Perfect record

William Klope votes at city hall Tuesday. Born in 1896, he has voted in every presidential election since he was old enough — 18 of them. He doesn't like Bill Clinton, but voted for the Democrat because he likes George Bush even less. "I mostly voted against Bush," he said. "We need a change."

New township board gets nod

By MIKE TYREE
Staff Writer

Northville Township voted rock-solid Republican Tuesday, siding heavily with President George Bush, 13th District U.S. House hopeful Bob Geake, and four GOP trustee candidates.

Republican ties meant much more close to home than nationally. A large number of straight ticket Republican voters — 2,584 in all — propelled the four trustees to victory over a lone Democratic candidate.

The new Township Board is now complete. Barbara O'Brien, Gini Britton, Mark Abbo, and Russ Fogg will join Supervisor-elect Karen Baja, Clerk-elect Sue Hillebrand, and Treasurer-elect Rick Engelland on the board come Nov. 20.

Jim Petrie's bid to become the first Democrat on the Township Board fell short by 2,000 votes. O'Brien, a former planning commissioner who had often sparred with the outgoing administration, took honors as the top vote-getter, and called her 5,943 tally "very satisfying."

Britton garnered 5,795 votes, with Abbo netting 5,628 and Fogg earning 5,511. Petrie trailed with 3,678 votes.

Township voters turned out en masse, weathering long polling lines that stretched from 45 minutes to two hours, said township Deputy Clerk Eunice Switzler.

Nearly 10,000 residents cast ballots, a full 77.5 percent of township registered voters.

Voters bucked the state and national trend, opting for the Bush/Quayle ticket by a 5,430-2,649 margin over electoral college landslide winners Bill Clinton and Al Gore. Independent candidate Ross Perot siphoned off 1,575 votes in Northville Township.

State Sen. Bob Geake is heading back to Lansing, but township voters wanted him as their man in Washington. Geake easily out-distanced Bill Ford in the newly created 13th District, winning 6,623-2,467.

Ford, a 28-year Congressional veteran, crushed Geake outside the Northville native's home turf, however.

Thaddeus McCotter brushed aside Democrat Michael Caffery in the Wayne County Commission race, McCotter winning here 5,517-2,462. McCotter had whipped incumbent Commissioner Maurice Breen in the August primary.

Township voters did follow statewide trends on Michigan's four ballot proposals. Proposal B, to limit state and federal political terms, won favor in the township by a 6,532-2,927 count. The other three proposals — concerning taxes, assessment limits, and automobile insurance — fell here and state-wide.

Record voter turnout marks election

and MIKE TYREE
Staff Writers

"Tremendous," is how City Clerk Delphine Dudick characterized the turnout for Tuesday's elections.

Township Deputy Clerk Eunice Switzler added that there were "lineups everywhere," but the township was "geared up" to handle an all-time high 77.5 percent general election turnout.

Of the city's 4,780 registered voters, a record 3,753 or 78.5 percent flocked to the polls to cast ballots for national, state and local candidates and help decide the fate of four statewide proposals.

A line of voters snaked along the corridors of city hall Tuesday morning, and out the front entrance into the parking lot. After an afternoon lull, the crowds increased at 4 p.m. before thinning out by the time polls closed.

Nearly 10,000 of the township's 12,600 registered voters took the time to vote. In some cases, voters waited up to two hours to do their civic duty, Switzler said. Voting gridlock was reported at several township polling sites, most significantly at Winchester Elementary.

At the township's Silver Springs Elementary polling site, a crowd of more than 100 waited in line to vote well past the 8 p.m. closing time. Township election workers turned in the last batch of ballots at 12:15 a.m. Wednesday, and township staff dragged away from the job site at about 4:30 a.m., Switzler said.

In the city, 10 election workers were crammed into a conference room and closet to count absentee ballots, and a repairman had to slip by them three times to fix minor break-downs by the two ballot-counting machines. The workers were counting ballots until 3 a.m.

Many of the city's citizens elected to vote by absentee ballots. City Hall had received 919 absentee votes by the cutoff time of 4 p.m. Tuesday, nearly one-fifth of the registered voters. About 2,500 township residents opted for the absentee ballot route, Switzler said.

Dudick said she had to think back 30 years to recall a presidential election with a similar turnout.

"John Kennedy and Richard Nixon," she said. "I didn't think that one would ever end."

Parents oppose deck tax capture

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

"Don't mess with money that should be going to our schools."

That was the message resoundingly delivered to the City Council Monday night, during a packed public hearing on the city's proposed Mainstreet '92 plan.

Under Mainstreet '92, the city would construct a new 480-space parking deck along a relocated Cady Street and extend the downtown streetscape of brick sidewalks and wrought-iron lamps to Cady and farther east on Main.

What has many residents riled is the city's plan to fund the project through captured taxes — property taxes from the growth in state equalized value on businesses within the Downtown Development District. Those taxes would be diverted from the city, schools and other taxing units to the Downtown Development Authority, to pay off the 20-year bonds needed to fund the $7-million project. Nearly $5 million of the total would be for deck construction alone.

Monday's hearing was technically to take comments on the city's proposal to expand the DDA district, not on the tax increment financing plan at the center of debate. But that did not keep more than 100 people from crowding into City Council chambers, most of them to censure the city for proposing to divert money from the Northville Public School system.

"It's a hard, hard time for the schools to give up money," said Joan Wadsworth, a member of Advocates for Quality Education. Advocates has opposed the DDA plan and labeled it "unfair" because it diverts millage dollars from a school district that serves residents in Northville Township, Novi, Lyon Township and Salem Township, for a Northville City project.

Novi resident Cecilia Gittens, whose children attend Northville schools, also called the DDA plan unfair.

"Is a parking deck more important to you than a child's education?" Gittens asked. "If this keeps up, you won't even need a new deck since no one will be moving to Northville because of the schools."

Northville Public Schools already had been looking forward to receiving an additional $300,000 annually from the expiration of the Mainstreet '78 tax-capturing plan in 1993. But because Mainstreet '92 is an extension of Mainstreet '78, the DDA would continue to recapture that money as well as revenue from the district expansion.

Debi Lopez, representing the Northville PTAs' Legislative Action Network, noted that the $300,000 would allow the schools to rehire 11 laid-off teachers and reduce average class size from 33 to 28, or restore the school's bus transportation system to last year's level, or eliminate the recently enacted pay-to-participate program.

Debbie Faber added that she is not opposed to a new parking deck per se, just to diverting money from the schools to fund it.

"I do want all of my money that be-

To the playoffs!

Kevin Shaw carries the ball in the season-ending Novi game Friday, which the Mustangs lost in the final minute. But shades of 1990, Northville qualified for the state class A football playoffs with a 6-3 record — the only team to do so. The Mustangs face Walled Lake Western at 1:30 p.m. Saturday. McCotter wins commission seat

By SHARON CONDRON
Staff Writer

Livonia's Thaddeus McCotter has to be the youngest retired attorney in Wayne County. And now he's also the youngest member of the Wayne County Commission.

McCotter's official resignation from his private practice came on the heels of his win Tuesday night in his bid for the 10th District seat on the Wayne County Commission.

McCotter was the top vote-getter in the race for the 10th District seat against Plymouth Democrat Michael Caffery.

McCotter won the seat on the 15-member commission with 40,778 votes to Caffery's 22,725.

McCotter will replace incumbent Maurice Breen as the 10th District representative. The district includes Northville, Livonia and Plymouth.

His hometown of Livonia and the city and township of Northville are what carried the win for the 27-year-old son of Livonia City Clerk Joan McCotter. In the township, McCotter brushed aside Caffery 5,517-2,462. In the city, the vote was 847-472.

McCotter faces an uphill battle as the sole Republican heading to the county panel.

His race was enjoined on the ballot by three county proposals. Of those, two tax questions failed. A second attempt by the county to get a half-mill tax increase passed for health services failed by 393,651 no votes to 221,550 yes votes. Voters also rejected the Wayne County Commissioners' proposal to return one tenth of a mill, originally dedicated to a youth home, to cities and townships. That request was defeated by 11,138 votes. The third proposal, the only one that found favor with voters, extends the deadline the county executive has to submit a reorganizational plan to the commission for approval. Prior to the passage, the county executive had 90 days to submit his plan, now the executive has twice that amount of time.

Daytime burglary nets Napier thieves thousands

More than $6,000 worth of electronic equipment, cash, and jewelry reportedly was stolen from a Napier Road home sometime during the day Oct. 29, according to township police reports.

The homeowner told police someone reached through an unlocked window on the north side of the home to enter the residence. Once inside, the burglar reportedly stole a computer, laser printer, a 27-inch color television, an AM/FM receiver, a microwave oven, a videocassette recorder, a portable radio, $50 in coins, and a woman's ring.

The theft reportedly occurred between 8:10 a.m. and 3:20 p.m., police said.

TRUCK STOLEN FROM MEIJER LOT: A Plymouth man told township police that someone stole his 1992 Chevrolet K-1500 pickup from the lot at Meijer, 20401 Haggerty, Oct. 29. The truck, valued at $26,000, was taken from Lot C, the man told police.

HAGGERTY HOME BURGLARIZED: The owner of a Haggerty Road home told township police that someone broke into the house during the day Oct. 29 and stole items valued at $1,200.

Reported stolen were a videocassette recorder, a leather jacket, a Detroit Red Wings jacket, and a 16-inch gold chain. Thieves entered the home by pushing in a back door window, according to reports.

LARCENY FROM CAR REPORTED: A Northville woman told township police that someone broke into her 1992 Geo Storm early Oct. 30 while the vehicle was parked in a lot at Innsbrook Apartments.

The woman said the vehicle's driver's side rear-view mirror was stolen and $30 cash and four cassette tapes were also missing. Damage was estimated at $200 and the stolen items were valued at $70.

VEHICLES DAMAGED: A West Seven Mile Road resident told township police that someone spray-painted three vehicles parked in the home's driveway late Oct. 30 or early Oct. 31.

A 1991 Ford Ranger, a 1978 Chevrolet truck, and a 1978 Ford truck reportedly were spraypainted with silver and black paint. The driver's side window of the 1978 Chevrolet reportedly was smashed. Damage was estimated at $800.

A Northville man told police that someone shot out the left rear window of his 1987 Buick Regal while the vehicle was parked on Village Run near Haggerty late Oct. 31 or early Nov. 1.

Damage was estimated at $150.

OUIL: A 27-year-old Flat Rock man was charged with operating a vehicle under the influence of liquor after his arrest early Nov. 1 on Northville Road south of Six Mile, township police said.

Breathalyzer tests indicated that the man's blood-alcohol level was .15. The man also was charged with possession of open intoxicants after police discovered alcohol in a plastic squeeze bottle in the suspect's car.

WEAPONS CHARGES LEVELED AGAINST YOUTHS: Two 17-year-old Northville boys were charged with possession of dangerous weapons after their arrest late Oct. 30.

Police said the men and two others were riding in a 1984 Pontiac near Cedar Lake Apartments when police noticed that the car's left front headlight was not working. The vehicle was stopped and police reportedly witnessed a billy club inside the car. The driver and a front seat passenger were searched and police discovered knives on both men. A search of the car revealed another knife, according to reports.

POLICE INVESTIGATE BREAK-INS: City police are investigating two Oct. 29 burglaries on Beal and South Main.

The Beal Street residence was broken into sometime between 8 a.m.-2:25 p.m., according to city police reports. The thief or thieves pried their way into the residence, forced open an upstairs door and stole an answering machine, telephone, three compact discs and $200 in $20 bills.

Everything but the cash was recovered in and around a trash bin behind the Wagon Wheel Lounge at 212 S. Main, which is near the Beal Street property.

An apartment on South Main was broken into around 11:15 a.m. that same day. The thief or thieves apparently pried the building's front door and an inside apartment door to gain access, and stole $50 in one-dollar bills from a dresser drawer. A neighbor saw two young males leaving the scene. One of the suspects was wearing a black waist-length coat and light-colored jeans or sweat pants.

Police believe the two break-ins may be related.

UNDERAGE DRINKERS: Two 18-year-old local youths were cited for alcohol possession in the Cooke Middle School parking lot the night of Oct. 30.

City police stopped the two as they attempted to drive out of the lot when the patrol car approached. Police found two beer cans under a hankerchief inside the car, and an open case of cold beers in the trunk.

The two men, one from Northville and the other from Novi, were arrested and cited for possession of alcohol. They were released after posting a $40 cash bond each.

OBSTRUCTION OF JUSTICE: City police arrested a 56-year-old Royal Oak man at Northville Downs Oct. 30, after he refused to give them his name.

The man had been protesting a police officer's enforcement of the city's ordinance against minors at the track when police noticed he was visibly intoxicated. He was told to stop drinking and Northville Downs staff were notified not to serve him any more alcohol.

Police later observed the man sitting with a beer in front of him. He said it was not his beer and when asked his name he said he did not have one. He was arrested for obstructing justice and a preliminary breath test measured his blood alcohol level at .18 percent, nearly twice the state level for driving while intoxicated. He was held until his blood alcohol level dropped and released after posting a $100 cash bond.

WINDOWS SMASHED OVER HALLOWEEN WEEKEND: A car parked in front of a Morgan Circle home Oct. 30 had its window broken by a small pumpkin sometime between 7:15-10:15 p.m. Damage was estimated at $120.

An overhead door window at Asher's 76, 357 S. Rogers, was broken by rocks sometime between 6 p.m. Oct. 30 and 7:30 a.m. Oct. 31. Damage was estimated at $25.

Rocks were thrown through a picture window on a Spring Circle house just before midnight Oct. 31. Damage there was estimated at $230. The owner had been involved in a verbal disagreement with a group of teenagers in a blue and white mid-sized Chevrolet Blazer two days before the incident, over their reckless driving.

Citizens with information about the above incidents are urged to call Northville City Police at 349-1234 or Northville Township Police at 349-9400.

State Sen. R. Robert Geake greets supporters as returns come in Tuesday night.

Ford coasts to easy win over local opponent

By RICK BYRNE
Copy Editor

Voters made it clear they would stick with the status quo in the 13th U.S. Congressional District.

They voted Tuesday to return incumbent Democrat William Ford of Ypsilanti for a 15th term. He defeated his opponent, Republican Robert Geake of Northville, with slightly more than 50 percent of the vote to Geake's 44 percent. Geake will remain as the area's State Senator.

The newly created 13th District spans from Ann Arbor in the west to Westland, Inkster and Romulus in the east. It extends south to the Monroe County border, and Northville, Northville Township and Salem Township represent its northern border.

Geake had scheduled surgery for Wednesday morning and was unavailable for comment.

Ford, in a prepared statement, said, "I am very thankful to the voters of the 13th District for sending me to Washington to work with President Clinton on the issues important to our people. We're going to work together to turn our economy around and put our people back to work. We're going to work together to improve education in America."

In his campaign, Ford said his standing as chairman of the House

Education and Labor Committee would match well with President-elect Bill Clinton's reputation as an education reformer.

"I know the next four years will be busy and exciting as we face our serious problems," Ford said. "But I'll do my best for all the people of this district. I always have."

District-wide Ford earned 119,000 votes to roughly 103,500 for Geake (though some Wayne County votes had yet to be counted by press time). Independent Randall Roe of Ypsilanti was third in the race with 8,423 votes (3.5 percent). Tisch party candidate Paul Jensen of Ann Arbor was fourth with 3,331 votes (1.4 percent), and Larry Roberts pulled just 1,145 votes (0.5 percent).

Closer to home, Geake enjoyed large victory margins in his power base. In the City of Northville, he won by a 2-to-1 margin over Ford, 1,016 votes to 486.

In Northville Township, where he lives, Geake drew even greater support, gathering 6,623 votes to Ford's 2,467.

The final two months of the campaign were marked by heavy negative campaigning by the Geake camp. As Election Day drew near, Ford's followers picked up the gauntlet as well, and hurled a few barbs at the Republican senator.

Schmid holds onto her county commission seat

Kay Schmid

By RANDY COBLE
Staff Writer

Incumbent Oakland County Commissioner Kay Schmid, R-Novi, overwhelmingly won election to a second two-year term Tuesday.

Schmid, whose new 17th district includes the Oakland County part of the City of Northville, won handily against William Brinker, a Democrat who did not run an active campaign. Schmid garnered 69.5 percent of the vote in the district.

"I'm very pleased," said Schmid. "I even won in Walled Lake" despite a recent controversy between Novi and Walled Lake over the location of a new district courthouse.

Schmid earned 13,098 votes to Brinker's 5,747. In Northville, the vote was 1,220 to 423.

In balloting for the so-called "big six" county positions, the story was the same: Republican incumbents defeating their Democratic challengers. Brooks Patterson, fighting Elizabeth Howe for the county executive spot, gained almost twice as many votes as Howe. Incumbent prosecutor Richard Thompson defeated Steven Kaplan.

Also winning locally and across the county were incumbent GOP Sheriff John Nichols — a Galway Drive resident — against Seymour Hundley, Jr.; Clerk Lynn Allen, who knocked off challenger Martha Blom; Treasurer Hugh Dohany and District Commissioner George Kuhn cruised to early re-election victories.

Schmid said that the Republican wins would mean the county stays the right course. "The county will nothing but stronger, bigger and better," she said. "I look for nothing but good things for us."

A victorious Joseph Knollenberg speaks to supporters Tuesday night.

Knollenberg wins 11th district

By RANDY COBLE
Staff Writer

One of the hottest election contests locally has been the race for the newly drawn 11th U.S. Congressional district, which Tuesday's vote saw Joseph Knollenberg win in a landslide over opponent Walter Briggs.

This was the battle to succeed retiring U.S. Rep.

William Broomfield, and his friend and fellow Republican Knollenberg trounced the Democrat Briggs. In Northville, Knollenberg picked up more than twice the number of votes his opponent did.

Districtwide, Knollenberg received 56 percent of the vote to Briggs' 42 percent.

With results from 198 of 229 precincts reporting Wednesday afternoon, vote totals were 105,859 for Knollenberg (56.3 percent), 78,832 for Briggs (41.9 percent), 2,327 (1.2 percent) for Libertarian Brian Wright, and 1,130 for Natural Law candidate Henry Clark. Results were only missing from Farmington Hills.

In Northville, voting in the district went 1,266 for Knollenberg, 568 for Briggs, 11 for Wright and six for Clark. The 11th district includes the Oakland County portion of the City of Northville (north of Baseline Road).

Bullard beats challenger for new house seat

Incumbent Republican Willis Bullard coasted to victory Tuesday in the 38th district race for the state House of Representatives.

Bullard — who since 1983 has served in the current 60th House District, which includes Northville north of Baseline Road — won over opponents Democrat Robert Havey and Libertarian K. Mark Elsholz in the newly created 38th House District. The new district includes northern Northville as well as Novi, Wixom, South Lyon, Lyon and Milford townships, Milford Village, and Walled Lake.

Unofficial results with all precincts in the 38th District reporting show Bullard collected 22,930 votes compared with 11,113 votes for Havey and 536 votes for Elsholz.

Northville voters followed the pattern: They cast 1,207 votes for Bullard, 475 for Havey and 23 for Elsholz.

Bullard in the wee hours of Wednesday morning remarked on his fate during "this year for throwing out the incumbents."

"I think from what I've seen of the 'TV results, people are discerning," he said. "They will throw out the incumbents they think should be thrown out and they'll keep the ones that they think should be kept in."

President Bush's loss and the defeat of Gov. Engler's "Cut and Cap" plan were two big disappointments for Bullard.

The representative did not detect an overall trend in the results. "People are looking at each individual candidate and the individual situation and making the judgment."

"I don't think people are just voting out all incumbents or retaining all incumbents," Bullard said. "They're looking at each individual situation, which I guess is all we as incumbents can ask for — judge us on our record and our own service in office."

The legislator said he visited the areas new to his district during the campaign. "I will continue to try to form relationships with local government officials in those areas so I can properly represent Wixom and Walled Lake."

An attempt Wednesday morning to reach Havey by phone was unsuccessful.

Mill Race Matters

It's hard to believe, but summer is gone and fall has all but disappeared. Historical Society members are preparing for the annual Northville Christmas Walk.

Visit Mill Race Village on Saturday, Nov. 21, and Sunday, Nov. 22, from noon to 5 p.m. The buildings will be open and specialty items will be available for your Christmas purchase in our country store.

Society members have been asked to join in the spirit of Christmas giving by helping with the local collection for the Salvation Army. We are looking for a few hardy volunteers willing to donate two hours of time ringing the bell outside the Northville post office on a Saturday morning. If you might be able to help, call 349-9005 or 348-1845 and leave your name and telephone number.

Members will gather Dec. 11 for the traditional Christmas party. Invitations requesting an RSVP will be forthcoming. Response is essential as we need time to order necessary beverages. The party will take place this year in the Cady Inn.

Look for his year's final Mill Race Quarterly in about a month. The Quarterly committee is working on putting the issue together now. If you have any suggestions for articles or entertaining sideboards let us know.

Area residents have been invited to join in a re-creation of the King's eighth regiment which is now forming. The original garrison was situated in Detroit and Upper Canada from 1774-1784. The group is seeking recruits interested in historical re-enactment. Activities include public demonstrations at Fort Michilimackinac, Old Fort Niagara, Homestead, Fort Malden and various tactical re-enactments. Recruits must have several weekends available for overnight re-enactments and demonstrations, reliable transportation and a respect for historic sites. If interested write to Mr. Bolton, 1517 W. Lake Drive, Novi, MI 48377.

The Great Lakes Lace Group is sponsoring Love of Lace III on Nov. 21 at the Livonia Civic Center Library. There will be exhibits, demonstrations and vendors. Hours from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Again from the Michigan Pioneer Series, Volume 2 memories of Abraham Markham a series of Northville firsts. "The first minister that ever preached in this township was Elder Hickox, who then lived on the river Rouge, in the neighborhood of the memorable widow Creamer's tavern. The meeting was held at the memorable home of William Tibbits, on section 28, town 1 south, the John Allen farm. I think it was in May, 1826. The next preacher was Elder Swift, the father of Dr. John Swift, of Northville."

The first doctor who came into this town to attend a patient was Dr. Webb of Farmington. The first doctor that settled here was Dr. J.D. Davis.

The first postmaster was Gideon P. Benton. He carried the mail in his hat, or tied it up in his handkerchief.

The first justice of the peace was Henry B. Holbrook. He was appointed by the governor and legislative council.

The first frame building erected was at Northville. The first brick building was erected by Henry Ward, on section 32, known as the Shuttis Farm.

The first blacksmiths that located here were John Miller, of Northville or near where Northville is now, but it was all woods then, and Mr. Fralick, of Plymouth, or near where Plymouth corners are now, but it was all woods then. Mr. Miller commenced work first.

The first child born in town was Oscar Phillips. The second was George A. Starkweather.

John Miller built the first grist mill in the village of Northville on the site of today's Mill Race Village. Much of the property of Gideon Benton was later donated to Wayne County and became part of the Edward Hines Park System. The barn from the family farm stood originally on the north side of Seven Mile just before Northville Road. The property is now on the south side as the road has been redrawn. You pass it as you enter Meads Mill School.

The parents of Oscar Phillips, among the community's earliest settlers, are buried at the Waterford Cemetery.

Pickers protest against Edison

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

They seemed out of place in their work boots and nylon jackets, marching quietly along the sidewalks of the tony Pheasant Hills subdivision.

But they dominated the sidewalks, hundreds of them, carrying picket signs and flashlights as they joked about looking for a contract in the dark.

They are among the 2,900 members of Local 223 of the Utility Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO, and they were picketing around the home of the man who heads their company, Detroit Edison.

"We just want to let people know we're not one big happy family," said one sign-carrying man.

"Excuse me, have you seen my contract?" asked another passing picketer as he shined his flashlight around the well-trimmed lawns. "I'm going to go looking for it."

The union members spent two hours marching back and forth in front of John Lobb's Mill Pond Court house Monday evening, protesting against the Detroit Edison CEO for the company's failure to negotiate a contract since the union's last one expired June 1. The picket followed a similar one the previous Monday.

The two Northville pickets follow earlier ones in Monroe, St. Clair and Port Huron.

Lobb has served as Detroit Edison's president and chief operating officer since 1988, and was elected chairman, president and chief executive officer in May 1990.

Kim Francisco, a member of the local's Strategy and Preparedness Committee, said the picketers were "trying to bring our case to the public and maybe get Edison back to the bargaining table and to bargain in good faith."

The union has been operating without a contract since June 1, despite its offers to extend its existing contract for three years or turn the dispute over to binding arbitration. The utility's management rejected both those proposals, Francisco said.

A father-son picket team marches in Northville Monday night.

"We thought it was concessionary asking for an extension (of the existing contract)," she said. "They, from the beginning, did not want to bargain."

Detroit Edison spokesperson Lori Kessler denied that charge, noting that the utility company's negotiating committee met with Local 223 members 23 times prior to June 1, including six meetings with state and federal mediators.

The union's sincerity in bargaining is brought into question by its picketing techniques, Kessler added.

"The company believes that rather than picketing in front of homes, experience has shown that unions are better served by negotiating at the bargaining table toward an acceptable contract," she said.

Sticking points between the two sides include Detroit Edison's attempt to institute a cost-sharing program for health benefits if the company's health insurance costs increase more than 8 percent a year, Kessler said, and revisions in overtime premiums including eliminating double time-and-a-half overtime payments.

Local 223 represents power plant operators, substation operators, maintenance crews, cable splicers and meter readers, among others.

"We just want people to know that the people out there at 2 o'clock in the morning, when it's 10 below, they're the people marching here," Francisco said.

The picketers passed out flyers to local residents apologizing for the picket and explaining their position.

Local 223 representatives estimated that there were more than 1,000 picketers at the first rally, but local police placed the figure closer to 500. Monday's picket drew several hundred picketers as well.

Police reported no disturbances from either picket, and only one complaint about the noise.

State senator adds voice to Michigan Model critics

By TIM RICHARD
Staff Writer

A state Senate committee chair has joined critics of the Michigan Model for health education, attacking state officials as being anti-parent.

Sen. Gil DiNello, D-Clinton Township, called for scrapping the State Board of Education, selling the publishing rights to the Michigan Model, and passing bills protecting parental rights.

"The social engineers in the Michigan Department of Education are trying to make public schools surrogate parents," said DiNello, "and our kids are paying the price for this ideological foray."

But the report and far-reaching recommendations are far from final, said Sen. Robert Geake, R-Northville, a member of the four-man panel.

"I haven't had time to study it. We agreed that it's not the final report," said Geake, who was in the final days of a congressional campaign.

"It's supposed to be circulated to the membership. What I saw was a very rough draft marked 'preliminary, not for release.' It somehow got out, so he (DiNello) released it so no one would say he was playing favorites," Geake said.

The report was circulated to the Capitol press corps and marked "preliminary." It was also accompanied by a two-page news release from DiNello. A maverick who frequently supports Republicans, DiNello is the only Democrat who chairs a committee in the GOP-run Senate.

DiNello's panel held public hearings in Plymouth, Rochester and seven other cities around the state. Other members are Doug Carl, a conservative Republican from Uica running for Congress, and Jim Berryman, a moderate Democrat from Adrian. DiNello's preliminary report and news release did not suggest the other three had signed or agreed.

The local hearing was dominated by a handful of critics such as R. Kraft Bell of Northville. Others had heavy input from the DADS Foundation of Kalamazoo.

Defenders of the Michigan Model say 95 percent of local districts have adopted it without controversy, calling critics a handful of right-wing religious zealots.

A Department of Education spokesman said a State Board committee is working on revisions to satisfy some of the critics.

But a DADS Foundation leader called the Michigan Model "so tainted and contaminated, it can't be modified."

The thrust of the Michigan Model, according to the department spokesman, is to teach students how to make choices — to go beyond telling them to listen to their parents and church and help them understand why parents and church gave their advice.

DiNello advocates a law that mandates schools to teach "abstinence from pre-marital sexual activity." Critics want "moral absolutes" to be taught rather than "personal choice."

Northville was among the school districts to grapple with a controversy over use of the model.

Road treatments left out of township budget

By MIKE TYREE
Staff Writer

Fast forward to the summer of 1993. It's hot and dry and with the passing of each car, clouds of dust lift and settle on the residents of Northville Township's 13 miles of gravel roads.

The residents want relief and demand calcium chloride treatments on their roads. No dice, not from the township treasury, officials say.

Residents flood township hall with protests, but officials point to the big zero budgeted for 1993 road treatments. And unlike 1991 and 1992, when politicians looking for votes flip-flopped on the calcium chloride issue, the new cast of township officials are secure in their jobs. The township is adamant: It won't pay the estimated $16,000 per road treatment from the $3.7-million 1993 budget, which includes a $255,000 fund balance. Residents are upset and demand someone do something. Impasse.

The above scenario is speculative, but could occur, based on the outgoing Township Board's decision not to include road treatment costs in its 1993 budget. The board adopted the budget based on the recommendation of its budget review committee, which includes the incoming township supervisor and treasurer.

Some point to Wayne County as the problem. Local officials have said the roads should be the county's responsibility, while the county tosses the issue right back on the township's lap.

The current administration, led by township Manager Richard Henningsen, say special assessment districts are the residents' lone remedy.

Residents, especially those in the Marilyn, Maxwell,

Fry, and Park Lane areas south of the Northville Colony Estates subdivision, counter with the claim that the bulk of traffic on those roads springs from the subdivision.

Park Lane resident Andy Weinrauch voted against a special assessment district plan earlier this year. He does not want to pay SAD costs on a road that funnels traffic to and from Northville Colony Estates.

Weinrauch is unhappy that board refused to include road treatment funds in the 1993 budget.

"We're going to have to go through the same stuff with the new board," Weinrauch said at the board's Oct. 28 budget adoption hearing. "We've been through all that before. Why should we have to pay when 70-80 percent (is) non-resident traffic?"

Maxwell resident Patricia Wong agreed. In a letter to the board, Wong reminded officials that residents consider the dust problem to be a health and safety issue.

Township Treasurer Jack Hoerner said the budget committee did talk about including road treatment funds in the 1993 budget, but said limited dollars forced tough decisions in all areas of township operations.

The committee deliberated and unanimously decided there were not revenues in the 1993 budget to pay for (road treatments), he said. "We left it out."

Hoerner said the township refused to buy a motor carrier enforcement vehicle for the police department — at about the same cost as "every time we salt the roads," he said. And police protection should take priority over road treatments, he added.

But what about the $255,000 anticipated as the township's 1993 fund balance? Surely some of that money could be used for the dusty trails.

Not so, Hoerner said. "The fund balance projected for 1993 is less than what the minimum should be," he said.

New eateries promise dining, dancing fun

By MIKE TYREE
Staff Writer

Get ready for an infusion of food, frolic, and fun in Northville.

No, the Cajunfest crew isn't back for another knee-slappin' hoedown at the community's expense. This is honest-to-goodness entrepreneurial spirit that threatens to turn the Seven Mile corridor into a dining and dancing delight.

Come Nov. 23, Chuck Rachwitz opens Rocky's of Northville in the old Northville Charley's site at 41122 Seven Mile.

Rachwitz — "Chef Rocky" to his followers — just closed a deal with restaurateur Chuck Muer and pledges to whip up a nightly array of delicacies suitable to just about any taste.

It's a homecoming of sorts for Rachwitz, who first worked for Muer back in 1976, as kitchen manager in the very same building he now calls his own.

Rocky's of Northville will be open every day of the week and will serve fresh fish, meats, fowl, and pasta, as well as hamburgers and sandwiches.

"I'm going to do what I did for 18 years, and that's cook . . . I'll have to be here all the time."

CHUCK RACHWITZ
Restaurateur

Rachwitz said. Entree prices range from $7-$19, with big slabs of ribs at $13.95 and the half-duck — his "signature item" — winging in at $14.50.

To avoid the pitfalls which dogged and finally devoured Northville Charley's, Rachwitz says he has pumped money into renovations, especially in the bathroom and bar areas.

And make no bones about it, this is his place. Rachwitz says he'll be the one behind the hot stove.

"I'm going to do what I did for 18 years, and that's cook," he said. To make the restaurant a hit, he says, "I'll have to be here all the time."

Rachwitz isn't the only new business person eying the Northville market. Mark Roman plans to shake 'em up at the former O'Sheehan's site at 43333 Seven Mile with Woolly Bully's, a dancing and drinking establishment complete with a 1950s motif.

Roman has jumped through every Northville Township Planning Commission and zoning board hoop, and the business is supposed to be open by Christmas, according to township planning officials. Despite some problems with the state Liquor Control Commission, Woolly Bully's is on track and is expected to attract big, dance-crazed crowds.

Roman was unavailable for comment Tuesday.

LAWRENCE BEECHER

Lawrence F. Beecher, 89, of Walled Lake died Oct. 29 at his residence. He was born Aug. 3, 1903, in Bay City to the late Peter and Mary Beecher.

His wife, Verna Gotham, survives her husband of 68 years.

Mr. Beecher lived his entire life in the area. He was a supervisor with the Wayne County Road Commission until his retirement in 1963 after 31 years of service. He was a life member of the Redford Lodge No. 152 and was also affiliated with the Lela Valley Lodge F&AM.

In addition to his wife, survivors include their children, Dr. Lawrence Beecher of Northville and Beverly Frayne of Walled Lake; 11 grandchildren; and 15 great-grandchildren. Services were Nov. 2 from the Ross B. Northrop Funeral Home of Northville. The Rev. Paul Irwin of White Lake Presbyterian Church officiated. Burial was private.

Visitation was held Saturday and Sunday Masonic Services were Sunday. Arrangements were by the Northrop Funeral Home.

Memorials to the Angela Hospice, 36995 Five Mile Road, Livonia, MI 48154 would be appreciated by the family.

JACK McCRUMB

Jack B. McCrumb, 71, of Plymouth died Oct. 30 at Star Manor of Northville.

He was born Feb. 3, 1921, in Farmington. His parents were Fred B. and Grace Saltzer McCrumb. He married the former Geraldine Johnston, who survives him.

Other survivors include his mother, Mrs. Grace Christie of Canada; his son, David (Ron) McCrumb of Northville; and his grandchildren, Hillary and Steven.

He has lived in the community his entire life and was a retired sales engineer in electronics. He was a member of First United Methodist Church of Northville and was an avid fisherman.

Funeral services were Tuesday, Nov. 3, at the Casterline Funeral Home of Northville. Dr. Douglas W. Vernon of First United Methodist Church officiated. Interment was at Rural Hill Cemetery in Northville. Arrangements were by the Casterline Funeral Home.

The family would appreciate memorials to the First United Methodist Church, 777 W. Eight Mile Road, Northville, MI 48167.

THEODORE STOWELL

Theodore F. Stowell, 84, of Northville died Oct. 30 at Plymouth Court. He moved to the Northville area in 1980 from the Livonia area. He was born Nov. 4, 1907, in Aurora, Neb., to the late Louis and Mary Sophia Hedblom Stowell.

Mr. Stowell graduated from Northwestern University with a bachelor of science degree. He was a machine operator with General Motors Hydromatic Division, retiring in 1969 after 20 years.

He is survived by his children, Donna of Frankfort, George of Northville, John of Northville, and Steve of Livonia; his sister, Frances Park of Arizona; and four grandchildren.

Services were Nov. 2 from the Ross B. Northrop Funeral Home in Northville. The Rev. Robert C. Seltz of Holy Trinity Lutheran Church officiated. Burial was at Grand Lawn Cemetery in Detroit. Arrangements were by the Northrop Funeral Home.

Memorials to the American Lung Association would be appreciated by the family.

Council drops plan to cut commission roster

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

Northville's city Planning Commission will not be reduced in number, at least not for now.

Following comments from existing planning commissioners, the City Council decided Monday not to pursue a proposed reduction of the commission's roster from nine to seven members. The nine-member body currently has two vacancies, and City Manager Gary Word had suggested permanently reducing its size to seven to make the body more efficient.

The change would mirror a similar reduction in Northville Township's Planning Commission earlier this year.

But the suggestion met with resistance at the commission's Oct. 20 meeting, where members argued that their ultimate goal is not efficiency.

"I don't think all aspects of government should be efficient," said Commissioner Rolland Stapleton. "It's more important how you do things sometimes than what you do."

Stapleton cited the need to hear from "as many voices as possible" when reviewing a site plan proposal or considering new zoning ordinances, and questioned whether the four-person majority of a seven-member committee would adequately represent the entire community.

Commissioner David Totten added that the group needed a broad range of voices representing both technical expertise and community interest.

"While it may look like chaos to the outsider—and sometimes to the insider—we do get things done," he said.

Planning Consultant Don Wortman noted that the state act setting up planning commissions requires either seven or nine members.

"I've worked with both," he said. "You guys do tend to ramble on at times, more than some other communities. . . . If you're trying to move through a busy agenda, seven is better than nine. But your agendas are not usually that busy."

The commission has had to cancel several recent meetings due to a lack of business, but nearly had to cancel Oct. 20 because of the lack of a five-member quorum. A planning commissioner who had undergone surgery the previous day was called in at the last minute, allowing the commission to vote on a proposed site plan.

The City Council Monday agreed to support the commission's position, and proceed to fill the two vacancies.

BOTSFORD GENERAL HOSPITAL

It takes people with big hearts to work in our expanded Cardiology Department.

The continued expansion of services in the Cardiology Department at Botsford General Hospital is a reflection of the growing health care needs of our community. In addition to providing emergency care, acute episodic care, rehabilitation, ambulatory care, and research, we have added a cardiovascular risk-reduction center.

Botsford is committed to progress and excellence in health care and we recognize health care is not limited to technology. Only dedicated, compassionate professionals can provide care that considers the entire person, taking into account an individual's personal needs and concerns.

Early identification of risk factors combined with education and treatment have been shown to be an effective method for controlling cardiovascular disease. At the Botsford Center for Health Improvement, health care professionals, with the aid of positive educational workshops and a supervised, state of the art, exercise facility, help patients make healthy lifestyle choices.

Botsford General Hospital is reaching out to the people of our community with care that comes from the heart. If you'd like to learn more about Botsford General Hospital, please call Community Relations at 442-7986. If you would like a physician referral, please call Health Match at 442-7900.

City receives new block grant funds

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

The City Council on Monday called public hearings to allocate nearly $8,000 in 1993 Community Development Block Grant funds, and reallocate $5,600 in unspent funds from previous years.

The public hearings will be held Nov. 16.

City staff have suggested allocating the $7,986 in 1993 Oakland County CDBG funds to two programs — development of a three-year plan to comply with the Americans with Disabilities Act and implementation of the barrier-free improvements identified in the three-year plan. The plan's development would cost an estimated $1,590, with implementation costing an estimated $6,396.

Meanwhile, the city still has about

$5,600 in unspent funds from 1987-1989, said City Manager Gary Word, "from projects that did not receive the full allocation from the full spending that we allocated last year."

The funds are left over from a Senior Citizen Center acoustic ceiling installation project, a senior bus air conditioning unit and unspent barrier-free funds left over from the installation of sidewalks and handicapped ramps at city intersections.

Those funds will be lost if not spent or contractually obligated by the end of this year.

City staff has proposed directing those funds to the replacement of windows at the 215 W. Cady Street Senior Center.

CDBG funds can only be spent on projects that benefit low- and moderate-income populations.

Christmas church sale

By CRISTINA FERRIER
Staff Writer

You may still be clinging to summer, but face it: we're much closer to Christmas than the Fourth of July. It's about time to think of those decorations.

You can start this Saturday. Stop by Meadowbrook Congregational Church (21355 Meadowbrook Rd.) and browse through the items at the annual Christmas bazaar.

"We have Christmas items, crafts, jewelry, baked goods, and we're taking orders for Christmas wreaths and ropings," said Molly Daley, who is involved in planning the bazaar. Also on sale will be "attic treasures."

"Attic treasures are better than rummage," Daley explained. "They're things that are a little better quality, maybe silver or antiques."

The sale is an annual event sponsored by the Meadowbrook Women's Service Club. Funds raised by the bazaar will go to such beneficiaries as Olivet College and the First Step battered women's program.

"But the majority goes to our church," she added. "Our main goal is to finish our kitchen."

Meadowbrook Congregational Church recently completed a major building renovation and addition project.

The Meadowbrook Women's Service Club membership includes all of the women members of the church congregation. And, despite the name, it also has a few male members.

"They had a men's club for a while, but it just didn't last," Daley said. "So we call them the Men's Auxiliary." The men's project is the wreath and greens sale.

Refreshments will also be available during the sale. The Meadowbrook Youth Group will provide coffee, donuts and cider throughout the day.

The sale runs from 9:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. and prices are varied.

"Things are priced for value," Daley said. "The Christmas arrangements are underpriced. The husband of one of the women is a florist and she is really very creative, so we do have a lot of lovely Christmas arrangements."

There will also be fall arrangements and Thanksgiving decorations.

Daley said it might be a good idea to come early, because each year they have actual dealers waiting in line in the morning.

"But people just kind of come in all day," she said. Many items are available throughout the afternoon.

There are also some very low priced items, and young children enjoy shopping for their Christmas presents at the bazaar, Daley added.

"Our kids and our grandchildren all shop there," she said.

CITY OF NOVI NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING 1993 COMMUNITY DEVELOPMENT FUNDS

PLEASE TAKE NOTICE that the City of Novi will hold a Public Hearing on the Housing and Community Development Funds for 1993. The Hearing will be held on Monday, November 9, 1992, at 8:00 p.m. EST, at the Novi Civic Center, 45175 W. Ten Mile Road, Novi, Michigan 48375, for the purpose of encouraging citizen input in the proposal to spend federal funding to be received from the Housing and Community Development Act.

All interested citizens are requested to attend this Hearing. Comments will also be received in writing or in person at the City Offices, 45175 W. Ten Mile Road, Novi, Michigan 48375, until 5:00 p.m., prior to the Hearing.

Detroit trio nabbed for stealing six car stereos

By MIKE TYREE
Staff Writer

Three Detroit men said they merely were seeking relief from the pressures of the day.

Northville Township police thought otherwise, and eventually charged the trio with larceny and receiving and concealing stolen property.

The Detroiters — two 18-year-olds and one 19-year-old — were arrested early Oct. 29 in connection with the theft of six car stereos from vehicles parked in the lot at Hampton Inn, 20600 Haggerty.

All three face a Nov. 19 arraignment at 35th District Court in Plymouth.

According to reports, police were patrolling on eastbound Eight Mile just west of Haggerty at about 2:20 a.m. Oct. 29 when a 1981 Buick was spotted along the roadway with its hazard lights flashing. An officer stopped and noticed one man climb into the car and another walk away from the vehicle.

One of the 18-year-olds was asked what they were doing and the man replied that he and his friends were returning to Detroit from East Lansing and had stopped to go to the bathroom. Police said the men gave conflicting reports about where they went to the bathroom, and officers became suspicious because of numerous automobile larcenies that have occurred of late in the Hampton Inn lot.

A quick check of the hotel parking lot turned up four Ford Tauruses and one Mercury Sable that had been broken into, police said. Police discovered a screwdriver on the ground near the area where one of the men had been standing, and another screwdriver was located inside the suspects' vehicle.

A search of one of the men turned up another screwdriver, police said. Police then reportedly opened the unlatched trunk of the suspects' car and found six car stereos and one briefcase, as well as additional screwdrivers.

The three men were handcuffed and taken to police headquarters. One of the men reportedly gave police a written statement which detailed the trio's activities. Police said the men apparently decided to stop on the way home from East Lansing to "make some money."

Two of the men reportedly fanned out in the Hampton Inn lot and shoved the blades of screwdrivers into door locks and pulled the stereos from dashboards. The men planned to sell the stolen radios to a Detroit store owner who reportedly would pay $40 for each unit, the suspect told police.

Library friends conduct letter-writing campaign

Don't be surprised if you soon find a letter in your mailbox from a friend in the Friends of the Northville Public Library. In November, Friends are inviting friends to join the organization which:

- promotes awareness of the library's services.
- provides direct financial assistance to purchase equipment and books.
- funds special library programs.

The purpose of the group's fall membership campaign, "Every Member Get a Member," is to draw attention to the exciting and tense issues facing the library. One issue that excites the Friends is a possible referendum on district library status for the Northville community. Such status, the group believes, would provide a stable source of funding to the library through a dedicated millage of no more than 2 mills. An elected commission would oversee library budget and operations.

Of course, the issue which causes tension among library advocates is the library's current financial bind. The library's budget has been cut almost 25 percent in the last two years, forcing staff and service reductions. Librarians do the custodial work in the library, service hours have been reduced from 58 hours a week to 50 hours, and the book budget has been cut by $28,000 — almost 50 percent.

To accomplish their search for new members, Friends will not only send letters to friends, but post appeals for members throughout the community. Application brochures are available at the library, the Chamber of Commerce, the Recreation Center and several businesses. Or contributions may be sent to: Friends of the Northville Public Library, 215 W. Main St., Northville 48167. Membership levels include: Patron, $100; Sustaining Member, $50; Contributing Member, $30; Supporting Member, $25; or Friend — whatever you can manage. If the well-being of the community doesn't motivate a surge in membership, the Friends of the Library hope a gimmick will. All new members in November will receive a coupon for free overnight use of one video for the library's collection.

longs in the public schools to go to the schools," she said. "If the money has been designated by the community as (school) millage money, that's exactly where it belongs."

Several residents threatened to boycott downtown businesses if the plan was approved, a suggestion that drew complaints from the merchants at the meeting.

Not all at Monday's meeting opposed the DDA plan. Northville City resident Mark McManus said the city has a serious shortage of parking spaces, particularly at the Michigan Association of Gift Salesmen building where he works.

"During the recent expansion of Northville, particularly along Center Street, that building lost 50 percent of its parking," he said.

He warned that failure to increase the available parking could drive businesses like MAGS out of town.

"If you lose the tax base in the city, you're going to hurt it even more than if you pass this proposal," he said.

Ann Willis, of the city's Business Development and Retention Committee, argued that the new deck is needed to give the city more commercial tax base.

"I know short-term it hurts, but long-term it's in our best interests," she said. "We have to make decisions now about something that has to be built in the next three to five years."

That is the estimated lifespan of the current Cady Street parking deck.

The council spent little time discussing the proposal after the three-hour public hearing ended, other than to assure residents that they will consider putting the DDA plan up for a vote. But several speakers noted that only Northville City residents would vote on the plan.

Residents will get at least one more chance to drive home their opinions on Mainstreet '92, during a yet-to-be-scheduled public hearing on the financing plan itself. That hearing will not take place for another three months.

In the meantime, state law requires the city to appoint nine people living within the DDA district to a Development Area Citizens Council, which will review the plan and act as an advisory body to the city council. The citizens council is required because there are now more than 100 people residing within the DDA district.

Council assigns seven to DDA advisory board

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

Seven downtown residents have been named to a new citizen's committee to review the Downtown Development Authority's Mainstreet '92 plan.

The appointments follow the city's discovery late last month that it had to assemble the nine-member committee 90 days before holding a public hearing on the Mainstreet '92 financing plan. The requirement has pushed the public hearing back for at least three months as city officials scramble to find citizens to fill the committee.

City Manager Gary Word said all of the DDA district's estimated 137 housing units were notified of the committee openings.

By Monday the city had heard from seven candidates, four from MainCentre. MainCentre's 74 apartment units pushed the downtown residency above 100 people, which triggered the requirement for a citizens committee.

All seven candidates were named to the committee. They are Emily Casterline, John Crete, James DeHaan, local dentist and DDA member William Demray, city clerk Delphine Dudick, Gary Simmons and Mary Wendenoja.

The committee members were assigned to three-year staggered terms ending in 1993, 1994 and 1995.

All seven candidates were named to the committee. They are Emily Casterline, John Crete, James DeHaan, local dentist and DDA member William Demray, city clerk Delphine Dudick, Gary Simmons and Mary Wendenoja.

The new committee, known as the Development Area Citizens Council, will act as an advisory body to the DDA and City Council in their adoption of the proposed 20-year tax increment financing plan to fund a new Cady Street parking deck and other downtown improvements.

The DDA district is bounded by Wing, Griswold, and Cady, and includes properties on either side of Dunlap and Main. Citizens committee members must live within the district and be at least 18 years old.

Developing Your Child's Toilet Habits

Like learning to walk, learning to use the toilet is a skill that depends on your child's physical and emotional development. Even if your child seems ready, you may want to delay potty-training if there is something stressful happening such as a new baby, moving to a new home, or an illness.

When The Time Comes

Let your son or daughter know that the potty chair is his or hers. Encourage your child to sit on the chair, clothed and at the same time each day. If he or she protests loudly or is uncooperative, wait a few weeks.

As your child becomes more interested, let him or her play for short periods without a diaper, with the potty chair nearby. Explain how the chair is used.

It may be helpful for your child to observe a family member of the same sex use the toilet. Or use a doll that wets, and show your child how to "potty train" it.

Parents should be encouraging, good-humored and casual about toilet training. Reward successes, and be careful not to criticize when accidents happen.

As your child learns bathroom habits, encourage him or her to wash afterwards. A sturdy stepstool will help your child reach the sink without assistance.

A Big Step For Your Child

Achieving bowel and bladder control adds to your child's sense of independence and security. Also, the teamwork between you and your child that goes into potty-training will be a model for future steps in your child's growth.

Our Opinion

Meijer finally takes needed security steps

For years we've been among those complaining about the apparent lack of parking lot security at Meijer's Northville Township store.

Until recently, those complaints seemingly had fallen upon deaf ears. But Meijer finally appears ready to admit it has a problem, and is prepared to take steps to shore up security at the Eight Mile/Haggerty site.

A Meijer official recently said the company will install video cameras to scan the store's huge parking lot — a lot so large and bustling and convenient to local freeways that it's become a crime magnet.

Meijer also plans to add extra parking-lot lighting and equip its roving cart collecting and bagging staff with pagers that will allow them to signal in-house security staffers whenever problems are spotted.

These are substantial gestures on Meijer's part. We congratulate the Grand Rapids-based corporate offices for the moves but also must ask why it's taken so long to do the obvious.

Let's face it: Crime has long been a problem at the Meijer store here. Our police blotters are always crammed with Meijer incidents, including — but not limited to — theft, assault, stolen vehicles, murder, indecent exposure, vehicle damage, weapons and drug possession, etc. And whenever something big occurred, Meijer officials would invariably toss out the old corporate line about the lot being safe, that security was adequate, blah, blah, blah.

But that's all changed. Now Meijer wants to upgrade security, to let its customers know the store and its parking lot are safe. The reason is simple: Economics.

Meijer has had a public image problem for some time, coming largely from a number of somewhat less serious crimes. However, an abduction from a Kalamazoo Meijer — and accompanying rape — attracted large-scale media attention. Then the August murder of a security staffer here became statewide news.

Meijer was earning a negative reputation, and it hurt them financially. Ask a dozen township residents about Meijer, and several of them likely will tell you they won't shop there because of crime fears.

Drive a newer model Chevy Blazer? Police reports indicate that if you park it in the Meijer lot there's a fair chance it will be found in Detroit — stripped and battered — a day or two later.

Not good for business.

So now Meijer must face its problem or continue to lose customers to other, presumably safer stores in this recession-wracked economy. To its credit, Meijer is doing just that.

But Meijer can do more to ensure customer safety. We've asked the store to add a marked, cruising security vehicle to its parking lot. In the past, the firm has always refused such a move, but will shortly add security cars at three stores, though not in Northville. Meijer says it needs to judge customer reaction and cost effectiveness before committing to the security cars.

We believe the company should enact the measure and judge criminals' reaction. If a marked car constantly patrolled the Meijer lot, we believe criminals would think twice before stealing cars and breaking other laws.

Meijer has taken an overdue first step to protecting its clientele, and we're pleased. But it needs to add the security vehicle to regain the community's trust. We hope that move is forthcoming.

Tim Richard

Festering mess over insurance?

A policeman and a fireman are injured in the line of duty. We honor them for risking their lives.

Now, how shall we reimburse them? Worker's comp? Help from the municipal exchequer? A crime victim's claim? Let them sue the bad guys responsible for their injuries? So far, so good.

How about you paying through your homeowner's insurance premiums? No way, say you.

Maybe, say some justices of the Michigan Supreme Court, some of the time.

Officers Don Czopek and Herdis Petty spotted Arthur Smith staggering down the middle of Gudith Road in Woodhaven late New Year's Eve in 1983. Smith, 18, had consumed six beers in less than an hour, topping it with a liberal dose of peppermint schnapps.

The officers tried to handcuff the plastered youth to take him home. He resisted violently. It took an hour to subdue him. Czopek suffered frostbite on one hand. Petty suffered broken ribs from Smith's kicks and a bite on his hand.

Smith didn't remember a thing. Charged with assault and battery, he was fined $250.

The officers sued Smith's parents. Somehow their home insurer, Group Insurance Co. of Michigan (GICOM), was pulled into the case.

Five Supreme Court justices let GICOM off the hook. Justice Conrad Mallett Jr. wrote that Smith's actions were intentional, even though he was intoxicated, and there was no "occurrence" as defined in the insurance policy. The policy didn't cover "bodily injury or property damage which is either expected or intended from the standpoint of the insured."

Thank goodness for some common sense — but wait! Justice Charles Levin dissents. He wanted the case to go to trial to determine whether the injuries were "expected or intended" by the insured.

It was too bad GICOM had to bear the expense of going to the Supreme Court to get their premium payers off the hook, but it was scary when one justice voted to go after the deep pockets. The kid should pay for his sins, but not with our homeowner's insurance dollars.

Charles Piccard tried to make it look like an accident, but later he told Grand Rapids arson investigators he deliberately set fire in 1984 to his Towne & Country Music Store.

Firefighter Thomas Deane, on the roof of a neighboring store, was blinded by smoke, stepped off the roof, injured his knee and was permanently disabled.

The Supreme Court said Piccard couldn't collect from his insurer, Frankenmuth Mutual. "Society, however, will not allow an individual to shift the economic responsibility to an insurer for conduct that it seeks to discourage and deter," wrote Justice Dorothy Comstock Riley.

But a 4-3 majority said the insurer had to defend Piccard in firefighter Deane's suit. Riley said there was no "accident" from store owner Piccard's point of view, but there was from the injured fireman's point of view.

Dissenting, Chief Justice Michael Cavanagh said, "Defining the fireman's fall as 'accidental' cannot convert the fire, the basis of the injury, into an 'accident.'" He wanted to let Frankenmuth Mutual off both hooks entirely.

I detect the sharp, inward curving teeth of the trial lawyers' association in these cases.

Not content with letting government punish wrongdoers, people are filing civil damage suits these days, much like they did prior to the time of England's King Henry II.

But dragging insurers into these cases? I have qualms. We've watched two social messes fester in the medical malpractice and auto insurance areas in the last decade. Will home and business insurance be next?

Tim Richard reports on the local implications of state and regional events.

Election leaves flawed system

It's tempting to sit back, now that the election is over, secure in the assumption that the angry voters once and for all have fixed what ails our politics.

Not! Our political system is still very deeply flawed regardless of the outcome of Tuesday's voting.

We still suffer in Michigan from a political system which sustains a class of careerist politicians who consider their life's work to seek and hold office. That system is still infested by political action committees and lobbyists who dominate contributions to obscenely expensive campaigns, mostly on behalf of incumbents.

This combination — careerist politicians and rich single interests — has created a politics of corruption (through vote buying, thinly disguised as "access") and of gridlock (through the blocking veto power held by any one single interest).

What this election proves, if anything, is that we still need to create in Michigan a serious political reform movement.

Such a movement would have a short but far-reaching agenda:

We have too many careerist politicians. Term limitation might cure by amputation some of the worst abuses. But we have done nothing about making most legislative jobs part time. And we have done little to encourage citizen politicians who consider running for office an important, but secondary, civic obligation.

Our campaigns are becoming ludicrously expensive, thereby inviting campaign contribution abuses. We did nothing on Tuesday to consider public financing for political campaigns. Nor did we do anything to explore whether the companies which own radio and television stations should be required to donate some air time in equal amounts to incumbent and challenger.

Our lawmaking, particularly in Lansing, is infested with lobbyists who represent single interests wielding the business end of a checkbook. Tuesday's results did nothing to put teeth in our campaign finance disclosure law or limits on the officeholder expense accounts which offer such a convenient receptacle for lobbyist generosity.

Our government is ineffective, concerned mainly with top-down regulatory micromanagement and blocked by the veto power of interest groups from serious, coherent policy making. Tuesday's vote did nothing to force a serious rethinking of the ways in which government operates.

Voters were justifiably angry during this campaign season. But very little that was decided on Tuesday will address the root causes of that anger.

Here lies a great opening for a coalition of serious people in Michigan — Republicans, Democrats, Independents, Libertarians, Perotites — to come together to remake our politics.

Write me your thoughts, care of this newspaper. We'll print your letters and, just maybe, get going a dialogue that can put the control of our politics back in the hands of the people.

Healthy downtown benefits all

To the editor:

I would like to respond to those members of the community who believe that the DDA (Downtown Development Authority) should not use tax-increment financing (through captured taxes in the DDA district) to finance future projects.

1. The big picture: Our problem is not that we use captured taxes for downtown redevelopment. In fact it makes sense to use taxes collected in the downtown to reinvest in the downtown. Our real problem is that we need better tax base. We are a bedroom community with less than 20 percent non-residential tax base (both city and township), far less than the communities that surround us. We just do not have enough stores and factories, who pay school taxes yet send no children to our schools.

If we want to solve the tax-base problem, the way to do it is through better planning for the future, meaning new industry in the township (e.g. Huntington Falls and other projects) and appropriate commercial growth in the city (e.g. Mainstreet 92). One way to worsen our long-term prospects for tax relief is to eliminate the effective tool of tax-increment financing. Without it, I question whether alternative methods of funding would work.

Please do not kill a good economic tool designed to assist redevelopment in small communities. When downtown SEV goes up, so does the SEV surrounding. Mainstreet 78 greatly contributed to the superior SEV growth in our community these past 10 years compared to some of our neighbors who were not so committed. The job of downtown redevelopment is far from being done. Just ask any merchant. We need better parking and circulation to compete for the kinds of businesses people wish were here.

2. The short-term perspective: People like Northville for many reasons, but two of the biggest are the quality of our schools and our beautiful downtown. Schools need more money, and the downtown needs more reinvestment to remain healthy. Both community amenities are important. But we cannot and should not consider sacrificing one for the other. In the long run, the very children we are trying to protect will lose.

Greg Presley

Downtown Development Authority

DDA must stop taking school money

To the editor:

I am saddened that yet another issue has risen to create dissension in our community. Specifically, the issue of Northville's Downtown Development Authority and its right to withhold voted school millage for its own purpose.

I know of no one who objects to the downtown being improved, but what folks ARE objecting to is the money coming from voted school millage.

Object to the DDA extending the privilege to itself of not paying its fair share of school millage for an additional 20 years. Although I am concerned by community dissension, I must strongly object to the idea of paying for a parking deck and road reconfiguration with money that should be going to educate our community's children.

Perhaps things were different in 1978 when the Mainstreet 78 proposal was started. The schools were financially stable and the downtown was in trouble. But now, the downtown has been spruced up quite nicely and the schools are in financial trouble.

The schools have already done the "community-minded" thing by agreeing with the initial 15-year proposal. The DDA should not extend its recapture of school millage for an additional 20 years as is proposed.

Many residents have been surprised to find out that Mainstreet 78 was funded largely by voted school millage. Many residents have shopped in Northville thinking that their money was not only supporting the town, but also their schools. Perhaps the DDA should consider more carefully the alienation of its customer base before implementing 20 more years of not supporting the community's schools.

It's time for the DDA to find another source for their funding besides voted school millage. The idea of withholding school monies to do projects to enhance downtown has gone on long enough and should not be continued in any form. Our schools cannot afford the loss of so many millions of dollars.

Concerned parents seek changes

To the editor:

The Michigan Model remains in place at Northville Schools although it is a misunderstood and controversial curriculum. A recent letter to the editor, (Oct. 22) demonstrates the controversy and unfairly singles out and attacks Dr. Kraft Bell for his work on a State Board of Education subcommittee. I would like to make the following points to clarify our experience of seeking reformation of this curriculum:

1. There was no "bag of misinformation or emotional tricks." There was never any hidden agenda, just a group of concerned parents who invited Dr. Bell to assist them in their investigation.

2. Our objective (a large group, not a "right wing loose cannon") was never to delete the program. Our objective was to study it, register what was objectionable to us and make modifications or be able to opt our children out.

3. Mr. Bell did not take "lessons out of context." As a group we studied a tremendous amount of material in a very short time frame. We were given no cooperation in our requests for face-to-face discussion or clarification. Likewise the health committee who reviewed our concerns never attempted to directly contact us for any clarification.

4. The Northville Board of Education attacked us for attempting censorship. They unanimously voted that our concerns were not legitimate and voted that we would never be allowed to approach them on this subject again. However, several state legislators and the State Board of Education found our concerns legitimate and our research well-founded. Even though the publicity has died down, an increasing number of parents are concerned and seeking this information.

5. Dr. Bell did not seek any of this attention. Dr. Bell holds a Ph.D. and is an expert in the areas of problem solving, decision making, change and improvement. He has a very successful business and travels to service clients in a world wide market, doing exactly what he is accused of being unqualified for by the Northville Michigan Model supporters.

He was invited to facilitate the State Board of Education subcommittee for Strategic Direction of the health curriculum because of his expertise in this area.

I'm sure if Ms. Polletta was familiar with all these facts and if she had ever spent any time talking to Dr. Bell she would not have been led to write such a letter. I can assure you Kraft Bell is an honorable Christian man of good character. He has generously given countless hours of work and an incredible amount of his own resources in this effort. Few parents would have the commitment and charity to follow through on this as Dr. Bell has.

Solicitation shows no concern

To the editor:

As residents of the City of Northville, my husband and I are completely fed up with phone calls requesting (demanding) donations to the P.O.A.M. (Police Officers Association of Michigan).

After donating one time to this organization we now receive bi-monthly phone calls and after our refusal have been threatened with "moving violation tickets" to this Monday evening's latest escapade of being told to "shut up!" One of my husband's fondest memories is the night they called and woke him up at 11 p.m. from a sound sleep. After expressing his displeasure and hanging up this man (I won't say gentleman) called back for 10 minutes in order to hang up first! We then took our phone off the hook.

We know we are not the only ones this is happening to. It goes without saying, until this organization can hire a more competent staff to solicit our monies, they don't deserve the people of Northville's good time or energy.

Education can fight diseases

To the editor:

During the past few weeks I have gathered information that perhaps may be of interest to you.

1. Michigan is second in use of tobacco, being surpassed only by Kentucky. This tobacco use should make us a potential candidate for having the second highest rating in the United States for cancer of the lung, heart disease and peripheral vascular problems.

2. Michigan is surpassed by only one other state in the intravenous use of street drugs. This should also give us the honor of having more AIDS cases and more medical costs than most other states. Perhaps, if we turn our heads just a little more we could be first.

3. According to the "Morbidity and Mortality Weekly Report" (printed by the Massachusetts Medical Society) Summary — cases of specified notifiable diseases, United States, cumulative, week ending October 3, 1992 (40th week). The five most prevalent are as follows:

1. Gonorrhea 371,958
2. AIDS 36,339
3. Syphilis 25,730*
4. Tuberculosis 17,053
5. Lyme disease 5,581

* Primary and secondary syphilis, not counting congenital syphilis for ages less than one year (697).

I was told — and it was hard to believe — that one out of every 250 people within our state at the present time is estimated to have a positive HIV (Human Immune Virus) test.

These life-threatening problems can be more successfully controlled by better education and support of our younger population. And I know of no better way to begin than to support the Safe Homes project that is about to get under way. It is not meant to be a WCTU temperance type of project, but an effort to suggest that a change of lifestyle for our children's future by a caring community is drastically needed.

It may be too late for some.
R.M. Atchison, M.D.

All four communities should plan

To the editor:

In the recent past my letters to both The Northville Record and the Plymouth Observer have suggested using common efforts toward common goals for Northville (City), Northville Township, Plymouth (City) and Plymouth Township for St. John's Seminary and the aborted DeMatia project of developing the old institution property on Sheldon and Five Mile in Northville Township. To date, no joint actions or meetings on these two important projects have happened. Of course, these communities share far more in common goals, projects and demographics.

So, doesn't this form a sound basis for these "Fabulous Four" communities to join in a "futuring" plan that would put together a regional plan to tackle mutual problems and establish mutual goals like the one just formed by the five Grosse Pointes and Harper Woods? I believe it would be a great benefit for all four of us. We, too, might look at, with a better focus, issues such as consolidating police and fire departments (if that's a good idea), improving senior citizen care, improved trash removal, parkland uses, our new waste disposal/sewer system and business/industrial development.

The potential of such an effort could surely improve our four communities' futures, increase our homes' values and probably significantly reduce the region's taxes.

Things look bleak after the election

To the editor:

According to the newspapers, Clinton will be our next President.

As of today I have yet to talk to someone who is for him. Of course my clients are all self-employed and they better do it on their own. They can't get unemployment, free health insurance and all the other goodies that are taken for granted. I really can't feel too sorry for California. My last visit to California gave me the impression that I was visiting Japan again except they drive on the left side of the road. GM might be building more cars if they would buy them instead of Japanese.

The other night I was listening to WJR late night talk show and a call came in from Toledo. The caller stated that Clinton wasn't too popular there as several plants had moved to Arkansas. No unions and one-half the wages with all kinds of abatements. Arkansas is 49th in the nation in several categories and as one caller said, thank God for Mississippi.

When Clinton talks of taxing those over $200,000 a year to raise all the money he wants to spend, his Harvard and Oxford education show up. He and Gore have always been in the public trough so they really don't know much about how the real world is.

I am very fortunate that I have at least 10 clients that are millionaires. When I look over their background they all have one thing in common. They all graduated from high school and never went to college. They still work fifty hours per week and not one of them inherited money.

A college education is good but it doesn't guarantee success. It is still up to the individual.

I do not believe any one of the candidates when they say they will balance the budget and reduce the deficit. I predict that in another four years we still won't have a balanced budget and a $5-trillion deficit. If Clinton is elected we'll have our former governor, pretty boy Blanchard in the cabinet. It pays to lose as you go on to bigger and better things.

There is one thing for sure besides Death and Taxes. I think the total population will be glad when the election is over no matter who wins. After three years, 11 months and 64 days, I've had it.

Concert series will be missed over winter

To the editor:

One of the things I miss most about the summer is the end of the Northville "Concert in the Park/Gazebo" music concerts on Friday nights.

I think this year was the best ever. The bands were excellent and I bet attendance was an all-time high. I'm sorry to see them end. Too bad the series couldn't be continued indoors throughout the winter... once or twice each month in the community building. That would be special and something no other community offers its residents/shoppers.

In any case, thanks to the merchants who sponsored the 1992 series and I look forward to 1993.

Tamara's obsession with eyebrows is what caught her eye and interest in permanent make-up.

FACES of the future

By SHARON CONDRON
Staff Writer

Just the notion of having make-up permanently etched into the skin conjures up thoughts of pain and horror for some.

But not for all. The latest cosmetic craze is taking salons by storm as women flock to make-up artists to have eyeliner, eyebrows and lip liner permanently applied.

For women 18-80, permanent make-up gives them a flawless, carefree look 24 hours a day, seven days a week for about 10 years. And it won't wash off.

It's medically safe, proven effective, and virtually painless, said some consumers like Novi resident Judith Engelsen.

"I'm really satisfied," said Engelsen who had her eyebrows permanently implanted a year ago. The 60-year old woman said having her brows done has saved her enormous time primping.

"It's much faster in the morning now," Engelsen said.

Applied with a sterilized tool similar to a dentist's drill, all-natural pigments are scratched into the surface layers of the skin to add shape and definition to eyebrows and lips. Once applied, permanent make-up frees women's time and allows them to swim, cry and exercise without the fear of smearing, smudging and running.

That was the long-term benefit for Engelsen, who escapes to warmer climes during Michigan's winter months.

"We go to Florida a lot and now I don't have to worry about swimming," she said.

Engelsen said the treatment was painless and felt more like "a hard brush scratching against her skin."

Consumers and make-up experts say the non-surgical, breakthrough treatment makes eyebrows and eyelashes look fuller while adding definition and luster to lip lines.

Tamara Friedman owner of the Tamara Institut De

Beaute in Farmington Hills, is a pioneer in the study and application of permanent make-up here in the Metropolitan Detroit area. She trained with a Japanese artist working for Tunny Cosmetics. Since then she's seen as many as 500 clients, including Engelsen and a handful of others from Northville and Novi. She started applying permanent make-up at her spa five years ago.

"It's not for everybody but for people who do use it, it makes life easier," Friedman said.

Friedman says her clients come to her for a variety of reasons. For some it's to create something that wasn't there. For others it's to erase something that shouldn't be there. And for still others, it's to correct a beauty flaw or disguise scarring caused by an accident.

Either way the technique offers clients a viable alternative to plastic surgery that's relatively inexpensive and long lasting.

Since she started applying the make-up, Friedman said, she's treated clients from all over the metro area. Flipping through her lists of clients, she's quick to point out the varying occupations and income levels of her patrons from across the tri-county area, proving her theory that permanent make-up isn't just for the rich and famous — even though the affluent have blazed a trail to her. She has clients that fly in from Chicago and as far as Cheyebogan and Canada.

"And it's not just for fashion-oriented people," she said. "I have housewives from Warren and factory workers and people who work in kitchens. It's unbelievable."

"Every woman — no matter how young or old, rich or poor — they all still want to be beautiful. A woman is still a woman. And they all want to look great."

But Friedman says it's not just for women either. She's filled in for receding hairlines and sparse mustaches.

On the practical side, Friedman said she's also been asked by both men and women to correct or camouflage facial scars, and tone down skin discolorations.

DOROTHY FLATTERY

Retired librarian opens new book as a volunteer

By DOROTHY NASH
Special Writer

The east wing of the Novi Public Library is named after her — Dorothy Flattery. The Novi Library Board, she said, announced it when she retired as head librarian in 1985.

"It's a great honor," she admits. It's a tribute to her 22 years as paid employee and to her volunteer activity as a member of the Friends of the Novi Library.

For 15 years, Flattery said, she has been a member of the Friends, which is a group of 35 men and women, 12 of whom are active.

The Friends' goal "is to do things for the library," she said, "that don't fit into the budget," like paying for shelves, non-fiction videos, a wheel chair, and leadership meetings for the librarian.

And one year, Flattery said, they contributed money for a year's supply of bird seed for the bird sanctuary outside of the children's library, plus two more pair of binoculars for children to watch the birds.

How do they raise the money to do it? Flattery said they conduct an ongoing book sale in the meeting room across from the circulation desk.

As for meetings of the Friends of the Novi Library, Flattery said, they have an annual meeting in May, and "that takes care of everything."

However, a few of them meet also at the library four times a year to prepare the mailing of the library newsletter, which is sent free to all city residents. "We bundle and sort according to zip code."

Also in December, the Friends joined the Library Board and the staff for a Christmas luncheon.

And that's it? For Friends of the Library, yes. For Dorothy Flattery, no. "I go there a couple times a week," she said, "to look things up and say hello to friends."

If you, too, enjoy libraries and want to help promote the Novi Library, call Dorothy Flattery at 348-6543 about joining the Friends.

In Our Town

Good Time lives up to name

Jim Roth of the D&J Good Time Party Store on Seven Mile said he was almost as excited to have sold Saturday's winning Lotto ticket as the winner was who bought it from the party store.

Roth said the 39-year old Detroit man bought his winning ticket at the store on Friday night. The easy pick ticket matched all seven lottery numbers in Saturday's draw and netted the man $4 million.

In a press release from the state lottery office, officials said the man forgot about the ticket he bought Friday and didn't learn he had won until Sunday. He had played the Lotto again on Saturday and hadn't matched anything. On Sunday while he and two relatives were at the Northville Downs he went to pull cash from his wallet when he found the ticket he bought Friday. He matched it with the winning numbers and realized he was a winner.

He and his relatives called the lottery hotline to confirm four times, the release read. The man collected the first of 20 installments of $200,000 on Monday at the state lottery office. The man, who wants to remain anonymous, says he plans to keep his job as a branch manager for Madison Electric Company, but said he'll spend some of the money on bills, a vacation, and share it with his family.

Celebration of the Arts

The New Morning School will host its second annual Celebration of the Arts on Nov. 21 at the Northville Recreation Center.

The arts and crafts show which attracts more than 70 exhibitors is one of the annual fund-raisers New Morning hosts to supplement its revenues to support the school, which is celebrating its 20th anniversary this year.

New Morning is a preschool-through-eight-grade parent cooperative school on Haggerty Road in Plymouth. Founded in 1973, it is a state-certified, nationally recognized non-profit school that teaches students at all educational levels including learning disabled and gifted students.

Organizers contend the show is unique among craft shows in Northville because of the caliber and diversity of the crafters who are invited to attend from across the state. On the roster are both fine art and specialty crafters who use a variety of media and styles.

The show will feature hand-painted Christmas ornaments and

Sporting Sale

From left to right, C.J. Rahimi, Danny and Matt Ferrara show similar items the Northville Mother's Club will be selling at its annual Ski/Skate Sale this Saturday from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. at Meads Mill Middle School. People who are interested in dropping off items for the sale can do so at Meads Mill on Thursday between 4-8 p.m. The sale is just another one of the many things the Club does to help support the Northville schools.

hand-made decorations, pottery, weaving, limited edition porcelain dolls, glass sculpture, lamps, baskets, fiber art, jewelry, floral designs, animated paintings, award winning wildlife photography and calligraphy.

Many of the crafters who will be there have participated in juried art shows like the Ann Arbor Art Fair, The Meadow Brook Art Festival, The Art on the Pointe in Grosse Pointe Shores, The Art in the Park in Plymouth and the East Lansing Art Show.

Including as exhibitors are

Northville residents Denise Victoria and Jane Park along with others from Ann Arbor, Detroit, Chelsea, Birmingham, Petoskey, Higgins Lake, Harrisville and Ohio.

Art Show chairperson Leslie Stolaruk said the show will feature crafts for sale at reasonable prices for great holiday gift giving ideas.

The show is open from 9:30 a.m. until 4:30 p.m. Lunch will be available from Westside Deli. Admission tickets are $1.50 and all proceeds benefit New Morning.

Engagements

SUSAN BORTHWICK/STEVEN RIGGLEMAN: Mr. and Mrs. Robert D. Borthwick of Northville announce the engagement of their daughter Susan J. Borthwick to Steven E. Rigglesman of Farmington, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Rigglesman of Columbus, Ohio.

The bride-elect is a 1984 graduate of Northville High School and a 1988 graduate of Central Michigan University. She works as Human Resource Manager at Alm Systems in Livonia.

The future groom is a 1977 graduate of Westerville High School in Ohio and is currently attending the University of Michigan, Dearborn. He is employed by Ford Motor Company, Dearborn.

A Nov. 27 wedding date has been set.

Latest cosmetic craze pencils in permanent solution

beauty flaws and skin diseases. She's had clients ask her to remove or create facial moles and fake birth marks when they were in vogue. She's also replaced eyebrows and facial hair lost to chemotherapy and radiation treatments. For older clients, permanent make-up replaces the pigments lost to old age.

Former Northville resident Jean Klimm found the new make-up treatment to be a permanent cure for her thinning and balding eyebrows. For Klimm, 52, having eyebrows that wouldn't wash off was important for the blushing bride who married in May and left Northville after five years to live in Ohio. She had her eyebrows permanently applied last summer. Now she has full, colored brows that require no maintenance.

"I couldn't go anywhere without an eyebrow pencil," she said.

"It was definitely worth it," Klimm said. "At night I like to wash my face, and when I did I had no eyebrows. This was great because my eyebrows stayed on and I still looked like a human being."

Both Engelsen and Klimm said having Friedman reshape their eyebrows has made their friends take notice.

"It wasn't a dramatic difference, but my friends and the people close to me noticed the change," Engelsen said. "As you get older things change . . . It just opened up my eyes."

On the initial consultation, Friedman experiments with any of her 20 pigments to create the best shade for the client. She then pencils the color on and checks the look. After three or four repeated applications during hour-long sessions, the client's look is complete.

"I try to do it very neutral and very natural because it's intended to be a beauty enhancer," she said. "All I'm really after is to enhance people's beauty."

"I never do anything that goes against my ethics. I'm sorry, but it's my name on their eyebrows."

Engelsen said it took about four to five days to recover. At first the color was much darker than she expected but in a week's time it toned down and blended right in.

"No, it didn't hurt at all and I didn't have any side effects," the Novi resident said. "It's not a sharp point. It's something like a dentist's drill."

Permanent make-up practitioners are quick to dispel notions that the medical method of application leaves behind a spotted trail of infected, bloody wounds that lead to eventual scarring. While Friedman admits there's some swelling and discomfort, neither are unbearable.

"I don't go that deep into the skin," she said. "The skin has a thick protective barrier that protects the deeper layers from infection. I scratch the surface of the skin while I'm doing it but it's never bloody or open-wounded so infection is almost impossible."

Friedman said she hasn't encountered infections or allergic reactions from any one of the 500 clients she's embellished over the years. Out of those 500, she said she's never had a client complain about pain or say, "I can't take it anymore." Nonetheless, she does apply a topical anesthetic to numb the treated area.

Her insurance carrier will allow only one incident for her to lose her permit to apply. Therefore needles are sterilized and only used once.

"Everything is sterilized and it's proven that there's no chance of acquired immune deficiency syndrome (AIDS) or of infection," she said.

There are few side effects other than discomfort in some. There's no visible scarring and it's virtually painless. Friedman and Engelsen both agree it's a win-win situation that's gaining in popularity.

"I think this is just the beginning and it has big, big, big potential," Friedman said. "I'm glad I discovered it and got interested in it."

"When people are happy it gives me a good reputation," Friedman said.

Friedman said her prices are competitive for the quality of services she renders and for the benefits her clients derive.

"You are enhancing your beauty for approximately 10 years. The benefits equal those of plastic surgery without the high cost," she said.

The list price for permanent eyebrows ranges from $350 to $850. The low end of the price scale covers extensions and touch ups for clients with partial brows in place. The higher end covers those who want to create an entire new brow. Eyeliners hinge between $475 for one and and $800 both uppers and lowers. Lip liners round out at about $800.

Engelsen said she's happy with her results.

"I'm really glad I did it," she said. "I enjoyed it very much and I think everybody should do it if they want to. You shouldn't be scared because there really isn't anything to be scared of."

In Uniform

ADAM B. BURKETT, son of Carol Burkett of Northville, has enlisted in the Air Force.

Upon successfully completing the Air Force's six-week basic military training at Lackland Air Force Base in San Antonio, Texas, he is scheduled to receive technical training as an aerospace propulsion specialist, said Sgt. Robert Anderson III, the Air Force recruiter at 2741 S. Wayne Road.

Burkett, a 1989 graduate of Northville High School, will earn credits toward an associate's degree in applied science through the Community College of the Air Force while attending basic and technical training schools.

Airman JOHN M. BULL has graduated from the helicopter maintenance specialist course at Sheppard Air Force Base, Wichita Falls, Texas.

Students were taught the systems and components for inspection, repair and maintenance of helicopters in the Air Force inventory. Included in the training were corrosion identification and cleaning, and the care and use of special tools.

Bull is the son of Charlene M. Jani-kowski of Novi.

He graduated from Walled Lake Western High School in 1991.

Pvt. LEE J. MILLS has completed basic training at Fort Jackson, Columbia, S.C.

During the training, students received instruction in drill and ceremonies, weapons, map reading, tactics, military courtesy, military justice, first aid and Army history and traditions.

He is the son of Ted Mills of Northville.

ANTHONY IANNAACONE

JACK BROKENSCHA

Symphony to receive premiere

Next weekend, Novi High School will host the world premiere of a new musical work performed by the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra.

Night Rivers, Symphony No. 3 by Anthony Iannaccone, leads off the program beginning at 8 p.m. Friday, Nov. 13. Iannaccone will guest conduct the PSO.

The "Afro-American Symphony" by William Grant Still and jazz selections will round out the program, featuring guest artists the Jack Brokensha Quartet.

Tickets are $10 for seniors, $12 for other adults and $5 for students K-12. They are available in Northville at the Giftfiddler music store, 302 E. Main, and Bookstall-on-the-Main, 101 N. Center, or at the auditorium 30 minutes before the performance.

New York native Iannaccone now works at Eastern Michigan University. His new Night Rivers is a symphony in one movement.

According to the program notes, "its central focus is the evolving flow of a few basic musical gestures from dreamlike states of calm equilibrium to torrential passages of intense fury and back to refined repose. Night Rivers is essentially a work about motion, the slow, subtle motion of changing colors in a static texture or the conspicuous motion of driving rhythmic motives."

"Unlike this composer's two earlier multi-movement symphonies, Night Rivers derives all of its thematic, textural, and timbral material from the first seven bars of music. These opening sound shapes and interval patterns are recycled in many forms throughout the work to evoke and ultimately to fuse two distinct images borrowed from the poetry of Walt Whitman: 'night' as used by Whitman in the poem 'The Sleepers,' and 'river,' a vivid metaphor from 'Whispers of Heavenly Death' and 'Crossing Brooklyn Ferry.'"

Iannaccone's work has been recorded several times and won awards. He has received very favorable reviews for his compositions.

Preparatory to the concert next weekend, Iannaccone is appearing in "Meet the Composer" sessions through grants from Arts Midwest. He is spending today at Novi High School meeting with students. He plans one session with humanities students and another with music students.

At 1 p.m. tomorrow, the public is welcome at a seminar and workshop in Room 186 on the campus of Madonna University, 36600 Schoolcraft in Livonia. Participants in the Madonna workshop will have the chance to purchase concert tickets at a reduced rate.

Jack Brokensha, leading the other half of next Friday's program, came to the United States from "Down Under" in the mid-50s playing vibes of the Australian jazz quintet. He began his varied Australian career by playing the xylophone on Paudeville circuits at the age of 6. At 14, he was a percussionist for the Australian Broadcasting Commission. After a stint in the Australian Air Force in an entertainment unit, he returned to lead his own quartet on jazz concerts and recordings.

The well-known Australian jazz quintet, a popular jazz group that recorded extensively in the 1950s for Bethlehem Records, worked throughout the United States and broke up after about six years. Brokensha then received an offer to come to Detroit, where he worked as musician for WXYZ-TV. During the '60s he ran his own club in the Detroit theater district, was a disc jockey on WQRS radio and spent five years as a vibraphonist for Motown Records.

His current quartet includes Matt Michaels, piano; Dan Jordan, bass; and Jerry McKenzie, drums. The Jack Brokensha quartet performances include the Montreux Jazz Festival, various concert performances with symphony orchestras, concert tours as well as jazz clubs.

Country Epicure restaurant will host an afterglow following next weekend's concert. The concert is also endorsed by the Novi Arts Council.

Q&A

By WILLIAM T. TOMICKI
New York Times Travel Syndicate

Q: Can you suggest some leisure activities for a Toronto vacation this fall?

A: Toronto's theater industry, with more than 40 playhouses, is the third largest in the English-speaking world — after London and New York.

The Canadian Opera Company, the Toronto Symphony, the National Ballet of Canada and the Premiere Dance Theatre at Harbourfront are all based in Toronto.

Visitors who want to go on short notice to a live performance may be interested in the Five Star Tickets booth, which offers, on the day of an event, tickets to the opera, symphony, dance or theater at half price.

The ticket booth is at the corner of Yonge and Dundas streets. In front of the Eaton Centre. No orders are taken by phone. The booth is open Tuesday through Saturday, 12 p.m. to 7:30 p.m., and Sunday, 11 a.m. to 3 p.m.

For outdoor fun, the Kensington Market is one of the most colorful, vibrant districts in Toronto. On weekends the market is lined with Portuguese, Chinese and West Indian shopkeepers and street vendors selling fruits, vegetables, fresh fish, clothes and trinkets.

And the city's Chinatown district is always vibrant and colorful. For further information contact the Metropolitan Toronto Convention and Visitors Association, P.O. Box 126, Toronto, Ontario M5J 1A7 or call (416) 368-9990. Information is also available from your local travel agent.

Q: We'll be traveling to Knoxville, Tenn., this fall. Any ideas for family fun?

A: Just south of Knoxville and six miles outside Sweetwater, Tenn., is the world's largest underground lake — the Lost Sea in the Lost Sea Caverns.

Visitors can take a one-hour, glass-bottomed boat ride to peer into the big-room caverns. They will also explore portions of the 4 1/2-acre lake, which maintains a constant temperature of 58 degrees Fahrenheit. For further information call (615) 337-6616.

A winery, shops, restaurants, the Army's old Fort Loudon and the Sequoia Birthplace Museum, with exhibits on Indian history, are a short drive away.

The Great Smoky Mountain National Park is about 50 miles south of Knoxville. This wilderness area, encompassing 500,000 acres of Appalachian peaks, is home to bears, wild hogs, white-tailed deer, groundhogs and wild turkeys.

The trees and flowering plants are particularly breathtaking throughout the fall.

For further information contact the Tennessee State Parks Information Center, 401 Church, Nashville, Tenn. 37203 or call (615) 532-0001.

Q: We are traveling to Beijing and want to stay at a deluxe hotel. Any tips?

A: The new Kempinski Hotel Beijing is part of a $500 million complex that includes 12 restaurants and bars, private apartments, a low-rise office building, a six-story department store and a business center.

The 540-room hotel has well-appointed rooms — some on non-smoking floors — with satellite-TV channels, plus outlets for fax machines and personal computers.

The hotel is 30 minutes from the airport, near Beijing's diplomatic district and historic areas. The Forbidden City is about two miles away.

Among the cuisines at the hotel's Lufthansa Center are German, Chinese, Vietnamese and Mediterranean. Guests also can visit a coffeehouse and mini-brewery built by the Paulaner Beer Co. of Germany. For further information call the hotel operators at (800) 426-3135.

'The luckiest city in the world?' Everything's back to normal in Honolulu as island escapes Iniki

By LENORE MAGIDA
New York Times Travel Syndicate

Over the years Honolulu has been described in all manner of ways: Crossroads of the Pacific, America's Most Exotic City — not to mention such dubious distinctions as Most Expensive Housing Market in the Country.

Right now, though, it could understandably bill itself the Luckiest City in the World.

The reason lies in the events of Sept. 11. For a while that morning, Hurricane Iniki, with winds topping 150 miles an hour, was aiming for the island of Oahu, with 836,000 of Hawaii's 1.1 million residents and home of Honolulu.

Shoreline areas all around Oahu, including Waikiki, were evacuated. Thousands of hotel guests holed up in shelters.

In the end, however, Iniki swerved west and saved Kaula, where about 51,000 people live. Much of Kaula will be in ruins for some time.

In contrast, Honolulu and most of the rest of Oahu — except for the end of the island closest to Kaula — sustained only easily repairable damage.

Much of Honolulu's attention remains directed toward Kaula. Residents are still contributing to the hurricane relief effort; stories about the aftermath of the storm still fill the news.

In other respects, though, the city has returned to normal, and everything is up and running elsewhere in the state. And this is a lovely, lively time of year to visit.

The torpid days of late summer have given way to the warm, crystalline, breezy weather that defines fall in the capital of Hawaii. The cultural calendar is building up, as are the legendary surfing waves on Oahu's North Shore.

EVENTS

If you visit Honolulu in the late autumn or winter you might want to pay homage to the season's surf on Oahu's North Shore. The beaches there hold mythic status for surfers, as well as for anyone who can be awed by a 12- or 15-foot wave.

If you stop at Waimea Bay, Haleiwa Beach or Banzai Pipeline between Nov. 17 and Dec. 19 you may catch some of the Triple Crown of Surfing. (808) 637-8863.

The main draw is the Marui Masters at Banzai Pipeline. It is scheduled from Nov. 27 to Dec. 6; but the participants — the world's top professional surfers — will compete only on the best four-and-a-half days during that period.

Also on the water the King Kalakaua Regatta, (808) 526-4126, takes place on Nov. 15 from 11 a.m. to about 1:30 p.m.

Staged in honor of the birthday of King David Kalakaua of Hawaii, who reigned from 1874 to 1891, the event aims to replicate the monarch's own birthday regattas, including canoe sailing, canoe paddling and paddle boarding.

Races begin at Magic Island, adjacent to Ala Moana Beach Park and head both eastward toward Diamond Iolani Palace in downtown Honolulu was commissioned by King David Kalakaua as the royal residence for himself and Queen Kapiolani; it was completed in 1882.

Head and westward toward Honolulu Harbor.

From Nov. 29 to Dec. 5 the 11th annual Hawaii International Film Festival, (808) 944-7203, takes place at locations around Oahu, and from Dec. 6 to 12 on other islands. The festival features films from Asia, the Pacific and the United States. Screenings are free.

SIGHTSEEING

The Bishop Museum, 1525 Bernice St., (808) 847-3511, is known as a center of Hawaiiana, with such attractions as feather cloaks worn by Hawaiian royalty, Hawaiian arts and crafts demonstrations, a 55-foot sperm whale skeleton, a planetarium and more.

To Jan. 3 the museum is presenting Space Expo '92 featuring large models of space shuttles, rockets from the United States and Japan, interactive computer programs and transmissions from weather satellites. Open daily 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.; admission (includes Space Expo) $7.95; $6.95 for seniors, military and those aged 6 to 17.

The stark white Arizona Memorial, (808) 422-0561, is in Pearl Harbor above the sunken ship on which 1,102 men died when Japanese warplanes bombed the harbor on Dec. 7, 1941. The free 75-minute program includes a historical film at the shore-based visitors center and a shuttle ride to and from the memorial.

The center is open daily 7:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. with programs from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. Admission is free. No reservations are taken and waits of up to three hours are common.

Iolani Palace, (808) 522-0832 for reservations and (808) 538-1471 for information, in downtown Honolulu was commissioned by King David Kalakaua as the royal residence for himself and Queen Kapiolani; it was completed in 1882.

After the monarchy was overthrown in 1893 the palace housed government offices until 1969; it has since been restored.

Tours, 45 to 60 minutes, are offered Wednesday to Saturday every 15 minutes from 9 a.m. to 2:15 p.m. Tickets, which must be purchased 30 minutes in advance, cost $4, $1 for ages 5 to 12; children under 5 are not admitted.

Just blocks from the palace is Foster Botanical Garden, one of four Oahu gardens that are part of the Honolulu Botanical Gardens system.

Foster, 50 North Vineyard St., (808) 522-7065, contains 4,000 species of tropical flora. On the island's windward side Hoomaluhia Botanical Garden, Luluku Road in Kaneohe, (808) 235-6636, has 400 acres.

In the cool, rainy hills of central Oahu is the Koolau Botanical Garden, 1396 California Ave., Wahiawa, (808) 621-7321.

On the eastern tip of the island are the dry-land plants of rugged Koko Crater Botanical Garden, off Kealahou Street, (808) 522-7060. All are open 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. daily; all are free except Foster Botanical Garden, where admission is $1.

The city's premier art museum is the Honolulu Academy of Arts, 900 South Beretania St., (808) 532-8700, in a gracious, airy building on the fringe of downtown. It is known for, but by no means limited to, its Oriental art. Open Tuesday to Saturday 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.; Sunday 1 to 5 p.m.; a donation of $4 is suggested.

WHERE TO EAT

Roy Yamaguchi's restaurants provide an excellent sampling of regional ingredients. Fans of his flagship Roy's Restaurant, 6600 Kalaniana'ole Highway, (808) 396-7697, in the suburb of Hawaii Kai cheered when he opened Roy's Park Bistro, 1956 Ala Moana Boulevard, (808) 944-4624, this year at the Park Plaza Waikiki Hotel.

The food at the new place may be a notch or two below the original's but that still puts it far above most places in town. Look for abundant island-grown produce and lots of Asian, Cajun and California touches on fresh fish and chicken. Dinner for two with wine at either place costs about $90.

The focus is similar at the Hawaii Prince Hotel's Prince Court Restaurant, 100 Holomoana St., (808) 956-1111, where regional ingredients are combined in gleeful profusion. At dinner, for example, you might choose a salad of duck breast with orange, litchi, poached pear and honey mustard and a main dish of blackened blue ahi tuna with grilled sweet potatoes, jicama, crisp Tabasco onions and wasabi sauce. Dinner for two with wine costs about $100.

Restaurants that serve two divergent cuisines have become a trend in Hawaii. One juxtaposes Italian and Chinese dishes on its menu — for example, broiled prawns with Italian tomato butter sauce listed just before black bean shrimp — and serves them all in Chinese restaurant-platter style.

If that concept and the restaurant's name — Ciao Mein, at the Hyatt Regency Waikiki, 2424 Kalakaua Ave., (808) 923-2426 — pass muster, you'll probably enjoy the food and the attractive atmosphere.

If it's your birthday the waiters and waitresses will sound a Chinese gong, then serenade you with a birthday song to the tune of "Funiculi, Funicula." Dinner for two with wine costs about $70. Dinner only, except for Sunday brunch.

If you want the cuisine of just one country, Thailand, a number of local residents who have had the real thing swear by tiny, informal Pataya Thai, 1614 South King St., (808) 942-7979, and its 20-page menu. Try the shrimp with shredded ginger and pepper sauce, or the southern Thai style Kuruma lamb curry. Dinner for two costs about $30; bring your own liquor.

The Mexican food at La Salsa on Restaurant Row downtown, (808) 536-4828, is not unusual — with the exception, perhaps, of the tofu-filled burritos and tacos. But La Salsa does the old favorites well and at good prices — from $2.25 for a breakfast taco to $9.95 for various combination plates.

There is a smaller branch at Kahala Mall, (808) 732-4042.

For a $10-or-so meal in Waikiki you can line up outside Eggs 'n Things, 1911B Kalakaua Ave., (808) 949-0820. You have to wait omelets, crepes, pancakes or the like, and you have to wait between 11 p.m. and 2 p.m.

WHERE TO STAY

Relatively new on the Waikiki scene is the so-called boutique hotel: smallish, with a goal of providing special touches and personalized service. One is the 93-room Waikiki Joy Hotel, 320 Lewers St., (808) 923-2300 or (800) 733-5569, whose extra features include Jacuzzi baths and Bose stereo systems in all rooms. Doubles cost $125 to $260; rates may rise a bit after mid-December.

The high-rise Queen Kapiolani Hotel, 150 Kapahulu Ave., (808) 922-1941, overlooks Kapiolani Park and is a half block from the beach. Doubles cost from $95 to $130 with kitchenette; after Dec. 17, rates will start at $110.

Budget: The Queen Kapiolani's 73-room sister Waikiki Hana, 2424 Koa Ave., (808) 926-8841, sits behind the huge Hyatt Regency Waikiki; it has no views and small rooms, but is clean and cheerful. Doubles cost from $65 to $95 with kitchenette; after Dec. 17, rates start at $80. For either hotel, you can also call (800) 367-5004.

The Breakers, 250 Beach Walk, (808) 923-3181 or (800) 426-0494, about a block from the beach in Waikiki, wins hearts with low rates in a low-rise setting of tropical flora and old-style atmosphere. All units have kitchenettes; most have lanais or patios. Studio-style doubles cost $88 and $94, and $8 more for a third person.

The Aston Waikikian on the Beach, 1811 Ala Moana Boulevard, (800) 922-7866 or (808) 949-5331, makes up in Polynesian atmosphere what it lacks in modern polish. Doubles cost $72 to $82; after Dec. 21, $87 to $97.

Luxury: The Kahala Hilton, 5000 Kahala Ave., (800) 367-2525, is in an opulent suburb about 5 miles east of Waikiki. The oceanfront hotel, a favorite of the rich and famous, exudes refinement and serenity. Doubles range from $175 for a mountain-view room with no balcony to $495 to a beachfront location.

Learn the art of French cooking — in Paris, of course

By EVERETT POTTER
New York Times Travel Syndicate

PARIS — Chef Alain Villiers, his right hand filled with flour, is at a marble worktable, eyeing his rapeseed oil of American and Japanese students.

"You must throw it," he says, scattering the fistful of flour across the table with a quick flick of his wrist.

"Don't drop it in a pile like housewives do," he scolds. But then he does just that.

Fourteen heads nod in approval. Notes are scribbled in notebooks.

In case anyone doesn't understand Villiers' French, an assistant, Carol Jory, stands to one side, translating his every nuance into English.

If anyone in the room previously dropped their flour in a pile it is doubtful they'll do so again.

After all, a "Chef Pâtissier" of Paris' Le Cordon Bleu, the world's most famous cooking school, has given an explicit instruction.

Founded in 1895, Le Cordon Bleu has long been recognized as "the" school in which to learn the art of classical French cuisine and pastry.

As such, it is a destination for both aspiring professional chefs and ambitious amateur cooks.

The name "Cordon Bleu" actually refers to the blue-silk ribbon on a badge worn by members of the Order of the Holy Spirit, a group founded by King Henry III in 1578.

The feast of this order were so memorable that the appellation "Cordon Bleu" became synonymous with culinary excellence.

Now the courses and recipes of Le Cordon Bleu are widely considered to be the epitome of French cuisine.

Since 1984 the school has been owned by Andre J. Cointreau, a descendant of the founders of Cointreau Liqueur. Under his guidance, the school has been modernized and moved to new quarters in the quiet 15th Arrondissement.

Cointreau has also established three foreign branches — in Tokyo, London and Ottawa.

In addition, he has opened six Cordon Bleu boutiques and tearooms around the world. The newest is at New York's Trump Tower (725 Fifth Ave., New York, N.Y.: 212-308-4067).

Here one can find a selection of honeys, jams, oils, vinegars and instructional videotapes as well as "Le Cordon Bleu at Home" (Morrow, 1992, $37.50), an English-language cookbook.

But to get a real taste of Le Cordon Bleu, it's best to visit the school.

The Paris headquarters has a full-time staff of nine master chefs, amphitheater-style lecture rooms and polished, state-of-the-art teaching kitchens.

Professionals and dedicated amateurs move to Paris to enroll in "The Classic Cycle," the 55-week full-time course to earn the "Grand Diplôme" — at a cost of more than $30,000.

But short-term courses, from three to five days, are designed for Americans only staying a week or so in Paris.

Three-day "Gourmet Sessions" — in subjects such as French Regional Cuisine, Bistro Cuisine and Bread Baking — start at about $602. One-day "workshops" — on topics from Paris Markets to Introduction to French Wines — begin at $33.

Daily demonstrations, from 9 a.m. to 12 p.m., in cuisine and pastry, are open to the public. But they should be reserved at least one day in advance. The cost is $29.

On this particular Thursday morning Villiers is making a classic "mousse fromage blanc," a cake with enough butter, eggs, sugar, cheese and whipped cream to clog one's arteries for life.

Decorated with a thick-cream frosting and topped with an apricot-glazed selection of fresh strawberries, raspberries, kiwis and bananas, it is also delicious.

And Villiers prepares it in only three hours.

Later in the afternoon 10 students in the pastry course assemble in an upstairs teaching kitchen to duplicate what the master wrought.

Villiers oversees all, clucking his tongue, rolling his eyes and correcting mistakes.

There are eggs and cream to be whisked; arms and elbows are worn out. "Hold the elbow next to the body and do it with the wrist," he tells one woman.

"And when my arm gives out?" "Change arms," he says, giving a classic Gallic shrug.

Pastry rises and falls, eggs and cream are too stiff or too soupy, sauces separate and are frantically reunited.

By the time the fruit is put on individual cakes, it is close to 4 p.m.; every cake is exhausted.

The woman with the sore arm compares the entire process to going to the Louvre in the morning and being given a box of watercolors in the afternoon.

But when Villiers nods at her cake, she beams.

Mustangs, Western set to clash

By SCOTT DANIEL
Sports Editor

Tighten those chin straps. Check the pads and lace up the cleats, because the Mustang football team is heading to the state playoffs!

Northville will face WIAA champion Walled Lake Western (9-0) in the first round of the post season Saturday, 1:30 p.m. at Western.

The Mustangs, which finished 6-3, edged out Taylor Truman and Wyandotte Roosevelt high schools to make it as the No. 4 team in Class A's region three. Western was No. 1 in the same region.

Northville will look to avenge a 30-27 loss to the Warriors during the regular season. Coach Darrel Schumacher said his team will have to stop Walled Lake standout running back Arnie Gillert to win.

The coach isn't overstating, either. Gillert ran 42 times in the school's first game for nearly 300 yards.

"He's an exceptional back," Schumacher said. "We've faced a lot of good ones this year, but he's the best.

He's fast, strong and has moves. I don't know what more you could put in a running back."

Gillert isn't the Warriors' only talented runner. Gary Benedict, a senior 6-foot, 171-pounder, provides a tough second back and blocks well for Gillert, Schumacher said.

The coach listed Walled Lake's offensive line as its other strong feature. Western has five linemen over 200 pounds.

"They're all power," Schumacher said. "We've got to do everything we can to stop the running game."

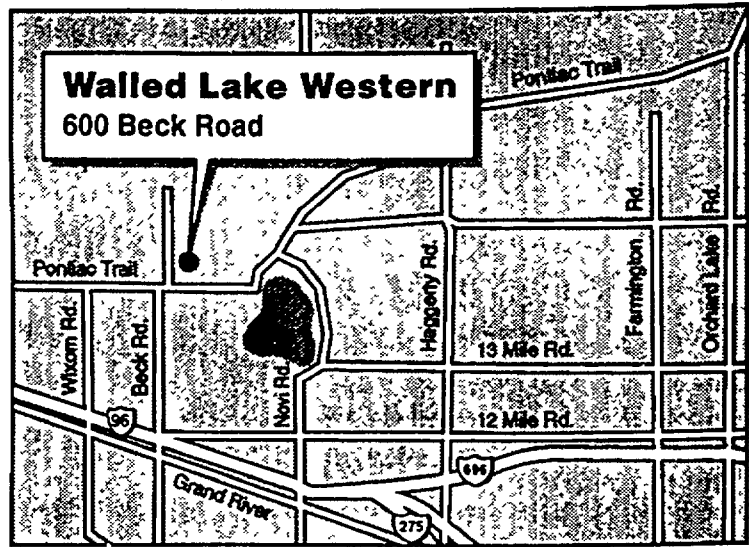

Walled Lake is coached by Chuck Apap, a former Northville assistant coach. Schumacher described the Warrior coach as a good friend.

"He's suffered with those boys since they were sophomores," he said. "But I think he saw the potential and let them develop. I feel really good for Chuck."

Northville is coming off a 32-28 loss to Novi Friday in the annual Baseline Jug game. Regardless of how they got there, Schumacher said his team is happy to make the playoffs.

"This pretty much makes the season," he said. "It gives us something that we accomplished. It's a tribute to our seniors."

Northville features a pretty good running game of its own.

Kevin Shaw ran for 494 yards during the regular season while Rob

Northville High scored an impressive dual-meet swimming victory over Farmington Hills Harrison Thursday 63-30.

The Mustangs won nine of 12 events on a highly emotional night for the team. Seniors Jodi Wesley and Megan Goble, among others, participated in their last Northville home meet.

The meet was stopped about halfway through to introduce seniors to the crowd. Few dry eyes were left on the Mustang sideline.

"It's a very close group," coach Bill Dicks said. "And it's because they all work together."

Northville is now 7-3 overall and 4-3 in the WIAA.

The Mustangs took the first of their victories in the 200-yard medley relay. Rebecca Anderson, Mandy VanHorn, Tammy Cook and Brenda Newton were first in 2:04.10 while the team of Katie Goble, Jill Walro, Julie Tharp and Alicia Doehler placed third in 2:15.10.

Wesley won the 200 freestyle in 2:01.4 and Megan Goble was second with a time of 2:02.60. The 200-yard individual medley saw Northville's Anderson win in 2:24.5. Amy Kohl was third with a time of 2:33.1.

The Mustangs took first and third in the 50-yard freestyle. Newton's 26.59 was a personal best and Katie Rempel was third in 27.2.

Katrina Heckemeyer placed second in diving with a total of 172.3 points. Jamie Farrah was fourth with 125.6.

In the 100-yard butterfly, Anderson took first in 1:06.4. Andrea Moretti was second with a time of 1:06.8.

Cook garnered second place in the 100 freestyle in 59.7 while Daneen Lang was third in 1:01.4. Newton came back for yet another victory, this time in the 500-yard freestyle, with a time of 5:38.7.

Northville took first and third in the 200 freestyle relay. Amy Heckemeyer, Megan Goble, Osborne and Wesley were the winners in 1:46.1 while Tharp, Kohl, Moretti and Lang were third in 1:55.2.

Megan Goble was first in the 100-yard backstroke with a time of 1:04.6. VanHorn got the Mustangs' top finish in the 100 breaststroke with a second-place time of 1:19.1.

Dicks said it wasn't a great meet for Mustangs. But, he added, times will begin to drop with the tapering process more than halfway completed.

"Individually," Dicks said, "girls swam where they should have."

NORTHVILLE 71, NOVI 22: Although they didn't know it, the Mustangs actually gained a measure of revenge against the Wildcats Oct. 27.

Novi took the Baseline Jug from Northville on the football field Friday. But in the pool, the battle of Eight Mile Road belonged to the Mustangs.

Northville used its superior depth to whip the building Novi program. Dicks said the Wildcats are "pretty good" for the stage of rebuilding that they're in.

The Mustangs won every event.

Kohl, Wesley, Cook and Rempel placed first in the 200 medley relay in 2:03.11. Stephanie Keetle, Kelly Walro, Mutsumi Yoshida and Doehler were third.

The 200 freestyle was won by Megan Goble with a time of 2:03.6 and

Harriers close season at regionals

By SCOTT DANIEL

It was an abrupt end for the boys cross country team Saturday as the Mustangs failed to advance from regionals at Marshbank Park in West Bloomfield — but a Northville resident finished first in the race.

Northville High School finished 16th out of 19 squads at the state competition. For the second time this season, the Mustangs' top runner, Jeff Zwiesler, was unable to finish a race.

According to coach Ed Gabrys, the sophomore was forced to stop after the first mile because of dizziness and chest pains. The coach said Zwiesler will undergo testing to determine the problem, if any, later this week.

Redford Catholic Central, Ann Arbor Pioneer and West Bloomfield advanced to state finals. The Shamrocks totaled 68 points while North-

Franklin edges hoopsters 37-36

By SCOTT DANIEL

A single point separated the Mustang basketball team from its first back-to-back victories of the season Thursday night as Livonia Franklin won 37-36.

The Patriots came from a six-point deficit in the final period to take the victory. Although the game was close, coach Bob Shoemaker said the Mustangs were out of it in another way.

"We weren't in the game mentally from beginning to end," he said. "We weren't ready to play. I guess it's my fault because I didn't have them ready to play."

Shoemaker added that it was an ugly game on both sides.

"This was a debacle," he said. "I think Nalmsmith turned over in his grave."

Northville fell behind quickly in the first quarter. Livonia played man-to-man defense and held the Mustangs to just three points in the period.

Shoemaker said his team wasn't executing offensively in the opening frame. Julia Bermingham got the only field goal for Northville.

The Mustangs turned up the fire in the second, however.

Senior Gretchen Sander came alive with six points while Krista Howe added four. Northville led 17-16 at the half.

to that margin in the third with solid defense and some steady offense. Four players scored in the quarter.

That balance evaporated in the final quarter. Northville went ice cold in the fourth with just five points.

"We just missed shots," Shoemaker said. "We couldn't buy a basket."

The coach said he believes his team is better than Franklin.

"We came out and played at their level," Shoemaker said. "It wasn't pretty to watch."

Howe led Northville with nine points, and Beth MacLean had eight. Sander had seven and Lindsay Bacon added six.

NORTHVILLE 50, WESTLAND JOHN GLENN 44: The Mustangs used an overtime period to defeat the Rockets Oct. 27 at home — Northville's first victory on the hill.

Freshman guard Nicole Hayden led the way in OT with four points while Sander and Marci Bolger each had two. It was a good victory for Northville considering the entire front line had fouled out in the fourth quarter.

Northville got several solid performances to fill the void. Bacon scored 11 and grabbed 6 rebounds. Sander had 10 and nine rebounds. Bolger, Karl Krupansky and Hayden each had six.

"Nicole is steady every game," Shoemaker said. "In her quiet way she gets things done. Nothing bothers her."

The Mustangs took a six-point lead into halftime. But Westland fought back in the third, outscoring Northville 19-8.

Northville all but shut the door in the fourth, holding John Glenn to four to force the overtime. Shoemaker said Bolger scored four critical points, including the tying basket, in the fourth and then another huge hoop to start overtime.

Shoemaker said it wasn't a pretty win, but a win nonetheless.

Jug heads north for first time

It's hard to imagine a football game that could be any better than Friday's Baseline Brawl between Northville and Novi.

All of the elements were present. Cold weather, grass (none of that green carpet you see on TV), a large, boisterous crowd and players ready to rock-n-roll. It was football down to its very core.

At stake was the Baseline Jug — that little ceramic beauty created by The Northville Record and The Novi News some years ago to mark the playing of the Brawl each fall.

Northville has held a death grip on the Jug since its inception in 1988. That year, the Mustangs won 23-18. They've retained it each year since by scores of 10-7, 17-0 and 24-14.

Even more important than the Jug, a year's worth of bragging rights were on the line. Let me tell you, these guys wanted bragging rights. It was intense from the outset.

The teams faced each other at midfield for the coin flip. We're not talking just the captains here, folks; both benches went out, hand-in-hand. It was a real show of solidarity.

Northville won the toss and took the ball to start the game. The Mustangs, who have been a passing team in recent years, showed a different style early.

Running back Kevin Shaw pounded away at the Novi defense. The senior ran the ball three times. Shaw and quarterback Danny Walsh alternated running at the Wildcats, mostly going to the outside. Finally, with nearly half of the quarter gone by, Shaw sprinted to the corner of the end zone for a 13-yard touchdown.

Novi took the ball on its own 23-yard line for its first possession.

John Lahti, the 'Cats' fearless passer, hit buddy Randy Naumann on a third-down play to keep Novi's drive alive. Northville's Marc Golden made Naumann pay by getting off a good hit. The Mustang junior then made sure he told Naumann about it, talkin' trash as players like to say.

The Wildcats' drive ended when Walsh intercepted a Lahti pass. The Mustangs made it look like a five-peat was on the way when they took a 13-0 lead before the end of the quarter.

Northville held onto its lead until the fourth quarter.

Down 28-20, Novi owned the final period. As the quarter began, Dennis Zielinski scored on a five-yard run. A two-point attempt failed, and the score was 28-26.

Northville couldn't put Novi away. The Mustangs had two chances after Zielinski's score to do so. The home team could manage only one first down in its final two possessions. The Wildcats stuffed the running game that had been so effective for Northville early on.

Lahti and many of his teammates began their final high school drive on the their own 20-yard line. Fate was definitely on the Wildcats' side.

Novi faced fourth downs twice in the drive. Andy Sill came through the first time, picking up a needed yard. Then with fourth-and-11 yards staring them in the face, Lahti hit tight end Kevin Serra for precisely enough yardage for the first down. The senior quarterback then put a nail in Northville's coffin by scrambling four yards for the game-winning TD with 22 seconds to go.

The scoreboard read, "NOVI 32, NORTHVILLE 28."

That's the way it stayed, too. The Wildcats charged the field when it was over and formed a huge mass surrounding coach John Osborne. The Jug was snatched from the Northville sideline and hoisted high in the air.

And braggin' rights headed north of the border.

The Mustangs have been very effective on the option play late in the season.

"It's our strength right now," Schumacher said.

The coach said he won't change his game plan too much for the big game.

"We'll do what got us there," Schumacher commented.

He added that he doesn't mind playing underdog to Walled Lake.

"We've always played well from the underdog position," Schumacher said. "We never give up a fight. You can't give us an inch because we'll get after it."

ville was a distant 16th at 420.

The race was won in 16:26 by Michael Mittman of Detroit Catholic Central. Mittman is a Northville resident.

Gabrys said conditions were ideal. "It was a great running day," he said. "Wind was no factor."

Nate Kirmis crossed the finish line first for Northville. He ran an 18:26 race. Senior Chris Smith finished his Mustang career with a time of 18:28, 73rd overall.

Mark Ritter was 78th with a time of 18:37. Jim Hansen was 92nd in 18:50 while Rob Kukainis finished in 19:14. Dwight VanTuyt closed the race for Northville with a time of 19:25.

Gabrys said his team might have peaked two weeks prior to the regional.

"We've been on a plateau for the last few weeks," he said. "But they did pretty well."

WLAA MEET: Northville closed its conference season Oct. 28 by finishing eighth.

"We've had better races," Gabrys said. "I thought we could have run better than we did."

Walled Lake Western won the league crown with a total of 53 points. Northville scored 229.

Zweiser was the Mustangs' top finisher at Cass Benton with a time of 18:14. Kirmis and Smith came in a dead heat at 18:15. Kirmis placed 37th overall and Smith was 39th.

Ritter was 52nd overall in 18:53 and Hansen was 65th in 19:07. Kukainis was Northville's sixth finisher in 19:27 and VanTuyt ran a personal best with a time of 19:30.

RESERVE MEET: The Mustangs participated in the annual Redford Union meet Friday. The race is held for runners not going to regionals.

JV COLTS: On Oct. 25, the Northville/Novi Colt football team visited the Redford Rangers for three games.

The freshman team was in control the whole game and won 31-19. The Colts were led by running back Chris Christoff, who scored five touchdowns. Christoff had TD runs of 75, 45, 29, 17 and nine yards. Other offensive stars included quarterback John Gauder and fullback Justin Temple. Darrell Adkins, Chad Neumann, Adam Borashko and Joe Rumbley played well defensively.

Northville/Novi fell 19-18 in the junior varsity game. Lenny Christoff and Tim Burke (two) scored touchdowns for the Colts. Tim Hilliker and Andrew Kelly led in tackles for the JV team.

The varsity Colts fell 20-0 to Redford.

SOCCER:

GIRLS UNDER 10: Northville Express No. 2 beat Farmington No. 1 Oct. 24, 3-0 in its season finale. Amy Guinan, Missy Winn and Emily Carbutt scored for Northville, which took first in its division with an 8-0-0 record.

Northville Arsenal beat Plymouth No. 1 Oct. 24, 1-0. Genna Baldas got the game winner for Northville.

GIRLS UNDER 12: Northville Express and Livonia tied 0-0 on Oct. 20. Julie Duffy, Natalie Thomson and Jeanette Hoefer were MVPs.

Northville Express beat Novi 2-1 on Oct. 24. Lauren Gunn-Boyer and Meredith Hasse both scored for the winners.

GIRLS UNDER 14: Northville United whipped South Lyon 5-1, Oct. 25. Kaissa Moon scored two goals while Angela Bardon, Gina Chasson and Sarah Arndt also scored.

YOGA CLASSES: Seven-week yoga classes are being offered in Northville starting Nov. 2 and running through Dec. 9. Diane Siegel-DiVita, past president of the Yoga Association of Greater Detroit, is the instructor.

The classes will be offered on Thursdays (7-8:30 p.m.) and now Mondays (7-8:30 p.m.) at the Northville American Legion Hall. Yoga effectively trains the body to develop strength, flexibility and balance.

Cost is $32. For more information, call Siegel-DiVita at 344-0928.

CHILDREN'S FITNESS CLASSES: The "Fit-n-Fun Club," for boys and girls (grades 3-5), is now being offered by Northville Parks and Recreation at the Northville Community Center. Designed for the younger set, aerobics, games and activity stations help to strengthen the heart and major muscle groups, plus develop and increase flexibility, strength and stamina. For class or registration information call 348-3120 or 349-0203.

AEROBIC FITNESS CO.: Step, circuit and multi-level aerobics are being offered by the Northville company. All programs are designed by a staff exercise physiologist. Classes are held at St. Paul's Lutheran School (behind Shopping Center Market). Morning and evening classes to fit into your busy schedule. Unlimited classes only $60. Call 348-1280 for more information.

STEP BENCH, AEROBICS AND TONING CLASSES: Register now for the Northville Parks and Recreation/New Attitude Aerobics fitness classes.

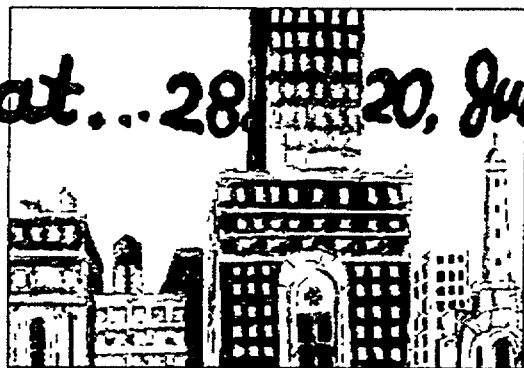

Offered year-round, the program includes: step bench, high- and low-impact aerobics, low impact fatburner aerobics, early bird (5:45 a.m.) workout, and tops and bottoms toning. These safe, effective, easy-to-follow classes are designed with everyone in mind: men and women, all ages and levels of fitness, beginners to advanced. Unique features include flex scheduling (mix and match classes from week to week), child care, personalized instruction, and nationally certified instructors. Call 348-3120 or 349-0203 for further information.

SCHOOLCRAFT HEALTH CLUB: If you're thinking of joining a health club, Schoolcraft College has something for you.

The Livonia Junior college offers a Health Club and a Gym and Swim program. The health club is designed for families to enjoy unstructured activity in a modern, fully equipped physical education facility. A fee of $3 is charged per visit, and you will have the use of gyms, racquetball courts, weight machines and saunas. A membership fee of $25 per individual or $65 per family will cover the entire fall session. The club meets on Sundays from 1-5 p.m. for 26 Sundays beginning Sept. 13.

The Gym and Swim program is offered on Thursdays and on Saturdays from 8 a.m. to noon. This program costs $3 per visit on Thursday and $2 on Saturday, and uses facilities including: the pool, weight training equipment, handball/paddleball courts, gyms and saunas.

Adventure travel, such as white-water rafting, has become very popular of late.

Adventure travel rising yearly

Whether it's the excitement of plunging into white-water rapids, the peace and solitude of a high mountain peak or an evening around the campfire with new friends, adventure travel is attracting more followers each year.

Conventional vacation fare it's not. Instead of breezing through brochures filled with posh accommodations, popular tourist spots and the best restaurants, those planning an adventure vacation usually begin by dusting off the atlas to find out just where in the world their destination will be.

With excursions, tours, locations and trip lengths for every interest, there are literally hundreds of ways to commune with nature these days: family trips, natural history and culture tours, river treks, photo expeditions, field and kayaking schools and adventures built upon specific activities, such as mountain biking, river rafting, fly-fishing, hiking, horseback riding and mountaineering.

One of the hottest issues in the adventure industry today is ecotourism. Based on the principles of environmental travel, Earth-conscious outfitters emphasize minimum impact on the environments and cultures they visit by keeping groups small and practicing sound conservation and environmental principles along the way.

Destinations might include some of the great unspoiled locations of the world that are on the endangered list because of proposed development.

Outfitters are also attracting new business with new destinations, new ships for water-bound adventures and early booking incentives.

Because an adventure vacation demands something of its participants in terms of skill and fitness ability, such getaways usually are graded with activity levels ranging from leisurely to strenuous. This way, outfitters can accommodate a variety of interests — and participants don't have to worry about getting left on the mountain.

Ready for a real-life adventure? Following are just a few of the many trips available:

Adventure Tours

● Jungle Beat: A three-week journey from Mali, Togo and Tanzania from Overseas Adventure Travel offers adventurers a glimpse of two worlds — the rich West African culture and the excitement of a safari in East Africa's best wildlife parks. Itinerary highlights include immersion into the ancient tribal culture of the Mali at colorful festivals and markets, meeting the artistic Dogon people living as they have for 700 years in carved-out caves, relaxing on beaches in Togo and a wild-life safari in the Serengeti.

● Arctic adventure: Gray Line of Alaska offers a two-day stint up north, you'll visit the second largest Eskimo settlement in Alaska and see all the sights: the busy beachfront, where fish and seal meat dry on racks in the time-honored way, and the Living Museum of the Arctic, where you'll learn about Eskimo history and culture.

Nome is next on the agenda, where you'll hear about the great gold rush of 1890 and pan for nuggets yourself. Plan on seeing a sled-dog team in action and shopping for exquisite works in ivory, gold and jade before flying back to Anchorage.

Water Exploration

● Clipping along: Sit back and relax on the posh accommodations aboard the Yorktown Clipper while you take in the spectacular, scenic coastlines of British Columbia and Southeast Alaska with a Clipper Cruise Line trip. This leisurely 15-day cruise begins in Seattle, with stops in Victoria, B.C., Hartley Bay and the Queen Charlotte Islands.

On land, you'll explore the Indian civilizations that once thrived there. While at sea, keep a close watch for whale sightings. Entering the fabled Inside Passage at Prince Rupert, you'll spend the second leg of your journey exploring Alaska's awesome natural beauty — mountains, fjords, glaciers — with occasional stops at small towns and villages.

● Teton Trek: If the lore of the wild West strikes your fancy, saddle up for Outdoor Adventure River Specialists' weekend adventure in the Tetons. From the first morning's departure from Jackson, you'll ride for two days through the lush meadow and pine forests of the Teton Wilderness, glimpsing herds of elk and bighorn sheep grazing in their alpine range.

Then, trade horse for raft and venture down the Snake River from Flagg Range to Jackson Lake for a breathtaking journey through one of the most secluded areas of Grand Teton National Park. Side hikes, riverside lunches, lakeside wildlife, trailside adventure, spectacular fishing and sunrises and sunsets of luminous allure combine to make this one of the most remarkable weeks of your life.

● Amazon exploration: As the world's largest rain forest and most diverse ecosystem, the Amazon leads to daily discoveries for travelers. During Society Expeditions' 17-day trip that combines the Amazon with Venezuela's Orinoco River you can spend your time bird-watching some 200 species of exotic birds, fishing for a lunch of piranha, joining naturalists on jungle nature walks to discover the inhabitants of the rain forest, learning about rain forest destruction and its solutions.

Kidney stones a common problem

Kidney stones are a common problem frequently seen by physicians. Their severity can range from being a minor, once-in-a-lifetime discomfort to being an extraordinarily severe and recurrent source of pain. They may cause severe kidney damage and infection. Fortunately, treatment for kidney stones is excellent.

Kidney stones do, in fact, appear to be small stones. They can be sand or gravel-like or be much larger. They can be irregular, with sharp edges and rock hard. Seventy-five percent of the stones are made of calcium with the next being composed of uric acid, oxalate, cystine and struvite. As the stones develop in the kidney and pass down the ureters (the connection between the kidneys and the bladder), they can cause blockage or tearing and bleeding. This results in pain and blood in the urine. Since the size of the stones determines how much trouble a patient will have in passing one, it is easy to understand why a small stone may cause little discomfort and a large one severe pain.

The causes of kidney stones are many and varied. For instance, some people produce them because they excrete too much calcium in their urine. This may be a problem they were born with. Some people develop them in association with certain ongoing urinary tract infections. Gout may lead to uric acid stones. Operations and diseases which affect the small intestine may affect oxalate absorption and lead to oxalate stones. Drugs, such as triamterene, may act as a small focus around which stones develop. Still, other people get stones for reasons that are not well understood.

The therapy for stones depends on the number, size and frequency with which they occur. A small stone may pass with little difficulty and discomfort. A large stone may require surgery for removal. If the stones are few and occur rarely, simply watching the patient and providing treatment when necessary. If the stones tend to reoccur frequently, drug therapy to decrease their formation may be useful. During an attack, a physician will usually give pain medication and IV fluids to encourage frequent urination and passage of the stone.

Although many blood, urine and X-ray tests are available to help diagnose kidney stones, one of the best methods is to analyze the stones directly. This helps determine the drugs or therapy to be used for prevention. But, it is necessary to have the stone to do this. Anyone passing a stone should save it and take it to their doctor. Frequently physicians recommend straining the urine through a small strainer or cheese cloth so that the stone is not lost.

The last 10 years have seen the development of better surgical techniques for those with severe stone disease. Shock-wave lithotripsy can literally pulverize large stones into smaller bits of sand or gravel and allow easier passage without invasive surgery. Although it is not available at all hospitals, it is frequently available at the larger institutions. Patients can be referred there by their physicians.

Raymond Hobbs, M.D. is medical director and internal medicine physician at the University of Michigan Health Center in Northville. He is also a certified geriatrician. This series is coordinated by Peg Campbell of the U-M Health Center staff.

Mustangs finish 11th at regionals

By SCOTT DANIEL
Sports Editor

An 11th-place finish at regionals Saturday closed the Mustang girls cross country season.

Northville need to place in the top three of the 19-school meet to advance to state finals this weekend. Walled Lake Western, Ann Arbor Huron and West Bloomfield did make it out of the regional held at Marshbank Park in West Bloomfield.

Coach Nick Dunwoodie was pleased with his team's performance. He noted that the top five Mustang runners finished within 1:19 of each other.

"They ran a smart race and stayed together," Dunwoodie said. "They did a good job."

The coach said he gave his team a specific strategy for the race.

"I was trying to convince them to run a conservative first mile," Dunwoodie said, "then really go after the second mile. That seemed to have an effect."

Rachel Liedel made that strategy pay off. The junior ran her best time ever at 21:30 and placed 31st overall.

Mor'ca Nayakwadi was Northville's second finisher (53rd overall) at 22:24. Adrienne Browne was 57 overall with her personal best of 22:32.

Erin Maloney was 62nd in 22:43, while Laura Brown finished in 22:49. Laura Thomas and Sarah Goshorn completed the regional for the Mustangs with times of 23:38 and 23:52 respectively.

WLAA MEET: The conference season ended for the Mustangs Oct. 28. Northville finished 10th out of 12 Western Lakes Activities Association schools.

Dunwoodie described the meet as somewhat of a disappointment. He said a few teams that the Mustangs beat during the dual meet season finished ahead of Northville.

The team was as prepared as they could be, Dunwoodie said in their defense.

"I think they just had an off day," he added.

Liedel was again Northville's fastest runner. She finished in 21:48 for 29th overall. Nayakwadi was next in 22:19, while Maloney ran her personal best in 22:29.

Browne was 55th in 23:05 and Thomas ran a 23:19. Brown ended 62nd at 23:29 while Jodi Clark came in at 24:20.

Former Mustang

Mike Hale, a 1989 Northville High graduate, made news in a recent Saginaw Valley State University game. A junior defensive lineman, Hale blocked a University of Indianapolis punt and then recovered it for a touchdown.

Newton was second in 2:09.3. Anderson took the 200-yard IM in 2:25.4.

Osborne won the 50-yard freestyle in 27.2. Jill Walro was fourth in 29.8.

Amy Christoff's 184 points won the diving event. Lisa Hojnacki was second with 179.9.

Moretti and Wesley combined to take the 100-yard butterfly and 100 freestyle. Moretti won the butterfly in 1:11.1 and Wesley's 58.1 won the freestyle.

In the 500-yard freestyle, Anderson won with a time of 5:53.7 and Jill Walro was second in 6:18.1. Kohl, Moretti, Lang and Julie Tharp won the 200-yard freestyle relay.

Megan Goble too the 100 backstroke and VanHorn the breaststroke. The 400-yard relay team of Newton, Megan Goble, Lang and Wesley won in 4:00.17.

Novi falls twice in KVC

By SCOTT DANIEL
Sports Editor

Brighton High showed just how far ahead of the rest of the KVC it is Thursday by defeating the Wildcat girls basketball team 54-32.

According to coach John Hoffman, his team played a good game. But the Bulldogs, which probably have nine players that could start for any league school, were simply overwhelming, he said.

"We played hard," Hoffman commented. "Defensively, we played just like we wanted to. We didn't give them any easy baskets."

"But sometimes you just play against a team that's far superior."

The loss left Novi at 6-11 overall and 2-9 in the Kensington Valley Conference. The 'Cats play their last conference game on the road tonight against Milford at 7 p.m. and then close the regular season a week from today against Waterford Mott.

Hoffman said a few wins could give Novi some momentum heading into districts on Nov. 16.

"That would be a nice way to go in," he said. "But we will have our hands full against Milford."

The Wildcats traveled to Brighton for the Thursday game.

Hoffman said Novi's game plan was to keep a slow pace. The 'Cats accomplished that strategy in the first quarter, but the Bulldogs took a 9-8 lead nonetheless.

"If you want to run with them you better have nine or 10 people like they do," Hoffman said.

Kristin Kenny and Kelley Barton led Novi with four points each in the first.

Brighton got things more to its liking in the second by scoring 15 points. The Bulldogs led 24-14 at the end of the half.

Brighton's Jenny Angulish did much of the damage in the quarter with eight points. The Bulldogs' all-around player, Sarah Needham, had just three points.

Hoffman said Brighton's pressure defense made it difficult for his team's offense to get untracked.

"Their guards put a tremendous amount of pressure on ours," he added.

Defensively, the coach said Novi wasn't focusing on Needham or any Bulldog in particular. The idea, Hoffman said, was to pack the 'Cats close to the baskets and for Brighton to shoot from the outside.

Kenny came out and played a strong third quarter. She led Novi with six points while Christine Edwards added four.

The Wildcats couldn't mount any kind of comeback against Brighton in the third or fourth quarters, however.

"We just couldn't score besides Kristin," Hoffman said. "Nobody could get anything going."

Home-buying tips

By James M. Woodard
Copley News Service

To find and purchase the best possible home in the shortest time, the following steps are suggested by seasoned real estate professionals:

First, research the area where you will be living, if you're not already familiar with it. Locate the community facilities that affect your lifestyle and needs — preferred schools, churches, shopping center, golf course, etc. And check public transportation lines that lead to your source of employment.

Then consult with the mortgage loan officer at one or several financial institutions, including the bank you have been using. Tell the loan officer you will be purchasing a home in the area and want to be prequalified. In other words, you want to know how much you are qualified to borrow for a new home.

With this knowledge, you will know precisely the price range you can realistically handle, and the amount of down payment that will be required. Normally, the mortgage loan is 80 percent of the price of the home, but it could be a higher loan-to-price ratio if you are willing to pay a surcharge for private mortgage insurance.

Now you're ready to select a Realtor. Be sure the broker or sales representative is familiar with the local market and handling all phases of today's complex real estate transactions. Talk to several Realtors. Ask for resumes and a list of homes in the area they sold.

"One good way to find a capable Realtor is to stop in at a number of 'open houses' on a Sunday afternoon," suggested Susan Herrick, owner of a multi-office real estate brokerage firm.

"It will give the prospective buyer the opportunity to visit with the Realtor without making a commitment. If the Realtor shows he is knowledgeable and helpful, he can be asked to search for the best possible home and assist in its purchase."

This is a particularly good system for first-time home buyers, Herrick said. They need a lot of counseling with a broker with whom they feel comfortable.

Another way to line up a Realtor in a new community is to ask for a referral from the broker who sold the buyer's previous home, said Frank Taylor, an active Realtor

Victorian style Burton offers escape, solitude

By James McAlexander
Copley News Service

Spacious and elegant, the master suite in the Victorian-style Burton is a private world unto itself—a place to escape from both the demands of the outer world and the complex concerns of family living.

Dominating the second floor of this large, two-story home, the suite has a sleeping area equal in size to the living room. A wide bay window, which could easily accommodate a couch and/or a couple of easy chairs, bathes one end of the room in natural light. And a fireplace allows owners to watch the flicker of firelight play across the ceiling as they drift off to sleep.

The rest of the suite includes a huge walk-in closet, a dressing room with double vanities and a private bath. The skylit bathroom has both an oversize spa/tub and a separate shower.

Two more bedrooms share another skylit bathroom, which also has compartmentalized twin vanities. Access to the long, narrow (10-by-13-foot) attic storage space located over the garage, is through the back bedroom.

The living room, like the master bedroom, has a wide bay window and a fireplace. Built-in bookcases fill part of the back wall, as well as part of one wall in the den/office.

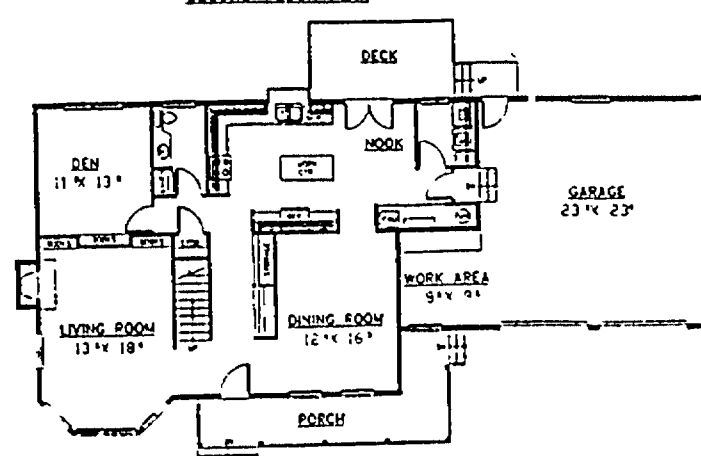

Amenities in the comfortable country kitchen include a central work center, a garden window and an eating nook with double glass doors that open onto a deck.

A closet provides extra storage in the vaulted entryway and the two-car garage has space for a work area, complete with workbench.

For a study plan of the Burton (400-38), send $5 to Landmark Designs, c/o HomeTown Newspapers, 323 E. Grand River Ave., Howell, MI 48843. (Be sure to specify plan name and number when ordering.)

SECOND FLOOR PLAN

OVERALL DIMENSIONS: 72'-0" X 34'-0"
LIVING: 2381 square feet
GARAGE: 649 square feet

Elaine Kuehni relaxes on the sofa, in her finished basement while 18-month-old Brittlind Wellman and Annette Hoehcherl play.

The basic basement

Has your family room become more of a recreational play room for the kids?

Is the den in a state of disarray, buried under household bills, junk mail and school papers?

Are the door hinges about to burst open from your overfilled closets?

If you answered "yes" to any of these scenarios, it may be time to add more living space to your home. And an obvious solution can be found right under your nose...or better yet, under your house.

The basement. With consumers' growing interest in specialty rooms—a spa, a wet bar, an office or maybe a second recreation room, for example—finished basements are becoming an important part of home design planning.

Brighton residential designer Carl Roberts, a licensed builder for 20 years, said finished basements can be a nice solution for expanding.

"Most people don't put a lot of priority in the basement, but it can offer very usable space," he said.

By finishing off the basement, Roberts said you can almost double the square footage of your home. He's even known some people who have turned their basements into small apartments for their college-age students or elderly parents.

As long as your basement has good drainage and is not located near a high water table or heavy clay soils, the possibilities are endless, he said.

"Most of Washtenaw County has heavy clay soils and a large majority of Salem Township has a high water table—you're lucky to get a crawl space," Roberts said. "But Livingston County is real fortunate. Most of the soil is a sand type which is the best for drainage."

Before investing lots of money into finishing your basement, Roberts advises homeowners to have a soil boring taken to determine if the ground is suitable.

GARDENING

Fall chore primer

By C.Z. Guest
Copley News Service

November always brings a nip to the air. However, there are many timely chores still to be done in the garden.

Bulbs, corns and tubers of tuberous cannas, glads and dahlias must be dug up after frost has killed the tops. Just let them dry for a few days before storing in peat, dry sand or vermiculite. Store in a cool (45 F to 50 F), dry storage place, such as a garage or basement.

Winterize your roses after the first killing frost. Begin by piling 8 to 10 inches of soil around the canes, then cut the canes back to 14 to 18 inches so the wind can't whip them around.

Clean up fallen rose leaves and other debris, prune and destroy diseased, dead or damaged canes to reduce next season's insect and disease problems.

Clear dead and dying annuals and the dead tops of perennials out of the borders and flower bed.

Cut all iris leaves to about 4 inches in a fanlike fashion and destroy any rhizomes that show signs of the iris borer. Borers are pink plum caterpillars that tunnel into the iris rhizomes, which become soft and mushy with bacterial rot. The adult borer lays his calling card (eggs) on the iris leaves in late summer and early fall, so removing the leaves eliminates eggs that would hatch to become next year's menace.

Gather and destroy all fallen fruits and take up leaves of flowering crab apples and apples to reduce the carry-over of disease and insect problems, such as scab and apple maggot.

No pruning now of spring flowering shrubs and trees except to remove diseased, dead or damaged branches. Remember, the flowers for next year's blooms have already formed and pruning now would only remove them!

C.Z. Guest is a gardening authority whose work appears in House and Garden and author of numerous books and videos, including "Five Seasons of Gardening" (Little, Brown and Co.)

and local Board of Realtors president.

The referred Realtor can do a lot of valuable preliminary work for the family before they make their first inspection trip. Taylor said, "He can send a pack of information about the community, along with a sampling list and description of available homes and their price. This will expedite the process significantly."

When the right home is found, the key question usually centers on the price that should be offered. The offered (and purchase) price is seldom the listed or asking price. On average, the sale price is about 94 percent of the asking price.

If you, the buyer are unsure about a realistic price to offer for a home, the Realtor can quickly generate a computerized list of comparable homes in the area that have sold within the past six months or so, along with their sales prices. This will make you more comfortable about your offered price, and it can be used (if needed) to persuade the seller the offered price is reasonable.

Once the offer is accepted, the transaction breezes through a fast and smooth escrow, culminating with smiling faces around the closing table. At least, that's the way it should be.

Unfortunately, problems do crop up from time to time, even after the sale is closed. Several elements in the home may cease to operate properly a few weeks after the purchasing family moves in.

In most cases, it's the new owners responsibility to pay for the repairing or replacement of the defective element, unless the seller purchased a home warranty contract covering the home for a year after the sale. These warranties, or home protection plans, are becoming more common and expected by buyers in today's market.

Another interesting scenario: What if the new owner discovers after moving in that the home was the site of a terrible crime or other event that could adversely affect its value? If such an event is a matter of fact and it could indeed affect the home's value, it's the broker's legal obligation to disclose this information to the buyer.

There's often a fine line between things that should and should not be discussed by the broker. For example, if an infamous death took place within the past three years, it should be disclosed according to Realtor Frank Taylor. If the event took place in the more distant past, it is generally assumed it will not affect the property's value.

"In most cases, it's best to disclose everything," Taylor stressed. "A lack of disclosure could result in a law suit, with all its hassles and monetary risks. Everyone loses in a law suit, except the attorneys."

Q. Is there a mortgage loan plan available that allows a buyer to pay only 3 percent down payment?

A. A plan is now offered by many mortgage lenders throughout the country that would allow low- and moderate-income families to purchase a home with only 3 percent down payment. It actually calls for a 5 percent cash down payment, but 2 percent of that amount may come from a grant, gift or unsecured loan.

It's often a gift or loan from parents or other family member.

These loans can now be sold by primary lenders to secondary buyers, so many banks and other financial institutions now offer them. To qualify, a borrower's income may not exceed 115 percent of the area's household median income. And borrowers must receive counseling on homebuying and home maintenance.

Questions may be used in future columns; personal responses should not be expected. Send inquiries to James M. Woodard, Copley News Service, P.O. Box 190, San Diego, CA 92112-0190.

"Basements are damp and cold," Roberts said. "You have to take special care to make it enjoyable and comfortable. Otherwise, it's just not worth it."

If the soil conditions are right, the first step in finishing your basement is to choose a good design.

Ask yourself these key questions first: How do you want the basement space to function? What appearance (views, windows, structure points, physical conditions) are you after? And how much money do you want to spend?

After you've determined what exactly it is that you want to do to your basement, do your homework.

If changes are being made to the outside of your home, a building permit may be needed. If you're adding a bath, the health department may require you to increase the size of your drainage field. If you're doing excavating work for a walk-out area, you may need a grading permit. And if you're adding a bedroom, your plan will have to adhere to fire-safety codes.

"Often times, people go through a plan and then find out they can't do the project," Roberts said. "Do your research before you begin actual work. Common sense goes a long way."

If you're establishing separate rooms and putting up walls, Roberts said that you have to determine what load-bearing walls, I-beams and stanchions are essential structurally, and what structure points, if any, can be relocated. Some walls may serve as partitions and can be torn down for openness.

"The basics have to be correct," he said. "I would steer away from major structural changes."

"In pre-planning a new home, you have the luxury of getting a sense of where you want to place the pool table or the ping pong table," Roberts continued. "And you can establish positions for posts or stanchions appropriately or specify heavy I-beams to expand larger distances and open areas."

While walk-out basements are ideal as they provide good ventilation, plenty of light, and usable space, basements with well windows or no windows at all can be altered for optimum use. Every site has its own circumstances and conditions.

Glass door walkouts can be dug out or egress windows (5-7 square feet in size designed for fire-safety codes) can be installed to let the light in.

If your basement is very cold and damp, Roberts said there are wonderful insulation and waterproofing systems available.

He recommends wolmanized treated lumber be used as the bottom plate of all walls because it doesn't rot out as easily as regular wood types.

In terms of humidity, Roberts said underground heating ducts are usually the best.

Underground heating, combined with a good quality carpet and double-thick foam padding, will make the temperature much more even and comfortable from floor-to-floor, he said.

If you're planning to hire a contractor to remodel your basement, ask for a couple of references first. Roberts said contractors generally charge 20 percent of the total project cost—including materials.

"A good, reputable contractor is everything," he said.

Will vandalism turn our forests into an endangered species?

The destruction of signs, public facilities and campsites in our nation's forests says one thing loud and clear.

Respect doesn't grow on trees. It must be cultivated.

From camper to hiker. Parent to child. Generation to generation.

The sad truth is unless we begin to help people appreciate the forest for the priceless gift it is, something valuable will be lost. Our access to it.

Give a hoot.  Don't pollute.

Forest Service, U.S.D.A.

Nadene Donohue's Decorating Den brings interior decorating to your doorstep with a truckload of samples.

Decorating Den brings choices into your home

By ANNE SEEBALDT-GOGOLIN
Special Writer

Nadene Donohue, owner of a local Decorating Den franchise, works six days a week to bring color, style and grace into her clients' homes through her custom decorating business.

"Interior decorating was always something I wanted to do... Decorating Den was the best avenue (for me)," Donohue said.

The unusual aspect of Donohue's business is that she brings decorating samples, pictures of her work and numerous decorating and furniture catalogs right to the clients in their own homes.

"I feel it's really the only way to decorate... to see in your lighting and with your furnishings what it would look like," Donohue explained. "The colors look different in the store. I go to you. My van is fully equipped with over 300 samples."

Donohue believes that mobile decorators bring two major advantages to their clients: convenience and aesthetic accuracy.

Many of her clients are too busy to take the time to visit local warehouses and outlets to find the perfect decorating items. Donohue has access to numerous warehouses and wholesalers. She passes this convenience and the savings on to her customers.

"I'm not a high-cost decorator,"

"I feel it's really the only way to decorate... to see in your lighting and with your furnishings what it would look like. The colors look different in the store. I go to you. My van is fully equipped with over 300 samples."

Nadene Donohue
Decorating Den franchisee

"I can visualize really well," she said.

Once she gives customers an idea through her drawings what the finished project would look like they are more likely to enjoy decor experimentation.

"A lot of times my job is to make the customer feel comfortable with it (change)... I really do try to help people choose things that they will feel comfortable with it 10 years from now."

Although Donohue enjoys more traditional decorating materials and furniture in her own home, she said, "I love decorating in all different styles — modern, contemporary or traditional."

Donohue said that Decorating Den has 1,200 franchises throughout the United States, the United Kingdom, Australia, Japan, Canada and Mexico. Decorating Den has 34 Michigan franchises.

Donohue added that Decorating Den's extensive training program, combined with art coursework and her bachelor's degree in business management, has helped to make her business a success.

"There are more jobs than I can even go out on," she said.

she added. She charges no consultation fees. "I can do one window (treatment) or a whole room. The budget is one of the first things I ask because I can work within any budget that's reasonable for custom-made products."

Donohue said she will then show customers the nicest and most appropriate items available within their budget. This is not a difficult process, she explained, because there are beautiful decorating supplies in all price ranges.

The services Donohue provides include custom-designed window treatments, accessories, bedspreads and pillows that coordinate with the rest of the finished room and upholstery. If any construction or renovation work needs to be done, Donohue will direct her customers to an appropriate contractor. In addition, Donohue lends her expertise to room floor plans, placement and general decorating advice.

Donohue described the decorating process as being comprised of three steps: an initial consultation and recommendations, searching out appropriate materials and installation/decoration.

Donohue said that she makes decorating recommendations "once I start asking questions and find out what the budget is."

The consultation and recommendation process is very important, she added. She determines customers' likes and dislikes and frames the rest of the decorating process accordingly.

During this process, Donohue helps people experiment with color schemes more than they would if they did all the decorating work themselves.

Money Management

Consider services and rates when bank shopping

To select the bank that is right for you, the Michigan Association of Certified Public Accountants recommends you shop around for a financial institution that offers services tailored to your needs, and that you evaluate each product or service individually.

FINANCIAL INSTITUTIONS

Consider placing your money so that it is insured by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. (FDIC). FDIC-insured banks protect up to $100,000 of your deposits. Each FDIC-insured institution is examined regularly to check the adequacy and liquidity of its reserves and the soundness of all operational practices.

Don't confine yourself to looking at one kind of financial institution. Many commercial banks, known primarily for making business loans and providing business and industrial property mortgages, offer traditional savings accounts as well as consumer loans and home mortgages. Although interest rates on savings vehicles may be slightly less than those offered by thrifts, a commercial bank may offer you more services.

Thrift institutions have also expanded their range of services. Originally formed to encourage savings by individuals and to foster home ownership by issuing home mortgages, they now offer checking accounts and business loans, not unlike those offered by commercial banks.

Credit unions offer many of the same services as banks. Savings accounts opened through credit unions frequently pay a slightly higher interest rate than similar accounts opened at banks and other thrifts. Credit unions also offer share draft accounts that resemble the checking accounts avail-

Recently, loans for homes and other major purchases have been added to the more traditional list of auto, home improvement, and general purchase loans offered by credit unions.

A LOOK AT CHECKING ACCOUNTS

Don't waste your dollars on hefty service fees for checking accounts. Most banks will waive service fees if you maintain a minimum balance. Since you won't be earning interest on the balance of your checking account, it's best to find one that requires a low minimum balance — anything under $500 is a good deal.

NOW accounts — or interest-bearing checking accounts — are offered by both commercial banks and thrifts. Generally, in order to earn interest on your account, you must maintain a minimum daily balance. If you go below the minimum, most banks will charge you a service fee. However, the service fee is usually minimal and may be more than offset by the interest you can earn on your money.

Unlike a regular or NOW checking account which require a minimum balance, a non-minimum account generally involves a monthly fee and a per-check charge that makes it a good choice only if you write very few checks.

SELECTING A SAVINGS VEHICLE

As you consider the many different savings vehicles financial institutions offer, do so with an eye toward three important factors: risk, liquidity and yield.

For example, a passbook or statement savings account is completely liquid — meaning you can readily put your hands on the cash. Certificates of Deposit (CDs), on the other hand, require you to maintain your deposit in the account for a fixed period, generally three months to 10 years, but pay a higher rate of interest than the passbook account.

Money market accounts, another short-term savings option, have no interest-rate ceilings. Interest rates are adjusted periodically, and you can make unlimited deposits and withdrawals. However, money market accounts require significantly larger deposits than CDs — usually a minimum of $2,500.

OTHER BANK SERVICES

In identifying a bank to meet your needs, CPAs recommend you select one that offers services to help you meet your short- and long-term savings goals.

Commercial glut slows lending

Little increase in commercial building activity has accompanied declines in construction loan interest rates and rates on post-construction take-out (mortgage) loans.

Financial institutions continue to maintain tight lending policies.

Many commercial builders are sitting on the sidelines because vacancy rates hover around 20 percent in offices, in excess of 10 percent in shopping centers.

Builders who dare to venture into overbuilt retail and office market find that they must pump more of their own money into projects than was required several years ago.

"The willingness of lenders to lend has been substantially tightened up," said Richard Roeser, president of Beauchamp & Roeser Development of Birmingham. "Basically, their ratio of reserve requirements makes it less desirable."

That set-aside requirement, which has risen from 3 to upwards of 8 percent of the value of commercial construction loans from savings and loans, has driven First Federal of Michigan totally out of the market, said Donald G. Franck, commercial loan manager for that institution.

"It's a policy decision our bank has made," Franck said. "When we have to set aside $80,000 (on a $1 million loan), it's something you can't use for other purposes."

"We have gone totally residential," he added. "We'll do, on a very limited basis, subdivisions because that complements residential (mortgage) lending."

Besides, residential construction loans require only a 4-percent set-aside.

Commercial construction loans usually are pegged one to two percentage points higher than the prime interest rate — what institutions charge their most creditworthy borrowers. The prime was at 9 1/4 percent in January 1991, 6 percent recently.

Construction loans, generally in effect 12 to 24 months, are repaid with take-out balloon mortgages ranging from five to 10 years issued by insurance companies and pension funds. Those rates currently are holding at about 9 to 10 percent, down slightly from 18 months ago. NBD has money to loan, but isn't finding many takers, said David Fellingham, a vice president in the commercial real estate construction division.

"It doesn't make any difference what the rates are. When it comes down to it, there isn't much demand for office or retail at this time," he said.

If anything, NBD has scrutinized end-loan funding more in recent years than in the past, Fellingham said. And pension funds are making more demands on borrowers, requiring builders to pump in more equity.

The key variable is availability of take-out funding — mortgages to take over after construction is completed to pay off construction," Fellingham said.

Michigan National Bank, headquartered in Farmington Hills, has "a limited amount of money available," said Farris Kalil, senior vice president in charge of commercial real estate.

"Because we have an over-supply of buildings already, there's not a lot of demand, first of all," Kalil said.

"No question banks are funding more conservatively. If someone were to come in and said they wanted to do a strip center but they had no tenants in advance — first off, no one is making that request, and if you did you probably wouldn't get a positive response."

Standard Federal Bank, headquartered in Troy, hasn't been in the commercial construction loan business in recent memory, said William Yaw, its spokesman.

"We're focused on single-family residential," Yaw said. "Our expertise is residential loans . . . and construction loans for builders who already have land loans in place."

"It's not to say there aren't any loans available for certain deals for certain builders, but the availability of construction loans has been reduced from five years ago," Roeser said.

Sam Walker, director of development for The Fox Companies of Detroit, has a little different view.

"From my perspective, there's plenty of money out there. Underwriting criteria (are) totally different. There's a much more conservative approach by lenders. For retail centers, they want very solid tenants with a fully leased up situation or close to it."

"Real activity will begin when folks that provide debt become more comfortable, more protected by a program like a federal co-guarantee of a loan," Walker said. "Some of it (lack of activity) is market driven. That's clear. What I've seen, a lot is driven by the lending environment."

Business Briefs

THE JARVIS B. WEBB CO. announced the selection of John Wojtyas as Quality Achiever of the Month.

Wojtyas resides in New Hudson and has been employed by the Webb company for nine years. He currently holds the position of assistant project engineer in the Electrical Engineering Department. After receiving formal Quality Training, Wojtyas facilitated the quality work group training for his department and has been a member of two quality work groups designed to address improvement opportunities.

Wojtyas has been involved in creating procedures for his department to ensure that requirements are clearly understood. A zero-defect attitude and conformance to requirements are a part of what Wojtyas calls, "Just doing my job."

Area Realtor hosts fire safety display

Coldwell Banker Schweitzer Real Estate of Northville hosted a Be Fire Safe day during National Fire Prevention Week.

The Northville Township Fire Department brought in its "Smoke House" along with EMS and fire trucks for all to inspect. Al Fadool also brought his dalmation Sparkey to pose for pictures.

The event was organized by Tony Hall, Linda Gasparotti and Betty Rominski.

Chuck Fast, manager of the Coldwell Banker Schweitzer office said, "We'd like to thank the community for (its) overwhelming response to the Be Fire Safe program. Over 600 people toured the EMS unit, fire trucks, the Fire Safe house and had their fingerprints taken. I'd also like to thank the Northville Police Department and the Northville Township Fire Department for their overwhelming support in this effort."

EATING RIGHT CAN HELP REDUCE THE RISK OF CANCER.

It can also help you reduce your weight.

And since a 12-year study shows that being 40% or more overweight puts you at high risk, it makes sense to follow these guidelines for healthy living!

Eat plenty of fruits and vegetables rich in vitamins A and C—oranges, cantaloupe, strawberries, peaches, apricots, broccoli, cauliflower, brussel sprouts, cabbage. Eat a high-fiber, low-fat diet that includes whole-grain breads and cereals such as oatmeal, bran and wheat. Eat lean meats, fish, skinned poultry and low-fat dairy products.

Drink alcoholic beverages only in moderation.

For more information, call 1-800-ACS-2345.
