

School board sets two potential millage rates

By MICHELLE KAISER
Staff Writer

Northville Board of Education members approved two ballots for a June 14 millage election, but voters will only see one at the polls.

If voters across the state turn down Proposal A, which would fund schools by increasing the state sales tax from 4 cents to 6 cents, Northville school district residents will be asked to renew 22.63 mills for five years. The district's current millage expires June 30.

If, however, Proposal A passes, the district would automatically receive 18 foundation mills under the new constitutional amendment. Then, the June 14 local ballot would ask voters for 9 mills for five years to provide additional millage for operating purposes. Under Proposal A, no school district could exceed 27 mills.

"Even if the 9 mills is voted on, we may be able to only levy, by law, 7.5 mills," Superintendent Leonard Rezmierski said, explaining that it is unknown at this time what the School Aid Act formula will be.

It could be at least two more weeks before final approval is made on the act.

John C. Street, director of finance for the district, said if the 9 mills are authorized, then the district can still set the millage rate at a lower amount.

"The problem is we have to have the ballot language now because absentee ballots need to be available by May 25," he said.

Both administrators and board members expressed frustration with the daily changes in information regarding the June 2 ballot from legislators in Lansing.

"It's very frustrating to sit here and not have the answers for people when they ask us questions," said Glenna Davis, vice president of the board.

Davis said the community has to trust the board, something which she believes people are having a difficult time doing when it comes to government.

"We're honest about where the money is going," she said. "We have to ask the people to trust us. We have to ask you to give us what we asked for last year."

Along with the millage recommendations, Rezmierski suggested the board make the following policy changes next year:

- Reinstate 16.7 full-time employment positions at a cost of $685,000.
- Open Thornton Creek Elementary School at a cost of $800,000.
- Set aside funds for a contract settlement, with a potential salary adjustment of $468,000.
- Hire, as appropriate, new teachers to deal with new growth.
- Implement the adopted strategic planning strategies at a cost of $66,000.

Other 1993-94 budget considerations would be to:

Scaled-back parking plan would build two new decks

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

The city administration Monday unveiled a radical revision of MainStreet '92 that halves the project's cost and provides two small parking decks.

If approved, the proposal would replace the controversial plan to build a three-level, 469-space parking structure on the site of the current Cady Street deck and move the street further south to accommodate the expansion.

That plan has drawn criticism for its original reliance on tax capturing, which would divert increased tax revenue off the city's Downtown Development District away from taxing units like Northville Public Schools, and for a more recent proposal to fund part of the project's $6.2 million cost through a special assessment on properties within the district.

Under the new proposal, the city would build two tabletop decks much like the current Cady Street structure — the first to replace the one on Cady and the second on the parking lot just south of MainCentre.

MainCentre's deck would cover the northeast quarter of the lot and provide two levels of parking. Its top floor, covered by a steel roof, would be accessed by a ramp off the deck's west side and be reserved for MainCentre residents. It would include a tower to a pedestrian bridge over Cady Street to MainCentre for their use.

A new 160-space paved parking lot would also be created across from the Cady Street deck.

At its unveiling before the city council Monday night, City Manager Gary Word noted that two smaller decks would provide for the city's current parking needs if not future commercial growth.

"The proposal does not address Northville's parking problem, either the real one or the perceived one," he said. What it does do, he said, is replace the crumbling Cady structure and meet the city's obligation to Singh Development, builders of the MainCentre project, to provide 98 covered spaces for MainCentre residents.

The cost savings come from building simple decks with no internal ramps, foregoing the excavation that would be needed to install a three-level deck on Cady, and leaving Cady Street where it is.

City officials acknowledged that the latest proposal comes after years of focus on a single new deck on Cady Street.

"I know it's the 11th hour," said DDA Member Greg Presley, who worked on the new proposal with Word and city parking deck consultants at Rich & Associates.

"We went back to the drawing board to see if there was another way to accomplish at least the essentials that we were trying to accomplish in

County land tenant revealed

By SHARON CONDRON
Staff Writer

Now that the federal government has awarded a grant to Troy-based Optical Imaging Systems (OIS), Wayne County officials are revealing their plans to develop 30-acres of county-owned land in Northville Township.

For months, the county has declined to name the prospective developers until a deal was struck.

But now with funding almost guaranteed, OIS, county officials, and township trustees are all celebrating the deal — a deal that could put Northville Township on the cutting edge of a technological eclipse.

County, state, and federal governments have entered into a joint venture with OIS, a subsidiary of Novis Guardian Industries, to bring its high-tech manufacturing plant into the township.

OIS, the only American company that makes flat-panel displays for commercial and military aircraft, intends to use the plant to manufacture active matrix color display screens for the aviation market.

OIS Chief Financial Officer Charles Wilson said Tuesday even though his company held a press conference Monday at the University of Michigan to announce the grant award from the U.S. Department of Defense, the deal with the federal government isn't inked yet.

"We were selected, but we haven't entered into contract negotiations," Wilson said. "Even though we were selected we haven't yet hammered out all of the details of the actual contract."

Even so, OIS officials are moving

Auditors warn against uncertain finances in township funding plan

By SHARON CONDRON
Staff Writer

Unreliable state revenues, a spent fund balance and the uncertain impact of state initiatives have all put Northville Township in a tenuous financial position.

Plante & Moran, the township's contracted auditors, had little optimism to offer trustees about the 1992 audit and the economic forecast for 1993.

The auditors' terse comments came at the board of trustees' study session on April 22. There, auditors Mike Swartz and Ken Kunkel cautioned trustees about relying on state revenues and revenues returned to the township from 35th District Court services.

"The state share of general fund revenues is a sizable share," said Swartz. "One million dollars is a sizable share and a big percentage of the

The most important rule to remember when planting annuals is to place plants only as deep as they were growing in the flat. If the plants are a little tall and "leggy" don't set them deeper on the soil they will rot off at the soil line. This condition causes the loss of many annual flower plants than any other.

Citizens group issues report

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

The Citizens District Council recommended Monday that the Northville City Council proceed with its Mainstreet '92 proposal, but refrain from charging downtown property owners a special assessment to help pay for the $6.2 million project.

The recommendation, by CDC Chairman Jim DeHaan, came just before the city administration briefed the council on a brand-new proposal to build two smaller decks and pave a new lot south of Cady Street for $3.2 million.

DeHaan said the CDC based its position on its recent survey of downtown residents. He noted that only 19 of the 126 questionnaires that were distributed were returned. While 71 percent of that sample favored the Mainstreet '92 project, 81 percent were opposed to a special assessment. A slim majority of 56 percent said they would favor an assessment if it was the only way the project could move forward.

"Our recommendation, as best we can make it with that limited response, is that we think the project should be completed but a special assessment should not be charged," DeHaan said.

Downtown residents feared that taxing property owners further could force landlords to raise their rents, and business owners to hike their prices for goods and services, making it more expensive for downtown residents.

DeHaan promised to brief the CDC on the latest deck proposal, which may or may not include a special assessment on downtown property owners.

Deck plan cuts cost, new space count

Mainstreet '92.

"Although we're not addressing the future, to me we're not sacrificing it either... I guess in my mind's eye this is an acceptable alternative to Mainstreet '92."

The city council admitted to mixed feelings about the new plan. Council member Mark Cryderman praised it for slashing the project's cost and spreading new parking across both sides of Center Street, although in fact no new public spaces would be created west of Center and about 10 spaces would be lost.

Council Member Paul Folino pointed out that the latest plan does not create the new parking spaces that would be needed for Northville businessman Jim Long's proposed retail/commercial building on Main Street, across from the MAGS building.

"If there's not the space there, then we could be looking at another deck on that (Main Street) lot," he said.

"The latest proposal actually harkens back to previous plans to build a multi-story deck on the lot south of Main Centre. When residents protested the size and location of the planned Center Street deck in 1990, the project was combined with the proposed Cady deck replacement, over the objections of Singh officials.

Since then, said Singh vice president Michael Kahn, the company has come to favor the Mainstreet '92 project as the best parking solution for the city as a whole. He noted that part of the reason for combining both decks in the first place was to create more close-in parking for downtown businesses.

"I would urge the city council to think very hard and long about what we've worked on for years, literally, and what we want for the future of downtown Northville," Kahn said. "I would strongly urge that we don't throw out the baby with the bathwater."

The deck project's $3.2 million cost would be paid off through a combination of tax capturing and an as-yet-undetermined amount of special assessment on downtown properties and contributions from the city.

Chief Financial Officer Mark Christiansen presented the council with five versions of potential funding scenarios. The first four 10-year financing plans include a $565,000 sum divided up in various percentages between the city and special assessments, and included a partial return of captured tax revenue to taxing units such as the schools. The fifth plan, which pays off the project in five years, incorporates a smaller special assessment and does not include any tax revenue return.

Reward offered to radical recyclers

Some people go above and beyond the call of duty in making sure recyclable items don't get included in the solid waste stream, but the Northville Jaycees think there's nothing wrong with being eccentric for a good cause.

In fact, the Jaycees are collecting stories about radical recyclers and are even willing to award $50 to the community's most creative recycler.

Nancy Werth, president of the recently reaffiliated Northville Jaycees, says she knows of one woman who recycles the lint from her clothes and uses it as kindling for the fireplace.

"That was really off the wall," she concedes.

If you know of someone who has thought of an unusual way to help save the environment through recycling, write about it and send your story to: Northville Jaycees, c/o the Radical Recycling Contest, P.O. Box 241, Northville, MI 48167. Entries should be postmarked no later than Thursday, May 13.

Women's quarrel turns into parking lot brawl

An argument at Northville Township's Woolly Bully's after midnight April 29 reportedly escalated into a knock-down, drag-out fight in the parking lot of the Wagon Wheel Lounge less than an hour later.

A 26-year-old Westland woman told city police that she and two other women were escorted out of the popular township bar after getting into an argument. She said she drove to the Wagon Wheel at 212 S. Main and exited her car, only to be attacked by the two other women. She was grabbed by the throat and thrown to the ground, she said, and attacked until two men came out of the bar and broke up the fight.

The woman had severe abrasions on the side of her face and was bruised.

The two other women, both from Farmington Hills and in their 20s, came into the police station later that day and claimed that the Westland woman followed them to the Wagon Wheel and started the fight. One of the two had just filed an assault complaint against the Westland woman with Farmington Hills police regarding an incident from February, and said she wanted to file a cross-complaint against the Westland woman for the Wagon Wheel incident.

City police had arrested the other Farmington Hills woman for assault and battery in December. Police are still investigating the latest round of charges.

BUSINESS THREATENED: An ex-employee of Warren Products, 637 E. Baseline, allegedly threatened another employee after his dismissal. The disgruntled ex-employee reportedly referred to last year's Royal Oak Post Office killings and said that situations like his are what led to incidents like that.

HIGH SCHOOL LIBRARY ROBBERED: An estimated $45 in cash was stolen from the Northville High School library sometime between 4:15 p.m. April 29 and 7:15 a.m. April 30. A wooden drawer at the circulation desk was apparently pried open with a screwdriver.

LARCENY FROM CAR: A $50

Targa stereo amplifier and $5 in cash were reported stolen from a car parked on Lexington April 23. The theft occurred sometime between 1:30-9 a.m., when someone smashed in the car's hatchback window with a 2-by-4. Damage was estimated at $200.

"STOLEN" CAR WAS REPOSESSED: A local man reported his car stolen to city police the morning of April 21, saying it had been taken from the parking lot at Arbor Drugs sometime in the previous 12 hours. The car owner said he was a little behind in payments to the man he had bought the car from, but said he had called the previous owner to make sure the car was not repossessed.

City police went to the former owner's address in Northville Township and found the car sitting in his garage. When asked why he had told the new owner he did not take it, the man said he had lied to avoid trouble. He was advised of the potential problems of driving a car listed as stolen, and the case was closed.

DRUNKEN DRIVING ARREST: City police arrested a 48-year-old Northville man for driving under the influence April 23 after stopping him for speeding on Novi Road. The man was heading south near Eight Mile when police clocked him at 57 mph in the 45-mph zone. He told police he had 5-6 beers to drink, and his blood alcohol was measured at .15 percent.

CAR WINDOWS BROKEN: City police received two reports of malicious destruction recently. A car parked on Coldspring Drive had its front and rear windows shattered sometime between 10 p.m. April 24 and 2 a.m. April 25, causing an estimated $300 in damage. Another car, parked on Reed Court, had its rear window smashed sometime between 9 p.m. April 24 and 4:40 a.m. April 25. Damage there was estimated at $150.

Citizens with information about the above incidents are urged to call Northville City Police at 349-1234 or Northville Township Police at 349-9400.

Education program honors its benefactors

Our Lady of Providence Center honored two civic organizations and one business firm at its annual fund-raiser April 24 at Laurel Manor in Livonia.

Receiving awards from center administrator Sister Linda Willette were the following: the Order of Alhambra-Manresa Caravan of Northville, Mitsubishi Electronics America Inc. of Plymouth, and the Knights of Columbus-Michigan State Council.

All three award recipients have provided not only financial support to the organization but also many hours of personal service and involvement with young people as well as participation on the center's Development Board of Directors.

Our Lady of Providence Center is a residential, educational and vocational program for children and young adults with developmental disabilities located at 16115 Beck Road.

Dinner fundraiser nets thousands for recreational needs

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

The Friends of Northville Parks and Recreation got together Saturday night to stage their first annual Taste of Northville fundraiser.

In the process, they raised about $13,000 for local recreational needs.

Marvin Gans, chairman of the Friends of Northville Parks and Recreation, said his group helps raise money to assist the recreation department in acquiring new fields and facilities.

The money raised from Saturday's dinner and auction will be used as matching funds to secure a hoped-for state Department of Natural Resources grant, for improvements to Fish Hatchery Park's tennis courts and nature trails.

Gans noted in his opening remarks that only 34 cents of every $1,000 in the township budget, and only 25 cents of every $1,000 in the city budget, are allocated to the recreation department.

"You can't buy too much with a quarter," he said.

Some 200 residents turned out for the sold-out dinner, auction, silent auction and raffles at Schoolcraft College's Waterman Campus Center.

The elegant meal included dishes prepared by Northville's best eateries, including Heavenly Bakery, Genitti's Hole-in-the-Wall, Edward's Caterer, McKinnon's, Rocky's of Northville, Crawford's and Grandma Betty's. Parmenter's Cider Mill and Northville Winery brought liquid refreshments.

Musical accompaniment was provided by Backbeat, a group of former Northville students turned vocalists, and members of the Northville High School Honor Society served as waitstaff.

Dozens of door prizes were handed out and an estimated 170 items were auctioned off, from artwork and autographed basketballs to furniture and two roundtrip airline tickets anywhere in the continental U.S., including a three-day car rental. The tickets fetched the highest price of any item, bringing in $885.

WWJ sportscaster and Northville resident Dale Conquest played the role of auctioneer.

CITY OF NORTHVILLE NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING ON INCREASING TAXES

Notice is hereby given that a public hearing will be held by the Northville City Council on Monday, May 17, 1993, at 8:00 p.m. in the Council Room of the Municipal Building, 215 W. Main Street, for the purpose of hearing testimony on the following:

Proposal to levy Eighty Six Hundredths Mills (0.86 Mills) in additional operating millage for 1993 to fund general City operations.

A City operating millage rate of Twelve and Eighty Two Hundredths Mills (12.82 Mills) would result in no additional operating taxes being raised in 1993 from operating taxes which existed in 1992. The proposed additional 0.86 mills would result in an increase of Six and Seven Tenths Percent (6.7%) in 1993 City operating taxes from the operating taxes which existed in 1992.

The City Council has the authority under State Statute and the City Charter to levy a maximum millage rate for operating purposes of Fifteen and Forty Four Hundredths Mills (15.44 Mills). The total operating millage levy proposed for 1993 would be Thirteen and Sixty Eight Hundredths Mills (13.68 Mills).

Board gives approval to open Thornton Creek

By MICHELLE KAISER
Staff Writer

The Northville School District's new elementary school will open this September, but the opening might come at the expense of a building that is presently being used.

Northville Board of Education members voted Monday night to open Thornton Creek Elementary for the 1993-94 school year, but are still examining costs of keeping five elementary buildings open.

Two residents presented the board with plans they've devised, both of which recommended Moraine Elementary be closed at least temporarily.

Jane Gardner passed out a two-page proposal to board members, estimating enrollment and building capacities for each elementary building.

She figured a 343-student enrollment increase within the next five years, bringing the elementary student population to 2,358. According to her projections, four schools (including Thornton Creek but excluding Moraine) would be able to handle a maximum of 2,416 students. If music, art and health teachers were put on carts, then that would allow space for 2,808 students.

Gardner said she hoped the district wouldn't completely close down Moraine, keeping it open for special education, early childhood and possibly renting space to the Northville Pre-School Cooperative.

Phil Phillips also approached the board with a proposal regarding the opening of Thornton Creek. He projected a 48-student increase in the kindergarten levels through the 1997-98 school year and 230 additional students in grades 1-5 in the next five years.

"My conclusion would be to not open Thornton Creek at all would not really be a good idea," he said. "To open Thornton Creek in addition to Moraine, you would have additional class increments without any benefits for five years."

"This is an extremely, extremely difficult issue," Trustee Jean Hansen said. "I've been waffling back and forth on the issue. I keep thinking about can we open the fifth school in 1993-94 without having to make any cuts?"

"If we wait and we don't open an additional school we will have extra money but when the funds are needed for the additional school, where will we have to make the cuts to do it? I also have a question about disruption. I don't think we can go five years without opening five schools."

The district has calculated it will cost over $800,000 to open Thornton Creek. If the decision is made to close Moraine and transfer the entire student population to Thornton Creek, there are certain considerations:

- Moraine School is not zoned for heating and cooling like Thornton Creek. If one room is heated or cooled, they all must be.
- To be cost effective, Kids Club, Wondergarten and Pre-Primary Instruction special education would have to be moved to another location.
- To alleviate crowding at Amerman, students from Dunbarton Pines and Brookland Farms would be transferred to Thornton Creek.

On the other hand, if the district had decided not to open Thornton Creek, it would have been faced with increased building capacities for each school. School officials believe the children are already shoe-horned in.

"We simply have large class sizes," said Kenneth Pawloski, Silver Springs Elementary principal. "Every classroom is being used. It is very tight."

Dolly McMaster, assistant superintendent for instructional services, appeared agitated when discussion centered on increasing building capacities.

"Big people are always concerned about the quality of their work environment," she said. "... We can't put kids in sardine cans. Sure, we can run music classes (from carts) and hold our teachers accountable for MEAP scores."

She asked how did people think those kids would concentrate if the next classroom over was having music and all they could hear were the sounds of xylophones.

"Do we value our children and the environment we put them in?" she asked. "Now it's a dollars and cents issue, too."

Also in need of consideration are the costs of keeping a school building closed. If Thornton Creek were to remain closed for one year, it would have cost the district an estimated $49,880 compared to the $93,203 calculation of keeping it open.

If Moraine closes, the district would pay approximately $22,000 for operating costs such as electricity, gas and water. By keeping Moraine open, the district would pay over $39,000 a year. Plus, the district would also have to absorb costs for boarding up windows and checking on the building daily for insurance purposes.

Board vice president Glenna Davis said she was mainly concerned that closing a school and re-opening it later could cause more disruption.

Trustee Jay Dunkerley agreed. "I can speak for the class of 1990 who had to go to four different schools in four different years," he said.

School officials are keeping a close eye on development in the area, but still can't predict when that growth will affect the school population either.

For example, two new subdivisions lining the Nine Mile corridor, Royal Crown Estates and Barclay (Covington), already have approval for some water permits.

Although Trustee Patricia Custer was absent from the meeting, she wrote in a statement that she is opposed to the opening of Thornton Creek.

"There is the potential to recoup an additional 25 percent space in existing elementary schools," she wrote. "I have excluded kindergarten rooms and small instructional spaces from my figures."

"To the previous board's credit, we will need an additional school, as present population growth indicates. Neither the board nor the administration would have predicted a recession in the economy and a millage defeat."

"I have observed an extreme stretching of manpower time, energy and resources this past year as administrators and board members dealt with many diverse and unexpected issues. I believe a delay in opening Thornton Creek would give the district an opportunity to build the infrastructures of the Northville School District."

She asked that a no vote be entered on her behalf for the resolution to open Thornton Creek. However, since she was not present, Custer negated her voting right, said Carol Rahimi, board president.

Treasurer Robert McMahon said if the board does consider closing Moraine it should be a decision made within the next month.

"No decision has been made on Moraine and whether it stays open or closes," summarized Richard Brown, secretary of the board. "However, I would recommend the administration take a look at these figures."

Board delays boundary decision until Monday

By MICHELLE KAISER
Staff Writer

Once again, the Northville school attendance boundary issue has been tabled.

On Monday Northville Board of Education members decided to delay discussion of the issue, with the possibility of approving a recommendation at its Monday, May 10, meeting. The board was scheduled to meet from 6-7 p.m. yesterday in a board study session to discuss the proposed boundaries.

Supt. Leonard Reznierski said the issue was postponed because of recent information received about the Proposal A ballot question and the uncertainty of how it will affect the district's budget.

"Whether (the information) is good or bad, there's just so much we don't know," he said. "We can't set our budget. We need to know a great deal more."

About five residents had asked to speak on the boundary issue at Monday night's meeting. However, all but one decided to address the board at its study session instead.

One parent asked board members to keep the Moraine boundaries the same.

"In three years I can promise you you'll be yo-yoing the same subdivision," she said. "You've already done it six times."

The recommendation on Monday night's agenda called for the approval of elementary option three and middle school option two. It is uncertain if those same options will be recommended at next Monday's meeting.

David Bolitho, assistant superintendent for administrative services, reported that 60 residents of North Beacon Woods had sent postcards to him as of March 18. Only one of those responses suggested the board do what is best while the remaining 59 said they wanted the district to keep Moraine Elementary open.

As of April 15, Bolitho had received 18 postcards and one letter from residents of Cabbage Town opposing Middle School option one because their children would be bused to Meads Mill.

Intruder found in school buildings

By MICHELLE KAISER
Staff Writer

Visitors to Northville Public School facilities may be required to wear a specially designated button after an intruder was discovered in both Moraine and Amerman elementaries recently.

The Moraine PTA will discuss that option as well as others in boning up on security measures at its 7 p.m. May 11 meeting.

The intruder entered Moraine at approximately 2:30 p.m. Thursday, April 22. Although all visitors are required to check in at the office, as posted on each door of each school building in the district, the man walked past the office without stopping.

School secretary Kathy McKian attempted to follow him but he disappeared. She notified other staff members throughout the building that an intruder was present.

Custodian Carl Blaszkiewicz located the man in the boys' bathroom in the hallway off the North Centrum.

When asked if anyone could help him, the intruder replied that he had already been helped and that everyone was staring at him. The intruder then left the building.

A teacher got the man's license plate number and Northville Township police were notified.

On the same day, Amerman officials believe the same intruder was seen hanging around the restroom area.

In a memo to parents, Moraine principal Mary Najarian said the man matches a description of a person who had entered Roosevelt school in Pleasant Ridge April 29 and allegedly molested an elementary student.

Capt. Philip Presnell of the Northville Township police said the man is still at large; however, they believe they know who the intruder is. He is described as a 6-foot-tall black male, about 190 pounds and approximately 30 years old. He has black, short, curly hair and a light skin tone. He's been known to drive two cars: a burgundy 1984 Honda Accord with a license plate number of BZM 904; and a gray 1986 Chevrolet Cavalier with a temporary tag in the rear window.

Police believe the man is currently on parole and was once charged with enticement and kidnapping in the 1980s.

One boy told police he believed he saw the man standing on the seat of the toilet in the Moraine boys' restroom.

"We are seriously looking at possible criminal charges," Presnell said. The captain added all schools and day care centers within the department's jurisdiction have been notified about the incident.

"At least we know everyone is aware (of the incident)," Presnell said. "The most important thing is awareness . . . it's a difficult situation. There's only so much you can do in a public school."

Because of the incident, some precautionary measures have been taken at both Moraine and Amerman. In both schools, all doors to the building from the parking lot will be locked except for the main entrances.

At Moraine, a buddy system was established for the bathroom in the North Centrum. Classroom teachers also instructed children what to do if they saw a stranger in the building.

Supt. Leonard Reznierski said at Monday night's Northville Board of Education meeting he felt the staff acted appropriately in the incident.

"There's a fine line we all walk on in the school business and society between identifying someone who just may not know where the office in a building may be versus someone who may be an intruder," he said.

"It's an unfortunate situation and I believe our staff acted accordingly. We'll sharpen our skills and discuss what to do in all our buildings. Locking all the doors once our students are in sounds a bit like armed camp, but what are you going to do?"

Last December, the board approved the District Crisis Response Plan, an 11-section guideline advising administration and staff what to do in crisis situations such as having an intruder in the building.

Guardian move gets blessing, but no OK to take tax break

By JAN JEFFRES
Staff Writer

Guardian Industries, departing Novi for Auburn Hills, was wished well by the City Council, but the company will not be taking away the farewell present it seeks — an approval for a tax abatement.

Under state law, Guardian, a leading local firm, needs the nod from the Novi city council before Auburn Hills can waive its property taxes. The Novi council majority withheld its approval, saying they were philosophically opposed to the practice.

"It really is a sense of loss to see you move on. Novi has considerable industrial property. Did you attempt to look here?" Council Member Nancy Cassis asked.

Guardian group vice president Peter Walters said the company had outgrown its local headquarters and decided to expand at a location next to the Palace of Auburn Hills.

The corporation owns no vacant land in Novi, he added, but plans to purchase 30 acres of Wayne County land in Northville Township for a new $100 million plant for its Optical Imaging Systems. Wayne County is selling the site for $1.

Buying land in Novi would be an added expense in building the new headquarters, Walters told the council.

Guardian, the Palace and the Detroit Pistons are among the holdings of a sole owner, William Davidson.

The Novi headquarters employs 170 in the front portion of its office building and leases the rear two-thirds of the facility to its subsidiary Qualex Inc., an overnight photofinishing business.

Davidson is also the majority owner of the Frank W. Kerr Co. and Kerr Chemical Co., which has 170 staff members in the building next door to the Nine Mile Guardian Headquarters. Guardian has no plans to move the Frank W. Kerr pharmaceutical company.

For Guardian to qualify for an Industrial Facilities Exemption Certificate under Act 198 of the Michigan Public Acts of 1974, Novi must consent to the transfer of jobs to Auburn Hills. Auburn Hills must then agree to waive taxes. The certificate is submitted to the Michigan State Tax Commission.

Walters said the firm had not yet asked the Auburn Hills city council for the abatement, but anticipated that it would be granted.

Council Member Tim Pope asked if he should abstain from voting on the issue, because Guardian's sole owner, William Davidson, is a major contributor to his employer, State Sen. David Bonigman, R-West Bloomfield.

Pope need not abstain. City Attorney David Fried advised.

Guardian may have wished he had. Act 198 was designed to lure new business into Michigan, but in effect is not working that way, Pope said.

"I have not voted for a job transfer. I will not vote for this job transfer. Act 198 is being used to move from one suburban community to another suburban community. It's a shell game going back and forth. We're seeing urban areas decline with moves to green fields," he explained.

"We clearly have enough office and industrial land available for this use . . . I think Auburn Hills has never seen a tax abatement it doesn't like."

Guardian plans to lease out its former Novi headquarters, Walters said.

Easing the industry's move to Auburn Hills could be cutting Novi's own throat when it comes to competition for Michigan Department of Transportation road grants, Pope explained. Communities with a major new industrial/technical complexes are given priority, he said, while Novi is still hoping for a second grant to complete a ring road adjacent to the Novi Expo Center.

Mayor Matthew Quinn, Mayor Pro Tem Hugh Crawford and Council Member Joseph Toth refused to deny the Guardian request.

"The broader policy issue is for the legislature. The net effect in Novi is there is no change in jobs. Qualex is still there. The building's still there. The taxes are the same. I can't see standing in Guardian's way," Quinn said.

Guardian also owns a manufacturing center in Monroe County.

Township manager may be recommended in June

By SHARON CONDRON
Staff Writer

The manager selection committee intends to have its top choice for a new Northville Township manager in hand at the June board meeting.

Township Clerk Sue Hillebrand said she expected the three-member committee to make the first round of cuts at the committee's meeting on Tuesday.

She and her two committee colleagues, township trustee Mark Abbo and township resident Gary Sipple, all agreed last week to bring back their top 10 preferences to this week's meeting. From there the committee is expected to short-list the field of candidates to 10, and hopes to bring in all 10 for interviews.

Sipple said each committee member will interview each candidate separately.

"We are trying to make this a dynamic committee," he said. "After each interview the candidate, we'll pool our responses and at least that way we have three different opinions."

Sipple said narrowing down the candidates will be a tough job because of the caliber of those who responded to the township's ad.

"I was really impressed with the quality of the people who responded," he said.

With 26 years of human resource experience to his credit, Sipple was the only committee member drafted to serve. He had intended to help the township's ethics board when he submitted his application, but he missed the lottery and was instead asked to serve on the selection committee.

A former member of Northville 2000, Sipple said he hadn't given much thought to whether or not the township ever needed a township manager. He said he heard of the board's dispute over the position but never really had an opinion either way.

"I knew there was a vacancy," he said. " . . . My gut feeling tells me I think it's very necessary to have someone managing the administration of an office and someone else to handle the government part of it."

The Northville Record

Tax abatement might attract manufacturer

By SHARON CONDRON
Staff Writer

Now that county, state and federal officials have done their part to bring a Troy-based firm to Northville Township, it may be up to township trustees to seal the deal with a tax abatement.

Township Clerk Sue Hillebrand said Tuesday she wasn't absolutely sure if Troy's Optical Imaging Systems (OIS) plan to build a $100 million manufacturing site in Northville Township rests on trustees' granting a tax break.

Nonetheless, she did say Wayne County officials were pushing for the abatement.

Hillebrand was one of four of the seven trustees who attended Monday's press conference at the U-M when OIS announced its plans to build the plant and enjoin engineers at the Ann Arbor campus in a research center.

Township Supervisor Karen Baja and trustees Gini Britton and Barbara O'Brien were also at the press conference and shared seats in the audience with Gov. John Engler and other county, state and federal politicians.

Three of the four returned from the conference with the understanding that a tax abatement was critical in securing the deal.

Trustee O'Brien was the only one who believed OIS will come to Northville Township without the tax incentive.

"I don't really know if it all hinges on a tax abatement or not," Hillebrand said. "But it was my impression that after talking with Wayne County's Bill Wild that, yes, it hinges on the abatement."

Hillebrand said Wild intends to file the necessary paperwork for the abatement later this week. The request comes on the heels of Wild's request last month to schedule a public hearing on an abatement for the 30 acres of land that would house OIS' new plant.

That public hearing is set for 7 p.m. on May 13, one half hour before the board of trustees' regular meeting. The hearing is the second step in the tax abatement process. Trustees have already granted the county the industrial development district zoning it needed to proceed with the abatement process.

Baja, Hillebrand and Britton all said they hadn't favored tax abatements in the past, but would this time to land this deal.

"I'm not a big fan of tax abatements," Hillebrand said. "But I would make an exception for the piece of property and for this type of development."

"It really is something exciting for the community," she said. "It's not the kind of operation you wouldn't want to bring into the community. It's a clean-room manufacturing operation. You just couldn't ask for a better development."

The clerk said she would back a tax break because this plant would be a "minimal strain on township services." She said since the intended use of the plant is of a technical nature, OIS wants to provide its own security and fire protection.

Hillebrand said she made up her mind to back the abatement after seeing the tax revenues the plant would bring into the community even with the tax break.

The clerk said preliminary figures indicate that based on the square footage of the proposed building, OIS would bring $800,000 in tax revenues to Northville Public Schools; $16,000 to the township's general fund; $7,200 to the township's police pot; and $8,000 to the fire fund.

Those figures were also enticing to Britton.

"This is the biggest thing to hit Michigan in years and I would hate to think that the community would deny our schools the $800,000 we could get from this project," Britton said.

"I'm not a big advocate of tax abatements but something of this magnitude, we would be foolish to pass this by and they aren't going to come without it," she added.

Baja said she was thrilled with the plan and hoped OIS move would spur others to follow.

"The press conference was very exciting," Baja said. "The whole project is very exciting and it could be a catalyst for one sister industry after another coming into the township."

Baja doubted that OIS would come to the township without at least the standard 50 percent over 12 years tax incentive. She said there were other sites in Michigan that have already offered similar tax breaks and the state of Ohio is offering a full tax reduction to the Troy-based manufacturer.

Proposed firm will give area technical edge ahead with their plans to build a manufacturing plant in Northville Township.

Records from Wayne County indicate OIS was promised 30 acres of county land at Five Mile and Beck Roads for just $1 to build a high-tech manufacturing plant.

The plant will make about 50,000 of the state-of-the-art flat-panel display screens a year. The displays will be made from active matrix liquid crystals which may one day replace cathode ray tubes, the preferred display choice in today's computers, televisions and other consumer electronics.

OIS intends to use the grant to build the $100 million, 80,000-square-foot plant on the Northville site. The plant will employ 300.

It was OIS' initial intention to build the panels for commercial and military aircraft. But the Troy-based firm is teaming up with researchers from the U-M to develop uses beyond the aerospace industry.

OIS has entered into a separate agreement with U-M to create a research center at the university to take AMLCD technology into the future. The manufacturing plant and the research center are two entities of the pilot program, but are interdependent.

"It is important that if you are going to make a commitment to this, as we have, that you have a research infrastructure to support it," he said. "That's why we wanted this site."

Wilson said there are endless applications for OIS' panels but for now the Northville plant will focus on making panels for the aviation industry.

"You can display anything you want on these screens," Wilson said. "But right now we need to target the high end of the market because we aren't able to compete with the Japanese in consumer electronics. We would need manufacturing space, much more than that site could provide to compete with the Japanese."

Wilson said OIS conducted a national search for a new location for the plant. While other sites met some of OIS requirements — including tax abatements — Northville was a particularly attractive location.

He said the Northville site offers

OIS room for expansion and proximity to a major research center like U-M.

"We have a site there that we like, but it is all still preliminary," he said.

Wayne County officials have given OIS the 30 acres of land to build the plant. But there's talk now that an additional 70 acres may be needed to house suppliers for the high tech facility.

HOW TO BECOME YOUR OWN LANDLORD

How much do you pay each month in rent? Chances are, with today's interest rates, you could buy a home and have about the same monthly payment.

Our mortgages are fast and affordable. And we'll work with you to come up with a payment that's not too far from what you're paying now.

With new programs available from the Federal Housing Administration and the Michigan State Housing Development Authority, you may qualify for low down payments, special reduced interest rates and low monthly payments.

Through federal and state financing programs, First of America can now offer more kinds of mortgages to low-and-moderate-income families and first time buyers.

New bill makes parents pay for kids' crimes

By TIM RICHARD
Staff Writer

Parents would have more financial responsibility for juveniles' crimes, and prosecutors would have more crime victims looking over their shoulders, under a new wave of anti-crime legislation.

The state Senate last week passed eight new crime victims' rights bills and sent them to the House of Representatives.

"Prosecutors would be required to consult with a victim before plea negotiations with the criminal are finalized," said Sen. William Van Regen-mortier, R-Jenison, author of the package and chair of the Senate Judiciary Committee.

Courts, prosecutors and police would be required to give crime victims more notification of legal actions involving the perpetrator. These would include "plea bargaining" between prosecutor and defense attorney, notice that a juvenile offender is being considered for release, and notice that a prisoner has escaped jail.

The lead bill, Senate Bill 137, would require the criminal to pay restitution out of his or her own money rather than from the Crime Victims Fund.

According to a staff analysis, "This goal may be accomplished by:

- "Holding a parent of a juvenile offender responsible for paying unlimited restitution to the victim.
- "Allowing the court to order a wage assignment or garnishment of the offender's property.
- "Requiring that a percentage of any cash bond posted be used" to compensate crime victims.

The Senate added an amendment by John Kelly, D-Grosse Pointe, to add "homemaking and child care services" to the list of items for which a convicted person must compensate a victim was a homemaker.

All area senators were present to support the package — SB 137-139, 469-470 and 472-474. They now are before the House Judiciary Committee.

Warner to take over post

By RICK BYRNE
Copy Editor

Northville's Michigan State Police Post will have a new commander at the helm next week.

First Lt. David Warner will assume the top spot on Sunday, May 9. He takes the reins from Lt. Stephen Kraft, who has served as interim commander since April 21 when former post commander, Lt. Jack Moulik, was suspended.

Warner, who is currently directing the department's Detroit post, has 23 years experience with the State Police. He was first appointed a state trooper on Nov. 8, 1970.

Warner has been commander of the Detroit post since Jan. 22, 1989. Prior to that, he was assistant commander at the same location.

Moulik remains at home, suspended without pay, pending the outcome of an investigation into financial irregularities at the Northville post.

Capt. Tony Phillips of the department's district command said, "The matter continues under investigation, and there won't be any change in the information we release until it's completed. Hopefully that will be soon."

When the investigation is complete, the results will be reviewed with the state attorney general's office to see if formal charges should be filed.

Moulik has also requested retirement from the department, but his request has not yet been processed. The 25-year State Police veteran became eligible for retirement on April 15.

Moulik has directed the Northville Post since Jan. 1, 1987. The Northville Post, in addition to patrol responsibilities for the I-96 corridor, houses a detective bureau, the state crime lab and the central dispatch for all of the Detroit metropolitan area.

"I was the first of 4 members of my family to have RK surgery. My results are wonderful! I'm experiencing a whole new freedom without my glasses." — David Gronow, Detroit, MI

"My husband was nervous for me, but now we both wish I'd had RK surgery years ago. Until now I didn't know a surgeon I felt I could depend on. I would hate to see my sons wait until they are my age to have RK." — Adrienne Awender, Brighton, MI

Bill aims to reduce medical malpractice costs

By TIM RICHARD
Staff Writer

A bill to curb medical malpractice lawsuits and costs is good but "not a panacea," said one of its major supporters.

"It's an important step in bringing down costs, but we have a long way to go in other areas," said state Rep. John Jamian, R-Bloomfield Township, after the House passed the measure 72-29.

A coalition of several Republicans and some Democrats passed Senate Bill 270 last week after attorneys in both parties failed to weaken it.

It's aimed at cutting medical malpractice costs 15 percent by capping "pain and suffering" jury awards, raising standards for "expert" witnesses, and requiring 182-day notices before suing.

The House Thursday fell seven votes short of the two-thirds majority (72) needed to give the bill immediate effect. The vote was 65-33. That means it will take effect in April of 1994 rather than as soon as Gov. John Engler signs it.

The Senate must concur in House amendments. Jamian, chair of the House Health Policy Committee, hoped the Senate will concur so that the bill doesn't have to go to a conference committee.

Jamian said the bill is legally tied to a package of bills his committee produced to speed up and tighten regulation of health practitioners. His House-passed bills are now before the Senate.

Here's how local members voted on immediate effect:

YES — Republicans Jerry Vorva of Plymouth, Lyn Bankes of Livonia, Penny Crissman of Rochester, Barbara Dobb of Union Lake, Jan Dolan of Farmington Hills, Jamian, Shirley Johnson of Royal Oak, Greg Kaza of Rochester Hills and Deborah Whyman of Canton; and Democrats William Keith of Garden City and Richard Young of Dearborn Heights.

NO — Democrats Justine Barns of Westland, Maxine Berman of Southfield and David Gubow of Huntington Woods.

The bill emerged almost unscathed after two full days of debate on amendments. The only successful amendment was a 59-37 Republican effort to raise the cap on pain and suffering awards from $250,000 to $280,000.

A separate cap of $500,000 remains in place for more serious cases.

The bill lowers the age at which children may sue for birth-related damages to 8 years. Democrats lost several knock-down, drag-out efforts to raise that age to 13. Sponsor Tracy Yokich, D-St. Clair Shores, argued that some medical complications don't show up until a child is older.

Yokich's amendment lost, 48 yes to 52 no. Here's how area members voted:

YES — Democrats Berman, Gubow, Keith and Young; Republicans Vorva and Whyman.

NO — Republicans Bankes, Crissman, Dobb, Dolan, Jamian, Johnson and Kaza.

The bill was backed by hospitals and medical practitioners, whose survey showed 74 percent of graduating orthopedic surgeons and 53 percent of graduating obstetricians were leaving Michigan to practice. They blamed Michigan's malpractice insurance costs, the third highest in the nation.

Their arguments convinced some small-town and rural Democrats that malpractice suits had to be curbed to prevent a "brain drain" of specialists.

Detroit and suburban Democrats denounced the bill.

Nick Claramitro of Roseville said: "In today's med-mal debate, you are faced with an effort to again blame the victims. . . . It is a package which will only serve to raise insurance company profits."

Nelson Saunders of Detroit: "The most vicious attack on consumers by this legislative body since the passage of the auto no-fault reform bill." The bill "will further insulate health care professionals and institutions from responsibility for their negligent acts."

Kirk Profit of Ypsilanti: "It is obvious from the debate that some members of the medical community are confused as to whether they want to earn a living as health care providers or insurers. . . . It is unfortunate that the physicians in this state are being so manipulated by the insurance interests."

Tax cut means little or no rebate for seniors

Here are answers to some questions about Proposal A that will appear on the June 2 ballot. Please call your question to (313) 349-1700. Be as brief as possible.

Q. I'm a senior citizen paying high property taxes, so I get a rebate on my state income tax. If Proposal A is passed June 2, my property taxes will be cut. But what about my rebate?

A. Your rebate would be cut, too. You may wind up with no net property tax cut at all. You'll have to check your own tax returns.

The rebate, sometimes called the "circuit breaker," is an income tax refund to people whose property taxes equal more than 3.5 percent of household income. For example, if 3.5 percent of your income is $2,000 and your total property taxes are $2,500, the "excess" is $500.

Senior citizens get a refund of 100 percent of the excess (in this example, $500). Others get a 60 percent refund ($300 in our example).

Obviously if your property taxes are cut by Proposal A, your refund will be, too.

Q. Doesn't that mean many of us won't get the full property tax cut you're talking about? Is that fair?

A. We've talked it over with Gov. John Engler and state Treasurer

Doug Roberts. Their position is that senior citizens and low income folks already are getting some relief through the rebate. Now it's time to give across-the-board relief.

Q. What happens if Proposal A is rejected? Is it business as usual?

A. No, says Engler. He is targeting out-of-formula districts — those that get no general state aid but do get categorical aid. He and a majority of legislators intend to cut as much of their categorical aid as possible.

That alternative "will be worse because it's not likely we can continue to subsidize the districts that are spending the most money in the state," Engler tells us.

Engler cites a horrible example: Bridgman, with a nuclear power plant and lots of money. Its tax rate is only 8 mills, but that raises a whopping $6,700 per student, yet the state still gives Bridgman $400,000 a year for categorical aid.

Q. Proposal A's supporters say every school district will get a 3 percent revenue boost if A is passed. Why are some districts dragging their feet about supporting it?

A. Because their costs will go up, too. They'll have to pay more of their retirement costs and their categoricals' costs.

Ask your local superintendent for details.

Q. It looks as if suburban districts close to Detroit are going to get little property tax relief. The big cuts will go to Detroit, Pontiac, Flint and rural school districts. What result?

A. Engler says it will benefit older cities by giving them lower tax rates and helping them recruit industry.

Detroit Mayor Coleman Young says that won't help enough. Detroit's combined property tax rate tops 80 mills. Even with a 19-mill cut, Detroit still is heavily taxed.

Some believe Proposal A will encourage "urban sprawl" into undeveloped rural suburbs. The Southeast Michigan Council of Governments has deplored urban sprawl but hasn't studied the impact of Proposal A on sprawl.

Engler says Proposal A will actually relieve sprawl by taking pressure off owners of rural land to sell to developers. He says this is so because of the "cap" on assessment increases.

The counter-argument is that low rural tax rates will lure developers to build in greenfields, woods, lake shore and wetlands, and they'll simply persuade owners to sell. Opponents see Proposal A as a big inducement to developers to abandon older areas.

Schools hold off on endorsing state's property tax plan

By MICHELLE KAISER
Staff Writer

Northville school officials are taking a neutral stance on Proposal A — at least for the time being.

Northville Public Schools Supt. Leonard Rezmierski told board members at Monday night's special meeting there were five areas the district needed to be concerned with. They include:

- What will be the equalization of the 9 additional mills if approved by voters? So far, $100 has been suggested as the base. However, Northville levies about $190 per mill, which leaves school officials wondering where that extra $90 will go.

- There has been no specific language on how school districts with TIFA (Tax Increment Financing Act) districts, which capture taxes for local downtown uses, would collect their money.

- What would the school district's obligation be to the retirement system? Proposal A would eliminate state categorical aid such as Social Security payments and retirement benefits by establishing the $4,800 per-pupil foundation guarantee. Rezmierski said legislators have borrowed from this categorical fund in the past.

"When will and how will that be made up?" he questioned.

- The district shouldn't assume that the $4,800 per-pupil foundation guarantee will increase each year.

- If the lottery sales and the sales tax don't go up, will the foundation still increase?" Rezmierski asked.

- What will happen to the Wayne County voted mills? Rezmierski said he assumed the 6.89 mills would be rolled into the 18 foundation mills if Proposal A passes.

"These are things for which we have yet to receive answers," Rezmierski said. "I'm sure there are other things, too. We're not in a position to recommend to the board a definite position to take."

Rezmierski said the information he's been receiving regarding the ballot proposal literally changes every 24 hours. The state Legislature is also expected to act on a proposed state aid act within two weeks.

Board members clash over millage, program

- Fully fund sports and co-curricular activities, eliminating pay-for-participation. The cost would be $62,400 for co-curricular activities and $174,111 for athletics.

- Eliminate athletic subsidies at a savings of $90,000.

- Eliminate the middle school seven-period day at a savings of $410,000 (10 teachers at $41,000 each including benefits).

- Eliminate a portion of the elementary school day at a savings of $162,000 (four teachers at $41,000 each including benefits).

- Reduce elementary programs at a savings of $85,000.

- Fund operations projects at a cost of $260,000.

- Fund curriculum improvements at a cost of $210,000.

- Fund the Student Assistance Coordinator, substance abuse, $25,000.

- Fund business education, $10,500.

- Add the following support positions, with benefits: five custodians ($176,000); one maintenance person ($39,680); three clerical workers ($69,120); two high school hall monitors ($35,840); and 10 teacher assistants ($184,320).

Nearing the bottom of the budget considerations list for next school year are:

- Restore transportation to within a .5-mile radius of schools, $300,000. Or,

- Eliminate transportation at a savings of $200,000.

- Contribute to fund equity, $260,000.

Board Treasurer Robert McMahon said he would like to hear feedback on how cuts have affected programs this past year, similar to a presentation by the Alternative Learning Program for Students (ALPS) at the April 26 board meeting.

"I want to know the impact of the cuts on certain programs like ALPS and the Student Assistance Program and pay-to-participate," he said.

Rezmierski said the pay-to-participate committee would have a final report June 14.

Trustee Jean Hansen said she felt the board's first priority should be to reduce class sizes.

"We have to have a priority to bring classroom sizes back down to histor-cal sizes," she said. "Our number two priority should be funding for the strategic plan."

Trustee Pat Custer, who was late for the meeting because of a business commitment, had a three-page statement prepared regarding her position on the millage resolution.

First, she indicated she was not pleased because her questions had not been answered regarding what would be the cost and savings for not opening Thornton Creek, and on what the figures for the strategic planning were based. She also wrote that a request was made by a board member at a February study session, asking the administration to identify items that could be abandoned in the school budget.

"Since I do not see any new abandonment items, I assume the best ideas administration could come up with are eliminating the seven-period middle school day, changing the elementary day (both of which I am in favor of), elementary program reductions (which I am unclear of what this entails) and eliminating transportation (which I would consider)," she wrote. "Has administration identified other planned abandonment items as requested?"

Custer also suggested a roll back millage request in her memo, which would be approximately 1 mill less than the current proposal. She further suggested that the 1 mill be submitted to voters as a separate millage item for opening Thornton Creek.

Since Custer was not present, President Carol Rahimi said the trustee negated her right to vote, although Custer asked that a no vote be recorded for her on the millage proposition.

When Custer returned to the meeting shortly before 10 p.m. she asked if her statement had been read. Rahimi said portions of it had, as some of the statement had dealt with an item that was later tabled from the agenda.

Although Custer was present in the audience while the vote was called on the millage proposition, her vote was not recorded because she was not present at the board table. Custer said she was not sure where the board was on the agenda, as two items were switched, and was unaware of the protocol since she arrived in the middle of the vote.

How much did you lose last year on nondeductible interest?

8.50% APR.* FIXED RATE

Maybe you've noticed it while getting your taxes ready. All the interest you've paid on consumer loans that's not deductible.

Well, now's the time to think of a strategy for next year's taxes. And consider borrowing against the equity in your home.

At First of America, we can lock you into a low fixed 8.50 percent APR loan with terms of up to 7 years. To make the offer even more attractive, all fees will be waived, so there will be no annual fee, appraisal fees, closing costs or points. And you'll have a fixed monthly payment that will never change

The sooner you take advantage of it, the more you can save on financing home improvements, education, a car or anything else worthwhile. You can even refinance a loan that you have somewhere else.

Be sure to consult your tax advisor to make sure the interest is deductible.

We can give qualified applicants fast approval—usually within 24 hours. So stop by any First of America office or call 1-800-443-5465 to apply today. And make last year's nondeductible interest a thing of the past.

Senate puts trailers on women's restroom bill

By TIM RICHARD
Staff Writer

A last-minute ambush may have crippled three years of work on the women's restrooms "potty party" bill.

On nearly a party line vote, state Senate Republicans Thursday amended the House-passed bill to apply only to public buildings "with occupancy of more than 300."

Final Senate action is due any day.

"Who are we trying to satisfy?" demanded Sen. Fred Dillingham, R-Fowlerville. With David Honigman of West Bloomfield and Joanne Emmons of Big Rapids, he was one of three Republicans to vote against the amendment.

"There was no opposition in committee. There was no opposition by any of the local units of government. There was no opposition in committee."

The amendment was sponsored by Senate majority leader Dick Posthumus, R-Alto, so late in the debate that for several minutes copies were unavailable.

"The problem exists in larger facilities," said Posthumus. Despite Dillingham's demands, he didn't reveal who wanted the change or what kinds of buildings might be affected.

"We're not hearing what the objections are," chided Sen. Debbie Stabenow, D-Lansing, a supporter of the bill.

"There's a certain amount of hysteria," said Sen. Lana Pollack, D-Ann Arbor, another supporter. "Next we can expect a repeal of the 19th Amendment (women's vote). There's no end of feeling threatened around here. The gentleman who authored the amendment clearly never had to stand in line (outside a women's room in a theater or stadium)."

Noting the House had no objections to the bill, Pollack said, "But it gets over to the Senate, and testosterone poisoning takes over. It's getting to be less and less fun to come to work."

The bill was sponsored by Rep. Jan Dolan, R-Farmington Hills. It requires local units, which issue building permits, to follow the state plumbing code rather than other recognized national codes. The state code requires more water closets, by about a seven to five ratio, in women's restrooms in such public buildings as stadiums, arenas, theaters, exhibition halls and restaurants.

The Posthumus amended version squeaked through, 19 to 18, with Sen. William Faust, D-Westland, absent. Had Faust been present and voted with his party, the tie vote would have killed the amendment.

Senators unanimously approved an amendment by Sen. Michael Bouchard, R-Birmingham, to require baby changing stations in men's restrooms where they are required in women's restrooms.

Providence obtains clearance for heliport at Novi medical center site

By JAN JEFFRES
Staff Writer

Patients desperately needing specialized emergency medical attention will find their way to help quicker, now that the local take-off has been cleared for a heliport at Providence Medical Center Novi.

Meanwhile, Providence continues its battle to win a certificate of need from the state department of public health. The certificate is required if the medical center is to complete its plans to build a new hospital with beds for overnight patients in Novi.

The Southfield-based healthcare network delivered its final testimony to a state hearing officer about a month ago and is awaiting a final answer, Frank Brock, vice president of government affairs said. Health department officials have maintained that there are too many hospital beds in the area.

Monday, the Novi City Council unanimously approved a request for a special land use permit needed for the heliport. Providence is working with the University of Michigan Medical Center's Survival Flight.

Since the Novi facility opened at the southwest corner of Grand River Avenue and Beck Road over ten months ago, patients have been transported by helicopter three times. The flight pattern is north from I-96.

The paved heliport would be located on the south site of the building, in the center of an island at the entrance driveway loop. City planners found it would not disrupt the parking lot or access to Providence.

Architect Kurt Burwinkle, of Albert Kahn Associates, was informed in March by an aviation safety specialist with the state department of transportation that Michigan does not license hospital heliports, but that proposed legislation may change that. Providence was advised to follow all requirements for public heliports specified by the Michigan Aeronautics Commission.

The Federal Aviation Administration is currently reviewing the site, with approval expected to take place within six months to a year. The nearest airport is Spencer Field, four miles away in Wixom.

As an advisory board member of Providence Hospital, Mayor Matthew Quinn asked for and was granted permission to abstain on the request.

DON'T DIE OF EMBARRASSMENT.

It starts quite innocently: you convince yourself the symptoms aren't serious. So if you sought medical help you'd just look foolish. And later it's too late.

Each year 350,000 Americans die from heart attacks before reaching the hospital. Often after a deadly, unnecessary delay. In fact, the average victim waits over three hours before consulting a doctor. Because he doesn't realize what his symptoms mean. And he doesn't want to seem silly.

Please, learn the warning signals of a heart attack. And, if you experience any of them, get help. Call a paramedic at once. Or, if you can get to an emergency room faster another way, do so. Without a second thought.

After all, saving face means nothing compared to saving your life.

- WARNING SIGNALS OF A HEART ATTACK
1. An uncomfortable pressure, fullness, squeezing or pain in the center of your chest behind the breastbone.
 2. The sensation may spread to your shoulders, neck or arms. If it lasts for two minutes or more, you could be having a heart attack.
 3. Severe pain, dizziness, fainting, sweating, nausea or shortness of breath may also occur, but are not always present.

Council tables cellular center plan

By JAN JEFFRES
Staff Writer

Novi's leading corporate citizen took a browbeating Monday before the city council, as members lashed out at a plan to place a Cellular One Sales and Service Center on a peripheral site at Twelve Oaks Mall.

Telephones and other equipment would be sold at the proposed store and installed in customers' cars at six service bays.

Council Member Robert Schmid said he was "disgusted" that the Taubman Co., which owns the mall, would propose such a facility.

"It amazes me that Twelve Oaks is willing to put in this kind of development, a garage with six bays. That would be like Tuffy Muller," Schmid said.

"Are you telling me that a six-bay garage next to a high-class furniture store is harmonious? I hope you take this as a huge step down in the quality of this community and Twelve Oaks."

At his urging, the council tabled the issue for 30 days until more research is done by planning consultants and the city attorney.

The city's regional center zoning ordinance, which covers this site, calls for 50,000 square foot buildings. But a Taubman representative says a building of that size would not fit into the less-than-two-acre site. Instead, a 6,900-square-foot store has been designed, along with a 48-space parking lot.

Requested is the use of the planned development option (PD-3), which would permit the smaller facility. Approval of this was unanimously recommended to the city council by the planning commission.

The proposed $1.035 million Cellular One building would have a brick facade, a marble and limestone atrium and a tower, as well as the millioned service bays. Designs follow a prototype set up by the owner of the Ohio-based firm and plans call for the construction to begin this month.

As many as 50 equipment models would be on display in the store, including in-car facsimile machines. Along with the 2,000 square feet of installation bays, a customer education center is planned.

Cellular One representative David Ross said the company selects high-profile sites for its outlets.

Taubman spokesperson Cheryl Williams defended the firm.

"The Taubman Company has not decreased our development standards. They do not see this bay area as a garage. There are no lifts, no power tools, no cars with hoods up. It's very high tech, very clean. People drive in with their expensive cars," she said.

"This is the new wave of communications. This is the '90s."

The Cellular One bays would face the automotive garage at the Sears department store in the mall.

"In my opinion it would be compatible to what you have in the ring road environment," planning consultant Brandon Rogers told the council.

"I frankly can't see how a 50,000 square foot building could look more attractive."

City Manager Edward Kriewall agreed: "It appears to be a very attractive building. It looks better than the Sears store."

Mayor Matthew Quinn urged the council to approve the PD-3 option.

"McDonald's on one side, Drexel Heritage's on the other. If anybody's entitled to relief for a PD-3, it looks like this property. Unless I'm missing something, I don't see the use is something we have any control over. If it's something that can be put in a regional center mall, we can't veto this because we don't want a Cellular One service center," he said.

Council Members Tim Pope and Nancy Cassis threw their weight behind Schmid.

"It's refreshing to be back together and agree on things. Troy is going to have a Nordstrom's (a West Coast-based department store chain along the lines of Hudson's) come to their mall and the Taubman Co. brings us a garage," Pope said.

He pointed out that the PD-3 option requires "alternative development to create a desirable environment providing for the harmonious relationships between land-use types and architectural and functional compatibility between said uses."

Rogers explained that auto uses are not allowed in regional center zoning, but that the PD-3 option, which calls for restaurants, offices and stores, doesn't expressly prohibit such a use.

"You and the Taubman Co. are asking us to read into the ordinance something that isn't permitted," Pope said. "I feel very strongly we are trying to build an identity in Novi. Regardless of how hard we try to build an identity, our identity is Twelve Oaks Mall. This use is not permitted. I'm disappointed with the Taubman Co. and I'm disappointed with Mr. Rogers."

Cellular One's Ross said he was led to believe in a Novi planning concepts committee meeting that the store would be acceptable to the city council.

"We have substantial dollars invested in this project. There is no way to sell products without cars coming in. This will come and it will come in the near future. We would never have gone ahead with this project if we didn't have the blessing of some members of this council previously," Ross added.

Schmid took exception to those statements.

"It's a concept meeting. You should not invest any more money that you should invest. For you to suggest this upsets me further," Schmid said.

"I'm thoroughly disgusted with Taubman and I'd tell him that. We ought to meet with him."

He accused Rogers of "not doing his homework" and upbraided the mayor and the developers favoring Cellular One's design for six service bay doors when the mall already has upscale retail stores and is likely to attract more.

"Once in a while, I wish our planners would have a little more class," Schmid added.

At Providence Hospital, we've recognized women long before they won the vote. Since 1844 when Providence opened its first hospital and began caring for single and widowed mothers and their infants, we've been listening to what women need and want from healthcare professionals. And we've learned a lot. We've learned that women want not only the best medical staff and equipment in a hospital,

In fact, our obstetrical program is one of the largest in Michigan with nearly 4,500 babies born there each year.

Providence is popular among expectant mothers for many reasons, one of which is our extensive range of birthing options including comfortable LDR (labor, delivery, recovery) rooms and a freestanding family birthing center.

At Providence, we are proud of our

They specialize not only in obstetrics, but also in gynecology, family medicine, internal medicine and general surgery. Other Providence specialists offer advanced care in infertility, menopause, osteoporosis, nutrition, urogynecology and gynecological oncology.

through post menopausal years.

Empowering women. Providence Hospital invites you to take control of your life. We believe women should participate in decisions concerning their health and wellness. Our staff is dedicated to helping you do this by taking the time to listen to and understand your needs. And we're committed to providing the information you need to make vital decisions for yourself and your loved ones.

but also quality care. Women want to be listened to and respected by medical professionals who are kind, skilled and experienced.

Many women take their health for granted. Our experience has shown that women are so busy taking care of others, they sometimes neglect themselves. Pregnancy is often the first time an adult woman chooses a doctor and a hospital. And for many, the choice is Providence.

BUCKLE UP, MICHIGAN

SAFETY BELTS SAVE LIVES!! IT'S NO FALLACY!

Fallacy: The majority of traffic crashes are not serious.
Fact: Traffic crashes rank as the #1 killer of Americans ages 1-44. On Michigan roadways alone, an average of over 400 injuries and 4 deaths occur each day!

Fallacy: A child is secure if held on an adult's lap in a moving vehicle.
Fact: The most dangerous place for a child is on the lap or in the arms of an adult. Forces from even a 10 mph crash make it impossible to hold a child. The child is often crushed against the dash panel!

Fallacy: It's only important to buckle up during long trips.
Fact: Three out of four crashes occur within 25 miles of a person's home.

Fallacy: My safety belt could trap me in a car submerged under water or I could be trapped in a burning car.
Fact: Only one-half of one percent of all injury-causing crashes involve submersion or fire. A safety belt will help you remain conscious in a collision, greatly improving your chances of escape.

Obituaries

DANIEL C. COYNE

Daniel C. Coyne, 86, of Northville died April 24 in his residence. He was born Dec. 3, 1906, in Detroit to the late Charles Coyne and Anna Breitenbeck.

Mr. Coyne retired in 1971 after 48 years as a salesman in the transportation business. He worked for National Car Loading and later Acme Fast Freight.

Survivors include his wife, Betty of Northville; his son-in-law, Robert Montagne of Fairfax, Va.; two sisters, Eileen Piggott of Rochester Hills and Anne McIntyre of Southfield; and three grandchildren. Mr. Coyne was preceded in death by his daughter, Barbara Montagne.

Mr. Coyne was a life member of the George F. Monaghan Knights Council No. 2690. He ushered at St. Gerald Catholic Church for 17 years and was a former member of the Motor City Traffic Club.

Visitation was at the Northrop Funeral Home April 26. A mass at St. Gerald Catholic Church in Farmington was at 10 a.m. April 27. The Rev. Gerald McEnhill officiated. Burial was in Rural Hill Cemetery, Northville.

VERONICA D. OLEWNIK

Veronica D. Olewnik, 63, formerly of Northville, died April 26 at St. Mary's Hospital, Livonia. She was born Oct. 13, 1929, in Akron, Ohio, to the late Curt Saurer and Veronica Carr. Her husband, Eugene, preceded her in death.

She worked as a bus driver for the Plymouth school system.

Surviving are her children, Charles, Curt, Francis, Paul, Jan, Cecile, Veronica T., Mary Jo, Susan and Ann; 24 grandchildren; her brother Curt Saurer; and her sister Cecile Ryan.

A scripture service was held Wednesday, April 28, at O'Brien Chapel/Ted C. Sullivan Funeral Home, Novi. Funeral services were held April 29 at Holy Family Church, Novi. The Rev. James Cronk officiated. Interment was at Mt. Olivet Cemetery.

Memorial contributions may be sent to Christian Children's Foundation, One Elmwood Ave., Kansas City, KS 66103.

GLENN JOHNSTON

Glenn Johnston, 65, of Detroit died May 1 at Sinai Hospital, Detroit. Mr. Johnston was born in Detroit to the late Glenn and Edith H. Loewicke-Johnston Aug. 29, 1927.

Mr. Johnston worked for a steel company in the Detroit area.

Surviving is his sister, Alda Jean Lusk of Plymouth, and three nephews, David Lusk, Craig Lusk, and Robert Lusk.

Services were Monday, May 3, at 1 p.m. at Northrop Funeral Home. Visitation preceded the service. The Rev. Joseph Wade of the Temple Baptist Church officiated. Interment followed at Grand Lawn Cemetery, Detroit.

Memorials to the charity of choice would be appreciated by the family.

SANDRA K. DAVIS

Sandra Kay Davis, 57, of Plymouth, died April 29 in Plymouth Township. She was born Oct. 19, 1935, in Northville.

Surviving is her husband, Bob G. Davis of Plymouth Township and numerous nieces, nephews and cousins.

She worked for the National Bank of Detroit from 1964 until 1989 as assistant manager of the Plymouth branch. She was also assistant manager at various other locations and second vice-president of customs banking in the Detroit office. In 1989, she joined her husband in his accounting firm in Plymouth where she worked until her death.

She moved to Plymouth from Northville, where she was born. She was past president of Plymouth's Business and Professional Women's Organization and served on the board of the Myasthenia Gravis Foundation and on Plymouth's Fall Festival Committee. She was past president of the Rainbow Girls-Masonic Lodge. Mrs. Davis graduated from Plymouth High School and attended Cleary College.

Services were May 3 at the Schrader Funeral Home. The Rev. Thomas Burnbridge officiated.

The Mother's Club, which had humble beginnings in providing milk for school children, this year raised $22,000 to donate to Northville Public Schools. At the club's picnic Monday, Margie Sievert (left) could be seen chatting with Jeane Ambler over a glass of punch.

Mill Race Matters

The Northville Historical Society Board of Directors has established a policy for the rental/use of the Cady Inn for meetings. The building is available for "meetings" of organized groups who contribute their time and resources to Mill Race Village with a donation requested, but not mandatory.

Rentals is also available to Northville Historical Society members and "connected" groups and Northville non-profit groups for parties, not including wedding receptions or dances. Rental rates are $150 for 2 hours, $250 for 4 hours, $50 for each additional hour. A $100 damage deposit is also required. For further information, contact the office, 348-1845.

Mill Race Village will be open on Sunday afternoon beginning Sunday, May 30, from 2-5 p.m. Buildings will be available for tours, but groups will be escorted from the general store so congregate there.

All buildings will be open with docents from mid June. Docent Chairs Ruth Crawford and John Reeber are still looking for additional workers. If you would like to work as a docent, but require additional information or training call the office at 348-1845. Each docent is asked to work three or four Sunday afternoons during the season. Training will be provided for new workers. Men and women are welcome.

Thursday, May 20, will be the annual meeting/potluck supper. Members will be receiving invitations this week. The evening features a tour of the newly decorated Yerkes House (first and second floor) as the presentation of Key People awards. Be sure to join this important event. RSVP to 348-1845. Meat and beverages are provided by the Historic Society. Bring one dish to pass. There is no additional charge and everyone is welcome.

A recent addition to the archives collection is Clarence Burton's History of Wayne County. Today, a little bit about the physical geography of the area from that book. In weeks to come items about the creation and early years of the county will appear.

Wayne County contains 626 square miles of territory . . . undoubtedly the first official report relative to the topography was written in January, 1839, by Bella Hubbard . . . Nearly the whole of Wayne County is included in that portion of the peninsula constituting the eastern border, in which we except the township in the northwest corner (Northville), the general level is varied only by gentle undulations or isolated sand ridges, forming no continuous ranges and seldom exceeding the relative height of 20 feet. Along the whole eastern border of the county the altitude at a distance of six miles from the coast varies but little from 33 to 36 feet. At a single point only, in the vicinity of Detroit, it attains to 45 feet above the river. Below the River Rouge, beginning about two or three miles from the Detroit River, was in the early days a chain or network of wet prairies, the ground about 140 feet higher than at the river . . . In the northwestern part of the county the ground is more rolling and broken in the surface. The dividing line between the lands of the character and the more level tracts, which constitute the remainder of the county, is marked by a low gravelly ridge, supposed to have been at some remote period the shore of the lake. The course of this ridge is from the northeast to southwest, passing through the northwest corner of Livonia Township, entering Plymouth about two miles from the northern boundary, and crossing the west line of the county near the southwest corner of Canton Township."

Cancer Myth #3

"Breast feeding prevents breast cancer."

Some people believe that nursing a baby protects a woman against breast cancer. That's a myth. It's not true. Breast feeding does not protect against breast cancer. Every woman should have a regular breast exam by a doctor, then learn and practice breast self-examination. Some women are more likely to get breast cancer than others. Breaking ground

Ground was broken for the Northville Community Park Friday, and participating in the ceremonial first shovelful were Northville Mayor Chris Johnson, Parks and Recreation Commission Chairman Ken Romine and Northville Township Supervisor Karen Baja. The park, to be constructed on roughly 30 acres off Beck Road between Five and Six Mile, will include baseball diamonds and soccer fields. Opening is scheduled for next year.

Township auditors offer little optimism in forecast

general fund. You have to be cautious about that."

Swartz also warned the board about a dwindling fund balance that's already allocated to budgeted items.

"We aren't overly excited about the fund balance, we wished it would be larger," he said.

But that isn't entirely the fault of the administration or the elected officials who are caretakers of the township's till. Instead, uncontrollable state revenues and a lower percentage of property taxes are more to blame.

"We haven't had Headlee overrides and done some other things other communities have done," Kunkel said.

Township Supervisor Karen Baja understood the auditors' concern over the district court's revenue and reminded her board colleagues that that funding source may be depleted if pending state legislation is passed to alter the court's financing plan.

Of the $4,293,450 in township revenues, $1,200,655 come from state sources and from the district court. Another $1,765,564 is collected in property taxes. Of the balance, $384,420 is generated from the building department; $374,935 in interest; and another $567,876 are operating transfers allocated for capital purchases.

On the expenditure side, the township paid out $4,172,162 in expenses. More than 50 percent of the township's expenses come from the police and fire departments, $1,589,609 and $657,599 respectively. While that may be typical of most communities, it's a drain nonetheless, auditors said.

In addition, there's a $876,066 expenditure for general government which includes all the expenses and stipends of the elected officials; $325,805 for shared services; $269,054 to the building department; $119,123 for general and administrative; and $334,906 in outgoing transfers.

Novi City Council audiences will soon be greeted with music . . . or dance . . . or drama . . . or even poetry and comedy.

But it's not a plan by councilmembers to take center stage. It is a program by the Novi Arts Council that will showcase local performing talent.

The Performer's Showcase, which is a brainchild of Arts Council Vice President Ann Oberts, will begin before the May 10 City Council meeting if plans go as hoped.

Oberts got the idea four years ago — the first time she walked into the Civic Center and saw the atrium.

When she saw it she flashed back to her studies at Interlochen, where dancers, musicians and other performers would put on impromptu performances outdoors and in other open-air places where people were gathering or passing through for a given event.

"Just walking into that beautiful atrium, I thought how nice it would be to see performers there."

And, she said, the evenings before council meetings begin would provide that impromptu audience as people gathered for the meeting. There are also people coming and going in the atrium as they attend classes at that time.

Right now the plans for performance location include only the atrium, but there's a possibility that future performers could be featured on cable television as well.

"Most performers will be in the atrium, but this may evolve to where we put people in front of the MetroVision cameras," she said.

"We hope to get it going this month. We have all loved the idea, but to really implement it is another thing."

Oberts, who is an instructor at Eastern Michigan University, plans to devote her time to pulling the project together now that she is on hiatus for the summer.

Helping to organize are Arts Council members Paula Joyner-Clinard and Becky Prost.

Application forms are available in the Civic Center at the Novi Arts Council display. They are also available in the Parks and Recreation office.

"We are looking for quality performers, whether they are quality beginners or more advanced," Oberts said. "And performers of all ages are encouraged."

Performers must be able to concentrate, she added, as the environment would only be "somewhat" controlled as people walk in and out, and may or may not stop to watch the performance.

Oberts, who is a keyboardist, said she remembers people actually coming up and sitting next to her on the bench when she performed in such environments at Interlochen.

It is open to anyone at this point, but if the Arts Council is flooded with applications it will give preference to Novi residents.

"We are certainly open to other performers from other communities, but if we do have more applications than we can handle we will choose Novi residents first," Oberts explained. "Right now we are definitely not flooded, so that's not a problem."

Performing artists are encouraged to provide a tape if possible.

"Right now I have one or two tapes at home and maybe a few more that I haven't picked up yet," Oberts said. "We are just starting out."

The Arts Council is looking for all types of performers — from the "basic" performing arts of music, dance and theater to the less common forms of poetry readings, dramatic readings or comedy routines.

"We don't need just the classical arts," she explained. "A lot of the time people stay away from the arts because they think it's uppity."

"This has the potential to be a lot of fun."

Councilman's attention lag upsets Novi resident

By JAN JEFFRES
Staff Writer

Lakes Area Residents Association (LARA) president Harry Avagian isn't as hopping mad at the Novi City Council as he was last week, but he still wants to get his point across.

"What I'm basically concerned with is they run as representatives of the citizens and they do owe the citizen respect and the willingness to listen," he said Monday.

Avagian, while addressing the council at an April 29 budget study session, became miffed because Council Member Tim Pope was reading and Council Member Robert Schmid was opening mail while he spoke.

Both said Monday they were simultaneously reading and listening to the LARA president's comments.

At the time, Avagian, referring to the council discussion at an earlier budget session, said: "I was convinced not only were many of the citizens confused, many of you who sit here as our elected officials were also confused. The dialogue was not very comprehensible."

Avagian accused the council then of "lack of action, unity and understanding in terms of process in doing budget."

He then took them to task for not listening to him, pointing out that in his 32 years of teaching school, his students were more attentive than the elected officials.

"People sit here and do not wish to listen . . . It means what a citizen says is not important," Avagian scolded the council.

"I didn't come in here angry, but you make a person angry. What you're saying to me and my people is we don't need to hear what you're saying."

Avagian stayed on for the five-hour meeting and spoke to the council during the final audience participation segment "as a private citizen."

"This council owes the citizens of this community an apology, not me. Taken aside, every one of you are fine people. This is not the first time I came to the council where there were people not listening, people engaging in conversation, people reading their mail and people who were inattentive," he said April 29.

"You don't have to agree with what people have to say at this podium but my God you should spend the time listening to them, but you don't."

Avagian pointed out that the mayor and three city council members (Hugh Crawford, Nancy Cassis and Tim Pope) are up for re-election in November.

"I'm going to take you people down and I'm going to follow you and I'm going to remind you of what goes on at this council. People, when citizens try to talk and give you input, not just tonight, any other night I've spoken, and not just me, you ought to be ashamed of yourselves," Avagian said.

The council members did not respond to his comments.

But Monday, Avagian complimented the council for the work they've done, saying they've created a "responsible budget."

"Everyone tonight seems to be listening. I commend you for that. It's not anything that's personal. It's just a subject that's very close to my personal life. Even if you aren't listening to us, make it look as if you are," he added.

Schmid said later that he was probably looking at new budget information on April 29 while Avagian was speaking.

"I think he probably overreacted a little bit to a busy council. I know exactly what he said and I think he overreacted just a bit," Schmid said.

"I have no grudge against him. He makes a good point. I do think the council should show respect to people who are before council."

Pope explained to Avagian on April 29 and reiterated Monday that the city council had just been handed only minutes before a report on the Stanaj property in west Novi which had been eyed as a potential city park. The council had to decide that evening to let an option to purchase the land expire because the site does not percolate for a septic system.

"We listen to Harry's points as we listen to anyone before us. We walked into that meeting and we have an environmental report at least an inch and a half thick that we've never seen before and a legal report," Pope said Monday.

"Harry's points are appropriate but you have to look at the issue before us. I'm not sure his presentation was positive. A resident has a right to scream and yell at council if he wants to, but it could be more positive."

Pope added that he was able to listen to speakers from the audience and scan council materials at the same time, saying he perfected doing the two tasks at once while in college.

High-tech project is forward-looking plan

The Northville Township Board of Trustees is caught between a rock and a hard place.

Trustees will soon be asked to consider granting a property tax break to Optical Imaging Systems, the Troy-based firm that wants to establish a flat-panel computer manufacturing facility on county-owned land at Five Mile near Beck. The panels would be used primarily for commercial and military aircraft, but there could be other applications for the technology as well.

At a press conference Monday, OIS announced that it was finalizing plans to enter into a research agreement with the University of Michigan under which the market for flat panel computers, called active matrix liquid crystal displays, would be explored. The potential market for AMLCD technology is vast and includes cutting-edge electronics such as high-definition television.

Under Michigan's facilities exemption program, the township is permitted to offer a tax abatement to OIS to entice the firm to locate in the township. The usual break is 50 percent off property taxes for 12 years.

The tax cut is not supposed to be offered unless it is needed as an incentive for the firm to relocate. The trouble is how do you know if the company wouldn't come without the abatement? You can't go to company officials and ask them if they need the reduction — of course they're going to say yes. In essence, officials are left with deciding whether to call the bluff of the company and reject the tax cut, hoping they'll follow through with their plans anyway. It amounts to having to prove a negative.

The inherent problems of the state tax abatement program aside, we believe this one's an easy call. The OIS plant would be a $100 million facility on 30 acres of land owned by Wayne County. The county has agreed to sell the land for the minimum legal consideration of $1.

Development

County officials are lobbying hard for the tax abatement and we would join the chorus in favor of approval.

The OIS plant, measuring 80,000 square feet, would be a clean manufacturing complex employing approximately 300 people. Situated in an undeveloped area, the industrial park would be expandable in the event the OIS/U-M research partnership finds commercial market potential for the high-tech product. OIS is currently the only American firm producing flat-panel displays for aviation.

There are some big-name players involved in this venture: OIS (a subsidiary of Guardian Industries), U-M, the U.S. Defense Department. Trustees who attended the Monday press conference rightly called it an exciting project and one that doesn't come your way every day. According to estimates, the development would add $800,000 to the coffers of the local school district and $16,000 to the township treasury. Another $7,200 and $8,000 would be added to the township police and fire funds, respectively.

Tax abatements, for all their faults, remain a reality and must be given due consideration when requested. Several cities, including one in Ohio, have rolled out the tax break welcome mat for OIS, and this project is too valuable to risk losing to another community. We urge prompt and positive action by the board of trustees.

A hearing on the tax reduction is scheduled for 7 p.m. Thursday, May 13 in township hall. Public input is welcome.

'Tis human to err at editing

One of the drawbacks of being in the newspaper business is that your name can get connected with the inevitable gaff that occasionally shows up in print. Unlike most jobs where the blunders get noticed by only a few people in the office, editors who flub up have their mistakes reproduced thousands of times and deposited on readers' doorsteps.

Most of the time, the errors that seem to come out of nowhere are of the typographical variety and do little more than offend some people's sense of proper grammar. That's embarrassing enough. Unfortunately, there are times when real doozies appear that do more than just cause people to roll their eyes reprovingly.

A case in point happened last week when portions of two letters to the editor got transposed and the names of the writers appeared in the wrong places. The letters, coincidentally, were on related subjects and represented divergent points of view.

I'm told the confusion that resulted from the mistake led to some negative backlash and, for one of the writers in particular, caused some troubling misunderstandings.

Rather than attempt to explain how the mix-up occurred, let me just say that this was a regrettable error of juxtaposition which we've tried to make good in the letters section of today's edition. Please look over the following page for a clarification.

Fortunately, most mistakes that appear in the newspaper are the kind you can laugh about at a later date. The printed goof seems to come with the territory, and all editors have stories to tell of how they ended up red-faced from a blooper that slipped past their normally eagle-eyed glare.

My worst miscue happened when I worked on Grosse Ile and we botched up a column called the "Ministerial Message," a weekly homily that was written by the pastors of the local churches on a rotating basis.

One week it was the Baptists' turn to submit, and the pastor wrote a column that was full of chapter and verse straight from the Gospels. The column was quite serious and many of the quotes the minister used were fundamental statements of Christian belief from the mouth of Jesus himself.

One quote began in the middle of a sentence and, hence, required the use of ellipsis marks (. . .) to indicate an intentional omission. As it turned out, the code for ellipses in our computer system was almost identical to the code for the superscript "6." Superscripts are tiny numbers like those used to designate footnotes in an academic text.

Of all the times for it to happen, the wrong code got used when the article was being typed, and one of Jesus' remarks, a critical pronouncement about the nature of good and evil, appeared in the paper preceded by "6 6 6," the symbol for the antichrist in the book of Revelation.

By the time I arrived at work the morning the paper came out the calls had already started coming in. The Baptists were really upset. One parishioner asked if the dastardly deed had been done on purpose, while another wondered if it wasn't that age-old troublemaker Satan himself who was responsible. It took quite a bit of doing for me to explain what had actually happened. I'm still not sure everyone was convinced.

Editors are bedeviled by many demons, and the printed mistake might be the worst of them all.

Sexism is a one-way taboo

Three laws govern the State Capitol press corps. They aren't statutes or rules the correspondents voted on. Rather, they're natural laws, like supply and demand.

First, it's OK to take God's name in vain. God is male and perhaps white.

Second, if a man makes a sexual reference the sky crashes, as Sens. Jack Welborn and Gil DiNello learned last week.

Third, if a woman says the same thing — no problem.

Cussing goes on from time to time, particularly when politicians get excited. Capitol inhabitants shrug. That's the first law.

The second law — drop the bomb on males who say something naughty — was implemented last week against Welborn, R-Kalamazoo, who referred to a ban on nude dancing as the "titty" bill. DiNello, R-Macomb County, made a gesture of agreement with his lapels. So a female reporter from Michigan State University threw a connotation fit in a column of the State News.

Daily papers and Detroit TV ignored the medical malpractice bill, the draconian crime bills and the $3 billion school aid bill and obeyed the third law by covering the controversy. The State News rookie became a film-at-11 star.

The Democratic Party issued a page of purple prose about "gross disregard for women," "an absolute failure to appreciate the unique vision and perspective women have already brought to state government," and, of course, that old warhorse "insensitivity." It stopped just short of asking Welborn to commit suicide by self-immolation.

Columnists raged unrelentingly over the two-sentence incident.

The last time I heard the T-word in mixed company, it was used by a feminist reporter who otherwise was fond of spotting sexual harassment (as if anyone ever would harass her). And the first four times I heard the F-word in mixed company, the orators were all young women.

Those examples bring us to the third law: Women can say whatever they wish, or use any four-letter terms, with impunity.

Take Sen. Lana Pollack, D-Ann Arbor, discussing an abortion regulation bill. She said it would force women "to jump through another legal barrier put up by the dominant male police officers who serve as senators in this body — individuals who never have been pregnant, never will be pregnant, many of whom I maintain have helped pregnant women with whom they have been involved, emotionally or otherwise, to seek an abortion."

That was permissible. As I read it, Pollack suggests (1) men shouldn't vote on abortion bills and (2) an unspecified number of male senators have paid for abortions of convenience while spouting Right to Life's line in public.

A couple of days later, Pollack objected to a crippling amendment a male senator wanted to tack on a House bill she was supporting.

"It (a bill helping women) gets over to the Senate, and testosterone poisoning takes over."

Did my brothers and sisters in the pack write a barrage of reaction pieces? Never. Did the male senators take offense, accuse her of sexism and insensitivity, and demand she crawl apologetically across the floor? They didn't dare.

Men can't say "boobs," but women can. The first time I heard the word in mixed company, it was used by a female Republican legislator. "I've got the boobs to fight this," she said, using the word as a synonym for courage.

Careful readers will notice I neither attack nor defend the unwritten laws. I just try to obey them, explain them to the readers at home and stay out of trouble.

Letters

School information was balanced

(Editor's note: Portions of the following two letters were transposed in the April 29 edition of The Northville Record, so that the text of the letters got intermingled and the author's names attached to the wrong documents. We here reprint the letters in their entirety with apologies to the two letter writers.)

To the Editor:

I disagree with your position that information and evaluations of school funding proposals by school officials is biased propaganda.

School funding in Michigan is in crisis, and we all painfully know that the current system is allocating money to school is not working. In March there were at least four school finance reform packages being discussed in Lansing (the Governor's Plan, the House Bipartisan Plan, Team 16, and O/K), each of them having different goals, philosophies and methods of funding, and each of them with different potential effects on Northville Public Schools. Our professional administrators have continuous access to the ongoing changes in this latest proposal, as well as ongoing contact with legislators in order to gain the most current information. These same administrators know from day to day, year after year, how changes impact Northville Public Schools.

We expect our school officials to be diligent in their study of school funding, and be knowledgeable about how much money Northville needs and from whence it comes—and we hold them accountable for getting the most money they can. School officials have the front line and historical knowledge to evaluate each piece of information as it relates to Northville Public Schools. They have the expertise to make assessments regarding the impact of any legislation on our schools, our educational programs and our students. We should not deny ourselves the benefit of work we expect them to do. Giving information and evaluating that information within a context of expertise is not presenting political bias.

I want to know their evaluations. My taxes pay for their expertise, and I know of no other source that has the specific knowledge they have. I use this information to know how each piece of legislation will affect our schools, to integrate this with other information, and to make an informed choice. If we prevent our school officials from giving us their expert evaluation, we are sentencing ourselves to ignorance. When we are ignorant our choices are limited and our decisions impaired. I do not want that for the future of Northville Public Schools.

Tolerance must extend to religion

To the Editor:

In response to Tim Richard's "Codes can hide the true intent" (April 22).

Mr. Richards has been consistently bashing parents who dare to challenge the current MEA-driven education system, especially Christian parents. I find it incongruent that we as a society are to be tolerant and accepting of all the diverse groups that make up this country, yet it's acceptable to ridicule and criticize Christians.

Have conservative Christians become the new boogymen for the liberal news media? I'm astounded by the absurdity of Mr. Richard's opinion that any parent who is concerned or dissatisfied with the current education system must be a part of this Christian boogymen conspiracy.

Many parents in this community are alarmed by what is happening in our schools. Being concerned does not make you a Christian, furthermore it is irrelevant what religious preference parents have. What is important is that many community members are questioning the quality and character of education produced for the escalating financial expenditures all of us are required to make.

We have a high level of parent involvement in this community. Too many of us have come up against a brick wall in Dolly McMaster and our present school board. Parents have been treated poorly on numerous occasions, both publicly and privately. They are quick to remind us to trust them because they are the experts and our concerns are unfounded. We are expected to pay our taxes on time without complaining about the lack of accountability.

I've noticed there are a lot of new definitions in today's politically correct vocabulary. Well, where there are schools there are children. Where there are children there are parents. When parents talk with other parents about common problems they sometimes form groups in their effort to deal with these problems. Maybe that is how we define conspiracy these days? To borrow a line from Mr. Richard's article, I believe he may be suffering from an "overactive and suspicious imagination."

Error with letter needs correcting

To the Editor:

The editing error that placed my signature on someone else's letter in the 4/29 Northville Record is regrettable and has been the cause of concern for many people. Please be assured that as president-elect of the Northville Council of PTA's, I take seriously and fully intend to support the purposes and objectives of PTA:

- "To bring into closer relation the home and the school, that parents and teachers may cooperate."
- "To develop between educators and the general public . . . united efforts."

I will continue to express my concerns with a recognition of mutual goals, without name-calling and without damage to anyone's dignity. If anyone has questions regarding my stance, please call me or any PTA president. Thank you to those who have been "putting out the fires" caused by this error.

Sincerely,

Caryn Doehler

President-elect
Northville Council of PTA's

Was visit really without cost?

To the editor:

The Northville Public Schools administration has often emphasized that this week's visit by the National School Boards Association (NSBA) comes at absolutely no cost to the district.

Can we conclude from Monday's Northville Record article where William Hamilton said the six months of planning and organizing "was certainly a lot of work," was actually work done outside of compensated hours?

Can we conclude when Superintendent Rezmierski said "There has been an awful lot of work put into this by Bill Hamilton, Jan Purcell, Barbara Fife, the entire systems department and building administrators and staff," that this work did not take time away from their compensated assignments together?

Can we conclude that intrinsic costs like the lost learning time of our children, distracted by parades of suited figures marching up and down the corridors and through the classroom, has no measure of value to the administration?

We can conclude that even with the vendor sponsors paying for the meals, this demonstration for the NSBA is by no means a free lunch.

Schools teach 'real' meanings

To the editor:

The "real world" is a phrase which is being used to distort essential and real differences between business and the "school world." The two worlds are not inclusive. In addition, those who would force the former upon the latter fail to appreciate what education offers to the individual and society.

Business and education do have similarities, however, they are fundamentally different in terms of their resources, their purposes, and their products. The shallow "real world" analyses I have read in these pages sadden and anger me. A school's main resource is its children. If Ford feels the parts quality from a supplier is too low, what does it do? "Real world" competition forces and improvement or the supplier loses the contract. What does the school do when the children are not up to expectation? Parents are not told to take this or that one back and try again. Will the school choose a new supplier?

In the "real world" Ford knows its purpose is to sell cars. What is the purpose of the "school world?" Is it to a. produce law-abiding citizens; b. develop workers for business; c. nurture well-rounded, literate individuals; or d. all of the above? In the 140 years of public education in the U.S. there never has been total agreement.

An ironic area of consensus does exist. Schools are supposed to be anti-competitive, egalitarian institutions. Rather like a family, you know. Everyone wants her/his child above average and to have equal access to all opportunities. One need only look at the school funding debate to observe this. In order to accomplish this, schools are morally, and often legally, compelled to bring up those LEAST able to compete. Who would be willing to teach the less able if the "real world" ethos prevailed? How many students would survive in such a relentlessly Darwinistic atmosphere?

Finally, the product of the educational system is its very resource — people. When children come into the "school world" they are whole people who must be nurtured, disciplined, respected, and taught (again, much like in a family) so that they become the productive adults whom we all earnestly desire.

Perhaps it is true that the "school world" is an "obsolete Soviet-style system" as one writer put it, and that it ought to be tossed on the scrap heap of history. On the other hand, maybe business could learn something from the "school world" which emphasizes the value of the person over and above any product he/she produces. It's called humanity.

GOP Senators are gridlocking

To the Editor:

President Clinton's job stimulus bill remains stillborn in the Senate because of the obstructive tactics of the grid-lock twins — Bob Dole and Phil Gramm, among others in the Republican party. They refer to parts of the bill as pork-barrel pay-offs to lobbying interests, big and small. I wonder what Phil Gramm calls the multi-billion dollar super-conductor that he favors for his state of Texas? How many Republican senators favor, and benefit from, the multi-billion dollar components that will be needed for the Space Station, that are to be built in their respective states?

Russian Cosmonauts, on Russia's Space Station MIR, were asked what they do all day; their reply was that "they try to stay alive."

Do we really need a space station and a superconductor now, given our disastrous financial situation.

Library service was excellent

To the Editor:

"Better late than never" regarding the Northville Public library. On two recent visits to the library I found the librarians to be very friendly and helpful — not knowing how to operate the computer I asked for help. One of the librarians checked the books I wanted on the computer and then took me to the stacks and found the book for me.

Yvonne Rollings

Information was closely analyzed

To the Editor:

Children cannot vote. Adults can. Issues affecting children must be voted on by knowledgeable adults that understand the impact on children of proposed legislation.

The Legislative Action Network (LAN), a committee of the Northville Council of PTA, is responsible for the information published in the "School News" of August 1992 regarding the November Ballot Proposals A and C.

The committee is comprised of a diverse group of Northville area citizens, representing the parent organizations of all Northville Public Schools (NPS) buildings. All organizations affiliated with the National PTA (local building units, councils, and state bodies) share in the responsibility to fulfill one of the Objects of the PTA, "to secure adequate laws for the care and protection of children and youth."

The data collected by the LAN was studied and analyzed during many meetings over the summer of 1992, and compiled into a document which could be easily understood by the public. It explained the impact on the Northville community and school district from data obtained from John Street, NPS business manager.

Robert Bernard made telephone contact with Lynda Baca, chairperson of the LAN, while this process was in progress. He was encouraged to attend the open meetings, but did not, and was sent draft documents.

The cooperative relationship and open communication that does exist between NPS and Northville PTAs should only be interpreted as fulfilling another of the Objects of the PTA, "to develop between educators and the general public such united efforts as will secure for all children and youth the highest advantages in physical, mental, social, and spiritual education."

The LAN is preparing an analysis of Proposal A which will be available prior to the June 2 election. Study meetings will be held, tonight, May 6, and May 12 at 7:15 p.m. at Northville High School. All community members are urged to attend.

Sharon Ferrara, President Northville
Community Council of PTAs

Watchdog is self-serving

To the Editor:

Upon reviewing a recent issue of The Northville Record, I noted yet another "Robert Bernard article." As a longtime reader, I decided for the first time to scan your newspaper's personnel directory to see if Mr. Bernard has been hired as a consulting editor or staff writer.

While Mr. Bernard's initial concerns with the district's affairs may have had some merit, his latest activities are viewed by many in the community as self-serving and counter-productive.

How does Mr. Bernard square his concern with the proper spending of the taxpayer's money, with the squandering of district funds to engage him in frivolous litigation?

Perhaps Mr. Bernard's crusade would be better suited in Washington D.C. After all, the federal government's pockets are far deeper than the school district's.

Hopefully, Mr. Bernard will take his show on the road soon.

James Raffel

There are too Democrats here

To the Editor:

Please let Lee Snider know that there are Democrats in Northville Township! We may not be the majority, but we do exist. I recently moved here after years of living in Ann Arbor, and I am still adjusting to being a member of the minority. I hope he continues to vote according to his principles rather than succumbing to peer pressure — that is certainly not my intention.

Teachers have no complaints

To the editor:

Phil Jerome is 100 percent correct when he wrote that school teachers have passed by industry in the past 10 years. When you are receiving 40-45 percent more than you did six years ago, you really don't know how the rest of the world lives and besides that you have a lot of nerve complaining when the country is trying to recover from a depression.

There are plenty of young college graduates that are looking for teaching jobs and would work for a lot less.

I do a few teachers' tax returns and they aren't complaining. One made $61,500 and put $10,000 in her tax deferred annuity to add to the previous balance of $132,000.

She also has a retirement pension, health insurance, sick days, Christmas breaks along with Easter and a few other breaks during the year. To top it off, she has eight weeks during the summer. She told me she has no complaints.

You can't beat their pension. I'll never forget the spring of 1989 when I did my aunt's 1988 tax return. She had received an extra year's salary in February 1988. When I asked about that, she said they had so much money in the pension fund that a years bonus was declared. The two previous years they had received a 13th check. I don't remember reading about that in the newspapers. I'll remember it when their pension fund is low and they cry about it. It reminds me of how Detroit is run.

I hope the Northville Township Board of Trustees don't grant a tax abatement at Five Mile and Beck Road to one of the richest men in Michigan. He is already receiving $50 million from the federal government for his plant.

What do tax abatements do? They just put more taxes on the little guy who drives a Ford or Chevy so he can drive around in his chauffeur-driven Lincoln. How do they help with our schools? Look at how General Motors is treating Ypsilanti.

If they want to locate here, fine, but they can afford to put their own money at risk.

the more popular forms of transportation in a country facing critical shortages of fuel and nightly blackouts — the ox-drawn cart.

It seems like we're aboard the S.S. Minnow at times, if not the Edmund Fitzgerald.

We cast off from Key West's Oceanside Marina two hours before dawn on April 18, our destination Cuba. But a few hours into the voyage, I begin to wonder whether we'll arrive at all.

Thirty-two years earlier to the day, a U.S.-backed Cuban invasion force was fighting a losing battle against Fidel Castro's soldiers at the Bay of Pigs, following a pre-dawn landing on April 17, 1961.

Our mission is a more peaceful one, to reconnoiter the island as sightseers aboard the 42-foot Newfie Bullet, and report our findings in various publications upon our return. Publishing stories is one way around the 32-year-old U.S. trade embargo that forbids United States citizens other than journalists, researchers or politicians on assignment from spending any money in Cuba.

The motorboat's owner, Stewart Oldford, Sr. of Northville Lumber, along with Northville restaurateur John Genitti and seven others, had originally planned to make the crossing with a flotilla bringing medical supplies and humanitarian relief to the beleaguered island nation. But when the flotilla's departure date was pushed back a week at the request of Cuban officials, we decide to sail alone, a sort of unofficial advance party for the fleet.

Our mission seems ill-fated from the start. The crew had failed to seal a slow leak in the 15-year-old ship's inflatable dinghy the night before our departure, and a depth finder on the flybridge broke down. One hour out of the harbor, as the lights of the Key West skyline slowly sink into the dark horizon, an electrical fire breaks out on the bridge. Quick action with a fire extinguisher by passenger Harry Brown, and a few repairs by captain Skip Lembright, and we're on our way again.

But it isn't long before a more serious problem develops. As we make our way across the 90 miles of open ocean in the Florida Straits, just outside the capital city of Havana, the port engine sputters and dies. It starts back up, reluctantly, and continues to run erratically as we keep heading south toward our destination at Marina Hemingway.

As the skyline begins to brighten off our port side, so do our spirits and our luck. The skipper sets two fishing lines and leaves the rods sitting on the fly-bridge, waiting for a strike, and by late morning Oldford has reeled in a two-foot mahi mahi that struck the starboard line and set the reel clattering as it pulled out the line. First mate Kellee Tartanis quickly turns it into a spicy fish stew which she serves with hunks of thick, buttered Bahamian bread left over from the ship's last port of call.

Thus culinary feat is made all the more impressive by rough seas encountered throughout the crossing. We have a following sea, which means the four- to six-foot swells are coming at us from behind. The Newfie Bullet, a seaworthy boat but slow, rolls backward over the swells as they head south faster than us, raising the stern first as the boat surfs briefly down the front of the wave, and then lifting the bow as the mounds of water race ahead. The boat seems to pause as it slides down the back

Spring fashion show

A spring fashion show has been planned for 12:30 p.m. Wednesday, May 12, at First Presbyterian Church in downtown Northville. Church members will model fashions from Victoria's Place and Margo's. Margo's will also style the models' hair.

Refreshments will be served. Tickets are $5 and are available in advance through the church or at the door. The event is being sponsored by the church's Women's Association. For more information, call the church at 349-0911.

Scholarship available

The Women's National Farm and Garden Association—Northville branch will award a scholarship to a woman seeking to re-enter school or further her education.

Applicants should be 25 or older and plan to attend an accredited program of study at a Michigan college or university, should be able to demonstrate financial need and be a resident of Northville city or township or live within the Northville school district.

For additional information and an application form, contact Barbara O'Brien at 455-6000.

Northville Newcomers

On Wednesday, May 12, the Northville Newcomers will be traveling through a mini-home tour of some of Northville's finest homes. The tour will include a luncheon at Ruffe's Restaurant, 18370 Northville Road between Six and Seven Mile roads. People wanting to participate should meet in Ruffe's parking lot at 9:30 a.m.

The ladies bridge club meets every Wednesday in May. New players are always welcome.

A children's outing is scheduled for May 14. Members should meet at Bonaventure Skating Center, 24505 Halstead Road in Farmington Hills for a pre-school skating session from 10 to 11:30 a.m. The session is for children 8 and under. The price is $3.50 which includes skate rental. Let Tami Banter know by May 7 if you're interested in going.

Glen and Betty House will be hosting the couple's bridge game this Saturday.

Also this Saturday, couples will dine at the Chinese restaurant Ah-Wok in Novi at 7 p.m.

Daytime crafters will meet at 9:30 a.m. Thursday, May 13, at the home of Ginny Malisch. Front door wreaths for spring and summer will be made. All materials will be supplied and the cost will be around $10 per person. Reserve a spot with Malisch and let her know what colors you would like to use.

Two groups of euchre couples will meet this Saturday. New players are always welcome. Call Aletha Holmes.

The Out to Lunch Bunch is planning its next outing in Ann Arbor. Members are scheduled to meet at the Candy Dancer, 401 Depot St. at 12:30 p.m. May 17. Car-pooling is an option. RSVP to Debi Thomas.

Pinochle will be played at 8 p.m., May 14, at the home of Mary and Dan Peski. Bring an appetizer and a drink. RSVP to the Peskis by Monday, May 10.

For more information about the Newcomers, or to reserve a spot in any of the events listed above, call Catherine Rabahy at 420-0125.

Single Place presents

The Single Place Sunday gathering takes place each week from 10 to 10:45 a.m. in the library/lounge of First Presbyterian Church. For further information call 349-0911.

On Wednesday, May 12, Single Place will host "Everything You Wanted to Know About Being Single and are Afraid to Ask Part II" with Harold Ellens, Ph.D. at 7:30 p.m. Also on tap is the second Wednesday euchre tournament plus "Resumes and Interviews II" with Don Eden. A donation of $4 is requested.

A seven-week divorce recovery workshop will meet each Thursday beginning May 13. All divorced and separated persons of all ages are welcome. The fee is $30. Scholarships are available. A brochure on the workshop may be obtained by calling 349-0911.

An "Opportunity for Growth" workshop will be conducted at 7:30 p.m. May 13, 20 and 27. Learn how to position yourself for success, how to get and keep a positive attitude with Tom Borg. A $24 donation is requested. For more information, or to register, call 349-0911.

On Saturday, May 15, Single Place is hosting a special Single Place Dance at the Novi Civic Center. Tickets are $5 in advance and $7 at the door.

Bob Paroski will be the facilitator for a men's discussion group scheduled to meet at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, May 18, in room 202 of the church. This group will provide an all-male forum to discuss the problems and social pressures which influence and are unique to men. The cost is $3.

For more information on any of the Single Place events, or to purchase tickets, call the Single Place office at 349-0911.

Presbyterian notes

The Women's Association of the Northville Presbyterian Church will meet at 10 a.m. Wednesday, May 12.

Also, each Sunday in May, adult education will focus on "The Fires of Faith: How the Bible Speaks to Us in Times of Suffering." Join in the discussion on what the Bible has to say about hard times at 11 a.m. in the forum room.

Election of officers

A general meeting and election of officers has been scheduled for May 10 by the Western Wayne Michigan Alliance for Gifted Education (WW Alliance), a non-profit local group for parents of gifted children and their enrichment.

The general meeting and summer sundries presentation will take place at 6:15 p.m. at Schoolcraft College, in room 200 of the liberal arts building. An open house and information gathering will follow at 7 p.m.

The Michigan Alliance is planning its annual conference for May 6-8 at the Hyatt Regency in Dearborn. Panel discussions, lectures and information will be offered on a variety of topics for educational advancements.

WW Alliance is affiliated with the Michigan Alliance for Gifted Education which includes parents, educators and administrators statewide. Memberships and participation are always welcome. For more information about the organization, write to the Michigan Alliance for Gifted Education, P.O. Box 1732, Warren, Mich. 48090-1732.

OUR LADY OF VICTORY

Our Lady of Victory PTA has showered the faculty with thoughtful gifts of food and flowers throughout Teacher Appreciation Week as an expression of its gratitude for the dedication of the teachers to OLV children and to their profession. The week-long celebration was concluded on Friday with an elegant luncheon given by the PTA at the parish rectory. Thanks to Paula Taylor and Nancy MacDonald and their committees for all of their work.

The PTA slate for next year includes Claudia Susalla, president; Paula Taylor, first vice-president; Debbie Barker, second vice-president; Lori Yost, secretary; Nancy Ward, treasurer; Colleen Schultz, corresponding secretary; Paula Taylor and Debbie Barker, JES representatives; Beth Mocer, art appreciation; June Rutkowski, CEC representative; and Denise Rossiter, school committee representative.

A Science Olympiad for students in grades four through six will be held at OLV today. Parent volunteers are excited about this event which will include 14 categories of competition. Parent volunteers include: Dennis Krozek, Debbie Morgan, Paula Worniak, Susan Okasinski, Ken Nay, Diane Fessler, Harriet Rogale, Liz Reardon, Colleen Schultz, Nancy MacDonald, Mike Burke, Bill Scherkenbach, Dennis Blake, Joan Zak, Lori Yost, Holly Hambell, Dave Marino, Sarah Marino, Patty McGlinchey, Marilyn Eischen, Renee Hoeg, Carol Leller, Mary Zelenock, Sharon Williams and Kathy Andersen. Parent volunteer chairperson is Diane Brazunas.

The Living Science Foundation gave a full-day presentation on Australia April 23. It was an outstanding multi-cultural experience for all. The school abounds with math wizards this year thanks to the outstanding efforts of teacher Katie Kohlert and tutors Bob Huot and Kathy Andersen. In local, regional, state and national competitions, the name of OLV has been prominent.

In the Michigan Council of Teachers of Mathematics Competition at the University of Detroit April 1, Thomas Sirgedas placed second and Rick Hoeg placed seventh in seventh grade competition. David Nay, a sixth grader, placed third in this competition. David also placed fifth in the state and first in Wayne County in the Michigan Mathematics League competition this year.

Students Kara Fagnani, Rick Hoeg, Sarah Townsend and Tomas Sirgedas were enrolled in the American Junior High School Honors Examination Michigan Honor Roll this year as members of OLV's team. OLV's performance score ranked ninth in the state among the top 27 junior high schools in the state and OLV ranked second in Wayne County. Hoeg, Sirgedas and Townsend placed fourth among top students in the regional exam. Congratulations to all.

Camp Library has ended for the year. The OLV students had a wonderful time making crafts and reading books in tents during this time. The conclusion to all of the fun was a bookmark contest sponsored by the PTA. Winners received a copy of the book of their choice.

The St. Jude Math-a-thon sponsored by OLV to earn money for St. Jude's Children Research Hospital netted $6,500 for research. The awards program for the math-a-thon will be held on Thursday, May 20, immediately after Ascension Thursday Mass.

Adventure is on the high seas as trip to Cuba faces danger side of each wave, turning the 14-hour journey into a series of stops and starts. This constant rocking takes its toll on at least one passenger, who spends most of the crossing leaning over the varnished rail. Skip yells down from the flybridge that barking at the fishes will not make them bite, but the joke goes unacknowledged.

The sun is setting off our starboard bow by the time we make landfall in Cuba, spotting the Havana skyline while still several miles offshore. It looks like any mid-sized seaside city, with dozens of high-rises and a thin pall of smog.

As Genitti pilots the boat through the narrow channel leading to Marina Hemingway, an Interior Ministry official in a pea green uniform and high black boots, wearing a holstered pistol on his waist, waves us to the customs dock. Tension is high as several uniformed men appear to grab our lines, since we don't know what kind of reception to expect.

The boat is eventually boarded by a half-dozen officials and our passports are collected and returned three times, but the officials allow us to purchase Cuban beers from a passerby and one customs agent even runs across the street to fetch us a chicken sandwich.

By midnight, the first round of inspections is over and we're allowed to pilot the boat around the channel to our dock at the marina. As soon as we tie up, we're greeted by a young man bearing a tray of rum and cokes who says in halting English, "Welcome to Cuba." The drinks are made with Havana Rum, and the bartender has not skimped on the alcohol.

In the morning, which comes quickly, more officials board our vessel. A food inspector sniffs the lunchmeats in our refrigerator, while an agricultural inspector checks our fruits and vegetables, pocketing one potato for "testing." Several customs officials return with a drug-sniffing German Shepherd named Elf, and pause for pictures after Elf makes his rounds. I had been told in a U.S. state department communique that you cannot take pictures of uniformed Cuban officials, so their willingness to pose is a surprise.

Like all the officials we've met so far, the latest round are unfailingly polite.

Still, we are watched for several hours by three men parked nearby in a Soviet-made sedan bristling with black antennas, bearing what appears to be a military license plate. A thin man wearing a backpack remains standing by a lamppost when the sedan pulls away, staring casually in our direction.

We rent a tourist van for several days, which turns out to be one of the nicer vehicles on the island, and a cheerful Cuban man named Diosvil Diaz is hired as our driver. Our first destination is the mountainous and scenic Pinar Del Rio region on the island's west side, more than 100 miles from Havana.

On the highways heading out of the city, we pass Cubans gathered at every on-ramp to hitch rides into or out of town. They hop on the backs of lorries by the dozen or, if lucky, are picked up by flatbed trucks with crude metal boxes bolted to their tops and a single open hole cut in the rear of the box for an exit. This makeshift public transit system has replaced the buses that have broken down for lack of spare parts.

Motorized vehicles are a rare sight in general, and the right lane of nearly every road including the highways has been given over to bicyclists, pedestrians, horsemen and ox-drawn carts. Diosvil is constantly tapping his horn to warn pedestrians who stray into the passing lane, and clear us a path. We come upon a half-dozen sugarcane workers and they wave their machetes at us as we pass, apparently angry that we would not stop.

Our van passes fields of sugarcane, tobacco, and other crops that are farmed as often by oxen as by tractors. The poverty is enlivened by frequent billboards advertising the revolution, and bearing portraits of revolutionary heroes including Ernesto "Che" Guevara and slogans like "Victory" and "Socialism or Death."

The ads seem directed at the Cuban people themselves, though it's questionable whether the natives are buying the message or simply doing what they can to survive.

Over the next week, despite his near-complete lack of English, Diosvil becomes a good friend and trusted guide. He drives us around the island, from the Pinar Del Rio region to Varadero, the exclusive tourist resort 90 miles east of Havana that boasts recreational facilities cleaner and better-maintained than anything available to the Cuban people themselves.

The government maintains this control over its citizens by making it illegal for them to carry or use foreign currency, particularly the U.S. dollars that every tourist spot accepts instead of the local peso. When I ask Diosvil what he thinks of the arrangement, he shrugs and says "It's difficult, OK?" and turns away. There's an edge to his voice I have not heard before, and I do not ask him to elaborate.

On Wednesday, we take the Newfie Bullet out for a snorkeling expedition and anchor off a rocky beach that looks promising. The skipper, first mate and Genitti are in the water a few dozen feet offshore when I look up to see two men in khaki uniforms running down the beach at us with rifles at the ready position.

Harry has seen them too, and he yells to Skip, "The military's coming and they've got guns!"

The snorkelers return to the boat quickly and the two soldiers take up positions with a third armed man about 50 yards from the shore, in the shade of some palms along the beach. It appears they just want to keep an eye on us. We study the shoreline a little closer and realize we've anchored off a military installation, with pillboxes on the beach and barracks back through the trees. Over the half-hearted protestations of some passengers, Skip decides to leave.

"We've dealt with the customs guys, the interior guy and the agricultural officials, but the military is a whole different thing," Skip says. "I don't know enough Spanish to talk my way out of this one."

Adds Harry, "When you see three guys running down a beach at you with Russian AK-47s, it's time to leave."

In the following days we make several trips into Havana, the diseased but still-beating heart of this communist nation of 10 million people.

The city seems on the verge of collapse, though its residents don't appear to notice. The elegant Spanish-style buildings, those that are still standing, have gone years without paint but their faded pastel colors, pillars and wrought-iron balconies are still attractive.

The few remaining cars, big American models from the '50s or Communist-era sedans that belch smoke, are often seen broken down in the middle of the road or being pushed to the side by a crowd.

The once-scenic Malecon, a wide monument-studded boulevard that runs between the city and the sea, is now lined each evening with 17-year-old prostitutes. The working girls also crowd the streets leading to Marina Hemingway. They shout out as we pass in our well-marked tourist van, posing in their too-tight dresses.

Go to any square as a tourist and you will soon be approached by dozens of children asking for candy and young men offering everything from cigars to whores. But despite the constant offers, the people seem too proud to stoop to outright harassment or theft, and even the prostitutes are good-natured when you turn them down.

By the time the first yachts of a scaled-back relief flotilla have arrived April 25, we've had our share of adventure. Cuban politicians and Red Cross officials vie for sound bites as the boaters squirm under the relentless media questioning. The fleet's presence, together with the hordes of other journalists that have descended upon the marina, seem almost an insult after the week of exploration we've done. After all, the marina has been our one haven in the midst of the country's distress.

We leave at 2 a.m. the next day, as an Afro-Cuban band plays in the tiki hut at the end of our dock. The obligatory customs check is a mere formality, as the agent quickly walks through the boat checking only the most obvious places for Cuban stowaways.

Skip has since repaired the port engine so the return voyage is much less eventful than the original crossing despite occasional eight- to nine-foot rollers. What took us 14 hours the first time now takes 10, with the engines running smoothly and the Gulf Stream current helping us along.

As we approach the shallows off Key West, and the ocean turns abruptly from a deep turquoise to an emerald green, the VHF radio blares a message from a freighter captain off the keys who has come upon a raft carrying four Cuban citizens. The local Coast Guard station operator responds that he'll pick them up, though he's uncertain what to do with them once he has.

The trip we have just completed in 10 hours must have taken them several days of drifting under the hot tropical sun, and our own journey seems suddenly like a lark.

Northville restaurateur John Genitti contributed to this story.

BILL THEILLE

Volunteer recruiter keeps programs staffed

If you want ideas on how to get into worthwhile volunteering, Bill Theille is a man you should talk to.

He not only recognizes volunteer opportunities, but he promotes them and then works on them behind the scenes.

For example, when he read in The Nott News that a Friendship Club was being formed to provide social activity for young persons who are emotionally and physically disadvantaged, he called to find out how he could help because he was a member of the Charity Committee of Alhambra.

It wasn't long after that that he and other Alhambra members were involved in several ways.

There is an annual talent show in which, he said, "the kids perform on a stage before a large audience." For his part, Theille said, "I'm backstage. I serve drinks and cookies."

Recently the Friendship Club had a potluck dinner/dance and Theille said, "I attended, I helped serve food, and talked with members."

At this year's annual bowling party, sponsored by Alhambra, he said, "We had 20 kids," and some even bowled from wheel chairs.

But in addition to Alhambra activities with the Friendship Club, Bill Theille is active in his neighborhood association. He's on the board of directors, and that's put him in several situations.

Once when it was agreed that trees were needed in their boulevards, he contacted the city, eventually got 40 trees, and helped plant them.

And at Christmas time, ever since his first year in town four years ago, when he said, yes, he'd be Santa Claus at the annual party, he's been dressing up and letting little children sit on his lap.

No, Bill Theille isn't retired. He's in and out of town, he said, as a salesman for Contractors Machinery Co. But there's always time for family, golf and volunteering.

Call him for ideas at 347-0184.

Navy Lt. Cmdr. CHRISTOPHER A. CARBOTT, son of Richard A. and Rosaline E. Carbott of Northville, recently received the Navy Commendation Medal.

Carbott was cited for meritorious service for rendering lifesaving assistance while serving as officer in charge of the rescue and assistance effort on board the frigate USS Klakring during Operation Desert Storm.

When a stricken civilian dive boat off the coast of Egypt called for emergency aid, Carbott took charge of the rescue effort. He located the disabled boat and navigated a Navy motor whaleboat through three miles of hazardous coral reefs to the aid of the divers, then guided the stricken dive boat back to his ship, making sure medical help would be available when they arrived.

The award, presented during formal ceremonies, is official recognition for Carbott's initiative, professional ability and dedication to duty.

Carbott is currently assigned with Commander, Destroyer Squadron 36, Naval Station, Charleston, S.C.

He joined the navy in May 1982. Carbott is a 1982 graduate of U.S. Naval Academy, Annapolis, Md., with a bachelor's degree, and a 1989 graduate of George Washington University, Washington D.C. with a master's degree.

Raggedy Ann and Andy come alive

Take two red-haired mop tops on a trip to Looneyland and you've got the ingredients of an upcoming production at the Marquis Theater in Northville.

Raggedy Ann and Raggedy Andy, America's favorite folk dolls, have long been a staple of children's books. Now, Canton resident Carla Freshwater will bring Ann to life from her red triangle nose to her dancing toes. The equally sassy Brother Andy is Katie Bondy of Northville.

The pair will be joined with a full cast drawn from The Cotton Candy Theater Kids. The play opens on May 15 and runs weekends through June 19.

Patricia Thackray wrote the story of the enterprising rag dolls, who rescue Babette, a French porcelain doll who is kidnapped from the playroom by the Loonies. Babette is Marcella's surprise birthday present and Ann and Andy, determined the little girl won't be disappointed, venture bravely into Looneyland to rescue her.

The play is directed by Jeffrey Weiner of Farmington Hills and Cindy Zeltz of Canton.

Northville kids in the cast include Laurie Boloven, Lars Kvalvaag and Margaret McClintock. From Novi, showing off their acting abilities will be Almee Garrison, Erika Alpert, Brian Wolter, Clayton Perry, Frank Kava and Sean Dougherty.

If you know a child who'd just love the theatrical life, the Marquis is offering professional training in acting, voice, movement and audition technique at its summer day camp for kids age five to sixteen. The two-week sessions will be held June 21 through August 20.

To register, call 349-8100. That same number will get you the box office. Tickets are $5 for "Raggedy Ann and Andy." Children under age three and a half are not admitted. Performances are Saturdays at 11 a.m. and 3 p.m. and Sundays at 2:30 p.m. The Marquis Theater is at 135 E. Main Street in downtown Northville.

Entertainment Listings

Special Events

REAL SEOUL: Novi High School will host the Detroit Metro Korean Karate Clubs' second annual tournament on May 8 at 12 noon in the gymnasium.

Martial arts enthusiasts will compete in categories such as weapons, forms and sparring. Masters of various disciplines will also show their stuff.

Admission at the door is $5 for adults and $2.50 for kids under 12. For information, call the Novi Parks and Recreation Department at 347-0400.

CHRISTIAN MUSIC: Alzheimer's disease and cocaine addiction are just two of the strands woven into the music of Christian recording artist and composer Kelli Reisen. Reisen, the lead singer in "The Portrait of A Spirit Series," will present a free concert of adult contemporary music on Sunday, May 9 at 6 p.m. — the evening of Mother's Day.

On the program will be songs such as "Dream of a Lifetime," "I Believe," and "My House Is Full."

The event is at Detroit First Church of the Nazarene, 21260 Haggerty road, northwest of Interstate 275 and Haggerty Road. Seating begins at 5:30 p.m. and is on a first come, first serve basis. Child care is available.

For information, call 348-7600.

PLAY BALL: Or just read about the sport. Tiger baseball announcer Ernie Harwell will be at Borders Book Shop in Novi Town Center on May 15 at 6 p.m. to sign copies of his paperback, "Ernie Conwell's Diamond Gems."

The next day, the book store is hosting a Sunday Jazz Brunch and coffee, with music by jazz pianist Dale Criss and bassist Keith Malinkowski.

For information, call 347-0780.

Theater

BRITISH HUMOUR: The Plymouth Theatre Guild is coming to town with a production of "Noises Off," an English farce by Michael Frayn.

Performances are 8 p.m. on Fridays and Saturdays only, beginning May 7 and running through May 22. However, one Sunday matinee will be held on May 16 at 6 p.m.

The show will go on in the Water Tower Theater on the campus of the Northville Regional Hospital, 41001 West Seven Mile Road, Northville.

Tickets are $8 at the door, $7 in advance. For opening night May 7, buy one ticket and get one free. Seniors and youth tickets are $7 at the door, $6 in advance.

For reservations, call 349-7110.

BOUDOIR FROLICS: The Novi Hilton will host on May 7 a one-night only performance of Alan Ayckbourn's play Bedroom Farce, staged by the Parlor Theater Productions, a traveling repertory theater out of Farmington Hills.

The fast-paced comedy illustrates how unpredictable "normal marriages" really are.

The Novi Hilton is on Haggerty Road just north of Eight Mile Road. The show starts at 7:30 p.m. Admission is $7. For information or reservations, call 477-5540.

BY THE SEA: The Novi Players will present Edward Albee's Pulitzer Prize-winning play Seascape on the weekends of May 7-9 and May 14-16. The Friday and Saturday performances begin at 8 p.m. The Sunday matinee is at 2 p.m.

The shows at the Novi Circle Theater in the Novi Expo Center at the southwest corner of I-96 and Novi Road.

Tickets are $5 in advance and $6 at the door and $5 for seniors. No charge for parking.

RAG DOLLS: The Cotton Candy Theater Kids of Northville's Marquis Theater have an original new production, Raggedy Ann and Andy, ready to go.

Performance dates and times are: Saturdays, May 15, 22 and 29 and June 5, 12 and 19, 11 a.m. and 3 p.m. Sundays, May 16 and 23, 2:30 p.m.

Tickets are $5. For information call 349-8110. The theater is at 135 E. Main Street.

TOP OFFICIAL EXPOSED: The popular musical version of an old classic My Emperor's New Clothes, is being revived by the Lunch Box Players during April and May at the Samuel H. Little Theater in Northville.

The show's last date is May 8. Performances are at 1 p.m. with lunch available next door at Genitti's Hole-In-The-Wall Restaurant. Tickets are $6 for children, $8 for adults and it's just $2 for lunch. Group rates available.

For information, call 349-0522 or 264-2611.

CURTAIN CALL: The George Burns Theater for the Performing Arts announced April 20 that it is temporarily closing but will seek to reorganize and reopen. The company will not provide refunds for ticket-holders but the management of the Palace of Auburn Hills and the New Pine Knob will honor a one-for-one exchange for one of their events, regardless of ticket price, for George Burns tickets.

The exchange begins on May 15. A listing of performances is available at the Palace box office, in person, beginning May 15. No information on show selection will be available by phone prior to May 15.

Music

ANTHONY'S NIGHTCLUB: Anthony's provides a steady diet of entertainment, both musical and comedy. For information, call 348-5000.

COUNTRY EPICURE: A jazz duo featuring pianist Wilbert Peagler is now performing at the Country Epicure Restaurant, Wednesdays and Thursdays.

On Friday and Saturday, the entertainment at the Country Epicure is a jazz quartet, featuring some of Detroit's finest vocalists.

Country Epicure is located at 42050 Grand River between Meadowbrook and Novi roads. For more information call, 349-7770.

HOME, SWEET HOME: Live jazz every Wednesday from 8-11 p.m. is on the menu at Home Sweet Home restaurant, at 43180 Nine Mile, just east of Novi Road. The 1920s home provides a setting conducive to music popular in that era as well as today.

Coming up on May 12 will be local jazz artist George Benson and friends; on May 19, it's the Calvin Brooks Trio; and on May 26, George Benson will be back. June 2 starts the month with a reprise by the Calvin Brooks Trio.

There is no additional charge for the performances but a two drink minimum is required. For more information, call 347-0095.

RIFFLES: Fridays and Saturdays at 10 p.m., the Northville eatery becomes a rhythm and blues cafe.

Upcoming entertainers are: May 7-8, The Big Picture; May 14-15 Steve Nardella; May 21-22, Steve Cornall; May 29-29, Mimi & The Snakes.

Riffles is at 18730 Northville Road. For information, call 348-3490.

Nearby

ANYTHING GOES: Anything Goes, a musical by Cole Porter will be appearing through May 22 at the Farmington Players Barn, 32332 Twelve Mile Road in Farmington Hills. The performances will be held at 8 p.m. Thursday through Sunday and at 7 p.m. on Sunday. Tickets are $10. For information and reservations, call 553-2955.

ANOTHER OPENING: The Farmington Artists Club is featuring some of the best work by Michigan artists in its May 13-18 juried exhibit.

The show and sale, which is free, will be held from noon to 8 p.m. in the historic Spicer House, located in Heritage Park on Farmington Road in Novi.

Works in watercolor, oil, pastel, collage, prints and mixed media range from realism to the abstract.

Karaoke

GETZIE'S PUB: Getzie's holds "Karaoke Nights" on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays starting at 9 p.m.

The pub is on Main Street at Hutton.

NOVI BOWL: Novi Bowl offers Karaoke every Friday and Saturday between 8:30 p.m. and 12:30 a.m.

RECORD TRAVEL

THURSDAY
May 6, 1993

By WILLIAM T. TOMICKI
New York Times Travel Syndicate

Q: I have school-age children and always try to make our vacations both fun and informative. Where can we stay in Southern California that would give us some of California's history?

A: If you are traveling through Riverside, Calif., don't miss the Mission Inn. This national historic landmark began as a two-story adobe guest house in 1876. In 1902 Frank Miller started an expansion of the facility, which continued for the next 30 years.

Now the Inn displays design elements from the southwestern United States and several Mediterranean countries with specific influences from California missions.

Several famous architects, including Arthur Benton, Myron Hunt and G. Stanley Wilson, took part in creating the Inn's diverse architectural elements, such as domes, a bell tower, clock towers, interior courtyards, patios and more.

Artifacts collected from around the world are on display in the Mission's museum. For more information call (909) 784-0300 or contact your local travel agent.

Q: My wife and I are golf fanatics, but we are limited to vacations that focus either on golf or on sightseeing. We have yet to find a travel company that offers trips which combine both interests. Do you have any suggestions?

A: Aboard the Meanderer, a spacious 128-foot, six-passenger vessel, guests can enjoy the pleasures of playing golf and sightseeing.

The Meanderer is a new French luxury barge with full deluxe bedrooms and bathrooms, a hot tub on deck and a comprehensive golfing program.

Capt. Stephen Taylor, an avid 18-handicap golfer, promotes a unique program in which guests can bring along a certified golf professional of their choice at no extra charge.

Travelers can golf at the following clubs in the Champagne region of France: Le Champagne, Reims Chateau des Dames, La Vitardie, Meaux-Boutigny and Bussey St. Georges.

The tour also features visits to the Reims Cathedral as well as World War II battlefields and museums.

In addition to being an accomplished golfer, Taylor is a 25-year veteran of deluxe yacht chartering in the Mediterranean. A trip on the barge for a party of six costs $16,000. This includes six nights (Sunday to Saturday) on the vessel plus all meals, greens fees and transportation to the golf courses and to Paris.

For more information contact your local travel agent; write to Ellen Sack, The Barge Lady, c/o MTA Travel, 211 East Ontario St., Suite 225, Chicago, Ill. 60611; or call (800) 525-1599 or (312) 944-2779.

Q: I'm planning a trip to Philadelphia and will be traveling on a budget. I would like to experience a unique dining environment without the fine dining prices. Any suggestions?

A: The Restaurant School, located in a restored 19th-century Italianate villa in the Spruce Hill district of Philadelphia, provides visitors an opportunity to experience a gourmet meal at comparatively low prices.

The waiters and chefs who work at The Restaurant — the dining area of The Restaurant School — are students. The menu boasts such dishes as sautéed chicken breast with honey-and-pine-nut sauce and broiled salmon.

The restaurant also offers a full bar and wine list and a variety of desserts. For more information call (215) 222-4200 or contact your local travel agent.

The cultural capital of Europe

Restoration projects help Belgium prepare to recall its Belle Epoque glory

By ERIC SJOGREN
New York Times Travel Syndicate

In Antwerp the scaffolding that has obstructed the view of the glorious Gothic cathedral for a generation has finally come down.

The Bourla Theater, newly refurbished, stands ready to resume its role as the center of the city's cultural life, resplendent in purple and gold as it was 150 years ago.

The Central Station has been restored to its turn-of-the-century Belle Epoque glory. Antwerp's year as Cultural Capital of Europe has begun, and its planners have wisely invested in restoration projects that are close to the heart of the populace.

Antwerp lies on a bend of the River Scheldt, about 50 miles from the sea. Emperor Charles V made Antwerp Europe's principal port, and the Old City around the cathedral and Grote Markt (Main Square) is well preserved, containing splendid Baroque mansions, guild halls and churches. This is mainly a pedestrian area, and gets very lively at night.

Ironically, for a city which is today Europe's second largest port, Antwerp offers remarkably little in the way of river views.

The modern port is just north of the city, and along the old piers the river is mostly hidden from view by the sheds where goods used to be stored.

EVENTS

Antwerp '93 started officially on March 27 and continues the rest of the year. It comprises hundreds of music, dance and drama performances, plus scores of exhibitions, literary events and colloquia.

The flagship event is the first major retrospective of works by Jacob Jordaens, born 400 years ago, a contemporary of Rubens and Van Dyck.

While the two others found fame and fortune in foreign lands, Jordaens, who outlived them both by several decades, remained in Antwerp.

The show runs to June 27 at the Royal Museum of Fine Arts, 1-9 Leopold de Waelplaats, telephone 238 78 09, open daily (except Monday) 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Admission is $8.85 (prices at 34 Belgian francs to the dollar).

The Ark is a floating stage built for Antwerp '93 on an abandoned barge that will be moored at different locations. Young performers from 14 cities have been invited to live and work on board.

The productions will highlight problems and opportunities of urban living around the world.

A company led by Laura Fox from Los Angeles will be the first performers, May 20 to 23, followed by Olivier Franquet from Marseilles May 27 to 30 and Ludmilla Korobova from St. Petersburg June 3 to 6. Ticket details are not yet available. Information: F.N.A.C. Antwerp, 231 20 56.

In July and August the city's most exciting attraction will probably be "Zingaro," billed as a "circus of the emotions" and performed in a giant Berber tent, featuring a Georgian male choir and a Berber women's choir, 25 horses, 3 donkeys and a dromedary. It will take place at Thonetlaan on the left bank, July 20 to Aug. 1 at 9:30, tickets $26.50. Reservations: (070) 23 3233.

As part of Antwerp '93, 30 graduates of the fashion department of the city's Royal Academy of Fine Arts have been invited to design installations on the fashion of the future.

The show, "Installations," will be in an old warehouse, the Sint-Felix Pakhuis, 30 Codefriduskaal, to Aug. 29; hours and admission price not yet available.

SIGHTSEEING

The Cathedral of Our Lady, with its 400-foot single spire, is now as gleaming white as it was in the 15th century.

The cathedral was nearly 200 years in the building and it seems to have taken almost as long to restore it; the work has been going on since the 1950's and has included archaeological excavations.

The interior of the church can now be seen as it was 400 years ago. At that time Antwerp was a center for the production of retables, altar frames with a carved centerpiece and painted side panels.

Those that remained in Antwerp were either destroyed or looted. But many were exported, and 16 have been returned to Antwerp to be restored and exhibited in the cathedral May 26 to Oct. 3.

Among the cathedral's permanent treasures are three paintings by Rubens. The cathedral is open daily 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. admission $1.75. The entrance is on Handschoenmarkt.

One of the cathedral's triptychs, "The Descent From the Cross," was bartered by Rubens for the plot of land where the Rubens House, 9 Wapper, stands, its two wings joined by an Italian Baroque portico designed by the artist.

Open Tuesday to Sunday 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. From May 15 to June 27, "Rubens Cantoor," an exhibit of copies of Rubens sketches made by a student, Willem Panneels, will be on display. Admission, $5.90.

The Belgian collector Fritz Mayer van den Bergh picked up a Bruegel in Germany in 1894 for $15. Called "Dulle Griet" (sometimes rendered as "Mad Meg") it is now the priceless centerpiece of the Museum Meyer van den Bergh, 19 Lange Gasthuisstraat, 232 42 37, open Tuesday to Sunday 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.; admission $2.20.

WHERE TO EAT

Petrus, next door to the Bourla Theater at 1 Kelderstraat, 225-2734, is named for the outstanding Pomerol wine Chateau Petrus, which the owner loves and has on the wine list starting at $350.

The chef's creations include foie gras interlarded with filet d'Anvers (lightly smoked beef), and ice cream flavored with Elixir d'Anvers, a local liqueur. Dinner for two with a modest wine comes to about $150.

Sir Anthony Van Dijk, 231-6170, is in the Vlaaykensgang alley. It used to be among Belgium's top gastronomic addresses, with prices to match.

Now the owner-chef has simplified the cooking, added tables, introduced two dinner seatings (at 7 and 9) and cut prices in half.

The brasserie-type cooking includes salad Liegeois (a warm salad of salmon, beans and tomatoes) and duck à l'orange. Count on $90 for two with wine, or choose the four-course set menu at $45 a person.

Neuze Neuze, 19-21 Wijngaardsstraat, 232-5783, is a white-walled split-level restaurant created out of five small 16th-century houses. It serves imaginative dishes such as warm smoked salmon with endives and bacon in a white beer sauce.

A three-course set lunch is $29.50 a person, and an a la carte lunch or dinner for two costs around $80.

De Peerdestal is across the street at 8-10 Wijngaardsstraat, 231-9503. You can eat at the large rectangular bar or at tables with red-checked tablecloths on two levels.

The fare is traditional Belgian — mussels, sole and steak — and it's one of the few restaurants still to feature horse meat. A meal for two comes to $45.

The new Cafe Restaurant Zuiderterras on Ernest Van Dijkkaal has a great view of the river. The clientele is young, and one can have just a coffee or a beer, or a meal for less than $15.

Antwerp is in fact home to 2,500 cafes, or one for every 200 inhabitants. They all serve beer, some of them a couple of hundred different labels, and nearly all offer simple meals, of the bread-and-cheese variety. There are many good ones around the Old City.

American-style fast-food outlets, as well as inexpensive spaghetti joints where a meal can be had for as little as $10, can be found in the Groenplaats opposite the cathedral.

WHERE TO STAY

Firean, 6 Karel Oomsstraat, 237-0260, fax 238-1168, is a 1929 Art Deco town house, family owned and run. There's a tiny bar, a cozy lobby cum breakfast room, carpets, flowers and chandeliers.

It has 11 rooms in the main building and 6 more next door. The only drawback is that you need public transport or taxi to get to the city center. Doubles from $120.

Hotel Prinse is newly installed in a 400-year-old building at 63 Keizersstraat, 226-4050, fax 225-1148, in the heart of the old city.

The look is modern neutral, but rooms on the top floor, with exposed beams, have more character. There are 30 rooms; a double with shower costs $108, with bath $130.

Budget: The nine rooms in the Pension Cammerpoorte, 55 Steenhouwersvest, 231-2836, fax 226-2968, are all up a narrow staircase, and are clean and comfortable, with toilet and shower. A double is $75.

Scoutel, 3 Stoomstraat, 226-4606, fax 232-6392, behind the rail station, is supported by the Boy Scout movement. It is two years old and comprises 24 functional double and triple rooms, all with toilet and shower. Breakfast is included. A double is $48 for those over 25, $40 for those younger.

Luxury: The most exclusive hideaway is De Rosier, 21-23 Rosier, 225-0140, fax 231-4111, which calls itself an "anthotel."

Behind an anonymous gate on an unprepossessing street is a 17th-century mansion with an attractive garden and a pleasant breakfast and tea room.

The antiques-filled "Golden Age" suite is $645. There are two other suites and six double rooms, with small bathrooms, shower and fewer antiques, starting at $209.

Among new buildings in the Green Square adjoining the cathedral is the Antwerp Hilton, Groenplaats, 226 6266, fax 204-1212. Half the 211 rooms of the five-story hotel will be completed by June 1, and the rest a month later. The rate for a double will be $265, but check for introductory offers in July and August.

SHOPPING

Twenty-five million carats of diamonds are cut and traded in Antwerp every year, more than anywhere else; many of the dealers are members of the city's Hasidic community, the largest in Europe.

There are four diamond exchanges in the nondescript diamond district near the Central Station. The best place to shop is Diamondland at 33A Appelmansstraat, 234 36 12, where you can also see diamond polishers, a setter and a goldsmith at work creating 57-facet gems. Most purchases are in the $1,000 to $1,500 range.

The city did not become noted for fashion until the 1980s with the emergence of a group of avant-garde designers known collectively as the Antwerp Six.

Like architects whose medium is fabric, such designers as Ann Demeulemeester, Dirk Bikkembergs and Martin Margiela change the shape of clothes.

Quaint New England city now boasts outlet malls

By EVERETT POTTER
New York Times Travel Syndicate

Manchester, Vt., has a split personality worthy of a character in a gothic novel.

There's Manchester Village, a picture-postcard New England town of enormous white clapboard houses with black shutters — houses used mainly as summer homes by their wealthy owners. The sidewalks are elegant slabs of white marble, quarried locally and laid out a century ago.

The focus of the immaculate village is a classic white wooden church and the imposing facade of the restored Equinox Hotel. The Equinox has been offering food, drink and lodging since 1769, when Ethan Allen and his Green Mountain Boys would meet in its Marsh Tavern restaurant.

But drive one mile up Route 7A to Manchester Center and everything changes. Here the deer-crossing signs that dot the state could be amended to depict a shopper laden with bags bearing the logos of Ralph Lauren, Calvin Klein and Benetton.

Manchester Center is home to the most tasteful collection of outlet shops anywhere in the United States, artfully integrated into old Vermont town buildings or situated in new ones that conform to strict local building codes.

Observers might be forgiven for thinking that only Saabs, Volvos and Range Rovers are allowed on Manchester's streets. It's a well-heeled crowd that comes to this part of Vermont, but the prices, thank goodness, are democratic.

There are more than 60 outlets in Manchester Center, offering from 20 percent to 70 percent off retail prices for seconds and discontinued items. Periodic sales increase the savings.

Among the best bets in the Manchester Commons complex (Route 7A, Manchester Center, Vt. 05255) is The Coach Factory Store (802-362-1771), where the classic Coach briefcase is reduced from $312 to $234. At Polo/Ralph Lauren (802-362-2340), all-cotton queen-size sheets are reduced from $69 to as low as $33.99.

Other shops of note in the complex include the Cole-Haan Company Store (802-362-1145), the J. Crew Factory Store (802-362-2950), Timberland (802-362-3210) and the Benetton Factory Outlet (802-362-3954).

At Manchester Square (Routes 11/30, Manchester Center, Vt. 05255), the shops include Brooks Brothers (802-362-7044), where rep (striped) ties are reduced from $38 to $19, and the classic wool navy blazer is $149. Outlets for Adrienne Vittadini (802-362-5410), Joan & David (802-362-4111) and Esprit Direct (802-362-1212) also tempt shoppers.

Other bargains in Manchester Center can be found at Calvin Klein (802-362-5260), Landau's Woolens (802-362-3754) and Polly Flinders

(802-362-2445), which offers 40 to 60 percent off girl's hand-smocked dresses. (The mailing address for all three is Route 7A, Manchester Center, Vt. 05255.)

But the treasures aren't confined to nationally known outlets. Visit the Northshire Bookshop (802-362-2200), one of Vermont's best independent bookstores (Route 7A, Manchester Center, Vt. 05255).

Shoppers should also explore Manchester Village. Adjacent to the Equinox is the Johnny Appleseed Bookshop (Route 7A, Manchester Village, Vt. 05254; 802-362-2458), offering two stories of reasonably priced new and used books. It occupies a historic brick building that has served both as a bank and as the home of Orvis, Manchester's most famous store. The selection of fishing books at Johnny Appleseed is first-rate.

As for Orvis, the main headquarters (Route 7A, Manchester Village, Vt. 05254; 800-541-3541) is located between Manchester Center and Manchester Village. It offers outdoor clothing, home accessories and fishing rods and flies and is the home of the famed fishing school and casting ponds.

But bargain hunters should mosey down to the Orvis Outlet (Union Street, Manchester Village, Vt. 05254; 802-362-3881) across from the Equinox. The shop sells discontinued and end-of-season items.

Recently, all-cotton sweaters were reduced from $49 to $24; ladies fly fishing vests were marked down from $79.50 to $55.65; and Harris Tweed shooting jackets for men were reduced from $285 to $199.

Perhaps the best shop in either of the Manchesters is Frog Hollow (Route 7A, Manchester Village, Vt. 05254; 802-362-3321), also across from the Equinox. Run by the Vermont State Craft Center, with a rotating exhibition of crafts by more than 300 Vermonters, the shop is proof that crafts can be considered an art form.

There are wrought-iron deer candlestands by Payne Junker for $39. The rustic furniture of Timothy Hayes includes a child's chair of black birch and beechnut branches adorned with beads and fabric for $275.

Then there's the hand-blocked silk of Mary Jane Sarvis. A silk scarf is $150, while a down-filled, hand-blocked and air-brushed silk bedspread in an exuberant sunflower pattern is an instant heirloom for $2,600.

Playful 1920s-style slouch and cloche hats of sheepskin by Susan Bradford are $75 to $100. There is pottery, handmade stationery and wrapping paper, glass and jewelry.

The Equinox (Route 7A, Manchester Village, Vt. 05254; 800-362-4747) is a good base for fall foliage viewing, for summer golf on the resort's 18-hole course and for winter skiing. Ski packages that include lift tickets for the chic slopes of Stratton Mountain or family-oriented Bromley Mountain are available.

Netters stay perfect with conference sweep

By SCOTT DANIEL

It's doubtful M.C. Hammer could play for the Mustang tennis team.

But his rap song, Can't Touch This, certainly could be the theme for the squad. With four WLAA wins last week, Northville High pushed its record to 7-0 on the season. Since the end of the 1991 campaign, the Mustangs have won an amazing 23 straight dual matches.

Coach Dick Norton said he thinks his team can go undefeated this year.

"It's looking pretty good for us now," he said. "We are awfully good at the top, (and) more balance at doubles has helped to carry us."

Livonia Franklin was the latest Northville victim Friday. The Mustangs rested several regulars and still shut out the Patriots 8-0.

No. 1 singles player Mark Schwagle defeated Steve Venable 6-0, 6-0. Ryan Moak moved from doubles to No. 2 singles and whipped Bob Webber 6-1, 6-1.

Jeff Woolfall also won in straight sets, 6-0, 6-1. Vivek Mohita beat Mike Bona 6-0, 6-0 at No. 4 singles.

Eric Allenspach and Nick Srinivasan won in three sets at the top doubles hole. Scott Anderson and Richard Bell beat Jim Allen and Andy Blanche 6-1, 6-2.

At No. 3 doubles, Nate Connell and Ted Downs beat Ron Reinheart and Bill Green 6-0, 7-6. Livonia forfeited at the last doubles spot.

NORTHVILLE 7, FARMINGTON HILLS HARRISON 1

The only question about the April 28 match was how much the Mustangs would win by.

Mark Schwagle won without losing a game at first singles. No. 2 player Matt Schwagle beat Kevin Lazkowski 6-0, 6-1.

Moak was a two-set winner over Matt Schrowe 6-1, 6-2. Woolfall won in two sets as well.

Srinivasan and Allenspach teamed for a 6-2, 6-1 win over Charles Bomanek and Howard Kay. Sanjay Nayakwadi and Bryan Russell fell in two sets to Bryan Atkinson and John Stern at No. 2 doubles.

Matt Telepo and Rob Kukainis won in two sets. Connell and Bell closed the match with a 6-2, 6-3 triumph over Scott Frith and Jim McAskin.

NORTHVILLE 7, LIVONIA CHURCHILL 1

The two schools began their match two weeks ago but couldn't complete it until April 27 due to rain.

Mark and Matt Schwagle won their matches in two sets. Brad Smith won in two sets as well against Jeff Durling while No. 4 singles player Bell took care of Corey Williams 6-0, 6-4.

At first doubles, Moak and Woolfall beat Chris Machniak and Scott Paciero 6-0, 6-2. Nayakwadi and Russell lost in two sets to Dave Krolak and Matt Eszes.

Kukainis and Telepo won in three sets. Mohita and Srinivasan won in two sets.

NORTHVILLE 6, NORTH FARMINGTON 2

Norton said the Raiders presented his team's greatest challenge of the week.

"I thought they'd win a couple of matches," he said, "but not where they did."

Nonetheless, the Mustangs kept their winning streak alive. The match was played April 26.

The Schwagle brothers won their matches 6-0, 6-0 while Smith won in two sets as well. Nick McReedy lost in three sets to Ben Sommers at No. 4 singles.

Moak and Allenspach won in three sets at No. 1 doubles. Russell and Woolfall fell in two sets.

At No. 3 doubles, Nayakwadi and Srinivasan won in two sets. Telepo and Kukainis took care of Rob Yost and Mike Redisch 6-0, 6-0.

Softballers sweep Livonia Stevenson; fall to Canton

By SCOTT DANIEL
Sports Editor

A sweep of Livonia Stevenson Friday put the Mustang softball team back over the .500 mark.

Northville's offense swung into high gear against the Spartans, scoring 20 runs in the two games. Manager Frank Friemund said it was nice to get the wins but the Mustangs still have some work to do.

"We haven't played our best game by far," he said. "We've got a long way to improve. I think we will be much better by tournament time."

Northville is now 4-3 overall and 4-2 in the Western Lakes Activities Association.

The opener against Livonia turned into a hit parade for the Mustangs. The game was called after five innings, because of the league mercy rule, and Northville won 13-2.

The home team scored eight times in the first inning on five walks and eight stolen bases. Northville went on to add two runs in the second inning and three in the third. Kristen Davis' two-run homer highlighted the Mustangs attack.

Kari Krupansky pitched the first three innings and took the win. Andreea Moretti pitched the final two innings and struck out four Spartan batters.

Game two wasn't as easy.

Krupansky returned to the mound and struggled with her control in the first inning. She allowed four Stevenson runs in the frame on four walks and two hits.

Northville cut Livonia's lead to 4-3 by the end of the first. Sara Kemp singled, stole second and scored on an error. The Mustangs got two more runs without the aid of a hit.

Stevenson added two more in the second but Northville rallied to tie in the bottom of the frame. Davis tripled to lead off and scored on a ground ball from Tanya Gamary. Lori George knocked in another run to tie the game at six.

Krupansky shut the door on Livonia the rest of the way. Friemund said it's tough for a pitcher to be effective after throwing, sitting down and throwing again.

"It takes a tremendous amount of re-focus," he said. "You lose your edge by sitting around."

Northville got the winning run in the bottom of the seventh. Melissa Petroski walked, stole second and scored on consecutive wild pitches.

LIVONIA FRANKLIN 7, NORTHVILLE 2
First inning problems caught up with the Mustangs Thursday. The Mustangs allowed four runs on three errors and were never really in the game.

"We played terribly," Friemund said.

Northville scored single runs in the first and fifth innings.

Kemp singled, was sacrificed to second base and then stole home for the Mustangs first run. She repeated the feat in the fifth inning.

Friemund was disappointed that his team didn't back a strong performance from Krupansky. She allowed just five hits and three walks while striking out seven.

"It was a shame," Friemund commented. "Kari pitched a great game."

PLYMOUTH CANTON 8, NORTHVILLE 2

The Mustangs did something no other team had done against Chief hurler Kelly Holmes on April 26: get a hit.

Northville got three, in fact, off the state's best pitcher. Friemund said his squad did about as well as could be expected.

"We did a good job of not going after the high pitch," he said.

Kickers stunned by tie with Novi

By SCOTT DANIEL
Sports Editor

It wasn't supposed to end that way. Heck, it wasn't even supposed to be close.

Unfortunately for the Mustang soccer team, Baseline rival Novi didn't listen to the experts and stunned the state's No. 4 ranked squad 0-0 Friday.

"We dodged some bullets," Novi coach Larry Christoff admitted after the game. "But the girls played their hearts out."

Despite furious second half pressure from Northville, the Wildcats refused to buckle. Goalkeeper Lisa Antuna made the game's biggest save in the first minute of the half.

Northville's Suzi Morton fired a shot from close range on the right wing. Antuna dove to her left and stopped the shot and prevented any rebounds.

The Mustangs kept the heat on the rest of the half, but couldn't beat Antuna.

"You have to give Novi credit," Northville coach Bob Paul said. "They did what they had to do to get through the game."

Novi took advantage of its narrow home field and played a strong defensive style, he added.

"It was a good team and they played physical soccer," Paul said. Christoff said his team had to play aggressive, physical soccer to stay with Northville. His strategy, he said, was to disrupt the Mustangs' passing game.

"The only way to beat a good passing team is to attack constantly," Christoff said.

And that's exactly what Novi did right from the start.

tang touched the ball in the first half, several Novi players seemed to be there to break up the play.

Sweeper Becky Pylar was outstanding as was Darlene Galido and forward Erin Volgel, helping out on defense. Northville didn't have a single good scoring chance in the first 40 minutes.

Novi was equally ineffective on offense. The Cats, in fact, didn't have a shot on net until the 15 minute mark.

"We didn't show up for the first 40 minutes," Paul said.

Lisa Bernardo, a fullback, sent a shot just over the net at the 34:38 mark. The Mustangs also miss fired on a couple of nice crossing plays.

Paul was much happier with his team's second half play.

"As long as you are getting shots and putting pressure on," he said, "that's all you can ask for."

NORTHVILLE 3, LIVONIA FRANKLIN 0

After a slow start, the Mustangs played well April 28.

The two teams battled to a standstill until late in the first half. Freshman fullback Sue McQuaid got Northville's first goal at the 30-minute mark. Renee Androsian scored five minutes later.

Val Schuerman got the Mustangs' final tally at the 15 minute mark of the second half.

"We played well in the second half," Paul said. "I was very happy with the way the girls played."

NORTHVILLE 9, FARMINGTON HILLS HARRISON 0

As the score indicates, the Mustangs completely dominated on April 26. Paul said his team had no trouble with the Hawks despite a smaller playing field.

Goal scorers were McQuaid with two, Schuerman, Angie Snyder, Androsian, Colleen Litzelman, Amy Veneman, Krista Howe and Anity Heckemeyer all with one.

Northville splits with Walled Lake Central

By SCOTT DANIEL
Sports Editor

Jason Mavel pitched six strong innings and Tom Busard hit a grand slam to lift the Mustangs to a 7-1 win over Walled Lake Central Thursday in the second game of a double header.

Mavel allowed just one run and five hits to earn the victory for Northville High. He didn't strike out any Viking batters.

"He doesn't have overpowering speed," Manager Tim Cain explained. "But he keeps it low and works the corners. Ninety-nine percent of his outs are on the ground."

Jeff Luterek finished on the mound.

The win improved Northville's record to 5-2 overall. The Mustangs are 2-0 in the WLAA's Western Division.

The home team got Mavel all the run support he needed in the second inning. With one out, Ryan Kelley singled and stole second. A Neil Yackle single then scored him. Northville added two more runs on singles from Busard and Rick Biermann.

The Mustangs added four runs in the third on Busard's grand slam home run. Walled Lake got its only run in the sixth inning on three hits.

In the opener, Eric Shaw was a victim of some shabby Northville defense in a 9-5 loss. The senior pitched four innings and allowed eight runs, two of which were earned.

"We didn't come to the field ready to play," Cain said. "Shaw pitched well but we didn't play good behind him."

Walled Lake scored three runs in the first inning and five more in the fourth, all with the aid of Mustang miscues.

"It took us a few hours to wake up," Cain joked.

Northville scored single runs in the second inning, on a solo home run from Jason Rice, and in the fifth. The Mustangs added three in the sixth on a single by Fred Swarthout and a two-run single by catcher Chuck Apligan.

"He's always been a good hitter," Cain said of Apligan. "His defense has improved a lot this year. He's very mobile."

NORTHVILLE 3, LIVONIA FRANKLIN 1

What a performance. That's all that can be said about Joe Staknis' effort on the mound against the Patriots Thursday.

The kid allowed just four hits in 6½ innings of work. It was his first starting assignment since a serious illness struck late last fall.

"The kid hasn't pitched a full game since last August," Cain commented. "To see him go 6½ was fabulous. It was a great outing."

Staknis had his sinker working Thursday and forced Franklin into numerous ground-outs. Cain said if his right-hander can continue to pitch well, the Mustangs will be tough to beat. Staknis would add to an already strong staff led by ace Steve Christenson.

"That would set us up well for the league and the state playoffs," he added.

Livonia got its only run in the first inning on a couple of singles and a stolen base. Staknis cruised until the seventh when the Patriots put two runners on. Christenson got the game's final out on a strikeout with the bases loaded.

An Apligan two-run homer gave Northville the winning margin in the third inning. The Mustangs added a single run in the fourth.

NORTHVILLE 1, PLYMOUTH CANTON 0

Christenson was the story of the April 26 game.

The senior threw his second straight one-hitter to stifle the Chiefs. He whiffed eight while walking just two in eight innings.

"They were swinging at his breaking ball and not coming close to it," Cain said. "He's a tough pitcher, no question about it."

"Beating Canton is always good," Cain said. "They're always a good team."

Runners fifth at Stafford Relays

By SCOTT DANIEL
Sports Editor

Carrie Dalziel, Katie Rompel, Wendy Forster and Alana Bradley combined to set a new school record in the 400-meter relay Saturday and helped the Mustang track team to a fifth place showing at the annual Stafford Relays.

The foursome finished in 52.3 seconds—bettering the old mark by .30. "That's a big time," Northville coach Ann Turnbull said, "considering we had a bad hand-off."

The coach said she wouldn't be surprised to see the 400 team improve on its record again this year. "I think they will," Turnbull said.

Northville placed in seven events at the relays and finished behind such powers as Plymouth Salem, Lakeland and Livonia Stevenson. Plymouth Canton won the meet.

"They want to win every meet now," Turnbull said of her squad. "Everyone ran well."

Northville is undefeated in dual meets this season at 5-0.

The Mustangs grabbed their first medal of the day in the long jump. The team of Rompel, Bradley and Forster was sixth.

Northville didn't place in the high jump. But Tammy Cook did set a personal best by clearing 5-0.

A combined total of 247 gave the Mustangs sixth in the discus. Michelle Fetterman, Jenny Sekerka and Cook competed in the event.

The sprint medley team of Adrienne Browne, Dalziel, Rompel and Laura Brown was fourth in 4:29.34. Northville took sixth in the shuttle hurdle relay with Sara Kolb, Melanie Helmer, Kelly Hough and Forster in 1:17.30.

In the 800-meter relay, Dalziel, Browne, Forster and Bradley were fourth. The squad ran a 1:49.90 race, a four-second improvement from last week, Turnbull noted.

Northville garnered its last points in the 1,600-meter relay. The team of Brown, Bradley, Laura Dennis and Jenny Sekerka throws the discus.

Browne finished in 4:19.20. Turnbull had a mixed reaction to her team's results.

"Our places were not as good as I thought they'd be," she said. "But our times were better (than I expected)."

The Mustangs take on Farmington Hills Harrison today on the road at 3:30 p.m.

SARA KEMP
The Mustang lead-off hitter had a week that would have made Babe Ruth jealous. In 14 at bats she had nine hits and three walks. She batted .818, scored nine runs and stole 13 bases.

TOM BUSARD
The senior also had a booming bat for Northville. In a win over Walled Lake Central, Busard had five RBIs including a grand slam.

League Line

BOYS UNDER 9: Plymouth No. 1 beat Northville Lightning 5-0 on April 24. Maumer Asbahl and Bryan Sommerville were MVPs for the Lightning.

Golfers take eighth at Brighton tournament

An 84-53 blasting of Livonia Churchill Thursday kept the Mustang boys track team undefeated in WLA dual meets.

Northville swept relay events to gain the margin of victory. Coach Dennis Faletti said it was a strong meet for his team, noting that a half-dozen best performances were set.

Even though the Mustangs won comfortably, Faletti said Livonia has improved from a season ago.

"They changed their lineup and did well," he said. "They were a lot better than I thought they'd be."

Northville moved to 3-0 in the conference. The squad's only loss this year came at the hands of Baseline rival Novi.

There aren't many meets where John Gatti throws a personal best in the shot put and doesn't win. But that's exactly what happened Thursday as he nailed a 48-74 throw.

The junior avenged himself in the discus. He won with a throw of 144-94.

In the high jump, Rob Tune placed second by clearing 5-8. Teammate Bernie Tomsa was third with 5-8.

Chris Gomersall was second in the long jump with 18-4. Bo Fowler, Mark Ritter, Todd Zayt and Matt Hamister won the 3,200-meter relay in 8:51.60.

Northville's Justin Cataldo was third in the 100-meter hurdles with a time of 18.8. Brian Dogonski won the 100-meter dash in 11.3 while Gomersall had a personal best to take third in 11.5.

The team of Bob Oiler, Farb Navi, Rick King and Dogonski won the 400-meter relay in 45.9. Faletti said that time will drop with better baton exchanges.

Chris Harrison was second in the 1,600-meter run in 4:54.90, a personal best. Eric Goerke was third in 4:56.40.

The 800-meter relay team of Oiler,

Navi, Bryan Kelley and Rob Subotich won with a time of 1:36.70. Jason Petrie took the 800-meter run in 2:09.20 while Ritter was second in 2:14.40.

In the 400-meter dash, Subotich placed first with a season-best 51.8. Marc Golden was third in 55.1.

Justin Lankes won the 300-meter hurdles in 43.9. Cataldo was second in 44.7.

Golden, Petrie, Zayt and Subotich won the 1,600-meter relay in 3:42.20. Petrie's 11-foot jump won the pole vault while Fowler was third with 10-feet.

In the 200-meter run, Oiler had a personal best of 23.6, which was good enough to win. Dogonski was second in 23.7.

Jeff Zwiesler ran his best ever in the 3,200 and was second in 10:53.80. Nate Kirmis was third in 11:04.

The track team hosts Farmington Hills Harrison today at 3:30 p.m.

Mustangs blast Churchill 84-53

By SCOTT DANIEL
Sports Editor

The Mustang golf team wasn't spectacular Saturday, but did play solidly enough to take eighth at the Brighton Invitational.

Northville High totaled 419 for the 18-hole tournament. Traverse City, one of the state's top-ranked Class A teams, won the tournament easily.

Mustang coach Trish Waldecker said her squad had lots of fun at Brighton's Oak Pointe Golf Course.

"I was really happy with the way we played," she said. "All the girls had a great time."

Besides playing against top competition, Waldecker said it was a chance for her team to gain experience at the course, which will be the site for MHSAA regional competition.

"That's my main motivation for going," she commented.

Maria Candela led Northville with a round of 102. Kelly Casterline scored a 104. Beth MacLean a 105

"They changed their lineup and did well. They were a lot better than I thought they'd be."

Waldecker said her team wanted to avoid losing to the first-year Wildcats Thursday.

"The girls were a little bit worried because they are a first-year team," she said. "They didn't want them to do what we did to some teams in our first year."

Northville made it all the way to the state finals in its first season a few years ago. While Novi shot its best round of '93, the Mustangs weren't seriously challenged.

Lindsay Casterline led the way with a 50 while sister Kelly added a 55. Christine Arnold had a 56 on the day and Candela rounded out the Mustangs' effort with a 57. NORTHVILLE 195, LIVONIA FRANKLIN 222

It was a record-setting day for the Mustangs April 26.

The team score eclipsed the previous school mark by four strokes. MacLean also set an individual record with a round of 42.

Other Northville scores included a 46 by Kelly Casterline; 51 by Lindsay Casterline and 56 for Candela.

Recreational cycling is booming

The most efficient way to propel yourself forward is aboard a bicycle. It's also an excellent way to enjoy fresh air and scenery while getting a good workout.

The popularity of recreational cycling has boomed since the early '80s, largely because of improvements in bicycle technology. Today's bikes are more comfortable, and versatile enough for a wide variety of activities.

MOUNTAIN BIKES

According to the Bicycle Institute of America, approximately 50 percent of bikes now sold in the United States are mountain bikes, compared to 5 percent just five years ago.

Mountain bikes have wide tires, 15 to 18 speeds, and straight, upright handlebars. They're easy to pedal uphill and allow a comfortable riding position.

"Fat" tires take to rough and bumpy dirt roads as easily as paved surfaces, absorb lots of vibration, and have fewer flats than "skinny" high-pressure tires.

BIKE HIKING

The popularity of mountain bikes has spawned a new sport.

"Bike hiking" involves riding — and sometimes walking — a mountain bike along quiet trails and logging roads. The sport is expected to become the cycling craze of the '90s.

"The mountain bike was specifically designed to handle off-road conditions," says BIA executive director Bill Wilkinson. "But it has taken nearly 10 years for the majority of mountain bike riders to discover the joy of going on when the pavement stops."

Enthusiasts say the best part of exploring back-country trails is the opportunity to view terrain few people have discovered yet — as well as the absence of vehicles.

SPORT/TOURING BIKES

If you anticipate long rides on pavement, either for recreation or as a part of your daily commute, consider a bicycle built for touring.

Recreational cycling is good for the heart and lots of fun.

With their down-turned handlebars and 14 to 21 speeds, sport/touring bikes are glorified versions of yesterday's 10-speed. They resemble racers, but have heavier frames, lower gearing, and more stable wheelbases.

In addition, sport/touring bikes usually accommodate racks, which can hold various types of gear — a convenience if you plan to tote camping gear, a picnic basket, a backpack or briefcase.

Among the races that are popular with today's competitive cyclists are velodrome racing (on a specially built banked track); road races (held on streets and rural roads); time trials (individuals compete against the clock); criteriums (held on a closed loop of city streets); stage races (multi-day events); triathlons; triathlons and mountain bike races.

BIKE RACING

Nearly 200,000 adult Americans ride in competitive cycling events annually, and another 80,000 younger BMX (bicycle motorcross) riders compete on some 700 dirt tracks across the country.

Among the races that are popular with today's competitive cyclists are velodrome racing (on a specially built banked track); road races (held on streets and rural roads); time trials (individuals compete against the clock); criteriums (held on a closed loop of city streets); stage races (multi-day events); triathlons; triathlons and mountain bike races.

Racing bikes are at the cutting edge of bike technology. They're featherweight and have razor-thin tires to minimize wind resistance.

Frames are made of light weight alloys, their upright design provides greater comfort, less fatigue and better performance.

Aerodynamically styled handlebars increase efficiency, comfort and speed. They're positioned to put the rider in a "tuck" position similar to that of downhill skiers.

"Twist" shift levers are located at palm positions so hands never leave handlebars; new step-in pedals eliminate old-style toe clip and strap, providing easier entry and exit.

EQUIPMENT EVOLUTIONS

Click this button and you'll shift up. Click that button and you'll shift down — automatically, and to the right position every time. If new models on display at bike industry trade shows are any indication, it won't be long before push-button and twist-type shifters replace levers.

The reason? A bicycle tour operator observes, "I typically see lever-style shifters frozen in place from lack of use. Newcomers to bicycling are afraid to shift gears."

As a result, he explains, they're depriving themselves of the full enjoyment they could get from cycling.

"Any improvement that makes shifting gears easier will help the sport."

Computer technology also has impacted cycling. New "cycloputers" monitor altitude, exertion and pulse rate — as well as miles covered and pace maintained.

In-place bicycling "trainers" with electronic chips and display screens have become commonplace. Video tapes let you "tour and train" in exotic locations without leaving your living room.

Also newly developed or in the works: composite frames, disc wheels, aero-bars, teardrop-shaped helmets and automatic transmission systems.

THE WELL-DRESSED CYCLIST

Bicycle shorts and fanny packs, in neon and black, bold beach colors and tropical prints, have become the look in warm-weather active wear.

Thanks to the new cycle chic, knee-length Lycra shorts are an accepted alternative to traditional athletic shorts, and tights have replaced baggy sweatpants for running and jogging.

Authentic bicycle shorts have a padded seat, the padding increases the rider's comfort by absorbing moisture and pressure.

Thoughts on open heart surgery

It was a year ago on April 6 that I had open-heart surgery — a 10-hour process in which two of my valves were replaced with transplanted human valves. The surgery was to correct a birth defect that I was not aware of until recently. I would like to share some of the thoughts and feelings I have had since the surgery.

In the hospital, I was warned that many people, especially men, experience depression after cardiac surgery. What they did not tell me was the basis for this depression or how to deal with it when, and if, it occurs.

The days of recovery immediately after surgery went well. I had some bad days, but in general I could see my recovery progressing and was encouraged by this advancement each day. It seemed that I had escaped any depression.

Once I returned to work and my normal hectic life, it hit me like a ton of bricks. Not necessarily depression but many negative feelings. I felt angry. I thought, why me? I have always lead a fairly healthy life, why am I now a heart patient at 35? I don't deserve a life of constant monitoring and regular trips to the cardiologist for follow-up. I had feelings of guilt, somehow I had let my family down. I was responsible for what they had gone through. I had watched as they worried, cried and prayed for me. I felt sorry for myself. In those days after surgery I spent hours hashing thoughts over in my mind.

Then in June during my rehab walk, something occurred to me. (The running philosopher George Sheehan once said, "Never trust a thought you have while sitting down." I say if you want to do some thinking, go for a walk.) Anyway, as I walked I was feeling good about my four miles and recalling a college class I had on the psychology of death and dying. I realized I had escaped death but was going through many of the same thought patterns that occur when someone suffers a loss — the stages of the grieving process. I had lived through this ordeal and was doing well. Why was I grieving? What had I lost? Then it came to me.

For the 35 years leading to my surgery, I considered myself a young, healthy person. Feeling good and living a good, healthy and athletic life gave me a feeling of immortality. Maybe I shouldn't call it immortality but the thought of my own death did not often enter my mind. Until this year, I didn't know how precious that feeling of immortality was. It's a feeling that is now gone, and like so many, taken for granted. I didn't realize its value until it was gone. I was going through the grieving process over the loss of the secure feelings of health.

I am now a heart patient. I can only imagine the unpleasant thoughts and feelings people have after bypass surgery or a heart attack. They must feel remorseful to realize they might have avoided surgery and convalescence by simply changing their lifestyle. People just don't know what they've got until it's gone.

I am sharing these thoughts hoping to motivate anyone trying to make a positive, healthy lifestyle change. There is absolutely no good reason to live a sedentary life or eat a poor diet — the consequences are depressing. Are you looking for inspiration or a place to start? My wife, Kathy Step, just started a Tuesday morning walking group. They walk at 9:30 a.m. from Running Fit in the Novi Town Center. For more information call 347-4949.

As for myself, hopefully I'm in acceptance. The final stage of grief. I have been able to move on. I have learned from the experience and hope to share it with others and create something positive from something difficult.

Home warranty plans grow in popularity

By James M. Woodard
Copley News Service

Sales of home warranty plans for homes being resold are picking up dramatically throughout the country.

"At least 75 percent of homes we sell are covered by a home protection plan," said Nancy Amorteguy, a branch manager for Coldwell Banker Residential Real Estate Services.

"About a year ago, we started recommending the coverage strongly. We really think all previously owned homes sold today should have warranty coverage. It benefits everyone."

The coverage plan is usually purchased by the seller, with the one-time fee paid at the time the home sale transaction is closed. The plan typically covers costs related to repairing or replacing the "working parts" of a home—the mechanical, non-structural systems. This includes plumbing, electrical and heating systems. Some plans include kitchen appliances, garage door openers, spas and swimming pools.

"Things have a way of going wrong soon after a sale," Amorteguy said. "With warranty coverage, everyone feels more secure about a sale transaction—the buyer, seller and broker. The buyer will often pay for extended years of coverage."

In some cases, the initial fee is split between the buyer and seller,

HOME DESIGNS

The farm style Jansen has a down-side to it

By James McAlexander
Copley News Service

The medium-size, farm-style Jansen is designed for construction on a rear-sloping hill. It is richly windowed along the back, to allow for full appreciation of vistas to the left and rear.

From the front, the Jansen looks like a single-level home, but it actually has more than 800 square feet of living space on the lower level—two bedrooms, an activity room and a bathroom.

A spacious master suite, expanded by a wide bay window, is the only bedroom upstairs. Other features include a walk-in closet, an oversize tub and shower combination, and a second vanity outside the water closet. This room is also brightened by an overhead dormer window.

Two more dormer windows these facing the back yard, brighten an informal great room that stretches across the width of the Jansen at the rear.

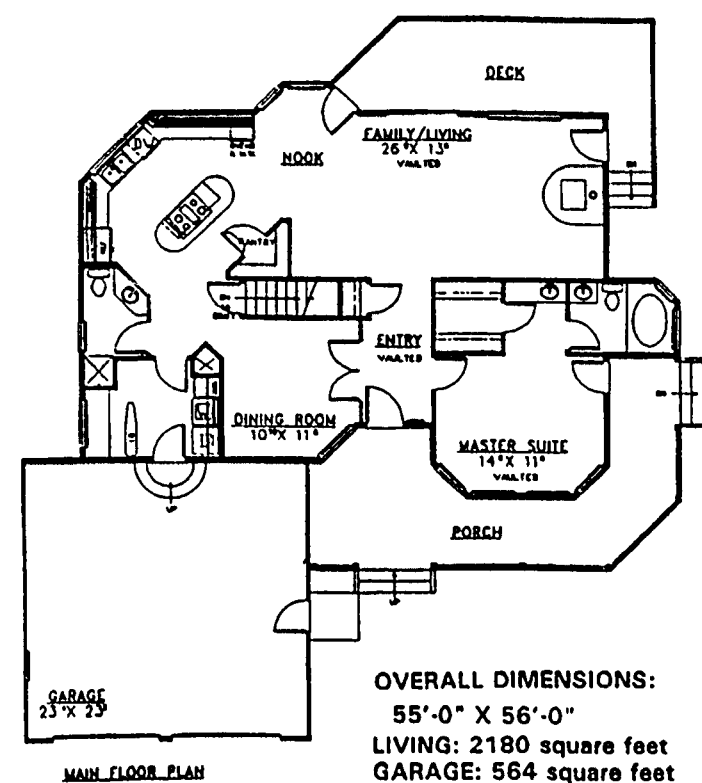

The comfortable country kitchen has a large work island with built-in range top, and a bay window brightens the eating nook. Next to the wood-burning stove is a door that leads to the deck and an external stairway, convenient for bringing in wood. The nook also has deck access, allowing meals to move outside when the weather allows.

One side of the utility room is designed for use as a sewing center. This room, as well as the adjacent small bathroom, is equally close to the kitchen and the garage.

The Jansen also has a formal dining room, which can be entered from the kitchen, or through double French doors off the entryway.

For a study plan of the Jansen 400-51 send $7.50 to Landmark Designs, c/o HomeTown Newspapers, 323 E. Grand River Ave., Howell, MI 48843. (Be sure to specify plan name and number when ordering.)

South Lyon couple enjoy the small town and country flavor

By Matthew J. Valley
Editor

Denise and Steve Lay say that in moving to their new residence in Greenock Hills development in Green Oak Township, they truly have come home.

The young professionals also were happy to return to the South Lyon school district where they had lived six years ago.

"We wanted the convenience of the city (South Lyon) and the comfort of the country," said Steve.

Denise and Steve both said that the friendliness of the people in the area made it very easy for them and their two oldest sons to resume old friendships.

"It's like we never left," he said. Denise said she enjoys the natural beauty which surrounds their home.

In selecting a home, their love of nature was a high priority, she said. The existence of a wetland near their home will prohibit development behind their residence.

The couple said they have a great home constructed with their needs, likes, and dislikes in mind.

"Each room was customized to our liking," Denise said.

In fact, builder Ed Tompkins tore out the studs for an enclosed staircase and widened the hall area in order to accommodate Denise's desire for an open staircase.

Tompkins, their builder, co-owns the development.

Special theme rooms, including a "101 Dalmations" bedroom for the Lays' youngest son, Dennis, 7, 15-year-old Robert's Michigan State bedroom, and a modern room in gray tones for 18-year-old Steven, are located throughout their dwelling.

Denise and Steve say that they find fixing up the house inside and out is an enjoyable and relaxing hobby.

Steve, who supervises the Farmington Hills Department of Public Works, said he can't wait to start work on an enclosed backyard deck.

Denise, who owns and operates two beauty salons, created a decorator look in each room.

She admits that she prefers the simple look of stark white walls and neutral floor coverings. These features accent the spacious design and

GARDENING

It's time to start thinking about your garden and planning for the best results. A workable garden plan includes a list of crops to plant, varieties to select, the amount of seeds or number of seedlings needed, planting dates, the location of each crop and spacing.

It's often helpful to work up a diagram of just how every inch of space in your garden will be used.

Consider carefully the location of your garden. Does it get enough sun? (Six hours a day is the very least most plants require.) Will the garden drain properly? Is the space convenient to a watering source? These are all important questions to keep in mind when mapping out a new garden site.

Next, consider the soil. The spring weather may have left the earth too damp and cold to work (try squeezing a handful of soil, it should crumble apart rather than clump damply).

In some parts of the country, you may be able to sow an early planting of cool-weather crops that can withstand the occasional dips in temperature.

For instance, you can probably begin planting lettuce, radishes and peas now and start peppers, tomatoes, eggplants, celery, broccoli and cauliflower in the cold frame or greenhouse. It's time to start many annuals (under lights) as well, including asters, phlox, snapdragons, ageratum and nicotiana.

Spring thaws can be dangerous to shrubs and bushes as the tops begin to shed water, which their frozen roots can't replace. To prevent dehydration, try to keep them shaded with burlap until the ground is completely thawed.

PERFECT POTATOES

Did it ever occur to you that it's fun to raise fabulous potatoes? Well, my dears, it seems to me there are few enjoyments in the world like seeing potatoes do their very best.

When you have gotten so well acquainted with the nature of the crop so it's all under your green thumb (as it were), what a feeling of accomplishment it gives one to be able to make them do their very best and do it every time.

Potato primer

- Always buy disease-free tubers from a reliable source
- Prepare soil by plowing and spading.
- Plant in well-drained soil.
- Harvest potatoes when the tops have withered.

Home warranties grow in popularity; 1993 average interest rate

she noted. "We feel so strongly about the value of home warranties our firm sometimes pays for the coverage. It's an extra service for clients."

It's interesting to note that home warranty usage in some areas increased dramatically during the past year, while sales of existing homes rose only slightly in the same area.

Nearly 60 percent of all existing single family homes sold in California last year included home warranty coverage. That's up from 40 percent of homes sold during the previous year, a recent survey revealed. Home warranty sales also were over 10 percent higher during the second half of last year compared with the first half.

Nationally, 16 percent of existing home sales now include warranty coverage, according to John Kinker, president of the National Home Warranty Association. That also reflects a substantial increase.

Warranty sales (nationwide) have climbed 85 percent during the past five years. Last year, 535,000 warranty contracts were sold, generating about $250 million in overall revenues.

According to a Gallup Poll, 79 percent of home buyers and sellers rate warranties as one of the most important considerations in buying or selling a home.

"Even though coverage rates are going up, the demand for and sales of warranty plans are growing," Kinker said. "An increasing number of brokers are advertising that all their listed homes are covered with warranties. They have found this effectively promotes contacts from prospective home buyers as well as sellers."

The initial one-year fee normally ranges from $350 to $450 nationally, Kinker noted. However, in California the cost is lower, from $245 to $300.

About 60 percent of fees are paid out in claims. That compares with 35 percent to 42 percent of general insurance premiums paid out in claims, Kinker said.

Out of every 100 home warranty contracts, 61 of those houses will have one or more claims. There is an average of 120 claims per 100 contracts, he pointed out. The high payout rate is now pushing rates up a bit.

The renewal rate—home owners buying additional years of warranty coverage—is also increasing significantly. The number of owners opting for at least one additional year is up by about 25 percent over a year ago.

Q. What's the major reason for increasing home prices?

A. The key reason for rising prices in 1993 is probably the soaring cost of lumber and other wood products. Since October 1992, those costs have nearly doubled, according to a report from the National Association of Home Builders.

This creates a serious threat to housing affordability throughout the country. The primary forces contributing to these price increases have been a decline in timber supply from government-owned lands in the Pacific Northwest and speculative behavior such as panic buying and the withholding of supplies, the NAHB report stated.

About 15,000 board feet of framing lumber goes into a typical new 2,000 square-foot single-family home. The increase in lumber prices at the mill during since October translates into increased construction cost of about $3,600 per house. Considering other woodrelated items, such as panel products, the total cost increase for the buyer is about $5,000.

Q. What is the estimated average of home mortgage interest rates for 1993?

A. One of the most credible sources of this type of crystal-ball estimating is the National Association of Realtors' Research Department. They predict this year's average interest rate will be 7.6 percent for a 30-year fixed-rate mortgage loan. That's down from 8.4 percent last year.

Adjustable rate loans will carry an average rate of 5.3 percent, NAR researchers say.

whether we have extremely wet weather or drought!

The potato is the world's leading vegetable crop. As a food it's one of the cheapest sources of carbohydrates, plus large amounts of minerals and vitamins. Its culture is practically worldwide.

Most garden soils are suitable for potatoes (pH 5.0 to 6.0). The potato plant is very sensitive to drainage and aeration. Therefore, to grow properly, it's essential that the soil be well-drained and thoroughly prepared by plowing or spading prior to planting.

Always buy certified disease-free tubers from a reliable dealer in order to prevent diseases that are carried on the tubers.

Harvest only when the tops have withered and died down, otherwise, the potato will be too soft.

BEST VEGGIES

The Department of Agriculture says we need to eat three to five servings of vegetables daily for proper nutrition. Of course, being gardeners, we're all more likely to achieve this goal.

The 10 most nutritious vegetables are:

- Broccoli: One of the best vegetable sources of B vitamins and calcium.
- Spinach: Lots of calcium, potassium and iron and vitamin A.
- Brussels sprouts: Packed with iron and vitamin C, and rich in B vitamins and potassium.
- Lima beans: Best vegetable source of potassium and high in iron, B vitamins and calcium.
- Peas: All varieties are high in vitamin B and rich in iron. Some varieties have high vitamin C content.
- Asparagus: High in B vitamins and valuable amounts of vitamins A and C and iron.
- Artichokes: Both leaves and hearts are rich in potassium and iron.
- Cauliflower: This cousin of broccoli is rich in vitamin C.

• Sweet potatoes: The second best source of vitamin A—very high in vitamin C.

• Carrots: More vitamin A than any other vegetable and rich in potassium and calcium.

This "cadogan" type of tea server was inspired by Chinese wine pots and could sell about $1,000.

Teapot fills through bottom

By James G. McCollam
Copley News Service

Q. Enclosed is a picture of what looks like a teapot, except that the top is enclosed. It is filled through a hole in the bottom.

We are puzzled as to its intended use. Is it old, or just a piece of "junk"?

A. This type of tea server was called a "cadogan" in England: "vaso senza bocca" in Italy. They were inspired by Chinese wine pots.

The name was derived from a Mrs.

Cadogan, whose son brought a wine pot back from China. Most were produced between 1790 and 1810.

I don't find any record of sales of these, but they must be worth at least $1,000.

Q. A friend gave me a plate about 50 years ago. It is marked "Louis XV—U.&Co." in a shield with "Sarreguemines" underneath.

Can you tell me when and where it was made, and its value?

A. This plate was made in Sarreguemines, France, during the early 20th century by Utzschneider & Co. It would probably be worth about $35 to $45.

Q. I have a set of Allerton Blue Willow dishes marked with a crown atop a banner inscribed "Allerton — England — Willow." I have 12 each of dinner plates, salad plates, soup bowls, fruit dishes, salt dips, cups and saucers, two large platters, small platter, two covered vegetable dishes, soup tureen, butter dish, cream pitcher and gravy boat.

What would be the value of this set?

A. Your set of Allerton's Blue Willow dishes was made in the early 20th century and would probably sell for about $800 to $900.

Letters with picture(s) are welcome and may be answered in the column. We cannot reply personally or return pictures. Address your letters to James G. McCollam, P.O. Box 1087, Notre Dame, IN 46556.

beautiful wood trim found throughout their home.

She made all the valances and customized draperies for their home. Pleated gray shades for the living room and dining area are next on her project list.

The spacious and airy 2,500 square foot, $220,000 home has many outstanding points.

For example, the large master bedroom suite features not only a hot tub (standard) and a walk-in closet — but it also has a roomy bathroom with dual showers.

Denise said the kitchen and dining area are among her favorite rooms.

They are graced with oak floors which Tompkins allowed the Lays to put down themselves. Located near the kitchen is a first floor laundry area.

The kitchen has hordes of cupboard space, a work island, and a spacious pantry.

"I don't use half my kitchen cupboards," Denise said.

High vaulted ceilings are located throughout the structure, ranging an estimated 10 to 14 feet in height.

The living room has a gas fireplace and the dining area features a large bay window overlooking the wetlands.

The bedroom directly above the dining room has an equally large bay window.

The mostly brick four-bedroom home also has a three-car attached garage and a backyard walkout.

Steve said he will build a screened, enclosed deck — one of the few features not included in the construction package — as soon as the warm, drier weather starts.

Each bedroom is attached to one of the three bathrooms. The home also features a half-bath.

Another factor Steve said convinced him of the development's superiority is that Tompkins also lives there.

Tompkins said he primarily does custom homes, which in Greenock Hills average 2,500 square feet each. The subdivision currently has 117 lots.

If their plans are approved by the Green Oak Township Board, Tompkins and his partner, Chuck Smith, will build on 42 lots to comprise Phase III of the project.

Tompkins' average customers are two-income professional couples, about 35 years old, and have children. Approximately 40 percent of his clients relocate from out-of-state.

The average cost of one of Tompkins' houses is $210,000.

Tompkins said he enjoys the challenges of custom home building.

"You're never doing the same home twice."

Dennis Wilcox (front) and Peter Murray create signs at Planet Neon in Novi. Murray said "Working on the Tiger Stadium project was exciting," because he felt like a part of history.

Bright ideas Planet Neon shows its creative bent

By RICK BYRNE

It's kind of ironic that a company like Planet Neon would be located in Novi.

The City of Novi, notorious for its restrictive sign ordinance, probably wouldn't allow most of the signs that come out of the sprawling gray building on Grand River Avenue west of Taft Road.

"Neon is really being used in a mixture of applications," said Jeff Heyn, who with wife Anne, owns Planet Neon. "It's a very old craft being used by new craftsmen."

Neon lights are created by applying electrical current to a sealed glass tube containing an inert gas, either neon or argon. But that's just where the fun begins. One large room at Planet Neon has space for four glass blowers, who can heat and bend the glass tubes into any shape or design you can think of — and even some you couldn't.

In truth many signs that you see may actually be neon, and you wouldn't even know it. Technological advances in the industry and artisans pushing the creative envelope have resulted in new uses and integrations for neon.

Jeff demonstrates with a sign being created for a new Mike Ilitch-owned restaurant. The letters are solid stainless steel, completely opaque.

"The tubes go in back here," Jeff says, turning a letter over to reveal meticulously welded seams and brackets behind it. "The light reflects out the back and creates a nice halo effect around the letters."

In other instances, translucent plastic in a rainbow of colors creates the image by day, but neon lights at night — more evenly than incandescent lights ever could.

Neon light is the stuff of fantasy and imagination, but it's also practical. Many people confuse it with fluorescent lighting that you may find stuck in the dropped ceiling in your office. Those lights burn out frequently enough to make them a pain to replace.

"Theoretically, if neon is done right, it doesn't burn out," said Jeff. "It's not like fluorescent light where you have only so many hours before it goes bad."

"And it's energy efficient. It hardly gives off any heat," he said, grabbing a lit tube in his office to demonstrate.

Neon can also turn up in cave lighting above a moulding near the ceiling of a room, creating a mood with whatever color is appropriate. "That's one reason architects like to use it," said Jeff. "You can tuck it in small areas."

Anne also points out that while there are only two true colors of neon lights (neon gas glows a fire engine red, and argon, a medium blue), virtually the entire spectrum can be created with a phosphorous coating on the insides of the tubes. It's all a matter of what kind of image you want to present.

"Businesses use the sign to create their identity," Anne said. "The best example of that is Tiger Stadium."

Yes, if you've been to the newly refurbished Tiger Stadium and seen the new Tiger Plaza, you've seen the work of Planet Neon.

"Doing that was fun because it was something new and exciting," said Anne. "It just creates a better feeling when you go in there. Even the people working there and selling beer were more excited. These things kind of rub off on each other."

That Tiger Stadium is so important to everyone made it a labor of love. Workers in Planet Neon's fabricating shop toiled 'round the clock, and when construction began at the stadium, they even ignored the weather.

"There was a snowstorm that made it so cold that the ironworkers couldn't even hold the pieces they were building," Anne said. "But it was a team effort. Everybody understood the situation, that this wasn't an eight-to-five job."

The Fox Theatre facade was another Planet Neon creation. It too has achieved landmark status thanks to the company's work. And with notches like that in their belts, the people at Planet Neon find there's no shortage of new jobs for them.

"We're fortunate," said Ed Goralowski, who works in sales. "Some sign companies have been feeling the brunt of the recession. But the developers and builders keep on calling us."

The Heyns attribute their success to the creativity with which they approach every job.

"It's a linear tube, and you're writing with light," said Jeff. "And you can bend it to fit architectural situations. In the old days, it was just signage."

Locally, Woolly Bully's restaurant and night club in Northville has called on Planet Neon to create its image. Indeed Woolly Bully's illustrates how the firm's work isn't limited to just lighting.

Though the 40-foot guitars on the outside and the turquoise and purple bars were Planet Neon creations, so was that pink '60 Cadillac that sticks out of the side of the building.

The company has made signs for churches, and it's made signs for exotic dance clubs. From shopping malls in Louisiana to a neon sculpture for a doctor, Planet Neon has infused its artistic images nearly everywhere. Though 90 percent of the work is for commercial customers, anyone can walk in the door and ask for anything, no matter how small or large.

"We do a lot of jobs that are not as exciting as Tiger Stadium," said Anne. "But we take as much pride in a $200 lamp as we do in a $2,000 sign."

And, yes, they even work in Novi. The new Providence Medical Center has signs that, sign ordinances notwithstanding, contain neon tubes. It just goes to show, there's no limit for someone with a bright idea.

Business Briefs

CLIFTON & ASSOCIATES INSURANCE AGENCY of Northville recently joined the Professional Independent Insurance Agents of Michigan (PIIAM), a statewide trade association that represents 10,000 independent insurance agents and industry employees. It is the only agents' association in Michigan.

MICHAEL LI, an assistant actuarial analyst with Alexander Hamilton Life, Farmington Hills, has been named an Associate of Actuaries (ASA). He is now a resident of Novi.

He earned the ASA designation by successfully completing a series of examinations administered by the society. ASA candidates are tested on mathematical and statistics underlying actuarial science and their applications to technical actuarial problems. Actuaries design and evaluate financial programs by using statistical and economic techniques to analyze risk and probabilities and to evaluate the implications of future events.

CHARLES M. YOUNG AND HAROLD N. HYLAND of Novi and Douglas Teubert of Northville have earned membership in Lutheran Brotherhood's 1992 Top Club.

Top Club is Lutheran Brotherhood's most prestigious sales honor. Representatives qualify for membership based on the sale of insurance and investment products to Lutherans. Fewer than 5 percent of all Lutheran Brotherhood representatives qualified for this recognition in 1992. Lutheran Brotherhood and its subsidiaries offer life and health insurance, annuities and mutual funds to Lutherans. The fraternal insurance society has more than one million members nationwide.

CINDY JAKY, broker of Heritage Real Estate/Better Homes and Gardens announced two sales associates earned membership in the Better Homes and Gardens Real Estate Service 1992 Medallion Club. Membership is awarded to those sales associates who achieved residential sales and listings sold volume of $1 million or more during 1992.

Heritage Real Estate/Better Homes and Gardens sales associates who achieved $1 million in residential sales and listings sold volume include Paula Tatum-Fenn and Dennis Zammit.

"Better Homes and Gardens Medallion Club recognizes superior achievement in residential real estate marketing here in the Milford area," said Cindy Jaky. "These sales associates are outstanding professionals because each of them executes with near flawless determination the sound fundamentals of sales success, and is dedicated to providing exceptional customer service," Jaky said.

Heritage Real Estate/Better Homes and Gardens Real Estate Service is a national network of locally owned and operated residential real estate companies franchised under the Better Homes and Gardens name. The real estate service was formed in 1978 as an extension of Better Homes and Gardens magazine, one of America's largest home and family publications with a circulation base of more than 8,000,000 subscribers and 33.2 million readers.

Better Homes and Gardens has more than 660 member firms, 1,308 locations and more than 20,000 full-time sales associates. The real estate service is an operating group of Meredith Corp., a diversified media company involved in magazine and book publishing, television broadcasting, residential real estate marketing and franchising, and investments in cable television.

Heritage Real Estate/Better Homes and Gardens serves Milford and surrounding areas with 10 sales associates working from their downtown 409 N. Main St. address.

Paula Tatum-Fenn has also earned the Top Producer of the Year award from Heritage Real Estate/Better Homes and Gardens Milford office and was inducted into the 1992 "President's Club" of Western Wayne Oakland County Association of Realtors at a special Awards Dinner last month.

Honda's unique twin-blade system cuts each blade of grass into two pieces.

The unique deck design circulates these pieces through the deck housing where they are cut over and over.

Then, because the deck is tilted rearward, a third cut is made as the blade revolves to the rear.

The tiny clippings are then deposited at the front of the deck. Lift created from the twin-blades draws larger pieces back into the deck to be mulched again.
