Legality of township decision is questioned

Did board act properly in firing?

By SHARON CONDRON Staff Writer

The Northville Township Board of Trustees may have violated Michigan's Open Meetings Act by firing the law firm of Kelly & Kelly P.C. in a closed session May 13.

A press release issued by township officials on May 19 confirms trustees voted to fire the Northville husband and wife attorney team and sever their three-month-old contract during the closed-door session.

At a closed session on May 13, 1993, the Northville Township Board of Trustees unanimously agreed to terminate the legal services of Kelly & Kelly, P.C. with thirty days notice as stipulated in the contract," the statement reads.

Deputy Clerk Eunice Switzler confirmed the board took a unanimous roll call vote to terminate the contract six days after the township board at the closed session.

The vote triggered a certifled letter that was dated May 18 and delivered to Kelly & Kelly P.C. on Wednesday. The letter served as the 30-day termination notice of their contract with

City council rejects township's request for paving dollars

By STEVE KELLMAN Staff Writer

The Northville city council would love to help Northville Township in its years-long project to pave Gerald Avenue, but not enough to participate in a special assessment to fund the $840,000 project.

The council declined a township request to pay $41,000 to participate in a township special assessment at its May 17 meeting. Council members said they would probably be willing to turn a five-foot right of way over to the township to let the project

"We feel it's an indirect benefit at best," Word said.

Word also noted that the council approved construction of a stormwater detention pond on city property in 1986, in conjunction with the paving project. City officials also agreed then to perform any clean-up needed on the pond site, which was the site of a landfill more than 20 years ago. No mention was made in 1986 of city participation in a special assessment, Word said.

"There's going to be a substantial cost to remove that material and dispose of it properly," said City Engineer Bob Warner, if removal is required to build the pond. He said the clean-up cost could exceed the cost of

If the cost is excessive, Word said, it could keep the city from cleaning up the site in the near future.

MEALS ON WHEELS: Meals on Wheels, the volunteer driving service that takes prepared meals from Allen Terrace to homebound persons throughout the Northville area, is in need of substitute drivers. Meals are usually ready to go by 11 a.m. Kitchen helpers are also needed, and come in to help around 10:30 a.m. Those interested in helping out should call Marcie, Mondays through Fridays at 349-9661 (10:30 a.m. to 1 p.m.), or Judy at 348-1761.

HIGH SCHOOL SENIOR ALL-NIGHTER: The decorations for the all-night senior party can be viewed by the Northville community from 6 to 8 p.m. Friday, June 11, at the high school. The senior party is sponsored by the parents of the class of 1993. The theme of the party is kept secret until invitations are distributed at the senior breakfast held the morning before the day of graduation.

LIBRARY NEEDS VOLUNTEERS: The Northville Public Library is recruiting volunteers for its ongoing Northville Record newspaper indexing project. Those who would enjoy stepping into Northville's past for at least one hour a week, call the library at 349-3020.

CITY RECYCLING CENTER HOURS: The city council recently voted to reduce business hours at the Northville City recycling center, located inside the Department of Public Works yard at 650 Doheny Drive. The recycling center will no longer be open Wednesdays between 3-7 p.m. Weekend hours will be cut from every Saturday to the first and third Saturdays of each month, between 11 a.m.-5 p.m.

The move is due to reduced use of the center since the city initiated curbside collection of recyclable materials, and is intended to reduce the need for overtime by DPW workers. Since curbside recycling started last February, average use of the center has dropped to 35 cars on Wednesdays and 55 cars on Saturdays.

The center is available to City of Northville residents only, and identification is checked at the gate.

The center accepts clear, green and brown glass, plastic types ! and 2, tin cans, household and car batteries, paint, used motor oil and antifreeze, compost material, scrap metal, and newspapers. Liquids should be in sealed, clearly labeled containers. Newspapers should be stacked in brown paper bags or tied into bundles. Telephone books, magazines and road maps are not accepted.

'Advocates' group elects new officers

By MICHELLE KAISER Staff Writer

If Lynda Baca thought her schedule was hectic before, she hasn't seen anything yet.

Baca, who was elected president of the Advocates for Quality Education last week, will probably experience the busiest part of her one-year term in the next two weeks.

"Everything is happening at once," Baca said, referring to the upcoming Proposal A and Northville Public Schools' millage ballots. "We've got a lot of work ahead of us."

Baca was one of the founding members of Advocates, which was formed last summer.

We just felt there was a lot of misinformation and gossip and rumors in the community," Baca said of the group's purpose. "We thought we needed an impartial citizen's group to say We've studied this thing and wethink...'We like to think of it as a Northville educational think tank.

We're a positive support group when appropriate, but we also tell the administration and the board (of education) when we think they should look at things a different wav." In the past, Advocates issued statements on last year's November tax proposals and this year's contract negotiations. Most recently, the group sponsored U.S. Congressman William Ford's visit to Northville to speak on educational issues and also held a forum for board of education candidates last Wednesday.

During her term as president, Baca said her goal will be to see some stability in district finances.

In the next couple weeks, the Advocates will release position statements on the millage ballot, the collective bargaining process and on establishing a tax base in Northville Township. The group will also address a tax abatement requested by a high technology manufacturer, OIS, looking to build in the township.

"In the collective bargaining state-ment we urged the board to make every effort to settle the contract before the June 14 election," Baca said. "It doesn't look right now like that's going to happen so we'll have to reevaluate our position."

The Advocates will also closely watch the city's DDA strategic plan. as two members from Advocates sit on that committee.

"It's going to be exciting, but with apprehension." Baca said of her new role. There are so many things right now that are affecting public education . . . there's just a lot of stuff on our plate right now."

As the group nears its one-year anniversary, Baca said she would like to assess what kind of impact the group has had on the community. She's just not sure how to measure that.

"I would like to see all of the community pull together and do what's best for the schools," she said. "I'd like to see the community all focused in the same direction.

Baca will be finishing her term as chairperson of the Legislative Action Network (LAN), a group spearheaded by the Northville Coordinating Council of PTA/PTSA, in June. Sharon Ferrara will assume the role of chairperson.

Baca is also a member of the PTA and served on the high school day committee.

"I've just worked my way up," she laughed.

Other officers elected to Advocates were Jerry Rupley, vice president; Tom Gudritz, secretary; and Barbara Moroski-Browne, treasurer. Ken Reisman, Anna Sarkisian and Nancy Schieb will serve as trustees. All terms are for one year.

Carrier

sets up fund for scholars By MICHELLE KAISER

Runner

Doug Kurtis thought it was about time to pay back a favor when he established a scholarship fund at Northville High School recently.

In my own career, if someone wouldn't have went out of their way for me I wouldn't be where I'm at now," Kurtis, a systems analyst for Ford Motor Co., said.

Senior Tanya Williams will be the first recipient of the Doug Kurtis Scholarship. She will receive a minimum of $250 a year for four years. "I'm really happy I did this," Kurtis said. "Tanya Williams is a wonderful (finalist)." Seventy students applied for the scholarship. Kurtis is probably best known in the Northville community for his abilities as a runner. He has competed in 149 marathons since he began running in 1967, and now holds a world record for running 70 marathons in less than 2:20 (see Sports, page 3-B).

In fact, the proceeds from Kurtis' upcoming 8K race, scheduled for July 24 in downtown Northville, will benefit his scholarship fund.

Kurtis will speak at commencement ceremonies for his alma mater. Stevenson High School in Livonia, and will also be the grand marshal for the Fourth of July parade in Northville.

Since Kurtis got a late start with establishing his scholarship fund, he borrowed criteria from other scholarship requirements. For a student to be eligible for his scholarship, he came up with the following:

• The applicant must participate in cross country or track during his/ her junior and senior years at Northville High School.

 Show school or community involvement.

• Must have at least a 3.0 grade point average. • Attend a university or college in the state. Attend a personal interview.

Kurtis said his goal is to be able to offer more than one scholarship in future years. He put up the first $500 of this year's scholarship and expects

Sheriff relieves departments of transport duty

Area police departments can spend more time crime busting and less time chauffeuring prisoners now that the Wayne County Sheriff's Department has taken over the latter duty.

A new program that started March 22 makes sheriff's deputies available to drive prisoners to and from court appearances. Until now that duty was performed by the city and township police departments that made the arrests.

"It's something we've been asking the county to do for several years," Northville Township Police Chief Chip Snider said. "The funds have finally been freed up to allow them to buy the transport

Though his department hasn't yet taken advantage of the new service, Snider said the program will have a twofold benefit.

"It'll not only result in a cost savings, it also frees an officer to stay in the community."

The program was initiated by L.. Wayne Wolf of the sheriff's department, according to Sheriff with just five police departments. but is expected to include every

"It's a darn good idea," Police Chief Rodney Cannon said. You're talking a lot of man hours. Rather than have each department in the county do this, it makes more sense for the county to pick it up."

The city police station has a holding cell with a three-person capacity, but prisoners can't be held there for more than 24 hours. If suspects have to be detained for more than 24 hours, they have to be transferred to the Wayne

But, according to Cannon, that doesn't happen very often, as most suspects are arrested for minor offenses in Northville and are released on bond from 35th District Court in Plymouth.

Plymouth Township. Canton Township and Plymouth came on line with the transport program May 17 along with Northville. Livonia will be added June 1.

Police departments around Wayne County are generally pleased with the new prisoner transport service.

"So far it's worked out very well for us," Westland officer Carl Glaser said. "It's saving our people a lot of time and saving a lot of miles on our cars. It keeps our cars closer to the city and keeps more cars available in the city."

Ficano said that even the newly formed Metro Airport Police Department will get the service, although that department doesn't appear on the start-up list Ficano provided. Ficano opposed the April formation of the airport police, which is composed of 95 former sheriff's department officers.

Statistics for April show that the sheriff's deputies drove 7,860 miles that month in the course of transporting prisoners.

The only negative comments on the program come from Bob Sheldon, president of Local 3317 representing the sheriff's department lieutenants and sergeants. Sheldon believes Ficano is cutting services in other areas to run the new

The Kellys are questioning the legality of the board's decision to end their contract in a closed meeting. Allegations that the closed-door vote violates the state's Open Meeting Act prompted trustees to stall a vote to terminate the contract in public at a special board meeting on Friday. The mouon was tabled until the board receives a written opinion from its attorney on the legality of the initial

Regardless of the legality of the vote, Township Supervisor Karen Baja said it's unlikely the board will reverse its decision to drop Kelly & Kelly, P.C.. She said trustees were emphatic last week that it was "inefficient and too costly" to contract with three separate attorney firms.

Trustee Mark Abbo said there was just too much overlap and confusion between Kelly & Kelly, P.C. and Vanderveer Garzia to continue with both

There was a lot of crossover and overlapping of responsibility, " Abbo said Thursday. "It became inefficient for two attorneys to handle what one attorney had handled in the past." Treasurer Rick Engelland said farming out the township's legal business to three separate law firms was an experiment that just wasn't working out."

Baja said there were other complaints that triggered the board's emphatic" decision, but she wasn't willing to expand on them Thursday. She did say, however, that complaints from department heads about multiple attorneys and legal costs also led to the board's decision to cut back on the third firm.

Yes, but that's all I will say," Baja said when asked if there were complaints about the firm's performance and professionalism. "It was a combination of things, but ultimately it was because it was inefficient and too costly to keep all three firms."

Neither Michele nor John had any warning the contract was in jeopardy or near termination. Both partners said they had not had a single complaint from the township for the prosecuting work they'd been doing since March 1 when they were hired. There was no indication that there was a problem, "John said. Neither of the Kellys are buying the board's reasoning for terminating the contract. They're shifting the blame to Baja and say she was the one having trouble abiding by the division of labor that's spelled out in each of the Baja's defense and said the full board voted unanimously to terminate the contract. At no time, Britton said, was it Baja's recommendation alone to terminate the contract and forward the additional work to Vanderveer Garzia. "It wasn't personal and we didn to

"As long as we vote in an open session within 30 days, I don't see it being a big problem."

Trustee Mark Abbo said Thursday he wasn't convinced the board violated the law, but he said if it did the violation was unintentional and trustees would take corrective action.

"Yes, we agreed to it. ADDO said about the decision. And it was the concensus to terminate the contract.

RECORD OPINION

Our Opinion

District must adopt cost-cutting measures

No one likes belt tightening and periods of austerity rob us of some of the extras that help enhance the quality of life.

Like it or not, however, occasional crunch periods are an economic reality. and when they occur institutions must look long and hard for ways to conserve precious resources.

Any time parents are charged a fee before their children can participate in athletics programs, and basic commodities like transportation and teacher levels are reduced — that time must necessarily be identified as a period of retrenchment.

The Northville School District is now in the midst of such a period and, thus, it is incumbent upon school district officials to find whatever means possible to cut expenses and protect basic educational services.

We believe one area of possible savings that should be studied is strategic planning.

This complex and costly procedure involves flying in and providing lodgings and car rental for a professional consultant. Catering for the more than two dozen people involved in the planning sessions can cost several hundred dollars per meal, and records indicate the district spent $700 on food during one strategic planning day last October. Other expenses include office supplies and personnel costs.

Moreover, training instructors and administrators in the techniques established during strategic planning is lengthy and expensive, and by the time the bill for all the items in the ambitious project is totaled, the district can find itself with a five-figure expense on its

Education

The district has invested approximately $60,000 on strategic planning since the program's inception in 1988, and this year's Strategy I implementation could run as high as $50,000.

No one disputes the value of longrange planning and progressive districts such as Northville should be in the forefront of bold educational experiments. But we would not want to be in a position where we had to tell parents they had to pay $100 for their children to take part in the sports program, and at the same time approve a $700 allocation for three meals during one day of planning.

It might be argued that the costs involved in strategic planning hardly put a dent the district's overall budget. Maybe so, but the general perception is that when services like teachers and transportation are being cut, the least district officials can do is cut or delay expensive consultation programs.

Before you can expect people to be understanding about painful reductions, they must see evidence that everything has been done to cut non-essential programs as well as the basics.

Street games with an attitude

We've gotten reports that some Novi kids are playing street hockey with a bad attitude. Harassing pedestrians, harassing other kids, and worst of all, not letting traffic

The city ordinances make it clear that playing anything in the street is against the rules. To their credit, most police officers look the other way as long as street play doesn't cause complaints.

But now residents of the Yorkshire Place sub are acting like someone's given them a wedgie. They've got a right to be peved. The kids are being pretty arrogant about their games.

I could say what a crummy way it is for kids to act, but coming from an adult, they're likely to just ignore it.

So let me speak from the perspective of someone who grew up playing in the streets in New York City. There were plenty of games we could play on the sidewalks: buck-buck, boxball, Chinese boxball, ringalevio, freeze tag, dodgeball, running bases, stoopball.

But some games demanded that the action move to the

Take touch football for example. We never had any doubts about the line of scrimmage. If you rubbed the edge of your sneaker along the black tar of the street, it would actually leave a legible mark. I'd like to see the NFL do that.

Manhole covers (we called them "sewers") marked the goal lines, and parked cars were part of the playing field. They could be both a landmark for receivers ("Go down to the gray Buick and do a buttonhook") or a hazard (Like the time I broke my hand on the point of the tailfin on a '62 Caddy).

Stickball was another good street game. It's so popular in the city that some places had leagues.

For the uninitiated, stickball is baseball played with a pink rubber ball called a Spaldine (The good ones were made by Spalding). For a bat, you use a broom handle with electrical tape wrapped around the end for a grip.

Hitting two sewers meant you were good, and you'd get picked early when choosing sides. Three sewers was something like godhood. I never saw anyone do it, though we had a Swedish kid in my neighborhood named Nils who often came

Finally, there was street hockey. There were actually street hockey rinks in some of the neighborhood parks; a perfect full-size hockey rink made entirely of poured concrete (even the boards) with lines permanently marked.

Most of the time we stayed on our street, though. We used orange plastic pucks, or crushed an aluminum can. There was no such thing as in-line skates. Indeed, you were a serious player if your skates had urethane wheels instead of

You had to yield to traffic. Remember, we're talking a oneway street here, with cars parked on both sides, so it was a narrow playing field, 15 feet at the most. This was the predecessor of the TV timeout. It was the goalie's job to shove his net out of the way and let the car pass.

I know, because I was usually the goalie. Truth be known, I liked street hockey the least of the games we played. I didn't care to buy skates, and they'd let you play goalie without skates. Plus, I had a full set of catcher's equipment, so I could look the part even if I didn't need much protection from a

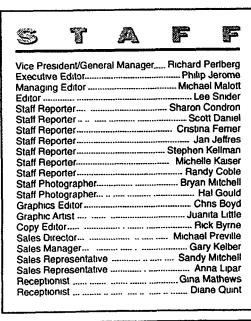

The whole point of this stroll down amnesia lane is this: When it comes to street games, the suburbs are no different from the city. Sidewalks or not, some games have to be played in the street.

But even though taking responsibility wasn't our long suit even when I was a kid, we knew enough that if we didn't call time out and get out of the way of traffic we would, A) get run over by a cab driver (cuz they'd do it), or B) have the privilege taken away.

Grade inflation still growing

Bray's column in The Detroit News recently about grade inflation at this nation's colleges and universities.

Citing statistics from the Wall Street Journal, Bray noted that 80 percent of undergraduates at Princeton University get nothing but A's and B's. That the mean grade at Harvard University is a B-plus. And that 36 percent of this year's University of Michigan graduates were graduated with "honors."

The reason I was pleased to see the column is that it was somewhat similar to one I wrote just about this time last year. We had just published our second annual All-Area

Academic Team, and I noted that students in Northville and Novi had received significantly higher grades than their counterparts in other school districts.

The 1992 numbers were interesting. There are a total of 10 high schools in HomeTown Newspapers' coverage area, and each was asked to submit five nominations for the All-Area

While looking at the nominations, I observed that all five nominees from Northville and all five r.ominees from Novi had perfect 4.0 grade point averages (GPAs). (Actually, more students than that from each school had 4-points, but schools were limited to just five nominees for the All-Area team.) The 104-pointers from Northville and Novi in 1992 were in sharp contrast with the other eight high schools. The other

I was pleased to read Thomas Novi were grading somewhat higher than their counterparts in other school districts prompted some angry response, and I eventually had to meet with a group of Novi High School students, ostensibly so I could see what a truly bright and talented group of young people they were.

That's why I was particularly interested in reviewing this year's All-Area nominations. And, sure enough, Northville and Novi once again led the way in 4-pointers. Once again, all five nominees from Northville and Novi had 4-points.

(Actually, seven Northville and six Novi seniors graduated with perfect 4-points, but schools were limited to just five nominations.)

The number of 4-pointers from the other eight schools? Fourteen. Ten from Northville and Novi; 14 from the other eight high schools combined.

In his column in The Detroit News, Bray compared grade inflation to economic inflation. The value of a 4-point GPA has been debased by grade inflation just as the value of the dollar has been debased by economic inflation, he said.

In other words, an A is not what it used to be.

The reasons for grade inflation? There are probably a lot of them. For one, GPAs are important for getting into the best colleges, and some high schools try to help their better students get into the more prestigious universities.

For another, too many teachers, I suspect, would rather hand out an A then face an angry parent.

Don't get me wrong, a 4.0 GPA is still an outstanding achievement, and I certainly don't mean to diminish anyone who accomplished it. At the same time, I quite prefer the days when it meant a lot more.

Wine of Alsace gets elegance from the earth

Alsace is a French wine region sandwiched between the Vosges Mountains and the Rhine River. It is truly one of the most beautiful places in France, if not the world.

Half-timbered houses are decorated with flowers and mountain castles overlook the vineyards below. People with Germanic-sounding names speak French (they are French) and make delicious white wines that are refreshing and crisp when young, yet may age better than many more-famous red wines from Burgundy and Bordeaux.

Creation of Alsace wines is a finely tuned craft. The wines are not blends: they stand alone as single grape varieties with the multitude of Alsace soil types determining the character of individual wines, so clearly distinguished in the taste.

Soil differences among vineyards growing the same grape offer an exceptional variety of tastes within the same varietal. Alsace producers recognized the importance of vineyard location and soil types properly matched to grape varieties in 1935, but the ravages of two world wars left them without a legally organized system of appellations until

An Alsace Grand Cru vineyard is located on an exceptional site where soil, climate and exposure unite to produce the best possible resources for the vine. The only grape varieties that may be grown in Alsace Grand Cru vineyards are riesling, gewurztraminer, tokay pinot gris and muscat. All Alsace wines are 100 percent varietal.

This means they are made from the one grape variety listed on the label. In contrast, California wines must contain 75 percent of the varietal named on the label. At Domaine Zind Humbrecht, wine production is predicated on Grand Cru place names.

allowing the wines, their origins and terroir to speak through the wines. The best classification systems indicate the specific origins of the wine, said Olivier, the 13th generation of Humbrecht winemakers. "That is true in Burgundy. In Alsace, we have a history of wine, but not a history of Grand Cru vineyards. After World War II, the Alsace vineyards were so badly damaged from the bombing that it took until the 1960s to regain the former prestige of the region's wines."

To fully appreciate the wines of Zind Humbrecht, the consumer needs to understand the influences of terroir, the French term denoting much more than just the soil.

The vineyard known as Herrenweg has the advantage of an exceptionally hot, dry microclimate and long hours of sunlight. The grapes ripen early in the rocky soils, are precocious in their youth, and best consumed when young

Self-made chef wows visitors at Marketplace

By RICK BYRNE

The Twelve Oaks Hudson's roped a good one when they added Karen O'Daniel to their stable in the Mark-of her own creation, made from ingredients in stock at the Marketplace gourmet shop. "We had a Mexican cookoff with three chefs from the different Hudson's," said O'Daniel. There was one from the restaurant, one from Northland, and one from the Marketplace, which was me."

Early in May, O'Daniel carned top honors for a recipe

The rules were simple: come up with a Mexican dish made only from products available in the store. Customers were then given a chance to sample the dishes, and voted for their favorite recipe. O'Daniel's Southwest Cactus Spread came out the winner, earning her a prize package from Hudson's and an engraved plaque.

Admittedly, O'Daniel came prepared for the contest. "I started experimenting in the back kitchen," she said. "We sell the Cactus Salsa from the El Paso Chili company, so I got a basic artichoke dip and experi-mented with it."

The result is a fabulous hot party dip that packs a little fire and a dash of color. That it's an artistic creation is no accident, since O'Daniel's background is in design. The Bloomfield Hills native graduated from the Kendall School of Design in Grand Rapids.

"I'm really an ad designer by trade," she said. "When I couldn't find a job I got into this. Personally, I find there is nothing more irritating than siting at a table that rocks every time you move. Or having to brush off a dirty chair before sitting down. I'd make sure that I was 100-percent familiar with the menu. With each item. Each spice. Each itsy, bitsy detail. I'd know what ingredients were included in every dish, every special. And then I'd taste them all so that I'd be able to make recommendations to my guests.

SCHOOLCRAFT INSTRUCTOR ORED: Congratulations to Leopold Schaeli, certified master chef, and chef instructor at Schoolcrast College. He was named Central Regional Chef of the Year by the American Culinary Federation Inc.

The American Culinary Federation is the largest professional organization for cooks and chefs in the nation. It is comprised of more than 20,000 members in 261 chapters throughout the United States and the Caribbean.

Schaeli, one of four regional winners, will go to the American Culinary Federation National Convention and have a chance to become the national Chef of the Year.

PRODUCE POINTERS: Here are some produce pointers from "Fruit and Vegetable News," a publication of the Produce Marketing Association.

■ To determine if a mango is ripe, sniff the stem end; there should be a pleasant scent. A light scent is just fine, but no aroma usually means no flavor.

If it smells a bit sour or alcoholic, the mango has begun to ferment and should not be eaten. When held in the palm of your hand, the mango should yield slightly to pressure (much like a ripe peach). Mangos do not do well in the cold; ripen them at room temperature and eat as soon as possible

Prune puree can be used in a one-for-one substitution (1 cup puree for 1 cup butter) in brownie, cake, and cookie recipes. You will cut fat 75 to 99 percent and boost vitamins, minerals and fiber at the same time.

Kiwi fruit, once known as Chinese gooseberry, can be eaten directly out of hand without peeling it. The peel is edible. Some people rub off a little of the fuzz, others don't.

TAKE TIME FOR BREAKFAST: Take time for breakfast. Recent research suggests that eating a good breakfast not only enhances your ability to concentrate and do physical work in the morning hours, but also may help you maintain or lose weight.

Well nourished 9 to 11 year-olds made fewer errors in problem solving when they ate breakfast than when they skipped it. Children who skipped breakfast ate more heavily later in the day and were more likely to be obese than children who regularly ate breakfast.

Both high school age and adult breakfast skippers were more likely to have high blood cholesterol levels than regular breakfast eaters.

HOME CANNING: If you've promised yourself each year that you would learn how to can foods properly, this is the time to start. The Oakland County Cooperative Extension is now offering a seven-week correspondence Food Preservation Course for $15 to cover mailing and printed charges.

The various lessons include complete information on food safety; canning of low acid and high acid foods; pickling and jam and jelly preparation; freezing and drying of foods. The lessons are mailed every two weeks to your home so you can work at your own place. Complete background materials and recipes are provided. There is even a quiz at each lesson's end for you to see what you have learned.

For enrollment information and other food and nutrition, food safety and food preservation questions, call the Food and Nutrition Hotline, Monday-Friday, 8:30-5, 858-0904.

OLIVE OIL HOTLINE: If you've ever wondered about the "heart-healthy" benefits of olive oil, call the International Olive Oil Council hot line. The hot line is open 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday, Eastern time. Call 1-800-232-6548.

AMERICAN HARVEST CLOSED: Schoolcraft College's American Harvest Restaurant is now closed for the summer. The oncampus restaurant, which features gourmet specialties prepared by Schoolcraft's Master Chefs and Culinary Arts students will reopen this fall when classes resume.

KNOW THE FOOD PYRAMID: Want to know what you should eat to stay healthy? The Food Guide Pyramid, beyond the Basic Four," a new brochure, helps answer this question. The brochure condenses the information from the U.S. Department of Agriculture's (USDA) booklet "The Food Guide Pyramid" and features the new food guide graphic on the elements of a healthy diet.

The brochure was developed by the Food Marketing Institute in cooperation with the USDA. For a copy: send a check or money order for $1 payable to the Superintendent of Documents, to Consumer Information Center, Department 159-Y, Pueblo, Colo. 81009.

RECIPES WANTED: A new feature is appearing in the Creative Dining section of this paper. Known as HomeTown Cooking, it will feature recipes contributed by readers. With that in mind, we'd like to take this time to ask that anyone with a recipe that they'd like to share with all their neighbors in the Northville/Novi area please send it, along with your name, address, and phone number, to HomeTown Cooking, 104 W. Main St., Northville, MI 48167.

Any recipe will do. Perhaps you have a dinnertime favorite, or a recipe for bread that's been passed down through your family for generations, or maybe just a good, fast work-night cost-cutter. Send it in, and we'll feature it on these pages.

GOT A QUESTION? CALL THE HOTLINE: Have you ever wondered if some of the leftover food in your refrigerator is safe to eat? Or have you been puzzled over directions in a recipe? What's safe to take to a picnic?

"Ponder no more," said Sylvia Treitman, home economist for the Oakland County Cooperative Extension Service.

The Food and Nutrition Hotline is ready and willing to answer all of your food-related questions. We are all ready with the very latest USDA recommendations, "said Treitman. So if you haven't "canned" for a while and are unsure of what to do, just give them a call 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday at 858-0904.

Time out for a Sunday breakfast

It's Sunday, the one day of the week when most of us have the luxury of starting the day slowly and spending time with family or friends over a relaxed breakfast. On weekday mornings, we usually eat in a rush, before dashing out the door. On the weekends, when time is on your side, "breakfast with its easy. wholesome honesty is an opportunity to be with and share oneself with friends and family," according to Marion Cunningham, author of The Breakfast Book.

One way to ease into Sunday breakfast is to relax over a freshly brewed cup of coffee while a madefrom-scratch breakfast bread bakes in the oven. Even if you have little baking experience, you're sure to find simple, homey coffeecakes well within your capabilities. They're typically mixed in a single bowl, baked in a single pan and served warm.

Very Berry Breakfast Cake, developed in the Quaker Kitchens with weekend breakfasting in mind, offers easy preparation along with oldfashioned flavor. A crispy, crumbly oat streusel topping covers a moist and tender oatmeal cake swirled with raspberry preserves and dotted with blueberries.

Use either quick or old-fashioned oats, whichever you happen to have on hand. Both contribute wholesome goodness to this light-textured coffeecake. By using reduced-fat sour cream and egg whites in place of whole eggs, you'll trim both fat and more substantial meal by adding a berry-topped bowl of oatmeal or an omelet to the menu, choose a breakfast bread that benefits from being baked ahead. Banana Orange Date Loaf will slice more easily and have a more developed flavor if it's allowed to cool completely, wrapped and stored overnight.

Good-for-you oats replace part of the flour in this moist breakfast bread, and the combination of fruits gives it a tropical flavor. The simple orange glaze is optional.

The coffee (or tea) and juice that no Sunday breakfast can be without also deserve to be dressed up. Try an oversized cup of cafe au lait (strong coffee and steamed milk), foamtopped cappuccino, brewed spiced tea or cafe mocha (strong coffee and hot chocolate). Freshly squeezed orange juice is always a winner, but don't overlook more exotic juices like guava and mango or a juice blend. Then sit back and enjoy the morning and each other.

The Clos St. Urbain vineyard is the most southerly vineyard in Alsace, with stony, volcanic soil. Here, riesling and tokay-pinot gris produce wines with racy acidity that accounts for their ageability.

The wines are full and powerful yet balanced, with There is truly no better way to end a meal than remarkable fruit and finesse.

The vineyard known as Clos Hauserer is noted for its riesling grown in limestone soil. "Wines from this vineyard always have a high acidity, austere fruit and good aging potential." Humbrecht said. They don't show well to nonriesling lovers who don't understand a wine from an austere terroir."

The semicontinental climate of Alsace, with its reduced rainfall and sunny, warm autumns is suited to the development of pourriture noble (also known as boyrytis cinerea or noble rot) which concentrates fruit sugars in the grapes to produce a sweet, dessert-style wine. These wines are produced only in great years and are known as Vendange Tardive and Selection de Grains Nobles. with a rich Alsace dessert-style wine.

The wines of Zind Humbrecht are remarkable for their character and flavor. We tasted a collection of 20 recently released and available wines with Olivier Humbrecht. We think you'll agree that these wines are masterpleces of liquid art. ■ 1991 Pinot D'Alsace, Pinot Blanc ($17).

Kickers fall to Salem 2-1; prepare for state playoffs

By SCOTT DANIEL Sports Editor

An early second-half goal lifted Plymouth Salem over the Mustang soccer team 2-1 Wednesday in Western Lakes Activities Association playoff action.

Salem got the game winner at the 34:11 mark on a rocket-like shot from 35 yards directly in front of the net. Northville stormed back after the goal, applying heavy pressure for extended periods, but was unable to tally again.

Northville finishes fourth in the WLAA.

"I thought it was one of the best played games I've seen this year," coach Bob Paul said. From both

The schools met earlier this month and played to a tie. A third meeting may come in a few weeks during state regional competition.

Despite the loss, Paul believes his team can give the Rocks a run for their money if they do play again.
"(This game) made me more confident we can play with them with a few adjustments," he said.

Northville showed it could play with Salem in the opening minutes of Wednesday's game.

The teams traded rushes early on with neither squad getting good scoring chances. The Mustangs began to dominate play at about the 35-minute mark.

That pressure paid off moments later. Freshman fullback Sue McQuaid took a long pass from midfield and moved up the left wing. She then nailed a hard, bouncing shot and scored at 30:28.

The goal seemed to ignite the Rocks. The visitors, in fact, just missed a goal minutes later as Northville goalkeeper Jessica Jones was on the ground. The Salem shot went wide left and the Mustangs kept their lead.

Northville regained some poise after that play and applied pressure of its own on the Salem goal. The Rocks finally cleared the ball and then tied the game on a scramble in front of the Mustang net at 16:56.

Both schools got some good shots away in the final minutes of the half but failed to score. Northville's Rence Androsian took a penalty shot with 2:50 left, but missed the net high. Salem came out the aggressor early in the second haif.

The Rocks had one chance to untie the game less than two minutes into the half. Then a few minutes later they completed the task.

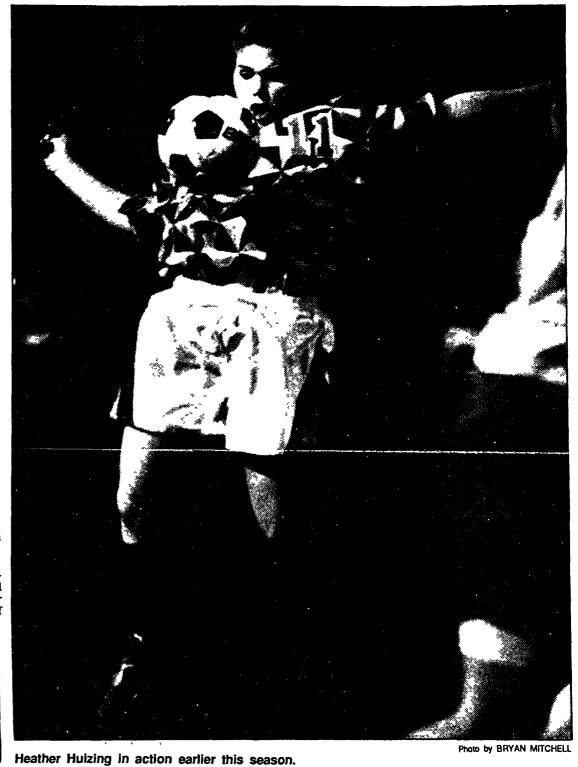

Northville's best chance to tie the contest came midway through the half. Androsian got behind the defense, momentarily, and sent a shot just wide of the Salem net to the left. The Rocks were content to play tight defense and run out the clock the rest of the way.

"I thought our team had a good game," Paul said. "But no excuses. They just came out on top." The coach said the Rocks could be a dark horse in the state playoffs. "Salem's got, player for player, the most talent in the state," he said.

Northville opens the state playoffs tonight at home against Lakeland High School. Game time is 7 p.m.

Kurtis sets world record

Doug Kurtis and the Energizer low 2:20. Bunny have someting in common:

they keep going, and going. . . The 40-year-old Northville runner set a world record for most marathons under 2:20 on May 16. Kurtis completed the Cleveland Revco Marathon in 2:19:21 - his 70th time be-

"It's something I've been chasing for a long time," Kurtis said.

What makes the performance even more remarkable is that it was his third marathon in four weeks. Kurtis said spring is a busy time for runners. He plans to race in a marathon next month in Duluth, Minn.

Career highlights for Kurtis include: a four-time Olympic Trial qualifyer, two-time Michigan Runner of the Year and Masters Runner of the Year in 1992.
