middle, laid flat side up onto poles for sleepers, and made smooth with an adze. The chimney is built of sticks, then plastered on the inside with clay mortar. The back, or the place for the fire, was made of stone and clay mortar, one or one and a half feet thick. This is the way all log cabins were made for two or three years of the first settlement of this town. My cabin was a good one, 14 by 16 feet, finished off in good, comfortable style without a board, nail or glass."

This portion of memories again comes from the Michigan Pioneer Collection now available at the Northville Historical Society Archives. Abraham Markham was born in 1800 so he would have been 25 at the time these events occurred. The 1850 census shows him married to Mary L., age 38, with children George B., 18, Henry C., 15, Louisa, 9, and Alonzo, 2.

ity shut-offs, medical disasters and eviction.

"Marlene is the standard-bearer for the soul of our community," Willis said in presenting her the award.

Greg Presley has come to the community's aid from another direction, through his work on the Downtown Development Authority, Planning Commission, Ford Plant Study Committee, and the chamber's own Business Development and Retention Committee.

Willis described Presley as "a volunteer committed to the vision of what Northville was, is, and what it will be."

"Greg epitomizes the adage, The best way to get something done is to do it yourself," she said.

Kunz described herself as merely the conductor of a talented band of volunteers, while Presley noted that many of his best ideas come from his wife, Lois.

The award winners were selected from a strong field of nominees including long-time Kiwanis Club member Mitchell Deeb, Northville Youth Assistance Director Mary Ellen King, Recreation Commission

Chairperson Ken Romine, restaurateurs and theatrical producers John and Toni Genitti, U-M Health Centers official Peg Campbell, and jeweler Debbie McDonald.

"It was a real tough decision," Willis said.

Laurie Marrs, the chamber's executive director, said the board of directors deadlocked on the two finalists. "They just couldn't come to an agreement because everybody felt that both deserved the award, and one was no less deserving than the other," she said. "It's a tribute to both of them."

The chamber's Citizen of the Year award is presented each year to a Northville resident or business owner who has worked for the betterment of the entire Northville community.

Since its inception in 1979, the award has honored many familiar names. Former mayors Mike Allen and Paul Vernon, former Northville Public Schools Superintendent Russell Amerman, and former Northville Record Managing Editor Jack Hoffman have all earned the honor.

Last year's award went to School Board member and former board president Jean Hansen.

Park plan bungled by familiar sources

Plans to develop the Beck Road community park site have again unraveled at the seams, like an old baseball that's been pounded too many times.

We hope it's not the case, but it's beginning to look like the weed-choked, neglected plot will never be anything but a field of broken dreams.

If nothing else, the bureaucratic bungling that led to this most recent fumble points out the blatant lack of leadership, planning, and direction that has plagued Northville Township for years.

It's a tired story by now, but one that must be told. As the Beck Road park site inched closer to reality — and recreation enthusiasts visualized well-groomed soccer and baseball fields — township officials and their attorney rolled up their sleeves and effectively (albeit unintentionally) quashed the plans.

Last August, recreation officials began pushing the township board to do something, anything, to give them some direction on the park plan. Some movement occurred by September, as the Township Board told township Manager Richard Henningsen and attorney Ernest Essad to start working on park financial and legal details.

Meanwhile, Parks and Recreation Director Traci Gottschalk, Recreation Commission Chairperson Ken Romine, and other recreation officials talked to banks, attorneys, politicians, the proposed contractors, and others, greasing the wheels for a Building Authority-approved loan plan.

But it became evident several weeks ago that the real decision-makers, Supervisor Betty Lennox, Henningsen, and Essad, were either not making those decisions, or were hamstrung in their attempts to do so. For weeks, the park plan was ignored. Suddenly, sand was pouring from a development hourglass at a frightening pace.

During the week of Oct. 5, township officials frantically began moving on the park plan, attempting to line things up for the Oct. 8 board meeting. Resolutions modifying the city/township shared services agreement and establishing a chain of command for a finance agreement were adopted by the board.

The three-member Building Authority was hastily assembled last week, and gave the nod to the loan plan. All that was left was for the township to publish a legal advertisement that followed the law and opened a 45-day referendum period. The 45-day window would close Nov. 30, allowing the township to receive a $220,000 loan and accept the contractor's bid by the contractor's Dec. 8 deadline.

On Tuesday, Oct. 13, disaster struck. Essad informed the township that bond counsel (another law firm) would not accept the township's proposed legal ad language. Incidentally, Essad didn't even contact bond counsel until after the board's Oct. 8 session.

Scratch the Nov. 30 plans. And when Essad told this paper that it would take another 10 days to two weeks to come up with proper ad wording, recreation officials basically said goodbye to the Dec. 8 bid deadline.

Now Essad wants the Rec Department to spend its funds to hold the bid. The Recreation Commission views that idea as absurd, and rightly so. No sane person would expend hard-earned park development funds before a loan arrangement was firmly in place. The township can't guarantee that scenario, nor can they ensure that someone won't force a referendum vote by turning in anti-park petitions within the 45-day waiting period.

So how did a fast track park plan get derailed? For one, look to Essad, the township attorney. Why didn't he have everything set up — acceptable legal mumbo-jumbo included — before last Monday? He's paid to make the right decisions, and he and Lennox stitched together the plans that led to the board resolutions and the Building Authority meeting.

Clearly someone messed up. Perhaps Essad wasn't given proper or complete direction, but he's no rookie, and should have known what was needed by when to make the plan work.

We're not too sure that some of the hoops in this frustrating park plan weren't intentionally placed. Do some township officials — we don't think the entire board is to blame — have another scheme cooked up that would circumvent the loan plan? The idea of not having proper legal wording in place at the right time is just too outrageous to believe.

Call us cynical, but we think the park plan — if not actually sabotaged — was victimized by lack of ability and lousy communication. We hope the incoming Township Board, working with perhaps a new law firm and its already solid Recreation Department, can fit together the pieces to this most frustrating puzzle.

The deafening sound of denial

Safe from alcohol and other drugs.

Safe for teenage parties

What I am talking about here is the concept of Safe Homes, which the community of Northville and Northville Township are going to be asked in the weeks ahead to rise to the challenge and encourage non-drug and alcohol use as well as responsible parenting patterns.

According to the Northville Public Schools Alcohol and other Drugs survey responses from eighth-, tenth- and twelfth-graders initiated by the Michigan Department of Education, we as community members had better heed the symptoms that are before us.

Regarding alcohol, 90 percent of Northville twelfth-graders have tried alcohol and 50 percent of twelfth-graders consumed five or more drinks in a row within two weeks of the survey.

Regarding marijuana, 41 percent of seniors in Northville have tried marijuana and 26 percent of twelfth-graders used marijuana within one month of the survey. National average is 14 percent.

Regarding inhalants, 34 percent of Northville seniors have tried inhalants. National average is 18 percent, and 7 percent of Northville twelfth-graders used inhalants within one month of the survey. National average is three percent of 12th-graders.

My question to readers is: Is there an elephant in your living room? Living with alcoholism and drug abuse is a lot like living with an elephant in the living room. Remember, alcohol is a drug.

The elephant stands there, in the living room, shifting from one foot to the other and slowly swaying from side to side. Imagine also the people who live in this house. All members of the family have to go through the living room many times each day as they walk through the room very carefully . . . around . . . the elephant. Everone avoids the swinging trunk and enormous feet.

Since no one ever talks about the elephant, there is denial that the elephant even exists.

My point is this: We can no longer deny that a problem with drugs and alcohol exists if we hope for our children to realize their dreams someday. I am very involved in education, support and referral services for our high-risk youth in this community.

I know that there are many scared adults and children out there who continue to tip toe around the elephant. I also know that especially recently, more and more parents are coming forward and accepting that something in their children's behaviour is wrong. We meet together at a home, a park, a restaurant, or my office to discuss and plan how to get the child or sometimes adult back on track.

We need to be able to recognize any elephants in our living rooms and be able to talk about them because the healing process can only begin and occur by recognizing — becoming aware of — the problem.

If you need to talk confidentially call me at 344-1825, Monday, Wednesday or Friday. How much is a call worth?

'Cut and Cap' is mere fiction

It's beginning to look as though the only close contest in Michigan's elections will be over Proposal C, cutely named "Cut & Cap."

If adopted, the proposal would cut local property taxes levied to support schools by 30 percent over five years and limit assessment increases to 3 percent a year. The state would automatically reimburse local schools for lost revenues.

Supporters include Gov. John Engler and the Michigan State Chamber of Commerce. Opponents include labor unions, school folks and a bunch of Michigan dignitaries, including former Gov. William Milliken.

Despite a bunch of mutually misleading TV ads, polls so far indicate that likely Michigan voters are pretty much split down the middle on Proposal C, with a lot of folks undecided.

Everybody agrees that Michigan's property tax burden is too high, especially when compared to our Great Lakes neighbors. And when pressed, everybody even agrees that Michigan's total tax burden is no higher than our neighbors'.

So if the effect of Proposal C were merely to shift the basis of taxation from real property to something else like income, there would be little debate.

But it's not that simple. It now seems clear that Proposal C would cut, probably drastically, into state revenue. And nobody I have talked to in Lansing, Republicans or Democrats, has the slightest idea how to pay for it.

Watch the numbers for the first year Proposal C is in effect. Assuming no other big tax increase (Gov. Engler's vow), the state will have to reimburse local school districts nearly $420 million to pay for their lost revenue.

Maybe that cost can be made up for by revenue growth. Let's get real optimistic and say the recession ends, so Michigan's revenues increase by $500 million in 1993-94. That leaves the state $80 million ahead.

But that $80 million won't cover the $342 million in one-time accounting gimmicks and fund raids approved by the Legislature to balance this year's budget.

So the state of Michigan will have to find something like $250 million to cover the difference.

Where? Oh, from non-essentials like the State Police or our state parks system. Or from appropriations to universities. Or from what's left of our mental health system.

The potential for truly serious damage to Michigan is so great under Proposal C that it's fair to ask, what's really going on here?

I think the answer is simple: Gov. Engler and others have looked with admiration at the number President Reagan and his crew did to the federal budget. Convinced that government itself was the problem, they figured that if taxes could be cut enough to provoke a horrendous deficit, the result would be a radical cut in the size of government.

Their only mistake was that Washington insiders (Congress, President Bush) were quite prepared to finance government operations by running up the deficit.

But Michigan has a constitutional prohibition against deficit spending. So if you cut taxes radically through Proposal C and can't have a deficit, you must cut the size of state government.

What's really going on here is a radical fundamental attempt to downsize Michigan's structure of governmental services, conveniently disguised as a proposal to reduce property taxes.

Radically cutting the size of state government may or may not be a good idea. But it's an idea that should be debated and voted on according to its merits, not through the fiction of a cutely named ballot proposal.

Mainstreet '92 raises questions

To the editor:
The Northville City Council has embarked on an ambitious course to create a $6.5-million parking deck project through the auspices of the Downtown Development Authority. The tax increment financing plan, embraced by this City Council, to fund this endeavor is a continuation of the Mainstreet '78 program. The 15-year bond issue that financed the Mainstreet '78 program shall be retired by the end of next year. A full 60 percent of the money to fund those bonds has come directly from the Northville Public Schools. This year alone $304,000 has been diverted from the Northville Public Schools general and debt-retirement funds. Next year, if Mainstreet '92 is allowed to pass, that amount grows to between $360,000 and $370,000. Keep in mind that these funds would otherwise be available for the education of students in the Northville Public Schools.

If the council is allowed to pass the Mainstreet '92 plan this diversion of funds will continue for the next 20 years.
The council's only hurdle left to bond over our children's future is the public hearing that is required by ordinance to occur 90 days after the formation of a development area citizens council. Please realize that with respect to the ordinance the City Council is obliged only to inform the taxing authorities of their intent and hold a public hearing. Even if all five of the taxing authorities (Northville Public Schools, Wayne County, City of Northville, etc.) disapprove of this proposal at the conclusion of the public hearing, it will take just three votes by members of the Northville City Council to make Mainstreet '92 a reality. It is not required that this matter come before the city electorate.

Therefore, and with the rights granted by our Northville City Charter, I have begun circulating a referendum petition (which will require 10 percent of the registered city voters) to repeal sections 13 and 16 of Public Acts 1975-No. 197 entitled Revenue and General Obligation Bonds. If we are successful in this endeavor we shall assure ourselves of just one thing, and that is the right to vote. In any event, the Northville Township residents and Novi residents who are part of the Northville Public Schools shall have no say in the matter. If you are approached in the next 21 days by someone with one of these petitions, please hear them out. If you would like to sign or help circulate one of these petitions, please call me.

Kevin Hartshorne

Vital to learn impacts of DDA's plan

To the editor:
Residents of the Northville School District need to learn about all aspects of the DDA proposal, including the negative financial impact on the public schools. A large amount of tax money that would otherwise come to the schools is used by the DDA for projects in the DDA area of the City of Northville.
Irene Fleming

Write in for state representative

To the editor:
Good government depends on an informed electorate and vigorous opposition, primarily within the framework of the two party system. Democracy functions poorly when these two needs are not met. Yet the Northville, Livonia, Plymouth area has very poor balance in party representation as we approach the election.
Northville Township has never — yes, never, had an elected official that ran and won on the Democratic Party ticket. The recent house-cleaning was primarily an "in" party activity but was extremely appreciated by the massive majority of the township. One candidate for Trustee is a designated Democrat (Jim Petrie). He is a fine example of able opposition needed on the local board to help balance excessive party influence. Wouldn't it be great if he could win?
The state representative for the 20th District will be elected Nov. 3. The primary winner from the Republican Party is a shoo-in because of no opposition. This representative will represent Northville, Northville Township, Plymouth, Plymouth Township, and the upper western part of Livonia. It is basically a very conservative Republican stronghold. Sensible Democrats see futility in attempting to win that kind of an election. The area is basically at least two to one in favor of the Republican Party.

Nevertheless, I feel strongly that some definitive opposition must be attempted. So I place myself in the role as the "sitting duck" candidate for the 20th District. A voice must be heard and an ideology compared. It is very late in the game, and to attempt a write in ballot is most difficult to accomplish.
I have lived in the community for 36 years. I have been married for 38 years to my wife, Claudene. We have two grown children, out, on their own and doing well. The family dog died, but we do have a cat to care for. I am a veteran of World War II and the Korean War. I worked as a painter in my youth and took over the business for a short time after the death of my father.
I went to Michigan State University, University of Michigan, and Eastern Michigan University on two GI Bills. I have a bachelor of science and master of science in education. My major was clinical psychology and later evolved into special education. The emotionally disturbed child was my first love, but I later qualified in the areas of learning disabilities and the mentally retarded. I also have an elementary certificate.

I am retired and have 36 years of teaching credit. My jobs consisted of Psychiatric Child Therapist at Ypsilanti State Hospital, Elementary at Amerman School (1956-58), Lincoln Elementary in Livonia (1958-62), Whittier Junior High, a room for educable retarded (1962-79). I was department head at Churchill Special Education from 1979 to 1986.
My income consists of state pension, $22,000; social security, $10,000; and being a Scotsman, I managed to save a few bucks too. I raised a family and paid for college educations for my child. My wife stayed home and ran the important homemaker's job. I also manage the small 40-acre family farm with the help of my wife.
I will not:
1. spend any money for my campaign
2. put signs on your property
3. accept any gifts or monies for election
4. advertise in any formal way that costs money. I don't have any extra anyway.

5. accept anything for my service if by some strange miracle I do get elected. I will subtract all expenses — transportation, overnight, etc. — from my pay and all other monies will be returned to the area I represent for some legitimate need or charity.
6. I will not throw a party for lobbyists to see what is free.
I will:
1. try to represent the people honestly and seriously
2. try to reduce the 25 percent to 50 percent waste that we have in state government
3. listen to anyone but will make decisions on what I think my will of the people is and what my intelligence and conscience tell me.
4. use experts' free advice from our great universities to try to make wise decisions.
5. support a woman's right to decide what to do in case of pregnancy.
Sincerely Yours,
Bill Kinnaird

Advocates say goodbye to leader

To the editor:
The Advocates are off to a great start as evidenced by the attendance and enthusiasm generated at our first general membership meeting. With membership of more than 100 individuals, we feel that together we can fulfill our objectives which include a commitment to bring to Northville accurate information based upon thorough, unbiased research as well as to "provide active community leadership" in the pursuit of quality education in our schools.
Our next monthly meeting is Thursday, Oct. 22, in the Northville High School Forum at 7:30 p.m. This is an important meeting as we will take into consideration several key issues. The study groups have been researching the November ballot proposals relating to education, as well as the Downtown Development Authority (DDA) plan, and their effect upon the district. At this meeting the study groups will report and members will be prepared to vote on the Advocates' position on these issues. We will also consider the second update of the Strategic Plan.

Many, many individuals offered to help the Advocates' goals and we hope to begin utilizing the wealth of knowledge, expertise and commitment evident at that first meeting. At Thursday's meeting we will begin to incorporate these talents into a workable, effective committee system.
In any organization, change is inevitable and a strengthening process. The first major change is upon us. Michael Hasler has been offered a marvelous employment opportunity and he and his family will be moving to the Kalamazoo area very soon. As of Oct. 19 he will assume the position of general manager of Peterson Spring, a division of Peterson American Corp. in Three Rivers. Under Mike's guidance much time and energy has been invested in the group's inception by many dedicated individuals and his special leadership qualities and warm personality will be missed. The position of president will be filled admirably and energetically by Greg Purtell. He has brought to the formation of the Advocates a wealth of experience professionally, as well as through his association from the very beginning with the Strategic Planning Committee and other volunteer efforts in our community. Greg was chosen in accordance with the by-laws by the Board and Steering Committee and will assume the presidency at Thursday's meeting. With his guidance, the ADVOCATES will continue on their mission "to promoting the highest quality public education in the Northville community."

Gundella serves up scary delights

I expected far more than a collection of spooky stories in "Michigan Haunts and Hauntings," and as usual I was absolutely delighted at the Great Witch Gundella's new book.
Gundella is the witch name and stage name of an entertaining storyteller, playwright and former school teacher known formally as Marion Kuclio, 62, BA and MA, of Garden City.
I respect her work because she has a foot in each camp — the scientific and the occult. That's rare.
Owen Rachleff, a New York University professor and author of "The Occult Conceit," calls belief in the occult "a clear and present danger . . . evident in the widespread proclivity of many immature persons, young and old alike, to govern their lives by the archaic principles of witchcraft and magic. . . ." I'm with the professor — except in Gundella's case.
Back in the early 1970s, when the Age of Aquarius was the rage, our papers considered adding an astrology column. I was adamantly opposed on both theological and scientific grounds.
But Gundella the Witch — ah, she was different. Before I met her, I wondered if she were into devil worship. Never! Although she tells me there are such covens in the wealthiest section of Oakland County.

Marion Kuclio turned out to be the kindest, most charitable person I know. Don't bother asking the jolly grandmother to put a curse on your enemy. In 22 years I've never heard her say "heck" or "damn," let alone the more robust Anglo-Saxon epithets.
I hired her to write a "Witch Watch" column, a rational person's guide to things science doesn't yet understand.
Now Marion Kuclio has cancer — bad. No longer does she do Gundella entertainments. She is wrapping it up.
For Ron Rose Productions of Southfield, she has recorded "Ghastly, Gruesome Ghostly Tales," an audio tape for the Halloween trade.
"Michigan Haunts and Hauntings," hot off the Thunder Bay Press of Lansing ($11.95), is a greatly expanded set of tales. I've read draft chapters of her forthcoming historical novel about Minnie Quay, which takes place on the shores of Lake Huron, and can assert she has saved her best work for the last.
Yes, you'll be entertained by her tales collected in Detroit, Westland, Farmington, Livonia, Southfield, Bloomfield Hills, Novi and several outstate towns such as Oscoda and Jackson. But you'll also learn.
In literature, ghost stories come mostly from Scotland (her ancestors' home) and England. But Gundella makes the connection to Halloween-type observances of classical Greece and Rome. A Biblical scholar, she points out, correctly, that the early Christian church built its practices on top of existing practices, as St. Paul advised. She includes American Indian tales, too. It's a tiny world.

"As a witch," she writes in the preface, "I was taught not to fear ghosts, but to try to accept and understand them."
"Do you believe in ghosts? Most people do, even those who don't acknowledge it. If you believe in a separable soul, or you feel that when you die a part of you lives on in some way, then, my friend, you DO believe in ghosts."
Myself, I'm a poor psychic "receiver," although I did hear footsteps during her seance in a Novi restaurant, and I was personally close to her investigation of a friend's Victorian home in Detroit's Indian Village. Both are in her new book.
The night of Nov. 21-22, I expect a mob of people will be in a rural, overgrown cemetery in Spring Arbor Township south of Jackson. Gundella has a tale about a mass murder that occurred on that date in 1883. On the anniversary, the ghost of a young mother visits her father's spirit in his graveyard for a victims' reunion.
Every page of "Michigan Haunts and Hauntings" has a cracking good tale. You also learn the difference between a ghost, a shade (re-enactment of a previous event), an out-of-body experience and a poltergeist — a scientifically identified phenomenon known as psychokinesis.
More often than not, ghosts are our friends.

Here's what the Advocates don't tell you

To the editor:

Here's what the Advocates for Quality Education don't tell you. I did some mathematical figuring after reading the Northville Public Schools Itemized School Budget. The result is astounding. Taking the $11,104,757 appropriated for 211.1 teachers who work 8-4 (8 hours) for 187 school days (the average teacher salary is $35 an hour. It is no wonder the district is in sad shape. What angers me is that the students and parents were punished for a failed millage many times over. Now that contracts are due to expire how much more can you squeeze out of the taxpayers to carry such lucrative contracts.

Township not interested in consolidation

To the editor:

Reading the story in The Northville Record, "City Council eyes report on township future" prompted me to reply. I believe the story should be entitled, "Township eyes City future" considering the city has such a large debt, borrowing money this year to pay last year's debt, high taxes, stores closing, and all those old water and sewer lines. I know that the township fought annexation to the city on two occasions, creating a lot of hard feelings between the two communities. Haven't we township residents never forgotten. This is a dead issue.

We like our township government the way it is, we like our township offices where they are, and we intend for it to stay that way. The township is four times larger than the city and the township pays three-quarters of the cost of the library, recreation and senior services, with all such services located in the city.

The city can tax their people without a vote of the people. The township must go to the people for any additional monies. We like that too. For over a half century we have had to drive to the city to get a book; now it is time for the township to have these services located in the township where the largest population is.

There were two occasions where the township could have had a library and senior center in the township. One was with a federal grant from the government to build a library next to the township hall. What happened? The city officials turned out in opposition, so the Township Board, being the good guys, turned it down.

The other was the Haller property with a new library to be built on it. The Haller property was to be a gift. Again we had no support from the city. Yes, we did vote on it, a proposed 2-mill tax levy, which was turned down. However, on that basis why would the township residents vote a 2-mill tax levy for a library in the city, particularly in the "Old Ford Factory" which I understand has water in the basement, asbestos in the walls and is in a "flood plain." The building is an eyesore, dysfunctional factory and should be sold or demolished for a functional factory that would help the city financially. I read in the Record recently where it was suggested the township could move their offices into that monstrosity. This is ridiculous, disgusting and amusing. Forget it.

And not to forget the seniors; how many seniors in the township know that their lunch program is located at Allen Terrace? How many township seniors can make use of this program at that location? Can township seniors live at Allen Terrace? No. Only city residents and their families. The township also purchased the senior bus which is also located in the city. It is time the citizens of Northville Township have these services located in the township where the greater number of people live, and where the bulk of the money comes from. It is time the city stop telling us township residents what is good for us. They have plenty of problems to solve at City Hall. Mayor Johnson, you need not discuss the "M" word — it won't fly.

Name withheld

Editor's note: Township residents and former residents may indeed live at Allen Terrace, although city residents do receive priority. The building was funded through the city and is run by the Housing Commission, which is a unit of city government.

The proposed constitutional amendment would: 1) limit for each homestead property (excluding new construction) the annual assessment increase to 5% or the rate of inflation, whichever is less, until the property is sold, whenever new property is sold, adjust assessments according to current market value of property; 2) Create separate millage rollback calculations for determining the maximum revenue increase allowable for two classes of property: residential/agricultural and all property classifications; 3) permit the use of the combined inflation rate for 1991 and 1992 to calculate millage rollbacks for determining the maximum property tax revenue increase allowable in 1993.

PROPOSAL B — a proposal to restrict/limit the number of times a person can be elected to congressional, state executive and state legislative offices. THE PROPOSED CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT WOULD RESTRICT THE NUMBER OF TIMES A PERSON COULD BE ELECTED TO CERTAIN OFFICES AS DESCRIBED BELOW: 1) U.S. Senator two times in any 24-year period; 2) U.S. Representative three times in any 12-year period; 3) Governor, Lieutenant Governor, Secretary of State or Attorney General two times per office; 4) State Senator two times; 5) State Representative three times. Office terms beginning on or after January 1, 1993 would count toward the term restrictions. Whenever new property is sold, adjust assessment according to current market value of property. Should this proposal be adopted?

JOHN HOLBROOK IS ONE OF "JERRY'S KIDS"

John an ALS patient, just turned 80. Still, he's one of "Jerry's kids." That's because Jerry Lewis's cause, the Muscular Dystrophy Association, battles not just muscular dystrophy, but dozens of other muscle diseases, too — including ALS, killer of adults. Also called "Lou Gehrig's disease," ALS strikes in the prime of life, gradually paralyzing almost every muscle in the body. Right now, no cure is known. But MDA has launched an all-out assault against this deadly disease. MDA has developed the world's largest integrated ALS research and patient services program. The Association has established five major ALS research centers, and maintains some 230 clinics to help people with ALS and other neuromuscular disorders. And MDA provides ALS patients with medical care and equipment free of charge.

You can join the fight against ALS and other muscle diseases by making a tax-deductible contribution to MDA. You can even specify that your donation is to be used exclusively to benefit ALS patients. Please help "Jerry's kids" of all ages. Send your donation to MDA today.

state education board members. I am writing as a concerned parent of three children in the Northville School District with regard to the work of R. Kraft Bell on several of the Board's subcommittees reviewing the Michigan Model for Comprehensive School Health Education. Two years ago Mr. Bell tried his bag of misinformation and emotional tricks to get the program deleted from our school curriculum, or, failing that objective, to seriously weaken it. His stated concerns were the job of examining his allegations of "mind control" and undue interference of "parental authority and respect." These were examined in terms of specific lesson plans in the Model. The results were presented at a public forum where all "sides" were present. It was found that Mr. Bell had taken lesson plans completely out of context and in several instances, the allegations were completely unsubstantiated (e.g. material he claimed that was in the curriculum was, in fact, not.)

In addition to the above, there are other concerns that need to be addressed. What qualifications does this person possess that make him such an expert on health curriculum? How reputable are his sources for substantiating his theories? What is he (and his ilk) really going for? I cannot believe after witnessing his behavior locally that he is a benevolent influence. Let alone a progressive one that will help our children to achieve the skills they need to face the challenges of today's world.

Please stop for a moment and consider the damage this right-wing "loose cannon" could and would accomplish to a health curriculum that has been hailed as a hallmark of excellence and a model for other state boards across the nation.

Proposal D has several bad points

To the editor
AAA of Michigan is spending millions of its policyholders' dollars claiming that passage of Proposal D would lower automobile insurance rates. However, Proposal D would actually change the No-Fault Law for the worse in over a dozen ways. AAA doesn't tell consumers that the "fine print" of Proposal D would:

- Take away today's full coverage for all accident-related medical bills (of course, they would be glad to sell you "extra" coverage for more premium dollars — and there goes any savings.)
- Make driving without liability insurance legal (irresponsible drivers won't have to obtain insurance, so responsible drivers end up paying more to protect themselves.)
- Make it more difficult to make a claim for certain injuries against a drunk or reckless driver who causes an accident (which would actually increase lawsuits to force payment and not decrease lawsuits as AAA claims.)
- Eliminate freedom to choose your doctor (insurance companies would have the power to choose the type and amount of care you would receive).

Most importantly, there is a huge "loophole" in Proposal D: after only 6 months, rates could go up again. We'll be left with fewer medical benefits and loss of certain legal rights while AAA's profits go up. Does anyone really think AAA would be pushing D so strongly if not for its own self interest? Vote "NO" on D on Nov. 3.

Incinerator a big issue in Oakland vote

To the editor:
I have noticed the varying visions among both incumbents and candidates for Oakland County offices.

Some see Oakland County as a place of sustainable growth — one of homes, of county parks, hills, creeks and woodlands, with technological parks, outdoor theatres and Somerset Collections. Some suggest that a concentrated effort should be made to revitalize our southern suburbs as has taken place in Royal Oak, a place of choice for both residential living and entrepreneurial venture.

Still others have the incompatible vision of making Oakland County home to a huge burner of waste, one that would burn what people have chosen to put back in a kinder, gentler fashion — by creatively manufacturing new products from the old.

These same leaders and would-be leaders would also choose to bring in waste from other counties to burn in Oakland County. The ensuing by-products would, of course, be airborne and settle not so kindly nor so gently on our county.

This is the issue that many would choose to make a non-issue in this Oakland County election. It is simple and some have made it complex. Either they support the concept of burning waste or they don't.

L. Brooks Patterson, candidate for Oakland County Executive, has spoken positively of having taken a leadership role in the 1991 election by actively supporting the incinerator at a time when it may have been unpopular to do so. I suggest to you that simply taking a leadership role in a controversial issue is not leadership. I suggest that no leadership may be better than poor leadership and that perhaps lending one's name to such an issue at the 11th hour may be interpreted as poor or inappropriate leadership.

In spite of the fact that we have been denied the League of Women Voters debate, to which we are all entitled, I encourage you to know your candidate. Do not allow for evasive answers. How else will we be able to cast an intelligent ballot?

This issue of properly managing our solid waste will be with us for a very long time. We must decide who we will want making the decisions that will so heavily impact us both now and in the future.

For my part, I have had direct answers from Elizabeth Howe, candidate for Oakland County Executive and from Sue Ann Douglas, candidate for Oakland County Commissioner. They will have my vote Nov. 3.

Northville: Making census of it all

By SHARON CONDRON
Staff Writer

For the most part, Northville residents live up to the community's white-collar reputation and its affluent image.

More than 90 percent of its population is college educated and commutes about 24 miles outside the area to executive-level jobs.

While that may not be news to many, what might surprise some is the fact that 1,961 people living here never completed high school. Of that group, 354 have nothing beyond an eighth-grade education.

Those facts and figures are just a few of the interesting findings in the 1990 U.S. Census report.

Aside from describing a community in terms of its education, the census also details Northville's community profile. It tells about the ethnic origin of Northvillians and who's moved in over the last decade. It also paints a clear picture of the economic condition of the city and township by compiling statistics on home values and income levels. Here's a sampling:

POPULATION

According to the report, there are 4,854 more people living in the township and city now than in 1980, when the last census was taken.

The median age of residents living in Northville in 1980 was 31.5. Today it's a little older. In the city the average age is 36.9, and in the township it's 35.8. There are about the same number of people per household now as there were in 1980. Today the average home houses about 2.5 people, close to the national average.

ETHNIC DIVERSITY

The ethnic profile has also changed significantly since 1980. While there's been little change in the African-American population since then, the number of Asian, American Indian and Hispanic people that have moved into the area has shifted the community's profile considerably.

In the township, there are 104 more Hispanic residents today than in 1980. In contrast from the 1980 version, the 1990 census broke down the community profile one step further to record the 64 new American Indians, Eskimos or Aleuts that have come into the area. There are also 504 more people of Asian or Pacific Island heritage living here, which accounts for 3.7 percent of the combined city and township population.

It is also interesting to note that 1,322 Northville residents were born outside of the country, and 352 of them came here in the last decade.

Acknowledging the changing demographics gave rise to one of the community's newest citizens' groups. A Community Organization Recognizing Diversity (ACORD) was conceived by a handful of residents last year and exists to take a proactive stance to produce ethnic harmony. The organization was formed to spearhead a campaign towards ethnic diversity and promote racial harmony.

INCOME AND ECONOMIC FACTORS

The median household income comes in slightly higher this year than what governmental forecasters had predicted after the 1980 census was taken. Today, the average household income in the township is $55,465; in the city it's $49,282. That's a considerable jump from the median household income of $31,357 that was reported in 1980. Average family incomes are $64,876 in the township and $62,688 in the city. Those figures are significant jumps from the family incomes reported in 1980. Back then city families made between $27,812-$36,825 and township families were working for $35,835.

What may be frightening to read is that the economy took its toll on Northville's senior-citizen community. The percentage of seniors who fell below the poverty level nearly doubled to 8 percent in the city and to 4 percent in the township over the last decade. That's of great concern since the senior percentage of the total population rose in the city by 15.6 percent and by 9.9 in the township.

The average home in the township is valued at $162,700; in city it is valued at $130,000.

The census report provided a multitude of facts and figures. While this gives a cursory review of the data contained in the report, the Record will carry snippets of the report in upcoming issues.

Marcia Stevens

Choralaires sing joy of being in harmony

By DOROTHY NASH
Special Writer

"It was a thrill when I was chosen at the fall tryouts five years ago to be one of the 55-member group of singers in the Novi Choralaires, said Marcia Stevens.

She was a newcomer in the community, and she wanted to get involved somewhere so she could meet people, and said she loved to sing.

"If you like to sing," Stevens said, "you should audition." Tryouts, however, are only once a year, in September. So if you missed this year's date, mark it on your calendar for 1993.

The Novi Choralaires, continues Stevens, "is a fun group of nice people who enjoy being together" and putting on as many as eight concerts a year — but not in the summer. Ages? They're from 20 and up to whatever, she said.

They have a paid director, Stevens added, "who has selected each of us for our voices. She has a knack for selecting the right voice to blend with one another." Besides paying for a director, Stevens said, they buy their music and equipment.

Two major concerts of the year for the Novi Choralaires are at Christmas and in the spring, with the really big one being the night before Mother's Day at the high school.

Other concerts are sponsored by various organizations.

They use costumes and props in their spring concert. So they're not always a stand-up-neatly-in-front-of-the-conductor-and-sing group.

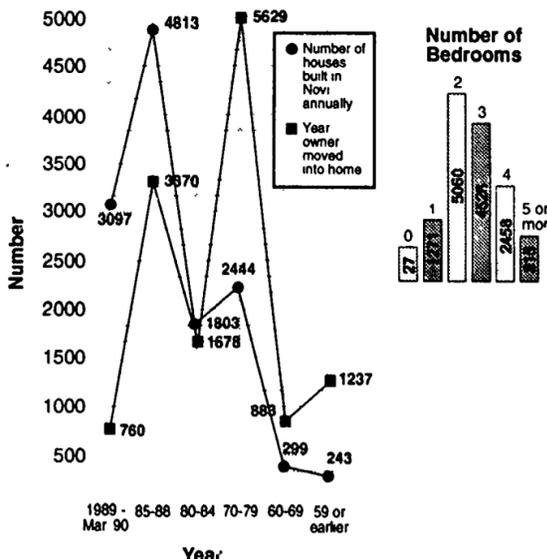

Marcia Stevens, although with the group for only five of its 18 years existence, has become involved in it to the extent of having served on the board as publicity person and as president. Now she is a member-at-large on the board.

For answers to more questions you have, call Marcia Stevens at 349-2241.

When my routine pregnancy suddenly wasn't...

I was glad I'd chosen Hutzel. From the beginning, my pregnancy was described as "normal." So when I wanted a private room—one where labor, delivery, and recovery could all take place—my doctor had no objections. But if something went wrong,

I wanted to know my baby and I would also have the most knowledgeable specialists and the latest medical technology nearby. So I chose The Detroit Medical Center's Hutzel Hospital. To my surprise, Hutzel's private LDRP (Labor, Delivery, Recovery, Post-Partum) rooms were among the most spacious and beautiful I'd seen. I was glad I could be in one—and that I'd chosen Hutzel. Because at the last minute, my baby developed complications and a team of Hutzel specialists was right there to provide the care we both needed.

Like a lot of other women, I've learned there's no such thing as a "routine" pregnancy. Thank goodness there's Hutzel Hospital.

Tour of Italy keeps dancers on their toes

Engagement

By SHARON CONDRON
Staff Writer

Their were plenty of tired toes at Northville's Piazza Dance studio Sunday morning as 12 of the company's dancers came off a 24½ hour dance marathon.

The dancers kicked off their marathon Saturday morning at 10 a.m. and finished dancing about the same time on Sunday. The marathon was the first fundraising event for the dance company, which is seeking donations to help fund the girls' two-week show tour of Italy next summer.

Marilyn Esper, a co-owner of the studio, said she was shocked that all the girls danced the night away. Parent Becky Armstrong echoed her thoughts.

"Sure, they all finished, but they were doing some strange things near the end," Armstrong said jokingly. Esper, who was at the studio at the onset of the marathon, said she felt guilty leaving the girls there that night.

"It went great, and all the girls lasted the 24 hours," Esper said. "I couldn't believe they could actually do it all. I came home feeling guilty that they were there dancing their hearts out."

Esper said the dancers' motivation was to raise the full amount of their pledges in an effort to help defray the $2,100 cost of each ticket. Fifteen girls from the studio are hoping to get to Italy and be a part of the Italian Renaissance Celebration.

Piazza was selected to be a part of the two-week European dance tour after a talent scout from the Olympian Show Teams saw them perform at a recent dance competition. As part of the tour, 15 dancers will perform in open town squares of Rome, Florence, Pompeii, Capri, Pisa, Sorrento and Assisi.

Esper said the owners and dance coaches were all honored and excited about the opportunity to perform in Italy, but admitted they were skeptical about the idea at first.

"We are very excited to be asked to participate. We thought it was a joke at first, so we checked into it and (the scout) was legit," Esper said.

"We were quite honored and excited because we are probably the only ones in the state to go to Italy," Esper said.

Local dignitaries Sen. Robert Geake (R-Northville) and 10th District County Commissioner Maurice Breen were on hand to kick off the danceathon and wish the girls luck. Geake brought with him an American flag in the hopes the dancers would present it to the Italians during their tour.

Esper said the dance-a-thon was just one of many fundraisers the studio has planned to help the girls raise money for the trip. Soon they will be selling candy, flowers and pinsettias and washing cars all to help their cause.

"We'll do what we can as far as fundraising goes," she said. "But this was just something different and fun to do."

Esper commended the girls for their dedication, and said they deserved the honor because they are dedicated.

"They love it too," she said. "They love to dance and most are in competition. It's practically their entire lives. Some chose dancing over other activities and you can find them here four days a week."

"They are really committed," she said.

Some of the cast of the Piazza Dance Company "Shipwrecked" number are hoping to get to tour Italy with the company next summer. Shipwrecked from Northville are, standing, Kelly Hughes; sitting in back, Amy Frankel; kneeling on right, Mandy Napolitano and Meghan Rooney.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas F. Davis of Northville announce the engagement of their daughter, Wendy Renee Davis, to Charles R. Grimes of Gobles, Mich.

The bride-elect is a 1988 graduate of Northville High School and a 1992 graduate of Western Michigan University. Her fiance is a 1988 graduate of Gobles High School and is expected to graduate from Western Michigan University next year. She is currently employed at Paychex.

The couple is planning a May 29, 1993 wedding.

Town Hall pulls in Kennedy's daughter

By CRISTINA FERRIER
Staff Writer

Kathleen Kennedy Townsend, daughter of the late Sen. Robert Kennedy and founder of an annual human rights award that bears his name, was the first speaker of the 1992-93 Northville Town Hall series Oct. 12.

Townsend helped found the award in 1983. The recipient is chosen each year by an international advisory panel and a group of judges.

And in her work with the award foundation, she has met some extraordinary people.

"The quest for human rights is not a matter of romance or beauty," she said as she began a story about a group of El Salvadoran women who received the first Robert Kennedy Human Rights Award.

These women banded together because their children were kidnapped and murdered by governmental "death squads" in the 1970s.

"They were poor women with little more than a first- or second-grade education," Townsend said. The women wanted to do something about the violence and death in their country so they met with their Catholic Archbishop. He suggested that they get together every Sunday and march in front of the church to demonstrate the need for human rights.

"So they did," she said. "They were harassed, sometimes they were jailed, and some were killed." One of the women was tortured and raped by 12 soldiers. She later escaped and lived to be among the recipients of the award.

Townsend said human rights activists all over the country need support.

"The fight for human rights is often a lonely one," she said. "Activists often feel abandoned by friends and family. It's hard, year after year, to keep fighting."

But she believes her work, and the work of others like her, does have an effect on the world.

"There is now a cease fire in El Salvador, and so far it's been effective," she said. She believes the cease fire is holding because other countries, like the U.S., have stopped supplying arms to El Salvador.

Among the many other countries Townsend has visited in her work for human rights are Nicaragua, Paraguay, South Africa and Cuba.

While in Cuba, Townsend met with Fidel Castro.

"Castro tries to romanticize Cuba as a place of revolution. I asked him what would happen if the Soviet Union stopped subsidizing it. He said, 'They never will.'"

Of South Africa, Townsend said, "I saw the wealth of Johannesburg, with its skyscrapers and solid, well-built homes. Then I saw Soweto, where there are tin shacks and dormitories where men leave their families to find work — staying away for two, three years at a time. People ride six hours to go to work and six hours back."

It would be easy, in any country where oppression exists, to be filled with anger and hatred about the past. But Townsend said letting go of that anger is the only way people will move together toward a better future.

"In Bosnia-Herzegovina, battles fought 500 years ago are seen as a reason to kill your neighbors."

"You can't dwell on the past," said Townsend, who was 16 when her father was murdered. "You have to let it go and work toward a better future."

That's why we created the Robert Kennedy memorial. It's a living memorial, unlike a building, and we devote it to people who continue his ideal."

THIS SUMMER ALANA CAN BE LIKE ANY OTHER KID, AND FORGET HER HISTORY.

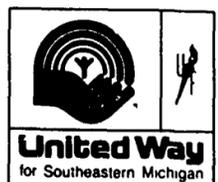

Alana is eight years old. For the last six years she has battled leukemia. That's six years of hospital visits and treatments twice a week. It's no way to spend a childhood.

But thanks to your donations to the United Way, agencies like the Children's Leukemia Foundation of Michigan can send kids like Alana to "Special Days" Camp. A place where Alana can enjoy carefree days of swimming, canoeing, and newfound friends.

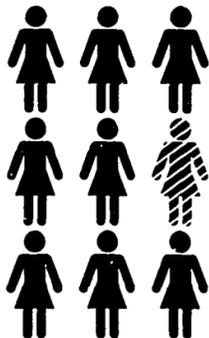

The United Way supports 145 agencies. Nearly 90 cents of every dollar you contribute goes directly to work, since only 104 cents goes toward campaign and administrative costs. Your contributions help the homeless, and fight child abuse, right here in Wayne, Oakland, and Macomb counties. So please give to the United Way, and help kids like Alana leave their history in the past.

STILL THE BEST WAY TO SHOW YOU CARE.

Blithe Spirit opens Schoolcraft season

Schoolcraft College's 1992-93 Theatre Season will open Oct. 23 at 8 p.m. with Noel Coward's comedy Blithe Spirit.

The ingenious plot of Blithe Spirit tells how novelist Charles Condomine invites into his placid country home an eccentric, breezy lady medium in order to learn the language of the occult. Little does Charles or his lovely second wife, Ruth, dream that the seance staged by the medium will summon back Charles' first wife now "passed over" for seven years. But the lady from beyond, still beautiful, still mischievous, appears and torments Charles by reminding him of their days and nights together. Only Charles can see or hear her. A floating vase, handed to her out of thin air, finally convinces Ruth that Charles is not losing his mind — that his first wife is indeed in the room.

The first wife has a ghostly plot in mind: If she can get Charles into an automobile accident and make a ghost of him, life in the spirit world will have more appeal for her. Mistakes occur, however, and it is Ruth who takes the fatal automobile ride and passes on — only to return with the first wife to plague the utterly bewildered astral bigamist.

How Charles manages to extricate himself from these two blithe spirits makes a hilarious conclusion to this very unusual farce. Funny, brilliant, clever and about as cockeyed as a play can be.

Dinner Theatres are Oct. 23 and 24; Nov. 6, 7 and 14. Dinner will be held at 6:30 p.m. in the Waterman Campus Center. The menu includes: Garden salad with garlic dressing. Rolls. Grilled chicken breasts with caramelized red onion marmalade, quinoa and vegetable pilaf, baked acorn squash with butter and brown sugar, and dessert. The show will follow at 8 p.m. in the Liberal Arts

Q&A

By WILLIAM T. TOMICKI
New York Times Travel Syndicate

Q: Where in America can take my granddaughter to see dolls?

A: At the Rosalie Whyel Museum of Doll Art at 1116 N.E. 108th St., in Bellevue, Wash., east of Seattle, virtually every type of doll is on display.

The $3.5 million galleries house permanent displays of 700 antique-to-modern dolls, as well as teddy bears and games.

A changing-exhibits gallery features new work by current doll makers or dolls from important collections around the world.

The museum is open Monday through Saturday, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., Thursday until 8 p.m., and Sunday from 1-5 p.m. Admission is $5 for adults, $4.50 for seniors and $4 for children age 5 through 17.

For more information contact the museum at (206) 455-1116. Information is also available from your local travel agent.

Q: Where is America's oldest operating inn?

A: It is located in Sudbury, Mass. — Longfellow's Wayside Inn. The quaint spot is a historical and literary shrine which opened around 1702.

Henry Wadsworth Longfellow often stayed there and based his "Tales of the Wayside Inn" on his visits.

Originally restored by the automotive pioneer Henry Ford, the inn was badly damaged by fire in 1955, after which it was again rebuilt by the Ford Foundation.

There are 10 overnight guest rooms, all with period furniture, and tours are conducted daily. Homemade New England fare is served in the large dining room.

On the grounds are a grist mill, museum rooms, the Redstone School built in 1798 and the Little Red Schoolhouse immortalized in the nursery rhyme "Mary Had a Little Lamb."

For further information contact the inn, which is located on Wayside Inn Road, at (508) 443-1776. Information is also available from your local travel agent.

Q: Can you recommend any Los Angeles restaurants that allow cigar smoking?

A: Pierre's Los Feliz Inn (2138 Hillhurst Ave., 213-663-8001) has regular cigar-smoking nights, the first Tuesday of every month. Also on hand are guest cigar makers, complimentary samples of fine cigars and sherry and port tastings.

Another spot is Remi Restaurant (1451 Third Street Promenade, Santa Monica, Calif., 310-393-6545), a fine specialist in Northern Italian cuisine. Remi has cigar nights every other Tuesday.

On the patio, guests are served dinners that include pasta, fowl or meat, espresso and a different wine with every course.

Q: Can we visit the birthplace of novelist Pearl Buck? Is it true she was a social reformer?

A: Pearl Buck (1892-1973) was born in Hillsboro, W. Va., west of Charlottesville. At the time of her birth her parents, both missionaries on leave from China, were visiting her grandparents' house.

Now the home is a museum, restored to its 1892 appearance, full of period furniture and family memorabilia.

Buck founded Welcome House in 1949, which provided care for the children of Asian women and American soldiers. The Pearl S. Buck Foundation of Philadelphia, to which she consigned most of her royalties, still helps in adoptions of Amerasian children.

Traveling 'solo' a tough way to go Newsletter offers advice for people who prefer traveling alone

By EVERETT POTTER
New York Times Travel Syndicate

Going solo is often the most difficult—and expensive—way to travel.

For the privilege of having a single cabin, most solo travelers are charged anywhere from 150 percent to 300 percent of a cruise line's per-person double-occupancy rate.

And hotels aren't much better when it comes to the high rates they charge singles.

"The travel industry is neanderthal when it comes to solo travelers," says Jane Doerfer, publisher of "Going Solo," a newsletter devoted to solo travel.

Doerfer scours the globe looking for hotels and vacations that are hospitable to adventurers going it alone.

"I call it 'solo' travel rather than 'single' because many of my readers are married," she adds. "If you say 'single,' people automatically assume you're looking for romance and, frankly, that couldn't be further from the truth."

Recent articles in "Going Solo" have dealt with affordable alternatives in London and Paris, life at a Club Med village, group bicycling trips or a new trend—taking a volunteer vacation to help clean up the environment or work with inner-city youths.

Each issue features a report written by a reader on a topic such as seeing Prague in winter, traveling by train through Australia or visiting the Hawaiian island of Kauai.

"When you travel solo without the buffer of a companion or a group, things happen to you," says Doerfer. "In fact, I've had my nicest experiences as a solo traveler. But it's important to set up situations where you're likely to meet people."

Doerfer notes that dinnertime is when most people enjoy companionship.

For that she prefers English country-house hotels where guests can dine together at a communal table. Or in the States, considering the ongoing rage for grilled food, Doerfer encourages people to seek out restaurants with communal seating around the grill.

"But when those options aren't available and I'm dining alone, my technique is to call up the restaurant and say, 'I understand you have good food. I'll be eating dinner alone tonight. What's the best time to come?'"

"You'd be amazed at how flattered they are and how good the service can be. And I always tip for two, 20 percent in most cases."

Doerfer has several important tips for would-be solo travelers.

"You should condition yourself to point where you realize you're going to feel lonely at some point on the trip. It's baloney to pretend otherwise. It's also important to travel with some sort of agenda because it helps to focus the day."

When it comes to dealing with hotels, she encourages solo travelers to negotiate for their hotel room.

"Never stand at the front desk and ask for a lower rate. You have to speak to someone in the sales department."

"Say, 'This is what I want to spend.' It immediately establishes you as a shopper. Unfortunately, most Americans are very embarrassed about asking for the cheapest price."

Doerfer urges solo travelers to seek out cruise lines such as Cunard and Norwegian, which charge smaller supplementary room rates or offer double rooms for the price of a single, especially when it's close to sailing.

A subscription to "Going Solo," which is published six times a year, is $29. For further information contact the newsletter at P.O. Box 1035, Cambridge, Mass. 02238 or call (617) 876-2764.

For those who don't want to go it alone while traveling, there's the Travel Companion Exchange, started 11 years ago by Jens Jurgen.

"It's a bimonthly newsletter and a service that matches up would-be travel companions," says Jurgen, who lists 2,000 members, at an average age of 45.

Prospective companions fill out questionnaires and then have themselves listed, personals-style, in the next newsletter.

The cost for such matchmaking varies: It's $66 for six months for those looking for a companion of the opposite sex; $36 for those seeking a companion of the same sex; and $29 for everyone under age 29.

The newsletter alone is $36 per year. For further information contact Travel Companion Exchange, P.O. Box 833, Amityville, N.Y. 11701 or call (516) 454-0880.

Many tour operators now cater to the singles market. Perhaps the best known is Singleworld, now in its 35th year.

The company guarantees roommates on cruises, something the cruise lines themselves can't always do. There is a Singleworld director on board each cruise and participants dine together.

"You're part of a ready-made group, so it's easy to meet people," says Randy Russell, the company's managing director. The average group size is between 20 and 25 people and the company maintains three age categories: 20 to 33; 29 to 49; and "all ages."

The average age is baby boomers, say 30 to 45," adds Russell. The company charges a $25 fee for its services. For further information contact Singleworld, 401 Theodore Fremd Ave., Rye, N.Y. 10562 or call (914) 967-3334.

For solo travelers age 18 to 35, Contiki Holidays offers Greek island cruises, Austrian skiing holidays and tours of the American west.

"But many people take our multi-destination trips as their first trip to Europe," says spokesperson Dana Lauren, adding that "about 75 percent of the people on our trips are single."

She cites the European Discovery tour, a 15-day tour through nine countries, as the company's most popular trip.

For further information contact Contiki Holidays, 1432 E. Katella Ave., Anaheim, Calif. 92805 or call (800) 466-0610.

Cameras, cameras! What's a buyer to do?

By EVERETT POTTER
New York Times Travel Syndicate

Trying to keep up with changes in today's camera technology is a bit like attempting to stay on top of the airfares.

They change quickly, with little rhyme or reason. It seems yesterday's model is obsolete today.

What's a buyer to do? One answer is to turn to an expert, such as Robert Rattner, a professional photojournalist who specializes in travel and nature photography for magazines such as Audubon, Smithsonian, Time and the late European Travel & Life. He also writes a photo column for Events U.S.A.

"There are basically three types of cameras now," says Rattner.

"There are simple point-and-shoot models that have a fixed focus. These are really one step removed from an instamatic or even the old box Brownie."

"Then there are the point-and-shoot cameras with auto focus and a variety of other features. These have become so sophisticated that camera owners who have SLRs (single-lens reflex cameras) are trading in their cameras for them."

"The SLRs have gotten very fancy—but they've also gotten more expensive."

The biggest market is for the second group, the point-and-shoot cameras with automatic focus. They've gotten sophisticated enough to satisfy most amateur photographers, Rattner says.

The only problem with them is choice. There are about a dozen manufacturers each offering about half a dozen models. To the untrained eye these cameras all look like variations on the same function.

But Rattner points out they can be very different.

"You should look for a number of things when you go to buy a point-and-shoot camera. First of all, make sure the lens is protected when you're not using it. Secondly, look at the camera's specifications to find out what film speeds it will take."

"Most film has DX or digital coding, which allows the camera to read the film speed off the film canister. The simpler cameras may only have two actual settings—say, ISO 100 and 400."

"So if you intend to use film that's ISO 64 or 1000, you're out of luck. In any case, these cameras work best with print film, not with slide film."

The automatic-focus option also differs among camera models, he says.

"Active auto focus means the camera shoots out an infrared beam that hits the subject and returns to the camera. It means you must center your subject in the viewfinder. Put the subject to the side and the camera focuses on the background."

"Some cameras have 'focus lock' that allows you to focus on the subject and then move the camera. There are others with 'multibeam focus,' which means the camera focuses on five or more large spots in the picture and makes 'focus lock' unnecessary."

When it comes to the flash mode, Rattner says it's important to choose a camera that allows you to turn the flash on manually in order to use a "fill-in flash" for illuminating outdoor subjects in daylight.

Another feature he mentions is "red-eye reduction."

"A tiny beam is flashed moments before the camera's flash goes off. This causes the human pupil to close down and consequently greatly reduces the chance of your subject looking red-eyed in the photograph. It's a good feature to look for."

The zoom lens is also found on many models, he says.

"It's a wonderful feature. Generally speaking, the 35mm to 70mm and the 35mm to 90mm range are good. There are good 35mm to 105mm (models) around as well, but you'll pay a lot more to jump from 90mm to 105mm and I don't think it's worth it."

"And unless the camera comes with a macro setting for close-up photography of flowers, for example, it's not worth breaking the bank to get it."

So what particular models does Rattner recommend—and for whom?

He enjoys the Pentax IQZoom series, in which the model 60-X lists for $230. The model 90-WR is "a very good camera, which is weather-resistant as well. It's a good feature to have," it lists for $350.

The Olympus Infinity series also "has always been extremely reliable and is known for its good metering." The Infinity Tele has two lenses: a 35mm and a 70mm, allowing for both wide-angle and telephoto shots. It's $240.

The Olympus Stylus is a "wonderful" camera, with a fixed 35mm lens, red-eye reduction and a compact size. It's $225.

Late field goal gives gridder 24-21 victory

By SCOTT DANIEL
Sports Editor

A week after losing out on a Western Division championship the Mustang football team regrouped Saturday and knocked off traditional powerhouse Farmington Hills Harrison 24-21.

Mike Hirvala connected on a 36-yard field goal with 5:33 remaining to boost Northville to its fifth win. Coach Darrel Schumacher commented that the win said a lot about the Mustangs' character after losing the crown to Walled Lake Western.

"I can't even put it into words," he said. "The big loss was a hard-felt loss. It hurt the kids bad."

"I didn't know if we could get them to respond. They responded Saturday."

Northville started the winning drive at the 7:30 mark of the fourth quarter on Harrison's 48-yard line.

The Mustangs pulled off two first downs before kicking the field goal on passes of 15 yards and 18 yards from quarterback Danny Walsh to receiver Jason Holman. Hirvala nailed the kick into a stiff wind. Schumacher said.

"It was a hard one to make," he said. "He did an excellent job to get it through."

"I thought there would be more excitement. But I think they are more focused on other goals than one win at a time. It's kind of like business as usual."

DARREL SCHUMACHER
Coach

Schumacher added that he's very confident of his kickers' abilities.

"He's not a bad kicker for a junior," he said. "We feel comfortable with him at this distance. He's been a big asset."

Northville, now 5-2, will tangle with Lakes Division rival North Farmington tomorrow night at home for third place in the Western Lakes Activities Association. The regular season will then wind up on Oct. 30 as the Mustangs battle Novi for the Baseline Jug.

A pair of wins would likely send Northville to the state playoffs.

"I think we have as good a shot as anybody," Schumacher said.

Northville started the Harrison game off with a bang. After stopping the Hawks on three downs, Walsh returned a punt 10 yards to the their 36-yard line.

On first down, Walsh pitched to Kevin Shaw on an option play, and the senior rumbled down the right sideline for a touchdown. Excellent blocks from Rob Subotich, Jim Conklin, John Wilds and Erik Hibbler sprung Shaw for the score at the 9:17 mark.

The quarter ended with Northville up 6-0.

Harrison took the lead to start the second period. Running back Nick Williams found daylight on a trap play and scooted 32 yards for a TD. The Hawks led 7-6 with 8:13 to go in the half.

That led didn't last long.

Swimmers crush Franklin

By SCOTT DANIEL

A sweep of diving competition highlighted a 121-64 win over Livonia Franklin Thursday for the Mustang swim team.

Sarah Carney, Amy Christof and Lisa Hojnacki teamed to shut out the Chargers in the event. Each diver scored a personal record by finishing above 190 points.

In all, Northville took first place in all but two events. Swimmers set 18 personal records in the meet, but there were no new qualifiers for state competition.

"It was a pretty good meet," coach Bill Dicks said. "Churchill, historically, has not been a good pool for us."

The coach said Northville took advantage of Livonia's lack of depth.

"With their numbers down it was hard for them to cover all six lanes."

Rebecca Anderson, Mandy VanHorn, Brenda Newton and Sheila Osborne got the Mustangs' first win in the 200-yard medley relay. The team posted a time of 2:07.05. Renee Olin, Alicia Doehler, Jill Walro and Chris Parry took third in 2:25.60.

Jodi Wesley swam herself proud with a 2:02.50 in the 200 freestyle, good enough for first. VanHorn placed second in 2:15.30, and Mary Rivard was fifth with a time of 2:24.4.

In the 200-yard individual medley, Megan Goble was the winner with a time of 2:28 while teammate Amy Kohl placed third in 2:37. Daneen Lang was second in the 50 freestyle in 28.7. Julie Tharp was third in 30.1.

Northville's diving sweep was next. Carney's 194.3 won while Christof was close behind with 191.4 and Hojnacki thuru with 190.4.

The 100-yard butterfly was won by Anderson in 1:06.10. Tharp took second in 1:16.4 and Doehler was fourth.

Andrea Moretti's 1:00.9 won the 100 freestyle. Rivard was third with a time of 1:06.9 and Katy Gudritz was third in 1:08.6.

Wesley bettered her state qualifying time in the 500-yard freestyle. She won the race in 5:25.4. Newton was third in 5:43.8 and Kelly Walro was fifth in 7:27.40.

Northville took first the 200-yard freestyle relay. VanHorn, Amy Kohl, Osborne and Lang won in 1:52.7.

Megan Goble was the winner of the 100 backstroke with a time of 1:07.90. Stephanie Keetle was fourth in 1:23.3 and Johnson placed fifth in 1:25.9.

VanHorn was second in the 100 breaststroke with a time of 1:20.5 and Parry was fourth in in 4:19.3.

Besides all those firsts, Dicks said several swimmers lowered their times considerably. In the 100 butterfly, for example, Tharp dropped six seconds while Gudritz sliced four seconds off her best time in the 100-yard freestyle.

Runners fall to Warriors 21-34

By SCOTT DANIEL
Sports Editor

Northville High took on one of the area's better cross country teams Thursday in Walled Lake Western and performed well, but came out on the short end of a 21-34 score.

Despite the tough competition and less-than-ideal running conditions at Cass Benton in Northville, two Mustangs posted times below 23 minutes and several others weren't far behind.

"The kids were surprised they were running so fast," said coach Nick Dunwoodie. "But they were sopping wet and muddy when they finished. The course was in the muddiest, muddiest condition."

Rachel Liedel led Northville, now 3-2 on the season, with a time of 22:07. She was fourth overall.

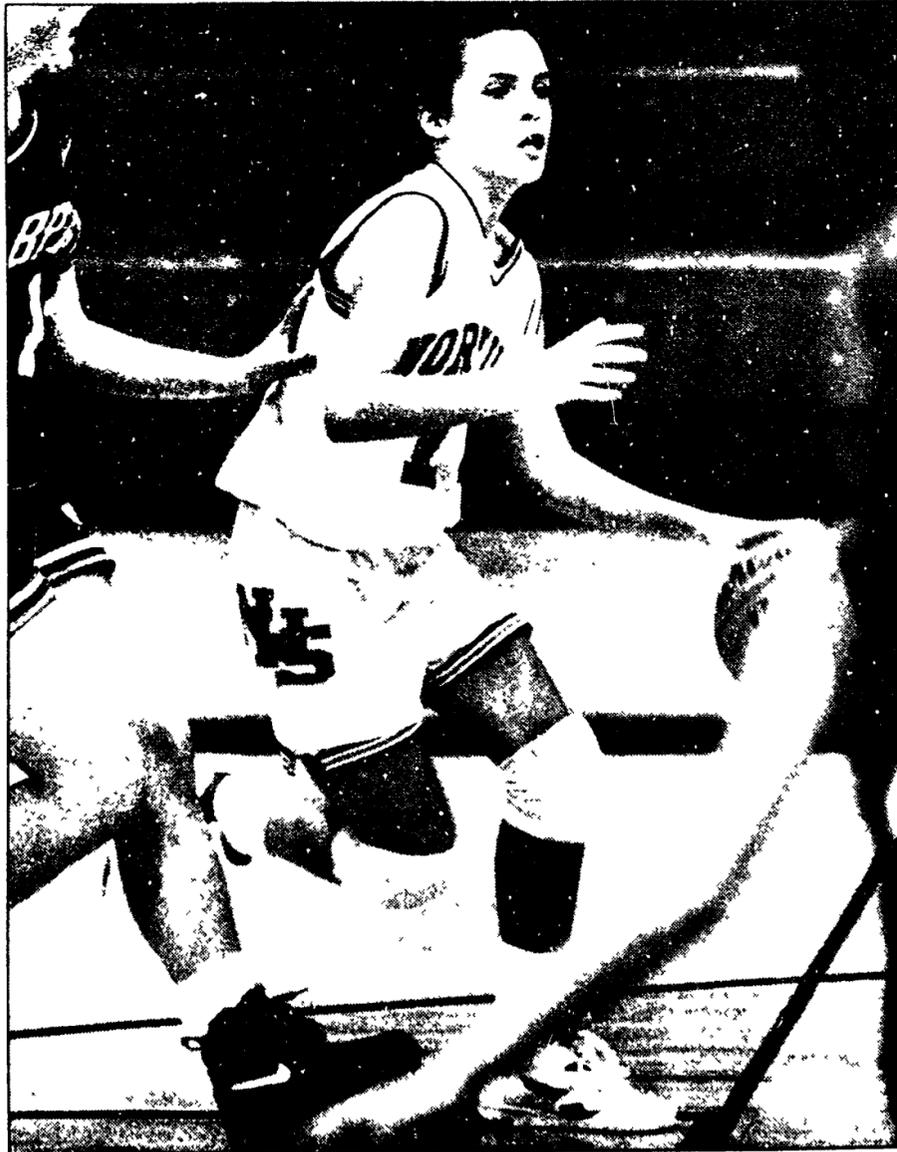

Monica Nayakwadi was close behind her teammate with a time of 22:19 (11th overall). Laura Brown was the third Mustang finisher in 23:05, and Erin Maloney was next in 23:18. Northville's closed the scoring in 23:48 for 10th overall.

Jodi Clark finished sixth for Northville with a time of 25:52. Urvij Mujumdar scored a personal best of 25:58.

Walled Lake's Jennifer Ray, one of the state's best, won the race in about 21 minutes.

WESTLAND JOHN GLENN INVITATIONAL: The Oct. 13 meet was strictly for freshmen and sophomores. Northville took eighth place out of 10 schools.

Adrienne Browne was the Mustangs' top finisher (20th) with a personal best time of 22:35. Nayakwadi was 21st in 22:45 and Brown 22nd in

Hoopsters whip Churchill 40-33

By SCOTT DANIEL
Sports Editor

There's a rumor going around that the Mustang basketball team is about to adopt Mad Max as its new mascot.

Northville certainly played like road warriors Thursday night in defeating Livonia Churchill 40-33. It was the team's second win of the season — both of which, as you might have guessed, have come on the road.

The Mustangs built a seven-point lead heading into the fourth quarter and were able to maintain it for the victory. Julia Birmingham led the way with 11 points while freshman Nicole Hayden had eight and Krista Howe six.

"We played really good defense," coach Bob Shoemaker said.

Northville held the Chargers to just nine field goals in the game. Three of those were scored after miscues by the Mustang offense.

Although his squad is only 2-9, Shoemaker said the players have made good strides since the start of the season.

"I'm seeing a big change in them," he commented. "They have more confidence in me and the things we are doing."

Northville has five games remaining in the regular season. Shoemaker said the Mustangs may be able to string a few victories together in those final contests.

"We are playing everybody tough," he added.

Churchill discovered that Thursday.

Northville used a balanced attack and stingy defense to jump on top in the first quarter. Howe and Beth MacLean each scored four points and Hayden added three as the visitors took a 13-9 advantage after one.

The Mustangs managed only four points in the second period, but held Livonia to six to take a 17-15 lead into halftime. The game actually resembled a five-on-one contest.

While Northville played as a team, Churchill relied exclusively on Chrissy Daly. The Chargers' guard scored all but one of her team's points in the half.

Shoemaker listed his team's ability to shut down the rest of Churchill's squad as the difference in the game.

"Defense kept us in it," he said. "Without it, it could have been a disaster."

The Mustangs virtually put the game on ice early in the third quarter. Howe scored and then Lindsay Bacon nailed a three-pointer to put Northville up by seven.

"That really helped," Shoemaker said.

PLYMOUTH SALEM 58, NORTHVILLE 31: Although the Mustangs lost big, the coach said it was their best game of the year.

"We beat Churchill," Shoemaker said, "but we played better by far against Salem."

The Plymouth school, which went into the game undefeated and highly ranked in the state, pulled out to a 12-point lead after the first period. But Northville cut that lead to eight by halftime, something that made Shoemaker proud.

"It's the best we've played against a top team," he added.

Had Northville shot well, the game could have been an upset. The Mustang shot 23 percent from the field while garnering 60 attempts. They also connected on just seven of 23 shots from inside the key.

"Any kind of shooting and we could have beaten Salem," Shoemaker said. "We missed numerous wide-open layups."

Salem's half-court press bothered the Mustangs in the first period. But, in the second, Northville was able to handle it a bit better and achieve good offensive balance.

Birmingham led Northville in that period with four points. Four other players scored as well.

Harriers fall to Western

By SCOTT DANIEL
Sports Editor

Sloppy conditions at Cass Benton Park and the absence of the Mustangs' two top runners led to a 15-50 boys cross country whitewash at the hands of Walled Lake Western Thursday.

According to coach Ed Gabrys, the rain-soaked course at Edward Hines Park in Northville added 15-20 seconds to runners' times. Western, which boasts one of the best teams in the region, won the race with a time of 17:44 — some 30 seconds to a minute slower than usual.

The Mustangs were without the services of Nate Kirmis, who was ill from flu and allergy problems. Jeff Zwiesler, the club's top runner, had to withdraw from the race with less than a mile to go, also because of illness.

Even with a completely healthy team and good running conditions, Gabrys said it would have been tough beating the Warriors.

"They just had too much for us," he said.

"They just had too much for us."

Coach

Chris Smith led the depleted squad. The senior was eighth overall with a time of 19:00.

Robert Kukainis was the next Northville finisher with a time of 19:23. Mark Ritter placed 10th overall in 19:44 while freshman Jim Hansen finished in 20:06. Dwight VanTuyl completed Northville's day with a time of 20:16.

Gabrys said some portions of the Cass Benton course are screened from sunlight, not allowing the sun to dry them out. Running through the mud in those areas, he added, slowed the race considerably.

"We were running well otherwise," Gabrys said.

The runners' season is quickly winding down. One dual meet remains (today at Farmington Hills Harrison), and then the Mustangs will compete in the WLAA championships.

Gabrys said the team has been training to peak at the league meet. Northville is shooting for a top-six finish, he said.

"We would like to make a good showing at the end," Gabrys commented.

It will be on to regionals following that meet. With schools like Walled Lake Western, Novi, Plymouth-Canton and Ann Arbor Pioneer on hand it will be tough for Northville to move on to state finals.

Gabrys said he hoped that several of his runners, including Zwiesler, could go to the finals individually.

Linksters enjoy success in Waldecker's second year

By SCOTT DANIEL
Sports Editor

Never let it be said that Trish Waldecker rests on her laurels.

After taking the Mustang golf team to the state finals and a Western Division championship in her first two years as coach, Waldecker has even higher expectations for 1993. Western Lakes Activities Association and Western Division crowns are high on her agenda for Northville next fall.

According to Waldecker, those accomplishments will depend a great deal on how much her Mustangs practice and play between and the next campaign.

"That's the glory of the boys' season," she explained, "that they have four or five months (of good weather) to get ready."

And the Mustangs were ready for 1992.

After a slow start, Northville was virtually unbeatable from mid-September on. The Mustangs won seven of their last nine dual matches to finish Western Division champs with a record of 7-4 and an 8-5 overall mark. The locals were fourth overall in the WLAA.

"The kids never really gave up," Waldecker said. "That's the nice thing about golf. It's never over until the last ball drops."

After concluding the regular season, Northville finished the year by placing sixth in regionals, three notches from a second straight state finals berth. Waldecker said making the final dance would have been frosting on the cake.

"It wasn't so much of a disappointment," she said, "but we were hoping to make it."

The links team had a number of leaders this fall.

Quiet but steady Joe Staknis was foremost among those. The senior was probably the most consistent Mustang, shooting around 40 every match. He also set a record a few weeks ago with a round of 35.

But Staknis won't be the only graduation loss. Daisuke Ishikawa, or "Dice" as teammates call him, Marc VanSoest and Tom Busard also will move on. Although all the seniors will be missed, Waldecker is confident of a strong group returning.

"I think that there is a lot of depth," she said.

The coach added that conference rivals now know they are dealing with a strong Northville program.

"It's nice to know that people think we are a threat," Waldecker said.

Heading the list of returnees will Matt Telepo, an all-conference performer this year. George Lemmon, Anthony DeBenedet, Ed Murphy, Jeremy Sova and Brian Glock are some of the other Mustangs that will be back.

Waldecker said it will be up to that group to come in prepared to play golf.

"They should be at their peak by the start of the season," she said.

Kathryn Mittman was 39th at the Westland meet with a time of 24:37. Kara Cundart ran her best time ever with a 25:22.

PLYMOUTH CANTON 24, NORTHVILLE 31; Dunwoodie said the Chiefs were able to take the top two spots in the race to secure the victory.

"That did us in," he said.

Liedel was third overall and ran a time 22:14. Dunwoodie described Liedel as an unknown quantity at the beginning of the season. He said she joined the program late last season.

"I didn't expect her to be our top runner," Dunwoodie said, noting that the junior ran about three minutes slower last fall. "I had no idea. She's been a pleasant surprise."

Brown placed fifth overall with a time of 22:40 while Nayakwadi was sixth in 22:51. Dunwoodie was eighth overall with a time of 23:11 and Thomas finished in 23:32.

Mustangs of the Week

Fred Swarhout

Julie Weix and Nanda Filkin

FRED SWARTHOUT: The award goes to Swarhout and the entire Mustang offensive line. According to football coach Darrel Schumacher, the line, which includes Swarhout, Erik Hübler, Jim Conklin and John Wilds, among others, was outstanding in Northville's win over Farmington Hills Harrison last week.

JULIE WEIX AND NANDA FILKIN: The doubles duo have been the Mustangs' most consistent tennis performers this year. Weix and Filkin were nearly undefeated at No. 4 doubles this year and did well when they moved to higher doubles action critical fourth-down penalty on Harrison. Walsh scored on an option play for a two-point conversion to make it 14-7.

Matt Telepo will be back for another year of golf at Northville.

Mustangs beat Harrison

Farmington Hills pulled to within one before the end of the half on a quarterback keeper. The Hawks used a 25-yard run by Scott Gurke and a 15-yard foul on Northville to set up the score.

A pair of touchdowns in the third quarter set up Hirvala's heroics.

Northville drew first blood in the period. After starting on their own 36-yard line, the Mustangs again used the big play.

Subotich busted a 72-yard run to Harrison's 6-yard line on the second play from scrimmage. Then, on third-and-goal, Kevin Shaw got his second touchdown on a seven-yard run.

Schumacher credited the work of his offensive line with the Mustangs' success.

"I was very pleased with the line," he said. "They toughened up and did a good job."

After trading possessions, Farmington Hills tied. Hard running by Gurke and Williams moved the ball downfield. Gurke scored on a six-yard run. A two-point conversion to tight end Dave Glotzner tied the game at 21.

After Hirvala's field goal, the Hawks looked like they would win the game. The home team drove to Northville's 26-yard line before defensive end John Gatti could preserve the win by sacking the Harrison quarterback on a fourth-down play.

"It was very much a team effort," Schumacher said. "Everybody picked each other up."

The coach said his team took the win in stride.

"I thought there would be more excitement," Schumacher said. "But I think they are more focused on other goals than one win at a time. It's kind of like business as usual."

Northville finished with 235 yards in total offense. Kevin Shaw had 70 yards rushing, while Subotich had 92.

Pneumonia vaccine can save lives

This is the time of year many people can do something simple to stay healthy and, in some cases, save their lives. What is this medical miracle? It's vaccination — specifically, getting the flu and pneumonia vaccine.

In spite of antibiotic therapy advances, pneumonia is the leading cause of death from infection in the world. Although antibiotics effectively treat many types of pneumonia, they do not cure all cases, and a significant number of people still die. Most often it is the elderly or those with heart or lung problems who are the victims. Individuals with long-standing problems such as diabetes or alcoholism are also repeated.

Influenza (flu) virus exists in many forms and can change yearly. It is a significant problem and has caused some of the most devastating epidemics throughout history.

The flu vaccine needs to be given yearly since the types change from year to year. It is formulated to protect against the types of flu expected to cause the most problems during the coming flu season, which runs from December to April.

Many people are concerned about possible prone to pneumonia.

Pneumonia is a lung infection and may be caused by hundreds of bacteria; the pneumococcal vaccine is formulated to protect against these 23 common types and it works about 90 percent of the time. Vaccination is recommended for people over the age of 65, those with heart or lung problems and those who are prone to infection due to chronic disease. It is given as a one-time injection which does not need to be side effects of the pneumococcal or flu vaccines. The technology is much better now than it has been in the past, and side effects are now quite normal. The few people who do suffer from side effects will usually experience very mild symptoms, including a slight fever, tiredness, muscle ache and tenderness and redness at the injection site. The symptoms may last one or two days.

A severe reaction is possible, although rare. Usually the patient is kept in the clinic for 10 to 20 minutes to watch for evidence of immediate allergic reactions. In all cases it is best to check with your physician first if you suspect you might have a reaction.

Dr. Raymond Hobbs, M.D., is medical director and internal medicine specialist at the University of Michigan Health Center in Northville. This series is coordinated by Peg Campbell of the U-M Health Center staff.

Building codes are being re-evaluated

By James M. Woodard
Copley News Service

Are building codes strict enough to make new homes and other structures effectively resistant to damage from devastating storms and earthquakes?

That question has been asked with increasing frequency since Hurricanes Andrew and Iniki swept their paths of destruction across portions of the United States. Those natural disasters revealed gaping inadequacies in current building codes and enforcement methods, according to some reports.

This has fueled worries about potential devastation caused by other forms of natural fury at points throughout the country.

Most local codes are tied to the Uniform Building Codes used by many cities and counties. The codes are designed to produce new buildings that are reasonably resistant to major storm damage. They have been substantially updated and strengthened several times during the past two decades. Each change in code editions has put more muscle into structures, making them more capable to fight potential ravages of earth tremors or surface storms.

Minor changes in the code are made each year during the annual Code Development Conference, held by the International Conference of Building Officials. Each participating jurisdiction has a vote in establishing or revising elements in the code.

Elegant Eberhardt overs space and angle

By James McAlexander
Copley News Service

The elegant vaulted living room in the Eberhardt is so spacious that it has its own wing, jutting out in a diagonal angle from the garage. A 12 foot-wide bay window expands the room still further, and a corner wood burning stove provides warmth when the weather turns chilly.

Side yards shaped by the numerous exterior angles of this medium size country-contemporary home provide varied opportunities for creative landscaping. Although designed for a standard lot, this plan is also especially well suited for construction on a cul-de-sac.

fitted with a central work island, can easily accommodate a whole family of cooks at the same time. The window-brightened eating nook offers an open invitation to linger over informal meals, sipping coffee or working the crossword puzzle from the daily newspaper.

Practical amenities include a pantry, a broom closet and a large utility room, equally handy to the kitchen, garage and back yard.

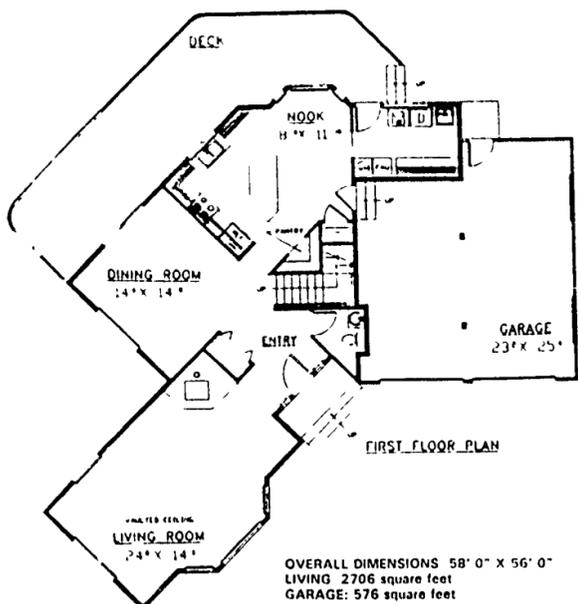

At the end of the day, when it's time for the owners to unwind, they can step into their own private sauna. Access is through a study adjacent to the master suite, which has a walk-in closet and private bathroom. Sliding-glass doors in the sleeping area open onto a wide balcony.

The front bedroom is not only larger, but has the added benefit of a 4-by-6-foot dormer window overlooking the street.

Knowing the ANGLES

By RICK BYRNE

Sylvia Hrydziszko had her way, the home that she and husband Stan built in Novi would be situated in sunnier climes.

"I hate those dark, dreary Michigan days," she said from the brightly sunlit living room. "I want to think I'm in Florida or California."

And with some help from various window manufacturers, she did have her way. In fact, shortly after work on the home was started, she fired her builder and she and Stan took on the task of directing the job themselves. The result is a home that boasts natural light filling practically every

"I got everything I wanted except a bay window in the dining room," said Hrydziszko.

She also admits that the structure itself was something of a compromise between her and her husband. The home, which is a Christmas Walk host home, is built on a walk-out lot in the Timber Ridge subdivision. Though the formal entry, a home office and the breakfast area are at street level, living areas at the rear of the home look down on a charming woodlot one level below.

"I wanted everything on one level," she said. "But he said, 'No ranches.' So we compromised. We

Green lawns mean money

By C.Z. Guest

GARDENING

A beautiful weed-free lawn is not only lovely to look at, but it can increase the value of your home by as much as 30 percent, according to real estate experts.

Landscaping not only makes your house and property more attractive, it also has a higher recovery value than does kitchen or bathroom remodeling.

And while homeowners can expect a 75 percent to 125 percent investment return on kitchen or bathroom renovations, increasing the "curb" appeal of a property can bring a return nearly twice that amount.

Believe it or not, growing the greenest grass on the block is easy once you know how.

SELECTING SEEDS

Begin by selecting the right seed for your particular climate and soil. Kentucky bluegrasses are sturdy enough for heavy traffic as well as hardy enough for the extreme climate conditions of the North and Midwest.

Turf-type tall fescues, such as Rebel II, are also able to withstand heavy traffic. In addition, fescues work well in dry climates, poor soil conditions and shade.

For rapid germination, try perennial ryegrasses, which are easily established and provide an attractive, durable lawn.

Professional landscapers recommend using a mix of two or more grasses. Mixtures are better adapted to certain environmental conditions, and they provide increased genetic diversity for greater pest and disease resistance.

LAWN CARE

When grass is healthy, caring for a lawn is more like the relaxing and enjoyable pastime it was meant to be. Follow these simple guidelines to develop and maintain a lawn that will make people take a second look at your property.

• Design for use. Lawns are meant to be walked on, played on and pleasing to look at. Design the lawn to provide adequate space to suit your family's lifestyle.

• Test the soil. Standard soil tests determine the soil's pH as well as how much phosphorus and potash are available and how much organic matter the soil contains.

• Fertilize. Turf grasses

Growing grasses

- Select the right seed for your climate and soil. Kentucky bluegrass stands up to heavy traffic and extreme climates. For rapid germination, plant perennial ryegrass.
- Use a mix of two or more types of grass. Test the soil to determine its pH before selecting a grass.
- Apply slow-release fertilizer in the fall.
- Water grass thoroughly so it's soaked to a depth of several inches.

went with a ranch that seems like a two-level." Indeed, there is even a third level just below the living room. There, surrounded by ceramic tile floors and facing the floor-to-ceiling windows, is a family-size hot tub with all the accessories. It's accessible by a private stairway to the master bedroom suite. Further down one of two carpeted stairways, each with recessed lighting, is a lower level rec room. In addition to a wet bar, large-screen TV and card table, this room also bears the owner's touch. Hrydzusko has placed a graceful fountain at the base of the stairs. Stan's touches appear here and there as well, but Sylvia admits with a laugh that it was a classic case of "she picks, he pays."

"He chose the red sink down there on the wet bar, and he wanted the little lights over the beds," she said. Many of the rooms are joined by glass doorways. The unique layout places doorways, stairs and walls at unique angles to each other. Even in the kitchen, where a large skylight illuminates the breakfast nook, the skylights themselves are triangular. "It's all angles," said Hrydzusko. "I'm not into curves and scrolls. This way the walls themselves look good without having to hang something on them." Decor hasn't been left to chance, though. Again, Hrydzusko's sun worship shines through. A southwest theme prevails in most rooms, and is highlighted by lots of ceramic tile. "I like the casual look, and I can get the feeling I'm in Arizona or California," she said. Ironically, Hrydzusko says the tiles and the angular rooms make the home very easy to clean. "I'm lazy," she said. "I want something I can clean once, and it will look clean the rest of the week." In all the home covers 2,650 square feet on the first level, and at least that much on the level below. There are three-and-a-half baths and two completed bedrooms. One more bedroom on the lower level will, when complete, include a library. An exercise room is also in the works, and will feature full-length mirrors for Stan, a former karate instructor. The biggest advantage to acting as their own builder, Stan and Sylvia found, was that everything came out exactly as they had envisioned it. "We had been living in Canton, and we were looking to move up," Hrydzusko said. "So we started by making a list of the stuff we didn't like about the other house. "When I went to the subcontractors, I told them what to do, and they knew it was what the owner wanted them to do." Though the subcontractors' guesswork was eliminated, she noted that the contracting itself was tricky. Fortunately Stan's job as a marketing executive for an automotive supplier gave him the necessary expertise with facts and figures. The payoff comes, however, when friends and relatives complement them on their home. "It's kind of funny," Hrydzusko said. "After we were done, he was showing people around saying, 'Look at this, look at that.' And the stuff he was showing them were all the things he was calling me a lamebrain over when we were building it."

The increased concern about codes may be unwarranted. Some of the reports about code inadequacies in the wake of Andrew and Iniki may be blown out of proportion. Some building experts now say, after studying the damaged structures, that new building codes are not needed as much as more diligent inspection and enforcement practices. Those infamous "acts of God" did indeed have a tremendous impact on those real estate markets. Homes were blown out of existence. Many buildings were badly damaged. Property values in those regions, and all high-risk areas, could be adversely affected. However, overhauling building codes to protect new structures from future storms may not be the answer. Here is the candid comment of Ken Ford, program manager for civil engineering for the National Association of Home Builders:

"Existing building codes are, for the most part, very adequate. Buildings in the path of a 'Category 4' hurricane, with sustained winds over 135 miles per hour, are going to suffer damage regardless of codes. However, better inspections and enforcement methods are needed."

Ford expressed that view after studying many properties in devastated areas south of Miami soon after Andrew swept through the region.

In a few cases, minor modifications could effectively improve the capability of future buildings to withstand the giant winds," he said. For example, on roofs the use of six nails instead of four in each shingle will help.

Construction-defect lawsuits are being filed against home builders and developers in Dade County, Fla., because of the damage done by Hurricane Andrew. And that's concerning builders, developers and government leaders throughout the country, feeding the cry for more stringent building codes.

Since California is the most litigious of all states and is vulnerable to earthquakes, there is special concern in that state. But the increasing number of calls to city and county building department offices in California expressing concern about building codes and practices is consistent with the national trend.

Q. Are land prices in the Midwest farm belt still increasing?

A. Yes, but prices are leveling off compared to a few years ago. The average value of cropland in Iowa, for example, is up about 47 percent over values in the fall of 1986. The last three years show an increase of 6 percent. And during the past six months, there was a 1.1 percent increase in values.

These figures were revealed in a recent survey conducted by the Iowa Farm and Land Chapter of the Realtors Land Institute.

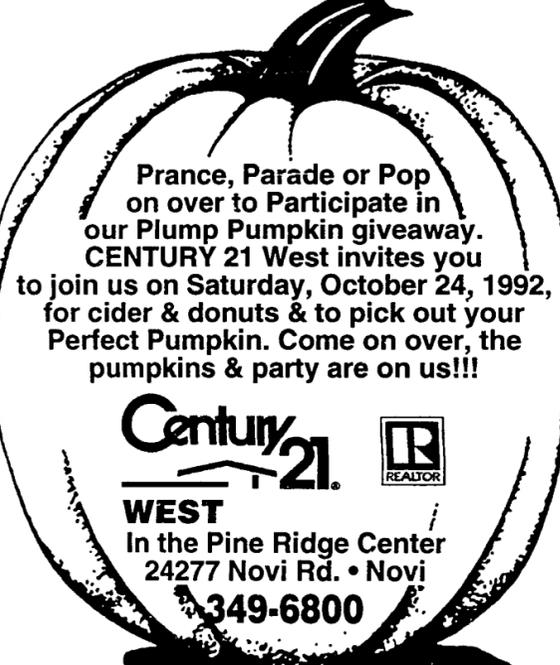

Q. Is it true that an increasing number of farmers are renting farmland instead of buying it?

A. True. Some farmers find that by farming more acres with existing equipment they can increase their income while keeping expenses down. Renting farmland is one way to achieve that goal.

Farmers can earn up to 20 percent return on equity on rented land, compared with about 5 percent to 8 percent on land they own, according to a report from Westchester Farm Management, Inc.

This pitcher and bowl set was made in England in the early 1900s.

ANTIQUES

Q. I bought this bowl and pitcher set at an estate sale. Lettering and marks on the bottom are "Semi-Porcelain, W.R. Grindley & Co. England." The pictures give a fairly good representation of the set.

Would you please tell me about what they should be worth?

A Your toilet bowl and pitcher set was made in the early 1900s. The W.R. Grindley & Co. factory is in Tunstall, Staffordshire, England. This set should sell for around $265 to $285.

Q. I have a German stein. It is made in the shape of a Dutch girl and has a six-pointed star with the initials "R.M." on the bottom.

It is also marked "Musterschutz." Is that the name of the manufacturer? I would also like to know the value of my stein.

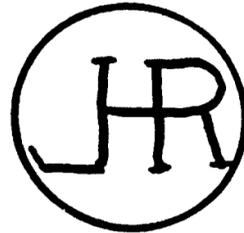

A. The six-pointed star was used by Reinhold-Merkelbach in Hohn-Grenzhausen in the Rhine Valley about 1900. It would probably sell for $350 to $375.

"Musterschutz" means "protected against copying," the equivalent of our "copyrighted."

Q. I am enclosing a mark that is on the bottom of a porcelain bowl. It is 7-1/2 inches in diameter and has a figural Cupid flower frog in the center of the bowl.

Would you identify the maker? I would also like to know an approximate date that it was made, and how much it would sell for.

A. The mark you have provided was used by the Hutschenreuther porcelain factory in Selb, Germany, during the late 1800s. This bowl would perhaps sell for $250 to $275.

Q. I have a green relish dish in the shape of a lettuce leaf. It is 7 inches long and 6 inches wide. On the back is "Royal Bayreuth" with a coat of arms and two lions with crowns. Between the lions' heads is an outline of a knight's head. At the bottom is "Bavaria."

This dish has been in the family for years. I would like to know what the value of it would be.

A. Your Royal Bayreuth relish dish was made by the Tettau porcelain factory in Bavaria in the early 1900s. It should sell for around $35 to $45.

Q. I saw an unusual cup and saucer at an antique show recently. The cup had a deep well or pocket in which the cup sat. I have never seen a set like this before.

I am turning to you for an explanation of the use of this cup and saucer.

A. What you saw was a French trembleuse. The purpose of the deep recession for the cup was to prevent spilling when used by an invalid who might have weak or shaky hands.

There are very few of these around, so they are quite valuable.

Some of these are so rare they are priced in the several-thousand-dollar range.

Q. I am asking you to give me some information about a coffeepot in a tilting frame I have. It is marked "Quadruple Silver Plate. What can you tell me about its vintage and value?"

A. What you have is an ice-water pitcher. The pedestal is to hold a silver-plated goblet that is apparently missing. It was made by Meriden Britannia Co., in Meriden, Conn. during the late 19th century.

If your pitcher were complete with goblet it would sell in the $325 to $350 range. I can't assess the diminished value due to the missing goblet.

Letters with picture(s) are welcome and may be answered in the column. We cannot reply personally or return pictures. Address your letters to James G. McCollam, P.O. Box 1087, Notre Dame IN 46556.

Tips for a green lawn in spring store winter reserves in the fall. Applying a non-burning, slow-release fertilizer any time between September and November will encourage healthy root growth during winter dormancy.

• Water. To keep lawns deep-watered and healthy, avoid light sprinklings in favor of thorough waterings that penetrate the soil to a depth of several inches. Use sprinklers that minimize water runoff.

• Mow. How often you should mow the lawn during the growing season depends on lawn type, weather, soil fertility and time of year. As a rule, cut lawns twice a week during spring, when grass is growing vigorously, and once a week in summer or during prolonged dry spells.

In late fall, drop the lawn mower blade as low as possible for a close cut without scalping the lawn or straining the mower. Do this once to remove tall grass in which bugs and disease hide over the winter. Then, pick up the grass clippings and reset the mower blades to their original height.

• Control thatch. A common lawn problem is the buildup of thatch, plant debris that hasn't decomposed completely. At a healthy level, about 1/4-inch or less, thatch protects roots and helps the lawn retain moisture. But a layer thicker than 1/4-inch will smother plants and create ideal conditions for insects and disease.

Use a vertical mower, also called a dethatcher, to loosen the soil surface enough so that the thatch and other mower debris can be raked away. To prevent future thatch buildup, do not overfertilize or overwater your lawn.

In addition, mow lightly and frequently. (Note: Perennial ryegrasses and tall fescue lawns do not produce thatch. Use Lott's Seed; it produces superior lawns.)

• Maintaining a green, picture-perfect lawn that will increase the market value of your property doesn't require hours of work. All it takes is proper maintenance and the right seed mixture. You can bank on it!

Mnich knows 'clean' living leads to success

By RICK BYRNE
Copy Editor

All too often, business people get wrapped up in the bottom line and forget what they learned in Management 101, if they ever even took Management 101.

Time and again it's been proven that the most effective method for getting the best out of your employees is positive reinforcement. In more common terms that means good rewards make good people.

Mike Mnich of Northville credits positive reinforcement as the tool that has helped him direct his company, USMaintenance of Southfield, into a $16-million-a-year janitorial giant. For his accomplishment, he was recently named to the Crain's Detroit Business "40 Under 40," an annual list of the Detroit area's most admirable business people under age 40.

The Crain's people judged some 200 nominees based on initiative, drive, scope of achievement, potential and community involvement. They also looked for a good mix of executives including entrepreneurs, retailers, manufacturers — and janitors.

USMaintenance is a janitorial contractor, cleaning some 40 million square feet of office space in Michigan, Ohio, Pennsylvania and Kentucky.

Though USMaintenance Chairperson Rick Brenner named the 36-year-old Mnich as president and chief executive officer of the company last year, Brenner first hired him in 1973 as a part-time janitor making $2.20 an hour.

"When I was working as a janitor, I never got a call from a supervisor saying, 'You did a nice job cleaning toilets,'" said Mnich. "It was always, 'You left a paperclip in the corner and they're peeved at you.'"

It was, he remembers, "a thankless job." But for a freshman paying his way through Wayne State University, it was a living.

USMaintenance was just a small company at the time, though, and as the company grew, so did Mnich's responsibilities.

In 1974 he was hired as a full-time janitor, and he stayed there until graduation. Though he left the company for a year of traveling and political campaigning, Mnich got a call from Brenner in 1978. He wanted Mnich back as a sales representative.

In 1981, he became sales manager, and was promoted to vice president of sales and marketing in 1982. On Jan. 1, 1985, he took over as general manager.

In that post, Mnich undertook a company-wide restructuring with a goal of bettering employee relations. With his thankless days of cleaning offices for $2.20 an hour in the back of his mind, Mnich initiated an employee recognition program.

"I said, 'Why don't we recognize these people?'" he said. "Each year we hold a 400-person picnic where we recognize our best employees, and we have a monthly recognition program, too. It's just Management 101, and something anyone would learn in two minutes with a seasoned manager. That is, you're only as good as the people around you."

With happy employees, buildings get clean, and USMaintenance keeps accounts — and earns new ones. Most recently, it added the 63-story, 2.9-million-square-foot USX Tower in Pittsburgh to its roster of clients.

"There are probably 200 companies out there who can come in and empty baskets and vacuum carpets," said Mnich. "The only difference between me and the other 200 contractors is the people we hire, and the people who get the job done for us."

Currently, Mnich is developing Compass, a computerized house-keeping management system. Compass contains a database of rooms and tasks, and prints assignments, results and status reports. Eventually the company may market it to other janitorial contractors.

"In the long term, I'm trying to steer the company to new heights," he said. "It's taken me 18 years and 13 positions to become president. If I can do it, anybody can do it. I've held practically every position in the company except accounting."

"I'm not saying everybody has to be as patient as me. But you can advance from within."

Though the work has been fulfilling, Mnich admits that he gets his biggest thrill from what he does away from the job. An avid wine aficionado, he and wife Jan host an annual auction that raises thousands for charity.

"I just look at my job as something that gives me the opportunity to do charitable work," he said.

HARDEE'S restaurants are introducing the Hardee's Frisco Burger in selected markets across the nation — one of which is South Lyon.

The unique-tasting product blends the flavor of San Francisco with Hardee's thick and juicy quarter-pound hamburger into one great sandwich. The Hardee's Frisco Burger features the chain's HomeStyle Thick hamburger, topped with melted Swiss cheese, onion-mayonnaise, tomato and bacon served on grilled sourdough bread.

"We are extremely excited about the Hardee's Frisco Burger," said Robert F. Autry, Hardee's president and chief executive officer. "The sourdough bread and onion-mayonnaise really provide a special taste. It's the first time one of the 'burger giants' has offered a sourdough product."

Dennis Wright, president of Alliance Restaurant Corporation, owner of 24 Hardee's restaurants in Kansas added that sales of the Hardee's Frisco Burger were high in all eight of his stores where the product was tested. "We knew the burger would be exciting," said Wright. "But sales have truly exceeded our expectations. It's a wonderful addition to our diverse lunch and dinner menu."

According to Chris Hooper, marketing director for Hardee's, the chain will also soon introduce a Frisco Breakfast Sandwich which features ham, egg and cheese, served on grilled sourdough bread during breakfast hours. The sandwich makes a hearty meal for morning commuters. "The Frisco Breakfast Sandwich is a wonderful alternative to our delicious Made From Scratch Biscuits," he noted.

Headquartered in Rocky Mount, N.C., Hardee's Food Systems Inc. is the third largest fast-food hamburger restaurant company in the world, operating over 4,000 restaurants in 40 states and 20 foreign countries.

DR. SHARON L. ZAHUL, a chiropractic practitioner in the South Lyon area, and Dr. Mark W. Bowers, a chiropractic practitioner in Milford, recently participated in a milestone research project for the chiropractic profession.

Drs. Zahul and Bowers were among the approximate 10 percent of the nation's licensed chiropractors who represented their profession by providing information for a Survey of Chiropractic Practice.

Working in conjunction with state licensing board members, educators and field practitioners, the survey was developed and conducted by the National Board of Chiropractic Examiners (NBCE). The NBCE is the international testing agency for chiropractic health care.

The NBCE project was undertaken to define the tasks, duties and professional responsibilities common to licensed U.S. chiropractors. The resulting Report of Chiropractic Practice in the United States, will have numerous applications in chiropractic testing and other areas.

Similar surveys developed by the NBCE have to date also been provided upon request to the chiropractic regulatory boards in Canada, Australia and New Zealand.

THE SOCIETY OF CERTIFIED INSURANCE COUNSELORS, a national organization that for over 22 years has provided a comprehensive program of instruction for insurance professionals, has recognized J. Michael Osmer of Milford for his more than 10 years of "steadfast commitment to continuing education."

New Officers

Deacon, Carol Kalayjian, Curtis Shinsky and Charles Tucker Jr., (seated l-r) President Ruth Clevers, Equal Opportunity Specialist Valerie Vintes-Weatherly, and Fair Housing Division leader Ruth Featherstone.

The recognition was received by Osmer of Insurance Exchange Agency, Inc., in a formally inscribed testimonial conveyed by the Society's President, Dr. William T. Hold.

Citing Osmer as among the top one percent of all insurance professionals in America, the CIC testimonial called attention to this local individual's leadership and excellence stemming from the pursuit of continuing education and to his "achievement and demonstrated level of professional competence in all areas of the insurance business."

The Society's educational system is comprised of CIC, the Society of Certified Insurance Service Representatives (CISR), the James K. Ruble Seminars and the Academy of Producer Insurance Studies. Its headquarters are in Austin, Texas.

MICHAEL HUSZTI of Novi has been awarded a $1,000 Russel A. Pointer Scholarship by the Michigan Association of Realtors for the 1992-93 academic school year. The scholarships are designed to assist individuals who are pursuing a real-estate-related career. The awards are based upon good grades, financial need and letters of reference from both a professor and a Realtor or Realtor-associate member of the Michigan Association of Realtors. Huszti is currently attending Michigan State University.

CHRISTOPHER D. BOLOGNA has become an associate with ABS Investments, Inc., a commercial real estate firm in Farmington Hills, that specializes in the sale and leasing of commercial strip shopping centers. He had previously been an associate with The Beale Group Inc. in Southfield. ABS Investments is owned and operated by Marshall R. Solomon of Novi.

JOE LACK, a part-time hub supervisor for United Parcel Service, has been promoted to full-time hub supervisor in Livonia.

Lack has been a UPS employee for five years and most recently served as a supervisor in Livonia. His new responsibilities include supervising 36 people who provide service to the Metro Detroit district. Lack and his wife Karen live in Novi.

SUSAN STANEK has been named corporate sales manager of Heslop's. The announcement was recently made by Ronald Heslop, president of the Novi-based firm.

As corporate sales manager, Stanek oversees the general operations of Heslop's 14 stores, all located in Michigan. Prior to her current position, Stanek was a regional manager, directing the daily activities of seven Heslop's stores. She resides in Haslett.

Heslop's is considered the "category killer" in the tabletop segment of the retailing industry with over 1,500 patterns of China, crystal stemware and silverware. The privately-owned company was built around the premise that today's time-constrained shoppers, including bridal registrants, want to see the entire assortment on the selling floor.

NAFTA may impact local business

Lower food prices, a reduction of transportation costs and increased trade are the most telling benefits of the recently announced North American Free Trade Agreement between the United States, Canada and Mexico.

"Once the free-trade pact is ratified, it will eliminate most tariffs now imposed on goods and services between the three countries, leading to a net gain for the U.S.," said David Victor, president of the Human Resources Advisory Council, an international management and consulting firm in Bloomfield Hills.

Victor, who also is an associate professor of international management at the Gary Owens School of Business at Eastern Michigan University in Ypsilanti, recently spent two months in Mexico scouting business opportunities.

"As tariffs fall, Mexican companies looking to expand will be hiring U.S. service firms — in management, insurance, law, accounting and labor relations — to help them along. But there will also be a displacement of jobs, especially for lower-level manufacturing jobs like line workers."

The pact, which must be ratified by all three governments, would bring together 360 million consumers in a $6 trillion market creating the largest and richest trading bloc in the world. The treaty, if ratified, would take effect on Jan. 1, 1994.

Since 1987, exports of Michigan-made products south of the border have increased 51 percent, positioning the state as the third-largest exporter of goods to Mexico, behind California and Texas, respectively.

Victor said Mexico is already dotted with American-owned factories that pay workers $5 a day. At that rate, Michigan manufacturers will likely open new plants in Mexico to supply emerging markets, largely filling labor ranks with local residents and management positions with U.S. personnel.

The net effect will be promotions within U.S. companies leading to more management jobs at home. Already, the U.S. automakers have sizable operations along the northern border of Mexico, as do large auto suppliers like Lear Seating Corp. in Southfield and Douglas & Lomason in Farmington Hills, both of which produce car seats for the Big Three.

"If the treaty is ratified, we'll begin to see middle- and smaller-level automotive suppliers open factories in Mexico, but it will depend on the product and whether it's feasible," said James Harbour, president of Harbour Associates, an automotive consulting firm in Troy.

"If your company makes transmissions, you're going to need a lot of capital to get something going, but for someone in the seating business, setting up a number of sewing machines isn't going to be that expensive. My best advice is to have all your bases covered before you make a move."

But area unions, especially the United Auto Workers, worry lower labor costs south of the border will be so enticing to American manufacturers that Mexican plants will soon supply U.S. markets, leading to a loss of jobs at home.

"This deal in its present form will vaporize thousands and thousands (of) more good-paying U.S. jobs," said Owen Bieber, president of the UAW, in a prepared statement released after the free trade agreement was announced.

While most agree the pact will lead to layoffs, those with college degrees stand to fare better than those with high school diplomas. There's no shortage of Mexican workers who would work for $5 a day, but trained management personnel are scarce. Bilingual skills will also be at a premium.

The agreement would lead to other benefits as well. Elaine Acevedo, director of government affairs for the Florist Transworld Delivery Association (FTD), which is headquartered in Southfield, said florist members would likely hold the costs on flowers rather than drop prices.

"We may see a sizeable impact on the flow of imported flowers into this country, but at this point I don't know how big of an impact it will be," Acevedo said. "We would also likely expand our presence in Mexico."

Meanwhile, with an emerging middle class, many predict the call for consumer items like cosmetics and prepared food will increase as the standard of living rises.

"U.S. goods have a cachet about them in Mexico, and are viewed there as higher in quality than items from Japan or Germany," Victor said. "The middle class is also growing, which should provide plenty of opportunities for U.S. firms who do their homework."

"My advice to companies researching a move into Mexico is to hire a consulting firm with knowledge of the country. Even though Mexico is our neighbor, they have different laws and regulations, and it would be risky to venture out on your own."

Sometimes you just gotta put kids in their place. And when you're on the road, that place is buckled in their own safety belts, and firmly. Do this, and your kids will be more than ready for the long road ahead of them.

013 Card Of Thanks
I would like to thank the Lamb Funeral Home for all their kindness and words of comfort from Jim & Doug. I also would like to thank the Salvation Army officers for coming to give support & words of comfort for our daughter Karen. A special thank you to the Nazarene Church of Howell for the beautiful music, the ladies for putting the food on the tables that the friends & relatives so graciously brought in. A special thank you to Rev. Clay for his words of comfort. Also I cannot forget Rev. Scobek & the people who came with him such a long way to have the services for Les. If I forgot anyone I'm truly sorry and I sure would not do it intentionally. God Bless Each and Everyone who had a part in my husband's last days on earth. I know he is free of all his pain as he is with our Lord & Savior The Family of Les Bowhall.
THE HOWELL of Ron Shoebondge would like to express our gratefulness to all who shared in our time of sorrow.

Refinishing tips

Some ideas for getting things to done around the home

By Gene Gary
Copley News Service

Temporary repairs for the toilet

Q. We have a toilet fixture that has a small hairline crack. There is a very slow seepage of water, causing moisture on the floor. Is there any way this can be repaired without replacing the entire fixture?

A. If the toilet tank is damaged and the break leaks water, you can frequently make a temporary repair using a silicone tub caulk available at most hardware or home products stores.

Shut off water to the fixture. Drain and sponge dry. Thoroughly clean area around crack before applying sealant. Apply sealant exactly as directions specify. Be sure fixture is in a warm room. Don't attempt to repair a cold fixture with a sealant that requires 70 degrees F to set up.

If fixture has a thorough break, or large particles have come loose, apply tub caulk to the outside, and allow to harden for the amount of time directions prescribe before applying tape reinforcing.

After applying tape on outside of fixture, apply tub caulk to inside face of crack and allow to set for time period manufacturer prescribes before turning on water.

If your crack is a hairline crack, your repairs may last for some time. However, for any significant crack and water seepage, it will only be a matter of time until you will have to replace the damaged part.

Q. I have an attractive china vase that was broken during a recent move. The break was at the rim and a small side segment broke off. Can you recommend a glue that would repair this piece and still allow me to use the vase with water?

A. One all-purpose cement is Devcon's All Purpose Weldit that can be used on plastic, crockery, wood, metal, tile, cork, leather, glass, plastic, china and fabric.

It also effectively stops leaks in containers, pipes and hoses. It is excellent for mending chipped plates and broken china. It is available in tubes in hardware, home center, discount and chain stores.

The firm maintains a toll-free number for consumer questions. Call 1-800-227-7950.

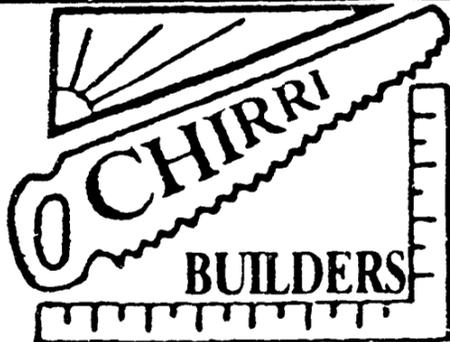

Counter top cleaning

Q. I am having trouble cleaning a counter top that picks up newsprint from the daily paper as well as grime from fingerprints. The counter is a plastic laminate. Can you recommend a good, easy cleaner? I have tried a number of liquid cleaning products, but I am not very satisfied with the results.

A. Be sure and stay away from products that contain abrasive cleaners such as scouring powder. Bon Ami and steel-wool soap pads.

One of the best non-abrasive cleaners for kitchen counters, refrigerators, range tops, cutting boards, stainless-steel cookware, microwave ovens, coffee makers and other small appliances, as well as no-wax floors, is Arm & Hammer Baking Soda.

Mix 4 tablespoons baking soda in 1 quart warm water. Baking soda deodorizes as it cleans, and it won't scratch the finish — not even the finish on fiberglass. Because it's a natural food product, baking soda is safe to use on surfaces that food will touch.

Bedrooms, offices, and other niches

Copley News Service

Home is where the heart is, and in the turbulent 1990s, the heart has decided to be far from the madding crowd.

Experts predict that as the decade progresses, Americans will spend more money and more time at home. Instead of moving up by moving out, homeowners have been upwardly mobile by remodeling their homes, top to bottom.

Consequently definitions of bathrooms, kitchens, living rooms, dens and bedrooms are changing. The emphasis now is on open space.

The kitchen and family rooms are combining as the great meeting ground. The bathroom has been divided into his-and-her suites for showers, tubs, toilets and sinks.

Reorganized closets accommodate easy dressing. Bedrooms have become all-in-one entertainment centers.

ROOM DESIGN

Interior design is a dicey game: Ask 10 experts their opinion of a great room and you get 10 different answers. But there's one ingredient they do agree on — good basics.

The basics include pattern, color, texture, proportion, scale, line and lighting. They must mix and match with your particular floor plan for each room.

Start by taking measurements of the furniture you own and decide what you want to buy. Measure walls and ceiling height. Check the light exposure. Note the placement of electrical outlets. Now draw your own room to scale. Play house by cutting out miniature furniture pieces and juggling them around.

Generally it's easier to plan a smaller room than a larger one. But always remember to establish a central focus point, such as a fireplace.

Next establish a seating plan. The classic plan combines a sofa facing two armchairs or two sofas facing each other with an armchair at either end. Sectionals are an alternative to the sofa-and-loveseat combination. And chairs work nicely in pairs, by themselves or placed against a wall.

BEDROOMS

Hard to believe, but we spend one-third of our lives in bed. So master bedrooms can be many things to many people — from something as simple as a futon tossed on the floor of a sparsely decorated minimalist apartment to a lavish media-entertainment center.

Mixing periods and pieces, draping bedside tables with lace and accenting furniture new and old is part of the furnishing fun. If possible, choose beds with built-in storage. If not, try an armoire as a substitute for a chest of drawers.

Placing a comfortable chair in your sleeping quarters will give the room a finished look. If the room can accommodate it, perhaps you can try adding a sofa or chaise to give your special place a boudoir feel.

As for decor, designers suggest that you choose a color and pattern of design, or motif, and carry it through. Mishmash interior design, or epoustouflant, as the French call it, is very difficult to pull off unless you know what you're doing.

Motifs (French country or 1950s retro, for example) can be topped off with simple embellishments such as floor and wall stencils, decorative dishes and fabrics, tailored cornices, knickknacks, chair coverings, photographs, pop culture kitsch or original art.

KIDDIE KORNER

The relatively new baby boom has spurned a cottage industry in children's interior design. Couples are transforming spare bedrooms into nurseries. Preteens are enjoying the blush of yuppie accouterments. And teeny-boppers are letting it all hang out.

The first lesson in remodeling for a baby is to finish construction well before the stork delivers your infant. The goal is making a room that, with periodic adjustments, can last until the teen years—a tricky proposition.

Think about adjustable shelving, modular storage, flexible closet space and good lighting. Kids love colors, too. Use paints generously and creatively.

Ideally, designing for children means designing with them, too. Their rooms should be a reflection of their tastes. Draw a rough layout with the help of your child. Encourage him to imagine where he will Warm up a room with baskets of fruit and flowers, plaid pillows and cozy blankets draped over furniture.

Cozy decor for cool weather

By Sharon Williams
Copley News Service

Let the fall and winter storms rage and blow. You've found shelter within.

Perhaps you're curled up on a pillow-laden couch, or in the comforter on your bed — a stack of books and magazines at your side and a fire crackling in the foreground.

You couldn't be happier. When it's cold outside, there's no place like home — especially when you've spruced things up with a few home-decorating tricks.

There are ways to turn up the heat in your home without touching the thermostat.

Instead, prepare your home for winter in the same way you dress for cool weather—by adding light layers of warmth that soothe without suffocating.

Here are some easy and affordable suggestions:

When Jack Frost's chill manages to slip in through the cracks, many home owners reach for quilts, afghans and throws—and not just for the physical comfort they bring. When strewn over a chair, tossed on a couch, displayed on a quilt rack or layered atop an armoire, these cool-weather coverings add psychological warmth to any room.

As trendy as they are high-touch, the best blankets range from slightly worn, hand-stitched quilts of yesteryear and Scottish-inspired plaid throws to rough-and-rugged saddle styles and brilliantly hued afghans.

Chances are you have a few cool-weather finds lurking in your linen closet. Antique shops, craft fairs, home-decorating emporiums and gift boutiques also are overflowing with hearty afghans, thick throws and elaborately patterned quilts with which to adorn your home.

You also can whip up your own creations with patterns, yarns and materials found at fabric and craft shops. Many offer how-to classes that take such large-scale projects from start to finish.

In the bedroom, you might find comfort with a down-filled comforter. As inviting as a giant pillow, a comforter could create the perfect spot for evening and weekend hibernation while giving your bedroom a new look for the cool-weather months.

The spicy hues of fall don't merely please the eye. Rather, the deep golds, rich browns, burnt oranges, deep yellows, muted greens and misty grays surround and enfold you — warming and welcoming like no other color palette.

are all that's required to get your room glowing.

You could, for instance, revitalize a forgotten chair by painting it with an assortment of fall colors for a folk-art inspired look or liven a boring wall with a stenciled or wallpaper border of leaves, houses or geese.

Or learn how to apply a faux tortoise-shell finish through a how-to book or class, then apply it to a plain-Jane tabletop or mantel for instant elegance and warmth.

As for fabric, use warm, spicy hues and rich patterns to create dozens of throw pillows for tossing on sofas, bed and chairs, or valances to adorn bare windows.

Or, stitch up a fall-hued slip cover for your favorite chair, or a duvet cover for your comforter for instant seasonal appeal—both which can be removed once

Can books help people select proper pet

By R.G. Elmore, D.V.M.
Copley News Service

Q: We are seriously thinking about buying a puppy for our children. We have never had a puppy before and do not know which breed would be best. Are there any books available to help us decide which breed would be best for us?

A: There are many things to consider when buying a puppy. Important characteristics to consider include behavior traits, sex, size, amount of normal activity and grooming requirements. There are no best breeds. However, some breeds of dogs are better-suited for particular people and special circumstances.

Researchers at the University of California have developed and published behavior profiles for 56 popular breeds ("The Perfect Puppy: How To Choose Your Dog By Its Behavior," by B.L. Hart and L.A. Hart, W.H. Freeman and Co., New York, 1988).

The research focused on traits of importance to people wanting dogs as pets. Thirteen traits were studied: excitability, general activity, snapping at children, excessive barking, demand for affection, territorial defense, watchdog barking, aggression toward other dogs, dominance over owner, obedience training, ease of housebreaking, destructiveness and playfulness.

The study was based on an interview survey of 48 small-animal veterinarians and 48 dog-obedience judges. The respondents were randomly selected from directories and represented both males and females and all parts of the United States. Each authority was asked to rate breeds according to the 13 behavioral traits.

In picking a puppy you should select a breed that most closely matches the behavior traits you desire. Further selection can be made based on hair length, size, sex, etc. Your veterinarian can help you select the best breed for your family.

Obese pet

Q: Our very obese 8-year-old dachshund has black thick skin in her armpits. Although she has had this problem for a long time, it has just recently started bothering her. Apparently the thickened skin itches. Can this problem be corrected?

A: One of the most likely causes for the thickened black skin in the axillae of your arrive. The clinic should not have offensive odors. Hair and debris from previous patients should not be evident in the examination rooms. Kennels should be clean and smell fresh.

It is important to determine whether the veterinarian schedules patients by appointment or has open office hours. Open office hours often lead to long waits in the waiting room. With the exception of occasional emergencies, you should expect your veterinarian to be on time for appointments.

You should ask your prospective veterinarian how after-hours emergencies are handled. In many localities veterinarians cooperate in sharing emergencies for the entire community. The location of the emergency veterinary clinic in relation to your residence is very important.

You should expect all of the staff of the veterinary clinic to be competent, courteous and professional at all times. Each member of the staff should be well-groomed and dressed neatly. All of the staff members should treat your animals with compassion. Any rough handling should not be tolerated.

Your veterinarian should be willing to talk openly with you about your pet's problems and explain fully all recommendations regarding treatment or procedures. You should find a veterinarian with whom you are comfortable talking. Your veterinarian should be willing to refer your pet to specialists, if necessary.

Fortunately, most practicing veterinarians genuinely love animals and enjoy working with their owners. Do not end your search for a veterinarian until you find one with whom you are completely comfortable.

dachshund is a condition called acanthosis nigricans. Dachshunds are more often affected than other breeds. The cause of this disease is not fully understood, although endocrine imbalances involving the thyroid, pituitary and adrenal glands are suspected of being involved. Malfunctioning of the ovaries or testicles may also be involved. Skin rubbing together apparently does not cause this disease.

Treatment of acanthosis nigricans usually involves long-term treatment with thyroid drugs, corticosteroids and antibiotics. Shampoos effective against seborrhea and ointments are also often recommended. Following examination and diagnosis, your veterinarian can recommend the best treatment for your dog.

Usually, acanthosis nigricans cannot be cured. It can, however, usually be controlled.

Q: How do you recommend selecting a veterinarian?

We have just purchased our first pet and do not know any veterinarians in our local area. There are many veterinarians listed in our yellow pages. How can we be sure that we have selected the best one for us?

A: Selecting a veterinarian for your new pet is a very serious matter. Recommendations from the breeder or store owner from whom you bought your pet or from other pet owners in your neighborhood will help you make a tentative selection.

Location of the veterinary clinic is an important consideration, especially during emergencies. Heavy traffic or long distances greatly increase frustrations during emergencies.

During your first visit you should evaluate both the facilities and the veterinary personnel.

The hospital should be scrupulously clean. The reception area and examination rooms should be clean and in order whenever you

Q: Are over-the-counter medications for dogs usually adequate to control worms?

Is it really necessary to have your dog or cat examined by a veterinarian before administering worm medication?

A: The drugs sold over the counter, that is without a prescription, at grocery stores, pet stores or farm stores for deworming pets are generally effective against the particular types of worms for which they are advertised. However, your pet may have types of worms for which the medication are ineffective.

Your veterinarian can determine exactly which worms and other internal parasites your pet has by examining fresh stool samples and blood samples.

Once the parasites have been accurately identified, your veterinarian can prescribe or administer the most safe and effective drug available.

At what age can a cat become pregnant?

By R.G. Elmore, D.V.M.

Copley News Service

Q: How old does a cat have to be to become pregnant for the first time?

Our children have a kitten that is 1; months old. We really do not have the money to have the cat fixed and I worry that she is going to have kittens.

A: Although cats can exhibit their first heat period (period of receptivity to a tomcat) as early as 5 months of age, most cats do not reach puberty (age at which successful breeding can occur) until 7 to 12 months of age.

Male cats usually reach puberty one to two months later than female cats. Purebred cats tend to reach maturity later than mixed-breed domestic cats. Cats allowed to roam freely outside usually begin to cycle earlier than cats housed inside.

Female cats usually exhibit reproductive cycles from January through the following September. This period of regular cycling is related to the length of daylight. Cats cycle while the day length is increasing and the temperatures are relatively warm. The exact time during each year that reproductive activity occurs varies with the different geographical locations and varying weather from year to year.

The reproductive cycle of the cat is approximately 13 to 15 days in length. If a tomcat is present, the queen will usually accept his advances during a period of three to six days. Mating usually occurs several times a day during this period. If no male cat is present, the queen will stay in season for about 10 days.

Most fertile queens have two litters of two to six kittens each year. Most queens will not exhibit signs of reproductive cycling while nursing kittens. After weaning the kittens, most queens will show signs of heat in approximately two weeks. These cats can become pregnant at this time. During heat many queens exhibit personality changes and make long, mournful cries. Your veterinarian can treat your cat early during the heat period to shorten this unpleasantness if you do not plan to breed the cat.

If you do not plan to allow your cat to have kittens, you should have her spayed. Most cats tolerate the spaying technique well and recover very rapidly. Your veterinarian can advise you regarding the best time to have your cat spayed. Perhaps, if money is short, your veterinarian can design an easy payment plan for you.

Leukemia in cats

virus that causes leukemia or AIDS in humans? Is there any evidence that humans can get leukemia or AIDS from cats?'

A: Leukemia in cats is caused by a virus called the Feline Leukemia Virus (FeLV). FeLV is very widespread in the cat population and is one of the leading causes of death in cats in the United States. FeLV is a contagious virus and belongs to the family of viruses called retroviruses.

The discovery of retroviruses in humans and their association with some forms of cancer and with acquired immune deficiency syndrome has caused some concern among cat owners.

Recently another retrovirus known as feline T-lymphotropic lentivirus has been discovered in cats. This virus causes disease in cats similar to AIDS in humans.

There is currently no scientific evidence that either of these viruses found in cats poses a health threat to humans.

Non-swimming dog

Q. Our 8-year-old mixed-breed dog apparently does not like to swim. Is this normal?

The dog is not interested in water; when put in deep water, he allows himself to sink without any struggling. Is there any hope that he will ever learn how to swim?

A. Although most dogs apparently enjoy swimming, a small minority either cannot swim or do not enjoy water. These dogs usually behave as you have described your dog—allowing themselves to sink without any struggling.

Young dogs should not be forced into deep water too rapidly. Young dogs can usually be taught to swim in a shallow lake, stream or seashore with a gently shelving beach. If the dog happily retrieves objects, increase the distance that you throw objects until he is actually swimming. Additional time, patience and effort often are required to teach non-retriever breeds to swim.

One way to encourage timid dogs to swim is to actually go in the water yourself and call the dog to you. Another method is to take an experienced dog with you. The novice dog usually will follow the experienced dog into the water.

You should never toss the dog into the water or frighten him in any way. Negative experiences are often remembered for a lifetime! It should also be remembered that dogs can tire quite quickly while swimming. If your dog does not like to swim, try to find other enjoyable activities for him.

Chocolate can be lethal to dogs

By R.C. Elmore, D.V.M.
Copley News Service

Q. How much chocolate would it take to make a dog sick?

Our dog really likes chocolate and it is hard not give it to her, especially during the holiday season. This is the only treat that our dog is routinely given.

A. While a small amount of chocolate eaten occasionally is harmless for most pets, a large amount at one time can be lethal.

The toxic component of chocolate is the stimulant, theobromine, a natural ingredient of cacao beans from which chocolate is manufactured.

Theobromine stimulates the heart and apparently decreases the amount of blood flowing to the brain. Therefore, dogs dying because of eating excessive amounts of chocolate do so because of heart attacks or because of oxygen deprivation of the brain.

A 2- or 3-pound box of chocolate contains enough theobromine to kill a dog. A 4-ounce chocolate bar could kill a 5-pound dog. Sixteen ounces of chocolate could be lethal for a 20-pound dog. Usually, dogs that have devoured an excessive amount of chocolate are hyperactive. If left untreated, these dogs eventually start to convulse and die.

Any dog thought to have ingested an excessive amount of chocolate should be evaluated by a veterinarian. Treatment usually includes drugs to induce vomiting.

Chocolates should not be used as treats and should be stored where dogs do not have access to them.

Artificial respiration for dogs

Q. Is it possible to give a dog artificial respiration? Our dog was knocked unconscious in a boating accident and drowned. Could we have saved her by artificial respiration?

A. Artificial respiration can be applied to pets, but it is impossible to state whether or not you could have saved your dog following the boating accident.

Whenever a dog quits breathing, death usually occurs within three to five minutes.

Before giving artificial respiration, the dog's collar should be loosened or removed. The dog should be laid on its side on a firm surface. The head and neck should be extended to help open the airway to the lungs.

The next step is to very carefully open the mouth and pull the tongue forward. A cloth or handkerchief placed around the tongue makes it easier to hold. Any mucus or foreign material should be wiped out of the dog's mouth.

After the airway is opened, the palms of the hands should be placed on the chest behind the shoulder blades and in front of the last ribs. Alternate firm pressure for two or three seconds alternated with relaxation for two or three second should be done.

Each movement should be vigorous. It is important to press down sharply to compress the chest and empty the lungs of air and then release suddenly to expand the chest and fill the lungs with air.

respiration can be used in dogs with chest injuries, the mouth-to-nose technique. The dog's tongue should be pulled forward to one side and then the mouth should be closed as tightly as possible. You should then blow into the dog's nostrils for two or three seconds. After blowing you should remove your mouth for two or three seconds to permit air to be expelled from the dog's lungs. This procedure should be repeated continuously.

Gentle puffs of air may be adequate for very small dogs while you may have to blow as hard as you can for very large breeds. Either procedure should be continued until natural breathing resumes or a veterinarian instructs you to quit.

It sometimes takes an hour or longer to revive a dog that has quit breathing.

Making the best use of your home's little extra spaces

read, paint, draw, sleep or just daydream.

Good planning makes a good room. Painting or repapering, buying new bedclothes or throw rugs can be the easiest and least expensive way to make a room grow as a child moves from Barbie to Madonna.

Other money-savers include calling up Mom or Grandma to ask if she has any old fabric — bark-cloth curtains, chenille bedspreads or satin brocade.

Teens, of course, will insist on decorating their own rooms. Child psychologists say teen-agers view their bedrooms as a safe haven in which to rebel and have their own space. They say it's a healthy phenomenon, just as long as the teen understands who owns the home.

HOME OFFICES

The microchip revolution has converted many homes to working offices. Simply hook up a fax machine, fire up the modem, download the disk drive and you're in business.

Indeed, corporations such as AT&T are helping employees move their offices to attics, basements or spare bedrooms.

Today you will find a range of furniture pieces designed for an array of home-office spaces. There are drop-leaf, wall-mounted desks that can be installed in a kitchen corner and can moonlight as minibars. There are also black laminate office systems that can be tucked into converted bedrooms. And lateral file cabinets come in a rainbow of colors.

Each technological breakthrough brings new challenges. Hiding the computer, other equipment and wiring has become a design challenge.

Many workstations offer molding, panels and frame doors that are spitting images of traditional furniture. In fact, even printer stands are being placed in hutches that have more nooks and crannies for envelopes and thumbtacks.

Don't forget about proper and stylish office lighting. With the advent of halogens, you will find a variety of lamps in architectural or sculptural forms that boast high-tech good looks.

Getting cozy warm

warm weather returns.

The effective use of light, and the subtle use of scent are two sure-fire ways to bring a warming glow into the home.

With light, subdued and subtle are the way to go if you want an inviting, intimate environment.

Create such an ambiance by replacing regular switches with a dimmer that allows you to control the degree of lighting in a room, or by adding wooden mini blinds, shutters or coordinating shades to your existing window treatments for an extra layer of warmth.

You also might consider lamp shades that are wider at the bottom for free-standing light fixtures, they create a softer, warmer feeling than other styles because they throw more light down on the surfaces below.

As for candles, look for colors and scents inspired by the cool-weather season. An artful grouping of lit harvest-hued tapers or votive candles could be the next best thing to a roaring fire in the fireplace. Spicy potpourris, oils and fragrant candles are second only to the aroma of a pumpkin pie baking in the oven.

Art deco butler's pantry

By Rose Bennett Gilbert
Copley News Service

Q. I don't know what to do with the butler's pantry that opens off one end of our dining room. We just bought this 1920s-vintage house, but all our furniture—including the dining room—is contemporary. We're painting everything white for starters, but where do we go from there?—H.N.

A. I should ask: "Where have you been?"

While it is desirable to establish an overall theme when you're decorating, the trend has been toward eclecticism, that is, a harmonious blend of styles. This mix is much more visually interesting than an entire house filled with more of the same.

The line between successful eclecticism and "hodgepodge" is thin, but not difficult to maneuver if you keep attitude uppermost in mind and provide enough correlating colors.

By attitude, we basically mean do you want your room and its furnishings to be more formal or less formal?

Strict contemporary — steel, glass, sharp angles and straight edges — can be very formal. So can 18th century American Colonial, with its dark mahogany, polished surfaces, Oriental rugs.

On the other hand, "soft" contemporary, with its rounded, overstuffed forms, and 18th century farmhouse-style furniture, are both essentially informal. You get the idea.

Back to your problem of the contemporary dining room and old-fashioned butler's pantry: New York interior designer Nina Hughes, ASID, offers one answer in the photo we show here.

She has set an art deco mood in the butler's pantry she rethought for a designers' show house in the city. Born in the 1930s, deco is formal and sophisticated, a perfect fit, perhaps, for your situation, and relatively easy to achieve since a pantry is mostly cabinets and serving counters.

Hughes conjures the deco mood instantly by replacing ordinary cabinet doors with sleek cutouts and using the palette of subdued colors that characterized the period.

Q. I spent an entire day pasting a wall covering border around my daughter's bedroom. That night she woke me up screaming, "Mommy, there's an octopus in my bed!" The borders had peeled themselves off and fallen on her, still wet and sticky.

How can I make them stay? It might stunt her growth if that happens again!—V.G.E.

Putting an old-fashioned butler's pantry into a sophisticated, art deco mood, New York designer Nina Hughes, replaced cabinet doors with sleek cutouts.

A. Hasten to your nearest wallcovering dealer. Evidently you pasted the borders over a vinyl wall covering, for which you need a special vinyl-to-vinyl paste.

Q. We want to chip in and buy Dad a recliner for Christmas. I've heard that there are now chairs that massage while you sit. Who makes them, and about how much do they cost?—L.M.

A. There are a number of mechanized recliners that will give the sitter a massage. They use a vibrating or kneading action in the back, in the seat and in the ottoman.

Among the major manufacturers who offer such action chairs are top names in the industry: Berkline, Bassett Motion, Stratolounger, Franklin, Panasonic and aptly named Stressaway.

The massage-ability does add a soothing new dimension to sitting, but here's the rub: It also adds to the price. Massage chairs can cost up to $700 and $800.

The idea's not new, by the way. Some years back, one manufacturer came out with a recliner that not only administered a vibrating massage, it included a lower-back heat treatment, too.
