BFI attempts to put end to landfill controversy

By SHARON CONDRON
Staff Writer

A top official from Browning-Ferris Industries came to vouch for Township Supervisor Karen Baja's word on the landfill issue Thursday night.

But even BFI couldn't keep the loaded guns from being fired at Baja for what's exploded into a controversy over a hypothetical landfill.

BFI's Division Manager Thomas Handyside faxed a letter to Baja Thursday afternoon before the night's board meeting to try to clear Baja's name.

"This letter will confirm that during neither private nor public discussions, did you personally request or offer to approve a landfill for Browning-Ferris Industries in Northville, Michigan," Handyside wrote in his letter to Baja.

He added, however, that at no time did BFI ask the township to remove the clause that prevents BFI from ever building a landfill in Northville.

Handyside was acting on reports that Baja opted to reopen contract discussions on the sewer agreement that binds BFI and the township together.

Baja had been given the green light by the full board to meet with BFI representatives and talk about five proposed amendments that were tied to the recycling-service-for-sewer-capacity agreement that the board passed in a single motion on Dec. 29. The first of those five proposed amendments seeks to modify language in the contract that deals with future landfill development in the township.

Just the notion that Baja was willing to renegotiate the clause raised eyebrows last week.

Former Township Clerk Thomas Cook broached the issue at Thursday's meeting.

"We (the former township board) worked so hard and I personally worked hard to get that stipulation put into the contract that BFI would never build any kind of trash company in Northville Township, why after being in power for less than one month did you unilaterally make such a great decision?" he quizzed board members.

Baja said she never intended to invite BFI to build a landfill in the township by asking to meet with the waste hauler to discuss the amendments. She said she did it because she didn't think the contract was as stringent as it could be.

"I did not feel the language was as strong as the public thought it was," she said. "All it was doing was limiting or preventing BFI from building a landfill on property they own within Northville Township. It did not eliminate anyone else — Waste Management, Wayne Disposal or Hollaway or any other landfill operator from coming to Northville Township to ask for a landfill."

Baja said she was trying to be impartial by raising the issue herself. She pointed out that she owns property adjacent to the BFI-owned parcel at Six Mile and Napier roads.

"This was asked to be taken out for discussion purposes only," she said. "Yes, I am the lone individual who asked for it to be taken out for discussion purposes . . . I'm here to represent all of Northville Township not just those who live on my road or things that affect me personally. I thought that being the one to raise it, I at the very least could not be accused of being prejudicial, but I guess that was misinterpreted.

"I simply thought all the options and all the availability to look at it from all different perspectives should be opened up for discussion, something the paper (the Record) failed to mention," she said.

She explored the landfill option in response to residents who want the township to boost its tax base and lessen the property tax burden for homeowners.

A landfill, she said, is one avenue to look at doing just that.

City crime spree may be solved with arrest

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

City police have arrested a local youth in connection with a rash of recent burglaries in downtown Northville.

Northville Township police, aware of a city warrant for the suspect, arrested him at Meijer Thursday night, Jan. 14 and turned him over to the city.

Aaron Raymond Morrison was arraigned in front of 35th District Magistrate Eric Colthurst Friday on one count of breaking and entering with intent to commit a larceny. The charge stemmed from a break-in at a Center Street antique store.

Morrison, 17, pleaded not guilty, and was taken to Wayne County Jail following his arraignment. Unless he posts the necessary $5,000 cash bond, he will remain there until his next court date Jan. 22.

The arrest follows six similar downtown burglaries between Jan. 9-12. Police believe those incidents may be related to more than a dozen business and residential break-ins in the city and township over the past several months.

Many of the cases are similar, marked by pried-open rear doors and smashed windows. The thieves typically steal cash only, and leave behind electronic equipment and other valuables.

City police, in response to the break-ins, stepped up patrols in the central business district. "We made it very clear to all the shifts to go out of their way about getting out and actually checking all the businesses," said Detective Sgt. David Fendelet.

The most recent rash of burglaries began two weeks ago, and culminated in several thefts the night of Jan. 11-12 and one on Jan. 13.

Juan Carlos was the first to be hit. The 148 Mary Alexander Court restaurant was robbed between 9 p.m. Jan. 6 and 8 a.m. Jan. 7. The thief apparently got in by breaking a rear window and climbing in through a storage room.

A butcher knife and screwdriver were found by the pried-open register, which had been emptied of about $100. The thief apparently cut himself while prying open the register with the knife.

Ice, ice, baby

Ice was all over everything last Wednesday morning, turning roads, trees and cars into giant Dove bars. Below, David Harling, a Kings Mill resident tries to scrape a thick layer of ice off his minivan Wednesday morning. At right, ice coats the branches of a tree in Northville. The previous night's freezing rain storm made roads slippery and canceled school in Northville. Several fender-benders were reported in both the city and the township (see Police News, page 4-A), and were attributed to the icy conditions. Weather forecasters are predicting the snow and ice will stay with us for a while, too, as temperatures are expected to be at or below freezing through the week.

District library proposal on hold

By SHARON CONDRON
and STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writers

The Northville Township board on Thursday tabled a motion to approve a district library proposal, citing apprehension about the cost of funding the necessary elections.

Board members called for a 7 p.m. public hearing Jan. 28 to gauge residents' desire for a new district library and to see if residents wanted the board to commit township money to pay for the cost of the millage election that would fund the new library.

Township Trustee Mark Abbo made the motion to table the proposal because he wanted to know how residents felt about the issue before he committed to the agreement.

"There's no indication that I don't support it," he said. "But in good conscience I just have to know where the public stands."

The board's move followed a presentation made by members of the district library study committee appointed last April. Committee members Lynn Parklan and Joan Wadsworth, and Library Director Pat Orr, presented the township board with a six-page agreement that would establish a district library serving both the township and the city. The district library would be funded by a special millage increase and governed by its own elected seven-member board.

"The most important reason for a district library is to provide stable funding that would provide stable library services," said Parklan.

Library services would be funded by a special district-wide millage. Cost of the elections would be picked up by the township and city.

In Northville Township, that cost was estimated between $3,600-$5,000 per election. The agreement allows up to three elections to be held if necessary, bringing the township's total potential cost to $15,000.

The estimated costs of putting the district library idea up for a vote is what concerned board members Thursday night.

Township Supervisor Karen Baja backed Trustee Mark Abbo's idea for the public hearing because she said she wants to know how residents feel about a district library before she commits township money to a special election.

"With all due respect millages aren't doing well here in Northville and quite frankly we do not have any money to pay for one election let alone two or three," she said.

Trustee Gini Britton echoed Baja's concerns about Northville residents' anti-tax mood which was blamed for two school millage defeats last spring.

"I think it's going to be a hard sell because of the feelings of people in the community about taxes," Britton said.

Library Director Pat Orr said Thursday's meeting demonstrated the need to educate both the board and Northville residents to the need for a district library.

Baja does not oppose full-time supervisor role

By SHARON CONDRON
Staff Writer

Township Supervisor Karen Baja said while she isn't opposed to making the township supervisor's position full time, she isn't the one asking for it either.

"If you are asking me if I support this," Baja said. "I support this for discussion purposes. Yes, I'm not going to lie. I'm not going to back away. I support it for discussion purposes."

"I ran knowing this was a full-time position. I have a young family. I'm not looking for full time work. But I'll tell you, I'm up here (at township hall) at more than full time and there is a need for that now. A great need."

"I'm simply saying that if I'm going to be here full time I wish to be compensated, that's all," she said.

Baja was reacting to a memo that came out of the township clerk's office last week and asked for input from the board of trustees members about making the township supervisor and the clerk full time positions.

Both Baja and Township Clerk Sue Hillebrand said they were upset to learn the memo had been leaked to the press. They were angry because they said it was meant to be just one proposal and one person's opinion they wanted board members to consider in the board's attempt to reorganize township government.

"This was just one person's proposal and not the whole board's," Baja said. "At this point it's unfortunate that someone chose to alert the (news) paper and give them a copy of this because that's not protocol. But, oh well. It's unfortunate that we couldn't talk to each other if we had concerns about it, but I guess we didn't."

"At any rate the paper was accurate," she said.

Hillebrand was equally disappointed.

"The proposal was strictly to open the board's mind. Let's talk about it," Hillebrand said. "I also feel it's very unfortunate that if there were some concerns that board members had that they didn't come back to me. I heard back from some and I heard from most, but others chose to go to the (news) paper and that's fine."

Hillebrand contends she'll stand by her memo and her proposal because she believes history has proven that the township manager's position "just doesn't work." She also said she believes the voters wanted a change and that's why they voted in a new board.

In a conversation with Hillebrand last week she said she saw the township manager's position as a communication stumbling block in the township hierarchy. In the past she said department heads report to the manager and he or she reports to the supervisor or acts independently. That is what creates the block and gives the illusion that there are two chief administrators.

Contrary to the reaction residents had about the news of the proposal, Baja said she wasn't trying to exclude the public from the process by handling it internally.

"If we arrive at a decision as a whole board it will go out for public process, public hearing, the (news) paper will be notified. Everybody's input will be welcomed and encouraged," she said.

Record files FOIA request for scores

The Northville Record filed a Freedom of Information Act request last Tuesday with Northville Public Schools Superintendent Leonard Rezmierski asking that the district release its 1992-93 Michigan Educational Assessment Program (MEAP) test scores.

Under the act, the district has five business days to respond once it receives the request.

The Record verbally requested the MEAP scores Jan. 8 and again on Jan. 11. Rezmierski, who said the district had received the scores, said William Hamilton, director of instructional services, was currently in the process of verifying the MEAP results. The superintendent said the verification would prevent potential mistakes from being reported.

Rezmierski added that he preferred allowing board of education members to review the MEAP scores prior to their Jan. 21 board of education meeting, before scores were released to the public.

BFI official clarifies controversies over contract

"Landfills are tremendous, and I mean tremendous in the multi-millions of dollars in revenue generators for host communities. We already put up with it on Napier Road, the potential for pollution, the smell, the truck traffic, all the negatives that come with the landfill. But since we live 60 feet on the other side of the governmental boundary, of the county boundary, we receive no benefits," Baja said.

The landfill controversy peaked after John Myers, BFI's general manager said Baja asked to reopen the clause in the contract. He said at the time he was surprised the new board wanted to modify that clause after the old board had fought so hard to include it in the contract.

But Baja contended she never meant to open the door to a landfill.

She said that, contrary to what some board members thought, she wasn't trying to be the sole voice for the township in the contract negotiations, and that any accord the two parties reached would come before the full board before being approved.

"I also have never asked for a landfill in Northville Township," she said. "I was given permission by this board to enter into discussion with BFI knowing full well that any changes and modifications or final language would be brought to this full board for a majority vote."

Trustee Mark Abbo said the controversy all stemmed from confusion over what the board voted on.

"Right now Northville does have an unchallengeable determination as to whether BFI can put a landfill in. It's there in the contract," he said. "What was brought before this board was a proposal to add an addendum to the BFI agreement. The addendum, on the surface, appeared to benefit the township. We were talking about recreation and other things that appeared of benefit."

"The contract was binding and no concessions were required of BFI. It was negotiated by one member and I'm not going to sit here and criticize anybody for putting a proposal in front of this board unless that proposal is obviously outrageous or self-serving."

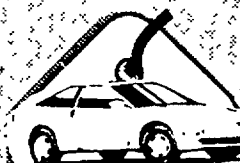

"In my opinion I just think the paper was very premature to come out with the article until final language was arrived at and brought back to the board," Baja said.

Michigan's Best Community Newspaper . . . Again

That's right, again. For the second consecutive year the Michigan Press Association bestowed its prestigious 'Michigan's Best' Award on the Northville Record in its 1992 Better Newspaper Contest. (For weekly newspapers with 5,000 to 15,000 circulation). And we're even prouder to be a two-time winner of the 'Michigan's Best' award than we were the first time we received the honor in the 1991 Better Newspaper Contest. And here's another thing that hasn't changed. Our greatest satisfaction continues to come from being an integral part of the Northville community . . . giving you the type of newspaper you want and need. In other words, we're proud to be your hometown paper.

Patron says winning ticket stolen

City police are investigating a Northville Downs patron's charge that a pickpocket stole her winning ticket Jan. 14. The woman told police that she bought a Superfecta ticket for the 11th race. But as she left the ticket window, she said, a black man wearing a brown coat bumped into her. After the race, when she realized the ticket was a winner, she reached into her pocket for it and it was gone. The ticket, which paid $1,707, was cashed by a Detroit man according to the track's records.

NO INJURIES REPORTED: No one was injured following a two-car accident on Six Mile Road, just east of Northville Road, Jan. 12. According to reports, a Novi woman traveling eastbound on Six Mile made a left turn onto northbound Northville in front of a car driven by a Plymouth woman, driving west on Six Mile. The Novi woman reportedly told police she didn't see the Plymouth woman's car due to other vehicles waiting to make left turns onto southbound Northville. The woman was issued a violation for failure to yield when making a left turn.

TOOLS, GLASSWARE STOLEN: Approximately $1,600 in tools and glassware were reported missing last week from a semi-trailer used for storage parked on Northville Road. The complainant told police the incident occurred between 6 p.m. Jan. 8 and 6 p.m. Jan. 9 when unknown subjects cut or broke a padlock off the side door to the semi-trailer. Police are still investigating the case.

WINDOWS STOLEN FROM GARAGE: Approximately $3,200 in Avon wood windows were reported stolen from a garage on Arbor Trail Jan. 13. According to reports, the area had been secured at 5:30 p.m. Jan. 12, and when the complainant returned at 7:40 a.m. Jan. 13, he noticed the side door of the garage had several scratch marks on it. Upon further investigation, the complainant discovered 14 of the windows were missing.

TWO INJURED IN SLEDDING ACCIDENT: Two 16-year-olds were injured in a sledding accident occurring after 8 p.m. Jan. 13 near Sheldon. A male and female, both from Garden City, were injured when the sleds on which they were riding crashed into several trees. The subjects were treated at the scene by the Northville Township Fire Department and transported to St. Mary Hospital.

FENDER BENDERS: City police responded to five accidents last week, four of them due to icy conditions. A man driving south on Griswold north of Butler the afternoon of Jan. 10 slid off the road and into a tree, disabling his car. He told police he swerved to avoid a northbound car which also started to slide. No citations were issued. City police cited a 39-year-old Northville man for failing to yield after he drove into a westbound car stopped for the stop sign at Seven Mile and Edward Hines Drive. Both cars had been stopped when the other driver began to drive forward and then braked again because of oncoming traffic. The Northville man said he did notice the second stop. A lamppost on the south side of Potomac east of Lexington was struck by a car that same day, around 8 p.m. The driver left the scene. At 8:45 p.m. Jan. 12, a man turning south onto Grace from Eight Mile lost control of his car on the icy road, and slid into a parked car. No citations were issued. Finally, three cars were involved in a Jan. 13 accident at Center Street and Edward Hines Drive. A northbound driver reportedly braked abruptly for the traffic signal there, and the driver behind him also braked. But a third northbound driver, trying to turn around the other two, slid in the slush and struck the car in front of him. The impact pushed the middle car into the one in front. No citations were issued and the cars were driven from the scene.

Citizens with information about the above incidents are urged to call Northville City Police at 349-1234 or Northville Township Police at 349-9400.

Local a victim in drive-by shooting

By MICHELLE KAISER
Staff Writer

An area resident said she was the victim of an apparent freeway shooting while traveling on I-275, a half-mile from the Six Mile exit, Jan. 7. The resident, who asked not to be identified, was driving her mother home after one of their frequent mother-daughter outings at Twelve Oaks Mall and a nearby restaurant. After finishing their coffee, the daughter entered I-96 to I-275 south. "The traffic was very light," she said, noting it was shortly after 10 p.m. She said she didn't even notice the car that pulled up on her driver's side as she neared the Six Mile exit. "All of a sudden we heard this blast," she said. "I looked at my mom and she was covered with glass. All I remember is saying, 'Mom, we've been shot.' She put her head down and she pulled my head down. My first reaction was that it was a shooting between two other cars. I just stepped on it. "The only thing I remember is I hesitated turning onto Haggerty. My mother asked me what I was waiting for." The two pulled into an Amoco station and reality settled in.

"When I got out of the car, I was petrified when I saw all the pellet holes," the victim said. An employee of the gas station dialed 911. The two Livonia police arrived at the scene, when the women were transported to St. Mary Hospital because both had high blood pressure readings. The pellets, which the victim believes came from a shotgun, sprayed the interior of the car. "I counted 252 (pellets) in the side of the door," she said. "I found about 32 inside the car. What saved my mom was the head-rest in the car." The victim said police told her if anyone had been in the back seat of the car they could have been injured seriously, if not fatally. "We were just two women driving along," she said. "It was just too bizarre. You read about this kind of thing in the paper, but you think it can't happen to me, or it must have been drug-related." Livonia police were unavailable for comment on the incident.

Northville Vision Clinic, at 335 N. Center, was broken into twice. An estimated $700 was stolen the first time, sometime between noon Jan. 9 and 8:45 a.m. Jan. 11. The thief gained entry by breaking a door window and opening an inside bolt. The clinic was broken into again between 5 p.m. Jan. 11 and 8:45 a.m. Jan. 12. The thief apparently tried to kick in the door window again but it had been replaced with a shatterresistant pane. A nearby window was pried open instead, but to no avail. Store personnel had changed their money-handling procedures after the first break-in, and had not left any paper currency in the office. A dentist's office next door, at the rear of 335 N. Center, was broken into sometime between 6 p.m. Jan. 11 and 8:30 a.m. Jan. 12. An estimated $30 was stolen, and $50 in damage was done to a door and window. The thief apparently broke a door pane first and tried to unlock the deadbolt, but the lock required a key to open it from either side. A nearby windowpane was smashed in instead, and the window opened. Once inside, the thief broke into the Petrioka Agency in the front of the building. A locked interior door was forced open, causing about $500 in damage. City police noticed the damage when they were investigating the scene at the dentist's office. Meisel's Antiques at 320 N. Center was ransacked sometime between 5 p.m. Jan. 9 and 6 p.m. Jan. 12, though nothing appeared to have been taken. Like the other robberies, a door window was broken and the door pried open to gain entry. Gentili's Hole-in-the-Wall was apparently broken into around 10 p.m. Jan. 13. A cash register was opened at that time, according to the register's internal records, and $272 in cash was stolen. An estimated $40 in rolled coins was also taken.

Township tables district library proposal

"It just wasn't clear what information they (board members) want. . . They are totally unfamiliar with what happened before, and that is where much of the confusion came from," Orr said. "The committee came out of that meeting feeling that, 'OK, we need to begin this education process right away.'" Before the board's vote, Orr cautioned them about what reaction they may get from those residents who come to the hearing. "You may find that the people who come out are against it. It would be unfair to deny the entire question based on one evening in a half an hour public hearing." The district library study committee was set up and appointed by the previous township board. Committee members plan to make their pitch again to the city council tomorrow night at 8 p.m. The district library saga began last April when Northville Library officials, alarmed over cuts to their budget by the city and township, discussed forming an autonomous library with its own funding source. The Michigan Library Establishment Act of 1989 allows two or more municipalities to set up a district library funded by between 1-2 mills. In Northville, a 1-mill levy would raise about $623,000 annually. The Northville Public Library's current budget, funded through the city and township's shared services agreement, is $378,696.

DARE on agenda for sub-committee

The curriculum sub-committee of the Northville Board of Education will hear a presentation on the DARE (Drug Awareness Resistance Education) program by George and Gini Patak at 7:30 p.m., Jan. 21, in the board conference room at the central office building, 501 W. Main St. The meeting is open to the public. When Patak accused the board of making DARE a dead issue at its Dec. 14 meeting, Board Vice President Glenna Davis suggested Patak address the sub-committee with the issue.

Patak and her husband George, who is a DARE officer in Ann Arbor, will make the 45-minute presentation. Trustee Jean Hansen said the administration has been directed to compile information on DARE as well as the components of the Michigan Health Model for Comprehensive School Health Education, which is currently in use at the district, dealing with substance abuse. "What we felt we needed is an overall view of what we're doing so we can use it as a basis of comparison," Hansen said. DARE is used in 700 school districts throughout the state, according to Patak, as well as Dearborn and Utica, which blend DARE and the Michigan Health Model together. Patak said there is a source for funding the program, but the deadline for a possible grant is in March.

Schools get low marks in confidence building

There's good reason to be increasingly wary about the way Northville Public Schools is conducting business.

First came the policy titled "Inspection of Student Lockers and Desks." Now we have what appears to be a violation of the Freedom of Information Act (FOIA).

Here's what's happening.

At the Dec. 14 school board meeting, Robert Sornson, executive director of special education, submitted a proposed revision of the "Inspection of Student Lockers, Desks, Automobiles" policy.

The revision to the "Inspection" policy was rather frightening. Basically, the revision would have required students to sign a form allowing their cars to be entered during school hours or functions before they would be issued a permit to park on the school grounds.

In addition, the revision gave school personnel the authority to seize alcohol, tobacco, controlled substances, weapons, other dangerous instruments or stolen property if found during one of those inspections.

The intent was good. The revision said the only reason school personnel may confiscate items from an automobile, desk or locker was to protect the health, safety or welfare of the building and/or students.

The problem was that the proposed revision walked all over human rights — yes, students have rights, too — and was, in all probability, unconstitutional.

Fortunately, school attorneys got hold of the revision before it was enacted and offered some amendments to make it slightly more acceptable. The amendment finally adopted by the board says school officials must have sufficient reason to enter a car, as well as a locker or desk, for confiscation purposes.

We suspect, however, that the school district would be a decided underdog if some student or parent decides to test the constitutionality of the new policy and refuses to sign the form giving administrators access to their private property.

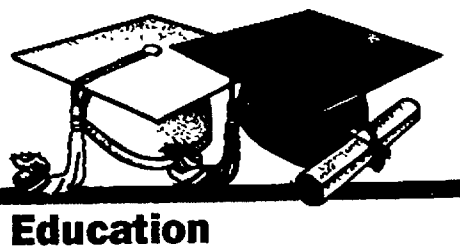

What is particularly bothersome about this incident is the fact that the original revision got as far as it did without anyone jumping up and yelling about the rather blatant intrusion on individual rights.

Superintendent Leonard Rezmierski apparently supported the policy. Why else would he have permitted it to be presented to the board for approval in the first place?

Sornson supported it; he was the one who sought board approval.

And the members of the school board themselves sat and listened to the presentation without blinking an eye.

That brings us now to what looks like a violation of the Freedom of Information Act.

The Northville school district has received the test results of the 1992-93 Michigan Educational Assessment Program (MEAP), and The Record would like to report the results of those scores to the people of Northville just as we have for as long as there has been a MEAP program.

The problem is that Rezmierski doesn't want to release the results... not until he's good and ready.

We asked for the results on Jan. 8 and again on Jan. 11.

Rezmierski acknowledges that he has the scores, but he apparently doesn't want the public to see them until he has had time to do who-knows-what to them. In response to our requests for the results, Rezmierski says William Hamilton, director of instructional services, is currently in the process of verifying the results. The superintendent said the verification would prevent potential mistakes from being reported.

Rezmierski added that he preferred allowing board of education members to review the MEAP scores prior to their Jan. 21 board of education meeting, before scores are released to the public.

Doesn't sound unreasonable, except for one thing: whose scores are they anyway? The Northville schools are a public body. They're supported by taxpayer dollars. It's the public's information, and Rezmierski has no right whatsoever to hold back information from the public. It's the law.

Last week, we filed a Freedom of Information Act request with Rezmierski asking that the district release its 1992-93 Michigan Educational Assessment Program (MEAP) test scores, and Rezmierski has verbally agreed to comply with the request. But why was it even necessary to file?

It's particularly difficult to understand in light of the fact that the superintendent and school board are attempting to build public confidence.

You're not going to get very far in the confidence-building business when you promote policies which stomp all over human rights and balk at letting the public have the information it is entitled to.

At the risk of being glib, it may be appropriate for Rezmierski, his administrators and the school board to sign up for a refresher course in U.S. Government. Lately, they've been getting below-average grades.

The lesson hasn't sunk in yet

Unbelievable. That's all I can say. Unbelievable.

You would think after all that's gone on in the last year in Northville Township that some of our readers would have learned their lesson in government and the public process. Judging by the letters to the editor we've been receiving, that's one lesson that hasn't sunk in yet.

But before I go on to scold you all for flunking civics, I should probably praise you all for having learned your math lessons so well. You all know how to figure your property taxes, although some of you still have a twisted notion as to what constitutes taxes that are "too high."

But I digress. Back to the government lesson. We recently ran an editorial chastizing Township Supervisor Karen Baja for circumventing the public process when axing Township Manager Richard Henningsen. Rather than taking a vote on whether to renew his contract in a public meeting, she polled each of the board members one on one and in subquorum groups.

Michigan's Public Meetings acts are quite clear on such matters. Specific language, written in plain English, forbids the conduct of public business in subquorum groups.

We've received a few letters to the editor doubting that the hiring and firing of a township manager should be public business. The letter writers say that as an employee, Henningsen's status should remain private.

In a word, they are misinformed.

First off, Henningsen's salary, which is the highest in township government, comes out of your taxes. He works for you. Not just Karen Baja and the township board.

And as his employer, you are entitled to know how he's doing, review his record, and review the procedure by which his contract is either renewed or dropped.

Furthermore, Henningsen technically is not an employee of the township. He's a contractual employee. His contract comes up for review periodically. He really can't be fired in the same sense as a free-will employee hired by a private-sector company. His contract may not be renewed, which, if you are Richard Henningsen, probably feels like being fired. But technically, it's not.

Whether it's a firing or a failure to renew a contract is a mere matter of semantics. But viewed in the big picture, you begin to see why the process ought to be public.

Whether it's a contract for manager to administer the township, or it's a contract for an engineer or consultant for a sewer, it must be handled in full public view.

Now do you make the connection? Do you remember the old regime? No-bid contracts, negotiated behind closed doors. When you voted for the new township board, it was clear that most of you were voting against the back-room politics of old.

I fully realize that, like a Tigers fan who hates to hear his team's name taken in vain, you find it hard to accept that the candidate whom you trusted with your vote to open the doors of local politics might close them.

Let's just hope that the board members realize their mistake and restore the faith that voters put in them in November.

Class dismissed.

A vote for teaching to the test

One of the neat things about working for a newspaper is that you get to discuss politics, government and current events all day long — and get paid for it.

Most people have to talk about their jobs when they're at work, and pretty much have to put off discussion of current events until they're home. Same thing's true of journalists and journalism, except for the fact that current events are your job. And it's not only appropriate to discuss them at work, it's expected.

All of this is prelude to the fact that the test scores from the Michigan Education Assessment Program (MEAP) are starting to come in, and they were the topic of some discussion in the newsroom at The Record last Friday.

And, as is so often the case when MEAP results are being discussed, somebody suggested that some school districts are guilty of "teaching to the test."

It's an accusation that invariably reminds me of Ms. Wilkinson, my French 101 teacher back in college.

I did well in French 101. Had close to a straight A average, which I never considered much to brag about because, quite frankly, I found it extremely easy to get As on Ms. Wilkinson's tests.

The rules where I went to college was that professors must announce all major examinations one week in advance. They could pop a "quickie quiz" on you anytime they wanted, but if it was a major exam, they had to give you one week's notice.

Well, good ol' Miss Wilkinson not only gave us a week's notice, she also told us exactly what was going to be included on the test.

Not everything she told us was going to be on the test actually ended up on the test. Only some of the things she had warned us about were included. But she never put anything on the exam that she had not said was going to be there.

Quite frankly, getting As on those tests was a breeze. All you had to do was make sure you knew everything she said would be on the exam, and an A was just about guaranteed.

For a long time, I did not have as much respect for Ms. Wilkinson as I should have had. Let's face it, her French class was a breeze... a real GPA booster.

It wasn't until we were half-way through the second semester (French 102) that I began to realize Ms. Wilkinson was a whole lot smarter than I had given her credit for.

There was no madness to her method. It was simple logic.

One week before every examination she would tell you everything that she thought you ought to know. If you wanted an A, no problem. Just learn what she thought you ought to be learning, and the A was a flat-out cinch.

So who was outsmarting who? If anybody, it was Ms. Wilkinson outsmarting the rest of us. But I expected she considered it a fair tradeoff. If you had learned what she thought it was important for you to learn, she had no problem whatsoever about handing out those 4.0 grades.

And that's why I think of Ms. Wilkinson whenever I hear somebody accusing one school district or another of "teaching to the MEAP test."

The MEAP tests are put together by a group of professional educators to ascertain whether students are learning what they're supposed to learn when they're supposed to learn it.

So a school district that teaches to the MEAP test is guilty of nothing more serious than making sure their students learn what they're supposed to learn when they're supposed to learn it.

And that's why I'm all in favor of "teaching to the test." Frankly, I think all school districts should do it.

Florine Mark/Weight Watchers

Self discipline helps resist temptation

Holiday entertaining may be helpful to your weight loss program.

That's the jolly news from Weight Watchers. One of the best ways to stay in control of your holiday eating is to entertain in your own home. When you are the host or hostess, you have the home field advantage. You make the rules, design the menu and stay in charge.

One good choice for holiday entertaining is to plan for activities other than eating. For example, have a caroling party, or a holiday walk to enjoy neighborhood decorations.

Beat statistics which indicate the average person gains between two and 10 pounds between Thanksgiving and New Years. The recipe is simple — all it takes is a little know-how, an extra ounce of control and a sizeable portion of planning.

Here are some helpful hints from Weight Watchers.

Drink lots of water. It will help to fill you up and you'll be putting a curb on your appetite.

Learn to be assertive in any eating situation. A simple and polite "no, thank you," or "yes, this is all I'm going to have" will do the trick. Remember it's your choice and your body.

Focus on the "Reason for the Season." Having a good time is not stuffing yourself with food, but filling yourself with hours of fun and surrounding yourself with family and friends.

Plan ahead. If you are going to a dinner party, eat light at lunch and breakfast that day.

Eat slowly. Put your fork down between bites and join in on the conversation. It takes about 20 minutes for food signals to reach your brain and tell you if you are full. Eating slowly aids this process.

Exercise. Every bit of physical activity helps during the holidays. Besides eating greater amounts of food, the holiday season often brings on additional stress. Exercise not only burns calories and fat, but it's also helpful in relieving stress.

High calorie drinks and punches are common at holiday parties. Ask for Perrier or seltzer water with a twist, instead. Sip your beverage elegantly in a wine glass or champagne flute.

Avoid alcoholic beverages. Alcohol stimulates your appetite, and before you know it — you'll find yourself at the hors d'oeuvres table with the munchies.

Share with a friend. If a piece of pumpkin or apple pie a la mode looks too tempting to pass up, share it with a friend or family member. This way you can enjoy it without having to eat the whole thing.

Make sure you schedule some time for yourself. Added stress and the feeling of being overwhelmed can often lead to overeating.

Remember there is more to celebrating than food. Share funny stories, play a game that everyone will enjoy, rent a classic movie or one of the new releases.

Portion control. Selectively choose what you'd like to eat. Sample a variety of what is being served in small portions.

"Seconds? No Thank you." Tell yourself that you will feel better and will have more energy after the meal if you pass on second helpings.

When holiday grocery shopping, stick to your planned list. Avoid impulse purchases such as packaged holiday cookies and goodies to "have on hand" during the holidays. Chances are they will end up in your hand and then in your mouth.

Don't go to a holiday party "famished." Have a glass of low fat milk or piece of fruit before leaving home. You won't feel the need to "fill up" on snacks once you arrive.

Don't eat just because the people around you are eating. If you aren't hungry, nurse some sparkling water or fruit juice.

Oriental Celebration New Year's feast will keep you crowing

By RICK BYRNE
Copy Editor

It's time to gong in the Chinese New Year again.

It's time to stop writing Year of the Monkey on your checks and get ready for the Year of the Rooster, 4691 for those of you who are keeping track.

Chinese New Year this year falls on Jan. 24. Whereas the calendar observed in the West is based on the earth's orbit around the sun, the Chinese calendar is lunar. Their months have either 29 or 30 days, with the full moon always falling on the 15th day of the month. Twelve months totaled 357 making the Chinese calendar somewhat inexact. Chinese New Year falls on a different day each year.

The Chinese compensated by adding an extra month in certain leap years, but eventually, in 1910, they began observing the solar calendar.

The old lunar New Year continues to be observed, however, with a bountiful feast.

As Linda Parker of Novi explains, in her native Taiwan New Year is an even bigger celebration than the Jan. 1 holiday is here in the United States.

"Back home we celebrate for three days before and five days after," she says. "Usually there is a big meal with the family together. We eat a long dinner and give money in a red envelope."

In China, the color red is symbolic of good luck, an eating is something of a national pastime. The Chinese believe cooking represents a way of thinking, on a par with fine art.

So is it any wonder that at Hunan Palace, which Parker owns, the traditional Chinese New Year is celebrated with a 10-course meal which takes most of the evening.

Parker's artist on staff is Chef Jack Dai. Also a native of Taiwan, Dai has worked (woked?) in restaurants in New York and Miami. He was educated under Pong Chong Que, a famous chef from his homeland. In fact one menu item at Hunan Palace was especially created by Dai to honor his mentor. Pong's name appears in Chinese above the English name for the dish, bean curd stewed with black bean sauce.

At no other time of the year does Dai practice his art more perfectly than at New Year. He takes special pride in the main course dish, crispy boneless whole fish, which he will prepare this Sunday when Hunan Palace hosts a Chinese New Year's Party for invited guests.

"It takes a long time to bone the fish — three hours," Parker says. "Jack's the only chef I know who can do that."

The boned body of the fish, in this case succulent grouper, is then crafted into a network of rounded shapes, and deep fried with the head and tail separated (they're returned to the plate later). Then Dai creates a sauce of bamboo shoots, onions, red peppers, red wine sauce, and a Szechuan sauce of his own making.

Fish is a traditional part of the lunar New Year celebration because it symbolizes abundance and plenty. Indeed, many of the ingredients of Chinese cooking are given symbolic meaning.

Mushrooms, for example, mean opportunity and happiness. Eggs symbolize life, and the numerous seeds of the pomegranate, many children. Chicken is the symbol of rebirth, and shrimp indicate joy. Onions and heads of lettuce are produce bursting forth from the earth, and hence portray new beginnings.

Tangerines wish good luck, their succulent juice symbolic of continued sweetness in life. At lunar New Year, tangerines complete with leaves intact, are hidden in the beds of children, wishing them "the sweetest issue of life," according to Chinese mythology.

Food preparation also carries meaning. The rounded shapes of Dai's crispy whole fish symbolizes harmony, much like the ring shape of our Western wedding bands.

Dai says that many home cooks are often disappointed when they try cooking Chinese food at home, that it doesn't come out the same as it does in the restaurant. He admits that even he can't create at home the same dishes he can at Hunan Palace where he cooks over two 5,000 BTU gas woks (there are six in the restaurant altogether) kept at 300 degrees F and 500 degrees F.

Here, however, he offers some spicy, Szechuan-style dishes often served at Chinese New Year which can be made at home on a household wok. You'll need to make a trip to an Oriental grocer, though. Dai recommends Evergreen Supply Co., 20736 Lahser Road in Southfield. Owners Siu and Cholada Chan supply many Chinese restaurants in the area, and have a retail store as well.

You'll notice his recipes don't call for specific measurements of most items. Dai encourages home cooks to measure ingredients to your own personal taste, and experiment.

These dishes call for a very hot wok, and you'll have to cook fast, so have all your ingredients prepared and measured

Chef Mary Brady

The past few weeks have been a time for reflection, most of which is business related.

This was our second holiday season in beautiful Novi and we are definitely happy with our still-new home.

It is amazing the number of people that we see two and three times a week. This is turning into another Seven Mile Brady's with a clientele of regulars.

We are thrilled to see the same faces over and over again. Babies that were newborn when we opened are now toddlers, and toddlers turning into youngsters. We watch with wonder at their developing personalities.

Also important is your acceptance of different foods and cooking styles. Just 14 short months ago we were trying to discourage the practice of squirting lemon juice over fresh, beautiful fish. Try the fish first, and the lemon after. You were trusting. No one has asked for lemon in over a year. If the fish is what it should be, no odor, firm and "clean" tasting, lemon will just ruin the flavor.

A similar situation is the person who adds salt and/or pepper before sampling the food. Some of the finest chefs around refuse to put shakers on the table. This, however, is making the assumption that everybody's taste buds are the same, which they are not.

One of the fun parts of my job is to recommend entrees to those that ask. There is a good number of our patrons who will not order without my input. Sometimes it is hard. We try our best to accommodate all types of tastes and needs. Our menu is ever changing and often there are protests that we've removed a favorite from the everyday selections. Not a problem, give us a call several days in advance and we'll have your favored choice.

In the last couple months two of our frequent diners have had to contend with heart surgery. They still come in — we cook special. Little or no fat, lean cuts of meat or fish and lots of fresh steamed vegetables. In fact, a goal for 1993 is to introduce more low-fat selections. We are well on the way with many of our sauces and soups.

Potatoes are used as a thickener in soups instead of cream or rouxs. Sauces are flavorful vegetable purees. Oils, butter and other fats are used to a minimum. Fruit salsas, unusual grains, tasty herbs and infused olive oils add much zip without the calories. Don't get me wrong, a nice butter sauce still hits the spot with certain foods.

1993 will see other changes for eating out too. Pork is being served pink instead of dried up and well done. Medium pork remains juicy and flavorful. During World War I hogs were fed recycled food (garbage) and trichinosis was a problem. Now, for years this parasite has disappeared from the scene. Have no fear to eat pork a bit on the pink side. It is a taste treat.

Classical cooking will return as a norm rather than a second thought. You'll see ragouts, cassoulets, and traditional fare done with a flair. Lots of wild mushrooms, exotic fruits, "old fashioned" veggies (fennel, celeriac, turnips and parsnips), and wild game will come into their own.

Little meals are on the rise for the fourth of fifth year in a row. Several appetizers become dinner or lunch. Personally, I love to eat this way. Much more satisfying to the palate.

The interest in food is forever growing. The questions I get asked are intriguing. Ones that I never would assume the general public to query about. Which country produces the best olive oil? Olives? Vinegars? Cheeses? And, which pans are the best for home use, are just a few. Hopefully I will get to answer these and more in future columns.

Food education is ever increasing. The more you know, the better the industry as a whole is forced to become. Yes, 1993 will be a great year. Lets make it a culinary adventure together.

SESAME BEEF

Beef tenderloins, cut in strips egg white cornstarch

Sauce
soy sauce wine sugar
garlic
Ginger Szechuan hot pepper sesame seeds

Coat beef with egg white and cornstarch. Heat oil in wok to 120 degrees Celsius (about 250 degrees F). Fry beef to one-half of desired doneness, a minute or less. Remove from oil and heat wok to 400 degrees Celsius (about 500 degrees F). Return beef to pan and fry to desired doneness. Remove from pan and drain. Drain oil from pan. Add sauce ingredients to pan and heat through. Add beef to pan and stir only long enough to coat with sauce and seeds. Serve with steamed broccoli on side.

CRISPY SHRIMP WITH CHAMPAGNE SAUCE

10-12 shrimp per person (depending on size of shrimp)
egg white
cornstarch pinch of salt

Sauce
equal amounts of sweet cherry sauce, ketchup and champagne (or white wine) fresh chopped ginger
fresh chopped garlic small amount of chicken broth
sugar
salt
Szechuan hot oil to taste
some corn starch mixed with water as thickener.

One egg white will make enough breading for a dozen or more shrimp. Mix enough cornstarch with egg white to make a thick, sticky batter. Toss the shrimp in the mixture to coat evenly and let stand for about 15 minutes.

Heat enough oil to deep fry the shrimp in a wok. Heat oil almost to smoking point and drop in shrimp. They should fry for only a few seconds, only enough to turn opaque. Don't leave them in so long they turn deep brown. Remove from oil and drain. Drain oil from pan. Add sauce to pan and heat if for just a few seconds to thicken. Put the shrimp on a plate and pour a little sauce on top. Serve the remainder in a bowl as a condiment.

Cagers whip Baseline rival Wildcats 77-54

By SCOTT DANIEL
Sports Editor

It's official now.

The Baseline battle of the hardwood has been won by Northville High School for the 1992-93 school year. The Mustangs pounded Novi 77-54 Tuesday night at home.

"I was really pleased with the effort tonight," Northville head coach Larry Taylor said. "We were much better defensively."

The border rivals met Dec. 23 with Northville taking a 63-56 comeback victory. More important than beating the Wildcats the second time around, however, Northville ended a brief two-game losing streak.

"We don't want to have too many of those," Taylor said.

Northville is 5-2 on the campaign.

After taking a 12-10 lead after one quarter, the Mustangs blew the game open in the second and had an 11-point advantage at halftime. Novi never mounted a serious threat in the second half.

Rick Biermann led Northville with 18 points while Mike Maschek added 17. Taylor said his team concentrated on an inside-outside offense. Biermann, who had three three-pointers, worked outside while Maschek dominated down low.

"Anytime we can get it to Mike inside," Taylor commented, "he's a threat."

Novi coach Bob Shoemaker was impressed with Biermann's game.

"He was outstanding for them," he said. "He showed a lot of hustle out there."

Dave York and Brian Csordas both had career highs in scoring for the 'Cats. York scored 21 and Csordas poured in 14.

Despite the loss, Shoemaker said his 2-6 Wildcats are improving. The team is still learning about itself, he added.

"We're seeing different kids do things," Shoemaker said. "It's just getting them all in sync at the same time."

Both teams were out of sync in the first period.

Biermann hit a three-pointer for the game's first basket with a half-minute gone by. Northville led 6-0 before Csordas got Novi on the scoreboard at the 4:59 mark with a jump shot.

The Wildcats sliced Northville's lead to two by the end of the quarter. York had a three-pointer and also connected on three free throws.

As slow-paced as the first quarter was, the second was a track meet.

Novi stayed within four points for the first few minutes of the period before the Mustangs went on a roll. Northville converted on several fast break opportunities and broke the Wildcats' defense down for 28 points in the quarter.

"They hurt us on second shots," Shoemaker added.

Northville led 40-29 at halftime. Maschek had nine points in the period on a variety of inside jumpers. Csordas did all he could to keep Novi in the game as he scored nine in the second period as well.

The home team continued its domination in the third.

Northville led 48-38 with about half the quarter gone. The Mustangs' Neil Yaekle scored consecutive baskets to spearhead a 12-0 run before the buzzer.

The Baseline rivals played an almost even fourth quarter. York closed his strong game with seven points for Novi in the period.

While the Wildcats relied on York and Csordas for their scoring, Northville showed excellent balance. Four Mustangs were in double figures, including 11 from Kieran Williams and 10 from Todd Rabourn.

Taylor went to a three-guard alignment. Biermann, John Farrar and Rabourn, for the game to add more speed to the lineup. He said he may continue to use that combination.

"We've got some good guards that can play," Taylor noted.

Williams chooses 'Bonds' for producing debut

Kelly McGillis, Hal Holbrook
co-star

By Suzanne Gill

It seems some people fall in love against all reason, but sometimes love can see what reason and self-interest do not. So it goes in Bonds of Love, a fact-based drama airing Sunday, Jan. 24, on CBS.

The movie is star Treat Williams' first venture as executive producer, a role he says he values for the chance it gives him to choose his work.

"I've always been interested in filmmaking," says Williams. "I guess (producing is) really part of the very natural progression in a career. Bonds of Love came to me as a three-page treatment, and I wanted to have some say in the quality of the piece. If done incorrectly, it could have become very sappy or very violent."

In the movie, Williams plays Robby Smith, a mildly retarded Kansas man whose world is limited to his parents (Hal Holbrook and Grace Zabriskie), his highway-patrolman brother (Steve Railsback), a few drinking buddies and a series of odd jobs. His family turns a blind eye to the tricks of his pals while vigilantly protecting him from the advances of women and any suggestion that he live in an institution.

Dumped on a farm road one day by his pals, Robby is rescued by a lonely local woman, Rose Parks (Kelly McGillis), and they soon become friends. When the family discovers that Rose's children have become wards of the state, they decide she is unsuitable for Robby and forbid him to continue seeing her.

Their command comes too late; Rose and Robby are already more than friends. When Rose decides to leave town, Robby insists on going with her, and they move to Wichita.

For years, the struggle to do "what's right" for Robby continues, both in and out of court. Again and again, Robby's family refuses to listen to his simple declarations of love for Rose.

According to Williams, the movie "has no villains," but they "do villainous, inappropriate things. Normal people, when they are misled and uneducated about mental retardation, can act inappropriately, even if they have been living all their lives (with such a person)."

What do Rose and Robby see in one another? Despite every attempt at plainness, both Williams and McGillis bring an improbably attractiveness and intelligence to their portrayals.

Yet they succeed in an unconventional way - by keeping us on the outside looking in. Bonds of Love respects a real-life enigma: that it is impossible for any third person to look inside the relationship between two people or to say why any couple succeeds or fails.

"When two people find one another," Williams says, "and life is better for it, I don't think you judge how mature they are, or whether one is retarded or not, or whether they should or shouldn't be together. If the two halves make a greater whole...who can play God and deny them that?"

STAR NOTES

Clark's career has beat, you can dance to it

By Dan Rice

Dick Clark is one of the busiest men in television. This month he's producing the 14th Annual CableACE Awards (Sunday, Jan. 17, on Lifetime) and the American Music Awards (Monday, Jan. 25, on ABC). He will also be at the helm of other upcoming trophy fests: the 50th Golden Globe Awards, the Soap Opera Awards, the Academy of Country Music Awards and the second Battle of the Bands. And there will be a springtime special edition of American Bandstand. The coming months will also bring the premiere of Clark's Heartline, a late-night talk and music program, and Heartbeat, a pilot for CBS.

This week Clark launches his fourth game show, Scattergories, in syndicated markets. Based on the hottest-selling board game in the United States, the game is, according to Clark, "light," not "intellectually challenging like Jeopardy!"

TIME OUT

NFL playoffs highlight of week

By Michael Scogin

There is plenty to keep sports fans interested with the NFL playoffs and college basketball highlighting the week in sports.

The NFL's divisional championships on Sunday, Jan. 17, will decide which two teams will meet Jan. 31 in Pasadena, Calif., to battle for the Super Bowl title. NBC covers the AFC Championship, while John Madden and his CBS colleagues present the NFC Championship.

Basketball announcer Dick Vitale will be busy this week covering college basketball for ESPN. The line-up holds some interesting divisional rivalries, such as Sunday's ACC match-up between the Virginia Cavaliers and the defending national champion Duke Blue Devils.

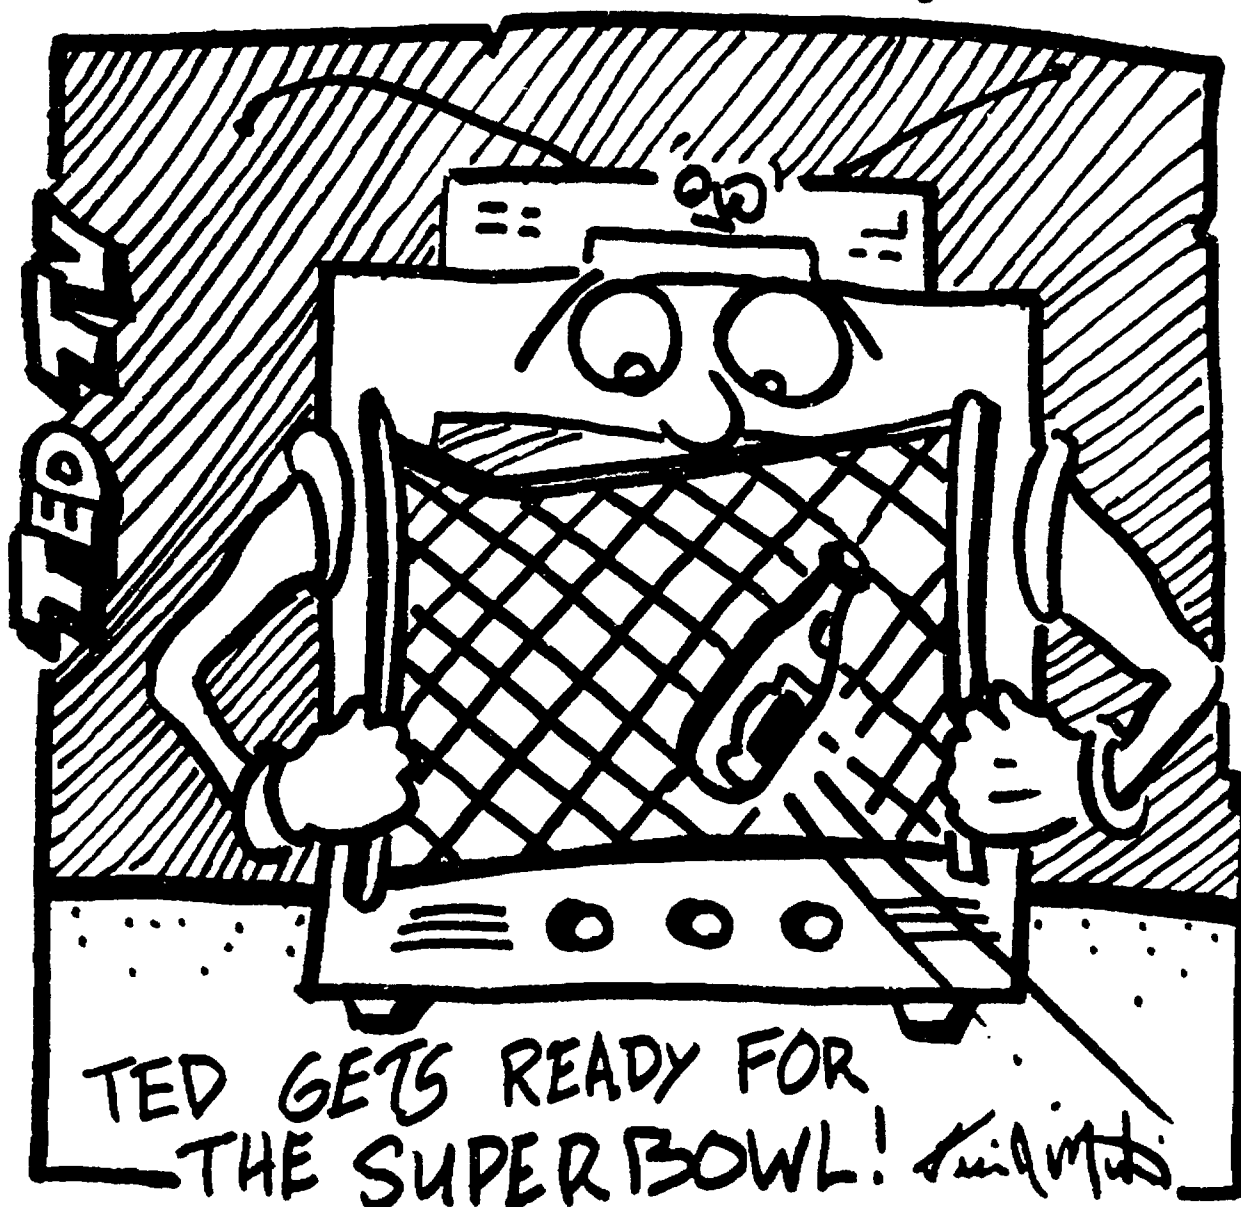

On Monday, Jan. 18, the Connecticut Huskies visit the Georgetown Hoyas in a key Big East matchup, while the highly ranked Kansas Jayhawks visit Kansas State in a Big Eight battle to decide state bragging rights.

Another state title is on the line Tuesday, Jan. 19, when Bobby Knight takes his Indiana Hoosiers on the road to face a much-improved Purdue Boilermaker team. Later that night, Alabama's Crimson Tide play host to Rick Pitino, Jamal Mashburn and the rest of the Kentucky Wildcat team in an SEC game.

Mariel Hemingway plays the title role in Desperate Rescue: The Cathy Mahone Story, Monday on NBC.

New Year brings cast changes to soaps

By Candace Havens

It is the New Year, and as always, there are major shake-ups on most every soap. There will be departures of favorite characters and some surprising additions. Here's a taste of what is going on:

It looks like Julie (Susan Seaforth Hayes) and Doug (Bill Hayes, also her husband in real life) could possibly be reunited on Days of Our Lives. Unfortunately, it will mean the end of Seaforth Hayes' reign on the show.

Seaforth Hayes' contract was up for renewal, but Days decided Julie's story had been told, and the producers informed her that she would be leaving the show. Seaforth Hayes was not happy about the way things turned out, but there was little she could do. There is a possibility that Julie will be going off into the sunset with Doug, who hasn't been seen on the show since 1986.

Another surprising departure was that of Patsy Pease, who portrays Kim on the show. Pease's contract was up, but sources say Pease walked off the set in November and didn't return. Ariana Chase has taken over the role.

Also witnessing a fade-out of their storylines are Heather Rattray, who portrayed Lily on As the World Turns, and Season Hubley, who played Dimitri's wife, Angelique, on All My Children.

Russell Todd (Jamie) is leaving AW because he has tired of commuting between New York and his home in L.A., and he wants to spend more time with his wife, Kim, who lives there.

In a surprising turn of events, Randolph Mantooth (ex-Alex, Loving) is returning to daytime as Richard Halifax on General Hospital. His character could possibly be a new love interest for Emma Samms' character, Holly.

Justin Deas (ex-Tom, ATWT, and ex-Keith, Santa Barbara) is returning to daytime as Guiding Light's Frank Sr., the shifty father of Harley and Frank Jr., who was believed to have been killed in the Vietnam War.

Another familiar face returns to One Life to Live in January when John Loprieno brings the character Cord Roberts back from the dead.
