Track turns corner on 50th year

For half a century, the sound of hoofbeats has echoed off the hill south of Seven Mile and Sheldon roads.

The hillside resounded again Jan. 2 as Northville Downs kicked off its 50th year of racing.

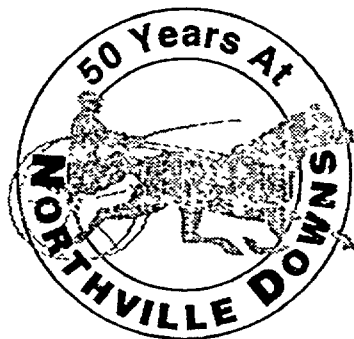

Visitors were treated to half-price concessions, admission and parking during the two-day celebration, and the first 3,000 patrons at Saturday's matinee program received special prizes.

Executive Manager Margaret Zayt said the crowds were pleased with the weekend, judging from the 11,243-visitor turnout. "We bet over $1.2 million between the two Saturday programs," she noted.

After 50 years, million-dollar days are no big deal at Northville Downs. But the seven-digit figures are a far cry from the track's first short season in 1944, when the nightly handle only averaged $20,000.

What kept the track thriving after those lean evenings was growing acceptance of the night harness racing that Northville Downs helped to pioneer, a dedicated team of owners and operators, and more than a little bit of luck.

Race starter and announcer Lark Putnam played an integral part in the racetrack's survival in those early days, after being lured from another track by Northville Downs' flamboyant first manager and promoter Sam Wiedrick.

EDITOR'S NOTE: This week's feature is the first of a series on Northville Downs. Future installments will explore key figures in the racetrack's history, and its ongoing contribution to the Northville community.

Putnam was sitting in the judge's stand starting races at the Mason Fair in Lansing when he first laid eyes on Wiedrick.

"The horses were out on the racetrack at this fair and here comes this great big man, walking with his hands right out wide just like a goose coming across the racetrack, and he's pointing up at me and shouting 'I wanna hire that fella, I wanna hire that fella,'" Putnam recalled. "I said 'Are you talking to me?' He said 'Yes,' and I said 'Well, the thing about it is you're not going to hire me if you don't get off that racetrack, 'cause you're going to get killed.'"

Wiedrick made it safely off the track and Putnam started working for Northville Downs that same night, just after it had opened. The fledgling track still had the air of a county fair, he said.

"What they had was two tents out toward Center Street, and they were the paddocks, and horses raced out of those tents. It was all open enough so that people could go right over and talk to the drivers."

To stay warm as the season stretched into the fall, the bettors would stand around metal barrels filled with burning coals placed in strategic locations under the grandstands. "You could stand up and warm your hands and put your back up to it and read your program," Putnam said.

Santa sells well Retailers relieved over holiday sales figures

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

Holiday sales rebounded a bit over last year's figures in downtown Northville, though the size of the bounce varied from store to store.

Pedestrians strolled through Al Lavine and Debbie McDonald's 201 E. Main Street shop, Northville Jewelers, in record numbers, Lavine said.

"Business was super . . . It almost tripled over previous years," he said. "I'm having one of the best years that I've ever had in business, and I'm optimistic that next year's even going to be better."

Lavine attributed his store's success to "quality and legitimate discount pricing," as well as a growing clientele. The store has been located at the corner of Main and Hutton for four years, after three years on Cady Street.

Bill Thorsen, who owns E. Main's Hallmark Shoppe at 124 E. Main with wife Sandie, said preliminary 1992 figures showed a healthy if late increase in the shop's sales.

"I'm just in the process of getting all the numbers together," he said. "We started out very slowly based on the customer count but it picked up in mid-December."

"Horsen, who also owns Hallmarks in Novi and West Bloomfield, noted that the greeting card business is less hurt by economic downturns than other retailers.

"I won't say it's recession-proof, but it's less affected by the cyclical conditions," he said. "People do need cards, and people do need gifts."

He attributed his season's promising finish to a delayed spurt of consumer confidence.

"There's some optimism; there's no doubt about that . . . but I think that there is some hesitation on the part of the consumer to spend their money because they're a little unsure as to what the new year will bring."

Clothier Charles Lapham noted a similar pattern at his 120 E. Main location. Following a "mediocre" month of sales in November, he said, "We had a great December . . . We were up 14 percent over last year, which was no bell-ringer, but we're going in the right direction."

Lapham said his store's annual "Wheel of Fortune" promotion in October got the sales surge started, after a slow year. "It started out poorly and it didn't show any promise until the last quarter," he said.

Lapham, too, had a theory why the economic recovery has been a slow one.

"This is the first time that the white-collar worker has gotten nerv-

Kurtis wins

Northville resident Doug Kurtis won the Hanol International Marathon in Vietnam Sunday. The 40-year-old, who has won the past six Detroit Free Press marathons and more than 30 of the 26-mile races in his career, posted a time of 2:39:14. A Ford Motor Co. systems analyst, Kurtis finished well ahead of more than 150 runners.

Board request for landfill is surprise to BFI

By SHARON CONDRON
Staff Writer

Officials from Browning-Ferris Industries were equally surprised last week when they learned Northville Township was overturning an original agreement and giving them the green light to build a landfill inside the township.

BFI's general manager John Myers said he was astonished when Township Supervisor Karen Baja pitched the idea for the landfill at one of the meetings she had with BFI officials over the holidays.

Baja's proposal for the landfill was one of five the board approved as part of a proposed amendment package that was tied to the BFI sewer contract that was approved last Tuesday. That package was approved by the board knowing there would be further discussions to hammer out the details of each of the five proposed amendments. (see related story.)

If both sides agree to the details of the proposed amendments to the contract, the landfill amendment would supersede Section 1.7 of the original contract which prohibited BFI from expanding its landfill operations into Northville Township boundaries.

"Karen voiced it at one of the meetings," Myers said. "We were really surprised because we felt (in the original contract) that it was quite a concession in this sewer agreement."

Myers and Robert Line, BFI's director of external affairs, said the proposed amendments have no immediate bearing on the waste hauler's future plans. He said BFI had agreed to the original contract and never intended to expand its landfill operations to the 230-acre parcel of land it owns in Northville south of Six Mile and east of Napier Road.

"We have in excess of 20-30 years of capacity left in Arbor Hills West," Line said. "So we don't need any 'her' landfill right now. We have no plans whatsoever to expand in Northville right now."

Myers agreed.

"Now we didn't have plans to expand and certainly not with this agreement," he said.

When asked whether or not Baja's suggestion changed his vision for his local operations, he said he just hadn't given it much thought.

"It's really just too early to tell and we haven't really given it much thought since they brought it up," Myers said.

At the Dec. 22 board meeting when the board accepted the sewer agreement, Baja said if BFI chose to expand into the township, its plans for the additional landfill would have to pass through all the proper township planning authorities before it was Manager axed; staff overhauled

By SHARON CONDRON
Staff Writer

After four years in the township manager's seat, Richard Henningsen is out of work.

Township Supervisor Karen Baja said the board had agreed unanimously to not renew Henningsen's contract for 1993. His last day of work was officially Dec. 31 but he used vacation time he had coming under his contract and left Tuesday, Dec. 22.

Baja had little to say about Henningsen's release.

"It was a unanimous (board) agreement," she said. "Mr. Henningsen was given the option to resign immediately or work through Dec. 31. He decided to leave last Tuesday," she said.

Baja said she didn't want to get into the particulars that led up to Henningsen's dismissal, but did say the new board was really looking at restructuring the entire township office staff.

The decision to let Henningsen go came after Baja polled all of the board members either one on one or with a few at a time. At no point, she insisted, was there ever a quorum of the board and the board never met in a full session to discuss the matter. Each member agreed that letting him go now was the kindest option the board had before it, she said.

Baja said Henningsen had concerns that the board's action was reactive to pressure put on them from reports made in the Record. But she was quick to dispel his fears and squelch any rumors of the same.

"This was in no way based on any past political ties to the old board or to the administration, nor is it in reaction to what was in the press," she said.

"I can't really say what led up to it, but the board agreed that it just seemed like the natural time to not renew his contract," she said. "We just felt it would be better to make a clean, humane break."

Baja said the board hadn't really decided whether or not Henningsen would be replaced. She expected them to discuss the issue at their Jan. 17 meeting. In the meantime Henningsen's job responsibilities would be divided between Baja and Clerk Sue Hillebrand.

"We have had three different township managers and it just didn't seem to be working. We are looking at a total reorganization of township government, and part of that was looking at his position and how it was been working out and what exactly it was that he was doing."

"I'm not sure what the next step is and whether or not he'll be replaced. We are just now starting to look at a total overhaul and revamping of government."

Henningsen was pulled into the township manager's position in 1989 by township supervisor Georgina Goss. Prior to that he had served as the township treasurer.

He was unavailable for comment.

STORYTIME AT THE PUBLIC LIBRARY: The Northville Public Library's Preschool Storytime registration is now open at 215 W. Main St. Children ages 3½ - 5 and not yet in kindergarten may enroll for one of two series of three Wednesday programs. The Jan. 13-27 session will meet at 1 p.m., and the Feb. 3-17 session will meet at 11:30 a.m.

Children should arrive 10 minutes early and parents are asked to remain in the library during the half-hour program. To register, visit the library or call 349-3020.

PARENT TO PARENT: Have you wondered why your kids seem more cocky than when you were a child? Have you wondered if you're setting limits for your kids before trouble happens? "Parent to Parent" might be an answer.

This workshop gives parents the knowledge and skills necessary to help their children achieve a successful drug-free passage into adulthood. For parents of preschoolers through high school. The program is free.

The program runs on consecutive Tuesdays from 9 to 10:30 a.m., beginning Jan. 5. Call the Northville Counseling Center to register at 347-3470.

Sessions also offered Jan. 18 and Jan. 25 from 9 to 11:30 a.m. at Meads Mill Middle School; no registration necessary.

STATE PARK PERMITS ON SALE: The 1993 annual State Park Motor Vehicle Entry Permits have arrived at Maybury State Park. The $18 permits allow entrance to the park, and to all 90 Michigan State Parks, for the entire year.

They can be purchased at the park office Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, between 8 a.m.-5 p.m. The office is located off the park's Beck Road entrance.

To receive a permit by mail, send park officials a check or money order payable to the State of Michigan. The mailing address is 20145 Beck Road, House 2, Northville, MI 48167.

People who have purchased a daily pass for $3.50 can turn it in or send it in within three days for a $3.50 discount off an annual pass. The park also offers $25 gift certificates.

For more information, call the park at 349-8390.

MEALS HELP NEEDED: Meals-on-Wheels, the volunteer drivers' service that takes prepared meals from Allen Terrace to homebound persons throughout the Northville area, is in need of a Monday driver and kitchen helper at this time.

Meals are usually ready to be delivered by 11 a.m. Kitchen helpers need to come in around 10:30. If you feel you could help at this time, call Marjie between 10:30 a.m. and 1 p.m. weekdays at 349-9661 or Judy at 348-1761.

FESTIVAL PHOTOS WANTED: The Northville Community Chamber of Commerce keeps a photo album of the annual Victorian Festival, and it's looking for contributions.

Anyone with photos they would be willing to donate from the 1992 festival is asked to drop them off at the chamber office. If you stop by outside of office hours, they may be put in the mailbox. Photos of any of the festival activities are welcome.

NORTHVILLE SHIRTS: Brightly colored and very attractive Northville T-shirts and sweatshirts are now available at the Northville Parks and Recreation Department.

This year's shirts feature teal or maroon T-shirts for $12 each, and gray sweatshirts at $18 apiece. Act fast and you can be the first person in your neighborhood to display your support for the Northville community.

The shirts are available at the community recreation building, 303 W. Main in downtown Northville.

Northville business runs out of gas

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

The gas tanks are empty, the pumps are closed, and no more bells sound when you drive through the lot.

Cal's Car Care, a Northville institution for the past 45 years, shut its garage doors at 202 W. Main St. for the last time Thursday.

Owners Mary Cross and Jane Daniel, her daughter, have bowed to the pressures of running the business for two years and are selling the property to an unnamed buyer for an uncertain reuse.

"We've carried it as long as we can, my mother and I," Daniel said the day before she closed. Daniel's father, Calvin Coolidge Cross, purchased Cal's Car Care in 1962. Cross had actually worked at the site since 1946, when it was owned by Orson Atchison.

Cross died Sept. 13 at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, after a three-week stay. He was 67 years old.

Both Jane and her husband Jim worked at the gas station during their high school years, as did many Northville students. Jane Daniel returned to the back office two years ago, along with her mother, to oversee the operations when her father first became ill.

"We've just done what we can to keep it open, and without the help of our two major employees we would not have been able to stay open this long," she said. Those employees are Dave Dreher and Monte Terrell.

"It's a bigger task than what we wanted to take on... I'm going to go back to a normal life, to being a housewife and mother," Daniel said.

Daniel said the potential buyer, who prefers to remain anonymous, is

The station's fuel tanks will be removed within the next several weeks, she added.

Van stolen from apartment complex in city

A 1991 Chevrolet van was reported stolen from Tree Top Apartments at 977 Novi Road sometime between Dec. 31-Jan. 2. The grey van, valued at $10,000, was parked on the south side of unit 947 at the time.

STOLEN BLAZER RECOVERED: A 1992 Chevy S-10 Blazer stolen from Northville Downs Dec. 26 was recovered in Detroit three days later. The $22,000 vehicle, found at Westfield and Stehelin, was completely stripped. The vehicle had been parked in the Downs' owner's lot between 5:30-10:40 p.m. when it was stolen Dec. 26.

WINDOW BROKEN AT CIDER MILL: A window at the Northville Cider Mill was broken sometime between 5:15 p.m. Jan. 2 and 1:10 p.m. Jan. 3. A flower pot was thrown through it, causing an estimated $150 in damage. Nothing appeared to have been taken.

SLING SHOT VANDALISM: A Charleston Court home had its window broken sometime between 5-11:30 p.m. Jan. 2. The owners found a steel ball that had been fired through two shattered panes of glass, possibly by a sling shot.

CAR KEYED: A car parked at J.A. Delaney Co., 105 Rayson, was vandalized sometime between 11:30 a.m.-1:10 p.m. Dec. 31. Three 18-inch scratches were found on its right front panel.

LAWN DAMAGED: A malicious destruction of property complaint was reported Jan. 1. The Whisper Court complainant did not wish to make a report, however, asked police to periodically check the area because of recent "lawn jobs."

WALLET FOUND, RETURNED: A Sunoco employee found a wallet Jan. 3 while emptying a trash can at the entrance of the station located on Five Mile. The employee contacted police, who contacted the owner of the wallet.

HUBCAP STOLEN: A hubcap valued at $90 was stolen from a 1991 Cadillac Seville parked on Crestview Circle. The incident occurred between 5:30 p.m. Dec. 29, 1992, and 8:30 a.m. Dec. 30.

DRIVER'S WINDOW SMASHED: The driver's side window of a 1992 Ford Probe was smashed sometime during the early morning hours of Jan. 3 while parked on Banbury Street. Damage is estimated at $200.

WARRANT ARREST: City police arrested a 48-year-old Detroit man on an outstanding warrant before midnight Dec. 30 after stopping him at Center Street and Seven Mile Road. The man was wanted for failing to appear in court on a charge of driving on a suspended, revoked or denied license.

WARRANT ARRESTS: City police arrested two men on outstanding warrants recently. A 36-year-old Detroit man was arrested for failing to comply with a Hamtramck court judgement resulting from a speeding ticket after he was stopped for an expired license plate Dec. 27. Police also discovered that the plate's tag was stolen. The man was released on a $50 cash bond.

A 48-year-old Jackson man was arrested on several charges Dec. 30 after being stopped on Sheldon south of Seven Mile. The man's license plate was registered to a different car than the one it was on, and his driver's license had been suspended. He was also wanted in Jackson for failing to appear in court on a prior suspended license charge.

Citizens with information about the above incidents are urged to call Northville City Police at 349-1234 or Northville Township Police at 349-9400.

Victims say suspect pointed gun at car

Police are looking for a suspect who reportedly pointed a gun at a car containing three people in the parking lot of Meijer Inc., Jan. 1. A Northville Township police officer was dispatched to Meijer at about 3:15 a.m. regarding a fight, involving approximately seven people, in progress at the center doors of the store. When the officer arrived, the scene was clear, but he was flagged down by a loss prevention officer who stated the parties had just left following an altercation.

The employee told the officer that four males and two females began fighting with three others, and pushing took place in the store's lobby. The parties moved outside when the suspect walked over to a blue or turquoise car, believed to be a Ford or a Mercury, and reportedly removed a rifle or shotgun from the trunk. One of the females from the larger party reportedly began to wrestle with the suspect in an attempt to prevent the suspect from proceeding further, according to reports.

At this point, the victims entered their car when the suspect allegedly pointed the weapon at the windshield of their vehicle. The victims left the area and the larger group split up and left in two vehicles.

The suspect is described as a white male, about 20 years old, 5-foot-9, 175 pounds, with brown eyes and hair.

Changes proposed in school policy

By MICHELLE KAISER
Staff Writer

When the Northville Board of Education holds its second reading of a policy to inspect student lockers, desks and automobiles, there will be some changes.

Bob Somson, executive director of special education for the district, said the school district's attorneys advised the board to adopt two policies instead of one. The first policy will allow school personnel to enter the locker or desk of a student for inspection. The other policy would provide guidelines for confiscation of items such as alcohol, tobacco, controlled substances, weapons or other dangerous instruments and stolen property from a student's locker, desk or automobile.

The proposed policy reads any of the above items "may be seized, except where prohibited by law, by school personnel and may be used as evidence in suspension, expulsion or legal action."

Somson said the revisions came after the district had time to review past legal occurrences since the last update of the policy in 1987.

"A lot of things have changed over the last three to four years," he said. "We mentioned the automobile because if we didn't mention it, we wouldn't be able to (confiscate things deemed harmful to the safety, health or welfare to students and the school buildings). Ten years ago, nobody would have ever thought about it."

Although the previous proposed policy was titled "Inspection of Student Lockers, Desks and Automobiles," it stated that school personnel were allowed to enter a locker or desk for inspection or seize items such as alcohol, tobacco, drugs and weapons from a locker, desk or automobile.

At the Dec. 14 board of education meeting, one audience member raised concern over the policy, saying he didn't feel it was right for school personnel to have the right to inspect student automobiles.

Somson explained students will have to sign a form allowing for their cars to be entered if school personnel have strong evidence the student is violating the student code of conduct of harboring alcohol, drugs, etc. in their vehicle. If a student doesn't agree to sign the waiver, he or she won't be granted a parking permit, Somson said at the Dec. 14 meeting.

"This doesn't allow us to open a car that is locked," he explained to board members. "If a student refuses, then he can lose his parking privileges."

On Monday, Somson said this policy by no means allows school personnel to force a door open on a vehicle.

"Basically, if we saw somebody stopped in the parking lot drinking in their car, we're allowed to go up to them and say, 'OK, hand me that six-pack,'" he said.

Somson added that building principals will have to use judgement in determining whether or not there is a need to inspect desks or lockers or confiscate anything from an automobile. And, if the threat was real, such as with illegal substances or weapons, chances are the local police would be called in, Somson said.

The board is expected to review the new policies at its next meeting, slated for 7:30 p.m., Jan. 11, at Old Village School.

Puppets teach students it's OK to be different

By MICHELLE KAISER
Staff Writer

It's not a rock group, but Kids on the Block is capturing the attention of local children.

Designed to teach kids it's OK to be different, Kids on the Block was developed by Maryland teacher Barbara Aiello.

"Kids on the Block was developed 20 years ago when the law came down and said all kids have the right to be educated," Mary Menghini, organizer of the Northville group of Kids on the Block, said. "One of her (Aiello's) pupils had cerebral palsy. One day he shows up in her parking space in his wheelchair and tells her he's never going back to school because he had no friends and they made fun of him."

"So she and her father made a puppet with cerebral palsy. After that, in her words, the kids just mobbed him."

The Kids on the Block program is performed in 18 countries and 40 states in the U.S. There are over 30 puppets modeled after real people which deal with such things as arthritis, autism, sexual abuse, emotional impairments, mental retardation, blindness, literacy, auto and bike safety, gifted and talented, asthma, burns, epilepsy, learning disabilities, cancer and confinement to a wheelchair. This school year, the Northville group is borrowing puppets portraying blindness, hearing impairments, learning disabilities, cerebral palsy, spina bifida and divorce. Last week, Kids on the Block performed two skits for fifth graders at Winchester Elementary.

"Children — and adults, too — will talk to a puppet," Menghini said. "They'll say, 'Mark, why are you in a wheelchair' and 'Will you ever be able to walk?' This teaches them it's OK to be different. It's just not OK to make fun of something they don't understand."

The program is put on once every other week in the Northville Public Schools by eight volunteers, including Menghini. Two skits last about 45 minutes.

"We use short skits to get the conversation going," Menghini said.

The shows are modeled after a Japanese style of puppetry where the audience doesn't see the puppeteer. The handmade puppets are three to four feet tall and cost between $500 and $1,000 each. Since the puppets cost so much, Menghini's group borrows the puppets from the Wayne County Intermediate School District.

"We have to return them every May and then get them again in August," she explained.

Some people, like a recent Boy Scout group, do donate to Kids on the Block, however, the group has had a hard time organizing any kind of fund-raising effort due to other commitments on behalf of the volunteers. The local group does put on the shows for free.

Training is provided four times a year in Chicago for those putting on local Kids on the Block programs.

"The training is wonderful," Meng-hini said. "I met people from all over the country. For two days, you see one skit after another. The skits are explained and the puppets are explained and you have a chance to ask questions."

Menghini said she has received calls from Ann Arbor and Monroe requesting her group perform the Kids on the Block program, however, she said she's staying pretty much in the Northville School District.

It was about 10 years ago when Menghini first learned of Kids on the Block.

"I was so impressed," she said. "I noticed how much the kids listened."

"I have a handicapped child. I notice that a lot of people who don't know about them (handicapped people) make fun of them. It just isn't right. It's just ignorance."

So, Menghini helped co-write a grant for monies to train four people to perform the Kids on the Block program, buy scripts and special T-shirts.

"I feel when people make fun of someone else, they just don't understand," she said. "I would just hope they would ask, but people don't ask. They make fun first. This teaches kids in a non-threatening way."

"For example, if you live next door to a mentally impaired person, or someone with Down Syndrome, you don't give it a second thought. Or, if you grow up with your grandmother in a wheelchair. You think nothing about it."

Yet, if a child sees an impaired person in, say, a mall, and asks his mother about that person, the mother will probably tug at her child and say "don't look, don't stare as if he was contagious" instead of introducing himself and asking what's wrong with him, Menghini said.

Or, if someone sees a blind person crossing the street, does anyone ask that person if he or she needs help. Usually not, according to Menghini.

"With (Kids on the Block) they understand more," she said. "They know that this child isn't dumb, stupid or retarded. They're just slow to learn and it's OK if it takes more time to learn."

In its five years of existence, Kids on the Block has had favorable response.

"There's a lot of positive feedback from the teachers and kids," Menghini said. "I'll walk down the street and they'll say, 'Hey, there's Kids on the Block.' The teachers have said there's more of an understanding, too."

New puppets are also being developed. People send in requests and the Kids on the Block organization researches how important the need is. New puppets are dealing with topics such as leukemia, AIDS, teen pregnancy, drug abuse, aging, organ donation, pediatric hospice, alternatives to violence and gangs and cultural differences.

"It's just another form of helping students communicate and understand another part of the world that we sometimes don't want them to learn about," Menghini said. "But, that's life."

The county fair atmosphere was also reflected by a critical shortage of horses, Putnam said, which nearly doomed the track to an early death.

Wiedrick and racing secretary Edward Keller had been scouring local fairs trying to lure horsemen to Northville with $100 bonuses for each horse entered on top of the purse for the winner, but their efforts had only drawn several dozen owners to the track for its first race on Sept. 1, 1944.

"When you only had 60 head of horses to race a five-day race program, hell, the same horses had to race practically every damn night," Putnam said. "The races didn't pay anything because the people practically knew who was going to win."

The track's operators soon found a solution in Buffalo, N.Y. "After about the fourth week of racing, my wife Margaret and I ... went there and brought over a hundred horses back to Northville," Putnam said. They were transported to Northville by train, because few owners had trucks and trailers capable of hauling their horses that distance.

The infusion of fresh horses marked the track's turning point, and the 1945 season was a considerable improvement over 1944. Nightly handles climbed to more than $100,000 that spring, and topped $175,000 by that fall.

"A lot of people were skeptical about racing their horses, going to a meeting like Northville, because they'd been used to racing at the county fairs," Putnam said. But the track's success changed all that.

"Northville Downs changed the whole racing picture for the state of Michigan and, well, for the whole country."

Putnam, now 78, worked for track partner John Carlo for 15 years, and eventually became a racing announcer on radio and television. He was inducted into the Michigan Harness Racing Hall of Fame last January for his own half-century of service to the sport.

Margaret Zayti, now the track's executive manager, joined the staff in 1946 as a payroll clerk and was soon thrown into a more challenging role.

"In 1947, the accountant that was working here left and in an emergency, the owners said 'Well, would you like to do the work in the office?' And I can remember them coming in with all of their books — their 'outs' books (listing uncashed parimutuel tickets) and their purse books and the really books and the general fund and the working fund, the payroll account, and I thought 'What am I going to do with this?'

Executive Manager Margaret Zayti points to a pre-1908 photograph of the Northville Downs location, taken when it was the site of a county fair and called Athletic Park.

Zayti eventually figured it out, and has remained at the track ever since.

Zayti has also presided over many renovations of what was originally an open-air facility, including a $3.5 million grandstand remodeling and clubhouse addition in 1969 and $2 million in renovations two years ago.

"There was originally a cow barn and a horse barn, and a barn for the pigs, and tents, and of course that's all gone," she said. "There's not a building left standing that hasn't been renovated or torn down and rebuilt."

With the renovations have come much plusher surroundings. "In our box seats where we now have four upholstered seats and a TV, we used to have eight folding chairs. People didn't mind stepping over each other when they got up to bet ... Of course at that time, everybody wanted to sit in the front row and they wanted to touch the horses."

The Northville Downs staff now numbers near 250, including admissions, track crew, parking staff and mutuel clerks. That figure does not include the 50-odd Sportservice concession staff members.

Horse owners can house their pacers and trotters in one of 400 stalls on the grounds. The Downs used to boast 700 stalls but the need has dropped off as more owners choose to bring their horses in just for a race.

"Those things have changed because the horsemen have their own farms," Zayti said. "They train on their farms and they ship in."

Even the surface of the track has been changed to allow year-round racing. The original clay and sand track was replaced with limestone, following the trend of most tracks.

"I remember years ago when we had a heavy rain they had to stop the racing because the horses would slip and slide in the clay," Zayti explained. "Most all of the tracks now are limestone tracks, particularly if they're into winter racing."

Other changes at Northville Downs have included the addition of matinee races about 10 years ago and the more recent decision to admit seniors free to matinees.

"We have 800 senior citizens that come to the races on Saturday afternoon, now," Zayti said.

Lou Carlo, the track's current director of operations, took the reins from uncle John Carlo in 1986 when the elder Carlo died. But Lou's perspective extends back much farther to the days when he and his father raced horses at the track.

"I've been around this place since 1953," he said. "Just to see the business transcend from a county fair type of operation to major league, major market business, that's been the biggest thing."

"What I've seen change is the industry itself. Harness racing became a major league sport in the midwest and in the Detroit area particularly, and it all started right here. And that's not planned."

"This is not a great promotion where a group of guys got together and said 'Let's put a spin on it' ... This was a bunch of guys who said 'Let's see if people will accept this and let's see if we can make a go of this.' It's been a hands-on operation all the way through."

While some of the other founding tracks have closed, Carlo said, "This one still keeps racing."

Carlo also refused to attribute Northville Downs' success to the track's owners and operators, giving much of the credit to the people who raise, train and drive the horses.

"The Michigan horsemen themselves, the people that are the industry, the breeders, the owners, those people are of such strong substance that they weather the tough Michigan racing in winter, they weather the tough training on the farms, and they weather the tough summer fair racing circuits," he said. "They're just as dedicated to their horses as those guys in the NFL are to their ability to catch a pass or run a pattern. They're as professional as they can be."

Northville Downs' future looks as bright as ever, Carlo insisted. He noted that the track's owners recently signed a 10-year extension on their lease with the Northville Driving Club, which owns the property on which the track sits.

"There'll be some changes but hopefully we'll make some adjustments and stay viable," he said. "We plan on staying here."

The Downs: The $1,000 purchase has paid big dividends

Once a private golf course, now host to 300,000 visitors a year — Northville Downs has come a long way in 50 years.

The racetrack's history actually extends back to the turn of the century, when a local group including the late Ed Starkweather purchased the site from a now-forgotten industrialist for $1,000.

The industrialist's private nine-hole golf course had to be filled in with tons of dirt before it was suitable for a racetrack. Picnic tables stood in for a grandstand at first, providing a place for families to gather on Sundays and watch the standardbreds race.

The site eventually became home to the Northville Fair, a six-day event which drew thousands of visitors to what was then the village of Northville. A wooden grandstand was built as well, but it burned in the early 1920s. Its 3,000-seat replacement, erected in 1926, was funded by the sale of 300 shares of stock at $10 each.

The Northville Driving Club, and charter member Dr. Linwood Snow, played a prominent role in the eventual debut of night harness racing at the track. "Doc" Snow served as manager of the Michigan State Fair in the 1930s. When he left that post in 1940, he was asked to take over as president of the Driving Club and manager of the Northville Fair.

But the fairs were largely forgotten during World War II. In 1944, the Driving Club's board of directors was approached by a group of Buffalo, N.Y., businessmen including Sam Wiedrick, John Carlo and Harold Dennison.

The businessmen made a radical proposal to the Driving Club — night parimutuel betting programs at Northville Downs. Only two racetracks had ever held parimutuel harness racing at night before, and both were in New York.

The directors first dismissed the idea as unfeasible, noting that Michigan pacers and trotters had never raced in anything but daylight. That asked, who would ever come out to watch horses run at night?

After months of negotiations, the Buffalo businessmen convinced the Driving Club to give it a try.

What followed was the procurement of the necessary poles, electrical wires and lights. Steel girders had to be found to shore up the rickety grandstand, a difficult task in wartime United States.

But everything was in place by opening day on Sept. 1, 1944, and the curious flocked to the 8:30 p.m. race, plunking down 60 cents to watch 24 horses take turns under the bright lights each night. Due to the shortage of horses, many of those same horses raced night after night.

That first 20-night meet has now been supplanted by a 100-day program divided between Northville Downs' own meet and the Jackson at Northville meet run by the Jackson Harness Raceway.

Today's visitor pays $2.50 for seating in an enclosed, air-conditioned grandstand, or $3.50 for deluxe clubhouse seats. And 96 horses race each night under the lights, a different 96 horses each night.

The familiar oval has drawn over 10 million spectators since 1944.

Northville Record to sponsor student writing contest

All middle and high school students in Northville are encouraged to enter a new writing contest sponsored by The Northville Record.

With the theme, "Let us Play" the competition is designed to provide a chance for young writers to express their creativity with thoughts about recreational needs in the Northville community. Winning writers will have their efforts rewarded with small cash prizes and publication in the Record, and all participants will receive a token gift. Everyone involved in the competition — including entrants, parents, and teachers — will be invited to a special recognition ceremony the evening of May 13.

After the contest, a plaque with the names of the winners and their teachers will be displayed in the Northville Parks and Recreation building.

Any student living in the Northville School District currently in grades six through 12 may enter the contest. Entries will be accepted in two categories: essays of 500-1,300 words and poetry of 50-200 lines total (one poem or a group of poems).

Entries must adhere to the theme of "Let us Play" The theme may be addressed in any way that expresses concern with recreation or how it affects the quality of life in Northville.

PURPOSE:

The 1992-93 Student Writing Competition is designed to help students apply their creative writing skills while focusing on community understanding of the need for recreational facilities.

The competition is designed to generate creative efforts and provide an opportunity for young writers to express their concerns for recreational needs and its impact, and how to improve the quality of life in their community.

THEME:

All entries in the 1992-93 writing program must be directly related to, and expressive of, this chosen theme, "Let us Play!"

ELIGIBILITY:

All students must live in the Northville School District, grades 6-12.

CATEGORY DESCRIPTIONS:

Essay: 500-1,300 words

Poetry: 50-200 lines total

An entry may be a single poem or a group of poems in any form of verse, rhymed or free, with awards being made on the merit of the total entry. A suggestion for the topic is to identify a problem or dilemma related to personal or community recreational needs, and propose a creative solution.

JUDGING CRITERIA:

These categories will each be judged in two grade divisions: Middle School (grades 6-8) and Senior High (grades 9-12), and will be judged on evidence of creativity ability and expression of the theme.

HOW TO SUBMIT ENTRIES:

1. An official 1992-93 entry form must be attached to each composition. Each composition, except in poetry, must have a separate entry blank. Staple the composition and entry blank together on the upper left hand corner.

2. Entry forms must be complete and neatly typed or printed. The name of the student can only appear on the entry form, not on the composition. Entry forms must have both teacher's and student's signatures.

3. All compositions must be printed by a computer on standard letter-sized, unlined white paper. Essays must be double spaced with one-inch margins and a title on the first page. Poems must be single spaced, and individually titled.

4. Students may submit one entry in each category. 5. Teachers are expected to pre-screen entries for competitiveness, accuracy of form, spelling, presentation and affirmation that the students entry is an original composition. Only the best samples should be entered to represent each grade division.

6. No entries will be returned. Students should retain copies of their work.

7. Delivery deadline is April 2, 1993.

AWARDS:

An Awards Reception and Ceremony will be held to honor all participants including students, parents and teachers on May 13. Cash prizes, trophies, gifts and certificates will be awarded. A plaque with the names of the winners and their teachers will be displayed in the Northville Parks and Recreation Department building.

Also award-winning compositions will be published in a special section of The Northville Record.

Rezmierski seeks change in mindset

By MICHELLE KAISER
Staff Writer

Northville Public Schools Superintendent Leonard Rezmierski will never forget his first day of work for the district.

When he hired in over 16 years ago as the district's executive director of special education, Rezmierski didn't know where his desk was in his temporary "office" set up at what is now the Northville Parks and Recreation Department. His secretary, who he hadn't even been introduced to, handed him three employment folders and told him, "I think you're supposed to give these people their notice."

"By 8:15 a.m. I had not only read about and met with the three people, in fact, I had informed them that they had been let go," Rezmierski said. "It (the job) has really been uphill ever since then."

The district was in a state of chaos back then, Rezmierski recalled. Meads Mill Middle School had just been completed, but the district lacked the funds to open it. There weren't enough buildings to house students and staff so make-shift classrooms were constructed. The old high school, now Old Village School, was condemned, which led Rezmierski to one of his first projects.

He and the superintendent at that time wrote a grant request to have the building renovated. The request was awarded and in September 1980, the school was opened, under budget, for multi-impaired children.

"The first 15 years of memories I have is that the community took a risk and trusted the fact that we would offer programs that were appropriate and helpful (to impaired children)," Rezmierski said. "They were firm believers in just because someone is handicapped and resides in an institution doesn't mean they don't have access to educational opportunities."

Rezmierski is proud to say the Northville district pioneered special education curriculum. The curriculum it has written has been sold literally around the world, and several major book publishers have asked to market the material.

The district has also produced three video tapes and one movie on behavior modification. The movie was a runner-up in the documentary category at the Academy Awards. Any money made from curriculum sales or speaking fees went back into a fund to help people in need, Rezmierski said.

"Now, look at downtown Northville, circa 1992," Rezmierski said. "There are a number of children and young adults with various disabilities, some noticeable, some very noticeable, and they are all very welcome downtown. The community didn't run away from its commitments and I think everybody gained."

The community is again looking at risks as the methods of education are changing. Rezmierski said the Northville district is addressing those changes with its strategic plans.

"We have a very bright future," he said. "Is it going to be easy? No. Is it going to happen overnight? No. We need to pull everyone together to see this future through."

"We're on the brink of an exciting opportunity for the community, not just the school district. We are a key player. Some say we're the beacon light. Why? What's the first thing people look at when moving to a new community? The schools."

Some of those new educational methods include changing the mindset of students and preparing them as life-long learners.

"We want kids to be able to demonstrate what they know and not just collect letter grades," the superintendent said.

"It has been a great learning lesson for me and a significant amount of humility. You quickly learn how much you don't know."

LEONARD REZMIERSKI
Northville Superintendent

"I'm concerned with the health and well-being of the school district," Rezmierski said. "The community's perception is it's the community's ability to pay for reasonable programs. We're totally dependent on the public sector — we're funded 97 percent by the tax community, yet we're legally bound to the state."

Although he's been the superintendent for a little over a year now, Rezmierski said the excitement of his job hasn't ceased.

"I would say the last year and three months have been dynamic," he said. "It has been a great learning lesson for me and a significant amount of humility. You quickly learn how much you don't know."

"The most eye-opening things for me were the two millage campaigns. We had 47 meetings and I met 1,400 people. It was a lesson."

Rezmierski admitted that for all the disadvantages of his job, though, there is always some sort of reward. "Yes, it's been very stressful," he said. "I didn't walk into this job with my eyes closed. I'm still very hopeful. It's the people that make the difference."

"I have a great opportunity here. When it gets this high (Rezmierski held his hand up to his eyebrows), I go downstairs and read a book to the little kids. Or, I'll walk the hallways and see the teachers — re-energize my batteries. That's what it's all about."

newal millage election will also be held next year because the district's 22.63 mills will expire June 30. Rezmierski said it was too early to predict whether the board would seek a millage increase, however, said he has learned there are some major cutbacks coming from Lansing.

"I've been advised that the governor will announce there is a $400 million deficit," he said.

He said he also heard that $50 million in executive order cuts will be made in the area of education. It's also been rumored the governor has a property tax relief plan.

Another agenda item for 1993 is teacher contracts, which will be negotiated during the summer.

Board opens lines for resident input

By MICHELLE KAISER
Staff Writer

Starting Monday, Northville School District residents can reach out and touch their elected school board officials.

At least three members of the board, on a rotating basis, will take telephone calls from residents for 55 minutes preceding the first board of education meeting of each month.

Northville Schools Superintendent Leonard Rezmierski said the move is just one idea stemming from campaign strategies developed after last year's June 8 millage defeat.

"This is just taking a good idea and letting the people know, yes, you can have direct access to your public officials," Rezmierski said.

Residents are urged to call and let board members know how they feel about the district and its services. Both positive and negative comments are being solicited.

Residents will also be asked to identify themselves, if not by name and address, then by general demographics. Are they parents? If so, of what age group? etc.

Rezmierski said the telephone surveys are just one more measure of keeping the public informed, adding other groups are helping such as the Advocates for Quality Education, which is tapping board meetings for public broadcasting, and the Legislative Action Network, which researched last November's tax proposals.

A complete schedule will be available next week, however, these are the dates board members will be taking phone calls:

- Jan. 11
- Feb. 8
- March 8
- April 19
- May 10
- June 14

Phones will be answered from 6:30 to 7:25 p.m. Residents can get in touch with board members by calling the Northville Public Schools central office at 349-3400.

Also on tap for Monday night's meeting will include the recognition of board members in observance of School Board Member Recognition Month.

College cruise Counselor serves as registrar for event

By MICHELLE KAISER
Staff Writer

It may not be a trip on a cruise ship, but Northville High School counselor Nancy Arnold is happy she is at least taking reservations for the third annual Michigan Association of College Admission Counselors (MACAC) "campus cruise."

Arnold will serve as a registrar for the event, collecting and recording the money sent in by cruise participants.

Those taking the cruise, which will take place March 23, 24 and 25, will visit universities in southern Indiana. Leaving from East Lansing, participants will visit Tri-State, Ball State and Butler universities the first day of the cruise. On the second day, cruisers will visit DePauw and Purdue universities and Wabash College. The final day of the trip will include tours of Valparaiso University and the University of Notre Dame.

Arnold isn't sure if she'll be participating in this year's cruise, however, someone will represent Northville High School, which belongs to the MACAC.

"I feel it's real important," Arnold said of the cruise. "What we're finding as we visit these schools is that we're really able to identify with that school when we talk with students. And, it gives us a contact."

The cruise also gives counselors a chance to ask questions regarding special programs at specific universities and network with other colleagues of Michigan schools.

"One of our goals as a (counseling) department is to branch out into more professional organizations, not only in terms of college education but with counseling information as well," Arnold said.

For example, Northville High School counselor Jack Wickens is an officer with the Michigan Career Development Association. Carolyn Bovair, another counselor at Northville High School, belongs to the Michigan Association for Counseling and Development.

The department have a variety of job responsibilities; probably the most well-known is talking with students about future plans in education. Secretary Linda Murphy also schedules college representatives to visit the school, so students can learn more about institutions without leaving the district.

The department also assists local organizations that give students local scholarships in the spring. It coordinates efforts with the school social workers and psychologists, and the district's substance abuse program.

"We also serve as a go-between with teachers and students who feel they have a problem with a teacher," Arnold said.

Counselors administer testing programs such as the Michigan Educational Assessment Program (MEAP), PSAT and PLAN, a preliminary for the ACT (American College Test).

"We also work on scheduling (classes) with students and we work with outside sources — psychologists, tutors," Arnold said. "We're resource people."

Arnold began her career at Northville High School 12 years ago as a math teacher. Five years ago, she decided to pursue a job as counselor.

"I had my counseling degree," she explained. "When you're working in a classroom, particularly in the field of math, two plus two doesn't always particularly give insight to students."

"And, in my teaching, I counseled quite a few kids and I enjoyed it."

Arnold also sponsored the senior classes of 1984 through 1986 and was involved in other student groups.

"I enjoyed getting to know them (students) on a personal level, so I thought I'd give (counseling) a try," she said.

A native of West Virginia, Arnold taught math to students in her home state for over five years. When her husband George's job was transferred to Michigan, she put aside her career for three years to raise their son.

She returned to teaching at Royal Oak for just over a year before taking a job as math coordinator at the Southeast Vocational Technical Center.

Arnold said her current career goal is one shared by the entire counseling department.

"We're all working hard to have a real team effort here," she said. "All of us are contributing, including our secretary. We're all trying to improve programs all of the time."

Police a step ahead in solving burglary

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

Fancy footwork by city police helped lead to the arrest of a Northville man for burglary.

Shawn Komarynski, 18, was linked to the Nov. 23 break-in of a Fairbrook Street home by a sneaker print on the home's broken-in front door.

A witness also saw a man matching Komarynski's description leaving the property at 3:20 that afternoon.

Komarynski's name first arose in police discussions with another Northville man about a separate break-in. The man told police that Komarynski and another friend had broken into the home looking for money.

Detective David Fendelet called Komarynski in to the police station Nov. 29 and questioned him about the allegation. When Komarynski crossed his legs, Fendelet noticed that the sole of his sneaker matched the imprint found on the Fairbrook home's door. The detective told Komarynski that he was seen leaving the scene, and he admitted kicking the door open but said he did not go inside the house.

Komarynski said he broke in to allow a friend, a 16-year-old Northville boy, entrance to the house. Police questioned the boy Dec. 3 and he admitted breaking into the home with Komarynski. He said he was looking for money but did not find anything.

His case was turned over to the Wayne County Juvenile Court.

Komarynski turned himself in to city police Dec. 23 and was arraigned in front of 35th District Judge James Garber that day on a charge of breaking and entering an occupied dwelling. A not guilty plea was entered on his behalf and Komarynski was released after posting a $10,000 personal recognizance bond.

A new world is taking shape.

With all the exciting new breakthroughs in communications, "business as usual" is an outdated concept.

Because today, images and data that once took days or even weeks to reach their destination are now received in seconds. So whether you're part of a start-up business or a major corporation, you can have ready access to the data you need to make critical decisions.

Ameritech is leading the way in applying this technology, helping businesses in our communities thrive in this information age. For example, with Ameritech's LAN-to-LAN interconnectivity, companies are managing inventory and sharing information electronically with real-time savings.

A computer-aided design application helped one of the world's largest auto-makers increase productivity by allowing more than 150 suppliers to transfer design files instantly, with just the push of a button.

A regional health information network, designed by Ameritech, links doctors, hospitals, employers and insurance companies. This not only improves the quality of healthcare but also lowers the cost of delivering it.

And a fast-food industry giant watched productivity go up and commute time go down when Ameritech used ISDN lines to link employees working at home with colleagues at their corporate campus.

Board will honor BFI contract

By SHARON CONDRON
Staff Writer

After three hours of discussion last Tuesday, the Northville Township Board of Trustees conceded to Browning-Ferris Industries and agreed to honor the recycling-service-for-sewer-capacity deal that binds the two together.

But the board's nod of approval didn't come cheaply or without contingencies. To its motion, a reluctant board attached five tentative amendments.

The proposed amendment package may bring a landfill operation to Northville Township; strike a deal for township residents to have additional park land; and deed a connecting sewer line from BFI's Arbor Hills landfill (in Salem Township), and its metering manhole, to the township. In addition, the proposed amendments put township personnel in charge of the operation, maintenance, reading, testing and monitoring of the added sewer line, all at BFI's expense.

Township Supervisor Karen Baja said BFI had agreed to the proposed amendments before the meeting, though neither side has sought legal opinions on the amendment package. Baja and BFI agreed to work out the details of the amendments later pending contract and sewer acceptance at the special meeting Tuesday.

Baja said one of the amendments provides for the expansion of the landfill operations inside the township boundaries. That expansion would be limited to the construction of an additional landfill and prohibit any hazardous waste operations.

She said she insisted BFI agree to the non-hazardous waste clause because of the fear hazardous waste in stills in communities.

"Nobody wants a landfill in their backyards, and quite frankly this would be in my backyard. But BFI has agreed that there would be no hazardous waste collection," she said.

Before the seven board members gave unanimous approval and accepted the first installment payments from BFI officials, they held out until BFI agreed to donate or lease some of its land to the township for recreation uses.

The two parties came to an impasse when they failed to agree on the amount of acreage BFI would donate. When BFI's Division Manager Thomas Handyside realized the board's approval hinged on the park land deal, the discussion became heated between he and the township board.

"This is an awful lot of stuff to handle tonight," Handyside said. "I guess it's just in my mind that we are backed into a corner, and just because we can't agree on acreage and you all don't like this contract it won't be approved."

Baja then vented her frustrations over the direction the conversation was taking.

"We realize tonight that the language is not final tonight but the amendments are part of the agreement," Baja told Handyside and BFI's General Manager John Myers. "We weren't able to have things drawn up with the time constraints . . ."

"I am not going to sit here like a 2-year-old and be told we are going to do it my way or else," said Baja. "Quite frankly I've come here to negotiate in good faith and I'm not going to be told it's my way or the highway. If that's the way it's going to be then I'm going to take the highway."

Many of the board members expressed their concerns about accepting the connecting sewer line and subsequently the contract that comes with it. Even though they had reservations about how the deal was struck, Ernie Essad, the township's attorney had told the board last week there was little they could do to wiggle out of the contract.

"If this matter had started with this board we would have done things differently," said Trustee Mark Abbo, "but I think our hands are tied."

Trustee Gini Britton said she would have negotiated for more money from BFI, but she agreed the board had little legal leverage in the matter.

"Personally I have a hard time with this contract," she said. "I'm having a hard time with the way it was negotiated and I just feel if any of our predecessors had questioned it before they approved it, we wouldn't be in this position. We are really between a rock and a hard place and I don't think we have a snowball's chance of going ahead with this in court."

"I would have liked to have seen this $2.2 million figure go a lot higher but it didn't and personally I don't think we can fight this," she said.

Trustee Russell Fogg echoed Britton's comments. "I'm not thrilled with the deal," said Trustee Russell Fogg. "But I see no reason to hold it up when it seems that there wasn't anything done improperly or illegally."

BFI officials had petitioned the board for Tuesday's special meeting to get the sewer accepted so they could begin pumping leachate through it. The same request had been tabled last month, but waste hauler officials weren't willing to wait until the board's January meeting to get the township's nod. Aside from that, pressure was mounting because BFI's pump and haul permit expired Dec. 31. Without board approval, the waste hauler might have had to stall its operations or apply for an extension of its pump-and-haul permit. With those timing constraints, the board and BFI had little time over the holidays to hammer out the legal details of the proposed amendments.

Before giving her approval Trustee Barbara O'Brien drilled Handyside about his seats on the water and sewer commission and on the township board while the contract was being fed through the township's approval system. She also wondered why BFI hadn't sought an extension on its pump-and-haul permit to buy the board some time to review the contract.

"We had no reason to believe there would be a problem," Handyside said. "Construction on the sewer was finished a month ahead of time."

"Your signature on the contract is definitely an interesting part of the contract," O'Brien said.

To her comments Handyside rebutted, "Are you still a Realtor here? . . . I think that's germane, but let's not start slinging mud at each other."

Obituaries

RICHARD ALDRED

Richard (Ricky) Aldred, a painter who lived most of his childhood in the Northville area, died unexpectedly Jan. 1 at his home in Orlando, Fla.

The son of John James and Barbara (Barry) Aldred, he was born Aug. 17, 1961, in Detroit and was 31 at the time of his death.

He was an avid dart player and a member of the Florida Dart Association.

Mr. Aldred is survived by his parents, John and Barbara Aldred, and his wife, Kathleen Golen Aldred, all of Harrisville. Other survivors include three sisters, Susan Arnold of Northville, Lisa Aldred of Plymouth and Kathleen Skotarczyk of Harper Woods; two brothers, Michael of St. Clair Shores and Jerry of Milford; and two grandmothers, Viola Barry of Harrisville and Letha Powell of Detroit.

A funeral Mass was said Wednesday, Jan. 6, at Our Lady of Victory Catholic Church in Northville with Monsignor Arthur Karey officiating.

Burial was at Rural Hill Cemetery in Northville through the Ross B. Northrup Funeral Home.

Memorials to the Michigan Cancer Foundation would be appreciated by the family.

"It would be required to go through all the planning and development stages before it was accepted," she said. ". . . and it couldn't have any hazardous wastes."

Baja hadn't returned calls to the Record by press time to comment on the progress the township and BFI were making in ironing out the details of the amendment package. Myers said BFI's attorneys were working on it now and he expected something in writing from them soon.

RECORD OPINION

Our Opinion

Henningsen's ouster circumvented public

Wait just a minute here. We thought these kinds of things ended when the old Northville Township Board of Trustees was swept out of office.

The manner in which Township Supervisor Karen Baja handled the release of Township Manager Richard Henningsen last week smacks of the shenanigans of the old board. While we can abide by the board's decision not to renew Henningsen's contract, we are alarmed to see that the matter was handled almost entirely out of the public eye. This is no way to make decisions regarding the most important paid position in the township. At the very least, this betrays the campaign promises for a more open board of trustees.

Baja said she held one-on-one and small-group meetings with all the members of the board, and polled them on whether to renew Henningsen's contract. She admitted that at no time was there a quorum which would have constituted a public meeting. Her feeling was that this was the most "humane" way to handle matter of Henningsen's

We can appreciate the board's desire to handle the matter in as humane a manner as possible. Henningsen has feelings like anyone else, and served the township dutifully for four years. His departure deserves to be handled in a professional fashion.

As part of her rationale for handling the release privately, Baja cited existence of the unfounded rumors that his ouster was a result of media pressure and ties to the old board. Yet therein lies the very reason why the matter should be handled in a public forum. Michigan's Freedom of Information and Public Meetings acts are nicknamed "sunshine laws" because when matters are handled in the light of day, the truth becomes inescapably clear.

The sunshine laws are also quite clear on the matter of sub-quorum meetings. Such meetings are not acceptable as a substitute for a public forum. We hope this is not an indicator of the way the new board intends to do business.

Farewell to one who made things happen

"Dull Dan," some pundits called him — as if government were a comedy show.

Daniel T. Murphy's career in Oakland County government, however, was anything but dull. As clerk, chair of the board of auditors and finally for 18 years as county executive, Murphy made county government a premier, effective service agency for people and business.

Murphy didn't shake the rafters with lines like "Give me liberty or give me death." His favorite sayings, not necessarily original, were: "There's no limit to what you can accomplish if you don't care who gets credit." "Let's sit down and talk." "Make things happen."

Presidents and governors took credit for good economic times, but it's significant that Oakland in the 1980s saw two-thirds of the office growth in the entire state. Oakland is home to more Fortune 500 companies than any other county in Michigan.

His Oakland County Economic Development Group did the job. County offices worked with small villages on downtown plans, with communities bordering I-696 on their turnarounds, and with older cities and townships on the southern border to hatch the Eight Mile Boulevard plan.

Murphy was one of a long list of public servants who grasped the notion that no one city dominated Oakland County; that county government could perform, on a cooperative basis, many services that communities couldn't perform as well individually.

Take, for example, the county parks system — an imaginative system of nine parks for day use, camping, golf, water sports and entertainment begun in 1966. No city or township could have done it. No other county has matched it. In good years and bad, voters renewed their tax commitment.

The self-effacing Murphy would be first to insist that belief in the Oakland ethic is widely held, in both political parties, by many good men and women. But the rest of us would insist that Murphy was the guy who understood how to budget for it and could manage the nuts-and-bolts work that turned concepts into public services.

The cultural affairs office. The Women's Cancer Screening program. The student intern program. The battle for state mental health money. Airport improvements. Public works. And on, and on.

Murphy was the first executive in the state to head a form of government many considered a hydra-headed monster. He plunked for "unified" government, not for reasons of ego, but because he wanted the county to be accountable to the people, not just to courthouse insiders. His battles to bring the Road Commission and the drain office to heel failed politically, but Murphy won the long-term war to get those offices to "sit down and talk . . . make things happen."

Early in his career, Murphy disdained the area south of Eight Mile. Abruptly he saw the light, took a leadership role in the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments, showed more leadership in public transportation, developed a rhetoric-free relationship with Detroit's mayor and worked with leaders of Macomb and Wayne counties.

As he retires to the Lake Michigan shoreline and former prosecutor L. Brooks Patterson prepares to take over, honors are coming Dan Murphy's way, such as the "summit award" from the Greater Detroit Chamber of Commerce and the renaming of the Executive Building in his honor.

We add only one thought. Any portrait, nameplate or sculpture of Mr. Oakland County should bear the Dan Murphy Creed:

"Make things happen."

Thanks, Northville Downs

Phil Jerome

So the Northville Downs is celebrating its 50th anniversary, eh?

It's an important event for me. Important because Northville Downs not only paid a big portion of my college education but also gave me an opportunity to engage in desktop publishing.

I've been in the newspaper business ever since my family moved to Northville back in '55 when I was 12 years old. Soon after we arrived in Northville I got a job as junior high sports reporter for The Record. I earned a dime-an-inch for every story which got in the paper, but it wasn't long before the bosses decided to let me go because the paper had more extensive of junior high sports than high school sports.

My second job in the newspaper business was as a paper-boy. I started delivering The Detroit Times and ended up with a Free Press route after The Times folded.

So how does this relate to Northville Downs paying a big chunk of my college education? It was the summer after I graduated from Northville High School that our Free Press supervisor asked if my brother David and I would like to hawk the newspaper at the Downs during the summer.

We accepted the job and learned very quickly that it paid pretty good money. The Free Press cost seven cents in those days, but most people at the Downs flipped us a dime and said to "skip the change, kid." The cheapskates who didn't tell us to "skip the change" had to wait for their pennies as we fumbled around long enough to make them feel guilty.

The price of a paper rose from seven to 10 cents during the summers between 1961 and '64, and not getting those extra three cents per paper cut into our profit margin considerably, but we still made darn good money hawking the papers at the Downs.

Desktop publishing? The term wouldn't be invented for another 15-20 years or so, but my brother and I also learned about publishing a newspaper as a result of working at the Downs during those summers of our youth.

What happened is that one year the Free Press and News went on strike with two weeks left in the summer racing season, and we were deeply concerned about losing those two weeks of income.

So we decided to publish our own paper. We knew that the vast majority of the people who bought the paper at the Downs were interested in only one thing — the results of the afternoon races at the Detroit Race Course.

So Margaret Zayti, bless her soul, allowed us to use the Downs' teletype to collect the results as soon as they came in over the wire.

David and I had a relay system for collecting the DRC results after every third race and bicycling them home. Mother would type the results onto a stencil, and Dad would run them off the mimeograph machine.

The finished product wasn't very polished, but it had those race results — which was all our customers wanted.

We sold our "paper" for a dime, which was what we had charged for the Free Press. Some of our customers accused us of being thieves; others praised our industriousness and told us we should have charged a quarter.

Whatever, we never missed a day of revenue, and tuition for another year of college was assured.

Happy anniversary, Northville Downs. And thanks a lot.

Engler lacks GOP mandate

At this season the journalistic instinct to predict events of the coming year runs the greatest risk of overwhelming common sense.

OK. So what follows is less prediction and more informed guess.

Michigan politics is teetering on the edge of fundamental change. After many years of Lansing gridlock caused by divided control of the House/Senate/governor (you pick), Republicans are one measly House vote away from full control.

Last year's elections wound up with a 55-55 split in the House of Representatives. That funny sound you hear in the distance is Gov. John Engler and his GOP friends constructing bribes to get some (any!) Democrat to switch parties and so gain control of the House.

My guess is they'll do it, after a fair amount of huffing and puffing.

"It's very clear that the gridlock has been broken in Lansing, and this is going to be a very active town in the next few months," says Engler, already scenting victory.

If that happens, you could see a lot of activity on a lot of issues that have been around for a very long time. Property tax reduction. School finance. Legal (tort) reform. Auto insurance reform. Education.

In the minds of the governor and GOP legislators, resolution of these issues has been stymied for years by the way Democratic control of the House allowed special interests to block progress. The trial lawyers, in the GOP's view, killed tort reform and maintained the auto insurance scandal, while teachers unions stopped property tax reduction and educational performance reform.

That may or may not be so. But my guess is that not long after gaining control, the Republicans will have their hands full trying to manage their own.

Take property tax reduction and, the other side of the coin, school finance reform. The business community and many suburban property owners sure would like to see property taxes cut. But Republican lawmakers representing wealthy school districts are not about to roll over while financing for their schools dries up.

Or try to reconcile two traditional Republican interest groups — insurance companies and doctors — over changes in auto insurance.

My guess is that Engler, if left to himself, is both clever and tough enough to manage this kind of reconciliation. But I don't think he'll be left entirely to himself.

There is a tremendous civil war brewing in the Michigan Republican Party, the fallout from last year's national defeat.

Ordinary "country club" Republicans blame the religious right for driving women and suburbanites away with their exclusionary rhetoric, while "hard conservatives" of the Pat Buchanan variety accuse the country clubbers of betraying true GOP principles. The war for control will be long and savage.

My guess is that Engler won't be able to hold a boiling and fissioning Republican legislative caucus together.

Whether and how he does that will determine in large part what he gets from the end of Lansing gridlock.

DARE is redundant in Northville

To the Editor:

Wake up Northville and look at the big picture! Don't assume that the only group opposed to including the DARE program as part of the school day is the administration. There's a whole group of intelligent, informed, concerned parents here who are in agreement that the last thing our children need is another substance abuse program of any kind.

I'm sure the DARE program is a good one; so is the substance abuse portion of the Michigan Model. However, I personally don't want any more of my child's school day focused on anything other than academics. Offer it as an after school activity through community education or the rec center. I'll support that. Just don't take any more time out of my child's school day.

Kids who choose not to cave in to peer pressure are kids who feel good about themselves. The way to achieve that level of self-esteem is feeling successful. Children feel successful when they do well in school, participate in extra-curricular activities like band, debate or a sport (to name a few) and when they feel loved and encouraged and are raised in a healthy environment.

We as parents have a responsibility not to cave in to peer pressure as well. Just because other districts have a DARE program doesn't mean we have to. Other districts are incorporating the DARE program into their social studies curriculum in some cases. This is not an example I want to follow.

DARE promoters tell us the program won't cost us any money. Not true. It's costing the district money right now as the school board spends valuable time reviewing a program that offers information already covered in our students' health classes. The board's time would be better spent reviewing the high school day, the math curriculum, or how to cut down on class size. In addition, the DARE program also involves a $5 per student materials fee. (The argument that this fee is so low that it will not make a difference to the school district is like the DDA claiming 1.5 percent of our school budget won't be missed.) The point is the school district doesn't have any extra funds.

I am appalled at the issues some parents choose to give their attention to! A sports program is in place, car pools have replaced buses and now everybody's overwrought about a recent drug survey. This might be understandable, but I don't understand why parents think it is the responsibility of the school district. One of my children is in kindergarten with 27 others. There are numerous other overfilled classrooms as well. High school students qualified to attend honors classes are not availed of that opportunity because of teacher layoffs. These are just a few of the very serious obstacles facing our children and interfering with their ability to experience success.

As a parent of four children I am much more comfortable and capable of teaching my children the dangers of drugs and alcohol than I am teaching them math and science and all the other subjects they need to know in order to attend the university of their choice and compete in the job market. It is also my responsibility—not the school district's. This is the denial issue that I have become acutely aware of in this community. I don't know anyone who denies that our society in general abuses drugs and alcohol. However, I know too many people who deny their own responsibility to themselves and to their children and choose instead to push that responsibility off on other parents and the education system.

Instead of following every other example of social engineering (and there are many) let's make Northville the leader in real education. Let's insist that our school district return to its original mandate of teaching academics.

MADD thanks supporters of red ribbon drive

To the Editor:

MADD, Wayne County Chapter, wishes to extend its gratitude to all citizens, businesses, organizations, churches, students and schools who participated in the 1992 "The One On For Safety" Red Ribbon Campaign this holiday season. Your constant support continues to "red flag" social consciousness when it comes to the crime of drinking and driving prevention in our county.

More than 500,000 red ribbons, over one million feet were distributed along with countless posters, pins and promises for a safe, sober holiday season.

Thanks to the groups of seniors, girls scouts, business people, education centers, and numerous individuals who cut and counted ribbon for us. Our appreciation is great.

After snow, car washes and salt take their toll, our red, or pink ribbons, will still flutter for taking a stand.

Michele Kubicz,
Executive Director

Board members deserving of our recognition

To the Editor:

Imagine a community with no local control over its schools. Picture paying an education bill without local men and women to make spending decisions for you and other citizens like you. Think about an education system where all policy is set at the state or national level. Imagine putting your children in the hands of someone you don't know.

If you don't like the way your schools would be run without them, show your appreciation for your locally elected school trustees during January, School Board Member Recognition Month.

These are people who make education their business. Investing countless hours of their time, and often their own resources, to set direction for your children and your local public schools.

They establish policies that reflect your beliefs and set goals that project your community's vision for the future.

They spend long hours, after their own work days, making decisions on issues that will eventually impact everything from local business to the quality of life in your community.

Most of their efforts go unrewarded. Often the only response school board members get is criticism.

But what would you do without them? Where would you go with your concerns? Your questions? Your complaints?

Who else would be so in tune with both the prospects and the problems of your community? With the successes and failures of your businesses? With the special needs of your employers? With the fears and hopes and dreams of your families?

When you elected them, you picked people to act for you in your absence. You chose men and women you knew you could trust with the vitality of your community and the development of your children.

But you probably didn't realize that your school board would play such an important role in the uniquely American school governance system that guarantees local control of your schools.

Now is the time to recognize your board of education by saying thanks to Carol J. Rahimi, president; Glenna C. Davis, vice president; Richard H. Brown Jr., secretary; Robert O. McMahon, treasurer; Patricia Custer, trustee; Joseph Dunkerley Jr., trustee; and Jean M. Hansen, trustee.

Without them, you would lose a vital link to your schools.

Don't bash this barbarian, thank you

America. Areas like China and the Balkans got "flashback" treatment.

No more. Channel 56 last fall gave us the ultimate in West bashing — a six-hour series called "Legacy," written and narrated by Michael Wood (no stated credentials). Wood gave an hour each to Iraq, Egypt, India, China, Central America and "The Barbarian West."

That's right — "barbarian." No other civilization was smeared in a title. Wood's treatment of history turned out to be anti-Christian, stridently anti-capitalist, and vehemently anti-Catholic. Well, Channel 56 bills itself as "alternative television," all right. Items:

■ "In India, the currents of sacredness run deep indeed," in a land which idealizes nonviolence and the inner life. No mention that three Gandhis were assassinated, or of India's bloody religious strife; no mention that the Brits took over civil government in the 18th century because Indian rulers hired them. In a revealing aside, Wood equates "The Communist Manifesto" with Greek democracy and the American Bill of Rights.

■ The first Chinese to see westerners, Wood said, described us as grim, untidy, smelly, lying and arrogant. On the screen flashes a portrait of George Washington.

■ Egypt has been a great civilization since 3000 B.C., Wood says, under every religious influence but one — the Christian.

■ In Central America's cultures, Wood tells us, all was well, even though medical diagnosis was done by "sacred divination" with beans, until Europeans introduced war and pollution, and the Catholic Church systematically destroyed local culture. Spaniards, we are told, practiced "the greatest genocide in human history."

Whoops! Till Columbus was met by naked, syphilis-cannibals (the Caribbean is named for them). Native Americans were adept at exterminating each other; check the histories of the Huron and Erie tribes, among others. Moreover, I would hardly call a religion in which priests ripped out and chewed the palpitating hearts of 10,000 victims in a four-day festival a high point of world civilization.

■ "The greatest catastrophe of modern Guatemalan history," says Wood, was the 1954 "U.S.-backed coup which overthrew their democracy." Wood omits a few facts: The regime was Communist; the U.S. promptly provided $90 million in development assistance; Guatemala's highway construction boomed; its coffee earnings soared; and its tourism returned. Some catastrophe.

■ Wood's characterization of the West is a string of smears, their theme being violence. He ties global war to the West, neglecting the fact that a treaty between Nazi Germany and Japan set the stage; also forgetting the Axis attacked first; also neglecting that the war in the Pacific was occasioned by five Japanese sneak attacks, including one on Hawaii at a time when Japan's diplomats were supposedly negotiating peace.

There is no space to list dozens of other examples of Wood's falsifying of history. One general criticism of his tirade needs to be made. He doesn't grasp geography and the impact of natural climatic changes on human civilization, ignorantly blaming all such change on humans messing with the environment. Even from a Taoist or Marxist point of view, Michael Wood does a sloppy job.

The old "Story of Nations" was more balanced.

Channel 56 tells us that "Legacy" was paid for by MFS investment service, the Corporation for Public Broadcasting and "viewers like you."

Sorry — not viewers like me. America's enemies are entitled to their opinions, but I won't pay Channel 56 to spread them.

Suggestions on getting along

Here they are:

ELEVEN PROVEN WAYS TO GET ALONG BETTER

WITH EVERYONE

1. Before you say anything to anyone, ask yourself three things: A. Is it true? B. Is it kind? C. Is it necessary?
2. Make promises sparingly and keep them faithfully.
3. Never miss the opportunity to compliment or to say something encouraging to someone.
4. Refuse to talk negatively about others; don't listen to gossip.
5. Have a forgiving view of people. Believe that most people are doing the best they can.
6. Keep an open mind; discuss, but don't argue. (It is possible to disagree without being disagreeable.)
7. Forget about counting to 10. Count to 1,000 before doing or saying something that could make matters worse.

8. Let your virtues speak for themselves.
9. If someone criticizes you, see if there is any truth to what he is saying; if so, make changes.
10. Cultivate your sense of humor; laughter is the shortest distance between two people.
11. "Do not seek so much to be consoled, as to console; do not seek so much to be understood, as to understand; do not seek so much to be loved, as to love."

If your children need help getting along with others, please call Mary Ellen King at 344-1618. We are a community agency and we are here to help you and your family.

Metropark slated for improvements

By TIM RICHARD
Staff Writer

Kensington Metropark visitors will see wider bikepaths and new toll plazas in 1993.

Meanwhile, the state is scheduled in 1993 to pay its share of the doubling of Kensington's nature center.

Otherwise, visitors to Huron-Clinton Metroparks will see a few capital improvements at newer parks with major maintenance at older units in the 13-park chain. For example, a new wildflowers museum will be started at Lake Erie, more work will go on at a dairy farm at Wolcott Mill, and an in-park road is scheduled for the Stony Creek nature center.

They are part of a 1993 general fund budget of $32.6 million approved recently by the board of the Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority.

Entry fees will rise for the first time since 1986, "reflecting the increasing costs of maintaining, operating and improving the 13 metroparks," said director William P. Sherman. (See related story.)

They reflect a trend to relying less on property tax revenues (55.2 percent in '93 versus 56.6 percent in '92) and more on operating revenues (26.3 percent in '93 versus 25.1 percent in '92).

A major program improvement will be the addition of a third Voyageur canoe, a 34-foot craft carrying 22 people. Stony Creek, Metro Beach and Oakwoods will each have one of the popular canoes used in the 17th and 18th centuries by French fur traders.

HCMA, which completed its 50th anniversary, serves the five counties of Wayne, Oakland, Macomb, Livingston and Washtenaw.

Property owners pay a voted 0.23 mill tax. Cost to the owner of a $100,000 house, assessed at half, is $11.52 a year; for a $150,000 house, $17.27 a year.

HCMA operates 13 metroparks covering 24,000 acres, or just under 2,000 acres per park. All are on or near the Huron and Clinton rivers, which start in northern Oakland County and roughly encircle the region. Sherman said park visits totaled 9 million last year.

Property tax revenue will be almost flat at nearly $18 million because of a state ordered freeze in 1992 assessments.

Parks are mostly for day use — picnicking, hiking, swimming, boating, canoeing, fishing and golf.

Plans for '93 are built around a $750,000 grant from the state bond issue called "Protecting Michigan's Future," said HCMA information officer David Mollanen. Voters approved the bonds in 1988.

Between that grant, HCMA's own revenues and previous capital expenditures, here are the expected results:

- Kensington — state reimbursement for doubling of the size of the nature center at the most popular of the 13 parks.

- Lake Erie Metropark — a wildflowers museum and interpretive center, for which ground was broken in fall. The site is adjacent to one of the most popular duck hunting areas in the state. Work also will be finished on a boat launch — paving the parking lot, completing sewers and navigation lights.

Visitors to get in free Tuesdays

Metroparks visitors will get free admission Tuesdays in 1993 and pay varying fees other days.

"The variable fees are an attempt to encourage use of the parks throughout the week and to hold down costs for people on limited incomes," said William P. Sherman, director of the 13-park system.

On balance, the fee increases will add $500,000 in revenue, boosting budgeted operating revenue to $8.5 million, said controller David L. Wahl.

Here is how fees will change:

- Annual vehicle fees for most people will rise to $15 from the $10 fee set in 1986.
- Senior citizens' annual stickers will go to $8 from the current $5.
- Annual permits will have coupons on the back for free rounds of par-3 golf, cross-country ski equipment or pool entry.
- Annual boat launch fees will go to $18 (from $13) general; for senior citizens, to $9 (from $6).

Daily fees will rise for the first time since 1979. Major changes:

- Tuesdays are free.
- Weekend and holiday rates will rise to $3 (from $2). Weekday fee remains at $2.
- Daily boat launching permits will rise to $5 on weekends and holidays and remain at $3 on weekdays except for free Tuesdays.

Golfing and some marina fees at Lake Erie also will go up.

Annual 1993 vehicle entry and boat launching permits are on sale at metropark offices and toll plazas.

- Willow, in southern Wayne County along the lower Huron — continued development of 17 acre Washago Pond for peddle boats, fishing and ice skating; also completion of a 4.5-mile bike-hike trail.

Major maintenance will cost $1.77 million in 1993.

- Kensington — two redeveloped toll plazas and a new comfort station for the Baywoods picnic area.

- Huron Meadows, south of Brighton — improvements to Maltby Road; more picnic areas will be developed for future years.

Center offers parenting workshop

By MICHELLE KAISER
Staff Writer

When it comes to parenting it's better to be proactive than reactive, according to Jacques Martin-Downs of the Northville Counseling Center.

"Kids know exactly where the parties are and where the parents aren't (home)," Martin-Downs said. "Parents don't follow up on things like that. They don't know what other parents are doing. They don't call (other parents) because they're not sure how they'll be received."

An educational workshop designed to instruct parents on how to bring up their child drug-free begins this week in Northville. Called

"Parent to Parent," the workshop will be held for four consecutive Sundays beginning Jan. 10 at 11 a.m. at Northville Presbyterian Church on Main Street. Two longer sessions will also begin Monday, Jan. 18, from 9 to 11:30 a.m. at Meads Mill Middle School. Another session, which began Tuesday, is also held from 9 to 10:30 a.m. Tuesdays at the center.

"There are three segments," Martin-Downs said. "The first one deals with awareness and what to look for. Number two is prevention and third is intervention."

Although the workshops are designed for parents of all school-aged children, Martin-Downs encouraged parents of pre-schoolers and elementary students to attend.

"It's best to know about these things before the middle school and high school problems begin," she said.

"Parent to Parent" works in conjunction with the SafeHomes organization and is sponsored by the Southeastern Michigan Substance Abuse Services.

"This is not a drug program in the sense that we're going to tell parents what marijuana is and what to look for, but rather how to be consistent and predictable in parenting," Martin-Downs said.

There is no fee for any of the sessions. Registrations can be made by calling the Northville Counseling Center at 347-3470.

Our 4th Annual RESTAURANT POLL

We can't believe it, either. Another year has passed us by. And it's time, once again, to give credit to our favorite institution that has helped us through the challenges of 1992.

Food. If it weren't for the food we ate in the past year... well, we'd all be dead. Of course, not all the food we ate in 1992 was good. Some was just so-so, but some was incredibly tasteful.

So once again, let's give credit where credit is due. Let's let everyone know which restaurants are the best.

This is the fourth year of our annual restaurant poll, and each year we get a bigger response. Everyone has opinions, and we want to hear yours.

Here's your chance to let others know where to find the best: the best hamburgers, the best atmosphere, the best pizza, the best deserts... etc.

Once again, we're keeping it local. Only restaurants in Novi and Northville are eligible for this poll.

Tell us, as soon as you finish reading this page, where you go for the best breakfast in town. Let us know who has the best seafood, ethnic food or steaks.

Categories in our poll include best overall restaurant, best service, best breakfast restaurant, best sandwiches, best desserts, best atmosphere, best pizza, best burgers, best seafood, best ethnic food, best fast food, best soups and best steak.

There's also an opportunity for comments, in case you want to elaborate. At right you'll find your official ballot. Following are a few rules to keep in mind:

■ Only restaurants in Northville and Novi are eligible to be mentioned on your ballot. Each ballot must include your name, address and telephone number. Ballots without this information will not be included in the poll.

■ Only ballots clipped from the newspaper will be accepted. Photocopied ballots will not be accepted. These restrictions are designed to help avoid ballot-box stuffing.

■ Restaurants found to be distributing ballots will be disqualified.

■ Read the ballot carefully for additional rules.

Upon completing the entry form, mail it by Jan. 29 to: Northville Record/Novi News restaurant poll, 104 W. Main, Northville, MI 48167.

If you prefer, restaurant poll entry forms also may be dropped off at the newspaper office.

When all the ballots are in, we will compile the results of the poll and publish them in the Feb. 25 issues of The Northville Record and The Novi News.

In case you misplace this edition of the newspaper, entry forms will also be published in subsequent issues.

One ballot will be selected at random and the winner will receive dinner for two at his or her favorite Northville or Novi restaurant.

Danielle McCluskey

McCluskey uses talents to saddle equestrians

By DOROTHY NASH
Special Writer

Walking alongside a young horseback rider who is physically, emotionally or socially disabled was Danielle McCluskey's first involvement with the Exceptional Equestrians program at Tollgate 4-H Education Center on Meadowbrook Road in Novi.

"I had read about it in the Novi News," she said, "and because I ride extensively as an amateur in both the United States and Canada," she said she decided she wanted to help out in the program.

It wasn't long before she also became a member of the board of directors of Exceptional Equestrians.

Then last year in order to help raise money to build an arena and a stable so that the program can be held year-round, the board decided to have a polo match for the Tollgate Challenge Cup.

So — Danielle McCluskey said, "because they knew I had experience with fund raising, they asked me to take charge of it."

The venture was so successful that Tollgate and McCluskey repeated it in August 1992.

This time, she said, "we had well over 1,100 attending, and we netted $20,000," the total money coming from entrance fee, auction and corporate sponsors.

It's a lot of work, putting it all together, she admitted, but with seven committee chairmen working under her and about 50 regular volunteers, and "my mainstay of help, Cindy Richards," the program chairman, "we managed to handle it."

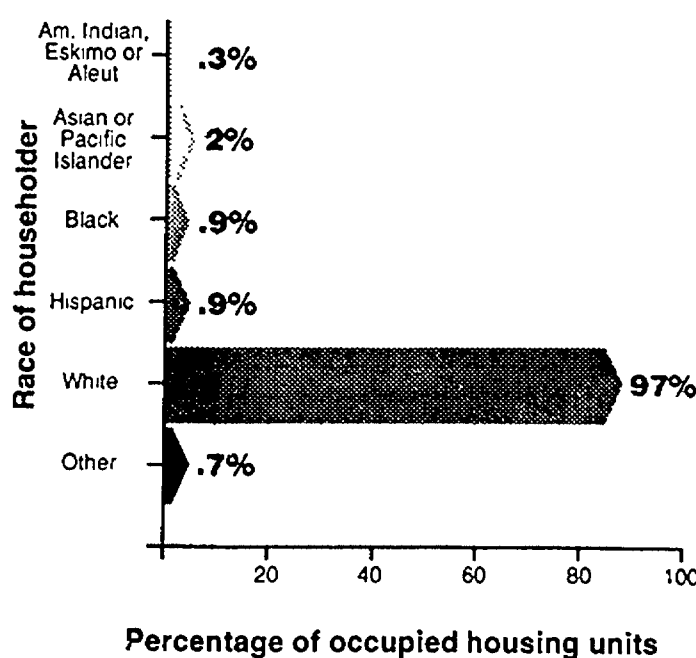

Why has Danielle McCluskey, a lawyer, gotten herself so much involved in Exceptional Equestrians? "It's a cause I believe in in the community I live in," she answered, "and I have a strong commitment to do things in my own community, my own backyard."

If you, too, want to fund a place for yourself in Exceptional Equestrians, call 347-3860 and ask for Cindy Richards, program director.

Woman's Club learns the truths of donating blood

The risks and the myths associated with giving and receiving blood will be the topic of talk at Friday's regular meeting of the Northville Woman's Club.

Dorothy Davis, a community relations specialist with the American Red Cross will be the guest speaker at the 1:30 p.m. meeting at First Presbyterian Church.

Davis, a former teacher in the Detroit Public Schools system has left her teaching post to become a speaker for a number of Detroit and Southeastern Michigan causes including the United Way. Aside from lecturing, Davis is a member of several civic boards and has been instrumental in training volunteers.

Northville Woman's Club member Joann Leavitt will be the chairperson for the day.

Northville Artist shows wares

Linda Banks Ord will feature some of her works at an art show hosted by the Detroit-based Swords into Plowshares Peace Center & Gallery. The show will run Jan. 9 through March 11. The show will feature only artworks that speak to issues of peace and justice. Banks' work will be shown along with works from other Michigan and Ontario artists. Pieces include sculptures in wood, stone and metal, oils and watercolors, sketches, calligraphy, photography and montages.

The gallery is located at 33 E. Adams on Grand Circus Park. Hours are Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Schoolcraft Craft Show

Schoolcraft College is taking applications for booths at its annual Spring Craft Show. The juried show which features 150 exhibitors from across the state will be held Saturday, March 13, from 9:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

Booth spaces vary in size. Those measuring 12 feet by 12 feet and are available for $60; spaces that are 10 feet by 10 feet are $45; and spaces measuring 8 feet by 9 feet are $35. Each space comes with two chairs but crafters need to supply their own tables. Electricity is available at an additional cost of $10. For an application call 462-4417.

Admission to the show is $1.50 and proceeds will be used to fund student scholarships.

Schoolcraft is located at 18600 Haggerty Road, between Six and Seven Mile Roads in Livonia.

"Fun Night at the Northville Downs"

The Country Girls Branch of the Woman's National Farm and Garden Association is hosting a fund-raiser at Northville Downs on Jan. 25.

"Fun Night at the Northville Downs" kicks off with a buffet dinner at 7 p.m. with races following. Tickets are $20 per person with proceeds to fund high school scholarships.

For tickets and information call Kathy Alexander at 349-3885 or Bette Moran at 349-5467.

Schoolcraft holds auditions

Schoolcraft College is holding auditions for its winter theatre production of Eugene O'Neill's drama Long Day's Journey Into Night. Auditions will take place at 7 p.m. on Jan. 26 and 27 in the Liberal Arts Theatre on the college's main campus. Auditions for the show are open to the public. The show will open as a dinner theatre on March 19. It will run March 27, April 3, 9, and 10. Curtain time is 8 p.m. For audition and ticket information call 462-4400, Ext. 5270.

Single Place events

Single Place Adult Ministries, an affiliate of the First Presbyterian Church of Northville, has a series of workshops available for singles of all ages.

On Wednesday, Jan. 13, Single Place presents Treasure Your Memories with Lon Osten at 7:30 p.m. A $4 donation is requested and you may call at 349-0911 for more information.

On Sunday, Jan. 10 Barbers Walpern will present "Facing the Rage Between Men and Women. Do Men and Women View the World Differently?" at 7 p.m. A donation of $24 is requested and you may call 349-0911 for more information or to register.

Single Place is also hosting another workshop for divorced and separated persons of all ages on seven Thursday evenings Jan. 14—Feb. 25 at 7:30 p.m. A donation of $30 is requested and scholarships are available.

On Sunday, Jan. 10 at 10 a.m. Single Place is hosting a service of fellowship, music and sharing of God's love through a continuing series of studies. All are welcome.

Single Place Coffee Hour meets every Sunday morning at 10:30 a.m. in the library lounge of the church.

First Presbyterian Church is located at 200 E. Main St. downtown. For information about any of the events call 349-0911.

School PTAs say thanks to parents for holiday help

ST. PAUL'S LUTHERAN SCHOOL

We owe many thanks to the volunteers who worked so hard on the Christmas activities. Darlene Weyandt and Sherry White chaired the annual Holiday Gift Shoppe for the students to do their shopping. The children were pleased with the vast selection of items and the reasonable prices. What a success! Thank you Darlene, Sherry and all of your helpers.

Nancy Manser (and her many volunteers) served all of the children and staff on Dec. 11 at the Holiday Feast. Everyone truly enjoyed the wonderful dinner!

Mrs. Manser also supervises the girls cheerleading squads. They have been working very hard on their cheers and looked and sounded great at the first boys basketball game against Emmanuel Dearborn.

Once again St. Paul's students brought Christmas gifts to the day school chapel on Dec. 23. These Christmas gifts are for needy children in Detroit. Pastor Angle delivered the gifts to the children at the Homeless Drop-In Center, 3627 Cass Ave., Detroit. The gifts were given out on Dec. 24 to approximately 150 children. Thank you very much, children, and God bless you Pastor Angle for all of your help.

OUR LADY OF VICTORY SCHOOL

Students at Our Lady of Victory School adopted families from St. Leo's School in Detroit for holiday gift giving. There were 21 children and nine adults in total in these families. Students brought to school individually wrapped gifts for the children. Parent volunteers raised money for the adult gifts through weekly hot dog lunches sold during November and December from which a total of $1,300. was realized. Adult gift and food certificates were purchased for the families with this money. Four vans loaded with gifts journeyed to St. Leo's on Dec. 16. Drivers Mr. and Mrs. Shefferly, Mr. and Mrs. Kuehn, Mrs. Lukasik and Dr. Reagan had an opportunity to meet with the families when they arrived at St. Leo's School. It was a merry Christmas for all.

The Computer Express has arrived at Our Lady of Victory School to begin loading software programs for students in the new year. A local businessman has donated $2,500 for the software on a matching grant basis. Names of student/parent donors to this matching grant challenge will be listed on the sides of box cars and flat beds as the Computer Express travels around the walls of the computer lab. Special thanks to date to donors Mr. and Mrs. Dave Marino, Mr. and Mrs. Lou Agoston, Mr. and Mrs. Mark Rossiter, Mr. and Mrs. Timothy Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Worniak and Mr. and Mrs. Nick Simkins.

Hazardous weather conditions forced the cancellation of OLV's Annual Christmas Concert on Dec. 11. It was rescheduled for Friday afternoon, Dec. 18, at which time there was a standing room only crowd in the church to witness the performance. Later that afternoon Santa Claus came to visit the primary grades and the Northville High School Choir sang Christmas Carols throughout the school. It was a fitting climax to the 1992 school year.

Congratulations to grade eight for bringing in 507 bottle returns in the PTA Bottle Drive. They were treated to cocoa and cookies by PTA chairperson Mrs. June Rutkowski for all of their hardwork.

Special thanks are in order for all of the PTA moms who helped make OLV's Santa Shop so much fun this year; Chairperson Mrs. Nancy Raub and her elves; Mrs. Elschen; Mrs. Agoston; Mrs. Warmoth; Mrs. McGlinchey; Mrs. Burke; Mrs. Relly; Mrs. Clancy; Mrs. Barker; Mrs. Shefferly; Mrs. Nichols; Mrs. Yost; Mrs. Kuehn; Mrs. Townsend; Mrs. McIntyre; Mrs. Paciocco; Mrs. Ward; Mrs. Matthews; Mrs. McDonald; Mrs. Hambell; Mrs. McLaughlin; Mrs. Maslak; Mrs. Gittins; Mrs. Susalla; Mrs. Breedlove; Mrs. Larson; Mrs. O'Malley; Mrs. Smith; Mrs. Pedersen; Mrs. Williams; Mrs. Scherkenbach; Mrs. Sirgedas; Mrs. Kuzak; Mrs. Marley; Mrs. Brazunas and Mrs. Hersey.

STEVEN MILLER and KARINA SWANSBERG, both of Northville, achieved academic excellence at Washtenaw Community College. They earned a grade point average of 3.7 or better while attending WCC for less than 12 credit hours.

Weddings

Kristin & Blakely Anderson

Kristin E. Tomalty of Northville, daughter of Richard and Elaine Tomalty of Northville was joined in marriage to Blakely C. Anderson of Shawnee, Kan., son of Carl and Judith Anderson of Shawnee on Aug. 15. The double ring ceremony at First Baptist Church of Northville was officiated by the Rev. Stephen Sparks. Scripture was read by Bob Orr, uncle of the groom and special music was written by the bride's father. Kristin wore a sweetheart neckline, short, full sleeves and a chapel-length train with a bow at the waist. She carried a bouquet of gardenias, coral roses and ivory.

Jill Tomalty, sister of the bride, was the maid of honor with bridesmaids Mary Barber Jacques of Jackson, formerly of Northville, and Jill Gardiner of Grand Rapids. Marla Kemp of Northville was a personal attendant. They wore coral tea-length gowns with scalloped neck and back, and a bow at the waist. They carried bouquets of roses, snapdragons, daisies, and queen anne's lace.

Jameson Anderson of Shawnee, brother of the groom, was the best man. Ushers were Gary Orr of Valdosta, Ga., Jeff Anderson of Minneapolis, Minn., Rick Jefferey of Sterling Heights, and Bruce McDougall of Grand Blanc.

The reception of 200 was held at St. Mary's Cultural Center in Livonia. Guests were from Minnesota, Indiana, Pennsylvania, Georgia, Virginia, Maryland, Delaware, Texas and Washington, D.C.

The couple honeymooned in Branson, Mont. They met at Cooke Middle School in Northville and began dating in eighth grade. They will reside in Overland Park, Kan.

Donna & Bernard Brosnan Jr.

Donna Sue Dunnabeck of Northville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Dunnabeck Jr. of Northville; and Bernard Joseph Brosnan Jr. of Dearborn Heights, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Brosnan of Dearborn Heights, were joined in a double-ring wedding ceremony at Our Lady of Victory Church. The May 23 wedding was officiated by Fr. Bob Byrne, a friend of the family.

Kristi Groth of Dearborn Heights was the maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Dee LaChance of Northville and Melissa Muldoon of Pinckney. Brandi and Brittany, nieces of the bride, were flower girls. John Hetrick of Dearborn Heights was the best man. Ushers were Dave Boyde of Canton and Patrick Brosnan of Dearborn Heights.

The reception for 170 guests was held at the Livonia VFW hall.

The bride is a 1987 graduate of Northville High School and currently a registered nurse at Botsford Hospital.

The groom is a 1989 graduate of Divine Child High School and is currently a firefighter in the city of Novi.

The couple will reside in Dearborn Heights.

Although this year's weather seems likely to be milder, it was chilly indeed at last year's Chilly Willy Festival at the Novi Civic Center. The minus-25 degree temperatures turned even a single breath into a cloud of steam for Sno-Ball Tourney player John Renders.

Novi gears up for Chilly Willy Fest

"Everyone, think snow! It worked last year . . . we had 10 inches of snow for Chilly Willy," says Novi's Director of Public Information, Cindy Stewart.

Regardless of weather, the festival will begin at 8:30 a.m. next Saturday and include attractions such as the annual Chili Cook-Off and Tasting Contest, the Lip Sync and Talent Show, the Old Man and Woman Winter Contest, and the Novi Youth Assistance fundraising Pancake Breakfast.

New this year at the festival will be "Imagination Stations" where the children can partake in a number of creative activities, such as painting or cut-and-paste projects.

The festival will include its regular coloring contest for the children again this year, and Bridge and Euchre tournaments for the adults.

Also new this year is the festival's combination with the Novi Arts Council's annual Cabaret, which will serve as the finale to the festival. The Novi Concert Band, Novi Choralaires, Novi Players and Novi Skits-O-Frantic Players are all scheduled to perform in the Cabaret.

The Cabaret dinner will begin at 5:30 p.m. and the show is to start at 7 p.m. Admission for the show only will be $3; $8 with dinner.

Admission to the Chilly Willy Festival itself is free, although there will be nominal fees for participation in some events.

The deadline for team entry into the Sno-ball Softball Tourney will be Jan. 14, or when 14 teams have signed on. The charge for a team entry into the double-elimination tourney will be $95. Those interested should contact Dave Peterson at the Novi Parks and Recreation office in the civic center.

Chili is always an attraction at Novi's Chilly Willy Festival. Festival goers can sample chili from a variety of Novi area restaurants and vote for their favorite.

Theater

MURDER MYSTERIES, OPERA AT GENITTI'S: Genitti's Hole-in-the-Wall Restaurant continues to present its Murder Mystery and Verdi Opera Dinner Theatre performances.

Genitti's now has three different production companies performing three different Murder Mystery Dinner Theatres. Every Friday evening at 7:30 p.m. separate performances are planned in separate dining rooms. Reservations are required for all shows. Special performances of the Murder Mystery Dinner Theatre are available any day of the week.

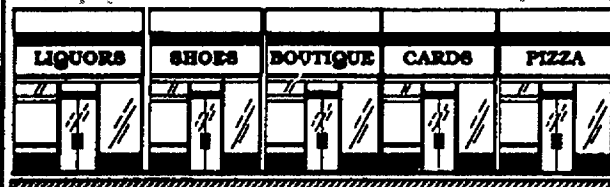

Dinner is served. As the crime unfolds during the performance, the guests try to discover who "committed the murder" through clues given out during heated exchanges between cast members. Small gifts are awarded to those who correctly guess the identity of the murderer.

The "Verdi Opera Dinner Theatre" is now scheduled the third Thursday of every month at 7:30 p.m. All arias are performed by the Verdi Opera Theatre of Michigan. Special performances are available for large groups. Reservations are required for all shows.

Genitti's "Hole-in-the-Wall" restaurant is located in downtown Northville at 108 E. Main St. just east of Center Street (Sheldon Road). The Murder Mystery Dinner Theatre and the Verdi Opera Dinner Theatre including the seven-course dinner costs $29.95 per person (including tax and tip).

Please phone 349-0522 or fax 349-4641 for reservations. Group rates are available. Large parties can be accommodated for any performance.

Slow Drains?

You'll never have a slow running, or clogged drain again!

The secret? Clean drains don't run slowly. The "slows", or periodic clogs, are signals that a thick layer of "gook" is choking your pipes. Just like the "ring" sticks to the sides of your pipes, this gook sticks to the inner side walls of your pipes.

Old-fashioned drain openers cannot remove this build up. They run along the bottom of your pipes. Even a small tunnel in the gook lets them flow out to the sewer, leaving the gook behind!

Now you can make your pipes run like new with Plumb Clean. Not a drain opener, it's an advanced plumbing cleaner. Its revolutionary one-of-a-kind formula attaches and penetrates into the waste. Then, in just one to three weeks, it liquifies years of build up that drain openers can't even reach. Cleans from sink to sewer, not just the trap. Plumb Clean is so effective it is money-back guaranteed!

SAVE MONEY. Because drain openers can't reach the gook on the sides of your pipes you have two choices. Call a plumber and spend $60-$120, or save money and use Plumb Clean.

Now don't be fooled by look-alikes. Their label has safety cautions instead of a guarantee. And since they aren't as strong, their directions have you use twice as much. So, if your drains have the "slows", get safe, guaranteed Plumb Clean today!

Q&A

By WILLIAM T. TOMICKI
New York Times Travel Syndicate

Q: Is there any place Midwesterners can see a good collection of Eskimo art?

A: The Art Gallery of Windsor, in Ontario, just across the Ambassador Bridge in Detroit, has extensive displays of Canadian art from the late 18th century to the present.

Among the most popular items are the Inuit prints and carvings. A children's gallery features graphics of popular images such as walrus, seals, totem poles and igloo life to attract budding Eskimo art fans.

There are changing exhibitions every six weeks in the three-floor gallery space.

For details contact the Art Gallery of Windsor, 445 Riverside Drive W., Windsor, Canada or call (519) 258-7111.

Q: What music festivals will be held in Chicago's Grant Park this year?

A: Several free public concerts in the Petrillo Music Shell are set for the giant park on Lake Michigan.

The Chicago Blues Festival, May 28-30, will include special tributes to Big Bill Broonzy and blues legend Jimmy Walker on his 88th birthday. Food vendors will line up along Jackson Boulevard, bordering the park.

At the Ninth Annual Gospel Festival, June 12-13, performers will include the Rev. Milton Brunson and the Thompson Community Singers as well as the Quaker Oats Co.'s Voices of Tomorrow Mass Choir, with of 170 gospel voices.

The Third Annual Country Music Festival will be July 1-2, the Chicago Latin Music Festival will be Sept. 5-6 and the 1993 Jazz Festival will be Sept. 10-12.

At the Taste of Chicago celebration, June 25 to July 4, about 70 fine restaurants will offer samples of their delicacies. Entertainment will include special music performances for children.

For details call the Mayor's Office of Special Events at (312) 744-3315 or the Chicago Office of Tourism at (800) 487-2446. Information is also available from your local travel agent.

Q: We've heard there is a caviar emporium in New York City near Carnegie Hall. Is that correct?

A: You probably mean Petrossian, at 182 W. 58th St. at the corner of Seventh Avenue, just a block from the famous concert hall. It is decorated in 1930s-era marble, with lots of brass and mirrors.

Patrons may dine on three types of caviar from the Caspian Sea: beluga, sevruga and ossetra. Individual servings are priced from $22 to $2,000. A special $160 prix fixe menu includes tastes of beluga, ossetra, sevruga and pressed caviar, plus smoked salmon and a choice of dessert and coffee or tea.

The restaurant also serves top-grade smoked salmon and foie gras.

Petrossian features a $29 prix fixe lunch which is served daily. A fine boutique in the restaurant sells caviar, smoked salmon, pate and foie gras to go. For details call Petrossian at (212) 245-2214.

Q: What can you tell us about the new Holocaust Museum in Washington, D.C.?

A: The United States Holocaust Memorial Museum opens April 22. It features a 36,000-square foot, three-story exhibition with artifacts, documentary films, photographs and oral histories on the rise of Nazism, the death camps, the resistance movement and rescue efforts — as well as the aftermath of the violence.

The museum will have a separate film theater, auditorium and educational center. For details write the U.S. Holocaust Memorial Council, 2000 L St., N.W., Suite 588, Washington, D.C. 20036 or call (202) 653-9220.

On the slopes in Lake Tahoe

Winter sports and casinos make Nevada city a year-round resort

By ELLEN UZELAC
New York Times Travel Syndicate

"A fine place this to forget weariness and wrongs and bad business," the naturalist John Muir wrote of Lake Tahoe late last century.

And though several communities now dot the 71-mile shoreline of this crystal-blue lake, his words can still ring true, especially in winter.

Lake Tahoe, which straddles Nevada and California, stands at 6,229 feet in the Sierra Nevada, about 50 miles southwest of Reno.

Most winter visitors come to Tahoe for the snow sports, though the casinos on the Nevada side provide a year-round attraction.

The largest town on the lake is South Lake Tahoe, Calif., population 22,650.

ON THE SLOPES

Two dozen downhill and cross-country ski areas blanket the Lake Tahoe region, home to what local resort operators call the largest concentration of lift-served ski terrain in North America.

As of Thanksgiving, there was a base of natural and machine-made snow of 10 to 36 inches.

A lingering drought coupled with the recession have forced the savvy operators to upgrade their resorts in order to stay competitive; several have invested in sophisticated snow-making equipment. Many have added snowboarding and a few have installed new high-speed lifts.

Heavenly Ski Resort, at the top of Ski Run Boulevard in South Lake Tahoe, (702) 586-7000, is in the second year of a multi-million-dollar improvement program.

New this year: a "Sky Express" high-speed detachable quad and two triple chairs, expanded snow-making and a redesigned rental shop. Full-day tickets: $39, $17 for children and seniors.

Squaw Valley, off Highway 89 between Tahoe City and Truckee, (800) 545-4350, is especially convenient because it's a self-contained village.

In addition to 4,000 acres of slopes spread over six peaks, there's a deluxe hotel, cozy lodges, a movie theater, restaurants, shops and an ice-skating rink.

Kirkwood, 30 miles south of South Lake Tahoe on Highway 88, (209) 258-6000, is a local favorite.

Now celebrating its 20th anniversary, Kirkwood is known as a skier's mountain, with 15 percent of its 2,000 acres for beginners, 50 percent intermediate and 35 percent advanced. Two-night ski packages start at $69 a person a night.

Another local favorite, the family-run Sierra Ski Ranch, 12 miles west of South Lake Tahoe on Highway 50, (916) 659-7535, has added its third high-speed detachable quad and snowboarding. Full-day tickets: $33, $15 for children and seniors.

WHAT TO DO

Even in winter, perhaps especially in winter, the outdoors is the central

Two dozen downhill and cross-country ski areas blanket the Lake Tahoe region, home to what local resort operators call the largest concentration of lift-served ski terrain in North America.

To get off the beaten track Lake Tahoe Winter Sports Center, 3071 Highway 50 in Meyers, (916) 577-2940, leads snowmobile tours through a series of meadows, lakes and mountain forest.

Wilderness dinners, weddings and overnights in igloos can be arranged. The two-hour introductory tour: $65 for a single rider, $95 for a double.

Zephyr Cove Snowmobile Center, 760 Highway 50, Zephyr Cove, (702) 588-3833, offers guided tours, including moonlight rides, over 14 miles of groomed trails.

One trail goes to the top of Spooner Summit, which has a commanding view of the lake. Kids as young as 7 can ride. The two-hour introductory package: $68 for a single rider, $95 for a double.

At Northstar Stables, off Highway 267 between Kings Beach and Truckee, (916) 562-1230, visitors can explore the snowy terrain by horse ($14 for 45 minutes or $25 for an hour and a half). Half-hour sleigh rides are also available ($12, $8 for children, kids under 4 ride free).

There are miles of marked cross-country ski trails around the lake, as well as designated snowplay areas good for sledding. Rental shops charge a daily rate of about $10 for cross-country gear.

Generally, sleds can be purchased but not leased. To take the chill off, try a hot soak at Walley's Hot Springs Resort, 12 miles east of South Lake Tahoe at 2001 Foothill Road in Genoa, (702) 782-8155. Open daily, 9 A.M. to 10 P.M. All-day pass: $12.

WHERE TO EAT

Visitors will find a broad selection of restaurants at Tahoe, ranging from elegant lakeside dining to the funky hole-in-the-wall.

A few favorites: The historic River

Ranch Lodge, on Route 89 near Tahoe City, (916) 583-4264, offers a hearty menu with a Southwestern flair. Entrees start at $11.95. Two good choices: rack of lamb with whole grain mustard and sage sauce, $18.95, and sea bass with apple and tarragon sauce, $16.95.

The dining room is cozy, but the bar is also popular for its front-row view of the Truckee River and its huge stone fireplace.

At the Ciao Mein Trattoria, in the 458-room Hyatt Regency Lake Tahoe Resort and Casino, Country Club Drive at Lake Shore Boulevard, Incline Village, (702) 832-1234, the menu contains both Chinese and Italian fare.

Unusually good service enhances such top-rate selections as the Mein Platter, an assortment of appetizers, priced at $5.50 each for a minimum of four; the black bean shrimp entree, $19, and the penne pasta, with four cheeses, cream and plum tomatoes, $11. The pasta dishes start at $10, the Chinese fare at $17.50. Dinner for two, with wine, is about $70.

One of the better restaurants on the South Shore is Cafe Fiore, 1169 Ski Run Boulevard, South Lake Tahoe, (916) 541-2908. Appetizers, such as the eggplant crepes filled with smoked salmon, sun-dried tomatoes and sherry cream, are $7.50.

There are just eight tables at this restaurant, which serves dinner only. One favorite is capellini alla Siciliana, angel-hair pasta with baby shrimp, scallops, diced tomatoes and capers in a white-wine sauce, $14.50. Dinner for two, with wine, is about $60.

For postprandial relaxation walk next door to Nephelies, (916) 544-8130, which offers private hot tubs at an hourly rate of $15 for two people.

Two budget choices, open for breakfast and lunch: Cafe Cobblestone, 475 North Lake Boulevard, Tahoe City, (916) 583-2111, has good omelets and sandwiches but the real crowd-pleaser is the homemade scone with Yorkshire cream and lemon curd, $3.75.

Chris' Cafe, a popular hangout on Highway 50 in Meyers, (916) 577-5132, has irreverent waitresses and tasty food. Try the old-fashioned oatmeal with California raisins, chopped walnuts, apples and cinnamon, $3.50.

Carlos Murphy's, 3678 Lake Tahoe Boulevard, South Lake Tahoe, (916) 542-1741, specializes in barbecue and Mexican cuisine and is open for lunch, dinner and Sunday brunch. Entrees start at $7.95, and meals from the children's menu are $1.95.

WHERE TO STAY

Many hotels offer winter ski packages; for more information call (800) 288-2463 on the South Shore or, on the North Shore, (800) 824-6348.

At Lakeland Village Beach and Ski Resort, 3535 Highway 50 in South Lake Tahoe, Calif., there are 210 spacious townhouses or hotel rooms, some lakefront, on 19 acres. The multi-level townhouse units, accommodating up to 10, have full kitchens, lofts, a fireplace and daily maid service that includes kitchen cleanup.

Other amenities are a heated pool, underground parking and free shuttles to the Stateline casinos, 1.5 miles away, as well as to several ski resorts. No in-house restaurant. Units range from $95 to $400, and ski packages are available. For reservations, call (800) 822-5969. The fax number is (916) 544-0193.

The attractive 400-room Embassy Suites Resort is a year old and lies just inside the California state line, a few feet from the Stateline casinos. The $75 million atrium hotel, 4130 Lake Tahoe Boulevard, (800) 362-2779, fax (916) 544-4900, has nicely appointed two-room suites. Weekday rates for two, $119; weekend rates, $159.

Insight Guides help travelers have fun 'continent-hopping'

By EVERETT POTTER
New York Times Travel Syndicate

"Travel is a skill," says Hans Hofer, 49, sipping a glass of Beaujolais nouveau at New York's fashionable Cafe des Artistes.

Hofer, who founded the popular travel books known as Insight Guides, is at home in Manhattan — even though he has been in the city just a day.

"Drop me by parachute anywhere in the world and within 24 hours I will be at home. The secret is to become a part of what's going on around you."

Born in Krefeld, Germany, Hofer has lived in Singapore for 20 years and has visited more than 120 countries. He makes it his business to feel at ease wherever he is — and to help others do the same.

"I see myself as missionary for travel. Travel is the only way I can think of to increase the awareness of man." Insight Guides are 500-plus-page handbooks that profile a major city or country. They are full of fine photographs with texts by prominent writers such as Tony Hillerman, Isaac Bashevis Singer, Heinrich Boll and Yevgeny Yevtushenko.

Hofer takes many of the photos, which are printed on fine paper, and assembles others to illustrate a nation's art, architecture, history and religious traditions.

"Editing pictures is really what I do best," he says. "You have to make sure the pictures talk, that you organize them into a visual story, a slide show between covers, an entertainment bombardment. We want the experience of travel to begin the moment you pick up the book."

His travels began as a teen-ager with hiking, bicycling and other unique adventures.

"In the early '60s my friends and I would buy a new Mercedes from the factory near my home and drive overland to Iran. We'd swap the car for Iranian carpets, return to Germany, sell the carpets, make a profit and buy another Mercedes and do it again," Hofer says.

In the late 1960s, with a B.A. in graphic design from the University of Krefeld, Hofer drove his battered Volkswagen van from Germany to Nepal. At the foot of Mount Everest he made a decision that would change his life.

"I knew if I returned to Germany I'd spend my life in an advertising agency. I didn't want that. So I wrote a letter that began, 'Dear Mother: I'm not coming back.'"

Hofer arrived in Bali at the exotic festival season. Like many foreign visitors, he did not know what the festivals symbolized or why they were held. The few books he found were no help.

So he decided to publish a book on Bali. He commissioned the text from local writers and did the rest himself — photography, design, typesetting and printing.

Published in 1970, the first edition of "Insight Guide to Bali" sold 20,000 copies and won a Gold Medal, the annual prize given by the American Society of Travel Agents.

The 19th edition of "Insight Guide to Bali" (Houghton Mifflin, 1993; $19.95) has just been published. A new series, Insight Pocket Guides, will be released by Houghton Mifflin in January '93.

Covering such cities as Miami, New York and Paris, 10 compact, illustrated, 100-page books will retail for $9.95.

About 2.4 million Insight Guides in nine different languages were published in 1992 and distributed in 40 countries.

But the ever-restless Hofer, whose idea of a vacation is to mountain bike in Pakistan's Karakoram range or sail his new boat off the Turkish coast, is looking for new ways to communicate.

"I want people to be able to touch a word in one of my guides and have an entire world open up," he says.

Jug loss tops '92 Northville sports stories

By SCOTT DANIEL
Sports Editor

In the 1970s, Pittsburgh was known as the city of champions for winning more than its fair share of Super Bowls and World Series trophies.

Northville may not be known as the new Title Town USA, but 1992 did see community teams and residents take their own share of the spotlight. Northville High School, for example, won titles in boys tennis and boys track. Individually, Doug Kurtis won his sixth straight Detroit Marathon.

Just which sports' stories rank as Northville's most important of '92? The following is a look back at the year's top 10. See if you agree with the Northville Record (stories are listed in order of importance):

NORTHVILLE LOSES THE JUG

All indications were that the Mustangs would claim their fifth Baseline Jug against Novi on Oct. 30. Though the Mustangs were ahead by more than a touchdown in the fourth quarter, things went awry and Northville lost 32-28.

Novi senior running back Dennis Zielinski sliced into the Northville lead with just a few minutes gone by in the fourth with a touchdown run. Then with 22 seconds left, Wildcat quarterback John Lahti got the game winning TD with a four-yard sprint through the Mustang line.

Novi coach John Osborne said the Wildcats were glad to get their first Jug.

"It's been a real albatross," he said. GRIDDERS MAKE PLAYOFFS

Despite the loss to Novi, the Mustangs made the state playoffs the following week. Unfortunately, Northville ran into a Walled Lake Western team that was headed to the finals and fell 23-6.

Western standout running back Arnie Gillert was the main culprit. He ran for 260 yards and three touchdowns on a snowy home field. Gillert, in fact, outgained the entire Northville offense by nearly 50 yards.

The Mustangs got their only score in the fourth quarter. Key plays in the drive were a 32-yard run by junior Marc Golden and a pair of pass plays between Golden and Jason Holman. Golden connected with Holman on a 13-yard pass for Northville's touchdown.

The Mustangs finished the '92 campaign at 6-4. Walled Lake, meanwhile, went to the finals and lost. BOYS' TRACK CROWN

Northville High took its first Western Lakes Activities Association title in dramatic fashion May 20. Needing to win the conference championship for the crown, the Mustangs did exactly that outdistancing Walled Lake Western by 15 points.

John Gatti won the shot put and discus to start the meet. Northville picked up points in nearly every other event to take the championship.

"I think this is the best team I've ever coached," Northville coach Dennis Faletti said. "They are a great group of athletes that do everything I ask of them."

Northville finished 8-1 in dual meets and second in the Western Division.

BOYS' TENNIS TITLE

Without a doubt, the 1992 Mustangs were the best tennis squad in Northville history. It was an almost perfect year.

Northville swept through its dual season at 12-0 overall and 10-0 in the WLAA. To top it off, the Mustangs won the conference meet and were crowned outright champions for the first time in nearly a decade. A fourth place finish at regionals didn't put a damper on a great year.

Mark and Matt Schwagle led the team. Strong performances were also turned in by Matt Telepo, Brad Smith and Britt Davis among others. SCHWAGLE FALLS IN FINAL Northville's Mark Schwagle lost in the Class A final in two sets in late May.

Seeded No. 2 in the state tournament, the then-junior cruised to the finals. Schwagle defeated Grosse Pointe South's Emiliano Lorenzini in three sets before meeting up with Ann Arbor Pioneer's Peter Pusztal.

It was the second year in a row the two had met in the finals and the second year Pusztal walked away champ. Schwagle described his own performance as "average." It was the junior's third straight state final loss.

In November, Schwagle signed a national letter of intent to continue his tennis career at Michigan State University.

KURTIS WINS MARATHON

Doug Kurtis got a little older and, perhaps, a little better in 1992. The 40-year-old won his sixth straight Detroit Free Press/Mazda International marathon Oct. 19.

Kurtis posted a time of 2:19:25 running through the streets of Windsor, Ontario, through the tunnel and into Detroit. It was his 66th time under 2:20, which ranked him second in the world at the time.

"I thought last year was a big accomplishment," Kurtis said. "But to be able to come back and do it again was just great."

The Northville resident won the race with an average of 5:19 per mile.

Kurtis said he won't give up the sport he loves anytime soon.

"I do it because I have the opportunity of winning a race," he said. HUZJAK SIGNS WITH TOLEDO

Arguably Northville High School's best quarterback of all-time, Ryan Huzjak signed with the Mid-American Conference's Toledo in early February. The senior had been widely recruited and chose the Rockets because of the "commitment Toledo made to me as a quarterback," Huzjak said.

Pay-to-play puts 'negative cloud' over program, AD says

By SCOTT DANIEL
Sports Editor

For sure, 1992 was a trying year for athletics in the Northville Community School District. With a proposed millage increase shot down by voters in June, the district was forced to look at other options — namely pay-to-play.

The Northville Record recently sat down with high school athletic director Dennis Colligan to assess the program's impact halfway through the school year.

Colligan, 43, a teacher and coach in the district for 19 years, has been athletic director for the past seven years. The following is the Record's interview with Colligan.

RECORD: Refresh our readers' memories. Explain what the millage proposal was and when it was voted down.

COLLIGAN: Okay, this is to the best of my recollection. This is last spring when we had a two-phased millage proposal that was voted down, that had the biggest impact on athletics. That was a renewal of our existing mill that we could run the status quo, we had a 1.4-mill increase. There were two issues on the ballot.

The way it was presented to the public was that athletics, co-curricular activities, and everything out of the normal everyday classroom experience would be cut or severely hampered if the increase did not pass. Well, unfortunately, the increase did not pass and we got our renewal to run status quo and keep our doors open and keep our educational process going.

But we did have a problem with the athletic end of it and there was a lot of uncertainty. At the time of the millage going down the school board was in a position of making a lot of decisions and coming out with what are we going to do in the athletic area? What are we going to do in the co-curricular area?

RECORD: How does it directly affect the athletic program?

COLLIGAN: At first, when it first failed, everybody was in kind of an air of uncertainty. The board of education had indicated that the athletic director's position would be cut, all non-varsity athletics would be cut, we would just run one year of varsity athletics, all middle school programs would be cut and all co-curricular activities would be cut. So at the time that the millage failed everybody in the athletic area stepped back and said "wow." Now what kind of impact is this going to have on Northville High School, Northville community and the Northville kids."

Immediately there was a need to form a committee, there was a need to sit down and look at this in the big picture — take a look and see what we could do. My immediate feeling was kind of "well, geez, let's take a look. Now they are going to cut the position of athletic director." Well, that's fine, where are we going to go with the programs in the future? Knowing that and feeling very strongly that it (the athletic director's job) would come back eventually, I stayed very close and monitored very closely what we could do and sat down with a committee of the superintendent and his people.

We looked at alternatives. How we could put a program together. Looking at what it was going to cost to run just varsity athletics. I think everybody kind of got their eyes opened and their education on where the money goes in athletics.

Probably 80 percent of the entire athletic budget goes toward varsity sports. Those are the budgets that are the highest, those are the teams that are the most difficult to keep on the floor.

RECORD: What was the final result?

COLLIGAN: The final result was let's take a look at how we can best spend our money and then take a look at what we can do on simulating pay-to-participate programs throughout the state that have been going on for a while. It was my job to research that, to get information from every other district that I knew of who had been in a pay-to-participate mode and compile all that data and bring it back to the committee.

So, at the time we did that, I came back with what I thought was the best recommendation for Northville and for the situation that we had. We sat down with a group of 14 of us, some community members, some central office administrators, a couple of administrators from the buildings and we sat down and tried to put forth the best program we could with all the monies involved.

At that time, we had a $90,000 contribution from the board of education, from the regular budget. The athletic booster club put forth $10,000.

RECORD: How much money was cut out of your budget?

COLLIGAN: It went in stages. We presented a budget one way and then they said let's add these things and then we presented it that way. We kept presenting alternatives to the budget.

At one time we presented a budget that was just very skeletal. There were teams cut, there were actual sports that were cut and there were coaches cut. Equipment budgets were slashed to nothing. The only real budget we were running was the officials, we had to have game management and coaches salaries. We were down to that. We looked at that and the committee felt that if we could take it a step further and get into the picture of pay-to-participate, at what level we reinstitute certain programs, what level would we try to run every program that we ran the previous year.

So we decided to base our presentation to the board on doing that. Let's run every program that we ran previously and then bring the cost to the kids. What would it cost the families to run these programs.

The biggest problem with that was let's predict how many kids we are going to have. Every district that I researched indicated that you better show a 10 to 15 percent reduction in participation throughout the school year. As you pay-to-participate, as that fee goes up, the number of participants will go down directly. We had to prepare for that. I had to research the last five years at Northville High School and see how many kids played sports.

RECORD: What was the number you came up with?

COLLIGAN: The number I came up with was about 800. That wasn't total students, those were slots because some kids you count twice because they play two sports, some three.

What I had to do was to take a look at that and my first impression was to take 10 percent. Then I said no they say between 15-20 percent, so let's take 15 percent. We came down to a figure of (if) 650 slots were filled in Northville for the next year where would the budget be?

RECORD: Are you on-line to meet that figure?

COLLIGAN: We are very close. The fall was almost identical to a year ago. In fact, if everything went as the fall did, we would be above that. We are optimistic that maybe those numbers will help to carry some lower numbers in the winter and spring.

The winter numbers are a little down from last year but not significantly, maybe 10 percent. So, overall, we are OK so far.

I'm still cautiously optimistic about the spring. I think when you come to the spring you start incurring a lot of expenses you didn't have in the fall and winter. You start incurring a lot of second and third sport athletes. There are very few kids that participate in a spring sport at Northville High School who haven't played a fall or winter sport.

When you're in the fall that's their first sport, that's their first payment. In the winter, when you look at volleyball players there not necessarily soccer players, not necessarily basketball players, although some are. You are still looking at some new people coming in, some first sport athletes.

RECORD: Has your actual operating budget been cut 15 percent from last school year?

COLLIGAN: I'd say at least 15-20 percent. What we did was we went on a basic what can we get by with. I've set my budget up over the last seven years on a rotation of uniform replacement, on a rotation of replacing equipment and had us on-line pretty good to keep our needs met throughout the year.

This year we went, before we even figured the 650 in the payments, I presented a budget as low as I thought we could get by with. For instance, on a uniform replacement, usually there's five teams that get a new uniform every fifth year. This year I can only do three. So that budget was cut 40 percent in that area. Officials you really can't cut. It's a set fee, there's no cutting there.

RECORD: So you had to do a lot of maneuvering then?

COLLIGAN: A lot of manipulating, a lot of taking funds from here and moving them there.

Game management. I went in my game management area, which means security, table help and everything, I made some cuts that I thought we could get by with. So far we've done okay. So those are two areas I could cut.

I really can't cut officials and I can't cut into salaries. Salaries aren't a negotiable item. We couldn't say that all the coaches were going to take a 10 percent pay cut. That's a contractual item. So I had certain areas that had to stay the same in my budget. The areas I could cut, equipment, uniforms and some game management, I could cut those.

RECORD: What was the actual figure that you guys came up with for pay-to-play for each kid?

COLLIGAN: We are at $195.

RECORD: That's for sports or any other after school activity?

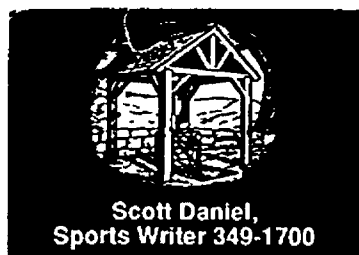

COLLIGAN: Just for sports. There's two different programs.

We had an athletic pay-to-participate program and we had a co-curricular, which is all the activities in the high school that have to create a budget. They're run a little bit differently. There on a semester fee structure. They're at $100 per semester, per kid and they can have multiple activities.

RECORD: Have you been able to save all the programs, all the teams.

COLLIGAN: So far we haven't cut a team. We were close in a couple of areas and we are monitoring our numbers very closely. Surprisingly in some areas we exceeded numbers that we set. We went through and set a minimum of where each sport

Books offer outdoor info

By ALISON ASHTON
Copley News Service

Planning a trek through the Himalayas? Want to find out what's hot and what's not in camping gear? Ready to brush up on your golf swing?

There's probably a book, magazine or video to come to the rescue. People are spending more time outdoors. That means there is more to read or watch about the outdoors, whether it's adventure, travel or tossing a mean Frisbee that interests you.

Bookstores are only one place to look. Sporting goods stores, outdoor outfitters and emporiums such as The Nature Company offer plenty of special-interest publications, maps and tips.

HOME RUN

Baseball fans love history, trivia and stats almost as much as they love watching the game.

Baseball in America is part of Collins Publishers' "Day in the Life" series and features the work of 50 photographers celebrating baseball on all levels, from farm team training to charity baseball in North Dakota.

Donald Honig's Baseball: The Illustrated History (Crown) celebrates the game's legendary players. The video The Baseball Time Capsule: A Journey Through the Bary Halper Collection (Cabin Fever) features Halper's extensive collection, as well as tips on collecting baseball memorabilia.

Books and magazines from A to Z can be found on baseball.

FILE PHOTO

For baseball fanatics who love stats, there is On a Clear Day They Could See Seventh Place: Baseball's Worst Teams by George Robinson and Charles Salzberg (Dell). Former major league player and owner of the San Diego Padres, Bill Starr, looks at the legend of baseball in Clearing the Bases: Baseball Myths and Misconceptions (Michael Kessend).

Prophet of the Sandlots: Journey With a Major League Scout by Mark Winegardner (Prentice Hall) tells the story of maverick baseball scout Tony Lucadello.

For fundamentals on improving your game, Best Film & Video offers Baseball as part of its Sport's Clinic series. It features Gary Templeton on infielding and Kurt Bevacqua on outfielding. The video also offers Rotis- erie League Baseball, a game that shows you how to build and manage your own major league fantasy team.

A for Angiophiles, there is The Cricketer Book of Cricket Days compiled by Chris Rhys (Lennard Publishing).

MAGAZINES

If you want a regular dose of outdoor info, get a subscription to a magazine. Magazines are also a good way to get a glimpse at a new sport or outdoor activity, as well as a source of new product information.

For hunters and anglers, there are Angler's News, Field and Stream and Outdoor Life.

Outside magazine covers a myriad of outdoor activities, from mountain biking to windsurfing (often in exotic locations). It also tackles environmental issues. For a narrower focus, try publications such as Backpacker, The Walking Magazine or Cross Country for nordic skiers.

Renewed interest in preserving the environment has spawned a number of special-interest periodicals. E and Garbage are two that offer non-nonsense features on global environmental issues, as well as tips on how all of us can help.

OUTDOOR APPRECIATION

Just appreciating the outdoors has become a respectable activity for the masses.

The Countryman Press has a "Fifty Hikes Series." Each book covers a different region, including West Virginia, New Hampshire, Maine, Vermont, New York and Pennsylvania.

Insomnia a serious problem in America

If you have suffered from insomnia you are not alone.

Up to 35 percent of Americans sometimes have difficulty sleeping, and half of these report serious sleep problems. Insomnia is defined as a condition of insufficient or non-restorative sleep despite adequate opportunity to sleep — in other words it's an inability to either fall asleep or stay asleep when you want to. The duration of insomnia can vary from episodes of poor sleep at stressful times to chronic inability to sleep for weeks.

Transient and short-term insomnia are the most common types of insomnia and are often caused by an identifiable factor. These factors include loss of a loved one, school examinations or other work or social stress. Flights across time zones can also cause insomnia. Other contributing factors include use of stimulating drugs such as caffeine and nicotine. Withdrawal from certain sedating medications can cause or contribute to insomnia.

Chronic insomnia lasting three weeks or more is sometimes caused by medical problems ranging from heart diseases, lung diseases, gastrointestinal disorders, chronic pain syndromes and sleep apnea. Certain psychiatric disorders can cause sleep disorders. Alcohol and other substance abuse can also play a part. Alcohol in small amounts is a sedative, while larger amounts can disturb sleep cycles. Withdrawal from alcohol can also contribute to sleep problems.

Sufferers of insomnia can use several strategies to help alleviate their problem. Most sleep disorder experts recommend practicing good sleep "hygiene." Good sleep hygiene practices include: going to bed and waking at the same time every day, even on weekends; using the bedroom only for sleeping — do not read or watch television in bed; going to bed only when sleepy; avoiding stimulants such as caffeine and nicotine in the evenings, and avoiding alcohol. Regular exercise, three to four times a week, may also help. However, avoid exercise in the evening if it interferes with sleep. In addition you should avoid naps.

Once in bed, if you have trouble falling asleep, get up and move to another room. Stay up until you are definitely sleepy, then return to bed. If sleep does not come easily, get up again. Repeat this step as many times as necessary. The goal is to associate your bed with falling asleep quickly. Set your alarm and get up at the same time every day no matter how much sleep you have gotten over night. These guidelines help the body acquire a constant sleep-wake cycle.

Most over-the-counter sleeping medications are not very effective. Prescription medications are often not helpful for chronic insomnia and are often associated with many side effects and thus not often used in these disorders. Occasionally, "sleeping pills" can be helpful for short-term or situational insomnia.

If you are suffering from insomnia and do not find relief with these sleep hygiene suggestions or if you have a chronic health problem, you may wish to consult your physician. Your physician will evaluate you for medical causes of your insomnia. If specific medical conditions are found, treatment may be prescribed. You may be referred to a sleep laboratory for further evaluation of your sleep disorder. If a specific sleep disorder is found, such as sleep apnea, the treatment can be prescribed. Your physician will also review your sleep habits and may identify examples of poor sleep hygiene which can be corrected. In addition, your doctor may identify hidden stimulants contributing to your insomnia. As mentioned earlier, medication is occasionally useful in certain situations and your physician will be able to prescribe medication if it is needed.

Pay-to-play puts 'negative cloud' over program, AD says

should come in and so far, I have to say we are fine.

RECORD: Some of the cost of pay-to-play was offset by some people in the community. Who has made contributions to reduce the cost for the kids?

COLLIGAN: Initially the athletic boosters donated $10,000 to the athletic budget to defer the cost of every individual kid. That helped. It came down $5 or $6 a kid.

In the past, gate receipts had always gone right back into the general fund for operations and come back to athletics. Well this year an agreement at the committee level was that we would be able to take the first $20,000 and have them come right into the athletic budget and reduce the number for pay-to-participate. That's helped a lot. We've already made our $20,000 in gate receipts. We had a real healthy football year.

RECORD: What do you see as the future of pay-to-play in Northville?

COLLIGAN: Hopefully we will get through this year and be able to meet our needs. I'm sure the people of Northville will be faced with an additional proposition in the spring to see what direction we'll be going in the future. The program that we are operating under right now has what they call a "sunset" clause of June 30. That means everything we've done ends on June 30.

In order to put a program together for next year, the committee would have to sit down after that date and put together what we would have for next year. If we get into a situation where we don't pass a millage and we aren't given the operating funds from the budget then that question will have to be answered again, "what do we do athletically?"

Do we continue to run the program to the best of our ability with pay-to-participate? Do we take a look at making severe cuts and just run what we can afford? There are a lot of options.

Districts around us that have had to go a second and third year in the pay-to-participate area have not had a lot of success. Most of the research that I have shows that if you go to it for one year you do survive. That second and third year, things start wanting, things start going down. Participation levels really dip. Now your talking 25- to 30-percent reduction in participation. And as you reduce participation, your fee structure has to go up.

It doesn't have a real optimistic future, but on the other hand you do what you have to do to keep your programs going.

RECORD: What's your feeling about getting a millage and an increase approved?

COLLIGAN: That's a real tough call. I would hope that we can. I would hope that people can look around and see what's going on around us, see the other districts and how they are running, take a look and see how they want our district to run.

I've been here for 19 years now and this has been one of the toughest years, as far as something negative being around us. There's a little cloud there. That millage didn't pass and it's been hanging on us. Many, many people have worked above that many people working extremely hard to overcome some of those negative feelings.

RECORD: What kind of feedback have you gotten from parents and the community? Did they say, "we want to pass a millage now, we want to get this done," or are they saying, "hey, everything's running pretty well?"

COLLIGAN: Well, there's your two-sided coin. You've hit it right on the nose.

I've heard people say both. I've heard people say they are going to work real hard and try to get this thing rolling, get back to where it belongs. You've got to understand, I feel 100 percent that the athletic program is a co-curricular program that should be funded by the school district. It should be 100 percent funded by the school district, obviously by the community.

RECORD: You feel definitely it will come up next spring?

COLLIGAN: I think so, I think it has to. I don't have that on information from the superintendent yet, but I'm sure they are working right now as to the strategy behind it and the timing.

RECORD: If such a measure did go down again is it possible for you to predict how much pay-to-play would go up next year?

COLLIGAN: Once again, it's hard to say. We would have to cross that bridge when we got there and take a look at what direction the school board would like us to go in.

RECORD: Have you gotten a lot of kids that come in and say, "I really wanted to play this year, but my family couldn't afford it?"

COLLIGAN: No. No we haven't. We've got two things set up.

We've got an athletic hardship committee that meets and evaluates families that can apply for fees to be paid. It's pretty limited. We've had a Kiwanis group, a Rotary group, we've had the athletic and music boosters all contribute money and some private donors contribute money to a fund. That fund is set aside for kids and athletes who qualify for the free programing. In order to qualify, you've got to be a pretty low income family. You have to qualify for federally reduced lunch program. Those numbers are pretty low.

RECORD: Have you had any kids utilize the program?

COLLIGAN: Oh, yes. I think we've had 17-20 kids. That side of it's being met. The side that's not being met is that kid who is not at that lower economic area but still not at the higher economic area and has a tough time raising that $195.

There have been some cases where I've given kids jobs in the athletic department. I don't count that money towards pay-to-play but I pay them and they can save their money and help pay their fees. I know a lot of kids have paid their own fees.

The whole thing is that it's just another factor in the negative cloud that hangs over athletics.

Jug loss tops 1992

The former Mustang owns or shares at least nine Northville passing records. Most completions, most career yards and most TD passes are just a few with Huzjak's name on them.

Huzjak ended up being redshirted in his first year with Toledo. He is said to have a shot at the starting quarterback slot next fall.

NEW GIRLS HOOP COACH

Bob Shoemaker replaced longtime Northville girls basketball coach Ed Kritch in August. Kritch left the program to concentrate on family and work.

Shoemaker, a widely renowned boys coach, guided Northville to a 5-14 mark in his first year. Before the campaign began, however, the coach knew he would have his hands full.

"It's a very tough situation," Shoemaker said in August. "It would be a lot tougher for someone with less experience in coaching."

The Mustangs had lost four senior starters heading into the '92 season.

"We will do the best we can in a very difficult situation," Shoemaker said.

NEW BOYS HOOP COACH

Northville High's other basketball slot opened in the spring with the retirement of Omar Harrison. Larry Taylor, who had worked as the junior varsity mentor, took over a 10-11 squad loaded with potential.

"Every person involved in coaching would like to be a varsity coach," Taylor said in taking the position, "and do things to help the program. We're going to try to develop the best student-athletes we can."

Northville got off to a perfect 4-0 start under Taylor in 1992 and promise to be around late into the March playoffs this year.

SOFTBALLERS IN DISTRICT FINALS

A roller coaster season ended in the state playoff district finals for the Mustangs.

Northville dropped a 3-1 decision to the Kensington Valley Conference's Lakeland in that contest. Christie Green knocked in the Mustangs' lone run with a single.

After a 2-6 start, the team roared back to finish 15-11 on the year. A number of outstanding players led Northville.

Laura Apiglian headed the list. The senior was named Hometown Newspapers' East All-Area player of the year while batting .342 and leading her team in RBIs and stolen bases.

Stacey Nyland, Kara McNeil and Green were other top performers.

Safety tips for every trip

Driving around town, or on the road, the American Red Cross offers these suggestions to keep you and your family safe:

- Have everyone's seat belt fastened, no matter how short the trip.
- If traveling with small children, be sure to secure them in safety seats that meet federal safety standards.
- Never drink and drive.
- Carry a flashlight and flares.
- Keep a first aid kit in your car.

REAL ESTATE

Now is the time to make real estate tax plans

By James M. Woodard
Copley News Service

Near the end of one year or the beginning of the next is a good time to evaluate and plan your tax strategies for the coming year. And some of those taxes are tied to your home or other owned real estate.

One action that could save you tax money is to pay that second installment of your property tax before the end of the year, thus making it a deductible item on your next income tax return.

Personal tax planning is important. And it should be reviewed by a competent tax adviser. Whether to take standard itemized deductions is a decision that should be made early in the year, according to Richard Best, an accountant for 27 years.

"This is a good time to generally review personal finances and plan for next year," Best said. "There is also pending legislation affecting taxes that some property owners might want to actively support or fight."

One proposed bill would reduce the current estate tax exemption from $600,000 to $200,000. Currently, only about 3 percent of Americans pay estate taxes. But lowering the exemption to $200,000 would mean most families would be subject to estate taxation.

For example, a middle-class family with an estate worth $400,000 could be hit with a $67,000 tax. An estate worth $600,000 would pay $138,000.

Other currently proposed tax-related laws would:

- Allow penalty-free withdrawals from IRA accounts for first-time home buyers.
- Reform the passive loss rules so that all taxpayers whose primary business is real estate can deduct rental property losses from a category of income known as "active income."
- Create permanent extensions of the mortgage revenue bond, mortgage credit certificate and low-income housing tax credit programs—all designed to make housing more accessible to low and moderate income families.
- Provide new tax incentives for pension funds to invest in real

HOME DESIGNS

LEE

The Lee affords ample space for hobbies and entertaining

By James McAlexander
Copley News Service

The country-contemporary Lee is designed for a lot that slopes gently to the rear. With minimal excavation, the home also could be built on level ground. This plan is well-suited to a couple that wants space to spread out for hobbies and entertaining.

It's a split-level plan that puts utilities, a workshop and parking for two cars and a recreational vehicle on the lowest level. The generously sized utility room has counter space, cabinets and a deep sink. A small bathroom is easily accessible from the back yard.

Public spaces and the owners' suite—all bright, airy rooms with vaulted ceilings—are at midlevel, half a flight up from the garage. The comfortable kitchen has a garden window and counters on four sides. Conveniences include a pantry, built-in dishwasher, range and oven, and lazy Susan shelving in the corners.

Sliding-glass doors brighten the dining room and provide easy access to a raised deck for outdoor meals and appreciation of the view.

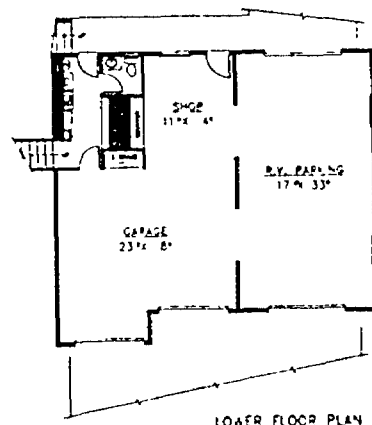

Skylights add to the illumination in a living room with a corner wood-burning stove that serves as an additional source of heat in the winter. Brickwork behind and beneath the stove radiates warmth into the dining room, living room and master suite long after flames turn to embers.

The master suite is large enough for a desk or sitting area in addition to a bed and dresser. A skylight brightens the huge walk-in closet and the master bath has a Jacuzzi tub, oversize shower and enclosed toilet.

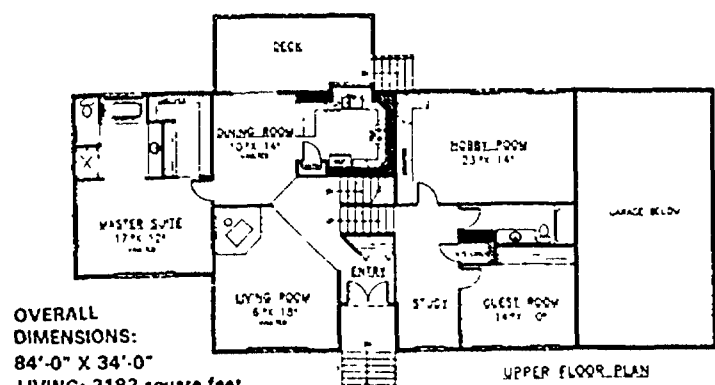

The hobby room, guest room and study/loft are a half-flight up from the main floor. A large linen closet and skylit bathroom serve this level while the skylit loft overlooks the living room. The front-facing guest room has a large closet.

Built-in cabinets line two walls of the huge hobby room, ideal for an artist or craftsman. It's easily large enough to accommodate a sewing machine and quilting frame or weaving loom, but could also be converted to bedroom, recreation room or office space, if needed.

For a study plan of the Lee (401-63), send $7.50 to Landmark Designs, c/o HomeTown Newspapers, 323 E. Grand River Ave., Howell, MI 48843. (Be sure to specify plan name and number when ordering.)

green plant is probably the most useful and least expensive item one can put in a room. Plants brighten the indoors, refresh the air we breathe and generally improve the quality of our lives just by their presence.

They are especially nice for apartment dwellers. You can use plants as accents and room dividers, in place of wall hangings or curtains and to frame an entrance or soften a harsh angle. You can even grow your own fancy salad greens and culinary herbs indoors.

When using plants indoors, take a tip from Ikebana, the Japanese art of flower arranging and display plants in odd-numbered groups.

Two or four plants together can have an unnatural, staged appearance. But three or five of varying heights, colors and textures will make a harmonious grouping.

Remember that dark greens tend to recede while lighter shades leap out of the background. Combine glossy-leaved foliage with softer, fuzzy-leaved plants for an interesting effect, or better still simply let your imagination run wild!

Poor lighting conditions have discouraged many an apartment dweller, but there are a number of attractive plants that don't need bright light. Try broad-leaved dumb cane (Dieffenbachia picta), palmlike dracaena (Dracaena marginata), leathery cast-iron plant (Aspidistra elatior), Chinese evergreen (Aglaonema commutatum), or the old favorite, snake plant (Sansevieria trifasciata).

Many ferns also will tolerate deep shade.

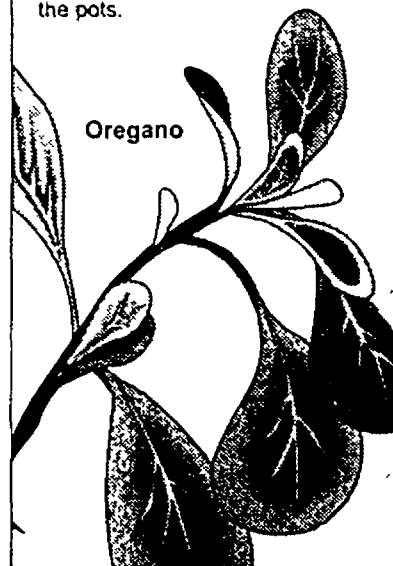

Most plants, especially large ones, come from the store in temporary-looking pots. These can be set into a larger clay container or straw basket that complements your decorating scheme.

Group several smaller plants in a single basket and cover the tops of the pots with sphagnum or Spanish moss (sold in packages at the garden center) for an attractive arrangement.

Decorating with houseplants

- Use plants as accents, room dividers or curtains.
- Arrange plants in odd numbers, using varying heights, colors and textures.
- Chinese evergreen, snake plant and many ferns will thrive in a dark room. If you only get a few hours of sunshine, try growing herbs on a windowsill: parsley, chives, oregano, rosemary and thyme.
- Use clay containers and straw baskets to complement your decor. Several potted plants can be grouped in one container; use Spanish moss to cover the tops of the pots.

Repairing loose veneer; painting dark panneling

By Gene Gary
Copley News Service

Q. I have a table with a veneer finish on the top. Some of the veneer has pulled loose from the edge and there are a couple of small bubbles or blisters on the surface. Other than this, the table is in good condition.

Can this be repaired without completely resurfacing the top? Any suggestions would be welcome.

A. Often, loose veneer can be re-glued by remelting the old glue. Treat the blisters by simply cutting through the veneer across the blister with a very sharp knife, or a safety razor blade. Work carefully to prevent splitting or otherwise damaging the veneer.

Once you get it cut through, pry it carefully apart with a small screwdriver, spatula or even a long nail file. Place several layers of paper over the loosened veneer edges and the blisters. Apply heat from a warm iron.

When the veneer begins to stick, apply pressure until glue dries (weight with books). If no sticking occurs, regluing will be necessary. For a good bond, clean away any dirt and old glue before applying the new. Be careful not to loosen more of the veneer from the surface than necessary.

Use a thin screwdriver or nail file and work waterproof glue or cement onto the underside of the veneer. In the blisters, be sure and force glue under both sides of the slot. Then press the veneer down into position. Be sure to remove any adhesive oozing up through the slot or around the edges; removal later is difficult.

Then place three thicknesses of heavy paper over the glued area and weight with several large books (you will need at least 25 pounds). Allow time for the glue to thoroughly dry.

Q. We have dark panneling in a family room. I hate to go to the work of removing this and resurfacing the wall underneath in order to apply a decent coat of paint. Is it practical to paint the panneling instead?

A. If the panneling is real wood, you should have no problem in painting the surface. However, if it is a vinyl imitation or a plastic-coated panneling, paint will not adhere to the surface.

If in doubt, carefully inspect the panneling surface. Vinyl or plastic has a slight sheen and lacks the richness in grains of real wood. If you are still unsure, sand the panneling finish in a small inconspicuous area. The panneling finish will shred and flake off if it's vinyl or plastic.

To prepare wood panneling for painting, first sand the panneling to roughen up the finish. Use a medium-grit sandpaper and a sanding block. After sanding, wash the surface with a non-flaming cleaner such as Sollex. Rinse thoroughly with water and let dry 24 hours.

Next, prime the walls with a good primer. Some recommended products would include BIN (William Zinzer & Co., 39 Belmont Drive, Somerset NJ 08873) or X-IM (X-IM Products Inc., 1169 Bassett Road, Westlake, OH 44145) or an alkyd primer as recommended by your local paint dealer.

The primer can be tinted, using universal colors (sold at paint stores). Tint to half the density of the final finish coat and your paint job may require only one finish coat.

After applying the primer coat, check for cracks and holes in the surface and around window, door and floor moldings. Fill with a latex caulk. Do not fill in the grooves between the panels.

For the final coat, use a quality alkyd enamel, or a semigloss or flat latex as recommended by your paint dealer.

Houseplants are an attractive and healthy addition to any home

If you have a window that gets five to six hours of daily sunshine, you can grow the makings for gourmet meals. Parsley, chives, oregano, rosemary, thyme and other aromatic kitchen herbs are easy to grow in small pots on a window sill.

Fancy loose-leaf lettuces and other salad greens need larger pots but also will do well in a sunny spot. All can be started from seed in a pro-mix moist potting soil. Hint: Make a temporary greenhouse by covering pots with plastic wrap while seeds sprout.

As a general rule of thumb, water houseplants when the top half-inch of soil feels dry to the touch, and give them a thorough soaking. Most plants also will benefit from a monthly feeding with a complete fertilizer for houseplants used according to the package directions.

Glossy-leaved plants will appreciate an occasional bath with a clean sponge and lukewarm water. Others, especially ferns, may be set in the shower for a few minutes. This will remove accumulated dust and certain pests and refresh the whole plant.

If insects become a problem, avoid harsh chemical insecticides, especially on edible greens. Control insect pests with a non-toxic insecticidal soap for houseplants. The spray kills insects on contact, but is harmless to people, pets and the environment.

Q. Are there any common houseplants that bloom in the winter?

A. African violets, wax begonias and shrimp plants give constant bloom. Paper-white narcissi and French-Roman hyacinths can be started for succession and are long-lasting. Also try scented geraniums, amaryllis, jasmines, azaleas and chrysanthemums.

If there is sun, tree-fern geraniums or lantanas make a handsome grouping. For most flowering plants, sunshine is the key.

Of course, many lovely potted bulbs available at garden centers are especially cultivated to bloom at Christmastime, such as amaryllis, narcissus, hyacinths and crocuses. These fragrant bulbs will last several weeks and require only a little watering.

Q. What are the best containers for all types of houseplants?

A. Most plants grow well in both clay and plastic pots as long as cultural care is satisfactory. Plants in plastic pots need less water than those in clay.

During the hot, sultry months (July and August) plants potted in clay dry out fast, especially if they're sitting in direct sun. They may need two daily waterings — morning and evening — to survive wilting and heat stress.

Whatever type of container you use, be sure that there are drainage holes in the bottom.

Q. What houseplants need the least attention? I'd like to have the green of plants in my home, but I don't want to spend a lot of time caring for them.

A. The following plants grow easily indoors: spider plant, grape ivy, cast-iron plant, dracaenas, philodendron, piggyback plant, ferns, ponytail, snake plant, jade plant, lipstick vine, wandering Jew and wax plant.

estate. This could pave the way for the establishment of a secondary market for commercial mortgages, thus putting new life into this almost-dead phase of mortgage lending.

Q. With President-elect Bill Clinton soon to take over leadership in Washington and a growing economy, what direction will the real estate market take in 1993?

A. Most regions of the country will experience a significant turnaround in the real estate market and the residential property sales curve will start a steady climb, predict several seasoned real estate professionals I recently interviewed.

The growing optimism has surfaced since the election. Economic indicators also are pointing in a positive direction, and consumer confidence in the economy is building.

Mortgage interest rates also remain close to a 20-year low. And there are a growing number of special home financing mortgage plans that make home-buying more accessible to more families.

Also, the pent-up demand for homes by potential buyers who have been reluctant to make the move is on the rise. And home prices have dropped during the past couple of years in some areas.

In January the holidays will be behind us, expectations will be high for the performance of a new president and many people will finally be ready to take action to achieve that cherished goal of homeownership. Families will be more inclined to take advantage of favorable home-buying conditions. It's an opportunity they don't want to miss, particularly the young, first-time buyers seeking a home with a modest price tag.

Q. How important will housing be for the new president and his administration?

A. Here's a quote from Dorcas Helfant, president of the National Association of Realtors: "We anticipate the new administration will act quickly to make housing a national priority."

Questions may be used in future columns; personal responses should not be expected. Send inquiries to James M. Woodard, Copley News Service, P.O. Box 190, San Diego, CA 92112-0190.

Mechanical adjustable recliner is a first

By James G. McCollam
Copley News Service

Q. I recently purchased this old chair at an estate sale. It is an ornate recliner with various adjustments. There is a metal plate at the bottom of the back that reads "Cook & Co.'s Automatic Chair, patented January 29, 1901, by S.A. Cook & Co., Medina, NY."

I would appreciate it if you give your opinion as to value.

A. This was probably the first mechanically adjustable reclining chair in America. It might be worth $800 to $900 completely refinished and reupholstered.

Q. I have a Donald Duck bank that was handed down by an older cousin in 1960. I would appreciate any information you can provide about its age, origin and value.

The bank is ceramic and stands 1 foot high. There are no identifying marks on it. While the white is baked-on glaze, the other colors seem to have been applied after glazing, as they feel different and have peeled.

A. Since this isn't marked "Copyright by Walt Disney," it is probably a pirated piece and would not qualify as a Disney collectible.

It might sell for $25 to $35.

Q. This mark is on the bottom of a 12-inch porcelain vase. It has an oval body with three small feet and a flared neck. It is decorated with a picture of a lady in an old-fashioned dress and the handles are shaped like dragons.

Please tell me who made this, when and its value.

A. This mark was used by Beyer

ANTIQUES

& Bock in Volkstedt, Germany, during the first quarter of the 20th century. It would probably sell for $225 to $235 in an antique shop.

Q. I would like to know the approximate value of my Rosenthal china, which I purchased in Germany in 1952. The bottoms are marked "Rosenthal—Selb—Germany—Winifred."

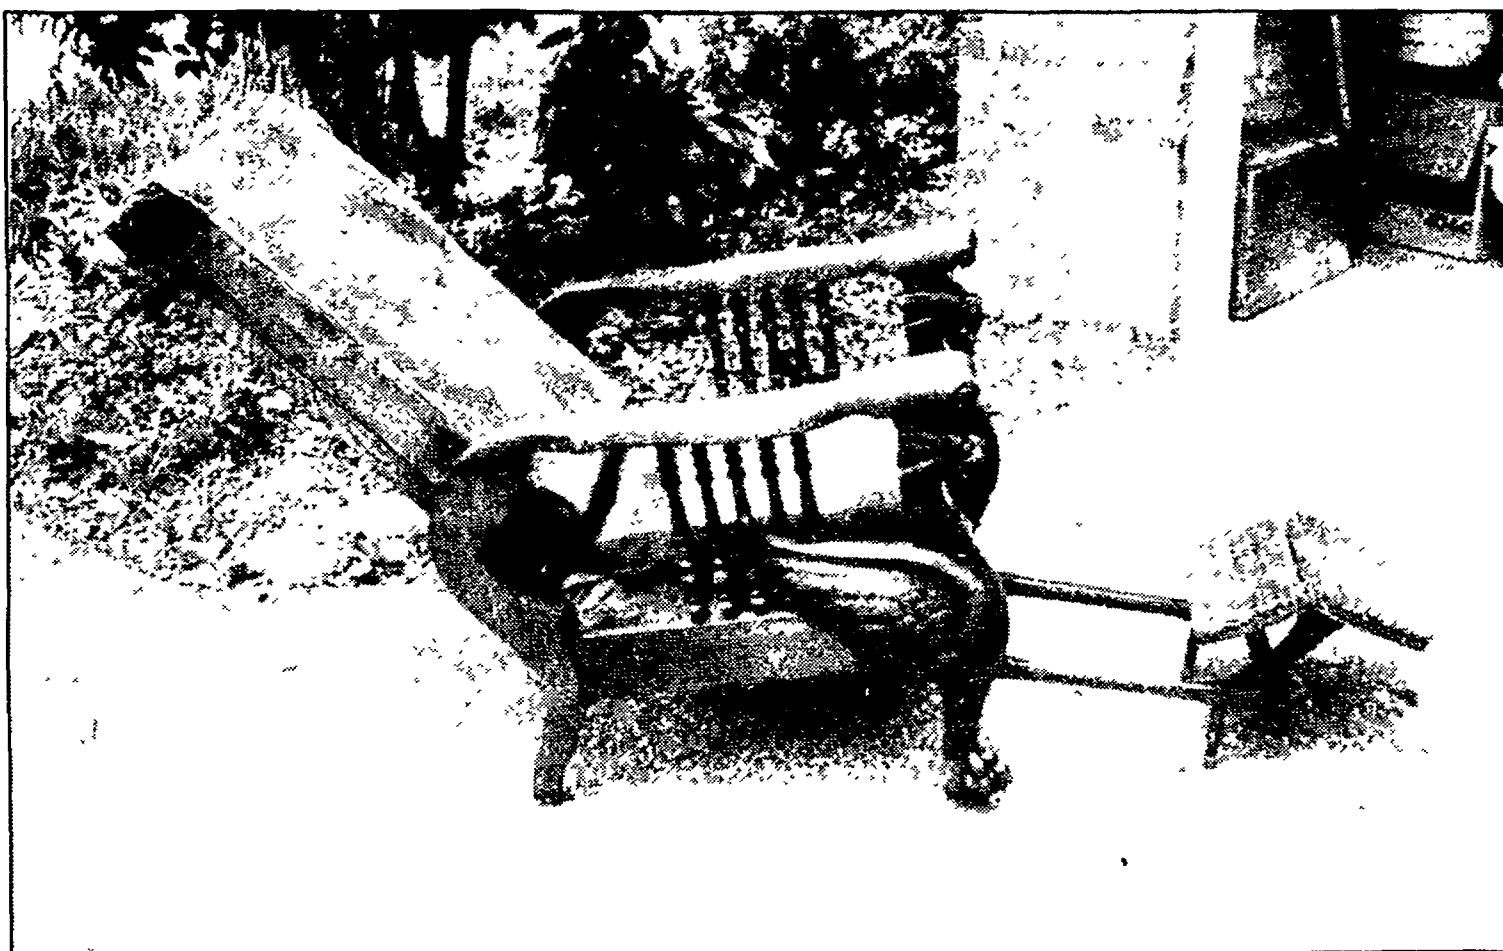

I have 12 seven-piece place settings plus gravy boat, 9-inch round covered serving dish, 9-inch-square bowl and two sizes of platters.

A. The going market price for a set like yours is about $800 to $900. That's about half of what it would cost brand new.

Forty years is not enough to make your china a valuable collectible.

Q. I have in my possession two Walt Disney "celluloids"; they each have a sticker on the back that reads as follows:

"This is an original hand-painted

This is probably the first mechanically adjustable recliner in America and would be worth $800 to $900 in restored condition.

celluloid drawing actually used in a Walt Disney production, released exclusively by the Art Corner at Disneyland, Anaheim, California. Copyright Walt Disney Productions."

They are each 6-by-7 1/2 inches and are pictures of Jiminy Cricket. Could you tell me if they are valuable, and if so, how much are they worth? I know they are at least 30 years old.

A. Some Disney "cels" are worth several thousand dollars, but Jiminy Cricket cels sell for $250 to $300 each.

Q. I was given a 10-piece canister set marked "Made in Germany." It consists of four large (coffee, tea, sugar and rice) and eight small (pepper, cinnamon, clove, etc.) pieces.

What can you tell me about the age, value, etc.?

A. Your china canister set was made in the early 20th century and would probably sell for about $125 to $135 in good condition.

Letters with picture(s) are welcome and may be answered in the column. We cannot reply personally or return pictures. Address your letters to James G. McCollam, P.O. Box 1087, Notre Dame, IN 46556.

REAL ESTATE UPDATE
BOB SCRIBNER THAT BEAUTIFUL LEVERAGE

QUESTION: What is meant by the word "leverage" when used in conjunction with investing in real estate?

ANSWER: Leverage arises because ALL of the income and ALL of the appreciation belongs to the property holder regardless of the amount of the loan. To illustrate, assume a $100,000 property was purchased for only $10,000 cash and a $90,000 mortgage loan. Five years later, the same property is sold for $150,000 (a 50% gain in value). After paying off the $90,000 mortgage, the investor would realize, not a $50,000 gain, but rather a $60,000 gain on his initial cash investment because he only invested $10,000 for the property. That's leverage!

LEVERAGE is the key to multiplying profits from real estate.

Whimsical purchase dishes up family fare

By ANNE SEEBALDT GOGOLIN
Special Writer

For Debby Charlick, providing high quality, health-conscious, reasonably priced food in a cozy country atmosphere is top priority.

The former waitress and restaurant manager now owns and operates Debby's Diner, located at 1095 S. Millford Road in Highland Township.

The restaurant is situated on the former site of the Viking Sub Shop.

Charlick said that the concept of a reasonable, sit-down dining facility that also serves dinner has been on her mind for some time. She has 22 years of restaurant experience and is presently doing most of the cooking in the diner due to a lack of experienced cooking help.

"We really try to be a step above (at the same price)," she said. She uses no additional oil on her grill and fries items in 100 percent vegetable oil.

Although she has thought about the idea for a while, she added that she actually purchased the diner impulsively.

Charlick heard the sub shop and its equipment were for sale, put in an offer, and purchased the shop within two days. On Nov. 16, two weeks from the date she started this process, Debby's Diner was open for customers.

"This was a whim," she said. "I had no idea (before) that this place was for sale."

Charlick and family members worked long, hard hours to make the new venture ready. The work included extensive cleaning, painting, having new carpet installed and moving equipment around. Eventually, Charlick said, she would like to further renovate the present seating arrangements and buy comfortable booths to permit more seating. The diner currently seats 50.

"We're trying to make it more of an old-time country diner. Our dinners, we're hoping to keep in the $5 range," she said.

In fact, dinner menu prices range from $3.85 to $5.75 and entrees include soup, salad or coleslaw, choice of potato, vegetable and roll. Hamburgers, grilled chicken, fish and chips, ham and veal cutlets are featured entrees. Various subs, burgers, sandwiches, coney, side orders, salads, and soups round out the lunch and dinner menus.

Breakfast items range in price from weekday specials, such as $1.99 for biscuits and gravy to $3.25 for a western omelet. Side orders, such as toast (50 cents), muffins (60 cents), and ham, bacon, or sausage ($1.45) help to complete the breakfast menu. Pancakes, french toast, and other egg dishes are available. And when you order a cup of coffee at Debby's Diner, you receive an entire heat-insulated carafe.

"We're just trying to make it a friendly atmosphere where you can come and relax," she said.

Charlick said the business is doing well overall, adding that dinner hour still seems to be slower than breakfast or lunch. She said she would like people to know that a sit-down restaurant is now in Highland and serves dinner Tuesday through Friday. Furthermore, Charlick said, people should be aware that an additional 20 parking spaces are available at the rear entrance to the diner.

In the future, Charlick said her hopes are that the diner "would bring more business to my surrounding businesses here. I would hope it would improve their business along with mine."

Debby Charlick opened Debby's Diner in Highland on a whim.

MARTY GIBSON of South Lyon, lead technician for clinical engineering, in St. Joseph Mercy Hospital's operating room services area is one of a team of employees recognized for their efforts to cut health care costs and provide quality support services. The awards were part of the department's 11th semiannual Employee Recognition Program.

The work group captured the Cost Savings Award. The team developed and implemented a plan to cut almost in half the costs associated with service and maintenance contracts for cardio-pulmonary bypass equipment while maintaining quality patient care.

The projects and resulting savings have spurred Catherine McAuley Health System to evaluate each piece of equipment as its service contract comes up for renewal as part of the health system's cost containment efforts.

The award recipients' names will be added to the department's recognition plaque. In addition, recipients received checks and restaurant gift certificates for their efforts.

Catherine McAuley Health System is a not-for-profit health care provider based in Ann Arbor. Units include St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, McPherson Hospital in Howell, Saline Community Hospital and outpatient facilities in Washtenaw, Livingston and western Wayne counties.

RICHARD S. CLAY, assistant actuary with Lincoln National Life Insurance Co., Fort Wayne, Ind., has been named a Fellow of the Society of Actuaries (FSA). He is a graduate of Milford High School and received a bachelor's degree in 1983 and a master's degree in 1984 in mathematics from the University of Michigan.

Clay, the son of Thomas and Mary Lou Christensen of Highland, lives in Fort Wayne with his wife, Sheila, and their daughters Amanda and Rebecca.

Clay earned the FSA designation by successfully completing a series of examinations administered by the Society. FSA candidates are tested on mathematics and statistics underlying actuarial science and their applications to technical actuarial problems. Actuaries design and evaluate financial programs by using statistical and economic techniques to analyze risk and probabilities and to evaluate the implications of future events.

The Society of Actuaries is an international educational, research and professional membership organization for actuaries in the life and health insurance, investments, pensions and employee benefits. The SOA's rigorous educational requirements and continuing education programs ensure that its members are trained to perform at a high level of knowledge and competency.

THE JERVIS B. WEBB CO. announces the selection of Victor Kurzeja as Quality Achiever of the Month. Kurzeja was recently named leader of the trolley department at Webb's New Hudson facility.

His "zero defects" attitude and commitment to the Quality Improvement Process are a part of his daily work routine. He does everything possible to ensure that conveyor trolleys manufactured by his group meet all the quality standards, a company release said. If a problem arises, he fixes it and takes the necessary steps to assure that the solution is permanent.

Webb's Quality Improvement Process (QIP) is a Philip Crosby-based preventative system that requires total employee involvement. The Quality Recognition Committee recognizes a Webb employee each month as "Quality Achiever."

The purpose of the recognition is to honor those who put forth a quality effort in everything they do. Quality Achievers are nominated by their peers and evaluated on the following criteria: conformance to requirements, problem solving and prevention, zero defects attitude, commitment to the QIP and cooperation and communication.

The Jervis B. Webb Company, headquartered in Farmington Hills, is the world's leading designer, manufacturer and installer of custom material handling systems.

ASSOCIATE-BROKER FRED SMITH has recently joined the real estate office of RE/MAX 100 Inc. in Novi to form a husband and wife team, announced broker/owner Crystal Cunningham-Halley.

Smith and his wife, Darleen, have over 30 years of combined experience serving the residential and new construction real estate needs of southwest Oakland and western Wayne counties. As a team, they will focus on serving Novi, Farmington Hills, Livonia, South Lyon, Redford and Northville.

Before joining RE/MAX 100, Smith was broker/owner of Earl Keim Smith Guardian Realtors. RE/MAX 100's address is 39500 Orchard Hill Place, Suite 130, Novi 48375. The phone number is 348-3000.

The Smiths have been residents of New Hudson for the last four years. Prior to entering a career in real estate sales and counseling he owned and operated an automotive repair and towing business for 15 years.

FORTY-THREE FORD SCIENTISTS and engineers from Europe and North America were recognized for their breakthrough innovations that will help Ford cut costs and development times while providing better quality products to the customer.

Ford Motor Company honored the recipients Dec. 10 at the 12th Annual Henry Ford Technology Awards program in Dearborn.

South Lyon resident Charles F. Weber, a product design engineer and Milford resident Gary M. Klinger, a section supervisor, received Henry Ford Technology Awards for design, development and production application of a next generation speed control actuator.

"When we look to the future and consider what we must do to be successful, it's clear that technology is going to be a critical element," said Ford Motor Co. President Philip E. Benton. "When it comes to technical content, what we need most of all is innovation that adds real functional value to our products."

Ford has spent $28 billion during the last five years on new products, facilities and tooling worldwide, plus an additional $16 billion on advanced research and development. Benton pointed out that Ford will spend an even greater rate through the end of this decade.

MARK VAN NETTEN, a South Lyon resident, recently attended The Davey Tree Expert Co. 1992 Loss Control Seminar at The Davey Institute in Kent, Ohio.

Thirty-five Davey employees attended the seminar, which covered employee safety, hearing conservation, licensing requirements, hazard identification and communication and claims management.

Van Netten, a district manager, has been employed by The Davey Expert Co. for 16 years. He has a bachelor's degree from Michigan State University.

The Davey Tree Expert Co. is North America's oldest and largest tree care company. It is employee-owned with 5,000 employees coast to coast in the United States and Canada.

Money Management

New couples must talk about money

Meshing different styles of relating to and handling money can be a difficult task for newlyweds. The Michigan Association of CPAs offers the following advice to help couples plan, save and spend money in marital harmony.

One of the first big money management decisions you will face is whether to keep separate his and her accounts or to merge your finances into a joint account. In the past, when most families had just one breadwinner, finances were generally kept in one joint account. Today, some couples prefer to maintain separate accounts with each partner responsible for certain bills and expenses. Other couples choose to pool some of their money in a joint account for living expenses, while maintaining separate accounts for personal expenses. There's no right answer. Financial experts advise couples to experiment and then do what works best.

Once you have decided how to handle your paychecks, the next step is to set up a budget. Start by identifying your financial goals. What is most important to you? Do you absolutely need to buy a new car, or do you want to save as much as possible for a home? Are weekend getaways a priority, or would you rather save for a cruise around the world?

You and your spouse will also need to decide who will pay the bills, balance checking accounts, and maintain financial records. In most cases, both spouses should remain involved. Consider either splitting these responsibilities between the two of you or rotating them every few months.

Another issue you must address is the impact of marriage on your tax liability. Your first step should be to estimate your combined tax bill for the current year. Make sure you calculate how much tax you will owe if you file jointly as opposed to married, filing separate returns. In most cases, filing jointly will result in somewhat lower tax liability. However, you should be aware that most dual-income couples will end up with a higher combined tax bill than they would have had as single taxpayers with the same income.

Once you determine how marriage will affect your particular tax liability, file a new W-4 form with your employer to adjust the amount of withholding from your paycheck.

Newlyweds also need to compare credit cards to eliminate redundancies and to save money on annual fees. If you both have many of the same credit cards, look into the features and fees that accompany each card to determine which cards you should keep. Then it's time for plastic surgery—cut up those extra cards so you're not tempted to use them. Of course, it's a good idea for each of you to keep at least one card in your own name to maintain a personal credit rating in the event of divorce or death.

Most two-career marriages also have overlapping benefits that may be costing you unnecessary dollars. For instance, if your spouse's health insurance plan is completely paid for by his or her company and yours isn't, you may save money by switching to your spouse's plan as a dependent, rather than paying for coverage for yourself. But if you both have plans where the cost is free or minimal, you may want to keep both—especially if they contain a coordination of benefits feature.

Following these simple steps can start you on the road to financial security. For more specific advice on money management, consult your CPA.

The 1993 job outlook is tempered by continuing cutbacks in Michigan's automotive industry, said F. Robert Edwards, director of the Michigan Employment Security Commission.

Forecasters predict modest job growth for the state during 1993, and slow but continued improvement in the jobless rate through 1994.

But 1992 ended on several positive notes, Edwards said.

Unemployment dropped for four straight months through November. Unemployment was down for the year. Fewer claims were filed for jobless benefits.

More Michigan workers held jobs. And a record number of people were in Michigan's labor force either working or looking for work in 1992.

Based on the state's recent unemployment pattern, it appears Michigan's unemployment rate should average 8.8 percent in 1992, down from 1991's 9.2 percent rate.

Through November, an average of 134,000 unemployment claims were filed monthly in 1992, down 21,000 from 1991.

By year's end, the number of workers with jobs should average 4,208,000, up 83,000 over the 1991 level, Edwards said. The size of Michigan's labor force should also expand for the year, growing by 73,000 to an all-time high of 4,616,000.

In the state's major industrial sectors:

- Manufacturing rose by about 2,000 jobs in 1992 with the most of the increases occurring in the non-durable goods area. Average weekly earnings in manufacturing rose by a sizable 4.2 percent to approximately $618.50.

- Among the service industries, retail trade lost nearly 7,000 jobs. Wholesale trade also reported losses. The service sector, however, had a 9,000 job increase.

- State government employment declined by 2,000 in 1992, but local government jobs rose by 3,000, largely because of increased funding for summer youth programs.

In 1993, Michigan will likely feel the effects of plant closings in the auto industry and other related work force reductions. Consequently, forecasters anticipate a small increase in wage and salary employment next year and a more substantial increase by 1994.

The modest job growth in 1993 will probably result in a slow but sustained decline in Michigan's unemployment rate, Edwards said. By 1994, a more substantial decrease is expected.

McGRUFF FILES

Everything you need to close down a crackhouse.

You aren't helpless when crime invades your neighborhood. You're fully capable of helping police and they're ready to show you how.

The case of The Stanton Park Stand-off.

When crack moved into a row house on a quiet block of Stanton Park, folks decided to serve an eviction notice.

They met with police to find out what they could do to keep drugs out of their neighborhood.

The cops told them to keep an eye out — to let police know whenever something suspicious happened. They began to notice faces. They wrote down license numbers of strange cars. They noted the times of odd behavior.

They worked with each other. Armed with field glasses, note pads and telephones, folks kept track of the neighborhood.

Within one month, enough evidence had been gathered. Police moved in. Crack moved out.

Citizen participation beat crime in D.C. It can do the same for you. For more success stories, write The McGruff Files, 1 Prevention Way, Washington, D.C. 20839-0001.

Police become even more responsive when their people are their partners. Together we can help

Customer satisfaction a top concern for auto dealers

Keeping the customer satisfied has not always been the list of automakers' priorities.

When American-made cars were the only show in town, automakers and dealers could afford to let service slip. Service after the sale, a knowledgeable sales staff, and the use of quality components could not always be counted on.

As we fast forward to 1993, the situation has turned around 180 degrees. There are still poor dealers and poor products, but automakers know and appreciate that customers aren't buying as many cars as they did 20 years ago, and have plenty of other cars to choose from next time if they aren't satisfied now with their service.

"Customer satisfaction has eclipsed fuel economy, quality and even safety as the top concern of virtually every manufacturer selling automobiles and light trucks in the American market," Oldsmobile proclaims.

The GM division touts its Oldsmobile Edge plan as "the most comprehensive guarantee of customer satisfaction available in the U.S. market."

Oldsmobile provides corrosion protection for six years or 100,000 miles, covers towing charges (except for parking infractions), provides roadside repairs and offers courtesy transportation while the car is undergoing warranty repair.

If you're 150 or more miles from home and your car breaks down, Olds will cover food and lodging expenses up to $500.

Cadillac offers a four-year, 50,000-mile protection on covered parts with no deductible, plus a six-year, 100,000-mile corrosion protection warranty.

In addition, all Cadillacs, regardless of the model year, are covered by 24-hour roadside service for the life of the vehicle. The service is available at 585 Cadillac dealerships nationwide without any membership fee for the life of the vehicle.

Trained telephone operator advisors are available 24 hours to provide assistance and information to Cadillac owners that could put the driver back on the road without sending a technician. In the event of a more complex problem, a dealer technician is dispatched to repair the problem roadside, or towing will be arranged.

Other available services available at no cost in the first 12 months of new ownership include lockout assistance, gasoline delivery, towing, battery jump starts, and flat tire changes.

For Allante, service includes a four-year, 50,000-mile protection warranty with supplemental Gold Key Plus bumper-to-bumper coverage, which extends coverage to a seven-year, 100,000-mile protection on covered parts with no deductible.

"Cadillac is seriously committed to service after the sale," said Jeff Rogers, assistant general sales manager for Don Massey Cadillac in Plymouth. "We find that customers coming in the door don't know about the service, but when they buy a car, it gives them a real sense of assurance knowing they have it."

The "Audi Advantage" offers car buyers expense-free scheduled maintenance and routine repairs for three years or 50,000 miles throughout its model line. Audi also offers a 10-year limited warranty against corrosion and 24-hour roadside assistance through a club membership.

Pontiac has enhanced its customer service by expanding its roadside assistance services (including finding someone to change your flat tire or to remedy a locked-out-of-car or lost-key situation free-of-charge), and new courtesy transportation during 1993 model year warranty repairs.

Auto show features golf clinic

One way to get into the swing of things at the 1993 North American International Auto Show is to take advantage of a golf demonstration that will be offered.

About 150 professional golfers will be on hand to give demonstrations and offer tips to duffers from Thursday, Jan. 14, through Sunday, Jan. 17, during auto show hours.

Hitting nets will be set up so golfers can hit six balls and have their swings analyzed by a pro. Also, a putting surface will be available for critiques and lessons. Another area will be designated for club fittings.

The golf weekend is an additional $3 for people attending the auto show. There is no separate fee or entrance for the golf weekend only. For $10, attendees can have their swing videotaped while being coached by a Michigan pro. They can then take home the videotape.

"We like to think of this as one of the world's largest golf clinics," said Ken Devine, executive director of the Michigan Sector PGA. "The purpose is to give attendees a tip or two from Michigan PGA golf professionals in an exciting environment."

Daniel Hayes, executive vice president of the Detroit Auto Dealers Association said the golf weekend will not be a push to sell products. "This is a hands-on event to improve your game. It's a chance to have a club in your hands in the dead of January."

'Big Three' executives to speak

The chief executive officers of the Big Three auto companies will be guest speakers at the Economic Club of Detroit during the 1993 North American International Auto Show's press days.

It will be the first time the CEOs of Chrysler Corp., Ford Motor Co. and General Motors Corp. will appear together in a public forum.

The speakers offer a mix of the incoming and the outgoing. Robert Eaton will have been chairman and chief executive officer of Chrysler for only a week when he appears at the Economic Club. Formerly vice chairman of Chrysler, Eaton succeeds Lee Iacocca.

GM President John F. "Jack" Smith, Jr. assumed his role in November. Ford Chairman Harold "Red" Poling will retire in 1993.

The luncheon will be held Friday, Jan. 8, the day before the public opening of the auto show at Cobo Center.

NAIAS show includes van conversions

In addition to cars and trucks from manufacturers around the world, the 1993 North American International Auto Show will include one of the largest retail displays of van conversions in North America.

Twenty companies will display about 35 van conversions on the lower level of Cobo Hall during the auto show, as they have done for more than a decade. Van conversions are sold through retail car dealers.

"The auto show is important to our dealers because it sells a lot of van conversions," said Daniel Hayes, executive vice president of the Detroit Auto Dealers Association. "We've received reports of dealers selling as many as 50 van conversions in the two weeks following the show."

There is no additional charge for the van conversion show.

It's showtime for automakers

Better sales and reputations on the line at '93 Auto Show

The most important introductions at the 1993 North American International Auto Show have nothing to do with handshakes.

For the automotive executives, designers, engineers and staff responsible for the more than 25 vehicles that will make their debut at this year's show, the result of years of sweating the details on cars they have developed will come under public scrutiny for the first time as their pet projects are introduced to the world.

Millions of dollars in vehicle investment, not to mention reputations and careers, are riding on the success or failure of new or upgraded models.

The extent of the general public's reaction to their efforts may only entail a long glance before they move on to the next car. But there will be thousands of journalists, designers, engineers, and executives roaming the aisles and more critically checking the offerings of the auto companies.

The cars introduced in Detroit are some of the most important models on the market, including those introduced at the Tokyo and Frankfurt shows," said Kathleen Hamilton, senior editor of Automobile magazine. "It's interesting to see the public reaction to them as well as hear the executives' opinions on them."

A few thousand auto executives from around the world are planning to attend the 1993 auto show, according to Showtalk, a publication of the Detroit Auto Dealers Association. They will join the general public in looking at more than 750 cars and trucks that will be on display from the world's manufacturers.

The show brings everyone in the auto industry out of the woodwork — and auto dealers look for customers to come out of hibernation in what would otherwise be a so-so winter-time month.

"At this time of year, we always look for a little boost from the auto show, and hope things improve," said John Hofstra, new car sales manager for George Matlack Chevrolet in Redford.

Said Jeff Rogers, assistant general sales manager for Don Massey Cadillac in Plymouth: "We find that the auto show stimulates an interest in new cars, not just Cadillacs, but all models."

Added Bob Faust, General Sales Manager of Dick Scott Dodge in Plymouth: "The auto show always stimulates interest, generally a week or two after the show. The holidays are over, there are usually new products, and I think the show creates some excitement."

The Detroit auto show added the "international" to its moniker in 1989 when area auto dealers and manufacturers decided the show should move into a new direction.

The show went beyond being just a blip on the automotive showcase circuit to a huge event for 40 auto manufacturers worldwide. It is now an event that appeals to die-hard aficionados who fly in to Detroit because they can't wait to see a new car introduced, and to the lunch bucket crowd that wants to check out new vehicles that are all conveniently under one roof.

Following are new vehicles making worldwide debuts in the 1993 North American International Auto Show: ASC Buick Park Avenue Touring Car, ASC Cadillac Seville 2-door, ASC Ford Ranger Rap Around, ASC LT1 Spyder Corvette, ASC Saturn 4-2 Convertible, Chevrolet Highlander Concept, Chrysler LHS Concept, Chrysler New Yorker, Chrysler Thunderbolt Concept, Dodge Ram, GMC Truck Santa Fe Concept, Hyundai HCD-II, Jeep ECCO Concept Vehicle, Lexus GS 300, Lincoln-Mercury Villager Concept, Plymouth Prowler Concept, Pontiac Grand Prix GTP Concept, and Porsche Concept.

New vehicles making their North American debut include ASC Nissan 300ZX (with articulating hardtop), Bentley Brooklands, Bugatti EB 110, Isuzu Trooper RS, Jaguar XJR-S, Mitsubishi 1994 Galant, Porsche 911 Speedster, Range Rover County with sport package, Rolls-Royce Corniche IV Convertible, Toyota AXV-III Concept, and the Volkswagen Jetta GLX.

Buick GM heralds year of refinement

For 1993, Buick features a new appearance for Regal sedan, enhanced 3800 V-6 engines in Park Avenue, LeSabre and optionally in Regal, a driver air bag and new standard engine in Century and other improvements throughout the line.

"In the last several years, Buick has launched more new models than ever before in our nearly 90 years of business," said Buick General Manager Edward H. Mertz. "This year is one of refinement, with a fresh look for Regal sedan, more use of such safety equipment as anti-lock brakes and air bags, and more responsive and efficient powertrains in many models."

The mid-size Regal now includes, as standard equipment, the Hydramatic 4T60-E electronically controlled automatic transmission — the same one that has received highly favorable reviews for smoothness and responsiveness on Buick's luxury models.

Regal sedan has a more sculpted front appearance with the hood integrated with the new grille and headlamps. The taillamps and bumpers also have subtle changes to provide more of a family resemblance to the larger LeSabre and Park Avenue.

The widely acclaimed 3.8-liter 3800 V-6 with tuned port injection has been modified for quieter, more responsive performance in some models. The enhanced 3800 is now standard in Park Avenue, LeSabre and Regal Gran Sport and optional in other Regals. Torque is increased by 5 lb-ft at 3200 rpm while horsepower remains 170 at 4800 rpm.

All Buicks with naturally aspirated 3800 V-6s have a one-mile-per-gallon improvement in the projected city EPA fuel-economy ratings. For Park Avenue and Riviera, the estimated ratings are 19 mpg city and 27 highway; for LeSabre and Regal, 19 city and 28 highway.

A supercharged 3800 V-6 is again standard in flagship Park Avenue Ultra. This powerful and responsive engine delivers 205 hp at 4400 rpm and 260 lb-ft of torque at 2600 rpm and projected fuel economy of 17 mpg city and 26 highway.

The mid-sized Century features a new standard 2.2-liter four-cylinder engine with multi-port fuel injection that delivers 110 horsepower at 5200 rpm and 130 lb-ft of torque at 3200 rpm and estimated fuel economy of 22 city and 31 highway.

The 3300 V-6, on which Buick IndyCar engines are based, remains optional in Century and Skylark. Twelve Buick engines, including the record-setting pole winner, qualified for the '92 Indianapolis 500, and Al Unser, Sr., finished third, best finish yet for a Buick engine in the 500.

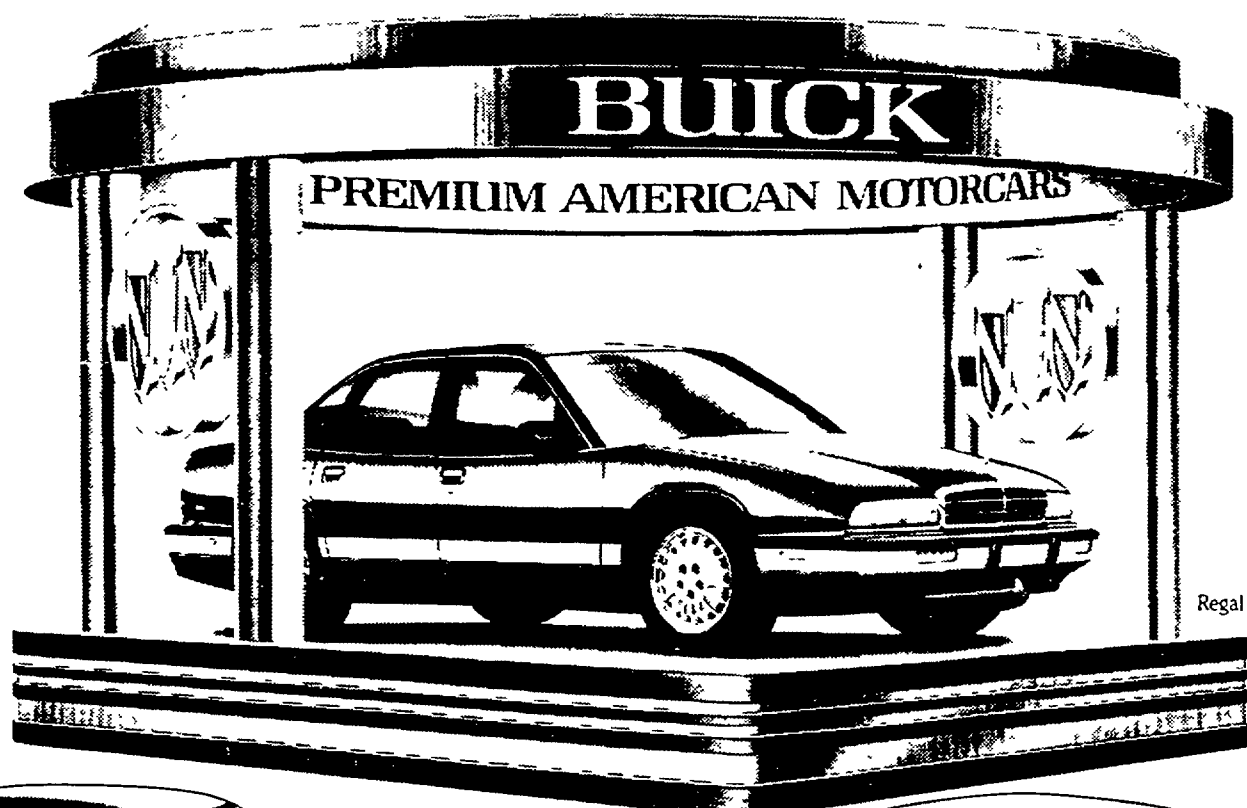

Roadmaster sedans and Roadmaster Estate Wagon, designed for those who want a full-size, full-frame vehicle with rear-wheel drive and V-8 engine, continue to offer the 5.7 liter V-8 with electronic fuel injection, generating 180 hp at 4000 rpm and 300 ft-lb of torque at 2400 rpm, and projected EPA ratings of 16 city and 25 highway. All other Buicks have front-wheel drive.

Buick continues to achieve recognition to support its message, "the new symbol of quality in America."

Geo Prizm reflects new style

Meet the new Geo Prizm, the first major overhaul of a GEO model since the brand was established in 1988.

The car will be on showroom floors this year at Chevrolet/Geo dealers. The Prizm is built at NUMMI, the GM-Toyota joint venture in Fremont, Calif., and has been the best-selling car in the Geo lineup since the brand was established.

The new Prizm front-wheel-drive family sedan offers several under-the-skin improvements, including:

- A longer wheelbase and overall length for a roomier interior.
- A move up from subcompact to compact class.
- Standard driver-side airbag and available anti-lock brakes.
- A new optional 1.8-liter fuel-injected engine.

This year, the GSi model has been discontinued, but the standard and LSi trim levels are available.

In the area of safety, all Prizms have a driver's side airbag, active 3-point safety belts, and rear child safety door locks. The airbag design allows horn operation from the middle of the four-spoke steering wheel, eliminating fumbling for thumb-shaped horn buttons. The front belts have a five-position vertical height adjustment for added comfort.

The uplevel LSi features specific seat and door trim and a 60/40 split folding rear seat with a convenient trunk "pass through" feature.

The multiport fuel-injected engine is a standard 16-valve DOHC 1.6-liter engine that generates 108 HP at 6000 RPM. A 1.8-liter DOHC engine rated at 115 HP at 5600 RPM is optional.

The Geo line is aimed at entry-level buyers, first-time buyers and young families. Four distinct vehicles comprise the Geo line: the redesigned Prizm sedan, the sporty Storm coupe, the economical Metro and the versatile Tracker sport-utility vehicle.

GM's Buick celebrates 90th year

The Buick division of General Motors is celebrating 90 years of building cars in 1993.

The division's founder, David Dunbar Buick, was building gasoline engines in 1899, and his engineer, Walter L. Marr, apparently built his first automobile to be called a Buick in 1900.

But Buick traditionally dates its beginnings to 1903, when the company was incorporated, refinanced and moved from Detroit to Flint.

Buick recovered from near-bankruptcy in 1904 to become the No. 1 producer of automobiles in 1908, surpassing the combined production of Ford and Cadillac, its nearest competitors.

Buick has survived 90 years of ups and downs in the auto industry, and today is an important part of General Motors.

Newly-designed Camaro is a muscle car for the '90s

In the 1960s, muscle cars were like the muscle men of the era: formidable, hulking presences dominated by brute strength.

But the science of muscle has come a long way since then. Like today's bodybuilders, the 1993 Camaro is lean, finely proportioned and powerful.

It's a muscle car for the '90s. Completely redesigned from nose to tail, the fourth-generation Camaro wears a sculpted, contemporary skin over hardware that's been thoroughly updated to meet the needs of today's most demanding sports-car enthusiast. All the classic Camaro design ingredients are evident — the smooth upper body, tenacious stance, aggressive front-end treatment and brawny wheels and tires — yet the look is fresh and strikingly contemporary.

This modern muscle machine is available in two coupe versions: standard and uplevel Z28. While the 101.1-inch wheelbase is retained from the previous Camaro, the new edition is longer, wider and taller than its predecessor. Standard features now include driver- and passenger-side air bags — a Chevrolet first — and GM's award-winning ABS VII anti-lock braking system.

Camaros in standard form are powered by a new overhead-valve

3.4-liter V6 engine (RPO L32). A larger-bore version of the versatile 3.1-liter EFI V66 (RPO LHO), this powerplant delivers 160 horsepower at 4600 RPM and 200 pound-feet of torque at 3600 RPM — an improvement of 20 horsepower and 20 additional pound-feet of torque compared with its predecessor.

Features of the new 3.4L V6 include an increased compression ratio (to 10.5-to-1), sequential fuel injection, a more powerful engine-control module, a new direct-ignition system, dual oxygen sensors, a redesigned accessory drive and larger-diameter pistons.

Camaros equipped in the uplevel

Z28 equipment are notably power packed. In the Z28's engine bay sits the 5.7-liter V8 found in today's Corvette. Known as the LT1, this engine produces 275 horsepower at 5000 RPM in Camaro — a gain of 30 horsepower over last year's 5.7L V8 (RPO B2L). Torque also has increased — to 325 pound-feet at 2400 RPM. Two transmissions are available: a four-speed automatic or a new Borg-Warner Automotive T56 six-speed manual.

Key features of the new six-speed's design include a fully synchronized reverse gear, a single-rail internal shift system and fifth and sixth gear synchronizers to reduce noise and shift effort.

The 1993 Camaro is equipped with an all-new short and long (SLA) control-arm front suspension. The rear suspension is a multi-link axle design with two trailing arms, a track bar and a torque arm.

To further enhance the handling and nimble feel of the new Camaro, engineers replaced the recirculating ball of the third-generation car with a power rack-and-pinion steering system. Drivers will notice improvements in responsiveness, on-center feel and feedback.

Camaros in standard form are equipped with power front disc/rear drum brakes. The uplevel Z28 features 4-wheel disc brakes. Both versions sport new 16-inch wheels and Goodyear Eagle all-season tires.

All 1993 Camaros boast a striking new interior design. The dramatically styled wraparound instrument panel has a full complement of easy-to-read analog gauges. All-new sport cloth bucket seats are deeply contoured for support. The rear seat can hold two passengers comfortably, or fold down flat for a cargo volume index of 22.3 cubic feet.

Acoustical improvements for 1993 include the addition of sound-deadening material in the floorpan, more instrument panel insulation and a fiberglass headliner.

GM seeks to fine-tune its airbags

It can be a deadly meeting when a car meets a deer. General Motors can't do much for the deer, but the automaker is trying to fine-tune its airbag technology to assure that drivers don't become victims, too.

Air bag designers face a special problem: autos equipped with the devices must have sensors able to detect in milliseconds if a crash is severe enough to require the protection of an air bag.

Michigan has 48,000 car-deer accidents annually.

"As many motorists have learned, not every vehicle collision requires the deployment of an air-bag system," said Dr. David Viano, a researcher at the General Motors Biomedical Science Department. "This system must be sensitive enough to quickly detect if the collision that is occurring will be severe enough that the occupants need the extra protection the air bag system provides."

"Striking a deer running across a highway is certainly an unnerving occurrence, but is usually not one that requires an air bag deployment."

GM tries to strike the right balance with low-speed crash testing with styrofoam and sand bags to simulate deer. Also, rough road tests help verify that the GM system won't trigger on harsh road surfaces or off road when an air bag deployment is not needed.

The automaker's research and accident data analysis have helped GM set an impact speed threshold for air bag deployment higher than many manufacturers, lowering the risk and expense of unnecessary deployments.

Corvette boasting ZR-1 model

Happy birthday, Chevrolet Corvette.

For most of its 40 years, the 'Vette has been the nation's standard-bearer in the area of high performance cars.

This year, the line will offer a 40th Anniversary Edition, a significant increase in horsepower and torque in for the LT5-powered ZR-1 and a new standard keyless entry system.

The ZR-1 is the Corvette line's showcase model, and for 1993, it will become a limited-production sports car with a maximum of 380 units available per year through 1995.

"The ZR-1 option is a great image-builder for Chevrolet. It allows us to showcase technology that just isn't available anywhere else," said Chevrolet General Manager Jim Perkins. "However, the ZR-1 competes in a very limited market niche, and our decision to limit production reflects that reality."

Equipment on the ZR-1 includes a V-8 engine upgraded to 405 horsepower with a dual overhead cam.

About 4,800 Corvettes equipped with the ZR-1 option have been sold since the car was introduced in the fall of 1989. Overall, the one millionth Corvette was built July 2.

Suburban undergoes redesign

The 1993 Chevrolet Suburban gets GM's new Hydra-matic 4160-E electronic four speed automatic transmission for 1993 after an extensive redesign in '92.

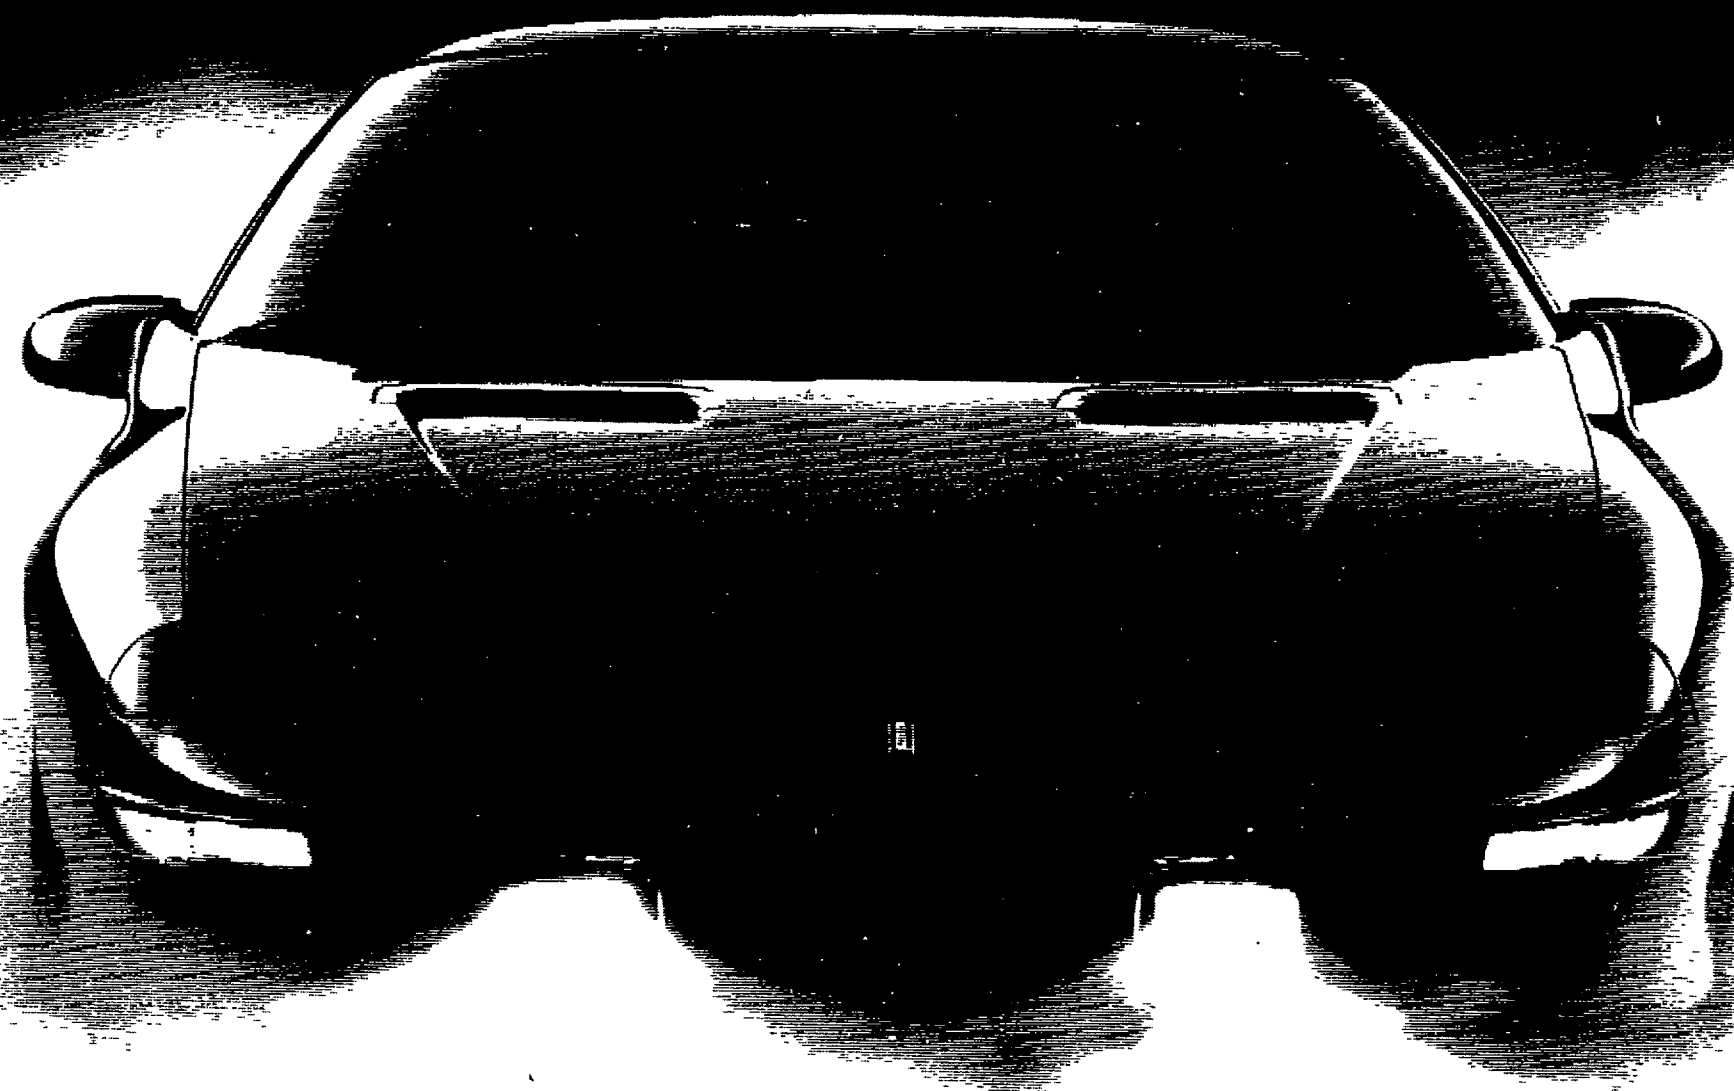

The Suburban comes with a standard 5.7-liter eight cylinder engine, with an optional 7.4-liter engine also available. The K2500 has a maximum payload of 3,065 to 3,565 pounds.

Refinements also include more underhood and underbody corrosion protection, tilt steering column improvements to reduce theft and more extensive use of anti-chip paint coating.

At the fuel pump, the Suburban's gas tank will accept a whopping 42 gallons of gas.

The manufacturer's suggested retail price for the Suburban is $19,080.

THE HEARTBEAT OF AMERICA™

Cadillac promotes luxury car changes

In 1903, the first Cadillac was assembled in Detroit, featuring a 10-horsepower, single-cylinder engine at a cost of $750.

Today's Cadillac line still has four wheels and an engine, but to say the least, times and technology have changed.

Around the turn of the century, automakers had yet to conceive of a Northstar powertrain and suspension, Speed Sensitive Steering, or antilock brakes. But in today's market, introducing such new automotive features and standardizing existing technologies is what keeps an automaker at the top of the game.

Cadillac's television and print advertising theme this year is "changing the way you think about American automobiles," perhaps because the company is changing the way it's doing business.

"Cadillac has changed," said Peter R. Levin, Cadillac's director of advertising. "We know that the market has also changed and the luxury market is increasingly segmented. The campaign will focus on the new Northstar system and the all-new Fleetwood Brougham sedan."

The GM division is focused on retaining its traditional luxury market customer base, while aiming part of its pitch at younger, more affluent and highly educated customers. Cadillac categorizes its product in the "ultimate sport," "prestige luxury" and "traditional large luxury models," recognizing that each segment has diverse needs.

In the car line's prestige luxury segment, the Northstar system will be installed, including a 32-valve, 4.6-liter Northstar V-8 engine, 4-speed electronic automatic transmission, speed-sensitive steering, road-sensing suspension, and full-speed traction control.

Introduced on the Allante earlier this year, the Northstar powertrain will be standard equipment on the Eldorado Touring Coupe and the Seville Touring Sedan. The Eldorado, Seville, De Ville and Sixty Special models will retain the 4.9-liter V-8.

The six-passenger Fleetwood is also seen as critical to Cadillac's success in 1993. The automaker hopes the car will have a wide appeal.

"The Fleetwood holds a strategic place in the Cadillac portfolio," said John O. Grettenberger, general manager of the Cadillac Motor Car Division. "This new model lays claim to a solid core of specific Cadillac customers, plus we believe it will be attractive to new buyers who want comfort and safety in a technically contemporary large rear-wheel-drive luxury car."

The car has been helped by its high visibility in the limousine trade and is targeted for export to Japan and the Middle East. A 7,000-pound trailer towing package option provides the highest available capacity of any passenger car in the world.

The 1993 Fleetwood and Fleetwood Brougham represent an all new body style: at 225.1 inches, it's 4.1 inches longer than last year's model, and its aerodynamic appearance is .36, dramatically down from .49 in the 1992 model.

For its 1993 front-drive models, Cadillac has introduced Speed Sensitive Steering, to provide optimum steering feel and response throughout the operating range of the vehicle. Low effort steering for city driving means motorists won't have muscle strain while parallel parking. As vehicle speed increases, so does the driver's steering effort. Cadillac touts the system as helping to make the driver "feel confident in the way the car will react" and less fatigued.

The Eldorado sports coupe is equipped with a 4.9-liter V-8. The Cadillac Fleetwood Brougham, below, includes a new body style, and at 225.1 inches, is the longest regular production car built in the U.S. The car rides on 15 x 7 inch cast aluminum wheels. It will be available in 12 exterior colors for 1993.

And now, a look at the future Auto designers glance ahead with futuristic concept cars

One of the feature attractions at any auto show are concept cars, those sleek, futuristic and often radical products of an auto designer's imagination.

Detroit's 1993 North American International Auto Show will again have those car concepts on display. Who knows what variations of the cars will actually make it into production. Will the concepts become forgotten, or the shape of things to come?

Automakers pour millions into concept cars every year, and they undoubtedly must give designers a sense of pride when their car — or at least a concept that results from it — makes it into production.

On this page you will find some of the automakers' offerings that will be on display.

JEOP ECCO

The Jeep Ecco is Chrysler's concept of an aerodynamic, "environmentally aware" car that will be easy on gas and most assuredly easy to fit into tight parking spots.

The ECCO produces 85 horsepower powered by a lean-burn 1.5-liter, 2-stroke engine.

The vehicle is constructed of recyclable aluminum and plastic components. The car carries on some of the Jeep go-anywhere, do-anything tradition, with high ground clearance, great use of glass, and wheels on the corners of the vehicle to give stability and maneuverability under any road condition.

GM ULTRALITE

General Motors' 1,400 pound Ultralite is a working prototype of a high-mileage, four-door passenger car that debuted in 1992.

The Ultralite isn't intended for actual production but is a test machine to explore materials and efficient systems. The car can achieve 100 miles per gallon at 50 mph cruising speed, powered by an experimental 173-pound three-cylinder two-stroke engine.

It's lightweight carbon fiber body is similar to materials used in jet fighter bodies.

HYUNDAI HCD-II

The Hyundai HCD-II is a prototype that will be unveiled at the North American International Auto Show in Detroit.

The sports coupe features extensive use of ultra-light composites, front-wheel drive, four-wheel disc brakes, ABS, traction control, dual airbags, a 2.0-liter engine and a collision-avoidance system.

MUSTANG MACH III

Ford went back to the future in designing their Mustang Mach III concept car, which the company says, "blends the styling cues of the classic (1965) Mustang with Ford's state-of-the-art design and technology."

The open air roadster features sculpted body panels, a short, low windshield, a wraparound rear bumper, cat's eye headlamps, and 19-inch, five-spoke chrome wheels. Look for a three-spoke, wood-rimmed steering wheel, leather-trimmed seats, and high-output speakers mounted directly behind the head restraints.

The Mach III is equipped with a supercharged 4.6-liter, 4-valve, V-8 engine that can develop 450 horsepower. The engine works in conjunction with a six-speed manual transmission with overdrive. It registers a 0-60 mph time of 4.5 seconds.

"It's no secret that our new Mustang is coming and there's no doubt that people will readily recognize some of the styling cues from the Mach III," said Ford designer Fritz Mayhew.

RANGE ROVER

The 1993 Range Rover County LWB is the first sport utility vehicle in the world to use adjustable air suspension, which can raise the vehicle to wade through water 22 inches deep.

The Rover is powered by a 4.2-liter V-8 which creates 200 horsepower.

This year's Range Rover's have received more than four dozen engineering refinements.

HIGHLANDER

"An eye-popping fun runner" is how Chevrolet describes its Highlander, which is based on Chevy's S-10 Extended Cab Pickup.

The Highlander's engine is a 165 hp 4.3-liter V-6, the largest currently offered on a compact pickup. A four-speed automatic transmission is also part of the package.

The vehicle includes an automatic weather roll top that works like a roll top desk to cover the truck bed. It has a tool compartment, front brush bar, a front and rear winch, and an air compressor.

Chrysler introduces new LH product line

The year 1993 has long had a red circle around it on the Chrysler Corp.'s calendar.

This is the year the pentastar company introduces the product line expected to define the company in the 1990s: the Dodge Intrepid, Chrysler Concorde and Eagle Vision. They're code-named the LH sedans, and about $1.5 billion has been spent on their production.

"Our new LH sedans have been developed to be world-class in every respect, taking on the best competitors in their class, regardless of whether they're from Japan, Europe or America," said Chrysler Chairman Lee Iacocca.

Chrysler has positioned its LH line to compete against world-class sedans in the world like the Ford Taurus and Honda Accord. An expanse of interior room was made possible by pushing the rear wheels rearward on the vehicle, while extending the base of the windshield forward. The car line also features dual air bags, anti-lock brakes on most models, a 113-inch wheelbase, and a more rigid body.

Other features include:

- Chrysler's first domestically-produced 24-valve engine, a new, multi-point injected 3.5-liter SOHC V-6 with 214 horsepower, will be offered standard on the Vision Tsi and optional on all other models. A standard 3.3-liter V-6 is also offered.

- Intrepid, Concorde and Vision will offer five passenger seating with front bucket seats. Intrepid will also offer a front-bench seat arrangement for six-passenger capacity.

- The climate control system is totally new, and Chrysler calls it the "most versatile and powerful system yet devised" by the company.

- A cab-forward design, which entails taking the entire interior cabin of a vehicle and moving it forward, extending the windshield over the front wheels, while moving the rear wheels closer to the rear of the car. Interior space is thus increased.

Each car line was designed with its own identity: the sporty Intrepid, the tough Vision, and the upscale Concorde. The cars will be built in Chrysler's Bramalea, Ont. plant, and the engines will be manufactured at the Trenton Engine Plant.

Of the Intrepid, Car and Driver magazine said: "In a word, Chrysler's futuristic four-door is a keeper." The magazine had relatively minor beefs about the stereo and climate control knobs, wind and road noise leaks, and a jerky cruise control. But overall, "The Intrepid in ES trim is terrifically roomy and comfortable, yet reassuringly quick and poised — indeed Intrepid," the publication said.

According to Bob Faust, general sales manager for Dick Scott Dodge in Plymouth, the LH cars arrived on his showroom floor in November, and the cost, depending on options, ranges from $16,000 to $24,000.

The LH series is probably the most fabulous car ever put out by the Big Three," Faust said. "It offers superior quality and value." He said initially, production has been slow so the automaker can maintain quality.

"The LH in one sense, is our chance to re-establish the feeling that we can perform in the car business as well as anybody," said Francois J. Castaing, vice president — Vehicle Engineering. "That's our primary objective. Of course, it's not a make or break proposition for the company because it's only one car line. We're not betting the company, but sure enough we're betting our self-esteem."

Lexus set to unveil new GS 300 sedan

A car of Italian design and Japanese engineering will be making its debut on U.S. soil at the North American International Auto Show.

Aimed at the luxury performance market, the Lexus GS 300 sedan will be positioned between what the company calls the "near-luxury" ES 300 and the flagship LS 400. The GS 300 is a four-door, five-passenger car designed by Italian Giorgetto Giugiaro.

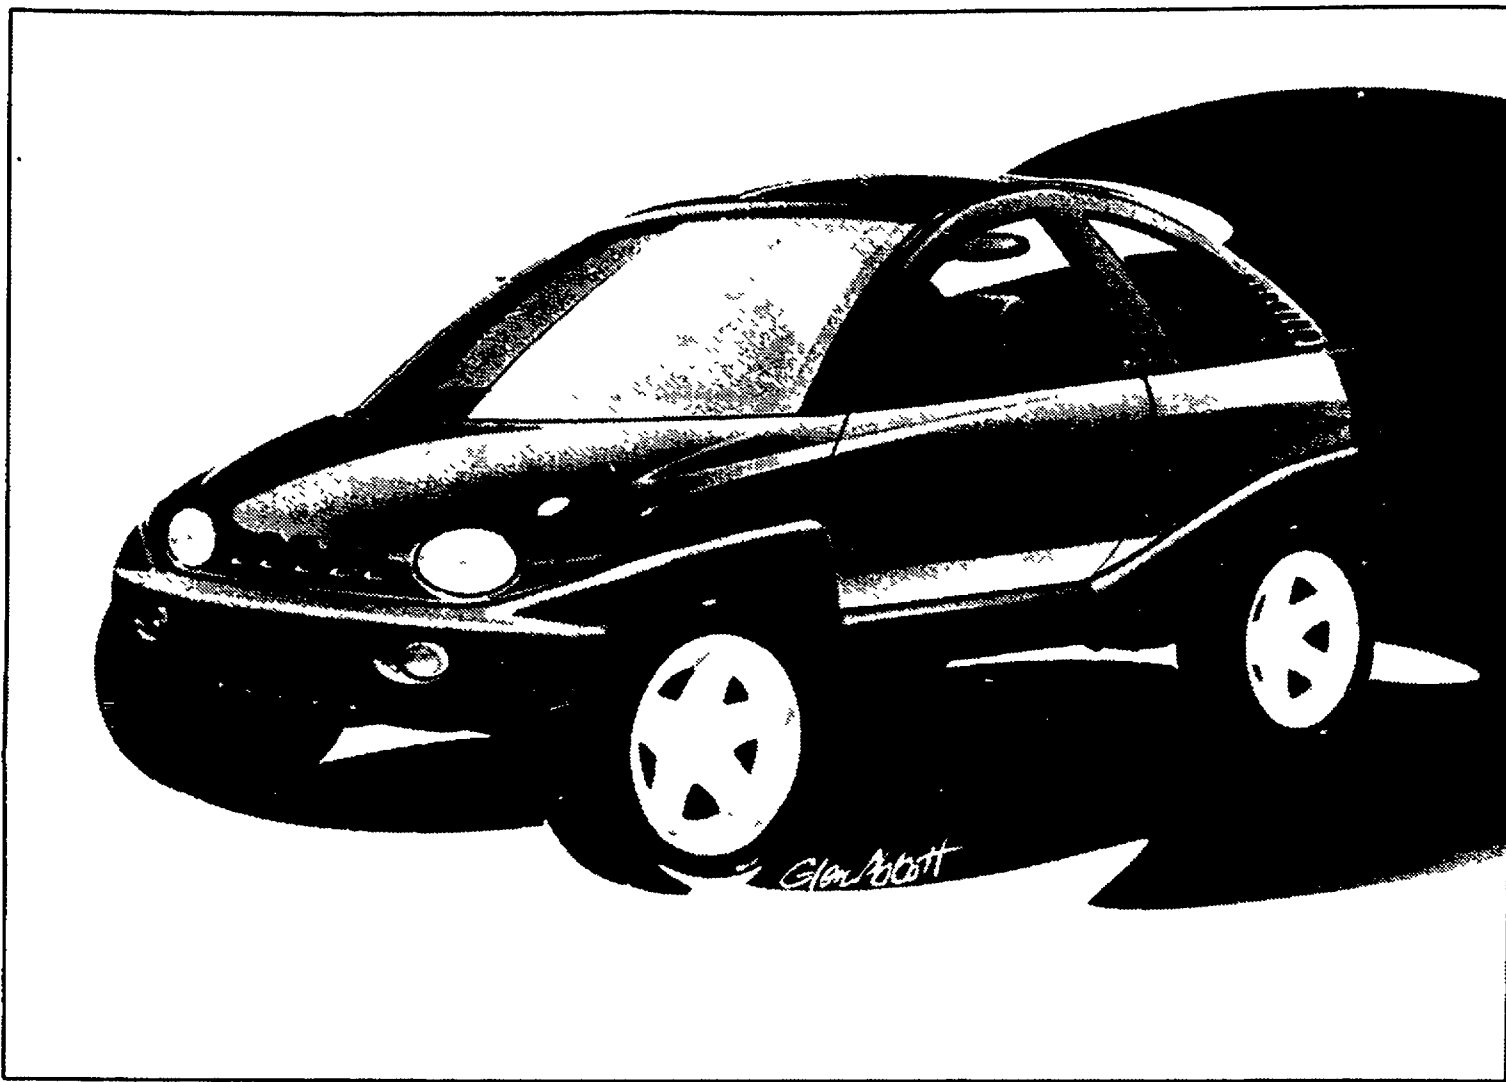

Lexus' press literature states: "If the new Lexus GS 300 doesn't look like anything else in the Lexus lineup there's a reason . . ."

That reason, said Lexus chief designer Kunihiko Uchida, is that Toyota, as it often does, held a styling competition when working on the design of the car. This time, the Giugiaro group's design won.

The car is powered by a twin-cam 24-valve 3.0 liter inline six cylinder engine. The powerplant is mated to an Electronically Controlled Transmission with Intelligence (ECT-I) which retards ignition timing during shifts, momentarily lowering engine torque and making for "virtually unnoticeable" shifts, according to Lexus.

The car features anti-lock brakes, dual air bags, four-wheel disc brakes, genuine walnut on the console, and a telescoping and tilting steering wheel. Optional on the GS 300 is the Portable Plus Cellular phone, which Lexus says is the first system to offer voice activation in the car. The system comes with a "hands-free" command module located on the steering column, which automatically mutes the sound system and reduces fan speed noise during voice activation when a call is placed.

Ford claims the Mustang Mach III 'blends the styling cues of the classic (1965) Mustang with Ford's state-of-the-art design and technology.' The open air roadster features sculpted body panels, a short, low windshield, a wraparound rear bumper, cat's eye headlamps, and 19-inch, five-spoke chrome wheels.

Olds set to unveil Aurora

The Oldsmobile Aurora, the new flagship sedan that will be introduced at the North American International Auto Show, is a harbinger of things to come for the division.

The front-wheel drive Aurora replaces the Olds division's Toronado, and is aimed at "customers seeking engineering sophistication, bold design and refined interior appointments at an exceptional value," the manufacturer says.

The car is positioned at the lower end of the luxury auto market.

Under the hood is a transverse-mounted 32-valve V-8 engine mated to a four-speed electronically controlled automatic transmission. The powerplant, the Aurora V-8, produces 250 horsepower and has a torque curve that emphasizes mid-range response.

Major engine and transmission components are made of aluminum, magnesium or composite materials. The car features an all-independent suspension and four-wheel disc brakes with standard ABS.

"We purposely took some risks with the Aurora," said Dennis Burke, chief designer of the Oldsmobile One exterior studio. "There is no grill, no add-ons of any kind. In fact, none of the traditional luxury cues are present in this car."

"Instead, we emphasized strong muscular shapes to achieve a visual presence of substance and stability."

The Aurora will be manufactured at GM's Orion Township plant. To improve quality, some special steps are being taken with the Aurora. A silicon-bronze material will be used to fill critical body seams prior to painting. The powertrain will be installed off-line to minimize errors.

In the wake of reports that the Olds division would be discontinued by GM, general manager John Rock said the Oldsmobile product lineup will be remodeled around Aurora.

"Aurora will send a strong signal that Oldsmobile will be marketing world class products in the years to come," he said. "Aurora is more than just a new car for Oldsmobile. It is the first product that will reflect the changes that will be undertaken in the division. Major changes in our business culture and business practices will be in place to support the important launch of this car."

Mark VIII: more car, less hump

If you're trying to find the 1993 Lincoln Mark VIII at the Detroit auto show, you won't recognize it by looking for the characteristic spare tire hump on the trunk. It's barely perceptible.

Instead, keep your eyes peeled for a bigger and swoopier version of the discontinued Mark VII, which was introduced as a 1984 model. Compared to the Mark VII, the Mark VIII is 4.1 inches longer and 3.7 inches wider, with a significantly more aerodynamic look.

"The Mark VIII is our flagship vehicle of the future," said Lee Miskowski, Ford vice president and Lincoln Mercury general manager. "This car will change the way people think about the Lincoln brand and Ford Motor Co."

"It is a no-compromise model focused on what a Mark VIII should be: no optional engines or non-performance models."

The Mark VIII is powered by a 4.6-liter "four cam" 32-valve V-8 aluminum engine. The engine is mated to an electronic four-speed automatic overdrive transmission. Standard equipment includes driver and passenger air bags, four-wheel disc brakes, and anti-lock brakes.

The Mark VIII utilizes a new micro-processor to control independent air-spring suspension at all four wheels, providing continuous load leveling. The system also provides for automatic lowering of the vehicle, about .8 inches, to reduce drag at cruising speeds.

Said Car and Driver: "If the Lexus SC400's ride and handling were Lincoln's target — and we think they were — the Dearborn engineers have hit their Mark. Terrific."

The magazine also had compliments about the car's speed sensitive steering, interior roominess, smooth transmission and 0-60 mph time (6.8 seconds). Complaints were registered about the placement of gauges.

"Dynamically, this new Lincoln is a high-water Mark," said Car and Driver.

Said Lee R. Miskowski, Ford vice president and Lincoln-Mercury general manager: "Mark VIII is our flagship of the future — a car that will take on the luxury cars of the world."

The 1993 Mercury Villager brings Ford's Lincoln-Mercury Division into the minivan market. The front-wheel drive vehicle is powered by a 3.0-liter V-6 and a four-speed automatic transmission. A flexible seating system allows 14 different seating and cargo-carrying configurations.

Lincoln-Mercury shows Mark VIII and Villager

Two all-new world-class products — the Lincoln Mark VIII personal luxury car and Mercury Villager minivan — highlight Lincoln-Mercury Division's 1993 auto show offerings.

With the addition of the two new vehicles, visitors will have a chance to see one of the division's strongest lineups in years.

"Adding Villager to our lineup enables us to serve the needs of customers who want the flexibility of a minivan and the quality and comfort of a Mercury," says Lee R. Miskowski, Ford vice president and Lincoln-Mercury general manager. "Mark VIII is our flagship of the future — a car that will take on the luxury cars of the world."

Villager and Mark VIII are the sixth and seventh all-new vehicles — out of a total of 10 Lincoln-Mercury products — introduced in the last three years.

Addition of a standard passenger-side air-bag supplemental restraint system (SRS) to the driver-side air-bag system in the 1993 Mercury Sable and Mercury Grand Marquis solidifies the division's position as a leader in safety features.

Seven Lincoln-Mercury carlines, including Mercury Topaz and Mercury Capri, now offer a driver-side air bag SRS. Five of those seven — Lincoln Town Car, Lincoln Continental, Lincoln Mark VIII, Sable and Grand Marquis — offer standard driver- and passenger-side air bags.

"In addition to the latest safety and technology features, we believe Lincoln-Mercury products offer customers outstanding value," Miskowski says. "And we have greatly simplified the buying process through our 'One-Price' program for Mercury Tracer sedan and wagon, consolidation of the Mercury Topaz and Mercury Cougar carlines into a single high-value series for each, and our discounted special option packages."

Here are other auto show highlights for 1993:

■ LINCOLN TOWN CAR: The new Town Car delivers a fresh look from bumper to bumper, from the new grille to standard geometric-spoke wheels to new taillamps and rear safety reflector bar. New standard features include a leather-wrapped steering wheel, electronic instrument cluster, remote-control keyless entry system and new electronic climate control.

■ LINCOLN CONTINENTAL: A new five-passenger seating arrangement featuring individual seats for the driver and front passenger is optional for 1993. Continental also adds a leather-wrapped steering wheel and a safety-belt adjustment feature for added comfort.

■ LINCOLN MARK VIII: Mark VIII is powered by a powerful 4.6-liter "Four Cam" 32-valve V-8 aluminum engine. Its world-class ride and handling is provided by an electronic, wide-ratio four-speed automatic overdrive transmission and computer-controlled air-spring suspension system with speed-dependent height adjustment. Standard equipment includes driver and passenger air bag supplemental restraint system, four-wheel disc brakes with an electronic Anti-lock Braking System (ABS) and a new-generation microprocessor-controlled, fully independent air-spring suspension at all four wheels.

■ MERCURY GRAND MARQUIS: A right-front passenger-side air bag SRS is standard on the 1993 Mercury Grand Marquis.

Audi offers range of luxury cars

With the introduction of its redesigned 1993 90 series, Audi has renewed its entire range of luxury cars.

The automaker offers a car line that's larger and more powerful than its predecessors: as Audi says, a "sports flair in a personal-size luxury sedan."

Audi is aiming the 90 series at Lexus ES 300, the Acura Vigor, the BMW 325i, and the Mercedes 190E 2.6.

Introduced in July 1992, the new 90s followed the 1991 debut of the all-new Audi 100 line, the 1992 introductions of all-wheel-drive Quattro versions of the 100, the high performance S4 sports sedan, and the more-powerful V-8 Quattro.

The 90 series includes the 90 S, 90 CS, and 90 CS Quattro Sport. They feature split/folding rear seats, alloy wheels, headlight washers, automatic climate control, and standard leather seats on two of the three models. All the 90s are powered by a 2.8-liter V-6 generating 172 horsepower.

The grill, bumpers and most exterior panels are new. Trunk space has been increased, and an airbag and an anti-lock braking system are standard on most models.

The V-6 engine's horsepower is increased by 32 percent from the previous model. On the front-drive 90 S and 90 CS, the engine is mated to a standard five-speed manual transmission. An optional four-speed automatic is also available.

The 90 series "has been very well-received," said Mario DeFrancisco, sales manager of Fred Lavery Audi in Birmingham. "The car is beautiful, it has a smooth V-6, people like the front-wheel drive, and with the fold-down rear seat, it turns into a mini-station wagon. The car is a very, very nice package."

The 1993 Audi 90 series includes the CS Quattro Sport. In the 90, the automaker offers a redesigned car line that's larger and more powerful than its predecessors: as Audi says, a "sports flair in a personal-size luxury sedan."

Saturn set to introduce wagon line

Changes in this year's offerings from Saturn will be significant in 1993, the car line's third model year.

Saturn debuts a new family of wagons and a "high-value" coupe — which join a Saturn sedan and a performance-oriented coupe. Saturn now offers seven models.

A driver's side airbag will be installed on all seven models in 1993. Saturn also offers a new optional traction control system to improve driving on slippery surfaces.

Saturn's SW1 and SW2 wagons are extensions of the four-door line. When the split folding rear seat backs are lowered, the wagons' cargo volume is 56.3 cubic feet. With the seats up, volume is 28.8 cubic feet. Modifications were made to the sedan's spaceframe to accommodate the design of the larger rear cargo area.

Last year's single coupe model is renamed SC2 for 1993, while "SC1" has been reserved for the entry-level SC1. Both models share the same space frame and a 99.2 inch wheelbase, but the SC1 has different fenders and exposed headlamps.

The Saturn SL/SL1 sedans, SW1 wagon and SC1 coupe are powered by a 1.9-liter single-overhead cam four cylinder. Saturn's SL2 sedans, SW2 wagons and SC2 coupes have a single dual overhead cam variant of the 1.9-liter design, fitted with 16 valves.

In reviewing the SW2 station wagon, Motor Trend said they were "most impressed" by progress made in quieting the car's 16-valve engine, calling it "smooth, powerful and well-behaved." They also complimented the car's "sprightly handling" and "pleasant ride." The magazine had a beef with rear seat room, but overall, dubbed it a "nifty piece with attractive styling."

Ford lineup stresses design, technical advancement

Value, technical advancements and distinctive design characterize 1993 Ford cars to be seen at this year's auto show.

"Today's consumer is looking for a car that makes a strong statement in design and level of technical sophistication, all for a reasonable price," says Ross H. Roberts, Ford Motor Company vice president and Ford Division general manager.

"Our new models fill that wish list right across the board — from the Festiva all the way to Crown Victoria."

The all-new Ford Probe leads the 1993 product array. Its advanced "cab-forward" design contributes not only to its striking good looks but to its ride, handling and interior space. Its occupant-oriented interior wraps around from the instrument panel into the doors. Two new multi-valve engines — a four cylinder and a V-6 — deliver solid performance.

In the 1993 Ford Taurus lineup, the high-performance Taurus SHO offers an automatic transaxle for the first time.

For 1993, Ford Escort has a number of design refinements, plus an innovative "One-Price" plan for all four the 1993 Ford Taurus.

An automatic transaxle may be ordered on the Taurus SHO (Super High Output) for the first time. It is coupled with a 3.2-liter version of the SHO double overhead camshaft (DOHC) 24-valve V-6 engine. The standard SHO powerplant remains the 3.0-liter DOHC engine, linked to a five-speed manual transmission. Updated design features include a functional decklid spoiler with integrated light-emitting diode (LED) stop lamp.

The other Taurus series for 1993 are the GL and LX, both available in sedan and wagon models. GL sedans and wagons have a standard 3.0-liter sequential electronic fuel injection (SEFI) V-6 engine, as does the LX sedan. The LX wagon has a 3.8-liter SEFI V-6 engine. All Taurus models have a driver-side air bag supplemental restraint system (SRS).

■ FORD ESCORT: Key design refinements for the new Ford Escort include six new exterior colors, new grille, wheel covers, taillamp treatments, and color-keyed bodyside molding and bumpers for most models.

Along with these fresh styling features, Ford is offering an innovative "One-Price" marketing plan for Escort LX. It applies to all Four Escort LX models — three-, four-, five-door and wagon — with a special option package. The package includes such popular options as air conditioning, power steering, rear-window defroster, AM/FM stereo radio, and dual electric remote-control mirrors. The Manufacturer's Suggested Retail Price (MSRP) is $10,899 with manual transaxle, tax and title not included.

■ FORD THUNDERBIRD: The new Ford Thunderbird retains the styling and outstanding ride and handling that have made it the best-selling car in its market segment (middle specialty) for the past three years. There are two series for 1993: LX and Super Coupe.

New features for the LX include color-keyed exterior mirrors and steering wheel, leather shift knob and optional 15-inch cast aluminum directional wheels. A 3.8-liter 140-horsepower V-6 sequential electronic fuel injection (SEFI) engine is standard on LX. Ford's 5.0-liter SEFI High Output V-8 engine, rated at 200 horsepower, is optional.

Thunderbird Super Coupe features a 210-horsepower 3.8-liter supercharged V-6 engine, anti-lock brakes (ABS), Traction-Lok axle, adjustable suspension, and an electronic AM/FM stereo radio with cassette.

■ FORD MUSTANG: Ford Mustang offers exceptional performance and classic styling. It is offered in both the LX and GT series and three body styles — coupe, hatchback and convertible.

Improvements for 1993 include a radio with improved display and increased wattage, and a new headliner for the convertible. There are seven new exterior colors, and new options include a compact disc player and an electronic premium cassette radio.

Mustang LX has a 2.3-liter electronic fuel injection (EFI) I-4 engine as standard, and a 5.0-liter sequential electronic fuel injection (SEFI) High Output V-8 engine is available. The GT comes with a 5.0-liter SEFI V-8 engine and cast aluminum 16-inch wheels and P225 performance tires as standard equipment.

■ FORD CROWN VICTORIA: The new Ford Crown Victoria features an improved electronically controlled automatic (AODE) transmission and new styling features that enhance last year's major redesign. The AODE transmission features and overdrive lock-out function for better acceleration on demand.

The Crown Victoria's aerodynamic styling is newly highlighted by a chrome grille, color-coordinated bodyside molding and a revised taillamp treatment featuring a rear decklid applique.

■ FORD TEMPO: The stylish and functional five-passenger Ford Tempo is available in two series for 1993. Two- and four-door sedans are offered in the GL series and a four-door sedan in the LX series.

A 2.3-liter four-cylinder sequential electronic fuel injection (SEFI) engine comes standard on both series.

■ FORD FESTIVA: Ford's Festiva, which provides value and utility in a fun-to-drive package, is available in two series — L and GL. The 1993 Festiva has a 1.3-liter electronic fuel injection (EFI) I-4 engine and features a unitized all-steel welded body and MacPherson strut suspension with strut-mounted coil springs, stabilizer bar and track control arm.

The Ford Ranger (STX model above) has a sleek, sporty look for 1993

Ford seeks to build on Ranger success

Compact truck buyers will see a new Ford Ranger at the 1993 auto show.

Ford Ranger, the compact pickup truck buyer's No. 1 choice for the past six years, is completely restyled for 1993. Ride, handling, steering and comfort/convenience levels are the result of best-in-class design, engineering and assembly goals.

"A truck for the '90s and beyond, the 1993 Ford Ranger blends Ford compact truck toughness and versatility with contemporary styling and car-like comfort and convenience," says Ross H. Roberts, Ford vice president and Ford Division general manager.

The Ranger look for 1993 is totally new — sleek, sporty and contemporary. The modern appearance begins with a new hood, headlamps, grille, bumper and optional front valance panel integrated to create a unique, more refined front-end appearance. The hood is lower than it was on earlier Ranger models and there are four more inches of overhang.

Contributing significantly to the aerodynamic appearance is a greater windshield angle than in earlier models, flush windshield and side-window glass and limousine-style doors which blend into the roof and have concealed drip rails.

Complementing exterior styling are new cast-aluminum and stamped-steel wheels and tri-color taillamps with large, highly visible lamps for added safety.

The new Ranger also has a wider stance — by as much as three inches on some models. Tread and sheet metal are wider, giving the truck a more stable appearance.

In response to customer wishes, there is a significant difference between the appearances of two- and four-wheel-drive models. The 4x4 models have an even more aggressive look, in part due to a unique grille and optional front valance panel with round driving lamps, and wheel flares. For further differentiation, special wheels and larger tires are available.

New sheet metal and flush glass not only contribute to vehicle aerodynamics, they help make other functional advantages possible. The flush-mounted windshield and door glass help to reduce wind noise, as do the windshield molding and window sealants.

A redesigned power steering gear provides better "center feel" and greater "road feel" sensitivity than previous models. The new steering gear system features a patented torsion bar and control valve hardware to ensure a quick, controlled power assist when the driver makes the slightest of movements from on-center.

Suspension and steering systems are modified to accommodate the compact pickup's wider stance. The Twin-I-Beam (4x2) and Twin-traction Beam (4x4) front suspensions are carefully tuned to on- and off-road applications for increased passenger comfort and better handling.

Other functional improvements for '93 include dual fluidic windshield washers, an easier-to-open and easier-to-close tailgate, single-key locks and increased payload on regular cab models. A new optional payload package is available on Super-Cab models.

New 1993 exterior Ranger Clearcoat metallic colors are Electric Red, Dark Cranberry, Dark Plum, Dark Blue and Opal Grey, plus a Vibrant Red that is exclusive to 4x4 models. Galvanized zinc precoat helps protect all exterior sheet metal from corrosion.

On the inside, the Ranger is equally stylish and contemporary. New are the door trim panels, steering wheel, seat trim and sew styles. Instrument panel appliques and headliner.

A new 60/40 split bench seat and dual Captain's Chairs also are available with new cloth and sew styles. The bench seat has a storage armrest and several cupholder combinations are available with floor consolelets.

A full line of state-of-the-art audio systems is available, including an electronic premium AM/FM stereo radio with Cassette or CD player.

Mazda RX-7, Mercedes Benz 400E, Nissan Altima SE, Saturn SW2, Subaru SVX, and Volkswagen Corrado SLC.

"All during the Concorde, Intrepid and Vision development period we knew we had the potential to meet, and perhaps even exceed, what we challenged ourselves to do," said Chrysler President Robert Lutz.

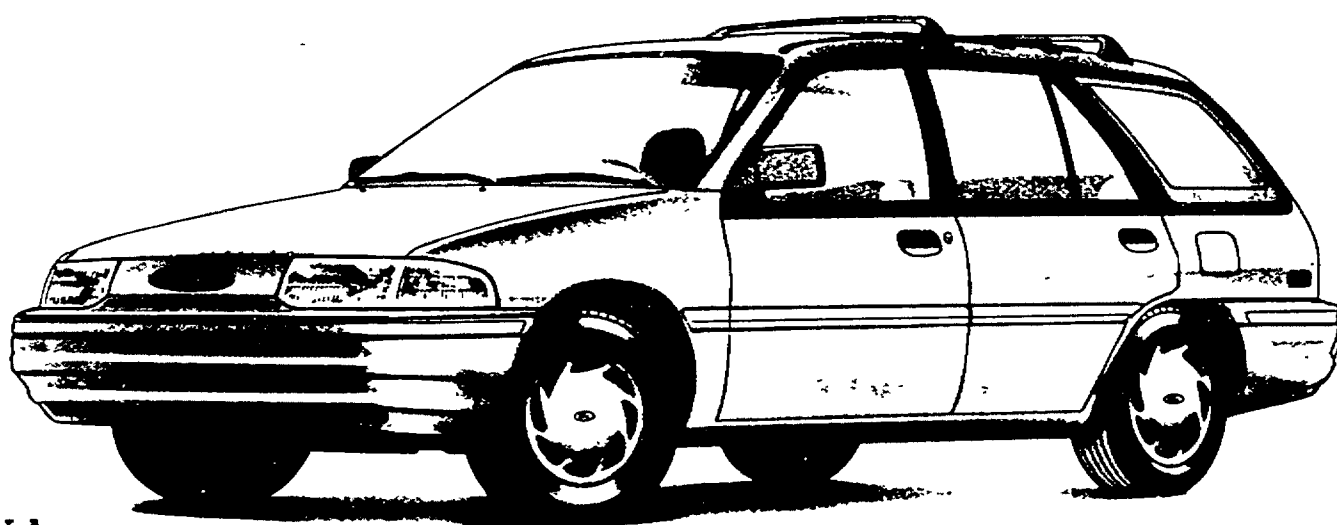

"However, you never truly know if you've succeeded until you hand over your new baby to the experts and to the customer. And judging by early sales, our customers feel the same as Automobile Magazine does."

Chrysler wins award

The 1993 Chrysler Concorde, Dodge Intrepid and Eagle Vision have been selected by the editors of Automobile Magazine as the 1993 "Automobile of the Year."

"These are great American cars that can hold their own in any company of any kind of road," said the magazine's publisher, David E. Davis, Jr. "They are a full-throated redefinition of America the Beautiful on wheels."

In addition to the Chrysler line, other candidates included BMW 8i, Ford Probe GT, Ford Taurus HO, Infiniti J30t, Mazda MX-6,

FORD

Passat GLX engine offers a new angle

Volkswagen is looking to take on the world's best six-cylinder mid-sized sedans with the introduction of the 1993 Passat GLX, which is mated with the German automakers award-winning VR-6 engine.

Last year, the folks at Volks were recognized by Popular Science magazine's "Best of What's New" award, for a design breakthrough that allows a six cylinder to fit into virtually the same space as a standard four cylinder.

"The Passat GLX is our flagship vehicle and as such represents everything Volkswagen stands for in the marketplace: quality, innovative design, advanced engineering, spirited European driving performance, safety and superior value," said Bill Young, president and CEO of Volkswagen of America.

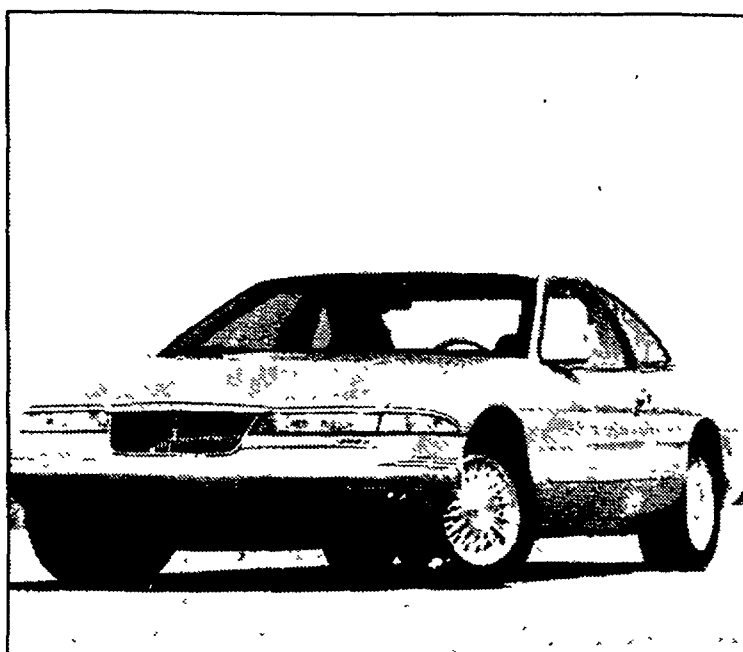

The Passat GLX's new 2.8-liter VR6 engine produces 172 horsepower. Unlike standard V-6 engines where cylinder banks are 60 or 90 degrees apart, the VR6's cylinder banks are set in zig-zag fashion at 15 degrees under one cylinder head.

The motor is mated with a five-speed manual or electronically controlled four-speed automatic transmission designed for smoother shifting and a quieter ride.

Development of the Passat's VR6 engine took Volkswagen nearly a decade of research, design and engineering. Since the engine requires less space, more room is allowed for the interior: 97 cubic feet of passenger space.

The Passat comes with standard four-wheel anti-lock brakes, power rack-and-pinion steering and electronically controlled traction system that helps prevent wheel spin during quick or slippery starts.

The all-new 1993 Lincoln Mark VIII features advanced aerodynamic style and a dramatic new interior. It is powered by a 4.6-liter 'Four Cam' 32-valve V-8 engine.

The 1993 Mustang puts performance and classic styling within reach. The LX convertible (above) is equipped with the optional 5.0-liter sequential electronic fuel injection High Output V-8 engine.

New Toyota pickup takes on domestics

The lucrative U.S. pickup market will get another competitor in 1993, as Toyota introduces its T100, the automaker's first intermediate-sized pickup.

Powered by a standard 3.0-liter, 150 HP V-6, the Toyota offers three-across seating, a 4x8 foot panel capacity on the floor, and a 1,550-pound standard payload capacity.

The pickup is available in either 2WD or 4WD. All 4WD models feature Toyota's 4Wheel Demand system, which has a differential that changes on the fly from 2WD to 4WD at speeds up to 50 mph by simply shifting the transfer case lever.

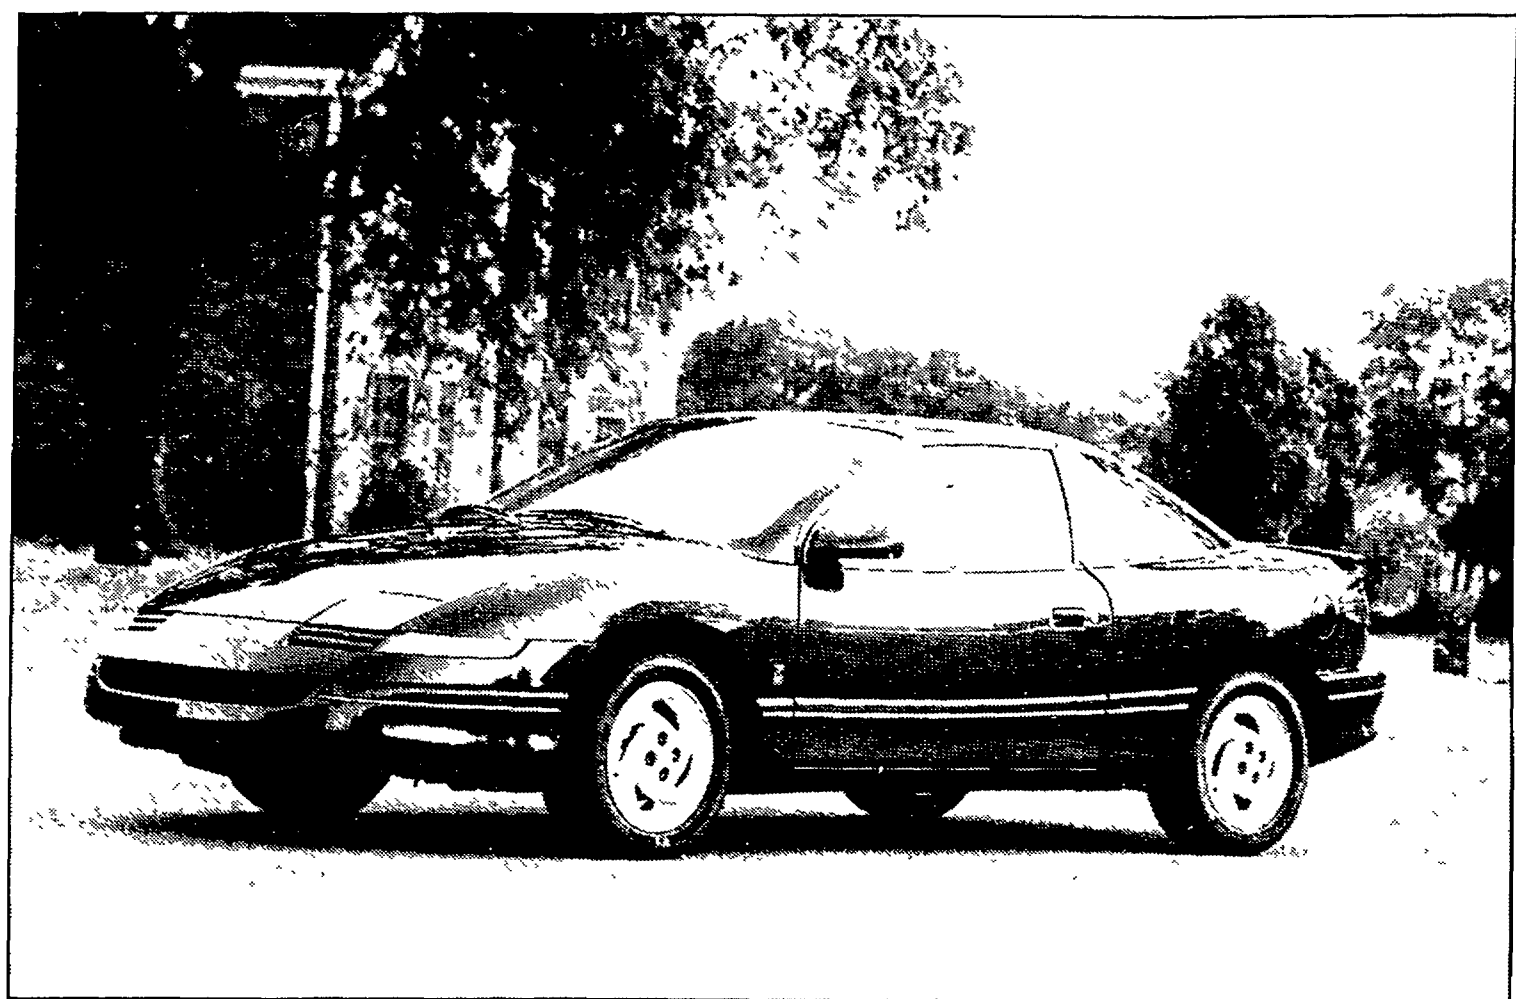

Other features include standard rear-wheel anti-lock brakes, rack-and-pinion steering for responsive control, reduced noise through the use of more insulation, and a distinctive new aerodynamic style.

Car and Driver magazine says the T100 drives plainly and gets by with a small six cylinder engine.

But the big pickup "is the first import to challenge the Big Three's monopoly in the American large-truck market," said the magazine, which could lead to "reduced market share and quicker turnaround times to produce new trucks . . ."

The Toyota's dimensions attempt to fill a market need between small and large trucks, and Car and Driver commented on its "excellent" automatic and manual gearboxes, good handling and low noise.

Saturn has renamed last year's single coupe model SC2 for 1993 (above)

Volvo calls its 850 line "the most exciting Volvo since the 444 hit American shores in the mid-50s."

The all-new front-wheel drive sedan is equipped with semi-independent rear suspension, a transverse-mounted 2.4 liter five-cylinder engine, five-speed manual transmission, four-wheel disc brakes with ABS and driver- and passenger-side air bags.

"The 850 is a new kind of Volvo," said Mats Ola Palm, chairman of Volvo Cars of North America, Inc. "Its nimble handling and lively performance will appeal to people who may never have considered a Volvo before."

HOROSCOPE

By C.C. Clark

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 - Jan. 19)

You may have difficulty trying to convince your friends and family to go along with your plans. An upsetting event will turn out for the best.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 - Feb. 18)

Things may not be going well for you, but it will all turn around soon. There is also an indication of illness either for you or someone close.

PISCES (Feb. 19 - March 20)

Big shake-ups are in store for you, most likely where work and business dealings are concerned. You should probably consult a financial expert.

ARIES (March 21 - April 19)

You may feel you are having to juggle too many things at once. Share your thoughts and feelings with those close to you.

TAURUS (April 20 - May 20)

Love relationships are going to take a turn for the better, and it is about time. Ironically, this may mean the breakup of a long-term relationship.

GEMINI (May 21 - June 20)

It is time to celebrate your many blessings. You deserve a little good luck and fortune. Be careful not to judge those around you harshly.

CANCER (June 21 - July 22)

If your love life isn't quite what you hoped, you may need to take a closer look at how you are dealing with it. An accomplishment will be rewarded.

LEO (July 23 - Aug. 22)

An illness could bring your spirits down. Things may be complicated for a while, but you will land on your feet just fine.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 - Sept. 22)

A new lover is in the picture for you. Take the time to present yourself well. This is a powerful time in your life - enjoy it.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 - Oct. 22)

You may be weighed down with burdens that you have brought upon yourself. It is never too late to change, and you have the opportunity to do so.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 - Nov. 21)

A special woman could bring you good news concerning a love relationship. Arguing with a loved one will only make things worse.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 - Dec. 21)

A journey down an unknown path could be very frightening for you. If you are the least bit hesitant about taking a certain risk, don't do it.

'Carol Burnett: A Reunion'

Two-hour special barely enough 'time together'

By Suzanne Gill

Promises, promises. They wouldn't be so hard to keep if only the future were as easy to predict as the past. A case in point is The Carol Burnett Show: A Reunion, airing Sunday, Jan. 10 on CBS. At a press conference held last July to announce the forthcoming special, Burnett promised new skits and a guest star, Harry Connick Jr.

"What we are doing with this is not even, I guess, a true retrospective in the sense of just going down Memory Lane and showing clips," Burnett said.

"We have the gang coming back. And we are doing, also, new sketches. We are going to do a new Mama and Eunice (sketch). We are doing a new Mr. Tudball and Mrs. Wiggins, the dumb secretary and the boss, where she's accusing him of sexually harassing her.

"We will probably do a new finale. And we have a guest star, Harry Connick Jr. So it would be hard to show entire sketches (from the past)."

Burnett's plan was clearly more ambitious than she realized. She had 11 seasons of shows to sift through and just two hours of air time.

At the October taping, says co-star Vicki Lawrence, several sketches were taped; however, none of them made it into the final cut of the show.

"It's really hard to gear up for one week," Lawrence says, "and recreate stuff better than what you did over an 11-year period."

Apart from introductions and a little chit-chat between clips, Carol Burnett regulars Lawrence, Harvey Korman, Tim Conway and Lyle Waggoner get their only real workout during the reunion's finale.

But that's not to say The Carol Burnett Show: A Reunion isn't a success. The special was taped on the same CBS soundstage as the original series and follows much the same format. It opens with Burnett recalling in song how she felt when the show debuted (gulp) 25 years ago.

Then there's the patented Burnett "Q&A" session, with memorable clips, including the woman who just wanted directions to the ladies' room and the amateur diva who strode up to the stage and asked the orchestra to play "You Made Me Love You" in the key of G."

The middle of the show is given over to reminiscences by Burnett and company, most of which are cleverly tied to even more clips: the Tarzan yell, the curtain-rod gown in the Gone With the Wind spoof and a dentist's office scene in which Conway injects himself with Novocaine in three places.

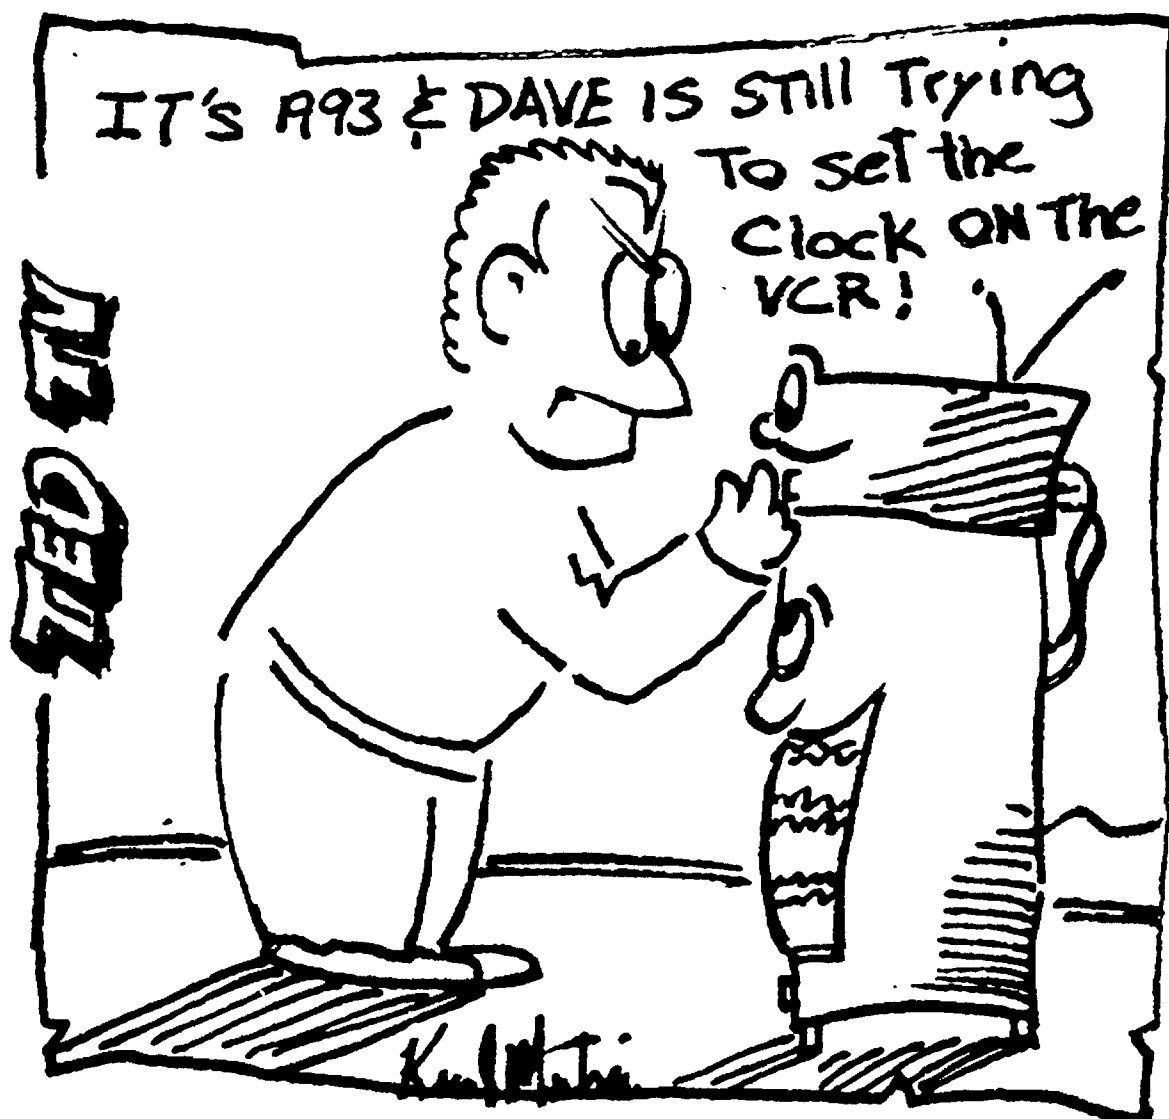

The reunion's second hour is not as entertaining as the first. There is a brief reel of clips showing Burnett in duets and production numbers with such musical guests as Lucille Ball, Bing Crosby, Liza Minnelli and Ella Fitzgerald. Burnett also stops to thank the old show's singers, dancers and costume designer, Bob Mackey, all of whom are in the audience.

Though it's possible to see how the series eventually ran its course, The Carol Burnett Show remains a remarkable television achievement. No show today could stage those lavish production numbers for a cost any advertiser would swallow, and few stars are as versatile.

For Lawrence, who was just 18 when the show debuted, it was the home where she grew up, got married and started a family.

"I would do anything for Carol, go anywhere, anytime. I adore her. I owe her my life, really."

It was so good to have that "time together."

Weeknights on PBS, Charlie Rose offers conversation with some of America's leading thinkers.

LET'S TALK

Life after perfect TV household; happy birthday, Nathan Birnbaum

By Taylor Michaels

Q: Please let me know what happened to Donna Reed and Carl Betz of The Donna Reed Show. I am very interested in knowing about their careers after the show. —Y.C., Tigard, Ore.

A: Reed, who is said to have despised her role on The Donna Reed Show, considering it a male fantasy of female subservience, rarely ventured back to acting after the series ended in 1966. Her rare TV appearances afterward included a guest shot on The Love Boat and a role in the telefilm The Best Place to Be. Reed died of cancer in 1986 after playing Ewing matriarch Miss Ellie on Dallas for a season.

Betz, after gaining popularity as Donna's husband on the show, appeared in the Elvis Presley movie Spinout then landed the title role in the series Judd for the Defense, for which he won an Emmy. After the two-year run of Judd, he worked steadily in TV series such as The F.B.I., Mission: Impossible and Police Story. He also starred in the 1974 telefilm Killdozer and the 1975 ensemble film The Meal. Betz died in 1978.

Q: George Burns has the same birthday as mine, and I would like to send him a card. Since his birthday is not too far off, could you please send me an address soon where I could write to him? —Adaline Potter, Warren, Pa.

A: Burns was born Nathan Birnbaum on Jan. 20, 1896, in New York City. You may write to him in care of Empire West, 1100 Alta Loma Rd., Los Angeles, Calif., 90069.

Q: There was a movie produced in 1942 titled Always in My Heart. It was a drama about a convict who is released from prison only to find his wife is about to remarry. Walter Huston and Kay Francis starred in the film. I was wondering if Johnny Puleo and His Harmonicats performed in the movie and if it is available on video. —Clifton Hendricksen, Stephenson, Mich.

A: Always in My Heart was produced as a showcase for Gloria Warren, who played the star duo's daughter in the film. At the time, she was being groomed by Warner Bros. for singing stardom. Her accompaniment, however, was provided by Borrah Minevitch and His Rascals. According to my sources, the film has never been released on video.

Donna Reed

Q: I'm wondering if you can recall the title of a movie I watched in the 1960s. It was about a lady who was released from a mental hospital and brought back to the home where she had lived as a little girl. She had been in the hospital because she witnessed a horrible ax murder in an upstairs bedroom and withdrew from the world. Gene Tierney is the only actor in the movie whom I can remember, but I think the word 'staircase' was in the title. —Carole Budd, Rapid City, S.D.

A: It is quite possible that several old suspense movies have melded together in your memory. However, I've narrowed the list of possibilities to two movies, neither of which starred Tierney, but one of which I'm certain is your film.

Strait-Jacket (1959) is most likely the film you describe. Joan Crawford returns home after a 20-year prison stay, for the ax slaying of her husband, to the daughter who was just 3 years old when she left. The daughter (Diane Baker), meanwhile, begins disguising murders of her own to frame her mother, whom she never forgave for hacking up her unfaithful father 20 years earlier. Another film, The Spiral Staircase (1946), has Dorothy McQuire as a servant girl, scared mute from witnessing a traumatic crime, saved from a serial killer in the closing minutes — on a staircase. Sound familiar?

CABLE NEWS

Eternal beings; vintage comedy

By Dan Rice

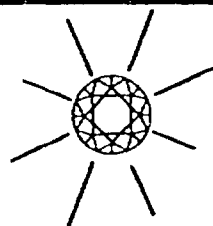

The relationship between science and religion is at the center of The Soul, a three-part series airing as part of The Learning Channel's Beliefs anthology. The first episode, airing Thursday, Jan. 7, tackles the continuing debate over the creation of the universe.

Battered wives condemned for killing their abusive mates comprise more than half the women on Death Row in America. On Friday, Jan. 8, A&E's Investigative Reports: Why Women Kill examines the motivations behind the murders.

Send in the clowns. This month, The Disney Channel pays homage to the great comedians of the 20th century with its three-part special Legends of Comedy. Part one, debuting Sunday, Jan. 3, recalls the slapstick Charlie Chaplin, Buster Keaton and others.

Perhaps the comedian of the 20th century, Bob Hope has enjoyed a career that has extended from vaudeville through radio, film and TV. Tuesday, Jan. 5, on A&E's Biography, the performer is profiled in Bob Hope: Thanks for the Memories.

Elvis Presley's birthday is observed on Friday, Jan. 8, with the TBS special Elvis, USA. In the lighthearted program, comic Paul Provenza takes a cross-country journey and encounters Elvis impersonators.

STAR NOTES

Diamond Rio on road to top

By Dan Rice

Last year was a sparkling one for Diamond Rio. After being named the Vocal Group of the Year by the Academy of Country Music in April, the band then received the equivalent honor from the Country Music Association in the fall. After taking The Nashville Network into 1993 by headlining its New Year's Eve at Sea World Live, the sextet helps kick off the network's On Stage series with a Wednesday, Jan. 6, performance.

Formed eight years ago, Diamond Rio consists of lead singer Marty Roe, guitarist Jimmy Olander, drummer Brian Prout, keyboardist Dan Truman, mandolinist Gene Johnson and bassist Dana Williams.

Williams, a native of Dayton, Ohio, says his fellow players hail from all over. They all write songs but include compositions from outsiders on their albums.

"We live in Nashville, home of the greatest songwriters in the world," Williams says. "We try not to limit ourselves to just our writing."

Williams says the band members, whose influences range from Marty Robbins to Gino Vanelli, brainstormed together to create their name. "Come to find out, it was the name of a truck line up in Harrisburg, Pa., but they spelled it R-E-O. We liked it, the record company really liked it and we called the truck line and they liked it a lot, too."

It's a keeper! Angler Bob Hamilton catches one in the season opener of The Bassmasters, Sunday on TNN.

BITS AND PIECES

Mac may play inaugural ball; 'I'll Fly Away' gets a reprieve

They may only be rumors, but reports suggest that members of Fleetwood Mac may reunite to perform at Bill Clinton's presidential inaugural ball. Clinton used the band's "Don't Stop" as his campaign theme song.

Melissa Gilbert, Patty Duke and William Shatner will star in the CBS telefilm A Family of Strangers, now in production in Vancouver, British Columbia. The fact-based story concerns a young woman (Gilbert) who discovers she was adopted when a brain surgeon requires particular details of her family history before operating. The search for her birth parents brings some additional secrets to light.

I'll Fly Away hasn't left its NBC perch just yet. Holiday production considerations have led the network to extend the Emmy-winning series into February sweeps. Although it was endorsed by Viewers for Quality Television, the drama set in the Civil Rights-era South suffered from poor ratings (largely due to its time slot) and was in danger of cancellation.

ABC's answer to its ratings-troubled Saturday-night lineup may come from HBO Independent Productions. The network is considering a two-hour, magazine-type programming block to be produced by HBO.

It's becoming a digital world. Ever since Denver-based cable operator Tele-Communications, Inc., (TCI) announced that it would place digital cable boxes in one million of its subscribers' homes, other cable companies have been wondering how and when to follow suit. The costly digital conversion (TCI spent $200 million) would expand the number of available channels to as many as 500 in some systems. But cable operators can't pass the entire bill along to their customers because of recent reregulation legislation. Instead, they are looking to pay-per-view services to provide a quick return. Thus, profits from the next heavyweight title fight could help fund the digital conversion.

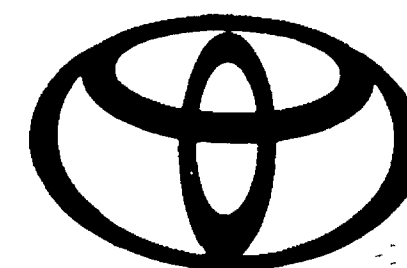

Paul Provenza searches America for the King's most ardent followers in Elvis, U.S.A., Friday on TBS.

Saturdays on CBS, Jane Seymour plays a frontier physician in Dr. Quinn, Medicine Woman.

SOAP TALK

Allan worked in Martinez's shadow

By Candace Havens

Dear Candace: I've been watching the serial Santa Barbara for many years, and it just gets better and better. My question is, why hasn't Jed Allan, who plays C.C. Capwell, ever been nominated for an Emmy for his acting? I think he is superb and he gets better looking all the time. —Grace F., Lake Oswego, Ore.

Dear Reader: It is possible that Allan has been overshadowed by the success of A Martinez, who portrayed Cruz on the show for several years. Martinez has been nominated for Outstanding Lead Actor in a Daytime Serial every year since 1986 and won the Emmy in 1989 and 1990.

Martinez and his cohort Marcy Walker (ex-Eden) carried the show with their many escapades for several years. SB was sometimes referred to as the "Cruz and Eden show."

As for Allan, SB was not his first soap. He spent 12 years as the popular Don Craig on Days of Our Lives. He was also on Love of Life and The Secret Storm.

Dear Candace: I think the girl who plays Vicky/Marley is beautiful. She is a talented actress and is believable in both parts she plays, even though they are very different. What is her name and where is she from? She seems familiar to me for some reason. —A big Another World fan, Jennifer in North Carolina.

Dear Reader: Jensen Buchanan joined the cast of AW in 1990. She is a native of Montgomery, Ala., but grew up in the small Wisconsin town of Neenah.

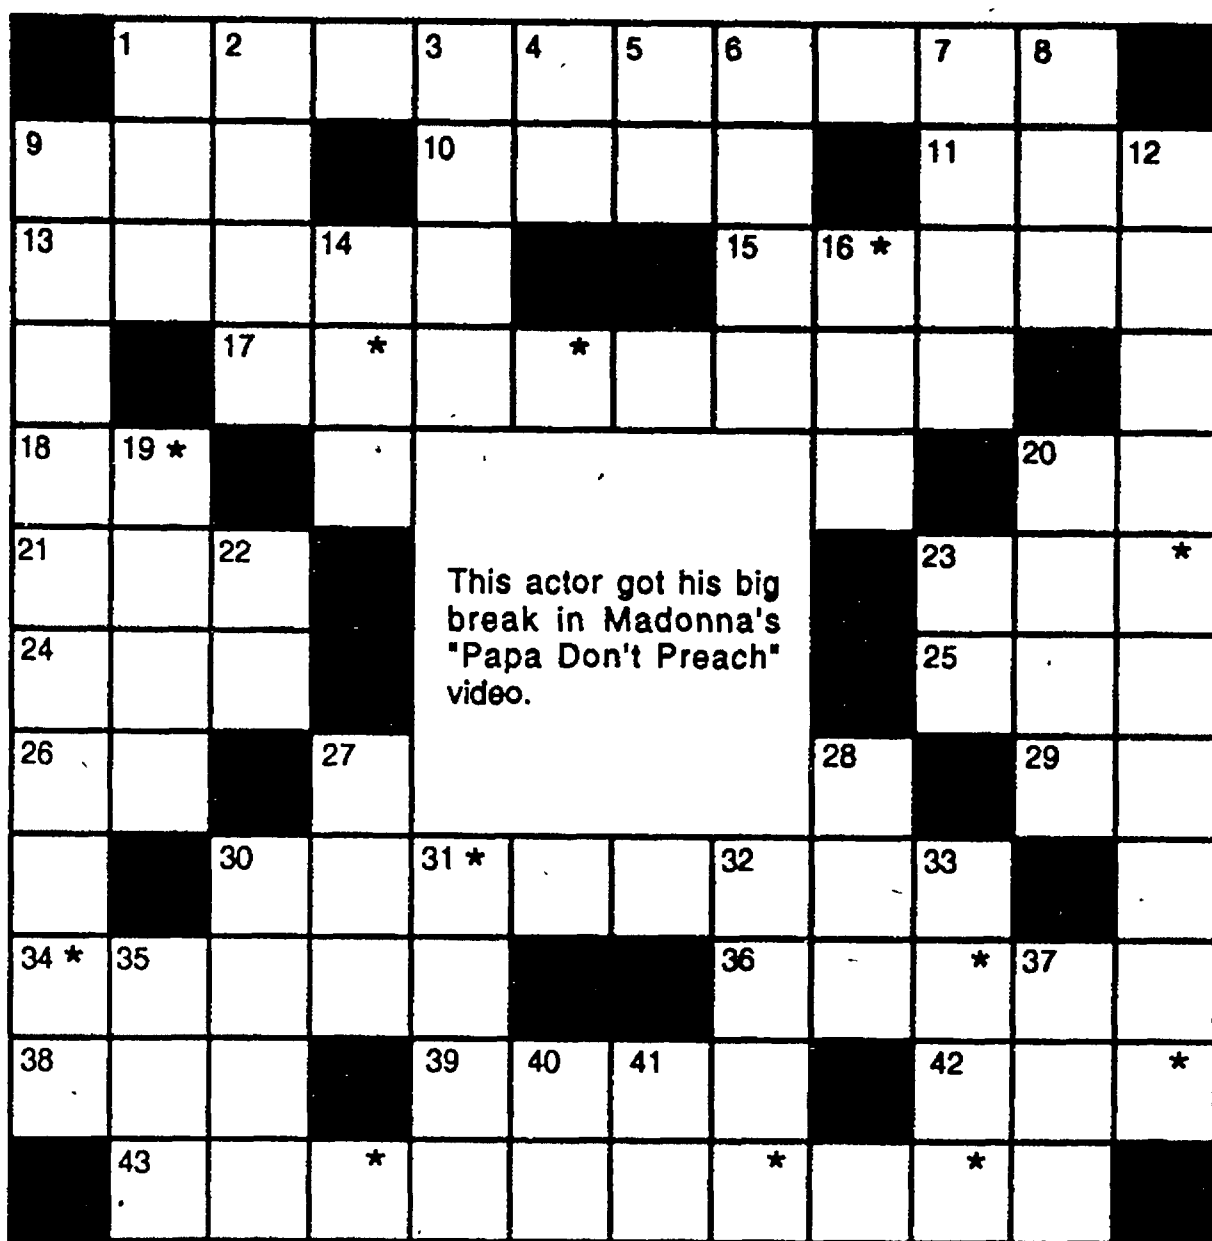

Her stepfather was a veterinarian, and their house was always full of his patients. "I grew up with a rotating menagerie of animals — dogs, ferrets, hawks, squirrels, you name it," says Buchanan. "Whatever ended up on our doorstep was taken in and cared for."

Buchanan attended Boston University's School of Fine Arts. Before joining AW, she portrayed Sarah Buchanan on One Life to Live.

Buchanan enjoys singing and has performed with the Light Opera of Manhattan as well as in cabarets. She is fond of sports, especially tennis, and plays the piano.
