School board official turns marathoner

By MICHELLE KAISER
Staff Writer

When Northville school board member Richard Brown Jr. started running about 15 years ago, he did it to improve his tennis game.

He liked it so much he traded in his racquet after six months on the court for a pair of running shoes.

"I run, on average, 40 to 45 miles per week," Brown said from his office at Ford Motor Co. Thursday. "I usually have one long run in there. It's usually Sunday morning and its from 14 to 21 miles."

That one long run helps prepare him for competitions such as the Boston Marathon. He recently ran in the famous 26-mile marathon, but was disappointed because he had to stop after completing 16 miles.

"I'm not a hot-weather runner," he said.

Brown explained the temperature was in the low 70s the day of the race.

"When you train around here it's around the 40s in January, February and March," Brown said. "I started to get dehydrated (during the race)."

Brown has nothing to be ashamed of, though, as he completed the Boston Marathon both in 1985 and 1989. In order to qualify to run in the Boston race, a runner must finish within a certain time in a previous race.

"Boston is the only marathon where you have to run a previous marathon to qualify," he said. "Last year I ran in a marathon that had to be finished under three hours and 25 minutes. I ran it in three hours and 23 minutes."

Since he'll be turning 50 this year, Brown will have up to three hours and 30 minutes to finish a race if he opts to run in next year's Boston Marathon.

Although it didn't help with his tennis game, running has helped Brown control his weight — he lost 20 pounds within the first six months of his running routine — and has also helped with blood pressure. It has helped him emotionally, too.

"It certainly lessens stress," he said. "I'm a morning runner. I use it to organize my day. I think about what's going to happen that day or if I have a particularly difficult problem."

Brown suggests those wanting to begin their own running schedule to get the OK from a physician first, then start out slowly. First-timers may also want to mix running with walking.

The two-year school board member predicts anyone who sticks with running for 60 days will be hooked. Brown, though, thinks running must be in his genes.

"I started running long distances fairly soon," he said. "I ran a marathon my first year I started running."

Survey results find split over deck financing

By STEVE KELLMAN

A survey of downtown residents found the few respondents split over whether the city should use a special assessment to help finance a new parking deck.

The survey was conducted by the Citizens District Council, a nine-member group convened last year to review the city's controversial MainStreet '92 plan.

The $6.2 million plan to build a new three-level deck on Cady would be funded by a $5.5 million general obligation bond voted on by city residents. Repayment would take 10 years through a combination of tax capturing, special assessments and previously negotiated parking assessments from MainCentre and Singh Development's proposed CadyCentre project.

The CDC questionnaire asked whether residents favored the deck, and whether they would approve of a special assessment to help fund it. Just over half the respondents said they would favor an assessment if it was the only way to complete the project.

One resident suggested that special assessments might worsen an already deteriorating retail area by forcing property owners to raise their rents. "Within the last two or three years, Northville has lost many really important shops due to rising rent, which is already high," the resident wrote.

"Leave the town the way it is," wrote another respondent. "It wouldn't hurt people to have to walk another two minutes from another lot."

Other written comments ranged from "Build what can be afforded without assessment" and "I think Northville can do without (additional)

Lease expiration could jeopardize co-op preschool

It won't be the first time in its 41-year existence that the Northville Cooperative Preschool has found itself without a home.

In mid-April Northville Cooperative officials learned that Northville Presbyterian Church would not be renewing the preschool's lease. The lease expires June 15.

It seems unlikely, but the program could be in jeopardy, along with the 69 students already signed up for next year's session.

"The message I want to get across is that we're very hopeful of finding a place," said Sue Laabs, president of the cooperative. "I don't want people to panic, but I do want them to realize we are a non-profit organization that's been around for 41 years and we've had to move around in the past."

Laabs said church officials decided against renewing the lease because Sunday School classes were increasing and there wasn't enough room for the cooperative's equipment. The cooperative uses the same rooms as the Sunday School classes.

The Northville Cooperative Preschool operates daily from 8:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. On Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays there are morning and afternoon sessions for 4-year-olds. Sessions for 2- and 3-year-olds are held concurrently on Tuesdays and Thursdays. Currently, there are 62 children enrolled in the program.

Laabs said the preschool is pre-

Investigation continues into post commander

By RICK BYRNE

The Michigan State Police now says that suspected financial improprieties with post accounts brought about the investigation and suspension of Northville Post Commander Lt. Jack Moulik.

"We're all kind of sensitive about it right now," said acting Post Commander Lt. Stephen Kraft, speaking on the mood at the post.

Moulik, whose seven-day suspension expired last Thursday, will remain suspended without pay until the on-going investigation is complete, according to Kraft. When the investigation is complete, the results will be reviewed with the state attorney general's office to see if formal charges should be filed.

Moulik has also requested retirement from the department, but the department has not yet processed his request. The 25-year State Police veteran became eligible for retirement on April 15.

Kraft, who became interim commander at the post on April 21, said he is ineligible to assume that position permanently, so it appears Moulik's replacement will come from elsewhere in the department.

Moulik has directed the Northville Post since Jan. 1, 1987, and Kraft has been his top assistant since last fall.

The Northville Post, in addition to patrol responsibilities for the I-96 corridor, houses a detective bureau, the state crime lab and the central dispatch for all of the Detroit metropolitan area.

National educators inspect high-tech gear

By MICHELLE KAISER

Last week's visit by National School Board Association (NSBA) members "couldn't have gone better," according to Bill Hamilton, director of instructional services.

Last fall, the NSBA chose Northville Public Schools as one of two sites in Michigan to tour because of its technology system.

About 90 people attended a dinner Tuesday night at the Novi Hilton to welcome NSBA officials and tout Northville's technology system. Around 50 people toured the school buildings in the district Wednesday while Northville administrators, teachers and students demonstrated their technological prowess.

"The comments I heard most often was how they (NSBA officials) were impressed with how we had integrated technology into our entire curriculum," Hamilton said. "When they toured each of the buildings they saw teachers doing the things they do every day — implementing K-12 outcomes and uses beyond that."

Hamilton said NSBA representatives also liked how the district's technology system provided continuity.

"They were impressed with how a student gains more skills as he went through each grade," he said. "They were impressed with the teachers and their knowledge and they were impressed with the students and their knowledge."

Northville School District voters approved a $3 million bond issue in 1989 to bring in the technology system. The district is in its second full year of actual staff development based on using the system and its first year on using technology to distribute K-12 outcomes.

Hamilton said within the next three years, all teachers in the school district will be using the technology system on a regular basis.

"We have a plan that is well developed," Hamilton explained. "We plan to increase the use (of the technology system) by all teachers as each year goes on."

Hamilton said the district is currently developing a qualitative survey on the system so teachers and staff can rate its use. The survey will be conducted either before the end of this school year or at the beginning of the 1993-94 school year.

Currently, everyone is using the technology system to some extent, Hamilton added.

Within the next three years Hamilton also plans to upgrade the net work for efficiency purposes.

Attendance urged at Amerman workshops

Amerman PTA members attending the April 6 meeting were treated to an entertaining poem by Mrs. Frayne's second graders who were cleverly dressed in paper outfits resembling crayons, pencils and paper. A special thanks to Mrs. Frayne and her creative students.

The new language arts curriculum was also presented using a language arts video. This is a dramatic change from the curriculum we are all accustomed to, therefore, it is important to attend the parent education workshops scheduled for 11:45 a.m. May 4 in the school media center.

The Disbursements Committee authorized funds for the purchase of laminating material, an electronic thermometer with replacement covers for use in the school office, and special books for students in grade five involving language arts and social studies.

Important spring events began with Earth Week last week with a special tree planting celebration and the beginning of an in-school recycling program.

Teacher Appreciation Week will take place at Amerman this week. Although our teachers are thoughtfully remembered throughout the school year with treats and goodies on a monthly basis, this will be the grand event. Sue Trank and Pam Straub, co-chairs along with their committee members, have put together a memorable week to honor our teachers with the theme "Our Kids Enter a Whole New World Thanks to Amer-man Teachers." Individual notices will be sent home explaining ways your child can participate too.

Also, the PTA Appreciation Luncheon will take place Tuesday, May 18, in order to honor all the hard working individuals who contributed in any way to PTA programs to enable Amerman School to continue to be the great place it is.

The PTA Amerman Yearbook has gone to print. Please be on the lookout for advance registration forms as money will be collected prior to receiving the yearbooks.

Our ice cream social chairperson Marie Rumbley is looking for someone to co-chair this very important event next year.

Many thanks to Karen Eathorne, chairperson for the Noon Hour programs throughout the inclement winter months. We appreciate all your committee's efforts to make winter recess a lot of fun for our children.

By the way, if you happen to have any reading materials, books, magazines or newspaper clippings that may prove to be informative to aiding other parents in the important area of child rearing, please feel free to lend or give them to the parent library at Amerman.

Our next PTA meeting will be at 9:30 a.m. Tuesday in the media center. We will be electing next year's officers. Hope to see you there.

Machinery is vandalized at construction site

Someone maliciously destroyed construction machinery in Northville Township earlier this month.

Reported last Thursday, the incident is believed to have taken place around April 14 or 15 when a 1982 bulldozer started having engine problems. Upon further investigation it was discovered someone had put sand in the oil compartment of the dozer.

The machinery was being used at the Village Run construction site on Haggerty Road at the time of the incident. Damage is estimated at $5,752.

ATTEMPTED BREAK-IN: City police are investigating an apparent burglary attempt at a Fairbrook Street home. A screen was removed from a window, and the window and casing was pushed in sometime between 8:30 a.m. and 6 p.m. April 27. The homeowner was unsure whether anything had been taken.

STOLEN PROPERTY RECOVERED: City police recovered a stolen typewriter from a West Main apartment April 12. The black electric typewriter, a Brother AX-22 model, was allegedly offered for sale for $20. Police heard about the typewriter while investigating another case at the apartment building.

STALKING REPORTED: A local woman told city police she was being harassed by a 22-year-old Northville man. The man allegedly had been following her since they first met late last year, sending her cryptic poems and cassette tapes on love and death. On April 10, the man allegedly followed her into the kitchen of the restaurant where she worked, and had to be removed by bouncers.

Police called the man into the police station and warned him that he would face criminal prosecution if he kept harassing the woman, and he agreed to stop.

UNKNOWN ACCIDENT: Township dispatchers received a report of a three-car accident at Six Mile and Haggerty roads last Thursday morning, however, an officer was unable to locate the accident site.

WARRANT ARREST: A 60-year-old Livonia man, stopped on suspicion of drunken driving April 17, was arrested on an outstanding warrant. He was wanted for a zoning code violation. He was turned over to Livonia police when he could not pay the $12,300 bond.

MALICIOUS DESTRUCTION: Someone reportedly cut the driver's side mirror off a van parked on South Main between April 17-19. Damage was estimated at $100.

Citizens with information about the above incidents are urged to call Northville City Police at 349-1234 or Northville Township Police at 349-9400.

Proposed park hits snag because acreage is too wet

By JAN JEFFRES
Staff Writer

Kids who hoped to play ball at a proposed new park in west Novi as soon as possible may be in for a disappointment because their field of dreams cannot become a field of septic.

The Novi City Council Thursday struck out with an option to purchase the Peter Stanaj property at the southeast corner of Nine Mile and Napier roads after two tests conducted by Oakland County Health Department sanitarians found that the land was too wet to percolate for a septic system.

City Manager Edward Kriewall explained that the city attorney recommended flushing the proposed contract, so Novi can salvage a $25,000 payment made for the option.

The March 11 agreement was set to expire Friday. The site would have been the third purchase for Novi from a $9.9 million voter-approved park bond sale.

That doesn't mean the city won't attempt to "renegotiate and put the deal back together," Kriewall added.

An executive session is scheduled tonight in which the council is expected to discuss whether to stay the course and pursue the Stanaj land or look elsewhere for parkland.

Novi might consider filing an appeal with the health department and putting in an engineered septic field. The land is two miles from an existing sanitary sewer line and it does not appear that this sewer will be extended west "for some time," Kriewall told the council.

With 12 ballfields proposed for the site, rest rooms are a must.

Kriewall said he is "somewhat optimistic" that an engineered septic field might work, but that it will take 30 days to submit the appeal to the county.

"We were going over the site with a back hoe and excavators trying to find a suitable area for septic yesterday," he added.

However, Council Member Carol Mason, a real estate broker, said that an engineered septic field for one house costs $25,000.

"If the property's waterlogged, we should look further," Mason suggested.

In March, the council had agreed to buy 64 acres of the property, with the provision that the owner donate the remaining 41 acres as a tax-deductible gift worth about $272,000.

At Council Member Tim Pope's request, the council may go over alternatives on May 10 if it appears the city will encounter delays in buying a site to put up the ballfields for Novi Youth Baseball and its own parks and recreation program.

An environmental review of the site conducted by the city's consulting engineers, JCK & Associates, found no other problems.

Respondents divided on finance plan debt now," to "A plan to improve the city will benefit everyone in the long run."

Out of 126 questionnaires that were distributed, only 19 were returned. Eight of the returned responses came from MainCentre apartment dwellers, 10 from other downtown residents and one resident's location was unknown.

"I can't say I expected much more," said CDC Chairman Jim DeHaan. He said the number and tone of the responses reflected "apathy, which I expected, probably because the downtown residents are mostly renters."

The Citizens District Council, which has spent more than one meeting debating its own role in analyzing MainStreet '92, approved the study's findings and DeHaan's proposed recommendation to the city council by a 5-0 vote.

"They approved it, remarkably, without controversy," DeHaan said. "I was worried about that because I didn't know where we'd go from here if they didn't."

DeHaan plans to present the CDC's recommendation to the city council at its meeting tonight.

He said the recommendation should conclude the CDC's business until it is reconvened by the council. The group will be reconvened if a new parking deck plan is presented.

Our Opinion

Volunteers perform invaluable service

Northville Youth Assistance, a joint service of Northville city and Northville Township, feels that its volunteers deserve a pat on the back for the work they do with local youths who are in need of supportive adult friends. We do too.

Late last month, NYA held a reception to say thanks to the men and women who spend time with youths who, for whatever reason, need a shoulder to lean on. The volunteers go through a 15-hour training session, then get matched with youths who were referred to the program by school officials, police officers or parents.

The volunteers usually spend a couple of hours a week engaged in simple pastimes with their new friends. The activities may include anything from bowling to hobby making to just walking in the park. The idea is simply to fill a need the youths have for outside companionship, friendship and support. Perhaps the most valuable thing the volunteers do is just listen.

Currently, NYA is sponsoring 60 matches of volunteers with youths ages 6-15. The volunteers constitute the very heart and soul of the program, and enable costs to be kept to a minimum. The only expenses are the salaries of the part-time employees and some peripheral costs such as telephone service and office supplies. The city and township split the costs of the program and the Northville School District does its part by donating office space.

Someone once said that volunteerism is so rewarding he couldn't understand why everyone didn't do it. Maybe so, but the fact is that volunteer work, while certainly fulfilling, nonetheless requires a special effort and takes time away from family and leisure-time pursuits. For all one gets out of it, it still involves overcoming the natural tendency to relax and do nothing that requires effort at the end of a long day.

We join administrators of NYA in saluting the volunteers who contribute their time and talents to this worthwhile program. It is their unselfishness that makes Northville Youth Assistance viable and possible. Those interested in becoming NYA volunteers are invited to call 344-1618.

Decriminalize stray dogs and eyesore cars

Ever get an ordinance violation ticket from the city of Northville? You know the kind, tickets for having a junk car in your yard, or burning without a permit, or having a sign on your business that is too large or out of place, or letting your dog run loose.

You probably didn't mind the ticket as much as you minded the fact it was considered a criminal offense. These types of actions hardly rank up there with assault, or theft, or even drunk driving.

But now there is a package of bills that would let violators pay tickets at a violations bureau rather than make them appear in district court, and would rank them as civil violations, not criminal ones.

Rep. Willis Bullard, R-Milford, a firm supporter of the move, compares it to the change in status of traffic violations a few years back which made most tickets civil violations there as well.

Fines and jail penalties would remain unchanged.

Bullard joined other members of the House Local Government Committee in reporting out 15 bills allowing — but not requiring — cities, townships, villages and counties to change local ordinances to civil infractions.

Such ordinances cover zoning violations, fences, signs, failure to obtain permits, dog control, burning, junk vehicles, weeds, snow removal, noise and even bicycle riding on sidewalks.

The change is long overdue. Ordinance violations just don't rank with criminal matters in terms of seriousness or intent. Often, violations are done unintentionally.

We hope the Legislature approves the bills quickly. And we would urge the city of Northville to follow suit, and decriminalize the majority of its ordinance violations.

Rick Byrne

Doomsday scares ring hollow

In talking to a certain local school board member last week, I heard the same line that many school officials are parroting these days: "We better hope Proposal A passes, because if it doesn't it'll be the death of this district," or words to that effect.

It's a tired line that usually comes along with the caveats that our legislators are telling the school boards, namely that this is the last thing they're going to do for them. After that they won't try to help us anymore.

Excuse me?! Just who in the hell do these legislators think they are? Unless I've already forgotten what I learned in my American government class, the Legislature works for us, you and me (so does the school board for that matter). They'll come up with as many damned school finance reform plans as we tell them to. And they won't stop trying until we tell them it's time to stop.

Our legislators are, I hope, at least as well versed in American government as I am. Therefore, I'm certain they too know that they must continue to work on school finance reform as long as we make them.

So when Lansing is trying to tell me that "Doomsday" has arrived, that Proposal A is our "Last Chance," and that we're going to be "on our own" if it doesn't pass, I roll up my pants and break out the pitchfork, 'cause I know it's gettin' deep.

Columnist Phil Power pointed out in the Thursday edition of this paper just a couple of weeks ago that elections aren't won or lost in an election year. They're won six to eight months before the campaign even begins. That's when the candidates try to set the agenda in the minds of the voters. Politicians who win know this to be true.

I believe that's exactly what's happening now.

Remember back to 1990, when Gov. Engler's No. 1 agenda item, the one that probably got him the most votes, was that he would lower everyone's property taxes.

This isn't to crucify Engler. He's made a lot of good moves in cutting spending. But spending cuts are grunt work — hard work that is under-appreciated. It's not sexy, and it won't win him votes the way a property tax cut would. That, unfortunately, is the one thing he hasn't delivered.

If Proposal A passes, you can bet that the keynote to Engler's '94 campaign will be "I got you your property tax cut."

Don't be fooled. Proposal A isn't your last hope. It's John Engler's. And if this is the best the Michigan Legislature can come up with, then we need new legislators. Indeed Proposal A may be their last hope, too.

This board member was duly impressed by the fact that our local state representative came to a school board meeting to stump for the plan. I guess I'm not as easily impressed.

The lessons that I learned in American government still count, and my vote still counts. I'll use it on June 2 to vote for what matters to me. I won't be cowed by prophecies of Doomsday should Proposal A fail.

Keep in mind that your elected representative is first and foremost a politician. He wants to get re-elected. And if he's a Republican, he wants his governor to get re-elected too.

Beware of Republicans bearing gifts. It's agenda-setting time for the '94 election here in Michigan.

Want to blast us? Go ahead

Editors love getting Letters to the Editor.

And we aren't the only ones. You, the readers of The Northville Record, apparently like them too.

You may recall that we conducted a readers' survey last spring, asking readers what they liked and did not like about the paper.

It was no surprise that Letters to the Editor ranked right up toward the top in terms of features that readers like. In fact, in response to which parts of the paper were best read, the only items which ranked higher than Letters to the Editor were the Front Page and Local News.

There are several reasons editors like receiving letters. First and foremost is the belief that lots of letters is an indication the paper is doing its job.

One of the functions of a community newspaper is to serve as a forum for a variety of opinions. If an editor gets a lot of letters, it's a pretty good sign the paper is meeting its objective of providing a forum for public opinion in that particular community.

Another reason letters are popular with editors is that a lively discussion among readers on the Op-Ed (opposite-the-editorial page in newspaper jargon) is a pretty good indication the paper is meeting its objective of reporting and commenting on the controversial issues in the community.

What brings the topic of Letters to the Editor to mind is a report I received from my wife last week.

Our home is in Northville. In fact, we live on one of those dirt roads which have been the subject of some rather heated debate recently.

Lee Snider, editor of The Record, took an editorial position that the township should not pay to have dirt roads chlorided.

Snider took that position without regard, of course, to his boss's financial situation. And the opinion was not well received by my neighbors who have undertaken a letter-writing campaign to let Snider know exactly what they think of his scurrilous position.

Now, the report I received from my wife. She told me she had been speaking to a neighbor who reported that some of the dirt road people have been told they should not attack — or even mention — the editor (Snider) personally in their letters.

I was disturbed by the report so I checked it out.

The culmination of my investigation was that it didn't happen... nobody was told they should refrain from mentioning the editor personally in their letters.

So what does this mean to you?

It means that you can say nasty things about us and/or our opinions in your Letters to the Editor, and they will be printed as written.

You can't libel us, of course. We won't let anybody libel anybody, and that includes ourselves.

But if you want to write that Snider's opinion that the township should not pay for the chloriding of dirt roads makes as much sense as a tu-tu on a tiger, it's your prerogative.

Let 'er rip.

Let him have it.

Obviously, the best letters — the most cogent arguments whether in editorials or in letters — are those which focus on the issues and not on personalities.

But if you feel like letting us have it, go ahead.

Just keep those cards and letters coming.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

This newspaper welcomes letters to the editor. We ask, however, that they be issue-oriented, confined to 400 words and that they contain the signature, address, and telephone number of the writer. The writer's name may be withheld from publication if the writer fears bodily harm, severe persecution, or the loss of his or her job. The writer requesting anonymity must explain his or her circumstances. Submit letters for consideration by 4 pm Monday for that Thursday's paper. We reserve the right to edit letters for brevity, clarity, libel, and taste.

The week prior to an election, this newspaper will not accept letters to the editor that open up new issues. Only responses to already published issues will be accepted, with this newspaper being the final arbiter. This policy is an attempt to be fair to all concerned.

Submit letters to: Editor, The Northville Record, 104 W. Main, Northville, MI 48167.

sently pursuing other locations, checking out other churches and school buildings.

"A lot of people are really depending on us," Laabs said. "We have an obligation to 69 students who are already enrolled. We're close to full enrollment."

There is room for about seven more applicants, one in the 3-year-old session and six in the 4-year-old preschool class.

Although September is a few months away, time is still of the essence to find a home for the preschool, Laabs said.

"We are licensed by the (Department of Social Services), so we need to find a place as soon as we can so we can get their approval," she added.

The DSS requires a preschool building to allow for 50 square feet per child 2 years of age, and 35 square feet per child ages 3 and 4. Currently, Northville is operating in 1,260 square feet.

Laabs said she doesn't blame the church for its decision; however, she would have liked more notice.

"My only disappointment is that we weren't given notice earlier," she said. When the school held an open house in February to register children for the 1993-94 school year, officials figured the preschool would still be meeting at the church.

The preschool started at the downtown Presbyterian church over 40 years ago and has held quarters in the Scout building (now the senior citizen's center), Moraine Elementary and Cooke Middle School. It recated to the church three years ago.

Northville Cooperative is a parent-administered program with qualified teachers. Parents assist in the classroom and take part in all decision-making.

"The people in it (the cooperative) really like the idea of having a school in which they can be involved," Laabs said.

Laabs, who is currently scouting locations herself, said her child attended the program and will be attending kindergarten next year. She is getting ready to step down as president of the organization.

"My heart is really into this program," she said.

Anyone interested in donating or leasing space to the preschool is encouraged to call 348-1791.

ware and have the accessibility to get into all buildings," he said.

The last phase of the bond issue will be upgrading the district's telephone system. The proposed new fiber-optic network will allow the district to put a phone in each teacher's classroom. It will also save the district an estimated $30,000 a year.

"Really what it's going to do is save us money," Hamilton said.

The district is currently renting a temporary phone system and using services from Centrex and Michigan

Bell telephone companies.

The new phone line will add the voice mail feature which will allow better communications between home and school, Hamilton said.

Down the road, the district may also be able to implement a home-work hotline, allowing students to call a teacher's phone and get the day's assignments, with the new fiber-optic lines.

"We hope to have that kind of access for a large part of the community," Hamilton said.

Besides the national attention from the NSBA visit, Northville received other perks. Microsoft, which produces word processing software, awarded the district a $4,500 grant for staff development.

"When you're in the spotlight, it certainly makes you attractive," Hamilton said. "They (vendors) give you extra special little things at their cost because then they know they can showcase you when they try to sell their product. Not only is the district being recognized nationally, we're going to get those extra little perks."

The tab of the entire NSBA visit to Northville was picked up by vendors and the Wayne County Regional Educational Service Agency.

Michigan's Best Community Newspaper ... Again

That's right, again. For the second consecutive year the Michigan Press Association bestowed its prestigious 'Michigan's Best' Award on the Northville Record in its 1992 Better Newspaper Contest. (For weekly newspapers with 5,000 to 15,000 circulation). And we're even prouder to be a two-time winner of the 'Michigan's Best' award than we were the first time we received the honor in the 1991 Better Newspaper Contest. And here's another thing that hasn't changed. Our greatest satisfaction continues to come from being an integral part of the Northville community... giving you the type of newspaper you want and need. In other words, we're proud to be your hometown paper.

Veggies best way to boost value of diet

It's no secret that the best sources of nutrients are vegetables. But you may not know that the new food pyramid recommends that we consume three to five servings of vegetables each day.

Jazz up your plate with some color! Did you know that brighter and deeper-colored vegetables are healthier for you? When preparing vegetables, it's also important to remember that you get the most nutrients from fresh, raw vegetables. If cooked, they should be steamed for best results.

Vegetables can be included in your diet in a variety of ways. Cut up celery and carrot sticks to take to the office, dice green pepper into an omelet, have a salad for lunch or stir-fry spring's very best. One thing is for sure, eating your vegetables does not have to be boring — especially if you're serving broccoli cornbread, Mexican-style gazpacho or marinated vegetable salad.

So, eat your vegetables and stay healthy.

BROCCOLI CORNBREAD

2 cups frozen chopped broccoli (one 10-ounce package), thawed and well-drained
½ cup nonfat cottage cheese
¼ cup chopped onion
¼ cup egg substitute
2 tablespoons plus 2 teaspoons margarine, softened
¼ teaspoon salt
6 ounces self-rising white cornmeal

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Spray a 9-inch glass pie plate with nonstick cooking spray; set aside.

In large mixing bowl, combine broccoli, cottage cheese, onion, egg substitute, margarine and salt until blended; stir in cornmeal.

Scrape mixture into prepared pie plate; smooth to make even layer. Bake 30 minutes, until golden. Let stand 10 minutes before serving. Makes 8 servings.

Each serving provides: 1 Fat, ¼ Protein, ¼ Vegetable, 1 Bread, 5 Optional Calories. Per serving: 142 calories, 4 g fat

MEXICAN-STYLE GAZPACHO

1½ cups peeled seeded diced plum tomatoes
¼ cup pared seeded diced cucumber
¼ cup diced red onion
¼ cup diced green bell pepper
1 garlic clove
2 tablespoons chopped fresh cilantro
2 tablespoons red wine vinegar
2 cups spicy mixed vegetable juice
3 ounces cavatelli or fusilli
Chopped cucumber, red onion, and bell pepper to garnish

In food processor, combine tomatoes, cucumber, onion, bell pepper, garlic, cilantro, and vinegar; pulse briefly, just until vegetables are chunky. Pour into large bowl; stir in vegetable juice. Cover and refrigerate until well chilled.

Just before serving, cook pasta following label directions; drain. Ladle soup evenly into 4 chilled soup bowls; top evenly with hot pasta. Garnish with chopped vegetables. Makes 4 servings.

Each serving (1 cup) provides: 2 Vegetables, 1 Bread. Per serving: 133 calories, 1 g fat. Source: "Weight Watchers Slim Ways With Pasta Cookbook," 1993.

The Flavor of a Fiesta

Eateries join a Mexican celebration

By RICK BYRNE
Copy Editor

Cinco de Mayo is a Mexican holiday that has partied its way across the border to gain almost as much popularity in this country.

It's an easy holiday to remember. Its name is the day on which it occurs — May 5 — and it conjures up all the fun of the Mexican tradition for fiesta.

Cinco de Mayo recognizes the anniversary of the battle of Puebla on May 5, 1862, in which Mexican troops — outnumbered 3-to-1 — defeated the invading French forces under Napoleon III.

In Mexico, the holiday is observed with parades, festivals and dances. North of the border, especially in towns with Hispanic or Mexican communities, the day may be celebrated with fiestas featuring barbecues, fajitas, mariachi music and dancing.

Mike Farrugia, who with wife Nieves owns Rita's Mexican-American Restaurant in Walled Lake, grew up in Detroit's Mexican Village area near the Ambassador Bridge. His mother is Mexican and his father is Maltese.

"Basically it's like the Fourth of July," he said. "It's like Mexican Independence Day."

"Sometimes there might be festivals going on at the church parish. St. Ann's and Holy Trinity always have festivals for Cinco De Mayo with food and music."

But sometimes a more subdued atmosphere prevails.

"We do the same things people do on Fourth of July," Farrugia said. "Some of us might just get together and barbecue and drink a few beers."

At Rita's, the grill will be fired up and ready to turn out the Chicken Fajitas that are the restaurant's most popular fare. But for a real Mexican treat, Farrugia recommends the Carne Asada.

"It's a steak, marinated in wine," Farrugia said. "After we cook it we top it with a mild salsa."

Meanwhile, at the Border Cantina, the newest restaurant in the Northville-Novi area, owners Joe and Melissa Jancevski and Milan Stevanovich are planning a real Mexican-style blowout. They're treating the Cinco De Mayo celebration as their Grande Opening.

Border Cantina, which appropriately enough is on the border between Novi and Northville, will feature live mariachi music all day long. There'll be giveaways, prizes, balloons, food and drink specials, and the patio will be open for seating.

The cook at Border Cantina, Jose Alvarez, was born in Michoacan, Mexico, a state which ironically takes its name from the same derivations as Michigan. He's concocted the entire menu of Mexican specialties. Among the most popular items are the Flaming Fajitas and Blazing Barbacoa.

Melissa Jancevski said most Americans have a false impression of Mexican food as limited to tacos and beans.

"Most Americans don't know that they barbecue meat a lot," she said.

As part of the Grande Opening, Border Cantina will be featuring Black Angus filet mignon, 12-ounce New York strip steaks, and 20-ounce porterhouses. And, according to manager Tracie Knickerbocker, "Jose is always coming up with something new."

Cinco de Mayo is a good excuse to celebrate in your home with spirited Mexican cuisine.

Restaurants are always updating traditional Mexican entrees for 1990s appetites. In addition to the favorites, they'll have modernized fare. For example, one restaurant created a vegetarian fajita salad and a chicken and black bean tostada.

Here are some updated Mexican recipes.

CHICKEN AND BLACK BEAN TOSTADA

2 pounds black beans
1 small onion
¼ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon garlic powder
4 flour tortillas
Soybean or canola oil
1 pound white chicken meat, shredded
Shredded lettuce
Diced tomatoes
Salsa ranchero (or any red salsa)
Black olives (optional)

Put beans in enough water to cover, add onion, salt, garlic powder. Boil 2 hours or until beans are soft, and then drain beans. Mash beans.

With toothpick or small, sharp knife poke a few holes in tortillas. Heat soybean or canola oil; fry tortillas until crisp and golden brown.

To construct each tostada, spread mashed black beans first, then progressive layers of chicken, lettuce, tomatoes and salsa. Garnish with olives.

Yields 4 servings.

FAJITAS DE YUCATAN

2 carrots
1 yellow squash
1 red bell pepper
1 green bell pepper
1 zucchini
¼ red onion, peeled
¼ green cabbage
¼ cup soybean oil
¼ cup Achiote Paste (recipe follows)
1 pint orange juice
Slice vegetables and saute in oil over medium high heat. Blend Achiote Paste and orange juice in separate bowl. While vegetables are still crisp, add paste mixture and cook until vegetables are tender.

Server over a bed of Spanish rice, if desired.

ACHIOTE PASTE

¼ pound achiote seeds (found in gourmet or Mexican groceries)
¼ medium yellow onion, peeled and diced
1 clove garlic
White vinegar

Yields ¼ cup.

Combine achiote, onion and garlic in bowl. Add enough vinegar to cover and refrigerate for 6 hours until softened, adding more vinegar if necessary, to keep covered. Puree mixture in food processor.

CHICKEN FAJITA SALAD

24 ounces skinless chicken breasts, cut into long strips
3 medium white onions, cut julienne style
3 ounces white wine
1 teaspoon black pepper
1 head iceberg lettuce
¼ head red cabbage
1 carrot, shaved
2 tablespoons soybean oil
2 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce
2 large green bell peppers, seeded and cut julienne-style
5 medium red tomatoes, sliced
¼ ounce fresh cilantro sprigs

Place chicken strips into bowl. Add ¼ of sliced onions, white wine and black pepper and mix thoroughly. Cover and refrigerate for 30 minutes.

Chop lettuce into small chunks and place into bowl. Chop cabbage into smaller chunks and add to lettuce. Add carrot shavings. Toss, cover and refrigerate.

In large skillet, heat oil and add marinated chicken and Worcestershire sauce. Saute for 1 minute. Add bell pepper and remaining onion slices and saute for 2 to 3

Food as fuel could drive a body to drink

For a long time I've been upset at the choices we, as Americans, are making with regard to food.

I have nothing against chain restaurants. They serve a purpose, namely to satisfy their followers with speed of service and meals. Who can feed the most people the fastest?

Drive-through windows are the norm. Eating on the run is standard. Fat, fat and more fat the folly of those who must chow "on-the-fly."

Sometimes I just feel like screaming there is not enough pleasure derived from cooking or eating. Food preparation is associated with making a mess and the only pleasure it brings to the masses is associated with the speed in which it is served.

How have we gotten to this point? Better yet, what can be done to change the general public's attitude regarding food?

Fast food found its niche in the mid-'60s and its popularity grew in direct proportion to the number of two-income families. When mom went back to work the cooking stopped. With everything else she was responsible for, planning meals took the back burner.

Ordering a pizza or stopping for burger was much easier. Nutrition and health became secondary. TV dinners, frozen meals, supermarkets with deli counters and scores upon scores of chain-style restaurants provide the foodstuffs that fuel America. As a result many people and children are overweight, undernourished, have diet-related health problems and lack energy.

The bottom line is this, when you eat good you feel good. When eating out, or purchasing ready-made food, be sensible. Realize that food will be over-salted just so that it has some flavor. Cooking well costs a bit more but is worth it in the long run. Search out restaurants that care about your health and offer alternatives.

Personally, vegetarianism looks better and better to me. A little animal protein goes a long way. Consider for a moment the short amount of time that it takes to raise a chick from egg to slaughter: twelve weeks. Hormones ingested with the feed speeds growth. Then we eat it, hormones and all . . .

Most importantly, we must begin to teach children at a young age how to eat and cook properly. Fun needs to be brought back into the kitchen and taste buds. This education should begin in kindergarten and continue throughout high school. Once or twice a week for an hour is all that it would take.

Chefs, farmers, teachers and nutritionists need to work together toward this goal.

We have to allot tax dollars to attain our objective.

Other nations enjoy reduced heart disease and longer life spans because of the way they eat. There is no reason why we can't do the same. A great example is the Japanese government's dietary guidelines which advise people to "make all activities pertaining to food and eating pleasurable ones".

I'd love to be a fly on the wall in 100 years to see what becomes of all this. Maybe, if I eat my vegetables . . .

Italian dish an economical winner

Potluck suppers combine the best of two worlds. They're easy because the work is shared. They're fun since you never know for sure what will walk through the door. If you've never experienced a potluck, or just need some fresh ideas, these tips will come in handy the next time you're asked to "bring a dish."

Economy counts when you're feeding a crowd. Main dishes made with pasta or grains such as barley and rice, canned beans, lean ground beef, chicken and seasonal produce will be kind to the budget. And recipes for one-dish meals like lasagna, chili and stew typically serve eight or more. These dishes also travel well and can withstand reheating.

Rely on tried-and-true recipes or flavors you know people like. Potluck supper veterans always rely on recipes they've made before or new recipes with familiar flavors.

Think about logistics. How far will you be traveling? If you don't have some way to keep what you're bringing hot or adequately chilled until you reach your destination, select something else, bread or rolls for example. Will the host have oven/stove space for reheating? Refrigerator space to keep a chilled dish cold? If you're not sure, ask.

Play it safe when transporting food to a potluck. Transfer cold foods directly from the refrigerator into an insulated cooler packed with ice or cold packs. Heat soups and stews until almost boiling, then pack in vacuum bottles. If you plan to reheat a casserole or other dish at the event, make it the day ahead so it will be well chilled.

Keep in mind that many people are trying to eat more healthfully these days. If an ingredient has a lower fat substitute, fat-free mayonnaise instead of regular mayonnaise for example, try to use it. A colorful assortment of fresh fruits and a vanilla yogurt dip swirled with honey crunch wheat germ take little time to prepare and offer an alternative to higher calorie desserts. And don't forget fiber. One of the easiest ways to get more fiber is to eat more fruits, vegetables and grains.

Quick Vegetable Manicotti incorporates both grains and fresh vegetables and has the familiar flavors important for a potluck dish. It's extra-convenient, too, because you don't need to pre-cook the pasta. Just stuff the uncooked manicotti, top with the sliced vegetables and prepared spaghetti sauce and bake. Nutty, crunchy wheat germ adds fiber, protein, vitamins and minerals to the low-fat cheese filling.

For dessert, try Apple Cake With Cream Cheese Drizzle. Full of fruit and glazed rather than frosted, this cake travels well and serves a crowd.

QUICK VEGETABLE MANICOTTI

One 15-ounce container nonfat ricotta cheese
¼ cup Kretschmer original wheat germ
2 egg whites, slightly beaten
½ cup chopped fresh parsley
2 tablespoons parmesan cheese
¼ teaspoon Italian seasoning
¼ teaspoon salt (optional)

One 5-ounce package manicotti (about 12 manicotti)

¾ cup sliced zucchini
¾ cup sliced yellow squash
¾ cup sliced mushrooms

One 28-ounce jar reduced sodium spaghetti sauce

¼ cup water

Heat oven to 350 degrees F. Lightly spray 13 by 9-inch glass baking dish with no-stick cooking spray. Combine ricotta cheese, wheat germ, egg whites, parmesan cheese, Italian seasoning and salt; mix well. Fill individual manicotti with cheese mixture using a teaspoon, small rounded knife or cake decorating bag. Top with vegetables. Cover completely with combined sauce and water. Cover dish with foil. Bake 40 to 45 minutes or until pasta is tender and sauce is heated through. If desired sprinkle with additional parmesan cheese and wheat germ. Serves 6.

Mustangs whip Churchill to keep record perfect

By SCOTT DANIEL
Sports Editor

Perfect. More than half way through the 1993 season, that's exactly where the Mustang girls track team stands. Northville High made Livonia Churchill its latest victim Thursday with a 78-50 drubbing of the Chargers on the road.

"They gave us some good competition," coach Ann Turnbull said. "(But) we were just stronger."

The Mustangs moved to 5-0 overall and to 3-0 in the Western Lakes Activities Association. Northville has conference meets remaining with Farmington Hills Harrison, Walled Lake Western and Plymouth Canton.

"Harrison will be our toughest meet," Turnbull said.

Livonia was tough enough to push the Mustangs into eight personal bests Thursday. Jenny Sekerka, Rachel Liedel and Michelle Splan were among those to set personal marks.

"We had a lot of good times," Turnbull said.

Tammy Cook performed well in the high jump. She cleared 4-8 for second place.

Wendy Forster won the long jump with a leap of 15-4 while Alana Bradley was third with 14 feet. Sekerka took the discus with a personal best throw of 92 feet. Christine Werda was second with 82-5.

Northville took first in the 3,200-meter relay in 10:58.30. Monica Nayakwadi, Amy Tapp, Marci Bolger and Sarah Goshorn were on that squad.

In the 100-meter hurdles, Sara Kolb won in 17.56 while Melanie Helmer was third in 20.4.

Carrie Dalziel placed second in the 100-meter dash in 13.6. Nicole Weyer was third in 13.9.

The team of Katie Rompel, Adrienne Browne, Bradley and Forster won the 800-meter relay in 1:54.30. Liedel's 5:47.91 took the 1,600-meter run and was a personal best. Splan ran her best to take second in 5:55.50.

Browne won the 400-meter run in 1:02.8 while Laura Dennis was second in 1:06.6. Both were personal bests.

Dalziel, Jessica Pereira, Bradley and Forster won the 400-meter relay in 52.6. Lauren Nadeau was third in the 300-meter hurdles in 56.8.

In the 800 run, Laura Brown won in 2:31.40, her personal best. Liedel was second in 2:44.30.

In the 200-meter dash, Dalziel was second in 28.3 while Rompel was third in 29 seconds. Nayakwadi had a season's best 12:57.30 to win the 3,200-meter run.

The team of Brown, Bradley, Browne and Dennis won the 1,600-meter relay to close the meet with a time of 4:25.60.

Turnbull said she would like to challenge for the WIAA crown this season, something Northville hasn't down since 1985 when the Mustangs were second overall. And, as always, the coach would like to send lots of runners to the state meet.

"Whether or not we go to states," Turnbull said, "everybody is performing well."

NORTHVILLE 66% , BLOOMFIELD

HILLS MARIAN 61%

Tuesday's away meet went down to the very final event, the mile relay, before being decided.

Turnbull said her team probably would have won by a bigger margin if she hadn't put them through a tough day of practice Monday.

"The girls were a little tired," she commented, "so times were a little slower."

Northville managed to take six event victories, nonetheless. Winners included: Sekerka in the discus;

Kolb in the high hurdles; the 880-yard relay team of Rompel, Browne, Bradley and Forster; the 440-yard relay team of Dalziel, Pereira, Forster and Bradley; Browne in the 440-yard dash; and the mile relay team of Dennis, Amy Bartlett, Bolger and Browne.

"YOUR FREE
CATALOG KNOCKED
MY SOCKS OFF"

We get that sort of comment all the time. People are impressed that our free Consumer Information Catalog lists so many free and low-cost government booklets. There are more than 200 in all, containing a wealth of valuable information.

They tell you how to make money, how to save money and how to invest it wisely. They tell you about federal benefits, housing and learning activities for children. They fill you in on nutrition, jobs, health and much, much more.

Our free Catalog will very likely impress you, too. But first you have to get it. Just send your name and address to:
