

New board begins to set agenda

By SHARON CONDRON
Staff Writer

An enthusiastic new Township Board met Thursday to draft a long laundry list of issues and concerns.

That list spanned everything from sewer projects and contracts, to improving communication, to the idea of sharing township services with nearby municipalities.

Township Supervisor Karen Baja opened the board's study session by asking members to consider a resolution that could pave the way toward a shared-services agreement with four neighboring communities.

Baja asked board members to read through the draft document, which asks the cities and townships of Northville, Plymouth and Canton to make a "political commitment" to discuss a joint services program.

"There has never been a political commitment from all five of these communities at the same time, or for any two for that matter," she said.

But now she says that's changed. The other municipalities have agreed to sit down and talk about sharing police, fire, library, water and sewer, recreation, dispatch and other related services.

The notion found favor with board Treasurer Rick Engelland.

"I think it's outstanding," he said in response to the shared-services idea. "It is indicative of a new spirit. And we've got a good commitment."

Engelland's comments echoed the sentiment in the room and reiterated the new board's commitment to an open-door policy.

Trustee Russell Fogg echoed other residents' interest in rekindling Northville 2000, the citizen's study group, and asked for continued monitoring of the Western Townships Utilities Authority sewer project.

"That just needs a total ongoing evaluation, and we need to do some spot checks on property acquisitions," he said.

Christmas candy

Well, maybe it doesn't really have anything to do with the onset of the holiday season. Whatever the reason, Grand Ma Betty's Sweets-N-Treats was swamped once again last Wednesday.

One in 25 million

Local man wins second-biggest prize

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

Twenty years of playing the lottery paid off for a Northville resident Dec. 2, when he won Michigan's fifth-largest lottery jackpot ever.

The $25-million jackpot was also the second largest single prize ever won in the state.

The local resident won the entire $25,805,336 jackpot Lotto 47. He collected a check for his first $1,291,536 installment Thursday, and is scheduled to receive 19 more annual payments of $1,290,000.

Of course, that's before taxes. This was not the Northville man's only win, either, though it dwarfs his recent $350 hit on "Cash 5," said Lottery spokesperson Kerry McNulty.

The 45-year-old Northville man has requested anonymity, McNulty said Thursday, but he did talk with Lottery officials about the win.

"He was checking his numbers over a bowl of popcorn that he never got to finish," she said. The man's winning combination, which he picked himself after looking at previous winning numbers in the newspaper, was 3, 17, 22, 36, 37, 40.

McNulty said the winner began calling the Lansing lottery office about 6 a.m. Thursday, and finally got through at 7:45 that morning.

"He came in with his family about two hours of sleep last night," she added. "He had kept the ticket in his pocket, close to him all night."

Northville Wine Shoppe owner Jeff Shaoni is interviewed by television reporter John Klekamp last Thursday, after his store sold the only winning ticket in Michigan's $25-million Lotto drawing.

McNulty said the winner's family listened to a local radio station's call-in talk show the morning after the win, as callers told WJR host J.P. McCarthy what the winner should do with his money.

"The family was giving the thumbs up or thumbs down to the ideas as they came in," McNulty said.

The winner apparently needs little advice on how to spend his winnings, having already decided to use at least part of this year's installment on Christmas presents, including a new horse for his daughter, and donate some to charity.

The announcement capped a run on ticket sales across the state, as the lottery took in $12.3 million in sales in the five days before the winning number was drawn.

Wednesday night's win was just the latest in a string of winning tickets sold by the Northville Wine Shoppe at 680 Eight Mile Road, said store owner Jeff Shaoni.

A Redford man who has since moved to Ohio purchased a $2-million winner on Oct. 2, 1991, while Shaoni himself just sold a winning "Cash 5" ticket worth $100,000 to another Northville resident on Oct. 30, 1992.

"The funnest thing was, the guy who won the $2 million was here yesterday from Ohio," Shaoni said Thursday. "He comes from Ohio to buy his lottery tickets here."

Shaoni picked ticket sales at his store have slowed up considerably since the record win. "We were busy in the morning and we were busy in the afternoon," he said. "It stayed busy until 7 o'clock. We had a line from the counter to the cooler."

Like the stores that received lottery tickets, Shaoni's sold state lottery tickets, Shaoni's received just six cents for selling the winning ticket — the same amount he received for every lottery ticket sold.

Board denies resident request in loud exchange

By STEVE KELLMAN

A Dec. 2 city Board of Zoning Appeals hearing turned into a shouting match when the BZA rejected Laura Lorenzo's request to overturn city approval of culverts south of her Galway Drive home.

Lorenzo, a Novi planning commissioner, blames culverts in Singh's Pheasant Hills subdivision for flooding in her backyard. She has pointed to the city's Article 19, which requires that the flood capacity for all altered or relocated watercourses "designed to insure flood carrying capacity" shall be maintained.

City officials have argued that the culvert was installed correctly and that Article 19 does not apply to the watercourse. They also have pointed out that Lorenzo's property can be expected to flood because it lies within a floodplain.

Lorenzo's Dec. 2 hearing, termed "raucous" by BZA Member Rolland Stapleton, was her second before the BZA and the latest of many before city boards and commissions in her two-year quest to alleviate that flooding, which she argues is caused by a restrictive culvert installed under Mill Pond Court. Her case has generated reams of official correspondence among the city, Singh, Oakland County Drain Commission, Michigan Department of Natural Resources and the Federal Emergency Management Agency.

She was on the verge of taking her complaint to court in September when an attorney suggested she approach the BZA one last time. That request resulted in the Dec. 2 hearing, at which the board unanimously rejected her request.

ing, at which the board unanimously rejected her request.

"The real question we were called upon to decide was whether Article 19 applied," Stapleton said. "It seemed clear to me that the article did not apply."

Lorenzo said she was not surprised by the decision, though the board's treatment of her case did disappoint her.

"I found it particularly interesting myself that they didn't hold any discussion before the vote. They just listened to the presentations and voted," she said. "It's just a rubber-stamp operation, and that's not the way it's supposed to be."

Lorenzo's persistence may spur changes in Northville's ordinance faster than replacement of the culvert. FEMA official Janet Odeschoo sent the city a letter Nov. 9 strongly suggesting that the city amend Article 19 to more closely match FEMA's own floodplain management criteria. Odeschoo said Article 19's use of the word "designed" is too ambiguous to allow us to say it means that any watercourse's flood carrying capacity must be maintained.

Odeschoo said FEMA wanted a response within 90 days.

City Manager Gary Word said the city will review FEMA's recommendation and may change its ordinance. But he said that the change would not necessarily support Lorenzo's argument that the city's original decision was wrong.

"I'm not going to concede that they're right or that Laura's right, or even that the city's right," he said, "just that we followed proper procedures at the time."

Board members eye commission posts

By SHARON CONDRON
Staff Writer

When Township Supervisor Karen Baja handed down her recommendations for the board's committee assignments Thursday night, the only trustee without a job to do was Trustee Barbara O'Brien.

But Baja was quick to remedy that by obliging O'Brien's request to sit on either one of the joint services committees that could form if a shared-services agreement is reached between neighboring communities.

As expected, Baja recommended Trustee Russ Fogg as the board liaison to the Planning Commission, and Gini Britton to the Zoning Board of Appeals. Clerk Sue Hillebrand will sit on the Water and Sewer Commission, while Treasurer Rick Engelland will be the link between the board and the Recreation Commission.

In Baja's absence, trustee Mark Abbo will be the designated delegate to the three-person Western Townships Utilities Authority board.

Her recommendations are expected to be approved at Thursday's board meeting. There the board will also appoint 11 residents from the 25 resumes they received for vacant slots on various township committees.

"We got some beautiful applications from people who want to sit on these committees," Engelland said.

The number of vacancies, Baja said, is primarily the result of the November election, which swept some of the boards' members out of office. Other seats have opened up because their terms have expired.

Rebecca Connell, who ran unsuccessfully for a Township Board seat, was there Thursday to show her interest in a committee seat.

"I'm interested in the community and where it's going," she told the board.

Two openings exist on the Planning Commission and two more on the Zoning Board of Appeals. The Board also needs to fill three new members. The board also needs to fill two seats on the Northville Youth Assistance board, and the Senior Advisory Council and the Beautification Commission each need one appointee.

Those appointments are still being considered and are expected to be made at the board's first official meeting Thursday.

When is the best time to call a physician?

Before you need one!

No matter how healthy you are, anyone can fall victim to an unexpected accident or sudden illness. When that happens, it's nice to have a personal physician you can turn to. Someone who knows your medical history and can promptly respond to your needs.

Finding the right physician isn't easy. That's why St. Mary Hospital offers a no cost, no obligation, physician referral service. Our representatives can help you find the right physician specialist near your home or work who has convenient office hours and accepts your insurance plan. If you desire, you can even be connected to the physician's office for an appointment.

Best of all, the physician is affiliated with St. Mary Hospital of Livonia. St. Mary has been serving the community with the same spirit of Christian dedication since 1959.

So, before you look for a physician in the yellow pages, or compile a confusing list of names and telephone numbers from friends, call:

News Briefs

WOOLY TREE: Similar to mitten trees, Woolly Trees are Community Federal Credit Union's way of helping the needy to keep warm this winter. Each year at this time, we become more aware of the needs of others. So the credit union enlists the support of surrounding communities to gather warm, woolly items for those in need.

Community Federal members and non-members alike are being offered the opportunity to donate hats, scarves, gloves, mittens, socks, etc., along with a non-perishable or canned foods. These items, both for adults and children, will be placed on or under the Christmas trees inside each Credit Union office. At the end of the holiday season, all items will be donated to local agencies such as the Red Cross and Salvation Army.

Woolly Trees can be found at your local Northville Community Federal Union Office on Main Street. Call 455-0400 or 453-1200, ext. 28 for more information.

ORNAMENT PROGRAM: The Northville Public Library will hold a Patchwork Ornament Making program at 7 p.m. Wednesday, Dec. 9.

The workshop is open to anyone, including adults, grade 6 and up. To register, visit the library or call 349-3020.

COATS AND CLOTHES FOR KIDS: Northville Kiwanis Early Birds along with Northville High School's Students Against Driving Drunk and Students Aware of the World are collecting coats and clothes for needy kids.

Any community member interested may drop items off at the Northville High School Counseling Office until Monday, Dec. 21. To help sort and inventory, please put in a garbage bag and include a list of items donated.

MEALS HELP NEEDED: Meals-on-Wheels, the volunteer drivers' service that takes prepared meals from Allen Terrace to homebound persons throughout the Northville area, is in need of a Monday driver and kitchen helper at this time.

Meals are usually ready to be delivered by 11 a.m. Kitchen helpers need to come in around 10:30. If you feel you could help at this time, call Marcie between 10:30 a.m. and 1 p.m. weekdays at 349-9661 or Judy at 348-1761.

STATE PARK PERMITS ON SALE: The 1993 annual permits have arrived at Maybury State Park. The $18 motor vehicle permits allow entrance to the park for the entire year. The permits can be purchased at the park office Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, between 8 a.m.-5 p.m. The office is located off the park's Beck Road entrance. The mailing address is 20145 Beck Road, House 2, Northville, MI 48167.

People who have purchased a daily pass for $3.50 can turn it in or send it in within three days for a $3.50 discount off an annual pass.

For more information, call the park at 349-8390.

FESTIVAL PHOTOS WANTED: The Northville Community Chamber of Commerce keeps a photo album of the annual Victorian Festival, and it's looking for contributions.

Anyone with photos they would be willing to donate from the 1992 festival is asked to drop them off at the chamber office. If you stop by outside of office hours, they may be put in the mailbox. Photos of any of the festival activities are welcome.

NORTHVILLE SHIRTS: Brightly colored and very attractive Northville T-shirts and sweatshirts are now available at the Northville Parks and Recreation Department.

This year's shirts feature teal or maroon T-shirts for $12 each, and gray sweatshirts at $18 apiece. Act fast and you can be the first person in your neighborhood to display your support for the Northville community.

The shirts are available at the community recreation building, 303 W. Main in downtown Northville.

PTA CALENDARS: The 1992-93 PTA calendar is now on sale for $3 at the administration office and at each of the building offices. Calendars are $3 and feature the artwork of district students.

WIDOWS AND WIDOWERS 45-62: B'tweeners, a group for recently widowed men and women between the ages of 45 and 62, meets in Canton, Novi and Ann Arbor. Grief support and social events are planned. Call the bereavement office at Arbor Hospice at 677-0500 for times and places.

Chamber shows off new digs

The Northville Community Chamber of Commerce is having a Christmas Open House Wednesday, Dec. 9.

The chamber recently expanded its office building at 195 S. Main St. and is hosting this special evening from 5 to 7 p.m. All attendees can enjoy coffee and cookies and will be given a Victorian Festival Dr. Rudy T-shirt.

In addition, raffle tickets can be purchased for $1 with proceeds going toward the building expansion fund. Prizes include $100 free cleaning compliments of Canterbury Cleaners, $100 gift certificate to Little Italy donated by Al Ferrara, $100 gift certificate to Orin Jewelers, compliments of Orin Jewelers, and $200 Victorian Gingerbread House made and donated by Kevin Pavlina.

The drawing will be held Dec. 16. For more information call the chamber at 349-7640.

Band-O-Rama 1992

The bands of Northville High School held their first formal concert of the year Thursday night, entertaining an appreciative crowd with everything from "We Three Kings" to Chick Corea to the theme from Coach. The Symphonic Band, Jazz Ensemble, and Marching Band all participated. Michael Rumbell (above) directed, with drum majors Amanda Parkas, Chris Dattilio, and Steve Vanduzen, and assistant drum majors Abby Chaffin and Joe Lang.

New board begins to set its agenda

He and others on the board also shared an interest in reviewing the contract the former Township Board signed with Browning-Ferris Industries earlier this year for recycling services.

"I was concerned about that contract at the signing and about the people who put it together who may have had a dual involvement," he said.

But Fogg had other issues he wanted to look into, aside from the big-ticket projects. He seeks to re-establish monthly and yearly reports on the number of walkway residents from Northville Regional Psychiatric Hospital, and he hopes to discuss the feasibility of extending Winchester Drive beyond Seven Mile Road.

Trustee Gini Britton voiced her concerns about traffic and the school crossings at Six Mile.

"Is the township liable since it pays half of the crossing guard's salary if the crossing guard is not there and something happens?" she asked.

As a way to acquaint herself with township procedures, she and Clerk Sue Hillebrand both called for a review of job descriptions, contract negotiations and bargaining processes for administrative assistants and clerical workers.

"I want to review all the job descriptions so it will help me get a handle on who's doing what," Britton said.

The county-owned land also reared its head again. Engelland said he'll push Wayne County to parcel off chunks of the 930-acre site to developers.

"I would like to see the board pass a resolution to parcel it up according to the master plan," he said. "I believe they (county officials) have just been dragging their feet too long and haven't been getting any benefit out of the land."

Trustee Barbara O'Brien concurred with her colleagues but added some ideas of her own.

"I would like to see the township hall become more user-friendly," she said. "I think we should have the township employees answer the phone by giving their names and department."

She also hoped township employees would wear a lapel pin that identified them and asked for a suggestion box at the front counter for residents to offer their ideas.

The board held the study session as a trial run before it officially meets for the first time, at 7:30 p.m. Thursday.

Rings reported stolen

City police are investigating the reported theft of nearly $30,000 in men's rings and cash from a utility van parked Nov. 25 at Northville Downs.

The rings included a $17,500 18-karat yellow gold handmade nugget-style ring with four .5-carat diamonds, a $8,500 solitaire ring with a .5-carat brilliant-cut diamond, and a $3,000 14-karat gold band ring with a brown agate. The cash consisted of $700 in U.S. currency, in $100 and $20 bills, and $200 in Canadian $20 bills. The money was located in the van's center console in a Mark IV cigar box.

The van's owner said he took his rings off while checking his oil at a gas station. He said he locked the van's driver's side door but may have forgotten to lock the passenger door, as it was unlocked when he returned to the van and discovered the theft.

The theft allegedly occurred sometime between 6:30 and 10:45 p.m.

UNLAWFUL ENTRY: City police arrested a 20-year-old Northville man on charges of unlawful entry at Treetop Apartments Nov. 24.

The man was discovered sleeping in a utility closet at the 877 Novi Road apartment complex. He may have used a screwdriver found in his pocket to gain entrance to the building, by picking a locked door.

THEFT FROM POST OFFICE: A purse left at the Northville Post Office, 200 S. Wing St., was reportedly stolen sometime around 9:30 a.m. Dec. 2. The brand-new black leather shoulder bag contained $25 in cash in a $25 burgundy bifold wallet with change holder and $100 in makeup.

The purse's owner told city police she left it on a table in the post office's outer area while she checked her postal box, then forgot it when she left. She said she returned shortly thereafter and it was gone.

ATTEMPTED BREAKING AND ENTERING: A garage behind a North Center Street home was the apparent site of an attempted break-in sometime between Nov. 28 and Dec. 3.

A key was broken off in the garage door lock and scratches around the door jamb may have been made by a screwdriver.

HOME BROKEN INTO: Someone kicked in the front door of a Fairbrook home sometime between 2:55 and 3:20 p.m.

Damage to the door and frame was estimated at $300. City police are still investigating the case.

TRAFFIC ACCIDENT: City police cited a 60-year-old Northville man for failing to yield after he drove into the path of an eastbound car on Eight Mile Road Nov. 27. The man was turning west onto Eight Mile from Randolph when his car was struck by the eastbound vehicle.

The driver of the second car was rushed to Providence Hospital with incapacitating injuries, and a passenger was also injured. Their car had to be towed from the scene.

CASH STOLEN FROM EMPLOYEE'S COAT: A Livonia man employed by McDonald's, 39555 Six Mile, told police that someone stole $180 cash from a wallet stored in his coat pocket early Nov. 28.

The employee said the coat was hanging in a crew locker room at the time of the reported theft. Approximately 17 people were working at the time of the theft and all had access to the locker room, the man told police.

Citizens with information about the above incidents are urged to call Northville City Police at 349-1234 or Northville Township Police at 349-9400.

Fire Safety

Early detection is key

By STEPHEN OTT
and MICHAEL ASHER
Special Writers

Greg and Shirley's family were sleeping soundly in the middle of the early winter evening, oblivious to the events occurring downstairs. The frayed electrical cord of a holiday decoration that had been left plugged in short-circuited, sending a shower of sparks onto some newspapers laying nearby. For a moment it looked as though the sparks would die out harmlessly, but a small glow remained, and as it took hold, a flame appeared. The flame grew, consuming the newspaper, and reaching up to grab the curtains framing a window. The fire spread quickly and dark smoke began filling the room.

The majority of fatal home fires occur at night, when people are asleep. Many people believe that smoke from a fire at night will wake them. In most cases, however, this is not true. In fact, the opposite will happen. The smoke and poisonous gasses produced by a fire can have a narcotic effect, putting you into an even deeper sleep.

The key to surviving a fire is early detection, while there is still time to escape. At night, this is almost impossible unless you have properly installed and working smoke detectors. In the last 15 years most homes have been equipped with smoke detectors, which have become readily available and reasonably priced. Indeed, the National Fire Protection Association estimates that about 68 percent of American homes now have smoke detectors. Unfortunately, however, the NFPA also estimates that one-third of these smoke detectors are not operating, and that many homes do not have enough smoke detectors to provide adequate warning.

Residential smoke detectors come in two basic types: ionization and photoelectric. Each uses a different method of detecting smoke, but both have proven effective in providing warning to occupants. Different detectors also use different types of power supply. Some are wired directly into the home's electrical system, which eliminates the need to check batteries but also means the detectors will not work if there is a power failure. Battery-powered detectors are popular, particularly in older homes. With these detectors, however, it is important to remember to change the batteries regularly. Twice a year is best, at the same time you change your clocks in the spring and fall. At a minimum, the batteries should be replaced at least once a year, on a birthday, holiday or other easily remembered date, and the detectors cleaned of dust or cobwebs that may limit their effectiveness.

Proper placement of smoke detectors is at least as important as ensuring a proper power supply. Follow the manufacturer's instructions carefully. In general, you should have a smoke detector outside of each sleeping area, and on every level of your home. Detectors should be mounted on ceilings or on high walls, but away from corners and "dead air" spaces which will prevent smoke from quickly reaching detectors. Detectors should not be mounted too closely to kitchens, bathrooms or garages where cooking fumes, steam or exhaust may cause repeated false alarms. Test your detectors at least once a week, preferably with smoke from a cigarette or match, or an aerosol tester, as the test button on some units may simply check the functioning of the horn circuit.

Within a minute of when the sparks first appeared in Greg and Shirley's house the smoke reached a detector installed on the living room ceiling. The detector's horn began blaring loudly, and Greg began stirring with the sound. As the smoke spread it reached the stairway on to the second floor, setting off another detector placed on a wall. As the second detector sounded, Greg, Shirley and their children woke up quickly. It took a few seconds for them to get their belongings, but the smell told them all that there was a fire in their home, and that they must get out. The smoke detector's warnings had given the family the chance it needed to survive.

Picking a "name" for your baby? How about Joseph?

St. Joseph Mercy Hospital (SJM), that is. Because the McAuley Family Birth Place at St. Joe's in Ann Arbor is fast becoming the name for up-to-date, family-focused maternity care, for some pretty big reasons:

- Recently voted as the best birthing center by readers of both Metro Times and Metro PARENT
- One of the few birthing centers around to offer both LDR and LDRP suites (a great combination of high tech and comfort)
- Lots of options for pain relief, including labor epidurals and Jacuzzi bath tubs
- Tours, classes and other education to help you feel like an expert (even if it's your first baby)
- The excellent reputation of SJM obstetricians and nursing staff

McAuley Family Birth Place's caring, dedicated staff also strive to be the best for the tiniest reason of all—your baby.

If you're pregnant and looking for an SJM obstetrician near you, contact one listed here, or call ASK-A-NURSE anytime at 1-800-472-9696.

Our Opinion

New advisory council has poorly defined role

Last week's inaugural meeting of the Citizens District Council raised more questions than it answered.

The CDC's formation also illustrates perfectly why many in the community are questioning Mainstreet '92, the Downtown Development Authority proposal that the group was empaneled to review.

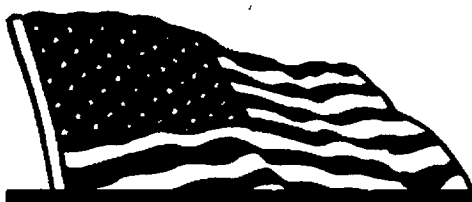

The abrupt manner in which it was assembled reflects the city's hasty attempt to drive Mainstreet '92 through the approval process, an attempt that has since been stalled by public anger over the continued diversion of tax dollars from taxing units like the schools.

We believe the city officials' actions reflect their attempt to address what they perceive as a looming threat to downtown Northville's economic health, and not an effort to circumvent the public process. But the end result has proven nearly as damaging to the city's case in selling Mainstreet '92.

The nine-member board, made up of people who live in downtown Northville, was appointed by the City Council in accordance with state law. Its formation followed DDA approval of the Mainstreet '92 plan that would fund a new Cady Street parking deck, and a stormy public hearing in which the plan was attacked for its extension of the Mainstreet '78 plan due to expire in 1994.

But the appointments were not made until November, after a local resident questioned why the board had not been formed. A city attorney quickly concluded that the CDC was required, if not procedurally then politically, and city staff scrambled to round up the necessary candidates. As of last Tuesday, they had only found seven residents willing and able to serve.

When five of the seven assembled Wednesday night, their first question was, "What are we doing here?" City officials could not provide much of an answer.

Government

The most pertinent question of the night was asked by CDC Member John Crete, who wondered how the board's role meshed with that of the Northville Strategic Planning Group, a committee convened by Mayor Chris Johnson to review the concerns raised about Mainstreet '92 and consider possible funding alternatives. It's a valid question and one that city leaders apparently gave little thought.

City Manager Gary Word noted that the strategic planning group would have a broader perspective since it included a township official and Northville Public School representatives, and suggested that the CDC could focus more closely on Mainstreet '92's impact on downtown residents. But that gave the board members little direction, and they spent the next two hours wondering whether they should even concern themselves with the controversial funding proposals or stick to more pedestrian concerns like the impact of Mainstreet '92 on traffic patterns and apartment residents.

At one point, Crete jokingly said of the strategic planning group, "We'll let them do the controversial part."

That may be the way the roles are fleshed out, but it would be a shame for the CDC to abdicate that responsibility after just one meeting, and before its members learn more of the controversy itself.

The city should be commended for doing the right thing by forming the CDC, but chastised for not realizing that the board was needed in the first place. And the CDC's role must be clarified before it can make any meaningful contribution to the debate surrounding Mainstreet '92.

Wired on new cable channels

Change never comes easily in my household.

It was a mild annoyance when MetroVision rearranged its channel lineup last Tuesday while we in Novi slept. My morning routine, which usually begins with CNN Headline News, was disrupted. Channel 38 became Channel 29. And Channel 43 showed up on Channel 24. You follow me?

Ah, well. I suppose some change is for the better. I mean, the Inspirational Network—Channel 35 if you're trying to follow along—has been dropped completely. You could hear me say Hallelujah. I can't shed any tears over the loss of a station that gives airspace to Robert Tilton four times a day.

But there is a perplexing aspect to this change. It's the option of adding The Sci-Fi Channel, The Cartoon Network, Comedy Central and FLIX.

I haven't bothered calling these new cable networks to find out their demographics, but I'll betcha they market toward twenty- and thirty-somethings like myself. Maybe that's why I'm drooling over the prospect of all four.

Comedy Central has snatched up reruns of some old favorite sitcoms, and The Cartoon Network will showcase the works of Hanna-Barbera, Warner Brothers, etc. FLIX promises "the movies you grew up with, from the '60s through the '90s."

But there's a catch to all this. For skinflints like me who have no premium channels, this addition will cost $3.95 a month. Folks who have a premium channel can get it all for $1.95 extra a month.

Customers who run up the full ticket—two premium channels, a remote and a subscription to the cable guide—can get Sci-Fi, Cartoon Network and Comedy Central for free. FLIX will cost them $1 extra a month.

Many MetroVision customers are going to cast a jaundiced eye on this surcharge for the new channels (My roommate, Bryan, had a few choice words for the idea. They're not printable). Some area cable companies include some of these channels in their basic service. And we're actually taking a net loss of one basic channel (Remember? Robert Tilton?)

However, careful examination reveals that, while we're not getting any free lunches, MetroVision customers are not getting shafted either.

While neighboring cable companies may include one or two of the new channels in their basic service, they are also charging their customers an arm and a leg for the privilege. Case in point: Our neighbors in Northville pay $21.50 a month (going up to $23 in January) for 40 or so channels, including The Sci-Fi Network.

To the north, Greater Media Cable of Walled Lake offers a 50-channel basic lineup at $24.45, which includes Comedy Central.

The only real bargain in the area comes from Columbia Cable, which serves Ann Arbor, Ypsilanti and most of Livingston County. Columbia has a 56-channel basic service, with Comedy Central, Sci-Fi and the Cartoon Network (plus some things we've never even seen) for $18.45 a month, the same rate MetroVision charges.

Economies of scale account for Columbia's low rate. The company serves about three times as many customers as MetroVision. And with the huge transient populations at U of M and EMU, Columbia makes a mint off installation fees for students who hook up each fall.

So for a basic subscriber in Novi who wants to add the four new channels, the monthly tab will be $22.40, a competitive rate, with one of the better lineups around.

And for those who couldn't care less if they ever saw another stand-up comedy show, a Lost in Space rerun or the exploits of Yogi and Boo-boo, it's nice to have the freedom to say no.

A bad case of 'Stewart' envy

It was Thanksgiving morning. One of those days when you sleep in, then lounge around in your bathrobe as long as you can.

I had the television set tuned on, watching the morning shows in anticipation of the start of the parades.

And that's what started the trouble.

One of the networks was doing a piece with Martha Stewart, the K mart spokesperson who I understand is widely regarded on these matters, on how to decorate your Thanksgiving table. And good old Martha was driving my wife crazy . . . inducing a gigantic inferiority complex.

"Oh, look at that," she'd moan as Martha would slice up apples, potatoes and I don't know what-else into some kind of special Thanksgiving dish that was both beautiful and tasty.

"She's so talented. I wish I could do things like that." And then good old Martha would pull the pies she had been baking out of the oven and the self-degradation would start all over again.

"Oh, look at those pies," she'd groan. "They're beautiful. Look at the scallops on the crust; look how she decorated the top."

"I wish I could do things like that." If I thought my lovely wife were truly fishing for some compliments, I would not have been concerned. But she wasn't. She was genuinely envious of Martha Stewart and all her Thanksgiving food and decorations.

So I remained silent until the camera panned over on the beautiful centerpiece that good old Martha had prepared for her Thanksgiving feast.

Even I had to admit it was beautiful, cascading across the entire table with cornstalks and leaves and gourds and apples and just about anything else that would remind you of fall or Thanksgiving or pilgrims.

But when she again started to moan about her inability to keep pace with Martha Stewart, it became too much for me to bear.

"Just a second," I said, interrupting her in mid-moan.

"That's Martha Stewart. She's a millionaire. She publishes magazines. She writes books. She's the national home decorating chairperson for the K mart Corporation."

"You think all this cooking and table decorating stuff is something she does in addition to a 40 hour per week job like the rest of us? NO."

"All she has to do all day long is think up cool ways to decorate pies and create centerpieces. It's what she does for a living, for crying out loud."

"And do you think Martha Stewart has to clean the kitty litter box like you do every morning? NO. She probably has servants who do it for her."

"And do you think Martha Stewart actually baked those pies? Do you think Martha Stewart actually trotted out in her backyard this morning and gathered up pinecones just to make that centerpiece? NO. She has people who do it for her."

She just calls up K mart or NBC or ABC and they send out tons of little elves who do all the dirty work so Martha can come on television looking beautiful and talking about centerpieces."

I saw a small smile come across her face, so I knew she was feeling a little better. And that's when I decided to deliver the coup d'grace on my ego restoration project.

"Besides, honey," I said softly. "I think your centerpiece is much prettier than Martha Stewart's."

Bargain bottles add fresh flavor to holiday table

We can truly say this column is a response to consumer demand. Your calls to our voice mailbox requested wine recommendations for the upcoming Christmas feast.

Since you didn't give us a clue about what you wanted to spend, we're offering selections at $10 and less, and then some pricier ultra-premium bottlings. Because many wine shops have holiday wine sales in progress, you may find recommended wines even cheaper than the price we give.

The Associated Food Dealers of Michigan report that although budgets may be tight currently, it won't cost as much to loosen our belts after a big dinner this year.

According to the AFD, the price to buy and prepare a traditional turkey dinner has gone down over the last two years. The AFD estimates that the cost including turkey and all the traditional trimmings — stuffing, mashed potatoes, gravy, yams, cranberry sauce, rolls, pumpkin pie and even wine — averages approximately $3.45 per person at a table for 10.

If your budget allows a higher average, then sample some of the premium pours recommended.

The veritable treasure trove of food flavors finding their way to the holiday table are well complemented by an equal bounty of flavorful wines.

Chardonnay, America's favorite white wine, is well suited to the holiday feast. Oakier, more complex styles are not overwhelmed by seasonings in the dressing or gravy. They aren't beat up on the palate by sweet potatoes or cranberries. Oranges in a cranberry relish actually showcase the bright tropical fruit of several California chardonnays. These oakier styles cost more to produce and the price quickly escalates over $10.

Heading the list of values in the chardonnay category are the 1991 Santa Monica from Chile ($7), Barton & Guestier Saint Louis from France's Macon region ($8), and 1991 Rodney Strong, Sonoma County ($10).

Australian producers were the first to blend semillon and chardonnay to create "semchards." The idea caught on in California and one of the best semchards is the 1991 Lockwood ($9).

Between $10 and $15, we highly recommend these chardonnays: 1991 Chateau Souverain, Sonoma; 1991 J. Lohr Riverstone; and 1991 Kendall-Jackson Camelot Vineyard. Michigan native Fred Fisher, owner of Fisher Vineyards in the Sonoma Valley, has always had a big following for his wines in our state. His 1990 Fisher Coach Insignia Chardonnay ($15) is the best he's produced to date. Its broad flavor intensity stems from about 10 percent naturally fermented lots in the blend.

Exceptionally flavorful is the 1990 Fetzer Reserve Chardonnay ($18.50). The 1990 Robert Sinskey Vineyards Carneros Reserve Chardonnay ($28) is a knockout with buttery richness and harmonious flavors.

Fruity red wines are well-paired to turkey, especially the juicier, darker meat. Before French Beaujolais Nouveau prices went through the roof, we always recommended them. Today, they are not worth the money. California gamays have taken up the slack and are delicious. The best this year are the 1992 Beringer Nouveau Gamay Beaujolais and the 1992 Preston Vineyards Gamay Beaujolais at around $7.50 each.

Merlots also match well with darker turkey meat. They have less overt fruitiness than a gamay and are more complex. Their soft finish works well against potatoes, gravy and dressing. We like the following merlots: 1990 Round Hill ($7.50); 1990 Chateau Souverain ($10); 1990 Kendall-Jackson Vintner's Reserve ($14); and 1990 Merryvale ($18).

A Hanukkah celebration wouldn't be complete without latkes and a bounty of fresh fruit

Incredibly edible latkes

Nothing holds a candle to Hanukkah favorites

By ROBIN SILVERMAN-DENKER
Copley News Service

Hanukkah traditionally means eight nights of candles, gift-giving and lots of my favorite comfort foods. Hanukkah has always been my favorite Jewish holiday of the year. Especially now, since I share the tradition of Hanukkah with my husband and our children.

The most memorable parties were spent with my family at my grandmother's house. Of course as a child my eyes lit up at the sight of the gifts. I can still remember the piles and piles of the freshly fried latkes, the giant bowl of applesauce and sour cream, and lots of gold-wrapped chocolate coins, otherwise known as Hanukkah gelt. As I walked through my grandmother's front door, glorious aromas filled the air; I knew it was going to be a great day.

Some of us are lucky enough to have our grandmother's favorite recipes. Although I am sure every family has their favorite latke recipe, try experimenting by adding a grated vegetable, shredded leftovers, chopped dried fruits and a favorite spice.

One cold day last December I was in my kitchen experimenting, as I usually do an hour or so before dinner. It was the sixth night of Hanukkah, and my fridge was overflowing with potatoes, bean sprouts and leftovers (smoked salmon) from the preceding Sunday brunch.

I gathered up the fresh spuds, some green onions, the lox and sprouts and went to work. In 15 minutes we had dinner: a latke with flavors of the Orient. I knew my husband would love my concoction. I think our family will, too, as well as the vegetables and apple pancakes. My signature applesauce recipes are delicious with plain potato pancakes as well as for a fat-free dessert throughout the year.

Latke Hints

There are many varieties of potatoes from which to choose. My preference is for the white potatoes; there is no need to peel them, and they do not become brown and mushy. If using russet or reds, they should be peeled.

Since I love timesaving techniques, I advocate using the food processor to grate the potatoes and the vegetables. However, this method produces a slightly gummier potato. Therefore, it is necessary to gently rinse the grated potatoes under cold running water, then pat dry with paper towel.

Latkes are the best fried in a non-stick pan, turning only once. Use a good quality canola or safflower oil, heating the oil until it is hot before frying.

Plan to do all of your prep work and cooking ahead of time. Latkes can be a wonderful timesaver if prepared in advance and frozen in a single layer. Once frozen, they can be stacked and transferred to plastic freezer bags. When ready to serve, preheat oven to 375 F, transfer pancakes to a cookie sheet in a single layer, and reheat for 20 minutes.

If holiday parties are your forte, everyone will delight in a B.Y.O.L. (Bring Your Own Latke) Hanukkah party. There's no need to knock yourself out. Using the food processor and the freezer will save you time, which is, after all, better spent in the company of loved ones and your guests.

These recipes reflect the theory that less is more — the less time in the kitchen, the more time at the dining room table. The following dishes are designed to make the most of the versatile and wonderful potato. They're homespun in feel, bursting with flavor and plain old-fashioned fun at the table.

Applesauce Hints

My preference in apples is Golden Delicious, Granny Smith, Pippin, Jonathan or a combination. For those who prefer a smooth applesauce, puree in food processor to desired consistency after apples have cooled.

I've created what I call "design add-ins." You add in what you like to suit your taste buds and complement your meal. Try one, try them all. Be creative, let your imagination explore the endless varieties of dried fruits and spices you can add.

The add-ins I suggest are:

- ¼ cup currents
- ¼ cup chopped cranberries, fresh or frozen
- 1 cup fresh raspberries
- 1 cup fresh strawberries, sliced
- 1 cup chopped rhubarb plus ¼ cup sugar
- ¼ cup cassia

BASIC BLOND APPLESAUCE

- ¾ cup 7-Up
- ¼ cup sugar (or to taste)
- 1 tsp. vanilla
- 1 tsp. cinnamon
- 2 pounds apples, peeled, cored and cut in chunks

Yields 3 cups

In large saucepan, combine all ingredients except apples. Bring to boil, stir to combine. Reduce heat to simmer, add apples, cover and simmer approximately 20 minutes, stirring occasionally. Serve warm or chilled.

CRIMSON CINNAMON APPLESAUCE

- ¾ cup frozen, undiluted cranberry sauce
- ¼ cup sugar (or to taste)
- 2 tsp. cinnamon
- ¼ cup red-hot candies (optional)
- 2 pounds apples, peeled, cored and cut in chunks

Yields 3 cups

In large saucepan, combine all ingredients except apples. Bring to boil, stir to combine. Reduce heat to simmer, add apples, cover and simmer approximately 20 minutes, stirring occasionally. Serve warm or chilled.

These latkes are wonderful as an entree. You can use leftover cooked salmon; increase quantity to ½ pound. If your budget allows, use more lox.

When big families gather, it's best to plan ahead

It's beginning to look a lot like Christmas. And sound like it too.

For many of us it's getting a little stressful also. Surprisingly, holidays rank high on the anxiety charts. There are gifts to buy, parties to attend or design, cooking for large groups, spending too much, and minimal relaxation.

Luckily all these obstacles can be overcome with a little planning. When organizing a party menu, think about several things. What can be prepared ahead of time and possibly frozen? Many bite size appetizers with puff pastry or phyllo dough fit the bill.

Let your imagination go wild. Any sort of fillings can be wrapped beforehand and popped into the oven at the last minute. Pieces of brie in layers of delicate strudel dough are one of my favorites. Or some goat cheese and roasted peppers with a touch of garlic.

Small beef Wellingtons are wonderful and elegant. Simply sear 2-ounce portions of tenderloin, cool, wrap with ham (spread with chicken liver pate, if desired) and then with store-bought puff pastry, egg wash and bake when needed.

Or, for an exquisite main entree, coat a good-sized salmon fillet with shrimp mousse and wrap with phyllo. Allow to sit for 10 minutes before slicing into individual portions. This, accompanied by fresh pea pods, makes a great buffet item.

The simpler, the better. For instance, a large pot of chili, corn bread, Caesar salad and Christmas cookies or a fancy brownie is a super meal for a football afternoon, or for an informal get-together. Add some hot chocolate with Bailey's, or egg nog to finish off the festivities. Virtually the entire meal is done ahead.

For holiday meals, such as Christmas, consider baking squash and sweet potatoes several days prior. Mash, season and store in the casserole from which they will be served. Then reheat in the microwave or along with the turkey.

Salads and relishes can be fixed the day before, vegetables prepped and pies baked. Try not to kill yourself all in one day. Better yet, have everyone bring a specific dish. At Thanksgiving, my sister Liz did the turkey and pies, Mom the yams and squash, my mother-in-law Deb the antipasto, and myself a salad.

It certainly made life for all of us a lot easier. Well, it sounds a lot simpler than it really was, but you get the idea.

Unfortunately, there are still dishes to do, garbage to take out and leftovers to package. For those of us who do not have live-in help, delegation does not do well for the bull work. The more that pitch in, the better.

Consider doing non-traditional meals such as a brunch or a late-night supper. The variety of breakfast items available is phenomenal. Unpretentious food can be sumptuous. Beautiful omelets or frittatas, fresh fruit juices, wonderful sticky buns, pink grapefruit tossed with pomegranate or cranberries and a bit of orange liquor, homemade turkey sausage, various waffles and pancakes, and don't forget the bottle of champagne for mimosas.

An early meal has its advantages. One can loaf for the rest of the day.

On the other end of the spectrum is a late-night dinner after theater or visiting,

A nice salad, pasta and refreshing dessert is all you need. Try spinach or arugula instead of the old iceberg standby. Fresh pasta in many varieties is easy to find at the grocery store. An uncomplicated sauce of tomatoes and garlic tossed with herb fettuccini fits the bill. Add some garlic toast, and voila! To finish the meal, apple strudel and gourmet coffee. What more could one ask for?

If time runs short or you're just not the cooking type, remember your favorite restaurants, groceries and caterers during this season. Many are more than willing to help you plan and supply the food you need. Start now, plan ahead, then sit back and enjoy.

PACIFIC RIM SALMON LATKES

2 eggs
1 tsp. sherry or dry vermouth (optional)

1 pound white potatoes, grated, rinsed, blotted dry
¼ pound lox, diced

1 tsp. sesame oil
2 green onions, chopped
1 cup fresh bean sprouts, chopped

2 Tbs. matzo meal
¼ cup cornstarch
¼ tsp. garlic powder

¼ tsp. powdered sugar
Salt and pepper to taste
2 Tbs. chopped fresh cilantro (optional)

Oil for frying
Yields 12 to 15 latkes

Beat eggs and sherry in hand bowl. By hand, fold in remaining ingredients.

Heat oil in large, non-stick skillet over medium heat. Using ¼-inch cup measure, spoon mixture into hot oil; smooth top. Fry on both sides until golden brown and crisp, turning only once. Drain on paper towels.

Are you single?

Have you ever dreamed of impressing a date with a home-cooked meal, but consider opening a box of cereal a major event — even with the easy rip-top box?

Are you married?

Do you remember the time when you planned a romantic dinner for two, but elation turned to devastation when your spouse discovered empty Chinese food boxes near the back door?

Let's face it. We're not all as adept in the kitchen as we would like and would rather go out to eat than alert the local fire department every time we turn on the oven. But have you ever wondered where the chefs whose restaurants you patronize get their start?

On Dec. 10, from 6:30-8:30 p.m., Oakland Community College's Hospitality Department will host a Culinary Arts Open House at the Orchard Ridge campus. For the past 13 years, the annual event has been a success, as it has served to acquaint the public with the programs culinary and management degrees and on-campus facilities.

The evening commences with a tour of the department and its facilities. Guests attend condensed class sessions where various dishes and cooking techniques are demonstrated. Taught by instructors and students, these sessions take place in the students' classrooms. The topics include pasta making, ice carving, cake decorating, bread braiding, hors d'oeuvres, vegetable carving, cold foods and holiday napkin folding.

After touring the classrooms, the guests journey upstairs to the program's own dining room. For the evening, the dining room is transformed from a facility which hosts over 250 guests on a daily basis to a culinary salon for the food show.

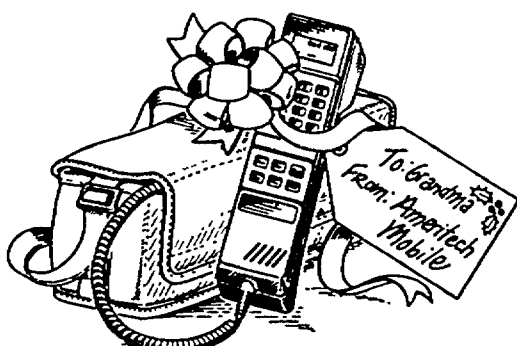

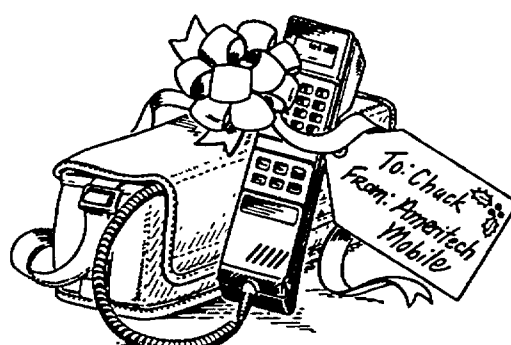

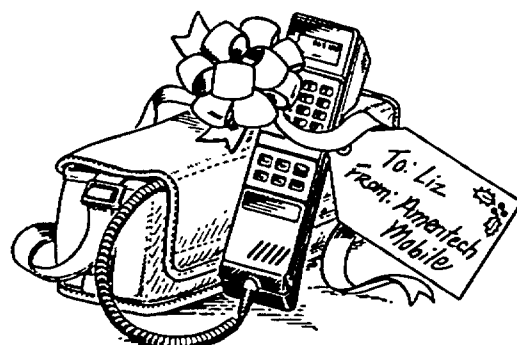

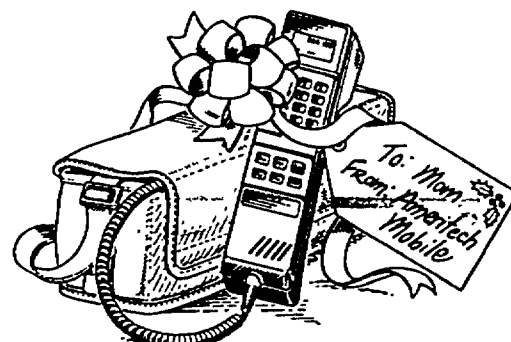

In the culinary salon, third- and fourth-semester students submit original dishes to be judged by the faculty of chefs. Based on a point system, gold, silver and bronze medals for their works. Students earn points in one of the following categories: Individually Plated Desserts, Petits Fours and Chocolates, Wedding Cake Decorating, Seven Course Gastronome, Five Course Gastronome, Appetizers/Hors d'Oeuvres, Restaurant Platters for 2-4 people, and Cold Food Platters with Terrines and Pates. It is possible for each student to receive the maximum amount of points in a category, giving all a chance at a medal. Medal winners from previous years include Steve Allan of the Golden Mushroom and Paul Burnash of the Lark Restaurant.

Following the food show, hors d'oeuvres and punch are served, and the awards ceremony takes place.

Although you will not become Julia Child in one evening, it's a great opportunity to study with the instructors. With helpful hints given by instructors and students, the cook in each of us is sure to be inspired.

Order forms will be available for specialty items from the bake shop for the holiday season. For more information regarding the open house, call 471-7786.

Imagine skating on a line with Detroit Red Wing legends Ted Lindsay and Mickey Redmond. Then picture yourself in a crucial face-off against current star Sergei Federov or heading into the boards with Bob Probert. Sounds like a hockey fan's dream, doesn't it?

With the help of Northville accountant Howard Bleiwas, hockey wannabes can lace up the skates and play with and against their heroes for real at the annual Detroit Red Wings fantasy camp.

"It's designed for men over 30 to play with players past and present," Bleiwas said, "and to live their hockey fantasy."

For about $1,500, campers get four days of checking, passing, shooting and kitzing with the NHLers. According to Bleiwas, 35 fans get the opportunity each August.

"We get all kinds of people," he said. "From business owners and dentists to blue collar, CPAs and doctors."

The 1993 camp will be held Aug. 18-21 at the Fraser Ice Arena. Ex-campers get first crack at one of the 35 roster spots while other slots are filled on a first come first serve basis. Registration for the '93 fantasy will be taken until Dec. 21.

Current Red Wing assistant coach Dave Lewis runs the camp on the ice while Bleiwas handles the financial end. The duo cooked up the idea for the fantasy adventure two years ago.

"We get all kinds of people. From business owners and dentists to blue collar, CPAs and doctors."

Since its beginning, the camp has drawn great interest from hockey buffs. Players from Michigan, the Midwest and Canada have participated in the first two camps.

"We keep the camp small to give them personalized service," said Bleiwas. "We really cater to them."

The camp agenda is packed full of activities each day.

Lewis puts players through drills and a NHL-type practice session on days one and two. Former Wings like Lindsay and Alex Delvecchio skate with the campers.

"We've never had anybody complain about playing time," Bleiwas said. "The guys get their money's worth."

On day three, the ice gets a little more crowded as current Red Wings join the camp. Thus far, Probert, Federov and Tim Cheveldae are committed for '93.

"There has been a good relationship between the players and the campers," Bleiwas commented.

Northville accountant Howard Bleiwas helps run the Detroit Red Wings fantasy camp.

"There's a lot of camaraderie."

Scrimmages and more drill work are also included on day three. Each camper gets the opportunity to work with the pros and get their expert advice.

On the final day practice comes to an end and all the players prepare for the game.

Bleiwas and Lewis go a long way to make the game just like an NHL contest. Veteran Detroit announcer Bud Lynch calls the game, while the NHL referees monitor action on the ice.

Teams are divided with campers and pros for the contest. In previous games Steve Yzerman and Gerrard Gallant have anchored one side while Probert and Shawn Burr have flanked the other.

Bleiwas said the games are often high-scoring affairs — and it's not just the pro putting it in the net. He described an instance where Gallant passed to Yzerman and then the Red Wing captain passed to a camper who finished the play off with a goal.

"The guy was just ecstatic," Bleiwas said.

A banquet after the game finishes the camp. The success of the camp has been a surprise, Bleiwas said.

"I didn't think it would be so successful," he said.

To learn more about the camp or make a reservation, call Bleiwas at 380-1811 or the fantasy camp hotline at (313) 442-7670.

Michigan's Best Community Newspaper ... Again

That's right, again. For the second consecutive year the Michigan Press Association bestowed its prestigious 'Michigan's Best' Award on the Northville Record in its 1992 Better Newspaper Contest. (For weekly newspapers with 5,000 to 15,000 circulation). And we're even prouder to be a two-time winner of the 'Michigan's Best' award than we were the first time we received the honor in the 1991 Better Newspaper Contest. And here's another thing that hasn't changed. Our greatest satisfaction continues to come from being an integral part of the Northville community... giving you the type of newspaper you want and need. In other words, we're proud to be your hometown paper.

HOROSCOPE

By C.C. Clark

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 – Dec. 21)
Opposing factors may cause problems you would rather not deal with. A young man for whom you care could cause trouble.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 – Jan. 19)
You're in a rut and ready to make a change. Go for it! If you care about a certain someone, it is important you show it.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 – Feb. 18)
You may feel unappreciated. Take time to pamper yourself. You may receive unfavorable news, but it won't be as bad as you think.

PISCES (Feb. 19 – March 20)
Disorganization is the cause of your problems, so get things back in order. Don't be disappointed if things don't go your way at first.

ARIES (March 21 – April 19)
There is a chance of new opportunities in the near future. A change of work or home environment is just what you need.

TAURUS (April 20 – May 20)
If you have concerns relating to others, you must clear the air. Choose a path acceptable to your heart and your head.

GEMINI (May 21 – June 20)
You may be going about things the wrong way and need someone to guide you. Don't worry about what critics think.

CANCER (June 21 – July 22)
Your scattered thoughts may be wasting your energy. You may have the wrong impression of someone close.

LEO (July 23 – Aug. 22)
You are going through a difficult period, and it may be hard for you to concentrate. Pay close attention to small details.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 – Sept. 22)
There are changes happening in your life, and though it may not seem like it now, things eventually will turn out for the best.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 – Oct. 22)
You are coming out of a bad situation, but things are on the upswing. A romantic entanglement could become more serious.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 – Nov. 21)
Your efforts will soon bear fruit. A quarrel with someone close to you could get out of hand. Don't let pride get the best of you.

Jaclyn Smith goes sleuthing with Corbin Bernsen's ghost

By Dan Rice

Jaclyn Smith knows what being an angel is all about. The longest-tenured of Charlie's Angels, Smith went on to star in the miniseries The Rage of Angels and its sequel. Now she comes to the aid of a ghost (Corbin Bernsen) whose unsolved murder prevents his celestial ascension in Love Can Be Murder, airing Monday, Dec. 14, on NBC. Anne Francis co-stars in this lighthearted whodunit that couples vintage glamour with '90s self-actualization.

Smith plays Elizabeth Bentley, an attorney in her father's prestigious Los Angeles law firm with a lawyer fiancé (Cliff DeYoung). Her "perfect" existence should bring her contentment, but while her beau is talking low mortgage rates at their favorite eatery, she imagines she's joining a band of terrorists who shoot up the restaurant. Her psychiatrist suggests that this and similar daydreams stem from her lack of fulfillment, so Elizabeth decides to quit the firm and become a private eye, a move which is met with her family's disapproval.

Elizabeth sallies forth nevertheless, renting long-abandoned office space that proves to be filled not only with old furniture and dust, but also with the spirit of detective Nick Peyton (Bernsen), who was slain in 1948 while working on a case.

Telling her he's "stuck between here and the big racetrack in the sky," Nick implores Elizabeth to investigate his murder, but first he must convince her he is more than a figment of her imagination. (A hickey on the neck does the trick.)

The trail takes them to Nick's former lover, dance hall proprietress Maggie O'Brien (Francis). From there the case becomes even more convoluted, in time frames 40 years apart, as the truth about other murders comes to light. An unlikely romance develops between the pair as Elizabeth realizes that Nick's ghost is more of a man than her glib fiancé.

As a sleuthing team, Nick and Elizabeth are effective, but not as gifted as one might expect. Besides the credibility factor attached to arguing in public with a person who isn't there, there are no unearthly benefits from the partnership for Elizabeth. Nick can't walk through walls or perform other typical ghost tricks. "I've only been dead since '48, I'm still a pup as ghosts go," he tells her.

In fact, Nick is on the helpless side. Elizabeth must open doors for him, but in turn he teaches her the ropes of gumshoeing, while encouraging her to bring out her hidden self — to howl at the moon and eat barbecued ribs.

A spokeswoman for K-Mart and Max Factor, Smith is an unthreatening presence to women viewers, perfect for romantic mysteries like this one. While comedy is decidedly not her forte, she excels as the professional woman awaiting someone to bring excitement into her world. Bernsen is well-suited to his 1940s-era role and succeeds in keeping the mood light and the pace moving.

In addition, it's a delight to see Anne Francis back on TV. The star of the sci-fi cult favorite Forbidden Planet, Francis is best known for her role as a sexy female James Bond in the '60s series Honey West. She began her career billed as "The Little Queen of Soap Operas" on radio and was involved in experimental TV shows of the '40s, including the first color tests. Her performance in Love Can Be Murder is an example of the professional ease of a veteran. Francis still sports the beauty mark and exudes the class that has made her so memorable.

With a charming music score by Steven Bramson, Love Can Be Murder provides a delightful experience for both romantic dreamers and mystery fans.

LET'S TALK

Hats off to Serrano; 'On Borrowed Time' a soaper

By Taylor Michaels

Q: I enjoy The Hat Squad on CBS. I was wondering if Nestor Serrano ever appeared in a Star Trek episode as a child actor. I believe it featured Kim Darby and Michael J. Pollard. Can you please give me some background information on his career? —Mary R. Nemetz, Menominee, Mich.

A: Though you're right about the other two guest players in "Miri," the Star Trek episode of which you write, Nestor Serrano did not appear with them. However, Serrano has appeared in several movies you've probably seen, including Hangin' With the Homeboys, The Money Pit, Lethal Weapon 2 and Brenda Starr. His television appearances include the movies Love, Lies and Murder and Johnny Ryan and the series Wiseguy and St. Elsewhere.

Q: Some years ago, I saw a movie on television titled The Cheyenne Supper Club, starring Jimmy Stewart, Henry Fonda and Shirley Jones. Does this movie exist on video? —A.L. Padgett, Wellington, Ala.

A: The title is actually The Cheyenne Social Club, and according to all my sources, a videotape version is available of the film. Check a good video store or call the Video Library of Philadelphia at 1-800-699-7157.

Q: Some months ago, I watched a film that appeared to have been made in the early 1930s. I never saw the title or credits. After reading the reviews of a new British film called Enchanted April as well as seeing some scenes from it on television, I believe the film I saw that night a while ago had the same plot. I also know Enchanted April is a novel by Elizabeth Bowen. Is it possible that the film I saw was a previous effort based on the novel? —Barbara Sudheimer, Kihei, Hawaii.

A: With your apparent knowledge of contemporary literature, all I can do is confirm your suspicions. Indeed, there was a film Enchanted April produced in 1935 and based on Bowen's novel. In case you are curious, the film starred Ann Harding, Frank Morgan and Katharine Alexander.

Q: I would like to know a little about James Walters, who portrays Alex on The Heights, including where I can write to him. —Nicole Royle, Vancouver, Wash.

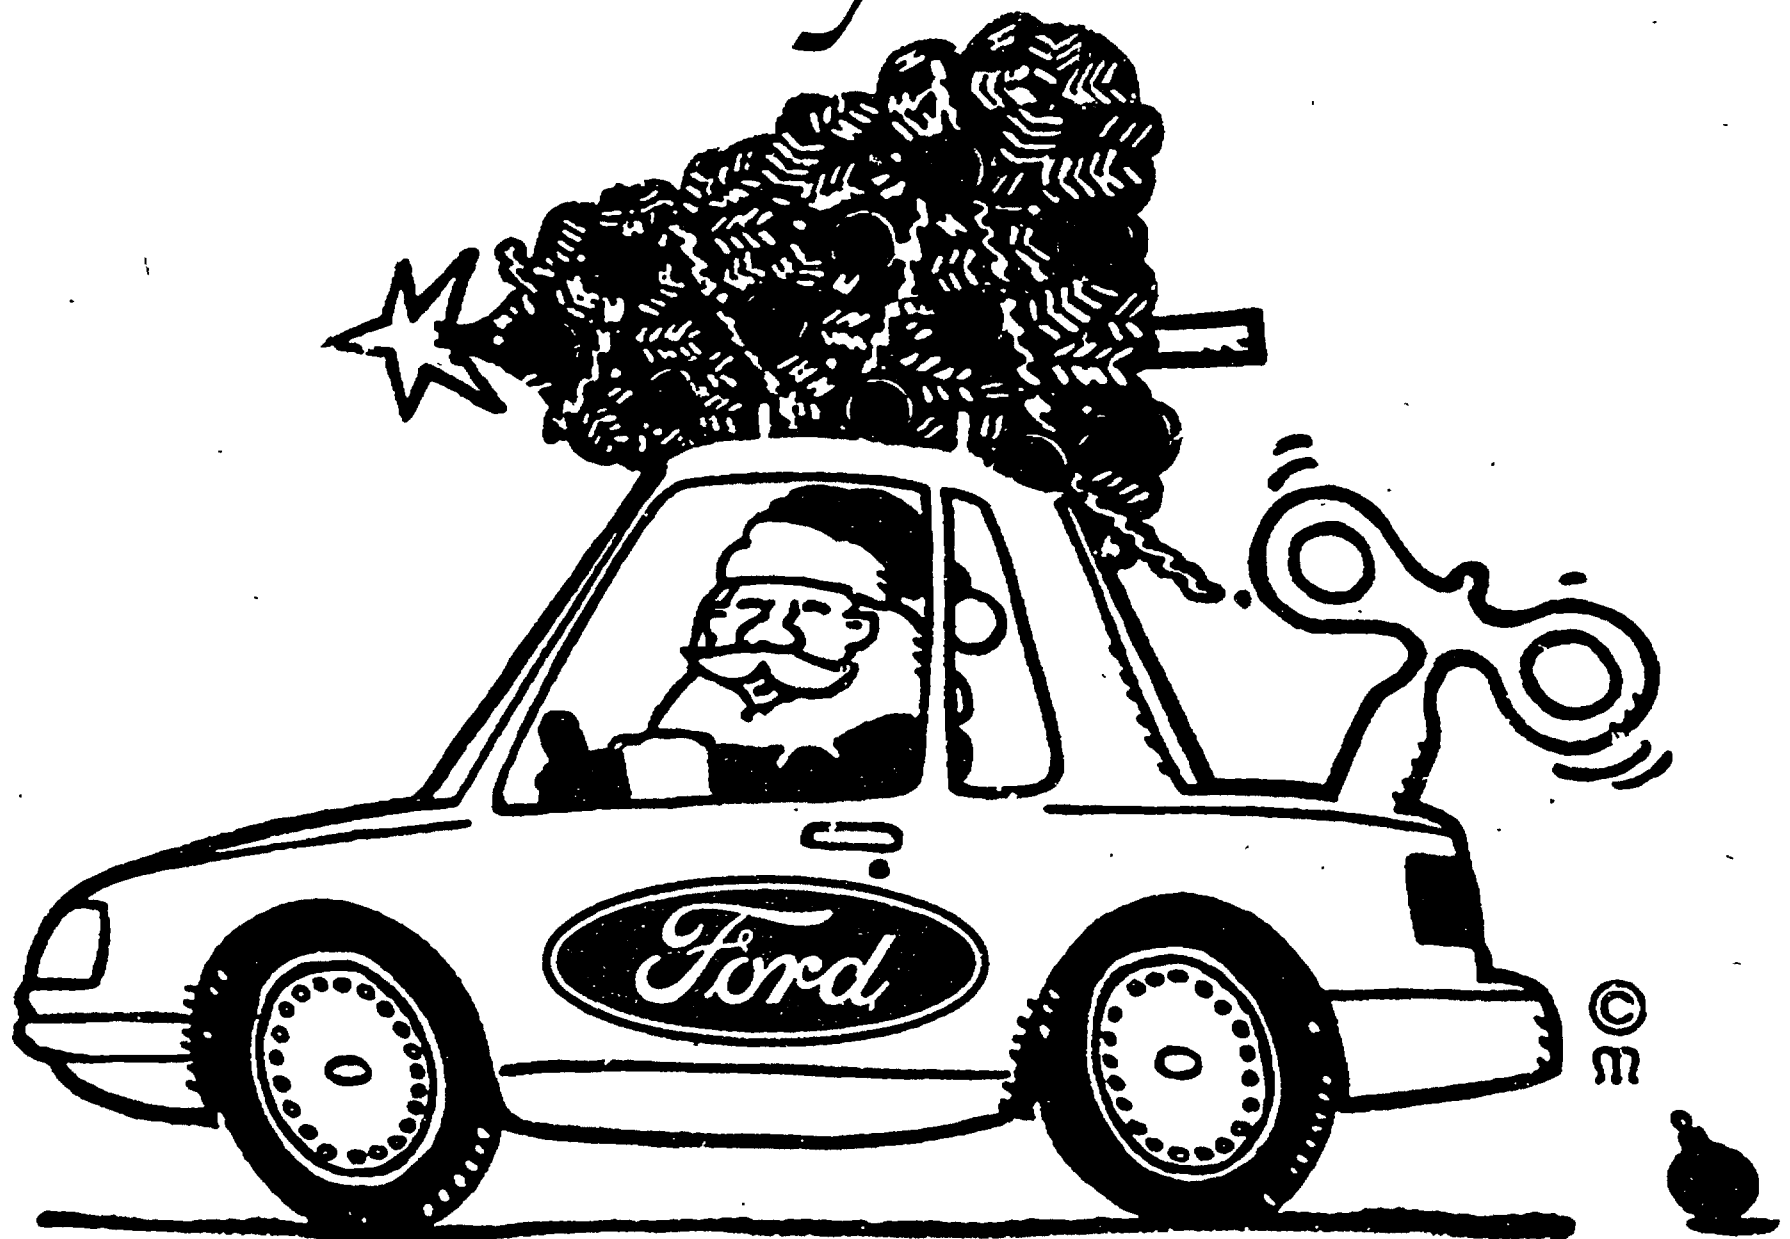

A: Walters' first big break was in a pair of Levi's 501 jeans, and his exposure in the commercials led to parts in the films Bed and Breakfast, Shout and Cameron Crowe's new movie Singles. Walters is a Boston native who now resides in L.A. You may write him in care of Fox Broadcasting Co., P.O. Box 900, Beverly Hills, Calif., 90213.
