By STEVE KELLMAN Staff Writer

The city's Downtown Development Authority still has not settled on an equitable way to spread a $1.8 million special assessment among downtown businesses.

The assessment is one part of a potential financing plan for the DDA's stalled Mainstreet '92 program, to fund a new 469-space Cady Street parking deck. Mainstreet '92 would be funded through a $5.5 million general obligation bond voted on by city residents, and repaid over 10 years by tax capturing, the special assessment and previously-negotiated parking assessments from MainCentre and Singh Development's proposed CadyCentre development.

A special subcommittee was called after several city officials and business owners questioned the fairness of a proposed flat-rate assessment of 35 cents per square foot on downtown businesses.

The subcommittee met for the first time April 7 to review how to divide up the assessment, and debated proposals ranging from levying a flat fee

Field fire

Approximately ¼ acre of land was damaged by a fire started by employees burning papers near the Western Wayne Correctional Facility Wednesday afternoon.

According to reports, employees were picking up papers from the grounds and burning them in a metal barrel located near the northeast corner of the range. At around 1:49 p.m., embers from the fire blew onto the dry, dead grass, quickly igniting and spreading the blaze in the northeast direction of the field. The Northville Township Fire Department got the fire under control around 3 p.m. No injuries were reported. Above, firefighters Bruce Bartski, left, and Gerhardt Obrikat fight the grass fire. Even with sophisticated equipment, the department still uses brooms to sweep out the flames and a backpack water sprayer. The ground was muddy but the grass was dry enough to ignite.

Township is split on road problem

By SHARON CONDRON Staff Writer

The idea of allocating $40,000 from the township's general fund to cover dirt road treatments was as about as popular with trustees Thrusday night as BFTs last offer.

The board heard the roads committee's request to open the township budget and pay for the road treaments, but tabled the motion until roads committee members could commit to a more permanent solution to the age-old dust problem.

Township Supervisor Karen Baja, who chairs the committee of eight, said officials thought the $40,000 allocation was the most feasible short-thin solution available this year. Sine said committee members are asking for the allocation for this year only while they continue to look for a more practical long-term solution.

"We realize there may or may not be a way to find $40,000," Baja said. "All we are asking is that you open the budget to see if there's a way. "We are looking at bilzillions of

"We are looking at bilzillions of other options and we aren't going to stop," she said. "We will continue as a committee to go forward and look for other options. But we were afraid if we didn't bring this short-term op-

Board mulls tax break for county

By SHARUN CONDRON Staff Writer

Northville Township Trustees could be leaning towards granting a tax abatement on Wayne County-owned land to entice an unidentified developer to relocate in Northville.

Thursday night the board granted Wayne County official Bill Wild's request to take the first step towards creating an industrial development district and set up a public hearing to discuss the issue May 13 at 7 p.m.

Wild sought the district designation for a 50-acre parcel on property the county owns on the north side of Five Mile between Sheldon and Beck Roads. Even though the prospective developer of the parcel may only need 30 of the 50 acres, Wild said he wanted to ensure the district covered the entire acreage that might one day house an 80,000 square-foot aerospace and defense production facility.

While county officials are still negotiating with an unnamed Troy-based developer, they are going ahead with plans for the tax abatement. The Troy developer is reportedly eyeing other Michigan and Ohio sites that already have been granted tax abatements.

Creating the district is the first step in the tax abatement process, according to a state tax abatement specialist who discussed the tax break process with trustees at a study session on March 25.

Minutes of the study session indicate Gary Nelson from the Michigan Department of Commerce came to the board's meeting to explain the tax abatement process.

At the meeting, Nelson told trustees they have the right to approve or deny the county's request the right to approve or deny the county's request.

At the meeting, Nelson told trustees they have the right to approve or deny the county's request after the public hearing is held. Establishing the district is only the first step in the process, Nelson said. Its creation does not guarantee the petitioner a tax break.

Nelson said while the township board may have the final say, a petitioner could appeal a denial to time."

the state's Tax Commission. The commission could then overide the board's decision if the abatement wouldn't cause a tax impairment for the host community, Nelson said.

That's unlikely, Nelson said, since most new developments increase revenues 50 to 100 percent.

If the board approves the request after the public hearing, the petitioner then has to submit an application. The application for the petitioner's project must be approved by the board and by the Michigan Tax Commission before the abatement is granted.

Nelson said tax breaks on new developers are usually 50 percent for 12 years.

After granting Wild's initial request for the public hearing, Trustee Gini Britton asked Wild how negotiations were progressing with the developer.

"Very well," he said. "Things seem to be moving ahead. I have no reason to be pessimistic at this time."

Township hall to get handicapper ramp

By SHARON CONDRON Staff Writer

Northville Township officials are hoping to beat the clock and get a cement handicapped ramp installed at township hall before state inspectors force the township to comply with federal law.

Township Clerk Sue Hillebrand asked the board Thursday night to approve the $4,000 budget request to pay for the front door ramp. Once installed, the ramp would bring the township in compliance with Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) requirements and fend off any potential legal ramifications from handicapped persons.

"This is pretty critical now because people have to be able to get in the door," Hillebrand said. "We are way behind in this. It should have been done in 1991 or 1992."

The clerk said the township has been remiss for years in bringing the facility into compliance. And even though the township will receive community development block grant funds in August that could pay for the building's improvements, she and Township Supervisor Karen Baja said it wasn't worth taking the legal risks.

"Since we are already behind schedule, I think we are pushing our luck," Baja said in support of amending the township's budget to finance the necessary improvement. "It would take $4,000 now but if one person complains that they don't have access to our building it will cost us a lot more.

"It's not only our desire to comply, it's preventative medicine," Baja said.

Township attorney Len Krzyzaniak said the board had few other options. He said trustees could appeal to the state for an extension until the grant monies are received, but the board would still be vulnerable to the liability.

Hillebrand argued against that. ment fund improvements.

Treasurer Rick Engelland and Trustee Russ Fogg seemed hesitant to approve the expenditure at first. Engelland favored waiting for the grant money to come while Fogg wanted to explore other options like installing the ramp at one of the side doors. Hillebrand said the doors on the side entrance of the building were too narrow to accommodate a wheel chair and the same was true for the door that separates the police department from the lobby.

The board resolved by a 7-0 vote to pull $4,000 from the capital improvement fund to make the improvement.

Ex-resident is arrested on outstanding warrant

By STEVE KELLMAN Staff Writer

A former Northville resident was arrested just before 1 a.m. April 7 on an outstanding larceny warrant.

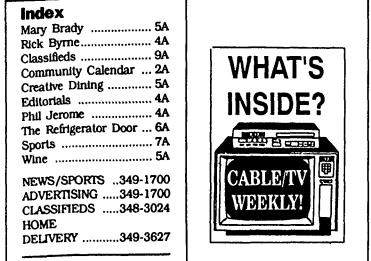

Shawn Komarynski, 18, of Detroit was arraigned later that morning in front of 35th District Judge John E. MacDonald. Komarynski's father posted the $5,000 bond and the suspect was released into his father's custody.

A preliminary examination into the case was set for April 16, at 35th District Court. Larceny in a building is a felony punishable by up to four years in prison and/or a $2,000 fine.

Komarynski was wanted for a Jan. 9 larceny from Grandma Betty's Sweets 'n' Treats at 124 N. Center.

Police caught up with him just before 1 a.m. April 7 when they responded to 113 W. Main St. on a reported disturbance. A police officer who knew about the outstanding warrant saw the suspect standing outside the rear of the building. Komarynski ran into the building when he saw the officer, but was caught and arrested.

Komarynski was still on probation for a Nov. 23 break-in at a Fairbrook Street home when he was arrested. He had admitted kicking the home's front door in to allow another youth to search the property for money. Police linked him to the crime using a sneaker print on the door and a witness who saw a man matching his description leave the scene.

Session yields 3 goals for schools

By MICHELLE KAISER

Northville Board of Education members could act on recommendations for the district's 1993 Strategic Plan as early as May 10.

The strategic planning team, composed of 25 people, met during the evening of Sunday, April 4, and all day April 5. At the end of the day Monday, they walked away with a revised draft of three strategies.

"Now total quality is our number one strategy," said Dolly McMaster, assistant superintendent for insturctional services. "That's going to drive everything we do. Essential learning outcomes is now strategy two and personal goal setting is strategy three.

Previously, essential learning outcomes was the number one strategy while total quality principles was the last of the three goals.

Committees formed to study the three strategies submitted 20 to 25 action plans each to the strategic planning committee. From those action plans, the committee selected two recommendations for each strategy. "They (the committee) had to prioritize which ones they wanted to tackle first," McMaster explained.

For the total quality strategy, committee members decided that the most important recommendations were to: 1) train key people in total quality management procedures, and 2) begin some pilot programs implementing the theory.

In the area of learning outcomes. the recommendations were to: 1) begin implementation of the exit outcomes theory, while 2) also designing a public information campaign to explain the idea to the community. Exit outcome education is a standard of performance students are expected to attain, by demonstrating identified skills, knowledge and attitudes, upon graduation of high school.

Strategy three, a system designed for challenging all students, will require personal goal setting for students Officials hope to achieve this by: 1) reconfiguring parent conferences and reports to parents, and individualized education planning on elementary, middle and high school levels, and 2) examining existing structures and how well they're working.

Northville began strategic planning in October 1988. Annual updates serve to modify, expand or eliminate action plans and-or strategies. Those serving on this year's strategic plan core committee include: ◆ Community residents — John Amos, a General Motors employee; Alan Ferrara, attorney; Bo Hall, laidoff Northville High School teacher; Peter Maise, geographer; Pamela Pa jas, an employee with Michigan Bell; Greg Purtell, a Chrysler employee; Robert Russell of the Senior Citizen Advisory Council; Dr. Ed Sarkisian, dentist; Ann Willis, board member of the Northville Chamber of Commerce and Northville Historical Society; Barb Flis, PTA Coordinating Council and parent; Laurie Marrs, executive director of the chamber of commerce; Administrators — Dave Bolitho. assistant superintendent for administrative services; Dolly McMaster, assistant superintendent for instructional services and strategic plan internal faciliator; Mary Najarian, principal, Moraine Elementary School and president of the Northville Association of School Administrators; Leonard Rezmierski, superintendent: Robert Sornson, executive director of special education;

John Street, director of finance; • Teachers - Ray Balutowicz, middle school math teacher and president of the Northville Education Association (NEA); Chris Modrack, elementary teacher at Silver Springs; Dwight Sieggreen, middle school teacher and past president of the NEA; Donna Viel, support staff;

- Board of education members Pat Custer and Jean Hansen, both
- Students Rob Subotich, historian for student congress and high school senior; and Roopal Vashi, member of student congress and high school junior.

Michigan's Community Newspaper

That's right, again. For the second consecutive year the Michigan Press Association bestowed its prestigious 'Michigan's Best' Award on the Northville Record in its 1992 Better Newspaper Contest. (For weekly newspapers with 5,000 to 15,000 circulation). And we're even prouder to be a two-time winner of the 'Michigan's Best' award than we were the first time we received the honor in the 1991 Better Newspaper Contest. And here's another thing that hasn't changed. Our greatest satisfaction continues to come from being an integral part of the Northville community . . . giving you the type of newspaper you want and need. In other words, we're proud to be your hometown paper.

Parking deck financing discussed based on a property's state-equalized valuation to splitting the amount between businesses and city residents at large. Several business owners added their two cents' worth, though they argued over how best to divide the pain.

"I don't think the problem is with people like myself who provide our own parking spaces," said business and property owner Lee Holland, who owns a building at Center and Dunlap. We've done our bit . . . Also, I don't think it's fair to assess everyone the same amount. It should be based on benefit."

Another local businessman disagreed. If it benefits the downtown, it benefits everybody," said Jim Mills, who heads the Michigan Association of Gift Salesmen. "If downtown continues to deteriorate as busineses leave. I don't care how much parking you have. You're going to be hurt."

Mills said that fellow businesspeople at the MAGS building agree that a solution is needed to the city's parking problems, and don't mind helping to fund the solution.

"We understand the problem," he said. MAGS has lost much of its close-in parking as portions of the parking lot south of the MAGS building have been fenced off for MainCentre shoppers and designated for em-shied away from a complicated assessment formula based on proximity to the deck or other factors.

"Every factor you add invites six new arguments against it (the assessment),* said Dave Larsen. He suggested basing the assessment on a property's SEV and allowing no more than two different payment categories based on proximity.

Word countered that the assessment must appear fair if it is to withstand a legal challenge. "If we're challenged on this thing, and most likely we will be, having a declining scale of benefit is important," he said. There's got to be some differential there . . . You've got to recognize that proximity to the deck provides some Subcommittee member Greg Presley proposed splitting the assessment amount between businesses and the city at large, noting that the city's $1 million deficit will be paid off soon and the 4.2 mill tax hike used to help pay it off could be dropped.

Chief Financial Officer Mark Christiansen raised the possibility of an assessment based in part on on how many parking spaces a business is short according to city ordinance parking requirements. The city has really sold more parking than exists, so there is a shortage," he noted.

The subcommittee will meet again Wednesday, April 14 at 8 a.m. to reach a recommendation. Their recommendation will be presented to the full DDA board at its April 20

tion to your attention now it would be August before anything was done."

The idea of allocating general funds to special interest groups met with resistance from Treasurer Rick Engelland and Trustee Gini Britton.

Special interest expenditures ought to come from special assessment districts," Engelland said. "And general interest ones should come from general funds."

Britton said she thought it would be hard for the township to allocate

"We don't have the money," she said. "If we had the money it might be different.

Even though Engelland opposed the idea of allocating the money, he said he'd consider it if the roads committee found a more permanent solution to the problem next year.

"I would be interested in looking at at it for this year only as long as it's tied to a long-term solution." he said. Other trustees echoed Engelland's concerns, including Mark Abbo. "I would be in favor of committing township's funds on a short-term basis if there's a long-term solution that can be reached." Abbo said.

Township Clerk Sue Hillebrand agreed something needed to be done to provide relief for residents now and in the future.

We do have a serious problem and we need to address it," she said. "Maybe we could find $40,000 this year, but I would like to see the Roads Committee come up with a more permanent solution.

Northville resident Patricia Wong took issue with the trustees' suggestions of creating a special assessment district or paving the roads as a permanent solution.

She said the whole situation has been frustrating for dirt roads residents for years. Wong said she and her neighbors have repeatedly objected to the roads issue, but their concerns have fallen on deaf ears.

Wong, who is a Park Gardens resident and a roads committee member. has been a vocal participant in the road debate. She says her problems with dirt and dust have escalated since the dead-end road she lives on was opened to through traffic by the county years ago. It was then she felt township officials became unresponsive to her complaints.

"I think that the biggest problem is that we did object and we did come to the meetings to object to the roads being opened. It doesn't matter what we say, we can't win."

Wong said she believes county and township official deceived her when she came to Northville Township 17 years ago. She said when she bought her home in Northille she was told the township would pay to treat the roads and the county would keep the roads closed to through traffic. Both promises have been unfulfilled, she said with frustration.

This is so frustrating to me." she told trustees. "I have been here for 17 vears, and I've been lied to by the township and the county.

"And now we are being asked to wait again. It's the same vicious cycle," she said in reaction to the board's decision to table the commit-

Students squealed with delight when Najarian kissed Petunia at the

Meanwhile, things were in quite an uproar at Winchester Elementary, too, on Wednesday.

Principal Kathy Morhous also lost a reading bet with her students. Her payment was to dress as the school's mascot — a red dragon — for the day.

"It went really well," said Morhous, who had lost her voice from reading to children all day. "I wore the costurne all day and read dragon stories . . . they loved it. The little ones were enthralled that I was dressed as the along with Najarian and learning mascot while the older ones thought I was silly."

As at Moraine, Winchester students read books in order to meet individual goals.

Moraine Elementary is honoring its top three readers, fifth grader Shannon Calardo (4,555 pages), and second graders Ryan Deutschendorf (3,913 pages) and William Sylvester (3,874 pages). They will be treated to pizza and pop from the Pizza Cutter

As far as next year is concerned, Najarian is still undecided on a wager. Some students suggested the school get magician David Copperfield to "cut her in half." Although she was hesitant about that idea, she was adamantly opposed to another suggestion:

Paying for ramp now could prevent big bill

Northville Township trustees acted wisely Thursday in voting to earmark $4,000 for the construction of a concrete handicapper ramp leading to the entrance at township hall. The ramp is needed to help bring the township in line with mandates included in the Americans with Disabilities Act, the federal statute which establishes guidelines for public and workplace accommodations of disabled persons.

The vote means the township will have to foot the bill for installation of the ramp itself. The alternative was to wait until money came in from a community development block grant the township is expected to receive and allow Uncle Sam to pick up the tab. Waiting for the grant would have spared the township a $4,000 outlay; the money the township wll use to pay for the structure can not be recouped once the CBDG check arrives.

But waiting for the grant could have also resulted in disaster if someone had filed a liability lawsuit against the township for non-compliance with ADA. The township has been negligent in failing to install the ramp and make other handicap accessible improvements at township hall, and is thus vulnerable to legal action that could produce damage awards and litigation costs many times in excess of the $4,000 ramp expense.

Of course, the prudent thing to do would have been to make the necessary improvements at township hall in a timely fashion, but previous elected officials, for whatever reason, failed in this task. Given the situaton as it exists today, it was smart to take preventative action to stave off a possible major expense in the form of a legal judgment.

Tax abatement mania ought to be resisted

The Northville Township Board of Trustees is considering granting a tax abatement for a 50-acre parcel of county-owned land at Five Mile between Beck and Sheldon roads. County officials have asked for the property tax break as an inducement to lure an as-yet unnamed Troy developer into the area. If all goes according to plan, the arrangement will ultimately result in the establishment of an aerospace and defense production facility in the township. Such a development could be a boon to the local economy and a good source of revenue for the township treasury.

But while the facility would be a welcomed addition to the community, we would urge township officials to carefully weigh the county's request for the abatement. Such a reduction, formally referred to as a facilities exemption certificate, would provide a 12 year, 50 percent real estate tax cut for the Troy developer - no small amount of money the township would agree to forego.

The facilities exemption program was originally designed to enable communities to offer incentives to businesses that are considering expanding or relocating, but since its inception the program has been widely abused. The intent was to provide that extra inducement to convince businesses to proceed with capital improvement projects; abatements were supposed to be given out only in cases where businesses would not otherwise proceed with their proposed plans.

However, the practice of granting abatements soon became so widespread that the inducement value was lost. Communities began passing tax breaks out like Halloween treats, and it has gotten to the point where it is not so much an incentive to say yes to one as it is a disincentive to say no. If you don't approve a facilities exemption request, there are plenty of other communities willing to put out the tax cut welcome mat.

Michigan's facilities exemption program has come under close scrutiny recently as planners reexamine its usefulness as an economic development device. But, for now at least, the program into account whenever the issue of new development comes up. For that reason, we would stop short of recommending that trustees turn down the county's request for a facilities exemption certificate. But we do not hesitate to advise trustees to avoid getting into the habit of rubber stamping tax cut requests. There is too much potential revenue at stake.

Raises out of step with city

I've always been able to settle the simple issues pretty quickly.

Ketchup should be refrigerated. Pancake syrup should not. Toilet paper rolls should tear over the top, not up from the bottom.

But on the harder questions I can't make up my mind that easily. Abortion? Gun control? I've heard the arguments from each side, and can find nuggets of truth in both. Which leaves me undecided.

Then along comes this flap over the Novi teacher salaries. Although the school board agreed to a contract that gave the teachers increases of 3.75, 3.95 and 4 percent over the next three years, closer examination revealed that teachers gaining in seniority and graduate education could earn raises of 12, 15, even 19 percent from one year to the next.

On the one side you have people who say the teacher's union is greedy, pushing through raises that exceed those of the private sector. On the other side are those sympathetic to the teachers who feel they are worth the hefty raises.

Well, on this one, my mind is made up. The argument is not over the value of teachers. If the only criterion for determining one's salary was one's value, I, for one, would be a lot better paid, and so would teachers. If the question were one of value, teaching would be among the highest paying professions, right up there with doctors.

No, the argument here is what is fair and equitable. We're just coming out of a recession that's been with us for almost two years. During that time many people in this part of the state - and some of our readers, I'm sure - have endured pay cuts, pay freezes, and even layoffs.

Novi teachers cannot say the same. Indeed, the worst a Novi teacher still on the scale could do in real dollars is a raise of about 6 percent. The worst one who is beyond the scale could do is 3.75. That's rewarding mediocrity, and that's wrong. We in this community, who paid teachers with our taxes, tightened our belts. Novi teachers didn't. That, too, is

I'm not taking sides against teachers, just their too-greedy union, and our too-willing-to-please school board. It was a hard choice, though, because some who are most vocal about teachers being overpaid are the ones with the least at stake. Let me explain.

I'd estimate that in more than half of all the letters that we receive in this office, the writer declares himself a "taxpayer." as though bestowing such title upon him or herself elevates him or her above the great unwashed.

Well, I've got news for you. Unless you have no kids in the schools, you haven't earned the title. You're a tax liability. The district is losing money just by having you and your progeny around.

Here's why. The Novi school district, according to its own figures, spends about $6,600 per pupil (the state says it's $6,800, but that's another story). The average home in Novi is valued at $150,000, and therefore pays something like $2,200 in taxes to the schools. You'd have to be living in a $450,000 home in Novi to be breaking even on just one kid in the schools. Do the math. If you've got two or three kids in the schools, you're really soaking the district.

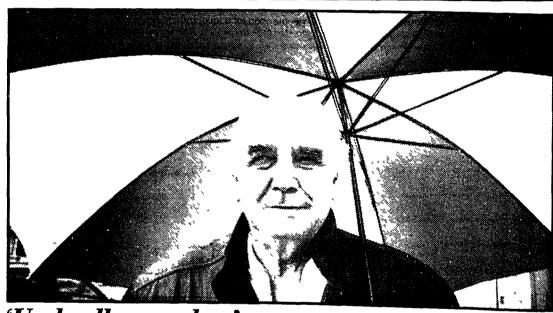

So who does keep our schools solvent? Commercial and industrial development, that's who. Places like Twelve Oaks, Delwal, and the Expo Center pay five and six figures a year in property taxes just to pay for all you freeloaders who whine and call yourselves "taxpayers." And they don't feed additional children into the schools at $6,600 a pop.

I realize that this only addresses the financial stake that a district resident has in teacher's salaries. If you have a child, there are even tougher questions to answer about his education, indeed his future.

But on balance, I'd say Novi teachers were already earning about what they should. The latest round of raises put them out of step with our community. Were there a way to index salary increases for public employees to the rates of those in the community and their fortunes in the private sector, I'd buy into it.

As I'm sure you're aware, though, there aren't any simple answers like that. It was easier to figure out what to do with my toilet paper.

Dancin' with who brung us history lately. Or, if not history, at last longevity.

The reason: One of my responsibilities as executive editor this year is to chair the sesquicentennial planning committee for The Livingston County Press - one of the six newspapers which comprise the HomeTown Newspapers group. A sesquicentennial, in case vou've forgotten, means 150 years. And, quite frankly, the fact that the LCP, as it is known in Howell, has been round 150 years totally astounds me. Just think of it. One hundred and 50 years! That means the LCP was around before Teddy Rosevelt charged up San Juan Hill. Before Henry Ford invented the automobile. Before the Wright Brothers launched the first airplane at Kitty Hawk. Before Abner Doubleday invented baseball or James Naismith invented basketball.

Before the Civil War. Before Abraham Lincoln was elected president. A very long time.

Of course, the County Press is not the only paper in our group which has been around a long time. Almost all the papers in the HomeTown group are more than a century old. Second oldest — at 125 years — is The Northville Record, the oldest weekly newspaper in Wayne County. Next comes The Millord Times, the oldest newspaper in Oakland County at 122 years. Then come The South Lyon Herald and The Brighton Argus — both 113 years old this year.

The baby of the group is The Novi News, a real youngster at a mere 37 years old. That's still old enough to make it older

I've been thinking a lot about than the City of Novi, but it pales in comparison with the other newspapers in this group — virtually all of which are older than baseball. All of this creates in me a sense of awe . . . and an incredible sense of responsibility and perhaps even a lot of After all, as the 49-year-old head of the editorial department, it is my responsibility to make sure our papers continue to exist/thrive/prosper for at least another 11 to 13 to 16 years or whenever it is that I finally head off for retirement. Fortunately, I think the path has been pretty well established — just make sure our newspapers continue to do the things they did that brought us this far to begin with. As Darrel Royal, the former Texas football coach, would have said: "We're gonna dance with who brung us." And who brung us?

First and foremost, service to our communities and the people who live in these communities. Covering city councils and school boards. Covering Mothers Clubs and Garden Clubs. Covering Girl Scout cookie sales and Lions Club White Cane sales and VFW poppy sales. Covering churches. Letting people know when Good Friday and Easter and Christmas services are held. Carrying births, engagements, weddings and obituarires — the milestones in people's lives. And, of course, providing a forum for spirited debate on topics of importance for the improvement of the communities. Writing editorials which help identify and provide focus for the issues. Offering an op-ed page for the community to sound off through guest columns or letters on the same issues, regardless of whether or not their viewpoints agree with our own.

Doesn't sound that difficult, does it? I'm feeling better already.

CREATIVE DINING

Eleanor & Ray Heald/Wine

Med wine is perfect for Easter

Subtitles of books frequently give the biggest clue to the contents. In the late 1980s, The Mediterranean Diet by Carol and Malcolm McConnell, (W.W. Norton & Co., New York) got us thinking with their subtitle, Wine, Pasta, Olive Oil, and a Long Healthy Life.

Late last year, The French Paradox and Beyond. by Perdue, Marton, and Shoemaker, (Renaissance Publishing, Calif.) triggered the same reaction with the subtitle Live Longer with Wine & the Mediterranean Lifestyle.

There's probably no better time than Easter to take a broad look at a classic Mediterranean diet. The specific Mediterranean focus is Greek food and wine for an authentic Easter menu.

There may be no better authority on the subject of Greek feasting than Diane Kochilas who has authored The Food and Wine of Greece (St. Martin's Press, New York, 1990).

Kochilas grew up in the United States, but now lives in Athens. She was in the United States earlier this year for the 1993 International Conference on the Diets of the Mediterranean at the Harvard School of Public Health.

The optimal, traditional Mediterranean diet consists of the following foods in decreasing quantities consumed daily — breads and grains, including pasta, rice, couscous, polenta and bulgur; fruits, vegetables, beans (or other legumes and nuts), cheese, yogurt and other dairy products, olive oil and olives.

Following the Mediterranean tradition, one to two glasses per day of wine can be enjoyed primarily with meals. Again in decreasing amounts—fish, poultry and eggs and sweets are eaten a few times per week. Lean red meats are consumed a few times per month.

"Wine is a custom during meals in some Me-diterranean countries." Dr. Dimitrios Trichopoulos, chairman of Epidemiology, Harvard School of Public Health said. "Drunk in moderation with meals, it reduces risk of coronary disease about as much as the regular taking of aspirin." Asked if the Mediterranean diet might be just as healthy if wine were removed Trichopoulos said, "I don't think so."

With this positive intro, let's look at some Greek wines to accompany Kochilas' menu suggestions. Because Southeast Michigan has a significant Greek population and a number of fine Greek restaurants, it also has one of the largest selections of Greek wines.

More than half of Greece's vineyards are in the Peloponnese area producing more than a third of the country's wine. By far, the best wines here are red and from the Nemea region. The principal Nemea producer is a cooperative using the name Hercules.

The Naoussa region (west of Thessaloniki) in northern Greece has the best red wines and those produced by J. Boutari and Son top the list. Boutari is an established producer making wine in modern facilities in several appellations throughout Greece.

To leave a message on the Healds' voice mail - dial 953-2047, mailbox 1864.

WINE SELECTION OF THE WEEK

For Greek wines of quality, the nod goes to J. Boutari & Son for three wines all priced at $7: 1991 Boutazi Kretikos, a deliciously crisp white wine; 1990 Boutari Naoussa, a very dry, flavorful red that will harmonize with lamb; and 1990 Boutari Nemes that is full and robust, but with soit tannins to pair it well with spinach pie.

Mexican haute cuisine

Restaurateur offers his sumptuous Mother's Day fare

By ORLANDO RAMIREZ Copley News Service

Mother's Day is the busiest restaurant day of the year. Poor moms, you're likely to say, the only day of the year they get out from behind the stoves.

In fact, it's poor chefs because the lo-gistics of planning for the Mother's Day hordes require strategies that might baffle Gen. Colin Powell. Take Chef Reed Groban, for example. As the executive chef for the Scottsdale Princess in Arizona's Valley of the Sun, he oversees four restaurants and expects to serve more than 1,800 people on Mother's Day.

If Groban's restaurants were just any restaurants, the task might not seem so daunting, but two of the Scottsdale Princess' restaurants are world-renowned. The Marquesa, which features Catalan and Basque cuisines, is one of two AAA Five Diamond restaurants in Arizona and was listed second overall in the latest Zagat guide.

La Hacienda is a free-standing Mexican ranch house located on one of the Scottsdale Princess' 450 acres. Groban describes the menu there as "interior colonial Mexican food," meaning the kind of cuisine one is more likely to find in Mexico City and the central parts of Mexico rather than the Tex-Mex or Sonoran style prevalant in the United States.

The two other restaurants under Groban's charge are Las Ventanas, an informal grill, and The Grill at the TPC, located in the clubhouse of the TPC Stadium golf

"I came up through the school of hard knocks, said Groban, 39, originally from Cincinnati. "I'm basically self-taught, having worked in kitchens all my life."

This training has served him well since he has come up with innovative menus that draw from the best of Spain, Mexico and Southern Arizona.

The Catalan food served at the Marquesa is indigenous to the northeast section of Spain that draws on French, Italian and Spanish influences.

lian and Spanish influences.

"I'd call it a Mediterranean cuisine," he said. "It's an offshoot that leaves a lot of people open for a lot of influences. We try to stay true to the local flavors, but we incorporate local ingredients, too.

"On the one hand, Basque cooking is heartier, more robust and not as much influenced from the Italian side.

At La Hacienda, the menu is based on Mexican cuisine. Groban, who toured the restaurants and kitchens of the interior of Mexico looking for recipes, said the food there "is more Continental in some respects, but very authentic."

For Mother's Day, Groban plans to serve the following dishes at a buffet brunch. He said that Mother's Day is a lot of work, but planning is the key to a successful day. At the Scottsdale Princess each restaurant has its own chef and kitchen.

Quality stays in the restaurant," he said, describing how the self-management of each area leads to greater pride among the staff and better quality control when it comes to the end

Despite the sophisticated presentations, Groban said, "the dishes are very easy to prepare. There seems to be a lot of steps, but it's not really that involved." Take the Grilled Lamb Chops served at the Marquesa. The chops are simply grilled, but it's the addition of the Roasted Tomato Aioli, Green Sauce, Escalavida and Spanish Tortilla (or omelet, not to be confused with a Mexican corn or flour tortilla) that makes the dish exceptional.

"The Cheese-Stuffed Chicken Breast is perfect for a Mother's Day brunch," said Groban. "It's light, and the way we present it is to fan out the slices on the

Cheese-stuffed chicken breast with tomato carrot sauce is a creation of chef Reed Groban.

Besides the Tomato Carrot Sauce provided in the recipe, Groban suggested serving red and green mole sauces and/ or a chipotle cream sauce, which is basically a Mexican salsa fresca with chipotle, a roasted Mexican pepper.

"The Fried Oyster Croutons is a twist on words." he said of the garnish with the Oyster Artichoke Bisque. "The croutons just explode with flavor."

Local ingredients are important to the chef, who incorporates Saguaro honey into the Desert Honey-Glazed Salmon, one of the specialties of Las Ventanas restaurant.

Saguaro honey is from hives hested in the tall cactus that is epigrammatic of the Arizona desert. The taste is indefinable, but Groban said using regular honey won't change the essence of the dish.

"Anything's a tapa to a Spaniard," said Groban of the appetizers that lead off the Serrano ham, which is similar to Italian prosciutto, is ubiquitous on the Iberian Peninsula. If you can't find serrano ham at a gourmet shop, Smithfield ham is a good substitute, the chef says.

For Mother's Day, Groban suggests serving a flute or two of dry champagne with the tapas to whet the appetites of your guests for the feast that follows.

The finest female chefs display their skills

On Friday night some of Michigan's finest female chefs will gather together in *sisterhood" to cook an awesome meal. The planning has been going on for awhile and has proved to be well worth the effort.

Tom Vitale, President of the Gourmet Club at Schoolcraft, asked me to be the coordinator of the event. Naturally, I was very honored and accepted in a split second. Little did I know . . .

Imagine, if you can, trying to correlate nine very busy women. Not an easy task. Sherry Springer, Student Activities Coordinator, and her staff were the master minds behind the arranging of schedules. An amazing feat in and of itself. This affair would not be happening without the fantastic support of her department. We all thank you from the bottom of our hearts. These meetings, once orchestrated, were a delight. The information and ideas flowed like water. An intensity that would amaze most was apparent. Personally, I can't wait to work with these ladies in the kitchen. It is going to be a blast. Our last rendezvous was Fridav. April 9. The next time we assemble will be Friday at 8 a.m. to begin a long, but delightful, day in the kitchens of school. The menu revolves around a melting pot theme, featuring foods from all parts of the country, and representing many cultures. A champagne and hors d'oeuvres reception starts the evening.

Chef Caroly Haskins, Executive Chef of the Townsend Hotel in Birmingham, and Chef Rose Hage, formerly of Ferndale and now from Cleveland, with Chef Laura Merglewski, Chef D'Cuisine of Acadia, are the superstars that are handling this course.

Diamond Jim Brady's in Novi. (that's me), and Chef Kelli Lewton of the Two Unique

Variations of salmon displayed on carved ice along with passed niblets including stuffed squash blossoms are highlighted.

Lizzie Burt of Medsport is the mastermind of the soup. Lobster consomme' "East meets West" is elegant and simple at the same time. Roasted Lobster stock enhanced with lemongrass, clarified and garnished with tiny lobster ravioli, chervil pulche's and fresh baby peas promises to be beautiful and delicious.

Next, Chef Lorraine Platman of Sweet Lorraine's in Berkley, and soon Ann Arbor. will present "Eurasian Rissotto," mixing Indian, Oriental and Continental European influences in one dish. A blend of basmati rice, coconut, Thai peppers, shiltakes and leeks served in a papad basket and garnished with smoked tiger shrimp.

are featuring "Roasted Pheasant American Bistro." Roasted sliced breast, savory sausage wrapped in cabbage, a wild mushroom ragout, and pencil green and white asparagus finish the dish. Earthy and sumptuous.

The salad, "Mixed Greens Little Italy." is refreshing and palate cleansing. Bursting with baby romaine, arugula, belgian endive and frisee lettuces. Pink, yellow and red teardrop tomatoes, and shaved fried artichokes enhance this course.

Laura and Chef Denise Caurdy of Too Chez will work together on this. Denise is also in charge of a melting pot bread basket that is the most incredible ever imagined. It will focus on five ethnic breads. Being a bread lover, I'm really anxious to taste the final product.

Finally, Chef Carol Calder-Deinzer, of Opus One, has an incredible dessert in For the main entree, Chef Mary Brady of store. A chocolate pot brimming with hazelnut and chocolate mousses will finish the dinner. Throughout the meal Madeline Triffon, Sommelier of the Rattlesnake Club, will pair wines with the courses. I hope she'll save some for us.

Well, have I got your taste buds going yet? Hope so. Tickets are available by calling 462-4422. Go ahead, use your charge card. Part of the price is tax deductible, a beautiful booklet with the recipes of the food served is included and a raffle drawing for prizes will be held.

Best yet, all proceeds will help fund the Culinary Arts Scholarship Fund. Each chef will describe her course and mingle after the dessert is served.

Think hard about joining us. This is a chance in a lifetime for you and your help can mean the chance for a better future for someone worthy of it.

FOOD GUIDE: Bring on Healthy Food Choices! Oakland County Health Division has updated the American Red Cross Food Wheel for healthful eating. The revision is the work of the Health Division's registered dietitians. The colorful one-page handout features plenty of grains, fruits and vegetables.

Are you confused about fats? Where are they hidden? How do you make trade-offs? The new Food Wheel will show you how. A special section describes fat serving sizes.

The guide is based on the new U.S. Department of Agriculture and Health and Human Services Dietary Guidelines for Americans and the American Cancer Society recommendations. The daily plan is easy to follow. It shows suggested numbers of servings from each group for different ages

For your free copy, if you're an Oakland County resident, send a self-addressed stamped (29-cent) business envelope to:

Food Wheel, Materials Center, Oakland County Health Division, 27725 Greenfield Road, Southfield 48076.

The Food and Nutrition Hotline is ready and willing to answer all of your food-related questions. "We are all ready with the very latest USDA recommendations, "said Treitman. So if you haven't "canned" for a while and are unsure of what to do, just give them a call 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday at 858-0904.

Kickers tie Livonia Churchill 1-1 on road

By SCOTT DANIEL

Valerie Schuerman scored late in the first half to give the Mustang soccer team a 1-1 tie with Livonia Churchill on the road Wednesday night.

Fullback Lisa Bernardo hit Krista Howe with a pass as she streaked toward the Charger net with just more than four minutes left. Howe then passed to Schuerman on the left wing and the senior beat Livonia goalie Sarah Fabirkiewicz to score the game's final goal.

"It was a game of momentum," Northville coach Bobby Paul said. "They had it in the beginning, we had it in the middle and they had it in the
