Northville's Science Olympiad team cleaned up at the Wayne County regional competition.

Science team cops awards

Northville High School's science olympiad team swept awards in all but one event in the Wayne County Regional competition held Saturday, March 20, capturing first place with 38 medals.

Northville will compete with the top regional teams from around the state at Michigan State University April 24 for a place in the national science olympiad competition in Colorado in May.

Science department staff worked with students after school to prepare for the 22 olympiad events spanning scientific knowledge and processes from rocks and fossils to physics and computers. Success in most events depends on cooperation and teamwork.

Julie Zwiesler and Ellen Song teamed for gold medals in anatomy and cell biology; Anthony Wen and Andy Song took the gold in rocks and fossils and computer programming; Katie Johnson and Jaime Belanger won first place for bridge building; while Ellen Song and Emily Kniebes garnered the gold for qualitative analysis.

Parag Parikh and Scott Innes won second place for chemistry lab; Pat McNeal and Julie Zwiesler won the silver for the road rally (maps); and Steve Lautzenheiser, Emily Kniebes and Andy Song placed second for their rendition of Chariots of Fire on handmade musical instruments in the "sounds of music" category.

Bronze medals went to Chris Maupin for orienteering; Jaime Belanger for metric estimation; Vinay Mohita, Parag Parikh and Anthony Wen for physics lab and measurement; Vivek Mohita, Tom Fleming and Chris Maupin for "It's Time," and the "Scrambler."

After a victory celebration hosted by Woolly Bully's, the team will return to spring training to begin practicing for the science pentathlon.

Former latch key aide charged with 6 counts of sexual misconduct

A former employee of a Northville Public Schools' latch-key program has been bound over to Wayne County Circuit Court on charges of criminal sexual conduct.

David Thomas Broad, 24, of Northville Township, was arraigned in 35th District Court on four counts of first degree criminal sexual conduct and two counts of second degree criminal sexual conduct. Due to testimony during Broad's preliminary exam, another first degree charge was added. All charges involved sexual contact with two 8-year-old girls.

Broad entered a plea of not guilty. His attorney, Brian Stacey, was in court on Friday and could not be reached for comment.

First degree criminal sexual conduct carries a possible life sentence in Michigan. Second degree criminal sexual conduct is punishable by up to 15 years in prison.

Township police Captain Philip Presnell said an investigation of Broad began March 9 after the department received information from one of the victims.

"We know of at least two victims right now," Presnell said. "We haven't yet determined if there are any more."

Presnell said the incidents took place at a home on Queen Anne Court. A search warrant was served at the home March 10 in reference to the first degree criminal sexual assault investigation. Presnell would not go into specifics, but did say sexual devices and other evidence were secured from the location which resulted in Broad's arrest.

"The various things we got on the search warrant helped prove our case," he said.

Due to privacy reasons, Presnell would only say Broad sexually penetrated the girls, and also touched Child-molestation suspect David Broad was employed as a latch-key aide at Silver Springs Elementary School in Northville.

Law will require schools to screen job applicants

By MICHELLE KAISER
Staff Writer

A new state law requiring criminal background checks on potential public school district employees is good, but not without its loopholes, according to one local school official.

The law, which will take effect July 1, still would not have alerted Northville officials to David Thomas Broad, a latch-key aide recently arrested on charges of criminal sexual conduct, because Broad had no prior criminal record.

David Bolitho, assistant superintendent for administrative services for Northville Public Schools, said timeliness was another disadvantage of the new law.

"It's a good law; like some other laws it has a good idea process," Bolitho said. "But there's potentially a long wait before we could offer somebody employment."

The school district would have to obtain a set of fingerprints from the potential employee.

"If we're going to start looking at our local and state police to do this they've suffered the same kinds of cutbacks as most other public entities," he said. "That could mean a significant delay."

Some school districts have purchased their own fingerprinting machines and deliver the prints to the state police crime lab themselves. Bolitho said Northville is currently considering purchasing such a machine.

"The question then is who incurs the $15 charge, the employee that is selected or does the district allocate money for that?" Bolitho asked.

Some time could be saved, however, if the potential employee has already worked for a school district in the state and has "clearance" to teach.

The law will also require prosecuting attorneys to contact school districts within their county if a school district employee is convicted of a felony.

Unfortunately, the law doesn't go beyond state borders, Bolitho said, unless that state has such a screening law too.

Northville will test the new screening policy before the July 1 effective date with its latest new hire, a high school counselor.

Task force seeks input on issue of drug abuse

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

Members of the recently-convened Community Task Force on Alcohol and Drug Awareness have come up with dozens of potential solutions to the community's drug problem.

Now the task force wants to whittle down the number further and implement the most popular ideas.

With that aim in mind, the task force is seeking help from local residents in the form of a survey that lists the top 12 proposals from a Feb. 10 brainstorming session and asks those surveyed to choose their top three favorites.

The survey request follows a crowded Feb. 10 inaugural meeting of the Community Task Force on Alcohol and Drug Awareness, at which dozens of concerned Northville community leaders, church representatives, educators, parents and students listed factors contributing to Northville's drug problem and potential remedies. The meeting, at Genittis' Samuel H. Little Theater, was coordinated by John Farrar of the Community Commission on Drug Abuse (CCODA). The 34 proposed solutions were whittled down to 12 through a survey sent to task force participants.

"The number one idea was establishing a youth club or teen center," noted CCODA Prevention Network Coordinator Jacque Martin-Downs. "There were some really excited community people who wanted to do this, perhaps using the old Hardee's Restaurant building."

Other popular ideas included increasing the number of activities offered by Northville Parks and Recreation and setting up a youth coordinator position to schedule drug-free events.

The task force meeting brought together a diverse group of people interested in reducing drug and alcohol abuse. The group that stands to feel the greatest impact from proposed solutions, local teenagers, also had their say at the meeting itself and while filling out the preliminary survey.

COMMUNITY TASK FORCE BALLOT

What sort of drug and alcohol awareness projects would you like to see the Northville community undertake this year?

Vote for only your three favorites:

- ☐ 1. Establish a Youth Club or Teen Center
- ☐ 2. Enhance activities through the recreation department.
- ☐ 3. Establish a Prevention Network Newsletter for all parents of school-aged students.
- ☐ 4. Teach 'RESPECT' and 'CHOICES/CONSEQUENCES' units to all students.
- ☐ 5. Establish a COMMUNITY YOUTH COORDINATOR (to provide more activities for kids/teens).
- ☐ 6. Develop a Youth Forum or Task Force.
- ☐ 7. Provide student-created workshops at the high school, middle school and elementary school.
- ☐ 8. Organize a student-designed campaign on: Responsibility, Choice-making and Consequences.
- ☐ 9. Gain better knowledge of substance abuse through student assemblies
- ☐ 10. Have more workshops for parents.
- ☐ 11. Enhance city-wide transportation for students.
- ☐ 12. Organize peer resistance programs for parents.

said 'Everything is done to us, not with us'... which is a good point," Martin-Downs said.

Local churches also sent several representatives to the task force meeting. "They would like to work more cooperatively with the school district and the community," she said, "and this might be one way to start."

Martin-Downs noted that surrounding communities already have similar programs in place.

Drug awareness task forces have been or are being established in Livonia, Westland, Plymouth, Canton and Garden City, she said.

The Livonia YMCA offers a "plethora" of programs, she added, including Alcoholics Anonymous and Alateen meetings.

"Hopefully, by pulling all this together some of the same ideas can be utilized from city to city," she said.

Northville Public School officials maintain no incidents of criminal sexual conduct took place at the school while David Thomas Broad was in their employ.

Broad, who worked as a latch-key aide for Silver Springs Kids Club, was arrested earlier this month on charges of criminal sexual conduct.

"There was nothing that would have indicated there was a cause of concern for us," said Superintendent Leonard Rezmierski.

Broad, however, had been advised about appearances following an incident regarding a child sitting in his lap, he said.

"He had been counseled by staff to watch his behavior because someone had been seen sitting in his lap, but we had no reason to believe he did anything wrong while in our employ," Rezmierski said.

Broad was hired by the district in September 1991.

Qualifications for a latch-key aide include the following: the applicant must be at least 18, have a high school diploma, be experienced in working with young children and exhibit a willingness to accept feedback from the Early Childhood specialist and head instructors.

According to the 1992-93 staff handbook of Northville's Early Childhood Center, duties of a child care aide include:

- Interacting with children in a warm and supportive manner.
- Learning and using positive guidance techniques.
- Guiding children in their interactions with others.
- Supervising activities as directed by the head instructor (including meal times, toileting, napping, dressing, free play areas, small groups and outdoor play).

- Attending all staff meetings.
- Assisting in classroom and center maintenance/cleaning, organizing materials, sorting art work, etc.
- Reporting to the head instructor any classroom problem, injury to a child, observations regarding the children or classroom and parent inquiries or other concerns.
- Participating in parent involvement activities.
- Being aware of all center policies and procedures.
- Being aware of all Department of Social Services rules and regulations for child care centers as well as Child Protection laws.

Latch-key aides are directly responsible to the head instructors of the Early Childhood Center and have a probationary period of 120 days.

Also included in the handbook is a page-and-a-half policy regarding physical contact with children. Although it encourages aides to communicate warmth and caring for children in a variety of ways, such as getting down to eye level, maintaining eye contact, participating in activities with the children and initiating conversations of interest to the child, it does warn about the use of touch.

While it's all right to lift a child so he or she can use the water fountain, put an arm around a child who has suffered a mishap, pat someone on the back or hold a hand while walking down steps, the policy does cau-

Rotisserie deadline approaches

This week is your last chance to enter a team for Northville Public Library's third Fantasy Baseball season. The program is a simplified version of the very popular Rotisserie-style leagues which are active nationwide. Participants of any age or gender fill their team roster with Major League players who they feel will perform well during the coming season.

The deadline for enrollment is April 1, after which "General Managers" need only sit back and await the results. Six-team divisions will be formed so that everyone has a good chance to win. The action begins on opening day and will continue until the All Star break. Standings will be updated and posted in the library each week.

If interested, ask for an instruction/entry form and return it to the library by the April 1 deadline. For more information visit the library or call 349-3020.

Cooke instructor goes on dream research outing

By MICHELLE KAISER
Staff Writer

Tim Lutes thought it was the chance of a lifetime when he was offered the opportunity to ride the Laurentian, a University of Michigan Great Lakes research vessel.

Lutes, a science teacher at Cooke Middle School, learned about the Michigan Science Teachers Association (MSTA) sponsored expedition, called the Thunder Bay project, via Cooke colleague Dwight Siegreen, president of the association.

"How often do people get to sail into port next to a freighter?" Lutes asked. "How often does a person get to go under the Mackinaw Bridge?"

Lutes said his summer adventure was certainly worth putting up with quick meals and narrow bunk beds during the five days of the work and study cruise. The research vessel left Grand Haven for its destination of Alpena last July, where Lutes and seven teachers joined another 23 science teachers for an in-service project at Thunder Bay.

Lutes cited a couple of reasons why he decided to send in his application to ride the Laurentian. The trip would not only return him to his native city of Alpena, but Lutes would also have the chance to watch research scientists at work.

"They [researchers] were up until two in the morning sometimes to collect specimens because the particular type of specimens they were looking for were out at that time," Lutes said.

But the work didn't stop after the specimen collection. The research just began at that point, according to Lutes.

"Being a research scientist is not sitting in a lab working eight to five," he said.

During their voyage, the teachers were also expected to participate in 12 testing procedures performed at "stations," predesignated spots developed over the years. At these stations, teachers and scientists tested surface water temperatures, water clarity and quality, and plant and animal matter.

"It was somewhat like a battle stations drill," Lutes laughed.

Piquing Lutes' interest was the research done by one of the graduate students aboard. He was studying contamination at the bottom of the food chain by collecting minute fresh water shrimp. These shrimp, Lutes said, were microscopic, transparent and weighed a fraction of an ounce.

Lutes was also excited when the research vessel made a new discovery of a sunken vessel. The crew was demonstrating a side scan sonar, when it picked up the outline of a barge-type freighter.

"It was amazing how clear it was," Lutes said of the sonar screen. "The mast was up and some of the riggers were still up."

Further investigation revealed the freighter went down sometime during the mid 1800s while being towed during a Great Lakes storm.

When the Laurentian reached its destination in late July, it was time for the Thunder Bay portion of the trip. Sponsored by the MSTA and Kellogg Foundation, the in-service project allowed teachers to search for fossils, study geology and marvel at area sink holes.

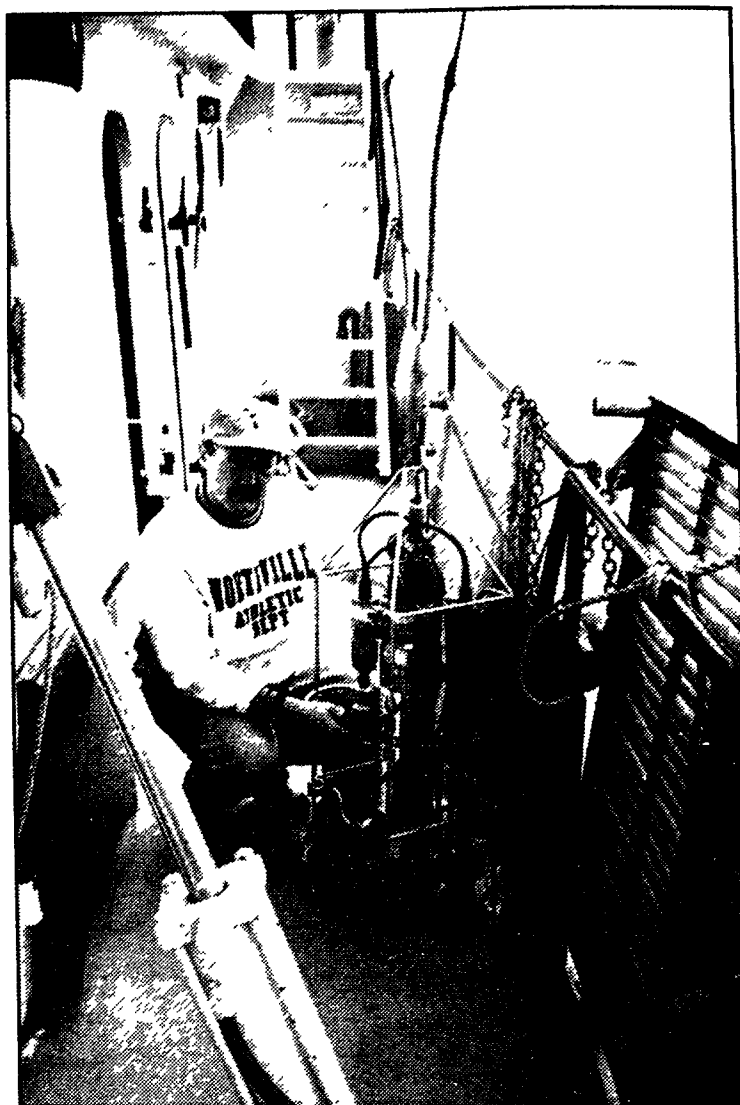

"No one has ever figured out what causes the sink holes," Lutes said. He viewed two which had a depth of 120 to 130 feet.

The science teacher said he uses his summer experiences as a teaching tool in the classroom. He's shared stories and pictures of his trip with students.

"This is the real world," Lutes said, looking over his photos. "I try to bring that lesson back to the kids."

Although his first teaching job was at Midland High School in 1970, it wasn't until 1981, three years into his career at Northville, that Lutes began teaching science.

"I like teaching science because it's changed so much," he said.

Northville science teacher Tim Lutes took part in studies on Lakes Michigan and Huron.

"There's always something new — it seems like there are new discoveries all the time. I find that exciting and the kids find that exciting."

Lutes said he believes this year's Thunder Bay project will be more popular because the secret is out.

"There's little known about (Alpena)," Lutes said. "People didn't know how much was up there... it's a fantastic area for geologists."

Lutes said any teacher interested in participating in the Thunder Bay project should contact him for an application. This year, the trip will focus primarily on elementary teachers.

"I would highly recommend to any of the elementary teachers who have an interest to pick up an application," Lutes said.

High school to stage nostalgic musical 'Grease'

Grease, the '50s rock-n-roll musical, will be strolling into the Northville High School auditorium on April 1 for four "hand-jivin'" performances.

With the jitterbug and the pony as only a couple of the dances, Grease will take show-goers back to the memorable days of the late 1950s. The audience will relive a few precious hours, not with the typical students of the day, but with a gang of greasers, the Burger Palace Boys, and their girls, the Pink Ladies.

The production does not the audience from the rather crude and raunchy language or the sometimes vulgar gestures used by this very unique group of historic teenagers. Audience members will laugh with them in their joy and maybe even shed a tear or two with them in their pain and frustration. But throughout the nostalgic journey, there will be toe-tapping to the rock 'n' roll beat.

Due to the nature of the language and the gestures used, this production may not be suitable for younger children. What would greasers be without their beer and cigarettes? Sure, these kids had their faults, but they had feeling, too. Their values and morals may have been different, but they had a certain charm.

Loosely following the on-again, off-again romance of Sandy, played by Stacey Nield, and Danny, portrayed by Marc Van Soest, Grease features the Burger Palace Boys: Gabe Sievert, Mike Tinker, Waldo Galan and Rob Sullivan. Portraying the Pink Ladies are Christina Lombardo, Kelly Garry, Angie Putman and Valerie Bassin. Others in the cast include Greg Raby, Katy Murphy, Justin Schlanser, Faye Stevenson, Steve Van Duzen, Joe Lang, Chris Datillo, Alicia Gustaf, Dean Freilich, Laura Genittl, Julie Romine, Christy Jarrett and Tracy Stachura.

Many students are now working behind the scenes to build the puzzle-like sets consisting of numerous moving platforms, wagons and stair units. While some students practice to play in the rock band, others paint billboards, hang lights and work on costumes and make-up.

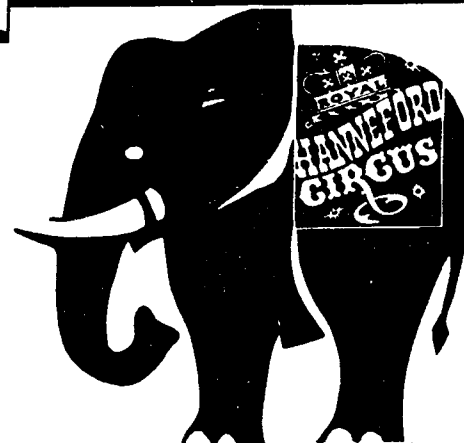

The stage director for Grease is Gary E. Sturm, assisted by Jeni Workman, with choreography by Elaine Buck. The vocal music director is Mary Kay Pryce and the band is under the direction of Mike Rumbell. The costumer is Prudy Chaffin.

Performances are April 1, 2 and 3 at 8 p.m. A Sunday matinee is scheduled for 3 p.m., April 4. Tickets may be purchased in advance at the auditorium box office or by phone, 344-8420, between 2 and 3 p.m. weekdays.

Police look for clues in two auto parts thefts

Township police investigated two incidents where auto parts were taken March 23.

In the first reported theft, the hubcaps were removed between 4 and 8 p.m. from a 1993 Mazda parked on Iron Gate. Value of the hubcaps is $204.

Police also investigated an incident on West Seven Mile Road where somebody stole four wheelcovers from a 1987 Ford Aerostar. The theft occurred between 5:30-9:45 p.m. Estimated loss is $200.

WALKAWAY RECOVERED: City police recovered a patient from Northville Regional Psychiatric Hospital on unauthorized leave March 25. The 25-year-old Inkster man was walking west on Eight Mile at Col-dapping just after noon, waving his arms and talking to himself when he was spotted by a city police officer. He admitted that he walked away from the hospital and city police stayed with him until he was picked up by hospital security.

DRUNKEN DRIVING ARREST: City police arrested a 23-year-old Northville woman for driving under the influence March 22. The woman was seen speeding east on Beal and rolling through the stop sign on South Main just before 10 p.m. when she was stopped.

The woman failed field sobriety tests and was arrested. Police measured her blood alcohol level at .13 percent, and held her until she sobered up. She was released at 5 a.m. the next day after posting $90 in bond.

NO INJURIES IN ACCIDENT: Two area women were unhurt following a two-car accident at Seven Mile and Silver Springs last Monday afternoon. A Novi woman reportedly turned in front of a 1992 Honda being driven westbound on Seven Mile by a Northville woman. The Novi woman was issued a citation for failure to yield.

STEREO STOLEN: A compact disc stereo and several compact discs were stolen from a 1988 Chevrolet pickup last Wednesday. The thief gained entry to the truck, parked on Northville Place Drive, by smashing the passenger's side window, reports stated. Loss is estimated at $480 while damage totals $200.

WARRANT ARRESTS: City police stopped a 21-year-old Detroit man for driving with an expired license plate just before midnight March 24, at Eight Mile and North Center. A computer check turned up a warrant for the man's arrest, for improper plates. The tab on the man's license was also wrong, and may have been stolen.

The driver was arrested and turned over to Detroit police.

A passenger in the car, a 20-year-old Detroit man, also had a warrant for his arrest, for a previous incident of driving without an operator's license. He was arrested and released after posting a $40 bond.

FENDER BENDER: A 34-year-old Adrian man was charged with driving left of center after hitting another car at Grace and Hill March 25. The man was turning from eastbound Grace south onto Hill when he hit the other car, which was heading north and stopped at the intersection. Neither driver was injured and neither car had to be towed.

Citizens with information about the above incidents are urged to call Northville City Police at 349-1234 or Northville Township Police at 349-9400.

Experts say signs can help identify cases of sexual abuse in children

By STEVE KELLMAN
and CRISTINA FERRIER
Staff Writers

It's every parent's nightmare.

The recent arraignment of a former Northville school employee on multiple charges of child sexual abuse is bound to raise some troubling questions in local parents' minds. For instance, how would you know if your own child had been molested? And how should you talk with your children about the possibility?

Therapists have identified several types of behavior as red flags of potential sexual abuse, although these behaviors do not necessarily mean that a child has been abused.

Joyce Wright, communication director for HAVEN—a Pontiac shelter for women and children who are victims of abuse—said parents should look for a combination of clues before jumping to conclusions. And if a parent recognizes signs listed here that have been a normal part of that particular child's behavior, she said, "it often is not a sign at all."

Among preschool age children, Wright said, signals of possible abuse include:

- Fear of the dark or of sleeping alone after the child had already become accustomed to it.
- Inability to sleep, nightmares, or taking too long to fall asleep.
- Resistance to being with a particular person.

■ Unusual touching by the child of his or her own genital areas.

"We're not talking about normal exploration here," Wright cautioned. "This would be something noticeable, whereas a child's normal explorations would usually take place in private."

■ Sexual acting-out beyond the child's normal development.

"If you have a little one who talks about oral sex, for example, that could be a signal of abuse," Wright said.

■ Overeating or undereating, only if it is a change from the child's normal behavior.

■ Playing with dolls or toys in a sexually suggestive manner.

"Kids will play with and touch their dolls in the ways that they have been touched," Wright explained.

■ Bruising on the genital or inner thigh areas.

There is another set of signals that could be applied to older, school age children. Among those are:

- A regression to bedwetting.
- A sudden change in behavior to either very aggressive actions or withdrawal, Wright said, "or constant crying for what appears to be no reason."
- Problems in school, such as a drop in academic performance, or behavior problems that never existed before.
- Unexplained expressions of guilt, shame, fear or anxiety.

Wright said parents who are concerned that their child may have been a victim of sexual molestation should approach the subject with great care.

"Don't come out and say that you suspect sexual abuse, and don't ask right away if the child was sexually abused," she said.

She suggested that parents start out with a nonjudgmental question such as "You seem to be awfully upset about something: is anything bothering you?"

"If it's an older child, you can ask if they've heard about what's going on with this person, and if so did they have anything that they wanted to talk about, about this person. One of the terms you can use is 'Did something you weren't comfortable with happen with this person?'"

If the child starts to disclose anything, parents should call the police and let the police take over the investigation from that point.

Johns also urged parents to consider the child's state of mind after potential abuse. Children often harbor feelings of guilt and shame following such incidents, and may even blame themselves.

"It's important if you're talking to kids to let them know that anything that might have happened would not be their fault, and try and take that fear away," Johns said.

"Let them know it's OK to tell."

Younger children may need to be asked more direct questions since they cannot understand what a parent is asking, Johns added.

Don't panic when abuse is suspected

By SHARON CONDRON

Stay calm, resist the temptation to ask leading questions and provide reinforcement.

Those are the suggestions school social workers and district administrators offer parents who will be attending Wednesday night's meeting.

Northville Township Police are holding an informational meeting this week to update parents on the investigation of a former Northville Public School employee who allegedly sexually assaulted two 8-year-old girls.

Twenty-four year old David Broad, a former aide in the district's latch key program, had been charged with four counts of criminal sexual conduct in the first degree and two counts of criminal sexual conduct in the second degree. He pleaded innocent and posted bond.

Last week Northville Township police mailed letters to the parents of the children who attended the district's after school child care program during September 1991 and May 1992. Broad's tenure there. The letter asked parents to come to the meeting to learn about the investigation and find out how to talk their children about sexual abuse.

Even though the alleged incident happened off school grounds a year after Broad was fired from the district, school officials are eager to do what they can to help ease parents' fears and anxieties.

In response to the case, school social workers and administrators have deployed their crisis intervention team and will be at the meeting to offer parents practical advice on how to deal with the situation at home.

School social worker Sue Borchert said the most important thing parents can do is remain calm.

"Don't over-react," Borchert said. "Maintain control of yourself. You can react later after you've talked with the child," Borchert said.

Borchert said parents need to be able to talk calmly with their children and reinforce the idea of talking openly.

She also advises parents to not ask their children leading questions or jump blindly right into the subject.

"Begin the conversation without any questions," she said. "Talk first about strangers and have a child respond or react to a hypothetical situation," she said. "Ask the child how he or she would react to a specific situation."

Borchert and Early Childhood Specialist Mary Kay Gallagher are in agreement that the best way to handle the situation is to first make the child feel secure. Then they say it's best for parents to talk calmly with children at a time that's usually reserved for regular family discussion. It's really important, Gallagher said, to not upset the regular routine by introducing the subject at an awkward time.

Gallagher also said it's best that parents reinforce the action the two girls took in the alleged offense.

"It's important that the parents involved reinforce the idea that the children did the right thing by telling an adult and calling the police," she said. "And always remind them that it is never their fault."

Gallagher and Borchert both contend there are few overt signs a child displays when he or she is the victim of sexual abuse. But they did tell parents to keep a close eye on their children and look for changes in behavior. They cautioned parents about overt signs and changes in behavior because such indicators can be misleading.

"I'm not even sure we can say there are changes in some children," Borchert said. "You just have to listen."

School officials will have information available at the administration building for parents interested in reading up on practical tips for coping with sexual abuse incidents. Gallagher and other school officials will also be available by phone to parents who have additional questions.

Ex-school aide charged with sex abuse

"Preliminary knowledge tells us the events took place over the past year at several different times," Presnell said. "One of the latest incidents was on the 9th (of March)."

An arrest warrant on Broad was issued March 12.

"From the evidence we secured and for the welfare of the public, we arrested him on probable cause," Presnell said.

Broad was employed as a latch-key aide by Northville Public Schools for the Silver Springs Elementary Kid's Club from September 1991 to May 1992.

Assistant Superintendent for Administrative Services David Bolitho said Broad was discharged from his position for failing to improve in areas cited during his probationary evaluation. He also said there was one incident of insubordination, but he declined to give specifics. He said school officials are providing the police department with information that might be pertinent to the investigation.

According to Presnell, the township police department has sent out letters to 101 families whose children might have been in contact with Broad during his period of employment with the school district.

"We're concerned," he said. "We're continuing our investigation. We want to provide additional support services... That's our paramount responsibility to township residents."

The captain said all the parents are being asked to attend an informational meeting at 7 p.m. Wednesday in the township hall. In addition to Presnell, a representative of the school district and the department psychologist will be on hand to answer questions.

"We're trying to set the parents at ease and make sure it doesn't get blown out of proportion," Presnell said.

Anyone with information regarding these or other incidents is asked to call the township detective's bureau, 349-9400.

Cops catch robbery suspect

A 23-year-old Detroit man was arraigned on a charge of armed robbery in 35th District Court last week.

James Milton Ashford was arrested by Northville Township police last Tuesday following an incident at the Haggerty Road Meijer store. Ashford reportedly took an electronics device from the store and fled eastbound through the store parking lot. While being pursued by Meijer employees, Ashford threatened he had a firearm in his coat, according to reports.

Ashford was arrested at the Hampton Inn.

Residents should pay for road treatments

A roads committee has recommended Northville Township reinstate its calcium chloride treatments for the 13.2 miles of dirt roads in the township. The five-yearly treatments would cost $40,000. Because there are no monies earmarked for the program, funds would have to be drawn from the township's projected budget surplus. The surplus is expected to exceed last year's balance of $220,000.

Residents whose homes front onto dirt roads have had to put up with frequent dust clouds since the township discontinued its treatment program, and it is certainly easy to sympathize with the discomfort this has caused. The treatments help pack the dirt down and minimize the haze.

However, it seems patently unfair to ask taxpayers who purchased homes on paved streets to help pay for the problems that residents who live in other parts of the township might experience. House shoppers, before making their purchases, ought to know the disadvantages of buying properties on dirt roads. Many of them buy real estate with dirt road frontages because such areas tend to be less heavily traveled and have less traffic flow. Unfortunately, as with most things, certain drawbacks accompany the positive features and residents must learn to take the bad with the good.

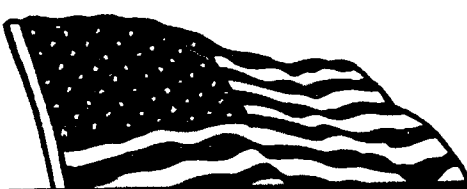

A more equitable way of providing this service to dirt road residents would be through the establishment of special assessment districts. Under such designa-

Meeting will be forum for talk on tough issue

The Northville Township Police Department should be commended for its work in trying to inform parents about the circumstances of an alleged criminal sexual conduct case.

A local man who was formerly an aide in the school district's latch-key program has been charged with several serious official misconduct offenses and police officials are attempting to determine if any of the children who had been in the suspect's care might have information that could lead to additional charges.

The task is a big one. All the names of the children in the man's care had to be identified so that informational letters could be sent out to parents. One hundred and one families had children who were involved. A meeting was then arranged to discuss the situation and take input from parents whose children faced possible danger.

tions, residents in the affected areas are charged for the cost of special services through a billing procedure in which charges are added to property tax notices. Special assessment districts are usually used to finance infrastructure improvements such as road paving projects, and road treatments fit nicely into this same category.

It is too late now to get a special assessment district in place to finance a treatment program for this year, and if township officials are able to find the money to pay for calcium chloride applications in the general fund surplus they should agree to pick up the tab — for this fiscal year only. But they should then set to work to get a special assessment district in place so that, beginning next year, dirt road residents can pay for the improvements they have been vocal in pressing for.

The burden of paying for road treatments should not be distributed township-wide through the use of general fund tax revenues. There is no reason why taxpayers who bought homes on paved roads should have to pay to correct the problems that dirt road residents knew they were getting into when they chose their locations.

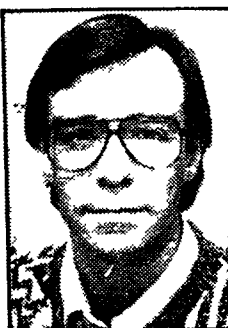

The meeting will be held Wednesday at 7 p.m. in the board room at township hall. Representatives of the police department, including the staff psychologist, will be in attendance, as will officials from the Northville school district.

The meeting should provide a safe and open forum for a frank discussion of this most sensitive of issues. The presence of a large group of people who share a common concern can help individuals open up and feel more comfortable talking about what is often treated as a taboo subject.

Hopefully, no tales of abuse will come out, but that won't be known until Wednesday. If a mass meeting such as this hadn't been called, children and adults might never have the courage to face the issue head-on.

Mike Malott

These two stick together

Brothers and sisters are supposed to fight, aren't they? I know I did with my sister when I was growing up. I think we had our first congenial conversation when I was about 32.

But not my kids. Charlie, now 1, and Samantha, who just turned 5, are the best of pals. Oh sure, there are the occasional spats over toys when the two play together, but overall they're almost inseparable.

I realized that they got along pretty well, but I didn't realize just how much until this past Friday when the three of us headed off to Twelve Oaks Mall for the opening of its special Disney Toontown weekend.

"There's a rumor that Twelve Oaks has mice," was the way Elaine Kah, director of marketing, and Phil Morosco, general manager, had worded their announcement of a special Breakfast with Mickey event at Ruby Tuesday's to kick the weekend off. When I heard about it, I figured I'd just have to take Sam. She's a big fan of cartoons in general, and of Mickey and Minnie Mouse in particular.

I didn't think Charlie was old enough to get much from it. I also thought Sam would revel in the idea of having Dad to herself for a special outing one morning.

Sam was quick to straighten me out on that score. She informed me that Charlie did indeed know who Mickey Mouse was and that he'd like to have breakfast with Mickey. Sam stuck up for Charlie.

It was quite nice too. I'd never been to Ruby Tuesday's before, but they put on a heck of a breakfast, all graciously served up by waiter Paul Colone. Paul's service went far beyond what you would usually expect. I'll readily admit that dads just don't have quite as many kid-handling skills and moms seem to . . . at least this one doesn't. So it was Paul who made sure Sam's balloon was tightly tied around her wrist when my hands were too full of Charlie to do that job.

As you'd expect, Mickey and Minnie were the hit of the morning. Sam had drawn a picture of Mickey to give to him. She wanted to know if he remembered her from when they had met before at during the 15th anniversary celebrations for Twelve Oaks. Mickey said he did.

Chip and Dale were there too. And that thrilled Sam to no end. Do you know how to tell Chip and Dale apart? Chip's nose is black. Dale's is brown. I hadn't exactly lost sleep over that question, but I never realized it either until Friday. Sam of course knew right off which was which.

The first thing she had to do when she saw Chip was run up and get a big hug. And that's when Charlie — who had been contented to just watch all the goings-on and occasionally smile at those around him — let out a terrified wail. He continued to cry anytime Chip got close to either him or Sam.

I was baffled at first. This is the 1-year-old who eagerly grabs hold of our family cats and enjoys sloppy kisses from our dogs, yet he wouldn't let this cartoon chipmunk to get close at all.

Later I figured out why. I guess you or I would have been frightened too if we'd just watched a six-foot tall rodent run up and grab ahold, with both arms, our best buddy. Charlie was sticking up for Sam too.

Award illustrates our ideals

One of the advantages to having to write my column in Howell is that Mike Malott and Lee Snider, the editors back in Novi and Northville respectively, rarely have an opportunity to censor it before it appears in the paper.

I'm sure if Malott were to see the one I'm about to write before it's published, he'd do his best to convince me to write about something else.

Because I'm going to write about him.

The object is not to embarrass him, however. The object is to hopefully provide some insight into the values which this company holds near and dear.

Malott, whose official title is managing editor of The Novi News and The Northville Record, was selected to receive HomeTown Newspapers' prestigious Journalist of the Year (JOY) Award at our annual employee recognition dinner last Thursday.

The award is given annually to the member of the editorial department who best exemplifies the ideals that our papers stand for.

Needless to say, it's a prestigious award. The winner of the first JOY Award back in 1983 was Rich Perlberg, now General Manager of HomeTown Newspapers.

Over the years, other JOY winners from the Novi/Northville office have included Northville Editor Jean Day, Novi and Northville Photographer Chris Boyd (now head of our graphics department) and former Novi Reporter and Northville Editor Ann Willis.

Malott was selected by the general manager and executive editor to receive this year's JOY Award.

The reason? He embodies a lot of the ideals which we believe are essential to running a hometown newspaper.

Malott joined HomeTown Newspapers three years ago. After a relatively short stay in the South Lyon/Milford office, he moved to the Northville/Novi office as managing editor.

I like to believe that he has carried on a tradition stretching back to the Bill Sliger/Jack Hoffman days for thought-provoking, hard-hitting newspapers that are not hesitant to dive head first into the toughest issues.

But putting out locally-relevant newspapers with strong editorial pages is only one of our expectations.

We also strongly encourage all our editorial people, and particularly our editors, to be active in their respective communities.

We want people who care deeply about the communities they serve and are willing to stand up and provide direction on the issues affecting those communities. We want stakeholders . . . agenda-setters.

During the past year in particular, Malott has increasingly filled that bill. We are extremely proud that he has been elected to the Novi Chamber of Commerce's board of directors, and that he is actively involved in helping set the agenda for that organization.

I tend to think about Bill Sliger, our former owner, when I think about the ideal community journalist . . . the ideal for the JOY Award. He was a man who lived in the community, cared deeply about the community and was intimately involved in working to improve the community.

Sliger also was a man who covered city council for 19 years without ever missing a meeting. As a result, he probably knew more about the community than the city manager, mayor or any city council member.

Malott hasn't been around that long yet. You don't pick up 19 years of knowledge about one community overnight. But he's headed in the right direction. And that's encouraging.

Intergovernmental meeting to focus on avoiding duplication

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

A joint meeting intended to forge tighter bonds of communication among Northville's three governmental entities could tie the two of the three even closer together if a local business group's idea is considered.

Laurie Marrs, executive director of the Northville Community Chamber of Commerce, plans to use Tuesday's meeting among city, township, school and business leaders as a forum to propose combining city and township governments.

"In the past, we have viewed this as two distinct communities," Marrs said. "I have not, but some do."

Marrs suggested that the Northville community consider combining city and township municipal offices or functions, to result in a more cost-effective and efficient organization.

"Before the Ford Plant is sold, maybe we should take this radical approach and start considering it," she said.

She noted that there is some precedent for combining municipal services in Northville, and referred to a five-municipality joint task force that is now considering combining Northville, Plymouth and Canton police services.

"We already have some shared services . . . (and) we're getting closer and closer to shared services with police and fire," she said.

The chamber's "radical approach" is just one item on the agenda for Tuesday's joint meeting, scheduled for 7 p.m. in the cafeteria at Cooke Middle School. City officials plan to discuss progress made by the five-municipality task force, review the status of a proposed district library and update other officials on the potential drug prevention projects compiled by the recently convened Community Task Force on Drug and Alcohol Awareness.

Township heads hope to share an update on the sale of Wayne County land and the construction and reconstruction of a recreational facility on Beck Road and Fish Hatchery Park.

Issues facing the schools include recent state tax reform proposals, strategic planning efforts and the future of public education.

The meeting is open to the public.

tion against other uses of touch. Shaking, grabbing, pinching and squeezing are prohibited.

The policy also reads: "In general, staff members should refrain from allowing children to sit on their laps. Alternatives include having children sit next to, or in front of the adult. This can easily be explained to a child by saying, 'you may sit next to me rather than on my lap. I need to be able to get up quickly if someone needs my help.'"

Anyone found in violation of the policy faces disciplinary action, including discharge.

Broad was discharged in May of last year for two reasons, according to David Bolitho, assistant superintendent for administrative services. He did not respond properly to an insubordinate act for which he was cited, according to Bolitho, who would not say what the insubordination was.

Township to look for a way to pay for road treatments

By SHARON CONDRON
Staff Writer

Relief may be in sight for dirt road residents with the summertime dust blues.

A newly-appointed township roads committee is asking the Northville Township Board of Trustees to restore funding for bi-annual calcium chloride treatments for all unpaved roads in town.

Township Supervisor Karen Baja said she was backing the committee's Wednesday night recommendation and would draft the letter to the board asking for the $40,000 allocation.

On behalf of the committee, Baja will draft the letter and present it to the board at its April 8 meeting.

The $40,000 estimate should cover the costs of treating 13.2 miles of dirt roads twice annually, Baja said.

"I'm going to recommend we allocate $40,000," she said. "But this is all iffy and it really depends on what's in the budget."

And what's in the budget remains to be seen. Township Finance Director Dwayne Harrigan said Friday there is no money in the budget right now for road treatments because the line item had been dropped from the budget last year as a cost saving measure.

"We have no money in the budget right now for road treatments," Harrigan said.

Harrigan said if the board wanted to restore road treatments, funding for them would have to come from the township's fund balance. On Friday, Harrigan said he couldn't give an exact figure on the township's fund balance because he was right in the middle of finishing the annual audit.

"It would have to come from the fund balance, but right now I can't tell you exactly what our fund balance is," he said. "I'll have a better idea when the audit's done next week."

Harrigan said even though he couldn't put a dollar figure on the fund balance, he did expect it to be a tad higher than last year's $220,000 surplus.

The fund balance was $220,000 at the beginning of 1992," he said. "It will be higher than that."

Harrigan said Baja's $40,000 estimate for bi-annual treatments was in line with what the township paid for a single road treatment in 1992.

Last year under pressure from dirt road residents the former township board paid $15,855 for a one-time, single application for all dirt roads. Baja's estimate is more than double what the township actually paid for a single road treatment.

Supervisor hounded by cameras after her story appears in print

By SHARON CONDRON
Staff Writer

These days Township Supervisor Karen Baja isn't sure who's stalking her.

For months, Baja has been the source of someone's harassment, but last week the supervisor says local broadcasters were in hot pursuit of her.

Network newscasters from channels 2, 4 and 7 got wind of Baja's harassment problems from a Detroit News article that had run on the front of the Metro section in Tuesday's newspaper.

The article recapped an earlier Northville Record story that referenced harassment problems Baja's been having since announcing her candidacy for the township's top seat last year. Baja's problems range from repeated harassing phone calls and threatening notes to a prowler on her property last month.

On Tuesday, reporters and camera crews from the three local network news stations combed township hall hoping to catch Baja on camera or get township employees to comment on the situation.

That didn't happen for reporters at channels 4 and 7 since Baja had been out of the office all day at a conference in Ann Arbor. But it did for one resourceful reporter at Channel 2.

Baja said a reporter from Channel 2 managed to persuade someone at township hall to tell station representatives where she was that day. The reporter and camera crew then jumped into their car and drove to a conference site in Ann Arbor. There they had her paged.

"They all tried to get a hold of me on Tuesday," she said. "And one creative reporter did."

Baja said when her conference was interrupted, the keynote speaker stopped and asked Baja to step outside into a lobby. Outside the auditorium, a Channel 2 reporter thrust a microphone and camera light into Baja's face and began grilling her about the harassment complaints.

"They tricked the staff into telling them where I was," Baja said Thursday. "Reporters from Channel 2 misled some of the staff here and tricked them into telling them where I was at."

The supervisor said she wasn't angry about the broadcasters' relentless pursuit but did say she was puzzled by it.

"I didn't really understand it and I told them there were no new developments in the case (since The Record's article)," she said. "We don't have a single suspect or a single piece of new evidence . . ."

"On Tuesday I had 15 phone messages from radio and television stations," she said. "Tuesday I was news, but Wednesday nobody wanted to talk to me," she said jokingly about all the attention.

After the encounter in Ann Arbor, Channel 2 returned to township hall to tape scenes of Baja's office. Another network also filmed Baja's home in Northville Township.

"They even went as far as filming my home without permission," Baja said.

Baja said she's had mixed reactions to telling her story to the press. When the subject first appeared in the Record almost three weeks ago she said the number of harassing phone calls increased for two days after the story ran.

Michigan's Best Community Newspaper . . . Again

That's right, again. For the second consecutive year the Michigan Press Association bestowed its prestigious 'Michigan's Best' Award on the Northville Record in its 1992 Better Newspaper Contest. (For weekly newspapers with 5,000 to 15,000 circulation). And we're even prouder to be a two-time winner of the 'Michigan's Best' award than we were the first time we received the honor in the 1991 Better Newspaper Contest. And here's another thing that hasn't changed. Our greatest satisfaction continues to come from being an integral part of the Northville community . . . giving you the type of newspaper you want and need. In other words, we're proud to be your hometown paper.

It's not as hard as you think to start eating right

It's National Nutrition Month, and a change to healthy eating may be easier than you think. Many people think making changes in their eating habits is complicated or time consuming. That does not have to be true. One important step toward healthier eating means eating less fat.

A diet high in saturated fat is often associated with heart disease.

Florine Mark
Weight Watchers

Leading health organizations, like the National Cancer Institute and the American Heart Association, recommend limiting fat in the diet as an important step to take for healthy eating. Excess fat has been linked to the development of some forms of cancer and obesity. Also, a diet high in saturated fat is often associated with heart disease. Eating less fat is one of the changes to make if you're concerned about your weight.

Once for ounce, fat has about twice as many calories as proteins or carbohydrates, so limiting fat can result in fewer calories consumed and benefit a weight loss effort. Here are some fat fighting tips:

- Fat control starts in the supermarket. Shop smart by reading food labels and checking on the fat content of any product you buy. Choose lower-in-fat versions of traditionally high-fat foods like margarine, mayonnaise, salad dressings, snack foods, cheese and dairy products.

- Plan more meals around carbohydrates like pasta, potatoes and rice, instead of meat.

- Fill your grocery cart with foods naturally low in fat like fruits and vegetables, pasta, rice, potatoes, legumes, lean meats, fish, and poultry.

- Reduce fat when you cook. Use non-stick skillets and cooking sprays instead of adding oil or fat. Trim visible fat off meat and skin poultry.

- In a restaurant, order simple foods prepared plainly, by broiling, roasting, steaming or poaching. Ask for any sauces on the side. Ask about preparation and ingredients and choose foods prepared without extra butter, cream or heavy cheeses.

- Make smart fast-food choices. Go for pizza, light on the cheese without any meat toppings. Order a plain, grilled burger topped with lettuce and tomato. Choose a baked potato topped with veggies (light on the cheese sauce). Go for the salad bar, but select a low-fat dressing.

Making a switch to a low-fat diet does not have to be done overnight. A few simple changes made on a day-to-day basis will go a long way toward permanent healthful eating.

Fraase's Baked Vegetables requires little cooking time, and can be served either warm or cold.

COOL IT NOW

Get sprung from a hot kitchen this spring

By GLORIA SCHWARTZ
Copy News Service

With spring and summer on the way and temperatures rising, the chances are you won't want to heat up the kitchen to prepare dinner. Roasts, casseroles and other long-simmering meals are out.

But there is a way to prepare meals without the hassle of heat. And it doesn't involve going out for dinner every night.

Plan meals that require minimal cooking: uncooked pasta sauces can be perfect warm-weather food. Home-grown tomatoes enhance any recipe that calls for tomatoes. Pasta cooks quickly, so the main course can be completed in a matter of minutes.

Many uncooked sauces can be prepared ahead, then brought to room temperature while you are cooking the pasta and setting the table. Try preparing a fresh tomato cheese sauce hours ahead—in the cool part of the day—then serve it over cooked pasta.

Vegetables, canned tuna and cheese don't need cooking and provide protein, vitamins and minerals. You can add small chunks of mozzarella or brie cheese to the tomato sauce. The sauce should be made in the morning.

Pesto is an uncooked sauce for pasta that uses various herbs as the main ingredient. Because basil is not always available, a recipe follows using parsley, which is readily available all year. If you can find fresh basil, it can be used instead of the parsley—in the same proportion.

If you need something fast to serve in company with drinks, try an artichoke dip. Use bread sticks or fresh vegetables with it.

With a little sprucing up, left-overs can serve as the basis for an easy meal. A piquant green sauce is very tasty, especially over left-over fish. It adds a lot of zest and interest to fish that isn't usually very tasty the second time around.

Summer soups can be a refreshing way to keep the oven off completely. Try gazpacho, a Spanish soup. It incorporates fresh tomatoes.

Corn chowder is easy to whip up in a blender or food processor. It is very low in fat and high in calcium, with the addition of extra dry milk.

Caterer Carol Fraase prepares a baked vegetable dish that can be served as a side dish, over pasta, or as an appetizer.

"This is a beautiful-looking dish and is good either hot or cold, or at room temperature," says Fraase. "It takes only 14 minutes of cooking time, so even though the oven is on, it is for only a short time, and [the vegetables] cook beautifully and make a pretty plate."

You can use any vegetables for Fraase's baked vegetable recipe, and you can make as little or as much as you need.

FRAASE'S BAKED VEGETABLES

Broccoli
Green Onion
Mushrooms

Sweet red peppers
Zucchini
Cauliflower
Salt and pepper to taste
Red pepper flakes to taste
Olive oil

Line cookie sheet with foil. Wash vegetables, then cut into pieces. Sprinkle with salt and pepper. Sprinkle with red pepper flakes. Pour some olive oil over everything. Toss to coat.

Bake in 500 F oven for 14 minutes. Serve over pasta or as a vegetable dish. Serve hot, cold or at room temperature.

Yield depends on amount of vegetables used

LINGUINE WITH OLIVE, ANCHOVY AND SAUCE

6 anchovy fillets, drained
1 (3 1/2-ounce) can tuna packed in oil, drained and flaked
1/4 cup minced Kalamata or other brine-cured olives
3 garlic cloves, minced fine (or less to taste)

Slimming down means watch what you eat

Just a few more days to sunshine. I hope.

I've been working hard to get in shape—Florida means a bathing suit. I hope.

Anyway, with summer soon on its way a lot of you may be interested in cutting fats and calories.

Here are some hints that may help you. The quote "you are what you eat" is so true. Working in a kitchen, it is very easy to put on five or so pounds without even trying. We stress that whoever makes a recipe tastes it before it ever reaches your plate. This should hold true at home also. Follow the directions, then take a bite to insure that the seasonings are as they should be.

If you're making a meatloaf or meatballs, cook a bit of the mix and try it. Better to fix it now than to serve a bland meal. Remember, just take a taste. Dinner comes later. If the food is satisfying to begin with, your hunger will be appeased pleasantly.

Diet food need not taste bad. Just be sensible. For instance, try cutting your fat intake in half. You'll be amazed at how easy it is to drop two or three pounds very quickly. At Brady's we marinate fish and lean meat in citrus juices with fresh herbs and garlic. For added flavor, grate some ginger root and add it along with a little low sodium soy. Drain, pat dry and bake or broil.

Serve a baked potato garnished with chopped chives and the lowest fat cottage cheese you can find or no-fat yogurt. Steam some spinach or asparagus and you have a nutritional, very low fat meal.

Salads, for me at least, are the hardest keep free of calories. Heaven is a mixture of greens loaded with chopped eggs, bacon, roquefort then topped with a mix of French and bleu cheese dressing. Good bye bikini; hello one-piece.

After experimenting I've found that some pink grapefruit sections, crushed szechuan pink peppercorns, a dash of homemade vinegar and touch of flavored oil do much to dress up an otherwise boring pile of lettuce.

And then comes dessert. Believe it or not, there are loads of recipes that cater to the person searching for a reduction of fatty ingredients. My favorite lately is a serving of no-fat frozen chocolate yogurt. For under 100 calories it kills the sweet tooth. A simple fruit cup with fresh ground nutmeg and a fling of cinnamon gives the added advantage of fiber.

Remember, it is very important to eat when your body tells you. Too many people wait until they are starved, thinking that by not eating on a regular basis the weight melts off. How wrong.

A bite in the morning will do a lot to stave off the hunger pangs that are sure to hit later in the day. Oatmeal, cream of wheat and dry cereals without fat or sugar are great energy starters. A plop of no-fat plain yogurt is an alternative to milk.

Keep a piece of crunchy fruit at reach to avoid the temptation of not-good-for-you snacks. Biting into an apple is work. It satisfies.

Lunch can also pose problems. Purchased sliced meats are loaded with sodium and fat. Read the labels. Better yet, purchase whole turkey breasts and roast them. Slice just enough for the day and refrigerate the rest for up to three or four days. Freeze leftovers in large pieces to avoid dehydration.

Whole grain breads are better than Wonder, and mustard preferable to mayo. Load up sandwiches with lettuce and tomato as a filler.

DIAMOND JIM BRADY'S BAKED MARINATED COD

1 cup orange juice
2 tablespoons low sodium soy sauce
2 tablespoons sherry, rice or tarragon vinegar
1 tablespoon dijon style mustard
2 tablespoons chopped fresh tarragon, rosemary or thyme (or half that amount dried)
2 tablespoons freshly grated ginger dash of freshly ground pepper
1 1/4 pounds cod fillets

Whisk all ingredients together. Add the fish to the marinade and turn to coat completely. Allow to sit at least one hour and up to 24. Bake in a 450 degree oven, uncovered, until fish flakes in the thickest part and flesh is opaque in color.

Turn the heat down in the kitchen

1/4 cup minced fresh parsley leaves
2 tablespoons fresh lemon juice
Pepper and salt to taste
1 pound linguine

Chop anchovy fillets fine but not so fine as to be paste. Put in large bowl, then add tuna, olives, minced garlic, parsley, lemon juice, pepper and salt to taste and olive oil. Stir to mix.

Cook linguine until it is al dente (a little firm to the tooth, not so overcooked it has no resistance). Drain well, then add to other ingredients and mix until pasta is coated with sauce. Serve pasta at room temperature.

Yields 4 to 6 servings

ARTICHOKE AND PARMESAN DIP

1 small garlic clove
Pinch of salt
8-ounce can of artichoke hearts, drained
1/4 cup freshly grated Parmesan cheese
2 tablespoons plain yogurt
1 teaspoon fresh lemon juice
1/2 scallion, chopped
Tabasco to taste

Mash garlic with bits of salt until pastelike. In food processor, using steel blade, puree artichoke hearts, Parmesan, mayonnaise, yogurt, garlic paste, lemon juice, scallion, Tabasco and salt and pepper. Mix until smooth.

Serve with bread stick or vegetables.

Yields 1 1/4 cups

PARSLEY PESTO

1 1/4 cups firmly packed fresh parsley, stems removed
1/2 cup pine nuts, lightly toasted
1 garlic clove, quartered
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup Parmesan cheese
1/2 cup olive oil

In food processor, combine parsley, pine nuts, garlic and salt. Cover and blend until finely chopped and well combined, stopping processor several times to scrape sides.

Add cheese and blend until well-combined. Add olive oil a little at time, blending well.

Serve over hot pasta.

Yields 4 servings

SALSA VERDE (PIQUANTE GREEN SAUCE)

2 1/2 tablespoons finely chopped parsley
2 tablespoons finely chopped capers, drained or 1 tablespoon anchovy paste
1/2 teaspoon finely chopped garlic
1/2 teaspoon strong Dijon or German mustard
1 tablespoon fresh lemon juice
1/2 cup olive oil
Salt, if necessary

Put parsley, capers, mashed anchovy fillets, garlic and mustard in bowl and stir, mixing thoroughly. Stir in lemon juice. Add olive oil, beating it vigorously into other ingredients. Taste for salt and for piquancy. Add more lemon juice if you want it tarter but very small amounts at a time.

Serve over leftover fish or freshly made fish.

This sauce can be refrigerated for up to a week. Stir well before using again.

Yields 6 to 8 servings

GAZPACHO

1 small onion, cut into pieces
1 medium green pepper, cut into pieces
1/2 small cucumber, peeled and quartered
4 (1-inch) pieces celery
1 medium tomato, cut into pieces
1 tablespoon olive oil
1 tablespoon wine vinegar
Dash of black pepper
Dash of hot pepper sauce (Tabasco)
2 cups tomato sauce
Salt to taste
Croutons and/or cucumber slices for garnish

Using food processor, process onion, green pepper, cucumber and celery until finely chopped. Then add tomato pieces, oil, vinegar, black pepper and Tabasco and chop for 30 seconds, until well combined. Pour mixture into a pitcher. Add tomato juice and mix well.

Taste for spices, such as salt. Cover and chill prior to serving. Garnish with croutons and/or cucumber slices.

Yields 4 servings

FRESH SUMMER TOMATO SAUCE

2 large ripe tomatoes
4 tablespoons olive oil (can use less)
1/2 cup chopped fresh basil leaves
1/2 cup chopped scallions (green onions)
1 tablespoon chopped fresh oregano leaves
2 garlic cloves, minced
1/2 teaspoon salt
Freshly ground pepper, to taste
Freshly grated Parmesan cheese, for garnish

Bring saucepan of water to boil and blanch tomatoes in the water for 30 seconds. Then plunge tomatoes in cold water (to stop cooking). Drain tomatoes and peel them. Remove cores and cut tomatoes in half. Remove as many seeds as possible, and drain off juices. Dice tomato pulp.

Combine diced tomatoes and one tablespoon of olive oil in mixing bowl. Add all remaining ingredients, except parmesan, and toss to blend.

If not using the same day, cover and refrigerate. Bring to room temperature before tossing with pasta. To serve, add remaining 3 tablespoons olive oil and toss with hot pasta. Sprinkle with grated Parmesan.

Yields 2 cups

OCC cooking team garners silver

A team of students from the Oakland Community College Culinary Arts program received a silver medal in the American Culinary Federation's Central Region Junior Chefs Mystery Basket Competition. The competition was held last month at OCC's Orchard Ridge Campus in Farmington Hills.

OCC team members were Scott Blachura, Waterford; Richard Dmytryshyn, Detroit; Lawrence Fenale, St. Clair Shores; Scott McBryde, Ypsilanti; and Emil Rousseau, Rochester Hills. The team was coached by OCC Culinary Arts Instructor Chef Dan Rowison and Michael Connery, a graduate of the OCC Culinary Arts Program and chef at the Bloomfield Hills Country Club.

Participating teams received a "mystery basket" containing items commonly found in the kitchen and were allowed 30 minutes to plan a four-course meal. In the following three and a half hours they were judged by a panel of professional chefs on utilization of product, culinary skills, sanitation, teamwork and final product appeal.

The OCC team's menu consisted of celery almond veloute; seared salmon with mixed greens, toasted sesame vinaigrette and crispy fried fennel; and roasted beef tenderloin with shiitake-pecan farce (stuffing), caramelized onion and potato flan. The final course was a tantalizing chocolate bavarian duet with raspberry puree.

The competition was sponsored by the Michigan Chefs De Cuisine and Oakland Community College. Local organizations which supported the event included Orchard Lake Country Club, The Golden Mushroom Restaurant, Vintage Wine Company and Superior Fish Company.

Cut out the fat to trim your waistline

Poach whole chickens, skin removed, to use for salads. Keep the liquid for later use. A can of tuna, low-fat cottage cheese with fruit, or an omelette made with egg whites are other standbys. Keep lunch light and have a snack later as you need the energy.

A final few thoughts. Fat has roughly 9 calories per gram. Protein and carbs only have 4. The rule of thumb: You can eat twice as much of the latter two for the same amount of calories. Reducing your fat is a must to loose weight.

Also, get out and move. Exercise serves dual purposes. You'll burn calories, increase metabolism and firm up the flabby areas that shorts just can't hide.

Last, but not least, do not become discouraged. Focus on the lean new you.

Jason Fisher placed second in the 200-yard butterfly for the Spartans recently.

Northville residents help Spartans finish fifth at Saginaw meet

The Novi-Livonia Spartan Aquatic Club finished fifth last weekend at a USS swim meet at Saginaw Valley State University.

A number of Northville residents and other local athletes compete on the swim team.

Erich Kelly, a Novi High freshman swimming standout, highlighted the meet for the Spartans by winning the 200-yard individual medley. He was second in the 200 freestyle and 200 backstroke, among other events.

Mike Lafferty, a teammate of Kelly on the Wildcats, was 13th in the 500-yard freestyle. He also competed on the 400-yard medley relay.

In the boys 13-14-year-old division 800-yard freestyle relay, Kelly, Matt Sorokac, Robby Blitz and Northville's Jon Woodsum were seventh. Kelly, Woodsum, Sorokac and Novi's Mike DiClaudio were 10th in the 400 freestyle relay. That same group was 10th in the 400-yard medley relay. Novi's Michelle Pantaleo helped her 13-14-year-old team to 13th in the 400-yard medley relay.

Other results included:

Northville's Megan Goble placed in all her events. Her highest finish was third in the 1,000-yard freestyle.

Mike Orris was third overall in boys 15-18-year-old division. He took second in the 200-yard IM.

The Spartans had three swimmers in the 13-14-year-old girls category.

Mary Corazza placed fifth in the 1,000-yard freestyle while Gina Palmeri was eighth in the 200-yard backstroke. Northville's Andrea Moretti was 15th in the 100-yard freestyle.

Also from Northville, Jason Fisher placed second in the 200-yard butterfly. The Mustang star had several other top finishes.

Competing in the 15-18-year-old division were several other Spartan swimmers.

Drew Sopha took fifth in the 200-yard breaststroke. Randy Cobb won the 200-yard breaststroke while Craig Steshetz was eighth in the 50 freestyle.

In the girls 13-14-year-old group, Northville's Amy Kohl and Jamie Vandermass helped their team to a seventh place finish in the 800-yard freestyle relay. Moretti, Kohl, VanderMass and Corazza were ninth in the 400 freestyle relay.

In the boys 15-18-year-old competition, Fisher, Lafferty, Orris and Aaron Berlin were fifth in the 800-yard freestyle relay. Fisher was on the sixth place team in the 400 freestyle relay.

Goble competed on three relay teams in the girls 15-18-year-old division.
